

Firefighters Reinforced

By MICHAEL J. HALL
Associated Press Writer

While state forest fire fighters were lending their aid to the fight against a giant blaze in South Carolina, federal forest officials were calling in reinforcements from Arkansas to battle new outbreaks in North Carolina national forests.

Late Monday the U.S. Forest Service reported new outbreaks in a fire that had believed to have been under control in the Nantahala National Forest on the North Carolina-South Carolina border.

"But our big problem is outside Asheville because of fires set by arsonists in the Big Ivy section of the Pisgah National Forest," said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Jeff Carroll.

He said firefighters from the Ouichita National Forest in Arkansas will arrive in Asheville this morning to help relieve exhausted crews who've battled fires across the state without relief for the past week.

The rash of fires and flareups have been fanned by high winds and extremely dry conditions throughout the state. And National Weather Service forecasts for the next few days make any change in the dry weather unlikely.

Both state and federal forest officials continued to warn of the extreme danger of new fires. During the past week fires have been reported in patches from the east coast to the western mountains 400 miles away.

All outdoor burning permits in the state remain cancelled.

Carroll said he was unable to estimate how many acres have been consumed in the new outbreaks, but earlier Monday he said at least 550 acres of national forest land had been blackened in several fires.

Late Monday Carroll reported that a stubborn fire in the Kings Mountain section of the Uwharrie National Forest south of Asheboro in Randolph County had finally been brought under control after burning almost 400 acres of pines.

Syria Said Ready for Invasion Of Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt accused Syria today of preparing a large-scale invasion of Lebanon and called for foreign help to prevent it.

Jumblatt met with diplomats of the United States, France and the Soviet Union after President Hafez Assad threatened more Syrian military intervention in Lebanon, and Egypt warned the Syrians to leave Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization alone.

"Troubling signs confirm that the Syrian army that crossed the border is strengthening its numbers and is on the way to occupying essential communications networks for a large-scale invasion of Lebanon," Jumblatt said in a telegram to Arab League headquarters in Cairo and Arab chiefs of state.

In Washington, a spokesman for the State Department declined comment on Jumblatt's charge.

In a warning apparently addressed to Jumblatt, Assad told a political rally in Damascus Monday that he was "prepared to move into Lebanon to protect any victim of aggression."

"We have complete freedom of movement. We have the capability to take any position we want," Assad said.

Jumblatt, whose military drive for complete victory over the right-wing Christians was checked by another Syrian threat of intervention 11 days ago, claims that up to 6,000 Syrian troops already are in Lebanon along with 7,000 Palestinian guerrillas of the Saiga organization, which Syria finances and controls.

Syrian troops and tanks inside Lebanon control the three main paved highways from Syria and are blocking arms shipments to Jumblatt. The Saiga guerrillas control the Beirut international airport, two of the three main ports and several key positions within Beirut.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported that Arafat had messaged Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that he feared the Saiga men would try to wipe out his PLO guerrillas, many of whom fought alongside Jumblatt's leftists.

Egypt responded with a warning that it will not allow any action that could lead to the liquidation of the PLO. The Egyptian news agency said Sadat, who returns to Cairo today from a tour of Western Europe, called a meeting of his National Security Council Thursday.

Relations between Egypt and Syria have been strained since Sadat signed another Sinai disengagement pact with Israel last fall without getting back any of Syria's Golan Heights territory from Israel.

Libyan President Moammar Khadafi said Monday his government also "rejects any foreign intervention in Lebanon." He promised unlimited aid to "the nationalist forces," apparently referring to the leftist Moslems.

Assad is trying to prevent a final leftist victory that would make Lebanon a Moslem Socialist country. He has been urging a political settlement with a 50-50 division of power between the Moslems and Christians, apparently because he wants the restoration of the prewar capitalist economy from which Syria benefited indirectly.

Today was the first anniversary of the Lebanese war.

Qualifies As Bidder On Disposal Parcel Owned By Redevelopment Body

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Redevelopment Commission last night qualified Ernest Adams of Greenville as a bidder on a disposal parcel owned by the Commission in the Southside Renewal Area.

Adams, who operates Adams Grocery & Market, qualified to submit a bid on Disposal Parcel J-2, located west of Pitt Street on Howell Street.

The 6,000 square foot parcel will be utilized by Adams, if he is the successful bidder, for either the construction of a house or to move a structure to the site.

Commissioners also accepted the bid submitted by Seaboard Coast Line Railroad Co. as the low offer on Parcel I-1, located on the south side of the Seaboard railway between Norfolk Southern Railroad and Pitt Street. Bid opening of the sale of the parcel was held Monday, according to Real Estate Officer Kirby Boyd, and Seaboard Coast Line submitted the only bid.

Boyd said that Seaboard offered the minimum bid of $12,459.33 for the 95,841 square foot tract. Seaboard qualified last month as a bidder on the parcel and indicated then that it would use the land to construct an interconnector rail between Seaboard and Norfolk Southern lines.

The real estate officer reported that no demolition or acquisition took place in the Central Business District project area since the March meeting while one acquisition and one demolition was handled in the Southside area.

Two relocations were handled in CBD, according to assistant CBD project manager Dan Sullivan, involving Durham Life Insurance Co. from the Pollard Building Third and Cotanche and a tenant from a house in the project area.

Faye Brewington, Southside project manager, told the board that one relocation involving a tenant took place in the project area since the last meeting. She said the tenant moved to a public housing site.

Everything is complete concerning the Evans Mall with the exception of a minor lighting change that will be made, it was reported by CBD project manager T. I. Wagner. He pointed out that the long awaited fire equipment finally arrived and has been installed and tested.

The site office in Southside was occupied on March 22 following rehabilitation of the structure, according to Ed Cobb, Commission rehabilitation officer.

Cobb noted that bids are awarded on two properties in the West Meadowbrook area and the two structures are currently undergoing rehabilitation.

Six parcels were inspected in the Southside area, Cobb said, and were found to be in worse condition than had been anticipated earlier. He said that since the structures are not suitable for rehabilitation from an economical standpoint, it was recommended that their status be changed from not-to-be-acquired to scheduled-for-acquisition by the Commission. Commissioners approved the change in acquisition status for the parcels located at 1715 S. Pitt, 507 Perkins, 1606 Railroad, 909 Howell, 608 Howell, and 1808 Greene Street. Persons living in those structures will receive relocation assistance after their homes are purchased.

A budget change to cover expenditures involved in having engineering work in the Southside area done was approved by the board members. Joe Laney, executive director, explained that the city had planned to handle all of the engineering work but since the Tobacco Mart?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today that it will hold a hearing next month to determine whether a new official tobacco market needs to be designated for Richlands, N.C.

James W. York, director of the tobacco division in USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the hearing will be held May 4 at the Richlands Elementary School. The hearing was scheduled in response to requests for tobacco inspection and price support services at auction sales of flue cured tobacco in the area.

Final Sentence Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Patricia Hearst, her final sentencing for armed bank robbery delayed, prepared today for a 90-day psychiatric evaluation that could be crucial in her bid for freedom.

Authorities plan to take Miss Hearst from the jail cell that has been her home for seven months and fly her to Los Angeles Wednesday for a pretrial hearing on state charges of kidnap, robbery and assault. The charges stem from a crime spree there a month after the San Francisco bank holdup of which she was convicted.

After what is expected to be a brief court session, she will move on to the Metropolitan Correctional Center at San Diego where she will undergo lengthy court-ordered psychiatric examination.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, at the request of defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, ordered the additional testing Monday.

As a formality, he sentenced the newspaper heiress to the maximum 35 years in prison — 25 years for armed bank robbery and 10 years for use of a firearm in a felony — to meet the requirements of the law allowing the extended psychiatric examinations.

But Carter made clear that he would reduce the sentence after the final reports on Miss Hearst's San Diego examination are submitted.

Race Postponed

The North Carolina Travel Council announced today that the United States World Bicycle Race Scheduled for June 11-20 has been postponed until June 1977.

The race had been scheduled to stop in Greenville June 19 and the Greenville City Council had already voted to contribute $2,000 to the local Race reception committee.

Travel Council President William A. V. Cecil said unavoidable delays in planning for the event for 1976 made the postponement necessary.

He said all local funds will be returned immediately in full to communities which had committed financial support.

Local chairman of the Greenville Race Reception Committee, Don Collier, was unavailable at press time for a comment about the postponement of the race.

TOONICE

Students now are making a habit of parking in my neighborhood, well over a mile from the East Carolina campus, pulling their bikes off the racks or out of their back seats, and riding in to class. One even leaves his car here for a week at a time. I'm the kind of guy who doesn't like to cause trouble for anyone, and I feel sorry for them because there's not enough parking on campus. Why can't the football spectator parking area be used during the day for additional student parking? L.B.

Cliff Moore, Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs, said the parking lot you're talking about is used for softball and other game fields during the days. He said you're being too nice, that the University has leased land around campus, including the area off Reide Street, cleared lots on Eighth and Ninth Streets, and land on 14th Street for student parking. Your guy is probably trying to save himself the cost of a $5 parking sticker which would enable him to park in any student parking area for as long as he would enable him to park in any student parking area for as long as he would like. If you don't want to have his car towed, however, he suggested you at least leave him a note telling him you're aware that he has other places to park, and that you may have to have his car towed if he continues to park in front of your house.

Two Meetings Held For Pitt Republicans

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County's Republicans attended two official meetings and heard from a gubernatorial candidate last night.

The county convention, scheduled for last night at the Pitt County Courthouse, was preceded by individual precinct meetings, which were also held at the Courthouse.

Precinct representatives chose officers at the precinct meetings, which were held simultaneously in different areas of the District Courtroom.

Following the 15-minute precinct sessions, the Republican group met in full for the county convention.

The purpose of the convention was to choose delegates to represent the Pitt County Republican Party at the district and state Republican conventions. By Party guidelines, the county Republicans are eligible to send 44 delegates and 44 alternates to each convention. It was decided last night to give each of the 88 persons from Pitt County attending the conventions equal voting strength so that alternates will have the same vote as delegates, county GOP chairman Mack Howard announced.

To speed the selection process, Dr. Tom Herndon proposed that the members vote just on delegates to send to the state convention and let those persons be automatically approved to attend the county convention. This motion passed and each person in attendance was asked to sign a list if he will be able to attend the state convention to be held in Greensboro this June.

Since 80 persons signed this list and a possible 88 can attend the state convention, the full list of 80 persons was approved with one vote on a motion by Jimmy Lee.

Following the choosing of candidates to the district and state conventions, gubernatorial candidate David T. Flaherty spoke to the group. He stressed his background in business and government he was an executive with Broyhill Furniture Industries before taking the post of state secretary of the Department of Human Resources in 1973 as his assets in the campaign.

In a question and answer period, Flaherty said he supports the ECU Medical School and has urged those in the western part of the state to stop fighting it. He also said that, if elected, he will work to get a new highway system to the eastern part of the state.

$2 Bill Distribution Begins

MAKING A COMEBACK—When receiving change or cashing a check today, one might check his change. An old friend has returned to occupy one's wallet—the $2 bill. The federal government introduced once again the $2 bill in commemoration of Thomas Jefferson's birthday. It is estimated by the end of the year

Flaherty Campaigning In The Greenville Area

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Dave Flaherty, Secretary of the Department of Human Resources in Republican Gov. James Holshouser's administration, was in Greenville this morning campaigning for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Flaherty spent his time here on the campus of East Carolina University — where his daughter is a sophomore — talking with students, and at the Burroughs-Wellcome Co. and Procter and Gamble Co. plants meeting workers.

He was scheduled to be at Lenoir Community College in Kinston later, then in Goldsboro and in Raleigh, before going to Vance County and Durham tomorrow and to the Burlington, Greensboro, Winston-Salem area later this week.

The gubernatorial hopeful cited crime control, improvements in the educational system, the high cost of utilities and energy and increasing the per capita income of North Carolina residents as the major issues of the campaign.

Flaherty said in his opinion the question of the medical school at ECU is no longer an issue. "I voted for the first effort supported the medical school," he said, when a member of the General Assembly.

"I don't think that it's an issue anymore. The Legislature made the decision. . . appropriated the money. As far as I'm concerned, it's a reality. . . there's nothing more to discuss on it. . . although some people are still trying to

Covered-Dish Supper Held By Junior Women

A covered-dish supper, sponsored by the International Affairs Department, highlighted the meeting of the Junior Women's Club of Greenville Wednesday night.

Special guests attending were Margaret Atkinson, District 15 junior director, and the Outstanding District Clubwoman and Windsor Club President, Della Cherry.

Guest speaker was David Sencindiver, who was introduced by Sue Likosar, International Affairs chairperson. Recently retired, Sencindiver spoke on the Voice of America.

Mrs. Sylvia DeRosset, regional coordinator for the N.C. Council on the Status of Women, gave a description of the purposes and advantages of the council.

Thirteen new club women were installed by President Karen Collier, and Pat Harris, membership chairperson, including Margaret Barnhill, Maggie Brown, Nicki Brown, Paula Brown, Sara Dunn, Carol Edwards, Connie Follmer, Mary Lehman, Lou McNamee, Jane Moore, Donna Pritchett, Jo Schlick and Barbara Wardrop.

Mrs. Shelley Basnight, ways and means chairperson, announced that the tickets for the spring dance May 22 are now available from club members.

Guests attending the meeting were Mary Carraway, Judy Melton, Gail McClung, Vicki Waggoner, Mary Votcky and Carol Maxon.

Nancy Gustafson, Charlene Hollowell and Pat Harris were hostesses for the meeting.

Blue Jeans Make It In Britain

By JOHN JONES

LONDON (UPI) — Ten years ago someone had the bright idea of bringing blue jeans over from the United States — and they took Britain by storm.

Now they're the standard uniform of the nation's teenagers. Even middle-aged Britons are joining the trend, adding to a sales curve that shows no sign of a dip.

With hamburgers, multicolored ice creams and canned beer, blue jeans are another part of American culture to make it big in Britain.

The signs of success are apparent everywhere.

Anyone sitting in a London subway train is faced with rows of tightly stretched blue unisex knees. Prosperous looking models skip and leap zestfully through the pages of English Vogue clad in the ubiquitous blue trousers.

Jeans of all sorts, French-cut and bell-bottomed, flared and parallel, fastened with buckles and belts and zips and rivets, fill the teen-age fashion stores of London's Oxford Street.

The indigo-dyed trousers have neatly sidestepped the battle of the hemlines and survived the whims of fashion.

In the early days, blue jeans were synonymous with protest on college campuses all over the United States and Europe. Then swarming London discovered them and they were adopted by the radical chic as visual symbols of class and sex equality.

Now they find a place of their own in the new age of austerity in the 70s — for those with more dash than cash.

Clothing manufacturers are directing their marketing campaigns at two generations of jean wearers.

"The first generation has grown up," said textile sales director Robin Dilley, "but they are reluctant to throw away their jeans."

"The college kids of the 1960s have become dads and moms, but they still cling to their jeans and nostalgic memories of youth."

So manufacturers are stretching their waistlines to keep up with expanding profits and cope with middle-age spread.

"Waist sizes have already been expanded to 40 inches and this year will be tailored in size 42," Dilley said.

"National advertising is being aimed at 35-year-olds as well as teen-agers."

British sales of one leading manufacturer, Blue Bell Apparel, have averaged a 30 percent increase annually in the past eight years.

Last month, the company announced it was opening its third factory in Scotland and expanding warehousing facilities to cope with demand. Other factories in Spain, Belgium and Malta pour out jeans by the tens of thousands.

Factories are being developed in west Africa to supply blue jeans to the Western world and manufacturers are scouring the globe for fresh supplies of the distinctive indigo dye for denim cloth.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

When we left a party at the Ellstons the other night, I said to my husband, "Do you know why Frank and Lily have such successful parties?"

He shook his head. "They have a Conversation Pit."

"What's a Conversation Pit?" he asked.

"You know. That little sunken area where there's nothing but chairs and benches and squashy pillows on the floor. The one you fell into and wrenched your ankle."

"Oh, THAT pit. I almost killed myself."

"You should be glad it happened. Gave you something to talk about."

"What ever happened to the old chairs against the wall where you could drop out of sight for a few deep breaths?"

"Pits are in," I said flatly. "You walk down those few steps and right away you know what you're there for. There's no TV to distract you. . . no books to thumb through. . . just mouth-to-mouth combat."

"It reminds me of the Colosseum on a Sunday afternoon," he said. "I've never seen so many sworded tongues in my entire life. You could get talked to death!"

"What a thing to say," I said. "I mean it. First Buffy said to Barfy, 'I love that dress. You're so clever. I should never have given mine to the Salvation Army, but I never thought they'd come back.'"

Then Wheezie said to Whoozie, "Did you hear that Wendy is getting married again? Of course he's into tennis, darling, but here's the kicker. He isn't even seeded."

"I drifted into a verbal assault where Keeky and Cookie were discussing the ERA. 'I don't know why you're so worried about uni-restrooms,' said Cookie. 'You wandered into the men's shower at the club once and no one even noticed you.'"

"In a corner were Marlo and Margo discussing the canapes. 'I swear you have to have a prescription to get these things. Look at them,' she said tossing one into the fireplace. 'It won't even burn.' That's when Twinkie said, 'I like them. At least Lily tries new things. I admire that!'"

"That's just woman's talk," I said. "I don't see any comparison between the bloody battles in the Colosseum and a Conversation Pit. Incidentally, what was the final score?"

Easter Baskets Prepared By Auxiliary

The Auxiliary to the American Postal Workers Union met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Judy Stancill. Easter baskets were made for distribution through the Department of Social Services for foster children in the county.

Plans were finalized for a hot dog sale which will be held at Harris Super Market parking lot, Memorial Drive, Saturday, May 1, from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Volunteers for the sale are Sybil Hardee, Judy and Ruel Stancill, Sarah and Ernie Tetterton, Pat Wingate and Wanda and David Wiseman. Proceeds from the sale will go to help support the North Carolina Zoo, Asheboro.

Mrs. Wiseman, president, reported on the State Auxiliary's Spring Conference held in Salisbury in March. Mrs. Sarah Tetterton was named vice president of the local auxiliary.

Members decided to write letters to their congressman and senators concerning pending postal legislation.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wiseman.

Film Shown At BPW Club Meet Thursday

A film was shown to the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday by Art Gayla, personnel director of Procter and Gamble, Greenville.

Clara Carr, chairman of the program, "International Women's Year and Equality," introduced Gayla, a native of New Jersey.

The film was titled "We are Women" and presented attitudes toward working women. Gayla, who has worked for Procter and Gamble in New York and Georgia, compared the preparations and expectations of working women here with those of women in other places.

Lucille Moore, president of the club, presided at the meeting. New officers for 1976-77 club year were elected and will be installed at the May meeting.

Ruth Scott was elected president; Nat Grady, first vice president; Annie Turner, second vice president; Stella Dunbar, recording secretary; Rebecca Eure, treasurer, and Dorothy Harmon, corresponding secretary. Plans were made for the installation of new club members to be held at the May meeting.

The recipient of the annual scholarship given by the club is a sophomore accounting major at East Carolina University, Donna Compton.

Several members of the club plan to attend the District X meeting in Roanoke Rapids at which Greenville's Young Careerist, Linda Asbell will compete to represent the district at the state convention.

The Greenville Club, which has several members from the county, voted to support efforts to establish a Pitt County Council on the Status of Women.

Gal Mixes Up Computer Date With Dogcatcher

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: With regard to finding partners through advertising and computer matching, I admit to being a loser, but the experience was so amusing, it was worth it.

I was preparing lunch for a gentleman who had been "matched" with me by a computer dating service, when I noticed a nice-looking man standing in front of my house, apparently looking for the house number. I went outside and eagerly greeted him with: "Oh, I've been waiting for you!"

The man quietly replied, "Madame, I don't know why. I'm the dog catcher, looking for dogs."

I went back into the house and laughed so hard and for so long that I completely forgot the chicken I had been broiling! When the right man arrived and I served him the burned broiled chicken, he insisted he liked burned chicken, but he never came back.

Incidentally, I'm 52, still single and have more friends than ever.

HAPPY AND BUSY IN L.A.

DEAR HAPPY: Right! Any man "looking for dogs" certainly wasn't looking for YOU!

DEAR ABBY: We are two 21-year-old girls who date men regularly, but we have one small problem. We work in the Chicago loop and would like to meet some young policemen. We are looking for a more mature, responsible type of man, which are the qualities we feel policemen possess.

How should we approach them?
INTERESTED IN CHICAGO

DEAR INTERESTED: You should "approach" policemen as you would any man—carefully. Why not buy tickets to the next policemen's ball and try your luck in a relaxed social setting?

DEAR ABBY: I am 20, am happily married and have a 2-year-old daughter. Sounds terrific? It is!

Now for my problem: I was pregnant when I got married. My husband was my first and only, and it wasn't just a casual thing. We were in love and planning to get married when I got that way.

I realize that I'm not the only girl this has happened to, but my mother has made me feel so guilty about it, it still bothers me.

She throws it up to me constantly, which makes me feel even guiltier. If she would just say, "I forgive you," it would help me so much, but she won't.

Can you help me?
FOREVER SORRY

DEAR FOREVER: God is the one who forgives us. Your mother has no such power. If you've asked for the Lord's forgiveness, consider yourself forgiven, and forget your mother's needling.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARGARET: Don't dwell on what might have been. Regret is the cancer of life.

Land Development Plan Adopted By Ayden Board

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN—A Land Development Plan was adopted by the Ayden Town Board Monday night.
City Planner, Jean Lockemy explained that the plan is a land use analysis to include considerations such as future recreational areas, parks, and parking. It is a guide for zoning.

"The land development plan is proposed for 20 years and will not interfere with any federal or other resources because priorities may be changed within the plan," Town Manager Don Russell said.

The board passed an ordinance concurring in the creation of the N.C. Municipal Power Agency No. 2 and appointed Mike Finney, Ayden Electric Director, as Ayden's member of the agency.

The commissioners discussed making new policies concerning monuments in the Ayden

Cemetery. Commissioner Carl Speight made a motion that the board appoint a committee of six persons, including two funeral directors, the town manager, two citizens and commissioner Carl Speight, to develop and update the cemetery policies and to inform each deed holder. New deed holders should be submitted a copy of the policies with their deed. The board passed Speight's motion.

A public hearing on the revocation of the Tarboro Taxi Co. franchise was held and the board voted to revoke the franchise.
The board voted recommending that May 10 be set as the date for a public hearing on the New Zoning Ordinance and Subdivision Regulations.

Eure's Rival Campaigns In City

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Thirty-year-old George W. Breece of Fayetteville was in Greenville yesterday campaigning for the Democratic nomination as Secretary of State for North Carolina.

GEORGE BREECE

A member of the House of Representatives from Cumberland County, Breece is trying to unseat incumbent Thad Eure, who has held the Secretary of State's post for the past 40 years.
The young democrat admits he has a difficult job ahead of him in trying to unseat Eure, who is well entrenched in the post. But Breece is at least trying.
"My primary reason," he said yesterday, "I honestly believe I can run the office (of Secretary of State) more efficiently and more effectively. I have the energy and ability to get the office moving again."
Breece said Eure has "become an institution" as Secretary of State. "I have nothing but the highest respect and admiration for him. He is a fine man and has served this state well. I commend him for his 40 years service."

But Breece said "people need to know more about the functions and responsibilities of the office." Challenging Eure for the post, according to the young hopeful "doesn't do the party bad. It doesn't do the public bad for there to be a campaign for the office."
"If I do no more than bring this office and responsibilities to the attention of the people, I feel I will have accomplished at least part of my goal," he explained.
According to Breece, the office of Secretary of State is "purely an administrative office."
At present, Eure and two aids maintain offices in the Capitol Building, while the largest part of his staff occupy quarters in the administration building several blocks away.
"My first action would be to move the Secretary of State and his two staff members from the Capitol to the Administration Building. This would mean immediate savings to the taxpayers of nearly two per cent of the budget for the office."
"How can you expect to properly supervise and control a department when the boss is located some three blocks away from where most all of the work is being done?" Breece questioned.

Breece said in his opinion there are ways to bring about other reductions in the budget for the Secretary of State's office, saying that at present, the office of Secretary of State is the only major office that maintains "an expansion budget" while others are facing budget cuts.
"I see no reason why the office of Secretary of State should not be expected to participate in budget economy. I believe... that some reasonable decrease in expenditures can be made."
The candidate suggested that more extensive use of microfilm and the cross training of personnel to function in more than one division in the office are two ways the budget for the office might be reduced.
He also suggested that land grant records now kept by the Secretary of State might be transferred to the office of Archives and History—providing additional space needed for the Secretary of State to move into the Administration Building and possibly reducing the clerical staff needed to handle the records.

As a member of the House of Representatives, Breece said "I would ask my colleagues to consider legislation" increasing the annual registration fee for securities dealer and salesmen (the Secretary of State now administers securities law and regulations) which would provide additional revenue.
Breece said "I'm not interested in being a caretaker. I will be an innovator of programs... that will not cost additional money, but will help save the taxpayers' dollars and improve efficiency."

Porch Furniture Thefts Probed

Greenville Police are continuing their investigation into the larceny of furniture from porches at 2203 East Fifth St. and 202 North Warren St. reported yesterday.
Chief Glenn Cannon said a table, valued at $25 and a Norfolk Island pine tree, valued at $200 and planted in a wooden pot, were reported taken from the Fifth Street residents of L. E. Everett between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. yesterday.
The theft was reported at 6:17 p.m. according to the Chief.
Cannon also said Robert Bunker reported at 11:15 a.m. yesterday that an iron table and matching chairs were taken from the porch of his Warren Street home during the night Sunday.
Value of the furniture was set at $100.

Only Good Can Come Of Move

A Student Government Association representative from ECU was seated as a non-voting "member" of the City Council last week.

Tim Sullivan, who is president-elect of the SGA took the seat and was welcomed by Mayor Percy Cox.

Cox said the representative will work jointly with the council in matters involving the university.

Sullivan commended the council for the move and the SGA for recognizing the need for city-campus cooperation.

Sullivan said he felt that citizens and students would benefit from the move and that the student seat would be taken seriously.

The move is believed to be the first in the state involving a student representative sitting with the municipal governing body.

We applaud the move. East Carolina University is a major part of our community in area, numbers of people and economically. The Student Government Association is a major governmental operation in itself, and the association administers large sums of money for student activities.

The ECU campus is intertwined with the city and students shop and live within the city limits. There are many mutual problems and interests which need to be worked out between the city and student governments.

We think that only good can come of the move to seat the student representative on the City Council.

Finding A Payraise In State's Deficit

Things are looking slightly brighter for a payraise for teachers and state employees with the announcement last week by Gov. Holshouser concerning state revenues.

Holshouser said he and Democratic legislative leaders are working on an agreement for a budget plan to provide the raises.

Businesses would send in withholding taxes monthly instead of quarterly as is the present practice, and the economic picture is also improving.

The six percent raise, which now seems likely, is not going to be satisfactory to everyone, but it will be a remarkable achievement considering the recent economic picture.

THIS AFTERNOON

Sets Tone Of Involvement

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Wherever problems are, only the involvement of people at the community level can bring about lasting answers, Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., believes.

Hunt, in launching his bid for the Democratic nomination in the gubernatorial election, stresses the difference between executive decision-making and community involvement.

"People are upset, they've lost confidence, and they've built up distrust of government and other institutions.

"We are not going to change that attitude in this state, or this nation, just because we get a new President, or a new governor," Hunt said as he relaxed following the hoopla of his formal entry into the race.

Whether the problem be local schools, the rising crime rate, industrial development, "people have got to get involved in their own communities, with the people they know, in working out solutions to our problems."

A Catalyst

"It has been proven that this approach works, and if I'm governor, I will not talk to people with the attitude that 'We'll do it for you,' but to have the office serve as a nerve center, a catalyst for involvement to mobilize citizens."

While Hunt takes a stand on issues, and generally embraces as central campaign elements the problems in education, crime, increased per capita income, and rising power rates, he insists that he "will not sit at the top and direct executive decisions."

One of his first orders of business should be win the race, Hunt says, will be to call together mayors, county commission chairmen, and members of his executive staff and cabinet.

"And there, together, I will tell all of those involved that state government is here to serve you and to make it easier for your communities to accomplish the things which people in them want done . . . all too often, state rules and regulations have stood in the way of such ef-orts locally," Hunt said.

As for the state's move toward regionalization of government, Hunt thinks the Councils of Governments must be locally directed and oriented, rather than the imposition of another level of large government between state and local.

On capital punishment, Hunt says he would carry out the law, and is mulling the idea of a review panel to consider any last-minute changes in status before an execution is carried out.

He thinks a tax hike would not be necessary if government operates efficiently, and endorses a minimum five per cent pay raise for state employees including teachers.

On Crime

He favors increased training and pay for law officers, speedy trial legislation, and limited discretion for judges as steps toward bringing the crime rate under control, but insists that community involvement in prevention is still the most workable solution.

A governor, Hunt says, should not try to be all things to all people and the super-leader, but should zero in on several important "little things" and do them quite well.

For example, he suggests putting a push for "significantly raising the ability of our children to read . . . measured by the output (student) rather than input (funds and programs)."

Throughout his campaign in coming months will run the strongest theme of all, however: community involvement.

"North Carolina is a state of small communities. Perhaps many people do not understand this fact, and question the concept of getting people involved in solving larger problems.

"But I believe that the rediscovery of that spirit of community involvement is the very thing it may take to bring back confidence in ourselves and the spirit of the people to improve their lives," Hunt thinks.

Ford's Tactics Change

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Ford resumes his campaign travels next week, he will try out a new tactic aimed at encouraging increased news coverage of his activities.

Since the primary election season began, Ford has done most of his traveling on Fridays and Saturdays — a schedule compatible with the idea that his duties as President keep him close to his White House office most of the time.

The President and his strategists have discovered, however, that Saturday travel does not yield as much news coverage as they would like. Newspaper deadlines are early on Saturdays, and weekend television network news programs have far smaller audiences than those on weekday evenings.

The result is that Ford now plans to do his campaigning during the normal Monday-Friday work week, avoiding most if not all out-of-town appearances on weekends, White House sources say.

Next week, for example, Ford will make a one-day trip to Indiana and Georgia, two states with upcoming primaries, prior to the weekend. The trip probably will be scheduled for Friday.

Then, on April 27-29, the President will make his second preprimary swing across Texas, after stopping enroute in Louisiana. This will be only his second three-day trip of the campaign.

Challenger Ronald Reagan, free of any official duties, obviously has been able to campaign far more extensively than the President. But some White House sources suggest Ford will be spending increased time on the road between now and the final primaries, including big ones in California, New Jersey and Ohio, on June 8.

Should Reagan top Ford in the May 1 Texas primary, where the President claims for himself an underdog's role, then Ford would have added motivation to do more campaign traveling.

Mrs. Ford, who has been making campaign trips on her own, has no encountered the Saturday news coverage problems that have troubled her husband. All of her trips have come on weekdays.

The Rhodesian Charade

The Rhodesian situation seems to be simmering uncertainly these days, just keeping warm on the back of the stove. Before it heats up again, a few observations are in order. What we are witnessing is a nice joining of the New Morality and the Old Hypocrisy.

The New Morality wraps itself in lovely flags: democracy, majority rule, one man-one vote. The New Morality rejects all the old ugly vices: Racism, colonialism, exploitation. For the past ten years, since Rhodesia declared her independence of Great Britain, apostles of the New Morality have been preaching all these things.

We heard the preachments as to Angola and Mozambique, where the Portuguese boot was thought to trample on native rights. We hear the cries incessantly as to South West Africa. Freedom! Democracy! Nationhood!

Such allurements, as Secretary Kissinger knows well, are politically irresistible. The propagandists of the New Morality have done their work surpassingly well. Mr. Kissinger could not lift a finger in support of the governments of either Rhodesia or South Africa. The least friendly gesture hotwired Salisbury or Pretoria would set the liberal wolf pack to howling. The United States cannot afford to be identified with the "oppressors" while the Soviet Union succors the "oppressed." It is a pretty fix.

There is no satisfactory way out of it. But something may be gained, if only in terms of historic truths, if we strip from the New Morality its trappings of pretense and fraud. What stands revealed is the Old Hypocrisy.

The National Review Bulletin recently said what needs to be said: "The black African nations do not object to the Ian Smith government because it is undemocratic but because it is white; the other nations of the world, from a variety of motives, are willing to help hide this fact that in truth is known to everyone. The Smith government is more accurately defined as a democratic oligarchy. One thing at least is certain: that if it goes, when it goes, it is not going to be replaced by democratic 'majority rule.'"

The editors of National Review took a look at the record. The Organization of African Unity is composed of 47 nations — 44 former colonies that have gained their independence in the past generation, plus Ethiopia, Liberia and Egypt. Of the 47, at least 15 are open military dictatorships; 29 others are nominally civilian despots characterized by one-party rule. Only Botswana, Gambia and Mauritius retain a semblance of political pluralism.

The pending charade in Rhodesia fits exactly into this pattern. Let us suppose, to be grimly supposing, that Rhodesia is overrun by guerrilla "freedom fighters," supporter by Cuban troops armed by the Soviet Union. Let us suppose that the new Communist masters of Zimbabwe have now seized all private property — all the banks, mines, farms, stores, and the like. The 250,000 whites have been

(The Raleigh Times)

The Faculty Senate's role of parent bird pushing the fledglings from the academic nest at N.C. State University is an admirable one.

A situation that has been allowed to drift for too long has come to a head, as budget cuts and enrollment curtailment cause the university to examine the work habits of students, many of whom are wasting space that could be better utilized by more serious and motivated students.

The faculty and administration have cause for alarm. Under a lenient policy adopted two years ago that allows a student to drop a course as late as nine weeks into the semester, the number of such drops has increased eightfold. Such a policy encourages both laziness and indecision on students' part and creates too-widely fluctuating class loads for the instructors.

Equally significant is the university's concern over the low class load students are carrying. A class schedule of 16 hours per semester is geared to graduate a student in four years. At the end of the fall semester, however, 87 per cent of the freshmen and 72 per cent of upperclassmen at State were taking less than 16 hours.

The student strike planned for Tuesday, in opposition to a Faculty Senate recommendation that would require a 16-hour load and would limit dropping a course without penalty to the first four weeks, will merely emphasize to the public the need for the proposed changes. The administration, if it is serious about effecting an atmosphere of Academic realism, will tolerate only limited demonstrations of this sort.

Although economic conditions that include job scarcity encourage students to remain in school, neither their state nor their parents can afford the expense of a prolonged education-period during which, as State's Chancellor Job Thomas pointed out, many students run along at three quarters speed and take up space that someone else more willing and serious is being denied.

The Faculty Senate, in its welcome concentration on academic housecleaning, is also recommending the return of the "D" to the university grading system. The latter should correct to some extent the grading largesse which, for example, found last semester one of every four State students on the Dean's List.

40 Years Ago Today

April 13, 1936

Plunging into the campaign wars after a rest at sea, President Roosevelt made final preparations today for his speech at a Democratic rally in Baltimore tonight.

New Deal supporters looked to the chief executive to indicate further the line the administration will follow in the big drive toward the November elections.

From this address, which will be made before the state young Democrats club, the party leaders are expected to take their cues for the campaign struggle.

Topping political interests tomorrow are the primaries of Illinois and Nebraska.

Although Chicago Publisher Frank Knox will oppose Senator Borah of Idaho in the Illinois Republican primary, Borah will be unopposed in Nebraska and Roosevelt will be unopposed in both states on the Democratic ticket.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Jimmy's Enemies Emerge

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—His narrow escape in Wisconsin so quickly flushed out a legion of eager enemies within the Democratic party scenting his blood that the limitation of Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign became immediately clear: he is no stronger than his last primary win.

Gratifying though Carter's one-percentage-point win in Wisconsin was after being declared defeated by television computers, it did represent a substantial decline from his own polls showing a comfortable victory over Rep. Morris Udall. More disturbing for him, election-day voter interviews give this explanation for his decline:

intense criticism of Carter for evasion on the issues, pushed hard in Wisconsin by Udall, is beginning to take hold.

Certainly the same tactics will be used for Pennsylvania's primary showdown April 27, where Carter must triumph or lose an essential momentum. The need for that momentum was shown by the joy with which both doctrinaire liberals and party pros seized on false notice of defeat in Wisconsin Tuesday night, proving that their apparent acceptance of the advent of Jimmy Carter was merely a grudging bow to grim reality.

The party's professionals rode a remarkable roller-coaster of emotions during a few hours Tuesday.

Assuming an easy Carter win over the hapless Udall in Wisconsin, Democratic insiders that afternoon began projecting Carter delegate totals. Their consensus: he would finally win between 1,000 and 1,200 delegates, within easy distance of the 1,504 needed to nominate. "I've given up," one party pro, fiercely committed to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, told us. "Nothing can stop Jimmy."

That gloom turned to joy Tuesday night with the false Udall victory in Wisconsin. Some party old-timers ridiculously declared Humphrey nominated. The morning hangover that found Carter the winner after all, left the pros midway between their Tuesday afternoon low and Tuesday night high: no longer defeatist but far from certain Carter's bandwagon was stopped.

Among both regulars and liberals, the presumption is that non-candidate Humphrey is the alternative. Liberals see Udall merely as a means of draining votes from Carter in Pennsylvania. As for Sen. Henry M. Jackson, April 6 was Black Tuesday. He ran more poorly than the worst expectations in New York and showed stunning unpopularity in Wisconsin with a 7 per cent total.

With hope for Udall and Jackson crumbling, Humphrey efforts are being stepped up. Minnesota allies—Sen. Walter Mondale, Gov. Wendell Anderson and wheeler-dealer Bob Short—are starting a "Friends of Humphrey" organization. Some 20,000 pro-Humphrey letters, signed by Reps. Bob Bergland of Minnesota and Paul Simon of Illinois, are being mailed to previous national convention delegates to dispute Carter's inevitability.

Humphrey's attractiveness to liberals was inadvertently enhanced Tuesday by Carter's statement that he sees nothing wrong with communities trying "to maintain their ethnic purity." That is good general election politics, but it recharged all the doubts about Carter among liberals—including one Pennsylvania politician who had been on the verge of endorsing him. "I'm not a flaming liberal," he told us, but when I pick up this

TAKE LOVE WITH YOU

The Bible is full of striking figures of speech. Sometimes important truths are presented to us in graphic and usual language which makes these truths stick in our minds.

For example, St. Paul tells his followers that they are to walk in love; not only to practice it and cherish it in their hearts, but walk in it. He means that wherever they go they are to take love with them. As they walk the streets and greet their friends, they are so to have love in their hearts that men will be encouraged by their mere passing.

We all walk many miles each day—to and from work, about the house, through the mill, among customers, back and forth in the office. As we walk we are to take love with us. We should be aware that love is something God wants to see used out in the world as well as in the home, among business associates as well as among brothers.

Jersey City Turns Aggressive

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — From the edge of this city of 262,000 people you can enjoy a grand view of the Wall Street skyline, 2,000 yards across the lower Hudson River, a three-minute subway ride away.

Several brokerage houses already have taken the trip to this, the second-largest city in New Jersey, a city fighting to move ahead, eager to rebuild its industry and image, and to utilize its proximity to New York.

Lower costs and an aggressive city administration bring the brokers here, where there are no stock or bond transfer taxes, and where space rentals are much lower than in New York. Some other taxes are lower too.

But does Jersey City's "prospectus," an imaginative promotional folder designed to remind recipients of a stock offering, check out in all regards? It doesn't seem so, but so far the critics apparently have been few.

Since last October, eight or more broker-dealers have moved here, as well as the entire trading and sales operation of the big "third market" house, Weeden & Co. About 16 are here now, and more might be coming.

Response to a recent Wall Street Journal advertisement was termed "spectacular" by a city consultant. And, because it mimicked the appearance of a typical tombstone ad for a new offering, it drew many appreciative chuckles.

"Jersey City: A New Wall Street" it was headlined, and it contained these lures: "Dividends may accrue from the day you begin operations . . . better tax climate . . . 40 per cent lower electricity costs."

And this: "In the opinion of comparative cost analysts, an average over-the-counter stock broker may register 22 per cent lower operating costs in Jersey City as compared to Manhattan." Send for prospectus, the ad advised.

The prospectus itself informs the reader that "a firm with annual gross receipts of $5 million would incur operating costs in New York City of approximately $3.65 million compared to $2.575 million in Jersey City . . ."

The conclusion apparently was drawn from a selected list of operating costs factors contained in an Area Development Council report published in 1973-1974, but the actual figures seem to have come from a late-1971 survey.

A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce said a consultant chose seven firms in each city, a small but "representative" sample, he maintained, and then went to work analyzing operating costs as a per cent of total costs.

The tabulation shows 1.84 per cent of operating costs in New York were attributable to leased wires. Nothing was listed in the Jersey City column. "This is exactly the way it came back to us," the spokesman said.

Postage amounted to 1.79 per cent in New York, only .70 per cent in Jersey City. "I can tell you that's the way it was reported to us," said the chamber spokesman.

Equipment rentals are shown as being one-fifth those of New York, in percentage terms. "I do know a number of firms here farm out their data processing," the spokesman said. "They don't rent the whole equipment."

How's The Weather?

THE WEATHER—Warm weather is forecast today for the Southeast but most of the nation is expected to remain cool. Sunny skies are forecast for most areas but rain is expected for part of the Southwest and from eastern Oklahoma to southern Iowa. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By THE Associated Press
It's usually warmer on the coast than in the mountains of North Carolina, but conditions were reversed early today. The temperature at Cape Hatteras was 28 degrees at 4 a.m., eight degrees colder than the record low for an April 13th set in 1963. At the same time it was 32 at Asheville. However, under clear skies and absence of wind the mountains will catch up tonight. Scattered frost is indicated there. The calm winds today aided rangers battling forest fires. However, no rain was in sight. Skies were sunny today and highs mostly around 70. It will be fair and slightly warmer Wednesday.

The overnight lows will range from the mid 30s in the mountains to the upper 40s on the south coast.

Temperatures Monday under full sunshine only managed to get into the 50s in the east. Western sections got into the 60s as a moderating trend got underway.

High pressure will continue to be centered over the Atlantic coast through Wednesday. As a result, sunny skies will continue.

The extended outlook for Thursday through Saturday is for continued warm and dry weather. Highs will be in the 70s. Overnight lows will be in the 40s in the mountains to 50s elsewhere.

Winds will be light and variable through Wednesday. Waves on the coast will be less than two feet through tonight.

slaughtered, subdued, or driven out. The Smith government has fled and a new government has taken over.

National Review's prophecy coincides exactly with my own: "The Zimbabwe regime that would succeed the present Rhodesian government is going to be one more of those despotic, arbitrary, usually personalized, often tribal, frequently bloody political arrangements that are Africa's indigenous political products."

"Under this despotism government the six million Rhodesian blacks will be more ruthlessly suppressed and exploited than they are under the present government, and they will eat less. But the black government will be a success government; and that is all—quite literally all—that matters to the present Conscience of Mankind."

Whether the process is known as rebellion, revolution, liberation, conquest, coup, or reform, in Africa the cynical adage applies. The first goal of insurgency is to throw the rascals out; and the second is to throw our rascals in.

Three Priorities Of Jackson

Editor's Note: The following is the second of three articles on the campaign tactics and styles of the top three Democratic presidential contenders. It focuses on Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
The crowd at Elm and Main in Rochester, N.Y., cheered when the candidate declared: "As President of the United States my number one priority will be to put America back to work so people can buy things that are manufactured here in this town."

A mostly elderly crowd at Buffalo smiled happily when they heard their choice say: "I want to give top priority, first priority, to full coverage under Medicare for senior citizens. We don't have that now."

Supporters massed at the Frontier Fire Hall at Niagara Falls roared as the candidate said: "The first thing I will do is insist welfare be a national obligation, and not put on the shoulders of the local people." Three priorities, all number one.

One candidate. Senator Henry M. Jackson campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination in New York.

Jackson emphasized these different priorities to different audiences as the political pressure grew in New York from his two most serious opponents, former Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona.

And in the last days of the campaign the senator reached out for a broader constituency than his major supporters among the labor organizations, Jewish communities and regular Democrats.

Jackson speeded up his public appearances to include blacks, Puerto Ricans and other ethnic groups and in one 36-hour period made these promises:

Puerto Ricans: "If elected president of the United States I will have in the White House a special assistant for Puerto Rican affairs so that problems of Puerto Rico and their importance to the United States will not be lost in the bureaucratic jungle," he told the Puerto Rican chamber of commerce in New York.

Jackson also promised "a more diligent prosecution of the bilingual education program"

Brief Agenda

Only two items are on the agenda for the regular April meeting of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission, 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 14.

The two items are: Option to purchase land in Tucker Estates for a playground; and swimming pool fees for the summer.

The meeting will be held in the office of Director Boyd Lee in the Elm Street gymnasium.

to further assist Hispanic voters.

Canadians: "Canadians are wonderful, terrific people, great neighbors. I want to see more emphasis in our foreign policy with reference to our neighbors here in North America. They've been neglected too long. We've taken them for granted," Jackson told a campaign meeting at Niagara County in upstate New York, a region that is heavily unemployed.

He has told other listeners: "Every time you reduce unemployment 1 per cent you have $16 billion more in the Treasury. With full employment we'll have $100 billion."

No one asked him to explain his mathematics, or questioned him about how he would reduce unemployment to 3 per cent from the present rate of more than 7 per cent.

Not that there was much time for questions. Jackson made five campaign appearances one evening in Brooklyn, and his upstate New York trips were so tightly scheduled that the candidate could in all honesty beg off questions because he had to speed on to the next meeting.

He was caught only at Medgar Evers College in Brooklyn. He moved among the student body to shake hands, only to be confronted by demanding students who insisted in knowing his plan to save their college. He didn't have one.

While Jackson had something special to offer each audience, he also had a major theme, and this seemed to be the promotion of a much more active federal role in health, education and welfare programs in America.

Jackson showed subtle differences in his comments on welfare payments. To a construction worker audience in Rochester, Jackson declared that there was "$75 million a year in handout checks" given in various forms of assistance from state and federal authorities. "We're going to take welfare and put it where it belongs in the hands of the federal government and not on the backs of the local people," he told his cheering white audiences.

However, Jackson never mentioned handout checks in talking with his black and Puerto Rican audiences in New York City. He explained that "when unemployment goes up 1 per cent we lose $16 billion in revenue" because of the loss of production and the need to support the unemployed. Less money is available for essential services.

"So we have to put people back to work to create the wealth to pay for the education and health care and other services people need," Jackson tells his minority audiences.

morning's Philadelphia Inquirer and read about 'ethnic purity' I get worried." Alan Baron, the cunning left-wing Democratic operative, was expected by many to quietly climb aboard Carter's bandwagon after working against him all year. But Tuesday's events cheered him and delayed any such switch. "As the one guy on both Jackson's and Carter's enemy lists," Baron told us, "I'm relieved."

What has heartened both Baron and more centrist professionals is a recent hardening of anti-Carter uncommitted sentiment in the caucus delegate-selection process of Oklahoma, Kansas and Virginia. That was apparently confirmed by the fact that more uncommitted delegates than Carter delegates were elected in New York.

But the New York results reflected the state's historically and shamefully low "Primary" voter turnout, putting a premium on party organization. Uncommitted slates beat Carter's slates in Erie County (Buffalo) and Suffolk County (Long Island), thanks to New York's two best Democratic organizations. Thus, the outcome in New York, which is not a real primary election, is of a piece with caucus state results—a clear sign party insiders have not accepted outsider Carter but no indication whatever of popular sentiment.

What Carter should worry about then is not his poor showing in New York's pseudo-primary but his narrow win in Wisconsin's real primary. There, as in Pennsylvania and almost everywhere, Carter relied on national popularity against better organized, better financed opponents. The introduction in Wisconsin of doubt about Carter's credibility clearly eroded his popularity there but may not be so potent in less liberal Pennsylvania.

Though Humphrey diehards deny it, Pennsylvania could decide it all. One powerful Democratic figure privately believes everything boils down to Humphrey vs. Carter, with the nomination going to Carter if he wins in Pennsylvania. And nobody is betting much against the candidate who so successfully has played to mass opinion—and so boldly ignored the party pros—by praising "ethnic purity."

Punctured Tires On Police Cars

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Vandals punched holes in 53 tires on 16 new Charlotte police cars Monday.

The cars had been parked behind the police radio shop, awaiting installation of radios, blue lights and sirens.

After the flats were fixed, the cars were moved to a secret spot, so the vandals won't get a second chance.

Nuclear Plant Safety Upheld

ATLANTA (AP)— Nuclear reactors are safe and too much has been made of charges that they are not, according to the director of the U.S. Office of Nuclear Regulation.

Benard C. Rusche told a news conference Monday "there was just no foundation" to charges by three engineers who quit General Electric in February that toasters and hair dryers are checked more closely than nuclear reactors.

"I can say to you as the director of reactor regulation that the charges they made were not new matters or matters which were not resolved," Rusche said.

He also denied an allegation by Robert D. Pollard, a project manager in Rusch's office who resigned in January, that nuclear plants are not safe.

"The reactors that have been licensed do provide an adequate margin of safety," Rusche said.

Rusche planned to spend four days traveling around the southeast to reassure the public that nuclear power plants are safe. He headed today to Chattanooga, Tenn., and then for the Browns Ferry nuclear plant in Alabama which was closed by a fire last year.

He said Browns Ferry, the nation's largest commercial generating plant, would be back in service by the end of May.

He also said it is possible that a Barnwell, S.C., nuclear plant designed to recycle nuclear fuel used by other plants could be in operation by the summer of 1977. Previous estimates were that the plant would not open before mid-1978.

He said the Nuclear Regulatory Commission may rule by the summer of 1977 on approval of the recycling process to be used at the plant. "It's possible the Barnwell plant will be able to operate at that time," Rusche said.

Rusche charged that the news media has given too much attention to critics of nuclear energy.

"Do you think the press represents the public's view," he asked. "Or do you think the media looks for information which attracts public interest?"

Heading Up N.C. Clubs

CHARLES D. CREECH

The state VICA club with 13,000 members is divided in to eight districts. Approximately 1,350 VICA delegates and advisors attended the state convention.

Creech is a second year electronics student at Ayden-Grifton High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Creech of Ayden.

Creech will travel with 100 N.C. delegates to Miami in June for the national VICA convention.

How foreign oil affects your electric bill:

Costly imported oil has meant higher electric bills.

Since the '73 oil embargo, the price of imported residual oil has increased almost four times. This oil, along with coal and nuclear fuel, is used to make electricity. Together, they represent a whopping seventy percent of Veeco's operating costs—and therefore a large part of your electric bill.

Other things such as inflation, higher construction costs, and rising interest rates on the money Veeco must borrow have caused increases, too. But nothing like the enormous increase in imported oil.

Clearly, America can't continue to pay higher and higher prices for fuel. And you don't like to pay ever-increasing electric bills.

Something must be done.

We must move toward energy independence.

If we in America are to have dependable, yet affordable electricity, we must support a strong national policy of energy independence.

This means America must develop its own energy sources at home, so it can lessen its dependence on costly foreign oil. This will lessen the cost of producing electricity and will help keep your electric bill under control.

Veeco has been working to achieve energy independence in several ways. Nuclear plants are presently supplying about 30% of your electricity—and will produce 50% in late 1977. The company has switched from higher priced oil to less expensive coal wherever it can save money for its customers. It has urged its customers to conserve energy and prevent waste. And Veeco is developing pumped storage hydroelectric power generation.

By taking steps to bring about energy independence, America can extend a higher standard of living to those who do not share it today, and help all of us toward a more self-sufficient tomorrow.

Veeco

America is a powerful idea. Let's keep it that way.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead slowly but steadily today in a rally attributed to technical forces.

Trading was fairly light. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 5.27 at 976.54. Gainers outpaced losers by slightly more than a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted no special news behind the advance. They attributed it largely to buying by investors looking for bargains among stocks depressed by last week's sharp decline.

Holiday Inns, the most active Big Board issue, slipped ¼ to 15 in trading that included a 44,000-share block at that price.

Eastman Kodak gained 1 to 115½. The company announced Monday that it would introduce its long-anticipated instant photography products a week from today.

Allied Chemical, which came in with higher first quarter earnings, was up a point at 39.

Copper stocks moved ahead following a round of price increases in the industry Monday. Kennecott was up ¾ at 34½; Anaconda rose ¾ to 25¼, and Asarco added ½ to 18½.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks climbed .14 to 53.47 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .06 at 101.75.

take pot shots at it," Flaherty said.

As far as education in general is concerned, the candidate suggested the State's public system should be restructured.

"The Board of Education is not responsive to the governor or the people," and competes with the Superintendent of Public Instruction at the present time.

"The whole system is a mess," Flaherty said.

He said that to give more coordinated leadership to the system, the Board of Education should be elected "on a Congressional District basis," with the "board appointing the Superintendent of Public Instruction."

"The fundamentals are not being taught," today, Flaherty said, suggesting that there is "no short cut to a good education."

"The quality of the teachers" is the most important single ingredient, according to Flaherty, who added that "adequate salaries" would attract and hold the best instructors.

"The whole salary range needs to be looked at," he suggested.

WRECK KILLS DRIVER—A Greenville youth was killed this morning when the truck he was driving collided with another truck on rural paved road 1727. According to Patrolman K. M. Sutton, Victor Durwood Porter, of Rt. 9 Greenville, died upon arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital, after the truck he was driving crossed the center line in a curve and collided with a vehicle driven by Johnnie Lee Jones, of New Bern. Jones, Sutton said was not seriously injured. The patrolman added that the youth died of severe head injuries, and he did not have a driver's license at the time of the accident. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Reminds Public Rabies Clinics In Final Week

Dog owners are urged today to take advantage of the last week of public clinics for the vaccination of dogs against rabies at a reduced cost of $3 per dog. The clinics are sponsored by the Pitt County Community Health Department with the cooperation of local veterinarians.

"During the first week, 332 dogs were vaccinated," Health Director Roger J. Barnaby reported, "and we are hoping to reach even a larger number this second week. Barnaby reminded dog owners that state law requires all dogs four months old and older to be vaccinated, and for the vaccination tab to be displayed at all times. Dogs receiving their first vaccination this year will need to be vaccinated again in 1977. For dogs that have been vaccinated previously, the vaccination is good for three years.

"Fortunately, Pitt County has not had a case of rabies for many years but we must see that all the dogs in the county are vaccinated to keep our good record," Barnaby said. "There has been an increase of rabies in wildlife in some N.C. counties and in other states which in turn can give the disease to unvaccinated dogs," he explained.

Local veterinarians will be manning the clinics every evening in the following locations:

Tonight at Venters Crossroads from 6:15-6:45 p.m. and at Gardnersville at Stokes & Lane from 7:7-30 p.m.

Wednesday at Winterville Town Hall from 6:15-7:15 p.m.

Applications are now being accepted for fall enrollment of the new Nursery School at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church at 1801 S. Elm St. Children in the three year old class will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. until noon. Those in the four year old class will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 9 a.m. until noon. The school calendar year will follow the Greenville City Schools' calendar.

The new program will be directed by Mrs. Sheila Kupec and Mrs. Mary Muzzarelli. For further information all 756-6522 or 758-5621.

Victor Durwood Porter, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Porter of Portertown, died Tuesday morning as the result of injuries received in a collision a short time earlier.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. on Thursday at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Victor was a ninth grade student at D.H. Conley High School and was a junior fireman in the Eastern Pines Volunteer Fire Department. He was enroute to a fire at the time of the accident.

In addition to his parents, survivors are two sisters.

INJURED IN ATTACK
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Nine policemen and seven rioters were injured in a four-hour attack by 2,000 Greek Cypriots on the U.S. Embassy Monday night, the government announced today.

"I'm not going to run on the Governor's record," Flaherty said. "I'm running as my own man... promoting things I feel strongly about." And, he said, "I have a positive feeling."

He said Republicans are now "better organized" than ever before and more able to get the issues before the public.

Laney said that the engineer contracted to handle the land survey work in Southside was asked to submit a quote on the street, sidewalk and water and sewer engineering work, on a contingency basis. He added that the city manager concurred in shifting the work load from the city engineering staff.

The change involving a new contract will have to be approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Commissioners reviewed the final development plans of Garris Evans Lumber Co. for Parcel D-5 in Newtown calling for construction of a pre-fabricated steel structure facing 14th Street. Application has been filed for a $200,000 building permit, it was noted.

The Redevelopment Commission had already given its approval to preliminary development plans of the firm for the site.

An extension on the development of the former VC Fertilizer Co. plant site on Howell Street was granted to Swift Chemical Co. due to a delay in receiving a building permit. The extension was made through Aug. 31.

Applications are now being accepted for fall enrollment of the new Nursery School at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church at 1801 S. Cavaliers Open Playoff Action

By The Associated Press
Not that many fans thought the Cleveland Cavaliers would ever make the National Basketball Association playoffs. And not that many think the Milwaukee Bucks belong there.

The Cavaliers, having completed the first half of a Cinderella dream by winning their first division title with a 49-33 record, go for their first fitting of the glass slipper Tuesday night when they host the Washington Bullets in their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

It was the Bullets, last year's NBA Eastern Conference champs, whom the Cavaliers beat out by a game in the Central Division. The Cavaliers finished third last year and last in the four years before that, their first four in the league.

In a pair of best-of-three qualifying rounds, the Milwaukee Bucks host the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night and the Buffalo Braves visit the Philadelphia 76ers Thursday night. In the other best-of-seven quarter-final series starting Tuesday night, the Phoenix Suns — also first-timers in the playoffs — play the SuperSonics in Seattle.

All four opening-round matchups were determined by the teams' final-season percentages in the Eastern and Western Conferences. The conferences' regular-season champs will have to wait to find out who will be their quarter-final foes.

The best one in each conference will play the qualifying-round winner. That will send the Boston Celtics, tops in the East, against the Buffalo-Philadelphia winner and Golden State, best in the West, against the survivor of the Milwaukee-Detroit matchup.

It's a match-up of contrasts in Cleveland. Coach Bill Fitch's use of balance brought the Cavaliers their first division title and playoff berth. There was no real superstar but, rather, a blend of scoring and defense by starters Jim Chones, Jim Brewer, Bingo Smith, Jim Clemons and Dick Snyder. Chones led the scoring with a 15.8-point average. Washington, meanwhile, got most of its firepower from Phil Chenier, with a 19.9 average, and Elvin Hayes, at 19.8.

The Midwest was hardly what you'd call the NBA's showcase division. Milwaukee finished with a 38-44 record and won the title by two games over Detroit. Still, each team has an outstanding shooter, the Bucks with Bob Dandridge's 21.5 average, the Pistons with Bob Lanier's 21.3 mark.

Seattle and Phoenix were separated by only one game in the Pacific Division's final standings, with the SuperSonics winding up first with a 43-39 record. Fred Brown, Seattle's "sixth man," was the Sonics' top scorer with a 23.1 average, while guard Slick Watts led the league in assists and steals. Guard Paul Westphal topped the Suns' scoring with a 20.5 average.

Cubs Take First Win

BETHEL — The North Pitt "B" baseball team rolled up a 17-3 victory over Roanoke "B" yesterday.

The victory was the first for the Panther Cubs in four starts. Lee Andrews got the victory, while Jeff Hines led the hitting with three in four trips.

Redskins Win Meet

Redskins Win Meet

LEGGETTS — Roanoke High School rolled up an easy track victory over hosting North Edgemont yesterday.

The Redskins finished the abbreviated meet with 75 points, while North Edgemont had just 19.

Roanoke won all 10 individual events, plus the lone relay event that was run.

Catfish Bait Birds With 3-Hit Shutout

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Television's Six Million Dollar Man met baseball's Three Million Dollar Man Monday night and the Baltimore Orioles couldn't get their two cents in.

"Lee Majors waved to me before the game," Catfish Hunter said. "I wanted to trade him and get a new arm."

Don't try to run that one by the Orioles. They couldn't do much with Hunter's old arm, managing only three singles as the New York Yankees made off with a 3-0 triumph to kick off ABC-TV's 16-week Monday night television package.

In the only other major league games, the Texas Rangers trimmed the Oakland A's 5-1 behind veteran Nelson Briles and the Houston Astros blanked the San Francisco Giants 5-0 as J.R. Richard, Larry Hardy and Ken Forsch scattered nine hits.

Cleveland at Boston in the American League was called off by cold weather and San Diego at Los Angeles in the National was rained out with 56,000 on hand. It was the Dodgers' first home rainout since 1967 and only their second since moving to Los Angeles in 1958.

In frigid 43-degree Baltimore, Majors — an ABC-TV star, natch — threw out the first ball before Hunter took over and it's doubtful if the patty cake Orioles, with Reggie Jackson back home in Arizona and Lee May in the clubhouse nursing a first-inning groin injury, could have hit that one, either.

"Same old Catfish," moaned Brooks Robinson, one of the many Orioles who went hitless. "He's always around the plate and you get awful anxious up there."

"He's unbelievable," said Bobby Grich, hitless in three trips. "He's worth every penny he is getting."

The Yanks staked Hunter to a first-inning run on Lou Piniella's run-producing double off Ross Grimsley and added two unearned runs on Thurman Munson's bases-loaded single in the fifth. Tony Muser collected two of the hits Hunter allowed.

Split For Whitfield

GRIMESLAND—G. R. Whitfield split a pair of games with Belvoir yesterday.

In the girls' softball game, Belvoir took an 11-6 win. Carolyn Pippens was the winning pitcher, with home runs hit by Falines Wooten and Glenda Green. Wooten had two hits. Mary Carmon had two hits for Whitfield, now 0-2.

In the boys' baseball game, Whitfield took a 16-11 win. Mitchell Moore got the win, with Gary Lancaster, Jim Hardee and Terrence Rountree each having four hits, Robert Cox and William Lee each had two hits for Belvoir.

Whitfield's boys are now 2-1.

Colonels Nip Indiana In Best Of Three Play

By GEORGE W. HACKETT
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE (AP) — "We've been a roller-coaster team all season but we finally hit the top," said Kentucky Colonels Coach Hubie Brown.

It wasn't an easy ride for the Colonels, who nipped Indiana 100-99 on a basket by Louie Dampier with two seconds left to play Monday night. That gave the Colonels a 2-1 victory in their best-of-three preliminary series of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

The Colonels advance to the semifinals against the regular season champion Denver Nuggets. The best-of-seven series gets under way Thursday night in Denver.

The other ABA semifinal series, between the New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs, is tied 1-1. The third game will be played in San Antonio Wednesday night.

Brown said Dampier's 10-foot goal was "a broken shot, the result of a broken play."

Kentucky was ahead 98-96 with 17 seconds left when Mike

Flynn sank a three-pointer from the corner to give Indiana a 99-98 edge.

"We had planned to feed our inbounds shot to Artis Gilmore," Brown said of the strategy discussed during a timeout. "But Gilmore was surrounded by a sea of Indiana jerseys and the ball wound up in Dampier's hands."

Dampier recalled that he "looked up and saw two seconds were left and I knew I had to shoot it up right then."

When the buzzer sounded, he was carried from the floor by shouting fans among the crowd of 5,267.

Dampier ended the night with 20 points, seven less than Gilmore, who also pulled in 16 rebounds.

Billy Knight topped Indiana with 30 points, Flynn added 20 and Darnell Hillman had 16.

It was Flynn who pulled the Pacers together. The third quarter opened with Kentucky leading 48-36, but Flynn pumped in a pair of three-pointers and Indiana began to move.

Late in the fourth quarter, with Flynn and Dave Robisch firing away, Indiana took a 91-86 lead.

Moments later, Bird Averitt hit a pair of baskets and followed with a free throw and the Colonels led 98-96. At that point, Flynn let go with his three-point.

Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard said he was "proud of this club. They lost the first game badly, took the second one very easily and we almost pulled off a major upset here."

No-Hit Win For Chicod

STOKES—Chicod romped to a pair of victories against Stokes-Pactolus yesterday.

In a girls' softball game, Chicod took a 15-6 victory. Joy Hardee slammed a four-run homer to lead the win. Tina Powell, Stacey Haddock, Monica Fornes and Maria Jones each had two hits to lead Chicod. Parker had two for Stokes.

In the boys' baseball game, Carl Arnold tossed a no-hitter in Chicod's 30-0 win. In the five-inning game, he faced only 15 batters, but walked one. He struck out eight.

Arnold also hit a three-run homer and had nine runs batted in with four hits. Jesse Carmon, Mike Edens and Joel Brown each had three hits, with Brown homering. Curtis Spencer had two.

COIN SPECIALIST

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles' punting specialist, Tommy Cheyne, was named game captain for the test against Utah State. But he never saw action.

"Good thing we named him captain," said Broyles. "The coin flip was the only time he made it onto the field." The razorbacks never needed to punt against Utah.

Detroit Tiger pitchers on the spring roster show a 53-89 record for 1975 major league wins and losses.

Although he failed to find the winning trump lead, West defended skillfully to upset North-South's heart game. However, he was given an opportunity to show his prowess only because declarer had a wrong set of priorities.

North had a close decision to make at his second turn between raising his partner's suit with strong three-card support or rebidding his six-card minor. He correctly chose the latter, for he did not relish the prospect of having to ruff in his hand with master hearts should his partner have only a four-card suit. When South invited game by rebidding two no trump, North offered his partner a choice of contracts, and South wisely chose the major-suit game.

West led his singleton club, and declarer played the ace from dummy. There was a certain loser in each minor suit, and perhaps a trump as well. In addition, declarer had to take care of his third spade and diamond. He therefore decided to ruff these cards in dummy, and try to hold his losses to a trick in each suit except spades.

Declarer cashed the ace and king of spades and ruffed a spade on the table. He led the queen of diamonds, and West made a fine defensive play when he allowed the lady to hold the trick. A diamond to the nine lost to the ten, and a heart was returned. Declarer suddenly realized that he had no entry back to his hand to ruff a diamond, so he resigned himself to the heart finesse. East took the king and returned a heart, and declarer was stranded with a diamond loser for down one.

Observe the difference if declarer leads dummy's queen of diamonds at trick two. As before, West holds up and wins the diamond continuation to shift to a trump. Now declarer can rise with dummy's ace, cross to his hand with the king of spades and ruff a diamond in dummy. He can still get back to his hand with the ace of spades for a spade ruff, and the contract sails home.

At 76, Begins New Business

BAINBRIDGE, Ga. (AP) At 76, Jack Davis started a new business at his farm near Lake Seminole.

Davis, who has been in a sawmill business for 53 years, claims his new venture is turning out the best quality corn meal anywhere around.

"I got started in it because I wanted something to do—something to pacify my mind," he said.

Davis still helps his son, Philip, at the family-owned sawmill, and grows and processes his own corn.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There could be some early morning delays which are important to you. Later in the day you will be able to get the cooperation you need by tactfully handling the situation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Analyze well what associates want of you and then team up wisely so you have more success in the future. Be more tactful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure to plan your time and efforts wisely so that you can complete the tasks ahead. Take time to improve your appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do only the work which is necessary and you have time later to engage in the amusements you enjoy. Don't retire too late.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study family matters and make improvements on them so there is more harmony. Not a good day for entertaining.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A letter you receive may not be pleasing but later you can turn the matter to your benefit. Find the right sources for the information you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Monetary matters may seem hard to solve in the morning but later you get the right slant and you do fine. Relax at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have some cherished wish that is not clear to you early in the day but later materializes in your mind and you can go after it successfully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Investigation is good now since you can get the right information you need. More affection for loved one is needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you handle career matters carefully and avoid whatever could deter your progress. Be careful of traps.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Taking part in a new interest is fine provided you first study all the information pertinent to it. Use tact and persevere.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy working on new interests so that you can expand and advance more quickly in the future. Strive for harmony in the home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Rely more on your mature judgment than on your hunches today for best results. Discuss the future with mate tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she may appear to have little understanding of the motives and views of others and needs to have good religious training so that the spiritual side of this nature emerges.

Clock Museum In Netherlands

ZAANDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — Prince Claus has opened a new clock museum, showing instruments man has used to measure time for 5,000 years, in this town near Amsterdam. The collection, which includes fine specimens of centuries-old Dutch clocks, is displayed in the beautiful 17th-century "Wevershuis," part of an open-air museum of historic shops and period rooms.

"GARBAGE HOUSE" — Debbie Hones, a senior majoring in architecture at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, carries newspaper cores past the "garbage house" that she and six other students are making from the cores of newspaper roles, metal strapping and 86-ounce bottles. The class project was bought by a professor for $600 before the first core was in place. The 600 square-foot house will contain a living room, bedroom, kitchen and bath. It will be insulated by a foot-thick layer of waste threads from a local textile mill (AP Wirephoto)

Wallace On Texas Swing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace flies to Texas today on the first leg of a five-day western campaign swing in search of additional delegates to Democratic National Convention.

Wallace's itinerary, released Monday by his national campaign headquarters here, reflects the austerity that has been forced on the campaign by a shortage of funds.

The Alabama governor's schedule for his visits to Texas and Arizona is heavily weighted with news media interviews and the taping of radio and television broadcasts. They replace the more costly mass rallies that marked Wallace's campaign in the earlier primaries.

Wallace is to visit eight cities in a crowded three-day visit to Texas, heading late Thursday to Arizona, the home state of Democratic presidential hopeful Rep. Morris Udall.

He is to remain in Arizona until Saturday afternoon when he flies to Little Rock, Ark., for his last campaign stop of the week before returning here.

Conceding "the odds are great" against his winning the Democratic presidential nomination this year, Wallace nevertheless has said he will remain an active candidate through the convention.

Following his third-place showing in Wisconsin primary last week, Wallace slipped from second to fourth place in delegate strength among the Democratic contenders with a total of 104 delegates committed to him.

Ford Portrays Self As Underdog In Texas Voting

By The Associated Press
President Ford, continuing to portray himself as the underdog in Texas' May 1 Republican primary, says challenger Ronald Reagan is ahead but that "we could surprise them."

close to call." At a White House reception Monday, Ford said, "We could surprise them down there and we have an opportunity to win. If we can do well in Texas, if we surprise them, then I think we've really got headway going."

The President will try a new tactic aimed at increased news coverage of his activities when he resumes his campaign travels next week. Ford plans to do his campaigning during the normal Monday-Friday work week, White House sources said, rather than on Fridays and Saturdays as he has in the past.

Newspaper deadlines are early on Saturdays, they reason, and weekend television network news programs have far smaller audiences than those on weekday evenings. Meanwhile, a report filed with the government Monday showed Reagan's campaign trimmed its spending in March to barely half of what it laid out in February and ran its debt to nearly $1 million, while the President's campaign increased its expenditures in March and ended the month $777,232 ahead.

Reagan spent $1.61 million in March, in sharp contrast with the $2.84 million he spent in February, the report showed. On the Democratic side, the leading contenders for the party's presidential nomination stepped up their campaigning for Pennsylvania's April 27 primary. Pennsylvania will elect 134 Democratic delegates in the primary and 44 others at the party's state conventions.

Arizona Rep. Morris Udall, who walked the streets of downtown Philadelphia in search for votes Monday, planned to head for Pittsburgh today. Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson also was due in Pittsburgh. Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter was expected at a rally in Atlanta before taking his campaign to Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Missouri campaign officials for both Udall and Jackson said Monday the candidates had canceled scheduled appearances in the state this week to concentrate on Pennsylvania. Meanwhile, Carter's use of the phrase "ethnic purity" continued to come under criticism.

Black activist Hosea Williams said in Atlanta that Carter's apology for using the phrase in a speech does not go far enough. Williams, a state legislator, called on blacks to stop supporting Carter "until he clarifies his stand on integrated neighborhoods." Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, his campaign for the Democratic nomination hampered by money problems, was scheduled to kick off a five-day trip to Texas and Arizona today.

Idaho Sen. Frank Church, most recent of the entrants in the Democratic race, continued a three-day swing through Nebraska. He arrived in the state Sunday to begin preparations for the May 11 primary there—the first one in which he is an active candidate.

In a speech Monday at the University of Nebraska, Church attacked the overseas growth of multinational corporations at the expense of the U.S. economy. There were these other political developments: —Jackson was the only Democratic candidate to report his cash status Monday. He ended March with $154,015 cash on hand and no bills outstanding. His private donations during March reached $36,154, triple the amounts he received in January and February. However, his March expenditures of $1.10 million were down somewhat from his February outlays of $1.34 million. —The U.S. Appeals Court upheld a Federal Communications Commission decision to exempt news conferences and debates by political candidates from its equal time rule.

—Ford vetoed legislation which would have repealed the 36-year-old Hatch Act, which bans partisan political activity by federal employees. —Udall's campaign coordinator in Washington State said Jackson has lost his grip on 20 homestate delegates. —Wallace officials closed their Charleston, W.Va., campaign office, citing a lack of money.

Finnish Plant's Blast Fatal To At Least 37

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — An explosion ripped apart the government's Lapua ammunition factory today, killing at least 37 persons and injuring more than 30, the Defense Ministry announced.

Most of the dead and injured were women working in the cartridge loading plant, which was destroyed, the ministry said.

There was no indication of the cause of the blast at the factory 230 miles north of Helsinki. The government named a commission to investigate. "The explosion was just one big blast which ripped the one-story concrete plant to pieces," a spokesman said. He said it would be difficult to determine what happened because all the foremen were dead or injured.

The 51-year-old plant was located in the middle of Lapua, a town of 15,000, and blew out windows within a radius of half a mile. All nearby houses were evacuated, and a company of soldiers was rushed to the scene from a nearby garrison to help pull the victims from the rubble.

The casualties were rushed to the Lapua and Seinajoki hospitals. The hospitals said 25 of the 30 injured were in critical condition.

Army helicopters flew blood plasma and other medical supplies from Helsinki. Defense Minister Kristian S. Mein and high-ranking ministry officials flew to Lapua to inspect the damage.

It took almost three hours for news of the explosion to reach Helsinki because the blast knocked out the telephone system.

Finland's most destructive previous peacetime explosion occurred in 1947 at a cellulose plant, killing 17 persons and injuring more than 100.

Four Collisions In Greenville Monday

Four traffic mishaps yesterday resulted in an estimated $1,400 property damage, Greenville Police Department investigators reported.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 7:07 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 650 feet West of the Charles Street intersection involving cars driven by Michael Earl Adams of 1810 Sulgrave Rd. and Paul Wayne Kendrick of 905 Greenville Blvd.

Police, who charged Adams with following too close, estimated damage at $400 to the Adams car and $25 to the Kendrick auto.

No charges were made following investigation of a 3 p.m. mishap on 14th Street, 300 feet West of Berkley Road involving a bus driven by Shirley Lavon Best of 105 Howard Cir.

Officers said the bus received an estimated $100 damage when sun blinded the driver and the vehicle collided with a utility pole, causing an estimated $300 damage to the pole.

Investigators reported cars driven by Mary Rabil Saieed of 105 Cheshire Dr. and Bessie O'Neal McLawhorn of Azelea Gardens Trailer Park collided about 10:14 a.m. on Fifth Street, 60 feet West of the Harding Street intersection causing an estimated $250 damage to the Saieed vehicle and $75 damage to the McLawhorn auto.

No charges were made. Again no charges were reported following the collision of cars driven by Earnest Lee Jones of 506A Darden Dr. and Boydie B. Felder Jr. of 701 West Fourth St.

Police estimated damage from the collision at $200 to the Jones car and $50 to the Felder vehicle.

No injuries were reported in the series of collisions.

Atlantic Beach Meeting Slated

ATLANTIC BEACH — The spring meeting of the Alcoholism Professionals of N.C. will be held Apr. 29-May 1 at the John Yancey Motor Inn here.

The three-day meeting will include presentations on assertive training, medical aspects of alcoholism, relaxation therapy, occupational programs, and team problem-solving.

Pre-registration (by April 15) may be made by mailing $15 to Gwin Derouin, APNC, Box 24, Pinehurst, N.C. 28374. Later registrations will be $20. Those attending must make their own room reservations. Registration will be at 11 a.m. Thursday and the meetings will end at noon Saturday.

CIRCLE MEETING

The Patient Circle of the King's Daughters will meet at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Miss Martha Lee Cowell and Mrs. R. C. Henry.

The Rev. R. Graham Nahouse, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, will present the program.

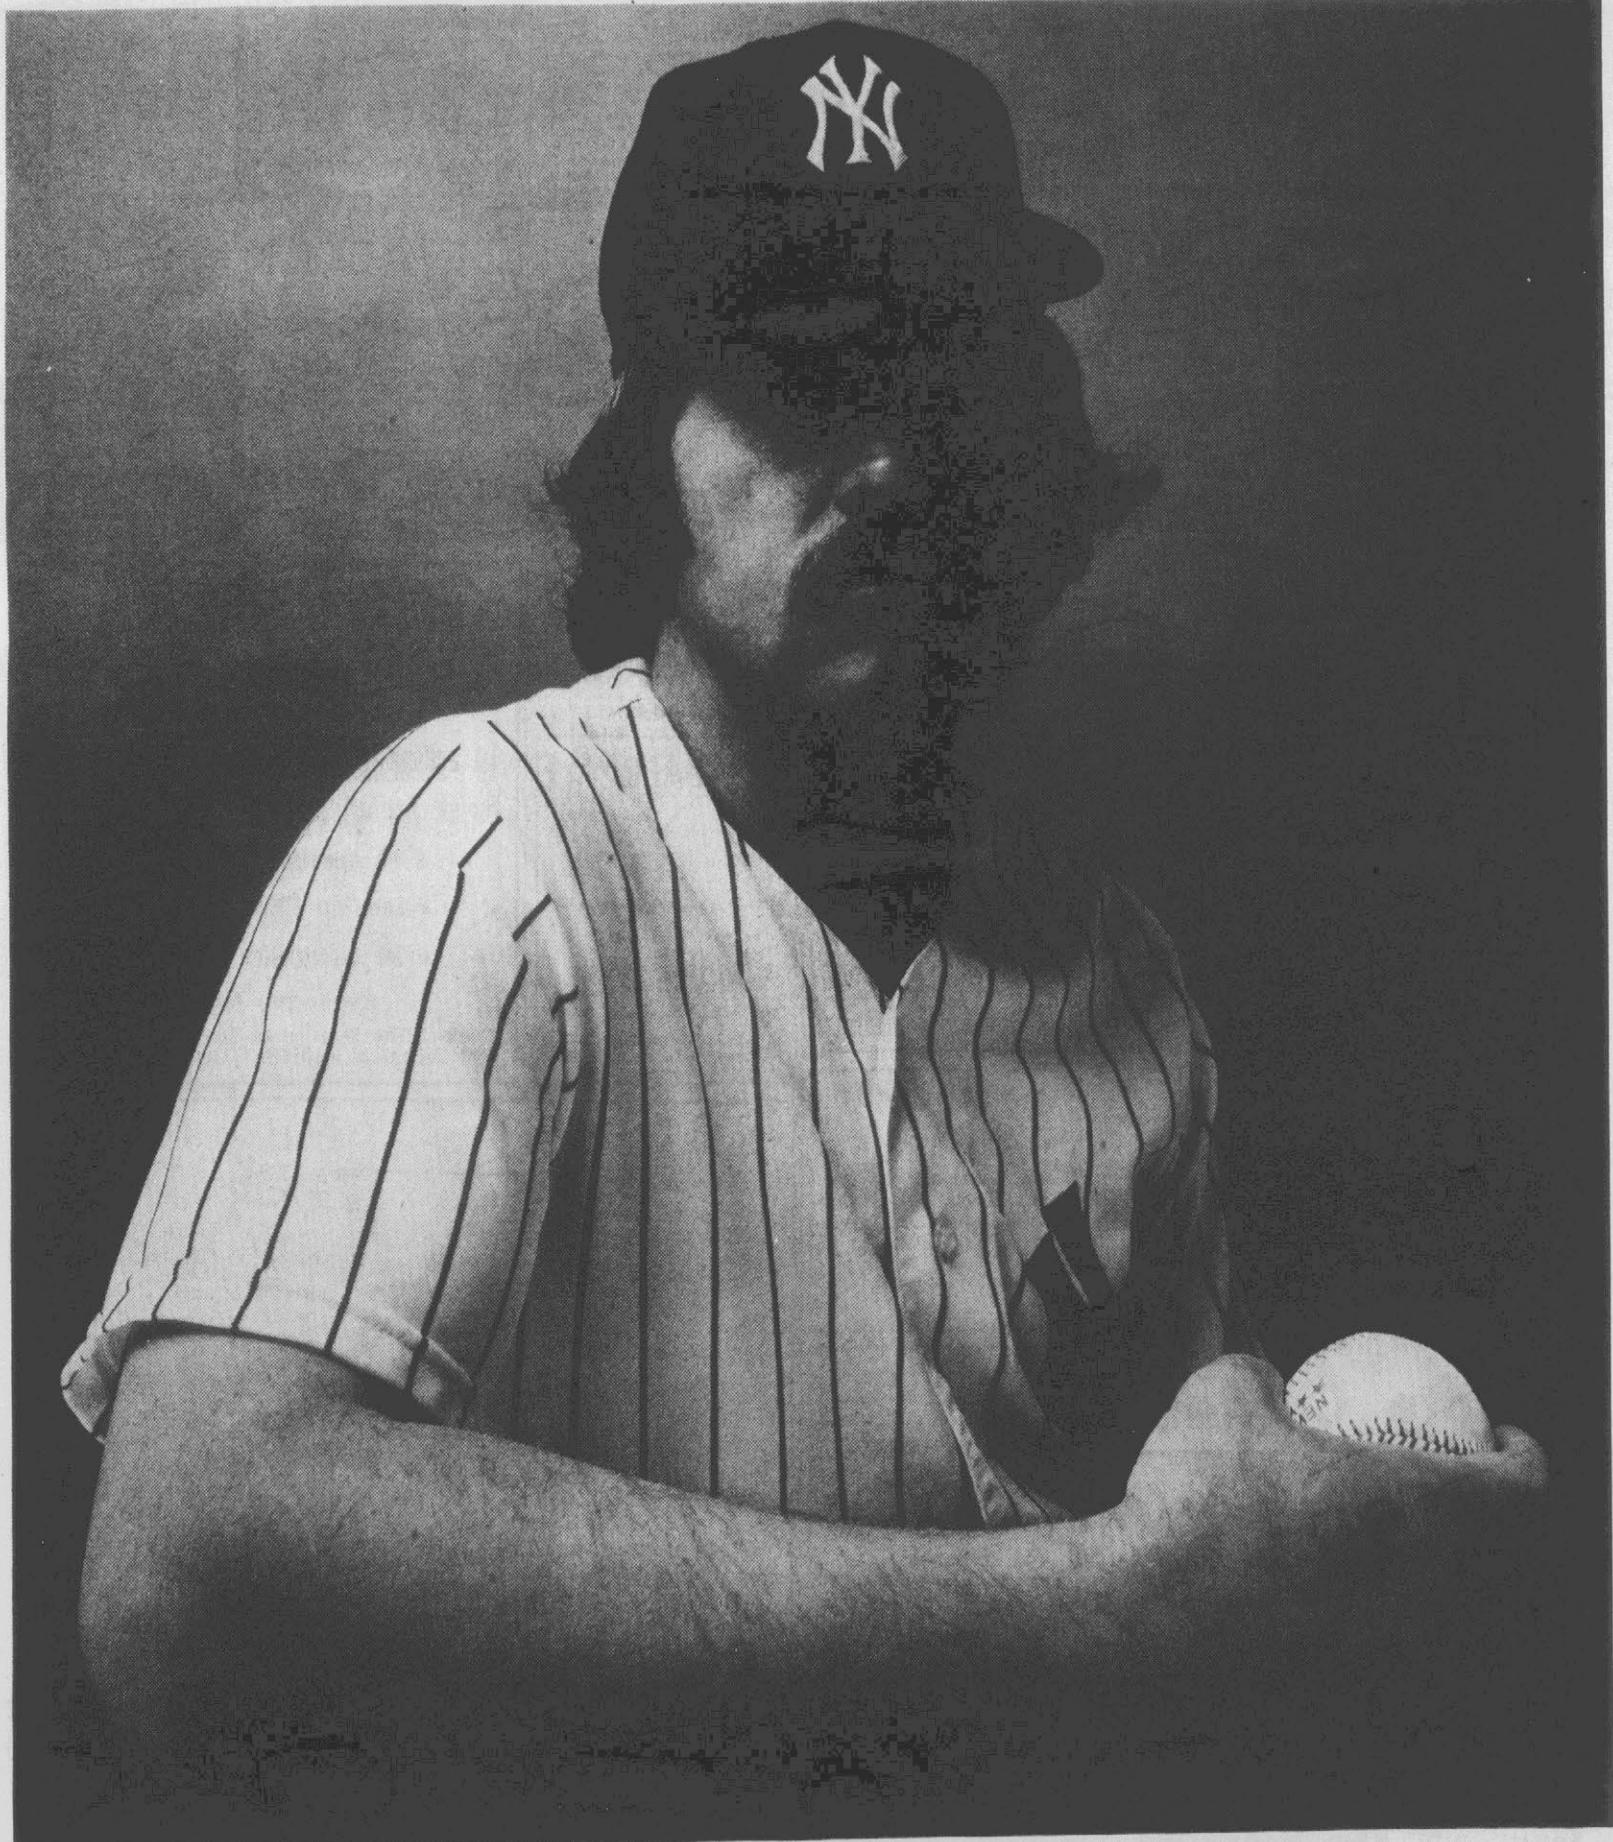

Christian Radio Organizational Meeting Set

A Christian Radio organization, a non-profit corporation to oversee radio station ministry, is sponsoring a breakfast-meeting Thursday, April 16, at 7 a.m. at Tom's Restaurant.

Ralph Gardner, manager of the Christian Radio Station in Greenville which is located in the rear of Wilcar Office Building on Tenth Street, will be in charge of the meeting.

All pastors, leaders of any Christian organization and individuals who would desire Christian radio broadcasting to continue in Greenville and Pitt County are invited to attend. (This meeting is not to ask for financial aid in any way.)

During the meeting, a prayer, devotion and formation of a charter will take place.

Some people would give their right arm for more cash in hand.

The right arm you see above belongs to Jim "Catfish" Hunter. It put a lot of cash in his hands last year. Unfortunately, most people can't rely on their right arms to earn them that kind of money. So now and then, they need a loan. If you have a good reason to borrow, Planters

National Bank has money to lend. And when you come in for a loan at PNB, you'll get the same kind of treatment we give "Catfish" Hunter. Even if you don't own the strongest right arm in North Carolina. Up-to-date banking from down-to-earth bankers.
