Coastal Residents Flee Inland As Hugo Nears

By Bruce Smith
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Thousands of residents were ordered to evacuate their homes along the South Carolina coast today to avoid the brunt of Hurricane Hugo as the killer storm lashed the Southeast from North Carolina to Florida.

With landfall expected as early as tonight, schools were closed, homes and buildings were boarded up and South Carolina's governor declared an emergency, ordering all coastal residents to head inland from Hilton Head Island to North Myrtle Beach, with the exception of downtown Charleston.

The National Guard was called in to assist in the evacuation, with 400 guardsmen dispatched to the coast.

The order came as the National Hurricane Center issued a hurricane warning for the length of the South Carolina coast, indicating hurricane conditions are likely within 24 hours.

"The governor urges all citizens in the general proximity of the coast in low-lying areas to make preparations to move inland for their safety as soon as possible," said Gov. Carroll Campbell's spokesman, Tucker Eskew.

Campbell urged residents to take seriously the storm that has killed at least 25 people in Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Elsewhere, residents of Georgia's barrier islands were asked to evacuate, while coastal residents in Florida and North Carolina began moving inland voluntarily.

In the hurricane's wake, more than 1,100 U.S. military police were due to arrive in the Virgin Islands today after President Bush ordered them to stop a frenzy of looting.

The troops were to join U.S. marshals, FBI agents and armed Coast Guardsmen already dispatched after police reportedly joined prison escapees and machete-armed mobs in wild looting.

"Everyone in the federal pen there is loose," said Eileen Long, a New York City advertising executive who was among 145 St. Croix tourists who arrived in Miami late Wednesday on a Pan Am evacuation flight arranged by U.S. marshals.

"There are murderers and snipers running around everywhere," she said.

Bush also declared the Virgin Islands a disaster area and freed up $500,000 in federal funds for the relief effort.

Hugo spared the Bahamas and quickly accelerated as it moved over open waters Wednesday.

"An increase in forward speed increases the likelihood that it will strike the coast and not recurve, heading out to sea," said Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Florida.

Early today, rain from Hugo fell from North Carolina to Melbourne, Fla., said Bob Ebaugh of the hurricane center.

USAir Jet Hits Water In N.Y.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Aviation officials questioned crew members and recovered flight recorders today in an effort to learn why a USAir jet carrying 63 people aborted takeoff for Charlotte, N.C., and skidded into the East River, killing two passengers.

About 10 people were rescued clinging to driftwood, while others huddled on the wing of the 9-month-old Boeing 737-400 that broke apart late Wednesday at the water's edge at LaGuardia Airport.

"We just grabbed on to a big piece of wood and held on for dear life," said Tom Newberry, 27, of New York City.

This morning, the plane's data and cockpit voice recorders were recovered, Port Authority spokesman Mark Marchese said. Officials from the National Transportation Safety Board arrived and began talking to the crew.

"Something happened and he put on the brakes. The plane took a dip and the next thing I knew all hell broke loose," said passenger Larry Martin of New York City, who huddled in blankets with his wife, Valerie.

"People were on top of each other. People were screaming. There was the smell of gas. Everyone was saying 'Get out! Get out! Get out!'" he said. The Martins got out, and held fast to driftwood until a police boat plucked them from the water.

Officials said two women who had seats in the rear of the plane near where the fuselage snapped were killed. Their bodies were taken from the cabin; the cause of death was not immediately known.

Tar Heels Bracing For Hugo

By L.L. Grimmer

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. — Residents of North Carolina's southeast coast taped windows and stocked cupboards today in preparation for storm surges as Hurricane Hugo sped toward the southeastern U.S. coast.

"We're just expecting rain and high winds," said Tom Ditt of the state Division of Emergency Management in Raleigh. "We expect it to hit south of Charleston, S.C. We're just watching."

Robin Beville, owner of an Amoco convenience store less than a mile from the beach at Wrightsville Beach, said everyone was nervous about the hurricane. She taped the windows of the store, but didn't board them.

"Diana, back in 1984, was nothing really to worry about," said Ms. Beville, a 25-year-resident of the island. "This one's expected to be bigger ... it's still exciting, as long as you're safe."

Estranged Wife Wins Right To Recover Frozen Embryos

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MARYVILLE, Tenn. — A judge ruled today that seven frozen human embryos caught up in a divorce battle should go to the woman who hopes to have a child with them, not the estranged husband who doesn't want to be a father.

Circuit Court Judge W. Dale Young ruled in favor of Mary Sue Davis over husband Junior Davis.

He said the embryos created through in-vitro fertilization were life and not property.

The judge ruled that "from fertilization, the cells of a human embryo are differentiated, unique and specialized to the highest degree of distinction."

Therefore, he said, "human embryos are not property. ... Human life begins at conception."

He said he was granting temporary custody to Mrs. Davis because it was "in the manifest best interests of the child or children" who exist in embryonic form.

Child support, visitation and final custody will be decided if one of the embryos results in a birth, he wrote.

Neither Davis nor Mrs. Davis had any immediate comment on the decision. Both scheduled news conferences for later in the day.

The Davises became embroiled in a high-technology battle after they were unable to have children and turned to in vitro fertilization.

The couple produced nine embryos last December under the guidance of Dr. I. Ray King at a Knoxville clinic. Two were implanted in Mrs. Davis at the time but failed to develop. The others were put into cold storage, where they have remained since Davis sued his wife for divorce in February.

During three days of testimony in August, Davis said he would feel "raped of my reproductive rights" if Mrs. Davis were allowed to have the embryos implanted without his consent.

"I'm not asking that they be destroyed," he said. "I'm just asking that they not be inserted in Mary or any other donor."

But Mrs. Davis, 29, argued that she should be allowed to have the embryos implanted in her womb, arguing they represent her best chance of becoming a mother.

School Bus Wreck Kills 15

ALTON, Texas (AP) — A school bus was hit by a delivery truck and plunged into a watery gravel pit today, killing at least 15 people and injuring 49, authorities said. The bus driver was unaccounted for.

The bus was mostly submerged in the pit, and rescuers used a crane to lift it out. Divers searched the pit. The number of people aboard the bus was not immediately known.

Ten ambulances, six fire departments and four boats also were helping in the rescue.

Authorities were unable immediately to say how much water was in the pit, but Capt. Rene Lopez Jr. said the pit was 20 feet to 25 feet deep.

David Wells, a Department of Public Safety spokesman at the agency's headquarters in Austin, gave the death toll in the 7:40 a.m. accident, which happened near the Mexican border about 75 miles from Brownsville.

Mike Herrera, who was trailing the bus and a soft drink delivery truck, said the truck ran into the back of the bus, knocking it into the pit. Herrera said he jumped into the water and helped rescue three students.

Betty Baldwin, a spokeswoman at HCA Rio Grande Medical Center, said the filled bus was headed for Mission High School when the accident was reported.

County Will Replace 'Unsafe' Buses

By J.R. Williams
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

It will be the middle of 1991 before 29 Pitt County school buses with potentially faulty fuel tank and seating designs are replaced, a county official said.

The buses, built before 1977, don't have protective cages around the gas tank that could prevent metal ruptures during a collision, said Rodney Bullock, transportation supervisor for the county schools. The fuel tank is in the area under the right front seats. "Also, the pre-1977 buses have metal railings around the seats," Bullock said. "This could cause injury if a passenger were to hit his head during an accident."

Twenty-nine of the 215 buses in use in Pitt County were built before 1977. The National Highway Safety Administration has indicated it will not ban the pre-1977 buses until July 1991, giving school systems time to have the potential for problems corrected.

"Hopefully, by the end of next school year we will have all our pre-1977 models replaced," Bullock said.

Barry Gaskins, the school system's public relations director, said students are more likely to be injured while boarding and unboarding buses than from an equipment problem.

"I think the big thing is to encourage parents to be aware of proper school bus behavior and the school safety rules and to enforce these rules," Gaskins said.

"There is not a whole lot that's going to hurt that bus, short of a train or a large truck. No serious injury has happened when cars have smacked into them. There have been a lot of critics, but that big yellow bus is still the safest thing on the road."

About 10,500 students are carried to and from school daily by school buses, Bullock said.

There have been four minor accidents so far this year, Bullock said. Only one involved another vehicle but no passengers were on the bus.

National Bus Safety Week started Monday and ends Saturday. Parents who have questions about bus safety may call Bullock at 756-1424.

Public Outcry Will Save Trees Along U.S. 264

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

With a lot of help from their friends, nearly 800 trees along U.S. 264 in Hyde County have been spared from the axe.

Gov. Jim Martin has announced that the N.C. Department of Transportation has decided to scuttle plans to clear trees from an 11.5-mile stretch of U.S. 264 between Wilkinson Creek and Swan Quarter.

An outcry from Hyde County commissioners and residents at a public hearing three weeks ago forced the state to "re-evaluate" its decision to cut the trees, according to the governor's office.

Larry Stallings, area traffic engineer with DOT in Wilson, said today he expected the state might reverse its decision because of public sentiment. But, he said, "I don't know that this is an ultimate decision that will last for 50 years."

Until the state makes a decision to clear the shoulders or widen the road, Stallings said DOT will do what it can to make the road safer. The proposed safety measures include installing raised center-line markers and reflective disks on posts along the shoulder, repainting the lines and adding a six-inch reflective tape along the edge of the pavement.

"The only thing I'm hoping is we don't have any more problems,"

Stallings said. But he added that his department was "caught between a rock and a hard place" in trying to provide a safe highway and at the same time meet the concerns of the public.

Public sentiment on the project has swung to both extremes.

Following a 1987 accident in which three teen-age boys were killed when their car struck a tree, the Hyde County Commissioners and residents of neighboring Belhaven asked DOT to remove the trees. But with new members of the board and nearly three years since the accident, the people of Hyde reversed their position.

In the past 10 years 74 accidents and five fatalities have occurred along the roadway. The state also has six lawsuits claiming negligence on the part of DOT for not provide a safe highway.

Greenville police said the theft of a video cassette recorder was reported to the department about 12:34 a.m. today.

Officer J.G. Jenkins said the video recorder was taken from a room at the Econo Lodge motel on Memorial Drive.

Drug Arrests

Greenville police arrested six people Wednesday on drug violation charges — five of them in connection with a 7:30 p.m. incident at 608B Ford St.

Police assigned to the department's special investigations section and other officers said the five were charged with possession with intent to sell and deliver heroin and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Those arrested were identified as: Arthur Lee Tyson, 28, of 603 Shepard St.; Roland Smith, 32, of 1493 Fleming St.; Anita Mayo Joyner, 36, of 1110 Douglas Ave.; Betty Jean Winfield, 43, of 109 Paris Ave., and Jessie Calvin Daniels, 30, of 900 Bancroft Ave.

Investigators said that $510 worth of heroin was confiscated from the Ford Street home where the group were taken into custody.

Officer M.T. Scheid said the other drug arrest Wednesday occurred at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Dickinson Avenue at about 12:47 p.m. when Travis Nesham Matthews, 18, of Robersonville was charged with possession of marijuana.

Theft Arrests

Three people were arrested by Greenville police on theft charges Wednesday in connection with a 12:39 p.m. incident at 806 Ward St.

GUC Issues Tips On What To Do If The Power Fails

By Stuart Savage
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Being faced with the threat of high winds and torrential rains from Hurricane Hugo that could interrupt electric service to customers in the Greenville area, Greenville Utilities Commission officials today said the best way to survive a power outage is to be prepared.

Malcolm Green, GUC's general manager, and Roger Jones, director of electric systems for the utility, this morning offered suggestions to area residents on how to prepare for Hugo's possible arrival in the area.

If your power goes off, check to see if the outage includes other houses in your neighborhood.

If it doesn't, check your fuse box or circuit breaker panel to see if you can locate the problem.

If the neighboring houses are dark, too, look to see if there are any trees or branches on the lines and if there are any downed wires, flashes of light or any other signs of trouble.

Don't touch or attempt to move any electric lines or trees or any other obstacle in contact with electric lines. Stay well away from dangerous areas and if a wire falls on your car while you're in it, stay in the car until the wire is removed.

When an outage occurs, call Greenville Utilities — 752-7166 during regular business hours, or 752-5627 during evenings or weekends. After a major storm, calling will take a great deal of patience because many other people are also trying to call.

Green said that during emergencies, GUC has eight phone lines set up to handle calls around the clock. "Please be patient," he urged.

Jones said that GUC's emergency plan calls for the restoration of electric service to the largest number of customers in the shortest amount of time. This means that primary lines are repaired first, followed by secondary lines serving only a few customers.

Sometimes tree limbs fall on the wires coming from the pole to your house with such force that the wiring and meter base are pulled from the house, Jones said. In such cases, the home owner must call an electrician to make repairs before the GUC can restore your power, Jones said.

To prevent overloading the system when power is restored after an outage, turn off everything in your home except for one light. If the outage lasts over 60 minutes, turn off your water heater, too. In addition, make sure that the surface elements on your range have been turned off and that other heat-producing appliances are off as well. If left on, they can pose a serious fire hazard.

When the light you've left on glows, Jones said, you'll know that power has been restored. Over the next 30 to 40 minutes slowly switch your appliances back on. And leave a porch light on so that GUC repair crews will know when your service has been restored.

Jones said that if you keep your refrigerator and freezer closed, the contents of your refrigerator should be safe for at least 24 hours, while the contents of a freezer should be safe for 36 hours. If help is needed, Jones suggested, dry ice can be used to keep food frozen.

And an emergency kit that contains a flashlight, spare batteries, candles and candle holders, matches, battery-powered radio, manual can opener, a wind-up clock, paper plates and plastic utensils should be prepared in advance of the storm's arrival, along with bottled drinking water and food that does not need refrigeration.

Pitt Prepares For Hurricane

"This is not a time for panic, as far as we're concerned," Knowles said. "But it is a time to get prepared."

GOP Convention

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The state Republican Party will try to attract minorities this weekend with a message that a prosperous future can best be forged by the GOP, not by Democrats.

That theme will come through loud and clear in at least one workshop conducted during the North Carolina Minority Republican Convention Thursday through Saturday in Winston-Salem.

The convention, sponsored by the N.C. Minority Republican Council, will focus on the theme, "Outreach: Broadening the Republican Base." Lee Atwater, chairman of the Republican National Committee, Lt. Gov. Jim Gardner, and U.S. Rep. Howard Coble, R-N.C., have been invited to address convention delegates.

A&T Grant

GREENSBORO (AP) — The National Science Foundation has awarded North Carolina A&T State University a $2.5 million grant as part of a national effort to increase the number of black Ph.D.s in fields related to communications technology.

A&T won the grant in competition with 17 other historically black institutions.

Knowles met with officials from Greenville Utilities this morning to check the latest tracking charts of the storm. And a meeting of all city department heads was scheduled for 4 p.m. this afternoon to review emergency preparedness plans.

A strike on the coast could send refugees inland to escape the destruction. And Knowles said the city was preparing to set up temporary shelters for storm victims.

"We're set for whatever might happen," Knowles said.

Pitt County Emergency Services Coordinator Bobby Joyner said emergency services representatives from throughout the county met Tuesday to begin preparations for the storm.

Joyner advised residents to stock drinking water, non-perishable and canned foods in case of a power failure, and keep a battery-operated radio to listen to news and weather bulletins.

Joyner said the city was also prepared to open shelters for storm victims if needed.

Knowles said the city has also begun to prepare its emergency vehicles for the storm. Ambulances have been stocked with twice the usual provisions, and repair work to city vehicles possibly needed have been stepped up.

Even if the storm does not directly hit Greenville, city emergency workers could be called to assist in other areas.

"We're set for whatever might happen," Knowles said.

The Pitt County chapter of the American Red Cross has also begun preparing for an emergency.

Wednesday night the Red Cross held a training workshop in damage assessment for 120 East Carolina University students. The student volunteers would be sent to areas of the North Carolina coast if the hurricane hits to record damages.

"This is a very essential part of Red Cross disaster services after we set up shelters," executive director Raquel Zimmerman said.

The Red Cross has already designated six shelters in Pitt County to house refugees from the coastal counties of Carteret, Craven and Pamlico counties. The shelters will also handle any overflow from the Red Cross shelters in Martin County for storm victims from Dare County.

Ms. Zimmerman said anyone coming to the shelters should bring blankets, pillows and any necessary toiletries. No pets will be allowed in the shelters due to health reasons, and she said the Red Cross shelters will not have any place to secure valuables.

The Department of Social Services will open and man the shelters for Red Cross during the first 12 hours of operation. The Red Cross will then feed and shelter victims for up to 72 hours.

Camper Threatens To Use Witch Doctor

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A South Carolina judge will determine whether or not an unhappy camper should pay an Elkhart recreational vehicle manufacturer for damages after he threatened to put a curse on the business.

Coachmen Industries Inc., the nation's third-largest RV maker, filed the lawsuit against Philip Shaw of Wilson, N.C., after Shaw threatened to hire a witch doctor to place a curse on Elkhart County and its businesses.

The trial began Wednesday in the Court of Common Pleas in Darlington, S.C. A court spokeswoman said today testimony was expected to continue through tonight.

Shaw, who owns a used-car dealership in Florence, S.C., claims he bought a defective RV and received unsatisfactory repair service from the corporation.

Shaw mailed letters late last year to elected officials, businesses and journalists in Elkhart County.

"I will be bringing a real-life, honest-to-goodness, bone-chilling witch doctor to Elkhart to perform live to the national press or the highest bidder a curse ritual on the whole county of Elkhart, all its citizens, including you and your family, a curse on all the businesses of Elkhart and a curse on the waters of Elkhart, a curse on everything,"

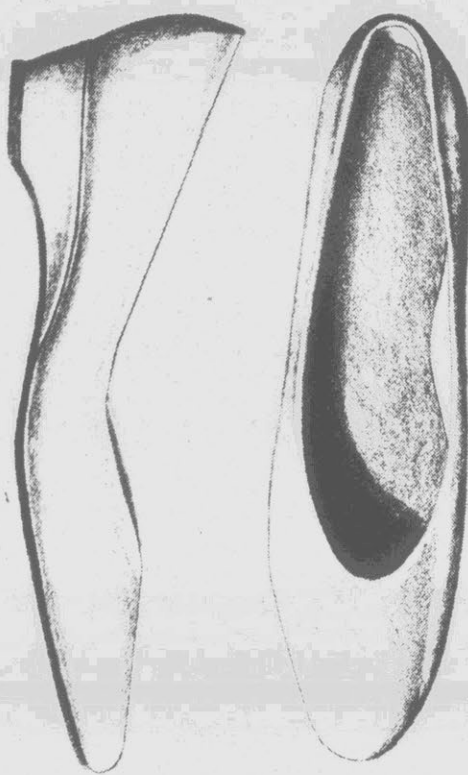

Shaw said in his letter.

Coachmen, which employs more than 2,000 workers in the area, filed its civil damage suit, which claims Shaw should pay the company to offset damages to its reputation caused by his malicious statements.

Company officials said Coachmen sued because it believes Shaw was attempting to extort $27,000 from the company.

Shaw has asked the company to pay him $72,000 for his motor home, which the company bought in April for $45,000. Shaw had purchased the 36-foot motor home by trading his pleasure boat, which was appraised at $50,000 by an independent boat broker in South Carolina.

Prevention

A Good Day's Work

An ounce of prevention may save North Carolina a pound of cure.

The state's Environmental Management Commission did a good day's work when it designated 200,000 acres of coastal waters as worthy of special protection. The commission earmarked eight areas in North Carolina as outstanding resource waters — ORWs. As ORWs, the waters will be protected by stricter controls on nearby development, wastewater discharges and marinas. Included are such well-known areas as Western Bogue Sound in Carteret County and the Alligator River in Dare, Tyrrell and Hyde counties. That crucial protection is where the prevention comes in.

The commission's decision represents an important commitment by the state — a commitment to preserve the water quality of still-pristine coastal areas. These waters are both productive fishing areas and stunningly beautiful recreation spots. Their value as part of North Carolina's natural heritage is immeasurable.

The decision also represents a victory for environmentalist-oriented members of EMC over recent appointees to the commission from the ranks of the Economic Alliance of North Carolina. The alliance represents developers and business interests.

The designation of ORWs is of vital importance to the state because, in environmental matters, there is little room for error. Once an area is developed and natural resources are polluted, the damage can seldom be undone.

Todd Miller, executive director of the Coastal Federation of North Carolina, said it quite well: "Prevention is the only thing that really works. You can restore waters that have been degraded, but it's very tough." And no doubt expensive beyond belief — here's where the pound of cure applies.

Ask the residents of the Chesapeake Bay about the cost — and success — of reclamation efforts. Closer to home, consider the water quality problems of the Pamlico River. Any solution will be slow and expensive.

The ORW designation should be seen as prevention. It is an intelligent approach to preservation of North Carolina's natural heritage and is an action that will help protect the state's resources for a generation yet unborn.

Be Ready

Never Underestimate A Hurricane

Today Hurricane Hugo barreled toward the United States' southeast coast. Where it will hit and what damage it will do is anybody's guess.

The best advice for everyone in its path, however, is to take Hugo seriously.

For those who have never lived through a hurricane, there is a tendency to underestimate them. Understand, however, that they can be killers.

Particularly on the Outer Banks of North Carolina are people and property vulnerable. There is no time to decide to leave after the storm hits. One can only ride it out and hope to stay alive.

It is also easy to feel that as far inland as Pitt County is, the mighty storm will abate before it arrives. It might be reduced in fury, but those who have seen past hurricanes here can attest to the great damage they can do. The winds can batter buildings, bring down power lines, block street and highways with fallen trees and limbs.

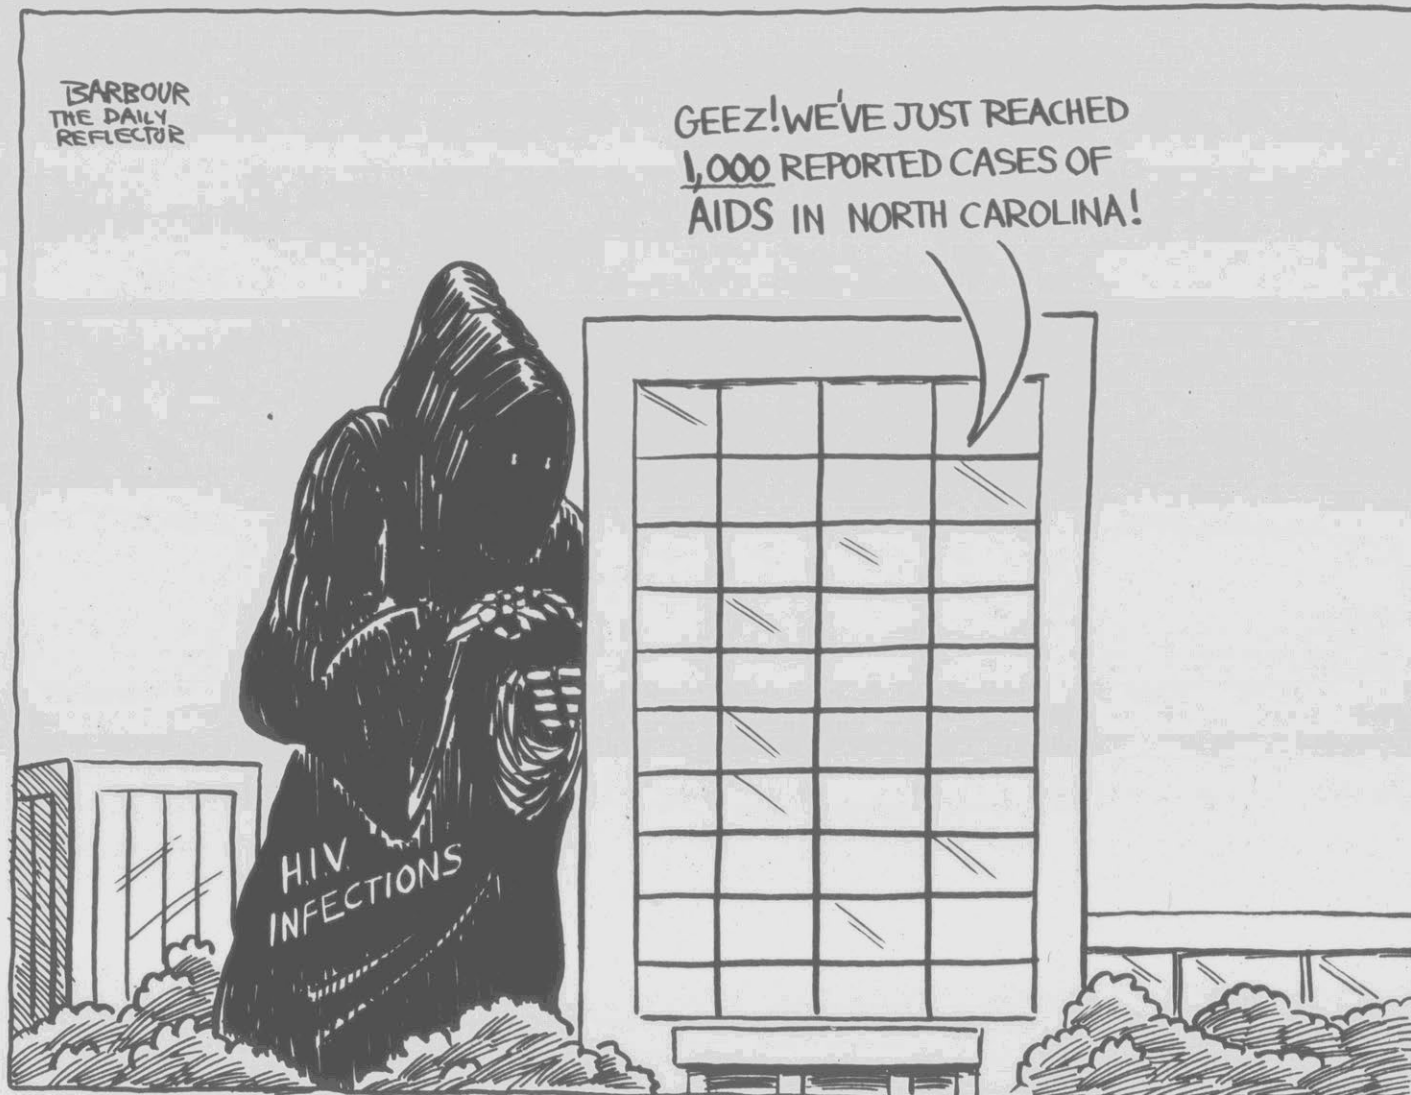

Flying metal and glass can kill a person in the storm's path if individuals are unlucky enough to be caught outside.

Even if the storm strikes south of North Carolina's coast and makes its way northward over land, the torrential rains can be devastating. Flash floods can result and life can be miserable for a time.

Compounding the dangers of Hurricane Hugo is the unusual situation of another tropical storm following behind it. If it continues it could bring a new deluge of precipitation and the flood dangers could be unprecedented.

The best protection is to stay up to date on hurricane bulletins and follow the advice of emergency management authorities. If an evacuation is called for, it is wise to go. There will be no one to turn to once the storm strikes.

Hurricane Hugo and its accompanying tropical storm may go elsewhere. If so, North Carolina's coast can breathe a sigh of relief. In the meantime, however, it must prepare for the possibility of being hit by the storm by laying in necessary supplies and determining the safest place should high winds or rising waters strike. The bottom line is: never underestimate the awesomeness of a tropical hurricane.

Time To Act Like A State

WASHINGTON — Ariel Sharon, the hard-line member of the Israeli cabinet, came to lunch at the Washington Post the other day. After some preliminary remarks, he recounted the murder of an Israeli Jew by a Palestinian. The murder was gruesome and Sharon spared few of the details. Around the table, lunch appetites evaporated.

Sharon told the story for a reason. Americans are naive, he says. They do not understand that in his part of the world, humanitarianism is an alien concept. The Middle East is a brutal area, the place where the concept of an eye for an eye originated and where the rules are that there are no rules. Human life is cheap.

Others make the same point, only they point to a rule. It is called the Hama Rule after the Syrian city which was leveled by the government after an insurrection. The precise number of fatalities are unknown, but anywhere from 5,000 to 30,000 residents were murdered. That is said to be an example of how the Arabs play the game — a ruthlessness that too often gets ignored in the West. Why, it is demanded, are the Arabs not condemned as forcefully as Israel?

That is always a good question. And it is one that now ought to be posed to the Palestinian leadership. Recently, Palestinians seem to be vying with Israeli soldiers when it comes to the killing of West Bank and Gaza Strip residents. These murders, some incredibly gruesome, cannot be taking place without the knowledge and permission of the PLO leadership — maybe even at its insistence. The victims are said to be Israeli collaborators, and surely some of them are. But just as surely some of them are not. The lawless settling of scores, for whatever reason, is always repulsive.

But more than that, it is downright frightening. The incessant murders, not to mention the methods used by the killers — hacking bodies, for instance — says to Israelis that leaders like Sharon are right. They are not dealing with opponents who know when to stop or who honor Western rules of engagement. They are dealing instead with killers and thugs, with those who follow Hama rules. To give these people a state of their own would be madness. To allow these people to create a national entity in the West Bank would be tantamount to national suicide.

No doubt, the Israelis have their collaborators. And no doubt, collaborators are harshly dealt with in any society. Nor is it clear that Arabs are any more barbaric than other peoples. Hama, as awful as that incident was, was repeated many times in Europe during World War II. People are massacred routinely in Africa and Asia and no one who has seen the work of the Central American death squads or armies can think that only Arabs know how to mutilate a body.

The brutality of certain Palestinians in no way delegitimizes claims for a Palestinian state anymore than the "necklacing" of blacks in South Africa means that apartheid is a just policy. But just as necklacing gave both blacks and whites some pause, so does Arab brutality give Palestinian sympathizers pause. The presumption for a Palestinian state is that it will be a peaceful one, that it will be honorable in its dealings with Israel and that it will respect human rights. That has to be questioned if, daily, Palestinians are murdered by other Palestinians in the most gruesome fashion — more than 100 in the last two years, with the rate rising steeply in recent months.

In South Africa, the necklacing of collaborators — suspected or real — was condemned by the black leadership. In one dramatic case, Bishop Desmond Tutu intervened at his own peril to save someone's life. Not so the PLO and its leadership. The murders are consistent with its order and, if Yasser Arafat is repulsed by them, he certainly has not said so. Either he is content with the way things are going or he has no control over them. Either prospect is disquieting.

My disagreement with Sharon is nearly total. The minister of Trade and Industry is a hard-liner, advocate of more West Bank settlements, architect of the disastrous war in Lebanon and, in the view of some therefore responsible for the massacres at the refugee camps of Shatila and Sabra. In the context of Israeli politics, it's pretty hard to get more to the right than Sharon. Yet, when he describes the murders, when he cites the toll Palestinians take on other Palestinians, when he says — probably with reason — that some of these killings are really private affairs — there is really no rebuttal.

For too long certain Israelis have spoken of Arabs as if they were primitives, less than human and not to be trusted. That sort of speech is both patronizing and tinged with racism. But it is just as patronizing not to condemn Arabs when, in fact, they do act in a primitive fashion. The PLO has got to bring an end to the murder of Palestinians by Palestinians and prove it does not operate by Hama rules. If it calls itself a state, it ought to start acting like one.

Voting With Their Feet

WASHINGTON —

Hungary's new ambassador has not been here long enough to have gotten the hang of the Washington art of using words to conceal thoughts. When, in a Sunday morning television interview, he was accused of giving an evasive answer to a question, Ambassador Peter Varkonyi said with unfeigned cheerfulness, "It is, it is. I should be evasive on that."

Having been blindsided by the ambassador's treacherous resort to candor, the interviewers fell to badgering him about philosophy: Is Hungary moving away from communism? The ambassador allowed a look of puzzlement, mingled with injured pride and sorrow about the confusions besetting mankind, to steal over his suddenly woeful countenance. Then he said, in effect:

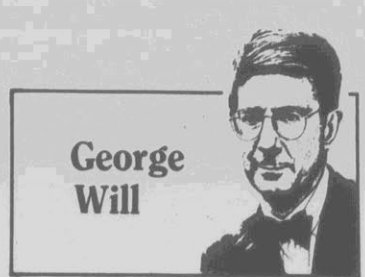

What's that you are suggesting? That Hungary has ever been — what was that peculiar word you used? — "Communist"? How do such odd rumors get started? Who is saying these hurtful things?

The ambassador's actual words were: "As a matter of fact, we are not — we never called ourselves a Communist country. We called ourselves a Socialist country...the Communist Party was called the Hungarian Socialist Workers Party, and it was not called the Communist Party."

The new party line in parts of Eastern Europe is that there has been an amusing mix-up — a silly misunderstanding, really: There never has been a Communist Party. In the current issue of National Review, Radek Sikorski, a Polish emigre, recounts his return to Warsaw where, in the inner recesses of the Communist Party's headquarters (where the night porter was watching "Miami Vice" dubbed in Polish), he asks a party official to pose for a photograph in front of the portrait on the wall:

"No, not under Lenin!"
"But aren't you a Communist?"
"No, I'm not a Communist."
"But you are one of the top leaders of the Communist Party."
"It's not a Communist Party. It's called the United Workers Party, and comprises two traditions, Communist and Socialist. I regard myself as a Social Democrat."

What is — was? — a Communist (person, nation)? It is, truth be told, hard to say because the Master was himself tantalizingly vague about that (you would have thought) crucial matter.

George Will

Marx was so busy predicting capitalism's collapse, he forgot to describe what would come next. Aside from the withering away of the state (it, being by definition an instrument of class oppression, would disappear when classes did), all he said was: Under capitalism man is a hunter or a fisherman or a shepherd or a critic, whereas in a Communist society he can be a hunter in the morning, a fisherman in the afternoon, raise cattle in the evening and be a critic after dinner.

Marx certainly did not burden his disciples with a too-detailed blueprint. But now we know that in a Communist society everyone does the same thing most of the time: They stand in queues. Or they go to Hungary and head west.

To the list of 19th-century theories slain by 20th-century facts, add one 20th-century theory now deceased: Twenty-five years ago there was a cottage industry among academics manufacturing variants of the theory that the Soviet and American systems were "converging." The former was supposed to "mellow" and the latter "progress" toward some mild social democracy, two bland leviathans living happily ever after.

Today, the Soviet Union is desperately in need of the book no one thought to write. As a Russian recently said, "There have been many books written on the transition from capitalism to socialism, but not one on the transition from socialism to capitalism."

Consider two stunning facts: East Germany, from which the highly skilled and educated young — tomorrow's elites — are fleeing, is the most productive and materially modern East European nation. And last week Boris Yeltsin (the "populist" described as the Soviet Union's Huey Long: actually he is their Imelda Marcos, a shop-till-you-drop communist) came to America: "All my impressions of capitalism, of the United States, of Americans that have been pounded into me over the years...all of them have been changed 180 degrees in the day and a half I have been here."

And where was the "here" where he had this epiphany about the commodious life and the sweetness of our people? New York City, believe it or not.

Today, East Germans, residents of what supposedly was communism's closest approximation to a success story, are "voting with their feet." The phrase was used in early 1917 to describe the behavior of the soldiers in the Czar's disintegrating army. The phrase-maker was Lenin. What goes around, comes around.

Bakker Defense Presents Case

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Attorneys for evangelist Jim Bakker began presenting their case to a U.S. District Court jury using the same videotapes of the PTL founder's television program.

Before presenting their evidence, Bakker's attorneys asked that the charges be dismissed, saying Bakker's right to practice religion was being violated.

"For the government to come in here and impose its laws and regulations on a ministry ... violates the Constitution," said defense attorney Harold Bender.

But U.S. Justice Department prosecutor Jerry Miller said the case was one of taxes — not religion.

"This is not a case about religion. This is a case about lying to people over television and cheating them out of their money. ... This is a case about fraud," he said.

The motion was denied by U.S. District Judge Robert Potter.

Prosecutors wrapped up their case Wednesday afternoon in Bakker's fraud trial, saying his ministry had oversold its "lifetime partnerships."

Prosecutors contend that Bakker used more than $3.7 million of the $157.9 million raised through the sales to finance a lavish lifestyle instead of building lodging he had promised the partners.

The government case in Bakker's fraud and conspiracy trial started Aug. 28.

Earlier Wednesday, FBI agent John Pearson recapped testimony showing that as of May 31, 1987 — two months after Bakker resigned — PTL had 152,903 fully paid partnerships costing $157.9 million.

Pearson said contributors sent $66.9 million for Heritage Grand partnerships, but that only 53 percent of that was spent on construction of the hotel.

More than $74 million was spent for Towers Hotel partnerships, Pearson said, and 15.4 percent of that was spent on the partially built hotel.

During a broadcast of his "The PTL Club" show, Bakker told viewers he wasn't trying to profit from partnership sales at PTL's Heritage USA complex near Fort Mill, S.C.

"We're not here to make money," Bakker said in an August 1986 broadcast. "I hope my critics wake up and realize I'd be a fool if I tried to make money off something like this."

"This is a deal of a lifetime," Bakker told viewers in another August promotional broadcast. "There are no fees. This is not a profit-making organization."

The first defense tape, one of five, showed a July 4, 1984, dedication ceremony at Heritage USA in which Bakker opened three facilities: a waterpark, a home for handicapped children called "Kevin's House," and Fort Hope, a facility constructed to house street people.

Tobacco Supporters Say Rose Race Would Hurt

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Tobacco industry officials fear their industry could lose some vital influence if Rep. Charles Rose gives up his U.S. House seat to run for the U.S. Senate.

Rose, D-N.C., is a strong defender of tobacco farmers, and chairman of the House tobacco and peanut subcommittee.

"I hate for us to lose the position he now has. But that's being selfish and I realize that," said Charles Harvey, executive vice president of Tobacco Growers Association of North Carolina.

"I'm not sure of the position of our other congressmen with regard to that committee," Harvey said in an interview. "I think it is very important that we have someone from the tobacco states that has a key role in that committee."

Rose said Wednesday that Rep. Charles Hatcher, D-Ga., would become chairman of the committee if Rose gives up the position. "Hatcher has both peanuts and tobacco in his district and I'm sure he would do a good job," Rose said.

"There's some rumors that Sen. Wendell Ford of Kentucky may not run again," Rose said, adding that "right now there are fewer voices for tobacco in the Senate than in the House." Ford represents burley tobacco producers.

"We certainly hope he would carry some of his tobacco power with him wherever he went," said Harvey, but "as far as his moving to the Senate side, he would start out in a junior position."

Rose said he thinks he can do more in the Senate than Sen. Jesse Helms for the tobacco industry and North Carolina.

"I don't think it's any secret in Washington that Jesse has made himself very objectionable as a senator. You don't get things done for tobacco or North Carolina by being ugly. And Jesse can stand up for his conservative principals as a paid stump speaker for the Heritage Foundation just as easily as he can as a U.S. senator."

As for Helms' influence in the Senate concerning tobacco, Rose said: "The Senate, over Jesse's objections, passed a permanent ban on smoking on all airline flights. Rose said he is working with a House and Senate conference committee on compromise legislation that is "more in line with the two-hour ban," a current law that will expire next year.

Rose has been critical of Helms' 1986 tobacco reforms, saying the reforms favor cigarette manufacturers.

Rose said he and other congressmen have put pressure on cigarette manufacturers by threatening not to help them fight battles over proposals to increase excise taxes, ban all advertising of tobacco products and other issues if the companies don't buy farmers' tobacco.

Census Confirms N.C. Sales Boom

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — A new report issued by the U.S. Census Bureau confirms what retailers and economists in North Carolina already knew: The state experienced a boom in retail sales through the mid-1980s.

The Census Bureau said the state's retail sales jumped to $39.1 billion in 1987 from $24.1 billion in 1982 — an increase of 62 percent. At the same time, U.S. retail sales grew an estimated 44 percent.

The report included sales from all types of retailers with paid employees. And in a companion measure of employment, the bureau said nearly 465,000 people in North Carolina were employed in retail trade in 1987, up 38 percent from 1982.

Retail sales are considered an important indicator of the economy because they account for the bulk of the nation's final output of goods and services. About 65 percent of the gross national product comes from retail sales.

Two factors influenced the growth of retail sales in North Carolina through the five-year period, an economist said Tuesday. One was the rebound from the 1981-82 recession, while the other was a significant increase in population.

"That time period is starting in a recession year (1982)," said Michael L. Walden, a professor of economics at N.C. State University. "You're looking at a relative boom period."

The expanding economy and population growth fueled the creation of new businesses and the development of retail centers, particularly in the state's urban areas. As a result, retail sales kept climbing, even after discounting the effects of inflation.

Hurricane Hazel Is The Standard For N.C. Storms

By Dennis Patterson
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Hurricane Diana rolled ashore at Carolina Beach in September 1984, Bob Norton and about 60 others huddled inside St. Paul's United Methodist Church as the 110-mph winds tore out a window and ripped shingles from the roof.

A nearby water tower collapsed in the raging wind, electric transformers exploded like firecrackers and the storm surge left six inches of water lapping against the walls of the church, three blocks from the beach.

"It wasn't too bad," Norton said this week as coastal residents kept a wary eye on the track of Hurricane Hugo. "Hazel and Connie, ... those were the really bad ones. This last one was really mild."

Many of those who sought shelter at the church had been stranded when high winds made the bridge from Carolina Beach to the mainland impassable. For some, it was their first hurricane.

But Norton, who has lived at Carolina Beach since the 1940s, had seen Hazel in 1954, Connie in 1955 and a host of smaller storms that raked the coast.

"It (Diana) was nowhere near as bad as Hazel and the ones that came immediately after it," he said. "Hazel brought an awful lot of water. Then the next one, Connie, ... brought terrific winds and a lot of wind damage."

Hurricane Hazel, the worst storm ever to hit the North Carolina coast, is the benchmark by which other hurricanes are judged.

The storm struck North Carolina and South Carolina on Oct. 15, 1954, causing more than $125 million in property damages and killing 22 people in the two states. The eye of the hurricane passed over Raleigh and roared overland up the East Coast to the Great Lakes overnight.

Diana, by contrast, wobbled off the coast for days before it landed at Carolina Beach, generating winds up to 135 mph, doing more than $66 million worth of damage and leaving three people dead.

For a night and a day, the storm hovered 15 miles off Carolina Beach, inching toward the coast, then moving away. More than 14,000 people moved to shelters while the hurricane swirled.

Officials estimated that only 200 to 300 people were too slow or too stubborn to get off Carolina Beach before Diana finally made its run to land. The winds had slackened to 110 mph by the time it hit, and dropped to 50 mph as it crept inland.

A year later, in September 1985, Hurricane Gloria brushed the Outer Banks, coming ashore at Buxton, but quickly returning to sea. The storm left an estimated $8 million in damages and one person dead.

Forecasters at the National Weather Service say it will be Thursday or early Friday before they have any solid ideas about where Hugo will make landfall.

Hugo, which has tropical storm Iris in its wake, left more than 50,000 people homeless and killed an estimated 25 others as it bounced along Puerto Rico and other Caribbean islands.

The storm surged past the Bahamas with sustained winds of 105 mph.

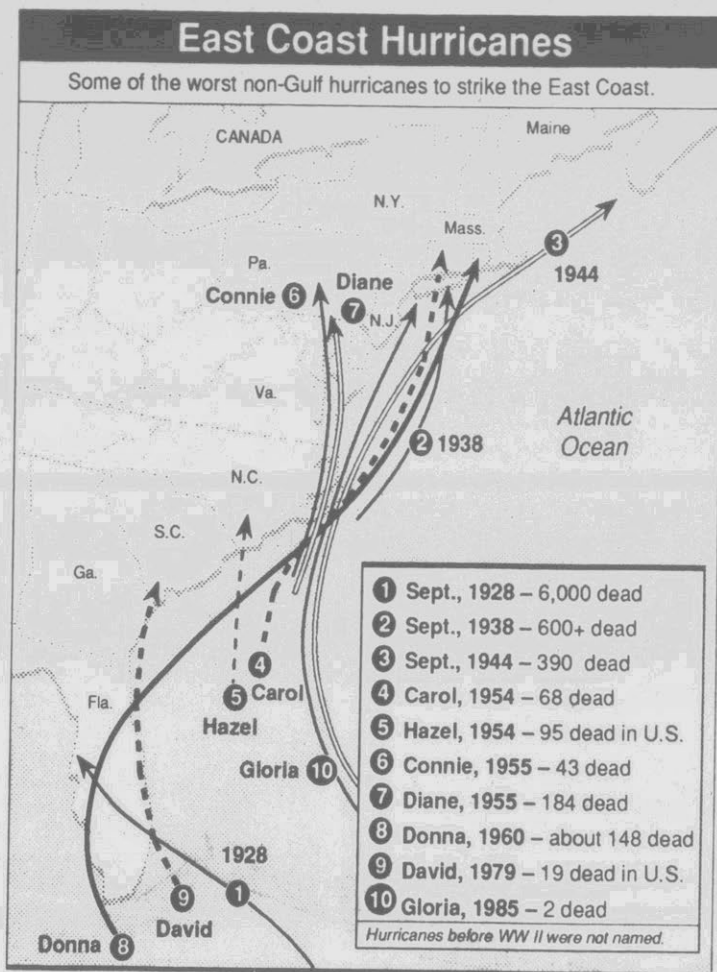

Even though Hugo was still far off, Norton said homeowners were starting to get ready Tuesday.

"People down here already are getting prepared, just in case," Norton said. "I see people getting their shutters ready to go over their windows and so on."

"The more you prepare, the less damage you're going to have," he said. "Years ago, when we didn't know to get prepared for them, they just took us by surprise."

Hurricanes, Norton said, are as much a part of life on North Carolina's coast as the ghost crabs and seagulls.

"We have hurricanes here and somewhere else they have tornadoes

Source: NOAA

AP/R. Dominguez

or heavy snow storms," Norton said. "You have freaks of nature anywhere you go, in every part of the country."

"Ours really are no worse than anywhere else," he said. "Probably, ours aren't as bad as some other places because hurricanes are a lot less frequent than other types of storms."

Emergency Teams Go To Work Early

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — As Hurricane Hugo roars toward the U.S. coast, workers in Raleigh prepared to coordinate the state's response to any possible emergencies.

"We have talked to all our coordinators along the coast. This is standard operating procedure to us," said Tom Ditt, a spokesman for the state Division of Emergency Management. "Just so we know that they know that Hugo is out there."

"We want them aware that it's out there and start getting into a 'game set.' Then just watch the storm."

Ditt's office, 12 feet below ground in the basement of the Administration Building, handles about 2,000 state emergencies a year. That's an average of four or five every day.

"So, Hugo, while yes is a major situation out there, it's only a larger incident," he said.

But Ditt says residents should be prepared. About 80 percent of the residents along the North Carolina coast haven't experienced a killer storm the strength of Hurricane Hugo, Ditt said.

"Behavior scientists say our actions are based on past experiences," said Ditt. "There were some stories over the weekend that people on Puerto Rico did not want to evacuate because they had not faced a major hurricane in 10 years."

Ditt said the first evacuation along the Tar Heel coast could come as early as today. He said residents of Ocracoke Island would be moved to the mainland 24 hours before gale force winds strike. He also said ferries to the island stop once winds are 35 mph or greater.

Evacuations along the state's Outer Banks don't pose any special problems for Ditt and his staff.

"It's there and we have to deal with it, whether there's a six-lane highway to it or not," he said of the fragile islands.

A new Emergency Information System computer, in place for about one year, will help planners keep track of traffic control points, evacuation routes and shelters.

"With the program put in there we can tell where's it's going to flood and what shelters are going to be cut off," Ditt said.

Ditt said he's already been in contact with local emergency management officials in 20 coastal counties from Brunswick to Currituck.

While a hurricane is never welcome, Ditt said one in late September is better than Fourth of July weekend, where as many as 250,000 more people are vacationing along the coast.

"The threat is the same (now) but the numbers are less to deal with," he said.

Lighthouse Expected To Survive

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. — The Cape Hatteras Lighthouse will be able to ride out Hurricane Hugo, even though earlier storms have washed away much of the beach in front of the 208-foot-tall structure, a park official said.

Hugo doesn't appear as severe as some of the storms the lighthouse has withstood in its 117-year history, said Cape Hatteras National Park spokesman Bob Woody. He said the front winds, eye and back winds of Hurricane Gloria passed over the lighthouse in 1985 blowing at 130 mph.

Early today, top winds in Hugo were clocked at 110 mph.

Hurricanes aren't the biggest threat to the lighthouse and the North Carolina Outer Banks, Woody said.

"The winter storms that blow for days and days from the northeast can be a greater problem than tropical storms," he said. Park rangers feel certain the historic sites on the Outer Banks will stand up to Hugo, but to the south there is some fear. Gehrig Spencer, director of Fort Fisher State Historic Site near Wilmington, worries that erosion in the wake of Hugo could take a bite out of the remains of the earthen fort, site of two Civil War battles.

"We know we are going to lose some," Spencer told The Greensboro News & Record.

From Cape Hatteras to Fort Fisher, efforts were under way Wednesday to protect historic sites that thousands of tourists visit each year, including the battleship North Carolina, which won't be joining other Navy vessels at sea to ride out the storm.

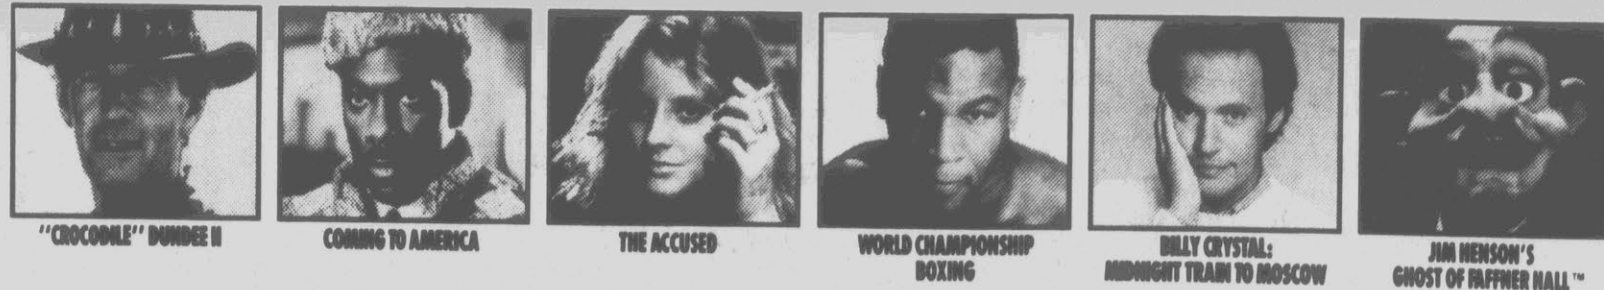

"We will weather the storm in port, securely moored," said Capt. Frank Conlon, the battleship's director. The World War II fighting vessel hasn't moved since it was berthed as a tourist attraction in the Cape Fear River at Wilmington in the early 1960s.

At Cape Lookout National Seashore Park, along the central North Carolina coast, park rangers searched for any object that could flap or be torn lose by high winds. Rangers entered a ghost town — Portsmouth village on Portsmouth Island — and battened down shutters, doors and windows in the houses, church and old Coast Guard Station.

Bragg Troops Going To St. Croix

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

POPE AIR FORCE BASE, N.C. — About 700 soldiers began leaving here early today for St. Croix in the U.S. Virgin Islands where they will take part in efforts to quell looting and violence in the wake of Hurricane Hugo.

"I think the show of force is going to go a long way (in ending the looting)," said Lt. Gen. Carl W. Stiner, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps and Fort Bragg.

The first military plane lifted off at 3:45 a.m. with 72 Military Police and air traffic control personnel aboard. Plans called for the C-141 Starlifter transport plane to land on St. Croix 30 minutes after sunrise, said Major Doug Foster, a Fort Bragg public information officer.

He said the soldiers would secure the airfield on the island and the air traffic controllers would begin preparing for other military flights to the Caribbean island that was devastated by Hugo.

President George Bush ordered 1,100 troops to the island following reports of frenzied looting and lawlessness.

"Members of the armed forces of the United States will be used to suppress the violence ... and to restore law and order in and about the Virgin Islands," Bush said in a statement Wednesday night.

The Pentagon said in a statement Wednesday that 1,105 military police would be sent to the island.

The units were to include 635 military police from Ft. Bragg, N.C.; and 470 military police from companies in Ft. Polk, La.; Ft. Hood, Texas; and Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Calling it an humanitarian mission, Foster said the troops were instructed prior to departure that they were to avoid the use of deadly force.

"They're authorized to use the minimum force necessary to accomplish the mission to protect lives and property," Foster said.

Stiner said more troops are on standby in case they are needed.

"We'll send in whatever it takes to accomplish the mission," he said.

Foster said that once military controllers have established their command center, military aircraft will land and take off from the field every 15 to 30 minutes until all the troops and equipment are on the island.

St. Croix Residents Take Up Weapons

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHRISTIANSTED, U.S. Virgin Islands — Residents of this popular American vacation spot turned upside down by Hurricane Hugo toiled guns as they waited for U.S. military police to arrive after three days of looting.

"Keep out or you will be shot," read a sign outside an electronics store that already was stripped of its merchandise Wednesday.

At one shopping center, armed guards stood on rooftops to ward off looters.

But at another, people wandered freely from store to store, loading up with shoes, clothes and bicycle tires.

"Everybody else is taking it. Why shouldn't we?" said Nora Rivera as she stood with her two young daughters beside a grocery cart loaded with clothes and shoes.

"Most of our clothes got wet," said her husband, Robert. People were taking damaged goods that merchants wanted to get rid of anyway, he said.

Shaher Abdallah, owner of a ravaged furniture store, disagreed.

"We didn't expect the public to do this to us," he said as his 15-year-old son, Saker, stood nearby with a pistol. "They have something bad in the heart."

Several residents said local National Guard troops had joined in the looting, but the guard's commander denied the charge.

"The National Guard trucks are being used to transport food supplies," said Adjutant Gen. Robert Moorehead. "People see that and they assume the worst."

A few National Guard members directed traffic; none was seen where stores were looted.

Ingrid Ellis, a resident, said the prisoners had been released from jail because the building was damaged and no one was there to guard them.

"I ran into a guy on the street yesterday who was a convicted murderer," she said.

Amid the lawlessness, there were some acts of charity. Ken Lobo said he helped a friend who owns a restaurant hand out food.

Dr. Carlos Tejo worked quietly to clean up his one-story frame house that was flattened by the storm. He and his wife, Maria, moved into the basement laundry room and tool shop.

"I'm going to rebuild this with cement walls and a cement floor so this won't happen again," Tejo said as he looked through the rubble.

Mrs. Tejo, who was born a few months before the island's last major hurricane in 1928, said they never thought of leaving St. Croix.

"I have gone through a lot, and I am not leaving," she said. "We have survived."

The island remained without water, power and telephone service, and officials said it could take a month or more to restore the utilities.

Trees and downed power lines littered the highways. Hugo blew the roof off nearly every building on the island when it struck Monday.

Wrecked boats were piled on top of each other in a waterfront street.

The storm stripped the island's trees, leaving a barren, brown landscape.

"An atom bomb hit St. Croix," said Holland L. Redfield II, a territorial senator. "No community could be prepared for this kind of disaster."

More than 1,000 military troops were to arrive today on President Bush's orders to restore order.

The Coast Guard on Wednesday used the cutter Bear to begin evacuating residents and tourists.

Several tourists who remained on the island said they were being protected by armed hotel employees but were anxious to leave nonetheless.

"I'll sit anywhere," said Rose Hertzog of Northampton, Pa. "I don't care if they put me in one of those transports."

Doris and Walter Von Weber of Los Angeles still could manage to joke about their ruined honeymoon as they waited for a ride off the island.

"It's been a stormy relationship before, but this is ridiculous," Von Weber said.

Pan Am Draws $630,000 Penalty

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Pan Am is being fined $630,000 for alleged security breaches mainly involving its flight that blew up over Scotland, but federal aviation officials say the violations did not lead to the bombing.

The Federal Aviation Administration announced the fines involving the Dec. 21 flight on Wednesday, giving the airline 30 days to pay or appeal.

The action came as the House of Representatives, prompted by the Pan Am bombing and another apparent airliner bombing over Northern Africa on Tuesday, passed a bill to bolster international aviation security.

The FAA fine covers charges of improper screening of passengers and cargo boarding Flight 103 at West Germany's Frankfurt and London's Heathrow airports, as well as five other European flights within a few days after the bombing.

The agency said its letter announcing the fines to Pan Am "contained no allegations that any of the violations contributed to the Flight 103 tragedy." All 259 people aboard the flight were killed, as well as 11 on the ground in Lockerbie, Scotland.

The FAA said all of the problems cited in the accusations have been corrected.

Pan Am chairman Thomas G. Plaskett called the alleged security lapses "administrative rather than substantive" and also said they did not contribute to the bombing.

"There is no evidence that any of the items noted in the ... inspection by the FAA were in any way related to the bombing of our aircraft last December," said Plaskett.

Investigators are still trying to determine who planted plastic explosives in a radio-cassette player found in debris from the Boeing 747's cargo hold.

GEN. COLIN POWELL

Powell Approved As Military Chief

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — Gen. Colin L. Powell, 52, won unanimous confirmation Wednesday as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, with both Republicans and Democrats hailing him as an outstanding choice.

Powell, the first black to become the nation's senior military officer, told a friendly Senate Armed Services Committee that he has "some level of confidence" that reforms might succeed in the Soviet Union.

Such reforms, he said, would give the United States "opportunities to reshape our defense programs, our national security policies and our armed forces. ..."

But he warned that changes in Soviet military capabilities, not budget restraints, should prompt the scale-back and called for continued modernization of long-range nuclear weapons.

"It's very premature to start basing any of our plans and programs and actions" on assumptions of Gorbachev's success, said Powell. "But I think it is not premature to begin thinking about it."

His comments came as senior Bush administration officials offered increasingly gloomy assessments of Gorbachev's prospects for success. On the eve of a key meeting between Secretary of State James Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, several U.S. officials have backed away from earlier expressions of active U.S. support for the Soviet leader's reform efforts.

Powell will replace Adm. William J. Crowe, Jr. on October 1.

Economy Improves

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy grew at a healthy annual rate of 2.5 percent from April through June, slightly slower than previously believed, the government said today.

In its final look at overall economic activity in the spring, the Commerce Department said growth in the gross national product was 0.2 percentage point lower than it estimated a month ago.

The small downward revision did nothing to change the view that the economy was performing remarkably well during the spring, bolstered by a rebound in consumer spending, strong business investment and continued double-digit growth in U.S. exports.

Many economist believe that growth will slow during the second half of the year. However, the momentum provided by the second quarter has erased fears that the country was in danger of toppling into a recession.

The GNP revision also bore good news for the Federal Reserve Board's goal of restraining inflation. A price index tied to the GNP rose at an annual rate of 5 percent from April through June, a bit lower than the estimate a month ago.

The overall growth rate of 2.5 percent represented a modest downward revision from a 2.7 percent rate estimated a month ago. However, both estimates were well above the initial government projection, which had put GNP growth at an anemic 1.7 percent rate in the second quarter.

Overnight Lens Use Dangerous

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

BOSTON — People who sleep wearing contact lenses face 10-15 times the usual risk of potentially blinding eye ulcers, researchers warned today.

But many eye doctors already discourage patients from routinely wearing their lenses to bed.

"You significantly increase the risk of complications when you wear any contact lens overnight, and the more nights you wear it in a row, the greater the risk," said Dr. Ronald B. Smith of the University of Southern California.

So-called extended-wear lenses are designed to be kept in the eye for several days at a time. When approved in 1980, they were recommended for use up to one month. But because of concern about complications, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration reduced the limit last May to one week.

By then, however, many eye doctors already had grown suspicious of the safety of wearing lenses to bed, in part because they began seeing the usually rare eye ulcers in patients fitted with extended-wear lenses.

The latest research estimates that about 12,000 contact-lens users in the United States suffer corneal ulcers each year, largely because they wear their lenses to bed.

The research found that people who use extended-wear lenses day and night were 10 to 15 times more likely than strictly daytime users to have eye ulcers. Sleeping with ordinary soft lenses just twice a month resulted in nine times the usual risk of the disease.

Democrats Set Educational Goals

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

GREENBELT, Md. — The Democratic leaders of Congress tried to seize the education issue as their own Wednesday, using a trend-setting Prince George's County high school as their backdrop to propose a series of national goals for education.

Moving to pre-empt the education summit that President George Bush plans to convene with the nation's governors in Charlottesville, Va., next week, the Democratic congressional leaders recommended adoption of broad goals to:

- Expand educational help for poor children.
- Equalize educational opportunities for all Americans.
- Reduce illiteracy.
- Emphasize math, science and foreign languages.
- Increase the number of students who go on to college.

— Do more to attract qualified teachers.

"Unless these trends are reversed, the first generation of the 21st century will be the first generation of Americans with a lower standard of living than their parents," said Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine.

Led by Senator Mitchell and House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., and such congressional luminaries as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., the Democrats denied their carefully staged news conference in the library of the Eleanor Roosevelt High School was inspired by partisan political motives.

Several in the group — which included five U.S. senators, three representatives, two governors and a number of local elected officials — said they were eager to cooperate with Republicans to improve the quality of education in America.

"I would not have come all the way from Arkansas if I thought the intent of this press conference was to make Democrats look good and Republicans bad," said Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, who along with South Carolina Gov. Carroll A. Campbell Jr. has been designated as spokesman for the governors on the education issue. "I think the people have come here today in good faith."

And the White House seemed to take the Democrats at their word.

"I haven't seen their list, but we certainly look forward to hearing their ideas and suggestions," said Marlin Fitzwater, Bush's press secretary. "The whole purpose of this is for the president to meet with the governors and hear their ideas for improving education. And that's a bipartisan effort. So we welcome whatever ideas they have."

Clean Air Bill Stiffened

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A "very upset" auto industry predicts many more recalls will result from the swift collapse of a Bush administration plan to let carmakers meet pollution targets by averaging vehicle emissions.

A House subcommittee removed the averaging plan from the president's clean air bill Wednesday, in a unanimous voice vote that shocked a standing-room crowd that expected a closely divided tally.

The vote means the Bush bill would require each car sold in this country to pass anti-pollution requirements for hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide. Current law has the car-by-car requirement, but the Bush plan would make the standards tougher to meet.

Tim McCarthy, of the auto industry's Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, said the new standards would be too tough for each car to meet after they're driven for several years.

The industry — and Bush — wanted to allow some engine classes to flunk the requirements, while other classes would meet them with room to spare, resulting in an overall pollution reduction after the emissions were averaged.

McCarthy predicted that once an engine class began regularly failing emissions tests, the Environmental Protection Agency would order massive recalls for repairs.

Frank Says He Will Not Resign

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Rep. Barney Frank says it would be "a great mistake" and "cowardly" to resign in the midst of a scandal over his involvement with a male prostitute.

The Massachusetts Democrat broke two days of public silence on his case Wednesday to declare his resolve to ride out the scandal, at least until the House ethics committee completes its inquiry into the case.

The disputed reports that Democratic Party and congressional leaders were urging him to step aside in order to save them further embarrassment and risk partisan damage.

"I haven't been asked by anybody to resign," Frank said. "No one has been urging me to resign."

Frank, a five-term House member and leading liberal in Congress, is an acknowledged homosexual who has come under scrutiny since admitting last month that he had an 18-month relationship with male prostitute Stephen L. Gobie.

Gorbachev Boosts Power With Politburo Shakeup

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — Mikhail S. Gorbachev has strengthened his hold on the ruling Communist Party at a time when economic failures and ethnic violence have prompted some to worry openly about the possibility of a coup or civil war.

The Soviet leader on Wednesday retired a quarter of the party's top elite. Three full Politburo members departed, including the last Brezhnev appointee other than Gorbachev, conservative Ukrainian party chief Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky.

Replacing the three are men who hold critical positions for revolutionizing the old Soviet ways of controlling citizens, making law and running the economy.

The new KGB chief, professional intelligence officer Vladimir Kryuchkov, replaced Viktor Chebrikov, an executive of the secretive agency through two decades of harsh repression of dissent. Economic planning chief Yuri D. Maslyukov was promoted to full membership on the Politburo and a leader in the new legislature, Yevgeny M. Primakov, became a non-voting member.

The shake-up came at a meeting of the Communist Party Central Committee that centered on solving ethnic strife that has killed more than 200 people in the multi-national Soviet Union in the past 19 months.

It followed committee approval of a program advocating for more self-rule in restive Soviet republics but demanding that calls for secession from the union be stifled.

The removal of Shcherbitsky and Chebrikov — two men with histories of cracking down on dissent — was likely to mitigate the sting of Gorbachev's harsh criticism of secessionists for independence activists in some republics.

The shake-up gives Gorbachev a stronger hand in Moscow as the party leadership writes a new program for the 1990s.

The Central Committee on Tuesday moved up the date for the party's next congress to October 1990, handing Gorbachev an early opportunity to bring new blood into the party's top echelon.

Only a party congress can add reformers to the 251-member Central Committee. The last one was held in 1986, just a year after Gorbachev came to power.

Shcherbitsky was the last Politburo member other than Gorbachev still serving from the time of President Leonid I. Brezhnev. His retirement makes Vitaly I. Vorotnikov of the Russian republic the only pre-Gorbachev appointee remaining on the Politburo.

Shcherbitsky presumably will remain party chief in the Ukraine until a replacement can be named.

Chebrikov had moved from head of the KGB a year ago to a new party position overseeing legal affairs. He is said to be one of those responsible for Gorbachev's selection as party chief in 1985 but some Western analysts regarded him as a Gorbachev rival.

His departure was likely to please activists in some Soviet republics, especially in Georgia, where he was suspected of having prior knowledge of a military assault that killed a score of nationalist demonstrators in April.

Viktor P. Nikonov, an agricultural bureaucrat, also retired from full membership. He had described himself earlier this year as a deputy to Yegor K. Ligachev on party agricultural policy. His role on the Politburo was never clear, however, and his views on major policy questions were not well known.

The new full members of the Politburo, Kryuchkov and Maslyukov, are no strangers to the Soviets.

Marilyn and Dan Quayle use 2nd Infantry Division firebase to look over North Korean border

Quayle Visits DMZ, Blasts North Korea

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PANMUNJOM, Korea — Vice President Dan Quayle today visited U.S. and South Korean troops near the demilitarized zone and denounced Communist North Korea as a fanatical dictatorship.

Quayle, who donned a U.S. Army camouflage jacket at one point, inspected a tunnel under the demilitarized zone that was unearthed in 1978 and said North Korea posed a grave threat to South Korea.

"If anybody thinks North Korea is a passive nation, I suggest they go down and visit this tunnel. I think it shows the fanaticism of that country and how far they are willing to go to export destabilization," he said.

The tunnel is one of several discovered by South Korean and U.S. troops leading from the North into the South under the zone dividing the nations.

South Korean officials say the tunnels were to be used in the event of an invasion.

Quayle visited the demilitarized zone on the last day of his visit to South Korea. He then flew to Tokyo, where he was to meet briefly with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain, who is there on an official visit, and to attend a reception beginning the International Democratic Union conference.

Quayle and Mrs. Thatcher will speak Friday at the three-day gathering of 27 conservative parties from 26 democratic nations and meet with a wide array of leaders.

Pravda Publishes Public Apology

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — The Communist Party newspaper Pravda made a rare public apology today for printing an article that accused political maverick Boris N. Yeltsin of indulging in a boozing and buying spree during his U.S. tour.

It said the reporter who wrote the story hadn't seen the purported booze himself but relied instead on a U.S. newspaper report and hearsay.

On Monday, Pravda reprinted an article published by the Italian newspaper La Repubblica that said Yeltsin had departed the United States leaving "a wake of catastrophic prophecies, insane expenses, interviews and above all the perfume of Jack Daniels Black Label" whiskey.

A flushed and angry Yeltsin called the charges "garbage" within minutes of returning to Moscow Monday night. The Soviet legislator accused Pravda of seeking "revenge for the fact Americans received us with admiration."

The Communist Party daily said today that it had instructed its Washington correspondent V. Linnik to contact the La Repubblica reporter who wrote the original article, Vittorio Zucconi, and check its accuracy.

Bush To Get Soviet Proposals

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze, opening an intensive round of high-level talks, carries today to President Bush still-secret proposals from Moscow that could accelerate reductions in the superpowers' nuclear missile arsenals.

But even before Bush received the message from Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the two sides had made significant progress on three fronts: human rights, chemical weapons and breaking the "Ice Curtain" that has divided Alaskan and Siberian Eskimos for more than 40 years.

Shevardnadze, who arrived Wednesday night at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, cautioned that the proposals he brought with him contain no surprises.

"Mikhail Gorbachev's letter contains some very important proposals, specifically, mostly on arms control and on reducing the military standoff between our two countries," he said through an interpreter. "And those proposals, I have no doubt, serve to remove most of the obstacles holding up progress and an agreement."

Shevardnadze called for a speeding up of developments in U.S.-Soviet relations.

"We believe that we should not stand still, we should not mark time," he said. "The experience that we have gained thus far permits us to hope that there will be further movement."

Southeastern Coast Braces For Anticipated Onslaught By Hugo

Florence, S.C., to board up the windows of his house at Wrightsville Beach.

"As soon as I get done boarding it, I'm getting the hell on back," he said.

In South Carolina, the governor ordered the evacuation of the state's coastline except for the peninsula of Charleston.

A hurricane warning was issued Wednesday from Fernandina Beach, Fla., north to Cape Lookout in North Carolina. A hurricane watch was in effect from Cape Lookout to Cape Hatteras.

At 9 a.m. EDT, Hugo's center was near latitude 28.9 north and longitude 76.4 west, about 350 miles southeast of Savannah, Ga. The weather service said the hurricane was moving northwest at 17 mph and the path was expected for 24 hours. Maximum sustained winds in the storm were near 110 mph, and hurricane force winds extended up to 60 miles from the storm's center.

Tropical storm force winds extended outward up to 200 miles.

The weather service said storm surge flooding of 8 to 12 feet above normal could be expected near and to the north of Hugo's center, and that rainfall between 5 and 10 inches could be expected in its path.

There was a risk of isolated tornadoes in the hurricane warning area as early as late this afternoon, the weather service said.

A hurricane warning means that hurricane conditions are expected to occur somewhere in the warning area within 24 hours and preparations should be rushed to completion, the weather service said.

Wilmington area residents stocked up in a hurry, said store managers.

"We're pretty well run out of everything — Coleman fuel, Wal-Mart fuel, bottled water, grocery products, portable stoves and lanterns, masking tape," said Fred Whitmer, manager of a Wal-Mart store.

"I've never seen anything like it," he said, adding that the store had more supplies ordered to restock shelves.

At M&N Equipment Rental, manager Randy Thompson said all of his 85 portable generators were rented by 2 p.m. Wednesday, as was Grace Equipment Co. Grace manager Tim Schedler said desperate customers rented welding units which have generators built into them.

At beachfront stores, plywood sold briskly to be used in boarding windows and doors. Other hot items were flashlights, ice chests and batteries.

Atlantic Marine rented its last dry storage space for boats by 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"Canned meat is the main thing," said Bill West, assistant manager of a Kroger store in Wilmington. "Tuna fish and Spam have been the big sellers — also bread and milk, all kinds of batteries and flashlights."

A bakery geared up to handle the local demand for bread, said John Fox of Fox's Holsum bakery.

A one motel, the owner worried that he might have empty rooms this weekend.

"We're already starting to fill up with reservations from locals" escaping the beach in case the storm surge if bad, said Jay Kapner of the Green Tree Inn in Wilmington. "It's crazy because nobody knows if the storm will come. Probably it won't, and then all the locals will cancel and the tourists won't come and we'll end up with an empty hotel this weekend."

Telephone calls were flowing into the National Weather Service office in Wilmington, but the storm's unpredictable path left many questions unanswered.

"They're ringing all the time. I just can't believe it," said Russ Ketterman, a weather service radar specialist. "It started three days ago."

The weather service was busy tracking Hugo and his sister, Tropical Storm Iris.

"It gets pretty exciting," Ketterman said. "Things start happening pretty fast."

Officials urged residents not to panic.

"The important issue here is to realize what's happened in the Windward and Leeward Islands and in Puerto Rico was a much stronger hurricane than it is right now," Al Hinn, meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service's Wilmington office, said Wednesday.

Hugo slashed through the northeastern Caribbean at winds of 125 to 150 mph, then fell to 110 mph by early this morning.

Wednesday, the National Weather Service was projecting that the storm would hit somewhere between Savannah and Charleston. Whether or not Hugo makes landfall at Wilmington, the area is likely to feel some effects, Hinn said.

Hinn demonstrated a computer model showing the potential for flooding in southeastern North Carolina from a Category 2 hurricane, which is Hugo's magnitude.

In a "worst-case" scenario, Hinn explained, most low-lying roads and fixed docks at Wrightsville Beach would be under water, as would the decking at the city pier at Southport, and a storm surge up the Cape Fear River could flood businesses along Water Street in Wilmington.

Tourists fled outlying barrier islands and beaches Wednesday afternoon, as many businesses and souvenir shops closed. Many travelers on the Ocracoke Island-to-Cedar Island ferry said they had changed their plans because of Hugo.

"We left today instead of tomorrow ... so we could get further inland," said Hubert Owen of Gadsden, Ala.

Carol Gibson spent the afternoon helping a friend board up his home on Topsail Island.

"We just don't want to take any chances," she said in a telephone interview. "Who knows what might happen?"

American Red Cross coordinators have been placed on alert along the North Carolina coast, said Fred Bradley, field service manager for eastern North Carolina based in Durham.

"I think everyone is getting prepared," said Cecil Logan, Brunswick County Emergency Management Coordinator. "Everyone's going to be on standby."

Workers at the University of North Carolina in Wilmington were boarding up buildings and making plans to feed students in their dormitory rooms.

Carolina Power & Light Co. officials said their Brunswick nuclear power plant will safely ride out the storm. One of the two units is being refueled, and the one operating reactor will be shut down if the storm approaches.

Evacuations Begin

from Fernandina Beach, Fla., to Cape Lookout, N.C., and landfall was expected late tonight or early Friday.

Storm-surge flooding of 8 to 12 feet above normal can be expected near where the storm's center crosses the coast.

Hugo posed the highest risk for residents from Savannah, Ga., to Myrtle Beach. The highest probability was a 30 percent chance that the storm would land at Charleston or Savannah by Sunday, forecasters said.

At 9 a.m. EDT, Hugo's center was 350 miles southeast of Savannah, or at 28.9 degrees north latitude and 76.4 degrees west longitude. It was moving northwest at 17 mph, up from 12 mph Wednesday.

Hugo's wind speed also rose to 110 mph, but forecasters said little further strengthening was likely.

From north Florida to the Carolinas, people stocked up on emergency supplies to board up windows and carry them through several days without electricity and water.

"They're buying me out of all my candles, tape, flashlights, propane fuel, oil and lamps," said Tim Brindley, manager of a K mart store in Mount Pleasant, a Charleston suburb.

The governor requested that shelters be opened today in eight coastal counties. His emergency declaration put the National Guard and state law enforcement agencies on alert and ordered vans to be made available to evacuate elderly residents.

Twenty shelters were opened at schools and municipal buildings in Charleston County, said Bill Miller, public information officer for the Charleston Emergency Preparedness Division, who expected most people would arrive today.

Officials order the evacuation of Kiawah Island, a residential and resort island, by 8 a.m. today. Officials in Beaufort and Dorchester counties and in Myrtle Beach urged residents of coastal and low-lying areas to head for shelters.

On the island of Folly Beach, south of Charleston, some people didn't wait for evacuation orders. "People are making preparations to go ahead and leave on their own," said Police Chief Fred Welch.

Jet Lands River

Forty-five people were taken to the hospital; two were reported in serious condition and a third was in stable condition after a heart attack.

The Coast Guard said overnight that up to six people were missing and divers were sent to look for them. But an airline spokeswoman, Susan Young, said all 57 passengers and six crew members were accounted for as of 8 a.m.

Flight 5050, originally scheduled for departure at 7:27 p.m., was delayed by heavy rain. But officials said weather was not a factor in the 11:29 p.m. crash.

The plane split into three pieces, its nose remaining above water on a pier that holds runway approach lights. The other pieces were partly submerged in 25- to 40-foot-deep water, just beyond a runway that extended onto pylons 10 feet above the water. A crane raised the wreckage at dawn.

"What held it up was a lighting bridge," Mayor Edward I. Koch said of the front section. "The back section, God held that up."

The Jury Is Still Out On Boot-Camp Prisons

By Janet McConaughy
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS — Kevin McClain was dirty, sullen, withdrawn, on drugs and about to be fired when he broke into a police car to steal guns. The judge gave him a choice: five years in a cell or a few months in "boot camp."

McClain chose regimented days of classes, drills, humiliation and abuse.

"He went in strictly as a little old teen-age wild boy. He came out as a disciplined young man," said his grandfather, George Otis Hinton.

"All he studies now is work," said his grandmother, Lestereen Hinton. "And he's always hugging on us and telling us, 'I love you.'"

"I feel like I'm alive now," said McClain, of Shreveport, one of 618 men and women sent to the shock incarceration program at Hunt Correctional Center since it opened 2 1/2 years ago, and one of 296 graduates.

Eleven states have such programs aimed at behavior modification instead of just punishment and a dozen are considering them. President Bush proposed boot camps as part of his anti-drug plan. The U.S. Justice Department next year will issue the first national review of shock incarceration, said Doris McKenzie, a Louisiana State University researcher working on the study.

The report will cover seven of the 11 states: Georgia and Oklahoma, which have the nation's two oldest prison boot camps, both opened in late 1983; New York and Texas, which focus on drug users and sellers; Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina. Alabama, Mississippi, Arizona and Michigan also have programs, but a study of all 11 would have been too expensive, said McKenzie.

The seven were chosen for differences in the inmates accepted; whether they are assigned by judges or corrections officials; whether they may drop out; if counseling is a major part of the program; how much supervision inmates get on parole; and how many hours a day the program lasts.

Louisiana will issue a report on its program next month, but officials say they are encouraged by graduates like the 20-year-old McClain.

"Compared to regular parole, where there's 70 to 80 percent failure, it's doing real well," said Shreveport parole agent Louis Stacks.

The program, known officially as the Intensive Motivational Program of Alternative Correctional Treatment, involves intensive follow-up: at least four meetings a week with the parole officer, curfew checks, full-time school or work, community service and random drug and alcohol tests.

Even where IMPACT appears only to increase parole agents' work, those in charge say it's worth continuing. "It has its problems. But if the problems are ironed out, as I guess the department is trying to do, eventually it might be a very successful program," said supervisor Sherman Butler.

State officials say shock incarceration also saves money. They estimate that McClain's training and parole supervision cost about $3,400, compared to an average cost of $9,100 a year for inmates in regular prison.

And the number of people who make it through parole is encouraging, said Corrections Department spokeswoman Martha Jumonville.

More than half of those who entered boot camp either dropped out or were kicked out. Of 283 men and 13 women who made it through in the program's first 17 months, 70 were sent back to prison for violating parole. That 23.6 percent recidivism rate compares to 29 percent for inmates paroled after serving one-third or more of their sentences, and a 36 percent rate for those released early because of credit earned for good behavior in prison.

Most of the IMPACT parolees were caught drinking, using drugs or violating curfew, rather than committing new crimes — the reason most other parolees are returned to prison. However, many of the 296 IMPACT parolees had been out only a few months — much too short a time to say whether they would make it.

"By and large, we find we don't have any problem for the first month or two," said Kenneth Temple, one of two parole officers who deal with IMPACT cases in New Orleans. "It's like babies — they're really cute for the first few months. ... The real proof of the pudding is in four, five or six months."

Some fail even after making it through the period of heavy supervision that is designed to help IMPACT parolees adjust to the outside world.

Dennis Daniels, for example, had graduated to regular parole before he was arrested on charges of burglary and drug possession. He escaped from jail and was caught in Salt Lake City.

Stacks said Daniels fell apart after he lost his job at a funeral home in cutbacks attributed to the state's failing economy. "But you know, counting the time he was in IMPACT, that was two years he wasn't committing any new crimes. ... All this going downhill, it took maybe a week, two weeks."

The Associated Press

'Graduate' Kevin McClain has just gotten a promotion.

McClain said he was using methedrine, LSD, Valium and booze when he was arrested. He stole money for drugs and because it was what his friends did. He bathed — reluctantly — once a week. "I just didn't care. I felt very low."

Now he's not only working full time at County Market, where he was a part-time janitor before his arrest, but he's won a promotion.

"He's outgoing, talks to people, gets along with people real well. He does a great job. Respects his superiors. He gets here 30 minutes before work," said Gary Creel, store director at the supermarket.

McClain said he hadn't expected to be offered an apprenticeship in the meat department, but knows why he deserved it. "I'd run to get stuff, run here, run there. The rest of the maintenance guys were just walking and moping along."

"I was just so full of energy from the IMPACT, it hasn't worn off."

He Recalls Revolution Through Eyes Of Young Boy

By James Hannah
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TROY, Ohio — Daniel Garfield sees the Russian Revolution through the eyes of a young boy.

Garfield, 78, was born in 1911 in Belaya Tserkov, a village of roughly 30,000 about 90 miles south of Kiev in the Russian Ukraine. He and his family fled in 1919 and made it to the United States when he was 8 years old.

Garfield was born to moderately prosperous Jewish parents, his father being a linen merchant.

After World War I broke out, German troops occupied his village, Garfield said.

"A lot of people welcomed them to be there," he said. "They brought food, and food was scarce. We had them quartered in our house. They behaved themselves."

After Russia surrendered to Germany in 1917, the peasants and many disgruntled soldiers revolted against Czar Nicholas, uniting under Lenin and his Communist Party. Russia was ravaged by civil war as the so-called Red Army fought loyalist troops, or the White Russians.

"Just after the revolution started, there was chaos," Garfield said. "You were even afraid of your next-door neighbor."

He said pogroms against Jewish people began, and bands of peasants roved the country, burning and looting. "There was no law and order," Garfield recalled.

Garfield said the Red Army was more widely accepted by the people because it provided food and other necessities, while the White Army was confiscating everything for its own use. "It was terrifying to a point," he said. "But you got used to it, so you weren't afraid."

Control of the villages would change hands from the Reds to the Whites and back from day to day, he said.

The Spontaneity Of TV Rests With Men Of Baseball

In a world of high-priced image makers and public relations consultants, it's refreshing to watch baseball figures being interviewed. They spit on camera. They scratch no matter where they get an itch. And they offer such in-depth insights in interviews as, "We came here to play ball." At least it's honest.

From the very minute television evolved as an X-ray into the souls of those who could look it directly in the eye, it became something to fear. You couldn't let politicians appear on TV without makeup, a voice coach and a media pro. Who would ever elect them? And don't even think of vying for the White House without the assistance of consulting firms to make you look and sound "presidential." Maybe this explains why, for the last 15 years, we've elected men who are a combination of Hal Holbrook, Ralph Bellamy and Gregory Peck.

And who would buy a car from a corporate giant who played with paper clips and talked to his shoes?

He has to be "marketed."

Even authors who spent two years writing a book can't be trusted to go on the road and tell what the book is about. First, they have to be able to know which camera to play to and how to keep the focus on their book. Even when an interviewer asks, "How are you?" they are taught to respond, "Wonderful since my new book, 'Tortured Sunrise,' came out, which I'm sure the audience would like to see. Can you get a closeup of this, guys?"

It was only a matter of time before local institutions availed themselves of the services of professionals. Spokespersons have been groomed by the local police and fire departments to provide details, robbing us of the wonderful exchange when a fireman yelled, "That sucker went up faster than a mortgage at the Baptist church."

The spontaneity of television rests with the men of baseball, God bless 'em. There is no one to clean up their language or their grammar, no one to tell them they just spit against the wind, no one to tell them not to look bored in the dugout. No one has told them yet that a baseball player has to have a "look" like Robert Redford or Kevin Costner.

Yes, Virginia, there is still some honesty left on television, whether it's Pete Rose snapping at the press or Nolan Ryan striking out his 5,000th with all the emotion of a man reading a manual for his garbage disposer. It takes a lot of guts to be honest on TV, but can you imagine what we'd have missed if Yogi Berra had had a media consultant?

Machine Signs Off For Stars, Bureaucrats

By Bill McAllister
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — Workers at the Department of Housing and Urban Development say they quickly realized that Deborah Gore Dean, executive assistant to former HUD Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr., was one of the more powerful people in the department during the Reagan administration.

Dean not only had the boss's ear, she had his autopen.

As the unraveling HUD scandal has revealed, nothing symbolized Dean's control over the department better than her access to Pierce's automated signing machine.

As one of the few aides with direct access to the secretary, Dean used that power frequently to dispatch letter after letter to HUD's executive secretariat, where they arrived with Pierce's signature.

Kept under lock down the hall from Pierce's 10th floor suite, the Autopen has become what one autograph expert calls one of "Washington's worst-kept secrets" and another calls the "latest status symbol" in the nation's capital.

Manufactured by a small, secretive company in Northern Virginia, the $2,995 machines have become as essential to the federal bureaucracy as personnel regulations, disclosure forms and building passes.

"Everybody is using the machine," said Edward N. Bomsey, an Annandale, Va., autograph dealer who says most members of Congress, the Supreme Court, astronauts and heads of major federal agencies have a signing machine.

All these reports draw a smile from Robert M. DeShazo, a former government toolmaker who acquired the rights to the Autopen during World War II while he was working at a Navy torpedo plant in Alexandria, Va.

"You do your own research," he told a visitor to his International Autopen Co. plant near Dulles International Airport. Neither DeShazo nor his son, Lindsay, will discuss their customers.

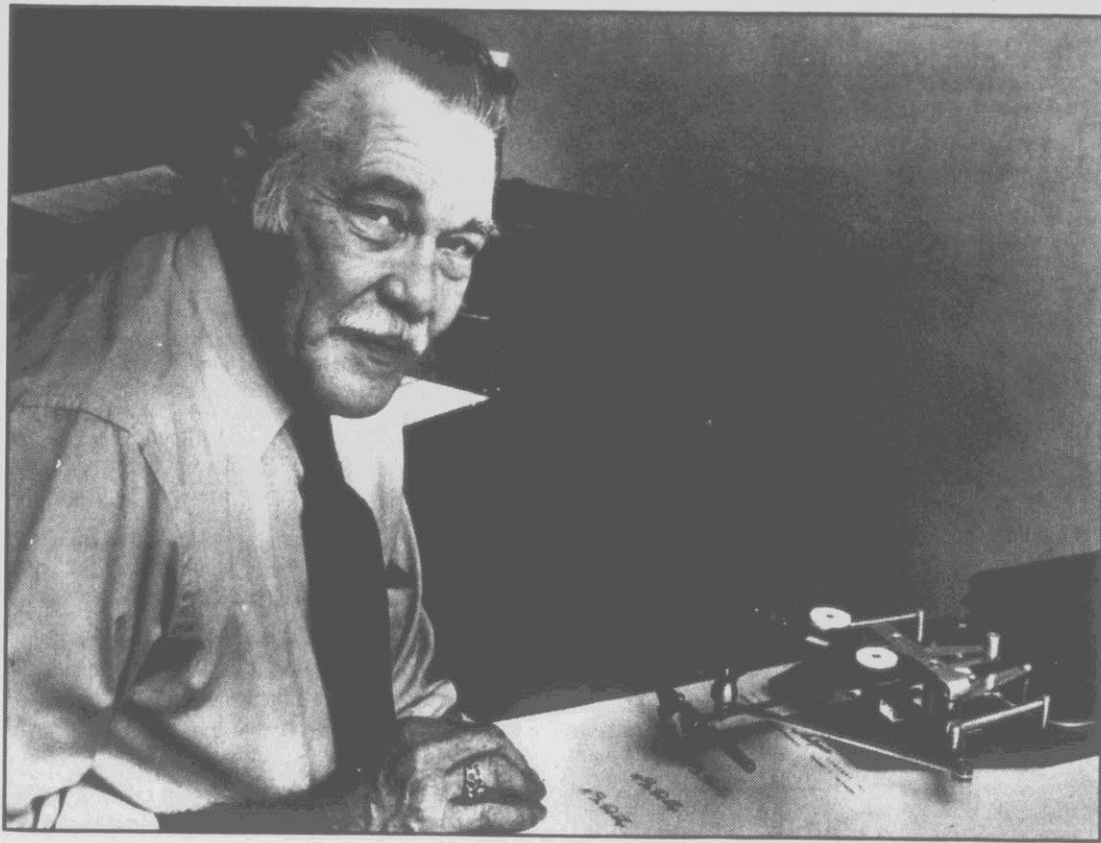

"We wouldn't think of publicizing them," said Lindsay S. DeShazo, who is in charge of customer services for Autopen.

But a glance at the framed autographs on the company's walls — Presidents Nixon, Carter, Ford, Reagan and Bush as well as entertainers John Wayne, Bill Cosby, Michael Jackson, Kenny Rogers and John Denver — makes clear that the DeShazos and their machines are well known to many of the country's more famous personalities.

Robert DeShazo, who owns the company and perfected a duplicating device first patented in 1915, rarely grants interviews. The reason, the two DeShazos said, is their customers' desire to keep secret the fact that they don't personally sign all their autographs.

"You're getting into the cloudy world of who you're fooling," said Robert DeShazo.

Fooling or not, the Autopens have become a booming business, fed by

LAT-WP News Service

Robert DeShazo and an autopen, the signature-duplicating device that he perfected after acquiring the rights during World War II.

the growth of the federal bureaucracy and its ability to grind out tons of letters and documents that need signatures. In all, Robert DeShazo estimates that 3,000 to 4,000 of the machines are in use today, many of them in Washington.

There is no other machine on the market that can duplicate a signature using a fountain, ballpoint or felt-tip pen, said Robert DeShazo. He calls his Autopen Model 80, the basic $2,995 model, "another American scientific achievement."

Sales run between 200 and 300 a year, he said. But the company and its 18 workers stay busy turning out, at $95 each, the large plastic wheels that enable the machine to reproduce a signature.

The machine is essentially a small table, with a stainless steel, spider-like apparatus that replicates a signature with motions identical to those of the individual who penned the signature in the first place.

Accessories allow the machine to be locked, to count the number of signatures, to automatically feed documents into it and to allow large documents such as books and other items such as White House Easter eggs and pieces of sculpture to be signed.

Convinced that there are other markets to capture, the company has launched a campaign to sell the machine to college presidents — for use in fund-raising campaigns — and to corporate executives.

Autopens make good economic sense for top executives, if only to free them from perhaps as little as 15 minutes a day of signing their names, the DeShazos said. "By relegating this function to Autopen and a lower-level employee, Autopen can pay for itself in less than a year," a sales brochure claims.

Washington, however, was where the Autopen got its start, and it still provides a strong base for the company's operations, the DeShazos said.

"Whether a senator gets 1,000 or 10,000 letters, you've got to remember that every one of those letters represents a vote," Robert DeShazo said. And each constituent wants "the personal feeling," said Lindsay DeShazo.

So who could dislike the Autopen? Autograph collectors. "They hate us," said Robert DeShazo.

Bomsey says the reason is obvious. The widespread use of Autopens is forcing collectors "to be very careful," fearful that they might purchase an Autopened signature instead of the real thing.

In the case of a Ronald Reagan signature, that could be the difference between a $15 Autopened White House letter and a genuine, but rarer, Reagan signature worth "several hundred dollars," Bomsey said.

According to autograph dealers, Autopen reproductions are so realistic that it usually takes two copies of an autograph to make certain that the signatures are different, and thus genuine.

'New' Techniques Developed By Those 'Old' Dentists, Zita

Dear Abby: Please allow me to respond to the letter in your column from "Zita," the registered dental hygienist from Hicksville, N.Y. She said she is "exhausted and emotionally drained" from treating patients who were formerly under the care of "two elderly dentists" who were "trained in an era of dentistry that did not understand periodontal disease and hadn't learned anything since," and that "dentures were something that were expected by most older people in the 1920s through the 1950s." She closed by stating that the vast majority of older dentists "have not kept up with the times."

Zita, this year I will have completed 50 years in dentistry. I, and my colleagues, resent your statement that we did not understand periodontal disease (gum disease). I was a clinical instructor of periodontia at the University of California in the 1950s, and we used the same hand instruments for scaling under the gums that you use today. The modern cry about calculus, plaque, gum stimulation, mouthwashes and immaculate oral hygiene were given to patients then. You are very naive if you actually believe that you — in the so-called modern generation — developed all these new techniques, unknown to us "older" dentists.

We had local, state and national societies that were very well attended for any update not only in periodontics, but all phases of dentistry. I cannot tell you whether the dentists in Hicksville attend their society meetings, any more than I can tell you how many dental hygienists attend their component society meetings. But I assume that after spending the time, effort and money to get a degree, they will keep current in whatever field of endeavor they are in.

I do not want to be the exception in my profession as one of the "old" dentists who was informed. I just want to be one of the thousands of dentists who were, and still are, respected, qualified and well-educated. — Jerry Randall, D.D.S., Palm Springs, Calif.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: The recent article written by a dental hygienist prompts me to reply, as my experience was just the opposite of hers.

I consulted a new dentist for a routine examination and was shocked when he criticized the work of my previous dentist. He told me that I would need a lot of corrective work — full mouth restoration, replacing old fillings, capping teeth — at a tremendous price.

I decided to get a second opinion — this time with another "new" dentist. He said my mouth was fine, cleaned my teeth, and told me how to take care of my gums.

Now, years later, I have moved to a new city and consulted a "new" dentist. He told me my old fillings are still sound and nothing needs replacing.

So, I suggest a second opinion before undertaking extensive, expensive dental work, especially when recommended by a dentist who may have some fancy ideas. — J.L.E., New Westminster, B.C., Canada

Dear J.L.E.: I recommend getting a second opinion if there is any question about the first. And just to be sure, consider a third.

If you would like to write to Abby, send your letter to Abigail Van Buren, P.O. Box 6940, Los Angeles, CA 90069. For a personal, non-published reply, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press
HOGS: The trend is steady at N.C. buying stations. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro, Siler City and Robersonville, 44.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 44.00; Wilson 43.75. Sows: (500 pounds up) Fayetteville 36.00; Wallace 36.50; Spivey's Corner 37.00; Rowland 37.00.

BROILERS: The North Carolina brock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 54 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pounds birds. Too few percent of the loads offered have been confirmed for a preliminary weighted average. The market is steady to weak and the live supply is fully adequate to ample for a light to moderate demand. Average weights desirable, occasionally heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Thursday was 2,188,000, compared to 2,143,000 last Thursday.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn steady to 2 cents higher, 2.28-2.50 in East and mostly 2.38-2.54 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans 7 cents higher at 5.66-6.00 in East and mostly 6.00-6.10 in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 3.40-3.52; new crop soybeans 5.35-5.65; P.I.K. certificates steady to 1/2 percent higher and ranged from 100 to 104 percent of face value.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned upward today with a lift from fresh evidence of a slowing economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 5.70 to 2,689.59 in the first half hour of trading. Gainers outnumbered losers by about 7 to 4 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 561 up, 322 down and 546 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 20.60 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street. Before the trading day began the Commerce Department reported that the nation's gross national product grew at an annual rate of 2.5 percent, after adjustment for inflation, in the second quarter of the year.

That came as a mild surprise to analysts, who had generally been expecting no change in the GNP reading from the 2.7 percent estimated increase the department reported last month.

The resulting suggestion of a slower-than-expected pace of business activity prompted a slight decline in open-market interest rates.

Heacock, ISU Exercising Patience

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

When Coach Jim Heacock took over the football program at Illinois State a year ago, he decided to take a patient approach. He didn't promise miracles and an overnight success. Instead, the turned to the newcomers in his program.

"He started 18 true freshman at some time or another during the year," East Carolina coach Bill Lewis said.

It is beginning to pay off for the second-year coach as his Redbirds prepare to travel to Greenville for a 7 p.m. Saturday encounter with the Pirates in Ficklen Stadium.

The Redbirds opened the 1989 season against Western Kentucky, a perennial Division I-AA power. They trailed, 17-0, at one point, but rallied to within 17-12 and had the opportunity to pull out a victory, but neither team was able to score again.

A week later, they defeated Central (Ohio) State, 10-9, and had an off-date this past Saturday, giving them two weeks to prepare for their game against ECU.

The Pirates are the only Division I-A opponent the Redbirds face, and Lewis warns that this will make them doubly dangerous.

"You only have to look at the sports pages to see Appalachian State-Wake Forest (won by ASU), Northern Iowa-Kansas State (won by NI), Arkansas State-Memphis State (won by Arkansas State), to see what I mean," Lewis said.

The only Illinois State touchdown in its victory came on an 86-yard kickoff return by freshman running back Phil Shields, narrowing a 9-0 Central State lead. Rick Seitz, who kicked the PAT, added a 27-yard field goal for the 10-9 victory after a bad snap had given Illinois State the opportunity to take the lead.

The Redbirds have not allowed a single point in the second half this season — a marked difference from last season when they allowed 129 points in the second half.

Tailback Vic Northern is the leading rusher for the Redbirds with 115 yards on 23 carries. Fullback George Priovolos is next with 11 carries for 56 yards.

Quarterback Brian Chaney, a transfer from the University of South Carolina, has taken over the starting job from last year's leader, Adrian Wilson.

Chaney, who left South Carolina after Todd Ellis won the starting job, was listed number two behind Wilson when the season opened, but

Southall's Head-On Approach Pays Off

By Tom Morris
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Stewart Southall knows only one way of dealing with the concerns that come up in his life and that is to address them head on. It's the kind of approach you'd expect from an offensive guard. It doesn't matter whether it's a blitzing linebacker, a chronic injury or questions about what the future holds. You deal with things as they come.

What other way is there?

A fifth-year senior from Milledgeville, Ga., Southall is a three-year starter for East Carolina.

During the course of his career he has dealt with an assortment of leg injuries. The one constant, despite the aches and pains, has been his appearance in the lineup every fall Saturday.

"Being in the trenches, you're going to get injuries regardless of your size," he said.

Saturday, Southall and the Pirates go for win number three against Division I-AA Illinois State.

Some might say Southall (6-0, 261) is a bit undersized for his position. But he is one of the reasons the 2-0 Pirates have been able to make a smooth transition to the I-formation offense under new head coach Bill Lewis.

"So far, so good," said offensive line coach Steve Shankweiler. "He's had a lot of injuries. He has fought through every one of them. He's the kind of kid that's an over-achiever. The fact that he has fought through them is more of a tribute to his character."

Stewart Southall (64) listens to some suggestions from OL coach Steve Shankweiler

The Daily Reflector

"He's a kid that has not got a great deal of size, so coaching becomes important to a kid like that. He doesn't have the tools to overpower people."

If ECU is to run the ball, Southall, one of three seniors on the offensive line, has to help open up the holes.

So far, things have worked out. ECU is averaging 325 yards a game on the ground, an average of 5.6 yards per carry.

"It hasn't really been too much of an adjustment," Southall said of the switch from the run-and-shoot scheme to the I-formation. "We're still running a lot of the trap and option. They kept coach Shank and he made the transition smooth for all of us."

"There are three seniors on the offensive line with me, Todd (Drugac) and Grant (Lowe). We've just got to be mentally and physically prepared each game to go out and bust it."

Last weekend, ECU came from behind to win 21-14 against Cincinnati, using a strong running game and a stingy defense.

"Coach Shank kept telling us,

"don't get down, keep going out there and working hard. Good things are going to happen," Southall said.

"Eventually it did. The defense pulled through for us. All my credit goes to the defense for giving us good field position and giving us the ball."

The winning drive was set up by an interception by Anthony Thompson which gave ECU the ball at the Bearcat 18. From there, the Bucs drove in for the

A Repeat Massacre? Wolfpack's Sheridan Disagrees

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — Despite breezing to a 48-3 win in last year's matchup with North Carolina, Wolfpack coach Dick Sheridan expects a tougher battle this time around.

N.C. State could take a commanding lead in the ACC with a victory Saturday over the Tar Heels (1-1).

"We'll be facing our toughest battle for a lot of reasons," said Sheridan.

"I think that up front, physically, they are stronger than Maryland," Sheridan said of the Tar Heels' offensive and defensive lines. "I think they have more speed in the secondary. There is no chance of us not knowing (it will be a tough game) after watching the Kentucky films that we are playing the best defensive unit we're played."

The Wildcats downed the Tar Heels 13-6 last week.

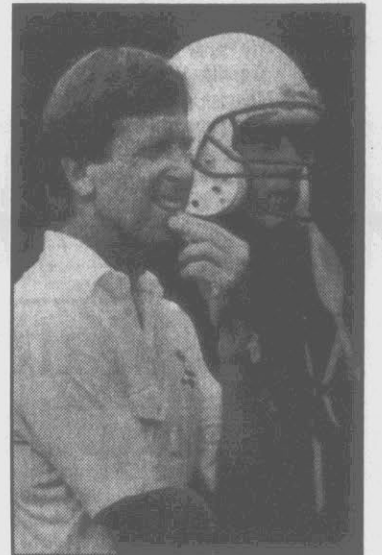

Sheridan is worried about possible rainy weather Saturday afternoon.

"We're concerned with getting into a battle with North Carolina up front," he said.

Tar Heel coach Mack Brown said last year's 48-3 loss to the Wolfpack won't have an affect on his players.

"We're too young to think about that," Brown said. "We need to spend more time thinking of what we need to do than the opponent."

N.C. State quarterback Shane Montgomery, who hurt the Tar Heels last year, has completed better than 60 percent of his passes this season for five touchdowns.

"He's one of the top quarterbacks in our area at this time," Brown said.

There are other league games of importance this Saturday, including Maryland at Clemson and Duke at Virginia. Georgia Tech and Wake Forest will leave the conference to take on South Carolina and Army, respectively.

All three conference games should be affected by the weather as Hurricane Hugo makes it trek toward the Southeastern coast.

Calcavecchia Out To Change U.S. Luck

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SUN COLDFIELD, England — Mark Calcavecchia put a smile back on the face of American golf this summer when he won the British Open. Now he's out to wipe the smiles off the faces of a few European opponents.

Calcavecchia is a member of the U.S. team for the Ryder Cup matches, which begin at The Belfry on Friday. He was on the team two years ago at Muirfield, Ohio, when the European team won on American soil for the first time, and has some not-so-fond memories of the award ceremonies.

"We were sitting in our row of chairs and the Europeans were sitting in their row of chairs, and all I can remember were the grins on their faces," Calcavecchia said. "I remember (Ian) Woosnam and (Howard) Clark particularly. It's like they were saying, 'We're better than you are.' If you ask me, it was sickening that they won and we didn't."

Two consecutive Ryder Cup triumphs — here in 1985 and in Ohio two years later — and a string of other successes on both sides of the Atlantic have given European golf a new luster in recent years.

Calcavecchia polished the U.S. image in July by winning the British Open at Royal Troon, the first American since Tom Watson in 1984 to win golf's oldest trophy. Like the America's Cup in yachting, losing the Ryder Cup has heightened American interest in the tournament and increased the pressure to regain the trophy.

"The European wins spurred us to think more about the match," Watson said. "Familiarity breeds contempt."

Captain Ray Floyd had the U.S. practicing alternate-stroke play on Wednesday over the 7,176-yard, par-72 course. That will come in handy during the first two days, when the morning matches will be foursomes pitting two-man teams playing one ball apiece — a system rare in American golf.

"The practice is especially important for those who haven't played that," Floyd said. "We have five rookies and none have played (foursomes) apart from Fred Couples in the Walker Cup."

Calcavecchia and Ken Green, another Ryder rookie, were paired in Wednesday's practice round and Floyd hinted strongly that they would be together when play began, despite earlier indicating that the two close friends might be incompatible in this tournament.

"They have a marvelous chemistry on the golf course," Floyd said. "They have a strong belief that it's very hard for them to be beaten. I'd be a fool to break that chemistry up."

The players also found what it was like to play in British wind.

Gusts of more than 30 mph blew through The Belfry, whipping flags and shaking the huge tents that house everything from food and souvenir stands to the press room.

"It rendered today, as a practice day, very difficult," European captain Tony Jacklin said. "The fellows all felt like they had been through a war out there. I hope it's not indicative of what we'll have on the weekend."

Coaches Worried About Comebacks

Rose, Conley Look To Regroup In League Openers From Close Losses

By Mike Grizzard
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

A hurricane named Hugo is ready to ram the eastern seaboard late tonight or early Friday morning, but that seems only secondary in the minds of Rose coach Chip Williams and D.H. Conley coach Steve Craft.

Both Rose and Conley suffered narrow defeats last Friday to undefeated and ranked teams in a lower classification and spent the week trying to regroup and prepare to dive into their respective conference races this week.

Williams and Craft said their games would be played Friday if at all possible. The latest report had Hugo targeted to hit land near Charleston, but heavy rains are expected to be dumped across eastern North Carolina.

A postponement would push the games to either Saturday or Monday. Some teams in eastern North Carolina have already shifted their games to tonight.

"You'd like to go ahead and play it on Friday night if you can," said

Williams, whose 3-1 Rampants host unbeaten Northern Nash at 8 p.m. in the Big East Conference opener for both teams.

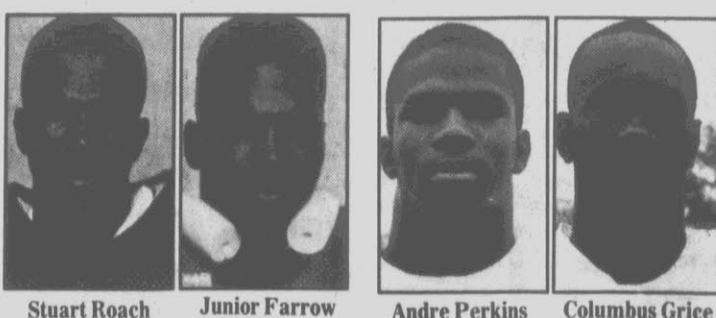

"I think both teams will be ready to play Friday night."

"As a general rule, we play if it rains," said Craft, whose 2-2 Vikings commence Coastal Conference play at home at 8 p.m. against 2-2 North Lenoir.

Elsewhere Friday night, weather permitting, Washington (2-1-1) opens Colonial Conference play at winless

Dodgers Hand Giants A 8-7 Victory

You really have to hand it to the San Francisco Giants, which is just what the Los Angeles Dodgers did.

"It's a crime to lose that one," Manager Tommy Lasorda said after watching his Dodgers blow a 7-0 lead en route to a stunning 8-7 loss to the National League West leaders Wednesday night.

For the fifth straight time, Dodger relievers blew a save opportunity, and that allowed the Giants to score five runs in the ninth inning without getting a single batter out.

Brett Butler's game-winning single capped a string of seven straight hits off three Dodger pitchers.

"We've seen a lot of miracles this year, and we've just seen another one," said San Francisco manager Roger Craig, whose Giants reduced their magic number for winning the NL West to six.

Padres 3, Reds 1

Jack Clark scored the winning run on third baseman Luis Quinones' throwing error in the 10th inning to lead San Diego over Cincinnati. It was the Padres' 23rd victory in their last 29 games and the Reds' ninth straight loss.

The defeat assured Cincinnati of its first losing season since 1984, when Pete Rose took over as player-manager.

Phillies 9, Cubs 8

Von Hayes drove in four runs and Ricky Jordan's run-scoring single broke a sixth-inning tie as last-place Philadelphia held on to beat first-place Chicago.

Philadelphia's Darren Daulton went 5-for-5, but didn't score or drive in any runs.

Cardinals 5, Mets 3

John Morris and Milt Thompson drove in two runs apiece as St. Louis made an early five-run lead stand up for a victory over the Mets.

The Cardinals scored three runs in the first and two in the second off

David Cone, 13-8, to stretch their winning streak to four games.

Both the Cardinals and Cubs have 10 games remaining.

Pirates 9, Expos 1

Bobby Bonilla's three-run homer highlighted a five-run first inning that carried Pittsburgh over Montreal, further diminishing the Expos' hopes for a division title.

The Expos lost their third straight and 10th in the last 13. The fourth-place Expos are seven games back in the NL East.

Astros 7, Braves 6

Alex Trevino led off the 14th inning with a home run, leading Houston over Atlanta.

The third-place Astros kept their faint hopes alive in the NL West race. They remained six games behind San Francisco. Trevino, who had struck out his previous two times up, connected on a 1-2 pitch from Joe Boever, 4-11, the Braves' sixth pitcher.

American League

Orioles 10, Tigers 2

Jeff Ballard got his 18th victory and Mickey Tettleton homered and drove in four runs as the Baltimore Orioles tied a season-high with 17 hits, beating the Detroit Tigers 9-2 Wednesday night and pulling within one game of the American League East lead.

For the first time since Aug. 20, the Orioles won on the same day when first-place Toronto lost. Baltimore won for the fourth time in five games while the Blue Jays were beaten by Boston 10-3.

Tettleton's third-inning homer was his third in seven games and gave Baltimore a 3-1 lead. He pulled a 2-2 pitch deep into the left-field bleachers.

Red Sox 10, Blue Jays 3

Dwight Evans homered and drove in three runs and Wade Boggs snapped a 2-for-29 slump with a pair of RBI singles as Boston won at Toronto.

Roger Clemens, 16-10, gave up three runs on nine hits in eight innings. Jimmy Key, 12-14, allowed six runs on 10 hits in three-plus innings.

The Red Sox got 14 hits, including five doubles. They are 8½ games behind the Blue Jays.

Athletics 8, Indians 6

Rickey Henderson led off with a home run for the 40th time, Tony Phillips hit a bases-loaded triple during a five-run rally in the sixth inning and Oakland held its 2½-game lead over California in the AL West.

Storm Davis, 18-7, won for the ninth time in 11 starts as the Athletics completed a three-game sweep at Cleveland. Davis is 15-4 since coming back from a strained hamstring in June, and Dennis Eckersley got his 30th save.

Angels 9, Twins 1

Jim Abbott scattered nine hits and Tony Armas' RBI single broke a seventh-inning tie as California kept pace in the AL West.

The Angels won for the 10th time in 13 games and are 11-2 against Minnesota this season. The host Twins lost their fourth straight game.

Abbott, 12-11, struck out six and walked two in his fourth complete game, which came one day after his 22nd birthday.

White Sox 7, Royals 2

At Royals Stadium, Ivan Calderon and Ozzie Guillen each hit two-run

The Associated Press

Chicago's Lloyd McClendon slides in to score as Darren Daulton can't come up with the tag singles during a six-run second inning as Chicago chased Mark Gubicza and hurt Kansas City's hopes in the AL West.

The Royals lost for the fifth time in seven games and fell 4½ games behind Oakland. Gubicza, 15-11, lasted just 30 pitches and left with soreness behind his right shoulder. He leads the majors in starts and innings.

Rangers 3, Mariners 2

Ruben Sierra broke a seventh-inning tie with a sacrifice fly, increasing his league-leading RBI total to 113, as host Texas won its fourth straight game.

Mike Jeffcoat, 9-5, got his fourth consecutive victory and Jeff Russell got his 36th save, giving the Rangers a team record-tying 42 saves this season.

Keith Comstock, 1-2, took the loss. His two-base wild pitch enabled the tying run to score in the seventh and Sierra followed with his go-ahead fly ball.

Jeffrey Leonard hit his career-high 24th home run, giving him a career-high 87 RBIs, in the sixth. Ken Griffey followed with his 16th homer for Seattle.

Braves Takes Exception To Giants

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Atlanta's Russ Nixon doesn't appreciate the San Francisco Giants trying to tell him how to manage his team.

And even though the Giants came out a little red-faced in the exchange, Nixon says he won't forget it.

"I'm not blowing this off," Nixon said after hearing the Giants complain, via National League president Bill White, that last-place Atlanta might not be fielding a representative lineup against a team chasing the Giants for the NL West title.

"Who's kidding who?" Nixon

Baseball Notes

asked. "I don't think if I had a five-game lead and the best club in the league I'd be worrying too much about a last-place club. I'm going to remember this."

The complaint to White came from Al Rosen, the Giants' general manager, who apparently was concerned by Atlanta's decision to use rookie pitchers the rest of the year, rather than season-long starters John Smoltz, Tom Glavine and Pete Smith.

It was a tactic that certainly worked for one game, anyway. Three rookie pitchers combined for a 3-0 victory over Houston and 20-game winner Mike Scott.

"Maybe they are better than the guys he's been running out there," Giants manager Roger Craig admitted after that Tuesday night game. "Maybe Nixon knows what he's doing, and he wants to see them play. I can understand that. He wants to get a good look at them. That's why he brought them up."

Craig, informed Wednesday night of Nixon's terse comments, said: "Maybe he has a right to be upset, but we made the call based on the information we had. I might send him a telegram about this whole thing in a couple of days."

"I guess they look like fools now," Atlanta shortstop Andres Thomas said of the Giants after Atlanta had snapped Houston's five-game winning streak.

Gubicza Leaves Early
All-Star pitcher Mark Gubicza of Kansas City, who has been bothered by soreness in his chest, left Wednesday night's game against Chicago after throwing only 30 pitches.

Gubicza, 15-10 entering the game, leads the majors with 255 innings and 36 starts. He was lifted after issuing a bases-loaded walk in the second inning. He ultimately was charged with two hits, three walks and four runs.

ACC Matchup ...

Duke in the early 1960s, and Maryland in the mid-1970s and mid-1980s each won three ACC titles in a row, but no team has won four straight. It's fitting then that Clemson will host Maryland on Saturday at noon in its first conference game of the season.

"It's not easy to win one, let alone two, three or four," said Clemson coach Danny Ford. "We have got seven other teams in our league to make sure we don't do it (win four). It would be very meaningful because we would be the first to do it."

"We're just hoping we can get off to a good start. Our success against Maryland has been very limited."

Maryland leads the series 19-16-2. Maryland head coach Joe Krivak is familiar with conference championships. He was an assistant coach on Maryland's three ACC title winners in 1974-76.

"I think it boils down to one thing — the quality of athletes and the numbers," he said of Clemson's recent success. "There were times when we had that situation going for us."

"If you look at Clemson it's the same type of situation," he said. "They have depth at skill and speed positions. If you have speed and big-play guys, you don't have to block everybody and knock everybody down. They have impact players. I think that's the big difference."

Seventh-ranked Clemson (3-0) leads the ACC in total defense and rushing defense, but rank fourth in passing. Ford says his team must stop Neil O'Donnell's air attack in hopes of defeating the Terrapins.

"Their quarterback is as good as we've had in the conference," Ford said.

Maryland (1-2 overall and 0-1 in the ACC) will be playing its third ranked team in four outings. The Terrapins have lost to N.C. State and ninth-ranked West Virginia.

"Clemson is probably one of five or six best football programs in the country," Krivak said.

"Clemson is better than West Virginia because of better speed ...

and a stronger kicking game," he added.

In Charlottesville, Va., the Cavaliers (2-1 and 1-0) will try to slow down Duke's passing attack, led by quarterback Billy Ray. The junior has completed 78 of 111 passes for 818 yards.

"Tennessee forced Duke to throw short (last week)," said Virginia coach George Welsh. "Teams have tried everything. If we play the same way as Tennessee they (Duke) would do a better job of attacking us."

Pirates Preparing For Wet Conditions

East Carolina's 2-0 football team practiced on soggy turf and under threatening skies Wednesday in preparation for rainy conditions expected this weekend against Illinois State.

The Pirates and Redbirds are scheduled to play Saturday at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. Rains from Hurricane Hugo are expected to make playing conditions slick.

"We needed to practice under these conditions," ECU head coach Bill Lewis said. "If it had been dry today, we would have soaked the footballs to get them accustomed to (their feel). Weather is no excuse for not hanging onto the football."

ECU did not fumble last week against Cincinnati, a game played under soggy conditions. The Pirates rallied for a 21-14 win.

"Rain seems to bother one team more than the other — that's the losing team," Lewis said. "It never seems to bother the team that wins for some reason."

The Pirates are seeking to be 3-0 for the first time since 1977. Illinois State, 1-1, has had two weeks to prepare for the Pirates. In their most recent game two weeks ago, the Redbirds knocked off Central (Ohio) State, 10-9.

North Duplin Tops Greene Central

SNOW HILL — North Duplin High School swept the singles matches and went on to take an 8-1 tennis victory over Greene Central Wednesday.

Greene Central's only win came in the number one doubles match where Jennifer Roberts and Megan Wyatt defeated Ambre Grady and Sherrie Lane, 8-3.

Greene Central falls to 0-9 on the year while North Duplin is now 2-3. Greene Central is scheduled to host Roanoke today.

Singles: Jannah St. Amand (ND) d. Jennifer Roberts, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2; Leigh Kim Reeves (ND) d. Megan Wyatt, 6-0, 6-1; Ambre Grady (ND) d. Lisa Cullipher, 6-1, 6-1; Sherrie Lane (ND) d. Jenny Barrow, 6-2, 6-1; Joy King (ND) d. Catherine Irwin, 6-2, 6-1; Candace Guy (ND) d. Allison Wilkes, 6-1, 6-0.

Doubles: Roberts-Wyatt (GC) d. Grady-Lane, 8-6; King-St. Amand (ND) d. Cullipher-Barrow, 8-1; Reeves-Guy (ND) d. Bridget Williams-Missy Saunders, 8-1.

Exhibition: Michelle Strickland (GC) d. Robin Hollingsworth, 8-3; Kristen Gooch (GC) d. Kim Sasser, 8-3; Stacey Morgan-Kim Pridgen (GC) d. Jennifer Barfield-Elena Reeves, 8-2; Treva Moya-Betsy Stroud (GC) d. Wendy Williams-Hollingsworth, 8-1; Lee Phillips (ND) d. Missy Saunders, 8-1; Irwin-Wilkes (GC) d. Walker-Sasser, 5-1.

Conley Spikers Top White Oak

JACKSONVILLE — D.H. Conley opened its Coastal Conference schedule by sweeping past host White Oak 15-1, 15-2 and 15-1, 15-3.

Niki Adams keyed the Valkyries, now 14-1 overall, with an 11-point service string in the first match.

Virginia Hall had a nine-point service string and Angie Jones a seven-point string in the second match.

"We were able to serve well and they had trouble returning our serve," Conley coach Martha McCaskill said.

Conley continues league play this afternoon at 5 p.m. at home against North Lenoir.

Mattamuskeet Player Gains Honor

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Central Cabarrus running back Natrone Means has been named North Carolina's high school 3-A football player of the week after rushing for 289 yards and scoring three touchdowns.

The senior scored on runs of 58, 20 and 82 yards as the Vikings downed Salisbury 28-7 last Friday night. Means now has 872 yards and 12 touchdowns this season, averaging better than 10 yards a carry.

The 4-A award went to Asheville Reynolds running back Scott Melton. He rushed for 141 yards and scored four touchdowns in a 44-0 victory over Swannanoa Owen.

Bandys quarterback Brad Gabriel turned in a terrific two-way performance to take the 2-A award. He completed four of eight passes for 97 yards and a pair of touchdowns and ran for another score. Defensively, Gabriel intercepted three passes to stop Maiden drives, had one sack and was in on eight tackles.

Leonardus Farrow of Mattamuskeet ran for 260 yards and scored three touchdowns in his team's 34-15 victory over Eastern North Carolina School of the Deaf to take the 1-A award. The victory broke a 24-game losing streak.

CBS Schedules DePaul-UNC Game

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS will begin its NCAA basketball schedule on Dec. 16 with a game between DePaul and North Carolina.

CBS plans on showing 24 regular-season games, 20 nationally and four on split-feeds. Twenty-seven teams will appear, including Arkansas, Loyola Marymount, Oklahoma State, Seton Hall and Texas, none of whom have previously appeared on CBS telecasts during the regular season.

The network will show the Big East semifinals on March 10 and the championship the following day. It also will show the Metro Conference final on March 10, the first time it has televised that conference's championship since 1985.

CBS plans 19 broadcasts covering 33 games during the NCAA tournament.

Hill Names Duke As His Choice

RESTON, Va. (AP) — South Lakes High School's Grant Hill, the 6-foot-8 son of former star NFL running back Calvin Hill, announced Wednesday he will play college basketball at Duke.

"I just felt comfortable with Coach K and his program and felt that I could fit in there," Hill said. "Coach K" is Mike Krzyzewski, the Blue Devils' head coach.

Hill, a senior at South Lakes, cannot commit in writing to the Atlantic Coast Conference school until Nov. 8, the first day of the NCAA's early signing period.

As a junior, Hill averaged 25 points, 10 rebounds and five assists in leading South Lakes to a 27-2 record, and maintained a 3.2 grade-point average.

Hill also considered California, Georgetown, Michigan, North Carolina and Virginia.

South Lakes coach Wendell Byrd said Hill "has the ability to play on the frontline or the backline. He's very difficult to match up with because of his flexibility."

Vikes Set For Cross Country Carnival

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

D.H. Conley will attempt to fill a void Saturday by hosting the first Conley Cross Country Carnival, a series of 12 races in which as many as six team members run to post the best overall time.

The event will be the first of its kind in Pitt County, which has only seen dual meet competition in the past. Conley is one of two schools in the county with a cross country program.

The event will kick off at 11 a.m. with the first race, according to Conley coach Chuck Dunn.

There will be six races for boys and six for girls. In each race, a school will enter one runner. Then, the slowest team time will be dropped and the other five added up. The team which comes in with the best total time will be declared the champion.

Teams can compete in just five races if they wish, but that would give them no room for error.

In addition to team trophies for both boys and girls, the top runners will also receive individual awards.

"They used to have a race like this at New Bern, but when Howard Matthews got out of coaching, it fell by the wayside," Dunn said. "A lot of people have been wanting something to take its place, so we decided to try and do it. The format is fun and people in the sport are interested in it."

The start and finish line will both be on the Conley campus and each race will be of a two-mile distance.

Conley has fielded a boys' cross country team since 1978, although there were a few years when the school didn't have a team.

"This is our eighth boys team and our fifth girls," Dunn said.

With 18 girls out for the squad, it ranks as one of the larger teams around. Conley has 15 on the boys' squad.

The Daily Reflector/Thomas Forrest
Conley coach Chuck Dunn (c) discusses Carnival plans with Hope Harrington, Jason Wing

Non-Revenue Report

"That's about where it's been," Dunn said of the boys' roster, "but the girls' is the largest it's ever been."

Dunn said he believes that cross country attracts a different kind of athlete.

"There are more kids looking for things they can do competitively and cross country gives them an opportunity to compete within themselves," he said. "A lot of kids who are good students and highly motivated want an opportunity to involve themselves in something in which they can measure their improvement. Cross country provides this. It's one of the sport's strength. The only significant factor is that they've got to want to do it."

Conley has been relatively successful in the sport. The girls' team has qualified for the state meet in each of the last few years. The boys have never made it as a team, but have qualified some individuals.

Greeta Harris, a member of last year's team, finished fourth individually, earning all-state honors.

"Not many 3-A schools (in the east) have cross country, so we have to run against a lot of 4-A schools," Dunn said.

Rose is the only other school in the county with a cross country program, but in the past the two Pitt County schools with squads have not run each other, although both are set for an upcoming meet at another school.

Dunn said he expects seven or eight schools to compete in Saturday's meet, with individuals representing a total of 11 or 12 teams.

"We'll enter three girls' teams of six, an A team, a B team and a C team," Dunn said.

Among those expected to compete is Lejeune, the defending state champion in 1-A/2-A, and Washington, the defending 3-A girls' state champions.

"While not that many schools in the east have cross country programs, they've come a long way," Dunn said. "It used to be that the mountain teams dominated the state meet, but the eastern teams are winning the titles now."

Mike Grizzard

Bob Patterson has ridden a frustrating shuttle between the minor and major leagues the last four years, but for now, he is enjoying his late-season stint with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Patterson, who played at East Carolina from 1978-82, was promoted from Triple A Buffalo Sept. 1 when major league rosters were expanded to 40 players. He lost two of his first three decisions, but has won his last two.

Patterson, who originally signed with San Diego in 1982, was also called up in 1985, '86 and '87. He underwent shoulder surgery last year, but came back with a strong year at Buffalo, although he says he's not 100 percent.

"You're never 100 percent after surgery," said Patterson in a telephone interview from Pittsburgh Wednesday afternoon. "You just try to channel your pitching differently. I learned from it."

Patterson made his last appearance Monday night, allowing four hits in 4 1/3 scoreless innings as Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia 6-2.

In eight games — seven of which have been in relief — he has worked 14 1/3 innings, yielding 14 hits, seven runs (all earned) and three walks while striking out 13.

Patterson said consistency and placement are the keys at the major-league level. Mistakes will be hit and hit hard.

"You have to be a little more consistent and keep the ball down," Patterson said. "I just try not to let them hit it hard and I think I've done that."

While at Buffalo, which finished with the third best record in the Triple A Alliance at 80-62, Patterson was 12-6 with a 3.35 ERA. He appeared in 31 games, 25 of which were starts. In 177 1/3 innings, he yielded 177 hits, 69 runs (66 earned runs) and 35 walks while striking out 103.

"I had a good team to play for," Patterson said. "That made it as little bit easier. Some days I didn't have great stuff, but I was still able to win."

Patterson said he planned to continue playing as long as he was effective on the mound and enjoyed the game.

"There's no way of telling, I can't forecast the future," Patterson said. "I try to provide for my family. As long as my family is happy and I'm happy I'll keep playing."

A glance at other area players or East Carolina products:

• Greg Briley, now with the Seattle Mariners by way of North Pitt High School, Louisburg Junior College and N.C. State University, has been a consistent performer at the major-league level during the 1989 season. Briley has played in 105 games and compiled a .272 average (101-for-371). He has 20 doubles, four triples, 13 homers, 51 RBI, 51 runs scored and 11 stolen bases.

• Former East Carolina outfielder Butch Davis (1978-80) enjoyed a banner season at the plate to help the Rochester Red Wings, the Triple A affiliate of the Baltimore Orioles, to a second-place finish at 72-73, before joining the Orioles Sept. 1.

At Rochester, Davis played in 127 games, compiling a .303 average with 10 homers, 29 doubles, nine triples, 64 RBI and 19 stolen bases.

• Bobby Davidson (ECU '82-84) and Mike Christopher (ECU '84-85) made key contributions to the Columbus Clippers, a New York Yankees Triple A club that finished 77-69 and in a tie for second place.

Davidson posted an 8-5 mark with two saves and a sparkling 1.83 ERA. He appeared in 22 games, 15 of which were in relief. In 93 1/3 innings Davidson yielded 71 hits, 26 runs (19 earned) and walked 30 while fanning 56.

Christopher, promoted from Class AA Albany in May, started 11 games, appeared in 13 and finished with a 5-6 record. He allowed 95 hits and 45 runs (39 earned) in 73 innings for a 4.81 ERA. Christopher walked 21 and fanned 42.

• Former Rose High School and University of North Carolina star Roger Williams experienced a rocky season with the Triple A Iowa Cubs and wound up the season with the AA Charlotte Knights.

At Iowa, Williams was 2-5 with a 6.21 ERA. He appeared in 27 games, eight as a starter. In 80 innings, he was tagged for 100 hits and 35 walks while striking out 40.

At Charlotte, Williams worked in six games, four as a starter, and finished with a 1-1 mark with a 6.53 ERA. He gave up 33 hits, 16 runs (15 earned), four homers and eight walks while fanning 16 in 20 1/3 innings.

• Jake Jacobs and David Richie, both members of last year's Colonial Athletic Conference tournament championship team, helped Eugene (Ore.) to a 43-33 record.

Jacobs, the all-time leader in winning percentage in Pirate history, appeared in 20 games and worked 71 innings, finishing with a 4-2 record and a 3.30 ERA. He gave up 73 hits, 34 runs (26 earned) and walked 20 while striking out 50.

Richie played in 39 games and posted a .244 average with 31 hits in 127 at-bats. He had six doubles, 13 RBI, stole 12 bases in 14 attempts and scored 28 runs.

• Kelly Heath, a Rose High School product who played at Louisburg Junior College, played in 29 games (all at second base) for the International League East Division champion Syracuse Chiefs, the Triple A affiliate of the Toronto Blue Jays which finished 83-62.

Heath managed 18 hits in 88 official at-bats for a .205 average. He had three doubles, one triple, one homer, six RBI, scored 14 runs and stole three bases.

• Bronswell Patrick, a former standout quarterback and pitcher at D.H. Conley High School, was hampered much of the season by tendinitis for the Oakland Athletics' A affiliate at Madison, Wis.

Patrick appeared in but 12 games, all starts, and finished with a 2-5 record with a 3.64 ERA. He hurled 54 1/3 innings, allowing 62 hits, 29 runs (22 earned) and 14 walks while fanning 32.

Madison finished 59-72.

• Timmy Moore, who helped Rose to the 4-A state finals his junior year and the second round of the playoffs last year, opted to sign a professional baseball contract instead of playing baseball and football at East Carolina and struggled in Sarasota, Fla., the rookie league of the Minnesota Twins.

Moore played in 36 games, batting .154 (14-for-91). He had three doubles, 10 RBI, scored nine runs, drew 24 walks, struck out 25 times and swiped 15 bases.

won the job on the field and started against Central State. He is listed as the probable starter against the Pirates.

Chaney, thus far, has completed nine of 30 passes for 88 yards with one interception. Wilson has hit on four of seven for 24 yards. Chaney, too, is considered a dangerous runner on the option play. He has 18 carries for 48 yards thus far.

The chief target for the quarterbacks has been split end Bill Miller, with three catches for 30 yards. Tight end Brian Brown had two for 13 yards, Hue Robinson has two for 11 and Northern has two for three yards.

Shields has five kickoff returns for 147 yards, a 29.4 average, while defensive back Larry Dickinson has returned four punts for a 12.3 average.

Place-kicker Rick Seitz has made all three of his field-goal attempts and the only extra point try he's attempted.

Defensively, the Redbirds are led by inside linebacker Wilbert Brown, with a total of 31 tackles, including one for a loss. Tony Jones, who flanks him at the other inside position, is next with 20 tackles overall and three tackles for losses. Cornerback David Calhoun is third with 17 tackles, two for a loss, and has been credited with three passes broken up.

With an extra week to prepare, Illinois State is the third straight team which has had longer than the usual one week to get ready for the Pirates. And Heacock says he's happy with the progress made.

"We had four hard days of pads practice during (last) week and I feel that by the end of the week, we had made some progress, but we won't know until we play again," Heacock said.

Heacock says that he is impressed by what he has seen of the Pirates.

"(They) have excellent team speed and some great momentum," he said. "We're very impressed with them on both sides of the ball. (Travis) Hunter has had a great two games on offense and he's as good a quarterback as we see this year. He can run, scramble and find open receivers. He also has some great tools to work with."

Not that Heacock doesn't have some great ones himself. Northern, who was the Gateway Conference's Offensive Player of the Year last season, currently stands eighth in the school's all-time rushing list with 1,744 yards. Miller stands third on the receiving list with 87. Wilson stands 11th in all-time passing yards with 1,353.

The Redbirds will be missing at least one regular for the game. All-Gateway Conference defensive lineman Vander Harris has undergone knee surgery and is sidelined. His backup, Jeff Davis, missed the Central game because of a thumb injury and is listed as questionable for the ECU game.

Tailback Hue Robinson is listed as doubtful because of an ankle injury and fullback Toby Davis is only probable because of a foot injury.

Southall-Bucs ...

winning score late in the fourth quarter.

Southall has grown up a lot since arriving on campus in 1985. He is set to graduate in May with a major in industrial technology, concentrating in manufacturing with a business administration minor.

Academics, though, weren't at the top of the priority list for Southall when he first got to school.

Reality, though, has a way of smacking sense into people and Southall is no exception.

"I've talked to a lot of people and they've said graduation is important, and I've come to realize that it is," he said. "Every freshman is like, 'yeah let me go to college, become a starter, do good and then get a shot at pro football.'"

"But after you keep going through college, you see that your chances are not that good. I just want to graduate."

After overcoming some family problems and struggling academically his freshman year, Southall began to make progress. After this semester, he'll need 10 hours in the spring to earn his degree.

"I didn't think I'd ever be able to graduate," he added. "I thought it would take 10 to 15 years."

Southall's new perspective also has prompted a change in his on-field demeanor. As a senior, he is intent on making sure the Pirates are ready each time they hit the field.

"We've got to go out and have a good week of practice," Southall said. "Last week at practice, the intensity wasn't good and it carried over into the first half of the ball game. Coach Lewis jumped on us at halftime."

"My main part is I have to make sure that the offense is ready each week. Our main goal is to get yardage and not let anybody touch (quarterback) Travis (Hunter)."

Of course, two early wins doesn't mean a successful season. During his redshirt freshman year, Southall watched ECU win its first two games and then drop nine straight.

This year, the schedule has been kinder. The early games don't have the Pirates overmatched as in years past.

The slate still has some killer games on it, with matchups against Miami, Syracuse, Pitt and South Carolina yet to come. But for now, ECU finds itself matched up against teams it has more than a viable chance against, like Illinois State.

"I think it's going to be good to build confidence," Southall said. "If we can become 3-0, then 4-0 and then go into Columbia (for a game against South Carolina), I think that is going to be a sizable difference over what it was last year."

"But you have to take one game at a time and all concentration is on ISU."

Lloyd Set For Return

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Lewis Lloyd, his basketball career in ruins because of a drug-related suspension two years ago, is on the verge of a historic comeback to the NBA.

With the announcement on Wednesday that he had reached an agreement with the Houston Rockets on a one-year, $350,000 contract, Wiggins was poised to become the first player to return to the NBA after being banned for drug use.

"I guess I'll go down in history, I know that," Lloyd said. "It feels good to be the first guy to come back."

"It lets a lot of people know, and a lot of young kids know, if you do mess up in life, or make a mistake in life, you can always have that second chance if you get your life together."

Lloyd and Rockets teammate Mitchell Wiggins were banned from the NBA on Jan. 13, 1987, for violating the league's substance-abuse policy. Since then, Lloyd has been working at the John Lucas drug recovery center in Houston.

"It's one of the greatest feelings in the world because it's been a long wait," Lloyd said. "I've been out two years and I've been looking forward to this moment."

Wiggins has also been given approval to return to the NBA and is currently involved in contract negotiations with the Rockets.

From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY Sept. 22

ARIES (March 20 to April 19): A change in your perspective at your job can be most helpful to you at this time. You will be wise to get into statements and reports to get the answers that can be helpful to you financially.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 19): You will now be able to get some extra money if your job has been well done. Your best time will now come from some family friends who are quite fond of you.
GEMINI (May 20 to June 20): Don't hold so tightly to accepted procedures but now be sure to put your own ideas into your work. Invest your money now instead of extravagantly spending.
MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 21): You will need to be alert to changing conditions to do your best at work now. Much pleasure is possible in your recreations now but you need to direct your energies wisely.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You will now have the opportunity to benefit through some generous and warm-hearted friends. You are very discontented at your work today but will do well if you just maintain the status quo.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Don't take that trip just to have a good time today if it will cost more than you can afford. Beneficial changes despite annoyances will be yours concerning a trip.
LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22): At last some cherished idea that you have had for some time about your duties is becoming a reality. You will have more social invitations than you will be able to accept today so be selective.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A troublesome situation at your job can turn out to be just the opportunity you've been needing to show your talents.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 20): You would be wise to depend more upon outside experts and associates where your work is concerned. Show your attachment now that you have a spirit of adventure.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 21 to Jan. 18): You will have many ideas that are good for you at your work and would be wise to express as many of them as possible. Use the advice of those you feel will be helpful to you.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 19 to Feb. 17): Money from an expected project has been held up but will soon be released. You will be able to meet with charmers in the world of entertainment and recreation and have a wonderful time.
PISCES (Feb. 18 to March 19): Your creative ideas at work now are excellent but it will take them a while to work out for you. A new undertaking that includes members of your family should be gone into thoroughly by you.

Opening lead: Queen of ♥
 If your opponents are reasonable bidders, you can't afford to be passive against small slam contracts. Usually, if you don't get your tricks in early, you won't get them at all. Scientific bidding occasionally tips the hand to the enemy, so we salute South for getting to the heart slam quickly. Unfortunately, we don't have the same high regard for the way the hand was played. With a sure heart trick, West felt he should make a safe opening lead. Had declarer made the most of the opportunity, West would have regretted being overly cautious. Declarer won the opening lead and cashed his remaining high heart. Had the suit split, declarer would have been able to claim 13 tricks. When he discovered he had a trump loser, declarer expected to be able to discard his two spades on dummy's minor-suit winners. He cashed the ace of diamonds and continued with the queen. West ruffed and shifted to a spade—down one.
 It might seem natural for declarer first to tackle the shorter of the minor suits. But it is demonstrably wrong. For the contract to succeed, South needs to discard both his spades, and he can obtain only one sluff on diamonds. He must also get a discard on clubs, and for that to happen the defender with the long trump must hold at least two clubs. Therefore, declarer should first have cashed two high clubs. If both defenders follow, declarer can switch to diamonds. Here, however, East will show out. Declarer then ruffs a club, overtakes the queen of diamonds with the king, cashes the queen of clubs for one pitch and gets rid of his remaining spade on a winning club as West ruffs.

Zsa Zsa Says Policeman Scared Her

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Actress Zsa Zsa Gabor testified her arrest for an expired auto registration tag resembled Nazi Gestapo tactics and made her think her life was in danger.

"I was screaming, 'Help, help, help!'" Miss Gabor said Wednesday during her second day of testimony in her misdemeanor trial. "I was afraid of the police. They were going to shoot me."

The former Hungarian beauty queen, believed to be in her late 60s, wore the same outfit — including a brightly flowered, knee-length skirt with petticoats — to court that she wore on June 14, the day she was arrested.

Miss Gabor testified that during her arrest, she was handcuffed and "plunked down" on the curb next to her Rolls-Royce convertible.

"They don't give a damn about me. I was sitting on the floor half nude," she testified.

She denied threatening to "call the Reagans" or demanding that Officer Paul Kramer, who arrested her, be fired.

"I recall somebody chasing me like the Gestapo wanted to shoot me," she said.

Miss Gabor also launched into a stream of invective against Kramer.

"He was Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin in one," she said. "I can't believe an American taxpayer can be treated like this for an expired registration."

Miss Gabor is charged with battery on a police officer, disobeying an officer's orders, driving with an expired license and having an open container of alcohol (a flask of Jack Daniels whiskey in the glove compartment) in her car.

If convicted, she faces a possible 18-month jail sentence.

On Tuesday, she admitted she scuffled with Kramer after he pulled her over for having expired license tags. But she said she acted in self-defense, giving him more of a pat than a slap.

Young Turks Take Over In New TV Shows Tonight

By David Zurawik
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

Young turks is the theme of tonight's new television shows.

A new detective, who NBC is hoping will be this year's sex symbol, and a new congressman, who will make you wonder how he ever made it onto the CBS schedule, arrive.

"Top of the Hill" is what you get when you sit in a bungalow on a studio back lot in California and cook up a drama about something as complicated and important as Congress without the help of a real adviser. You get "Mr. Knucklehead Goes to Washington" — half-baked Frank Capra with a TV hero viewers over the age of 12 are going to have a hard time believing.

"Top of the Hill" is the story of Thomas Bell (William Katt), who arrives in Washington, D.C., after winning a special election to fill the congressional seat of his father. Pat Bell (Dick O'Neil), his father, was forced to step down because of a heart ailment.

The only real history we have on young Bell is that his home district is in California, he's a surfer and, as the bumper sticker says, he'd rather be surfing.

This is the kind of show in which bumper stickers are used to paper over deficiencies in characterization. The bumper sticker on Bell's truck that says "I Break For Waves," for example, is supposed to identify him as a genuinely off-beat character right off the bat.

Don't let the truck fool you. The opening sequence shows Bell arriving in Washington in his old camper-truck. This opening is a very nice piece of television.

An overhead shot shows Bell's truck moving along the Beltway. Then we see the old truck passing some of the Washington monuments that have come to stand for government and country in our waking thoughts and sleeping dreams. The truck at this point is reminiscent of the camper-truck named Rocinante (in honor of Don Quixote's horse) by John Steinbeck in "Travels With Charley."

But it is all downhill from there.

Presumably because he's in blue jeans, sweatshirt and baseball hat, Bell has all kinds of trouble once he arrives on the hill — including the aides he inherited from his father not recognizing him even though they have huge posters of his face in the office.

Thursday's storyline is mainly about a Drug Enforcement Administration agent who has been kidnapped by drug dealers in Central America. The agent's father has been going from office to office, agency to agency, elected official to elected official, bureaucrat to bureaucrat trying to get someone to help find out what happened to his son.

But no one in Washington will help — no one until young Bell arrives on the scene.

Before he has learned how to fill out a congressional expense account form, Bell is jetting back to California and then into Central America to find the drug agent.

Thursday's two-hour pilot is really two films. The first half is "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." The second half is "Miami Vice," with the young congressman suddenly transformed from Jimmy Stewart into Sonny Crockett tracking Central American drug lords on their home turf. Even the music and visuals during the second hour are "Miami Vice."

There is yet another storyline: Bell "learning to play ball" in Congress, as the show's executive producer, Stephen J. Cannell, put it in an interview earlier this year.

Real congressional ballplayers can judge this aspect of "Top of the Hill" better than I can. They should be reminded, though, that this is intended as a drama — not a comedy.

NBC's "Hardball" is the best action show of the new season.

One one level, it is about two maverick cops in Los Angeles who are paired to protect the wife of an organized crime figure so that she can testify in court. The two cops — middle-aged Charlie Battles (John Ashton of "Beverly Hills Cop") and young Joe "Kaz" Kaczierowski (Richard Tyson of "Two Moon Junction") — are a couple of interesting enough guys.

The chases and gunfights they get into are staged and photographed in interesting ways, too. On this level, "Hardball," which airs Thursday night, is an entertaining 90 minutes of action-adventure and cops-as-buddies television.

But there is a lot more going on here — especially with the character of Detective Kaczierowski. Everything about him is intended to make him the New American TV Hero in viewers' minds.

The opening sequence shows him riding onto the television screen on a motorcycle — like Alan Ladd riding out of nowhere onto the big screen on a horse in "Shane." Then, after a carefully staged drug bust that shows just what an excellent cop Kaczierowski is, an older detective, who is about to retire, tells Kaz that he is being reassigned. Kaz doesn't like being reassigned, and he starts to show some vulnerability.

The older cop makes a speech that gives us some history on Kaczierowski, sets him up as a classic American hero and delivers a kind of blessing from one generation to the next. Which is about 10 more things than the average speech in a television pilot does.
