Dear Karel:

Thanks for those copies of your transplantation studies and I hope that somehow you will have additional opportunity to continue your research interests in the years ahead.

I, too, am sorry that we did not have additional opportunities to talk about our mutual interests while you were at Minnesota, for certainly there was much to be said. As a consequence, everybody was bubbling with new and interesting conversational gambits. Since it is probable that the Wangenstein Group will continue to meet for sometime at the American College of Surgeons Meeting, we can expect that a number of persons will assemble under this common attraction upon that occasion.

May things go well with you.

Yours very truly,

Richard L. Varco, M.D.
