PREFACE.

Headquarters 37th Regiment United States Colored Infantry,
SMITHVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, July 1, 1866.

To the Officers and Enlisted Men of the 37th United States Colored Infantry:

KNOWING the deep interest felt in the history of the regiment by every member who has shared its services, its dangers, and hardships, and is thereby entitled to a portion of its well-earned merits, I have endeavored to collect the prominent incidents of its history and organization.

You will find the following pages to contain a brief sketch of the organizing, arming, and equipping of the regiment; a summary of its services from the time it entered the United States service to the present date; also, the name, rank, and date of appointment of each officer, the name and rank of each enlisted man, (the latter arranged in Companies, and each Company prefaced by a short sketch of its organization,) with remarks also appended to the names of both officers and men, noting all changes that have taken place in the whole regiment.

The object, however, in preparing this work was not to write a history of the regiment, nor to enter into a detailed account of its operations, but simply to furnish a brief summary of its services, with any other data that might be interesting to its members. It is, however, not supposed that this work will elicit any interest from the public at large, as it is a strictly local work, only intended for the members, and their friends and families, of this particular regiment, to serve as a remembrance to both officers and soldiers of the most eventful period of their lives, and to preserve this book in their families for future reference as sacred to the days when they were soldiers fighting for the best government on the face of the earth, and striving to maintain the liberty and equality of all.

Hoping that this work may give satisfaction to all the members of the regiment, and feeling under deep obligations to both officers and men for their kind assistance in getting up this work, which I hope at least may not be devoid of some interest and do justice to all,

I have the honor to remain

Very respectfully,

A. H. STEIN,

Publisher.

ORGANIZATION.

THIRTY-SEVENTH REGT. U. S. C. INFANTRY.

BREVET BRIG. GEN. N. GOFF, JR., COMMANDING.

Companies A, B, C, D and E of this regiment were organized at Norfolk, Virginia, during the winter of 1863 and '64, by Lieutenant Colonel Chamberlain. To this efficient officer and strict disciplinarian much credit is due, for the ability and perseverance he displayed during the organization of the regiment, having many obstacles in his way to contend against, the most formidable being the strong prejudice against negro soldiers.

This feeling was happily soon banished, for our ablest generals and statesmen were not slow to perceive the importance and necessity of arming the Freedmen, thus giving them a chance to strike a blow for their own liberty, which they have done manfully, and, by their bravery and soldierly conduct, have not only helped win their freedom, but also the glorious privilege of a representation in the army and navy of the country, which honor they probably never would have had, if they had not shown themselves worthy of it. Every one knows what an important and brilliant part the colored men took during the late war, and it is often remarked by Southern people, now since it is all over, that if they had only armed the negroes and allowed them to fight for the South, they would have gained their independence, and slavery would probably have existed in the Southern States for many years to come—perhaps for centuries.

It was under such circumstances as these, that our first colored regiments were organized. Although many of those that availed themselves of the opportunity offered by the Government, and took up arms in the country's hour of danger, saw more and harder service than this regiment, it nevertheless has achieved a military record that every officer and soldier belonging to it may well be proud of.

There might be much said in praise of both officers and men who are and have been connected with this regiment. Some of them have exhibited great military ability, and filled the various positions they were placed in, under the most trying circumstances, with the greatest credit to themselves and to the service, thereby eliciting the highest commendation from the War Department on several occasions. In consequence, this regiment is held in high repute at military headquarters, and has been retained in the service on, that account, being the last and best colored regiment remaining in this Department.

The first five companies, as soon as organized, were ordered to the field, with the first brigade, third division, Eighteenth Army Corps. Companies F and G were mustered and joined the other companies in the month of May, 1864; the regiment at this time was engaged in active campaign duty. Company H was soon after added, and the regiment was ordered to the front of Petersburg, and took an active and conspicuous part in the siege of this city; it was then ordered to the forts at Wilson's and Harrison's Landings, on the James River, where it remained until the 25th of September, when it was ordered to Deep Bottom, Virginia, where it arrived on the 28th of September, 1864, was immediately put into action, and after three days hard fighting completed the reduction and capture of New Market Heights and Fort Harrison, and for distinguished bravery and soldierly conduct at this battle, was honorably mentioned by the Major-General commanding the right wing of the army. Although the regiment lost a great many men, it remained upon the field it had won, and successfully resisted the repeated attempts of the enemy to retake the ground. There it completed its organization as a regiment by receiving companies I and K, which were mustered into service on the 28th day of November, 1864.

On the 3d day of December, the regiment was ordered to join in the first expedition against Fort Fisher, under General B. F. Butler, where it arrived on the 25th, but was soon ordered back to Virginia, and went into camp at Chapin's Farm, December 29th, 1864. On the 3d of January, 1865, this regiment joined the second expedition against Fort Fisher and Wilmington, under Major-General Terry, and near dark on the 11th disembarked, taking the lead of the forces charged with the important duty of cutting off the land communication between Fort Fisher and the rebel forces in the immediate vicinity. The regiment crossed the Peninsula to Cape Fear River, and entrenched themselves about three miles above the fort. Here it was forced to remain until the surrender of Fort Fisher and the other fortifications at the mouth of the river and General Terry's forward movement towards Wilmington, in which it took part, driving the enemy from their entrenchments, and marching steadily onward until February 22d, when, after much fighting, Wilmington was captured. On the same day the regiment fought the enemy at North-East Station, North Carolina. Soon after this engagement it started on the march to Raleigh, forming a junction with General Sherman's army, at Mount Olive, North Carolina, and remained under Sherman until after the surrender of General Johnston, when it was ordered to Goldsboro' in May, remaining until June, when it was ordered back to Wilmington, to perform provost duty in that city, in which capacity it gave the utmost satisfaction to the citizens, who expressed themselves highly pleased with the soldierly manner in which these troops performed their duty.

On the 25th of November, 1865, Companies F, I and K, commanded by Major Weinman, were ordered to Fort Macon, Roanoke Island and Hatteras; the remaining companies to Smithville, Fort Fisher and Fort Caswell, at the mouth of Cape Fear River; headquarters being at Smithville.

OFFICERS.

REGIMENTAL, FIELD AND STAFF.

Notes of Organization, etc., furnished by Capt. GEORGE WILLIE SINGER.

Since November, 1864, the regiment has been in command of Brevet Brigadier-General N. GOFF, JR., a veteran soldier, a gentleman, and an efficient officer, filling his position with signal success and ability, esteemed and respected by both officers and men under his command. General Goff was mustered into the service of the United States as a captain in 1861, in the Second Rhode Island Volunteers, took part in all the battles of the army of the Potomac with his regiment, was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel after serving three years, and mustered out with his regiment in 1864; re-entered the service, and was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of Twenty-second United States Colored Troops; promoted to Colonel, and transferred to the Thirty-seventh United States Colored Troops, in the army of the James; was severely wounded at the battle of Petersburg; Brevetted Brigadier-General United States Volunteers, in February, 1866.

Lieut. Col. A. G. CHAMBERLAIN entered the United States service, May, 1861, as Captain Company B, First Massachusetts Volunteers; took part in many hard-fought battles, at one of which, (Fair Oaks, Virginia) June 25th, 1862, he was dangerously wounded in the head, and the country came near losing the services of one of its most noble sons; he however recovered, and once more rejoined his regiment, and was appointed Provost Marshal at Ricker's Island, New York harbor. He was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel of Colored Troops in October, 1863, and immediately set about organizing this regiment, in which he served with credit to himself and his country, until June, 1865, when he resigned and returned to private life.

Maj. JAS. CROFT was mustered into this regiment as Major, February, 1864, and discharged the service in July, 1864.

Major PHILIP WEINMAN entered the service as a private, United States Regular Service, 1861, and was commissioned Captain Sixth United States Colored Troops, at the organization of that regiment; promoted Major, and transferred to Thirty-seventh United States Colored Troops, January 1, 1865; died of disease at Fort Macon, North Carolina, March 28, 1866. This was a brave officer, and his death was deeply and sincerely mourned by all his fellow-officers and the men in the entire regiment.

Maj. WILLIAM A. CUTLER enlisted as a private in Company H, Thirteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, June 24, 1861. Appointed Corporal, November 1, 1862; immediately appointed Sergeant and First Sergeant, April 1, 1863. Appointed Captain of Colored Troops, October 1, 1863, and assigned to Thirty-seventh United States Colored Infantry. Brevetted Major, March 13, 1865. Promoted Major, May 7, 1866. This brave and distinguished officer has taken part in twenty-one battles.

Brev. Maj. CONSTANTIN NITZSCHE. This gallant officer was appointed Captain in 1863, and brevetted Major in 1865. He has seen eight years' service as commissioned officer, in foreign regular service, and is well qualified to fill the position he occupies.

First Lieut. and Adj. CALVIN MIXTER. Appointed in January, 1864. Discharged the service, December 8, 1864.

First Lieut. and Adj. GEORGE W. SINGER. Promoted Captain. (See History of Company I.)

First Lieut. and Adj. JOHN L. RHOADES. Appointed Adjutant June 5, 1866. (See History Company A.)

First Lieut. and R. Q. M. CHARLES DRAYTON. Enlisted as a private in Thirteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, June 15, 1861. Discharged at expiration of term of service, March 30, 1863. Joined Thirty-seventh United States Colored Troops, January 15, 1864, as Quartermaster-Sergeant; commissioned Second Lieutenant, June 15, 1865, and assigned to Company G for duty. Was soon after detailed as A. A. D. C. and Assistant Provost Marshal District of Wilmington, North Carolina, on staff of Brevet Brigadier-General J. W. AMES. Received the appointment of Post-Quartermaster, Wilmington, September 14, 1865. December 11, 1865, was relieved and appointed Regimental Quartermaster Thirty-seventh United States Colored Troops.

Surgeon ARTHUR H. COWDRY. Appointed October 1, 1863. Discharged, June, 1865.

Surgeon DANIEL W. HARDY. Appointed Assistant Surgeon, January, 1864. Promoted Surgeon of the Regiment for long, faithful and efficient service, August, 1865.

Assistant Surgeon WILLIAM CRAIG. Appointed July 15, 1865; was formerly Assistant Surgeon Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Assistant-Surgeon JOHN P. JONES. Appointed September, 1865, from civil life.

Assistant-Surgeon WILLIAM A. CROUSE. Appointed February, 1864. Discharged for incompetency, July, 1864.

Chaplain WILLIAM A. GREEN. Appointed October 1, 1863. This is a faithful and conscientious officer, anxious to do good in the position he has been placed; teaching the men not only religion, but also to read and write.

Non-Commissioned Staff.

Sergeant-Major JOHN WILLIAMS. Entered the United States service April 15, 1862, at New York city, as a private in the Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Colored Volunteers; was promoted Sergeant May 6, 1862, and discharged at the expiration of term of service, August 12, 1863. Re-enlisted in the Thirty-seventh, December 10, 1863, at Newbern, North Carolina; was appointed Sergeant-Major November 16, 1865.

Quartermaster-Sergeant ANDREW J. MARSHALL. Enlisted December 26, 1863, at Beaufort, North Carolina. Appointed Sergeant February 1, 1864. Promoted First Sergeant February 14, 1865. Promoted Quartermaster-Sergeant May 1, 1866.

Commissary-Sergeant WILLIAM B. DAVIS. Appointed August 1, 1866.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "A."

This Company was mustered into United States service January 30th, 1864, at the entrenched camp, near Norfolk, Virginia, as Company A, 3d North Carolina Colored Volunteers, of General Wild's African brigade.

The Company, since its organization, has been commanded by Captain Constantin Nitzsche, who was brevetted major for gallant and meritorious services in the field. Owing to the strict discipline observed by the officers in command of the Company, several desertions have occurred. It may be mentioned, and with credit to this Company, that only three of its members have been tried by court-martial since its muster in—Privates Kage Heath, Thomas B. N. Fitzpatrick, and Richard Merrick; the latter was acquitted.

On the 27th day of March the Company was removed to Smithville, North Carolina, (Fort Johnson,) relieving Company H, of this regiment.

The following is a list of the officers :

HISTORY OF COMPANY "C."

The Company was first organized and disciplined under the youthful, very efficient and gallant Captain A. J. Washburn, who retired to private life as soon after the cessation of hostilities as possible, with a consciousness of having won a sufficiency of military glory and honor, having served his country from the very commencement of the "war."

First Lieutenant George H. Bridgwater came to his untimely death by disease, in hospital, closing a most glorious military career. He was a most genial companion and friend, and his premature end was heartily lamented by all of his fellow-officers and men under his command.

Second Lieutenant S. H. Willis was promoted into another regiment for meritorious conduct, in advance of his own term in his own regiment and company.

Upon the death of First Lieutenant Bridgwater, First Lieutenant A. C. Rembaugh was assigned to the Company to fill the vacancy, being promoted to Captain, vice A. J. Washburn, resigned.

First Lieutenant F. H. Moon, a veteran and battle-scarred hero of the war, was assigned to this Company in April, 1865, and has proved himself a gentlemanly and very efficient officer.

Second Lieutenant S. D. Edgar was promoted from the non-commissioned staff.

The Company has always had the reputation of being under the best of discipline from its first organization, the men exhibiting many soldierly qualities in every thing relating to their duties.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "D."

Company D was also organized at Norfolk, Va., during the early part of 1864. Took an active and conspicuous part in all the engagements the regiment was ordered into; both officers and men of this organization deserve much credit for the fidelity and patriotism displayed at the battle of Fort Harrison, the Fort Fisher Expedition, and all the other engagements immediately following, until the surrender of Wilmington. This Company was detailed to do provost duty in this city, in which capacity they gave the greatest satisfaction to the citizens and speedily restored good order, when the Company was sent to form part of the garrison at Fort Caswell, at mouth of Cape Fear River, North Carolina.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "F."

This Company was organized at City Point, Virginia, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 25th day of May, 1864, and immediately ordered to Wilson's Wharf, Virginia where it, however, remained but a few days, being ordered with the remainder of the regiment to the front of Petersburg. While there this Company saw some hard service.

Although raw recruits, just mustered in, the men behaved like veterans, displaying dauntless courage and much bravery in this their first and consequently most trying engagement. The Company participated in all the battles this regiment has been engaged in, doing throughout good service and behaving in a soldierly manner, thereby eliciting the well-merited approbation of the commanding officers.

In November, 1865, this Company was ordered to Newbern, North Carolina, and from thence transferred to Fort Hatteras, where it now constitutes the garrison.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "I."

This Company was recruited in Newbern, North Carolina, in the months of August and September, 1864, and was organized as a Company at Chapin's Farm, Virginia, November 27th, 1864, by Lieutenant Alonzo C. Rembaugh. This Company since its organization has taken part in all the campaigns in which the regiment has been, and is composed of fine material for soldiers, being one of the best companies in the regiment. It was detached from the regiment at Wilmington, North Carolina, November 28th, 1865, and ordered on duty in district of Newbern, North Carolina, where it was assigned to duty at Fort Macon, North Carolina.

Commissioned Officers.

CAPTAIN SINGER was mustered into the service, as private Company A, First Massachusetts Volunteers Infantry, and participated in the twenty-five battles in which it was engaged up to October 1, 1864, and for bravery and fidelity was commissioned Second Lieutenant of Colored Troops, and assigned to 3d North Carolina Colored Infantry, and placed on recruiting service. After nine months of this duty he was ordered to regiment and assigned to Company F, 37th U. S. C. T., and was in all the campaigns of General Butler, on James river, Virginia, in 1864. He commanded Company B of his regiment, after the death of Captain Foster at the battle of Fort Harrison, and was commissioned First Lieutenant and assigned to Company H, for brave and gallant conduct at the repulse of the enemy at that fort. He was shortly afterwards appointed Regimental Adjutant, which place he filled, for more than a year, participating in all the battles with the regiment. He was Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, at post of Wilmington, North Carolina, September, 1865, and held that position until (the troops being mustered out,) the post was abandoned in December, 1865. He was commissioned Captain May 24, 1866, and appointed Acting Assistant Inspector-General for the State of North Carolina.

JAMES J. SULLIVAN. First Lieutenant. Joined the regiment January 26, 1864, at Norfolk, Virginia. Original entry into service, June 13, 1861, in 11th Massachusetts Infantry, and participated in all the battles in which that regiment was engaged, up to July 4, 1863. Was wounded four times at the second battle of Bull Run, Virginia, on the 29th day of August, 1862. Participated in all the marches, sieges and battles in which the 37th Regiment was engaged, up to the present date.

JAMES H. GRIGGS. Second Lieutenant. Enlisted April 1, 1861, as private Company B, 4th Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. Was with the regiment at the battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861; was wounded in four places, captured and kept in Richmond, from August 1 to November 25, 1861; in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, from December 3, 1861, to March 1, 1862; in Salisbury, North Carolina, from March 14 to June 25, 1862, at which time was released. Re-enlisted in the 33d Massachusetts Volunteers,

July 13, 1862; served until March 29, 1864; was discharged for disability caused by former wounds; joined the 37th U. S. C. T., January 18, 1864, and served continually with the regiment since; was detailed on staff duty as Acting Assistant Quartermaster at Morehead City, North Carolina.
