HITLER SAYS HE WILL NOT WITHDRAW DEMANDS

CABINET MEETING IS SUMMONED BY PRESIDENT

Session Set Tuesday To Discuss European Crisis

APPEAL MADE BY CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Roosevelt Sends Plea To Hitler and Benes to Avoid "Unspeakable Horror"

Washington, Sept. 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt decided today to hold a special cabinet meeting tomorrow to consider the crisis in Europe.

White House officials said the cabinet session had been moved up from Friday because of conditions abroad.

The President, they added, was keeping in touch with reports from Europe as they came in.

Speaking in the name of 130,000,000 Americans, the President appealed early this morning directly to Chancellor Hitler of Germany and President Benes of Czechoslovakia that they stay out of war.

Copies of his appeal to avoid the "unspeakable horror" of war went also to French and English governments.

At the White House it was said France responded quickly to the dramatic message. Whether the French note will be made public here is up to the State Department, however.

Roosevelt earnestly asked the countries not to break off negotiations looking to a peaceful, fair and constructive settlement of the question at issue.

The President said war's consequences were "incalculable" that millions of men, women and children would lose their lives, the economic system of every country involved was "certain to be shattered" and their social structure "may well be completely wrecked."

He said that "the fabric of peace on the continent of Europe, if not throughout the rest of the world, is in immediate danger" and added:

"It is my conviction that all people under the threat of war today pray that peace may be made before rather than after war."

Mr. Roosevelt carefully stated that "the United States has no political entanglements" and is "caught in no mesh of hatred."

Diphtheria Fatal To Hilda R. Roach

Hilda Ray Roach, 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Roach of the Epworth community in Craven county, died Sunday morning at 1 o'clock at the home of her parents following several days' critical illness with diphtheria.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Smith family cemetery in Swift Creek township by the Rev. M. Lewis, Methodist minister of Grimesland, assisted by the Rev. Clarence Patrick, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church of Greenville.

Besides her parents, surviving are two sisters, Emma and Sarah Jane Roach and a young brother, William George Roach, all of the home.

Two Fires In City Cause Minor Damage

Fire Chief George Gardner today reported two minor fires, one of which occurred Saturday night and another early today.

A slight blaze originated in an automobile Saturday night on Five Points around midnight, but only slight damage was done. Firemen were summoned by telephone to subdue a small blaze created by a short circuit at the home of Bill Adams on Paris Avenue early today.

Attends Conference Of State Commission

J. H. Rose attended a meeting of the government's school commission in Chapel Hill Friday and Saturday of last week.

Supt. Rose said the session was confined to work activities for various members of the commission. The commission has been studying school problems in the State for the purpose of making recommendations for possible changes to the next General Assembly.

New Anglo-French Plan To Check War Delivered To Hitler

Benes Believes Dispute Can Be Ended Peacefully

HALF MILLION IS REQUESTED

Red Cross asks $500,000 to Aid Storm Sufferers

J. Nat Harrison, chairman of the Pitt County chapter of the Red Cross, revealed today that the national organization had sent out an appeal for $500,000 to aid storm sufferers and called on Pitt county citizens to do their bit.

Latest tabulations show more than 600 dead and thousands left homeless, without food or medical requirements, in seven Northeastern states.

Contributions will be received at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce on Evans street, The News Leader and The Daily Reflector. Any person wishing to contribute to the cause may leave their donation at either of the three places.

Relief workers find that food shortage is acute in certain of the storm stricken areas and many families in each of the hurricane area had everything they owned washed away. Fear of epidemic disease also caused much alarm and doctors and nurses were needed to prevent the spread of serious maladies.

The various state governments and the WPA are doing all they can to combat the situation, but it was pointed out that much of the responsibility lay with the Red Cross and it was for this purpose that the appeal for $500,000 was sent out to the various chapters from the national headquarters.

Monday Court Docket Heavy

Many arrests over the weekend created a heavy docket in the regular Monday morning session of city recorder's court, but court officials tried twenty-five cases and completed their schedule before 1 o'clock.

Robert Gaskins was sentenced to serve 30 days on a drunkenness charge, suspended upon payment of costs.

Tincey Sifonons, Negro, was convicted on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, but not for purpose of sale. She was given a 60-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $10 and costs.

Jake Watson, Negro, was adjudged guilty on a charge of illegal possession of liquor for purpose of sale and was sentenced to serve 60 days at the county home.

Chris Henderson was given a 30-day road sentence, suspended upon Saturday night and Sunday.

Different Story Told By Two Local Forces

As a matter of comparison, law enforcement activities in the county were much quieter than those of the city over the weekend.

R. W. Tyson, deputy sheriff, said that "the past weekend was one of the quietest we have ever had."

There was a different story from the police department. Twenty-eight arrests were made over the weekend, most of which were on Saturday night and Sunday.

Believed to be Last Attempt to Halt German Invasion

BRITAIN, FRANCE ACTING JOINTLY

Conferences Believed To Have Resulted in Plan to Move Armed Forces to Front

Berlin, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Carrying a special message for Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Sir Horace Wilson, envoy of the British Prime Minister, arrived here at 3:35 p. m. (9:35 a. m. EST), apparently in a final effort to forestall war.

Wilson was to see Hitler later to present what German officials circles expected to be a second Anglo-French plan for preventing armed conflict between Germany and Czechoslovakia over the Sudeten issue.

This meeting was set for just three hours before Hitler's scheduled address to "the entire Reich" which was to begin at 8 p. m. (2 p. m. EST). Meanwhile it was arranged for all women and children of the British Embassy and consular staffs here to leave Berlin at 11 p. m. (5 p. m. EST).

In London French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet started home by airplane after a night and day of counsel with Prime Minister Chamberlain and his ministers that resulted in a firm united accord on two vital courses of action:

1—A last attempt to stop Hitler from invading Czechoslovakia and touching off a war. (Continued on page six)

Man Wanted For Worthless Checks

Chief of Police George Clark said today that he had received a bulletin urging local police to be on the lookout for G. L. (Doc) Mathis, who is wanted on a charge of passing worthless checks.

Chief Clark said that Mathis, according to the bulletin, had recently been calling on former Davidson students and having checks cashed in denominations of $5 and $20. Mathis, 28, a graduate of Davidson College, is said to have obtained much money from Davidson graduates, but the amount was not designated.

Mathis was a former coach at East Carolina Teachers College. Chief Clark said that it is possible Mathis might attempt to pass worthless checks on his former Greenville acquaintances.

Cars Damaged in Minor Local Accident

An automobile driven by Mrs. Cora S. Powell, secretary of the Greenville Merchant's Association, was damaged early this afternoon when another motor vehicle operated by a Virginia resident allegedly backed into Mrs. Powell's car.

The accident occurred on Evans street. Mrs. Powell's car received damage to a front fender, running board and rear fender. Extent of the damage was not estimated. The other automobile was damaged slightly and neither driver was injured. Motorcycle Officer H. E. Wooten is conducting an investigation.

Pushing Forward On Rehabilitation

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rehabilitation of hurricane and flood-damaged New England moved forward speedily today as the death toll mounted to more than 450 and authorities estimated damage at nearly $200,000,000.

After a survey of areas which felt the force of last week's storm, Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, conferred with regional assistants and governors of the stricken states on a reconstruction program.

Upon returning from an airplane flight over Rhode Island and Connecticut and a closer inspection of towns of Massachusetts, Buzzard's Bay, Hopkins said "it is not a question of individual requests for government funds. It is a question of need and the need is great. From what I have seen I would say the situation is very bad."

The number of deaths increased slightly over the week-end when additional bodies were found in the wreckage or washed up on beaches.

LOYAL CZECHS DEMAND ARMS AT PRAGUE

This radiophoto shows a mighty throng of aroused Czechs at Prague clamoring for arms with which to defend their 20-year-old Republic against threatened invasion and dismemberment. Chancellor Hitler of Germany has demanded transfer of the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia to Germany by October 1.

Czechs Virtually Complete Preparations For Defense

BRITAIN CALLS DEFENSE UNITS

Meanwhile in Paris, Americans Urged to Leave Nation

London, Sept. 26.—(AP)—War Secretary Leslie Hoare-Velisha today called out officers and men of the anti-aircraft and coast defense units of Britain's territorial army.

This is a reserve force charged with manning all anti-aircraft guns, searchlights and air defenses.

All regular Royal Air Force men on leave and Royal Air Force observation corps also were called.

Authorities stressed that both measures were purely precautionary, and did not constitute mobilization.

Royal Air Force precautions also included institution of an air raid warning system.

At the request of the food defense plans committee produce exchanges throughout the country agreed to hold down the prices of bacon, ham, butter, cheese, lard, cooking fats and margarine to their present levels for two weeks.

Paris, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The American embassy today advised all American citizens to return to the United States if they were able to do so.

Earlier the ministry of public works, "because of circumstances," had called upon all persons who were ready to do so, to evacuate Paris by rail.

Americans already have begun the exodus.

Steamship lines of neutral countries running from France to America said they had a rush of applications for passage.

Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet returned to Paris from their conference with British leaders in search for a common course to meet the threat of war in central Europe.

Government circles said that probably a full cabinet meeting with President Albert LeBrun presiding would be held soon to hear the report on the London decision.

Commander-in-Chief of Nation's Armed Forces Named

Prague, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Tense Czechoslovakia waited in the midst of defense preparations today for Adolf Hitler's new declaration following the Czechoslovak decision that his demands were unacceptable.

It was expected that from Hitler the nation might learn the final word in the Sudeten crisis.

An official government announcement assured the people of this 20-year-old republic, now struggling to maintain its independence, that military defense precautions virtually were completed with appointment of General Ludwig Krejci as commander-in-chief of the nation's armed forces.

In Bucharest, Rumania, a dispatch from the official Czechoslovakian news agency said the Czechoslovak government had decreed immediate auxiliary war service for men and women between 17 and 60.

The agency said all was "completely quiet and in order in Czechoslovakia, except in Brunnthau and in Moravia, where German-speaking citizens fired from their homes at police and soldiers."

Nazi Sudeten Leader Konran Henlein crossed back into Czechoslovakia, spent an hour inspecting his Sudeten Free Corps fighters' front line, then returned to his party headquarters at Dayreuth, Germany.

W. & L. PROJECT PLANS SHAPING

Specifications To Be Sent To Atlanta PWA Office

Work preparatory to letting of contracts for improvements and extensions to the Greenville Water and Light plant is going forward and it is expected that the project will get under way by November 1.

Martian Swartz said that plans and specifications are being put in final shape and will go to PWA regional office in Atlanta within a week or 10 days. After this, provided the plans are approved, the Water and Light commission will advertise for bids on the equipment.

The purchase price of the equipment will include installation, under supervision of officials of the local plant.

The commission proposes to purchase a 5,000 k. w. turbo generator and a 720 horse power boiler, with necessary auxiliary equipment for each.

DUCE SEES WAY TO AVOID WAR

Advices France And Britain To Leave Czechs to Fate

Verona, Italy, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini advised France and Britain today to save Europe from war by leaving Czechoslovakia to her fate.

He suggested in a speech before 47,000 Fascists that war might thus be entirely averted since Czechoslovakia perhaps would recognize the futility of fighting Germany alone.

He implied that he saw no reason for resistance to Hitler's demands.

"The German memorandum does not deviate from the line which was approved at the London meeting," he declared, referring to Hitler's Godesberg memorandum and the Anglo-French proposals previously submitted to the Prague government.

"There are still several days to reach a peaceful solution," he said, "if this is not achieved it is almost beyond human power to prevent a conflict."

Launch Drive For Better Sanitation

It was learned today from Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt County Health officer, that the health department is re-doubling its efforts toward better sanitation for rural citizens of Pitt County, especially for the rural farmer.

According to Dr. Ennett, J. H. Moore, county sanitary inspector, has made a large number of personal visits throughout the county in the interest of better sanitation. The health officer has also sought the co-operation of the medical profession in this matter.

The plan is to send letters to many of the landlords requesting that they provide sanitary privies for the tenants and offering supervision of sanitary inspection in the placement of these privies.

It was pointed out that it would be good business for the landlord to get privies now, since he would only have to pay the cost of materials. The PWA will provide labor for construction and placement.

Motor Accident Case Being Aired in Court

The case of Paul Morris vs. the Service Distributing Company of Wilson was the first case called as this week's session of civil court got under way here this morning with Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill presiding.

The plaintiff is seeking to recover for personal and property damage suffered in a collision between an automobile driven by him and a truck by an employee of the defendant in April, 1937.

Declares Germany and Italy Will Stand Together

NOT TO GIVE UP CZECH DEMAND

Fuehrer Adds, However, That This Will Be His Last Territorial Claim

Berlin, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Germany and Italy "will stand together and be able to defend themselves as a solid bloc if the worst comes to the worst," Adolf Hitler tonight told a world waiting for his word as to whether there would be war or peace.

He said that his demands on Czechoslovakia were "the last territorial claim I will make," but added ominously it was a claim "which I will not give up."

Later in his speech Hitler declared that "I have decided that we shall place" the Sudeten region of Czechoslovakia "under German sovereignty," and added that if President Benes "does not want peace, we will have to take matters into our own hands."

On the Sudeten issue Hitler declared to a cheering throng, "we now stand confronted with the last

London, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The British government announced tonight that Britain and Soviet Russia would join France in a triple front to aid Czechoslovakia in the event of a German invasion.

The statement said that during the last week Prime Minister Chamberlain had attempted to find a way out peacefully and his conversation with Hitler on the Czechoslovakian question.

It added that it was still possible to do so by negotiations.

and final problem which has to be solved and will be solved."

This declaration followed a review of his relations with the principal European powers in the course of which he voiced his dissatisfaction with the naval treaty with Britain, limiting Germany's naval power.

Earlier he had told his countrymen that Germany had "an armed force the like of which the world has never seen."

Hitler began his address at 8:21 p. m. (2:21 p. m. EST). He began speaking in slow, deliberate tones.

"Now that the hour of a great decision has arrived," he said, "the German nation and Nazi fuerher is speaking."

Hitler began: "German fellowmen and women:

"I addressed the Reichstag on February 22, and again addressed the Reichs party (the Nazi party convention), at Nurnberg, when I made clear to the world that no longer is a fuerher or a man speaking, but the German people."

"May other statesmen test whether there is such unity among their people as here. The question that moves us most deeply today is known to everybody. It is not so much Czechoslovakia! It is the name of (President Edouard) Benes.

"In this name this mentioned is all that which moves millions, which either causes them dejection or fills them with a fanatical will.

"I will briefly re-state my policy: We are not interested in oppressing other peoples. We want to be happy in our own fashion.

"Our foreign aims are not unlimited or unchangeable or determined by chance.

"Their sole purpose is to be of (Continued on page six)

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 26—Would-be nurses in North Carolina must submit their applications for examination not later than October 18, according to Bessie M. Chapman, secretary of the North Carolina Board of Nurse Examiners.

The board will conduct the annual Fall examinations at the Capitol November 2, 3 and 4, he has announced. "All applications must be in the office of the Secretary in completed form not later than October 18" she said.

North Carolina legislators and politicians interested in the campaign to submit an anti-diversion amendment will be watching the results of popular votes on the question in four other states this fall.

Constitutional amendments prohibit the use of special motor vehicle taxes to other than highway purposes will be voted on at this fall's elections in Alabama, California, Michigan and New Hampshire.

The consensus of observers in North Carolina seems to be that if the Legislature should vote to submit an anti-diversion amendment to a popular referendum, the result would be some new Constitutional law.

Which is perhaps why those who fear such an amendment are beginning to wake to the fact their best chance to head it off is in the polls.

The total of 681 construction projects in North Carolina for August were divided into 278 residential, 108 non-residential and 295 additions, alterations and repairs, according to statistics of the North Carolina Department of Labor.

The residential projects were divided: 1-family dwellings 229, 2-family dwellings 37, 1-family and 2-family dwellings with shop or store therewith 1, multi-family (3 or more) dwellings, hotels 1, other non-housekeeping dwellings 1.

Listed under non-residential projects were amusement and recreational places 3, churches 5, factories, bakeries, ice plants, laundries and other workshops 4, public garages 1, private garages 48, gasoline and filling stations 5, public buildings (city, county, state) 8, schools 2, shops, poultry houses, contractors temporary offices, etc. 9, stables and barns 1, stores and mercantile buildings 21, all other non-residential 1.

Of the additions, alterations and repairs, 227 were on residential buildings, 68 on non-residential. Probably the most surprising feature to the average mind is that permits were issued for only five gasoline and service stations. Every corner has one already, maybe.

In the 20 cities reporting building figures for August to the Department of Labor, increased expenditures were noted in 14 cities (Concord, Elizabeth City, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Kinston, New Bern, Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Salisbury, Shelby, Statesville, Wilmington, Wilson and Winston-Salem) while decreases were noted in six (Asheville, Charlotte, Durham, Gastonia, Greensboro and High Point).

Local fans will get their first chance to witness some home football when the high school meets Plymouth here Friday and the college plays Belmont Abbey here Saturday. Give the local teams your support by attending these games.

THE CLOUDEST MAN

By MAX SALTSMARSH

Chapter 43 Forest Fire

I CAUGHT up with Fleuriot just as he reached the office. "You'd better inform your bureau that Geiss is wanted for one recent murder, as well as complicity in the others," said I, perching myself on the table as he wrestled with the telephone.

"Lots!" said I, grinning down at him, and added a short résumé of the events of the night before. "But get on with your telephoning, man," I finished. "The news will keep, and Henrietta, poor soul, can't run away, but Geiss can and will."

Fifteen minutes later it was all over. Instructions were being flashed across the length and breadth of France to hold the yellow car and its occupants. We met in the hall, four worried, disgruntled men. "Where to look?" asked Fleuriot, his round, red face all creased and puckered with anxiety.

"I have done what I can, executive," I have ordered the detention of Monsieur le Baron Stahl, as soon as he can be found, and I do not think he can be far away; my bureau is requesting the Italian police to keep an eye on the interesting Monsieur Vladimir Rakovsky, and I have given instructions for the villa of the miscreant Geiss to be watched until I have leisure to examine the corpse of Mademoiselle Adams. It was in the room where she lies, was it not, that you discovered the gun which may have killed the lamented O'Donnell? But what a pity that you were not similarly fortunate in finding the other gun with which the poor little Monet was shot, and the weapon which struck down Monsieur Venner!"

"And a very funny joke too," I commented dryly. "but in this case you happen to have hit the nail on the head. The gun which killed Mr. Monet is in the possession of Mr. Dunning. There are no fingerprints on it, but I can tell you that the man who fired the shot is Rakovsky's chauffeur. He's dark, medium-sized, with the first finger of his right hand missing. As for the weapon that killed Venner it's a serviceable kind of wrench, and you'll find it, and the old man's wallet, under the loose tile outside my bedroom door in the Château la 'ague."

I paused for a moment, to savor to the full the almost ludicrous astonishment that spread over his face and eyes as I did so, a great light dawned upon me. I sat down heavily on the nearest chair.

"Merciful heavens!" I groaned. "Why didn't I think of it before? The Club des Sans Clubs, man! They meet in the cellars under the chateau Ten chance to one that's where they've taken Otilie."

Fleuriot gaped at me. "This club I have never heard of," he said dazedly. "But then, it seems to me I have heard of something. But before he could finish his complaint Hugo had gripe him by the arm."

"You'll hear of a lot more before this night is through," he retorted grimly. "Come on, we're going to the chateau."

Night was falling. The sinister smoke-cloud had lifted, but to the west the opal sky was flushed and angry; we could not see the doomed cape, but the wind that blew strongly down upon us was fiery, and I breathed a prayer for any living thing that might be left in the glowing furnace that was once the Estérel.

Into Custody THE gardens were dusky and deserted, and the only people abroad besides ourselves appeared to be a party of half a dozen sailors, strolling arm-in-arm a little way ahead of us. I wasn't paying much attention to them but suddenly there was a chorus of very shouts, and above the dark, dusky night I saw a man shoot high, and the hand at the end of the arm held a glittering knife.

On a swift, ungovernable impulse I shook myself free of Fleuriot's grasp and sprinted towards the shouting, milling group. In a couple of seconds I was upon them and knocked down the knife instantly they were running for their lives, scattering into the darkness, all except one.

"Monsieur," said the voice of Jean-Francois, slightly tremulous. "I thank you from the heart that knife was intended for me."

I gasped, a gasp of sheer amazement. "And what the devil," said I, "have you been up to?"

He smiled up at me with simple pride. "It was the yacht," he explained. "The Rendezvous! As Monsieur Dunning will have told you, I was able to obtain a post on board her as cabin steward and when news came that she was to be ready I said immediately, I judged it my duty to delay her. I waited until the engineer was on shore and did a little work with a wrench."

"And then?" said I. "Monsieur," he said simply, "I fear that they suspected me, for they knew I was a sailor; but they did nothing. I think they were watching me, biding their time, for when I asked leave to go on shore, I was refused. I had seen nothing of Monsieur le Baron since yesterday evening, but tonight, as dusk fell, a small boat came up by our bows, and with much secrecy he crept on board. I could not hear all that passed, but I gathered that he will remain hidden on the Rendezvous until the small hours of tomorrow morning, when a fish-boat will take him over to the fles de Lérens. This news was so important that I judged it my duty to come on shore at all costs to report to Monsieur Dunning, but I was overtaken by these men, who, under the guise of friendship, forced me to stroll along with them. Two, who were unknown to me, then started an argument—the excuse for the quarrel and the knife, you will understand—and had it not been for the arrival of Monsieur, I should not be telling this story."

"Fleuriot," I said, "did you hear that?"

"Certainly. We will now, if you please, Monsieur Stern, proceed in your car to the police-station, where I can make what arrangements are necessary."

At the police station Fleuriot revealed himself as a master of swift action. Before I could realize what was happening, orders had been given, police mobile reinforced by the local gendarmery, had piled into two cars, and a couple of men had wheeled out powerful-looking motorcycles into position behind the Hispano.

"It is possible we shall need extra help at the chateau," he explained.

We whizzed on to the quay. Uniformed men hurriedly scrambled into rowboats, while others trotted silently along the jetty towards the dark and silent Rendezvous and I knew that it would not be long before the yacht was encircled and her obese owner in safe custody.

The Second Door "AND now," said Fleuriot, settling himself comfortably beside me in the tonneau of the Hispano, "we will have the rest of the story, if you please, Monsieur Lumsden; but we will begin at the end and work backwards, for time is short."

I did as he bid: me, collecting my scattered thoughts and trying to give him some coherent account of what had been taking it by and large, the most hectic week of my life; but before I had got any appreciable distance, the car turned with a grinding of brakes into the familiar empty lane, and next minute we were pulling up at the gates of the hotel.

The great building loomed before us, shadowy, unlighted and indescribably dreary. The next minute I had led them through the lounge and under the curtained arch to the door with its battered poster: "Club des Sans Clubs."

The door was a heavy slab of wood, solid and immovable as the house itself. Fleuriot shook his head.

"I do not like it," said he. "This door has not been opened for a long time—see, the paint fills the cracks—and I fear there are bolts on the other side. Skeleton keys are useless against bolts; Monsieur Archee, is there no other entrance?"

"There is," I answered dubiously, "but I doubt if it will be any better than this. It is under the arches below the terrace."

"Show us the other door," I led the way on across the sunken garden.

At the farthest, darkest end was something that looked like wood, and as Dunning flashed his torch on it, I saw that it was indeed a decaying, decrepit door. It did not seem possible that any living thing had passed through it in the last decade, but Fleuriot, stepping up to it, gave a sudden, stifled exclamation.

"We have it!" he whispered. "See, the lock has been freshly oiled and there are no cobwebs!"

He bent to his task, inserting first one, then a second fantastic implement in the rusted lock, and again, as the wards clicked Hugo and I took a step backward and hurled ourselves against it.

There was a cracking noise, a crash of breaking wood and next minute we shot forward, sprawling, on to wet stone flags, with Dunning at our heels and Fleuriot close behind. I got up dazedly and looked about me, to find that I was standing in a vast, vaulted place, lit only by a flickering lantern at the far end. At first glance the cellar seemed to be completely empty, and then suddenly I saw crouched against the further wall a huddled, shuddering form.

In one bound I was across the floor and had him by the throat. "Noah More!" I said between my teeth. "Tell me, man, before I wring the life out of you—where has Geiss taken Miss Wylis?"

His hands feebly clutched at my grip on his throat. "He has taken her," he said, and swayed as if he would fall, "he has taken her to the Estérel, to the Auberge des Allouettes." And with the words he fainted dead away in my hands.

I turned and looked through the open door out towards the west where the crimson sky was shot with darting flames, and as I did so, I heard Hugo groan like a man in torment.

Barnett Bros. Presenting Famous Equestrienne

NORMA ROGERS TO BE FEATURED IN RIDING ACT

Hazardous, hurricane horsemanship will be one of the sensational features of the great Barnett Bros. three-ring circus and trained animal show coming to Greenville for two performances on Monday, October 3.

On the bare backs of plunging, unbridled thoroughbreds, Norma Rogers, pictured with her Rogentosh troupe, has ridden to international fame. The most beautiful equestrienne in show business, Miss Rogers has just returned from an extensive tour of South America where she was the featured attraction with the Circo Atayde playing dates in every important city in Brazil, Venezuela, Chile and the Argentine.

Daring as she is beautiful, Miss Rogers has thrilled audiences on both continents with her thrilling display of the most courageous feats ever attempted on a horse.

A display of thoroughbreds gladdening to the hearts of all true lovers of horseflesh is found in the Barnett Bros. stables this season. High strung Arabians, Morgans, Palominos, mustangs, pintos and Painted ponies all play a prominent part in the program.

An integral part of the circus since the earliest days, horses have again here into their own. They are in greater evidence this year than ever before in the Barnett circus.

Western mustangs and pintos plunge into new prominence on the big hippodrome track wheel in the three rings finer mettled Arabians and Morgans present spectacular displays in unequalled feats of intelligence.

Many other stellar attractions crowd the two-hour thrill-packed performance which Col. George Barnett claims to be the best of his long career.

Two performances will be given at the old Fair grounds. The afternoon performance begins at three o'clock; the evening performance at eight o'clock.

Manager Bracey Says Fight Cards Put Off Infinitely

Local sports fans will have to eliminate the regular Monday night wrestling card from their entertainment curriculum tonight, in that the show featured weekly in the armory has been postponed indefinitely.

This announcement was made today by A. B. Bracey local fight promoter, who explained that deferral of the shows have been brought about in an effort to secure another location.

Bracey said it would be several weeks before the fight cards would be resumed. He expressed the opinion, however, that boxing may replace wrestling due to increased popularity for that punching sport in Greenville.

If boxing bouts are arranged instead of wrestling engagements, Bracey said he hoped to have a good roster of regular professional 4-H Club Meeting. The 4-H Club of Jones school held its first club meeting for the new school year, Sept. 23 at 1:30 p. m.

New officers were elected for the new school year and also new members were added to the club. Walter Moore was elected president and Elizabeth Taft was elected secretary and treasurer.

The new president gave very interesting remarks and in his remarks pledged his service to the club in order for success. Miss Elizabeth Taft who attended the 4-H short course at A. and T. College, Greensboro, Aug. 29-

Sept. 2, gave a very interesting report to the conference. Mrs. M. D. Wilson also talked to the group concerning the conference, and taught the group two new club songs.

The subject for discussion and demonstration at the next meeting will be "Bible Maners." Remarks were given by Mrs. S. M. Garrett, after which the meeting adjourned.

Colored Boy Air-Minded. Frank Wilson, Jr., 516 Contentment street, who is very air-minded, has on display at Weeks Hardware store a model airplane. He has a number of planes and finds pleasure in buying books and papers that are about airplanes. In his leisure time, if you should visit his home, you will find him at his hobby "making air-

Endorsements of Gov. Clyde R. Hoey and the respective heads of the three units already have been given to the plan and details are being worked out by the steering committee and separate committee at the three colleges.

One of the many sidelights of the occasion will be that furnished by those two brilliant triple-threat athletes, Little Artie Rooney of State and Sweet Jim Lalame of Carolina. These two boys are expected to furnish much of the fireworks during the afternoon's football classic.

Raleigh merchants and the Junior Chamber of Commerce are co-operating by decorating the uptown streets. Fraternities and dormitories also will join in displaying the Red and White of State and the Blue and White of Carolina.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Fresh uneasiness over the European war dangers took the starch out of the stock market today. While intermittent attempts were made to rally the list, important support failed to appear and near the fourth hour losses among leaders ranged from one to around four points. There were isolated flops of a point or so. Steels, motors and specialties were in supply throughout.

1—A fervent appeal to Hitler to leave the door open for peaceful settlement.
2—Suggestions for an alternative to the ultimatum which would let Hitler show his troops to some parts Sudebenland and yet prevent certain strangulation of the rest of Czechoslovakia.
3—A flat notice that Britain and France would not push Prague into acceptance of the ultimatum.
4—A plain statement that German war on Czechoslovakia was certain to bring the western democracies into action against Germany, ultimately if not immediately.

Unusual Bean

A large bean, similar to the butterbean in shape and taste, was brought to Greenville today by Mrs. J. D. Copeland from Chowan county.
The bean grows on a vine about knee high and looks almost exactly like a butterbean, except that it is several times larger. The pod is at least a foot long.

"My second proposal was to limit the army to 200,000 men with the same weapons as others had. That, too, was declined.
"Then I offered to renounce tanks, heavy airplanes and other engines of war. That was declined.
"I went farther. I offered a 300,000-man army for all European powers. It was rejected.
"They wanted to restrict our means of defense, but all in vain. Today we have an armed force the like of which the world has never seen.
"I offered the world to do without armaments. But when they rejected, I decided to arm. If they do not want to be without arms, all right.
"German people, now you carry the blame for what you now I have spent billions right here for armaments."
"I saw to it the most modern army with the most modern weapons was established. I have created an air force that protects Germany against any and every attack.
"We have created an unparalleled air force and tank force in a constant effort night and day the past five years.
"I followed a practical policy of peace. I tackled all sorts of difficult problems, even to the point of renouncing things dear to us.
"The most difficult problem was the German-Polish question. There was danger of hysteria. I was determined to avoid this. I know I could never have succeeded had there been democracy instead of a man at the helm in Poland.
