NEW STRENGTH ADDED BY FOES OF ROOSEVELT

Republican Gains Indicate More New Deal Opposition

DEMOCRATS YET HOLD MAJORITIES

New Congress Also to Include Few Democrats Opposed by FDR in Primaries

Washington, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Republican gains in senate and house furnished a strong indication today of stiffer opposition to administration proposals during the next Congress.

Although insufficient to overturn the Democratic majorities in both chambers, the additional Republican strength will give new strength to the coalition of Republicans and anti-Roosevelt Democrats which fought many of the White House recommendations in the last two years.

The 1939-40 Congress will include several men who Mr. Roosevelt sought to defeat in Democratic primaries. The opinion was general among capital politicians that this group will intensify its battles against New Deal legislation.

Administration supporters were cheered, however, by the victory of James Fay, New York Democrat, over Chairman John O'Connor of the House Rules committee.

Meanwhile, Senator Alben W. Barkley, winning handily over his Republican opponent in Kentucky, appeared almost certain to retain his post as the senate Democratic leader.

Young Dunn Wife Dies From Poison

Mrs. Leonard Allred, 24, Succumbs in Fayetteville Hospital From Poison Taken Internally

Fayetteville, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A woman named in Pittman hospital records as Mrs. Leonard Allred, 24, of Dunn, died today shortly after being admitted. Physicians said the cause of death was effects of a poison, taken internally.

Dunn, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Leonard Allred, who died in a Fayetteville hospital today, was the wife of Leonard Allred, who is a tinner here.

Mrs. Allred was rushed to a hospital by attaches of a funeral home, who said they were told she had taken poison. They said she was Miss Nellie Pope of between Dunn and Godwin, before her marriage. She and her husband lived at 410 North Wilson Street.

Funeral services will be held from the late home seven miles from Greenville on the Bethel highway Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. W. L. Clegg, of Bethel, his pastor. Interment will follow in the family cemetery near the home. Members of the Bethel Masonic Lodge will have charge of the final rites at the graveside.

Mr. Martin was born in Pitt county June 8, 1858, a son of the late Henry William and Piety Taylor Martin. His entire life was spent in this county. He was a successful farmer, a Mason, being a member of Bethel lodge; a trustee

Solid South!

Atlanta, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The traditionally solid Democratic South held its major frontiers against political invasion today as official returns from yesterday's "off-year" elections were compiled.

As a result of the vote, a perfunctory matter in all but the border states, three Dixie Senators labeled conservatives and marked unsuccessfully by President Roosevelt for his liquidation in the primaries, will return to Washington. They are Tydings of Maryland, George of Georgia and Smith of South Carolina.

Seven other Democratic Senators were elected yesterday from Southern states and all are friends of the New Deal. Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina was one of these. Of the three "purge" Senators, only Tydings had serious opposition.

REVEAL PLANS FOR EXERCISES

All Ex-Service Men Urged to Attend Barbecue Dinner

J. H. Rose, general chairman of the Armistice Day program here Friday, said today that it would be impossible to hold a parade due to several difficulties, but added this would not interfere with other phases of the program.

The exercises, to be conducted in the Robert H. Wright building at the college, will begin at 10:50 a. m. with Col. Edgar Bain of Goldsboro the principal speaker. Jack Edwards will introduce the speaker.

The college band will play preceding the exercises in the auditorium and will close the program with "The Star Spangled Banner." The men's glee club of the college and the high school glee club will offer several selections.

All ex-service men and members of the Legion Auxiliary are invited to the barbecue, to be held in the exposition hall at the new fair grounds, admittance cards may be secured from the post adjutant, J. Hicks Corey, at the exercises at the college, and also at the fair grounds. It is emphasized that it will not be necessary for any ex-service man to be a member of the Legion nor is it necessary for a member's dues to be paid up for the new year to procure an admittance card. It is the purpose to have every ex-service man possible at the speaking and also at the barbecue and the cards are free to them for the asking. Money for the barbecue was provided by appropriations by the County Board of Commissioners and City Board of Aldermen.

With Holiday Coming on Sunday, Monday be Observed

The first meeting of the new Board of Directors of the Greenville Merchants Association was held last night with the new president, O. P. Matthews, presiding.

The meeting, at which several important topics were discussed was well attended. Plans were made for Christmas decorations. The stores will start staying open at nights on December 19, with a formal opening on that night.

The Association will work with Martin Swartz, Superintendent of Water and Light Commission on the decorations of the streets for Christmas holidays as they have in the past years. It was decided to have the decorations up and turn on the lights on December 19th.

Special stress will be put this year on getting the Merchants to decorate their store fronts and prizes will be given for the best decorated store window. A committee composed of B. D. Johnson, H. E. Nickens and Hinton Q. Best was appointed to urge the stores to decorate.

It was voted that the stores start staying open nights prior to Christmas on December 19 and remain open through the 24th. Plans are being formed for a formal opening on the evening of December 19th with Santa Claus coming to town.

A request is being made that there only be one "Santa Claus" on the streets this year—much confusion is caused in the minds of the children when three or four Santas appear. Christmas is on Sunday this year and it was voted for the stores to remain closed on the following Monday, the 26th.

The Association has a "Advertising Committee" that investigates all advertising mediums placed before the Association. The Committee revised the Advertising resolution and the secretary was instructed to have copies of the resolution printed and place in the hands of the members.

The association went on record as requesting the Greenville em-

GAIN IN STATE BY DEMOCRATS

Meagre Republican Assembly Membership Reduced

Raleigh, Nov. 9.—(AP)—State Democrat Chairman R. Gregg Cherry said today that his party had apparently cut into the already meagre Republican membership in the North Carolina Legislature.

The Republicans had only 10 members in the 1937 assembly, two senators and eight representatives. It appeared, the chairman said, the Democrats have lost two House seats and gained three or more and perhaps added a senator.

Cherry said latest reports to him indicated F. M. Woodhouse, Democrat, had won by a margin of about

ABANDON PLAN FOR DIVISION OF PALESTINE

Britain Instead Calls Conference of Jews And Arabs

BRITAIN TO ACT IF PARLEY FAILS

Commission Reports It is Unable to Recommend Boundaries for Partitioning

London, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The British government announced today abandonment of its proposal to partition Palestine.

Instead, a conference of Jews and Arabs will be summoned in London and an attempt to work out an amicable settlement. If the conference fails, the government will "take their own decision in the light of their examination of the problem and of the discussions in London and announce the policy which they propose to pursue.

In a statement issued simultaneously with the report of the Royal Commission, the government announced its conclusion that "political, administrative and financial difficulties in the proposals to create independent Arab and Jewish states inside Palestine are so great that dissolution is impracticable."

The statement said members of the commission were "unable to recommend boundaries for the proposed areas which will afford reasonable prospects of the eventual establishment of self-supporting Arab and Jewish states."

The commission report came as 20,000 British soldiers sought to restore peace in the Holy Land, where an Arab rebellion against British rule and Jewish immigration to their "homeland," had resulted in about 500 casualties in the last four months and 2,000 in the previous two years.

Restoration of peace among the Arabs, growing increasingly nationalistic, appeared vital to Britain to receive from the League of Nations mandate in 1922 to govern Palestine.

Pitt Bar Passes Two Resolutions

Resolutions passed last night by the Pitt County Bar Association deemed as unethical practice for a judge or solicitor of any court appear for a defendant in any court, and called upon the register of deeds and clerk of court to cease writing legal papers, investigating records, etc., referring such matters to members of the bar.

The two resolutions follow in the exact form as passed: "Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Pitt County Bar that members of the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County have for some time past been engaged in writing leases, contracts, deeds and deeds of trust, and investigating records for various concerns for pay; and whereas, such practice constitutes no part of their duties under

AMENDMENTS STILL IN DOUBT

Senator Robert Reynolds Leaves Jonas Far Behind

Raleigh, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Returns from 1,069 of the state's 1,877 precincts gave Senator Robert Reynolds, Democratic incumbent, 193-138 votes against 84,540 for his Republican opponent, Charles A. Jonas of Lincolnton, as late reports were received today from yesterday's election.

Majorities for the two proposed constitutional amendments were cut sharply as additional reports were received. On the basis of last night's returns both proposals were favored by a ratio of about two to one, but the percentage of "yes" votes was far less in a tabulation early this afternoon. However, less than a third of the precincts were accounted for.

With 613 precincts recorded the vote on the proposal to make sheriffs' and coroners' terms four years instead of two, stood 69,017 in favor, 51,017 against.

The same precincts gave a 58,893 to 48,102 margin in favor of the proposal to empower the Legislature to create a State Department of Justice.

In the contest for Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, as reported from 510 precincts, the vote was: M. V. Barnhill, Democratic incumbent, 38,520; Herbert Seawell, Republican, 22,258; Wallace Winborne, Democratic incumbent, 77,841; Irvin Tucker, Republican, 28,873.

In the contests for Congress the vote stood: Fourth district—82 of 182 precincts, Representative Harold Cooley, Democrat, 10,314; Willis Griggs, Republican, 1,975; Seventh district—36 of 150 precincts, Representative Bayard Clark, Democrat, 7,597; E. C. Geddie, Republican, 2,104.

Pitt Vote

Pitt county citizens evidenced little interest in yesterday's general election, only about 25 or 30 per cent of a normal vote having been registered.

No Republicans were on the county ticket and the state Democratic candidates piled up large majorities over their Republican opponents, but no tabulations were available here, a number of the precinct officials having deferred counting the ballots.

Results of voting in the county, however, will be available tomorrow when the County Board of Elections canvasses the vote.

His parents arrived just before he died. His assailant, H. Grynszpan, is held by the Paris police. He said he shot von Rath to avenge Polish Jews recently expelled from Germany. (Continued on Page Two)

PENNSYLVANIA IN GOP RANKS

Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Kansas, Massachusetts, Oregon, Rhode Island, Michigan and Wyoming, Democratic for Past Few Years, Lost to Party

(By The Associated Press) The Republican party hit the come-back trail of political power today by upsetting Democratic regimes in a dozen strategic states, among them Pennsylvania.

It delivered to the New Deal the first major election reverse since Franklin Roosevelt was chosen President six years ago. The Democrats nevertheless, retained control of Congress and more than half the Governorships.

Along the Atlantic seaboard in the mid-west and on the Pacific coast, one Democratic administration after another toppled before the tide of votes.

About a dozen Republicans contested successfully for Governorships now held by Democrats. Eight Republican aspirants won Democratic seats in the senate.

As returns continued to come in, more than 50 house seats switched from the Democratic to the Republican side.

In the two biggest state elections, New York and Pennsylvania, the major parties split even.

Governor Herbert Lehman, New York Democrat, won re-election over Thomas Dewey after exciting hours of vote-counting in which first one and then the other pulled ahead.

Sen. Robert Wagner, (D-N.Y.) a staunch Roosevelt supporter, also outdistanced his republican rival, and Republican James Mead, Democrat, was chosen to fill the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Royal Copeland.

In nearby Pennsylvania just about the reverse occurred. Governor George Earle, who gave the state a "little New Deal," trailed in his effort to unseat Republican (Continued on page six)

Pitt County Home Showing Progress

Per Capita Cost of Institution Reduced Sharply Despite Several Costly Improvements Made

It was hog-killing time, despite the unseasonable warm weather, at the County home Monday, and 40 hogs, weighing 9,096 pounds, were slaughtered.

Due to the warm weather, the meat was placed in cold storage at the Carolina Cold Storage plant in Greenville.

J. H. Coward, county auditor, said that surplus meat raised at the County home is sold to the jail and also to private stores.

In fact, the county home raises many products used at the local jail and 31 per cent of the food requirements for prisoners is produced at the county home farm.

Products are sold elsewhere, $1-018.20 worth having been sold since July 1. Sales include blooded livestock, hogs, etc.

The per capita cost of operation of the County Home has been sparsely reduced in the past several years, having declined from $584.66 in 1923 to $245.30 last year. This reduction was made despite approximately $15,000 spent on improvements, such as new buildings, barns, heating plants, etc.

PEACE ACTION

SO THEY'RE TALKING WAR AGAIN?

By Ernestine Schumann-Heink

Extracts from article appearing in "Good Housekeeping," Nov., 1936

We must stop this thing—women! I'd make the world realize what war does to men—the broken bodies, the blinded eyes, the groping wits. Oh, God, what horrors a war can cause! Worst of all the horrors to me is the shell-shocked—men who are healthy, strong animals. They look at you—they listen to you—but in their eyes there is no life. The thing that makes a human soul is gone from them.

Armistice Day comes, and I hear people planning for a holiday. And there will be parades and the bands will play, and we shall cheer and praise and applaud. But on Armistice Day there should be no rejoicing, no celebration. We should bow our heads in prayer to God, humbly asking that never again shall this thing of war come back.

I am old now—I was not exactly young in the last war—but I would go through every bit of sorrow and struggle again to march in a great crusade against war. In war every drop of my blood is my country's. There is nothing she could ask of me that I would not do. But, oh, how much more gladly would I shed my blood to buy peace for her than to die for her!

Peace to all eternity. God give us women the strength and the determination to rid our country forever of this threat to our beloved sons and daughters!

Sticks and stones may very well break your bones — if you scatter them over a skating rink.

Never skip them over areas that will be used for skating, advises Diane Cummings, figure-skater author of "Figure Skating As a Hobby."

If the area wasn't completely frozen, she says, your sticks will sink into it and make ridges in the ice that will trip other skaters. If they perch on top of the ice they're even worse.

Don't Act Like a Dub
Miss Cummings has some other do's and don'ts for skaters:

Don't ask a top-notch to join you if you're just beginning. That's just as bad as asking a first-bracket tennis player to take you on a dub.

Don't race around a crowded rink. Not only are you likely to knock others down—you'll scare them to death.

Don't wear racing skates on a public rink unless you're sure the management doesn't object. Racing skates are longer and sharper than other skates, and often are forbidden as dangerous.

Don't skate against the traffic. On most rinks, skaters are urged to travel in a counter clockwise direction. Occasionally a gong may be rung to reverse the direction so skaters won't get dizzy.

Wear proper skating apparel. Short, full skirts; a sweater or a jacket; long cotton, silk or silk hose (not wool) and dark wool or silk pants for women. Don't wear ankle straps. Have skates properly fitted and you won't need them.

Keep To Your Side
Skilled skaters usually are requested to keep to the outside of public rinks, figure skaters in the center and beginners in between or in a separate section.

To figure skaters: If you start your figure skating in one spot don't move on to clean territory and mar

To hockey players: If the pond is small don't play all over the place. Leave some room for beginners.

To the novice: Don't call figure skaters "fancy" skaters. They'll spot you as one of the uninitiated right away.

PITT BAR PASSES TWO RESOLUTIONS

The Pitt County Bar in regular meeting assembled:

"First: That the Clerk of the Court and the Register of Deeds be requested not to permit the practice hereinbefore enumerated to continue, and that they be requested to refer and such matters to members of the Bar for their attention.

"Second: That a copy of this Resolution be presented to the Register of Deeds and the Clerk of the Court.

"Whereas, there are now established in Pitt County several courts having jurisdiction of crimes committed within their several jurisdictions, and all of said Courts have like jurisdiction within their respective limits; and whereas in each instance the County Court of Pitt County has concurrent jurisdiction with each of said Courts; and whereas each of said Courts constitutes a branch of the administration of criminal law within said County;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Pitt County Bar at its regular monthly meeting:

"First: That it shall be deemed an unethical practice for the Judge or Solicitor of any of the aforesaid Courts to practice his profession, and appear either for the defendant or for the State in any criminal action which may originate in either of said Courts; or in any criminal action of which the Superior Court has jurisdiction.

"Second: That the Council of the North Carolina State Bar be requested at its next meeting to adopt as one of its canons of ethics a canon condemning such practice in any County in the State of North Carolina.

NOTHING NEW
Under the Sun, But Something New in Print.

All over now.
Now for the fair.

Have you heard from Pitt? Old Pitt County did gloriously. Thanksgiving day comes next. Did you see any Federal troops? In one month the Baptist State convention will be in session here. And the Democrats can keep Thanksgiving day this time with a whoop.

The Richmond band that is to make music for the fair, came in on Tuesday evening's train and gave a concert on the King House balcony at night. Their excellent music and the good election news coming in at the same time filled the crowd with much rejoicing.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

The Characters
Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting the colonel's daughter on a mid-western Army post.
Charlie Spencer, my fiancé.
Adam Brew, one of the nicest men I know.

Yesterday: Adam is knocked out on the polo field. Elizabeth carries a gun in her car.

Chapter Five 'Feeling Humble'

"YOU—are you sure you're not hurt?" I asked Adam.

"On the contrary, it hurts like the dickens, but I'll recover. I got out from under very neatly, but one hoof caught me in the midriff and knocked my breath into the middle of next week. I was conscious but dumb when young Tarzan, here, snatched me up and swung off through the trees."

Everyone was suddenly helpless with laughter—everyone but Elizabeth.

"That's all very well," she said calmly. "But don't forget you've promised to stop at the hospital for a thorough examination before you go home. For all you know you may have a broken rib."

Adam grimaced. "I've had spills before."

"Please," I said. He looked at me very soberly for a moment, an odd, questioning look in his brilliant eyes.

"Of course," he said gently. "But I won't stay home from the party tonight if I have to come in a wheelchair. And if anyone makes a crack about Adam's rib—"

The game had been abandoned the horses led away. Somewhere close at hand a bugle broke into urgent summons. Faces turned toward the flag that floated high over headquarters.

Adam released his arm, settled his helmet and stood at salute.

Across the field the cannon crashed and the band struck up the first measured bars of the national anthem. Gracefully slowly the flag dropped earthward turning reluctantly at its ropes floated and dipped again lower and lower, caught at last by many hands and furled before it could touch the ground. Across the lengthening shadows on the plain the last notes of music died away.

"And so goodbye—until later," said Adam.

"Not yet," reminded Elizabeth. "We're going to drop you at the hospital."

We did Adam submitted gracefully even saluting us gallily from the door before he disappeared inside. Then, and not until then did Elizabeth drive on.

She delivered me at the house, gently ordered me to rest and departed again in her little car, murmuring something about sewing and a sergeant's wife.

I wandered into the house, found the colonel's den, shabby and filled with books. I inspected the shelves, hoping to find something distracting.

There was a well-worn set of Dickens; a shelf of biography; a shelf devoted to heavy tomes on military history, science and tactics; and a stack of decorative volumes that caught my immediate interest. Howitzers, the West Point yearbooks.

Titian O.A.O.

I DREW out the top one—it was three or four years old and carried it to the Colonel's chair.

It fell open with the obedience of a book often spread at the same page, and I found myself staring at the face of Barney Nelson.

He had not changed that I could see. The same rather withdrawn eyes, the immaculately modeled features that made him almost too handsome.

Below the picture was a brief biography I read it with interest. His name was not Barney, but Bjorne, and his nicknames were many: Swede, Handsome, Barney, Julian. This last was too obscure for me until I glanced at a snapshot in the lower corner of a page. At first sight it was a beautiful, stately blonde in floating draperies and a picture hat. Then I realized that it was Barney, dressed for a Hundredth Night show.

I sat there giggling, picturing the size of him masquerading as a woman. A brief list of honors confirmed my guess: Football Squad Baseball "A," Corporal, Choir, Hop Manager, Hundredth Night.

The biography, rich in idiom made cryptic allusion to "you great big handsome man"; to a mysterious talent for falling out at parade; to his gifts as a snake, a spoonist; to his bevy of femmes.

I leafed through the book, looking for more acquaintances. I had Charlie's volume at home, two or three years later in date, for he was only a year out of the Academy. I had been pleased by allusions to a Titian O.A.O.—short for One and Only.

I turned another page. Ah, here was a member of the garrison, Philip Shaw. He and his wife were friends of Anne Carewe. She was the kind who allowed no one to forget that she was from the East. He had a round, babyish face and strove for a cynical manner.

He had been undistinguished at West Point. Nicknames: Phil, Tubby. His record was in one word: Sharpshooter. His biographer chronicled a long list of mishaps: in the riding hall, at parade; femme trouble. The closing line arrested my attention: "Chief claim to distinction: the man who tried to spoil Swede's beauty."

Hearing Elizabeth's step on the porch, I replaced the Howitzer and chose Little Women at random from the shelves. Then I stood for a moment unnoticed in the library doorway, thinking that Elizabeth looked drawn and tired and realizing for the first time that the evening might prove an ordeal for her too.

She placed her car keys on a card tray that stood on the hall table, turned and saw me. Her usual gentle smile crossed her face.

"Oh, there you are. We can rest for an hour before we need to dress. Dinner will be at seven-thirty, but I told Anne we'd drive over early. Is that all right with you?"

"Why, certainly," I said, but I was a little puzzled. I had expected Charlie to come for me. Would I never get a word with him alone?

'You, For Instance'

I CONTINUED to ask myself that question with growing resentment; for Charlie, tight lipped and evidently stricken, escaped as soon as we rose from the dinner table, with the muttered excuse of an errand at the troop. No one believed him; but Adam tried his best to keep me from noticing that he did not return.

We rode over to the hop to gether, danced haltingly once around the floor—Adam's dancing is not all it might be—and retired to the club veranda.

Even here the heat was stifling. The hot black folds of the man darin coat enveloped me like a blanket. Why didn't I take it off? I don't know except that Elizabeth's views were rather overpowering. From the dusk beside me Adam spoke diffidently.

"If you don't mind being alone for a few minutes I could see if Charlie needs anything. I'm afraid the champagne—"

"It isn't the champagne, and you know it," I said wearily. "He's just sulking over Anne's engagement. Let him alone."

Adam can be trusted to say nothing when there is nothing to say.

"Not that I mind being left," added tardily. "Men are scarce tonight. You go in and dance."

"Not on your life. I've done my duty often enough on this post. Tonight I have a good excuse. I'm a casualty."

"How do you feel, honestly?" "Too good to risk a change of scenery. All right then, honestly, Doc Moore couldn't find anything wrong with me."

"Did he take an X-ray?" "Persistent, aren't you?" He sounded amused. "Yes, he took an X-ray, but it hadn't been developed. So you see, I'd better be very quiet until it is known."

"Are you sure you wouldn't rather go back to quarters where you can be comfortable?" He was silent for a minute. "Feeling humble tonight?"

"You might call it that."

"You'll find it won't last long. Why don't you take notes on the symptoms? Writers are supposed to capitalize on everything. I suppose you carry a notebook in that little jeweled affair. Go ahead, don't mind me."

Adam's teasing is gentle, but he gets things across.

"I don't take notes. It's more fun just to sit and watch people and imagine things about them. I've made up long stories that way—in a restaurant, on the el. I expect I embarrass people."

He chuckled. "Not half as much as I do. I'm no good at imagining—I have to know."

He hesitated went on smoothly. "There's you, for instance. All during your last visit you were so busy matchmaking for Elizabeth and me," he chuckled. "that all I learned about you is that you live in Chicago with a kid sister who studies music, and that you write for a living."

Anne and Barney skipped out of the club hand in hand, singing lustily. For two or three bars Barney's rich, baritone almost drowned Anne's thin high monotone; then he leaped to a silly falsetto as he swung her about in the path of light from the door and stepped back, hand slapping, while she executed a surprisingly capable tap dance.

They were dressed alike in white slacks and white cotton jerseys in a manner to emphasize the contrast between them. I thought they were both rather pleased with the idea that they were perfect foils for each other but I wondered how they would like sharing the limelight.

To the breast and back of each white jersey, in the appropriate anatomical position, had been applied a crimson heart pierced by an arrow. It had been Barney's idea to let the costumes speak for themselves. No other announcement had been necessary.

The Germ Process adds in to this oil a patented man-made substance that sets up a strong force of attraction between Germ Processed oil and every engine surface it touches. Even the upright surfaces instantly attract and hold Germ Processed oil in the form of lasting OIL-PLATING. This OIL-PLATING can never drain down—any more than chrome plating—during the longest, coldest parking. No question then, about winter OIL-PLATING speeding your starter from the first, because before you've even got out your key, your engine is ready-lubricated by slippery OIL-PLATING. Teacher Salary Increase Faces Stern Opposition Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Nov. 9—Governor Clyde R. Hoey's closing appeal to vote Democratic in yesterday's election contained a clear-cut indication that attempts to increase teacher salaries on any horizontal six per cent scale are sure to meet with vigorous opposition from the Administration.

The Governor didn't say that in so many words, but there is no trouble whatever in putting together certain passages and reaching the almost axiomatic conclusion that this opposition will develop unless there is such a phenomenal advance on all business fronts that the State can confidently look forward to vastly bigger tax revenues during the next biennium. This is a consummation devoutly hoped for, but entirely unexpected.

The Governor said, for instance, that North Carolina must live within its budget—which indicates he will favor no appropriations unless there is expectation of revenues from which to pay them.

He pointed out that school teachers, after all, are getting a much larger share of money appropriated for school purposes than is the case generally throughout the country.

He cited the fact that more than $24,000,000 annually is now appropriated for school purposes, of which no less than 82 per cent is paid as salary to North Carolina's teachers. In the United States the general average is 39 per cent for the teachers' salaries.

THE ROLL CALL

The annual Red Cross roll call in this county will get under way Monday. The Red Cross is an organization of mercy and deserves the support of everyone.

REPEALS WILL PROVE BEST REFORMS

Now that election is over it is to be hoped that the administration will take its cue from the loss of several strategic states, and permit the country to make an effort to recover its economic balance without further interference from Washington.

For the past few years business has not been able to ascertain where it stood nor what to expect next from Washington with the result that few people are willing to risk their savings in further industrial investments.

They were making money, though nobody will be arrested for counterfeiting, at the Governor's office Tuesday. The State's seal was being affixed to some $1,800,000 of the $4,000,000 bond issue sold recently.

What's in a name? We see from the Durham paper that one Ananias Montague, Negro, was acquitted on his own testimony in direct denial of a theft charge, though he had no other witness to corroborate him.

Yesterday and prior thereto, New Dealers and Anti-New Dealers were arguing about who would win the elections. Now they are still arguing—this time, about who did win it.

If you will keep a poinsettia warm and "put it to bed" early, you can have one of the prettiest of all Christmas decorations in your home, says J. G. Weaver, of the Horticultural Department of State College.

The plant has its own maximum hours law and absolutely refuses to grow satisfactorily when the days are long, he declares.

Now that the election is over, there's nothing much to argue over except outcome of the Pitt-Duke game of November 26.

The Mock Legislature of some 150 collegians who held sessions here this week cast straw ballots for about a dozen candidates in an unofficial poll on their 1940 gubernatorial choices.

Raleigh's J. M. Broughton showed a heavy plurality with 68 votes, more than twice as many as his closest competitor Thad Eure, "Your" Secretary of State, who got 32.

Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell received 12, Congressman Harold D. Cooley and former Lieutenant Governor Dick Fountain polled ten each, and the others were scattered.

A Philosopher And Poet Reporters who went to see Ambassador Hu for his first official press conference found him reasonably cheerful. He is China's leading modern philosopher, a poet as well. He is shortish, but trim, perhaps five feet six, wears spectacles. He studied philosophy and history at Cornell and Columbia, taking high honors.

Altogether it was a fairly gloomy day. The reporters knew in advance that the ambassador would say one thing: "We will fight on." He said it. Beyond that the business was perfunctory, forced.

Occasionally Dr. Hu recalled that he was a philosopher and so not addicted to wishful thinking. However, at one point he said he would indulge himself to enough wishful thinking to look for a time when Japan, strained desperately by the invasion, might collapse financially or become a target for foreign attack.

No One Took Tea Perhaps two dozen reporters went out to the ambassador's home which is in a wooded section well isolated among the trees. Drinks and sandwiches were served, along with sherry. You can't go to a foreign press conference in this city without running into snacks. An alcohol lamp kept a silver pot of water hot for tea but none was poured. The kettle boiled quietly along during the press conference.

Dr. Hu has spent much of his active life under revolutionary conditions. He began writing and speaking for the revolution which upset the old dynasty in 1911 and has spent a part of every turnover since, always as a writer, philosopher and teacher, not as a soldier.

What will happen to him as an ambassador cannot be foreseen. If his country is totally liquidated, it won't be the first one this year. Dr. Prochnik, ambassador from Austria, was a diplomat one day and jobless the next. Now he is a lecturer in the foreign service school at Georgetown university here. He doesn't go about much socially, any more. He has been dropped from the state department's official list of diplomats.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 9.—Much of the apparent shrinkage in North Carolina revenue was caught up on November 4 when franchise taxes to the amount of $949,777.68 were reported collected by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell.

That brought franchise collections for the current fiscal year to $5,329,129.79 against $5,414,746.22 for the same period of the preceding revenue period.

Chances are there will not be any such decrease as 23 per cent (as there was last month) shown in General Fund collections for the month of November.

They were making money, though nobody will be arrested for counterfeiting, at the Governor's office Tuesday.

The State's seal was being affixed to some $1,800,000 of the $4,000,000 bond issue sold recently. The nearly two million so sealed will be delivered immediately after signature in New York this weekend. The remaining bonds will be sealed for delivery here in North Carolina.

Bob Thompson, the Governor's secretary, is even more conscientious about paying the sales tax than is his chief. Governor Hoey always tenders the penny tax when he pays for his soft drinks, but Bob goes him one better.

Paying off a bet of 15 cents (made with your correspondent on the Duke-Carolina game) Bob made it 16 cents, so as to "include the tax," he said.

What's in a name? We see from the Durham paper that one Ananias Montague, Negro, was acquitted on his own testimony in direct denial of a theft charge, though he had no other witness to corroborate him.

Yesterday and prior thereto, New Dealers and Anti-New Dealers were arguing about who would win the elections. Now they are still arguing—this time, about who did win it.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — Of the engravings decorating the library of the Chinese embassy at the time of the arrival of the new ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, several were on one theme—run.

Half of the dozen engravings hung high on the wall above the book shelves showed stone buildings in various stages of decay and collapse.

The most prominent space in the library, the spot over the mantel, was occupied by another engraving. This one showed Napoleon in that historic pose aboard the British ship as he was being removed to Elba.

The British officers, deeply in awe of him, are crowded far into the background, amidships.

The library decorations appeared symbolic, for Dr. Hu comes as ambassador to the United States at a time when more than half of his country has been put under foreign domination and the national leader, Chiang Kai-Shek, is backing away far inland.

Of the several embassy attaches present during the interview, one wore yards of gold braid on his uniform. The others were in cut-away and striped trousers.

A Philosopher And Poet Reporters who went to see Ambassador Hu for his first official press conference found him reasonably cheerful. He is China's leading modern philosopher, a poet as well. He is shortish, but trim, perhaps five feet six, wears spectacles. He studied philosophy and history at Cornell and Columbia, taking high honors.

Altogether it was a fairly gloomy day. The reporters knew in advance that the ambassador would say one thing: "We will fight on." He said it. Beyond that the business was perfunctory, forced.

ROUGH BATTLE AT FARMVILLE

To Play Windsor On Thursday; Friday's Game Disputed

Last Friday's high school football game was the most thrilling game that has yet been played on the new field this year despite the fact that it ended in darkness and in a disputed score.

The first touchdown was scored on the kickoff when W. Phillips received the ball for South Edgecombe and after fumbling around for a few seconds ran ninety yards for a touchdown. E. Webb's attempt to convert the extra point was unsuccessful and this left South Edgecombe with a 6-0 lead. This advantage was short lived, however, because within five minutes, Billy Oglesby threw a pass from the 40-yard line to Linwood Brock and he ran across the goal line with the ball to tie the score. Robert Teale's attempt to place kick the extra point went wide of the mark and the first quarter ended in a 6-6 stalemate.

During the second quarter the two teams battled up and down the field, neither seeming able to score, until the last ten seconds of the half when South Edgecombe tried a lateral pass play which sent R. Webb across the goal line for a touchdown. B. Stedman's attempt for the extra point failed and this left the score at the end of the first half 12-6 in favor of South Edgecombe.

No scoring was done in the third period. During the last quarter Farmville advanced the ball sixty yards towards their opponents goal and it seemed as if nothing could stop them when a poor pass from center gave the other team the ball. Two minutes later they again came into possession of the ball and again took it all the way to their opponent's ten yard line. Here the disputed play took place. Farmville threw a forward pass which was intercepted by a South Edgecombe player in back of his own goal line. A Farmville man tackled by mistake a South Edgecombe man who didn't have the ball. At this point the South Edgecombe man who did have the ball threw it to the ground, making it a free ball, and Nicholas, a Farmville player, recovered it thus scoring a touchdown. However, because of darkness, the referee couldn't completely see the play and when the Farmville man tackled the man without the ball the referee declared a safety. At this point the game ended although there was still some playing left to be done.

This Thursday the team will play its game at home on their home field this year when they meet the strong Windsor High School team. The starting time of the game has been moved up to three o'clock so that the game will be over before the sun goes down.

OLD CHAIRMEN RETAIN SEATS

Not Certain, However of Retaining Assembly Posts

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Nov. 9.—Yesterday's election sent 31 committee chairmen in the 1937 General Assembly back to duty in the session which will convene in January; though does not mean that these gentlemen will again head the same groups.

Contrary to procedure in the Federal Congress service on committee and chairmanships thereof are not permanent and by custom of recognizing seniority.

The North Carolina custom is for the Lieutenant Governor to appoint the Senate committees and the Speaker to do likewise across the hall in the House. It could, therefore, turn out that chairmen of 1937 might not even be members of the same committees next year.

In the Senate of 1938 there will be the chairmen of 13 of the 48 committees which functioned nearly two years ago. In the House there will return 17 chairmen from the 44 committees which were active.

House chairmen re-elected are: Agriculture, W. E. Fenner, Nash; Appropriations, D. L. Ward, Craven; Banks and Banking, W. W. Eagles, Edgecombe; Congressional Districts: C. C. Abernethy of Nash; Education, Hugh Horton of Martin; Expenditures of the House, R. T. Fulchum of Johnston; Finance, Victory Bryant of Durham; Journal, Pat Kinzey of Transylvania; Manufacturing and Labor, George Uzzell of Rowan; Military Affairs, Roy Davis of Dare; Oyster Industry, John F. White, Chowan; Pensions, Joe T. Carruthers of Guilford; Senatorial Districts, Ruffert Pickens of Guilford; Library, Arch T. Allen of Wake; Trustees of the University, Walter Murphy.

Back from Senate Committee Chairmanships are: Agriculture, W. H. Clark of Edgecombe; Commercial Fisheries, W. I. Halstead of Camden; Congressional Districts, W. B. Rodman, Jr., of Beaufort; Corporations, J. C. Eagles of Wilson; Embroidered Bills, J. H. Sepak of Gaston; Institutions for Blind, H. P. Taylor of Anson; Judiciary No. 1, T. J. Duke's "Seven Pillars Of Steel" Protect Southerners' Grid Goal

(By The AP Feature Service)
DURHAM, N. C.—Duke university's unbeaten, untied, unscored on football club has its "Seven Pillars of Blue Steel," a front wall that is becoming as famed as was Fordham's "Seven Blocks of Granite" a year ago.

This hard-charging line, particularly adept on defense, is chiefly responsible for Duke's position as the only major-college team in the land whose goal has not been crossed.

Coach Wallace Wade's charges wear royal blue jerseys and that's why sports writers have tabbed them the "Seven Pillars of Blue Steel." It's not a huge line, averaging just 191 pounds, but it is fast and has rhythm.

At the center of this solid barrier is Co-Captain Dan Hill, a flaming red-head whom they call "Tiger." A 200-pound warhorse on wheels, Hill takes charge and calls signals when the going gets toughest.

And behind these seven advance men, the Blue Devils have perhaps the best backfield in the Southern conference — whenever Wade can get them all together. Injuries have removed key men from every major game, but the Dukes keep winning.

Strategy Around Kicks

There's Co-Captain Eric Tipton, another red-head like Hill, and Geo. McAfee at halfbacks. Bob Spangler at quarterback and Bob O'Mara at fullback. Duke's strategy has been built around Tipton's long kicks. He's averaged 40 yards a boot. Tipton also is Duke's best passer with 11 completions out of 25 attempts.

The Blue Devils' most spectacular back, McAfee, is just getting started. A pre-season injury kept him out until Duke's October 29 game with North Carolina. He's the speed boy the Southerners like to shake loose for touchdown trots.

Spangler, used chiefly as a blocker in other years, turned ball-carrier when McAfee was hurt and has been a consistent gainer with an average of 54 yards a shot. O'Mara is a good line bucker and a stalwart on defense. Willard Eaves rates as one of Dixie's best blocking backs.

So strong is Duke's defense that its first six rivals—Virginia Tech, Davidson, Colgate, Georgia Tech,

Wake Forest and North Carolina—averaged only 40 yards a game on ground attacks.

They Intercept.

If there is a weakness it is against passes, but this is partially offset by Duke's interceptions of opponents' tosses. Its rivals have completed 36 of 74 passes for 442 yards, but Duke interrupted sixteen of these bombs for runback totals of 142 yards. Duke itself has used the pass primarily as a threat, resorting chiefly to its running attack for yardage. It is not a high scoring team, but manages to tally enough points to win.

The return of McAfee, a southpaw triple-threat, and the physical fitness of Tipton and Spangler enables Duke to feel that it may whip Syracuse and North Carolina State and that is his fair chance against Pittsburgh.

Co-Captain Eric Tipton Red-Headed Blue Back

"We should be a better team in our last three games," says Wade. "McAfee is back and Tipton and Spangler should be in top shape. The morale of the team is as fine as I've ever seen. They have won despite handicaps of injuries to key backfield performers."

CLEAN SLATES TO BE SCARCE

Dartmouth, Oklahoma, Tennessee, TCU May Pull Through

By DILLON GRAHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

New York — The prospect of an undisputed national champion emerging from the college gridiron derby seems slimmer as the November stretch approaches.

The surprise defeats of Pittsburgh and California eliminated two elevens figured to have excellent chances of perfect slates. Texas Christian, Dartmouth and Tennessee, of the front rank unbeaten clubs, now appear to own the best prospects.

Notre Dame, rumbling along with its finest offensive in several years, is a possibility but the Irish must yet hurdle Minnesota, Northwestern and Southern California and that is a large order.

Coming like the wind, the Trojans rate as one of the country's strongest clubs off their victory over California. Southern Cal's opening game setback by Alabama can be tossed out in reckoning its abilities against the Irish.

It would occasion no great surprise should Iowa State, Texas Tech, Santa Clara, Oklahoma and Georgetown carry unsmirched banners.

Late Foes

Glance at the final assignments given these leaders. Texas Christian — Texas, Rice and Southern Methodist remain. Of these, Rice should prove the hardest hurdle. The Frogs will be favored but the Southwest race generally winds up in a scramble and it would merely be running true to form for one of these clubs to wallop T. C. U.

Duke—Unbeaten and unscored on, the Blue Devils are likely to fall before Pitt if they manage to set by Syracuse and North Carolina State.

Vois Have Chance
Tennessee—Vanderbilt and a below-par Kentucky remain. The Commodores revealed strength in defeating Georgia Tech and may humble the Vois. Tennessee gets the call but the Vois recall the jinx that has, through the games, spoiled five unbeaten seasons for them in the last decade.

Dartmouth—Cornell's heavy team may give Dartmouth trouble. And the long trip to the west coast may leave the Indians below their peak for the finale with Stanford.

Sooners Look Good

Oklahoma — The Sooners must yet face Missouri, Iowa State, Oklahoma Aggies and Washington State. The crucial game probably will be against Iowa State.

Iowa State—A win over Oklahoma would probably insure a perfect year.

Notre Dame — Apparently Layden's greatest team but it seems too much to ask any club to tackle Minnesota, Northwestern and Southern California in a row.

Santa Clara—St. Mary's may be too tough. The Californians should beat Detroit.

Georgetown — West Virginia may trouble the Hoyas. Mary should be easy.

Texas Tech — The Texans may come a cropper somewhere along the line that includes New Mexico, Gonzaga and Marquette.

DUKE TO LEAVE FOR SYRACUSE

Devils Hold Final Practice; Leave at Noon Thursday

Durham, Nov. 9.—Duke's Blue Devils were to take their final home drill this afternoon before leaving on their final football trip of the season to Syracuse tomorrow.

The Blue Devils will leave here tomorrow at noon. They will go by bus to Henderson where they will entrain for Syracuse at 1:51 o'clock. They are scheduled to arrive in Syracuse Friday morning at 9:38 o'clock and will make their headquarters at the Hotel Syracuse.

The Blue Devils will take their final workout in Archibald stadium, scene of Saturday's contest. Return trip plans call for the Blue Devils to leave immediately after the game at 6:15 o'clock and they will arrive at Henderson at 3:26 Sunday afternoon, moving on to Durham by bus.

It will be a long, hard trip for the Blue Devils and Syracuse will be one of the toughest teams the Wademen have met all season. The Orangemen, who last week defeated Colgate by the same margin as Duke did in Buffalo a month ago, are tricky and dangerous.

While the Blue Devils have come along this far without a mar on their record and with their goaline still unscathed, they have no fancy illusions about the remaining games on the schedule. All of them will be tough and will have to be prepared for to the limit. After Syracuse, comes N. C. State, with the habit of playing one of its best games against the Blue Devils, and then Pittsburgh.

STATE TO PLAY DETROIT TEAM

Wolfpack Faces Trio of Nation's Strongest Elevens

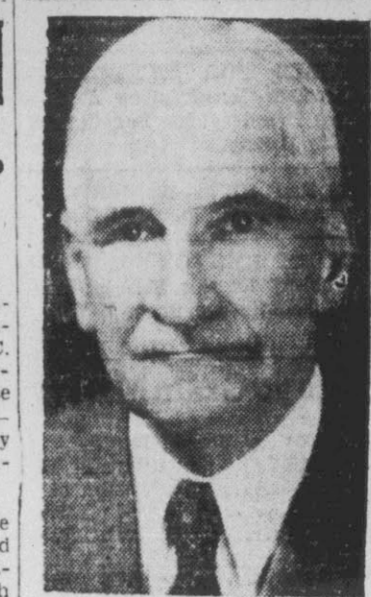

Raleigh, Nov. 8.—Faced with meeting three of the nation's outstanding teams in 16 days, the N. C. State Wolfpack is hard at work today pointing for the first of these foes—the University of Detroit—which invades these parts Saturday afternoon for an intercollegiate engagement.

The following Saturday, State goes to Durham to meet Duke and on Thanksgiving day, five days after the Duke battle, Carnegie Tech comes to Raleigh to meet the Wolfpack Coach Williams Newton directs.

This hard assignment is to be followed by the December 3 game with The Citadel in Wilmington, which will be the grand finale of the hardest schedule a Wolfpack ever tackled.

But the charges of Williams Newton aren't dismayed at their Herculean task. They're determined to make a showing against these powers, such as they made against Alabama and Manhattan last week. The latter was held to a net gain of 28 yards from scrimmage as the pack forwards played one of their best games.

"Our team will have to be at its peak if we are to stop Detroit this week," Scout Herman Hickman reported. "We will have our hands full and I don't mean maybe. In this Ed Palumbo, Detroit has one of the best passers in the business and he doesn't mind throwing them. He passes on first down, fourth down from any position on the field Detroit is the passingest team I have ever seen."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Heavy buying, carrying many stocks up one to three points, to the highest levels of the year, broke the pre-election market stalemate today as Wall Street pondered the business significance of Republican victories.

The upswing was one of the broadest of the 1938 bull trend and left prices near the fourth hour approximately at the highest levels of the day.

Recovery in bonds also was resumed.

REPUBLICANS VICTORIOUS IN DOWN STRATEGIC STATES; DEMOCRATS WIN IN NEW YORK

James J. Davis.

Arthur James, who campaigned on a promise to undo most of what Earle has done, was elected governor. His Democratic opponent was Charles A. Jones.

Only in the "solid South" did Democratic lines remain intact. Across the middle and northern sections of the country the republicans counted governorships in these states which, at least for the last two years, the Democrats had ruled.

Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Massachusetts, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Michigan, Ohio and Wyoming.

They also captured the Wisconsin administration from Governor LaFollette, head of the Progressive party and appeared favored to win in Minnesota where the Farm-Laborites have been in power since 1930.

Enrollment Gains Noted At College

The fifteenth biennial report of the Board of Trustees of the College, which was made public recently, shows an increase in numbers of students over the previous biennium in spite of the year course which drew many earlier students to E. C. T. C.

Along with an increase in students there naturally has come an increase in spending, expenditures per capita per annum having been 10 per cent greater in this two-year period than in the last; but receipts taken in by the College also have been greater.

The report shows that much work has been done during the biennium to put buildings and grounds in good shape, including such things as a new cooling system in dining room and kitchen, fresh paint and new floors in dormitories, paving for main avenues on the campus, new copper pipe for the hot water system, and many additions to the shelves of the library.

The proposed budget for 1939-41 includes money much other needed improvements and repairs. In the field of permanent improvements it lists the new classroom building, the garage, and the addition to the laundry which are already under way; and seeks also an addition to the training school of the College, a gymnasium, a women's dormitory, and other things needed to care for the larger college of the future.

SCHEDULE CONCERT AT ARTHUR SCHOOL

have a large crowd for this performance. People from all sections of the county are urged to attend.

The Firemen of Greenville are especially proud of their fine band. It has played several concerts at the county schools recently. The programs presented have been of a very high type and have been well received. In addition to being fine performances, these programs have made it possible for many school children to have glasses; otherwise they would have gone without. Such a fine cause is worthy of any public spirited citizen's consideration and appreciation.

Award Local Firm ECTC Garage Job

At a meeting of the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees of the College yesterday, the contract for the new garage was let to the West Building Company of Greenville. Work is scheduled to begin on it November 12.

This is one of the three construction jobs that will be begun on the campus in the next few weeks, the other two being the proposed classroom building and needed additions to the laundry.

Contracts for the classroom building are to be let soon.

Big Odd-Shaped Spud Grown in Pitt County

A peculiarly shaped Irish potato weighing two and three-quarters of a pound was grown on the Ben Pollard farm owned by Blount-Harvey.

The potato was one of three grown in one hill whose total weight exceeded five pounds, two other large "spuds" having been produced alongside the unusually large one.

W. S. Galloway is overseer of the farm.
