

Moslems Seize Phalangist Area

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Leftist Moslem forces have completed their conquest of Beirut's downtown hotel area with the capture of the unfinished Hilton and two neighboring hotels.

The Moslem advance on Sunday threatened the Christians' "decisive, speedy" peace initiative and said the Christians are ready to agree to political reforms giving the Moslem majority more power.

Pierre Gemayel, whose Phalangist party militia is the largest unit among the Christian takes of the past and they must be corrected," said Gemayel.

But Kamal Junblatt, the Socialist who is the country's most influential Moslem leader, was reported insisting on the resignation of Christian President Suleiman Franjeh and more power for the Moslems than the 50-50 division the Christians have agreed to.

Hundreds of Christian refugees arrived in Cyprus after a 12-hour, 200-mile sea voyage. A Cypriot immigration official reported more than 1,000 Lebanese Christians had fled to Cyprus in the past few days.

A crewman of one of the refugee ships said thousands were waiting to leave at Jounieh, the Christian port 12 miles north of Beirut to which President Franjeh moved last week when the presidential palace was partially destroyed by artillery fire from Junblatt's forces.

Syrian President Hafez Assad met in Damascus for nine hours Saturday with Junblatt in an unsuccessful attempt to get him to agree to an immediate cease-fire. The Lebanese leader returned to Beirut on Saturday night, and sources in the Syrian capital reported he said his men would fight on until his demands were met.

When Lebanon became a nation after World War II, the Christians were in the majority and were given the dominant position in the political system. Using this and their connections in Europe, they set up an unrestricted capitalist economy which became the financial center of the Middle East.

Argentine Assassins Score Hit

By ALFONSO CHARDY Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Gunmen assassinated the chief of operations of the Argentine federal police today just hours before a ceremony scheduled for Gen. Jorge Videla to assume the presidency.

The slaying was the first assassination of a high official since the armed forces overthrew President Isabel in a bloodless coup early Wednesday.

Police sources said Chief Inspector Guillermo Pavon was shot dead from a passing vehicle as he left home in his own car, and his chauffeur was wounded. The sources said they presumed the killers to be leftist guerrillas.

Political violence by the right and left has killed more than 200 Argentines this year, and controlling terrorism and subversion has been announced as a major purpose of the new military regime.

In addition to Videla, a key member of the regime is Jose Martinez de Hoz, president of the giant Acindar steel mill, who has been named economy minister.

Considered a moderate-conservative who favors foreign investment and free enterprise, Martinez de Hoz must devise a new economic program to check the runaway inflation rate, which is expected to hit 600 per cent this year, reverse the $12-billion foreign debt, reverse the $1.9-billion deficit in the balance of payments, rebuild foreign exchange reserves now nonexistent and stabilize the currency.

The junta, which also includes the commanders of the navy and air force, named an eight-man cabinet Sunday. It includes one other civilian, who heads the ministry of education.

Videla himself, as commander-in-chief of the army, will have the chief responsibility for coping with Argentina's other major problem — the political terrorism that was responsible for 1,700 deaths during Mrs. Peron's 21 months in office.

The junta has decreed the death penalty for terrorists and announced other antiguerrilla measures. But 16 more persons were killed in the first 72 hours after the coup, including guerrillas, other civilians and police. This raised the toll to 201 for the year.

'Indicators' Continuing An Up Trend

By G. DAVID WALLACE Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today its index anticipating economic trends gained for the fourth straight month in February, but at a slower rate than during the previous month.

The Commerce Department said its composite of a dozen economic statistics, called leading indicators, climbed by eight-tenths of 1 per cent in February. That compared to a gain of 1.5 per cent in January, which had been the largest increase in six months.

The January figure was revised downward from an original estimate of 2.2 per cent.

The index has been gaining steadily, except for a four-tenths of 1 per cent setback in October. It signals steady economic growth in the months ahead, although still at a pace slower than before the nation hit recession in 1973.

Commerce said the biggest factor in the latest increase was a higher percentage of companies reporting slower deliveries from their suppliers. The percentage reporting slower deliveries climbed from 42 per cent in January to 50 per cent in February. Slower deliveries are taken as a sign of increased demand and quicker economic activity.

In all, eight of the 11 individual sectors available in time for compilation into the February composite showed a gain.

Among them were a lower layoff rate in industry, an increase in the wholesale prices of key commodities, a faster formation of new businesses, higher stock prices, a bigger money supply after adjustment for inflation, a higher volume of orders for manufactured goods and greater demand for building permits.

Commerce said the strongest downward influence on the index was a slower growth in the liquid assets held by consumers and non-financial companies. Liquid assets are those held in cash or investments which can be quickly converted into cash.

Other downward influences were a shorter average work week and a lower volume of orders for factories and facilities.

Congress Taking Up Varied Issues

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress this week takes up legislation that would extend U.S. fishing jurisdiction to 200 miles at sea, change federal election laws and set up a nation-wide system of no-fault auto insurance.

The Senate today takes up a compromise 200-mile-limit bill that would be effective March 1, 1977. The measure would limit the catch of commercial species of fish, with priority given to U.S. fishermen.

Permits for foreign fishing within the 200-mile zone would be denied unless a surplus is determined to exist beyond the capacity of the U.S. fishing fleet.

The Ford administration has opposed the unilateral U.S. declaration of a 200-mile zone while negotiations continue for an international treaty defining a limit. The present U.S. limit is 12 miles.

In a compromise with the White House, congressional sponsors of the legislation agreed to delay enforcement until next March 1 to allow more time for agreement with the 144-nation Law of the Sea Conference under United Nations sponsorship.

Meanwhile, the House begins debate Tuesday on no-fault automobile insurance, focusing on a far-reaching bill that would require the states to adopt such a system. The bill is being pushed by liberals and several big insurance companies but opposed by trial lawyers. The House version is pending in the Commerce Committee.

The aim of no-fault is to guarantee that any victim of a traffic accident or the victim's survivors is quickly compensated for injuries or death. The victim's insurance company pays the sums, rather than the present system of determining whether another person is at fault.

The Senate bill stipulates that within four years every state require its motorists to buy no-fault insurance protecting against unlimited medical expenses, loss of wages of at least $15,000, the cost of such replacement services as cooking and gardening, and funeral expenses.

The House today also is to act on a bill to authorize production and commercial sale of oil from the naval reserves.

Seven Injured

AYDEN—Seven persons were injured in a traffic accident in Ayden Sunday at 5:40 p.m.

According to Chief Thomas Burney of the Ayden Police Department Larue Manning Mumford was driving on South Lee Street when she reportedly looked back at a rear window and collided with a tree.

Passengers in the car included James Ed. Mumford, 23; Diane Mumford Butler of Greenville, 29; Crystal Konnur, six years old; George Cliff Butler, Jr., three years old; Stacy Lynn of Greenville, seven years old; and Sybil Truitt, 75 years old.

All of the passenger were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Ayden Rescue Squad. Ms. Mumford, George Butler, and Ms. Truitt were admitted and are in fair or satisfactory condition. The other four passengers were treated and released Sunday.

Chief Burney reported that Ms. Mumford was driving to church and that a Bible cushioned the steering wheel from crushing her chest.

Fisherman And Rescue Man Drown In Neuse

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The bodies of two of four men who drowned during a fishing mishap involving three boats Sunday have been recovered and the search continues for the other two.

Bodies recovered were those of Wayne Pope, 27, of Rt. 1, Angier, one of four men fishing in two boats that capsized when pulled beneath a dam, and James Hickman, 35, Goldsboro Rescue Squad member.

Pope's body was recovered Sunday night and Hickman's this morning, some 200 yards from the dam.

About 100 men searched for the bodies through the night.

Still missing were fishermen Ronnie Pangdon, 23, and Neal Langdon, 22, both of Rt. 1, Angier. The men were not related.

Medical Examiner Dr. Jack Drummond said the fourth fisherman, Randy Pope, 22, brother of Wayne Pope, survived as did two rescue squad members, who boat also overturned as they sought to aid the four men who were clinging to their capsized boats.

Rescue squad men who survived were identified as Wayne Anderson, 23, and Keith Harris, 28.

The rescuers had thrown a rope to three of the fishermen clinging to one of the overturned boats when the rescue boat also capsized.

A rescue squad spokesman gave this account:

The Pope brothers were in one small outboard and the Langdons were in another going upstream in the Neuse River. The outboards got caught in the suction generating by the current at the Neuse River dam, also known as the Fish Ladder Dam, of the Carolina Power & Light Co. Quaker Neck generating station five miles southwest of Goldsboro.

The outboards were pulled underneath the waters of the dam and capsized.

Randy Pope was able to swim to shore, and asked a woman to telephone the rescue squad. Then he was taken to Wayne Memorial Hospital in Goldsboro for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Wayne Pope and the Langdons were clinging to one of the capsized outboards when three members of the squad in another boat tossed them the rope shortly after 5 p.m.

Wayne Pope and the Langdons started pulling themselves along the rope, throwing the rescue boat into the suction and capsizing it. Then they clung to the side of the rescue boat.

Harris was able to jump clear of the suction area as the boat overturned. Anderson was able to save himself by placing his feet on the capsized boat and kicking away from the suction.

Other rescue squads of the area were searching for Hickman and the Langdons.

Home A Total Loss In Sunday Morning Fire

GRIFTON — Both Grifton and Ayden Fire Units were called to a fire at the home of Melvin Garris of Rt. 2, Grifton at 1:21 a.m. Sunday.

According to Pitt County Fire Marshal, Bobby Joyner, firemen fought the flames for three hours and the house was considered a total loss. No one was at home at the time of the fire and there were no reported injuries. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Speeder Charged With Trying To Hit Officer

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

An 18-year-old Winterville man, William Henry Covington Jr., was jailed here early Saturday under a $2,000 bond on multiple charges including assaulting an officer with a vehicle.

Chief Glenn Cannon said two city detectives observed a car being driven by Covington traveling at a high rate of speed near the intersection of Tenth Street and Dickinson Avenue about 1:15 a.m. Saturday and gave chase. After pursuing the Covington car for about 1 1/2 miles through residential areas North of Dickinson Avenue at speeds of 80 miles per hour, the Covington vehicle spun around and skidded to a stop on Spruce Street.

Cannon said the detectives then got out of their car to approach the Covington car when the vehicle took off at a high rate of speed toward one of the policemen. The officer jumped out of the path of the vehicle, which then spun around again and headed, for the second time, toward the detective, who jumped out of the way again.

When the Covington vehicle spun around again and headed toward the officer for the third time, the other detective pulled his pistol and fired at the front wheel of the Covington auto. The car then came to a halt.

The chief said Covington was charged with speeding to elude apprehension, failing to stop for a blue light and siren, driving under the influence, assault with a deadly weapon (vehicle) and engaging in willful speed competition.

KOREAN TRIP?

I read a short item in The Reader's Digest about the Korean government's inviting U.S. and U.N. Korean War veterans to come back and visit the country they helped to save. The hotels, meals, and sightseeing are free, the item said, and country's airline, KAL, is offering minimum rates. I'd love to go and would like more details. A. T.

Hotline got the address of the Korean Tourist Office from Quixote Travels here, but our letter came back because the office had moved. We finally contacted this office by phone, however, and were referred to Korea Airline, which in turn referred us to the Korea National Tourist Bureau, a separate and distinct organization from the first contacted, apparently. The Bureau very graciously sent us a wealth of information about the program, which is sponsored by the Korean Veterans Association and the Korea National Tourism Corporation.

Trips are planned for every Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, April through November, plus any date for a group of 10 or people traveling together. The tour seems to last about 15 days and the minimum cost appears to be $997 per person Nov. 1-May 31 and $1,069 per person during the peak season.

We are passing the pamphlets we received on to you. Anyone else wishing to learn more about this program may write the Korea National Tourism Corp. New York Office, 460 Park Ave., Room 628, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love for the first time, and the circumstances are a bit unusual. I'm 26 and Rob is 19. Before you say I'm crazy, please listen to the facts.

I'm a school teacher who is very petite and who looks like a teenager. Rob is very mature for his age. We met while bowling. When I told him my age, he was surprised, but he said it didn't matter. It was love at first sight, Abby. After the second date it was as though we'd known each other all our lives.

When we're together alone it's sheer heaven, but for some reason Rob doesn't want to go out in public with me. It can't be my age because he told me I look 18. I accidentally ran into him in the shopping center once, and he ignored me. That really hurt. Later he apologized, saying he was self-conscious because he'd never been in love before.

Abby, I want to marry Rob. Please don't think I'm a silly kid. How can I bring him around?

STARS IN MY EYES

DEAR STARS: No man who loves a woman would ignore her in public—or anywhere else. (He may have something going with another girl and doesn't want to be seen with you.) Rob has a lot of growing up to do before he qualifies for marriage. I say, toss him back. He's not a keeper.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 54, have been a widow for four years and have recently started dating a man who is 35.

He looks older than he is and I look younger than I am, so I'm not sure if the difference in our ages is the problem.

The other day he told me that he was invited to spend the weekend with his best friend who is married and lives out of town, and he asked me to go along. I said no because I didn't think it was proper. He said I was silly and old-fashioned.

Was I?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR LADY: I see nothing "improper" about accompanying the gentleman you're dating on a weekend trip as long as you maintain separate sleeping quarters. If he expected you to double up, that's a different story.

DEAR ABBY: My wife recently died. We had been married only two and a half years. She was 48. I am 56. It was a second marriage for both of us—a short but happy one.

I have just discovered a diary among her things. I never knew she kept one. It may be recent or one she kept prior to our marriage.

I am tempted to read it, but I'm not sure it would be right. Please advise me.

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: What was, was. Destroy it immediately to remove the temptation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: The person who isn't interested in politics is like the person who is drowning and isn't interested in water. If you are not properly registered to vote, call the headquarters of the political party of your choice, and find out where to register and when to be eligible to vote in the next election. # Florida House Plant Sales Booming

By G. MICHAEL HARMON

Associated Press Writer

APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — Caravans of trucks, ranging from pickups to tractor trailers, roll out of this small Central Florida town each day carrying the non-stop harvest of the nation's fastest growing agricultural crop: potted house plants.

"When people talk about Florida, they usually talk about tourism or citrus, but the Florida nursery industry is the big success story of not only the state but the entire nation," says Charles Dunn, executive vice president of the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association.

In the last three years, wholesale sales of Florida-grown house plants have increased 100 per cent to $87.3 million in 1975, and University of Florida agriculture researchers have predicted a growth rate of 138 per cent by 1985.

Florida currently produces 82 per cent of all the house plants grown in the United States, and about two-thirds of the Sunshine State-crop is centered around Apopka, a garden-variety small town about 10 miles north of Orlando.

"No matter where you live, in a New York City apartment or a Dallas suburb, the odds are good that the philodendron on your coffee table came from right here," said Cecil Rogers, the nursery association's representative in Apopka.

From the small grower to the giant corporation, the sale of Florida-grown plants has expanded at a rate that would turn any Wall Street investor green with envy.

Green Thumb Crop, the largest nursery operation in the state, reported sales of $25 million in 1974 and $41 million in 1975.

"I guess you could call business good," said Green Thumb president Bob Stutzman, who recently moved from exclusively wholesale to retail sales with a marketing scheme based on the home parties used by merchants of plastic food containers.

While Green Thumb has prospered from a big investment in automation, the small, family-run nurseries that dot the back roads around Apopka also have flourished.

"I stay sold out," said Manny Allen, the owner and operator — along with his wife and three sons — of Bay Hill Nursery. "I have for several years. I do in excess of $50,000 in sales a year; but couldn't increase that if I wanted to."

The large nurseries like Green Thumb market their plants through sophisticated distribution centers using fleets of trucks, but many of the small operations sell to youths who drive to Florida in pickup trucks in an effort to turn a profit by selling to retail plant shops which are mushrooming all across the nation.

"They come down here in old trucks and cars and buy as many plants as they can haul back to places like Chicago," said Rogers.

The profits from the retail sale of house plants are massive and increasing. Industry sources say the average markup from wholesale to retail is about 400 per cent.

Trio Named To Advisory Council

Three Greenville residents have been named to the newly established N. C. State Mental Health Advisory Council.

They are Ms. Mary Ruth Hardy, a member of the N. C. Mental Health Commission; Dr. Philip G. Nelson, a local psychiatrist and member of the N. C. Alcohol Authority; and Walter N. Creekmore, an associate professor and founder and director of the REAP program at ECU.

The group held its first meeting Mar. 17 at Dorothea Dix Hospital. The purpose of the Council is "to listen to the needs of the citizens in their areas and develop a mental health plan for the whole state, which will be submitted by the Division of Mental Health Services in July to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for funding.

Three Hurt In Accidents Searchers Puzzled By Disappearance On River

A two-car accident on private property near Pactolus Sunday injured three persons and caused an estimated $1,500 damage.

According to Highway Patrolman A. G. Wright, the mishap occurred when a pickup truck driven by Ernest Marshall Tetterton of Route 1, Winterville was struck head-on by a dune buggy being operated by a 12-year-old boy.

Neither driver was injured in the collision, although three passengers in the dune buggy received extensive lacerations. Injured, and taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment, were 4-year-old Victoria Powell, 12-year-old Reita Powell, and 17-year-old Vanessa Powell, all of Route 5, Greenville.

Trooper Wright said the collision occurred on a single lane farm path when the two vehicles met in a blind curve and were unable to avoid hitting each other.

Rescue squad officers credited Troop Wright with possibly saving the life of one of the victims, who received first aid from the patrolman for extensive facial lacerations before rescue squad members arrived.

No charges were made in connection with the mishap.

Brick Breaks Store's Windows

Police are investigating an incident of vandalism reported at 9:35 p.m. Sunday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said someone threw a brick through a window at Deiner's Bakery on Dickinson Ave. causing an estimated $75 property damage.

HAMILTON, N. C. — Rescue squad members from Martin and Bertie Counties along with other volunteers, resumed a search today for Donald Matthews Jr., a former state highway commissioner and businessman-farmer, whose empty motorboat was found on the Roanoke River late Friday.

Alvin Everett said he was to have met Matthews at the Hamilton Gun Club landing on the river at 5 p.m. Friday. When Matthews didn't arrive, Everett and several other club members went to look for him. They found his boat beneath some brush and overhanging limbs a short distance up-stream from the club. The motor had been damaged.

"It's a mystery what happened to him," Everett said. "We think he is in the water." Martin County Sheriff Raymond Rawl said this morning that the massive search which began Friday night and continued Saturday and Sunday, resumed this morning.

He noted that some 50 men had been used to search both banks of the river. "All physical evidence indicates he is in the water," Rawl said.

The sheriff noted that two U. S. Coast Guard divers from Norfolk were scheduled to join the search for Matthews today.

Hunt Rapist In Sunday Incident

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said local police and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are searching today for a man who allegedly raped a 25-year-old local woman in a business on Dickinson Avenue yesterday afternoon.

Chief Cannon said the 3 p.m. assault was reported at 5:55 p.m. after the victim went to Pitt Memorial Hospital for examination.

According to the chief, the woman had been inside a business and had seen a man pass by several times on a bicycle before he stopped and knocked on the door. He said the woman went to the door, opened it and then was grabbed by the man who forced her—at knife point—into the rear of the business where he sexually assaulted her.

operates Ledo Farms, one of the South's largest nurseries, was a strong swimmer and expert SCUBA diver, Everett said. He had fished on the river since he was 10.

Only Album Covers In Record-Burning

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — The rock and roll records young members of a Baptist church planned to burn Sunday night didn't burn after all, but several hundred album covers were consumed in the bonfire, the church's pastor said.

The Rev. J.M. Ezell, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, said after the bonfire built by young members of his congregation that only a few actual records were burned because of fears burning the records could injure bystanders.

"We learned that poisonous fumes are given off when you burn the kind of plastic that is used in records, so the young people burned the covers of the records instead," the Rev. Mr. Ezell said.

He said the 500-600 records brought for the bonfire in the church's parking lot would be destroyed Monday at the city dump.

"We had about 500 people there, even some in opposition to the burning of the records," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Ezell said the record-burning was a part of the church's youth week activities, and that young members of his congregation had decided to show their commitment to God over rock music.

"Two boys brought $1,000 worth of records. We just had a great service," he added.

He said several students from nearby Gardner-Webb College also turned up at the 8:30 p.m. bonfire to protest the planned record-burning, but added that no incidents took place.

"I think certainly our youth have accomplished what they set out to do," he said.

Earlier in the week an estimated 250 students at the Faith Christian Church School in Ramseur, N.C., burned rock records, books, miniskits and even short pants, saying the articles were un-Christian.

Students in grades 1-12 at the private church-supported school said they were inspired to burn the items by a traveling evangelist.

Couple Weds In Sunday Ceremony Twine-Johnson Vows Solemnized Sunday

Karen Elaine Lee and Richard Steve Ausbon were united in marriage Sunday in a double ring ceremony in the Parkers Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Harley Brown officiated during the three o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Arthur Lee of Rt. 5, Greenville, and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Ausbon.

The church was arranged with arched candelabra with lighted white candles, accentuated by a basket of white chrysanthemums with jade greenery. A prayer bench centered the setting flanked by additional candelabras and greenery. Satin bows marked family pews.

The Rev. Phillip Cooper, organist, presented the wedding music. Rev. and Mrs. Cooper rendered vocal selections of "Whither Thou Goest," "Each for the Other" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. She wore a formal length gown of white delustered crepe designed with an open split neckline centered in tiny covered buttons. Re-embroidered alencon lace enhanced the neckline, bodice and the Renaissance sleeves. The full circular skirt fell into an attached chapel length train.

She wore a bouffant illusion veil held in place by a profile headpiece designed with overlapping lace petals centered with pearls, and she carried a cascade of yellow and white mums.

The honorary attendants were Pam Arnold, the bride's niece, maid of honor, and Mrs. Edna Barber, matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Brown Johnston, the bride's sister, Mrs. Shirley Revels, the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Carolyn Lee, the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Delores Mayo, the bride's niece, and Mrs. Nan Whitehurst.

The honor attendants wore formal length gowns in maize knit designed with a high neckline trimmed in white Venise lace. The empire bodice featured a panel of lace, centered with maize covered buttons extending from the neck to the waistline. The long fitted sleeves were trimmed with the white Venise lace and edged in a ruffled cuff. The full flared skirt was encircled at the waistline in matching white Venise lace. They wore maize garden hats trimmed in maize illusion with streamers. They carried nosegays of white and yellow flowers. The bridesmaids wore gowns styled identically to the honor attendants with garden hats in mint green trimmed in mint green illusion with streamers.

Miss Pat Arnold, the bride's niece, and Miss Kimberly Gurkin, the bridegroom's niece, served as flower girls. They wore floor length dresses with yellow bodice and floral skirts with hats identical to the bridesmaids and carried baskets of yellow and white spring flowers.

Jeffrey Gurkin, the bridegroom's nephew, and Chris Lee, the bride's nephew, served as ring bearers, carrying the wedding rings on ivory satin pillows.

Burnace R. Ausbon attended his brother as best man and ushers were Curtis Lee, the bride's brother, William Tetterton, the bride's nephew, James R. Ausbon, the bridegroom's brother and William Gurkin, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

Miss Linda Lee, the bride's sister, presided at the register. Mrs. Margaret Landen was mistress of ceremony.

For the wedding, Mrs. Lee chose a full length light blue lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Sadie Gurkin, the bridegroom's sister chose a full length floral dress of peach and tan. Both were presented corsages of yellow roses.

After the reception, the bride changed for traveling, wearing a two-piece yellow and green outfit. Upon their return from their wedding trip, the couple will reside at Rt. 5, Greenville.

The bride graduated from Stokes-Pactolus High School and is employed by Dr. L.E. Ross. The bridegroom graduated from Bear Grass High School and is employed by Weyerhaeuser Paper Co.

The family of the bride entertained with a reception following the wedding in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered by a white lace cloth with a central motif of yellow spring flowers. Pouring punch was Mrs. Rae Arnold, the bride's sister. Wedding cake was served by Mrs. Selma Tyson, the bride's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Norvell said the good-byes.

Kevin Lee and Miss Paula Warren, nephew and niece of the bride, served the rice bags. Miss Warren wore a floor length gown of maize knit with puff sleeves trimmed in white lace and matching garden hat trimmed in yellow satin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gurkin and Wayne Ausbon entertained the members of the Ausbon-Lee wedding party in the fellowship hall of the church following the wedding rehearsal Saturday.

The bride's table was covered by a white linen cloth. A bouquet of yellow spring flowers, flanked by yellow tapers, centered the table.

ROBERSONVILLE — Margaret Earle Johnson of Robersonville and William Louis Twine of Greenville were united in marriage Sunday at 3:00 p.m. at the First Christian Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Donald Weaver. The music was provided by Mrs. Margaret Rogerson.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson of Robersonville, and Mrs. Raymond H. Johnson of Greenville and Mr. William J. Twine of San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza over taffeta designed with a high neckline encircled with a border of silk Venise lace threaded with white satin ribbon. The sheer squared yoke was outlined in the ribbon and lace border.

Appliques of floral silk Venise lace were featured on the fitted bodice. The full sheer bishop sleeves featured fitted cuffs trimmed in lace and the modified natural waistline was enhanced by the border lace and ribbon. The full gathered skirt extended to a chapel length train.

She wore a bouffant illusion veil edged in Venise lace threaded with satin ribbon to complement her gown. The veil was attached to a Camelot headpiece trimmed in lace and ribbon.

Miss Carrie Johnson, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Forbes of Titusville, Fla., Mrs. Pam Johnson of Robersonville, and Mrs. Debra Hardee of Greenville.

They wore formal length gowns of maize knit designed with open, scooped necklines with fitted shirred bodices. The sleeveless gowns were complemented by bolero jackets of sheer floral organza printed in shades of maize, orange, gold and green. The jackets were styled with ruffled Elizabethan necklines, long sleeves and tied at the empire waistline by a band of solid knit fabric.

Serving as best man was Raymond H. Johnson, step-father of the bridegroom. Ushers were Bill Holland of Greenville, Dennis Johnson and Smitty Johnson, both of Robersonville.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Rocky Mount.

The bride is a graduate of Martin Technical Institute and is presently employed by Milady Beauty Shoppe. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed by the Rocky Mount Parks and Recreation Department.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Robersonville Country Club. Guests were greeted by Mr. Jarvis Whitfield.

Mrs. Margaret Dillinger presided at the bridal registry. Good-byes were said by Mrs. Betsy Johnson.

On Saturday night, a rehearsal dinner was given in honor of the couple at the Williamston Country Club. A Sunday morning breakfast was given by friends and relatives of the bridal couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Hardee.

In loving memory of our beloved husband and Father, Isiah Jerome Anderson, who departed this life nine years ago today, March 23, 1967. Sometimes it's hard to understand the loss of one so dear, but the comfort of a loving God is always very near. So may he help to ease the pain and sadness that we feel, for there is no sorrow on this Earth that Heaven cannot heal.

Insurance Women Hear Speakers

Joe Burris and Marie Olchavik, student nurses and volunteers for the Greenville Rescue Squad presented the program at the Pitt County Association of Insurance Women (PCAIW) meeting Wednesday.

Members participated in the various life saving techniques, such as mouth to mouth resuscitation, and first aid for the heart attack victim.

Sylvia deRosset, Regional Coordinator for the N. C. Council of the Status of Women gave a talk about her work, collecting data in this area. She is a member of the Advisory Council of Vocational Education for the Beaufort County Board of Education.

Jane Bradbury called the business meeting to order. The first topic of business was Operation Identification. The PCAIW, in cooperation with the Pitt County Sheriff's Dept., Greenville Police Department and Pitt County Insurance Exchange will participate in Operation Identification during the month of May. This is for the purpose of putting identification numbers on CB Radios, Portable TV, Portable Hand Saws, Portable Hand Tools, and all other items easily stolen. Magic pencil markings can be made on furs. A copy of these numbers and markings will be left with the owners, and if items are stolen, they can be easily spotted and returned to their owners.

Operation Lace Organizational Meeting will be held at McRoy Insurance Agency Building Tuesday, March 30 at 7 p.m.

New PCAIW officers beginning office June 1, 1976, are President Joyce Mills, First Vice President Georgia Hall; Second Vice President, Audrey Stillwell; Recording Secretary, Joyce McRoy; Corresponding Secretary, Hilda Pinkham; Treasurer, Frances Blanchard, Parliamentarian and Historian, Sophia Sumner. State President Myra Hendrix will install new officers at the April 28 meeting. Joyce Mills presented a report from the State Nominating Committee Meeting which was held on March 20th in Durham.

Bolstered Faith In Jury System

The Patricia Hearst trial in San Francisco was the most sensational one in this nation in many years.

A wealthy newspaper fortune heiress, kidnapped from her apartment, appears to collaborate with her captors and comes to trial for her part in a bank robbery.

Secret camera photos from the bank robbery left no doubt that Patricia Hearst actually participated in the bank robbery. The real question was whether or not she was brain washed to the point where she was unable to make a rational decision.

The jury seated for the case heard weeks of testimony from expert witnesses, including psychiatrists, concerning Miss Hearst's state of mind.

We have no quarrel with the jury which was seated in this case over the decision that it made.

The jurors had one of the most difficult court decisions ever to make and they were told by the presiding judge following their verdict that it was well within the evidence that had been submitted to them.

Someone has said that "brainwashing" could be used to justify almost any crime, and if this becomes a defense then those crimes could be justified.

The jury in the Hearst case heard the evidence and then rendered a verdict which we believe must have taken much thought and soul searching. It came after many hours of hearing and viewing some of the most dramatic testimony and evidence ever presented in a court room.

One can agree or disagree with the verdict, but we doubt that anyone can say the jury wasn't conscientious in its decision. Somehow it serves to lift our faith in the jury system of justice.

A Practical View Of Two Amendments

Passage of two constitutional amendments to allow industry and health care revenue bonds will be of benefit to North Carolina.

The industrial revenue bonds are necessary as a practical matter as we seek industry, since all other states now allow them.

Hospitals will need this tool for new construction because federal funds are drying up and general obligation bonds are more difficult to get approved.

There's no easy way to finance any construction, but passage of these two amendments will provide useful tools.

Help For Kids In Trouble

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Things are moving rapidly in North Carolina toward a new way of dealing with children who find themselves in trouble with the law—particularly those who are not guilty of a crime, but rather are school truants, runaways, or discipline problems.

Even before state law forbidding the youngsters in trouble from being placed in a state training school (effective in mid-1977) many communities are rallying local resources to keep the children out of institutions.

A study of a new approach in the courts indicates that between 30 and 40 per cent of the potential juvenile cases are being diverted away from the courtrooms into appropriate public or private agencies within the community.

The object, says Thomas A. Danek, administrator of the juvenile court division of the state court system, is to keep the child from going any deeper than necessary into the formal, legal process.

Minor Cases

Most of the cases diverted involve the minor, "undisciplined" category which includes acts such as truancy, running away, etc., which would not be crimes if done by an adult. The delinquency cases (theft, assault, etc.) generally remain in the courts.

Anticipating the law which will require community handling of the status offenders beginning next year, almost all counties in the state have filed intent notices to meet that goal.

Studies are now being done to identify community resources such as mental health services, alcoholic rehab, social services, school, church, YMCA, and family counseling programs and special education offerings which might be best used.

Meanwhile, each court district has already moved to identify the sources of help and begin using the alternative methods.

Success varies sharply, figures for the first six months of operation show: diversion rates vary from four per cent in some court districts to 80 per cent in others.

The more populated counties of the state provide the most opportunities for diversion, since the numbers of established alternative programs are higher.

Danek describes the central purpose of the diversion effort as to "address the problem in the most appropriate way . . . it involves decision-making by the child and his parents in a voluntary way, rather than by being under an order."

Parent Problem

A fairly frequent characteristic of juvenile court cases, say court officials, is that the parent has a problem—but the child gets into trouble.

If alcoholic parents beat a child who then runs away, the child can be arrested for doing so—even though may be a pretty sensible reaction under the circumstances, Danek believes.

The juvenile court intake workers look into details of each juvenile case to see the best resolution.

If study proven that some community program can best work with the child, and the person who filed the complaint agrees, court handling of the case is dropped.

If the complainant insists on court action, the intake worker can report to the judge and recommend a solution.

A big problem in the present operation of the program which should be addressed as the new system is further developed is the absence of follow through. "We don't have the ability to enforce the stipulations agreed to. We can encourage a child to go to the mental health agency and he may agree. But, does he actually go?" Danek wonders.

Still, the new approach does provide a chance for a child to get things straightened out without a court record, and possible probation or a term in a training school.

A federal grant of $444,000 through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and the state's Law and Order Commission underwrite the diversion effort.

Can't Fight The System

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—When the new Congress was elected in 1974 there was a great deal of publicity about the young Turks that were going to bring about reform in the legislative branch of government. A few people may have wondered what reforms they produced, and what happened to these tough young men and women who were going to go up against the system.

One, whom I'll call Efreem Haldibird, told me.

"It wasn't as easy to fight the system as I thought it would be."

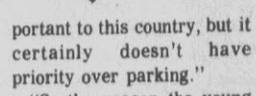

"What happened?"

"Well, what we didn't know was Congressman Wayne Hays of Ohio was in charge of the House Administration Committee."

"What has that got to do with reform?"

"Everything. If you go up against the system you don't get a parking space on the Hill. How can anyone serve the people if he can't park at the Capitol? You may think election reform is very im-

To the editor:

I'm sharing a letter I received recently:

My name is George. I'm an all-around handyman. I'd like you to feel free to use my services for any duties you may be too busy to perform.

Any time there's anything that needs doing and you'd rather not, let George do it.

I'll write your Congressman; I'll write your newspaper; I'll do anything you're too tired or pre-occupied to do.

My services are available for the time-consuming things you'd rather duck doing.

Don't vote, let George do it.

You haven't time for jury duty. I have.

Don't accept committee assignments and extra responsibilities. Let old George tend to those things.

I'm not as famous as Khrushchev, but without me, you'd never have heard of him.

That goes for Mussolini, Stalin, and Hitler. I made those guys.

And the big-time racketeers in the State. Without me, those guys would be nothing.

When I'm the guy who runs all these "big wheels," why do I want to run errands for you?

Don't you see? I get a kick out of electing presidents for school boards and countries. All these things you did before you began chasing dollars and golf balls.

Don't feel you're imposing, I'm glad to be of service. Helping you, I'm really helping myself. How do you think I was able to take over and run a third of the world already. Nobody else wanted to bother.

They said, "Let George do it," and I did it.

I'm taking over in lots of cities and counties in the U. S., and it's just a matter of time till I'll take over this country, too. I want to thank you for making it possible.

Remember now, if there is ever any way I can be of help, I'm at your service. Just have fun and don't worry about a thing. I'll do your worrying, too. I'll bill you later.

"So the reason the young Turks haven't made any inroads in Congress is because if they tried to do anything they would lose their parking privileges."

"It wasn't just parking privileges. Some of us could have lived with that. But Hays is also in charge of office expenses. If we went up against him we might have found ourselves without pencils. How can you write new reforms if you don't have any pencils?"

"Typewriters?" I suggested.

"Hays is in charge of typewriters, too. If he gets mad at you you could wind up with a really lousy typewriter. It's one thing to want to change things in the House, but how can you do it if you don't have the tools to work with?"

"Hays has you in a box."

"He can put you in one if he wants to. He's in charge of allocating office space. If you're not willing to play the game you can wind up talking to your constituents in the men's room."

"That's tough when the League of Women Voters comes to town," I said. "But what are you going to do this election after you promised the people in your district that, if you were elected, you would bring about much-

Clouded Defense Policies

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—When Jimmy Carter was asked recently to list his national security advisers, he demonstrated the audacity and cunning of his remarkable presidential campaign: Paul Nitze and Paul Warnke, he replied evenly.

That's like teaming Milton Friedman and John Kenneth Galbraith as economic advisers. Except for party affiliation (both are Democrats), Nitze and Warnke share few common characteristics. Warnke, a leading dove in the last days of the Johnson administration as an Assistant Secretary of Defense, is a prominent soft-liner and advocate of lower defense spending. Nitze, Lyndon Johnson's hawkish

Deputy Secretary of Defense, is a profound critic of detente—a Cassandra warning of military insufficiency.

Linking Nitze and Warnke (the first of several advisers listed by Carter) seeks the same goal as Carter's campaign prose: hawks and doves accepting his position on national security. But nobody—with the possible exception of Carter himself—can really know what his general defense policy would be, much less how to define his detailed programs as President.

On the campaign trail, Carter assumes a hard-line veneer—criticizing SALT agreements and urging stepped-up naval spending. But in a recent interview with Washington Post editors, Carter declared the only trend in U.S.-Soviet military balance "that concerns me is in the naval strength," then added: "I think that we're still superior to Russia even in the Navy."

While tending to reject adviser Nitze's warnings of strategic nuclear danger from the Soviet Union, Carter hints he would build more warships. But he couples enormously expensive naval construction with pledges of overall reductions in defense spending.

How much of a reduction is another matter. In March 1975, Carter was quoted as calling for a $15 billion cut. More recently, however, Carter has talked about a $7 to $8 billion reduction. That caused the national board of SANE, the peace organization, to ask: why so little? "If, on examination, you can cut more, he would," replied Carter's spokesman.

But in the Washington Post interview published March 21, Carter talked about a cut of 5 per cent, amounting to $5.7 billion.

Even assuming the lowest promised reduction of $5.7 billion, how can it be done? The areas for cutting he most frequently mentions—overseas bases, the proposed B-1 bomber, Corps of Engineers' dam building, generals and admirals—are not only painless but so popular that talking about them generates applause. Whether they also would generate even close to $5 billion in cuts is dubious, particularly when examined item by item.

Overseas bases: While Carter talks of 2,000 military bases, there are presently 283 major installations. Of these, 232 are located in three countries—181 in Germany, 27 in Japan and 24 in Korea. To eliminate these bases, the troops using them would have to be brought home on a wholesale basis.

But Carter would remove troops from Korea in "staged withdrawals" over four to five years and from Europe and Japan even more gradually. Recently, he has backtracked on even gradual withdrawals from Germany and Japan, suggesting no immediate reductions. Yet, even if all troops were brought home and all bases eliminated (which Carter certainly does not propose), the maximum savings without massive

A Blow To People's Capitalism

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — People's capitalism has suffered another setback. The stock market Monthly Investment Plan, which permitted installment buying of stocks, has ended. As the Wall Street Journal put it: "It's RIP for MIP."

The MIP had seemed to be a great idea in the late 1950s and early 1960s, when the post-World War II boom was transforming America, and America had enough left over to help transform Europe and Japan as well.

Brokers, corporate executives and exchange officials, flush with profits and fees and bonuses, thought everyone should share in the good fortune. "It's your right to own a piece of America," they said.

Many ordinary Americans finally overcame their memories of the 1930s and made the commitment, a lot of them through the monthly plan, under which you could buy even a small fraction of a share of a company.

The shareholder population soared. In 1956 there were only 8.6 million shareholders, but by 1970 the figure had leaped to more than 30 million. This, it was proclaimed, was the era of people's capitalism.

It didn't last long, at least in this form.

As Wall Street's business boomed, its indifference to the individual seemed to be more manifest. Many brokers declined to accept small accounts. They were a nuisance; some brokers claimed they were a financially costly one.

Then came the Street's worst debacle since the 1929 collapse. It couldn't keep up with all the business thrown its way, and some brokers collapsed in confusion. Scores of them were dissolved.

As some of the brokerage houses collapsed their book-keeping became even more chaotic, and the accounts of many small investors were tied up for many months. When they finally got their money, many investors were thoroughly disillusioned.

The shareholder population began to slide as more and more people realized that prices moved in two directions. Price swings became violent, and many a individual who was paper rich on Monday found himself with losses on Friday.

The market was becoming institutionalized with pension and mutual funds and the like, and the massive trading power of these institutions, to a large degree, produced these violent price changes. More individuals withdrew.

Commissions went up. The individual investor has to pay his own way, it was argued. These small accounts were costly, the brokers argued. We can handle institutional accounts at a much lower per unit cost.

As the shareholder population shrank, stock exchange officials became alarmed. Perhaps belatedly, it was recognized that the individual investor was essential to the functioning of the stock market, which is an auction market.

In any auction you need bids and offers, and individuals — a random assortment of them — are likely to give you a fair match of both. Institutions, however, often thought alike. Imbalances between buy and sell orders could result.

Imbalances did develop, in fact, as was demonstrated by some very wide swings in price that became more common.

Speeches were made on the necessity of reattracting individuals to the market, but another market was now offering opposition. Interest rates were rising, and a good many investors returned to their old role of being savers.

People's capitalism still exists today, but in a greatly changed form. The population of direct shareholders is down to around 25 million now, but indirect participation is growing.

Through their pension funds, that is, individuals are continuing to own a piece of America, but that old daring spirit of the late 1950s and 1960s doesn't seem to be very evident any more.

In fact, one of the characteristics of the recent market surge was the relative inactivity of individual investors. On many days the majority of trading was by institutions, with the individuals looking on.

And the MIP was down to only 17,000 accounts.

Empty Office Waits

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The law offices of the firm of Holshouser and Lamm occupy the second floor of a brick building off the main drag in the sleepy mountain community of Boone.

They are a long way, in miles and in glamor, from the white facade of the Administration Building in Raleigh. They are even further from the granite corridors of power in Washington, D.C.

Sentimentally enough, Gov. Jim Holshouser's office has lain empty for the past four years, gathering dust. The governor's partner, Charles Mann, agreed to keep it that way and suddenly last week that decision seemed sounder than ever.

At 7:30 p.m. when the polls closed last Tuesday, Holshouser looked like a good bet for a Cabinet position if Gerald Ford could retain the presidency. He had an outside shot at the vice presidential nomination.

He was Ford's southern coordinator, a man who had signed on early with the president in the days when Ford badly needed a show of strength in the South. He was going to supply the knockout blow to Ronald Reagan by defeating him in North Carolina. When it came time to take credit for Ford's renomination, Holshouser was going to have a large IOU to cash.

Two hours later, it became obvious that Reagan had won. Instead of being a bright and forceful young presence in the Ford campaign, Holshouser was suddenly bearing — fairly or unfairly — much of the responsibility for the first primary loss by an incumbent Republican president since 1912.

It began to seem much more likely that Holshouser would be practicing law in Boone next year than sitting at the table during Cabinet meetings in Washington.

One man who could sympathize with Holshouser and put his plight in perspective was former Gov. Bob Scott, a Democrat. Scott backed Sen. Edmund Muskie in 1972. Muskie didn't even make it to the North Carolina primary. Scott was left without a candidate.

He pointed out last week that no North Carolina governor in recent times has been able to exercise much influence on the electorate at the end of his term. "It's something that goes back to Dad's (former Gov. Kerr Scott) time. For some reason, people just can't pay attention."

There are a number of reasons for that. A lame duck governor has probably made as many people mad as he's satisfied during his four years. He has no more appointments and no more paving projects to use to entice people to follow him.

Holshouser had used up a lot of the political capital he had within the party. He twisted arms for the coastal management act, for Thomas Bennett against Frank Rouse, for James Carson, for William Stevens. He did not have much capital left.

At that, he did not fare much worse than his predecessors. And it would be unfair to say, as some of Holshouser's detractors have said, that the Ford loss was a reflection on Hol-

Strength For Today

THE CERTAIN TRUMPET

We can never know the complete and final truth about religious matters, but we must be absolutely sure about certain religious truths before we can experience the comfort and joy which religion can bring. "If the trumpet gives an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself for the battle?"

By the same token, unless there be a directing force in the universe upon which a man can rely, how shall he prepare himself for the battle of life? How can he remain confident before its con-traditions, endure its disappointments, surmount its sorrows? Men go into battle because the bugle calls them to strife. When the bugle sounds the advance, the soldier knows that behind this command lies an authority and wisdom superior to his own.

In like manner men must in spiritual things have a trust in something higher than themselves. They must have their confidence supported by a spiritual authority which is above mere opinion.

Canal Zone's Military Bases An Emotional Issue To Panamanians

Four Murders Over Weekend

By The Associated Press
Charges have been brought in three murders in North Carolina over the weekend, and authorities are looking for leads in a fourth slaying.

In Robeson County, officials are investigating the discovery of the body of a young male believed to be a juvenile early Sunday morning near Parkton.

The body has been tentatively identified as that of an Eddie Tew, of Rt. 7, Fayetteville. It was found in an isolated section of Robeson County about 16 miles south of Fayetteville.

A sheriff's spokesman said the youth was apparently killed by a cut or stab in the abdomen.

The spokesman said the Fayetteville address is actually in neighboring Bladen County, in the Tobermory community

Evans-Novak....

demobilization (also not proposed by Carter) might approach $1 billion.

B-1 bomber: Its cost for the next fiscal year is $1.5 billion (though, of course, that figure would rise in the future). Savings from eliminating the B-1, however, would be partially sacrificed by presumed compensatory increases of cruise missiles.

Dam building: In the most unlikely event that Congress would approve it, elimination of the traditional Corps of Engineers' rivers and harbors construction would save $1.3 billion annually—but not from the defense budget. Spending on dams never has been included there.

Flag officers: Salaries of all generals and admirals total around $41 million or .04 per cent of the total budget. What costs so much money is not pay for the brass (however overstocked) but pay and retirement for enlisted men under a rich pay scale designed to promote enlistments in the all-volunteer armed forces.

Thus, assuming the all-volunteer force and inflation are both here to stay, President Carter would have to make major reductions in manpower and weaponry to keep the defense budget from rising, without even dreaming about his planned program for naval modernization.

Pro-Carter hard-liners feel the ex-naval officer would appreciate these facts of life as President and increase defense spending. But soft-liners, such as SANE executive Sanford Gottlieb, believe Carter is "basically a liberal on foreign policy" and would cut more deeply. Both sides see rare strength and intelligence in Jimmy Carter and so choose to interpret his clouded policies on defense as did the clients of the oracle of Delphi.

Correction: Our recent column on the New York primary erroneously stated, because of an error in transcription, that "liberal Jewish Democrats are not entirely happy with Jackson's attacks on detente (in contrast to far-left liberal Jewish voters in Brooklyn)." It should have read: "far less liberal Jewish voters" (not far-left).

Writing Contest For Area Youths

To involve youth in the ten-county area in an educational bicentennial activity, the Coastal Plain Development Association Youth Committee is sponsoring a creative writing contest.

The Creative writing may be poetry, essay, short story, or any other form. The writing must relate to the bicentennial and relate historically to the writer's county of residence. Entries should not exceed 1,500 words. Deadline for submitting entries will be May 1, 1976. County winners will be announced May 7.

Trophies will be awarded to the county winners of both Junior and Senior divisions. Junior division will be up to age 13. Senior division will be ages 14-19. The winning entries from the ten-county area will be announced at a later date.

Pitt County entries should be mailed by May 1, to Mike Davis, P.O. Box 1427, Greenville, NC 27834.

Person County Sheriff Ernest Dixon said a young Roxboro man has been charged with murder in a shooting early Sunday at a nightclub.

Deputies said James L. Brogden, 26, was being held jail without bond on charges of killing Bonnie Wayne Thorpe, 28, of Roxboro at Gene Faison's Nightspot.

Dixon said Thorpe was shot in the back with a .25 caliber automatic pistol.

Brogden faces a hearing in Thursday in state District Court.

Edward G. Wallace, 50, of Gastonia was arrested Saturday and charged with murder in the slaying of his wife Mildred at their home that afternoon.

Mrs. Wallace, 45, was shot in the chest four times, with the couple's daughter and her grandmother as witnesses, police said.

Wallace is being held without bond for a hearing.

Onslow County sheriff's deputies said they had arrested James Stephens Jr., 26, of Jacksonville in a stabbing death late Saturday night.

Lander Green, 38, was fatally stabbed with a butcher knife and a dinner fork during a scuffle at an apartment in his hometown of Jacksonville.

1903 document which gave the United States control over the 10-mile-wide zone which contains the Panama Canal.

Negotiators for both sides spoke Saturday to the Latin American Studies Association and agreed that the question of U.S. bases was one of the major obstacles to agreement.

Dr. Carlos Alfredo Lopez Guevara, a negotiator for Panama, said the 14 American bases and 10,000 troops are an emotional issue among students in his country who took to the streets in 1964 to protest the U.S. presence.

"They ask, 'Where in the treaty is it written that the U.S.

is entitled to have any military bases?'" said Lopez Guevara. "The government's only answer is, 'They are here and we'll have to face this reality.'"

He noted that the 1903 treaty does not provide for the stationing of U.S. troops in the Canal Zone in peacetime, a ticklish point U.S. diplomats privately concede.

Alex Firer an adviser to the U.S. negotiators, agreed the bases are the "biggest stumbling block." He took issue, however, with Lopez Guevara's suggestion that the U.S. was stalling the treaty talks, pointing out that three treaty proposals have been turned down by Panama.

"Fanatical" congressional and right-wing opponents of any new treaty will make it difficult to get the two-thirds majority of the U.S. Senate needed to ratify a pact, said Robert Pastor of the Commission on U.S.-Latin American Relations.

He said it would take strong leadership from the White House and Panamanian concessions on military issues to push the treaty through.

The 1903 treaty has kept the people of Panama impoverished while benefiting world-wide shipping interests, argued E. Bradford Burns of the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA).

He said Panama receives an annual payment from the canal of $1.93 million while ships using the passageway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans paid $757 million in tolls from 1960 to 1970.

Burns said an independent study showed that the tolls could have been hiked to $2.6 billion in that decade and still be reasonable. "The world's most unique piece of geography rents cheaply," he said.

Burns called the canal Panama's biggest economic asset and said it was a cruel paradox that "a majority of Panama's 1 1/2 million citizens are living in poverty while the world's richest nation controls its major resource."

shouser more than on the president.

Ronald Reagan campaigned with themes that struck responsive chords among the state GOP voters. They are, after all, people who have stuck with a minority party because they feel they are too conservative for the Democratic party.

If Holshouser erred at all, it was in arrogantly calling on Reagan to withdraw when he should have been warning his own troops that they were in for a close fight.

But President Ford said, it is not good to come in second, which is where Holshouser finished.

The governor has often said that he looks forward to resuming relaxed golf-in-the-afternoon life of a Watauga county lawyer. He may find that a lot easier to do than to regain the stature and potential he once held in national politics.

needed reforms in Washington?"

"I'm going to talk about furniture. What I didn't know when I ran in 1974 is that if you don't become a team player the old-timers can really screw you up on getting decent furniture for your office. I know one member of the freshman caucus who stuck to his guns on an issue Wayne Hays was against, and his swivel chair collapsed on him, right in the middle of an important committee hearing. He got the message pretty fast."

"Are you trying to tell me that the reason the freshman caucus hasn't been heard from in the past year is because they're afraid Wayne Hays will see they get faulty furniture?"

"Of course not. It's really the stationery problem. You see he's in charge of how much stationery we get. If he cut down our stationery allotment, all of us would be in serious trouble. We can sit on rotten chairs with the stuffing coming out of them, but you take away our stationery and we're in serious trouble."

"I can appreciate that."

"He also has to authorize our travel vouchers. No one in this country is going to mess around with someone who authorizes his travel vouchers. That's suicide."

"Well, I'm glad you explained it to me. I thought you had just lost interest in trying to reform the system."

"That's ridiculous. We're as determined as ever to make this body more responsive to the people's needs. But we can't do it unless we have an adequate supply of paper clips."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted downward today in another session of sluggish activity.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.96 at 1,001.50, and losers took a slight lead over gainers in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume came to 4.49 million shares in the first hour, against 4.90 million in the like period Friday.

At the opening, the Commerce Department reported that its index of leading economic indicators rose 0.8 per cent in February for its fourth straight monthly gain.

But the size of the increase apparently fell short of what some investors had been looking for.

And it was accompanied by a downward revision in the index's gain for January, from the 2.2 per cent jump reported earlier to 1.5.

The index is designed to detect futures trends in the economy.

F.W. Woolworth was actively traded, climbing 3/4 to 25 3/4. The large retailer reported earnings for the quarter ended Jan. 31 of $2.05 a share, against $1.06 in the year-ago quarter.

Atlas Corp. topped the active list, up 1/4 at 5. A 26,700-share block moved at 4 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .03 to 54.84 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index moved up .06 to 104.79.

Three Sunday traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police left three persons injured and caused an estimated $1,450 property damage.

Investigators reported cars driven by Linda Diane Aman of Route 1, Snow Hill and Spurgeon Ken Goodman of Mt. Airy collided about 3 p.m. at the intersection of Cotanche and Reade Streets, injuring both drivers and causing an estimated $700 damage to the Aman car and $500 damage to the Goodman vehicle.

Police charged Goodman with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the mishap.

Dwight Allan Smith of 306A Roundtree Dr. was reported injured when the bicycle he was riding collided with a car operated by Susie Hinton Ward of 1202 Chestnut St. about 3:40 p.m. on Howard Circle, 500 feet West of the Roundtree Drive intersection.

No damage was reported by investigators, who made no charges in connection with the collision.

Again, no charges were reported following investigation of a 7:08 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson and Grande Avenues.

Police said a car operated by Thad James Wooten of 825 Fleming St. collided with a utility pole, causing an estimated $150 damage to this car and about $100 damage to the pole.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady today, with supplies moderate, demand good and weights tending lighter.

The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 41.96 cents per pound this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,115,000.

Eight Die In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
Eight persons died in traffic accidents in North Carolina over the weekend.

The toll for the year rose to 284, nine fewer than at the corresponding time last year.

Eight-year-old James O'Neal Keys, whose body was found near his home eight miles west of New Bern, was believed the victim of a hit and run driver, police said. He was hit while riding a bicycle.

Garland F. Madren, 54, of Rt. 2, Elon College, was fatally injured in the collision of two cars five miles north of Burlington. The highway patrol said he was a passenger in a car that ran a stop sign.

Killed in other accidents were:

Elbert Lee Smith, 44, of Robersonville in Martin County.
Carlton Alfonso Jones, 21, of Henderson.
Thomas Richardson, 65, Rt. 1, White Oak in Bladen County.
Timothy H. Clark, 20, of the Camp Lejeune Marine base.
Danny Lee Lawrence, 26, of Thomasville.
Maude Lillian Essic, 72, of Winston-Salem.

'Cuckoo's Nest' Rated A Favorite For Oscars

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Director Milos Forman, whose "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is favored to be the big winner at the Academy Awards tonight, will have a pair of special guests at the ceremonies — the twin sons he has not seen for five years.

Peter and Matej Forman, 11, arrived Sunday from Prague to join their father as he awaits the vote on what may be the height of his career as a film maker: the Oscar for best direction of a motion picture in 1975.

His competitors are Robert Altman for "Nashville," Sidney Lumet for "Dog Day Afternoon," Federico Fellini for "Amarcord" and Stanley Kubrick for "Barry Lyndon."

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" also is the favorite for best picture, but it has competition from "Jaws" as well as "Dog Day Afternoon," "Nashville" and "Barry Lyndon."

The winners will be announced from the stage of the Los Angeles Music Center in ceremonies telecast by ABC-TV starting at 10 p.m. EST. "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is represented in other categories, too — Jack Nicholson has been nominated for best actor, and Louise Fletcher for best actress.

Nicholson's competitors are Al Pacino of "Dog Day Afternoon," Walter Matthau of "The Sunshine Boys," James Whitmore of "Give 'em Hell, Harry" and Maximilian Schell of "The Man in the Glass Booth."

Miss Fletcher's category includes Glenda Jackson for "Hedda," Isabelle Adjani of "The Story of Adele H.," Ann-Margret of "Tommy" and Carol Kane of "Hester Street."

For Forman, 44, the awards could mark a personal as well as a professional triumph. His efforts to see his boys have been thwarted by the Czech government since February 1971, when he made his last visit to his homeland. The boys live with their mother, from whom Forman is separated.

"I left the country legally in 1969, when I came here for a film deal with Paramount," the director said. "I went back twice to visit my family, but then I stayed here after my exit visa expired.

"Three years ago I wrote the Czech government in an effort to legalize my living status in the United States. I received no answer. ... The fact that my sons can come to visit me is a good indication. Now I'm hoping that they will give me an emigration passport so I can return to visit my family and friends."

Apparently air pollution is not the cause of the excess of lung cancer deaths. Thomas Allen of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources said all those counties, except Carteret, are "among the cleaner counties in the state."

Smoking is a possibility and a group of doctors at Duke University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill will try to determine if people in the eastern part of the state smoke more than those in the western half.

"If we find they smoke one and a half or two times more than people in the rest of the state, then we have something," said Dr. David Deubner, a cancer epidemiologist at Duke.

Deubner said preliminary studies had found only white males have the higher death rate from lung cancer and also from heart disease and stroke. "That argues against a general thing such as air pollution or something in the water," said Deubner.

However, researchers at the University of South Carolina do have a grant to study the possibility of a relationship between soft water along the coast and the incidence of stroke.

Tom Taft served as chairman of the recent campaign while Karl Faser headed the organization as president for 1975-76.

Other counties with high rates include Chowan, Currituck, Durham, Hertford, Martin, New Hanover and Mecklenburg.

For example, statistics from the National Cancer Institute for a 20 year period show that in Carteret County the death rate among white males from lung cancer was almost twice the rest of the state.

The U.S. rate from 1950 to 1969 was 37.98 deaths per 100,000, but the rate in Carteret was 56.6 per 100,000; Dare, 50.4; Craven, 46.6; Pasquotank, 44.2; and Warren 42.1.

The rate for the rest of the state was 29.93 per 100,000 from 1950 to 1969. In 1974, the North Carolina rate was 38 per 100,000.

Other counties with high rates include Chowan, Currituck, Durham, Hertford, Martin, New Hanover and Mecklenburg.

Tim Shaw Chose To Be Virtual One-Man Team

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Freestyle record-holder Tim Shaw could have gone to the University of Southern California, the NCAA swimming champion. Instead, he chose to be a virtual one-man team at Long Beach State.

While powerful Southern California was winning its third straight National Collegiate Athletic Association Swimming and Diving Championship with a team of 19 athletes, Shaw was numerically half the Long Beach State contingent.

Shaw, 1975 Sullivan Award winner, won the 500-yard and 1,650-yard freestyles in American record times and finished third in the 200-yard freestyle. He accounted for 44 team points, which, in itself, would be good enough for 12th place in the team standings.

Long Beach State, with Don Grant contributing an eighth-place finish in the 200-yard butterfly, finished with 49 points, a far cry from Southern California's 398 points — the second highest total in NCAA history. Runnerup Tennessee had 237 points in the meet, which ended Saturday night.

"Timmy's a Long Beach (Calif.) boy," said Dick Jochums, Shaw's collegiate and AAU coach. "He wanted to stay in Long Beach. He didn't want to go to USC with all that rah-rah stuff."

"I really didn't recruit him. I just bought him a couple of Big Macs and he signed his letter of intent. But he signed more to stop the recruiting pressure from everywhere else."

Shaw dominated the 1975 World Aquatics Championship in Cali, Colombia, last summer, winning the 200, 400 and 1,500-meter freestyles. He was nearly as devastating here, and he could be the big fish at the Olympics this summer in Montreal.

Jochums says Shaw will probably swim the 200, 400 and 1,500-meter freestyle and the 200-meter backstroke at the U.S. Olympic Trials this June in Long Beach.

After Cali, Shaw had the inside track in the 1,500-meter race—a grueling event requiring large doses of courage and talent. At that time, Shaw held the world record in the 1,500, as well as world records in the 400 and 800-meter freestyles.

But all he now owns is the 400 mark, since Steve Holland of Australia recently smashed Shaw's other two records, bettering the 1,500-standard by more than 10 seconds.

"When he heard about Holland's records, he said: 'Let's go chase him,'" Jochums recounted. "Holland's 10 seconds faster. He's No. 1 in the world. He's got to be the favorite, but we're certainly not giving it to him."

Bucs Win Double-Header Over Atlantic Christian

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
The East Carolina University baseball Pirates ran their current winning streak to six in a row Sunday afternoon with a sweep of a doubleheader over neighboring Atlantic Christian College. The Bucs took the opener, 5-1, then came back with a 4-1 victory in the second game.

Dean Reavis ran his pitching record to 3-1 with a three-hit performance in the first game. He struck out five and walked none in going the route. The lone run off his was unearned.

The Pirates, however, got only four hits off two ACC pitchers but made them pay off.

Pete Conaty won his third game against no losses in the second contest, hurling five innings, and allowing the Bulldog run. He walked two and struck out two and gave up three hits. Bob Feeney in two relief innings, gave up just one hit, an infield bouncer, and struck out two.

Only two Atlantic Christian runners made it as far as second base in the first game, and both of them came in the inning the Bulldogs scored in. Cloyce Wilson led off the fourth with a single, as was safe at second on Bobby Stratton's grounder to third that was errored on the throw at second. Wilson moved on to third on the play and scored on Robin Rose's sacrifice fly to right.

East Carolina took advantage of control problems by ACC starter Danny Weaver in the second inning, scoring four runs. Joe Roenker led off with a walk and Sonny Wooten singled to center. Macon Moye walked, and that loaded the bases.

Glenn Card ripped a double up the alley in left center, scoring all three of those ahead of him. Walks to Rick Koryda, Howard McCullough and Steve Bryant forced Card the rest of the way around with the fourth run.

The other run came in the fifth when Roenker slapped the ball way out of the park on a drive over the trees in left. No one was on board at the time.

The Bucs did threaten in the fourth, when Geoff Beaton singled and stole second, and after Roenker's homer in the fifth, when a walk and an error put two aboard.

The Bulldogs had a few more chances in the second game, but again they only struck once. Wilson opened the first with a single and moved around to third on a sacrifice and an infield out, but died there. In the seventh, the Bulldogs had another chance, as Chuck Finklea opened with an infield hit, and took second on a passed ball, but got no further.

The 'Dog run came in the fourth. Stratton walked and Rose reached on an infield hit. Statton moved to third on a double play, and scored on Tim Hinnant's single to center.

The Bucs took the lead with one in the bottom of the first, all after two were out. Charlie Stevens walked and stole second, moving th third on a wild pitch. After Roenker walked, Wooten singled to right, plating Stevens.

After two reached on singles in the second, the Bucs got their second run in the third. With two down again, Addison Bass got a walk and stole second. Robert Brinkley hit a shot down the right field line that bounced over the fence for a double, scoring Bass.

Pete Paradossi ran it out to 3-1 with a home run with none on in the fourth.

The final run came over in the sixth. With one down, Bobby Supel, who had twice backed the left fielder up against the fence, singled to right. He stole second and Card reached on an error. Paradossi got his second RBI with a single, scoring Supel.

The victory ran the Pirate record out to 12-3 on the season. Atlantic Christian dropped off to 11-8.

The Bucs return home on Wednesday, playing host to The Citadel in a Southern Conference game, which gets underway at 3 p.m.

Prior to the first game, a team of media representatives bested the "Diamond Darlings," in a softball game, 9-7.

Mets Plan To Trade Seaver

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The New York Mets have agreed to send pitcher Tom Seaver to the Los Angeles Dodgers for hurler Don Sutton, and the deal only awaits Sutton's approval before, it is consummated, the Newark Star-Ledger reported today.

The newspaper said Mets General Manager Joe McDonald spent most of Sunday negotiating contract terms with Sutton's business manager, Larue Harcourt.

While neither team would confirm the trade, the Mets and Dodgers have reportedly worked out all details of the swap.

"That's why they're talking to my man," Sutton said. "They've agreed on the deal. Now they've got to get me to agree."

Sutton, who will be 31 Friday, has played with the Dodgers for 10 years. That makes him a "5-and-10" player, one who cannot be traded without his permission.

The Dodger star reportedly talked to Mets' players Joe Torre and Bud Harrelson and let them in on the trade during Sunday's New York-Los Angeles exhibition game in Vero Beach, Fla.

McDonald said three weeks ago he had initiated trade talks with six clubs, advising them of the Mets' willingness to part with Seaver. Several days ago McDonald said he still had "ongoing negotiations with two clubs."

Seaver, a three-time Cy Young award winner, is generally regarded as one of the best pitchers in baseball. He said Sunday that a trade for Sutton would not surprise him.

"When we first started working out I went to Joe (McDonald) and told him I wasn't unhappy or disloyal and that I wanted to remain a Met. He said he would get back to me."

"But there have been no communications. He has not gotten back to me."

Seaver, who does not have veto power over a deal, said he would not balk at becoming a Dodger.

"I grew up in California and the Dodgers have a good organization," he said. "I don't want to be traded but if I am, I would go to the Dodgers."

Seaver, who has been active in the players union, incurred the wrath of the Mets' front office when he failed to sign his contract on time and the club had to invoke the automatic renewal clause.

"The board of directors is upset at that," McDonald said.

Hubie Green's Star Soars With Heritage Victory

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hubert Green, a down-home type who's become one of the gaudiest names in golf, had to go back to last Christmas to explain the sudden turn-around that has lifted him to the front rank of the game's stars.

"I don't really know exactly why," Hubert puzzled. He'd missed the cut four weeks ago, then came back to reel off three straight victories, only the second time in 14 seasons anyone has done that.

Then his face brightened with the grin that has made him such a popular favorite.

"Last Christmas, my caddy gave me a present," Hubert said. "A box of rocks. Maybe he was telling me I had rocks in my head."

And, Green surmised, maybe the caddy was right. Hubert said he'd had trouble with his concentration in the early part of the season.

"Actually, I was playing pretty good. Not bad, anyhow. But it was stupidity. Just dumb."

"It's like I was playing in a different time zone. I'd always wind up hitting one out of bounds or something. Horrible. Just awful."

The turn came at the Doral Open, which he won by six strokes and with a record score. It was worth $40,000. Next it was Jacksonville, a two-stroke victory worth $35,000. And Sunday he added the Sea Pines Heritage title with a 10-under 274, a comfortable five shot victory, to the string that has yet to come to an end.

That last victory was worth $43,000 from the total purse of $215,000, made Hubert the leading money-winner with $132,006 for the season and enabled him to set a record of $118,000 — the most ever collected in the span of three weeks.

Jerry McGee, never in contention for the title, took second. He holed out from a sand trap on the final hole for a 68-279.

Hale Irwin, Don January and Gibby Gilbert were next at 280. January and Irwin had 67s and Gilbert a 73 — the same as Green — in the mild, hazy weather. Murphy had a 76 and was one of five at 281.

Jack Nicklaus, the defending champion, shot a 73-282. Gary Player, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf were at 283.

In the past 14 years, only Johnny Miller has won three in a row. He swept the first three titles in the 1974 season, but one of those was a rain-abbreviated, three-round event.

Now Green has a shot at four in a row, last achieved in 1952. But he won't try for it. He's skipping the Greater Greensboro Open.

"I've played six in a row," he said. "I'm committed for the four after Greensboro. If I play Greensboro, that's 11 in a row. I'm not looking for a Purple Heart," he said.

New Coach For Davidson

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP) — Gary Walters, who revitalized the Dartmouth basketball program as head coach this season, has been named to try to do the same at Davidson College.

The 30-year-old native of Reading, Pa., the most valuable player in the 1965 Charlotte Invitational Tournament as a Princeton star, was announced Sunday as the successor to Bo Brickels. He will bring Dartmouth assistants Gary Dicoivitsky and Wayne Morgan with him.

Brickels was dismissed three weeks ago after the Davidson Wildcats of the Southern Conference stumbled to a 5-21 record.

The Davidson athletic director, Thom Cartmill, said Walters has proved himself as a player and coach, and is one of the finest young coaches in the nation.

His Dartmouth team was 16-10 and third in the Ivy League in the season just completed. It was Dartmouth's best record since 1958, and for it Walters was named the New England coach of the year.

Walters also has coached at Middlebury and Union colleges. In his five years as head coach his teams have won 76 games and lost 39.

He was 7-17 at Middlebury 1969, when he was the nation's youngest head coach at 23.

His clubs were 53-12 at Union College from 1971 through 1973.

Hammer Vs. Scalpel Tonight In NCAA Basketball Finals

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It's the Hammer vs. the Scalpel tonight in the finals of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Indiana beats you up and Michigan cuts you up.

"I never dreamed that we'd have to play Indiana three times this season," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "Good gracious, twice is enough."

The Big Ten colleagues advanced to the championship game at the Spectrum with surprisingly easy victories in Saturday's semifinals, setting up the first NCAA title game between teams from the same conference.

"I wish we could get some Big Ten officials to work our game tonight," kidded Orr. "Then it would be just like being back home."

In their previous meetings this season, Indiana's musclemen prevailed over Michigan's flyboys, but not by much. The Hoosiers beat the Wolverines by six points in one game and then were carried into overtime before subduing the Big Ten runners-up.

Despite sweeping the two-game series and finishing yards ahead of Michigan in the Big Ten standings, Indiana Coach Bobby Knight did not find past performances a psychological factor in the championship game.

"You can forget about all that past stuff," said Knight. "The only thing that makes the difference is how well you play once the ball goes up into the air. The only thing that matters is which team does what it does best. That team will win. You guys (the press) are always trying to make it so complicated."

What Indiana does best is blast inside for field goals with 6-foot-11 center Kent Benson serving as the stick of dynamite.

What Michigan does best is run and shoot behind Rickey Green with one of the quickest teams in the country.

"I think Michigan is the best team we've played this year," said Knight. "Their quickness is really going to be a problem for us. Michigan plays well together and works very hard at both ends of the court. You can't exploit them like you can other teams because they have no weak areas to exploit."

The Wolverines used their blazing speed to beat Rutgers 86-70 in the semifinals. The Hoosiers used their inside muscle to overpower UCLA 65-51 and improve their season's record to a gaudy 31-0.

Michigan, which came closer than anybody to beating Indiana this season, will be facing a stronger Hoosier unit this time, according to Orr.

"I think we have to play better this time than we did last time because they're playing better," said the Michigan coach. "Indiana was in a slight slump at one point of the season, but now they've got it back on the right beat. Bobby's got 'em playing well now."

The Hoosiers are seeking their third national basketball title. They won in 1940 and 1953. Michigan has never won the NCAA championship.

Before the Big Ten teams meet in the championship game, Rutgers and UCLA will play for third place.

Lucia Dominates Women's Courts

By GARY MIHOCS
AP Sports Writer
STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Coming international competition, including the Olympics, figures to make Lucia Harris even more dominant in women's basketball.

And that may be just one improvement next season in the Delta State of Mississippi team that won its second straight women's college title by defeating Immaculata of suburban Philadelphia 69-64 Saturday night.

"Sure, we all can get better," said the 6-foot-3 Miss Harris, one of only two juniors on a Delta team that did not bring a senior to the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Tournament.

Miss Harris left here for a Far Eastern tour with the U.S. team she helped win the Pan American Games last fall. Women's basketball will join the Olympic events for the first time this summer, and Miss Harris seems assured a berth on the U.S. team.

She had 30 points and 18 rebounds, roughly her averages for the season, in the victory over Immaculata, a 645-student Catholic school which won three national titles before finishing runner-up to Delta last season and this year.

Although Miss Harris was the dominant player in the tournament, Delta showed it was not a one-woman team.

Four-foot-eleven Debbie Brock dribbled through presses, set the pace for Delta's deliberate offense and hit four free throws in the last 29 seconds against the Mighty Macs.

Completing Delta's starting five are Cornelia Ward, who scored 38 points and shot 72 percent from the floor in a quarter-final; 5-10 Ramona Von Boeckman, who had 15 second-half points against the Macs, and 5-11 Wanda Hairston.

Those were the only five Lady Statesmen who played in the final two victories.

"I have five more very good players I could have used," said Delta's 62-year-old coach, Margaret Wade, whose team in 33 games this season lost only at Immaculata. They were 28-0 a year ago.

"But we stuck with our starting five because we wanted that poise right in there at the last."

Against Immaculata, Miss Harris drew her third personal foul at 10:40 of the opening half, and the Macs went ahead 26-17 about four minutes before the intermission on a layup by Marianne Crawford-Stanley.

But just as she did in the semifinals against Wayland, Miss Harris survived the early foul trouble, and it was the Macs, who were finally hurt most by personals.

Three Immaculata starters, including 6-4 Sandy Miller, fouled out in the second half. The Macs made two of only four foul shots while Delta made 21 of 29.

"We thought after the first half that we had worn them down," said Immaculata Coach Cathy Rush.

Hairston's two free throws put Delta ahead to stay at 53-52 with about six minutes left, and the Lady Statesmen hit 14 of 16 free throws after that.

Deacons Take Golf Tourney

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — NCAA champion Wake Forest had little trouble capturing the seventh annual Furman Intercollegiate Golf Tournament in Greenville over the weekend.

Going into the final round Saturday with a 13-stroke advantage, the Deacons easily expanded their lead to 27 after the first nine holes. They finished with a 34-shot margin over runnerup Georgia Southern.

The Deacons, NCAA champions for the past two years, played 20 strokes better than Georgia Southern in the final round after four of their five golfers finished their second round earlier in the morning.

Georgia, which was among the leaders all three days, finished third. East Tennessee State went from 10th place to fourth on the final day, and Tennessee moved up 11 notches to capture fifth after finishing the first round in the 16th spot.

"If we play good as a team and use the team philosophy that we have, an individual champion will usually come forward for us," said Deacon Coach Jesse Haddock, who has guided the team to nine consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

Haddock's team placed four players among the top five individual performers. Teammates Bill Chapman and Jay Haas tied for medalist honors with 214.

Postponed

Rose High School's track meet with Northern Nash, originally scheduled for today, was postponed until Tuesday because of problems with the Knight's field.

The meet will be held here instead of at Northern Nash as had been planned. The meet will be held at the same time, 3:30.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠83 ♠76 ♠K107 ♦KQ8653
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—One no trump. Your hand is not quite good enough to go to the two-level. You have 8 HCP and a distributional point for your doubleton heart. However, it is doubtful if your spade doubleton is worth 1 point, since that is the suit partner opened. You do not want to go to the two-level without 9 to 10 HCP.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK92 ♠A87 ♦AQ62 ♠83
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♦ 1♠ Pass Pass 1♠ 2♠ Pass ?

A.—Three diamonds. Game depends not so much on whether partner is maximum for his strength as on whether his strength lies. Bid the suit in which you need help as a try for game. For example, the king of clubs in partner's hand may be worth one trick to you; however, the king of diamonds would be worth two or three playing tricks. Partner will be able to judge whether he has a good or bad hand for you.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK1054 ♠1092 ♦J10762 ♠J
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West Pass Pass Pass 1♠ 1♠ Pass 2♠ 3♠ Dble. Pass ?

A.—Bid three spades. In this situation, partner's double must be cooperative, and you have the worst hand possible for defense. Remember, originally your partner passed. Besides the fact that you only defend tricks in spades, your length in that suit will weaken partner's defensive prospects. You have no reason to suspect that West has gone crazy—after all he did bid three clubs even though he was vulnerable and his partner could have a bust.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

'Carifesta' For Jamaica In July

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—The second Caribbean festival of the arts, Carifesta '76, opens here July 23 for an 11-day run. The festival will draw participants from 35 countries in the West Indies or bordering on the Caribbean Sea.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A854 ♠92 ♦AK6 ♠K643
The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1♥ Dble. 3♥ 3♠ Pass ?

A.—Pass. Your doubleton heart is a warning signal—it is the worst holding you could possibly have on this auction. Even though you have slightly better than a minimum double, since your values are all prime, your hand lacks body and you should make some allowance for the fact that partner was bidding under pressure. If you can make game, partner should hold enough to have bid himself.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A8 ♠AQ10954 ♦7 ♠AJ109
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♥ 1♠ Pass Pass 1♥ 1♠ Pass Pass ?

A.—Double. This is for takeout and is the way to show a hand of considerable strength. A bid of three hearts, while also showing a good hand, would suggest more strength in the heart suit and possibly less outside. Your hand could play very well in clubs were partner to introduce that suit. If partner shows his diamonds, you will, of course, correct to hearts.

Satellite System Awaits Public Television Usage

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the not too distant future, Americans may be raising their eyes toward heaven and thanking a satellite for improving television.

That is the hope of those who run public television stations across the country. They are planning to spend $38.4 million to convert to a satellite transmission system in the next two years. The satellite would replace the vast network of telephone lines currently used as the principal means for distributing programs to the 264 public television stations in the United States. The TV signals would be beamed to the satellite in outer space, bounced from it, and spread over the country for each station to pick up on its own ground receiver and relay to the television sets in its area.

Executives at Public Broadcasting Service (PBS), the public television network, say there will be many benefits for the viewer at home. Among them:

—Stations will have a greater variety of programs available to put on the air and more flexibility in scheduling them.

—The satellite system will be cheaper to operate, especially once it is paid off in 10 years.

—Both picture and sound reception in homes in many parts of the country will improve.

—Programming for a national, regional or specialized group of stations (such as those in farm regions or with Spanish-speaking viewers) can originate from many more cities.

—The satellite will make it possible for Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands to receive live television coverage of events on the mainland.

In addition, the satellite might be used later to send programs to public radio stations, although there are technical problems that have to be solved first.

If approved soon by the Federal Communications Commission, the satellite interconnection system could be fully operational for PBS television stations by the fall of 1978, says Hartford Gunn, former president and now vice chairman of PBS.

Public television would use already in orbit. It is owned by Western Union, which would contract to lease satellite channels to PBS. Most of the initial expense of a satellite system will be in the construction of ground receiving stations.

Once these are completed and the satellite system is working, Gunn says, public television will be much closer to fulfilling its goal of providing a wide diversity of programs from a large number of sources, with each station selecting what best meets the needs of its community.

In that respect, PBS is different in theory from the commercial networks—CBS, ABC and NBC—which always try to attract as many viewers as possible to any given program. That's how they make money.

Although public television isn't concerned with profits, the reality of being able to send only one program at a time over the network lines means PBS officials often schedule material as the commercial networks do.

But this should be less of a problem with a satellite, because with the capability to transmit three shows at a time, many programs will be offered by the network several times each night.

After spending $38.4 million to construct the satellite's ground receiving stations and to get started, the new system will cost PBS about $110 million in the first 10 years—a figure that has raised more than a few eyebrows of those who think the money would be better spent in programming.

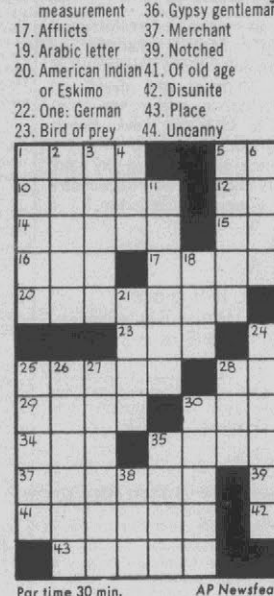

But PBS spokesmen say they would be spending at least $110 million—and perhaps millions more—to continue leasing AT&T lines for the same period. And with the satellite, a big chunk of the $110 million represents interest the network will pay on a $32.5-million loan it plans to obtain to help pay for the project.

'Lockheed Incident' Made Major Crisis For Japan

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — It is called the Lockheed Incident here and it has precipitated one of the gravest political and moral crises in Japan since the military defeat of World War II and the spiritual questioning that followed.

Because of it, the pro-American conservative Liberal-Democratic party of Prime Minister Takeo Miki is in political jeopardy, faced with the possibility of defeat in general elections this year for the first time in decades.

In the long term its impact may go even deeper. Pouring light on unsavory corners the 112 million Japanese have long passed by with averted eyes, the incident has created doubts about long-accepted attitudes, ways of life, as well as the workings of democracy.

What touched off these repercussions was the disclosure on Feb. 4 by the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations that the Lockheed Aircraft Corp had, since 1958, paid $12.3 million in agent fees in Japan, including "bribes and questionable political contributions."

Still more startling was testimony that Yoshio Kodama, 65, once jailed as a war crimes suspect, had received $7 million of the amount, and that about $2 million went to government officials to pave the way for large sales of Lockheed planes.

From the day it broke, the Lockheed case has dominated the front pages of Japanese newspapers and taken the first spot in radio and television reports. Millions followed televised parliamentary hearings during which Kenji Osano, 59, multimillionaire friend and business associate of former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, and executives of the Marubeni Corp., another Lockheed agent and the nation's third largest trading company, took the stand to deny complicity.

Kodama, described by his doctor as too ill to testify, was besieged in his palatial home by hundreds of angry Japanese and turned away on a stretcher by more irate crowds when he sought to enter a hospital.

In the nation, the mood has been indignant, in some cases ugly. More than 20,000 workers, leftist politicians and students paraded through Tokyo's streets demanding a full investigation and disclosure of the names of the politicians who were allegedly bribed.

Taxpayers have written letters to newspapers saying they would not pay their taxes after Kodama was indicted for evading million of dollars in taxation.

This indictment has been the only one so far to result from police and tax agency investigations into the Lockheed incident.

On March 22, a young Japanese crashed his light plane

CRISIS FIGURES—The Lockheed incident in Japan could jeopardize the government of Prime Minister Takeo Miki (left). Revelation that Yoshio Kodama (right), once jailed as a war crimes suspect, had received about $7 million of a total $12.3 million spent by Lockheed as agent fees. (AP Wirephoto) into Kodama's home. The pilot was killed but Kodama escaped injury.

Makoto Ichikawa, chairman of the multimillion-member Sohyo, the General Trade Council of Trade Unions, accused the government, in collusion with the United States government, of "trying to conceal the secret of the scandal by picking a few persons as scapegoats."

He warned: "The future for democracy in Japan is hopeless if the scandal is smothered. The worst can be avoided if the people's voice is heeded and a thorough investigation is carried out."

The nine-million circulation newspaper Yomiuri said the "people's burning indignation is not confined to the colossal sums involved... and the other shady Lockheed payments" or the suspicion that high-ranking government officials were bribed by Kodama.

"Their anger and distrust is aimed at the very fact that the nation's political world and big business as a whole have grown so corrupt and demoralized as to produce such devious people, and allow them to run rampant as they enrich themselves by committing such crimes," it said.

In all the furor, almost no one has blamed the United States for the Lockheed scandal and nearly everyone says U.S.-Japan relations have not been impaired.

"Except for Kodama and his group, the Japanese people feel that it was a good thing the United States exposed this wrong doing, says Tokuma Utsunomiya, one of the leaders of the Liberal-Democratic party. "We are grateful and happy. And the feeling is that the United States could do it only because it is a democratic country. The whole thing has persuaded Japanese intellectuals to take a fresh new look at American democracy."

The existence of the influence peddlers called "kuromaku" because they operate behind a black curtain of secrecy has now been vividly disclosed for the Japanese. They have been uncomfortably aware of them, and of the related "yakuza," or organized crime gangs which have fingers in many business pies, for nearly a century but have generally turned a blind eye.

"Kuromaku like Kodama are everywhere," said a 60-year-old butcher. "We can't do anything about it."

"It's Japanese society," added a 44-year-old painter. Gift-giving long has been part of Japanese society. Within limits it smooths many of the rough spots of life, improving relations between friends, associates and neighbors.

"Giri" and "On" — the obligation to repay favors — enter into the gift-giving practice. Since politicians are known for their help to constituents, what is more natural than a gift to express gratitude? Often they are bundles of money wrapped in scarves, but since no receipts are given and cash only is accepted there are no incriminating records.

Utsunomiya says kuromaku like Kodama and Osano gained power after World War II because there was no thorough purge of what he calls "ultra-nationalists and Fascists" as there was in West Germany.

Japanese ultrarightists who wanted to get into parliament couldn't get direct financial help and support at the time because Japan had become a democracy, he said. "They had to use the kuromaku and behind the scenes manipulators."

Whatever happens, Kodama's days as an influence peddler are over, Utsunomiya says. The man in the street appears to agree.

As for democracy in Japan, most people seem to think that it will survive.

"People won't change their philosophy or politics," says Hiroshi Yamamoto, 60, a retired white collar worker.

Farm Scene

By Henry C. Riddick, Agricultural Extension Agent

In order for the Pitt County producers to produce a high yielding, they must use a relatively large amount of chemical pesticides. In totaling the poundage of pesticides used in the production of peanuts, the figure could exceed 75 pounds. Few crops in the area require the quantity of material used, as the peanut crop. The safe use of pesticides is a major responsibility of the user. The responsibility begins when the grower selects and buys a pesticide poison and continues until the container has been disposed of properly. Users should contact their local county government or the Agricultural Extension Service on proper container disposal.

In selecting the proper combination of pesticides to use, the grower should first realize the specific problems through individual study of conference with a competent person, whether it be an agricultural Extension agent, a licensed pesticide dealer, or other person interested in the production of this crop.

The most important information one can obtain about the specific pesticide one chooses will be found on the pesticide label. Such information as ingredients used, directions for use, and safety information may be obtained from the label. It is illegal to use any pesticide for any purpose that is not listed on the label attached to the product when it is purchased. Pesticides are beneficial to the peanut grower when properly used. Misused they can be extremely dangerous. Pesticides are designed to kill something, whether it be nematodes, weeds, fungi, insects, mites or other pests. Therefore, read and follow instructions of manufacturer. Pesticides should be handled as poison.

SCHOLAR DIES—Lin Yutang, one of China's leading scholars died of a heart failure at Hong Kong's Queen Mary Hospital. The widely known author, who was also a translator, educator and humanist contracted pneumonia prior to dying of heart failure, according to the hospital. Lin Yutang was 80. (AP Wirephoto)

Archery Classes Begin April 4

Young people ages 9-19 are urged to attend Archery Classes beginning Sunday April 4, 1:30 p.m., sponsored by the Pitt County 4-H Club, at the Radford Dairy Farms. Johnny Radford will be instructing the beginning archer on the basic fundamentals involved with this sport. For those with some experience, these classes will provide some of the finer points of improving target scores and serve to enrich the enjoyment of this sport.

Young people who have chosen archery as their 4-H project will be instructed in competitive archery in regard to the upcoming 4-H Archery Contest to be held during county demonstration day, May 22.

Call the 4-H office to register, or for further information, contact Mike Davis, 4-H Agent, P.O. Box 1427, Greenville, NC 27834. 758-1196.
