Soviets Cancel One Session With Reagan

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer
HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Soviet Union today abruptly canceled one of President Reagan's meetings with General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev and questioned the composition of a religious group scheduled to meet with Reagan in Moscow.

The session, called off because of what the Soviets cited as "some internal function," was one of five that Reagan had scheduled over four days with Gorbachev.

Overall, the president still will spend six hours with the Soviet leader because the remaining sessions will be expanded, said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

"I regard it as routine," Fitzwater said, as Reagan spent the day in seclusion at a government guesthouse making preparations for his talks in Moscow.

The summit encountered another glitch when word reached the presidential party taking a rest stop in Finland that the Soviets had questioned the participation of one of the religious groups due to meet with Reagan at a monastery on Monday.

"The meeting itself is still on as far as I know," Fitzwater said. He said he did not know which religious group might be excluded.

Reagan also plans to meet separately with a group of Jewish "refuseniks" who had been unable to obtain exit permits for Israel. Fitzwater said he was unable to verify a report that two of them had been intercepted by Soviet authorities on their way to Moscow from Leningrad.

His first visit to the country he once denounced as "the evil empire" was already clouded by failure of a U.S. effort to oust Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, the military ruler of Panama.

After the summit, Gorbachev will preside at the first full-fledged Communist Party conference since 1941, but there was no immediate word on whether the cancellation of the second of Reagan-Gorbachev sessions on Monday had any connection with the party meetings.

For the Soviets, the party conference has tended to overshadow Reagan's fourth summit meeting with Gorbachev, since it will serve as a test of the Soviet leader's economic reform policies and his three years at the Kremlin helm.

At the same time, the summit itself has lost any expectation of major results with the failure of U.S. and Soviet negotiators to complete a treaty to sharply reduce long-range nuclear weapons. Reagan and Gorbachev had hoped to make such an accord the centerpiece of the 77-year-old president's first trip to Moscow.

Edgemombe Plan Draws Capacity Crowd

North Pitt Residents Hear Advice To 'Go Slowly' In Anti-Waste Fight

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
BETHEL — A capacity crowd — some standing in the back and along the side walls — filled the 340-seat North Pitt High School auditorium Wednesday night in an effort to learn more about a proposed waste disposal park in Edgemombe County.

Former Bethel Mayor James Dupree, who acted as master of ceremonies, characterized the session as "an informational meeting" designed to look at "how it will affect us as Pitt County citizens."

Edgemombe County officials last week proposed the creation of a 3,000-acre "North Carolina Waste Management Park" in the eastern section of the county near the Pitt County line.

The park would include a low-level radioactive waste disposal site, a hazardous waste treatment facility and a regional solid waste disposal operation.

And the Edgemombe officials implied that millions of dollars in state incentives would come to the county if the waste site is located there.

Dr. Daniel Sprau, a biomedical researcher with the East Carolina University School of Medicine and radiation safety officer for the university, told the gathering "there is really no technical information on the proposed site" available, so "we're in the position of not really being able to draw any conclusions. The scientific and technical information is just not there."

But, he suggested, "We have time to get the technical information," because of the lengthy process required to get permits for nuclear and hazardous waste operations.

"What constitutes low-level radioactive waste? Contaminated trash," Sprau said. "Trash ... clothing, gloves, damaged parts from piping ... a lot of different things."

He said "70 percent" of the waste going into such a facility comes from nuclear power plants, with "25 percent from industry and 5 percent from biomedical research facilities," such as the East Carolina University medical school in Greenville.

southeastern United States is in Barnwell, S.C.

Sprau explained that the Southeastern Compact was formed by eight states — including North Carolina — several years ago to find a replacement site for the Barnwell facility and the "compact selected North Carolina as the next host state." North Carolina, Sprau said, is the largest generator of low-level radioactive waste among the eight states.

The North Carolina Low-Level Radioactive Waste Management Authority "will be the body that decides where the site goes," Sprau said, and the selection process "will be a long, drawn-out process."

As part of the process, Sprau said, local governments in areas under consideration will be given money by the state for an "independent review" of the site.

Sprau also said the rules governing low-level nuclear waste disposal in North Carolina are, "very, very strict," more so than federal regulations.

Legislator Calls Edgemombe Waste Plan 'Hot Potato'

By JOHN BARE
Reflector Staff Writer
State Sen. Thomas F. Taft, D-Pitt, today called the radioactive waste site proposed for Edgemombe County a "hot potato" for state lawmakers, and he urged members of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce to make fighting the plan the county's top priority.

The chamber sponsored a send-off for the Pitt County legislative delegation at the Greenville Hilton today, and chamber members wanted to know what they could do to block the proposed 3,000-acre waste management park. The General Assembly will convene June 2 in Raleigh for their short session.

"Every legislator says they don't want it in their district," Taft said. "Nobody wants this thing that's thinking clearly."

Gov. Jim Martin has recommended a $5 million incentive package for the county willing to host the dump site, and Edgemombe County — which is in financial difficulty, according to state Sen. R.L. "Bob" Martin of Bethel — has been enticed by the prospects of millions of dollars.

"If Edgemombe County says they want it, (the General Assembly) is going to try like the devil to put it there," Taft said. "I feel to stop it in the Legislature is going to be almost impossible."

Taft said he is also pushing state lawmakers to consider offering regional incentives, because if the waste dump is located in Edgemombe, it may affect Pitt's watershed.

The idea of regional incentives affects the plan two ways, Taft said: it ensures Pitt County will at least receive something if it cannot succeed in relocating the dump site and it may lessen the appeal for Edgemombe officials if they know they will have to share the incentives.

N.C. Rep. Ed N. Warren, D-Pitt, said no amount of incentives could make the waste dump worth the risk. Eastern North Carolina has long been neglected, he said, and the waste dump would be another example of poor treatment.

"It's a shame that in eastern North Carolina the only way we can get a four-lane highway is with something like this," Warren said. Part of the incentive package includes a plan to complete a widening project for N.C. 64 within two or three years, he said.

Martin, whose senatorial district includes Edgemombe and portions of Pitt, said Edgemombe officials are considering the dump site because they need incentives to help finance a school system merger.

"They are in dire straits as far as money is concerned," Martin said, but he does not think the county's residents will accept the idea of hosting the dump.

The present low-level radioactive waste disposal site for the southeastern United States is in Barnwell, S.C.

Sprau explained that the Southeastern Compact was formed by eight states — including North Carolina — several years ago to find a replacement site for the Barnwell facility and the "compact selected North Carolina as the next host state." North Carolina, Sprau said, is the largest generator of low-level radioactive waste among the eight states.

Sprau also said the rules governing low-level nuclear waste disposal in North Carolina are, "very, very strict," more so than federal regulations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy, helped by the biggest improvement in trade in eight years, expanded at a robust annual rate of 3.9 percent in the first three months of the year, far better than previously thought, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, performed far better from January through March than it had estimated a month ago.

At that time, the department put GNP growth at 2.3 percent.

About four-fifths of the improvement from that first estimate came from a narrowing of the foreign trade deficit, which shrank in inflation-adjusted terms at an annual rate of $16.7 billion in the first three months of the year.

This represented the sharpest narrowing of the trade deficit since a $24.8 billion drop in the first quarter of 1980.

The trade improvement had been

Device Found

BOSTON (AP) — Police today removed what appeared to be an incendiary device from a Department of Health and Human Services office down the hall from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's at a federal building downtown, authorities said.

The Massachusetts Democrat was in Washington at the time, said a spokesman at his U.S. Capitol office.

Bomb squad officers took the device to Moon Island in Boston Harbor for possible detonation, said police spokeswoman Jill Reilly.

She said authorities had not determined whether the device was a working explosive.

The FBI, HHS employees and Kennedy's staff said the device, a metal canister in a paper bag, was found several offices and about 15 yards away from Kennedy's office on the 24th floor of the John F. Kennedy federal building.

An HHS employee who refused to give her name said she and fellow workers discovered the bag on a coat rack shortly before 7:30 a.m. The woman said she called federal police in the building and was told to evacuate the office.

"I only saw it from the top," she said. "I've worked here long enough to be suspicious of paper bags." Employees said bomb scares occur often at the building.

GNP Scores Robust Gain

At that time, the department put GNP growth at 2.3 percent.

About four-fifths of the improvement from that first estimate came from a narrowing of the foreign trade deficit, which shrank in inflation-adjusted terms at an annual rate of $16.7 billion in the first three months of the year.

Bombs Go Off In Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Two bombs exploded in downtown Pretoria today and injured several people, witnesses said.

The blasts in the South African capital coincided with celebrations marking the National Party's 40 years in power. President P.W. Botha's party, responsible for the country's apartheid legislation, has led the government since the whites-only election of May 26, 1948.

Witnesses said at least five people were hurt. Initial reports indicated that one or two people may have been estimated as a much smaller $3.6 billion last month, but that was before the government had data for exports and imports in March, a month when the trade deficit shrank sharply because of a record level of exports.

Economists had been expecting an upward revision in the GNP report, but the 3.9 percent growth rate was far above most estimates. The consensus outlook had expected a GNP increase of 3.2 percent.

There was no claim of responsibility and no additional details were immediately available.

There have been more than 70 bomb blasts in South Africa since a nationwide state of emergency was declared in June 1986. But the number of explosions has fallen sharply in the past year.

The police have blamed nearly all the blasts on the outlawed African National Congress, which wages a bombing and sabotage campaign in a bid to overthrow the white-led government. The ANC, based in Lusaka, Zambia, generally does not confirm or deny any role in the attacks.

Teacher Pay Will Be Major Issue

By JOHN BARE
Reflector Staff Writer
The state's largest teacher organization is asking for a 12 percent pay hike next year, but state Rep. Ed N. Warren, D-Pitt, says he will likely support a pay raise of between 4.5 and 7 percent when the General Assembly adopts a budget in its short session next month.

Warren, chairman of the Appropriations Base Budget Committee on Education, has been in Raleigh this week taking part in early hearings conducted by the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee, which involves about 105 House and Senate members.

All other legislators will arrive in Raleigh when the short session begins June 2, but the Appropriations Committee convened in Raleigh May 16 to begin reviewing Gov. Jim Martin's $568 million supplementary budget. "This gives us a running start when we open up on the 2nd and everybody else comes," Warren said.

The North Carolina Association of Educators lobbied the General Assembly for a 12 percent pay raise and the chairman of the State Board of Education Howard Haworth — a Martin appointee — asked for an increase of 7 percent, but Martin recommended a 4.5 percent increase.

"The General Assembly will make a determination about what they can afford," said Warren, and a pay raise somewhere between Haworth's request and Martin's recommendation is likely. "I anticipate that, and I'd support something in that range. I think we have to do that to keep up with the pace we've set."

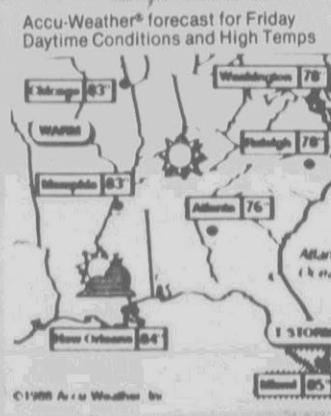

State Sen. Thomas F. Taft, D-Pitt, also a member of the Appropriations Committee, said he would like to see a pay raise of 10 or 12 percent, but that is unrealistic, he said. Teachers will probably receive a raise of about 5 percent, Taft said.

Lawmakers have a little more than $400 million to work with, Warren said, and secretaries of state agencies have been making presentations to the committee to ask for their allotment, and the full Legislature will decide how to distribute the money.

By law, the General Assembly must balance the budget before ad-

Group Gets Award

The Pitt County Association of Insurance Women received a General Excellence Award recently during the 46th anniversary convention of the North Carolina Association of Insurance Women in Raleigh.

The award was presented to the association with membership of 34 or under which excelled in education, extension, safety, public relations and legislation.

Mary Page, local PCAIW president, accepted the award on behalf of the group.

Carol Ann Tucker of Greenville was the keynote speaker for the convention.

The PCAIW sponsored a presidents'-past presidents' dinner. Carolyn Bowen of Greenville gave the invocation. N.C. Insurance Commissioner Jim Long spoke.

Other members attending from Pitt County included Sophia Sumner, Frances Blanchard, Linda Davenport, Joyce Mills and Judi Wingate.

For more information about the local and state organizations contact Linda Davenport, PCAIW president-elect, at 752-4323.

Girl Scouts Get Top Awards

Four members of Senior Girl Scout Troop 534 of Greenville have received the Gold Award, the highest award in Girl Scouting.

Each girl also earned the Silver Leadership Award, Silver Award and the Gold Leadership Award in addition to her individual achievements.

Penny McLawhorn, a senior at J.H. Rose High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry McLawhorn. She has been a Girl Scout for 12 years and has earned badges for career exploration, emergency preparedness, fashion, fitness, makeup, leadership, music, sports, travel, cake decorating, and for law and reading interest projects.

DeWanda Eaton, daughter of Earnest and Joan Eaton and a junior at Rose, has been a Girl Scout for 10 years. DeWanda has earned badges in the areas of child care, emergency preparedness, career exploration, fashion, fitness, makeup, music, sports, cake decoration and reading interest projects.

Kelli Staton, a junior at Farmville Central High School, is the daughter of James Earl Staton and Margaret Staton and has been a Girl Scout for 11 years. She earned badges in cake decoration, sports, child care, career exploration, auto maintenance, emergency preparedness, fashion, fitness, makeup, music, and reading and leadership interest projects.

Rose junior Alisha Brown is the daughter of Albert and Leola Brown and has participated in the Girl Scouts for eight years. She earned badges for child care, career exploration, emergency preparedness, energy awareness, fashion, fitness and makeup, music, cake decorating, reading and leadership interest projects.

Restaurant Equipment Is Stolen

Investigators said seven thefts, including more than $14,000 worth of restaurant equipment from Greenville Restaurant Equipment Co., were reported to Greenville police Wednesday.

County Coffers Coming Up Lean

Can Pitt County afford to do the things it must do in order to improve our county economically and still hold the tax rate?

The prospects might appear bleak from County Manager Kramer Jackson's budget message to the county commissioners.

But the county commissioners should look in every nook and cranny to meet the county's real needs and to hold the tax rate to a minimum.

Jackson presented a budget of $39.45 million for 1988-89 based on a tax rate of about 60 cents per $100 valuation (it was 64 cents this year). The budget contained recommendations of $34.62 million to maintain present services and an expansion budget of $4.82 million. But, Jackson said, it does not include $8.51 million in requests from various county agencies.

The expansion budget includes some capital outlay items, expanded programs and salary increases. However it does not include mandated public assistance increases, an across-the-board pay increase for all county employees, nor 24 new sheriff's department positions, some Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority capital outlay funds, health department expansion and various requests from the county schools and Pitt Community College.

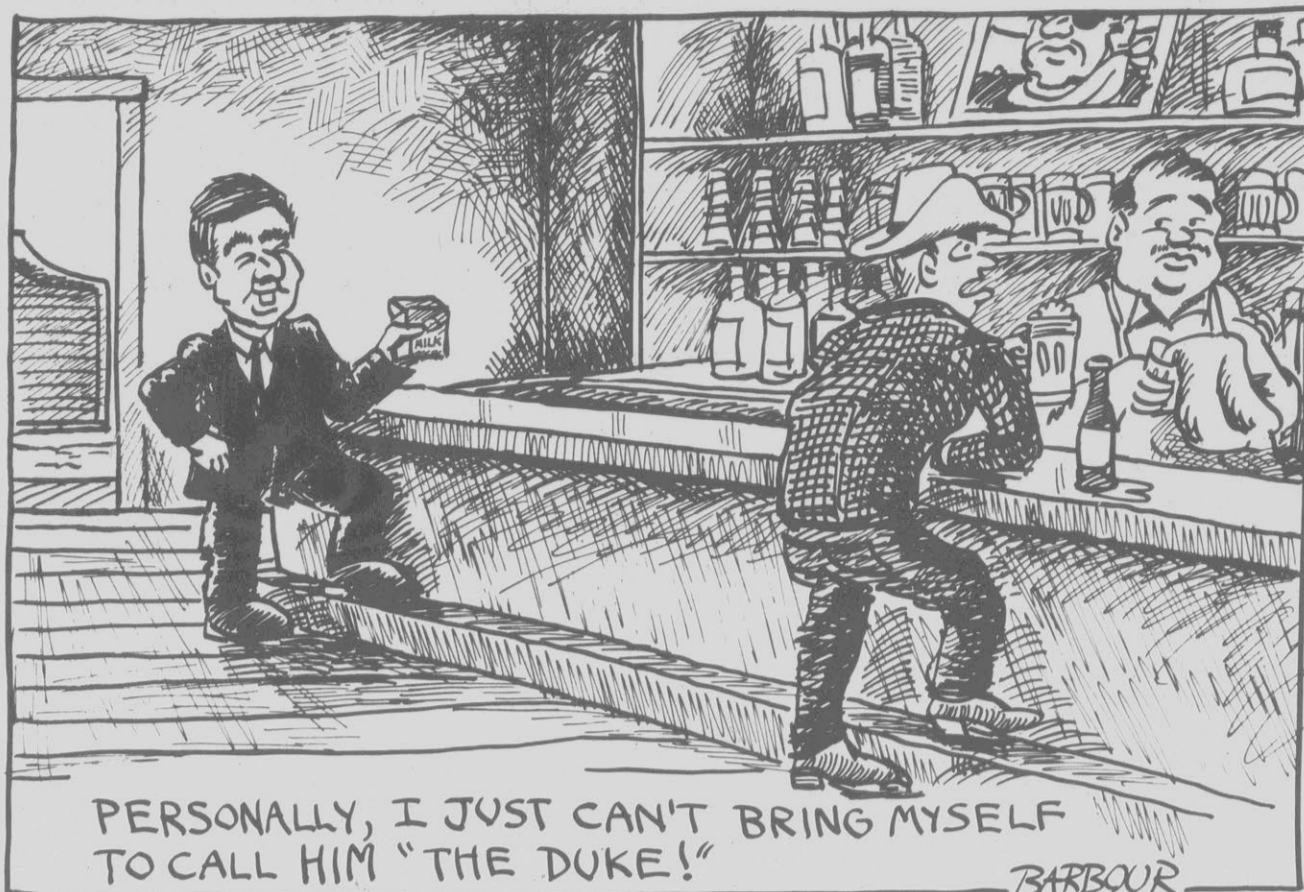

While there has been an increase in property valuations this year, state legislative switching of the tax burden caused a reduction in farm use values and removal of the inventory tax.

Jackson said he was following the commissioners' suggestion to limit the ad valorem tax to nearly the same dollars generated prior to revaluation. And, he clearly said, that it is not a good budget for Pitt County.

There are, of course, some urgent needs which are not now included in the county budget, even though it is close to the 64 cents tax rate of the current year. It may not, however, be absolutely necessary to simply add more cents to the tax rate to find the additional revenues.

The county commissioners should examine every item in the budget, both maintenance and expansion, with an eye toward eliminating any unnecessary expenditures. They owe it to the taxpayers to channel funds where they are totally necessary and to eliminate expenditures which are not productive.

Tax bills for farm use and inventories will be lower this year, but the commissioners must keep in mind that home owners and other property owners are going to find their taxes increased because of the higher valuations put upon them. These people are going to want to be assured that their tax dollars are being carefully appropriated, particularly if they see the tax rate increased. In 1988, accountability is essential.

Is The Summit Worth Celebrating?

'There is a very high expectation that a qualitative improvement in Soviet-American relations is taking place and that it is becoming irreversible.'

The United States and the Soviet Union are approaching the strangest summit meeting in the history of these superpower negotiations. For years American administrations have attempted to keep expectations for a summit low. This is the first time that one has succeeded; no one expects anything but a ceremonial farewell for President Reagan.

Yet, paradoxically, there is a very high expectation that a qualitative improvement in Soviet-American relations is taking place and that it is becoming irreversible. Republicans talk about Mikhail S. Gorbachev in retreat, needing good relations with the United States for his program of restructuring the Soviet economy — "perestroika." They see the summit as evidence that the policies of the Reagan administration have brought peace as well as prosperity.

Liberals believe that Reagan's acceptance of the treaty on intermediate-range nuclear forces, his repeated visits with Gorbachev and his muting of the "evil empire" theme have essentially legitimized detente for conservatives. They think that this has set the stage for real negotiated progress in the next administration.

Without doubt, something fundamental has occurred in the Soviet Union's relations with the outside world. The communist revolution established an iron curtain against Western market forces and Western ideas. Now that the Soviet leadership recognizes that such a wall meant total protectionism for Soviet manufacturers and total disaster for Soviet economic competitiveness, the iron curtain is being dismantled. This is bound to affect Soviet-American relations for the good.

Nevertheless, euphoria over the state of Soviet-American relations is likely to lead to severe disappointment. Even the summit meeting should not be automatically chalked up as a simple ceremonial success. The summit in Reykjavik, Iceland, was scheduled just before the 1986 congressional elections, and the Reagan administration was so confident that Gorbachev needed a success that it flew off to Iceland unprepared. The disastrous trap that it walked into was a major factor in the unexpectedly large Democratic Senate victory that year.

On the surface the administration is following the same path today, making the peace side of its peace-and-prosperity election campaign dependent on Gorbachev's good will. It is hard to believe that the administration would risk another Reykjavik. Yet, given repeated policy dilemmas like Panama, one realizes that the administration's foreign-policy team is quite capable of any height of foolishness.

Let us assume, however, that the May 29 summit meeting is largely ceremonial and goes reasonably well. Certainly, one faction within the Soviet foreign-policy Establishment seems to have sold itself on the notion that it is important to get Reagan committed to detente and that Vice President George Bush, as the Republican presidential nominee, should be supported because a Republican president can make deals that a Democratic president would fear.

It is possible that Gorbachev has bought this argument. If so, the field of Soviet-American relations is still strewn with mines for the next administration, whether Republican or Democratic.

First, the judgments about Gorbachev are not a sound basis for policy. Instead of thinking realistically about international relations, we are retaining the old dichotomy between pure good and pure evil and shifting Gorbachev into the former category. Gorbachev is being treated as the greatest reformer in Soviet history, leading a heroic and lonely battle against overwhelming odds.

The trouble is that this is nonsense. At best Gorbachev will move the Soviet Union into a kind of relatively mild and open dictatorship. When his first arrests make that clear, what will the conservative — and public — reaction be?

The INF treaty has not legitimized arms control for the conservatives. It is an agreement without military significance, and it was reached by putting forward proposals that were so unreasonable that they surely would be rejected. They were not, and now conservatives will say that the treaty proves that if we stand tough with unreasonable demands the Soviets will cave in. Any real compromises by the next administration will be denounced as craven weakness. And if Bush locks himself into the Reagan renunciation of the 1972 anti-ballistic-missile treaty, he will face real conservative opposition if he is elected and then tries to reverse himself.

Similarly in Afghanistan we are in for a rough time unless the communist government falls as soon as Soviet troop withdrawal ends. We have officially signed a guarantee of non-interference (which means no supplying of the rebels) while publicly saying that we will continue our supply effort. Either the Soviets or the American conservatives are certain to say that they are being betrayed, depending on what the next administration does.

As Arthur Schlesinger has pointed out, there has been a 30-year cycle in American politics.

In the 1990s the cycle will almost surely reassert itself. This time the issue will probably be the relationship of America with the world — the abandonment of the obsession with communism replaced with a focus on economic power. The politics of this period of transformation will be no less intense and emotional than the politics of the 1900s, '30s and '60s. Soviet-American relations will be at the center of the cross fire.

Dull Or Stressing?

'Actuarially,' It's A Good Job

Yearn for the good life, job satisfaction and lack of stress?

Then be an actuary. That career was ranked as the best of 250 by "The Jobs Rated Almanac".

If you don't know what an actuary is, try computer programmer, computer systems analyst, mathematician and statistician. Those careers are ranked next and they are as well known to the school boy and girl as fireman once was.

If you pine for the exciting life, be aware that astronauts, dancers and doctors were seen as average career risks. Those careers, which are often admired by young people, still ranked far above migrant work, commercial fishing and seasonal work. Hard working jobs such as construction, roofing, seaman, roustabout and lumberjack didn't fare so well either.

What about those long glamorized careers of cowboy and professional football player? They ranked about as low as construction work.

Before anyone decides a career based on the rankings, be aware that criteria included salary, stress, work environment, outlook, security and physical demands.

Granted playing football in Green Bay in January doesn't say much for stress or work environment, but the pay is pretty good.

Actuary, by the way, is defined as one who calculates insurance and annuity premiums, reserves and dividends. That doesn't sound stressful but it certainly does sound dull.

Anyway stress is part of excitement, and we can't have it both ways. If stress ranks a career down, it also helps make it interesting. Each of us has to choose whether we want to spend an uneventful and dull day at work or be blind sided by a professional football lineman.

An Unknown Cost For A Bargain

RALEIGH — It's a fairly standard operating procedure in the world of high finance and family budgeting that before someone buys something, he or she finds out how much it's going to cost. As the governor, lieutenant governor and General Assembly scramble to make friends with the state's merchants, one has to wonder if anyone is really sure how much they're about to spend.

Gov. Jim Martin, Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan and various legislators are all talking about different proposals to reinstate the merchants discount for sales tax collection. The discount, which was repealed in 1987, allows merchants to keep 3 percent of the sales taxes they collect as a payment for collecting those taxes.

The assembly repealed the discount as part of the 1987 school construction finance package. The move was designed to raise an additional $60 million a year for schools, and to partially offset revenues lost by repeal of the inventory tax, which was also part of the package.

But small merchants felt they'd been taken by the deal. They don't maintain large inventories, so they didn't save much by repeal of the inventory tax. They also don't have sophisticated computer systems to handle sales tax collections, so they're likely to spend many hours computing what they owe the state in sales taxes. They complained that they've been squeezed from both ends. Martin, Jordan and legislative leaders agreed to try to partially reinstate the discount this year.

Martin is backing a plan that would provide up to $1,800 a year in sales tax discount to each corporate tax account, according to C.C. Cameron, state budget officer. That means a full reinstatement of the previous discount formula for those businesses which do $1.2 million or less in sales a year. Jordan is backing a plan to provide up to $2,400 a year — at a cap of $200 a month. Sen.

A.D. Guy, D-Onslow, apparently with the blessing of some important senators, is backing a plan to provide up to $500 a month.

There is a big difference between the Martin plan, and those offered by Jordan and Guy. Martin would allow a multi-unit merchant only one payment. That is, a chain store like Sears would be capped at a single payment of $1,800 for all of its North Carolina stores. The other plans would allow each store in those chains to get the maximum payment.

So one would think that in the total costs estimates of the various plans that the Martin plan would have the lowest estimate.

Wrong. Cameron says that Martin's plan will cost $26 million the first year. Jordan says his plan, although obviously more generous than Martin's, will cost only $18 million that first year. Guy says he doesn't know how much his plan would cost.

How could the Jordan plan cost less than the Martin plan while handing out more money. About the Martin plan, Jordan says, "His numbers don't make any sense." Cameron expressed a similar skepticism about the Guy plan, quickly figuring it could cost the state $840 million a year, an obvious exaggeration because not every store in the state is as big as Sears.

To make everyone just a bit more jittery about this whole idea, consider that Cameron has complaints about the N.C. Revenue Department. He says that revenue officials have not made it clear to him how many of the state's sales tax accounts are independents and how many are part of a chain. That is, he doesn't know how many merchants would be eligible to claim the discounts under Martin's proposal.

The discount proposal appears to be a nightmare waiting to be dreamed.

Strength For Today

We often think of prayer as a private matter. We forget that for most people, prayer is at its best in worship with others. Jesus said, "Wherever two or three are gathered, there I am in their midst." From corporate worship flows a life of private prayer. To ask whether a prayer life with God might be cultivated without worship is similar to asking if intimacy can be had without sex. "Yes ... to a degree ... but in intimacy of a marriage covenant (which is what God offers us) who would want to do without the hugs?" Worship is the tangible way we express our love for God.

PLANE WRECKAGE — Emergency personnel check the wreckage of a Piper Arrow that crashed into the backyard of a home about two miles from Raleigh-Durham Airport Wednesday night. Authorities said a second light plane that had participated in a joint takeoff from the airport collided with the Piper, sending it to the ground. (AP Laserphoto)

Two Die In Aerial Collision

By ERICA JOHNSTON
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Two small planes flying together to Virginia collided in mid-air just after takeoff from Raleigh-Durham airport, killing two men in the lead plane, but leaving the pilot of the second plane uninjured, officials say.

"I never heard such a crash — it felt like a case of dynamite," said Ernest Kelbaugh, 70, after one of the planes crashed in his back yard.

Kelbaugh was watching television in the back of his home when he heard the Cherokee Piper Arrow crash at about 9:20 p.m. Wednesday. The plane tore through a stone wall, crumpled like an accordion and came to rest less than 20 feet from his one-story brick home.

Raleigh-Durham Airport Director John Brantley said three men from Petersburg, Va., had flown to Raleigh-Durham Airport in a Cessna 172 Wednesday to pick up the Piper Arrow. One man remained with the Cessna, and the other two got into the Piper Arrow.

The pilots of the two airplanes requested a single clearance "or military-type departure," meaning that the planes essentially took off together, Brantley said. Both planes were believed to be civilian aircraft, said Maj. David Waller of the Wake County Sheriff's Department.

The pilot of the Cessna was following the Piper Arrow and reached down to change the frequency on the radio. That's when the plane ran into the Piper Arrow, Brantley said.

"The Arrow was in front. The Cessna was trailing. The Cessna overtook the Piper. It wasn't supposed to," Brantley said.

"The Cessna apparently ran into the tail of the leading aircraft... and thus impaired the ability of the Arrow... which went down immediately," he said.

The pilot of the Cessna was able to return to the airport, where he belly-landed the aircraft on a general aviation runway because of damage to the plane's nosegear, Brantley said. The aircraft also suffered damage to the landing gear but was otherwise intact, Ms. Damiano said.

The pilot was in "semi-shock" but had no major injuries, Brantley said. He was taken to a local hospital, according to Teresa Damiano, public affairs manager for Raleigh-Durham Airport.

The two men killed in the crash of the Piper Arrow were identified Thursday morning as Jeffrey Allan Hardy, 29, and David Kirkland, age unknown, said Waller. Hardy was believed to be the pilot of that plane, although it was "hard to tell because of the wreckage," Waller said.

The survivor, who flew the Cessna, was Maj. John H. Hamer, commander of the Aviation Division at Fort Lee, Va., he said.

"(Hamer's survival) says a lot for him as a pilot," Waller said. It was the second fatal crash near the airport in three months. On February 19, an American Eagle commuter plane taking off from Raleigh-Durham Airport in heavy fog crashed, killing all 12 people aboard.

Brantley said the formation takeoff used Wednesday night is not normally used by civilian flyers.

"I would not call it the usual event

Small Boy's Body Found, Dad Missing

ORIENTAL, N.C. (AP) — Three generations of Mortons went fishing, but so far, only one has come back.

The grandfather, 40-year-old Daniel Morton, is the only known survivor of a boating accident Tuesday caused by rough water in the Neuse River near Havelock. His grandson, 3-year-old Christopher Morton, was found dead Wednesday near Oriental on the other side of the river.

The boy was found with two life preservers around him at 7 a.m. One of the life jackets apparently belonged to the child's father, 22-year-old Billy Morton, who was still missing Wednesday evening.

The grandfather, after clinging to the 16-foot aluminum johnboat Tuesday night, was found at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday by one of about 10 rescue boats searching the river. He was listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit of Carteret General Hospital.

All three Mortons lived in the Broad Creek community in southwestern Carteret County.

Edgecombe 'Ought To Get It'

Lee County Officials Balk At Waste Plant Proposals

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Lee County officials have made it clear at a public meeting that they do not want a hazardous waste treatment plant located in their county.

"If Edgecombe County wants it, then I think they ought to get it," Raymond Cox, a member of the Lee County Board of Commissioners, said Wednesday, referring to a proposal from Edgecombe officials to have the plant in their county in return for financial incentives from the state.

"I don't think that hazardous waste should be put in Lee County," said Margaret Murchison, a member of the Lee County Board of Education and the county Planning Committee.

Cox and Ms. Murchison were among about 120 county leaders who crowded into a public meeting scheduled by the North Carolina Hazardous Waste Treatment Commission.

The meeting was the first held in the county since the commission acknowledged that a 2,400-acre tract in Lee County is being considered as the site for a plant. No final decision has been made.

The meeting was called by commission chairwoman Deborah Parker so the eight-member board could brief Lee County leaders on the commission's plans and answer questions.

But at least one member of the audience was skeptical.

"I don't know that the people who are here tonight are the ones we should be listening to," said Donald Suddarth, a member of the Sanford Planning Board. "We need scientists who make long-range studies."

The tract, 3.7 miles north of Sanford, is on the Deep River, the border between Lee County and Chatham County to the north.

"There is tremendous public concern about food safety," said Harold Chitwood, chief executive officer of Golden Poultry, an Atlanta-based company that has begun a $5-million-a-week poultry plant operation near the site.

"It is of grave concern to us to operate a poultry plant within a mile of a hazardous waste plant," he told the commission.

"What would it take to get you not to come to Lee County?" said one unidentified man in the audience. "We are the smallest geographical county in the state. We don't have that much land left. What can we say to persuade you not to come?"

"We have been given a mandate to pick a site," Ms. Parker responded. "If this is not a technically suitable site, we would like for you to help us find out why not. And then, I guess, you can hope we find a technically suitable site in Edgecombe County."

Commission members say that while the site is still only a potential choice, several characteristics of the property make it a desirable location for the state mandated facility that will incinerate and chemically treat 89 million pounds of hazardous industrial wastes annually.

Last week's announcement that Edgecombe County might volunteer to host a 3,000-acre park for the waste treatment plant and for the state's low-level radioactive disposal facility stirred speculation that the commission might shift its sights east toward Edgecombe.

But commission members say they are continuing to evaluate the Lee County site.

"We still haven't heard anything about the Edgecombe County proposal, so at this point the commission is continuing to pursue Lee County as a potentially suitable site," Kathy Neal, a spokeswoman for the waste commission, said before the meeting.

Democrats Assail Martin's Record On Seniors' Aid

By DAVID DROSCHAK
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — As Gov. Jim Martin opened the Governor's Conference on Aging, Democratic lawmakers accused him of being a Rip Van Winkle on senior citizen issues who woke up just in time for the 1988 election campaign.

"North Carolina's older adults know that he is an election-year Rip Van Winkle when it comes to issues that are important to them," Rep. Beverly Perdue, D-Craven, and a member of a legislative study commission on aging, said Wednesday.

"Governor Martin has slept through three years — only to awake in time for the election — and North Carolina's older adults won't forget that fact," she said.

Martin dismissed the criticism as "partisan carping." Speaking to reporters after addressing the opening session of the two-day Governor's Conference on Aging at the Raleigh Civic Center, he said, "They're not going to get anywhere with that kind of junk."

Martin and Democratic lawmakers have put forward different proposals to assist the elderly. Martin has proposed a $5 million package for the legislative session that begins next week and a $43 million package to be considered next year. The legislative study commission, led by Democrats, has proposed a $6.5 million package for lawmakers to consider this summer.

Martin's $5 million package calls for the development of senior centers in 19 counties that do not now have them; $857,100 for in-home health care; $600,000 for health promotion activities; and $550,574 for aid to families caring for ailing senior citizens. It also calls for $1.2 million for grants to encourage counties to develop new programs for the elderly.

The legislative commission's package calls for $2 million for transportation programs for the elderly; $720,000 for in-home medical care; $720,000 for the repair and study of senior centers; and $600,000 for information and referral services.

At a news conference at Democratic Party Headquarters, the lawmakers said Martin funded no money for senior citizen initiatives in the Legislature in 1985 or 1986, but increased that to close to $700,000 last year, along with his multi-million proposal this year.

They also attacked Martin's six-term congressional record, saying that he was one of only 31 House members to vote against full funding for Meals for Older Americans and that he voted four times for an increase in the Social Security retirement age from 65 to 67.

"Jim Martin is going to stand before several hundred senior adults ... and tell us that he is interested in finding ways to improve the quality of our lives," said John Meares, a spokesman for the National Interfaith Coalition On Aging. "If you believe that I've got some land in front of a certain lighthouse on the North Carolina coast that I'd like to sell you."

However, Martin defended his record in Congress, calling the Democratic charges "half truths."

"I'm familiar with my congressional record," Martin said. "First of all, you have to realize we're in a political campaign this year and I've never had political opponents who said nice things about me — not in all the time I've been in politics."

Martin said the Democratic-dominated Legislature should share in the blame for not enough elderly funding.

"It's interesting that the legislative leadership is saying that there was not enough in the budget that was adopted last year for the elderly in our state and yet they blame me for that and don't share that blame," said Martin, who has vowed to call for a $40 million increase in elderly spending in the 1989-91 biennium. "I haven't been going around blaming them for that. But it's because of the political season that they are going to try to put all of that blame on me."

"The truth is there were some program improvements in the budgets that we submitted in the past years ... but none were as dramatic as the programs I've put forward this year."

Martin said he has used each year of his four-year term as governor for a special purpose, drawing attention to special needs of the population. In Martin's first year in 1985, he proclaimed it the Year of the Child, while other years have focused attention on the family and illiteracy.

"This year ... we've come forward with a package of programs to address the needs and opportunities of older adults," Martin said. "I would think that they (the Democrats) would be better advised to say they are good ideas and help support them rather than to just engage in criticism."

Martin said he has talked with the legislative leaders in the study commission on aging, but state Sen. Jim Richardson, D-Mecklenburg, and Perdue said Martin has never talked to them about elderly needs and funding.

"His slogan for today's conference should be: 'Ask not what the governor can do for older adults, ask what they can do for my campaign,'" Richardson said.

Waterspouts Spotted

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Three waterspouts were spotted Wednesday in the waters off Ocracoke, but only one headed toward land and it broke up as soon as it, a spokesman for the U.S. Coast Guard station there said.

The water spouts occurred between 4:15 p.m. and 5 p.m., said Fireman D.P. Tanner of the Coast Guard station.

Two of the water spouts stayed in sound waters, Tanner said. "The third came on up ... and then when it hit it just split all apart so it didn't cause any problems," he said.

The water spouts were "spotted right off the bat" so there no problems for boats, he said.

Rose Says U.S. Cigarette Makers Use Foreign Leaf

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tobacco supporters in the U.S. House say American farmers are not realizing their fair share of increased cigarette exports because U.S. cigarette makers are using more and more foreign tobacco.

"Every ounce of foreign tobacco that comes into this country displaces U.S. tobacco," said Rep. Charlie Rose, D-N.C., chairman of the House Tobacco and Peanuts Subcommittee. Rose made his remark Wednesday at a hearing into the growth of tobacco imports.

A new tobacco trade agreement with South Korea, coming on the heels of major concessions from Japan last year, promises strong growth of U.S. cigarette sales to the Pacific Rim nations.

But Dr. Robert H. Miller, an economist with the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, told the subcommittee that American farmers will only see a fraction of the return on the new overseas sales.

"The wholesale price of cigarettes has risen while the grower price has declined over the past several years," Miller said.

"In general, the average export value of 1,000 cigarettes is $20," Miller said. "But what the farmer makes is less than 10 percent of that."

Agriculture Department statistics show that the percentage of foreign leaf in U.S. cigarettes has risen steadily, from 33.9 percent in fiscal 1985 to an estimated 36.9 percent in the year ending June 30. Imported leaf now makes up more than 23 percent of all flue-cured tobacco used in this country, up from 9.3 percent in 1978, the government says.

Rep. Larry J. Hopkins, R-Ky., the subcommittee's ranking minority member, told agriculture department officials, "As domestic markets continue to decline, it is clear that imported tobacco increasingly affects the American producer and the no-net-cost assessment."

Rose and Hopkins said that the domestic industry had not lived up to a pledge to buy more U.S. tobacco and less imported leaf as a result of tobacco price support cuts in 1986.

Rose said that the reason he agreed not to put new import curbs in the 1986 reform package was the assurance that imports would drop with domestic prices.

"This issue will be a matter of significant concern to this subcommittee," Rose said.

Wife Says Estranged Hubby Used Her As Getaway Driver In Robbery

MADISON, N.C. (AP) — Bernadine Cox says she didn't know what her estranged husband was doing when he asked her to drive him downtown for an errand — an errand that police say included robbing a bank.

"I don't know what to think," Bernadine Cox said Wednesday after Madison Police charged her estranged husband, Elijah Dallas Cox, with armed robbery. "Are the police sure he did it?"

Madison police suspect Cox of holding up the Heritage Federal Savings & Loan Association Tuesday and fleeing with an undisclosed amount of money. He had not been found by late Wednesday.

"I would never have gone if I had known," Mrs. Cox said. "I would never do anything like that. ... I'm just sorry I had to become an innocent victim of circumstance."

Cox and her husband of four years lived together in a trailer about three miles north of Madison. Mrs. Cox said she had returned from Winston-Salem on Friday and was in the process of packing her things to move out.

On Tuesday, Elijah Cox asked his wife to drive him downtown. She loaded their two sons, Dallas, 2, and Darren, 9 months, into the car and dropped her husband off at the VIA Electric Co., three buildings down and across the street from Heritage Federal.

"He told the driver (Mrs. Cox) he had to go to the electric company downtown and get some wiring done," Police Chief Karl Urshel said. "That's where the driver dropped him off at, and that's where he told the driver to go and pick him up in a few minutes."

Mrs. Cox, who studied criminal justice in college, said she dropped him off, then circled around and picked him up, just as she had been told.

"He got in the car and said, 'Let's go, let's go,'" Urshel said. She "didn't even know there had been a robbery at that point."

Cox's actions confused his wife. "I sensed something was the matter, but I didn't know what," Mrs. Cox said.

Her husband told her "not to worry about it and not to ask questions," said R.W. Shelton, investigating officer with the Madison police. Cox pointed directions for his wife to follow, and she did. Meanwhile, the bank's silent alarm had informed police of a robbery. Witnesses saw the robber get into a car.

While Mrs. Cox drove, still asking her husband unanswered questions, Rockingham sheriff's deputy Donald Curry spotted the car and turned around to follow it, Shelton said. Cox caught sight of the police car, grew nervous and directed his wife to drive out toward their trailer, Urshel said. When they reached the fairgrounds, Cox ordered his wife to pull over, Shelton said.

As he jumped out, he said, "I'll be home in a few minutes," then ran into the nearby woods, Mrs. Cox said.

About two minutes later, Curry found Mrs. Cox walking away from her car and looking toward the woods.

"The driver (Mrs. Cox) was at a loss," Urshel said. She "didn't know what was really going on until the sheriff's car pulled up and the deputy got out."

Town Manager Resigns After Chief Is Reinstated

CHADBOURN, N.C. (AP) — Chadbourn's town manager has resigned just two days after the Town Council voted to overturn his suspension of black police chief Kelly Rogers.

Mayor Dick Tyler said Willard Harris handed him a two-sentence resignation Wednesday around noon. The resignation takes effect immediately.

"He said he had no hard feelings toward anyone in the town, myself, Kelly or any of the board members," Tyler said.

Tyler called a special meeting for Friday to discuss hiring an interim manager and budget officer. Harris, who held the job since Jan. 4, earned $176 for 22 hours of work each week. He also works at Fisher's Roofing.

Reached Wednesday night, Harris said he was not in a position to comment because he still works for Chadbourn as building inspector and zoning administrator. Harris, a former county coroner, said those positions pay him about $5,000 to $6,000 a year.

Tyler said Harris' resignation caught him by surprise.

"Certainly it bothered me to some extent, particularly after what happened Monday night," Tyler said. "I still feel that the problem is not solved."

Democrats Claim Tax Figures Delayed

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic legislative leaders have accused the Martin administration of delaying the release of April tax collection figures until a budget committee closed six days of hearings on adjustments to the state budget.

But Revenue Department officials said there had been no delay in releasing the figures, which showed an 8 percent slump in collections when compared to April 1987.

Sen. Aaron Plyler, D-Union, co-chairman of the Joint Appropriations Committee charged Wednesday that the Revenue Department could have released the figures days earlier but were stalling until the legislative staff issued its report on the state's revenue outlook.

"And then they'd come back and say we either overestimated or underestimated or we didn't know what we were doing," Plyler said.

The Legislature's fiscal staff uses the monthly reports in calculating the amount of available funds. House Speaker Liston Ramsey said last month that Gov. Jim Martin's $558 million spending plan for next year includes $100 million to $150 million more than would be available.

The April revenue figures were mailed to legislators Wednesday afternoon after the appropriations panel had adjourned.

Normally, an 8 percent decline might indicate a slowdown in the economy and lead legislators to spend less money, since the state Constitution requires a balanced budget.

Dorman, however, said the dropoff resulted from unusual circumstances. April 1987 collections were a whopping 39 percent above those of 1986 because of changes in the federal tax law, he said. Therefore, this year's reduction was expected and will not force the administration to scale back its spending plan.

"It does not change our forecast," Dorman said. But because the April figures weren't released sooner, the legislative staff could not include them in a revenue report submitted as the final item of business in Wednesday's committee hearing.

The Appropriations Committee has pored over Martin's budget and proposals from other officials for six days. The summer legislative session convenes June 2.

"I have no idea, I've had no indication whatsoever," the appropriations co-chairman, Sen. Aaron Plyler, D-Union, said. "We just know that it is nearly June and we go into session next week and we have ... no indication from the governor's office what the revenues were from April."

Senate GOP leader Larry Cobb pointed out that Democratic leaders last month had charged that the administration's budget plan called for spending at least $100 million more than would be available, based on preliminary April revenue figures.

But Plyler and House Appropriations Committee Chairman Billy Watkins, D-Granville, said they knew nothing about that. Ramsey and Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan made the allegations.

"I have seen no revenue figures," Plyler said. "As minority leader, Senator Cobb, can you tell us why these figures have not been released?"

In an interview, Cobb said the delay had not been intentional or unusual. "I think our astrologer said that this would be the time to do it," he joked.

Dorman said that it simply took a few days longer than usual to prepare the report. Revenue officials later said the March revenue collection figures had been released on April 26.

David Crofts, the Legislature's chief fiscal analyst, said he could not estimate revenue availability until he had studied the Revenue Department's report. Crofts said he would have to consider other factors as well, including May revenue collections, before making a definitive projection.

IN THE STATE

Courts' Caseload Up Sharply In '87

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina has added 11 new District Court judges and three Superior Court judgeships, but the backlog of court cases is growing as the number of charges filed in the state increases, court officials say.

"Not only are judges hearing more cases than they were a few years ago; they're spending more time in court hearing those cases," said Franklin Freeman, director of the state's Administrative Office of the Courts.

"What we're running into is that if the caseload growth continues at the level of last year, we'll need more judges in 1989," Freeman said.

Case filings in the state's superior courts increased 8.3 percent in fiscal 1986-87, from more than 91,000 in 1985-86 to almost 99,000 in 1986-87. The increase in district courts across the state was 11.2 percent, from 1.7 million case filings in 1985-86 to 1.9 million in 1986-87.

The increases in fiscal 1987 compared with an average annual increase over the previous five years of 3.9 percent for superior courts and 5.8 percent for district courts.

"We're holding on, but the number of cases is growing, and they're getting more complex," Freeman said. "I think our judges are working harder ... but most of them are taking it very well."

Franklin said he was hopeful that the General Assembly would approve funds for the fourth additional superior court judgeship, in Robeson County, when it convenes next month for its biennial short session. But he said his office probably would delay any requests for more judges until the long session of the Legislature next year.

The courts office will be asking for more money — $2.45 million for this year — for legal representation for indigents, Freeman said. The $14.5 million fund for court-appointed attorneys ran out at the end of April because more people said they couldn't afford to pay for attorneys and those lawyers were being awarded larger fees by judges, he said.

"We're processing the orders (for court-appointed attorneys) up to the point of writing their checks," he said. "But lawyers are continuing to represent clients. I haven't heard of any lawyer who has denied an appointment."

Weight Loss

RALEIGH (AP) — Raleigh was the winner in a civic weight loss competition sponsored by the Oprah Winfrey television show, beating neighboring Durham — 6,254 pounds to 5,064 pounds.

More than 4,000 residents of the two cities who had registered for the weight loss campaign packed the Raleigh Civic Center on Tuesday for the show's taping.

The big weight losers among those who registered to diet for a month and be on the Winfrey show were Lynn Woodward of Raleigh, 46, who lost 42 pounds; Danny Bear Mayo, 37, of Durham, who lost 40 pounds; Rebecca Phillips of Raleigh, who lost 30 pounds.

Sentenced

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — A Graham woman has been sentenced to 25 years in prison and her teen-age son was given a six-year sentence after both pleaded guilty to charges of sexually abusing a 3-year-old girl they cared for in their home last summer.

Pearl Lee Thorpe, 55, and her son, William, 16, pleaded guilty to five felony charges Monday in Alamance County Superior Court.

The sentences were ordered by Judge J.B. Allen Jr. when the mother and son pleaded guilty just before the trial was to begin.

Mrs. Thorpe cared for the girl, her 5-year-old brother and another preschool child in her home at the time of the abuse, authorities said.

Chicken Crash

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A truck carrying about 7,000 chickens crashed on U.S. 15-501 just south of Chapel Hill, killing about 3,000 of the birds and knotting traffic for about two hours, authorities say.

The driver of the truck, Albert P. Wimberly Jr., 29, of Pittsboro, escaped with a minor leg injury after the Monday accident.

"There were a lot of dead chickens," said North Carolina Highway Patrol Trooper Franklin Martin Jr. "It stunk."

Wimberly was hauling the birds for the Golden Poultry Co. of Durham when he lost control of his tractor-trailer rig after rounding a curve. The truck overturned and caught fire, authorities said.

Church Sale

RALEIGH (AP) — The Roman Catholic Diocese of Raleigh will sell approximately 76 acres of its land to the North Carolina State University Endowment Fund for the Centennial Campus, officials announced Wednesday.

Sanford-Dukakis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Terry Sanford, who backed Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. in the early stages of the Democratic presidential race, on Wednesday endorsed Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

"We're standing with a leader who is destined to become one of the greatest presidents in the history of America," Sanford said at a Washington news conference with Dukakis and six other Democratic senators.

Sanford, a freshman from Durham, predicted that Dukakis would "sweep the South," and would not be weighed down by political baggage that hampered 1984 nominee Walter Mondale.

Jordan Gets Advice From Blacks

RALEIGH (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan met privately for almost two hours with black legislators, some of whom said he needs to change a perception that his gubernatorial campaign is not addressing issues of concern to working-class voters.

Jordan, who insists he's been discussing day care, education, aging and other such issues around the state, called the luncheon meeting Wednesday "very friendly and very frank and very open."

He denied that the lawmakers criticized the direction of his campaign against Republican Gov. Jim Martin, but said he did hear "constructive criticism as far as the need to continue to broaden the base and continue to have more people involved."

Others at the meeting said Jordan, a lumber company executive who has stressed his business experience, was told bluntly that his campaign needs to make some changes if he hopes to excite blacks and other traditionally Democratic voters.

"We told him straight up the perception was that he was appealing more to the (corporate) boardroom than the voter on the street," one participant, who asked not to be identified, told The Charlotte Observer.

One way to change that perception, Jordan was told, is to give the 16 black legislators a bigger role in his campaign.

"I think there's going to be a major involvement throughout the campaign," said Rep. Dan Blue, D-Wake, who arranged the meeting as chairman of the all-Democratic Legislative Black Caucus. "You've got to have the people who are identified with those kinds of (working-class) issues taking the message.

"And that's why it was important to have this kind of conversation today, because a good number of the people who are identified with those kinds of issues were sitting in here. And I think they're going to take the message back to their communities."

Blue said Jordan had assured the group that "we are full partners" in his legislative program and his campaign.

House Reports Disclose Above-Average Incomes

By PHYLIS MESSINGER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House members last year took trips to such faraway places as Cyprus and Ireland and as near as the Oprah Winfrey Show in Chicago. They made speeches, toured defense plants and wrote magazine articles. They got gifts of golf sweaters and boxes of chocolates.

These and thousands of other details were listed in the latest round of financial disclosure forms filed by more than 400 members of the House of Representatives and released on Wednesday.

In general, members' incomes towered over the average American's. Most representatives' incomes topped the $100,000 mark last year, with fees from speech-making and article-writing adding substantially to their $89,500 annual salary. A handful reported making under $100,000, while more than a dozen reported assets and income over $1 million.

The median family income in the United States is $31,526. The forms also offered a glimpse into the workings of Congress. For example:

—Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, a member of the Appropriations defense subcommittee, reported receiving money for speeches from several defense companies, including Lockheed, Boeing, Rockwell, Northrop, TRW, Aerojet, General Electric, LTV, Singer and McDonnell Douglas.

—Pennsylvania Rep. Bud Shuster, the second-ranking Republican on the House Public Works and Transportation Committee and the senior GOP member of the surface transportation subcommittee, reported receiving air fare from the Outdoor Advertising Association for a trip to Los Angeles. The association also paid him a $2,000 honorarium for a speech.

In 1986, Shuster led a fight on the House floor against taking down billboards on the nation's highways without "just compensation" to the owner. The administrative aide to Shuster, Ann Eppard, said Wednesday that Shuster was not so much defending the outdoor advertising industry as the right to compensation if one's property is seized.

—Rep. E. "Kika" de la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, received honoraria from a number of food and textile groups, including the National Milk Producers, Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Amstar Sugar Corp., Grocery Manufacturers, Western Cotton Shippers, Monsanto, National Cotton Council and the American Farm Bureau Federation. His reimbursed travel included a limousine ride to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to attend a Grocery Manufacturers meeting.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, reported earnings of at least $168,000, although that did not include royalties from his book. Published reports have said that Wright was paid royalties of 55 percent from his book, "Reflections of a Public Man," far above the 10 percent to 15 percent authors normally receive.

The royalties are crucial to a demand for an ethics committee investigation of the Democratic leader.

Rep. Newt Gingrich promised to sign the documents formally triggering such an investigation today. For his part, the Georgia Republican reported income of $122,284 to $133,283.

Wright promised on Wednesday to cooperate in any investigation.

"Although I know my actions have been in full accordance with House rules, I am concerned that the matters raised ... have led to increased public discussion, which I believe is unwarranted ...," he said in a letter Tuesday to the ethics committee.

The Texas Democrat also said that publication of the book had been halted at his orders.

While the politicians are required to reveal their finances, the forms give only broad ranges for members' income, assets and debts.

Tar Heel Congressmen List Their '87 Earnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are capsule summaries of the financial disclosure forms filed by members of the House from North Carolina for 1987 and released Wednesday.

Income includes the House salary, honoraria earnings from writing and speeches and other income such as dividends and interest.

Earnings by the representatives' spouses and dependents are not included in the income figure.

The asset and liability figures for the representatives do not include holdings and liabilities of spouses and dependents.

Representatives are permitted to keep honoraria earnings from speeches and writings up to 30 percent of their salary. For nearly all members, their salary was $89,500 at the end of 1987. The speaker of the House was paid at the annualized rate of $115,000 and the Democratic and Republican leaders were paid at the annualized rate of $99,500.

Many members receive honoraria above the limit and donate the excess to charity.

In their financial disclosure forms, representatives are allowed to list income, assets and liabilities by ranges instead of specific figures. However, some representatives provide specific figures.

In their listing of assets, representatives do not have to include their personal residences and vehicles. Gifts, though listed, are not counted in income figure given here.

WALTER JONES — Income: $100,483-$116,983; Honoraria: $2,000; Gifts: None; Assets: $205,000-$535,000; Liabilities: None.

JAMES M. CLARKE — Income: $122,212-$167,712; Honoraria: $400; Gifts: None; Assets: $1.4 million-$2.54 million and up; Liabilities: $100,000-$250,000.

TIM VALENTINE — Income: $151,483-$289,983; Honoraria: $1,000; Gifts: None; Assets: $215,000-$620,000; Liabilities: $65,000-$150,000.

H. MARTIN LANCASTER — Income: $111,003-$121,003; Honoraria: $5,200; Gifts: None; Assets: $160,000-$465,000; Liabilities: $135,000-$360,000. Lancaster reported receiving an undisclosed amount of money from "Jewish constituents" for travel expenses for a trip to Israel.

CHARLES ROSE — Income: $118,985-$122,983; Honoraria: $28,000, of which $2,115 was given to charity; Gifts: None; Assets: $170,004-$420,000; Liabilities: $95,004-$250,000.

STEPHEN NEAL — Income: $122,986-$164,983; Honoraria: $17,000; Gifts: None; Assets: $340,008-$835,000; Liabilities: $160,004-$380,000. Neal listed a net loss of $890 from rental of a building he owns to his campaign. Gross rent was $26,004. Subtracting mortgage expense, utilities, repairs, taxes and insurance produced the loss of $890. Spokesman Rob Wrigley said the arrangement by which Neal rents his building to his campaign was cleared by the House Ethics Committee. Because the rent is $1,000 per month less than the going rate, Neal shows $1,000 per month as a contribution in kind to his campaign. Wrigley said.

DAVID PRICE — Income: $108,284-$113,783; Honoraria: $10,500; Gifts: None; Assets: $30,004-$100,000; Liabilities: None.

JOHN ALEXANDER McMILLAN — Income: $117,591-$187,983; Honoraria: $3,500; Gifts: $597 and up; Assets: $285,006-$740,000; Liabilities: None.

McMillan listed two pages of gifts, for some of which he did not give a value. For instance, he said he received a fruit basket from the Tobacco Institute, a brass and leather coaster from the Charlotte Motor Speedway, a certificate for a turkey from the Winn-Dixie Stores and five neckties from Dick Hoffman.

Among his other gifts were a desk-top cardboard calendar, a coffee mug with the congressional seal, a leatherbound bible with his name embossed, a Piedmont model airplane, three boxes of chocolate, a crate of yams, a duck and asparagus from Rep. Norman D. Shumway, R-Calif., and the September 1987, issue of National Geographic.

BILL HEFNER — Income: $150,989-$243,983; Honoraria: $24,000; Gifts: None; Assets: $665,004-$855,000 and up; Liabilities: $70,003-$165,000. Hefner received most of his unearned income from dividends and interest on various bond funds, including two funds valued at $250,000 and up.

HOWARD COBLE — Income: $101,986-$118,983; Honoraria: $6,000; Gifts: Two trips to charity tennis tournaments, no value listed; Assets: $235,014-$595,000.

THOMAS CASS BALLENGER — Income: $150,070-$168,070; Honoraria: $4,000; Gifts: None; Assets: $885,031-$1,675 million and up; Liabilities: $305,005-$725,000.

Ballenger reported extensive stock, real estate and partnership holdings. He reported capital losses and partnership losses of $97,028 to $278,500, which more than offset capital gains during the year and reduced his overall income. He is chairman of the board of Plastic Packaging Inc. His holding in that company is valued at more than $250,000.

He was an active stock trader, reporting 91 transactions.

Helms' Retreat Clears Path For Treaty

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate negotiators have cleared a major hurdle en route to approval of the U.S.-Soviet treaty banning middle-range nuclear missiles, setting up almost certain approval of the first arms-control treaty to be ratified in 16 years.

The chamber's Democratic and Republican leaders expressed hope that remaining disagreements over conditions to be attached to the accord could be ironed out at meetings today.

"We're not there yet, but we've made a good deal of progress," said Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va.

A key to progress on the treaty was the decision on Wednesday by the leading opponent of the pact, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to drop his delaying tactics. Helms said he did so in the face of a probable vote by the Senate to shut off debate.

"That was the end of it," Helms conceded in a floor speech. "I've had no illusions about defeating this treaty. The American people are beginning to understand that this is a dangerous treaty."

Helms' concession ended more than a week of delay and raised hopes that the accord could be approved in time to be shipped to Moscow so that President Reagan could formally exchange ratification documents with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev at the summit meeting that begins Sunday.

The primary remaining issue did not affect the treaty itself, but the modified conditions under which the Senate would grant its consent.

Democrats sought to attach a condition stipulating that any attempt by a future president to reinterpret the treaty would have to be approved by the Senate in order to become effective.

Backers of the change have said it is an attempt to preserve the Senate's constitutional power of advise and consent on treaties. The debate stems from a dispute with the Reagan administration over its attempt to reinterpret the 1972 Antiballistic Missile Treaty to permit more latitude in developing Reagan's Star Wars missile defense.

That treaty with the Soviet Union was the last arms-control pact to win Senate approval.

The treaty on intermediate-range nuclear forces, which Reagan and Gorbachev signed in Washington on Dec. 8, requires elimination within three years of U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles with a range of 300 miles to 3,400 miles. It would result in the elimination of 867 U.S. missiles in Europe and elimination of 1,752 Soviet missiles.

While the treaty is regarded as militarily insignificant because it leaves most of both sides' nuclear arsenals intact, it holds potentially great political significance as a model for a follow-up treaty to provide for deep cuts in long-range nuclear missiles.

As leaders wrangled throughout the day Wednesday in an effort to clear remaining procedural hurdles, the Senate approved a pair of relatively mild amendments to the accord and overwhelmingly defeated two others.

On a voice vote, the lawmakers approved a non-binding provision urging negotiators in future talks on reductions in long-range missile arsenals not to give up the U.S. right to maintain stocks of conventionally armed air- and sea-launched cruise missiles.

Senators Hail Collapse Of Talks With Noriega

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic senators hailed the collapse of U.S. efforts to negotiate Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega's departure from Panama, and the country's anti-Noriega ambassador said today the United States should let Latin Americans solve the problem.

"A lot of people are not upset that it fell apart," said Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., the morning after Secretary of State George Shultz told a hastily arranged news conference that Noriega had rejected U.S. proposals for his resignation as defense chief and his temporary departure from Panama.

But Kerry said, in an interview on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America," that the negotiations to oust Noriega hurt U.S. foreign policy "and also sent a terrible message with respect to our ability to do something about the narcotics traffic."

Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., on "CBS This Morning," urged the administration to start working with Latin American leaders on the matter and said no options for dealing with Noriega should be ruled out.

Dodd urged Panamanians to "keep pressure on General Noriega to realize that he's not safe when he leaves his country and not secure at home either."

Ambassador Juan Sosa said on CBS, "The United States should hold back and let other initiatives go forward."

Sosa said the Reagan administration negotiated in good faith but should not have dealt with a terrorist. "The problem is Noriega is not an honorable person," he said.

In another appearance, on NBC-TV's "Today," Sosa said, "I suggest that other initiatives, diplomatic initiatives, political initiatives that are on the drawing boards and are initiatives that Panamanians are putting together with other Latin American countries be given a chance, although I still doubt that Noriega has any intention whatsoever of relinquishing power."

Reaction to the collapse of the negotiations came as no surprise since criticism of the administration's stand had been widespread well before Shultz's announcement. The critics included Vice President George Bush, Justice Department officials, Panamanian opposition leaders and 86 senators.

Perhaps the most biting comment was made by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who expressed no regret at all for the administration's negotiations failure.

"This administration negotiates with the darndest people — Iranian terrorists and Panamanian drug dealers," Cranston said. "I think we should have an administration which doesn't negotiate with people like that."

"This administration has handled the Noriega situation so badly that it is an embarrassment to the United States."

After the negotiations broke down, President Reagan ordered the return of State Department envoy Michael Kozak to Washington. Shultz said that the negotiating package, worked out laboriously between Kozak and Panamanian officials in the last few weeks, has been scrapped.

"No further negotiations are contemplated," Shultz said. "All proposals addressed during these negotiations have been withdrawn. No offers remain on the table."

Shultz refused comment when asked if military solutions are being contemplated. But at the Pentagon, officials insisted there were no plans afoot for direct military intervention in Panama.

For much of the day Wednesday, a deal seemed to be within reach. But Kozak telephoned the State Department at 4 p.m. EDT to pass along the news of Noriega's decision.

"At the final moment in negotiations, Noriega would not carry through with the arrangements his representatives had negotiated," Shultz told reporters.

Under Secretary of State Michael Armacost said Noriega had indicated that "majors and captains" within Panama's Defense Forces "might take strong action" against him if he agreed to the deal.

Bush, who has expressed some misgivings at the Reagan administration's negotiations with Noriega, on Wednesday said that he still was optimistic that Noriega could be persuaded to step down.

"I'm convinced Noriega will be out of power," Bush told reporters in Lakehurst, N.J.

Conferees Approve Catastrophic Coverage For Medicare Patients

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A catastrophic health insurance bill providing the largest expansion of Medicare in the program's 23-year history has cleared a major legislative hurdle.

The compromise agreed to late Wednesday by a House-Senate conference committee must win final approval from both chambers, but that is a foregone conclusion given the broad support that the basic measure received last year when it cleared the two houses in different versions.

Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen told conference committee members that he will recommend that President Reagan sign the legislation, even though it is considerably more ambitious than the measure proposed by the administration more than a year ago.

The basic framework of the legislation has been in place for months: providing protection for America's 31 million Medicare recipients against runaway hospital and prescription drug bills accumulated during acute illnesses. But House and Senate negotiators have worked since February to iron out the details.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, whose Finance Committee shaped the Senate bill, called the compromise "a landmark piece of legislation... that will bring peace of mind to millions."

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee as well as the conference committee, praised Bowen for his protracted role in overcoming some objections within the administration to win presidential support for the Medicare expansion.

"You are the linchpin who launched us on this crusade," Rostenkowski told Bowen, a physician and former two-term governor of Indiana whose first wife died after a long battle against cancer.

Bowen made catastrophic health legislation his top priority when he was appointed to head the Health and Human Services Department a little more than two years ago and was there when the final compromise was struck.

In fact, it was a surprise Bowen maneuver — dropping his opposition to a respite care provision for home-bound beneficiaries — that removed the last stumbling block to compromise.

Bentsen couldn't believe his ears when Bowen offered the compromise.

"That's a hell of a deal," the Texan exclaimed. Later, he told Bowen: "You're timing was excellent. You are a great negotiator."

The big knot that had kept the legislation tied up was loosened last week when a conference committee task force agreed on provisions of a historic outpatient prescription drug benefit.

The compromise legislation provides for Medicare coverage for hospital stays lasting up to 364 days; a first-day deductible still will be charged. Medicare now pays full hospital bills for only 59 days a year.

Utility To Abandon Nuke Plant

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A utility company today tentatively agreed to give up the $5.3 billion Shoreham nuclear power plant. Once the deal is finalized, it would be the first time a completed U.S. atomic plant was abandoned before it opened.

The agreement between the state and the Long Island Lighting Co. was announced by Gary Fryer, a spokesman for Gov. Mario Cuomo.

It would allow financially troubled LILCO to continue to operate as a privately owned utility. The state had been proceeding with a possible takeover of the entire company.

As part of the agreement, the state would buy Shoreham for $1 and LILCO would pay the more than $400 million to decontaminate and decommission the plant. New generating plants would then be built on Long Island to ensure that residents have a sufficient supply of electricity.

The agreement in principle was announced 95 minutes after Cuomo's midnight Wednesday deadline for an agreement. Earlier, Cuomo had threatened to call off negotiations if LILCO failed to agree to a deal and then resume a state lawsuit to keep Shoreham closed.

Utility spokesman James Lois confirmed the agreement but withheld detailed comment.

The entire agreement must be approved by the state Public Service Commission, and some parts of the agreement must be approved by the legislature.

Once completed, the deal will end years of attempts by environmentalists, local activists and others to close Shoreham, on Long Island's north shore.

The plant, completed in 1984, has never been opened because of the refusal of state and local officials to approve an emergency evacuation plan.

NASA Says Space Station Needed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Proposed deep cuts in NASA's budget could kill America's space station, reducing the nation to a second- or third-rate space power, the space agency's head warns.

"Without the space station, the U.S. manned space flight program would be dead-ended, and America's leadership in space would be put on hold indefinitely," James C. Fletcher said Wednesday as he spoke to a group of reporters attending briefings on U.S. space goals.

The Reagan administration has asked Congress to give NASA $11.5 billion in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, an increase of 27 percent over the current budget.

However, key lawmakers have said the agency can expect no more than $10.7 billion. A House budget resolution would slash that to $10.2 billion.

The administration has asked for $967 million to continue space station development. Earlier cuts already have delayed the program three years. Current plans call for putting people in the orbiting laboratory in late 1995.

Fletcher, speaking from Washington, said that if the budget were reduced to $10.2 billion, "NASA would have to recommend killing the space station."

Officers Installed

Senior Resident Superior Court Judge David E. Reid installed Pitt County Bar Association officers for the coming year at the recent annual meeting of the organization. The new officers are Michael A. Colombo, president; Thomas D. Haggood, vice-president; Melanie White, secretary; and Michael C. Blanton, treasurer. The association strives to improve the quality of legal services for its members, their clients, and the community at large, a spokesman said. It supports a pro bono program which provides legal services to the poor without compensation to the providing attorney and it provides both professional and non-professional services to community and charitable programs throughout Pitt County.

Mother Of Year

State Jaycee VP

Tim Avery of Winterville was elected vice-president of the North Carolina Jaycees at the organization's 51st state convention recently in Asheville. Avery will serve this year in the community development portfolio. The area includes community fund raising, human service, government involvement and community improvement. Avery was also awarded the Larry Lowers Memorial Award at the convention. The award is given each year to the top three regional directors in North Carolina. He served in the position in the Southeast Region in 1987.

Several department heads, at a workshop meeting Wednesday, asked Pitt County Commissioners to consider funding a number of items that were not included in a proposed $39.45 million budget presented to the board Monday by County Manager Kramer Jackson.

Jackson told commissioners Monday that the proposed budget included $34.62 million to operate the county government at the same level as this year, and some $4.82 million in expansion money.

"It isn't a budget that offers very much," Jackson said, pointing out that more than $8.51 million worth of requests made by the various county departments and agencies were not included in his proposals, which recommended a tax rate of about 60 cents per $100 valuation. Jackson said it would take a tax rate of 90 cents per $100 to fund the entire continuation budget and $13.34 million in expansion requests.

But Ed Garrison, director of the Department of Social Services, told commissioners that a number of items not included in the proposed expansion budget are "necessary" and asked the board to put them back in. Included in Garrison's request were $44,912 for two social worker positions to work in child protective services; $356,363 in mandated public assistance funds; $8,860 for half the cost of an income maintenance employee, and $23,391 for mandated reclassification of employees.

"I have to have your help ... the resources to do the job," Garrison said.

Garrison told commissioners $2.78 million in county money is included in this year's $6.36 million DSS budget. He said the requested $6.38 million budget for the 1988-1989 fiscal year included $2.82 million in local funds.

The $596,683 in expansion requests for the coming year included $528,525 in county money, Garrison noted.

Garrison said the funding for public assistance programs — such as Medicaid, Aid to Families With Dependent Children and similar programs — is funded 71.331 percent by federal money, 21.555 percent with state grants and 7.134 percent by the county.

Steve Creech, director of the Mental Health Department, asked commissioners to consider adding back 3.5 positions not included in his expansion requests.

He said the positions — a secretary, a clerk typist, a mental health nurse and a half-time rehabilitation therapist — would require about $41,000 in local money.

Creech told the board that mental health's $4.1 million budget includes 75 percent state grants, 10 percent federal money and 15 percent county appropriations.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson, who had asked for an additional court officer, a new narcotics officer, a juvenile officer, an identification officer, two jailers and nine other new deputies, said the department needed all the additional positions.

But Tyson told commissioners the two jailers were his top priority.

Asked why an administrative position funded in this year's budget had not been filled, Tyson told the board that "I didn't fill (it) because of overtime (and) I had to find the right person to put into this position."

County Engineer Phil Dickerson, who oversees the county's solid waste and inspections programs, asked commissioners to consider including $165,000 for a landfill compactor, $14,000 for four new 40 cubic yard trash containers and $65,000 for a new roll-off truck that were dropped from his expansion budget requests.

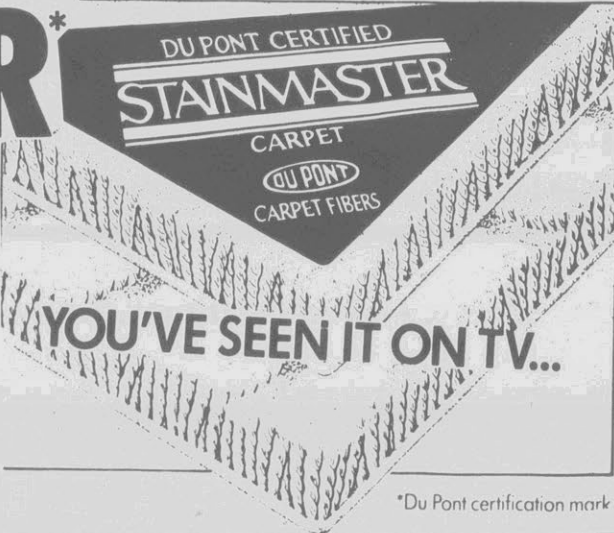

Dickerson also suggested that other items — $30,000 for a compactor at Winterville, $110,000 for four people to man compactor sites; $20,000 for buildings at compactor sites, $20,000 for a shelter for a cardboard processor — are needed if the county is to expand a pilot recycling program in the coming year.

And Dickerson asked that $9,000 for replacement radios for the inspections department be considered.

Savings League Says Now Good Time To Buy Homes

By JOHN BARE
Reflector Staff Writer

The president of the North Carolina League of Savings Institutions says interest rates and housing prices are at a relatively low level for the first time in 20 years and now is the time to buy a home.

"Here in Pitt County alone, there are approximately 1,000 houses in inventory. It's a buyers market," said Thad Woodard.

Woodard and other members of the League of Savings Institutions stopped in Greenville today as part of a statewide campaign to promote the housing industry and the state's savings institutions.

"Now is the time to buy a home. The market is saturated with new and existing houses, and the prospective home buyer — utilizing caution rather than emotion — can truly find a bargain on the most important investment of his life: a home," said Troy W. Pate Jr., chairman of the league.

"Traditionally, house sales slow down in the fall and winter months," Pate said. "This happened in our state over the last two quarters in conjunction with a slight deceleration of the economic boom North Carolina has experienced over the past four to five years. Thus, inventory exists today."

"Interest rates on mortgages should remain at low levels that will allow a healthy housing market," said Harry M. Davis, an economics professor at Appalachian State University and the league's economic forecaster.

"Interest rates on fixed-rate mortgages should remain in the ranges of 9.75 to 10.75 percent for the year. Adjustable rate mortgage rates should be in the range of 7.50 to 8.75 percent," Davis said.

"Home buyers may see higher rates later in the year and next year, making this the best time of the year to purchase a home," Davis said.

"Adjustable mortgages with tight-fitting caps are the loan of choice for an increasing percentage of buyers in the current market," Pate said.

"A one-year adjustable rate mortgage at 8 percent, with 2 percent point caps, stacks up well against a 10 and three-quarters to 11 percent fixed-rate loan this spring," Pate said.

Professor Edits Journal

ECU News Bureau

A new teacher education journal for North Carolina is aimed at presenting ideas about teaching by teacher educators, says its editor, an East Carolina University professor.

Dr. Robert M. Brown of the ECU School of Education said the North Carolina Journal of Teacher Education will "provide a voice for those actually involved in teacher education."

The journal was published for the first time this spring by the North Carolina Association of Colleges of Teacher Education and the N.C. Association of Teacher Education with the cooperation of the school of education at ECU. Partial funding for the journal is provided by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation.

Educators writing articles for the first issue include Dr. Charles R. Coble, dean of the ECU School of Education. Coble addresses "Teacher Education in North Carolina: Reframing The Problems."

Dr. James Pressley, a faculty member at ECU, and Patrick Austin, the principal of J.H. Rose High School in Greenville, are the authors of "North Carolina: A Trend Setter in Educational Reform."

The associate editor for the publication is Dr. James W. Batten of the ECU School of Education.

"But the prospective home buyer needs professional advice he can trust," he said. "Adjustables require more vigorous shopping analysis than fixed-rates."

Savings and Loans in N.C. are in good shape, and they have plenty of funds available for lending, Davis said.

"North Carolina savings institutions continue to be among the most profitable and financially strong institutions in the nation," Davis said. "And not only are the North Carolina savings institutions among the most profitable in the country, they have a very high level of worth."

Several of the state's industries that were hurt by imports in recent years are enjoying a "rebirth," Davis said.

Retired Teacher Gets Degree

POTSDAM, N.Y. (AP) — Lillian Cassel, an 85-year-old retired school teacher, walked across the stage at the recent graduation exercises of Potsdam College of the State University of New York to receive her bachelor's degree in art history — 65 years after she earned her teaching credentials at the same institution in 1923.

Mrs. Cassel, who was born on Christmas day in 1902, decided to become a schoolteacher, just as many women of her generation did. The Potsdam Normal School, predecessor of today's Potsdam College, was nearby, so she enrolled there to earn her teaching certificate.

"Our campus experience back then relates very little to campus life nowadays," she says. The Normal has grown into a full-fledged liberal arts college enrolling about 4,000 students.

Her greatest accomplishment in a long, productive life: "Educating children in a way that has made many of them solid, socially active members of their communities." She retired from teaching in 1969.

Mrs. Cassel, whose husband, Fred, died in 1977, has two sons, one an electronics technician for the U.S. government and one a jet pilot, and a daughter, who is vice president of a media firm.

Reflecting on why she undertook the demanding task of earning a college degree, Mrs. Cassel recalls that she had read a magazine article that encouraged older people to use their golden years constructively, to take up something new perhaps, such as college courses.

"I thought, wouldn't that be fun to do? So I spoke to some people I knew at Potsdam College and they told me how I could do it."

One of those contacts was Dr. John C. Riordan, a Potsdam art professor who lives about a mile down the road from Mrs. Cassel's home in Colton in the Adirondack foothills. He knew of her travels to Europe and her interest in fine arts, so together they decided she should major in art history.

"I couldn't see just sitting in a chair somewhere, rocking my life away," she said. But her reasons for pursuing a degree were not entirely personal. "I wanted to show everyone that old people can do things to improve themselves. Learning is not something restricted to the young."

Mrs. Cassel says that many of the courses she completed were very challenging; for example, public speaking, biology and photography.

"Nobody thought of me as a relic," she said. "The younger students called me by my first name, and they were so helpful and kind. Some of them wrote to me. In fact, one of my correspondents is a Malaysian girl who studied at Potsdam."

There are many aspects of life in late 20th-century America that disturb the Colton town historian, whose social activities extend far beyond archives and classrooms. Crime, "political laxness," the popular culture in general, are subjects of concern to her.

"All this emphasis on money bothers me," she said, noting that there are many other causes worth working for besides earning money.

Couple Marries On Saturday

HASSELL — Hassell Christian Church was the setting for the wedding of Julia Ann Purvis of Bethel and Michael Clyde Robinson of Winterville. The double-ring ceremony took place Saturday at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Richard Rundell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Benjamin Purvis. The parents of the bridegroom are Ann Sautler Robinson and the late Alvin Robinson.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of bridal satin with chantilly lace. The fitted lace bodice featured a Victorian neckline with an illusion yoke, baroque sleeves and natural waist. Venise lace motifs etched with seed pearls accented the neckline. Garlands of scalloped chantilly lace edged the two-tiered ruffle hemline which bordered the skirt and train. The bride chose a three-tiered fingertip veil held by a crown of lace. Her bouquet was a cascade of deep pink roses and white stephanotis.

The bride was attended by Ann Caulk Purvis, sister-in-law of the bride, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Shana Purvis and Angela Purvis, both of Greenville, both nieces of the bride; Deana Wyche of Winterville, sister of the bridegroom; and Debbie Anderson of Greenville.

The attendants wore daphne rose gowns of satin and lace. The boat necks and V-yoke backs led to fitted lace bodices with front and back basque waists. The gathered puff sleeves and full circular skirts were of satin and a satin bow finished the back waistlines. Each carried a bouquet of white daisy pompoms and pink buttons with variegated maranta foliage.

Anthony Buck of Wilmington, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Al Purvis of Bethel, brother of the bride; Ben Purvis of Greenville, nephew of the bride; William Anderson of Greenville, and Paul Heath of Farmville. Pages were Josh and Corey Purvis of Bethel, nephews of the bride.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Edna Purvis, and soloist Mike Kilpatrick.

A reception given by the bride's parents was held in the church fellowship hall. An after-rehearsal dinner, hosted by Ann Robinson, mother of the bridegroom, was held at the Holiday Inn in Greenville. Miscellaneous showers and luncheons were given by friends and family.

The bride is a graduate of Pitt Community College. The bridegroom attended Pitt Community. Both are employed by East Carolina University.

After a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla., they will reside in Bethel.

Time, Mouth Are Competing

I think I've just discovered the ultimate diet. It's a new restaurant in New York. You can order anything you want from the menu. Calories are no object. Love desserts? Order two. The trick is, there's an hourglass on the table, and when the sand runs out, the customer has to leave.

There isn't time for any of those little teasers that usually go with dining out: the parade of the bread basket... the tray of veggies to nibble... the offering of soups... the salad toss... and an hour and a half later, the entire, followed by the dreaded dessert cart. No, this is an Olympic competition between time and your mouth.

My friends and I have talked about dieting all of our lives, and we have agreed that if we didn't have to buy all the food, cook it and serve it, maintaining our bodies as temples would be a piece of cake. I didn't say that.

We must sample foods in the supermarket to make sure they are good enough for our family and eat the excess from the vegetables we wash before we refrigerate them. We must constantly keep vigil over bananas and cookies and eat them before they grow bad or stale.

We must eat what others leave on their plates to set a good example of waste-not-want-not. We must scrape all the crispy stuff off the bottom of skillet with a spoon and eat it so it doesn't clog up the disposal. On holidays such as Halloween, we must sacrifice our own bodies by eating all the candy bars so our children won't get cavities.

Sacrifice! Sacrifice! A mother gets so tired of it. We were talking about a story on Cher and how she maintains her body. She not only works out two hours every day, but it is reported that she had two lower ribs removed to ensure a "boyish" look. (Isn't that all of our dreams?) She certainly is not the first superstar to give new meaning to the phrase "Made in America."

At Wits End

What was it Rudyard Kipling said? "Youth had been a habit of hers for so long that she could not part with it."

We rationalized that if Cher had to bake cookies for lunches, host the card club and have her mouth as the last stop before the disposal, she'd look like a school bus too.

One man who visited the time-is-money restaurant in New York said: at first he felt under the gun to scarf down the food as fast as he could, but he learned to pace himself. Another said that if a restaurant like that was tried in Harrisburg, Pa., it wouldn't last two days before the waiter got murdered.

As a woman looking for new solutions to an old problem, I think the place has possibilities as a dieter's alternative. Especially if they supply doggy bags.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. C. James Taylor of Washington, N.C. announce the engagement of their daughter, Claudia Beth, to Stephen Todd Roberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Roberson Jr. of Washington. The wedding will take place Aug. 27.

Family Needs A Share Time

DEAR ABBY: Our family is able to eat only one meal each day together. It's supper. Our children are 8, 5 and 3 years old. My husband does not allow any talking at the table. He sits at the head of the table and barks commands at everyone. ("Sit up straight!" "If you must cough, leave the table!" "Just shut up and eat!")

It doesn't take much of this before we all lose our appetites.

I was raised in a family where the supper table was a place we could eat leisurely and share with other family members the events of the day.

I think my husband's attitude is wrong. He says the table is the place to eat and get it over with.

Please tell me, who is right? — DIFFERING IN GARLAND, TEXAS

DEAR DIFFERING: There is no right or wrong — only different preferences. I agree with you: The supper table is an ideal place for the family to enjoy each other's company while they eat.

Try to persuade your husband to lighten up a little, to be more patient and less demanding of the little ones. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Although I've never written to you before, I want to thank you for addressing one issue I had been struggling with a few years ago. A 17-year-old girl thought something was "wrong" with her because she was still a virgin.

I, too, had felt that way on several occasions. I'm a virgin who will turn 21 soon. I was dumped by more than one man because I wouldn't have sex. I plan to remain a virgin until I marry. I don't want to have to tell my husband about an illegitimate child, an abortion or herpes outbreaks.

I also want to thank you for the addresses of overseas servicemen. I wrote six letters and received three replies. One has become very special. He's "Andy" on the USS Coral Sea. He writes beautiful, deep, philosophical letters — three and four typed pages. We have come to know each other intimately through our letters.

Our similarities are uncanny. We agree on everything from premarital sex and abortion to kids, dogs and yogurt. Abby, he has helped me to understand that just because I had a bad childhood, I am not a bad person. He tells me I am a very special, beautiful person, and I believe him. If I never lay eyes on him, he has already helped me more than he (or you) will ever know.

Andy is due back in the States soon. And when his ship docks in Norfolk, I'll be there to meet him! Abby, if he turns out to be half as wonderful in person as he is in his letters, I would marry him tomorrow. — WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: He sounds too good to be true. Congratulations on an exciting beginning. Please keep me posted.

DEAR ABBY: Would you kindly define the phrase "immediate family"? I need to show the answer in writing. Thank you. — INQUISITIVE IN LONG BEACH

DEAR INQUISITIVE: In the legal sense, wife or husband, children, parents, brothers and sisters are all immediate family. But for exact information regarding the laws in your state, you should consult a lawyer.

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if you're planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. # PRE-MEMORIAL DAY

Couple Marries In Farmville

JoAnne McCoy Goins and Wesley Kelvin Deal were united in marriage May 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Farmville Presbyterian Church. The Rev. William N. Gordon performed the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Helen H. McCoy of Fountain and the late James R. McCoy Jr. The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed by Burroughs Wellcome.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Deal of Greenville. He attended ECU and Pitt Community College. He is employed by SAB Nife.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church.

The couple is living in Greenville after a wedding trip to Freeport, Grand Bahamas.

Collards have been used for food for at least 4,000 years.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward today as the market absorbed the news of stronger economic growth in the first quarter of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 2.18 to 1,963.55 by noon-time on Wall Street.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 6 to 5 in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 634 up, 533 down and 558 unchanged.

The Commerce Department said this morning that the gross national product grew at a 3.9 percent annual rate, after adjustment for inflation, in the first three months of 1988. That was up from a previous estimate of 2.3 percent.

Texaco by itself accounted for the Dow Jones industrial's rise, climbing 3 1/2 to 50. Late Wednesday Carl Icahn, the company's largest shareholder, proposed to offer $60 a share to take it over.

Tenneco rose 5/8 to 46 1/2 on top of a 4 3/8-point gain Wednesday, when the company said it planned to put its oil and gas properties up for sale.

Sears Roebuck led the active list, down 1/8 at 34 1/2, in trading largely attributed to strategies focused on the company's dividend.

Pitt Residents Advised To Go Slowly

"My advice," Sprau said, is "for us to go slowly. Evaluate what goes on and make a decision based on that."

John Runkle of Chapel Hill, general counsel for the Conservation Council of North Carolina, told the meeting that there are "300 licensing steps," all allowing for "public input," required before a low-level radioactive waste site or hazardous waste treatment facility can be located.

Runkle said solid waste landfills, such as the Pitt County landfill, handles "household garbage," while a "comprehensive hazardous waste treatment facility" handles "those things that are hazardous ... toxic, infectious, explosive, flammable ...

"It's a lot better to treat them than to dump them on the side of the road or in rivers."

Runkle said there are "400 regulations" that have to be met. "Before a licensing decision, you'll have a chance to determine just whether the facility is as safe as can be or too great a risk."

"There are five volumes of regulations," involved in obtaining a permit for a low-level radioactive waste disposal site, Runkle said.

With the Edgecombe proposal, Runkle said, the area needs to "look at the cumulative impact ... the combined impact," created by having the three proposed waste sites in one area.

"Your concerns are real. Don't let anybody discount that," he said.

"You've got to know the difference between solid waste, hazardous waste and radioactive waste. Find out what's going on. Ask the questions that need to be asked," Runkle urged.

Pitt County Commissioners Monday adopted a resolution asking state officials to give ample time for a fact-finding commission to study the proposal before acting on any invitation by Edgecombe County.

At a workshop meeting Wednesday the board asked officials of East Carolina University's Regional Development Institute to submit a proposal to form a task force of experts to study the impact such a waste park would have on the region.

Legislators To Convene In Short Session

joining in July, Warren said, and legislators would have to find money from additional sources, or raise taxes, in order to spend more than the available $400 million. "We haven't talked about tax increases, and I'm not going to support that," he said.

Projections show Martin's request is about $100 million higher than what will be available, Taft said, and Taft said he was disappointed with Martin's proposals. "I was disappointed, particularly, that he didn't ask for any more than he did for the university system, the community colleges and mental health."

Martin recommended $30 million for the 16-campus University of North Carolina system and the Board of Governors has requested about $60 million, Taft said. It will be the legislators' job to look at Martin's requests and evaluate each one, he said.

About 65 percent of the state's budget goes toward education, Warren said, and C.D. Spangler, president of the UNC system, is focussing on repairs and upkeep at every school in the system.

"One of the real goals for East Carolina is the $3.4 million to renovate Memorial Gymnasium and the $211,000 for street and sidewalk improvement around campus," Taft said.

"Ed Warren and I have as a goal, also, planning funds for Joyner Library expansion, to position us for major funding in 1989," Taft said. "And we also have as a goal the next step in funding a regional activities center for Greenville and eastern North Carolina."

Warren said he is requesting money for land acquisition at ECU. "I'll be requesting that each year for the university," he said, "because we're one of the few schools that is still growing."

The statewide nursing shortage is also affecting Pitt County and eastern North Carolina, Warren said, and he will introduce a plan during the short session to address the problem immediately, and to provide long-term solutions. "That is going to be a priority," he said.

Martin's proposal also recommends spending $24 million to help hire adult school bus drivers. The final amount may change, but school systems across the state must hire adult drivers to comply with a federal order, and more money is needed to provide attractive salaries.

The Pitt County school system operates about 200 buses, and it will need to hire between 75 and 100 adult drivers before school begins next fall, according to Barry Gaskins, public information officer for the county schools.

During the short session, state lawmakers may also address the issue of whether or not to give themselves a raise. A study commission has recommended a raise of 111 percent, but the proposal will be sent

Scores 30 In 123-101 Victory

Scott Paces Lakers By Mavs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Earlier in his career, Byron Scott was regarded by some critics as the weak link in the Los Angeles Lakers' lineup.

But Scott, in his fifth NBA season, has improved continuously and quietly has become the Lakers' leading scorer.

Wednesday night, Scott scored 30 points on 11-of-17 shooting to lead the Lakers to a 123-101 victory over Dallas and a 2-0 lead in the Western Conference finals.

The best-of-seven series now shifts to Dallas for games Friday and Sunday.

"My confidence level was high in the regular season and during the playoffs, it's skyrocketing. I felt so loose for this game," said Scott, who seemed plagued by self-doubt earlier in his career, particularly after he had some lackluster playoff games.

Scott, a 6-foot-4 shooting guard who's often overlooked in the shadow of point guard Magic Johnson, is the Lakers' leading scorer both in the regular season and the playoffs so far this year.

He has bolstered his game by becoming effective on drives to the basket.

He was hitting consistently from outside and on drives against the Mavericks in Game 2.

"Over the whole year, defenders have been playing me for the drive," he said. "The way I've been shooting the ball, they have to defend that, too."

"Now I can either drive or shoot it. They have to defend both. I have created more problems (for opponents)."

Scott's scoring is a problem Dallas coach John MacLeod would rather not have to deal with.

"He's another weapon for them," MacLeod said. "He's been having an All-Star season. He's been on fire, playing really well, since training camp."

"He's going to remember this year when he's old and retired. It's a banner year for him."

Said Lakers coach Pat Riley: "Byron had a career year last season, and he's playing even better this year."

"Byron is a young player and if he keeps improving, he's going to be the best off (shooting) guard in the league, if he isn't already. Of course, that's not counting Michael Jordan. He, like Earvin (Magic Johnson), is in a special class."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers' 41-year-old center, had 19 points and seven rebounds in the victory over Dallas.

James Worthy added 16 points and Johnson had 15 points and 19 assists.

Mark Aguirre led Dallas with 28 points. Sam Perkins had 16 and Rolando Blackman had 14.

The Lakers led 59-48 at halftime and stayed comfortably ahead in the second half.

Riley, saying the Mavericks' Reunion Arena is a tough place for visiting teams, tried to put the series in perspective.

"It's academic and trivial to say, but all we've done is win two games. Two years ago we won the first two here and they won two back there and the series went six games."

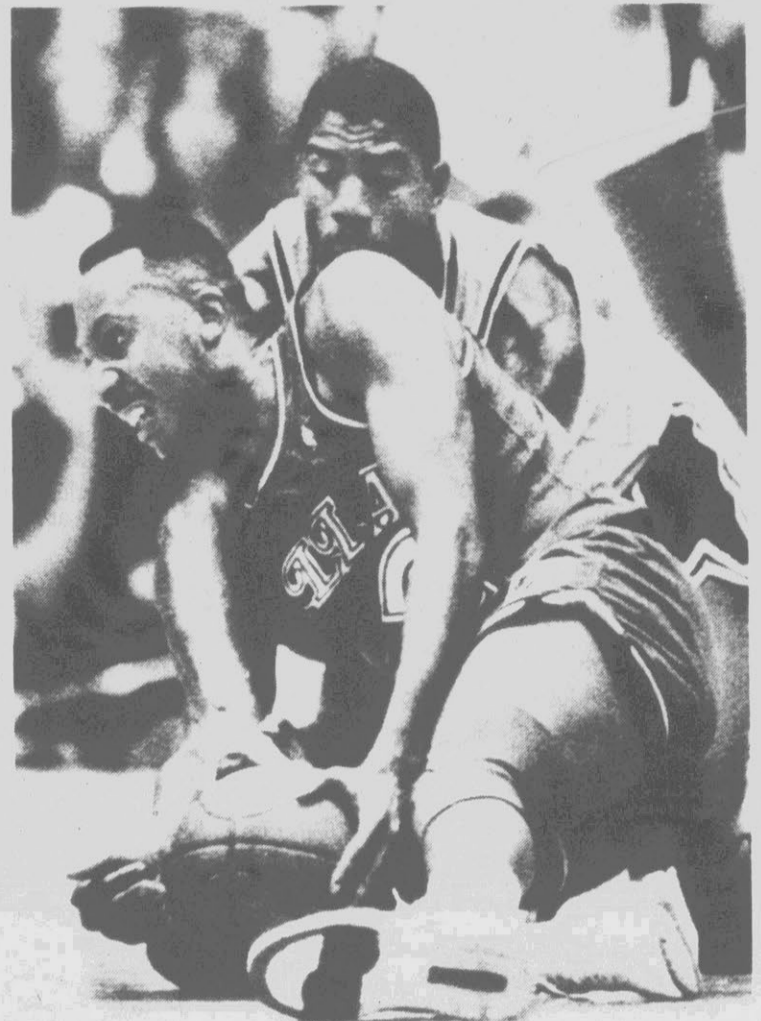

"Our goal is to get one win (in Dallas), I don't care which game, and come back here and wrap it up in five games."

MacLeod said he was still confident that the Mavericks have a chance, adding, "We're going to have to react better to what they're doing defensively, and we're going to have to get back faster on defense ourselves."

The Laker players, meanwhile, said the Mavericks may be hard to beat at home.

"They are an explosive ball club and we've got to be ready," Worthy said. They will feel more motivated being at home with their crowd.

"We aren't thinking about a sweep," the Lakers' Johnson said. "We're just thinking about Friday night. We have to take care of business."

Thomas Sparks Pistons To Win

BOSTON (AP) — There were 5½ years of failure, 5½ years in which the Detroit Pistons lost every one of their 21 games in Boston Garden.

But rarely, if ever, in those 21 games did Isiah Thomas get hot and score 35 points at the same time that the Celtics went cold and forgot the entire point of their offense.

Boston, at its best when it plays patiently and works the ball inside, hurried shots from the outside in the second half Wednesday night. Thomas hit shots from all over and led Detroit to a 104-96 victory in the opener of the NBA's Eastern Conference finals.

Having seized the homecourt advantage from the Celtics in the best-of-seven series, the Pistons can gain a huge edge by winning tonight's second game at the Garden. The third and fourth games are scheduled for their Pontiac Silverdome home on Saturday and Monday afternoons.

"In the playoffs, you don't really think about the (Celtics' home) winning streak," Detroit guard Vinnie Johnson said after the Pistons' first Garden victory since Dec. 19, 1982. "You just want to win the game. Now that the streak is over, it's great, but I'm more excited about winning the game."

"It's real frustrating starting the series like this," said Boston's Larry Bird, who had 20 points. "You want to win and get the first one under your belt."

The Celtics, who led the NBA with a 52.1 shooting percentage during the regular season, made only 41.8 percent of their shots for the game and 35.6 percent in the second half.

"On offense, we self-destruct sometimes," said Kevin McHale, who led Boston with 31 points on 13-for-17 shooting. "We had a stretch of about four times in a row in the fourth quarter where we didn't get a single good shot."

Detroit had trouble guarding the 6-foot-10 McHale, but the Celtics rarely got the ball to him in the second half. He had 22 points with nine minutes left in the third quarter but took just four shots after that.

"We showed no patience on offense once we got the lead," Celtics' coach K.C. Jones said. "We were coming down quick and firing it up."

Boston led 70-64 with 3:21 left in the third quarter but didn't get another field goal in the period. An 11-3 Pistons' run put them ahead 75-73 heading into the final period.

They extended the lead to 26-12 and grabbed a 90-82 advantage on Thomas' 3-pointer with 5:32 to play. Thomas had 14 points in the spurt and the closest Boston came after that was 92-89 with 2:58 remaining.

He made 8 of 11 shots in the second half, including both his 3-point attempts, and had 15 points in the fourth quarter.

"He's a leader. He likes to have the ball with the game on the line," Johnson said. "He made some big shots. He quarterbacked the team."

"He made some big, big shots over big people and played with great determination," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said.

Thomas, who also had 12 assists, took charge after Detroit center Bill Laimbeer left the game with a bruised right shoulder with 7:02 left in the third quarter. He didn't return.

Although an examination revealed no fracture, the Pistons said it was doubtful he would play tonight. Laimbeer said the injury occurred when he was boxing out Boston guard Danny Ainge "and the ball squirted loose and I had my arm caught and it pulled my shoulder back."

"With Laimbeer out and (forward Adrian) Dantley in foul trouble, I knew the offense would come back to me," Thomas said.

The Celtics did play well in certain aspects of the game. They held a 10-7 advantage in offensive rebounds, committed just eight turnovers and had five steals and five blocks. But they still couldn't win.

Daly said they may have been tired from an intense seven-game conference semifinal against Atlanta that ended Sunday. Detroit has been idle since eliminating Chicago in five games May 18.

Without playing an outstanding game, Detroit beat a team seeking its fifth straight berth in the championship series.

"We weren't as sharp as we've been in the playoffs. I think the layoff may have hurt us a little bit," Thomas said. "We didn't handle the ball well on our fastbreak."

For the sixth time in its last seven playoff games, Detroit held an opponent under 100 points.

"Our defense was as good as it has been in the playoffs," Daly said.

Detroit led 30-28 after one quarter but trailed 53-52 at halftime. McHale made three of the Celtics' four baskets in an 8-2 run that gave them their biggest lead of the game, 61-54.

Despite the Celtics' problems after that, Detroit is taking a cautious approach.

"It feels good, but we have to keep it all in perspective," Thomas said. "It's just one game. It's not the first to win one. It's the first to win four."

Jordan Adds To Accolades

CHICAGO (AP) — While Michael Jordan wasn't around for the applause when he was named the NBA's Most Valuable Player, no one could doubt his presence during the regular season.

They had only to watch his high-flying magic on the court and look at the figures — a 35 point average, 259 steals, and 131 blocked shots for the Chicago Bulls.

Jordan was named the league's Defensive Player of the Year earlier this month, and on Wednesday he captured the MVP award with 47 of a possible 80 first-place votes from a media panel.

"He had a year that very few people — if any — in the history of basketball have ever had at both ends of the court," said Jerry Krause, the Bulls' vice president for operations. "I've been in the league 21 years, and I can't remember anyone ever having a total all-around year like he had."

Jordan, only the fourth guard to win the MVP in the award's 22-year history, was golfing in the Carolinas and couldn't even be reached by his own team to be congratulated, Krause said.

But Jordan had made the MVP award one of his goals at the start of the season.

"I want to win, I want to have fun, and I want to entertain people," he said earlier. "I think I've done that. I'm illustrating more all-around skills this season."

"Last year Michael had to take five shots a game to beat the shot clock, and he's not doing that this season," Bulls coach Doug Collins said. "He's taking better shots and making the team better."

Former teammate Sidney Green, now a New York Knick, said he noticed a difference in Jordan this year.

"He is much more mature now — his court awareness and his shot selection," Green said. "The guys he played with, he respects the roles they are playing."

Jordan said that in some ways, he played better last year when he became only the second player to score 3,000 points in the season. This year, he wound up with 173 fewer points but 108 more assists, 19 more rebounds, 23 more steals and six more blocked shots.

"Individually, I played much better last year than this year," he said.

"I can't say why awards would come now. Maybe it's because we won more games this year. I had more explosive games last year, but better all-around games this year. And I played better defense this year."

Jordan led the Bulls to a 50-32 record and second place in the Central Division of the Eastern Conference. His season high was 59 points against Detroit on April 3.

He scored 50 and 55 points in the first two games of the NBA playoffs against Cleveland, becoming the first player in league history to score 50 or more points in consecutive playoff games.

The Bulls defeated the Cavaliers in the first round but were eliminated by the Pistons in the second round.

Jordan not only put points on the board. He also helped put people in the seats. The Bulls set a Chicago Stadium attendance record by averaging 18,060 fans, generating about $10 million in ticket revenue.

Jordan amasses 665 points in the MVP voting, followed by Boston's Larry Bird, a three-time MVP with 527 points and 16 first-place votes.

Allison Grabs Coca-Cola Pole

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

CONCORD (AP) — Davey Allison has made himself feel right at home at Charlotte Motor Speedway — both on and off the track.

Allison drove his Ford to a one-lap speed of 173.594 mph Wednesday, good enough for the pole position for Sunday's running of the $750,000 Coca-Cola 600, NASCAR's longest race. After his day was done, he joined his mother and father in their condominium, perched above the grandstands in the first turn.

"They haven't had a big crowd this time, so we kind of filled in the gap," Allison said.

Staying together gave father and son had a chance to talk about their qualifying runs. Bobby Allison, who won the 1984 Coca-Cola 600, is in the fourth position after a one-lap mark of 171.674 mph.

"He got the pole here last year, so it was (my) turn," the younger Allison said.

Allison, among the last 10 cars to qualify for Sunday's race, was about a half-mile per hour slower than the qualifying lap turned in by Darrell Waltrip last week when he took the pole for The Winston.

Allison earned $38,300, and he gained a lot of satisfaction at what he calls his home away from home.

"We wanted to come over here and sit on the pole," Allison said. "We did it at Talladega, now we've done it here at our second home track."

One problem that drivers encountered was gusty winds that pushed some cars off course and made them difficult to handle at times during the qualifying.

"Into the first turn, I noticed several of the guys were running right on the apron and moved up half a lane. I didn't notice it in my car," Allison said. "With all the wind, there were some pretty good times turned."

To the outside of Allison was Geoff Bodine, who drove his Chevrolet to an average speed of 172.524 mph.

"The car is running real good right now," Bodine said. "The team worked hard and it wasn't a bad run."

Previous qualifying sessions at the Coca-Cola 600 were based on the average speed for four laps. Starting this year, the fastest of two laps determines starting position.

On the second row are Terry Labonte and Bobby Allison. Labonte, fourth in the point standings, turned in a best lap of 171.717 mph in his Chevrolet. Allison drove his Buick to a speed of 171.674 mph.

On row three are Darrell Waltrip in a Chevrolet and Bill Elliott in a Ford. Waltrip, who came off the track during his qualifying run because of oil which had collected on the track surface, reached 171.537 mph. Elliott, third in the points race, pushed the Ford to an average of 171.369 mph.

Points leader Dale Earnhardt and Mark Martin are on row four. Earnhardt drove his Chevrolet to a one-lap mark of 171.157 mph and Martin came in at 171.124 mph in a Ford.

Rounding out the top 10 are Alan Kulwicki in a Ford and Rick Wilson in an Oldsmobile. Kulwicki came in at 170.940 mph and Wilson recorded a fast lap of 170.924 mph.

In the second 10 are Rusty Wallace,

Phil Parsons, Kyle Petty, Brett Bodine, Lake Speed, Morgan Shepherd, Jim Sauter, Benny Parsons, Ken Schrader and Sterling Marlin.

Qualifying continues today for positions 21 through 40.

The top 20 qualifiers Wednesday for Sunday's $750,000 Coca-Cola 600 Winston Cup race at Charlotte Motor Speedway, with driver, hometown, make of car and average speed. Positions 21 through 40 will be determined in time trials on Thursday.

1. Davey Allison, Hueytown, Ala., Ford, 173.594 mph.
2. Geoff Bodine, Chemung, N.Y., Chevrolet, 172.524.

NL Hitters Are Weary Of Leary

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The National League is starting to become a bit leery of Tim Leary.

Leary, troubled by a sore arm for most of his career, pitched a one-hitter Wednesday night and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0.

A line-drive single by Darren Daulton leading off the third inning was the only blemish in Leary's third shutout this season. Leary, 4-3, extended his scoreless-inning streak to 19 and lowered his ERA to 2.45.

"I went to spring training not sure where I'd end up pitching," Leary said. "I had to open the Dodgers' eyes."

He did that again in pitching the Dodgers back into first place in the National League West, four percentage points ahead of Houston.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh defeated Houston 4-3, New York beat San Francisco 6-3, St. Louis trimmed Cincinnati 6-0, Atlanta edged Chicago 2-1 and Montreal topped San Diego 6-2.

Mike Scioscia and Jeff Hamilton hit two-run homers, the first of the season for each, to support Leary.

Leary pitched his first career one-hitter and his fifth shutout in the majors.

"It was just one of those things. They hit everything at us," Leary said.

Dodgers Tom Lasorda was more complimentary, as usual.

"We didn't play very well behind him. He could be right up there with the big winners," Lasorda said. "He has pitched extremely well."

Leary's main trouble came in the first inning. He cut the middle finger on his pitching hand on a pebble while facing leadoff batter Milt Thompson, and called the trainer to the mound.

"It was bleeding a little," Leary said. "They put some goopy stuff on it and closed the scratch. It didn't bother me after that."

Phillies manager Lee Elia was bothered by his team's hitting, and lack of it.

"I'd be embarrassed if I went out there every night and had my bats broken," Elia said. "We keep getting jammed and striking out. You'd think they'd have enough belly to correct it."

"We got beat by a guy with one pitch, a fastball. All night long again, no offense," Elia said.

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt went 0-for-3 and is hitless in his last 18 at-bats.

Scioscia homered in the fourth and Hamilton connected in the seventh against David Palmer, 0-4.

Mets 6, Giants 3

Gary Carter and Kevin Reynolds each drove in two runs as New York beat San Francisco for the first time in five games this season.

Ron Darling, 5-3, gave up three runs in 7 1-3 innings and Randy Myers got the last two outs for his seventh save.

McReynolds, in a 1-for-19 slump, hit a two-run single and Carter followed with a sacrifice fly in the first inning against Mike LaCoss, 3-4.

LaCoss hit a two-run double and Kevin Mitchell homered for the visiting Giants.

Braves 2, Cubs 1

Gerald Perry singled home the tiebreaking run with two outs in the eighth inning as Atlanta won in Chicago.

The Braves took two of three at Wrigley Field and won their first series under new Manager Russ Nixon.

Reliever Rick Mahler, 5-4, won his fifth straight decision despite allowing Ryne Sandberg's tying single in the eighth. Bruce Sutter got his sixth save.

Cardinals 6, Reds 0
Larry McWilliams pitched a two-hitter and Tom Brunansky had a two-run homer, leading host St. Louis over Cincinnati.

McWilliams, 3-0, struck out eight for his first shutout since Aug. 1, 1984, and first complete game since June 16, 1985. It was his fifth career two-hitter and lowered his ERA to 1.46, second-best in the NL.

Mario Soto, 3-3, took the loss. Brunansky homered in the fifth, giving him 29 RBI in 30 games with the Cardinals.

Pirates 4, Astros 3

Bobby Bonilla and Darnell Coles hit consecutive homers and Jose Lind's single broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning as Pittsburgh beat visiting Houston.

With two outs, pinch hitters Sid Bream and Barry Bonds walked before Lind singled off Joaquin Andujar, 0-2.

Mike Dunne, 3-2, gave up five hits in seven innings. Jeff Robinson closed for his fifth save.

Bonilla and Coles homered in the fourth. Bonilla tied for the NL home run lead with 11 and RBI lead with 37. Coles hit his second homer and first since opening day.

Expos 6, Padres 2

Dennis Martinez ended his four-game losing streak with his first victory since April 24 as Montreal defeated San Diego.

Tom Foley hit a pair of RBI doubles and Tim Wallach had two hits, drove in two runs and scored twice.

Martinez, 4-6, gave up eight hits in his second complete game. Ed Whitson, 3-4, allowed five runs on eight hits in five innings for the visiting Padres.

Joyner Is Awarded The Newton Award

From Staff Reports

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's Tyrone Joyner was presented the Dickie Newton Memorial Award as the school's outstanding athlete Wednesday night at the annual sports banquet.

Mike Steele, head basketball coach at East Carolina University was the speaker for the affair.

Three athletes were given two awards each. Susie Stancil was named the most valuable player in volleyball and in softball; Kim Harrison was named most valuable in girls' basketball and in girls' track, while Gary Moore received the most valuable back award in football and the team before self award in boys' basketball.

Senior plaques were presented to 33 athletes.

The boys' track awards were not presented at the banquet since the team is still participating in the state meet. Those awards will be presented at a later date.

Andretti Developing Ideas To Overcome Penske Three

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti, unhappy with his second-round starting position for Sunday's Indianapolis 500, is trying to figure out a strategy that will even things up against the three Penske team cars on the front row.

Rick Mears, Danny Sullivan and defending champion Al Unser — who have seven Indy victories among them — will start ahead of Andretti, the 1969 Indy winner. Mears occupies the pole position after a record 219.198 mph average for his 10-mile qualification run.

"All three of those guys have track records to prove their worth," Andretti said Wednesday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. "These are all skillful individuals that have won a lot of races and know how to win races. All you have to do is look at their record. That speaks for itself. These are capable guys."

"It concerns me because all three cars are very good," he said. "I'd love to be clear of those and I'm not, so I'm going to have to deal with them and see how the race unfolds, how the start unfolds and take it from there."

"We'll see how quick Al wants to run, how quick Sullivan wants to run and I'm sure Mears will want to run quick right from the onset."

The rules require drivers to start the race with the tires used in qualifying and Andretti said that creates a problem for him in his 23rd Indy start.

"I don't have a particularly good set of tires because my staggers just went off in qualifying very badly, and I'm stuck with that," he said. "We're trying to survive that first stint before we come in for a change, and there's going to be considerable change after our first stop."

Andretti, 48, has suffered a series of frustrations in bids to duplicate the Indy victory he recorded 19 years ago.

He doesn't know when the first pit stop will come, but he's hoping for the best — and maybe a little luck.

"If I'm not leading, I'm going to just wait and see what the leaders do, because arbitrarily it's pretty tough to duck in the pits and then have the entire field ahead of you," he said. "To be caught in the back of the pack is no fun."

Andretti and the Penske entries have taken different routes in preparing for the race since qualifying on May 14, the first of four days of time trials.

"Mears, for one, has done very little running after qualifying, which I think is uncharacteristic. So, obviously, they're pretty confident," Andretti said.

On the other hand, Andretti and Sullivan both have spent considerable time practicing on the 2 1/2-mile oval since qualifications ended.

Andretti placed his Chevrolet-powered Lola on the second row after qualifying with a disappointing 214.692 after recording several laps at over 220 in practice.

"We knew (this year) we could go quick under overcast skies, no question about that," he said. "I couldn't keep my front end in as soon as the sun came out. I think we sort of came to grips with that about Friday before qualifying and we chose not to really do anything about it. We should have. We probably should have aborted the run. But all those things are behind us."

That led Andretti to spend more time than usual on the track during the final week of practice.

"We had to do what we had to do. I felt I didn't have as versatile a setup as he (Mears) did, as far as going fast," Andretti said. "After running Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (of last week) with the actual race car, which I don't like to do ... I've been stung on that score before, but we did it and I think we've made our car better."

Andretti and the 32 other drivers in the $4 million race have been experimenting with various race day setups on their cars in practice after they qualified.

"We just played around and played around quite a bit and I think we have a couple of different setups like we did last year. It looks like it's going to be hot, how sunny I don't know. I think that's going to determine what we finally do. We may make a last ditch change like we did last year just Sunday morning before we put it on the line," Andretti said.

Andretti was on the pole here last year when he led 170 laps before mechanical problems knocked him out of the race. He managed to finish 180 laps, placing ninth.

Andretti and the other drivers will have one last chance to test their cars on the asphalt oval during the traditional two-hour "carburetion" practice session today.

N. Korea Has Hopes

GENEVA (AP) — North Korea said Thursday that it still hopes to co-host the 1988 Summer Olympics with South Korea and that it has spent billions of dollars building facilities in Pyongyang, its capital, for the Games.

"Even now we are making an effort to co-host the Olympic Games" which begin Sept. 17 in Seoul, Ri Cheul, the North Korean ambassador to Geneva, told a press conference.

For example, he said, North Korea still wants to hold bilateral talks with South Korea on sharing the Games.

Conley, Williamston Again Delayed

D.H. Conley and Williamston were again rained out of first round state baseball playoff action Wednesday.

The Vikings, in the 3A field, will now host Southern Nash tonight at 7:30 p.m. while Williamston will travel to Charles B. Aycock in the 2A tournament, for a 7 p.m. game.

Rose High School, which entertains Wilmington Hoggard in the 4A ranks, will play its game at 4 p.m. today at Guy Smith Stadium.

The winners will advance to second round games, to be played on Friday.

Farmville Netters Are Eliminated

DURHAM — The Farmville Central duo of Al Hedgepeth and Chris Wade were knocked out in the first round of the 1A/2A state tennis tournament, which got under way Wednesday at Duke University.

Hedgepeth and Wade were defeated by Ben Cooke and David Urmston of Mount Airy, the tournament's fifth seed, losing 6-3, 6-1.

The two were the only area players to qualify for the state tournament.

Perry To Speak At North Pitt Banquet

North Pitt High School will hold its annual Sports Banquet on Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Former major league baseball player and Cy Young winner Gaylord Perry, now baseball coach at Limestone College, will be the featured speaker.

Awards will be presented to the top athletes in each of the sports sponsored by the school.

Tickets are $5 per person and are available at North Pitt in advance of the banquet.

Thompson Named To ACC Position

GREENSBORO (AP) — David V. Thompson has been appointed to the newly created position of assistant commissioner for compliance for the Atlantic Coast Conference, conference commissioner Gene Corrigan announced Wednesday.

Thompson has been an enforcement and compliance representative on the NCAA staff in Mission, Kan. for the past five years. He will assume his new duties at the ACC headquarters July 1, Corrigan said.

"We are delighted to have a person with David's qualifications and background on our staff," Corrigan said. "He comes to us highly recommended."

"His job will be to assist and serve our institutions throughout the interpretation, review and follow-up phases necessary to comply with the NCAA and ACC Constitution and By-Laws."

Thompson, 30, joined the NCAA staff in February 1983 and served as an enforcement representative until February 1986, when he was made a compliance representative. He held that position until accepting the ACC post.

"I feel that the past five years as a NCAA staff member have prepared me for the challenge of this newly-created position with the ACC," Thompson said.

Thompson received a Master of Science degree in physical education from the University of Idaho in 1983.

Caudill Captures Bull Frog 150

CONCORD (AP) — Larry Caudill avoided a wreck that eliminated his teammate with 10 laps left and drove his Pontiac to a three-second victory Wednesday in the Bull Frog 150 NASCAR race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway.

The victory was Caudill's third in the Charlotte-Daytona Dash series this season.

Pole-sitter Andy Belmont and Gary Finley, who started ninth, were involved in a multiple-car collision in the fourth turn on lap 52. Belmont, who was leading the field when the accident occurred, was transported to Cabarrus Memorial Hospital in Concord for treatment of a leg injury.

Finley was treated at the Charlotte Motor Speedway for abrasions and released.

"I saw the smoke in my mirror and I knew it was Andy," Caudill said of his teammate on the Douglas & Sons Trucking team. "We were side by side when he started spinning. Then I checked the mirror and saw the smoke."

"But we're race drivers first and teammates second," Caudill said. "And after Andy wrecked, there was nothing to it."

Ken Auman finished second, his best in the series, despite engine trouble. Tim Bender was third, followed by Kevin Brookshire and Ritchie Petty, nephew of Richard Petty.

"I survived. Just out there to finish, more than anything," said Petty, running his first super-speedway event. "I had to back out of it a lot of times and let the more experienced ones go on. I played my game and let them do theirs. I learned a lot. I know that."

Iowa-North Carolina Set For TV Game

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The University of Iowa has added a nationally televised game at North Carolina to its 1988-89 basketball schedule, assistant coach Rudy Washington confirmed Wednesday.

Washington said the game will be played Jan. 7 at Chapel Hill, N.C., and will be televised by the CBS network.

Iowa and North Carolina have never met in basketball. North Carolina was 27-7 this past season, losing to Arizona in the NCAA West Regional championship game. Arizona eliminated Iowa in the regional semifinals. The Hawkeyes were 24-10.

Sun Belt Tourney Set For Charlotte

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — North Carolina-Charlotte will host the 1989 Sun Belt Conference men's basketball tournament at its new 23,000-seat coliseum, the conference announced Wednesday.

Faculty and athletic directors from the eight-university league voted at their spring meeting here to award the seven-game tournament to the school for the first time since 1980, said league spokesman John Iamarino. The tournament will be held March 4-6.

School representatives awarded the women's tournament to Western Kentucky in Bowling Green for a six-game tournament March 9-11, he said.

The conference also includes Alabama at Birmingham, Jacksonville, Old Dominion in Norfolk, Va., South Alabama in Mobile, South Florida in Tampa and Virginia Commonwealth in Richmond.

Martinez Defeats McNeil

PARIS (AP) — Conchita Martinez, a 16-year-old from Spain, ousted ninth-seeded Lori McNeil of the United States 1-6, 6-3, 6-1 at the French Open on Thursday.

Martinez played crisp shots from the baseline and took advantage of McNeil's errors to advance to the fourth round. Ranked just 279th in the world, Martinez had to play in a qualifying tournament last week to gain entry to the Open.

"I played really well in the first set," McNeil said. "Maybe I was winning too easily. I couldn't keep my concentration, other things were coming into my mind. I started backing off the ball and playing defensively."

Serving to stave off defeat in the seventh game of the last set, McNeil sent Martinez chasing balls back and forth across the backcourt, but she ran them all down and slammed a backhand passing shot to reach match point.

McNeil, 24, charged forward aggressively after her next serve, but dinked a forehand half-volley into the net to end the match.

Ranked 10th in the world, McNeil beat Chris Evert in last year's U.S. Open quarterfinals, but has had less success on slower clay courts.

On Wednesday, Yannick Noah delighted a packed hometown crowd at center court with slides in the dirt, big serve and scrambling recoveries in a 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6 defeat of Brazilian Luiz Mattar.

"We're here to give a show," Noah said. "You can act like a brat, you can act like the ice-cold man. You've got to act. There's no other way. You can't just be yourself."

Top-ranked Steffi Graf led most of the well-known women players through easy matches Wednesday that offered few thrills and only a few spills.

All surviving women's seeds played their second-round matches Wednesday, and five were moving immediately into the third round today: Graf, No. 4 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, No. 5 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, No. 9 Lori McNeil of Houston and No. 14 Sandra Cecchini of Italy.

But the tournament also saw its first major upsets Wednesday. The casualties included both No. 8 seeds — Hana Mandlikova of Australia and American Tim Mayotte — along with the 12th-seeded woman, Italy's Raffaella Reggi, and the No. 13 man, Andres Gomez of Ecuador.

Graf, sneezing from a cold during the match, had no problem beating Ronnie Reis of Miami 6-0, 6-1. But she became annoyed when she was told second-ranked Martina Navratilova still considered herself the top player in world tennis.

"She can say what she wants, and I say what I want," Graf said. "She better watch out; that's all I can say."

Navratilova had an even easier match. She was up 6-0, 1-0, 40-15 when her opponent, Hellas Ter Reit of the Netherlands, became ill on center court and defaulted.

Chris Evert, the No. 3 seed, disposed of Barbara Romano of Italy 7-5, 6-2. Sabatini beat Karen Schimper of South Africa 6-3, 6-0. Maleeva whipped Linda Ferrando of Italy 6-0, 6-2, and No. 6 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia defeated Sabina Appelmans of Belgium 6-1, 6-4.

Among the men, No. 2 Stefan Edberg defeated Arnaud Boetich of France 6-0, 6-4, 6-3, while third-seeded Mats Wilander beat Francisco Yunis of Argentina 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Andre Agassi, the ninth seed from Las Vegas, Nev., cruised past Massimiliano Narducci of Italy 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, and No. 12 Emilio Sanchez of Spain defeated Jim Pugh of Palos Verdes, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

Noah's match was the one that excited the partisan French crowd — especially the youngsters who flock to Stade Roland Garros on Wednesdays when school is only in session in the morning.

"He's one of a kind, there's no doubt about it," Evert said of Noah. "It's because he is such a strong athlete and the way he can jump and hit those overheads. And he has such a nice disposition on the court that you like him."

Even his unlucky opponent Mattar had to agree.

"He has something special," Mattar said of the 1983 French Open champion. "People like to see him play."

Noah said it takes all kinds of showmen to make tennis fun to watch.

"The contrast between two styles of play or two personalities is what makes our sport interesting," he said.

He said he might be able to win more consistently if his game were not tied up so intimately with his performance and his mood.

"When I'm happy, when I've slept well, when I've had a good meal, when everybody's rooting for me, when the sun's shining — then I play great," he said.

"It's a great feeling. When I play, I feel that people like it when I win. Maybe it's because my game is fun to watch. People feel my emotions, they feel closer to me."

Detroit's Robinson Almost Perfect In Win

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Jeff Robinson was so bad he was almost perfect. The Detroit pitcher had a hard time finding the plate, and the Milwaukee Brewers had a harder time finding his pitches.

When the game was over Wednesday night, Detroit had a 4-3 victory and the Brewers had just one hit off Robinson and reliever Guillermo Hernandez, a three-run homer by Greg Brock.

"Robinson was wild," Brewers manager Tom Trebelhorn said. "Wild enough to be very effective until he got too wild."

In the first five innings, Robinson, 5-2, didn't give up a hit.

"I was so concerned at trying to throw strikes, I never had time to think about a no-hitter," Robinson said. "I think I was just wild enough (that) they couldn't sit in one place."

"They didn't know where it was going, and half the time I didn't, either."

In other American League games Wednesday, it was the New York Yankees 4, California 2 in 10 innings; Texas 5, Toronto 1; Minnesota 4, Kansas 2; Cleveland 5, the Chicago White Sox 2; Boston 4, Seattle 0; and Oakland 8, Baltimore 1.

Robinson started the Milwaukee sixth by walking Paul Molitor and B.J. Surhoff. One out later, Brock hit his third home run of the year into the lower deck in left. Robinson then struck out Glenn Braggs, but when he walked Rob Deer, Detroit manager Sparky Anderson called for Hernandez to come in from the bullpen.

"I knew if we were going to win it, he (Hernandez) was going to have to come in and put a stop to it," Anderson said. "He did. He had excellent control and he's throwing the ball hard again."

Hernandez finished up to earn his second save, walking one and striking out one.

"Guillermo's been doing that for the last month," Robinson said. "He's done the job every time they've given him the ball. When the money's on the line, he's done his job."

"He was awesome tonight. I was watching him tonight, and he was just incredible."

The Tigers scored three runs in the third off Juan Nieves, 4-4, then took a 4-0 lead in the fourth. Tom Brookens drove in two of the runs.

Yankees 4, Angels 2

Dave Winfield's 10th-inning home run led New York to its victory and a three-game sweep of California. It was the Angels' fifth straight loss.

Winfield's 10th homer of the season came with one out against DeWayne Bruce, 1-3. The Yankees added another run on Willie Randolph's bases-loaded walk.

Johnny Ray's pinch-home run with one out in the ninth off winner Neil Allen, 1-0, made it 2-2. Joel Skinner had given the Yankees a 2-0 lead in the seventh with a two-run homer, his first.

Red Sox 4, Mariners 0

Roger Clemens held Seattle to just four hits and pitched his fifth shutout of the season as Boston defeated the Mariners 4-0 at the Kingdome.

Spike Owen's third homer of the season, off starter Mark Langston, 4-4, hit the left-field foul pole just above the wall. Wade Boggs walked to lead off the eighth and Dwight Evans followed with his second home run.

Clemens, 7-2, posted his fourth straight complete game and sixth of the season. The major league's strikout leader with 107, Clemens fanned five Seattle batters and walked two. In his career, Clemens has 15 shutouts in his 67 victories.

Indians 5, White Sox 2

Cory Snyder's two run-scoring hits led Cleveland past Chicago. It was the Indians' 12th victory in their last 15 games. The White Sox have lost nine of their last 10.

John Farrell, 5-3, allowed two runs on six hits, while striking out five and walking two for the victory. It was the 18th complete game of the season for Cleveland pitchers, compared to 24 for all of 1987.

Julio Franco singled in the first off John Davis, 1-2, stretching his hitting string to 14 games, the major leagues' longest current streak.

Twins 4, Royals 2

Bert Blyleven beat Kansas City for the 28th time and Dan Gladden tripled, doubled and singled, leading visiting Minnesota to a three-game sweep of the Royals. Blyleven gave up 10 hits in 7 2-3 innings. Jeff Reardon finished for his 10th save.

The Twins won their fourth in a row on the road, one short of the franchise record for consecutive victories on the same trip. The Royals lost their fourth straight game.

Blyleven, 3-4, won his 247th career game, tying him with Joe McGinnity and John Powell for 37th on the all-time list. Mark Gubicza, 5-5, took the loss as the Royals fell at home for the 11th time in 13 games.

Rangers 5, Blue Jays 1

Geno Petralli had three hits and knocked in three runs to lead Texas over Toronto. The victory snapped a three-game Texas losing streak as middle reliever Jeff Russell, making his second straight effective start, gave up six hits over 7 2-3 innings. Dale Mohoric relieved with the bases loaded to halt Toronto's rally and gain his fourth save.

Athletics 8, Orioles 1

Bob Welch allowed three hits in eight innings en route to his seventh consecutive victory as Oakland defeated Baltimore. Welch, 8-2, who got his first AL shutout with a five-hitter at Baltimore on May 14, struck out four and walked none.

Rick Honeycutt pitched the ninth inning, allowing one hit. Mark Williamson, 1-4, was the loser.

Oakland's Dave Parker and Dave Henderson each had two-run homers. Parker, who got off to a slow start in his first season in the AL, has four homers and 13 RBI in the last 12 games.

Pooley And Nicklaus Downplaying Chances

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Don Pooley isn't so worried about defending his Memorial Tournament title as just getting through the first round.

"The question is, can I walk 18 holes?" said Pooley, still battling a nagging case of bacterial pneumonia that has kept him at home for the past five weeks.

The 13th Memorial Tournament started today at the Muirfield Village Golf Club with two of the principal participants — the defending champion and the host — downplaying their chances.

Jack Nicklaus, designer of the 7,104-yard, par-72 Muirfield layout and the Memorial's creator and host, isn't at the top of his game.

"My golf game is fair, at best," said Nicklaus, who has won two previous Memorials. "I haven't been playing much. ... The first 18 holes I had played in some time was on Monday."

The 103-player field includes nine of the top 10 and 18 of the first 20 money-winners on the PGA Tour.

The past two years, the rolling

Muirfield course has been virtually defenseless after wet and windless weather prior to the tournament. Hal Sutton won two years ago with a record score of 17-under-par 271, nine shots better than the previous low. Pooley won a year ago with a 72-hole score of 16-under 272.

Neither Pooley nor Nicklaus expects those kind of numbers this year, after a dry spring and strong winds have left the greens hard and fast.

"Under these conditions, the tournament scores will go up," Nicklaus said. "I don't think you'll see the kind of scores we had the last two years."

Pooley, who finished second in 1986 to Sutton with a 13-under score, said, "With the weather conditions staying the same as they are now, I guess 8-under might win it. But if it rains and the greens get soft, it might take 16-under again."

Pooley spent two weeks in bed after coming down with pneumonia and his doctor says he's still two weeks away from being completely healthy. He hasn't played on the Tour in almost six weeks.

Choosing the best long distance company for your long distance needs is what Equal Access is all about. You decide what's important to you in a long distance company, and then select the company you prefer to handle your long distance business.

Telephone customers in your area will be involved in the Equal Access selection process over the next few months. During this time you may receive telephone calls or sales letters from the long distance companies, asking you to sign up with them now.

Don't be confused by these sales materials. Your official ballot will not be included in any of them. In fact, you will not receive your official ballot from Carolina Telephone until July. You have until then to decide which long distance company best suits your individual needs.

In the meantime, Carolina Telephone will help clear up any confusion by providing information about the long distance selection process in monthly phone bills, with newspaper ads, and at various civic discussions.

You may also receive a free copy of our brochure, "A Complete Guide To Understanding Equal Access" by returning the coupon below. This information will help you make a more informed decision about your long distance service.

CP&L Hearings

RALEIGH (AP) — Two million hours of engineering work had to be redone during construction of the Shearon Harris Nuclear Power Plant, an engineer who audited the construction project testified.

But the engineer, Leo Flaman of Canatom Inc. of Toronto, said that because Carolina Power & Light Co. did not keep track of the causes of such "rework," he had been unable to determine what part resulted from actual engineering errors and what part from changes in regulatory requirements.

Flaman said the 2 million man-hours were equivalent to 250 engineers working four years.

His testimony came Tuesday as a panel of Canatom engineers concluded their testimony before the N.C. Utilities Commission, which is holding hearings on CP&L's request for a 13.9 percent rate increase. The $205 million-a-year increase is being sought by CP&L to recover its final costs in the 900-megawatt Harris plant.

ELECT JAMES DUPREE

COUNTY COMMISSIONER RUN OFF ELECTION SEAT A

Help! I Need You!!

On May 3, you, along with many other citizens of Pitt County, elected me as your County Commissioner for Seat A. However, due to the fact that I did not receive a clear majority of the votes, my runner-up, D.D. Garrett, has called for a run-off on Tuesday, May 31, 1988.

If I am to have the opportunity to serve you as your County Commissioner, I will need your vote and support on May 31. We have won the election. Let's not give it up to my challenger, D.D. Garrett, who has the interest of only a special group at heart.

I have the qualifications, experience, and desire to serve you and all the citizens of Pitt County, regardless of race, creed, or color. Please help me. Vote May 31 and ask your neighbor to vote also.

James H. Dupree

Successful Vets Help Other GIs

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Scott has been through two wars, several jobs and a lot of ups and downs. Now, he said, "I'm 57 and I feel like I'm 27."

Scott is about to graduate from the Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program, which was started by the kind of veterans rarely heard from — well-adjusted, well-off and relatively untroubled by their war experience.

"It's successful vets helping vets who haven't quite made it in the mainstream," said the program's 44-year-old president and co-founder, Gene Gitelson, who led an infantry platoon in Vietnam in 1966 and 1967 as an Army first lieutenant.

Among its founders, board members and staffers are lawyers, investment bankers and executives of every pinstripe. The chairman of the board, Doug Greenlaw, earned a Silver Star in Vietnam and is an executive with MTV.

Gitelson, a former banker and management consultant, started the program six years ago in his apartment.

"We kept each other alive in Vietnam, with this enormous buddy network. And now, 20 years later, we're rebuilding a network and helping each other in an economic war, to get into the mainstream," he said.

Today, in a ceremony at Vietnam Veterans Plaza here, the non-profit group is celebrating its move to a 10,000-square-foot office, courtesy of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., and the donation of $100,000 worth of computer equipment from IBM.

About 750 veterans have been placed in jobs through the program, which is a pilot for similar efforts in other cities, Gitelson said.

Gitelson heads a staff of 24, most of them Vietnam vets and many who have gone through the program. A placement director, for instance, used to be homeless, living behind an elevator shaft in the south Bronx.

"We believe the experience of serving in combat gave people skills, abilities and values that are transferable to the mainstream life," Gitelson said.

The 57-year-old Scott, of Brooklyn, was in the Air Force during the Korean War and an Army platoon sergeant in Vietnam in 1968 and 1969. After 12 years with the New York Army National Guard, he started his own business, a parking garage, but was forced to give it up when the rent went too high.

Welfare and part-time work came next, and then he saw a television ad for the program.

"It was one of the best things I ever did," he said. "They don't give you a job, but they prepare you for a job."

The first stage, called "Basic Training," involves tests of skills, intellect and personality that determine what kind of job the vet is best suited for.

Psychological and medical testing, Gitelson said, have uncovered "brain injuries no one ever treated before." Group discussions, classroom work and counseling lead to instruction in how to prepare resumes and handle job interviews.

Senate Backs Ban On Plastic Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has joined the House in taking aim against plastic guns, whether they be handguns designed to pass through metal detectors or just toys.

By a voice vote, the Senate on Wednesday approved legislation to outlaw the manufacture, sale or possession of handguns made from plastic or other "undetectable" parts that could evade metal detectors.

The measure primarily is directed at terrorists and airplane hijackers, but was amended to include a requirement that all toy guns have orange plugs in their barrels to clearly identify them as toys.

"This bill is designed to prevent a nightmare from becoming reality," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who co-sponsored the legislation with Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

"Its aim is to keep terrorists from getting powerful, undetectable firearms which could be smuggled past security devices at airports, courtrooms and even the White House," Metzenbaum said.

The plastic gun ban is similar to legislation approved by the House, 413-4, earlier this month. Differences between the two bills will have to be ironed out before the gun ban is sent to President Reagan for his signature.

The nation's major law enforcement groups lobbied heavily for the legislation, and worked out the compromise language with Attorney General Edwin Meese III. The National Rifle Association, after initial reluctance, went along with the approach.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, a sponsor of the amendment to clearly identify toy guns, said realistic plastic guns "have been used in the commission of crimes, such as bank robbery, hostage takings and street crime."

Dole also recalled that in one case, "a police officer in California accidentally shot a youth playing with a toy laser gun, after mistaking the toy for a firearm."

An amendment by Metzenbaum added provisions that would make it a crime to possess a firearm in a federal courtroom, increase penalties for possession of explosives in airports and boost penalties for use or possession of explosives in commission of a federal felony.

The Senate legislation would require that all firearms be as detectable as a 3.7-ounce stainless steel handgun. All guns currently manufactured or imported into the United States would have to meet the test.

While the Senate bill sets a detectability standard, the House-passed measure requires that the gun itself contain 3.7 ounces of metal.

Priscilla Says Elvis Really Dead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Priscilla Presley says she's incensed over reports that her ex-husband Elvis Presley is alive and in seclusion.

Such claims by "supposedly reputable journalists," she said, are nonsense and harmful to herself and 20-year-old daughter, Lisa Marie, Elvis' only child.

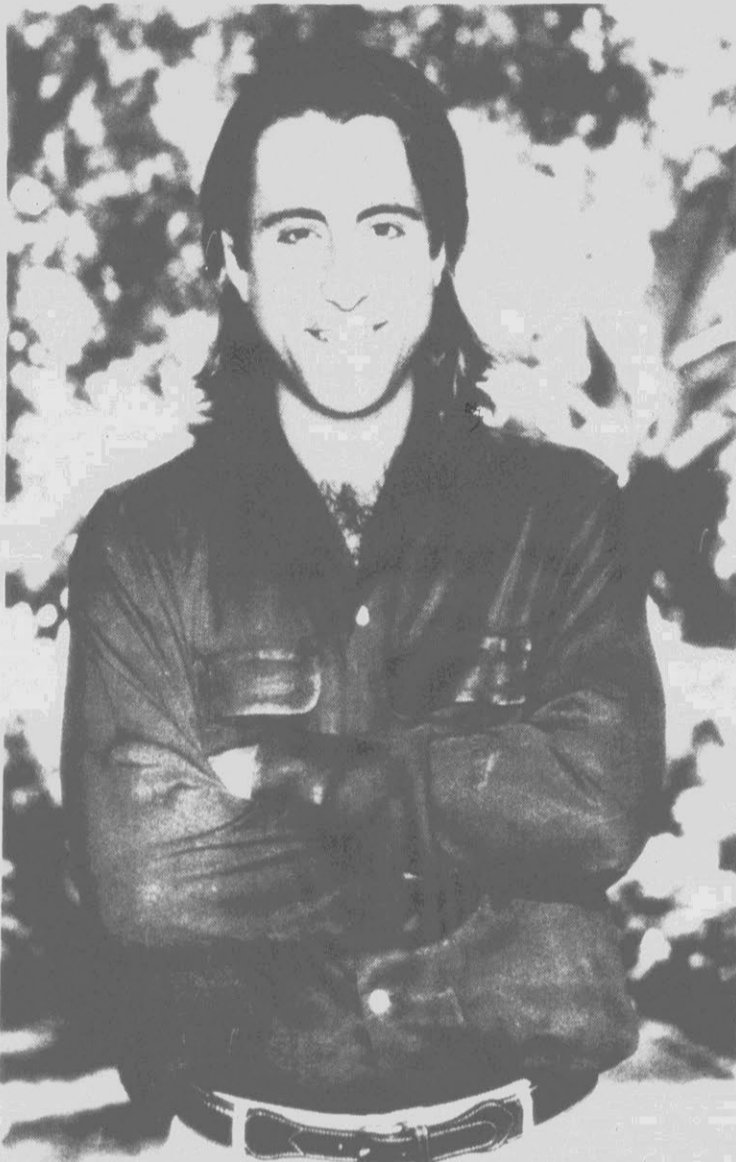

Miss Presley, who was married to Elvis from 1967 to 1972, said Wednesday she was referring to KABC-TV's four-part series called "Is Elvis Alive?"

The report mentioned Atlanta author Gail Giorgio, whose book, "The Most Incredible Elvis Presley Story Ever Told," purports the King of Rock 'n' Roll may still be swinging. Ms. Giorgio claims she has an audio tape of Elvis speaking in 1980.

Presley died in 1977, four years after Priscilla Presley divorced him.

"It infuriates me that certain journalists have decided to exploit Elvis Presley's death merely for the sake of newspaper sales and higher ratings," Miss Presley said.

The Los Angeles station's news director, Terry Crofoot, said, "It isn't KABC's claim that Elvis is alive. It would be ludicrous for us to say that."

FASCINATION — Andy Garcia, who was 5 when his family fled Cuba as political refugees, admits to a fascination with his homeland. "I'm obsessed with it. I've built my own memory of it that's greater than what it was," says the star of HBO's "Clinton and Nadine." (AP Laserphoto)

Refugee Gets Role In Movie On HBO

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cable viewers can catch a couple of hot stars from the big screen in a new HBO movie: Ellen Barkin from "The Big Easy" and Andy Garcia, who went from virtual unknown to star of a box-office smash, "The Untouchables."

In "Clinton and Nadine," Garcia plays a down-on-his-luck smuggler of exotic birds who gets mixed up in a plot to run guns for the Contras. The movie premieres Saturday.

Garcia was born in Cuba, but his family fled as political refugees in 1961 and settled in Miami Beach.

"Clinton and Nadine" was shot on location in Florida.

"I've been here (Los Angeles) for 10 years, but I still like Miami better because of the weather," Garcia said. "It's closer to the Caribbean. The downfall for me (here) is the smog. I like the feeling of tropical weather. I like a tropical night with the breeze off the ocean. The Caribbean is in my blood."

"I was only 5 when I left Cuba, so I'm obsessed with it. I've built my own memory of it that's greater than what it was."

"Clinton and Nadine" also stars 1988 Oscar nominee Morgan Freeman ("Street Smart") as a slick Miami lawyer who is part of the scheme to raise money for the Contras.

Garcia plays Clinton Dillard, a small-time smuggler who is quitting the business when he discovers that his lawyer-brother has been murdered. A key to the murder is a cassette tape, which he finds in a woman's purse. The purse belongs to Nadine Powers, a high-class hooker with a baby and a dream of living an idyllic life in Canada.

The two are quickly swept up and find themselves in Costa Rica — in a lot of trouble.

"The key for me was that Jerry Schatzberg was directing," said Garcia. "He'd directed 'Scarecrow' and 'Panic in Needle Park.' I met him in New York, and when he told me he was talking to Ellen Barkin and Morgan Freeman, that was the icing on the cake."

The Costa Rican scenes were shot on a 30-acre estate in Fort Lauderdale. "It was filled with monkeys and they became quite a sound problem," Garcia said. "Every morning the owners would come out on the balcony and feed them. Some became quite aggressive, and one day they attacked the person I was sitting with."

Garcia also recently co-starred in "Stand and Deliver," a true story about a crusading teacher, played by Edward James Olmos. He said another reason he liked the role of Clinton was the chance to play a non-minority character. Clinton is from Oklahoma.

'St. Elsewhere' Goes Off As Long Fantasy

NEW YORK (AP) — After a boldly existential ending, "St. Elsewhere" exists no more.

The show, which won a dozen Emmy Awards, concluded Wednesday night with a surprise conclusion revealing the entire six years of the critically acclaimed series as the fantasy of an autistic child.

"We've had the ending for a number of years," said Bruce Paltrow, one of the show's executive producers.

"We were looking for the metaphor for all of us to have created this fiction. To place the entire six years into the imagination of boy who could not communicate with the outside world, but had this staggeringly exciting inner life was we thought an excitingly existential end to the series."

When it made its debut six season ago, "St. Elsewhere" was part of a wave of creativity from MTM Productions that revolutionized stodgy network programming in the 1980s.

"St. Elsewhere" followed "Hill Street Blues" onto NBC and was inevitably compared to the earlier show's groundbreaking style, overlapping dialogue and hand-held cameras.

But "St. Elsewhere" went beyond "Hill Street" in social satire. At times serious, at times hilarious, it took on politics, religion, AIDS, heterosexual and homosexual rape, cancer, drug abuse, the afterlife, corporate indifference, its own network and previous shows from MTM. One entire episode revolved around a male patient's insistence that he was Mary Richards from "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

The "St. Elsewhere" writers had wanted to go all out in the final episode, but prohibitive costs kept their script, a futuristic view of St. Eligius at the edge of apocalypse, from being filmed.

In the end, prohibitive costs knocked down not only the intended final episode but the show itself. "St. Elsewhere" was produced at a loss by MTM at a time when hour-long series are not selling well in syndication.

The show will be seen in reruns, but MTM will not release details of its syndication sales.

In an apparently personal, inside joke in the dialogue of the final script, Dr. Wayne Fiscus (Howie Mandel), says of his years at St. Eligius, "Grueling hours, bad food, egomania, death and moral confusion. It'll be hard to leave."

The producers of the show have long since left and are busy on a new series for NBC, "Tattinger's."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY May 27

- ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Civic matters may be confusing today, but don't let this put you in a bad humor. Be optimistic in all your dealings today and tonight.
- TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Your work load has been getting progressively larger and more difficult, but you may soon be provided with some assistance.
- GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You may want to change some conditions at home, but you would be wise to do this slowly. Try to be more considerate of your mate.
- MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Stay around only those persons whose views are progressive and dynamic. This would be a good time to visit your relatives.
- LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Be very cautious about what you say or write today, as a wrong word could get you in hot water. Patronize some good and worthy cause.
- VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You can find a way to improve your income by looking through newspapers or periodicals. Spend some time revising your budget tonight.
- LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Great care in motion of any kind is essential today, as you are unusually prone to accidents. Try to establish more harmony with co-workers.
- SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): An opportunity to profit considerably will be present today, so stay alert. Loafing around will put you in a bad mood, so keep active.
- SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your energy is not being used constructively, and you are losing ground as a result. A new friend can be very inspirational to you.
- CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Listen to what your mate has to say, as this person's ideas may be very profitable right now. Don't waste any time daydreaming.
- AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Group social activities can be very rewarding at this time. Don't take criticism from a friend personally, as it was meant constructively.
- PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): A superior can give you the support you need for a new project, but only if you use tact and diplomacy. Don't take any risks while driving.

 A seventeen-year-old New Yorker, Brad Moss, became one of the youngest players to win a national title when he and his partner, Aaron Silverstein, also of New York, captured the Flight B Grand National Pairs at the Spring North American Championships, held in Buffalo. This hand, from the final session of the event, carried them to the title. The power of the 4-3 fit was vigorously espoused by the late Alphonse "Sonny" Moysie, and has become known as the Moysian fit. North-South were using a 15-17 point range for their one no trump opening bids. North's two clubs was Stayman, looking for a four-card spade suit in his partner's hand, and four no trump was a quantitative no trump raise, not Blackwood. South's five hearts conditionally accepted the slam invitation and showed a concentration of heart honors, and North opted for the suit slam on the known 4-3 fit because of his ruffing value in diamonds. Moss won the opening lead in dummy, cashed the king of hearts and ace of diamonds, then drew a second round of trumps with the ace, to which both defenders followed. After cashing the king of diamonds, declarer ruffed a diamond with dummy's last trump as East discarded a club.

A winning spade finesse put declarer in hand to draw the last two trumps, on which he discarded spades from dummy. East could safely part with a spade on the first round of trumps, but the last trump caused him grievous harm. He knew he could not let go of a club, so he tried a spade. Declarer's three of spades became an overtrick for all the matchpoints.

Black Youth Beaten

White Officers Face Death In S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Two white policemen today were sentenced to hang for the murder of a black youth who was beaten and then shot during a police unit's drunken foray into a black township.

If the executions are carried out, it would be the first time in South Africa that white policemen were hanged for crimes committed while on duty in a black township. Only six whites have been executed for killing blacks.

Key testimony against Warrant Officer Leon de Villiers, 37, and Constable David Goosen, 27, came from other members of their 10-man riot unit who were pressured by police investigators into abandoning a cover-up attempt.

Goosen and de Villiers stood silently while the sentence was issued, but their wives and some of the court personnel broke into tears. The officers were embraced by relatives and fellow policemen before being led away.

Several officers had testified that de Villiers, the unit leader, had ordered Goosen to "take out" 18-year-old Mlungisi Stuurman because the youth had been too badly beaten to be set free. Stuurman was taken to a riverbank and shot in the back of the head on July 26, 1986, in the black section of Cradock, in eastern Cape Province.

The non-jury trial, which began in October, was held at the Supreme Court in Grahamstown, near Cradock.

Justice N.W. Zietsman, who presided over the trial, convicted the two men on Wednesday, saying de Villiers had led his men on a "beating expedition" in which residents were assaulted indiscriminately.

Today, Zietsman said he rejected the mitigation arguments presented by defense lawyers. De Villiers' lawyer said his client was of below-average intelligence and was drunk at the time of the shooting.

Goosen had testified that he was suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder because of repeated exposure to violence in the black townships. He also said he had an unhappy childhood during which he often was taunted because of his dark complexion.

According to testimony during the trial, members of de Villiers' squad drank heavily, conducted a blood-oath ceremony swearing to secrecy, then entered the township at about 3 a.m., assaulting several blacks.

Following another bout of drinking at their base, the squad returned to the township after daybreak.

Stuurman, who was wearing a T-shirt bearing the slogan "Forward To People's Power," was chased and grabbed by officers when he tried to walk away from them, then was assaulted, several officers testified.

The officers said de Villiers ordered that Stuurman should be "taken out" because of the severity of his injuries.

The defendants contended that the shooting was an accident. De Villiers said he did not report the incident immediately because he was still under the influence of alcohol.

Soviets Relax Business Rule

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet legislature today adopted a law giving more freedom to private business cooperatives after an unusual open debate on tax rates and bureaucratic rules.

The Supreme Soviet normally only approves laws put forward by the ruling Communist Party. A debate over provisions of a law may reflect a greater willingness and ability to speak out under leader Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev's policy of openness.

The new law, a key element in Gorbachev's economic reform program, sets tax rates for cooperatives while giving them broader business opportunities. It also ensures that their property may not be seized.

After lively debate, the Supreme Soviet amended it to allow local authorities to confer preferential tax treatment because of high demand for certain products or services. Another change called for a new decree on taxes to allow variable rates, also based on the particular product or service.

The law was to have been voted on at a joint meeting of the Supreme Soviet, the nominal parliament, on Wednesday. But officials at the meeting said 22 parliamentarians spoke about the law in meetings of the separate chambers Wednesday morning and that it was delayed while a commission looked at the amendments.

Soviet Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov said in a speech to the opening session of the Supreme Soviet on Tuesday that the law was of "immense social and political significance."

He said the cooperative system "in a short time can solve the most severe problems of perestroika, the demand of the population for goods and services." Perestroika is the name for Gorbachev's program of social and economic reform.

A cooperative in the Soviet Union is an association of people who own a business to provide goods or services. Each person involved in the cooperative owns a part of it.

The arrangement is permissible under Marxist theory, which teaches that workers are exploited if they work for anyone other than the state or themselves.

Transplant Doctor Checks Marcos

HONOLULU (AP) — A transplant specialist examined Ferdinand Marcos two days before the former Philippine president entered a hospital complaining of chest pains, a TV station reported.

Dr. Livingston Wong, chief of St. Francis Medical Center's transplant team, and two unidentified doctors — a cardiologist and a kidney specialist from the Philippines — saw Marcos on Sunday at his home here, KHON said Wednesday.

The station gave no sources for the report.

Wong refused to comment on the report. Marcos spokesman Gemmo Trinidad said he knew nothing about the reported visit.

Marcos, 70, remained in guarded condition Wednesday night in the intensive care unit at the medical center, Trinidad said. Earlier in the day, Marcos' physician, Dr. Derek Pang, ruled out the possibility of a heart attack, Trinidad said.

Hello... Brown Wood? I'm interested in buying several trucks for my company but...I don't want a large monthly payment. I've shopped around and looked at used trucks, but I want a new truck for the price of a used one—think you could help me out? You can! Great!

$146<sup>82</sup>* a month I can get a brand new 1988 Isuzu truck and that includes a new truck warranty? Why, that's the same monthly payment as a used truck would be. I'm sold! My company needs three of them. Thanks, Brown Wood.

*Selling price $6,888.00 plus tax $137.06, $600 cash down, 60 monthly payments. Includes 2.3 litre engine, 5 speed, bumper and mirrors.

Defense Ministers Check NATO Costs

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — NATO defense ministers opened a two-day meeting today and planned to review how the allies share common defense costs and ways they can improve the alliance through arms cooperation.

On Wednesday, the alliance's European defense chiefs complained that some of the recent U.S. criticism about their contributions to the alliance was unjustified.

In a report, the ministers detailed their contributions to NATO, countering U.S. congressional criticism that Europe fails to pull its weight in the alliance.

Today, they had a chance to voice those concerns directly to Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci.

"Europe is taking a fair share of the burdens in the alliance," Dutch Defense Minister Wim van Eekelen, chairman of the meeting of the European ministers, said later.

The debate over who pays what in NATO stems from congressional efforts to curb U.S. defense spending.

Van Eekelen said the financial "burden-sharing" issue will be raised at the meeting of all defense ministers.

The Europeans' report said that of NATO's standing forces, Europe provides 90 percent of the troops and artillery, 80 percent of the tanks and combat planes and 65 percent of NATO warships.

It said 3.5 million European men and women are on active duty and 3.5 million are in reserve. By comparison, the United States has 2.3 million active duty troops and 1.5 million reservists, the report said.

At the full NATO meeting, the ministers are expected to formally ask Italy to accept the basing of 72

U.S. F-16 fighter jets that Spain is forcing off its territory.

The key problem is how the cost of transferring the planes and 4,000 soldiers and their dependents to Italy will be shared in NATO, van Eekelen said. The cost of the transfer has been estimated at $500 million.

Van Eekelen said in regard to U.S. congressional complaints that Europe is not paying its fair share in NATO:

"It's one of the perceptions that have grown steadily, but it is not entirely warranted. It is important that the true extent of the European contribution to the alliance be properly understood."

The Reagan administration has taken a less confrontational approach to the burden-sharing question than the congress and has said Europe does more for NATO than is generally believed.

In their report, NATO's European members agreed all allies must do more for NATO, in part by better managing their budgets.

They said they recognize "a stronger European defense effort is necessary in order to maintain the effectiveness of the alliance's deterrent strategy and to satisfy legitimate American concerns over burden sharing."

The United States spent 6.7 percent of its gross national product on defense in 1987 against an average of 3.3 percent for the European allies.

The Europeans argue the spending comparisons ignore unquantifiable burdens for them, such as environmental damage from allied maneuvers and loss of income from real estate dedicated to military bases and other defense facilities.

Israeli Jets, 'Copters Hit Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships attacked Shiite Moslem guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon today, hours after rocketing Palestinian positions near Sidon, police said.

Smoke billowed from the hills overlooking the southern villages of Lowaizeh and Mleekh as jets and gunships struck in three bombing, rocketing and strafing sorties starting at 8 a.m.

The Israeli army confirmed the new raid in a brief communique that said Israeli planes attacked targets southwest of Lowaizeh. The pilots reported accurate hits and returned safely to base.

Police in Sidon said they had no immediate report of casualties from the two villages about 15 miles north of the Israeli border.

On Wednesday, the two neighboring villages and the village of Soujoud were attacked by Israeli-allied militiamen in a ground assault mounted behind an Israeli army artillery barrage.

Israeli news reports today said 40 guerrillas of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah were killed and about 30 wounded in those raids.

Hezbollah said 25 of its fighters were killed, 17 wounded and 20 were missing. Hezbollah's rival, the pro-Syrian Shiite Moslem Amal militia, said three of its guerrillas were killed and 10 wounded.

An Israeli army spokesman said five militiamen from the South Lebanon Army were wounded, one of them seriously.

Israeli forces reported no casualties.

Today's strike was Israel's 11th air raid on Lebanon this year. Fifty-two people were killed and 81 wounded in the previous 10 strikes since Jan. 3.

Four Israeli helicopter gunships struck at Palestinian guerrillas on Sidon's outskirts late Wednesday, killing two guerrillas and wounding four.

Police said a cluster of cement shacks belonging to Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat's mainstream Fatah faction took the brunt of the latest raid. Four shacks and three vehicles were destroyed.

The target was about 200 yards from Fatah's "cubs school" at the teeming Ein el-Hilweh refugee camp, where dozens of young guerrilla trainees were asleep. The "school" was not hit, police said.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said today that the day-long sweep Wednesday was part of an Israeli policy "aimed at preventing the establishment and entrenchment of terrorist bases" used to launch attacks on Israel.

Lowaizeh, Mleekh and Soujoud were described as strongholds of Hezbollah.

Israeli radio reports said dozens of guerrillas fled north from the area and that many villagers spent the night in nearby fields.

According to the Israeli news reports, Wednesday's sweep involved about 600 South Lebanon Army fighters using 45 tanks and armored personnel carriers.

Israeli troops assisted with heavy artillery fire and rocket attacks from helicopter gunships, the reports said.

Hezbollah and Amal, Arabic for hope, are locked in a 3-week-old battle for control of Beirut's southern slums, where most of the 18 foreign hostages in Lebanon are believed held.

Today, Hezbollah and Amal gunners duelled sporadically with mortars, howitzers and tank cannons on the 21st day of fighting for the slums, a 16-square-mile warren of narrow alleyways and cement-block shanties.

Police said they had no new casualty report. Their toll for the previous 20 days of fighting stood at 296 killed and 1,000 wounded.

Contras Preparing New Peace Proposal

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The rebels are preparing a new peace proposal designed to bring democratic changes to Nicaragua and end their 6 1/2-year-old war with the leftist Sandinistas.

Negotiators for both sides were set to resume their third round of high-level talks today in Managua, the Nicaraguan capital.

Alfredo Cesar, chief of the rebel delegation, told reporters late Wednesday, "We have come here to present a comprehensive proposal to the government for a global solution to the war."

The rebels, he said, were prepared to make a "special effort to achieve a definitive cease-fire."

But, he said, "I'm not optimistic because the government has not complied" with a preliminary peace plan worked out March 23 in Sapoa, a small village on the Costa Rican border.

The rebel delegation arrived Wednesday evening, ending a dispute over where the talks would be held.

The U.S.-backed rebels, also known as Contras, had initially refused to return to Managua, the site of two previous sessions. They complained the government restricted their access to opposition political leaders.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO GREENVILLE UTILITIES' WATER SYSTEM CUSTOMERS

The United States Congress amended the Safe Drinking Water Act in 1986. One requirement of this Act is that all people using public water systems should be notified of the potential for exposure to lead through the water distribution system and the plumbing in individual homes. All public water systems are required to make this notification even if there is no evidence of lead contamination and the drinking water complies with the standards established by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Water supplied by Greenville Utilities has no detectable levels of lead, and no lead materials are currently being used in the Greenville Utilities Commission (GUC) owned and maintained water distribution system.

GUC maintains a continuous corrosion control program, which includes pH adjustment and the addition of a corrosion inhibitor to minimize corrosion of plumbing materials (including lead) which may be present in customer-owned plumbing.

Where Does Lead Come From?

Lead accumulates in the body from three potential sources. The major source is food, followed by air and drinking water.

Lead has been a common component of the materials used in the construction of water distribution systems and household plumbing throughout the centuries. While water supply systems do not currently use lead joints and services, some older parts of existing systems, including ours, may contain lead.

Lead is commonly found in the soldered joints and the plumbing fixtures of older as well as modern homes and buildings. All water, even that which has been treated to reduce corrosiveness, can have traces of lead caused by the gradual breakdown of lead materials used in plumbing systems.

What Are the Health Effects of Lead?

EPA sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a maximum permissible concentration of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). 0.050 ppm is a little less than 1/100 of an ounce per 1,000 gallons. Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this allowable concentration significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

What Can You do About Lead?

The American Water Works Association recommends that the cold water tap run for a sufficient amount of time to clear standing water from the line prior to using it for consumption (approximately two to three minutes). This should be done in the morning or after the system has not been in use for several hours.

Since hot water dissolves lead more quickly than cold water, use water from the cold water tap for drinking and cooking purposes, and especially for making baby formula.

When making any repairs or additions to the drinking water lines always insist that "lead-free" solder be used.

What is GUC Doing About Lead?

All public water supplies in the United States are monitored for lead and other potential contaminants to insure that Maximum Contaminant Levels established by the EPA are not exceeded. These required laboratory analyses have consistently shown no detectable lead contamination in GUC water. In addition, most water suppliers, including GUC, treat the water prior to distribution to reduce corrosiveness which might cause lead to dissolve. The North Carolina building code also now requires that "lead-free" solder be used in drinking water plumbing.
