

Arguing Death Row Procedure

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — On the night of June 3, 1974, the woman running a small market in Harnett County, N.C., was shot to death during a robbery. James Woodson and Luby Waxton were convicted of her murder and sentenced to die.

On Nov. 21, 1973, two men were found shot to death in Gwinnett County, Ga. Troy Leon Gregg was condemned to death for the murders.

On July 9, 1973, in Hillsborough County, Fla., Joel Medgebow was stabbed to death. Charles William Proffitt was sentenced to die in the electric chair.

The procedures by which they reached death row were argued before the Supreme Court today, the second day in the court's renewed look at the death penalty. Two other cases, one from Louisiana and the other from Texas, were heard Tuesday.

Four years ago, the court ruled that the death penalty, as then applied, was too arbitrary to be constitutional. This time, Stanford law professor Anthony G. Amsterdam is telling the court there is no way the death penalty can ever be imposed constitutionally.

The high court's decision, which probably will be made in June, could be one of the most important in the court's history.

The newest justice, John Paul Stevens, asked Amsterdam on Tuesday whether he felt the penalty unacceptable "no matter how serious the offense, no matter how fair a trial may have been given?"

Said Amsterdam: "That's exactly it."

Stevens succeeded William O. Douglas, who voted with the majority in its 5 to 4 decision in 1972.

Amsterdam sees too many variables in the legal process to apply the penalty fairly. He said prosecutors have discretion in charges they bring and other decisions are left to individual judges and juries. He argued that the death penalty differs from all other penalties.

"Death is action, death is final, death is irremediable, death is beyond this world," he said. "The death penalty is a legislative decision in which we know not what we do."

He told the justices, "If you don't accept the constitutional proposition that death is different, we have lost this case."

Amsterdam, retained by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, argued the cases of Jerry Lane Jurek, sentenced to death for killing the 10-year-old daughter of a Texas policeman, and Stanislaus Roberts, convicted of slaying a service station attendant in Louisiana.

Atty. Gen. John L. Hill of Texas said it is the right of the states to decide whether to have a death penalty. "Our very Constitution created the right on the part of our state legislature to make this difficult choice, as painful as it is," he said.

Hill asked, "Why shouldn't it be allowable as a goal of society to have someone who intends to kidnap a small child consider his own life as an incentive to return that child?"

James L. Babin, an assistant district attorney from Lake Charles, La., argued that under his state's law "there is no discretion by any person as to whether any particular person shall die or not die. If he is found guilty of first degree murder, then he is sentenced to death."

Amsterdam was making his third appearance before the high court to argue against the death penalty.

He said the Louisiana law is typical of those in 11 states in which the penalty is imposed in a supposedly mandatory manner for some kinds of first degree murder.

The Texas law, he said, is representative of nine states that require a jury to find specific circumstances surrounding the crime itself in order to impose the death penalty.

In those states, he said, "the jury is being asked to use the same criteria to put people into the same class and then to be asked to distinguish between people of the same class."

Abuse Dealt 2 Candidates

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — "They will grow up," said George C. Wallace after hecklers wearing Arthur Bremer masks and pushing wheelchairs tried to disrupt a campaign appearance here.

Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, like Wallace a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, was also the target of abuse Tuesday. "What happened to me, that doesn't matter," Jackson told reporters. "Bringing in Bremer on Wallace, that was sick."

Bremer was convicted and sentenced to 63 years in prison after attempting to assassinate Wallace during the 1972 presidential campaign. Wallace was paralyzed from the waist down and now uses a wheelchair.

In Washington, meanwhile, President Ford announced the appointment of Rogers C.B. Morton as manager of his campaign for a full term in the White House.

And former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who is challenging Ford for the GOP nomination, prepared in Los Angeles for a 30-minute speech to be televised nationally this evening.

Hebert, fourth in seniority in the 435-member House, declared:

"There has never been any secret about my position on national defense and the security of this nation. I accepted the responsibility of defending that position without hesitation. I only wish I could have done more."

"I have fought in public life and in public office for a strong national defense and in retirement I shall not change that position. National defense cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It can only be measured in ... what is necessary to keep America No. 1 on land, on sea and in the air."

Hebert succeeded the late Mendel Rivers as Armed Services Committee chairman in 1971. He was one of several committee chairmen unseated last year by a coalition of Democratic liberals and a flood of new members opposed to the seniority system.

Hebert, who will be 75 on Oct. 12, was elected to Congress in 1940 after 18 years as a newspaperman.

School Property Hearing Planned

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Mayor Percy Cox said today that a joint meeting of the City Council and Greenville City School Board will probably be called soon to discuss a problem that has surfaced concerning use of a section of the Elmhurst School Property.

The controversy arose recently after the School Board voted to begin construction of tennis courts on the northern end of the Elmhurst property.

The city, according to Cox, has plans to acquire right-of-way across the Elmhurst property in order to extend N. Overlook Drive as part of a move to provide a much-needed alternative route south of 14th Street and to relieve traffic on 14th.

The mayor explained that the city began a program in 1965 to eventually connect Hooker Road with Overlook. He said that the city already has either acquired or received approval for all segments of the proposed extension, including the segment across property owned by East Carolina University, with the exception of the Elmhurst property link.

He noted that the street was taken out of the Major Thoroughfare Plan since 14th is considered a major thoroughfare and the state would not go along with two thoroughfares side by side. The proposed street will be on the city street system, he added.

In view of the city's plans to extend Overlook, a request submitted by the city schools on Monday for a building permit in order to initiate construction of the tennis courts was denied this week. City School Supt. Glenn Cox said that the School Board voted at its March 15th meeting to begin the construction.

According to the superintendent, a letter was received from City Manager Jim Caldwell on Tuesday noting that the building permit was being denied, at the direction of the City Council, on the basis of the city's proposed use of the property.

Glenn Cox said that "this was our first knowledge... that they actually planned to negotiate with us for the property."

Saying that the matter was "in limbo at this point," he explained that in terms of cost and usability, the School Board felt that the Elmhurst property was the best site on which to construct courts.

He pointed out that $10,000 was approved last year to be in the current budget to get the court project started and it was hoped that another $10,000 would be available in the new budget to supplement the initial figure.

Two or three courts were planned initially, Glenn Cox said, with three others for an eventual six-court arrangement projected "over a period of time."

The basic idea for the construction, he continued, was to provide space for physical education activities and Rose High School team tennis. Beyond those priorities, the courts would be available for public use, it was noted.

In the past, Rose High has utilized courts operated by the city but increased programming by the Recreation Department as well as increased general usage by the public has decreased the amount of time available to the school, Glenn Cox said.

He said that he first learned of the Council's intention to deny the permit from Councilman William Hadden who called the superintendent following a Monday afternoon Council workshop.

Mayor Cox said that the Council feels the extension of Overlook to tie in with Ficklen or like we should go ahead and acquire the property."

The mayor, saying that both the Council and School Board have the objective of providing what is best for the city, asserted that the next step in the matter should be a joint meeting to air the problem.

The Council, he added, discussed the matter at the Monday workshop and decided to go ahead and pursue the street project. A 60-foot right-of-way would be needed for the street across the northern section of the Elmhurst property.

Glenn Cox said that the School Board agreed over a year ago to build new courts for the school.

Pressure On War-Makers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Leftist Moslem chief Kamal Junblatt said today he was under intense pressure from Syria to stop the fighting in the Lebanese civil war. Fighting tapered off in Beirut and the suburbs as Junblatt held a strategy session with other leftist leaders.

The Syrians have blocked a shipment of 4,000 weapons and seven million rounds of ammunition from reaching Lebanese Moslems and have stationed 18,000 soldiers on their side of the border to seal access routes into Lebanon, Junblatt said.

However, Junblatt told reporters before the meeting that he would not retreat from his position that the rightist Christian forces must agree to the resignation of President Suleiman Franjeh and far-reaching changes in the distribution of political power before any cease-fire.

Moslem militiamen aided by Palestinian guerrillas have steadily taken over key positions of the Christian Phalange party militia in recent days and were pushing through defenses toward the Phalange headquarters in divided Beirut.

In other developments related to the 11-month-old civil war: —Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, in West Germany on a European tour, warned against Soviet or Syrian intervention in Lebanon, saying his position was "hands off Lebanon."

Asks Public Aid

Greenville Fire Chief Ray Smith asked today for public assistance in locating a walkie-talkie belonging to the Fire Department.

Chief Smith said the portable radio — valued at $600 — either fell from a fire engine stationed at the department's substation on Brownlea Drive while the vehicle was enroute to the city garage on West Third Street to get gas, or was taken from the fire station March 27.

According to the chief, the radio is a low-band transmitter-receiver on the fire department frequency and of "no value to anyone" except the fire department.

He said anyone finding the radio or knowing its location should contact Fire Department headquarters by calling 752-2554.

Phosphate-Hauling

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Seaboard Coast Line Railroad hopes to begin hauling phosphate from Beaufort County soon over the Southern Railway line from Greenville to the mine area.

Raymond Bullard, a SCL vice president, said inauguration of the service depends on negotiation of an agreement with Southern for use of its tracks and the construction of a 900-foot connecting link between the Southern and the SCL at Greenville.

Bullard said construction of the connecting link is dependent upon the acquisition of property between the intersection of Wyatt Street with the SCL to the intersection of Pitt Street with the Southern in Greenville.

Bullard pointed out that the Interstate Commerce Commission gave SCL the right to share in the phosphate hauling as one condition when it approved Southern Railway's acquisition of the Norfolk Southern Railway.

Hebert Reveals Retiring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., a champion of the Pentagon who was deposed last year as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, is retiring after 36 years in Congress.

In announcing his retirement Tuesday, the 74-year-old New Orleans politician said, "the end must come to all of us, and I want to be able to stand up to take the last curtain call while I am still of sound mind and body."

Hebert, fourth in seniority in the 435-member House, declared:

"There has never been any secret about my position on national defense and the security of this nation. I accepted the responsibility of defending that position without hesitation. I only wish I could have done more."

"I have fought in public life and in public office for a strong national defense and in retirement I shall not change that position. National defense cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It can only be measured in ... what is necessary to keep America No. 1 on land, on sea and in the air."

Hebert succeeded the late Mendel Rivers as Armed Services Committee chairman in 1971. He was one of several committee chairmen unseated last year by a coalition of Democratic liberals and a flood of new members opposed to the seniority system.

Hebert, who will be 75 on Oct. 12, was elected to Congress in 1940 after 18 years as a newspaperman.

CHECK RECOVERED

Special recognition and commendation is well deserved by the Detective Division of the Greenville Police Department and a teller at Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

Yesterday morning my son's G.I. Bill check was apparently stolen from his coat which lay in a chair in a local business place. When he returned to get the coat, he noticed the check was missing. He notified the Veteran's officer at East Carolina who had a stop payment order issued and advised him to notify the local banks. In less than an hour, a teller at Wachovia called the Police Department who in turn quickly apprehended two persons who were charged with attempting to cash a forged check. This was very fast and efficient work on the part of everyone concerned and certainly deserves recognition and high commendation, I feel. C.W.

1929-30 TEACHERS

I am interested in Chicod School, which was founded in 1929. Are there any teachers living now who taught there in 1929 and 1930? E.S.

The Pitt County Board of Education office has pay records for these teachers and before. You may call there and get a list of the teachers at Chicod or any other Pitt County school that year or any other. The phone number is 752-6106.

Seek New Tax For Recreation

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Goldsboro Board of Aldermen plan to seek a statewide liquor tax of 5 per cent per bottle to provide money for recreation.

The proposal gained the endorsement of three of the five Wayne county commissioners at a joint meeting, Monday night.

A resolution seeking machinery for such a legislative measure will be drawn up by the city attorney and presented to Wayne's legislators.

City officials estimated that a tax of five per cent per bottle would produce approximately $100,000 from liquor sales in Goldsboro. They said such a tax, if approved statewide, would produce revenues which would be shared among the counties and their municipalities.

Impact Of Teamster Strike Said Devastating

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — The auto industry, farmers, small businessmen and the U.S. Postal Service would suffer major economic disruption in the event of a nationwide truckers' strike.

In fact, nearly every element of the nation's economy would be affected, and one result could be higher food prices.

Teamsters union and trucking industry officials continued negotiations today seeking an agreement before the union's contract expires at midnight, but federal mediators said the two sides remained "far apart" on crucial money issues.

About 60 per cent of the nation's total output of manufactured goods is moved by the 400,000 truckers who have approved a strike at midnight tonight if there is no new contract.

Auto industry spokesmen said a walkout would be devastating because the car manufacturers are not equipped to switch to rail service.

A General Motors Corp. spokesman said GM would begin feeling the impact in some operations within a few hours. "At the end of the working week... the shutdown would be complete," he said.

A Ford Motor Co. spokesman said his firm would face the same fate.

Creston Foster, a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation, said few crop farmers would be affected because of fall harvests. He said, though, that dairy and produce farmers "no doubt... would be hurt" because of an inability to move their goods to market.

Either a hefty settlement or a strike is likely to increase food prices to the consumer, he said.

The financially ailing U.S. Postal Service could be further crippled by a strike. One postal spokesman said mail deliveries within cities would not be affected, but transport between cities would. For example, he said, a strike would affect about 80 per cent of 3,500 routes that Teamsters cover in the 13-state Central Region.

The Ford administration could seek a court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act if a strike is called, forcing an 80-day cooling-off period during which trucks presumably would stay on the nation's highways.

But some of the more militant Teamsters have spoken of wildcat strike action should the administration resort to that.

The U.S. Transportation Department has begun analyzing the over-all economic impact of a strike to provide the Ford administration with data that would be needed to obtain a court injunction.

The department refused to elaborate on its analysis, but Robert Binder, assistant director for policy in Washington, said, "If a complete strike would last any length of time it would have a very serious effect on the economy."

Couple Speaks Vows Recently

ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Myra Elizabeth Jenkins and Frank Brown Nelson were united in marriage Sunday, March 21, at the Robersonville First Baptist Church. The ceremony was performed by her pastor, Rev. James O. Hagwood.

Mrs. Dare Merritt of Greenville provided the wedding music and Miss Pat Cochran of Robersonville was soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel David Jenkins of Robersonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mack Nelson of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a formal length gown of white sata peau designed with a high neckline of pleated organza and encircled in re-embroidered lace. The sheer bodice was overlaid in embroidered floral appliques.

Mrs. Frank B. Nelson

The Renaissance sleeves featured the floral and re-embroidered lace with ruffled pleated trim at the cuffs and bridal buttons. The modified A-line skirt and detachable train were styled with ruffled pleated organza and trimmed in matching lace.

She wore a Camelot cap attached to a waist length illusion veil trimmed with matching lace. The bride carried a bouquet of miniature pink roses and baby's breath.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Letitia Daniel of Collinsville, Va. Bridesmaids were Miss Addie Lou Vandiford and Miss Nancy Speller of Greenville, Miss Jeanne Roebuck of Chapel Hill, and Mrs. Joanne Vandiford of Stokes.

The best man was Rex Nelson of Kinston, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Melvin Nelson of Pinehurst, brother of the bridegroom, Jeffrey Jenkins of Raleigh, brother of the bride, Jim Perry of Washington, and Richard Haddock of Raleigh.

The mothers of the bridal couple were remembered with white cymbidium orchids and the grandmother of the bridegroom wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Jim Perry of Washington directed the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is teaching at Greene Central High School. The bridegroom is enrolled at Pitt Technical Institute and is employed part-time by his father.

They will make their home in Greenville.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Roberson welcomed guests and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mathews directed them to the guest register.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Joe James of Greenville, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. David Campbell of Raleigh, sister of the bridegroom.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roberson.

The bridegroom's parents and relatives entertained at an after-rehearsal party in the church fellowship hall Saturday night for the wedding party, families and out-of-town guests.

Bride-Elect Entertained

The churchwomen of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church honored the bride-elect of the Rev. R. Graham Nahouse, Miss Nancy Fritts, Saturday afternoon at the church.

The church was decorated throughout with arrangements of azaleas, daffodils, and dogwood blossoms. A wishing well encircled with fabric flowers entwined with ivy held the gifts.

The serving table, covered with white lace, was centered with an arrangement of camellias, azaleas, astors, and greenery and a bride doll. The food tables held an arrangement of daffodils flanked with blue and white candles.

The honoree was remembered with a white orchid corsage and her mother, Mrs. Robert Terry Fritts of Lexington, was presented a carnation corsage. Special guests included Miss Patricia Fritts, sister of the honoree, Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas, Mrs. Lelia Rives, and Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell.

Committee chairpersons were: Mrs. James Jester, president of the LCW, Mrs. James Moseby and Mrs. Ted Werdal, decorations, Mrs. Floyd Mattheis, Mrs. James Glisson, Mrs. Ron Henderson and Mrs. John Kerr, food, Mrs. James Hecker, Mrs. Jack Kear and Mrs. George King, invitations. Punch was poured by Mrs. Glisson and coffee by Mrs. Hecker.

The wedding will take place May 1, in Lexington.

VFW Members Have Business Meet Thursday

A business meeting was held by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Thursday night at the Post Home.

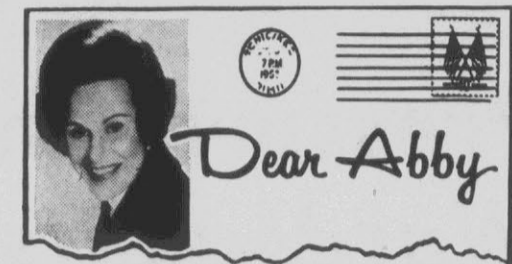

Mrs. Carrie West, president, announced that the District Two meeting will be held May 16 in Pink Hill. Mrs. Belle Boyle will be the department representative.

Charlie Stone, recreation director at O'Berry Center, was sent a contribution to pay for a child to attend summer camp and clothing was also sent to the children.

Mrs. Katherine Cottle reported on the banquet held recently for the Gold Star parents. Mrs. Rosa Lee Williams, Cancer Aid and Research chairman, reported on the recent cake sale.

A rummage sale will be held Saturday, May 1, at the Post Home from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Mrs. Alice Mosely will serve as chairman.

Miss Ada Jones, Vicki Brown and Mrs. Margaret Brown were hostesses.

Let Single Dad Become Swinger

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy with a problem. My father is 51. He and my mom are separated, so Dad moved into a singles apartment, and now he is a changed person. He let his hair grow long, he wears strange clothes and beads, and he doesn't even look like my dad anymore.

The majority of the people who live in his complex are in their 20s and 30s, and my father must think he fits right in with them, which he doesn't. People must think he is going through his second childhood.

I want to tell him how stupid he looks, but I don't want to hurt him. How can I put it to him gently that he is making a fool of himself?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Underneath the long hair, beads and those "strange clothes" he's still your father. There is no way to tell him "gently" that you think he's making a fool of himself. He has the right to change his lifestyle to suit himself, and it's not your place to judge him.

DEAR ABBY: Referring to your answer to STUMPED concerning his employee's bad breath and B.O.: Since he is a key employee, I would suggest that his employer take him aside, compliment him on his good work, then say, "I have noticed certain symptoms in you that could be a clue to a health problem. Your breath is unpleasant at times, and you have body odor. I want you to see our physician as we are concerned about the health of our better employees. Naturally, we will pay for the examination."

If he is truly a "key" employee, the money will be well spent, and a doctor is in a much better position to tell him about personal hygiene than his boss is. There also could be something wrong with him—teeth low-grade infection or something else.

Many companies require annual physicals for employees at company expense. The boss should tell the M.D. about the problem in advance so he can take this into consideration before the examination.

AMATEUR PSYCHOLOGIST

DEAR AMATEUR: You do all right for an amateur—or even a professional. Your approach was better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law does something that my husband and I find irritating. We have eaten at her home many times, and she never says the blessing before the meal unless there is an outsider there she wants to impress. Then she makes a big show of it, and everyone must bow their heads and join in.

She does the same thing when dining out in public. And she does it in a way that attracts the attention of the other diners at nearby tables.

I have nothing against praying. My husband and I both say our prayers every night before retiring. However, we believe that a prayer is something private between a person and his Lord.

My husband and I feel that we should let his sister know how we feel about her hypocritical praying, but we don't know how to say it. Any suggestions?

HATES HYPOCRITES

DEAR HATES: Why say anything? Your sister-in-law knows that you know she says grace only on special occasions. She may fool the outsiders, but she isn't fooling the Lord. And that's what counts.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Tammara L. Levey

Miss Levey has worked as a volunteer counselor for the Special Education Camp for the Mentally Retarded at White Lake for the past two summers and has also worked as counselor at Camp Sunshine, sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Department.

She is the daughter of Dr. Louise A. Levey and the late Lt. James H. Levey.

Some of her activities at Rose include being appointed to serve on the City-County Library Board, secretary of District Seven, N. C. Student Academy of Science, and a member of the Chess, Science-Ecology and Spanish Clubs.

Miss MacMillan is a member of the Rose High swim team and also swam with the Greenville Swim Club. She is a member of the Keywanettes Club and a charter member of the Teen Dem Club. She is also a school marshal.

Her hobbies include bike riding, swimming, reading, jogging and playing the guitar. She plans to have a career in one of two fields—science or government. She is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia K. MacMillan.

Fair Picture Of Future Living

Luther H. Hodges, Jr., chairman of the board of North Carolina National Bank feels the economy is improving.

Hodges spoke to the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association last week. "I can state emphatically that the economy — particularly in the Carolinas — is headed in the right direction," he said, and the economic recovery is right on schedule.

Hodges sees a continued growth this year with the rate accelerating at the end of the year. In fact, 1976 will be a "very agreeable year" insofar as the economy is concerned.

"We can look for a year or two of good solid growth which will be quite welcome after the roller-coaster ride of the late '60s and early '70s."

He warned of the dangers of long term inflation, however, saying we may have to live with an inflation rate of six to eight per cent "but we cannot live with extended periods of inflation in double-digit range."

In the future there will be more concern for quality, rather than quantity among the American people. The new politician will be concerned with "giving people tough hard medicine; to demanding sacrifice on an equal basis; to cleaning up the environment, to conserving energy; to demanding little increase in the quantity of anything; but an increase in the quality of everything.

"The key to tomorrow is going to be a heavy stress on quality, not quantity," Hodges said.

That seems to us to be a pretty fair picture of the kind of nation we are going to live in the decades ahead. We are a fast changing society, but not one headed for doom, as many would like to have us believe.

The forces are already shaping up, as Luther Hodges pointed out, which will place the emphasis on quality in our future growth. We can expect our political and business institutions to be more responsive — and perhaps more important — more realistic about our national needs.

Argentina's Big Share Of Tribulation

Argentina has gone through more than its share of political turmoil dating from the glory days of Juan Peron and leading up to the overthrow last week of his widow, Isabel.

The country was taken over by a military junta and naturally civil liberties were the first thing to go.

The military junta has been recognized by the United States government, but we would hope that constitutional government will soon be restored in Argentina.

Technology Crisis Exists

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The "energy crisis" has developed into a "technology crisis" state and federal experts now feel.

The question has become one of developing new and dependable sources of energy quickly enough to handle the crunch.

And a host of experts seem agreed that electricity will play a key role in providing that energy in the next two decades, increasing its share of the energy supplied for North Carolina homes, industries, and businesses from around 18 per cent now to over 30 per cent.

While participants at a recent energy research and development workshop in Raleigh generally concede that potential shortages and increasing costs are a fact of energy-life, the mood among state and federal officials, university scientists, and industry experts was not one of desperation.

A Challenge
Rather, it was one of challenge. The nation, after all, in its 200-year history has survived a shift from water and muscle power to wood to coal to petroleum products — each change accompanied by its own trauma.

Now comes the shift to other sources: more electricity produced by nuclear and solar means; direct solar use; wind and geothermal (inner-earth heat); etc.

The task now is to get on with the necessary research and development, many feel. State Budget Officer S. Kenneth Howard from among the many technological experts at the conference, put the various issues into clear terms for the layman as he discussed the role of state government in dealing with the energy pinch.

Conceding that the state can do little if anything about spurring or funding research and development, about developing sources of energy since North Carolina is "energy-dependent," or about prices, Howard established the responsibility of state government to be involved.

Seeing to it that citizens have an adequate supply of energy for heat, light, cooking, and industrial applications is a governmental responsibility, falling under the constitutional requirement that government is established to look after the public welfare of the people, Howard believes.

No Low Costs

The catch comes, he says, when talking about adequate supplies and reasonable prices. "Perhaps all government can do is to make the adjustment to higher-cost energy as painless and as fair as possible.

"There will be no quick and easy way to provide low-cost energy . . . it isn't there. Perhaps all we can do is see to that the pain is distributed as fairly as possible."

One of the state's major jobs is to fight "ill-advised federal regulations," Howard said. "I shudder at the thought of total federal control," he commented while recounting the manner in which federal officials pushed for a high federal tax on gasoline to curtail use, but without regard for the devastation that would wreak on state transportation plans and roadbuilding programs. The federal level did not back off until state officials strongly pointed out the impact.

Other state responsibilities which can be met include laws which encourage both development and use of technological advances in building design, transportation, and alternative power supplies, while guarding citizens against charlatans and quick-buck frauds attracted to the scene.

The major political decisions involved are in allocation of supplies, Howard said, since we must be prepared for shortages and the question will be "who gets the short end of the stick?"

Referring to recent natural gas shortages in which homes, schools, and other users got first priority over industry, Howard wondered if it might be better to have parents who are working than kids who are in school, should it come to that.

God Doesn't Want Blame

WASHINGTON — It was probably accidental, but God has become an issue in the presidential elections. Jimmy Carter, who is now known as a "front-runner," has admitted to having a very close relationship to God.

This could force other candidates to assure the American people they have a

Other Editors Say Dollar's Comeback

The much-maligned U.S. dollar has made a comeback in the world market. While the currencies of some other major industrial nations have been losing value in recent weeks, the American dollar has been waging a winning comeback.

There are, of course, some immediate benefits for Americans, one of which will be cheaper travel abroad and slightly reduced inflationary pressures at home. For example, goods from Spain, Britain and Italy may all be slightly cheaper.

But on the other hand, U.S. goods may face cheaper competition from goods of other nations abroad, which could have an adverse effect on our foreign trade.

Still, the gains in the U.S. dollar for the past 12 months have been impressive, and no one complains anymore that there are billions of unwanted U.S. dollars wandering uselessly in the world money markets.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was obviously pleased by the upturn in the fortunes of the American dollar. He pointed out that the West German mark and the U.S. dollar obviously are in demand today.

It will be recalled that the low point in the dollar's value was in February of last year when it was 18.8 per cent below its 1970 value in comparison with currencies of the nation's major trading partners, who are members of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

But by January of this year it was back to within 11.5 per cent of its 1970 value, and for the week ending March 17—after new devaluations in Europe—it was within 10.7 per cent of its former value.

The gains have been primarily against the British pound, French franc, Italian lira and Spanish peseta. The German mark has also remained strong, as has the Japanese yen.

It will be interesting to note that these latter two currencies, two of the strongest, represent two nations that are among the most vigorous of the industrial nations. They are expanding, building, trading, buying, selling and thriving. They are now victims of the rot that has befallen nations such as Britain.

And the chief reason for the turn-around in the dollar's fortunes is that the United States has made better progress against inflation than have France, Great Britain and Italy. And "better progress" can be translated to mean more productivity, the only weapon with which to fight inflation.

closer relationship with God, and the media might demand full disclosure from everyone running on both the Republican and Democratic sides as to where they stand on the God issue.

I must admit that although I've tried on many occasions to have an interview with God I've never succeeded. But I was fortunate to have a conversation with the Angel Gabriel, who is God's director of communications.

Gabriel told me, "Despite what you read in the newspapers and see on television God is staying out of the presidential primaries."

"Does He have any favorites?" I asked.

"He considers them all good men who He is sure would lead the country toward prosperity, happiness and love."

"Has God always stayed out of American politics?" "Yes, He has. There have been some supporters of presidential candidates who have claimed that their man is closer to God than any of the opponents, but we have never authorized anyone to make this claim. God feels whomever the American people want to elect is their own business. All He asks is if things don't turn out as they were expected, that the voters don't blame Him."

I asked the Angel Gabriel if this had happened in the past. "It happens all the time," Gabriel replied. "If you recall, President Nixon held all those prayer breakfasts in the White House. He wanted the American people to think that he was really closer to God. But we never had anything to do with the prayer breakfasts. The White House selected the preachers and also invited the guests. It became a political event. God hates political events and never goes to them if He can possibly avoid it."

"But almost every fundraising event and every political rally is opened by a prayer to a priest, a minister or a rabbi depending on which state the affair is being held in. What does God do about that?"

"Everyone running for public office has a priest, a

Rail Merger Today

By JAY PERKINS

Associated Press Writer.
WASHINGTON (AP) — When seven financially weak railroads are merged into a new government-backed railroad today in the largest corporate reorganization in U.S. history, such well-known railroads as the Penn Central and the Erie Lackawanna will cease operating.

The other carriers whose names will disappear are the Reading (of Monopoly game fame), the Central of New Jersey, Lehigh and Hudson River, Lehigh Valley and the Ann Arbor.

Taking their place is a railroad known as Consolidated Rail Corp., or ConRail, a private corporation supported by a government investment of nearly $2.1 billion. ConRail will be the largest railroad in the nation in terms of revenues and the second largest in terms of route miles.

A special three-judge federal reorganization court began signing the numerous legal documents necessary for the takeover Tuesday and was scheduled to complete its work today. The actual change of ownership was to take place at midnight tonight.

However, legal battles are expected to continue for several years over the value of the property taken over by ConRail.

The reorganization will complete more than a year and a half of government planning and substantially change the pattern of rail freight service in 17 states in the Northeast and Midwest.

The new railroad will own a slimmed-down route system 17,000 miles in length. It also will operate its trains over another 3,100 miles of uneconomic routes under federal and local subsidy agreements. About 3,000 miles of track now owned by the seven carriers will be abandoned.

In addition, 19 private railroads and several states in the Northeast and Midwest have purchased sections of track owned by the seven ailing railroads and will start operating those new routes Thursday. Conrail will employ about 100,000 workers, or nearly one-fourth of all railroad workers in the United States. The seven railroads had about 103,000 employees.

The new railroad's planner, the U.S. Railway Association, is predicting a bright future for the new corporation and says the line could have a large and favorable impact on the nation's economy.

SRA, a federal agency created to plan and oversee the reorganization process, has predicted ConRail will lose $332 million in its first year, compared with the $500 million annual losses sustained by the seven carriers.

It says ConRail should turn a profit of $36 million in 1979 as track and equipment improvements begin to have a favorable effect on the railroad's efficiency and that ConRail should make a profit of nearly $400 million by 1985.

INSIDE REPORT

Castro Temporarily Curbed

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, strutting in his new role as a major Communist figure on the world stage, made a series of blood-curling remarks in an unpublished talk in Conakry, Guinea, 10 days ago — when in fact his wings had just been clipped in Moscow.

Attacking "aggression from imperialism" and praising "proletarian internationalism," Castro shouted a warning that a "multi-African army (would) settle accounts once and for all with apartheid" — the separation of white minorities and black majorities in white-run South Africa and Rhodesia.

Castro's shrill demand: that the "FASCIST South African government" pull out its troops from southern Angola or risk "total war."

Behind the threats is the fact that Castro's sudden elevation to international notoriety in Angola has been at least temporarily offset by rising concerns in Latin America over his foreign interventions, and by worry in Mozambique about overt

Castro help in the coming guerrilla war against Rhodesia. To that must be added new evidence that the Soviet government has told Castro to cool it.

What Castro did not reveal to his highly nationalistic and Moscow-oriented audience in his March 15 speech was this significant fact: he had been informed in Moscow that British and Soviet negotiations with South Africa had already resulted in Johannesburg's agreement to withdraw completely from southern Angola.

In short, he knew that he is threats were empty at the time he made them.

Now back in Cuba after his political journey to Moscow for the Communist party congress, to Eastern Europe, to Algiers and to Guinea, Castro appears to be under some sort of Soviet restrictions on his next move in black, southern Africa. Well-informed officials here believe that those restrictions include a ban on the use of white Cuban soldiers along the soon-to-explode borders of Mozambique and Rhodesia.

That means any Castro help to newly independent Mozambique (long a Portuguese colony) will be severely limited — for the immediate future. As we have reported, a few Cubans are now in Mozambique, most probably flown there from Angola without overflight permission of pro-Western Zambia. But bulk movement of Castro's 12,000 to 15,000 Cuban mercenaries to fight in the future war of black Rhodesia independence appears to have been ruled out for now — by Moscow.

Strength For Today

WHITHER OUR DESTINATION?

A traveler, unfamiliar with the country in which he was making his journey, once came to a cross road and found that the sign post had been knocked down. Therefore he asked a passer-by which road he should take to arrive at the next village. "You know where you came from, don't you?" was the reply to his query. "Yes," replied the traveler, "I came from the village of Cheltenham." "Then set up the sign so that the arm which reads 'Cheltenham,' points in the direction from which you have come," replied the other, "and the other arm will point in the direction you want to go."

People often speculate about human destiny. Whither are we bound? Like the traveler, the best way we can answer that question is to ask ourselves where we came from. If we are the mere creatures of an evolutionary process, we will merely return to the dust from which we have sprung. But if we came from God, then we must be on a journey upon which God has set us. If the sign post points back to God as our creator, then it must point also to heaven as our destination.

Goals Added Life-Excitement

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Having earned a B.A. degree from the University of Minnesota in his native Minneapolis, Curtis Carlson became a salesman for Procter & Gamble, with the goal of making $100 a week. That was in 1937.

Now, approaching age 62, Carlson still holds goals before him, goals that he says "are just as exciting, and on a much bigger scale." His current goal is to achieve $1 billion in sales by 1981.

After one year of selling soap for P&G, Carlson founded Gold Bond Stamp Co. His immediate goal, he said at breakfast the other day, was to be in five states — five years.

That goal was met. New ones were set and met. Gold Bond spread to Canada, Europe, Japan, the Caribbean, South America. One goal led to another. Food store stamps led to broader consumer and business incentives.

With stamps being offered in 70 per cent of food stores, Carlson set diversification as a goal in the early 1960s. He entered the hotel business, then property development, finance, food retailing, manufacturing, restaurants.

Names such as Radisson Hotel Corp., Carlson Properties, the May Co., Ardan Wholesale Inc., North American Financial Corp., Superior Fiber Products Inc., and T.G.I. Friday's Restaurants joined Gold Bond.

As the number of individual concerns pyramided within Carlson Companies Inc., amazingly, Carlson retained private control of every one of them: No partners, no outside shareholders, no public financing.

With sales of nearly $500 million a year, Curt Carlson has now decided on the billion dollar goal, and it is unlikely that any of his 8,000 employes has not at some time heard or read about that goal.

"If you don't have goals in front of your people all the time you'll find petty distractions developing," he said, recalling his own early days, when goals were written on pieces of paper and folded into his wallet.

Attempting to draw lessons from his experience, Carlson said: "You've got to get a stake. And then you must set goals and not get distracted." Later: "The best advice I can give young fellows is not to let time slip away with petty distractions. For five day's work you stay even. It's on the sixth day, on Saturday, that you get ahead.

"Work hard to get that nestegg. You've got to get that little stake besides the return on your own labor, so that something's going on night and day. When half your dough is coming from investments, it's possible to start growing."

By then you'll probably have an organization working for you, allowing you to enjoy other pursuits, including your family. In Carlson's case a wife, two daughters and sons-in-law and eight grandchildren.

Carlson is a relaxed looking man, in his opinion a family man and not a "workaholic."

followed a few days later by South Africa's announcement that all its troops would be withdrawn from southern Angola.

Another mark of Castro's lack of freedom of political action was his failure to underwrite the newly proclaimed Sahara Democratic Arab Republic during his visit to Algiers, even though Algeria itself strongly supports it.

The reason: Moscow does not want any new feud with any Arab state. Morocco and most other Arab countries will never recognize the existence of the Democratic Republic, on territory claimed by Morocco and Mauritania.

Back home in the Americas, Castro has been attacked by this country in some of the strongest anti-Cuban language since President Kennedy resolved the Cuban missile crisis almost 14 years ago. But the attack on Castro's foreign wars from Washington is now being partially echoed by unmistakable anti-Castro criticism elsewhere, including Panama where Castro has expended a lot of political effort recently.

In a sharp, brief criticism on Castro's export of Cuban soldiers to southern Africa, the newspaper Panama America, which often speaks for the government, said Castro's attempt to justify his action parallels "interventionist arguments used by other powers in the past, including the United States."

Indeed, reimposition of economic sanctions against Cuba by the Organization of American States is by no means impossible. That would be a severe loss for the bearded revolutionary who has ambitions for remaking southern Africa which in Angola went well beyond pretension.

But with his wings temporarily clipped by Moscow, Castro's hand may not show itself in any large way in Mozambique until the liberation war against Rhodesia gets going in earnest — probably not until late summer.

Consequently, the most serious foreign policy question in Washington — whether Congress would allow the Ford administration to carry out its sensible threats against Castro's continued African maraudings — is not close to being answered.

Flaherty Plans Defend Contract On Medicaid

RALEIGH (AP)—Human Resources Secretary David T. Flaherty was to meet with federal auditors today and defend the state's decision to let a private company handle administration of the Medicaid program.

Newsmen were invited to attend the interview, but the auditors said they would simply take Flaherty's statement because they didn't want to become publicly involved in a dispute.

The state's $405-million Medicaid contract is with Health Applications Systems of California. Flaherty's staff was expected to release figures today showing that by letting the private company handle Medicaid payments, the federally funded program's cost has been reduced by some $8.2 million.

Auditors with the General Accounting Office (GAO) were not expected to confirm that claim, however. The GAO is the fiscal watchdog for Congress. The audit was ordered by the Senate subcommittee on health.

Flaherty had seen a draft of the auditor's still-secret report.

minister and a rabbi trying to intercede for him. If God had to listen to every one of these entreaties He wouldn't get anything done. We up here assume that the prayers are more for the audience's benefit than for God's."

"I know this is a tough question, but does Jimmy Carter have a more personal relationship with God than any of the other candidates?"

"We never comment on God's relationships with any of His believers. In God's eyes they are all His children, and it is His desire that the best man wins."

"Angel Gabriel, has God been in touch with President Ford since his defeat in the North Carolina primary?"

"No comment."

"Once the Americans select their President, will God support him?"

"He has always supported the President of the United States. But at the same time He can't be responsible for all the decisions a President makes. Americans have a tendency to blame everything that goes wrong in the world on God. But He never gets credit when things go right."

"And this upsets Him?"

"He has feelings, too."

He said the audit contains "numerous misinterpretations and misrepresentations." Today's interview was to give him an opportunity to correct what he believes is wrong in the audit.

Under the contract, the company makes payments under the Medicaid program. The firm is supposed to cut costs through greater efficiency and by efforts such as eliminating duplicate payments and discarding ineligible claims. It is the first such contract in the nation.

If the state were still running the Medicaid program with its own employees, the cost would be $1.37 million more a month, said Hoy Lanning, the state's Medicaid contract coordinator. He also said the cost of the program has dropped $4.04 per recipient since the private company took over management of Medicaid.

Flaherty is stepping down to seek Republican gubernatorial nomination. He has called the Medicaid contract "the most significant management decision" made during his three years as secretary.

Farmville DECA Is Recipient Of Honors

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Central High School Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) received 12 state honors at the annual DECA State Leadership Conference in Winston-Salem March 26, 27, and 28. These honors included the election of a state officer and the selection of a national officer candidate.

Four Farmville Central students received trophies in the new competency based competitive events. In the Apparel and Accessories Series, Selling Event, Beverly Bell won first place and Jennifer Harris won second place. Teresa Moore won first place in the Apparel and Accessories, Merchandising event. Kim Tugwell received first place honors in the Food Service Event, Math Area. Proficiency Awards were given to Pam Thompson, Jennifer Harris, and Kim Tugwell.

Farmville Central DECA received the Three Diamond Roses Award. Twelve of the 225 North Carolina Chapters received this honor this year. A chapter membership award was presented to Farmville Central for 100 per cent DECA membership.

Martha Bennett was elected as N.C. DECA state vice president. She also won first place in the Public Speaking Contest which will allow her to compete at the National Career Development Conference in Chicago in May.

Denise McLawhorn was selected as North Carolina-DECA's national officer candidate. She will campaign for a national office for North Carolina at the Chicago Career Development Conference.

Employees Striking In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some 1,900 city workers, faced with pay cuts, struck here early today, posting pickets at the municipal bus depot and shutting down service.

The city immediately obtained a temporary restraining order against the strike by streetsweepers, electricians, carpenters and other building-trades workers.

Mayor George Moscone said he hoped the court order would prevent disruptive picketing around city buildings, but there were indications other city unions that have accepted new contracts with the city would honor the picket lines.

The walkout could eventually affect more than 18,000 city workers, plus longshoremen who would probably honor the picket lines.

Policemen, firemen and the bus drivers themselves were not involved in the strike.

The city trade union workers ordered the pickets to march at 12:01 a.m. to protest pending pay cuts for workers in certain categories.

Fifteen minutes later, city officials told Superior Court Judge Henry Rolph the strike was illegal. He granted the temporary injunction. No union representatives were present.

But hours later pickets were still at the bus depot, and photographers at the scene said "nothing is moving, not a single bus."

Late Tuesday night, Moscone told reporters that he could give no assurances that city buses would be running, hinting that citizens had better find other modes of transportation to work.

Seeks Repeal Of Food Tax

"The biggest break the state could give all the people would be repeal of the food tax," stated Sen. McNeill Smith, state senator from Guilford County and member of the N.C. Commission to Review Revenue Laws. Sen. Smith was guest speaker Tuesday night at a meeting of the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

"The sales tax on food hurts everyone, rich and poor, black and white. Food prices have tripled since 1961 when the food tax went on. The food tax comes off the top of the grocery bill and the state is making more money on the groceries than farmers or merchants. There ought to be a fairer way to raise money for government services. For 20 years before 1961 we had no sales tax on food for home consumption. It worked very well. We ought to go back to the way it was before 1961," Sen. Smith stated.

Sen. Smith said "critics of food tax repeal say that for many people the sales tax on food is the main tax they pay and that it should be kept . . . so that they don't think everything they get from the government is free. These cities obviously refer to those on welfare, the poor, the majority of blacks, migrants, drifters, and the 'unlisted.'"

Sen. Smith said it is not true that the poor would pay no taxes after repeal of the food tax. "Even now the poorest group pays more on non-food taxes than on the food tax. The food tax, however, is extremely unfair, since the food tax burden is 50 times heavier on the very poor than on the very rich."

Other cities according to Smith, say that if the state food tax of 3 percent were repealed, then many counties would be forced to repeal their 1 percent tax on food and therefore would be strapped for funds. Sen. Smith said that if this should happen, the state could allocate extra money to the counties to make it up.

"It will cost the state $60 to $66 million a year to take the tax off food. The way to make that up would be to revise the rates on the income tax on very high incomes. We haven't changed those rates in nearly 40 years. In that time we have been raising the sales tax," said Sen. Smith. "We ought to go back to the income tax as the main source of our revenue."

According to Sen. Smith, the income tax rates for very high incomes should "be revised to use the 8, 9, and 10 percent rates permitted by the state constitution."

Income tax would be higher for the 3 percent making $72,000 or more a year. A person "making $72,000 a year might pay $750 or $800 more a year in combined federal and state taxes," stated Sen. Smith.

Another way to make up revenue lost by food tax repeal, said Sen. Smith, would be "to remove the sales tax ceiling on luxury cars, boats, and airplanes. Under the present law no sales tax whatever is paid on these luxury vehicles for any portion of the price over $6,000." He added that N.C. is the only state in the U.S. with such a sales tax ceiling.

"A possible alternative to outright repeal of the food tax would be for the state to give everyone a direct credit - say $15 for each taxpayer and each dependent - against his or her income tax for food tax paid. Those not earning enough to pay income tax would get a check in the same amount for their 'food tax refund,'" stated Sen. Smith.

"This has been adopted in several states. It avoids the conflict with the local sales tax. The amount of credit can be changed by each legislature. Foreign tourists pay the food tax, but never get a refund. Some states which tried this credit have abandoned it and gone to outright repeal of the sales tax on food."

"About half the states which have sales taxes either exempt food or allow a credit," said Sen. Smith. "Two-thirds of the people in America don't pay any sales tax on food."

Driver Arrested On Two Charges

Larry Donnell Clark, 23, of Route 2, New Bern was arrested early this morning on charges of no operators license and possession of marijuana, according to Chief of Police Glenn Cannon.

Chief Cannon said Clark was charged with no operators license after police stopped a car Clark was driving at the intersection of Fifth and Cotanche Streets about 2:20 a.m.

He said investigators then charged Clark with possessions of marijuana after finding a small quantity of the illegal drug in his possession.

Clark was placed in Pitt County Jail under $10,600 bond.

Chief Cannon noted that New Bern police were expected to arrest Clark on charges of possession and sale of marijuana this morning. Those charges, according to Cannon, stemmed from a March 12 incident in New Bern.

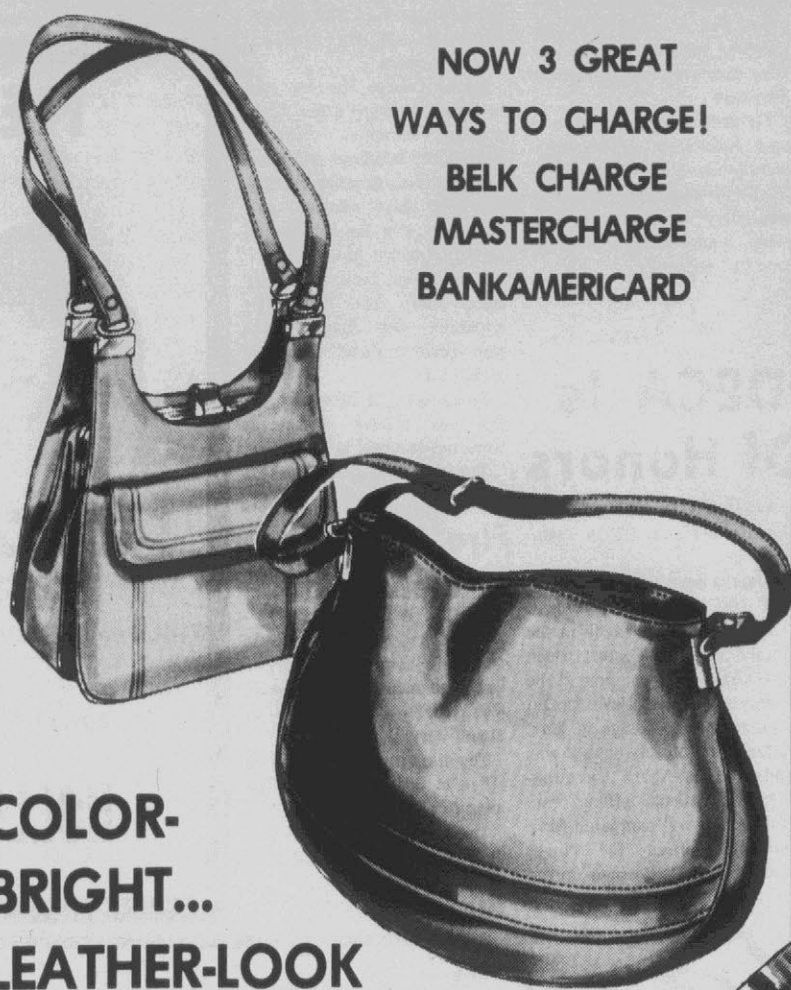

Fish, Wildlife Funds Released

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal aid of $78 million has been apportioned to the states for fiscal 1976 for wildlife and fish restoration and for hunter safety programs, according to Commerce Clearing House.

The sum is the total of two separate installments — one for $43 million and the other for $35 million — to be distributed from excise taxes collected in fiscal 1975.

Congressional Support Grows For Defense Budget

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's record defense budget is picking up initial support in Congress with some congressional defense critics expressing concern over Soviet military buildups.

The Senate Budget Committee approved by voice vote a $113-billion defense spending target for fiscal year starting Oct. 1 which it said is only $300 million less than Ford wants. The House Budget Committee, by a vote of 13-12, set a target of $112 billion, rejecting a proposal by its own chairman, Rep. Brock Adams D-Wash., that the figure be cut to $107.7 billion.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said today the congressional action "reflects the changed circumstances in the country." He said Americans have grown concerned about adverse trends in U.S. military power relative to that of the Soviet Union. Rumsfeld was interviewed on the CBS-TV "Morning News." The secretary said Congress is following the changing attitude in the country.

But Rumsfeld denied once again suggestions by Ronald Reagan, who is challenging Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, that the United States is falling into second place in military power.

"We have rough equivalence with the Soviet Union," Rumsfeld said.

Pentagon officials have been saying in recent weeks that if current trends continue the United States will fall behind the Soviet Union militarily in the next five years or so — but not that this nation is behind at the present time.

Ford threatened Monday to veto any defense bill that is cut to the point that it would "shortchange the future safety of the American people." He said, "I am deeply disturbed that some members of our own Congress, apparently oblivious to the realities of today's world, now seek to make sizable reductions in the defense budget."

But the budget committee spending targets close to Ford's request are the latest indication that Congress might be ready to reverse its trend in sharply cutting defense requests. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday he knew of no organized move in Congress to cut the defense budget and suggested that Ford seemed to be "tilting at a windmill or knocking down a straw man."

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., a critic of some defense spending in the past, said it is clear from hearings this year that the Soviets are significantly expanding their military might, especially their navy, "and you have to ask yourself, 'What are the Russians up to?'"

Adams said that Ford was not living in "the real world" of fiscal responsibility by threatening to veto a trimmed defense bill. "Right now there is some $44 billion in unexpended funds sitting over at the Pentagon," he said.

In the Senate committee, Alan Cranston, D-Calif., leading the outnumbered liberals, said the United States needs only to be strong enough to deter a Soviet attack and to prevent the United States or its allies from being "coerced by any potential enemy."

Sen. James Buckley, R-C-N.Y., countered that the United States has coasted along for so long with a technological lead that the Soviets have caught up. He said it would be "extremely improvident" for the United States to delay military modernization.

The size of the cuts in the targets approved by the House and Senate budget committees depend on whose figures are used. Ford requested $114.9 billion in his January budget but the committees said adjustments since then have brought his request down to $113.3 billion.

Investigate 2 Collisions

Two collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday resulted in an estimated $1,950 property damage.

Police said heaviest damage resulted from a 12:58 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Farmville Boulevard involving cars driven by Gail Edwards Evans of West End Trailer Pk., and Robert Duffy Jr., of 314 Conley St.

Officers, who made no charges, estimated damage at $800 to the Evans car and $700 to the Duffy auto.

Again no charges were reported following investigation of an 8:20 a.m. mishap on Elm Street, 300 feet South of the Brookgreen Avenue intersection, involving cars driven by Joyce Joyner Norville of Farmville and Janie Lucille Register of 200 North Library St.

Investigators estimated damage from the collision at $50 to the Norville vehicle and $400 to the Register car.

Seminar Set By Onslow Chapter

JACKSONVILLE—A Coastal Education Seminar will be held by the American Association of Medical Assistants, Onslow County Chapter, Saturday, Apr. 3.

Any individual employed by a physician in any capacity is welcome to attend. Registration is $10 for A.A.M.A. members and $15 for non-members. Interested persons should contact Mrs. Ann N. Crews, LPN, c-o Jones and Kitchen Clinic, P.A., 510 College St., Jacksonville, N.C. 28540.

Lectures on medical law and ethics, future law and certification, and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation will be given. A certification mini-test, costing $2, may be taken by anyone who wishes.

Assisting in preparing for this seminar are the Eastern Area Health Education Center and the Office of Community Health Services of East Carolina University.

Law Enforcers Sponsor Show

The Pitt County Law Enforcement Officers Association is sponsoring a country music show April 24 in an effort to raise money with which to build a club house and a pistol and rifle range.

The country music program — scheduled for 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. at the D. H. Conley High School off N. C. 43 South of Greenville — will feature Ray Pillow and Stella Parton (Dolly Parton's sister).

Tickets — at $4 each — are available from members of the Pitt Law Enforcement Officers Association.

The club house is to be constructed on a tract of land on the Tar River near the old Port Terminal, East of Greenville.

Callaway Out, Morton Will Head Ford Campaign

GOODBYE AND HELLO — President Ford say goodbye to Howard "Bo" Callaway at top, as he announces his resignation as his campaign manager Tuesday in the White House. Seconds later, Ford shakes hands with Rogers C. B. Morton as he announces Morton will succeed Callaway. (AP Wirephoto)

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rogers C.B. Morton takes a new title and moves four blocks to a new office Friday, but his job is the same: trying to help President Ford win a full term in the White House.

His appointment to succeed Howard H. Callaway as manager of the Ford campaign is not expected to bring major changes to the President's political operation.

And Morton's role at Ford headquarters is not likely to be much different from his job as top political aide at the White House.

Within hours after his appointment was announced Tuesday, Morton was in Richmond, Va., conferring with about 40 Ford allies on fundraising and delegates in the race with Republican challenger Ronald Reagan.

Morton, 61, a former Maryland congressman and GOP national chairman, served as Interior secretary and Commerce secretary, left the government briefly, then became a counselor to the President. An aide said Morton as campaign manager will serve as spokesman, speechmaker and contact man, while deputy manager Stuart Spencer takes care of the tactical political questions. Morton also will be the administrative chief at Ford headquarters.

By 1918, automobiles, motion pictures and telephones were common in the United States.

But the real change is not in the new name on the campaign door. It is the removal of the old one, with Callaway's acknowledgement that controversy surrounding him had become a potential political problem.

As he resigned from the $42,500-a-year job, Callaway declared he had done nothing wrong and would be exonerated in government probes of his role in seeking expansion of a Colorado ski resort he owns.

Callaway, who left the campaign March 13 under a suspension he requested, said he resigned when told that the Justice Department would not conclude its inquiry for at least a week and possibly two.

"There was no hint of any impropriety they found. There is none," Callaway said in an interview. "I don't blame them for taking the attitude after Watergate that we've got to investigate everything thoroughly, we can't have a whitewash."

But he said the FBI and the Justice Department could have speeded their inquiry and come up with findings more quickly. "I'm confident there will be a complete exoneration," he said.

The inquiry stems from Callaway's acknowledged role, while secretary of the Army, in seeking reversal of recommendations against expansion of his Crested Butte, Colo., ski area, which is on government land.

No final decision has been made, but the U.S. Forest Service did recommend in December that the expansion be approved.

Callaway said he did not exert pressure and there was no conflict of interest. "Those charges have been proved to be totally, patently false," he said. "There is zero merit in those charges.... There's nothing but innuendos."

Ford announced the resignation and Morton's appointment on Tuesday, with the two men at his side. Ford said he was saddened because he is confident the allegations against Callaway will be proven groundless.

Work Begun On New Drug Store

James W. Clow, president of Clow Drugs Inc. of Smithfield, announced that construction has begun on a new Clow Drugs facility in Greenville.

Clow said that the 10,000 square foot drug store is under construction at West End Shopping Center on a site located just west of Clark's Discount Store.

The $144,000 building, it was pointed out, is being developed by Louis Lipinsky of Lat Purser & Associates Inc. of Charlotte. Purser developed West End Shopping Center.

Clow Drugs here, which will operate as a Walgreen Agency, will be strictly a drug and drug-related store, Clow reported, and will have no eating facilities or fountain.

Myers Industries is providing ultra modern fixtures for the store, the president said, including various furnishings that were developed only recently. Tentative opening of the new store is set for August 1, Clow pointed out.

Gene Minton of Aulander, a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, will manage the facility here and serve as pharmacist. Minton worked for Kerr Drugs in Raleigh for three years and at Clow Drugs in Smithfield for one year.

Clow said that the Greenville store is the third in Clow Drugs Inc. The company, which has a projected expansion to eight stores by 1980, has two drug facilities at the home office in Smithfield.

Simco Inc. of Monroe is handling construction of the Greenville store.

Kirk To Assume Flaherty's Post

RALEIGH (AP)—Phillip J. Kirk Jr., administrative assistant to Gov. Jim Holshouser, will become state Secretary of Human Resources Friday succeeding David T. Flaherty, the Associated Press has learned.

An official announcement of Kirk's appointment is expected Wednesday or Thursday. He has served as gubernatorial aide since 1973.

Flaherty, who announced his resignation Monday, will formally become a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination later this week. His present salary is $33,000 a year. Kirk is expected to be paid the same. Kirk, 31, formerly served as a state senator from Rowan County. Prior to that he was a school teacher in Salisbury.

Dr. Archie Johnson, Flaherty's part-time assistant secretary, originally was slated to become secretary, but this was altered about a week ago.

According to reports, gubernatorial aide Gene Anderson had vetoed Johnson because Johnson's wife was working for the presidential campaign of Ronald Reagan, whom the Holshouser administration opposed.

Anderson denied that he had any role in Johnson dropping from the picture. Johnson said he had heard rumors about Anderson's influence, but they came after he himself had decided not to seek the appointment.

Sees No Budgetary Problem By Year's End

MISENHEIMER, N.C. (AP)—Retiring State Treasurer Edwin Gill said Tuesday at Pfeiffer College he is optimistic about North Carolina's tax revenue shortage.

"At the end of this year, I doubt that there will be any problem about the budget," Gill told a news conference.

The conference preceded a luncheon at which Gill was presented the 1976 Pfeiffer Alumni Association's Public Service Award in recognition for his 46 years of public life. He will retire at the end of his current term.

The process of balancing the budget often reveals economic situations unknown to forecasters, Gill told reporters.

He said his most important accomplishment was obtaining North Carolina's AAA bond rating in 1960. The state pays less interest on bonds due to the high rating, he said. "I have never calculated it, but we have saved the state millions of dollars."

He also commented on the quality of government in the state. "In North Carolina, we've made a habit of good government," he said the state has not had a crisis or scandal since before 1900.

Gill, a Democrat, said he had noticed no difference in operating under his first Republican governor. "Our relations have been excellent."

"The greatest asset which North Carolina possesses is integrity in government. The press, radio and TV within the state tend to play up the shortcomings of state government, but I remind you that starting with the administration of Gov. Charles B. Aycock we have had a state government marked by high integrity. You cannot put a price tag on this asset," he added.

Approximately 300 government, political, business, education and cultural leaders from across the state attended the luncheon honoring Gill. They included retired U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., last year's recipient of the Pfeiffer award, former governors Bob Scott and Terry Sanford, members of the council of state and Chief Justice Susie Sharp of the state Supreme Court.

Gill began his 46-year public service career in 1929 as a member of the General Assembly from Scotland County. The Laurinburg native has served the last 23 years as state treasurer.

State-Run Railways In Europe Bogged Down, Too

By DAVID MINTHORN
Associated Press Writer
BONN, West Germany (AP) — State-run railways in Western Europe, which remained models of reliability and travel comfort while passenger service deteriorated in the United States, are now bogged down in deep financial woes.

Few of them had been profitable in recent years and they eliminated thousands of miles of road and cut down on their work force.

Even greater reductions in passenger service and personnel are being planned.

"It's one second to 12, not one minute before. When the clock strikes and nothing has been done to solve the railway's structural problems, it will be the death sentence for this enterprise," warned West German railroad President Wolfgang Vaerst.

Burdened by inflated work forces and debt-ridden passenger services on rural lines, European railways have managed to stave off bankruptcy only with the help of multibillion dollar government subsidies each year.

Now vast new investments are needed for 165 m.p.h. "supertains" and other high speed equipment.

West Germany's railway, which has a staggering deficit of $10 billion, has proposed closing nearly half its 17,400 miles of track and eliminating 130,000 jobs over the next 10 years in an effort to concentrate passenger and freight services on profitable main lines.

However, actual closures will be considerably less — about 4,000 miles — because of regional political considerations and labor union opposition, German transport officials say.

Rail concentration and economizing measures in other Western European nations are meeting with varying degrees of success, a 10-nation Associated Press survey shows.

British Rail reduced its track network from 18,000 to 11,000 miles and slashed its payroll from 600,000 to 250,000 workers over the last 30 years without solving its massive financial problems.

The chairman, Sir Richard Marsh, announced last week he was quitting because of what he called government meddling with railroad hiring policies and criticism of his handling of the network, which lost $800 million in 1975.

Sweden's national railroad claimed a $25 million operating profit in 1975 after years of deficits, the payoff for eliminating 2,100 miles of unprofitable tracks since the early 1960s. Still, the railway says it needs a $200 million government grant this year to maintain passenger service on the 7,400-mile network.

Belgium's railway, which lost $1.2 million in 1974, has cut some 280 miles of secondary tracks over the last decade and substituted economical commuter buses in these rural areas.

Automation has allowed Norway to reduce its railroad payroll from 28,000 to 18,000 in the last 20 years, and 1,000 more jobs will be trimmed in the next five years. Despite a $70-million operating deficit in 1975, the railroad plans to build new lines which are considered less of a pollution hazard than superhighways.

The French railway, which lost $260 million last year, is in the process of closing down inefficient lines and opening new ones but it plans no major cuts in its 280,000-member work force.

This month, Paris officials approved plans for an $800 million high-speed line linking Paris and Lyon by 1981, providing competition for intercity jet airplane service. Environmentalists had delayed the project for three years by warning it would cause "irreparable damage" to the Burgundy countryside and prove as economically questionable as the controversial Concorde airliner.

Italy's 9,600-mile rail network is losing more than $3 million a day, yet track closures are rare and passenger fares remain the lowest in Western Europe to keep one million passengers riding daily. Many of the travelers have discounts, ranging from 25 to 70 per cent, and some 10,000 privileged persons, including politicians and war veterans, ride trains each day without paying any fare. Efforts are being made to cut these privileges and reduce the discounts, but the savings would hardly make a dent in the massive rail deficit.

Austria's railway is deeply in debt, and a hiring freeze has been imposed for 7,000 jobs of railway employees who retired in recent years, reducing the staff to 60,000. Because of political protests, the railway has been unable to cut services in low traffic border regions. Instead, it hopes to attract more business by updating equipment and services with $2.7 billion of investments over the next 10 years.

The Swiss railway, expecting a record deficit of $305 million this year, has slashed freight transit rates by 10 per cent to counter 12 to 20 per cent declines in foreign goods transiting the Alpine nation on rails.

Despite five straight years in the red, the Swiss decided to retain unprofitable passenger lines without resorting to what transport officials termed "ruthless cost-covering prices."

The Dutch government is expanding the nation's 1,770-mile rail network and purchasing new rolling stock despite persistent deficits — 66.5 million in 1974 and 58.6 million in 1973. An important new line will link Amsterdam's city center with Schiphol airport and continue via Leiden to The Hague.

Holland, like other European nations, has a liberal system of cut-rate fares, with the latest a discount ticket for family members and groups traveling together.

Rampants Take First League Test, 6-2

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
ROCKY MOUNT — Pitcher Mike Belton drove in three runs with two hits, and tossed a four-hitter at Rocky Mount as the Rose High School Rampants picked up a 6-2 victory yesterday.

The game was the opening Division I contest for the Rampants, giving them a 1-0 loop mark. They are 4-1 overall. For Rocky Mount, it was their first loss in six overall starts. They are now 1-1 in the league.

Eddy Connolly also continued his assault on opposing pitchers, slapping out two hits in three trips, both of them doubles as he accounted for two runs. Connolly is hit eight for 15, a hefty .533, including three doubles and a home run.

Shearin and Brewington. Jim Wilkerson, running for Connolly, took third on an out, and scored on Belton's single to right for a 4-0 lead.

Rocky Mount threatened to do just the same to Belton in the bottom of the first. Ricky Smith opened up with a single and Phil Braswell drew a walk. Then, with two away, Belton issued walks to Gary Ward and Jeff Williams, forcing in Smith with the first Gryphon run.

But the lefthander then fanned Mike Upchurch to get out of the hole he had dug himself into.

Rose returns to action on Friday, traveling to Bertie.

Saratoga Has Little Trouble In Rolling Past North Pitt By 13-0

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL—Poor pitching, lackluster defense and extra bases helped Saratoga Central whallop the North Pitt Panthers yesterday, 13-0.

North Pitt used three pitchers in the game and not one could check the Cougars. Saratoga banged out ten hits; only three were singles. The Cougars collected three doubles and four triples. North Pitt got only three hits.

Jay Bedworth started for North Pitt but gave up seven runs, four in the fourth. Tom Corbett tried to stop the Cougars coming in the fourth but he gave up an additional three runs. Aubrey Wynne finished the game giving up the last three tallies.

John Whitley started for Saratoga and pitched two frames of a no-hitter but tried in the third. Ralph Bailey finished the game striking out six and walking one.

North Pitt started things off right getting the first two Saratoga batters but then was rocked for a single and two triples as the Cougars went 2-up. It would have been three but Noel Whitley cut Joe Jones down at home as Jones tried to stretch his triple into a home run.

The side was retired in order in the second but Saratoga picked up a third run in the third on an error. David Goff was safe on the miscue, stole around to third and scored on an error as he stole third.

Scoreboard table for Saratoga vs North Pitt with columns for AB, R, H, E, etc.

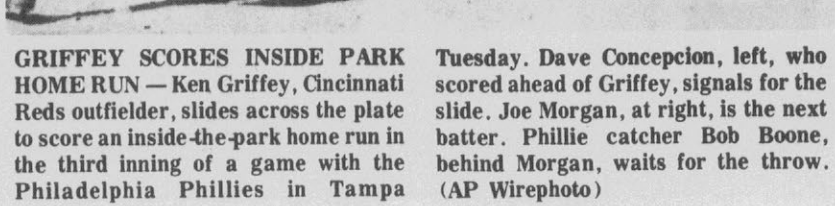

Whitley led off the third with a double and walks to Jones and Tim Shelton loaded them up. A walk to Bob Wheller forced in Whitley and a double by Goff scored two runs. Bailey sacrificed in a fourth.

Jones drove in a run in the fifth with a triple and scored on a sacrifice by Shelton. A three-run triple in the top of the seventh by Bailey finished the Cougar scoring.

North Pitt put a man on second once. Eddie Hemmingway doubled to left in the sixth but fifth with a triple and scored on a sacrifice by Shelton. A three-run triple in the top of the seventh by Bailey finished the Cougar scoring.

Ted Rodgers had three hits, Whitley and Jones two each for the Cougars. Hemmingway had two for North Pitt.

GRIFFEY SCORES INSIDE PARK HOME RUN — Ken Griffey, Cincinnati Reds outfielder, slides across the plate to score an inside-the-park home run in the third inning of a game with the Philadelphia Phillies in Tampa Tuesday. Dave Concepcion, left, who scored ahead of Griffey, signals for the slide. Joe Morgan, at right, is the next batter. Phillie catcher Bob Boone, behind Morgan, waits for the throw. (AP Wirephoto)

Bears Win On One-Hitter, 9-0

BEAR GRASS—Bear Grass High School romped to a 9-0 victory over Belhaven yesterday.

Ray Wynne hurled a one-hitter at Belhaven, and had a no-hitter going until the top of the seventh. Smithwick spoiled the gem bid with a lead-off single in the final inning. Wynne fanned nine and walked just one in getting the shutout.

Bear Grass jumped into the lead in the third inning, scoring four runs. Jerry Wynne and Alton Cratt both singled. Terry Wobbleton got a hit, scoring Wynne. Dickie Williams reached on an error, bringing in Cratt. Danny Peaks then doubled in both Wobbleton and Williams.

In the fifth, the Bears picked up a couple of more runs. Williams singled and stole

Netters Win Fifth

ROCKY MOUNT—Rose High School had to fight for its life to pull out a tennis victory over Rocky Mount yesterday, 5-4.

The Gryphons took four of the six singles events to stake themselves to a strong lead. Only David Daniel and Dana Kendrick managed to pull out victories in this phase of the match.

But Rose came on strong in the doubles, winning all three to pull out the win, their fifth against no losses.

The match was hard-fought, with two of the singles matches going three sets, and a number of sets being extended ones. David Lautes had to defend his singles match due to a shoulder injury.

Rose returns to action on Thursday, entertaining defending conference champion Wilson.

Summary:

- Del Estrom (RM) defeated Mike Murad, 2-6, 6-3.
David Daniel (R) defeated Jeff Joyner, 6-3, 6-0.
Dana Kendrick (R) defeated Tim English, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4.
Danny Wheelless (RM) defeated Graham Demsey, 7-6, 6-4.
Jim Thorp (RM) defeated Don Tucker, 7-5, 6-3.
Olin Wilson (RM) defeated David Lautes, 6-1, default.
Murad Kendrick (R) defeated Thorp Estrom, 6-3.
Demsey Daniel (R) defeated Wheelless Joyner, 8-3.
Jeff Barber Mike Hinsley (R) defeated Walters Mayberry, 6-5.

Games Delayed

The threat of rain and wet grounds postponed a number of events scheduled for yesterday.

Rescheduled for today are baseball games between Matamuskeet and Jamesville and Conley and Havelock; and a softball game between Ayden-Grifton and C. B. Aycock.

A softball game between North Pitt and Williamston will be played as part of a doubleheader next Tuesday, while a tennis match between Old Dominion and East Carolina was reset for April 10.

No new dates were set for a baseball game between Ayden-Grifton and Kinston and a softball game between North Lenoir and Greene Central. A track meet between Rose and Northern Nash was cancelled and will not be rescheduled.

Great Era Of Sports Is Seen By Mallory

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The world is going through an era of unparalleled sports, Jim Mallory, Dean of Men and former East Carolina University baseball coach, told the Greenville Sports Club yesterday.

Mallory was speaking at the last regular meeting of the club until next fall. A banquet, open to members only, will be held next Saturday with former Wake Forest basketball coach, Bones McKinney as speaker.

While Mallory said he hopes that the sports era continues, he wonders sometimes if it has not become oversaturated. "Then, this salary thing worries me too. I've never seen any pitcher worth $1 million. Without television, there would be no pro sports. Television helps the clubs to balance the books. That's why the ABA is having to struggle so."

Today's athlete is bigger, stronger, faster and better coached than in the past, the ex-coach said. "The only sport that hasn't changed much is baseball. They're still hitting, pitching and fielding the same. But sometimes it burns me up to see some fellow getting $50,000 just to hit 30 home runs a year.

when he can't hit .250. When I was playing, if you couldn't hit .350, you couldn't play."

Mallory feels that college baseball is better than ever. "For the dollar spent, you get more from baseball at East Carolina than in any other sport. There is little difference between the Atlantic Coast Conference, the Southern Conference and other conferences. George Williams and Monte Little do an excellent job and I don't look for us to lose many of our remaining games."

Mallory also boosted the Summer Collegiate League, of which he is the president. "Walter Rapp (UNC Coach), Earl Smith (former ECU coach) and I thought it all up on a fishing trip. We tried to get some help from the pros, but couldn't. Our league is unique in the country. Most leagues have just a few players from a single school on a team, ours has regular season team members.

Now other areas are looking at our program and are very interested in it. We'll have nine teams this year with a 40-game schedule."

Mallory said that the league is one of the best development chances younger members of the teams have. "East Carolina will lose ten seniors this spring, so that's going to leave a lot of holes for the younger guys to fill and get experience before next spring."

The coach also gave his definition of a "winner."

"It's some one with 'temperament.' You might call it character or desire, but that's my name for it. He's the type of guy who doesn't beat himself. He concentrates on his job and doesn't gripe or complain. You never have to tell a great athlete like this to get up for a game. He just naturally is ready."

The Sport Club will resume meetings in the fall just prior to the opening of football season.

Atlanta Coach Is Fired

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Atlanta Hawks' players expressed shock Tuesday night at Cotton Fitzsimmons' firing as head coach, adding they had known for some time he had planned to resign after the National Basketball Association season.

"Everybody knew he wasn't coming back," star forward Lou Hudson said. "He told us that two or three weeks ago. I was surprised in the sense that they didn't wait until the end of the season. I don't think one change like this so late in the season will make much difference."

M.B. "Bud" Sereteau, the Hawks' president and general manager, announced Fitzsimmons' dismissal in a short news release distributed just prior to the Hawks' 130-126 overtime defeat by the Milwaukee Bucks Tuesday night.

Tampo, Seattle Get First NFL Players

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Tampa Bay's John McKay called it "just another day of recruiting." Seattle's Jack Patera called it "a numbers game." But the coaches of the National Football League's two expansion franchises finally have some players to put into their bright new uniforms.

Now it's a matter of seeing if these guys can get together, become teams instead of individuals and maybe win a few games.

As McKay put it: "It was just another day of recruiting ... We'll go home now, sit down, put the players' names on a blackboard and say, 'Here they are, now what do we do?'"

"We picked a good basic roster and we got our share of good football players. Seattle did, too.

Or, as Patera, referring to the 26 teams that gave up the players to stock the Buccaneers and his Seahawks, said: "These teams have their own reasons for putting players up. At times you get into a numbers game."

What they have is 39 names apiece. More will come next week when the NFL conducts its annual collegiate draft.

But what kind of names do the Buccaneers and Seahawks have now? They have tested veterans (but are they over the hill?) and unproven youngsters (but will their promise ever be fulfilled?).

Each of the 26 veteran teams was permitted to protect 32 players in all. Each time a player was picked from the available list, that team was permitted to pull back another player and protect him. Evenually, each old club gave up three players.

Among the "name" players picked by Tampa Bay were McKay's son, J.K., a wide receiver with the University of Southern California when his dad was the Trojans' coach; former Southern Cal star running back Anthony Davis; Oakland running back Harold Hart and tight end Bob Moore, Miami linebacker Doug Swift (who says he's retiring to enter medical school), Kansas City safety Jim Kearney and Buffalo defensive end Pat Toomay.

Seattle gobbled up Baltimore linebacker Mike Curtis and running back Bill Olds, Miami tackle Norm Evans, Los Angeles linebacker Ken Geddes and cornerback Eddie McMillan, Pittsburgh defensive back Dave Brown and Detroit tight end John McMakin. The Seahawks also picked the only two quarterbacks — New England's Neil Graft and St. Louis' Gary Keithley.

Both clubs expressed satisfaction with the material they acquired. "Both clubs did well," said Hugh Culverhouse, owner of the Buccaneers. "I'm pleased, excited, very satisfied with the quality of our players. Basically we wanted as many first-string players as we could get."

And Patera added: "The over-all quality of the players was surprising. There were more good football players than I expected. The draft has turned out very well for us. McKay was a bit more reserved in his initial assessment. "There were quite a few people we thought were real good football players," he said. "There were some surprises, some not ... The players' quality was higher than we expected."

"I don't think we're tremendously strong in any area," McKay added. "We picked a good basic roster and we got our share of good football players. Seattle did, too."

Baltimore May Be A Few Short

MIAMI (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have a Cy Young Award winner on the mound and a living legend at third base, but they could be a couple of journeymen short of overtaking the Boston Red Sox.

After finishing 4½ games behind Boston last season, failing to win the American League's Eastern Division title for only the second time in seven years, the Orioles failed to swing a trade.

Most observers believe Baltimore could use a left-handed power hitter and an everyday catcher, but the possible trouble spots remain as opening day approaches.

The Orioles hit only 29 of their 124 home runs from the left side in 1975. Switch hitter Ken Singleton got all but one of his 15 homers from that side of the plate. Jim Northrup, who hit five, has retired.

Unless something is done, the Orioles are likely to face even more right-handed pitchers than last season—when they were 23-13 against lefties but only 67-56 against right-handers.

Manager Earl Weaver says

he is content with catchers Dave Duncan and Ellie Hendricks, who combined for 20 homers and 79 runs batted in but also fanned 122 times and barely hit above .200.

The Orioles also have some possible age problems. Third baseman Brooks Robinson and pitcher Mike Cuellar will be 39 in May, but they still have enough talent to challenge Boston if things fall into place.

Strong pitching and excellent defense have been the hallmark of the Orioles for many years.

Jim Palmer and Mike Torrez head a pitching staff which notched a 3.17 earned run average last year, topping the league for the sixth time in seven years.

Afield, where they have not finished lower than second for eight years, the Orioles topped the league in average and had four Gold Glove award winners—Robinson, shortstop Mark Belanger, second baseman Bobby Grich and center fielder Paul Blair.

Palmer, 23-11 last season with 10 shutouts and a 2.09 ERA, asked for a three-year contract as spring training opened and was offered a two-year pact. Torrez, 20-9 in his first season as an Oriole, signed for one year after turning down a two-year offer.

Of the Gold Glove fielders, Robinson hit only .201, Blair .218, Belanger .226 and Grich .260. When Duncan's .205 and the .215 of Hendricks were added to that group, it was easy to see what held the Orioles back last season. The team batting average of .252 was ninth in the league.

Baltimore's .662 pace following the All-Star game was the best in the major leagues, but it couldn't make up for a 1-11 stretch in May which left the team at 16-26.

Singleton, the team's most valuable player last year after hitting .300, and first baseman Lee May, who hit 20 homers and led with 99 RBI, were newcomers to the Orioles in 1975.

They are expected to carry a big portion of the offensive load again, along with left fielder Don Baylor, Grich, and possibly Tommy Harper and Al Bumbry from the designated hitter spot.

Baylor, starting his fifth full season with the Orioles, has some fielding deficiencies but at age 26 is on the verge of becoming a star. Last year, he hit a career high 25 homers and stole 32 bases.

Grich, 27, hit 260 last season as his home run total dipped from 19 to 13 and his RBI output from 82 to 57.

Harper was added after the Orioles released Tommy Davis, one of the league's better designated hitters the past two years. He can play on defense, too, something that Davis no longer can.

Offensively, the big questions revolve around the ability of Robinson and Blair to improve their batting marks and avoid being benched. Robinson will open at third but concedes he will be replaced by Doug DeCinces, 25, if he doesn't produce early.

DeCinces hit .251 and had 23 RBI on 167 times at bat last year, and says he will play out his option if Robinson is able to continue.

Cuellar, 14-12 in 1975, and Ross Grimsley, 10-13 following an 18-13 mark the year before, rank behind Palmer and Torrez as likely starters.

Doyle Alexander, Wayne Garland and Paul Mitchell are waiting in the wings, ready to step into the pitching rotation if needed. Lefty Grant Jackson and Dyar Miller, a right-hander, head the bullpen.

LION PASSERS

DETROIT (UPI) — Seven players threw passes last season for the Detroit Lions, including four quarterbacks, one running back, one wide receiver and one punter.

Despite the plethora of passers, Detroit scored just 14 touchdowns through the air during 1975.

Roanoke Trims West Edgecombe

ROCKY MOUNT—Charlie Smith had two hits, including a home run and Lee Smith had two to lead the Roanoke Redskins to a 9-3 victory over West Edgecombe Tuesday.

Charlie Smith's blast came in the third with two on breaking a 2-2 tie. The three runs gave the 'Skins all they needed for the win.

Roanoke started the scoring in the top of the second getting two. Charlie Smith walked and stole second. Greg Roberson walked and a single by Willie Spruill loaded the bases. Lee Smith singled brother Charlie and Roberson across.

West Edgecombe countered with two in its half of the frame. Jeff Eatman walked and stole. Earl Taylor singled and took second as Eatman scored. The ball got by Roanoke catcher Reid Bullock letting Taylor take third. Mike Chambers reached on an error scoring Taylor.

Eddie James and Bullock walked to open the third and Smith closed it with his shot to center.

West Edgecombe got its third run in the fifth as Edmondson scored on Hugh Wilkins' triple.

The Redskins were scheduled to play Williamston in Robersonville today.

Phillies Feel They Can Add To Celebration

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — All of major sports' All-Star games were scheduled for Philadelphia this Bicentennial year, so why not the National League playoffs and maybe even the World Series?

"Why not indeed," agrees Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies. Ozark has a team he believes capable of winning the National League East, the playoffs and the World Series.

The Phillies battled the Pittsburgh Pirates into the last week of the 1975 season before being eliminated from the East Division race. Ozark figures the additional year of experience for his club, especially the young pitchers, plus two off-season trades, should be enough to end the Pirates' domination of the division.

Phillies personnel director Paul Owens acquired 20-game winner Jim Kaat from the Chicago White Sox and right-hander Ron Reed from the St. Louis Cardinals without giving up a regular player. Reed won 13 games for Atlanta and St. Louis.

Along with Reed and Kaat, the Phillies have, as starters, Steve Carlton, a 15-game winner last year despite a sore elbow; Tommy Underwood, a 14-game winner as a rookie; Larry Christenson, who won 11 after being recalled from Toledo of the International League, and Jim Lonborg, who won eight before succumbing to an injured shoulder from which he has recovered.

The Phillies appear solid in the bullpen with Tug McGraw and Gene Garber, each with 14 saves in 1975, and Tom Hilgen-dorf, a tough long and short reliever. The fight for the 10th spot on the staff is among Ron Schueler, Wayne Twitchell and John Montague.

Ozark has an infield with power on each end and speed and basehit consistency in the middle. Mike Schmidt at third hit 38 home runs to lead the majors for the second straight year. And at first, Dick Allen, healthy and sharp, is banging the ball in the old Allen tape-measure style.

Shortstop Larry Bowa and second baseman Dave Cash produced 391 hits between them, each averaging .305, the first keystone combination to hit over .300 since 1948. Defensively the unit is among the league's best.

The outfield is led by Greg Luzinski, who topped the league with 120 RBI in 1975, hit an even .300 and had 34 homers. Garry Maddox, a Golden Glove winner, is in center field. Jay Johnstone (.329), Ollie Brown (.303) and the recently acquired Bobby Tolan are available in right field.

If the Phillies have a weakness, it would appear to be in the catching department. Bob Boone is an excellent receiver but hit only .246, and often was at odds with Ozark.

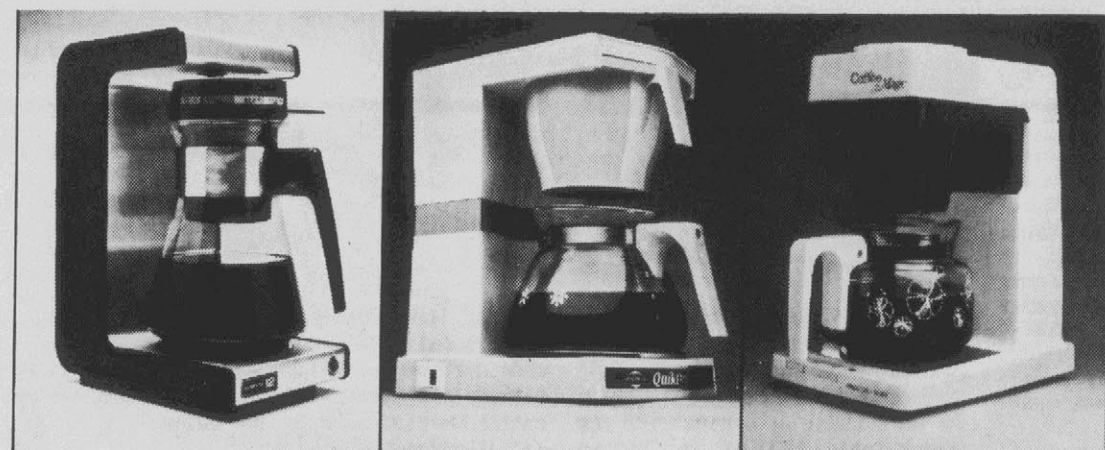

Johnny Oates hit .282, but is not rated highly as a receiver and handler of pitchers. Since the Phillies would appear to have an excess of pitchers, a trade for a catcher is not unlikely.

In the utility area, Ozark has Tim McCarver, a catcher-first baseman who is an excellent pinch-hitter from the left side; Tony Taylor, at age 40, still a solid right-handed pinch-batter; Tommy Hutton, a good fielding first baseman who also pinch hits well; Terry Harman, a good defensive replacement for any injured infielder, and outfielder Jerry Martin.

Player Could Be Man To Beat

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf is the defending champion but Gary Player could be the man to beat this week in the $230,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I've just been grinding at it," Player, the tough-minded little South African, said before a practice round on the 6,643 yards of rain-dampened, wooded, rolling hills that make up the par-71 Sedgefield Country Club course, site of the Thursday-through-Sunday chase for a $46,000 first prize.

Player, who has collected more than 100 international titles in a globe-trotting career that spans more than two decades, hasn't won in this country in almost two full years but has to rank high among the favorites in the 153-man field.

Player has finished in the top 20 in all six American starts this season, has been ninth or better four times and, at the Citrus, put together a blazing, 10-under-par 62, the best round of the season and the best of his career in the United States.

And, too, he has a history of playing quite well in this old event that, as usual, serves as the last warm-up for the prestigious Masters. He numbers a Greensboro victory among his 18 American triumphs and was in position to claim another one before he forgot to sign his scorecard and was disqualified after three rounds.

Weiskopf, Lee Trevino and Bruce Crampton could be among his chief opposition this year. Like Player, none has won and each has had a variety of problems.

Weiskopf has been erratic. He's missed the cut three times, withdrawn from another tournament but has been 15th or better in all the others, including a high of third.

Trevino also has a third-place finish to his credit and appears to have sorted out the putting problems that have bothered him most of the year.

Crampton, as usual, has had a steady but unspectacular season topped by a third-place finish.

Barber; U.S. Open champion Lou Graham, and the Sneads. San Diego Open winner J.C. and his uncle Sam, the 63-year-old living legend who has won this tournament a record eight times, the last in 1965. Among the missing are Hubert Green, Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin and Ben Crenshaw, all multiple winners this year; British Open king Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer. Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC-TV.

McAdoo Powers Braves By Celts

By The Associated Press
Let's meet the starting line-up for the Boston Celtics: At the forwards, John Havlicek and Steve Kuberski; at center, Dave Cowens; at the guards, Charlie Scott and Jo Jo White.

And now let's meet the finishing line-up for the Boston Celtics: At the forwards, Kuberski and Glenn McDonald; at center, Jim Ard; at the guards, Kevin Stacom and Jerome Anderson.

Neither contingent was what you expect the Boston Celtics to be as the Buffalo Braves rode the hot hand of Bob McAdoo to a 93-83 victory and moved into sole possession of second place in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division, one-half game ahead of idle Philadelphia.

In other action, the Phoenix Suns flattened the New York Knicks 113-97, the Cleveland Cavaliers downed the Houston Rockets 95-86, the Milwaukee Bucks shaded Atlanta 130-126 in overtime after the Hawks fired Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Portland Trail Blazers nipped the Kansas City Kings 114-113 and the Golden Ute Warriors topped the Chicago Bulls 94-84.

In the only American Basketball Association game, the Denver Nuggets trounced the Spirits of St. Louis 133-112. McAdoo hit his first four shots en route to a 29-point performance and got Buffalo off to a flying start against Boston. He finished with 13-for-24 shooting after connecting on five of six shots and scoring 12 points in the opening period, pacing Buffalo to a 25-16 lead. It was 49-40 at halftime and the Celtics, who have clinched the Atlantic Division crown, played most of the second half with their top five players — Havlicek, Cowens, Scott, White and Paul Silas — on the bench.

Stacom was high for the Celtics with 12 points, Scott had 11 and Silas 10, the only Boston players in double figures. Havlicek and Silas didn't play at all in the final period.

Suns 113, Knicks 97
Paul Westphal scored 29 points to lead surging Phoenix to its seventh consecutive victory while mathematically eliminating the Knicks from the playoffs for the first time since 1966. By winning, Phoenix gained sole possession of second place in the Pacific Division.

Cavaliers 95, Rockets 86
Campy Russell scored seven points to keep Cleveland alive in a slow-moving fourth quarter. The Cavaliers trail Washington by one game in the Central Division and need one more victory — or a loss by the Rockets — make the playoffs for the first time in their history.

Bucks 130, Hawks 126
Elmore Smith scored four of his 31 points in overtime as the Bucks beat Atlanta in Gene Tornohlen's first game as the Hawks' interim coach. Cotton Fitzsimmons was fired shortly before the game.

Trail Blazers 114, Kings 113
Sidney Wicks scored the last five of his game-high 34 points in the final two minutes to give Portland a sweep of the five-game series between the two teams, the first in their six-year history.

Warriors 94, Bulls 84
Rick Barry and Phil Smith led a fourth-quarter charge that enabled the Warriors to win their 55th game of the year.

Nuggets 133, Spirits 112
Reserve Gus Gerard and rookie David Thompson ignited a Denver surge in the final quarter as the Nuggets

Warriors 94, Bulls 84
Rick Barry and Phil Smith led a fourth-quarter charge that enabled the Warriors to win their 55th game of the year.

JOHNSON SCORES

HOUSTON (UPI) — Billy "White Shoes" Johnson of the Houston Oilers scored three touchdowns on punt returns last season — more than the other 12 AFC teams combined. Fred Solomon of Miami and Mike Fuller of San Diego were the only other AFC players to score touchdowns on punt returns.

Reds Feel Nolan Top Cy Young Candidate

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

If the New York Mets can't come to terms with 1975 Cy Young Award winner Tom Seaver, perhaps they can trade him to Cincinnati for 1976 Cy Young winner Gary Nolan.

What, you didn't know Nolan had won the '76 Young Award? Oh, it won't be announced officially until after the season; but pitching coach Larry Shepard of the Reds has set that as a goal for Nolan.

"Last year, I wanted Nolan to be Comeback Pitcher of the Year," Shepard said. But Seaver won that along with the Cy Young. "In my book he was. This year, my goal for him is the Cy Young Award."

Nolan's outing Tuesday didn't disappoint Shepard. The 28-year-old right-hander hurled three scoreless innings, allowing two hits and fanning three, as the Reds got home runs from Ken Griffey, Ed Armbrister and George Foster and trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 7-1.

Nolan, who missed the 1973 and 1974 seasons with shoulder problems, came back last year with a 15-9 record.

Luis Tiant, another former arm case who made it all the way back, allowed one run and four hits in five innings as the Boston Red Sox beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3.

Los Angeles lefty Tommy John, who hasn't pitched since 1974 when he ripped tendons in his elbow, wasn't discouraged when the Baltimore Orioles raked him for four runs and nine hits in six innings of the Dodgers' 13-8 victory.

"I feel fine," he said. "I'm pleased and confident. I threw effortlessly."

Elsewhere along the exhibition trail, Jerry Reuss fired six shutout innings as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Detroit Tigers 3-1. Seaver failed to come to contract terms and then was touched for three runs in five innings as the winless Mets bowed to the New York Yankees 6-4 in 10 innings.

Chris Arnold's 10th-inning triple and three successive walks enabled the San Francisco Giants to edge Oakland 10-9 despite two homers and five runs batted in by the A's Reggie Jackson, who boosted his spring average to .438.

George Scott homered in the Milwaukee Brewers' 4-2 triumph over the Cleveland Indians and California's Gary Ross, Dick Lange and Joe Pac-twa combined on a four-hitter as the Angels blanked the San Diego Padres 4-0.

Mike Hargrove's two-run triple led the Texas Rangers past the Atlanta Braves 4-1; rookie Chet Lemon's two-run pinch single in the ninth inning lifted the Chicago White Sox over the Kansas City Royals 3-2; Bill Campbell and Tom Burmeier allowed six hits and one earned run as the Minnesota Twins downed the Montreal Expos 5-3, but a split squad of Twins lost to Houston 6-3 when Greg Gross' two-run double highlighted a four-run third inning for the Astros against Dave Goltz.

Ken Frailing's one-hit pitching through five innings helped the Chicago Cubs turn back Arizona State University 5-1.

North Korea Unable To Meet International Debts

By BARRY J. SHLACHTER
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — North Korea has fallen $60 million behind in payments for Japanese imports, but businessmen here say there is little that can be done to collect from a sovereign nation without the funds to pay.

Tokyo bank to which North Korea owes millions of dollars said the North Korean international debt problem took a turn for the worse recently when it requested a two-year moratorium on paying roughly the equivalent of $280 million to Japanese banks and trading companies.

"We can collect from the (Japanese) government's export insurance program," said the banker, who asked to remain anonymous. "But then North Korea would be immediately blacklisted — ineligible for further coverage — and they would feel it was practically a declaration of war."

North Korea's troubles can be traced to 1973, when it went on a spree in the West, ordering expensive plant equipment to boost production in time for the 30th anniversary of its Communist party in 1975.

These were North Korea's first purchases outside the Communist bloc and the experience proved economic disaster for President Kim Il-sung's government in Pyongyang, the capital.

Unfamiliar with fluctuating capitalist markets, the North Koreans had intended to pay for the imported machinery with mineral exports to the West. Their calculations went awry when recession struck West Europe and Japan, forcing down the prices and demand for their exports, mainly zinc and copper ore.

Payments to West German, Swedish and Japanese banks began running late near the end of 1974, and it's been downhill for Pyongyang ever since.

One Japanese source said North Korean debts in West Europe are estimated at $400 million to $1 billion.

North Korea, with one of the most secretive societies in the world, refuses to supply its Western creditors with basic economic data so they can determine the North Koreans' ability to repay.

Sweden agreed last month to a two-year moratorium on the $45.7 million North Korea owes to Volvo and other Swedish companies. But at least one major Japanese bank has refused to follow suit.

An officer of the bank, who asked that its name be withheld because of possible repercussions from North Korea, said it had cabled North Korea's central bank that it would not go along with the postponement and cited lack of information on the North Korean economy as part of the reason.

North Korean payments still occasionally trickle in to selected Japanese firms, "so they must have some foreign currency reserves on hand," he said. "But until they let us know just how much, no one can expect us to accept their new set of terms, announced to us indirectly and without consultation."

Japan has been North Korea's biggest non-Communist trading partner, but the two countries have no diplomatic relations, making the payments problem a highly sensitive one in Tokyo.

Japanese government officials are urging restraint in pursuing the problem with North Korea amid efforts to keep what relations there are unruffled, sources said. A Foreign Ministry spokesman denied such "ministerial guidance."

The firms have no one to turn to but the private Japan-North Korea Trade Association, set up by Japanese trading companies, which sent an unsuccessful mission to Pyongyang last year trying to speed up payments.

Representatives of Italy, France, West Germany, Japan and Sweden met in Paris last fall to discuss the North Korean payment problem but no decision on how to deal with it was made, informed sources said.

North Korea's arrears surprised many Western banks which have had good experiences in the past making loans to Communist countries in East Europe.

Air Travel Bargains If Passenger Has The Time

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The price you pay to fly first class will increase between 4 per cent and 7.3 per cent on all domestic flights on April 1, but travelers who have more time than money still can find some airline bargains.

In addition to the first class rate increases, coach class fares may rise by 3 per cent on some routes, mostly in the South and Midwest.

But airlines still are offering a variety of discounts that can cut anywhere from 20 per cent — for late night flights — to 30 and 35 per cent off the cost of a coach seat ticket. To qualify for larger discounts, passengers must abide by certain restrictions, such as making reservations 14 days in advance.

The increase in first class fares is the second of three hikes ordered by the Civil Aeronautics Board two years ago after it decided the fares were not high enough to cover the actual costs of providing service. The third increase will go into effect next year.

The coach fare increase on some routes is expected to occur as airlines that did not raise fares earlier this year seek to catch up with airlines that did.

Most airlines raised fares 1 per cent on Feb. 1 and 2 per cent on March 1. But some financially stronger lines, including National, Delta and Northwest, did not ask the board for those increases, saying they would seek instead to raise fares by 3 per cent on April 1.

Coach fare hikes planned by those airlines must be approved by the CAB before it can be implemented. But no CAB opposition is expected since the board said earlier this year the hikes were justified.

The increases may be a forerunner of others. Eastern, United and Trans World Airlines say they will ask for another 2 per cent hike in coach and first class fares effective May 1.

The CAB-mandated fare hikes for first class travel are related to the distance flown and to the current coach fare with the largest increases coming on longer trips.

For example, the first class one-way fare from Washington, D.C., to Cleveland — a distance of 304 miles — will rise 4.8 per cent, from $59 to $62. Washington to Chicago one-way first class fares will rise from $91 to $97, or about 6 per cent, and Washington-Dallas one-way first class fares will rise from $147 to $158, or about 7 per cent.

First class fares across country on the Washington-San Francisco route will rise from $254 to $274, or about 7.3 per cent.

Most carriers expect the new hike to accelerate the recent decline in first class travel. But most say they doubt the first class increase will affect overall air travel, currently above projections because of discount fares and the generally improving economy.

Domestic airline traffic, measured in the number of total miles each passenger is flown, was about 12 per cent above last year's showing in January and 18 per cent higher in February than in February 1975, according to the Air Transport Association. This increase is welcome news for the airlines since the industry ended 1975 far in the red. The 10 trunk airlines and Pan American World Airways, which has only international routes, lost $104 million in 1975.

The upswing in air travel is attributed partly to the discount fares the airlines introduced in April 1975 in an effort to pull out of an economic tailspin. Those discounts can mean huge savings.

For example, the popular 30 per cent daylight excursion discount can cut $63 off the regular $210 cost of a round-trip coach flight from Washington to Dallas. Passengers willing to take a late night flight offered by many airlines can cut another 5 per cent off the price.

Airline advertising also has become more pointed in recent months.

TWA currently is running an advertising campaign naming competitors and uses CAB on-time figures in an effort to persuade customers TWA can get them to their destination on time more often than other carriers. Pan Am recently began advertising that stresses the fact that Pan Am is the only U.S. airline flying around the world.

The increase in first class fares may result in a further decline in the number of first class air passengers. That decline began several years ago and the reasons vary from cost-cutting by companies whose executives once went first class to CAB rate-making standards.

For example, American Airlines says first class revenue was 18 per cent of its total income in 1970 but only 12 per cent in 1975.

Most carriers began remodeling more than a year ago to cut the number of first class seats and increase the number of coach seats on most planes. Most of that remodeling will be finished by midsummer.

Precise figures are not available on the extent of the remodeling, but TWA said its current program would remove 296 first class seats and add 748 coach seats. United Airlines gave no figure on how many first class seats were being removed but said it was adding 2,500 coach seats. American said it was adding 1,575 coach seats.

Several carriers indicated reasons for reducing first class seats were related directly to the decline in demand. But George James, chief economist for the Air Transport Association, says he believes the CAB's rate-making procedures also have played a part.

"It's largely a rate-making reason," he said. When considering if a proposed rate hike is economically justified, the CAB already is looking at the airlines "as if we had less first class seating and higher density seating in coach," he said.

What the board does, James said, is to decide itself how many seats should be in each aircraft for the most efficient operation. This optimum seat number, rather than the actual number of seats, is then used by the board as a factor in the complicated formula it uses to decide if a proposed rate hike is really needed.

That means, he said, carriers offering fewer coach seats than the CAB says they should find it harder to show a need for a fare hike.

Adult Ballet Lessons Offered

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will begin a new session of adult ballet lessons starting Monday, April 5th. The instructor, Elizabeth Pope, is a former dancer with the Raleigh Civic Ballet Company and a dance teacher at Craven Community College. The continuing class will meet from 5:30 p.m. until 7:00 p.m. The beginning class will meet from 7:00 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. every Monday night at Elm Street Center. The cost is $18 for the eight week session. Interested persons are asked to meet at Elm Street Center at the appropriate time to register.

Recital Set For April 1
 Mendenhall Student Center Theatre will be the site of a concert by soprano Grace Lee Mims. Mrs. Mims will present a program entitled "Black Song—The Beauty of the Negro Spiritual." The concert, under the sponsorship of the Student Union Minority Arts Committee is scheduled for Thursday, at 8:00 p.m. There will be no admission charge.
 Mrs. Mims was born in Snow Hill, Alabama. She is a graduate of Hampton Institute, where she majored in English and minored in voice. She is soprano soloist at Cleveland's Fairmount Church.
 For several years she was a member of the Cleveland Orchestra Chorus and Chamber Chorus. She has appeared with the Lake Erie Opera Theatre and the Karamu Lyric Opera Theatre.
 Mrs. Mims is accompanied by her sister Consuela Lee Moorehead, pianist. Mrs. Moorehead is on the music faculty of Norfolk State College.

Charged In Knife Death

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A Marine captain has been charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of his wife.
 Capt. Paul B. Hugenberg Jr., 30, was arrested Tuesday night near where the body of his wife lay at the edge of a wooded area five miles south of Jacksonville.
 She was 28-year-old Linda M. Hugenberg, a nurse at Onslow Memorial Hospital. Her three children by a previous marriage were home asleep in Jacksonville.
 Deputy Bill Barnes gave this account:
 He was checking an isolated wooded area where a park is being built. He saw the captain getting into his car and asked him if everything was OK. Hugenberg said everything was all right, but on further questioning he blurted out that he had killed his wife.
 A bloodstained knife was found between the car and the body 50 feet away. Mrs. Hugenberg's clothes had been torn, and she had been stabbed.
 The captain is attached to the New River Marine Air Station on the outskirts of Jacksonville.

Bicentennial Show

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—A Bicentennial exhibition entitled "The Early Republic: Consolidation of Revolutionary Goals" is being shown through June 30 at the Worcester Art Museum.
 The show covers the period from the signing of the Declaration of Independence July 4, 1776, to July 4, 1826.

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes March 18 through March 24.

House
PRICE FIXING — Rejected, 150 for and 223 against, a motion to send back to committee, and thus kill, a bill (HR 8532) authorizing state attorneys general to file suits in federal court on behalf of citizens victimized by price fixing.

The bill later was passed and sent to the Senate. The Administration originally favored the bill but last minute objections by President Ford indicate he may veto any such measure that reaches his desk.

The bill is aimed at protecting consumers from price fixing which affects a large number of people but is difficult to remedy by means of individual law suits.

Those in favor of killing the bill, including the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and other business associations, said it would encourage ambitious attorneys general to clog the courts with nuisance suits and drive some companies into bankruptcy. Rep. Charles Wiggins (R-Calif.), sponsor of the motion, said, "We need a means of punishing the wrong-doer, but not for the phony purpose of distributing damages to consumers."

Those opposed to killing the bill said it would deter price fixing which now costs consumers an estimated $10 billion annually. Rep. Peter Rodino (D-N.J.) said, "Every day millions of consumers are robbed of nickels and dimes they never know about. . . we should be prepared to provide a realistic deterrent to 'such common business practices' . . ."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Charles Rose (D-7) voted "nay."

Reps. W. G. Hefner (D-8) and James Martin (R-9) did not vote.

DC REPRESENTATION — Rejected, 229 for and 181 against, a proposed Constitutional amendment giving the District of Columbia at least one full-fledged Member of Congress. Supporters fell short of the two-thirds majority required for passage of Constitutional amendments.

D. C.'s congressional representation is now limited to one non-voting delegate. This measure provided for one D. C. House member with full privileges, and authorized the addition of senators and one or more House members in later years. This was the first House vote in 150 years on the issue of D. C. voting representation in Congress.

Supporters argued that residents of the District are being denied full rights of citizenship and are subjected to "taxation without representation." Walter Fauntroy, the D. C. delegate to Congress said "there is no justification" for denying voting representation to "three quarters of a million people who bear all the responsibilities of citizenship."

Opponents said that the District is not a state and thus does not qualify for representation under the Constitution. Rep. Glenn Anderson (D-Calif.) said, "Any compromise which shuns the statehood requirement would establish a precedent for any territory of the United States . . . to demand representation."

Andrews, Neal and Rose voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Preyer, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

LEGAL SERVICES — Passed, 256 for and 143 against, a bill (HR 10799) greatly expanding the resources which federal legal aid lawyers can utilize in representing the poor. The legislation, sent to the Senate, removes a ban against the Legal Services Corporation using private paralegals and other community resources. The ban was enacted in 1974 on the urging of congressman who disliked the anti-government zeal of such private support services.

One supporter, Rep. Herman Badillo (D-New York), said the 1974 law "went too far" in restricting federal poverty lawyers and that this legislation will enable the Legal Services Corporation "to carry out the will of Congress in effectively representing poor clients."

One opponent, Rep. Edward Hutchinson (R-Mich.), argued against a return to pre-1974 days, when community legal resources "were used to fight the establishment, operate advocacy movements for workers against employers and lobby for social reform all at the expense of the taxpayer."

Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

Senate

DETENTE — Moved, 54 for and 31 against, to send to committee — and thus defer action on — a resolution expressing Senate support for the Administration's policy of detente with the Soviet Union. Those voting against are supporters of detente, and their resolution sought to protect the policy against increasing presidential campaign criticism.

Most supporters of the motion to defer action dislike detente with the Soviet Union as it is currently practiced. "I hope the United States is not lulled to sleep in our relationships with the Soviet Union," said Sen. Clifford Hansen (R-Wyo.). "The fact remains that they believe that all governments will succumb to Communist ideology."

Opponents of the motion said the resolution is necessary to keep detente from being over-politicized. Sen. Gary Hart (D-Col.) called the resolution "a straightforward declaration of the U. S. intent to seek, in good faith, every opportunity to lessen international tension while we remain unchallengeably strong militarily."

Sens. Robert Morgan (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "yes."

HONORARIUMS — Defeated, 57 for and 31 against, a move to continue limits of $15,000 annually and $1,000 per appearance on the speaking fees that federal employees can receive to supplement their salaries. The ceiling applies to Members of Congress as well as to officials of the executive and judicial branches.

The limitation was enacted in 1974 as part of the law creating the Federal Election Commission (FEC). In its current rewriting of that law to satisfy U. S. Supreme Court objections to the FEC makeup, the Senate eliminated the ceilings on outside earnings.

With the 57-31 vote which occurred during consideration of S 3065, later passed and sent to the House, the Senate tabled and thus killed an amendment to reinstate the limitations. If the Senate's will prevails, there will be no limit on honorariums.

One supporter of the move to table, Sen. Robert Packwood (R-Ore.), said it is enough for congressmen to have to "answer to our voters" on the subject of speaking fees.

Sen. James Allen (D-Ala.) warned that honorariums can pose conflicts-of-interest for senators, because the speaking fees are usually paid by "groups that have an interest in legislation that might come before Congress. . ."

Helms and Morgan voted "nay."

HA925Y
 THIS CONTEMPORARY BI-LEVEL HAS AN entrance hall that features a diagonal stair system and triangular planters as well as a large coat closet at the front door. In addition, a "cathedral" ceiling which extends beyond into the living and dining rooms gives added height to the interior. There are four bedrooms and two bathrooms on the upper level, and a twin lavatory arrangement for the hall bath is used because the occupants of three of the bedrooms will use it. Plan HA925Y has 1,669 square feet on the upper level, 972 on the lower level, and 521 in the garage area. Herman York and Raymond Schenke, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y., 11432, designed this plan and anyone wishing to ask questions can write to them, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Set Seminar On Planning For Eastern N.C.

"Planning for the Future of Eastern North Carolina: Potentials and Problems," a day-long seminar for professionals and interested citizens, will be offered by East Carolina University Friday, April 30.

The seminar is sponsored by the ECU Student Planning Association, the Urban and Regional Planning Program of the ECU Department of Geography and the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Coordinators are Martha Morrow, secretary of the ECU Student Planning Association; Wesley Hankins, associate professor of urban and regional planning at ECU; and Richard Morin of the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Three panel discussions will be featured: "The Coastal Area Management Act," moderated by Dr. Richard Stephenson of the ECU geography faculty, with David Stick of the Coastal Resources Commission; Milton Heath, assistant director of the UNC-Chapel Hill Institute of Government; and Tom Richter, chief planner for the N. C. Dept. of Natural and Economic Resources.

"Large Scale Development," moderated by Ronald Swager of the ECU geography faculty, with Doug Mercer of Texasgulf, Inc; Quentin Bell of First Colony Farms, Inc. and a representative from Weyerhaeuser Co., Inc.

"The Future of Small Towns," moderated by Alicia Petersen, visiting professor in the ECU urban and regional planning program, with Steve Pratt, urban designer for the state Planning Office; Gordon Cavanaugh, director of the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development's Housing

SPECK RHODES is striking out on his own after singer Porter Wagoner disbanded his road show. (AP Wirephoto)

Baggy Pants 'Transform' Speck Rhodes

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Speck Rhodes, the tooth-shy, flamboyant, slapstick country comic on the Porter Wagoner television show, is a gentle, sentimental family man easily moved to tears.
"If you've got a sad story, I'll cry with you," Rhodes said, belying the happy-go-lucky stage character he has portrayed on Porter's syndicated show since 1960.
"A lot of people have come to me with sad tales, and we've cried together," said Rhodes. "At funerals, I get all tore up. Actually, I'm a sentimental, tender-hearted old man."
Rhodes, quiet and dignified off stage, is currently embarking on a new career. Because Wagoner disbanded his road show early this year, the 60-year-old entertainer is striking out on his own with his four missing front teeth and garish checked suits.
"We had talked about cutting back, but I was a bit surprised," Rhodes said. "He has a record company and a publishing company and does producing. He got so busy the road got to be too time consuming."
Rhodes said he will still be a regular on Wagoner's television show. "I love to work with Porter. He's a good showman and the greatest straight-man and emcee in our time. He knows how to pull a joke he's never heard. His timing is perfection."
Although he believes he was born with the talent to be funny, Rhodes said he goes through a personality change when he puts on his outfits.
"When I go to the dressing room and put on makeup and a checkered suit, I start changin'. I go from a family man to this character. I've developed the idea that when I change, I turn into Howdy Doody."
"When I was a kid, everybody picked on me because I was red-haired and freckle-faced. When I got kidded, I started laughin' about it instead of going off and crying. I think that showed something about being able to be funny."
Rhodes had his four front teeth pulled in 1946 to help his act. In private life, he wears a partial plate.
In his 43-year career, he did the first Duncan Hines cake mix television commercial, performed for Henry Ford Sr. during a luncheon and turned down an offer by George S. Kaufman in 1944 to appear in a Broadway play.
With four children of his own, he takes pride in keeping his material family-oriented.
"Dirty jokes? I couldn't tell you five."

Teen Spending Increasing

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. teen-agers spent more than $25.3 billion in 1975, a $600 million increase over the previous year, according to Rand Youth Poll. The market and opinion research firm said previous spending increases have been attributable to population growth, but last year's record level was the result of inflation and psychological reasons. "Products which were considered luxuries a few years ago are now deemed necessities by youths and parents alike," the firm says.

Town Finds Prosperity In Dog Track

PLAINFIELD, Conn. (AP) — This city has gone to the dogs, and most people seem happy about it.

The dogs are greyhounds, but some people say they should be called "gold"-hounds.

Night after night, the dogs burst from the starting gate to chase a mechanical rabbit. They never catch it, but the dogs have fulfilled the quests of politicians, business people and gamblers, all trying to hit the jackpot. The town will never really be the same.

Although opposition lingers, many people in Plainfield are thrilled with what the state's only dog racing track has done for the small eastern Connecticut town since it opened Jan. 2.

"Better than $1,000 a night" for the town's coffers, says First Selectman Richard Mercier. "That's what the track has done for Plainfield."

The town also receives $135,000 in property taxes from the track, which employs 586 persons, nearly half from Plainfield. The town's unemployment rate has dropped from 25 per cent a year ago to 17.7 per cent.

About $1 million a month goes to the state from the track's handle, the amount of money bet. That has averaged $418,000 daily since the track opened, surpassing the track owners' projections.

Mercier says, "I'm not a personal enthusiast. I'm not a gambler by nature. I just like the money coming in."

He says the track isn't forcing town expenses up. "Dogs don't send kids to school," the town's top official adds.

While many gamblers go home without picking a winner, there are those that strike it rich, such as David Boisse.

The unemployed father of two bet $3 last month in the Superfecta, the last race of the night, in which he picked the first four dogs in order of finish. That small wager brought him $16,000.

"I've owed people ever since I've been married 13 years ago, but no more," he says.

Lester Bodo doesn't need such bonanzas to make his night.

"I'm happy to go home with what I brought, not like the younger fellows in town," says Bodo, who runs the local American Legion Club. "They have a few dollars in their pockets and they think they're going to make a million. They're looking for that pot of gold in the sky, but it's not there."

Hank Griffin lives near the track and goes there on the six nights a week it is open. He says he bets $300 to $500 a night and usually goes home a winner. He says he's ahead about $2,800 so far.

Residents say there wasn't much to do in Plainfield before the track opened and that now the dogs dominate conversations.

A local businessman says dogs have replaced politicians as the main topic of conversation in Plainfield — "It's the excitement of it, not the gambling. It's a new type of entertainment, something else to do in town."

Computers For Home Builders

YORK, Pa. (UPI) — Computers have been put to work to help builders determine the cost of heating and cooling the new homes they build. A computer program developed by the York Division of Borg-Warner Corp. can evaluate the energy costs of a new home depending on such factors as the type of air-conditioning and heating and the use of insulation, giving the builder a comparison on the initial cost of each option and the estimated energy savings. Builders provide York dealers with information on individual houses, which is then analyzed with the computer.

Need 11 Months For Paint Job

NEW YORK (UPI) — It takes nearly 70,000 gallons of paint to cover the 13,700 foot-length and two 690-foot towers of the Verrazano Bridge, the world's largest suspension span, which dominates the entrance to New York Harbor.

Eleven months are needed for a complete re-painting, reports Grow Chemical Company, with some 80 painters working full time to alleviate the corrosion brought about by salt spray and fog as well as other corrosives found in a marine environment.

Warrenton Homes Tour

WARRENTON — A homes tour will be held here Sunday, Apr. 4, from 2 to 5 p.m. Homes to be included on the tour are those of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. White III, built in 1849, the Blount-Norwood home, an early 19th century cottage; the Wilson-Williams-Davis home, an example of Greek Revival architecture; the Peter Davis Store, said to be Warrenton's earliest store building; and the Warrenton Depot, recently remodeled as the Warrenton Woman's Club building. Area artists will be demonstrating everything from lacemaking to classical guitar at the various stops. A Brunswick stew luncheon at the Lions Den will be held from noon to 2 p.m. Bicentennial displays will be set up at the Fair building and a bake sale also will be held there. Tickets for the lunch and the tour may be ordered in advance by writing the Warren County Bicentennial, 125 Brehon Street, Warrenton, N. C. 27589. Richard Hunter, husband of the former Mary Lang of Farmville, is chairman of the Warren County Bicentennial Committee sponsoring the events.

Oral Cancer To Reach 24,000

HOUSTON (UPI) — Doctors estimate 24,000 Americans will get oral cancer this year and about 8,000 will die from it. Researchers say a person can detect early stages himself simply by looking carefully into his own mouth and examining for white scaly patches, any swelling or lump, with or without pain, any sore that does not heal promptly, numbness or tingling, repeated bleeding, or any loosening of teeth with no apparent cause. People who wear dentures should also make careful checks, dental hygienists say.
