

Jobless Rate Sees Major Decline

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's unemployment rate dropped from 8.3 per cent to 7.8 per cent in January, the largest monthly decline in the jobless rate in more than 16 years, the government said today.

The Labor Department said total employment in January increased by 800,000, the largest monthly job increase since early 1960. Total employment in the economy in January was 86.2 million, which was close to the prerecession peak employment in July of 1974.

Any decline in unemployment would be eagerly welcomed by the Ford administration, since its program for reducing unemployment in 1976 is being criticized as inadequate. And 1976 is a presidential election year.

"Maybe we'd better start thinking about some new ideas to produce more jobs," he told Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Both appeared before the Senate Budget Committee.

The administration's 1976 forecast for unemployment is for about a 7.3 per cent rate by the end of the year. For all of 1976, unemployment is expected to average 7.7 per cent and for 1977 average 6.9 per cent.

—Adult women, 7.5 per cent, down from 8 per cent. —Whites, 7.1 per cent, down from 7.6 per cent. —Blacks and other races, 13.2 per cent, down from 13.8 per cent.

Quake Toll Estimates Soar

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP)—The U.N. Disaster Relief Organization—UNDRO—estimated today that nearly 6,000 persons died and 40,000 were injured in Wednesday's earthquake in Guatemala as the United States began a 17-plane airlift of aid to the devastated country.

The U.S. Embassy said the survey confirmed the total destruction of several cities, including Joyabaj, population 32,000; Tecpan, 24,000; and Patzún, 11,000. The town of Chimaltenango, 20,000 population, was 98 per cent leveled.

Long-Pending Request For Rezoning Approved

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer A rezoning request that had been before the Planning & Zoning Commission and City Council for some eight months involving property north of E. Fifth Street finally gained Council approval Thursday night.

The proposal approved at the Nov. 19 planning meeting stipulated a "proposed boundary starting on Fifth Street, proceeding northerly along Fifth (the old Brown-Wilson line) to a point along the south side of Third Street, if it were extended; then, proceed west to Hill Top Drive; at Hill Top go south the width of one lot (134 feet); then, (Continued on page 14)

OMBUDSMAN I understand there's some kind of assistant to the Governor that you can contact when all else has failed in trying to solve a problem that has to do with state government. What's his name and phone number? M.J.

The "People's Man" or Ombudsman is a North Carolina governmental official appointed by Gov. Jim Holshouser to solicit and investigate complaints of citizens about abuses or inactions by public officials and government in general. He is said to have authority which extends to the many departments and agencies over which the Governor has direct jurisdiction.

He says that once a case comes to his attention, an investigation and response is usually completed within 10 days. Surveys concerning 1975 cases revealed that 72 per cent of the cases handled by Gallagher were "completely satisfied," and another seven per cent were "somewhat satisfied."

Skirts Are Back; But Pants Remain Strong On Fashion Scene

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Somewhere along the way fashion forecasters predicted the return of skirts and the end of the pants look for women.

They were 50 per cent correct. Skirts are back, but pants haven't disappeared by any means. They're a strong trend in the women's garment industry for spring and summer 1976. And it looks as if they will continue to be as long as sportswear is the major force in American fashion.

Women's Wear Daily, the trade publication, in a national sales survey reported a "peaceful coexistence" between skirts and pants. "Retailers view the return of the skirt as a plus and maintain the customer is not deserting pants, just tossing in some skirts to give her variety."

"Pants are still a staple and are being given fashion impetus through new fabrics and silhouettes — such as the ankle tie, the jumpsuit and different lengths."

One of the new directions of pants is toward the uniform, such as copies of workers' jumpsuits, painters' pants, mechanics' suits, waiters' jackets, parachutists' gear and filling station attendant coveralls. One Fifth Avenue, New York, store is advertising a coverall with the store's label across the back. Other coveralls carry labels for various gasoline brands.

Come summer, pants will be available in all lengths from the ankle right on up to the fanny. Back are the long Bermudas (just above the knees), clam diggers (just below the knees), and culottes or the pants-skirt.

Jumpsuits for day are tailored in sturdy fabrics; in evening are done in the dressiest of chiffons, satins and beaded materials. A lot of the fancy pants for evening bare the shoulders and are strapless. Skirts are part of the sportswear action, the new ones cut to sling low on the hips, many pleated on the sides or cut on the bias for flare; others have tie waistlines. Favorite tops these days are the T-shirts in infinite variety and ornamentation.

Putting it all together as New York manufacturers-designers call the signals for the coming season, it is going to be one of casual looks.

The classics, such as blazers, will be strong, and so will the layered look of winter, going on into spring and summer with lots of loose layers of light-weight fabrics making the garment. Buttons give way to wraps, elasticized waists, drawstrings and ties, all for a softer, easier silhouette.

No one even mentions hemlines these days, but generally in skirts they're below the knees for daytime.

As part of the softened look watch for dresses that play up fabric, not figure. They include clear geometrics, linear looks and stripes of every kind. Prints include florals, oriental motifs, leaves and old-fashioned calico.

Spring brings a lot of the "hard work" fabrics such as twill, duck, denim and heavy cotton in sportswear. A season when cotton is back shows in lightweight batiste and voile, heavier wrinkle muslin and glazed chintz.

Polysters aim for the real silk look in honan, shantung and pongee finishes. For evening, the soft look comes from georgette, chiffon, satin, crepe de chine and nearly weightless jersey.

Colors for spring range from the earth neutrals to the bright florals. They are marigold, azalea pink, cornflower blue, strawberry, jade green and clear pastels. White is everywhere, looking cleanest and newest with black or blue. Other neutrals are the beige, vanilla and ivory tones. Naturally, in a Bicentennial year, look for combinations of red, white and blue.

Women's streamlining of their wardrobes, and making many parts interchangeable, carries over to accessories. Shoes are no longer the chunkies, but refined T-strap pumps, high-heeled Mary Janes and the simple sling and plain pump. In the so-called "sensible" shoe category are spectator oxfords, espadrille sandals and lots of flats.

Belts are narrowed and classic, with lots of low-slung hip belts and sashes on the new skirts. Handbags are either all purpose or slim and sleek to carry only a few accessories. Watch for the vertically shaped shoulder bag, the big pouch, the slim envelope and the multipocket look.

Hats are kept simple, with knit-skull caps, brimmed straws, neat cloches and occasionally a modified copy of the cowboy Stetson.

Apparently women are paring down themselves as well as their wardrobes.

The president of the Los Angeles Fashion Guild says the trend is to smaller sizes with customers. Paul Scott, who heads the organization of better ready-to-wear resources, told Women's Wear. "We all have been noticing that our best-selling sizes ... have slipped to a 4-6-8 and 10, away from the larger 14 to 16 sizes. All this intense interest in the right weight and strict diets and staying in shape is now starting to show in the pattern of women buying clothes."

follow his regimen in an informal organization called the Honolulu Marathon Clinic. In addition, he leads about 200 heart attack victims through an hour of calisthenics and gentle jogging three times weekly.

Hundreds of his followers, including some of the heart patients, compete in the annual 26-mile Honolulu Marathon.

The reward? Says Scaff: "We are saying that once someone gets into marathon condition the possibility of heart disease is so remote as to be negligible. We're dealing in what we think might be absolute protection."

Three years ago Scaff began working with heart attack victims. Based on national statistics — 37 per cent of those who survive a heart attack die within five years — more than 60 of the patients in Scaff's cardiac rehabilitation program should be dead by now.

"In our program, among those under 70, we have had zero deaths and zero heart attacks in three years," Scaff says.

Most doctors recommend exercise, but few recommend the dosage that Scaff says is essential.

The crucial difference between Scaff's program and others is that it forces the body to switch from burning carbohydrates to burning body fat, Scaff says. According to his theory, fat metabolism — which promotes the health of the heart and the rest of body — doesn't begin until exercise continues for at least 30 minutes.

Scaff believes this system is harmonious with the primitive roots of man.

"Basically, a sedentary person is sick," he says. "Man is a hunting primate. He survived by running. Man probably spent most of the day loping around looking for food."

"Three hours a week compared to what man used to do is ridiculously little."

Scaff recommends a medical exercise test, such as running on a treadmill while being given an electrocardiogram, before those over 35 take up his program.

And by running slowly, Scaff says, you avoid the sore muscles, back pain, "shin splints" and aching joints that often plague beginning joggers. Speed and endurance build naturally.

Running according to his rules, Scaff says, leads to a dramatic reduction in blood cholesterol, thought to be related to heart attack and stroke. Running also reduces other risk factors such as high blood pressure, high blood sugar and stress.

Serious runners find smoking impossible, eliminating yet another big risk factor.

"In our marathon clinic, an interesting thing has happened," Scaff says. "In two years we have seen no ulcers, no gall bladder disease, no diverticulitis."

"We had three couples who had been married several years

When Glamor Goes To Your Head

Doctor Says Jog At Sensible Speed

By BOB BARR
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — The trouble with a lot of joggers, says Dr. Jack Scaff, is that they run too fast.

Americans have bought millions of copies of books that offer fitness in six miles of running a week or 30 minutes a week of no-sweat exercise. Now comes Dr. Scaff with this prescription:

Don't run so fast that you're too out of breath to talk. Run with a smooth, rolling motion from heel to toe, not on the toes like a track star. Don't worry about how fast you're going.

The catch? Do that for at least an hour three times a week.

Scaff, a 40-year-old cardiologist who himself runs two hours three times a week, has signed up 1,300 persons of all ages who

Dear Abby

Reader With Hearing Problem Appeals To Abby For Help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many other people have my problem. I have suffered a 75 per cent hearing loss. You wouldn't believe the amount of money I have spent on hearing aids and therapy. All were useless because my loss is due to nerve damage, which can't be helped.

Abby, everyone shows so much kindness and compassion for a blind or crippled person, but if you happen to be hard of hearing, you are on your own!

If I ask people to please repeat what they've said, they either turn away and ignore me, or say, "Oh, forget it," or "Never mind." Believe me, there is no greater insult to a deaf person.

Abby, please ask people to be a little more patient with those of us who are hard of hearing. All they need do is to speak distinctly and raise their voices just a little. Thank you.

DEAF AND DISCOURAGED

DEAR DEAF: All right, here's your letter. READERS, CAN YOU HEAR ME OUT THERE?

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the elderly Florida couple who were "shacking up": There is nothing immoral about a couple living together without a so-called marriage license. Remember, Joseph and Mary lived together and were not married until after Jesus was born.

IRVING B.

DEAR IRVING: According to Jewish customs of Biblical times, Joseph and Mary were "betrothed"—a commitment so binding that if Joseph were to die before taking Mary under his own roof, Mary would become a widow. Or if Joseph backed out, he and Mary would require a legal divorce.

Although Mary and Joseph indeed shared one house, according to Matthew 1:25, "He did not know her (have sexual relations) until she brought forth her first-born son." This means that even though Joseph and Mary lived together, they did not have relations up to the birth of Jesus.

DEAR ABBY: This is for HAD IT, who has been often fooled by married men who say they're single:

Anyone can find out the marital status of anyone else by calling the reference section of his local public library (or by going there in person) and checking the city directory. It lists the husband's name, the wife's name and their places of employment.

Any city too small to have a city directory is small enough for there to be no question about its citizens' marital status, anyway.

ESC Office Plans Relocating; Advantages In New Building Site

Florida School Closed By Students' Fighting

NEW ESC BUILDING — The new Employment Security Commission building is located at 3101

The Employment Security Commission in an effort to continuously improve and modernize its job services to employers and the public, is relocating to a new office at 3101 Bismarck Street.

The new structure is a 6,000 square feet, one story complex. Architect and general contractor for the project is W. Roy

Poole of Kinston. According to ESC Manager, James Hannan, the reasons for the relocation are: severe space limitations at the former location, the rapid growth of the Greenville-Pitt County population over the past decade, specifically the migration from Greenville's central city to outlying and suburban areas, and a desire on the part of the ESC to provide physical surrounding commensurate with the professional job services available through the agency.

The new office site offers several advantages over the Evans Street office, according to Hannan. There is a 100 per cent increase in office and interviewing space and it has a 50 car parking lot. The present site of the ESC has served as the headquarters since November, 1965.

The move to Bismarck Street marks the sixth location for the ESC office in its 42 years in Greenville. The first local office opened in September, 1933 on the site of the present Shepard Memorial Library.

During the past year the local ESC office placed 1,565 individuals in non-agricultural employment, and 377 in agricultural employment. The office disbursed nearly $2 million in regular unemployment insurance benefits to eligible claimants.

Goldie Couldn't Wait That Long

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Peppery 67-year-old Goldie Chernoff, who has been fighting City Hall in Charlotte for the last five years, has given up. She and her husband are moving to San Diego, Calif.

Before their retirement in New York City, they collected brochures from all over the United States and decided that Charlotte looked the best retirement town.

In Charlotte, Mrs. Chernoff carried protest signs and distributed petitions for good music on the radio, better bus service, lower power rates and a better deal all around for older persons. To help older people, she founded a local group called the Gray Panthers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chernoff can't drive and have no car. She says the last straw was when a city official told her it would take five years to complete a study on getting day-long bus service for her neighborhood.

"I had to say I don't have five years to wait," Mrs. Chernoff said.

So she and her husband are starting over in San Diego. They will leave March 4th by train.

"Buses run all hours in San Diego," she says. "Senior citizens ride for 15 cents. Transfers are good for three hours. Downtown San Diego is a cultural center with an art museum, a zoo, botanical gardens and an international center."

'Assistance' Calls See Sharp Decline

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Directory assistance calls have dropped by 67 per cent in the 704 calling area since the state Utilities Commission allowed Southern Bell Telephone Co. to charge for such information, a company spokesman said.

King Triplett, Southern Bell spokesman, said telephone company customers averaged 102,000 local calls Monday through Friday in the first week in December, compared to 34,000 in the last week of January.

A 20-cent charge for directory assistance calls went into effect Jan. 16. The charge is imposed after each customer receives five free calls per month.

The 704 area code region covers primarily the lower Piedmont and the western part of the state.

The charge is aimed at discouraging unnecessary calling of directory assistance for numbers listed in the telephone directory, and "it appears that is taking place," said Triplett.

Southern Bell has released 51 temporary operators across the state who were handling directory assistance calls.

Wednesday, Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., headquartered in Tarboro, announced it would lay off 79 operators beginning Feb. 8 because of a substantial dropped in information calls.

Carolina began charging 20 cents for directory assistance calls on Jan. 15.

By JOHN VAN GIESON Associated Press Writer PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) —

"It's killing the school — it's going to be like this for a long time," says a 16-year-old high school quarterback shot in the leg during a four-hour riot triggered by a feud between black and white pupils.

Authorities said Escambia High School will remain closed today after the rock-throwing and club-swinging melee Thursday over the school's nickname, "Rebels."

Three white students suffered minor gunshot wounds, 27 other persons were treated for injuries at local hospitals and five adults and three juveniles were arrested.

Escambia football quarterback Keith Hughes was shot in the left thigh as a group of whites exchanged taunts with a smaller group of blacks.

A black, Raymond Lindsey, 23, of Pensacola, was arrested and charged with three counts of aggravated assault in the shootings. Several whites later overturned his van, ravaged it and taped a poster advertising a March 6 Ku Klux Klan rally to the front.

Trouble broke out at the school when a large number of whites walked out minutes after school started and hoisted a Confederate banner up the flag pole.

Black pupils, 27 per cent of the school's 2,518 population, reacted angrily, and rock and brick-throwing confrontations raged in and around the school.

"Things kept building up and building up and the blacks kept making fun of us and we had to do something," Hughes said.

Escambia High called its athletic teams the "Rebels" until 1973, when U.S. Dist. Judge Winston Arnow of Pensacola ruled in favor of protesting blacks and banned use of Confederate symbols.

The banned nickname became a sore point with whites and festered for nearly three years.

Hughes said the school should have been allowed to keep the nickname favored by whites because "it's been like that for a long time."

"The war was a long time ago. I don't think it should change anything now," he said.

A regulation ice hockey rink must be 200 feet long and 85 feet wide.

BIG VALUE

DISCOUNT DRUGS

Coming, For Better Or Worse

When Transportation Secretary Wm. T. Coleman Jr. approved that 16-month trial period for limited flight service by Concorde airliners, he was simply following dictates of logic.

The number of options available to Coleman was of necessity limited to "yes" on a trial basis or flying in the face of reason by saying "no."

Economic feasibility of Concorde was of no concern to him or anyone except the British and French sponsors.

One cannot ignore objections of environmentalists. There is bound to be more noise involved than with other aircraft; how much more noise is debatable (with conflicting "facts" proffered, and always with considerable emotionalism.)

Certainly there is going to be some flack, but the same arguments have been heard over and over again, and the verdicts lean to "Go."

Too, certain conditions were imposed by the Transportation Secretary which require some operational improvements. They cannot be ignored.

Reason says the world, and America in particular, will not turn its back on advancing technology. Nor was the dependence of Britain and France on American flights to be ignored. It would be hard to explain refusal when the rest of the world is open to the SST.

A harder choice is visible on the horizon: application by the Soviet Union to permit landings by its supersonics on scheduled flights to America. In our eyes, American flights are of less importance to the Russians in their planned service. But, they too would be looking for "equal" treatment in such matters.

The Business Concept Should Prevail

Apparently due to political pressure, the coin operated photocopying machines were ordered removed from postal lobbies as of the first of the year.

Then the removal order was rescinded and the Postal Service announced that the copying machines would be returned.

The Postal Service comes in for plenty of criticism. It is well to remember, however, that Congress set up the Postal Service to be run on a business-like basis. The politicians should decide to let it run like a business, or else get back into subsidizing the Postal Service.

Putting pressure on the Postal Service to eliminate the copiers was unwarranted interference with the business concept that is supposed to be in effect. We hope there won't be further incidents of this nature.

THIS AFTERNOON

Rules For Every Occasion

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Literally every Tar Heel sooner or later comes face to face with a state regulation.

If you drive a car, pay taxes, practice a profession requiring a license, try to gain (or oppose) a beer, wine, or brown-bagging permit, want to build something or develop some land, practice a profession, or start a business—the list is endless—you are subject to satisfying requirements of some agency of state government.

And, regrettably, you have often been subject to satisfying some bureaucratic whim of the moment or some misinterpretation of the rules by an agency representative. Meanwhile, the regulations were often extensions of the law which in some cases missed the mark as to legislative intent, and were apt to be changed from time to time administratively without you or even some state employees within an agency being aware of the shift.

The Purpose
Overcoming those possible

ills is the real motive behind a massive cataloging effort now being finished up in state government.

The Administrative Procedures Act, simply described, calls for every activity of state government to be set down on paper so that you, the citizen, can turn to the record to find out what you are supposed to do, and what government must do in response, in any dealing you have with the governmental bureaucracy.

"Really, everyone in North Carolina is affected by some activity of state government and the agencies, and from this action, citizens can at least know the rules, have some input into changes, and have at hand at least a minimum guideline of standards, procedures, and due process of law," explains Norman Harrell, coordinator of the project in the Attorney General's Office.

Copies of the N. C. Administrative Code for every agency were due by February 1, and are being edited, filed and made available for public use in the Attorney General's office. Eventually, they will be indexed and prefaced with explanatory material, and when the General Assembly, which authorized the process to begin with, finds the funds, the voluminous material will be published.

There has been some considerable moaning amongst some bureaucrats regarding the long hours and attention involved in such a task, with some even complaining that the process has brought the wheels of state government close to a halt.

Worth The Trouble
But the exercise is worth the trouble and expense, most top officials agree, since not only will rules and regulations be written for public inspection, but many disparities and shortcomings have been cleared up by the mere process of culling present regulations and editing them for Administrative Procedures Act purposes.

Now that the material is on file, the regulations must be followed by the numerous state agencies, and change can be made only through a public hearing process, with 20 days notice.

Not only do the records spell out rules and regulations affecting individuals seeking state permits or license, but they define who is responsible for which activities within the various agencies, what various subdivisions within offices, within departments do, and provide a bulky though effective guide to the bureaucratic maze of state government.

Taking just one example, the Administrative Procedures book for the Department of Public Instruction is nearly an inch thick, single-spaced on both sides of the paper; and details every duty of every official and function, right down to ERIC—which is the Educational Resources Information Center where books, journals, tests, pamphlets, newsletters, and thousands of other documents on education are compiled and cataloged for research purposes.

'All I Want Is Respect'

WASHINGTON—Rarely in the history of American diplomacy has one person demanded so much support from his superiors as Patrick Moynihan, our ambassador to the United Nations. Hardly a day goes by that Mr. Moynihan does not ask that Henry Kissinger and President Ford publicly state that they stand behind him 1,000 per cent.

I can imagine what goes on behind the scenes.

"Mr. Secretary, it's Ambassador Moynihan on the phone."

"Oh no, not again. All right, put him through."

"Henry, it's Pat."

"Hello, Pat, what's up?"

"Do you love me?"

"Of course I love you, Pat."

"Then why don't you say it? Why do I always have to ask if you love me?"

"I told you yesterday I loved you. Isn't that enough?"

"That was yesterday. Today is a new day."

"Pat, I'm terribly busy. What can I do for you?"

"Henry, I want to ask you a question. I know you love me, but do you respect me?"

"Yes, I respect you!"

"You know, Henry, respect is different from love. You can love somebody and not respect them. I can't do this job if you don't respect me."

"Pat, yesterday at my press conference I spent 15 minutes telling everyone what a fine job you were doing. Would I have done that if I didn't respect you?"

"Do you think the President respects me?"

"Yes, Pat. He told me at breakfast the other morning how much he respects you."

"Well, why doesn't he say so?"

"Ron Nessen said so at Tuesday's press briefing."

"That's not the same as the President saying it. I think if someone respects you he should say so himself, and not do it through his press secretary. I work long hours and it isn't much fun dealing with these Third World powers. All I ask is some support and affection."

"Pat, will you stop crying? Everyone in Washington respects you and loves you."

"You're just saying that to make me feel good. I know a lot of people in the State Department hate me."

"They don't hate you, Pat. They may disagree with you,

Henry Plans Fight

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet Congress head-on over issues instead of emphasizing conciliation, according to a policy decision he has made.

At the same time, Kissinger has decided to keep up his grass-roots speaking campaign, which this week took him to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Laramie, Wyo. That means changing charges of partisanship as the elections draw near.

Meanwhile, friends of Kissinger are saying that he has given up any thoughts of quitting before the November elections and that he plans to stay on, provided Ford wants him in the job.

One of the principal reasons for this attitude is said to be Kissinger's reluctance to leave his successor with the complicated and delicate job of completing terms for a new 10-year treaty with the Soviet Union to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

His new gloves-off stance toward Congress drew an attack Thursday from Sen. Mike Mansfield, the usually placid Democratic leader, who said Kissinger ought to accept that Congress will speak its mind on foreign policy instead of "pointing the finger" at Capitol Hill.

Kissinger and his aides insist that his visits to the heartland do not represent political campaigning at all. His spokesman, Robert L. Funseth, said Thursday that Kissinger is simply "explaining U.S. foreign policy as the secretary of state."

Still, there is a definite change in strategy. Last November, Kissinger told reporters in Pittsburgh that he would "cut down" his speeches as soon as the political process became more active. He said he wanted to be careful not to entangle foreign policy in the presidential race.

In San Francisco, Kissinger blamed Congress for helping set an "ominous precedent" by halting support for pro-Western factions in Angola. Then in Laramie he said "sensational investigations" were depriving the U.S. of the ability to respond to Soviet challenges.

CHILD ABUSE

A 'Gray Area' Of Failure

By JIM KLAHN

Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — A husband and wife, troubled and grim, walk into their family doctor's office. The father carries a little boy in his arms, the child's face smug against his neck so the bruises don't show.

While the child, probably less than 3, is treated, the parents plead with the doctor. It won't happen again, they insist.

The doctor has known the family a long time. He relents, waves them out of his office in disgust.

Another incident of child abuse or neglect goes unreported despite mandatory reporting laws in every state and the District of Columbia. There is also the Hippocratic Oath "...to regard his offspring as on the same footing with my own brothers..."

The failure of private physicians to report cases of battering and mental abuse is a gray area with no certain figures.

A preliminary study funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates one million American children are grossly abused nationally. But only 1 to 2 per cent of child abuse reports come from private physicians.

"Most professionals in the field feel that physicians in private practice see a great many abused children and do not report them," said Douglas Besharov, director of the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect of HEW. "Generally, no more than a handful of private doctors report."

He said doctors and health personnel often consult with hospitals and public clinics, which the doctors know will report abuse and neglect cases.

There is little threat of prosecution for doctors who disregard the law. Roy Howson, deputy King County prosecutor here, said that generally the law would be difficult to interpret and cases would be difficult to prove.

Why don't doctors report? Doctors and others say there are a variety of reasons: The doctor may fail to recognize abuse cases. He may feel he can do a better job in counseling or fear protective services will fail in providing follow-up services. He doesn't want to lose time and fees in court appearances, or feels that to talk would be to violate doctor-patient confidentiality. The latter is especially true for psychiatrists.

Despite the apparent severity of the abuse and neglect problem, a leading expert says reporting is not always the answer.

Dr. C. Henry Kempe of the National Center for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse in Denver said many parts of the country have insufficient counseling and treatment facilities for follow-up services.

"In fact, a child can get killed by reporting, if nothing is done for the family after that," he said.

Local Child Protective Service officials said such is not the case in Washington state. But Kempe said it has been the case in such cities as New York and Chicago. He said an ambitious program in Florida to encourage reporting resulted in more cases than could be handled.

Strength For Today

BANISHED OLYMPUS

One of the gods of the ancient Greeks was Momus, the god of criticism, the evil spirit of complaint. On Olympus, the home of the gods, he found fault with everything and everybody. For instance, he found fault with Aphrodite, goddess of love, because when she walked her cymbals made music which disturbed his peace and quiet. Finally, because of his constant carping, the gods became so angry with him that they banished him from Olympus.

But sometimes we think they banished him to our town, or made him a member of our club, or church, or installed him in our shop or factory.

There is the Momus-type whose stock in trade is in-ventive. Then there is another type who, no matter what you say, is always ready with some words of deprecation or rebuttal. There is another Momus who is never satisfied—for whom even heaven has its flaws and angels their weaknesses.

Unfortunately we can't send Momus back to Olympus, but perhaps we can get him aside and let him see his tarnished image in our very human light.

Terrorist Network Is Pondered

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Secret reports to members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization say an international terrorist network is operating globally with help from radical governments.

The reports, which attempt to detail how the network is organized and financed, were submitted by the intelligence and security agencies of individual NATO governments, and the headquarters of the alliance pooled and collated them. Then they were summarized by one of the member governments and distributed to each of the other 14 NATO members.

A copy of the summary shown confidentially to The Associated Press claims the terrorist network counts on support from Iraq, Syria, Libya, South Yemen and Cuba, and has access to arms from Eastern Europe.

Other sources, including cabinet ministers, ambassadors and police from 12 countries, agree there is evidence of significant links between terrorist groups in Europe, the Middle East, Asia and Latin America.

They are among the officials now studying the secret NATO reports which make these points about the terrorist network:

—The network has no globally agreed name. In the Middle East it is known as the "Arm of the Arab Revolution," the group which claimed responsibility for the kidnapping of the oil ministers in Vienna, Austria, last December. The leader of that raid, Carlos Martinez, born Ilich Ramirez Sanchez in Venezuela 26 years ago, is a key operative in the terrorist international.

—A major force in the network is the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) headed by George Habash. The Mideast link in the chain has supplied funds, arms, training and escape routes.

—Other activist members of the network include the West German group led by the jailed Andreas Baader and Ulrike Meinhof, the Japanese Red Army and South American extremists with Cubans among them.

—The European base for the network is Paris. Special missions from the terrorist international have met there with representatives of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), Turkish terror squads and far-left and Maoist groups from Scandinavia to Spain.

Lebanese terrorist-turned-in-former, Michael Moukharbel, led French counterintelligence men to Carlos Martinez Carlos shot and killed Moukharbel and two French agents and escaped. But his trail led to terrorist apartments in London and Paris, to arms caches and counterfeiting equipment, to a treasure trove of documents about past operations and future missions, including death lists allegedly compiled by Carlos.

These discoveries form part of the dossiers now being studied by the NATO governments. There is no way to evaluate these dossiers independently. For one thing, officials refuse to discuss details, saying they don't want to show the terrorists exactly how much is known about the network.

House Bars Natural Gas Deregulation

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved a measure that would boost natural gas prices slightly by removing controls from independent producers, but it rejected administration plans to deregulate the big producers. The House voted Thursday to lift federal price controls from an estimated 3,500 independent producers but to retain price controls on the 25 to 30 largest producers and extend the ceilings to gas transactions within individual states. Those interstate sales have hitherto been unregulated. The House bill differs fundamentally from a measure passed by the Senate which would gradually end all price controls on natural gas. The two measures now go to a conference committee where the outlook for a compromise is unclear.

The administration had backed complete decontrol of the industry to allow prices to rise enough to stimulate exploration for new gas. One congressman who worked for total decontrol later complained that the House bill would actually regulate 75 per cent of the U.S. supply of natural gas, compared to 65 per cent that is now regulated.

The independent producers which would escape regulation are defined as producing less than 100 billion cubic feet a year and account for only about 25 per cent of the natural gas produced in the United States, with the other 75 per cent accounted for by the larger producers.

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, sponsor of the bill, estimated the legislation would allow prices charged by independent producers to rise from an average of 35 cents per thousand cubic feet to about $1.

But what this price rise would mean to the consumer was not as easily forecast, mainly because of the wide variety of possible combinations of gas derived from both unregulated and regulated producers.

However, the Federal Energy Administration said any increase to the consumer is likely to be minimal. In addition, only about 17 per cent to 25 per cent of the residential consumer's gas bill is for the actual cost of the fuel. The rest is for pipeline transportation charges and the local utility's charge for delivering the gas to customers.

Meanwhile, there were these developments: —Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards said the House bill was "patently unconstitutional." If it becomes law, Louisiana, which leads the nation in gas production, will seek a court ruling that the federal government has no constitutional right to regulate the price of natural gas within state borders, Edwards said.

—The House action was also denounced by Exxon, the largest American petroleum company, as "an extreme example of punitive legislation against major oil companies."

—The president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, which represents natural gas independents, criticized the measure as an effort to cause a split between independents and major companies.

'Gay Alliance' Seeking To Erase Those Myths

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
The Eastern Gay Alliance "came out," or announced its existence here Jan. 6.

The purpose of the group, according to its coordinator, Bob Mariner, is to extend to the public some understanding of homosexuality and to do away with anti-sexual laws. Its membership of 15 to 20 persons is made up of both men and women, some of them non-gay, says Mariner. Meetings are held in his home every Sunday night.

"We're not a gay dating service, as one person has suggested he believes us to be," he said. "We're interested only in convincing 'straight people' that we're just like them, except that we have a different sexual orientation. We also try to stress that our sexual orientation is not necessarily the most important thing about us and that it should not enter into the other phases of our lives—our jobs, our spiritual life, or anything else." The ideal time will be when there's no need to 'come out' or defend or explain," Mariner went on. "We're unfortunate to be living in the transition period."

Mariner and Judy Willis, the latter of whom is treasurer of the Alliance, said they and others of their members are available to speak to church and civic groups and to classes. "We usually make a brief introduction and then open the floor to questions and comments. We've found that conversing with those to whom we're speaking is far superior to speech-making in clearing up misconceptions. We've had very little belligerence from anyone with whom we can talk for any length of time.

"Yes, we've been pleasantly surprised at the degree of acceptance we've found," Ms. Willis said. "I consider this another civil rights movement. Many gay people have very conventional values and ideas.

We just want to be free to live our own lives the way that makes us happiest, without hurting anyone."

Judy is treasurer and religious director of the group. Church services are held each week for those who wish to attend. "We encourage our members to attend whatever church they wish," she said, "but so many have found non-acceptance in other churches that we feel there is a need for a special service. It does not preclude attendance at others, however."

The group here is loosely aligned with the Carolina Gay Association, which has headquarters in Chapel Hill. There is no state association at present, though Mariner says one may be formed. They are also contributing members of the National Gay Task Force, which is working for homosexual acceptance and repeal of anti-sexual laws on the national level.

Speaking Tour By Rockefeller

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller is planning a cross-country series of speeches, described by an aide as "tough, controversial and lofty," leading to speculation he might be eyeing another run for the presidency.

Rockefeller, who has withdrawn as a vice presidential possibility this year, will give 10 speeches across the country before the Republican National Convention, starting with one Feb. 19 to the National Press Club, the aide said Thursday night.

The times and places of the other speeches were not available.

"It will be a series of speeches on things he thinks people ought to hear," the aide said. "They will not be anti-President Ford or anti-White House."

The White House announced Wednesday that Rockefeller had relinquished day-to-day supervision of the Domestic Council, at his own volition. On the same day, Rockefeller told a group of reporters he had not ruled out another run for the presidency if Ford were knocked out of the race.

"I withdrew as vice president," Rockefeller said. "My statement included the vice presidency only, as to availability. Beyond that I have no plans."

He added, though, that he expected Ford to win the Republican presidential nomination.

The Rockefeller aide said the vice president is "a senior statesman who's coming to the end of the road unless there's a miracle — and he's not playing for miracles. He's too much of a realist for that."

The aide, who did not wish to be identified, said Rockefeller "feels he has a lot to say about a very controversial time in American history."

He declined to elaborate on the subject matter of Rockefeller's planned speeches, saying they had not been put in final form yet.

Arrested In Bank Holdup

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Dale Edward Darr, 16, youngest son of former Forsyth County Commissioner David W. Darr, has been charged with bank robbery.

Police said the youth was arrested Thursday and charged with holding up the Reynolda branch of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. in Winston-Salem last Oct. 24.

He was placed under bond of $25,000 for a hearing Feb. 23.

Because he is a juvenile, a federal court declined to prosecute. He was arrested on a state warrant and will be tried in state court.

The robber escaped just before closing time with a bag filled with money.

The bandit brandished a small gun, believed to have been a toy. He held it on five bank employees while he stuffed money into the bag.

Darr was arrested at an apartment where he lives with his mother.

The elder Darr was chairman of the Forsyth County commissioners from 1968 to 1972. He and Mrs. Darr are divorced.

Dog-Poisoning Said Suspected

The Pitt County Humane Society says it has a report of an alleged dog poisoning in Winterville.

The owner of the St. Bernard, said to have been poisoned, said the animal became ill about 1 p.m. and died about 3 p.m. The case has been reported to the Winterville Police, but no arrests have been made so far. The Humane Society emphasized that a penalty of up to $500 can be imposed for dog poisoning, according to State Statute 14-360.

Aid Mission

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Personnel from Army engineering and medical detachments at Ft. Bragg were loaded aboard an Air Force C-5A for a flight today to Guatemala, where they were to join other U. S. servicemen aiding earthquake victims of that stricken Central American country.

Loading operations were carried on through the night at neighboring Pope Air Force Base, where the huge four-engine jet, the world's largest air transport, took on 212,000 pounds of fuel, enough for a round trip flight, according to Capt. Bill Campbell of the base public affairs office.

The C-5A Lockheed Galaxy also carried 105,000 pounds of cargo that included a water purification system that will handle 6,000 gallons an hour, Campbell said.

A Ft. Bragg spokesman said men and equipment were provided by the 30th Engineer Detachment and the 155th Medical Detachment of the 1st Corps Support Command.

In addition, two C-130s from Pope AFB which had been in Panama on routine support missions also were diverted to Guatemala, Campbell said, carrying tents, water bags, a generator, a water pump and medical supplies and other medical personnel.

Religious, Scientific Thinkers Argue Energy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A fateful choice, seen variously as offering either "untold good" or "incalculable evil" for humanity, currently is being argued among American religious and scientific thinkers.

Instead of dividing the two camps, however, it has drawn members of each into joint alliances, but on both sides of the issue, with philosophical jabs from scientists and theologians alike.

At stake is whether an energy-short world should turn to an immense, reproducible source of nuclear power, the byproduct of plutonium that can be multiplied even as it is used, to boost continuing economic growth and a richer society.

It could mean a "Faustian bargain," says bioethics professor Margaret Maxey of the University of Detroit, referring to the storied Faust who made a deal with the devil for temporary delights eventuating in doom.

On the other hand, she adds, it could provide an unprecedented spur to a "new level of cultural evolution," bringing acceptance of "the imposition of a global commitment to a permanent, stable, more just social order."

The question was debated last week at a hearing by the National Council of Churches on a proposed statement by a panel of scientists, urging a U.S. moratorium — to allow more study — on programs to expand plutonium use in industry.

It would require a "technological paradise" of flawlessly arranged and universally heeded controls to prevent such expansion from poisoning the earth, said Nobel prize-winning physicist Hannes Alfvén of the University of California.

Observed biochemist John T. Edsall of Harvard University: "I'm unable to see such a degree of stability now or likely in the near future. It would demand a stability that has never existed."

If humanity became sensitized to the alternatives and was aware that maintaining the quality of their lives depended on it, "perhaps such a stable order would eventuate," Prof. Maxey said. "It's worth considering."

Nuclear engineer David J. Rose of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology said that "certainty is impossible in the real world," but the potential benefits justify the risks, which are part of any major advance.

Like several scientists, he occasionally cited Bible quotations to back his points. He noted that in Genesis 4:8, "Cain slew Abel, legend has it with the jawbone of an ass. God did not abolish jawbones, but still works to improve the descendants of Cain."

Christian ethicist Preston Williams of Harvard University Divinity School said contentions opposing expanded plutonium use "seem to rest on fears of people — fears of big government, big military policing, the big bomb."

Town Of Winterville Told Request Granted

WINTERVILLE — The Town of Winterville received approval by the Pitt County Commissioners Monday for a request of $5,000 to fund extension of water and sewer lines from the municipal limits to a new industrial site. Town manager Elwood Nobles reported to the town board on the commissioners approval at the town board meeting Monday night.

The board adopted a policy that subdivision owners E. L. Harrington, of the Baywood, Norman Worthington, of Ragland Acres, and Nichols Storage located across from Pitt Tech will be able to connect with the Winterville water and sewer systems if they will pay for the materials and installation. Prior to this policy, the town of Winterville would pay for the installation and the petitioner would pay for the materials.

The board decided to enter into a contract with the North Carolina Highway Safety Program to acquire monies for a 1976 police vehicle which will not exceed the cost of $6,600. $3,300 of the amount will come from the town budget and $3,300 will come from the N.C. Highway Safety Program.

In other business:

—It was announced that a public hearing will be held March 1 to consider the amendment section D-1 of the subdivision regulations.

—Three town merchants petitioned the board for additional police protection and an additional police officer.

—Danny Morton was selected as the elected representative official to the Mideast Criminal Justice Policy Committee. Police Chief, Cecil Corbett, was selected as his alternate.

—Town manager Nobles explained that utilities bills have been higher this billing period because of a longer usage period. The period billed recently was for December 19 to January 20. He also mentioned that this month's cut off date is February 23.

Ford Budget Impact On N.C. Will Be Studied

RALEIGH (AP)—A study has been ordered by Gov. Jim Holshouser to determine the effect of President Ford's budget on North Carolina.

Holshouser, Ford's southern campaign manager, told a news conference Thursday the results of the study will be released before the March 23 presidential primary. Ford is opposed by former California Gov. Ronald Reagan on the Republican ballot.

Holshouser was criticized recently for having state employees determine what the effect on North Carolina would be if Reagan were president and slashed the federal budget $90 billion as he said he would. The report concluded that the plan would cost the state hundreds of millions of dollars for programs such as education, health and welfare.

Holshouser held the news conference as he concluded a two-day swing through the state. He had said earlier that a recent poll showed Ford leading Reagan by 10 percentage points.

Asked for details about the poll, Holshouser said he couldn't recall much about it except some 500 persons had been questioned. He said it contained a lot of questions concerning President Ford's performance and whether voters were unhappy with government policies.

Pressed by newsmen, Holshouser promised to check with Ford's Washington campaign office about releasing the poll's data.

The governor said either Ford or Reagan would be better than any Democrat. He reiterated a charge that a Democratic president would lead the country to socialism.

Holshouser predicted that since there are only two Republican presidential candidates, the GOP convention in Kansas City Aug. 16-20 will choose a presidential nominee on the first ballot.

He said, "If we do our job in North Carolina," the contest might be over "The first week after March 23," indicating Reagan might drop out of the race if he loses North Carolina.

Holshouser said he hopes President Ford will come to the state at least once and maybe twice to campaign before the primary.

Carefree

People smile and turn around to look at them as they run down the street hand in hand. For this moment they are care-free with the exuberance of youth, with seemingly endless tomorrows stretching before them.

But, life being what it is, there comes an end to this sort of thing. Just now they are in love. If they stay in love, if they marry, responsibilities will follow.

If their love subsides, there will be the pain of separation... and perhaps a little heartbreak. Whatever happens there will be good times and bad.

Somewhere along the line they will need more than themselves. All of us do! If they have found the Church they will be lucky. Incidentally — have you found the Church?

Total School Program For N.C. Argued By Sen. Britt

Sen. Luther J. Britt, Jr., chairman of the Judiciary II committee in the N. C. Senate, told those attending the annual men's night meeting of the Pitt County Democratic Women's Club last night that "We must build in North Carolina a total school program that is sufficiently broad and flexible to provide all students with an education background appropriate for their needs and desires."

Sen. Britt disagreed with the contention that the 1975 legislative session was not an education session. He listed 12 accomplishments of the 1975 session in the area of education, including (1) expanding kindergarten so that 60 percent of the five-year-olds have the opportunity to attend, (2) adding $18 million for special education programs (3) adding $2.8 million for improvement of reading and (4) adding $3.4 million to increase per-pupil allotment for school supplies.

Sen. Britt said the coming session of the legislature is faced with the desire to offer a cost-of-living increase to teachers. He said he feels that most of his colleagues will do all they can to offer an increase without raising taxes. The use of school plant facilities year-round was mentioned by Sen. Britt. He said that he believes North Carolina cannot afford to let air-conditioned gyms sit idle all summer while recreational activities were needed by our youth.

Sen. Britt said, "The greatest need in Eastern North Carolina today is continuing education, either through public school or technical schools to teach the young person who drops out of school a skill or a way of making a living, and to teach the adult who cannot read or write how to read and write for the first time, and to teach those individuals who do not seek higher education a means whereby they can improve their learning abilities and enhance the quality of life for those individuals and perhaps their entire families."

Pitt Sen. Vernon White reiterated the importance of education and agreed that the legislature would do everything in its power to improve its consistent with the state's ability to pay.

Mrs. Christie Speir Price, legislative intern to Sen. Britt in 1975, introduced the speaker. Reps. Sam Bundy and Horton Rountree were recognized. Henry Oglesby, Chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Party, mentioned precinct meetings next Thursday, February 12.

Mrs. Ann T. Burks, President of the Pitt County Democratic Women, presided.

College Source Of Bogus Bills

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—The one-time foreman of the Lenoir Rhyne College print shop and a parttime assistant identified as an escaped prisoner have been indicted on a charge of printing counterfeit $10 bills in the shop. "The whole event was a shocker to us," said John Hall, director of publicity at the college in Hickory.

The foreman, who resigned last November for personal reasons, is Ronald B. Clifton, 48. For 10 years he had supervised the printing of brochures, programs, and classroom material.

Indicted with him by a federal grand jury in Charlotte Tuesday was William Monroe Duncan, 22. Talmadge Bailey, special agent in charge of the Secret Service, said Duncan had escaped from a prison road gang in Greenville County, S.C., in June 1974, before the alleged counterfeiting operation began.

Duncan was carrying about $8,000 in bogus bills when he was picked up on an escape warrant in Greenville last Nov. 13, Bailey said.

The agent said the fake bills were printed from Aug. 31, 1974, to last March 31, and had been passed in the Carolina and elsewhere.

Athletes In Action Visit Pirates

East Carolina's Pirates have a "play-for-fun" game this Saturday night, as they host the Athletes In Action East team at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Statistics from the game, and the record do not affect the Bucs' marks for the season.

"This is going to give us a good opportunity to go out and play without a lot of pressure on us," Coach Dave Patton said.

The Pirates will be going into the contest with the Athletes following their heartbreaking loss to William & Mary Tuesday night, 56-54.

"I think we played well enough to win," Patton said in reference to the game. "I'm still proud of the guys. They hustled and they played a very good defensive game. It was the first time in five games that we'd been able to defense (John) Lowenhaupt. Earl Garner really did a job on him." Lowenhaupt, the leading Indian scorer, got only eight points in the game.

"The turning point in the game was when we lost our offensive efficiency during the last five minutes," the coach said. "We weren't poised then. I guess we're getting paid back for some of the things that happened last year. I've never seen so many of our shots bounce off the rim, while their's go in (for the year) as I have this season."

One William & Mary supporter made the comment that East Carolina now knew how the Indians felt when the Bucs pulled out a last-second victory in overtime at Williamsburg last year.

"Our breaks are coming this year, sometimes," Patton continued. "It seemed liked we had done it right, forcing them to take a bad shot (with five seconds left), but then we had to walk and give it back to them. If we'd just left the ball on the floor, time would have run out."

Patton said that the players are confused after their loss, knowing that they should have won the game. "It was the toughest loss I've ever had," Patton said. "We should have won. But I got a good feeling that the guys feel like it's not going to kill them. We can get back up. We still have the tournament ahead, and anything can happen there."

"We've got our running game going now, our defense, and our rebounding. All we need to do is get the offense in gear. We stand as good a chance as anyone in the tournament." Getting the home berth may be difficult, however. The Bucs have two games left, with Appalachian State and Furman. A sweep of both would give the Pirates an 8-6 record, and the fourth place seeding. A split, with the win against Appalachian, and that win by more than two points, would give the Bucs fourth only if ASU then lost to VMI on the road. Losing to ASU or dropping both would eliminate the Bucs' chance at fourth, and a home opener in the tournament.

The Athletes In Action is a group, mostly of former collegiate players, involved in the Campus Crusade for Christ. They play college teams across the country. This year's East team, one of two fielded by the Campus Crusade, has managed only five wins in 27 outings.

Those five wins came against Rhode Island, East Tennessee, Wheaton, American Christian and Samford. The Samford game was their last one, a 70-69 victory.

Harry Sheeny, 6-5, leads the scoring with a 24.2 average, while Scott Magnuson, a 6-11 center, is hitting 12.6. The only other double figure scorer is Owen Long, 5-10, hitting 11.3 per game. Magnuson is the leading rebounder at 10.0 per game.

Among the members of the team is Tim Teer, a former Duke player.

East Carolina's scoring is still led by Earl Garner, with a 14.3 average. Reggie Lee is hitting 12.3 per game, while Larry Hunt has a 10.0 mark. Al Edwards, who missed the William & Mary game due to the death of his grandmother, is just a hair out with a 9.9 mark.

Hunt is the leading rebounder at 9.3 per game.

Following Saturday's contest, the Bucs take a whole week off, returning to the court the following Saturday in the very important game with Appalachian State.

he walks the bench in disappointment. At far right, he watches with dread the action at the other end of the court. The Pirates battle the Athletes In Action on Saturday at Minges Coliseum with tipoff at 7:30 p.m. (Reflector Photos by Tommy Forrest)

Buc Gymnasts Host Western

The East Carolina University women's gymnastics team will meet Western Carolina at home 11 a.m. Saturday in Memorial Gymnasium.

The meet is the only home meet for the Lady Pirate gymnasts this year. There will be no admission charge.

In the only previous meet of the gymnasts this year, ECU placed third behind Appalachian and UNC-CH in Boone two weeks ago.

ECU Coach Stevie Chepko looks forward to a better showing Saturday. "I anticipate stiff competition from a very strong Western club," she said.

Coach Chepko, a native of West Virginia, coached gymnastics at Monessen High School in Monessen, Pa. The Monessen team won sectional and regional titles, as well as bids to the state tournament during the three years Coach Chepko worked with the team.

Strong performers for ECU this weekend will include Vickie Witt, Betsy Atkins, and Lynn Utegaard. Witt, a senior from Lumberton, finished fifth in overall total points at the first meet of ECU.

Atkins excels in floor exercises for the Lady Pirates. She is a junior from High Point.

Saturday Lynn Utegaard will go "all around"—that is, she will participate in all of the events. Utegaard is a sophomore from Alexandria, Va.

Cyndi Townner who worked the uneven bars for ECU will be out for the season with a dislocated elbow. The freshman from Cape Town, South Africa, received the injury in the first meet.

Next weekend ECU's gymnasts will travel to Williamsburg, where they will meet Longwood College and William and Mary.

A.G. Cox Splits Two

FARMVILLE—Farmville Middle School and A.G. Cox of Winterville split a pair of games yesterday.

Farmville won the girls' game, 28-26. D. Gordon led Farmville with 11 points, while E. Price added 10. Annie Hardy and Pam Manning led Cox with eight each.

Cox took a 41-39 overtime victory in the boys' game. Ben Daniels led Cox with 13 points, while D. Reed had 19 to pace Farmville.

Seven Grapplers Still Are Unbeaten

Seven area wrestlers continue to post unbeaten records in the final days prior to their conference and sectional events.

There are a few differences, however, in the chart this time around, as compared with the previous one.

To make this week's listing, a minimum of nine matches were required. Weights were assigned on the basis of where a wrestler had worked the most, and ties were counted as a half-win, half-loss.

The seven unbeaten wrestlers do not, however, all have perfect marks. Two of them have suffered ties to blight their record. Leading the way among the unbeaten, untied performers is Rose High School's Johnny Harris, who has compiled a 14-0 mark at the 141-pound level. Three of his teammates are also on the list. They include Clifton Hagans, 9-0 at 101 pounds; James Cherry 10-0-1 at 108; and Mike Alexander, 9-0 at 129 pounds.

D. H. Conley's James Johnson, at 198 pounds, has the most victories, 16, but he's been tied once. Farmville Central has two unbeaten in 188 pounder Timmy Hall and 122-pounder Horace Williams, both 13-0 on the year.

The Vikings also have three other weight leaders, giving them, along with Rose, a total of four. They are Charles Hanson, 16-2-1 at 148 pounds; Jesse Davis, 16-3 at 170; and Lo Carmon, 16-1 at heavyweight.

Farmville has one other leader, Anthony Gorcham, who is 8-1 at 135 pounds.

North Pitt and Ayden-Grifton each have one weight leader. Ayden-Grifton's Randy Jones is the top man at 115, with an 8-2 mark, while North Pitt's Aubrey Wynne is on top at 158 with a 12-1 record.

Most of the conference tournament are next week, with the sectionals scheduled for Rose High School on February 20-21.

This week's leaders, not counting last night's matches: 101: Clifton Hagans, Rose, 9-0 (1.000); Charles Barfield, Farmville Central, 11-2 (.846); John Lawler, Rose, 7-2 (.778); 108: James Cherry, Rose, 10-0-1 (.954); Larry Gray, Williamston, 7-3 (.700); Eric Boyle, Conley, 10-5 (.667); Harold Edwards, Ayden-Grifton, 5-4 (.556).

Furman Gets Chance Tonight

By The Associated Press
Furman's suffering basketball team gets an opportunity tonight to do something it hasn't done since 1976 arrived more than a month ago — win a second game in a row.

You couldn't say, however, that the Paladins' chances are overly bright. The foe at Charlotte as they try to extend a one-game winning "streak" is powerful, 10th-ranked N. C. State.

And if you think that's a tough assignment, look who comes up Saturday night on the Furman schedule — fourth-ranked North Carolina.

Only once this season has Furman put victories back to back.

It happened when the Paladins beat The Citadel 92-90 in overtime in the consolation finals of the Poinsettia Classic Dec. 30 and then nosed out Jacksonville 71-70 on Jan. 3 in their first game of 1976.

Since then it's been mostly an uphill battle, as the 5-13 record testifies. Last time out, however — last Monday — the Paladins beat Appalachian State's Southern Conference leaders, 77-76.

That, incidentally, was the Paladins' third one-point victory of the season. The other one-point triumphs were the one over Jacksonville and another over The Citadel, 68-67, on Jan. 17.

The Furman-N. C. State game is the only one carded for Southern Conference teams tonight as everybody girls for a big six-game Saturday.

A couple of SC teams — Virginia Military and William and Mary — played Thursday night and each came up with a victory over a nonconference foe.

Ron Satterthwaite, who not so long ago left the team only to return a few days later, banged in 30 points for W&M as the Indians notched their 10th victory with a 74-61 conquest of Old Dominion in Williamsburg.

Ron Carter had 21 points and John Carter 16 to pace a well-balanced attack that carried VMI past Southeastern U., 97-57, at Lexington. The Keydets now are 12-8 for the season.

Young Gives First Gold Medal To U.S.

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor
INNSBRUCK (AP) — Speed skater Sheila Young, the powerful 25-year-old who earned a silver medal Thursday, gave the United States its first gold of the 12th Olympic Games today, flashing through the 500 meters in Olympic record time.

Miss Young sprinted around the fog-shrouded track in 42.76 seconds to smash the record of 43.33 seconds set four years ago at Sapporo by American Anne Henning. Miss Young set the world record for the distance of 40.91 at Davos, Switzerland last week.

"It was weird. When I found out I had won the gold medal a rush went through my whole body," she said. "It wasn't a perfect race. On the last hundred meters, I started coming back on my heels. I didn't think I made the last turn too good."

Miss Young's performance was the lone bright spot for the U.S. squad in today's action. The Soviet Union picked up a gold medal, its third of the Games, in the 20-kilometer individual biathlon and the East Germans held the lead after three of the four runs in single-seat luge competition.

The young United States hockey team was scheduled to face its first, and stiffest, test of the Games later today when it squared off against the powerful Russian squad, favored to win the gold medal, in the opening game for both teams. Russia continued to lead the unofficial medal standings with three golds and a total of seven. The U.S. was second with one gold and two silver and Austria was third with its one gold.

Miss Young, a versatile performer who took up cycling three years ago and won the World Sprint Cycling Championship in 1973, picked up her first medal Thursday by finishing second in the 1,500-meter speed skating event. She has a good chance for a third medal Saturday when she competes in the 1,000-meter event.

Canada's Cathy Priestler won the silver medal today in 43.12 seconds and Tatiana Averina of the Soviet Union took the bronze in 43.17, just four-hundredths of a second faster than 24-year-old Leah Poulos of Northbrook, Ill., who had to settle for fourth.

Lori Monk, 19, of Madison, Wis., the only other American entered, wound up ninth in 44.00.

Miss Young, who announced her engagement to James Ochowicz, a cyclist from Milwaukee, earlier in the week, appeared at the interview room with a large bouquet of yellow tulips.

"I don't know where they came from — someone just thrust them into my hands," she said. She said she skates without socks because "I feel more comfortable. I like my toes to move around. I have more rapport with my skates."

Miss Young was on the U.S. team four years ago at Sapporo and just missed a medal as she finished a close fourth in the 500 meters. She has said this will be her last Olympics.

Despite Miss Young's victory, there was a cloud surrounding the U.S. speed skating team. Coach Dianne Holm accused Phil Krumm, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, of tampering with the selection of skaters. "They told us not to discuss the Olympic selection policies but we simply don't have all our best skaters entered," said Miss Holm, a gold medal winner at 1,500 meters four years ago at Sapporo.

She charged that Krumm forced speed skating officials to reverse themselves on a plan to hold skate-offs to select the third starter for the 1,000 and 3,000-meter women's races and the 1,500-meter men's race. Miss Holm said Krumm's action kept skaters out of those races that should have been in them.

Krumm denied the charges centering on the selection of Peggy Crowe over Kim Kostum for the women's 1,000 meters and the choice of Charles Gilmore over Eric Heiden in the 1,500 meters.

Calling Miss Holm inexperienced, Krumm said, "You can't hold trials after Olympic trials." He said the rules called for the fastest skaters at the Olympic trials to compete in the Games and that is that.

"Simply because someone is better than someone else, you can't remove them from the team," said Krumm, conceding that the best performers don't always make the Olympics.

Krumm said Miss Kostum had been faster than Miss Crowe in pre-Olympic competition in Europe but said Miss Crowe was ill at the time.

Meanwhile, Nikolay Kruglov of the Soviet Union picked up his country's third gold medal in the 20-kilometer (12.4 miles) individual biathlon — a curious event that combines cross country skiing and marksmanship with a rifle. Kruglov finished in one hour, 14 minutes, 12.26 seconds to beat out silver medalist Heikki Ikola of Finland and bronze medalist Aleksandr Elizarov of Russia.

Capt. Lyle Nelson, 27, of Boise, Idaho, was the top American finisher, coming in 35th in 1:25:27.50.

Martin Hagen, 21, of Jackson, Wyo., was the only other U.S. finisher in the biathlon, taking 47th place in 1:28:49.20. The rest of the team was beset by misfortune. John Morton of Anchorage, Alaska, had to drop out of the race after he fell and broke his rifle. And Dennis Donahue of Worcester, Vt., was sidelined with the flu.

"Everything went wrong for us today," said U.S. Coach Peter Karns. "We had hoped to do much better than this."

East German ace Detlef Guenther, the European champion, all but clinched the men's luge with a run of 51.418 seconds down the 1,220-meter ice chute. Guenther's combined time for the first three runs is 2:35.906 with the final run set for Saturday. West Germany is second and East Germany third.

The Americans were well back. Richard Cavanaugh, 27, of Hermosa Beach, Calif., was 27th in 2:45.747; Jim Murray, 29, of Steamboat Springs, Colo., was 30th in 2:46.965, and Terrence O'Brien, 32, of Pease Air Force Base, N.H., was 31st in 2:47.185.

East German Margit Schumann took the lead in the women's luge with a record run of 42.28 seconds down the 870-meter chute for a three-run total of 2:07.96. West Germany was second and East Germany third.

Kathleen Homsted, 24, of Goleta, Calif., was 21st in 2:16.005; her sister, Karen Roberts, 21, of Miles City, Mont., was 24th in 2:18.069, and Maura Jo Haponksi, 18, of New Haven, Conn., was 25th in 2:18.242.

Casper, Palmer Turn In Top Hope Rounds

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "Up until now," Billy Casper said, "it looked like a pretty good day for the old guys."

Casper made the observation when Buddy Allin came ambling in with a 68 and the second-round lead in the $180,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic with a seven-under-par 135 total.

That took an edge — just a tiny edge — off the excitement created by the record runs of Casper, 44, and Arnold Palmer, 46, winners of a combined 112 tour titles.

Palmer, who scored his last American victory in this tournament three long years ago, one-putted 10 times on his way to an eight-under-par 64, his best round in years.

And Casper played his back nine in 29 strokes, the best on the tour this season, on the way to a 65.

"It's kind of interesting," said Casper. "I don't ever remember shooting a 29 before. And I had to wait until my 21st year to do it."

"I felt like I was going to make it every time I got the putter in my hand," said the obviously-delighted Palmer, who used only 26 strokes on the greens. "I can't remember the last time I had a putting round like that."

Casper's seven-under-par effort left him in second place, two shots back of the pace-setting Allin, with three rounds to go in this unique five-day, four-course, 90-hole tournament that Palmer has won five times.

And Arnold's 64 — like Casper, shot at Eldorado — put him in a tie for third at 138, three strokes back.

He shared the position with Dwight Nevil and Bob Murphy. Nevil, once a Dallas fireman, had a 67 in the cloudy, chilly, occasionally drizzly weather. Murphy had a 68.

Jack Nicklaus and big George Cadle were at 139. Nicklaus shot a 70 and Cadle had a 65. Defending champion Johnny Miller had a 69 and was tied at 140 with Jim Colbert and three others. Colbert, who shared the first-round lead with Allin, slipped back with a 73.

Allin, Nevil and Murphy played at Bermuda Dunes. The rest of the leaders were at Eldorado.

The format for this marathon tournament calls for the 128 pros to play one round each on Bermuda Dunes, Eldorado, La Quinta and Indian Wells — each day with a different three-man team of amateurs — before the final round Sunday at Indian Wells.

Lee Trevino, Tom Watson, Hale Irwin and Ben Crenshaw, winner of the last two tour titles, are not competing.

Rutgers, Marquette Take Garden Victories

By KEN RAPPOPORT

NEW YORK (AP) — West Virginia and Manhattan looked like mediocre heavyweights: They couldn't run and they couldn't hide.

As a result they couldn't play with two of the quicker heavyweights in college basketball, Rutgers and Marquette.

Rutgers' Magnificent Flying Machine turned on the speed and ran over West Virginia 86-76 in the opener of a double-header Thursday night at Madison Square Garden. Marquette, one of the brawnier and speediest teams in the nation, won the rebound battle and whipped Manhattan 78-59.

"It wasn't one of our better efforts," admitted Coach Tom Young of the seventh-ranked Scarlet Knights. "But after it was over, I told my kids that it was still a good win. I think they were still thinking about last Monday night's victory over Princeton. I thought we should have put them away earlier in the game than we did. We had many opportunities but didn't do it. We carried them."

Rutgers, riding the crest of an 18-game winning streak and one of the few major teams in the country still unbeaten, put on an awesome display early in the first half — stealing balls from the sluggish Mountaineers and scoring almost at will. It was 11-1 at first and then 22-7.

But the 15-point lead dissolved to nine by halftime and then it was tied at 57 midway through the second half on a West Virginia rally spearheaded by Tony Robertson.

The spurge only seemed to wake up a sleeping giant. Led by freshman center Jim Bailey, the Scarlet Knights once and for all put West Virginia to rest with a 15-3 run.

Second-ranked Marquette dazzled Manhattan — and not because of the Warriors' aqua-blue uniforms with the shirts that hang out.

"They were just too strong off the boards for us," said Manhattan Coach Jack Powers. "It was like throwing cherries against the trees."

Jerome Whitehead, Al McGuire's new find at center, controlled the game with some heady play — 22 points and 12 rebounds.

"I've tried to hide Whitehead from too much publicity," said the Marquette coach who prefers to give his seniors more exposure than his sophomores. "But after tonight's game, everyone knows what he can do."

Only two other ranked teams were in action Thursday night — and they played each other. Marques Johnson's 25 points led No. 9 UCLA to a 92-87 Pacific-8 upset of sixth-ranked Washington. The game between No. 20 North Texas and West Texas was canceled because of weather conditions.

Cheering Group Helps Skaters

By WILL GRIMSLEY

INNSBRUCK (AP) — "Leah, Leah, work that corner — go, go, go!"

"Pick 'em up, Sheila, pick 'em up! That's a girl. Go, Sheila, go!"

George O'Connell, a brute of a man in stocking cap and heavy wool sweater, stands in the aisle, leading cheers like an over-aged schoolboy at a Friday football game.

Behind, between 40 and 60 voices pick up the cadence. Suddenly everybody in the section is on his feet, yelling, screaming, waving flags.

These are the Northbrook Nightingales, although they're not all from Northbrook, Ill. And the shrill sounds they emit in the frigid Austrian air could never be associated with the sweet tones of a nightingale.

They're the rooting section for America's speed skating demons. They're the loudest, liveliest and most demonstrative group of supporters at any event of the XII Winter Olympics. They make more noise and generate more percussion than a hockey house full of Russians.

At one time they were known internationally as the Northbrook Skating Club — a group of speed-skating enthusiasts who turned the Winter Olympics into a private holiday.

"That's not the case any more," said Edward Arlowe of Champaign, Ill., president of the U.S. Speed Skating Association. "We have branched out. Now we have chapters all over the Midwest — St. Louis, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Detroit, even as far away as California."

Until recent years speed skating has been one of the orphan sports of America's Olympic effort, overshadowed by the more aesthetic and more popular events of figure skating and Alpine skiing.

There could be reason for it. As a spectator attraction, it is extremely dull. Competitors, in skin tight suits from head to toe, lock their arms behind their backs, thrust their noses forward and race around a 400-meter track against the clock.

Home Court Is Little Advantage

By REESE HACT
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The home court has been regarded for years as an influencing factor for Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams, but it hasn't worked out that way this season.

Every ACC team has been beaten at home at least once, some twice or more.

Results show that home teams have won 13 and 11. Four conference games have been decided in overtime.

Most coaches contacted by The Associated Press feel that better league balance and increased pressure on home teams to win are a major factor for the turnaround this year. Maryland coach Lefty Driesell, whose Terps lost at home to Clemson, and North Carolina coach Dean Smith agree that ACC teams are better balanced this season than perhaps ever before.

"A good team can win on the road," said Driesell.

North Carolina's Tar Heels, who lead the conference, lost at home to North Carolina State. Smith said in a telephone interview, "Because our league is so balanced this year, we will have some teams winning away from home and everyone will consider these upsets when they really aren't."

"The home team is under pressure to win," Smith explained. "Taken one game at a time, anything can happen in the ACC. As long as there is basketball, there will be an edge in playing in your home environment."

Duke coach Bill Foster said, "You've got a confidence factor in playing at home. But by the same token there is an added pressure to win at home. This, combined with the high caliber of players and coaches in the ACC, lends itself to upsets."

Foster, who formerly coached at Utah, added, "I can't think of any place where there is a greater degree of enthusiasm and crowd noise than in the ACC."

Maryland's Terps, strong pre-season favorites to win the ACC tournament, have been beaten three times in the conference, bowing to Clemson, Wake Forest and North Carolina.

Clemson coach Bill Foster noted that every time in the ACC has lost at home, saying, "The home advantage is not as big as some people think. Our kids have felt the pressure at home."

N.C. State coach Norm Sloan said, "I think you will always have an advantage at home. To have your crowd behind you inspires the team to a greater effort. I don't think it frightens the visiting team."

Virginia coach Terry Holland said he feels that "the home team has an advantage everywhere."

Wake Forest coach Carl Tacy was not immediately available for comment.

North Carolina and N.C. State are the only conference teams that play tonight. They will see action in the North-South doubleheaders in Charlotte, with N.C. State playing Furman and UNC meeting Georgia Tech.

Mills Is Candidate

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Six candidates reportedly are being considered for commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference.

They reportedly are Johnny Miller, former Clarksville high school football coach and now assistant executive secretary for the Tennessee Secondary Schools Athletic Association; Bob Vanatta, athletic director at Oral Roberts University; Richard Robinson, national director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of America; Bill Linson, former sports information officer at Purdue University, now assistant commissioner of the Mid-American Conference; Frank Merritt, athletic director at the Air Force Academy, and Chuck Mills, football coach at Wake Forest University.

The Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle reported Thursday the six remain from a list of 100 applicants for the position, which will come open July 1 when Paul Dietzel's resignation becomes effective and he moves on to become athletic director at Indiana University.

OVC presidents reportedly will meet Feb. 13 in Murfreesboro to review the qualifications of the six candidates.

Dietzel was hired only last year, succeeding Art Guepe, the only full-time commissioner the conference ever had.

OVC schools are Austin Peay, Middle Tennessee, Tennessee Tech, East Tennessee, Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Murray and Morehead.

Osman Enjoyed Latest Victory

Pirate wrestling coach John Welborn claimed last week's 24-13 victory over North Carolina was one of his greatest wins since he's been at East Carolina. But there was one other member of the Pirate wrestling team who was even more pleased with the performance against the Tar Heels.

That was Paul Osman, ECU's gutty performer in the 134 weight class, who decided North Carolina's freshman sensation Chris Conkwright 6-2 in one of the most exciting matches of the evening.

"This has to be one of the biggest wins of my college career," said Osman after the match. "It was definitely the best match that I've wrestled this year. I controlled him pretty well in the first period, and after that I knew I could beat him. Heck, after that first period, I just wanted to ridicule him."

The last time the two faced each other was in the finals of the Virginia State High School Championships. Conkwright easily disposed of Osman. Conkwright then went on to win two more state titles and was one of the most highly sought after prep wrestlers in the nation last year.

"Yes, I most definitely looked at our meeting as a grudge match and I was really psyched up for it," proclaimed Osman. "And finally beating Chris after he beat me during my senior year in high school made the victory even sweeter. But the important thing is that we beat Carolina and as far as I'm concerned we still have the best wrestling team in the state."

Although Osman's victory over Conkwright ranked as one of the top wins of his career, he established himself last year as one of the top 134-pounders in the conference.

After a three year career at Langley High in McLean, Va., where he wrestled for Robert King, a former Pirate alumnus, Osman broke into the starting lineup as a freshman. He placed second in the Maryland Federation Tournament, third in the Southern Conference Championships and had an 18-9-1 overall record. Over the summer vacation, he won the Potomac Valley Tournament. Took first place in the Mason-Dixon Tournament and was named the Outstanding Wrestler in that event.

Osman continued to destroy competition as he waltzed through the Neptune Invitational earlier this season and once again received the Outstanding Wrestler Award. He placed third in the Thanksgiving-Monarch Open and fourth in the N.C. Invitational. He owns a 17-7 record, including a 3-1 conference mark.

"I really worked hard over the summer and tried to wrestle in as many tournaments as I could," said Osman. "I guess the hard work is paying off. Right now, I just want to win the rest of my matches this year and try to qualify for the nationals."

And while trying to qualify for the nationals, Osman can savor one of his greatest wins ever; a 6-2 decision over his old high school nemis, Chris Conkwright.

Squires Get Money

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association, close to death earlier this week, have been revived with a $250,000 transfusion from Virginia National Bank.

Van Cunningham, managing partner of the team, said Thursday the loan combined with the anticipated sale of 100 advertising banners should see the beleaguered club through the remainder of the season.

ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere said he and the league's owners were very pleased that the Squires had put together a new financing package.

"I anticipate they (the Squires) will be around many, many years," DeBusschere said.

The commissioner had said earlier in the week that the league would not bail out the Squires if they failed to save themselves.

The team had announced Monday it would fold unless 100 banners could be sold by Friday.

Cunningham said that so far the team had commitments for 54 banners at $5,000 each.

The banners will be hung in the Norfolk Scope coliseum, where the team plays most of its home games.

Norfolk Mayor Irvine Hill said the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, with the support of city council, would conduct a massive ticket selling campaign, attempting to sell large batches of tickets to area businesses.

Cunningham said the bank loan would be paid off through the ticket sales.

The Squires, who have had the worst record in pro basketball the past two seasons and are currently 8-39, failed to meet the $60,000 payroll last Monday.

However, all the players were in action Wednesday night when the team lost to Denver.

An Eye-Catching VD Rate Is Olympics Show Still Rising

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In case you haven't noticed, the Winter Olympics are at large on ABC, with five events on tap tonight from nine to 11 p.m. EST and from 11:30 p.m. to midnight.

As usual, ABC Sports is handling the proceedings in its customary eye-catching style, with 43 video cameras, six film teams and more than 300 troops on hand to cover the ice and snow epic at Innsbruck.

Anchored by Jim McKay, one of the best general sportscasters in the business, ABC's 12-day, 43½-hour Olympics coverage opened Wednesday night with a spectacular helicopter view of the Austrian Alps.

The show ran two hours, about 90 minutes of it devoted to the colorful, though at times repetitive, opening ceremonies and lighting of the famed Olympic torch.

No doubt aware that opening ceremonies sometimes take forever to finish, ABC sporadically cut away to introduce its additional commentators and experts, among them Pierre Salinger.

The portly ex-White House press secretary, cigar in hand, seemed as out of place in the sports atmosphere as a door buzzer on tomb. But he explained that in coming shows he'd give us the lowdown on life in Innsbruck and try to "give some idea of the ambience of Innsbruck."

Former ski jumping great Art Devlin, standing near a ski jump, dwelt on the hazards of his sport and won a gold medal in the dubious taste category when he allowed that "if a jumper goes too far he'll wind up in the graveyard down there."

Although ABC's taped opening-day show was crisply packaged, it really didn't light up until it got down to the business at hand at about 10:30 p.m., with figure skating and downhill skiing time trials.

From that point, though, ABC's coverage augured good viewing in future shows for even casual viewers—I have reference to me—who don't normally care about skiing, skating, bobsledding and all that.

However, it'll be interesting to see whether large numbers of viewers stick with ABC's coverage—which cost the network a reported $10 million for broadcast rights alone—until it ends on Feb. 15.

RALEIGH (AP)—The incidence of venereal disease in North Carolina has reached "alarming proportions," Human Resources Secretary David Flaherty said Thursday.

Flaherty told regional and local health directors, "It is estimated that about 30 per cent of all high school youths will have had at least one episode of gonorrhea or other sexually transmitted disease and the problem is beginning to show up in 10 and 11-year-old children."

The Division of Health Services and local health directors were urged by Flaherty "to take the lead in bringing this problem under control."

"North Carolina is experiencing the highest incidence of gonorrhea in its history," Flaherty added. He said in 1975 the rate was 729 reported cases per 100,000 population, and that "it is estimated only one of every five cases is being reported to health authorities."

Flaherty said the rate of reported cases of primary and second syphilis was 21.8 persons per 100,000 population in 1975 and this was an increase of 96 per cent since 1969.

A two-week blitz in a six-county area in discovering and treating VD cases was successful, Flaherty said. He noted that in Mecklenburg County 650 cases of venereal disease, including 65 cases of syphilis, were treated. Good results were also achieved in Cabarrus, Gaston, Union, Cleveland and Lincoln counties, Flaherty said.

Cleveland Rests Under An Eight-Inch Snowfall

By The Associated Press
Cleveland was sitting under its heaviest snowfall of the year today — eight inches — as Ohio and other northern states from coast to coast braced for more snow.

At least one person was reported dead in Cleveland in a weather-related incident. Martin Maenza, 52, died while shoveling snow from his driveway in suburban Twinsburg, police said.

The snowfall bore down on rush-hour motorists who had to put up with slippery roads, poor visibility and the irascibility of other motorists. Congestion was so bad in Cleveland that it took one fire company a half hour to answer a call two blocks from the firehouse.

Schools and roads were closed across south and central Ohio.

In California, The San Francisco Bay Area, where the lowlands rarely receive any measurable snow, turned white in a drought-relieving winter performance that amazed unbelieving residents.

Up to two inches were reported Thursday morning on streets in area cities. Cars skidded down snow-slick hills in San Francisco.

A policeman reported a snow plow at work on San Francisco's Van Ness Avenue, saying, "I didn't even know we had one of those!"

In Indiana, Gov. Otis R. Bowen authorized sending 100 National Guardsmen to New Castle, 45 miles east of Indianapolis, in the wake of an ice storm that hit central Indiana Thursday.

Elsewhere, winter storm warnings were in effect in east-central Ohio, eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey.

Travelers advisories were again posted from southern Ohio through southern New York. They also were posted in northeastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

Heavy snow was forecast for the central Arizona mountains and the southern Colorado mountains, where more than 70 avalanches were reported Thursday between Grand Junction and Leadville.

Temperatures overnight ranged from -20 at Worland, Wyo., to 72 at McAllen, Tex.

would have been defeated by the bad breaks in both spades and diamonds.

West led the king of clubs, and the appearance of dummy was a welcome sight. 12 tricks seemed an absolute cinch. Dummy's ace of clubs won, and declarer received a shock when she led a low diamond towards her hand and East showed out. There was now an unavoidable trump loser, and it appeared that declarer would need a 3-2 spade split to bring home the contract. However, Judy demonstrated that she could overcome even a 4-1 spade division.

After winning the ace of diamonds, she ruffed a club in dummy, led a spade to the ace and continued with a low spade. West couldn't afford to ruff a losing spade with his trump trick, so he discarded a heart. Dummy's queen of spades won, the king and ace of hearts and ace of diamonds were cashed, and a heart was ruffed. West could overruff, but he would then be forced to lead a club, giving declarer a ruff-and-suff.

In an attempt to avoid the endplay West discarded a club, but it was to no avail. Declarer simply threw him in with the high trump, and he was forced to lead a club, allowing declarer to discard a spade from her hand while ruffing in dummy.

Would Curb Her Opinions

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Ronald Reagan says that if her husband is elected president, she won't take public stands on issues on which they disagree. However, she said she would not criticize the wife of President Ford or wives of other public officials who have taken public positions on national issues. Mrs. Reagan also spoke against abortion Thursday at a luncheon attended by about 180 women. "It is difficult for me to get beyond the point of forgetting the fact that you are killing a human life," she said. "I can't get over that hurdle. If it's a case of the mother's life, then I could go along with it. But other than that, I think it's gotten much too easy and much too permissive in today's world where everything seems very easy and very permissive."

Mrs. Reagan will meet her husband in Greensboro today for more campaigning, and an evening appearance in Raleigh. Reagan is challenging President Ford in North Carolina's March 23 Republican presidential preference primary.
