PARING BUDGETS TO SAVE FUNDS FOR DEFENSES

Roosevelt Prepares to Cut Departmental Expenditures

EXECUTIVE BACK AT WASHINGTON

Wage-Hour Administrator May Ask For Broader Authority in Applying Act

Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt took up today the problem of paring 1939 departmental expenditures to help make room for an anticipated increase in defense costs.

The President, who returned last night from his home at Hyde Park, summoned Daniel Bell, acting budget director, to begin making budget estimates for submission to Congress in January. Much preliminary work has been done in a series of conferences during the past few weeks.

Besides the departmental requirements, Mr. Roosevelt must take into consideration the probable effect of the business trend on anticipated revenues, possible new sources of income and the extent of savings that might be effected in such items as relief.

Actual relief estimates for the year beginning July 1 and for the last four months of the current fiscal year will not be made until about December 15.

Other developments:

The wage-hour administration may ask Congress for broader authority in applying the new labor standards law to specific industries.

This prediction came from high ranking officials, who were swamped with inquiries from employers as to whether the statute regulated minimum wages and maximum hours for their particular businesses.

Now that the wage-hour program actually had gone into effect, Administrator Elmer Andrews and his staff are giving most of their attention to these appeals for assistance.

"All Americans safe!" This dispatch was sent from burning Canton by I. N. Linnell, American consul general, who received praise from State Department officials.

Linnell arranged points of refuge for Americans and also acted on behalf of a local committee to obtain safety zones for the Chinese population.

Evidence Offered In Mystery Death

Tarboro, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Violet Blanton, young white girl, told Sheriff W. E. Bardin at noon today that she saw "the Bullock car and his two companions at California Inn Sunday night, but that she did not see James Monroe Everett, whom she knew, in the car."

Everett, according to the Bullock and companions testimony, was supposed to have been in the front seat at the time the Blanton girl saw the car.

Sheriff Bardin locked up Violet Blanton for further testimony and held Paul Bullock, Louis Ayres and Bernice Whitehurst, all white boys, for further questioning.

Everett was found dead in the back of his own car, shot through the forehead, Sunday night. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that he came to his death by pistol shots at the hands of an unknown. The three boys claimed it was suicide.

Bundy Elected

Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Richard Thigpen of Charlotte, N. C., was elected district governor of the Carolinas district Kiwanians at the closing session of a three-day convention here today. He succeeds Ames Halliwaeger of Columbia.

Raleigh, N. C., was selected as the 1939 convention city. Division governors include: Number four, T. B. Upchurch, Jr., of Raeford, N. C.; Five, Jasper B. Hicks of Henderson, N. C.; sixth, W. G. Robbins of Rocky Mount, N. C.; seven, W. J. Bundy of Greenville, N. C.

BOY MISSING AT HOME, MAN HELD

Missing since Saturday, three-year-old Dean Tripp, son of a wealthy New Yorker, was returned safely to his mother's arms (left) October 24 by George O'Connell, handy-man on the Tripp estate at Floral Park, Long Island. O'Connell is shown (right) alighting from the train at Floral Park with the boy in his arms. He said they spent the week-end at the home of friends of the Tripps. Police arrested him for questioning.

CALL MEET OF LOCAL C. OF C.

Members of Chamber of Commerce Meet Friday Night

A call for a general meeting of members of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce to be held at Respass' place Friday night at 6:30 o'clock has been issued and every member of the organization is urged to be present.

The membership meeting will be a "dutch" affair, each member paying for his supper at the rate of fifty cents, said J. Nat Harrison, president of the organization.

President Harrison outlined the purpose of the meeting in a letter which is being mailed to all members, in which he stated that election of directors, and a discussion of the program of work will major topics on the program. Enclosed with his letter is a self-addressed postal card, on which members are urged to list three things Greenville needs most, and from suggestions received in this manner a program is expected to be evolved. He also asks that members indicate on this card their intention to attend the meeting, that preparations may be made in advance for their accommodation for supper.

The fact that these cards are mailed only to members does not mean that the chamber does not welcome suggestions from the general public, for it is very desirable that any resident of Greenville having the interests of the city at heart, is urged to suggest items for the program of work of the Chamber of Commerce, as the organization is doing all possible to assist in promoting the well rounded development of the city and the community.

It will be the first general meeting since Willard T. Kizer took up his duties as executive secretary and persons who already have not had the opportunity of meeting the secretary will have a chance to "get to know" him.

Much has been accomplished in the comparatively short time since the Chamber of Commerce was reorganized. After Mr. Kizer took up his duties, offices were established and the organization got down to real business.

One of its first major accomplishments was securing a hostelry mill to locate in this city. The organization has supported various conventions planned or contemplated for Greenville. J. Nat Harrison, president of the Chamber of Commerce said a general meeting would have been held earlier, but for the fact that the officers had been so busy working on industrial prospects and getting the association organized that there had not been time.

Jump From Vehicle at Corner of Third and Greene Sts

Two inmates of the Pitt county prison camp leaped from a truck on Third street early this morning and escaped. The two were Eugene Gray, 20, sentenced from two and a half to three years for breaking, entering, larceny and receiving in Anson county, and to an additional 18 months from jail break; and Cheslie Thompson, 19, sentenced to three to five years for larceny from the person in Onslow county.

The two men leaped from the prison truck while it was running at a low rate of speed at the intersection of Green and Third streets. They ran about half a block down the street, jumped over a fence into the yard of J. M. Rogerson, who lives in an apartment house at the intersection of Third and Pitt street and came out behind the house on Pitt street. Mrs. Rogerson, who saw the men run across her yard, said she at first thought they were two young boys playing or fighting until she noticed the stripped uniforms.

A number of prison camp employees and officers gathered at once and started a search in the vicinity, but the men had fled. Bloodhounds were brought to the scene of the escape in an effort to trace the men, but up until midnight no trace of them had been found. Some persons expressed the belief the men jumped into a car on Pitt street, the escape having been planned.

HIGHER COSTS FOR STEMMING

To Cost More Whether Done by Hand or Machine

Raleigh, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Tobacco stemming costs will increase whether the work is done by hand or machine, under the wage and hour law, tobacco marketing specialist W. P. Hedrick of the state agriculture department said today. He said, "It is probable that the increased processing costs will be taken from the farmers' tobacco profit."

Hedrick explained that the Federal law provides 25 cents an hour minimum wage and said a hearing with wage-hour authorities "will determine whether thousands of stemmers will keep their jobs." The present, he added, "makes it almost impossible to stem tobacco under the old system which relied in the payments to workers on the basis of piece-meal stemming rather than on work done by the hour." Faced with the wage-hour law. (Continued on page six)

SOUTH BEGINS CHECK EFFECT OF LABOR LAW

Tobacco Stemming Industry Declared Be Hardest Hit

PECAN SHELLERS FORCED TO QUIT

Preliminary Reports Indicate Most Larger Industries Going On as Usual

Atlanta, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Employment officials in southern states began tabulation today of workers who have lost their jobs as result of the new federal wage-hour law.

Preliminary reports after the first day's operation of the act indicated most of the larger industries were carrying on as usual. Some small enterprises, however, notably tobacco processing factories in North Carolina, modest sawmills in the rural areas of Georgia and Alabama, and pecan-shelling plants—were said to have decided to shut down rather than attempt to pay 25 cents an hour for a 44-hour work week.

Employees of stemming and re-drying plants in the North Carolina tobacco belt were affected by cessation of production. State employment officials had reports of at least 5,700 workers being laid off in seven communities, and some unofficial estimates range as high as 30,000.

In Washington, J. Seligman of San Antonio, Texas, president of the National Pecan Shellers of America, told Administrator Elmer Andrews every plant in his industry was closed, throwing approximately 50,000 persons out of employment.

No accurate estimate was possible of the number affected by sawmill shut-downs since most of the plants are located in remote rural areas. Four small mills in Alabama and more than 20 in Georgia were reported to have ceased operations.

New Magic Spray Help For Flowers

Chapel Hill, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A magic new spray which grows larger flowers was announced to the National Academy of Science here today.

The bigger flowers are only one of the spectacular results of spraying this mixture on plants. It also makes possible new hybrids—that is crosses in breeding plants—realizing a long-sought goal of agricultural scientists.

The spray is an emulsion of oil mixed with choline, which has been a standard remedy for gout for nearly 2,000 years. One year ago Dr. Albert Blakeslee of the Carnegie Institution of Washington's station for experimental evolution at Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y., announced to the Academy discovery that choline would cause strange changes in plants. It doubles their chromosome and the substances that govern heredity.

Pitt Youth Enlisted In Army This Month

Charles A. Wilkerson was accepted for enlistment in the regular Army of the United States at the Army recruiting station in Wilson October 21. He was forwarded to Fort Bragg, where he will be given his final examination and be enlisted for the Field Artillery at Fort Bragg. Burgin Chosen By Three-Man Group

Raleigh, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The referees in the Eighth district congressional dispute voted unanimously today that W. O. Burgin of Lexington should be the Democratic nominee.

The report of the referees was read by Judge W. C. Harris at 12:35 p. m. in the presence of J. C. B. Ehringhaus, counsel for Burgin, and Assistant Attorney General Wade Bruton.

The ruling which both candidates in the four-month-old dispute had agreed to accept as final, eliminated C. B. Deane of Rockingham. The State Elections Board will meet here tomorrow to certify the nominee. Judge Harris immediately started work on his consent order to end the court litigation. Under the agreement between

VOTE TO SELL BONDS OF CITY

Aldermen Act to Get Funds to Carry On New Projects

Looking toward ironing out details for starting work shortly on the new city hall, fire station, and other projects, the Greenville Board of Aldermen last night voted to authorize and sell immediately $137,000 bonds authorized at an election.

Clerk J. O. Duval explained that if the sponsor's money is in hand, the PWA, which agency is financing 45 per cent of the total costs of the projects, will advance 25 per cent.

The aldermen, at the special called session, also discussed and acted on a number of paving and curb and gutter projects in the city, and decided to widen Washington street from Third to Dickinson avenue.

It was decided to pave Jarvis and Summit streets from Fourth to Second, provided property owners sign a petition requesting the work. The body also voted to curb, gutter and pave Contentnea street from Ward to Douglas, if a majority of the property owners so request. Center street also will be paved from Dickinson avenue to Broad street, and Paris avenue from Chestnut to Myrtle.

Drainage projects for the city were adopted, provided WPA funds can be secured to provide funds to pay the labor. It is estimated that two such programs will entail an expenditure of approximately $40,000.

Other action taken by the board was to pave a ditch by the Greenville Tobacco Company warehouse, to give the school authorities the buildings located on the property purchased for the city hall and fire station if the PWA offers no objection; to grant Chief of Police George Clark a leave of absence to attend the officers' convention in Greensboro; authorized payment of $6,380.32 (Continued on page six)

To Receive Bids For Water-Light Project

Officials of the Water and Light commission revealed today that specifications for the extension and improvement project had been approved by the Atlanta offices of the WPA and had been sent to Washington.

It is planned to receive bids for the $370,000 project on November 2. The commission, however, will reserve the right to reject any or all bids. The project's major items will be new equipment.

18 KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Worst Air Tragedy in History of Australia This Morning

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Eighteen persons, including a member of the Australian parliament, were killed today in the Dominion's worst airliner crash on mist-shrouded Mount Dandenong, 40 miles southeast of Melbourne.

Seven persons were thrown from the cabin. The others were trapped in the ship, which burned. The machine, with a crew of four including a hostess, was bound from Adelaide to Melbourne. It was operated by the Australian National Airways.

A store keeper at the town of Kiorama said he heard the plane roaring through the mist. "A few seconds later I heard an awful crash and ran out of the store," he related. "I could see the wreck not far away."

MEETINGS SET IN TOWNSHIPS

AAA Committees Being Named; Also Delegates

Community committees to serve under the 1939 AAA program and delegates to a county convention to be called later for the election of a county committee are being elected at township meetings held throughout the county this week.

Bellarthur township held its meeting last night and elected Mack G. Smith committee chairman; O. M. McLawhorn, vice-chairman; R. E. Willoughby, regular member; P. S. Rasberry, first alternate; Ray Crawford, second alternate; and Mr. Smith, township delegate; and Mr. McLawhorn, alternate delegate. This morning the Bethel township farmers named J. B. Taylor, committee chairman; E. I. Mayo, vice-chairman; R. E. James, regular member; F. C. Martin, first alternate; H. I. Briley, second alternate; J. B. Taylor, delegate to the county convention; and R. E. James, alternate. (Continued on page six)

LIQUOR TAKEN BY CONSTABLE

Forty-Eight Gallons, Auto and One Man Are Seized

One Negro, an automobile and 48 gallons of bootleg whiskey were taken in custody early this morning by Constable J. Gus Stokes.

The Negro arrested, and brought to local police headquarters gave his name as Matthew Brown of New Bern. Another Negro said to have been the driver got away.

According to Constable Stokes he was coming into town about 4:45 o'clock this morning when he saw a car parked by the side of the road near the Norfolk-Southern underpass on the Cox's Mill highway. The officer stopped his car and started over to the parked car. As he did the two men drove off, but he jumped on the running board. The Negroes refused to stop until the officer brandished his gun in the face of the driver, who then stopped and started backing the vehicle landing it in a ditch by the side of the road.

After searching the pair, the officer ordered them to sit in the back seat of the car while he "looked around". One Negro jumped out of the car on the side opposite the officer and fled into the woods, refusing to heed the constable's order to stop. The constable could not give chase for fear the one Negro in custody would get away.

He brought the one Negro to police headquarters and, in company with Policemen Mobley and House and Lloyd Williams, returned to the scene and they found 48 gallons of liquor, which appeared to have been unloaded, in the woods by the side of the road.

When they got back Ed "Honey" Fleming, a Negro mechanic, was at the car. He told the officers he received an anonymous telephone call, telling him to come and pull the car out of the ditch. (Continued on page six)

Donate Buildings For Negro Projects

The buildings located on the property purchased by the city for the purpose of erecting the new city hall and municipal building will be given to the city school system to be used in developing an athletic and recreation center at the Fifth street Negro school, unless the PWA objects.

The Greenville Board of Aldermen last night voted to give the buildings to the schools to be used in the project. Approval of the PWA is necessary, however, as the agency is paying 45 per cent of the cost of the city hall and fire station projects, including purchase of the land.

Chimney Fire Firemen were called to the home of Sol Askew, on Washington street this morning, when a chimney fire threatened to get beyond control. The blaze was extinguished and no damage was caused, Fire Chief George Gardner reported.

CHIANG FLEES CITY BY PLANE

Last Stages of Advance Made With Much Rapidity; Japan May Now Be Content With Conquest, Opening Way for Period of Undeclared Peace

Shanghai, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Japanese army and navy commands tonight announced that their forces had entered Hankow, China's provisional capital, abandoned by its defenders.

Although details were lacking, Japanese officers said units of both services had participated in the capture of the great city on the middle Yangtze river, Major Goal of the Japanese conquest since Nanking fell nearly 11 months ago.

The first detachment to enter apparently was an infantry column, which previously had captured a point 20 miles to the north, and then driven rapidly down the Peiping, Hankow railway.

General Chiang Kai-Shek, military and civil leader of the Chinese nation, was reported to have left Hankow by plane during the night, accompanied by his foremost aides and his American-educated wife.

Announcement of the Japanese entry into Hankow was made in a joint communique from Chinese headquarters of the Japanese army and navy.

Naval officers said they believed Japanese warships had reached the great inland port, although exact positions of the vessels were not disclosed. Since Nanking's fall the navy has co-operated with the army in blasting a pathway up the river.

The last stages of the Japanese advance were made with such rapidity—overland from the northeast along both banks of the Yangtze and up the river itself—that large units of Chinese were cut off.

The rapidly-driving Japanese columns were said to have left several divisions in pockets to be cleaned up later, as motorized vanguards with tanks sped toward the doomed Chinese capital.

Hankow was the sixth great Chinese city to fall to the invaders.

Whether Japan would be content to rest on her present conquests, thus opening a period of undeclared peace, remained a subject for conjecture tonight.

4-H Club Leaders Rotarians' Guests

Rotarians last night learned of championship projects carried on by 4-H club members as several young boys and girls who have won local and state-wide contests described their work at the regular weekly meeting of the club.

Miss Mildred Evans, winner of the Dress Review held recently at N. C. State college, and Miss Frances Earl McLawhorn, designer of the prize-winning booth at the fair, were the girls present.

Hal Thomas Erwin, Earl Turnage and Elmer Tucker, members of Pitt county 4-H clubs, who won livestock prizes at the local fair, also were present.

County Agent R. B. Bennett and Miss Ethel Nice, home demonstration agent, had charge of the program. They have supervision over the 635 4-H boys and girls in the county.

Christian Science Church.

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, October 23.

The golden text was from Ecclesiastes 12:14. "God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. And let us not be weary in well-doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." (Gal. 6:7-9).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Error brings its own self-destruction both here and hereafter, for mortal mind creates its own physical conditions. Death will occur on the next plane of existence as on this, until the spiritual understanding of Life is reached. Then, and not until then, will it be demonstrated that 'the second death hath no power.'"

IT'S ODD

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLER AP Science Editor

DARK EYES ARE BEST BEHIND STEERING WHEEL

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard scientists have discovered that dark-eyed motorists see better in night driving than "light-eyed" drivers.

"By 'light' eyes, it is explained as meant not the color, but the amount of pigment. Light grey, light blue and light green eyes usually fall into the "light-eyed" class.

Harry R. DeSilva and Philip Robinson had 1,238 persons peer into a box simulating in miniature a night driving scene. Two glaring lights shone in their eyes.

The object they tried to see was not a car but stripes on a sort of rotating barber pole.

The dark-eyed persons, no matter what their age, could see the stripes quicker than the light-eyed.

If these findings are corroborated by future investigation, the Harvard men say, light-eyed drivers as a group should be educated to drive more cautiously at night.

How's Your Health?

By Igo Goldston, M.D.

Cynics have long repeated the saying, which of late has been erroneously ascribed to Tallyrand, that "speech was given to man to disguise his thought."

Scientists however know that speech is intended to convey to others what is happening to the individual.

In that sense speech is not confined to the human species but is a capacity possessed by all creatures capable of making a sign or a sound.

Speech is an intricate vehicle of expression. Not only words and sentence structures but tone, volume, and fluency, serve to convey meaning and intention.

Publius Syrus (42 B. C.) well expressed this intricacy in the maxim, "Speech is a mirror of the soul: as a man speaks, so is he."

Development of the speech faculty is a highly complicated process, for to produce speech there must be efficient coordination in the function of nerves, muscles, speech organs (vocal cords and muscles), the palate, tongue, teeth and lips.

In the normal child these diverse elements develop more or less simultaneously. Thus the ability to have ideas requiring expression, the fibers of the brain concerned in thinking, the brain speech center, and the control of the muscles that convert sound into speech, all "grow up" together.

For a time, as the infant changes into the child, one faculty may out-run the other. Some may outpace others but within a comparatively short period the normally developing child masters the art of speech.

Disturbances in the body may interfere with speech. Indeed, of the many fine muscle movements performed by different parts of the body (notably the hand in writing) those involved in speech are the first and the most likely to be affected when anything, notably of an emotional nature, is wrong with the body.

A rise in the tone of the voice, the clipping enunciation of words, acceleration of speech, all frequently reveal a degree of emotional change not reflected in any other performance of the individual.

The wonder is that so many individuals ever learn to speak effectively—and that speech difficulties are not more common than they are.

... ETIQUETTE ...

By JOAN DURHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

Funerals are occasions for which you should not refuse your services if they are requested. Those are times when the people involved stand in greater need of help of friends.

Sending flowers, of course, is the most usual method of expressing sympathy.

Ordinarily the envelope that accompanies the flowers is marked: "For the family of (name of the deceased)." The card inside is inscribed "With deepest sympathy" and signed by the sender—if his or her own engraved card is not used.

If the deceased had no close relatives the envelope may be inscribed: "For the funeral of (name of the deceased)." The same sympathy card may be enclosed.

Usually, flowers are delivered by the florist to the home of the bereaved family a day ahead of the funeral. Most Protestant churches allow floral offerings to be taken to the church, but Catholic and Jewish services are ordinarily devoid of offerings sent by friends. Consequently, if you're in doubt, ask your florist to get in touch with the family or those in charge of the funeral to find out where and when the flowers should be sent.

Men friends of the deceased may be asked to serve as pallbearers. Where the funeral is elaborate, the proper apparel for a pallbearer is the cutaway coat and striped trousers. The usual costume is a conservative, dark suit.

The bearer should be at the place where the services are to be held at least half an hour ahead of time. His duties may be merely honorary

The Characters

Kathleen Gregory goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Gregory mine shaft from MacDonald.

Donald MacDonald has refused the right-of-way, hates the Gregor-ys.

Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday: After the accident, Kathleen's father gives her full rein. Then the Gregor-ys leave. All the miners receive checks for Christmas.

Chapter 23

Holiday Time

THE MacDonalds came in that evening. Kathleen sat quietly, wondering at the fresh pain throbbing in her hands. And on the opposite side of the room, Donald MacDonald sat, unconsciously staring at the bandaged hands, mute evidence of the girl's bravery, his face dark with rebellion.

"I'd wanted to take you home with me for the holidays," Mrs. MacDonald told the girls, "but the doctor says no. Well, the boys will return for Hugsman."

"Hug me, what?" asked Bridget. "Oh, you Irish don't celebrate New Year's Eve as the Scotch do. I'd advise you to prepare for company immediately after the stroke of midnight. You'll want your first guest to be a man, and after that a man and a girl, one dark, one fair. Have fuel on your veranda for the first man to carry in and you'll have good luck the rest of the year."

"But suppose the first visitor is a girl?" queried Bridget.

"Ask Mayme what happens. Poor child nearly stayed out all night last year. She lives in the last cottage down the hill you know. She'd work late at the hotel. One of the men drove her home, but he couldn't get near the cot so she sent him back and walked on. Her mother wouldn't let a girl be first to cross the threshold on the New Year. She had to come up and get Donald out of bed so he could carry the good luck into the house."

The MacDonalds left early, they were driving to Carsted at dawn and from there would entrain. Bridget escorted them to the porch while Kathleen sat fighting the tears of defeat. Donald hadn't even said goodby.

"I just wanted to say I hope you'll have a merry Christmas." The words came out like the snap of a whip.

"The same to you and many of them," Kathleen snapped back. "And where was Bridget? Did the crazy girl want to catch cold standing out there on the porch with that Donald? Mrs. MacDonald's voice had sounded from the street long ago.

Bridget came in, her eyes like the northern stars on a frosty night. Kathleen had to speak twice before she was heard, then Bridget was contrite.

"Donald says Norman is coming back to spend the rest of the winter with him," she purred.

"That," flashed Kathleen, "is just ducky!"

Bridget's arms went around Kathleen. "Oh I'm selfish, dear. I keep forgetting what pain you are in. Come, let me undress you and tuck you in. Then two little white tablets and a few hours of rest."

Kathleen rested her head on the supporting arms. She couldn't hate Bridget if she wanted to, and oh, how she wanted to.

The very thought of Christmas was heart-sickening to Kathleen. Why hadn't she made the excuse that she wanted to go to Chicago, then flown on to New York? But she couldn't travel. The day would be lonely, dreary.

It wasn't Bridget who gathered beneath the windows on Christmas Eve. They tramped into the house shaking powdery snow from their shoulders and tramped out again.

Shower Of Gifts

BLINDFOLDED, Kathleen was led to her room and there found a wide, deep studio couch, a gift from Miss Beatrice Gregory. She slept upon it that night, lay watching the hearth coals flare gold and purple and wondered what Christmas Eve would be like in Los Angeles, if Mrs. MacDonald and Norman would have a merry time. Donald would. He'd have a crowd of those girls. Mayme had mentioned making a fool of him.

Morning came and with it such a shower of gifts Kathleen was astounded. Donald MacDonald sent not one gift but a box of them; thoughtfully chosen gifts. Six of the latest novels and an adjustable stand to hold them and attached to this an automatic page turner.

Strangely precious to Kathleen was the personal gift, a pocket powder box bearing a card on which was written "To use next summer so I won't have to look at the freckles." Inside the box cover was inscribed, "To Spit-fire from the yapping Malamute."

Surely there was nothing tender in the term "Spit-fire," yet it struck some dim, sympathetic chord of memory.

Then came the miners with their gifts, enough potted plants to fill the broad Gregory house windows, hand carved bookends and boxes, dainty pieces of fancy work. Kathleen treasured most a queer looking square, awkwardly embroidered—Laura MacBride's idea of a handkerchief.

It was a merry day in Neutral-ity, and the cheer of it spread to the big house where Kathleen sat beside the armchair radio, her father's gift, listening to dance music from Los Angeles.

Dinner was prepared and served by the MacDonald housekeeper who hovered over Kathleen as though she belonged to the proper clan. Old Balmy, their guest of honor, brought a gift to Kathleen and asked that she not open it until she was alone.

That moment came at bedtime. Wonderingly she unwrapped the package then called to Bridget.

"Bridget, he is balmy, look," and she held up one half of a torn, blood-stained shirt.

Bridget snatched the object from her and carried it to the light. "This is ages old," she announced. "See how yellow it is? And these stains are nearly black. Half a shirt... half a cabin... a town divided—Kathleen, Balmy's given you the key to the feud. What does the card say?"

Inside of the envelope were two sheets of paper; one fresh, the other dry and yellowed by age.

Carefully Kathleen unfolded the yellowed one and read.

"I'm leaving this with you. When you find some offspring of mine with guts enough to get back the other half, turn this over. If you don't, will it to my son and let him see what men were like when they were men."

Bridget chuckled. "Your Dad would love that. It looks to me as though Old Angus had lost half his shirt to—"

"Old MacDonald," supplied Kathleen. "Let's see what Balmy has to say."

'Patch The Shirt'

SHE opened the second sheet.

"My dear, the better way will be to patch the two halves together and keep the shirt in the family as a reminder."

Kathleen shook her head. "It's Greek to me. Who has the other half? Donald or one of the miners? And how... Bridget, do you suppose father told Balmy why I—"

"Darling," interrupted Bridget, "for a girl with as bright a head as yours, you're awfully dumb. Balmy has known your identity from the moment he met you. Old Angus probably showed him every photograph ever taken of you, and he'd have watched the photographs with intense interest."

"But why didn't he tell me?" tried Kathleen.

"My dear, he was waiting for you to show your trust in him. Then too, he'd be the kind to let you work out your problem without interference."

"Bridget," Kathleen leaned forward in alarm, "do you think everyone knows?"

Gaily came Bridget's laugh. "No, dear, at least I'm confident Kit-Smyth has no idea. Perhaps a few of the older Gregory families suspect, but like Balmy, they'd never speak to anyone, not to you until you took the first step."

"And the MacDonalds?"

Bridget sobered. "I think they know."

"Perhaps I'd better come out in the open—"

"No, don't do that. They'd rather not have you admit your identity. As it is, they can associate with you without their people questioning them."

Kathleen's smile was bitter. She understood she thought. As long as she was Cleo Riley, Bridget could associate daily with Donald. Well, so be it. She'd need to associate daily with him if she were to promote her new plan.

Kathleen fingered the old shirt, then began chuckling. "What a fight that must have been! Oh I wish I'd known him, he might have given me a few pointers."

"Or you given a few to him," countered Bridget, and fled, leaving Kathleen to wonder what had caused the fight.

Balmy wouldn't tell, she was sure, until she had admitted her identity, and perhaps Balmy, like the MacDonalds, preferred she continue as Cleo Riley.

She looked up at the photograph of the dark-eyed woman. "I'll bet you were mixed up in this some place," she accepted, and then she looked down at her hands. Would they ever be normal again? If not?

Kathleen sat in passionate rebellion, then lifted her eyes to a mirrored reflection. There, that was the resemblance she had noted before. Her eyes, so totally unlike any other Gregory's, were like the eyes of the woman in the photograph.

She reread Balmy's note. Now what had he meant by that, "the better way, patch the two halves together and keep the shirt in the family—" First, she'd have to find the other half. This was what Old Angus' note had suggested, then, why had Balmy called it "the better way?"

LOOSE AGAIN

This Time Woody Is Whooping Up Prices

(By The AP Feature Service) WOODY HOCKADAY, who has been pretty quiet since he had a brush with the President's guards last summer, is whooping it up again. The boisterous "Indian" comes from out Wichita, Kansas, where he gained fame for his road marking system before the days of governmental markings. And in those days he was "irreparably dignified."

He ran an auto service business, and his road markers led many past his busy corner. Later he helped the U. S. design airplane markers. He's shown above with a model one.

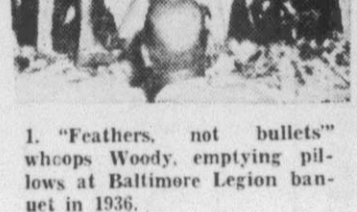

But nowadays, the 54-year-old Bible student and champion of peace and higher farm prices, thumbs his nose at dignity. Look:

1. "Feathers, not bullets" whoops Woody, emptying pillows at Baltimore Legion banquet in 1936.

2. For some reason Woody wanted to give Secretary Perkins a stuffed chicken last year; capital cops stepped in.

3. At Oklahoma City last July, Woody wanted to shine FDR's shoes for a dollar to use to bolster wheat prices. He didn't explain to presidential guards—lost his shirt.

4. His war whoops recently rang out at Chicago's board of trade when he bid "5150 or bust" for wheat, then selling at 65 cents.

EXPLAINS ACT AS TO YOUTHS

Social Security Card No Proof Of Employability

With the wage and hour law going into effect October 24, field offices of the Social Security Board have been instructed by John J. Corson, Director of its Bureau of Old Age Insurance, to clarify for employers questions raised regarding the employment of children who hold social security account numbers, according to George N. Adams, Manager of the Rocky Mount office of the Social Security Board.

"Approximately 150,000 account numbers—representing about three-tenths of 1 per cent of the 40 million total—have been assigned to boys and girls under 16 years of age," Mr. Adams said. "Many of these young people probably are now legally employed under the laws of the States in which they live. However, isolated reports received from some States with laws prohibiting the employment of children indicate a few employers believe that, because young people display account numbers, they are legally employable. This is not necessarily the case. With extension of child labor regulations in immediate prospect as a result of the new wage-hour law, it is particularly important to clear up any misunderstanding on this point."

Mr. Adams emphasized the fact that Social Security account numbers are assigned upon application, regardless of the individual's age. "Therefore," he pointed out, "the assignment of a number of a young person under legal working age means only that a wage account has been set up for him under the old age insurance provisions under the Social Security Act. These accounts are maintained solely for use in determining the amount of old age insurance benefits to which the wage earner will be entitled; benefits are paid at age 65 or at death.

"When the child labor provisions of the new law go into effect it seems likely," Mr. Adams continued, "that a considerable number of young workers will be dropped from pay rolls. If so, there will naturally be a time gap in their wage accounts, since they will no longer be receiving wages in employment covered by the old-age insurance program. Accounts already set up for young workers will be maintained in the Accounting Operations Section of the Bureau of Old Age Insurance; but no wages will, of course be posted in such cases until the worker again obtains a job in covered employment—presumably after reaching the legal working age. Account numbers will, however, continue to be issued to applicants regardless of age; and if wage reports should be received in the names of young workers who have accounts, these will be recorded to their credit.

"The Bureau of Old-Age Insurance is in no way concerned with the administration of Federal or State laws relating to the employment of children," Mr. Adams emphasized. "But we do wish to emphasize, 'But we do wish to emphasize, and to make the meaning of account numbers perfectly clear. 'The records of the Bureau of Old-

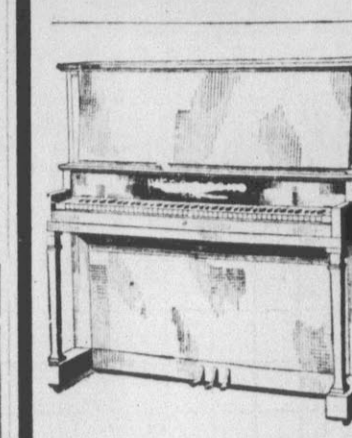

Age Insurance show that there is no State with a large number of children under 15 holding account cards. The number is highest in California, with 9,300, as of August 31st. This, however, represents only 3-10 of one per cent of the total account numbers issued in the State. Montana has the highest percentage—2.4—although its actual number of young account holders is only 3,200. Approximately 6,700 account numbers have been issued to persons under 16 in Texas, representing 1-2 of one per cent of the State's total; 6,600, or 6-10 of one per cent in Tennessee; and 3,800, or 1-10 of one per cent in South Carolina.

FIRE PREVENTION A YEAR 'ROUND JOB

Fire Prevention Week has come and gone but it will be a tragedy for the nation if we simply forget about it, as if it had never been.

So far as you are concerned, every week should be fire prevention week. You have learned of the importance of periodically repairing your heating plant—of the dangers inherent in improper storage of inflammables—of the hazards of accumulations of old newspapers, clothes and other stuff that should go to the junkman—of the chance you take when you amateurishly repair electric cords or put a penny behind a burned-out fuse.

Thousands of men gave their time to making Fire Prevention Week a success. Tens of thousands of dollars were spent—and the only hope of return is in the coinage of saved lives and property. All this was done in an attempt to protect you and your neighbors—to save your home from destruction, and your loved ones from the most horrible of deaths.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, Oct. 25—There's little chance of getting any work done in Raleigh this week, what with the Duke-Carolina game this coming Saturday.

If all the dope spilled here in the course of one day could be collected and captured, there'd be enough gas to keep all the world's dirigibles in the air for an indefinite period.

Carolina partisans protest that Wade's Blue Devils haven't beaten a really good team this year. Duke supporters point to the unsullied goal line of the Blue Devils.

Thad Eure, "The People's Secretary" of State, is a Carolina rooster and as ardent for the Heels as anyone in Raleigh. He is today around one of State Auditor Geo. Ross Fox's rabbit feet, a Lucky Tetter token, a Virginia Dare half dollar and a religious symbol of good luck. He vows he's going to put a thin dime in the sole of his left shoe Saturday. He thinks well of the Heels, but has been no end impressed by Duke's defensive record. Referring to the five games played by the Wade men he says:

"A minimum of 55 football players have been trying for at least five full hours, and not one of them has crossed that counting line yet. I'm scared."

Our nomination for the title of champion Tar Heel rooster—body, heart and soul—is Jimmy Massenburg, attorney for the State Industrial Commission, our correspondent intimated Monday that Carolina has looked "lousy" at times this season—and barely escaped with his life. Jimmy delivered three sermons, two Philippines and one general denunciation of all and sundry who don't believe that there is but one football team—and that at Chapel Hill.

This week there is no session of the Supreme court to hear oral arguments, but it must not be referred to as "rest week" for the Justices, who say they really work harder during the off periods than during those in which they sit and listen to oratory and precedent.

Gasoline tax collections for the current fiscal year continue to lead those during the same period last year. From July 1 through the middle of this month collections exceeded those of the same period in 1937 by more than a quarter million dollars.

Ronald Hocutt, director of the Highway Safety Division, went to Charlotte and Forest City the first of this week to deliver three addresses on the state's safety program, which has reduced fatalities more than 20 per cent so far this year.

"They started the Speaker's race so early this time, that interest in it has just about disappeared, with the legislative session still two months off," said one of the keenest political observers hereabout.

It's only two weeks until the November General Election, but political gossip is scarce here in Raleigh. Nobody seems particularly interested, aside from those actively engaged and employed in the campaign.

This corner knows one Carolina backer who will give you Duke and 13 points—but there's a catch in it. You'll have to give him 3 to 1 odds on that sort of a wager.

More than 200 night classes for textile workers are being conducted in North Carolina at the present time, according to M. L. Rhodes, assistant supervisor of Trade and Industrial Education, a division of the North Carolina State Employment Service.

This is the most extensive program of vocational training in textiles ever carried on in the state. Those who attend the classes in textile training may take courses in hand loom weaving, calculating, loom-fixing, designing and textile chemistry.

North Carolina's snap bean crop this year will be about the same as last—despite the fact that nearly double the acreage was planted. Unfavorable weather conditions are blamed by L. P. Watson, extension horticulturalist at State College.

As the Federal Wage-Hour law goes into effect today, a former North Carolina official, Major A. L. Fletcher, will really go to work.

DANGEROUS DELAYS

By C. W. Hynum, Bissette's Drug Store For no good reason at all many people who see and feel the unmistakable indications of bodily ills delay the visit to, or call of, the doctor. Perhaps they have what they consider a good and sufficient excuse and so they take a chance on the delay becoming a dangerous one.

When the cause of a pain may be located in any one or a dozen parts of the body, it is most unwise to presume to be able to accurately diagnose the symptom, then accurately medicate one's self.

In the meantime, the delay in securing the advice of an educated, medical practitioner, may be not only dangerous, but excessively costly.

That doctor will immediately prescribe the proper medicine and direct you to a druggist who will carefully compound his prescription.

35,000 TO SEE UNC-DUKE TILT

Arch Rivals To Meet At Chapel Hill Saturday P. M.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 24.—A capacity crowd of 35,000 will be on hand when Carolina and Duke line up here next Saturday for their annual gridiron battle.

Less than 1500 seats were available at the University Athletic offices here this morning, and there were not more than 500 on hand at Duke. George (Bo) Shepard, assistant athletic director, said.

Judging by the way they are going, there will be no tickets left by Thursday or Friday, and all may be gone before then. In which case there would be no seats available the day of the game, for there will be no general admission tickets and standing room will not be sold.

Saturday's game, as has been the case in the last several years, will determine both the State and Southern Conference championships.

The contest will mark the renewal of one of the oldest rivalries in Dixie. The Tar Heels and Blue Devils first met 50 years ago, and Duke (then Trinity) won 15-0. There was a period during which Trinity did not play football, and that's why the two institutions have met only 23 times on the gridiron. Carolina holds an edge in the series, but the two institutions have broken even in their last four games.

Last year the Tar Heels upset a favored Duke team 14-6 for the outstanding national achievement in football that day.

This year the majority of the sports writers are again giving the Blue Devils the nod. And naturally so. The Blue Devils have a perfect record of no losses and their goal line hasn't been crossed this season. Even Colgate, the team that beat Columbia 12-0, couldn't score against Duke, and the Devils beat Georgia Tech by the same margin as Notre Dame did. Last Saturday a fighting Wake Forest eleven held the Wademen to only one touchdown, and threatened to score themselves in the final quarter. This came nearest an upset against the Devils than any game this season.

And so, whether they like it or not, the Tar Heels will have to enter this year's contest in the role of underdog. But they have the satisfaction of knowing they will have everything to gain if they can lick the Devils. The Carolina players are not puffed up over their 34-0 victory over Davidson. They realize that the Wildcat team they played Saturday did not measure up to the traditional Davidson team in strength.

FINAL REPORT OF DRIVE FOR COLORED RECREATION CENTER

The drive for funds for the erection of the Colored Recreation Center was launched on the 22nd day of August and closed on the 22nd day of September. Since that time several reports have been made, which prevented a release of the results. Charles (Cookie) Davis, campaign manager, assisted by Mrs. Etma Mae Graves, secretary, wishes to express the gratitude and appreciation of the Colored Civic League for the fine spirit and cooperation manifested by both White and Colored citizens. No movement in any locality has had a more widespread cooperation from the city and county officials than our drive, and we are certain of results that will be felt through better health, happiness and citizenship.

The city was divided into seven zones and a fraternal and school group. The receipts and disbursements were:

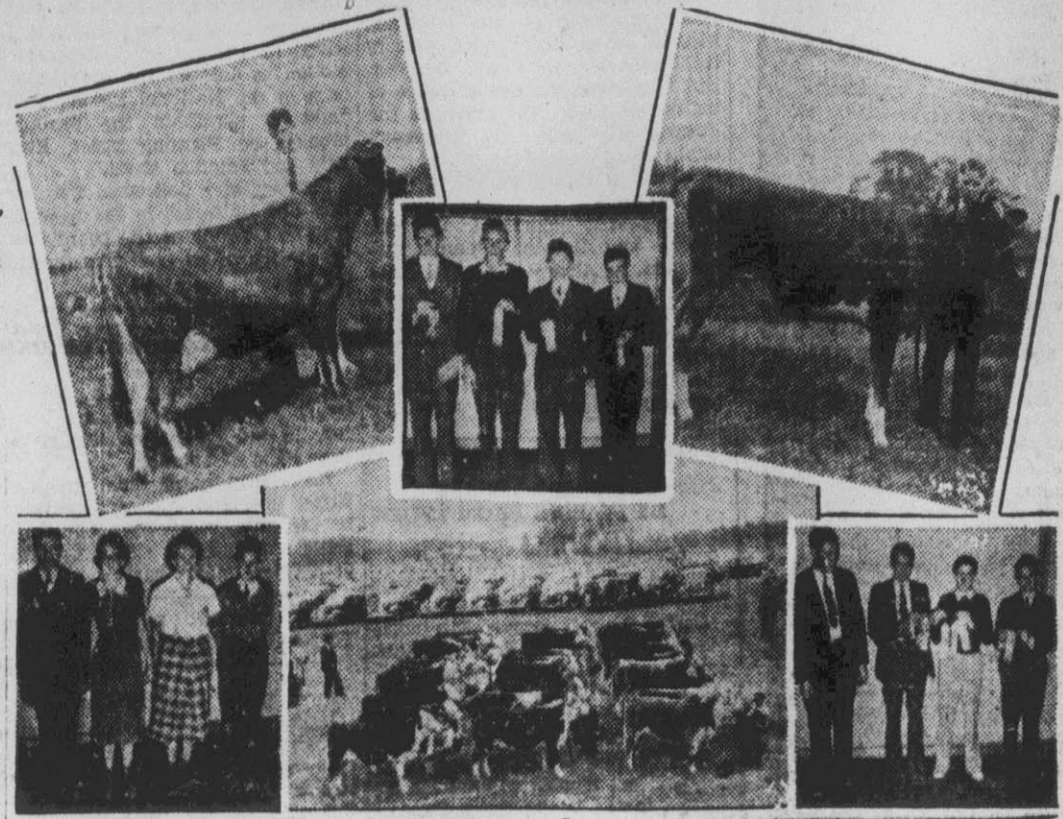

- Zone one, Mrs. Fannie P. Jackson, captain—collection $164.60.
  - Zone two, Miss Lena Bradley, captain—collection $67.30.
  - Zone three, Mrs. Bell Atkinson, captain—collection $222.17 (winner).
  - Zone four, Geo. Lee Jenkins, captain—collection $21.20.
  - Zone five, John H. Leary, captain—collection $8.15.
  - Zone six, Mrs. Annie Little, captain—collection $39.75.
  - Zone seven, Mrs. Lottie Belcher, captain—collection $45.85.
  - Graternal Group, W. D. Miller, captain—collection $39.25.
  - City Schools, C. M. Eppes, captain—collection $101.20.
  - County Schools, C. C. McElmore, Miss I. M. Donnell, captains—collection $65.00.
- Total collection, $775.07.
Disbursements—Programs, prizes, stationery, printing, postage, etc.—$40.50. Deposited in city school fund treasury—$500.00. Total $540.50.
Net cash balance—$234.57.

LOCALES	THINKERS	REMARKS
SHREVEPORT, LA.	Curtis Parker	To avoid intense heat, the coach of the Centenary college gridgers has his men report for practice at 6 a.m.
FORTY-FORT, PA.	School Authorities	Forty-Fort will have a new concrete stadium if its 1938 football team is good; but no stadium if the team is bad. This assures great interest and large crowds to fill the new stadium.
MARIETTA, O.	Frank L. Hayes	To allow the quarterback to do the quarterbacking, and to eliminate argument, this coach has his team huddle in three groups. In one are captain, quarter, and center. They decide play, inform others.
NOTRE DAME & WASHINGTON U.	Publicity Purveyors	They issued sheets showing how to pronounce names of men on their grid teams.
MICHIGAN	Fritz Crisler	Against Michigan State kicks, he played a 4-man line and a 7-man secondary.
DETROIT	Gus Dorais	He announced his team would abandon huddle on offense, use it on defense.

Highway Planning Group Completes List Of Towns

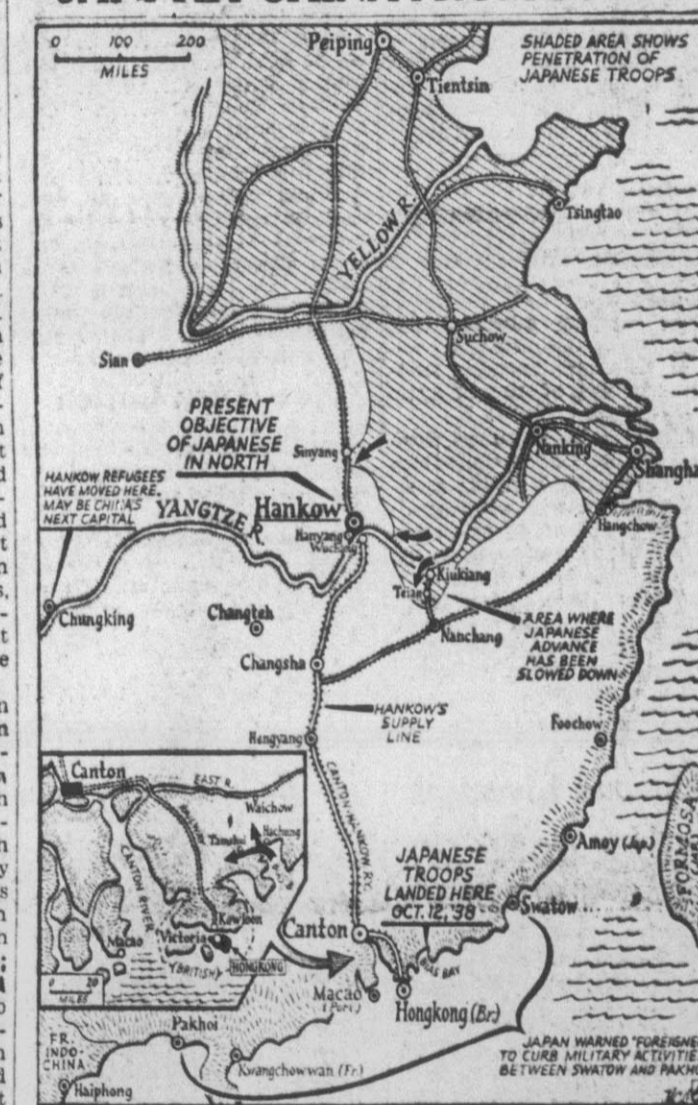

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 24.—The division of Statistics and Planning, State Highway Commission, has just completed compilation of the latest and most comprehensive list of North Carolina cities and towns in existence.

James S. Burch, engineer in charge of the division and director of the statewide highway planning survey, said today that it required more than a year's effort to obtain complete data on the 558 communities listed. The list contains, he said, all places in North Carolina of appreciable size and discoverable through processes of the survey.

The list stretches alphabetically from Abbottsburg to Zebulon, geographically from the Atlantic ocean to Tennessee, and in size from Sheldermine (population 38) in Pitt county to Charlotte (82,675) in Mecklenburg.

JAPS HIT CHINA FROM SOUTH

The European situation has dominated the headlines the last few weeks, but a lot's been happening in China, too. This map helps bring you to date. Biggest development has been the landing of Japanese troops in the south, with the subsequent drives against rich Canton and the vital railroad running to China's beleaguered temporary capital, Hankow. Hundreds of thousands of civilians have fled before the invaders. Note that the drives may affect British interests in and around Hongkong.

thence southwardly 44 feet to a stake; thence westwardly with the southern line of the Youngblood lot to Pitt Street, the BEGINNING.

This property is sold subject to the homestead allotment of defendants.

Also, the following personal property: 1 floor fan, 1 safe, 1 desk, chairs and table, 3 Singer sewing machines, 1 washing machine, 2 pressing machines, 1 tumbler, 1 extractor, 1-1936 Ford pick-up truck, 2-1937 Ford pick-up trucks, 1-1936 Ford sedan.

This personal property is sold subject to any outstanding liens thereon.

Asthma Sufferers Welcome this News

Those afflicted with bronchial asthma will be glad to learn that a local pharmacy is now offering, under a money-back guarantee, a doctor's prescription that has been in use for more than 25 years, with a record of unusual relief from bronchial asthma symptoms in thousands of cases.

LETTERS RECENTLY RECEIVED

The first from Lexington, Ky.—"In 1932 I was very ill with an attack of asthma. Finally, I purchased a bottle of your asthma remedy. I was somewhat relieved. After the purchase of the second bottle, which has now been five years, I have had no further trouble." Records show sufferer had been afflicted for 18 or 20 years.

The second letter comes from Kansas. "After taking almost two bottles, I haven't had asthma for about eight years. I have a friend who has a chronic case of asthma, and would like for you to get in touch with him." Records show sufferer had asthma for 23 years and had possibly spent a sum sufficient to buy 25 bottles of Dr. Fugate's Prescription.

PLAN DISPLAY SAFE DRIVING

Ohio Director to Conduct Demonstration Here Tomorrow

The statement "you can stop her on a dime" is frequently heard in connection with the modern automobile, but few folks know just how large the dime has to be," says Harry M. Pontious, Safety Director, Ohio Farm Bureau, Columbus, Ohio, who will conduct a driving demonstration at the High School on Wednesday under the auspices of Farm Bureau.

An address on safety will be delivered to the student body of the high school at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, to be followed immediately by the demonstration in front of the college. The general public is invited to hear the address, as well as witness the demonstration.

As a part of the Highway Safety program conducted by the Farm Bureau, Mr. Pontious has constructed a device for accurately measuring "the dime" in which a car can be stopped at various speeds.

This device, which will be used in the demonstration Wednesday, consists of two thirty-eight caliber revolvers loaded with yellow bullets mounted in a frame fastened on the front bumper of the car.

One gun is fired by a rope running up alongside the car, being pulled by the passenger. This is the signal to stop and the place where it was given is marked by the yellow marker bullet on the pavement. At the time this first gun is fired a red flag is released and appears above the radiator, so that the driver has a visual as well as an audible signal to stop.

The other gun is connected with the brake pedal and is fired when the brake is applied and makes a mark on the pavement where the brake is applied. The distance between these two marks is the reaction distance—which is the distance travelled while the driver reacts to the signal and gets his foot off the accelerator and on the brake.

From the second mark where the car stops is the braking distance or the distance required to stop the car after the brakes are applied. The total of the two distances is the stopping distance, or the size of the dime.

Mr. Pontious has conducted surveys covering a large number of people, which show that 7 out of 10 drivers have no accurate conception of the distances required to stop a car at the various speeds.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Further profit taking cooled some of the advancing tendencies in today's stock market but leaders, on the whole, offered plenty of resistance to selling.

Overnight buying orders taxed brokerage facilities before the opening and the ticker tape for a brief interval at the start fell behind. Gains ran to two or more points in favorite aircrafts, utilities, steels, motors, rails and specialties.

SNITE SITS UP IN NEW 'LUNG'

Far less cumbersome than the 900-pound "iron lung" in which he has been encased for more than two years is the new and comparatively light chest respirator of Fred B. Snite, Jr., noted victim of infantile paralysis. He is shown preparing to leave his home in Chicago to spend the winter in Miami in the new apparatus, which weighs only 9 1-2 pounds and permits him to sit up.

State Shows Increase In Consumption Of Gasoline

Raleigh, Oct. 25.—North Carolina motorists, including all types from pleasure seeker in tiny cars to professional drivers of huge petroleum trucks, travelled close to five billion miles during the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to figures on consumption of gasoline in the state.

Total used was 388,547,777 gallons, as compared with 369,231,169 for the preceding year. At an average of 12 miles per gallon for all types of motor vehicles (National Safety council figures) this represents a total of 4,662,453,252 miles travelled in North Carolina during the twelve month period.

The increased gasoline consumption over the previous year amounted to 20,306,602 gallons, which indicates an increase in travel mileage of 243,679,224 miles on the same 12-miles-per-gallon basis.

Revenue from the state's 6 cent a gallon and from the inspection tax of one-fourth cent per gallon increased $1,241,578.50 over the previous year. Total highway fund revenue for all sources including gasoline tax, automobile license fees, title fees and so forth amounted to $31,948 while the revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30 1937 reached $31,094,401. These figures do not include the revenue from the inspection fee collections, because this revenue in excess of inspection costs is turned into the state's general, not its highway, funds.

The highway revenue for these two years show that the State Highway and Public Works Commission was not taking a shot in the dark when it made budget requests for 1939-40 and 1940-41 of $30,254,814 and $36,645,728; as both these estimates are below the actual revenue for the preceding biennium.

The Commission, of course, counts on allocation of additional funds for construction or maintenance of roads, if revenues prove large enough to warrant them. Such additional allocations are possible under the law, and have been made more than once during the past few years.

Reflector Bureau. Events scheduled in North Carolina during the latter half of October, November and December, range from motorboat racing on the coast to deer hunting in the mountains, from golf tournaments in the Sandhills to field trials, football games and conventions a-plenty in the Piedmont.

True harbinger of the winter months in the foothills and wooded slopes of western North Carolina is the opening of the "shooting season"—the signal for guns to be oiled, boots to be limbered up, and dogs to be groomed for the field.

A new hunting season was officially ushered in October 20 with the opening of the season for wild boar. Deer and bear will be hunted until January 1. November 1 opens the season for bear hunting in the Pisgah National Forest. Nine different bear hunts will be conducted during the fall in protected areas, affording the big game hunters ample opportunity to pit their skill and ingenuity against the seven

SOUTH BEGINS CHECK EFFECT OF LABOR LAW

In Nashville, Horace Hill, capitalist, disclosed he was disposing of all out-of-state retail grocery establishments. He added, however, the wage-hour law was only one of many reasons for the move. In the future, Hill said, his company's chain store operations would be confined to Tennessee, where there are 125 units.

The peanut industry in Georgia, Florida and Alabama appeared unaffected. In Albany, Ga., J. B. Latimer, secretary of the Southeastern Peanut Association, predicted that "almost 100 per cent" compliance with the law and added he knew of no peanut shelling plant planning to close because of the wage-hour act.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE BY LEAPING FROM TRUCK

planned and the vehicle parked in preparation for the get-away.

Before the pair escaped this morning only one escapee from the Pitt county prison camp remained at large. He is Henry Melwood, sent up for two years for hit and run driving in Nash County.

One convict, Rancey Guinn, who escaped last month, voluntarily returned to the prison camp Sunday and gave himself up.

Raleigh, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The penal division reported today the escape of five convicts from Pitt and Rutherford county camps last night and this morning, making in all 21 still at large from breaks over the week-end.

Details were not immediately available, but two escaped from the Pitt camp today, three from Rutherford's last night.

Ten of 13 prisoners are still free following a Person county camp break yesterday and eight from an Anson get-away Sunday.

Later information was that the Rutherford escapees were: Charlie Tate, given 18 months in Rutherford for larceny; Garland Moody, serving two years for larceny in McDowell; and Earl Hardin, sentenced in McDowell to two years for assault on a female.

Lumberton officers notified the penal division during the day they had caught Arnold McHone, sentenced in Buncombe to seven to ten years for highway robbery, and William Alford, given 10 to 15 years in Guilford for robbery with firearms, who were among the 11 escapees from the Anson camp.

At Greenville it was understood the escapees there were Eugene Gray, 20, sentenced from Anson to two and a half to three years terms for breaking, entering, larceny and receiving and to 18 months for attempting to break jail; and Cheslie Thompson, 19, sentenced from Onslow to three to five years for larceny from the person.

hundred bears roaming the Pisgah slopes.

The biggest fall sporting event in western North Carolina is the annual Pisgah Forest deer hunt, held every year on the 100,000-acre Pisgah Game Preserve. Scheduled to begin November 7 this year, the Hunt will last almost a month, and will allow a total of 1,600 hunters to go into the preserve in quest of deer, both buck and doe.

Other hunting seasons opening during November and December in the State are duck, geese, jack-snipe, November 15; rabbits, November 24; quail, turkey and ruffed grouse, December 1.

During the week of October 23-30 Wilmington and Southport will be the center of activity among motor boat racing enthusiasts. An outboard marathon race, first of its kind ever held in North Carolina, will be run between the two towns. Motorboaters from up and down the coast will participate.

larger tobacco processors are turning, he said, to the machine to reduce costs of stemming.

Hedrick estimated there are about 20,000 to 30,000 stemmers working in the state, receiving about three cents a pound for stemming under a "piece meal" basis.
