Attempted Burglary

A few nights ago some one tried to break into the residence of Mr. A. B. Ellington. When he began urging a pistol on the intruders two men were seen to run off in opposite directions.

The suggestion has been made that the property owners go to work, every man over against his own house and clean off the sidewalks. The carrying out of such a suggestion would certainly improve the looks of the town.

School Recital

Professor L. L. Hargrave gave the opening recital for young ladies in the College Chapel on Wednesday evening. There was a large audience and a number had to be turned away for the want of room.

The program consisted of a short address by Prof. Hargrave, several musical selections and recitations. The latter rendered by Miss Clara Bel Williams.

There were several quartettes rendered by Prof. Hargrave, Mr. Alton, Mrs. T. E. Hooker and Miss Lizzie Hargrave, all but the last two gave a solo. Mrs. E. H. Taft was the accompanist.

The selections were all splendidly rendered.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbie Coons

'Hollywood—Those MacDonald-Eddy feud stories are getting me down.

I've just been "in" on one I could be twisted into one of the sweetest little "hate" wars you ever heard. Maybe that's the way it should be written. There's nothing like a good fight for reader interest, I'm told.

It's on the "Sweethearts" set. This modernized operetta is technicolor and Adrian has gone to town on Jeanette's wardrobe. Today she's wearing a startling thingamajig in BROWN. It's for a big concert scene in which she sings with co-star Eddy.

It seems Eddy was told to get a new suit for the number. It seems he innocently paid off $150 for one of the tailor's best—a light pin-striped BROWN.

But when Nelson put it on he was ruled off base. JEANETTE was in BROWN, hence—quick change for Eddy to trusty blue serge. Then someone had a brainstorm: "Let 'em both wear brown—a duet in brown!"

Another quick change for Eddy, to the brown. And then another almost at once, this time to quiet GRAY. Because MISS MacDonald was wearing BRO-O-WN.

Well, I ought to let it drop there. I ought to say that Eddy told me about it with bitterness, and a glare at Jeanette when she passed—all radiant in BROWN—and said hello. But I'd be telling one. I ought to say, too, that Nelson made bitter lament when he said:

"Everything's in technicolor—except Eddy. He's a pale pastel. But he foxed 'em once. He put on a brilliant technicolor-blue tie. He kept it covered with his hand until the camera turned. So they'll have to use it in matching scenes!"

Well, he did say it, and maybe he felt a little, too. But he laughed when he said it, and he was just chinning along about this and that. It hadn't spoiled his day. It's the sort of thing that goes on in pictures all the time—stars looking out for No. 1 in the clutches. And no hard feelings, if the stars have any humor in them. You know Jeanette has, but you might not suspect the stolid-looking Eddy. Here's a sample:

"We were talking about how Metro let Deanna Durbin go. And how Judy Garland had to be borrowed by Zanuck before her own studio knew it had a bet. And who knows what would have happened to Heddy Lamarr if Walter Wanger hadn't borrowed her for "Algiers" thus presenting Metro with a star? And suddenly Nelson laughed:

"Everybody but Eddy," he chuckled. "I just remembered—a long time ago I was loaned out, too, but it didn't work that way. Metro said to Fox. 'All right, you can have Eddy, he isn't doing anything.' So I went to Fox and took a test—for that Gloria Swanson picture 'Music in the Air.' And Fox said to Metro. 'All right, you can have Eddy back.' —We don't want him!"

Once on a train a little grand-motherly soul told me she "adored him for practically nothing—and HE'S the boy who OUGHT to be in MY spot!"

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

Black wool, chalk stripes and smooth tailoring are combined in this gadabout fall suit for the younger generation. High breast pockets break the vertical stripes of the jacket, which is worn over a white wool crew-neck sweater.

Nelson Eddy—he's my REAL sweetheart. I think she'll like this one: Eddy used to have a recording machine at home. He tried out all his songs on it, practiced his lines. I asked him if he still used it.

"Nope," he said. "I just sold it to John Carroll. Know him? There's a boy who ought to be taken up by one of these studios—handsome devil, dashing, tall, athletic, with a power plant intake; and another grand baritone. He's making west-

ANTI-NEW DEAL EMOTIONS MIX

South Carolina Conservative; Calif. Evades FDR

R. Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Sept. 1—Anti-New Dealers got mixed emotions from the California and the South Carolina primaries, the little state staying conservative by a big margin and the big commonwealth running riotously beyond the reaches of the Roosevelt liberalism.

In the hotels one listens in a sort of eavesdropping way to find out that the big leading Democrats are against the President and his party, so much against it that they coveted Chandler in Kentucky, O'Connor in New York and Tydings in Maryland. They did not get Chandler but have a fair chance to get O'Connor and Tydings. It is just a ministerial duty electing George in Georgia, they think.

But the primaries serve to show that there hasn't been much recession from Roosevelt amongst the many. Even the purged candidates meet from Tydings down to Smith that they have followed President Roosevelt pretty well. In California a consensus of the Townsendites may be able to give trouble and that both liberals and conservatives may find it necessary to make terms with them. Certain it is that while no considerable number of North Carolinians would undertake such public alimony as Downey of California with his $30 a week benefit payments, the mood of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and all Southern states seems to be toward more social security. The country may be getting wilder than the anti-new dealers think Mr. Roosevelt is.

And that isn't peace-making thought. The worst of the anti-new dealers still think enough of Mr. Roosevelt to believe in his integrity, but not in the men and women who administer his views. Daily it appears that the old habitates of conservative Republicanism have been blown up.

MORE EXHIBITS BEING PLANNED

'County Progress Displays' Addition to State Fair

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Sept. 1—County Progress Exhibits is the new department of the October State fair in Raleigh, according to Manager J. S. Dorton who today announced that the feature depicting the accomplishments of North Carolina counties will be presented to the exhibition beginning October 11 and running through October 15.

Frank H. Jeter, agricultural editor at State College, will be head of the department. Mr. Jeter has begun work on his plans to display the accomplishments of the 109 counties, achievements in education, rural life and industrial development. Space will be given in the exhibits hall to any county desiring to enter a progress exhibit, Dr. Dorton said.

Present plans involve the awarding of $1,750 in prizes to the first four winners in the new department. These prizes range from $750 down to $250. Jeter's plan is to have each exhibit judged according to its representative value, a

PLAN WELCOME FOR FRESHMEN

Exercises to be Held at N. C. State College Sept. 6

Raleigh, Sept. 1—Freshmen will be welcomed to State College Sept. 8 with initial exercises in a week-long program designed to familiarize them with the campus, curricula and activities available to them during the ensuing year.

Plans for Freshman Week, Sept. 8-15 were announced today by E. L. Cloud, Dean of Students. First year men will have the campus to themselves for several days preceding arrival of upperclassmen.

and some of State College's most outstanding students will serve as counselors to the newcomers during the orientation period.

Freshmen will register Sept. 9 and upperclassmen will register Sept. 14, with classwork to start the following day.

Instructions concerning registration will be given to freshmen in Pullen Hall Thursday night, Sept. 8 at 7 o'clock. Plans for meeting incoming freshmen at rail and bus terminals are now being completed by the College Y. M. C. A. Registration will start in Frank Thompson Gymnasium Friday morning, Sept. 9, at 8 o'clock.

New men will be welcomed to the college Friday night by Col. J. W. Harrelson, Dean of Administration.

The program for Saturday, Sept. 10 includes talks by Dean Cloud; William McC. Bailey of Richmond, Va., president of the Student Council; and members of the military department staff. At 2 o'clock, freshmen visiting assignments in the band and drug and bugle corps will meet with Band Director C. D. Kutschinski in the gymnasium.

Special reservations for freshmen have been made in all church schools in Raleigh for Sunday, Sept. 11, and at 7:30 p. m., the Rev. Lee Shepherd, pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, will deliver a special sermon for the newcomers in Pullen Hall.

Class rosters will be distributed Monday, Sept. 12, and freshmen will begin to familiarize themselves with class routine. Those taking R. O. T. C. work will report to the drill field.

Heads of the various schools will meet with freshmen in their departments Tuesday, Sept. 13, and at the evening assembly program State College's facilities for physical education and athletics will be discussed.

Prof. H. A. Fisher will be in charge of the program. Tests to determine assignment of freshmen to various class groups will feature the final day of Freshman Week, Wednesday, Sept. 14.

DISCUSSING PROBLEMS OF INTEREST TO THIS COMMUNITY. IN ALL CASES NAMES MUST ACCOMPANY ANY COMMUNICATION.

To The Daily Reflector:

You have heard it for a saying: "That you can't get farmers to get together." But there has never been a time when they voted more unanimously than they did this time for the Farm Bill.

They had the Bill explained to them by men, before they voted on it, which men, before the farmers would get their allotment like this; that each state would be given an allotment according to what they raised during the past five years, which allotment would be handed down to the counties, in the same manner, and on the same basis be handed down to the individuals.

These men were further to say, that if the farmers got a good committee, all right, but if they got a bad committee, they would catch H--. I don't know about what kind of committees we have had, but I do know we have caught plenty H--.

Then there was an aerial map made of the farm lands, and woods lands--then men were appointed to go to each farmer and draw lines between the farms. After that was done, the map was carried back to the County Agent, where the acreage of each farm was reckoned or computed. And, then, they asked that each farmer get his bills or book records for 1936 and 1937 and go before the committee, in order that a record of the number of pounds each farmer had produced for the last two years might be determined, and used in allotting quotas. That we were to be allotted accordingly. I do not know what kind of a record they used in making the allotments they did. I want some one to furnish me with one, that I may learn to do some fancy figuring. I know of farmers adjoining mine that haven't made over two-thirds as much tobacco as I have in the last two years, who got an allotment of a thousand pounds, and I only got seven hundred and forty. I have heard several farmers say, it was the same way in their community.

I have complied with the farm program ever since we have had one.

When they took the two years' average, the man that did not comply with the Farm Bill for the two years but planted all the tobacco he wanted to get credit on his quota for this year. I have been heartily in favor of the program, ever since we have had it, but if we farmers have a quota for another year, our poundage must be adjusted at least fairly and justly, if not satisfactorily. We cannot say that the farmers are not together, and if we don't have control and quotas for another year, it will not be the fault of the farmers, but the fault of those making allotments and setting quotas. Do it right, play no favorites, and the farmers will not find fault.

Washington--In the last fourteen months my duties in the War Department have carried me across every state in the Union and the territory of Alaska. I have addressed many audiences and discussed many matters pertaining to the welfare of our people with citizens in all walks of life.

I found differences of opinion on practically every subject and unanimity only on one. The American people appear unanimous in a desire for peace.

A responsible government, responsive to the will of the American people, is striving in every way to realize this universal desire of its citizens. In dealing with neighbors in America and with nations across the seas, it practices patience and self-restraint. In the pursuit of governmental policies it avoids force or the threat of force. It observes international agreements. It encourages

Chapter 22

Ear To The Keyhole

I LOOKED at my watch, discovered it wanted only five minutes of ten o'clock, and made my way along the highroad and up the lane to the chalet, to find Jean-François already awaiting me.

He clambered down from the wall on which he had been perching and came to meet me. "Monsieur," he said eagerly, "I thank the saints that you are here! So much might have happened to you!"

"Well," I said, as I seated myself in turn on the wall and lit a cigarette, "quite a lot has happened to me since I saw you last, but I'll leave that for the moment. What news have you?"

"First, I made my inquiries as to this Monsieur Dunning, and, monsieur, he is no journalist!"

"I know that already," I retorted rather wearily. "Since I saw you, I've learned a lot about the gentleman; but what else, Jean-François? Surely that isn't all?"

"No," he agreed, a trifle chafffallen, "there is more, monsieur, and serious news." He paused, looking at me obliquely out of his sloe-like eyes. "Why, monsieur," he demanded, "does Monsieur René Geiss hate you?"

I shrugged. "What's his latest exhibition?"

"This," said he. "This morning I visited his villa--to collect, you understand, the cigarette-case that I prudently left there last night. I had the forethought to present myself at the service entrance, and the double forethought to bring with me a third bottle of cognac; and I was therefore well received by the man. The woman, he informed me, had gone to the market. They do not suspect me, those two, for I have told them I am a student on vacation from Paris with much money to spend but no friends."

"A useful incognito," I commented. "What did the fellow tell you?"

"Monsieur, he told me nothing, for he was harassed beyond words. The jeune d'instruction had come to call upon M. Geiss and had accepted an invitation to remain for lunch. My acquaintance was in despair, for at once he must commence his culinary preparations; his wife was absent and could not be recalled, and the dining-room was in disorder."

"And what did you do?" I asked curiously.

"He struck himself on the chest. 'Monsieur,' he revealed himself as the friend in need! I would, I said, take upon myself to arrange the matter. I armed myself with mop and duster permitted him to lead me to the dining-room. I listened to his footsteps retreating to the kitchen. I crept across the hall to the door of a salon, from whence came voices. I applied my ear to the keyhole and took out my notebook!"

"I whistled in admiration for his colossal nerve."

He produced a notebook and flashed a small pocket-torch upon it. "Here, monsieur, is my transcript," said he with pardonable pride, and began to read rapidly.

A Great Joke

"IT WAS Monsieur le Juge who was speaking. René, you are sure that you are speaking the truth? Remember that not only my professional reputation, but also perhaps my appointment itself depends on solving this case quickly."

"I know that," came the voice of Monsieur Geiss, "but I can assure you, my dear friend, that it is no fault of mine. My information was trustworthy--Lumsden had undoubtedly hidden the gun there, but I fear that your floatwood police chief must have given the alarm too early and allowed him time to conceal it."

"That is all very well," said the juge, "but how does it assist me? Remember, René, that it is on your advice that I have discontinued inquiries regarding Monsieur Stahl and his association with the girl, concentrating, instead, on the man Lumsden. I cannot afford to make a slip in this case, and you, you must not mislead me!"

"After that there was a long silence, but at length Monsieur Geiss spoke again. My dear one, he said, 'be patient, I beg, and assure you that soon more will come to light. The young man, Lumsden, is the assassin, we are agreed on that; but he is also a pathological case. Under the strain of suspicion, of remorse, of the ever present memory of his dreadful deed, his nerve will go and one of two things will happen: either he will kill again--violent action is always a relief to tortured nerves--or he will commit suicide.'"

"Well, I'm damned!" I said wrathfully. "Pathological case indeed! But what then, Jean-François?"

"Then!" said the boy, and paused dramatically. "Then, monsieur, the juge spoke. 'I do not wish for more murders! A suicide, yes, with perhaps a signed confession--if the ages trade treaties among all nations. An open hand in friendship, it extends to all people. There is not an inch of territory in any foreign country that we covet. There is not a dollar of foreign riches anywhere in the world that we would take without due process of law. It is a badly frightened and greatly harassed world, and we stand out as a symbol of world peace and as an apostle of good will."

"Respect For Man"

Despite our example and our determination to enjoy the blessings of peace, there can be no guarantee that we will never have to take up arms in the defense of our country. History is replete with examples of aggressive nations short on good judgment and long on mad dreams whose avaricious machinations have drawn peace-loving peoples into the martial field, and history may repeat itself.

If a holocaust again should sweep our country, we are determined to hold our human losses to a minimum. We shall stint neither on treasure nor on resources but we shall make every effort to conserve life and reduce the suffering of our men in battle.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE Having qualified as administrator of the estate of Earnest Barne, de-

In some countries of the world, man is held cheap. Among some peoples human beings are counted in terms of cannon fodder. In the United States, on the other hand, we have the utmost respect for human life. We in the army feel a responsibility for every soldier in our ranks. To save manpower and to minimize losses are the duties of every officer in the American army from general to second lieutenant.

Mechanized Units We have worked out an industrial mobilization program which we are confident will meet his needs, reduce his difficulties, save days upon days of preparation and consequently thousands upon thousands of lives in battle. In keeping with a program of "less war and fewer casualties," the War Department is substituting machines for men whenever possible.

Let us take a few concrete examples. For the World War infantry division of 22,000 men, we are substituting a force of approximately 13,000. The decrease in men is taken up by more guns, more trucks, more tanks, more armored cars and more mechanized robots.

The infantry regiment of 1917-1918 had 3,664 men. The proposed new organization calls for less than 2,300. The doughboy of yesterday had 12 machine guns to bolster the human efforts of his regiment. Today it is proposed to give him 48. We have developed an automatic rifle which in the hands of one doughboy can deliver as much firepower as five of the old Springfield in the hands of five fighting men.

In the cavalry we note similar tendencies. The old horse regiment included 1,754 men and eight machine guns. The new mechanized outfit has 749 men and 522 machine guns.

Finally, let me say it is the sincere hope and prayer of every responsible person in the War Department that we will never have to call on a single truck, a single tank, a single machine gun or even a single rifle in defense of our country.

AGENCIES VARY ON STATISTICS

Figures in Two Units Tell Different Stories

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Aug. 31—Automobile accidents took 70 lives in July, according to Major Arthur Fulk of the motor vehicle department of the revenue division and only 53 according to the bureau of vital statistics in the State Board of Health.

To some critics of state affairs this means mendacity in one of the departments and to others it spells laziness or inefficiency. To still others its meaning was that one department profits greatly by a low death rate and to still others it was simply mysterious. It was hard for anybody to understand why two state agencies dealing with exactly the same facts should mess them up.

They don't exactly deal this way. The North Carolina motor safety division follows the national standards. The United States rules govern North Carolina's highway department. When a person is killed in an automobile it makes no difference to the state department whether he ran into a train or the train ran into him. It is a highway mishap. The State Board of Health writes the record differently. If there is a train-automobile smash the Health Board calls it a "train-killing." That makes a discrepancy. There is no way to make the records harmonize for the very good reason that they don't treat the same facts.

In South Carolina, for instance, fatal accidents in towns of more than 2,500 population are not called highway accidents. Consequently South Carolina has a very much lower accident and death rate on the highways than North Carolina has, and nobody will find it possible to believe that South Carolina has a greater regard for human life than North Carolina does.

There has been a steady decline even in the highway department's own death figures. The state has lost the supremacy in slaughter, held for years on the basis of gasoline consumed. The motor safety section does not wish any let-up in cautionary practices growing out of a relief that there are any fewer killings than the department itself advertises. North Carolina roads are still good slaughter pens.

PENALTY TAX AND PRICES OF WEED EVOKE ACTION FROM TWO ORGANIZATIONS

E. F. Arnold of Greenville and Raleigh, executive secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation, declared in Raleigh yesterday that an effort would be made to discredit current propaganda that the crop control program is responsible for the "slump" and to gain assurance from farmers that the program will be continued beyond this year to insure "parity" prices.

SOUGHT ELECTION REFORMS AND SUFFERED CASUALTIES

A. Hall Johnston from the eleventh, Judge Johnston as senator from the Buncombe district introduced the proposals into the senate and nursed them until they passed away.

The committee would have protected Democratic primaries from Republican incursions by prohibiting primary votes by Republicans without good faith. A Republican, for instance, could not change his party affiliation between primaries. A new registration would have been ordered. There are some sections in the state which hardly had a new registration since the War Between the States. There would have been restrictions upon markers at the polls. But in seeking those the committee split badly. Some wished markers eliminated entirely, some favored this privilege only for election officials and immediate relatives, but others extended it to collateral kinsmen, and finally "any other persons."

Little progress was made in the absentee ballot abolition, the reformations proposed making a sort of preferential class and that was indefensible. Protection of ballot boxes was not effective. On the whole the recommendations were regarded helpful.

But as candidates disaster came to Senator Johnston in Duplin and Senator Johnston, now Judge Johnston, in Buncombe and Madison where he was defeated for the nomination. Mr. Deane is not yet certain what has happened to him; certainly he did not get much help in the light of his litigation with the contesting candidate, W. O. Burgin, from absentee ballots. Major McLendon is his chief counsel in the contest and the major as former chairman of the State Board of Elections never got started on the reforms.

In the 1938 General Assembly O. M. Mull will be the Cleveland county member of the House. He has been state chairman, too. Judge J. Wallace Winborne went from the state chairmanship to the supreme court. Governor Hoy is from member Mull's county. Better luck is confidently expected in the 1939 General Assembly. Governor Hoy will make the fight.

THE AVERAGE MOVIE-GOER SPEAKS HIS MIND...

IT'S HARD for a fellow like me who thinks apple pie is one of nature's greatest gifts to man to believe that there are folks who honestly don't like it at all.

On the other hand, I can't abide liver and bacon — though I know it's highly regarded by many.

We all have our likes and our dislikes. We're all different — thanks be! A dull world it would be if we weren't.

That's why I say that the most remarkable thing about motion pictures is that they hit such a high average of pleasure-giving.

Take any individual picture and you'll find that most people who see it will get a lot of enjoyment out of it.

Not all, naturally. For example, I think a certain star is tops — while, to hear the way my next-door neighbor goes on about her, you'd think she wasn't good enough to be an "extra".

Or my wife sees a picture during the afternoon and raves about it at dinner. Maybe son and I take it in that evening — and come home feeling that Mother is losing her judgment. And there you are. It's the apple pie situation all over again.

But, taking them all together, I figure that the "movies" give more pleasure to more people at a lot less cost than most anything the mind of man was ever responsible for — and have done the human race more downright good than all the medicines concocted since creation.

And I'll say this: The times when I've been disappointed in a picture have been a lot fewer than the other times when I've gone to see one I wasn't especially excited about in advance and been mighty glad I did.

Sure, I criticize the pictures. I pay my money and that's my right. As a matter of fact, I kind of figure that it's the criticism of average folks like me that's largely responsible for the pictures getting better and better all the time.

Through the years the motion picture has given its public countless hours of entertainment, countless hours of escape from harsh reality. It has taken millions away from trouble and sorrow, lightening their burdens and brightening their lives... making the world a better, happier place to live in.

It has grown — from "cowboys and Indians" to dramatizations of the works of the world's greatest authors... from temperamental flickers to technical perfection... from infancy to an intelligent maturity.

To provide the finest array of productions ever released the Motion Picture Industry has mobilized all its skill, all its imagination, all its resources to provide the greatest array of productions ever released.

Greenies Win Again; Water & Light Softball Champs

SPENCE HURLS 6-1 VICTORY

Locals Still Have A Slim Chance to Be in Play-off

Marion "Lightnin' Lefty" Spence hurled three-hit ball yesterday as the Greenies defeated Kingston's Eagles, 6-1.

Rube Wilson's boys made two runs—enough to win—in the second inning. The tallies came on an error, a double by Wilson, and singles by Allen and Smith.

Eddie Nowak, Kingston pitcher, yielded nine hits. Errors played a major role in the Greenies' scoring.

Two of the Eagles hit figures in their run, made in the third. Kratzer doubled, and scored on Southworth's single.

Top hitter was Manager Wilson of the Greenies. He batted 1.000, with two doubles and two singles.

It was "Tommy West Day" here, and the Kingston manager received a number of presents, including a bag of cash.

The Greenies are playing the Eagles here this afternoon at 3rd Street Park.

ANDERSON TOP HITTER IN LOOP

Monk Joyner, However, Is Just One Point Behind

If Phil Morris, former Ayden outfielder, had not been suspended or released the first of last week, and if he had kept up his batting average maintained for six weeks or so he probably would be the top hitter of the Coastal Plain loop. He shipped seven points from Aug. 14 to 21, according to tabulations, but played in but one or two games after the latter date.

Latest figures show that Alf Anderson of New Bern is the leading hitter, closely followed by Monk Joyner of Snow Hill.

Birch Douglass, who started in June with the Greenies, is now in second place with stolen bases.

Batting averages for players at bat 25 or more times and with a percentage of 300 or better are listed. The figures cover games of last Sunday.

TRANS-NEHI IN 15 TO 5 LOSS

Jim Seigler in Rare Form to Cop Championship

Water and Light did three times as much scoring as Transportation Nehi at the Third Street stadium yesterday afternoon as they turned in a 15-5 verdict over their opponents and walked away with the local softball pennant for 1938.

Jim Seigler did the tossing for the winners again yesterday. Seigler hurled four games in the finals for Water and Light and allowed a combined total of only 18 hits. Not more than five safeties were allowed in any single contest.

Featuring with the stick yesterday for Water and Light was Roebuck and Bryson. Both batted a .1000 for a perfect day. Bryson got four hits for four trips to the plate, and Roebuck got three hits for as many journeys to the plate. Evans, shortfielder for Water and Light, featured afield for the winners. He made four put-outs, unassisted.

Sawyer with a double and triple set the pace in hitting ways for the losers. Trailing Sawyer for hitting laurels was Ed Waldrop. He got two hits for two trips to the plate. Both were doubles. Sawyer also got four put outs to feature afield for Transportation-Nehi.

A representative of the Water & Light athletic club said today, "We are exceedingly appreciative to the persons who came out and officiated at the games. We have also enjoyed the sportsmanlike spirit displayed by our opponents throughout the entire season."

Martins Fly High To Lick the Snow Billies

Williamston, Sept. 1.—Williamston's Martins collected 16 hits off two Snow Hill pitchers for a 10-2 victory yesterday. Manager Charlie Wry hurled for the locals and bossed the Billies.

The Martins tallied nine runs in the first three innings. They made 11 hits off Cecil Longest, who retired with one out in the third, and added six against the pitching of Cicerele.

Swain and Lakotas hit homers in the second inning. Six successive singles featured the four-run third frame.

The Billies made their runs in the eighth, on homers by Soufas and Bistoff.

The batting star of the game was Harry (Red) Swain, Williamston pitcher filling in as an outfielder. He hit a homer, a double, and a single.

Those CCC Teams Really Play Ball

Ricks Mann, Greenville youth, assistant educational adviser for a CCC camp at Washington, became amused at the baseball activities of the camp's team, so he rushed some of the results to the Reflector's sports department.

Ralph Dixon is the chief chunker. When the Camp Warren, nine was tied with the Pine Town aggregation for first place, Dixon hurled seven innings of a 9-inning contest. Here's what he did:

fanned 12, allowed 3 hits and hit a homer with the sacks loaded. He also hurled a three-hit game over the White Post nine.

But Ralph lost the last game he pitched. He was called in the second inning. He allowed only one hit the rest of the route, but his mates made nine errors.

Bears have Easy Time With Ayden's Aces

New Bern, Sept. 1.—Bull Hamons handcuffed Ayden with five hits as New Bern scored an easy 9-3 victory over the Aces here yesterday.

Bull has given up only 15 hits in his last four starts—he pitched 3 hit ball twice against Williamston and allowed only four hits against Kingston.

The Bulls made things easy for Hamons with a four-run party in the second inning, as a result of three singles—by W. Harper, R. Harper, and Roth—and a triple by Mack. Anderson and Burge homered in the Bears' third.

Two of Ayden's five hits came in the fourth, doubles by Jirak and Riley netted a run. The Aces added unearned runs in the eighth and ninth.

Goldbugs Lick Serps First Time at Home

Goldsboro, Sept. 1.—Goldsboro scored its first home victory of the season over Tarboro by pounding an 8-5 triumph over the Serpents here yesterday.

Big Henry Winston of the Goldsboro Bugs scattered 11 hits and was in trouble only in the ninth, when he was reached for four hits and three runs.

The Bugs scored four runs in the fifth on three hits—two were doubles—and error and a base on balls. The victors' top hitters were Burt Watson and Dolt Morris, each with three for five.

MOVIES START BIG CAMPAIGN

Considers This Motion Pictures' Greatest Year

In every city, town and hamlet in the United States, there will start today a celebration of what "moving-pictures" confidentially considers "Motion Pictures' Greatest Year."

This celebration will be touched off by the first appearances of a comprehensive and factual advertising campaign in daily newspapers. This campaign will be a cumulative statement of the essential character of motion picture entertainment in the social and cultural life of the people.

It will bring forcefully to the attention of motion picture patrons the earnest and highly specialized efforts of Hollywood writers, directors, actors, and technicians in providing America with its most popular form of entertainment. A total of well over 2,000 daily newspapers will be used in bringing this essential character of motion picture entertainment to those who enjoy it as well as to those who are at present not enjoying it.

Nearly 18,000 motion picture theatres throughout the United States and Canada will officially begin their part of the celebration by initiating the national Movie Quiz contest. This contest has been advertised on their screens for the last three weeks. Many of the phases of the contest have already been run in these theatres. Ninety-four pictures are included in the list. Booklets in these theatres detailing the rules of the contest with blanks for registering answers to the questions may be obtained from theatre attendants. One of the greatest and most interesting of national brain-twisters will start a four month puzzle life for the eighty millions of people who patronize motion picture theatres every week of the year.

In many cities the campaign will be launched by proclamation by the mayor or governor of the state and by special editions in the newspapers. Thousands of stores are cooperating in their advertising with motion picture theatres realizing as they do, the outstanding influence which motion pictures exert on business life and mercantile turn-over of each community. The province of the motion picture as the world's best salesman is being whole-heartedly recognized by department stores and shops throughout the United States. Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs are taking the occasion of this campaign to register their tribute to motion pictures from various angles.

In Hollywood, Frank Whitbeck, producer, has begun the preparation of a motion picture which will play in every theatre in the United States. Its title is "The World Is Yours." This picture, in motion picture terms will carry the same message to the screen that the advertising message is conveying in daily newspapers.

George Schaefer, executive chairman of the campaign, expressed himself as being delighted with the progress made on the preparation for the start of motion pictures' greatest year on September 1st.

There is an additional value in this campaign which none of us realized at the time it started. We are proud of the fact that, as an industry, we have so whole-heartedly guaranteed a large campaign fund. We feel that everything has been done by the various committees to insure the success of the campaign. We feel that the advertising program is definitely a step in the right direction not only for the motion picture business but as an example to all business. We feel that results will amply justify the effort.

None of us, however, visualized the psychology of showmanship which this united campaign has created. Everywhere throughout the country, showmen are waking up to the realization that here at last is something they can sink their teeth in and about which they can go out and demonstrate the showmanship principles upon which the business is founded. Nothing like it has taken place in the last four years of repression as a means of arousing enthusiasm and putting showmanship brains back at work.

for important data on the language of the body.

The patient who is asked whether he is anxious about anything and who, knitting his brow, replies with an emphatic expression that nothing bothers him and why does the doctor ask, is not likely to be taken at his word. Greater consideration will be given to the contradictory statement of the individual's body.

The language of the body has many idioms. Frequently the body "speaks" through some functional disturbances. These are commonly an expression of some emotional disharmony which the individual is unwilling or unable to resolve and of which he may not even be aware.

Perhaps nowhere is this witnessed more commonly than in disturbances of the gastro-intestinal tract. The sudden loss of appetite on the receipt of bad news is commonplace. It is not difficult to conceive how chronic disturbances in gastro-intestinal function may arise from some persisting unresolved emotional disturbance.

All of which would make it evident why the problems of disease can seldom be resolved by merely "taking something" to remove the symptoms.

Nor can the symptoms always be accepted at face value. The feverish tuberculosis sufferer may at times feel very well, even exuberant. The pain of acute appendicitis may subside just at the time the abscess ruptures.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Iago Goldston, M.D.

THE BODY SPEAKS

To the skilled physician all symptoms, organic and functional, are expressions of the body as to what is wrong and what the body is attempting to do.

Reading the language of the body is an ancient medical art. There is a story of the noted Alexandrian physician, Erasistratus, who, being skilled in reading the language of the body, diagnosed correctly the ailment that troubled the famous youth Antiochus.

Always a physician had been baffled by the problem, but Erasistratus, while examining Antiochus, felt a sudden heaving of the patient's ribs. Looking round for the cause, he observed that the young and beautiful Stratonic, his father's mistress, had entered the room. The diagnosis was established and the remedy evident.

Even in casual examinations the physician must frequently depend 'FIRING' SQUAD will soon burn these kerosene-sprayed white fringed beetles in ditch alongside a damaged field in south. A flame-thrower is used to kill grass on which beetles live; the insects die when exposed to sun.

Sunbury, Pa. Tallwind 17 miles per hour. Ground speed 187 miles per hour. Altitude above sea level 8,000 feet. Altitude above ground 7,500 ft. We arrive in Pittsburgh at approximately 6:53 p. m. Remarks: built on the site of Ft. Augusta which was an outpost during the French and Indian war. Edison developed the commercial electrical lighting system at Sunbury. Arrive over Bellefonte at 6:14 p. m. Signed, Alton N. Parker, Captain.

You get one of these every hour or so and not only does it quicken interest in the country you're passing over—it makes for conversation and lends color to a trip that is fun anyway. A swell idea.

Another swell idea is Yermi Stern's house of Santa Claus. Imagine looking through the front door of a model home, about three and a half feet long and seeing a live Santa Claus, maybe 10 inches high, who is a real man, who talks to you, makes toys, runs electric trains, asks you questions, tosses a ball around, and does anything that you can do. Make no mistake about it, the man is alive. He is real. He eats meat and bread and potatoes the same as you. How is it done? What is it?

Not by mirrors. It's by special lenses. One lens brings the scene into the room and another reduces Santa, of course, is in another room going through all the motions, and the "sight" of him is conveyed into the doll-sized house for you to see. There is a telephone in the room and one in front of you, so that you may speak to him and ask questions.

This is Yermi's idea for a display at Christmas time. He hopes to have a thousand of them around the country by Thanksgiving. They can't be purchased—he only rents them, and they go to one store exclusively in each city. The stores may keep them from Thanksgiving to New Year's. It certainly seems odd to talk with a man only 10 inches high.

Today was a good one for auto-graph hunters. Had you poked your head into Sardi's you would have seen: two playwrights, Elmer Rice and Robert Sherwood, lunching at a side table; Billy Rose at a table nearby; Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the actor, in the immediate vicinity, and next to him I did not recognize.

SHERIFFS WHO KILLED GUNMEN

In a wild exchange of gunfire in Indianapolis, Ind., three deputy sheriffs shot and killed two outlaws when the gunmen opened fire on the officers without warning. Above are two of the sheriffs who participated in the battle: John Talley (left) and Herbert Stevens (right). Identity of the gunmen has not been definitely established.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Stocks skidded a bit today then resumed idle wait around the lower levels of the narrow course the market held throughout August.

A moderate forenoon selling wave nipped prices of favorites fractions to two points or so. Rails took more punishment than usual following failure of mediation efforts in the wage cut struggle. Carrier bonds also fell, leaving the investment market lower.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened off one to three in response to lower Liverpool cables and a private crop estimate of 12,059,000 bales.

Offerings were light and represented hedging and scattered selling. Liverpool buying and trade price-fixing accounted for a steady undertone and December recovered from 8.27 to 8.32, leaving prices three points net higher to one lower late in the first hour.

Values again recovered by midday when the list was one to three points net higher. December was 8.32.

Futures closed unchanged to one lower. Spot steady, middling 8.35.

Hints to Housewives

To remove mustard stains from washable fabrics merely wash the stained area in warm water and mild soap suds. Stains may be removed from non-washable fabrics by rubbing them gently as soon as possible with warm glycerine applied with a small sponge or cloth.

Mint gelatin mold topped with salad dressing or mayonnaise makes a tasty accompaniment for lamb, hot or cold. Make a regular mint gelatin, then when it is cool, add some sliced cucumbers, diced celery and minced green peppers or pimientos.

Allow peaches, pears, apricots or plums to ripen at room temperature. Then store them, uncovered in a shallow tray or metal container in the refrigerator. Don't crowd the fruits. That's likely to bruise or soften them, causing quick decay.

Here's a simple way to wash windows. Dip a chamois skin into hot water and wring it quite dry. Rub it over the window quickly. Wait several minutes, then wipe the window with a clean, soft chamois skin.
