Death Toll Estimates Shrinking As Quake Damage Totals Climb

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — Death toll estimates shrank but tensions and frustrations grew as Northern California tried to regroup from a devastating earthquake and unnerving aftershocks that continued today.

President Bush flew west today to tour the area, including the collapsed Interstate 880 in Oakland and the severely damaged seaside city of Santa Cruz. He said he hoped "to take a look and to provide encouragement to people."

Three days after the quake, the need for encouragement seemed to be growing.

Damage estimates by the state Office of Emergency Services rose to well over $4 billion. A private economist, Frank McCormick of Bank of America in San Francisco, said damage is likely to reach $10 billion. An estimated 12,550 people were displaced, 10,000 in hard-hit Santa Cruz County, the agency said.

In some towns, residents said they were too afraid to sleep indoors because of the Earth's unrest.

"I can't stop shaking," said Marcelina Toussaint, a 73-year-old resident of Watsonville, a town near the epicenter of Tuesday's magnitude 6.9 quake and wracked by four strong aftershocks Thursday.

"I guess I'm surviving, but I'm scared."

A moderate aftershock registered 3.9 on the Richter scale at 1:13 a.m. today, according to Rick McKenzie at the Seismographic Station at the University of California at Berkeley. It was felt north and south of San Francisco. More than 1,400 aftershocks have hit since Tuesday.

In Oakland, the monstrous task of uncovering cars and trucks crushed in the collapse of a 1¼-mile stretch of I-880 continued with no signs of survivors.

Lt. Kristina Wraa, of the Oakland police, said early today that 167 people were still unaccounted for in Alameda County, which includes Oakland and several other communities. It was assumed that many of them were buried in the rubble of I-880.

By early today, rescuers had pulled out 19 bodies from the highway wreckage. In addition, at least 17 others were killed elsewhere in Northern California. About 2,000 people were injured in eight counties, officials said.

Rescuers said they were finding fewer cars than feared under the highway, known as the Nimitz Freeway. Some credited the World Series with reducing Tuesday evening's rush-hour traffic by drawing baseball fans to television sets.

"Maybe the World Series saved our lives," said Oakland police Sgt. Bob Crawford.

The third game of the championship between the Oakland A's and the San Francisco Giants had been set to begin just minutes after the killer quake struck at 5:04 p.m.

"Normally at 5 o'clock in the afternoon this area would be bumper-to-bumper," Crawford said.

Initially, authorities had estimated 253 people were buried under the debris. That was based on the assumption that cars stretched bumper-to-bumper on the crushed lower level of the double-deck highway.

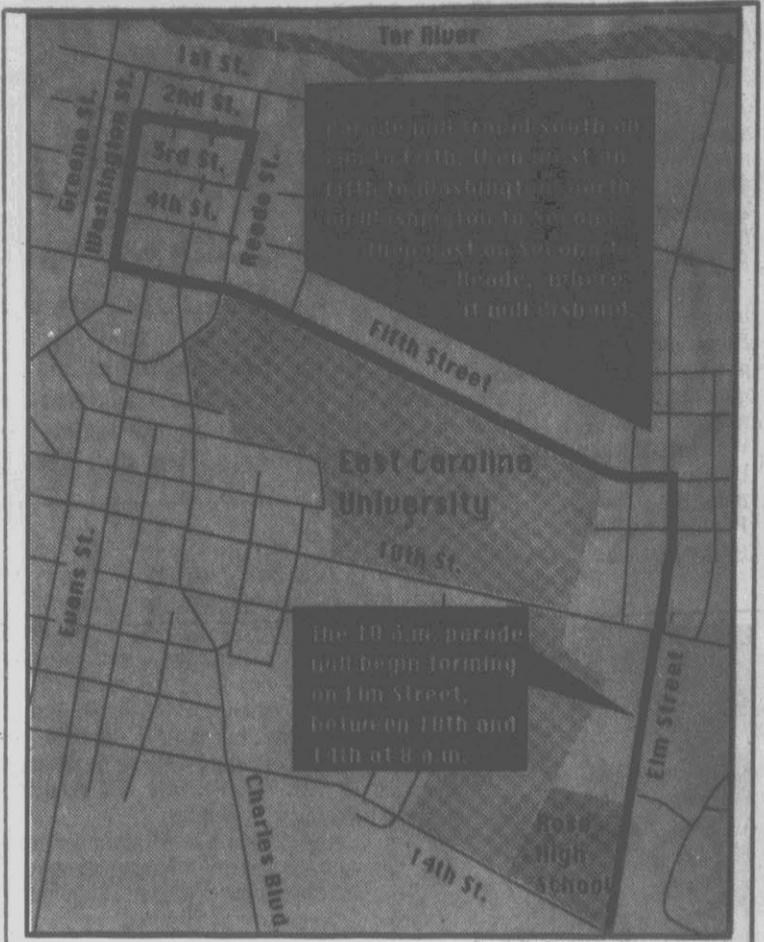

"They are going lower, much lower in fact," said Lisa Covington, a spokeswoman for the state Office of Emergency Services.

No new official estimate of fatalities was made.

Searchers have found 52 cars in the lower section of the freeway, but there may be more still buried in the rubble, California Highway Patrol Sgt. John Silva said.

Electricity was restored to about 98 percent of the area by Thursday, utility spokesman Greg Pruett said. Commuters returned to much of downtown San Francisco, some schools and bank branches reopened, and cable car service resumed.

But life was far from normal. In downtown Oakland, the quake ruined 13 commercial buildings and 1,400 residential units.

ECU Celebrates 'Tradition Of Pride'

East Carolina University kicks off its 1989 "Tradition of Pride" homecoming weekend with a round of alumni activities today.

Highlighting the weekend is Saturday's 2 p.m. football game in Ficklen Stadium, pitting the ECU Pirates against the Virginia Tech Hokies. Tickets are $15 each and are available at the Athletic Ticket Office. Call 757-6500 for information.

The Saturday morning homecoming parade will start just at 10 a.m. on Fifth Street. It will feature ECU's Marching Pirates and marching bands from area schools, who will compete in the annual ECU band contest. Judging will take place during the parade.

But homecoming weekend officially begins today with gatherings of ECU's various alumni professional societies. They include:

- A social and seminar for School of Nursing graduates at Greenville Country Club at 6 p.m.
- The ECU Black Alumni chapter's pig picking on the Pirate Club patio at 7 p.m.
- A 9 p.m. homecoming "beach party" for alumni and guests at the Ramada Inn on Greenville Boulevard. Beach music will be presented by WRQR announcers John Moore and Kirk Williams. Tickets are $14 each or $25 per couple.

There Are Triumphs

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

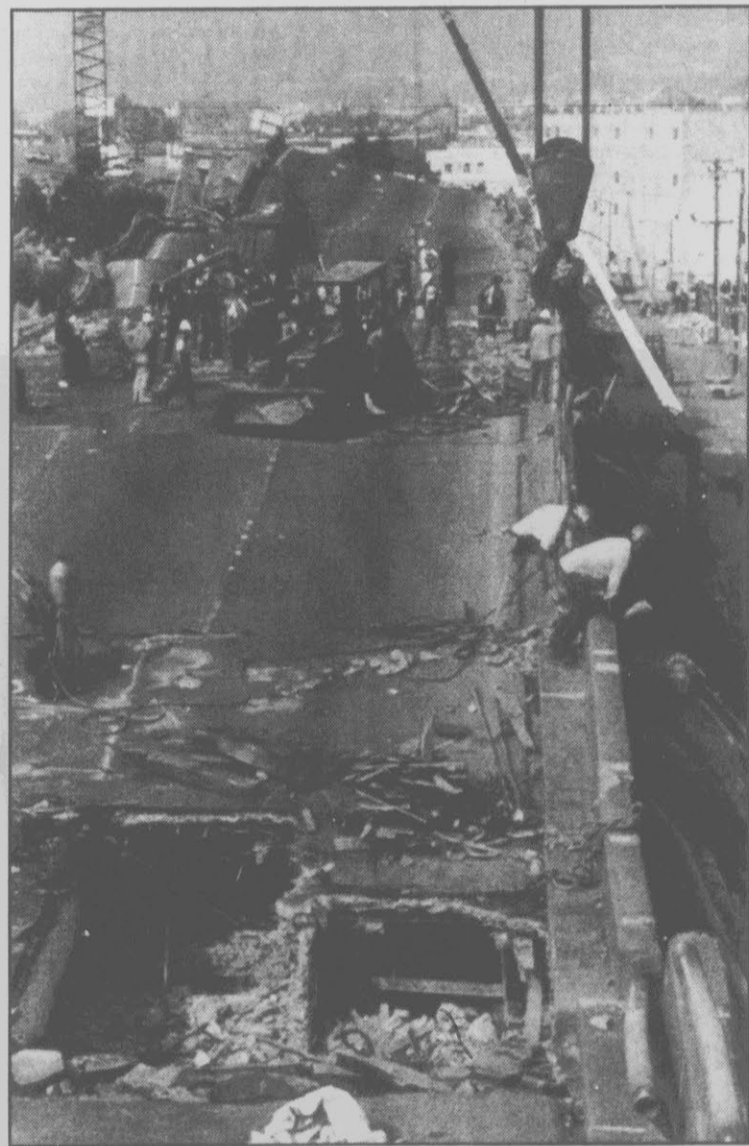

SAN FRANCISCO — There is a sense of triumph amid the death and destruction of the earthquake that struck California.

Skyscrapers shook but didn't fall. Trains stopped but most were running again within hours. Businesses closed for a day to assess damage, then reopened. The Bay Bridge was crippled, so thousands of commuters switched to ferries.

Police and fire officials maintained order. Hospitals stayed open with auxiliary power. Radio and television kept up a critical flow of information to the public.

Perhaps most important, though,

Hastings Ousted From Bench

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Senate today approved impeachment charges against U.S. District Judge Alcee L. Hastings of Florida, automatically ousting him from the federal bench for conspiring to obtain a $150,000 payoff.

Sixty-nine senators voted guilty and 26 voted not guilty on the first article of 17 articles of impeachment.

The Senate then proceeded on the 16 other charges.

Hastings was the sixth federal official removed as a result of impeachment.

Flanked by his attorneys, the 53-year-old judge watched the proceedings from a table on the floor of the Senate as one by one the divided lawmakers answered the roll call.

Conviction came even though two senators who headed an evidence-hearing committee this summer said in advance of the roll call that they would vote to acquit Hastings on all charges.

"I conclude that in this case the evidence falls short," Sen. Jeff Bingaman, D-N.M., said in a statement issued a few minutes before the vote.

Hastings has been proclaiming his innocence for eight years.

Martin Elections Challenged

By Jerry Raynor
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

WILLIAMSTON — A lawsuit to overturn at-large elections in favor of a district method of elections in Martin County has been filed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

In the lawsuit filed on Oct. 10 in U.S. District Court in Raleigh, the ACLU contends that Martin County and its three largest towns — Williamston, Jamesville and Robersonville — have discriminated against blacks in local elections.

The lawsuit asks the court to declare the current method of at-large elections in the rural county as unconstitutional and to order new elections plans for the county and the three towns.

Kathleen Wilde, a staff lawyer in the ACLU's Southern Regional Office in Atlanta, said in an Associated Press story that it appears the voting Rights Act of 1965 has been violated and that Martin County has a history of failing to elect blacks to public office.

"There has been campaign after campaign after campaign (by blacks) and they have just been pretty much uniformly unsuccessful," she said in the news service article.

Although blacks have been elected, Ms. Wilde said, they are not elected in proportion to their numbers in the population.

Donnie Pittman, county manager in Martin County, said today that the lawsuit came as a surprise. "No-

Candidates Discuss Terms, Tensions

By J. Ward Best
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

A forum involving the majority of candidates for city offices Thursday provided few direct challenges to opponents, with the candidates standing by prepared statements and offering general comments on city issues.

The League of Women Voters of Greenville and Pitt County, along with four community groups, provided the setting for Thursday night's candidate forum at the Willis Building.

Following opening comments from the candidates for mayor and for at-large and Districts 1, 3 and 5 City Council seats, the participants fielded questions ranging from city growth to bicycle paths and from thoroughfare planning to parking.

Incumbent Mayor Ed Carter, who was losing his voice Thursday night due to a cold, called for a popular vote on giving the city's mayor a vote and four-year terms for council members, two issues challenger

Nancy Jenkins does not support.

Carter said that he feels the mayor having a vote would give the citizens a second voice on the council. Longer terms would mean less politicking by council members, he said.

Carter questioned Ms. Jenkins on her support for a proposed change in the length of council members' terms. Before being elected to the council in 1985, Ms. Jenkins said she indicated her support for four-year terms. She called the matter a non-issue Thursday, and said her 1985 statements were made before careful study of the issue and her experience on the council.

Ms. Jenkins touched on the tensions of the council during the past term, and promised she would provide more harmonious leadership on the board.

"I see the mayor's role as moderator, facilitator and team builder," she said.

Ms. Jenkins also stood by earlier statements that a city government should be more dependent on its appointed boards and more open to the public.

The two mayoral candidates were asked about bicycling in the city. Ms. Jenkins said cycling, in addition to citizens' use of Greenville mass transit, could help solve the city's traffic congestion.

Both Carter and Ms. Jenkins shared answers to questions about disposal of hazardous household waste — a need for a study of the issue — and the handling of salary increases for the mayor and council

Legislative Reception

Physicians, legislators and county commissioners dined together Thursday night at the Greenville Country Club during the Pitt County Medical Society's annual appreciation event for elected officials. Shown, left to right, are Dr. Tom Irons, secretary-treasurer of the medical society; Sen. Tom Taft; Rep. Walter B. Jones Jr.; Dr. Sandy Easley, chairman of the legislative committee of the medical society, and Dr. Rick Croskery, medical society president-elect.

Foot Screening

The Creative Living Center, an adult, day health-care center, will offer a free podiatry-foot screening on Thursday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the center, located in St. James Methodist Church, 200 E. Sixth St. The screening will be performed by Dr. Tim Seavers of Greenville Podiatry Associates. Any person age 60 and over may call the Creative Living Center at 757-0303 to pre-register. The number of screenings are limited.

Dyslexia Conference

The opening session of the North Carolina Conference of the Orton Dyslexia Society will feature an address by Jean S. Ormond, co-director of the Reading Center of Rochester, Minn. Permits Issued

The city of Greenville has issued two solicitation permits. A permit was issued to Delta Sigma Theta sorority to raise money for a scholarship fund. Approximately 25 volunteers from the sorority are permitted to solicit donations

Victim Identified

A woman killed in a Thursday morning accident near Fountain has been identified by the Highway Patrol as Gladys Eakes, 36, of Route 4, Greenville officials. Trooper B.J. Jones said Ms. Eakes was killed in a one-car accident about four miles west of Greenville on N.C. 33. Her car apparently ran off the right shoulder of the road and struck a tree, Jones said. She was the only occupant of the car.

Donation

The Greenville Ronald McDonald House has received $7,461.40 from a Scott Paper Co. promotion conducted through local retailers and McDonald's Restaurant operators. Scott Paper made this year's Greenville donation in the name of Harris Supermarkets of Greenville, one of its participating retailers. The promotion has, since 1986, raised more than $4.5 million for Ronald McDonald Houses and Ronald McDonald Children's Charities nationwide.

Election Suit Filed

body in the ACLU has ever contacted me about plans to bring the lawsuit or to discuss possibilities for changing the county's method of election to a by-district method," he said.

"A little over a year ago, members of the local NAACP came before the county commissioners to discuss redistricting," Pittman said. "However, to the best of my knowledge, neither the NAACP nor the commissioners has brought the matter up again since that time."

The NAACP contingent made reference to the county board of education having adopted a method of electing school board members by a seven-district system and thought the same could be done for other county elections.

Mrs. Wilde said that she had been working on the suit for several months. "The problem is that voting (in Martin County) is at-large," she said. "If race was no longer an issue than at-large seats would not be a problem."

According to Mrs. Wilde, Martin County is not being singled out. Instead, at-large seats are being challenged all across the nation — on the basis of racial, political, and other categories of discrimination, she said.

Differences of opinions from blacks in Martin County about the lawsuit varies.

William Manson, Jr. the first black chairman of the Martin County Board of Commissioners, said in the AP story that he feels the suit is unnecessary and said he hopes an agreement can be reached to avoid a court fight.

Manson said that his success in being elected and then being chosen chairman is proof that blacks can win in at-large voting. The current system "does not necessarily discriminate against blacks," he said. "Blacks could have a much better showing if they got out and voted in elections," he said. Williamston Mayor Tom Brandon, who is white, said, "It upsets me that we are going to have to spend money to pay legal fees ... for a suit that is not necessary."

One of six blacks in Martin County who brought the lawsuit, Willis Williams of Jamesville, also cited in the AP story the fact that the board of education had eliminated at-large voting in favor of a seven-district system.

Williams said that since the county commissioners had not taken action to go to district voting, there was no way to resolve the situation without going to court.

About 45 percent of Martin County's population is black, with the ratio a little higher in the towns of Williamston and Robersonville. The figures were unavailable for Jamesville's 640 residents.

There is one black on the five-person county board of commissioners and one black on the five-person town board in Williamston. None of the five town board members in Robersonville is black, but a town official said blacks have been elected in the past. In Jamesville, where a black commissioner died in office and was replaced by a white, one black is among five candidates running for five seats on the town board in an election next month.

Two of eight members of the board of education are black but the board will revert to seven members in the future.

Roadside Flowers Are Put On Hold

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — The state Department of Transportation has suspended about 20 small-town highway beautification projects after the General Assembly voted in August to divert money from flowers to other projects.

"I think they did a dirty trick," Transportation Secretary Jim Harrington said in a recent interview.

The department had been getting about $600,000 a year from the sale of personalized license plates. It used that money to finance the planting of dogwoods, redbud and wildflowers along highways, as well as to beautify the entrances to small towns.

But, Harrington said, two legislative acts will halve DOT's share of the proceeds from personalized license plates. They are:

A budget provision sponsored by Rep. Vernon G. James, D-Pasquotank, and Rep. Charles M. Beall, D-Haywood, requiring DOT to use $50,000 this year and $150,000 next year from personalized license-plate revenues to staff three visitor information centers.

Another measure, sponsored by Sen. Marc Basnight, D-Dare, doubling the cost of personalized plates — from $10 to $20 — with the extra money going to the Natural Heritage Trust Fund to help buy pristine or other sensitive lands endangered by development.

Doubling the price will cause many people to stop buying personalized license plates, Harrington said, and thus DOT will have less money to spend on highway beautification even without the funds being diverted by James' measure.

Visitor information centers, Harrington said, are not to be confused with eight welcome centers operated by the state Department of Commerce. Those centers are on interstate highways and provide information on tourist attractions to about 8.1 million visitors a year.

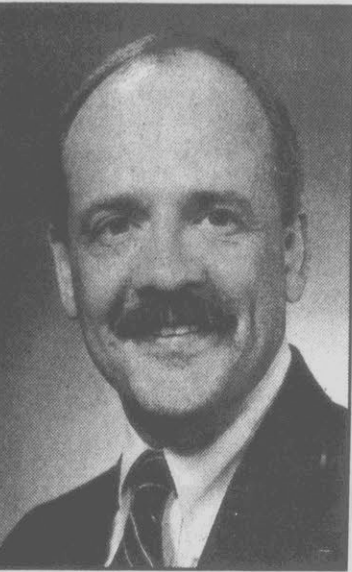

The centers are built at rest areas on other highways and are supposed to be staffed by local groups interested in promoting tourism in their areas, the secretary said.

"I think it makes no sense at all it's absolutely economic disaster — for the state to try to pick up the responsibility for staffing and operating three dozen information centers across the state," he said.

Harrington has postponed construction of one of those visitor information centers, on U.S. 17 in Brunswick County, a move that has put him on a collision course with James.

during budget hearings. The increases were not originally discussed during a public hearing on the budget, but at the following meeting, Carter and Ms. Jenkins said the city manager left the item off the first proposed agenda. Ms. Jenkins said she voted against the raises because of the way the council handled the issue.

At-large Candidates

The incumbent candidate for the at-large seat on the council, Lorraine Shinn, who was also losing her voice, called on the future council to address what she termed three key issues during the next term — growth, spending and crime. The city needs to tighten its spending, but not at the expense of law enforcement or planning for transportation and service for a growing city, Ms. Shinn said.

Chuck Autry, Ms. Shinn's opponent in the Nov. 7 election, called drugs the top priority in Greenville and said the city needs controlled growth.

Autry declined to answer two of four questions from the audience. The first regarded council meetings held in the conference room of City Hall. The second involved the city's proposed thoroughfare plan.

Autry also said he was unfamiliar with Focus 2007 and could not answer a question about the planning group's relationship to city planning.

Ms. Shinn challenged the thoroughfare plan that calls for changing Fourth and Fifth streets to one-way avenues. She agreed that the conference room of City Hall is cramped, and said the city needs to make renovations to the municipal building or consider moving to another location.

District 1 Candidates

The candidates, incumbent Mildred Council and Daniel Brew, fielded a question about bicycling. Both said necessary changes to things affecting bicycling, such as to roadways, would require study by the city.

Ms. Council, who arrived late because of a school meeting, campaigned on her community experience and ability to work with the people of the community.

Her husband, Walter Council, asked the first question of the District 1 candidates regarding the city's proposed thoroughfare plan.

Ms. Council spearheaded an effort on the council to return the plan to the public for more comment before the council made its decision. Brew agreed that any change needed personal study and involvement.

Brew, an area businessman, campaigned on his experience and also called for proper and orderly growth in Greenville.

District 3 Candidates

Incumbent Inez Fridley, running unopposed in November's election, called for a council that will address the "quality of life issues" such as solid waste management, recycling and historic preservation.

A third bicycle question went to Ms. Fridley. Proposed greenways in the city, another quality of life issue, would address the need for both biking and open space for recreation, she said.

Ms. Fridley also handled a question regarding parking around East Carolina University. She said any solution would have to come from the city and the university working together.

District 5 Candidates

Blanche Forbes and Thomas Harwell, the two candidates for the District 5 seat vacated by Nancy Jenkins in her bid for mayor, were questioned directly about dissension on the council and specific questions of growth in the city.

Ms. Forbes, who ran unsuccessfully for the seat two years ago, campaigned on her business experience as a real estate broker.

She said unity on the council "would be one of my big issues."

Both candidates were asked about their feelings on the new shopping center on the corner of 14th and Charles streets.

Ms. Forbes told the audience that growth in the city could not be stalled, and the shopping center could be a great asset to the city.

Harwell said the council needed open but professional debate on certain issues. "(That land) could have been used for something else," Harwell said. "(It) could have been done better."

Where Harwell called for greater planning and crime control in the city, Ms. Forbes campaigned on a need to attract new industry to the area and a personally held conservative approach to city spending.

Educate Youth — Or Else

In the business world, when a product has a design flaw or is outdated, its manufacturer has to re-tool to correct the problem. That concept works for education, too.

When the nation's president and governors met three weeks ago to talk about improving the nation's schools, they talked about reform. What they didn't talk about was the retooling concept. As the last decade of the 20th century begins, that notion may be the idea of the hour.

Business leaders face a stark reality these days: An entire generation of workers is about to retire, but young replacements cannot handle the work, which is becoming increasingly complex and technical. That's true nationally and for the state of North Carolina.

Neglect of the disadvantaged rural poor and the hard-core unemployed in urban areas of North Carolina has long lurked as a shadow in the wings of progress. Only now, however, is the state about to feel the results. Demographics is playing a trick on economics. Education, through re-tooling, must be the mediator.

Nationally, 56 percent of the new jobs between 1986 and 2000 will be filled by minority youths. In North Carolina, the percentage is similar. More than a third of all jobs will be filled by minorities. It is an unpleasant but factual truth that nearly all North Carolina's at-risk students are minorities.

In addition, many individuals — minorities or otherwise — who are already in the work force are under-educated. They lack the skills to obtain and hold better jobs.

The service and manufacturing industries of the 1990s will use numerically controlled machines, computerized management systems and flexible work groups. They will demand workers who can conceptualize problems, use mathematics to solve them and communicate their ideas as members of self-managed teams.

Yet neither the nation nor the state's schools are adequately preparing its young people — especially its minorities — to perform such tasks. Economists say education before work accounts for about one-quarter of the improvement in American productivity since the end of World War II, but learning on the job accounts for more than half. That means a new thrust in education and a marriage between schools and the work place.

What the United States is facing, in an era of fierce worldwide competition, is a need simultaneously to re-tool its education system as it re-tools the skills of the American work force. That's why companies like Ford Motor Co. and Motorola are running basic education classes in their plants. It is why firms like American Express are setting up special training programs in schools across the nation. When you can't buy skilled workers on the labor market, you have to train those who are available.

North Carolina shares in this challenge. As a manufacturing state for a number of exported goods, huge trade deficits and stiff competition for world economic leadership, will affect the state's economy.

Society will finally have to recognize the economic value of the young people it has long ignored — minorities, the poor and the disadvantaged. To effectively re-tool industries and refuel its competitive fires, the will — and means — to train and educate this new generation of potential workers, will have to be found.

This re-tooling may have been implicit in the rhetoric that surrounded the education summit in September, but it certainly wasn't spelled out. Retooling is the cog that moves the wheels of reform. The directive is educate — or else.

Public Forum

To the editor:

I am writing as a member of the North Carolina Association of School Administrators Board of Directors and a member of the nominating committee which nominated Dr. Edwin West Superintendent of the Year in Region One. Dr. West is admired by superintendents throughout District One for his leadership and professionalism. The nominating committee considered two major accomplishments which led to his nomination and selection for Superintendent of the Year.

First, he was able to assist the Board of Education in bringing about the merger of the Pitt County and Greenville City School districts. The personal hardships and sacrifices made by any administrator when accomplishing such a task are great. Dr. West assisted the Board in this accomplishment with a great deal of skill, fortitude, and benevolence. We believe children in Pitt County will benefit from this accomplishment for years to come.

Second, Dr. West has led Pitt County in pilot testing a program of flexible funding for the state of North Carolina. That effort has led to the recent General Assembly passage of Senate Bill 2, School Improvement and Accountability Act of 1989. That legislation is a landmark in that, for the first time all school units in North Carolina may now have flexibility in use of state funds to accomplish school system goals leading to increased student achievement. Dr. West was one of the pioneers in the effort to convince the General Assembly of that flexibility's benefit. This effort, too, will affect positively elementary and secondary students for years to come in North Carolina.

Personal sacrifices often accompany progress. The professional superintendent understands and accepts that fact. Those of us who participated in his nomination and selection have gone so based on our professional integrity and the outlook for better education for all students.

John B. Dunn

To the editor:

My thanks go out to the Pitt County School Board for its recent action concerning Dr. West. These are truly dedicated citizens who spend a great deal of time studying all aspects of education in Pitt County and making tough decisions which they feel will best serve all of the children of Pitt County. This is a job which does not offer monetary rewards, and where all parties are never satisfied and many frequently let their criticism be heard. Despite these definite drawbacks, they continue to serve us with a devotion to our children's well-being that all would do well to emulate.

This board was elected at a time when division was great in our school system. The past school board was divided on every issue (white Pitt County representatives and Dr. West — versus — Greenville representatives and black Pitt County representatives). The election results (which represented the vote of all citizens) showed that we wanted to end this division and strife and get on with the job of education. When the votes were tallied, only two of Dr. West's previous supporters were re-elected and the majority of board members were new. When this new board voted on Dr. West's contract, there were blacks and whites on each side of the issue and the city and county were not split. Representatives from Ayden-Grifton, North Pitt, Winterville, and Greenville all voted together to seek a new superintendent. We elected these people to make informed decisions for us and they have done so.

It is time for us, under the direction of a new and impartial superintendent, to make even greater strides in education, and I thank the board for making that possible!

A Wise & Brilliant Thing

WASHINGTON — The Congress, yielding to a stomach-turning combination of cowardice and demagoguery, has done a wise — one might even say brilliant — thing. It has passed a law against flag-burning.

The cowardice is easy to see. Only a handful of members of either house could work up the courage to tell the truth: The First Amendment considerations that led a conservative-led Supreme Court to overturn Texas's flag-burning law make this act a constitutional dead duck.

The public outrage over the Supreme Court decision guaranteed that only those legislators whose seats and integrity are unusually secure could dare to say that the Court was right. Most pretended to believe that, by banning flag defacement regardless of whether it involves political protest, they avoided the constitutional pitfall.

As for demagoguery, the speeches accompanying this pusillanimous action might have made the late Huey Long fidget with embarrassment. Were they responding to their mail? Oh, no. They were acting out of love for their country and Old Glory.

"This is the least we can do to protect the sanctity of the flag," Rep. Butler Derrick (D-S.C.) said just before the measure cleared the House by a margin of 371 to 43.

So why was passage of this flawed act a stroke of brilliance? Because the alternative was not the sensible matter of explaining to outraged voters the meaning of free speech. The alternative was a constitutional amendment banning the burning of the American flag, and lawmakers who fear the wrath of voters fear even more the too ready resort to Constitution tampering.

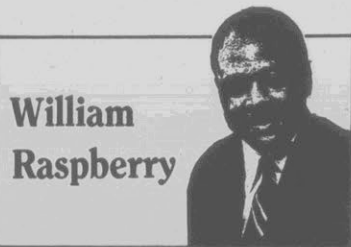

By passing the flag-burning measure, they dampened the enthusiasm for time-consuming process of amending the Constitution.

It is easy to understand the disbelief that greeted the Supreme Court's decision, last June, to overturn the conviction of Gregory Johnson, a member of the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade who, during demonstrations at the 1984 Republican Convention, snatched an American flag from outside a bank building, doused it with a flammable liquid, and set it afire while his comrades chanted, "America, the red, white and blue, we spit on you."

Johnson was convicted under a Texas statute forbidding the desecration of venerated objects. In a 5-to-4 decision, the Court held the obvious: that Johnson's was an act of political protest and thus protected under the free-speech clause.

But the doubtful constitutionality of the recent federal measure is just one of its problems. Consider, for instance, the question: What is a flag? Is it only a banner intended for patriotic use, as in the Texas case? Or is it also any rendering of the Stars and Stripes — photographic or hand-drawn, in black and white or in color, of cloth or paper, intended as a symbol of patriotism or created for the sole purpose of burning it?

Would it be a crime under the congressional bill to discard a flag-adorned T-shirt or burn an envelope bearing a U.S. Flag postage stamp? Would it be a defense if a flag-burner could prove that the thing he burned had 51 stars or only a dozen stripes?

It is hard to see how anyone could be successfully prosecuted under the law unless he defiled the flag in public, for example as a political statement. And in that case, wouldn't that make it once again a free-speech question?

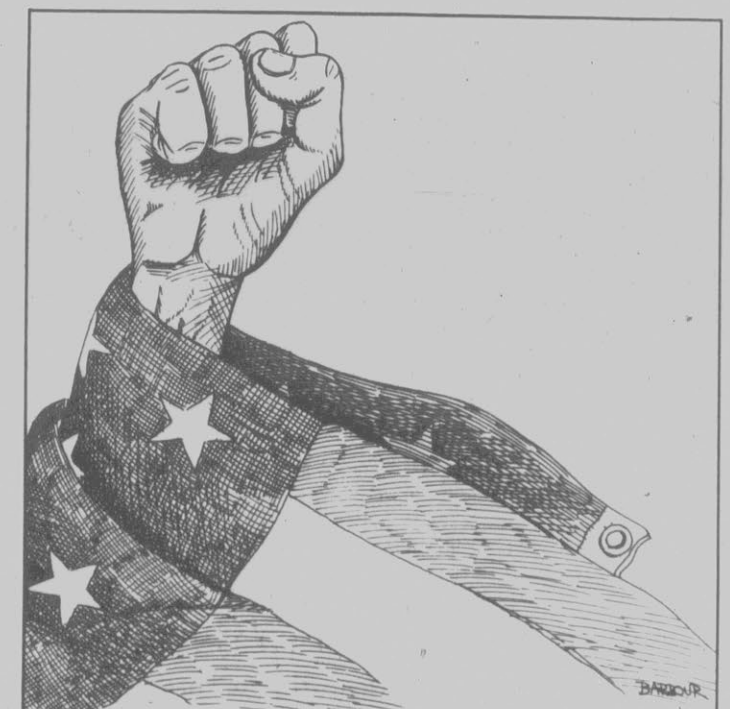

Well, say the backers of the legislation, the flag is special and therefore deserving of special protection. To which I say, isn't the Cross of Jesus special in America? It's one thing to say that anyone who snatched a cross from a church altar and burned it ought to be prosecuted; quite another to say that anyone who ties two sticks together at right angles should be thrown in jail for tossing the result into the fireplace. Should cross-burning Klanners be prosecuted for defiling a religious symbol, not merely for terrorism?

I have to admit it is far easier for a commentator than for a politician to support the constitutionality of flag burning. I wouldn't want to run for re-election against a candidate who could ridicule me as the guy who refused to stand up for the flag. The emotional attachment to the flag is too fierce and the defense of free speech too theoretical.

It may well be that a lot of us who damn the cowardly Congress would have voted for this hamhanded attempt to overturn a Supreme Court ruling by statute, particularly if to vote against it would give impetus to a constitutional amendment.

In short, this weak-willed, irresolute Congress just may have done the right thing.

Plane Search

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A good bit of luck, some skillful flying and supple pine trees are being credited with allowing a 24-year-old pilot from Texas to walk away unscathed from a crash landing in northeastern Davidson County.

"It was more luck than anything," said David Marshall several hours after he brought his plane down Wednesday night, prompting a search by 175 Triad area rescue workers.

In a brief press conference Thursday, Marshall said he was flying alone Wednesday night from Addison, Texas, to visit a friend in Elkin. He said he overshot the runway in Elkin, and the rainy weather forced him to divert his landing to Piedmont Triad International Airport in Greensboro.

About 10 miles southwest of the airport, Marshall said, the engine of his Cessna 210 Centurian failed, leaving him without power. The cause of the engine failure is still unknown.

Artillery Exercise

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — About 4,500 active duty, National Guard and Army Reserve soldiers from North Carolina and South Carolina and Marines from Camp Lejeune will take part in a combined artillery exercise called Dragon Fire II on Fort Bragg, a spokesman for the post said Thursday.

Thirteen artillery battalions are scheduled to join together in a "massing of artillery fire," where all the cannons will be fired at once, the spokesman said.

The most intense firing will take place on Saturday starting around 10 a.m. Between 4 p.m. and 11 p.m., the spokesman said, 154 howitzers will be firing simultaneously while Air Force close air support aircraft will be making bombing runs. The aircraft will be dropping 500-pound bombs while the howitzers — including 105 mm, 155mm and 203mm guns — are firing.

The exercise ends Sunday.

Cash Left

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A bandit, masked for Halloween, left the scene of his crime with part of a cash register — the part without the cash.

The unidentified man walked into The Car Shop about 9:15 a.m. Wednesday. As cashier Sharon Gooding approached the man, he pulled out a 10-inch knife and threatened her with it. Ms. Gooding ran out of the building, police said.

The man grabbed the top, calculator portion of the cash register and fled the premises, leaving the cash drawer behind.

Police say the portion of the register taken is worth about $800.

Probe Requested

ASHEVILLE (AP) — District Attorney Robert Fisher and Buncombe school officials have called on the State Bureau of Investigation to look into the payroll records and expense vouchers of Buncombe County Schools Superintendent Eugene Yarbrough.

Fisher confirmed Wednesday he had requested the probe based on complaints raised last month by a citizens group and that he had notified school officials in letters mailed Friday.

Fisher said the allegations were serious enough to merit investigation, but he declined to elaborate. The SBI investigation would center on "accounting and bookwork" in the superintendent's office, he said. Fishers expects a report in 60 to 90 days.

Rewards Posted

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin announced Thursday that the state is offering monetary rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction in three slayings.

A reward of up to $5,000 is offered for information in the slaying of Burton Lesley Ransom of Rockingham, who was found inside his apartment with multiple stab wounds.

Another reward of up to $5,000 is offered for information in the Feb. 2, 1989, beating death of Rachel Elder Joyner of Winston-Salem.

Martin also announced a reward of up to $2,500 for information on the disappearance of Phillip Chavis of Red Springs. Chavis was last seen on Feb. 8 at his father's home in Robeson County. Law enforcement officials believe a crime may have been committed related to this disappearance.

Hunt Education Panel To Begin Seeking Funding

By Tom Foreman Jr.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. — A panel that plans to establish a certification system for public school teachers has completed its organizational phase and will begin seeking funding for its work, leaders of the group say.

The challenge facing the National Board of Professional Teaching Standards is to define standards in specific teaching fields, said James Kelly, president of the board. The first teachers are expected to receive certification by the board in 1993.

Kelly said in a news conference Thursday the board is seeking $25 million from the federal government over three years so it can begin developing criteria, methods, subject-matter and other key details of a national teachers certificate.

Another $25 million is expected to be raised from corporate donations, for a total $50 million budget over the next three years. Former North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt, chairman of the 63-member panel, said he's optimistic that a bill currently in the Senate will pass, giving the board its requested funding.

The board's work would lead to reforms in schools of education at colleges and universities, Hunt said.

"The colleges of education will realize that ... their graduates are going to have to be well-enough prepared, well-enough educated that they can pass these assessments and become board certified," Hunt said.

Schools will need to be reformed and restructured in order to attract the certified teachers, Hunt said.

"It's going to be a tremendous source for all the things that we need to do in the schools such as American industry has already done to become competitive worldwide," Hunt said.

The board wants to attract more minorities, raise salaries for the best teachers and changing the image of teachers among the students in their classes.

"I think you're going to see more of the brightest and most able and promising young people of all races in this country to go into teaching and stay in teaching instead of going out to sell real estate," Hunt said.

The board will base its certification process on the notion that board-certified teachers should have command of a core of professional knowledge specific to the subject they teach.

Democrats Checked On Candidate Choice

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — The state Democratic Party has mailed letters asking past contributors for their opinion of 21 prospective candidates for the U.S. Senate seat currently held by Republican Jesse Helms.

The survey, composed in August and mailed two days ago, includes the names of several activists who have announced they will not run, several who say they have never considered running and two who are actively campaigning.

None, least of all Bo Thomas and Mike Easley, who have announced, are thrilled with the mailing, spokesmen for the two said Thursday.

Among those who have announced they will not run for the Democratic nomination are former University of North Carolina system President Bill Friday, former state chairperson Betty McCain, and U.S. Reps. David Price and Charlie Rose. Those who have given no indication they will run include state Rep. Dan Blue, D-Wake, Charlotte Hornets owner George Shinn, House Speaker Joe Mavretic and state Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston.

State party chairman Lawrence Davis said the list was compiled by his staff more than two months ago.

Mailed to more than 1,000 party faithful, the survey has two functions, Davis said: "One, to raise money for whomever the party chooses; Second, to make sure we do a good job recruiting candidates. Just because one or two candidates surface doesn't mean we've done our job — that there's no need to look further," Davis said.

Martin Says New Plants Expected

RALEIGH (AP) — Several foreign businesses will establish new North Carolina operations as a result of a trade mission to the Orient by Gov. Jim Martin and other officials, Martin says.

"I feel very confident, as I did after the last trip, that we will have three or four announcements coming from it," Martin said Thursday upon his return from the trip. He said he could not be specific about the kinds of businesses he expected to move to the state.

"If we start making preliminary announcements, we could very well lose them," said Commerce Secretary Jim Broyhill, who also made the trip.

"We feel we're in a good position, with companies comparing this state with others and communities in this state with communities in others," Broyhill said.

Martin said he contacted foreign companies already doing business in North Carolina as well as new prospects for the state.

"I felt it was important to go to the head offices (of companies already in the state) and thank them for being here," Martin said. He said several companies he had contacted on his previous Far East tour two years ago have since expanded their operations in the state.

North Carolina's trading partners in the Far East want to improve their trade imbalance with the United States and strengthen their relations with this country, Martin said.

"We talked not only about reverse investment — foreign companies that invest here — but expansion of trade, bringing in more exports from North Carolina," Martin said after returning from a two-week trade mission to the Orient.

NAACP Chief Says Involvement Needed

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — Blacks need to become more active in the mainstream of politics and economics, the president of the state NAACP said during the opening session of the group's 46th annual convention.

"The battle now isn't the barriers," said Kelly M. Alexander Jr. "The major focus as blacks move into the 1990s is political and economic empowerment. We have to work within the system.

"We're calling it a new era of civil rights," he said.

Alexander's comments reflect an annual conference that will place an unprecedented emphasis on economics. For the first time, the conference includes seminars on business, including how to bid on state contracts.

It also will include, for the first time, a session on health issues; a discussion of prejudice within the black community based on complexion; and a dialogue between college recruiters and teenage members.

NAACP conferences traditionally have been church-oriented, and this year's conference includes many church activities.

But it also reflects the efforts of NAACP leaders to reach more young, middle-class blacks who are less likely to identify with the civil rights struggles of the 1960s.

Speaking to a group of about 40 ministers and churchgoers, Alexander said it wasn't enough "to come together to make us feel good" and practice "pie-in-the-sky philosophy."

He said blacks needed to better take advantage of money available to them, such as money awarded to minority contractors in the construction of roads and prisons.

Alexander recognized the active role that church had played in local civil rights efforts, and he noted the civil rights gains made since the days when "folks would have been passing by this church, throwing rocks."

But he said blacks would be naive and be left behind if they aren't canny and practical.

The conference ends Saturday.

Southern Republicans Plan Lessons On How To Govern

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATON ROUGE, La. — Some 250 Republican officials from throughout the South will gather here Oct. 27 to learn how to administer government, GOP officials say.

Republicans are no longer such a minority on the state level that they can just react to what Democrats do, Lt. Gov. Paul Hardy said at a Thursday news conference.

"We're going to deal with issues that are very heated, very controversial such as education, abortion, blacks, the environment, choice of schools," said Hardy, the state's highest ranking Republican elected official.

Legislators, county commissioners, school board members and others from 11 states will attend the two-day regional conference to hone in on problems outside of the national arena.

Several governors will attend, said Hardy.

"Washington is a nice place to visit but it's not half as important as the people who live there think it is," said Marty Connors, director of the Southern Exchange, an organization of Republican officials in the South. "We're trying to take the most outstanding problems in the South, bring in the best thinkers from around the country and debate what can we do at the state level to solve the problems."

Some of the speakers aren't Republicans.

"It's not supposed to be a one-sided partisan way to learn how to get elected," said state Sen. John Hainkel of New Orleans, who switched to the GOP nearly two years ago. "It's to learn what do do after you get elected."

Hainkel, a former House speaker and lawmaker since 1968, said local and state Republican officials are growing in number and can no longer be the loyal opposition, the watchdog of the majority Democrats.

"When I was elected there weren't any Republicans in the state," said Hainkel. "Believe it or not, in seven of the southern states, Republican make up in excess of 30 percent of the Legislature. Now, we're in excess of 25 percent of the legislators in the entire South. That's an awful big change from 10 or 12 years ago."

Snow Blankets Midwest

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow kept falling and thousands of people remained without electricity in the Midwest today as the region endured an early reunion with winter, just four days after temperatures had climbed into the 80s. Near-record cold also settled in throughout much of the Gulf Coast and South.

Snowfall accumulations were 8 inches at Peru, Ind., more than 7 inches in Indianapolis and 4 to 6 inches in Fort Wayne and South Bend, Ind., and Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, by late Thursday. It still was snowing this morning.

"It was 80 degrees or above from October 12th to 16th," said Ed Terrell of the National Weather Service in Indianapolis. "By the 19th, we had 6 inches of snowfall. That's a pretty good turnaround."

Records for October snowfall totals were shattered throughout the region. Cincinnati and Dayton had their earliest snowfall ever.

But it was mostly rain in northwest Indiana because of warmer lake temperatures.

Service crews from Ohio's top power companies worked through the night with little sleep to turn on the lights for 94,000 customers still without power early today. Scattered outages also were reported in Wisconsin

Rain threatened flooding today in interior southeast New York, where rivers and streams were running high, and along the southern coast of New Jersey, which also faced gusty onshore winds.

Temperatures threatened to dip below freezing tonight in Georgia, Alabama, northwest Florida, inland Mississippi, western Tennessee, northern Louisiana, northern and central Arkansas, eastern Oklahoma and the northeast half of Texas.

But southern Florida experienced record high temperatures in the high 80s and low 90s on Thursday.

The high temperature in the Lower 48 states Thursday was 95 at Monrovia and Poway, Calif.

Rain extended from the southern two thirds of New England to the lower Great Lakes and south across the Virginias, Tennessee and northern Alabama. Southern Florida also had rain Thursday.

Snow showers Thursday reached from western lower Michigan across eastern Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and western Kentucky. Chicago had 2 inches of wet snow.

And N.C. Sees Light Snow

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's first snowfall of the season — a light dusting at higher elevations in the northern mountains accompanied by nippy temperatures — is from the system that socked the Midwest with mounds of snow.

But forecaster Michael Sabones with the National Weather Service said there won't be the same snow piles here because there's not enough moisture in the mountain air.

Sheriff's department dispatchers in Watauga, Ashe and Avery counties said they had reports of a light dusting of snow, in some cases barely visible as it fell early today.

No problems were reported with the light snow.

Reagans Begin Tour Of Japan

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO — Former President Ronald Reagan and his wife, Nancy, arrived in Japan today on an 11-day trip along with more than 200 U.S. military dependents they invited to hitch a free ride to the Orient.

The Reagans and 229 relatives of U.S. military personnel stationed in Japan arrived at Haneda Airport in southern Tokyo at 2 p.m. aboard a chartered TWA Boeing 747.

Reagan said he was "delighted" to be back in Japan. The former chief executive made a state visit to Japan in 1983 and attended the annual summit of industrialized nations in Tokyo in 1986.

"I deeply valued the working relationships I had with Japanese leaders during my time in the White House," he said in short speech above the roar of jet traffic. "Nancy and I have a special fondness for the Japanese people." The Reagans are in Japan at the invitation of the Japanese government and the Fujisankei Communications Group. Fujisankei has refused to confirm reports Reagan will receive about $2 million for the visit, during which he and his wife will attend several charity events and meet Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, Emperor Akihito and other government figures.

The media conglomerate said it will spend about $7 million on the visit.

The Reagans were flown by helicopter from Tokyo to Fujisankei's Hakone Open Air Museum in the hills near Mount Fuji where they will stay through Saturday.

It is Reagan's first major excursion since he had surgery Sept. 8 to drain fluid from his brain after suffering a head injury in a horseback riding accident over the summer.

The chartered jet was half-filled with spouses, children and parents of U.S. military personnel in Japan.

Senate Oks Abortion Bill; Bush Veto Set

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The stage is set for a presidential veto of a bill allowing government-paid abortions for poor women who are victims of rape or incest.

The Senate put the matter in President Bush's hands Thursday when it gave final congressional approval to a spending bill including the new provisions for Medicaid abortions.

The 67-31 vote drew little debate after the House's surprise vote last week to approve the broader provisions. The Senate passed the measure before, but final agreement on a compromise spending bill was needed to send the bill to the president.

The measure would allow federal money to be spent on abortions for poor women who are victims of rape or incest and who "reported promptly" to law enforcement or public health authorities. Medicaid restrictions in the law since 1981 permit federal money for abortions only in cases where the life of the mother is endangered by her pregnancy.

"The president has told us he will veto this bill because he won't accept language that allows poor rape and incest victims access to abortions," said Sen. Brock Adams, D-Wash.

"I'm sorry the president of the United States, the most powerful man in the world, has chosen to veto this bill ... and thereby cause enormous additional suffering for some of the world's most unfortunate and powerless victims," he said.

Rep. Bill Green of New York, a Republican moderate, said 30 House Republicans have sent Bush a letter urging him to sign the bill. Green said Bush's opposition to the measure puts "him and us in a really indefensible position."

"I would strongly urge the president to recognize that poor women have the right to make that same moral choice ... as rich women do," Green said.

The abortion provision is part of a $156.7 billion measure to finance labor, health and education programs for fiscal 1990, which began Oct. 1.

Bush had said last week he was looking for "room for flexibility" and did not wish "conflict" on abortion — an issue that has been troublesome for him throughout his political career.

First lady talks with Big Bird while taping 'Sesame Street' for a PBS television special

Barbara Puts The Word Out: She Says What She Wants To

NEW YORK (AP) — President Bush has never told his wife what, or what not, to say, the first lady declared.

And, she warned, "He'd better not."

Barbara Bush said what she chose to say to some 1,350 members of New York's elite at the 44th annual Alfred E. Smith Memorial Dinner Thursday.

Mrs. Bush, who joined a long line of prominent people who have addressed the Al Smith charity, said she welcomed the chance "to prove I'm more than just a pretty face."

She began her speech by contradicting a published report that said she weighs 135-140 pounds.

"George said the press never gets anything right," she said. "I was born weighing 135 pounds."

Pausing briefly, she turned to outgoing Mayor Edward I. Koch, who was also on the dais, and handed him his own favorite line.

"How'm I doin', Ed?" she asked.

The guests paid $500 a plate to dine on filet mignon and chocolate hazelnut torte. Proceeds from the dinner, sponsored by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, go to health-care causes.

At last year's dinner, then Vice President George Bush and his presidential opponent, Democrat Michael S. Dukakis, traded jokes just weeks before Bush won the race for the White House.

"I loved 'The Bonfire of the Vanities,'" Mrs. Bush told this year's glittering gathering, referring to Tom Wolfe's satirical look at New York politics and race relations.

"But I never dreamed I'd get to address some of the characters in person," she added, to laughter and applause.

Thursday night found the increasingly combative top contenders for City Hall, Democrat David Dinkins and Republican Rudolph Giuliani, sitting two seats apart on the dais. Gov. Mario Cuomo also attended.

Governor of New York from 1923 to 1928, Smith in 1928 became the first Catholic to be nominated for president. The first memorial dinner was held in 1945, a year after his death.

Keynote speakers have included the first Catholic elected president, John F. Kennedy; former presidents Richard M. Nixon, Dwight D. Eisenhower; Lyndon B. Johnson; comedians Danny Thomas and Bob Hope; and Winston S. Churchill.

Earlier Thursday, Mrs. Bush read to Big Bird and his friends during a taping of "Sesame Street," the award-winning Public Broadcasting Service television show. The first lady frequently makes public appearances to promote literacy.

Astronauts Step Up Experiments

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Atlantis' five astronauts plunged into a heavy schedule of medical, scientific and photographic experiments today after being awakened by three rousing college fight songs.

"We've got a full day planned for you," Mission Control told the astronauts, and even before they had breakfast, they were asked to take pictures of Gibraltar in the Mediterranean for a film being made about Earth's environment.

The wakeup songs were from colleges attended by the three mission specialists on board, "Boomer Sooner," "UConn Huskies" and "Victory March."

Shannon Lucid attended the University of Oklahoma, Franklin Chang-Diaz the University of Connecticut and Ellen Baker the State University of New York at Buffalo.

The flight plan today called for the crew to continue experiments that measure Earth's damaged ozone layer and study the effects of weightlessness on the human body, the processing of polymers and the growth of corn and ice crystals.

The nuclear-powered Galileo probe the astronauts deployed about six hours after blastoff Wednesday was zipping across the solar system at 9,000 mph in great shape, officials reported.

The $1.5 billion probe's course for its six-year, 2.4-billion-mile trip to Jupiter involved more than 400,000 miles of travel by midday today. Once it reaches Jupiter, Galileo is expected to give the best look yet of another planet and find clues to the universe's origin.

Galileo was pronounced in "perfect shape" and "right on course" Thursday by NASA, and Atlantis also was given a clean bill of health after the crew members restored a cooling system that shut down the previous day when it overheated, cutting in a backup unit.

Atlantis is scheduled to land at 2:38 p.m. EDT Monday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The other shuttle crew members are commander Don Williams and pilot Mike McCulley.

On Thursday, Mrs. Baker and Chang-Diaz demonstrated a retinal photography experiment that could be seen on NASA satellite television.

With swimming goggles strapped around her head, Mrs. Baker steadied herself on the shuttle's middeck while Chang-Diaz pressed a camera to the right goggle to photograph her retina.

"We're trying to hold ourselves steady, which is probably the hardest part of this task," said Mrs. Baker, a medical doctor.

Researchers want to study the 35mm camera slides to determine if there are any changes in the eye's vessels in zero gravity. Such changes could indicate some brain swelling, and researchers want to find out if that is related to motion sickness in space.

Also Thursday night, a camera in the cargo bay showed spectacular views of Typhoon Elsie in the Philippines.

"It's a real big storm," Williams said.

Weather permitting, the astronauts hope to capture images of Los Angeles, North and South Korea, the Grand Canyon, the Dallas-Fort Worth area, Tokyo and several Japanese volcanoes.

They are using a special IMAX camera that produces detailed film that can be shown on extra-large screens. The film collected today will be used in two movies.

The astronauts will try to photograph lightning systems, providing data that researchers say could help develop better weather-predicting methods.

A new experiment aboard the shuttle uses a sensitive instrument in the cargo bay to measure the ozone layer, which protects the Earth from the sun's harmful ultraviolet radiation.

The measurements taken aboard Atlantis will be compared with data being collected at the same time and over the same areas by nearly identical sensors aboard three older U.S. satellites.

Flag Amendment Vote Falls Short

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Senate concern about freedom of speech and a cooling of the summer's political passions combined to defeat the proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning, lawmakers say.

"I don't know that public interest has faded; I think that public interest has changed," Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., said Thursday after the proposed amendment failed in the Senate.

Opponents of the measure said Americans are having second thoughts about the notion of changing the Constitution.

White House lobbying appeared minimal despite a strong public campaign that last summer took President Bush to the foot of the Iwo Jima Memorial.

The measure did win a bare majority in the Senate, 51-48, but fell 15 votes short of the required two-thirds of senators present and voting.

Eleven Republicans joined 37 Democrats to oppose the measure. Thirty-three Republicans and 18 Democrats voted for the proposal, which would have authorized the state and federal governments to outlaw flag desecration.

Following the vote, White House spokeswoman Alix Glen said Bush was "disappointed" and believes such an amendment represents "the only ... real protection for the flag." She said a bill sent to the president last week to ban flag-burning by statute "would not survive constitutional scrutiny."

Critics of the amendment, in contrast, said the bill would satisfy concern in the country about flag-burning.

"I think when the statute passed, it made it much easier to focus on the Constitution," said Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt. "But this amendment should fall anyway because of the danger it poses to the Bill of Rights."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a strong supporter of the amendment, told reporters that "the public was confused on this."

Solar Flare Expected Today

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A major magnetic storm unleashed by a giant solar flare is forecast to surge about the Earth today, possibly causing power surges, radio blackouts and shimmering lights near the poles.

Sun watchers at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said the flare erupted on the sun Thursday morning and almost immediately saturated instruments aboard a NOAA satellite with X-rays.

Norman Cohen, a geophysical forecaster at the Space Environment Services Center run by NOAA in Boulder, Colo., said he was sending alerts to electrical utilities in Canada and in the northern United States to expect possible power surges today when a powerful magnetic storm is expected to arrive at the Earth.

Radiation from strong solar flares can affect satellites and spacecraft, but officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday they evaluated the burst of energy and determined astronauts on board the orbiting space shuttle Atlantis are not in danger.

"In the orbit we're in, at 160 miles altitude, it is no threat at all," said Ronald D. Dittmore, a flight director at the Johnson Space Center in Houston. "We're not concerned at all."

A NASA spokesman said Galileo, the probe released from Atlantis six hours after the space shuttle was launched Wednesday, was built to resist radiation much stronger than solar flares and will not be affected. Galileo is almost a quarter-million miles from Earth on its six-year journey to Jupiter.

GIs Finding Korean Black Market Lucrative System

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — U.S. military personnel in South Korea buy six times as much Chivas Regal scotch as the much larger U.S. force in Europe — but instead of drinking it, they're selling it on the Korean black market, a study says.

SPAM, Aqua Net hair spray and rice are among other favorites selling in huge quantities at U.S. military commissaries in South Korea, apparently bound for the black market, the General Accounting Office said Thursday.

Such sales far exceed what would normally be consumed by the 70,000 authorized buyers stationed there, and U.S. taxpayers are footing part of the bill, GAO witnesses said at a Senate hearing. The GAO is Congress' investigative arm.

The Defense Department exports duty-free goods to bases in Korea and other countries for sale at cut-rate prices in the commissaries and exchanges.

In 1988, commissaries in South Korea sold 1.1 million cans of SPAM, or almost 12 pounds per person per year; 34 pounds or 816 American cheese slices for every man, woman and child, and 170 pounds of rice for every consumer.

"If one person consumed 170 pounds of rice a year, that would be a little over 14 pounds of rice a month or just under a half a pound of rice a day," said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee on government oversight and management.

"There would be little room in a person's diet for anything else but rice," he said.

Black marketeers recruit U.S. service members or their dependents to buy the products for later resale or enlist the help of cashiers and sales clerks, mostly Koreans.

The investigators concluded that most of the Chivas Regal scotch purchased for sale, including the 12-year-old bottle and 21-year-old bottle, ends up in the black market. In 1988, service members in Korea bought 314,748 liters of the scotch.

"Fewer military members in Korea — 15 percent of the total in Europe — purchased more than six times the number of Chivas Regal bottles purchased in Europe," the investigators said.

China Quake Leaves 29 People Dead

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEIJING — Victims of a series of deadly earthquakes in rural northern China said today they owed their lives to an initial tremor that sent them fleeing from their homes before a second brought the dwellings crashing down.

At least 29 people died and more than 10,000 homes were reported destroyed by the quakes, the region's worst in 13 years.

The official China Daily said more than 150 people were injured, many seriously, in the quakes that hit Shanxi and Hebei provinces late Wednesday and early Thursday.

The tremors, centered about 135 miles west of Beijing, measured up to 6.1 on the Richter scale and were felt in the capital.

"This was the worst quake we've ever had," Liu Rongzhen, a peasant farmer in Xicaitian Village, told a Western reporter. "I was asleep in the house when the first quake woke me up. It rocked the walls and we went outside. With the second quake the house collapsed."

About half the mud and wattle homes in the impoverished dusty town of 820 were heavily damaged. A short distance away, in Bucun, a village of 1,280, not one home was left standing.

People there also said the first quake, which hit with a magnitude of 5.7 shortly before 11 p.m. Wednesday, drove them from their homes, which toppled when the 6.1 quake hit two hours later.

"It was like waves," some in the walled village said. "It was very loud."

Two Bucun villagers, a man of about 60 and his octogenarian mother, were killed as he carried her from the house.

Two plain wooden caskets with straw covers were set up in their home, which was open to the sky with the walls only partly standing. A neighbor wailed as she viewed the caskets, at the head of which biscuits were placed in an apparent religious offering.

Police Face Inquiry In IRA Arrests

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — The government ordered an inquiry into alleged police misconduct after a judge freed three people who had spent at least 14 years in prison, wrongly convicted of an Irish Republican Army bombing.

In his ruling Thursday, Lord Lane, the country's second-ranking judicial official, said police involved in investigations of the fatal pub bombing that led to the 1975 convictions "must have lied."

One other man cleared by the appeals court ruling was taken to Belfast, where his attorneys sought an appeal in an unrelated murder conviction.

In a British Broadcasting Corp. television interview late Thursday, Home Secretary Douglas Hurd described the outcome as "a blow" for Britain's criminal justice system.

The London newspaper The Independent published a cartoon today showing Hurd, the Cabinet Minister responsible for police, staggering from a bomb-damaged building marked "Criminal Justice System."

David Williams, deputy chief constable of Surrey county police force, which handled the original investigation, said Thursday that three officers were suspended from duty pending the inquiry by retired appeals judge Sir John May.

Williams said a fourth officer had died since the 1975 trial and a fifth had retired from the force.

Gorbachev Ally To Head Pravda

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — Pravda told its readers today that a confidant of Mikhail S. Gorbachev is replacing its conservative editor, who had resisted letting the Communist Party daily fully embrace the new openness sweeping the Soviet press.

In a front-page report, Pravda said Viktor G. Afanasyev had resigned and been replaced by Ivan T. Frolov, an advisor to Gorbachev for the last year and a former editor of the party's theoretical monthly journal Kommunist.

The move appears to assure that the voice of the Communist Party will now reflect more clearly the views of Gorbachev and his reform-minded allies.

Pravda is the country's most authoritative newspaper, but its circulation has lagged under Gorbachev as readers turn to livelier more informative newspapers. Its editor sits in on closed meetings of the ruling Politburo.

The removal of Afanasyev, a 66-year-old throwback to the rule of Leonid I. Brezhnev, marks a further attempt by the Soviet president to clean house of conservatives. Last month, three were retired from the Politburo.

The change at Pravda's helm also capped a turbulent week in the Soviet press that first saw Gorbachev rebuke trailblazing editors as taking glasnost too far, threatening to sack them.

Some Soviet observers interpreted his criticism one week ago of the editors who are the most outspoken practitioners of glasnost as a way of softening the blow of Afanasyev's removal for party conservatives.

They interpreted Gorbachev's tactics as taking the middle course at a time of rising tension over the poor state of the economy and ethnic unrest.

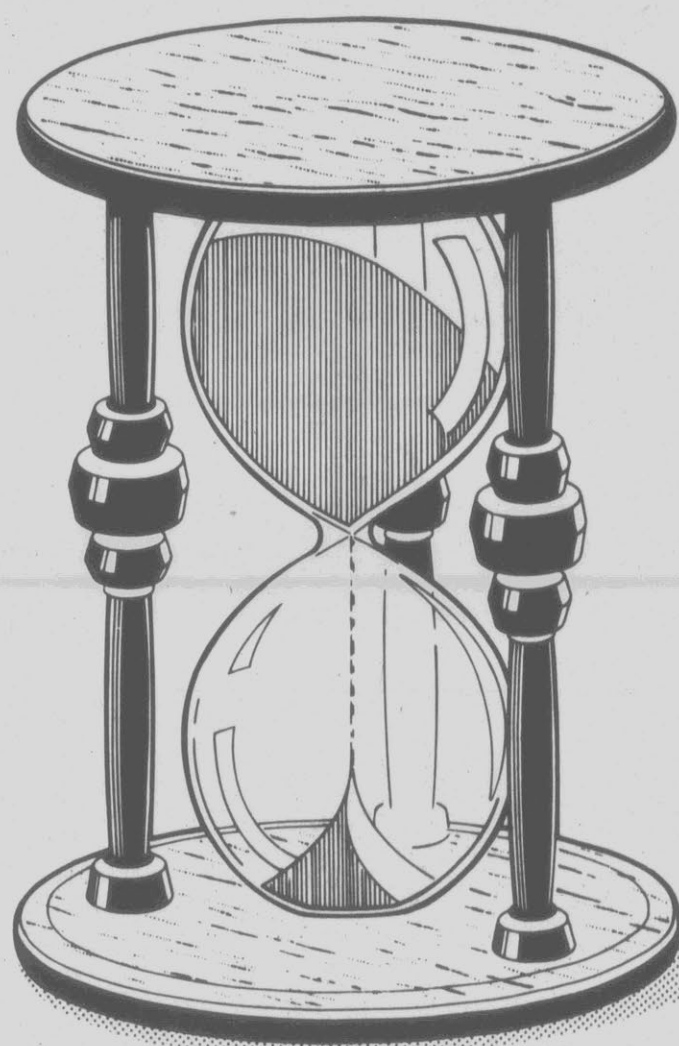

The departure of Afanasyev was announced by the official news agency Tass on Thursday and also reported on state-run television in its nightly news report. Pravda said the Politburo had on Thursday accepted Afanasyev's request that he be transferred to "scientific work."

Frolov, 60, is credited with formulating Gorbachev's foreign policy that places priority on fostering values common to all mankind, rather than encouraging class struggle.

Afanasyev took over the party newspaper in 1976, during what is now condemned as a period of stagnation when Pravda was accused of masking more often than disclosing the truth.

Under his tutelage, the paper's circulation fell as it lagged behind other papers that more frankly cover national and international affairs.

YOUR EYEGGLASS PRESCRIPTION

What does the Federal Trade Commission say about "Eyeglass Prescriptions"

Q. Can I charge my patients an extra fee for releasing the prescription?
A. No. The Rule makes it illegal for you to charge your patients any fee in excess of your normal examination fee as a charge for releasing the prescription. So if your normal examination fee is $30, you cannot add an extra $5 or $10 for releasing the prescription.

Q. When do I have to give out a prescription?
A. The prescription must be given to your patient immediately after you complete the eye examination. This means that you must give your patient his or her prescription before you begin your dispensing procedures (if you also dispense eyeglasses).

Q. What if my patient doesn't ask for the prescription? Do I still have to give it out to my patient?
A. Yes. The Rule requires that you prepare the prescription and physically offer it to the patient. Of course, you can't force the patient to take it, but you must offer him or her the written prescription. Simply asking your patients whether they want their prescription is not sufficient. We found that many consumers had never seen a prescription for corrective eyewear, and thus were unaware that they could take that piece of paper and use it to comparison shop.

Q. What is the penalty for violating the Rule?
A. The penalty for violating the Rule is up to $10,000 per violation.

Q. How can I report violations of the Rule?
A. You can contact us directly in Washington, D.C. Our mailing address in Washington is: Eyeglasses TRR, Federal Trade Commission, Room 281, Washington, DC 20580

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the book of I Samuel intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times

DAVID AND SAUL

DAVID AND ABISHAI HAVE STOLEN INTO SAUL'S SLEEPING CAMP AND TAKEN THE KING'S OWN SPEAR AND WATER BOTTLE AND LEFT QUIETLY, NOW....

HOW EASILY WE COULD HAVE DONE GREAT HARM TO KING SAUL!

FROM THIS SAFE HEIGHT THEY CAN NOT REACH US!

HO, YE MEN OF ISRAEL! ANSWER ME, ABNER!

ABNER, CAPTAIN OF SAUL'S ARMY, AWAKES WITH A START!

ART THOU NOT A VALIANT MAN, ABNER?! THEN WHY HAST THOU NOT GUARDED THE LIFE OF THE KING BETTER THAN THIS?!

WHO ART THOU, THAT CRIEST OUT TO THE KING'S ARMY?!

Female Marine recruits at Paris Island, S.C. are taught many of the same combat skills as male recruits

Marine Women Combat Trained Questions About Role In War Arise From Basic

By Molly Moore
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. — The women of 4th Battalion are slithering through the black muck of a Carolina marsh. They inch their sopping bodies under coils of razor-sharp barbed wire. It rips their skin and claws at their fatigues. Blasts from explosions rain globs of mud on their heads, splattering into their eyes and oozing down their necks.

This is combat training, Marine Corps style. At the nation's most famous boot camp, female recruits train here for jobs they may never use. They slog through the muddy "infiltration" course, cough and gasp their way through gas-chamber training for chemical warfare and stalk the piney woods on patrols with M-16 rifles in search of "enemy" troops.

The Marine Corps calls the 11-week boot camp Basic Warrior Training — and it makes few distinctions between male and female recruits. Marine Commandant Alfred M. Gray has declared that his goal is "to ensure that all recruits, male and female, are equipped with basic combat skills to defend themselves in any situation."

But the Marines who conduct the training here say the warrior-skills program raises serious questions about the role of women in the military and the training they receive.

"There are hard questions to be answered about women's training," said Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Hoar, who headed the Parris Island Recruit Depot during the service's transition to its tough new Basic Warrior Training last year. "How much do you need to train women?"

The Marine Corps, with its front-line mission to be first on the scene in time of war, is the most restrictive service for women. Females comprise only 5 percent of the Corps.

Although most women in the Marines serve in traditional administrative, personnel or supply-system jobs, the rapidly changing technology of modern battlefields has shortened the distance between rear and front lines.

"In modern combat, the rear support areas will be hit first," said Lt. Sue Sawyer. "Here we teach women basic survival."

Sawyer said the training for women "boots" is tailored to be more defensive than offensive, keeping it within the blurred boundaries of the nation's laws that forbid women from serving in combat jobs.

Women don't participate in the extensive hand-to-hand combat training or pugilistic-stick exercises. They are not allowed to throw live grenades because the Marine Corps says most women don't have the arm strength needed to lob the grenades far enough to prevent them from exploding dangerously near the trainees. Tests of three groups of female recruits taken in 1987 found that 45 percent could not throw the grenades the 49 feet required to avoid the burst radius.

Even so, many of the women's training exercises are snapshots of war scenarios:

Private Patricia Parker, 19, of Detroit, who joined the Marine Corps because "the other services are too easy," is lying face down in the leaves and brambles, barely breathing. Her face is smeared with thick green and brown camouflage grease. Pine boughs and tree leaves sprout from her helmet and web belt. She is waiting, with other members of her platoon, to ambush an "enemy" unit moving through the woods.

As the early-morning mist burns off an open field, another platoon of female recruits is planting Claymore mines in knee-high weeds. Sgt. Melanie Henderson, 27, surveys the women she instructs in the "Mines and Booby Traps" course and chuckles at the difference in her own boot-camp training eight years ago. "We picked up the weapon, looked at it and passed it on. We were taught to be ladies."

According to Hoar, the training is far harder on women than men. He said the women seem more susceptible to rashes, vermin and insects of the field: "Things that bite you seem to like to chew on women recruits more." They suffer more injuries and seem to have greater problems adapting to life with limited hygiene facilities and no showers, Hoar said.

Private Lawanda Monroe, an 18 year old from Birmingham who defied her father ("He said females did not belong in the service") to join the Marines and live with the mosquitoes and sand fleas of the South Carolina marshes disagrees: "I love the field training — the idea of acting like males. It was totally motivating."

The Marine Corps has done no recent scientific studies examining the physical differences between men and women. Their experiences, however, have roughly paralleled the finding of some Army surveys. In one strength test, the Army found that although women in basic training improved their scores on strength tests to a greater degree than men (15 percent compared with the men's 8 percent), the males' strength was an average 45 percent greater than the women's. As a result, the Army estimated that only 8 percent of all female soldiers could physically qualify for jobs that require heavy lifting, in contrast to 72 percent of the men.

Met Soprano Says Next Role Is Motherhood

By Mary Campbell
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Metropolitan Opera soprano Dawn Upshaw's next production will be a baby.

She once watched a TV program in which baritone Robert Merrill interviewed renowned sopranos who have sung "Tosca" and recalls that several said they decided not to have children because it would interrupt their careers.

But Upshaw, who is married to musicologist Michael Nott, always wanted a family and is expecting her baby in November. "I think that has always been first and will always come first. I'm not really as eager to get out there to do as much as I can and sing in every country."

She thinks maybe in 10 years she'll even stop traveling to sing and start teaching.

Though her husband travels with her, visiting libraries and writing wherever they are, they're both ready to go home after six or seven weeks away from their apartment near Lincoln Center.

Without trying too hard to sing abroad, though, Upshaw receives engagements. She sang Pamina in "The Magic Flute" with the Netherlands Opera last fall and was engaged for her debut in Frankfurt and Vienna next fall, singing Pamina. "I'm glad to get to these two cities," Upshaw says. "They're important opera houses. It'll be easy traveling with a baby. I want to take advantage of traveling while it's easier."

Her last long performing trip was seven weeks in Aix-en-Provence, France, singing Despina in "Cosi fan tutti." She also sang Pamina, while six months pregnant.

"By that time I was feeling a fair amount of movement," she said. "At one point I was sort of thrown down on the floor as I was singing Pamina. I supported myself well with my hands on the way down. I had to lie there several seconds. The baby would always kick. 'Get off of me!'"

A month later she sang Susanna in "The Marriage of Figaro" at Wolftrap in Virginia.

"It's her wedding day. She's not supposed to be pregnant," Upshaw says. So the company padded her into general plumpness. In September she went to the Midwest to sing a concert with the Minnesota Orchestra, a recital at Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Ill., her alma mater, and at a friend's wedding.

After college, where she concentrated on concert and recital work more than opera, her teacher (and father of her now husband), David Nott, suggested she audition for New York voice teacher Ellen Faulk. She did and entered the Manhattan School of Music as a Faulk pupil.

"I still study with her. I can take anything to her that I'm concerned about and trust her opinion probably more than my own," Upshaw said.

Faulk's suggestion was that Upshaw enter the Metropolitan Opera Auditions for Young

DAWN UPSHAW

Singers so that one of the judges, who runs the Met's young artists development program, would hear her. The strategy worked. In the 1984-85 season, Upshaw was taken into the program, which yearly puts half a dozen fledgling singers on the Met stage in small roles, training them for major parts.

Upshaw's Met debut was as Countess Ceprano in "Rigoletto."

"She's a flirt who has about two lines. She flirts with the Duke a little bit in the opening scene. Then her husband comes in and she's sent home."

She sang five roles that season and remembers best one performance as the fifth serving woman in "Elektra."

"I loved that music," she said. "I had several pages by myself. It was really exciting." She was "covering" that part, meaning that she went on if the scheduled singer fell ill.

In her second season she sang Barbarina in "The Marriage of Figaro."

"That was an important step forward for me," Upshaw said. "She has a little aria by herself. There was more dramatic work on stage. It was really my first time spent with (Met artistic director) James Levine. I think, thanks to Barbarina, he had enough confidence in me to offer other interesting roles. He brought my singing to the public a little sooner than it would otherwise have been brought."

The biggest part she has had at the Met was the female lead, Adina, in "The Elixir of Love" two seasons ago.

"I was covering Kathy Battle for a run of four," Upshaw said. "She canceled all of them, the first one an hour before it began. I was singing a smaller part in the opera. I was leaving the apartment when I got a phone call saying she was sick and I would have to go on."

"I remember trying to switch gears to the lead. It was really terrifying. Some people thrive on that sort of thing. Their adrenaline gets going and they're very animated and comfortable. Not having ever walked on the set before that night, not having sung any bit of it with the orchestra — I don't want to do that again. I was not loose and carefree. I was definitely stiff and nervous."

"Everything turned out OK, especially by the third or fourth performance."

Distinguished Women Nominations Sought

Nominations are being sought for the seventh annual Distinguished Women of North Carolina Awards to be presented in the spring.

The awards recognize individual women whose contributions to the state or to the nation have had a significant impact upon the lives of citizens or who have attained outstanding levels of personal achievement in a particular field, according to Administration Secretary James S. Lofton.

The awards are sponsored by the N.C. Council on the Status of Women in the N.C. Department of Administration.

"I applaud the council for recognizing the talents and work of North Carolina women," Lofton said. "By singling out a few, the council brings honor to all North Carolina women."

Nomination deadline is Jan. 15, 1990.

Awards will be presented at a banquet to be held at the Raleigh

Marriott. March is Women's History Month.

Award winners will be selected by a committee of prominent North Carolinians appointed by the chairman of the Council on the Status of Women. All citizens of North Carolina are invited to nominate any individual woman who is a living, native-born North Carolinian, or who currently resides in the state.

For more information or nomination forms, call 733-2455 or write the Council on the Status of Women, 526 N. Wilmington St., Raleigh, N.C. 27604-1199.

Roddy McDowall's Photos Have Star Quality

By Charles Champlin
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

HOLLYWOOD — When he was in his mid-teens, Roddy McDowall started taking pictures of his friends. Now it is a minor source of anguish to him that he didn't start even sooner, because most of his friends were classic figures in Hollywood history and too many of them had slipped forever into history before his lens found them.

McDowall had begun acting in movies in Britain when he was only 10. He came to Hollywood in 1941, fleeing the Blitz. That year "How Green Was My Valley" made him a child star. "My Friend Flicka" and "Lassie Come Home," with his young friend Elizabeth Taylor, confirmed his star status in 1943.

He started organizing and saving his portraits in 1947, when he was negotiating that difficult but, in his case, eminently successful journey out of child roles and into adulthood. He was Malcolm in Orson Welles' 1948 filming of "Macbeth." He left Hollywood for Broadway and roles in "No Time for Sergeants" and other successes.

"I read somewhere — this was in the '60s," McDowall said the other day, "that John Gielgud had written a fan letter to Ethel Merman. And I thought, 'Wow! What a fascinating pair of opposites.'"

The notion became a 1968 book called "Double Exposure," McDowall's portraits with an appreciative text by another star.

"Louise Brooks wrote about Buster Keaton. Anita Loos wrote about Brooks. Kate Hepburn wrote about Lauren Bacall. Henry Miller wrote about Jennifer Jones. Noel Coward wrote about Larry Olivier, and so on. It was lovely fun," he said.

Now McDowall has published "Double Exposure II," sized for the larger coffee tables (Morrow; $60; 272 pages). The juxtapositions are once again amusing and often fascinating.

Fred Astaire, whom McDowall photographed in Siena, Italy, in 1968 when they were shooting "Midas Run," gets an admiring paragraph from Mikhail Baryshnikov, who says, "When I first saw Astaire's movies, it was very discouraging. I thought everybody in America was that good, and I felt, 'You're never gonna dance, kid.'"

Tom Cruise gets a funny, free-form tribute from Paul Newman: "A cornucopia of contradiction. ... Has the acting courage of a gorilla. No inhibitions. ... The rascal is everywhere."

"I tell them," McDowall says, "anything from one line to three pages. No parameters beyond that." The subjects don't get to read the text; the writers seldom see the photographs ahead of time, although Mitchum saw and responded to a shot of Henry Hathaway standing in a graveyard location for "Five Card Stud" in Durango, Mexico, in 1968. Mitchum and McDowall were both in the film.

Hathaway is wearing a white hat. Out of uniform, Mitchum wrote: "Off the set he wore the white hat of compassion, geniality and true, honest generosity. The moment he walked on the set, chewing his cigar, breathing fire, he donned the black hat of Simon Legree, lashing out at incompetence, inattention, and rigidly intolerant of any effort which fell short of his own total dedication."

The earliest of the 116 portraits is of Elizabeth Taylor as a 17-year-old in 1949, smiling sweetly into the camera and looking like a Midwestern prom queen. The tribute is by Ava Gardner: "Elizabeth's beauty doesn't come from the shape of her face or nose or mouth or even those magnificent eyes, it comes from an inner strength and energy that very few people are blessed with."

In a 1981 portrait, Bette Davis seems to have been caught in mid-sentence, holding to her chest a pillow that reads, "Old Age Ain't for Sissies." "The brave, extravagant, willful and vulnerable souls she has fashioned carry an echo," Robert Wagner writes. "They have had an enormous influence on our society."

There are appreciations as well of Billy Wilder by David Hockney, Jean Arthur by Wilder, Mae West by Ringo Starr, Vivien Leigh by John Gielgud, Vincent Price by Deanna Durbin, Andre Previn charmingly revealed as a book lover by Tom Stoppard.

It's an imaginative collation and McDowall's portraits are artful and unforced, leaving no doubt that what was sought was the truth of the subject rather than a clever image.

Cuddington-Batts Couple Are Wed

KINSTON — Donna Casey Batts and Gerald Brody Cuddington were married at 7 p.m. Saturday in a double-ring ceremony conducted by Jimmy Sowers in the courtyard at Harmony Hall Historical Place.

Parents of the bride are Peggy B. Casey and the late Bobby L. Casey, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Cuddington, all of Grifton.

The bride was escorted by her brothers, Jimmy Casey and Mike Casey. The maid of honor was Casey S. Batts of Grifton, daughter of the bride, and the matron of honor was LaDonna Minges of Kinston. Bridesmaids included Debbie Edwards of Grifton and Jessica Casey of Clayton, niece of the bride.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers included Timmy Cuddington of Norfolk, Va., brother of the bridegroom; Jimmy Casey of Clayton and Mike Casey of Summerville, S.C., brothers of the bride; David Casey of Clayton, nephew of the bride, and Roger Carraway and Don Johnson, both of Grifton.

Harpist Ruth Moskop presented wedding music.

The bride wore an ivory semi-cathedral length satin gown with a sabrina neckline trimmed with iridescent sequins and pearls. Renaissance sleeves with lattice design and fitted basque waistline, which flowed into an A-line skirt beaded with sequin applique. Lace cut-outs with sequins trimmed the train. She wore a floral design headpiece attached to a shoulder-length illusion pouf and carried a cascade of ivory roses and stargazer lilies accented by netting, pearl and bridal streamers.

Bridesmaids wore light blue taffeta gowns.

The couple will live in Grifton after a wedding trip to the Outer Banks.

The bride graduated from North Lenoir High School and is attending East Carolina University. She is employed by Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom is employed by Venters Ford in Ayden.

A reception was held at Harmony Hall Historical Place and was given by the bride's mother.

Several miscellaneous bridal showers, a bachelorette party for the bride, a bridesmaids luncheon and a rehearsal dinner and party honored the bride and bridegroom prior to their wedding.

Wheelchair-Bound Minister Campaigns For Mission In Infamous Neighborhood

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ELBERTA, Ga. — On Houston County's Long Street, shotgun houses stand side-by-side with litter-strewn lots. A drive-through drug trade was once so pervasive here that a county commissioner suggested digging a trench across the street.

But for the Rev. Julia Cornelius, a 52-year-old minister, who lives in the neighborhood, Long Street is better suited for dreams than ditches.

"This is exactly where the church needs to be," said Ms. Cornelius. "A lot of churches have plush seats and millions of dollars in the bank, but places like Long Street are where people really are in need."

Ms. Cornelius' dream — to build a mission and food bank that will shelter displaced families and transients — moved a step closer to reality when the Houston County Commission approved a rezoning change that allows Ms. Cornelius and her International Bread of Life Church

Mission to build on Dunbar Road behind Long Street.

The 45-room emergency shelter would become only the second such facility in Middle Georgia — not counting a 13-bed mission the Bread of Life congregation now operates on Vickie Drive in Warner Robins. But Ms. Cornelius acknowledges that the easy work is behind her.

"Raising the funds is whole different subject," she said, estimating it will cost at least $100,000 to build the planned shelter. Many in Houston County think that Ms. Cornelius can do it.

"She is such a strong figure and she goes after what she wants," said Dr. Debra Wilson, an Elberta dentist who has known the minister for several years. "She has the ability to inspire people, and that's what it takes."

So far, the planned shelter has spurred no known opposition from Elberta property owners, according to Wilson and county officials interviewed. In contrast, property owners five years ago blocked the church's original proposal to build the shelter on land it owns in south Bibb County, Ms. Cornelius said.

"I told them it wasn't a 'halfway house,' it was an emergency house for people that have been displaced ... but no one would listen," said Ms. Cornelius, who has been confined to a wheelchair for the last seven years because of heart disease and other ailments.

Ms. Cornelius, a Macon native, said she became interested in missionary work when she was a paralegal for Georgia Legal Services, learning the housing problems of the poor and elderly.

"It really grieved me, because people were about to be evicted or their lights cut off, and there was no one there to help," she said.

So in 1980, Ms. Cornelius and two friends held a bake sale in 1980 to found the nondenominational "church with a mission." For the last three years, that mission has been housing up to 13 people nightly in a brick two-bedroom house on Vickie Drive near Georgia 247.

Better Give Him The Boot, Granny

Dear Abby: My 33-year-old grandson (I'll call him "John") was divorced two years ago, so he came to live with me for free. I am a widow, living on a small pension and my Social Security.

John is a sweet and lovable lad, but he is a little on the lazy side. He refuses to carry out the trash, clear the table after his meals or make his own bed. He is immaculate about himself, taking two or three showers a day. I do all his laundry and even shine his shoes, and I must say he is a fine looking young man and a spiffy dresser.

He makes good money, but he spends it all on clothes and going out. His parents live in the city, but he doesn't get along very well with them and prefers to live with me.

I am not in the best of health and am getting a little weary. I love this lad, but my health is not too good and looking after him is quite a

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

chore. What do you suggest? — Worn-Out Granny

Dear Worn Out: I suggest that you quit pampering this "sweet, lovable" lad. He's 33, and it's time he became a man. You are encouraging, indeed contributing, to his selfishness by making no demands on him.

Hear me, Granny: Boot this full-grown bird out of the nest; he'll never learn to fly unless he has to.

Dear Abby: I have a problem, as do most people who write to you. My problem concerns my mother and my girlfriend. "Theresa" (my girlfriend) is 16, and she's a very nice girl. She is intelligent, fun to be with and beautiful besides. I like her very much, and I feel so good when I'm with her that it's hard to explain.

Now for my problem: Theresa's parents aren't the best in the world. Her father drinks quite a bit, and her mother is a heavy drinker and a "tramp," to quote my mother. Now my mother says Theresa is the same as her mother, and I should try to find a "nice girl to date." Well, I've looked, and I'd rather have Theresa.

I'll be 18 soon, which I think is old enough to know a nice girl from a tramp. I'm still living at home, but I'd move if I could support myself. I'm working, but don't make enough to be on my own.

In case you're wondering if Theresa feels the same about me, the answer is yes.

I guess what I really want to know is this: Is it fair to judge a person by the way her parents act? In my heart I know it isn't, but I just need to hear it from you. — In Love In Oklahoma

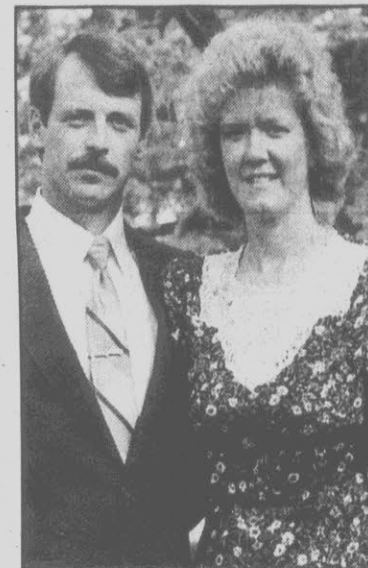

Dear In Love: The answer that's in your heart is in my head. No, it isn't fair. Everyone should be judged by his or her own behavior.

Dear Abby: Just read your letter "From Wahoo, Neb." in which you explain the flower-over-the-ear signal.

As a native-born Hawaiian, here's the true meaning of flower placement: If a girl wears a flower over her left ear, it means she is spoken for. (Same side as her heart — which is the reason why wedding rings are worn on the left hand.)

If the flower is worn over the right ear, it means the girl is available or unattached.

A flower worn on the back of the head means "Follow me." A flower on top of the head means "Married, but will fool around." — Lovely Hula Hands In Maui

Homecoming Starts

Saturday's homecoming alumni schedule includes:

- The traditional coffee hour and open house at Taylor/Slaughter Alumni Center on East Fifth Street.
- The Chancellor's Awards Luncheon and Reception at 11 a.m. Saturday in Mendenhall Student Center. Recipients of the annual ECU Outstanding Alumni Awards will be recognized. All alumni are invited to attend the luncheon, tickets are $10 each.
- A post-game football alumni social at the Hilton Inn from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The East Carolina Teachers College (ECTC) Club will present three $1,000 scholarships at its annual meeting set from 7 p.m. to midnight Saturday at the Ramada Inn. The club is comprised of alumni who attended East Carolina prior to 1952.

Further information on homecoming weekend events is available from the ECU Alumni Association, Taylor/Slaughter Alumni Center, at ECU.

Success Stories

The vast majority of people didn't panic. Instead, they comforted and helped each other, taking in neighbors and strangers.

The quake created heroes, from a surgeon who rescued a child trapped on the collapsed Interstate 880 freeway to the thousands who worked round the clock coping with the crisis.

"If this was a test of the San Francisco Bay area's ability to respond to a major earthquake, we got an 'A,'" says Steven Levy, director of the Palo Alto-based Center for Continuing Study of the California Economy.

"There are more than 6 million people in the Bay area and a couple of hundred people died," Levy said Thursday, two days after the quake. "It's horrible for the families of victims and traumatic for everyone, but it's not in the realm of a regional economic disaster."

Certainly, there were failures and lessons to be learned.

Commuters trapped in a Bay Area Rapid Transit train beneath the bay when power went out complained they weren't given enough information by BART officials about the quake.

The San Francisco Fire Department said it was understaffed and stretched to the limit in fighting blazes. Mayor Art Agnos said he was "ticked off" that Vice President Dan Quayle failed to consult with him during a tour of city.

And questions continue about why I-880 crumbled and why a section of the Bay Bridge fell like a trap door.

Seen from a helicopter, though, San Francisco and Oakland remain remarkably intact. The towers of steel, concrete and glass in both cities stand tall in defiance of a jolt that sent shock waves 750 miles up and down the coast and eastward through the Central Valley and Sierra Nevada.

"It speaks a lot for the design code of modern buildings and the preparedness of California that there wasn't more damage," said George Lee, acting director of the National Center for Earthquake Engineering Research at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Pirates Host Virginia Tech At Homecoming

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

In East Carolina's last two outings, the Pirates have struggled in their ground attack.

Three weeks ago, against Louisiana Tech, the Pirates managed only 94 yards rushing. Two weeks ago against South Carolina, they got only 72.

This Saturday, after an open date last weekend, the Pirates entertain Virginia Tech in a 2 p.m. Homecoming game in Ficklen Stadium.

And Tech brings in one of the country's top defensive units, allowing only 90.3 yards a game on the ground.

Tech stands 11th nationally against the rush, and is ninth overall in defense, giving up 249.8 yards a game. In its last two games, Tech went up against two of the nation's top offensive machines, too, West Virginia and Florida State.

The Hokies upset the Mountaineers, 12-10, but succumbed to the Seminoles, 41-7. FSU and West Virginia rank 10th and 16th, respectively, in total offense.

"I've got a lot of admiration for (Tech coach) Frank Beamer and what he's done for their program," ECU head coach Bill Lewis said. "They've struggled through two difficult seasons, but they have a solid football team now.

Cam Young

"They were at their very best in a tie against South Carolina and the win at West Virginia."

Lewis said that watching Tech is very much like watching Kentucky, where former Tech coach Jerry Claiborne is the head coach.

Beamer played under Claiborne at Tech, a quarterback who became a defensive back and "was an overachiever," Lewis pointed out.

"He built an outstanding program at Murray State (before coming to Tech)."

Tech, according to Lewis, is a very physical team, especially on defense.

"Their offense is somewhat conservative, but they don't do anything to get them hurt," Lewis said. "At West Virginia, they played great defense, kicked four field goals and made (quarterback Major) Harris look like any other player. They soundly defeated them. They were in control of all phases of the game."

People have had trouble mounting a rushing attack against them.

"Florida State just abandoned the running game," Lewis said. "West Virginia tried to do the same thing and failed."

Leading the defense is All-America candidate Scott Hill, a 6-3, 276-pound senior tackle. But Lewis is convinced that his running mate Bryan Campbell, a 6-0, 256-pound sophomore, is an outstanding player, too. He also likes the looks of defensive ends Al Chamblee (6-1, 245, Jr.) and Jimmy Whitten (6-3, 263, Jr.).

"Their linebackers, (Sean) Lucas and (Bobby) Martin, both run like defensive backs and have the strength of linebackers. They play with reckless abandon," Lewis said.

Lewis rates the secondary as fast, talented and experienced, led by safety Damien Russell.

Tech's offense has been somewhat hobbled by injuries to starting quarterback Will Furrer, and tailback Jon Jeffries. But Lewis feels that their replacements, N.C. State transfer Cam Young at quarterback, and freshmen Tony Kennedy and Vaughn Hebron at

Kulwicki Takes AC Delco Pole

ROCKINGHAM (AP) — Alan Kulwicki will be at the pole for this weekend's AC Delco 500 stock car race at the North Carolina Motor Speedway as he tries to win his first race of the season.

But Winston Cup points leader Rusty Wallace fell victim to a light drizzle and failed to qualify. But he'll have another chance Friday when positions 21-40 are determined for Sunday's race.

Kulwicki, of Charlotte, won the pole Thursday with a speed of 148.624 mph in his Ford.

"That was a real good lap, not quite perfect but pretty darn good," said Kulwicki, who along with other drivers had to wait an extra half-hour for the track to dry. "We've run really fast in practice and then right at the end we hadn't run quite as quick."

"It was drizzling a bit and that probably hurt my confidence a little bit but I knew the track was in condition and I drove ... down in there and it stuck," he said.

Wallace, who leads Dale Earnhardt by 37 points in the driver's championship race, had a speed of 145.257 mph and finished 21st — out of the picture in first-day qualifying.

"I am very disappointed. I was trying way too hard," Wallace said. "It is tough for me on the radials because it doesn't fit my driving style. We were loose in turn two. We are not pleased with what has happened."

Wallace won the Goodwrench 500 on this track in March.

It appeared Larry Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., would hold the pole position with a speed of 147.999. But Pearson will start third behind Kulwicki and Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn.

Waltrip, who has won six races this season, turned in a speed of 148.257 mph in his Chevrolet.

The rest of the top 10 included Bill Elliott, Earnhardt, Derrike Cope, Mark Martin, Ricky Rudd, Ken Schrader and Sterling Marlin.

Mark Martin returned to the scene of his first success in NASCAR racing to capture the pole position for Saturday's AC Delco 200 NASCAR Busch Grand National Series race at North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Meanwhile, the five drivers locked in a battle for the Grand National Series championship all earned starting positions in the top 20 during Thursday's qualifying for Saturday's race.

Martin won his first NASCAR pole at the 1.017-mile track in 1981. On Thursday he toured the track at 144.187 mph in a Ford to win the pole for Saturday's $92,623 race.

Rick Mast earned the second starting spot with a lap of $143.847 mph in a Buick, followed by series point leader Rob Moroso and Harry Gant. Darrell Waltrip qualified fifth.

Series Has Lost Its Excitement

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — The anguish is clear on the faces and in the words of the Giants and Athletics. A World Series of triumph will be remembered for tragedy.

While San Francisco and Oakland began the massive recovery from the Bay area's worst earthquake since 1906, the Giants and A's tried to think about baseball.

It was just about impossible for most.

"Probably no one wants to play right away. To be truthful, it's not going to be exciting," Oakland first baseman Mark McGwire said. "We'll play the game, but it won't be the same. If they asked us to play today, I couldn't."

The A's and Giants were not asked to play on Thursday. They were asked to work out while engineers inspected Candlestick Park and the Oakland Coliseum.

The quake hit at 5:04 p.m. PDT on Tuesday, while the players warmed up at Candlestick for Game 3.

On Thursday, the Giants were back and the crack of the bat was mixed with the rattle of a jack hammer.

Some expansion joints broke loose during the quake, resulting in some bits of cement breaking free.

But on the field, the Giants were back to work.

"This is my job, this is what I do. But it's not the best of circumstances," first baseman Will Clark said. "Nobody will feel comfortable until we play."

Commissioner Fay Vincent would like to resume the World Series at Candlestick Park on Tuesday. But he will do so only if the Bay area is ready.

During a news conference on Thursday, Vincent said minor repairs are being made at Candlestick and would be inspected by city officials on Monday.

"In order to play, we will need certification from the city," Vincent

Players Want Series To Continue

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — The Oakland Athletics and the San Francisco Giants want the World Series to go on and they want it to be played in the Bay area.

Twenty-one of Oakland's 24 players were surveyed by The Associated Press on Thursday, and all agreed with Commissioner Fay Vincent's decision to resume the World Series. Twenty-one of San Francisco's 27 players were surveyed by the AP, and Pat Sheridan was the only one who would have rather called it off.

"At one time or another, these games are going to be played and we as professionals are going to have to play the best we can," Oakland's Walt Weiss said.

The A's practiced in the Coliseum Thursday and the Giants played an intrasquad game in Candlestick Park, where an earthquake struck Tuesday about 30 minutes before the scheduled start of Game 3. Scores were killed in the Bay area but there were no deaths at the ballpark and few injuries.

"If you listen to the news accounts, they make it sound like the Bay cracked open and everything slid in," Giants pitcher Mike LaCoss said. "Yeah, there've been some deaths and some losses. But you have to pick up the pieces and start over again."

Vincent said baseball would wait until at least Tuesday because he didn't want "our modest game to intrude upon the community." Most players agreed with that.

"I think it's all right to wait seven days," Mickey Brantley of the Giants said. "It's hard to seem caring if you start right away."

There had been some thought that the games should be moved to another city. Players didn't like that idea and neither did Donald Fehr, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

"Nobody wants to cancel the Series unless it's unavoidable," he said. "It's a matter of waiting things out."

Sheridan expressed the lone dissent to the decision to go on.

"What would I do if it were my decision?" he said. "I probably would have gotten on the plane last night with my wife."

His wife, Melanie, left Wednesday and returned to their home at Farmington, Mich.

Mark McGwire said it was difficult for him to go on.

"To be truthful, it's not going to be exciting," the A's first baseman said. "We'll play the game, but it won't be the same. Nobody wants to play it now. I wouldn't play if they asked me, today. We're not in the mood to play baseball."

McGwire and others also agreed with the decision to keep the World Series in the Bay area.

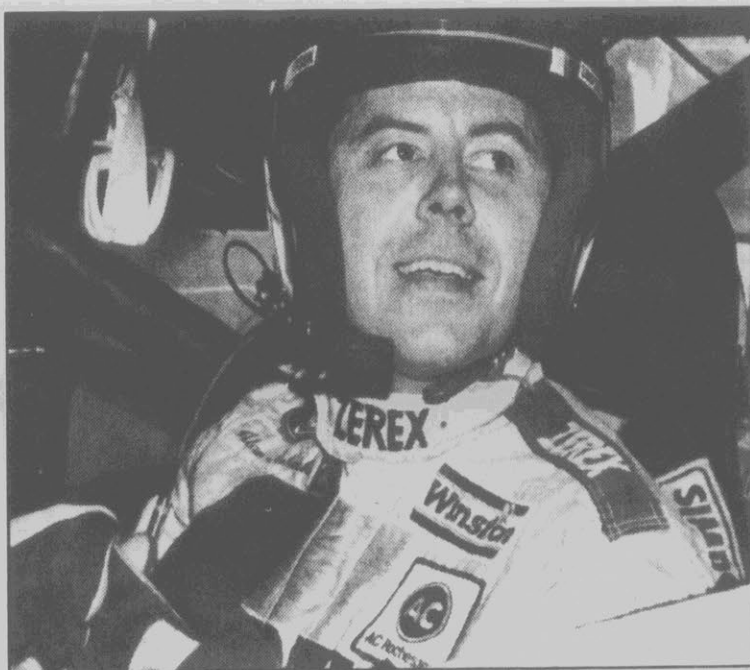

"I don't know if it's in good taste, but if not here — nowhere," said Dave Stewart of the A's, the winning pitcher in Game 1.

"I don't think that was a real alternative," the Giants' Brett Butler said of suggestions that the Series be shifted to San Diego or Los Angeles.

Will Clark said continuation of the Series might help people's spirits during the recovery period.

"The fans here have supported these two teams," the Giants first baseman said. "They catch a glimmer of the World Series and then to take it away from them wouldn't be fair."

Chris Christopher Opts For Auburn

By Tom Morris
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Rose's Chris Christopher wanted to be able to relax and enjoy his senior season of baseball, and the best way to do that was to make a decision now.

Christopher announced his intention to play baseball for Auburn Monday night after a meeting with Tiger assistant coach Billy Best, a former East Carolina assistant.

"Basically I've looked at two guys in the last year, David Leisten (now playing at ECU) and Timmy Moore (currently under contract with the Minnesota Twins organization), who had kind of a rough year worrying about it," Christopher said.

"I wanted to go ahead and get mine out of the way. I don't think I could have made a better choice."

Christopher batted .472 as a sophomore on a Rose team that advanced to the state 4-A finals. Last year, he hit .400 as the Rampants advanced to the Eastern semifinals.

"Chris had indicated he wanted to sign early," Rose coach Ronald Vincent said. "He was impressed with his recruiting visit. I'm very proud having somebody from our program go to Auburn. There's no doubt in my mind he can play at that level."

Christopher, who began attending ECU's baseball camp as a youngster, has known Auburn baseball coach Hal Baird from his days as Pirates' head coach from 1980-84.

Best, who only recently joined the Auburn staff, kept a close eye on Christopher from the time he joined the Rose varsity as a sophomore.

"Both of them are East Carolina people," Christopher said. "Their techniques of hitting and fielding are just like mine. That's what they've taught me. I think it will be pretty easy picking up on the game."

Christopher made his recruiting visit to Auburn Sept. 14 and watched the Tiger football team play Louisiana State.

"I loved it," he said. "It was all my kind of people. Every aspect regarding baseball and education, it was all there."

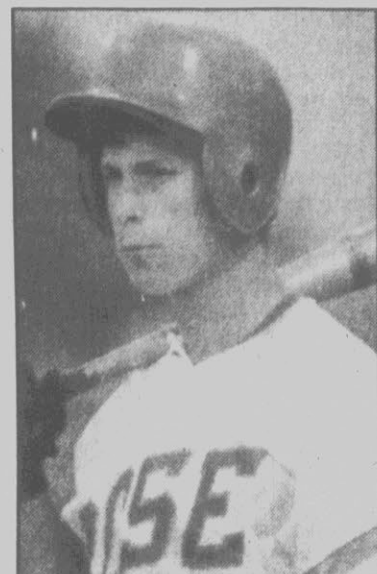

"I stayed with all the players. All of them are kind of country guys like I am."

North Carolina, North Carolina State, Davidson, Clemson, Duke and Vanderbilt were other schools that showed interest in Christopher and asked him to come for visits.

"It was a very hard decision, especially with Carolina because they stuck with me for a long time," Christopher said.

"It was pretty weird. It was a hard decision. I had a lot of schools talking to me. Carolina stuck with me for about six months, sending me letters and coach (Mike) Roberts was coming down to talk to me, offering me more (scholarship) money. He was kind of upset that I made my decision right away."

The next baseball action for Christopher comes in December

Chris Christopher

when he will join Rose teammates Matt Aldridge and Heath Clark on a North Carolina All-Star team that will travel to Australia.

Sports Notes

Conley Wins Eastern Title, Berth In Finals

GRAHAM — D.H. Conley rallied for key wins in games four and five to hold off Southern Alamance, 3-2, and claim the Eastern 3-A Volleyball championship Thursday and a berth in the state finals.

The Valkyries, 28-1, make their second trip to Carmichael Auditorium in Chapel Hill for the state finals. They will face West Henderson in the championship, to be played Oct. 28.

"We're excited and a little bit numb," Conley coach Martha McCaskill said. "I don't think it's sunk in. The kids responded well. We struggled at times and a lot had to do with the (crowd) noise. I think it did shake them up. Despite all that, we were able to win. It was quite a thrill."

Southern Alamance came out strong in the first game and took a 15-7 win. Conley rallied in the second game, behind nine straight service points by Nikki Adams, to claim a 15-6 win.

Southern Alamance came back to hand Conley a 15-8 defeat in game three as the Valkyries suffered through three net serves.

In the fourth and pivotal game, Southern Alamance broke a 9-9 tie and held a brief 12-9 advantage before Conley rallied to score six straight points and earn a 15-13 win.

Conley's Darvetta Patrick used a five-point service string to key the Valkyries to a 15-2 win in the fifth and deciding game.

Blackerby Will Kick For ECU

East Carolina freshman place-kicker Joel Blackerby will handle the field goal and extra point duties Saturday against Virginia Tech, Pirate coaches announced Thursday.

Blackerby takes over for junior Robb Imperato, who had hit on three of seven field goal attempts over the first five games of the season, the longest being a 36-yarder.

Imperato, who was good on 18-19 extra-point attempts this year, will still handle the kickoffs against Virginia Tech.

Blackerby, a Marietta, Ga. native, hit on 24-33 field goals in his prep career and was The Atlanta Journal-Constitution All-State place-kicker as a senior.

In other ECU football notes, defensive lineman Mike Applewhite, who had seen action at nose guard in recent weeks, will start at defensive tackle against the Hokies. Greg Gardill will start at nose guard.

With linebacker George Koonce doubtful for the game Saturday, former Rose standout Adrian Barnhill will likely get the start alongside Robert Jones.

Wide receiver Walter Wilson is listed as probable, but Hunter Gallimore is likely to get the start.

Strong safety Derrick Fields, the leading tackler in the secondary, is listed as probable for the Virginia Tech game, but he is still hampered by a elbow injury.

PCC Co-Ed Volleyball Sweeps Pair

JACKSONVILLE — The Pitt Community College co-ed volleyball team raised its record to 4-0 with a pair of wins in a tri-meet with Carteret Tech and host Coastal Carolina Wednesday.

PCC outlasted Coastal 16-14, 13-15, 15-12 then eased by Carteret Tech 15-12, 15-6.

Susie Stancil collected 21 service points, Jennifer Vick had 17 and Kyle Jarman four in the opening match. Jarman also added six kills.

Against Carteret Tech, Stancil had eight service points and four assists, Jill Francis had eight service points, Chris May had seven service points, Jarman collected three kills, Charles Doak two and Craig Harrell one.

Ayden Extends Streak; Aycock Wins

Andrell Roundtree rushed for 187 yards on 12 carries and Richard Stewart added 103 yards on nine carries as Ayden rolled to a 40-16 middle school football win over Farmville Thursday afternoon.

Ayden improved to 4-0 this season and has now won 16 consecutive games.

Roundtree scored on runs of 52, 45 and 37 yards and added a pair of two-point conversions. Stewart had a 70-yard dash for a touchdown and returned an interception 74 yards.

Brian Crandall accounted for Ayden's other score with a 17-yard run. Alico Dunk ran in a two-point conversion.

Farmville scored on a 70-yard kickoff return and a 10-yard pass in the fourth period.

E.B. Aycock rolled up a 26-6 victory over New Bern's J.T. Barber in junior high football action Thursday.

Germain Reed scored three times, on runs of six, one and 70 yards to lead the way. Shawn Moore picked up the other score in the second period on a 25-yard interception return to give Aycock the lead for good. Montez Barrett scored a two-point conversion after Reed's second score in the third period.

Aycock will entertain Hunt on Thursday.

Roanoke Nips Conley In Tennis

Roanoke High School swept the three doubles matches and pulled out a 5-4 victory over D.H. Conley in tennis Thursday.

The match was the final regular season one for both teams. Conley, 6-6, will enter the 3-A regionals at Wilson Wednesday, while Roanoke, 11-3, will enter the 1-A/2-A regionals at Roanoke Rapids, also on Wednesday.

Roanoke 5, Conley 4
Singles: Dawn Briley (R) d. Nicole Bloodworth, 6-3, 6-3; Heather Merrill (C) d. Rhonda Bailey, 6-4, 6-2; Jenni Bradburn (C) d. Shannon Warren, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3; Gail Lilley (C) d. Michell Roberson, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5; Cindy Powell (R) d. Julie Bradburn, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4; Katherin Steiner (C) d. Krista Ayers, 6-1, 6-2.
Doubles: Briley-Ayers (R) d. Bloodworth-Je. Bradburn, 9-7; Powell-Roberson (R) d. Lilley-Merrill, 8-6; Warren-Bailey (R) d. Ju. Bradburn-Vanessa Small, 8-3.

Gold Teams Capture Swim Meet

East Carolina University's swimming teams held their annual Purple-Gold meet Thursday, and the Gold came away with victories in both the men's and women's events.

The Gold won the men's meet, 99-93, while the Gold women took a 108-80 victory.

Only one new school record was set during the men's meet. George Walters captured the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:26.00.

In the women's meet, four new marks were set. Meredith Bridgers set a new mark in the 200-yard breaststroke with a time of 2:25.10 while Jennifer Muench surpassed the 200-yard butterfly record with a time of 2:12.41.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Julie Wilhelm, Carolyn Green, Linda Smith and Leslie Wilson put together a 3:51.6 to snap that record, while the 400-yard medley relay team of Wendy Smith, Bridgers, Robin Wicks and Page Holt broke that record with a 4:11.30 time.

Rose, Northeastern Play To A Tie

ELIZABETH CITY — Rose High School's soccer team kept its hopes for a sixth straight Big East title alive with a 2-2 overtime tie against Northeastern Thursday.

Rose clings to first with a 7-1-2 record while Fike, which lost to Northeastern Wednesday, is second at 6-2-1. Northeastern stands third at 7-3-1.

Northeastern took the lead seven minutes into the match on a goal by Kiley Hanford, but moments later Jason Bizzaro tied it up with an unassisted goal. It remained 1-1 throughout the remainder of regulation time, despite both teams having numerous opportunities.

Northeastern struck first in the overtime as Hanford converted a penalty kick. But Roger Kramer came back off an assist by Toure Claibourne with just 80 seconds left, forcing the tie.

"They came ready to play today," Rose coach Charlie Harvey said, "and played hard the whole 100 minutes. We still have to beat Fike, though."

Harvey praised the defensive work of Bert Powell, who contained the high-scoring Hanford.

Rose closes out its regular season with two home matches next week. The Rampants host Fike on Tuesday and Rocky Mount on Thursday, both at 4:30 p.m.

ECU Men 9th, Women 5th In State Run

WILMINGTON — East Carolina's men took ninth place and the Lady Pirates won fifth in the North Carolina State Cross Country Championships held at UNC-Wilmington Thursday.

In the men's run, Brevard took first place with 31 points while UNCW was second with 60. ECU finished the 11-team meet with 229 points.

Appalachian State took first in the women's meet with 37 points while Duke was second with 65. ECU finished with 108 points. A total of 12 teams participated in the women's event.

Jaguars Still Atop Rankings

Undefeated Farmville Central secured its position atop The Daily Reflector Top 12 prep football poll with a 20-14 triumph over East Carteret last week, but three more unbeaten are hot on the Jaguars' heels.

The Jaguars, ranked No. 1 for the third straight week, climbed to 7-0 and received all three first-place votes. They face a crucial Eastern Plains Conference test tonight when Greene Central invades.

Wilson Hunt (7-0), West Craven (7-0) and Northampton East (6-0) all picked up wins last week and are ranked second through fourth, respectively.

D.H. Conley climbed to fifth this week, followed by Bertie, Rose, Greene Central, Washington, Northern Nash, North Edgecombe and Havelock.

The poll ranks teams from the Big East, Coastal, Colonial, Northeastern, Eastern Plains and Tobacco Belt conferences without regard to classification.

The Top 12

• Farmville Central: The Jaguar offense managed only one touchdown last week, but Rasel Daniels and Morris Foreman returned fumbles for scores as the Jaguars nipped East Carteret.

• Wilson Hunt: Terris Hale again keyed the big-play Warriors as they won a showdown for first place in the Big East Conference with Elizabeth City Northeastern, 10-7. They visit arch-rival Wilson Fike tonight.

• West Craven: Lee Becton carried the ball only eight times, but he rambled for 170 yards and scored five touchdowns as the Eagles pummeled Pender County 67-6. They host White Oak tonight.

• Northampton East: David Perry erupted for 352 yard rushing and scored four touchdowns as the Rams outgunned Plymouth 41-27. They visit Williamston tonight.

• D.H. Conley: Scott Seymour rushed for a pair of touchdowns and completed six of eight passes for 74 yards as the Vikings blanked White Oak 17-0. They host West Carteret tonight.

• Bertie: The Falcons edged Washington 12-6 behind a 169-yard rushing, two-touchdown performance from Tracy Leary. They exit the Colonial Conference tonight to visit Jones Senior.

• Rose: The Rampants had an open date last week. They seek to stay in the Big East Conference playoff race tonight against Northeastern.

• Greene Central: The Rams' backfield duo of Timmy Wilkes and John Dixon each eclipsed the 100-yard mark as the Rams tamed

Pamlico County 32-0. They visit Farmville Central tonight.

• Washington: The Pam Pack's upset bid fell short against Bertie. They travel to Tarboro tonight.

• Northern Nash: Robbie Williams' 15-yard pass just before halftime helped the Knights rally from a 12-0 deficit to trim Rocky Mount 20-18. They have an open date tonight.

• North Edgecombe: Orlando Whitaker ran for one touchdown and threw for another as the Warriors clipped Roanoke 13-6. They host Jamesville tonight.

• Havelock: Silas George's 4-yard run was the only score the Rams could muster in slipping past North Lenoir 6-0. They have an open date tonight.

	Rec	Pts.
1. Farmville Central	7-0	36

Gamesmanship Starts For ND-USC

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Notre Dame-Southern Cal game isn't until Saturday. The gamesmanship has already begun.

Coch Lou Holtz of No. 1 Notre Dame wants more than a victory on Saturday when ninth-ranked Southern Cal visits South Bend. He'd like a little respect.

Holtz felt that USC coach Larry Smith was lacking in some, uh, respects following last year's game in which the Trojans outgained the Irish 356 yards to 253 but lost where it counts — on the scoreboard, 27-10.

"Since I've been here, especially since we've been winning at Notre Dame, it seems like the opposing team very seldom gives us much credit. If (Smith) feels that way, that's his business," said linebacker Ned Bolcar, adding that Holtz reminded his troops of what Smith allegedly said.

Smith was as surprised by that as he was by Notre Dame's decisive victory a year ago.

"I don't know where that came from, and I don't know if somebody's trying to make a war out of it," he said. "I think I said we won the stat battle but we didn't win the game. Anybody that looked at the game statistically, we had the best stats. But the only stat that's important — we all know what that is — is the score. I think Notre Dame deserved to win the game. I said that."

Notre Dame went on to capture the national championship and Holtz said the Irish "are as good as we were last year, and he didn't have a lot of respect after the game last year."

Smith has plenty of respect this time. "This Notre Dame team may be the best in 20 years," he said. "By far this Notre Dame team is the best college team I've ever seen. To beat them, we'll have to play the best game our school has ever seen its team play. This is the biggest challenge in my coaching career."

Saturday's schedule lists three other games between members of the Top 25 — No. 6 Tennessee vs. No. 10 Alabama at Birmingham, No. 11 Auburn at No. 14 Florida State and No. 22 Arizona at No. 15 Washington State.

Rounding out the Top Ten, third-ranked Colorado entertains Kansas, No. 4 Nebraska visits Oklahoma State, No. 5 Michigan is at Iowa and Texas is at No. 7 Arkansas. Second-ranked Miami and No. 8 Pitt are idle, as is No. 17 Penn State.

Elsewhere, No. 12 North Carolina State is at Clemson, No. 13 Illinois is at Michigan State, Southern Methodist is at No. 16 Houston, Cincinnati is at No. 18 West Virginia, No. 19 Air Force is at Texas Christian, New Mexico is at No. 20 Florida, Texas-El Paso is at No. 21 Brigham Young, No. 23 Texas A&M is at Baylor, Western Carolina is at No. 24 South Carolina and No. 25 Oklahoma is at Iowa State.

Notre Dame-Southern Cal is the greatest intersectional rivalry in college football. The Irish have outscored USC 174-78 in winning the last six meetings and lead the series 33-23-4.

The Trojans are only 2-4 against top-ranked Notre Dame teams, including last year's loss, but USC ended Notre Dame's longest winning streak at 21 games with a 14-14 tie in 1948 and snapped a 26-game Irish unbeaten streak in 1931. Notre Dame carries an 18-game winning streak into Saturday's game.

Alabama struggled last week in beating unheralded Southwestern Louisiana, 24-17 and Coach Bill Curry believes his players were looking ahead to Tennessee. Alabama and Tennessee are the only unbeaten teams (5-0) in the Southeastern Conference, the first time since 1973 both sides have come in with perfect records.

"It was like poison gas over our people," Curry said of last week's struggle.

Alabama holds a 37-27-7 lead in "Dixie's Great Football War," which finds Tennessee without starting tailback Reggie Cobb, who was kicked off the team last week, reportedly for drug-related reasons.

"I think their team will rally around the troubles they have had and have an outstanding game plan," Curry said. "It will be an outstanding football game."

Tennessee's Johnny Majors predicts that "with the SEC lead on the line it should be a classic setting in Birmingham. This is one of college football's great historic rivalries. You can always count on both teams being mentally ready to play."

Florida State has won four straight since an 0-2 start but the Seminoles will be without a half-dozen starters against Auburn.

"We're beat to a pulp going into the toughest stretch on our schedule," said coach Bobby Bowden, whose team meets Miami next week.

Several Get New Chance This Week

Woody Peele

The chance for East Carolina to get back on the winning track, the chance for Rose High School to keep its playoff hopes alive, the chance for somebody to beat Notre Dame.

All those opportunities lie ahead this weekend as our panel prepares for another week of picking. Hopefully, the chance will also be there for the rest of us to gain some ground on Mike Grizzard, who continues to lead the pack.

And watch out for Vickie Spivey, who, as she promised, is making her move. A 7-4 record last weekend, moved her into a tie for second place with Tom Baines, although they still trail Grizzard by four games.

Grizzard tops the list with a 61-19 record, while Baines and Spivey are next at 57-23. Tom Morris and Greg Laudick are tied for fourth with 54-26 records, and me, 53-27.

Son of a gun, a fumble at the goal line last weekend kept me in the basement.

Before we get to the panel's choices, a look at the high school action of the week.

Ayden-Grifton, struggling through an unusual season, plays at home against Pamlico County. The game may be the last opportunity for one of these two schools to stop their losing streaks this year. Neither has won since the opening game and Pamlico's victory came a week later when it received a forfeit from West Carteret, otherwise the Hurricanes would be winless. They've played only one common opponent, North Pitt. On the basis of that, one would have to lean toward the Chargers. I do, too. Ayden-Grifton 18, Pamlico 13.

Farmville Central starts its real season tonight, hosting Greene Central. The Jaguars, rolling along unbeaten, have to face the Rams and North Pitt the next two weeks before finishing up with Pamlico. The winner here will be in the driver's seat in the conference, although the Rams, too, have a date with North Pitt. They're calling this one a war, and that's what it will be. Farmville's defense may be the key in this one, and I'll look for the Jaguars to take a 23-20 win.

North Pitt travels to East Carteret for another key EPC game. The Panthers appear to be locked into a post-season berth, but they must win here. Ahead lie both Farmville and Greene Central, so a victory is a must for them. East Carteret threw a scare into Farmville last week and has the potential. Nevertheless, it's a Panther night, 28-14.

Finally, D.H. Conley will be seeking to pin down a playoff berth — and a date against West Craven for the Coastal Conference title, against West Carteret. The Patriots are capable, and Conley must guard against a letdown after a big win last week. Here, too, Conley's defense will be the key and I look for the Vikings to take a 24-7 win.

Elsewhere on the high school level, it will be North Edgecombe over Jamesville, Columbia over Chocowinity, Roanoke over Mattamuskeet, Northampton East over Williamston and Tarboro over Washington.

Rose High School, coming off an open date, has a tough contest against Northeastern. Both schools were among the favorites in the preseason hype, and this game will probably eliminate one of them from the playoff picture. Rose, with a loss, still would have a chance, should it win its final two, but the Eagles would be out of it. Even then, Rose would have to have help. So, it's up to the Rampants to do the job themselves to get themselves into position to have a shot at the playoffs.

But Rose must play outstanding defense and at the same time, generate some offense on the ground as well as in the air. This should be a battle, and the panel is giving Rose the nod by a 4-2 vote. My own choice is Northeastern, 21-20, maybe in overtime.

East Carolina's Pirates play host to Virginia Tech at Homecoming. Both teams are coming off a loss, but Tech can look beyond that to its upset of West Virginia two weeks ago. The Pirates have had two weeks to iron out some of their problems and get ready. Mistakes will probably be the key in this one. The Pirates, too, must not let Tech jump out to an early lead.

The panel, here, is looking for a Tech victory, 5-1. My pick is Tech, 28-24.

Our other consensus winners: Clemson over N.C. State; Georgia Tech over North Carolina; Washington State over Arizona; Alabama over Tennessee; Florida State over Alabama; Maryland over Duke; Virginia over Wake Forest; Louisiana State over Kentucky; Michigan State over Illinois and, lastly, Notre Dame over Southern California.

Simpson Hopes He'll Do Better On Final Holes

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. — Disney Classic leader Tim Simpson was 12 under par at the halfway point, yet was hoping to play even better in the final two rounds.

"I'm not hitting the ball the way I'm capable of hitting it," Simpson said after shooting a 5-under 67 Thursday for a 132 total and a two-stroke lead.

"I'm rusty from having played only 18 holes in two weeks before this week. I think my tempo will start kicking in, and hopefully I'll start hitting it closer."

Simpson said he was leading because of his putter, normally not his best club. He dropped birdie putts of 15 and 25 feet Thursday and also birdied three par-5's that he reached in two.

Roger Maltbie, who had the day's low round of 63, was tied at 134 with Dave Rummels, who shot 68, and Ted Schulz, who had a 69. Bob Gilder, Fred Couples and Kenny Knox each shot 65 to head pack of eight golfers at 135.

Bob Tway, who tied a tournament record with an 11-under 61 in the first round, followed up with a 77 to fall from four strokes ahead to six strokes behind.

Players...

He also agreed that the games should go on, no matter what. "This is my job," he said. "This is what I do. It's not the best of circumstances to go out there, but maybe this will somehow pull the Bay area together."

"I want to help out the community and I think playing will help," A's outfielder Dave Henderson said. "Playing baseball could help put a smile on everybody's face."

"I think it's 50-50 as to whether the Series should be played," said A's catcher Terry Steinbach, who hit a three-run homer in Game 2. "Some people think it will be a lift."

Some players said they had reservations about the safety of Candlestick Park.

"It's a very hard decision to say if it's safe," San Francisco's Matt Williams said. "I feel OK here, but who knows?"

"If I was a fan, maybe I wouldn't want to come to Candlestick Park," Jose Uribe of the Giants said. "As a player, I'm going to play."

San Francisco manager Roger Craig agreed with the majority of his players.

"Nothing in disrespect for what's happened," he said, "but baseball is going to go on. It will go on after I'm gone."

"I would not want to see the games played in a neutral park or the rest of the games in Oakland," Craig said. "But baseball has to take a back seat right now to other things. If you play, there will some people who say we shouldn't play because of everything that's happened. Maybe baseball can help bring things back together."

Sheridan said San Francisco would have had one advantage if the Series had been halted.

"Certainly I'd agree if they called it off and said we're both world champions," he said. "After all, I know we're down two games to none."

"That's what keeps Excedrin in business," Simpson said.

Tway's round included six bogeys and just one birdie, that coming on the final hole.

"I putted very, very bad," Tway said. "It's kind of strange to go from 61, where everything goes really good, to shoot 77, where everything felt like it went real bad."

Maltbie's round, his best ever, was all the more remarkable because he had to block out concerns about family and friends who live near him in northern California. Maltbie is from Los Gatos, where more than two dozen homes were damaged by Tuesday's earthquake.

"Today I felt like playing," he said. "(Wednesday) I didn't feel like playing. I couldn't have cared less. Golf was about the last thing on my mind."

Maltbie learned Wednesday night that his house was undamaged. His wife and son are with him at the tournament.

"My first instinct when I heard about the earthquake was to want to return home, but return home to what?" he said. "There's really nothing to return home to right now."

Maltbie, 114th on the PGA Tour money list, is looking for his first victory since 1985. He said the devastation caused by the earthquake helped put his golf game in perspective.

"It's like when you've just made a double bogey, and you've got smoke coming out of your ears, and then you see a kid in a wheelchair. It kind of snaps you back. And you say, 'Hey, golf isn't really that important.'"

49er-Patriot Grid Game Moved To Stanford Field

By Barry Wilner
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last time the San Francisco 49ers played a meaningful game at Stanford Stadium, in 1985, they won an NFL championship.

No titles will be on the line Sunday when the 49ers play the New England Patriots at Palo Alto, Calif. The game was moved there while preparation continues to ready Candlestick Park for the resumption of the World Series after Tuesday's earthquake.

This will not be another road game for the Super Bowl champions, who are 5-0 away from San Francisco this season and 0-1 at home. But it won't be played in the 49ers' usual environs, either.

"I've never played on it, but I've practiced on it and it's a real fast field," star wide receiver Jerry Rice said. "As long as we stay home it's fine with me."

The NFL did not consider postponing the game, especially when Stanford Stadium, less than 30 minutes from San Francisco, was deemed safe.

"In light of the enormity of the disaster that confronts the entire Bay area, we believe this is the most prudent and equitable short-term solution to the comparatively minor problem we faced," NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle said.

"The NFL, which has been part of the Bay area since 1950, is especially distressed by the tragic occurrence."

The World Series is tentatively scheduled to resume Tuesday at Candlestick Park. The 49ers' next home game is scheduled for Nov. 6 against New Orleans.

Elsewhere Sunday, Indianapolis is at Cincinnati, New Orleans is at the Los Angeles Rams, Dallas is at Kansas City, Green Bay is at Miami, the Los Angeles Raiders are at Philadelphia, Minnesota is at Detroit, the New York Jets are at Buffalo, Pittsburgh is at Houston, Tampa Bay is at Washington, Atlanta is at Phoenix, Denver is at Seattle and the New York Giants are at San Diego.

Monday night's game has a pair of teams on two-game losing streaks, the Chicago Bears at the Cleveland Browns.

The Bengals, whose 12-game winning streak at home was ended by Miami last weekend, are concerned about their running game. So are the Colts, with Eric Dickerson nursing a tender hamstring.

Dickerson failed to rush for 100 yards for the fourth straight week when the Colts were beaten by Denver last Sunday. He had only 35 yards.

"It's affected us, no question," Colts quarterback Jack Trudeau said. "He's a great running back, and he hasn't rushed for 100 yards since he got hurt."

Coach Ron Meyer refused to blame Dickerson.

"It's hard in my estimation to see any or very little difference in his performance now than at other times when he's totally healthy," Meyer said. "We just didn't block, didn't execute, didn't get the ball enough, and a thousand other things that all go wrong."

The Bengals' running game went wrong without a fullback to help James Brooks. Eric Ball, replacing injured Ickey Woods, hurt his knee on the second play of the game.

"We can feel the difference without the big back," coach Sam Wyche said. "Part of it is the pounding, the late-in-the-game effect that has on a team."

Dickerson and Ball are expected to play Sunday.

The Rams, the NFL's last unbeaten team until Buffalo rallied to beat them 23-20 Monday night, need to forget that tough, last-minute defeat.

"It's so hard in this league," Rams coach John Robinson said. "You have to remember there are 16 games to be played and you have to fight back."

"People write you off. They overestimate you or underestimate you. You have to have the mental toughness to hang in there. That's important. We have to do some of that now, having a loss Monday."

The Saints, meanwhile, broke a four-game slide and are anxious to build a winning streak.

"We can't worry about where we are in the standings or what it means to our playoffs hopes," Saints coach Jim Mora said. "We have to take care of our business and prepare each week to win a game."

European Clubs Getting Chance To Stop Denver

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROME — Few NBA teams have been able to stop the Denver Nuggets in recent years with man-to-man defense.

Now a couple of European clubs will get a chance to try shutting down the high-scoring Nuggets by using a zone.

A mixture of NBA and international basketball rules were to be used tonight in Denver's game against Spanish champion Barcelona in the semifinals of the McDonald's Open.

Italian champion Philips Milan, which features former NBA star Bob McAdoo, faced 1989 European champion Jugoplastika Split of Yugoslavia in the other semifinal. The semifinal winners meet Sunday.

Philips Milan had hoped to introduce another American, center Benoit Benjamin, who had tentatively agreed to a contract with the Italian team following a holdout from the Los Angeles Clippers. But Benjamin said the Milan team tried to change the contract terms after he arrived in Italy, and he went back to the United States amid reports he would sign with the Clippers.

The McDonald's Open, which debuted in Milwaukee in 1987 and was held in Madrid last year, gives the NBA a chance to show off to the world.

But it also gives league officials an opportunity to see how NBA players cope with international rules and to experiment with methods, such as zone defenses, now banned by the NBA.

"When we sat down with FIBA (the international amateur basketball federation), we decided to use some of our rules and some of theirs," NBA vice president Rod Thorn said Thursday in an interview.

An NBA-sized court, slightly longer and wider than its European counterpart, will be used for the tournament. The NBA's 24-second shot clock will be employed, instead of FIBA's 30-second clock.

A compromise was reached on the 3-point line, and it will be set at 22 feet. The NBA line is 23 feet, 9 inches from the hoop, while FIBA draws its 3-point arc 20 feet, 7 inches away.

The NBA agreed to use an international-shaped lane around the basket, to drop its mandate that an official touch the ball on out-of-bounds plays in the backcourt, and to allow all types of defenses.

"They play so much zone defense in Europe, it wouldn't be fair to tell them not to play it," Thorn said. "Even though we outlaw zone defenses, we have teams that are on the verge of doing that anyway, so it won't be that hard an adjustment for Denver."

With NBA players now eligible for the Olympics and other international competitions, FIBA officials have said it is important to come up with one set of rules for basketball worldwide and Thorn said such a move is inevitable.

Movement of the 3-point line and allowing players to make an in-bounds pass in the backcourt without an official touching the ball are among the rule changes the NBA is considering and will be watching closely in the tournament, Thorn said.

But he said the zone defense probably will remain outlawed in the NBA for a long time and that new league rules this season will make it more difficult for teams to play trapping defenses.

Colombian Courts Say Strike Ending

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The country's judges and court workers, many of them threatened by drug traffickers, said they would today end a 72-hour strike despite the government's failure to provide them with more protection.

"We are certain that more of us will be murdered in coming months, but we can't shut down the court system for very long," said Consuelo Herrera, a federal judge and board member of the court workers' union.

She said the union's roughly 17,000 workers are, however, prepared to strike again the next time a judge or court worker is murdered by drug traffickers.

The strike was called after gunmen presumed working for cocaine barons killed a federal judge in the cocaine trafficking center of Medellin on Tuesday.

"The next strike will be longer and the next one longer still," Ms. Herrera said. "We will continue to call strikes as long as we are being killed and the government continues to do nothing."

A group calling itself The Extraditables claimed responsibility for Tuesday's murder, calling it the first in revenge for the government's extradition of four drug figures after declaring war on traffickers in August.

Ms. Herrera said Justice Minister Roberto Salazar Manrique told her and other union board members in a Tuesday meeting that the government lacks the resources to increase protection for judges.

House Steps Up Aid To Poland

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The House is turning up the political heat on President Bush with its overwhelming approval of $837 million in aid to Poland and Hungary over the next three years, nearly double what the White House asked.

"The administration has failed to grasp that this is a critical turning point in the history of East-West relations," said Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., a member of the Democratic leadership.

The aid, approved Thursday on a

345-47 vote, is an effort to shore up fledgling reform movements in the two Soviet Bloc countries and seize political advantage on the issue from Bush, whose response has been branded "timid" by congressional Democrats.

House Republicans joined the march in droves. "The winds of freedom and democracy are sweeping across Eastern Europe and are tearing holes in the Iron Curtain," said Rep. Lynn Martin, R-Ill., adding the aid package was essential to sustain the reforms.

Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, called it

"an extraordinarily cheap way of helping redirect the course of history."

Bush initially proposed $149 million for the two countries when he visited Eastern Europe in July, but since then has raised the amount to $450 million under pressure from Capitol Hill.

But the measure that passed the House Thursday clearly has made the administration uncomfortable. It wants to retain leverage to make sure economic reforms go forward, but doesn't want to be seen as reluctant to reward those who are breaking the grip of communism.

In a statement, the White House said it would generally support the bill but "has reservations about the excessive funding levels" and would work to decrease the amount when the bill goes to the Senate.

Included in the package were a $200 million grant to help stabilize Poland's economy; $160 million for Poland and $40 million for Hungary to promote private enterprise; $200 million in short-term guarantees and insurance for U.S. exporters selling products to the two countries; and up to $125 million in food aid for Poland.

Typhoon Elsie Kills 4 In The Philippines

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MANILA, Philippines — Typhoon Elsie moved out to sea today after battering the northern Philippines with winds up to 127 mph and leaving at least four people dead and thousands homeless.

In a final typhoon bulletin at 4 a.m., the Manila weather bureau said that Elsie, the strongest storm to strike the country this year, was about 240 miles northwest of Manila in the South China Sea.

Elsie blew ashore Thursday, but forecaster Juliet Dagupa said the winds had weakened today to 103 mph and was moving west at 14 mph.

The Red Cross said two people were killed in Isabela province when they were struck by iron sheets torn off from houses. One person was crushed to death by a falling tree in La Union province and another died in a landslide on the outskirts of the mountain resort town of Baguio, 130 miles north of Manila, the Red Cross said.

The Civil Defense Office said more than 22,100 people sought temporary shelter in schoolhouses and government centers or reported their houses either damaged or destroyed.

Officials said at least 6,106 houses were destroyed in six northern provinces hit by the typhoon.

Officials said many northern provinces lost electricity when high winds toppled power lines. Fallen trees littered the national highway and blocked dozens of other roads.

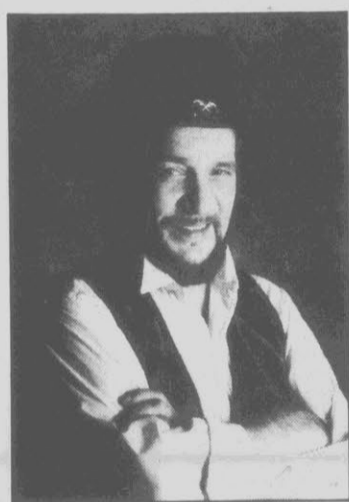

Domestic flights from Manila to northern Luzon were canceled and the coast guard ordered ships to stay in port in the affected area for the day. U.S. Air Force officials said some jets had been moved to air bases in Japan and South Korea.

Elsie was the third tropical storm to strike the Philippines in two weeks.

Tropical storm Dan hit Manila and southern Luzon on Oct. 10, killing at least 59 people. On Oct. 6, Typhoon Angela killed at least 119 people in northern Luzon.

An average of 20 typhoons and tropical storms strike the Philippines annually. Elsie is the 17th of 1989.

Massacre Reported

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Amnesty International today accused Sudanese government troops of killing 34 civilians in the southern town of Wau in late July, apparently to avenge the death of a soldier whose truck hit a mine.

The international human rights organization said an unspecified number of other civilians were seriously injured in the same incident, in which soldiers dumped the victims' bodies in a well in the northwest section of the town.

It said most of the victims were refugees of the Dinka and Luo ethnic groups who had been living in Wau. They were arrested shortly before being killed, Amnesty International said.

The group added it had collected the names of the dead and also of 13 of the injured.

The Sudan government has not commented on the alleged massacre, but the civilian government, before its ouster in a coup June 30, denied similar allegations against the army.

"Amnesty International is particularly concerned because these killings do not appear to be isolated cases," a statement said. "Its information reveals a persistent pattern of serious human rights violations in the context of the civil war in the south."

Billy Crystal Will Take New Act To Old Country

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Last April, Billy Crystal tries a few jokes on a small audience. Bomb City.

Uh-oh, he thinks, I need to see what works, "but where am I going to break in? At Catch a Rising Star? At the Imprava?" He thinks this way because he is in the Soviet Union at the time. A rough place for an American comic to break in a new act.

But anyone who survives "Saturday Night Live," "Soap" and publicity tours for "When Harry Met Sally ..." is clearly of sturdy stuff. Crystal returns to Mother Russia in August. It results in a 90-minute show.

Called "Billy Crystal — Midnight Train to Moscow," it's getting five Home Box Office cable showings that start Saturday. It's a mix of comic fantasy, a bit of jazz and a tracing of roots.

In addition to teaching one Moscow audience how to do The Wave, he does a short, but memorable skit as Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and maverick Soviet politician Boris Yeltsin in a fierce argument.

Instead of mimicking their voices himself, he does it with big-band jazz riffs on old Maynard Ferguson recording, "Got the Spirit."

"They went nuts with that because it was so timely," said Crystal, who also in the show plays a jazzman, Lester Hawkins, a combination of several famous musicians he actually knew as a kid.

His knowledge of jazz and decision to attempt a comedy show in the Soviet Union, despite initial worries, may stem from several factors.

One of his grandmothers came from the Soviet Union. He also is the nephew of a man who founded Commodore Records, a label devoted to Dixieland. His father used to produce jazz concerts.

As a kid in New York, he learned the rudiments of clarinet from a jazz great, Pee Wee Russell. He met Billie Holliday when he was 5, grew up around jazz folk, all friends of his father and uncle.

"Those musicians made me want to be a performer," said Crystal, now 41. "The house was always full of them, always smelled of bourbon and brisket."

He achieved his boyhood goal. But when it came time to visit the land of his relatives, to perform there, he wanted first to ease the place, try a few things there. His first trip left him discouraged. The reason?

"Well, there's no sense of humor there that makes any sense to me. To my kind of comedy. What I like to do, I'm talking about live on the stage. How would that work?"

He kicked ideas back and forth with Paul Flaherty, who eventually directed his show. Finally, Crystal said, he hit on a comedy-fantasy concept "and started really tracing my roots back, found how deep they went."

"And then the show became more than a comedy show."

Early in the program, he does a stand-up routine on a Moscow stage, in front of an audience, many of whom obviously appear to understand English. But he opens by speaking fluent-sounding Russian.

Although he has the ear of a good mimic, he doesn't know the language, he said.

"I had a good coach," he explained. But he admitted he found Russian "a tough language. There's a lot of coughing and spitting..."

Still, he said, "I wanted to come out speaking Russian, and not slow and loud the way people do with foreigners. I wanted the people to know my roots are there."

Whitney To Record At Atlanta Studio

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Arista Records plans to record Whitney Houston and other big-name artists at a new recording studio that company officials hope will make Atlanta "the Motown of the South."

The studio will be part of a new label, LaFace, and will be run by Antonio Reid and Kenny Edmonds, Arista President Clive Davis said Thursday.

The pair, who have written or produced songs for artists such as Paula Abdul, Bobby Brown and Sheena Easton, recently moved to Atlanta from Los Angeles, Davis said.

In a memo to Arista employees in New York this week, Davis said Reid and Edmonds "will produce a limited number of outside projects — including, at my specific request, Whitney Houston."

Ms. Houston's first two LPs, "Whitney Houston" and "Whitney," have total sales of about $15 million.

"Atlanta is an easy place to come to, and this is a consideration when you're working with artists from all over the country and the world," Davis said.

Arista, owned by BMG Music, has reported gross sales of $120 million so far this year. BMG also owns RCA Records and the Jive recording label.

Peck Jacket Goes For $530

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

EDGARTOWN, Mass. — A black warm-up jacket owned by actor Gregory Peck brought $530 at the fifth Martha's Vineyard Celebrity Hat Auction.

The auction, where more than hats were sold, obviously, was held over the Columbus Day weekend and raised $7,500 for a child-care program on the island off Cape Cod, organizers said this week.

Joan Baez contributed a worn and battered straw hat with the singer's signature on the brim. "You're really getting an oldy but a favorite," Baez wrote in a letter that came with the hat.

Rock Group Flash Cadillac Majors In Having Fun With Their Music

By Ellen Miller
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WOODLAND PARK, Colo. — The members of Flash Cadillac have worked hard for their Ph.D.s in fun.

"We've been going to every college in the West for 20 years but never go to class," said Kris Moe, the keyboard player.

They abandoned the traditional quest for national rock stardom after six miserable years in Los Angeles, even after hitting gold and platinum with the soundtrack to "American Graffiti," because Los Angeles just isn't their kind of town.

"When we left Boulder for L.A., I called my mom," said Warren Knight, the bass guitar player. "She said, 'Do what you want to do, but don't go out there and become one of those people.' We didn't."

Knight's mom, by the way, has been known to occupy her time protesting nuclear weapons and calling her kids for bail money.

So Flash Cadillac left California in the mid-'70s and moved back to Colorado. While they're not getting rich, they're getting by, and just about anybody who attended a college in the Rocky Mountains during the past 20 years knows who they are.

So does the National Association of Broadcasters, where Flash recently did a gig, and the Beach Boys, who've tried to take back a crowd after Flash warmed up. And so does American Bandstand.

But getting back to Colorado was the band's goal. They, like many other residents of the mountains, figured the tradeoff of less money for a better life was an easy call.

"It's great to spend all day in the recording studio and walk out into paradise instead of on a street corner in L.A.," Moe said.

Their headquarters is a ranch above Woodland Park, about 30 miles west of Colorado Springs in clear view of Pike's Peak. They call it Freedomia, The Ranch, a name taken from the Marx brothers' movie "Duck Soup."

The place has a main house, extensively remodeled, a trout pond, state-of-the-art recording studio and other homes as well. Moe and Linn Phillips live there, while the other four members live in Colorado Springs to be closer to offspring.

There's a duck or two in the pond and a neighbor grazes some cows on the property. Flash Cadillac used to own livestock — a cow by the name of Pot Roast — but ducks and pet fish are easier.

The band plays rock 'n' roll — anybody's rock 'n' roll — and has a reputation for being about the best party band around. Even Rolling Stone magazine once gave them that honor.

They do have fun. They talk of how they really don't remember what their first official appearance was in 1969 in Boulder, because their rehearsals were so much fun they can't distinguish between those and their stage acts.

They made headlines in Boulder almost right off the bat when they were banned from that hard-partying college town in 1971. The ban came at a time when the University of Colorado was ranked as the nation's top party college by Playboy magazine.

"It wasn't that we were really gross or out of line, but they decided we didn't put in enough effort to keep things under control," Moe said.

The band had been playing bar gigs in Boulder. Tulagi's, a saloon of some note in those years, initially booked Flash Cadillac for a "drown night," allowing students to drink unlimited amounts of beer for $1.75.

A few weeks later, Tulagi's compounded the problem by holding a "drown night" the same time as "gross night," and things got out of hand.

Police had to be summoned. CU grads say there was beer an inch deep in the place. The prizes for the "no skin, no win" dance project were, in a word, gross.

Flash has cleaned up its act since then, but not the fun quotient.

"That's why we left L.A.," Moe said. "All anybody does out there is spend all day yelling and screaming and arguing. So you waste all your time and they end up calling the shots. They take all of the credit and most of the money."

"If you really want to play music, you have to get away and do it. We were all going nuts in L.A."

Flash Cadillac hasn't given up trying for national success. The band is working on a couple of recordings, one aimed at what they believe is a budding country-rock blend suited to their style.

"If we operate at a reasonable regional level, we can stay in business and play music," Moe said. "We're living where we want to live. Go national? Sure, but not at the expense of living in L.A. or traveling around the country as an itinerant jukebox."

Danish Knight

LONDON (AP) — Derek Jacobi, whose stage roles have included a prince of Denmark, became a Danish knight in recognition of his achievements as an actor and director, especially his interpretations of Shakespeare.

Queen Margrethe II of Denmark authorized the knighthood for the actor, who played Hamlet at Elnor in Denmark in 1979 and directed the play when he returned in 1988.

Danish Ambassador Rudolph Thorning-Petersen presented Jacobi with the Royal Order of Knight of the Dannebrog, First Class, at a reception Thursday.

Bill Cosby To Give Hurricane Benefit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Bill Cosby is helping South Carolina victims of Hurricane Hugo with a benefit concert in December.

The University of South Carolina is underwriting the Dec. 1 show at the school's Carolina Coliseum.

Cosby volunteered because of his "close friendship" with the university, the school's president, James Holderman, said Wednesday. Cosby is waiving his artist's fee and expenses.

Cosby was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters degree from the university in 1986, when he gave the commencement address.

About 10,000 seats will be available for the concert. Tickets go on sale Monday and will cost $10 and $15.

Post-Garage Sale Scenarios:

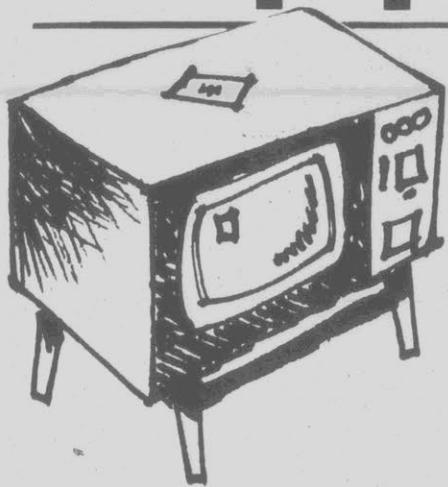

Hooray!

Ann's old dolls, the dryer and the drums sold by midday!

But now what will you do with stuff that's still in the way?

Yippee!

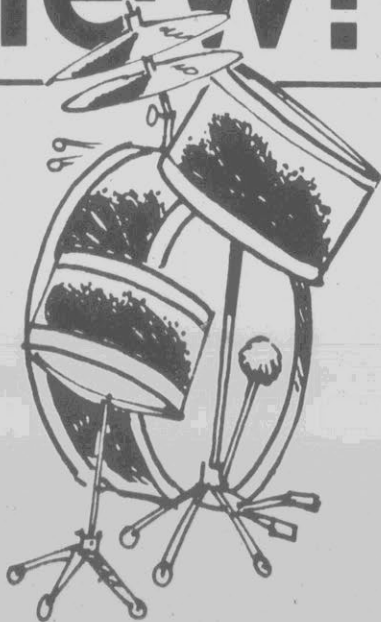

The old mower, the mixer and Mike's mitt sold by three!

But now what will you do with the old black and white TV?

Whew!

The bowling ball, the blender and the books sold by two!

But what will you do with Dana's drums that are still nearly new?

Good deal!

Yes, the fencing and frames are still your old fishing reel!

But what will you do with the clubs that have lost their appeal?
