Walesa Says More Aid Needed

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, given a roaring welcome by Congress, today welcomed moves to send millions of dollars of aid to Poland but said far more is needed to rescue his nation's economy from "the verge of utter catastrophe."

"We are not asking for charity, or expecting philanthropy, but we would like to see our country treated as a partner and a friend," Walesa said in a historic speech to a joint meeting of the House and Senate.

A chorus of "Bravo, Bravo, Bravo," resounded through the jammed House chamber as Walesa made his way to the podium. He stood in silence as the ovation thundered on for seven minutes.

"We the people. With these words I wish to begin my address," Walesa started out, quoting the U.S. Constitution.

Many members of Congress wore buttons reading, "Solidarnosc," the Polish name of the Solidarity union movement.

Walesa brought the cheers to their highest pitch when he raised his arms and flashed a double "V" sign with his hands — a symbol favored in Poland by Solidarity supporters.

Walesa's appearance marked only the second time a foreign private citizen spoke to a joint meeting of Congress and the first since the Marquis de Lafayette appeared in 1824.

He used it to call on those in the West who are now praising Solidarity to back their words with solid economic support.

"Being a worker and a man of concrete work, I must tell you that the supply of words on the world market is plentiful, but the demand is falling. Let deeds follow words now," the 46-year-old onetime shipyard electrician said.

Walesa spoke as Congress worked to resolve differences over legislation to send hundreds of millions of dollars in aid to his country.

His speech in the House chamber came on the second day of a week-long trip to the United States.

After his speech, Walesa was meeting congressional leaders, sitting down with Secretary of State James A. Baker III and returning to the Capitol for a dinner. He dined with President Bush at the White House Tuesday night.

GUC OKs New Gas Rate Cut

By J.R. Williams
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Pitt County gas customers of Greenville Utilities Commission got a blanket from the agency's board of directors Tuesday that may take some of the chill off winter heating bills.

The board approved a 5 1/2 percent decrease in natural gas rates Tuesday, which GUC said will be reflected on the bills of 6,622 customers, starting Dec. 1.

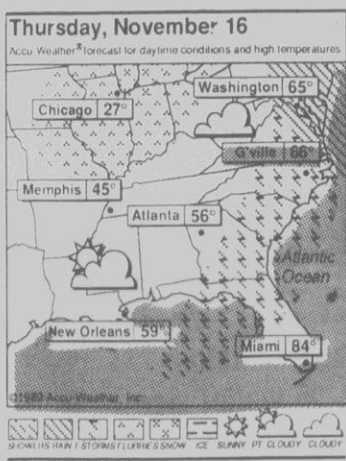

Last month the board approved a 5 percent decrease in gas rates, while also approving a 3 1/2 percent increase in electric rates.

The two rate decreases will give GUC customers a 10.5 percent break in gas rates, according to Malcolm Green, GUC general manager.

The board approved adjustments to its budget Tuesday to reflect last month's rate changes.

Carter Names Kimble Acting City Manager

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Mayor Ed Carter says he has installed the assistant city manager at the helm of the city government until Thursday's City Council meeting. But he says he will leave the job of picking a successor to fired City Manager Greg Knowles to the incoming council.

"I've asked Ron Kimble to serve until Thursday night," Carter said today. "As far as the future, it's pretty much in the hands of the council."

After a three-hour closed session Monday night, the council fired Knowles from his post as the city's top administrator in a four to three decision. Carter, who lost his mayoral seat in the Nov. 7 election to Council member Nancy Jenkins, cast the tie-breaking vote.

Carter and Council member Lorraine Shinn, one of the three members voting to oust Knowles, both said personal conflicts were not at the root of Monday's action. Voting with Carter and Shinn were Rufus Huggins and Mildred Council.

"It was one of the cruelest, most manipulative acts I have seen in politics," said retiring Council member Bill Hadden. Hadden, who voted along with Ms. Jenkins and Inez Fridley to retain Knowles, has served in city government for 12 years, and said Knowles firing was "the lowest point in politics I have seen."

Ms. Jenkins and Ms. Fridley expressed similar comments on Knowles' firing Tuesday.

Hadden said he felt the firing was Carter taking revenge for his loss in the election. And he said he would like to see Knowles return to his post.

"I would like to see it, and I think we would be wise to do it," Hadden said about rehiring Knowles. But Hadden said returning to the job would be a difficult decision for the city manager.

According to City Attorney Mac McCarley, the city manager serves at the pleasure of the council, without any specific tenure outlined in a contract. The incoming council could legally rehire Knowles for the job.

Knowles could not be reached for comment today, but said Tuesday he had not yet considered returning to his job if asked.

Carter said a decision to return Knowles would fall to the incoming City Council with Ms. Jenkins at the head of the table and two new members. But he said he felt the council members were aware of the reasons for firing Knowles.

"I'm confident they are aware of the problems" with Knowles' job performance, Carter said.

The council closed its meeting Monday night to discuss litigation involving the city and an unspecified job performance. According to state law city governments can legally close meetings to discuss the job performance of specific employees.

Ms. Jenkins on Tuesday praised Knowles job performance, but said any consideration of returning Knowles to his job "would depend on the wishes of the council." She also said she hoped the next city manager would have similar qualifications.

Grower Finds His Barn At Farm Show

By Frances Horton Arrington
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Eric Strickland drove nearly four hours from Mount Airy to get a good look at a tobacco curing barn on display at Tuesday's opening of the Mid-Atlantic Farm Show in Greenville.

Strickland, 37, grew up helping his father farm tobacco and now owns his own tobacco farm in Mount Airy. He said the Powell box barn he came to Greenville to see would be vital to his farming operations.

"With a barn like that I would only have to worry about filling nine boxes as opposed to 226 racks," Strickland said from the floor of the farm show Tuesday afternoon. "It would save a lot of time and labor."

Workers would only have to dump tobacco in nine huge boxes of the barn instead of putting it neatly on 226 racks in the structure Strickland is currently using, he said.

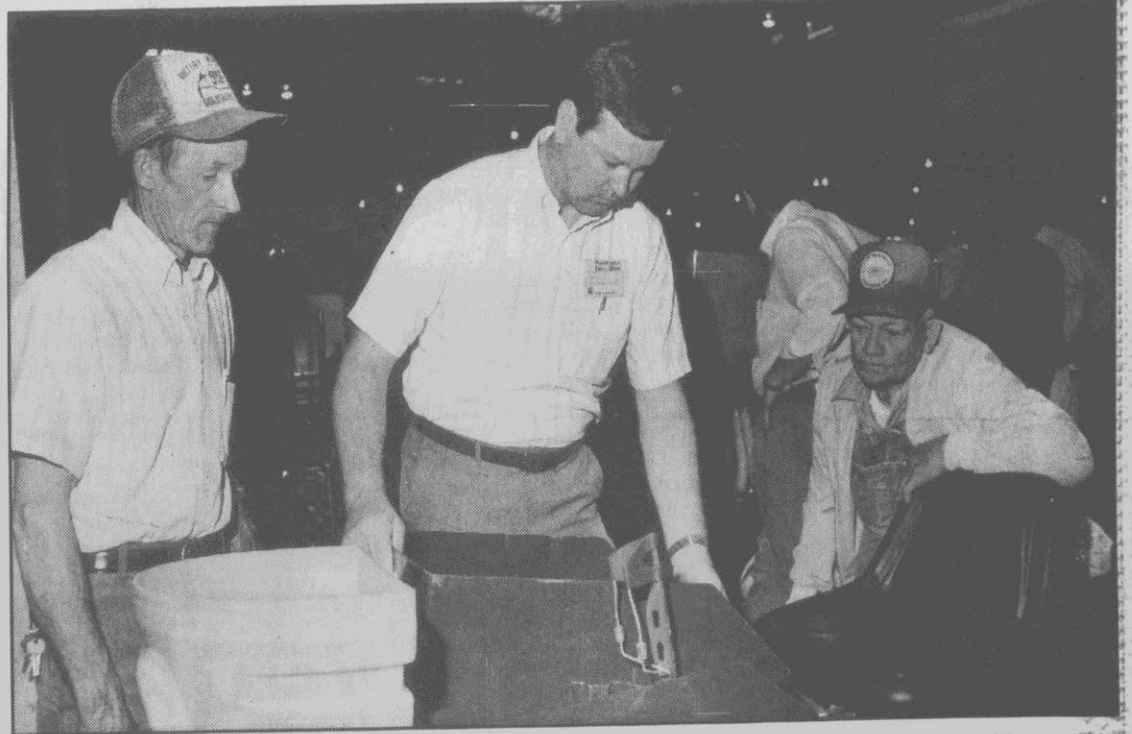

Strickland said he had seen the box barn in trade magazines, but had never seen it firsthand. The barn is manufactured in Georgia and he didn't want to go that far to see it, so he came to the local farm show instead, he said.

"I only come when I'm getting ready to spend some money. I had just about decided I would buy the barn, but I wanted to see it for myself," he said, adding that the barn would cost him about $30,000.

"When you spend that much money, you want to know everything about the equipment," Strickland said. "At a show like this you can get one-on-one with the manufacturers and really press them for answers about their equipment."

Strickland said he was satisfied with the answers he got Tuesday and said he plans to order the box barn through a Mount Airy farm equipment dealership when he gets back

Funeral Set Saturday For Speight

By Jerry Raynor
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Dr. Francis Wayland Speight, nationally known painter and dean of North Carolina artists, died at his home in Greenville late Tuesday morning. He was 93. For more than 70 years, he was active both as painter and teacher.

His funeral will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at Wilkerson Funeral Home by the Rev. Harvey Jackson. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Republican Baptist Church, in care of Reddick

White, 301 Sterlingworth, Windsor, N.C., 27983.

"Francis Speight has left a beautiful legacy," said Dr. Richard Eakin, ECU chancellor. "His paintings and his influence on generations of students will live on through the years. We were most fortunate to have Francis with us in Greenville for 28 years. We will miss him."

A native of eastern North Carolina, Speight was born Sept. 11, 1896, on a farm near Windsor in Bertie County. From 1920 until his return to North Carolina in 1961, the artist studied, taught and painted at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts in Philadelphia except for brief sabbaticals. During those years, he returned at intervals to paint in North Carolina.

After almost 40 years of teaching and painting at the academy, Speight decided he wanted to return to North Carolina to do more painting in his home state. He got in touch with Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, who in turn introduced him to Dr. Leo Jenkins, at that time chancellor of East Carolina University.

Jenkins had Speight appointed in 1961 as the first ECU artist-in-residence, a position Speight filled until his retirement in 1976.

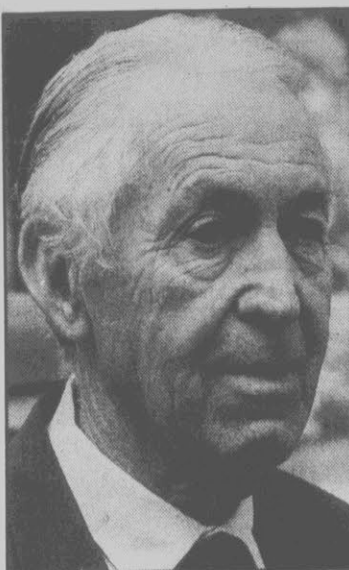

In 1936 Speight married Sara Blakeslee, then a student at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts. She is now also a well-known artist. They have two children, Thomas Blakeslee Speight of Albany, N.Y., and Elisabeth Sharrock Speight of Philadelphia.

Widely honored and lauded for his art, Speight never basically departed from his realistic style of landscape paintings. "I leave it up to others to experiment, I'm too fascinated with the beauty of all I see and want to paint to spend time on a lot of tangents," he once said.

Although a realist, Speight's paintings were never merely photographic representations of nature. All his art is strongly imbued with

Bond Supporters Say Forums Help

By Charles Hoskinson
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

FARMVILLE — Supporters of a bond issue for school construction say they are getting their message across to county voters through a series of public forums.

The five forums bring school officials to each high school in the county to answer questions about the Dec. 12 bond referendum, in which voters will be asked to approve the borrowing of $25.7 million for public school construction and $10 million for Pitt Community College.

About 30 people went to Farmville Central High School on Tuesday to hear Deputy Superintendent John H. McKnight explain how bond money will be spent in their attendance area.

The $1.7 million worth of projects in the Farmville Central attendance area includes $577,826 to enlarge Falkland Elementary School and $763,500 for asbestos abatement, track and tennis court renovation and kitchen equipment at the high school.

The forums have kept the bond referendum in the public eye, said Judi Orbach, president of Citizens for Excellence and Equity in Education in Pitt County, which sponsors the forums in cooperation with the League of Women Voters.

"Our main reason for doing this is to keep (the bond referendum) constantly in the public attention — and we have done that," Ms. Orbach said.

"It's important that we have offered this opportunity in each attendance area," Barry Gaskins, a spokesman for the county school system, said.

The forums have brought the bonds' benefits home to county voters, he said.

Neither expressed concern about the low turnout at the three forums that have been held so far.

"Word of mouth is still going to be the best way of getting the word out," Gaskins said. People at the forums will share what they learn with their neighbors, he said.

"The people that have come have been interested and positive about the bonds," Ms. Orbach said. She said that she is encouraged by the number of public officials who have come to the forums to support the proposal.

One of those is Linwood Mercer, a member of the county Board of Commissioners from Farmville. Mercer endorsed the bonds at Tuesday's meeting.

"I personally am 100 percent behind both of these bond issues. I think they're good for Pitt County," Mercer said.

Nursing Dean Resigns At ECU

ECU NEWS BUREAU

Dr. Emilie D. Henning, dean of the East Carolina University School of Nursing since 1982, has resigned her post to return to teaching and research full time effective June 30, 1990, according to university officials.

After seven years as dean, Dr. Henning indicated that it was "time for a change in leadership" at the school.

"I really feel that the school of nursing has increased the exposure of ECU and that is the result of the efforts of everyone," she said.

Dr. Henning is credited with strengthening the school in three major areas: the academic credentials of the faculty, the quality of educational programs with respect to accreditation, and the facility with which the school has kept abreast of changes both in the nursing profession and in the types of students who choose nursing as a career.

"Nursing has gone through significant change and Dean Henning has served the school well, guiding it through this period of growth," said Dr. Alastair M. Connell, vice chancellor for health sciences.

He said that Dr. Trenton G. Davis, acting dean of the school of industry and technology, will chair a search committee to recommend a successor by June 30.

Dr. Henning said she will concentrate on teaching and research in her specialty area, maternal-child nursing.

She came to ECU in 1982 after six years as dean and professor of nursing at Florida State University. Prior to that, she spent 10 years in faculty and administrative positions with the College of Nursing at Rutgers — the State University of New Jersey in Newark, N.J.

She earned her undergraduate degree in nursing from Seton Hall University and her master's degree and doctorate in nursing education from Columbia University.

A woman who had placed her purse on top of her car trunk while stopped at the Trade Station on West 10th Street reported the purse stolen at 8:40 p.m., police said. She told officers the purse and its contents were valued at $70.

Officer E.R. Lavoie said a girl's white and purple bicycle was reported stolen from in front of a business at Dickinson Avenue and Ninth Street. The owner estimated the value at $65.

'Truth In Preference To Fiction'

The Acrid Taste Of Sour Grapes

The taste of sour grapes is powerful and rank. Greenville and its city manager have been forced to bite that bitter fruit by a mayor and three elected officials who place self-interest above the public good.

The city council, by a 4-3 vote, fired City Manager Greg Knowles Monday night without good cause. That move came only one month from the day a new city council and a new mayor will take office, and less than a week after a municipal election in which current mayor Ed Carter lost a bid for re-election to council member Nancy Jenkins.

Greg Knowles

Carter cast the tie-breaking vote that axed Knowles. His supporters on the council, Lorraine Shinn, Mildred Council and Rufus Huggins, cast the other three votes.

Ms. Jenkins voted to keep Knowles, along with Inez Fridley and Bill Hadden.

No plausible explanation was given for Knowles' dismissal. The mayor said the city manager didn't keep council members properly informed. Ms. Shinn cited disagreement with budget proposals. Neither is a sound reason for such an extreme action. Neither is consistent with Knowles' record. In July, the same council that fired him Monday rated his job performance excellent and gave him a raise.

In the absence of a better explanation, the public is left to conclude the move was a lame duck parting shot by a mayor and his cronies who lost a bid to keep power. It is a repulsive example of regressive leadership that is unfair to Knowles, to citizens and to the new city council.

Taking such a drastic action one month away from the time a new council and mayor take office is capricious and irresponsible. It kicks the taxpayers right in their stomachs.

Those taxpayers paid Knowles' salary and thought they were getting a pretty fair deal. Now, without any evidence it isn't such a good deal, their city manager is fired by a sharply divided council — one week after these same taxpayers, who also happen to be voters, sent a crucial message with their ballots.

We want different leadership, they signaled; we want a new mayor. After Monday's action, there is no question they were right. It's time for Greenville to move from petty politics to progressive leadership.

Each city council, through its actions, has an opportunity to leave its mark on a community. That mark is a bequest, a legacy, to the constituents who entrusted them with the power to govern.

On Monday four of Greenville's elected officials made sure their legacy was one of self-interest and irresponsibility. They force fed the people sour grapes.

Worth The Risk

Finally, a Practical Solution

At last, a pragmatic approach to a problem in North Carolina that's also very down-to-earth.

On North Carolina's Outer Banks, work has begun on a jetty to protect the Herbert C. Bonner Bridge that spans Oregon Inlet to Hatteras Island. The bridge's perch is precarious and in recent years powerful currents have shifted the navigational channel of the inlet south and chewed away hundreds of feet of land. Further erosion could wash away the shore where the bridge clings to land. Hatteras Island would be left with no link to the mainland.

The $15 million project has pitted island residents who say their island's access must be protected against environmentalists who say the structure will eventually cause further erosion. It is damaging, expensive, short-term solution, environmentalists claim.

That may be true, but Bonner bridge is worth it. It links the northern Outer Banks with the southern islands. By using ferries to the south, visitors and residents can go to Ocracoke and then to the mainland. The bridge is a vital link to the Outer Banks.

Someday a mighty storm may take the islands away from around the bridge and may claim the bridge as well. The sands of the Outer Banks have been shifting for many centuries. Man can't stop that.

Nevertheless, the Bonner bridge plays an important role in Outer Banks life. It would be foolish to allow it to fall into the sea. What the state is doing to protect it is not perfect. Nothing is when it comes to North Carolina's Outer Banks. But the project is practical and ensures the bridge will be there to enjoy for several more decades.

In Defeat There Is Success

To the editor:
The City Council and mayoral race is history for 1989. Congratulations to the winners. Let me speak as one of the losers.

In defeat there is success! I would not have traded anything for the experience I gained. I learned a lot more about our city government than I ever knew before. I met friends whose friendships will continue in the future. I began to feel a vital part of the future growth of this city. I remember a ten year old Girl Scout who was brave enough to ask a grownup questions during the forum at the League of Women Voters. I remember at the same forum a sweet little lady, named Edith, who was concerned over a bike trail in the city. The list could go on and on.

My only negative feeling during this campaign is that so many voters did not exercise a God given right to voice their concerns by voting for the person of their choice. We should not take our free agency so lightly.

To our new mayor and council members I sustain and support you.

Remember in two years there will be another election. Let's rally around this great city and show tremendous support to our future leaders. But above all, let's let our pride show at the voting booths.

By the way, I understand that Abraham Lincoln ran nine times before he was elected. In the words of a great military general — I shall return!!

Important Questions For East & West

WASHINGTON — Anyone who can remain unstirred by the scenes of jubilation in Berlin must be devoid of humanity. Anyone who does not ponder the prospect that the breaching of the infamous Berlin Wall could lead to a reunited Germany is without a sense of history.

David Broder

The opposite emotions created by these events define the radically new challenge facing American foreign policy and the Bush administration.

It has been a year of extraordinary change since Bush's election, starting with Mikhail Gorbachev formally abandoning the goal of worldwide Soviet hegemony in his speech at the United Nations. The democracy demonstrations in Tiananmen Square, the demolition of the barbed-wire Iron Curtain in Hungary and the election of a Solidary-led government in Poland were remarkable enough.

But nothing so dramatized the revolution sweeping the communist world as the celebrations at the Brandenburg Gate by East Germans freed after 28 years to mingle with friends and family in the West.

If ever there has been a victory of the human spirit and of the unquenchable thirst for freedom, this is it. The Wall was the single clearest symbol of an empire haunted by fear of its own people. So long as it stood, one could suspect that the masters of the Soviet Union would not sacrifice political control of their empire even for their professed goal of economic reform.

The mass murders of the Chinese student demonstrators in Beijing last summer were a stark reminder that even seemingly reform-minded communist leaders could, when confronted by a threat to their control, suddenly turn savagely on their own people.

But if Gorbachev and his Kremlin colleagues will tolerate the removal of the barrier isolating East Germany from the West, then there is little that will move them toward repression — short of the threat of their own fall from power. "They say they will not use force in Eastern Europe," said Secretary of State James A. Baker III, "and we believe them."

Those are amazing words. If the Soviets will not use force in Eastern Europe, it surely follows that they do not threaten Western Europe with military attack. And if that threat has disappeared, then the military expenditures and deployments of both the NATO Alliance and the Warsaw Pact lose their logic.

In their place, the central reality of European politics now becomes the inevitable tendency of East and West Germany to expand their contacts and deepen their interdependence. It is all very well for American and Soviet diplomats to say the question of German reunification is not on the table "at the moment," but history has its own imperatives.

Three times in 70 years, Germany's ambition to unite Europe led to wars that killed millions. Today's Germany, unlike that of the past, is peaceful and democratic, so there is no reason to assume the worst this time. But inevitably, as the two Germans increase their economic and political contact, Germans will seek to regain the power to determine the fate of Europe.

The only way to reduce the risk inherent in that situation is to wrap the Bonn government ever tighter into the community of free nations. As economic bonds replace military alliances, that means the European Community will become more important than NATO.

That makes it all the more imperative that arrangements for Western Europe's scheduled 1992 economic integration be completed promptly. The situation does not permit British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's foot-dragging to continue. A European Community with a reluctant British partner will inevitably be run by Germany. No good purpose is served by assuring that result.

As for the United States, we face the reality that Europeans will increasingly make the key decisions about the future of Europe. When Poles, Hungarians and East Germans take their fates into their own hands, West Germans, French and Italians will do no less.

Yet we remain, with the Soviet Union, the most important military power with forces on the continent. And it behooves us to concentrate, for now, on managing that great-power relationship. With skill, we can put the almost certain reduction in American and Soviet conventional and strategic forces in Europe on a path that protects our interests against the risks of a Kremlin policy reversal.

The talks coming up in two weeks between Bush and Gorbachev are the most important such discussions since the end of World War II. A new era is beginning and both the United States and the U.S.S.R. have important decisions to make. None is more vital than the question which now confronts both nations of how to deal with a revived and resurgent Germany.

Shelby Moderate Chosen To Lead Baptists, Calls for Reunification

By Paul Nowell
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GREENSBORO — Urging North Carolina Baptists to work together, the Rev. Gene Watterson of Shelby was chosen Tuesday to lead the N.C. Baptist State Convention.

Following his election, Watterson, considered a moderate, urged his fellow Baptists to unify.

"We can do better by working together rather than battling each other," he said. "God is not pleased with Christian brothers locked in combat."

Watterson, 59, the pastor of the 2,000-member First Baptist Church in Shelby, was elected convention president on the first ballot with 50.4 percent of the votes. He received 2,638 of the 5,232 votes cast.

The N.C. Baptist State Convention is the state's largest religious body with 1.1 million members.

While fundamentalists have controlled the leadership of the 14.8 million-member Southern Baptist Convention for a decade, moderates have maintained control at the state level in North Carolina.

Fundamentalists' belief that the Bible is literally true, coupled with their opposition to women's ordination, have led to sweeping changes in seminaries and mission agencies.

Moderates have countered with efforts to ensure church-state separation and preserve the autonomy of local churches in decisions about who can be ordained.

Watterson noted that moderates were elected to lead state conventions in Missouri and Texas.

"I would interpret this vote as an indication of where mainstream Baptists are," he said at a news conference at the Greensboro Coliseum. "Those who supported me don't support the personality, but the principles."

More than 5,200 messengers from churches across the state will meet through Wednesday to elect new officers and vote on a $29.3 million budget. On Tuesday, the convention also passed a resolution calling for improved relations between races.

Watterson, who just completed his second year as the convention's first vice president, had the backing of the moderate group, N.C. Friends of Missions.

He succeeds the Rev. Leon Smith of Goldsboro, a moderate who served two terms and was ineligible for a third.

Immediately following his election, Watterson said his followers need to reach out to their opponents.

"The fact that it (his election) came on the first ballot shows where the clear majority is," Watterson said. "We had three well-known candidates. The people had apparently already made up their minds."

A split among fundamentalist voters helped extend the moderates' long-standing leadership streak. Moderates survived their own split to also win both vice presidential races.

The Rev. Billy Cline of Merrimon Avenue Baptist Church in Asheville — who jumped into the race less than two weeks ago — finished second with 1,650 votes, or 31.5 percent.

Cline, 61, is a conservative, like the third-place finisher, Rev.

Eugene Ridley, the 42-year-old pastor of the 1,500-member Long Leaf Baptist Church in Wilmington, who describes himself as an "ultraconservative."

While the presidency and Wingate issues were decided early, runoffs were necessary for first vice president and second vice president.

In a close election, the Rev. Randall Lolley of Raleigh, former president of Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, defeated the Rev. James Johnson of West Asheville Baptist Church in a runoff for first vice president.

Lolley received 2,201 votes — or 51 percent — to Johnson's 2,103 votes — or nearly 49 percent.

In the second vice president's runoff, Bruce Whittaker, who recently retired as president of Chowan College, defeated Joe Lennon of Wake Forest, president of the Christian Action League. Whittaker received nearly 54 percent of the votes to 46 percent for Lennon.

Meanwhile, participants soundly defeated a motion to change the name of Wingate College to Cannon-Wingate University. Some 3,426 voted against the proposal compared with 1,063 voting for it.

The vote came nearly a year after Wingate trustees decided — without consulting Baptist leaders — to change the name of the school to Charles Cannon University. The school has received millions of dollars over the years from the convention.

Cannon, a Presbyterian textile magnate, was the founder of Cannon Mills. Charitable groups he created gave Wingate more than $10 million over the years.

Opened as a preparatory school in 1896, Wingate is named for Washington Manley Wingate, a 19th century Baptist educator who headed Wake Forest University.

Food Store Founder Dies At Convention

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GREENSBORO — William Thomas Harris, who started as a clerk and helped build the Harris-Teeter grocery store chain, died after giving an impassioned plea for North Carolina Baptists to agree to a name change for Wingate College. Harris, a long-time Wingate trustee, was 81 when he died Tuesday.

Harris, of Charlotte, collapsed after he spoke to the convention's 5,300 participants in support of a proposal to change the name of the Union County college to Cannon-Wingate University.

The motion was defeated in a vote after Harris was taken from the Greensboro Coliseum. Many of the delegates knew Harris had collapsed but were unaware of his condition when they voted.

Minutes after he finished his speech, the convention's outgoing president, Leon Smith, asked if a doctor was available. Harris died at 1:20 p.m. at Moses H. Cone Hospital of a ruptured abdominal aortic aneurysm, said hospital spokeswoman Kathy Black.

The Harris Teeter Supermarket chain, which today boasts of 128 stores in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee doing over $1 billion in annual sales, started with a single store on Central Avenue in Charlotte in 1936.

Harris had grown up on a farm in his native Cordele, Ga., quitting school in the 10th grade.

IN THE STATE

Chemical Leaking

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DURHAM — A dump site for low-level radioactive garbage used during the 1960s is leaking a chemical into groundwater near Duke University and officials say they are taking steps to stop the leakage.

"We're very concerned," said Pat DeRosa, an environmental chemist with the state Solid Waste Management Division. "There doesn't appear to be any immediate threat to human health. But it does have a potential to leak and to move, and that's what we need to prevent."

The quarter-acre site in Duke

Forest was used for disposal of Duke University's low-level radioactive waste from 1961-70. Since 1970, Duke's low-level radioactive waste has been handled by a commercial waste-disposal firm.

Para-dioxane, also known as diethylene dioxide, diethylene ether or dioxan is considered a probable human carcinogen. It can affect the body if it is inhaled, swallowed or comes in contact with the eyes or skin.

Overexposure can also damage the liver and kidneys and cause skin disease and irritation of the eyes, nose and throat.

Serrano Photo Draws Crowd And Protests

DURHAM (AP) — About 500 people showed up Tuesday night in Durham to look at a reproduction of Andres Serrano's controversial crucifix photograph, other art works and hear a lecture.

At one point in the evening, a 200-foot long line of more than 200 people snaked along a closed street as people waited to get in a 125-seat room to see the photograph.

With two packaged condoms plastered on his left shoulder, the Rev. Jerry Hooper explained that the large turnout was because of the so-called art lovers "degenerate and indecent philosophy on life."

Hooper was one of 70 evangelical Christians who stood in the middle of the street in protest and sang hymns, recited scripture and prayed.

People waited to see the exhibit and hear a short lecture that was given three times by Dennis Szakacs of the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston Salem. At least eight police officers patrolled the area.

Monoxide Study

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Exposure to carbon monoxide at the same levels as those measured in smoggy cities and smoky rooms increases irregular heart beats in heart disease victims during exercise, a new study shows.

Such exposure may boost the risk of sudden death, researchers said.

The study, conducted at the University of North Carolina schools of medicine and public health, indicated the harmful effect is especially strong in older people who already have irregular heartbeats.

As the nation's population ages and the number of automobiles mounts, it will be increasingly important to protect people against the effects of the odorless gas, authors of the study say.

Their new work is the first carefully controlled study of carbon monoxide and ventricular arrhythmias in humans.

Hatcher Motion

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ruled that Indian activist Eddie Hatcher be allowed to defend himself against kidnapping charges and, despite objections, pen-hurling and name-calling, the judge appointed standby counsel for the Indian activist.

Hatcher faces 14 counts of second-degree kidnapping in Robeson County Superior Court for his alleged role in the Feb. 1, 1988, armed takeover of The Robesonian newspaper. Hatcher, who said he took over the newspaper to call attention to corruption in the county, was acquitted later that year on federal hostage-taking charges.

During a hearing Tuesday, Judge I. Beverly Lake also found Attorney Barry Nakell in contempt of court and upheld former rulings by Judge Robert Farmer that out-of-state defense attorneys could not defend Hatcher because they failed to meet State Bar Association regulations to practice in North Carolina.

Chemical Spill

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Irritating vapors from a chemical spill in Lexington forced evacuation of a half-mile area southeast of the site, police said.

Duke Whisenant, Lexington city manager, said a railroad tank car at a siding owned by Fleet Transport began leaking ferric chloride, a corrosive, about 9 p.m. Tuesday. Emergency crews had stopped the leak by 10 p.m. and began work to contain the spill, he said.

The chemical was threatening Swearing Creek which ultimately flows into High Rock Lake, Whisenant said.

No major injuries from the spill were reported, but several people experienced irritation from the vapors, authorities said. Residents were advised to go to the National Guard armory.

Hunt and Kill

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A Florida woman accused of conspiracy in connection with a bizarre murder-for-hire plot has given Daytona Beach police their first lead for the motive of the killing of a Wilmington man.

Police now think an initiation into a "hunt and kill" club was the motive for the killing of Mark Kevin Ramsey, 18, of Wilmington. The teen-ager was killed several weeks ago in Daytona Beach.

Investigators have interviewed Yvonne Henderson, 20, of Daytona Beach. She was arrested Tuesday and charged with conspiracy to commit first-degree murder in connection with alleged negotiations by Deidre Hunt, 20, for the murder of Lisa Fotopoulos, said Barry Neall, captain of criminal investigation for the Daytona Beach Police Department in a telephone interview Tuesday.

Ms. Henderson was Ms. Hunt's roommate, Neall said.

Food Withdrawn

HIGH POINT (AP) — Both Harris-Teeter supermarkets in High Point have pulled one variety of Gerber baby food from their shelves after a local woman reported finding glass in a jar.

Harris-Teeter corporate officials ordered all the company stores in Guilford County to pull all half-ounce jars of Strained Garden Vegetables from their shelves, the High Point Enterprise reported.

The precaution comes after Sherry Patae of High Point reported that she found what appeared to be glass in a jar of the Gerber baby food she was feeding to her daughter, Lauren, the newspaper said.

Probation

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — A Fayetteville computer salesman has been placed on probation after he pleaded guilty in federal court to using his computer to transfer money into his credit card account.

Thomas Scott Browder, 24, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge W. Earl Britt last week to five years' probation, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Dan Boyce.

Britt also forbade Browder from obtaining new credit cards, and required that he avoid illegal drugs and the excessive use of alcohol and that he undergo urinalysis periodically.

Solon Calls For UNC Evaluation

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DURHAM — The state should re-evaluate the 16-campus University of North Carolina system, said Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, saying a third decade under the same arrangement could cause "irreparable harm."

The idea, Miller said, was a "worthy endeavor" to make sure all schools were treated fairly, but has detracted from the strongest, flagship campuses.

"Perhaps now it is time to assess public higher education after these two decades," Miller said Monday in a speech to the Durham Rotary Club.

"I am concerned that a third decade may cause irreparable harm and damage..." he said.

Universities and community colleges are competing for the same educational dollar, he said, at a time when the percent of the state dollar commitment is less now than it once was.

Miller also said the state should do for education what it recently did for highways when the legislature voted to spend $9 billion on highway construction over 12 years.

"There was never any doubt of passage of this legislation. It is time we did the same for education," he said.

Miller, a member of the state House for 18 years, criticized the General Assembly for paying lip service to education, but for offering "relatively little support."

The one exception he mentioned was the Basic Education Program, which is designed to make sure every school system offers the same fundamentals.

Panel Leader Calls For Steps To Protect Pensions

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The chairman of a House panel today called for stronger measures to protect private pension fund assets so workers do not lose their retirement savings to fraud and mismanagement.

"We must develop greater safeguards to adequately protect the nation's private pension fund assets," Rep. Bill Hughes, D-N.J., said as he opened a hearing by the House subcommittee on retirement income and employment.

"Our workers and retirees have a right to expect that the pensions they have worked so hard to earn, and which they are counting on to meet basic living expenses during their retirement years, are not eroded away by waste, fraud and corruption," he said.

The hearing stemmed from reports issued by the Labor Department's inspector general office, which pointed to the vulnerability of $2 trillion in assets of pension plans covering 76 million Americans.

The latest inspector general's report, obtained Tuesday by The Associated Press, says billions of dollars in private pension money is not being fully audited because the money was invested in such institutions as savings and loans.

Some Labor Department officials dispute the extent of the problems, saying the department's acting inspector general, Raymond Maria, has exaggerated the potential for fraud. Maria has likened the potential to the recent savings and loan crisis, which some estimates say will require a $100 billion taxpayer bailout.

David George Ball, assistant labor secretary for pension and welfare benefits, told the hearing, "The pension system, by any objective measure, has never been healthier."

Maria, in his testimony, said "our goal is not to unnecessarily frighten people, but to stimulate concern where such concern is needed, and to avoid potential future crisis."

He said inadequate regulations and reliance on civil rather than criminal remedies have "created a window of opportunity for those who would embezzle and steal from plan participants."

Michael S. Gordon, a member of the Labor Department's pension advisory council, said in an interview that "not everything in the private pension system is peaches and cream." But he added that the inspector general's office has "inspired unnecessary fear and anxiety."

Either way, Hughes said, there is reason for concern. "I heard the same sectors saying the savings and loan situation wasn't serious five years ago," he said. "It seems to me we should have learned from history."

Concern about the pension system has grown with discovery of a number of multimillion-dollar skimming schemes and with financial difficulties encountered by the federal Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp., which insures private pensions. The PBGC is $1.5 billion in the red, and that deficit could balloon if the agency loses a Supreme Court case involving LTV Corp.

Hughes said the PBGC deficit "suggests to me we might have a more serious problem than the Department of Labor led us to believe."

The hearing by the House Subcommittee on Retirement Income and Employment was billed as a "review of the U.S. Department of Labor's efforts to prevent fraud and abuse." The subcommittee also was to review the latest inspector general's report, which recommends full audits on a wider array of private pension and health programs.

In an earlier study, Maria's office reported that $18.7 million in misused plan assets and administrative violations were found in plans examined in late 1987.

GUILD OPTICIANS
YOUR EYEGGLASS PRESCRIPTION
What does the Federal Trade Commission say about "Eyeglass Prescriptions"

Q. Can I charge my patients an extra fee for releasing the prescription?
A. No. The Rule makes it illegal for you to charge your patients any fee in excess of your normal examination fee as a charge for releasing the prescription. So if your normal examination fee is $30, you cannot add an extra $5 or $10 for releasing the prescription.

Q. When do I have to give out a prescription?
A. The prescription must be given to your patient immediately after you complete the eye examination. This means that you must give your patient his or her prescription before you begin your dispensing procedures (if you also dispense eyeglasses).

Q. What if my patient doesn't ask for the prescription? Do I still have to give it out to my patient?
A. Yes. The Rule requires that you prepare the prescription and physically offer it to the patient. Of course, you can't force the patient to take it, but you must offer him or her the written prescription. Simply asking your patients whether they want their prescription is not sufficient. We found that many consumers had never seen a prescription for corrective eyewear and thus were unaware that they could take that piece of paper and use it to comparison shop.

Q. What is the penalty for violating the Rule?
A. The penalty for violating the Rule is up to $10,000 per violation.

Q. How can I report violations of the Rule?
A. You can contact us directly in Washington, D.C. Our mailing address in Washington is: Eyeglasses TRR, Federal Trade Commission, Room 281, Washington, DC 20580

Mom-To-Be Helps Nab Knifer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A "little half-pint" size waitress pregnant with twins chased and helped catch a man who police say stabbed one of her regular customers at the restaurant.

"I didn't know what I was going to do if I caught him," said Karen Hoyle, who is 4½ months pregnant and just shy of 5 feet tall.

She didn't have to worry because her screams during Tuesday afternoon's four-block chase alerted a police officer, who caught the man.

The 49-year-old suspect, a drifter from Montana, was being held pending a charge of aggravated robbery, said Paul Adelmann, a St. Paul police spokesman.

The victim, 86-year-old Bernard Young, who was in fair condition Tuesday night following surgery at St. Paul Ramsey Medical Center, identified the man as his attacker, said police and hospital officials.

Young stumbled out of a restroom at Tin Cup's Place in St. Paul after he was attacked.

"He kind of fell into my arms and said he had been stabbed and mugged," said a cook, Carolyn Lenihan, 45.

Ms. Hoyle asked which way the attacker had gone.

"That's when she took off, the little half pint and her twins," said Mrs. Lenihan, who added she didn't have time to stop Ms. Hoyle.

KAREN HOYLE

"It was just an instant reaction to get this guy," said Ms. Hoyle, 24.

She said when she spotted the man outside, he was walking casually, until she started screaming at him.

A restaurant patron joined her in the chase but he couldn't keep up, she said.

She said once police caught the suspect, "I looked at him in the car and said I hope you didn't kill this guy. He just glared at me. He never said anything to me. He didn't have a chance. I was screaming the whole time."

She returned to the restaurant in time to tell Young the suspect was in custody and help Young's wife into the ambulance to join him.

After that, she went back to waiting tables.

"That's Karen. It's like the show must go on," Mrs. Lenihan said.

Kitty Gets Treatment

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON — Kitty Dukakis, hospitalized last week after drinking rubbing alcohol, was undergoing treatment today at a hospital unit specializing in depression and related disorders.

The 52-year-old wife of Gov. Michael Dukakis was transferred Tuesday from Brigham and Women's Hospital to New England Deaconess' affective disorders unit, the governor's office said. She was in satisfactory condition today.

A recovering alcoholic with a history of depression, Mrs. Dukakis was admitted to Brigham and Women's on Nov. 6.

Deaconess' 27-bed affective disorders unit treats patients suffering from mood disorders, such as depression and mood swings.

Dukakis press secretary Mindy Lubber said Deaconess was chosen by the Dukakis family and their doctors because "it was a program they were very comfortable with." She said it isn't known how long Mrs. Dukakis will remain there.

On Monday, the governor said his wife had "a slip," or a relapse back into drinking, when she swallowed the rubbing alcohol. Her doctor has said she also suffers from depression, which is known as an affective disorder.

She had earlier admitted to being addicted to diet pills, for which she has also received treatment.

Gang-Raped Jogger Goes Home

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — The jogger who was gang-raped and badly beaten in Central Park will spend Thanksgiving at home with her family, her father said.

She was released Tuesday from a Connecticut hospital after what doctors said was a remarkable recovery after being left for dead.

Her father said he was "thrilled to have her back," and was preparing a "quiet Thanksgiving family celebration."

In state Supreme Court on Tuesday, the prosecution rested after four weeks of testimony in a hearing on whether statements six defendants gave police should be allowed as evidence at their upcoming rape and attempted murder trials.

Defense lawyers maintain the statements, in which nearly all the youths implicate themselves or their co-defendants, were coerced and therefore illegal.

A spokesman for Gaylord Hospital in Wallingford, Conn., said the jogger would continue to be treated there on an outpatient basis.

"She continues to have post-traumatic amnesia," said spokesman Gerald Main, "but she has made good recovery and rehabilitation."

The jogger, a 29-year-old investment banker, was dragged 200 feet into the underbrush, raped, beaten with a pipe and a rock and left unconscious April 19. She had been on her nightly run.

When police found her 3½ hours later, she was in a coma and had lost almost 80 percent of her blood.

Light a Luminary
for the Ronald McDonald House

Dear Friends,

The magic of Christmas is fast approaching, and what a wonderfully unique idea: to light every street with luminaries on Christmas Eve to recognize all the families of the Ronald McDonald House!

Please join us in supporting this year's first annual "Light A Luminary" fundraiser project. Each luminary kit consists of six candles, six plain white bags, sand and an instruction sheet. We suggest spacing the luminaries along the curb in front of your house and lighting them at dusk on Christmas Eve. We request a contribution of $3.50 per kit. A very special thank you goes out to Union Camp, Weyerhaeuser & White Concrete for their contributions to this endeavor. Volunteers are needed to help with assembly November 6 through November 19, and to serve as block, street or neighborhood chairmen. As you place your order for a luminary kit, please tell us if you are interested in helping with the project. For more information, call Kate at 830-0062.

Please join your friends and neighbors as we brighten our streets on Christmas Eve. Luminaries make wonderful gifts for teachers and co-workers, too!

Thank you and Happy Holidays!

Bill Would Give Foley His Own Jet

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — House Speaker Thomas S. Foley would get his own jet provided by the Defense Department under a stealth amendment to the defense appropriations bill heading to the House floor.

The provision was neither in the original House bill nor the Senate version, and some members of the House-Senate conference committee that added the amendment said they weren't aware of it until Tuesday.

The amendment would require that the secretary of defense make available a C-20 aircraft at Andrews Air Force Base in the Maryland suburbs of Washington for the speaker's use.

Under what has been described as a gentleman's agreement, the Defense Department has traditionally furnished the speaker with a plane on request. The provision would require that a plane be permanently assigned to the speaker.

Congressional sources, who insisted on anonymity, said the amendment was inserted in the $280 billion bill by the chairman of the House defense appropriations subcommittee, Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa.

It was unclear whether Foley had requested the provision, but his staff seemed surprised when told it was part of the bill.

One lawmaker, who requested that he not be identified, said it was his "impression" that Foley was not aware of what had been done.

Jeff Biggs, a Foley spokesman, would only say "it would appear the committee has regularized what in the past has been an informal arrangement."

The $20 million aircraft, which can carry up to 14 people, would come from the Air Force's existing inventory of C-20s. The plane, the military model of the Gulfstream III made by Gulfstream Aerospace, requires a crew of five.

A close Foley ally, Rep. Norm

Dicks, D-Wash., defended the amendment, saying he hoped "people would take into account that the president has a plane, the vice president has a plane and the speaker should have a plane."

"I think what it does is clarify existing practices and I think it is clearly justified," said Dicks, the second-ranking Democrat on the House defense appropriations subcommittee. "Certainly, I would defend it on the House floor."

One lawmaker, who requested anonymity, said many of the negotiators who signed the conference report were unaware of the provision.

White House Delays OK On Pay Bill

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders are awaiting President Bush's endorsement before unleashing their final drive to raise congressional pay by a third over the next 14 months.

But White House officials held back that support Tuesday while they pressured House leaders to toughen a companion ethics reform package.

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., continued to insist Tuesday that the package was really ethics reform. The pay plan, which would bring congressional salaries from $89,500 to above $120,000, was only a part of the package, he said.

The 7.9 percent raise lawmakers would receive Jan. 1 is being billed as a "cost-of-living adjustment." The 25 percent raise a year later would offset the loss in income House members would suffer when a prohibition takes effect on accepting fees for speeches before interest groups.

The bill also would tighten rules for other outside income and gifts, require more disclosure of personal wealth and make other ethics reforms.

But White House counsel C. Boyden Gray told lawmakers Tuesday that the plan failed to impose enough ethics restrictions on legislative branch officials and their staffs, similar to those governing the executive branch, according to sources who spoke on the condition of anonymity.

"There should not be a double standard," said a White House official familiar with the talks.

The pay increase itself was supported by the White House because it also applied to federal judges and top officials in the executive branch.

House Democratic and Republican leaders had hoped to settle their discussions with the White House by day's end. They were forced to postpone until Thursday party caucuses planned for today as the first step in the final push.

Drug War Funding Approved

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — An additional $3.2 billion to finance the Bush administration's war on drugs is heading for the president's desk after getting final congressional approval from the Senate.

Under the measure, anti-drug funds would climb to $8.8 billion this year, $900 million more than requested by President Bush on Sept. 5 in a nationally televised address outlining his plan of attack on narcotics.

Approval of the funds represents the major congressional action on the drug issue thus far this year. The House and Senate are forming a fresh conference committee to try to resolve differences over non-money items, including the administration's so-called Andean Strategy.

The funds were included in an overall $12 billion money bill for the Transportation Department in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

The rest of the transportation bill received final congressional approval from the Senate last week with only the anti-drug money drawing fire. It was approved Tuesday by unanimous consent without discussion.

All but a few details had been worked out between the administration and Senate negotiators in September. The conference committee last month dropped all non-money items but made only minor funding changes.

The House approved the money Nov. 1 on a voice vote.

Included in the package is $1 billion for the federal prison system for buildings, $308 million for law enforcement grants to state and local governments as well as $727 million for programs involving alcohol, drug abuse and mental health.

Navy Calls For All-Out Safety Checks

By Susanne M. Schafer
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Navy commanders around the world are under orders to "leave no stone unturned" during an unprecedented operations cutback and 48-hour safety check designed to stem the string of deadly accidents plaguing the service.

Adm. Carlisle A. H. Trost, the chief of naval operations, on Tuesday ordered that a "safety stand-down" be conducted at all Navy facilities within three days.

"Prudent leadership demands that we take a look at everything that might be a possible cause for this recent spate of accidents, regardless of their severity," Trost told reporters at a Pentagon news conference.

The order requires ships, flying squadrons and shore facilities to interrupt normal operations and review basic safety and operating procedures.

However, it will allow such operations as U.S. ship movements in the Persian Gulf and drug interdiction activities to continue, the four-star admiral said.

"A stand-down ... does not say, bring ships in from sea, stop flying airplanes completely. ... Clearly, operations around the world must continue," Trost said.

In his statement, Trost told fleet commanders and other senior Navy leaders that they should "leave no stone unturned to ensure the safety of operations is foremost in the minds of all hands."

The order also requires all commanders to report their findings after the 48-hour interruption in operations.

The action came as the Navy has suffered through a series of mishaps since Oct. 29 in which 10 people have been killed or lost at sea and at least 53 people injured.

Between Jan. 1 and Nov. 1, the Navy counted 101 "operation and training related" fatalities in the service, including 47 in the explosion aboard the USS Iowa on April 19.

The admiral defended the Navy's safety record, saying that absent the Iowa fatalities, this would be the service's safest year in this decade.

Trost said he has found no common thread in the recent spate of accidents, that some were due to mechanical failure while others were caused by human error, such as a lapse of attention to procedure.

He said he did not believe commanders were working their sailors too hard, but he wanted to ensure that no short cuts were being taken during the many dangerous activities that Navy personnel must conduct every day.

The admiral said all commanders should ask: "Are we adhering to all the proper procedures, are we doing what we should be, the way we should be doing it? ... Is there something we're overlooking? Are people getting careless?"

Overall, the Navy has 599,000 full-time personnel and some 566 ships — and usually a third of those are at sea for training operations at any one time.

The announcement came as three more incidents were added to the Navy's accident list:

—A Navy F-14 jet fighter crashed in the Gulf of Mexico 60 miles northwest of Key West, Fla., with the crew escaping serious injury.

—A fire broke out aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Inchon in Norfolk, Va., injuring 31 people, as the vessel was undergoing shipyard maintenance.

—A Navy ordnance technician suffered minor burns and possible eye injuries when an experimental explosive mixture detonated in a research laboratory at the Naval Surface Weapons Testing Center in White Oak, Md.

In recent weeks, the service has been plagued by a number of deadly accidents including a training jet crashing into an aircraft carrier off Florida in which five people were killed; sailors who have been washed overboard on two different aircraft carriers and the accidental bombing of a ship by a Navy pilot in the Indian Ocean.

Plymouth Rock Is Getting A Facelift

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PLYMOUTH, Mass. — Plymouth Rock, the boulder marking the spot where the Pilgrims landed 369 years ago, is in danger of splitting in two. But a mason says he'll preserve it in time for Thanksgiving.

"I don't look at it as a job, I look at it as a privilege to preserve something that means a lot to people all over the United States," said Paul Choquette, 42, of South Dartmouth, who planned to start work on the rock today.

He bid $1 to win the contract to patch up the historic landmark, where Pilgrims are said to have first set foot on American land in 1620.

Ronald Hirschfeld, a geotechnical engineer hired by the state's Department of Environmental Management to analyze the rock, has concluded that the rock's crack will worsen if left unattended.

"It would look terribly embarrassing if it split in half," said Peter O'Neil, a department spokesman.

The crack first appeared in 1774, when the 6-ton boulder was dropped during an attempt to move it to the town square, breaking it in two.

The smaller piece was used for the town display, but because tourists kept chipping away at the monument, guardians of the rock decided to glue it back to its partner in 1880.

That job has stood up to the tides that occasionally submerge the rock, which is 14 feet wide and 6 feet long and stands in a half-enclosed protective structure in the waters off of this seaside town.

The mortar, however, is deteriorating. State and town officials fear water that seeps into the rock will freeze, causing further fissures or worse.

The main crack is about 2½ feet long. Choquette said repairs could be completed in one day.

He said he's not using high-tech glues or epoxy, because scientists want to be able to undo his work without damaging the rock if more substantial repairs become necessary.

He has prepared a special mortar mixed to match the color and consistency of the 19th century repairs.

Thank You, Citizens Of Greenville, For Helping Us Turn Our Power Back On!

During the early morning hours of September 22, Hurricane Hugo ripped through our community, leaving us darkened and devastated by its wrath.

And now, more than ever, all of us in Albemarle, Gastonia, and Statesville know what being a good neighbor is all about.

It's people helping people, no matter how tough the job is. And no job was tougher, or more needed, than restoring our electricity after Hugo struck our community.

You sent us crews and equipment. Your linemen worked long, cold and rainy hours to help restore our power. We're grateful for this help.

And we're grateful we're part of ElectriCities' public power family of 65 member communities across North Carolina.

It's a family of neighbor helping neighbor, as we saw when the ElectriCities Emergency Assistance Program rushed hundreds of municipal linemen with equipment and supplies to Hugo-torn communities like ours.

But most of all, the public power community provides peace of mind, knowing that helpful neighbors like you will be there when we need them most.

Thanks again from the citizens of

Albemarle, Gastonia, and Statesville

Holiday Turkeys Down, Hams Up

WASHINGTON — Prices of holiday turkeys will be down from a year ago, but hams are going to be more expensive, the Agriculture Department says.

"Consumers will find adequate supplies of turkey and ham for the holiday season," the department's Economic Research Service reported Tuesday. "Prices likely will be lower for turkeys but higher for hams than last year."

Turkey production in the fourth quarter may be up about 12 percent from a year ago, with frozen inventories up slightly. Ham supplies are expected to decline slightly despite an increase in cold-storage stocks.

"Total red meat and poultry production is expected to set a record in 1989 and again in 1990," the report said. "Among the major components, only beef production may decline in 1989, reflecting the reduced cattle inventory."

Looking to 1990, the report said beef production may increase somewhat because of more cattle going into feedlots before slaughter, resulting in more "fed" beef.

"In both years, pork output could remain relatively large," the report said. "Broiler output will continue to grow" because of improved profits in recent years.

"Turkey production also is expected to grow, but at a lower rate than broilers because returns are being squeezed."

Satellite To Return

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The astronauts aboard next month's space shuttle mission hope to return home with a bus-size Christmas present — a satellite carrying a bounty of space experiments begun nearly six years ago.

Columbia's five astronauts, scheduled to begin their 10-day flight Dec. 18, are charged with the task of retrieving what NASA calls the Long Duration Exposure Facility.

The 11-ton, 30-foot-long payload carrying 57 experiments was placed in orbit during a 1984 shuttle mission. It was to be retrieved in a year, but that plan was scuttled due to schedule changes and the Challenger explosion in 1986 that killed all seven crew members.

The craft is falling from orbit and is expected to crash back into the Earth's atmosphere in February if the Columbia astronauts don't snatch it.

"We hope that even though we'll be gone from our families and loved ones for Christmas, that we'll be able to bring back a great big Christmas present," commander Dan Brandenstein said Tuesday.

The other crew members are pilot James Wetherbee and mission specialist Bonnie Dunbar, Marsha Inns and G. David Low. They spoke at a news conference and in interviews Tuesday at the Johnson Space Center.

Tearful Witnesses Say Elderly Lost Savings In S&L

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of mostly elderly victims lost their savings through Lincoln Savings and Loan after federal thrift regulators undercut a Securities and Exchange Commission case against its owner, say witnesses before a House committee.

Four of the victims, some in tears, told the House Banking Committee on Tuesday how Lincoln officials led them to believe junk bonds in the thrift's holding company, American Continental Corp., purchased with their converted savings were federally insured and safe.

All of them blamed American Continental's chairman, Charles H. Keating Jr., and five senators they tagged the "Keating Five" who accepted a total of $1.3 million in political contributions from the Phoenix millionaire.

"Up against the likes of Charles Keating and the influence he was able to buy from elected officials and others in high office, we didn't stand a chance," said Shirley Lampel, a partially blind widow from Tustin, Calif., who lost $30,000.

The five senators — Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Donald Riegle, D-Mich.; Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.; John McCain, R-Ariz., and John Glenn, D-Ohio — are subjects of inquiries by the Senate Ethics Committee and the FBI.

Officials are investigating whether the senators improperly intervened on behalf of Keating in April 1987 with thrift regulators who were considering seizing Lincoln on grounds it was unsound. Despite a formal recommendation a month later recommending just that, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board waited until April 1989 to seize Lincoln.

All of the senators have denied any wrongdoing in the Lincoln fiasco, which is expected to cost taxpayers up to $2.5 billion and 22,000 bondholders like Mrs. Lampel, a majority of them retirees, another $250 million.

SEC Chairman Richard Breeden, who as a White House aide to President Bush designed the $200 billion-plus taxpayer bailout of the S&L industry, said the experiences of Mrs. Lampel and others has convinced him the banking laws need to be rewritten again.

"To be allowed to sell junk bonds of your parent (company) in the lobby of a financial institution with the security of federal protection is something that Congress perhaps ought to prohibit," Breeden said. "It's a little bit like having the requirement you can't sell liquor within so many yards of a polling place."

While Mrs. Lampel and the others were being encouraged by Lincoln officials to move their money out of federally insured deposits into the high-risk, uninsured bonds, the SEC was trying to determine if the holding company had filed false financial statements.

Shirley Lampel of Tustin, Calif., weeps as she testifies

Breeden said a May 20, 1988, "memorandum of understanding" between the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and Lincoln accepting the thrift's accounting on $135 million in disputed transactions gave the parent company a powerful legal tool to resist the SEC's probe.

"The regulator of the subsidiary institution said, in essence, that financial statements were all right," he said.

Karl Hoyle, a spokesman for the bank board, now called the Office of Thrift Supervision, said the memorandum "in no way could have impeded" the SEC investigation. "They're independent. ... There's nothing we can do to get in the way," he said.

Breeden also said the SEC has turned over some of the evidence in its probe to a federal grand jury in Los Angeles considering possible criminal charges against Keating and his associates.

Abductor Captured

restroom in Camas, 15 miles east of Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — A young boy's screams as he was being carried from a movie theater led to the arrest of a man on charges he killed three other youngsters, police said.

Westley Allan Dodd, a 28-year-old Vancouver resident with a long history of sexual offenses involving children, was charged with three counts of first-degree aggravated murder in the deaths of three young Portland-Vancouver area boys, authorities said.

Police said Dodd was apprehended Monday night after he carried a 5-year-old boy from a theater

After getting a description of the man's car, William Graves, the boyfriend of the boy's mother, found that it had broken down a few blocks away.

Camas police Lt. Mike Slyter said Graves caught Dodd after a little struggle. He returned Dodd to the theater, where bystanders tied a belt around his hands and held him until police arrived.

Clash Averted Over Borrowing To Fund S&L Rescue Operation

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration and Congress averted a bitter clash Tuesday over the rising cost of the savings and loan rescue operation by agreeing to delay any borrowing in excess of the $50 billion already approved by Congress.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill to curtail any new borrowing. But the measure will not take effect until Jan. 15, giving federal regulators time to find a borrowing plan that satisfies Congress.

Legislation approved in August to clean up scores of failed thrifts across the country gave regulators the authority to borrow money, using as collateral real estate and other assets from failed S&Ls seized by the government.

However, regulators shocked Congress by disclosing in recent weeks they might need to borrow an additional $50 billion to $100 billion to close failed institutions. That would be on top of $50 billion in proposed bond sales already approved by Congress.

Congress fears that the unchecked borrowing capacity will give regulators massive sums of money to spend without effective legislative control.

"We are dealing with one of the largest scandals the U.S. has ever been involved in," said Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla. Congress can "stand supinely by and let the administration handle it" or take an active role in overseeing the spending of the money, he said.

Spending huge sums of money to close defunct S&Ls "should smell and stink and hang out for everyone to see," Gibbons said. "I can see why the administration does not want it to stink and hang out."

Rep. Willis D. Gradison Jr., R-Ohio, said Congress wants the regulators "to come back with the least-cost solution" to the need for additional money.

The $50 billion already approved by Congress and a $5 billion line of credit available at the Treasury can be used to pay off S&L depositors, whose accounts are insured by the federal government up to $100,000.

Regulators already have seized control of 283 institutions and have identified 223 more that are likely takeover candidates. They have not yet determined which institutions must be closed and which can be dismantled and partially saved by selling branches and deposits to healthy banks and S&Ls.

Judgment Reimbursed

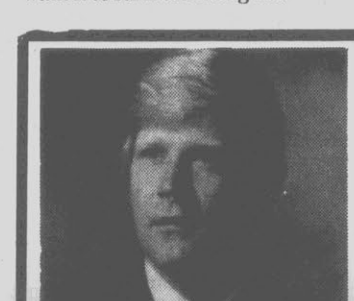

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITTSBURGH — An insurance company has reimbursed the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette $2 million of the largest libel judgment ever paid by a newspaper, leaving the paper's publishing company to absorb $270,000 of the judgment.

"I can tell you that it's a load off my back," Post-Gazette Publisher William Block told the newspaper staff.

The newspaper reported today that PG Publishing Co. received the $2 million Tuesday from National Surety Corp., a subsidiary of Firemen's Fund Insurance Cos. National Surety agreed to pay the amount in a settlement approved Tuesday.

PG Publishing had sued National Surety in May after the company refused to pay the libel claim under the newspaper's excess-liability policy. National Surety argued that state law prohibits an insurer from paying punitive damages, which are intended to punish and to serve as a deterrent.

Farm Show Opens

home. He said manufacturers prefer that farmers buy goods through local dealers.

Strickland was not the only farmer asking questions of manufacturers at the farm show Tuesday.

Lee Kirkland, who farms with his father in Tarboro, spent about 20 minutes grilling engineer Roger Adams with questions about a peanut combine manufactured by Gregory Manufacturing Co. of Lewiston.

Adams is an engineer at Gregory and was conducting a walk-around talk and tour of equipment displayed at the farm show.

Kirkland said he and his father had bought a machine two years ago that is similar to the one on display.

"Basically, they're the same," Kirkland said after looking at the recent model and comparing it in his mind to the combine he and his father own. "This one has a few more options."

Kirkland said he is satisfied with the $18,000 combine he is currently using and would consider buying another of the machines. He said, however, that he would not buy the new model just to get the latest options.

Kirkland said he and his father farm tobacco, soy beans and peanuts. He said they also raise chickens.

After questioning Adams about the peanut combine, Kirkland moved on to a turkey tiller that he thought might come in handy in cleaning his chicken coops.

Adams told Kirkland that the tiller could be used for that purpose, but said it is not yet available for sale. He said manufacturers are circulating the tiller at farm shows to gauge the demand for it.

"We mostly have it here to see how many people are interested in something like this before we go into building them," Kirkland said.

Gregory Manufacturing is one of hundreds of farm equipment and produce manufacturers from across the country and throughout the world showing goods at the Farmer's Tobacco Warehouse on Green Street through Thursday, according to Jim Swindell, general manager of the annual farm show.

Swindell said opening day attendance at the show was about the same as last year, adding that more people were coming into the warehouse this morning to look around.

"The crowd was down some yesterday, but it's picked up a lot today," Swindell said from Farmer's Warehouse today. "I think the rain helped us out a little bit. It gets them (farmers) out of the fields."

Swindell said the manufacturers who have displays at the show are satisfied with the attendance so far.

"Most of the exhibitors are happy with the crowds we've been getting," Swindell said. He said attendance should pick up Thursday.

Gas Rates Cut

Green said the rate changes reflect costs billed to GUC that it passes on to its customers.

In other action: The board awarded three companies contracts to supply 18 electrical transformers. The total cost of the units amounts to $104,554.

The board accepted an Environmental Protection Agency grant for the construction of the Fire Tower Road sewer outfall. The grant will cover 55 percent of the $972,000 cost to build a sewer system that will serve the eastern portion of Fire Tower Road. As part of the grant, the commission has to accept sewage from D.H. Conley High School.

The board granted the utilities' staff permission to negotiate a contract with the consulting firm studying the area's planned sewer system. The project includes the gravity sewer system in the Fire Tower Road area and a sewer pumping system near Worthington Crossroads. The cost of constructing a pumping system, which would serve D.H. Conley, is estimated at $230,000.

Schools File Appeal Over Pay reporting financial and student information through a statewide computer network.

"We are working toward compliance... and believe that documentation will support our position," Superintendent Edwin L. West Jr. said in a Nov. 7 letter to Etheridge asking him to reconsider.

State education officials were to study the appeal today and expected to have a decision within 10 days, Thomas C. Runkle, director of management information systems for the state education department, said.

"We'll respond to it promptly," he said.

Pitt County was one of seven school systems that missed a Sept. 1 deadline to begin electronic transmissions of financial and student data to state education officials through the Uniform Education Reporting System, a statewide computer network that will allow them to compile information faster and with less paperwork.

State law requires the state superintendent to withhold pay from administrators who miss the deadline.

So far, no paychecks have been withheld. At its Nov. 6 meeting, the county Board of Education unanimously decided to ask Etheridge to reconsider his decision.

County school officials say they have made a good-faith effort to comply with state requirements.

"We've got a track record that shows that we've tried to comply," West said.

abstracted values. Throughout his career, his work evoked the essence of rich color, of lights and shadows, and the moods of nature. Often he rearranged the structure of a landscape to better suit what he wished to express.

Many of Speight's landscapes were painted in Manayuck, an old industrial suburb of Philadelphia along the Schuylkill River. Among his North Carolina paintings, the best known is a series of the Sans Souci Ferry on the Cashie River in Bertie County, painted during all seasons of the year. Many of the Sans Souci paintings are included in museum and private collections.

Speight's art is in the permanent collections of prestigious museums. Among these are the Metropolitan in New York; the Toronto Art Gallery, Canada; the Norton Gallery, Palm Beach, Fla.; the Boston Museum; the North Carolina Museum of Art, Raleigh; Pennsylvania Museum of Art and other art museums in Philadelphia; the Encyclopedia Britannica collection, and the Butler Art Institute, Youngstown, Ohio.

Two of his paintings are in the collection of the Greenville Museum of Art. Speight has received three of North Carolina's highest recognitions — the North Carolina Award, the O. Max Gardner Award of UNC-Chapel Hill, and the Morrison Award of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, producers of "The Lost Colony."

Since winning the First Hallgarten Prize of the National Academy of Design, New York, in 1930 and other National Academy first prizes in 1950, 1954 and 1958, Speight has received numerous awards. These include ones from the Art Institute of Chicago; the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C.; several awards from the Pennsylvania Academy; the Connecticut Academy of Fine Arts; the Butler Art Institute, and the Carnegie International Award.

In 1940 he was elected a member of the National Academy of Design, and in 1960 received membership in the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Speight's early training was two years at Wake Forest College, 1915-17. His first art teacher was Ida Poteat of Meredith College, also teacher for Speight's sister, the artist Tulie Speight.

From Wake Forest he left North Carolina to study at the Corcoran School of Art in Washington, D.C., before attending the Pennsylvania Academy for five years. While a student there, he received two traveling scholarships, one in 1923 and one in 1925, each for a summer's travel in Europe.

After graduating from the academy, he began teaching there. He also served as a member of the advisory committee of the Corcoran School of Art and was a visiting instructor at the University of North Carolina summer school for two summers.

Near the end of World War II, Speight was appointed a faculty member of the Shrivensham American University, England, assigned to the U.S. Army.

Speight holds two honorary degrees — a doctor of humanities from Wake Forest College and a doctor of fine arts from the College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass., in 1964.

Taggart and Jorgensen, the Washington, D.C., dealer of Speight's paintings, has an exhibition of his paintings scheduled from Nov. 29 to Dec. 22.

Family, tradition and a sense of place meant a lot to Francis Speight. He had an intense feeling of fondness for Snakebite Township, the community of his childhood and youth. He often spoke of his father, a Baptist minister and farmer, and of his mother, whom he said was a saint in keeping harmony with a preacher and a house full of children — it was a large family.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gained ground today, rebounding from Tuesday's setback.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 6.96 to 2,617.21 in the first half hour of trading.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 3 to 2 in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 590 up, 386 down and 498 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 23.18 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Analysts said traders seemed to be looking ahead hopefully to the monthly report from the government Thursday on the nation's international trade position.

Advance estimates on Wall Street call for a September trade deficit of about $9 billion, down from $10.8 billion in August.

Aside from that, brokers said worries persisted about the recent weakening trend of corporate earnings.

Profits for the third quarter, and early indications of likely fourth-quarter results, have contained numerous disappointments, stirring talk of a possible business slump in early 1990.

Gainers among the blue chips included Merck, up 3/4 at 76 3/4; General Electric, up 3/8 at 55 5/8; International Business Machines, up 3/8 at 98 3/4, and American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/8 at 43.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .34 to 187.85. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .05 at 371.47.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 16.18 to 2,610.25.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by about 4 to 3 on the NYSE, with 639 up, 831 down and 498 unchanged.

Big Board volume totaled 143.17 million shares, against 140.75 million in the previous session.

New Stores Open

A new supermarket and a new drugstore have opened in the shopping complex at the corner of Charles Boulevard and 14th Street in Greenville.

The grand opening of Harris Teeter went smoothly Tuesday at 1400 Charles Blvd., where a store spokesman said more than 100 people are employed.

The new store features a deli bakery, a floral department and a fresh fish case, the spokesman said. It will open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays.

Kerr Drugs is having its grand opening celebration today, according to Dan Hardy, store manager.

"Everything has gone just fine," Hardy said from the drug store this morning. He said about 12 people are employed at the store.

Kerr Drugs will open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 1 to 6 p.m. Sundays, Hardy said.

Southmark Board OKs Sale Of Integon

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — The Integon insurance unit will be sold by Southmark for cash and securities to a new company formed by Jupiter Industries of Chicago and New York-based Head Insurance Investors, Southmark says.

The sale of the Winston-Salem, N.C.-based company was approved Tuesday by Southmark's board.

The two companies have agreed to pay $189 million in cash, debt and new stock for Integon and repay or assume $120 million in Integon debt. Jupiter and Head had previously withdrawn an earlier offer of $135 million for Integon.

Integon shareholders, including Southmark, will receive only about $94 million, or $3.04 a share. Integon shares, which are traded over the counter, closed down at 3 Tuesday.

Southmark says about $60 million of the cash portion of the price will be set aside to cover future losses in the value of Integon's holdings, and $35 million in preferred stock paid to Southmark also will be placed in escrow against potential losses. The unused escrowed funds would be returned to shareholders.

Southmark, the Dallas-based real estate and financial services concern, which is seeking to reorganize in the protection of federal bankruptcy court, could receive up to $43 million in much-needed cash for its 89 percent stake in the life insurance company if the sale is approved.

The sale must be approved by U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Dallas and must be approved by Integon's board and its outside shareholders. Southmark said it anticipates completing the transaction by April 30, 1990, and either party can end the agreement if the sale isn't closed by then.

Senate Supports Cut In Gains Tax

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders are claiming victory for President Bush's proposed capital gains tax cut while acknowledging there is no chance the change will become law this year.

"It's more than a moral victory," Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said after a bare majority of the Senate supported a capital gains cut on a procedural vote Tuesday. "I got 51 votes."

In fact, Packwood said, he thinks 62 of the 100 senators would vote for a reduction if given the chance. "In the end, we will win this battle" next year, he said.

Tuesday's 51-47 vote was on an attempt to shut off a Democratic filibuster against the reduction. That was nine short of the 60 necessary to limit debate. All 45 Republicans and six Democrats supported the reduction.

The Senate arranged a second debate-limiting vote today, and Packwood acknowledged it is likely to be little different from Tuesday's result. After that vote, the issue will be put aside for the year.

Bush promised a capital gains cut in last year's presidential campaign as a way to encourage investment and create jobs. The proposal has dominated debate over budget issues for several months.

Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, pleaded for Democratic loyalty and assailed Bush for spending so much effort to win the cut. A reduction, Mitchell said, would bloat the deficit by tens of billions of dollars in the long run and serve up a major tax windfall for the nation's richest people.

"This amendment evinces no concern about investment or with the future," Mitchell said. "It is concerned only with the present and the political benefits that may flow from cutting taxes...."

"Given our circumstances, when so many in our nation are without decent housing, cannot afford an education, lack health insurance, it is a travesty that the Senate should now be seriously considering a huge tax cut for the very wealthy with no evidence that it will assist the economy," Mitchell said.

Economists estimate that 80 percent of the benefit of a cut in taxes on capital gains — profits from the sale of investments — would go to people with incomes above $100,000 a year. Those with incomes above $200,000 would get tax cuts averaging $24,000.

Republicans accused opponents of engaging in class-warfare rhetoric.

"This is a situation where everyone gains," said Packwood, contending a tax cut would benefit investors while producing increased revenue for the government to spend on social programs. "You don't get many deals better than that."

The House, with backing of one of every four Democrats, approved a different capital gains cut in September.

Present law fully taxes capital gains at the same rates that apply to wages and other income.

Duke Power Will Test Employees

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE — In a bid to improve nuclear plant safety, thousands of Duke Power Co. nuclear plant workers will face random testing for alcohol and illegal drugs and the utility will have to report how many employees test positive.

Under new federal rules, for the first time the company will have to report to the federal government every six months how many workers have been detected using illegal drugs.

"The regulation covers all employees who go into plants without escorts," said Duke Power spokesman Mike Mullen. "It could be people who are part of a crisis management team, people in corporate communications like me or people who manage the fitness program."

Knight FT Lifts Bucs Pirates Rally To Win In Overtime, 96-95

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Taro Knight got a second chance Tuesday night against the Yugoslavian Red Star basketball team and made good on it, lifting East Carolina to a 96-95 exhibition victory in Minges Coliseum.

Knight, fouled with 16 seconds left in overtime, missed the first of the one-and-one, but the ball was tapped back out to him and he was fouled again with nine seconds to go.

This time, he hit the first shot, but it took a missed shot just before the horn by Red Star's Slobodan Jankovic to seal the victory.

The Pirates, who trailed by 14 points midway through the second half, rallied behind 12 points by Reed Lose to tie it up at 82-82 and again dodged a Red Star bullet to get into the extra period.

After trailing 67-53 with 10:21 left, the Pirates tied it on a 3-pointer by Lose with 10 seconds left in regulation. But freshman Jeff Whitaker fouled Jankovic three seconds later. He missed the shot, and a driving layup by Paul Childress missed at the horn.

Stanley Love put ECU ahead in the overtime and both Tim Brown and Lose scored to give the Pirates an 88-82.

But late in the period, Jankovic hit two 3-pointers and erased the lead, tying it at 95-95.

Knight then had his chances, making good on the second try, giving the Pirates their one-point advantage. A final shot by Jankovic bounced high off the rim and over the backboard, giving the Pirates the win.

The setback was the third in five games for the Yugoslavians, who are playing each of the eight Colonial Athletic Association teams over a week and a half span. They previously lost to Richmond and American while beating James Madison and UNC-Wilmington. Richmond and UNCW also went into overtime.

"I was pleased with the way we came back," Coach Mike Steele said. "We didn't fold. We didn't panic, we had poise."

"We have better athletes and more people. By far, we've got the strongest inside play that we've had since I've been here," the coach added.

Both teams suffered from some fatigue, Steele said. "We've been fighting off some sickness and injuries, and they're tired from having played five games (since last Wednesday)."

The Pirates did not play well in the first half. They allowed Red Star to hit 62.5 percent of their shots while making only 38.9 percent of their own.

In the second half, they cut the Yugoslavian percentage down to 52.8 while cashing in on 54.5 percent of their own shots.

"At the half, we talked about defense and being more aggressive," Steele said. "We had a lot of shots blocked because we were pumping. We just told them to quit faking and go to the basket."

The Pirates got more inside scoring than usual, as Brown scored 16 points and Ike Copeland added 10 from the post.

The Pirates also outrebounded their taller foe, 43-35, led by 12 grabs by Copeland and nine by Love. "They had to play hard, block off on the boards. We've got some size this year, but not as much as some of the others (we play)," Steele said.

East Carolina scored the opening basket of the game, but Jankovic tied it up with a pair of free throws with 19:39 left and Slobodan Nikolic hit a 3-pointer to give Red Star a 5-2 lead. ECU never led again in regulation.

Using the 3-point goal to its advantage — Red Star hit 10 of 24 in the game — the Yugoslavians steadily pulled away to a 28-15 lead before ECU pulled back within six, 30-24. The lead then floated between six and 10 the rest of the half, which ended with Red Star up, 44-34.

Early in the second half, ECU cut the lead to four, 44-40, but Red Star pulled out again to 11. ECU again cut it to four, 55-51, only to see Red Star score nine in a row to up the lead to 64-51. Seconds later, that was stretched to 67-53 on another Jankovic 3-pointer.

Lose then got the rally started that eventually carried through for the win.

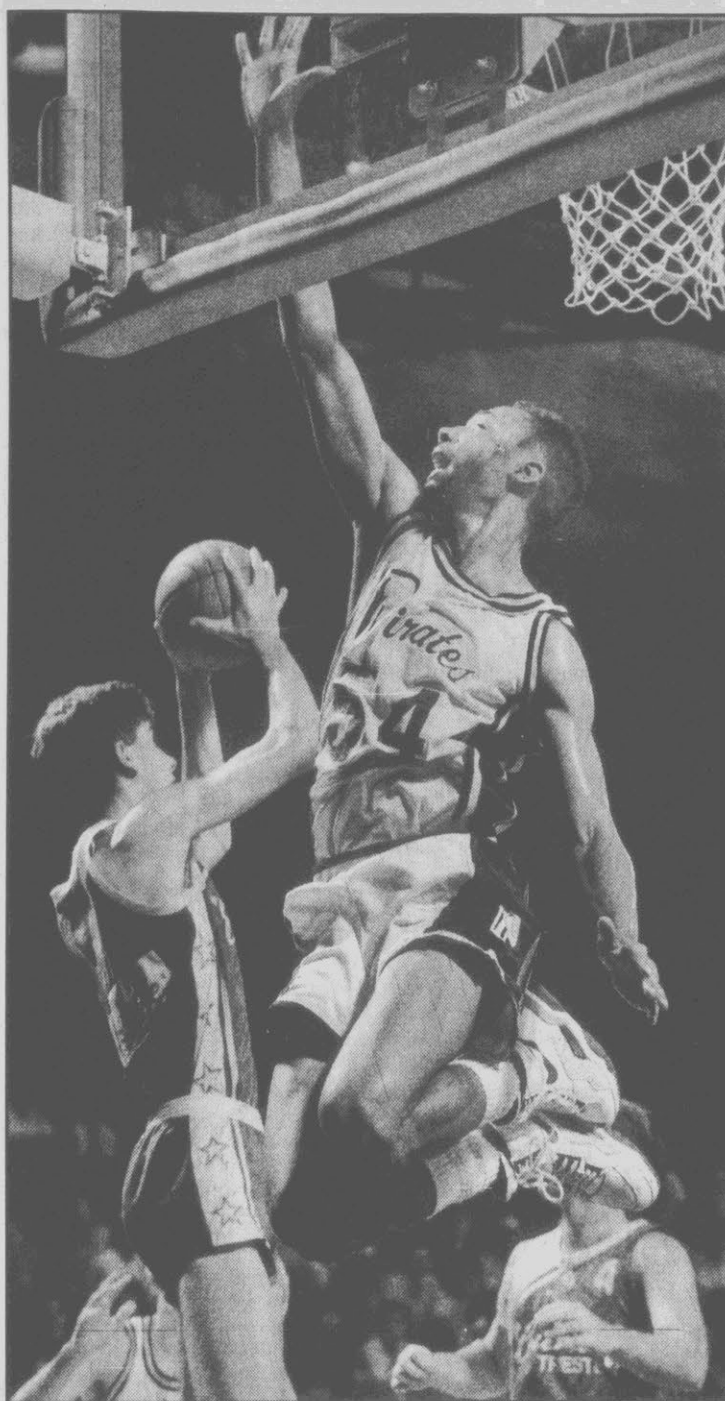

"This showed me that these kids have a lot of heart, some competitiveness," Steele said. "They've got a lot of emotion, too, but we've got to make sure that emotion comes out at the right time."

"There are still a lot of things we need to fix. We've about a week behind because we've got so many new kids. But the Thanksgiving holidays will help us because we can go two-a-days then," the coach said.

Steele said he had been anxious to see how his freshmen would play and seemed pleased with their effort. "Ike and Paul had streaks where they played well."

"We also have to decide where we're going to play Tim and Reed. Tim is at his best inside and Reed, on the wing. Whitaker did a good job

ECU Signs Armstrong

By Tom Morris
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Kevin Armstrong, a 6-5 forward from Gastonia Hunter Huss, was set to sign a grant in aid with East Carolina today on the final day of the early signing period.

A two-year starter for the Huskies, Armstrong averaged 14 points a game as a sophomore, and 14.5 points per game as a junior.

Last year, Huss went 21-7 and finished second to eventual state champion Garinger in the Southwestern 4-A Conference.

The Huskies have four starters back and are expected to be one of the stronger 4-A teams in the West this season.

"He's 6-5, but he's a real jumping jack," Huss coach G.C. Harrill said. "I never have measured vertical jump, but his is unbelievable."

Armstrong chose ECU over Western Carolina, Appalachian State and UNC-Wilmington.

ECU first came into contact with Armstrong this past summer after seeing him play for a North Carolina AAU team. Armstrong also performed well at this summer's Prep Stars basketball camp in Charlotte.

"From the number of calls I had the week after he got back, he must have had a really good camp," Harrill said.

"He considered waiting (until the spring). After he weighed the pros and cons, he realized East Carolina would be as good as he wanted to do. When you don't sign early, you run the risk of nobody coming after you or getting

Lewis, East Carolina Set Sights On A Winning Season

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

With two games remaining on the 1989 East Carolina football schedule, a victory in at least one of them means a lot.

"It's extremely important," Coach Bill Lewis said at his weekly press conference Tuesday about Saturday's game with Pittsburgh. "No football player or coach on this team has been a part of this program during a winning season. This would be the first time for any of us."

"It would be a tremendous accomplishment." Achieving that goal, however, won't be an easy task. Pittsburgh, 5-2-1, is ranked 19th in the country. After that comes Southern Mississippi, a team that handed highly regarded Florida State one of its two losses of the year.

The Panthers and Pirates have played three common opponents thus far — Syracuse, Temple and Miami, Fla. Pitt beat Syracuse, 30-23, rolled over Temple, 27-3, and lost to Miami, 24-3.

East Carolina, in contrast, lost to Syracuse, 18-16, on a field goal with four seconds left; fell to Miami, 40-10, two weeks ago and last week, slipped past Temple, 31-24.

Pitt's other loss was to top-ranked Notre Dame, 45-7, while the Panthers battled to a tie with another ranked team, West Virginia, 31-31.

Coach Mike Gottfried said in a telephone interview Tuesday that the Panthers should go into the game about as healthy as they've been all season.

That's in direct contrast to the Pirates, who are probably at their worst, health-wise. The Pirates have a lengthy injury list which includes a number of players who have been starters at one time or another this year.

The latest injuries, Saturday against Temple, include free safety Derrick Fields, who suffered a severe ankle sprain, and tailback Cedric Van Buren, also with an ankle injury.

Fields, Lewis related, has been placed in a cast and will miss the remainder of the season. Van Buren, while going through no contact this week, is listed as possibly being available for the Pittsburgh game.

Another injured player, receiver Walter Wilson, will not have any contact work this week and should be ready to go Saturday. The leading receiver for the Pirates, Wilson is described by Lewis as playing as well as any receiver in the country. "We need him on the field Saturday," Lewis said.

The most critical area, for the second straight week, is at tailback. Starter Willie Lewis has been lost for the season with knee surgery while back-up Denell Harper has missed a number of games with a rib injury. Van Buren moved up to the starting job, but he was replaced after getting hurt by David Daniels, who is the number two fullback.

Daniels has been cross-training at both positions recently.

Sam Beverly has also been brought up from the scout team to work as the back-up at that position.

Lewis said he hopes that Van Buren and Harper will be well enough to see some action come Saturday, maybe getting in a dozen plays each.

Lewis announced honors for last week's game. Top scout team players were fullback Kevin Smith on offense and safety Paul Trotter on defense.

Named "Top Pirates" were R.L. Beemon on the specialty teams; quarterback Travis Hunter on offense; and safety Junior Robinson on defense.

Beemon plays on all of the specialty teams except field goals and points after. Hunter had an outstanding game. "In ice hockey, they have a hat trick for three goals. Travis had the equivalent to that," Lewis said. "He scored a touchdown running, threw for one and caught a touchdown pass. That's a very rare situation."

Robinson, who returned three kickoffs for 110 yards, also had an interception in the Temple game.

Named captains for the Pitt game were Beemon and Stephen Braddy for special teams; Hunter and tight end Luke Fisher on offense and Robinson and linebacker Robert Jones on defense.

These will be the final captains named by the staff. On Monday, the team will elect its permanent captains, who will step out for the Southern Mississippi game.

The Pirates face Pitt in Pittsburgh on Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Short In Numbers, But Long On Heart Panthers Move To 2nd Round

By Tom Morris
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

When North Pitt coach Stuart Ennis gathered his team for preseason football practice he was almost sure he had the dates wrong.

It was Aug. 1 all right, but there were only 19 varsity football players gathered for practice at the Bethel school. Scrimmaging, much less playing games, was going to be a task in itself.

Marcus Purvis and Dante Short were two of the players there. And they typify the character of the Panther program, which for the last five years has qualified a team for the state 2-A playoffs.

With a 12-7 win over Northside in the first round of the playoffs last week, the Panthers are moving on and face East Bladen, 9-2, on the road Friday in second-round action. Game time is 8 p.m.

On this team everybody plays offense, defense and special teams. One serious injury and this team could have been crippled.

Purvis, a 5-9, 160-pound senior, plays cornerback and halfback, where he has 437 yards rushing with one touchdown.

Short, a 6-1, 175-pound junior who is in his first year of football, plays safety and backs up both halfback spots as well as fullback. In what little time he has left, he handles the kicking duties.

"We're short in numbers, but we're close like family," said Purvis. "That's helped the team."

That family had some rough beginnings early on, as the Panthers dropped their first three games of the season.

But from there, things evened out. North Pitt won six of its next seven games to finish in second place in the Eastern Plains Conference and qualify for the playoffs.

"You get to the point where you are lost for words about your team," Ennis said. "I'm as proud of them as I can be. I don't think that anybody felt like we would be conference contenders, much less to be in the playoffs and to survive the first round."

"Those things have happened because a few kids were willing to work and have big hearts."

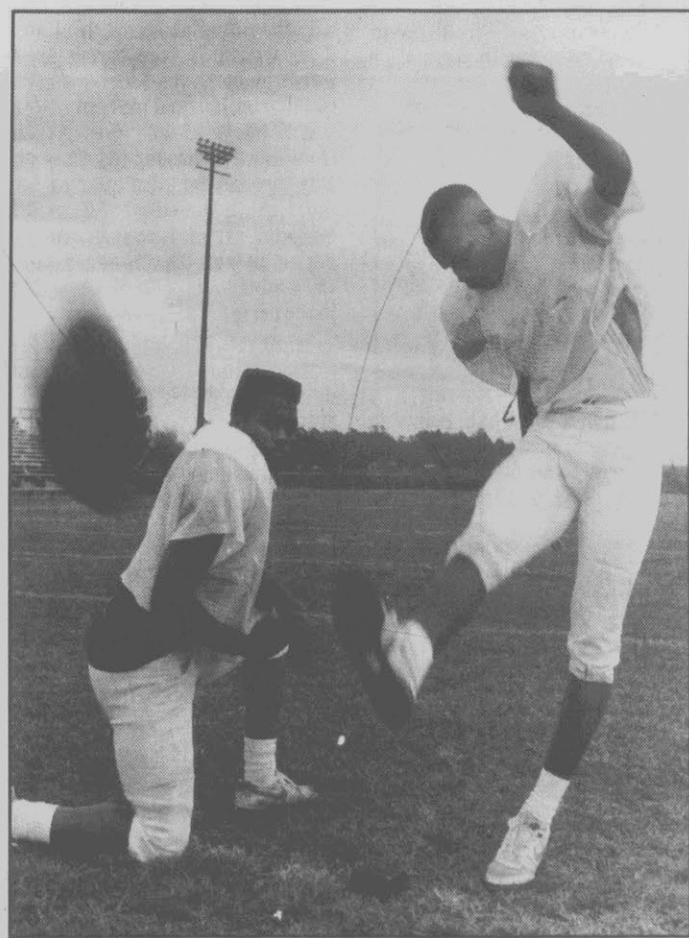

North Pitt has had some of the stronger 2-A teams in the East in recent years. This team may be as talented or as deep, but that didn't really matter.

"When I first came out here, the coaches were talking about four years in a row we had made the playoffs," Short said. "We couldn't get too many people out. I just made up my mind that I would play and try to help the team. We made it to the playoffs and now we're going to the second round."

Ennis points to his defense as one of the reasons for the turnaround this year. A good part of that success is attributable to the secondary.

□The Site: Elizabethtown.
□The Time: 8 p.m.
□Records: NP 7-4; EB 9-2.
□Significance: It's do or die for both teams. The winner stays alive while the loser gets to start early on preparations for next year. North Pitt will have to neutralize East Bladen's quickness to have a chance, and needs big games out of Reggie Daniel and Malcolm Wiggins on both sides of the line of scrimmage. Both teams run out of the wishbone and play aggressive, come-after-you defense. Since neither team passes that well or that often, an early lead would be a big bonus.

Farmville's Lang Headed To UNCC

By Tom Morris
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

FARMVILLE — After a week of deliberation, Farmville Central basketball standout Jarvis Lang decided Tuesday to go with his first impulse and sign with the University of North Carolina-Charlotte.

Lang, a 6-7 center/forward, signed with the 49ers after considering offers from East Carolina, the University of Richmond, North Carolina State and North Carolina.

"It was real close between East Carolina and Charlotte," Farmville coach Mike Terrell said. "For some reason, he felt better about Charlotte. It was just kind of an attraction. After his visit, I told him to think about it a week. Even after thinking about it, it was (still) strong."

Lang averaged 20.1 points and 11.5 rebounds per game last year, leading the Jaguars to the state 2-A title.

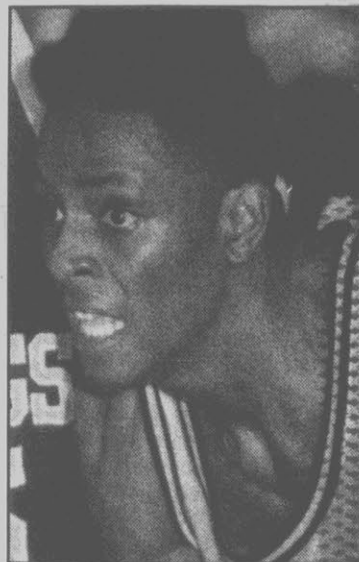

He was named the Most Valuable Player of the championship game, and also earned All-State honors.

His stock continued to rise with a strong performance at Prep Stars basketball camp held at UNCC this summer.

N.C. State is not making any home visits this year in the wake of the NCAA investigation. Wolfpack assistant coach Derek Whittenburg made a few visits to Pitt County over the summer to see Lang in summer league play, but since then there has been only phone contact.

"I'm sure that has hurt State this year," Terrell said of the Wolfpack not making home visits. "If they had come down to Farmville a few weeks ago, that would have made an impression on him anyway."

North Carolina wanted Lang to go to prep school for a year and then sign with the Tar Heels, according to Terrell.

The 49ers, who play in the Sun Belt Conference, have turned things around under head coach Jeff Mullins, now in his fifth year.

Mullins took over a program in dire shape, and within three years guided the team to a Sun Belt title and an appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Last year, the 49ers went to the National Invitational Tournament.

"I don't think it's so much of the records," Terrell said. "I don't think Jarvis knows too much about the records. It's just an appeal to the coaching staff and his teammates. It's something special that attracted him."

Dave Pendergraft, a former ECU assistant from 1979 to 1985, recruited Lang.

Greenville Powerlifting Team Takes 2nd

CHARLOTTE — A team of powerlifters from Greenville placed second at the Eastern USA Open Powerlifting meet Sunday. The meet was won by a team from Gold's Gym in Charlotte. Robert Washington led the way for the team in the 220-pound class. He was first in open bench press and his combined totals won the overall competition from the 198-275 pound classes. Other members of the team were Clay Witte (165-pound class); Ruper Fox (181-pound class); Joseph Hutchinson (198-pound class) and Wallace Walker (242-pound class). The meet attracted a number of East Coast teams from Virginia to Florida.

Chowan Blasts Pitt Community College

MURFREESBORO — Chowan College put five players in double figures and romped to a 116-36 victory over Pitt Community College Tuesday night in basketball action. "We have a better team than we did last year," Pitt coach Charles Coburn said, "but evidently the kids don't have their self-confidence up yet." Chowan scored the first nine points of the game and then blew out to a 21-4 lead with 13:07 left in the first half. After that, it was just a question of how bad it would be. Chowan led by 55-14 at the half. Tim Davis led Chowan with 29 points while Ken Scroggins added 23, Phil Wood had 13, Warren Avery had 12 and Fred Vincent, 10. Pitt was led by Clayton Cherry with 17 points. Now 1-1, Pitt will return to action against Charles County Community College in the first round of the Richard Bland Tipoff Classic Friday in Petersburg, Va.

Lady Pirates Set Scrimmage, Game

East Carolina's women's basketball team will play a pair of scrimmages this week in preparation for their Nov. 24 season opener at Georgia Southern. On Thursday, the Lady Pirates will hold a Purple-Gold scrimmage at East Duplin High School in Beulaville. Irish Hamilton, the only senior on the ECU squad, is an East Duplin graduate. On Saturday, Coach Pat Pierson's team will take on a group of former Lady Pirate players in the annual Alumni Game in Minges Coliseum. A reception will be held at 5:30 p.m. before the game. Among former players who have accepted invitations are Alma Bethea, Lorraine Foster, Lillian Barnes, Fran Hooks, Lisa Squirewell, Lydia Rountree, Gretta Savage and Delphine Mabry. Both games will begin at 7 p.m.

Tar Heels Add Another Top Signee

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina wrapped up a productive November signing period by landing 6-foot-8 forward Pat Sullivan of Bogota, N.J., who averaged 31 points and eight rebounds in the 1988-89 season. Sullivan, a 210-pounder who can play either forward position, picked the Tar Heels over Providence, Duke and Seton Hall on Tuesday. The signing period ends Thursday. Sullivan made 66 percent of his shots from the floor and 75 percent of his free throws last season. All of Coach Dean Smith's recruits rank among the nation's top 50 pre-season prospects. Also Tuesday, North Carolina-Charlotte basketball coach Jeff Mullins received commitments from 6-1 guard James Terrell of Louisburg and 6-11 Jermaine Parker of Sanderson. Terrell was one of the leading scorers in the state last year, averaging 31.3 points a game while leading Coach Eddy Boyette's Warriors to a 12-1 record. Parker, who doctors believe will grow to at least 7-2, averaged 7.5 points and seven rebounds for Coach Tom Kinkelaar at Sanderson. Also, Johnson C. Smith has signed 6-8, 255-pound forward-center Jermaine Garlton of North Forsyth. He averaged 18 points and 13 rebounds and was a North Carolina All American.

Virginia Gets Verbal Commitment

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Derrick Johnson, a 6-foot-2 point guard from Plainfield, N.J., has become the first player to verbally commit to Virginia during the early recruiting period, according to a published report Tuesday. "I think the commitment is as safe as it can possibly be," Plainfield coach James Bailey told the Roanoke Times & World-News. Johnson, a senior at Plainfield, told the Virginia staff he was ready to commit after visiting the Charlottesville campus over the weekend, the newspaper said. Virginia athletic director Jim Copeland reportedly informed Johnson that his scholarship would be guaranteed by the school, even though Coach Terry Holland is leaving after the upcoming season to become athletic director at Davidson. Johnson averaged 23.5 points and more than seven assists as a junior at Plainfield, which was 17-8 in New Jersey's highest classification.

Bulls Consider Site Near RDI

DURHAM (AP) — The Durham City Council has named a car dealership site as its first choice for a new home for the Durham Bulls and approved a plan to fund its share of the costs. At a joint meeting of the city council and the Durham County Board of Commissioners Tuesday, members gave a frigid reception to a proposal to build a regional stadium for the Bulls near Raleigh-Durham International Airport. James F. Goodmon, president of Capitol Broadcasting of Raleigh, is pushing the idea. After expressing skepticism about Goodmon's plan, the city council decided to use certificates of participation, which do not necessarily require a public vote. If county voters approve a bond referendum next March, the city would use the certificates to pay its share of the stadium costs. The commissioners agreed to give the city 31 working days to obtain an option on the University Ford car dealership property. If that is unsuccessful, the city would have an additional 31 days to obtain an option on property off Briggs Avenue in Durham, which was the council's second choice as a stadium site. As a result, Bulls officials should know by Jan. 3 whether a new stadium will be built in downtown Durham, or if the club should pursue Goodmon's idea of building a stadium near the airport.

Hornets Leave Land Of Winless

Reid Gets 25 Points, 20 Rebounds

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What got into J.R.? Charlotte rookie J.R. Reid, who shot 34 percent from the field and averaged eight points and six rebounds as the Hornets lost their first five games, had 25 points and 20 rebounds Tuesday night in a 130-116 victory over the Orlando Magic. The Hornets were the last NBA team without a victory this season, and Reid said he was happier with getting into the win column than with playing well. "I'm just relieved we got a victory," he said. "Somebody getting 24 points in a game is pretty commonplace in the NBA. You'll see that several times in the paper tomorrow."

Reid said it was his big rebounding game that got his offense in gear. "If I'm hitting the boards well, I think my all-around game improves," he said. "When he goes after rebounds like he did tonight, that will open up the rest of his game," Hornets coach Dick Harter said. Reid started slowly, with a 3-for-9 shooting performance in the first half. He was 5-for-7 in the second half.

"My shots just weren't falling early," Reid said. "I can't tell you why. Coach Harter told me before the game that he wanted me to take the ball to the basket."

In other NBA games, it was Boston 96, Philadelphia 94; Cleveland 103, New Jersey 92; Miami 101, Houston 99; Milwaukee 108, San Antonio 97; Minnesota 101, Golden State 98; Dallas 113, Seattle 109 in overtime; the Los Angeles Clippers 129, Denver 121; Chicago 96, Sacramento 94 and Portland 118, New York 117. Reid's offensive rebound and follow shot with six minutes to go in the third period sparked a 17-4 run that put Charlotte in control. Before the surge, neither team led by more than four. Charlotte, which set a franchise record for points, led by as many as 26 in the final period. Rex Chapman also played well for the Hornets, scoring 23 points and holding Reggie Theus, the Magic's leading scorer, to 15 points. Theus was 4-for-17 from the field and was 10 points below his scoring average. Charlotte's Kelly Tripucka scored 24 points, while Dell Curry added 18 points and Tyrone Bogues 14 assists. Jerry Reynolds scored 22 points and rookie Nick Anderson 19 for the Magic.

Bucks 108, Spurs 97
Jack Sikma tied a team record for 3-point baskets in a game with five in the first quarter of Milwaukee's victory over San Antonio. Sikma hit all five of his 3-point attempts — including four in a 75-second span — to give the Bucks the lead for good. He missed his remaining three long attempts in the game, but finished with 29 points. Milwaukee led by 18 after three quarters, but the Spurs rallied with a 13-2 run to get within seven. The Spurs, who got 22 points from Willie Anderson and 19 from David Wingate, got no closer than six after that.

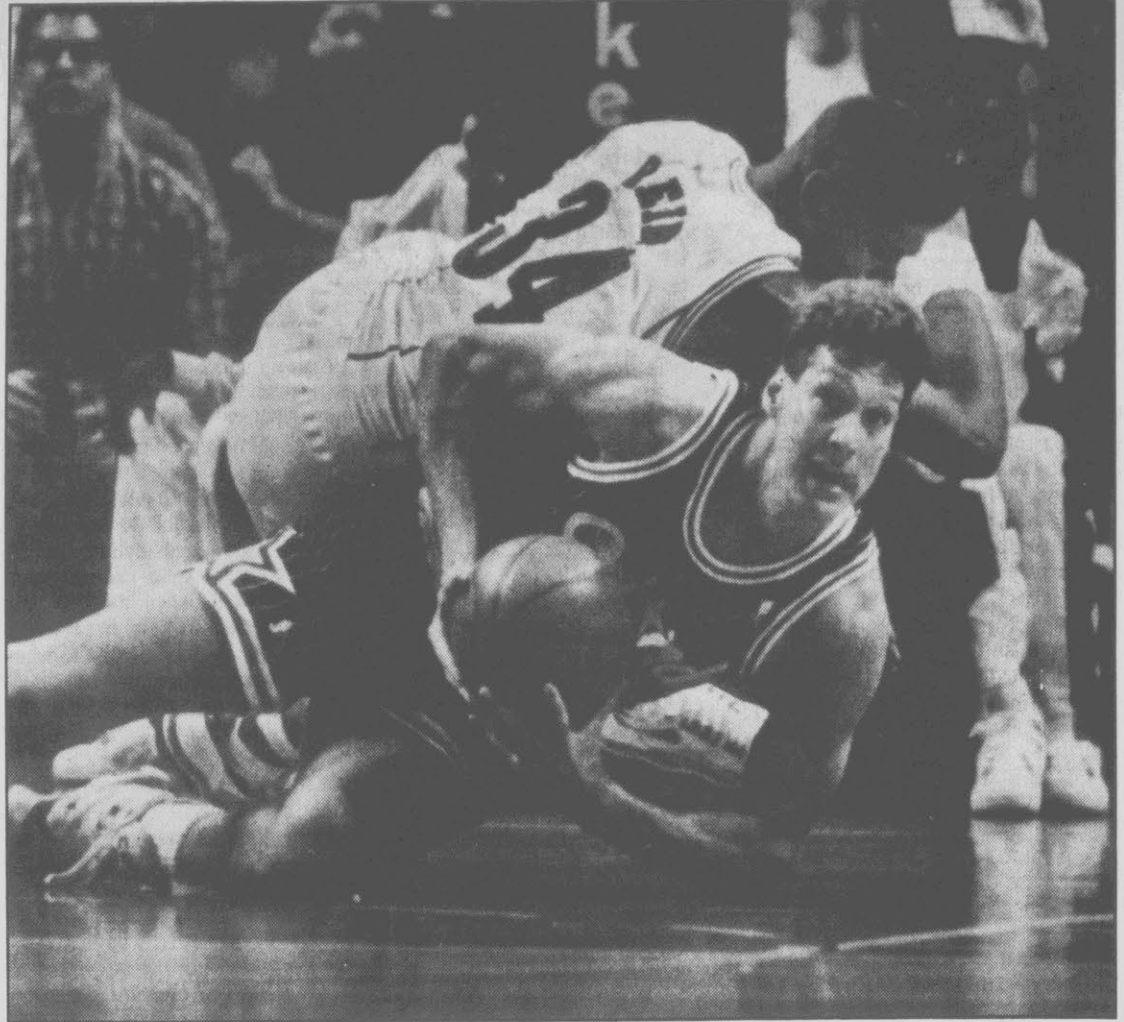

Trail Blazers 118, Knicks 117
Portland survived a 43-point performance by Patrick Ewing as rookie Cliff Robinson scored 22 points and Terry Porter 21 against New York. Ewing, who had 16 of his 26 first-half points in the first period, had a chance to tie the game with 35 seconds remaining, but made only one of two free throws, leaving the Trail Blazers with a 116-115 edge. Robinson's fast-break layup with 29 seconds left gave Portland a three-point lead. After Trent Tucker's basket got the Knicks within one, Danny Young stole a last-gasp pass by New York to preserve the victory. Celtics 96, 76ers 94 Larry Bird scored only 10 points, but his 10-foot jumper with one second left gave Boston a victory over Philadelphia. Charles Barkley, who had 16 points, tied the score 94-94 when he hit a short turnaround jumper with 27 seconds remaining. Kevin McHale's 15 points led six Celtics in double figures. Ron Anderson led Philadelphia with 23 points.

Cavaliers 103, Nets 92
Cleveland got outstanding performances from guards Craig Ehlo, Ron Harper and Mark Price in its victory over New Jersey. Ehlo was 9-for-11 from the field and scored 19 of his 23 points in the second half, while Harper added 22 points and Price 21 for the Cavaliers. Trailing 60-59 midway through the third quarter, Cleveland went on a 29-7 spurt to seal it. Dennis Hopson had 17 points for the Nets, who made only 38 of 112 shots.

Heat 101, Rockets 99
Miami, with only 18 victories in franchise history, beat Houston for the third straight time as Kevin Edwards came back from a scoreless first quarter to finish with 33 points. A 12-5 run by the Rockets cut a 10-point deficit to 94-91 with 4:19 left in the game, but six straight points by Edwards made it 100-91 with 3:17 remaining. Eight straight Houston points, four each by Otis Thorpe and Mitchell Wiggins, who finished with 24, made it 100-99, but a free throw by Edwards at the seven-second mark accounted for the final margin. The Rockets, who got 23 points from Buck Johnson, led 72-61 midway through the third quarter, when the Heat mounted a 17-2 run that featured six of Edwards' 10 third-period points. That gave Miami a 78-74 advantage with 31 seconds left in the period.

Timberwolves 101, Warriors 98
Minnesota recovered from missing its first eight shots to beat Golden State. Scott Roth scored a career-high 22 points, including 18 in the first half, to rescue the Timberwolves from their horrible start, and Tyrone Corbin's three-point play snapped a late tie.

Orlando's Jeff Turner looks to dish the ball off as he and J.R. Reid tumble to the floor

Mitch Richmond scored 15 of his 24 points for Golden State in the fourth quarter, seven during a 13-4 run that made it 90-90 with 2:32 remaining. Corbin then made a layup with 2:08 to go, was fouled and hit the free throw to put Minnesota ahead for good. Mavericks 113, Sonics 109 Seattle, which lost a five-overtime game last week, lost in one overtime to Dallas. Derek Harper's 18-foot jumper with 1:34 left put the Mavericks ahead to stay and Roy Tarpley had 26 points and 20 rebounds for Dallas. After Harper's jumper snapped a 105-105 tie, Tarpley blocked Dale Ellis' shot and Adrian Dantley added two free throws for a 109-105 lead with 58 seconds left. Dantley scored 26 points and Rolando Blackman 25 for Dallas, which overcame a 10-point third-quarter deficit with a 25-6 run. Xavier McDaniel led Seattle with 31 points.

Bulls 96, Kings 94
Scottie Pippen's layup with two seconds left after a pass from Michael Jordan gave Chicago a victory over Sacramento. Before Pippen's basket, the Bulls hadn't scored since Jordan made one of two free throws with 3:17 to go for a 94-88 Chicago lead. The Kings had a chance to go ahead with 13 seconds remaining, but Wayman Tisdale's eight-footer rolled off the rim. Jordan led the Bulls with 27 points. Kenny Smith scored 22 for the Kings and Rodney McCray added 21. Clippers 129, Nuggets 121 Gary Grant scored 27 points and reserve center Ken Bannister scored eight of his 15 points in the final four minutes for Los Angeles against Denver.

Reserve guard Tom Garrick added a career-high 23 points for the Clippers, who have beaten the Nuggets three straight times in Los Angeles despite losing their last 10 games in Denver. Lafayette Lever scored 14 of his 25 points in the third quarter and Michael Adams had 24 points, leading six Nuggets in double figures.

Around The League
• The LA Clippers, who opened a roster spot when they waived Andre Turner on Monday, filled the vacancy by signing former Lakers backup David Rivers on Tuesday. Rivers, the last player taken in the first round of the 1988 college draft, played in 47 games for the Lakers last season, averaging 2.9 points.
• Golden State coach Don Nelson was 8-0 for his career against expansion teams before the Warriors' 101-98 loss to the Minnesota Timberwolves on Tuesday ... The Miami Heat has won just 18 of its first 89 games but three of those victories have come at the expense of the Houston Rockets, who they defeated 101-99 Tuesday.
• In the first meeting between San Antonio and Milwaukee since the teams' huge off-season trade, Terry Cummings had 16 points and three blocks for the Spurs while Alvin Robertson had nine points, six assists and six turnovers for Milwaukee. Greg Anderson, also acquired by Milwaukee in the deal, is injured and has not played yet this season.
• Second-year guards Gary Grant and Tom Garrick led the LA Clippers to a 129-121 comeback victory Tuesday over Denver. Grant had 27 points and eight assists, while Garrick came off the bench to score a career-high 23.
• New Jersey made only 33.9 percent from the field Tuesday in its 103-92 loss to Cleveland. Lester Conner was 1-for-6, Mookie Blaylock was 2-for-9, Sam Bowie was 3-for-10, Joe Barry Carroll was 4-for-15, Chris Morris was 6-for-19, Dennis Hopson was 7-for-18 and Charles Shackleford was 7-for-17 for the Nets.

Wolfpack Is Copper's Choice—Win Or Lose

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Win or lose against Virginia Tech on Saturday, North Carolina State's football team will get a bid to the inaugural Copper Bowl at Tucson, Ariz., bowl officials said.

Meanwhile, Citrus Bowl officials said they would invite the Atlantic Coast Conference champion to their game.

"They're our team, regardless of how it goes Saturday," Copper Bowl official Larry Brown said in a telephone interview from Tucson with The News and Observer of Raleigh. "Obviously, we are rooting very much for them to get the win. But we think we have a class program and a class coach, and that's good enough for us. We're tickled to have them in our first game."

Wolfpack coach Dick Sheridan expressed enthusiasm at the day's events.

"I can't say anything officially, because the bids have not formally been extended," Sheridan said Monday night. "But we're very much excited about the idea of getting a chance to play a team like Arizona and hope we are extended a bid."

The Florida Citrus Bowl decided to exercise its option to invite the ACC champion, bowl officials said Monday night.

The Citrus Bowl's decision could affect the status of three ACC teams since Virginia, Duke or Clemson could get the invitation, depending on the outcome of Saturday's games. It could also interfere with those teams' prior agreements with other bowls.

Duke has an existing agreement with the All American Bowl (Dec. 28, Birmingham, Ala.) to play Texas Tech; Clemson has worked a deal with the Gator (Dec. 30, Jacksonville) to play West Virginia; and Virginia, the favorite for the Citrus, has a backup arrangement with the Peach (Dec. 30, Atlanta), The Charlotte Observer reported.

Postseason agreements officially cannot be announced until Nov. 25.

N.C. State's bowl chances appeared dim Monday morning. But Georgia, which was considered to be a front-runner for the All American and Copper bowls, declined both opportunities to host the Dec. 30 Peach Bowl, where it is expected to face Syracuse (6-3), Arizona State (6-3-1) or Virginia. Arizona (6-4) plays at Arizona State Nov. 25 in the final regular-season game for both teams.

Georgia's decision opened the Copper Bowl for N.C. State and several other bowl hopefuls — South Carolina (6-3-1); Syracuse; Kentucky (6-3); and Florida (6-3).

But Copper Bowl officials contacted N.C. State Monday afternoon and the two parties struck an agreement Monday night. "We feel it would be great for our kids, who have worked so hard this season," Sheridan said. "It would be a reward and an indication of the level of success we have achieved."

"It's not the level we were shooting for this year, but if we are extended a bid, it would be the third bowl for us in the past four years. It would be a great trip for us and we would look forward to playing a Pac-10 team. It also would give us the opportunity to be the third team in school history to win nine games in a season, which would be very special and is something to shoot for."

The Copper Bowl was accredited by the NCAA in early summer and will pay the minimum of $500,000 per team. The 8 p.m. EST game will be played in the University of Arizona's stadium, which seats 57,000. Only 13,000 tickets have been sold.

Georgia, (6-3) with games remaining against Auburn, (7-2) and Georgia Tech (5-4), in effect voted to dodge Duke in the All American Bowl. Georgia tentatively had agreed to face the winner of last weekend's N.C. State-Duke game. But the Bulldogs balked when Duke won the game, 35-26.

The All American then was left to scurry for an opponent and reached an agreement with Texas Tech (7-2) to face the Blue Devils.

But there still is a possibility that Duke will not play in Birmingham.

Citrus Bowl officials said Monday night that they had decided to take the Atlantic Coast Conference champion to play in their New Year's Day game.

"There's been a lot of strong sentiment toward the ACC champion all along," said Citrus Bowl information director Dylan Thomas. "The opportunity to bring the ACC champion to Orlando is something we're very excited about."

Thomas said the ACC representative will play Big 10 runner-up, Illinois, Michigan or Ohio State.

"I'm very happy they elected to take our champion," said ACC Commissioner Gene Corrigan. "When we first went to talk to them, what we had in mind was for them to take our champion every year. This means so far they've done that."

Duke and Virginia, each 5-1 in league games, share the ACC lead entering Saturday's final games. The Devils visit North Carolina (1-9) and Virginia, (9-2) plays at Maryland (3-6-1). Should both Virginia and Duke win Saturday, Virginia would go to the Citrus and Duke would remain in the All American, both newspapers reported.

As late as Saturday, Citrus officials had hoped to secure Tennessee as its host team in a year when the bowl has an option not to take an ACC team. But Tennessee, 8-1 with games remaining against Ole Miss and Vanderbilt, opted for the Cotton Bowl and Florida State, 7-2 with games left against Memphis State and Florida, agreed to face Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl.

The Citrus then rushed to secure an ACC host for the third year in a row. Clemson has defeated Penn State and Oklahoma in the past two Citrus games.

Tar Heels Face Major Challenge

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHAPEL HILL — Mack Brown likes the way his defense has played lately, but the North Carolina coach said Tuesday that his Tar Heels face a major challenge in 25th-ranked Duke.

The bowl-bound Blue Devils visit Kenan Stadium Saturday for an Atlantic Coast Conference game that will be regionally televised beginning at 12:08 p.m.

Highlighting the annual renewal of the backyard rivalry will be the high stakes involved. Duke (7-3 overall, 5-1 in the ACC) is playing for the ACC championship and a possible berth in the Florida Citrus Bowl on New Year's Day. Twelve seniors will make their final appearance for North Carolina trying to make the most of a spoiler role.

Brown said Tar Heels played a great defensive ballgame last Saturday against South Carolina, which won 27-20.

"We felt very, very good about our defense. They played by far the best they played since we've been here ... Defensively we're much improved, and that's with five or six freshmen on the field," Brown said.

Offensively the Tar Heels (1-9, 0-6) are still stumbling however. Sophomore quarterback Todd Burnett was injured when he was hit in the back on a pass attempt.

Burnett suffered a small tear in his kidney and liver. He's been discharged from the hospital, but won't dress for the game, Brown said.

In his place will be freshman Chuckie Burnette, who has had his own ups and downs this year between injuries and on-the-job training.

Burnette had started three games before giving way to Burnett during a 38-0 loss at Maryland. The backup for Saturday's game will be senior Jonathan Hall, but he hasn't played in three games because of a chronic shoulder injury.

"We felt like Chuckie did some real good things," Brown said. Burnette threw his first two college touchdown passes, completing 10 of 26 in all for 122 yards. However, North Carolina has thrown just four touchdown passes as a team this year, underlining one of the problem areas on offense.

Duke has had no such problem scoring, even though head coach Steve Spurrier will go to No. 2 quarterback David Brown for the third straight week because of a shoulder injury to starter Billy Ray.

Brown, a sophomore, threw for four touchdowns in each of Duke's victories over Wake Forest and N.C. State. He has thrown for 11 touchdowns in all, completed 65 percent of his passes for 1,000 yards and leads all ACC quarterbacks in passing efficiency.

Wake-Dooley

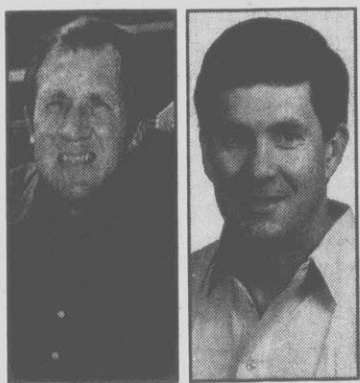

WINSTON-SALEM — A productive quarterback and a defense that is not giving up a lot of points has enabled Georgia Tech to win four out of their last five games, Wake Forest coach Bill Dooley said Tuesday.

"Georgia Tech is really hot right now," Dooley said at his weekly news conference. "They're a good team. They stand at 4-4 and many of their losses have been close."

The Demon Deacons (2-7-1 and 1-5) will travel to Atlanta on Saturday to take on the Yellow Jackets (4-4 and 4-3) in the Atlantic Coast Conference television game of the week.

"They have found a good quarterback in Shawn Jones," Dooley said. "He's a lot like Virginia's Shawn Moore. Jones accounts for 200 yards a game throwing and running. He has speed and he can run the option."

"Jones also has one of the best running backs in the ACC to catch his passes," Dooley added. "Tailback Jerry Mays can do everything."

College Football

"If we are to have success on defense, we must slow Jones and Mays down," Dooley said. "Together they account for more than 300 yards a game. You can't stop them; you just have to slow them down."

Clemson-Ford

CLEMSON, S.C. — This is a fun week, right? Clemson is playing South Carolina in what may be the biggest sporting event in the state — a game the fans, the players and the coaches wait all year for.

But don't tell Clemson coach Danny Ford he's supposed to be having fun.

"It ain't fun," Ford said at his weekly news conference Tuesday. "I'm yelling at my wife and everything else, and kids. It's not fun."

Why? There are 80,000 reasons — and they not only dress in orange but say they bleed orange.

"There's 80,000 people that come out here to this stadium that don't want to live with a loss to South Carolina because they give them too much bull all year," he said. "The same way that they give us too much bull and they don't want to live with our people."

Ford said the annual game is probably the most important event in the state during the three hours that the match is played.

"Is there a governor's race or a mayor's race, or is there somebody speaking down the hall that's more important than the South Carolina-Clemson game for three hours?" he said. "If it is, I missed it in 11 years, because 80,000-some people tell me yearly, daily, ... 'Just don't lose to South Carolina.'"

The 15th-ranked Tigers are favored by 14 points over the Gamecocks as the two teams battle Saturday night at Williams-Brice Stadium for the unofficial state football championship. Clemson downed South Carolina 29-10 a year ago and leads the series 50-32-4.

Clemson, which had an open date last week, is 8-2 and appears headed to the Gator Bowl. South Carolina is 6-3-1 after struggling past North Carolina 27-20 last week. The Gamecocks are still holding out hopes of earning a spot in the Independence Bowl in Coach Sparky Woods' first year.

Both teams come into the game banged up. The Gamecocks top two tailbacks are nursing injuries, and the third stringer is out for the season. Gone, too, is quarterback Todd Ellis, who suffered a career-ending knee injury Oct. 28 against North Carolina State.

Clemson is in nearly the same situation. Tailback Terry Allen continues to try to recover from a knee injury suffered Oct. 7 against Virginia, although he's expected to play.

Fullback Wesley McFadden is doubtful because of a knee injury.

"I don't like his chances," Ford said. "But I just got so much faith in him he may pull a miracle. But I don't think he can. I probably wouldn't play him anyway."

Tech-Ross

ATLANTA — Despite one of the stronger showings by Atlantic Coast Conference football teams, Georgia Tech has a chance to finish with a winning conference record, and that's vital to his young team, Yellow Jacket Coach Bobby Ross said Tuesday.

Tech, 4-4 overall and 3-3 in the ACC, wraps up its conference season against Wake Forest in Atlanta.

Tech then plays Boston College and Georgia, both at home.

"If I can get us to 7-4, I would be a very happy man. That would be a remarkable thing for us this season, but we've got to get to 5-4," Ross said during his news conference Tuesday.

Tech last had a winning season in 1985.

"This has been a year where the ACC has been pretty strong. It's one of the few years with three teams in the ACC ranked in the top 25. That's unusual. There was another one last week that would make four. Our league has become pretty strong," Ross said.

Ross couldn't resist looking a bit past the Demon Deacons, though.

"With the number of kids we have coming back next year, I think we're right on stride. If we can go out and get to 5-4, that's step No. 1."

Ross said junior inside linebacker Darrell Swilling will miss the Wake Forest game after reinjuring an ankle he sprained against Western Carolina two weeks ago.

Doubtful are senior defensive tackle Steve Mullen, who has a sprained ankle, and freshman receiver Bobby Rodriguez, who is the team's third-leading receiver and who has a muscle strain in his leg.

Game time is 12:08 p.m., with the contest to be televised on the ACC-Jefferson Pilot Network.

Maryland-Krivak

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — It took all the Maryland football team could muster to achieve its memorable 13-13 tie with Penn State.

Now the question is, do the Terrapins have enough left in them for one more game?

Coach Joe Krivak said both he and a national television audience will find out together Saturday when his weary, beaten-up team takes on Virginia in its season finale.

"You're always afraid the tank is dry," Krivak said Tuesday at his final weekly press luncheon of the year. "How many times can you get up? How many times can you play hard? I think it's ludicrous to think that you can get the same kind of pitch, the same kind of level that you got last week. I just don't know if humanly you can do that."

Inspired by 29 years of frustration against the Nittany Lions and a sellout crowd of over 61,000 at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, Maryland put together its finest effort of the season Saturday.

The Terps overcame a multitude of injuries, particularly on the defensive line and secondary, in a game against the No. 13 team in the nation to come away with a deadlock that felt more like a victory.

Dan DeArmas kicked a 26-yard field goal with 58 seconds remaining as Maryland ended a 24-game losing streak to Penn State dating back to 1961.

"It was as good a football game, in terms of effort, as I've ever been around," said Krivak, who chose to play for the tie with his team facing a fourth-and-five situation on the Nittany Lion nine.

"A lot of our players played maybe better than they're capable. It was a superhuman effort."

Davis Garner's NL Cy Young

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN DIEGO — Reliever Mark Davis is a pitcher without a team, and that's a darn good position for him to be in considering he's a free agent who just won the National League Cy Young Award.

"I've been blessed," the left-handed reliever said Tuesday, hours after a panel of 24 baseball writers voted him the prize signifying the league's most valuable pitcher. "It's very much an honor. I will treasure it always."

Houston's Mike Scott, a 20-game winner, was the runnerup in the balloting by the Baseball Writer's Association of America. The voting, done on a points system of five for first place, three for second and one for third, had Davis well in front with 107 points to Scott's 65.

Davis enjoyed an extraordinary season in 1989, playing a role in more than half of the San Diego Padres' victories. His 44 saves led the major leagues and he had a 4-3 record with a 1.85 ERA as the Padres went 89-73, good for second place in the NL West, three games behind the San Francisco Giants.

"I think a lot of things had to go right and good things happened to me throughout the season," Davis said during a news conference hosted by the Padres at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium.

"I had very good plays behind me, in the infield, in the outfield. I had a triple play made behind me. It's a team-wide effort and all I try to do is go out there and be consistent."

Davis becomes only the seventh reliever in history to win the award, and the fourth in the NL. Steve Bedrosian of Philadelphia, in 1987, was the last previous relief winner.

"There's a stigma, I guess, about relievers not winning this award,"

Davis said. "Until the last few years it had only gone to starters."

"But I feel the emergence of the bullpen and the importance it had over the last 10 years gives relievers a little more notoriety. I think all pitchers now are looked upon the same. We all pitch from the same mound. On the award it says 'most valuable pitcher' and relievers and starters are both pitchers."

Just 24 hours before the Cy Young announcement, Davis had been honored by Roloids as baseball's top reliever.

"What better year could a guy have when you've got the Roloids and Cy Young awards all in one basket," Padres manager Jack McKeon said. "It all came up right for him (and) he certainly deserves it."

The Padres, though, must compete with other teams in their bid to retain the services of the bullpen ace.

"I'd have to be nuts not to be concerned," McKeon said. "He's in a position where he has the right to shop around and talk to any club."

"I sure would like to see him pitch for us again. But it's not my decision. It's his decision."

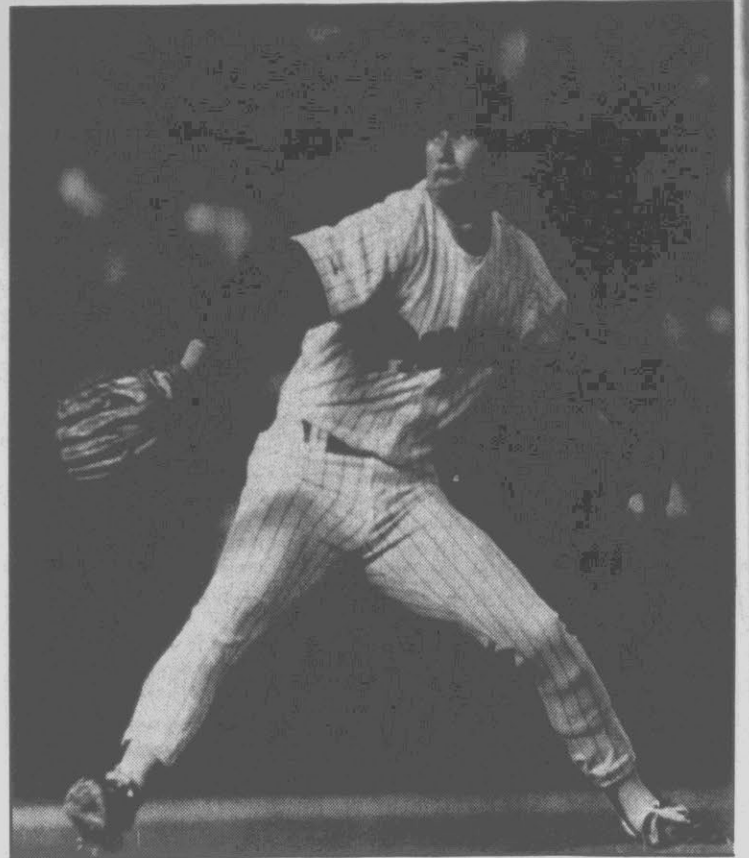

Fred Lane, the Chicago lawyer handling the Padres negotiations for the reliever, attended the news conference but did not hold any contract discussions with Davis.

"I'm just here to congratulate him," he said.

Asked if winning the Cy Young might drive up the price for the reliever, Lane said: "It certainly has to be something that is going to be part of our continuing discussions. How could it not be?"

"But we really believed he was going to get this and we guided ourselves accordingly."

The Padres' latest offer, reported to be $6.5 million over three years, was turned down last week by Davis' agents, Alan and Randy Hendricks.

starter in the defensive backfield. Short started at corner early on, but the unit jelled when William Crumble moved to cornerback and Short became the starter at safety.

The Panthers play an aggressive style of defense that brings a lot of people up to the line of scrimmage. At times, they'll drop their outside linebackers into coverage on long yardage plays, and some times they'll even drop their inside linebackers.

But the scheme is predicated on the ability of the defensive backs to cover man to man while the rest of the unit tries to disrupt things up front.

Ennis had no other real choice in the secondary. Purvis, Short and Crumble are the only defensive backs on the roster.

"They know they have to do the job," the coach said. "I've got to give all three credit. They practice hard. So many times when you don't have competition at positions, your kids seem to be lazy. Those three guys, they work hard at their positions."

Both Short and Purvis point to a 40-18 loss to D.H. Conley as the turning point of the season. The Panthers were 0-2 at the time and trailed 27-6 at the half. But rather than fold completely, they played the 3-A Vikings tough in the second half and went on to win their next four games.

The game had a particularly lasting memory on Short.

"Yeah, when Junior Farrow caught like a 60 or 70 yard touchdown," he said. "I wasn't burnt. I played the ball and he just snatched it from me."

It was a scene that hasn't been repeated since.

Friday against Northside, Short found himself in the same situation when Northside receiver James Mackey got a step on him.

"I bumped the guy and he was so quick I slowed up and I knew he was past me," Short said. "I said to myself I can't let him catch the ball. I had already missed an extra point and a field goal. If he had scored a touchdown, we'd have lost. I gave it all I had and just broke it up."

Purvis also came up with a big play in the Northside game, intercepting a pass late in the half to kill a scoring drive.

"(Ennis) always tells us we're the last hope of the defense," Purvis said. "There's a lot of pressure on us. We can't miss tackles."

Adds Short: "With him (Ennis) being our secondary coach, we know if somebody gets deep enough to score and it could have been prevented, we know we're in for a chewing."

The chewings have been few and far between of late. Friday, the Panthers face their toughest test since a 20-7 loss to undefeated Farmville Oct. 27.

"They are exceptionally quick," Ennis said. "I don't feel that they're overpowering in size, but their overall team speed is by far the quickest that we've faced."

at two, but when we have him and Paul in there, we're pretty short. We just have to get out people in the right spots."

Lose finished the game with 22 points while Love matched Brown's 16, and Darrell Overton equaled Copeland's 10.

Jankovic led Red Star with 30 points while Nikolic had 28. Caslav Trunovic and Mladjen Silobad each added 10.

Red Star assistant coach Marin Sedlacek said his team didn't play as good a defense as it is capable of. "We were without our best player (Zoran Radovic)."

He added that the travel was taking its toll of the team, with the older players tiring. The team also has broken its usual schedule of two-a-day practices to travel.

He rated James Madison as the best team the Yugoslavs had played, but ranked the others even.

Red Star travels to Williamsburg, Va., tonight to play William & Mary, then on to George Mason on Thursday, winding up their tour Friday at Navy.

East Carolina will open its regular season on Nov. 25, hosting Appalachian State.

Two Dates Standing Out On The Big East Schedule

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are two dates to circle as far as Eastern basketball is concerned.

On Jan. 27, it's Syracuse at Georgetown. On March 4, it's Georgetown at Syracuse.

No slight intended toward the rest of the Big East or the top teams in the Atlantic 10, but the Orangemen and the Hoyas are a notch above everyone else and the frontcourt matchups could be the best in college basketball in quite some time.

Syracuse was No. 3 in the AP's preseason Top 25 and Georgetown was two notches below. Those are impressive numbers for teams with some questions about their backcourts as the season approaches.

The Orangemen had to replace Sherman Douglas, an All-America and the NCAA's career assist leader. Coach Jim Boeheim surprised many when he moved Stephen Thompson to the point. It's a move both have enjoyed so far.

"I imagine his game will be a little different," Boeheim said. "With Sherman handling the ball and you're playing the wing, you only get so many opportunities in the game because the ball's going the other way and being moved. When you have the ball in your hands, there are even more opportunities to do things and Stevie had taken advantage of that in practice by doing more than he did last year. Now, if that will continue in games, that's something else."

Thompson did well for the Orangemen last season, averaging 18 points and five rebounds per game with a .639 field goal percentage and a free throw percentage of .497.

He seems confident of the switch.

"You've got to know when to do certain things, set the tempo, be the leader, see what's going on," he said in describing his new role. "We waited for Sherman to do all that last year and now it's up to me. I know the game pretty well and I've played it for so long that those things should come naturally."

Syracuse does have one piece to fit in up front and that's Kentucky transfer LeRon Ellis. The 6-foot-10 junior will draw some on-the-court attention from Derrick Coleman and Billy Owens and open things up on what was already going to be a quick team.

"He's fit in well," Boeheim said of Ellis. "He's not dominating anything but I don't think he's that kind of player and that was the role they asked of him at Kentucky. He's fits in but by no stretch of the imagination is he a focus of what we do on offense at this time."

Georgetown coach John Thompson has been asked often what his sophomore shot blockers — 6-10 Alonzo Mourning and 7-2 Dikembe Mutombo — did over the summer.

It won't be any walk through the Big East for Syracuse and Georgetown with two other teams — No. 18 Pittsburgh and No. 25 St. John's — in the preseason poll.

Pitt will again be a team in search of a bench and a lot will ride on the next examination of Sean Miller's broken foot. The Panthers need him to make Brian Shorter an even better inside player.

St. John's is also waiting for a 6-10 to heal, this one in the foot of bone to center Jayson Williams. The National Invitation Tournament MVP may also come back to a less-clogged inside if Boo Harvey and Chuck Spoling become the outside shooters the Redmen desperately need.

Seton Hall lost all five starters from last year's national runner-up but P.J. Carlesimo stayed on with the Pirates and another NCAA bid is not out of the question.

Nevada-Las Vegas coach Jerry Tarkanian says Loyola Marymount scares him. And the top-ranked Runnin' Rebels scare everyone else.

When those teams help kick off the Big Apple National Invitation Tournament tonight, it could provide a fearsome display of scoring.

This is considered perhaps the best team Tarkanian has ever had, and Loyola Marymount, which led the nation in scoring last year, returns the nation's leading scorer and rebounder in Hank Gathers.

"They're the type of team that scares the daylight out of me," Tarkanian said. "Our strength is our defense, but they get in and shoot it so quick, we may never get a chance to lock in our defense."

The rest of tonight's NIT schedule has Southern Mississippi at second-ranked Louisiana State, Richmond at No. 19 North Carolina State, Ohio State at DePaul, Air Force at California and Alabama-Birmingham at Kansas.

Thursday night, it's North Carolina A&T at No. 25 St. John's, and Houston at Wichita State.

N.C. State is coming off a 22-9 season in which the Wolfpack reached the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament, but Coach Jim Valvano doesn't dwell in the past.

"Our outside game is intact, but the inside is just not there," Valvano said. "On balance, if I were going against my club this year as opposed to last year, I'd be a lot less concerned as an opponent."

The quarterfinals will be played on Friday and Saturday nights with the semifinals and finals Nov. 22-24 at Madison Square Garden in New York.

At Nevada-Las Vegas, 6-foot-7 junior college transfer Larry Johnson, who led the United States to a gold medal over the Soviet Union in the World University Games, joins four returning starters, and Tarkanian likes what he sees. He also knows what he'll see against Loyola.

"The way they get up and down the court and shoot the ball, there's going to be a lot of scoring," he said.

"We're not going to try and slow the game up. We're going to run."

Loyola Marymount is coming off consecutive 20-victory seasons. The Lions averaged 112.5 points last season and played in the two highest-scoring games in NCAA history, beating U.S. International 162-144 on Jan. 7 and winning a rematch 181-150 on Jan. 31.

LSU gets to unveil its new inside-outside combination against Southern Mississippi.

Sophomore guard Chris Jackson, second in the country in scoring last season to Gathers and only the second freshman ever named All-America, should have a lot more room to roam with the addition of 7-1 freshman Shaquille O'Neal and 7-0 Prop 48 sophomore Stanley Roberts.

"Our overall vision, from this day on, is to try to win a national championship," Coach Dale Brown said.

DePaul coach Joey Meyer faces the season without Terence Green and Stanley Brundy, both graduated, and Brad Niemann, out for the season with a back injury. It's not a soothing prospect.

Ohio State will be without starting forward Treg Lee, who will sit out a one-game NCAA suspension for playing in an unsanctioned summer league game.

Air Force goes into its game against California untested.

"Our younger players may not be ready for this game," Coach Reggie Minton said.

Air Force was 14-14 last season, its first season since 1979-80 without a losing record.

Kansas coach Roy Williams is looking forward to the Alabama-Birmingham game; he's just not looking forward to facing Blazers center Alan Ogg.

"They've got a 7-foot-2 kid who'll give us a challenge," Williams said. "We need to take the basketball to him. We also have to stop the outside shooting of Barry Beardon and Andy Kennedy. It's a little scary."

"We need to work on a lot of things before Wednesday."

McCoy's Back After Layoff

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Teyon McCoy says there are no excuses.

Not business school. Not his year off.

Not even the pressure of being the man at the center of Maryland's running offense, which has been implemented this season by the Terps' new head coach, Gary Williams.

"He's really a key factor," Williams said. "I've talked to Teyon about it, not to let it bother him. He is a key factor. You go from not playing to being a key to a team. ... He's got a tough job."

After sitting out last season in order to concentrate on getting into business school, McCoy returns to the Maryland lineup this season back at the point guard position he hasn't played since he was a freshman.

"I'm just looking forward to the challenge," McCoy said. "I'm looking forward to playing in games again."

"... I'm working my hardest in practice, and we'll just have to take it from there. I'm sure (the year off) is a question that's going to pop up during the season. If I don't have a good game, the people are going to say it was because I sat out a season."

It took McCoy until less than a month before the start of last season before he decided to sit out.

"It was the toughest decision I ever made," said McCoy, who practiced with the Terps for the first half of last season. "That's why I waited so long, because I wanted to think about it."

"... I took a year off as far as going out on the court and playing in front of people, but as far as playing, it's not as if I threw down the basketball and said, 'I'm not going to play for a year.' I played practically every day."

McCoy started all 26 games for the Terps in his freshman season as the team struggled to a 9-17 record. McCoy averaged 7.4 points and led the team with 111 assists.

After a sophomore year in which McCoy came off the bench as a shooting guard, averaging 5.3 points, and a year off, refining the skills that go with running an offense is his biggest chore.

"The thing I'm really trying to work on is making good decisions on the break," McCoy said. "I haven't played point guard since freshman year. I think that's going to be the most important factor of my game, the thing that's going to make me or break me in a sense."

Those kinds of decisions don't come up in a year of pickup games.

"You can't duplicate ACC basketball playing intramurals, so you try to force-feed him, you try to accelerate the process," Williams said.

"... I've probably been as tough on Teyon as I have been on any player since we've started. That's because I want him to be the man. The situation is to get him to run the offense. ... For all the players, the offenses and defenses are new and I'm asking him to learn them better than anybody else."

Williams' demands have not been too much for McCoy now that his academics are in order.

"I feel like there's a lot less pressure on me," McCoy said. "I don't have to get a 3.0 (grade-point average) to get into business school. I'm in business school. It is a good feeling to be back playing, almost a relief in a sense."

The Terps' practices have also helped.

"I feel pretty confident. It's been a while since I've played against opposing teams, but after the type of practices we've had, I'm more assured that I'm going to be ready," he said.

Seahawks Look To Fill A Hole In The Middle

By Woody Peele

Robert McPherson

After several years of having people like Brian Rowsome and Larry Houzer in the center position, UNC-Wilmington basketball coach Robert McPherson says this season the Seahawks have a dough-nut offense: there's nothing in the middle. Well, nothing proven at least. The Seahawks have some talent, but for the most part, they are going to be young, depending on untested players.

The Seahawks lost 59 percent of their offense from last year in the graduation of Houzer, Greg Bender and Antonio Howard. But at the same time, they return the Colonial Athletic Association's top 3-point shooter in Brannon Lancaster, who canned 35 of 71 attempts on the season. Howard was the leading scorer on the team last season with a 17.3 average, while Houzer was close behind at 16.9. Houzer also led the Seahawks in rebounding with a 5.7 average.

"Antonio penetrated and created scoring opportunities for the rest of the team," McPherson said. "Larry became out-to-guy inside. "We lost a lot of flash in Antonio and Larry. They could just about score at will. We will have to find someone to step up and assume the scoring role."

That might be tough to find. The leading scorer among the returning players is 6-3 sophomore guard Joe Cherry with a 7.3 average. Sophomore forward Bryan Withers (6-6) averaged 5.7 points a game. "We'll have to be more of a blue collar team," the coach said. "We'll have to rely on defense and rebounding to be successful."

UNC-WILMINGTON

Last year: Overall 16-14; CAA 9-5.
Coach: Robert McPherson (11 years, 221-108)
Masctot: Seahawk
Losses: C Larry Houzer (16.9 ppg, 5.7 rpg), G Antonio Howard (17.3 ppg), F Greg Bender (6.9 ppg, 4.1 rpg).
Starters back: G Joe Cherry (7.3 ppg), G Brannon Lancaster (5.9 ppg), F Bryan Withers (5.7 ppg, 3.8 rpg).
Top newcomers/reserves: F Robbie Carter (3.2 ppg), F Scott Tierney (2.9 ppg), F Major Wiggins (2.9 ppg), C Matt Fish (2.5 ppg); G Kevin Hayden (freshman).
Predicted finish: Fifth.

Youth is the keynote for the Seahawks, who have only three juniors and two seniors on the roster. There are four each in the freshman and sophomore class.

Lancaster and Cherry are slated to be the two guards, while Withers will be penciled in at one of the forward positions. Others up front who could step in to help carry the load include 6-7 junior Major Wiggins, 6-6 senior Robbie Carter, and 6-10 sophomore Matt Fish. All of them got in some action last year, but Fish played in only six games. Wiggins had the most experience, playing in all but one game and getting in 370 minutes. Scott Tierney, a 6-7 senior, will also provide depth.

Others in the backcourt include 6-3 sophomore Mark Eaton and 6-1 senior Adam Porter.

Newcomers to the Seahawks this year include four freshmen. They are 6-1 guard Kevin Hayden, 6-7 forward Jason Moore, 6-5 guard Tim Shaw and 6-1 forward Reggie Venev.

Of those, Hayden has the most promising statistics. He averaged 34.4 points and 5.0 rebounds as a senior at South Lamar High in Millport, Ala., last year. Moore, from Everett High in Lansing, Mich., the same school that produced Magic Johnson, averaged 10 points and 12 rebounds a game last season.

Shaw, from Fayetteville's South View, average 21.0 points, 10 rebounds and six assists a game as a senior. Venev, from Washington's DeMatha High, averaged 14 points, four rebounds and four assists. "We're rebuilding somewhat, but someone will step forward. We have the kids who can do it. Joe, Bryan, Brannon and Major should figure in prominently this year," McPherson said.

"We plan to run. One of our big objective this year is to try and run more than in the past. We're going to play an up-tempo defense. We're going to press more, and we hope we can score some points off the defensive pressure."

If so, maybe the dough-nut offense will be enough and the Seahawks won't end up in the hole.

Pitt Still Can Reach Several Goals

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITTSBURGH — Pitt hasn't won in a month and has lost consecutive games to Notre Dame and Miami, but Coach Mike Gottfried said the 19th-ranked Panthers can't lose sight of what they still can accomplish this season.

"There are still some very good goals we can reach and have a very good year," Gottfried said Tuesday. "The whole key of football is to improve and get better. We've got three good teams and, hopefully, a bowl and that's quite a challenge."

With games left against East Carolina, Penn State and Rutgers — and an all-but-certain Dec. 30 invitation to the John Hancock Bowl — the Panthers (5-2-1) can become the first Pitt team in seven years to win nine games in a season.

The 1989 Panthers also: —Can be the first Pitt team since the 1981 Panthers went 11-1 to lose two or fewer games in a season. —Could become the first Pitt team to win a bowl game since that 1981 team beat Georgia 24-20 in the Sugar Bowl. —Can be the first Pitt team in 43 years to beat Penn State three years in a row. Pitt last beat the Nittany Lions in three consecutive years from 1944-46. —Could return to the Top 10 for the first time since 1981 by winning their final four games.

—Can erase the stigma that Gottfried-coached teams rarely win big games. The only major victories Pitt has achieved during Gottfried's four-year tenure were a 1987 upset of Notre Dame and the two decisions over Penn State.

Pitt is likely to play two more nationally ranked teams, No. 17 Penn State on Nov. 18 and either No. 14 Texas A&M or No. 10 Arkansas in the John Hancock Bowl in El Paso.

East German Papers Dismiss Bonn's Offer Of Aid

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERLIN — East German newspapers today appeared to dismiss West Germany's offer of massive financial aid, and Mikhail S. Gorbachev cautioned that "exporting capitalism" could hurt the climate of cooperation in Europe.

Also, East Germany's official news agency said nearly half its 16.5 million people have been issued visas for the West since travel restrictions were lifted on Thursday.

ADN quoted an unidentified Interior Ministry official as saying 7,765,881 visas for West Berlin and West Germany had been approved by this morning.

Economist Karl-Heinz Arnold told the Communist Party newspaper Berliner Zeitung that East Germany can manage its own recovery, an indication that Bonn's conditional aid offer may be rejected.

Gorbachev Warns West Not To 'Gloat' Over Changes In Europe

"I don't see any need to dramatize the internal or external financial situation" of East Germany, Arnold was quoted as saying.

The government newspaper Bauern-Echo, aimed at East Germany's farmers, warned of becoming too greatly influenced by West Germany.

"Yes to unrestricted travel. No to an East German sellout," the paper declared. "Yes to meeting again, no to reunification. The two German states are politically and economically too diverse."

There was no official response from the government to West Germany's offer, which would require East Germany's ruling Communists to fundamentally reform their centrally planned economy.

Gorbachev, believed to have encouraged the ouster of hard-line East German leader Erich Honecker and the dizzying reforms that led to the Berlin Wall's opening, warned Westerners not to gloat over the demise of Communism in the East bloc.

"When accusations of 'exporting revolutions' are replaced with calls for 'exporting capitalism,' we have at hand a dangerous manifestation of old thinking," Tass paraphrased Gorbachev as saying Tuesday in Moscow.

West Germany's economics minister, Helmut Haussmann, offered Tuesday to rebuild East Germany's economy through broad-based investments and joint ventures and to overhaul its moribund communications and transport systems.

While not offering details, Haussmann likened his plan to the brainchild of U.S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall that revitalized postwar Western Europe with an infusion of $12 billion.

But he said such aid would be made available only if East Germany carried out a "thorough change" of its centrally planned economy.

East Germany's new premier, Hans Modrow, is known to favor gradual economic change and oppose a swift transition to full democracy.

Modrow, a 61-year-old Communist reformer confirmed by Parliament as premier on Monday, has resisted recognition of unofficial groups as viable opposition forces or negotiating partners.

Modrow has said the government has no intention of tearing down the Berlin Wall, which it opened to free travel in an effort to halt an exodus of refugees and appease a public that has taken to the streets en masse since early October to demand free elections and other reforms.

In the newest challenge to the Communists' supremacy, Parliament Speaker Guenther Maleuda said Tuesday he would seek to amend the constitution so the Communist Party is no longer deemed the leading force in society.

Maleuda, elected by Parliament Monday in the chamber's first-ever secret ballot, made the remark at a meeting of his Democratic Peasants Party — one of the four formal opposition parties that have recently begun to assert independence.

The Liberal Democratic Party also called for increased power-sharing. It urged convening talks, to include the unofficial opposition, patterned after negotiations held in Poland that helped usher in the Solidarity-led government.

In a development heralding the possible inclusion of another prominent reformer in the government, Politburo member Guenther Schabowski resigned as Berlin's Communist boss.

Schabowski, the party's propaganda chief, had announced Thursday's opening of East Germany's borders. His resignation was considered a possible prelude to his appointment to an influential post in the government.

Koreans Protest U.S. Food Imports

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Students and farmers demanding an end to U.S. food imports battled police with firebombs and rocks today in Seoul and other areas as protesters staged a running attack on a U.S. Air Force base.

A small group of radical students demanding a ban on food imports hurled several firebombs and rocks at the main gate of the U.S. Air base in Kunsan, about 130 miles south of Seoul, police said.

Five students were arrested by South Korean police. U.S. officials reported minor damage to a guardhouse, but no injuries.

About 2,000 students and farmers hurling firebombs and rocks battled riot police at Konkuk University in eastern Seoul after they were prevented from marching into the street to call for the overthrow of President Roh Tae-woo's government.

Hundreds of riot police in green combat fatigues and black, visor helmets made repeated charges to drive the protesters back as armored police vans fired barrages of tear gas bombs.

"Drive out the Yankees who enforce the opening of agricultural markets," protesters chanted.

Police officials said more than 300 farmers and students were arrested in Seoul for taking part in anti-government protests. The police said they had no information on injuries.

Protesters gathered at Konkuk after the government deployed some 7,000 riot police to block a farmers' protest on Yoido Plaza near the city center. Police banned the rally as a threat to law and order.

Farmers' groups called the rally to demand an end to U.S. imports and also seek an increase in prices for domestic farm products. The groups claim cheap U.S. imports threaten to drive South Korean farmers out of business.

Shamir Appeals To White House Over PLO Role

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir takes his appeal against a PLO role in Mideast talks to the White House today, hopeful that President Bush will allay his government's concerns about being drawn into negotiations over territory.

Shamir, on an 11-day trip to the United States and Europe, wants to restrict the talks with Palestinian Arabs to arrangements for limited self-rule on the West Bank and in Gaza.

But the Palestine Liberation Organization has not given its approval for the talks, and Bush and Secretary of State James A. Baker III might weigh giving iron-clad assurances to Israel against risking PLO disapproval.

It is generally assumed Palestinians would not negotiate with Israel without a green light from Yasser Arafat's organization. And the PLO is demanding a state carved out of territory held by Israel.

Shamir, who arrived Monday, sees Baker over lunch at the State Department today before calling on Bush. On Thursday, the prime minister has scheduled meetings on Capitol Hill with members of the House Foreign Affairs and the Senate Foreign Relations Committees.

Egypt is acting as a surrogate for the PLO and has asked for "clarifications" of a plan by Baker to get Israel and Palestinians together. The Israeli Cabinet, meanwhile, is seeking assurances that the PLO and its members would play no role in the talks.

The situation has grown complex, even by Middle Eastern standards.

Before the talks are held, Baker has proposed that he meet here with Foreign Ministers Moshe Arens of Israel and Esmat Abdel Meguid of Egypt.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret D. Tutwiler said the points raised by Israel and by Egypt for the PLO would have to be ironed out before Baker held the Washington meeting.

"We've always said you have to have acceptance on a framework," she said.

Ms. Tutwiler did not seem frustrated by the absence of an official response from Egypt to Baker's proposal for the Israeli-Palestinian talks.

"If at any point you get a positive reply, it's helpful," she said. "But there is no time frame on it."

Shamir was visited in his midtown hotel suite Tuesday by officials from the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, a lobbying and research group, and from the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations.

He also met with Israeli Ambassador Moshe Arad and other Israeli Embassy officials.

Apart from some differences with the Bush administration, the prime minister has been getting conflicting advice from American Jews, who comprise the largest Jewish community in the world.

Some are urging him to be conciliatory. Others are trying to bolster Shamir's resolve not to make territorial and other concessions before negotiations are held.

Some 200 American rabbis signed a letter circulated by the American Jewish Peace Lobby urging Shamir to accept the principle — before any negotiations — that Israel should relinquish land in return for peace with the Arabs.

Leftists Try To Stir Salvadoran Unrest

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Leftist rebels today tried to fan the flames of their 4-day-old offensive into a popular insurrection. President Alfredo Cristiani called the insurgent push the act of "a desperate beast."

Both Cristiani's rightist administration and the Marxist-led Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front claimed widespread popular support. More than 500 people have been reported killed in the fighting.

Rebel commander Ana Guadalupe

Martinez, speaking early today on the insurgents' clandestine Radio Venceremos, said the guerrillas had declared more than a quarter of the Massachusetts-sized country "liberated."

She said revolutionary committees had been set up in dozens of towns.

"We call on the popular committees to give priority to the task of supporting the combatants ... to form militias, to construct workshops of popular armament, to collect food, medicine and bandages and organize the means of getting them to the combat zones," she said.

Cristiani said the offensive, begun

Saturday night, "has been a failure" for the guerrillas.

"The harshest blow to them has been the repudiation of the people," he said in a speech broadcast nationwide Tuesday night. "This (the offensive) is the act of a desperate beast."

The combat, a state of siege, a dusk-to-dawn curfew and a guerrilla-imposed road transport ban made circulation difficult, at times impossible.

These conditions hampered efforts to gauge the degree to which the general population was being swayed toward either side.

The streets were deserted overnight for the third straight night.

Red flares dropped by helicopters drifted over the Mejicanos neighborhood and tracer-laced bursts from the gunships' .30-caliber machine guns sporadically blasted the working-class district.

Mejicanos was one of several neighborhoods on the capital's periphery where insurgents were entrenched.

The fighting was the fiercest since the rebels' "final offensive" of January 1981 failed to win them power.

At least 500 people have been reported killed in the battle of San Salvador, with nearly double that number reported wounded.

Brazil Holds First Voting For President In 29 Years

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Brazil today made a final stride toward full civilian rule as voters cast ballots in the country's first popular presidential election in nearly three decades.

The vote, on the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Brazilian Republic, follows two decades of rapid but unequal development.

Brazilians began lining up outside polling stations several hours before polls opened but election officials said voters waiting in line would be allowed to cast ballots.

The favorite is a conservative former state governor, Fernando Collor de Mello of the National Reconstruction Party.

His attacks on President Jose Sarney for 1,300 percent annual inflation and widespread corruption have struck a chord with many of the 82 million registered voters, most of whom earn less than $36 a week.

In a national TV address Tuesday night, Sarney called the election "an extraordinary spectacle" that demonstrated "the flourishing of Brazilian democracy."

"The democratic transition is complete," said Sarney, who was chosen in 1985 by an electoral college after the military ended 21 years of rule. "God has won in Brazil."

Fighting for second place are two leftists — ex-governor Leonel Brizola, who pledges West European-style socialism, and Rep. Luis Inacia Lula da Silva, a former factory worker and strike leader who wants a "workers' republic" with nationalized banks and cancellation of Brazil's daunting $110 billion foreign debt.

If no candidate wins a majority — and it's doubtful anyone will — the top two vote-getters will meet in a runoff Dec. 17.

Collor de Mello had a comfortable lead, but far short of a majority in the 21-candidate field, according to two opinion polls announced Tuesday.

Other than Brizola or Lula, only two other candidates were given any chance of squeaking into the No. 2 spot: center-leftist Sen. Mario Covas, and rightist Rep. Paulo Maluf.

The two-month campaign has been marred by some personal insults and a last-minute attempt to throw in a wild-card candidate, but enthusiastic crowds have gathered at street rallies across this nation of 150 people, South America's largest.

Paper ballots with squares beside each candidate's name were waiting at 250,000 polling stations, from the southern plains to the remote jungle villages in the northwestern Amazon region.

Special stations were set up for the blind and for the estimated half-million people with leprosy. In some places, voting equipment had to be carried in by canoe or on mules.

One-Party System Suggested

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WINDHOEK, Namibia — The leader of a black nationalist movement who is likely to become the first president promised today to protect civil liberties but said he would form a one-party political system if the public approves.

Sam Nujoma's leftist South-West Africa People's Organization, which waged a 23-year war against South African rule of the territory, was declared the winner Tuesday of pre-independence elections with 57 percent of the vote.

SWAPO will have 41 of the 72 seats in the assembly that is expected to begin writing a constitution next week. At least 48 of the 72 members, or two-thirds, must approve decisions by the assembly, and SWAPO will have to bargain with at least some of the five other parties that won seats.

The Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, a multiracial coalition that favors a capitalist economy, has 21 seats. No other parties won more than four seats.

"We have no intentions of imposing our views on others and anticipate no serious disagreements," Nujoma told reporters. "We stand ready to be guided by the democratic principles of open discussion and decision by the majority."

"Even those who did not gain any seats in the assembly will have the opportunity to enjoy the fruits of independence," he said.

He said Namibians would not be pressured to join SWAPO, he but added: "If the Namibian people chose to go one-party and it is done at the polls democratically, it will certainly be so."

India Braces For Pakistani War Games

Italian Communists Seeking New Name

By Bryan Wilder
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Two hundred thousand soldiers of the Pakistani army and air force are to hold the biggest military exercises in their 42-year history starting sometime in mid-December.

The plan has prompted neighboring India to strengthen its border force. The two countries have fought three wars since they gained independence from Britain in 1947 and still are not on the best of terms.

Brig. Riaz Ullah, chief of Pakistan's Inter Services Public Relations Department, said the war games are code-named "Zarba Momin" — Urdu for "the blow of the perfect Moslem" — and will test new tactics and weapons.

Officials have not disclosed details or announced an exact starting date.

Riaz said the games will involve one armored division and seven infantry divisions in central Pakistan, at least 120 miles from the eastern border with India.

The air force will conduct simultaneous operations under the code name "Highmark."

Indian war games along the frontier in January 1987, called "Operation Brass Tacks," triggered a precautionary mobilization of Pakistani forces.

Riaz said the Pakistani exercises will be held in a north-south corridor defined by the Indus and Chenab rivers in western Punjab province. However, the area abuts an Indian-controlled section of the disputed Jammu-Kashmir state.

"I don't think these will cause the tensions we saw in 1987," Riaz said.

Dilip Sinha, the first secretary of the Indian Embassy in Islamabad, said his government agrees.

"No, we don't see it as a threat," he said.

Nevertheless, a senior Indian military officer in southern Jammu-Kashmir said additional Indian troops and tanks were being stationed along the border to "deal with any eventuality."

The officer, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Indian security forces in Jammu-Kashmir would increase from 10,000 to 100,000 by the start of the Pakistani maneuvers.

"We do not want to be caught unaware in case of any possible offensive," he said.

Pakistan, which is predominantly Moslem, has fought three unsuccessful wars with mainly Hindu India since their partition at the end of British colonial rule in 1947. Wars in 1948 and 1965 were over Jammu-Kashmir. In 1971, the two clashed over the establishment of Bangladesh as an independent nation in what had been East Pakistan.

Pakistani and Indian troops still trade artillery fire across the desolate Siachen Glacier, 21,000 feet up in the Himalayas in northern Jammu-Kashmir near the Chinese border.

Pakistan occupies the western third of the 85,000-square-mile state.

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

ROME — West Europe's largest Communist Party surrendered to changing times Tuesday, formally announcing that it will change its name. It also will wave goodbye to the hammer and sickle.

Achille Occhetto, general secretary of the Italian Communist Party, told the 56-member party directorate that the name change was part of a plan to forge a broad alliance of left-wing political forces in Italy. The plan will be considered by the party's 300-member Central Committee later this month.

The 1.5 million-member party has shared power in recent years in every major Italian city but has been an outsider at the national level since the 1948 founding of the Italian Republic. And, mired behind dominant Christian Democrats, the Communists have been stagnant at the polls in the past decade.

The party, Italy's second-largest political grouping, has been stridently independent of Moscow since the era of Josef Stalin and has been a frequent critic of Soviet interventionist foreign policies. President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, a Soviet leader widely admired by most Italian Communists, will call on the party later this month during a state visit to Italy.

He will also see Pope John Paul II at the Vatican.

As part of what he called "a refounding" of the party, Occhetto said he wanted to change "not only the name, but also the type of party."

How They Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Nov. 3.

HOUSE

MINIMUM WAGE HIKE — By a vote of 382 for and 37 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 2710) increasing the minimum wage for the first time since 1981, raising it from $3.35 an hour to $3.80 next April and $4.25 in April 1991. About 4 million workers now receive the federal minimum.

Included in the bill (HR 2710) is a new sub-minimum wage for youths advocated by businesses but disliked by labor. The "training wage," set at $3.35 an hour next April and $3.61 a year later, can be paid for up to 90 days to youths aged 16-to-19 who are new to the work force. The bill is a compromise between President Bush and Democratic leaders, drafted after the House failed last June to override Bush's veto of a $4.55-an-hour minimum wage.

Supporter James Traficant, D-Ohio, said the bill is needed because "it's a sad day in America when people work eight hours a day and still qualify for food stamps and housing vouchers."

Objecting to the new new-tier wage structure that critics say will take jobs away from adults, Carl Perkins, D-Ky., called the bill "a sellout to the president of the United States..."

Members voting yes supported the bill.

North Carolina members voting yes: Walter Jones, D-1, Tim Valentine, D-2, Martin Lancaster, D-3, David Price, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Howard Coble, R-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.G. Hefner, D-8, Alex McMillan, R-9, Cass Ballenger, R-10, James Clarke, D-11.

Voting no: None.

Not voting: None.

AIRLINE TAKEOVERS — By a vote of 300 for and 113 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 3443) enabling the Department of Transportation to prevent the sale of major airlines if the deal would result in foreign control of the carrier or enough of a debt load to jeopardize passenger safety. Parties seeking more than 15 percent of an airline's stock would have to get DOT's prior approval of their plans.

Although foreign control of major carriers is now prohibited, federal officials say the bill is needed to plug loopholes in the existing ban. The safety issue is raised by fears that leveraged buyouts will leave newly-purchased airlines with insufficient cash flow to maintain their fleets.

Supporter J.J. Pickle, D-Tex., said "we cannot sit back while airlines, our national assets, take on billions of dollars in debt. The risks are too great."

Opponent Dana Rohrabacher, R-Calif., said the bill gives government too much power over the marketplace and "is more appropriate for the Soviet airline, Aeroflot, not the American airline industry."

Members voting yes wanted the Department of Transportation to be able to block certain airline buyouts.

Voting yes: Jones, Valentine, Lancaster, Price, Neal, Rose, Hefner, McMillan, Clarke.

Voting no: Coble, Ballenger.

Not voting: None.

NICARAGUA AND THE CONTRAS — By a vote of 262 for and 152 against, the House endorsed the harsher of two possible criticisms of Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega for resuming combat with American-backed contras. This meant that a measure later passed by the House (H Con Res 221) denounced Ortega's Sandinistas but not the contras for violations of the Nicaraguan cease-fire. The vote swept aside a Foreign Affairs Committee measure that blamed both sides.

Robert Walker, R-Pa., said the committee measure "is little ambivalent about whether or not we are condemning the Sandinistas or ... the contras."

Peter DeFazio, D-Ore., said the House should denounce both the Sandinistas and "the continuing atrocities... of the contras."

Members voting yes supported a resolution criticizing the Sandinistas but not the contras in Nicaragua.

Voting yes: Valentine, Lancaster, Price, Neal, Coble, Hefner, McMillan, Ballenger, Clarke.

Voting no: Jones, Rose.

Not voting: None.

SENATE

TO DISCLOSE HOUSE MAIL COSTS — By a vote of 64 for and 35 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment requiring House members to publish in the Constitutional Record the cost and other details of their mass mailings to constituents. Senators already make such a disclosure, but House members have opted to keep the data private. The vote occurred during debate on the conference report on the fiscal 1990 legislative branch appropriations bill (HR 3014).

Harry Reid, D-Nev., said the amendment had to be killed because it would bring down the conference report, eliminating major reforms in congressional mailing procedures.

Sponsor Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., said "the House is blackmailing the taxpayers" by threatening to scuttle any conference report containing his amendment.

Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., voted yes, to kill the requirement that House members publish individual mailing data. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., voted no.

OLIVER NORTH'S PENSION — By a vote of 78 for and 17 against, the Senate sent to the House a bill (S 1816) restoring a military pension of $23,000 annually to Oliver North, a retired Marine lieutenant colonel.

Though applying broadly to retired officers, the bill's purpose is to guarantee North's pension despite a 1974 law ousting from office persons convicted of shredding sensitive federal documents. North was convicted on a shredding count in his Iran-Contra trial. The bill would keep the required forfeiture from costing North his commission and retirement pay.

Helms and Sanford voted yes, supporting the bill.

Nicaragua Offers New Cease-Fire

LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — Nicaragua's Marxist-led Sandinista government Tuesday dropped its insistence that the Contra rebels be disbanded by Dec. 5 and instead offered to resume a cease-fire, on the condition that the insurgents inside Nicaragua agree to return to their bases in neighboring Honduras.

Nicaragua Deputy Foreign Minister Victor Hugo Tinoco made the proposal as the two sides continued negotiations here on reinstating a 19-month cease-fire that President Daniel Ortega canceled on Oct. 27. At that time, Ortega charged that U.S.-supported Contras had increased their attacks during the Sandinistas' cease-fire and demanded that they be disarmed and disbanded by the Dec. 5 deadline set by the five Central American presidents last August.

However, Ortega's action provoked strong international condemnation as a threat to Nicaragua elections scheduled Feb. 25. The Sandinistas subsequently agreed to talks here under the auspices of the Organization of American States and the United Nations.

Nicaragua's new proposal appeared to be an attempt to defuse criticism by returning to the cease-fire while still extracting concessions from the Contras, such as possible timetable for disbanding the approximately 14,000 fighters in Honduras.

As described by participants in the talks, the Sandinista plan calls for an immediate cease-fire by both sides, establishment of a "safe corridor" through which the Contras would return with their arms to Honduras and new talks about demobilization and repatriation or relocation of the Contras.

Enrique Bermudez, the Contras' chief negotiator, charged that the Sandinistas are asking for "a military retreat" that would require his forces to give up their gains from eight years of struggle. Other sources in the talks said the proposal appeared to have narrowed differences, but cautioned it is still too early to predict the outcome.

The talks continued as foreign ministers of the 32-nation OAS held their annual meeting here. Tuesday, President Bush told ministers at a State Department luncheon that he was "very upset" at the fierce military offensive launched by leftist guerrillas in El Salvador.

OWNER FINANCING

ON OCTOBER 10, 1989 I began by saying "They said my lots would not sell located on dirt road outside of Winterville". Well! At that time, of 20 lots, 18 were sold, now 21 are sold. Why? It's simple. As crow flies just 1/3 of a mile away a subdivision is selling restricted lots with all roads paved on the basis of $22,000 per acre. My restricted lots are being sold on the basis of $9,700 per acre. Can you wait until you have a while for paving? Now then I will finance your lot purchase. 1-729-0381.

Comedian Leno Very Serious About His Work

Killer Schedule Amazes All Who Work With Him

By Lawrence Christon
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

"What's the delay?" Jay Leno asked his driver speculatively, peering out the back window of the car at the lines of people walking along either side, faster than the car itself. "Does this happen a lot?" The black limousine inched in heavy traffic along the narrow two-lane road leading to the North Tonawanda Melody Fair, where Leno was to appear for a one-night concert, one of 270 hit-and-run performances he plays all over the country each year.

He had just flown up from Atlanta, where he had been working an auto show.

Two days before that he had played a date in Indianapolis.

Two days before that he was at the Comedy & Magic Club in Hermosa Beach, Calif., to break in material for the following night's "Tonight Show," where he enjoys the double-oxymoronic title of "permanent guest host," a once-a-week shot taped at 5:30 p.m. that he views self-critically when it airs at 11:30. Most of the time, that means he is in bed by 2 a.m. and up by 5 to catch the first flight east out of Los Angeles International Airport.

Leno's killer schedule is a source of amazement to everyone who knows and works with him, and indeed to people who know him only by reputation. At the Comedy Convention in Las Vegas, Nev., last July, a young comedian rose at a seminar to complain about the grind of having to play the road so much. "Jay Leno does it all the time," he was told by a panelist. "Yeah, but that's him," replied the comic, plaintively.

Leno has heard the wondrous comment so many times that he blinks it off with a lizardlike complacency. "Remember the days when people went to work in the dark and came home in the dark?"

Tonawanda is approximately 12 miles outside of Buffalo in Upstate New York. The limo ride, which began at the Ramada Renaissance Inn just outside the Buffalo airport, had been a smooth one until it approached the theater, where traffic was backing up. The lines of theatergoers walking along the edges of the road scuffed up a low cloud of dust highlighted by the late sun — the scene nearly resembled documentary footage of some war-torn land whose urban citizenry was fleeing to the countryside, or a solemn pilgrimage.

To anyone who peered searchingly at the car, Leno would roll down the window, wave and say, "Hey, how ya doin'?" After a while, he asked the driver anxiously, "Do you think we'll be on time? Well, they can't start without me, can they? Anyway, there's an opening act. I hope he made it through this."

The theater entrance swung into view and the driver turned toward the security gate outside the artist's entrance. "Security guys are the ones who know least about what's goin' on," Leno said, poised to jump out of the car. "At NBC there was a guy who stopped me and said, 'Who're you?' 'Jay Leno,' I said. 'I'm hostin' 'The Tonight Show.' 'Right,' the guy says. 'Johnny Carson hosts 'The Tonight Show.' 'I'm subbing for him.' 'Right. So what's your name?' The guy picks up the phone and says, 'I have a Jim Reynolds here who says he's hosting 'The Tonight Show.' 'It's not Jim Reynolds. It's Jay Leno. Jay!' Jeez."

Leno fondly catalogs these minor indignities, not only because they are funny in retrospect, but also because they act as a corrective to the whirl of attention he has been getting as America's hottest stand-up comedian and, of course, as the Anointed One, the heir apparent to Johnny Carson.

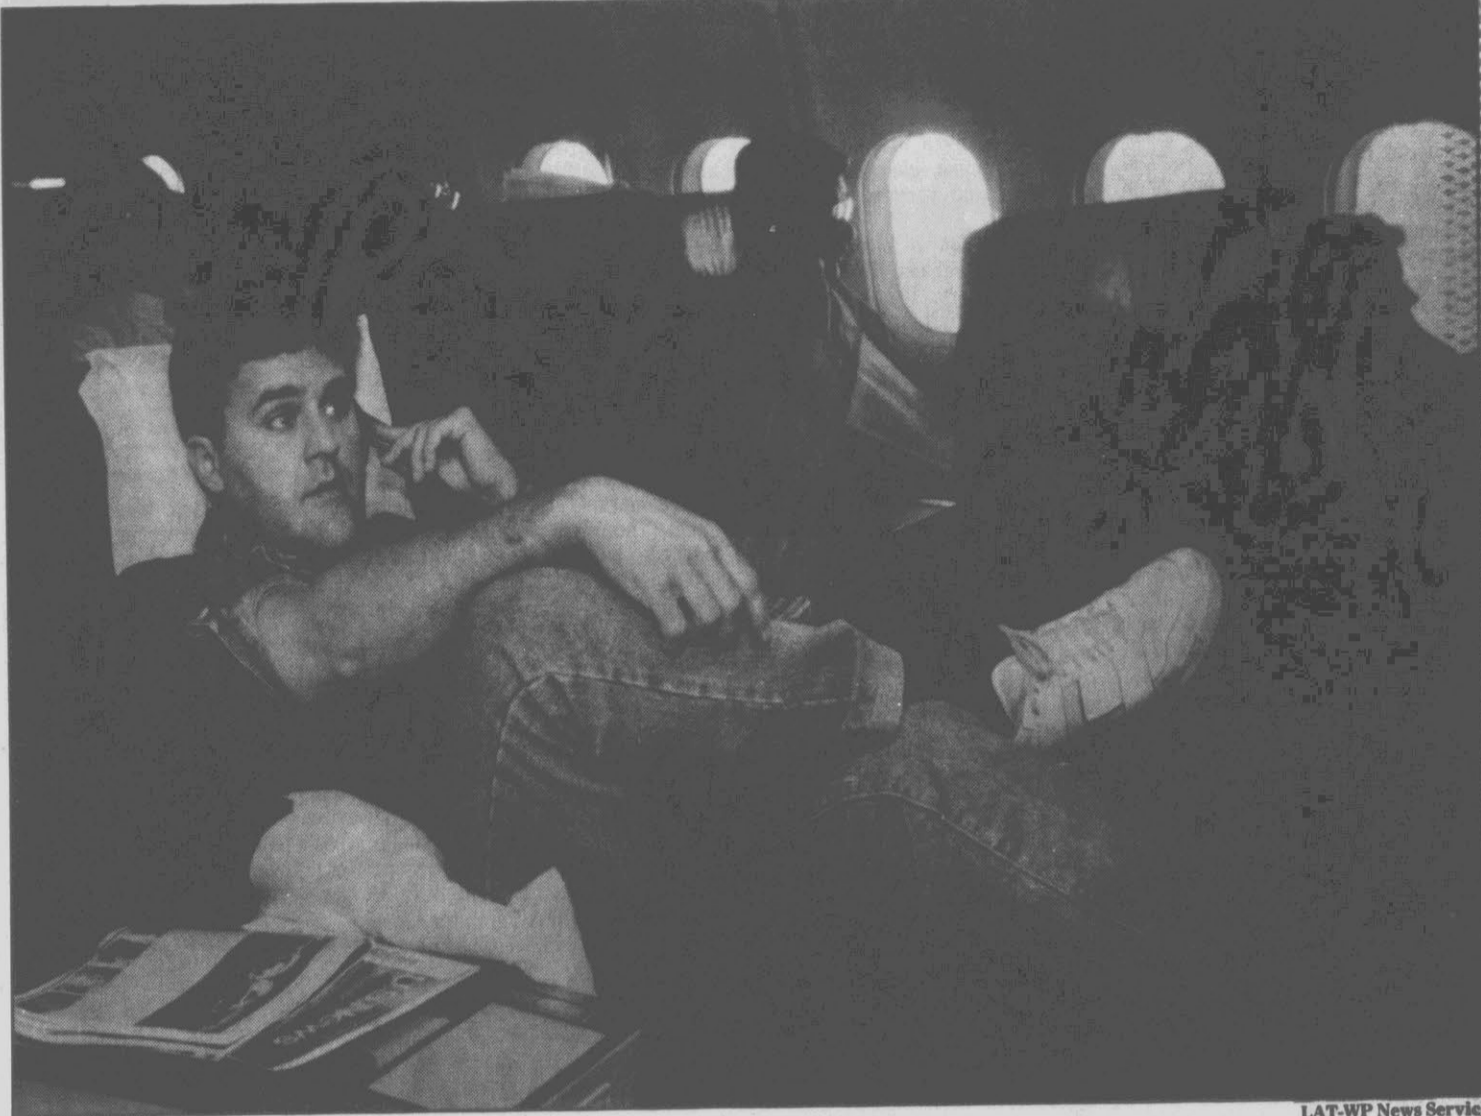

Not only does Leno understand the cyclic nature of success, but against its intoxicants he holds a heavy memory of years of ignominious struggle in venues like the Kit Kat Klub, a Boston strip joint whose owner told him "Get the hell outta here!" after Leno asked for his pay. There was the small-time impresario who asked him if he could go on as a wrestler. There was the circus midway, where he performed between freak show tents, one of a number of impossible gigs where people would shout at him, "You a comedian? Well you ain't funny."

There was that New Jersey hustler who got hold of a truckload of anal-deodorant suppositories and hired Leno to act as a sales manager; when a roomful of salesmen booed the product, he reviled them with "and to show you how much you know, this isn't even a sales manager. This is Jay Leno, professional comedian!" (Leno loves this one).

When he first worked the Comedy Store in Hollywood, he sometimes slept on the club's back stairway. You never know when the struggling ego is about to hit another trap. Some time after he began substituting for Carson, a Midwestern radio announcer prefaced an interview by saying, "We're talking to Jay Leno, who claims to have hosted 'The Tonight Show.'"

"Hi, gang!" Leno called to the crowd of autograph seekers at the stage entrance, who cheered him on sight and gathered around. As he began signing programs, the crowd drew back as a man brought out a chimpanzee in a white judo suit to perform karate moves. The chimp had an ancient face and performed with a startling dutiful aggressiveness before leaping in his trainer's arms and plunging his wizened hand into a bag of Doritos. The crowd laughed at this bit of comic precocity and Leno moved on to his trailer, where fruit and cheeses were laid out on a table and there were soft drinks in the refrigerator (Leno doesn't permit alcohol on the premises when he performs).

He had been polite but aloof toward the chimp's antics. "People are always trying to bring animals to me to get on 'The Tonight Show,'" he said, settling into an easy chair. "What's the big deal? 'Look! He's doing something human.' I like it when they just do animal things, like 'hunt' and 'point.'" A local NBC camera crew came in to do a spot interview and shoot a promo. One reporter asked him, "Are you surprised by what people laugh at?" "People laugh at any form of hypoc-ris," Leno replied, facing the sudden glare of the camera's lights.

"What about Dan Quayle?" the reporter asked.

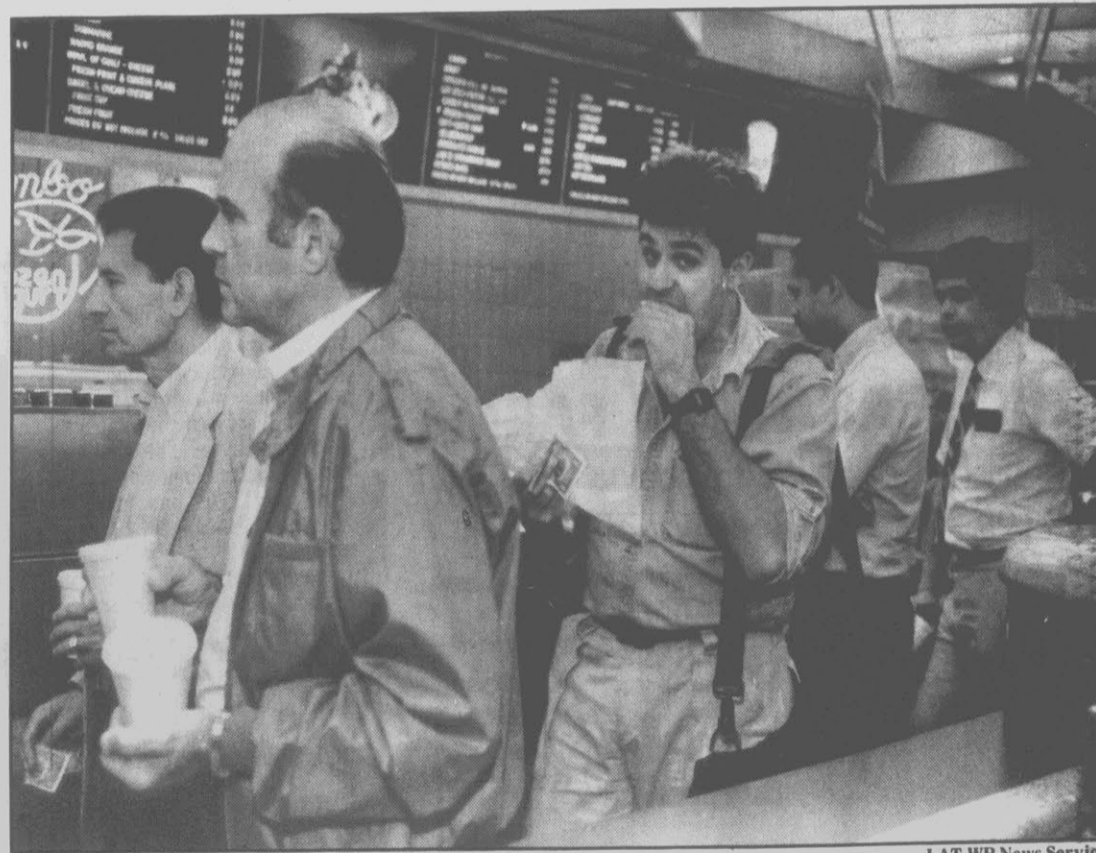

"You never change anybody's opinions with jokes," Leno answered. "You just reinforce what they're thinking anyway. I don't tell many Dan Quayle jokes, like 'For the 20th anniversary of the moon walk, he sent Michael Jackson a telegram.'"

"You seem to know yourself, but are uncomfortable about celebrity," the reporter said.

"Fred Allen once said about TV, 'It's having people entertain in your home by people you wouldn't have in your home.'"

The crew asked him to do a couple of promo spots. Peering into the camera, he said, "This is Jay Leno. I live in California and have a satellite dish just so I can watch the best news team in the country, Don and Allison. It comes on before 'The Tonight Show.'" And "Hello, this is Jay Leno. Wanna impress that special someone? Stay up for 'The Tonight Show.' It's a lot safer than sex and lasts a lot longer."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — At 6 p.m. today, viewers in about four million of the nation's 51 million homes with cable TV will get the chance to see ho-ho history — the start of the 24-hour Comedy Channel.

It's the latest chapter in the video specialization in cable that has led to mostly-sports ESPN, all-news CNN, and let-us-rock MTV, says Dick Beahrs, president of TCC, which is owned by Home Box Office.

Beahrs, whose network will start life tonight with "The Sweet Life," starring Rachel Sweet, says that "comedy is the last bastion of network programming strength that hasn't been adequately exploited by cable."

He isn't alone in thinking that. On April Fool's Day, his network will get a 24-hour rival, "HAH! The Comedy Network," owned by Viacom's MTV Networks. Each newcomer is on basic cable; viewers won't have to pay extra for either.

Advertisers and cable operators already have heard these two Manhattan-based rivals saying, "Take my comedy channel ... please."

The situation may be, as the song goes, "something for everyone, a comedy tonight." But there is doubt whether the tune can be sung in stereo, whether there is room in cable for two chuckles channels.

"We're skeptical about it in the current economy," says Richard J. Kostyra, executive vice president of the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency. "Unless the economy changes, it's going to be tough for two to survive."

The two channels differ markedly in format. TCC will have clips from comedy movies and sitcoms, comedy shorts and feature-length films, and seven hosts doing their own thing, including Sweet, a former punk-rock singer whose thing on the Comedy Channel is described as her daily "video diary."

With the best-known of the hosts "Saturday Night Live" graduate and "Sniglets" author Rich Hall, the aim of the Comedy Channel seems to be hip humor.

But the buzzword at "HAH!" is "mainstream." Its format offers old sitcoms like "The Lucy Show" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" as well as original programming, including a new series from MTM, the company that made the Moore show.

"It will be essentially the wide world of comedy 24 hours a day — situation comedy, sketch comedy, funny game shows" and perhaps some standup comedy, says "HAH!" chairman Tom Freston.

The emphasis will be on what he calls "long-form" — shows running 30 minutes or an hour and directed at "a mainstream audience." But there'll be no comedy hosts, he says.

Each channel has a behind-scenes network graduate on the job. TCC has Steve Friedman, former executive producer of NBC's "Today" show, helping develop a comedy morning show "HAH!" has former NBC President Fred Silverman, who has run programming for NBC, ABC and CBS, consulting on its lineup.

It may sound odd, but neither comedy channel — or even NBC-owned CNBC, founded on April 17 in Fort Lee, N.J. — has yet found a cable home here in media-mad Manhattan.

Why no home in Manhattan? Not enough space on its cable system. Although the newcomers hope to remedy that, it's a problem the newcomers face nationally, particularly on older cable systems. The proliferation of new cable networks has left little room in cable's inn.

"There's a lot of full houses out there," says Freston. Some recently-wired areas, such as Brooklyn here, can get up to 70 cable channels. But the national average is about 28, he says, and only 12 in some areas.

"Channel capacity problems are real ones," agrees Beahrs, "although happily it's a short-term problem."

Many systems are being upgraded to at least 54 channels, Freston says, and that will be the norm by 1994-95. He believes two comedy channels could survive if that's the case.

"So the question is, how long can you hold on to your socks?" he says. He predicts that "HAH!" will hold on quite well.

Although neither executive will say what it will cost to launch his network, it won't be cheap, if past is prologue. CNBC, a business and consumer channel, reportedly spent $65 million to get under way.

Nor will the profits arrive pronto. CNBC, which says it launched with about four million subscribers and now just has over 13 million, expects to lose money for four years until it hits its projected goal of 30 million homes.

The Comedy Channel, Beahrs says, will start tonight with about four million subscribers, expects to have six million by New Year's Day, and eventually hit 50 million, or the majority of cable households.

He declines to say when this may happen. But it helps that TCC's parent company is owned by two huge media empires that joined in corporate wedlock this year, resulting in what is called Time Warner, Inc.

Log Cabin Pattern Is Woven Into An Old-Fashioned Afghan

By Pat Trexler

Pat's Pointers

The ever-popular Log Cabin pattern is not for quilts only. Here it's woven into a charming, old-fashioned crocheted afghan with an abundance of beautiful colors. Worked square by square (there are 20 in all), this is a very portable, easy project that will keep you crocheting happily during the upcoming long winter nights.

A worsted-weight yarn in nine different colors makes for strong visual interest in an afghan that will be the focal point of any room. You could even use up some of your leftover yarns on his project. The basic single crochet stitch is used throughout, and the finished size is 48 by 60 inches.

To obtain directions for making the Log Cabin Afghan, send your request for Leaflet No. Z-111289 with $2 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler Crafts (The Daily Reflector), P.O. Box 419148, Kansas City, Mo. 64141.

Or you may order Kit No. C-111289

by sending a check or money order for $31.95 to Pat Trexler Crafts at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions and yarn to make this project.

Available now — new book! "A Collection of Afghans" for $8.95.

Dear Readers: It has become a tradition each fall for me to give directions for making quick, easy little knit or crochet bells that can be used for tree ornaments, lapel pins or package decorations.

For knitted bells, using a lightweight yarn and size 2 or 3 needles, cast on 14 stitches. For the first row, knit the first 10 stitches and purl the last four. Row 2, which is the right side of your works, is made by simply knitting all stitches. Repeat these two rows until you have 22 ridges.

Bind off all stitches, leaving a 12-inch strand of yarn. Thread this yarn-end into a tapestry needle and sew the cast-on and bound-off edges together. There will be a little border of stockinette stitch at one end. This is the bottom of the bell. At the other end, run your threaded tapestry needle through every other stitch, drawing it tight. Fasten off and tie in a little jingle bell for a clapper, if you wish.

If you prefer to crochet, try the following directions with sports-weight yarn and a size F hook. Starting about two inches from the end of the yarn, chain two. Make eight single crochets in the first chain you made. Place a marker in the last stitch to denote the end of the round. The eight stitches just made are counted as Round 1. Do not turn but work in rounds throughout, moving up the marker at the end of each round. There are various types of markers, but I find plastic-tipped bobby pins ideal.

Round 2: Make two single crochets in each stitch. Rounds 3 through 8: Make one single crochet in each stitch around. Round 9: (A) Single crochet in next stitch; (B) work two single crochets in next stitch. Repeat Steps A and B to end of round.

Round 10: (A) Work two single crochets in next stitch; (B) single crochet in next stitch. Repeat Steps A and B to the last two stitches. To finish, work a slip stitch in the front loop of each stitch around. Fasten off and cut yarn, weaving in the loose end on the wrong side. Draw the two-inch end of yarn left then making the first chain through to the wrong side, and attach a little jingle bell to it.

If you are using either of the bells for tree ornaments, make a hanger by attaching a loop of narrow ribbon to the top of the bell. You can vary the size of the bells by using different weights of yarn and different sizes of hooks or needles. With these basic patterns, dig deep into our box of leftover yarns, and let your imagination go.

Great American Smokeout Nears

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

Dear Readers: Tomorrow will mark the 13th Annual Great American Smokeout, a one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours, just to prove they can do it. The idea, conceived by Lynn R. Smith, editor of the Monticello (Minn.) Times, has now spread to Canada, Great Britain, France, Ireland, Australia, South Africa, Norway, Finland and Sweden.

Last year, more than 18.4 million smokers tried to quit for the day. This represents more than 37 percent of the nation's 50 million smokers.

Breast cancer used to be the biggest killer for women. But the No. 1 cause of death among women and men today is lung cancer. An estimated 93,000 men and 49,000 women will die of lung cancer in 1989.

And now, a word about smoking-related diseases — emphysema, chronic bronchitis and heart disease: This year an estimated 390,000 will die from one of these. This total exceeds the number of U.S. battle deaths in World War II; it is eight times as many people who die in automobile accidents every year!

According to the U.S. surgeon general, there are more deaths from smoking in the United States each year than there are from AIDS, heroin, crack, cocaine, alcohol, fire, murders and car accidents combined.

A congressional study has reported that health costs from the adverse effects of smoking have reached a new high of $100 billion a year in increased medical bills and lost productivity. The loss in death and disability cannot be measured. (And how does one measure the amount of heartache, remorse and guilt suffered as a result of a preventable, self-induced tragedy?)

What about "secondhand" smoke? Is it actually damaging to non-smokers to be in the presence of those who are smoking? Yes! Furthermore, studies reveal that the children of smokers are more prone to lung problems and allergies than are children of non-smokers.

For years I have begged my young readers, "If you smoke, quit now. If you don't smoke, don't start!" Yet an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 kids light up for the first time every day. Why? Peer pressure, no doubt.

Quitting "cold turkey" is the hardest way to quit, but my readers have told me it's the most effective, and in the long run, the easiest way. Cutting down is less traumatic, but the temptation to smoke is often too powerful to resist while smoking just one, two or three cigarettes a day.

Those who are heavily addicted may require help to break the habit. Call your local chapter of the American Cancer Society for information.

So if you're hooked on cigarettes and have been telling yourself, "One of these days I'm going to quit," why not start tomorrow? It won't be easy, but it will be the best Thanksgiving present you can give yourself — and those who love you.

P.S. A favor, please? If you quit tomorrow, even for 24 hours, I want to hear from you. Then write again and let me know how long you were able to stay clean. Good luck. Keep me posted.

P.S.S. Apropos "Thanks for Not Smoking" signs some folks have in their homes: I once saw a sign that read: "If you smoke on these premises, we will assume that you are on fire, and you will be treated accordingly."

If you would like to write to Abby, send your letter to Abigail Van Buren, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA. 90069. For a personal, non-published reply, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

'Talking' Is Tops For 5th Weekend

By John Horn
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOLLYWOOD — "Look Who's Talking," a comedy from a baby's point of view, took in more than $11 million last weekend to lead national box office ticket sales for the fifth consecutive week.

According to figures released Monday by Entertainment Data Inc. and Exhibitor Relations Co., "Look Who's Talking" grossed $11.4 million and has now passed the $74 million mark.

The quick start makes "Look Who's Talking," with Kirstie Alley, John Travolta and the voice of Bruce Willis, the highest-grossing fall release since "Fatal Attraction" in 1987.

"The Bear," the live-action drama focusing on two bears fleeing a group of hunters, held onto second place with $4.8 million. It was followed in third by the tear-jerker "Dad," starring Jack Lemmon and Ted Danson. "Dad" had ticket sales of $4.5 million.

In fourth place was director Wes Craven's horror film "Shocker," which collected $2.4 million. Woody Allen's cautionary drama "Crimes and Misdemeanors" continued to attract steady business, landing in fifth with a take of $2.1 million.

In sixth, with $2 million, was the new release "Staying Together," starring Sean Astin, Dermot Mulroney and Tim Quill as three brothers. It was followed in seventh by "Second Sight," the psychic comedy featuring Bronson Pinchot and John Larroquette. "Second Sight" returned $1.5 million.

"Sea of Love," the drama starring Al Pacino and Ellen Barkin, finished in eighth on receipts of $1.42 million. "Next of Kin," the Patrick Swayze-led drama, was ninth with $1.41 million.

"Black Rain," the crime thriller featuring Michael Douglas, was 10th with $1.4 million.

Here are the top movies for the weekend as tallied by Entertainment Data, with distributor, weekend gross, number of theater screens, average per screen, total gross and number of weeks in release.

Figures are based on a combination of actual box-office receipts and studio projections where actual figures are not immediately available.

1. "Look Who's Talking," Tri-Star, $11.4 million, 1,641 screens, $6,953 per screen, $74.3 million, five weeks.
2. "The Bear," Tri-Star, $4.8 million, 1,050 screens, $4,565 per screen, $16.3 million, three weeks.
3. "Dad," Universal, $4.5 million, 1,108 screens, $4,065 per screen, $6.3 million, three weeks.
4. "Shocker," Universal, $2.4 million, 1,438 screens, $1,640 per screen, $12.6 million, three weeks.
5. "Crimes and Misdemeanors," Orion, $2.1 million, 441 screens, $4,686 per screen, $9.1 million, five weeks.
6. "Staying Together," Hemdale, $2 million, 1,045 screens, $1,933 per screen, $2 million, one week.

Role In 'Perry Mason' Adds To Shari Belafonte's Credits

By Patricia Brennan
LAT-WP NEWS SERVICE

Sunday night, as Perry Mason sets about solving a mystery set in the world of professional sports, Shari Belafonte takes up her tennis racket and adds another credit to her acting resume.

She's already a spokesperson for a chain of health clubs, and because of those connections, she admits that she's fairly fit — at least, enough to make up for occasional chocolate-chip-cookie binges. But is she any good as a player?

"Well, I do play," she said, "but the important thing is that I look damn cute in white."

Easy to believe. After all, she was once a Calvin Klein model. But unfortunately for NBC viewers, she's wearing a sweatsuit — not tennis whites — in "The Case of the All-Star Assassin," the story of an injured hockey star accused of murdering a sports mogul. As a former tennis pro, her character is also a suspect.

Belafonte, 5 feet 4 and a size 4, laughed in a throaty voice made huskier by an encounter with streptococcus ("I've got this cottage-cheese stuff on my throat," she said) and a fever of 102.

This day she was recovering, which was crucial for a woman heading for Germany to spend three weeks singing.

PTRF Plans Oyster Roast

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Twice a year members of the Pamlico Tar River Foundation get together to support the cause. This Saturday the foundation will hold its fourth annual oyster roast — the fun party of the two fundraisers.

From its headquarters in Washington, N.C., the environmental group monitors the river's condition, conducts research on water quality, and provides information to the public.

The group even staged a mock funeral for the Tar and Pamlico rivers after the state declared the river "commercially dead."

"We don't make a lot of money off it," foundation director David McNaught says about the oyster roast. "This is designed more as a social interaction."

Membership fees ranging from $10 to $1,000 and the foundation's black-tie endowment ball in the spring raise most of the organization's budget.

Saturday's festivities are mostly for fun and food — the foundation will serve up oysters, barbecue chicken, hush puppies, beer and vintage rock 'n' roll from Shakin' Sherman Tate and the Blazers.

The party will be held Saturday from 6 p.m. to 12 a.m. in the Washington, N.C. Civic Center. Tickets range from $15 for members to $18 for non-members until Nov. 18. Tickets at the door cost $20. For tickets or further information call the foundation at 946-7211.

"It's more than just an oyster roast," McNaught says. "It's a party."

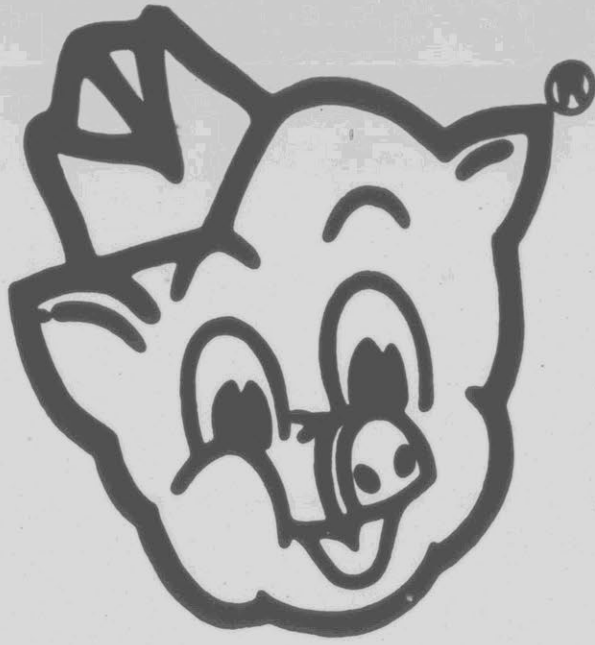

And the party draws the foundation's "eclectic and diverse" crowd together for one evening a year, McNaught says. Commercial fishermen and university professors mingle with government and industry leaders.

The groups that usually square-off against each other on environmental issues can take a night off and enjoy the party.

"It's wrong for anyone to point a finger in any one single direction," McNaught says. "Everybody's responsible for their own part."

From Oxford in Granville County to Aurora near the Pamlico Sound, everyone in the watershed of the Tar and Pamlico rivers has a stake in its health, McNaught says.

Since its formation in 1980, the foundation has worked to provide a voice for the river.

Three Changes Needed To Prevent Another Disaster

POPULAR MECHANICS

The United States must attack its oil tanker mess on three fronts if it is to prevent another environmental disaster such as the Exxon Valdez spill in Prince William Sound.

Building better tankers, equipping them with improved navigational aids and developing new clean-up techniques are needed, according to the current issue of Popular Mechanics, to avoid future disasters.

If ships could be prevented from running into things, the problem would be solved. Over the past 10 years, devices have evolved that could help.

Among the most promising are systems known as electronic charts. They take data from the navigational equipment already aboard most vessels — loran, global positioning satellite receivers, depth sounders, radar and gyrocompasses — and integrate them with a computer database of digitalized nautical charts.

The result is a single video readout that shows the ship's location and course with respect to the shoreline, bottom contours, buoys, markers and other ships.

The most thoroughly developed system of this kind is the Precise Integrated Navigation System, or PINS. With the aid of radar reflectors on shore, it can determine a ship's location to within one to two meters. Standards have not been agreed upon by the Coast Guard and the International Maritime Organization that would allow ships to operate on electronic charts without a marked paper chart as backup. Provisional standards are expected in 1991.

Memories Of 'Fess' Linger On

By Mary Foster
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS — Henry Roeland Byrd had a right to sing the blues.

The thin, old man with the shy grin and the dark glasses known as Professor Longhair, or 'Fess' for short, had plenty of hard times — songs sold for grocery money, music stolen, royalties not paid, gigs worked for peanuts.

He also had a way of pounding it out on a piano that started feet moving, hearts thumping, fingers tapping and a whole bunch of musicians searching for a new way of making music.

"It was a swing-stride piano," said pianist George Winston. "He did it like no one else. He was influential on people who didn't even know he was influencing them. He influenced Fats Domino, Allen Toussaint, Dr. John. He influenced people who influenced people who influenced people."

Almost a decade after Professor Longhair's death in 1980, Winston's Dancing Cat label has re-released "Rock N' Roll Gumbo," a Professor Longhair album originally released in France.

"House Party New Orleans Style," an LP recorded in 1971 and released in 1987, won a Grammy that year.

"I was on a plane from Los Angeles to Orlando and they had this movie on called 'Dead Poets Society' and I couldn't believe it," said Dr. John, the performer generally credited with carrying on Professor Longhair's music to the greatest degree.

"Fess' 'Hey Little Girl' was on the soundtrack. I looked around the plane and there were people just grooving in their seats to the music and I said, 'Oh, yeah, how about this.'"

Dr. John and Winston both performed regular benefits for Professor Longhair's widow before her death in October. The benefits provided Alice Walton Byrd with an income during the years after her husband's death.

"They were a wonderful way to help her. It was as if her husband was still taking care of her through his music. And, of course, it was a great way to celebrate the man and his music for everyone involved," said Allison Minor Kaslow, who managed the singer for the last years of his life and still administers Professor Longhair Music Publishing Co.

"The man has been dead for 10 years and it's like he's still alive. I hear his music more now than ever," said Connie Atkinson, editor of Wavelength, a New Orleans music magazine.

She said his influence on rhythm and blues and rock, which was limited to New Orleans for years, has been extended worldwide now, with his albums in constant demand in Europe.

"I don't like the term cult because that has religious overtones, but that's about what it is. We call it the 'Fess Underground,'" said Kaslow.

In 1950, "Baldhead," Longhair's only recording to make the charts, was released by Mercury. Later that year he signed with Atlantic, and in 1953 recorded "Tipitina," which years later became one of his most famous songs. Initially, it had only local success and soon the song and the Professor were both forgotten.

In 1971, Quinten Davis and Kaslow were working on the second New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival. Davis, who had some of Professor Longhair's old 45s and 78s, had hooked Kaslow on the music and they decided to try to get Longhair to perform.

"We heard he went into a record shop and Quint would drop in there all the time and ask for Fess. One day he went in and there he was sweeping the floor," Kaslow said.

He had been supporting himself and his family at odd jobs and by gambling, Davis recalled, and although he was physically in bad shape, he had not lost anything as a performer.

"When he went on stage at the Jazz Fest it was a real cliché. He started playing and all the musicians on the other stages quit playing and came to hear him," Davis said.

"He was an old man, in bad shape when Allison and Quint found him," Atkinson remembered. "He couldn't walk, couldn't breathe well, his teeth were gone, but the longer he played, the younger he got. The last time I saw him — shortly before he died in 1980 — he ran over and jumped up on the stage."

Professor Longhair became a regular at the New Orleans Jazz Fest, and by the mid-1970s played festivals in Newport, Chicago and Europe. In 1976, he cut a new record, "Live on the Queen Mary," at a party for Paul McCartney, who was an admirer. Longhair and his band toured North America in 1979.

Schedule Of Jay Leno Amazes, But Keys His Secret Of Success

A cluster of envelopes, pictures, notes and other missives calling for Leno's attention were gathered on a table near the door. There was a sweat shirt and cap embossed with the logo of the American Cancer Society, the local chapter of which Leno had offered support. A Leno 8 by 10 glossy had a note attached: "Please autograph this picture for Kathy." Another camera crew came in, offering its deferential hello, and set up. "We'd like to do three or four minutes," the reporter said. "Just don't do a cable special," Leno quipped.

The intermission after the opening act was coming to an end. An officious-looking woman in a custodial outfit, with a key-ring dangling from her belt, came back to announce, "Five minutes, Jay." Leno slipped into a pair of slacks and a double-breasted jacket, and walked through an impromptu corridor of security guards to the edge of the theater, where he waited through his introduction in the dark.

The Tonawanda Music Fair is a theater in the round that seats 3,400 (extra orchestra seats were set up to admit 300 more), so when Leno walked swiftly down the aisle to the stage, the crowd turned and cheered the way it would a boxer entering the ring, primed for the main event.

"So what's new in the world?" he began. "Surgeon General (C.) Everett Koop is retiring. He's against drugs, liquor and sex. That'll be some retirement party, I'll bet. What'll they have, a nurse jump out of a giant bran muffin?" His energy rolled just ahead of the crowd, like foam on a wavelet.

He did some Exxon Valdez jokes ("How do you hit the biggest state in the union at 2 mph?") and other topical jokes on Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker ("More guys have come forth to say they've had sex with Jim Bakker, but not with Tammy. What would you choose? 'Nah, I'll take Jim.'")

He did a few jokes on the hiring of older people by McDonald's ("Now at 80 you can make as much as you did when you were 16. ... Don't you wanna see your grandfather out in the parking lot with a nail on the end of a stick picking up trash?") and then moved into one of his almost lyric set pieces on going to the movies ("The movie house. Pardon me, the concrete bunker at the end of the mall?"), a segment so rich with linguistic description that it resembles a prose poem (vividly expressive language is something Leno works hard at polishing; he'll labor at a word picture as much as he'll angle for a joke).

The centerpiece of his act is a series of serpentine anecdotes about his parents, based on the theme "You become the parents and they become the kids," an exercise in bewilderment at how they can never seem to get with the modern world (his mother keeps the TV remote control in a drawer for fear of missing the screen with its potent invisible ray and zapping the newsboy on his bike outside). There's a long passage about his father indignantly carrying a foul, rotted toilet seat back to the hardware store where he bought it — one of its decrepit screws had disintegrated just a few months before its 20-year warranty was about to expire, and his dad was in search of justice.

The segment is characteristic of the mix of impressions Leno shares with his audience, the common subtext of family life, of comical embarrassments, chafing bonds, exasperation, the sense that their frailty represents one's own fate, and that for all our smartness there remains a quality to their lives that has gone out of our own. Leno doesn't patronize his audience with the fulsome sanctimoniousness of a Danny Thomas; his is more a comedy of recognition rather than it is derision. That's why the audience warms to him as much as it does — he enlists its trust.

He played the crowd Jimmy Brogan-style live for a few minutes ("What do you do, sir? Building inspector? Oh, I see those envelopes in your jacket stuffed with cash."), told a few more jokes, and went off to a standing ovation, a bit over 1 1/2 hours after he came on.

"Good crowd," he said in the trailer afterward, gobbling up fruit, crackers and cheese to restore his depleted energy. "Straight. Frighteningly straight. Lotta people out there who don't see comics, 'No, let's not go see a comedian. They're too dirty.' Well, that's the good thing about comedy. It's inexpensive when you get down to the cleaning bill."

The stage manager let in a group of autograph seekers. "I saw you in Columbus a few months ago," a woman said. "I can't remember where I was Monday," Leno replied.

The comedian who did the opening act came back to say hello. He was a short, slender bespectacled young Canadian named Howard Busbang who strongly resembled Woody Allen, both in attitude and in the way his brow furrowed in circumflexes of worry.

"I don't know if you know this, but I used a joke about the Ford Probe that was a lot like yours," he said.

"Yeah," Leno replied. "I wondered why there was a little dead spot there."

"I'll cut it," Howard said. "No, that's all right. I'll cut mine," Leno said. "There's plenty of others. It doesn't matter."

On the ride back to the hotel, he slumped back in his seat. "It's rejuvenating," he said, though his body language suggested otherwise. The topic of joke-stealing came up. "I get ripped off. Everybody gets ripped off. There's nothing you can do about it. You just learn to write faster."

It was well past midnight. The car approached a fast-food joint called Fat Man's Pizza and Subs. "Ooh, my kind of place," Leno said. "Pull over here. Anybody want anything?" Getting hold of a good meal is such an improbability for Leno that he's learned to live on a junk diet — you can't perform on a full stomach, and by the time he's left the theater, the town or city is usually closed down for the night.

He went in for an order of chicken wings and, while waiting, munched on a pizza slice. Clearly, everyone was aghast that Jay Leno had showed up at this dumpy little joint; men in jeans and work outfits, or wearing house-painter's hats, cruising teens would carry their orders to their cars and look back incredulously. Inside, the teen-age cashier whose father owned the place asked if Leno would call her home to say hello. Leno did. The girl's mother probably suspected a crank. Leno's face took on that look of disbelief — that impassive click — which comes of having been hung up on.

Back in the car, he tasted the wings. "A bit too spicy when you're facing four hours sleep," he said. "But good." He let himself in the door of his hotel precariously balancing the box of wings, a large cup of soda and his clothing bag. It was close to 2 a.m. He'd be up for two more hours working on next week's "Tonight Show" monologue, which takes seven hours to prepare.

After an engagement in Warwick,

R.I., Leno flew home to do "The Tonight Show," where he hosted B.B. King, writer P.J. O'Rourke and Ally Sheedy, who was as self-consciously silly as a young teen-ager worrying about her first date (Leno took her hand protectively at the end of her segment). After the show, his manager, Helen Kushnak, sent him back to makeup for a haircut. He flew out of Los Angeles International Airport at 6 the next morning, bound for Wallingford, Conn., via Chicago and Hartford.

Dear Charlie:
 In case you haven't heard, the world's richest bridge tournament will be held May 7-10, 1990, at the Showboat Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City. The "Omar Sharif World Individual Championship" will have total prize money of $200,000, divided between a Championship and an Open event. I expect to be there and, if I play as well as I did in my last tournament, to be vying for the title—and the top prize.

This hand cropped up in the team event which we won. As so often happens, it was West's unusual no trump and East's reaction that blueprinted the hand for me. Since East did not take a minor-suit preference over the double, as he would have with unequal length, he was probably 2-2 in diamonds and clubs, leaving West with six diamonds and five clubs. To complete my count of the West hand, I ducked the first diamond, won the second and, after finessing the jack of spades, cashed the king of hearts, dropping the jack.

 I took care to cash the king and ace of clubs before leading a diamond from dummy. East could do no better than discard a spade, so I ruffed, cashed the ace of spades and exited with the ten. East took the king and returned a spade, and I discarded my club loser as the table's queen won. I now led the board's club and East, poor soul, was lost. East ruffed with the eight, but I underuffed to let him hold the trick. That forced a lead away from the queen of trumps into my combined K-10 tenace.

As ever,
 Omar

The Old Woman

By Shannon Lynn Hodges

The old woman faces the rapidly setting sun. The sky is flushed with pink, orange, purple, gray, yellow and blue. Slowly, the woman sits, favoring the coolness of the evening. Her thoughts reflect back to her childhood days, when her forehead, now wrinkled, was smooth and flawless, her dull blue eyes as spirited as the waves of the Atlantic Ocean.

A call from a neighbor brings her back to reality. The second woman is also retired, her hands torn from factory work. She sits opposite her life-long friend. For awhile they fall deep in conversation, but as time wears on they just sit silently, enjoying each others companionship.

With a farewell to her friend, the second woman trudges back to her small home. Behind her, the other woman looks at the land approvingly.

This land, the land of generations before her, provides her with the beauty of nature. When, in thought, she used to come here. She still does. The land is her friend. It holds her finest secrets that even her best friends will never know. The land will keep her secrets, cherish her tears and the generations after her.

Shannon Lynn Hodges, 14, a student at North Pitt High School wins this week's writing contest.

Christopher Columbus

By Brandon Dawson

I went with Columbus to discover America. Sometimes I got scared. When Christopher was going to discover America, he made us work while he was driving. I had to clean up the boat and clean out the wood worms. They were little worms that ate wood. I did not like the wood worms. We were glad that sharks came for us to eat and they were glad that Christopher caught them. I love Christopher Columbus because he was a special person.

My dad is in the army. He is in Germany now. We can't go with him but he will be home this summer. He takes care of the big army tanks. He has to work on them and keep them running. He also loads big guns on trucks and then he hands them out. I might join the army, too, when I grow up.

Greenville History

Beginning in 1774, the town of Martinsborough was established along the Tar River as the county seat or center of Pitt County government. Martinsborough was named after the royal state governor, Josiah Martin. Martinsborough was located almost in the center of Pitt County at latitude 35 degrees 36 minutes N and longitude 77 degrees 23 minutes W.

After the Americans won the Revolutionary War from Great Britain, the leaders of Martinsborough decided to change the name of the town since it had been named after a governor appointed by the king.

General Nathaniel Greene, a hero at the Guilford Courthouse battle, was chosen as the new namesake for the town. In 1786 Martinsborough became Greenville. Because General Greene had commanded a number of Pitt County men at the Guilford battle and because he was a hero, he was honored by having the city named after him. The city has had several spellings including Greenesville and Greensville but now Greenville is the accepted spelling.

For a period, Greenville was the only town in the county. On April 18, 1791 George Washington traveled through the town and was not impressed by the small village.

A census in 1850 showed a population of 1,893 people but in 1860 the population was just 828 people. Today's estimate of the city population is close to 50,000.

Greenville grew as a center for transporting goods on the Tar River and it became a center of education attracting students to the town. Pitt Academy was begun in 1786 and in 1830 the Greenville Female Academy was established. East Carolina Teachers Training School was chartered by the state General Assembly in 1907 and actually opened October 5, 1909.

Businesses begin to come into the area and included a cotton mill, lumber mills, an oil mill and a brick works. These provided jobs not directly in agriculture production. Today a variety of jobs are available to the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County.

Over the years Greenville has suffered several fires which destroyed major parts of the city. The early buildings were constructed of wood thus making it easy for fires to spread. In 1858, the county courthouse burned and most records were lost. The loss of those records is still missed even today.

Greenville itself is just over 17 square miles in size and is only one of several cities within Pitt County but when you speak of Greenville history you also must speak of the history of Pitt County. The two are so closely tied together.

New Twists To Traditional Fare

Spread Your Wings For A Thanksgiving Day Delight

By Trish Barr
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Thanksgiving cooks generally fall into two categories — the traditionalists and the experimenters. For the latter, holiday fare is based on an ever-changing theme. The former probably don't consider it a true family dinner unless Auntie's scalloped corn and Grandma's persimmon pudding are on the table, along with the turkey and dressing.

Perhaps columnist Leslie Land expresses the traditionalists' point of view best in her "Reading Between the Recipes:"

"Thanksgiving is largely a matter of stuffed turkey and cranberry sauce. For me, as for most folks I know, these ritual foods are so saturated with meaning that no more needs to be said. Now is no time for clever variations and brilliant new recipes. Using the old recipes is pretty close to the whole point. Once you know how to make a good bread stuffing, that's it, the flavor of Thanksgiving for the rest of your life."

If you fall into this category, as our family does, you probably already have your day planned. But since Thanksgiving only comes around once a year, we've put together a little reminders list, along with some of your family recipes for you to try if you're stumped for something new to add to the traditional fare. And for your experimenters, there is a microwave menu that will speed your holiday preparations.

Since the turkey has been the national symbol of the Thanksgiving feast for better than 100 years, it's our entree of choice. Not only is it the focal point of the holiday meal, leftover turkey can be a meal saver for many a busy cook.

Freeze the meat in serving-size freezer packages that can be pulled out in a minute's notice for quick sandwiches or satisfying casseroles.

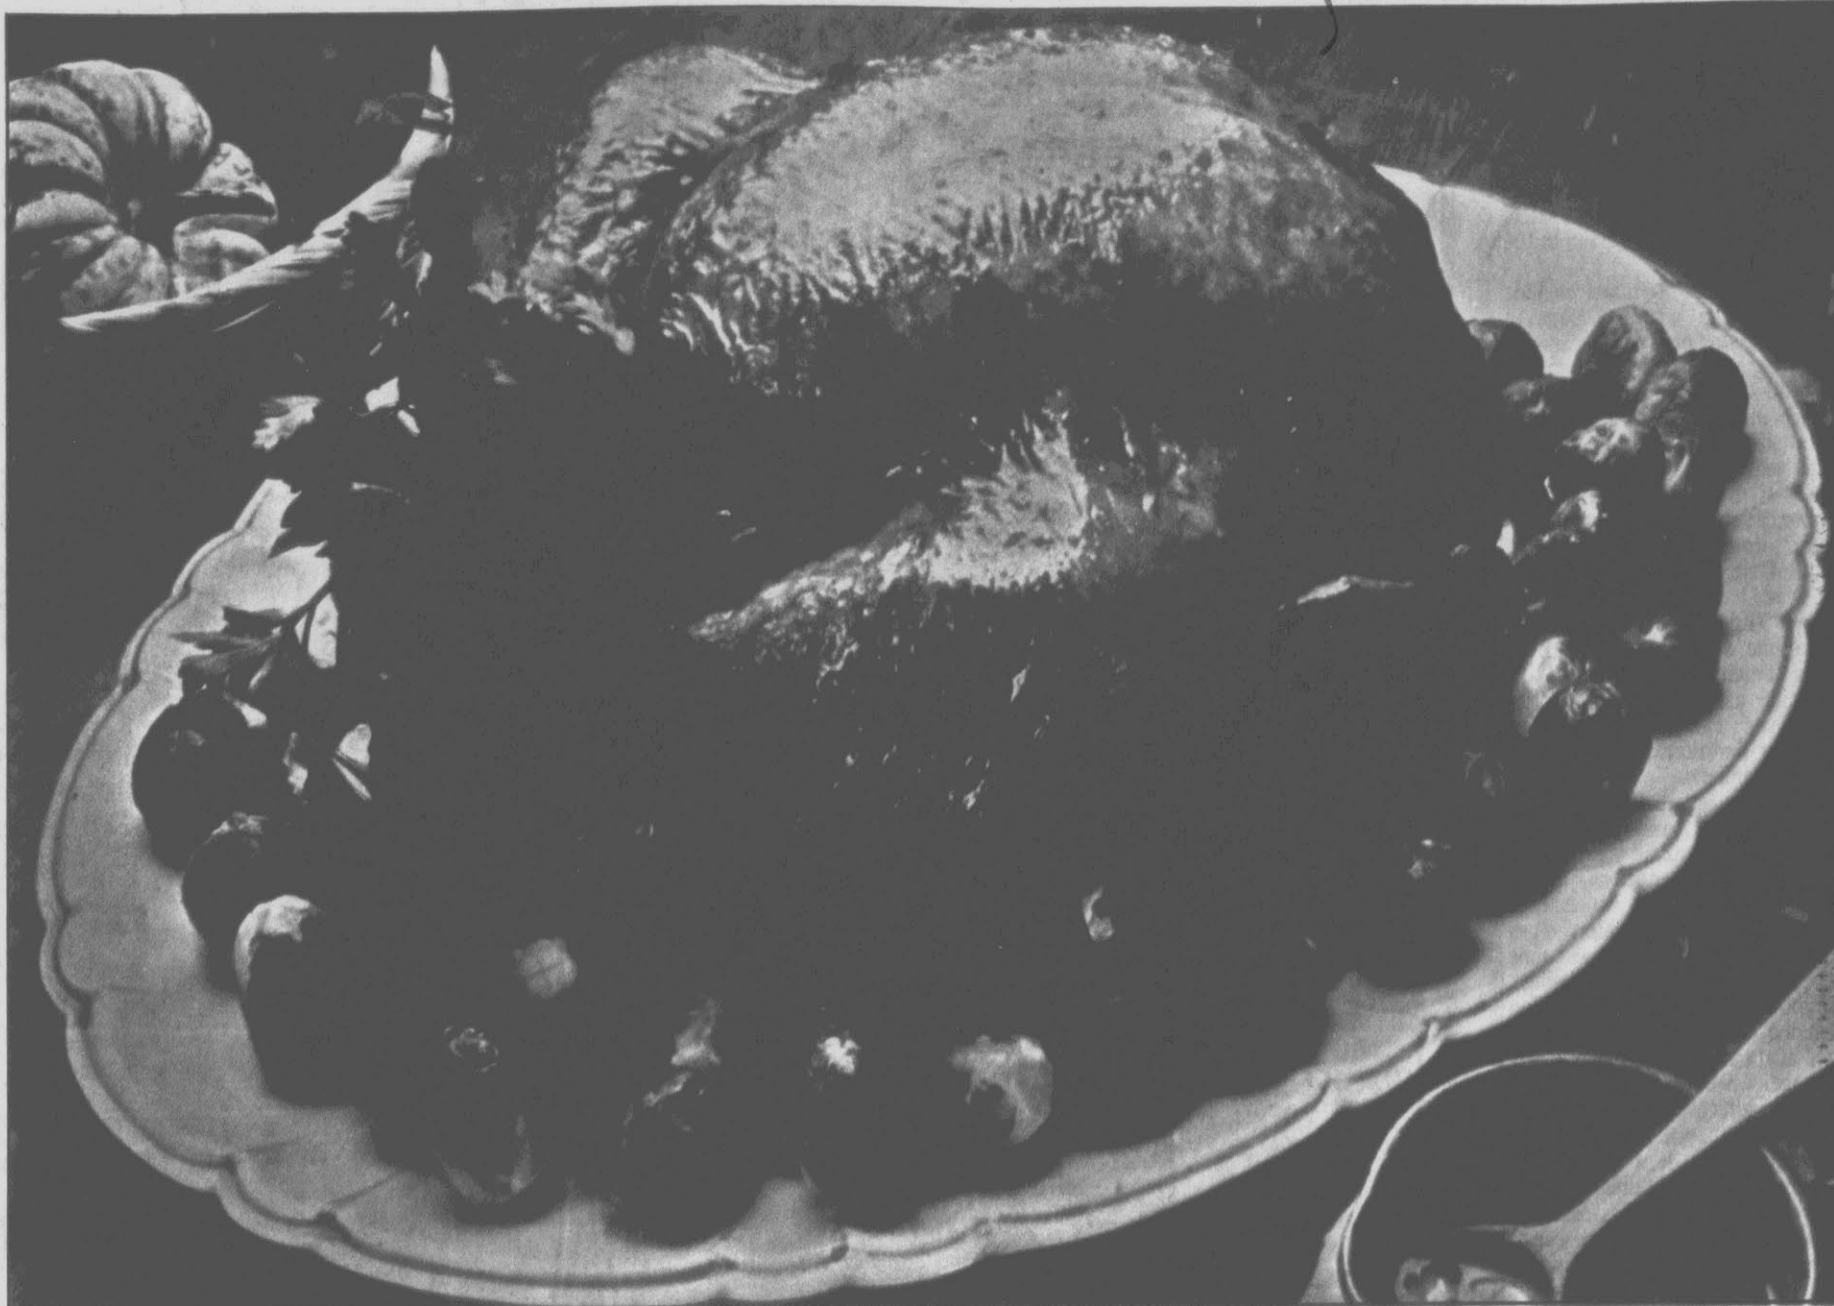

But that's after the fact. Here we're concerned with getting ready for the holiday, and the first thing to remember is to leave plenty of time to thaw the bird if you've bought the frozen variety.

Check package directions for thawing instructions and times. Remember one thing, frozen turkeys should never be thawed at room temperature or in warm water. Thaw either in the refrigerator for 1 to 3 days, in your microwave oven or in cold water for several hours.

On Thanksgiving, let the turkey come to room temperature. Plan to have it done 20 to 30 minutes ahead of serving time so you'll have time to make gravy, arrange the bird on a platter, etc. Start heating the oven to 325°. Wash and dry the bird and season to taste.

If you're stuffing it, don't overdo it or you'll be unhappy with the soggy results. Lightly stuff both neck cavity and interior. If there is dressing left over, bake it in a separate, greased dish.

Place the turkey, breast side up,

Copley News Service

The microwave oven can be a real boon to the traditional Thanksgiving turkey by cutting cooking time by more than 50 percent on a rack in a shallow open pan. Brush skin with butter or a little oil, but do not add any water.

Insert a roast-meat thermometer so that the bulb is in the center of the inside thigh muscle or thickest part of the breast meat. Be sure the bulb doesn't touch bone.

If desired, make a loose covering of foil over the bird. Or, do it the real old-fashioned way — cover with cheesecloth and baste through with butter every half hour. Also, you may want to wrap a piece of foil around the ends of each leg to prevent drying.

Roast the bird as directed on the wrapper. Or plan on between 15 and 20 minutes per pound. This is where a meat thermometer is essential if you want to be sure the bird is done as you like it.

When the turkey is about two-thirds done, loosen the legs to help shorten cooking time. When done, the drumstick should move easily and the fleshy part should feel soft when touched.

The meat thermometer should read between 180° and 190°, depending on your taste.

Tradition has it that Thanksgiving turkeys are roasted in the oven. But that tradition is only as old as the gas or electric range, descendant of the wood-burning stove. So why should it be non-traditional to cook a turkey by a newer method — the microwave?

And in this busy world where time is a prime consideration, the microwave can be a real boon to the cook in the preparation of what conventionally takes hours to prepare — the Thanksgiving dinner.

Cooking instructor Elena Adams ticks off several advantages to cooking a turkey in the microwave. First, and perhaps foremost, is the time element. A 12-pound turkey will take upward of 4½ hours in a conventional 325° oven. In the microwave, the same stuffed turkey would take around two hours, including standing time.

Then there's texture. There's no question microwaved turkeys are more tender and juicier than those cooked in a conventional oven. The white meat won't dry out before the dark meat is done, as can happen in conventional cooking.

And don't forget the benefit of defrosting the turkey in the microwave, which is faster and safer than doing so at room temperature, not a recommended practice.

Adams also is quick to point out the microwaved turkey's disadvantages, as she sees them. The house won't have that delicious turkey aroma that comes from several hours' cooking time in a conventional oven. And the skin, while it will brown in the microwave, won't get that crispy texture that is "so terrible for you, but tastes so good."

Finally, the microwave turkey cook must limit the size of the bird to between 12 and 14 pounds. Anything larger than that had best be prepared conventionally or, for those who have them, using a combination microwave/convection oven. It should be noted that smaller turkeys do not represent as good a value as larger ones, since the ratio of meat to carcass is smaller in the 12 pounders than in larger birds.

Adams recommends washing the thawed turkey well, both inside and out. She prefers to stuff her bird and then baste it with a special glaze of marmalade, honey and butter before and during cooking.

To cook, place the turkey breast-side down in a baking dish. Calculate total cooking time by allowing 9 to 12 minutes per pound. Divide total time in half. Microwave at HIGH for 10 minutes to start cooking quickly. Reduce power to MEDIUM-HIGH and microwave for the remainder of the first half of cooking time, basting with glaze (recipe follows) after the first seven minutes on MEDIUM-HIGH, and then with pan juices.

Turn the turkey breast-side up. Baste with pan juices. Shield areas that may be cooking too quickly, such as wing or leg tips with foil (it's OK to use foil in small amounts). Microwave for second half of cooking time, basting every 7 minutes, until leg moves freely and flesh feels soft when pressed. Another test for doneness is to cut the meat near the bone. Juices should run clear, and meat should no longer be pink.

For best results, insert a therмомeter (there are ones specially made for the microwave) in the meatiest part of the thigh and breast on both sides. After 1 minute, internal temperature should register 170°. If you microwave turkey with a temperature probe, hot fat may cause the probe to register done and shut off the oven before the cooking is completed. Move probe to another place and continue cooking.

When total cooking time has elapsed, remove turkey from oven and let it stand, tented with foil, 20 minutes to complete cooking. During standing, the internal temperature will equalize and rise to 180°. Baste a final time with glaze.

Adams warned that a mistake many cooks make is to continue cooking the turkey in the microwave until the internal temperature is 180°. Remember, she says, that the bird will continue to cook during standing time, and, if cooked too long in the microwave, will become too dry.

The microwave can be used to cook the remainder of your Thanksgiving feast, or you can divide the work between it and your conventional oven.

Accuracy Of Articles On Nutrition Varies

Q. What magazine should I read for good nutrition information? — Mrs. S.P., Greenville

A. There's no single magazine that I can recommend. Articles on nutrition vary a lot in their accuracy, even in the same magazine.

Part of the reason is that journalists, while excellent writers, sometimes have difficulty interpreting the research papers or press releases they receive and use.

The American Council on Science and Health regularly surveys popular lifestyle magazines for factual errors, significance and clarity.

This year, they reported that Consumer Reports and The Saturday Evening Post were "excellent." Those magazines that were "good" were Vogue, Redbook, Readers Digest, Parents, Good Housekeeping, Changing Times, Woman's Day, Modern Maturity, Seventeen and McCall's.

It surprises some people that Prevention rates only as "fair." That is because many articles don't use scientific facts.

The survey shows there is still room for improvement in nutrition reporting and that you as a consumer still can't believe everything you read. Read and consider.

There are a couple of newsletters

Kathy Kolasa

Ph.D., ECU Dept. Family Medicine that folks really interested in healthy lifestyle seem to like. One I like is the Berkeley Wellness Newsletter. It is a monthly newsletter of nutrition, fitness and stress management. It's well written for the interested consumer ($20/year, P.O. Box 420148, Palm Coast, Fla. 32412). It might make a good holiday present for the fitness-oriented person.

Many of our local dietitians just attended the American Dietetic Association meeting in Kansas City. It's a way they keep current.

If you are looking for a good book, several told me they were very pleased with Jane Brody's new book. She was a keynote speaker. I was working and couldn't attend her lecture, but my mom, super consumer, said she was great and very understandable.

Q. Can you give diet information for diverticular disease? M.G., Greenville

A. Diverticular disease can be very uncomfortable. It is difficult to advise you on foods not to eat since each of us has a uniquely individual gastrointestinal tract. You will need to talk with your doctor.

The severity of the diverticulosis will also cause variations in your diet. The general rule is that you must find the foods that cause problems and remove them from your diet.

The overall recommendations today are that you eat a high fiber diet containing coarse grains or whole-grain products and a good supply of fresh fruits and vegetables (3-4 servings of ½ cup each day).

By increasing fiber content, you may feel better. Drink lots of water to soften the fiber sufficiently for easy passage through your bowels, at least 6-8 glasses daily.

Foods often included in a high-fiber diet are: whole-grain breads and cereals; brown rice; fresh fruits; vegetables like broccoli, carrots, potatoes with skins, spinach, celery, cabbage and green beans, and legumes, such as kidney, baked and navy beans.

Be careful to add fiber into your diet slowly. If you try to increase fiber rapidly, you may have gas, bloating and other discomfort.

Some foods that commonly cause problems for people with diverticular disease are creams and whole-milk products; chocolate; refined bakery products like cakes and cookies; white rice; fried foods; high-fat meats, like bacon, bologna, duck and sausage; cheese; nuts and seeds, and fat consumption in excess of three teaspoons per day.

If you need specific help, ask your doctor to refer you to a registered dietitian who can help you with your diet concerns.

Columns Added To Food Section

You will notice a difference as you thumb through today's Food section in The Daily Reflector. New columns have been added to the weekly lineup, adding new dimensions to the section.

Vegetarian View will give readers an opportunity to plan meatless meals with a flair, while After Work Gourmet will speak to the needs of those who find themselves preparing dinner in a rush.

Microwave Magic will give cooks a good excuse to learn more about preparing special meals with that appliance.

A special addition to the section is just for children. Kitchen Kids will begin appearing weekly, with pointers and recipes designed just for the younger set and safety tips applicable to anyone.

All of these columns are authored by writers with the Copley News Service, one of the oldest organizations in journalism. Along with these new columns are various pieces of art and lots of color photography, which we will use to dress up the section as often as possible.

Of course, this will not change our desire to provide local items of interest, such as stories about local cooks, fruits and vegetables in season and trends in eating. It will add to our ability to offer such coverage by providing a ready source of art and ideas.

If you have an idea for a local food story, or know someone who would make an interesting profile for the section, send it to:

Vegetarian Cookbooks Make Great Gifts For Holidays

is available in any well-stocked health-food store. If you prefer, substitute tofu that has been cubed and marinated overnight in equal parts of tamari soy sauce and water to cover. Yields 4 to 6 servings.

AVELINE KUSHI'S BARLEY SALAD

- 1/4 cup dried shiitake mushrooms
- 1/2 cup diced onion
- 1/2 cup diced carrots
- 1/4 cup diced celery
- 4 cups cooked barley
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup cooked seitan, cubed

Tamari soy sauce-ginger dressing (see below)

Soak shiitake mushrooms in water until soft. Dice and cook 10 minutes in 1 teaspoon tamari soy sauce mixed with 1/2 cup water.

Place about an inch of water in pot and bring to boil. Add onion and blanch for about 10 seconds. Remove with slotted spoon and drain. Add carrots to boiling water and blanch for 1 minute, adding extra boiling water as needed. Remove with slotted spoon and drain. Next add celery to boiling water and blanch for 20 seconds. Remove and drain.

In salad bowl, combine cooked barley, onion, carrots, celery, shiitake, chopped parsley and seitan. Mix thoroughly. Spoon on just enough dressing to moisten.

This light and simple dressing contains no oil. For a saltier version use 1/2 cup water. For a milder sauce use two-thirds cup water. Yields 4 to 6 servings.

TAMARI SOY SAUCE GINGER DRESSING

- 1 tbsp. tamari soy sauce
- 1/2 tsp. finely grated fresh ginger
- 1/2 to 2/3 cup water
- Combine ingredients in small jar and shake well until well blended.

If you and your friends are like me, there never can be too many cookbooks on the shelf. It's so much fun to leaf through them, put a Post-It on pages containing the best recipes, and dream up delicious menus.

I am always delighted by the gift of a good new cookbook because good recipes inspire my own creativity, propelling me to break out of culinary ruts and try new things.

A delightful way to make the gift of a cookbook even more festive and bountiful is to pack it with a selection of ingredients called for in the recipes.

For example, you might include some colorfully wrapped bags of grains or beans or a few handsome jars of herbs and spices. A tour in any well-stocked health-food store will provide the appropriate inspiration.

This year my vegetarian cookbook collection has expanded with a number of volumes of interest.

For an exciting collection of healthful recipes with an imaginative twist, I turn to Annemarie Colbin's "The Natural Gourmet" (Ballantine, $19.95). Colbin's recipes have a contemporary feel, with such offerings as Asparagus Risotto, Black-Eyed Peas with Sun-Dried Tomatoes, and Black Bean Log with Fresh Coriander.

A small selection of fish recipes and an appealing dessert section are also included. An additional bonus is Colbin's use of the ancient Chinese Five-Phase Theory to demonstrate how the selection of certain recipes at a given time of year can enhance both physical and mental well-being.

If you know your friend to be a fan of quinoa — the ancient, high-protein grain of the Andes that has recently been rediscovered — then consider giving a gift of Rebecca Wood's "Quinoa, The Supergrain" (Japan Publications, $15.95).

After a lengthy introduction to the history and nutritional aspects of quinoa, Wood provides a wide range of recipes for its use, from breakfast waffles to corn chowder to salads, pilafs and breads. She even includes a recipe for Double Rich Chocolate Quinoa Cake.

For salad lovers and adventurous friends, a most unusual present might be Aveline Kushi's "Wonderful World of Salads" (Japan Publications, $15.95).

Because the book approaches salads from a macrobiotic viewpoint, the recipes have a Japanese tang and include such ingredients as sea vegetables, burdock root and umeboshi vinegar (made from salted umeboshi plum).

Because those who follow a macrobiotic diet avoid raw vegetables, most of the ingredients used are blanched or lightly pickled in salt brine before they are tossed into the salad.

A lengthy and beautifully illustrated section on garnishes — from lemon butterflies to scallion whisks and cucumber fans — makes this collection a particularly festive treat.

Although it originally was published in 1984, "Bean Banquets from Boston to Bombay" (Woodbridge, $9.95) has just come to my attention, and I am glad to have discovered it.

In this paperback volume, author Patricia Gregory provides 200 bean recipes divided into chapters of origin, including the United States, Latin America, India, Africa and the Middle East. This treasure trove for bean lovers includes hors d'oeuvres, soups, salads, main dishes and even desserts.

Here are a few dishes from these volumes to try before you hit the bookstores.

REBECCA WOOD'S QUINOA CORN CHOWDER

- 1/4 cup oil or unsalted butter
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 cups corn kernels
- 1/2 cup quinoa
- 4 cups vegetable stock
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 tsp. salt, or to taste
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup diced red bell pepper
- 2 tbsps. fresh dill or 1 tsp. dried
- Freshly ground black pepper to taste
- Garnish: Sprigs of fresh dill or parsley

Heat oil or butter in soup pot. Sauté onion and garlic for 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Add corn, quinoa, stock, bay leaf and salt. Bring to boil, cover and simmer for 30 minutes.

Stir in milk, red pepper, dill and black pepper. Simmer (but do not boil) an additional 5 minutes. Adjust seasonings. Garnish and serve.

Pasta Is Inexpensive, Nutritious, Quick And Versatile

By Melanie Barnard and Brooke Dojny
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

We will probably never run out of pasta recipes!
Good thing, we say, because pasta, in all its shapes and forms, is one of our very favorite foods. It is inexpensive, readily available, easily stored, nutritious, quick cooking, versatile and delicious.

After Work Gourmet

In short, pasta is terrific!
We love pasta with meat and fish, but some of our favorite classic sauces are completely meatless. Two that come immediately to mind are especially appropriate for today's busy lifestyle because, in each case, the sauce is made in less time than it takes to cook the pasta.

Spaghetti with Garlic and Anchovy Sauce is a lusty, heady mixture from the south of Italy and from the Sicily of Melanie's heritage. For her, this dish conjures up childhood memories of spaghetti glistening with the sauce, side platters of thickly sliced tomatoes sprinkled with basil, and crusty, sesame-seeded bread.

We know that anchovies are an acquired taste, but we think they are a taste worth acquiring. The sauce, however, is also excellent without them — just increase the garlic by one clove.
Classic Fettuccine Alfredo is credited to the Roman restaurateur of the same name. Admittedly rich and decadent, this is an incomparable special treat. Key to its success is the quality of Parmesan used. It is worth grating your own, and we especially like an inexpensive gadget called a Mouli grater, but a food processor does a fine job, too.

Tips
Dried pasta brands vary somewhat in their recommended cooking times. Follow package directions, but check the pasta after the minimum recommended cooking time.
In both of these recipes, fresh pasta can be used. One pound of fresh pasta is equal to about 12 ounces dried pasta. The cooking time will be much less depending upon the freshness of the pasta. Check after a minute or so for doneness.

Pasta that is cooked al dente should be firm to the bite, but not hard or chewy in the center.
Your pasta cooking water will come to the boil faster if it is unsalted. Add the salt to the rapidly boiling water a few seconds before adding the pasta.

SPAGHETTI WITH GARLIC AND ANCHOVY SAUCE

- 12 oz. thin spaghetti or vermicelli
- 7 tbsps. olive oil
- 4 tbsps. butter
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 9 anchovies, with their oil
- 1/2 tsp. coarse-ground black pepper
- 3 tbsps. minced parsley

Preparation and cooking time: 15 minutes.
Cook pasta in boiling, salted water for 6 to 8 minutes or until al dente. Drain well and return to cooking pot.
While pasta is cooking, heat oil, butter, garlic, anchovies and pepper in small saucepan. Mash anchovies against side of pan and simmer sauce over low heat for 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in parsley.
Toss hot sauce with hot pasta. Serve immediately. Yields 4 servings.

CLASSIC FETTUCCINE ALFREDO

- 12 oz. fettuccine
- 6 tbsps. butter, melted
- 3 oz. (3/4 cup) grated Parmesan cheese
- 2/3 cup heavy or whipping cream, warmed
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. coarse ground black pepper
- Pinch ground nutmeg

Preparation and cooking time: 15 minutes.
Cook fettuccine in large pot of boiling, salted water for about 8 minutes or until al dente. Drain well and return to cooking pot.
Toss butter with pasta, then add cheese, cream, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Toss until cheese is melted and pasta is evenly coated. Taste and add more salt and pepper, if desired. Serve immediately. Yields 4 servings.

Tips Will Help Brew Best Coffee

By Nancy Byal
BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS

With a history and mystique as romantic as that of wine, coffee represents America's favorite after-dinner beverage. These tips from coffee merchant Douglas Carpenter will help you brew a better cup every day. For special occasions, please your guests with one of our dessert coffee suggestions.

For Better Coffee
— Start with fresh coffee that's been stored in an airtight container in a cool, dry place.
— Match the grind of coffee to your coffee maker.

— Measure — don't guess — the amount of coffee. Doug recommends 2 level tablespoons (1 coffee measure) of coffee per 6 ounces (3/4 cup) of water.
— Use fresh, cold water. For best flavor, your coffee maker should heat the water to about 200 degrees F.

— Choose a coffee maker that passes water through the coffee just once.
— Serve brewed coffee immediately; never leave on a warmer more than 30 minutes. If it must wait, transfer to an insulated server after brewing.

— Keep your coffee maker clean. Oil buildup affects the flavor.
Special Coffees

— After tasting many types of coffee you can develop your own blend. Ask your coffee merchant to grind together beans of two or more coffees. Make up a small amount at a time, taste, and experiment until you have exactly what you want.
— Try a flavored coffee. Both regular and decaffeinated coffee are available with flavors such as hazelnut, vanilla and amaretto.

Dessert Coffees
In a cup or mug stir together 1/2 cup hot coffee and the desired flavoring. Dollop with whipped cream; sprinkle with ground cinnamon or nutmeg. Each drink makes one 6-ounce serving.

— Cafe Alexander: Stir 1 tablespoon creme de cacao and 1 tablespoon brandy into hot coffee.
— Cafe Benedictine: Stir 2 tablespoons Benedictine and 2 tablespoons light cream into hot coffee.
— Cafe Caribe: Stir 1 tablespoon coffee liqueur and 1 tablespoon rum into hot coffee.

— Cafe Colombian: Stir 2 tablespoons coffee liqueur and 1 tablespoon chocolate-flavored syrup into hot coffee.
— Cafe Dublin: Stir 1 tablespoon Irish whiskey and 2 teaspoons sugar into hot coffee.

Rum A Favorite Among The Holiday Spirits

By Desiree Vivea
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Rum is one of our favored spirits during the holidays. This distinctively mellow liquor distilled from sugarcane flavors rich cakes, desserts, fruit dishes — and, of course, it's a necessary ingredient in many spirited beverages at this time of year.

The rum that warms us during chilly winter holidays hails from warmer climes. Sunny Puerto Rico is the world's leading producer of rum, and it has been a major exporter since the 19th century. Over 85 percent of rum now sold in the United States comes from this island country.

Strict government standards require Puerto Rican rums to be aged and mellowed in oak casks: light rum for at least one year, and amber-colored "gold label" rums for a minimum of three years, before they can be shipped out of the country.

Even "dark" Puerto Rican rum is light bodied and smooth compared to the more pungent and full-bodied rums produced on other Caribbean islands — notably Jamaica.

The first commercially distilled spirit in the United States was New England rum, produced with molasses shipped in from the West Indies. In taste, it resembled present-day Jamaican rums, with their strong molasseslike flavor.

Hot Buttered Rum was a favorite beverage of early New Englanders, warming their spirits during the long winters in a new land. You can make a modern variation of this position in two minutes or less, with the help of your microwave.

Planning a holiday gathering? Here's an easy rum punch that will serve a crowd: In a large punch bowl combine a fifth of amber Puerto Rican or dark Jamaican rum, 2 cups pineapple juice, 1 cup orange juice, 1 cup granulated sugar, and the juice of eight limes. Add a sprinkle of Triple Sec, stir well, and serve over ice in small cups. Serves about 12.

Rum and coke is an old standby, and daiquiris are popular with some crowds.

Rum combines well with almost any mixer, so you can use it in party drinks and cocktails instead of other liquors, if you like.

Use light rum in place of gin or vodka in martinis, screwdrivers, or with tonic. Use dark (gold label) Puerto Rican rum in place of Scotch or blended whiskey with soda or in sours. Both are good over the rocks.

Save non-Puerto Rican (Jamaican and other strong, molasses-flavored) rums for use in punches.

Rum is also a favored liquor in holiday desserts. One chic rum-flavored dessert is the French "Bûche au Rhum," light-textured yeast cakes baked in round molds and soaked in a sugary rum syrup.

Rich, rum-soaked fruitcakes, and rum-flavored cookies and candies add a sweet touch to festive gatherings. And desserts drizzled with rum and set aflame at the table provide a spectacular finish to a gala holiday meal.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

Micro-Tip Of The Week
When microwaving cakes or breads, use graham cracker crumbs, gingersnap or chocolate cookie wafer crumbs, or cinnamon sugar, to coat the surface of the greased dish when item is to be turned out. This will add appealing color and flavor to the surface.

HOT BUTTERED RUM FOR ONE
1/4 cup dark rum
2 tps. light brown sugar, packed Water
Squeeze fresh lemon
1 pat butter
Dash ground nutmeg
1 (4-inch) stick cinnamon

Preparation time: 5 minutes.
Cooking time: 1 1/2 to 2 minutes.
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Combine rum and brown sugar in large, microwave-safe mug. Add enough water to fill two-thirds full. Microwave 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, or until mixture is very hot. Do not boil. Add a squeeze of fresh lemon and stir. Top with a pat of butter, sprinkle with a dash of ground nutmeg, and serve with a cinnamon stick for stirring. Serve immediately. Yields 1 serving.

CHOCOLATE-RUM TRUFFLES
1/2 oz. semisweet chocolate chips
2 tps. dark or light rum
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened

Preparation time: 15 to 20 minutes.

Crime Stoppers
If you have information on any crime committed in Pitt County, call Crime Stoppers, 758-7777. You do not have to identify yourself and can be paid for the information you supply.

Microwave Magic

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Combine chocolate chips and rum in small microwave-safe bowl. Microwave, uncovered, 30 seconds to 1 minute, or until chocolate chips are just melted (do not overcook). Beat in egg yolks, 1 at a time, then stir in butter until melted and thoroughly blended in. Add powdered sugar, blending thoroughly. Refrigerate until firm.

Scoop out chilled chocolate mixture with a teaspoon and roll into small balls between palms, then roll each in sifted cocoa, chocolate sprinkles, or chopped nuts, coating surface evenly. Store in tightly covered container in cool place. Yields about 20 truffles.

HOLIDAY FRUITCAKE

1 tsp. rum extract
1/2 tsp. vanilla
3/4 cup light brown sugar, packed

3/4 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. each salt, ground nutmeg and ground cloves
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans
1 cup candied red and green cherries
1 cup chopped candied pineapple
1/2 cup golden raisins
3 tps. crushed gingersnaps or graham crackers
Cheesecloth
1/4 cup dark rum

Preparation time: 20 to 30 minutes.
Cooking time: 13 to 17 minutes (plus 10 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: MEDIUM (50 percent power); HIGH (100 percent power).

In medium mixing bowl combine eggs, rum extract and vanilla extract; beat well. Add brown sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add flour, baking powder, salt and spices; beat until batter is smooth. Fold in nuts, candied fruit, and raisins. Set aside.

Generously butter 9-inch round microwave-safe ring mold. Sprinkle bottom and sides evenly with crushed gingersnaps or graham cracker crumbs. Turn batter into prepared pan, smoothing top with spatula. Microwave at MEDIUM setting 10 minutes, rotating dish 1/4 turn every 3 minutes. Change setting to HIGH and microwave 3 to 7 minutes longer, or until toothpick inserted in center of cake comes out clean. (Top may still appear moist, but will set with standing.) Let fruitcake stand on heatproof surface 10 minutes.

Run knife gently around inside edges of pan, and invert cake onto plate. Moisten cheesecloth with rum and wrap lightly around fruitcake. Drizzle any remaining rum over top. Place wrapped fruitcake in tin, or wrap tightly in plastic and refrigerate. Chill at least 24 hours, or up to 2 weeks, before serving. Serve with lightly sweetened whipped cream, if desired. Yields 8 to 12 servings.

Easy Recipes

Feature Lots Of Handwork

By Rena Coyle
COPELY NEWS SERVICE

It isn't always possible to plan in advance an activity to do with your youngsters. Sometimes, you just need to be able to reach in your cupboard and pull out what ingredients you need. Even at that, the number of ingredients you're going to be using should be kept to a minimum, especially for very young children.

Here are three very easy and fun recipes for young children to make. In fact, all the recipes can be made in nursery schools or day-care centers, as well as at home. There is plenty of hand work for your kids to do, such as rolling, mixing, tossing and blending.

Two of the recipes use a microwave to melt or heat the chocolate. Of course, heating it in the top of a double boiler also is just fine. My feeling is that when starting little ones in the kitchen, it is most important to get them busy mixing and rolling. Also by working with the microwave, it is less intimidating than working over the hot burner of the stove.

Keep in mind, though, that even when using microwaves, children should develop the habit of always putting on oven mitts when taking anything out of the oven. This is very important since food cooks so much faster in microwaves that we all tend to think that the dish isn't hot, but it very often is.

COCOA BALLS

- 3 tbsps. plus 1 teaspoon cocoa powder
- 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 2 tbsps. honey
- 1 tsp. butter
- 1/2 cup smooth peanut butter
- 1/2 cup dry milk powder

Utensils: Small mixing bowl, measuring cups and spoons, saucepan, mixing spoon, heat-proof surface, pie plate.

Put 1 teaspoon cocoa powder and cinnamon in small mixing bowl and toss together. Set bowl aside.

Put honey, butter and peanut butter in saucepan and place on stove and turn heat on medium-high. Bring to simmer and cook 3 to 4 minutes. Carefully remove pan and place on heat-proof surface.

Add remaining 3 tablespoons cocoa powder and milk powder. Toss together until all ingredients are well blended.

Pull off a piece of mixture about the size of a quarter. Roll with palms of your hands to shape into balls, then gently roll balls in cinnamon-cocoa powder mixture to coat. Set balls aside on pie plate until all mixture has been rolled and coated. Yields 12 balls.

CHOCOLATE STACKS

- 4 squares (4 oz.) semisweet chocolate
- 2 tbsps. butter
- 3 cups unsweetened cornflakes
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts

Utensils: Microwavable mixing bowl, measuring cups and spoons, mixing spoon, baking sheet, paper towels, tablespoon, spatula.

Dab paper towel with 1 tablespoon butter. Rub evenly over bottom of baking sheet. Set pan aside while you prepare stacks.

Place chocolate and remaining tablespoon butter in bowl. Place bowl in microwave and set timer on 45 seconds, turn machine on high power. When microwave turns off, put on oven mitts and pull bowl from oven.

Give mixture a stir with mixing spoon. If chocolate hasn't completely melted, put bowl back into microwave and turn on for another 20 seconds.

Once chocolate has melted, remove it from oven and add cornflakes and nuts. Gently toss cornflakes with chocolate until it completely coats all the flakes.

Using tablespoon, scoop out heaping spoonfuls and set them on baking sheet. Set pan aside until stacks firm up. Refrigerate if possible. Stacks will firm up in about 20 minutes.

Slide spatula underneath stacks and loosen them, then enjoy! Yields 12 stacks.

PEANUT BUTTER SQUARES

- 1 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 4 squares (4 oz.) semisweet chocolate
- 3 tbsps. crunchy peanut butter
- 1/4 cup chopped unsalted peanuts
- 3 cups Rice Krispies

Utensils: Microwavable mixing bowl, paper towels, measuring cups and spoons, oven mitts, mixing spoon, 8-inch square tin, utility knife, spatula.

Dab butter with paper towel and rub evenly over bottom of baking tin. Set tin aside while you make mixture.

Put chocolate squares and peanut butter in mixing bowl and put bowl in microwave oven. Set timer for 45 seconds and turn oven on high power. When oven turns off, put on oven mitts and pull out bowl.

Test chocolate with spoon, just to make sure it is all melted. If not, replace bowl inside microwave and set oven for 20 seconds on high power.

Continue this process until all chocolate has melted. This time will depend on how powerful the microwave oven is.

Add chopped peanuts and Rice Krispies to the chocolate mixture and stir gently until well blended.

Scoop mixture out of bowl and press into baking tin. Press evenly into sides and bottom of pan. Set pan in refrigerator and let it get firm, about 30 minutes. Then take the knife and cut mixture into 4 strips by 3 strips. Slide squares out of pan with spatula. Yields 12 squares.

New Ideas Will Add Spice To A Traditional Thanksgiving Meal

Salt and pepper to taste
2 cups milk
2 cups grated cheddar cheese
Paprika

Defrost broccoli on MEDIUM-LOW. Place broccoli in bottom of baking dish.

In bowl, combine butter, mushrooms and onion and heat uncovered on HIGH 5 minutes, stirring every 1 to 2 minutes. Remove and blend in flour, salt and pepper. Return to microwave and heat on HIGH for 4 minutes. Add milk slowly, stirring until the mixture is smooth. Heat on HIGH for 5 minutes, stirring one time.

Pour hot mushroom sauce over broccoli and sprinkle with cheese and paprika. Heat an additional 5 to 6 minutes on HIGH until cheese melts.

CRANBERRY-STUFFED SQUASH

2 (1-lb.) acorn squash
¾ cup fresh or frozen cranberries
3 tbsps. orange marmalade or 2 tbsps. concentrated frozen orange juice
3 tbsps. brown sugar
2 tbsps. butter
1 tsp. lemon juice

With fork, pierce whole squash on each side. Place on paper towel in microwave. Cook on HIGH for 12 to 15 minutes, or until fork tender, turning over after 5 minutes. Let stand for 5 to 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, in 1-quart casserole, combine remaining ingredients. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on HIGH for 3 to 5 minutes or until all berries have popped, stirring after 2 minutes.

Cut squash in half. Remove seeds and reserve for roasting, if desired. Place cut side up on a 12-inch microwave-safe platter. Spoon cranberry mixture into hollowed-out squash. Cover with waxed paper and cook on HIGH for 1 to 3 minutes.

Note: To prepare in advance, cook and refrigerate stuffed squash. Just before serving, cover with waxed paper and cook on HIGH for 3 to 5 minutes, or until bottom of plate under squash feels hot to the touch.

To double: Double all ingredients and cook squash on HIGH for 20 to 25 minutes, turning over and rearranging twice. Cook filling on HIGH for 4 to 8 minutes.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON DELIGHT

¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 (¼-oz.) envelope unflavored gelatin
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. ginger
¼ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. allspice
¾ cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1½ cups pumpkin
¼ cup sugar
1 (10-inch) pie shell, baked
Whipped cream

Blend together brown sugar, gelatin, cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger, cloves and allspice in 2-quart batter bowl. Stir in milk, egg yolks and pumpkin; mix well. Microwave on HIGH 5 to 6 minutes or until mixture is heated through and gelatin and sugar are dissolved, stirring twice. Refrigerate until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon.

Beat egg whites until almost stiff. Gradually add sugar and beat until sugar is dissolved. Fold pumpkin mixture into baked pie shell and refrigerate 3 to 4 hours, or until firm. Top with whipped cream.

And now for some of my family's traditional. That, to those of you not from southern Indiana, means the side dishes that "go with" that big, beautifully roasted bird.

BUTTERY OYSTER STUFFING

1½ cups finely diced celery
7 cups day-old bread crumbs or ½-inch squares, lightly packed
½ tsp. poultry seasoning
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ cup minced onion
½ to 1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped, drained, shucked raw oysters, reserving liquid

Simmer celery in boiling water, covered, 15 to 20 minutes or until tender. Drain. In large bowl, combine bread crumbs with poultry seasoning, salt and pepper.

Slowly cook onion in butter till tender but not brown. Add onion (with butter), celery, oysters and ½ cup reserved oyster liquor to crumbs. This recipe stuffs neck and body cavity of 10- to 12-pound bird. Double the recipe for a larger bird.

Note: If the family absolutely rebels at oysters, leave them and the oyster liquid out and replace with ½ cup water from the celery boil.

COOKED CRANBERRY SALAD

2 cups cranberries
2 cups sugar
2 tbsps. water
1 pkg. lemon Jell-O
1 cup boiling water
1 cup celery
1 cup grapes, seeded and halved
¼ scant tsp. salt
1 cup chopped nuts (optional)

Bring berries, sugar and 2 tablespoons water to boil, cook 5 minutes and crush. Set aside. Mix lemon Jell-O and 1 cup boiling water and let stand until thickens. Add cranberry mixture. Add remaining ingredients and chill until firm.

ORANGE-GLAZED SWEET POTATOES

6 medium sweet potatoes
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
¼ tsp. salt

Boil sweet potatoes in their jackets 30 to 35 minutes or until tender. In separate saucepan, combine sugars and cornstarch. Add remaining ingredients, except potatoes, and cook over low heat, stirring, until sugars dissolve. Simmer until transparent and thickened, about 3 minutes. Peel sweet potatoes, halve lengthwise and place in serving dish. Spoon glaze over potatoes and serve. This dish can be made ahead and reheated in oven or on top of stove. Yield: 6 servings

MASHED POTATO CASSEROLE

10 medium-size potatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
8 oz. cream cheese
½ cup or more sour cream
Green part of 4 green onions, chopped
Melted butter

Wash, peel and boil potatoes as you would for mashed potatoes. Mash with salt and pepper; add cream cheese and enough sour cream to give a thick, creamy consistency. Mix in onion. Spoon into buttered casserole and dribble with melted butter. Bake 45 minutes at 325° to 350°.

Note: This can be prepared a day in advance and refrigerated. Allow to come to room temperature before baking. Timing is fine since the turkey should rest outside the oven a half-hour or more before the carving begins.

CHEESE-SCALLOPED CORN

1 (16-oz.) can cream-style corn
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup chopped ripe olives
½ cup grated cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper
¼ cup bread crumbs

Butter or margarine

In ungreased, 1-quart casserole, mix corn, eggs, olives, cheese, salt and pepper. Sprinkle with bread crumbs; dot with butter. Bake uncovered 35 minutes. Recipe can be doubled, using larger casserole.

PECAN PIE

Unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
3 eggs
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup sugar
2 tbsps. margarine, melted
1 tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup pecans

Beat eggs slightly. Mix in next 5 ingredients, then nuts. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in 400° oven 15 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350° and continue baking 30-35 minutes. Filling should be slightly less in center than around edge.

PERSIMMON PUDDING

1 cup persimmon pulp
1 cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tbsps. melted butter
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. each of nutmeg, allspice, cinnamon

Mix all ingredients and pour into greased square pan. Bake at 350° for 40 minutes.
