School Board Denies West New Term

By Charles Hoskinson
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

A divided Pitt County Board of Education is beginning its search for a new school superintendent after denying incumbent Edwin L. West Jr. a two-year renewal of his contract.

By a 7-5 vote Monday night, the board defeated a last-ditch attempt by West's supporters to appease opponents by cutting his salary 10 percent after discussing the matter for 45 minutes in executive session.

Chairman George E. Williams and board members Elbert T. Buck Jr., Jack M. Collins Jr., Frank Grooms, Leonard D. Lilley Jr., Nicholas A. Patrone and Mary L. Williams voted against renewing West's contract.

Board members Anne M. McGaughey, Walter E. Morehead, Mark W. Owens Jr., Howard W. Parker Jr. and Donovan Phillips voted in favor of the contract renewal.

West's supporters appeared shocked and angry by the board's move. Owens angrily voiced his objection to discussing the matter in executive session, and also voted against a motion by Grooms to begin a nationwide search for a new superintendent. Some principals and school administrators at the meeting openly expressed their disappointment.

West would not comment about the board's action. After the meeting, he disappeared into his office with Owens and McGaughey.

West's term will expire June 30. Under state law, the board has until April 30 to consider candidates and select a replacement.

The issue of West's contract has divided the board. Several board members accused him of a dictatorial management style that hurt faculty morale. They also said his $95,000-a-year salary, one of the highest in the state, is too high.

"We need a healthy environment for learning to take place, and I don't think his management style dictated it," Ms. Williams said after the meeting Monday night.

West's supporters point to his accomplishments as superintendent, including steering the county school system through a merger with the Greenville city schools in 1986. They say he is worth every penny he is paid.

"I personally feel we've got an excellent superintendent," Owens said in an interview. When asked if he'd hire West again if he had the chance, Owens replied, "Yes, sir, I would — without a decrease in salary." Owens was chairman of the county school board that hired West as superintendent in 1982.

The manner in which the board considered renewing West's contract raised questions about possible violations of the Open Meetings Law. Sources close to the board told The Daily Reflector that a majority of board members were prepared to deny West a contract renewal after a closed meeting Sept. 11. The board reached a tentative consensus on the issue at that meeting, the sources said.

The board members had their minds made up when they came into Monday's meeting, Ms. Williams said. She said Chairman Williams took an informal poll at the Sept. 11 meeting, and the board had reached Hugo Roars Toward U.S.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Hurricane Hugo spun toward the Bahamas today after scouring Puerto Rico with 125 mph winds, leaving more than 50,000 people homeless throughout the eastern Caribbean. An official reported at least 25 dead.

Hugo hit northeastern Puerto Rico and then skirted its populous northern coast on Monday. It roared on to the northwest and toward open water, its hurricane-force winds missing the Dominican Republic.

At 9 a.m. EDT today, the hurricane's center was near latitude 21.8 degrees north and longitude 68.1 west, about 195 miles east of Grand Turk Island in the southern Bahamas, according to the National Weather Service. Winds fell to 105 mph.

Forecasters said it likely would hit the U.S. mainland later in the week but said it was too early to predict where. Cruise ships steamed out of the way, residents prepared along the North Carolina coast and Florida residents jammed the phone lines of insurance companies for financial protection.

At least 25 people in the Caribbean died from the storm, said Cizanette Rivera, a spokeswoman for the Civil Defense in Puerto Rico. She said only three of those victims were from Puerto Rico and dismissed an earlier National Weather Service statement that said 25 had died on the U.S. commonwealth.

Ms. Rivera said two people died about 15 miles east of San Juan. She

Board Clarifies Planning Stance

AYDEN — County officials told a group of property owners — who were asking the Board of Commissioners for help at a meeting at the Town Hall here Monday — that their concerns about being taken into Greenville's extraterritorial jurisdiction area may have been solved by a meeting with city officials last Friday.

But just in case, the county board adopted a resolution asking the city to take no action to include the area in the ETJ area unless sewer service is provided the residents or unless the city limits of Greenville are extended to a point that the property would be within one mile of the city limits.

J.D. Lawrence, armed with a petition signed by 129 residents of an area south of Secondary Road 1711, who said he was speaking on behalf of the land owners, told Pitt commissioners that inclusion of the area in the city's ETJ would hamper development.

Lawrence, a member of the county's planning board, said the problem arose when Greenville was given planning jurisdiction of the area in connection with the establishment of a planning boundary between Greenville and Winterville in November 1988.

Commissioner Kenneth Dews agreed.

Saying he had looked into the problem, Dews said "since 1978 the city

Fishing Boats Hit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

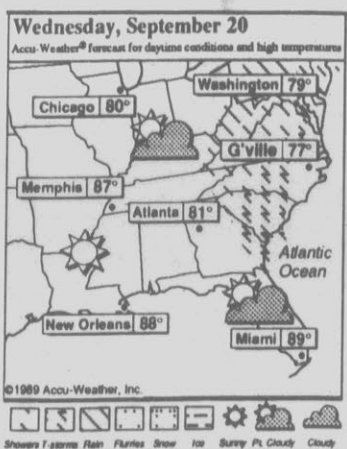

SAN DIEGO — Two fishing boats with 37 people aboard collided in the dark early today and one vessel sank in the Pacific, the Coast Guard said. Two crewmen were reported injured.

Two other fishing boats picked up all but four or five of the victims from lifeboats about 20 miles south of San Diego, said Petty Officer Charles Cowan. The others remained on board the vessel still afloat.

The 50-foot Temptress, carrying 29 people, collided with the 65-foot Aztec, with eight people aboard, shortly before 3 a.m., said Petty Officer Steven Dickerson.

The San Diego-based Temptress sank. The Aztec, also based in San Diego, was to be towed back to port. "About four or five crew members are still on board the Aztec and are trying to control the flooding on board," Cowan said.

Burroughs Wellcome Reduces Price Of AZT

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. — Activists hailed a drug manufacturer's decision to lower the cost of the anti-AIDS drug AZT, but said the drug is still too expensive.

"This is a step in the right direction, but a very small step," said Peter Staley of the New York-based group AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power. "It's not enough."

Burroughs Wellcome Co. announced Monday that it would lower the wholesale cost of the only federally approved AIDS treatment, citing production efficiencies and research that suggests that more patients could benefit from the drug which could in turn increase the numbers using AZT.

AZT is produced at Burroughs Wellcome's plant in Greenville.

"The expected growth in patient population, coupled with recent production economies, will reduce somewhat our financial risk and will remove some of the uncertainties which existed when this drug was first introduced," said T.E. Haigler Jr., president and chief executive officer of Burroughs Wellcome Co. in a prepared statement.

The company said, however, it couldn't guarantee that the full savings would be passed on to consumers, who have been paying $7,000 to $8,000 per year for full doses of the drug.

The reduction, effective immediately, reduces the price to the wholesale distributor from $1.50 to $1.20 per capsule.

Dr. David Barry, vice president of research, development and medical affairs for Burroughs Wellcome, said on "CBS This Morning" today

Vatican Says Nuns Should Leave Auschwitz Convent

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican said today that a Roman Catholic convent of Carmelite nuns near the Auschwitz death camp in Poland should be moved to another site, as Jewish groups have sought.

Breaking its silence on an issue that has severely strained Jewish-Catholic relations, the Vatican said it would help to pay for a prayer center in which the nuns would live.

A February 1987 accord between Jewish and Roman Catholic representatives stipulated that the nuns would be moved to the prayer center from a convent just outside Auschwitz. Jews have objected to their presence at a site where 2.5 million Jews were murdered by the Nazis during World War II.

However, the Polish primate, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, has called for renegotiating the agreement and said the Polish church did not have the money to build a new home for the nuns.

The agreement, signed in Geneva, called for the nuns to have been moved by Feb. 22, but the deadline passed and the nuns remained.

The archbishop of Krakow, Cardinal Franciszek Macharski, said last month that the church was abrogating the agreement since it could not be fulfilled in an atmosphere of aggressive demands.

The Vatican's Commission for Religious Relations with Judaism said in a communique today that it was pleased with a declaration from Poland's bishops earlier this month that Roman Catholics and Jewish groups should resume talks on building a prayer center in which the nuns would live.

"The Holy See is convinced that such a center would contribute in an important way to development of good relations between Christians and Jews," the communique said.

The Rev. Pier Francesco Fumagalli, secretary of the commission, told reporters he expected the Geneva declaration would be honored. But he added "I can't foresee what will happen in Poland."

He said the questions of exactly where, when and how the prayer center would be built were being left to Polish church officials.

Asked whether the pope had approved the communique, a Vatican spokesman, the Rev. Giovanni D'Ercole, noted the statement had been published in the official Vatican bulletin — implying papal acceptance.

Contract Approved For 3 Waste Sites

AYDEN — County Commissioners awarded a contract for paving three solid waste container sites, approved adding additional parking spaces at the farmers market and allocated money to buy concrete for a waste paper storage area at the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center during a meeting at the town hall here Monday.

Pitt commissioners awarded the contract for paving work at the Shelmerdine, Pactolus, Grimesland and Bells Fork solid waste container sites to Greenville Paving for a low bid of $32,097, then earmarked $2,500 for stone to add 32 new parking spaces at the Pitt County Farmers Market on the County Home Road near Bells Fork.

The board also allocated $1,000 to buy cement for a new concrete pad at the ECVC after County Engineer Phil Dickerson said the pad would enhance the county's recycling program by preventing recyclable paper from becoming contaminated with dirt and rocks when it is unloaded.

Commissioners, who adopted a resolution recognizing rescue squad members in conjunction with Emergency Medical Services Week in North Carolina, appointed Russell D. Adams and Moses Moye to the planning board and named Leroy Smith to the Pitt Community College board of trustees.

The board Monday also authorized a selection committee to talk further with two engineering firms — Hazen & Sawyer and Camp, Dresser & McKee — who were chosen by the Solid Waste Task force as the top choices to do a solid waste master plan for the county.

Two men check through destruction of a San Juan store left windowless after Hurricane Hugo struck Puerto Rico gave no details. Another man in Puerto Rico died Sunday before the brunt of the storm.

Hugo's Death Toll Exceeds 25 In Islands

She gave no breakdown on where the other reported victims had died, but scattered fatalities were reported throughout the heavily visited tourist islands of the eastern Caribbean.

Hugo left a trail of smashed homes, power failures and injuries in Guadeloupe, Montserrat, Antiqua and the Virgin Islands since Sunday, and widespread looting by machete-wielding mobs was reported on the island of St. Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Cleanup efforts were under way today throughout Puerto Rico. Gov. Rafael Hernandez-Colon said at least 27,900 people were left homeless and asked President Bush to declare it a disaster area.

Hugo's winds overturned cars, peeled roofs off houses and office buildings and sent chunks of concrete plunging into streets in San Juan, where one-third of the U.S. commonwealth's 3.3 million people live.

The winds ripped out glass, walls and furnishings from the top four floors of a 25-story building in the Santurce section, leaving only beams remaining.

Fifty airplanes were reported destroyed at the airport in Isla Verde. Looters stripped shops of their goods in San Juan.

Officials were working to restore power, which was cut to 75 percent of the island.

Police cars with flashing lights patrolled San Juan streets early today, and guards protected governing party headquarters and other major buildings. Major streets were cleared, but secondary streets remained clogged with power lines, tree limbs, sheets of metal and shattered glass.

Flooding made many roads impassable and international communications were disrupted.

In the northeast town of Luquillo, 10 homes were swept downriver and six families were reported missing, the weather service office in Kansas City said, quoting its San Juan office.

Civil Defense officials reported 80 percent of the homes on the Puerto Rican island of Culebra were either destroyed or damaged.

Coast Guard Capt. Paul Blaney said that the eye of the hurricane passed over the island of Vieques, off southeastern Puerto Rico. Concrete structures appeared to be intact although there was substantial damage to wooden buildings, Blaney said. He reported no fatalities among Vieques' 7,500 residents.

In San Juan harbor, 30 to 40 pleasure craft were either sunk or washed aground, Blaney said.

In Hawaii, Secretary of the Interior Manuel Lujan said $500,000 in emergency assistance funds were released to aid storm-stricken areas of Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

The weather service said maximum sustained winds had slowed to near 105 mph with hurricane-force winds extending up to 60 miles from the center. It was moving to the northwest at 13 mph and was expected to continue in that direction during the next 24 hours.

Hurricane warnings were in effect for the southern Bahamas, including the Turks and Caicos islands.

"Unfortunately, our best (hurricane computer projection) models indicate that it will turn back" towards the west — and the East Coast, said Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla.

Since Sunday, the storm has caused widespread damage in Guadeloupe, Antigua, St. Kitts, Montserrat and the U.S. and British Virgin Islands.

Six people were killed and hundreds of buildings were flattened on the British island of Montserrat, the British government said today. It said nearly all of the 12,000 island residents were homeless.

Britain reported the Royal Navy marines landed on Montserrat to help clear the airport runway so planes could deliver aid supplies.

Five people were reported killed, 80 injured and more than 10,000 homeless on the French island of Guadeloupe. Two were killed in Antigua.

In Paris, the French Defense Ministry assigned 3,000 soldiers, two military transport aircraft and four cargo vessels to assist in restoring communications and emergency services to Guadeloupe.

Most of the Virgin Islands' 106,000 residents live on St. Thomas and St. Croix, where a ham radio operator said winds had torn off the roofs of up to 75 percent of the homes.

In a boutique on the ground floor of the two-story building housing The Associated Press bureau in San Juan, young looters defied winds hitting 100 mph at the peak of the storm and carried out armloads of women's clothing.

Hugo is the fourth hurricane of the Atlantic hurricane season and is the most powerful hurricane to hit the region since Hurricane David in 1979.

Tropical Storm Iris rose in the wake of Hugo and forecasters advised residents of the battered Leeward Islands to keep a close watch on the new storm. They said Iris, with 50 mph winds, was about 300 miles east of the Leeward Islands Monday night and was moving north-northwest at about 18 mph.

Area Workshop Focuses On Recycling

"Grassroots Recycling" was being talked about in a workshop being held at the Hilton Inn today.

Pitt County Commissioner Eugene James was to welcome city and county elected and staff officials from throughout eastern North Carolina to the meeting.

A national overview was to be given by Chaz Miller of the National Recycling Coalition this morning. Also this morning, legislative initiatives were to be presented by Jim Blackburn of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners and Ellis Hankins, N.C. League of Municipalities. State government initiatives were to be discussed by Al Ebron of the Energy Division of the N.C. Department of Commerce and Terry Dover of the Solid Waste Branch of the N.C. Department of Human Resources.

Representatives of the Keep North Carolina Clean and Beautiful organization were to talk at 11:15 a.m.

Presentations this afternoon were to deal with local responsibilities and opportunities. Among those on the program were Phil Dickerson, Pitt County engineer, and representatives of the Durham curbside recycling program.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

Keep It Clean

No Compromise On Water Quality

Greenville Utilities Commission officials believe they have found a way to prolong the life of its water treatment facilities and thus postpone a $5 million expansion.

That's great — so long as we maintain our unique water quality and recognize that the expansion still will have to be financed.

Earlier projections called for water plant expansion by 1992 or later, some nine years after it was opened with a capacity of 12 million gallons. Now Greenville Utilities officials believe they could be allowed to operate at higher filtration rates thus delaying the expansion.

The Utilities will embark on a year's testing program to determine if the plant can operate at rates up to 6 gallons per minute per square foot of filter. If the tests are successful the state Division of Environmental Health could allow the increased rates.

'Go for the increased plant efficiency, but keep our water supply as pure as it now is ...'

In increasing the filtration rates Greenville Utilities should demonstrate that it can continue to meet all water quality requirements.

That is essential to increased water production. Greenville has a good public water supply whose quality should always be protected. One of the criteria for a community's quality of life is a safe, abundant supply of water.

And, of course, we should always remember that even if plant expansion is delayed, a growing city will dictate that the project must eventually be undertaken. With extra time we can better plan for financing to avoid heavy expenses to the customers in the future.

Go for the increased plant efficiency, but keep our water supply as pure as it now is, and plan for financing plant expansion whenever it becomes necessary.

The End

A Blend Of Faith & Healing

One of the most unique extensions of TV evangelism has apparently ended.

Evangelist Oral Roberts has announced that his medical school and hospital in Tulsa, Okla. will be closed due to lack of funds.

The hospital is $25 million in debt and it will close by the end of this year. The medical school will close next year.

Roberts shocked both religious and educational leaders a decade ago when he announced his ambitious plans to undertake the development of a medical school along with Oral Roberts University. Long known as a faith healer, he nevertheless had no quarrel with medical doctors and, in fact, acknowledged their role in the healing process.

The belief was that the faithful would come to Tulsa and the City of Faith hospital for treatment when it opened in 1981. A first rate physical facility, the hospital was designed for a 777-bed capacity. It was only approved for 294 beds, however, and reached a high average occupancy of only 148 in 1984.

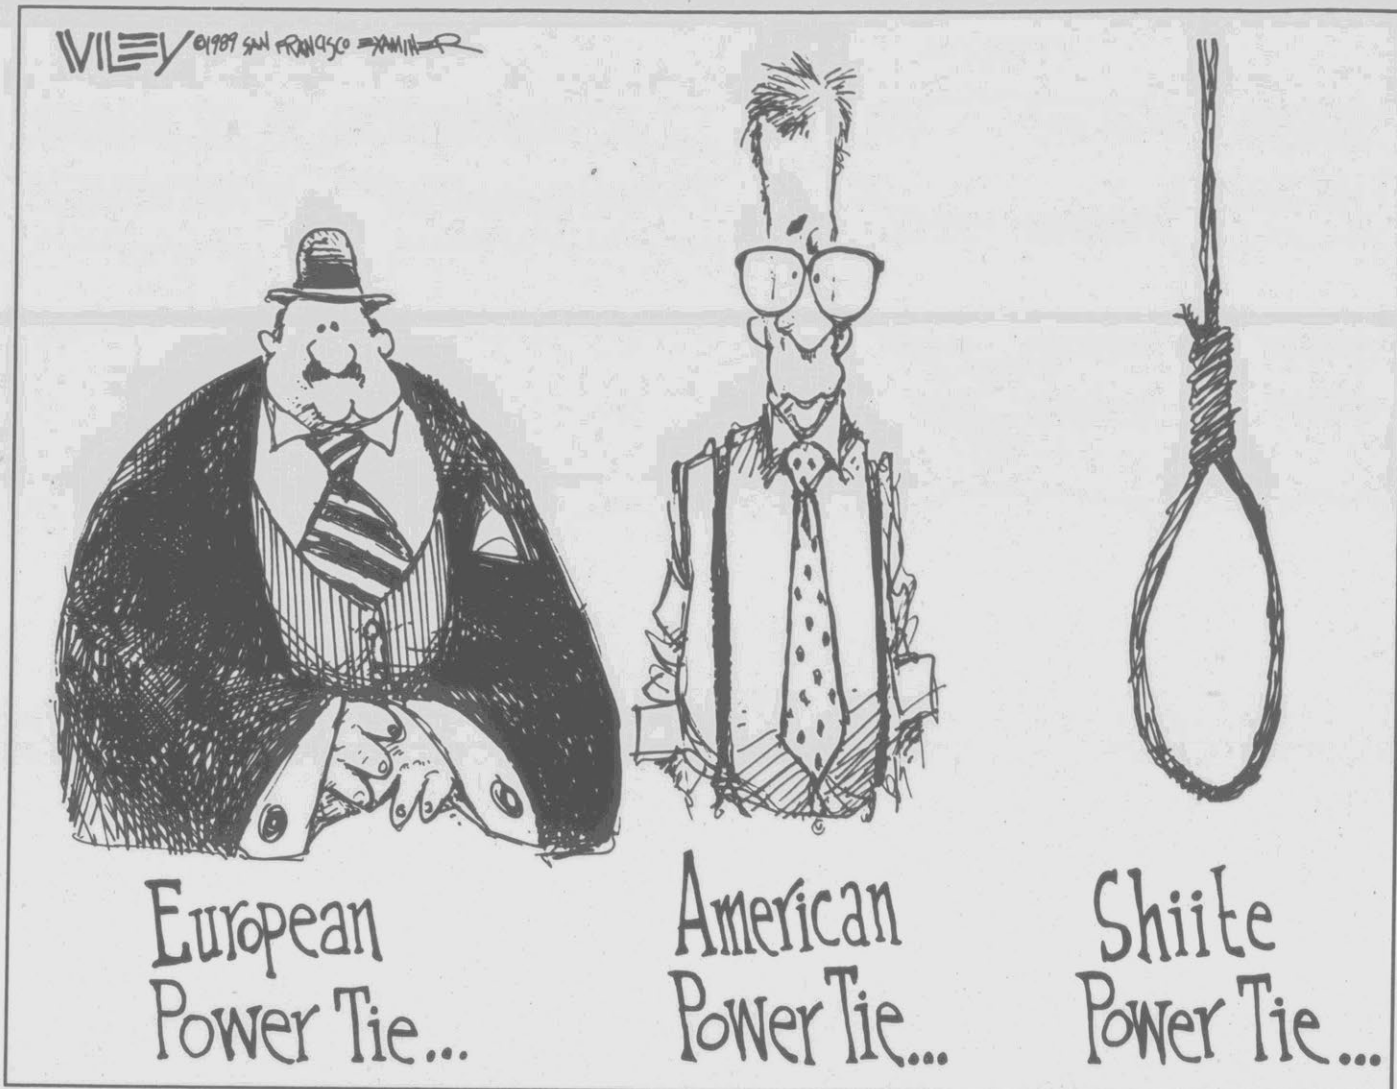

Such a situation was certain to call for red ink. In addition, the TV evangelists' scandals of recent years were said to have cut into the contributions to Oral Roberts.

The concept that people would come to the City of Faith for treatment didn't materialize perhaps because most people who are ill enough to be hospitalized want to be nearer home with family and friends.

The final result will be that a bizarre foray into the field of medical education will soon come to an end.

There is room for understanding in this venture. If the medical school and hospital were not soundly grounded in preliminary planning, it is remarkable how far it went on faith alone.

And to anyone familiar with the enormous cost of building and operating a hospital and medical school, it is clear where a large part of the contributions to this particular ministry were going. If faith cannot always move mountains, Oral Roberts has demonstrated in this case that it can carry us a long way.

The High Cost Of Trash

Paul O'Connor

RALEIGH — Take a look at the trash in your household baskets. In the near future, every North Carolina family will probably pay considerably more than currently to toss it away.

That's the message that came out of a conference on solid waste management and landfills earlier this month. Tipping fees at landfills will have to rise dramatically to cover new costs, speakers said.

J. Gordon Layton, chief of the state's solid waste section, listed a number of factors that will drive up the costs of putting trash in landfills.

•Capacity. Many of the state's landfills are almost full. One-third of them need to be replaced within five years. When that time comes, expensive land will have to be purchased.

•Siting difficulties. In the past, landfills were easy to site. Someone found a remote part of the county and the deed was done. As North Carolina's population has grown, remote land has become harder to find. As public concerns about landfills have risen, the costs and troubles of siting a landfill have also risen.

•New precautions. Both the state and federal governments have acted to try to protect the groundwater from contamination. "This will have the most significant impact of the last 20 years," Layton said. Amendments to the federal solid and hazardous waste law that passed Congress in 1984 will probably prompt what could be an extremely expensive regulation. Layton said all landfills used in 1992 most likely will be required to have liners.

•High technology. Managing solid wastes in the 1990s will mean more than digging a hole and dumping trash into it. Waste reduction procedures, recycling and composting will require new machinery. That technology won't be cheap.

All these factors lead Layton to the grim economic conclusion of drastically rising costs, especially in rural, low population areas which have not yet encountered solid waste problems.

"For years, we've been concerned about the economics of solid waste disposal on small rural counties," Layton said. "We have real concerns now about how small counties will operate these highly technical facilities with their low volume of waste."

Paul Crissman, deputy director of the Solid Waste Management Division, said that the technological needs can't be ignored. Landfilling will continue to be needed, but it will be allowed only as a last resort, after many other waste reduction and recycling efforts have been accomplished.

Those hauling to the state's landfills, then, could be encountering average tipping fees of $15 to $30 a ton in the near future. That compares, Layton said, to some counties where dumping is free, or where tipping fees are as little as $3 a ton.

In rural counties, where there have been few regulations and no tipping fees, imposition of waste management has already angered some businesses, Crissman said.

Please, No More Plastic

BOSTON — The Miss America Pageant strutted its usual stuff on its usual turf. The photos from Atlantic City were full of glitz and fluff. The contestants were full of hopes and dreams, hype and hairspray.

We were treated to the same cute yarns of sacrifices the beauties made to get to the runway. (Why, Miss Louisiana had given up chocolate-chip cookies for the duration!) We learned firsthand about their obvious talents.

But the gritty little secret about the competitive world of beauty's World Series was hidden in the surgical scars. The sacrifices some of the women make to get into the big league aren't so benign and the talents aren't so natural. Indeed, you couldn't always tell the score, or believe the statistics, without a medical record.

A lot of the contestants do not owe their beauty to their Maker but to their Re-Maker. Miss Florida's nose came courtesy of her surgeon. So did Miss Alaska's. And Miss Oregon's breasts came from the manufacturers of silicone.

Indeed an Arkansas surgeon, Dr. James Billie, told USA Today's Valerie Helmbreck that five women in the contest had gotten a makeover in his operating room. And NBC's "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" showed the sculpting of a California beauty queen in four surgical strikes.

All in all, the creeping plasticizing of beauty pageantry gives a new tilt to the old expression: Beauty is as beauty does...to herself. With one more trip to the O.R., even Michael Jackson could be a contestant.

Rumors about what piece of whose body had been sucked out have been rife for years. But now, Susan Akin, the 1986 Miss America, has said: "I'll admit to a boob job." And a leading contender for the 1983 crown had told NBC that she'd had both a nose job and implants. It's finally clear that before you get to the meat market in Atlantic City you may have to get carved up like a turkey.

But it's time — really overtime — to ban surgery. If professional sports can ban steroids, then professional beauty contests can ban silicone. If a Ben Johnson had to give up an Olympic medal, a queen with cosmetic scars should have to give back her crown.

We are not talking about eyeliner here. The pageant doesn't need to do a spot-check on dark roots. It doesn't have to ban the Scotch tape that holds the Misses' breasts together or girdled bathing suits that make them iron maidens of the runway.

Surgery, unlike steroids, is legal, but the silicone breasts so amply displayed can and often do harden and have to be replaced. The gel, which can "bleed" into the body, has been found to cause cancer in lab animals.

The liposuction that promises to suck bodies into shape carries the risks of all general anesthesia: infection and, in at least 11 cases, death. Nose jobs that are relatively risk-free are hardly pain-free.

Any sporting event has to draw lines and rules and any pageant worth its image would draw them at the cosmetic knife.

I am hardly a Miss America fan. Nevertheless, some 50 million or so Americans follow this event. Some may see it as high camp, but many a girl views it as the female equivalent of the Superbowl. A halfback pumped up with male hormones is a lousy model for a high-school boy, and a female contestant is carrying a bad message along with the silicone under her skin.

The culprit is competition. Brawn competes on the field; beauty competes on the runway. The winner of this all-American ideal girl contest gets $150,000 for the year plus a $42,000 scholarship and $30,000 car. It isn't superstardom, but it isn't bad.

So the contestants, young and single, go into training for this payoff with personal coaches who are expert on everything from firmer thighs to violin sonatas. The most ambitious, like their Olympics counterparts, will do whatever it takes to win.

It's the overseers who have to set the limits. The sports barons don't want the audience to think their players are doing it with drugs. The Miss America pageanteers surely don't want the audience to say, "Here she comes, Miss America, breasts by silicone, thighs by liposuction, nose by Dr. Billie."

I don't expect the message from Atlantic City to be: Relax, women, you are fine as you are. The economy might fold. Better yet the pageant might fold. But there is a difference between blush-on and silicone. Surgery is not just another self-improvement.

What a swell change it would be if they sent out word from Atlantic City: No plastic need apply.

Community College Reorganization Will Cut Out 42 Positions On State Staff

By Dennis Patterson
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — The state Department of Community Colleges will undergo a reorganization that will see the elimination of 42 jobs and the head of the department made less of a manager, system president Bob Scott says.

Following a report that called the department's staff "fragmented," Scott said the reorganization will place the department's resources where they are most needed.

The reorganization was recommended in a management audit of the department by the Office of State Budget and Management. Scott requested the review after a commission on the future of the system recommended an outside study of the department's organization.

"We wanted to take a look at the department, which has effectively functioned the same way for the last 25 years," Scott said.

Scott said that under the reorganization he would have less control over day-to-day operations and take on the role of promoter of community colleges.

Under the plan, three division leaders will report to an executive vice president who answers to Scott. The executive vice president will be responsible for day-to-day operations of the system.

Having an executive vice president to take care of day-to-day matters, Scott said, would free him to do more lobbying of legislators and speaking around the state about the community college system.

Scott said his last annual review by the Board of Community Colleges indicated "I needed to spend more of my time external to the department itself," he said.

Some of the affected jobs will be moved to other state agencies and some will be transferred from the administrative offices to the community colleges themselves, he said.

"It is anticipated there might be some reduction in force," Scott said. "We do not know what positions those will be yet."

"At this point, we are not going to lay anyone off," he said. "There will be no one who will be without a job for at least six months."

Scott said the reorganization will "put the resources closer to where the services are issued."

Under the proposed reorganization, a new division for student development services will be created. The vice president heading that division will be responsible for student recruitment, student information, counseling, career development and other system programs directly affecting students.

Another vice president will be responsible for all instructional programs, including both degree programs and continuing education. Programs for law enforcement officers and firemen will be delegated to local community colleges.

A third vice president will head a division for financial matters and administrative support.

Fayetteville Seeks Disaster Assistance

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FAYETTEVILLE — Fayetteville officials say they are pursuing federal disaster assistance in the wake of flooding that killed two children and caused perhaps more than $10 million in damage.

City Manager John Smith says he has made an informal request at the state level for federal disaster aid and plans to make a formal request as soon as all information on storm damage has been compiled.

Tallying the damage is a first step toward applying for state and federal disaster aid, said city spokesman Jason Brady. Brady also said the U.S. Small Business Administration has been put on alert to assist small businesses that did not have flood insurance by providing low-interest loans.

Emergency Management Coordinator John McInnis told the Fayetteville City Council Monday night that he cannot yet tell people what disaster aid is available to them.

"A lot of this relief is not available without a presidential declaration," he said.

"Uninsured losses are what they look at," he said. "Most of those who lost property in the storm were low-income families and that will help us," he said.

The storm caused at least $470,000 damage to city property, Smith told the city council. In addition, the Fayetteville Public Works Commission suffered at least $250,000 damage, he said.

Private appraisers joined teams of officials from the Fayetteville Engineering and Inspections and Cumberland County Tax offices to assess property damage, Brady said.

Officials of the state Division of Emergency Management and state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety conferred with local officials about damages, Brady said.

Their findings will help determine the county's eligibility for disaster relief, Brady said.

Public works Manager Tim Wood said repairs to water and sewer lines will take "a number of weeks."

The council approved a resolution allowing city officials to award contracts to repair storm damage without following the usual bidding process.

Pulp Mill Waste Spill Kills Fish

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PLYMOUTH, N.C. — Weyerhaeuser Co. workers were investigating why about 2 million gallons of untreated wastewater overflowed from a pulp mill near here and poured into a nearby creek causing a fish kill.

The accident — the second in two months at the huge mill on the Roanoke River — occurred Sunday when a power failure knocked out pumps that carry wastewater to a series of treatment ponds, said Weyerhaeuser spokesman Keith R. Hundley.

Hundley told the News and Observer of Raleigh that the wastewater, which included about 4,000 gallons of a highly-alkaline chemical, was concentrated in a half-mile area of Welch Creek about a mile from the Roanoke River. The company was pumping the wastewater back into the treatment system.

James D. Sheppard Jr., a spokesman for the state Division of Environmental Management, said organic material that takes oxygen from the water probably caused the fish kill, which he described as "moderate."

"We haven't had a chance to determine any other environmental impacts," he said.

Douglas N. Rader, a scientist with the N.C. Environmental Defense Fund, said some accidents were expected at a major industrial complex, but he questioned the adequacy of Weyerhaeuser precautions. He said there was an immediate threat to organisms in the water and potential for long-term contamination from discharges of untreated waste.

"To have it happen again and again ups the ante," he said.

In Sunday's incident, the pumps shut down about 10:30 a.m. and wastewater overflowed for about an hour and a half. Unlike the earlier spill, Hundley said, another system that releases sodium hydroxide in the water as part of the treatment process failed to shut down and the caustic chemical continued to be discharged.

"The creek was kind of just sitting there this time, even though there had been very heavy rains the night and morning before," he said.

Hundley said that the lack of flow helped contain the material in a relatively short stretch of the creek and that the removal should minimize the injuries to fish. Workers also began temporarily shutting down the paper making to reduce the amount of waste.

Martin Appoints Highway Patrol Leader

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — Lt. Col. William D. Teem has been appointed commanding officer of the North Carolina Highway Patrol, effective Oct. 1, Gov. Jim Martin announced Monday.

Teem, who will be promoted to the rank of full colonel, succeeds Col. J.F. Cardwell, who is retiring at the end of September after 38 years on the patrol.

"Col. Teem has demonstrated the leadership abilities that will make him an excellent commander of the Highway Patrol," Martin said in announcing the appointment. "I know he will provide the patrol with strong leadership."

Joe Dean, secretary of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, said: "Col. Teem has been a valuable member of the Highway Patrol for more than 30 years. His experience will enable him to do an outstanding job as commander."

Teem, a native of Avery County, attended high school in Lenoir. He joined the Highway Patrol in 1955 and has served in Raleigh, Boone and Asheboro. He was named executive officer of the patrol in 1986.

Teem is a graduate of Northwestern University's Police Institute and attended the Secret Service Protection School.

Martin also announced the appointment of Major W.A. Ballard to executive officer of the patrol, succeeding Teem. Ballard, who joined the patrol in 1965, is a native of Gaston County and attended public schools in Lincoln County.

Teem and Ballard will be sworn in Sept. 29.

Astronaut Will Take Name List

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAVELOCK, N.C. — Brig. Gen. Clyde Jake Vermilyea, commanding general of Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station, and a 9-year-old Harlowe resident, Jacob Jake Waller, will join other Marines, school children, teachers and service club members for the Nov. 19 ride into the wild-blue-yonder — at least in name.

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph workers and the Marine Corps, in co-operation with the project sponsor, A.A. Cunningham Air Museum, will be collecting names that Marine Corps astronaut Col. Sonny Carter has agreed to take into space.

Jim Mead, executive director of the proposed museum, said the facility will use the name lists to create a special exhibit in the planned facility. This is really exciting and we are very pleased Col. Carter has agreed to help with the project, said Mead.

"Carolina Telephone will be doing a tremendous job collecting signatures of their employees and those of school children," Mead said. "Marines attached to Cherry Point operations and the 2nd Marine Air Wing there will also be collecting signatures. We are anticipating 10,000 names will accompany Col. Carter on his adventure."

Carter will be taking the actual signed pages with him on the flight in a flight pouch, officials said.

He is taking the names into space as a special favor to the Cunningham Museum, according to Mead, and will present the list to the museum when he returns.

Acid Rain Level Up In State

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ASHEVILLE — North Carolina is among six states that recorded rainfall at least 10 times more acidic than normal rain during August, according to the National Audubon Society.

The society set up a monitoring network in July 1987 to determine the pH of rain at 300 sites across the country. A station in Asheville found that rain here last month averaged about the acidity of cola.

"For Audubon volunteers, the acid rain data collected over the last two years has been disturbing," said Connie Mahan of the society. "The grassroots pressure to act on acid rain controls has been steady, and our monitors have played an important role in keeping the pressure on by reporting their acid rain data in their communities and to their representatives in Washington."

Acidity is measured on a pH scale that ranges from 0 to 14. The lower the pH value, the higher the acidity. Pure distilled water has a pH of 7, while cola soda has a pH of 4 and lemon juice is about 2.

North Carolina, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan and Arkansas last month all recorded average pH readings of less than 4.0.

Acid rain is the term given to pollution that is formed when sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides from power plants, factories and motor vehicles mix in the atmosphere. Eventually, they return to earth in rain, snow, fog and dust.

President Bush has proposed requiring a 10-million ton annual reduction in sulfur dioxide emissions by the year 2000 and a 2 million ton reduction in nitrogen oxide emissions over the next decade. Congress is expected to take up the proposal this fall.

Eunice Shriver and N.C. Gov. Jim Martin share views with teen-agers

Teens Give Governors Tips On Handling Youth Problems

WILMINGTON, Del. — Economic development has dominated the agenda at this week's meeting of Southern governors, but there has been time to talk about drugs and hear from teen-agers.

About 60 teen-agers from eight southern states gathered here Monday during the Southern Governors' Association's annual meeting to offer their insight on eliminating teen-age pregnancy and dealing with juvenile drug offenders.

"If you can do a grown man's crime, you can do a grown man's punishment," said 16-year-old Artwana Cormier of Houston, Texas, who advocated no probation or parole for drug offenders, regardless of age.

The youths also called for improved recreation programs, greater parental involvement and sex education classes "based on American values and self-esteem."

The association, which represents 17 states and Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands, also heard Monday from the governors of Florida and Maryland on efforts to combat drugs and agreed to form a regional network to share criminal information, which is expected to help expedite drug investigations.

"We must remember drug people are well equipped and well supplied with an unlimited amount of money ... If we are to rid this region — and this nation — of drugs, we must be just as mobile and ready as they are," Florida gov. Bob Martinez said Monday.

The meeting ends today with a regional education summit in preparation for President Bush's education summit at the end of the month for governors.

Also today, Delaware Gov. Michael N. Castle hands

the association's chairmanship over to Mississippi Gov. Ray Mabus.

Business executives told the governors Monday that state and local governments must form partnerships with private industry if the United States is going to regain its preeminent economic position in the world.

They said a skilled work force, fair treatment by government regulators and a cooperative spirit between government and business were keys to improving the United States' position.

"We have to take drastic steps ... and think very boldly about the future ... to make us competitive again," said Ira Magaziner, an author and international corporate consultant.

Magaziner added that states ought to look beyond nailing down an initial agreement for a new business to open.

In other countries, said Magaziner, government officials continue negotiating with new businesses "to get them to deepen what they are doing there. ... European companies are used to that kind of dialogue and probably would be open to that."

Edgar S. Woolard, chairman and chief executive officer of the Du Pont Co., said the "fastest economic growth over the next 10 years will be outside the U.S.," and companies will take that into consideration when deciding where to locate their plants.

Peter H. Mills, chief administrative officer of Sematech, a superconductor research company in Austin, Texas, cautioned the governors to use discretion in attracting businesses.

"States should not be encouraged to pursue every economic development advantage that comes down the street," but instead be selective in terms of what the state needs and has to offer, Mills said.

Caldwell Waste Plant To Close

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LENOIR, N.C. — A Caldwell County hazardous waste treatment plant has been ordered closed in the wake of a fire last week that sent about 250 people fleeing their homes and more than 50 to hospitals.

Caldwell Superior Court Judge Robert Kirby issued a 10-day temporary injunction Monday, requiring the Caldwell Systems Inc. plant to shut down. The order became effective at 6 p.m. Monday.

County attorney George House told a crowd of about 200 people attending Monday night's county commissioners meeting that the case was not over, but that "we have won the first battle."

County attorneys will appear before Kirby again at the end of the 10-day period, seeking a permanent injunction.

The current injunction prohibits CSI from receiving, mixing or treating any toxic chemicals. The company may treat any chemicals now at the plant to make them safe, according to the order.

Earlier Monday, the Caldwell County Board of Commissioners announced plans to try to shut down CSI.

Board chairman John Beall said the majority of the panel favors permanently closing the plant.

The controversy surrounding the plant became more heated last week, when a fire ignited a bin of lacquer thinner dust. About 250 people were evacuated from their homes, and more than 50 were treated at area hospitals for nausea, dizziness and breathing problems.

Beall announced Monday that Dr. Marjorie Strawn, director of public health for the county, had issued an abatement order calling on CSI to close temporarily until an investigation of the fire could be completed.

"We're not issuing any comments at this time, but we're still in operation and in the process of assessing the order. We expect to be taking some sort of action this afternoon," said CSI president Charles B. Foushee Jr., on Monday. Before the fire, the county commissioners had scheduled the Monday meeting, which was to include an appeal by CSI of earlier citations. Foushee asked for a delay in that hearing, but commissioners said the hearing would proceed as scheduled.

Governors Form Anti-Crime Unit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WILMINGTON, Del. — Southern governors have formed a regional network to share criminal information, which is expected to help expedite drug investigations.

"We must remember drug people are well equipped and well supplied with an unlimited amount of money ... If we are to rid this region — and this nation — of drugs, we must be just as mobile and ready as they are," Florida gov. Bob Martinez said Monday.

Martinez proposed the pact to the Southern Governors' Association, which ends its three-day annual meeting today.

Martinez said the reciprocal agreement is expected to help expedite criminal investigations because participating law enforcement agencies will now willingly share information.

"The process slows down when states ask why you need the information," Martinez said.

The pact calls for each state's top law enforcement agency to share intelligence information, past conviction records and any other information that would be pertinent to a criminal investigation, particularly if it involves drugs.

Not all of the 17 states and two territories in the association had signed the agreement Monday, but Martinez said all had agreed to it.

The agreements are with the top law enforcement agencies in each state.

Martinez said local agencies are not automatically part of the agreement. Each state will have to get the cooperation of local police departments, Martinez said.

Furniture Mart Changes Name

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HIGH POINT — When the traditional furniture market opens in High Point next month it will feature a new name that organizers say better represents the mission of the event.

The former Southern Furniture Market was founded in 1090 and has become the largest wholesale furniture show in the world, with a growing attendance from around the globe — hence the new name: The International Home Furnishings Market.

"The market wasn't calling itself what it really was," said Richard Barentine, executive director of the event. "Our old friend, the Southern Furniture Market, had changed and we needed to recognize that."

More than 53,000 people are expected to attend the market scheduled Oct. 19-27, with many of them from overseas.

"We are the largest in terms of square footage devoted to complete product lines of manufacturers," Barentine said. "Because of that, we're the most important market in the world."

Dramatic increases in participation by international exhibitors and buyers also influenced the change. Representatives from 50 countries accounted for 5 percent of attendance in April 1989.

"Of the two reasons for the name change, it's the lesser of the two," Barentine said. "We're not saying we have more international attendance than any market in the world."

"We're just saying we are the largest in the world so we are the international market," he said. "Then we can back that up with some international attendance."

International companies represent 10 percent of the total exhibitors, and foreign attendees number more than 2,000. The figures are significant, but there is room for growth.

The North Carolina Department of Economic and Community Development has targeted 1,000 Canadian buying groups with special mailings this year. The U.S. Department of Commerce has sent brochures to the 240 U.S. embassies around the world.

"I've been with the Department of Commerce 18 years and there's more publicity about furniture now than ever," said Fred C. Farmer, an international trade specialist with U.S. Department of Commerce. "The buzz word is international, and all the major and smaller manufacturers are looking at exporting."

Buying groups from Japan, Hong Kong, England and Mexico have announced plans to attend the market this year.

Protesters Meet Quayle

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

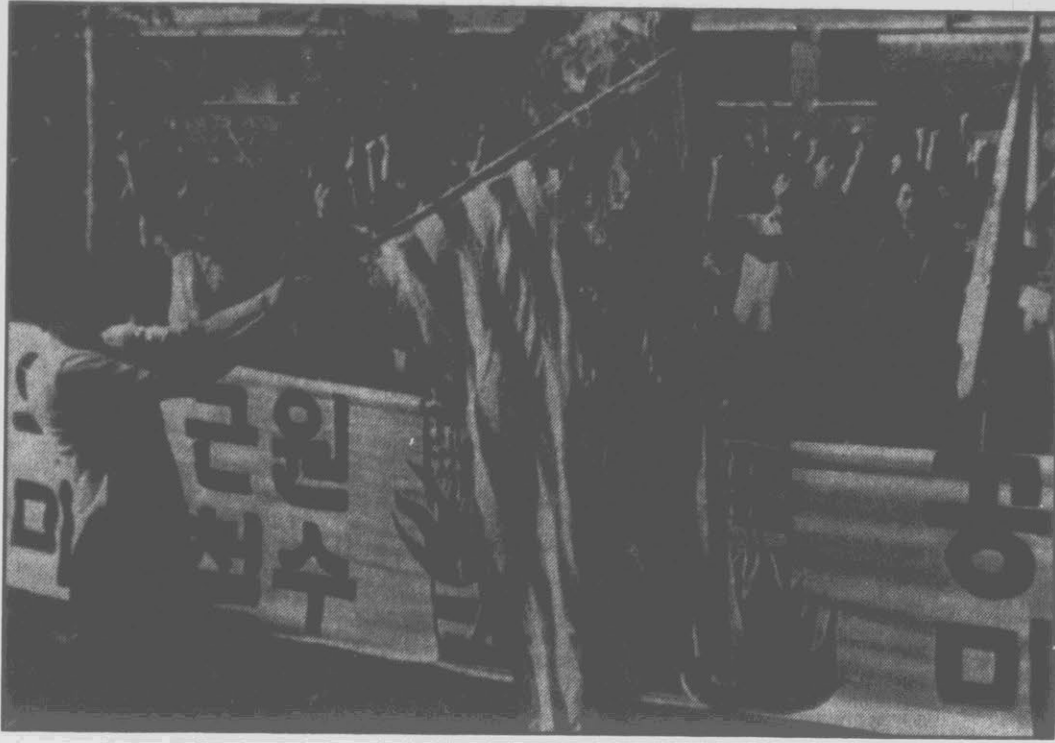

SEOUL, South Korea — Hundreds of students staged anti-U.S. protests in the capital and in the southern city of Kwangju today as Vice President Dan Quayle arrived for talks expected to cover human rights and democratic reform.

Hundreds of riot police lined the route taken by Quayle's heavily guarded motorcade as he went from a military airport to Prime Minister Kang Young-hoon's office at the start of two days of talks.

Radical students opposing Quayle's visit staged a small protest at Seoul Municipal Polytech University, where about 100 students burned a U.S. flag and chanted "We oppose Quayle's visit to the death."

Riot police ringed the campus, but the students did not attempt to come out and there was no confrontation.

About 500 radical students shouting "Yankee go home!" battled riot police with firebombs and rocks in the southern city of Kwangju, police said.

The protests were minuscule by South Korean standards and dissident groups made no effort to organize demonstrations in protest of Quayle's visit. The radicals are demanding an end to close ties with Washington and expulsion of the 43,000 U.S. troops based in South Korea under a mutual defense pact.

South Korean and U.S. officials say the U.S. troops must remain to ensure North Korea does not attack the south. Washington intervened on behalf of the south during the 1950-53 Korean War and has kept troops in the country ever since.

Quayle and his wife Marilyn were greeted by the prime minister and top Cabinet ministers on their arrival from Alaska.

Student Acting Out Novel 'Rage' Holds 11 Classmates In Standoff

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

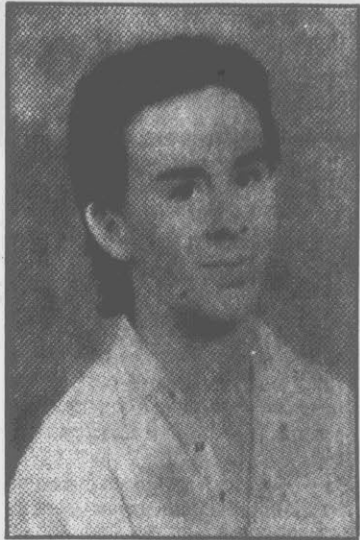

McKEE, Ky. — A heavily armed teen-ager apparently acting out author Stephen King's thriller "Rage" took 11 classmates hostage during a daylong standoff that ended with his surrender after nine hours, authorities said.

No injuries were reported. Dustin Pierce, a 17-year-old, straight-A student, was detained by police Monday evening after he released his last two hostages, laid down three guns and surrendered.

Charges were not immediately filed.

A copy of "Rage" and some personal writings found in Pierce's room at his grandparent's house were helpful in giving negotiators clues to what he planned, said state police Detective Bob Stephens, who negotiated with Pierce.

Stephens said he had been worried by parts of Pierce's writing that indicated "suicide was what we'd have to deal with at the end."

In King's novel, a teen-ager enraged at his father takes hostages at a school, is shot and wounded by police and ends up in an institution.

Like the character in the book, Pierce was upset with his father, whom he had not seen for 13 years, and asked to see him, authorities said.

Police arranged to have the father, whose name was not released, brought from Delray Beach, Fla., but Pierce surrendered before his arrival.

The trouble appears to have begun Sunday evening when Pierce's friend Brian Bond picked him up at his grandparents' house so the two could study together, said Paul Bond, Brian's uncle.

When it became late and they had not returned, authorities were called and began searching for Bond's red pickup truck.

The standoff began around 9:30 a.m. Monday, when Pierce and Bond roared into the high school parking lot aboard the truck.

Authorities said that at some point during the disappearance Pierce pointed a gun at Bond, in effect abducting him.

Bond, the son of high school principal Betty Bond, was the first hostage released.

Craig Eversole, a 16-year-old junior, was in the classroom when Pierce entered.

"He shot the ceiling and told the teacher to leave and let two rows of students leave," Eversole said. Later, Pierce fired his only other shot, blowing out a classroom window.

Throughout the day, Stephens traded food, cigarettes and soft drinks for hostages.

Stephens said Pierce was solicitous of his hostages, asking for cigarettes on their behalf and even releasing one who needed to go to the bathroom.

"He said he wasn't going to hurt nobody," Eversole said. "He said he wasn't going to shoot nobody."

After Pierce's arrival, the students he first released warned others and the classrooms were cleared.

Eversole said Pierce was armed with a .357-caliber Magnum revolver, a .44-caliber revolver and a .12 gauge shotgun that had been altered. "It looked like one you'd see in a movie," Eversole said.

More than a dozen state police officers went to the school just south of McKee, a town of about 1,000 people some 65 miles southeast of Lexington.

Housing Starts Fall

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Housing construction fell 5 percent in August, the largest decline in six months, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said new homes and apartments were built at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.35 million units, down from 1.42 million units in July.

The August drop was the largest since a 12.7 percent fall last February.

It was the first decline since May for the housing industry, which had been among the sectors hardest hit earlier this year as the Federal Reserve drove up interest rates to slow economic growth and control inflation.

Fixed mortgage rates, which peaked at 11.22 percent in March, had fallen to 9.68 percent by Aug. 4, according to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Co. They stood at 10.05 percent last week.

Construction starts fell earlier this year for four straight months before rebounding in June, the longest string of declines since activity slowed for five months in a row from February through June 1987. The May level of 1.31 million starts was the slowest pace since the 1.30 million rate in December 1982.

But despite the rebound, the Federal National Mortgage Association — better known as Fannie Mae — said single-family starts at the end of July were running about 3.9 percent below their average for 1988.

Inflation Holds Steady In August

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Consumer inflation turned in its best performance in more than three years in August as prices remained frozen at the previous month's level, the government reported today.

It was the first time that the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index has not registered an increase since April 1986, when it fell by 0.3 percent. The August performance was credited to a 4.2 percent plunge in gasoline prices, the steepest one-month drop in three years.

Falling energy prices have given consumers three consecutive months of good news on inflation. Prices were up a modest 0.2 percent in both June and July.

This was in sharp contrast to the situation earlier in 1989 when steep hikes in gasoline and food led to a surge in prices pushed the inflation rate up to an annual level of 6.7 percent for the first five months of the year.

But with the price moderation in the three months since then, consumer prices are now rising at a more modest annual rate of 4.8 percent, up only slightly from the 4.4 percent increase for all of 1988.

In another economic report, meantime, the Commerce Department said housing construction fell 5 percent in August for the largest decline in six months. New homes and apartments were built at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.35 million units, down from 1.42 million units in July.

While some economists say the country is in for moderation in inflation, other analysts are worried that underlying inflationary pressures are being masked by the plunge in energy costs.

These economists say energy prices, which surged early in the year only to fall back somewhat in the past three months, are likely to begin rising again this fall, reflecting higher crude oil costs.

Gasoline prices shot up 21.2 percent in the first five months of the year, then fell 1 percent in June, 2.2 percent in July and 4.2 percent in August. The August decline was the biggest drop since a 5.2 percent decrease in August 1986.

Natural gas and electricity prices registered a 0.2 percent decline while heating oil costs fell by 0.9 percent last month.

Food prices rose a modest 0.2 percent in August following a 0.3 percent July gain. Those figures were in sharp contrast to the first nine months of the year, when the lingering effects of the 1988 drought sent food costs racing ahead at a 9.3 percent annual rate.

For August, declines in the cost of pork and poultry were partially offset by increases for beef, fish and eggs.

Bush Pushes His Clean Air Plan

By Christopher Connell
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPOKANE, Wash. — President Bush, saying it's time to clean the nation's environment, is pushing for Congress to act on his clean air initiative as he joins with House Speaker Thomas S. Foley to celebrate the 100th birthday of Washington state.

The president was planting a centennial elm in Riverfront Park and joining with Foley to unveil a plaque today at the Spokane River Centennial Trail.

Later, the president was giving the Democratic speaker a ride back to Washington on Air Force One.

Spokane was the final stop on Bush's swing through the centennial states of South Dakota, Montana and Washington, where the president assured large crowds that environmental protection is compatible with economic growth.

He planned to deliver that message in today's speech at Riverfront park, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

Foley, who greeted Bush at the airport in his hometown then took him out to dinner Monday night, predicted Congress soon will pass a Clean Air bill that Bush can sign.

"We plan to move forward on the Clean Air bill. ... It will be an achievement for both the Congress and the administration," said Foley.

Bush on Monday proposed a national tree-planting campaign, saying "It's not enough to stop dirtying the air. We've got to clean it up."

Bush, in a news conference earlier Monday in the Montana Senate chambers, urged Congress "to get on with" his $7.9 billion anti-drug strategy. "The American people want action."

"There's a certain frustration level when we come out with a sound program and two answers come out: spend more and raise taxes," he said.

Foley reacted sharply last week to criticism of a Democratic alternative drug plan that would raise the ante to $10.1 billion through a 0.575 percent cut on military and many domestic programs.

Bush defended his efforts to cut the capital gains tax, saying it would create jobs, not "simply help the rich." He said it was not right for Democrats who got "whipped" in the House Ways and Means Committee on the issue to threaten to refuse to deal with Bush on the deficit.

On other issues, Bush:

—Announced plans to grant Hungary most favored nation trading status in recognition of its political and economic reforms.

—Said he feels "in no rush" to hold a summit with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. Bush defended the pace of strategic arms negotiations, and said the United States is "not going to just react" to proposals by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze. Bush will see Shevardnadze at the White House on Thursday before the Soviet's weekend retreat with Secretary of State James A. Baker III in Wyoming.

—Said there is no "hard intelligence evidence" Colombian drug lords are targeting his family, but warned any attack would "just bring down the total wrath of the American people and the American government."

—Called it too soon after the Tiananmen massacre to resume "total normalcy" of U.S.-China relations. Bush said there are still "great difficulties" there.

U.N. Assembly Opens Amid New Sense Of International Cooperation

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — As the 44th General Assembly opens, diplomats and officials are looking forward to a new era of international cooperation after last year's session saw "an end to the Cold War."

In the last two years, the 159 nations have built upon the thaw between the superpowers, addressing in earnest issues such as peacekeeping, pollution and the world economy in a new, cooperative spirit.

"There's a feeling that fundamental changes are happening...and that now is not the time...to play up national differences," said Ronald I. Spiers, the undersecretary for General Assembly Affairs. "People want to work together and seek solutions to problems rather than score debating points."

President Reagan and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev approved that approach in speeches to the General Assembly last year.

Those speeches, said Dante M. Caputo of Argentina, the departing assembly president, "are the deepest and most eloquent reflection of profound change that has occurred."

"They demonstrate, I would venture to say, the end of the Cold War, which hovered over our world for such a long period," he said.

On Monday, Caputo closed the yearlong 43rd session of the General Assembly. Several unresolved issues were postponed for consideration by the 44th session, which was to begin today. The most dramatic was the Palestinian question and Israel's crackdown on the 21-month-old uprising in the occupied territories that has left at least 572 Palestinians and 40 Israelis dead.

That issue also provoked the biggest controversy of last year's assembly, when the State Department refused to allow PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat to enter the United States to address the assembly. Washington denied him a visa on the grounds that Arafat supported terrorism against Israel.

The General Assembly took the unprecedented protest step of moving to Geneva for five days in December to hear the Palestine Liberation Organization chief.

At the Geneva meeting, Arafat denounced terrorism and recognized Israel's right to exist, eliminating the two key issues on which the State Department had refused his visa request.

Arafat has said he wants to address this year's General Assembly. The State Department has said it has not yet received a visa request and will not comment on whether it would be granted.

Spiers, the top-ranking American in the world body and a former State Department undersecretary, told reporters that Arafat should be allowed to speak if he wishes.

Arab League Ambassador Clovis Maksoud said he was confident the Bush administration would grant a visa if one was requested.

If the visa is not granted, said Maksoud, "of course we would want to go back to Geneva." The Arab League has more than enough allies in the assembly to change its venue.

Among speakers scheduled to present their governments' views are President Bush, who is to address the assembly Monday, and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, set to speak the following day.

President Virgilio Barco Vargas of Colombia on Sept. 29 will have a chance to speak about his nation's battle against the cocaine cartel.

Other heads of state scheduled to speak include the presidents of Brazil, Venezuela, Argentina, Peru, Paraguay, Bolivia, El Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Yugoslavia, Egypt, Cyprus, Zaire and Lesotho.

The assembly was to choose a new president today.

Under a system of rotating regional representation, the African nations nominated the assembly leader this year. They selected Nigeria's U.N. ambassador, Maj. Gen. Joseph Garba, a crusader against apartheid, South Africa's legal system of racial segregation.

The main portion of the General Assembly's work ends in mid-December, but it will then hold a five-day special session on apartheid.

Court Ejects Victim's Father

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — The father of a black youth slain in an attack by a white gang was ejected from court after he shouted at a judge who allowed four of the five defendants to remain free on bail.

Moses Stewart, father of 16-year-old Yusuf Hawkins, began yelling at the judge as he and Hawkins' mother, Diane Hawkins, stood to leave after Monday's arraignment.

"You handkerchief-headed nigger!" Stewart yelled at Justice Thaddeus Owens. "You let murderers walk home free."

Owens ordered officers to remove Stewart, who was already on his way out and muttered, "letting murderers walk home," as the family's supporters were escorted from the court.

James Patino, 24; Keith Mondello, 18; Pasquale Raucci, 19; and Joseph Serrano, 19, were freed on bail after pleading innocent to murder and other charges in the racial attack that occurred in their Bensonhurst neighborhood.

About two hours after the pleas, the fifth defendant and alleged triggerman, Joseph Fama, 18, pleaded innocent and was ordered back to jail without bail.

Hawkins was shot to death Aug. 23 when he and three friends were surrounded by a gang of about 30 white youths. The black teen-agers had gone to the mostly white Brooklyn neighborhood in response to an advertisement for a used car.

Owens refused a prosecution request, based on a new indictment to raise or revoke the $75,000 bail for Serrano and Patino, as well as a later request from Fama's attorney to set bail at $200,000.

Fama's attorney, David DePetris, argued that his client had never before been arrested and denied that Fama was the gunman. Assistant District Attorney Paul Burns said Fama was identified as the shooter "by people who have known him all his life."

'Getting In Shape' Is Change In Lifestyle

By Jeannie Golden

Do each of your attempts to get in shape begin with good intentions and end with sweat, sore muscles, and the same old body? Do you believe the old adage "no gain without pain"? What you may not realize is that getting into shape requires a gradual "shaping" process: learning new health habits while slowly changing your body along with your lifestyle. Since this process takes lots of patience and time, you're better off emphasizing pleasure and fun rather than pain.

Choose an exercise that suits your needs. You may enjoy the music and friendly atmosphere of aerobics, or you might prefer the solitude and tranquility of brisk walking. Tennis and racquetball can provide exciting competition, whereas weight training may include stimulating scenery. The point is, it helps to find an activity that not only gets you moving but keeps you coming back for more.

Variety could be the key for you, or maybe you need a stable routine. Picking a time of day that fits not only your schedule but also your body's natural rhythms is important. If you drag out of bed each morning, an early morning jog may not be the best choice for you. A buddy system or team competition could give you a boost when you find your motivation slipping. Telling what you've done — i.e. "I swam a mile every day this week" — gives your friends, family, or co-workers a chance to tell you how pleased they are for you. Their comments will help you increase your pride in your accomplishments. Making a promise to someone about your exercise goal for the day or the week can help in motivating you. By telling others, you have someone else watching for the outcome. And we all like to keep promises.

Magazine pictures or photos of body shapes you admire are also a good way to keep yourself on track — provided that the admired body shape is at least a possibility for you to attain. Pinned on your refrigerator or mirror, they serve as reminders of what you are working toward. Remember to set goals that are realistic for your age, body type, and prior exercise experience — exercise can provide improvements, but not miracles.

A strong link exists between physical well-being and good mental health, and you'll notice how much better you FEEL, both physically and emotionally. Increasing your pulse rate and respiratory speed is exhilarating. Each day that you exercise, you know that you've accomplished something important for yourself. You'll find that exercise, you know that you've accomplished something important for yourself. You'll find that exercise elevates your mood, gets your creative juices flowing, and helps put difficult dilemmas into perspective. Exercise helps you to unwind after a long, hard day, reduces your level of stress, and enables you to fall asleep more easily. As your muscles become toned and you build a healthier body, your self confidence improves, and you'll know that you are the best you can be.

All Persons Have A Choice

Dear Abby: Your answer to the woman who complained that her relatives were forever arguing with her about religion was ridiculous. You advised her to simply declare that the subject was off-limits.

Are you suggesting that people talk only about trivial, meaningless subjects so as to avoid the possibility of controversy? Part of the problem in our society today is that so many people talk only about shallow, petty things, and never examine the deeper topics or question the truth.

It is arrogant to tell people that there are subjects which they may not mention in your presence. You could have suggested that she learn enough about their cult to show them the errors contained in its teachings. — Conversant In Amherst, Va.

Dear Conversant: In my view, the height of arrogance is to attempt to show people the "errors" contained in the religion of their choice. That's a good way to start World War III.

Dear Abby: This is in response to "Had Enough in Little Rock": I used to have the same problem with my sister — only she wasn't trying to convert me to her religion. She had a different mission.

Dear Abby

She's anti-abortion and I'm pro-choice, and whenever the subject would come up, I would never allow it to reach the discussion stage because it would always end up in an argument. I'd tell her, "Becky, you and I do not agree on this issue and we never will, so let's not discuss it." Then I'd steer the conversation to another topic.

She still mails me magazine articles, newspaper clips and all the anti-abortion propaganda she comes across — but I don't have to read it. That's my choice. — Becky's Sister In Madison

Dear Abby: You suggested to "Had Enough" simply to declare that the subject of religion would be "off-limits."

Abby, there is no such thing as "off-limits" to some people — and my mother is one of them. When I learned to think for myself, I realized that I could never accept my mother's religion, so I made a study of comparative religions, found them all to be implausible and became a free-thinker. As soon as I graduated from college, I married a man who shared my views.

My mother has never stopped trying to get me to accept "the truth" as she perceives it. She keeps telling me I am going to hell if I don't embrace her religion, and I keep telling her that if I do, it will be my problem.

It's not easy to maintain a good relationship with a mother as headstrong as mine, but I love her for her good qualities, and manage to make the best of it. — A Mind Of My Own

Songs Stay, Singers Grow Older

When I heard the Rolling Stones, the Who and other rock 'n' roll staples of the '60s were back, a chill went through my body.

They were the ones who created the music that shook the walls of our teen-agers' bedrooms and rendered us, their parents, sterile in the next room. They were the ones who seduced our young away from our bosoms with their long hair, spinning lights, and lyrics that didn't translate to anything human.

For more than a decade, they influenced the way my children dressed, the way they talked and the way they viewed life. It happened so quickly. One day my children were in front of the TV set singing, "M-I-C... See you next week! ... K-E-Y ... Why? Because we like you! (They blew a kiss here) ... M-O-U-S-E!" The next thing I knew, they were in a cornfield watching seven people screaming "Yeah, yeah" over speakers the size of the Pan Am building, and they had tears streaming down their faces.

I lost them. For the next 10 or 15 years of my life, these groups were the only voices my kids listened to. I could have been Marcel Marceau in concert for all they knew. Rock music was the first sound they heard every morning as they prepared to go to school, the first thing to blast out of the car radio. It was the first thing to be reprised every evening. The sound continued to be fed into their heads by earplugs even as they slept.

At Wits End

As a mother, I tried to compromise. The Monkees seemed like a bunch of nice boys. My children laughed at me — out loud. I bought them a Carpenters album one Christmas. I found it the other day. The cellophane is still intact.

There was something about this music that was theirs and theirs alone; something their parents didn't begin to understand and probably never would; something that set them apart and kept intact the gap that parents try so hard to close and kids seek to widen.

I'm ashamed to admit it, but I've used the music of that era as a dumping ground for every shortcoming my kids ever had, from too many cavities to forgetting my birthday.

My grown son went to the Who concert recently and came away saddened that none of them was 17 again. It was painful to look back. The songs didn't fit the bodies singing them. The seats were harder than he remembered. The long lines to the restroom were tedious, and he had to go to work the next morning.

I look at it this way: If my kids can forgive rockers for growing older and not taking them with them, then I can forgive them for shoving me off center stage for 15 years.

of Greenville has expanded its jurisdiction by almost 2,000 acres. The boundary agreement approved in November 1988, Dews said, gave the city planning control of another 2,000 acres or about three square miles.

Because of the short time frame involved, Dews suggested, "detailed and careful study has not been made in relationship to the developers and the property owners and how their investments and lives will be changed."

And since there are no plans to serve the area south of SR 1711 with sewer in the foreseeable future, Dews said, "As one member of the Board of Commissioners, I would hope that the Greenville board would delay approval of the plan" to include the area in the ETJ, "until all the property owners, developers and the planning department of the city ... have had more time to present a better plan in total for this area for the future."

County Manager Kramer Jackson then said that he and other county officials met with several city representatives on Friday to discuss the concerns of those living south of SR 1711.

"We asked them not to extend extraterritorial jurisdiction beyond one mile (of the city limits) at this time," Jackson said, adding that city officials suggested that the staff would ask the city planning board to delay ETJ coverage to the area until sewers are installed or the city limits are extended to within a mile of the area of concern.

Jackson said he also wrote City Manager Greg Knowles a letter "officially requesting" the city "not to extend the city's extraterritorial jurisdiction beyond the normal one mile limit at this time," and that ETJ proceedings before the city planning board "be discontinued until such time as the county's concerns can be addressed."

Burroughs Wellcome Cuts Price Of AZT

that "by lowering the price we will be able to make the drug available to a larger number of patients while still maintaining our ability to continue our innovative research program."

But he said the price could not have been reduced earlier because successful discovery and development programs must pay for those that are unsuccessful.

He said he had no idea where reports of high profits from AZT originated.

"I certainly hope that in the future we will have substantial profits from AZT as well as a number of our other drugs because it's through these profits that we are able to continue the research that I just mentioned," he said.

Louis Sullivan, secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, said he was pleased with the company's action. He said that the price cut, combined with recent findings that lower dosages may be effective, will reduce the cost of AZT treatment.

"This is good news for those infected with HIV who can benefit from AZT treatment, and it is good news for the health care system as a whole," Sullivan said.

AIDS activists had been pressing Burroughs Wellcome to cut the cost of AZT, also called Retrovir. On Thursday, five activists chained themselves to a banister at the New York Stock Exchange to protest the drug's cost.

Activists argued that some AIDS patients could not afford the drug and that the price discouraged Congress from renewing a program that subsidizes the cost of the medicine for patients who cannot afford it.

The medical establishment also criticized prices of AZT and other AIDS drugs last week. In an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association Friday, medical researchers blamed "price gouging by drug companies" for part of the estimated $5 billion annually it could cost to care for AIDS-infected people in the future.

Company spokesman Thack Brown insisted that protests by AIDS activists did not affect Burroughs Wellcome's decision.

"Actually, I can say the protests slowed things down a little bit," he said. "We had to field inquiries from the media and other people about what we planned to do at a time when we were still trying to decide what that would be," he said.

Staley said activists will continue to press for lower AZT prices.

"ACTUP will continue to fight to make sure that all AIDS treatments are provided to all who need them, free of charge, which means we will continue to pressure Burroughs Wellcome for further price reductions," he said.

In San Francisco, where more than 7,100 cases of AIDS have been reported since the epidemic began, AIDS activists responded to the announcement with mixed feelings.

Eric Rofes, executive director of the Shanti Project, said the lower price will allow a "small but significant number" of people who cannot now afford AZT to use the drug.

The announcement also signalled that pressure from AIDS activists has been effective, he said.

"Essentially, we're delighted that Burroughs Wellcome has taken this initial step to lower the price of AZT," he said. "On the downside, I believe it should be still lower. Most of us were looking for about a 50 percent reduction."

Others expressed skepticism that the new price is any more justified than the previous price.

"It's certainly a step in the right direction ... but it's still unclear if this price is as arbitrary as the previous price schedule," said Pat Christen, executive director of the AIDS Foundation.

"The point is that people need access to the drug," she said, adding that price itself may not be as relevant as the rate of government subsidies that reimburse patients for the cost of AZT.

Jean McGuire of the Washington, D.C.-based AIDS Action Council, called the announcement a sign of "good faith." But she added that AIDS activists will continue "to assess what their real profit margin is. We hope that as the market increases, we will continue to see Burroughs make good faith assessments about future reductions."

AZT was first shown to be effective against HIV infection in September 1986. A trial of the drug was halted because of a significantly lower mortality rate among patients with AIDS and advanced AIDS-related complex who had received AZT. During the next six months, Burroughs Wellcome made AZT available, free of charge, to some 5,000 patients. The company lowered the cost 20 percent in 1987.

AZT was approved by the Food and Drug Administration in March 1987.

State Reports Over 1,000 AIDS Cases

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — The number of North Carolinians with AIDS has reached the 1,000 mark for the first time, said officials in the AIDS control branch of the N.C. Department of Environment, Health and Natural Resources.

As of Sept. 14, there were 978 cases in adults and adolescents and 22 cases in children under the age of 13. Officials said 53 percent of these reported cases have resulted in death from the disease.

And thousands of North Carolina citizens are infected with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, but have not yet become ill, state officials said.

Mecklenburg County, with 150, had the highest number of AIDS cases. Wake County was second with 150, followed by Forsyth with 61, Durham with 59, Guilford with 57 and Cumberland with 56.

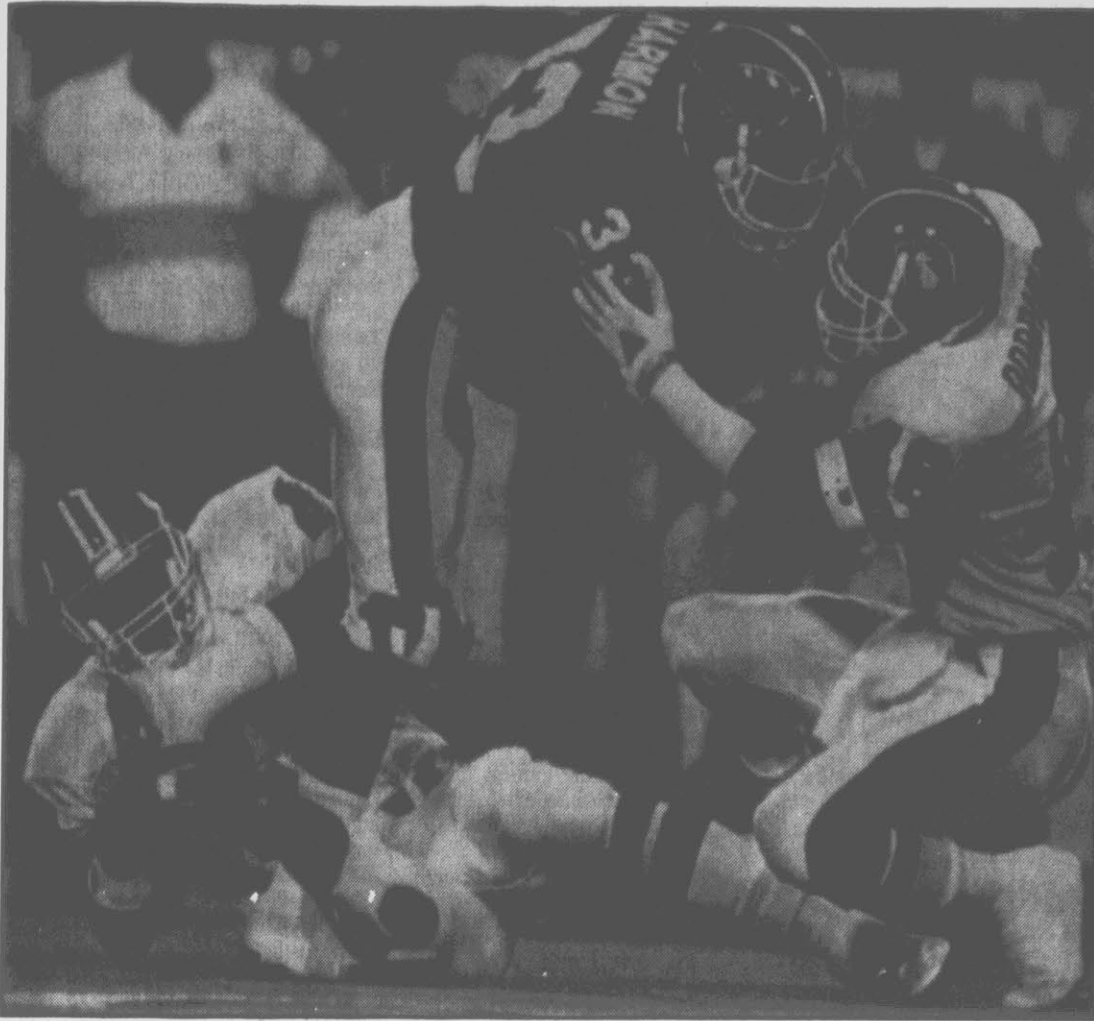

These counties account for about half the cases in the state, but 84 of the 100 counties in North Carolina have reported at least one case.

Broncos Spoil Buffalo's Return To Monday Night

Denver 'D' Rises To Spark 28-14 Win

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — The defense was supposed to take charge, sparking the offense to a big show in prime time.

It did, unexpectedly, for Denver, while Buffalo's plans to do exactly that never materialized.

The Broncos, winners of just one of their previous 11 Monday night road appearances and beaten in their last eight games on artificial turf, convincingly reversed those trends with a 28-14 victory. Only when the Bills went to a hurry-up offense that their coach, Marv Levy, had called unethical before last year's AFC championship game did Denver's revitalized defense struggle.

But not for long. "We didn't want to be in a situation where we were on our heels all the time," Coach Dan Reeves said. "To say it was a great win for us would be an understatement."

The Broncos ranked just 22nd in NFL defensive statistics last season. They made the Super Bowl in 1988 and 1987, only to have the defense betray them in the big game.

So Reeves fired longtime defensive coordinator Joe Collier and replaced him with Wade Phillips. The defense has been sensational, forcing eight turnovers; as Denver went 2-0 with wins over Kansas City and the Bills.

"He wants us to be aggressive," cornerback Wymon Henderson, who picked off two passes by Jim Kelly, said. "We want to be aggressive."

The Broncos were most aggressive in building a 21-0 lead. They got a safety when Michael Brooks was unblocked and tackled Jamie Mueller in the end zone

Levy Resorts To Hurry-Up Offense — Again

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — For the second week in a row, the Buffalo Bills fought their way out of an abyss by using a variation of the Cincinnati hurry-up offense that Coach Marv Levy criticized before last season's AFC Championship game against the Bengals.

Unlike last week, when the Bills' hurry-up helped produce a 27-24 victory over the Miami Dolphins, the hole Monday night proved too deep for the Bills, who lost 28-14 to the Denver Broncos.

The no-huddle offense that produced two touchdowns in the last five minutes of the Miami game came through with two more against the Broncos. The success prompted questions about whether the sputtering Bills' offense should try using it in less pressing circumstances.

Quarterback Jim Kelly, who said earlier in the week that he wouldn't mind using the hurry-up throughout the game, at first shied away from endorsing that option after Monday night's loss.

"I don't want to jump to conclusions and say yes because I don't want to get myself in trouble," said Kelly, who hurt his right knee in the game and was limping badly in the locker room.

Kelly

"We did come out in the second half and put 14 points on the board," Kelly said. "We moved the ball real well in all cases, except for a couple of miscues."

"Maybe we should surprise somebody and just come out for a couple of series in the gun formation."

Kelly will have to convince Levy of that point, if the coach's comments after the game are any indication. Levy is consistent on the matter of the hurry-up attack.

"If you think you're going to win football games doing that right out of the box, it will win you one and lose you two," Levy said.

Levy compared the hurry-up offense to a carnival game.

"You spin (the wheel) and when you get 10 points, they give you the big gift," he said. "On the first spin, you get seven points and it costs you a little bit more to keep spinning. Then you get eight or nine ... but you never get 10. Maybe once in awhile you'll get 10, but not often."

Denver coach Dan Reeves said the Bills' use of the hurry-up was an endorsement of the Broncos' game plan.

"It was encouraging to see Buffalo go to the shotgun offense early in the third quarter, especially a team that runs so much," he said. "We felt we had to stop the run, and we did."

The Bills were forced into the shotgun offense after falling behind 21-0 early in the third quarter.

The no-huddle offense, which Levy said was used because "we were trying to economize as much time as we could," immediately got results where the more traditional offense hadn't.

Buffalo moved 77 yards in 3 minutes, 27 seconds, with Larry Kinnebrew scoring from the 1-yard line to cut the Denver lead to 21-7.

On the Bills' next possession, it produced a scoring drive of 66 yards in 1:57, capped by Kelly's 20-yard pass to Ronnie Harmon. It was 21-14.

It nearly produced the tying touchdown on Buffalo's next drive, but Harmon dropped what would have been a 42-yard touchdown pass.

Despite that success, Levy made his feelings clear when asked whether there was a future in Buffalo for the hurry-up.

"I hope not," he said. "I hope we don't have to."

Days Numbered For Sliding Mets

Trail Cubs By 6½ With 12 To Go

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — Unless the Chicago Cubs turn into the Philadelphia Phillies of 1964, the New York Mets are finished in the National League East.

The Phillies of 25 years ago blew a 6½-game lead with 12 games left to give the NL pennant to the St. Louis Cardinals. After beating the Mets 10-6 Monday night, the Cubs have a 6½-game margin over the Mets, a team that six months ago was a top-heavy favorite to win the NL East.

Mets manager Davey Johnson realized the difficulty of the task.

"Now we have to win tomorrow and get help from some other people," Johnson said. "Somebody else has got to beat the Cubs."

In losing a game they absolutely had to win, the Mets sustained setbacks with each of their Cy Young Award winners. The Cubs battered left-hander Frank Viola, the American League Cy Young winner a year ago, for six runs and eight hits in 5 1-3 innings. And right-hander Dwight Gooden, the 1985 NL Cy Young recipient, was scratched from the starting assignment in today's game at Wrigley Field because of soreness in his right arm.

Chicago beat the Mets for the seventh time in eight games at Wrigley Field by overcoming a 3-0 deficit with four-run uprisings in the fifth and eighth innings. Luis Salazar hit a two-run homer to give the Cubs a 4-3 lead and Chicago led 10-3 after its least likely slugger, reliever Mitch Williams, hit a three-run homer. It was his first major-league hit in five at-bats.

"It was kind of a goofy game but I'm glad the good guys won," Cubs manager Don Zimmer said.

"We're one step closer with 12 to go," said Zimmer, who refused to say the race was over. "Funny things can happen in this game."

The Cubs' magic number was reduced to eight over second-place St. Louis and to seven over the third-place Mets. Any combination of Cubs' victories and Cardinals' losses totaling seven would give Chicago its second NL East title in five years.

The Cardinals remained five games back of the Cubs by beating Montreal 3-2.

U.S. Begins Quest For Ryder Cup

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BIRMINGHAM, England — The American Ryder Cup team, given a White House sendoff by President Bush, is ready to begin its quest for golf's top international team prize.

Team captain Raymond Floyd and 11 members of the 12-man American team, accompanied by family and by PGA Tour officials, zipped through customs on Monday upon arriving at Birmingham airport. The other American player, U.S. Open champion Curtis Strange, was at the gate to welcome the team to Britain for the biennial matches.

Strange and his wife, Sarah, had come to Britain from France, where Strange had been playing in a tournament in Paris. Strange was hardly alone — thousands of British fans came to the airport to greet the team that is looking for its first Ryder Cup title since 1983.

Floyd and other members of the entourage visited with Bush in the White House Monday morning before flying to New York and then to England.

The team boarded a caravan of limosines for the short ride to the Belfry at Sutton Coldfield, where the biennial matches will be held Friday through Sunday.

"It's been a busy day, an exciting day," team member Fred Couples said. "Dinner last night with Vice President Quayle, then meeting with the president. He's a golfer himself, and he wished us well."

Other members of the American team on the flight were PGA title-holder Payne Stewart, British Open winner Mark Calcavecchia, Tom Kite, Tom Watson, Lanny Wadkins, Mark O'Meara, Paul Azinger, Chip Beck, Mark McCumber and Ken Green.

The Americans had a few of the problems that bother other international travelers. Kite's wife, Christy, said one of her bags was missing, and the motorcade out of the airport was stalled by a massive traffic jam.

Irish Convince Most They Are Best In The Nation

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Notre Dame's victory over Michigan convinced almost everyone that the Fighting Irish are the best team in the country.

Lou Holtz's team received 57 of 60 first-place votes Monday in The Associated Press' college football poll. The other three votes went to second-ranked Miami, which plays Notre Dame on Nov. 25 in the regular-season finale for both teams.

Notre Dame extended its winning streak to 14 games Saturday with a 24-19 win over Michigan, which was ranked No. 2 at the time. The season-opening loss dropped the Wolverines to No. 5 in voting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Michigan was No. 1 in the preseason poll, but Notre Dame took over the top spot after beating Virginia 36-13 in the Kickoff Classic and has widened its lead each week since.

Last week, the Fighting Irish received 37 first-place votes and 1,463 points. This week, they received 20 more first-place votes and 34 more points.

Nebraska, which improved to 2-0 after beating Utah 42-30, is ranked third. Next are Auburn, Michigan, Colorado, Clemson, Arkansas, West Virginia and Syracuse.

The No. 6 ranking is Colorado's best since reaching No. 3 in October 1977. The Buffaloes (3-0) moved up two places following an impressive 38-7 win over Illinois.

Oklahoma (2-1) and Illinois (1-1) dropped out of the Top 10. The Sooners plummeted from No. 6 to No. 16 after losing 6-3 to Arizona and Illinois fell from No. 10 to No. 20.

It is the first time in five years that Oklahoma hasn't been ranked in the Top 10 during the regular season.

Auburn (2-0) defeated Southern Mississippi 24-3; Clemson (3-0) downed Virginia Tech 27-7; Arkansas (1-0) beat Tulsa 26-7; West Virginia (3-0) topped South Carolina 45-21; and Syracuse (2-0) edged Army 10-7.

Leading off the Second Ten is Washington, which beat Purdue 38-8 for its second victory of the season. Southern California is ranked 11th, followed by Pittsburgh, Tennessee, Alabama, Oklahoma, Houston, North Carolina State, Washington State and Illinois.

Texas A&M, Oregon, Arizona, UCLA and Ohio State complete the Top 25. Oregon, Arizona and Ohio State were unranked last week.

Dropping out of the rankings were Louisiana State, Iowa and Mississippi State.

LSU fell to 0-2 after losing to Florida State 31-21, Iowa was pounded in its opener by Oregon 44-6 and Mississippi State (2-0) did not play. LSU was 21st last week, Iowa 24th and Mississippi St. 25th.

ECU Gridders Go Under Lights

East Carolina coach Bill Lewis spent Monday's practice under the lights in Ficklen Stadium attempting to correct mistakes made in Saturday's 21-14 win at Cincinnati.

"I was pleased Saturday night how we handled a tough situation," Lewis said. "I thought Cincinnati came into the game ready to play and we were not. I did not do a good job of having our team ready to play immediately."

The team, which practices under the lights every Monday due to class conflicts, came out of the game against Cincinnati relatively healthy. Starting fullback Michael Rhett suffered a hip bruise, but practiced Monday night.

Tight end Luke Fisher suffered a groin strain, but saw limited action in practice.

Both players are expected to play Saturday when ECU takes on Illinois State in a 7 p.m. contest at Ficklen Stadium.

Illinois State is 1-1 with a win over Central (Ohio) State and a loss to Western Kentucky.

ECU, 2-0, is off to its best start since 1985. The last time ECU began the season 3-0 was 1977.

Blackmon Captures Football Contest

Billy W. Blackmon of 1602 Woodview Drive, Ayden, is the winner of last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Blackmon correctly picked the winners in 31 of the 32 games listed on last week's contest pages. No one has ever turned in a totally correct ballot.

Second place was shared by Jay Chenier of 1203 Franklin Drive, Greenville, and Kevin M. Smeltzer of 206 Pineridge Drive, Greenville. Both of them picked the winning teams in 30 of the 32 games. Both also hit the total of 76 points scored by Southern California in its 66-10 victory over Utah State as the most points to be scored in any one contest game.

Nine other entrants also picked 30 winning teams, but were further off in their point totals. The next contest in the series appears in today's edition.

Others with 30 right include: Will Pleasants, 107 Prince Road, Greenville (74); Wendy Waller, Rt. 1, Box 443, Deep Run (71); Thomas Hughes, 206 Nichols Drive, Greenville (72); Kevin Scott Fisher, 103-D Cedar Court, Greenville (79); Waid Akeman, 209 Adams Blvd., Greenville (77); Fred J. Montgomery Heads Weekly ACC Honors

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Quarterback Shane Montgomery, who led North Carolina State to a 27-17 victory over Wake Forest on Saturday, was voted the offensive back of the week in the Atlantic Coast Conference by a panel of sportswriters.

Others receiving honors were: Bruce McGonnigal, Virginia tight end, offensive lineman; Levon Kirkland of Clemson, defensive lineman; Kevin Fowlkes of Maryland, defensive back; and Bobby Jones of Wake Forest, rookie of the week.

Montgomery completed 61.5 percent (24 of 39) of his passes for 298 yards and a pair of touchdowns in the Wolfpack's victory over the Demon Deacons. The senior from Newark, Ohio, led N.C. State on a 55-yard drive to a field in just 54 seconds as N.C. State tied the game at 10 at halftime. N.C. State scored on its first two second-half possessions, including an eight-yard scoring strike to Chris Williams from Montgomery.

McGonnigal caught six passes for a career high 167 yards receiving as the Cavaliers defeated Georgia Tech 17-10 in Atlanta. The junior from Baltimore teamed with Virginia quarterback Shawn Moore on a 61-yard pass play carrying to the Yellow Jacket three-yard line that set up Virginia's second touchdown. That same combination connected again in the third quarter on a 42-yard completion to the Georgia Tech 19, setting up a field goal. McGonnigal's other four catches all were for first down yardage.

Kirkland had a team-high seven tackles as the Tigers won their third consecutive game of the season, downing Virginia Tech 27-7. Kirkland made one tackle for a loss, had a quarterback pressure, two additional tackles playing on special teams; then had a 47-yard interception return for a touchdown.

Fowlkes' play was credited with leading the Terrapin secondary in shutting down the run-and-gun offense of Western Michigan. Fowlkes scored an almost perfect grade of 97 percent and had a team-high 25 tackling points. He also had his first interception of the year, broke up another pass and had a tackle for a loss.

Jones, a red-shirt freshman from Easley, S.C., earned his rookie honors for the Demon Deacons by catching six passes for 102 yards. His 61-yard reception in the third quarter set up the second Wake Forest touchdown of the night. Jones is listed behind returning starter Steve Brown on the Wake Forest depth chart.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bret Saberhagen, the American League's first 20-game winner, was named AL player of the week after he went 2-0 with a 0.56 earned-run average. He allowed one run and eight hits in 16 innings, lowering his league-leading ERA to 2.47.

NEW YORK (AP) — Shawon Dunston of the Chicago Cubs, who was 11-for-21 last week with his first career grand slam, was named National League player of the week.

A's Win But Stewart Denied 20th

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deja vu meant No Luck II for Dave Stewart.

Stewart, for the second straight start, lost a chance at his 20th victory when Dennis Eckersley gave up a ninth-inning home run in a game the Oakland Athletics eventually won on a hit by Dave Henderson.

"It's amazing how closely this game resembled the other game," Oakland manager Tony LaRussa said after the Athletics beat Cleveland 4-2 in 10 innings Monday night. "Stew, Eck, and Henderson with the game-winning RBI. My only comment to Eck was that what he's doing for a living is very hard. Once in a while, you get burned."

It happened last year, too. Stewart stood to be the winner in Game 1 of World Series until Kirk Gibson connected off Eckersley.

This time at least Oakland won, ending a three-game losing streak and keeping its 2½-game lead in the American League West.

In other games, California beat Minnesota 6-3, Chicago rallied past Kansas City 4-2, Boston topped Toronto 6-3 and Texas defeated Seattle 5-2.

Last Wednesday, Stewart's try to become the first pitcher to win 20 games in three consecutive years since Jim Palmer in 1975-78 ended when Eckersley gave up a two-run homer in the ninth inning to Milwaukee's Greg Vaughn. Henderson's home run eventually gave the victory to Eckersley.

Stewart allowed four hits in eight innings at Cleveland and left with a 2-1 lead. But his hopes for his 100th career victory ended when Brook Jacoby led off the ninth with a home run against Eckersley.

Eckersley wound up with another victory when Henderson singled home the go-ahead run in the 10th.

"It's never easy to swallow, to watch a win get away when you just need one to win 20," Stewart said.

The Associated Press

Chicago's Daryl Boston scrambles home in ninth inning

"It's important because, for all the things that haven't happened to me in the 1980s, this would set me apart from any other pitcher in the decade.

"With Eck coming in the game, there's almost a 100 percent chance he's going to close it out," he said. "There was no doubt in my mind he would do it."

Eckersley, 3-0, blew his fifth save opportunity in 34 chances.

Oakland improved to 4-10 in extra innings. Cleveland lost its fourth straight game and is 2-15 in extras.

In their last nine games, the Indians have gone into extra innings five times. They have lost all five.

Red Sox 6, Blue Jays 3

Boston, which has lost 15 straight games at home to the Blue Jays since 1987, won at Toronto.

Toronto had its three-game winning streak stopped and its lead in the AL East cut to two games over Baltimore. The Red Sox won their fourth straight and pulled to 8½ back.

A record crowd of 49,579 at the SkyDome saw the Red Sox win for the fourth time in five tries at Toronto this year.

Nick Esasky hit a two-run homer, capping a five-run third inning. On Sunday, Esasky got his 27th home run and 100th RBI.

Mike Boddicker, 13-11, gave up three runs, two of them earned, in seven innings. Rob Murphy finished with one-hit relief for his eighth save.

George Bell drove in two runs, giving him 99 RBIs.

Angels 6, Twins 3

Bert Blyleven pitched eight strong innings and Chili Davis hit a three-run homer as California beat Minnesota for its eighth victory in 11 games.

Blyleven, 16-4, beat his former team for the second time this season and mathematically eliminated the Twins from the race. Blyleven gave up one run on seven hits, including Kent Hrbek's 200th career homer.

Davis hit his 22nd home run off David West, 3-2.

Kirby Puckett got three hits for the Twins and raised his major league-leaving total to 201. He reached 200 hits for the fourth straight year.

White Sox 4, Royals 2

Reliever Jeff Montgomery's throwing error keyed Chicago's three-run rally in the ninth inning as the White Sox won at Kansas City.

Tom Gordon and Steve Crawford combined to hold Chicago to three hits in eight innings. But Ivan Calderon singled to start the ninth and scored on Carlton Fisk's double for a 2-2 tie.

After Daryl Boston walked, pinch hitter Steve Lyons followed with a sacrifice bunt to Montgomery, who threw the ball past third base as two runners scored.

Rangers 5, Mariners 2

Fred Manrique hit a tie-breaking, two-run double in the eighth inning as Texas beat Seattle before 4,654 fans, the smallest crowd of the season at Arlington Stadium.

Cardinals Win To Stay 5 Back...

In the other NL game, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 6-2.

Home runs by Gregg Jefferies, his ninth, and Darryl Strawberry, his 28th but first since Aug. 16, helped stake the Mets to an early lead.

The Cubs caught up to Viola, 3-5, by scoring four times in the fifth, the capper being Salazar's two-run homer. It was Salazar's ninth homer of the season and first since being acquired by the Cubs from San Diego Aug. 30.

Salazar, who had faced Viola in the American League, said he was "looking for something in the strike zone that I could drive. I know he goes to offspeed pitches when there are runners on base."

Viola, facing the Cubs for the first time, had little choice but to throw offspeed pitches.

"I'm a four-pitch pitcher," he said, "but the only pitch I had working tonight was my changeup. I got away with it the first few innings, but I was behind the hitters all night and you can't get by major league hitters with only one pitch."

The Cubs chased Viola by scoring twice in the sixth, then scored what proved to be the deciding runs in the eighth. Williams drove in three with his homer, then allowed three in the top of the ninth.

Williams got Les Lancaster out of a jam in the eighth when the Mets scored once, and he retired the first two batters in the ninth.

But a double by Kevin Elster, a walk, singles by Jefferies and Juan Samuel and a hit batsman brought Strawberry up as the tying run.

Williams got Strawberry on strikes to end the game.

Cardinals 3, Expos 2
Jose DeLeon was wild, but Montreal's hitters were undisciplined. As a result, the Expos are in even worse shape than the Mets.

St. Louis got a two-run double from Milt Thompson and a solo homer from Tony Pena to win for only the fourth time in 12 games.

DeLeon, 16-11, entered the game having allowed only two earned runs in his previous 30½ innings — a 0.59 earned-run average. He has been especially effective against Montreal this season, winning four of five decisions.

Rained out Wednesday after allowing just one hit over 5½ innings of a scoreless tie against Pittsburgh, DeLeon blanked Montreal until running into control trouble in the eighth. He allowed just two hits, but walked five while striking out five.

Jose Oquendo and Tom Brunansky walked against Bryn Smith, 10-10, with one out in the second and advanced on a single by Pena to load the bases. DeLeon forced Oquendo at home on a grounder to Smith before Thompson doubled to left.

Pena hit his fourth homer, off reliever John Candelaria, to make it 3-0 in the eighth.

Pirates 6, Phillies 2

Three hits and three RBIs by Bobby Bonilla led Pittsburgh to its eighth victory in nine games.

Sheridan Wary Of Tar Heels

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — Eighteenth-ranked North Carolina State and North Carolina renew their football rivalry on Saturday, and Wolfpack coach Dick Sheridan says he's trying not to think about his team's 48-3 victory last year.

"A lot of you aren't going to believe me when I say this," Sheridan said Monday at his weekly press conference, "but we really feel that — in matchups — we're going to get our severest test."

"They're going to be a motivated, confident team," he said. "Any time you lose a game the year before, there's a special feeling that a team or an athlete has. That's a motivating factor for any team."

The last time North Carolina State was able to beat North Carolina in Raleigh was 1975 when current Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz led the Wolfpack program. The Wolfpack comes into this game at 3-0, while the Tar Heels are 1-1.

Broncos Whip Bills, 28-14...

(Continued from B-1) Then Andre Reed, who had 13 receptions for 157 yards, fumbled and Denver converted it into David Treadwell's 46-yard field goal as the first half ended.

The rookie kicker also hit from 22, 33 and 24 yards. 'We've always got somebody coming up with a big play when we need it,' said Tyrone Braxton, who had one interception Monday night and scored on an interception return last week. 'Our rule is be consistent, don't give up the big plays and make the big plays ourselves.'

Usually, that's what the offense does. It had its share of critical plays, too - by Vance Johnson, Humphrey and Sammy Winder, who went past 5,000 career rushing yards, and of course, quarterback John Elway. 'This is a big, big win for us with a young team,' said Elway, who saw Reeves make more personnel changes than any other coach in the league. 'We knew we had to slow them down with our defense and the defense really hung in there.'

Football Contest

 2nd Prize $15

The end zone in real estate is the closing meeting. As in football, it's a lot easier to get into the end zone if you understand and practice the fundamentals. My team is Aldridge & Southerland, and my coach will tell you that I practice the fundamentals. I've been in the end zone 24 times with 2 weeks left in the 3rd quarter. If you would like to hear more about the #1 team in Pitt County, and a Realtor who practices the fundamentals, give me a call.

DUNKEL INDEX COLLEGE FOOTBALL

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

the situation was tailor-made for Tommy. Most declarers would have played East for both the king and jack of clubs, but not our man. TCT cashed the ace and king of diamonds, discarding a club from the table, then ruffed a diamond. Next came dummy's remaining high trump and the ace-king of spades. There was still one major hurdle to surmount. Tommy led a club to the queen and, when the finesse succeeded, the hand was over. Declarer cashed the ace of clubs, led his last diamond and caught West between the devil and the deep blue sea. If the defender ruffed, dummy's trump would be established as the fulfilling trick; if West discarded, the table's trump would win a trick en passant. When West chose to discard, both defenders won the last trick—West with his master trump and East with the king of clubs.

Guards May Have Charged Refugees

BUDAPEST, Hungary — Nine Hungarian border guards have been accused of taking advantage of the East German immigrant exodus by charging refugees money to help them flee to the West, state news media said today.

The MTI news agency quoted the military prosecutor's office in the western Hungarian town of Gyöer as saying the guards had, in exchange for "significant sums" of money, helped East Germans across the border sometime after Aug. 20.

Five of the guards have been arrested and the other four have been taken off border patrol duty, MTI said.

East Germans vacationing in Communist Hungary began pouring into Austria in May, when Hungary started removing border fortifications on its western boundary to symbolize its liberal political reforms and its desire for closer ties to the West.

The steady flow to West Germany, where East Germans are granted automatic citizenship, turned into a deluge on Sept. 10, when Hungary defied its hard-line Warsaw Pact allies and organized a mass transfer of tens of thousands of East Germans.

Also today, officials in West Germany said about 700 more East Germans had arrived in the past 24 hours from Hungary, bringing the total of refugees arriving since Hungary opened its western border Sept. 11 to nearly 17,000.

In Prague, Czechoslovakia, the number of East Germans seeking refuge in the West German Embassy has reached 400, diplomatic sources said.

Hungarian radio said there are more than 500 East Germans in the West German missions in Prague and Warsaw, adding this was likely due to the fact that "Czechoslovak authorities are turning people (East Germans) back, that is preventing them from going to Hungary although they have valid travel documents authorizing them to travel to Hungary."

The most direct route for East Germans traveling to Hungary on their way to West Germany is through Czechoslovakia, which is sandwiched between East Germany and Hungary.

In Leipzig, East Germany, police arrested about 100 people attending an evening prayer service in the city's Nikolai church, sources said today.

Church sources, requesting anonymity, said most of those arrested late Monday were members of the pro-reform group "New Forum." They were among a crowd of more than 1,000 people attending what they call "peace prayers."

The opposition group announced its formation two weeks ago in Leipzig and has gathered signatures from more than 1,500 East Germans demanding immediate reforms in the country's hard-line Communist system, Hesse state radio said early today.

On Sept. 11, East German police arrested about 100 people during a similar service at the Nikolai church.

Revived Communists Move Up Date for Next Party Congress

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — The Communist Party today handed President Mikhail S. Gorbachev a chance next year to overhaul the party, which he said was being left behind by the nation's rapid social changes.

The party's 251-member Central Committee, its policy-making body, opened a meeting primarily devoted to ethnic unrest throughout the Soviet Union. But its first task was to reschedule the next congress of about 5,000 party delegates for October 1990, the Tass news agency said.

"The decision to convene the congress at an earlier date is dictated by the need to thoroughly update the party itself, with regard for its new role as the political vanguard of society during the state of restructuring," Gorbachev told the Central Committee.

He said the need to renew the party applied to the Central Committee itself.

A congress theoretically is the party's most powerful body, setting broad policy lines as well as determining the membership of the Central Committee and the ruling Politburo. It historically has reviewed the leadership's economic plans for the ensuing five years.

Congresses are usually held every five years, and by party regulations the next congress would not have had to take place before early 1991.

The last, the 27th in the Communist Party's history, was held in February 1986.

That was less than a year after Gorbachev took power, when the Soviet leader had not yet accumulated as much power as he has now.

Gorbachev expressed concern that the party is lagging behind the political reforms he has set in motion — including the shift of more political power to elected government bodies.

"The reconstruction forces are going at such a rhythm that we often cannot catch up with them," Gorbachev said. He said many party organizations were slow to grasp the need for change, and "in this, we lose a great deal."

"We cannot leave things as they are, especially since fundamental economic and social processes are unfolding and an ideological and political struggle is under way over key problems of social development," Gorbachev said.

Some party stalwarts have said they fear the only legal political party in the country is losing its grip on power, as the legislature strengthens under Gorbachev's reform and frustrated citizens start taking local power into their own hands.

In addition to dissatisfaction with the poor state of the economy, ethnic disputes across the country threaten to imperil Gorbachev's reform drive.

More Bombs Go Off In Colombian Capital

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOGOTA, Colombia — Two more bombs exploded in Bogota, one injuring three people, and troops battling drug gang violence reported seizing a 22,000-acre ranch owned by a man reputed to be among Colombia's top cocaine barons.

Security was stepped up at the U.S. Embassy on Monday, which was struck the previous night by a rocket that did not explode.

Two bombs exploded Monday night in Bogota, at a shopping center and at a government telephone company's substation, a police spokesman said.

No one has claimed responsibility for a rash of terrorist shootings and bombings since Aug. 18, when the government cracked down on Colombia's powerful drug bosses. But drug thugs have been blamed for the attacks, which have left 42 people dead and at least 119 injured.

In response to the government campaign against them, Colombia's cocaine bosses declared "total war" on the country's establishment.

The shopping center explosion in this capital of 6 million people injured a child, a man and a woman, the Colombian radio chain RCN said in a report from the scene.

A man was seen placing the bomb in a pile of garbage bags in front of a store, witnesses told an RCN reporter.

A national police spokesman said the other bomb was thrown from a car at the substation. He said a guard shot one and wounded one bomber, but all the attackers fled in the car.

Soldiers on Sunday seized a 22,000-acre ranch belonging to billionaire Jose Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha, said a spokesman with the army's 13th Brigade headquarters in Bogota.

Rodriguez Gacha is suspected of being a key figure in the Medellin cocaine cartel that supplies most of the cocaine distributed in the United States.

Also seized with the ranch in central Cundinamarca state were 5,000 head of cattle and 300 show horses, he said.

Last month, the army seized 18 ranches belonging to Rodriguez

Gacha, who is among 12 Colombian drug figures wanted in the United States.

The ranches were seized under emergency powers instituted by President Virgilio Barco to counter a wave of terror by Colombia's cocaine overlords.

Drug traffickers have killed scores of judges and waged much of their terror campaign to thwart the government from extraditing drug barons to the United States.

The mayor of Medellin, Juan Gomez Martinez, on Monday called for Barco to "tell the whole truth" and reveal the names of important Colombians involved in drug trafficking.

'Lonesome Dove' Snub Comes As Shock To Emmy Watchers

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Stamped, Plucked, Left in the Dust. The angry headlines in Texas newspapers said it all.

The CBS miniseries, "Lonesome Dove," a saga of western frontier life, got barely a nod from the television industry in Sunday night's Emmy awards and Texas viewers weren't happy about it.

"It's something that you can't help feeling bitter or upset about," said Helen Human, the Dallas actress who portrayed the bossy and buxom "Peach."

The epic depicted a cattle drive from dusty Lonesome Dove, Texas, to Montana. It's central characters were two aging Texas Rangers portrayed by Robert Duvall and Tommy Lee Jones.

Although "Lonesome Dove" gathered a leading seven trophies including Saturday's technical ceremony, the adaptation of Larry McMurtry's acclaimed novel won only one key category Sunday, for director Simon Wincer. It received 18 nominations, more than any show.

"I just wish the people who were more vitally involved with it got the recognition they needed to get,"

said Ms. Human. "It kind of gives me the impression that somebody woke up with a sore tooth when they voted—that's how ridiculous it is."

Sore heads might have been involved; too, Ms. Human said.

"Mr. Duvall is a very talented person, but he's also a very strong person and a lot of times, Hollywood doesn't like that. ... But, there's no way you're going to know for sure."

A television critic at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram called the decision "an unbelievable lapse in judgment."

The Television Academy of Arts and Sciences "embarrassed itself by refusing to honor 'Lonesome Dove' as the season's finest miniseries," Art Chapman wrote.

The winner of that category was the monumental ABC saga "War and Remembrance."

Many industry watchers thought Duvall had a virtual lock on a best actor Emmy for his portrayal of the talkative Texas Ranger Gus. The award went instead to James Woods, who played the co-founder of Alcoholics Anonymous in the CBS movie "My Name is Bill W."

Even Dan Curtis, the executive producer of "War and Remembrance," called his victory "a major shock."

New Videocassettes Will Offer More Storage Space

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Tired of all those videocassettes cluttering up your house? Wouldn't it be nice to be able to tape 10 favorite TV soaps or five or six movies on one cassette?

How about 30 hours of recording per cassette?

Barbara Says You Can't Do It All

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — Television correspondent Barbara Walters says women cannot have it all — career, marriage and children — and she pointed to herself as an example.

"You can have a great marriage and great children; great marriage and great career; great career and great children. But I think it is so hard to have a great marriage, a great career, not a job but a career, and great children," Ms. Walters told the "Virginia Woman '90s" conference sponsored by Sen. John W. Warner, R-Va.

She advised the 2,100 women in the audience Monday not to feel guilty if they have trouble meeting the demands of career and family, and admitted it hasn't been so easy for her.

"I've been divorced. I have a daughter, who, thank God, is 21 and out of her adolescence," said the 57-year-old ABC correspondent and star of the "20-20" show.

Ms. Walters advised the women to have a life beyond getting up in the morning and going to work, "although that can be pretty wonderful and intoxicating."

West German videocassette manufacturer BASF says that by 1991 it will be offering U.S. viewers a tape with a 10-hour capacity.

Meanwhile, a Finnish company, Nokia, says it has developed a new technology allowing a new line of VHS recorders to cram those 10 hours onto a tape without the loss of picture quality that results when today's VCRs are cranked down to their slowest speeds.

"The picture quality is better than existing long-play systems," Nokia spokesman Lauri Kivinen said in a telephone interview last week.

Nokia, a major manufacturer of television sets in Europe, hopes to license its new technology to VCR manufacturers and the new recorders could be on the market sometime in 1990, Kivinen said.

The BASF tape will be usable on existing videocassette recorders. BASF will use a superstrong, thin polyester film to pile more tape into each videocassette, according to the Sept. 11 issue of TV Digest, which reviewed the new Nokia and BASF products at the Berlin Audio-Visual Fair.

The BASF cassette will allow up to 15 hours of taping on VCRs with a European system that uses a slower speed than U.S. videocassette recorders.

U.S. VCRs provide two hours of recording at normal speed on a standard cassette. American VCRs also have a half-speed, long-play mode that allows four hours of recording, and a one-third, extended-play speed that allows six hours of recording.

The higher the taping speed, the better the image quality.

Nokia says it has found a way to record at a speed equivalent to the extended-play mode while maintaining image quality that is better than long-play mode.

Kivinen said Nokia hopes its system will become the new standard for VCRs. TV Digest quoted the system's inventor, Nokia engineer Gerd Reime, as saying that although no tests have been conducted, 30 hours of taping may be possible using his new technology.

Reime said the new circuitry could cost as little as $3 to incorporate into new VCRs.

BASF has been testing its new super long-play tape for about a year and will introduce it in Europe this fall, according to Tom Neidhart, director of marketing at BASF's information systems division in Bedford, Mass.

"By 1991 we expect to offer the 10-hour tape in the U.S.," Neidhart said.

BASF already markets a videocassette in the United States that allows eight hours of taping at slow speed. But the tape has captured only a small percentage of the blank videocassette market, which is approaching 300 million units in annual sales, Neidhart said.

BASF launched a national television ad campaign last month to try to boost sales for the eight-hour tape.

"We know from research that most people would like to use a longer tape for some or all of their recording purposes," Neidhart said, noting that it means viewers won't run out of tape too soon and that the tapes will take up less space in their video libraries.

Zsa Zsa Obeying Court Gag Order

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — An uncharacteristically taciturn Zsa Zsa Gabor heeded a judge's warning to refrain from comment about issues surrounding her cop-slapping trial.

"I'm under gagging order," Miss Gabor told reporters in the halls of Beverly Hills Municipal Court as her trial entered its second week Monday.

Miss Gabor faces four misdemeanor charges: battery on a police officer, disobeying an officer's orders, driving with an expired license and having an open container of alcohol in her car. If convicted, she could be sentenced to 18 months behind bars.

Miss Gabor uttered "no comment" more than seven times when questioned by reporters. She even said "no comment" when asked about her ensemble of white slacks and a Navy blue blazer.

Besides the gag order warning, Miss Gabor told reporters, "My mother is very upset and (sister) Eva could kill me" regarding the publicity accompanying the trial.

The defense has contended that the officer has a history of being abusive with people he has pulled over for traffic violations.

New 'Doctor' Shows Debut On Two Networks Tonight

By David Zurawik
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

Tuesday night is doctor night in the world of new season television premieres: "Doogie Howser, M.D." debuts on ABC and "Island Son," another new show featuring a medical doctor, appears on CBS.

If "Doogie Howser, M.D." isn't successful, it is not because of the writing. The pilot episode for this show about a 16-year-old doctor has some of the smartest touches since, well, Steven Bochco's last pilot.

Bochco, the man responsible for "Hill Street Blues" and "L.A. Law," is the executive producer of "Doogie Howser, M.D." You might want to remember that if you tune in Tuesday night and find early on that you are having some trouble swallowing the premise of this series.

Douglas (Doogie) Howser, played by Neil Patrick Harris, is a boy-wonder and then some. He graduated from Princeton at 10. Then he did med school in a couple of years. And he is now a resident at a big-league hospital.

Accepting that at first is a stretch. Think of the first time you saw Alex P. Keaton (Michael J. Fox) on "Family Ties." Now, think that if a few minutes into the pilot for "Family Ties" you had been told Alex not only believed he should be on the Federal Reserve Board, but he actually was.

But Bochco manages with some success to get us far enough inside Doogie Howser's head and heart by the end of the half hour that suspension of disbelief seems worth the chance to spend some time there.

Bochco accomplishes this mainly by using a device that seems pretty obvious once you stop and think about it. But it is a device I have not seen elsewhere in prime-time weekly television. Bochco uses Doogie's personal computer as a diary.

The last image in Tuesday night's premiere episode is of Doogie sitting in his room at his computer. The camera closes in on the computer's screen as he writes the day's date and then: "Kissed my first girl. Lost my first patient. Life will never be the same again ..."

The effect is even more melancholy than the adult voice-over often is in "The Wonder Years."

A lot of television precedes this poignant ending. Some of it is silly. Some of it is sad. Some of it's cliched. Some is original. And some of it even seems profound. The mix still needs some adjustments. But, overall, "Doogie Howser, M.D." feels a little like being 16.

"Island Son," starring Richard Chamberlain, mainly feels like it was made in a hurry.

The big news about "Island Son," of course, is the return to prime-time doctoring by Richard Chamberlain after signing off as Dr. Kildare 23 years ago.

In "Island Son" Chamberlain plays Dr. Daniel Kulani, an adopted son of Hawaiian parents. He works at a hospital in Hawaii. He's the doctor who doesn't wear a white jacket when he makes his rounds. This is supposed to suggest that he's into more important things than appearances and status.

It is never really clear, though, what Dr. Kulani is into. He makes a couple of speeches about being in some kind of spiritual contact with the essence of old Hawaii and its pureness. But it is the kind of vague psycho-religious-pop-talk that makes Shirley MacLaine seem real accessible.

Dr. Kulani's Hawaiian father is even worse. He sounds like Pat Morita in "The Karate Kid" — which seems to be Hollywood's idea of how a holy man from the Far East sounds.

The big dilemma of Tuesday night's episode concerns Dr. Kulani trying to get the mother of a child who's living on life support systems to donate her daughter's heart so that another child might live. Dr. Kulani goes to ask his father for guidance.

"Listen to the voice within, my son," the elder Kulani says. His son says he's confused by the inner voices.

"Your mother," the old man says, "sometimes she feels the spirit of her mother in the rush of a warm wind, in the shape of a cloud ... (it's) eternal."

Is it pantheism or is it Memorex? Only Dr. Kulani knows.

Lowe's Raincheck Policy:
If an advertised item is temporarily out-of-stock, we will gladly issue a raincheck (except for items marked limited quantities, discontinued or closeout).
