PREDICT THAT BETTER TIMES FACE FARMERS

Better Business Seen By Bureau of Agriculture

REPORT MADE ON DEMAND, PRICE

Increase Predicted in Consumer Income Although Prices Not to Show Advance

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted today that business would be better for farmers and industrialists next year, but it said farm prices may not rise much.

The bureau, in an annual report on demand and prices for agricultural products, asserted general economic conditions in the United States, "are most favorable to recovery," even so, it added, prospects for next year were not quite so good as in 1937.

The bureau forecast domestic demand for products of the farm probably would be greater and farmers would use a greater volume of short term credit in 1939 than this year.

Cash farm income, the report added, should range next year between the $7,500,000,000 estimated for this year and the 1937 estimate of $8,600,000,000.

The bureau said an expected increase in consumer income should step up the demand for farm products and thus put more dollars into the farmers' pockets.

Ample credit will be available for farmers of good credit standing, the bureau said, noting that the Farm Credit Administration has an increased appropriation from which to make loans to farmers who can not obtain credit from customary sources.

The demand for farm mortgage credit is expected to continue small, the bureau said, explaining that the peak of the emergency refinancing demand resulting from the depression was over.

Commercial banks and life insurance companies were said to be lending more freely on farms than two years ago. The bureau said funds available from both federal and private agencies were abundant.

ARMED TROOPS SENT TO JAFFA

Jerusalem, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A battalion of British troops today was sent to Jaffa, largest purely Arab town in Palestine, in Britain's continuing intensive drive to quell Arab insurrection against her rule in the Holy Land.

With the ancient fort under a pall of smoke from a lumber yard blaze, believed to have been caused by incendiaries, officials had imposed a 24-hour curfew before the troops' arrival.

Soldiers immediately cordoned off the city and began systematic searches as the curfew came into effect.

On the governing board of trustees are T. L. Vaughn, Raleigh, elected president for one year; D. C. Fussell, Raleigh, secretary-treasurer; R. B. House, dean of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; John A. Park, Raleigh newspaperman and former Rotary district governor; State Auditor George Ross, Raleigh; State Senator Edwin C. Gregory, Salisbury; M. G. Mann and M. Lester.

The project, being partly financed by the PWA, includes a gymnasium, classrooms, vocational building and central heating plant. A total of $800,000 is available for the project.

Plan Open Bids On Farmville Project

The Pitt County Board of Education will meet here at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday for the purpose of opening bids on an $80,000 Farmville school project.

GENERAL FUND INCOME DROPS

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—(AP)—North Carolina general fund revenue collections during October dropped 23.73 per cent under the same month last year, but highway fund receipts went up 3.80 per cent, Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell reported today.

Maxwell explained that a difference of $600,000 in franchise tax receipts, representing a major part of the $689,061.89 decrease in general fund revenues "is due to the delay in completion of railroad assessment this year and this difference will be picked up in next month's collections.

The general fund took in $443,689, and the highway fund $2,340,431.78, compared with $2,265,470.74.

For four months of the fiscal year general fund receipts were down $1,092,672.49, or 15.69 per cent, and highway receipts were up $357,645.05 or 3.94 per cent.

LOCAL WOMAN PROJECT HEAD

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore Aids in Robin Hood Farms Program

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, of Greenville, has accepted the chairmanship for the Robin Hood Farms project, a planned innovation in vocational education that seeks to open farm schools for worthy but underprivileged North Carolina boys and girls to make them self-supporting through free training in practical farming and domestic science.

Announcement of Mrs. Moore's acceptance as a member of the state committee was made by Mrs. Edwin C. Gregory, of Salisbury, state organization chairman, who has appointed leading women in various parts of the state to assist with county campaigns in behalf of the education project.

For the first of these farms, a site has been procured near Pinehurst. Of its 2,275 acres, 700 have been cleared for intensive cultivation. Seventeen buildings already erected are suitable for use as dormitories and other structures of the institution. A barn there is said to be the most commodious in the state. The residence to be used as a girls' dormitory is unusually spacious and attractive. Boys and girls will be selected from every county in the state for admission.

The Fall Council of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs gave unanimous endorsement to the Robin Hood Farms, and it has also been endorsed by the North Carolina Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and commended to the North Carolina Society, Colonial Dames of America.

On the governing board of trustees are T. L. Vaughn, Raleigh, elected president for one year; D. C. Fussell, Raleigh, secretary-treasurer; R. B. FDR ASSUMES CONTROL OVER WAGE DISPUTE

Takes Personal Hand in Efforts For Settlement

CALLS MEETING AT WHITE HOUSE

No Indication Whether Railroads Will Agree to Withdraw Wage-Cut Order

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt took personal charge today of efforts to effect a peaceful settlement of the critical railroad wage dispute.

The Chief executive called representatives of rail management and labor to the White House to consider some long-range program to aid the carriers.

Of immediate importance, however, was the 15 per cent wage reduction ordered by the roads for December 1 and the threat of almost 1,000,000 rail workers to strike if the cut is carried out.

The President's emergency railroad investigating board recommended Saturday that the railroads withdraw their notices of reduction which would cut $250,000,000 annually from their payrolls.

Before the White House conference there was no indication whether the roads would accept the recommendation. A committee of the carrier executives was asked to meet during the day. It's chairman, H. A. Enoch, said the wage question probably would be turned back to the individual roads.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(AP)—John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said today President Roosevelt had promised him he would do everything possible to get a constructive program for rehabilitation of the carriers enacted into law.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope, Pelley said, that such a program would be drafted by the committee representing railroads and rail labor which the President named several months ago.

Pelley said the President had asked him to ascertain the attitude of the railroads toward the fact-finding board's report recommending cancellation of the proposed 15 per cent wage cut.

Pelley said he agreed to do so, adding that his "best guess" was that the management would hold a meeting in Chicago next week to outline their positions on the report.

Pelley said the President "feels quite hopeful that through this committee he will get recommendations that will result in a constructive program for the railroads."

The informal committee he referred to, now in Washington, considering the entire rail problem, was named by the President several months ago.

Negro Is Held After Assault with Shotgun

Wiley Rodman, Negro of the Blackhawk community, was lodged in jail Saturday night on a charge of assault with a shotgun. The Negro is alleged to have shot another Negro, the charge taking effect in the leg of the victim, whose name was not available.

Bond was set at $1,000 and, unable to provide it, the Negro is being retained in the lockup.

ROBBERIES AT THREE PLACES

Three Greenville business places were entered and robbed during the week-end and officers expressed the belief all three were broken into last night.

Cozart's filling station and store on Dickinson avenue was robbed of 300 pennies and five dollars in other change and bills. A $7 cash ticket also was taken, as was a tie.

J. J. Stauffer's jewelry store on Evans street was entered via a back window and two watches and six gold rings taken.

R. L. Humber's shop, back of the State bank, was robbed of two shotguns and a pistol. The shop was entered by a door on the Dickinson avenue side. The robber or robbers broke a hole in the door and unlocked it.

Local police officers were checking for possible clues, including finger prints, today, but so far had uncovered nothing upon which to base their investigation in any of the three robberies.

AND NO SUDDEN DEATH

The picture above and the one to the left show how J. D. Whitehurst of Stokes and a companion escaped serious injury or death early Saturday morning when the automobile he was driving reportedly ran into a ditch, turned end over end and landed in an unoccupied bedroom of a Negro's home on the edge of Winterville. Whitehurst received cuts about the head which required 10 stitches, but he was not critically injured. Whitehurst reported that a car he was meeting "hogged" the road and forced him to take to the ditch.

The accident was reported to have occurred around 3 o'clock Saturday morning. The Negro occupant of the house said he did not know what had happened, "whether the world was coming to an end or what."

McNinch To Investigate 'The War of The World'

Demands Electrical Transcription Of Radio Skit

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Thousands of terror-stricken radio listeners throughout the country fled from their homes last night when they tuned in on a series of synthetic news broadcasts which depicted the beginning of an inter-planetary war.

The stimulated news bullets which accompanied a CBS dramatization of H. G. Wells' fantasy "The War of the World," became so realistic that they sent a wave of mass hysteria across the continent. The broadcast was intended only as fiction.

Explanatory announcements during the program, between 8 and 9 p. m., were overlooked by thousands who were led to believe that a poison gas expedition had arrived from Mars and was spreading death and destruction over the New York metropolitan area.

Some apartment houses in New York were emptied hurriedly by frantic listeners to the program and by second and third hand accounts that multiplied the impending terror.

A woman in Pittsburgh tried suicide, saying "I would rather die this way than like that."

In Washington the Federal Communications Commission began an investigation of the broadcast.

Chairman Frank McNinch asked the Columbia Broadcasting system to furnish the commission with an electrical transcription. McNinch said "any broadcast that creates such general panic and fear as this one is reported to have done is, to say the least, regrettable."

Open Chest Drive Tuesday Morning

Sixty workers will be at the 8 a. m. breakfast of the Community Chest tomorrow morning to open their drive—November 1-4. Every person called gladly volunteered.

One lady with a sick child who could not volunteer, got two other people to go in her place since she realized the importance of the Community Chest.

This morning at their first official meeting the Service League gave enthusiastic endorsements to the Community Chest and furthermore volunteered the services of its complete membership to assist in the drive. The Chest was presented to them by Reverend William A. Ryan, director of the 1938 Campaign. "I am sure you can count on us to help in any way we can," said Mrs. R. C. Stokes, president of the newly organized Service League, at the conclusion of Mr. Ryan's presentation. A vote revealed she spoke the sentiments of the entire membership. Last night in his sermon at the Union Service of the Churches of Greenville, Reverend Clarence Patrick said among other things to Christians one must be one in action as well as in action and that "volunteering to help the Community Chest drive" is action which Christians should manifest.

Pledge cards for this year's Chest drive have come from the printer and are different from last year. The card indicates how each dollar donated will be used. Further their is provision for one to indicate that all one's contribution be utilized by some one of the agencies. This has been done, Mr. Ryan explained, in order that those who have preferences may indicate them. This morning each room of the High School was visited by a dele-

HEART TESTED AT EXECUTION

Action of Human Organ Pierced by Bullet Recorded

Salt Lake City, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A firing squad executed John W. Deering at dawn today in state prison while an electro-cardiograph recorded probably for the first time, the action of the human heart pierced by bullet.

Deering, who had sought in every way to speed his death and who participated willingly in the scientific experiment to determine how long his heart would beat after being struck, was calm to the end. He died for the hold-up murder of a Salt Lake City business man.

Electric wires were attached to Deering's wrist and carried to a delicate machine his last heart beat. Scientists began an immediate study of the record, but said it would be a number of hours before they could announce any findings.

CHINESE PORT APPEARS NEXT IN JAPS' PATH

Important Gateway Is Being Evacuated Under Pressure

JAPANESE RAIN BOMBS ON CITY

Wuchow, 90 Miles Of Canton, Important Terminus For Ocean-Going Ships

Canton, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The inland port of Wuchow, gateway to Kwangsi province, was being evacuated today under pressure of Japanese aerial bombardments, which were believed to be a prelude to a Japanese drive in that direction.

Wuchow, 90 miles west of Canton and terminus for ocean-going vessels on the west river, is a large trading center and distributing point for northern Kwangsi, southern Hunan and Kweichow provinces.

The Japanese also were driving northward from Canton. Chinese acknowledged the invaders had captured Kwangmoon, about 80 miles north of the fallen metropolis, but said 300 Japanese had been killed northeast of Tsungsa, about 50 miles from Canton.

Japanese war planes were ostensibly bombing Tsingyun, 45 miles north of Canton, and Yuyuan, 70 miles farther to the north. Chinese said 34 grade school pupils were killed at Yuyuan.

Large forces of Chinese peasant militia were reported to have been massed along the west and north rivers, definitely checking Japanese advance forces near Tsingyun. Foreign military observers, however, expressed the belief that the resistance still was irregular and disorganized.

Consider Nominee to Succeed Teague

Greensboro, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Members of the Sixth District Democratic Executive Committee met here today to name a successor to the late Lewis Teague of High Point, the district's unopposed congressional nominee.

Teague's sudden death Thursday left the district without a nominee in the November 8 elections.

Five names were presented to the committee. They were Capus M. Wainwright of High Point, newspaper editor and former chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission; Oscar Baizer of Durham, whom Teague defeated in the July 2 run-off primary; Edney Ridge and George Penny, both of Greensboro, who were eliminated in the first primary; and Bryce Holt of Greensboro.

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, October 30.

The Golden Text was from Micah 7:8. "Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light unto me."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man: But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin; and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." (James 1:13-15)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "The belief of sin, which has grown terrible in strength and influence, is an unconscious error in the beginning—an embryonic thought without motive; but afterwards it governs the so-called man. Passion, depraved appetites, dishonesty, envy, hatred, revenge ripen into action, only to pass from shame and woe to their final punishment." (Page 188).

Talks on "The Bible"
R. C. Deal, of the College faculty, gave a most interesting talk on "The Bible" at the YWCA vesper services at the College Sunday evening, October 30.

"I wonder if you thought today how many people were hearing passages read from this book," began Mr. Deal. "No other book ever printed, or ever written, has been translated into as many languages or read by as many people as the Bible."

There are sixty-six books in the Old Testament, written laboriously in Hebrew by the Jews, and thirty-nine in the New Testament, written in Greek. We have no idea of the exact age of the book.

It is made up of law, history, prose narratives, poetry, biography, and letters. We learn of war, disease, people punished, and people rewarded, in the Old Testament.

Of all the books of the Bible, said the speaker, Psalms is the most interesting. The individual psalms were contributed by Solomon, David, Asaph and some of his sons. Under Asaph's direction his sons collected these psalms, which were then sung at the religious services of the Jews. Perhaps the twenty-third Psalm is memorized by more people than any other poem known.

Mr. Deal described one of the most interesting editions of the Bible, the Polyglot Bible, or Bible in many tongues. It was a translation from the Hebrew into the Greek, and was published during the time of Oliver Cromwell.

"It is almost impossible to realize that people have been crucified, that women have been boiled in oil for teaching what this Bible says," commented Mr. Deal.

Yet it has been a greater source of consolation to men and women in distress than any other book known. "It has controlled and directed more thinking than all other books put together," concluded the speaker.

A vocal solo, "I Sought My Lord," was sung by Miss Irene Michah.

PLAN UNIFORM HIGHWAY LAWS

Safety Division Head Studies Proposed Amendments

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Oct. 29—Ronald Hocutt, director of the Highway Safety Division, is giving careful study to proposed amendments to North Carolina's Motor Vehicle Law, chief among which is establishment of maximum speed limits on all parts of the state's highway system.

He has not definitely committed himself to any speed limit, but he has expressed the opinion that excessive speed is one of the chief accident causes. His department chief, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell, has on several occasions favored some maximum, although he has never committed himself to any particular figure.

The amendments which Director Hocutt is studying are those recommended by a committee from the National Motor Vehicle Administrators Association—a group which met recently in Washington and studied at length proposals to revise the so-called Uniform Motor Vehicle Law, of which North Carolina's statute is virtually a copy.

Outstanding in the committee's recommendations is one that an absolute maximum speed of not more than 45 miles per hour be set on all night driving. While Mr. Hocutt has not said he favors such a limit in North Carolina he indicated an inclination to that point of view by pointing out that excessive speed is particularly dangerous when the driver's view is limited by darkness or weather conditions which impair full visibility up to 500 feet.

The committee recommended a daytime speed maximum of 50 miles per hour, but modified it with the statement that in certain cases, where road construction is of the highest type, a higher rate might be made permissible.

OPEN CHEST DRIVE TUESDAY MORNING

(Continued from page one) gation of Boy Scouts to sprig the news among the High School students that the Chest Drive will start tomorrow. Mr. Ryan said he wanted everyone to participate in the drive because it is Greenville's Chest and those not participating cannot feel that it is their's. Many cannot give large donations but everyone can give something. Everyone this year will be ready to give more than last year because, Mr. Ryan declared, the Chest has enlarged its program to include direct emergency relief due to popular demand.

Mr. Ryan, said he could not help but remark on the enthusiastic and spontaneous response from every side this year as he lines up his organization to put over the drive. He said he is certain that Greenville prefers this Chest idea over the old multiplicity of solicitations and locally drawn budgets.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters
Kathleen Gregory goes West to secure a right-of-way, from MacDonald, and falls in love with him.
Donald MacDonald hates the Gregorys.
Bridget, Kathleen's companion.

Yest rday: Kit-Smyth holds The Golden Girl with armed men, demands right-of-way before rescue can proceed. Kathleen defies him, and takes charge.

Chapter 28

Fury

KATHLEEN smiled at the miners' wives. "I promised Balmly I'd be seeing him in a day or two," she told them. "He had me promise that just before he went down. He said he knew he would get through. You know what it means when Balmly says he knows?"

"Ay!" The word was a sibilant whisper which swept out into the night: a whisper of hope.

"You'll have to help me. Our men need food. It's up to us to prepare it for them. I'd like the MacDonald women to stay here while the Gregory women go to Neutrality to buy the food. The hotels will roast the meat and bake the bread. We'll need pots and kettles for coffee and soup. We'll need fires and tables and dishes, and we'll need beds where they can rest between shifts."

"Our children?" Kathleen thought of Bridget and the big house. "We'll turn the Gregory house into a nursery. Miss Bridget and the school teacher will take charge."

She paused and looked at them again. Something had changed. They no longer stood in a huddled crowd. Coats and shawls which had been pulled over their heads had been dropped to their shoulders. It was as though they had discarded mourning. The eyes were no longer stricken with fear they were burning with intense fervor, wide with hope and deep with the longing for action.

The hours passed. Kathleen worked tirelessly. Joey wide-eyed brought a note from Bridget and she left the hum of the commissary to read it. With no seeming volition on her part she went to the mouth of the mine, perched on a pile of timber waiting to be carried below as soon as the way was clear.

The first crew had come up earlier, appeared at the commissary, faces black with powder grim with the risk they had taken. The muckers were down now clearing away the rock that had been blasted making way for further charges.

Overhead the cables hummed, nearby the engines thrummed steadily, pumping air to the rescuers, sweeping away the fumes of powder and rock dust and gas and on the far side of the platform the next crew waited, a ghostly gathering in their yellow slickers and the snome-like padding of drill coats.

Kathleen opened the note. Hurry for a girl of pure gold. I'm proud to even know you.

The children bless them, are all in need, the little ones.

Note, as you suggested I'm off to The Stubbard Boy to feed the other crowd. As a future MacDonald, I must do my stuff.

Joey, give me a bird's eye view of the big scene. Seriously, it was splendid, courageous work. I knew you had it in you.

But what has happened to Donald? I'm not accustomed to having men walk out on me like that.

See you later, love.

Bridget

What had happened to Donald? What had caused him to walk out on his fiancée the very evening they were celebrating their engagement?

"Brass"

THERE was only pain in that thought and Kathleen felt her heart beat pain enough with its burden of worry over Old Balmly. She'd wonder instead what had happened to Kit-Smyth. What if he had gone into Carsted to wire her father?

Kathleen's heart arose in a lump turned over and settled down. Power of attorney had been given her only for use in obtaining the right-of-way and she had ridden roughshod over Kit-Smyth's insistence that they bargain.

She a girl of twenty-three had crushed the barrier of nearly a century when she led those men over The Golden Girl fence. She had defied a man twice her age one whom her father trusted.

"But Dad would have done no different," she protested. Then her chin came up. "And if he would, I'd only be glad I'd had the opportunity to handle things first."

A skin rattled to the surface and the first casualty was carried out. "Aw, it's nothin'," he protested when Kathleen rushed to him. "Just a hunk a rock hit me when I wasn't lookin'."

Kathleen went on to the hospital with him. The injury wasn't serious, but it would keep him out of the rescue crews.

Returning to her post, Kathleen did some serious thinking. She had ordered the rescue of fifty odd men at the risk of hundreds of men's lives. It was a large responsibility. Too large. She was tired. She'd been tired when she had left the Gregory house... was it only last evening? She looked at her watch. Four o'clock. Ten hours ago she had sat across the table from Old Balmly.

Her eyes filled with tears. Through the blur she saw the headlights of a car. Probably someone coming from Neutrality with supplies.

But no, surely no one would come at such a speed unless they were bringing news of some kind. She looked back towards the mine, it seemed deserted. The fresh crew of muckers had gone down while she was at the hospital; the others were in the commissary; still others, waiting to be called, were sleeping, gathering strength for their ordeal.

The car raced on, then came to a slithering stop.

From it stepped Donald MacDonald. His face was chalk-white, his eyes immense and blazing with a contempt she had never before seen in anyone's eyes.

He saw her and with his lithe panther-like step came up to her. For a moment he scanned her from the tips of her toes to the top of her tousled head.

"The Golden Girl!" he spat. "Golden brass is the word Hervey are!"

He thrust a folded paper at her. "Here's what you came after! You were going to barter your beauty for it. Instead you're bartering the lives of men I'm telling you this. You're not getting this right-of-way because you've done anything to win it! You're getting it because the little finger of any one of those men down there is worth a thousand women like you."

"Plated Tin"

THE paper fell between them. Kathleen looked down at it. In a moment she would be able to think to reason. In a moment this queer num'd feeling would leave her. Meanwhile some place behind the frozen immobility of her conscious mind something told her to take it. This right-of-way was what she had come after. She had been willing to barter her beauty for it. She had said there was nothing she wouldn't stoop to do to triumph over this man.

And what a victory this would give her. She would accept the symbol of success, seal the bargain and only then let him know he had given it needlessly.

"There's a clause in there allowing me use of the mine property," MacDonald told her.

He stride away to the office. Stiffly Kathleen knelt to pick up the contract. She felt she hadn't strength to arise again. Palm of her hand flat to the earth she braced herself and then she recoiled from the touch of the earth. Down under the surface, two thousand feet down, Old Balmly was waiting for her to carry out her promise. Slowly, Kathleen felt toward MacDonald.

He was shouting into the telephone when she reached the door. Kathleen could hear the hollow tones of the operator.

"This is a private company, we have no connection with the MacDonald trunk line."

"Then damn it all, get hold of Old Balmly; get me some Gregory miners. I'll pay them anything."

Kathleen stooped up to the desk. "That's necessary," she observed lifelessly.

"Every able-bodied man in Neutrality, MacDonald and Gregory are working on the rescue. Crews have been busting through to your level from The Golden Girl since early last night. They were below within an hour of the discovery of the fire."

Her voice had a peculiar toneless quality now it deepened. "As for this—" she held out the contract and with swift motion tore it in half, rent the sections, pulled the small pieces to bits and with a final burst of fury threw them into the face of Donald MacDonald.

"The Gregorys do not bargain in human lives. They are not like you, Donald MacDonald. You would put five hundred miners of their livelihood because you're too bigoted to give a right-of-way which would mean work and bread to them. Old Balmly could have forced your hand. But he believed in prayer. He believed your heart could be softened and the right-of-way won in harmony. For the first time I doubt the power of Balmly's prayers. He was praying when he went down, your wish shift to carry an air-line to your miners; a Gregory to save MacDonalds. But if his prayers have no more effect on his piercing that fire hole than they had on your heart, then God pity all of us. He believed in you and loved you. I believed in you and I loved you. Now I don't ever want to see you again. Brass, am I? Well, if I'm brass, Donald MacDonald, you're plated tin!"

She wheeled through the door. "Close."

She turned back once. "The name is Kathleen Gregory—Gregory, you understand."

A GOOD SIGN

The few serious highway accidents Saturday despite the record crowd that attended the Duke-Carolina game, is an indication that the highway patrolmen did a good job in handling the traffic and that motorists as a rule realized the necessity for unusual caution under such congested conditions. After all, safety on our highways is dependent on the human element and it is to be hoped that the good record of Saturday is an indication that our people are becoming more safety-minded.

LET'S CELEBRATE WITHOUT MISBEHAVIOR

Now that provision has been made for the children of the city to enjoy themselves in a real Halloween celebration in the form of a street dance, parade, etc., it is to be hoped that parents will see to it that their children do not get into mischief en route to and from the celebration. While last year's celebration here did a lot to cut down the usual destruction of property about the city, there was still some misbehavior on the part of the celebrants on their way to and from the downtown area where the official celebration was held.

This plan of downtown celebration on Halloween was inaugurated last year to give the children of the city a real opportunity to celebrate the occasion without getting into trouble, and it is to be hoped that the parents will co-operate in the movement by warning their children against doing those things that will encroach upon the rights of others.

Everyone wants the children to have a good time, but the breaking of milk bottles and other destruction of property does not come under the heading of having a good time and such pranks will not be tolerated by the local authorities.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 1.—The North Carolina Employment Service has branched out into a new field in which there has been a long-felt want among sportsmen to whom North Carolina offers a great variety of opportunities both for hunting and for fishing.

Heretofore there has been an organized plan to secure information as to the availability of competent guides. Now, however, local employment offices are taking a census of men engaged in guide work and are making a concerted effort to have such men register with the Service. Men who register as guides are required to explain their qualifications, length of time they have been engaged in the work, and the number of boats or hunting dogs they own. Information accumulated in the survey will be made available to sportsmen who are planning hunting and fishing trips.

The survey is being publicized in sports magazines of national circulation. Inquiries from within the state should be directed to the nearest employment office; out-of-the-state communications should be sent to the State Director of the Employment Service.

In its Oxford convention, the State Grange did not overlook the discriminatory rail rates from which the South has been suffering for years.

In his report and address, State Master Harry B. Caldwell said: "Southern farmers have been penalized too long by a discriminatory rate. The unfair treatment should be corrected. It is not fair to brand us as Economic Problem No. 1 and then refuse to give us a square deal in the matter of freight rates with other sections."

Raleigh's population Saturday afternoon was made up almost exclusively of those who tried to get tickets for the Duke-Carolina game and couldn't make collections. The others, men, women and children, bag and baggage, were in the stands at Chapel Hill.

"There ought to be some legislation at the 1939 session clearing up the extent to which municipalities can engage in the power business," said Stanley Winborne, Utilities Commissioner. "The recent Supreme Court decision in the High Point case seemingly limits them to sales outside their limits which are purely 'incidental.' The municipalities probably should have greater rights than that."

Democrats continue to indicate fear that the Eighth District may be lost to them and that John R. Jones, G.O.P. hope from Wilkes county, may slip into Congress; but a careful analysis of previous Congressional campaigns makes such a consummation extremely unlikely.

In 1928, aided by flaming religious prejudice against Al Smith, the Republicans still lacked more than 2,000 votes when W. C. Hammer beat A. I. Ferree 1,124 to 39,105; and at that time Randolph was in the district and aided the G.O.P. with a majority of 1,203, leaving the Republicans some 3,200 behind in the rest of the district.

If they couldn't do any better than that in such a year as '28, it seems foolish to think they can elect Jones this year, particularly when the vote of two years ago (54,846 to 36,699) is recalled.

All reports from the Ninth and Tenth districts, where the Republican candidates have come out for some sort of funny money Old Age pension plan, indicate that neither Bob Doughton, nor Major A. L. Bulwinkle is in the slightest danger of an upset.

Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book T-21, page 577, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured, the undersigned will offer for sale, for cash, at public auction, before the Court House door in Pitt county, North Carolina, at 12:00 o'clock, Noon, on Monday, November 21, 1938.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold
That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements found in many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote nicely blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside.
Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion "tops" for coughs because in it you get a good dose of Creosote emulsified so that it is palatable, and may be taken frequently by both adults and children with remarkable results.
Creomulsion is generally found satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritation, especially those stubborn ones due to common colds that hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Don't worry through another sleepless night—use Creomulsion. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained.
Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product, and the relief you want. (Adv.)

GREENIES WIN TOUGH BATTLE

Phantoms Score Only Touchdown For 7 to 0 Victory

In a hard-fought battle at Kinston last Friday, the Green Phantoms of G. H. S., won a well-earned victory over the Kinston Red Devils, by the score of 7-0.

The game was very closely contested for three periods and it wasn't until midway in the fourth quarter that George Tyndall, on a reverse, sliced off right tackle and crossed the goal line untouched.

Marvin Stocks, star fullback, then place-kicked the extra point, making the score 7-0.

The Kinston team put up a stubborn defense but never really threatened the Greenie goal. Only once in the second quarter, did the Red Devils penetrate very deep into the Phantom territory as a result of an interception of a Greenie pass. This placed the ball on the G. H. S. 30 yard line, but the Greenie line stiffened and held the Devils in check. This was the only time that Kinston really threatened to score.

The Phantom forward wall, as in previous games, was practically impenetrable and it was on very few occasions that Kinston made a substantial gain through the Greenie line.

Captain Waylan Tucker, John Vincent, and Edgar Gibson featured on the line and Earl Kittrell, Claude Hardy and Larry James also played a bang-up game. In the backfield Ford McGowan, George Tyndall, and J. B. Kittrell were the main performers. Marvin Stocks at the fullback post, also played a good game. Polly Williams played a fine game at center.

The Greenie aerial defense was very much improved and the Greenies also offered a better offense by the air than in previous contests. Passes led to the only Greenie touchdown of the game. The tackling of the Greenies as a whole was a bit off color as the Kinston backs often eluded several GHS tacklers after they had caught him. The blocking was good although it was poor in some plays.

Friday's victory was the third win of the year for the G-men against one loss and one tie. The loss came at the hands of the undefeated gridlers of Roanoke Rapids, 6-0, and the locals were tied by Rich Square, 0-0.

The Greenies have resumed their daily practices and are busy polishing up their mistakes of Friday's tilt. On Friday of this week the team will be host to the Ayden high school eleven at the Third Street Stadium. The Aydenites have a small, but scrappy contingent and is expected to put up a stubborn battle for the locals.

FUNDS SOUGHT BY SEN. BAILEY

'Every Possible' Penny to be Worked for By Solon

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Senator Josiah W. Bailey is preparing to work actively to secure "every possible penny" of Federal funds for North Carolina, the senator told your correspondent in announcing that he will really go to bat to secure approval of Wilmington's application for PWA loan and grant of $1,600,000 for construction of publicly owned terminals for the City-by-the-Sea.

"I didn't vote for expenditure of this money, but I do not feel inconsistent in asking for every penny it is possible to get for worthy North Carolina projects," he said.

"Suppose you took ten dollars away from me against my will," he added. "I'd be a fool not to try to get some or all of it back."

"That's the way with these WPA funds. We are going to have to pay back our share of Federal expenditures, so we ought to get our share of them while they're being spent."

He heartily endorsed the Wilmington port project, declaring that it would be of benefit not only to that city but to the state in general.

"There's no doubt you people can get the business if you have the facilities to handle it," he told Mayor Thomas E. Cooper, City Commissioner J. E. L. Wade and State Senator-to-be Emmett Bellamy, who composed a Wilmington delegation that came here to enlist the support of the Senator and of Governor Clyde R. Hoey.

The Governor also promised the Wilmingtonians he will do what he can to help.

The New Hanover trial pointed out that the port project is really a realization of the Cameron Morrison dream of a state port—a dream which was shattered some decades ago when voters of the state defeated a proposed state port.

TALKS HERALD FUNDS BATTLE

Scott and Schaub Reveal Aims to Seek More Money

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Speeches of Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott and State College Dean I. O. Schaub before the state Grange convention at Oxford forecast a battle royal in the 1939 legislature for agricultural appropriations.

Scott, continuing his drive for a better marketing program, reiterated his intention to seek funds for that purpose. Schaub, as head of the research and experimental division, announced he will seek $80,000 in increased funds for that sort of agricultural work.

What with every other division of every other department trying to pry the state house from more money, this means that it's going to be a question of every man for himself when the appropriating time comes.

It also means that in all likelihood the Messrs. Scott and Schaub will be found during the legislature doing a bit of battling each other—something which, incidentally, will be nothing new for them, as they have been more or less at loggerheads over something or other ever since the Alamance man took over the Department of Agriculture.

Both are very determined men and it ought to be a scrap worth watching. Of course, there is the possibility that the two may get together and each do some back scratching for the other's pet plan, but that wouldn't be characteristic. Jealousy between the State Extension Service and the Department has existed in virulent form for a long time. It can be seen even in their press releases, which are often marked by sly, though often somewhat obscure, to the uninitiated, digs at the other's functions and pretensions.

As a side show, it's safe to predict that the Grange will back Scott while the Farm Bureau Federation will volley and thunder for Schaub.

This property is sold subject to the homestead allotment of defendants.

A.F. OF L. HEAD WELL PLEASED

Satisfied with Early Working of Wage-Hour Act

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 29.—C. A. Fisk president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, is satisfied with the early workings of the Federal Wage Hour law in North Carolina, though he confesses it has been in effect so short a time as to make final judgment not somewhat premature.

"So far as I have been able to observe, the first week of the Wage Hour laws existence has found it working well all over North Carolina," he told your correspondent.

He pointed out, however, that it has hitherto affected no more than a comparatively small percentage of all workers in the state, as most of the textile and other industries plan to work already paying more than the wage minimums and were not working above the hour maximums.

"There are thousands of workers in North Carolina who wish they did come under the new law," he continued, pointing out that the Federation will continue to press for a state wage-hour law comparable to the Federal statute which has just gone into effect.

Major A. L. Fletcher, former North Carolina Labor Commissioner, some months ago announced that his department would co-operate with the Federation in a legislative campaign for a state wage-hour act.

Mr. Fink said that the Federation is well pleased with appointment of Forst H. Shuford to succeed Major Fletcher, who moved up to the very important post of enforcement head for the Federal act.

The state Federation head praised co-operation of Mr. Shuford since his promotion.

Mr. Fink, who is a railroad employee with his home in Spencer, declined to comment on the rail wage controversy.

He said relations between labor and employers in North Carolina are very good at the present.

CHINA STILL HAS A WAY OUT

(By The AP Feature Service) If Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek really means to continue bucking the Japanese (after losing rich Canton and strategic Hankow in one week), he still has a chance to get the supplies vital to resistance. For ancient, well-travelled caravan trails lead to Russia and India, and one railroad to French Indo-China. Only one-fourth of China has been lost to Japan, but that one-fourth has one-half the population, the rich seaports, fertile valleys, virtually all the factories and mills, and many of the mines. China's China is provisional capital now. Cheeking, has a population of 200,000,000, some 3,000,000 soldiers; large agricultural and grazing areas and rich mineral deposits. Tibet, Sinkiang and Mongolia are independent of China proper.

Cooperative State REA Gets Little Cooperation

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—There is more than a little head scratching going on around Raleigh in an effort to solve the weighty problem of why the electrical cooperatives of the state so signally failed to show the slightest cooperation with an obviously cooperative-minded State Rural Electrification Authority.

Recently Director Dudley Bagley and Secretary D. S. Weaver got in touch with all the half dozen groups over the state on the subject of holding a get-together session in Raleigh at which mutual problems could be discussed, information and advice swapped. Date was set for the session—a date presumably satisfactory to all concerned.

When the time came just one of the six had a representative here. Three didn't even take the trouble to write explaining why they didn't attend.

All of which recalls that the State REA and the Federal REA haven't been in any too close reprobation (caboots to you), largely because the Federal body took bustling exception to the Bagley policy of cooperating with everybody—private utilities, municipalities and cooperatives—a policy which has resulted in putting North Carolina in the front rank in advancing rural electrification.

There is in some circles an inclination to believe that the Feds had something to do with the absent treatment given the proposed cooperative Co-op session.

At all events it is a fact that Boyd Fisher, one of the big shots of Federal REA came into Raleigh a couple of weeks ago, saw Governor Clyde R. Hoey and, among others, Dean I. O. Schaub of State College, without so much as marking the door of the State REA office.

You can put two and two together and see what it makes.

BRAND DEATHS AS 'USELESS'

At Least 85 Lives Lost By Preventable Diseases

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 25.—During the first nine months of this year, at least 85 deaths in North Carolina were "useless" and "completely preventable" in the opinion of Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer.

The sacrificed 85 were children who died of diphtheria, which is a practically one hundred per cent preventable disease if immunization is given during the first school year. Dr. Reynolds recently pointed out in a warning to people of the state.

In all there were 25,291 deaths in the state through September, 31 more than in the corresponding period of 1937.

On the other hand there was a decline in births for the first nine months of the year, with 59,635

New York, Oct. 31.—(AP)—An early, but brief burst of selling derelict carrier stocks in today's market.

Encouraging to recovery forces, however, was the fact that initial declines running to two points were soon substantially reduced and many pivotal industrials were able to register modest advances.

Loadings showed appreciably after the opening slide and near the fourth hour trends were no worse than moderately mixed.

Offerings in the carriers follows Saturday's decision of the President fact finding commission against the railroad demands for a 15 per cent cut.

Railroad bonds, soft at the start, did better eventually. Foreign securities markets were irregular with American stocks in supply.

CASE OF NEGRO NOT SO SIMPLE

Plenty of Reason To Believe Woman Influenced

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 31.—The fact that his prosecutrix says "Charlie Smith is innocent. I admit I have made a mistake" doesn't at all settle the case of the Columbus county negro, one sentenced to death for criminal assault and now serving a life sentence as the result of executive clemency.

From Parole Commissioner Gill comes the promise of "a thorough investigation" to be made "in cooperation" with District Solicitor J. J. Burney. Nothing in the commissioner's conversation indicates that he has reached any conclusion that horrible miscarriage of justice has occurred in North Carolina. On the contrary there seems just as much reason to believe now that a rather weak-willed, and perhaps minded, woman has been over-persuaded into changing her story.

Of the son's testimony, Solicitor Burney told her correspondent: "I have never heard a more convincing story from the witness stand. That youngster was cross-examined on every phase of his story, and never wavered in the face of the most vigorous efforts of defense lawyers."

All reports indicate that Mrs. Britt is not too strong of will or mind. She first showed indications of weakening in her original story when commutation of Smith's sentence was being considered. Then she admitted the possibility that she might have been mistaken.

When queried by representatives of the State as to her reasons for changing she is reliably reported to have said, "They (defense representatives) came to me and told me God would bless me if I'd help save him from death."

In Columbus, where the crime was committed and where Smith was convicted, there is sharp divergence of opinion regarding the case. The Negro's life was saved and there is now the possibility he will be pardoned because he has had powerful forces working in his behalf.

On the other hand there is a very deep and abiding conviction on the part of many other that Smith is as guilty as sin. From this side force and all traffic in and out of the city ceased.

Jaffa, with a population of about 50,000, has been in turmoil for more than two months and at least 500 Arab insurgents are believed to have made their quarters there.

Banks, fort officials, the railroad station and the freight depot have been robbed.

British officials expected this drive would restore order as in the case of the old city of Jerusalem. Bethlehem and other towns which have been occupied by troops.

HEART TESTED AT EXECUTION

(Continued from page one) Convinced that there was no place in society for him after half his life-time had been spent in prison, Deering had demanded that the state take his life.

This he sought to make restitution by giving his body to the University of Utah. He willed his eyes to the state that any blind person might obtain the corneas for transplanting to restore sight. No one has asked for them.

There are strong suggestions that the prosecutrix should now be indicted for perjury.

Solicitor Burney, likewise, had little to say for publication but it is simply clear from what he did say and from what he refrained from saying, that he believes Smith is guilty as charged and as convicted.

Harking back to the trial of Smith, it is recalled that the evidence was clear, cogent and convincing. A very short while after the attack, rs. Sarah Lyles Britt, the prosecutrix, described her assailant. She told how she had hit the Negro on the head with a hatch et, cutting him. A very short while after this, Smith was caught. He answered the description in every respect and he was bleeding from a cut on the head which gave every indication of having been inflicted with a hatchet.

The Negro was positively identified both by the prosecutrix and by her young son, who was present when the attack was committed and who was injured in the resultant affray.

When queried by representatives of the State as to her reasons for changing she is reliably reported to have said, "They (defense representatives) came to me and told me God would bless me if I'd help save him from death."
