Insurgents Expect Offensive to be Pushed Against Catalonia

GOAL MAY END CIVIL CONFLICT

Reports Say 20 Killed and 100 Wounded as Barcelona Undergoes Bombing

Hendaye, France, Aug. 19 (AP) — Spanish Insurgents closed the French frontier and loosed a heavy air raid on Barcelona today in preparation for a general offensive.

Insurgent military leaders confirmed that General Franco himself would lead a new drive. Franco named General Vigan, former chief of staff of the northern Insurgent army, chief of his personal staff.

French border guards said insurgent authorities had shut the frontier tighter than at any time since the start of the Civil war more than two years ago.

Insurgent sources said they expected the offensive would be directed against Catalonia, possibly coupled with a simultaneous drive against besieged Madrid.

The goal of the campaign apparently was to end the Civil war before it reaches its third winter.

Insurgents said they bombed Barcelona three times between dawn and noon today. Reports reaching the border said 20 persons were killed, 100 wounded.

The bombing of Barcelona and reports that the Insurgents were preparing a heavy new offensive followed charges that large numbers of Italian troops and quantities of war material recently have been sent to the city.

Six Gallons Booze Found By Officers

Some Pitt county bootlegger is minus a half-dozen gallons of whiskey today as a result of a "find" made by sheriff's officers last night. The illegal contraband, bottled in half-gallon fruit jars, will be poured into a sewer some time in the near future. The owner of the liquor evaded the law.

Outright Grant Of $163,656 To Help Finance Work

OPERATION COST TO BE REDUCED

Projects Include Additional Boiler, New Turbo-Generator With Equipment

Announcement of a PWA grant of $163,656 to finance 45 per cent of a $363,680 improvement project for the Greenville Water and Light plant was made in Washington today.

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the plant, declared that work would be begun in the immediate future. The remaining 55 per cent will be borrowed and repaid by the local utility out of revenue. No bond election is necessary as the project is for replacement of worn-out equipment. The plant is owned and operated by the city of Greenville.

The proposed plant enlargement project calls for the addition of one boiler and one turbo-generator, each with its necessary appurtenant equipment, fuel handling equipment and the necessary construction work, foundations and other constructions, attendant upon such enlargement.

It is anticipated by the Water and Light Commission that the additional equipment contemplated will affect a material saving in plant operation costs due to greater efficiencies involved as compared to existing costs of the present equipment, and that the additional equipment is required because of increased load conditions imposed on the plant.

Data compiled by the commission in making the application follows: "The present plant, owned and operated by the City of Greenville, N. C., under the direction of duly constituted Water and Light Commission, combines a steam-electric power plant and waterworks plant, serving a population of approximately 14,000.

"In 1929 when the population of the city was 5,772, the equipment in the electric plant consisted of two 500 K.W. turbo-generators and two hand-fired boilers.

"In 1924, due to increased load demands on the plant, a third turbo generator having a capacity of 1,250 K.W. was installed, these three pieces of generating equipment being served by the hand fired boilers above referred to. All of the equipment above referred to was designed for a net operating steam pressure of 150 lbs. gauge, with no superheat.

"In 1929 when the peak load on the plant had increased to more than 2,200 K.W., a fourth turbo-generator having a capacity of 3,000 K.W., and two water tube boilers (Continued on page three)

Demurrer Is Filed By State Board Of Elections

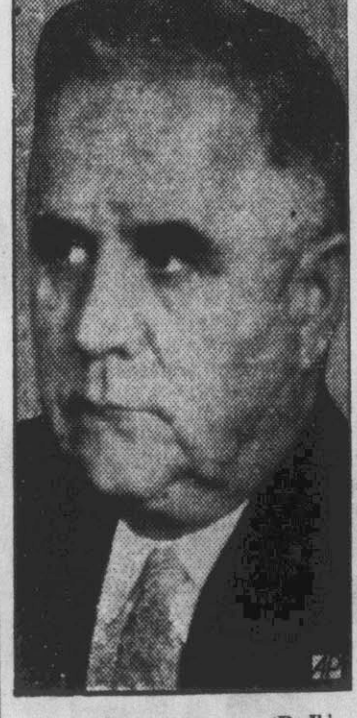

Raleigh, Aug. 19. — (AP) — The State Board of Elections filed a demurrer in Wake Superior court today asking dismissal of an action filed by J. R. Young of Dunn to restrain the board from certifying Solicitor Claude Canaday of Benson, as the Democratic solicitor nominee in the fourth district.

The case, as well as a similar action by W. O. Burkin of Lexington, contesting nomination in the eighth congressional district of C. B. Deane of Rockingham, is set for hearing here Monday.

Young alleged in his complaint that there were "flagrant, needless and indifferent and reckless violations" of election laws in the June 4 Democratic primary in which he trailed Canaday.

The elections board in its demurrer contends "the complaint does not state facts and figures to constitute a cause of action for that under the law and practice in this state, the court is without authority to grant an injunction, as prayed for in this complaint filed herein. DISMISSAL OF MOTOR DEATHS SHOW DECLINE

Seventy Fatalities Recorded During The Month of July

Raleigh, Aug. 19. — (AP) — Automobiles killed 70 persons in North Carolina during July, a drop of 26 under the toll for the month in 1937, so that the toll for this year to August 1 ran to only 453—105 below that for the seven months of 1937.

Major Arthur Fulk, commander of the Highway Patrol, released the compilation today and said "the drop in deaths showed that safety campaigns are having a good effect. I hope North Carolinians continue to exercise care and caution."

The July report showed 650 persons injured and 587 accidents in all, while a year ago for the month 724 were injured and there were 609 accidents. Five persons playing in the streets were killed and 17 hurt and four intoxicated pedestrians were killed and one hurt. In five fatal and 41 non-fatal accidents intoxicated drivers were involved. Speeding caused 19 fatal and 66 non-fatal mishaps. Saturdays were the worst days in July for accidents.

FDR DECLARES MONROE PLAN NOT EXTENDED

No Changes Indicated In Kingston Speech, He Asserts

PRESIDENT BACK AT HYDE PARK

Chief Executive Suggests Critics Read his Original Address Delivered Yesterday

Hyde, Park, N. Y., Aug. 19. — (AP) — President Roosevelt indicated today that no extension of the Monroe Doctrine was invoked in his address at Kingston, Ont., yesterday.

The President arrived here this morning for an indefinite stay. Talking with reporters from his open car at the Hyde Park station, he appeared rested and happy after his strenuous trip through Ontario yesterday.

In his Kingston speech the President asserted Americans would not stand "idly by" if domination of Canadian soil were threatened by a foreign aggressor.

Newsmen at his informal press conference informed Mr. Roosevelt of reports that the State Department in Washington interpreted his speech as an extension of the Monroe Doctrine.

The chief executive suggested his questioners read the original language of the Monroe Doctrine. He called attention to the fact he had not said anything about Latin America in his Kingston talk.

Questioned regarding an address by Representative John O'Connor last night, Mr. Roosevelt said he merely had seen the headlines on it. O'Connor, whom the President criticized sharply in a statement this week, asserted Mr. Roosevelt's intervention in party primaries "is an escalator to a dictatorship."

Czechs Attempt Pacify Sudeten-Nazi Minority

To Give Political Plums to Autonomy Seeking Group

Praha, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 19. — (AP) — Premier Hodza today disclosed the Czechoslovakian government would give choice political plums in an attempt to pacify its glamorous autonomy-seeking Sudeten German minority.

The Premier made the disclosure in a conference with Viscount Runciman, unofficial British mediator in a troublesome minority issue.

Lord Runciman's conference with Hodza followed his meeting for the first time yesterday with Konrad Henlein, leader of the 3,500,000 Nazi-supported Sudeten Germans. Some quarters believed their interview might have found a way for softening the Sudeten German insistent demands.

Seven postmasterships in larger communities are to be given the Sudeten Germans.

From their ranks, it was said, also would be selected the chief of overseers, who directs public works at Bruenn and several employees of the railways administration, as well as district governors at several communities.

The Premier said the Minister of Justice was giving favorable consideration to appointment of a Sudeten German as president of a regional court.

SLIGHT DROP RECORDED IN JOB PLACEMENT FOR JULY

Raleigh, Aug. 19. — (AP) — Job placements, compared with a total of 79,267 as of July 31, 1937.

Since January 1938 each month has shown manufacturing to be the chief source of unemployment as reflected by Employment Service registration of new applicants, accounting in some instances for as many as 70 per cent of the applications.

While manufacturing is still the chief source of applications, agriculture follows it a close second. During July 6,648, or 30 per cent of all applicants, were last employed in some type of manufacturing; the largest number, 3,965, representing textiles. Agriculture, with 6,820 applicants, represented 23 per cent of the applications received.

A comparison of June and July registrations by local areas would be misleading since the July figure includes renewals as well as new applications. However, a comparison of placements and present active file will retain its significance. totalled 170,584 as of July 31 as

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—More about screen supervisors:

The Screen Director's Guild "analysis"—blaming the "inept" among associate producers for much movie waste—said it one way. That was the serious, or we-mean-business way.

But the supervisor (or associate producer) has been taking it from the pokesmiths, since Hollywood stepped growing oranges and took up fruit of other odors.

Without the supervisor, the Hollywood jokebook would be a poor thin volume devoted to the main-prop classics of Samuel Goldwyn, Harry Cohn, Jack Warner, "Uncle Carl" Laemmle, an occasional director or star. With the supervisor, the pokebook's encyclopedia, Wanna sample it?

The granddaddy of all movie jokes is this hoary classic, vintage 1911, when Hollywood hadn't yet annexed Los Angeles.

The director had ambitions. He was going to do a Big outdoor epic. He was going on location. He had picked the spot.

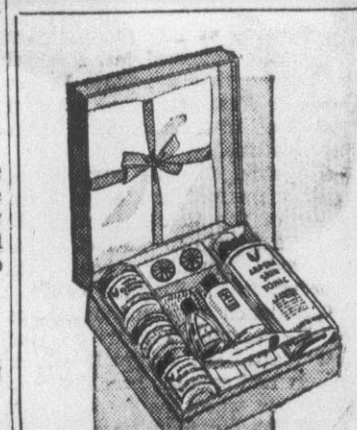

"Just think — gorgeous trees, wonderful rocks," said the producer. "How much?" said the producer. "The supervisor hadn't been spawned yet but was on his way."

The director told him. Said the producer: "A tree's a tree and a rock's a rock—shoot it in Griffin Park."

Oh, all right — it's the Great Granddaddy.

Many associate producers today — Kenneth McGowan Robert Lord, Henry Blanke and others the directors admire and respect for their works — are scholarly gentlemen, but here's the earliest definition of a supervisor: "A man who knows what he wants—but can't spell it."

Then there's this one: The associate producer wanted an assistant. He interviewed applicants essentials for loveliness by Elizabeth Arden special at $2.95

For the month of August only, Elizabeth Arden offers this Vacation Beauty Box at a very special price...a dainty pale blue and pink box, complete with four basic preparations, powder foundation, Sun Fair make-up, cleansing tissues, travel soap cloth and perfume...and all for $2.95!

"How much is 2 and 2?" he shot at the first.

"Four!" snapped the job-hunter.

"Huh — in — fast guy, huh?" You wait outside.

To the second, the same brain test. "Two and two? Lesse — er — four....."

"Huh — in — I like a man what thinks things over. Wait outside."

The third didn't even gulp. "Five," he retorted.

You're supposed to ask which got the job. The third, of course. And why? "Oh, he was the associate producer's nephew."

And the foreign star was having trouble with her consonants. She couldn't say "em." The supervisor got word, came running, his gigantic brain working.

"Trouble with consonants, huh? Well, we fix the scrip. We take out all the consonants and put in vowels! Get going!"

Inspiration—if you believe the yarn—is commonplace among supervisors. It strikes, but then again it does a sit-down strike and comes only after deliberation and much contemplation of the super-visual navel. The hero of this one had heard somewhere that minor chords in music tended to depress the listener. He thought it over. Several days later he issued this dictum: "From now on we have no minor chords in our musical scores. We want our audience to be happy."

This one is told either on supervisors, directors, or producers, according to the teller's prevailing prejudice:

The supervisor, who treasured his own reserved parking place on the lot, one day found it occupied by an actress's car. Indignant, he ordered her to move it. "I'm sorry," she said sweetly. "I knew it was your space but I didn't think you'd be here any more. I just saw your new picture."

LOCKJAW TOLL SEVEN IN JULY

Brings Deaths From Disease to 23 During 1938

Raleigh—Deaths from lockjaw in North Carolina took a rise in July, when 7 were reported to the State Board of Health, bringing this year's total for the first 7 months to 23, as compared with only 21 during the entire year of 1937 and 29 for the year of 1936.

Lockjaw is a preventable disease, it was pointed out by Dr. J. C. Knox, Director of the Division of Epidemiology. "Any person who suffers a stab wound from an old, dirty or rusty piece of metal or from a piece of wood that has been exposed to manure from animals should see a qualified physician at the earliest moment," he said. "The physician, upon being advised of the nature of the case, will give his opinion on whether tetanus anti-toxin, which is regarded as a reliable prophylactic against lockjaw, should be administered. Promptness is absolutely necessary."

Of the 23 who have died so far from lockjaw in North Carolina this year, the records at the Board of Health show, one was a 15-year old school boy of Mecklenburg county who suffered an ax cut on the foot and refused to take tetanus anti-toxin.

Some of the others were: Sixteen year-old Indian boy of Pembroke, stepped on a nail and died ten days later; a 53-year-old resident of Raeford, stuck a nail in the sole of his left foot; and 18-year-old farm boy, of Fayetteville, who stuck a piece of wood in his hand and died in ten days; an 86-year-old woman of Edgecomb county, cause of infection not stated; 22-year-old married woman of Bladenboro, stuck a stick in her ankle; 7-year-old Durham boy, stepped on sharp instrument, presumably on farm; 57-year-old Elizabeth City woman, stuck tack in foot; Many were babies who contracted lockjaw during the first few days of their lives.

The Characters

Huge Stern, handsome author, born on the French Riviera. Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend. Gene Geiss, a singularly unpleasant character.

Yesterday from a waitress in the Bar Alacran we secure Gene's lucky penny and learn that Gene fled from a dark man whose right index finger was missing.

Chapter 11

The Beautiful American

HUGO started in pursuit of Geiss's red car at a breakneck speed. He was a magnificent driver but a trifle too reckless for my liking at the best of times, and the price he was setting would normally have made my blood run cold. But now I found myself yelling at him to go faster.

The road was heading out into the country. Soon it seemed that we were running onto a cape, for I could see blue water on either hand, and as we climbed, Hugo slackened speed a trifle.

"Now which will it be?" he soliloquized. "The note? Or Eden Roc? I hate to damp your expectations, but it's more than likely we're about to surprise a simple rendezvous with a pretty lady."

"Baron Stahl is staying at the hotel," I reminded him, but he shook his head.

"No, no. The man's devilish clever, and he won't take unnecessary chances. From now on it's a case of Geiss and Baron scarce regret that they must be strangers yet, as the old song says."

As he spoke he pulled in under the ice of a rough wall and climbed out after him. We were on the crown of the cape. To the left a closed gate and an imposing driveway led to a vast building that I guessed to be the hotel. Straight ahead another gate, half-open, gave on a winding path descending to shrubbery through which I caught a glimpse of a long, low building. A painted name on the gatepost told me that this was Eden Roc, and next minute I saw parked with a dozen other cars under a clump of pines to the right, the red Delage.

"Well, well," said Hugo, strolling across to her. "Our friend has been driving hard, to judge by the dust he's collected. He drew an exploring finger across her bonnet, and red dust, too," he added on a different note. "That means he wasn't traveling the main road. Let's have a squirt at the gasoline gauge if your young nemesis was right and he filled up before starting that ought to tell us something."

He bent his big shoulders over the dashboard and whistled softly. "Almost empty," said he. "Archie, either he's got a leak in his tank or he's traveled farther than we have this afternoon."

I had leaned over his shoulder to have a look myself, and now I did a hand getting down the side of the cushion. "Even into Italy and back," I added fishing out a small blue-gray packet of cigarettes. "Uso Epiziano aren't sold this side of the frontier."

He nodded, momentarily preoccupied. "Italy it must have been, but not one of the coast towns. Geiss has a pretty taste in tobacco, and he wouldn't buy these if there was anything more exotic to be had. But where did he go, and whom did he see when he got there? I'd give a lot for a heart-to-heart talk with our gentleman."

"You won't get it," I retorted. "The minute I set eyes on that bird I'm going to crown him."

"You'll do nothing of the sort, he answered tartly. "You'll have the goodness to remember that more than your simple pleasures are involved. Express a mild surprise at his faulty memory if you must, but leave the rest to me."

As he spoke he was leading the way down the winding path and into the little building and descended a kind of ladder to a long narrow, green-walled room with a well-stocked bar at one end.

"A Pretty Sight!" The place was built on the brink of a little cliff that fell sheer from the windows to where, far below, the sapphire sea surged and bubbled round jagged black rocks. From a door beyond the bar a flight of steps led down to the water's edge, and there were terraces leveled from the rocky pinacles crowded with sun-bathers on gaudy orange mattresses.

There was one in particular who attracted my attention, a short, paunchy, dark-skinned fellow whose costume consisted solely of abbreviated green bathing-trunks. I watched him for a moment, then he turned and glanced upwards at the windowed terrace and I saw that it was Baron Stahl.

"Well," said Hugo at my elbow "what do you think of the playboys of Europe? There are more millionaires to the square inch in this bar than anywhere else in the world."

I jerked my thumb towards the window. "The only one that interests me," I said, "is displaying his unbecomingly person on the rocks down there. But where's his partner in crime?"

"There he sits," Hugo replied. "I followed the direction of his pointing finger and saw the man we were looking for, squatting, solitary, on a pinnacle of rock overhanging a small jade-green pool, strangely like a morose and brooding bird of prey."

"What's he up to?" I pondered. "And what do we do now?"

Hugo grinned. "One answer does for both questions. We wait here till we find out. He broke off sharply. "Hello," said he on another note, "there's a pretty sight."

A small speed-boat had come into view, swooping down in a graceful arc towards a jetty on the right, and in its wake, skimming on a pair of water-skis and straight and beautiful as some statue of Praxiteles, came a girl in a white bathing-suit, her arms outflung to control the guide-ropes from the boat. The boat drifted casually alongside the jetty, and she climbed on shore. And then she looked up and got the shock of my life.

She was staring straight up at the open windows where we stood, as if she were looking for someone, and for an instant I had a clear view of her face, with the wide, dark eyes, the delicate tip-tilted nose, and the warm, red mouth.

I gasped, feeling as if I had taken a punch in the win. "Hugo, she's the living image of—"

Ottillie Wills

HE TROD on my foot, accurately and a good deal harder than was necessary. "Of someone who isn't living," he finished for me. "Take a reef in your tongue, can't you? We mustn't speak that name here, and what, a casual likeness?" But I noticed that his eyes never left the girl's face and he was white under the sun-tan.

She had left the jetty now, and an elderly woman in the black uniform of a lady's-maid was swaddling her in a thick white woolen wrap, when suddenly, from just under our window, sounded a voice like an angry foghorn. "Ottillie!" it bawled. "Will you come here this minute? You'll catch your death of cold!"

I looked down, straight on to a head covered with a shock of iron-gray hair, set on a pair of broad shoulders. The voice had definitely emanated from the head, and as I watched, its owner emphasized his point by thumping violently on the naked rock with a formidable-looking, rubber-tipped walking-stick.

The girl waved back at him, laughing, then with a leisurely grace that was very pretty to see, she strolled towards him, wrapping her white robe more closely about her.

"Why, Uncle!" she said, in a deep husky voice that carried clearly to my ears. "It isn't as cold as all that!"

A man had come up and was standing behind her, a stocky, swarthy man in green bathing-trunks. High up as we were, I could see the uncounted mat of black hair on his chest and the obsequious smile on his fat little face.

"Baron!" she said, and all the laughter had gone from her voice. "How did you get here so soon? It's only ten days since we said goodby in New York!"

The short man bowed from where his waist should have been. "It is so simple," he explained, but on a lower key, so that I had to lean out and strain my ears to catch his words. "I say goodbye to you in New York, and five minutes later I get a cable calling me to Paris on business. You cross in one fast ship—I in another. I transact my business and say to myself 'I like a little noisiness. I come here and have the surprising fortune to meet with you again!'"

"Most surprising," she said dryly, "considering that my uncle told you himself where we were going." She drew her robe closer still. "I believe I am cold after all," she informed her relative. "I'll meet you in the bar." And in a flash she was gone, running towards the foot of the stairs.

I looked at Hugo. "He followed them here?" I said, under my breath, and received his foot with still greater force on my instep.

"What your mouth wants is adhesive tape!" he said bitterly. "Come over and have a drink."

The crowd at the bar had thinned and we found a vacant place at the counter. "Tell me, Charles," said Hugo, as the barman set a couple of White Ladies before us, "who's the old gentleman in black down below there?"

The man's face lit up. "That one, Mr. Stern?" said he. "The old American gentleman? Why, that is Mr. Wills. And the young lady is his niece, Miss Ottillie Wills. Very pretty, eh?"

Hugo whistled softly. "You mean Virgote Wills?" he asked, and when the man nodded, "Archie, that's devilish interesting. That's Virgote Wills, the American banker. As rich as Croesus, but much more human."

I fumbled for his foot on the bar-rail and made satisfactory contact with it. "What your mouth needs," I retorted, with a beautiful feeling of being all square at the turn, "is an oversize bath-towel stuffed into it. Can't you see she's here?"

GREENVILLE UTILITIES PLANT PROJECT GIVEN APPROVAL BY CAPITAL WPA OFFICIALS (Continued from Page One) each having a capacity of 750 H.P., were installed. This equipment was designed for a net operating steam pressure of 250 lbs. gauge and 125 deg. F. super-heat. The two hand-fired boilers referred to in Paragraph Two above, were removed to make place for the two 750 H.P. boilers which are equipped with underfeed stokers.

load demand on the plant, due in part to a considerable population recently serviced by means of rural electric lines, and the fact that the average peak load in 1937 reached to more than 3,000KW, and in further view of the fact that the two 500 K.W., generating units are obsolete, in poor operating condition and are unreliable and inefficient, it is deemed necessary by the Water and Light Commission that additional boiler and generating capacity be installed. It is anticipated that the load on this plant in the fall of 1938 will reach more than 4,200 K.W., on average peak conditions making necessary the operation of the 3,000 K.W., and the 1,250 K.W., generating units operating under full load conditions part time, to carry the load."

ONLY HIS DOG COULD MAKE HIM HAPPY

Melbourne—(AP)—The experiment of allowing a sullen and intractable prisoner at Pentbridge jail to have his dog in a jail with him has proved a great success. The man is now regarded as a model prisoner.

Each day the dog goes with his master to work in the labor yards. At night it sleeps on a mat outside the master's cell door.

 By Preston Grover

Washington—For many months the Netherlands East Indies, that vast Dutch territory south of China and centering on Java, has been persistently buying military air-planes and other war supplies from the United States.

Each month the totals have been recorded by the State Department which administers the arms export licensing act, along with the totals of other foreign sales. They show that this internationally obscure region has bought more war planes than perhaps any other country except those actually at war, China and Japan.

Anyone with a smattering of geographical and military knowledge could have surmised an explanation. The islands, rich agriculturally and tremendously wealthy in oil, are nearer Japan than some parts of China. They lie in a scattered huddle southward from China across the equator.

The total population is 60,000,000 of which 45,000,000 are said to live on the island of Java, leaving the vast remainder not thickly populated—just a huge undeveloped tropical empire.

Not until recently has there come to us a first hand opportunity to learn what residents of this rich tropical commonwealth think of their situation, but the opportunity has come and the result is communicated here.

Beginning early in the thirties there was a feeling of alarm among the Netherlands Indies at the aggressive attitude of Japan in the Far East. This vast territory is subject to tiny European Holland, although it is a hundred times as large and its population several times as great. But obviously it could not look to Holland for protection against a major first line power in the Pacific.

Japan first began sweeping in on China in 1931 and later, gave impetus to the Dutch Indies desire to provide more of their own defense.

They began buying a few bombing planes. Obviously this was the best protection for a territory sprawling in big and little islands over an oceanic zone far larger than the United States.

The buying took on some impetus in 1934 and 1935 and then there arose, in May of 1936, a strange crisis. Early that month there came a report to Dutch East Indies officials that a Japanese fleet of considerable size had left under sealed orders and was bound for a surprise invasion of this rich territory to seize a desperately-needed source of oil.

Instantly a war-like censorship was imposed upon the whole zone and such land forces as the Dutch could muster were mobilized virtually to war status. That lasted for 30 days. No Japanese fleet ever reached the Indies and the basis of the report has not been learned by our informants.

Making It Tough
 Scarcely a word of the exciting crisis leaked out then—little since. But since that event these Far Eastern possessions of the Netherlands have been buying extensively of the best bombers this country could supply.

Of course, any wise Dutchman in the Indies would agree that even now it is mainly dependent for protection upon British forces at Singapore—which reaches right into the core of the Dutch possessions. But the idea of the planes and reorganized land forces is to make it so costly to invade the islands that any foe will be discouraged from trying.

Concerning alcohol, he pointed out that young athletes in preparing for contests generally abstain, partly because of the traditional belief that alcohol interferes with physical efficiency and because it has been clearly proved that alcohol is not a good food for muscular work.

The efficiency of the body as a machine is reduced from 29.55 per cent without alcohol to 25.62 per cent with alcohol.

As to tobacco, there is a widespread belief that smoking is "bad for the wind." However, "wind" is not a specific competence but expresses rather the persons capacity for prolonged exertion.

There is no evidence that smoking directly affects the heart muscle or its nervous mechanism, or interferes with the functions of the respiratory system, or hinders the capacity of the blood to carry oxygen or carbon dioxide.

Nevertheless, there is some practical evidence that heavy smoking does, to a slight degree, reduce physical efficiency.

Of course it is well known that certain individuals are highly susceptible to the toxic action of tobacco.

Some of the greatest track athletes are known to smoke through out their training and even to the very last moment preceding their contest. It is possible that whatever decrease in efficiency they may suffer is more than made up for the soothing effect that smoking has upon their high-strung nerves.

Long distance cyclists, it is observed, are almost invariably non-smokers but Dr. Abrahams states they do not abstain from a conviction that it is bad for the wind but because they are mentally and temperamentally not inclined to smoking.

The doping of athletes, by which is meant the use of drugs to increase endurance, is an extremely hazardous and fortunately rare practice. Such drugs do not increase power but release mechanisms which operate to safeguard the contestants against an excessive drawing upon his reserve energies.

This Year's Different.
 Louisville, N. C. — (AP) — Last year, Mrs. Q. S. Leonard lost 40 per cent of her young turkeys. Many of them died from black-head disease. This year, she remodeled her turkey house, added sun porches and installed a better system of sanitation and feeding. By late summer she hadn't lost a single bird from this year's crop.

Snow Hill Billies Hand Greenville's Greenies 6-3 Loss

'HOITODE' TOO MUCH FOR 'G'S'

Delaney Fails Click and Mates Throw Ball Away

Snow Hill's Cecil Longest pitched four-hit ball for his club yesterday and the Billies defeated the Greenies, 6-3, to increase their 4th place margin over the locals to four full games.

The loss, second for the Greenies in 13 starts, ended a winning streak which had reached four games. Errors by the Greenies helped in each of Snow's Hill three two-run innings. A wild throw by Christopher allowed two men to score in the eighth.

Delaney was not in his usual form, and the Billies soon took advantage of his wildness and his offerings in general. They belted three two-ply swats mixed in with seven singles—some of them of the fluke variety.

The locals made their hits and runs in the second and fourth innings. Wilson's single, Christopher's double and an infield out brought a run in the second. In the fourth Heavener walked, Wilson doubled, Christopher singled and Allen hit a run-scoring fly.

All of Greenville's hits were made by Wilson and Christopher—two each.

The fielding feature of the game was a double play—Delaney to Christopher. The ball struck Delaney and ricocheted to Christopher who stepped on second to force a runner and then made the throw to first in time to catch the batter.

Today the Greenies are in Snow Hill in an effort to get revenge for yesterday's defeat.

Goldbugs Take Two Games From Ayden

Goldsboro, Aug. 19.—Pitching performances of Pete Kunis and Don Kepler featured Goldsboro's 5 to 3 and 7 to 1 wins over the Aces in a double-header here yesterday.

Kunis yielded five hits the first game and Kepler hurled four-hit ball in the seven-inning nightcap.

Kunis hurled hitless ball for five innings. Milton Jirak broke the ice, with one out in the sixth. Manager Frank Rodgers homered in the seventh for the Aces' first score. Two singles and a double gave Ayden two in the eighth.

Dought Morris homered over the Bugs in the fourth, with Mullinax on, and the Bugs tallied one other during the inning when Watson got a walk with the bases loaded.

The second game brought to Kepler his first win since returning to the lineup three weeks ago. Ayden scored in the first on a single, an error and an outfield fly. After that he kept the Aces well under control. Mullinax homered in the fourth.

Mullinax was the batting star of the day, with four hits for six tries.

Serps Whip Bears 4-3 By Virtue Of Errors

Tarboro, Aug. 19.—Tarboro's Serpents tallied in the seventh and eighth innings and defeated New Bern, 4-3, yesterday to make it five victories in a row.

Ace Elliott's pinch double in the seventh sent in the tying run. The nit scored Lehman, who had walked and advanced on Dick's single.

rankie Ware singled in the 8th, moved around on an error and a passed ball, and made a successful dash for home while Mack was throwing out Briscese at first.

Bull Hamons of the Bears pitched well, but four errors by his mates didn't help him any.

King Karl Ailing

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—King Carl Hubbell, backbone of the New York Giants' pitching staff for years, came down with a sore arm tonight that will sideline him for at least a week or two and may keep him from the firing line for the season.

After losing a 5-3 game to the Dodgers today, the southpaw ace complained to Manager Bill Terry of soreness in his pitching arm. He explained that the arm had bothered him for weeks.

Terry immediately wired Dr. J. Spencer Speed, Memphis bone specialist, to meet the Giants in Chicago on Monday to examine the ailing wing.

This Was Certainly Tough for Mr. Swain

Kinston, Aug. 19.—Four Kinston batters came up in the fifth inning—and Williamston's Harry Swain struck out each, and yet that inning produced the winning run for the Eagles in a 2-1 battle.

Tommy West, first up in the fifth, reached first when Catcher Shipway dropped the third strike and then threw wild to first. West stole second, and he scored when Shipway threw wild to third on a play on which he should have caught the runner. Swain then racked up three strikeouts which took. In fairness to Shipway, it should be explained that his regular job is in the outfield.

Swain, the Coastal Plain's strike-out king, whiffed a total of 11 batters.

Ed Hurley, Kinston's starting pitcher, retired—because of a sore arm—with two out in the fifth. Muhlenbein finished that inning, and Clifford Wentz hurled two-hit ball the rest of the way.

Claude Wright, Kinston shortstop, was injured when he fell over first base while running out a scratch hit in the eighth. As a result, several Eagles were at strange positions in the Martins' ninth.

Williamston's run came in the fourth, on Bowen's single, Ignasiak's double, and Hardison's fly.

Kinston tied it in the home half, on Wyrostek's single, his steal of second, and Patton's single.

Williamston ..... 000 100 000-6 3
Kinston ..... 000 110 00x-2 4 2

Swain and Shipway; Hurley, Muhlenbein, Wentz and West, Crouch.

CONTINUE PLAY SOFTBALL UNIT

Only One Game Played Here Thursday Afternoon

Only one contest was staged in semi-final play of Greenville's softball loop yesterday afternoon as Transportation-Nehi defeated Carolina Dairy-Postoffice by a 7-4 count.

Performing on the mound for the motor division entry was Jackson, whose pitching arm apparently was in tip-top shape. While going the route for the winners, Jackson gave up only a few well-scattered hits. His mates attributed their victory to Jackson's effective pitching.

Staunton Harvey, hurling for the losers, saw seven tallies cross home plate. The hits were not enormous, but came when needed. This was the first win in three starts for yesterday's winners in semi-final play.

Under the impression that a night game was scheduled to be played at the Third street park last night, the Water and Light men postponed a contest set for yesterday afternoon with Blunt-Harvey.

These teams will collide at the College park this afternoon at 6:15 o'clock. With a day's rest having penetrated their systems, the players are expected to stage a fine performance.

Publicity Department Has Done Good Jib This Year

Tarboro—The publicity department of the Tarboro Baseball Club has tried everything this year, with some success, and as a result the Tarboro club has played to approximately 4,000 more fans than ever in its history.

The Tarboro club has had "Red Haired Day," "Ladies Day," "Kids Day" and "Mayor's Day" and "Bald Head Day" and "Dotor's and Nurses Day."

LEGION HOUSE IS DEDICATED

Lt.-Governor Horton Principal Speaker at Kinston

Kinston, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Lieut. Governor Horton urged North Carolinians today to "rededicate our lives to the sacred purpose of keeping our institutions and our civilization unpolluted by subversive and alien creed" as he spoke at exercises dedicating a new American Legion hut here.

The hut was erected in memory of Lieut. Commander G. F. Parrot of Lenoir county, who was the highest ranking naval officer to lose his life in the World War.

Horton praised the contributions of citizens of Lenoir county have made to the progress of the state, praised Governor Hoey and asserted that citizens of this section are "so primarily interested in the social, religious and economic development," but "stand ready to give up the peaceful pursuits of life in response to emergency calls of the state and nation."

BRITAIN TAKES SERIOUS VIEW

Note Follows Arrest of Passport Officer in Vienna

London, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The British government today informed Germany that it "takes a serious view" of the unexplained arrest of Captain Thomas Kendrick, British passport officer, in Vienna, by German secret police a the German-Swiss border.

On instructions from the London Foreign office, Sir Neville Henderson, Ambassador to Germany, has asked the German government for "a full and speedy explanation" of the arrest of Kendrick.

The British official was taken by the German police Wednesday as he and his wife were about to leave Germany on a vacation. She was permitted to return to her home in Vienna.

Yesterday Henderson asked the German Foreign office for full particulars of the charge against Kendrick and was promised that a full inquiry would be made.

However, no further reply has been received from Berlin.

The Ambassador's earlier report of the arrest was rushed to Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, at his home by special messenger.

Some sources said Kendrick might have been seized because possibly his passport described him by his war-time rank of captain and that he failed to prove to German authorities he was not on the active list of the British army.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)— The stock market turned in its rallying steam in the latter part of today's session and leading issues, paced by the rails, pushed up fractions to three points.

There was a let down near the finish when the Association of American Railroads disclosed it had merely filed a petition for the extension of coal rate increases.

Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.
