Council Uses 4-3 Vote To Fire Greg Knowles As City Manager

By J. Ward Best
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

After nearly three hours of deliberations behind closed doors, the Greenville City Council reopened Monday's workshop session and in less than five minutes ended City Manager Greg Knowles' employment with the city.

Mayor Ed Carter cast the tie-breaking vote in the council's decision. Council members Lorraine Shinn, Rufus Huggins and Mildred Council voted to fire Knowles, while council member and mayor-elect Nancy Jenkins and members Bill Hadden and Inez Fridley voted to retain the city manager.

The termination took effect immediately following the council vote.

Knowles began his job with the city on Sept. 14, 1987, after Gail Meeks resigned her position as city manager in March 1987.

"This was not something new on my part," Ms. Shinn said after the council ended its meeting at about midnight. "This was not a surprise to him."

Ms. Shinn, the only council member who would speak Monday night about the firing, said the decision to fire Knowles was based on conflicts with his management style and budget procedures and his lack of communication with some members of the council.

Carter also spoke after the meeting, but declined to comment on any specific reasons for firing Knowles. But he said, "There has been plenty of coaching and counseling" on Knowles' performance as city manager.

"I felt like the decision would serve the best interest of the city," Carter said.

Knowles, contacted this morning, said the council's decision "came as a total shock to me."

He said, "It was devastating to me and my family."

Knowles said he could not comment on the specific reasons the council cited in ending his contract, but he said he felt he did a good job in his two years.

"We've done a heck of a lot since I've been here," Knowles said. "To go from an outstanding evaluation to termination is out of the blue."

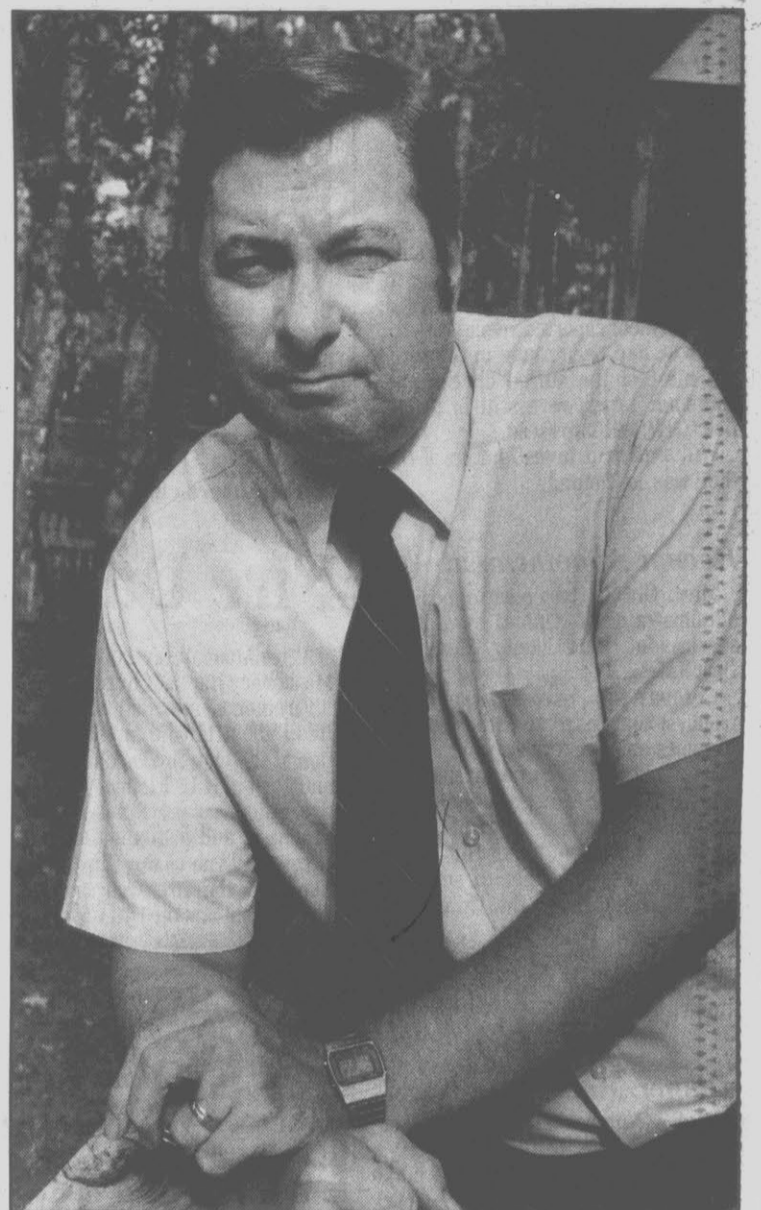

The council reviewed Knowles' performance in July, and he said he received high praise from the council in his evaluation.

Knowles, according to the terms of his contract, serves at the pleasure of the City Council. He was earning $67,200 annually at his post, according to city records. And sources said he will receive three months salary in severance pay.

Council members contacted today said there was no mention during the executive session on hiring a replacement for Knowles.

Council members, particularly Ms. Shinn, have openly challenged Knowles' information during council meetings. And in August an emergency session of the council was called for what the mayor termed "counseling" Knowles on his conduct at the city post.

Knowles 'Devastated' By Vote

By J. Ward Best
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Greg Knowles, fired as Greenville city manager after a little more than two years in office, said today he is "devastated" by the City Council's decision and has no specific plans for now.

"I'm trying to console my family and trying to decide what to do," Knowles said this morning. "We just don't know."

Knowles said the council's decision following a Monday night closed-door session came as a complete surprise to him. The council voted four to three to terminate Knowles' employment, with Mayor Ed Carter casting the deciding vote.

"I love this city," Knowles said. "This is my home. I would like to stay here."

Knowles came to Greenville in September 1987 after a five-month search by the City Council to replace Gail Meeks, who was asked to resign after holding the position for almost five years.

Prior to taking the position in Greenville, Knowles served as city manager of Inkster, Mich. Inkster is a suburb of Detroit with a population of approximately 35,000 and a $14 million budget when Knowles left.

Before becoming city manager of Inkster, Knowles served as village manager of University Park, Ill., and as city administrator in Monona, Wis. He was also assistant to the manager of Winnetka, Ill., for about two years and was special assistant to the county administrator of Montgomery County, Va., for about six months.

Knowles received a master's degree in urban affairs from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1977. He also received a bachelor's degree in political science from VPI in 1975 as an honor graduate.

Mayor-elect Nancy Jenkins said today the council unanimously hired Knowles in 1987 because of his strong background in city administration, particularly in handling financial matters. She said she hoped the incoming council would seek a replacement for Knowles with similar qualifications.

Washington May Soon Be Back On The Tap

By Frances Horton Arrington
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

WASHINGTON, N.C. — City officials say they believe they have found a water treatment process that could purge city water of potentially deadly chemicals and possibly put drinking water back on tap within a few weeks.

City Manager Bruce Radford said this morning that the city will begin Wednesday treating its water with the ammonia-based chemical chloramine instead of treating it with chlorine as it has done in previous years.

"We believe this process will reduce levels (of trihalomethanes) to within the EPA limits of 100," Radford said from his office today.

Ronald Levine, state health director, had warned Washington residents in September to stop drinking city water after dangerous levels of the cancer-linked chemicals, trihalomethanes, were discovered in the water supply.

Radford said the chloramine method is a viable short-term solution to Washington's water problems, but the city is still considering options for a long-term solution.

"This is not a permanent solution, it will give us the opportunity to drink the water we produce each day until a long-term solution is found," Radford said. "We're still

Eastern Officials Tackle Trash Flow

By J.R. Williams
 THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Americans produce about 160 million tons of trash a year now and by the year 2000 that number will grow to 193 million, the chairman of an Eastern North Carolina Chamber of Commerce committee said today in Greenville.

Joseph T. Skinner, chairman of the landfills and collection subcommittee and community development panel for the ENCCC, spoke at the organization's special conference on solid waste disposal.

"As a nation we bury 80 percent of our waste in landfills, and we face a federal mandate to cut this flow," said Skinner in his presentation. "We burn 10 percent and recycle another 10 percent."

The conference today at the Ramada Inn marked the first opportunity for state legislators to meet formally with eastern Carolina officials to discuss proper solid waste disposal in the area.

House Speaker Joe Mavretic, the conference's opening speaker, said recycling should be tackled as a regional project.

The Eastern Chamber proposed a grouping of landfills in the eastern part of the state. Pitt County was

Man Arrested

Dalton Earl Wainwright, 27, of 403 Millbrook St. was arrested Monday and charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, driving while impaired and having an open bottle of whiskey in his car.

Wainwright was taken into custody about 9 p.m. Recovered from him were a green, leafy substance, two silver roach clips and a bottle of whiskey, Officer N.B. Rice said.

Safe Recovered

A safe stolen from Remco East Rental Agency on Oct. 27 was recovered by Greenville police Monday. Officers said the safe was damaged beyond repair, but with most of its contents intact.

Greenville police removed the safe from a ditch off Fletcher Place in the Twin Oaks subdivision after a local resident reported seeing it.

A hole had been made in the safe, but most of the stored checks and computer tapes were still in it, Officer G.W. Williams said.

Williams said investigation of the theft was continuing.

Recent Appointment

Mark Gordon has been appointed administrator of clinical cardiology services at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Gordon will oversee the electrophysiology, cardiac catheterization, graphics and exercise and EKG labs. A Southern Pines native, he has a bachelor's degree in health administration from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and a master's degree in health services administration from the University of Michigan. He worked at PCMH the summer between his junior and senior years at UNC as an administrative intern.

Firefighters check a burned section of the Sycamore Chapel Missionary Baptist Church

Fire Damages Sycamore Chapel

A fire Monday severely damaged Sycamore Chapel Missionary Baptist Church on Route 5, Greenville.

Firemen were called to the church on the Old Creek Road about 11:06 a.m. The kitchen-dining room portion of the church was damaged and a dressing room and Pastor H.L. Flournoy's study also were burned, fire officials said. Smoke damage was done to the sanctuary and vestibule, Deacon Clarence Ward said.

Terry Payne of the Pitt County Fire Marshal's Office said the fire was under investigation by his department and the Pitt County Sheriff Department.

Interviewed this morning, Ward said he had no estimate of damage done to the facility nor would he speculate on the cause of the fire. He said every appliance, every furnishing in the burned rooms was destroyed.

He praised the work of the volunteer firemen from Pactolus and Staton House who fought the blaze.

"The firemen did a nice job," he said, "a quick job. Without them acting so quick, the whole church would have been destroyed."

Local Residents Have Differing Recollections Of The Berlin Wall

By Jerry Raynor
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

As the eyes of the world focus on developments taking place almost hourly at the Berlin Wall, a quartet of Greenville residents expressed their reactions to the unfolding drama.

One of the four, Greenville Mayor-elect Nancy Jenkins, visited the Berlin Wall in May 1988 with her husband, the late Dr. Leo Jenkins.

Instead of dealing with political implications, Mrs. Jenkins recalled "vivid impressions of the visual differences on the west and east sides of the wall."

"On the west side," she said, "the surface of the wall was covered with bold, colorful graffiti, some of it really impressive. I didn't understand the political significance of it, but Leo and I both enjoyed simply looking at them."

The east side of the wall was a different story, she said. "The wall was clean, orderly, decorated only with the barbed wire. I remember it as gray, dreary in appearance. So much contrast in so short a distance."

Differences in the dress of young people, Mrs. Jenkins said, "was highly noticeable. In the west, young people wore modish, bright clothing. Not so on the east side. They dressed conservatively."

At Checkpoint Charlie, someone directed the Jenkinses to a book shop "with a terrific display of photographs of people escaping over the wall throughout the years. It was here that one of those astonishing coincidences in life happen."

"Two young men were in the shop, one wearing a Carolina blue T-shirt, the other an ECU sweatshirt. I called out 'What are you doing here?' They were thrilled, as were Leo and I, to meet at this unlikely point. We took pictures of each other. At the moment I can't recall the young man's first name, but his last name is Carson."

From Berlin, the Jenkinses went on to Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia.

"I wish Leo could have lived to see what is happening today," Ms. Jenkins said. "He always maintained that the tide would change some day soon for all the oppressed people in Eastern Europe."

Dr. Robert Thompson, chairman of the political science department at ECU, said the recent developments at the Berlin Wall are "astounding, hard to conceptualize. I don't think the world at large anticipated anything like this, anything of this extent at this point in time," he said. In addition to being the department's chairman, Thompson teaches. His specialty is Western European politics.

Thompson termed the surge of humanity passing back and forth through the Berlin Wall, "an incredible event, totally emotional and dramatic, aside from any political implication. I could say a lot of things, use about all the cliches available and they would all be true."

"So much has happened so quickly that it will take time to calmly evaluate the events of recent days."

Thompson feels that "inevitably, the wall will have to be taken down." Like many others, he thinks and hopes "a part of the wall will be left as a reminder — a visible symbol of history that has taken place in the past three decades."

One reason that Thompson thinks the wall "will have to be dismantled," is the presence of mines near the east side of the wall. "I feel certain that authorities have already taken measures to assure the whole thing is safe. Some action like blocking off the mines. This is an absolutely essential consideration. It would be politically devastating if some tragic accident occurred because of the presence of unguarded mines."

Former Greenville City Manager Greg Knowles never visited Berlin, but he has lived in West Germany for several years — first as the dependent son of a military man, then later as an Air Force man stationed in Germany.

"To me," Knowles said, "the wall symbolizes a long period of major confrontation between two superpowers, the United States and Russia."

"The structure is definitely a symbol of oppression. In East Berlin it has become a way of keeping East Germans locked into place as an expression of the power of the ruling government to do that."

Now that the effectiveness of the wall as a separator has been suddenly and dramatically reversed, Knowles said "it's ironic and very sad that a lot of people died in an effort to escape to the West in seeking a better way of life. With the wall no longer the barrier it has been for so long, people can freely see what the West is like."

The principal lesson to be learned, Knowles said, "is that eventually you cannot forever dictate to people arbitrarily what is good or not good for them. They want to know for themselves, not accept just what they have been told. It is exciting to see this new situation come about. And it will be interesting to watch events unfold in the near future."

Pitt Community College president Dr. Charles Russell, said "I'm glad to see the wall breached, to see part of it come down."

"I personally feel the situation at this time is a great step forward for the democratic process everywhere. With the wall, in effect, no longer a separation of German people, it's good to know that East and West Berliners can once more be thrown together. They can now in truth be neighbors, visit each other, once more after years get in touch easily with family and friends."

Russell said "it's terrible when people are in any way, for any reason, shut off from their fellow men. I feel what has happened at the Berlin Wall may lead to heartening

Ayden Board Calls Session On Bonds

By J.R. Williams
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

AYDEN — The Board of Commissioners has voted to schedule a special meeting for Dec. 4 to discuss the sale of $435,000 in municipal bonds.

The board, at its regular meeting Monday, decided that the special session will be held a day before the bond closings.

Ayden officials said revenue from the bonds will be used for street pavement and water and sewer improvements.

"After 1990 there will be only one dirt road in Ayden," Mayor Marvin C. Baldree said after the meeting.

The board also scheduled public hearings to discuss the annexation of 5.6 acres on Northeast College Street and an ordinance allowing residential development in the town's central business district.

The hearings are scheduled for the board's Dec. 11 regular meeting.

Ayden commissioners also approved the 1988-89 auditing report and capital project ordinance for the town.

After the regular meeting, the board held an open session on an Ayden Housing Authority item and approved a two-year, $97,503 application for funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development's drug elimination fund.

The money, if granted, would be used to pose stricter drug enforcement in Ayden's public housing developments.

Shoplifters Are Sought

Greenville police today were investigating several shopliftings and other thefts reported Monday.

Officer J.E. Umphlett said a man seen taking a pair of tennis shoes from the Dollar General Store was being sought. Umphlett said the store manager told officers the man left the store on foot about 8:30 p.m.

Officer J.E. Ebron said a pair of pajamas valued at $55 was stolen from Belk at Carolina East Mall in a shoplifting incident reported at 7:46 p.m.

Police said a purse valued at $40 and containing $1.75 was reported stolen from the seat of a car parked behind the Stop Shop about 3:20 p.m.

Joe Lewis Johnson, 20, of Greenville was arrested Monday and charged in connection with the theft of a case of beer from Overton's Supermarket, police said. Officers said a second man was being sought in the theft.

Vandalism resulted in at least $500 in damages at a Howell Street residence, according to Officer C.J. Melvin. The officer said someone pulled a fuse box from a heat pump, causing water and other damage.

Shouted Bomb Threat Delays Eagle Flight

A bomb threat at Pitt-Greenville Airport this morning prompted little real fear, but had to be dealt with, Greenville Police Lt. D.R. Bullock said.

Bullock said he understood that Russell Elander, the American Eagle Airlines station manager, was loading cargo onto Flight 3332 when a man doing construction work at the airport said to him, "There's a bomb on your plane."

Greenville police, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Greenville Fire-Rescue were called to the scene at 10:21 a.m., Bullock said.

No arrest had been made at press time, Bullock said, and the name of the person allegedly making the bomb threat was withheld by authorities. The plane, carrying a bomb threat was withheld by authorities.

The plane was called making a bomb threat on an aircraft is a federal offense, Bullock said.

At 11:10 a.m., the plane, scheduled for departure at 10:10 a.m., was able to leave Greenville after it was searched. It had originally been scheduled to transport passengers at 7:10 a.m., but because Raleigh-Durham International Airport was fogged in, those passengers were "ground-interpreted," local airport manager Jim Turcotte said. The plane, carrying only crew and cargo, was to leave for RDI at 10:10 a.m.

"We have a very elaborate and specific procedure for dealing with bomb threats," Turcotte said, "and this was carried out."

Adjustment Board Delays Decision On Coastal Chemical's Warehouse

Board Member Who Lives Near Plant Declines To Vote On Proposal

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

The Greenville Board of Adjustment delayed a decision on a controversial request at Monday's meeting after one member excused herself from voting.

Because one of the 10 board members asked to be excused from voting on a request from Coastal Chemical Corp., the matter was continued until a full board with 10 members could decide the issue. Following the decision, approximately 15 to 20 people out of the audience and J.C. Whitehurst Jr., the owner of Coastal Chemical, left the meeting.

Under the rules governing the Board of Adjustment, a majority of eight members must approve any request before the board.

Board member Dorothy Hudson asked the full board to excuse her from voting because she lives near Coastal Chemical. Ms. Hudson said she felt she could not be impartial in voting on the request.

An alternate to the board could later be asked to complete the full 10-member voting panel.

Whitehurst had requested a special use permit from the Board of Adjustment to construct a storage warehouse adjacent to Coastal Chemical's plant on the Evans Street extension. The request originally came before the board last month and drew sharp public protest.

Some residents of the subdivision who have grown up around Coastal Chemical in the past decade said they worried about expansion of the plant and potential health hazards from the production and storage of chemicals at the site.

Whitehurst said Monday his company plans to store a chemical pneumatic and insecticide in the proposed 1,400 square foot warehouse. He also dismissed the potential health hazards from Coastal Chemical.

"We have no hazardous materials stored out there (or) buried out there," Whitehurst said.

He said the original article which appeared in The Daily Reflector misled the public, and prompted the only calls to the company regarding a health hazard from the plant.

J.C. Whitehurst III said he met with a number of residents last week and received a handful of phone calls regarding the company's request. After talking to the residents, he said the residents "have no concerns" about the proposed warehouse.

Both Whitehursts said they would gladly meet with or talk to residents concerned about any possible health risks from Coastal Chemical.

The older Whitehurst said the company had a clean record for its 25 years in operation outside of a fire in 1979.

The blaze, which reportedly started in an office at Coastal Chemical, caused the evacuation of 1,000 residents in Lyndale and the surrounding area.

The Board of Adjustment has tentatively scheduled Whitehurst's request for consideration at its next meeting Dec. 21.

Although unregistered voters had until midnight to get their names in the book, the election board's offices and most of the other registration locations closed at 5 p.m., Ms. Hardee said.

Baptist Leader Says Division Is Hindering Church Mission

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GREENSBORO — Division among moderates and conservatives within the North Carolina Baptist State Convention is interfering with the denomination's religious mission, the convention president says.

"It is no news to any of us that we as a denomination do not have that wonderful sense of unity that we need to face today's world," The Rev. E. Leon Smith said Monday during the opening of the group's annual meeting. "As long as we always think it is the other person committing the infractions and violating our religious space, we will never perceive our own failures."

Old prejudices and stereotypical thinking among Southern Baptists have served only to isolate the denomination from others, Smith said.

Nearly 4,500 messengers from churches across the state will meet through Wednesday to elect new officers and vote on a $29.3-million budget.

Elections for the offices of president and vice president are scheduled to be held Tuesday. Two conservative candidates and one moderate candidate are expected to vie to succeed Smith, who is ending his second one-year term as president of the state organization. He is not eligible to run again.

Moderates have been able to maintain control of the state convention, despite conservative challenges.

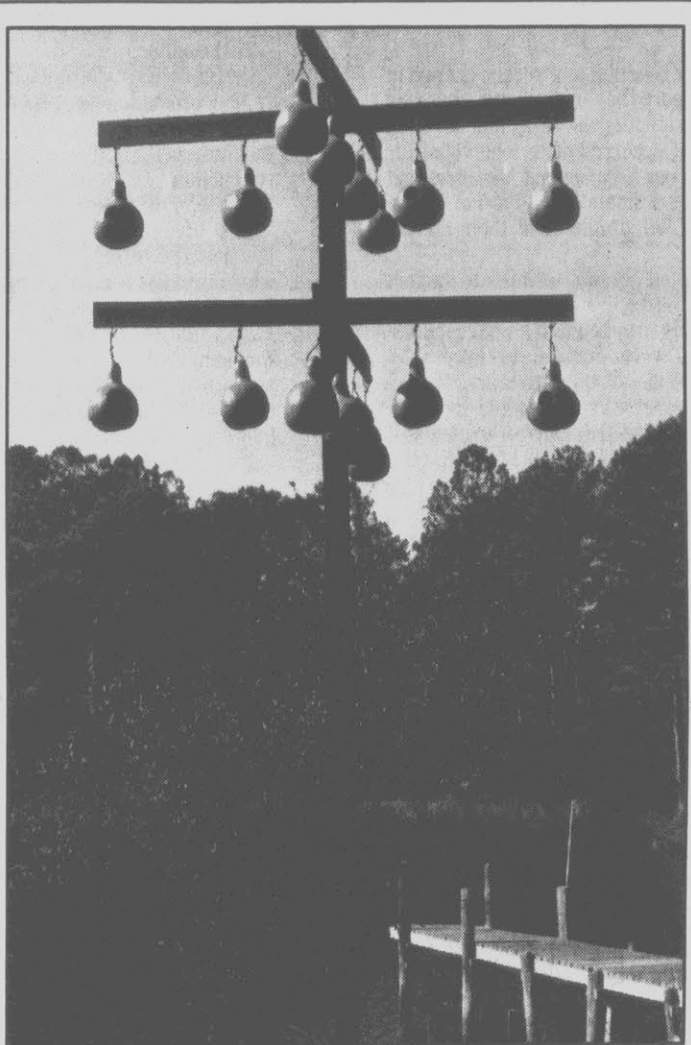

The decadelong division between moderate and conservative factions has hurt the convention's efforts to reach others, as well as taking its toll within the 1.1-million-member state group, Smith said.

Smith called for Baptists of both groups to overcome the division by looking to Jesus and by examining their own actions. The moderate president also noted that the conservatively controlled national denomination has not supported women as pastors. That stance, Smith said, alienates younger members and particularly women.

"They will not stay in a denomination that seems bent on turning back the clocks on a reasonable and intelligent approach to the scriptures or a holistic understanding of the Gospel," he said.

"A system of bias and exclusion that denigrates women by either principle or language has nothing in common with the liberating spirit of Jesus," he said.

Moderates apparently are united behind the Rev. Gene Watterson. Watterson, the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, has been first vice president of the convention for two years.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

The Good Life

More Than Just A Phrase

A stretch of pretty autumn weather like the last four days brings out the urge to get outside and feel the world. Walk to the store instead of drive, ride a bike around the neighborhood, go to the park, fire up the grill for one last warm weather cookout. Even a mundane stroll to the bank or the dry cleaners on a lunch hour is a pleasure.

Pretty skies, nice breezes, chunks of bronze and gold falling from trees onto sidewalks — all this makes quality of life much more than a phrase. And for Greenville, which justifiably boasts of its good life, picture-perfect days of this autumn of 1989 bear a message: It is important to maintain the community's quality of life.

One way to keep the good life good is through planning — orderly, directed growth. A city, as it matures, can become a place of concrete grids divided by congested streets. It's hard to walk to the store across a busy five-lane road. Signs and utility poles don't provide as much shade or comfort as pine trees. A city can become an unfriendly place to humans.

'A city has life. That life is more than concrete, steel and stoplights. It is crepe myrtles and pines and cypress along the river.'

Greenville hasn't yet. But its citizens are worried that it could. During the recent municipal election, candidates for city council heard a surprising number of questions about bikeways, jogging paths and greenways. Senior citizens asked about places to walk. Parents asked about places for their children to play. Others asked where they might safely ride a bicycle, either for pleasure or necessity.

A city has life. That life is more than concrete, steel and stoplights. It is crepe myrtles and pines and cypress along the river. It is a place for its people to frolic and relax. It is a way to get from point A to point B by foot or pedal without being smashed by a bus.

When the newly-elected city council grapples with the sometimes insoluble problems of a growing city, its members should recall the men and women and children who give that city life. They should, in their endless planning of roads and parking lots and shopping areas, make room for people and trees.

United Way

An Important Goal Is Met

The sum of $1,317,418 will do immense good in any community. In Pitt County, that amount will support the work of many public service organizations for another year.

That figure represents the final total for this year's Pitt County United Way campaign. The United Way held its victory meeting last week to announce the good news that this year's goal of $1,258,341 had been exceeded. The generosity and caring demonstrated by United Way giving represented a 14 percent growth over 1988.

Campaign Chairman John J. West said the Pitt County United Way has met its goal for the past 10 years and it has not be forced to extend its campaign period.

It is a remarkable record, particularly as many counties struggle to meet their goals for similar fund raising campaigns. It tells this community that its citizens are aware that the 32 health and human care agencies which receive support from United Way are very much involved.

This year's success is equally remarkable in light of the number of fund raising campaigns going on. Efforts by the Pitt County Boys & Girls Club, the Greenville Museum of Art, and others, are also successful — a sign of a vigorous and involved citizenry.

The annual giving campaign has become successful because of good organization. Industries, businesses, education, health, public employees and professionals are given the opportunity to participate by pledging to United Way.

No one has to give and all who do give undoubtedly are convinced of the value of services which the participating agencies render to the community.

Thanks to a number of people, the Pitt County United Way campaign went smoothly, finished on time and exceeded the set goal. The community couldn't ask for more.

Public Forum

Students, Obey The Law

To the editor:
I am very disturbed by the student reaction to a recent change in the city's noise ordinance. I am not sure they understand what was changed or why Mr. Roakes, as president of the SGA, has not been factual in his representation of what occurred or who voted for the change. This also disturbs me. Four City Council Members and the mayor voted to change the noise ordinance. We did not ignore the committee's recommendations. We simply used their recommendations and added to them.

I feel the ordinance was strengthened not to discriminate against ECU students, but to protect citizens who live in residential neighborhoods that were being adversely impacted by unacceptable noise levels. Only certain groups were allowed to exceed 70 decibels. We simply eliminated that part of the ordinance. If anyone was being discriminated against, it was the people living in areas where these permits were being issued. Our ordinance still has enough flexibility to allow for reasonable celebrations to take place.

In my opinion no member of the Greenville City Council considers ECU students to be second class citizens. We appreciate the university and all that it adds to our city. The university and the city must work together to be good neighbors. If outdoor celebrations are wanted or needed by the students it should be up to the University to find and organize places for these to occur. I do not feel that this is something city taxpayers are responsible for.

It is my hope that ECU students will continue to make our city their home. It is also my hope that these students will be good law abiding citizens that respect the community that welcomes them.

No Roadblocks On Way Out

To the editor:
Certainly East Carolina University is an important part of the City of Greenville, but recent statements by some of the students would make one think that Greenville is ECU. Actually Greenville was here prior to ECU and actually many entities comprise this city, such as Burroughs Wellcome, Procter and Gamble, Empire Brushes, Yale, Grady White Boats, etc.

As a lifelong resident and a graduate of ECU, I can understand the frustration of city officials and students alike. I don't know what occurred Halloween night, so I can only state those things I do know. I know there is a history of Halloween near-riots in this city. I know that one of the most pleasurable sporting events in this state was canceled because some people simply don't respect the rights and property of others. Without such a history, I doubt that prison buses and riot gear would have been deemed necessary. I'm glad they were available.

This city was not created to provide pleasure for anyone, student or otherwise, who does not respect the rights and property of others. To those who demand permission to do as they please at the expense of others and who don't like this city, I know of no roadblock leading out of this town to hold you back on your way out.

In Victory Or In Defeat ...

What is to be made of a downhill slide so precipitous and so public as to stop just short of tragedy?

On Nov. 8, 1988, Michael and Kitty Dukakis ended a two-day, 11-city blitz in his final attempt to become President of the United States.

By Nov. 8, 1989, one year later, Michael Dukakis had become a lame-duck governor with a 17 percent approval rating, a projected $700 million state deficit, a man blamed for everything wrong in the state except acid rain. And on this very same day, doctors announced that Kitty Dukakis had been hospitalized for drinking rubbing alcohol.

Is this just a saga of two ordinary people, a family like others, with its strengths and weaknesses played out in public life? Or is there something here about the costs of losing in America?

It isn't possible to divide the Dukakis story into two distinct chapters, his and hers. During the high of the campaign, when Kitty and Michael stood on the platform together in Atlanta accepting his nomination, much was made about their relationship. The operative word was close. They were the political couple who had dinner together, and pleasure together.

Those who'd known the Dukakis described this pair as fire and ice. She had chosen him for steadiness. He had chosen her for energy. In the good times, the combination created a temperate zone, a careful balance. But in hard times, the thermostat seemed to go out of whack.

Anyone who has been through a national election knows about the aftershocks of loss. The Fords do and so do the Carters. Rosalynn Carter talked about her first year after defeat this way: "Jimmy and I were in a crisis....I took the election very hard. I felt that people had hurt Jimmy very much. I was hurt that he was hurt."

In many, maybe most relationships, women carry the emotional baggage. How much worse was that burden for Kitty Dukakis? How much more fragile was she all along?

Kitty once described her husband's defeat for governor in 1982 as "a public death." His fate over the past year hasn't even had the grace of death.

Dukakis returned to Beacon Hill stained in the state by the same images that had ruined his chances in the country. He came back with less clout and less energy, at the end of the Massachusetts miracle, to books that didn't balance. Trying to clear the air for governing, he announced he wouldn't run for re-election. But the air and the airwaves grew uglier, with something as personal as hatred directed at this man.

And Kitty? If it was hard returning to Plains, Ga., after the White House, it was also hard returning to Brookline, Mass., after all the excitement and attention. The governor got up in the morning, put on his tie and went to work. But the governor's wife re-ran election tapes in her brain.

By her own account, Kitty dealt with this crisis through alcohol and through recovery. But recovery isn't always a straight line. For the past year, her own work has been writing about the past (a book about the campaign) and talking about weakness — speeches about addiction. It's hard to build a new, strong life on the past and on weakness.

Some in Massachusetts blame Kitty for "doing this to Michael" willfully. They regard pain as a weakness and anniversary breakdowns as too obvious a drama.

Others have blamed Michael for "doing this to Kitty." If he bore his share of emotion, they say, she might not have been overloaded. Once again — as in the famous "rape" question during the presidential debate — his cool is used as evidence against him. So, perversely, is his ability to perform under stress.

Politics is a family business. The stories of political families are scripts played on an open stage to a crowd that isn't always kind. But the people themselves, Kitty and Michael, real and complicated, need something that is in very short supply for politicians: time and space and privacy.

For better or for worse, in sickness or in health, in victory or defeat. In the end, as the governor and husband said, "We are in this thing together."

Operation Eagle Tally Increases

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — A 400 percent increase in the number of people arrested for drunken driving shows not only an increase in law enforcement efforts, but also a persistent drunken driving problem, officials said.

So far in 1989, the combined law enforcement crackdown called Operation Eagle has resulted in 924 driving while intoxicated arrests, compared to 237 in the same period last year, said Joseph Dean, secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety on Monday.

"The problem of drunken driving is increasing and not going away," Dean said at a news conference. "Basically, we're back to where we started."

Operation Eagle "is becoming better and better as it goes along," Dean said. "The numbers are getting worse and worse."

Operation Eagle's 1989 figures show a total of 4,259 charges issued in nine highly publicized sweeps, compared to 1,111 charges issued during last year's six campaigns, Dean said.

The others were largely for other driving-related offenses and drug violations, which have also increased, officials said.

Dean blamed the rise in drunken driving in part on a manpower crunch in the state Highway Patrol and the Alcohol Law Enforcement Division, the two agencies coordinating Operation Eagle, which also enlisted the aid of local police.

Understaffing not only is clipping Operation Eagle's wings, it is preventing state troopers from thoroughly monitoring highways throughout the year.

"By all accounts, Operation Eagle was a tremendous success this year," Dean said. "By bringing the various law enforcement organization's together in one cooperative effort, we are making an impact in the area of the impaired driver."

The arrests came at roadblocks and checkpoints set up solely for that purpose.

The sites of this year's sweeps were Raleigh, Greensboro, Charlotte, Wilmington, Asheville, Winston-Salem, Hickory, Fayetteville and Greenville.

In addition, an unannounced operation netted 143 arrests in Raleigh the weekend of the Rolling Stones concert.

The program was launched last year to stem the rise of alcohol-related roadway deaths.

Almost 50 percent of all fatal accidents involve impaired drivers, and some 76,000 people were arrested for driving intoxicated in North Carolina last year, officials said.

But arrests are only the first step toward prosecution.

Chapters of Mothers Against Drunk Driving and North Carolinians Against Intoxicated Drivers, who are tracking the court cases of Eagle arrests, said the judicial system is extremely slow.

Congressmen Hear From Farmers

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WINGATE, N.C. — Several North Carolina farmers told members of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee that they generally support a federal farm bill that is due to expire next year.

But in a hearing here Monday, they asked for more protection from foreign competition, help in developing overseas markets, continuation of soil conservation programs and additional crop insurance help for farmers victimized by natural disasters.

The session was part of a series of hearings planned nationwide to help Congress develop a farm bill next year to replace a five-year bill adopted in 1985.

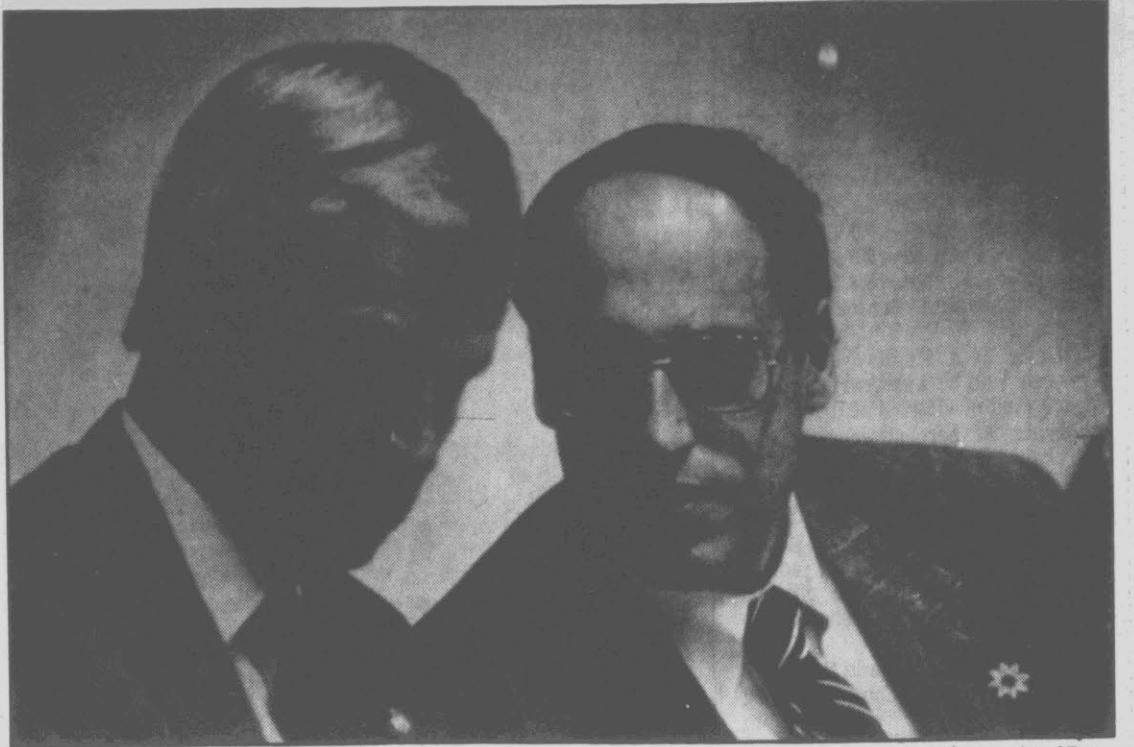

"The 1985 bill has been mostly successful and has been generally popular with our farmers," said Edwin Hammill, a Rowan County farmer and vice president of the N.C. Corn Growers Association. "I don't think the farm bill needs an overhaul — just some fine-tuning."

Experts in everything from growing tobacco to growing catfish testified at the three-hour hearing.

"We've got a very diverse state when it comes to agriculture," said U.S. Rep. Bill Hefner, who represents the 8th Congressional District. "A lot of people wanted to come in and give them an earful. In Washington, they don't get that same picture."

The hearing was conducted by U.S. Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan. Also attending were U.S. Reps. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, and Jim Walsh, R-N.Y. Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, could not attend.

The first witness was state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, who urged the lawmakers to free up federal money to assist farmers hurt by the Sept. 22 storm that caused $175 million in agricultural damage — $100 million of which occurred in Hefner's district.

The Associated Press

"We can't prevent a natural disaster like this, but we must be ready for them," said Graham, one of about 20 witnesses to address to lawmakers. "Never before has a storm so powerful struck with such fury and done so much farm damage in the heartland of North Carolina."

Graham said dairy and poultry farmers were hit hard.

"They need low-interest FmHA loans and liberal constrictions in existing loans," he said. "In other words, they need their credit extended."

Other witnesses told about the difficulties of farming in the late 1980s.

"This hearing comes at an extremely appropriate time," said Glickman, who chaired the hearing. "This is one of the last hearings we'll conduct before we begin writing the farm bill next year."

The 1985 farm bill expires on Sept. 30, 1990.

"I don't have to tell you the vast number of agriculture programs that expire on that date," Glickman said.

The audience included more than 100 people, mostly farmers and farm interest advocates.

Stenholm said a key issue that will be debated before the new farm bill is written is the use of chemicals in farming.

"There's not a single doubt in my mind that we're going to have an environmental title to the 1990 farm bill," he said. "That includes groundwater, food safety, animal rights and animal welfare."

The problems of small family farms also came up during the hearing. A number of people in the audience wore buttons that read "America's Farmland: Keep It In The Family."

Attorneys Argue AIDS Victim's Firing

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — The state Supreme Court heard arguments from attorneys who argued that their client was discriminated against when he was fired from his restaurant job because he carried the AIDS virus.

Attorneys for Scott Burgess argued Monday that their client should be allowed a trial to try to prove he was the victim of discrimination against the handicapped when he was fired from his job as a cook.

But attorneys for the restaurant where he was employed argued that a 1985 law protecting the rights of the handicapped was never intended to include the carriers of the virus.

Burgess was fired by the Your House restaurant in downtown Raleigh in November 1987 after tests showed that he carried the HIV virus, the virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome. His discrimination suit against the restaurant was dismissed without a trial in Wake County Superior Court.

"We are entitled to prove that the perceptions ... and prejudices of his employer make him handicapped," said Harry Harkins, Burgess' attorney.

Harkins said Burgess, 29, shows no signs of the fatal disease, but that a 1985 law barring discrimination against the handicapped specifically mentions "perceived" handicaps because "society's accumulated fears and myths about disease can be as limiting as a physical handicap itself."

Richard Boyette, arguing for the restaurant, said the legislature this year enacted anti-discrimination amendments for people with AIDS because AIDS victims were not covered under the 1985 law.

"The Handicapped Persons Protection Act does not apply to people infected with HIV virus," Boyette argued.

Harkins argued that Burgess' illness "threatens no one" since AIDS is transmitted through the blood or sexual activity.

"HIV people are not restricted as food handlers," Harkins said.

School Might Receive New Identity

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After a yearlong campaign by school officials, North Carolina Baptists were set to decide if Wingate College should get a new name.

For nearly a year, Wingate College officials have sought to convince alumni, students and Baptists that changing the school's name to honor Cannon Mills founder Charles Cannon is a good idea.

Today, more than 6,000 Southern Baptists at this year's N.C. Baptist State Convention in Greensboro were to decide whether to amend their constitution to change "Wingate College" to "Cannon-Wingate University."

The vote comes nearly a year after Wingate trustees made the ill-fated decision to announce — without consulting Baptist leaders — that they were changing their name to Charles Cannon University.

The January announcement prompted swift criticism from many Baptists, students and alumni. Some didn't think a Baptist college should be named for a Presbyterian industrialist, even though charitable organizations created by the late textile magnate have given the Union County college more than $10 million over the years.

Is your cholesterol level in the danger zone?

You may know the danger of high cholesterol—but do you know your number?

U.S. government health experts say all adults 20 and older should have their blood cholesterol levels screened.

If your cholesterol is under 200, that's a desirable level. And if your level is high, for every 1% you lower it, your risk of heart disease is reduced by 2%.

Take the first step by having your blood cholesterol level screened. It takes only three minutes with just a finger-stick sample. And there's no fasting required.

Foley Says House Will Raise Pay

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader is starting a campaign against it, but Speaker Thomas S. Foley says he's confident the House will approve a 33 percent pay raise and ethics reform package.

Nader, at a Monday news conference, said he was gearing up the same kind of effort that defeated a proposed 51 percent congressional pay raise earlier this year.

The fact that Congress was offering to reform its ethics this time in exchange for increasing its $89,500 salary and the salaries of federal judges and top executive officials doesn't mean the public should support it, he said.

"I don't think people in this country like the idea of Congress telling them that they will reform themselves only if they get a pay increase," Nader said. "That smells bad."

Members of Congress are in the public service, not the profit service. If they want to make more money, they can quit and go across the street and join a corporate law firm that will pay them far more than they deserve," he said.

Mother Kills 3 Sons, Herself

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PROVIDENCE, Md. — A woman whose marriage had recently broken up apparently slashed the throats of her three sons with a pocketknife and then took her own life, police said.

The woman's mother, who had talked with her daughter about her problems late into the night Sunday, found the bodies Monday morning in this Baltimore suburb, police said.

The body of Diane Ellen Warwick, 36, was found in a bathtub with both wrists slashed, and a Swiss army knife was found nearby, said police Sgt. Steve Doornberger.

The bodies of her sons, Geoffrey Warwick Jr., 5; Joshua, 4; and Daniel, 3; were found in bedrooms, their throats cut, he said.

The two younger boys apparently were killed while they slept, but Geoffrey Jr. had wounds on his hands, suggesting that he had tried to ward off the attack, police said.

Brisket Theft

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A jury sentenced a man to life in prison as a habitual criminal after he was convicted of shoplifting $10.35 worth of brisket.

Merwyn Willis Nichols, 49, who had eight previous felony convictions and four misdemeanor convictions, was sentenced Monday under the state's habitual criminal statute. The theft occurred last November.

It took jurors only 45 minutes to hand down the maximum punishment.

President Bush awards the Medal of Freedom to Walesa during White House ceremony

Walesa Calls For U.S. Aid To Unify Europe's Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lech Walesa, whom President Bush calls "the spiritual godfather" of democracy's newest sweep across the world, called today for the economic unification of all Europe and for U.S. assistance to make that a reality.

"From economic unity, political unity will emerge," the founder of Poland's Solidarity labor movement said in an interview on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

Walesa, on his first visit to the United States, received the nation's civilian award from Bush on Monday. Today, he was addressing the AFL-CIO's convention and holding a news conference before returning to White House for a private dinner with the president.

"Let's not have any artificial divisions in the 21st century," Walesa said through a translator. He said the United States should be looked to for guidance because of its "achievement in freedom."

Walesa said he was not looking for American handouts to Poland, but rather for U.S. business investment.

"Now we can do some business in Poland and Eastern Europe," he said. "Poland has opened its doors for cooperation with you and even removed these doors from the hinges, and therefore what we want is cooperation in the range of billions of dollars."

Walesa, who blinked back tears as Bush presented him the Presidential Medal of Freedom, said the emotion came out of awe for the size of America and the fact that his visit here fulfilled a boyhood dream.

Eds: Following material embargoed for release 11:30 a.m. EST

In his speech, Walesa thanked the AFL-CIO for its "unfailing and reliable" support of the Solidarity union and implored the labor federation to encourage swift and heavy investment in Poland's fledgling market economy.

"You helped us survive the most difficult days, the moments of despair and hopelessness," Walesa said in remarks prepared for his speech.

"Now the time has come to thank you; to thank you for your solidarity with Solidarity — with the cause so many people considered lost and which now, thanks to the stubbornness of Poles and the perseverance of our friends, has put us on the road to victory."

End embargoed material

He was greeted with tumultuous applause and rhythmic clapping at the White House on Monday night shortly after setting foot for the first time on American soil.

Bush used the occasion to bestow the Presidential Medal of Freedom on Walesa and to celebrate what Bush called the "astounding" events taking place in Berlin.

The president also promised, "American aid has begun, and more is coming."

Indeed, senators reached agreement Monday on a compromise that would authorize $657 million for Poland over three years and $81 million for Hungary.

The House was voting separately today on a fiscal 1990 appropriations bill that targets $533 million in aid and credits for the two East Bloc countries struggling to install democracy and rebuild their shattered economies.

Walesa, a Nobel Peace Prize winner, told Bush, "One of the greatest dreams of my life has just been fulfilled."

"I'm full of admiration for your country, not because it's a big power and not because it's rich, even though one could envy that. I admire America as a country of freedom," he said.

"You took that freedom yourself. Nobody gave it to you as a present. You built it through your hard work, step by step. You created wonderful democratic institutions which are an example for many other countries..." Walesa said. "America is rich with its freedom."

Retail Sales Fall As Car Mart Dips

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Retail sales held back by a sluggish automobile market fell 1 percent in October for their first decline in eight months, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said overall sales dropped to a seasonally adjusted $144.5 billion last month after rising 0.7 percent in both August and September.

The last time retail sales fell was in February, when they dropped 0.4 percent. They were unchanged in June.

The October decline was the largest since a 6.7 percent drop in January 1987.

Retail sales account for about one-third of the nation's economic activity and are watched as a sign of the extent to which the Federal Reserve's policy of fighting inflation by tightening credit is slowing the economy.

Auto sales, lacking major incentive programs during the month, plunged 5.1 percent in October. Car sales, which represent about 20 percent of retail total, had been propped up by incentives for much of the year and rose 0.5 percent in September and 2.2 percent in August.

The October decline was the largest since auto sales fell 26.5 percent in January 1987.

Excluding the automobile category, retail sales edged up 0.2 percent.

Sales of durable goods — items expected to last at least three years — fell 2.7 percent, their steepest fall since a 2.8 percent decline in October 1987. Durable sales were flat in September after gaining 2 percent in August.

The durable goods market has been particularly hit by the Fed's interest-rate policies because sales often are financed by loans.

Sales of building materials rose 0.9 percent after falling 1.3 percent in September and advancing 1.7 percent in August. Furniture and other home furnishing sales edged up 0.3 percent following a 0.6 percent drop in September and a 1.6 percent gain in August.

The "Save Our Schools" initiative that went before the voters last Tuesday received 71,046 votes in favor, or 50.4 percent, to 69,911 against, or 49.6 percent, elections officials said Monday after counting the ballots.

Initiative 34 asks the school board to ban the busing of students for racial balance; it does not require a ban. It says that if the board agreed to stop busing, 6 percent of the city's sales tax revenues — about $4.5 million — would be awarded to the school district for improving school programs in an effort to achieve integration voluntarily.

"I might call for the school board to vote on the initiative Wednesday," Seattle School Board president T.J. Vassar said. "But maybe it might be better to allow the courts to rule it unconstitutional."

Kathy Baxter, head of the pro-initiative forces, said supporters will lobby the board to accept the measure.

"What we've been able to do by getting the initiative passed is give the school board another tool to deal with busing," she said.

If the board votes to accept the initiative, a lawsuit would be filed against the school district by the American Civil Liberties Union of Washington, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Church Council of Greater Seattle, the ACLU said in a statement Monday.

Wilder Says His Policy Works

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — L. Douglas Wilder, the first black to be elected governor of any state, says the Democratic Party should follow his example in Virginia by offering a moderate, "mainstream" message in presidential elections.

"In presidential elections it is time for the Democratic Party to take a plunge into the waters of America's new mainstream," Wilder told a gathering of party leaders Monday.

"There was a time when Democrats were elected by campaigning against big government and high taxes," he said. "But for too long, we have let the other party take these issues away from us — indeed, we have allowed them to hammer us with these issues."

Wilder, Virginia's lieutenant governor, spoke to the Democratic Leadership Council, a group of conservative and moderate Democrats formed in 1985 to counteract liberals who have dominated the party's presidential nominating process.

The group has tried to steer the party toward the right, and Wilder has bickered publicly with the group and some of its leaders in the past.

After taking office in 1986, Wilder criticized the council as exclusionary and divisive, and he charged it was trying to weaken the influence of the party's basic constituency groups, including blacks.

Noting those past differences, Wilder said: "I will not look back. We will look forward. We will be there together."

Wilder said his campaign was successful because it appealed to mainstream values. To regain the White House, Democrats must identify with the nation's concerns about crime and drugs, jobs, the environment, education and the desire "to hold the line on taxes," he said.

GOP Told To Take Stand On Abortion

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — Next season's Republican campaigners are being advised to take firm, early positions on the issue of abortion and run on them without hedging or compromising.

Party leaders said Republicans lost votes in the off-year elections because they equivocated on abortion, not necessarily because they opposed it.

In addition, they said, Democrats claimed the middle ground on the issue in defeating Republican candidates for governor of Virginia and New Jersey a week ago.

"Lesson learned," said Lee Atwater, the Republican national chairman. "Never let your opponent define you or control the terms of debate."

Atwater said that despite the 1989 defeats, GOP prospects are good heading into next year's campaign for Congress and 36 governors.

William Bennett, head man in the war on drugs, turned to politics to advise Republican governors Monday that hedging on abortion could cost the votes and doom candidates in 1990.

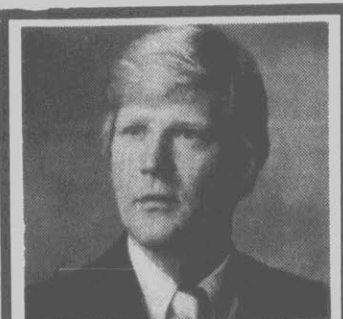

"I believe that Americans have a much higher degree of tolerance for honest differences, deeply held differences, than they have for trimmers and opportunists," Bennett told the Republican Governors Association.

Vice President Dan Quayle said Republicans should take their positions on the basis of principle.

"Once you articulate that viewpoint, do not start changing just because political winds may appear to be shifting," Quayle said.

That meshed with Atwater's counsel. Candidates, he said, must decide what they believe about the issue, state that position clearly and refuse to equivocate, no matter the campaign pressures.

"Our party is a big tent," Atwater said. "We can house many views on many issues."

Modrow Says Berlin Wall Should Stay

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERLIN — East Germany's new premier said tearing down the Berlin Wall would create "chaos" and that the barrier is needed to keep AIDS, crime and other Western problems out of his Communist country, a newspaper said today.

Hans Modrow, considered a reformer, also called for a coalition government and said he has begun consultations on the Cabinet he must form.

A leader of East Germany's biggest opposition group, New Forum, said today that the movement could work with a revamped Communist Party but that naming Modrow as premier was not enough.

Modrow was chosen Monday in a session of unprecedented liveliness in East Germany's Parliament. Lawmakers, long subservient to the Communist leadership, voted by secret ballot for the first time and endorsed opposition calls for free elections. They also elected their first non-Communist Parliament speaker.

Some deputies even called for stripping the constitution of a clause that designates the country "socialist."

Modrow, 61, is an anti-establishment Communist figure who built his power base from his former position as Dresden's Communist Party chief. He replaced Willi Stoph, who resigned last week along with his entire 44-member Cabinet.

The new premier supports step-by-step economic reforms, including the scaling down of East Germany's ponderous government bureaucracy.

Still, Modrow said the government has no intention of tearing down the Berlin Wall, despite carving new passages through it for the past five days in an effort to halt an exodus of refugees and growing public unrest.

"In our country there is little criminal activity ... cases of AIDS and drugs are virtually unknown. Our people are asking themselves why they shouldn't just leave that as it is," West Germany's Bild newspaper quoted Modrow as saying.

He said doing away with the barrier completely could cause "chaos," echoing the Communist line that the wall was designed to protect East Germany from threats of the West.

Modrow is to present his Cabinet on Friday. The official ADN news agency quoted him as saying the country needs a "real coalition government."

"This will naturally be a broader cooperation within our alliance," he said, apparently referring to four small Communist-aligned parties that have had Cabinet positions in the past but never important ones.

The election of Modrow came as hundreds of thousands of demonstrators gathered around the nation, spurred by last week's opening of East Germany's borders with the West. They shouted anti-Communist slogans and demanded an end to the party's monopoly on power.

In the city of Leipzig, about 300,000 people paraded through the streets in what has become a Monday night ritual, chanting "We are the people!" Protesters shouted "Lazy bunch!" outside the local headquarters of the secret police.

Salvadoran Fighting Traps Civilians In Capital

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Thousands of capital residents were trapped today after combat intensified between rebels and the government, whose jets and helicopter gunships rocketed rebel positions in poor neighborhoods.

At least 305 people have been killed the fighting that has paralyzed San Salvador since Saturday night, when the leftist guerrillas mounted their largest offensive in the capital of the 10-year-old civil war.

Fighting was reported Monday in seven of El Salvador's 14 provinces in the largest guerrilla offensive against the U.S.-backed government in eight years.

Civilian casualties were high in the capital as government troops and rebels exchanged gunfire in densely populated districts.

Along a wide arc on San Salvador's northern fringe, rebels installed themselves in homes and apartments and put snipers in church towers and tall buildings. People in rebel-held areas said food and water were in short supply.

Fighting intensified Monday night in northeastern San Salvador when rebels attacked the San Benito national police battalion near the military headquarters.

Sporadic gunfire and explosions could be heard this morning.

"We came down from the mountains and we're going to stay here," a guerrilla who identified himself only as Porfirio said earlier Monday. "We're winning so far and we have their morale down."

He gestured with his AK-47 assault rifle toward soldiers in the distance.

"The combat is hard, the boys (guerrillas) are in all the high buildings and control the movement of the soldiers," said a rescue worker with the Salvadoran Red Cross.

The U.S. Embassy said Monday that 86 soldiers, 202 guerrillas and 17 civilians had been killed — a total of 305. Its count of 373 wounded included 189 soldiers, 96 rebels and 88 civilians.

Morgues reported 51 civilian killed. Hospital workers said more than 220 civilians were wounded in the capital.

The military said Monday night that at least 67 soldiers and 127 guerrillas had been killed. The rebels claimed in a radio broadcast that 650 government soldiers had been killed or wounded, but gave no breakdown.

Few of the city's 1 million people were on the streets Monday and nearly all downtown stores were closed.

The U.S. Embassy said 1,500 of the rebels' estimated 7,000 regulars were fighting in the capital. The government has 45,000 soldiers.

Members of multi-racial Democratic Turnhalle Alliance cheer victory in district election

Black Nationalists Fall Short Of Control In Namibian Voting

WINDHOEK, Namibia (AP) — A black nationalist group finished first in elections that will lead to Namibian independence from South Africa, but failed to win enough votes to claim total power, unofficial results showed today.

Thousands of people who were pleased that the South-West Africa People's Organization at least won a majority thronged the streets of the capital and adjoining townships today, waving flags, singing and honking horns.

With figures in from all 23 districts, SWAPO won 331,597 votes, about 57 percent of 577,974 unchallenged votes cast. Its main rival, the Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, won 165,230 votes, or about 28 percent. The remaining votes were split between eight smaller parties.

Authorities were reviewing 96,281 ballots to determine their validity. But even if SWAPO won all the questioned votes, it would fall short of its target of a two-thirds majority.

At stake in the election, conducted last week under U.N. supervision, were 72 seats in an assembly that will write a constitution and declare independence for Namibia sometime next year after 74 years of South African rule.

SWAPO's leaders had predicted their leftist movement, which took up arms against South Africa in 1966, would easily win the two-thirds majority that would have enabled it to write the constitution without consulting other parties.

Instead, it will need to bargain with its rivals, notably the Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, a multi-racial coalition that served in the South African-installed transitional government and favors a capitalist economy.

The unofficial results were disclosed by election officials prior to the final certification by the head of the U.N. monitoring force, Martti Ahtisaari. Only after the official figures are announced will the exact breakdown of assembly seats be known.

SWAPO had trailed the Democratic Turnhalle Alliance throughout the counting process, which began Monday morning, and only overtook its rival with the tallying of votes from the last of the 23 districts — the heavily populated northern region of Ovambo, SWAPO's stronghold.

There, according to the unofficial returns, SWAPO polled 197,100 votes to 9,200 for the alliance, leapfrogging into the lead.

In addition to the two frontrunners, only two of the other parties appeared assured of winning seats in the assembly. These were the United Democratic Front, not related to the South African anti-apartheid group of the same name, and the all-white Action Christian National.

About 6 percent of Namibia's 1.3 million people are white.

After the polls closed Saturday, Ahtisaari formally declared the five-day election "free and fair" in terms of the U.N. requirements.

Sri Lankans Kill Second Rebel Chief

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka — Authorities have in two days captured and killed the three main leaders of the ultra-nationalist Sinhalese group that has been trying to overthrow the government, a Cabinet minister said today.

Upatissa Gamanayake, second-in-command of the People's Liberation Front, was shot to death Monday night when he tried to escape, Foreign Minister Ranjan Wijeratne said.

Gamanayake's reported killing came less than 24 hours after the government said its forces had killed both the front's supreme leader and founder, Rohana Wijeweera, and its third-in-command.

Gamanayake, 36, was regarded as heir apparent to Wijeweera.

The foreign minister said Gamanayake was captured on information provided by Wijeweera and was taking interrogators to a front hideout when he tried to jump out of the vehicle. Soldiers shot and killed him, Wijeratne said.

He said six of the front's seven Politburo members have been killed, declining to identify the seventh member who he said was still at large.

Wijeweera was captured Sunday in the central Kandy hill district and brought to Colombo, where he was killed, Wijeratne announced Monday. He said the front's No. 3 man, H.B. Herath, was killed at the same time.

The official said both were killed when Wijeweera was bringing authorities to the front's headquarters in Colombo. He said Herath pulled out a pistol and shot at his colleague, and security forces then shot and killed both men.

Wijeratne said the two bodies were quickly cremated under maximum secrecy.

He did not say when Gamanayake was arrested, but an official source said he was captured Monday about 15 miles south of Coombo. The source spoke on condition of anonymity.

Economic Crisis Raises Chance Thatcher May Be Forced Out

By Maureen Johnson
 THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — Margaret Thatcher, who only six months ago looked unassailable, is suddenly looking vulnerable and defensive.

An economic slump, culminating in the Oct. 26 resignation of her treasury chief, has confronted her with possibly the worst crisis of her decade in office.

The combative determination that wrought a revolution is looking more like authoritarianism — a trait she may have exercised once too often in forcing the resignation of Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson.

And for the first time, she has given Britons a glimpse of a future without her all-embracing presence, saying she is likely to step down sometime after the next election, which must be held by mid-1992.

"I think people would think it was time for someone else to carry the torch," she told the Sunday Correspondent newspaper.

At 64, midway through a third five-year term, her comment shouldn't have been all that surprising. The fact that it triggered a furor is testimony to the profound impact she has had on British life.

Her supporters insist that Mrs. Thatcher will triumph, that she thrives on adversity as she showed in waging war for the Falkland Islands, facing down Northern Ireland's militants and, most recently, at last month's Commonwealth conference resisting a united front seeking tougher sanctions for South Africa.

"In a country where every other politician seems to change postures every opinion-poll time, Thatcher — irritating as she frequently is — does not do that," wrote Norman MacRae in The Sunday Times.

Says Mrs. Thatcher: "A leader must lead firmly ... How can I change Margaret Thatcher? I am what I am."

But her admission of political mortality is likely to intensify the war of succession that began to stir last month at her Conservative Party's annual convention.

Contenders such as former Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine and Deputy Prime Minister Sir Geoffrey Howe were already sending out veiled challenges.

With inflation above 7 percent, interest rates at an eight-year high of 15 percent and the trade deficit hitting new records, the gloss had gone off the Thatcherite boom and the opposition Labor Party was averaging a 10-point lead in opinion polls.

Then came Lawson's bombshell, depriving Mrs. Thatcher of the man she herself had credited with turning Britain's economic fortunes around. Thus her interview, published Nov. 5, became something of a starter's pistol in the race to succeed her.

Lawson said he resigned because Mrs. Thatcher ignored his ultimatum to sack Sir Alan Walters, her part-time economic adviser,

Conferees Hit Deadlock On Coverage For Retirees

WASHINGTON — Negotiators from the Senate and House deadlocked today on whether catastrophic medical coverage for retirees should be scaled back sharply or repealed outright.

House conferees insisted on repeal of the year-old program, just as the full House had done. Senate negotiators, seeing no movement from the House, responded by insisting that the provision of the law covering hospital costs be retained.

"We haven't made any progress on catastrophic," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate negotiators, told reporters. He assailed the Bush administration for taking a hands-off position on the issue.

"I frankly don't see the White House exercising any leadership on catastrophic," Bentsen said. "I don't know where they are. I'd be delighted to find out."

The administration took the same stand earlier this year when the House and Senate battled over the fate of the landmark medical insurance program. At one point, Health Secretary Louis Sullivan endorsed one Senate proposal for salvaging parts of the program only to have Budget Director Richard G. Darman insist that Sullivan was not speaking for the administration.

If House and Senate negotiators are unable to agree on what to do about catastrophic, the law will remain on the books and coverage under the program will be expanded in January.

However, congressional aides on both sides of the issue say a long-term stalemate is unlikely. That is because Congress has been deluged with mail from many retirees who oppose parts of the program. The biggest sore spot is the income surtax, paid only by 40 percent of retirees, that finances most of the program.

Both houses of Congress voted to repeal the surtax. The Senate bill would retain a flat $4-a-month premium that is paid by all but the poorest retirees. That premium would continue protection against high hospital bills but provide no coverage for doctor bills or prescription drugs.

Shuttle Launch May Be Delayed

WASHINGTON — Next week's scheduled launch of space shuttle Discovery on a classified military mission probably will be delayed because of potential shorts in the wiring assemblies of the two rocket boosters.

NASA said technicians today were removing four integrated electronics assemblies — two from each of the boosters — and taking them to the manufacturer's facilities for inspection.

"There is the potential some wiring there could short," said Lisa Malone, a space center spokeswoman. "We won't know what the launch impact will be until later."

A formal statement was expected later in the day. Discovery's launch had been scheduled for Nov. 20.

The electronics units are the brains of the boosters, routing power commands and data between the booster rockets and the orbiter.

The potential problem showed up in the prelaunch testing.

Farmers Sue Board

CHICAGO — Family farmers from the leading soybean-producing states sued the Chicago Board of Trade today, accusing it of illegally manipulating prices.

The federal suit was filed by individual farmers and the American Agriculture Movement, a lobbying group that represents small farmers and rural businessmen in 34 states.

At issue is last summer's collapse of soybean prices, which the farmers blame on an emergency order July 11 by the Board of Trade to sell off all large holdings in soybeans.

The order was widely viewed as an effort to break up an alleged attempt to corner the market by Ferruzzi Finanziaria SpA, one of the world's largest soybean processors.

The farm organization said in a statement that the order was a "bad-faith and self-serving action" initiated by the BOT's dominant members, including major soybean merchants, to create profits.

It said the resulting drop in soybean prices "could cost the rural economy, farmers, rural bankers, implement dealers and others well over $1 billion."

Board Chairman Karsten Mahlmann said the BOT considers the lawsuit frivolous. He said the board had acted to maintain order in the market and that the Commodity Futures Trading Commission had vindicated the BOT.

grouped with Beaufort, Pamlico, Craven and Lenoir counties.

"We've got to go to landfills and we're going to have to start thinking about how they are going to be grouped together," said James E. Fulghum, executive vice president of the Eastern Chamber. "We don't care how they are going to be grouped, we just don't want anyone to be left out."

Skinner said 90 percent of North Carolina's waste is disposed of in landfills.

"By 1995, the Environmental Protection Agency estimates half our nation's landfills will be closed, leaving huge volumes of waste with no disposal options available," Skinner said.

Registration

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — An independent group in Czechoslovakia has applied to register as a political party for the first time, emigre sources said Monday.

While Communist leaders in other Warsaw Pact countries have offered to share power or at least open a dialogue with the opposition, Czechoslovak Communists so far have refused to engage in dialogue with opposition groups.

Knowles Fired By City Council

Ms. Shinn described Monday's debate over Knowles position as more than heated.

"Tempers flared, sharp words were passed, and there was some banging on the table," Ms. Shinn said. She admitted that she banged the table during the proceedings.

"I personally don't regret my decision," Ms. Shinn said.

Ms. Jenkins said today, "I'm appalled by the action."

Ms. Jenkins, who was elected as the city's new mayor on Nov. 7, praised Knowles performance as city manager and said she had been looking forward to working with him during her term in office.

The mayor-elect also said she felt charges against Knowles' performance, particularly regarding communications with the council, were not well grounded.

"They were their personal concerns, not mine," Ms. Jenkins said about the reasons the four members of the governing board decided to fire the city manager.

Ms. Shinn, while admitting she and Carter had disagreements with the city manager, denied personal motives were involved in the firing.

"The mayor and I were probably his two strongest supporters in the hiring process," Ms. Shinn said. "I had high hopes for him."

Carter also said last night the firing was not personally motivated.

"People are going to have to say what they think," Carter said. "We have our reasons, and we think they are logical."

Art Theft

JERUSALEM (AP) — More than 200 Japanese miniature art objects valued at $300,000 were stolen before dawn Monday from the Japanese Art Museum in Haifa, the museum's director said.

David Plonsky, head of museum administration in Haifa, offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to recovery of stolen objects.

Japanese Art Museum director Elie Lanzman said the 203 stolen pieces included small sculptures called netsuke, lacquered boxes, writing utensils and examples of metal work.

Water Crisis Ebbs

looking at two long-term options, drilling of additional wells and ozone treatment."

Radford said both of those options would cost the city in excess of $5 million to implement. He said the ozone treatment involves removing organics from the water through a highly-technical electronic process.

"The greatest cost in the well field idea is transporting water from the northeast part of town to the southwest where the water treatment plant is," he said. "The other option is building a treatment facility on the northeast side."

The Environmental Protection Agency allows 100 parts per billion of trihalomethanes in drinking water. State scientists said Washington's water contained up to 1,400 parts per billion in September. They said those levels had been reduced to 200 to 300 parts per billion by October.

Scientists have said the high levels of trihalomethanes were produced when chlorine used to treat swamp water from Tranters Creek, Washington's main water source, mixed with naturally occurring organics in the water.

Radford said the chloramine process would not be difficult for the city to implement because all of the necessary equipment is already in place.

"It (chloramination) is done in conjunction with the carbon blanket that we instituted about 30 days ago," he said. "The cost of the equipment is the major expense and that was between $5,000 and $6,000."

The powdered carbon treatment is currently being used on the city's raw water to absorb organics in the swamp water. That treatment is currently costing the city about $16,000 a month, according to Radford. He said its implementation would eventually translate into higher water bills for Washington residents.

"It will certainly mean higher costs," he said. "No one wants to pay more, but I believe they (residents) will pay it to have potable water."

After the new treatment method is implemented Wednesday, Radford said reduced trihalomethane levels should be noticeable in Washington's water system within three weeks.

"We will purge our water system of water in there now and will process new water which will take over night," Radford said. "We'll run it for about two weeks and then we'll test the water. We believe those tests will reflect lower trihalomethane levels."

Radford said once the city has the results of those tests, he plans to ask state scientists to run a separate set of tests on the city's water.

"We will request state testing at state labs of our water and we feel sure they (health officials) will open our (water) system," Radford said.

Radford said the chloramine process is one of several suggestions Washington officials got from engineers at Rivers & Associates of Greenville and Environmental Engineering & Technologies of Chesapeake, Va., both hired as consultants to help solve the city's water problems.

He said there are a couple of disadvantages to using chloramine. People who are on home kidney dialysis units would not be able to use city water in their dialysis process without adding a carbon filter to the equipment, Radford said.

He said city officials know of no residents who currently use home dialysis.

Also, people who have aquariums will need to alter their filtering process once the chloramine process is under way. Radford said they should talk to pet shop owners or fish experts to determine what modifications are necessary.

Radford said he expects citizens to be able to drink water from their faucets as early as December. "If we are able to reach our goals, it should only be about three weeks before the water is back on," Radford said.

Work Reflects Values, Aptitudes And Personality

By John R. Ball

Your Mental Health

We all have some awareness of the importance of the various institutions in our lives and of being cared for positively by them.

Among such institutions are church, school, family, county, city, state or federal government. All provide the essentials of life in one way or another. We often forget, however, the importance of work for our well-being.

We tend to define people by the work they do. Many surnames or last names reflect the work or trade traditions of families and where they may have lived.

For instance, the Woodys may have been wood craftsmen or the Smithsons may have been ironworkers, coming out of the tradition of the blacksmith. You can think of other examples.

The point is that work is important in giving meaning to our lives. One's choice of work may reflect values, aptitudes, personality and, perhaps, how he or she is valued by other people. We are all dependent on work, the quality of that work and the meaning it brings to our lives. Most of us depend on our jobs for our livelihoods and our place in the community.

Work is important to family integrity. It is obvious that school-age children's job is school. The school measures a student's job in terms of performance and accomplishments.

We are a performance-based society. Judgments are made about those who do not meet the performance standards of their work, whether in school or on the job.

Those who do not work and perform are not as highly valued as others. And yet, on every side, we are confronted with the fact that our work is not comparable in quality to that of other countries, such as Japan. In North Carolina, we are confronted with the fact that our students' work is not measured to be as successful as that in other states.

So, we are left with the questions of how important one's work is to the community, how important work is to oneself, how satisfying that work is, and what role that work plays in one's evaluation of himself and his worth.

It seems that work, our job, should provide us not with just income, but with an opportunity to grow, develop skills, be a part of a community and do something personally meaningful.

If we really believe that work lends meaning to life, then, we must evaluate the quality of that work and the contribution we make to our fellow man through work. It is unfortunate, but apparently true, that some of us tend to work less than one-third of the time for which we are paid.

It is obvious that something is being lost in the work place when we realize how much of a normal work day is actually used to do the work of the job. It is clear that the problems of work are carried home and the problems of home are carried to work.

The work place claims more of any family member's time than family members spend with each other. Students are expected to take a part of their work home with them. They also use time to watch television and play. Parents bring home the distractions of the workplace and job-related stress. So, time for family life is very limited.

When we realize how much actual

Mementos Are From Happy Days

Dear Abby: You recently ran a letter from a widow whose daughters, meaning to be helpful, had gone to her home and cleaned out all the evidence of her deceased husband. As a rather recent widow, may I comment on those who are carrying on without their partners?

It gives me much comfort to have my late husband's pictures around me. I "talk" to them. Yesterday I even scolded him, saying, "You know I hate being alone. Why aren't you here to help me?"

I am always pleased when I see my young adult son wearing one of his father's good shirts. (He wore his dad's favorite tie at his recent graduation.) If all those things had been given away, I would miss reliving so many happy memories.

My husband was an avid sailor and had many books on sailing. Had I given them to a rummage sale, they would have meant nothing. I gave them as gifts to his sailing friends who treasure them, knowing they came from a real sailing expert. His notes and comments scribbled in the margin enhanced their value. Even an old dish that was his is on my desk holding paper clips and rubber bands. Why should I discard useful objects because they were his and he is gone?

Dear Abby

It's true, those things can be painful reminders, but one way to get over the pain is to keep a few familiar things around to remind me of good times.

Thanks for listening, Abby. My husband died at 52, too soon. — Geraldine In Honolulu

Dear Geraldine: Thank you for a poignant letter. When one partner leaves a loving partnership, it's always "too soon." My condolences. Carry on, brave lady.

Dear Abby: I was in the restaurant business in Monroe, La., during the Depression as well as during inflation.

People used to complain about the high cost of eating out. I am enclosing one of our counter menus just to give you an idea of what the prices were like in 1933.

Notice the "special lunch" — meat, potatoes and a vegetable cost a dime. A piece of pie (any pie in the place) cost a nickel. You could get a jumbo cup of coffee and three doughnuts for a nickel. In comparison with today's prices, they had nothing to complain about.

I am now 87 years old, and people are still complaining about how expensive everything is. I guess some things never change.

Please use my name — I'd love to hear from somebody else who lived during the Depression days. — Peter P. Booras, Rock Island, Ill.

Dear Peter: In 1933 people were lucky to be eating — never mind eating "out."

If you would like to Write to Abby, send your letter to Abigail Van Buren, P.O. Box 6940, Los Angeles, CA, 90069. For a personal, non-published reply, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Toll-Free Shopping Lingers

Note to Editor: This Best of Bombeck release originally appeared Oct. 16, 1984.

Like millions of other Americans, I have become a toll-free 800 shopper.

Catalogs are my life. They are stacked by my bed, stored under my desk, spilling out all over the coffee table, bundled and stored in the garage, and still each day a truck pulls up and deposits more.

The reason I took to catalog shopping was to save time. Imagine, no more putting on a dress with a belt, finding my car keys, cruising around looking for a parking spot, and being body-searched when I emerged from a fitting room. All I had to do was pick up the phone and place my order. What could be simpler than that?

Who would have guessed that Miss Toll-Free would want to know my full name, address, phone where I could be reached during the day and evening, the 15 digits of my credit card, its date of expiration, the page on which my items appeared and their digit code numbers?

Also, the description, first and second choice of color, the monogram, the quantity and the price on each item? Did I want it shipped regular or express mail? Gift-wrapped? Did I know of anyone who was not receiving the catalog? What were the four letters following my name on the address label?

I had conversations with Miss Toll-Free that lasted longer than most marriages. But after that, it was all over, right?

Wrong. Because no one was home, the package containing my salt-and-pepper ceramic pigs was delivered to my neighbor, whom I hadn't seen in a year and a half. When I went to pick them up, I was there for four hours getting caught up.

The Peruvian hat that looked sensational and mysterious on the model (possibly because she was Peruvian, wore a black cape and boots, and was standing next to a llama) made me look like I was hiding from the law under a manhole cover. It had to be returned. Unfortunately, I had discarded the box it came in. The only one who had a box that fit was Mother, who lives 45 minutes away and wanted me to price things for a garage sale while I was there.

At Wits End

I would like to reform -- go back to shopping the old way, get off the phone and get on with my life -- but the catalogs keep coming and coming, and I don't know whom to tell to make them stop.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices pushed ahead this morning as hopes persisted that the Federal Reserve Board will pursue a more generous credit policy to spur economic growth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 4.31 to 2,630.74 by 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Advancing issues outpaced declines on the New York Stock Exchange with 590 up, 393 down and 516 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 20.37 million shares after the first 30 minutes of trading.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 0.39 to 188.61.

Market watchers say stocks got a lift from several reports released before trading began today that furnished fresh evidence of an economic slowdown.

However, analysts said the statistics didn't paint a completely clear picture because they were influenced by special circumstances.

Retail sales dropped 1 percent in October, the first decline since February. The Commerce Department said a slumping automobile market depressed total retail sales.

Separately, the Fed reported industrial production fell 0.7 percent in October. A strike in the aircraft industry and the impact of the California earthquake crimped overall output.

Traders have been hoping the central bank will decide the sluggish economy needs the stimulation that lower interest rates would provide.

Interest Rates May Keep Falling

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — In what would be good news for consumers and business borrowers, many private economists are looking for interest rates to continue falling over the next six to nine months.

The analysts are looking for further rate declines as the Federal Reserve tries to keep a sluggish economy from toppling into a recession.

But while economists are looking for future rate cuts by the central bank, they don't expect to see any further action in that direction over the next month or so, given the fact that Fed policymakers moved to ease credit conditions slightly just last week.

Those comments were the prevailing view as top Fed officials gathered in Washington today for a meeting of the Federal Open Market Committee, the panel of Fed board members and regional bank presidents that meets eight times a year to map monetary strategy.

David Wyss, an economist with DRI-McGraw Hill, said he was looking for a variety of consumer and business borrowing rates to edge lower through next summer, reflecting sluggish growth during this period and Fed easing moves.

Wyss predicted that the benchmark prime rate, to which one-third of all business and consumer loans is tied, will be cut from 10.5 percent to 10 percent before Thanksgiving with another cut to 9.5 percent in the first half of next year.

Allen Sinai, chief economist of the Boston Co., predicted that the national average for fixed-rate mortgages, currently at a three-month low of 9.79 percent, would fall to around 9.5 percent in coming months with adjustable rate mortgages declining by a somewhat larger amount.

"I believe we will see additional easing on the part of the Fed over the next three to nine months because the economy will keep on weakening, but I don't think the central bank is planning to make a one-fourth percentage point cut in rates every few weeks," Sinai said.

Analysts were still puzzling over the timing of the Fed's easing move last week. Members of the FOMC reportedly held a telephone conference call Nov. 6, deciding to push a key interest rate, the federal funds rate, down from 8.75 percent to 8.5 percent.

Manipulation of this rate, which is the interest banks charge each other for overnight loans, is the primary lever the Fed uses to control short-term interest rates.

Many analysts believe that growth will slow significantly from now until next summer.

AFL-CIO Convention Puts On Rowdy Display Of Solidarity

By John King THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The AFL-CIO is staging a rowdy show of labor solidarity and serving notice that its unions plan to adopt a more aggressive stance in the coming years.

The 14.1 million-member federation opened its 18th biennial constitutional convention Monday, beginning with a sing-along to promote labor unity and ending by passing a resolution pledging support for union workers involved in several major strikes.

The most celebrated event of the week-long convention comes today when Solidarity leader Lech Walesa appears to thank the AFL-CIO for its support of the Polish trade union and accept the federation's highest honor, the George Meany Human Rights Award.

On Monday, the 800 delegates warmly welcomed the United Mine Workers back under labor's umbrella and enjoyed a procession by hundreds of workers involved in the strikes, one of which may soon be over.

Communications Workers of America President Morton Bahr told the gathering that his union and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have reached a tentative company-wide settlement with NYNEX Corp. and hope to resolve local issues within a week. The two unions represent 60,000 workers who have been on strike for 15 weeks against NYNEX, which provides phone service in most of the Northeast.

NYNEX strikers joined their counterparts at Boeing, Pittston Coal and Eastern Airlines in a march through the convention hall, where delegates spent the day promoting labor solidarity and promising to end the 1980s, a tough decade for labor, on a positive and militant note.

UMW President Richard Trumka, addressing the convention a month after the Mine Workers ended 40 years of independence from the federation, sounded a warning that anti-union employers "who looked upon the 1980s with great fondness are about to have their visions shattered in the 1990s because we will never be separated again."

Thrift Regulator Says He Plans To Stay On Despite S&L Probe

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Amid indications he may be losing administration support, the nation's top thrift regulator says he has no intention of resigning as a House committee shifts its investigation from him to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

"I've had no indication either way from the president," M. Danny Wall, said Monday in response to President Bush's remark that he has not ruled out replacing Wall as director of the Treasury Department's Office of Thrift Supervision.

For the past month, Wall and his top aides have been the target of House Banking Committee hearings on why they waited two years to seize the now-defunct Lincoln Savings and Loan Association of Irvine, Calif., after government examiners recommended a takeover.

His predecessor, Edwin J. Gray, testified last week that five senators who received a total of $1.3 million in political contributions raised by Lincoln's owner, Phoenix millionaire Charles H. Keating Jr., intervened when regulators were trying to curtail its risky investments.

The five — Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.; John McCain, R-Ariz.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Donald Riegle Jr., D-Mich.; and John Glenn, D-Ohio — and their ties with Keating are the focus of inquiries by the Senate Ethics Committee and the FBI.

All have denied wrongdoing, and Riegle and DeConcini have said they will return the money Keating and his associates donated to their political campaigns or causes.

Wall told a House panel Monday that Riegle, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, and Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, chairman of the House Banking Committee, asked him in a joint letter shortly after Bush signed a $157 million S&L bailout bill in August to keep a record of congressional inquiries about specific enforcement actions.

Wall said a system for doing that had not been completed.

The 29-branch Lincoln Savings was seized last year. Regulators estimate it will cost taxpayers up to $2 billion to pay off savers whose federally insured deposits were lost,

Juice Scam Brings Plea

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — The former president of the Beech-Nut Nutrition Corp. admitted he cheated millions of consumers by selling them sugar water labeled as pure apple juice for babies.

Niels L. Hoyvald, 56, pleaded guilty Monday to 10 felony counts of violating the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. The plea forestalled a third trial for Hoyvald.

Beech-Nut and its corporate parent spent as much as $10 million in legal fees during the case, said federal Judge Thomas C. Platt.

Platt fined Hoyvald $100,000 and sentenced him to five years probation and six consecutive months of full-time community service. The agreement concludes a complex and costly prosecution that began three years ago.

Club Stops Shirt Sales

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. — An exclusive country club concerned with keeping its image off the chests of thousands stopped designer Ralph Lauren from selling shirts emblazoned with a design similar to the club's crest.

U.S. District Court Judge Clyde Hamilton in Florence has signed a settlement ordering Ralph Lauren Corp. to stop selling the shirts with the disputed design, though he exempted those already at retailers.

Lauren must pay Pine Lakes International Country Club $100,000 in legal fees and an additional $250,000 as part of the settlement, which did not assign any wrongdoing.

Club president A. Sanford Miles, who called the suit a "David and Goliath" conflict, said money was not the issue in the lawsuit.

Trump Says Allies 'Ripping Us Off'

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Billionaire developer Donald Trump launched a verbal war on the Japanese, South Koreans and other U.S. allies who he said were "ripping off" America.

The Japanese are "not allies" of the United States, Trump said. West Germany "is ripping us off" and South Korea is "a major ripoff country."

"If we get any kinder or gentler, we won't have any America left," Trump told about 600 people at the Wings Club, an airline industry group.

Trump owns the former Eastern Airlines shuttle and made a brief run on the parent of American Airlines last month, but he said almost nothing about the airline business in his talk.

"Japan is truly taking advantage of the United States ... They are ripping us like no one has ever ripped us before," Trump said. "We're the biggest suckers in the world; we're the biggest dopes in the world."

Trump suggested that an import tax be put on items such as Mercedes Benz automobiles to exact "a pound of flesh" from the exporters.

He spoke without a prepared text or notes.

The remarks by Trump, best known for his New York-based real estate empire, come in the wake of a Japanese company's purchase of a controlling interest in the company that manages Rockefeller Center, a New York landmark.

Reports Have N.C. State Set For Copper Bowl

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A hectic round of bowl jockeying has ended with N.C. State landing a bid to play Arizona in the inaugural Copper Bowl at Tucson, Ariz., on New Year's Eve, several newspapers reported.

Meanwhile, Citrus Bowl officials said they would invite the Atlantic Coast Conference champion to their game.

The Wolfpack, win or lose against Virginia Tech on Saturday, will get the bid, according to Copper Bowl official Larry Brown.

"They're our team, regardless of how it goes Saturday," Brown said in a telephone interview from Tucson with The News and Observer of Raleigh. "Obviously, we are rooting very much for them to get the win. But we think we have a class program and a class coach, and that's good enough for us. We're tickled to have them in our first game."

Wolfpack coach Dick Sheridan expressed enthusiasm at the day's events. "I can't say anything officially, because the bids have not formally been extended," Sheridan said Monday night. "But we're very much excited about the idea of getting a chance to play a team like Arizona and hope we are extended a bid."

The Florida Citrus Bowl decided to exercise its option to invite the ACC champion, bowl officials said Monday night.

The Citrus Bowl's decision could affect the status of three ACC teams since Virginia, Duke or Clemson could get the invitation, depending on the outcome of Saturday's games. It could also interfere with those teams' prior agreements with other bowls.

Duke has an existing agreement with the All American Bowl (Dec. 28, Birmingham, Ala.) to play Texas Tech; Clemson has worked a deal with the Gator (Dec. 30, Jacksonville) to play West Virginia; and Virginia, the favorite for the Citrus, has a backup arrangement with the Peach (Dec. 30, Atlanta), The Charlotte Observer reported.

Postseason agreements officially cannot be announced until Nov. 25.

N.C. State's bowl chances appeared dim Monday morning. But Georgia, which was considered to be a front-runner for the All American and Copper bowls, declined both opportunities to host the Dec. 30 Peach Bowl, where it is expected to face Syracuse (6-3), Arizona State (6-3-1) or Virginia. Arizona 6-4 plays at Arizona State Nov. 25 in the final regular-season game for both teams.

Georgia's decision opened the Copper Bowl for N.C. State and several other bowl hopefuls — South Carolina (6-3-1); Syracuse; Kentucky (6-3); and Florida (6-3).

But Copper Bowl officials contacted N.C. State Monday afternoon and the two parties struck an agreement Monday night. "We feel it would be great for our kids, who have worked so hard this season," Sheridan said. "It would be a reward and an indication of the level of success we have achieved."

UNLV Tops First Poll

By Jim O'Connell
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNLV, which added junior college player of the year Larry Johnson to a deep, veteran roster, was the easy choice on Monday as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press' Top 25 college basketball poll.

The Runnin' Rebels, which finished last season 29-8 and one victory shy of the Final Four, received 30 of 65 first-place votes and 1,555 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters to easily outdistance Louisiana State for the top spot.

"I just hope they're all right," UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian said when told of the No. 1 ranking. "I like our team very much, I like our kids very much. They've got a great ethic and they want to win."

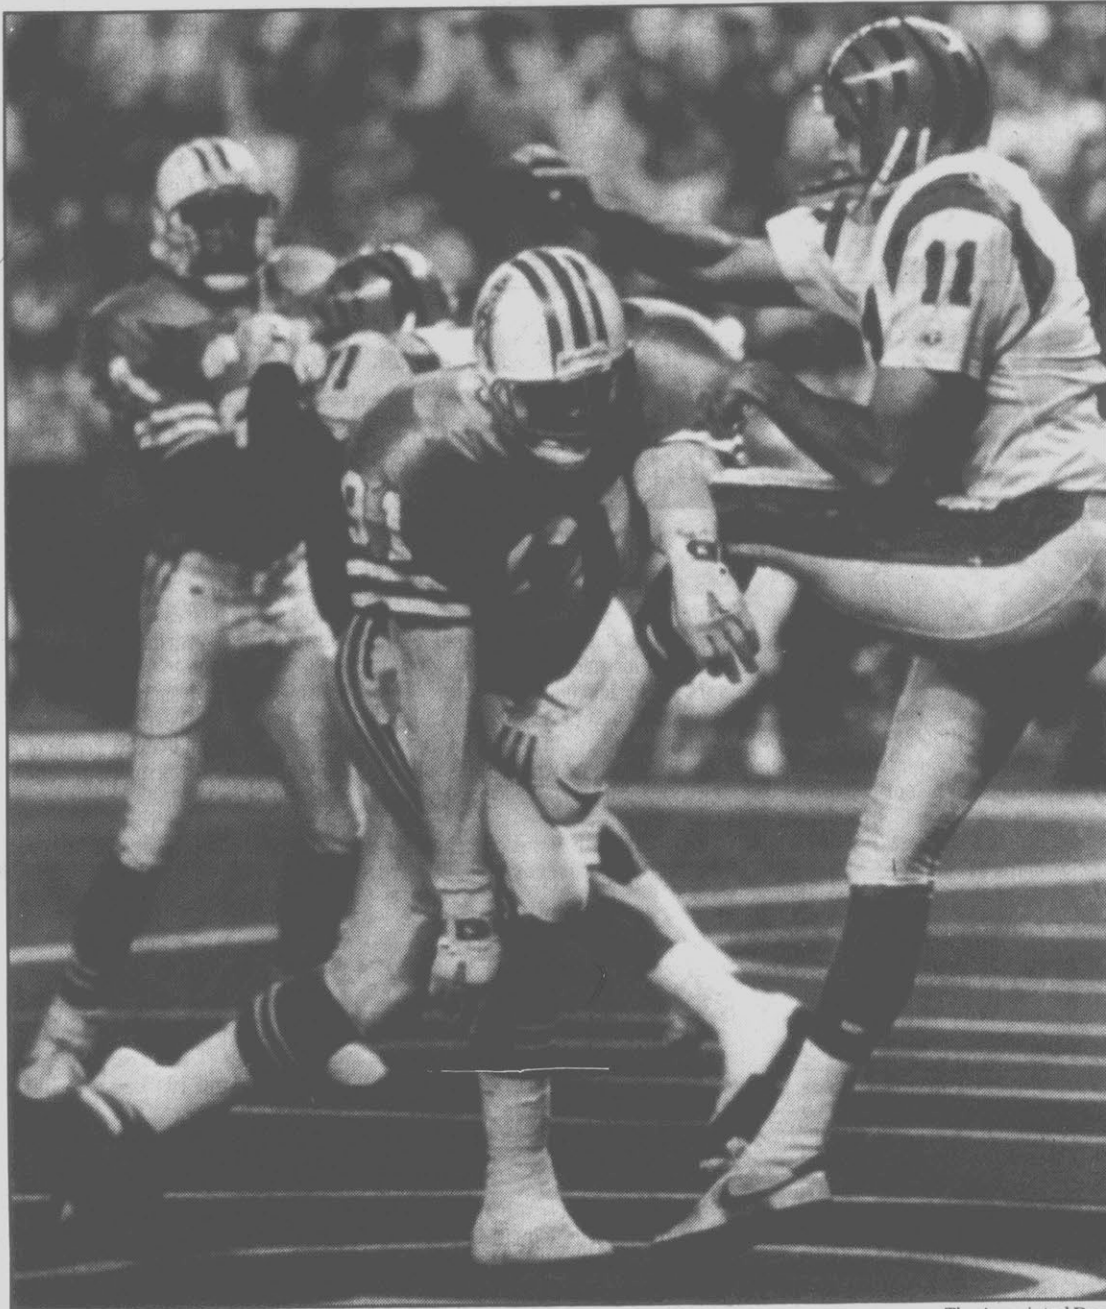

The last time UNLV was ranked No. 1 was the 1986-87 season when the Runnin' Rebels held the top spot for 12 weeks.

LSU, which will feature sophomore sensation Chris Jackson as well as a frontline bolstered by freshman Shaquille O'Neal and Prop 48 sophomore Stanley Roberts, had 14 first-place votes and 1,447 points, 16 more than Syracuse, which had eight first-place votes.

Defending national champion Michigan was next with seven first-place votes and 1,415 points, just three ahead of Georgetown, which had four first-place votes.

Arizona, the No. 1 team in last season's final poll, had one first-place vote, the same number as Arkansas, the seventh and final team to be No. 1 on a ballot.

Special Teams Roll Oilers' Reserves Sink Cincinnati

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Houston Oilers special teams coach Richard Smith faces a busy week giving out awards for his wild and crazy "hit the beach" players.

Quarterback Warren Moon drove the Oilers to Tony Zendejas' fourth field goal of the game, a 28-yard game winner as time expired, for a 26-24 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals Monday night.

Forgotten wide receiver Leonard Harris replaced leading receiver Drew Hill and made key catches, including a 23-yard touchdown grab.

But when the medals are passed out, the special teams will get the most attention for keeping the Oilers in contention for the AFC Central Division title.

"The Oilers have the greatest punt rush team in the league," said Bengals punter Lee Johnson, twice victimized by the Oilers' special teams.

"Anytime the game is this close, special teams are going to be a big factor. They got 13 points from their special teams and that was the difference."

Eugene Seale recovered a blocked punt in the end zone for a Houston touchdown and Seale also tackled Johnson on fourth down to set up a field goal. Bubba McDowell caused a fumble on a kickoff to set up another field goal.

"It just shows that when one part of this team is having problems, another area can take over and do the job," McDowell said. "We took up the slack."

Cincinnati took early command of the crucial divisional battle, building a 14-7 halftime lead on a 58-yard run by James Brooks and a 1-yard dive by Craig Taylor.

"I saw everybody go up for the ball but I didn't see anyone come down with it," Seale said of his second career touchdown.

"Then I saw the ball lying on a Cincinnati player's chest but he didn't have control of it. Somehow, I was able to get the ball."

And somehow, the Oilers are still in the Central race, in second place with a 6-4 record behind Cleveland, 7-3, and ahead of the Bengals, 5-5.

Zendejas kicked his first three field goals over a 4:10 span of the third quarter and early fourth quarter, boosting the Oilers into a 16-14 lead. The kicks went for 32, 42 and 47 yards.

Boomer Esiason, who completed 11 of 19 passes for 209 yards, put the Bengals back into the lead with a 73-yard touchdown pass to Rodney Holman, but the Oilers quickly countered with Harris' touchdown catch.

Cincinnati made one last stab at victory when Jim Breech kicked a 38-yard field goal for a 24-23 lead.

"A 5-5 record puts us in a position where we must win all the remaining games on our schedule," Cincinnati linebacker Reggie Williams said. "Our playoff hopes are dim but they're not out."

Moon, who completed 17 of 33 passes for 198 yards, simply wouldn't settle for losing.

ECU Meets Yugoslavs

East Carolina University's basketball Pirates will host the Red Star team of Yugoslavia in an exhibition game tonight at 7 p.m. in Mingos Coliseum.

Red Star comes in with a 2-2 record against the Colonial Athletic Association. The Yugoslavians are playing each of the CAA teams. Thus far, they have lost to American, beaten James Madison, lost to Richmond and beaten UNC-Wilmington.

The UNCW game, played Monday night, went double overtime before Red Star pulled out an 86-84 decision.

The Yugoslavians will be playing for the second night in a row, and the fifth game over the last seven nights. Following tonight's game, they will be at William & Mary on Wednesday, George Mason on Thursday and Navy on Friday.

Zoran Radovic led Red Star in last night's game, scoring 27 points, including six in overtime and the winning basket.

Mladjen Silobad and Ivo Petovic each had 12 points while Slobodan Jankovic had 10.

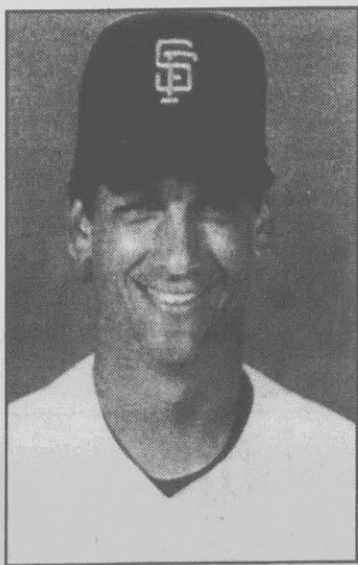

Radovic scored six points in the second overtime, including a 10-foot jumper with 20 seconds left, to lift the Yugoslavs to the win.

Matt Fish had 19 points and 11 rebounds for N.C. Wilmington, and Bryan Withers added 14 for the Seahawks, which were making their first exhibition appearance.

For the Pirates, it will be their first official exhibition game. Earlier they played an armed services team at Cherry Point and two intra-squad games.

East Carolina is led by senior veterans Gus Hill and Reed Lose. Four other veterans return to the squad, Robin House, Stanley Love, Casey Mote and Jeff Perlich.

Newcomers include Tim Brown, Paul Childress, Ike Copeland, Taro Knight, Darrell Overton, Steve Richardson and Jeff Whitaker.

Dave Dravecky

Dravecky Forced Into Retirement

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — Dave Dravecky, who beat cancer and long odds when he returned to major league baseball as a winning pitcher in August, has a new health concern that has prompted him to retire.

"I don't want to risk it any further," the San Francisco Giants left-hander said Monday at his home in Boardman, Ohio.

A magnetic resonance imaging examination which Dravecky underwent during the World Series detected a new lump in his left arm, he said in announcing his retirement. A cancerous tumor was removed from the arm in October, 1988, by surgeons at the Cleveland Clinic.

"At this point there's no way of knowing if in fact the tumor has recurred except just to watch it and see if there are any changes whatsoever. If there are, there might have to be a biopsy, but it's still too early to know," Dravecky said.

He said he began thinking seriously of retirement about two weeks ago and made a decision a few days ago after talking with his wife and Giants president Al Rosen.

Holland Focusing Firmly On The Challenge At Hand

By Tom Morris
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Virginia basketball coach Terry Holland said he honestly hasn't had time to think about his intended move to Davidson next year.

And given the holes he has to fill in the Cavaliers' lineup during the preseason, you tend to believe him.

Holland's 16th season at Virginia will be his last. He will move to Davidson, where he started his coaching career in 1969, to become the Wildcats' athletic director next year.

But right now, Holland has to find a way to replace leading scorer Richard Morgan and leading rebounder Brent Dabbs.

"Certainly it was a distraction when it was first announced," Holland said of his move. "But now it's business as usual. The focus right now is on the Virginia team."

Holland

Morgan completed his eligibility

last year, and he takes with him 20.4 points per game and his 3-point field goal marksmanship.

Dabbs left school last spring and eventually transferred to High Point College.

"You have to go back and look at last year," Holland said. "There were concerns about replacing John Johnson and Mel Kennedy. The replacement of points is a very natural occurrence. They will be replaced."

"The specific part of Richard's game that I am worried about is 3-point shooting. We do have to find a way to stretch the defense. That is something we're looking for very hard in practice."

The Cavaliers will look to returning point guard John Crotty, forward Matt Blundin and forward-guard

Bryant Stith to pick up the slack.

Stith, last year's Atlantic Coast Conference Rookie of the Year, should have the biggest impact and will see action at both forward and guard this year.

"Everybody will be looking to score a little more," Stith said. "I've been working on my outside shooting, especially the 3-pointer. I'll be looking to take up the scoring slack he (Morgan) left behind."

Blundin, a steady role player and strong rebounder, also plays football for the Cavaliers and won't be able

Rampants' Harvey, Claiborne Honored

Rose High's Charlie Harvey was named Coach of the Year and Toure Claiborne was named Co-Player of the Year at a meeting of Big East Conference soccer coaches Monday.

Harvey, in his second season, led the Rampants to a 13-4-3 record and their sixth consecutive Big East regular-season title. Rose fell in the first round of the state 4-A playoffs to Wilmington Hoggard.

Claiborne, a senior who keyed the Rose defense, shared Player of the Year honors with Reggie Harrison of Fike.

Other Rose players tabbed All-Conference were senior Jason Bizzaro, junior Bert Powell, senior Cliff Ferrell, junior Chris Turner and senior Russell Nelson.

Pirates' Koonce, Creech Could Be Back

East Carolina's injury-depleted football team could gain the services of linebacker George Koonce and offensive tackle Tod Creech for Saturday's game at Pittsburgh.

Koonce was thought to have been lost for the year after breaking his wrist Oct. 29 against Syracuse. He has been fitted with a soft cast and if he feels no pain in contact work he might be able to play.

Creech suffered a knee sprain in practice prior to the Miami game Nov. 4. He will not see any contact work this week and is listed as questionable on the injury report.

Heels Sign Two Guards; Watson To USC

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina recruited two prep All-Americans to give them three of the country's top dozen basketball prospects.

The Tar Heels signed what could become their backcourt of the future — 6-3 point guard Derrick Phelps of Christ The King High in Middle Village, N.Y., and 6-6 wing guard Brian Reese of Tolentine High in Bronx, N.Y.

Phelps is rated the nation's No. 11 prospect and Reese No. 12 by recruiting analyst Bob Gibbons of All-Star Sports in Lenoir. Earlier, the Tar Heels signed the No. 10 prospect, 6-10 power forward Clifford Rozier of Bradenton, Fla.

Phelps chose North Carolina over Syracuse. Reese also considered Georgia Tech. They visited the Chapel Hill campus together last weekend.

Phelps, a left-hander, averaged 11 points and eight assists last year. Christ The King coach Bob Oliva compared Phelps' playmaking abilities to former Boston Celtics star Bob Cousy.

Reese, who averaged 21 points and 10.2 rebounds last season, said he simply wanted to play for Smith.

Jamie Watson, who averaged 28.9 points and 11 rebounds a game for Wilson Fike High School in leading his team to the state 4-A finals, signed with South Carolina Monday.

"We're just totally elated with Jamie Watson's decision," Felton said. "He's someone that we've wanted from the beginning, and he has a fine reputation as a student-athlete. Jamie is one of the highest rated recruits to come to South Carolina since John Roche."

Roche led the Gamecocks in scoring from 1969 to 1971 and is the school's second-leading all-time scorer with 1,910 points.

Coley Wins Final Football Contest

Nikki Coley of P.O. Box 553, Grifton, is the winner of last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Coley missed only the Penn State-Maryland tie game among the 32 games listed on last week's contest pages.

Second place went to Bill Riggans of 1308 E. First St., Greenville, who correctly picked 30 of the 32 games. His victory came through his point total guess. His guess of 77 points was the closest to the actual total of 66 scored in Northern Illinois' 39-27 victory over Toledo.

One other entrant, Janice Smith of 212 W. Pine St., Farmville, also had 30 correct picks, but was further off the point total guess with 85.

The Daily Reflector would like to congratulate the winners in this year's series of contests and thank all those who took part.

Advance tickets for Rose's second-round 4-A state football playoff game against Fayetteville 71st are on sale at the high school for $4. They are also available at Overton's Sports Center, Athletic World at Carolina East Mall, and Peeler's Sports in The Plaza.

The game will be played Friday night at Percy Daniels Field. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Tickets at the gate will be $5.

Pirates Down Navy, Va. Commonwealth

The East Carolina men's swimming team defeated Navy for the first time ever in a dual meet Sunday, taking a 125-118 victory.

Shortly thereafter, East Carolina's women swam past Virginia Commonwealth, 155-145.

Raymond Kennedy was a double winner for the men, taking the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard breaststroke.

In the women's meet, Meredith Bridgers won the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke and Linda Smith won the 100- and 200-yard backstroke.

East Carolina's men are now 3-2 overall and 2-2 in the Colonial Athletic Association. The Lady Pirates are 2-3 overall.

ECU travels to UNC-Charlotte on Saturday.

ECU winners:

Ayden Middle Tops Farmville, 42-8

FARMVILLE — Andreil Roundtree scored three touchdowns in leading Ayden Middle School to a 42-8 football victory over Farmville Middle School Monday.

Keith Marrow, Brian Crandall and Richard Stewart each added one touchdown for Ayden, which ends the season with a 7-0 mark, winning the Pitt County Conference.

It was the second straight championship for Ayden, which has a 19-game winning streak going into the 1990 season.

Team Tennis Completes Sixth Week

The Domino's Pizza Team Tennis League completed its sixth week of play Sunday.

The Aces remained undefeated by downing the Swatters while the Slicers beat the Strings. The Slammers took the Lobsters and the Double Faults beat the Netcorps.

Diane Wilson of the Swatters was named the Outstanding Player of the Week.

Phillips Leads Greenville Swimmers

The Greenville Swim Club took part in the Blue Moon "B" Invitational sponsored by the New Wave Swim Team at Raleigh's Optimist Park Pool this past weekend. A total of 16 teams with approximately 475 swimmers took part in the meet.

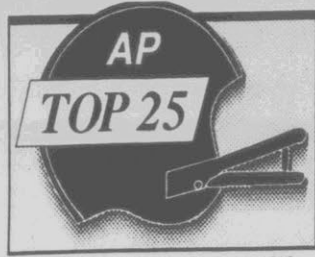

Stephen Phillips captured the only first for the Greenville team, winning the 50-yard backstroke with a time of 37.57. Phillips also had two thirds, two sixths and an eighth.

Other Greenville swimmers placing included:

Eight and under girls: Jessica Warren, 2nd in 100 free in 1:29.56, 8th in 25 fly in 21.10.

9-10 boys: Stephen Phillips, 1st in 50 back in 37.57 (A), 3rd in 100 back in 1:24.79, 3rd in 100 free in 1:12.73, 6th in 100 fly in 1:44.45, 6th in 200 free in 2:39.29, 8th in 50 free in 33.49.

Rainbows Crack Top 25

By Rick Warner
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hawaii has long been known for beautiful beaches, wonderful weather and fabulous food. Now it also has one of the country's best college football teams.

The Hawaii Rainbows are 24th in this week's Associated Press poll, only the second time in school history that they've been ranked. They were No. 19 for one week in 1981 after starting the season 7-0.

The Rainbows returned to the rankings after beating Pacific 34-26 Saturday. The victory gave them an 8-2 record with home games remaining against Oregon State and Air Force.

"We're certainly happy to get national recognition — it's something we've been striving for," Hawaii coach Bob Wagner said. "If we can continue to play good football, hopefully we'll get even more attention."

One of the reasons Hawaii has had a hard time getting attention this year is its schedule. The Rainbows have played only two away games and lost them both, Western Athletic Conference games at Wyoming and Colorado State.

Wagner bristles at suggestions that Hawaii is a bully at home and a weakling on the road.

"We were 3-0 last season on the road and only 6-3 at home," he said. "As a matter of fact, since we joined the WAC in 1979, we've had a better record on the road than at home."

Hawaii's most impressive win this season was a 56-14 demolition of perennial power Brigham Young.

"I think people started to notice us after that," Wagner said. "You don't beat BYU unless you have a good football team."

Also breaking into the Top 25 this week was Duke, which had been out of the rankings even longer than Hawaii. The Blue Devils, who improved to 7-3 with a 35-26 win over North Carolina State, were last ranked in 1971.

"One of our goals was to be in the Top 25 this year," Duke coach Steve Spurrier said. "It's an honor for our program and a credit to our players that we made it. But what we really want is to be ranked at the end of the season."

While there were changes at the bottom of the rankings, the top seven remained unchanged — Notre Dame, Colorado, Michigan, Alabama, Florida State, Nebraska and Miami.

Notre Dame, which clobbered Southern Methodist 59-6, received 57 first-place votes and 1,497 of a possible 1,500 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Colorado, which beat Oklahoma State 41-17, received the other three first-place votes and 1,439 points.

Michigan defeated Illinois 24-10, Alabama downed Louisiana State 32-16, Nebraska routed Kansas 51-14 and Miami beat Pittsburgh 24-3. Florida State did not play.

Rounding out the Top 10 are Southern Cal, Tennessee and Arkansas. Southern Cal moved up one spot after beating Arizona 24-3, Tennessee went from No. 11 to No. 9 after crushing Akron 52-9 and Arkansas remained No. 10 following a 19-10 win over Baylor.

Auburn is No. 11, followed by Illinois, Houston, Texas A&M, Clemson, Virginia, Penn State, West Virginia, Pittsburgh, Texas Tech, Brigham Young, Ohio State and Fresno State. Ohio State moved into the Top 25 after blanking Iowa 28-0, while Florida, N.C. State and Arizona dropped out following losses.

Hines, Cuthbert Reap ACC Honors

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clarkston Hines, Duke's football All-American, was selected for a fourth time this year as the Atlantic Coast Conference's wide receiver of the week.

Teammate Randy Cuthbert was named offensive back of the week for the second time.

Others chosen were guard Roy Brown as offensive lineman and Phil Thomas as defensive lineman, both from Virginia; Scott Rosen of Maryland as defensive back and Rondell Jones of North Carolina as rookie of the week.

College Football

Hines set the NCAA record for career touchdown catches with his 34th and 35th against North Carolina State. Duke won the game 35-26.

For the game, the Chapel Hill, N.C., senior had six catches for 131 yards and his pair of scores. The touchdown mark broke Elmo Wright's record at Houston of 34. Hines is now 13 yards short of his third straight 1,000-yard season.

Cuthbert rushed for a school record fifth consecutive 100-yard game. He carried 37 times for 151 yards against N.C. State, which came into the game as the ACC's second-ranked defensive team against the rush. In addition to his rushing figures, the Chalfont, Pa., sophomore also caught a career-high nine passes for 75 yards. Cuthbert is 93 yards away from a 1,000-yard season.

Brown graded 90 percent on run blocking and 100 percent on his pass blocking, with an overall grade of 93 percent as Virginia defeated Virginia Tech 32-25.

Thomas, a senior linebacker from Houston, Texas, was the Cavaliers' leading tackler against the Hokies with 16, 11 of them unassisted. This gives him a total of 77 on the season, a new Virginia record, breaking the 74 established by Jeff Lageman last season.

Rosen posted 12 tackles, including 10 unassisted, for a 97 percent grade as Maryland tied Penn State at 13. The sophomore cornerback from Philadelphia broke up seven passes.

Jones, a native of Sunderland, Md., was in on 10 tackles in a 27-20 loss to South Carolina. Six of those were solo stops. He also had a tackle for a loss and recovered a fumble at the Tar Heel six-yard line to kill a Gamecock scoring threat.

Patriots Get First Sign Of Hart-Attack

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FOXBORO, Mass. — Hart Lee Dykes came to the New England Patriots with a double burden: high expectations by fans and a name that invites ridicule if he didn't meet them.

He was called Hart-less for his apparent reluctance to catch in a crowd. There were stretches of Hart-failure and signs that he was Hart-ly trying.

Dykes

On Sunday, though, despite a 28-24 loss, the Patriots showed the New Orleans Saints their Hart-attack.

The rookie first-round draft choice had his best game as a pro with five catches for 105 yards and a touchdown. He's playing well now, he said, because he's playing a lot.

NFL Notes

"It's hard to get into the flow of the game when you're not in there all the time," Dykes said. "People may have had questions about me, but I know I have the God-given talent. I just have to wait my turn because there's a lot of talent among the receivers here."

The fact that there's also a lot of injuries among them gave Dykes his chance to play.

"I know what kind of receiver I am," said Dykes, who has 15 catches for 246 yards and three touchdowns. "As far as people questioning it, I have been playing all my life. I know the things I can do when given the chance."

Lions Turn To Sanders
PONTIAC, Mich. — The Detroit Lions are learning, in times of stress, to plug into their new life support system. His name is Barry Sanders.

Detroit's 31-22 victory over the Green Bay Packers on Sunday was a perfect example.

The Packers, who trailed by 21 points at halftime, had narrowed the deficit to 24-20 in the fourth quarter as the Detroit defense, which would spend all but 20 minutes of the game on the field, simply wore out.

But Chris Spielman helped the Lions' cause when he picked up a fumble by Michael Haddix and returned it 12 yards to the Packers' 41.

Then it was Sanders' time. "It was frustrating that we couldn't move the ball against them," the Heisman Trophy winner from Oklahoma State said. "I knew I had to make something happen."

Sanders, who gained 69 yards on 16 carries, got the Lions to the 25 on runs 11, 3 and 2 yards. Then, on a third-and-5 situation, quarterback Rodney Peete, who hit only 7 of 15 for 77 yards, flipped a swing pass that appeared to be over Sanders' head.

But Sanders made a leaping, wrong-way, one-handed grab in the right flat and turned it into a 20-yard gain.

"After we got the ball back, I put the headset on and told the coaches I thought it was time to just give the ball to Barry," Detroit coach Wayne Fontes said.

to join the team until late December or January.

In his stead, 6-6 Curtis Williams should see a lot of time. Another front-court player expected to see a lot of action is 6-6 forward Kenny Turner.

Dabbs' departure leaves a big hole in the middle. Holland said 6-9 senior Jeff Daniels is better coming off the bench, so 6-9 freshman Ted Jeffries will likely get the starting spot.

In the backcourt, Crotty has established himself as one of the top in the ACC at his position. Getting a rest is, though.

"We need somebody to give John Crotty some rest," Holland said.

Walk-on guard Blair Ford could also provide depth along with former North Duplin standout Anthony Oliver behind Crotty.

Blundin is one of three possible football players on the Virginia basketball roster. Terry Kirby, a running back, intends to play guard for UVa. Wide receiver Herman Moore may also join the team.

"The question on Terry Kirby is can he make the transition," Holland said. "It's a long shot for him. There is the possibility that Terry Kirby could help us. We do need 3-point shooting badly."

The biggest replacement the Cavaliers will eventually face, though, is Holland. The announcement of the move to Davidson, his alma mater, came last spring and caught more than a few of his players by surprise.

"My initial reaction, I was shocked," Stith said. "When I signed with the University of Virginia, there were no signs that Coach Holland would be thinking about leaving over the next four years. It happened so quick and so fast it was hard to overcome."

"Everyone's learned to pull together and we're continuing to focus on the task at hand. Everyone has tried to handle the situation as a team rather than as an individual."

His announcement could have a direct impact on recruiting, especially during the early signing period which ends Wednesday. Thus far, Virginia has announced no early signings.

"The main thing we're doing with recruiting is we're saying Virginia has a lot to offer," Holland said. "If you like what you see, don't sign early. If you really like what you see, go ahead and commit."

Stockton Leads Jazz To Victory

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SALT LAKE CITY — John Stockton is the man who put pizzazz into the Utah Jazz.

When Stockton has the ball and an open court, "they're usually going to score," Washington guard Darrell Walker said. "That's what happened tonight."

Stockton scored 30 points and had 16 assists Monday night in Utah's 106-93 victory over the Bullets.

Stockton scored or assisted on Utah's first 20 points. Several of those assists went to Karl Malone, who led Utah with 33 points and pulled down 16 rebounds.

"Stockton does a great job of getting the right guy the ball and runs the break extremely well," Washington's Mark Alarie said.

Ledell Eackles led the Bullets with 24 points.

In the only other NBA game Monday night, Atlanta beat Orlando 112-104.

Poor shooting hurt Utah and Washington, with the Bullets' two leading scorers, Jeff Malone and Bernard King, combining for only 11 points.

Jeff Malone, who averages 27.5 points, got just four, hitting only two of nine shots in 16 minutes of play. King, who was averaging 18 points, had only seven in 21 minutes.

Utah coach Jerry Sloan credited defense, particularly that played against Washington's two big scorers, for the victory.

"We got off to a good start defensively and that was the key," he said. "Their shots weren't dropping and that was a key to our transition game."

Utah's Bobby Hansen, recovering from an ankle injury, scored 13 points while holding Malone in check.

"I thought Bob's concentration was very good early," Sloan said. "Even when (Malone) took a shot, he got some awfully tough looks at the basket."

Utah's defense was especially tough during the third quarter, when the Jazz limited Washington to 7-for-27 shooting from the field while outscoring the Bullets 29-19.

Karl Malone scored 13 points in the first quarter as Utah took a 27-19 lead. But he shot only 5-for-13 from the field.

"At the beginning of the game, I rushed a lot of shots," he said. "It was amazing how many easy layups I missed, but I settled down in the second half."

He finished with 13-of-26 shooting. Eackles scored eight of his 24 points in the second quarter and the Bullets closed within 39-37 with 4:51 remaining. The Jazz scored the next nine points, six by Malone, and led 50-44 at the half.

Utah used a 16-7 burst at the start of the second half to run the margin to 66-51. Malone scored nine points and Stockton eight in the third quarter, the last 3-pointer at the buzzer for a 79-63 lead.

The Bullets scored the first seven points of the fourth quarter, cutting the deficit to nine points with 9:45 remaining, but could get no closer. Utah scored the next five points to lead 84-70 and were not threatened again.

Hansen said the Bullets looked tired after playing Sunday night at Portland.

"That was a big win for them, but they showed the effects of it tonight, for sure," Hansen said.

Hawks 112, Magic 104

Dominique Wilkins scored 34 points and Moses Malone had 28 points and 14 rebounds to lead Atlanta, which profited from the Magic's inability to score from in close.

Orlando missed eight layups in the final quarter and was 35-for-95 from the field despite outrebounding the Hawks 55-46.

The Hawks, who beat the Magic by 39 points Saturday night, led 56-47 at halftime. Orlando opened the third quarter with a 10-3 run to draw within two, later pulled even twice but could never lead.

The Magic trailed only 102-99 with 2:15 remaining in the game but was outgunned the rest of the way.

John Battle scored 18 points for Atlanta, eight in the fourth quarter. Glenn "Doc" Rivers got 10 of his 14 in the final period.

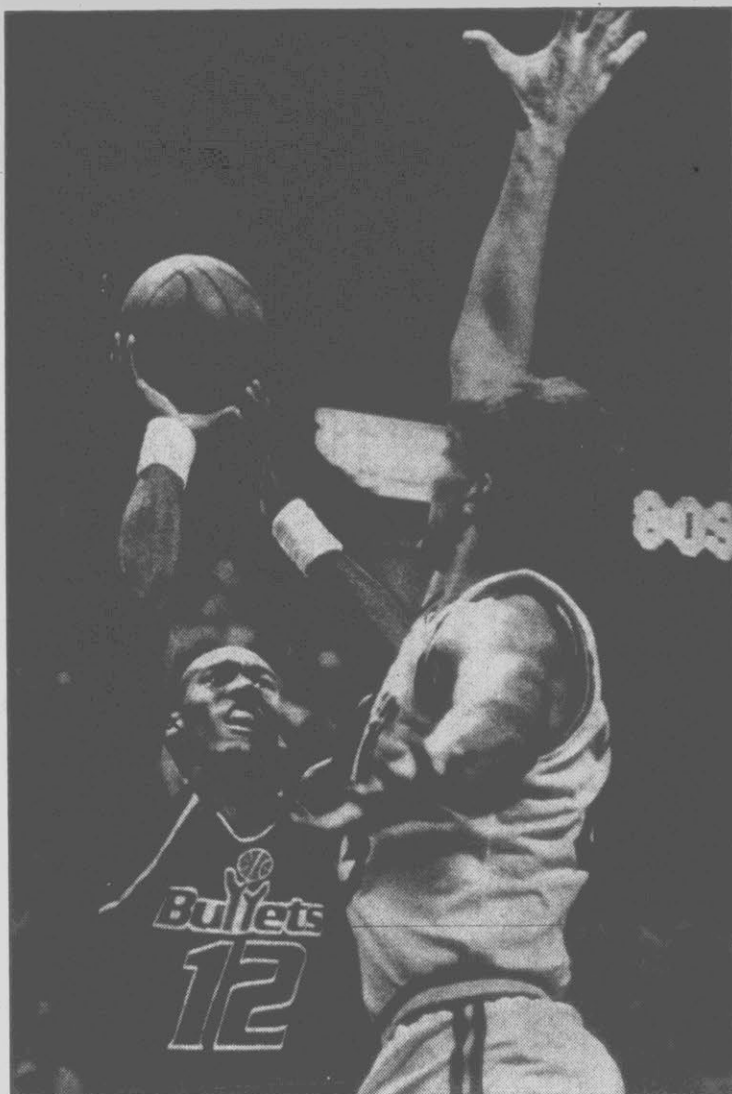

Orlando was led by Terry Catledge and Jerry Reynolds with 18 apiece, although they combined to hit just 13 of 37 shots. "The missed shots and the turnovers (16) killed us," Magic coach Matt Guokas said. "We've got to make our layups and we got to take better shots. We also have to take better care of the ball."

Record 90 Go As Free Agents

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — A year after the end of collusion, Mark Langston and Mark Davis will get to see how high is up.

Langston and Davis head the record 90 free agents who were able to start talking contract on Monday, which also was the last day to file.

Chris Bando and Leon Durham filed, thus breaking the mark of 89 set in 1977.

Rickey Henderson, Robin Yount, Kent Hrbek, Tony Pena, Pascual Perez and Kevin Bass are among the newly freed players able to shop their services.

Langston, the most sought-after free agent of the offseason, spent the day at the Los Angeles office of his agent, Arn Tellum, waiting for calls.

The Seattle Mariners, the team that traded Langston to Montreal last May after losing hope of re-signing him, indicated Monday that they might re-enter the bidding. Since the trade, the team has been sold by George Argyros to a group headed by Indianapolis radio station owner Jeff Smulyan. He told The Seattle Times that he would offer Langston $9.5 million to $10 million in a three-year contract.

premier power hitters during his 15 seasons with the Red Sox, ended his career in Boston on Monday when the team placed him on waivers.

Rice, who had 382 homers, 1,451 RBIs and 2,452 hits, will become an unrestricted free agent Thursday if he clears waivers.

Rice batted .234 this season with three homers and 28 runs batted in. He had midseason surgery to remove bone chips in his elbow and saw limited action after that.

Teufel Returns To Mets

Tim Teufel, who had filed for free agency on Oct. 30, returned to the New York Mets on Monday when he agreed to a two-year contract for $1.25 million.

The Mets also completed their coaching staff, hiring former Cleveland Indians manager Doc Edwards and Mike Cabbage, the Tidewater manager for the last three years. The opening were created when the Mets abruptly dismissed hitting instructor Bill Robinson and third-base coach Sam Perlozzo during the World Series.

Kay Lenz Studies For Role

By Jerry Buck
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — Kay Lenz wanted to show the special problems faced by women with AIDS in her role on NBC's "Midnight Caller," and so she talked with those who know best.

The actress, who won an Emmy for her portrayal of Tina Cassidy, met with a support group for women with AIDS in San Francisco. The episode, her third appearance as Jack Killian's former girlfriend, will be telecast Tuesday. Gary Cole stars as Killian.

"We decided to integrate the support group into the script," she said. "They will go on Jack's radio show to inform the public about the specific problems of women. Everything these actresses say is true because we got it right from the mouths of the support group."

"The problem is that women don't have the political power that men have. They don't have the financial power. No matter how independent a woman is, it's part of a woman's nature to take care of others. Women with AIDS often have to take care of themselves. They're not prepared for this. Ninety percent of the women I met are mothers."

Lenz added: "Men with AIDS deal with friends and lovers. Women deal with family members because often their children may have it."

Lenz won an Emmy last year as best guest actress in a drama series for her role on "Midnight Caller." She first played the part in the series' pilot episode.

The AIDS episode last year caused considerable controversy in San Francisco, where the series is filmed. Lenz played a heterosexual woman who is infected by a man. In the first version of the script, the man is shot down in the streets. Protesters felt this would make AIDS victims into targets. The script was rewritten before it was filmed to eliminate the shooting.

In the current episode Tina is near death and Jack takes her in and comforts her.

"This is a very different show," said Lenz. "We were taking a chance doing it again. We consulted many people, and the writer, Stephen Zito, did a lot of research. This show also talks about the isolation and prejudice attached to AIDS. It comes from ignorance, and from that comes abandonment and prejudice. If I so much as stub my toe I want a hug. It would be hard for me to imagine being that ill and being abandoned."

"It's the same kind of attitude people had about leprosy in biblical times. I hope we can reach the people who turn the channel whenever AIDS is mentioned... I had a lot of ignorance about AIDS myself before I did this role."

She said Jack and Tina have a wonderful relationship. "They love each other unconditionally," she said. "I love that it shows that people can have relationships. They may not work. She's lost her job as a teacher. Jack takes her in. It's a debilitating disease, but Jack's into denial. He doesn't want to accept that her life will never be the same again, nor will his."

When she was first offered the role last year she talked to the producers about changing the character's name. Lenz was formerly married to actor David Cassidy. "But they kept the name and it didn't bother me at all."

Last summer, Lenz was seen as a police psychiatrist in the USA Network movie "Murder By Night." She made her film debut in 1973 as a teen-age hippie in "Breezy," which starred William Holden and was directed by Clint Eastwood. She was in the miniseries "Rich Man, Poor Man" in 1976 and the series "Rich Man, Poor Man-Book II." Lenz has been a guest star on such shows as "L.A. Law," "Moonlighting," "Hardball," "Hill Street Blues" and "Cagney & Lacey."

Actor Brought Back To Recreate Role

By Hillel Italie
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — What does actor Terry O'Quinn have in common with TV actor Patrick Duffy? Both played characters miraculously raised from the dead by Hollywood script doctors.

Duffy portrayed the reincarnated Bobby Ewing, who recovered from a seemingly fatal car crash in time to begin another season on "Dallas." O'Quinn, who starred in the 1987 black comedy "The Stepfather," makes a more surprising comeback in "The Stepfather II."

In the surreal world of television soap operas, where characters frequently disappear and reappear, Duffy's return made sense. Besides, "Dallas" is a hit primetime show.

But rebirth doesn't come so easily in movies, and "The Stepfather" disappeared quickly from theaters; no one questioned that O'Quinn had been murdered by the wife and stepdaughter he had tried to kill.

So everybody, including O'Quinn, thought his character was dead. But the film's producers decided that "The Stepfather" could be saved and brought back to menace another family. Asked to re-create his role, O'Quinn reluctantly agreed.

"Someone called me up and said they wanted to make another one. I didn't want to do it because I thought he was dead, and I was afraid it would be too much like the same thing. But I took one look at my bank account and it looked good to me," he said.

"It's a hard movie to make a sequel of because once you know the guy, you know the guy. There might be a third one, but he's going to look a lot different. He's going to have to have plastic surgery. He's getting famous for God's sake."

O'Quinn's experiences with Hollywood have always been a little unusual. He debuted in 1981 in the ultimate big-budget disaster, "Heaven's Gate," and has since bounced around the sets of movies big and small, including "Young Guns," "Black Widow" and "Mrs. Soffel."

"With 'Heaven's Gate,' I thought, 'My God, what a strange existence. How freely they spend time and money.' I found out after a couple of jobs how tight they are with money," he said.

"When you walk on the set and the first person that comes out to you is the producer's 14-year old nephew, then you're probably on a low-budget movie. You figure you're not going to have filet mignon for lunch."

His casting in the original "Stepfather" was also peculiar. O'Quinn received a call just one week before shooting was to begin and reasoned that "grim necessity" caused the producers to wait so long.

Based on a real killer from New Jersey in the early 1970s, the Stepfather — his name frequently changes — travels from city to city seeking the "perfect family" and ends up murdering them instead.

He's like every television father you see on the old reruns — that smooth reassurance of Hugh Beaumont in "Leave It to Beaver," the boyish enthusiasm of Robert Young in "Father Knows Best," the gentle wisdom of Fred MacMurray in "My Three Sons."

But there's a catch, of course.

Like the seemingly meek Norman Bates of "Psycho" fame, the Stepfather has a deadly side. There's menace in the most harmless habits. While Norman liked to nibble on candy, the Stepfather caps off a murder by whistling a happy tune.

"When I did the first one I whistled 'Red, Red Robin' because I liked that tune. When they were looping the thing, they said, 'You can't have 'Red Red Robin' because it costs too much, but we can get 'Camptown Races' for nothing."

O'Quinn grew up in Newbury, Mich., a small town by the Canadian border where the nearest movie theater was 65 miles away. He contented himself with performing in high school plays and didn't consider acting as a profession until his 20s.

Tess Harper Returns To Support AIDS Play

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Actress Tess Harper returned to her alma mater to support a play about homosexuals and AIDS under attack by a local group.

Southwest Missouri State University's theater department is staging Larry Kramer's "The Normal Heart," which won praise in New York and elsewhere but is being denounced as obscene by the Citizens Demanding Standards.

About 1,200 opponents of the play packed a hall Monday with gospel songs and fiery speeches. The group objects to state money being used to produce a play portraying a homosexual lifestyle.

State Rep. Jean Dixon, who has led the fight against the play, said, "We will never have excellence in education until we have responsibility and accountability in education."

University administrators said the play will go on as scheduled beginning Wednesday.

Ms. Harper, a 1972 graduate, said Monday that opponents had a right to complain about the play, which attacks society's slow response to the AIDS epidemic, but no right to stop it from being shown.

"If you don't want to see the play, you don't have to buy a ticket," said Ms. Harper, who was nominated for best supporting actress in 1987 for her role in "Crimes of the Heart."

Kathleen Turner and John Goodman, fellow actors and SMSU alumni, also have expressed support for the play.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

Once again we are going ask you to test your declaring skill. Cover up the East-West cards with your thumbs and decide how you would play six no trump after a heart lead.

Your auction was simple enough. With a balanced 17 points you had a clear-cut one-no-trump opening and partner was near maximum for his raise to slam.

The hand looks easy enough. Simply win in dummy and run the jack of clubs, and you make six or seven depending on which defender holds the queen of clubs.

That might be so, but you have sinned grievously—you have committed yourself to a line of play before bothering to count your tricks! You have eight tricks in spades, hearts and diamonds; therefore, you need four from clubs. If clubs are no worse than 4-1, your line will produce four tricks. But what if the gods are angry and the suit splits 5-0?

If you look at the East-West hands, you see that is indeed the case, and you can now come to only three club tricks—down one. You overlooked a simple safety play to guarantee yourself the required tricks.

Win the opening lead in hand with the jack and lead a low club toward dummy. If the suit is distributed as above, West can't rise with the queen without giving you four tricks in the suit, so he plays low and the ten wins as East shows out. Now you return to hand and lead another club up to the jack, and West is helpless.

What if East has all the clubs? Dummy's ten forces the queen, and all you have to do is win any return, cash the jack of clubs and take the marked finesse of the club eight to land your slam.

Private Pensions Rife With Fraud And Abuse

WASHINGTON — The enormous size of the nation's private pension system is frustrating government watchdogs, who warn that the retirement savings of millions of working Americans are vulnerable to fraud and mismanagement.

The most alarming reports come from the Labor Department's inspector general's office, which says failure to shore up the laws and bolster enforcement could result in a taxpayer-funded bailout dwarfing the recent savings and loan crisis.

"There's an insidious and steady siphoning off, which ultimately affects the employees," says Raymond Maria, acting inspector general for the Labor Department. "I am convinced there is substantial fraud and abuse."

An Associated Press investigation found that at least one-fourth of the private pension plans audited by the government are in violation of the law — yet the odds of any individual program being checked are less than one in a hundred.

The department has just 300 inspectors to police the nation's 870,000 private pension plans. But instances of fraud and abuse that already have come to light are touching off alarms in Washington.

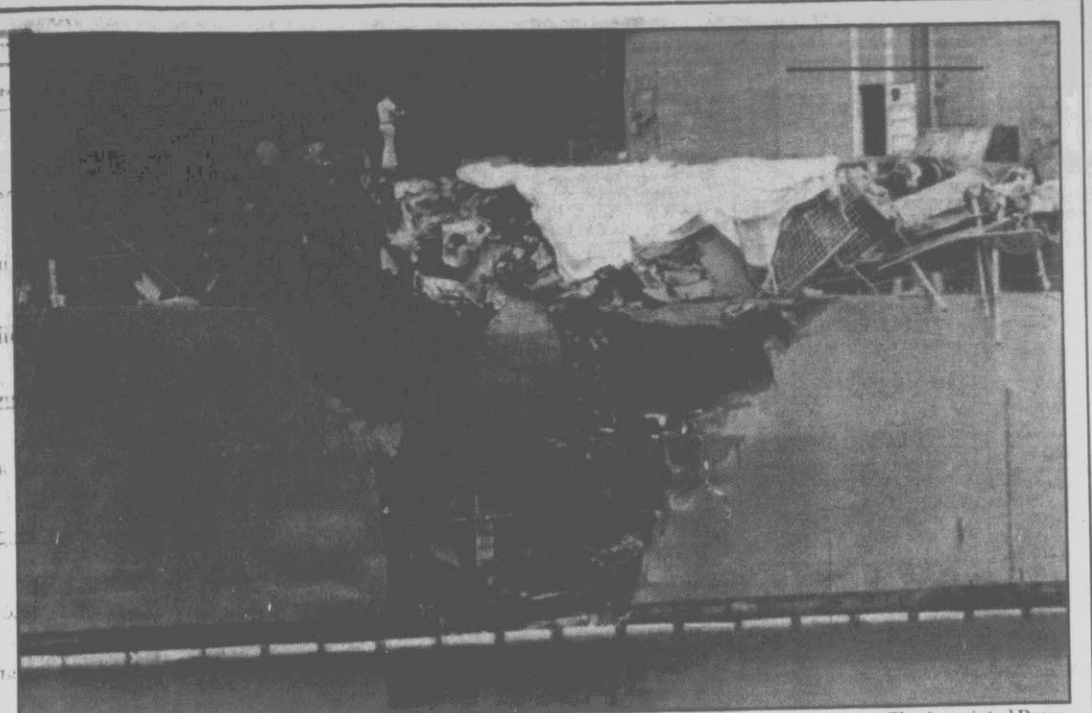

In some cases, pension administrators have siphoned off millions of dollars by underreporting earnings. In others, employers never made required contributions, with pensioners discovering only upon retirement that the money was missing. Still other companies have simply dumped their pension obligations on a government insurance program that already is $1.5 billion in the red.

What makes the system most vulnerable, officials say, is its size.

Frequently described as "the largest lump of money in the world," the nation's private pension plans hold assets of $2 trillion, or roughly $8,000 for every man, woman and child in the United States. Those funds cover some 76 million participants.

The Labor Department audited 1,553 plans in 1989, with violations found in 492, or almost one-third. A similar rate was found in 1988 audits, after three years in which the violation rate was about 25 percent.

The government is the final insurer of many private pension assets through the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation. The PBGC, which receives most of its funds from pension plan premiums, posted a $1.5 billion deficit in 1988, and a General Accounting Office study predicted that the corporation would be insolvent by 2001.

Damaged Destroyer

The USS Kincaid shows a gaping hole in its side after colliding Sunday with the freighter Kota Patania in the Strait of Malacca off Malaysia. The American destroyer arrived in Singapore Monday night for repairs.

Military Wants To Use Federal Lands In West For War Games

HELENA, Mont. — The military wants more land for war games in four Western states, but hunters, ranchers and environmentalists see its plans as a land grab twice the size of Massachusetts that menaces wildlife and farming.

Four separate proposals by different branches of the armed services would expand areas for training with tanks, warplanes and artillery by 16,800 square miles in unconnected areas in Montana, Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

The Pentagon says the proposals to add military training to uses allowed on the federally owned land aren't part of a coordinated effort. But environmentalists say Congress rejected a similar national program in 1974.

"It's too coincidental to be a coincidence," said Charles Griffith, regional executive for the National Wildlife Federation in Bozeman. The National Guard wants to use

1,500 square miles in northeastern Montana's rolling plains for training by its own units and forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. About three-fourths of the acreage is federally owned grazing land.

In southern Idaho, the Air Force has proposed expanding the 155-square-mile Saylor Creek Bombing Range to more than 2,300 square miles. The plan has stirred opposition from ranchers with cattle grazing the land, environmentalists fearing damage to wildlife.

OWNER FINANCING

ON OCTOBER 10, 1989 I began saying "I said my lots would not sell located on dirt road outside of Winterville." Well! At that time, of 28 lots, 18 were sold. Now 21 are sold. Why? It's simple. As crow flies just 1 1/3 of a mile away a subdivision is selling restricted lots with $2,000 per acre. My restricted lots are being sold on the basis of $9,700 per acre. Now! Can you wait just a minute for paving? Now then I will finance your lot purchase. 3-729-0081.

When It Comes To Guaranteed Satisfaction...

delivers

10% Low Price Guarantee Policy:

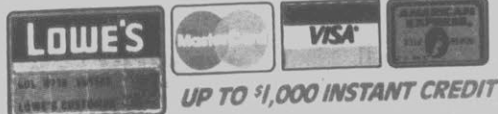

Lowe's guarantees our everyday low prices. If you find an identical advertised item at any retail competitor currently priced lower than ours, simply bring us written proof of that price. We'll match that price PLUS give you an additional 10% of the difference between the two prices when you buy from us. It must be an identical in-stock item. Closeout, discontinued and other clearance type sale items are excluded from this offer.

Satisfaction Guarantee Policy:

Lowe's guarantees that you will be satisfied with your purchase. If you are not completely happy with your purchase, simply return it along with your original sales receipt to any Lowe's store. We'll repair it, replace it, or refund your money.

Lowe's Raincheck Policy:

If an advertised item is temporarily out-of-stock, we will gladly issue a raincheck (except for items marked limited quantities, discontinued or closeout). When we restock you will be notified so you can buy at the previously advertised price. Some stores may not stock all advertised items; however, every item shown can be ordered for you.

Apply For Your Handy Lowe's Credit Card!
