Dear Dr. Absolon:

The Editors have reviewed the manuscript entitled, "The Development of Gastric Surgery, An American-European (Czech) Connection" and regret that they cannot accept it for publication.

The demands upon the space in our Journal are great, and it is necessary to keep the material which we publish balanced as well as possible among the various fields of surgery which our Journal represents. We also attempt to keep the interval between the time of acceptance and publication of manuscripts as short as possible. To attain these goals, at times it is necessary to refuse publication to worthy material.

The Editors appreciate the opportunity to consider your manuscript for publication.

Sincerely yours,

G. Tom Shires, M.D.
