1,000 OR MORE NEGRO WOMEN TO LOSE JOBS

Independents Unable To Comply With Wage-Hour Act

FILING PETITION TO BE NEXT MOVE

Redefinition of 'Area of Population' by the Administrator to Be Asked

Persons closely allied with the tobacco stemming and re-drying industry of Greenville estimated today that more than 1,000 Negro women would be without jobs here Monday morning as a result of a decision by the Wage-Hour division of the Department of Commerce that the act applied to the industry.

The independent companies will be affected chiefly since they stem the tobacco by hand. Most of the manufacturers have installed machinery and a spokesman said the independents would have to install machinery and discontinue the practice of stemming by hand.

Approximately a thousand Negro women are employed here several months during the year by the independents, but it is contended that the companies will not be able to comply with terms of the wage-hour act.

Under the measure employees must be paid a minimum of 25 cents an hour and work a maximum of 44 hours weekly.

A delegation of seven independent companies, headed by J. C. Lanier and J. S. Ficklen of Greenville, appeared before Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer Andrews yesterday in Washington. The group contended that enforcement of the 44-hour limit in the stemming industry would force them to shut down operations.

The delegation was informed by Administrator Andrews that it would have to take the matter up in regular course, and, pending a ruling, would have to obey the law.

Mr. Andrews replied that regulations already issued specifically included the tobacco stemming industry within the scope of the law and, unfortunately though it may be, compliance or suspension of operations were the only ways open for the industry.

Mr. Lanier pointed out that approximately 95 per cent of the more than 35,000 engaged in the work in Eastern North Carolina are Negro women who were never required to give a strict accountability of hours worked, but were permitted to come and go as they pleased; that payment was based entirely upon the number of pounds of stems at the end of the day.

Mr. Andrews declared he was in sympathy with the situation in which the industry was placed, but nothing could be done between now and the time the law goes into effect at 12:01 a. m. Monday morning. The only recourse for the industry is to file a formal plea for exemption, which will eventually be given a hearing, and will then be decided on the face of facts presented.

Mr. Lanier said that the next step in the fight was to file a petition immediately asking for a re-definition of the phrase "area of population." He explains that the law says the act shall not apply to the handling, packing and storing of agricultural products. The decision yesterday was based on the opinion that the stemming of tobacco was not covered by the exemption. Mr. Lanier said he would work on the contention that such a process was included in the law and therefore should be exempted from the provisions of the act.

He also said a petition would be filed asking for permanent exemption under the seasonal clause of the wage-hour act. He said efforts would be made to present wage-hour officials with an economic picture of the situation here and in other Eastern Carolina tobacco centers as a result of application of the provisions.

Chimney Fire. Damage estimated at $15 or $20 was caused by a chimney fire at the home of G. T. Ippock, on the corner of Ridgeway and Broad streets, this morning about 9 o'clock.

FAIR TO CLOSE HERE TONIGHT

1938 Exposition Declared Have Been a Success

With the 1938 edition of the Pitt County Fair practically over—although many are expected to visit the exposition tonight—officials are already looking forward to another year.

A large number of children, and many grownups, too, were on the grounds today. All children were admitted free today up until four o'clock.

The exposition was declared a success from every standpoint. Attendance exceeded that of either of the two previous fairs held here by the two American Legion posts of Pitt county, at Farmville and Greenville.

The exhibits were superior, both in quantity and quality, to any displayed at a Pitt county fair. The various communities put up real competition for the best booth featuring live-at-home. Several non-competing exhibits added much to the fair. Included in this were the N.Y.A. highway safety division, Sheppard Memorial library and high school exhibits.

What was considered perfect fair weather prevailed for the first four days of the exposition. Rains on Thursday night and yesterday morning were followed by a drop in temperature, but persons attending the fair yesterday and last night were not bothered with the dust.

For the first time, the fair offered some worthy poultry, swine and cattle exhibits.

Fatality

Wilson, Oct. 22.—(AP)—William T. Smith, 28, of Stantonburg, was instantly killed early today when he was struck by an automobile at Fountain. A man docketed as Ivey Galloway of Fourtitan, was held under $1,000 bond as driver of the car pending an investigation.

Weather For the Week

South Atlantic states generally fair except showers along the Atlantic coast Monday and another shower period in latter part of the week; cooler first of week warmer in middle and cooler at close of week.

A NEW ERA AT HAND Babson Says Germany Holds Key To World Prosperity

By ROGER W. BABSON Babson Park, Miss., Oct. 22.—Hitler is the key man of Europe. The future of the Old World now revolves around him. He can plunge civilization into chaos if he pushes his drive to the East too far and too fast; or he can produce a new era of prosperity if he directs his amazing abilities toward rebuilding Germany economically. My guess is that he may turn his magical energies along economic lines and thus aid world prosperity.

War Scare Halts Business This is the most impressive thought that I brought away with me from the Continent of Europe. At the time I was there—just at the peak of the war scare crisis—no one would talk business. CZECHS CAPTURE TERRORIST BAND

Express Belief Hungary Will Not Use Arms to Enforce Demands for Territory

Prague, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The general staff reported today the killing of 12 Hungarian terrorists and one Czech gendarme during fighting near Berehovo in southern Slovakia.

It declared Czechoslovak troops captured a number of other alleged Hungarian terrorists, seized their arms and ammunition, and surrounded eight persons who made up the remainder of a band operating near Berehovo.

In a communique it also reported that terrorists firing from ambush had wounded two Czech gendarmes in the district of Svalava.

Gendarmes were ordered in pursuit of the attackers, one of whom was wounded fatally and three of whom were captured. Hungarian patrols which were reported to have tried to mine a bridge near Shily, were said to have been dispersed on the approach of Czech soldiers.

Uzhorod, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of Czechoslovak troops were ready for action along the Hungarian border today, but the general feeling among them was that Hungary would not resort to military action to enforce her territorial demands.

One authoritative source estimated 750,000 Czech soldiers probably were concentrated along the frontiers from Komarno, deep into Ruthenia.

SNOW FALLS IN NORTH STATES

North Wisconsin, Upper Michigan Visited by Storm

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The season's first snow and sleet storm struck with disconcerting suddenness in North Wisconsin and Upper Michigan today, cutting power and communication lines and impeding highway traffic.

Two to six inches of slush and snow covered the ground. Southern Wisconsin continued to enjoy mild weather, still awaiting the first damaging frost. Weather bureau forecasted much colder weather with rain tonight. Continued freezing temperatures are predicted for the north.

At Phillips, in Price county, sleet and a wet snow broke power lines and cut off electric service. Similar conditions were reported in towns in the Iron Mountain, Mich., neighborhood.

Iron Mountain, itself, escaped such damage. More than six inches of snow had fallen at Iron Mountain before noon and the fall was continuing. All high school football games in Iron and Dickinson counties were cancelled.

The storm belt covered the whole of the Michigan upper peninsula, and extended south and west to Eau Claire, Wis. Most of the telephone wires between Eau Claire and Minneapolis were out or order.

'MODEL HUSBAND' TAKES STAND

Guilford Jurors Convict Godwin

Greensboro, Oct. 22.—(AP)—James Godwin, High Point youth charged with the murder of Donald Moss, High Point textile worker, on the night of October 3, was found guilty of first degree murder in Guilford Superior court this morning.

The jury took the case late yesterday and after being unable to reach a verdict last night came in to court this morning at 9:25 with the guilty verdict.

Sentence was not immediately passed by Presiding Judge Hubert Olive.

The case went to the jury at 4:25 p. m. yesterday.

The State alleged Godwin, an escaped prisoner, shot down the mill worker at High Point as the latter sat in a parked automobile.

The shooting occurred a few hours after Godwin and Bill Wilson escaped from the Davidson county jail at Lexington with the aid of the jailer's daughter.

Both Godwin and Wilson awaited trial on robbery charges at the time of their escape.

Wilson at the beginning of the trial agreed to plead guilty to a charge of accessory before the fact and accepted a mandatory life sentence.

CHINESE FLEE FROM HANKOW AS JAPS NEAR

Nipponese Commander Says Fall Of City Imminent

MASS BOMBINGS BREAK DEFENSES

Warn Foreign Powers to Order Vessels 10 Miles up Yangtze From Hankow

Shanghai, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Japanese commanders declared today that the fall of Hankow was imminent and said Chinese were in retreat at that war-time capital which has been the military goal of the Japanese invasion.

Mass bombing of the Hankow area to shatter the last Chinese resistance was foreshadowed in a memorandum delivered to envoys of foreign powers at Shanghai, warning foreign shipping to proceed up the Yangtze river at least 10 miles above Hankow by midnight tonight.

U. S. gunboats Guam and Luzon are among foreign vessels stationed at Hankow.

Hankow sources said Chinese officials and their families were ordered to evacuate Hankow as the Japanese drove steadily toward the provisional capital.

The exodus of civilians already was taxing transportation facilities to capacity.

At Canton reports were: Preeced by a mop-up detachment which cleared Canton's downtown streets of Chinese stragglers, the main force of the Japanese entered Canton.

Sporadic rifle fire was heard in the downtown sections before the main expeditionary force made its triumphant entry.

Immediately upon arrival the Japanese commander drove to a gate of Canton's international settlement and conferred with British authorities.

PRICE DECLINE IN WEED SALES

Middle Belt Reports Gains During Past Week, However

Raleigh, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Tobacco sold by farmers on the Eastern North Carolina and Old Belt North Carolina and Virginia markets this week went at lower prices than a week ago, but in the Middle Belt some grades were up, federal and state marketing services reported today.

"Decreases were general in all groups," the report said of Eastern North Carolina sales of type 12 tobacco. The markets reported a general average of $24.51 a hundred pounds, up from the season's average to date of $23.52, but down from the preceding week. Good quality leman leaf, for example, averaged $32 a hundred this week and $35 a hundred a week ago.

The lower quality grades of leaf, smoking leaf and lugs sold higher than a week ago on the type 11 (B) Middle Belt markets, but better quality grades and practically all cutters and primings sold lower. The agricultural adjustment administration reported that sales through October 8 in the belt were $9,561,537 pounds at an average of $21.83 per cwt.

FRANCE MOVES BOLSTER ARMS

Cabinet Agrees Name Special Armaments Commissioner

Paris, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The cabinet virtually decided today on appointment of a special high commissioner for armament to speed up France's re-arming, ministers reported, and also approved stern measures to require workers in national defense factories to put in extra hours.

Leon Archambaud, president of the Chamber of deputies subcommittee on national defense was said to be the likely choice to direct the speed-up judged necessary after the recent international crisis.

Ministers on leaving the cabinet meeting said the position be equivalent of a cabinet minister.

It also was stated Premier DeLadrier proposed to issue a large new national defense local in the form of bonds of 70 francs ($1.66) nominal value which would be redeemable for 100 francs (2.66) in 30 years. Otherwise they would carry no interest.

Mrs. H.B. Hazelton Claimed By Death

Mrs. H. B. Hazelton, Winterville R. F. D. 1 resident, died this morning at 9 o'clock in Pitt General Hospital following three weeks illness. Mr. Hazelton was born in the Winterville community and spent her entire life there. Before marriage she was Miss Sybil Ruth Nobles, daughter of the late J. L. and Mrs. Florence Craft Nobles. She was a member of Ready Branch Free Will Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be held from the late home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment will follow in the Craft Cemetery near the home.

Surviving are her husband and two sons, Howard Jr., and Josh L. Hazelton, also two daughters, Misses Mary Ann and Sybil Ruth Hazelton, all of the home, her mother Mrs. Florence Nobles, two brothers, Eli and C. N. Nobles, two sisters, Mrs. W. G. Sullivan and Miss Clara Nobles, all of the Winterville Community.

NAME NOMINEE FIRST OF WEEK

Committee To Settle Deane-Burgin Dispute Monday

Raleigh, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A committee of three, Charles Rose of Fayetteville, James Merrimon of Asheville, and Gardner Hudson of Winston-Salem, will meet here Monday to make a final decision as to whether C. B. Deane of Rockingham or W. O. Burgin of Lexington, will be the Eighth District Democratic Congressional nominee.

The three agreed to serve as "referees and arbitrators" upon invitation of the candidates, said a formal joint statement issued by counsel for Deane, Burgin and the State Board of Elections. The referees are lawyers.

Some settlement of the 4-month-old dispute must be reached at once if a Democrat is to be on the Eighth District Congressional ballot November 8.

The announcement was made in a brief statement and the attorneys declined to enlarge upon it.

Asked whether the determination by the referees, which it was set forth would "be accepted as a final decision by the candidates," would have to go to Judge W. C. Harris in Wake Superior court for final adjudication brought forth replies that nothing would be given out except the statement.

The matter is in the hands of Judge Harris, under an opinion of the Supreme court. Burgin first carried the case into court when a State Board of Elections inquiry resulted in elimination of the lead he first received in the July 22 run-off primary. Various legal steps followed, the Supreme court this week for a second time remanding the case to Judge Harris.

Kiwanians To Attend 3-Day Convention

The meeting will last for three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

CHANGES MADE IN WEED SALES

Three Lines Affected, Including Kinston-Weldon

Announcement was made by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce officials at the request of the Atlantic Coast Line officials in Kinston this morning, that beginning Sunday, October 23rd, the passenger schedule on the Kinston-Weldon, Tarboro-Plymouth and Washington, Parmele lines will be changed as follows:

Train now leaving Kinston at 9:55 a. m. will leave at 10:55 a. m., arriving at Weldon at 1:50 p. m. There will be no change in the return.

Train leaving Plymouth now at 9:50 a. m., will leave 10:50 a. m., arriving at Tarboro at 1:10 p. m.

Train now leaving Washington at 10 a. m., will leave at 11 a. m., instead. All three of these trains make connections at Parmele.

These changes in schedule were agreed to by the Atlantic Coast Line officials at the request of a committee representing the different towns on these three lines. Chairman Guy Elliott of Kinston, of this committee, W. C. Ormond of Arden, and Secretary N. G. Bartlett of Kinston, had a conference with General Manager (Continued on page six)

W. C. Whitehurst Dies Of Poisoning

Willie C. Whitehurst, 42, died in Pitt General Hospital yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from blood poisoning. He had been ill with an infected leg for some time.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the late home in the Stokes Community by the Rev. Mr. Pitt, Free Will Baptist minister.

Burial followed in the Family Cemetery near the home. Mr. Whitehurst was born in Pitt County and spent his entire life here. He was a son of the late James and Allie Warren Whitehurst. He was a member of Sweet Gum Grove Free Will Baptist church.

What It Means: NEW U. S. ARMAMENTS

By MORGAN M. BEATTY Washington—The central but unspoken theme of all the armament talk in high places through the Americas today is nothing more nor less than a streamlined Monroe doctrine.

That means a Monroe doctrine operated by and for the doctored—a western hemisphere set apart with a "No Trespassing" sign tacked on all shores jointly by the United States, the Latin American nations, and Canada.

Such a 1938 model of the Monroe doctrine is a far cry from the popular idea so long held in Latin America that Uncle Sam is a big bully of a fellow, a self-appointed policeman who goes around clubbing little nations.

Roosevelt has carried it a step further with his "good neighbor" policy.

European Ties Weaken Meanwhile Latin America's language and cultural ties with Europe continued to dominate cultural life of the Latin American nations. German and Italian political ideas particularly wielded important influence.

But all along, there has been a growing tendency to regard the United States in a more friendly light. Brazil, especially, has gone out of her way to align her foreign policy with America's.

PLAN EDUCATE INDUSTRY FOR DEFENSE NEED

Increase in Expenditures for Such Purpose Predicted

WORK RUSHED ON WAGE-HOUR ACT

Announced Definitely There Will be No Change in Location Veterans' Hospital

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Military men predicted today President Roosevelt's projected new defense measures would include an increase in expenditures to educate industry in the manufacture of munitions.

The first $2,000,000 provided by Congress for that purpose has not yet been expended, but some officials favor speeding up the program, which is designed to gear industry more closely into the preparedness machine.

A recommendation that the present $10,000,000, five-year program be doubled or tripled has been considered in the re-study of national defense needs undertaken at Mr. Roosevelt's bequest.

Other developments: The wage-hour administrator rushed work on last minute explanations of how industry should comply with the most far-reaching attempts to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours since the days of the NRA.

Administrator Elmer Andrews said he hoped to announce by nightfall the kind of records employers should keep to shop conformity with the new law, which becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Monday.

His aides, meanwhile, were preparing a general interpretation of the act. This will be released for publication tomorrow morning.

Boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years apparently may be employed as newspaper boys within the provisions of the wage-hour act.

Regulations issued by Miss Katherine Lentout, chief of the children's bureau, specified that children of those years were barred from employment in mining, manufacturing, the operation of motor vehicles and messenger service. Children younger than 14 years may not legally be given work in any industry covered by the act.

A spokesman for Brigadier General Frank Hines, veterans administrator, said the administration's decision to locate the North Carolina veterans' hospital at Fayetteville "is final and it stands."

"The President approved the order months ago (July?) and that's all there is to it," the spokesman said.

He said that Hines had received "several wires" concerning a reported effort by a Raleigh, N. C., Legion post to have the 300-bed hospital built somewhere other than at Fayetteville.

The sixth grade under the direction of Miss Helen Foley, a Greenville student teacher, sang three selections: "The Crusaders," "Gondoliers," and "Amaryllis."

Martinelli Delights Audience.

The hundreds of people who crowded the Robert H. Wright auditorium last night at the college to hear Giovanni Martinelli, the famous tenor of the Metropolitan, called him back to the platform again and again in testimony of their appreciation of his art.

Mr. Martinelli had chosen by request familiar and well loved selections for his program and from the first clear and beautiful tones of "Lungi dal caro bene" to the last note from "Pagliacci" delighted his listeners.

This is that perennial favorite, the shirtwaist frock, Paris version, 1938. Balenciga designed it, for dinner wear, of white-striped brown faille and ran its stripes in three directions—lengthwise, crosswise and on the bias. Look at the voluminous skirt.

The audience, which filled the large auditorium, was composed not only of the people from the E. C. T. C. campus and the town of Greenville, but had in it people from a number of neighboring towns and cities—Raleigh, Wilson, Kinston, Rocky Mount, Washington, New Bern, Farmville among them.

Mr. Martinelli's numbers ranged from such songs as "She's Somewhere" and "May Morning" to the Arioso from Pagnacci, with which he ended. His program follows:

1. Lungi dal caro bene (Sarti); O del mio dolce ardore (Gluck); Danza, danza (Durante).
2. She's Somewhere (Bennett); By the bend of the river (Edwards); May morning (Denza).
3. Nocturne (Chopin); Polonaise (Chopin)—Giuseppe Bambocschek.
4. M'appari—from "Martha" (Flotow).
5. O del mio amato ben (Donaudy); S-renade (Schubert); Lily-lady—from "Jocelyn" (Godard).
6. Nuit d'Etudes (Debussy); Aprile (Tosti); Eneucan le stelle—from "Tosca" (Puccini).
7. Sixtine Chapel (Liszt)—Giuseppe Bambocschek.
8. Arioso from "Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo).

At the Piano: Giuseppe Bambocschek.

The three solo numbers of the accompanist, Giuseppe Bambocschek an artist in his own right, were also received with much applause. His Chopin Nocturne played with great delicacy and feeling was especially beautiful, though a competition by Liszt gave him opportunity for expert musicianship.

A student at the college, Vernon Kuetemeyer, did well the difficult task of turning the music for the pianist.

Both singer and pianist expressed themselves as well pleased by the attentive and responsive audience.

They will appear on this tour at Nashville, Tenn., and then in Memphis. In November, when the Metropolitan season begins, Mr. Martinelli said in response to a question asked him, he will probably appear on the opening night in his difficult and justly famous role of Otello.

Oyster Supper.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Mushroom cocktail is something new that can just "make" your fall or winter luncheon or dinner. Select six small cooked mushrooms for each service. Marinate them for half an hour in French dressing in the refrigerator. Serve in small glass cups lined with bits of lettuce. Top with tomato catsup mixed with a dash of horseradish and some lemon juice.

Hang small household articles used frequently on screw-eyes placed on inside of hall or bathroom cabinet or closet. They are then out of sight but within easy reach.

To help keep the inside of the medicine cabinet neat and attractive, paint frequently with enamel. You might try some contrasting or matching colors which will help carry out the room decorations.

To remove beer stains from linens, soak them five minutes in salt and cold water and then pour a stream of boiling water held at a height, through the stain until it disappears.

To shorten the baking time for apple pie twenty minutes, first cook the apples five minutes in a small quantity of water, then cool them and proceed as usual.

YORK MEMORIAL A. M. E. ZION Albemarle Avenue.
Rev. Solon P. League, pastor.
This anniversary will mark fifteen years of progress and Christian service dating from 1923 when the new church was begun, although history dates back for more than 50 years to the York Chapel located down the river. The new church is located on Albemarle avenue, across from the Rainbow laundry, on the corner. It is a very beautiful edifice, and a credit to the race and city. Though not finished, we hope this program will be an inspiration to the members who've toiled so hard to erect a church here, and the rising generations.

The program will be as follows:
3:30 P. M.—Sermon by the Rev. R. A. G. Foster, A. B., D. D., Wilson, N. C., pastor of St. John's A. M. E. Z. church.
Other speakers on the program, His Honor, Mayor M. K. Blount; Prof. C. M. Epps, Prof. Dennis Dupree, Mr. Lawrence Norcutt, Historian; Mr. S. F. Fleming, Solo. Mrs. N. B. Cherry. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the No. 2 choir, Mrs. Mabelle Wilson, pianist.

Washington Daybook

In the following article, Preston Grover explains why AFL and CIO leaders are feeling an increasing pressure for peace. It is the first of three articles giving the background of labor's family dispute.

Washington — The peace between CIO and AFL that the ranks of labor seek is held away by so many obstacles that observers here believe only the most punishing pressure from the President and from other sources will eliminate them.

The most hopeful sign of peace available is that pressure is already developing upon at least four fronts with such rapidity that even the most callous labor leaders can no longer ignore it. It comes from:

1. Pres. Roosevelt, who urged the American Federation of Labor convention at Houston to leave open the door to peace before "rebellious" acts in injure the workers.
2. Employers, harassed by jurisdictional strikes, who have begun to strike back both openly and through intensified activities of their own business organizations.
3. The shirt-sleeve ranks of labor, which extends little sympathy to the scraps of their distant superiors.
4. Fear of crippling legislation, some of which is being urged upon Congress while even more is being pressed upon state legislatures.

Zero Hour Approaches

A major trouble confronting those seeking peace is that a virtual deadline has been set. If negotiations toward peace have not made progress before November 14, the CIO will meet at the call of John L. Lewis, already issued, to form a permanent constitutional organization. When that step is taken, it is generally agreed, the difficulties will be multiplied ten fold.

Bejelled down to the elements, there are two principal sources of conflict among labor's organizations which have brought on the present break and the continued conflicts. The first, and perhaps lesser, is the ambition of labor leaders, great and small, either to preserve their jobs, or to expand their power and influence. Nothing in that is necessarily foul ball. That ambition prevails from public dog-catcher to private millionaire.

The second, closely interrelated with the first, is the clash between the two types of organization, the "industrial union," encompassing every worker in a plant, both skilled and unskilled, and the "craft union," which seeks members of similar skills, such as carpenters, machinists or electricians.

The Mass Union's Power

Clashes occur even between craft and craft, as to which group shall have "jurisdiction" over certain workers, but the rise of CIO has intensified the differences mainly between industrial and craft unions. Their bitterness has filled acres of headlines with reports of broken heads, disrupted industry and staggering wage losses.

To the layman such "fights within the family" of labor may seem rank craziness. To him it appears that union members, instead of cooperating in negotiations with employers, fight among themselves, thus weakening their own front, and scuttling their employer's business. Yet to the man in overalls the reasons are persuasive enough.

Those conditions, mingled with long-standing personal and craft jealousies, egged on at times by unwise leadership from the bedrock of current difficulties.

A NEW ARE AT HAND

(Continued from page one) birth rate is holding up. France is slipping badly. I felt a marked chance as I went into France. The French are courteous, cultivated and splendid hosts; but they seem to have lost their courage. With Fascist Italy and Germany at their borders and with a large Communist Party within their very midst, they are thoroughly frightened. This was very apparent as I walked the streets and visited the shops. When one studies her future does not look bright. When I was in France the soldiers were all at the frontiers. Only older men were seen on the streets. The women were busy painting the glass of their windows blue and doing other things to prepare against air-raids. Incidentally, I never realized before what the English and French suffered from airplane bombs 20 years ago. Moreover, they believe that if war were to occur now the destruction would be fifty to one hundred times as great. Again I say to my United States and Canadian readers: "Get down on your knees and thank God you live in America. Yes, and thank Him by being just and generous to others."

Truth About Germany

Here are some facts which I gathered about Germany:

1. Ninety-nine per cent of the population are behind Hitler politically. They fear to vote otherwise.
2. Thirty per cent of the population are with him in their hearts. This group is made up chiefly of the youths and others under 30 years of age.
3. Among the 70 per cent not with him in their hearts are many business men, war veterans, Jews, and their friends.
4. There is no dole system in Germany and no apparent unemployment.

The food is coarse, with very little butter and eggs. Everyone complains about the bread. Potatoes and sausages are plentiful.

Prices in the stores are reasonable—perhaps cheaper than anywhere in Europe. The materials and quality are poor, however.

7. Synthetic products of all kinds are being used so as to make Germany self-sufficient.

Yet I believe that Germany is not so badly off economically as we are led to believe. Hitler has taught his people to invest in armaments what they heretofore wasted on harmful foods, silly styles, and expensive recreations. America, England, and France are recklessly spending money on both armaments and relief, without curtailing on waste. Germany could show us how to balance our budget and still be healthy and happy. It is true that Germany has, temporarily, abolished freedom; but much that we call freedom is mere license to waste money and undermine character and health. Germany's goal is "babes, health, sports and armaments."

What Of The Future?

Everyone, both here and abroad, feels that the crisis is now over. I have consistently predicted that no nation could risk a war this year. However, I may yet be mistaken. According to the Peace Pact, it will be at least November 25 before we are out of the woods. Czech negotiations with Poland and Hungary are still going on. "There is many a slip twixt the cup and the lip." Furthermore, there is a growing feeling on the part of certain groups in England and France that Chamberlain's peace policy will be opposed.

Then, too, everyone wonders what Hitler will next "pull from his hat." He must do something dramatic every year to retain his power. I will make a guess as to what his next move may be:

Hitler may now direct his daring energy and hypnotic powers to reviving foreign trade, developing industry, and restoring Germany's former financial position. He has carried out his previous policies step by step according to a pre-arranged schedule—in a most unbelievable manner. If he were to tackle a restoration of German industry and trade with the same indomitable spirit, the results throughout the world would be tremendous.

Conclusion
Business on this side of the Atlantic over the next few years will be better regardless of Hitler and Europe. Furthermore, if I am right on Hitler's long-term policy, the world may now be at the beginning of a new boom era. Real prosperity in America may at last be at hand!

WHAT IT MEANS

The experts feel that the deciding factor in America's favor did not develop until the peace of Munich was signed. It then became obvious that European nations had merely provided a breather to give themselves time to complete their fabulous armaments programs.

If ever a small nation needed a powerful friend, it needs one now. And in the United States, as the experts here see it, Latin American nations have one friend with no design on their territory.

It was natural, therefore, that President Roosevelt's recent talk of revising our defense plans should be interpreted to mean that we are planning a navy and army capable of defending the whole western hemisphere.

That would, in their view, also explain his reassurance to Canada that the United States would not stand idly by if she were attacked.

May Modernize Monroe

In the offing is an opportunity to express a 1938 model Monroe doctrine, say the experts. That is the Pan-American conference on December 9. Before the delegates will be important evidence on which to base a declaration of principles.

Here is part of it:

1. The United States and other nations of the hemisphere are exchanging educators and students in a scheme to increase the cultural ties between nations of different languages and background.
2. United States radio chains are now broadcasting special programs for South America.
3. The United States is conducting negotiations with Mexico in the all-important oil dispute without imperatve ultimatums or force despite the great sums of money and property involved. To many Latins, that's proof of our sincerity, the experts argue.
4. Of the $6,700,000,000 invested abroad by citizens of the United States, some $5,500,000,000—or three-fourths—is being risked in Canada, Newfoundland and the Latin nations from the Rio Grande.

5. Intra American trade is on the upgrade, and Europe's trade with Latin American nations is going down steadily. Canada and the U. S. sell each other well over $300,000,000 worth of goods each year. We are shipping close to $500,000,000 worth of our products to Central and South America each year and the countries to the south are sending us nearly $700,000,000 worth of theirs.

To strengthen those elements of friendship, the United States is offering new fast passenger and cargo service to South America, and runs a complete air service around South America.

To safeguard those elements, there is the United States navy. That's why South American nations don't seem to mind when the President of the United States talks armaments. That's why they too are talking armaments. It's one way of taking out insurance.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters

Kathleen Gregory: goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Gregory mine shaft from MacDonald.

Donald MacDonald: hates the Gregorys.

Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday: Angus and Beatrice Gregory arrive, and the girls move over to the MacDonald side of the house. Kathleen's heart aches at the attention Donald gives Bridget.

Chapter 20 Stalemate

THE days passed and Kathleen watched her father from the windows of the lodge, unable to signal him without attracting Mrs. MacDonald's attention, and help back from revealing her identity by some unanalyzed fear.

Saturday afternoon she was startled to see Kit-Smyth drive up, deposit Old Balm, and this during his shift hours, then drive away again.

Anxiously she waited. Balm was there only a short time, then away he went towards the mines, plodding through the snow with a determined step. A few moments later Angus Gregory catapulted after him. They met on the trail, and against the white background the black of Angus Gregory's figure was eloquent of anger. His arms shot out and up and all but came down on the motionless figure of Old Balm. And then the Gregory hands were clasped behind the Gregory back and Angus stalked home.

"And that seems to be that," murmured Angus Gregory's daughter, "Balm won't give in." She sighed half in relief half in worry.

She would see the old man the next afternoon. Bridget and she were scheduled to have tea with him as usual. In the meantime there was to be a dance at the MacDonald Hotel.

Mayme had seen to it that they would attend.

Donald and Norman offered to act as further escorts and Mrs. MacDonald smilingly told them she felt sure they would need a chaperone.

Mayme arrived early, saw the simple street frocks and exclaimed: "Oh you ain't dressed yet."

She revealed she was properly frocked in rose colored satin.

The girls exchanged glances and hurried upstairs. They had brought formal for such an emergency. Kathleen dressed with a sense of triumph. For once she could appear before Donald MacDonald, as herself with the cloudy weather, the freckles were disappearing, her hair was growing long a damp comb and Bridget's deft fingers had laid a smooth wave in the burnished depths.

Mrs. MacDonald, looking up as Kathleen entered, caught her breath and discreetly lowered her eyes. That simple gown of gold cloth might deceive the eyes of a man as to its cost, but not those of a woman who knew and purchased nothing but exclusive models.

She glanced at her son. He was staring at Kathleen as though he'd never really seen her before. "I'm a romantic old fool," thought his mother.

Kathleen was also watching Mrs. MacDonald's son, and what she saw pleased her. He strode towards her both arms outstretched, caught her hands in his and smiled down at her. "Faith, ye fair blind my eyes," he said softly.

But Donald claimed the first dance with Bridget. Mayme's "boy friend" took Kathleen for the second. Norman having taken the first and looked over her shoulder to where Donald's head was lowered to Bridget's.

Ruined Evening

EVENTUALLY she found herself in Donald's arms—strong sure arms that guided her deftly about the crowded floor. For a little while she could forget his being a MacDonald, give herself up to the sensuous music, the exquisite rapture of melody and rhythm.

"I've always considered the phrase, 'you dance divinely,' a cliché invented for gigolos," murmured Young MacDonald.

Kathleen leaned back to look up into the dark blue disturbing eyes. "And now?" she asked, expectantly.

MacDonald looked away abruptly. "And now, since dancing with Bridget, I know it's been underestimated."

"It does make a difference with whom one's dancing, doesn't it?" she queried sweetly and came down on his foot with a vicious stomp of her spiky heel.

The evening was ruined for both of them. Donald nursed a bruised instep and Kathleen a bruise she couldn't locate. It wasn't pride, it went deeper than that.

That night, the formal gown, a discarded mass left on the floor, she crept into bed determined to return to New York with her father. She hoped he'd gain the necessary proof of claim priority from Balm and close down those damned MacDonalds' source of income.

Tomorrow: Beatrice oversteers.

get bitter or venomous about anything he would have little hesitation in picking W. O. Burgin and C. B. Deane.

This corner can't see what in the world John R. Jones, Republican nominee from the Eighth, hopes to gain repeated demands that the ballots be printed. He ought to be good politician enough to know that they're not going to print these ballots until they can put a Democrat on them, and the longer it is before the ballots get into the precincts, the less chance there'll be to round up the absentee vote against him.

O. J. Deane, if he could get the ballots printed with only one name on them, that would be quite another matter.

Raleigh, Oct. 21—Here's the most ironic feature of the entire Eighth Congressional Democratic squabble—a fight which has become as bitter and long drawn out as any in the history of the State.

The two principals—W. O. Burgin of Bertie county and C. B. Deane of Richmond county—are two as inoffensive, meek, mild, almost wish-washy persons as can be imagined.

Kathleen Gregory: goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Gregory mine shaft from MacDonald.

Donald MacDonald: hates the Gregorys.

Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday: Kathleen's father asks her to get the papers proving priority of claim from Balm. In a violent quarrel Kathleen refuses.

Chapter 21 Up In Flames

DOWNSTAIRS Donald MacDonald paced the floor and came to a stop before his mother to utter a few words, then pace on.

"I didn't eavesdrop," he protested. "I only heard a few words, just enough to know that there is a letter which will prove priority of claim of the Gregorys; that she, as I've suspected at times, and forced myself to deny at others, is The Golden Girl; and that her father has ordered her to get that document away from the old man. She will, he's crazy about her."

Mrs. MacDonald shook her head. "And because he is, as you call it, crazy about her, he'll never give it to her. You know Balm as well as I do. Balm's love for all mankind is greater than his love and loyalty to The Golden Girl. That very loyalty would prevent him from putting a weapon into her hands. You know his beliefs. He'd feel he was harming her."

"But imagine rotters who'd play the game that way; who'd hate a family enough to want to wreck them!"

"You can't do this!"

SOFTLY, Kathleen slipped around the house to the front door. Beatrice couldn't do this. She found she wasn't fighting for Old Balm; she wasn't trying to protect the MacDonalds, she was trying to protect her belief in the integrity of her own people.

Opening the door she stepped in. Beatrice was no longer smoking both hands were occupied with opening another envelope.

"Aren't you proud of yourself?" observed Kathleen.

Beatrice Gregory started, then laughed. "We should have employed you as a detective instead of a vampire; we'd have had better results." She went on reading.

"Aunt Bee, you can't do this! I shan't let you."

"Do what?" groaned the woman.

"Didn't my own father write these letters? Haven't I the right to read them?"

"Not without Balm's permission, but is that all you intend doing?"

"Oh, stop your unmitigated moralizing. You weren't too noble to use your own method of gaining the right-of-way. All I'm trying to do is learn if the information these contain is worth the price your father is paying for them."

"Paying?" echoed Kathleen.

"You mean Balm will sell them?"

"Don't be a bigger fool than necessary. I'm speaking of the replacement of his. Ah," she exclaimed in triumph, "his letter is dated June 17. That means the next will have the story of the strike and filing."

It was then she screamed.

Kathleen saw a tiny spiral of smoke burst into rosy flame. The next moment the flame had licked at the old, tinder dry letters, lifted them into a whirling blaze, ran a stream down the table cover to the fringe. The top of the round table was an inferno and in the center lay Balm's Bible, an ancient well-worn book given him by his mother and prized above all possessions.

The whole scene had changed in a second. Kathleen rushed forward and slapped at the flames with her bare hands, crushed the palm of them down over the cloth, pressed the fragment left over the book, then smothered the book to her.

The rear door had opened. Old Balm, breathing heavily, had entered. He looked at Kathleen but spoke to Beatrice. "I trust ye are satisfied, Miss Gregory. Ye've made the decision for us."

Kathleen stared at the table. The letters were filmy cinders. Proof of the claim's priority had been destroyed for all time.

Genly, Balm took the book from Kathleen and she was aware of her hands. The palms were seared, quivering areas of agony. And she was aware of her position. It was as compromising as that of Beatrice's. She'd never before realized how much this queer old fellow's regard meant to her.

She could explain. But then again she couldn't. Beatrice was her aunt, a Gregory. She met his questioning eyes and her own, filmed with tears of pain, were veiled with lashes, lest he read the answer.

"Splendid work, lass," he commended. "We must get you to the hospital. Angus Gregory is steaming up the hill."

With surprising agility he rushed out to stop Gregory, then rushed back to wrap the hands with soft linen and to help Kathleen and Beatrice into the car.

Roanoke Rapids Tilt Played in Field of Mud Friday

In their first conference game of the season, the Green Phantoms of Greenville High school suffered a 6-0 loss at the hands of the strong eleven of Roanoke Rapids at that place Friday. Penalties figured in the win for the Yellow Jackets and to add to the tough breaks, the field was covered with two inches of muddy clay.

After being penalized twice in succession, the locals were crushed under a fine blocking offensive line which led the way to a touchdown while the game was still young in the first quarter. Jerry Brown, fast running Jacket back scored the marker.

Due to the mud, the Phantoms and Jackets made one five and six first downs respectively.

Passing proved to be better than usual for the locals and much ground was gained by this route. Owing to the fact that both teams possessed strong lines, few long runs were made by either team.

Outstanding playing on offense was offered by Brown and Shell of the Roanoke Rapids squad, while Kendrick, Tilley and Mills were best on defense.

George Tyndall, J. B. Kittrell, Marvin Stocks and Ford McGowan paved the way for Greenville of defensive playing. In the line, Edgar Gibson, Russell Rogerson, Larry James, John Vincent and Earl Kittrell were the best bets.

Greenville and Kinston will tangle in the Lenoir capital next Friday for the second conference game for the locals. Bo Parley, head coach, sees much improvement in his Phantoms since their first game and is looking forward to the Kinston game with strong hopes for victory.

Score by quarters:

Greenville	0	0	0	0

Kiwanis Sponsors Band Aid Cripples

D. H. Conley, president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club, today announced that the civic organization had taken over the Fireman's Band here and will begin concerts in various parts of the county for the benefit of underprivileged children.

In making the announcement, President Conley said the first concert would be presented at Chicod school next Thursday night, October 27, at 7:30 o'clock. Another concert will be staged at the Winterville school November 2 and another at the Arthur school November 10. Other concerts are being planned.

There will be an admission charge of 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults. However, proceeds derived from the concerts will be used to further the program now being conducted so successfully by the Greenville Kiwanis club for the benefit of crippled children.

Norman Hanley, director of the band and Federal music project during previous months, will continue to supervise the musical activities of the band. Although the Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the band, there will be no change in the musical organization.

$219,878.00 pounds, the heaviest since 1887. This represented an increase of 118 per cent over the 1932 catch. The only year recently approaching it was 1929 when the catch amounted to 217,595.000.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Al-ircraft pointed the way to a brisk, but selective, upswing in today's stock market and leaders at the best scored gains running to three or more points.

The bulge tempted profit takers, however, and top marks were reduced in many cases near the close.
Numerous new recovery peaks were touched in the first hour's advance.
The ticker tape got behind for a while and transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

Governor Lehman Praises New Deal

Oneonta, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)— Governor Lehman in his first campaign speech of the New Deal, urged support today for congressmen who would uphold the "humane and progressive program" of President Roosevelt.

Scheduled to endorse the "principle aims" of the New Deal in a future campaign speech for re-election, the Governor urged a rally crowd of about 700 persons here.

"To strengthen the hands of President Roosevelt and his humane and progressive program by sending Senator Robert Wagner and Representative James Mead back to Washington."

Local Man To Speak At Red Cross Meet

Local officials of the American Red Cross, and others, have received invitations to attend a regional conference of the organization to be held in the Ricks hot-tel, Rocky Mount, Tuesday, of next week.

An announcement of the meeting states that a large attendance from chapters in Eastern North Carolina are expected at the session, for which the Rocky Mount-Nash County chapter will be host.

J. Nat Harrison, who successfully conducted last year's Roll Call for the Pitt County chapter, is scheduled to address the meeting in rural organization.

Sister-in-Law Local Man Dies at Kinston

Mrs. James C. Dall, sister-in-law of W. S. Dall of Greenville, died last night after several weeks of illness, although she had shown improvement and was able to be up until she suffered a set-back and died suddenly.

Mrs. Dall was the widow of J.
C. Dall of Kinston, who held the office of mayor when he died four years ago. She is survived by two sons, J. C. Dall, Jr., of Kinston, and Roland Dall of Goldsboro.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Loans Are Repaid By N. C. Farmers

Raleigh, Oct. 22.—"Despite adverse crop conditions, including low cotton yields in many sections and low cotton prices, North Carolina farmers farming under the supervised loan program of the Farm Security Administration this year already have repaid $139,000 more on their loans than for a similar period last year," said State Director Vance E. Swift. From June 30 to middle October of this year, $431,921 was collected as compared with $292,287 for the same period in 1937. Treasury receipts show.

Collections for the one week ending Oct. 12, totalled $70,510.94, and collections for the week ending October 19 amounted to $64,875.07, bringing total cumulative repayments from Farm Security Administration borrowers in North Carolina to $2,409,484.99.

Although certain crop conditions and cash crop prices have not been favorable this year, FSA farmers on the average grew more food and feed crops, both last year and this year, than previously. Those who had more potato hills and fuller barns and smokehouses, as a rule, were prepared to meet low prices because they did not have to go in debt for subsistence goods, it was pointed out.

CHANGES MADE A. C. L. SCHEDULE

ager F. W. Brown of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad in Wilmington last week.

The result of this conference was a subsequent meeting in Greenville on Monday, October 17, of representatives of the towns affected, at which meeting the schedule as now adopted by the Atlantic Coast Line was approved by those present.

Under this new schedule the wait at Weldon will be considerably reduced and the connection at Tarboro with the Rocky Mount train will be improved. For instance, passengers leaving Kinston, Grifton, Ayden and Greenville for points beyond the branch line may change at Parmele for the Tarboro train which will make rather close connection with the train for Rocky Mount, with only 30 minutes wait in Rocky Mount for north bound connections. This 30 minutes could be used for lunch, making a trip from Kinston to points to Richmond and beyond almost continuous not having to go to Weldon to make the connection.

Postal Applications Open through Nov. 10

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Civil Service commission announced today it would receive applications until November 10 for postmaster appointments at the following places, the salaries for each office being given:

Ayden, $2,100; Bailey, $1,400;
Fountain, $1,100 and Robersonville, $2,100.

MEET IS EYED BY POLITICOS

Raleigh, Oct. 22.—Politicians of all sorts, but particularly politicians depending principally on rural votes, are already gluing at least one ear to the ground in order to hear distinctly what members of the North Carolina Grange think and say about politics in general and crop control, in particular.

The Grangers will get together over in Oxford for a three day session, October 26-28, and not the least important feature of the conclave will be action on a legislative program.

With a crop control referendum in cotton set for December 10, and a tobacco referendum to be conducted nearly, if not quite, simultaneously, the boys who love the "dear people" want to know how the real farm folks feel on these subjects in order to make their plans in accordance.

Last year the National Grange wasn't a bit enthusiastic about the Congressional ideas of crop control and it did not favor to any marked extent the measures finally passed—and passed largely through the influence of the Farm Bureau Federation, a farmers' organization something of a rival and pain in the neck to the Grange.

L. J. Tabor, National Master, will be one of the main speakers at Oxford. He is an Ohioan who did all he could to defeat control, as enacted in final form, in the Congressional battle.

In addition to taking some stand on control the state Grange will probably reiterate its request for exemption of low-valued homesteads from taxation and its stand that intangible tax revenues should be returned to the local government units on a basis of population rather than of contribution thereof.

TAR HEELS AT TENN. SESSION

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Oct. 21.—North Carolina was well represented at the recent joint convention of the Industrial Minerals Division of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and the Society of Economic Geologist in Knoxville, Tenn., according to State Geologist, H. J. Bryson who just returned from this meeting.

Among the many engineers and Carolina men I met at the convention, Bryson found ten besides himself who had been students in the Geology Department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and four of these were among the featured speakers. Nine of the papers presented dealt with mineral deposits in North Carolina.

"Among the University of North Carolina men I met at the convention were P. P. Fox, 37, J. B. Ward, 32, C. E. Hunter, 32 and Earl Van Horn, 37 all of whom are geologists with the Tennessee Valley Authority with headquarters in Knoxville," Bryson said. "I also saw Tom Kessler, 29, who is with the U. S.
Geological Survey and plans to do considerable work investigating the Sudomene deposits in the Kings Mountain area."

State Well Represented at Knoxville's Geologist Meet

Other North Carolina men who were at the convention were W. B.
Jones, 22, now State Geologist for Alabama; H. C. Amick, 23 and C.
S. Maurice, 31, who are assistant professors at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville; and T. G.
Murdoch, 22 safety engineer with a subsidiary of the American Metals Company in Cuba. Jones, Kessler, Amick and Maurice were on the program as speakers.
