DEMANDS THAT CIO DIRECTOR FACE CHARGES

Legion Head Calls for Action by Secretary of Labor

BRANDS BRIDGES AS UNDESIRABLE

Chadwick Calls Upon Secretary Perkins to Proceed at Once to Bring Charges

Indianapolis, Nov. 16. (AP) — Stephen Chadwick of Seattle, Washington, national commander of the American Legion, demanded of Secretary of Labor Perkins today that her department proceed at once with the trial of Harry Bridges, west coast director for the C. I. O., on the charge that he is an "undesirable alien" and should be deported.

Chadwick made public at a conference of Legion Department commanders and adjutants a letter he sent to Miss Perkins yesterday. The letter quoted resolutions passed at the Legion Convention in Los Angeles in September demanding deportation of Bridges and charging labor department officials had failed to enforce deportation laws and blocked passage of new immigration acts.

"I have withheld addressing you until the elections were out of the way in order that any thus addressing you could not be considered as a matter of political implication," Chadwick's letter said.

"We are interested that every person subject to charges which might warrant deportation should have the benefit of these legal rights with which all people charge with offenses against our government are protected.

"We do not pre-judge any situation, but do demand that the orderly processes designed for the protection of our country, its peace and happiness be pursued."

Baptists Purchase Biblical Recorder

Raleigh, Nov. 16—(AP)—The century old official publication, Biblical Recorder, will be bought for North Carolina Baptists for $65,000 the state Baptist convention decided today.

After extended debate on debts business management and freedom of speech, delegates authorized a 15-member group to proceed with negotiations for buying the publication and allied property.

Terms for purchase, formed after three years of discussion and investigation, call for payment of $5,000 cash and a six note series, each note due December 15 in successive years. The notes will be due for: $6,000 in 1939; $7,000 in 1940; $8,000 in 1941; $9,000 in 1942; $10,000 in 1943 and the remaining $20,500 in 1944. Four per cent interest would be payable on deferred payments.

Convention President R. N. Simms, Sr., of Raleigh called on Dr. J. L. Peacock of Tarboro, purchase committee chairman, to present the plan which was approved.

Meanwhile Vance Browning, 46, of Bryson City, a former state Senate member, died suddenly of a heart attack here.

Browning was in Raleigh attending the state convention. He got up about 6:30, felt ill and returned to bed at his rooming house. He was dead when a doctor arrived.

MOTHER WATCHES FOR LOST BOY

While searchers combed the countryside for trace of 5-year-old Jerry Hays, his mother, Mrs. Lauren Hays, and her two younger children sat in the family's hunting camp near Douglas, Ariz., and kept watch for the boy who wandered away four days ago. Eight hundred men joined the search in which a reservoir was drained and canyons were searched, foot-by-foot.

K. T. Futrell, Pitt county welfare officer and president of the Northeastern District Conference has announced plans for the annual meeting to be held in Snow Hill next Tuesday. Twenty counties are included in the district.

GOP Holds On To Its One Office

Raleigh, Nov. 16—(AP)—The Republicans retained their traditional lone major elective office in North Carolina in last Tuesday's elections—the solicitorship in the 17th judicial district—though Democrats gained a seat in the legislature.

The Democratic state ticket, however, swept to an even more decisive victory over the Republicans, a tabulation by the Associated Press today of complete returns from 97 of the 100 counties showed Robert Reynolds with a margin of 138,313 votes over Charles Jonas Republican, in 97 counties.

Herman-Sipe Gets General Work; Russ Heating Contract

General construction, heating and plumbing contracts for the new fire station were let late yesterday afternoon calling for expenditures of $47,358. This figure does not include architect's fee, of five per cent legal fees of $100 and contingencies, which usually run to about five per cent of the contract price.

Nine bids were submitted on the general contract, the lowest of $43,366 having been made by Herman-Sipe Construction company of Concord, which firm already has several projects in the county. The Herman-Sipe bid was for $49,968, but after deducting alternate bids for heating and plumbing it was figured at the $43,366 figure. The highest bid, before deducting alternates was for $54,596. Bids were higher than had been anticipated but the low proposal was accepted with the hopes that savings could be effected to bring the cost within the original estimate of $49,976.33, including contingencies, architect's fee and legal fees.

Work on the project will be started in the immediate future. Laborers already are razing the two old buildings on the site, the James property on Fifth street, between Washington and Green. The old buildings will be used for the construction of an auditorium and recreation center at the Fifth Street colored school.

C. L. Russ of Greenville was awarded the heating contract for $2,347, while the plumbing contract went to Bagwell Plumbing and Heating company of Durham.

The City hall project will be contracted for in the near future, it was explained. Plans and specifications (Continued on page five)

Formal Note Sent To Nazi Foreign Office Protesting Destruction of American Jews' Property; Jews Meanwhile, Seek Seclusion Against New Outbreaks

Berlin, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Jews sought seclusion against any fresh outbreaks of German anti-Semitic feeling today while the United States embassy sent a formal note to the foreign office protesting the destruction of American Jews' property during the attacks of last week.

No details were given in the note, but the United States reserved the right to take further action in behalf of any interests harmed.

An editorial in an important Nazi paper angrily assailed what it called the "concessions of the American government to American Jewry."

The editorial was directed specifically against the United States, Secretary of the Interior, Harold Ickes, and the summons to Ambassador Hugh Wilson to return to the United States.

It was published in the newspaper of Field Marshal Goering, who is second only to Chancellor Hitler in the Nazi regime.

The editorial apparently was written before President Roosevelt's statement in Washington yesterday that he personally had summoned Wilson to return for consultations on the Jewish situation.

It was a religious holiday, the German protestant day of atonement, and other papers made no comment.

Washington, Nov. 16—(AP)—Any general protests from the United States against the German Jews probably will wait Ambassador Hugh Wilson's conference with Mr. Roosevelt, federal officials said today.

Expression of this belief followed the President's disclosure that he personally gave the order for the American envoy to return from Berlin at once to report on anti-Semitic violence.

"The news of the past few days from Germany has deeply shocked public opinion in the United States," Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday at his press conference.

MAKES ATTACK ON SALES TAX

David Ovens Says Levy Not in Interest of the People

High Point, Nov. 16—(AP)—David Ovens of Charlotte former president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, said in a statement today the state's sales tax was unfair, and in the language of today, "unsocial and not in the interest of the people as a whole."

Paul Leonard, executive secretary, spoke before the one-day meeting of the North Fair Tax Association, an organization dedicated to the repeal of the state's three per cent sales tax.

"I am certain," Ovens said in a prepared address delivered by Leonard, "that the average working man and others of limited means do not realize that this tax is an discriminatory tax, in that they pay disproportionate larger parts of the tax than more fortunate groups of citizens."

Ovens was called to New York on "urgent business" and did not speak as scheduled.

Ovens' statement said he had heard "much from political Raleigh about the blessing that has come to us because we have been relieved (Continued on page five)

Capt. C. D. Farmer Speaks at College

Captain Charlie Farmer, Raleigh head of the State Highway Patrol, spoke in chapel at the College yesterday on Highway Safety.

"You are here in school to learn to teach. We are asking your cooperation to help our safety division to save life. You are wondering how you can help," began Captain Farmer, pointing out that there were 123 persons killed on the highways of North Carolina last year and that though so far this has been cut down 21 per cent this year, it should be cut still more (Continued on page five)

MAKES SECOND PROTEST OVER JAP INCIDENT

Acid Said Have Been Thrown on American Physician

FIRST OBJECTION IGNORED BY JAPS

Meanwhile Chinese Reported being Mobilized to Defend Capital of Changsha

Hankow, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Paul Josslyn, U. S. consul general in Hankow, made a second protest to the Japanese today against an incident in which Japanese soldiers were alleged to have thrown acid at Dr. Logan Roots, American missionary physician.

Josslyn yesterday demanded investigation of the incident, which occurred at Wuchang November 13, but the Japanese Consul General did not reply.

Americans at Wauchang gave the following account:

Dr. Roots appeared at St. Michael church and found the Japanese crying out Chinese refugees whom the mission owners had permitted to occupy the church. He closed the mission gates, excluding the Japanese, whereupon they tore an American flag hanging on the gates and threw acid at the doctor. The acid did not strike him.

at Tientsin reports said an unidentified gunman fired upon, but did not hit, the wife of U. S. Consul General J. K. Caldwell as she walked across the bridge on the race club grounds.

She believed the assailant was hiding in tall reeds nearby.

Chungking, Nov. 16—(AP)—Chinese reported today that all able-bodied men were being mobilized to defend Changsha, capital of Hunan Province, as the Japanese rapidly approached down the railroad from Yochow, 80 miles to the north (Dispatches from Shanghai said the Japanese troops were near a point 40 miles northeast of Changsha.

American property was reported to have escaped damage in the Hunan capital, but fires set by the Chinese destroyed much of the city. British owned buildings were damaged extensively.

COMMISSIONER FACES CHARGE

New York Motor Vehicle Head Accused of Bribery

New York, Nov. 16—(AP)—C. A. Harnett, State Commissioner of motor vehicles, was arrested in the district attorney's office today on charges of bribery and extortion.

District Attorney Thomas Dewey's office said Harnett was alleged to have accepted $67,000 in bribes between October, 1934 and January, 1938, from the Paramelee Transportation company and through three subsidiaries, the National Transportation company Inc., the Yellow Taxi Corp., and the Hamilton Peters Operating Company, Inc.

Dewey said an indictment against Harnett had been ready since late in September, but had been held up deliberately until after the political campaign, in which the district attorney ran unsuccessfully as the Republican candidate for governor. It was filed yesterday, he said.

The action against Harnett was said by Dewey to have resulted from an investigation into what he termed the taxicab racket, in which several others have been indicted.

Jail Book System Will Be Installed

A new system for keeping jail records, whereby the status of each prisoner will be available immediately and the disposition of each, with the fees due and paid, is to be installed in Pitt county.

The record books is similar to the old type of jail book, with several significant additions showing every possible source. Besides the inmate's name will be shown the race, sex and age, date of commitment, how committed—with a column for every court in the county, by whom committed. (Continued on page five)

SUSPECT SURRENDERS IN SIEGE

His hands raised high, a man who gave his name as Jack Farlow of Atlanta emerges from a warehouse at Augusta, Ga., and surrenders to policemen who laid siege to the building for five hours in quest of burglars within. Another man, tentatively identified as R. G. Barrett of College Park, Ga., was shot to death on the roof during an exchange of shots with the officers. Approaching Farlow with gun in hand is Sgt. Albert Connell. On the roof with leg over the wall is Capt. George R. Folds with other officers.

Daladier Says France Will Cede No Colonies

Premier Declares No Such Measures Even Considered

Paris, Nov. 16—(AP)—Premier Daladier today declared that his government would cede no colonies to Germany and that it would protect the colonial integrity of France as established after the World War.

No such measure as cession of colonial territories has even been considered, said the Premier in a statement to the press designed to quiet anxious questions, especially from members of Parliament.

The Chamber of Deputies committee on colonies yesterday decided that the government make no commitments concerning the return to Germany of her war-lost colonies without consulting Parliament.

Daladier's statement presumably meant he had no intention of relinquishing Togoland and Cameroons, held by France under League of Nations mandate. These have frequently been mentioned among the territories that might be handed back.

Final Rites Held For Little Jamie R. Evans

Funeral services for Jamie Ray Evans, two-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Evans, who died yesterday, were conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the infant's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Evans, of Chocod township. Burial was in the Hardy-Stokes cemetery.

The services were conducted by Rev. Chester Pelt, Free Will Baptist minister of Greenville.

The infant son was the only child.

New Constitution Adopted By CIO

Pittsburgh, Nov. 16—(AP)—The CIO convention quickly completed adoption today of a constitution establishing a union as the Congress of Industrial Organization.

The constitution provided a revenue for the new labor group that, based upon its claimed membership of 2,064,612, could amount to more than $2,000,000 annually to push forward a new organizing drive which leaders told the convention which leaders told the convention was the "paramount question here."

As a motion to adopt the 10 articles as a whole passed unanimously on two sections, when they were considered separately, there were a few "no" votes. These two articles gave the executive board the power to name the date and site for conventions and assess small industrial unions a per capita tax of 50 cents. John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, was accused by an attempt yesterday by West Coast delegates to hold up consideration of the second article for another hearing by the constitution committee. Lewis told the 300 delegates the constitutional committee had drafted the document after careful study and conferences with executive officers, and that the acceptance or rejection of the recommendation was the only question which could be answered. He added: "It is not right and we do not intend to let a man merely with an idea to come here and destroy the work of this committee."

TRADE TREATY WITH BRITAIN TO BE SIGNED

Signatures to be Placed on Document at White House

CANADIAN PACT TO BE EXTENDED

Agreement with United Kingdom Completed After Months of Negotiations

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The State Department announced today the trade agreement with Great Britain and Canada would be signed at the White House tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Secretary of State Hull will sign for the United States. For Great Britain Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay and Arnold Overton, secretary of the British Board of Trade, will sign.

Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King will sign for Canada.

The trade agreement with the United Kingdom was completed after six months of negotiations between the special delegation sent here by Great Britain and experts of the State and Commerce departments. The British agreement brings the number of trade agreements concluded to 19. The Canadian agreement is an enlargement of the existing Canadian agreement which expires December 31.

Other developments: John Pace of Detroit, who said he was a Communist party member from 1931 to 1934, told House investigators "it seems to me the Communists have about got control" of the CIO convention at Pittsburgh.

A witness before the committee investigating un-American activities, Pace said he was willing to predict the Communists would "split up" the United Automobile Workers union, a CIO affiliate, because out of every struggle Communists want to build up the party in preparation for eventual revolution.

Western N. C. Bank Robbed Of $1,000

Rutherfordton, Nov. 16—(AP)—Two young white men held up the bank at Bostic, small community near here, today and robbed it of about $1,000.

The bandits held guns on two women and a man, employees of the bank, while they scooped up available cash. They failed to open the safe.

The robbers fled in an orange colored, light sedan, officers said.

Bank officials said the loss was fully covered by insurance.

At Raleigh reports were received by the highway patrol that the men had been seen heading toward Shelby enroute to Charlotte.

Still Located In Swift Creek Area

A 40-gallon copper still, not in operation, was located and destroyed by officers yesterday afternoon. This still was found in Swift Creek township, about 200 yards from the ACL railroad tracks and about a mile and a half from Hanrahan.

Taking part in the raid were ABC Officer J. M. Ward, Deputies Sheriff, R. W. Tyson and R. W. King and Constable Adams of Swift Creek.

The still was believed by the officers to have been run early yesterday morning. It was destroyed by dynamite.

U. D. C. Meets

The George B. Singletary Chapter of the U. D. C. met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. B. Picklen.

The meeting was opened with the ritual after which "The Old North State" was sung. It was decided to send a box to the Old Ladies' Home in Fayetteville at Thanksgiving and also to remember our Pitt County veterans.

An address was given by Miss Sallie Joyner Davis on North Carolina's part in the War Between the States. She told of the preparation made and the many articles imported by North Carolina to be used. North Carolina prepared in a very systematic manner. Many articles were brought in by blockade runners, among them medical and other supplies from England. The salt supply also was managed by the state. North Carolina furnished one sixth of the soldiers and one fourth of the supplies, and fed more than half the soldiers. This was a most interesting program. A delicious salad course was served by the hostesses.

Athenium Club Meets

Mrs. J. J. Perkins was the delightful hostess to the member of the Athenium Club Tuesday at her home on Fourth street. The house was beautifully decorated with colorful fall flowers.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. S. M. Crisp, and the regular business of the club was transacted. During the roll call many interesting current issues were discussed.

Mrs. Perkins' topic for the afternoon was "Modern Inventions and New Discoveries," which was ably told in a most interesting manner. Setting forth the numerous mechanical inventions during the past hundred years that have eased man's burdens, and recounting the vast discoveries in the field of science and medicine to protect and safeguard life, the speaker revealed the part these things have played in raising the standards of living for mankind.

At the conclusion of the presentation of the afternoon's program a course luncheon was served, accompanied by favors carrying out the idea of the Thanksgiving season.

The club members were delighted to have as their guests for the afternoon the hostess' mother, Mrs. C. H. Richardson of Washington, Mrs. K. W. Messick and Mrs. Bruce Warren.—Reported.

Services in the Methodist Church tonight.

This has been one of the disagreeable days we sometimes hear about.

Cemetery Enlarged

Some time ago the town purchased a plot of ground on the Rouse property to be added to Cherry Hill cemetery. This new plot and the Methodist cemetery have both been taken into the enclosure with Cherry Hill and it is now all one. The new addition has been laid off in lots for sale.

Round Table Meets

The ladies of the Round Table were guests of Mrs. H. L. Carr yesterday afternoon for a regular meeting. Possibly the most important matter of the short business session was the unanimous vote of approval of a motion that the Round Table make a Book Week gift of $25 to Sheppard Memorial Library.

The paper for the afternoon, "The South in Industry," was given by Mrs. Carr. The study was excellent, showing extensive research and careful preparation. Mrs. Carr gave much time to the newer industries which the South is learning to develop as King Cotton is being de-throned.

During the social hour the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. W. A. Darden and Mrs. Hunter Fleming of Wilson, served a delicious salad plate with hot tea.

SOCIAL and LOCAL

Monthly Supper Club.
The Monthly Supper Club of the Christian Church met Tuesday night, Nov. 8th.
The idea of Thanksgiving made a very beautiful table. Yellow chrysanthemums in a crystal bowl was used for the centerpiece.
A very delightful supper was served by Misses Margaret Moore and Lillian Forrest.
Thornton Ryan led the devotional. The theme was "Patience." He closed with a prayer.
James Keel was the speaker of the evening. He told something of his travels, showing articles and pictures which he had collected. The whole group enjoyed his interesting talk tremendously.
After the benediction, the club was dismissed until next month. —Reported.

The Avon Players.
In the most important dramatic event of the year, the Avon Players will appear here tonight at the high school auditorium and present "The Taming of the Shrew," one of Shakespeare's better comedies. The troupe of fifteen actors will be in full costume and equipped with the best scenery available. They are under the direction of Joseph Selman, famous theatrical manager. They appeared here last year and presented "Merchant of Venice." A large crowd is expected.

Library News

1938 Book Week Nov. 13-19
Book Week observance in Pitt county is going nicely. Due to the interest and activity of the Association for Childhood Education each school unit in the county is giving some special emphasis to reading for pleasure. Handwork is being placed in Sheppard Memorial Library. The display is attractive. The float showing Tom Sawyer as he splashes paint on the fence and on his own overalls is attracting much attention.
The Hobby Lobby is receiving interesting collections. Miss Rosalie Saied has brought in and arranged an excellent display of rocks all properly labeled and classified.
More school work and additional hobby collections will be brought in each day.
The book clubs of Greenville are helping with things worth while as usual. Today Mrs. David Winchard, Jr., Mrs. Clifton Edwards and Mrs. J. B. Cummings, a committee from the Atheneum Club, will visit the grammar schools of the city, presenting a membership application card to all children who are not already active library readers. The child will fill out the blank, get his parents' signature then present the card at the library desk for formal acceptance. This plan will introduce some children to the library who just didn't know about it before.
The Reading Club held its Book Week meeting in the library auditorium this afternoon at 3:30. A full report of the meeting will be given tomorrow.

Chatham Book Club Meets
The Chatham Book Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Lee Hannah which was attractively decorated with a colorful variety of fall flowers. Every member of the club was present and after a short business session conducted by Mrs. R. S. Neal, the president of the club, Mrs. W. P. Moore gave an interesting talk on "Modern American Novelists" which included sketches of the lives of such well known writers as Carolina Miller, Marvin Sims, Margaret Mitchell, Thomas Wolfe and Pearl Buck and a short review of Earle Author's most outstanding work. At the conclusion of Mrs. Moore's program the hostess served a very tasty salad course with coffee. —Reported.

End of the Century Club Meets.
Mrs. R. M. Garrett was gracious hostess to the End of the Century Club Tuesday afternoon, at her home on Country Club Drive.
In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. S. Ficklen, Mrs. R. C. Stokes presided. She welcomed Mrs. R. J. Slay who is the club guest of Mrs. Meadows for the current year. After roll call, reading of the minutes, and a short business session, the president turned the meeting over to the program committee.
Mrs. Garrett welcomed and presented Miss Ethel Nice, guest speaker of the afternoon. Miss Nice discussed in an interesting manner the progress made by the rural women. She gave step by step, the development of their work from the tomato, garden and poultry clubs thru the study of clothing, consumer buying, budgeting, child study, adult education, landscape gardening, first aid, home management, modern electrical appliances, citizenship, farm and home tours and radio broadcasting.
Miss Nice gave special recognition to the services rendered the Pitt county women by Mrs. Blanche Cherry in the study of first aid, and by Mrs. J. B. Spilman in the study of citizenship.
After this excellent talk, the club was joined by Mrs. J. B. Spilman and Miss Isabella Hoy for a social hour and delicious refreshments. —Reported.

Little Jimmie, Stage State Presents Asher,
Coming from the hills of old Kentucky, Asher and Little Jimmie bring the genuine old songs which have made them so famous on the radio to the stage of the State theatre tomorrow (Thursday).
Songs of home, songs of heaven, the cowboy numbers to thrill the children, all are included in their act. Dad plays the guitar and leads the singing as Little Jimmie stands by his side on a chair, facing the audience with the same ease as a grown up artist.
On the screen at the State tomorrow will be "Torchy Gets Her Man," with Genda Farrell and Barton MacLane, plus serial and shorts.

South Louisiana farmers grow a squash-like vegetable of the cucumber family called the vegetable pear, or mirrillon.

Nursery At ECTC To Be Established

The growing Home Economics Department of the College will make one further step in advance next term by starting a nursery school in the rear apartment of the Home Management house.
The school will be under the direction of Miss Evelyn Rogers, at present studying at Chapel Hill. It is intended for children three or four years of age, and can accommodate eight.
Once the regular schedule is set up, the children will spend five hours at the school, arriving at nine o'clock and leaving at two and spending the time between in health examinations, indoor and outdoor play, directed activities, and sleep. There will be a mid-morning lunch and one at noon.
A term of ten dollars a child will be charged. Parents interested may secure application blanks from the registrar's office, East Carolina Teachers College.
The work of the school will be planned and carried out by home economics seniors of the college, under the direction of Miss Rogers.
Last year the Home Economics Department set up a school cafeteria for the Training School, under the direction of Miss Mary Berry Clark. So successful was it that it is continuing as a permanent part of the department's activities, just as the nursery school probably will.

FOES HELD BY DUKE DEFENSE

Opponents have Gained Only 302 Yards By Rushing
Durham, Nov. 16—Duke University's stalwart line, called by many nicknames including "The Seven Iron Dukes," has piled up one of the most amazing records in the history of American football as the Blue Devils have campaigned undefeated, untied and unscored on for seven games.
The Duke forwards, who receive most of the credit, and the linebackers, have held the seven opponents to a total net yardage by rushing of 302 yards, an average of about 43 yards per game. While they have done this, the Duke backs, although not in top shape offensively until the past two games, have rushed for 1,483 yards.
Least impressive department of this year's team is shown by statistics of the game to be the Blue Devils' pass defense. The opponents have completed almost half—39 out of 83 heaves, to be exact, for a total yardage of 464. Duke's passers have made good 25 out of 60 for 311 yards, 127 of which were made against Syracuse last week.
The Blue Devils have a punting average of 41.2 yards against 38.7 for all opponents but the Duke kicking game is much superior to that of opponents with a look at the yard punts have been returned which read 492 for Duke against 218 for opponents.
First downs are 83 for Duke and 36 for opponents.
Duke's individual leaders in ground gaining are Fullback Bob O'Mara, Halfback Eric Tipton and Quarterback Bob Spangler. O'Mara, who has carried the ball more than the others, has turned in 592 yards on 130 rushing plays, an average of 4.6 yards per buck. He has made numerous long runs. Tipton has 385 yards in 82 attempts for an average of 4.6 yards while Spangler, the ex-blocking back, has carried the ball 21 times for 215 yards, an average of 5.2.
Tipton's personal punting average is, strangely enough, the same as the team's mark—41.2 yards per kick. He is one yard behind his last year's kicking average. Tipton has completed exactly half of his passes—19 out of 38—for total gains of 242 yards.
Co-Captain Dan (Tiger) Hill, the flaming-haired center, has been the inspiration and stand-out of Duke's line. He is so versatile that in the past three games he has called signals about half of the time.

Mission Study Class To Meet.
The Woman's Missionary Society of Memorial Baptist Church will hold their mission study class in the Baraca room on Friday, November 18th, from 10:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. Lunch will be served at the parsonage. Miss Louise Carter, educational director of the church, will teach the book "For This Cause." All members are urged to attend.

Martin Swartz On Institute Program

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Greenville Water and Light Commission, will take an important part in the institute for gas plant operators, to be held at N. C. State college tomorrow and Friday.

Mr. Swartz will assist members of the faculty in instructions and also is scheduled to speak at the Thursday morning session on accidents and accident prevention.

The local Water and Light Commission has taken the lead in the prevention of accidents. Four employees of the plant last spring took an instructor's course in first aid, conducted at Rocky Mount by Dr. Otis Marshall first aid expert for the Red Cross. Since completing this course the four men have conducted two classes in first aid training in Greenville. It also is planned to conduct an instructor's course here the latter part of this month.

Only 2 Cases Tried At Afternoon Session

Only two cases were heard at the afternoon session of Pitt County court yesterday, one defendant being acquitted and the other being given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of costs.

Billie James, Negro, was given the choice of spending 30 days at the county home or paying the costs of court for being drunk on the highway. Bert Carter, Willie Perry and Alex Perry, all Negroes, were acquitted of a charge of having materials for the manufacture of illegal liquor.

FIRE STATION CONTRACTS LET BY OFFICIALS OF CITY

(Continued from page one) now are in the PWA offices in Atlanta awaiting approval. As soon as they are returned bids will be asked for and the contract let. The PWA is providing 45 per cent of the total cost of the several projects approved at a bond election. A total of $128,117.02 is available for the new city hall.

MAKES ATTACK ON SALES TAX

(Continued from Page One) of the 15 cent per $100 property tax formerly levied by the state. This sounds good until you start to make some inquiries about it and analyze just what it means. It is true that the man who owns a small home no longer pays the state a few dollars a year in property tax, but he pays three or four times as much by the sales tax route. When we make the humble voter realize this fact, let the politicians beware.

(Continued from page one) by whom delivered, the offense charged, the amount of bond, how released, date released, days in jail jail fees due, amount paid by the defendant and amount paid by the county. An extra column is provided for remarks for use in any unusual case. The jailer is held responsible for all jail fees until relieved by some authorized agency. A certification from a justice of the peace or clerk of court that a defendant was sent to the roads will automatically release the jailer of any responsibility. Certificates that no costs were assessed, in which event the county pays half the fees, also releases the jailer. Under the new system complete information on the defendant is available from the time he enters the jail until he is dismissed and fees paid or marked off.

CAPT. C. D. FARMER SPEAKS AT COLLEGE

(Continued from Page One) he gave the advice—"Teach the younger generation to be safety-minded. Teach them obedience not only to parents but to law. We don't have the obedience we should have from our young children. If we die, we should have a safer place in which to live." Laws, he told the students, are made by your representatives, and that makes the responsibility partly your own. For safety's sake avoid one arm driving. "When John reaches over to pat you on the shoulders, say 'No, no John, you're driving.' 'We're out there to help you,' declared the patrolman. "We are to guard and watch out for your safety. If you want to 'neck' stay at home to do it." Then, the driving public today is running too fast. It is trying to beat the red light. Eastern Carolina has more accidents than Western Carolina because the roads are much straighter. "We are painting our highways with human blood, and it's red." All over the nation today there is the trend toward toward decreasing fatalities, but not toward fewer accidents.

Moore's donat and Rosanna Russell co-starred at the Pitt in "The Citadel," Friday and Saturday.

"I dare any of you to study safety for six months and say then you're not interested in it. You get a kick out of it because you're saving lives."

WELFARE BODY TO HOLD MEET

(Continued from Page One) State Commission for the Blind, Senator W. G. Clark, Tarboro, and other prominent speakers will appear on the program. Judge J. Paul Prizelle, Resident Judge, will preside at the luncheon meeting and present Governor Hoey to the group. Indications now point to a large attendance at the Snow Hill meeting. All those living in Pitt County who expect to attend the conference and be present for the luncheon are asked to notify the local Welfare office not later than Friday noon, November 18, that preparations may be made to take care of all visitors for the luncheon.

held on December 14, at 7 o'clock p. m., in the Woman's Club with a dutch-treat supper. If you are a scoutmaster, assistant troop committeeman or senior leader of any kind, keep this date open for scouting.

This week-end found only a few scouts at the cabin passing tests. Were you one of the few? Those are the boys who will "be prepared" when the first Monday in December brings another Board of Review.

Are you going camping Thanksgiving? The East Carolina Council is planning a council camp at Camp Leach, down on the Pamlico, for the three days following Thanksgiving. The camp is to open on Friday, November 25th, and close immediately after a turkey dinner on Sunday, Nov. 27th. The cost is only $2.25, which includes all food and costs. Scouts will have to bring blankets, quilts and furnish own transportation to and from the camp. The 25c is to be sent as a registration fee. Troop 30 voted to change its meeting night to Thursdays. All scout members and boys who plan to join this troop are urged to be at the Methodist Church Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 o'clock.

A "Class A" goes to Mr. Bryson, new scoutmaster of Troop 30 who is doing a splendid job. The boys like you, Mr. Bryson.

The cubs and parents at the regular cub pack meeting Friday in the Parish House, under the leadership of Jake Hadley, decided to have the regular pack meeting the first Monday in each month.

Several scouts are working toward a trip to Goldsboro Sunday to pass life saving and swimming.

The Grimesladd Troop 40 will be reorganized this week. It has been lapsed for some time but is prepared with new leadership to do real scouting again. This was one of the first troops to be organized in Pitt county.

Troop 34, Ayden, and 25, Farmville, are lapsed. Let's get in the registration fellows. Don't get a dropped work against your troop.

Troops due to re-register this month are: Greenville, Troop 38; Fountain, Troop 64; Paoctolus, Troop 78; Farmville, Troop 85 (Colored). Please don't let the 30th pass without having your troop in good standing. Re-register now.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Aviation shares, leading a momentary whirl in armament stocks, sought higher levels today, but the market generally had difficult getting off the ground.
Many stocks ran into stiff opposition as they attempted to regain the heights of the post-election upswing and backed down, leaving the list near the fourth hour with a mixture of moderate gains and losses.

In bonds a drive for resumption of the 1937 bull movement had difficulty getting started.

N. C. TURKEYS GO TO MARKET

An Earlier Marketing Season Planned In Many Sections

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Nov. 15.—Their worm catching days will be over, but North Carolina turkeys are going to be early birds on the Thanksgiving market this year, according to A. B. Harless, senior marketing specialist of the state Department of Agriculture.

An earlier marketing season than usual is planned in many sections and already many of the early-hatched birds have been sold, he said.

To the producer the season should be as favorable as in 1937, he predicted. The turkey crop will be about 3.7 per cent larger than last year and the birds are expected to be heavier than then, due to abundant supplies of feed. This condition should be offset, however, by the smaller carryover of turkeys in cold storage, increased consumer incomes and the earlier marketing season, Harless said.

A year ago market prices moved up quite sharply around Thanksgiving, but just prior to the holiday prices took a down-turn as the markets became glutted with an excessive supply resulted in an effort by producers to sell while prices were still firm.

This year wholesale turkey dealers hope to hold prices more in line through more orderly marketing, so that top heavy supplies of heavy weights will not predominate and a premium have to be set up for the lighter weights.

An early survey among members of the turkey trade reveals that guesses as to the retail range of dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving range up to the 30 cent vicinity, and if that price should prevail then the demand should be good, Harless forecast.

The fact that poultry prices are low will help to hold turkey prices down, some operators say, but this is not likely unless turkey prices get out of line.

At present turkeys are bringing 23 cents per pound to the producer in Raleigh, while in Chicago they are wholesaling at 25 cents. In Fort Worth, Texas, on a basis of live weight delivered at the dressing plants young toms and hens are bringing 14¢ and 15¢.

Wheeler heard him out with a suffused countenance in which dumb gratitude struggled with resentment and shame. They parted, if not amicably, at least on terms of better understanding, while he wondered, in a kind of daze, how much of this I was supposed to put in my notes.

I still have those notes—a cryptic tangle of unorthodox pathos and jaw-breaking elisions, incomprehensible to anyone but me; and even I am baffled by passages that look like nothing so much as ancient Sanskrit. They are written in pencil on sheets of cheap stationery, stamped with the regimental insignia, which had been supplied in the reading room for use of the enlisted men.

I don't know why I have kept them. They're a macabre souvenir of a night I don't particularly want to remember but am not likely to forget. No doubt the tabloids would have paid me for them—handsomely. As it was, their headlines were to be strangely top-heavy. Triple murder and suicide at Fort Havens. Homicide mania—that was the explanation dished out by Adam, and they had to accept it, for no one else would tell them anything. The united front in time of trouble...

Wheeler turned a sickly white and got to his feet, covering his mouth with his hand.

"I forgot—I forgot she was dead," he said painfully.

There was a long ash on his cigar and he began to hunt for a place to deposit it as if it were a stick of dynamite.

It was obvious that Adam had forgotten all about me. He spoke to Wheeler tersely and with some heat, employing pungent language to describe exactly what was wrong with Wheeler and what to do about it.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Prizefighters are sentimental. They won't admit it but all of them like to weep occasionally for Auld Lang Syne. You never saw one in your life that didn't autograph his pictures. "To My Pal—I Hope You Get All the Breaks." Dempsey is no exception. Jack Sharkey has been known to burst into tears over matters emotionally trivial. Jess Willard should have been a painter or a builder of bridges. He was always a dreamer. Jim Braddock can talk out the side of his mouth in the most elegant gas house manner, but he is incurably romantic.

I was thinking of this and watching those men, all those ex-fighters and managers and sports writers and touts and the others who are always to be found around pugilistic rendezvous, as they stood three deep before the bar in that tavern on Eighth avenue—that tavern run by the once great Mickey Walker who was known as the Toy Bulldog.

It was about five in the afternoon and New York in November is dark at that hour. The tavern was a blaze of light. You couldn't hear yourself think but you couldn't pick up any words at that moment. There was too much competition for that, too much conversation. But you could sit back at your table and look at the vast ocean of portraits on the walls—portraits of every fighter who ever gained any prominence down through the years. And in the center was that picture which to me has always been the most marvelous study of a fighter ever taken.

It was Dempsey, but a young, lean Dempsey of 20 years ago, clad in white trunks, hair close-cropped, a rock-fisted, untamed young giant who might have just stepped down from Olympus—that's what he looked like.

You've seen this picture. You've seen it on the covers of magazines, and on the walls of sports arenas, and on tavern walls here to the Golden Gate and back. And in it he seems almost too real. You half expect him to step down from the wall and maybe sock-you or shake your hand, but he doesn't. And then you notice the legend he has written on it in his close, almost effeminate hand: "To My Pal Mickey—Good Luck Always—Jack Dempsey."

Nearby is a picture of Bennie Leonard, and on it is written, "To My Pal Mickey." Jimmy McLarnin, thousands of others of their pugilistic brethren are there and all of them have written "To My Pal," or its equivalent.

It's a nice gesture. The gang likes it. Somebody points to a picture of Joe Gans and says, "Don't you remember when?" The next guy says, "That was when he missed with that left hook..." and it goes like that for hours, and for always. As I say, they were three deep at the bar, but it was no special occasion. Just the usual get-together in Mickey's tavern. The talk was thick but the smoke was thicker than that. As my waiter brought me a beer somebody put a nickel in the phonograph and it started to play Tiger Rag. The waiter shook his head. "What's the matter? Don't you like Tiger Rag?" He shook his head again. "They're always playing them fast tunes," he said. "I like 'em slow and romantic. Them romantic tunes make me sad."

"You sent the musicians away?"

"Yes, after questioning them briefly. The light was against them all during the balloon dance—they

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

The Characters
Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post.
Elizabeth, Colonel Wright's daughter.
Adam Drew, officer in charge of the investigation.

Yesterday: Adam starts questioning, while I take notes behind a curtain.

Chapter 11

Not Enough To Go On

WHEELER sat down abruptly in a leather chair beside the big table, fumbled in a breast pocket of his dinner jacket and, producing two cigars, one of which Adam curtly declined, proceeded elaborately to light up.

"What's this about your mother saving you from Anne Carewe?" Adam asked with a dangerous glint in his eyes.

Wheeler's preoccupation with his cigar failed to disguise the fatuous look which contorted his sharp features. He leaned back, watching the smoke that rose from his small, effeminate mouth.

"That's a lot of rot," he said airily. "You know how women are. I'm quite able to protect myself from that type of skirt."

Adam half rose from his chair, his knuckles white on the table, but thought better of it.

"Explain that," he said curtly.

"There's nothing to explain. She made a pass at me and I let her see I wasn't having any. She's shameless."

Eyes blazing, Adam rose from his chair, leaned across the table and slapped Wheeler deliberately across the mouth.

"I had to listen to your mother's filthy insinuations," he said savagely. "But I'll teach you to keep a clean tongue in your head."

Wheeler turned a sickly white and got to his feet, covering his mouth with his hand.

"I forgot—I forgot she was dead," he said painfully.

There was a long ash on his cigar and he began to hunt for a place to deposit it as if it were a stick of dynamite.

I don't know why I have kept them. They're a macabre souvenir of a night I don't particularly want to remember but am not likely to forget. No doubt the tabloids would have paid me for them—handsomely. As it was, their headlines were to be strangely top-heavy. Triple murder and suicide at Fort Havens. Homicide mania—that was the explanation dished out by Adam, and they had to accept it, for no one else would tell them anything. The united front in time of trouble...

Wheeler heard him out with a suffused countenance in which dumb gratitude struggled with resentment and shame. They parted, if not amicably, at least on terms of better understanding, while he wondered, in a kind of daze, how much of this I was supposed to put in my notes.

I still have those notes—a cryptic tangle of unorthodox pathos and jaw-breaking elisions, incomprehensible to anyone but me; and even I am baffled by passages that look like nothing so much as ancient Sanskrit. Washington—Out of its troubles the department of agriculture is shaping its A-1 arguments against the demand for the domestic allotment plan rising from the farm belt.

One of the tasks the department undertook when it began controlling wheat production was to market the surplus abroad. This year the exportable surplus was estimated at 100,000,000 bushels, or roughly one-tenth of the supply.

In normal years this amount would have slid into the world market without much ado, but a half dozen wheat exporting countries have surpluses this year while the usual heavy buyers in Europe are buying more bombs and less wheat.

Had To Match Subsidies
Other wheat countries, including Canada, began subsidizing the export of some of its wheat and the department of agriculture had to follow suit if it expected to move the 100,000,000 bushels.

Special Note: Secretary Walllace's proposed two-price system by which subsidy payments would be used to make prices lower for poor Americans instead of poor foreigners, doesn't apply so well to wheat. The department believes the wheat it cares for and a subsidy would not make it eat more.

The department's original plan was to have the exportable surplus moved by January, so it would be out of the way of the huge Argentine and Australian crops. These countries harvest in January, since they are on the other end of the world.

Still Have Our Surplus
To date the department has been able to market only about 15,000-000 bushels of wheat after three months of effort. Half the time is gone and not more than a sixth of the exportable wheat.

The department has been offering exporters a subsidy reported to be 19 cents a bushel but they have insisted that the world will not take the wheat unless a 30-cent subsidy is paid. That would be equal almost to half of the present market price of wheat.

Now the department, in spite of the demands of the exporters, is convinced that 19 cents a bushel is quite a bonus, even though Rumania, as an instance, is reported to be paying 26 cents. Since the 19 cent subsidy won't move the crop, the department feels it has a good argument against advocates of the domestic allotment system which involves a forced sale abroad of the surplus.

The domestic allotment plan, it will be recalled, provides that the amount of wheat this country consumes and saves for reserve will be left in the market but all surplus will be set aside for export.

To Subsidize Or Not?
Advocates of the plan urge that with the 10 per cent of exportable surplus taken off the market, the domestic price would automatically seek a higher price level. The surplus, sold abroad even at a lower price, might bring the total income up to a level comparable with other industry.

Now the department feels it has fairly well established that the world will not take much U. S. surplus even with a 19 cent subsidy when other nations are willing to match it subsidy for subsidy, has the department argued, if the country can't eat the surplus nor sell it abroad at a fair price, it should not grow it.

Whether the farm belt will accept this situation as an argument against domestic allotment and in favor of the present crop control plan is something the department won't even guess until the temper of the new Congress is better known.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Nov. 16.—Government agencies and private philanthropy are a part of a democratic process when they have as their chief objective the rehabilitation of our citizens, Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill this afternoon told a district welfare conference at Mocksville as he continued a series of talks begun yesterday at Brevard. He will speak again tomorrow at Monroe at the final district meeting.

Through such agencies as the National Youth Administration and Civilian Conservation Corps, the Federal government seeks to prevent rather than palliate social maladjustment," he said in a prepared speech. "Such programs have won the praise of the American people because they seek to conserve our social resources."

Yesterday at Brevard, Commissioner Gill took a powerful wisecrack at dictators and distasteful ideas of approaching social problems.

"In Germany, Italy and Russia public welfare is an instrument through which the despot strengthens his hold upon the people. In the dictator nations the poor may receive bread but they pay for it with their liberty."

"In free nations public welfare should be a democratic process; a means by which the nation attempts to make free men of those who have fallen under the slavery of bad economic and social conditions."

Probably nobody can give any rational explanation of the phenomenon, but there's a growing current of opinion among Raleigh sports fans and keen observers that Doc Newton's starved Wolves are going to get a piece of Blue Devil meat Saturday—not a big piece, but enough to spoil that perfect Duke record on defense.

Many folks who know previous history are wondering how long it's going to be before the wolves begin biting Newton.

A recently story told of $60,000,000 spent in North Carolina in the past year by tourists.

Confirmation of an increasing stream of traffic from other states is given by the Statewide Highway Planning Survey. Figures compiled by the survey, headed by James B.
Burch, engineer of statistics and planning of the Highway Commission, show that traffic over U. S.
No. 1, north of Raleigh has increased in 1938 by 17.3 per cent over the corresponding period of 1937.

Inasmuch as No. 1 carries more "foreign" cars than any other route in the state, these figures are indicative of a big increase in tourist travel.

U. S. 117, south of Goldsboro, shows no change from 1937 to 1938.
No. 29, south of Salisbury, has been up 1.8 per cent this year, but there has been a decline of 1.4 per cent on
No. 19, west of Asheville.

These percentages were arrived at after counts by the "electric eye" on the highways as indicated.

Submitted by Miss Frances Johnson, executive secretary of the North Carolina Truck Owners Association, as a clipping from an unidentified publication:

MORAL: DRIVE CAREFULLY
When autos first came into use,
The roads were not so wide;
And often at some narrow point,
Two autos would collide.

But highways now are straight and broad,
And when you take a drive,
You seldom see two cars pile up;
Instead, it's four or five.

SOIL SAMPLES ARE EXAMINED

Approximately 5,400 Varieties Appraised For Farmers

Raleigh, Nov. 15.—Approximately 5,400 samples of soil were examined and appraised for farmers of North Carolina during the fiscal year 1937-28. It is revealed by C. E. Williams, head of the Agronomy Department of State College, in his annual report on research work by agronomists of the North Carolina Experiment Station. This is despite the fact that no publicity has been given to the fact that State College is doing this analysis of soils to determine lime and fertilizer requirements.

Director of the Experiment Station at State College, is asking the next General Assembly to appropriate $15,000 for this specific purpose. Last year the Little State of Vermont spent more than $13,000 for this type of work.

Up to the present, the examination and appraisal of soil samples has consisted in the main in establishing the soil types, their physical condition, the character of drainage, their topography, their approximate content of organic matter and their PH readings. Prof. Williams says the information resulting from the examination, coupled with the results at hand from carefully conducted field experiments, enables the Agronomy Department to give reasonably accurate recommendations in each case with reference to what should be done in the way of fertilizer, lime and other treatments of the soil for producers to obtain best paying results from crops grown on the soils.

How's Your Health?

By Iago Galdston, M.D.
NEW DISCOVERIES

The outposts in medical research are very insecure territory. Many a medical reputation has been severely injured by the premature claim to the conquest of a terrain tentatively and incertaintly held.

With this very much in mind we offer a report on some outposts in medical research.

A relative of the new drug sulphamamide, called for short, M. & B. 693, has been found to have a marked destructive effect on pneumonia germs. First tried on mice, it was found that M. & B. 693 protected them against otherwise fatal experimental infections.

Subsequently the drug was used in the treatment of pneumonia in human beings. One report, recently published, is quite impressive. A girl aged seven suffering from pneumococcus meningitis was successfully treated with M. & B. 693. Recovery from meningitis caused by pneumonia germs is extremely rare.

Another report describes the dramatic cleansing of the blood of pneumonia germs effected by this drug. Pneumococcal septicemia (the presence of pneumonia germs in the circulating blood) is always a very grave condition. If further experience corroborate these findings, M. & B. 693 will prove a valuable weapon against pneumonia.

In the field of psychiatry where the recently developed insulin shock treatment caused so much excitement there is a report on treating extremely agitated and excited patients by increasing the calcium content of their blood and cerebrospinal fluid. It is based on the knowledge that low-blood calcium increases nervous and muscular irritability, while high blood calcium has the opposite effect.

The treatment was tried on 19 patients in a mental hospital, with markedly encouraging results.

Cortin, an endocrine substance derived from the outer portion of the adrenal glands, has been successfully used in the treatment of extremely weak and debilitated infants, who are without appetite, and whose nutrition is defective.

Cortin has been used to treat Addison's disease, where it serves to replace the substance which the sufferer's own adrenal glands cannot supply. Since in such sufferers cortin also stimulated appetite and improves nutrition, it was thought reasonable to try it with weakened infants.

WEEVILS RUIN MUCH OF CORN

Destroyed Approximately 6,349,000 Bushels in 1937

Raleigh, Nov. 15.—Weevils destroyed approximately 6,349,980 bushels of the 45,357,000 bushels of North Carolina's 1937 corn crop. These most destructive insect pests of stored corn in the State annually take a toll of about 14 per cent of the crop.

The average farmer looks upon such losses as a necessary evil and does little or nothing to protect himself from them when he might treat the corn at a slight cost and realize profitable returns later on higher markets, says J. O. Rowell, extension entomologist at State College.

Weevils begin their attack on the corn in the field. When the crop is harvested and stored in the barn, conditions are favorable for the rapid increase of these pests. The new harvest should never be stored with corn remaining in the crib from last year's crop, Rowell stated.

Unless the old corn is properly treated and cared for, it will harbor a heavy infestation of weevils which will spread rapidly to the new crop. Storage bins should be thoroughly cleaned, accumulations of old grain removed, and the woodwork of the crib treated before the new corn is stored. Any odorless, tasteless, water-white petroleum similar to commercial fly sprays is satisfactory for walls and floors.

Accumulations of old grain and floor sweepings from the previous crop should be burned or, if it is to be used as feed, fumigated with carbon disulphide. But it should be remembered that carbon disulphide is inflammable and explosive. Sweepings may be placed in a tight bin or barrel and the liquid poured directly over it, using the liquid at the rate of three-fourths of a pint to a barrel of sweepings.

NOTICE OF RE-SALE OF CITY HOUSES

Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, made in the Special Proceeding entitled S. G. Wilkerson, Administrator of James E. Nelson vs. J. M. C. Nelson and others, heirs at law, of James E. Nelson, the same being No. 3850 upon the docket of said court, on account of upset bids offered for said properties, the undersigned commissioner will on Saturday, November 26, 1938 at 12 o'clock, Noon at the court house door in Greenville, Pitt County, N. C., offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, those certain lots with the houses thereon lying and being in the town of Greenville, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, more particularly described as follows:

FIRST PARCEL: In southeast Greenville on the north side of Chestnut Street, said lot lying just east of the old Pitt County Fair Grounds, being Lot No. 12 in Block 8, as will appear by reference to map of Higgs Brothers Property, said lot being described as follows: Beginning at the southwest corner of Lot No. 13 and running in a northerly course along the northern line of lot No. 13, a distance of 150 feet to the northwestern corner of Lot No. 13; thence in a westerly course, parallel with Chestnut Street, 50 feet; thence in a southerly course, parallel with first line, 150 feet to Chestnut Street; thence along Chestnut Street in an easterly course 50 feet to the beginning, and being the same lot conveyed by J. T. Pilley to James E. Nelson by deed dated Jan. 2, 1924, duly registered in Book 8-14, at page 538.

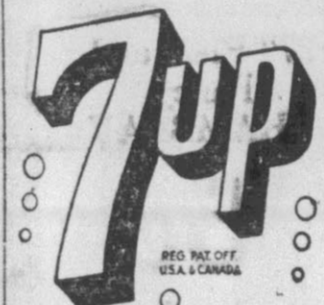

SECOND PARCEL: Lying and being on Wade Street and known as Lot No. 12 and a portion of Lot No. 11 on plat of property formerly owned by Greenville Knitting Mills, and known as the W. H. Dall Property, as surveyed and platted by H. L. Rivers, Engineer, and of record in Map Book No. 1, at page 135, said lot facing 40 feet on Wade Street and running back between parallel lines a distance of 85 feet, and being the same and identical property conveyed by H. L. Williams and wife Rillie Williams, to James E. Nelson by deed dated Dec. 29, 1921, duly registered in Book X-13, at page

HIS FIGURES, but they still don't come out right if one can judge by the pursed lips of Sen. William Borah (R-Idaho), as he tabulates election returns. Borah, dean of the senate, was not up for re-election.

The bidding on the First Parcel will begin at the price of $892.50 and on the SECOND PARCEL at the price of $632.50, and the highest bidder at this sale will be required to deposit 10 per cent of the amount bid as a guarantee of good faith pending confirmation of the sale by the court.

This November 10, 1938. S. G. WILKERSON, Commissioner. James L. Evans, Atty. Nov. 12-14-24-26.
