Booth Winners Named As Fair Gives Treat To Children

First place winners in the Pitt County American Legion Agricultural Fair booths are, left to right: top, Greenville-Ayden Girl Scouts, youth division; Grifton Shad Pioneers, 4-H division; bottom, Ayden-Grifton High School FHA, high school division, and Swift Creek Future Homemakers, homemaker division. Fair Manager Elvy Forrest says Wednesday was one of the best nights for the fair this week, with a large crowd and a clear night. More clear weather is expected tonight, with the temperature in the 50s. Handicapped students got a special treat this morning when carnival owners gave them two hours of free rides and games. On Friday morning, about 1,200 preschoolers will be treated to 50-cent rides, Forrest said.

Jury Declares Bakker Guilty

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — TV evangelist Jim Bakker was convicted today of fleecing his followers of $3.7 million.

The federal jury deliberated a day and a half before convicting him on all 24 counts of fraud and conspiracy for overselling time shares, or "partnerships," at his ministry's resort hotels to loyal followers of his PTL ministry.

The 49-year-old preacher could receive up to 120 years in prison and $5 million in fines at sentencing. A sentencing date was not immediately set.

Prosecutors said Bakker diverted the money to live in high style, buying Rolls-Royces, homes, diamonds, an air-conditioned doghouse and furnishings ranging from gold-plated swan bathroom fixtures to motorized bedroom drapes.

Jury foreman Ricky Hill said Bakker's intent was a concern for the jurors.

Hill said Bakker's testimony didn't sway his decision.

"His testimony did not weigh on me one bit," the foreman said "I believe he began in earnest. He was called by God. But eventually the money became too much for him."

"He was a man of God," Hill added. "He got corrupt and I feel sorry for the man."

Hill said the jurors "had a good feeling at the very beginning that he believed in what he was doing, that he did not commit fraud," but later changed their feelings.

"I think justice was served," the foreman said.

Hill said the jury took the entire time it deliberated to come to an agreement. His comments came outside the courtroom.

"We had some points we had to work out," he said. "The most disagreement was when the fraud started. The prosecution did an ex-

Ex-Candidates Urge Students Skip Vote

By J.R. Williams
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

A group of former Student Government Association candidates at East Carolina University openly urged students not to vote in student elections Wednesday as they continued to protest an election review board's decision to nullify SGA elections held in September.

Members of the Reformist Party contend that the first election, held Sept. 20, was thrown out because the review board felt fraternities and sororities were going to lose their majority in the student government legislature.

The Reformist Party is made up of non-Greek fraternity and sorority candidates. Its members claim the review board is made up mostly of fraternity and sorority members.

Steve Sommers, former candidate for SGA president, said the party members, who he said chose not to run in the second election because they believe the system is corrupt, are optimistic about the group's goals.

"I think that our issue will be accepted by the general student body, including the Greeks," said Sommers, a party member.

Sommers said the group's goals are:

- To improve its image from being one of rebellion to one that students perceive as being active for positive changes at the university.
- To run candidates in the spring elections and win.
- To have a committee appointed by the school to ensure that there are no corrupt elections.

Kelly Jones, the election review board chairman, said this year's elections weren't corrupt.

"The corrupt thing would have been not to have a new election," Ms. Jones said.

Ms. Jones said the elections were nullified because there were election violations.

"Every time we have an election, it never fails, we always end up with a Greek, non-Greek or a racial issue, and I just don't think that everything has to do with those two issues," she said.

Greeks currently make up about 80 percent of the student legislature and comprise 15 percent of the student population, Sommers said. He said he believes a more diversified legislature would benefit the university.

The demonstration took place in front of the Student Stores complex.

East Germans Storm Refugee Train, Beat Back By Guards

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOF, West Germany — Trainloads of elated East Germans rolled into this border town today, and thousands of their desperate countrymen battled police in Dresden while trying to board the freedom trains to the West.

Meanwhile, the West German Embassy in Prague was again reported to be filling with East German refugees who were trying to follow the thousands of others who packed the Czechoslovak capital before being allowed to emigrate to West Germany.

In Bonn, Foreign Ministry spokesman Juergen Chrobog announced that the approximately 600 East Germans who had sought asylum in the West German Embassy in Warsaw also would be allowed to emigrate today to the West.

In Hof, 7,600 refugees who took part in the latest exodus from Prague arrived in eight trains after the journey through East Germany.

Thousands of their countrymen were reported to have lined tracks hoping to jump aboard.

"Out of hell, finally!" shouted one young man from a train window as one of the trains pulled into this northern Bavarian town shortly after dawn today. Some of the refugees had spent 14 hours on board the trains.

East Germany agreed to allow the exodus from the crowded embassy in Prague, then on Tuesday closed its border with Czechoslovakia — the only nation where East Germans can freely travel — to stop other refugees from seeking asylum there.

East Germany moved to end the exodus of its young and skilled citizens before the hard-line Communist country celebrates its 40th anniversary this weekend.

In a face-saving move, the trains traveled from Prague back into East Germany before heading into West Germany so the government in East Berlin could officially expel the refugees.

Many East Germans tried desperately to reach Prague and join the exodus.

"The police were everywhere," Guido Albrecht, 26, from Potsdam. "We just decided on Tuesday morning that we would go to Czechoslovakia and the embassy in Prague. We left the car in Prague, and we made it just before they clamped down on travel to Czechoslovakia."

West German Embassy officials initially estimated the number of refugees in the embassy at 10,000-11,000 and said they would be traveling on 15 trains to Hof. Only eight trains arrived with about 7,600.

It was unclear if the exodus was still incomplete or if some had stayed behind to take advantage of an East German offer that they would be allowed to emigrate after six months.

However, witnesses in Prague reported more refugees entering the embassy grounds.

In the East German city of Dresden, people fought running battles with police, overturned cars and smashed windows of the main railroad station Wednesday night, witnesses said.

"We want out! we want out!" the would-be refugees screamed as police swinging truncheons charged to drive them back from the main railroad station.

Abortion Consent Law Struck Down

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Florida's Supreme Court today struck down a law requiring girls to get parental consent before an abortion, ruling it violates the right to privacy.

The decision comes less than a week before the Legislature is to convene in special session at Gov. Bob Martinez's request to restrict access to abortion.

"We can conceive of few more personal or private decisions concerning one's body that one can make in the course of a lifetime," the court wrote. "The challenged statute fails because it intrudes upon the privacy of the pregnant minor from conception to birth."

The court said the state Constitution's guarantee of privacy

Bush Surgery Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush will undergo minor surgery on Friday at Walter Reed Army Hospital to remove a cyst from his right finger, the White House announced today.

Presidential press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the president, who is left-handed, would be given a local anesthetic for the procedure, expected to take about an hour.

Fitzwater said the president's doctors were confident that the growth was benign, but that a routine biopsy would be performed.

The cyst, on the end of his middle finger just below the nail, has bothered Bush for about three years "and it simply has reached the point where it has gotten larger and noticeable in daily activities," Fitzwater said.

"It's not really painful but it's a nuisance," Fitzwater said.

Mayor Wants Troops

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Charleston Mayor Joseph P. Riley Jr. called on Washington to send in troops to help clear away tons of debris in the estimated $200 million cleanup from Hurricane Hugo.

"The collective task for all the municipalities in our state is extraordinary," said Riley, who said he would ask Gov. Carroll Campbell to request Army troops and equipment to help clear the mess left by the storm.

Meanwhile, work putting the Ben Sawyer Bridge back in place and providing a link between the mainland and barrier islands had hit in the storm was delayed today.

And officials said the bridge probably wouldn't open until Friday at the earliest.

Hurricane Hugo, packing 135 mph winds, smashed into the South Carolina coast two weeks ago today.

Riley said trucks are removing 1,000 loads of debris from Charleston each day and that help is needed in the cleanup across the state.

Preliminary figures from the state Budget and Control Board indicate the cleanup bill could top $200 million.

Chocowinity Bay Project Appealed

By J. Ward Best
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

WASHINGTON, N.C. — Just when it appeared chain saws and bulldozers were ready to move on 875 acres at Chocowinity Bay, an environmental group set in motion an appeal to block a proposed development by a division of Weyerhaeuser Corp.

If granted, the appeal could impact not just the Beaufort County project, but developments throughout the state.

The Pamlico-Tar River Foundation, an environmental group based in Washington, N.C., filed an appeal this week with the N.C. Coastal Resources Commission to challenge the proposed development of Cypress Landing by Weyerhaeuser Real Estate. The commission granted the necessary permit for the project Sept. 11.

Dave McNaught, foundation director, said the size of the development could ruin the near-pristine waters of Chocowinity Bay. And the state, in allowing a private development on the bay, was neglecting its responsibility to maintain public waters for public use, he said.

Weyerhaeuser has proposed building single- and multifamily houses and a commercial site on the property. Development plans also call for a 302-slip marina on the bay.

"Not only is a project of this size going to limit the public use and enjoyment of Chocowinity Bay," McNaught said, "it will pose a substantial threat to the quality of the natural resources in the area."

The appeal goes before the chairman of the Coastal Resources Commission for first consideration. If granted, a hearing officer will take public and legal comment on the appeal, then the full commission would make a final decision.

If the appeal fails within the commission, an appeal to Superior Court is possible.

McNaught said the appeal, if successful, would set a precedent for private development on "public lands." "We're trying to do something that will impact marina development throughout the state," he said.

ECU NEWS BUREAU

A Winston-Salem firm which is designing a major library project at Wake Forest University and a College of Textiles facility at N.C. State has been selected as architect for a $24.3 million addition to Joyner Library at East Carolina University.

Robert I. Webb, ECU's director of physical plant, identified the firm of Walter, Robbs, Callahan and Pierce as architects for a library addition of three or four stories.

The 163,580 square foot addition is the top priority construction project at ECU. The 1989 General Assembly appropriated $7 million for planning and design and the start of construction of the facility.

With approval of architect selection by the ECU Board of Trustees last Friday, Webb said second phase preliminary drawings should be ready by next April.

Burroughs Wellcome Offers ATZ Syrup

Burroughs Wellcome Co. has introduced its anti-AIDS drug in a strawberry-flavored syrup to help patients who have difficulty swallowing, according to company officials.

The syrup form of Retrovir — the brand name for AZT — is expected to be available in pharmacies within four to six weeks, officials said. It is being manufactured at the company's plant in Greenville.

"This new formulation should provide more flexibility in making dosage adjustments and be particularly useful to patients who have difficulty swallowing capsules for a variety of reasons, including lesions in the throat and mouth," said Kathryn H. Pattishall, project leader for Retrovir at Burroughs Wellcome.

Kathy Bartlett, a spokeswoman for Burroughs Wellcome, said the syrup would also help doctors adjust the dosage. The price will be the same per milligram as the tablets and capsules now available, Ms. Bartlett said — $28.85 per 8-ounce bottle to distributors.

AZT capsules were approved by the Food and Drug Administration in March 1987, and the syrup received approval in September.

AZT was rushed into production in 1986 after only nine months of clinical tests, when preliminary results showed 8 percent of patients died while taking the drug, compared with 40 percent in a similar test group not given the drug.

AZT is the only drug approved for the treatment of AIDS.

An estimated 40,000 of the sickest AIDS patients now take Retrovir in the capsule form. Recent studies, however, have indicated that as many as 400,000 people having the AIDS virus might benefit from taking the drug, probably at a lower dosage than for those with symptoms.

Burroughs Wellcome has recently cut Retrovir's price by 20 percent.

Hatteras Property Taxes Skyrocket

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HATTERAS, N.C. — The latest real estate appraisals have property values jumping by as much as 200 percent for Hatteras Island residents, some of whom now complain that their homes are worth too much.

"It's mind-boggling really that there could be such a drastic change," said Waves resident Michael Halmanski. "Mine practically tripled. Some of them went up higher than that, seven or eight times. Everybody's pretty much bummed out about it."

"We're kind of upset about it, really," said Emily Landrum of Rodanthe. "Some of our elderly people are concerned about how they're going to pay for it."

County tax officials say they can't explain the drastic rise.

"We never did know why," said county Tax Administrator Donald C. Hux Jr. "The only thing we can figure is it must have been valued too low in the last appraisal."

Dare County is the state's fastest growing county, with total assessed real estate for the 5,500 residents increased threefold in value. On Hatteras, some individual assessments are nearly 10 times higher than the county's last revaluation in 1982.

In recent years, the northern Dare County communities of Southern Shores and Duck have received the bulk of attention about increasing property costs. But the recent county-wide property revaluation, the first in seven years, shows that the Hatteras Island communities of Rodanthe, Waves and Salvo have experienced the greatest increase in market value.

County officials said real property in Rodanthe increased in worth by 250 percent, from $22 million to $78 million, the largest percentage of any of the county's 22 tax districts.

Waves finished next with a 216 percent rise, from $14 million to $45 million, while Salvo was a close third with a 213 percent increase, from $22 million to $69 million, officials said.

"That kind of amazed us really, because I don't see a good reason for it," Rodanthe fire chief R.E. Huggott told the Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot & Ledger-Star.

Hux and Revaluation Director Jim F. Kelly said that undeveloped real estate in the county had been undervalued by the private contractor that performed the last revaluation because adequate data was unavailable.

House Democrats Fight Off Challenge To Child Care Bill

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — House Democratic leaders fought today to stave off a challenge by Southern members of their party and Republicans to a child-care package that would require quality and safety standards for day-care providers.

"The federal government has found it appropriate to regulate the type of food we eat so that our health is protected," said Rep. Thomas J. Downey, D-N.Y., an author of one of the competing proposals. "Clearly our health is important and so are our children. They deserve the finest and the best care we can provide for them."

Opponents, however, claimed Downey's measure and another bill by the House Education and Labor Committee would set up a maze of new wasteful regulations and training requirements that would restrict child care services not provided by the elderly and by churches.

"Imagine spending government on training a grandmother how to change a diaper," Rep. Robert T. Schulze, R-Pa., said of one requirement that would mandate 15 hours of training for each child-care worker.

Votes were scheduled today to pick among three multibillion-dollar child-care packages. Two are endorsed by President Bush; the third is a slightly different version of a union-tailored measure already approved by the Senate and supported by House Democratic leaders.

Both measures supported by Bush target all the new aid to low-income families, entirely eliminating child-care tax deductions of up to $2,400 for families with annual incomes above $90,000. But he is expected to fail in an early vote on an amendment by Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., to a deficit-cutting bill that has turned into a vehicle for a wide variety of unrelated initiatives.

Congressional Democrats already have bowed to Bush and Republicans in agreeing to provide the bulk of the new child-care aid indirectly through an expansion of the Earned Income Tax Credit for families with children under 12.

The White House has reluctantly agreed to accept up to a $1 billion increase in direct aid over the next five years through an expansion of the Head Start program for preschool children and untied block grants to states.

Democratic leaders, however, are insisting on mandating quality standards for child-care providers. They also want to keep the option open for directing some of the new aid to middle-income families.

The key amendment is one supported by the administration and introduced by Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, to trim the proposed direct aid, give states wide discretion on how it's spent and eliminate the proposed quality standards.

Stenholm's measure also would give church-based centers, which provide a third of all child-care services, a better seat at the table when the new subsidies are dished out.

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., still smarting from last week's loss and mass defection of Southern Democrats to Bush on cutting capital gains taxes, said Wednesday he has enough votes to defeat Stenholm's amendment.

Support for Stenholm has mushroomed in the past few days, particularly among Southern Democrats, with an endorsement from the National Governors Association. Both sides expect a close vote.

"The majority of Congress definitely wants to provide for increased child care, no question about it," Stenholm said. "But they don't want a giant new bureaucracy with massive regulations at this time."

If Stenholm fails, the House will take two competing proposals — one by its Ways and Means Committee and the other by its Education and Labor Committee — as its position into negotiations with the Senate.

Both committee versions mandate the establishment of quality standards at child-care centers, require annual training of workers and target more of the money to early childhood education.

However, the Education and Labor Committee's version tracks the union-pushed Act for Better Child Care proposal co-authored in the Senate by Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, targeting one-fourth of the new grant money to public schools.

The Ways and Means version makes the new aid part of an existing program of block grant entitlements distributed to the states.

"The Stenholm plan has been crafted to exploit the tension between Ways and Means and Education and Labor," said House Democratic Whip William H. Gray of Pennsylvania. "It's an attempt to go back to the Reagan appeals of '81 giving block grants to the states with no standards."

The bulk of the new aid — $13.5 billion over the next five years — in both would be funneled to low-income families through increases in the earned income tax credit.

cellent job. We kept looking for something from the defense and we never saw it."

Bakker showed little emotion as the verdict was read, nor did his wife, Tammy. She was not charged in the case.

As they awaited the verdict in the courtroom this morning, several Bakker supporters held Bibles open to Psalm 17, which reads: "Thou hast tried me, and shalt find nothing."

The verdict was returned at 11:50 a.m. by the six-man, six-woman jury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Potter dismissed the jury after it returned the verdict.

The jury convicted Bakker on all 24 counts in the indictment, which alleged that he oversold lodging guarantees, called "lifetime partnerships," at his Heritage USA religious retreat.

As the verdict was read, Potter removed his glasses. Bakker stood and stared ahead. Defense lawyer

Harold Bender put his right hand on Bakker's shoulder.

The courtroom was silent as the verdict was awaited. Potter warned that he would clear the courtroom if there wasn't silence.

Bakker resigned from the ministry in 1987 in a sex and money scandal.

"You can't lie to people to send you money — it's that simple," prosecutor Deborah Smith told the jury.

"You can't tell half-truths. If you do it, if you use the Postal Service and the public airwaves you will find yourself in federal court answering charges of mail and wire fraud. That's why we're here today, because that's just what Mr. Bakker did."

Bakker's attorneys said he was a devout man of God.

The jury returned to the courtroom five times after getting the case Wednesday morning. One of the jurors' requests was for evidence relating to wire fraud charges.

Bay Project Is Under Appeal

Along with the Sierra Club and the N.C. Coastal Federation, PTRF had proposed classifying Chocowinity Bay as "outstanding resource waters" before the permit was granted. The designation would have further restricted development along the waters.

In granting the permit to Weyerhaeuser Real Estate, the Coastal Resources Commission included three pages of conditions in the permit. The conditions restricted marina operations and pier and walkway construction throughout the development.

Kip Peregoy, community development manager with Weyerhaeuser Real Estate, said his company has met all the state restrictions. He said Weyerhaeuser was committed to preserving the natural environment of Chocowinity Bay.

The wastewater treatment facility proposed for the development would use a land application system to eliminate any discharge into the bay, Peregoy said. Weyerhaeuser based its reputation on both quality development and environmental considerations, he said.

"When we got our permit we were handed a responsibility to keep the uniqueness of the land and water quality, and we accept that," Peregoy said. "Our permit should not be held up because they want to challenge the state regulations."

Peregoy said Weyerhaeuser planned to begin surveying and engineering on the project this month, and actual construction was scheduled to begin in November.

"The public has recognized rights to use these waters," said Derb S. Carter Jr., an attorney with the Southern Environmental Law Center, in a prepared statement. The Chapel Hill-based legal center is handling the appeal for PTRF.

"The proposed marina would significantly interfere with the public's right to use these waters for swimming, boating, fishing and other water-based recreation," Carter said.

The appeal challenges the state's regulation and authority to permit private developments such as marinas on public lands.

"Our coastal waters are owned and maintained by the state for the benefit of all the citizens of North Carolina," Carter said. "In the face of increasing development on our coast, we must ensure that the public's rights to use their waters is maintained."

Abortion

outweighed the 1988 law requiring consent of a parent, guardian or judge for a girl under 18 to get an abortion.

The decision comes in the case of 15-year-old Lake County girl initially denied permission for an abortion by a judge. A state appeals court later found the law unconstitutional. A lawyer for the teen-ager refused to say whether her client obtained an abortion after that ruling.

The U.S. Supreme Court earlier this year returned the case to the state Supreme Court without comment.

The state high court said of the law: "Such a substantial invasion of a pregnant female's privacy by the state for the full term of the pregnancy is not necessary for the preservation of maternal health or the potentiality of life."

Southern States Can Take The Lead

The Southern Governors Association represents a unique area of the nation. It includes 17 southern states and Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

It encompasses the area once called the nation's number one economic problem, but today it represents an area of burgeoning growth, albeit sometimes alongside the old economic problems.

At a recent session in Wilmington, Del. the governors recognized the greatest concern of all to them — that is the problems of public education. As part of the National Education Summit in Charlottesville, Va., they, along with their counterparts from across the nation, echoed that concern.

At their gathering, the southern governors indicated that radical steps might be required to cure the problems of the public school system. Specifically, governors individually called for new national goals. In their discussions the governors broached new ideas for placing more competitiveness in the schools, returning power to the classroom, as some see it. Those ideas were sent to the summit in Charlottesville.

'Southern states can take the lead in providing answers to improved public education. The region's schools, after all, have undergone historic changes in recent decades.'

A pilot program in several southern states allows individual schools to make determinations as to the best way to teach. While there were calls for allowing parents to choose the schools their children will attend — a move which proponents claim would restore competition — there were also serious and valid concerns about backward movement from the gains made in desegregation.

Attention was also given to children at-risk of dropping out of school or failing. The region has a lion's share of these students and it will play a large role in developing and evaluating programs to ease the risk.

Former Education Secretary Terrence Bell said, "I believe governors can make an enormous difference in education in the states. We need to make education an obsession. I hope out of the summit there will be a clarity and call to change the nation's priorities." There was such a challenge issued at the national summit.

The answers to the problems of public education won't be found in one session, or one summit. The problems will have to be solved, however, and it will require a national consensus to do so.

But southern states can take the lead in providing answers to improved public education. The region's schools, after all, have undergone historic changes in recent decades. With the southern states' experience in successfully absorbing the great changes of the 1960s, '70s and '80s certainly they can meet the challenge of a final step toward excellence — and it can be done before this century is out.

The End Of The Void

George Will

blame from reaching a 22-year-old pitcher.

In the hours before D-Day, Gen. Eisenhower drafted a statement to be issued if the invasion failed. First he wrote: "Our landings in the Cherbourg-Havre area have failed to gain a satisfactory foothold and the troops have been withdrawn." But then he struck the last six words and wrote instead: "...and I have withdrawn the troops." By replacing the passive tense with the first-person pronoun, Eisenhower stepped up to the pitch: He took responsibility. Quirk was like Ike.

Quirk is, in baseball's evocative language, a journeyman. His travels took him to the Royals, Cardinals, White Sox, Indians, Royals again, Athletics and Yankees before he arrived in Baltimore in mid-season, in time to vivify the axiom that sport reveals as well as builds character. He may not be back in Baltimore next year, but he is a nice emblem of this year.

After beginning the 1988 season with a record 21 consecutive losses and going on to lose 107, the 1989 Orioles relied heavily on hungry rookies and some veterans who had been given up on by other teams. (Quirk had been released nine times.) The 1989 Orioles, who were in the hunt until the last weekend of the season, are called "overachievers." Meaning what? They achieved more than they were "supposed" to? Who are these supposers who lay down the law about other people's limits?

Baseball teams often reflect their cities. The Cubs have the edgy insecurity of The Second City. The Mets and Yankees are pure New York: Chaos leavened by recriminations. Baltimore is just a nice town built around basics — a harbor, some manufacturing. The Orioles rebuilt around baseball's basics, speed and defense.

Frank Robinson — Hall of Famer, 1989 Manager of the Year (surely) and all-star aphorist — says: "Speed comes to the ballpark every day. The three-run home run does not." Speed serves defense, which improves pitching: Pitchers become aggressive, putting the ball in the strike zone, counting on fleet fielders to catch it.

Defense is baseball's underappreciated (by fans, not baseball people) dimension. Players spend more time with leather on their hands than with wood in their hands. The 1989 Orioles were the second team in history to have fewer than 90 errors. Their fielding percentage (.98602) was the best ever.

"When you've been around seven or eight years," said Cal Ripken, the shortstop, during this his eighth season, "you might think twice about making a diving catch on gravel and sliding into the wall. But at this stage of our young players' development, they don't think about it."

Ripken is not exactly Methuselah. He will be 29 on opening day, 1990. This is awfully far away. Today, baseball, the sport that combines, better than any other, team play and personal accountability, is coming to its autumn crescendo, beyond which stretches....

Jonathan Yardley says there are only two seasons, baseball season and The Void. When, toward the end of this season, George Bush was asked who he thought would win the American League East, he said, "I've given up on the Rangers." Good thinking. The Rangers are in the AL West.

Mr. President, read Baltimore's lips: The 1990 AL East champions open at home, 40 miles from your front porch, April 2, the end of The Void.

Public Forum

To the editor:

This summer I, along with other Pitt County educators, were asked by Dr. Eddie West to participate in a process of developing an innovated concept of a "School of the Future." In good faith we worked in Raleigh ten different days with Peter Leois and Jackie Savage of the North Carolina Public School Forum and Caleb Maddox of IBM on this project.

The innovated results were not only a school with "modern computer technology", but a school structured to maximize student and teacher accomplishments. From the opening day of the process, we emphasized the frustration and demoralizing effect on educators of projects conceived, but not implemented. We were reassured that this would not be the outcome of this project.

Knowing the close tie between the Forum and Dr. West, who serves on the Forum's Board of Directors, and understanding the uncertainty, at that time over the superintendent's status, we inquired what implications a change in leadership might have on implementation of this project for Pitt County. We were repeatedly told that the Forum was committed to its implementation of this project, regardless of personnel decisions. Can you then imagine the reaction to Mr. Dornan's statement that "West's removal threatens the proposed School of the Future demonstration site?"

We, in Pitt County have had for many years, a consistent quality of educational leadership. There is every reason to believe that this tradition will continue, regardless of any change in personnel. Educational excellence is a goal that Pitt County educators strive daily and year after year to achieve. That commitment to excellence will never waiver for any reason or consideration. Regardless of the actions by the Public School Forum, Pitt County teachers and administrators will pursue avenues of educational excellence that guide students toward a productive life in the 21st century.

To the editor:

Like most dedicated parents within Pitt County I too am concerned about the education of our children. I currently have two children at Sadie Saulter Elementary.

Concerning the Dr. Eddie West controversy I have a couple of questions that I don't believe people are considering.

1. Isn't this Dr. West the same man who recently was a finalist for another job outside Pitt County?

2. If his qualifications are so good and he can't be replaced, why didn't this "other county" hire him?

I personally believe that given the offer of employment outside of the county Dr. West would have left and had no second thoughts about doing so. The fact though is that he was not offered the job. Why? There was someone out there who was more qualified than he.

Let's wake up Pitt County and realize that the educational process and progress does not lie in one man or woman. The fact is that the educational process is made up of many people; teachers, principals, teacher's aides, and parents who care about the well being of their children.

The future of Pitt County, and this nation are not in the Superintendents' office, they are sitting daily in the classrooms all across Pitt County as well as the rest of the country. Let's not lose sight of what school is about!

To the editor:

The Reflector on Sunday, Oct. 1, carried a front page "news" item by Charles Hoskinson entitled "Cable Company Opts To Pull 'Temptation' From Schedule." Mr. Hoskinson said, "because of its controversial nature". He stated that "more than 2600 Cinemax subscribers in the Greenville area will not be able to see the movie on cable". In writing the "news" item Mr. Hoskinson editorialized that the decision to pull "Temptation" was censorship which he reported that Cinemax denied.

Mr. Hoskinson displays a lack of sensitivity even as did Universal in producing the movie and Martin Scorsese who is responsible for it. Hoskinson calls "Temptation" "controversial". He neglects the truth that the show is insulting and causes mental and spiritual anguish to a sizable percentage of the people of Greenville.

I assume that Mr. Hoskinson is a novice in journalism because a veteran reporter would be sensitive to the vulnerability of gentle people in the area of their faiths and their heritage. A veteran journalist violates that sensitivity for the purpose of battling what he perceives to be a faulty and undesirable aspect of society. Where there is no cause for which battle is to be done, the veteran reporter recognizes and respects the sensitivities of his fellow humans. Universal, Martin Scorsese, and Charles Hoskinson have shown rudeness to a large number of people. And for no purpose unless for financial gain.

Why are ethnic jokes taboo? Is it not because such jokes and the joker cause anguish to sensitivities?

Marshall Helms
Greenville

To the editor:

With all of the confusion and questions being asked, it seems that the seven members of the School Board should reconsider their decision not to renew Dr. Eddie West's contract — or at least as elected officials be honest enough to give the public an explanation for their decision.

The majority of comments raised in the community have been in favor of Dr. West's leadership — focusing on the exceptional achievements of our children. Dr. West's leadership is needed for the continuity of our on-going plans for the future. With all these negative feelings arising, many of the voters will refuse to support a bond referendum.

I seriously question whether the present school has the expertise and foresight to utilize this large amount of money for the benefit of our children.

The Board of Election has stated that the issue of Dr. West's reappointment can be readdressed at any future meeting if the school board. This should be done as soon as possible. I encourage the seven board members to reconsider their actions and vote again, this time making sure their vote reflects the needs of our children and the strong voice of their district, not on any political motivations.

IN THE STATE

N.C. State Athletes Charged With Assault

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — Seven members of the North Carolina State University wrestling team and a former member have been charged in connection with the beating of two men and a woman outside a Raleigh townhouse last month, authorities said.

Witnesses told police that the victims had been hit with beer bottles and kicked in the face and that the woman had been punched in the mouth. One man required surgery for a broken eye socket and cheek bone, and a doctor had to insert a steel plate in his head.

Police said the attack took place Sept. 1 outside a townhouse not far from campus. Investigators said it had taken several weeks to determine the identities of the suspects.

N.C. State wrestling coach Robert Guzzo declined to comment Wednesday. Athletics Director Jim Valvano was out of town and could not be reached. Other N.C. State officials said Wednesday that they had not known of the incident.

"I'm going to try to get some more information about it, but I certainly can't comment on something I don't know about," said Dr. Larry K. Monteith, N.C. State's acting chancellor.

Dr. Albert B. Lanier Jr., vice chancellor for university relations, also declined to comment, saying he did not know about the case.

On Wednesday, police charged these men with two counts each of simple assault:

Robert Andrew Boyer, 18; Garrett Abbott Boggs, 22; Michael Patrick Norton, 18; and Christopher Scott Kwortnik; David Scott Zettlemoyer, 20; Jeffrey Shawn Kwortnik, 21; Steve Will Pagliugi, 21, and James Timothy Best. Best was on the 1988-89 wrestling team.

Norton also was charged with assault on a female. All were released on written promises to appear in court Nov. 14.

Simple assault is a misdemeanor with a maximum punishment of 30 days in jail and a fine of $50.

The incident began sometime after 11 p.m. when a station wagon loaded with men drove through the neighborhood, said Michael D. Rose, who lives next door to Bill and Charlotte Grey, two of the victims. The Greys had several guests that night in their home.

Rose said he had gone next door to tell the Greys that a tow truck was about to remove a car belonging to one of their guests. Rose said that two men had gotten out of the station wagon and had started harassing the tow truck driver, who eventually chased them off with a tire iron.

When people from the Grey party went outside to talk to the tow truck operator, they saw three men urinating in the front yard. One of the women chastised them, but they continued. One man cursed her. Then Grey, a Marine recruiter, told the men to leave.

"Two guys picked him up and threw him on the back of my car," Rose said in a telephone interview. Grey got back up again, but the men began punching him and throwing him around — first onto the ground and then into another vehicle. Somebody smashed a beer bottle on his head.

"Then he was finally laying on the ground, not even moving, and they were kicking him in the head," Rose said.

Mrs. Grey rushed to help her husband. A man stepped in front of her, and she hit him, said Rodney Bentley, who witnessed the incident. He hit her back in the mouth, he said. She needed seven stitches.

Bentley said he had tried to help his friends, but he only succeeded in getting a broken jaw and eye socket.

"We started hollering, 'The police are here, the police are here,' even before they were," Ms. Mitchell said. The men piled into a station wagon and sped off.

Mill Fire

SWEPSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Fire investigators were beginning to probe for the cause of a fire that swept through the Virginia Mills plant, destroying about a third of it and forcing the evacuation of nearby homes.

About 130 firefighters from eight Alamance County fire departments fought the blaze Wednesday night. Smoke from the fire could be seen as far away as Orange County and the heat could be felt up to a quarter of a mile away.

Virginia Mills is a former drapery-and-upholstery manufacturing plant that once served as the life blood of employment of Swepsonville, residents said.

Authorities were called to the fire in this town south of Graham at about 6:15 p.m. Drew Sharpe, Alamance fire marshal, said the blaze was under control at about 9 p.m.

The plant is on 22 acres on Swepsonville-Saxapahaw Road and is bordered by the Haw River on one side. Thirty to 40 percent of the 422,000-square-foot building was destroyed, Sharpe said.

Authorities said there were no major injuries, although some firefighters suffered from minor smoke inhalation. There was no immediate indication of what started the fire, Sharpe said.

Mrs. Harrell, 47, died this morning at Cape Fear Valley Medical Center in Fayetteville. Harrell, 45, was in stable condition, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The shooting occurred in the yard of the Harrells' Home Day Care in the Scurlack area four miles east of Raeford, Norton said.

Parks shot Mrs. Harrell in her right eye and forehead and Harrell near his left eye before fatally shooting himself in the right side of his head, Norton said. A .32-caliber pistol was found.

Accident Inquiry

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The "Enterprise" continued to spin at the Dixie Classic Fair as investigators continued their inquiry into an accident that injured a Winston-Salem woman and her son.

Investigators will report their findings about the accident by Friday, said Clyde D. Wagner, an inspector with the N.C. Department of Labor, which monitors the safety of fair rides.

Marilyn E. Kirk, 34, and her son, Shawn D. Kirk, 6, were found injured near the ride about 8:30 p.m. and taken to Baptist Hospital. Ms. Kirk remained in the hospital last night in stable condition after suffering a pelvic fracture and an exterior cut near her kidney, a spokesman for the hospital said.

Shawn, whose abdomen was injured, was released Saturday, the spokesman said.

"The accident is still under investigation," Wagner said.

"We've got a few more witnesses to talk to, but we should be able to make a statement within the next day or two."

The Enterprise is a giant wheel with two-seat cars on the rim. Riders are held inside by gates with metal bars that lock shut.

Shooting Spree

RAEFORD, N.C. (AP) — A Hoke County man killed himself after shooting two neighbors, wounding one of them fatally, during a dispute about water runoff from the neighbors' yard, authorities said.

Lindo Parks, 61, shot and wounded Benjamin Harrell and his wife, Louise, then turned the gun on himself, Hoke County Sheriff Alex Norton said.

Gardner: Drugs Must Be Fought At Home

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — To win the drug war society must not neglect the battle on the home front, Lt. Gov. Jim Gardner told a group of religious leaders.

Gardner said in the meeting of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders Wednesday that discussions with parents of drug-abusing children "started me thinking about the family unit and what has happened to it in this state and this country."

"Too many children grow up on their own and go out into the world to face peer pressure with very little preparation," he said.

Gardner, who heads a task force developing drug-fighting proposals for Gov. Jim Martin, said he had learned that there are a lot of good drug-abuse programs operating around the state.

"But I also found out the problems are much larger than I thought it would be," he said. At first, he believed tougher law enforcement was the answer to the drug problem.

"I found out that was a very simplistic solution, that law enforcement alone would not do it," he said. "If we're going to affect the demand side of drugs, we have to begin with education. I do not look for any quick, easy solutions."

He said more treatment programs are needed, along with more funding for law enforcement and a tougher criminal justice system.

"One of the problems we hear over and over again is that the same people are out there being arrested for selling drugs time after time," he said. "They have a profitability factor that's way up here. What we have to do in North Carolina is raise the risk factor to make it less attractive."

Jamie Norton, acting clinical director of the Mary Frances Center, said advertising and even parents send young children the message that taking a pill will make them feel better. It is a message that comes back to haunt many parents later, she said.

"We work with attitudes," she said. "What is there about our society that a significant number of its members must turn to chemicals to feel OK?"

The Rev. Jim Daily, chairman of the ecumenical council of the Governor's Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, said ministers must recognize that their congregations probably include people who abuse drugs and alcohol.

"I don't care if you call alcohol and drug abuse a disease, a problem or a sin, we as pastors ... have a job to do," Daily said. "It is God who is the judge. We don't have to concern ourselves with judging people, but how best we can help them."

Hearing On Drilling Set For Today

By Dennis Patterson
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — Representatives from Mobil Oil will face the public tonight in a hearing on the company's plans to drill an exploratory well for natural gas off Cape Hatteras.

The hearing in Wilmington is the first of four scheduled on the drilling plans. Tonight's hearing is scheduled for 6 p.m. at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. Similar hearings are scheduled next week in Greenville, Elizabeth City and Buxton.

"We will open with a state presentation on a general overview of the exploration plan, what's in it, where people can look at it ... the deadline for comments to the state," said Donna Moffett, director of the state Outer Continental Shelf Office. "Then there will be a brief description of environmental considerations or concerns that the state is looking at."

The hearing also will include a presentation by the federal Minerals Management Service on its review of the proposal, and a panel of state, MMS and Mobil officials to answer questions.

Mobil last month unveiled a 1,500-page proposal to drill a test well for natural gas 45 miles off Cape Hatteras. A special drilling ship would be anchored at the site, which is under 2,690 feet of water.

Mobil officials say the well is expected to reach depths of 14,000 feet, with drilling proposed for 114 days between May and August of next year.

Mobil geologists say there is a 1-in-10 chance of striking commercial levels of natural gas at the site, with a 1-in-100 chance of striking commercial quantities of oil.

A clean-up ship would be stationed with the drilling rig and back-up crews and equipment would be on call at the drilling operation's proposed base in Morehead City.

State officials negotiated with Mobil and MMS for nearly a year, seeking a full environmental impact statement for the proposed drilling site. Federal officials said that was not necessary for a test well. Under federal regulations, the state would have had only 20 days to examine Mobil's final proposal.

In a compromise this year, Mobil agreed to present its full draft proposal now and hold off on a final proposal until at least Jan. 18, 1990. That gives the state time to examine the proposal and prepare its response.

Ms. Moffett said her agency has had many calls from people wanting to see a copy of Mobil's proposal.

"It's a hot item," she said of the 1,500-page plan. "But they're pretty limited because it is such a large document and so expensive to reproduce. The state would normally get five copies, but we asked for, and got, 32 copies."

She said copies had been circulated to some coastal libraries. A list of locations where the plan can be reviewed will be passed out at the hearing.

Taggarts To Go To Prison Camp

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE — Convicted PTL aides David and James Taggart will be sent to a minimum-security prison in Alabama that once housed Watergate conspirators Charles Colson and former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell, the Taggarts' attorneys says.

The Taggart brothers were sentenced on tax evasion charges last month. The Taggarts will be sent to the prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., attorney Ben Cotten said Wednesday.

The prison camp has no fences and features cable television, a fishing pond and handball courts.

Inmates usually have 10 days to report to federal prison once assigned a location. Cotten said the Taggarts haven't yet been assigned a date to report.

The Taggarts were convicted in July of income tax evasion while working at PTL. The brothers were convicted of using more than $1.1 million in PTL money to pay personal bills and of not reporting that money as income.

Maxwell, built in 1930, is the oldest federal prison camp. In 1987, a national men's magazine, "M, The Civilized Man," voted it the fifth best among "Club Feds" — minimum-security federal prisons the magazine said were the best places to serve time, if one must. The federal prison in Allenwood, Pa., ranked first.

Maxwell occupies 3 acres adjacent to a golf course, riding stables and shooting range. The dormitories overlook a baseball field and handball courts.

During their three-week trial, merchants from exclusive Manhattan shops testified that the Taggarts bought such things as a $10,000, diamond-studded Rolex watch and a $95,000 ring.

David Taggart, 32, would probably spend about nine years of the sentence in prison. James Taggart, 35, would serve about eight.

Duke Med Center Settles Lawsuit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DURHAM — After almost a year of defending a controversial cancer-detection test, Duke University Medical Center has reached an out-of-court settlement with a patient who sued, saying she was treated for a cancer she never had.

Duke officials concede no liability, but Betty Jean Eldreth of Hickory said of Wednesday's settlement: "I feel like it is an admission of guilt on their part. I'm happy it's over. This thing has been a big nightmare."

Duke attorneys asked that terms of the settlement be sealed, so the monetary award remains a secret.

Duke's use of the B72.3 monoclonal antibody as a tool to detect cancer captured national attention this year when Mrs. Eldreth said that it falsely diagnosed cancer and caused her to undergo unnecessary, and possibly harmful, radiation and surgery.

The dispute became a public drama. When ABC camera crews arrived in Durham last March to tape an episode of "20/20," armed guards were posted at the medical center to keep them out.

The case also attracted the attention of a congressional subcommittee investigating possible scientific fraud by Duke researchers who are alleged to have altered test results published in medical journals.

The Eldreth case and the use of the experimental test divided Duke faculty members, many of whom gathered around Mrs. Eldreth and agreed to testify that the test was flawed and was used without the knowledge of patients or their doctors.

The internal dissent at Duke prompted several cross-complaints and civil suits involving Duke physicians. Duke attorneys had tried to add as defendants three other Duke doctors — all of whom were assisting Mrs. Eldreth — but Wednesday's settlement halts that action.

Despite the settlement, Mrs. Eldreth said that she will go before the congressional subcommittee and the N.C. Board of Medical Examiners and ask that Duke pathologists be sanctioned for malpractice and scientific fraud.

Mrs. Eldreth predicted that some Duke doctors who defended her may face harassment by angry Duke administrators who watched faculty members break ranks.

"I feel like it's going to be a crucifixion for some of those doctors," she said.

Dr. Kenneth McCarty Jr., a Duke pathologist, said he, too, will testify about possible scientific fraud and sloppy research by Duke doctors who promoted the cancer-detection test. McCarty supported Mrs. Eldreth's claims and was subsequently sued by a colleague for defamation and inflicting emotional distress.

Bowring points to a section of rock believed to be at least 4 billion years old

Canadian Rocks Said To Be World's Oldest

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A summer of ordinary geologic investigation in a remote area of Canada has reaped an unexpected scientific bonanza: nearly 4 billion-year-old rocks, the oldest known on Earth.

"It was pure scientific luck," said Samuel Bowring, a geologist at Washington University who has been conducting research in Canada's Northwest Territories since 1979. "I actually had predicted these rocks were going to be very young. Maybe 2 billion years old."

He said studying the chemistry of the old rocks will give researchers insight into the early history of Earth and its fellow planets.

The rocks are only about 600 million years younger than the Earth itself, which scientists believe was formed about 4.6 billion years ago.

For a little more perspective, scientists say the first dinosaurs began to roam the Earth about 200 million years ago, and the first human ancestors who used tools didn't show up until about 2 million years ago.

Few rocks of this age are left, since the Earth's surface has been churned and recycled by meteorites, volcanoes, erosion and the slow but constant movement of the continents. The oldest rocks left in Missouri, for example, are roughly 1.48 billion years old, Bowring said. The Canadian rocks already were about 2.5 billion years old when the Ozark Mountains were being formed.

The oldest known rocks before Bowring's discovery were about 3.8 billion years old, found in the Isukasia region of Greenland in the 1970s, he said.

"With this new discovery, we are a giant step further in our search for knowledge of what happened in the Earth's first 800 million years," Bowring said. "The question now is whether rocks from 4.6 to 3.8 billion years were mostly destroyed by meteorite impact or whether they never formed in great volume in the first place."

Hijacking Foiled

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

YPSILANTI, Mich. — A knife-wielding man demanding to be flown to the White House was subdued after scuffling with a pilot in a charter jet's cockpit, authorities said.

The pilot and the suspect, a 41-year-old Detroit man whose name was not released, suffered minor cuts in Wednesday morning's incident.

The man walked into Kalitta Flying Services at the Willow Run Airport near Ypsilanti and said he wanted to charter a flight to Washington, said State Police Lt. Garry Kregelka.

"When they asked him how he would pay for the flight, he said 'credit card' and pulled out a 6-inch butcher knife," Kregelka said.

"He said he wanted us to take him to the nearest airport to the White House," said Pete Sanberlin, Kalitta's operations director.

Kregelka said the company's owner, Conrad Kalitta, walked in and offered to do whatever the man wanted. The man took Kalitta to the runway at knife-point and they got into a Lear jet, Kregelka said.

He said the suspect took the co-pilot's seat while holding his knife at Kalitta's ribs. Kalitta started the jet but delayed the takeoff by talking to the control tower. Meantime, a state trooper pulled his car in front of the plane, Kregelka said.

The suspect and Kalitta then scuffled. The trooper and a charter service worker subdued the suspect, Kregelka said.

The man faces two counts of assault, one of kidnapping and one of larceny.

Researcher Strengthens Contention Humans Descend From One Woman

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

SAN DIEGO — New genetic evidence has strengthened the claim that all humans alive today are descended from a single African woman and suggests that the woman lived 140,000 years ago, not 200,000 as was previously believed, a University of California, Berkeley, researcher said here.

Descendants of that woman, whom scientist have dubbed "Eve," started migrating north out of Africa 75,000 years ago and had fully settled in southern Europe 35,000 years ago, displacing the indigenous Neanderthal population, molecular biologist Allan C. Wilson said Tuesday night. The Neanderthals were dispossessed because they were genetically incompatible with the humans of African origin, Wilson said at an international genetics conference.

The new evidence also indicates that early males may have roamed rather freely throughout Africa nearly 100,000 years ago while females stayed firmly rooted, suggesting that sharp changes in cultural interaction of men and women occurred over a period of about 30,000 years.

Wilson reached his conclusions by studying deoxyribonucleic acid (or DNA, the genetic blueprint of people) found not in the nucleus of cells, where most genes are stored, but in mitochondria, small bodies inside the cell that are the source of the cell's energy. Mitochondria have only 37 genes, compared to the estimated 100,000 found in the cell's nucleus, making them much easier to study.

Unlike genes in the nucleus, which are inherited from both parents, genes in mitochondria are passed down only from mothers. Because of this, researchers can trace maternal lineages unaffected by contributions from males.

Mutations in mitochondrial DNA are believed to occur at a constant rate over long periods of time. By studying the differences between mitochondrial DNA from two women, for example, researchers can determine how long ago they shared a common female ancestor. When many women are used, the technique also reveals where that ancestor lived.

Jury Urges Death For 'Night Stalker'

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — "Night Stalker" Richard Ramirez sneered at a jury's verdict that he die in the gas chamber for his 13 satanic murders, muttering: "Big deal. Death always went with the territory. See you in Disneyland."

The black clad killer, unrepentant to the end, made his comment in an underground garage as he was taken back to jail moments after a jury recommended the death penalty for his gruesome crimes.

His Disneyland comment apparently referred to the plea for mercy that had marked his attorney's closing argument.

"Mr. Ramirez will die in prison," defense attorney Ray Clark had argued, insisting that a life sentence was sufficient punishment.

"Life imprisonment without possibility of parole means he will never see Disneyland again," said the lawyer. "He will never be free again."

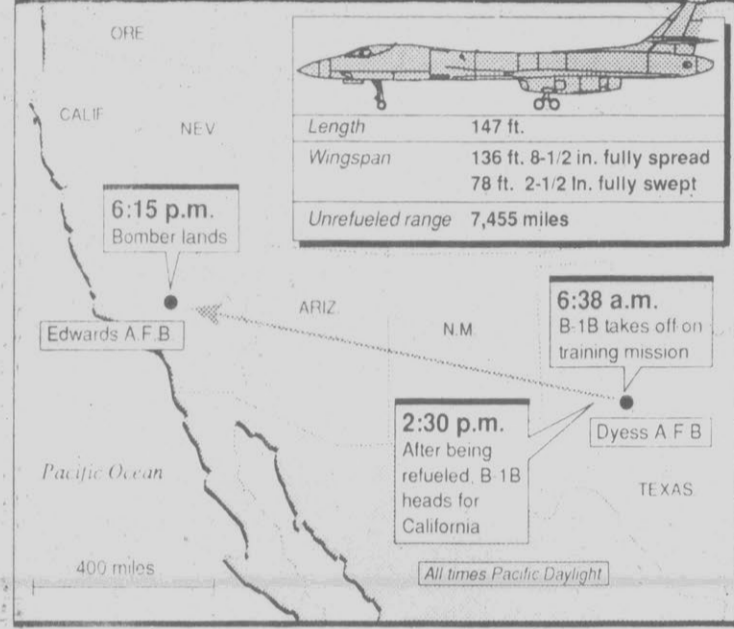

But the jury voted 19 times for death on each of the special circumstances attached to his 13 murder convictions. Ramirez also was convicted of 30 felonies including burglary and sex crimes. Those felonies and the crime of multiple murders constituted special circumstances warranting the death penalty.

The 29-year-old Ramirez, a drifter from El Paso, Texas, was impassive as Superior Court Judge Michael Tynan read the word, "death" 19 times in announcing the jury recommendations.

The slender, shaggy-haired Ramirez, wearing a black shirt and black slacks but minus his usual dark glasses, rocked back and forth in his chair and craned his neck to peer at spectators.

Tynan will formally sentence Ramirez on Nov. 7. He has the option of reducing the sentence to life without parole.

Crippled B-1 Lands Safely In California

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — A B-1B bomber crew guided its crippled aircraft halfway across the country to a white-knuckle landing in the desert, where it billowed a trail of dust as it skidded to a halt on its nose.

The $280 million bomber, which wasn't carrying its nuclear weapons, suffered some damage but did not catch fire Wednesday evening as it skidded for more than 30 seconds along the 12-mile-long dry lake bed.

The four-man crew escaped injury, said Tech. Sgt. Donn Clarius, an Edwards spokesman.

"The SAC crew exhibited tremendous skill and first-class airmanship in bringing to a successful conclusion what was, at best, a difficult situation," said a statement issued from Strategic Air Command headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb.

The flight began nearly 12 hours earlier as a training mission over Texas but quickly turned tense when the nose landing gear jammed.

"After attempting to jar the nose wheel loose with a touch-and-go landing on the main gear at Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene, the crew refueled in the air and flew to 1,200 miles to California.

The Air Force opted to land at Edwards, 60 miles north of Los Angeles, because of the forgiving nature of the dry lake bed's clay surface and the wide open spaces on the desert floor, which is used for space-shuttle landings and is often a haven for troubled aircraft.

Ground crews were assessing damage to the bomber, Clarius said.

Dale Punter, a resident of nearby Lancaster and an aerospace buff, said radio traffic between the pilots and controllers described the landing as "perfect."

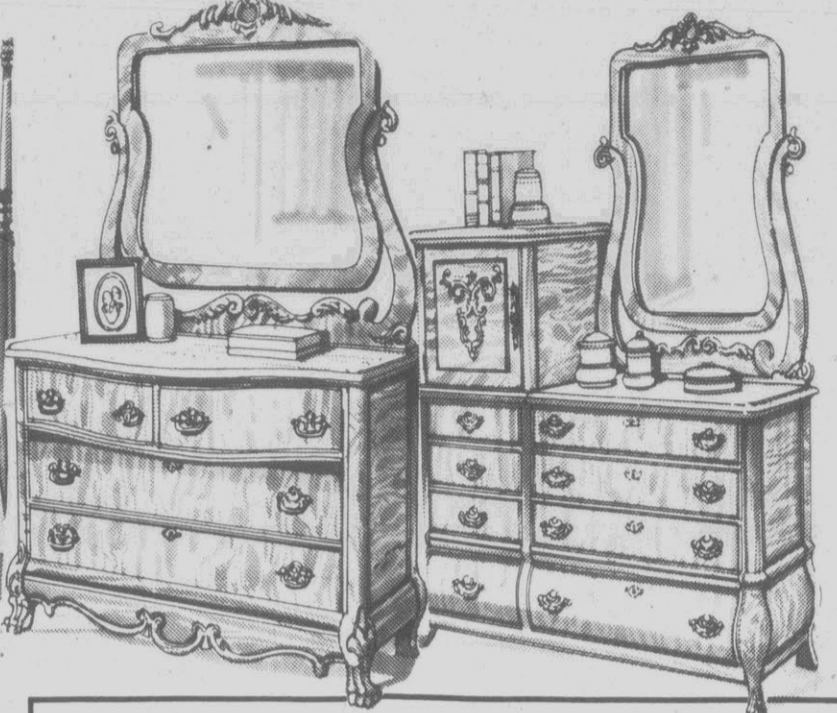

"It was real nice. Structure looking good," Punter quoted the pilot as saying just after the landing.

Lt. Anu Sjaardema, an Edwards spokeswoman, said the bomber wasn't carrying nuclear weapons.

Aboard were Capt. Jeffrey K. Beene, 30, aircraft commander, assigned to 337th Bombardment Squadron; Capt. Vernon B. Benton, 30, co-pilot; Capt. Robert H. Hendricks, 31, offensive systems officer and Lt. Col. Joseph G. Day, 38, an instructor and offensive systems officer.

The plane took off at 6:38 a.m. PDT from Dyess, one of four bases in the country where the B-1 is stationed. The aircraft started circling Dyess at about three hours later as mechanics from Dyess and the plane's manufacturer, Rockwell International, worked with the crew to try get the nose gear down.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press
HOGS: The trend is steady to 25 cents lower at N.C. buying stations. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro, Siler City and Robersonville, 46.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson closed, will reopen Monday; Wilson 46.50. Sows: (500 pounds up) Fayetteville 37.00; Wallace 38.00; Spivey's Corner 38.00; Rowland 38.00.

BROILERS: The North Carolina fob dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 45.50 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pounds birds. Too few percent of the loads offered have been confirmed for a preliminary weighted average. The market is steady and the live supply is fully adequate for a mostly good demand. Average weights desirable to heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Thursday was 2,132,000, compared to 2,072,000 last Thursday.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn steady to 2 cents lower 2.49-2.65 in East and mostly 2.64-2.74 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans steady to 1 cent higher at 5.81-6.01 in East and too few in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 3.69-3.73; new crop soybeans 5.36-5.72; P.I.K. certificates steady to 1 percent lower and ranged from 100 to 103 percent of face value.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices pulled back a bit today as a round of increases in European interest rates blunted the rally that has carried the market to record highs this week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 5.89 to 2,765.20 in the first half hour of trading. Losers outnumbered gainers by about 8 to 7 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 434 up, 500 down and 529 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 24.13 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street. Before the market opened, word flashed across financial news circuits of a 1 percentage point increase in key West German interest rates. Rate increases were quickly posted in England, France and several other European countries.

The dollar declined on the news, reflecting the expectation that higher rates in Europe would attract money away from U.S. investments. However, analysts said those developments did not catch Wall Street totally by surprise. In addition, analysts said stock traders' spirits were energized by an offer from investor Donald Trump to acquire AMR Corp. for $120 a share.

American Gets Bid By Trump

DALLAS — Donald Trump today made an unsolicited offer of more than $7 billion for AMR Corp., the parent of American Airlines, the company said.

The New York developer, who bought Eastern's Northeast shuttle earlier this year for about $365 million, offered $120 a share for AMR, which has 58.9 million outstanding shares.

AMR has been the focus of heated takeover speculation recently and last week asked the Securities and Exchange Commission to investigate financial wire reports about takeover rumors.

AMR stock closed Wednesday at $83 a share on the New York Stock Exchange. The offer was announced before trading opened today.

AMR's board will consider Trump's offer "in due course," American spokesman Al Becker said from AMR headquarters in Fort Worth.

He said there has been no change in AMR's policy "that AMR and its shareholders will be best served by AMR remaining an independent company."

AMR also said it continues to believe that excess levels of debt in the airline industry are not in the public interest.

Requests Denied
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Department of Transportation, which last week denied a Ku Klux Klan group's request to join the Adopt-A-Highway anti-litter program, also has turned down a rock band called The Sex Police, a lingerie store called the Bra Patch and a Cub Scout troop.

The department rejected the Cub Scout troop, from western North Carolina, because the applicants were too young.

Catastrophic Health Bill Goes To Senate

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — It's the Senate's turn to decide whether to resist or yield to the wrath of millions of retirees angry at being forced to pay for expanded Medicare benefits for catastrophic health care.

If the tally itself was any indication, the House barely thought twice Wednesday before voting to repeal the year-old catastrophic health insurance program.

"The American people have spoken. The House of Representatives has listened," Sen. William Roth, R-Del., observed from across the Capitol.

The House members hardly need ed to debate. A deluge of cards and letters had sealed the program's fate before the battle was joined on the floor.

The 360-66 knockout punch was a remarkable reversal for legislation that was hailed upon passage just over a year ago as landmark legislation — the most significant expansion of Medicare in the Great Society program's two decades of life.

However, a feature that may have contributed to the uproar over the program was the fact that it called for collection of money from senior citizens to pay for the expanded benefits before they took effect.

The Senate is poised to grapple with the issue as part of a giant budget-cutting reconciliation measure. Likewise, the House vote was on an amendment to its version of the budget bill.

Final resolution of the catastrophic health plan — along with other budget issues such as child care and capital gains taxes — will hinge on a House-Senate conference committee and then a final vote in both houses.

Lawmakers talked Wednesday of ratios such as 2,000-to-1 and 3,000-to-1 among their constituents in favor of repealing the catastrophic care plan.

Much of the protest was from well-to-do seniors facing an income tax surtax of up to $800 to help cover the cost of providing the new benefits to poorer elderly people — some 20 million of whom were asked to pay only $48 this year.

Congress has heard hardly at all from the poorer senior citizens, but House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski warned his colleagues during the floor debate that the situation was destined to change.

"Five million senior citizens may be complaining about the supplemental premium and you may quench their thirst for repeal today," he said. "But in the process, make no mistake about it: You will be hurting many more millions of senior citizens whose voices have not been heard."

Texas officer stands near 9-ton cache of cocaine

Agents Seize 9 Tons Of Cocaine In Border House

HARLINGEN, Texas — The war on drugs got a shot in the arm as three raids in five days resulted in the seizure of nearly 35 tons of cocaine, the latest an 18,000-pound haul at a house near the Mexican border.

Narcotics agents this morning were searching for the owner of a house that was "literally stuffed" with 9 tons of cocaine, the second largest seizure of cocaine in U.S. history, authorities said. On Wednesday, three men were arrested at the house, five miles north of the border.

Earlier in the day, the Coast Guard made what it called the largest cocaine confiscation at sea and the third largest in U.S. history when it boarded a Panamanian supply vessel and uncovered 11,500 pounds of cocaine worth an estimated $525 million.

The two hauls came just five days after agents entered a suburban Los Angeles warehouse and found 20 tons of cocaine — the world's largest seizure — worth between $2 billion and $20 billion, depending on the method of processing.

"We had a real lull after things in Colombia went crazy," Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Jim Simpson said in Washington, referring to the Colombian government's crackdown on drug traffickers that began Aug. 18.

"After a long lull, things are moving again." Lt. Waylon Bullard, chief narcotics agent with the Texas Department of Public Safety's Harlingen office, said the operation uncovered in the house didn't appear to be connected with the Los Angeles cocaine operation.

The 9 tons seized — worth an estimated $1 billion — probably won't affect the national supply of cocaine much, Bullard said, but he added, "We sure hurt somebody's pocketbook."

Meanwhile, authorities raided five El Paso homes Wednesday in connection with the Los Angeles seizure and found records of cocaine shipments, canceled checks, photos and account records, said agent Bob Sternaman of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

At least two of the homes belonged to Hector Tapia Anchondo, 38, who was arrested in Las Vegas last weekend. Six others have been arrested in connection with the Los Angeles seizure.

Federal investigators have identified a warehouse in El Paso and three homes across the border in Ciudad Juarez as part of the distribution network that brought the cocaine to Los Angeles.

In New Orleans, the 185-foot Zedon Sea was due to arrive under Coast Guard escort today and the nine people arrested were to be turned over to the DEA, said Rear Adm. William F. Merlin, commander of the Coast Guard's 8th District.

"It's by far the biggest single seizure on the high seas," Merlin said. Simpson said the Guard's seizures in the four days since the current fiscal year began Sunday, including a 1,000-pound haul near Puerto Rico on Monday, already exceed the total of 12,000 pounds seized in all of the previous year.

Health Care Advocates Call For New Insurance

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Even as Congress moves to scrap or scale back Medicare coverage for catastrophic illnesses, health care advocates today called for a new social program to provide long-term care insurance for all Americans.

"Long-term care is an unmet need for which Americans of all ages strongly feel a government program is the appropriate solution," Ronald Pollack, executive director of Families USA, an advocacy group for the elderly, told a blue-ribbon commission.

Opposition to the catastrophic program stemmed partly from its failure to address the staggering costs of long-term care and from its requirement that older Americans foot the entire bill for the benefits it did provide, advocates said.

Richard Gehring, chairman of the board of directors for the Alzheimer's Association, said that despite the furor over the catastrophic package, a nationwide long-term care program would be welcomed if the costs were spread across society and the benefits were available to all.

"Americans understand that long-term care needs could strike their family," Gehring said. "In poll after poll and by overwhelming margins Americans say they would be willing to pay for long-term care protection."

The testimony came at a hearing of the U.S. Bipartisan Commission on Comprehensive Health Care, also known as the Pepper Commission in honor of its creator, the late Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla.

Pepper fought unsuccessfully to have long-term care coverage included in the catastrophic care legislation that passed Congress last year. Legislators did agree, however, to establish the Pepper Commission and instructed it to develop a health coverage and long-term care plan for the nation.

Some advocates for the elderly have expressed concern that Congress will be wary of tackling the long-term care problem after getting swamped with complaints about the catastrophic care plan. The House voted 360-66 on Wednesday to scrap the catastrophic program, and there also is strong sentiment for repeal in the Senate.

But advocates of a national long-term care program said the desire for such coverage — and the willingness to pay for it — spans the generations.

Martha McSteen, president of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, told the commission that the heavy financial and emotional burden of long-term care "should be eased by support from the general population based on the concept of social responsibility that this country has embraced."

Lou Glasse, president of the Older Women's League, said a national long-term care program would help people who can't get adequate home care stay out of nursing homes, where costs average more than $25,000 a year. In addition, it would ease the burden on "unpaid and unappreciated" midlife and older women who have been the traditional caregivers of those requiring daily care at home, she said.

This "exploitive situation" is impossible to sustain because of the increased numbers of people who are living longer and with disabilities and because of the return of women to the work force, she said.

Paul Willing, executive vice president of the American Health Care Association, which represents nearly 10,000 nursing homes, told the panel long-term care is the most likely catastrophic health expense facing elderly individuals and families. These expenses will mushroom as the portion of the population over age 65 doubles within 50 years, he added.

Willing called for a public-private long-term care program akin to the mix of retirement benefits provided Social Security and private pensions, and for increased Social Security taxes to finance the new government expenses.

The commission, made up of six senators, six representatives and three White House appointees, is scheduled to report on its proposals by March 1.

N.J. Takes Over Jersey City Schools

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAMESBURG, N.J. — A new superintendent fired top administrators of Jersey City's public schools and promised "to unravel the quagmire" after the nation's biggest state takeover of an urban school district.

Ellen J. Scambio on Wednesday became steward of the school system just west of New York City after the state Board of Education gave final approval to the takeover, ending a five-year legal battle.

Gov. Thomas H. Kean applauded the move, saying Jersey City students were victims of "educational child abuse."

"Now the community can put politics and patronage aside, and get on with the business of learning," Kean said.

The state cited political intrusion in hiring practices, poor test scores, failure to provide a safe and clean environment for students, violations of bidding laws, failure to provide for disabled children and unauthorized use of state funds as reasons for the takeover.

"The district's problems were deep-rooted and endemic," board Vice President Robert A. Woodruff said, reading a resolution. "The Jersey City board of education totally failed to meet its obligations."

Moments after being confirmed to a three-year term, Ms. Scambio fired seven top administrators, including school Superintendent Franklin Williams, and repeated her vow to "unravel the quagmire that exists in Jersey City."

The state board's action also disbanded the Jersey City Board of Education. State Education Commissioner Saul Cooperman is expected to appoint a new board by December.

Under New Jersey's takeover law, the state has five years to make improvements. National education groups say they will monitor the progress of the takeover closely.

The move gives New Jersey extraordinary powers over the district, the state's second largest with 28,000 students. Ms. Scambio will be able to fire administrators — a power she was quick to exercise — and set policy.

Ms. Scambio said she would consider eliminating between 100 and 150 staff positions, upgrading buildings and improving community relations to make the district a national model of urban education.

The district has a staff of 3,322 and a budget of about $180 million. Enrollment is 44 percent black, 34 percent Hispanic and 13 percent white. "The idea of takeover does not come easily to me," Cooperman said. "I've always believed the role of the state department is to help others help themselves."

Success Means You Can Always Be Yourself

I got a request in the mail the other day that asked me to define success. I didn't even have to think about it.

"Success has got to be going on the 'Tonight Show' in a pair of jeans that you've worn before and leaving early." It sounds simple, but it isn't just an act of defiance flying in the face of conformity. It's a plateau that you've reached which says, "I don't care what anyone thinks. I'm going to be me!"

There's a middle-class propriety in me that is inbred, passed from

At Wits End

generation to generation. You don't show up at the breakfast table until you've combed your hair. You don't cross your legs at the head table when there is no tablecloth to hide your knees. You never wear the same blouse to work twice in one week.

I've appeared on scores of television talk shows, and I will never forget being on the Mike Douglas show back in the '60s. I was watching Mike singing a duet with Connie Stevens, and her feet were entwined around a stool. I couldn't believe what I saw. The soles of her shoes were worn! I didn't know anyone wore old on TV. From the underwear out, everything on my body had been purchased the week before.

In the ensuing years I have seen rock stars slouched in chairs picking their nails like they're killing time. I have viewed authors in stone-washed jeans that cry for a day of cleaning out the garage. I've watched guests waving and taking their leave on the Carson show because they have someplace else to go. (What's jumping at 5 in the afternoon when the show is taped?) If I left at that hour, people would think I was going to bed.

There are probably only a handful of people who have attained this status. Cher has to be a success. Who else walks around with her tattoos exposed? Cybill Shepherd is one. Who else has the courage to wear Reeboks with a formal dress to an awards gala? There's no doubt Bob Hope has arrived. A show starts when he gets there and ends when he leaves.

I've heard stars and starlets talk about success. They describe it as "having the freedom of creative independence." The more materialistic ones equate it with limos, a perpetual page at the Polo Lounge, an agent who answers their phone calls and a center table at Spago's.

But who are we kidding here? I saw a guy in church last Sunday wearing cutoff jeans and sandals. He left early. He's on his way.

Insects Can't Carry AIDS Virus

Dear Abby: I just finished reading your article stating that the AIDS virus cannot be transmitted by mosquitoes. Needless to say, I was relieved, as I live in Minnesota, where the mosquito is sometimes jokingly referred to as our state bird. However, you did not cite the source of your information. I would also like to know how your experts arrived at their conclusions. — Relieved In Minnesota

Dear Relieved: My source is Dr. Merv Silverman, president and spokesperson for the American Foundation for AIDS Research. His conclusion was based on current data compiled by the World Health Organization and the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Studies of more than 100,000 infected individuals clearly show that insects are not a problem.

In Africa, those infected with the AIDS virus are in two age groups: (1) from birth to 5 years old, and (2) from 15 to 65 years old. Obviously, mosquitoes do not abstain from biting people who are between 5 and

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

15 years old. The first group is infected before birth, and the second through sexual activities, intravenous drug use or blood transfusions.

"In short," says Dr. Silverman, "not one of the over 250,000 cases of AIDS worldwide has been attributed to the bite of insects. If they were a factor in the spread of this disease, tens of millions worldwide and many millions in the United States alone would have AIDS today."

Dear Abby: I recently went to a local medical clinic for a routine physical checkup. I was given an examining physician I had never seen before.

I have carried a scar on the inside of my left wrist for 30 years and no doctor has ever questioned me about it. Then all of a sudden this doctor asked, "What's this?"

When I told him I had had a gan-glion tumor removed many years ago, he said, "Oh, I thought perhaps you might have tried to take your life some years ago."

I was very indignant and said, "I beg your pardon, Doctor, but I am 56 years old, have been examined by many doctors, and never has any doctor suggested such a thing!"

He replied, "Well, we doctors have to be suspicious of every clue we come across."

I then said, "Excuse me, Doctor. This is not a 'clue' to anything, and I resent the insinuation."

He then proceeded to examine my other arm and noticed a faint mark on my wrist from my watchband. "Look," he said, "Here's another one — are you sure you never attempted suicide?"

Abby, a doctor should be able to tell the difference between a mark caused by a tight watchband and a botched suicide attempt. In any case, I considered his attitude to be unprofessional and cavalier, and I am going to report him to the head of the clinic.

I told a friend about this, and she said perhaps the doctor was trying to be humorous. What are your thoughts? — NO NAME OR CITY, PLEASE

Dear No Name: Humor is inappropriate during a physical examination. But before you report this doctor, be aware that competent physicians routinely record all scars, their locations and causes, so don't fault yours for questioning you. P.S. I think your doctor could use a tact transfusion.

If you would like to write to Abby, send your letter to Abigail Van Buren, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. For a personal, non-published reply, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Bill Lewis

Lewis Concentrating On Present

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

When it comes to the South Carolina-East Carolina series, Coach Bill Lewis isn't looking at the past, but at the future.

The future becomes now on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Williams-Brice Stadium as the Gamecocks host the Pirates in the seventh meeting between the two teams.

Lewis, at his weekly press conference, was asked if the outcome of the six previous games would be a focal point in his preparation of the game. "No," he replied. "We mentioned it, but that's all. To dwell on history is not helpful."

However, the Pirates will remember last year's visit to Columbia where they dominated every statistic except the one that counted — the score. South Carolina took that one 17-0.

The Gamecocks led only 3-0 at the half. Then, in the third period, it appeared East Carolina was going to score to take the lead but Reggie McKinney fumbled and South Carolina recovered on its 3-yard line.

On the very next play, quarterback Todd Ellis found freshman receiver Robert Brooks beyond the coverage for a 97-yard touchdown pass, the longest play from scrimmage in Gamecock history.

South Carolina later added another touchdown on a 6-yard pass in the final seconds of the game.

"I think that game is a plus for both teams," Lewis said. "At our team meeting, we asked all those who were there to stand up, and just about everyone did. I know Sparky Woods (South Carolina coach) showed the film of the game as a motivational tool for his team, to remind them to respect East Carolina. For us, we've been there and we know how close it was."

This time, the man who led the Pirates then will be on the opposite side of the field. Art Baker, who Lewis replaced last December, is now an assistant athletic director at South Carolina.

It's also Homecoming for the Gamecocks, who expect a full house of 72,400.

South Carolina comes into the game with a 3-1-1 record, having lost to powerhouse West Virginia, but upset the previously unbeaten Georgia Bulldogs, 24-20, this past weekend.

The tie came against Virginia Tech, 17-17, in the second game of the season. The other two victories were against Clemson-killer Duke, 27-21, and Georgia Tech, 21-10.

Clark Sinks Cubs Giants Power Their Way To Win

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — Will Clark wouldn't rate his shower of destruction as his best game, although it stands out as "the most timely game I've ever had."

Clark put on a record-shattering performance Wednesday night, driving in six runs with two home runs, including a grand slam, a double and a single, in the San Francisco Giants' 11-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the opening game of the National League playoffs.

The Cubs finally figured a way to halt Clark by walking him in the eighth inning, only to have Kevin Mitchell, the other half of San Francisco's power tandem, follow with a three-run homer to complete the rout.

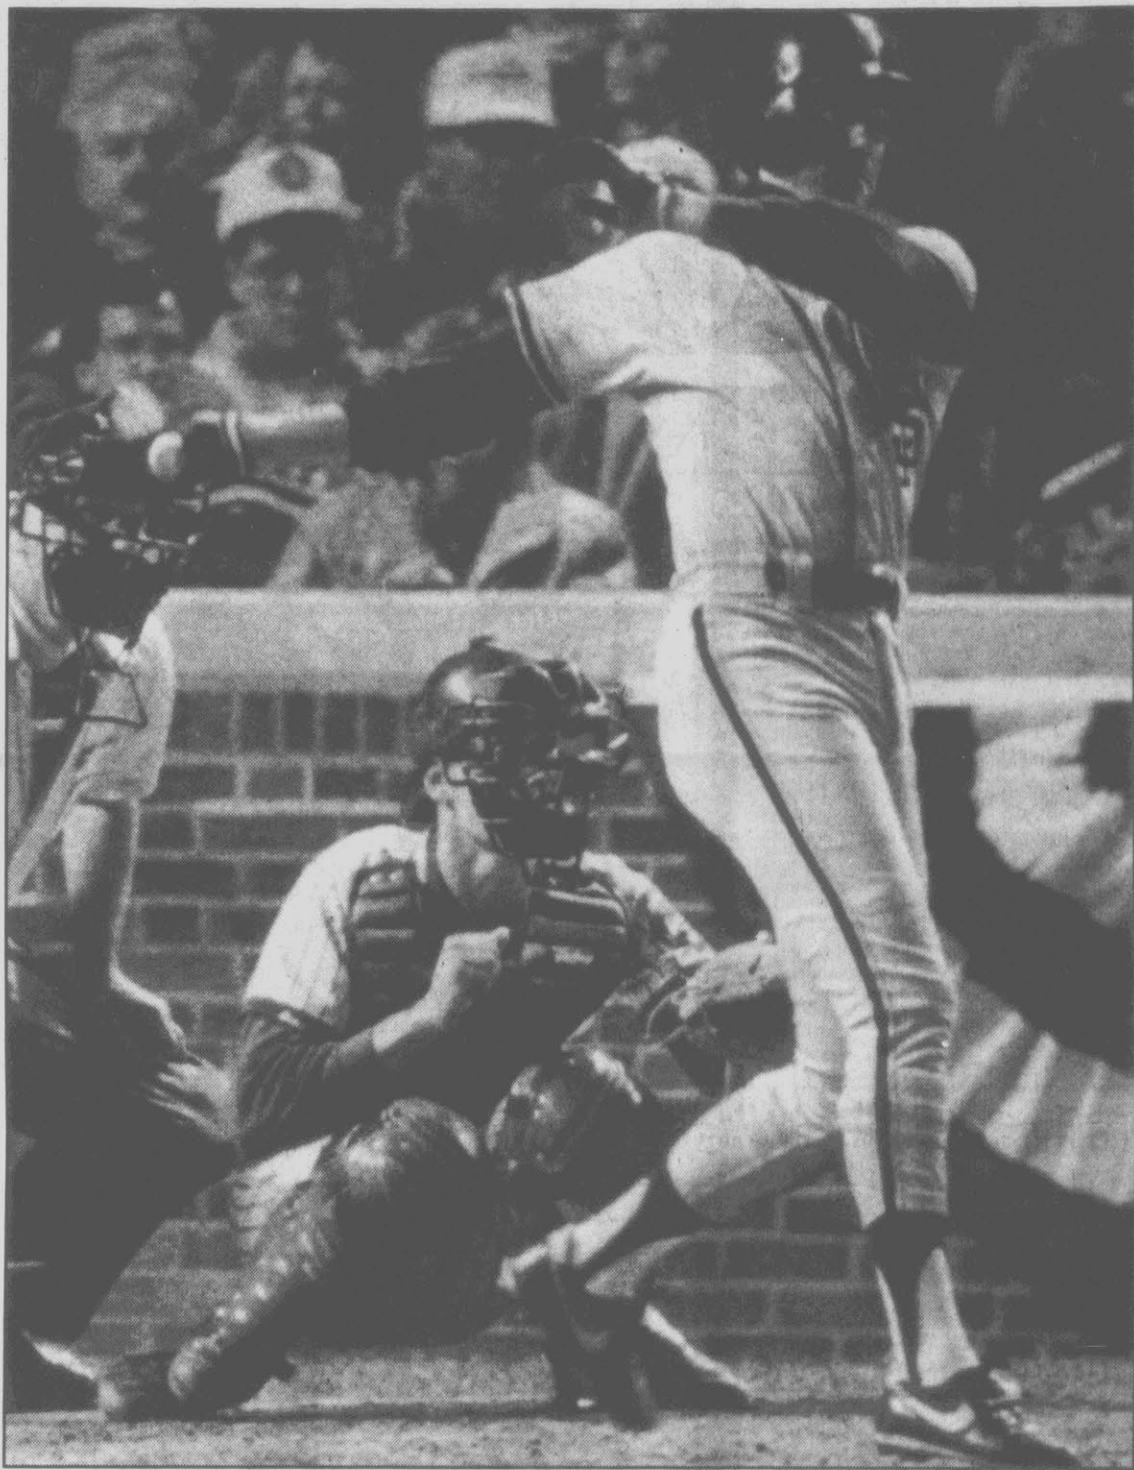

"We didn't play badly but they played real good and if they play like that again, this could be a short series," Chicago's Mark Grace said.

Grace and Ryne Sandberg each homered in the early innings to cut San Francisco's lead to 4-3. Clark delivered his first-pitch grand slam in the fourth inning, a shot that arched over the right-field bleachers and landed on Sheffield Ave.

"I got locked in tonight," Clark said, "but that doesn't mean I have this park or this pitching staff in my pocket. Anything can happen in a seven-game set."

Clark said he doesn't second-guess managers, but did wonder why Chicago's Don Zimmer didn't lift right-hander Greg Maddux with the

It's Payoff Time Moore, Henderson Come Through

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OAKLAND, Calif. — The acquisitions of Mike Moore and Rickey Henderson put a $3 million dent in Sandy Alderson's fast-expanding annual payroll.

It seems smaller all the time. Moore pitched a near-masterpiece Wednesday and Henderson turned the Oakland Coliseum basepaths into his own personal 360-foot track.

But the chief architect as the Athletics took a 2-0 lead over Toronto in the American League playoffs is the former Dartmouth ballplayer wearing rimless glasses who sits in the general manager's office.

In less than 24 hours, Alderson saw his investment hunches in the two veterans pay off in seven innings without an earned run, six stolen bases, three runs scored and one leg up on a return trip to the World Series.

"I felt that those two players were capable of this sort of contribution," the A's executive said, unable to contain a smile.

Oakland planned an afternoon workout today in Toronto's SkyDome. The Blue Jays, faced with the daunting task of having to win four of five games from the defending league champions, decided to

Welsh, Cavs Want To End The Streak

By Tom Foreman Jr.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia coach George Welsh nearly escaped the weekly Atlantic Coast Conference telephone conference call without talking about "the streak."

"I thought I was going to get off here and nobody was going to ask that," Welsh said of the last question before his 10 minutes was up. "That would have been great."

Since he didn't quite get away, Welsh addressed the issue of 28 straight losses to 15th-ranked Clemson (4-1) and the prospect of snapping the streak this Saturday at Death Valley.

The Cavaliers (4-1) will be trying without tailback Terry Kirby and several others because of injury. The winner will have the inside shot at catching 14th-ranked North Carolina State, which has run off with a 4-0 conference start and is unbeaten after five games.

"Most of these players haven't lost but once or twice (to Clemson)," Welsh said. "I'm not going to judge anything of this team this year or future years on the Clemson game. I think we've had two opportunities to beat them ... in my career here. I don't have any big deal about the streak."

Clemson coach Danny Ford didn't dodge the issue in his weekly news conference.

"I know what the record is and all that. I ain't gonna mention that. I told our players I wouldn't do that to 'em — try not to pressure 'em and try not to push 'em."

The Tigers have are tied with Duke for third in the league with a 1-1 mark after last weekend's 21-17 Blue Devil victory. After first-place N.C. State, Virginia is second at 2-0 in the ACC.

"A week ago, we were sitting on top of the world," Ford said. "Now, we're fighting for survival in the conference. Seven days can make a lot of difference."

In other ACC games, Maryland is at Georgia Tech and Wake Forest faces North Carolina in a confrontation of winless teams. Outside the conference, N.C. State finishes its temporary trek away from league play with Middle Tennessee State and Army is at Duke.

The Yellow Jackets are trying to snap their own streak — 14 straight losses in the ACC going back to the late portion of the 1987 season. The two losses this year were to N.C. State and Virginia, but have given Coach Bobby Ross reason for hope.

"It really wouldn't matter who we were playing," Ross said when asked about facing his former college. "We've just been trying to focus not so much on the rivalry, but on trying to win the football game.

"As far as Maryland being another football team, it is to me," he said. "I've gone through the thing with the rivalry of me versus Maryland or Maryland versus me. After all, it's just a game between two college football teams."

Maryland's Joe Krivak was a member of Ross' staff at College Park. He takes the same approach as Ross, although he thinks Georgia Tech enjoys one benefit.

"If there's an edge, it's that they have the home-field advantage," he said.

Wake Forest (0-3-1, 0-1) avoided (See TIGERS, B-4)

Rose, Hunt Set For Unlikely Matchup

Rampants, Warriors Head Into Big Game With No Big East Losses

By Mike Grizzard
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

When Big East Conference coaches gathered in the preseason and selected a favorite to rule the league, Rose and Wilson Hunt failed to command early respect.

But when the two perennial contenders collide Friday at 8 p.m. at Percy Daniels Field, a share of first place will be at stake.

The Rampants, winners of the last two Big East regular-season titles, come in 5-1 overall and 2-0 in the league while Hunt stands 5-0 and 1-0, respectively.

Rose's lone loss came to 3-A power Bertie. The two league wins were at the expense of Kinston and Northern Nash.

"We are certainly disappointed in losing a game but we were capable of losing one or two more," Rose coach Chip Williams said. "I'm proud of the way our young men have performed."

"Other people didn't have much expectations of us. I knew it was going to be a tough year and I

Batting School Set At Greene Central

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School will host a Baseball Hitting Instructional School on Oct. 21-22 in Snow Hill. Jim Fulghum, the head baseball coach at Greene Central, will be joined by Howard McCullough, a scout with the Boston Red Sox; Chip Smith, head coach at Pfeiffer College and a scout with the New York Yankees; Todd Wilkinson, head coach at Atlantic Christian College; Jabo Fulghum, assistant coach at Athens Drive High School, and Wayne Britton, scout with the Boston Red Sox, as instructors. Instruction will involve line hitting as well as utilizing various hitting drills. Video equipment will also be on hand to allow each hitter to better visualize his hitting mechanics. Instruction will be on an individual basis as well as in group sessions. Saturday's session will run from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. with a one-hour break from noon until 1 p.m. for lunch (not included). Sunday's session will run from 1 to 4 p.m. The camp is open to players in grades 9-12 and is limited to the first 100 paid. Cost of the camp is $45. Participants should bring their own batting gloves, bat and helmet. For further information, contact Fulghum at 747-2161 in Snow Hill or McCullough at 830-0605 in Greenville.

Rose, Washington Claim Tennis Wins

Rose and Washington both claimed tennis victories Wednesday as the Rampants overpowered Kinston and the Pam Pack downed Williamston.

KINSTON — Rose swept the three doubles matches and won all but two of the singles matches while breezing past Kinston, 7-2, in a Big East tennis matchup Wednesday. Rose improves to 8-0 in the conference and 9-1 overall. The Rampettes return to action at Northern Nash today.

Cox Spikers Move To 4-0 With Win

WINTERVILLE — A.G. Cox raised its record to 4-0 with a pair of wins over visiting Chicod in junior high volleyball action Wednesday afternoon.

The A.G. Cox A-Team posted a 15-5, 15-6 win behind eight service points from Tenesa Graham and five from Kim Anderson.

The B-Team prevailed 15-7, 15-8 as Renee Daughtry collected seven service points. Shannon Jackson added five. A.G. Cox is in action against next Wednesday against Ayden.

Secretariat Done In By Hoof Disease

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Secretariat, whose 31-length victory in the Belmont Stakes in 1973 gave America its first Triple Crown winner in 25 years, was humanely destroyed.

Secretariat, who was 19, had an incurable condition known as Laminitis, which is an inflammation of the inside of the hoof. He was put down at Claiborne Farms, where he stood at stud, said Gus Koch, the farm's assistant manager. The chestnut stallion was to be buried at the farm, close to stablemate Riva Ridge, who won the 1972 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes.

Secretariat won 16 of 21 races in two years, including the 1973 Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont, the races which make up the Triple Crown.

Tyson Given Community Service Sentence

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Mike Tyson will be allowed to perform a community-service sentence for speeding after the original 60-day deadline date.

Judge Stephen Safranko agreed to let Tyson perform three youth clinics on Monday, two days after the deadline set Aug. 7 by the judge. Tyson was sentenced to perform the clinics and to pay a $300 fine that day after pleading guilty to two separate speeding incidents in Albany.

Under the revised agreement between Safranko and Tyson attorney John Hicks, Tyson will be featured in a 9:30 a.m. boxing clinic at St. Joseph's Youth Center in Albany. The other two appearances, scheduled at 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m., would feature drug-related talks by Tyson at the Arbor Hill Community Center.

Mack Won't Appeal His Jail Sentence

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Fullback Kevin Mack will not appeal his six-month prison sentence on a drug conviction because he wants to put the incident behind him quickly and start over.

Mack pleaded guilty to drug abuse in exchange for the dropping of the other charges, and the Browns expected he would get probation. Instead, Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Richard J. McMonagle sentenced him to six months in state prison in Mansfield.

Assistant prosecutor Frank Gasper said there was a good chance McMonagle would grant probation to Mack after he has served 30 days. Mack was taken into custody immediately after being sentenced.

Tomczak, Brister Get NFC, AFC Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Tomczak of Chicago and Bobby Brister of Pittsburgh were named the NFC and AFC offensive players of the week.

Tim Harris of Green Bay and David Fulcher of Cincinnati were named the defensive players of the week.

Tomczak completed 24 of 38 passes for 266 yards and three touchdowns as Chicago beat Philadelphia 27-13. Brister completed a team-record 15 straight passes in the Steelers' 23-3 win over Detroit. He was 21 of 27 for 267 yards and a 48-yard TD pass to Louis Lipps.

Local Special Olympics Soccer Team Chosen To Represent N.C.

The Daily Reflector/Shannon Wolfe
Coach Greg Epperson talks with Terry Everett

By Mike Grizzard
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Special Olympics opens up many athletic avenues for those who might not otherwise have an opportunity to participate. But a gifted group of local youngsters that got involved in soccer less than four years ago has made strides beyond its wildest dreams.

The Greenville/Pitt County select team, which has captured the gold medal the last two years at the North Carolina State Special Olympics, has been chosen to represent the state this weekend in the southeast regional tournament in Memphis, Tenn.

The Greenville/Pitt County contingent, coached by Greg Epperson and Tom O'Hare, will be one of 14 teams representing eight states but is the only team from North Carolina selected.

"It's a real big honor," Epperson said before Wednesday's practice session at the Elm Street Recreation Park. "Every year there's one team from North Carolina that's picked to go. We feel really privileged that this year it's our chance to go in and shine.

"It's their first step to the '91 International Games which a bunch of them want to try to get into."

The International Special Olympics, involving some 5,000 athletes from 78 countries, will be held in Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minn. in 1991.

The Greenville/Pitt County team is comprised of nine youngsters ranging in ages from 12 to 17 that attend either Wellcome Middle School or North Pitt High School.

Epperson said 26 players attended a tryout for the team but the roster had to be trimmed to nine.

"I wish we could have taken 12," Epperson said. "There's a lot more people that deserve to be on it that we just didn't have room for."

The team was scheduled to depart Greenville this afternoon at 3:30 and will fly from Raleigh/Durham International tonight at 7:45.

Non-Revenue Report

"Our goal is to go out and play the best soccer that we know how and to see how we come away from it," Epperson said. "We're not going up to strictly win, win, win."

"We're going up to have a good time, experience a lot of different things and play the best soccer that we know how to play."

The lineup for the Greenville/Pitt County squad lists Moses Ward, Tony Harris, Lamont Harris, James Anthony and Terry Evertt on the front line; Julius Murphy, Darrick Howard and William Moore at mid-field; and Shawn Nelson and Malachi Grimes on defense. Howard and Moore will share duties in the goal.

Scottie Washington rounds out the nine-man roster.

"They have played together for about two or three years now," Epperson said. "They are a great bunch of guys and they are working hard. The skill level is really high.

The Daily Reflector/Shannon Wolfe

Heading To Memphis

They work well together as a team. The way they've grown together and their improvement together is just astonishing.

"I think the biggest strength we have is our spreading out and passing. There's really not that much individualism out here. It's all a team effort. There's not just one person that shines but the team that shines."

Participation — and success — in soccer has also persuaded these youngsters to get involved in other sports. The Greenville/Pitt County Special Olympics program has about 250 participants in soccer and 550 participants in the overall program.

"We have a bunch of athletes that are participating in other sports now," Epperson said. "They are excellent in everything and I think a lot of it has to do with this."

Connie Sappenfield, the area coordinator for Greenville/Pitt County Special Olympics, said the programs provided by Special Olympics is an outlet for those who have learning disabilities and are cast aside for that reason.

She stresses mental deficiencies do not translate into physical deficiencies.

"Because they are in special classes most coaches don't even think about them," said Sappenfield, who has been involved with Special Olympics since 1973, including two years working with International Special Olympics. "What we try to do at Special Olympics is to show they can play."

"It gives them an opportunity to be involved in sports. These kids are never going to shine academically so it gives them something they can shine in."

Lewis Looking To Present Gamecocks ...

The Gamecocks are coming off a year of adversity and tragedy. First, there was a steroid scandal on campus, highlighted by an article in Sports Illustrated. Rumors followed rumors that Coach Joe Morrison, ever-controversial, would be fired at the end of the 1988 season. He came through apparently unscathed, but then, in February, Morrison collapsed and died of a heart attack following a racquetball game.

"The Gamecocks went after N.C. State's Dick Sheridan, only to be turned down by him. (Sheridan had earlier rebuffed Georgia after Vince Dooley retired.) Sheridan was thought to be the obvious choice since he was a USC alumnus.

From there, the Gamecocks turned to Division I-AA Appalachian State, plucking Woods to guide the program.

While this will be Woods' first meeting with the Pirates, he has respect for them.

"This will be a tough East Carolina team coming into Columbia Saturday," he said. "They are playing good football and have gotten off to an excellent start for their season.

"Their quarterback, Travis Hunter, is a threat at both passing and running and is a very talented player. (Willie) Lewis, their tailback, has been impressive. Defensively, they've played well and are an aggressive group. Their defensive end, Anthony Thompson, and their inside linebacker, Robert Jones, have played well for them.

"We will be playing a good, senior-dominated football team this Saturday," Woods concluded.

The Gamecocks have a few good men of their own, led by All-America candidate Todd Ellis.

Ellis has completed 77 of 134 passes thus far, a fine 57.5 percent, for 895 yards. He's thrown for seven touchdowns and had only four passes intercepted.

Brooks, with 18 receptions, has been his favorite target, for 246 yards and three touchdowns. Flanker Carl Platt has grabbed 11 passes for 189 yards and one score, while split end George Rush, Brooks' back-up, has 10 catches for 84 yards and two scores. Flanker Eddie Miller, the starter, has nine catches for 149 yards and one touchdown.

"I knew Todd Ellis when he was a high school player," Lewis said. "I tried to recruit him to come to Georgia.

"He is one of the finest human beings playing college football today. There is no bigger fan of Todd Ellis in America than Bill Lewis," the ex-Georgia assistant said. "He had three career games against us at Georgia."

Ellis, the 11th-leading career passer in NCAA history, yardage-wise, also has had career days against the Pirates. In the three previous games, he's completed 52 of 79 passes for 978 yards, with seven touchdowns and just two interceptions.

The Gamecocks are not a one-dimensional team on offense. They feature a top runner in tailback Harold Green. Green, who missed part of the Georgia game with an injury, is still questionable for the Pirate game. Thus far, he's rushed for 522 yards with a 5.2 yard per carry average and scored three touchdowns.

But if he isn't able to play, his backup, Mike Dingle, is no slouch either. He's rushed 60 times for 242 yards and three touchdowns and Lewis says he's almost a carbon copy of Green.

Place-kicker Collin Mackey ranks as one of the best in the country. He's perfect on extra points this year, 12 of 12, and is six of 10 in field goals. He has 225 career points, is a perfect on 75 of 75 PATs and has a 75 percent field goal accuracy.

"He kicked 15 consecutive field goals for a school record, and also has the school record for the longest field goal," Lewis said.

Defensively, the Gamecocks have been all over the field. They've intercepted eight passes thus far, with eight different players doing the job.

Overall, they've taken the ball away 13 times, and have recorded seven quarterback sacks. They've turned the ball over only six times, four times on interceptions.

Defensive end Patrick Hinton (6-2, 222) is the leading tackler for the Gamecocks, having been in on 52 grabs. Linebacker Robert Gibson (6-3, 218) has 41 tackles to his credit while tackle Marty Dye (6-3, 260) has 38. Linebacker Joe Reaves (6-2, 220) has 37, linebacker David Taylor

(6-2, 212) has 35, free safety Stephane Williams (5-11, 185) has 32, end Corey Miller (6-2, 245) has 31 and noseguard Tim High (6-2, 255) has 30.

And when the Gamecocks have to give the ball up, they have the man to keep the opponents in poor field position. Punter Daren Parker, with a 48.2 average, is the top kicker in the country.

Woods announced Wednesday that he has dismissed cornerback Dale Campbell from the team for violation of team rules. Campbell was listed as a starter at the left corner for Saturday's game. Coming off an injury, he had played in three games and started two this year. He had recorded 15 tackles and one interception.

Erik Anderson, a 5-11, 170-pound red-shirt freshman, is expected to replace him.

Pitchers ...

routed San Diego 13-0 at Wrigley Field.

Neither Maddux nor Garrelts was sharp from the start. Maddux had not pitched since clinching the East championship eight days ago and Garrelts had not worked for seven days.

"I just couldn't get my fastball where I wanted it," Maddux said. "I thought I had good stuff; I just didn't have good location."

Cubs manager Don Zimmer hasn't seen Maddux struggle like this often. Maddux and Oakland's Dave Stewart are the only pitchers in the majors to win at least 18 games in each of the last two seasons.

"I guess you have to write this off as a bad day," Zimmer said. "He's been outstanding all year. Today, he didn't get them out."

Maddux left after four innings, making the zig-zagged walk to the clubhouse. Zimmer followed his 23-year-old pitcher.

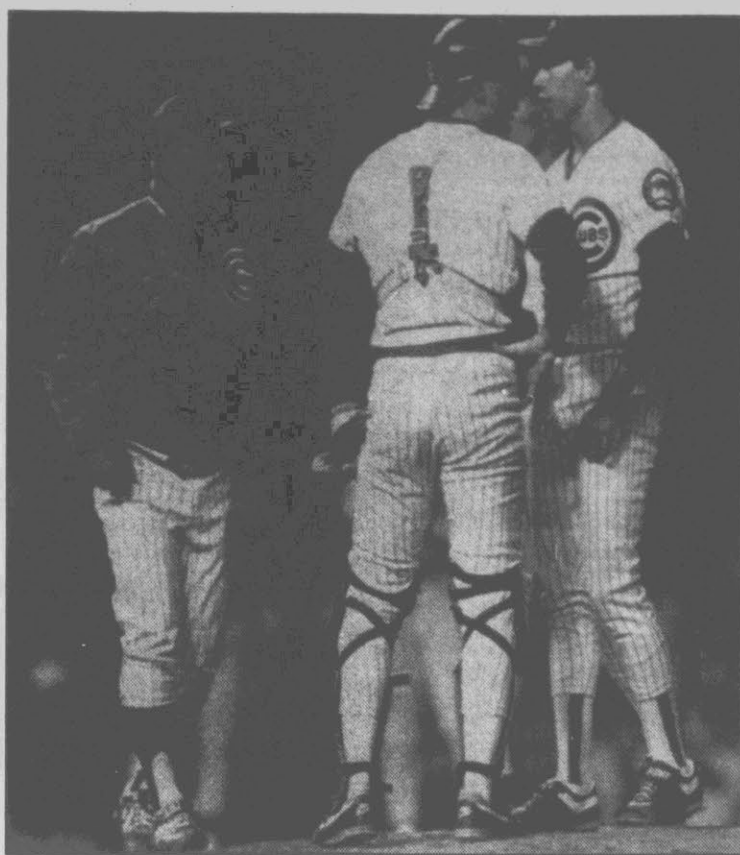

"I didn't want him to think the world had caved in. I told him to keep his head up," Zimmer said. "He has been too good a pitcher here for two years to let it bother him."

Garrelts wasn't brilliant, either. But with Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell hitting home runs, he didn't need to be.

Garrelts led the league with a 2.28 earned-run average. He gave up three in the first three innings on homers by Mark Grace and Ryne Sandberg.

"I wasn't getting my breaking ball over with any consistency. I had to come over the plate a lot more than I wanted to," Garrelts said.

Garrelts led the Giants in saves for four straight seasons before going from stopper to starter this year.

bases loaded and the Giants slugger coming up.

Clark already had doubled in the first inning and homered in the third off Maddux. With runners on second and third and one out, Brett Butler was walked intentionally.

Robby Thompson popped out and Zimmer went to the mound to talk to Maddux.

"I knew they were trying to set up a double play by walking Butler," Clark said. "When he went to the mound for a conference, I thought he was going to take him out. When he didn't, I had to gather my thoughts about Maddux again."

"I just wanted to make sure we were together on how we were going to pitch to Clark," Zimmer said. "I got the answer I wanted but not the result."

Zimmer said he had indeed been looking for the double play with Thompson at bat. When Maddux retired Thompson, the manager decided to stay with his starting pitcher.

Clark said Maddux had been starting left-handers with a fast ball in. "He tried to get it in there but just didn't."

"I got too much of the plate," Maddux said.

Clark's run-scoring double and a two-run double by Matt Williams staked Scott Garrelts to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Grace cut it to 3-2 with a homer in the first after Sandberg had doubled. Grace fouled off eight pitches before hitting the homer. He also had two singles and now has 10 hits in 13 career at-bats against Garrelts.

"All that means is that when you get a good pitch from Garrelts, you'd better hit it," Grace said. "But this game, well, Clark was unbelievable, a one-man wrecking crew."

Clark, whose other major-league grand slam was hit earlier this season off Philadelphia's Mike Maddux, Greg's brother, slugged his way into the record books Wednesday night. He set a playoff record by driving in six runs and tied records with four hits, four runs, reaching base five times and with the grand slam.

The grand slam was the first in the NL playoffs since Dusty Baker of Los Angeles hit one in 1977 against Philadelphia.

"That was the big lift," Garrelts said. "It gave the whole club a big lift and helped me find myself."

Garrelts had given up five hits and three runs in the first three innings. But after Clark handed him an 8-3 lead, the right-hander allowed three hits and no runs in the next four innings before leaving for a pinch batter.

Manager Roger Craig wasn't surprised that Clark, who finished second to San Diego's Tony Gwynn in an NL batting race that went down to the last day of the season, started off so well in the playoffs.

"There was a lot of pressure on Will in the last three or four games because of the batting title," Craig said. "He hit the ball good but they didn't fall in. I thought he'd have a good playoff."

The Cubs, trying to avoid falling behind 2-0 in the playoffs, send Mike Bielecki, 18-7, against Rick Reuschel, 17-8, tonight.

take the day off before Friday night's Game 3.

Only two of 11 teams have rallied from a 2-0 deficit to win the AL playoffs — Milwaukee in 1982 and Kansas City over Toronto in 1985.

"They are playing more aggressively than we are right now," Toronto outfielder Mookie Wilson said. "We're not going to panic, but the fact of the matter is we can't afford to give away any more ballgames."

Moore joined the Athletics last

Dec. 6 for $3.95 million over three years when Alderson decided that even the league's strongest pitching staff could use another potential 20-game winner. By signing the former Seattle Mariner soon after he went on the free-agent market, Alderson avoided a bidding war that would have taken the price much higher. Moore made $1.025 million in 1989.

Henderson's price tag on June 20 was higher — left fielder Luis Polonia and two relievers, plus a $1.95 million salary that should climb significantly if the A's succeed in re-signing him. But he was the spark that ignited Oakland's batting order, weakened by Jose Canseco's first-half absence due to an injured left wrist.

Henderson had only appeared in a strike-year playoff in 1981, and Moore never knew postseason experience in Seattle.

NCAA Presidents Commission Committed To Reform

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Extra time and money may be in the future for college athletes, but only if the NCAA Presidents Commission regains its clout.

Since its humiliating defeat at a special cost-cutting convention in June 1987, little has been heard from the reform-minded group. But the bunch that created the "death penalty" and the infamous Proposition 48 has not been entirely inactive.

And they made it clear Wednesday, after convening their biggest turnout in more than three years, that the Presidents Commission is ready to get back in the reform business.

"I think there is a stronger commitment on the part of the presidents," commission chairman Martin Massengale said.

Dallas will be the next battleground, in January 1990 for the annual NCAA convention. Among other things, the commission will seek to whack almost a month off the basketball season, amend freshmen academic requirements to make scholarship money available to needy freshmen, and force schools to disclose athletes' graduation rates.

In addition, the presidents will ask schools to cut spring football practice in half, from 20 days to 10, and have athletic directors help draw up legislation for the 1991 convention to make reductions in all other sports.

A source said 38 of the 44 commission members were at the two-day meeting.

"My belief is these measures will pass at the NCAA convention in January," Massengale told a news conference Wednesday. "But there could be things happen between now and the convention to change that."

The convention will be asked to reduce the number of permissible regular season basketball games from 28 to 25. The commission will ask that the opening of practice be moved from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. It also wants the regular season, which now begins on the fourth Friday in November, to begin no sooner than Dec. 20.

Money is certain to be one argument against removing three games from the schedule. Programs that regularly play to packed arenas will stand to lose hundreds of thousands in television and gate receipts.

"I think the commission's response is, the first and foremost consideration is the welfare of our students, the academic training of these young people," Massengale, chancellor at the University of Nebraska, said. "I'm sure there will be dialogue, differences of opinion. But they will have to be ironed out at the convention."

The January convention agenda is expected to contain a number of amendments to the controversial Proposition 42, passed last January and scheduled to take effect in 1991. Under Proposition 42, freshmen who have an overall 2.0 high school grade point but fail to meet other eligibility requirements under Proposition 48 will not qualify for any scholarship aid. Presently, such partial-qualifiers cannot play or practice during their freshman year but can receive scholarships.

The Southeastern Conference and the NCAA Council led the fight for Proposition 42 at last January's convention, sparking an uproar that reached its zenith when Georgetown basketball coach John Thompson dramatized his protest by walking off the court prior to a Georgetown game.

But the commission is no longer going to sit this issue out.

"The commission has decided to recommend that a partial qualifier would be eligible for need-based, non-athletic financial aid, the kind that is available to any other member of the student body," Massengale said. "Also, if a partial qualifier receives aid and is a recruited athlete, that would count against the number of scholarships you're permitted for that year as well as against the total number."

Proposition 42 was especially criticized by many black coaches and educators because of their belief that standardized college entrance exams, which are a part of Proposition 48 requirements, are discriminatory. Massengale said allowing need-based aid would address that concern directly.

"If you recall, Proposition 42 would not make any kind of aid available. Now, if they come from a low-income family, they would perhaps be able to qualify for the maximum aid," he said.

Tubbs: Shorter Season Could Be Disastrous

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma coach Billy Tubbs says a proposal by the NCAA Presidents Commission to shorten the college basketball season by almost a month could be "disastrous."

Tubbs fired the first shot Wednesday in response to the announcement by the commission that it would submit legislation during the annual NCAA Convention in January that not only would sharply cut the basketball season but also would amend freshmen academic requirements to make scholarship money available to those from poor backgrounds and would force schools to disclose athletes' graduation rates.

"They're not taking the student part of the game into account with that (reducing the season)," said Tubbs, who said he had not seen the proposal. "The thing frightening to me is that the second semester right now is tough enough. You multiply that by trying to cram everything in and it's scary."

The reduced schedule would affect men's and women's basketball and take effect in 1991. Presently, practice starts Oct. 15 and competition can begin on the fourth Friday in November. Under the presidents' proposal, practice would start Nov. 15 and the regular season would not begin until Dec. 20.

In addition, the presidents said they will sponsor legislation to reduce the number of games a school can play from 28 to 25, not including postseason tournament games. Many schools will stand to lose hundreds of thousands of dollars in television and gate revenue if three games are removed from the schedule.

Coaches were expected to oppose the proposals and Tubbs was supported by Andy McCluskey, an assistant at Oregon State.

Jays Look Ahead ...

The Blue Jays finished the season 34-20 in the SkyDome, including victories in 20 of their last 26 games at home.

Now Toronto must win two of three starting Friday night.

"The home crowd should help a lot," reliever Tom Henke said. "If we get some key hits in the right situations, we'll be right back in it."

In the first two games, the Blue Jays lost because they didn't get the key hits. They really didn't get many hits of any kind.

On Wednesday, trailing 6-2 in the eighth, the Blue Jays had a run in and the bases loaded with none out when George Bell hit into a double play to kill the rally.

"You have to take a step back and slap yourself and say, 'Hey fellows, let's start playing,'" Moseby said. "Realistically, we have to win Friday and take it from there." Several Blue Jays are in slumps. Fred McGriff, who led Toronto with 36 homers, hasn't hit one since Sept. 4. His last extra-base hit was on Sept. 13.

Lee Mazzilli, the designated hitter in the first two games, has one hit in his last 22 at-bats.

"When guys are going bad, it doesn't matter where you put them unless it's on the bench," Manager Cito Gaston said.

In the two losses at Oakland, the Blue Jays had 10 hits, one for extra bases.

"They are playing more aggressively than we are right now," Toronto outfielder Mookie Wilson said. "We just have to get it together and try to bounce back now that we are going home."

The Blue Jays are not only going home, they will be playing under the dome on Friday.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY Oct. 6
ARIES (March 20 to April 17): Don't miss small details on your projects, they now are especially important. You will have a better time with progressive than conservative friends today.
TAURUS (April 18 to May 19): More money from your investments will come by attending to the finer details of your finances. There are several new ways by which you will be able to add to your income.
GEMINI (May 20 to June 20): Too much chatter on your job today will lead to non-productivity. You will now be able to make arrangements to receive regular sums of money.
MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 21): Being too direct in your viewpoints can alienate your friends. You can make more money if you keep quiet about your cleverness and inventiveness.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Big plans you have for your home repairs will have to be postponed for a little while. Specific directions given by a higher-up should be carefully followed.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): Lots of suggestions from family members about your house work require careful scrutiny. Don't let an emotional associate keep you from seeing your friends.
LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22): It will be difficult, but try to put more charm and efficiency in your daily activities. Two friendly couples from a distance can make this an active pleasant day.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Avoid any outside trouble-makers who interfere with your daily activities. All new practical projects now seem to have a distance connected with them.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 20): Being too sure of your views now could cause associates separations. Important men are not yet willing to release the data you desire.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 21 to Jan. 18): You now will be able to see and to complete every facet of your business deals very well. You will need to study further the fine business projects you have.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 19 to Feb. 17): You are very much enjoying your daily duties. Your uncertainty requires that you postpone a very important business matter.
PISCES (Feb. 18 to March 19): Seek suggestions from your own family how to do your usual tasks better. A delay in meeting with your friends will work out to everyone's advantage.

North's cue-bid simply created a game force without saying anything about diamond control. Thereafter, it was easy to steer clear of no trump without a diamond stopper in favor of the minor-suit game.

CBS Denies It Used Faked Film On Afghan Fighting

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — The head of CBS News denied allegations that the network broadcast fake Afghanistan war footage in 1984, but acknowledged the tape did misidentify one plane.

"After extensive conversations with persons in the United States and abroad, as well as a searching discussion with free-lance photographer Michael Hoover, CBS News is satisfied that allegations it broadcast fake combat footage from Afghanistan in the mid-1980s are simply not true," CBS News President David Burke said in a memo to staff.

The New York Post accused "CBS Evening News" of broadcasting staged or re-created scenes shot by Hoover. The Post's editor said Wednesday the newspaper stands by its story.

Burke's memo, made available by CBS News, did concede "the unintentional use of a misidentified aircraft." Burke did not return phone calls.

Hoover, flown to New York by CBS for a meeting Tuesday with Burke and Burke's top assistant, Joseph Peyronnin, said "absolutely nothing" was staged in any war footage he provided CBS News. He said there was an inadvertent misidentification of a Pakistani jet as a Soviet jet bomber flying over a border area between Pakistan and Afghanistan.

That footage was used in a 1987 CBS News documentary, "The Battle for Afghanistan," which was narrated by Dan Rather, anchor and managing editor of the "CBS Evening News." Rather did not return calls Wednesday seeking comment.

Asked if the plane was flying over Afghanistan at the time it was filmed, Hoover replied that "I couldn't swear to that."

But the videotape was shot from inside Afghanistan, he said, and

"the plane could have been on either side."

The Post had quoted David Isby, a defense consultant who also writes for James' military aviation guidebooks, as identifying the jet as a Chinese-made plane used by the Pakistani Air Force.

Jerry Nachman, the Post's editor, said the newspaper was "very, very comfortable with what we've printed." He said he was "a little surprised" at CBS' stand.

"I would have thought they would have done a low-level mea culpa," he said. He explained that he had thought CBS might make excuses, or say "the reporter or cameraman was well-intentioned" but may have unwittingly violated news guidelines.

"The Post's allegations are absolute rubbish," Hoover said. "It comes down to my word against what their source's word is, and this is a guy by the name of Etabari."

Python Star Graham Chapman Dies

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Graham Chapman, a founding member of the zany British comedy group Monty Python, died of cancer at age 48 as his former colleagues talked to him about the good old days, his adopted son said today.

Chapman was rushed to Maidstone General Hospital in southeast England from his nearby home on Tuesday and died there Wednesday night, said his manager, Don Epstein. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

When Chapman died, fellow Monty Python comics Michael Palin and John Cleese were at his bedside, said the adopted son, John Tomiczek. Another member of the troupe, Terry Jones, visited him earlier.

Chapman, an admitted homosexual and reformed alcoholic who smoked a pipe, told reporters in August that a dentist found a cancerous growth on his tonsils during a routine examination.

Later tests showed he was also suffering from cancer of the spine, he said.

He returned to his home last month and was quoted as telling The Sun, Britain's largest circulation newspaper, that he had beaten the disease.

Chapman was educated at Cambridge University and qualified as a doctor before turning to comedy.

In 1968, he teamed up with Cleese, Palin, Jones, Eric Idle and Terry Gilliam to film the television series "Monty Python's Flying Circus."

The show made its debut on the British Broadcasting Corp. on Oct. 5, 1969, in a slot previously filled by a Sunday religious discussion. The last original show was broadcast in December 1974.

Dental Surgery Sidelines Star

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — Rex Harrison wasn't able to grit his teeth and go on with the show after undergoing dental surgery, so a theater audience had to make do with an understudy.

Sir Rex, 81, made it through two acts of W. Somerset Maugham's 1921 play "The Circle" at the Morris Mechanic Theater before the curtain came down and the audience was told he was unable to continue.

Producer Elliott Martin said that medication Harrison had received after the surgery had made it impossible for the actor to function normally.

Wednesday afternoon's show went on with Harrison's role of the aging British Lord Porteous assumed by Louis Turenne, who had been playing a butler.

Sajak Producer Leaving Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The producer of Pat Sajak's late-night television show has resigned as it slips in the ratings battle with the hip, syndicated "Arsenio Hall Show."

Paul Gilbert, who came to "Sajak" from the host's other television show, "Wheel of Fortune," will stay on until a replacement is named, CBS spokeswoman Terry Soreco said Wednesday.

CBS' vice president in charge of late-night programming will select a new producer, Soreco said changes in the show could be expected to follow.

MTV Comedy Special Ribs The Icons Of Pop Culture

By John Horn
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — "Well, it's not 'Long Day's Journey into Night' or anything."

Comedian Colin Quinn, the star of MTV's "Colin Quinn Back to Brooklyn," isn't after high art. His comedy special, airing Saturday at 11 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m., just wants to have fun, any weird way it can.

"Back to Brooklyn" is composed of a series of sometimes bizarre sketches, most of them mocking pop culture icons. The half-hour show opens with a parody of the pretentious rock documentary "Rattle and Hum," about the Irish band U2.

"The show was a fantasy thing because there was so much freedom in what we could do," Quinn said in an interview. "MTV is not like the networks. They just let you do what you want to do. If you went to a network and said, 'We want to parody 'Rattle and Hum,' they'd say, 'What's that?' And then they'd say, 'Well the people in so-and-so don't know what that is.'"

"MTV is not like that." Quinn is one of the co-hosts on "Remote Control," MTV's irreverent, off-the-wall game show that is also a hit in syndication.

On "Remote Control," Quinn badly sings pop songs that contestants have to finish. In "Colin's Wheel of Torture," another of the game's fixtures, players must undergo such tortures as a Wet Willie (Quinn's wet finger is stuck into the player's ear) to win points.

Like "Remote Control," "Back to Brooklyn" revels in poking fun at entertainers.

The skits include a spoof of a rap rock video and a performance by a combination lounge act-Catholic priest. "Like the robe?" the priest says of his vestments. "Got it at the Italian restaurant at the corner. Used to be a tablecloth. Uch!"

In another brief sketch, Quinn

Baby Girl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Melanie Griffith was reported doing well after giving birth to a baby girl with husband Don Johnson present, a publicist said.

The girl, named Dakota, was born Wednesday in Austin, Texas, where Johnson is filming the Dennis Hopper-directed movie "Hot Spot," publicist Elliott Mintz said.

"Mother and baby are fine," she said.

returns to his Brooklyn home, only to be upstaged by an unusual wake for his Uncle Dermott, laid to rest with his glasses on.

And in a parody titled "I Dream of Gina," Quinn delivers a fairly accurate but weird imitation of Robert de Niro as a man convinced his wife is casting magic spells on all the men she meets.

"Everything is getting so serious. There are not enough people out there trying to break down things," Quinn said.

"I think audiences are dying for it. I don't know anybody anymore who watches regular TV and doesn't have a lot of complaints about it, saying, 'I can't believe how bad it is.' It's like everything getting's so moralistic and formulaic."

He acknowledged, "There are a lot of things in this special that people won't get. But some people will get some things, and some people will get other things. The beauty is we don't have to worry about that."

"Back to Brooklyn" is presented with the same false seriousness that has become a trademark of many documentaries these days.

"Basically, what the special is it's me going back to Brooklyn, coming back in contact with my roots, you know, this kind of thing," Quinn says at the show's start. "My agent didn't want me to do it."

His fictional talent agent (played by the show's director, Ben Stiller) is a misguided wheeler-dealer whose clients include diver Greg Louganis, actor Kirk Cameron and every notable in between.

The agent's ideas include a new movie based on "Batman" and "Do the Right Thing." The title: "Do the Robin Thing," where the Boy Wonder is stuck delivering pizzas.

"I just want to do that stuff that's funny. If I could just do a few more of these, that'd be fine," Quinn said. "We hardly even made money on this. But I didn't care. I just want to do good stuff."

SOLICITATION OF PROPOSALS

Town of Winterville
Water System Improvements
September 25, 1989
Sealed proposals will be received by the Town of Winterville, Winterville, North Carolina in the Town Hall until 2:00 P.M. local time on the 25th day of October, 1989, and immediately thereafter opened and read for furnishing of labor, materials, and equipment entered into the installation of water system improvements. Proposals must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Town of Winterville, PO Box 41, Winterville, North Carolina 28590. The outside of the envelope must be marked "PROPOSAL FOR WATER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS". All proposals must be made on the blank forms provided for that purpose. The name, address, and license number of the bidder shall be plainly marked on the outside of the sealed envelope.
Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the Office of the Engineer, Carolina Benchmark, 102 Oakmont Drive, Greenville, NC 27836, the office of Associated General Contractors, Raleigh, NC, the office of the Tyrrell County Water System, Columbia, NC, or may be obtained from the office of the Engineer by those who will make a bid upon deposit of TEN DOLLARS ($10.00) in cash or certified check. The deposit will be returned only to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided plans and specifications are returned to the Engineer in good condition within five (5) days after the date set for receiving bids.
The work will consist of the following major items of work:
a. Install 9310 feet of 6" in. PVC water line.
b. Install 17 6" VALVES.
c. Install 5 Fire Hydrants.
All contractors are hereby notified that they must have proper licenses under the state laws governing their respective trades and have experience in performing the type of work specified.
Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check drawn on some bank or trust company insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation of an amount equal to not less than 5% of the proposal or in lieu thereof a bidder may offer a bid bond of 5% of the bid executed by a Surety Company licensed under the laws of North Carolina to execute such bonds conditioned that the surety will upon demand forthwith make payment to the obligee upon said bond if the bidder fails to execute the contract in accordance with the bid bond and upon failure to forthwith make the surety shall pay to the obligee an amount equal to double the amount of said bond. Said deposit shall be retained by the Owner as liquidated damages in the event of failure to the successful bidder to execute the contract within 10 days after the award or to give satisfactory surety as required by law.
Performance and Payment Bonds will be required for one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price.
Payment will be made on the basis of ninety percent (90%) of the monthly estimates and final payment made upon completion and acceptance of the work. No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids or a period of sixty (60) days.
The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

Coup Chiefs Arrested Or Killed In Panama

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Loyalist troops killed 10 rebel soldiers and arrested dozens during the attempt to topple Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, who was held prisoner for several hours in the uprising, the military said.

An overnight curfew kept the streets of Panama City quiet for the second day in a row today.

A "war communique" said all but one of those killed were officers and that 25 people were wounded. The casualty list released Wednesday night was the first issued by the government since Tuesday's attempted coup.

The communique said security forces arrested three members of the High Command and about 35 other officers and soldiers. The arrests of men supposedly among Noriega's most trusted aides suggested the revolt may have had wider support than originally thought.

There were indications the coup attempt also came closer to toppling the Defense Forces chief and Panama's de facto leader than first believed.

A Defense Forces officer said the plotters succeeded in capturing Noriega and holding him for four or five hours at Defense Forces headquarters. A lawyer for Noriega initially had denied that the general was taken captive.

"The surrender came when loyal officers took command of the combat units and gave the rebels a last chance to release the commander and members of his staff or face the consequences," said Lt. Col. Arnulfo Castrejon, director of the Defense Forces Security and Defense Committee.

One Defense Forces source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the rebels had wanted to take Noriega alive, which gave him time to take shelter in a bunker inside the compound and call for help by radio.

Castrejon said Noriega was held for four or five hours. It was unclear if Noriega gained freedom before or after troops loyal to him counterattacked the headquarters and forced the rebel surrender.

Noriega "had tried to calm his captors during the time he was held, trying to avoid a bloodshed," Castrejon said.

In Washington, President Bush came under mounting criticism about the passive role played by U.S. troops, who stood fully armed a few hundred yards away and watched the rebellion fail.

Korean Pastor Goes To Prison

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A Presbyterian minister, whose trip to communist North Korea for reunification talks created a political uproar in South Korea, was convicted today of aiding an enemy power and sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Rev. Moon Ik-hwan walked out of Seoul District Court in protest before Judge Chung Sang-hak sentenced the dissident leader to 10 years in jail on various charges of aiding North Korea. Moon said he refused to recognize the court's authority and returned to his cell.

"Sentence me as you please after I leave the court, although I am not concerned about the penalty," the 71-year-old clergyman said before leaving the courtroom.

About 100 dissidents sitting in the courtroom clapped when Moon walked out. The dissidents clapped derisively when the judge announced the sentence.

Yoo Won-ho, a businessman who accompanied Moon on the trip to Pyongyang in March, was also sentenced to 10 years in jail.

The prosecution, which had demanded a life sentence, said the punishment was too light and it would appeal to a higher court for a tougher sentence. Defense lawyers said they would appeal to have the term reduced.

Judge Chung said Moon and Yoo, while acting out of idealistic hopes of reuniting the peninsula, had aided the North's attempt to undermine South Korea by sowing internal dissent. The north poses a grave military threat to South Korea and there could be no excuse for Moon's actions, Chung said.

Soviet Cuts Would Block Surprise Raid

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Moscow will be incapable of a surprise attack on the West by 1991 if it makes the cuts in conventional forces promised by President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the International Institute for Strategic Studies said today.

"The situation is already in the process of significant change," the respected institute said in its annual survey of global forces, The Military Balance 1989-90.

"The unilateral reductions will, once complete, virtually eliminate the surprise-attack threat which has so long concerned NATO planners," it added.

After the cutbacks, it would take the Soviets one to two weeks to marshal their forces for an attack, institute director Francois Heisbourg said.

"In shorthand, that translates as no surprise attack," Heisbourg told a news conference Wednesday. Soviet withdrawals under way include units needed in lightning attacks, he added.

In a speech to the United Nations on Dec. 7, Gorbachev promised to reduce the Soviet armed forces by 500,000 troops and to eliminate 10,000 tanks, 8,500 artillery pieces and 800 combat aircraft by 1991.

However, the institute said it has discovered — thanks to the Kremlin answering its questions for the first time — that the Soviet Union has 6,700 more main battle tanks than previously estimated, bringing the total to about 60,000. The institute said the additional tanks were probably in storage.

The Soviet-led Warsaw Pact's huge tank force is a key part of what the 16-nation NATO Western alliance says is the Communist bloc's overwhelming numerical superiority in conventional forces.

The institute's new survey showed NATO with 34,400 tanks compared with a Warsaw Pact total of 78,200. Of these, NATO has 21,900 tanks deployed in the Atlantic to the Urals area, facing 58,500 Warsaw Pact tanks, the survey said.

Troop levels, excluding reserves, were shown as about equal in the same area, with NATO having 2.24 million active service personnel and the Warsaw Pact, 2.3 million.

The survey said the long-range strategic nuclear arsenals of the United States and the Soviet Union remained "in rough parity."

Dalai Lama Wins 1989 Nobel Peace Prize For Struggle Against China

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OSLO, Norway — The Dalai Lama, the exiled spiritual and political leader of Tibet, won the 1989 Nobel Peace Prize today for his non-violent struggle to free his Himalayan nation from Chinese rule.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee praised the Dalai Lama's message of universal reverence and respect for all living things. China condemned the selection.

Though he preached peace, his followers repeatedly joined bloody clashes with Chinese authorities in Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, in the last two years.

The chairman of the Norwegian Nobel Committee, Egil Aarvik, said the selection of the Buddhist monk could also be seen as a signal of encouragement for the pro-democracy movement in China itself, which was crushed in June.

"The committee wouldn't have anything against them interpreting it like that," Aarvik said after reading the citation to reporters.

"If I was a Chinese student, I would be fully in support of the decision," he said, referring to the students who led the pro-democracy movement that was violently suppressed in Beijing in June 3-4.

The Chinese Embassy in Oslo denounced the Nobel committee decision as interfering in China's internal affairs and called the Dalai Lama a political figure intent on "splitting the fatherland."

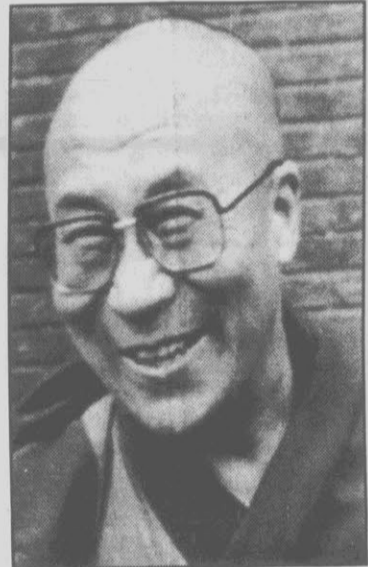

Embassy official Wang Guisheng was quoted by the national NTB news agency as saying, "This has hurt the Chinese people's feelings," and he reiterated the claim that Tibet was always an integral part of China.

Tibet was independent from 1911 until the new Communist authorities in China regained control in 1950.

The Dalai Lama, born Tenzin Gyatso in 1935, had been nominated for the coveted Nobel Peace Prize for at least the last three years, NTB reported.

"It's certainly long overdue for someone who has genuinely worked for peace, not only for the Tibetan people, but he has strived to gain a genuine peace for the entire world," said Tinley Nyandak, a spokesman for the office of the exiled Tibetan government in New York.

In March, Chinese troops imposed martial law in Tibet following widespread rioting to protest the Chinese occupation. In 1987, 38 people were reported killed in fighting in Lhasa.

Nyandak said the Chinese broke up independence demonstrations by Tibetan monks in Lhasa as recently as Sept. 19 and Sept. 22. He said demonstrators were arrested, convicted and sentenced to long prison terms.

The Dalai Lama, who is living in exile in India, was attending a conference in southern California today and was not immediately available for comment.

Last year, in a speech to the European Parliament, he proposed a compromise for ending China's occupation of Tibet, offering to keep it as an autonomous Chinese territory and to relinquish control of foreign affairs to Beijing.

China's government said in August that its door is always open to talks with the Dalai Lama but that he must renounce Tibetan independence. China stressed it would talk to him only as an individual, not as a representative of the Tibetan government in exile, which China has never recognized.

The Dalai Lama's persistent campaign to free Tibet has sometimes embarrassed countries he visited that hoped to improve ties with Beijing, including Norway.

During a visit in September 1988, appointments with several Norwegian officials were canceled without explanation. The Chinese Embassy reportedly had protested the visit to the government.

The committee said: "The Dalai Lama in his struggle for the liberation of Tibet consistently has opposed the use of violence. He has instead advocated peaceful solutions based upon tolerance and mutual respect in order to preserve the historical and cultural heritage of his people."

Ninety people and organizations were nominated for this year's prize, which carries a cash award of 3 million Swedish kronor, or $469,000.

With nationalist ferment running high in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, speculation on the committee's choice for this year's prize-winner had focused on human rights activists who have struggled for years to safeguard freedoms in the East bloc.

Committee sources confirmed that two Czechoslovak dissidents, playwright Vaclav Havel and Jiri Hajek, were among the candidates. Other contenders included South African black leader Nelson Mandela, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev and former President Reagan for their disarmament efforts.

The prize was established by dynamite inventor Alfred Nobel to reward the person who has worked hardest for "fraternity among peoples," disarmament or promoting peace conferences.

But in recent years the committee has used the prize to encourage human rights or to build international support for fledgling peace efforts.

CANADA AT ITS BEST

Now and then, a fine spirit can evoke the very essence of the land that produced it. So it is with Canadian Mist, America's number one Canadian. Pleasingly mellow. Yet clean, honest, and true. Like Canada itself. When it's at its best.

House OKs Nicaraguan Fund

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's plan to spend an additional $9 million to boost the political opposition in next year's Nicaraguan elections is headed for the Senate after easily winning House approval.

The House voted 263-156 for the aid package late Wednesday in a rare show of agreement on U.S. policy toward the Central American country. The measure could come up in the Senate before the week is out.

The package provides $9 million for a variety of election-related activities deemed to be non-partisan, but which Bush believes would help "level the playing field" for Violeta Chamorro, the opposition presidential candidate.

After years of congressional battling over U.S. policy toward Nicaragua, the relatively easy approval of Bush's aid proposal represented rare agreement among normally divided factions.

That agreement was made possible after Secretary of State James A. Baker III and other senior officials conveyed private assurances to Congress that if the aid goes forward, the administration will not use CIA contingency funds to secretly support the opposition.

Of the total package, $8 million would flow through the National Endowment for Democracy, a U.S. government-supported organization that promotes free elections around the world.

Voting for president, the national assembly and local posts is scheduled for Feb. 25.
