City Council Beefs Up Its Security

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Along with an unusually large crowd, the Greenville City Council drew a beefed up police security force to Thursday's regular business meeting.

A sergeant at arms generally stands guard over each council meeting. Thursday night the sergeant at arms had the company of three other uniformed officers inside the council chambers.

"It was nothing other than to assist the overflow crowd," interim City Manager Ron Kimble said. He admitted the recent firing of Greg Knowles from his position as city manager led the city to expect a larger-than-usual crowd.

In a move before Thursday's meeting, the council also passed a resolution to not consider any items other than those presented on the agenda.

The third floor council room was filled to capacity. Included in the turnout was a large group of residents interested in a scheduled rezoning request.

Kimble said there were no threats of violence surrounding the meeting, and the additional officers were present to provide assistance as much as protection.

Mayor Ed Carter also said there were no concerns of violence or heated outcry over Knowles' firing at Thursday's meeting.

Chamber Blasts Leadership Rift

Notes 'Lack Of Confidence'

By Jerry Raynor
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

The board of directors of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce says the City Council's firing of Greg Knowles as city manager "is an illustration of a growing division in Greenville's governmental leadership."

The chamber's board said in a statement released today. "The timing of this event is causing a lack of confidence in that leadership and does not lend itself to a positive and progressive image for our city."

Chris McCoy, chairman of the chamber board, was to deliver the statement during a press conference this afternoon.

Chamber President Ed Walker said the statement was to be read at Thursday's council's meeting but the council voted in a workshop session prior to the regular meeting not to consider any item unless it was on the business agenda.

"There has been a team effort for many years to promote Greenville and Pitt County as an excellent place to live and do business," the board said. The statement noted governmental, educational and other groups and agencies which have been involved in the effort.

"Together we have done great things," the board said. "Greenville on this occasion, however is suffering a major setback in its progress. In the chamber's opinion the public was not adequately prepared for such drastic action on the city manager issue."

Kimble Named Manager

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

In a closed session before Thursday's regular meeting, the Greenville City Council took less than five minutes to appoint Ron Kimble as interim city manager.

Kimble, now serving as assistant city manager, will hold the interim position until the newly elected City Council appoints a permanent replacement for Greg Knowles who was fired Monday.

Council member and mayor-elect Nancy Jenkins said the new council will probably look to replace Knowles sometime after the first of the year.

In a four to three decision Monday night, the council voted following three hours of closed discussion to fire Knowles.

Kimble said today he will continue with the city business until Knowles' replacement is appointed.

"I think it's imperative that we try to do the best to deliver quality service to our residents," Kimble said. "The worst thing you can do during Violent storms caused widespread wind damage and flooding in the Northeast and claimed at least 11 lives, including seven children killed when a wall collapsed on them as they ate in their upstate New York school cafeteria.

Thursday's storms came from the system that spun off tornadoes in eight states in the South and Midwest on Wednesday. The two-day toll: at least 29 dead and hundreds injured, including 17 dead and 1,000 homeless in Huntsville, Ala., and a death in Canada.

President Bush today issued a disaster declaration for tornado victims in Huntsville, making the city eligible for federal relief programs, said Gov. Guy Hunt's press secretary, Terry Abbott.

Hadden Defends Knowles' Conduct As City Manager

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

A second Greenville City Council member has come out publicly over the recent firing of City Manager Greg Knowles.

In response to charges of impropriety brought Wednesday by Council member Lorraine Shinn as reasons for Knowles' dismissal, the Rev. William Hadden today spoke in support of the ousted manager.

Hadden called Ms. Shinn's charges "one person's diatribe against a person, Mr. Greg Knowles."

Monday the council spent three hours in closed session before voting 4-3 to fire Knowles. Hadden voted with Mayor-elect Nancy Jenkins and council member Inez Fridley to retain Knowles as city manager. Mayor Ed Carter, Ms. Shinn and members Rufus Huggins and Mildred Council voted to remove Knowles.

In a press conference today at 11 a.m., Hadden listed "the facts as I perceive them" in defense of Knowles.

"I would like to go into detail on the whole twenty items in (Ms. Shinn's) complaint, but will take time to respond only on the most damaging of her complaints."

Hadden took issue with Ms. Shinn's accusations of poor financial handling under Knowles.

He said money given to outside agencies by the city was approved with the full knowledge and consent of the council.

He also disputed Ms. Shinn's charges of Knowles approving a vacation day in Florida for five city employees. Hadden said the employees took an extra day at Disney World at their own expense and without Knowles consent.

The council member also said the full board, including Ms. Shinn, approved the purchase of a mini-bus, which she objected to Wednesday.

Hadden said he objected to Ms.

USAir Meeting Schedule Here, Turcotte Says

By Frances Horton Arrington
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

An official at Pitt-Greenville Airport says USAir has met its scheduled flights here exceptionally well, despite recent reports of poor on-time performance by the airline in other North Carolina cities.

"I'm miffed by it," Jim Turcotte, airport manager, said today of an Associated Press report detailing the airline's problems.

"I understand there have been some internal problems since the merger. All I can say is that we're going like gangbusters here."

USAir bought Piedmont, the Winston-Salem-based airline, in 1987. Soon afterwards, Piedmont's on-time performance dropped from one of the best in the industry to one of the worst, according to the Associated Press report.

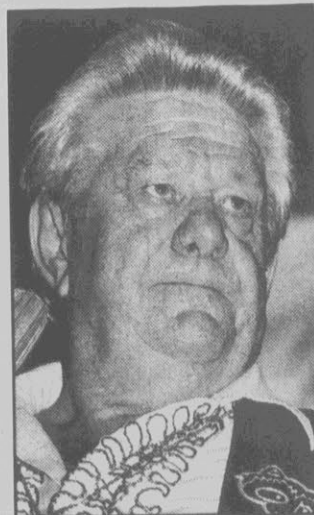

By August, only 62.6 percent of USAir flights arrived within 15 minutes of schedule, according to U.S. Department of Transportation statistics. The merged airline had the worst record for delayed flights among the 12 major carriers for which statistics are kept.

Turcotte said the merger of the two airlines caused no major changes in flight schedules at Pitt-Greenville Airport. USAir currently operates nine daily departures from the local airport to Charlotte and two to Raleigh/Durham.

"When the merger occurred, our service didn't change at all. The Piedmont commuter we used was USAir Express — all they did was change the name," Turcotte said from his office this morning. "In the beginning, the hours changed a little for some flights, but that's all running smoothly now."

Turcotte said recent USAir flights at Pitt-Greenville Airport have met

ECU Officers Turn To TV For Training

By Charles Hoskinson
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

For the past month, East Carolina University police officers have been watching television more often.

They're watching programs such as "Drug Crackdown," "Street Beat" and "The Roll Call."

These programs aren't the usual police shows — they're part of the Law Enforcement Television Network, a satellite network that airs training and information programs to law enforcement agencies throughout the United States.

Security on the network is tight. The programs are only available to authorized law-enforcement agencies, which get special equipment to decode the satellite transmissions.

The network's programs deal with new police techniques, recent court cases, survival tips and investigations. A recent episode of "Street Beat" covered the involvement of Satanic cults in crime, giving tips to help police officers recognize when cults are active in their communities.

"This is stuff that these officers may never see unless they run across it by accident," Lt. Keith Knox said. Knox, ECU Public Safety's crime-prevention officer, said the department is developing a training program to take advantage of what the network offers.

The ECU Department of Public Safety is the fifth law enforcement agency in North Carolina to subscribe to LETN, which is produced by Wescott Communications, a Dallas, Texas-based company. The Wilson Police Department is one of the agencies that use the programs.

The network came to ECU after Knox read about it in a law-enforcement magazine and wrote away for an application, he said. Its programs quickly became a hit with the 29 ECU police officers, he said. "The officers that have had the opportunity to actually view it have said it was the best thing in training that they've done."

The network provides the latest in police training at a very low cost, ECU Director of Public Safety James DePuy said. The total cost to the university is less than $5,000 a year, he said.

"It's very, very cost-effective," he said. "To bring in trainers and set up classes and schedule overtime, it'd cost me twice as much."

But it's not just watching television, DePuy said. The network provides mail-in exams for officers to take after viewing the training programs. The completed tests are graded by LETN and become part of the officers' personnel file, he said. They can also receive credit for their work through the Southern Police Institute of the University of Louisville.

"There's legitimate certifications that can be had through this system," he said.

DePuy said he is especially pleased with the programs aimed at managers, because it keeps them on the job while they learn. "The best minds in our business in the country are on there every day," he said. "If I was to send a manager to get this training, he'd be away for three months."

"It's a great thing. I think some other professions are going to be looking at this, too," DePuy said.

Ahlers said the station raised the funds by selling six-packs of Coke and Diet Coke, donated by Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Greenville, at The Plaza mall.

According to Ahlers, the station sold 250 cases of the soft drinks in six and a half hours.

Connie Sappenfield, coordinator of Greenville-Pitt County Special

Rezoning Request Stirs Public

By J. Ward Best
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

The recent controversy surrounding the firing of City Manager Greg Knowles took a back seat to the normal operations of the city government during Thursday's Greenville City Council meeting.

The most heated debate came not from the council, but from the audience, regarding a five-part request from David A. Evans Sr. to rezone nearly 193 acres east of Lynndale subdivision along Red Banks Road and the extension of Arlington Boulevard.

All but one of the five rezoning segments which would allow for medium to high density residential, office and institutional and commercial development of the property were approved by the council.

The board struck down one of Evans' petitions to add 24.26 acres of commercial development along the Arlington Boulevard extension near the proposed Bells Fork intersection. It did approve his request to rezone one-five acre tract for commercial development along Red Banks Road.

Evans won approval for rezoning 168.55 acres on four of the five tracts originally plotted for residential and agricultural uses. The board voted to rezone 15.99 acres for office and institutional use, which would allow construction of residential, business and professional office uses. More than 61 acres were approved for R-9S rezoning, which allows residential development with a minimum lot size of 9,000 square feet.

The largest tract, 77.1 acres, was approved for high density residential development, R-6, which requires a minimum lot size of 6,000 square feet. Nearly nine acres gained approval for R-15S — single family development — bordering the Lynndale subdivisions.

Approximately 50 residents of Lynndale and Lynndale Townes turned out for the meeting to ask that the council consider not just the rezoning, but also the potential for increased traffic through their neighborhoods on Martinsborough Road.

Dr. Jerry Crawford, a Martinsborough Road resident, asked the council to consider the noise pollution and potential hazards of allowing the developer to open Martinsborough Road as a link between Tar and Red Banks roads.

Crawford said the controversy over extending the road had been "raised, discarded, ignored and sidestepped on numerous occasions." He said he wanted a commitment from the council to assure the safety of the neighborhoods.

Crawford's comments drew scattered applause from the audience.

"We have several sketches of this property," Evans told the council and the audience. "Some have Martinsborough Road (extended) and some do not," he said. Evans also said he would like some indication from the city about its feelings on opening up a potential shortcut through the area.

Along with granting parts of the Evans request, the council also asked him to meet with residents of the affected area and the city's development department to work a compromise on the future of Martinsborough Road.

Evans' request was one of a series of petitions for zoning ordinance amendments which occupied the bulk of the council's attention at the meeting.

The council also approved a rezoning request for a 1.47-acre tract along N.C. 11 where the East Carolina Stockyard now sits. Earlier this year, after a number of dead pigs were found on the property, the council amortized the stockyard out of business after three years. The owners sought and won approval to rezone the land for highway commercial development.

Store Robbed Twice In 9 Hours

The Pantry convenience store at 501 N. Memorial Drive was robbed twice within nine hours, with sweat-shirts and baseball caps taken both times, Greenville police reports show.

Officer Alexander Batts said the first robbery occurred at 7:56 p.m. Thursday. Twelve Washington Redskins sweatshirts and two skull and crossbones white sweatshirts were taken, along with an undetermined number of baseball caps and two artificial roses. The total value was assessed at approximately $265.

Then at 4:35 a.m. today, a clerk told Officer K.L. Jones, five cars stopped at the store at the same time, with 13 or 14 black men entering the store simultaneously. The group knocked things around and talked abusively to her, she said. She said that, in the process, one Washington Redskins sweatshirt and three gold East Carolina University baseball hats were taken. She gave a description of all the cars and of several of the men.

According to Officer J.W. Corbett, two Pitt County men were arrested at the corner of 10th and Washington streets at 3:45 p.m. Thursday and charged with having stolen two ribeye steaks from the Shop-Eze Foodland grocery store at West End Shopping Center. Arrested were Victor Gorham III, 34, of Route 1, Fountain, and Jerome Gorham, 27, of Falkland. A car registered to Mamie Gorham was confiscated by authorities. Value of the two steaks was reported at $12.62.

Officer J.L. Moody said Brenda Faye Moye, 34, of 904 Bancroft Ave. was arrested at Big Lots Department Store at Buyer's Market Shopping Center at 7:20 p.m. She was charged with having taken $84.86 worth of merchandise out of the store without paying for it.

According to Officer A.G. Lloyd, an automobile pulled away from a gasoline pump at The Pantry on Evans Street with the nozzle still in the car's gas tank. About $10 worth of gas was taken without paying and $150 damage was done to the gas pump.

Officer E.L. Butts reported a breaking and entering at 204 Josie Lane in Colonial Mobile Home Park. He said the homeowner reported that $1,385 worth of items were taken. Damage to the forced-open front door was estimated at $50.

A shotgun was reported stolen from a home at 432A Bonner's Lane at 3:32 p.m. About $40 damage was reported to a window. The gun's value was estimated at $30.

A coat valued at $300 was reported taken from a car parked on Pearl Drive at 5:10 p.m., Officer Ralph Mendenhall said.

Officer Alexander Batts reported that some $400 worth of money and tools were reported stolen during a breaking and entering at Carver Library at 618 W. 14th Street, discovered at 6:49 p.m. Thursday.

Rubbish

A Chance For Regional Leadership

First in trash isn't exactly like "First In Freedom." It's doesn't quite have the same appeal on a license plate.

But for Pitt County, being first in trash collection and recycling is a distinction that can be useful.

Pitt County has efficient trash collection and progressive recycling. Rubbish is one of the spoils of urban life, and the county's leaders correctly anticipated the problems it creates.

Other eastern counties have not come that far. Their catch-up will be expensive. It could drain important dollars from already lean county coffers.

This week leaders from eastern North Carolina met in Greenville for trash symposium to talk about a regional effort to manage solid waste. Ideas like regional trash collection and landfills were discussed. Limited space, limited funds and stricter regulations make them good alternatives to expensive individual waste systems. The issue should be explored.

Since Pitt has a record of good waste management, and since it will need a new landfill in less than five years, the county could take a leadership role in a regional trash project. That involvement could have sound economic and environmental benefits.

Pitt knows that any waste disposal project should protect the region's natural resources. It knows that a location for a regional landfill or incinerator should be chosen through science and technology, not through politics. It also knows that sound waste technology is expensive, but that the cost of spoiling the air, water and soil is much steeper.

It can, and should, share this perspective with the region.

Pitt also knows the value of recycling. If eastern North Carolina moves to a regional waste system, Pitt should take the lead in developing an aggressive regional recycling program.

Not only is recycling aesthetically appealing, it makes good economic sense. In 1988, Pitt County taxpayers paid $1.13 million to dispose of their trash properly. But through recycling, they saved $120,000. As technology drives the cost of landfilling higher and higher, the amount saved by recycling also grows. It's a thrifty way to handle garbage, and should be a strong part of any regional waste disposal system.

Trash may be the most unglamorous problem of the 1990s. But it is one that must be properly solved. Pitt County knows how, and it can share that expertise with the region.

Too Many Peacetime Casualties

The United States Navy has done what it should — paused in its normal operations to check its safety procedures.

Naval commanders drastically reduced their operations this week for a 48-hour safety check. The move follows a series of Naval mishaps which seem unrelated and are baffling the Naval command.

A Navy F-14 jet fighter crashed in the Gulf of Mexico. A fire erupted on an amphibious assault ship USS Inchon in Norfolk injuring 31. A training jet crashed into an aircraft carrier off Florida killing five. Sailors were washed overboard on two different aircraft carriers. A ship was accidentally bombed by a Navy pilot in the Indian Ocean.

There's more. The destroyer USS Kinkaid and a freighter collided in the Malacca Strait 240 miles northwest of Singapore. An explosion on the USS Iowa killed 27 sailors.

Between Jan. 1 and Nov. 1 the Navy had counted 101 "operating and training related" fatalities. That's an astounding peacetime casualty list.

War is dangerous and training for war is also dangerous. But the year 1989 has been disastrous for the U.S. Navy. There have been too many incidents and too many deaths and injuries.

The order to halt most operations and review safety procedures was timely. A Navy that can't fight safely can neither deter war nor win battles.

What Gives Carter The Right?

To the editor:
As a citizen of Greenville, I am outraged by the actions of the outgoing City Council. For Mr. Carter to cast the deciding vote to fire Greg Knowles as City Manager is nothing but small town petty politics and post-election sour grapes.

What a cowardly act! They didn't have the guts to do it before the election. They waited until they were assured of another two-year term in office. However, Mr. Carter did not receive a vote of confidence from the citizens of Greenville. The people voted for new leadership. So what gives him the right to cast the deciding vote to fire our city manager?

Greenville has been deprived of an outstanding administrator and a dedicated public servant. Once again, city affairs are cast into chaos. I implore Mrs. Jenkins and the new city council, as its first official act, to rehire Greg Knowles as City Manager. Do not let this injustice go unchallenged. If the City Council doesn't start demonstrating some professional judgment and standards of conduct, no professional city manager in his right mind will even apply for the job. The citizens of Greenville deserve good city government, not petty foolishness.

No More Japanese Goods

To the editor:
On Dec. 7, 1941, the people of Japan did bomb, strafe and kill, wound our soldiers people in Hawaii. They did great damage. It took thousands of lives, billions of dollars to defeat them. They were going to ride a white horse down Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, D.C.

That white horse is dead, but their idea is not. They are coming not with one horse but a troop of cavalry. We fought them and won, but now they have allies — the Yen and good old American dollars. They are buying up everything they can and we are allowing them.

England sent over tea and we threw it in the bay and then threw out the English. We should throw out the goods of the Japanese.

Our elected officials in Washington, D.C., sit there and try to figure out how to get a raise. Sit there and you will get it, but it will be paid off in Yen. Maybe that is what you deserve.

Rome is burning and you in Washington, D.C., do not even have a bow for your fiddle. Sometimes I question if you are aware of what is going on.

You the people only think of yourselves and buy Japanese goods and sell your country for a few Yen. Japan is not our friend, she is using us. Good jobs — not these $4 to $5 and hour ones — are going.

Cut off the oil, wood and paper. Japan would die.

Knowles Not Interested In Cuts

To the editor:
As for me, I think Mr. Greg Knowles, Greenville's past city manager, has demonstrated time and time again that he is not interested in cutting any of the fat out of our city budget.

To the contrary, he has added $4 a day to city employees allowance who are away on city business for them to use to buy cigarettes, cold drinks, nabs or whatever. He added that onto a daily per diem that is already too high.

How about the city employees who work daily in the city? Aren't their daily expenses just as high?

Sometimes History Doubles Back

WASHINGTON — In network babble, "history" occurs when live pictures are available. Thus, the breaching of the Berlin Wall, was history — an historic occasion, we were told time and time again. If by history the networks mean something new, the term may be inappropriate. What troubles much of Europe is a return to something old.

That something is nationalism. Since the French Revolution, it has been the curse of Europe — a powerful emotional force that, in a sense, lifted Napoleon on its shoulders and carried him to Moscow. Nationalism was a cause of World War I and, many would argue, of World War II also. In its dotage, the Soviet empire can be credited with at least one achievement: For years, it had put its boot on the neck of nationalism in Eastern Europe.

But what happens now? No one knows. That uncertainty, coupled with an innate caution, accounts for why the White House greeted the new East German travel policy like a man giving a perfunctory toast to someone promoted over him. Appropriate things were said, but the mood was solemn. Powerful forces have been unleashed. George Bush, as much as the man in the street, must think he is the captive of events.

When it comes to history, it's appropriate that the Berlin Wall became a sieve on the eve of an important anniversary: the Nov. 11, 1918, end of World War I. In theory, that calamity should never have happened. Among others, communists and socialists believed that the workers of Germany would never fight the workers of France or Russia. Why should they? Why should the exploited fight in behalf of a monarchy — lose their lives to defend the nobility, the propertied, the capitalist. Theory met reality in the trenches. In the name of nationalism, workers killed workers by the millions.

Does that reality still prevail? We don't know. In a sense, the Soviet empire put history on freeze. All sorts of nationalisms were contained and a greater cause was proclaimed: communism. But it was repression and terror, not solidarity between workers, that kept Ukrainians, Estonians, Latvians, Lithuanians and countless others in their place. It was Soviet force that settled all sorts of border questions in Eastern and Central Europe. The real challenge is not just to communism but to the Russian empire — assembled first by the czars and then extended by Stalin. Armenia, Georgia and, indeed, the Ukraine are not Soviet republics by virtue of Stalin's imperialism; the czars did that work for him. Stalin merely changed flags — the hammer and sickle instead of the czarist eagle. To oppressed peoples, the difference was without much distinction.

Richard

The collapse, disintegration or, even, contraction of a mighty empire is a momentous event. Nations, like nature, abhor a vacuum. Something will rush in to fill the empty space. For that reason, George Bush and his advisers are awed by the rush of events. How will the Lithuanians react to events in Germany? What will happen in Latvia and feisty, little Estonia? Will the Soviet Union's 50 million Muslims embark on an Islamic revival and, if so, what will that mean?

How will the Poles react to the possible reunification of Germany? More importantly, how will Moscow react? Indeed, can it even stop reunification from proceeding?

The President and his advisers are hardly unschooled in history. They see it bearing down on them. The stakes are enormous. They include, most importantly, the fate of Mikhail Gorbachev and his reform movement. Should events really spin out of control, should Gorbachev become the victim of a reactionary coup, then world peace would be in peril. An aging empire, like an old elephant, is an irritable beast.

The Bush administration has been criticized for its caution and, indeed, it sometimes seems that it doesn't know the difference between prudence and paralysis. Confusion and conflict within the administration has tended to make the President seem unsure and hesitant. But aside from increasing aid to Poland and Hungary or being quicker to embrace Gorbachev, it's hard to know precisely what the President should do. In the face of the political convulsion in Eastern Europe, patience may be the ultimate virtue. The term "history" has been much taken in vain recently. Some intellectuals say it has ended while, on television, it is proclaimed to coincide with the hurried arrival of anchor-men.

But history is also the unseen but powerful movement of economic, political and social forces — a change in the status quo. The immense challenge facing Western leaders, particularly the President, is to ensure that history does not double back on them — that the future of Europe does not turn out to be its past.

Raise The Profile, But Cautiously

Walter Mears

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — To a golfer, a mulligan is a second chance, an invitation to hit a bad shot over again and pretend the first one never happened. Golfing with Republican governors, Vice President Dan Quayle said he didn't want one because "mulligans are for Democrats."

There are no mulligans in national politics, where Quayle might find one handy now and then. In that arena, any errant move is marked indelibly on the scorecard. That means no mistakes go unpenalized, especially for a political figure whose confidence and performance ratings are persistently low, as Quayle's are.

That pressure doesn't let up; one associate sees the stress on Quayle as the vice president strives to boost his standing, knowing that any slipup or misspoken word will be magnified into another dent in the image.

At the Republican Governors' Association conference this week, even the praise pointed to the problem. Quayle's friends were at pains to plug his performance and his potential as a national leader, even when it didn't quite fit the moment.

Gov. Carroll A. Campbell Jr. of South Carolina, introducing him at a casual Sunday night reception, said the vice president "will make a very fine place in history." Republican National Chairman Lee Atwater tossed into his remarks to the governors on Monday the observation that Quayle "is doing a very fine job and could not have more confidence and support from the president."

In such situations, some Republicans are protesting too much.

After all, Quayle has solid backing where it really counts. President Bush has said flatly that Quayle will be his 1992 running mate. That gives the vice president seven years to do his job and enhance his standing.

In the changeable world of politics, that is a very long time — half again as long as Quayle's entire political career to date.

Even though the adverse polls clearly sting, Quayle is up to a joke about his political standing.

"A year and one week ago, President George Bush rode to victory on my coattails," he told the governors.

He spoke of his wife's interest in disaster relief efforts:

"Marilyn has a lot of experience in disaster preparedness; she's lived with me for 17 years."

But the banter isn't always easy in the face of public opinion surveys indicating that a majority of Americans do not think Quayle is qualified to succeed to the presidency, which is a vice president's one crucial role, and that nearly half think he should be replaced on the 1992 Republican ticket.

President Bush has said that will not happen, making the commitment publicly. "He's doing a very good job, an outstanding job ... exactly what I want him to do," Bush said in an interview with the Dallas Morning News early this month.

The vice president says unfavorable polls will not affect the way he does his job.

"I'm not going to do anything differently no matter what the polls say," Quayle said Monday in an interview with a group of reporters. "I'm going to work as I believe a vice president should work, that is, first and foremost, with complete loyalty to the president, for the advancement of his agenda, in his interest, and that's what I'm doing."

That job description does not preclude a more aggressive effort to strengthen his own standing and improve his own image. Quayle and his allies have maintained that his image problem stems largely from memories of the Democratic attack on him during the 1988 campaign, but it has been over a year now and the numbers aren't any better.

As a result, some Quayle advisers want him to raise his television profile, appearing more frequently on the talk and question-and-answer programs. Those appearances have been held to a handful during the first year of the administration.

Analysis

There may be more in the months ahead.

And there certainly will be more political outings in 1990, with 34 senators, 36 governors and the House of Representatives all up for election. Campaigning for party candidates is a traditional assignment for vice presidents.

That means the voters will be seeing more of Quayle. They'll know him better; his challenge is to convince them to like him better.

Walter R. Mears, vice president and columnist for The Associated Press, has reported on Washington and national politics for more than 25 years.

Mother Charged With Murder In Mutilation Deaths

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISBURG, N.C. — Investigators are seeking an answer to why a woman apparently stabbed her three young children to death before dumping their mutilated bodies on a neighbor's doorstep.

Katrina McKay, 20, of the Mitchiners Crossroads community in Franklin County was charged with first-degree murder in the deaths of her children, all under 3 years old, District Attorney David R. Waters said. She was taken to Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh for a psychiatric examination that may take up to 60 days.

The children were identified as Shenika Chantel McKay, 2, Terrell Quentin McKay, 1, and Quincey Matthew McKay, 2 months. Their bodies were sent to the state medical examiner in Chapel Hill for autopsies.

All three died of multiple stab wounds from a steak knife, investigators said. They had been bound with electrical cords and at least one of them, Shenika, had been eviscerated before the bodies were carried to the home of neighbor

George Harris, authorities said.

Electrical cords and clothing had been tied around the children's necks "in a strangulating fashion," but he did not know whether they were strangled before they had been stabbed, said Franklin County Medical Examiner J.B. Perdue Jr.

"This is probably the worst case I've seen in my law enforcement career," said Capt. Ralph F. Brown, the sheriff's lead investigator, who also worked as a Washington police officer for 22 years. "I usually sleep well. I don't usually have cases that bother me. This case bothered me."

Miss McKay also had two stab wounds to her chest and abdomen which authorities think were self-inflicted. Officials were baffled as to why the slayings occurred.

"The motive, figuring out the motive, is going to be the toughest part," the sheriff said.

Family members and friends of Miss McKay said she had been living in the small, white clapboard house at the end of a muddied, leaf-covered road about halfway between Louisburg and Franklinton for five months. The rural cluster of homes is about 30 miles northeast of Raleigh.

Earlier in the day, Miss McKay had come to the Harris home to use the telephone. She left angry when she failed to reach members of her family.

She returned about 9 p.m., having carried the bodies of her children out the side door of her home and across the leaf-covered expanse of lawn to the tidy one-story brick home belonging to Harris. Johnson said the children's bodies had been tied together with a cord.

Harris, 73, said Miss McKay forced her way into his home and that he struggled with her and pinned her on the floor until deputies and rescue workers arrived.

Miss McKay lived with her uncle and the three children in the rented house. The uncle, Eugene Arrington, was at work Wednesday evening when the killings occurred, said Franklin County Sheriff Arthur Johnson.

Harris' daughter, Victoria, said Ms. McKay seemed nice and treated her children well. Harris said he didn't know the woman personally.

Johnson said Ms. McKay's stepmother, whose name he didn't release, said she visited the house Tuesday and found Ms. McKay sitting nude in a chair.

Johnson said there had been no reports on the McKay family filed with the county Department of Social Services.

Perdue said the woman apparently is unmarried. He said he didn't know whether the woman was employed but said she qualified for Medicaid, government medical insurance for low-income people.

Crowding Cuts Time In Prison

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prison crowding, and state laws designed to release prisoners during crowding emergencies have led to a dramatic drop in the amount of time average inmates spend in North Carolina prisons, the head of the system says.

"Because of limited resources and legal requirements, we are now incarcerating convicted offenders for a shorter period of time than ever before," said state Correction Secretary Aaron Johnson. "While they are in prison, we have less time to provide them treatment. Once outside of prison, they are placed under the supervision of an already-overburdened parole officer."

In the strongest call yet by the administration of Gov. Jim Martin for expanded alternatives to prisons, Johnson also said the state must quit operating on a "lock 'em up and throw away the key" policy.

"We can no longer afford to allow our passions to control sentencing policy," he said in remarks to the N.C. Correctional Association conference in Asheville on Thursday. "We have learned the hard way that we can't send every criminal offender to prison."

The prison population cap adopted by the Legislature in 1987 has helped to stabilize the state's prison population and avoid the possible federal takeover of the prison system, Johnson said.

But the cap also has led to a drop in the percentage of their original sentence inmates spend behind bars.

"In 1985, the average assaultive felon was spending 39 percent of his original sentence in prison," Johnson said. "Today he spends 35 percent. For assaultive misdemeanants, that figure is down from 40 percent in 1985 to 21 percent today."

Felony drug offenders now spend only 31 percent of their original sentence in jail, compared to 43 percent in 1985, he said. Those convicted of less serious drug crimes are spending 14 percent of their original sentence behind bars, compared with 36 percent in 1985.

"Is this justice? Most people will tell you no," Johnson said. "I tend to agree with them."

Johnson said the only solution is to give the criminal justice system a high priority, with increased prison construction, community-based alternative programs and sentencing reforms.

The state has spent nearly $250 million since 1985 on the correction system to make up for what Johnson called decades of neglect.

"And as we all know, that figure is more of a down payment than it is the final bill," he said.

Criminal justice reforms will be expensive, Johnson said, and come at a time when the state's resources are being pulled among competing needs.

"It is true that we need money for schools, roads and economic development," he said. "But let us not forget that money spent on the criminal justice system is an investment in our most precious possessions: life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

N.C. Mountains Get 8-Inch Snow

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ASHEVILLE — The state's first winter storm dumped up to eight inches of snow in the North Carolina mountains, making roads slick and causing some automobile accidents, officials said.

Up the eight inches of snow fell in Avery County by early this morning, the National Weather Service said. Officials with the Avery County Sheriff's Department said the snow had made many roads slick, and some accidents were reported.

"They're able to drive on the roads, but they have to use extreme caution," said Avery County dispatcher Sharon Carpenter.

Most accumulations in the mountains were around two or three inches, the weather service said.

Madison County Sheriff's Deputy D.R. Fox said the snow there started about 6:30 p.m. It accumulated to about two inches.

"We've had wrecks everywhere," Fox said. "The snow came all at once and everybody was caught out in it. It's very hazardous, very slick."

"We've had a terrible time up there," said Joe Rathbone, a dispatcher with the state Highway Patrol. "They are just snowed in. But we're not having any trouble anywhere else."

Hank Moore of the National Weather Service station at the Asheville Regional Airport said it's not too unusual for snow to fall in November.

"We're generally looking for an inch or two in the northern in central mountains," he said. "We expect little or no accumulation in the Asheville area."

In Boone, the snow was about two inches deep this morning, said a dispatcher with the Watauga County Sheriff's Department who did not give her name. She said Blowing Rock received about three inches.

"No roads are closed, but they are slick," she said.

Temperatures today were expected to warm only into the 30s in the northern mountains, the weather service said. Lows tonight are going to be in the 20s in the west and 30s in the east.

On Saturday, afternoon highs will range from 50 to 60 across the state with cooler 40s in the northern mountains.

Gay Man Barred From Scout Post

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FAYETTEVILLE — A gay man who has been barred from taking part in his son's Boy Scout troop activities says he intends to fight the decision.

Richard Jernigan, 42, of Fayetteville was barred by the local officials of the Boy Scouts of America from participating in Scouting with his 11-year-old son. Officials cited the organization's requirement that Boy Scout leaders have moral qualities necessary to lead young people.

"Who is to say a homosexual is less moral than a heterosexual?" Jernigan said. "I am contacting the (American) Civil Liberties Union, the Gay Task Force and other gay organizations for help."

Jernigan is a converted Jew who says he is a rabbi for "gay men and women, and straights if they need me, across North Carolina." His son, Yosef joined Troop 743, which is sponsored by the Stoney Point Volunteer Fire Department, in August.

"I think the ruling barring me from Scouting is not only unfair but is probably unconstitutional," Jernigan said. "I intend to fight it."

Jernigan said he was an Eagle Scout and an honor member of the Order of the Arrow. He said he represented the Oconeechee Council in 1965 as a delegate to the National Convention of the Order of the Arrow and was a staff member at the Boy Scouts' Camp Durant for six years.

"I was married for seven years before I made a decision in 1979 to come out of the closet and be openly gay," Jernigan said. "My wife had a daughter by a previous marriage, and I adopted her before we had two other children. Yosef is the youngest. I have full court custody of all three since my wife and I divorced."

Elon Dean Hides Student Newspaper

ELON COLLEGE, N.C. (AP) — An official at Elon College says she made a mistake when she had all the copies of the student newspaper removed from their racks out of concern over an article that misrepresented drug use at the school.

Nan Perkins, dean of admissions for Elon, said Thursday that she asked two people to put the papers and displays out of sight on Saturday, the school's visitation day when prospective students and their parents visited the school.

The articles, which will be reprinted in this week's issue of The Pendulum, concerned a survey of drug use at six Piedmont colleges.

Survey results were made available to The Pendulum by the college's office of student affairs. The paper reported alcohol was the most popular drug on campus followed by marijuana, uppers and cocaine.

The papers were never returned to their racks and their whereabouts are unknown. Ms. Perkins said she thinks the papers were inadvertently discarded. She said she found out about the disappearance Monday and never meant for the papers to be thrown away.

Ms. Perkins, in letter to The Pendulum, said she removed the papers because the articles failed to reflect equivalent reported drug usage at the other schools in the survey.

She was also disturbed by the opening paragraph of a page 8 story that said more than 34 percent of Elon students regularly use cocaine. The correct figure was 5 percent.

That figure is contradicted by a graphic on the same page and an article on the facing page, but Ms. Perkins believed the error and the bad image of Elon it conveyed was enough to merit the paper's removal.

The Pendulum's faculty adviser, Brad Hamm, admitted the figure was wrong, but didn't think any college official should be able to prevent the paper from being distributed.

"If we pull every paper for mistakes, we'll pull every Burlington paper, every Greensboro paper, every Durham paper and so on because, as we know, we'll never be 100 percent accurate," Hamm said.

Public Ignores First Hearing On Rules Governing Search For Waste Dump Site

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHARLOTTE — A state panel began a round of hearings on the rules regulating a search for a proposed hazardous-waste dump and treatment facility only to have such a low turnout that the first hearing was completed in only seven minutes.

"I guess you could say we had a war and nobody came," said Alvis G. Turner, the chairman of the N.C. Hazardous Waste Management Commission.

Meanwhile, a coalition of environmentalists released a report that says state officials have exaggerated the need for a hazardous-waste treatment plant.

A public hearing on the proposals conducted Thursday night by the commission at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte heard from only one person — an Alexander County commissioner, who asked whether a hazardous-waste disposal site can be placed within a watershed.

The hearings are being held on North Carolina's proposed rules for finding a site for a hazardous-waste incinerator capable of burning 50,000 tons of waste a year, a landfill for 10,000 tons of ash and a solvent treatment plant to handle 15,000 tons a year.

The proposed rules would forbid a hazardous-waste site from being placed more than 60 miles from an interstate or within a quarter-mile of a prison, jail, hospital, nursing home, day-care center, nursery or school.

The rules also would: —Forbid a site from being placed within a 100-year floodplain, on wetlands, marshes, swamps or bogs. A 100-year floodplain is defined as the highest point that a body of water is expected to reach within a century.

—Ban any site within a coastal hurricane storm-surge area or within a quarter-mile of an active fault line or the epicenter of a measurable seismic event.

—Exempt state and national parks and forests, wildlife refuges, historical sites, game preserves, natural areas, and similar areas from being within a site used for the treatment or disposal of hazardous waste.

The rules also set up guidelines for the state to seek volunteer counties and local advisory committees. Turner said: "This is the first set of rules. There will be two more sets and perhaps three that should be more meaty." Written comments will be accepted through midnight Dec. 6, and the following hearings, also to begin at 7 p.m., are scheduled: Nov. 28 at the main auditorium of the N.C. School for the Deaf at Morganton; Dec. 5 at the Yeager Recital Hall of the Fine Arts Building at Elon College, and Dec. 6 at the Utilities Commission hearing room of the Dobbs Building on the state government complex in Raleigh.

Turner opened the hearing Thursday night. "We have not had anyone notify us that they would like to speak tonight," he said. "Would anyone care to speak?"

He was answered by silence. Again he offered, and drew the one question, which Turner said would be dealt with in the next round of hearings.

"I have no choice then but to close the meeting," Turner said, inviting the meager turnout to stick around for casual chatter.

Eight commission members made the trip — two flew in from Wilmington and Durham — and will be reimbursed by the state, as will three staff members and a stenographer, the Winston-Salem Journal reported in today's editions.

The adversaries, or many of them, were apparently at a rally in Morganton where more than 20 environmental groups gathered to plot strategy against the state's two searches for 500-acre tracts suitable for low-level and hazardous-waste sites.

At the rally, the N.C. Waste Awareness Reduction Network released state and federal data that shows the eight-state southeast compact has enough hazardous-waste plants to handle North Carolina waste. And the group said North Carolina's planned regional hazardous-waste incinerator is four times the size the state will need in 1995.

"Don't build it. We don't need it," Billie Elmore, coordinator for N.C. WARN, said at a press conference at the City of Morganton Municipal Auditorium.

Lawyer Sentenced On Contempt Ruling

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LUMBERTON, N.C. — A law professor who has been representing Indian activist Eddie Hatcher has been sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $500 for criminal contempt of court after outbursts in a hearing earlier this week.

Superior Court Judge I. Beverly Lake Jr. of Raleigh had both the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill professor, Barry Nakell, and Hatcher removed from the courtroom Tuesday because of the outbursts. Hatcher cursed the judge and threw a small object at him.

Lake said he had warned Nakell three times before telling the bailiff to remove him from the courtroom. He said Nakell had been "disruptive of the proceedings," "pandering to the audience and the defendant" and encouraging Hatcher to be disruptive.

Nakell was granted a stay Thursday pending appeal.

"Your conduct is a great discredit to the bar of this state and the law school of the University of North Carolina," Lake told Nakell on Thursday.

The judge had agreed Tuesday to allow Hatcher to represent himself against 14 counts of second-degree kidnapping. He also appointed Angus Thompson, the Robeson County public defender, as "stand-by" counsel for the defendant.

The charges stem from the takeover of The Robesonian newspaper at Lumberton in February 1988. Hatcher said he had taken over the newspaper to call attention to corruption in the county. A jury acquitted him later that year on federal hostage-taking charges.

Custody

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — A teen-aged mother with blood ties to an Indian tribe in Alaska has reached an agreement with her adoptive parents that will allow her to gradually resume custody of her 3-year-old son.

Angela Strout, mother of Matthew Strout, reached an agreement with her parents in Alamance County court that will restore her parental rights by April.

Ms. Strout's blood ties to a 200-member Indian tribe in Ruby, a small village in the Alaskan interior, may have helped settle the case. Under federal law, native tribes have authority to preserve families by claiming custody rights to children borne to tribal members.

Michael Walleri, a tribal attorney, intervened in the suit in September and flew from Alaska to appear in court this week. The tribe said the 1987 order giving temporary custody to Ms. Strout's parents, George and Lynda Strout, was invalid under a 1978 federal act designed to prevent the disintegration of American Indian families and their culture.

Big Sweep

RALEIGH (AP) — Plastics head the list as the most prevalent type of debris washing ashore on North Carolina's river banks, lake shores and beaches, according to the coordinator of a cleanup called The Big Sweep.

The Big Sweep, the nation's first statewide shoreline cleanup, was held Sept. 30. During the four-hour event, 3,645 volunteers collected 81.5 tons of litter, according to coordinator Lundie Spence.

Nonbiodegradable plastic items — six-pack yokes, bottles, jugs, bags, diapers and fishing line — accounted for 42.2 percent of the collected litter. In all, volunteers deposited 70,340 pieces of plastic in their bags, Spence said.

Plastic foam objects totaled 15.5 percent of the trash collected, officials said.

Bodies Found

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A husband-and-wife team of truck drivers hauling freight from North Carolina to California were found shot to death in their truck Thursday in what police believe was a murder-suicide.

Capt. Charles Owen said Walter P. Hall, 48, and Jeanie K. Hall, 46, of Statesville, N.C., were found dead by the woman's brother as he returned from breakfast at a truck stop in western Oklahoma City.

Owen said the couple had been involved in an ongoing domestic argument as they traveled. He said they had pulled into the truck stop about 6 a.m. to take a short break and the woman's brother, who was traveling with them, was told to go get breakfast and to wake them about 7 a.m.

Owen said police believe Hall shot his wife with a .12-gauge shotgun while she was in the sleeper of the truck and then turned the weapon on himself.

Fatal Accident

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Mount Holly man was charged with driving while impaired Wednesday following a fatal accident involving a pickup truck and larger truck pulling a mobile home on U.S. 64, about six miles west of Asheboro.

The victim was identified as Thomas Wilson Matthews, 44, of Maxton. Matthews died after being thrown from the cab of his truck as it swerved from the west- to the east-bound lane, colliding with a pick-up truck, which was attempting to pass, according to the investigating highway patrol trooper. The pickup was driven by Clarence Avery Caldwell, 43, of Mount Holly.

CIA Recruiting

DURHAM (AP) — Duke University will try to make information on the school's connections to the Central Intelligence Agency more public following a meeting Thursday between university officials and students opposed to CIA recruiting on campus.

The university stopped short of banning recruiting by the agency, but agreed to several steps aimed at disclosing information about the CIA-sponsored research at Duke.

Farm Bill Going To White House

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A $43.6 billion Agriculture Department spending bill is on its way to the president's desk for his expected signature to start money flowing to finance scores of food and farm programs for fiscal 1990.

The department has been operating under temporary measures that have kept spending at 1989 levels while Congress settled differences on programs for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

Both the House and Senate gave speedy final approval by voice vote Thursday to the bill, which provides money for agricultural research, conservation, price supports, marketing and inspection, domestic nutrition and export and international activities.

The measure had been hung up in conference committee for weeks because of a dispute between Sen.

Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., and Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss. over a $1.1 million hotline program for farmers.

Bumpers wanted to preserve the hotline, which informs farmers how to reduce pesticides and herbicides, against the wishes of Whitten, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Bumpers finally agreed to stop his effort, saying he will try to shift the program to the Interior Department.

The standoff between Bumpers and Whitten had delayed the finish of negotiations on a compromise reconciling differences between House and Senate versions of the spending bill.

"It took less time for the Pilgrims to sail to the New World than for this conference report to return to the House," said Rep. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee.

The House approved its original version of the bill 10 weeks ago.

House Approves Pay-Ethics Package

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A hot-potato decision on a big congressional pay raise and ethics package rests in the lap of a skittish Senate with only a few days left before Congress plans to adjourn for the year.

"Formidable, but possible," was how Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole described the task of getting his sharply divided chamber to act before Thanksgiving on the plan approved 252-174 Thursday in the House.

The House approved a plan to raise its pay, and that of other top government officials, by more than 35 percent in less than 14 months. House salaries would soar from the current $89,500 to more than $120,000.

With the higher pay, House members would be barred beginning in 1991 from pocketing honoraria checks for speeches before interest groups. They also would be subject to other new rules in the first major overhaul of its ethics rules in 12 years.

The House plan doesn't include a raise for the Senate unless the Senate votes to include itself.

Enemies of the pay raise were trying to turn up the pressure against it. Ralph Nader, the consumer advocate who helped kill a proposed 51 percent pay raise just 10 months ago, called the new plan a "legislative pay-grab wolf in a minor ethical reform sheep's clothing."

Dole and Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, scheduled an unusual caucus of both parties, behind closed doors, to hash things out this morning. Everyone agreed there was a wide divergence of views.

The Senate could vote to give itself no raise but let the House and others get theirs. Or it could buy into the whole deal, kill it or choose something in between.

"The leadership is pushing hard for us to adopt the House package," Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said Thursday. "Apparently, it must be a close vote."

Mitchell has said he favored the House plan but speculated the Senate might go for a more modest pay package and a more gradual elimination of honoraria.

Senators now may keep speaking fees equal to 40 percent of their salaries, compared to 30 percent in the House, so the House plan actually could be an income cut for some senators. The Senate also has its own ideas about ethics rules, including restrictions on lobbying after lawmakers leave office.

The House plan would raise salaries in a series of steps, for a total minimum 35 percent raise by Jan. 1, 1991. On top of that, lawmakers and the other officials would get whatever cost-of-living adjustment is given to rank-and-file government workers on that date.

President Bush, eager to raise pay for his top staff and the federal judges, has already said he'd sign the bill.

House members who took the politically unpopular plunge and voted for the pay raise Thursday were watching the Senate's moves carefully, for fear the other chamber would kill it.

"The Senate in the next 24 hours needs to think about what is politically possible," said Rep. Vic Fazio, D-Calif., co-chairman of the task force that drafted the House plan.

Another House Democrat said the pressure his chamber would put on the Senate would approach "white heat."

In a similar situation seven years ago, the Senate let the House scoot ahead in salary. But senators reconsidered six months later and gave themselves a catch-up raise.

Besides the ban on keeping honoraria, the House bill includes a broad range of changes in its rules and in federal ethics law.

Outside earnings besides honoraria would be limited to 15 percent of salary and severely restricted in scope. Rules governing the acceptance of gifts and travel from people outside the immediate family would be tightened.

The rules also would require more detailed disclosure of personal assets.

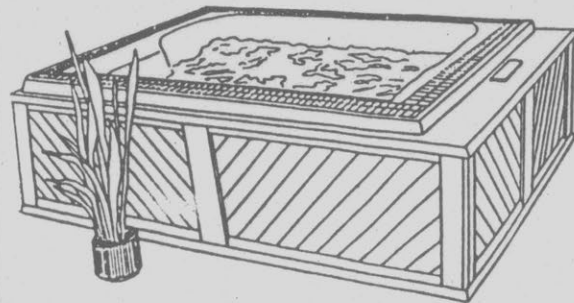

The most recent congressional pay raise was in 1987, and it hasn't been raised since then primarily because members fear the political consequences.

Panel Delays Vote On Spanking Rules

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — The N.C. Child Day Care Commission delayed action Thursday that might lead to reversal of the state's ban on spanking in day-care facilities.

Chairman John Morris said after the meeting that he was not inclined to ask the commission, when it meets again next month, to initiate proceedings to remove the ban on spanking in day-care centers and homes.

The meeting attracted about 60 opponents of spanking in day-care facilities, many of them carrying signs.

The meeting was marked by confusion and squabbles between Democratic and Republican appointees. It also produced an unusual attempt to assign the limited seating, a move that one commission member said came "very close" to breaking the state open meetings law.

Despite the interest in the spanking ban, the commission never discussed the rule itself. It did vote 7-6 — largely along party lines — to appoint independent counsel to represent the commission in lawsuits rather than be represented by the State Attorney General's Office.

The corporal punishment ban, which was adopted in 1985 when Democratic appointees controlled the board, has been challenged in court by 13 churches. A new Republican majority on the board has sought to settle one of two suits brought by the churches by agreeing that the commission lacked authority to ban spanking or other corporal punishment in day-care centers.

But state Attorney General Lucy Thornburg, a Democrat, has refused to sign the settlement, meaning it is not binding.

Turcotte Says USAir Meeting Schedule

departure and arrival times on schedule, adding that he has received no significant complaints from passengers.

"I have heard just a very few (complaints), and that's not been about our Greenville to Charlotte service," Turcotte said. "In fact, in October we had our biggest month ever as far as passengers, and USAir Express had its biggest month also for flights out of Greenville."

In a press release today, USAir reported a record number of passengers — 4,192 — boarded its Pitt-Greenville flights in October, marking a 13 percent increase from the same month in 1988.

Turcotte said USAir Express completed 98 percent of those flights on time, meeting the bulk of them with no extreme delays.

"If you're delayed for a flight, of course that's aggravating. But looking at 3,000 flights a day, just look at the people who make it through with no delays," Turcotte said.

"We knew there would be some ripples when we merged, but I think, all in all, it's improving."

Ed Walker, president of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce said today that reports from the local business community say USAir is serving patrons in the area well.

"I have heard no complaints about service. In fact, I'm hearing that the airline's efficiency is exceptional," Walker said. He said USAir has also become a significant player in promoting the airport throughout the region.

"They've recently joined a marketing campaign with the Airport Authority and with the Chamber," Walker said. "And, some joint ventures in marketing our airport are already set to start in December."

While Greenville officials are lauding the performance of USAir, business and civic leaders in Greensboro and Charlotte say the airline's delays and cancellations have caused major concern in their business communities, according to the Associated Press report.

Greensboro leaders have met several times with USAir officials and pilots to discuss ways to cut back the airline's problems.

"There is no question it has improved very greatly, but I have to tell you not everybody is happy, said Greensboro Chamber of Commerce President Thomas Z. Osborne.

Guilty Plea

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A 55-year-old Lumberton woman was sentenced Wednesday to six years in prison after pleading guilty to charges of forgery and embezzlement in the theft of $373,837 from a regional mental health agency, officials said.

Joyce S. Douglas also was ordered to repay the money and fined $10,000 in Robeson County Superior Court by Special Superior Court Judge I. Beverly Lake Jr.

Kimble Gets Post

an interim period is stagnate."

Kimble said he feels city business will continue smoothly under the direction of the city's department heads. "I'm going to be a team leader and really depend on them," Kimble said.

Ms. Jenkins said the new council will probably consider the city manager position at the council's orientation meetings Jan. 6 and Jan. 7. But she said she feels comfortable with Kimble at the helm of the city's government.

"I thought he did a super job" at Thursday's meeting, Ms. Jenkins said. "I have nothing but the highest regard for his intellect and his professional ability."

Kimble has served as assistant city manager since July 1988. He was the city's finance director from January 1984 until taking the job as assistant manager.

Kimble earned two bachelor's degrees from the University of Kansas in accounting and business administration.

Kimble, along with police detective J.E. Harris, has also been conducting an internal investigation into charges of racism in Greenville's police department. Kimble said his appointment as interim manager will not interrupt the investigation, and a final draft of the findings is scheduled to be presented to the council Monday.

Ms. Jenkins said the full council will have to decide on a replacement for Knowles, and she would not speculate on the possibility of Kimble getting the job.

Kimble sat in the manager's seat during Thursday's council meeting, but he said it was premature to discuss the possibility of him keeping that seat as a permanent post.

"I think in the interim capacity I'm going to do the best I can and let the chips fall where they may," Kimble said.

Shinn's criticism regarding Knowles communication with the council.

"I get three to six pounds of memos, reports and minutes every month," Hadden said.

He also said the former city manager tried to notify council members of a nursing home fire this summer, but not all of the members received the message.

As far as Ms. Shinn's charge of Knowles using profane and abusive language with the city staff, Hadden said, "One might expect some slips, which are not at all recommended as the best type of behavior."

Hadden agreed with Shinn on only one point. "To quote Ms. Shinn, I call upon all members of the council and mayor 'to put this issue behind them and get on with the job of governing,'"

Chamber

"We need a stable and predictable city government so that our citizens need not be concerned that hasty political actions will adversely affect the community, or those who wish to invest their futures here," the board said.

"Unfortunately, your (the council's) action is now perceived by many persons, both in Greenville and elsewhere, to be contrary to the positive image of a growing city," according to the statement.

"There is a sense of embarrassment in the community at this time, but we can change this if all elements work together rationally."

The chamber assured the council of its "cooperation and support," but also said it is committed "as the representative of the business community" to take "whatever action is necessary to help preserve and present a positive community. We expect our City Council to do the same."

No Prosecution

Greenville police said today that the construction worker who suggested Wednesday morning that there was a bomb on board an American Eagle plane about to take off from Pitt-Greenville Airport will not be prosecuted.

Lt. D.R. Bullock said that even though the joke prompted an all-out search which involved police, fire-rescue personnel and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a decision was made by the FBI not to charge the man.

"It was a federal offense," he said. "And the FBI officers could have charged him. But they determined that he had no idea how seriously his statement would be taken."

Greenville police and the FBI would not disclose the worker's name.

Storm Sweeps Into Northeast

responsible for the death and destruction at East Coldenham Elementary School, but the weather service said it probably wasn't a twister.

The brick, cinder block and glass wall, about 30 feet high and 50 feet wide, caved in on as many as 125 first-, second- and third-graders as they were eating lunch, said Town of Newburgh Police Chief John Kulisek.

Besides the seven killed, 18 children were injured, two critically. All the victims were 6 to 9 years old.

Town of Newburgh police Lt. John J. Mahoney said he arrived 10 minutes after the wall collapsed to find children calling out from under the rubble.

"Some were screaming, some were lying there very quiet," Mahoney said. "You could hear them under the debris calling for help, calling 'Take me home, take me home.'"

District schools were closed today, and school officials were assembling counselors to help pupils when classes resume Monday.

Kulisek said an investigation would begin today into why the wall collapsed.

A tornado knocked over trees and ripped roofs off houses in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle, the National Weather Service confirmed. Storms also caused flooding in Washington, D.C., blew windows out of skyscrapers in Philadelphia, destroyed a house in Piscataway, N.J., and overturned cars and blew the roof off a shopping mall in Quebec.

The weather service also confirmed a second tornado Thursday, in Montgomery County in southeastern Pennsylvania. It ripped the roof off a building housing federal offices in King of Prussia, causing four minor injuries.

A truck driver died when his tractor-trailer overturned in high winds on a bridge connecting Elizabeth, N.J., and New York City. A New York City woman died after being hit by a steel beam blown off a water tower. A Camden, N.J., man died when winds picked him up and smashed him to the ground, authorities said.

Quebec provincial police suspected a tornado was responsible for widespread damage in St. Hilaire, a small community southeast of Montreal.

In Loving Memory Of

who passed away November 19, 1988
In sorrow we saw you sinking,
And watched you fade away.
Our hearts were almost broken,
When you went home that day.
But when we saw you sleeping
So peacefully free from pain
How could we wish you back with us
To suffer that again.
We are living to join you someday
Where parting will be no more.
Your loving husband, sisters, brother, relatives and friends.

In Memory of Willie Askew Baker
Nov. 15, 1984

It's hard to see tomorrow when someone you love is gone and it's harder still to realize that life will still go on. But the Lord won't give you burdens which he knows you cannot bear. And he will not leave you comfortless. You'll always find him there. We are all our Father's children here on earth and up above and your loved ones now walk close to God surrounded by his love.

Your wife

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CHARLIE LEE WILLIAMS WHO PASSED AWAY 11-18-88

One year ago today, God called you to come home. Since you've been gone, I live with the most cherished memories of you and I thank God for allowing me to have you for my Daddy for 39 years of my life. You set a Christ like example for me to follow all of my life and even though I have failed so many times to follow them, I never failed to remember the family circle that you told me would never be broken because of the love of God in our home. I will miss you this Thanksgiving and Christmas, but knowing that you are in God's Loving Care will help me through them.

I Love You Daddy,
Your Daughter,
Vicki D. Harrington

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the Book of Genesis intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times

ABRAHAM'S BATTLE WITH THE FIVE KINGS

ABRAHAM HAS OBEYED THE COMMANDS OF GOD AND BEGINS HIS JOURNEY TO THE DISTANT LAND OF CANAAN TAKING WITH HIM HIS NEPHEW, LOT....

BOTH ABRAHAM AND LOT HAVE LARGE HERDS AND MUST TRAVEL CONSTANTLY TO MAKE SURE THERE IS ENOUGH GRAZING FOR THE ANIMALS...

...WHERE EVER THEY TRAVEL, THEY FIND RICH GRAZING LANDS UPON WHICH THEIR ANIMALS PROSPER....

GOD HAS BEEN GOOD TO US - FOR WE HAVE OBEYED HIS COMMANDS!

BUT SUCH INCREASED BOUNTY ALSO BRINGS PROBLEMS - WITH THE EVER-GROWING SIZE OF THE HERDS, IT BECOMES MORE AND MORE DIFFICULT FOR THE HERDSMEN TO KEEP THEM SEPARATE, AS THE SHEEP SCRAMBLE EVERYWHERE IN THEIR SEARCH FOR THE SWEETEST GRASSES - MANY MIX-UPS OF THE HERDS OCCUR!

Next Week
TROUBLES INCREASE!

Could you be comfortable in a church like this?

Being a Unitarian Universalist means taking personal responsibility for your own religious life. No one will try to re-make you religiously. We won't offer you "final and absolute truths" or rigid dogma. Instead, we try to provide a stimulating and congenial atmosphere in which you may seek answers in which you may ask new questions in which you are free to discover the best that is in you. We reject the idea that a book or institution is superior to the conscience and intellect of a morally responsible human being. We affirm that your spiritual well-being is yours to determine. No one else can live your own life for you.

Reader Wants Abby's Help

Dear Abby: This for "Trish in Easley, S.C." and others among your readers who have chosen to live without television.

Did you know that there is an organization for people who do not have a working television set in their homes and are interested in ridding our society of television dependency?

The Society for the Eradication of Television (SET) believes that TV "retards inner life, destroys human interaction, squanders time and draws viewers into abject addiction." Please spread the word. — Set Free In San Francisco

Dear Set Free: You rattled the wrong cage. If you, or others, choose to live without television, it's all right with me, but to crusade in an effort to "rid others" of what you call "television dependence" by doing away with all television sets strikes me as un-American.

The television set may provide some folks with the only human voice they hear for days. It provides news and entertainment for millions of people who cannot — or chose not to — leave the comfort, privacy and safety of their homes.

Granted, there's an excess of garbage on TV — but there are also many educational and worthwhile programs. So, please don't work so hard to "free" me. Enslaved, I'm not.

Dear Abby

Dear Abby: In a recent column, you said that both men and women need to hear that they are needed, wanted and loved.

I'd like to submit the following proverb I read somewhere many years ago that might help solve this eternal man-woman misunderstanding.

"Men must give love to get sex."

"Women must give sex to get love."

— Carl H. Young, Allentown, Pa.

Dear Carl: I believe that both men and women give sex to get sex, but in order to get love, they must both give love.

Dear Abby: I need help and do not know where to get it. I have been both bulimic and anorexic on and off for about four years. I have coped and dealt with the problem in the past, but bulimia, which I have now, is an ongoing illness, something I turn to whenever I am down.

I am too ashamed to tell my family, and the career I am in (modeling) does not help. I know of many other models who are in the same or similar situations.

Abby, I can't deal with this anymore. I don't have the money for extensive counseling, and I don't know how to find a counselor whom I can trust to really help me. There are a lot more like me out there — more than any of you know. Maybe this will encourage others to get help, too. — Needs Help In Orange County, Calif.

Dear Needs: In order to overcome this eating disorder, you will need professional help. You need not feel ashamed to tell your family. It is also important that they understand the nature of your problem so that they can be supportive.

For a referral, write to ANAD (Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders), P.O. Box 7, Highland Park, Ill. 60035. Please enclose a long, stamped (45 cents), self-addressed envelope for the information. Good luck!

If you would like to write to Abby, send your letter to Abigail Van Buren, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA. 90069. For a personal, non-published reply, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Carmon-Clemons Vows Said

Louvenia Elizabeth Clemons and Michael Travis Carmon were united in marriage Saturday at 3 p.m. in Sycamore Chapel Baptist Church.

The Revs. Hue Walston and H.L. Flournoy conducted the double-ring ceremony. Music was presented by Johnny Perkins, Pete Hardison, Marion Joyner, Clara Joyner and Chester Newsome, all of Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Charles Clemons of Stokes. She is the daughter of Louise Clemons of Stokes and the late Vernon Clemons. The bridegroom is the son of Lula Lee Carmon of Farmville.

Vernestine Clemons Paige of Greenville was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids included Dearise Satterwaite of Creedmoor; Sheila Spence of Durham; Angela Suggs, sister of the bridegroom, and Robin Garris, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Raleigh; Jackie Clemons of Greenville, cousin of the bride, and Wonda Stokes of Bethel. The junior bridesmaid was Letitia Paige of Stokes, niece of the bride. Tammieka Taylor of Stokes, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Thomas Carmon of Greenville, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers included Gerald Hardison of Greenville, cousin of the bride; Michael Horne, cousin of the bridegroom; Michael Baker, Ronald Reid, Donald Reid and Ronald Williams, all of Farmville; Donald Suggs of Raleigh, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Michael King of Winston-Salem, cousin of the bridegroom. Vernon Javon Paige of Greenville, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride wore a satin gown with a high neckline with illusion yoke, fitted bodice and Renaissance sleeves trimmed with alencon lace and pearls. The basque waistline extended to an A-line skirt with lace insets. The chapel train had lace insets and was applied with alencon lace at the hemline. She carried a nosegay of baby's breath, white carnations, red roses and blue stephanotis tied with royal blue lace streamers.

The matron of honor wore a royal blue gown of chantilly lace and satin and carried a fan with white carnations, baby's breath and blue stephanotis tied with matching streamers. The dresses and fans of the bridesmaids were similar.

MRS. CARMON

The bride's mother wore a teal green dress with a matching jacket. The mother of the bridegroom wore a royal blue dress.

A reception was held after the ceremony. A rehearsal dinner and several showers were given for the couple prior to their wedding.

The couple will live in Durham after a wedding trip.

She attended North Pitt High School and he attended Farmville Central High School. Both attended N.C. Central College. The bridegroom is employed by McDonald's in Raleigh.

Model Meeting Held Tuesday

A special model meeting was held Tuesday night by Eta Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Rushees were introduced to the roles and functions of various officers and committees of the chapter.

Evelyn Cheek and Kelly Damotte were special guests at a fall rush breakfast held at the home of Susan Deans, vice president and membership chairman.

The chapter hosted an autumn fest Saturday at the American Legion Building. The event featured crafts of 36 persons in the Pitt County area.

Chapter Sees Humber House

The Major Benjamin May Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution toured Humber House Saturday.

Stanley Little, of the Eastern branch of the Department of Archives and History, gave the tour. He showed slides of the Louis Orr etchings of North Carolina historical buildings.

Reports were given by Ann Holland, Barbara Sauls, Elizabeth

Lang and Mrs. Albert Lewis during the business session. Charlotte Betts reported on the fall CAR executive sessions. The N.C. CAR will host the Southeast Regional CAR meeting in July.

Neta Riley said a patriotic program was given at Greenville Villa Nursing Home Nov. 10.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. R.L. Beaman Jr. of Snow Hill and Aileen Rackley of Tarboro.

Bruce Piephoff Gives Program

Bruce Piephoff provided entertainment at the Tuesday meeting of Fidelis Beta chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa.

Visiting artist at Pitt Community College, he presented a program of songs and poems. Piephoff is a poet, folksinger and songwriter.

BROILERS: The North Carolina fob dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 43.75 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pounds birds. 75 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed for a preliminary weighted average of 44.85 cents. The market is lower and the live supply is adequate for a light demand. Average weights desirable, occasionally heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,718,000, compared to 2,037,000 last Friday.

HENS: Market lower. Supply fully adequate for a light demand. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday was 19 cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn mostly steady, 2.45-2.65 in East and mostly 2.65-2.75 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans 4 cents higher at 5.71-5.88 1/2 in East and mostly 5.59-5.72 in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 3.65-3.83; new crop wheat 3.26-3.51; P.L.K. certificates steady to 1 percent lower and ranged from 97 to 99 1/2 percent of face value.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined slightly today as interest rates rose in the bond market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dipped 41 to 2,635.25 in the first half hour of trading.

Losers held a narrow edge on gainers in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 437 up, 478 down and 497 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 19.07 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Prices of long-term government bonds dropped about $2.50 for each $1,000 in face value this morning, increasing their yields to the 7.88 percent-7.97 percent range.

Analysts said that was enough to dull enthusiasm for stocks at a time when investors were already worried and confused about the business outlook.

The Commerce Department reported an unexpectedly strong 12 percent increase in housing starts for October.

The figures on new construction are notoriously subject to erratic swings, however, and have seldom exerted much lasting influence on the stock market in recent years.

Dun & Bradstreet led the active list, up 3/4 at 43 3/4. The stock fell 7 3/4 points Wednesday and Thursday after the company said it expects to post lower earnings in 1990 as it revamps its credit-services business.

Housing Starts Up

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Housing starts rebounded 12 percent in October to their highest level in nearly three years after falling in September to their lowest point since the 1982 recession, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said new homes and apartments were built at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.42 million units last month, up from a revised 1.27 million units in September. Starts had fallen 4.6 percent in September and 6.4 percent in August.

The October gain was the largest since a 13 percent advance in December 1986.

September's 1.27-million-unit pace was the most sluggish rate since new homes and apartments were being built at an annual rate of 1.17 million units in October 1982, during the depths of the 1981-82 recession.

The housing construction industry has been one of the economic sectors slowed by high interest rates caused by the Federal Reserve's grip on credit as it strives to cut inflation.

RTI Revenue Up

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — Research Triangle Institute's revenue rose slightly during the 1989 business year to a record high of $88.3 million, RTI president Thomas Wooten said.

Wooten made his report at the institute's 31st annual board of governors meeting on Wednesday.

The 1989 revenue figure is 4 percent greater than that reported a year ago.

ECU Goes After A Winning Season

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Saturday, East Carolina's Pirates have the first of two chances to do what they haven't done in five football seasons — earn a winning record.

But, if the Pirates, 5-3-1, are to accomplish that deed, they'll have to beat the No. 19 Pittsburgh Panthers on their home field in a 1:30 p.m. contest. That task, Pirate coach Bill Lewis says, won't be easy.

One of the primary reasons for it is health. The Pirates are not very healthy at this time and Pittsburgh is. Panther coach Mike Gottfried said earlier this week that his team is about as healthy as it's been all season.

East Carolina has an injured list that looks like the script for a disaster show. Tailback has been an especially vulnerable spot. Starter Willie Lewis has been lost for the season, as has been one backup, Eric Booker.

Regular backups Denell Harper and Cedric Van Buren both have been hampered by injuries. The latter started last week before suffering an ankle injury, while Harper has been sidelined most of the year with several injuries.

However, both Harper and Van Buren made the trip to Pittsburgh. Fullback David Daniels, who has been cross-training at tailback, is slated to start at the tailback position, with Harper as his primary relief.

Daniels stands sixth on the team in rushing with 129 yards. Harper has 144 yards while Van Buren had 224.

Starting fullback Michael Rhett is the leading rusher among the active players with 264. Willie Lewis had 395 before bowing out.

Quarterback Travis Hunter is third in rushing with 226 yards. He also has completed 72 of 148 passes for 1,007 yards with nine touchdowns. He's been intercepted eight times.

Hunter's chief target is another injury victim. Split end Walter Williams has been bothered by the after-effects of a separated shoulder but continues to play. He's caught 30 passes for 516 yards and four touchdowns and is closing in on the ECU career records. Wilson is just two catches and 27 yards shy of the reception and yardage marks. He's also third in single-season catches and fourth in single-season yardage.

Pittsburgh comes into the game following a two-game losing streak. Actually, the Panthers have not won a game in a month. Since taking a 31-14 victory over Navy, they've had an open date, a 45-7 slapping from No. 1-ranked Notre Dame, another open date and a 24-3 loss to No. 7 Miami.

The Panthers, 5-2-1, can almost assure themselves of a postseason bowl appearance with a win over the Pirates. They play cross-state rival Penn State next week, then travel to Dublin, Ireland to face Rutgers in their season finale.

Pitt quarterback Alex Van Pelt, a redshirt freshman has thrown the ball 233 times, completing 135 for 1,738 yards. At his pace, his season's output would only be exceeded by Dan Marino, presently with the Miami Dolphins.

He has outstanding receivers in split end Henry Tuten and flanker Reggie Williams. He also has a great target in a group of tight ends who shuttle in and out and are all outstanding blockers. They are led by Eric Seaman, who is the smallest of the group at 6-4, 245 pounds.

Their line is led by several all-America candidates, including 6-3, 275-pound center/guard Dean Caliguire, center Chris Sistili (6-3, 255), and 6-3, 280-pound guard Chris Goetz.

"The overall strength of (Pitt) is the consistent play of their quarterback and the strength of their offensive line," Lewis said.

And when the Panthers go to the run, they're led by tailback Curvin Williams, who, as a freshman last year, was ranked as one of the nation's top runners. He's collected 612 yards on 122 carries thus far this season.

"Paul Hackett, their offensive coordinator, came from the Dallas Cowboys and he was also on the San Francisco 49er staff," Lewis said. "They give you a lot of different things to look at (on offense). Sometimes they'll have three, four or five receivers out there. They do a lot of shifting and put people in motion to cut down on the defense's ability to recognize and react. It's a sophisticated, complicated offense."

Defensively, the Panthers have a couple of All-America candidates up front, tackle Marc Spindler (6-5, 270) and tackle Tony Siragusa (6-5, 275).

But they've been somewhat overshadowed by the play of true freshman Keith Hamilton, a 6-7, 275-pound end. "He runs a 4.8 40 and his high school coach says he has the potential to be the best football player in the country. He's their leading sacker (eight for 57 yards) and has 11 other tackles for loss, giving him a total of 19 tackles for a loss of 123 yards behind the line of scrimmage."

And the defense is as complicated as the offense, Lewis said. "They will play about 100 different pass coverages."

Pitt is rushing for 165.5 yards a game while giving up 128.5. The Panthers pass for 221.0 a game and allow 173.9. That's a total of 386.5 for the Panthers and 302.4 a game against them.

East Carolina is rushing for 170.1 yards a game and giving up 194.0. The Pirates pass for 180.3 and give up 209.0. That's a total of 351.1 in total offense, while allowing 403.0.

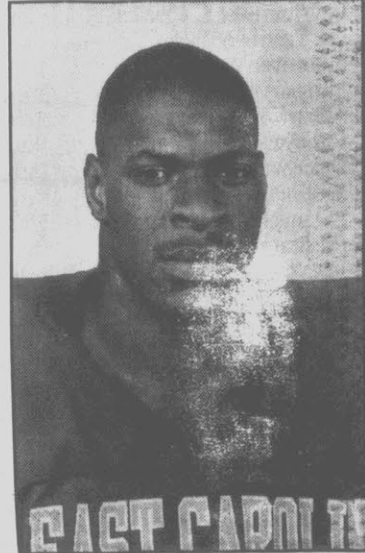

More importantly, Pittsburgh is scoring at a 24.5 clip while holding opponents to 19.1. ECU has a 23.7 scoring average while allowing 22.0.

Next Saturday, ECU closes out the 1989 season traveling to Hattiesburg, Miss., to face Southern Mississippi.

Records Are Not Wilson's Priority

By Mike Grizzard
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Barring a minor miracle or a major injury, Walter Wilson will become East Carolina's all-time leading receiver Saturday in Pittsburgh.

Wilson, a 5-10, 181-pound senior from Baltimore, Md., needs just two catches and 27 yards to put his name at the top of the list of both categories. And although Wilson has the record in the back of his mind, he and teammates have winning as a priority.

A win over the Panthers this week or over Southern Mississippi next week would give ECU's seniors the first winning season of their college careers.

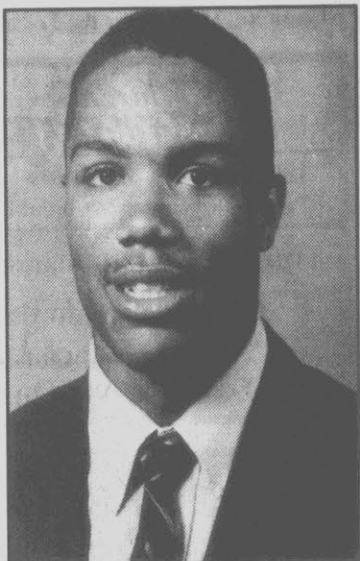

"(The record) matters, but first of all and foremost, we've got to go out there and concentrate on Pittsburgh," Wilson said in an interview earlier this week. "In life you want somebody to remember you for something. For me it will be a chance to break the all-time receiving yardage and pass reception mark. I feel good about that because it lets me know that I contributed and I'm leaving with something."

"As long as I perform the way I should the record will be there and hopefully I'll get it, but the major thing is to beat Pittsburgh."

Wilson has 78 receptions for 1,415 yards during his career, but has emerged as the Pirates' top threat as a senior despite playing with a nagging shoulder injury.

Wilson suffered a separated shoulder in the first quarter against Louisiana Tech back on Sept. 30 then sat out the following week against Cincinnati. He also sat out the second half of the Miami game after making his fifth catch of the first half.

"It's been a big problem," Wilson said. "It's been hurting more lately than in the past. I took some good shots but it's nothing I can't overcome and nothing that's going to hamper me or keep me out of the lineup. As long as this shoulder hangs on I'm hanging on."

Wilson said the injury affects his movement more than his ability to catch the ball.

"It hampers my maneuverability," Wilson said. "If somebody gets up in my face man-to-man and I have to use that outside shoulder, I'm not going to be very effective. Catching the ball, it's no big problem."

Wilson has enjoyed several big games this season, accumulating 30 receptions for 516 yards and four touchdowns. He has at least five catches in four games, including the last three.

Wilson's biggest day of his career came in a six-reception, 144-yard performance against Illinois State earlier this season. His five receptions in the first half against Miami totaled 106 yards.

Good News, Bad For Geo. Mason

Patriots Return Coach But Must Replace All-Star Kenny Sanders

By Woody Peele
THE DAILY REFLECTOR

There's good news and bad news with the George Mason basketball program this year.

The bad news is that Kenny Sanders, the Colonial Athletic Association Player of the Year two seasons ago, and this past year's MVP in the tournament, is no longer on the court for the Patriots.

The good news is that, for the first time in four seasons, the Patriots have the same basketball coach they had the year before.

After three coaches in three years, the Patriots return Ernie Nestor to the sidelines, giving them some continuity in that position for the first time since Joe Harrington left two years before.

Sanders, however, leaves some big shoes to fill. He averaged 22.7 points a game and 10.9 rebounds and was the No. 2 man in the voting for Player of the Year behind East Carolina's Blue Edwards.

Nestor, however, has more than enough to try and fill those shoes. He returns four starters off last year's team, has two outstanding transfer players, and several talented freshmen.

Back from last year's squad are 6-4 forward Chuck Broadnax (5.2 ppg), 6-7 forward Robert Dykes (10.3 ppg, 7.5 rpg), 5-10 guard Mike Hargett (11.8 ppg) and 6-3 guard Steve Smith (13.2 ppg). That, in itself, returns 40.5 points a game.

Others returning include 6-11 center Henri Abrams (1.9 ppg, 2.9 rpg), 6-6 forward Danny Deane (3.2 ppg, 3.0 rpg), 6-8 forward/center Joe Lucas (4.8 ppg, 2.0 rpg), 6-6 forward Kevin McNamara (2.6 ppg), and 6-4 guard Steve Moran (1.2 ppg).

Hargett led the CAA in three-point goals during his freshman year, earning all-Rookie team honors. He hit 60 of 147 tries from behind the arc.

Dykes, the oldest player in the CAA following a tour of duty in the Navy, became a potent inside scorer and rebounder during the season. Smith usually drew the job of guarding the opponent's top scorer.

Broadnax, who sat out the first seven games of the year, earned a starting job late in the season.

Lucas missed most of last season with a knee injury, but appears to be completely healed now. Nestor said, Deane started in 11 games and played in all but two of the team's 31 contests. McNamara missed only one game.

Abrams had moments of brilliance last year and Nestor hopes that he will expand on that this year. He finished the season with a team-leading 44 blocked shots.

Moran was a walk-on last year and ended up starting in four games.

He transferred in to Mason from N.C. Wesleyan.

The Patriots will have two new transfers this year in 6-10½ center Byron Tucker and 6-5 forward Mike Madden. Madden came in from Western Carolina, while Tucker left N.C. State to join Mason.

Tucker, who will become eligible at the end of the first semester, is looked on as the replacement for Sanders. He averaged 37.3 points and 17.6 rebounds as a high school senior. He is a sophomore in eligibility, leaving N.C. State after just one semester there.

Madden played at Western Carolina under present GMU assistant Herb Krusen when the latter was interim coach there. Krusen was a star player for East Carolina while an undergraduate.

Nestor brought in three freshmen this past spring — 6-4 guard Troy Jackson, 6-7 forward Kenny Johnson, and 5-10 guard Jamel Perkins. Jackson averaged 22.5 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists as a high school senior, while Johnson hit 16.8 points and 11 rebounds a game. Perkins scored 15.2 points a game as a senior.

While picked to finish only fourth in the CAA, Nestor has his sights on another trip to the NCAA, moving past the first round this time.

"Our players feel good about themselves. (Getting the NCAA bid) has given them incentive to come back and get stronger," Nestor said, who has set high goals for 1990.

"We want to continually set a high standard for ourselves, both as individuals and as a team. Our team will continue to improve if the standards are high. We don't want to be standing around patting ourselves on the back when we know we can do even better."

Martin Dreams Of NASCAR Title

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAMPTON, Ga. — While most of the attention this weekend at Atlanta International Raceway focuses on Rusty Wallace, Mark Martin is doing a little dreaming.

"Getting close to a million bucks, aren't we?" Martin said, referring to the $1 million prize that will go to the NASCAR Winston Cup champion.

"Gooood-ness," Martin said, drawing out the word with a smile. "I never dreamed it, never dreamed it."

Wallace goes into the season-ending race with a 78-point lead over Martin, who is one point ahead of Dale Earnhardt.

Finishing 18th or better would give Wallace, the defending race champion, his first Winston Cup driving title. Martin, who is finishing only his third full season on NASCAR's premier stock car circuit and who won his first race only last month, still can dream.

"Really, you have to believe that anything can happen on the race-track," Martin said. "We're running just like Rusty is, for the win. I'm sure Dale is, too."

"We're all in a position now that we can't really run for points. I'm not points racing. I won't guard second place. I'm going to have to finish ahead of Dale and Rusty."

"I think we're going to have the finest showing you've ever seen from this race team. Oh, you won't believe it. Better stand back and watch. It's going to be awesome."

Earnhardt, a three-time Winston Cup champion who led Wallace for much of the season before running into several bad races in a row, said, "I'll be racing to win, and right now that's all I can do."

"Mark Martin is coming on strong and Rusty's always tough at Atlanta. I don't know what's going to happen. All I know for sure is Monday morning I'm going hunting."

Wallace had a 109-point lead over Earnhardt and 128 over Martin prior to the race two weeks ago at Phoenix. But, while leading the race, he passed backmarker Stan Barrett and wound up being knocked by Barrett into the wall.

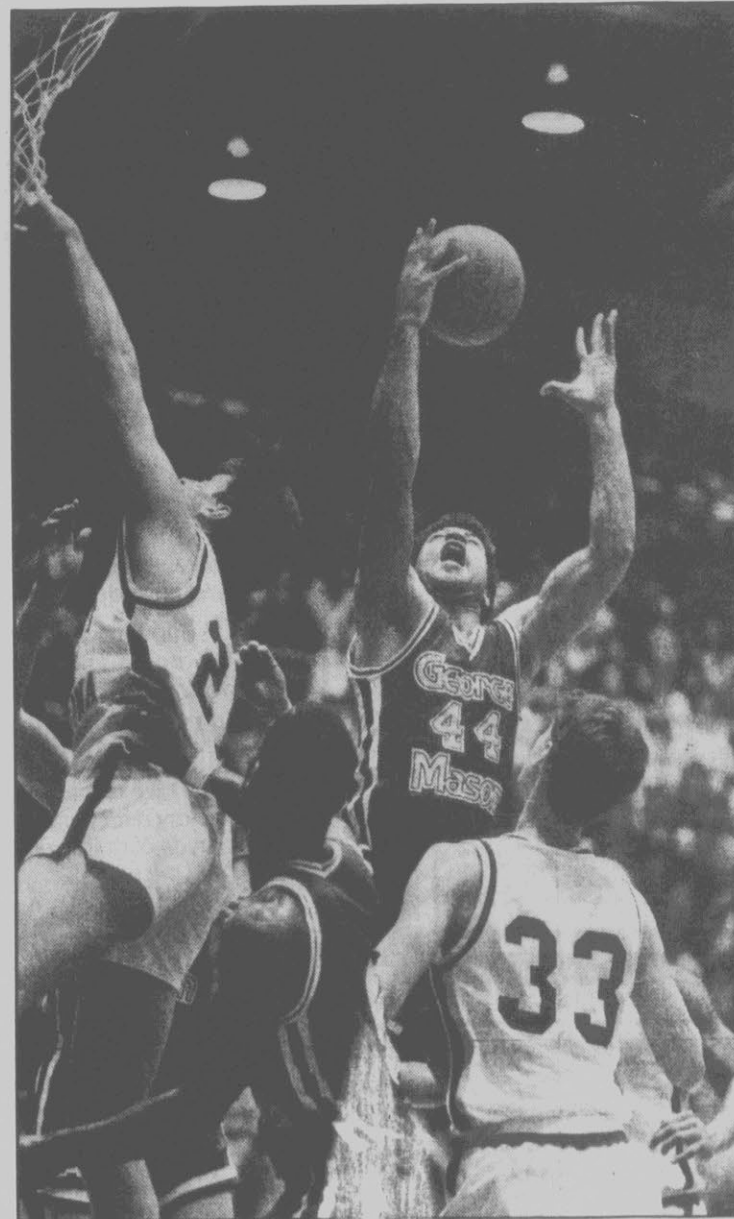

The ensuing 16th-place finish cost him precious points.

Still, Wallace has said repeatedly he has no intention of running an overly cautious race.

"I don't know how to stroke (take it easy)," Wallace said. "If I start laying off and get back in the pack, I get myself back where a lot of trouble happens."

"There's a difference between totally abusing your car and stroking," he added. "I'm going to run hard. But, at the same time, I'm not going to take any crazy chances if I feel they're not in my best interest."

The opening session of qualifying for Sunday's race is scheduled today, with the top 20 positions up for grabs.

Time Flies When You're Way Behind

As football season grinds down to the final weeks of the season, Mike Grizzard continues to hold onto his lead while the rest of us struggle to keep up.

Last week's picks saw little changes in the group, although Tom Morris did move past me into fifth place in the standings.

Well, maybe this week.

As it stands now, Grizzard leads the pack with a 95-32 record, followed by Tom Baines at 91-36, and Vickie Spivey at 90-37. Greg Laudick is 87-40, Morris is 85-42 and I'm 83-44.

Our high school teams in the area have been reduced to just four as the North Carolina High School Athletic Association's state playoffs go into their second week of play.

In the 4-A ranks, Rose plays host to Fayetteville's 71st High School. The two have met but once before, that during the 1976 playoffs. In that game, Rose slipped past the Falcons, 10-6, going on to win the state championship that year. Could that be an omen of things to come?

The Rampants seem to find just enough to pull out the victory against all odds. Last week, they proved it against Jacksonville, getting past their playoff jinx against the Cardinals. The Falcons have some injuries, but should overcome them when they roll into Greenville.

I know that I've seemed to have been going against the Rampants on a fairly regular basis since midseason. And they've fooled me before. Nevertheless, I must go against them again. Seventy-First should get the win here, 20-14.

North Pitt travels to East Bladen in a 2-A contest. The Panthers used a strong defense to surge up through the Eastern Plains Conference for a second-place finish. They were outplayed statistically last week by Northside, but kept the end zone free of their opponents to advance.

This week, however, they face a long bus ride and will be up against another good defensive team. East Bladen finished off its season with a win over powerhouse Whiteville. That's enough for me. East will win this one, 28-13.

Measles Scare Cancels Northeastern-JMU Game

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON — Northeastern coach Paul Pawlak took one look at his depth chart and knew he had a problem.

Pawlak's football team would be missing 21 players, including 10 starters, for the season finale at James Madison because blood tests showed they had not developed antibodies against a measles virus that has hit the campus. So he and athletic director Irwin Cohen decided against making the trip to Harrisonburg, Va.

"It's a safety issue and that transcends all bounds of how important it is to play the game itself," Cohen said. "Football is a contact sport, a very difficult sport. It's one thing to lose, since that goes with the territory. But we would have had to put people in a position where they didn't really expect to be and that's the bottom line."

None of the players was actually sick, but state health authorities wouldn't let them travel outside Massachusetts. And Pawlak would have had to rely on inexperienced players at key positions.

"My main concern was serious injury and I didn't want to subject the kids to a situation they weren't properly prepared for. It's just not worth it," Pawlak said.

Northeastern officials had tried to convince James Madison, without success, to play the game in Boston. The Dukes wanted to play the game

In the other area game, Roanoke travels to Rosewood for a 1-A game. The Redskins, playing as a 1-A team for the first time since consolidate with Oak City, have found new life in their new classification. They finished second in their league and had an easy time of it in the first round.

But the patsies are gone in the 1-A ranks now. Rosewood has turned its program around and is 10-1 in the year. I believe they have enough to stop Levy Jones and company, 24-15.

Last week's record: 5-1. Season record: 69-16.

The panel takes a look at the other high school game this week, Farmville Central and Fuquay-Varina. The Jaguars rolled through the year without a loss, although they had some close games. Fuquay, meanwhile, lost three times during the regular season. The biggest problem the Bengals face is trying to stop Farmville quarterback Morris Foreman, who seems to make things happen just when you think you've got him cornered.

My own pick here is for Farmville, taking a 20-7 win. The panel also goes with the Jaguars, 5-1.

East Carolina's Pirates take to the road to face Pittsburgh. The Panthers haven't won a game in a month, but that's an example of how stats can lie. They had two open dates in there and were defeated by No. 1 Notre Dame and No. 7 Miami. They are riding a two-game losing streak, but they're also being talked about as one of the teams headed to the John Hancock Bowl — previously known as the Sun Bowl before selling their name away.

The Panthers might, just might, be in a position to look ahead toward their game with arch-rival Penn State. Whether that's enough is questionable. My choice has to be Pittsburgh, 35-17. The panel goes with the Panthers also, by a 6-0 ballot.

Our other consensus choices: Clemson over South Carolina, Georgia Tech over Wake Forest, N.C. State over Virginia Tech, Missouri over Kansas, Auburn over Georgia, Duke over North Carolina, Virginia over Maryland, Louisiana State over Mississippi State, Oklahoma State over Iowa State and Iowa over Purdue.

Virginia, Duke Battle For ACC Title With Stand-Ins

By Tom Foreman Jr.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia and Duke will be battling for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship Saturday, but the battle will be waged against stand-ins in separate states.

Both teams take 5-1 conference records into Saturday's games and will share the title if both win.

The 16th-ranked Cavaliers will meet Maryland at College Park in a game that will be played at 4 p.m. to accommodate ESPN. At noon, 25th-ranked Duke faces North Carolina in their traditional season finale.

If both teams lose, they will share the championship with Clemson, which is at 5-2 and finished its conference schedule two weeks ago. But if one team wins while the other loses, the winner will have the championship for itself.

Also at stake are bowl bids. After beating North Carolina State last weekend, the Blue Devils (7-3) were said to be in line for the All-American Bowl. Now, according to reports, the Florida Citrus Bowl has announced it will take the ACC champion to face the Big 10 runner-up.

Coach Steve Spurrier, apparently aware of the circumstances, has put a priority on things.

"The conference championship is much more important than a bowl game," Spurrier said. "That's, to me, the ultimate goal."

"We set very high goals last spring. We can reach them if we play well Saturday," he says.

Duke hasn't had its own conference title since 1962. It hasn't been to a bowl game since the 1961 Cotton Bowl, where it took a 7-6 victory over Arkansas.

Wilson...

"Walter Wilson, right now, is playing as well as any receiver in the country," ECU head coach Bill Lewis said. "He has played his best against the better secondaries in the nation. We need him to stay healthy as long as possible."

The Pirates will face a sophisticated coverage scheme this weekend against Pitt. The Panthers blend single coverage, double coverage and zone defenses similar to those in the pros.

That comes as no surprise considering assistant coach and defensive coordinator Bob Valesenti was secondary coach for the Baltimore Colts in 1962-63. Offensive coordinator Paul Hackett (Cleveland, Dallas and San Francisco) and Bill Meyers (Green Bay and Pittsburgh) also have NFL backgrounds.

"After reviewing the films this week, it looks like they play a lot of cover two and a lot of man when the score is close," Wilson said. "Once they get a big lead they go to a lot of zone to protect themselves."

"I think we're going to get a lot of man-to-man coverage early and, if we break out on top, I think they'll switch up."

And like most receivers, Wilson heartbeat accelerates when he recognizes one-on-one coverage.

"I'm licking my chops," he said. "Every time somebody comes up close I think they're at a mismatch. They're in my hands."

Virginia has won the only two bowl appearances in the school's football history. The Cavaliers are still looking for their first ACC title, and Welsh says the incentives to play well are obvious.

"If we win, we'll have a 10-win season and the conference championship at a minimum," he says.

"Maryland is a big rivalry for us and it's on national television. There are lots of reasons to prepare and play well."

Maryland (3-6), 2-4, mustered a 13-13 tie with Penn State last weekend, but that might have taken its toll, says Coach Joe Krivak.

"You're always afraid the tank is dry," Krivak says. "How many times can you get up? How many times can you play hard?"

Playing hard might be difficult for the second straight week. Krivak says, because Virginia is "even more explosive than Penn State."

North Carolina (1-9, 0-6) has had the defense which has pleased Mack Brown. It's his offense that has given him problems, and to try and solve the dilemma in the last week, Brown is going back to freshman Chuckie Burnette.

"We felt like Chuckie did some real good things," Brown said of the quarterback's performance in last weekend's loss to South Carolina.

In other games this weekend, Wake Forest is at Georgia Tech, Virginia Tech is at N.C. State and Clemson ends the year at South Carolina.

Coach Bill Dooley says the Yellow

Jackets (4-4, 3-3) have been able to capitalize on a successful quarterback in Shawn Jones and a stingy defense, not to mention tailback Jerry Mays. It is those points that the Demon Deacons (2-7, 1-5) will have to attack. "If we are to have success on defense, we must slow Jones and Mays down," Dooley says. "Together, they account for more than 300 yards a game. You can't stop them — you just have to slow them down."

Georgia Tech has a lot on the line, too, although there's no bowl or no conference title on the line.

"It would mean an awful lot for us to end on a positive note in the Atlantic Coast Conference and go out with a winning record," Georgia Tech coach Bobby Ross says. "Obviously, it would put us in the upper echelon of the top four teams in the ACC."

N.C. State (7-3) reportedly has locked down a berth in the new Copper Bowl in Tucson, Ariz. But all Coach Dick Sheridan is interested in is Virginia Tech.

"All I know is that Virginia Tech has averaged 24 points the last three games," he says. "They also scored 25 in the second half against Virginia last week, which means they did better against Virginia's defense than we did."

Clemson (8-2) is reportedly headed to the Gator Bowl, but Coach Danny Ford says the injuries which have plagued the two teams this year may give rise to a new game.

St. John's Tops Aggies By 64-57

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Lou Carnesecca at one time had as much use for the 3-point field goal as for a three-piece suit.

With the addition of Prop 48 sophomore Chuck Sproling and the obvious need for an outside game to go with a strong front line, Carnesecca has switched rather than fight the long jumper as a focal point of the St. John's offense.

The 25th-ranked Redmen set a school mark for 3-point shots and nearly equalled another Thursday night in a 64-57 victory over North Carolina A&T in an opening-round game in the preseason NIT.

Playing without co-captains Jayson Williams and Boo Harvey, Carnesecca knew that the Aggies' well-packed zone would mean the Redmen would need a big game from the 6-foot-6 Sproling.

"He gave us a little lift and this was his first college game," Carnesecca said of the Denver native, who scored 12 points and made three of six 3-point attempts. "We talked about the shot before the game. We're trying."

Last season, the Redmen averaged two 3-pointers and six attempts per game. St. John's took 15 shots against North Carolina A&T, three more than the school record, and made six, one short of a school mark.

"Coach Carnesecca has a lot of confidence in me and I feel comfortable about taking it," said Sproling, who also had five steals, four rebounds and three assists.

St. John's was never able to feel comfortable about the game even after taking a 50-35 lead with 13:03 to play.

The Aggies, facing a two-inch height disadvantage per man on the front line, hung tough with zone defenses, getting within 59-57 with 55 seconds to play on a 3-pointer by Glenn Taggett, who led North Carolina A&T with 14 points.

Malik Sealy, who led St. John's with 22 points and 11 rebounds, then scored on a drive with 22 seconds to play.

"I knew there were four seconds left on the 45-second clock and I saw a hole in the zone and started to drive," Sealy said. "As soon as I felt the man I started the shooting motion. It was close."

Aggies coach Don Corbett didn't think so.

"There is no continuation in college. He was fouled on the floor," he said. "I don't want to talk about it. I'll dream about it but I won't talk about it. That was a big play."

Sealy missed the free throw but the Aggies couldn't connect and three free throws by the Redmen accounted for the final score.

"I expected to win. I didn't play to be close," Corbett said. "They were under some hardships but we had a mental lapse and poor shot selection that caused us to go down by 15."

The 6-10 Williams is out indefinitely with a displaced fracture in his right foot. Harvey, the point guard, was sitting out a one-game suspension handed down by the NCAA for playing in an unsanctioned summer league game.

"Without Jayson and Boo, I didn't feel I had to score more but I felt I had to raise my game to another level of intensity," Sealy said.

St. John's sophomore center Robert Werdann had a tough night. The 6-11 Werdann, who had nine points and six rebounds in 25 minutes, had the flu and spent nearly eight minutes of the first half in the locker room. He was coughing throughout the game and then in a scramble for the game's final rebound, he was cut above the right eye and needed a long inside stitch to close the wound.

St. John's plays host to Houston, a 67-66 winner over Wichita State on Thursday night, in a quarterfinal game Saturday night.

Tonight's three quarterfinal games have No. 19 North Carolina State at DePaul, Kansas at No. 2

Louisiana State and California at No. 1 UNLV.

The semifinals are Wednesday at New York's Madison Square Garden with the championship game on Friday night.

Houston 67, Wichita St. 66

Byron Smith drove for a layup with 1:03 left to help Houston hold off Wichita State.

Wichita State turned the ball over with 49 seconds to play and Smith ran out the shot clock to leave the Shockers just a few seconds of working time. Aaron Davis missed a 10-foot shot.

Lance Kroll connected from the lane to give Wichita State a 66-65 lead with 1:33 left, its first advantage since early in the game. The Shockers missed their first four shots of the second half and trailed by nine points before rallying, cutting the deficit to 63-62 on John Cooper's basket with 4:02 remaining.

Smith led all scorers with 29 points, including 19 in the first half as the Cougars built a 41-37 lead. Cooper led the Shockers with 15 points and Davis had 11. Houston's Carl Herrera had 13 points and Craig Upchurch had 10.

World Cup Rained Out

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MARBELLA, Spain — Torrential rains in southern Spain forced officials to cancel today's second round of the 37th World Cup Golf tournament and shorten the tournament to 54 holes.

The decision to cut a round from the planned 72-hole tournament favors the Australian team of Wayne Grady and Peter Fowler, which held a seven-shot lead after Thursday's first round, giving opponents from 31 countries less time to catch up.

Officials of the World Cup Golf match committee announced the decision before the start of play after early morning rains quickly drenched the Las Brisas Golf Club course.

The course was still heavy from the severe storms that struck the area Tuesday.

Australia took the lead Thursday behind Peter Fowler and Wayne Grady. They combined for a 10-under-par 134 Thursday and a seven-shot lead.

Spain, with Jose Maria Olazabal shooting a 70 and Jose Maria Canizares a 71, was in second place at 141 and Sweden was at 142, thanks to four birdies on the last five holes as Mats Lanner finished at 69 to go along with a 73 by Ove Sellberg.

Paul Azinger four-putted from just off the tricky 18th green for a double bogey to finish at 70 and drop the defending champion United States to fourth place at 143. Mark McCumber scored a 73, including an eagle on the par-5 No. 3 hole.

Fog in London and storms in nearby Malaga contributed to the Australians' harrowing journey, which saw them leave their luggage and clubs behind when they left a Malaga-bound airplane in Seville and decided to rent a car.

Severe gridlock forced the resourceful pair to pull off the highway between Seville and Marbella and sleep for four hours in the car.

They finally arrived at the golf course hotel Wednesday afternoon, but their luggage and clubs did not reach them until late that same night.

Neither was able to get in a practice round although Fowler walked the course while Grady slept.

They had both played Las Brisas in the 1987 Spanish Open.

"Maybe that was good for us, although I wouldn't want to go through it again," said Grady, who shot a 68 to go along with Fowler's 66 that missed the course record by one stroke.

"Sometimes after a practice round you have too many preconceived ideas about the course that you become confused. We just went out there with clear heads and began shooting away."

In Oakland, motorists passing by at the time of the earthquake assist rescuers on the Nimitz Freeway.

In Charleston, families with severe hurricane damage to their homes find room to take in families with no homes at all.

Countless other stories like these have taken place all across the country this year. Stories of ordinary people reacting in extraordinary ways to bad situations.

Their actions weren't seen on TV. Their deeds weren't recorded in any book. They received no reward other than the satisfaction of knowing they had helped a fellow neighbor in a time of need.

Our agents and claims representatives have seen firsthand the spirit of cooperation and goodwill that has prevailed in these disaster-stricken communities. They've also been reminded just what an honor — and challenge — it is to live up to the words "good neighbor." Especially when surrounded by so many remarkable examples of it.

This year has tested our people and our resources. Our claims operations in unaffected areas have maintained their own high level of service while contributing over 1750 claims representatives to our Disaster Teams. In turn, these teams have crisscrossed the country to assist local disaster efforts. So far this year, we've handled more than 550,000 disaster claims, with settlements approaching $1,500,000,000. We'll stay on the job, too, until every claim is handled.

At State Farm, we're proud of the job our agents and claims people have done to provide fast, fair claim service. But most of all, we're proud to provide these services to people who have given new meaning to the words "good neighbor."

Hargrove Leads Purple To Victory

BEULAVILLE — Tonya Hargrove scored 22 points to lead the Purple to a 67-62 victory over the Gold as East Carolina University's women's basketball team scrimmaged at East Duplin High School Thursday night.

The game was the only public intra-squad scrimmage the Lady Pirates will hold this fall.

Toina Coley added 13 points while freshman Gaynor O'Donnell added 11 for the Purple.

Sandra Grace led the Gold with 17 points while Michelle Marsh added 16 and Keeneya Wilson had 14.

The Lady Pirates will hold its third annual Alumni Game on Saturday at 7 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. The women will open the regular season on next Friday at Georgia Southern.

PURPLE (67)
Hargrove 22, Coley 13, O'Donnell 11, Dupree 9, Thurman 6, Jones 6.

GOLD (62)
Marsh 16, Grace 17, Wilson 14, Hamilton 7, Crowder 6, Addison 2.

East Carolina Cross Country Awards

East Carolina University presented its annual awards to its cross country teams Thursday night.

Matt Schweitzer and Ann Marie Welch received the Most Valuable Runner awards, while Kyle Sullivan and Denise Wehrenburg were named Outstanding Freshmen.

Schweitzer and Terri Lynch received the Ironman Award as being the most consistent.

Senior awards were presented to Rusty Meador, Schweitzer, Lynch, Jen Hough and Kim Griffiths.

Tyson-Ruddock Postponed Indefinitely

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The Canadian promoter of Mike Tyson's scheduled heavyweight title defense against Donovan "Razor" Ruddock said Thursday that the fight has been postponed indefinitely.

Garry Stevenson said Home Box Office, which televises Tyson's fights, said it could not proceed with a Jan. 20 date for the bout because of a printing deadline for its January program schedule. Stevenson said Don King, Tyson's promoter, supported the decision. Bill Cayton, Tyson's manager, could not immediately be contacted.

The bout originally was scheduled for Saturday, but was postponed after Tyson became ill. It was then tentatively rescheduled for January.

Stevenson said HBO telephoned him Wednesday and gave him only 45 minutes to resolve outstanding matters for the fight. He said he was unable to contact financial backer Ed Bean, on vacation in Phoenix.

Stevenson also said he could not explain why neither King nor HBO Sports president Seth Abraham didn't tell him about the deadline earlier. In any event, he said, other complications would probably have caused a postponement. HBO officials could not immediately be reached.

Stevenson said he expects many of the 10,000 people who bought tickets to ask for refunds. He said he still believes there is a 70-percent chance Tyson will fight Ruddock in Edmonton within the year.

Payton Joins St. Louis Push For Franchise

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton, who holds the NFL career record for rushing yardage, wants to be the league's first black owner.

Payton on Thursday became a full partner in the St. Louis NFL Partnership, which is trying to acquire an expansion franchise for the city. Payton joined Fran Murray, minority owner of the New England Patriots, and Jerry Clinton, owner of Anheuser-Busch Inc.'s largest distributorship, in St. Louis County, in efforts to bring the NFL back to the city.

St. Louis lost its NFL franchise when the Cardinals left for Phoenix after the 1987 season.

"Walter's participation in this project is like our proposed stadium itself — bigger than life," Clinton said. "As a player, Walter was in a league by himself."

"The St. Louis application will be second to none and no one could provide our fans with the prospects for a great football like Walter will," Clinton said.

"Payton, 35, who rushed for 16,726 yards in 13 seasons and also holds the league record with 110 touchdowns, said he has been looking for a chance to get into ownership since retiring after the 1987 season.

"When I left the NFL one of my dreams was to be an owner of an NFL franchise," Payton said. "At that time, St. Louis was not available, so I made my rounds and did the things I needed to do to get myself prepared and situated.

"St. Louis to me was the key city for expansion. It stands head and shoulders above the rest of the cities that are looking for franchises simply because of what it has to offer."

Gators Will Not Go To Independence Bowl

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Florida won't consider playing in the Independence Bowl in Shreveport, La., because the game Dec. 16 would conflict with final exams, interim coach Gary Darnell said.

Penny Lee, the bowl's assistant executive director, said Gator officials notified the bowl Wednesday and said they couldn't attend, even if invited.

"Given the circumstances, it would be difficult for us to go to that. Our commitment to academics here wouldn't allow that," Darnell said.

The University of Florida would have had to rearrange the players' exam schedules if the Gators participated in the bowl game. The game falls the day after finals end, but the players would have to spend most of exam week in Shreveport preparing for it.

Florida, 6-3 going into Saturday's game against Kentucky at Florida Field, is low on the lists for the remaining bowl slots.

"I would like to go to one, but it's not up to me to accept an invitation," said junior tailback Emmitt Smith.

The Independence Bowl, which pays $500,000 to each team, is leaning toward matching Tulsa against either South Carolina or Kentucky.

The Freedom Bowl, scheduled Dec. 30 in Anaheim, Calif., also has expressed an interest in the Gators if Indiana loses its next two games to Illinois and Purdue.

Melbourne To Bid For 1996 Olympics

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Bob Hawke on Thursday night pledged multi-million dollar support by the government for Melbourne's bid to host the 1996 Olympics.

Hawke also promised to personally lead the bid when International Olympic Committee delegates decide the host city for the 1996 Games at a meeting in Tokyo next September. Hawke said he was confident the bid would be successful. The city last hosted the Olympics in 1956.

Australia's commitment to the Olympic movement was equalled by few and surpassed by none, Hawke said.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HARTFORD, Conn. — Illegal payments to college football players are widespread, and many former players think the system should be changed to provide greater financial assistance to student athletes, according to a study by a University of New Haven professor.

The study of active and retired NFL players found that 31 percent accepted illegal payments while in college, and 53 percent saw nothing wrong with breaking NCAA rules to earn extra cash.

"For me, the results said that it's far more than what they say at the NCAA, that it's not just a renegade institution or the deviant player. There's a substantial underground economy that's likely to be unstoppable," Allen L. Sack, the UNH sociology professor who conducted the study, said.

"I think the problem with the system is that it's humiliating for athletes and degrading for higher education," Sack said Thursday during a telephone interview.

The study found cheating to be most pervasive in the major conferences, particularly in the Southeastern Conference. Sixty-seven percent of the SEC's former players who responded to the survey admitted taking under-the-table payments to augment their scholarships.

Seventy-eight percent of the 1,182 active and retired NFL players said the financial aid provided student-athletes under existing NCAA rules is inadequate.

Ferry's Rights Traded To Cavs

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Cavaliers, their championship hopes damaged by injuries to key players, have turned their attention to next season by trading leading scorer Ron Harper to the Los Angeles Clippers for the NBA rights to Danny Ferry.

Ferry, the 6-foot-10 Duke forward who was the second pick in this year's draft, refused to sign with the Clippers and is playing for an Italian professional team under a one-year contract worth a reported $2 million. Harper, a 6-6 guard, leads the Cavaliers with a 22-point average.

Cleveland also received former Georgetown forward Reggie Williams, while the Clippers got the Cavaliers' first-round picks in 1990 and 1992 and a second-round pick in 1991.

Cavaliers general manager Wayne Embry said Ferry is committed to remaining in Rome through the end of the Italian season in May, but David Berst, the NCAA's assistant executive director for enforcement, said he expected that someone with the organization would review the findings.

"I don't know how to react for sure," Berst said.

Sack said the players reported that a "vast majority" of illegal payments were made by alumni, although coaches also reportedly made improper payments. Payments were made by sliding cash under dormitory doors, or in congratulatory handshakes after games, Sack said. "One player said he routinely found cash in his helmet every Monday before practice."

An important source of illegal cash is derived from the sale of complimentary tickets each player receives. Sack said one player admitted getting as much as $1,000 per ticket. NCAA rules prohibit players from selling the tickets.

Most players who admitted accepting illegal payments said they received about $1,000 over four years. In addition to cash, they accepted free meals and clothing, Sack said. A new suit was a popular payoff among older players, the study found.

One player, however, said he received some $80,000 in illegal payments during his college career. Another said he was offered part interest in an oil well but refused, Sack said.

Under NCAA rules, a player can receive only room, board and fees. A college player who accepts payment to play can be forced to forfeit his scholarship, and his school also could be subject to disciplinary action by the NCAA.

Sack worked closely with the NFL Players Association in conducting the study. The players group provided names and addresses of 3,500 former and current NFL players, each of whom was mailed a questionnaire. The respondents ranged in age from 22 to 83.

The players association agreed to participate because it wanted to learn how widespread the use of agents was among college athletes. Sack said 17 percent of those surveyed said they had been approached by agents while undergraduates.

Sack said the responses and his own research indicate illegal payments are nothing new and, in fact, have been going on for about 100 years. To support his claim, Sack's study quotes a letter written in 1902 by a dean at Yale University to then-coach Walter Camp discussing under-the-table payments.

In the Southeastern Conference, the study found, there was an explosion of illegal payments beginning in 1965. The study found that 83 percent of former SEC players knew of athletes who took illegal payments, while 67 percent of the former SEC players admitted receiving payments.

Among SEC players older than 40, 53 percent said they knew of athletes who accepted illegal payments, while only 38 percent admitted to taking any money, Sack said.

"Something started happening in 1965. Maybe it was TV or aggressive recruiting. I don't totally understand it myself," Sack said.

SEC associate commissioner Mark Womack said he had "glanced" at the study and doesn't believe it provides an accurate reflection of illegal payments in his conference. He contended the percentages are "way too high."

Womack noted that only 115 former SEC players responded, but that about 2,500 have played in the SEC since 1965. The league has been in existence since 1932-33.

"The database is probably not a good indication of the college scene," Womack said from his office in Birmingham, Ala.

He said the study also could be skewed because it focuses only on "superstar" college athletes, the kind who typically go to the NFL. He said these top players are the most likely of all college athletes to cheat.

The practice of accepting illegal payments has remained most consistent over the years in the Big Ten and Pac 10 conferences, Sack said. Regardless of the age of the former players, the percentage of cheating remained consistent, indicating its long-standing use in the two conferences, Sack said.

Among former Big 10 players, 48 percent said they knew of athletes who took illegal cash, while 36 percent admitted to putting the money in their own pockets.

Fifty-nine percent of the former Pac 10 players said they knew of others who broke the rules, and 39 percent admitted receiving illegal payments.

Orlando's Otis Smith falls after tripped up by Milwaukee

Buff Coach Is Wary Of Kansas

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Before the second-ranked Colorado Buffaloes can play the best college football program in the country, they must get past the worst.

The Buffs (10-0) appear to be a lock for a possible Orange Bowl national championship game with No. 1 Notre Dame, whose winning percentage of .759 (681-202-40) is the nation's best. But first Colorado travels to Manhattan, Kan., this weekend for a regular-season win-dup with Kansas State, at the opposite end of the spectrum at .373 (300-519-40).

The only thing Notre Dame and Kansas State have in common is 40 ties apiece. Nevertheless, Colorado coach Bill McCartney is concerned — so he says — about the Wildcats, even though the Buffs are seven-touchdown favorites.

"I worry about every game," McCartney said. "With the national championship a possibility, we don't want to go into Manhattan and sputter, stub our toe and lose the momentum we've built up."

"It's within our grasp. We can control our own destiny. If we play well and win our next two games, we'll be the national champion."

Meanwhile, Notre Dame has to win two tough games, both on the road, just to set up a 1-2 showdown with Colorado. The Fighting Irish visit No. 17 Penn State on Saturday, followed by No. 7 Miami on Nov. 25.

For what it's worth, Notre Dame has lost road games to those two teams in every odd-numbered year this decade.

Notre Dame-Penn State is the weekend's only pairing of ranked teams. Elsewhere, third-ranked Michigan can clinch at least a tie for the Big Ten championship by winning at Minnesota; No. 4 Alabama, assured of no worse than a tie in the Southeastern Conference, entertains Southern Mississippi; No. 5 Florida State plays host to Memphis State, No. 6 Nebraska has a meaningless-for-a-change Big Eight home game with arch-rival Oklahoma, Miami entertains San Diego State, No. 8 Southern California hosts UCLA and No. 9 Tennessee is at home to Mississippi. Tenth-ranked Arkansas is idle, along with No. 13 Houston, No. 14 Texas A&M, No. 18 West Virginia and No. 24 Hawaii.

In other games, No. 11 Auburn is at Georgia, Indiana is at No. 12 Illinois, No. 15 Clemson is at South Carolina, No. 16 Virginia is at Maryland, East Carolina is at No. 19 Pitt, No. 20 Texas Tech is at Southern Methodist, Utah is at No. 21 Brigham Young, Wisconsin is at No. 22 Ohio State, No. 23 Fresno State is at New Mexico and No. 25 Duke is at North Carolina.

Colorado should run over Kansas State — literally. The Buffs are third nationally in rushing (357.2 yards a game) and the Wildcats are 104th among the nation's 106 Division I-A teams in rushing defense, yielding 278.8 yards a game.

"It's true that we have better players than Kansas State," McCartney said. "But I think we realize that on a given day, any team can beat any other team."

"In general, we look at it as a game we obviously need to win ... so we can set up the opportunity to play Notre Dame in Miami and have it be for the big stakes. But we've got to be careful with ... people writing that this week's game won't even be a contest. We have to guard against all that nonsense."

Notre Dame takes a school-record 22-game winning streak to Penn State (6-2-1). There have only been four longer major-college streaks in the last two decades. Next on Notre Dame's list is Nebraska's 23-game skein in 1970-71.

Coach Lou Holtz struggled for nice things to say about Navy and SMU, Notre Dame's last two opponents. It's easier this week since Penn State is the stingiest team in the nation, yielding just 9.2 points a game. Notre Dame, however, is a 9½-point favorite.

"We went up to Penn State two years ago in much the same situation and we lost a close one (21-20)," Holtz said. "Penn State is No. 1 in the country in scoring defense. No one has scored more than two touchdowns against them, so we'll have to play a great game to win."

"You know Penn State is not going to make many mistakes, so to win the football game you've got to beat them. They're not going to help you. It's one thing to make the mistakes we did against SMU, but we can't do that against Penn State if we want to have a chance to win."

"We're going to have to be at our best offensively this week because Penn State's defense isn't going to give up much. And our defense better play well because I don't think we can expect to score many points against them."

The Nittany Lions won't need much motivation to play the nation's top-ranked team.

"When you think of college football, you think of Notre Dame," defensive tackle Rich Schonewolf said. "I look forward to playing them because if we knock off the best team it would really make our season."

What would make Michigan's season is giving Coach Bo Schembechler his first national championship.

"It's conceivable," Schembechler said. "A lot of circumstances have to happen and we have to have a lot of friends vote for us. It's a real, real long shot. Our concern is to win the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl. We can't look that far ahead now."

Michigan's only loss was 24-19 to Notre Dame in the season opener. The Wolverines must beat Minnesota and Ohio State the next two weeks and then Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl while hoping that Notre Dame, Colorado and Alabama all lose.

Nebraska-Oklahoma won't be for all the Big Eight marbles but it's still Nebraska's biggest game of the year, according to Coach Tom Osborne, even though Barry Switzer won't be across the field.

"We have a great deal of respect for the Oklahoma football team," Osborne said. "Nothing's changed really, other than neither of us is leading the league right now."

"I think defensively they're about the same as they always have been — very quick and very well-coached, and they play very hard."

Osborne said the Sooners also look improved offensively since quarterback Steve Collins returned from an injury.

Osborne has said he will miss his matchups with Switzer, who became Oklahoma's head coach in 1973, the same year Osborne took over at Nebraska.

Milwaukee Pulls Own Magic Act

Bucks Score 50 In 1st Quarter Against Orlando On Way To 132-113 Win

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Milwaukee Bucks showed the expansion Orlando Magic what fast starts are all about.

The Bucks tied an NBA record with 50 points in the first quarter Thursday night and went on to romp 132-113, sending the Magic to its fifth straight loss.

Orlando opened the season by winning two of its first three games. But since then, the Magic has struggled.

"We definitely jumped on them from the beginning," said Ricky Pierce, who finished with 28 points. "We weren't underestimating this team. They'd played Detroit to the wire."

In other games, Houston beat the Los Angeles Clippers 94-82, Seattle stopped Washington 111-98 and New York defeated Sacramento 121-102.

The host Bucks raced to a 13-0 lead. They made 21 of their 24 field-goal tries, including all three of their 3-point attempts, in the first quarter.

Milwaukee matched the mark for points in an opening quarter, set by Syracuse in 1962 and tied by Boston and Utah in 1982. The record for points in any quarter is 58, set by Buffalo in 1972.

"We moved the ball around and got a lot of easy shots in the first half and that enabled us to get the early lead," said Alvin Robertson, who, along with Jay Humphries, got 10 points in the first quarter. "From that point on it was pretty much a fun game."

Orlando was held without a basket until Reggie Theus scored 3½ into the game.

"We came out and fizzled the game away. We took a step backward," Theus said. "We were tentative. What have we got to lose? A game? We have to be overachievers."

The Bucks led 77-58 at halftime and were ahead 112-89 after three quarters.

"We didn't have a book on them so we cautioned our guys to play hard early and they did," Milwaukee coach Del Harris said. "After that, the game settled down and was pretty even the rest of the way."

Rockets 94, Clippers 82

Otis Thorpe had 27 points and 10 rebounds as Houston beat Los Angeles, shortly after the Clippers made two major moves.

The Clippers traded holdout Danny Ferry, the second overall pick in this year's draft, and Reggie Williams to Cleveland for Ron Harper and three high draft choices. They also re-signed Benoit Benjamin, who had hoped to join Ferry in Italy, to a one-year contract.

Akeem Olajuwon had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Rockets. Mike Woodson scored 16 in his first game off the injured list.

Gary Grant scored 21 points and Tom Garrick had 16 for the visiting Clippers.

Knicks 121, Kings 102

Patrick Ewing scored 32 points and New York ended Sacramento's nine-game home winning streak that started last season.

Ewing, who had 43 points Tuesday night in a loss at Portland, shot 15-for-26 from the field and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Gerald Wilkins scored 25 points and Charles Oakley had 17 rebounds for the Knicks. Johnny Newman had seven points during a 9-2 burst that made it 115-95 with 2:07 left.

Wayman Tisdale scored 25 points and Rodney McCray 23 for the Kings.

SuperSonics 111, Bullets 98

Rookies Dana Barros and Shawn Kemp sparked a 17-2 spurt in the third quarter that sent host Seattle over Washington.

The Bullets, playing for the fourth time in five days, led 68-67 with 6:42 left in the third period. Barros, a 5-foot-10 guard from Boston College, scored seven points and Kemp, a 6-foot-10 center who made the jump directly from high school to the NBA, added six as the Sonics took the lead.

Xavier McDaniel finished with 26 points, Barros scored a season-high 25 and Kemp and Derrick McKey each had 18.

John Williams scored 23, Bernard King had 22 and Ladell Eackles 21 in the Bullets' third straight loss.

Court Approves Reagan Subpoenas

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Former President Reagan is under orders to turn over documents by Wednesday to John Poindexter, who says his alleged crimes in the Iran-Contra affair were authorized by the president.

In an order issued Thursday, U.S. District Court Judge Harold Greene said Poindexter "may serve upon former President Reagan and upon the archivist of the United States the subpoenas... submitted to the court."

The archivist has possession of presidential records of the Reagan administration. Reagan took his diary with him when he left the White House.

Greene's ruling marks the first time in the Iran-Contra scandal that a judge has approved a subpoena for documents from Reagan.

Poindexter's lawyers say they want Reagan's diary as well as notes he took at key meetings with his national security adviser, but it is unclear what the subpoenas demand, since Greene did not disclose their contents.

The judge ruled last month that Poindexter, who was Reagan's national security adviser, is entitled to subpoena "specific, relevant documents" bearing on the criminal charges against him.

Reagan's lawyers are almost certain to challenge the subpoenas, but the Justice Department may be less likely to step into a legal battle.

Reagan, asked by reporters in Cincinnati about the subpoena, said, "Cases like that before the law. I don't comment."

The Justice Department will examine the Reagan subpoena in light of the 1974 Supreme Court ruling on the Watergate tapes, said a Justice Department source, speaking on condition of anonymity.

"We are in the process of reviewing" Greene's order "to determine what action we should take, if any," said Justice Department spokesman David Runkel.

Stello Nomination Appears Doomed

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration's chances of winning quick confirmation of Victor Stello Jr. as chief of nuclear weapons production appear lost.

Energy Secretary James D. Watkins, in an unusual personal plea to the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the administration wanted Stello confirmed before Congress starts its two-month recess, probably next week.

But Thursday, after two days of hearings on Stello's fitness for the post, the committee acknowledged it was unsure how and when to act on the nomination.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the panel chairman, said the 20-member committee would meet in closed session this afternoon to consider its next step. He said one option was to bring Stello back to supplement the testimony he delivered Wednesday.

Watkins told the committee Wednesday that he urgently needed a confirmed assistant secretary for defense programs to carry out the reforms needed to get the weapons production complex in full operation again. Key elements of the complex have been shut down in recent months for safety reasons.

Stello, the chief of staff of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, is accused by opponents of being lax on nuclear safety matters. He has stoutly denied that and contended he's fully qualified for the weapons post.

"Mr. Stello should not be in this kind of position of responsibility," Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., told Nunn's committee Thursday. Kostmayer is chairman of a House Interior investigations subcommittee that held hearings earlier this year on Stello's NRC activities.

At least two committee members, Democratic Sens. Timothy Wirth of Colorado and Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, oppose the nomination, and Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, has strongly hinted that he believes Stello is ill-suited for the post.

NEA Chief Approves Grant To AIDS Show

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Organizers hailed a last-minute decision by the National Endowment for the Arts to fund an art exhibit on the AIDS epidemic as a split decision in favor of free expression.

NEA chairman John E. Frohnmayr, who earlier this month had rescinded a $10,000 grant awarded in May, said Thursday that he would release the grant.

The exhibit at the Artists Space gallery features paintings, photographs and sculpture by 23 artists, and contains several explicit depictions of male genitals and controversial religious images.

Frohnmayr had disputed the program's catalog, which includes derogatory references to Cardinal John J. O'Connor, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, and to lawmakers who supported a bill restricting funding of art considered obscene.

But after seeing the exhibit, he relented.

"After consulting with members of the National Council on the Arts, several of whom have also seen the show, I have agreed to approve the request of Artists Space... and will release the grant for the exhibition only," he said.

Show organizers accepted the money but stood by the catalogue.

Pedestrians stage walk Thursday on the quake-damaged San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge

Thousands Celebrate Repairs To Frisco-Oakland Bay Bridge

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge was to reopen to cars tonight at midnight after a celebration of the quick repair job on the span that was damaged in the Oct. 17 earthquake.

Singer Tony Bennett belted out "I Left My Heart in San Francisco" at the close of an open party on the bridge Thursday, but changed the line about "coming home to you, San Francisco," to make it "Oakland-San Francisco."

The ceremony featured speeches by Gov. Deukmejian, San Francisco Mayor Art Agnos and Oakland Mayor Lionel Wilson, lauding the repair job on the 53-year-old bridge, which took exactly one month.

Deukmejian called the bridge's reopening "the first major event of the rebuilding process" for Northern California, which was struck by a 7.1 magnitude quake that killed 66 people and caused $7 billion in damage.

The politicians spoke from a stand just a few yards from the spot where the tremor sent one end of a 50-foot section of the bridge's upper deck plunging onto the lower deck. One person died when the car she was in fell into the gap.

Thousands of people walked from both ends of the bridge to the ceremony but stopped short of the damaged section, where some minor work remained to be done.

Wilson jokingly reminded Agnos that he was "sitting in Oakland now;" the break was on the Alameda County side of the bridge. The two mayors had carried on a keen rivalry during the World Series between the Oakland Athletics and the San Francisco Giants. The series, symbolized by the bridge on T-shirts and other items, was interrupted by the tremor.

Those who marched on the bridge from San Francisco included Susan Palumbo, 42, who was in a bus on the bridge when the earthquake hit.

"I didn't feel the quake, but it was scary because we were waiting for an aftershock to take the bridge down," said Palumbo.

Meanwhile, a panel of engineers said the repairs have made the bridge as strong as it was before the Oct. 17 tremor, but said that another, similar quake would seriously damage the span.

"Mother Nature performed an experiment that showed (the bridge) was not designed adequately," said geologist Robert E. Wallace, chairman of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission's Engineering Criteria Review Board.

"It failed in a very distant earth-

Oldest Woman Will Turn 115

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PALATKA, Fla. — A big birthday bash is planned for Carrie White, who turns 115 Saturday and is recognized by the Guinness Book of World Records as the oldest living person on Earth.

As many as 800 guests are expected at the party planned for Monday at Putnam Memorial Nursing Home, where Mrs. White lives, and there will be a big cake, nursing home administrator Paul Allen said.

When she turned 114, Guinness representatives gave Mrs. White a gold embossed certificate declaring her the oldest person alive, though she was not listed as such in the 1989 edition of the record book because hospital records certifying her age had not been authenticated in time.

quake," he said. The epicenter of the quake was in the Santa Cruz Mountains about 70 miles to the south.

The bridge, one of the most traveled in the world, carried an average of more than 260,000 vehicles every work day before the quake.

In the past month, commuters who normally drove the bridge to work had to travel longer, slower alternate routes or use mass transit.

Panel Studies Senators' Roles In S&L Failure

WASHINGTON — An outside counsel will investigate five senators who intervened with banking regulators to help a political contributor, a source says, indicating an intensified probe by the Senate Ethics Committee.

The source, speaking on condition of anonymity Thursday, did not say whether a counsel had yet been hired to investigate the senators, who aided Charles H. Keating Jr. when he was the chairman of the failing Lincoln Savings and Loan of Irvine, Calif.

But the New York Times reported today the committee had decided to hire prominent Washington attorney Robert S. Bennett for the investigation, as well as for an unrelated review involving Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y. A source says the Senate Ethics Committee is reviewing allegations that D'Amato violated rules in the Department of Housing and Urban Development scandal.

Until now, the Ethics Committee's only known interest was a letter asking the five whether Keating's contributions — $1.3 million to the senators' campaigns or political causes — prompted them to question regulators about their examination of Lincoln.

The senators are Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.; John Glenn, D-Ohio; John McCain, R-Ariz., and Donald Riegle, D-Mich. Cranston responded to the committee Thursday as DeConcini and Riegle did earlier, all denying any improprieties. Glenn and McCain have not yet filed formal responses but have denied wrongdoing.

Also on Thursday, federal regulators handling the Lincoln S&L failure seized a luxury resort and a hotel in Arizona owned by Keating.

Bennett earlier this year was selected by the committee to investigate accusations that Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., laundered $100,000 in campaign contributions through a book contract.

The Ethics Committee does not formally announce a decision to proceed from an initial expression of interest to the first formal stage of a case known as a preliminary inquiry. The inquiry determines whether there's a "reason to believe" rules violations occurred.

If the committee so decides, it would begin an initial review to determine whether there is "substantial credible evidence" of violations.

The final step is a full investigation to decide if there is "clear and convincing evidence" that standards were violated, and whether discipline should be recommended to the Senate.

A standing Senate order says that Ethics Committee investigations "shall be conducted by outside counsel ... unless the select committee determines not to use outside counsel."

Two 6th-Graders Killed By Officer

INVER GROVE HEIGHTS, Minn. — The shooting deaths of two sixth-grade boys at the hands of a police officer has outraged members of the Laotian immigrant community in this St. Paul suburb.

Thia Yang and Basse Lor, both 13, were killed Wednesday by a single blast from a 12-gauge shotgun fired by Officer Kenneth Murphy, said Mark Shields, superintendent of the state Bureau of Criminal Apprehension.

ing for her mother, who does not speak English.

Minnesota has the second largest contingent of Laotians in the United States, after California. The Hmong tribesmen began arriving from Laos in 1975, at the close of the Vietnam war.

Outraged Laotians have been calling Yang Yang, director of the Lao Family Community of Minnesota, he said.

"They're calling because when they heard about police officer using shotgun to kill the two kids, Members are very, very upset," Yang said.

"The officer is trained and knows how to deal with people and he should have known how to deal with those kids not firing a gun," said Ge Yang, coordinator of the Lao center's delinquency prevention program.

The shootings followed a brief chase by police responding to an auto theft call, according to Shields. The pursuit continued after the car went into a ditch and three boys fled on foot, he said.

Murphy pursued the boys on foot through a field. He took cover behind a hay wagon, identified himself as a police officer and shouted at the boys, who fled. The officer saw Yang raise his hand with what Murphy thought was a gun, Shields said.

Murphy was about 30 yards away from Yang when he shot, and Lor was about 15 feet behind and to the side of Yang, Shields said.

The third boy, a 14-year-old, was arrested after the shooting, authorities said.

Shields said Murphy, 54, a 20-year-old veteran of the force, mistook a screwdriver in the hands of one of the boys for a gun. The boys had been pursued earlier in a stolen car, police said.

"Why would police shoot a young kid? Why didn't they just stop him? Those questions weren't answered," said Sau Thao, a friend of Thia Yang's family.

"Officer Murphy, fearing his life was in danger, discharged his weapon," Shields said.

Murphy was placed on paid administrative leave pending a grand jury investigation, said Dakota County Attorney James Backstrom. A special prosecutor will present the evidence, he said.

"My mom says she doesn't understand why they didn't just put in him jail, why they had to kill him," said Blia Lor, 18-year-old sister of Basse Lor. Her mother, who had been shot several times while fleeing Laos, sobbed.

"She says why don't the police kill her instead," Blia Lor said, speaking for her mother.

Bulgaria Ousts Ex-Party Chief

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SOFIA, Bulgaria — Parliament today ousted former Communist leader Todor Zhivkov as head of state after one lawmaker accused him of amassing a personal fortune while the nation's economy deteriorated.

Parliament replaced Zhivkov with Petar Mladenov, the new party leader.

The parliamentary session continued the dizzying pace of reform that began in Bulgaria on Nov. 10 when the hard-line Zhivkov was suddenly ousted as party leader after a 35-year tenure and replaced by Mladenov.

Today's moves, and the harsh criticism of Zhivkov, came during the first live television broadcast of a Parliament session in the history of Bulgaria.

On Thursday, the Communist Party's Central Committee ousted three hard-line Politburo members and promoted four liberal Communists.

Church Workers Detained

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Fears of renewed repression spread today following the slaying and mutilation of eight people, including six Jesuit priests, and the reported detention of a dozen workers with the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America.

Another member of the Jesuits, a Roman Catholic order, quoted witnesses as saying government forces shot the priests and their cook and her daughter. The government denied responsibility and said the murders were "savage and irrational."

Hours after the slayings, uniformed security officers arrested a dozen Lutheran missionaries, a Canadian diplomat said, and another Lutheran missionary fled the country.

The slayings occurred amid the biggest leftist rebel offensive in the nation's 10-year-old civil war.

The fighting continued today between members of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, and government troops. Flares lighted the predawn sky and the sound of mortars, rockets and machine guns shattered the quiet.

El Salvador only recently emerged from a period of repression during which death squads and rightist elements of the military were accused of killing thousands of people.

The Salvadoran right considers church activists and church intellectuals to be subversives.

President Alfredo Cristiani, who took office June 1, said at a news conference Thursday that the government was not involved in the priest slayings and that he had ordered an investigation.

German Cabinet Proposed

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WEST BERLIN — East Germany's new premier today asked parliament to approve a Cabinet in which more than a third of the members would be non-Communists, and he called for more private enterprise.

Premier Hans Modrow also rejected talk of reunification with West Germany, which began last week after East Germany lifted travel restrictions and opened its borders, including the Berlin Wall.

The Communists would still dominate the 28-member Cabinet presented to the 500 lawmakers in the People's Chamber.

Modrow said Thursday 11 Cabinet members would not be Communists. Their names were not immediately disclosed today.

In his first address to parliament since he took over as premier Monday, Modrow outlined several main points, including a "reform of the political system," legal reforms and steps to clean up one of the most polluted countries in Europe.

He also called for "increasing individual responsibility of the economic units" and allowing East Germans to engage in private enterprise to produce goods and offer services in the shortage-plagued economy. However, he rejected a "free-market economy."

Modrow also told his listeners East Germany will remain a "socialist" and "sovereign" nation, and he appealed to citizens to support the new government.

East German leaders have been struggling to retain a basic socialist system in a nation swept by pro-democracy activism and tempted by offers of aid from West Germany in return for free-market reforms.

The new members are expected to back Mladenov's reforms.

In his acceptance speech, Mladenov said he would implement sweeping political and economic reforms, but he did not give specifics. He said the "new socialist Bulgaria" will have more respect "for (human) rights and freedom for all Bulgarians."

The new leader also called on the unicameral parliament — traditionally, as in other Soviet bloc countries, a rubber-stamp body for party decisions — to take a more active role in "controlling" party and government work.

Mladenov has moved quickly to secure his position in the party. Informed sources said further top-level changes were expected in the party and government to clear Communists loyal to Zhivkov's rule.

The 400-member National Assembly voted unanimously by a show of hands to oust Zhivkov as head of state and to replace him with Mladenov. Deputies praised Mladenov for his "enthusiasm" for perestroika, Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's reforms. They also leveled unprecedented criticism at Zhivkov.

Deputy Slavcho Trnski delivered a scathing attack on Zhivkov to the stunned deputies, accusing the former leader of having led the country into deep economic crisis while leading a "flamboyant lifestyle."

He called for the "real truth" to come out about Zhivkov, who he said owned 30 homes around the country. "Not even the richest countries in the world could stand those expenses," he said.

He also charged that Zhivkov was "hungry for fame" and held on to power by pursuing a policy of "divide and rule."

Horoscope From The Carroll Righter Institute

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY Nov. 18

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): You will now be able to meet some dramatic strangers who will become your friends. Handle business in your usual style.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): This is the day to repay social obligations to couple in your home. Be as much as possible with mate in activities.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Being very socially active today will bring you much pleasure. Try to get your family to go on a trip with you.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): By being complimentary you can make a good friend of a successful person. Join with people from distance for fun.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You can add to your assets by dealing with a successful person. Use all your energy to improve conditions at your home.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): An expanded new view of your home will make conditions easier there. A couple will give you good advice in business.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): A friendly couple will aid you in the selection of your financial affairs. With your mate you can have a pleasant time.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Invite your friends into your home for a pleasant time. Accept the invitation of friends with your mate today.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Accept invitations from several people but don't allow yourself to be fenced in by social obligations.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't get upset because of entertaining at home. You should receive wonderful closeness of your attachment now.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Taking chances with money now could lead to considerable problems. Do entertaining at home in a different manner.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): A delayed trip with a friend should be accepted with peace. Take an interesting person home to meet your mate.

We have a correspondent whose bad luck is legendary. Every time a contract seems to be in the bag, some wicked distribution sounds the death knell. True, our friend is accident prone, but the fates are not always to blame.

North-South ended in three no trump after a routine auction. North checked on a major fit, then settled in the no trump game when South turned up with four cards in the "wrong" suit.
West led the jack of diamonds. Declarer won in dummy and made the instinctive play of the club finesse. That lost, and back came another diamond. Declarer won in hand, cashed the ace of clubs and received the bad news. He had only eight tricks, and needed a heart trick for his ninth. Unfortunately, West won the first heart and forced out the last diamond stopper, then got in with the other high heart to cash two diamonds for a one-trick set.
Triply unlucky. Had East held four clubs to the king, declarer would have been home even though a long club could not be set up. And West could not have established and run his diamonds without both heart entries. But South could have made the contract had he stopped to count the tricks available.

Declarer could take three spade tricks, three diamonds and a club on top, so only two more were needed. The heart suit would provide those in perfect safety. Declarer should win the first trick in dummy and immediately lead a heart. No matter how West defends, declarer can establish two heart tricks before the defenders can get anything going. There's just one more trap to avoid—declarer must forgo the club finesse and cash out once the game-going heart tricks are established.

Networks Plan Re-Creations Of News But Future Doubtful

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — CBS' "Saturday Night With Connie Chung" is set this weekend to air another reconstruction of a news story, using actors to help tell it. But at both CBS and NBC, the technique could prove the wave of the past.

CBS News officials, whose low-rated Chung series has been hit by criticism and even cartoon ridicule for re-creating news stories with actors, may cut back such re-creations or even drop them, network sources say.

"They're back-peddaling," says a CBS executive who spoke on condition of anonymity. "Whether they cease to do re-enactments or do fewer of them and are more selective is a subject of discussion."

NBC News, which has used news re-creations in the first three of its "Yesterday, Today & Tomorrow" specials, has also been considering whether to end their use. On Thursday afternoon, however, NBC said a re-creation segment would air in a YTT broadcast set for Nov. 28.

Tom Ross, senior vice president for news planning at NBC News, says the network is satisfied that YTT's re-creations were accurate and handled well. "But ... we're re-evaluating the future of them here," he says, declining to elaborate.

Andrew Lack, executive producer of Chung's series, did not return phone calls. CBS spokesman Tom Goodman declined to comment when asked if the show's re-enactments are being scaled back or eventually will be dropped.

Several have been completed, though, and likely will be broadcast. One is on the Three Mile Island nuclear plant accident.

In Saturday's re-enactment, an actress plays a teen-age girl trying to get an abortion. Two other actors also appear. So do people who were involved in the real girl's real story, a spokesman for the show says.

This mix of the real and the re-enacted recently was lampooned in a Jules Feiffer cartoon. It pictured a man watching CBS' show and hearing that Pat Sajak plays Vice President Dan Quayle and that Chung "is played by Cher."

But the mix is no matter for mirth by news traditionalists like former CBS News President Richard Salant. He says re-enactments blur the line between news and entertainment and wouldn't be permitted under guidelines he once drew up for CBS News, which he left in 1979.

"Absolutely not," he says, adding that "no news organization has anything to go with except its credibility. If you start mixing imagined fact with real fact, there goes your credibility."

Both the Chung show and NBC's YTT specials say their re-enactments are clearly identified as such.

But some viewer confusion seems to exist, according to a Los Angeles Times poll taken in August, a month before Chung's show premiered but after the Aug. 2 debut of the first of NBC's "Yesterday, Today & Tomorrow" specials.

A majority of the 1,250 adults surveyed said they could not evaluate the shows. But of those who felt they could, about 18 percent considered "Yesterday, Today & Tomorrow" to be news, with 14 percent thinking it entertainment.

Rock 'N' Roll Benefit Set

SAN FRANCISCO — A rock 'n' roll extravaganza to aid earthquake victims will unite some of music's biggest movers and shakers in a daylong, three-site marathon, promoter Bill Graham announced.

The Nov. 26 concerts will feature John Fogerty, Carlos Santana, Sheila E., Crosby, Stills & Nash, Neil Young, America, Eddie Money, the Chambers Brothers, Taj Mahal, Bonnie Raitt, Etta James, Ten Years After and Tower of Power.

The shows will be held at the Henry J. Kaiser Center in Oakland, the Cow Palace, and the Watsonville High School football field.

A separate show, featuring the Grateful Dead, will be held at the Oakland Coliseum on Dec. 6.

Meanwhile, entertainer Bill Cosby will stage benefit performances Dec. 8 and 9 at Harrah's Tahoe in Stateline, Nev., to raise money to aid earthquake victims.

Musician Injured

LOS ANGELES — Rap musician Tracy Lynn Curry of The D.O.C. was in stable condition after losing control of his car on the Ventura Freeway, authorities said.

Curry, 21, suffered injuries to his face, including damage to one eye and his nose, said California Highway Patrol Officer David Graveda.

The Staff and Management of Vernon Park Mall would like to take this opportunity to wish you a season of beautiful Christmas moments . . . the sound of children's laughter, the twinkle in a parent's eye, the wag of an excited pup's tail, the warmth felt when you give of yourself to another, the sounds of carols from street corners, the peaceful quiet of snow falling . . . may your Holiday Season be filled with happiness, prosperity and joy.

BRAND-NEW TEXTURE

An ingeniously textured silvery dial catches the light in patterns as ever-changing as time itself. The rich texture gives new excitement to a simple round dial with roman numerals for a watch that's as unique as it is accurate. A black lizard strap completes the picture, an understated elegance to wear now and forever. Also available for ladies.
