PRAGUE TAKES STEPS TOWARD PACIFICATION

New Cabinet Grants Amnesty to Political Prisoners

SLOVAK OFFICER ON COMMISSION

Selected Head Body To Negotiate Hungarian Claims in Minority Areas

Prague, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Premier Jan Syrový's newly formed cabinet granted amnesty to Hungarian Sudeten German and Polish political prisoners today as a step toward national and international pacification.

Another prompt step was the naming of Dr. Joseph Tiso, Prime Minister of the autonomous Slovak state, to head of a Czechoslovak commission to negotiate Hungarian claims to Magyar minority sections of dismembered Czechoslovakia. The discussions were to start tomorrow.

Dr. Tiso and other Slovak Ministers were sworn in at a night cabinet meeting.

This was the single hopeful note as the disintegration of Czechoslovakia continued. There was pessimism in Prague but enthusiasm in Slovakia as the latter looked forward to autonomy.

Slovakia celebrated despite the fact that in its natural capital, Bratislava, two Hungarian deputies demanded immediate negotiations for the transfer of extensive property of Slovakia to Hungary.

Despite uncertainties facing the country Dr. Tiso and other Slovak leaders expressed a desire Slovakia be an autonomous part of the new Czechoslovakia and pledged cooperation with the Prague government.

Two Pitt Wrecks Within One Hour

Two minor traffic accidents in separate sections of the county within an hour were investigated yesterday afternoon by State Highway Patrolman C. R. Williams.

No one was injured in either wreck, although property damage was sustained in each.

Louis Goldberger of Pennsylvania and C. E. Jones of Greenville, both white men, were involved in an accident on the Washington highway about five miles from Greenville about 5:20 o'clock. Patrolman Williams said the accident occurred when Jones drove out from a private driveway.

William Henry Wilson of Simpson and David Dixon, driving a truck owned by the Sellers Brick company, were involved in a wreck at Simpson about 6 o'clock. The truck and automobile collided at an intersection in Simpson.

No arrests have been made in either wreck, pending further investigation.

Little New Building Started This Month

Little new construction was started in the city during the first week of October, only five building permits having been issued and four of these having been for repairs or alterations.

The permits for each of the repair projects listed the estimated cost at $100.

One permit was issued for the construction of a new $2,000 dwelling house.

Merchants' Directors Meet Monday Night

The Board of Directors of the Greenville Merchants Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the organization's offices in the Post Office building Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. G. S. Powell, executive secretary, in announcing the meeting said several important subjects would be considered by the board.

$27.19 Average

Another high average price was paid on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday as the weekly sales were completed.

Offerings of 1,334,967 pounds brought $363,036.25, or an official average of $27.19 per hundred pounds.

Sales to date total 33,899,374 pounds, for which farmers were paid $7,883,281.18, a general average of $23.25 per hundred weight.

There was no block Friday and the floors were cleared for tobacco coming during the week end to be auctioned on Monday.

BOUND OVER ON SERIOUS COUNT

Young Bethel Man Charged with Criminal Assault

Roy Bowers, Jr., son of a prominent Bethel man, was bound over to superior court under bond of $3,500 following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate H. L. Jenkins here today on a charge of having criminally assaulted Miss Ethel M. Gurganus, who lives between Robersonville and Everetts, in Martin county.

Miss Gurganus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gurganus, testified that she and Bowers and another couple were out riding last Saturday night when they drove off the highway into a side road and parked. She said that Bowers opened the car door and pushed her out, took her about 100 yards from the car and assaulted her.

Her story was corroborated by Miss Catherine Shaw, who said she and Herman Dixon were in the car with Bowers and Miss Gurganus. Dixon did not appear at the preliminary hearing, at which Bowers did not testify.

Bowers was arrested last Saturday night some time after the alleged assault took place and was lodged in the Martin county jail at Williamston. It was believed at first that the alleged crime took place in Martin county, but when it developed that it was across the Pitt county line, Sheriff J. Knott Proctor was notified and he went for Bowers, who had been in jail at Williamston all this week.

Discovery of a new Indian culture in Wayne county, Missouri, has been announced by Dr. Brewton Berry, University of Missouri professor. He estimated it preceded that of the known Indian cultures.

W. M. JENKINS TEACHER HEAD

Elected President Of Pitt County Association

W. M. Jenkins, principal of the Ayden school, was named president of the Pitt County Teachers Association at that organization's first meeting of the 1938-39 school year here today.

The meeting was held in the Pitt teacher building and the teachers and principals witnessed a preview of "Boy's Town."

L. J. Morris of the Chitwood school, received the second highest number of votes in the balloting and was declared vice-president of the association. Miss Christine House of the Winterville school, was selected as secretary.

Named to the executive committee of the Pitt county branch of the North Carolina Education Association were C. F. Wildman of Belvoir, Miss Ruth Smith of Falkland, Miss Velva Howard of Bethel, Miss Christine Smith of Stokes, H. L. Hart of Paololis, Miss Carrie Glynn Smith of Grifton, Mrs. Martha E. Pollard of Arthur, Miss Annie Perkins of Farmville, and Mrs. Dora Bullock of Fountain.

The principal address of the meeting was made by Mrs. Ruth Vick Everett of Seaboard, field secretary of the North Carolina Education Association. Mrs. Everett stressed the important part the association played in the lives of the teachers and urged them to take a greater interest in the work and program undertaken by the organization.

Pearson Effective In Most of Pinches As American Leaguers Hammer Chicago's Pitchers at Opposite Moments; Lazzeri Given Ovation As He Pinch-Hit for Cubs Against Old Team-Mates

Yankee Stadium, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The New York Yankees (American League) won their third straight world series game over the Chicago Cubs (National League), 5-2 here this afternoon before a crowd estimated at more than 70,000.

The victory today, on the heels of the two in Chicago, leaves the Yanks only one game from their third straight world series championship.

The Cubs scored first blood in today's game, making use of their two in the fourth inning, but the Yanks were quick to take the lead, fourth inning, but making two in their half of the fourth. The champions added two

WPA DIRECTOR SAYS PROGRAM PEOPLE'S WILL

Federal Agency Defended in Arkansas Address

DECLARES CASH PROVIDED NEEDED

Director Says Most Criticism of WPA Coming from Those Who Talk Economy

Fayetteville, Ark., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Harry Hopkins, answering criticism directed at the WPA, declared today the continuance of the work program represents the democratic will of the American people.

In an address prepared for a delivery at a park dedication Hopkins said the WPA was not imposed upon the people, but was created in response to a public demand.

Far from menacing our free economic institutions, it has been a consistent help to them," he asserted. "It maintains a labor reserve for private industry. It maintains our social fabric by assisting those who have been thrown out of work by no fault of their own. It stimulates recovery through the very act of disbursing purchasing power into the hands of those that need it and spend it."

Hopkins declared most of the attack on the WPA program comes from those "who talk economy."

"Perhaps many will think I am not the man to say what economy is, but I know what it is," he said. "To permit idle men with their families to starve; to let our schools close; to let our city streets become a mass of holes; to see our land wash away and our homes to go to rack is not economy. x x x"

SHIP WORKERS OUT ON STRIKE

Six Hundred Longshoremen Quit Jobs in Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Six hundred deepwater longshoremen went on strike here at noon today, seeking a "stipulated eight hour day."

The Grayson, president of local 1483 International Longshoremen Association Workers also were striking at Charleston, S. C., and Savannah and Brunswick, Ga.

Negotiations between dock workers and deepsea shipping operators over new contracts began last Monday. Longshoremen asked a wage increase from 50 to 70 cents an hour eight hour day within a nine hour period, and time and a half over time.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A spokesman for Charleston deep-sea shipping operators said today conferences were being held with representatives of the local longshoremen's union in an effort to forestall a threatened strike.

Details of the discussion were not revealed, but the shipping representatives said progress was being made.

England Filled With Joy Babson Says Last Barrier to American Recovery Cleared Away

By ROGER BABSON London, Oct. 8.—The settlement of the European crisis was the most optimistic news in over a year. The war scare was the only barrier in the path of a sharp business recovery this fall. If the Czechoslovakian situation had not reached such a high pitch of excitement all over the world the recovery from our recession would have been a lot further along.

The settlement of the European trouble has fully justified the no-war-in-1938 forecast which I made in my Annual Outlook on January first and which I have repeated many times since.

London, of course, is overjoyed that Prime Minister Chamberlain dragged England back from what most people believed to be the brink of war. I have been here only a few days, but I have talked with numerous people in all walks of life—from cab drivers to high government officials. They have told me that everyone momentarily expected war to come. However, while badly frightened, the people went about their daily chores as usual. There is a large amount of new building of

GODWIN IS RETURNED TO JAIL

James Godwin (handcuffed), 19, who escaped from the Davidson county jail at Lexington after persuading the jailer's daughter to give him the prison keys, here is shown as he was brought to jail at High Point by officers following his capture near Hickory. A companion in the escape, Bill Wilson, 21, surrendered earlier. Originally facing trial on a burglary charge, Godwin now is charged with murder also. Police quoted him as confessing he was the "trigger man" in the fatal shooting of Don Mess, of High Point, shortly after he and Wilson made their get-away.

British Aircraft Fails In Effort To Set Record

Falls Short Of Long Distance Record by 380 Miles

Capetown, South Africa, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Short of fuel, the pick-a-back plane Mercury, Britain's newest experiment with long-range bombing planes, made an emergency landing today just 380 miles short of her goal.

The plane was attempting to break the world's distance record in a flight from Dundee, Scotland, to Capetown.

The Mercury came down at 7:25 a. m. (2:25 a. m. EST) at the mouth of the Orange river. The plane had covered nearly 6,000 miles of the projected 6,370 mile flight.

The sea plane later took off from Alexander bay at 1:25 p. m. (6:25 a. m. EST) and was expected to reach Capetown at 4 p. m. (9 a. m. EST).

The Mercury was released from its mother ship, the Maia, at 1:20 p. m. October 6 for the flight here. The aim was to surpass the 6,296-mile mark set by three Russian fliers in July, 1937, who flew from Moscow to California, via the north pole.

Huntington, Ind.—(AP)—A truck wreck on route 24 was a headache to sheriff A. L. Thompson. The truck contained 4,000 pounds of canned ether. Cleaning up the mess gave the sheriff several woody hours.

Winterville Girl Wins Style Show

Miss Mildred Bell Edwards of Winterville, a freshman at East Carolina Teachers College here, yesterday was declared winner of the North Carolina 4-H club dress review and was awarded a free trip to the national 4-H style review in December.

Miss Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, won first place in a field of 42 contestants.

The pretty blonde Pitt County girl won the contest with a costume which costs only $19.40. The costume, including a heavy interlined woolen coat, lingerie and accessories was designed and made by herself.

Two to Face Charges As Result Of Wreck

Two Greenville men were summoned to appear in Municipal Recorder's court Monday morning to answer charges growing out of a traffic accident at the intersection of Long and Chestnut street yesterday afternoon.

W. H. Bailey and Luther B. Mogano were the drivers of the vehicles, a truck and a passenger car, involved in the wreck. No one was injured in the accident, it was reported at police headquarters. (Continued on page six)

Announcement Made By Insurgent General Franco's Headquarters Fails State Number Be Recalled; Troops in Spain Had Hindered Italo-British Relations

Rome, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The government announced today that Italian troops with more than 18 months service in Spain would be recalled to Italy.

The announcement was made in the form of a communique from Insurgent General Franco's headquarters at Salamanca Spain and was distributed by the official Italian news agency Stefani.

The communique, without stating the number of troops actually to be withdrawn, said: "General Franco is preparing immediate repatriation of Italian legionnaires who have more than 18 months uninterrupted campaign in Spain."

"Nationalist Spain in effecting this substantial withdrawal of volunteers, is contributing in an efficacious manner to the re-establishment of international confidence and at the same time satisfying in this manner the desire manifested by the non-intervention committee."

Earlier informed sources said the withdrawal of about 10,000 Fascist legionnaires probably would be announced soon.

The question of removing Italian troops from Spain has complicated Italo-British relations for nearly a year.

Four Cases Tried Friday Afternoon

Four cases were heard by Recorder L. C. Skinner at the afternoon session of Friday's Municipal court.

Henry Daniels, Negro, was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon and ordered to pay the cost of court and also pay $10.75 for the use of Booker T. Hall, prosecuting witness.

James Ward, Negro, was charged with disorderly conduct, using vulgar and profane language and assault with a deadly weapon, but was convicted only of the disorderly conduct charge and prayer for judgment was continued.

Dan Phillips, Negro charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was convicted of engaging in disorderly conduct and was ordered to pay the costs or serve a 30-day sentence.

Herman Stocks, white man, was convicted of drunkenness and ordered to pay the costs of court or serve a 30-day sentence at the county home.

EASTERN BELT PRICES BETTER

Tobacco Also Selling Stronger on Other Markets

Raleigh, Oct. 8.—(AP)—North Carolina's three sets of tobacco markets reported higher prices this week than for last, state and federal agencies said today.

On the Old Belt markets the averages were "substantially higher" in the majority of grades with price raises general in all groups, the Agricultural Economic and Virginia and State Divisions of Markets said. Common quality leaf and low quality lugs and primings had largest gains.

The Middle Belt prices were "slightly" up for most of the leaf smoking and cutter grades. Low grades, irregular, showed firm as a group and primings were practically unchanged. Better quality grades had a strong demand.

The state and federal agriculture departments reported on this set and the Eastern North Carolina markets.

On the Eastern Carolina Belt all cutter grades and the majority of low quality grades of all other groups showed "marked increases." Fine quality leaf and smoking leaf and choice quality lugs also showed "substantial" gains.

The week's average on this belt, for markets selling the bulk of tobacco, stood at $27.13 a hundred-weight and the season's at $22.88 a hundred pounds. No averages were given for the other belts.

COTTON YIELD OF 12,212,000 BALES IS SEEN

Estimate Released by U. S. Department of Agriculture

EXCEEDS FIGURE FOR LAST MONTH

Meanwhile, Southern Senator Discuss Suggestion for Trading Surplus Cotton

Washington, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department estimated today the cotton crop this year is 12,212,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

The crop was forecast at 11,825,000 bales a month ago. Production was 18,946,000 bales last year—a record crop. Average production for the 10 years, 1927-1936, was 13,201,000 bales.

The condition of the crop October 1, indicated acre yield in pounds and indicated total production in 500-pounds gross weight bales, by states, include: North Carolina 34, 238; and 450,000; South Carolina 58, 247; and 675,000; Virginia 33, 205; and 18,000.

Other developments: Southern senators discussed a proposal for trading surplus American cotton and other farm products for needed raw materials this country does not produce.

Commenting on a suggestion by Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee that cotton be traded for silver on the world market, Senator Harrison (D-Miss.) chairman of the Finance committee, said he believed this plan could be broadened to include other materials.

Representative Doughton (D-N. C.) gave assurance that a wide variety of pension plans, including one for $200 a month payments, would get congressional attention next session.

He said the House Ways and Means committee, of which he is chairman, would begin exploring the whole field of social legislation shortly after Congress meets in January.

The Supreme court completed its examination of about 300 cases filed during the summer. It will announce on Monday which ones will be reviewed.

The American Red Cross dispatched a cargo of flour and soap to war-stricken Spain, beginning America's first large scale errand in Europe since the post-world war period.

The supplies were loaded aboard the freighter Independence Hall of the American-France line at Hoboken, N. J.

Explains How Money Stolen From Bilbro's

Officials of the Bilbro Wholesale Company, from which firm $800 in checks and currency was stolen this week, explained today that the money and checks represented one of their salesmen's collections and was not a deposit prepared to be taken to the bank.

It was explained that the salesman came into the building and the checks was laid down in the shipping department for a moment and was gone when the salesman went back for it.

Admits Slaying Her Husband As He Slept

Monroe, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Floyd Little, 31, a farmer who lives near here, was killed today by a blow of an axe as he lay in his bed.

Sheriff Frank Niven said Mrs. Viola Moore Little, 22, the widow, related she had killed her husband while he was asleep. She told the sheriff, he said, that Little had threatened her before they went to bed and had placed the axe beside the bed.

P. T. A. Scores Again.

Friends and patrons of the Bell Arthur high school are much pleased by the handsome majority by which the bond election was carried.

The spirit of cooperation by which this project was sponsored and carried shows that the people of this district intend to leave nothing undone in order to have our school, though small, to keep in the line of progress with the best.

With Mr. Conley to guide and direct, with a faculty earnest and capable, with children eager to learn, and last, but by no means least, with a P. T. A. personnel that intends to go forward, we feel assured of success.—Reported.

Begin Series of Programs.

Beginning a series of programs to be given by the cabinet members of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Marie Dawson, president of the association, led vesper services in the "Y" hut at the college on Friday night.

"What does Jesus mean to us? Can we find solutions for our problems of today from the ideals of living that were taught and believed in during the life of Jesus?" began Miss Dawson, basing her talk upon the book "Jesus," by Mary Ely Lyman.

"Jesus brought to us a new ideal for living that, for ages, has stood the test of time. Through his communion with God, he has shown us the way to live up to this ideal. Today, we realize that God wishes to bring goodness into the world and that, through human beings, he tries to do this. Jesus is the light and inspiration of these human beings."

Miss Dawson quoted, in closing, the words that Jesus spoke when he was away from his disciples: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Miss Wilda Royall, also a student at the college, gave "Improvisation and Melody," a piano selection.

MODES of the MOMENT

By Adelaide Kerr

For going places after five a New York designer makes this colorful little velvet cardigan—fourth cousin to the vening sweater. It may top a slender skirt or a dinner dress. Elasticized threads shir it, fuchsia colors it and velvet ribbons make a chapeau which shades from the same hue to plum.

Presbyterian Musical Program. Following is the musical program to be given at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning:

Prelude—Trío for cello, violin and organ—"Solet D' Amour"—Elgar. Offertory—Cello Solo, "Berceuse"—Godard—Mr. E. E. Huston. Soprano Solo—Selected—Miss Mary Jenkins. Postlude—March—Gilbert.

Guest Soloists, Mr. E. E. Huston of New York City, and Mr. Sam Quinerty of Greenville.

Martelli To Sing At College. Giovanni Martelli, famous tenor scheduled to sing at the college on October 21, found his career only by chance, he declares. Until he went into the Italian army at the age of 20 to serve his two years of conscription duty, he had no idea of ever being anything other than a cabinet-maker, like his father.

In the army young Martelli was put into the band of his unit to play a clarinet. He and his comrades often amused themselves in their leisure time by singing, and it was this singing that first made his superior officers aware of his unusual voice.

One officer interested a wealthy family in Milan in advancing money for his studies.

Since his first public appearance, Martelli has climbed steadily upward until he now holds a place among the leading tenors of the world.

A number of people in Greenville who have heard this leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the concert stage say that there is a real treat in store for those who hear him at the college Friday night, October 21.

Methodist Missionary Society. On Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in the Sunday school auditorium of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Missionary Auxiliary will celebrate the 60th anniversary of missionary work in Southern Methodism, and the 42nd anniversary of missionary work in the local Auxiliary.

All the women of the church and their daughters are invited to come and enjoy the delightful occasion.

A sketch from "A History of the Local Auxiliary" will be read, telling interesting facts about our mothers and grandmothers. The purpose of the program is to pay tribute to the charter members, to learn of the way to take a birthday offering which will help pay the salary of a rural deaconess in the New Bern district, to fellowship together, and to enjoy a slice of the birthday cake and a cup of tea.

You are cordially invited to attend. Bring your daughter or your neighbor's girl.

The following is the program for the meeting: Quiet Music—Mrs. Closs Hearne. Call to Worship. Hymn 381. Business Program. Hymn 213. Welcome—By the President. Reason for the Occasion—Mrs. J. H. Rose.

Playlet, "We Are Sixty"—Mrs. J. H. Blount, leader. History of the Local Auxiliary—Mrs. R. L. Harris. Solo—"My Task" (Ashford)—Miss Louise Kilgo.

Presentations of Life Memberships—Mrs. Wiley Brown. Solo—Mrs. J. H. Waldrop. Birthday Offering—Hymn 287. Prayer of Dedication—Rev. T. M. Grant.

FACES CHANGE As Well As The Month—Here's Some New Ones

Miss Maud Blow is home from Washington on a visit to her parents.

Little Miss Mary Lucy Dupree had a number of her little friends with her at a birthday party Friday afternoon.

The Miller's Daughter—Or Bound In Hon'or—Rehearsals are going on every night at the opera house and a rich treat is in store for Greenville people at the opening next Wednesday night, October 12th.

Mr. Grady Enters Upon New Duties. Word has reached Greenville that Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Grady have entered upon their new ministry in Cleveland, Mr. Grady having preached his first sermon as regular minister of the church on last Sunday morning.

The Grays are now serving the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Cleveland, Ohio. Westminster is one of the smaller Presbyterian churches in the part of Cleveland where the changing industrial conditions have brought into the area large wage-earning groups that have taken over the fine homes once occupied by some of the socially prominent Clevelanders.

The property is valued at about $100,000 and is equipped with splendid educational and social units, and has only a very small indebtedness. Into this area have moved also large numbers of foreigners, especially Swedish, offering to the church splendid opportunities for social work. Those who are familiar with Mr. Grady's particular interests in the social implications of the Gospel feel that he has gone to a parish peculiarly suited to his gifts.

With Mrs. Grady's health improving steadily, the Greenville friends of this pair of fine young people are looking forward to splendid results of their cooperative efforts in the parish of Westminster congregation. Their present address is 1431 Addison Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

Notice is hereby given that application for parole has been made to Honorable Edwin M. Gill, Parole Commissioner at Raleigh, North Carolina, for Arthur Ormond.

All persons having objections will please notify the Commissioner at once.

This the 12th day of Sept., 1938. MRS. BESSIE ORMOND, Sept. 12-11w-2wk.

PHANTOMS TOP TARBORO HIGH

Visitors No Match for Locals as Greenies Win, 25-0

The Tarboro high school football team proved to be just so much putty in the hands of the Greenies yesterday afternoon and the Phantoms won from the Edgecombe outfit, 25-0.

The locals proved effective at passing, running, blocking and in every other method they tried out against the visitors, and easily won their second game of the year in as many starts.

Greenville scored its first touchdown early in the first quarter and before the period ended had added another.

The Phantoms crossed Tarboro's goal line again in the second quarter. The third quarter saw both teams held scoreless, but in the final period Wayland Tucker intercepted a Tarboro pass and ran 70 yards for the fourth and final touchdown of the day.

Earle Kittrell, Greenville tackle, was injured in line play and forced from the game.

John Collins, who plays an end position for the Greenies, suffered a broken finger in the game.

Greenville's starting team was as follows:

Gibson and Collins, ends; Tucker and Vincent, guards; Hardy and Earl Kittrell, tackles; Polly Williams, center; in the backfield: Webb, Tyndall, Stocks and Laureates. Subs were: Rogerson, J. B. Kittrell, Larry James, Spencer Carroll; H. R. Goodall, Warren Parrish, Milton Stafford, Allen Taylor, Billy Moore and Paul Scott.

Next Friday the Phantoms will play the Rich Square high school. Score by quarters:
Greenville 6 7 6 6—25

CROSETTI'S HOMER WINS FOR THOSE YANKEES

Frank Crosetti is shown crossing the plate after hitting the homer in that was credited with winning the second game of the World Series in Chicago for the New York Yankees. It was the first homer of the series. DiMaggio also hit a home run—in the ninth—and the Yanks won 6 to 3. Red Kluwe and Tim Sullivan congratulate Crosetti at the plate.

CHEERED OVER N. C. REVENUE

Maxwell Optimistic Despite Few Flies in Ointment

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. —Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell is quite optimistic over North Carolina's business and revenue prospects, although he does admit there are a few flies in the ointment of content.

Pointing to the fact that for the first quarter of the current fiscal year tax collections from the usual and normal sources have kept well abreast of those during the previous fiscal twelve-month, he warned that over the stretch, drastic reductions in collections can be expected from at least one source—income taxes.

"So far this year, collections have held up splendidly, much better than many of us anticipated early in the period; but it must be remembered that there is one big reduction almost a certainty," he said. Last year we set a new record for income tax collections. That was because of outstanding business during the first three quarters of the calendar year of 1937.

"We didn't make the collections until spring, of course, but they were for the entire year 1937, and as a result they reflected the prosperity of most of that period.

"On the other hand, we are going to feel the effects of this year's bad start when it comes time to collect income taxes next spring—despite the fact that every indication is that business for the rest of the year is going to be excellent."

He also said that inheritance tax collections were probably going to be less than for either of the past two years, which he termed "very unusual" with respect to this kind of tax.

"I don't know of any rich men we can kill off this year," he said jokingly.

He did predict an increase in collection of intangible tax revenue largely, he said, because there will be a "backlog" of delinquent collections from 1937.

LOU LITTLE'S LUCK is really spelled "Luckman," since Sid Luckman (above) of Columbia university football squad is considered one of the nation's best passers. Just as a season-opener Luckman threw 17 aerials—and 10 of them were complete when Columbia beat Yale, 27-14.

Things You Should Know About Your Fair

By R. GRAY

DID YOU KNOW?
That the Pitt County Fair is only 8 days off?

DID YOU KNOW?
That a local ambulance service will have a first aid station and ambulance on the grounds at all times with free service to all those in attendance at the Pitt County Fair.

DID YOU KNOW?
That the Public Library is planning a very attractive display in the new Exhibit Hall. And that the Telephone Company will have service to and from the ground for your convenience?

DID YOU KNOW?
That today will probably be the last day to secure your advance tickets to the Fair as the supply is very limited?

DID YOU KNOW?
That now time is drawing so near we advise you to make your plans to visit the Third Annual Pitt County Fair, week October 17th.

State 4-H Dress Review

Yesterday Mildred Edwards of the Pierce 4-H club won first place in the Annual 4-H Dress Review. Mildred modeled her outfit consisting of a two-piece wine woolen suit with top-coat of tweed, and all accessories. The total cost of underclothing, suit, coat, scarf, handbag, hat, gloves, hose and shoes was $19.40. She received a gold clothing medal and a bracelet, and will have a free trip to Chicago the latter part of November at which time she will represent North Carolina in the annual National Contest.

Doris Buck of the Chicoed club entered the second group at Pullen Hall in Raleigh yesterday afternoon, modeling a blue gingham school dress with accessories.

State Fair Exhibit

Frances Earl McLawhorn of the Pierce 4-H club entered a State Fair exhibit Friday. Her exhibit—a dressing unit for a bedroom—consists of a maple chest of drawers, mirror, crocheted rug, two pictures and a bowl of flowers. Frances has recently redecorated her father and mother's bedroom. She washed the walls, stained the floor, rearranged the furniture and made the dressing unit. The chest of drawers is over eighty years old and had several coats of paint. She refinished the chest, made the rug, pictures and bowl. Mrs. Jerome McGlohan and Mrs. Blaney Sumrell are leaders of the Pierce 4-H club.

Farmville No. 2 H. D. Club
The Farmville No. 2 H. D. club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Richard Tuswell. Plans were outlined for the community fair booth. New officers are: Mrs. L. W. Andrews, president; Mrs. L. R. Bell, vice-president; Mrs. B. F. Weaver, secretary and Mrs. W. R. Hinson, treasurer.

Pitt County Fair
Home Demonstration presidents are appointing committees to work on their fair booths. In each group there will be a decorating chairman. Attention is called to all decorating chairmen—a much more effective exhibit can be prepared if all chairmen in the county get together, and work out a color scheme. Chairmen of the booths should go to the buildings and select your booths as early as possible.

Jimmy Foxx, Boston First Baseman, Is Baseball's Man-Of-The-Year

By DILLON GRAHAM

(AP Feature Service Writer)
New York — Baseball's Man-of-the-Year — the burly double-X guy, James Emory Foxx!
Apple-cheeked Jimmy, who nosedived under a sinus attack last year to his poorest performance in a dozen years of major league play, has gobbled the all-round hitting honors of the season.

The Boston Red Sox first-baseman set the pace in runs batted in with 174, led in batting averages with .349 and pushed Hank Greenberg closely in the home run derby with 50.

His constant heavy cannonading pushed the Red Sox up from their fifth-place slot of the 1937 campaign into a second position duel with the strongly-liked Cleveland Indians.

A Surprise

Jimmy's comeback was one of the surprises of the season. The plump cigar-smoker from Sudlersville, Md., is no spring chicken, as baseball poultry goes. He's 31 and a chap who has lived at a pretty fast clip. Some of the wise boys were reading his obituary last fall, after Foxx slumped to a mere 285 hitting mark.

Sinus had him in its grip. At times he could hardly see the ball as it tizzled toward the plate. Only two players struck out more often than did he. Baseball had seen many hitters slough off permanently after sinus struck them and, they were saying, Jimmy's probably another.

Jimmy read the handwriting on the wall, too, but he wouldn't believe it. He took himself in hand during the winter, got into top shape and when the barrier was sprung this year Jimmy was a new man.

He led the league in hitting and runs batted in during most of the season. While others flared and faltered. Foxx kept up a consistent bombardment.

Matches Old Marks

This year he equalled his record of 1933 when he led the league at bat with a .356 figure, 101 in runs batted in, with 163. His batting average is close to his mark of five years ago and he has driven in even more runs. Foxx led in runs batted in on another occasion, too, in 1932 with 169.

While Greenberg's home run slugging has been outstanding, Foxx is far ahead in batting average and runs batted in and not far behind Hankus Pankus in the four-base clouts.

So, Baseball's Man-of-the-Year—James Emory Foxx.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Some day, when my typewriter fingers (both of them) are too weary to hit another key, I'm going to get me a hobby. Not just fishing, which ends with the first snowfall. And not just canning and preserving, which is over when the fruits and watermelon rinds are all in. But something I can do all the year around; something in a department in which I'll be the only one there is and know all there is to know about it.

Maybe I'll collect perforated typewriter ribbons—guess how I thought of that?

Or doormats—there's a welcome idea. (Ugh).

Or discarded church steeples. Now I'm getting warm. I'll bet I could be the only church steeple collector in the world.

Don't think for a minute that this is just the ramblings of a columnist's idle hour. I've been talking to Dave Elman. Dave's the gent that originated that Hobby Lobby program on radio a couple of years back and more recently started what he calls a hobby clinic. He didn't know what he was letting himself in for on that.

The master hobbyist learned a couple of things about hobbies, too. And before you chuck the garage business to start a collection with the swiss-cheese inner tubes cluttering your place, cast your eye over these fundamental rules that Elman evolved.

First, there is no hobby so far-fetched, so unusual that it cannot be made to pay. All right, collecting shredded inner tubes is okay.

Second, your hobby must absorb and interest you for its own sake, and not for the money in it. Well, that's fine, too. Of course you love the ripped tubes for themselves and you can't tear yourself away from them.

Third, you must become the supreme authority on the subject. Since you'll be the only one in the field, your word, ipso facto (or something) will be law. Pass.

All right, go ahead. Now you've got your hobby, collecting shredded inner tubes. The rest is up to you and the stretch of your imagination. I throw out this idea gratis, bearing in mind that Elman has unearthed for fancier hobbies which are money-makers.

For example, the raising and training of angleworms. Elman is something of a fisherman himself, so he was tickled pink to hear of this one.

It seems that an Izaak Walton devotee got pretty disgusted one day when he was out fishing because the worms were so weak they fell off the hook. Then and there he decided to raise his own. He got together a couple of hardy wrigglers and started a worm farm. Other fishermen heard of his worms and begged for them. Now he packs them in cans and ships them all over the country—the finest, fattest worms any fish ever grabbed at.

Elman now has 500,000 hobbies on file. Here are some of the more unusual ones: the school teacher in Huntsville, Ala., who paints pictures on cobwebs; the policeman in Cleveland who raises fish that talk; the woman who collects egg shells; the fellow in Iowa who collects hairpins; and the New York lassie who makes greeting cards from chicken and turkey wishbones.

SHORT SHOTS
 By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
 By HENRY AVERILL
 Raleigh, Oct. 8—Revocation of 123 drivers' licenses last week brought North Carolina's total of such revocations to 18,848.
 Drunken driving, as always, led in reason for revocation, with 109 cases. Seven "hit and run" drivers, three who drove after having once had their licenses revoked, one who stole an automobile, two who were convicted of "two offenses reckless driving" and one who committed "homicide with an auto" had their licenses taken away.
 Inspection of the list showed that half a dozen of the drunken drivers were women, four of them from theoretically "dry" counties and two from counties in which there are ABC stores.
 Your correspondent was almost horrified in running down the list of names to come to one which started off "Gov."—but, of course, it wasn't either the Governor of North Carolina or South Carolina. It's much too long between drinks for either to get on the d. d. list. It turned out to be a Charlotte man whose first name apparently is Governor.

Add smiles: As hard to find as a good man willing to serve on the Davidson board of elections.

The Hendersonville office of the State Employment Service found those twenty mules. These animals—the office reports—are anxious to be employed, are coded occupationally, industrially and educationally. They are unable to speak any language except their own, but are quite able to read signs marked "slow" and "stop."

Governor's Secretary Bob Thompson has one of the toughest tasks recently given anyone. He is attempting to get out a handbook for the Democratic state campaign, and wants to get into pictures of all the Congressional candidates.
 Which brings him flush up against two overwhelming difficulties—First, to get any answer at all from Lon Folger, Fifth District nominee, to repeated requests for a picture; and Second, the Eighth District impasse. It has been suggested that the publish portraits of W. O. Burgin and C. B. Deane side by side, under the caption "Guess Who?"
 As for Lon he might just as well give up and write Mrs. Lon, from whom he would doubtless get action.

If it wasn't already known, anyway, it would be easy to tell that school is in session again by looking at the weekly report of the Division of Epidemiology, of the North Carolina State Board of Health.
 For the week ended October 1, measles cases nearly doubled, jumping from 26 the preceding week to 47.

The State Board of Elections often finds it hard to get other folks to agree with it.
 Several weeks—almost months ago, the board found "as a fact" that there was skulduggery in the matter of bringing pressure to bear on WPA workers in the Swain county primary.
 WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins recently wrote, however, that a special investigator sent by him to Swain found "no evidence" of this dirty work at the crossroads.
 Harry however, has been heard before to deny charges that there are any politics in his department and sphere of influence.

Raleigh, Oct. 7—The Supreme Court will next week hear arguments on the constitutionality of the 1927 law designed to abolish trading in scrap tobacco by the medium of imposing a prohibitive tax of one thousand dollars on all dealing in it.
 The case—E. B. Picklen Tobacco Company vs. A. J. Maxwell, Commissioner of Revenue—comes up from a decision of Judge J. Paul Prizzelle holding the act valid and of full effect.
 Counsel for the plaintiff, in their brief, argue the law is invalid for the following reasons:

uniform among all persons of the same class.
 (b) It levies an unreasonable and prohibitory tax upon a legal business.
 (c) It wrongfully and unlawfully delegates to a warehouse, or to a warehouse organization, the power to levy, or not to levy, the tax.
 (d) The terms, wording and phraseology of the act are so vague and obscure as to be incapable of legal construction and render the act void for uncertainty.

Note on Supreme Court corridor: The door of Justice A. A. F. Seawell is the only one which stands open all the time. Entrances to offices of the other six learned legal lights are invariably shut.

Good Samaritan—Assistant Commissioner of Revenue Bill Spain spies a dog, the animal nudged with bundles and accompanied by two small children, trying to get across the street. He hastens to the rescue, takes one little tot by a hand and conveys them safely across.

Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell, who attended Democratic rallies in the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Congressional districts last week is all enthusiasm over the party's prospects.

Pressed for his opinion of the Eighth, he throws up his hands and confesses profound ignorance, just as does everyone else asked for an opinion on the Deane-Burgin row.

Much Ado About Nothing—Attempts to stir up public indignation of Gregg Cherry's letter calling on state employees for donations to the Democratic campaign fund.

"After all it's just job insurance," said one department head who naturally didn't want his name used. "And they're luckier than those in private employment who pay one per cent for Social Security; while Gregg's request only figures out one-half of one per cent."

BASS FOUND IN STATE WATERS

Currituck Sound One Of The Best Fishing Places

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—Currituck Sound is now one of the best places in North Carolina to fish for black bass since they are more numerous there than they have been in several years, according to Russ West, district game protector in the Currituck Sound area for the Department of Conservation and Development.

"The increase in the number of black bass in Currituck Sound is due to the sand fixation work on the banks and the replacement of the locks in the Inland Waterway," Mr. West pointed out in a letter to the Conservation Department. "The sand fixation keeps the ocean water from breaking over the barrier reef of sand in stormy weather and the locks in the waterway keep out the salty water from the Elizabeth river, thus keeping the water in the sound practically free from salt. As a result, fresh water fish of almost all species are increasing rapidly.

"The black bass in the sound are more numerous now than at any time in several years and are attracting quite a number of fishermen from over the state, as they have found the bass by casting along with artificial lures by casting along the marshes and in the many creeks and bays leading into the sound.

"The commercial fishermen, fishing with long nets, frequently get from 100 to 150 pounds of black bass in their nets at one haul. They put them back in the water, of course, since the sale of bass is prohibited.

"The return of fresh water conditions in Currituck sound is also expected to increase the number of wild ducks and geese wintering in the sound since it has brought back the food grasses which formerly grew in the sound and which at one time made it one of the best duck and goose hunting areas to be found anywhere. The grass is later than usual this year, and should hence hold the ducks here longer than usual.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanné Bowman

The Characters
 Kathleen Gregory, taking the name of Cleo Riley, goes West to get a right-of-way from MacDonald for the Gregory Golden Girl mine.
 Donald MacDonald, young owner of The Stubborn Boy mine, hates the Gregory clan.
 Bridget, Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday, Kathleen flares up when Donald tells her he can't stand red hair and the disposition that goes with it.

Chapter Eight

Hate At First Sight
 BLINDLY Kathleen hurried from the hotel and blindly crossed the street. She would stifle if she drew another cubic inch of MacDonald air.

The insolence of the man! He was spoiled. . . Probably by the women Mayme had mentioned. But what made him think he could talk to her in that fashion?

She walked on. The pavement on the Gregory side of Neutrality stopped at the end of the business section. The MacDonald pavement continued on.

Kathleen took the dirt trail which ran parallel with the road. She rounded a curve and found her side edged by cottages which hid their tattered shame from the neat stone bungalows on the opposite side.

Kathleen's hands clasped tightly behind her. The Gregorys shamed by the MacDonalds, she thought. With militant step she strode on, unaware of quickening eyes behind the windows of the Gregorys' cottages.

She had noticed the windows. They were incongruous; gaudy panes of shining glass edged by frilled white curtains and brave painted plants.

The MacDonald homes were modern. Kathleen could sense vacuum cleaners and electrically equipped kitchens, furnaces and tiled bathrooms.

"But our cottages are more picturesque," she defended stoutly. They were. The roofs jutted out at all angles. Pocket handkerchief flower gardens blazed with late fall flowers.

"No artist would choose a MacDonald house," she continued, looking at the wide yards, flower borders surrounding the bucolic heads of cabbage and kale; shrubs only half-concealing the chicken runs in the rear.

The road wound on up the hill and now the Gregorys cottages became abandoned hulks. Roofs were caved in. Stone chimneys sprawled from base to roadside; windows stared on the ruins with vacant, painless eyes.

"Only one of these had been rehabilitated. Kathleen stopped before it. She was confident no one was at home. An old black and white shepherd dog ambled out to sniff at her, with approval and return to stretch in the sun.

Tip-toeing around to the rear she found a tiny vegetable plot and a miniature chicken house for a few miniature chickens. Still tip-toeing, Kathleen approached the cottage. There were no curtains at the windows but the sashes had been painted a soft blue-green. One gave view of the interior, and revealed a tiny place. There was a cot with a patchwork quilt, an old rocker pulled before an iron stove and nearby, a table with a shaded kerosene lamp, a Bible and a pair of steel-rimmed spectacles.

"I wonder who lives here," she murmured.

She had reached the trail again before she realized she was still on tiptoe.

House Divided

ANOTHER turn in the road and she stood still. There was a grotesque building ahead on the highest ledge of the hillside. It straddled the termination of the dirt and macadam road. In the middle it was low and built of logs. To the left the logs gave way to stone foundations with horizontal clapboard walls. To the right the logs continued, but here was a log cabin of today; a lodge, the windows gay with Indian serapes.

"The House of Hate," she said with sudden understanding. There was the log cabin which had housed her grandfather and the grandfather of MacDonald before their feud had started. And because neither would give in to the other they had built their homes beyond the divided halves of that cabin.

"The stubborn old rascals," she chuckled, and made her way to the wide Gregory veranda, to curl up in the sun and sit dreaming of those other days.

The view was magnificent. Kathleen felt she had been lifted to another realm. Neutrality was visible below and seemingly as peaceful as its name. Beyond were the colored cliffs and beyond these, mountains, their sides dark with fir and capped with snow.

was to be kept secret from England. But Franklin's trusted secretary, Dr. Edward Bancroft, was also a British spy and he promptly informed the British of the proposed alliance. England had already decided to seek a reconciliation with the colonies by repelling all the "intolerable acts." Learning of the proposed alliance, the British sent a fast ship to America with the terms of reconciliation.

Peace Boat Was Late
 The French treaty also was speeding to America from Paris for ratification by the United States. The French treaty ship won the race. The British arrived later. The choice wines and terrapin they sent to American officials as a friendly gesture were hugely enjoyed by the French and Americans in celebrating ratification of the treaty.

What would have happened if the British, upon learning of the proposed secret French treaty, had broadcast or telegraphed from London the terms of the proposed reconciliation?

Battle After Peace Made
 The lack of communication which had a hand in diplomacy at the end of the Revolution also played its part in the beginning and end of the War of 1812. The British, hard pressed in their war with Napoleon belatedly decided to end the hated "orders in council" interfering with American commerce. The United States, unaware of this overseas change of heart, and urged on by other elements, declared war against England on June 18, 1812.

Every school boy is familiar with the famous battle in which Andrew Jackson defeated the British at New Orleans after the treaty of peace. Neither army knew of it, so they fought. Who can tell what might have happened had the treaty of peace been broadcast over an international hookup? The battle likely would not have been fought. Instead, Jackson won a great victory, vastly increasing the prestige and morale of the United States. Even more important, he made himself a national hero whose political policies are influential even now, a hundred years after he was slain.

This war, which began in a mess, was fought in a mess and thus ended in a mess. By the time of the Civil war the telegraph was invented, and such confusion ended.

The Characters

Kathleen Gregory, red-haired member of the Gregory clan, goes West incognito to get a right-of-way from MacDonald for The Golden Girl mine.
 Donald MacDonald, young owner of the rival mine, The Stubborn Boy, instantly quarrels with Kathleen.
 Bridget, Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday, Kathleen learns that Old Balmie, a Gregory shift boss, is the only one in Neutrality who disregards the feud between the Gregorys and MacDonalds.

Chapter Nine

Into The Mine
 BRIDGET was standing before the Gregory House, talking to a large, sandy-haired man whom Kathleen disliked instantly.

"Mr. Kit-Smyth, superintendent of the Gregory mine." Bridget said in presenting him. "I've been talking to him about renting the old Gregory place. It seems that's the only house available, furnished or unfurnished."

"I believe I'll be able to intercede with the owners," explained Kit-Smyth, smiling at Kathleen. "They've allowed me to rent it, before."

Kathleen controlled her eyebrows which sought to shoot up in surprise at a Gregory renting any personal possession, regardless of how little they cared for it.

"Of course we couldn't pay the seventy-five a month, previously paid," Bridget continued. "However, Mr. Kit-Smyth said the owners would consider less."

"Could we move in immediately?" Kathleen hastened to ask. Kit-Smyth patted his upper lip with thumb and forefinger, then reached for his watch. "Hmmm, eleven o'clock here, one o'clock in New York. If I wire immediately I should have the answer back by late afternoon. Yes, I believe you can. I'll send my houseboy up to help you air out and fire up. In the meantime, why don't you young ladies lunch with me? And I'll take you down in the mine, would you enjoy that?"

Kathleen and Bridget gave eager assent, then hurried to the hotel. "It's too pat," Bridget protested as they reached their room. "It doesn't seem right that things should work into our hands like this."

"Pat?" blurted Kathleen. "Donald is his name and he certainly isn't working into my hands. I've had another row with him. He's impossible. Let's talk about Kit-Smyth, what did you think of him?"

"Mind if I reserve judgment?" asked Bridget. "I don't like to depend upon first impressions."

"Well I do," snapped Kathleen. "I've noticed that," laughed Bridget, getting into a warm blue knit dress which turned her eyes to twin bits of mountain sky.

Kathleen, turning to Bridget Riley, ex-secretary of Angus Gregory, President of The Golden Girl, incorporated, in her place, checked herself. Bridget had grown beautiful. It was as though some dormant radiance had been awakened, intensifying each charming feature. No wonder Donald MacDonald had been fascinated.

"You've had a second impression of MacDonald, how did you like it?" she questioned, abruptly.

Bridget's eyes twinkled. "Having lived with you for three weeks, I understand him perfectly. You two are very much alike you know."

"Alike?" exploded Kathleen. "Yes, both autocrats, charming to your friends and dependents, but if you'll pardon the phrase, hell on your enemies."

Yerifying Speed

BRIDGET DONAHUE RILEY, no one has ever dared talk to me the way you do. I don't know how of what I take it.

"I do," Bridget swung a cane over her shoulders. "It's because you're inherently honest. Down under all of that quartz there's a ledge of pure gold in you. I've been talking to Kit-Smyth. I'm all a quiver with mineralogy."

"Come on, darling. I doubt if the Crown Prince of The Golden Girl is accustomed to being kept waiting."

"Crown Prince," chuckled Kathleen. "and you said you didn't judge by first impressions."

The road to The Golden Girl forked off the highway below Neutrality, then wound down on the other side until it came out at a point nearly below the cliff which held the house she had come to call The House of Hate.

Kathleen's first view of the mine brought with it renewed faith in the Gregorys. The great gray sheds, the towering derricks, the railroad siding with its train of ore cars, all bespoke care, upkeep and bustling activity.

"The ore," Kit-Smyth told them. "is going down to the smelter. We do only the mining here."

The superintendent was proud

Five days later the British, in turn unaware that they were at war with the U. S., repealed the "orders in council."

Every school boy is familiar with the famous battle in which Andrew Jackson defeated the British at New Orleans after the treaty of peace. Neither army knew of it, so they fought. Who can tell what might have happened had the treaty of peace been broadcast over an international hookup? The battle likely would not have been fought. Instead, Jackson won a great victory, vastly increasing the prestige and morale of the United States. Even more important, he made himself a national hero whose political policies are influential even now, a hundred years after he was slain.

This war, which began in a mess, was fought in a mess and thus ended in a mess. By the time of the Civil war the telegraph was invented, and such confusion ended.

of his domain. Each building glistened with fresh paint. The laboratory was, he said, one of the best in the business, the emergency hospital one of the most efficient and most modern used.

"We might as well go down now," he ventured.

From a wardrobe room he brought forth yellow slickers and yellow hats resembling so'westers, and when the girls had donned these, led them to the collar of the mine, a great gaping hole which seemed filled with a rushing, roaring noise.

"The skip," he explained. "Elevators to you. They are evidently passing in the shaft."

As he spoke one shot up towards them at such a speed that Kathleen stepped back.

HERE CONVENED THE FIRST LEGISLATURE IN ANY ENGLISH COLONY IN THE WORLD!
 OLD JAMESTOWN CHURCH
 JAMESTOWN, VIRGINIA
 AN INSECT THAT KILLS FISH!
 THE WATERTIGER

The assembly that convened in the OLD JAMESTOWN CHURCH was not only the forerunner of American colonial and state legislatures of the United States Congress, but of Canadian, Australian and African parliaments as well! It was a year before the coming of the pilgrim fathers to Plymouth, July 30, 1619. The church burned in 1676 and was rebuilt in 1680.

Although insects are known to form the principal diet of many fish, there are some insects known to even kill fish! One in particular, known as the WATER-TIGER, is a long, slender, ferocious creature with this blood thirsty habit. Equipped with curved, sharp pointed hollow jaws, it pierces its victim and sucks the blood or juices through these jaws into the mouth.

Washington — When President Roosevelt suggested that fast communication facilitated keeping the peace in Europe even though at the same time it speeded up the crisis, he revived a chain of historical memories of times when lack of such fast communication played fancy pranks with this country's affairs.

Probably it never will be known just what influence the radio and fast travel had in the Czechoslovakian affair. The same doubts continue even now over affairs of many years ago which were affected by communication, distinguished not by its speed but by its slowness.

A case arose right to the beginning of the republic to show a sharp contrast with present times. Benjamin Franklin in 1778 negotiated with France a defensive alliance to bolster the Revolution. It GAIN SHOWN IN TRUCKS IN N. C.

52 Per Cent Registration Increase In Five Years

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—Registration of trucks in North Carolina increased 52 per cent between 1933 and 1937, according to complete figures on truck registration recently released in Motor Facts and Figures, a publication of the National Highway Users Conference.

In 1933 there were registered in the state 49,660 trucks. Thereafter each successive year through 1937 showed a progressive increase, the figures for the years being 61,374, 64,657, 69,738 and 75,433 respectively for 1934, 1935, 1936 and 1937.

Figures for 1938 are, of course, not yet complete though nearly so, but indications at the Motor Vehicle division are that truck registration will again increase—though perhaps not in the same ratio as from 1936 to 1937.

Future sales noted in 14 points to lower. Close nominal, middling, 8.50.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 8.—Selected stocks bounded to new tops for the past year in today's market as continued high business hopes and lessening of foreign worries stimulated buyers.

Week-end profit taking in the wake of eight climbing sessions out of nine, was plentiful throughout and while generally being well-absorbed, cut down extreme gains of fractions to more than 2 points in some instances at the close.

Transactions approximated 1,000,000 shares.

MAJOR SPEAKS AT CLUB MEET

Hear Major Babcock At Friday Night's Kiwanis Meeting

Members of Greenville Kiwanis club learned last night from Major L. E. Babcock that this country's standing army is much smaller in comparison than any European country, but that the United States could increase its armed forces very quickly if a crisis should arise.

Major Babcock is field artillery instructor of the North Carolina National Guard. He declared that the local unit of the National Guard—Battery A, 113th Field Artillery—made an enviable record at the maneuvers in Mississippi this summer. Both officers and men of the local unit were praised for their efficiency.

The United States army is divided into three groups, Major Babcock explained: The National Guard, the standing army and the Reserve Officers Training Corps. He described the particular duties of each. This country's standing army at present, he declared, is composed of about 185,000 men.

Major Babcock observed that the army of today is almost completely motorized and mechanized.

Last night's program was in charge of the classification committee, which is headed by Lieut. Howard Moyer of the local National Guard unit. Others on the committee are B. W. Moseley and Fred Stokes.

for this is that there is hardly anything left to give Mussolini. Many believe that the old German and Austro-Hungarian Empires should be restored. If so, Germany still has a lot more to get. Italy, however, now has more territory than when she entered the World War. Therefore, it is said there is little to give Italy.

England Our Buffer

What will happen to France I do not know. She does not fear an invasion so long as she keeps out of war. She wonders, however, whether she can continue to hold her colonies. England certainly has her feet on the ground and knows exactly what she is doing. I have greater faith in Great Britain than ever. So long as England does not drift toward Fascism within her own borders, she will not be in the United States' first line of defense. This is a question which is worthy of careful consideration by every person who lives in North America.

Before leaving America I was asked especially to find out what attitude Russia will take in case of a real European war. The best opinion here seems to be that Russia will use her influence not to prevent war, but rather to stir up war. The conduct of the Soviet Foreign Minister at the League sessions at Geneva recently confirms this. He was apparently doing his best to start the pot boiling.

Russia Playing Cute Game

Russia is playing the "dog in the manger" act. She hopes to see a great war between the Democratic countries and the Fascistic countries. It is even believed that she will do all she can to bring such a war about and to keep it going as long as possible, but without getting into it. If so, it is said her game would be to wait until both the Democratic and Fascistic countries were exhausted and then sweep over Europe with her armies and take control of the situation.

I get the same story regarding Russia's attitude toward the Far East. She hopes that neither China nor Japan will win the war but that it will be prolonged many years until both are exhausted. Then Rus-

During the early part of the present century there was a marked reaction against this form of drug therapy, and physicians became cynical in the use of drugs. They restricted themselves to using only those of undoubted effectiveness.

On the whole this reaction was desirable, but in more recent years drug therapy has advanced so markedly that there is no longer any ground for a nihilistic attitude.

Inasmuch as the human body is so largely "chemical" in nature it has been possible in many instances to remedy morbid conditions by the use of suitable chemical compounds. The outstanding examples of this are to be witnessed of course in the treatment of diseases of the glands of internal secretion.

Equally impressive are the results obtained in what is known as chemotherapy, in which field Sullivamide was the first and Sulfamidamide the latest of triumphs.

The older doctor labored under the conviction that for every disease there must be a remedy, and his search for the remedies was conducted largely on an empirical, that is, trial and error, basis.

Modern medicine concentrates its attention more on the symptoms than on the disease and attempts to rationally meet the problems of disease in terms of the specific disturbances encountered. This has yielded brilliant results through comparatively simple mechanisms.

Beauty Expert at Ideal

Mrs. Aldridge, beauty expert will be at the Ideal Beauty Shoppe during the coming week to see those who were unable to get an appointment last week.

THEY DRILLED FOR OIL BUT STRUCK ICE

Walden Colo.—(AP)—Nature has an excellent dry ice refrigerator, but unless man can find it in an oil well he probably won't be able to use it.

An oil company, drilling for oil struck a carbon dioxide gas field which will flow at the rate of 25,000,000 cubic feet a day. Dry ice is made from the gas. All efforts to find the well of its oil content have failed and engineers said the oil odor prevents its use commercially.

There is an estimated 670,724,211,200,000 tons of coal available for mining in Wyoming.

MAJOR SPEAKS AT CLUB MEET

Hear Major Babcock At Friday Night's Kiwanis Meeting

Members of Greenville Kiwanis club learned last night from Major L. E. Babcock that this country's standing army is much smaller in comparison than any European country, but that the United States could increase its armed forces very quickly if a crisis should arise.

Major Babcock is field artillery instructor of the North Carolina National Guard. He declared that the local unit of the National Guard—Battery A, 113th Field Artillery—made an enviable record at the maneuvers in Mississippi this summer. Both officers and men of the local unit were praised for their efficiency.

The United States army is divided into three groups, Major Babcock explained: The National Guard, the standing army and the Reserve Officers Training Corps. He described the particular duties of each. This country's standing army at present, he declared, is composed of about 185,000 men.

Major Babcock observed that the army of today is almost completely motorized and mechanized.

Last night's program was in charge of the classification committee, which is headed by Lieut. Howard Moyer of the local National Guard unit. Others on the committee are B. W. Moseley and Fred Stokes.

for this is that there is hardly anything left to give Mussolini. Many believe that the old German and Austro-Hungarian Empires should be restored. If so, Germany still has a lot more to get. Italy, however, now has more territory than when she entered the World War. Therefore, it is said there is little to give Italy.

England Our Buffer

What will happen to France I do not know. She does not fear an invasion so long as she keeps out of war. She wonders, however, whether she can continue to hold her colonies. England certainly has her feet on the ground and knows exactly what she is doing. I have greater faith in Great Britain than ever. So long as England does not drift toward Fascism within her own borders, she will not be in the United States' first line of defense. This is a question which is worthy of careful consideration by every person who lives in North America.

Before leaving America I was asked especially to find out what attitude Russia will take in case of a real European war. The best opinion here seems to be that Russia will use her influence not to prevent war, but rather to stir up war. The conduct of the Soviet Foreign Minister at the League sessions at Geneva recently confirms this. He was apparently doing his best to start the pot boiling.
