PACT SIGNERS GIVE HUNGARY RIGHT TO ARM

Military Clauses Of Another World War Treaty Erased

ACTION TAKEN BY LITTLE ENTENTE

Announcement Made at Close of Three-Day Conference Between Ministers

Bled, Yugoslavia, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Little Entente swept away the military clauses of another World War treaty today and gave Hungary the right to re-arm "in the interest of peace."

The three nations, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia, had agreed to abrogate arms restrictions in the Trianon treaty and grant military equality to Hungary.

The action followed a similar move by the Balkan Entente, which includes Rumania and Yugoslavia on July 30, wiping out military clauses of the treaty of Neuilly, which limited Bulgaria's rearmaments.

Dr. M. Stoyadinovitch, Premier and foreign minister of Yugoslavia made the announcement at the close of the three-day conference of Little Entente foreign ministers in this little resort.

He said the principle of an understanding had been reached with Hungary, also, on bi-lateral non-aggression pacts and minority problem details which would be negotiated between Hungary and the three nations individually.

Conversations on Danubian navigation, he said, would be held at Belgrade "in the fall."

The action of the Little Entente came while the Hungarian regent Admiral, Nicholas Horthy, and other high Hungarian officials were on a visit of state to Germany.

Farmville Citizen Drowns In Stream

Funeral services for J. B. Braxton, age 47, who was drowned in Tranter's Creek near Washington on Monday, were held at his home near Farmville this afternoon. The Rev. C. B. Mashburn, pastor of the Christian church, officiated. Interment followed in the family plot.

Mr. Braxton was drowned Monday when the small boat from which he was fishing, overturned. John M. Wilkinson and a Mr. Nanny of Farmville, who were fishing nearby, went to his aid but were unable to lift him from the water. He was towed to a nearby landing but efforts to revive him were to no avail.

Mr. Braxton operated a filling station in Farmville. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Maggie Whitley; one daughter, Mrs. Willie Dail of Fountain; one son, Wilbur Braxton of Farmville; two step-daughters, Mrs. Jarvis Joyner and Mrs. Ed Hayes, and several brothers and sisters.

District Governor Speaks To Rotary

Ervin Morgan, district governor of Rotary International, was the featured speaker at a regular meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club last night.

Morgan's talk was based on the future of Rotary International, and the world-wide scope of creating international good-will. He also retraced highlights of the recent Rotary convention conducted in San Francisco.

This was Morgan's first visit to the Greenville Rotary Club, and he praised the progress of the local chapter.

Other visitors at the meeting here were Willard T. Kizer, secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, Norman Winslow of Washington, N. C., and E. B. Horne, assistant manager of the Bell-Tyler company, which makes its formal debut in Greenville Thursday.

School Employees Meet On Saturday

D. H. Conley, Pitt County school superintendent, said today that all bus drivers of the county school systems, as well as janitors, would conduct a joint session in the court house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The meeting of the bus drivers will be featured by discussions on traffic safety laws; keeping of records, and familiarizing the drivers with new rules and regulations of the State School Commission.

This session, Supt. Conley explained, is a preliminary to the opening of county schools on September 1.

IN KIDNAP-TORTURE TRIANGLE

Irwin Baker, 37, former Coast Guard officer, is shown in a hospital bed in Olympia, Wash., suffering from what police said was a torture beating and mutilation attempt. Charged with kidnaping and assault is Dr. K. W. Berry (top left). According to prosecutor S. W. Troy an 'affair' between Baker and Mrs. Berry (top right) led to the trouble.

Four Accused Are Held For Revenge Abduction

RECOVER FROM POISONED FOOD

All But Three Of 65 Soldiers to be Released Today

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 23.—(AP)—All but three or four of the 65 soldiers admitted to Marine hospital last night for treatment of food poisoning are expected to be dismissed from the institution today, Dr. David Prather, head of the hospital, said.

Dr. Prather described the condition of the men as "much better."

The men were part of an army detail of 400 enroute to their home ports from Gulf coast maneuvers.

None were admitted in a dangerous condition, though Dr. Prather said some were severely ill.

Members of the company said they had eaten sandwiches, salad and beans at noon and that about mid-afternoon several felt ill. The men began to fall out rapidly and aid of the State highway patrol and local police were asked in moving them to the hospital.

A number of the men were soldiers in the 17th Field Artillery, Fort Bragg, N. C.

Hoey Fairly Certain Of 'Holding' 1939 Assembly

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—Governor Hoey's amazing hold on his 1937 General Assembly, first known in the regular, then demonstrated more convincingly in the special session appears fairly certain for the 1939 body.

The incoming parliament is one of those bodies which nearly all the scribes in Raleigh know aforetime. Many of the 1937 members fell in primaries and convention, but their victors in many instances are just as well known. Governor Hoey looked over the list of 1939 a few days ago and one of his close friends said his excellency can shake hands with the utmost familiarity, calling 80 per cent of them by their first names.

Midterm assemblies, generally have been friendly to incumbent governors, the executive having gained the advantage of individual strength and weakness in the regular sessions. The 1939 legislature has a very large number of individuals set upon ballotbox purges.

Governor Hoey probably will have to put brakes upon them. They will repeal the absentee ballot law, in their present mood, certainly as it applies to primaries. It is considered doubtful that Governor Hoey would be willing to leave the issue there. He has not said or done anything yet to justify the reformers in the hope that they can get him with them in the drive against absent voting. But the Governor is reputed by neighbors to be sensitive to the suggestion that he wishes his party cleansed in the primaries, but not in the general elections.

The Governor as a prior candidate, Congress in 1919 and electoral-at-large in 1928, gained considerable knowledge of the ways in which the absentee law may be used. He is reputed to be hopeful that the vices of that act may be cured and its virtues retained.

Fourth Man Taken In Custody Early This Morning

Olympia, Wash., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Prosecutor Smith Troy announced today officers had rounded up all four night-raiders accuse of the revenge-abduction and attempted mutilation of Irving Baker, former Coast Guard officer.

The fourth man taken into custody, Troy said, was Robert Smith, 32, arrested early today at his farm home 20 miles west of Olympia.

Smith admitted he participated in the kidnaping and assault, under "altogether different circumstances" from the others involved, the prosecutor reported. He said Smith promised a complete statement later.

Previously jailed on kidnaping and assault charges were Dr. K. W. Berry, 54-year-old Olympia physician; James Reddick, 27, taxi driver; and William K. McAloon, former night marshal at Montevano, Wash.

The prosecutor accused Dr. Berry of organizing the kidnaping.

NORFOLK BOY SAVES TWO FROM DROWNING

Norfolk, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Howard Bennington Alford, Jr., 17, of Norfolk, rescued two young women from the surf at Chesapeake Beach this morning. Those rescued were Mrs. Mattie Spencer Ricks of Conway, N. C., and her sister, Miss Lucille Spencer of this city.

Improvements And Replacements At Water & Light Plant Would Be Financed By Utility Which Also Would Help Retire Bonds for Sponsor's Part of Other Projects

The Greenville Board of Aldermen, in a special called session last night, authorized bond elections for September 12, at which time the citizens will decide the fate of a water and light and several municipal improvement PWA projects estimated to cost a total of $591,033.63.

Of the total cost of the work, 45 per cent, or approximately $266,035 would be financed by an outright grant by the Public Works Administration, already approved in Washington and ready to be turned over to city officials.

Voters will express their wish on the projects separately. Besides the water and light proposal, estimated to cost $374,544.44, four municipal projects are included in the list as follows:

Municipal building, estimated to cost $126,117.92, with the federal government providing $46,117.92 and the city $80,000; Central fire house station, estimated to cost $44,927.63 with the PWA providing $15,376.31 and the city $29,551.32; fire alarm system, estimated to cost $11,252.31, with the federal government furnishing $5,252.81 and the city $6,000; street department storage and yard, estimated cost $34,182.54, with the federal agency providing $12,182.54 and the city $22,000.

It was explained by city officials that the figures were placed as the maximum and costs probably would be reduced on several of the projects. In the street department project, for instance, $2,800 was included for excavation work. It now appears, it was explained, this amount would not be needed.

The board agreed that in the event the election is favorable, the present city hall and fire station sites would be sold, provided a satisfactory price could be realized, and the building placed on new sites. A total of $33,000 was allocated for purchasing new sites. With the exception of the street department project, however, which will be located near the water and light plant no site has been decided on for any of the projects.

HOLD BOARDS WERE COERCED

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Affidavits from members of the county elections board, read in Wake Superior court today, charged the State Board of Elections with using "illegal and high-handed" methods in reversing results of the Democratic run-off primary in the Eighth Congressional district.

J. C. B. Ehringhaus, counsel for W. O. Burgin of Lexington, asserted the state board coerced county boards into signing returns which gave C. B. Deane of Rockingham a large majority over Burgin.

County board members, Ehringhaus said, were informed if they did not follow the orders of the State board they would be discharged.

"The State board sent orders to county boards which said: 'Do what we say or you will die officially,'" former Governor Ehringhaus asserted.

Ehringhaus read an affidavit from nSnan H. Lee, chairman of the Union county board of elections, which said the State board forced him to county Congressional ballots cast in the wrong boxes, even though he and other members of the board were convinced the votes were fraudulent.

An affidavit by Jesse C. Leigh, a member of the Richmond county board, said that the other two members of the board charged originally certified returns without informing him of their plans.

Burgin seeks a mandamus to force the State board to certify him as the Democratic nominee for the United States House of Representatives in the Eighth Congressional district.

Counsel for the State board objected to the affidavits being included as evidence. Judge W. C. Harris sustained the objections tentatively, but ordered that most of the facts contained in the documents be admitted.

Several motions relative to traffic-safety betterment were presented and endorsed in a special called meeting of the Greenville Board of Aldermen last night.

When school opens for the ensuing fall term, a police officer will be stationed at the Training, Third Street, and West Greenville schools during the lunch hour, and when the regular school day recesses for the afternoon.

Superintendent J. H. Rose and Assistant Scout Executive George W. Thomason will be approached with the plan of organizing Scout Patrols to station at the schools for promoting traffic safety. If this program is perfected, members of the patrol would have belts and badges to identify themselves with the safety unit.

Greenville's police committee was ordered to employ a special officer to regulate traffic conditions and check the number of speed violators.

LETTERS REVEAL PRESENT STATUS

Attorney Says Criminal Action Against Sheriff Has No Relation to Civil Action

Embers in the Sheriff Whitehurst case were kindled today when S. O. Worthington, local attorney, made public correspondence regarding civil action pending against the members of the County Board of Commissioners and also charges brought in criminal court against the former peace officer.

Copy of a letter written by Mr. Worthington to Jesse A. Jones of Kinston, member of counsel for the county commissioners in the ouster proceedings against the sheriff, quoted from a purported letter written to Solicitor D. M. Clark by Mr. Jones in which the Kinston attorney stated:

"When the judgment was entered in the removal proceedings instituted against Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst, it was my understanding that the civil action now pending against the county commissioners of Pitt county and the Pitt County ABC board, would be dismissed and that there would be no further interest on the part of the County of Pitt in the prosecution of the criminal docket of Pitt Superior court, against the said S. A. Whitehurst."

Mr. Jones' letter stated that he had just been informed that Mr. Worthington, one of the attorneys for the plaintiff in the civil action against the county commissioners and ABC board members, would not dismiss the action, in which it was sought to force the defendants to pay certain fees from their own pockets which were incurred in bringing the case against the sheriff.

"In view of this," Mr. Jones' letter to Solicitor Clark was quoted, "it seems that we will be compelled to try both civil and criminal actions," referring to the civil case against the members of the board of commissioners and the ABC board, and the criminal action against Mr. Whitehurst.

Mr. Worthington stated in his letter to Mr. Jones:

SAFETY MOVES ARE ENDORSED

Aldermen Seek To Decrease Traffic Accidents

Notices of special bond elections and new registrations for two Pitt county school districts have been authorized, with the elections to be held in each of the areas on September 27.

It is proposed to issue $15,000 for an improvement program at Arthur and a $10,000 project at Grimesland.

The projects provide for heat and water plants and additional classrooms at each school. In announcing the proposals, the Pitt County Board of Education explained that the proposals were efforts to bring the two schools up to standard and added that it hoped that when the projects are completed it will not be necessary to undertake additional work for a long time to come.

A new registration has been ordered for each district and the books will remain open in each district from 9 a. m. until sunset each day, beginning August 27, and closing Saturday night, September 27th.

$481,767 Spent In July At Legal Liquor Stores

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—Figures for July reveal that North Carolinians consumed legally $481,767.70 alcoholicly, a good hot season business, in which Wake and Durham stood out like a naughty deed in a good world.

One year ago when Wake voted for ABC stores, Chairman Cutler Moore of the North Carolina Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control proposed that the two counties, Durham and Wake, would sell "more than one fifth of all the legally sold liquor in the state." Durham dispensed $60,520.80 for July and Wake $63,070.80. This was the first time in the 13 months of selling that Wake had led Durham.

Though more populous than Durham, Wake's competition is much keener. Johnston, Nash and Franklin all touch Wake, as does Durham in a big way. Then Vance is just a few miles across Franklin. But Durham has much better dry territory patronage and 12 of these months the domain of Bull has bested Wake handsly. The two counties sold liquor for 25 per cent of the liquor for July.

Claims Prisoners On Hunger Strike Scalded to Death

Coroner Declares Examination of Bodies of Four Inmates Found in Punishment Cells of Philadelphia County Prison Show Definite Signs Of Having Been Scalded

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Coroner Charles Hersch said today examination of the bodies of hunger-striking prisoners found in cells at the Philadelphia county prison showed definitely that the men were scalded to death.

"There is no question but that these men met their death by scalding," he said. "Their hands were shriveled, indicating immersion in hot water or steam."

Warden William Mills said he could not contradict the coroner. "but I can't see how that could have taken place."

"We certainly used no steam or hot water on the men," he said, "and there are no steam or hot pipes in the building in which they were confined."

Meantime at least four investigations got underway and autopsies were scheduled for later today.

State Secretary of Welfare, Chas. Engard, sent two special investigators to the institution with orders "to get to the bottom" of the hunger strike which resulted in four being placed in punishment cells where their bodies were found yesterday.

They were among more than 600 prisoners who had refused to eat in protest against a "motonous" diet of hamburger and spaghetti.

Dr. Morton Crane, the coroner's physician, declared the men had died violently.

The warden began a separate investigation along with city and county officials.

Concord, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Selection of a jury to try 62-year-old Jack Freeze on charges of murder resulting from the death of Roy Lentz proceeded slowly today in Cabarrus county Superior court.

Coroner N. J. Mitchell quoted the former automobile salesman as saying after the killing that he had shot Lentz because the latter "kidded and horsed" him.

The shooting occurred in the business section of Concord last May 24.

BOTH MEN TALK WITH ROOSEVELT

Two New Dealers Known to have Been Urged Make Race by FDR's Aides

Washington, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Capitol politicians were discussing today the question of whether Democratic Chairman James Farley would aid independent races for re-election by Senator Pope of Idaho and Representative Maverick of Texas.

Pope and Maverick, full-fledged Roosevelt backers, suffered narrow defeats in Democratic primaries. Farley immediately afterwards gave the winners the usual pledges of organization assistance in the fall campaign, and since then has made no comment.

Some of the President's lieutenants, however, have urged the two legislators to run as independents. Both men conferred with President Roosevelt during the last few days at Hyde Park. Pope said afterwards he would not reach a decision until he returns to Idaho.

Meanwhile, the Agriculture department report explained why a group of Southern states were grouped in the eastern area which will receive of the four agricultural research laboratories authorized by Congress.

Division of the nation into four "major farm producing areas" for the purpose of establishing one laboratory in each region was based in part, it was said, on general consistency with the regional set-up under the AAA.

The seven states in the AAA east central division, which includes such southern commonwealths as Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia, were grouped with the nine states in the AAA's northeastern region to create the "eastern major farm producing area."

Other states in the east-central division are Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, West Virginia and the other three states were grouped with Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont for purposes of locating the eastern laboratory.

A factor in consolidating the east-central with northeastern states states, the report said, was the fact that tobacco, a commodity which will be included in the research work, is produced in various amounts from Tennessee and North Carolina to Connecticut.

Other developments:

Labor Secretary Perkins said about 40,000 factory workers were returned to employment in July and weekly factory payrolls increased by nearly $500,000.

She said the reports "marked a definite improvement in the employment situation."

LIBERAL FUNDS GIVEN NEGROES

Race Tests in State Institutions Appear Unlikely

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 23—Relatively liberal appropriations to Negro institutions by the late General Assembly are said to have taken much of the enthusiasm for the courts away from citizens of the race who had indicated their purpose to try those courts again.

The general assembly gave to the Negroes a much bigger proportion of the money asked than was allotted the whites. It is true, the white institutions made much bigger requests. For the whole University of North Carolina plant, there was asked nearly $4,500,000. The compromise was less than one third. One of the Negro institutions which sought $350,000 in round numbers, got about $240,000, more than two thirds. The legislature adopted toward these schools somewhat the philosophy employed toward the eleemosynary institutions. One set of needs was immediate, mandatory. The hospitals were bulging with patients and the jails were being used for purposes of detention there was no actual suffering, that the plants could get along somehow.

Negroes have been demanding greater facilities, but most of the requests have come from the outside. Nearly all the incentive to use the courts is foreign. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has clamored for larger institutional appropriations so that full university courses shall be available for Negroes. No state institution has those except the universities which are exclusively white schools. Several years ago a pharmaceutical student in Durham sought admission at the University in Chapel Hill, but the actual issue did not reach the courts because the student was not qualified to enter. It is contended by persons who understand the principle of segregation in North Carolina life, that the law will not govern in the higher institutions, that Negroes cannot be barred from attendance upon the graduate courses at the university.

Negro leaders especially in Greensboro and Durham, discourage the agitation and count the gains of 1937 and the special session as great enough to justify their hope that in a very short time there will be a Negro University giving full graduate courses. They prefer their own graduate schools, they say, and they bid for the political goodwill of North Carolinians by saying they wish their teachers trained in North Carolina to meet North Carolina needs. Anyway, the 1937 and the special session took away about all the legal ammunition that the opposition needed. That the state is required to furnish the facilities demanded is so far recognized that legislation of this character was undertaken in 1935.

North Carolina appropriations for Negro education have been large in the aggregate, but there are five such institutions in the state and the individual amount has been popularly regarded far below the actual needs. The national administration in Washington is considered quite friendly to the enterprise. But Durham, Greensboro, Raleigh and Salisbury, from which cities the movement would have been expected, are quiet.

quires all prospective eating places to secure a certificate from the health department stating that they have met sanitation regulations, before a license will be issued. It is understood this regulation is working our satisfaction.

Special emphasis is being given to eating places by the inspectors since this is the season of the year when many new eating establishments are opened only for the tobacco season. Such eating places, according to the health officer, create sanitary problems.

Chapter 14 Shattering Experience

EARLY the next morning I was awakened by a tapping on the pane. I rolled out of bed and, as I turned to the window, saw a face staring at me through the green-tinted opening.

"Jean-Francois!" I said, startled, and then, with rising irritation: "And what the devil do you mean by spilling the best nights sleep I had in weeks?"

Jean-Francois slipped noiselessly into the room. He was a sorry sight, wan and disheveled by the look of him, he hadn't seen a bed that night.

"Monsieur," he said, "I am isolated to disarrange you, but I have had a nerve-shattering experience."

"Go on," I said encouragingly. He shuddered slightly, as at a painful memory, and began his story. He had tried, he said, throughout the day to get a line on Geiss's household and way of life, but beyond the fact that his staff consisted of a man and wife, a surly couple who kept themselves to themselves, he had found out nothing. And then suddenly chance favored him.

"I stood," he said, "on the corner of the rue de Dragon, waiting for an inspiration, when suddenly the gate of the villa opened and a man and woman came out. I followed."

He had followed the couple to a small cafe in the fisher quarter, entering it on their heels. Jean-Francois found a strategic table fifty feet between them and the door and sat down to study them. He had the cover of a newspaper, and when he received a look at her he knew their faces.

They had been, he said, a peculiarly scandalous police-court case in Marseilles ten years before, in which a man and his wife had been accused of baby-farming on a large scale. Jean-Francois, despite his tender years, had followed the case, in all its ghoully details, with intense eagerness. The baby-farming had been proved, the neglect of the infants, resulting in many deaths, but the number of a certain number, though suspected, could not be substantiated, and the couple received sentences of five years apiece.

It was not unnatural that Jean-Francois, being himself opposite them in the case, should experience a certain, not unmixed with a shuddering apprehension. "For you will understand, monsieur," he explained naively, "that they were not nice people."

"I can quite imagine it," I answered gravely.

He made an expressive grimace. "Ah," said he, "but I was not dissuaded. I wanted my chance to supplant acquaintance!"

It came in a minute, with the loan of a newspaper and the offer of a drink. Polite exchange of compliments showed that the couple, though willing enough to be treated as long as their new acquaintance's cash held out, were chary of letting information slip; but the chance, though it did not loosen their tongues, appreciably melted their tongues, and when Jean-Francois suggested the purchase of a couple of bottles and the adjournment of the sitting to the cafe, they agreed readily enough, admitting that their position was away for the night and they were free agents.

The sitting lasted until the small hours of the morning, and by that time his hosts were comfortably slumbering in their chairs. Jean-Francois took credit to himself that, by dint of spinning out his drinks, he was still in very fair condition, but he was ill at the same time with an immense desire, far beyond the news that there was a certain room into which they were never permitted to enter under pain of instant dismissal. He had learned nothing, it appeared to Jean-Francois that two good bottles of cognac had gone completely and irrevocably down the drain.

A Tour Of Inspection

AND then a bright idea struck him. As his hosts were out of action for a considerable period, it was, he thought, a Heaven-sent opportunity to have a look at the rest of the house, and forthwith he set off on a tour of inspection. It was a large place, richly furnished, with two great salons, a dining-room, and a big, bare studio. But there was another door at the end of a short passage whose lock defied his amateur efforts at crack-smanship, and he fell, suddenly and unaccountably, that here was a hidden room into which the servants might not enter, and that inside it lay the secret of the case.

A prospecting tour round the outside showed him a one-story oblong, windowless but roofed with a glass dome, that he knew must be the locked room, and a tour round the upper story disclosed a small closet through whose window an agile man might climb and drop onto the lead parapet. It needed only an instant for him to put the thought into execution. There was a skylight in the dome, partly open, and he squeezed through it, dropping, bruised but triumphant, on the floor beneath.

He found himself, he said, in the strangest room he had ever seen. The outside was an oblong, but the chamber within was hexagonal. There was a black pile carpet on the floor, and the walls were hung with black velvet curtains. In the center of the room was something like a prie-dieu, also in black, with a small, sable-covered table before it, and opposite the door, behind a longer, narrow table also draped in black, was a dais, with the statue of a goat in white marble.

He had searched the room, he continued, and found nothing of interest—no papers, no indication of the purpose for which it was used—and on that conclusion he began to think of making a retreat. It was then that he realized that there were certain difficulties to be overcome, for it was one thing to drop from the dome and quite another to climb up to it again.

He sat down to think matters out. There was nothing to be done, it seemed, but to wait until such time as Geiss or his unpleasant retainers should open the door of the room, and the thought of what would happen after that caused a gentle sweat to break out on his body.

He sat there perhaps for one hour, perhaps two; he had no watch, and the minutes dragged by on leaden feet—when suddenly there came an interruption. He heard a faint scratching at the door of the room and realized that someone was inserting a key in the lock. He had barely time to dart behind a curtain when the door opened and someone entered the room. He heard footsteps moving to and fro, a muffled thumping, and on that, plucking up his courage, he drew the curtain aside and peered round it.

Escape

A DIM figure stood before the prie-dieu, engaged in shaking out and replacing the cushions that covered it, and as his eyes focused themselves, he saw that it was a woman. She wore a sort of overall, and her head was tied up in a checked duster, but her face he could not see. It was evident, however, from her actions, that she had come to clean the room.

Finally he saw her turn and pass out through the door, which, to his unspeakable relief, she left ajar. In a flash he was across the room, peering down the corridor, but though he could hear her footsteps crossing the hall, there was no other sound of life. Holding his breath, for he knew he had no time to lose, he crept along the passage and found himself in the empty hall.

The front door was opposite him, and with a dart he was beside it, had turned the well-oiled handle, and was sprinting down the glass-roofed path. In another instant he found himself in the golden light of sunrise, standing alone in the deserted road.

He was tired, he was hungry, and his nerve was not a little shaken, but insatiable curiosity had him in its grip. If, he reasoned, it was true that the malodorous couple were the only servants in the house, then this woman, whoever she was, would leave the house, once her strange task was done, and he wanted to see where she went.

It must have been a quarter of an hour that he waited, but finally there came the click of the gate and he saw her emerge. The print overall had gone, and she wore in its place a faded cotton dress, topped with a short, blue flannel coat. She might, he thought, have been anything between thirty-five and fifty. But what startled him most was the realization—and this he was emphatic about—that she was an Englishwoman.

She made off down the street, and he followed, using all the precaution he could; but he need not have bothered, for she never turned her head.

He stuck to the trail nobly, until he saw her insert a gigantic key into the lock of an imposing gateway, cross a gravel sweep, and vanish round the angle of a large house.

"And the building—what was it?" I demanded.

He spread out his hands apologetically. "Monsieur, what an anticlimax! It was only a private hotel—the Château la Vague. I regret much," he added, looking like a small boy whose sum has come out wrong, "that I could do no better."

It took me a full minute to assimilate this surprising information. "Son," I said at last, patting him on the shoulder, "you've done better than you know. Here are your marching orders. Go back to your grandmother and have a good day's sleep. When you've rested, see what you can discover about an American gentleman by the name of Dunning, who says he's a correspondent for the Chicago Express. Find out where he's staying, what he's doing, and whom he's meeting. You can report to me tonight."

BOND ELECTION AUTHORIZED FOR SEPT. 12 ON PROJECTS
 TO COST TOTAL OF $591,033

 The question of financing the city's part is claiming much attention and several possibilities are being considered whereby the bonds can be retired without any increase in the tax rate.

It was stated by Mayor M. K.
 Blount and sanctioned by Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Water and Light commission, that that agency, with the proposed additional facilities to the electric plant and economical operation probably would be able to increase the amount paid the city annually from $50,000 to $55,000, thereby taking care of the city's revenue because of the new projects. The Water and Light commission would retire its own bonds from its revenue. The commission also maintains the water system, operated at no profit, and the sewer system, which takes the burden off the city.

Officials of the city and Water and Light commission declared they feel great responsibility when according to their judgment, improvements are needed and will be necessary, in calling the election. They declared that they thought it their duty, when the city can get 45 per cent of the total cost of the projects from the federal government, to call an election and submit the proposal to the people themselves. They added that the projects were needed at the present time and will be necessary within a few years.
 They declared that they would be "pleased to discuss the proposals with any citizen" and said that detailed financial statements would be furnished the public in due course.

Taking note that already there was talk of a school building program, Mayor Blount explained that a bond election for permanent improvements to the schools would have to be called for the entire district, of which Greenville is a part.
 Should the project be carried out, they would differ from WPA projects in that the contracts would be let to the lowest bidder. The two agencies, WPA and WPA, have been confused since their establishment. Under the WPA outright grants of 45 per cent of the cost are made to supplement the sponsor's share and contracts are let to the lowest bidder, as in any private business.

Sen. E. C. Flanagan, appearing before the Board of Aldermen last night, voiced opposition to the building program in its present form and suggested that it be revised, with reductions made in individual items.

J. H. Boyd declared he favored a "progressive program on a conservative basis," but also expressed the opinion the projects should be curtailed.

J. W. H. Roberts, declaring he was speaking for the "one gallus crowd," supported the projects and pointed out that other cities were taking advantage of available federal funds and declared that Greenville should make needed improvements now while it can get financial help.

PLANS TO PUSH CASE AGAINST COUNTY BOARD

"Your letter is the first indication from any source that there was any suggestion of trading the suit against the commissioners for the criminal actions against Mr. White-hurst."

"It is surprising to me and I am quite sure will be equally surprising to the public x x that our so over conscientious board of commissioners, in order to save their own faces, now seek to ward off recovery against themselves by agreeing to shield a man against criminal prosecution, begun at their suggestion, as is contended by the commissioners. Mr. White-hurst has violated the criminal law, is it not very little of them, in fact is it not a betrayal of their trust to offer to free a guilty man to avoid defending themselves? Apparently it has come to the point where they see very little hope in a conviction of Mr. Whitehurst before a jury and in a court that tries its cases on the evidence."
 Mr. Worthington stated in the letter that until the present time there has been no intimation on the part of his clients to abandon the suit against the commission-

NEGRO CENTER DRIVE STARTED

White Citizens Support Movement for Project Here

An appreciative audience of Negro and white citizens met at the City Armory Sunday evening for the purpose of officially launching the $500 drive toward the erection of a recreational center for the Negro citizens of this city and community. The entire program, headed by Mayor M. K. Blount, was full of spirit and confidence. The Mayor expressed his desire to see the Negro citizens of Greenville have and enjoy those things that lead to health, prosperity and citizenship. He outlined briefly some of the things that the City of Greenville is doing in its efforts to make Greenville second to none.

J. H. Rose, who preceded the Mayor, urged the people to get behind the project and put it over in grand style. He reaffirmed his interest in the welfare of the Negro citizens and said the Board of Education and other city organizations are behind the movement one hundred per cent.

The Mayor was introduced by Prof. C. M. Epps who urged the citizens, churches and other organizations to carry the project over the top. He pledged his moral, physical and financial support and declared that the drive would be a success.

The movement was further endorsed by B. B. Sugg and Father Maurice, who pledged their support, asking the citizens to do the same. Mr. Sugg urged cooperation, mentioning the damaging effects of dissension. He further urged that the campaigners working during this season in which local business is most flourishing.

Music for the occasion was under the direction of Arthur P. Norcott, chairman of the music committee.

A brief outline of the history and aims of the movement was given by J. B. Taft.

Peanut Producers Support Program

Jackson, Aug. 23.—(AP)—A group of Eastern North Carolina peanut growers was on record today as favoring the 1938 soil conservation program, as applied to peanuts.

At a meeting here yesterday, the farmers passed a resolution asking AAA officials not to change the peanut section of the program.

E. P. Arnold, executive secretary of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, said Congressmen Kerr and Warren, who were present at the meeting, had pledged their support to the growers.

Attention Called Children's Health

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt County health officer, said today that county and State health officers are urging parents to give attention to the health of the school child before the fall term begins.

"They are suggesting," said Dr. Ennett, "that the parent take his child to their own family physician and dentist for a check up; also the matter of having younger children vaccinated against diphtheria and smallpox is highly important."

It was explained that if a child is to make normal school progress, he must be free of physical defects, and corrections of these defects are necessary before school opens, in order that he may not lose no time from school.

Dr. Ennett said also that the matter of caring for the school child is applicable to parents of the city as well as those of the county.

Swine Population Showing Progress

Chicago, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Rebuilding of the national hog population progressed under the most favorable circumstances in years today, the fifth anniversary of the government's inauguration of a slaughtering program.

Swine herds on farms have come back barely 13 per cent from the century's low, after the serious 1934 drought, but an abundance of cheap feed, a good market price and favorable weather conditions are stimulating breeding and fattening.

The hog price is more than double that on the day the first of 6,000,000 small pigs and 200,000 breed sows, sold to the government, were killed. In August, 1933, hogs were bringing around $4 a hundredweight, a recovery of less than a dollar from the record lows touched in 1932.

With corn now quoted around 50 cents, the current hog price of close to $9.00 offers an unusually favorable redio ratio, livestock men said.

Those Greenies Really Went Places With Ayden's Aces

LOCALS SCORE 24-0 VICTORY

Rube's Boys "Knocked Cover Off;" Tilt Lasted But Seven Innings Because Of Poor Visibility

Ayden, Aug. 23—Greenville shut out Ayden, 24-0, here Monday behind the four-hit pitching of John Delaney, star righthander. The game was called at the end of the seventh because of darkness.

The Greenies scored enough runs—two—in the first inning to win the ball game and didn't begin their adding-machine scoring until the later frames. Douglass opened the second with a single, stole second, and went on to third on Jenkins' single. Simpson forced Jenkins, and Heavener's double scored two runs.

Four homers featured in the Greenies' scoring party. Simpson hit two—a two-run homer in the third and a four-run homer in the seventh. Jenkins hit a two-run homer in the sixth and Allen hit a three-run homer in the seventh. All homers cleared the left field fence.

In addition to scoring 24 runs in the seven official innings, the Greenies scored two more in the 8th. Darkness, however, came before the home club could finish their turn at bat.

Greenville had nine men left on base. Ayden six. Greenville made one error, Ayden 4.

Ayden used five pitchers in the following order: Herring, Northcutt, Gurth, Biershenk and Riley. Jiggs Gasaway, with two for three, was the only local to get more than one hit.

Roanoke Rapids Club Still In Semi-Pro Race

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 23—Those fast-stepping Roanoke Rapids Owls from North Carolina are still in the running for championship honors in the National Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament here.

The Owls started a game Sunday night and wound up early Monday morning with a 9-8 victory over Youngstown, Ohio.

Roanoke Rapids will play again Wednesday night, meeting the Lynchburg, Va., entry, at 10:15 o'clock (CST).

That last victory was the Tar Heels' third in the tourney. However, their record shows four triumphs—one came as the result of a second-round bye. The Owls have lost only one game—that to Mt. Pleasant, Texas, 9-5. The Texans lost Sunday night to Buford, Ga., 1937 runner-up, 4-0.

The Owls got to an early lead by scoring five runs in the first inning of their game with Youngstown Sunday night. The feature of that game was Tom Burnette's steal of home. The North Carolinians clinched the game with a brace of two-run innings, the fifth and sixth.

Them Bugs Just Go On 'Rolling Along'

New Bern, Aug. 22—Goldsboro scored its second straight victory of the day by beating New Bern tonight in the first night game ever staged in the locals' park. The Bugs licked the Eagles this afternoon at Kinston, 6-3.

Tonight's score was 7-5. The Bugs' game winning margin came as result of Delg Morris' homer over the left field fence, scoring Mullinax, who had singled.

The locals came from behind and pushed over three runs in the 7th. Anderson walked, Norwood doubled, and Burge's homer unloaded the sacks.

Howard Mack, Bruin shortstop, suffered a leg injury in batting practice tonight and will be out of action for several days.

Although an overflow crowd turned out for tonight's game, the lighting system left much to be desired.

Kinston, Aug. 22—The Eagles were clipped again today, the third defeat in a row, as they dropped a 6-3 decision to Goldsboro.

The Goldbugs scored four runs—enough as things turned out to win on—in a big fourth. Mulvihill reached first on an error. Clifford Wentz walked the next three batters to force in a run, and Watson cleaned the bases with a triple.

Kinston runs came in the third and fourth innings. The only player to get more than one hit was Watson, Goldsboro centerfielder, who collected a triple and single in four trips.

Water & Light, Transportation-Nehi Are In Play-Off

FIRST CONTEST ON TAP TODAY

Losers Term Season Of Softball Enjoyable

Final play in Greenville twilight softball league will get underway this afternoon at 6:15 o'clock at the Third Street stadium, with Water and Light and Transportation-Nehi furnishing the entertainment.

Semi-final play was concluded yesterday afternoon as Water and Light eliminated Blount-Harvey by a 11-7 count, and Carolina Dairy-Fostoffice faded from the picture when blanked 7-0 by Transportation-Nehi.

Jackson, hurling for the winners in the Transportation-Nehi and Carolina Dairy contest, was reached for only one hit while going the route, with James doing the work behind the plate. This was the second shutout in as many days for Tossler Jackson. Seven hits allowed by Harvey, performing on the mound for the milk men, were equalled with the same number of tallies.

Perhaps the hit off Jackson to put a player on base, the only other one of the losers aggregation reached first on a walk. Doug West, the winners' third-sacker, did a commendable piece of work at third to elude fielding honors.

As Water and Light gained a berth in the play-off series, winner of which will be determined by five out of seven wins, plenty of excitement prevailed. Roberson, hurling for Water and Light, hurled three innings and was yanked after being reached for four hits. Jim Seigler, chief hurler for W and L, replaced Roberson and went the rest of the way. He allowed only four hits during his stay. Barnhill caught.

Perhaps the most exciting play came in the fifth verse when Skinny Gibbs hit into a double play. One player was thrown out by Barnhill at third and then a lightning catch by Barnhill at home plate prevented a score. Small with two hits for two trips to the plate batted 1000 for a perfect day with the stick.

Tilley hurled for Blount-Harvey and Pittman did the catching. Tilley allowed an even dozen hits. Both teams played clean baseball, with Gibbs and Tripp turning in feature performances.

Representatives of the two losing teams in semi-final play, Blount-Harvey and Carolina Dairy-Post-office, today declared that they had enjoyed participating in softball contests throughout the season and are looking forward to next year.

Although the finals get started this afternoon, there will be no softball contest tomorrow afternoon. The game is being shifted due to an after-dark contest to be played at the Third Street stadium Wednesday night between the Greenies and Goldsboro Gold Bugs. Starting time for this contest is 8 o'clock.

Greenville Swimmers At Kinston on Friday

Judson White, coach of the Greenville swimming team, today announced that a swimming meet scheduled for the Greenville-Kinston teams tonight had been postponed due to the fact that the Lenoir county tank is being drained.

Coach White said his swimmers would journey to Kinston Friday night, however, where they will participate in a meet at 7 o'clock. The local tank team has competed in six meets and have emerged with leading honors in each.
