SUNSHINE CROSS — The sun, photographed through a dogwood tree in Chattanooga, forms itself into an Easter cross. Some legends have it Christ died on a cross of dogwood and the tree's blooms therefore are shaped as a cross and bear nallstains. The photograph by Rick Owens, a news photographer, was done with a filter. (AP Wirephoto)

Carter Says His Rivals Ganging Up

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter said today that supporters of his Democratic presidential rivals are "now locking together in a very tight-knit effort to stop me" and create a deadlocked national nominating convention.

Carter told a private fundraising breakfast in Washington that "some of the labor organizations who profess openly they know (Sen. Henry M.) Jackson doesn't have a chance to be president support him openly because of that."

The former Georgia governor said his opponents "are making an effort to create a deadlocked convention by stopping me in Pennsylvania," site of an April 27 primary that is the next major test among the announced leading candidates for the Democratic nomination.

Carter did not specify what form this "tight-knit effort" is taking but said "whether someone is supporting Sen. (Hubert) Humphrey, Frank Church, Mo Udall, Scoop Jackson or Jerry Brown they are now coordinating very tightly their effort to stop Jimmy Carter."

In another political development, Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown ruled today that Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrat George C. Wallace can appear on state's June 8 presidential primary ballot.

Brown had disqualified both candidates from the ballot earlier on the basis they lacked sufficient valid signatures on nomination petitions, but said a recount showed they were eligible.

Reagan, meanwhile, campaigned today in Texas, where he faces President Ford in the GOP primary May 1.

The White House said Ford will visit Indiana next Thursday and Georgia next Friday. Primaries in the two states are May 4. A White House spokesman said Ford also plans to campaign in Tennessee but that no definite times or places have been scheduled.

Reagan scheduled eight days of campaigning in Tennessee next month in preparation for the state's May 25 presidential primary.

In Washington, Carter said a brokered convention would be a serious mistake for the party. He contended that Humphrey would have been elected in 1968 "if we had not gone through the divisive experience of a brokered convention."

Carter, who has been critical of Humphrey in the past, said the Minnesota senator "would have made and would still make a very fine president."

In appealing for campaign contributions, Carter said the cut off of federal matching money for primary campaigns has cut down his ability to present himself in Pennsylvania because his campaign had counted on the money to finance his media efforts.

Thirteen Men Die In Gulf Drilling Rig Safety Unit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Thirteen men who scrambled into a saucer-like survival capsule before an oil drilling platform sank in the wind-whipped Gulf of Mexico died later when the capsule capsized, the Coast Guard said today.

"There were no survivors," among the 13, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The fiberglass capsule was pulled aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington. A Coast Guard spokesman said four bodies fell out an open hatch as the capsule was swung aboard, but Navy divers recovered them. Nine others were inside the capsule, the Coast Guard said.

The men were from the 35-man crew of the offshore drilling platform Ocean Express, which tipped over and sank late Thursday as it was moving through 15-foot seas lashed by winds that reached 60 mile per hour. The other crew members and the captain survived, but heavy seas stalled efforts to reach the men trapped in the capsule.

Navy divers had made the grim discovery of the bodies as several tugs and larger craft, including the Lexington, stood by at the scene, about 40 miles northeast of Corpus Christi.

"It's just a freak accident," said an official of the company that owned the rig, Ocean Drilling & Exploration Co. (ODECO) of New Orleans.

"We don't know exactly what happened. These capsules are supposed to float head up."

The official said names of the victims weren't immediately available.

The ODECO official described the survival capsule as about 14 feet wide, 9 feet high, and equipped with oxygen and food. They are checked every six weeks and are "completely life supporting" for up to 20 men, he said.

He said the capsules are standard equipment on rigs that drill in the gulf.

The rig went down in 187 feet of water as it was being towed to a new location about 50 miles away at Mustang Island, ODECO said.

"One of the two tow lines broke and the engine on the other tug went down," the ODECO official said. "The Express got into a trough, the substructure twisted and put a great stress on it and the whole thing went down."

Another company rig on location 20 miles away experienced 60 mile per hour winds and 26-foot seas at the time, he said.

He described the Express as a jack-up rig which sits on three legs 14 to 16 feet in diameter when on location. The legs are pulled up when the rig is moved and stick 250 feet up into the air.

The heavy seas bounced the capsule around like a top. Lines fixed to the device broke as attempts were made to right the capsule, which was floating with its entranceway facing into the sea.

Rescue authorities said 17 men left the platform in one survival capsule, bobbed about for a time in the water and were hoisted aboard one of the tugs which hustled alongside. These men reported there were 18 aboard a second capsule, but apparently five of those men escaped before it flipped over. Tugs took aboard these five survivors from the capsule, all apparently bruised but not injured seriously.

It was more than six hours afterward before a diver could swim underneath long enough to discover that the hatch of that capsule was open and there was water inside. The bodies were discovered later in yet another dive.

The Coast Guard said the captain of the Ocean Express, who they did not identify, had stayed behind Thursday night to cut the two capsules of crewmen free from the rig. They said a helicopter plucked the captain to safety moments before the platform went to the bottom. He was taken to a naval medic center here. ODECO said the man's title was actually supervisor of barge movement, and they identified him as Peter van der Graff. ODECO said the platform was being moved to a drilling site for Marathon Oil. Marathon, of nearby Rockport, Tex., said today that they had not yet taken control of the platform, although they had signed the lease.

Water Rising On Minot City Dikes

By J.D. WILSON
Associated Press Writer

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — Weather officials predicted rain and high winds today as the flood-swollen Souris River crept toward the top of earthen dikes and this city of 35,000 braced for what could be its fifth flood in seven years.

The National Weather Service said up to an inch of rain could fall before midnight and would be accompanied by 25 to 30 mile an hour winds. The rain may continue throughout the weekend.

"The forecast is basically grim," said Robert Barnicle of the National Weather Service.

More than 750,000 tons of dirt have been heaped into 35 miles of earthen dikes protecting low-lying sections of Minot. The river is expected to crest Saturday at a level about 8 feet above flood stage.

Officials said the additional rain would not seriously affect river levels but would make more difficult the task of maintaining the dikes. "Touchy" was the one-word description of James Ruyak of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, chief of dike construction.

The dikes were essentially complete today, Ruyak said, and the waters were still contained within them. Volunteer workers were combating erosion problems, and Ruyak classified further work on the dikes as maintenance duties.

Minot, in north central North Dakota, is the fourth largest city in the state. It is built on two hills and the river meanders through the center of town.

Four times in recent years the Souris has overflowed its banks and flooded the homes of 12,000 people living on the low-lying flood plain beside it banks.

All but a handful of those people had been evacuated from that area by today, and city officials said the number still electing to stay was dropping steadily.

City Manager John Arnold said 33 householders had refused to relocate by a Wednesday night deadline, but 24 hours later only 10 houses were still occupied. Most of those homes whose occupants remained were along fringe areas of the flood plain where waters might not reach if the dikes broke.

Italy Seeing Unrest

ROME (AP) — Bomb threats against the stock market in Milan and arson at a Rome supermarket harassed Italians today as the country appeared closer to early elections that could make the Communists the strongest party in Italy.

The opening of the Milan stock market was delayed for two hours by bomb threats an hour apart, believed tied to antispeculation measures announced Thursday.

The measures, imposed after speculation was blamed for Monday's slump to the lowest stock prices in 20 years, appeared to restore confidence in the market, however, and stocks improved sharply. The lira gained slightly against the dollar.

The antispeculation measures require deposit of stocks or cash equal to 90 per cent of the share value for all sales on margin or after a short term.

An automatic extinguisher installed to combat arson put out the fire in the Rome supermarket. A group calling itself "Armed Communists," claimed responsibility for the blaze, the latest in a series of industrial arson.

A Socialist rebuff to the ruling Christian Democrats has apparently set the stage for preterm parliamentary elections in which the fast-rising Communists stand to gain.

In a dispatch from Rome, the Soviet news agency Tass said today, "The United States obviously dreads" Communist successes at the polls. "The U.S. view is that that would lead to a further weakening of NATO's southern wing."

Less Tobacco In 1976 Plans

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina farmers intend to plant more corn, cotton and sweet potatoes and less tobacco and soybeans this year, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today.

A survey the service conducted around April 1, indicated farmers intended to plant about 421,000 acres of flue-cured tobacco this season. This would be down 10 per cent from 1975, but not as great as a 15 per cent cut in allotments ordered by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz because of carry-over of unused allotments from 1975. Burley tobacco is expected to drop about 6 per cent to 8,500 acres.

In a reaction to market conditions farmers indicated a significant trade-off between corn and soybeans. Corn plantings are expected to rise to 1.9 million acres, an increase of 12 per cent, and soybeans to drop to 1.25 million acres, down 17 per cent.

The survey showed growers planned to plant 168,000 acres of peanuts, which would be about the same as compared year, 70,000 acres of cotton replaced with 55,000 acres last year, and 37,000 acres of sweet potatoes, up from 33,000 in 1976.

Another Movie On Hughes Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Warren Beatty will portray the late Howard Hughes in the second motion picture about the reclusive billionaire announced since his death April 5.

Ted Ashley, chairman of the board of Warner Bros., said Thursday Beatty would also produce the film and begin production in August.

Ashley said talks with Beatty about the movie had been under way for six months, although the deal was not concluded until this week.

Four Men Charged In Local Shooting Incident Thursday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning that four men, picked up by officers shortly after a shooting incident at Cherry Court Apartments was reported yesterday, have been charged in connection with the incident.

Cannon said two black men, Bobby Rogers Hobbs, 27 of Route 4, Wilson and Otis Bernard Walston, 27, of Route 2, Wilson have been charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in connection with the shooting of 21-year-old Gary Michael Smith of 112E Cherry Court.

Two other men, both white, have been charged with being accessories before and after the fact of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. Cannon identified them as Richard Earl Raper, 20 of Route 2, Wilson and Charles Tyson Shackelford, 23 of Saratoga.

Cannon said Raper and Shackelford both allegedly remained in the car while Hobbs and Walston entered the Smith dwelling about 8:35 a.m. on the pretext of checking plumbing in the apartment.

A scuffle apparently ensued and Smith was shot in the head with a .25 caliber pistol by one of the two while the other was upstairs according to Cannon.

Meanwhile, the intruder on the second floor, the chief noted, found Lee Ann Valentine in a bedroom and forced her downstairs. As Miss Valentine descended the stairway, she saw Smith slumped on the floor and bleeding. She ran from the apartment through the front door while Hobbs and Walston left by the rear door.

Cannon cited robbery as a possible motive for the incident. He said Smith's wallet had been rifled and noted that about $500 in cash was found on one of the suspects.

According to Cannon, Smith and Miss Valentine are both students at East Carolina University. Both are from Spring Lake, North of Fayetteville in Cumberland County.

Smith was in critical condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was admitted for treatment. Hobbs, Walston, Raper and Shackelford were taken into custody by police on N.C. 33 West of Greenville shortly after the incident was reported.

A blood-stained .25 caliber pistol was found in the rental car in which the four were traveling.

Final Check

GRIFTON — The Town of Grifton received the final check in the amount of $190,000 from the Farmers' Home Administration Friday, April 9. The grant is to be used for the funding of the sewer lines in the Forest Acres and Country Club Hills sections. The lines have already been constructed. Completion of the project is expected by June 20.

Mayor David Bosley received the check for the Town of Grifton Harry Jarvis, assistant county supervisor of the Farmers' Home Administration.

Hit Two Trees And Overturned

DRIVER ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY — Robert Lee, of Rt. 1, Bethel, escaped with a broken leg, and cuts Thursday afternoon when the car he was driving hit two trees and overturned near Bethel. According to Highway Patrolman A. G. Wright, Lee was traveling south and lost control of the vehicle, colliding with two trees; the second of which was struck approximately 12 feet from the ground. Ptl Wright said the car overturned, completely demolishing it. Wright said Lee is charged with speeding in excess of 100 mph, and improper equipment. Lee was transported to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Bethel Rescue Squad. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

LONG DELAY

I ordered two striking-kicking bags (karate equipment) from Bob Nieto Uniform and Equipment Company in Cleveland, Ohio, in November. The total cost was $135. First they said they were waiting for my check to clear and then they said they were waiting for the material to make the bags. I called them back in February and asked for a refund if they could not send the bags. I got neither. I called again the first of this month and they said they'd send a check that day, but they haven't. B.M.

Miss Dudley Weds Sunday

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — In a double ring ceremony, Miss Wanda Moseley Dudley became the bride of Barry Reuben Tudor at noon Sunday in the Executive Suite of The Hilton Hotel of Philadelphia.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Rigby Dudley of Greenville, N.C. and Mrs. Mrs. Sidney Tudor of Bound Brook, N.J.

Judge Clarence B. Nesbitt Jr. officiated at the ceremony, which was attended by family members of the couple.

The bride chose for her wedding, a three-piece beige linen suite accented by a brown silk blouse. Her wide-brim hat of nylon braid was trimmed with a band and streamers to match her house. Her corsage of orchids and baby's breath was tied with beige ribbon.

Dudley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a navy blue knit dress trimmed in kelly green and her corsage was a white orchid.

Scott Lyle Tudor, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride's mother selected a navy blue and white ensemble with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a grey knit dress trimmed in black, with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

The bride is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, with a B.S. degree in Mathematics. She is an instructor with Opportunities

Industrialization Center, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa. The bridegroom graduated from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania with a B.S. degree in economics, majoring in accounting and finance. He is a marketing representative of Scientific Time-Sharing Cor., of New York City.

After a wedding trip to New England, the couple will reside in New Brunswick, N.J.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Rigby Dudley, parents of the bride, entertained the families and friends of the couple in the Grand Ballroom of The Hilton.

Guests were greeted by the bridal couple, their parents, Miss Frances Cameron Dudley, Cameron Rigby Dudley Jr., sister and brother of the bride, Scott Lyle Tudor, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Tanzar, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Following the reception, a luncheon was held. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gladioli interspersed with pink carnations, flanked by candelabra.

Guests were seated at small tables with centerpieces of white and pink chrysanthemums and bridal greenery. After the luncheon, the three-tiered wedding cake was served to the guests with champagne. Music was provided by a musician of The Hilton Hotel.

DFEAR ABBY: I have heard that men who are bald at an early age have a very low sex drive. Is that true?
GOING WITH ONE

DEAR GOING: Not necessarily. Just because there's chrome on the dome doesn't mean there's no power under the hood.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked how to address mail to a couple who are not married but are living together. Today, many couples who are married have different names.

My daughter-in-law kept her own name, so I address their mail to both of them, using both their names. It may appear to the postman that they are not married, but I know they are.

Even though I would have preferred that she had taken my son's name, I realize that it is her privilege to use her own name if she so desires, I'm just...
GLAD THEY'RE MARRIED

DEAR ABBY: That guy who came home to find his wife waiting for him a la natural with a pitcher of martinis doesn't know how lucky he is.

I usually come home to a wife who's still in the same ratty bathrobe she was wearing when I said goodbye to her that morning. And the martinis are not in a pitcher. They are in HER!

Heavy Firing Makes Mockery Of Lebanon Talks

Three Major Textile Plants In New England Hit By Strike

BOSTON (AP) — Workers at three major New England textile plants were on strike today and officials of the Textile Workers Union of America say other strikes are expected in a dispute over wages in a new contract.

An estimated 800 union members set up picket lines at the Berkshire Hathaway Co. plant in New Bedford, Mass. In Biddeford, Maine, meanwhile, more than 700 workers walked out at the plants of the Biddeford Textile Co. and West Point Pepperell, Inc.

The strikes began after the failure of last-ditch negotiations Thursday night in Boston with Commissioner Richard Goggin of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Company officials at the session gave the union what they had said was their final offer.

Alton M. Hodgman, union international vice president and talks coordinator, said the companies offered 25 cents per hour more this year and 25 cents next year in wages and fringe benefits.

"Our feeling is that the workers are justified in getting more than what was offered," he said. "This won't even offset the increase in the cost of living."

He said the average pay of workers in the mills is now $3.30 to $3.40 an hour.

A union spokesman said the union policy committee recommended the membership turn it down.

The spokesman said the contract covering workers at the Bates Manufacturing Co. plant in Lewiston, Maine, was extended to Sunday when a meeting of union members was scheduled to decide on the next move.

The union said a Sunday meeting also was scheduled by workers at the American Thread Co. plant at Willimantic, Conn. The company said the third shift was cancelled there Thursday night.

Hodgman said workers at the Edwards Co. Plant at Augusta, Maine, earlier had approved a contract providing for some fringe benefits plus the wage improvements which Bates workers got in negotiations.

He said a meeting also is scheduled for Sunday for workers of the Fitchburg Yarn Co. of Fitchburg, Mass., where negotiations have continued separately.

Hodgman said that while company officials said their offer was a final one, he expects renewed talks, possibly by Monday.

He said the textile firms were hit hard by the recession a year ago, but, "that situation has completely changed everywhere except at American Thread where there are still a few laid off and they are complaining of poor business."

"At all the others, business has picked up tremendously and profits have substantially increased," he said.

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — More heavy fighting made a mockery of the cease-fire in Lebanon's civil war today as Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat returned from Damascus with still another Syrian peace proposal.

Police reported 219 persons killed and 341 wounded in the past 36 hours, and the recovery of the bodies of 34 persons killed earlier. This was near the casualty level during the war's heaviest artillery battles three weeks ago, and spokesmen admitted the figures were incomplete.

A Palestinian source who accompanied Arafat said the new peace plan calls for withdrawal of Syrian troops from Lebanon, an all-faction military coordinating committee that could call the Syrians back if they were needed to make peace, renewal of the cease-fire, prompt election of a new president, reunification of the Lebanese army and some of the political reforms demanded by Kamal Jumblat and his leftist Moslems.

Arafat was to meet later with Jumblat to try to get his acceptance of the plan.

"The fighting is escalating ferociously on almost all fronts," one official said. "There are more killed on the ground than we can count because we cannot reach stricken areas."

The heaviest battles were in and around Beirut, where Christians and Moslems traded rocket, mortar and light artillery fire. Local newspapers reported that three hospitals in the Christian quarter were hit by shellfire following two mortar attacks on a large hospital in the Moslem sector. The first attack on the Moslem hospital Wednesday was reported to have killed five persons and wounded 25. No casualty figures were available for the later attacks.

The latest cease-fire began April 2 and was to have continued for 10 days, to permit election of a replacement for Christian President Suleiman Franjeh. It was extended until the end of the month when Franjeh hung on. Conservative estimates put the number killed in the year-long conflict at 15,500, although one Christian leader upped the figure to 20,000 on Thursday.

Each side blamed the other for the escalation of fighting.

Jumblat's leftists charged that the right-wing Christians were trying to force the Syrian army to intervene further and save them. Pierre Gemayel, leader of the right-wing Christian Phalange, claimed the leftists intensified the fighting to give Arafat, the chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization, the chance to supplant Syrian President Hafez Assad as the chief peacemaker.

While Arafat spent the night in Damascus conferring with Assad, a four-man Syrian delegation was in Beirut for talks with Jumblat.

CAROLINA GRILL

Holds Post In SHP Auxiliary

FARMVILLE — Nancy Padgett of Farmville was elected Troop A representative at an organizational meeting of the North Carolina Highway Patrol State Auxiliary held in Greensboro April 10 and 11.

Frances Howell of Laurinburg was elected president of the auxiliary at the meeting attended by a large number of women from across the state.

Mrs. Padgett said the purpose of the Patrol Auxiliary is "to extend a feeling of unity and love for each other and the state patrol, to maintain and promote respect for all law enforcement personnel, and to promote the safety of patrolmen and all law abiding people in our state."

Other officers elected included: vice-president Glenda Blowe of Elizabeth City, secretary Edna Lemmon of Rockingham, treasurer Sharon Hendricks of High Point, historian Rhea Harris of Boone, and chaplain Ann Beck of Hamlet.

Other troop representatives elected include: Troop B, Audrey Mercer of Jacksonville; Troop C, Pam Newton of Raleigh; Troop D, Dianne Johnson of Roxboro; Troop E, Susan Moody of Winston-Salem; Troop F, Gertrude Hundley of Wilkesboro; Troop G, Debbie Debruhl of Robbinville; and Troop H, Dot Etheridge of Charlotte.

Others attending the meeting from Troop A's District V (Pitt and Edgecombe Counties) were: Sandy Wright of Bethel; Katheryn Withers, Sammie Eure and Claire Davis of Greenville; and Ann Basnight of Farmville.

System Said Ineffective

RALEIGH (AP)—Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten told a legislative study commission today that the criminal justice system is ineffective in dealing with the problems of public drunkenness.

Edmisten told the Commission on Correctional Programs in a prepared statement that he has named a committee headed by Judge Carlos Murray and asked it to make an in-depth inquiry into public drunkenness.

"Rather than the foster the revolving door of arrest-jail-fine return to the streets syndrome, it is my opinion that attempts should be made to arrive at a solution which would be designed to save the taxpayers the millions of dollars now being wasted in impractical methods of processing non-violent public drunks but which would also be geared toward assisting the alcoholic to achieve a useful, productive status in society," Edmisten said.

Driver Charged In Car Mishap

Bennie Lee Daughtry of Route 1, Greenville was charged with following too close following investigation of a 4:15 p.m. collision here yesterday on Greene Street, 54 feet South of the First Street intersection.

Officers identified drivers of two other vehicles involved in the mishap as Mary Kathryn Thompson of 104 West Jackson Dr. and Carol Taft House of 303 Greenfield Ter.

Damage was estimated at $1,200 to the Daughtry car, $330 to the House auto and $195 to the Thompson vehicle.

System Said Ineffective

RALEIGH (AP)—Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten told a legislative study commission today that the criminal justice system is ineffective in dealing with the problems of public drunkenness.

Edmisten told the Commission on Correctional Programs in a prepared statement that he has named a committee headed by Judge Carlos Murray and asked it to make an in-depth inquiry into public drunkenness.

"Rather than the foster the revolving door of arrest-jail-fine return to the streets syndrome, it is my opinion that attempts should be made to arrive at a solution which would be designed to save the taxpayers the millions of dollars now being wasted in impractical methods of processing non-violent public drunks but which would also be geared toward assisting the alcoholic to achieve a useful, productive status in society," Edmisten said.

Speaks To Ruritan Club

WINTERVILLE — John McConney, manager of chemical animal health production at Burroughs Wellcome, addressed the Winterville Ruritan Club Tuesday night. He said that the company employs 2,000 persons, including those in Greenville, the Research Triangle and salesmen.

The speaker said that Burroughs Wellcome sales have increased over 100 per cent since the plant was located in Greenville. McConney said that his company produces hundreds of different prescription and over-the-counter drugs. He emphasized that elaborate testing is required before a new drug reaches the market.

McConney, a trained chemical engineer, provided information about generic drugs. He said that while generic drugs are cheaper, it is safer to buy branded drugs which are produced by reputable manufacturers.

McConney was presented to the club by R.E. Boyd. The meeting was presided by Jimmy Dunn.

Threat Said Likely Hoax

RALEIGH (AP)—SBI Director Haywood Starling says a letter threatening to blow up 14 office buildings across North Carolina unless two "political prisoners" are released from the Western North Carolina Correctional Center at Morganton is likely a hoax.

"We've got pretty strong evidence it was written by someone who is presently serving time in the prison," Starling said.

He said the matter had been turned over to the FBI since "I'm not sure we have developed evidence that would justify state charges," Starling said.

He said he understood the hand-printed letter was given to a prison counselor Tuesday. It was signed "Bernadine Dohrn" who has been described as leader of the violence oriented faction of the Students for a Democratic Society.

The "political prisoners" named in the letter were listed as Charles O'Conner and Mark Arnold, 17. O'Conner, from Ramseur, is serving from one day to seven years for robbery with a dangerous weapon, and Arnold, from Fayetteville, is serving from one day to 10.

Model Sues For $8 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — A fashion model has sued Viva magazine for $8 million, claiming it used her picture on the cover of its May issue without her permission to package its "sexualized" based format.

Margaret Ashley Porter, 24, a 5-foot-10 inch brunette, said Thursday in her State Supreme Court suit:

"I respectfully submit that my image is not enhanced by the appearance of my photograph on the cover of a magazine which has recently had naked males in its centerfold, and has had almost explicit sexual encounters photographically depicted, and has had a feminist and sexually based format."

She said she had appeared in advertisements in such high-fashion magazines as Vogue, and on television, including the NBC network.

Officials of the magazine were not available for comment.

Armed Robbery At Local Store

Greenville police are continuing their investigation today into an armed robbery at the Fast Fare store at 3101 South Evans St. here last night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a lone bandit, armed with a pistol and wearing a ski mask, entered the store about 11:50 p.m. and took about $100 in cash from the clerk.

The robber fled on foot into a wooded area behind the store.

Foresight Makes A Difference

The House-Senate Budget Committee voted this week to cut $3.8 million from the ECU medical school funds, as the budget trimming process proceeds.

The funds, which were to finance an additional bed tower at Pitt Memorial Hospital, are expected to be restored by the 1977 Legislature.

The cut was acceptable to Eastern Legislators who fought for the original medical school appropriations. Both UNC President William Friday and ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins indicated that the cut would not harm the school's chances of obtaining accreditation, provided the funds are restored in 1977.

Of course, we can't say we are particularly overjoyed to see any funds cut from the medical school appropriation since the budget was carefully prepared to request minimum funds for expeditious development of the school.

Nevertheless work is already funded and underway to construct facilities at Pitt Memorial Hospital which are essential to the teaching aspects of the facility. The bed tower will be the next phase of the hospital construction.

It shouldn't be forgotten, though that $7 million was cut from the medical school budget last year when the decision was made to make use of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital as the medical school's primary clinical facility.

Thus the foresight of Pitt County leaders in planning the new hospital and making it available for teaching purposes, and the wisdom of Pitt County voters in approving bonds for the construction are paying off.

Not only will the new hospital be available next fall, rather than being only in the planning stage, but there has been a multi-million savings to the state, as well as the postponement of a $3.8 million expenditure.

We think that speaks well for the people of Pitt County.

Additional Burden Studied, Put Aside

The House-Senate Budget committee last week considered and turned down a proposal to raise university tuitions as a way to increase revenues.

It concerned us that the possibility had been raised that university tuitions would be increased and we are happy that the idea has been dropped.

Almost always the parents of in-state students are already supporting the universities, and all state government services, with their tax dollars. A further increase in tuitions would have put an additional burden on parents and students alike.

THIS AFTERNOON

Legislative Pay Not Issue

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—While members of the General Assembly, the governor, and especially those running for higher office or re-election this fall, scramble for some way of providing a salary increase for state employees, the pay for legislators is not involved.

It is almost guaranteed that public reaction to any effort to increase legislative pay would be severe, in light of the various effects of the recession—and particularly since legislative salaries were doubled just last year.

North Carolina's General Assembly now has a pay scale which ranks 22nd in the nation; about halfway between the top states which pay $20,000 or more a year, and the lowest ones where legislators receive less than $500 a year.

Effective with members of the 1975 General Assembly, legislators are paid a straight salary of $4,800 per year. The salary had been $2,400.

Plus Expenses
Each legislator is paid $100 monthly with no strings for personal expenses such as letters, postage, telephone calls.

When the assembly is in session, legislators are paid a flat $35 per day (seven days a week even when not in Raleigh) for the weekend or holidays for room and board.

And each member is paid for a weekly roundtrip from home to Raleigh at the rate of 15 cents per mile. When the assembly is not in session, legislators receive the mileage money and the $25 daily living expense whenever they must visit Raleigh on official business.

All told, then, legislators are paid—for their two-year terms—a salary of $9,600 ($4,800 annually), monthly expense money totaling $2,400, daily living expenses totaling about $8,000 ($35 daily) for a total of $20,000. That doesn't count the mileage money which may or may not produce some profit, depending on type of car driven.

At the same time the assembly voted a pay raise for its members, it abolished the controversial retirement plan, although some previously qualified members would continue to draw retirement pay until death.

North Carolina pays legislators on a part-time basis deliberately, on the theory that such will encourage "citizen lawmakers" who must work for a living and serve in the assembly out of a sense of duty.

Too Much Work
Many legislators complain, however, that with annual meetings now becoming the rule rather than the exception, and with the heavy schedule of committee and study commission activities between sessions, service is becoming a losing proposition.

The legislature was in session from Jan. 15 until June 26 in 1975; and will convene May 3 for what leaders still insist will be a three or four week session to handle budgetary matters.

The highest annual salaries for legislators are in New York ($23,500), California ($21,120, plus a car and credit card), and Illinois ($20,000) plus various expense arrangements.

The lowest salary is in New Hampshire where assem-

Carter's Tactical Problem

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The furor over "ethnic purity" has shaken key supporters and advisers of Jimmy Carter more than they admit, not because it reminds them of George Wallace but because it recalls the spectre of McGovernism.

To 1972 McGovern campaign veterans who dominate Carter's 1976 cadre in state after state, the self-inflicted wound brings back nightmare memories. Although George McGovern's reflexive liberalism guarded against any statement with even faintly racist overtones, his political ineptitude has recently reappeared in Carter.

The "ethnic purity" problem, then, is tactical, not substantive. Coming just when Carter had to resume his offensive for the presidential nomination, it knocked him back on the defensive, leaving him thrashing in the political wilderness of neighborhood housing patterns. Carter's supporters now question whether Carter and his Georgia-bred staff are truly capable of sustaining a presidential campaign.

Significantly, it is this tactical question, not fears that Carter might have disclosed secret racism, that worries his liberal backers. Indeed, McGovernites have backed Carter not out of illusion that he was a proven Southern civil rights liberal who never dallied with George Wallace but because they perceived him as a winner who welcomes them aboard his bandwagon. If Carter suddenly looks like an inept loser, his appeal disappears.

That is why this single, tertiary issue so damaged Carter. Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers (UAW), for weeks has been boosting Carter to dubious colleagues. When the UAW high command met last week in Detroit behind closed doors, the discussion was dominated by "ethnic purity." The result: neither the UAW (expected) nor Woodcock (believed certain) endorsed Carter for the May 18 Michigan primary.

UAW leaders were not the only liberals stopped dead in their tracks. One nationally

Strength For Today

SPEAKING TO BUSY PEOPLE

It is interesting to note how often in the Bible God is pictured as giving some great commission to men busily employed in some humble task. Moses was tending sheep in Midian when God called to him out of the burning bush. David was tending sheep also when called to take the crown. Gideon was treading the wine press when the angel of the Lord came to summon him to a great responsibility. Elisha was plowing when God touched him with a spirit of eloquence and power.

Andrew, Peter, James and John were fishing when the Master came with the promise to make them fishers of men.

There is a place for leisure in every well-regulated life, but people find their salvation more often in work than in play.

If God cannot speak to us in the office, there is little likelihood that he will find us in a receptive mood in the church. If He does not reveal Himself to us on the street, there is little to be expected from a sojourn in the sanctuary.

THE PASSOVER

Happy Holidays Season

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The air turns warmer, brighter now. Scents of green freshen the earth and under the sun, roots stir, the sap flows again and buds burst on the branches of the great elms. It's the childhood of the year, the season of the robin's song, of life renewed, the springtime of nature and also of faith.

It's the time of the happy holidays of the Jewish Passover and the Christian Easter.

Both celebrate deliverance from human bondage. Both proclaim the triumph of the victimized. Both signify victory over adversity. Both ring with joy and hope.

"Sing to the Lord, for he has triumphed gloriously," goes a Jewish Passover hymn, marking the freeing of the Israelites from slavery in Egypt. "The Lord is my strength and my song and has become my salvation."

"He is risen!" resounds the good news of the Christian Easter, marking the resurrection of the crucified Christ. "He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

Redemption is seen in both events. Both are regarded as manifestations of divine truth in human history. Both herald the overcoming of evil and injustice. Both tell of travail and conquest over it.

"By His great mercy, we have been born anew to a living hope..." says the apostle John. "This is the victory that overcomes the world."

"Praise the Lord" goes a hallel of Passover, a song from the Psalms. "He raises the poor from the ash heap... Our God is merciful... He has delivered my soul from death."

The week-long Passover observance began on Thursday with the sharing of the seder, a ritual meal recalling the ancient deliverance from tyranny and affliction, summoning believers to continued dedication to that God-given freedom.

"We were Pharaoh's slaves in Egypt, but the Lord our God rescued us," goes the "Haggadah," the retelling of the old story. It first disclosed to the Biblical people what God is like, that He saves, frees, cares for the lowly, redeems the lost. "With a mighty hand... the Lord brought us out... from the house of bondage."

It was a seder that Jesus shared in his last supper before his crucifixion. "I have earnestly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer," he told his apostles. The meal, in new form, became the central rite of Christian worship, Holy Communion, signifying the divine presence with humanity.

Both Passover and Easter focus on luminous personalities, Moses who led the exodus from Egypt, and on Jesus. Both faiths are drawn from happenings, from events and experiences, in the conviction that the only realistic understanding of God comes as it is shown in

To the editor:

We urge support of the National Forest Timber Management Reform Act, HR 11894 and S 2926. This is middle-of-the-road legislation that permits economical clear-cutting of timber under regulations preserving growth along water courses, on steep slopes, and in protective strips.

Unregulated clear-cutting can lead to serious erosion which at best increases the renewal time of timber stands and in extreme cases can completely destroy the ability of an area to support forests. Other legislation being considered by Congress provides less protection to the public's forests and should be rejected.

The preservation and continual development of our national forests should be treated as a first priority not only for ourselves but for future generations.

To the editor:

Why should anyone become upset over laws which allow other people to do what they feel is morally right so long as those laws force no one to do what they feel is morally wrong?

From my point of view, a disturbing element is entering our lives again. Enough time has probably passed that the first hand memory of prohibition has faded into our usually distorted historical perspective. However, the back room abortion mills were not that long ago. Yet, some people wish to reverse the Supreme Court decision which allows abortion, but does not force it.

The same logic applies to our local Blue laws. Why should the merchants and shoppers who want to open and shop on Sunday not be allowed the privilege as long as the law does not force commerce on Sunday?

The philosophical and practical question of freedom of choice will become more important in future years. As the definition of life becomes more nebulous in its beginning and ending and as the individual becomes less simplistic and more self-assured in his thinking, freedom of choice will become vitally important.

Fair laws should be written to allow freedom of choice on moral actions. We should know from bitter experience that legislating morality does not work.

Mail Brings Letters

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the major reasons why Americans write their representatives in Congress is to complain about mail service, according to an informal sampling of 15 lawmakers.

Four said the Postal Service is the issue raised most often in their constituent mail. Several others agreed the Postal Service might be the leading issue but said they had no exact statistics available.

The 15 lawmakers represent a variety of constituencies and political philosophies.

An aide to Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said, "I don't think there's a more unpopular agency in the federal government. The reason is that everyone receives mail and there's a lot of room for complaints. Other agencies aren't so visible."

An aide to Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who analyzes the mail in terms of issues, said that in the first 10 weeks of this year the office had received 275 personally typed or handwritten letters about the Postal Service. This represents one out of every 18 letters to Simon during that period, he said. The second biggest issue was abortion, which stimulated 115 letters, he said.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., who represents Brooklyn, receives "consistently moderately heavy volume" of letters about mail service, an aide said.

Members from rural constituencies also say more of the mail about the Postal Service protests the agency's policy of closing certain unprofitable rural post offices.

An aide to Rep. Richard H. Ichord, a Democrat who represents a rural district in Missouri, said, "We get an increasing amount of postal mail. The predominant concern is the closing of small post offices, although there has always been a lot expressing dissatisfaction with service and with increases in postal rates."

An aide to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "The Postal Service is among the heaviest areas that we get mail on... It's overwhelmingly negative. All the letters seem to express dissatisfaction with the Post Service."

The offices of Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., and Rep. Clair W. Burgener, R-Calif., reported increases in complaint mail about the Postal Service. "It's up about 50 per cent from Plans went forward here today for a march on Raleigh next Tuesday morning at 11:00 at which time the Pitt Farm Bureau Federation will endeavor to influence Governor Ehringhaus to call an immediate session of the legislature to consider tobacco compact legislation.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon of some 500 Pitt farmers, it was decided to go to Raleigh and meet at the large stadium of N. C. State College. Leaders of the movement said that if the governor did not attend the meeting they would march to the capitol and lay their demands before the chief executive.

Links Intelligence To Family

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The continuing decline in pre-college test scores can be blamed more on family size and the spacing of children than on television or permissiveness, a psychologist says.

Dr. Robert B. Zajonc, psychology professor at the University of Michigan, said Wednesday there was no evidence supporting assertions of some educators that score declines were caused by television, too much freedom, or more poor and minority group students taking the tests.

Instead, changing family size, intervals between the births of children, the absence of a parent and other factors correlate "remarkably well" with a steady decline in test scores over the last 12 years, Zajonc said in an interview.

Average scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), a major pre-college examination given high school seniors, dropped from 490 in 1962 to 450 in 1975.

Using data from SAT, the U.S. census and other demographic studies, Zajonc concluded that individual intelligence levels generally declined with increased family size, and that children born early in a family did better on intelligence tests than later children when the intervals between births was relatively short.

The study also found that long intervals between births enhance intellectual growth — particularly for the first children — but that an only child was intellectually handicapped like the last child born in a family.

Children in smaller families gain by learning from and teaching one another, the study continued, and the absence of a parent also is associated with lower intellectual performance.

Children born between 1947 and 1962 — those responsible for declining SAT scores in the last 12 years and anticipated declines in the near future — generally tend to be in family configurations that are less conducive to good intellectual performance.

While only 25 per cent of all children took SATs, the testing group is from a population that generally come from larger, more closely-spaced families, and fewer in proportion are first borns.

"While it is difficult to determine how big a factor family configuration plays in the drop in test scores we estimate that 30 to 50 per cent of the drop can be attributed to it," Zajonc said.

Zajonc, in a paper published in the April 16 issue of the Journal Science, said the downward trend should continue until about 1980. At that time, the computer model projects that scores will begin to increase again as children from better configured families are tested.

Children born since 1963 have been shown in some elementary school tests to be improving on the results of their predecessors, the study said. Smaller family size and other factors enhancing intellectual performance are more prevalent for this group, Zajonc said.

As these children reach SAT age, scores gradually will begin to improve, he said.

Zumwalt Says Rickover Was Obstacle To A Modern Navy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., retired chief of naval operations, says Adm.

Hyman G. Rickover "was a persistent and formidable obstacle to my plans for modernizing the Navy."

Zumwalt makes public his resentment against Rickover in his memoir, "On Watch," to be published next month.

Zumwalt writes, "There is almost no way for a CNO not to find himself in an adversary position to Rickover, because Rickover brazenly — though seldom openly — challenges the duly constituted authority of every CNO and indeed every secretary of the Navy, every secretary of defense, and every president."

Rickover, at 75, is the oldest military officer on duty. He could not be immediately contacted for comment about Zumwalt's allegations.

Zumwalt pictures Rickover as ingratiating himself with key members of Congress to gain his objectives. "Rickover's tour never ends because Congress will not let it," Zumwalt says, referring to Rickover's extended terms of duty beyond the regular retirement age.

"Early on, he successfully cultivated important members of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and of the Armed Services Committee."

According to Zumwalt, Rickover has "developed an image as one military man with the courage to speak plainly enough to make headlines and candidly enough to be worth inviting to testify at all sorts of hearings, in his field of expertise and out of it."

The former Navy chief describes his behind the scenes struggle with Rickover over the issue of fewer nuclear-powered warships versus a larger number of Navy ships using less costly conventional fuel as well as nuclear propulsion. "I knew that he would stop at nothing, bureaucratically speaking, to insure that nuclear-powered ships received priority over vessels of any other kind," Zumwalt said.

Zumwalt placed himself on the side of nuclear power for submarines, some aircraft carriers and a certain number of escorting warships.

However, he said he and Rickover disagreed over "how large a portion of each year's budget should be spent on nuclear vessels and over what fraction of the surface fleet we could afford to have nuclear powered, given the importance of numbers of ships."

The Congress has gone along with Rickover's view that all future major combat ships should be nuclear powered.

Evans-Novak....

Udall), Carter in his now notorious April 2 interview with the New York Daily News used the formulation "ethnic purity" with no advance preparation at all. Tactical Error No. 2: Neither Carter nor his staff caught the inflammatory aspect of the phrase when it appeared in print April 4. When questioned about it throughout April 6, Carter did not back off—as he then could have without any damage. Instead, he compounded the problem with another dangerous formulation—"alien groups." Explanations by Carter insiders that these phrases conform to Georgia's freer way of talking about racial problems only indict Carter as a provincial politician.

Tactical Error No. 3: Responding to complaints from black politicians, Carter suddenly switched positions and endorsed the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill—a seeming effort at appeasing the black vote. In fact, Carter had decided to switch when the bill was amended to his liking but failed to announce it when it might have been politically fruitful.

Even before these blunders, supporters had perceived a decline in Carter's earlier tactical mastery. His loss ground in the Wisconsin primary by permitting himself to be put on the defensive. At the very moment that the "ethnic purity" furor enveloped his campaign, Carter was being advised to resume the offensive by assaulting Jackson and Udall for over-promising.

What has happened to the flawlessly structured campaign which brought the obscure Southern governor to the front of the huge Democratic pack? The answer privately given from within the campaign is the candidate's fatigue (though the recent lengthening of his campaign days and weeks in itself is a deterioration from previously moderate scheduling).

Beyond scheduling, two areas of doubt are raised about the Carter campaign. First, Carter's general staff, composed mainly of intimates new to national politics, may be inadequate in the new phase of his campaign following the initial breakthrough. Though happily free of the internal feuds that usually plague presidential campaigns, the Carter staff may lack the sophistication vital to win the presidency.

Second, when he departs from his carefully memorized answers, Jimmy Carter may partly share George McGovern's political insensitivity. His early blunder on mortgage tax deductions did no great damage. His gratuitous assault on Sen. Hubert Humphrey probably lost votes, though not a victory, in Wisconsin. But his bungled discussion of neighborhoods has, at the very least, now shaken the confidence of his victory-hungry supporters.

Three CB Radio Thefts Are Reported To Police

The theft of three citizens band radios and one tape player, and the attempted larceny of another CB radio, is under investigation today by Greenville Police.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, two of the incidents occurred near the Grace Free Will Baptist Church on Watauga Ave.

He said Hardy Smith Barwick of 204 Pine St. reported that a vent window on his car was broken to gain entrance to the vehicle and a tape player valued at $69.95 was taken.

Nancy Lucas Johnson of 404 Aztec La. told police a CB radio valued at $200 was taken from her car. Entrance to the vehicle was also gained by breaking a window.

Both incidents were reported about 8:30 p.m.

Two other cases occurred at the Pitt Memorial Hospital parking lot, according to Cannon. Bonnie Pittman Thompson of 618 East Third St. reported at 8:45 p.m. that a citizens band radio valued at $189.95 had been taken from her car. Entry to the vehicle was gained through a window.

Cannon said Marvin Hill of Route 6, Kinston reported at 9:30 p.m. that someone had attempted to take a citizens band radio from his truck.

The chief said entrance to the vehicle was gained through a vent window, but noted that thieves were unsuccessful in removing the radio from the vehicle, although an estimated $10 damage resulted.

The fifth case was reported about 4:40 p.m. by Fred Hurley of Route 5, Greenville.

Cannon said in that incident a citizens band radio valued at $190 was taken from the Hurley vehicle while the auto was parked in a private lot on Airport Road.

Entrance to the Hurley vehicle was gained by prying a lock open.

Elementary Pupils Hold Science Fair

South Greenville Elementary students from kindergarten through grade six joined in a school wide project this week to present a comprehensive School Science Fair.

Among the varied projects presented by the student were ones showing a motorized corn meal mill, a house using solar energy, a beaver lodge and a large solar cooker.

A total of 105 entries were represented in the science fair. Judging of the entries took place on Wednesday. Winners (unless otherwise noted) are listed in the order of first, second and third place, followed by honorable mentions:

—Kindergarten—Brian Cellura, Jay Mattox, Kevin

Frost; Shanna Baker.

—First grade—Lara Perry, Becky Kirkland, Renita Menolo; Melissa Pruden, Kelly Wall, Lisa Moore.

—Second grade—Nancy Midgette, Bill Hall, Katherine Pruitt; Jeffrey Cellura, Paul Mark Kelly, Sarah Jones.

—Third grade—Betsy Kane, Leigh Lanier, Maria Kelly; Stacy Hamilton, Sharon Perkins.

—Fourth grade—David Appelt, Lisa Flanagan, Room 104; Nan Thompson, Scott Wallace.

—Fifth grade—both Wincheester, Martha Richardson, Inger Fearing; Hih Song Kim, Lisa Kittrell, John Ormond, Lori Little.

—Sixth grade—Ishan Sengal, tied for second were Barbara Logsdon, Jeffrey Prescott and Ralph Ryan; tied for third were Karen Hendrix, Jayne Conway, Mandy Maiola and Donna Akin.

November and December," a Randolph aide said.

Some offices reported little change in the volume of complaints about mail service, including the offices of Reps. Jack Edwards, R-Ala., and Philip Burton, D-Calif.

An assistant to Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., indicated there has been no recent increase in the volume of constituent mail about the Postal Service but that the volume of such mail has always been high.

Other offices that reported a high volume of complaints about the Postal Service were those of Sens. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., and John V. Tunney, D-Calif., and Reps. Marjorie S. Holt, R-Md., Edward J. Derwinski, R-Ill., and Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif.

Carter's Sister Says Jimmy Will Win

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — To some audiences, Ruth Carter Stapleton is a lay minister, faith healer and author. To her neighbors, she is the wife of a Fayetteville veterinarian.

Find Few Clues To Drug Bales

CHARLESTON (AP)—Federal and Charleston County officials, working through the night Thursday, had dragged about three and one-half tons of bagged marijuana from the beach at Kiawah Island, but they had few clues as to how it got there.

The marijuana, worth about $1.5 million according to county police estimates, was packed into 100-pound burlap bags. Officials said it was probably from Colombia, South America because of Spanish writing on some of the bags.

Narcotics agents packed the bales into a truck and carted it to the U.S. Customs House, a customs official said. He said it would remain there under guard until it was destroyed, probably at a furnace in Georgetown.

A Kiawah Island Co. engineer first noticed the marijuana as he drove down the beach from a construction project Thursday.

Within several hours, about 48 bags had washed ashore. By about midday Thursday, a total of 68 bags had been found on a three-mile stretch of the beach. Luther Cooke, special agent in charge of the Charleston office of the Drug Enforcement Administration, said one possible explanation for the huge grass dumping is that smugglers felt a drug bust was imminent when helicopters or ships ventured close to the boat carrying the illegal cargo.

Cooke called that explanation "a good speculation," but added, "We don't have anything to back it up." He said DEA officials, county narcotics agents, the U.S. Customs patrol and the Coast Guard are continuing to investigate the case.

Carter himself has used his religious experience in campaigning, as he did in a fund-raising reception in Winston-Salem.

Ruth Carter Stapleton says her brother's "experience in management and government coupled with his Christian principles" will return strong leadership to the White House if he's elected president.

In interviews and in her recently published book, "The Gift of Inner Healing," Mrs. Stapleton described her vocation — healing the spiritual, inner, and physical selves.

Will Speak In Revival Series

The Rev. Walter Vasser of Mobile, Ala., will be the speaker for revival services Monday through Friday at Philippi Church of Christ.

The following church will be present each night: Monday, Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church; Tuesday, Little Creek F.W.B., Ayden; Wednesday, York Memorial A.M.E. Zion; Thursday, Mount Calvary F.W.B.; and Friday, Selvia Chapel F.W.B.

Plan Pageant In Easter Services

Special Easter services will be held at the Red Oak Christian Church Sunday beginning at 7 a.m. with a sunrise service and a program by the children of the Bible School.

The CYF will give a pageant "After Three Days" followed by a congregational breakfast.

At 9:45 a.m., and Easter film "I Beheld His Glory" will be given. The story is of Cornelius the Centurion, who tells of the events concerning the last days of Jesus.

Special Services At Grimesland

Installations services will be held at St. Monica Baptist Church in Grimesland April 19-23.

The following pastors will conduct the services: The Rev. R. L. Cummings and the Choir of Green Chapel Missionary Baptist Church of Havelock will be in charge of the Monday service. Rev. W. M. McDavis and his choir will conduct the Tuesday service. Rev. W. V. Pritchett and his choir will conduct the Wednesday service. Rev. W. L. Griffin and the choir of Memorial Missionary Baptist Church of New Bern will conduct the Thursday service. All of these services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. A. J. White will conduct the Sunday 11 a.m. service and Rev. J. B. Crandell will conduct the 3 p.m. service Sunday.

"I use a combination of taking the teachings of Jesus and applying them for everyday life combined with psychological principles," she said.

For the last 16 years she's been following that route, although she said it's only been during the last nine that she has been intensely involved in healing people's bodies as well as their souls.

"Nine years ago I saw that physical problems were often caused by psychosomatic causes — so many problems were caused by the spiritual," she said.

"I began to take Jesus the God of Love into my own negative experiences...and found that Christ's love would totally dissolve the negative."

"I saw the difference between psychological therapy and psychological healing. Treating symptoms is just therapy — it doesn't go to the cause of a person's problems."

Mrs. Stapleton, 46, has credentials in both the religious field and in psychology.

RUTH STAPLETON

Like her brother, she was reared in the strict Southern Baptist tradition of the family's home in Plains, Ga.

But eleven years after marrying Dr. Robert Stapleton she returned to college, earning her B.A. at Fayetteville Methodist College and then taking all the courses necessary for a master's degree in psychology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She said her religious awakening came 16 years ago at a retreat where a psychologist and a number of people of different Christian denominations showed her that religion could be a loving experience.

"Up to that point religion had been negative for me — a set of morals to be followed," she said.

"But at the retreat they were practicing what Christ taught, that God is a God of love, and not one who keeps a scorecard on the negative aspects of a person's life."

From that beginning, she said, she began teaching the values of a spiritual life to small groups, "and I began to see that prayer worked not only spiritually but physically."

"First I began one-on-one counseling, then moved on to groups, using imaginative day-dreams to guide as many as 5,000 people at once through Jesus' past."

Unlike some of the more flamboyant faith-healers, Mrs. Stapleton says she isn't seeking instant cures when she speaks before large groups.

"I never knew whether anyone has been cured until they let me know afterward," Using prayer, Mrs. Stapleton she leads the person in need of inner healing back to the early trauma or hurt which has caused the person to seek help.

"When we pray for inner healing," she says in her book, "we are really asking Jesus to walk back into the dark places of our lives and bring healing to the distressing and painful memories of the past."

"All I do is attempt to bring the pain to light and then introduce that pain to Jesus within the imagination of the person I counsel."

She said Thursday she believes her own religious awakening influenced her brother in some way.

But she was quick to add, "We each had our own growth, but our paths crossed on several occasions."

The Greatest Symbol

Since the first Easter, the Cross has remained the one great and enduring symbol of Christianity because it best expresses the meaning of faith. Like a precious jewel, the Cross shines with many facets of truth.

† The Cross signifies the hope of faith. It reveals God's love for us in the sacrifice of His Son. It is our assurance of His promise of salvation.

† The Cross signifies the challenge of faith. It reveals God's love for all men which we must share. It is the motivation of Christian action.

† The Cross signifies the victory of faith. It is the pledge of God's loving purpose in saving the world. It is the source of peace.

What does the Cross mean to you? On Easter — this greatest festival of our Faith, will you come to Church and discover its message?

Rose High Students Chosen For Governor's School

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Seven Rose High Juniors have been selected to attend The Governor's School of North Carolina this summer. The school, a six-week residential program, is held each summer on the campus of Salem College in Winston-Salem for 400 North Carolina high school students who are nominated and chosen for achievement and as representative intellectually gifted students from their school. The seven juniors selected from Rose High for the summer of 1976 are Timothy Caspar, Kyoung-Soon Kim, Man-Ji Kim, James S. Kittrell, Monica Lee, Jennifer O'Neal and Davis Sowell.

Jung-Gun Kim and Dr. Kyoung-Hi Park Kim. An active student in many phases of school and community activities, he has worked on the Rose literary magazine, is a piano student and chess player. He has several years of Scout work, and is involved with the Church Youth Fellowship. He belongs to a number of clubs in math, science and literary fields.

strumental music, majoring in violin. She is also fluent in three languages—Korean, French and English, and writes Japanese and Chinese. Nam-Ji belongs to several school clubs, is in the church choir, and has exhibited drawings in art shows.

of the National Honor Society, she has taken part in school plays, has been on the school paper staff and is a Sunday School teacher. She has also been active in science fairs and in Girl Scouts work and was a 1975-76 marshal.

—James Kittrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kittrell and will be attending Governor's School as a cello player. He is a soloist with the ECU Orchestra, is an award winning poet, a stamp collector and a chess player. He has performed in many musical events, including the Concert, Marching and Stage Bands; and is on the track and football teams.

—Jennifer Lynn O'Neal, the daughter of Mrs. Willene England O'Neal is also a Governor's School nominee in the field of instrumental music. Her instrument is the viola. She is a member of the Rose High Swim Team and for five years has attended the Teela-Wooket Summer Camp in Vermont.

—David C. Sowell is another nominee in instrumental music, majoring in cello. A holder of the

David Sowell
"Life" rank in Boy Scouts, he is also active in the Albemarle Presbytery Youth Council and has served as a counselor at Boys' Camp. He has played for all three Rose High annual musicals, and has plans to attend medical school.

The seven Rose students will be in attendance at The Governor's School from July 5 through August 14. Founded in 1965, the school was established to provide talented and gifted students an opportunity to be motivated in achievement and for the purpose of enhancing potential use of their talents in a program of "observable product" realized through this program.

Witchcraft Is Charged To Morganton Woman

WITCHCRAFT CHARGE — Mrs. Joann Denton of Morganton, shown at her home, has been charged with violating a North Carolina law prohibiting "practice of fortune telling and craft of raising the dead" after predicting the death of a Morganton woman. (AP Wirephoto)

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Joann Denton, who allegedly predicted correctly at a seance in her home that a woman would die on April 10, has been charged by the woman's daughter with violating North Carolina's antiwitchcraft law.

Mrs. Denton lives in a house adorned with the sign "Grey Shadows." The house is opened to the public on Halloween. A picture of Mrs. Denton taken in the home Thursday showed her holding a life-sized plastic skull. There was a small plastic skeleton on the mantelpiece. Mrs. Denton is accused of the misdemeanor of engaging in "the practice of fortune telling and the craft of raising people from the dead." She is to appear in court April 27 to answer the charge, which carries a maximum of six months in jail and a $500 fine. Her lawyer said she will remain silent for now, but "she'll have all kinds of statements to make later on."

The charge stems from the death of Dorothy Ramsey, 38, of Morganton. An autopsy performed Wednesday said she died of a high level of drugs and alcohol in her blood. Mrs. Denton is supposed to have said that she would die in an auto accident.

The Morganton News Herald, citing unidentified sources, said Mrs. Denton is expected to testify she didn't predict either Mrs. Ramsey's death or the date of her death.

Police said they uncovered no evidence of foul play but that they found suicide notes in her home and a number of pills in her kitchen.

The complaint says the seance on March 20 had been held at the instigation of her husband, Fred W. Ramsey, 42, as an attempt to communicate with Buddy Carpenter, their son-in-law, who died last October.

Katherine Carpenter, the widow, who signed the warrant against Mrs. Denton, said her mother was involved in an auto accident the week of her death, although she was not injured.

Mrs. Carpenter said her mother took a number of pills April 10 to calm herself. "I believe it (the alleged prediction she would die that day) worked on her nerves. She just kept taking pills and taking pills to calm her nerves down."

Mrs. Carpenter said she sought the warrant to prevent Mrs. Denton from doing the same thing to other people. "I think this lady should be stopped because it works on your nerves to be told when you're going to die. And when the day comes it really gets to you," she said.

The Morganton News Herald said Ramsey had been separated from his wife six months before her death, and had taken out a life insurance policy on her after the seance.

'Windfall' Plan Is Hit

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Using a one-time windfall to finance a 5 per cent pay raise for teachers and state employees is "financial responsibility of the worst sort" and should not be done, said Coy Privette, a candidate for Republican gubernatorial nomination.

In a prepared talk to the Union County Republican Convention, Privette said the revenue windfall "is a temporary one-time measure. Once spent, it will never again be available. But the proposed pay increases will be permanent. How do the Democrats in the legislature propose to pay for them in the future without raising taxes?"

The windfall would come by requiring employers to remit their employees' state income tax withholdings on a monthly instead of a quarterly basis. "Some politicians want to have their cake and eat it, too," Privette said, adding, "The windfall plan is simply an election-year proposal to play Santa Clause this year by incurring burdens we won't be able to meet next year."

He also commented, "We have to be honest and face the facts. And the simple fact is that North Carolina doesn't have enough money to pay for all the programs and salary increases people want. Our teachers and other state employees do deserve a raise to alleviate the increased cost of living. But in order to give them this raise, we will have to cut spending somewhere else."

Privette resigned as pastor of a Kannapolis Baptist church to run.

Greek Lobby Is Opposing Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the Greek-American community, who lobbied successfully in 1974 for an arms embargo against Turkey, are urging Congress to reject new base agreements the United States has initiated with both Greece and Turkey.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Greek Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bitsios signed a U.S.-Greek base agreement Thursday, just three weeks after a similar accord was concluded with Turkey.

Terms of the pact with Greece call for the United States to give the Athens government $700 million in arms aid over the four-year life of the accord. The Turkish agreement requires the United States to supply Ankara with $1 billion in arms aid over the same period with the Turks agreeing to reopen 26 bases for American use.

In the agreement with Greece, the Athens government will have full control over all military installations in Greece, including major air, naval and communications facilities where several thousand U.S. servicemen are stationed.

There are no major combat bases in Greece. Most U.S. bases in the country are for training, communications and refueling.

U.S. officials admitted the arrangement of the accord with Greece is in response to opposition from Greek supporters in Congress to the signing of the Turkish pact.

But reaction from Greek-American leaders after the mid-day initialing ceremony at the State Department was negative.

Hughes Aide Says Will Was Written

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Howard Hughes, apparently intent to leave his fortune to a medical foundation, wrote a will around 1955 and put it in a Hollywood safe deposit box, his former top aide says.

"That ... will is in existence," said Noah Dietrich, who left Hughes' employment in 1957 after 35 years' service. "I don't know what happened to it. I don't trust some of these people at the Hughes organization."

So far, Hughes spokesmen say, no search has been located, but the search goes on. An elderly aunt and her son were named temporary administrators of his estate — estimated to be worth $2 billion or more — on Wednesday.

Dietrich said Thursday that Hughes wrote the will himself, basing part of it on sample paragraphs prepared by his attorneys.

"About 1955, he made out the will," Dietrich recalled. "It was a long intricate process he went into, as usual."

"There were five alternate pages for every page. He selected the final ones he wanted to use, stapled a blue back on them, sealed them in an envelope and gave it to Nadine Henley."

Mrs. Henley is an officer of the Summa Corp., the holding company for Hughes' vast enterprises, and was a trusted associate of Hughes. She could not be reached for comment.

"I was present when it was signed," Dietrich said. "I did not sign it, but we had discussions about it."

"It was the only will in existence as far as I know. It was his intention to leave his entire estate to the Howard Hughes Medical Foundation in Miami."

Dietrich said Hughes gave the will to Mrs. Henley and "told her to put it in a safety deposit box at the South Hollywood Bank of America and give him the keys."

Dietrich, 87, said Hughes had a reputation for indecisiveness, but that he has no doubt Hughes left a will.

Dietrich said he had informed the district director of the Internal Revenue Service of the will's existence. An IRS spokesman said Thursday information about open tax cases is confidential, as are identities of informants, so the agency would have no comment.

Enzo Provenze, current manager of the South Hollywood Bank of America branch, said, "I don't know anything about it."

King Gustaf On Slopes At Vail

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden planned to ski today on the well-groomed slopes of this Rocky Mountain resort.

Officials said he is a "very good" skier.

King Carl Gustaf flew by private jet from Los Angeles to Aspen, Colo., Thursday morning, where he had lunch. Then he traveled by car to Vail. He is staying at the home of Ulf Edborg, a ski instructor.

The king, 29, has had a crowded schedule of tours, personal appearances and private functions since his arrival in the United States April 4.

San Francisco To See Pay Dispute On Ballot

By MIKE DUNSTAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)

The bulk of San Francisco's taxi drivers headed back to work today after settlement of a labor dispute, while city officials continued efforts to resolve a longer and more complicated disagreement with crafts union employees.

The Board of Supervisors voted Thursday to put on the June 8 ballot a measure to have voters set the salaries of the 1,900 crafts workers who struck 17 days ago.

The development came the same day that Superior Court Judge Robert Dreyes ordered a contempt of court hearing on charges that the striking unions and six leaders have ignored a preliminary injunction.

The injunction, issued Monday, declared the strike illegal and ordered the walkout and all related picketing ended. Dreyes — who was jostled by union demonstrators Wednesday at City Hall — scheduled the hearing for April 23.

The ballot measure would freeze crafts workers' salaries over a two-year period and restore a third of the fringe benefits trimmed from their pay for the same period. Supervisors could withdraw the proposals from the ballot before May 10 if a settlement is reached.

Meanwhile, Yellow Cab — the city's biggest taxi company — reached an interim agreement with the Teamsters union to return its fleet of about 500 cabs to service while negotiations continue in a dispute over fringe benefits that left the city without most of its cabs for 11 days.

Supervisors met with chief federal mediator James Searce on Thursday and offered to begin mediated talks if all striking city crafts workers return to their jobs and halt picketing.

There was no immediate response from the 10 unions involved. The city move toward mediation was a positive sign in the otherwise deadlocked talks to end the strike that has tied up all public transportation. It marked a shift for the supervisors, who earlier refused a union move for a mediator.

George Evankovich, head of the Laborers Union and a strike negotiator, said said the pickets would not be withdrawn unless the supervisors agreed to "stringent rules to show they will negotiate in good faith through mediation to a conclusion."

City-run public transit has been shut down throughout the strike, forcing 250,000 daily riders to walk, pedal, hitchhike or drive through traffic-snarled streets.

The walkout centers on a $5.7-million pay cut approved by supervisors and signed by Mayor George Moscone affecting salaries for city employed plumbers, carpenters, electricians and other trade laborers.

Roberson
ROBERSONVILLE — Mrs. Callie Brown Roberson, 87, a native of Pitt County, died Thursday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday at Biggs Funeral Chapel here with burial following in the Everette family cemetery.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. C. B. Martin of Tarboro, Mrs. Herbert Highsmith and Mrs. Charles Hurst, both of Robersonville; two sons, Hoke S. Roberson of Windsor and Kenneth H. Roberson of Robersonville; 14 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Wilkins
STOKES — James Columbus Wilkins, of Rt. 1, Stokes, died Thursday in Pitt Memorial Hospital. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Phillips Brothers Mortuary.

DST On April 25

WASHINGTON (AP) — The regular schedule for Daylight Saving Time will take effect again this year, with long days beginning a half-year run on April 25, when most Americans will turn the clock forward one hour.

Congress considered new legislation this year, but the efforts were blocked and the 1966 Uniform Time Act took effect again, providing for DST from the last Sunday in April through the last Sunday in October.

In January 1974, at the height of the Arab oil embargo, provisions of the 1966 law were suspended after Congress concluded that energy could be saved through year-around observance of DST.

But before long, lawmakers heard the protests of farmers and rural parents who sought the early-morning daylight hour, and standard time was returned in October 1974.

In 1975, the nation had eight months of DST and the Senate Commerce Committee approved a bill decreasing eight months of DST every year, beginning in February, but the legislation failed.

Backers of extended DST have cited Department of Transportation studies that found fast time can save a slight amount of energy, hold down street crime and probably reduce the number of car accidents.

Patty Suffers Malnutrition

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Hearst is suffering from malnutrition and may eventually have to undergo additional surgery to remove an air-filled blister the size of a silver dollar on her right lung, a doctor says.

The 90-pound heiress, on a high-protein diet to build up her weight, is making satisfactory progress after suffering a collapsed lung, Dr. Donald Rowles said Thursday. Her condition remains fair.

He said the 22-year-old woman was still experiencing discomfort and that the blister — medically known as a bleb — could rupture again and cause the right lung to collapse for a second time.

"There is a chance for eventual surgery to remove it," Rowles said. "But it could spontaneously heal." The blister caused the lung to collapse Tuesday evening, and the convicted bank robber was rushed from her jail cell to Sequoia Hospital for minor surgery, Rowles said.

X rays Thursday morning showed the bleb. It is about the size of a silver dollar — "larger than is normally seen," Rowles said.

A special chest tube is pumping air out of the chest cavity so the damaged lung will stay inflated, Rowles said. Blood tests also have indicated possible liver disease, Rowles said, and further tests have been ordered.

"She has not been eating well, or she would not have lost all this weight," Rowles told reporters Thursday. "We have encouraged her to eat a high-protein diet, which she is taking well."

San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald, head of the jail in which Miss Hearst had been kept since her arrest last Sept. 18, visited her Thursday to check on security, which he found "adequate."

McDonald said the jail was not to blame for the heiress' malnutrition. "She eats like a bird," he said, "she just didn't supply herself with enough food. It was available."

In another development Thursday, the district attorney of Marin County, across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco, said he is willing to offer Miss Hearst immunity from prosecution in return for information about the bombing of two sheriff's patrol cars last summer.

Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales said he does not intend to file any charges against Miss Hearst. He had revealed earlier that she had told FBI agents that she was present, but did not participate, when three other persons bombed the two unoccupied patrol cars last Aug. 20.

Miss Hearst was convicted on March 20 of willingly joining Symbionese Liberation Army terrorists in the robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco a month after the rag-tag band kidnaped her.

She and SLA members William and Emily Harris also face trial in Los Angeles on various state charges stemming from a crime spree a month after the Hibernia holdup.

Fires Slacken

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Fires in national forest areas of North Carolina have slackened off, a national forest service spokesman reported today.

He said only one was reported in 24 hours in the Nantahala National Forest and that was contained Thursday afternoon. About 30 acres were burned near Robbinsville in Graham County.

Two small blazes were extinguished in the Croatan National Forest near New Bern Thursday afternoon. One burned about an acre, the other scorched two acres.

The forest service said that children playing in grass with matches were believed responsible for the fires, which were extinguished quickly. Each blaze posed a threat to a nearby housing development.

Continued dangerous conditions were expected to prevail over the Easter weekend, with no rain in view.

University Will Honor Sinatra

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra will be awarded an honorary degree by the University of Nevada-Las Vegas on May 23.

The university said the Doctor of Humane Letters degree recognizes Sinatra's help in raising $500,000 in scholarships for the school.

The Nevada Board of Regents also cited Sinatra's musical and acting talents in approving the award, the school announced this week.

Rocky Mount Overcomes Rampants, 4-2

Some Bugs Were To Be Expected As Yankee Stadium Was Reopened

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The telescreen part of the celebrated $3 million scoreboard wasn't working. Another section informed the crowd that Oscar Gamble was hitting .999. Minnesota's Butch Wynegar popped out on what was flashed as a 4-1 count.

The elevators weren't programmed to stop at all levels. Parts of the ballpark weren't completed and were filled with construction equipment. The slopes in the outfield would do justice to the Boston Marathon. But it was beautiful. It was Yankee Stadium on the first day of the rest of its life Thursday.

Like other New York City tenants, the New York Yankees had to wait a long time — 50 years — to get their home painted and refurbished. And they moved back into "The House That Ruth Built" and the city rebuilt at a whopping cost of about $75 million with a smashing 11-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins before a roaring packed house of 54,010.

"Yankee Stadium is beautiful," said Manager Billy Martin. "It's great to be back. We had to break the stadium in right."

While the renovation was under way, the Yankees shared Shea Stadium with the New York Mets for two years, but they were second-class citizens there, said shortstop Dred Stanley. "It seemed like they were waiting for us to screw up. The clubhouse was cramped and you couldn't put things where you wanted. And the Mets would never let our ground crew tailor the infield like we wanted it."

"A National League atmosphere," Thurman Munson called it.

Thursday's throng was all pro-Yankee, except for those folks wearing powder blue visiting uniforms and living in the Minnesota dugout. The paid crowd of 52,613 was the largest for the proud old ballpark on opening day in 30 years.

While the Yanks were unveiling their redone park, two other American League games were played. The California Angels downed the Kansas City Royals 5-1 and the Chicago White Sox beat the Boston Red Sox 8-4.

For 2½ innings the Yankees appeared in awe of their new surroundings. Rudy May's first four pitches were balls, Dan Ford hit the next one well over 400 feet for a two-run homer and then a pig wandered onto the field.

May hit a batter and walked three, the Yankees committed two errors, the Twins stole a base in each of the first three innings and suddenly it was 4-0 and the Yanks were probably thinking of signing 85-year-old Bob Shawkey, winner of the first game ever played in the stadium, who threw out the ceremonial first ball.

But at 3:44 p.m. there was an explosion, something akin to the old 5 o'clock lightning. A walk, Gamble's triple and singles by Willie Randolph and pinch hitters Lou Piniella and Otto Velez, along with a stolen base and a wild pitch, and the Yankees led 5-4.

Relievers Dick Tidrow and Sparky Lyle protected the slender edge until the bottom of the eighth — just a little after 5 o'clock — when six more runs poured across. Gamble contributed a run-scoring double and Mickey Rivers and Chris Chambliss added two-run singles.

Angels 5, Royals 1
California's Nolan Ryan, a loser in his first start despite yielding only one hit in seven innings, shackled Kansas City on four hits and nine strikeouts. "It's the same old Ryan," observed Kansas City's John Mayberry. "That man throws harder than anybody I've ever seen in a baseball park."

White Sox 8, Red Sox 4
Buddy Bradford keyed Chicago's 13-hit attack with four hits, including a homer and two doubles. He also drove in three runs and scored three. Brian Downing also homered for the White Sox, while reliever Clay Carroll, the winning pitcher for Cincinnati in last year's seventh World Series game, blanked the Red Sox on three hits over the last four innings.

Larry Joner's double and two error keyed a three-inning three-run Rocky Mount rally and the Gryphons added another run in the sixth to beat Rose High yesterday, 4-2.
The loss was the second in three games for the Rampants, who lost to Northeastern Tuesday, 2-1, in extra innings but beat Bertie Wednesday, 9-4.

Mike Belton had a perfect game going until Phil Braswell's lead-off single in the third. Belton absorbed the loss, his second of the year giving up five hits' walking one and striking out ten.

Steve Partin won the game for Rocky Mount striking out nine Rampants, walking three and giving up three hits.
Rose left six runners on base, Rocky Mount three.

Rose put two on in the second as Mike Brewington singled and moved to third on Eddy Connelly's hit.

Then in the top of the third, Rocky Mount finally broke Belton's string as Braswell singled to center and was sacrificed to second. Gary Ward singled him to third and an error on the play let Braswell score and Ward move to third. Ricky Smith reached on an error scoring Ward and Larry Joyner's double drove in Smith.

Rose cut the margin to 3-2 in the bottom of the frame. David Dixon walked with one out and Greg Sasser beat out a bunt. Belton singled to right scoring Dixon and an error on the hit scored Sasser.

The Rampants were held in check for the rest of the game getting just three more men on base. Rose drew a walk in the fifth, a single in the sixth and another walk in the seventh.
Rocky Mount put Braswell on second in the fourth with a walk and an error but failed to score. The Gryphons did score again in the sixth when Randy Roberson singled and scored on Ronald Kearney's double. A double play ended the Rocky Mount rally.

Rose is now 7-4 overall and 4-3 in Division I. The Rampants and idle until next Thursday when they begin play in the Gaylord Perry tournament in Williamston.

Bucettes Top State

RALEIGH—East Carolina University's women's tennis team gained revenge for its only defeat this spring with a 7-2 victory over N.C. State yesterday.

The Lady Wolves took a 5-4 win over East Carolina back in late March in the two teams first meeting.

This time, however, East Carolina won five of the six singles matches to put the afternoon away. They finished up with two wins in the three doubles.

The victory raised the Bucette record to 2-1 for the spring. They will participate in the state tournament at Chapel Hill starting Thursday.

Summary:
Alicia Jones (NCS) defeated Cathy Parwood, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1.
Dorcas Sunkel (EC) defeated Carol Woodard, 6-4, 6-1.
Marie Stewart (EC) defeated Margie Acker, 6-4, 6-1.
Susan Heimer (EC) defeated Poppy Smith, 6-3, 6-2.
Vickie Loose (EC) defeated Kathy Sizemore, 6-2, 6-1.
Lora Dionis (EC) defeated Kathy White, 6-4, 6-3.
Porwood Sunkel (EC) defeated Smith-Jones, 6-6.
Acker-White (NCS) defeated Loose-Heimer, 8-5.
Stewart-Dionis (EC) defeated Sizemore-Woodard, 8-1.

Rampettes In Defeat

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount High School took a 6-1 softball victory over Rose yesterday.

The Rampettes were held scoreless until the final inning when they pushed over one run and the final inning when they pushed over one run and left the bases loaded.

Rocky Mount scored four runs in the first inning and added single runs in the second and fourth in the first inning and added single runs in the second and sixth for a 6-0 lead.

Rose finally broke the ice with one in the seventh. Shirley Johnson singled and moved up on an out and a hit by Barbara James. Susan Dickerson singled in Johnson, and the team went on to load the bases, but failed to score again.

Rose is now 0-3 overall and 0-2 in Division I play. The Rampettes host Ayden-Grifton on Thursday.

Roanoke Gets Win

ROBERSONVILLE — Wayne Council pitched Roanoke's "B" team to a 4-3 victory over Williamston's "B" team yesterday, throwing a two hitter.

Rogerson was the loser for Williamston.

Correction

The outline on a picture in yesterday's Daily Reflector identified Bud Phillips as the track coach at East Carolina University. Phillips is actually the track coach at Rose High School.

Southern Tops Ewes

SPRING HOPE — Wanda Boykin singled home the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to give Southern Nash an 11-10 softball victory over Greene Central, yesterday.

Kay Ferrell had tripled to set up the winning tally. No other details were available.

Chargers Top Conley

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton's girls rolled up a 15-8 softball victory over D. H. Conley yesterday.

Ayden-Grifton pushed over eight runs in the first inning, including a two-run homer by Barbie Edwards. They added four in the second, two in the third and one in the sixth.

Conley picked up two in the second, four in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Vivian Ellis got the victory for the Chargerettes. She also got three hits, as did Karen Haseley, Peggy Wilkes and Jennifer Tyndall. Pam Fulford added two for Ayden-Grifton. Conley's hitting was led by Donna Dixon and Beverly Boyd, each with two.

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons have announced their 1976 National Football League home preseason schedule, with the Washington Redskins their first opponents on July 31.
The other contests feature New England on Aug. 21 and Baltimore on Aug. 28.
The three games will begin at 8 p.m. at Atlanta Stadium, a Falcons spokesman said Thursday.

Sports Brief

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Minutemen have rescheduled their first two home games of the North American Soccer League because they haven't nailed down a playing site.
The team announced Thursday that the games scheduled Saturday against Toronto and April 24 against New York will be changed to new dates.
A spokesman said the team is seeking to use either Harvard Stadium or Schaefer Stadium.

Schmaus Seen As Top Choice

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP)—Charlie Schmaus, the No. 1 assistant in the four years Bill Blair spent turning Virginia Military Institute's basketball program around, is in line to become the Keydets' head coach—perhaps as early as today.

The VMI job became vacant Thursday when the 33-year old Blair, whose team won the Southern Conference championship and went to the finals of the NCAA East Regional this spring, resigned to become the new coach at the University of Colorado.

Athletic Director Tom Joynes said immediately that Schmaus, a 1967 VMI graduate who played with Blair on the only other Keydet team that won the conference title, is "my personal preference" as Blair's successor.

Schmaus, a sophomore on the 1964 team who went on to become the school's all-time top scorer with 1,328 career points, was out of town on a recruiting trip, but Joynes said he planned to confer with him as soon as he got back today.

While Schmaus was not available for comment, a source who talked with him during the day said Blair's assistant indicated he was interested in remaining at VMI.

"I plan to talk to Charlie as soon as he gets back. If we are able to hire him, I plan to make such a recommendation immediately," said Joynes. "He definitely is my first choice."

Committee is scheduled to meet this afternoon and he hoped to recommend Schmaus at that time.

If the committee approves his recommendation, Joynes said Schmaus' name then would be submitted for final approval to VMI's superintendent, Lt. Gen. Richard L. Irby.

"We're in the peak of recruiting season now, and I'd like to get this settled as soon as possible. I don't want to lose a lot of time interviewing a long list of applicants," said Joynes.

Blair said "I'm sure they will offer the job to him, and it would be a great choice on their part."

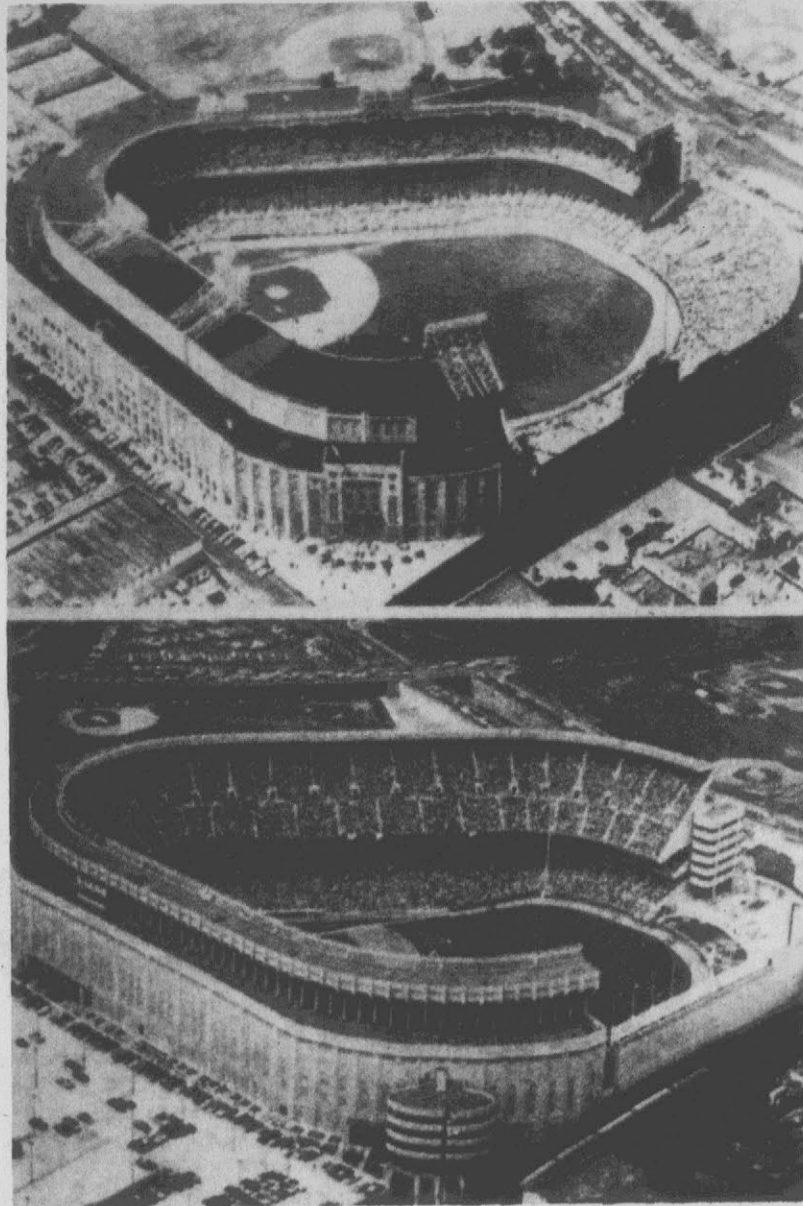

Schmaus came back to VMI after six years in the Air Force and has been chief recruiter for the Keydets since his return. Many of the players on this year's 22-10 team were brought here by Schmaus.

During Blair's four years at VMI, the Keydets were 48-60, but his teams showed gradual improvement each year, culminating with this season's surprising finish, the school's most victories in history and its first winning record in 35 years.

Point guard Curt Reppart is the only senior on the 12-man squad, and highly regarded 6-foot-5 freshman Jeryl Salmon is expected to more than take up the slack when he becomes eligible next season.

"Being a graduate of VMI and having such fine players and people to work with" made it difficult to leave, said Blair, but he added:

"When you've got to go, you've got to go."

Kingman's Two Blows Lead Mets To Victory

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Dave "King Kong" Kingman hasn't leaped over any tall buildings yet, but he has learned to hit baseballs over them.

The rangy 6-foot-6, 210-pound New York strongman unloaded two herculean home runs Thursday, the second a three-run blast in the ninth inning, powering the Mets to a 10-8 victory over the stunned Chicago Cubs.

Both homers went out of Wrigley Field and gave Kingman a season's total of four, all tape-measure blasts. Although three of them were hit in Chicago, Kingman said he didn't think he would like to play there regularly.

"I don't think I'd like it because I'm too home run conscious here," said Kingman, who also is nicknamed Sky King.

Kingman sent his first homer rocketing out of Wrigley Field

Wednesday, a drive that reportedly traveled more than 600 feet. Thursday, he drilled a two-run homer over the left centerfield wall in the second inning off Bill Bonham. Then, with the Mets trailing 8-7 in the ninth, he followed singles by John Milner and Del Unser with a tremendous smash over the left field wall off Tom Detore, the same pitcher he had victimized Wednesday.

"He (Detore) had given me an inside fast ball the previous day and he came back with the same pitch," said the Mets' muscle man. "Yes, I was surprised because I was looking for something else. I just couldn't let it go by."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Atlanta Braves battered the Cincinnati Reds 10-5, the Pittsburgh Pirates trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3 and the Montreal Expos whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

Braves 10, Reds 5
Atlanta's victory, triggered by Jerry Royster's four hits and three runs batted in apiece by Ken Henderson and Lee Lacy, stopped Cincinnati's four-game winning streak and was the Braves' first triumph over the Reds after 12 losses since June 17, 1975.

Knuckleballing Phil Niekro went the distance for Atlanta, scattering 10 hits and striking out nine.

Pirates 9, Cards 3
"We're not going to run through the National League without losing a game... but I'll take my chances with these 25 players," said Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell after the unbeaten Pirates had won their fourth game.

Al Oliver and Stargell hit consecutive homers in the seventh inning, keying a four-run Pirates' uprising. Oliver's was a three-run shot and Stargell's was the 369th of his career, tying him with Hall of Famer Ralph Kiner for 23rd place on the all-time major league home run list.

Expos 8, Phillies 5
Tim Lofgren highlighted a six-run Montreal burst with a two-run double in the fourth inning and Mike Jorgensen clinched the victory with a two-run homer in the seventh as the Expos roughed up Jim Kaat, a 20-game winner in the American League last year.

Woodie Fryman, another former American Leaguer who celebrated his 36th birthday this week, was the winner, with relief help from Dale Murray and Wayne Granger.

The Big Story Is Palmer's

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The story after 18 holes of the $80,000 Tallahassee Open Golf Tournament isn't that Bob Eastwood leads with a six-under-par 66 or that Lon Hinkle and Lyn Lott are but a shot behind.

The story is that 46-year-old Arnold Palmer remained in contention with a one-under-par 71.

It doesn't matter that Palmer has long passed the stage when he ruled the Professional Golfers' Association tour.

Despite no victories in three years, Palmer's magnetism remains. It especially prevails on a tour stop like Tallahassee, where the field has always been made up of the previous year's non-winners, who don't qualify for the Tournament of Champions held the same week.

Palmer, who has a winter home in Orlando, Fla., telephoned five minutes before last Sunday's entry deadline to fulfill a promise he once made to local officials to play here someday.

When he shot a course-record 63 in Wednesday's meaningless pro-am event, tournament boss Rod Brim called it "absolutely the most exciting day in the history of the Tallahassee Open."

Brim overlooked the final day of 1971, when Lee Trevino won. Before Palmer, he was easily the biggest celebrity to show up.

Even if it wasn't for the $225,000 Tournament of Champions, the Tallahassee event would have little chance of drawing a Palmer or Jack Nicklaus. The purse was raised this year by $20,000 but still stands at only $80,000 — paltry by PGA standards.

Instead, the open has hosted a sprinkling of good money-winner and a lot of players trying to solve various ailments in their game.

Leader Eastwood, who has never cleared $19,000 in seven years on the tour, is recuperating from a shoulder problem. Hinkle is coming back from a nine-week layoff caused by a broken finger, and Lott, 93rd on the money list, admits "I've not stayed together" for four consecutive rounds.

Among seven players at 68 are veterans Bob Lunn and Paul Moran, both attempting comebacks. Lunn has earned more than $400,000 in ten years, but quit a couple of years ago because "I was really kind of embarrassed, the way I was playing."

Moran is trying to make a tour after tendonitis forced him to a year as a club pro in Noonan, Ga. That's down the road from Shenandoah.

Bobby Wadkins, also at 68, says, "I'm playing so bad. I'm trying to play myself back in shape."

Detroit Wins To Knot Series With Milwaukee

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Detroit Pistons Coach Herb Brown knows the score: "There's no tomorrow for either of us now."

The Pistons, despite Milwaukee's torrid 63 per cent shooting from the field, defeated the Bucks 126-123 to knot up their best-of-three National Basketball Association qualifying round at one game each.

"Now the pressure is on both of us," Brown said after Thursday night's victory. In the other NBA qualifying game, Buffalo defeated Philadelphia 95-89 to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three series. In the best-of-seven quarter-finals, Cleveland downed Washington 80-79 to even their series at 1-1 and Phoenix stopped Seattle 116-111.

Bob Lanier's 35 points, including 17 in the third period, and George Trapp's hot final quarter paced the Pistons to victory. Trapp scored 11 of his 13 points in the last 12 minutes while Milwaukee got 33 points from Brian Winters and 29 from Bob Dandridge.

But it was the Bucks' team shooting that dazzled the victorious Pistons. "They were uncanny shooting the ball," said Lanier. "I hope they don't shoot that well again."

Free throws by Detroit, particularly in the closing minutes, killed the Bucks' chances of pulling it out. There were 63 fouls called in the game — 25 in the final quarter.

"This was a strange game," said Bucks' Coach Larry Costello. "The fouls determined the game. There were some fouls in key situations... It's tough to lose on free throws. I'd rather they didn't call anything."

The series returns to Milwaukee Sunday for the deciding game.

Braves 95, 76ers 89

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo scored 36 points and grabbed 21 rebounds to lead the Braves over Philadelphia. Not noted for their defense, the Braves, one of the BA's highest scoring teams, blanked Philadelphia's hot-shooting Fred Carter from the field and held George McGinnis to only one field goal in the final quarter. Carter wound up with 28 points and McGinnis 20.

The Braves, who lost the regular season series to Philadelphia 4-3, return to Buffalo with a chance to win the series tonight.

Cavaliers 80, Bullets 79
Cleveland edged Washington on Bobby Smith's 22-foot jumper with two seconds left. The victory evened the best-of-seven quarter-finals at 1-1 with the series resuming Saturday in Cleveland.

Smith paced the Cavs with 17 points, while Dick Snyder added 16, including 10 in the third period when Cleveland came from a 45-32 deficit late in the second period to tie the score at 57-57 with 3:52 left in the third quarter. Washington was paced by Phil Chenier's 19 points, 16 by Dave Bing and 15 by Len Robinson.

Suns 116, Sonics 111
Five free throws in the final 19 seconds lifted Phoenix over Seattle and evened their best-of-seven series at one game each. Garfield Heard sank two free throws and Dick Van Arsdale three as the Suns' victory overshadowed a 45-point performance by Sonics guard Fred Brown, who was ejected from the game in the final seconds.

Tommy Burleson added 33 points for Seattle while Adams, a rookie, led the Suns with 23 points, Paul Westphal added 22 and Heard 20.

Sports Brief

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — John Randolph, whose track and cross-country teams at William & Mary dominated the Southern Conference for the past eight years, was named today Army's head track and cross-country coach, succeeding the late Carleton Crowell.

Randolph, 33, will take over the Cadets' post July 1, said Col. Jack Schuder, the director of athletics at the U.S. Military Academy. Crowell, who had guided the Cadets' track and cross-country team for 25 years, died last September.

Randolph guided the W&M Indians to their 14th straight Virginia Intercollegiate Outdoor Track championship last Tuesday. He has led the team to eight straight Southern Conference cross-country and indoor track titles and seven straight outdoor track crowns.

Way They Lost Makes Him Mad

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Hubie Brown didn't seem nearly as upset with the fact that his Kentucky Colonels lost the game as with the manner in which they lost.

Nearly an hour after the Colonels had bowed to the Denver Nuggets 110-107 Thursday night in their opening American Basketball Association semifinal playoff series, Brown still was regaling anyone who would listen with his version of the hectic conclusion to the contest.

And a Colonels official said a formal protest would be lodged with the league because the game was played without a scoreboard clock, which was inoperative throughout the game.

Brown let it be known that he expects the scoreboard to be repaired for Game Two of the best-of-seven series, which will be played here Saturday night.

The other ABA semifinal playoff resumes Sunday afternoon, when the San Antonio Spurs host the New York Nets in Game Four. The Spurs are leading the best-of-seven series 2-1.

Thursday night's affair was confusing for fans and players alike since the score and time had to be announced over the public-address system. The time was kept on a stopwatch. Nuggets officials explained that the computerized scoreboard "blew up" while it was being tested 2½ hours before tipoff.

On the court, however, the Nuggets seemed to have matters well under control. Getting strong guard play from Ralph Simpson and Chuck Williams, who finished with 24 and 21 points, respectively, Denver moved out to a 13-point lead midway through the third quarter. Poor shooting and numerous turnovers on the part of the Colonels contributed to the big Denver margin.

Kentucky managed to reduce the deficit to one point midway through the final period, but Denver wouldn't relinquish the lead. With five seconds remaining, Colonel forward Jan van Breda Kolff climaxed seven straight Kentucky points with a three-point play, cutting Denver's lead to 109-107.

Williams was fouled with three seconds left, and made one free throw but missed the second. The Colonels grabbed the rebound and whipped a long pass to Louie Dampier, who shot near the three-point boundary in a desperate attempt to tie the game.

The ball went in, but referees Norm Drucker and John Vanak ruled that time had elapsed before Dampier got off the shot.

Brown was enraged. "Nobody can tell me that was three seconds," he said. "It's a shame the game had to end like that; after all, it's a playoff game."

"The end of the game showed a total lack of professionalism on the part of the officials and the guys at the scorer's table," Kentucky general manager David Vance, who did not make the trip to Denver, said in Louisville that the Colonels would file a protest with ABA officials today and request a ruling on the game from league Commissioner Dave DeBusschere.

Crochety 'Mr. Magoo' Turned 25 This Year

MAGOO WAS A LABOR OF LOVE— Actor Jim Backus shown with his wife, Hennie, says he created Mr. Magoo both as a labor of love and in order to eat. (AP Wirephoto)

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to realize that Mr. Magoo, the near-sighted, crochety old man of films and TV fame, turned 25 this year. But, by George, Waldo, that's how old the voice of Magoo says the man is.

The voice, now 63, belongs to actor Jim Backus. He was on the East Coast this week with his wife to see a Broadway play and partake of the waters with an actor friend, a guy by the name of Richard Burton.

Resplendent in a blue blazer, Backus sat down for an interview in his hotel's dining room after cheerfully grumbling he'd misplaced his glasses and was making do with an old spare set.

"That's the last time I make jokes about Magoo," he said, squinting about in a manner not unlike the cartoon character he made famous. He was asked how said character came about.

"Magoo came out of a yearning to eat," he said. He said the Magoo voice stemmed from when he was a radio actor and the performers' union decided to let actors play more than one role in the same radio show.

Although he started as one of the wild characters on the late Fred Allen's radio show, Backus, a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, was doing serious roles at the time.

To improve his chances on the actors' market, he developed a funny voice for comedy parts. It began as the sort of hearty harrumphing one hears among businessmen who commute here each day by train from Upper Suburbia.

"Then I started doing it as a routine at parties," he said. "I called it 'The Man in the Club Car.' As my wife says, it was a character I did just before I put on the lampshade and she called the cab."

He said he first tried the new voice on the air during Edgar Bergen's radio show in the late 1940s. But he said the character wasn't called Magoo then, nor did it bear that name in the first Magoo film short.

Backus, who'd been doing well in serious and comic roles in movies at the time, said Jerry Hausner, a fellow actor, suggested he use the weird voice in a new cartoon being planned.

The cartoon was "The Musical Bear," he said. It concerned a college kid named Waldo (Hausner was Waldo's voice) who was taking his rich, crochety, near-sighted old uncle on a skiing trip.

Waldo, not the then-unnamed uncle, was the star, Backus recalled.

"It was an overnight sensation in the theaters," he added. "I don't know with who, the usher or somebody. I never heard anyone running out of the theater" — he emitted a Magoo-like chuckle — "shouting, 'Bravo!'"

But a hit it was. The old myopic (Backus can't recall who gave the character his name) became the star and Waldo the supporting player. More cartoons were ordered, and Magoo's place in history was assured.

ECU Student Is State Phi Beta Lambda Prexy

Patricia Ann Jones of Mount Olive, N.C., a Business Administration major at East

PATRICIA ANN JONES
Carolina University, has been elected State President of the North Carolina Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda.

While at Mount Olive College, she began her involvement in Phi Beta Lambda. She served as vice president of her local chapter. She also held the position of State Vice President during 1974-75. At the 1974-75 conference, the Mount Olive Chapter captured all four awards including grand prize. Upon transferring to East Carolina University, Miss Jones has become actively involved in the Omicron Chapter, where she presently serves as vice president.

Being elected State President makes her the first black and third woman ever to hold this office.

Phi Beta Lambda's purpose is to prepare students for a useful occupation in the business world while stimulating their own self-interest.

Attending the conference with Pat were Jill Howard, campaign manager, of Union Grove, N.C., Elaine Pope, voting delegate, of Fayetteville, and Sharon Perry, voting delegate, of Colerain.

East Carolina University entered the Data Processing event in which Miss Perry placed second and the Extemporaneous Speaking event in which Miss Jones place first.

Miss Jones, along with the other delegates plan to attend the national convention, which will be held in Washington June 20-23.

Kennel Club To Sponsor Event

The Greater Rocky Mount Kennel Club is sponsoring its spring All-Breed and Obedience Fun Match on Sunday, April 25, at N. C. Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount.

In addition to conformation and obedience classes, there will be Junior Showmanship classes for junior handlers aged 10 to 13 and aged 13 to 17. A Parade of Champions is also featured. Entry fee is $2.50 for the first entry and $1.00 for each additional of the same dog if entered on the day of the match, or $2.00 for the first entry and $1.00 for each additional of the same dog if the dog is pre-entered.

Additional information and pre-entry forms may be obtained by contacting Match Chairman Larry Elks at 758-3603 or Club President Jefferis Hohlitzel at 756-6763. Entries will also be taken on the day of the match at the match site between 10:30 a.m. and noon.

Spring Revival Begins April 19

BETHEL — Spring revival will be held April 19-24 at the Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist Church. The guest evangelist will be the Rev. C. L. Patrick.

The Rev. Patrick is pastor of the Free Union Free Will Baptist Church near Walstonburg. Services will begin each evening at 7:45 and special singing will be rendered as part of the services.

The pastor, the Rev. Hubert Burruss, will assist in the services. The church is located on Highway 33, four miles east of Bethel.

The public is invited to attend.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a good chance to accomplish much of value today if you make a point to know your facts and figures. You have considerable motivation now and can easily put across your ideas.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) make new contacts who really understand you and your ideas. Choose your friends more wisely. Engage in favorite hobby in the afternoon.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to understand and please your mate more so that there will be greater happiness between you. Don't neglect your duties.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure to follow directions of one in authority in civic matters or you could get in trouble. Improve your surroundings.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Schedule your time and activities wisely if you want to accomplish the most in the minimum of time today.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be more encouraging with mate and get better results. Be sure to handle regular duties before engaging in amusements you enjoy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Giving more attention to home and family pays off with much happiness in the future. Use extreme caution in motion today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Discussing your mutual views with associates today brings excellent results. Plan for greater advancement in the days ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can achieve greater success now, but it will take hard work. Obtain the advice you need from an influential person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Before you can advance, you will have to get rid of some fantastic you have in mind. Make improvements to your appearance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Planning how to make the future brighter for yourself is wise. Explain your ideas carefully to mate and come to a better understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine day to see many of your friends, but be sure to sidestep one who has not been loyal. Attend social affair tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can handle anything of a civic nature very well now. Use care in the handling of a credit matter or you could get into trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she may be too blunt with others and should be taught to use tact as well as to be more understanding. Direct the education along lines of imports and exports and be sure to include foreign languages. Give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Public Invited To Tribal Event

Saturday is the "public-invited" day to the big annual Haliwa Indian Tribe Pow-wow being held at the tribe's meeting place near the village of Hollister, on the border of Halifax and Warren Counties.

W. R. Richardson, chief of the tribe, said that approximately 1,500 members of the Haliwa Tribe, has extended an invitation for all interested persons to attend the annual tribal celebrations. There is no admission charge.

Believed to be part of the large Tuscarora Tribe that covered what is now eastern North Carolina in the state's earlier days, the Haliwa Tribe was officially recognized about 15 years ago. It is now one of three official Indian tribes existing in North Carolina.

ABC Permits Are Suspended

The State ABC Board has suspended permits issued to Jasper Earl Lloyd for Homestead Cash Grocery, Route 4, Greenville, for a 30-day period effective April 26.

The ABC board's action was due to "the conviction . . . of Lloyd on February 10 . . . for unlawfully and wilfully" selling "a six-pack of . . . beer" on Sunday, January 25, at 9:55 a.m. "when such sale is prohibited by law," the board reported.

Designated To Review Team

William Byrd, Director of the Office of Community Health Services at East Carolina University has been designated to serve on a management Review Team of the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

Ione Perry, Consultant for the Department's Division of Development will oversee the review which relates to ESEA Title III "Project Help" in the Gates County School System.

Dr. Ball Named To Work Group

Dr. John R. Ball, Chairperson of the Department of Social Work & Correctional Services, East Carolina University, has been named as a member of the U.S. Work Group for the XVIII International Congress of Schools of Social Work.

The International Congress will be meeting in Puerto Rico during the summer and this work group is responsible for position papers that will be presented to the International Group for discussion and position taking. The U.S. report is in the process of being formulated and Dr. Ball will write a paper on the subject "Responses to Change in Higher Education", which will be placed under the general title of "Trends and Issues in the Structure and Quality of Social Work Education in the United States".

The bidding:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass
3♠ Pass 3♠ Pass
4♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Nine of ♣.

The average declarer tends to view the play with unwarranted optimism. He does not plan for possible bad breaks, which occur more often than one would like to think.

North-South bid smoothly to four spades. South did not want to rebid his relatively poor five-card suit, so he raised his partner's suit with a hand that some would consider to be a trifle light for that action. North showed his spade support and, when South could do no more than go on to the major suit game, North was satisfied.

West got his side off to a fast start by leading a heart. Besides attacking declarer's weakness, it also removed the only sure entry to dummy's long suit. Since declarer did not want a diamond shift from East, he rose with the ace of hearts and led the queen of spades from dummy. East played low and the finesse won. However, when declarer continued with the jack of spades, East covered. Declarer took the ace and was only mildly upset when West discarded an intermediate diamond.

Declarer re-entered dummy with the five of clubs to the jack and continued extracting trumps by leading a spade to his eight. After drawing the last trump, he tried to run clubs. Unfortunately, East failed to follow to the ace of clubs, and declarer was left with an insoluble problem. If he overtook the queen of clubs, West would have a stopper in the suit. If he did not, he would have no way to get to dummy to enjoy his two long clubs. Declarer decided to overtake the queen to lead a diamond to his king in the hope of finding the ace onside, but that effort failed and the defenders collected a total of four tricks in the red suits.

Declarer could have protected against four clubs in the West hand. Instead of crossing to dummy with a low club to the jack, observe what would happen if South immediately overtakes the queen with the king. After finessing for the trump nine and drawing the last trump, declarer cashes the ace of clubs. When East shows out, it is a simple matter to finesse the nine of clubs, and cash the king and a long club for two discards. Declarer can then enjoy the luxury of leading toward his king of diamonds for a second over-trick.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm weather is forecast east of the Mississippi and colder weather is expected to the west. Rain is forecast from the Midwest to the Great Lakes and for the Pacific Northwest with snow flurries and rain in Montana and North Dakota. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Put on your Easter bonnet without fear of the weather.

It will remain warm and dry in North Carolina through Easter and into early next week.

Rangers ask Easter visitors to state and national parks and other recreational areas to be careful with fires and cigarettes. The Bermuda high is well entrenched over the East Coast. It is bringing a constant flow of tropical air over the eastern half of the nation. This great expanse of high pressure is expected to have an armlock on the dry weather pattern through Tuesday.

High temperatures today were almost identical to Thursday's. They were in the 70s in the mountains and the Outer Banks, and the low to mid 80s elsewhere. That also will be the pattern Saturday.

The overnight lows will mount from the mid 40s in the mountains to the low 60s in the Piedmont and on the south coast. The extended outlook is for partly cloudy skies and continued unseasonably warm weather.

or Easter Sunday through Tuesday. Highs will be mostly in the 80s and lows from the mid 50s to the mid 60s.

Bar Ass'n Charges 2 Lawyers

Unneed 56 State Cars

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina will save $50,000 a year in operating costs thanks to the state Adult Probation-Parole Division turning back to the state 56 automobiles it says it doesn't need.

In an announcement Thursday, J.G. Patseavouras, director of the division, said that in addition to the annual operating costs, the state will save $200,000 in replacement costs for the 56 vehicles.

"However, we don't expect a reduction in the services we provide probationers and parolees across the state," he said.

The automobiles being returned were stationed largely in urban areas where there are 20 to 30 probation-parole officers. Some of these officers are required to spend several hours in court so that enough automobiles will be available on a pool basis, he said.

Rather than the action showing that the agency had too many cars, Patseavouras said that it resulted from "a fall-out of the economies we've been able to put into effect" with the merger of the parole and probation divisions.

The return of the 56 automobiles was among several actions by the Department of Corrections which cut its budget for next fiscal year which begins July 1 by 4.5 per cent.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Opposing attorneys in last summer's celebrated Joan Little murder trial face possible disbarment after being charged by the North Carolina State Bar with making "unprofessional and prejudicial" comments during the trial.

Jerry Paul, head of Miss Little's defense team, and John Wilkinson, a Washington, N.C., attorney hired to help the prosecution, have until May 12 to answer charges cited in the bar complaints. The calls for each attorney to be disciplined for violating the bar code of ethics and conduct.

When called Thursday night, Wilkinson refused comment except to say, "I haven't done anything wrong." Paul could not be reached for comment, but James Rowan, one of Paul's law partners, called the bar charges inaccurate "half-truths taken out of context."

In a five-week trial that attracted worldwide attention, Miss Little was cleared of a murder charge in the 1974 stabbing death of Clarence Allgood, a jailer in rural Beaufort County. Miss Little, a 21-year old black, was in the jail pending appeal of an earlier breaking and entering conviction when Allgood was killed.

During the trial, Miss Little testified that the white jailer had used an ice pick to force her to perform oral sex on him. When Allgood's grip loosened, she grabbed the ice pick, stabbed him, then fled, she testified.

Miss Little is now serving the seven-to-10-year sentence on the breaking and entering conviction.

After the five-week trial, presiding Judge Hamilton Hobgood sentenced Paul to 14 days in jail for contempt of court for comments he made in the courtroom during jury selection. Paul served five days then was released while appealing the order. Paul is still free while appealing through federal courts after Hobgood's action was upheld through the state appeal route.

The charges now against Paul are not related to the earlier contempt order. The complaint charges that Paul:

—"Lauded and credited himself with being able to 'buy' justice for any individual if given enough money."

—"Unethically acquired the movie and publication rights for accounts of Miss Little's trial."

—"Improperly told reporters his client was innocent, that state witnesses were not credible, made claims of racism and alleged involvement of the Ku Klux Klan in the case."

A spokesman for Paul commented that inaccurate reporting was responsible in some degree for the charges being filed.

Wilkinson, an eastern North Carolina lawyer for 36 years, had been hired by the Allgood family to help the prosecution. The charges against Wilkinson are general and allege that he frequently commented that Miss Little was guilty and gave his personal opinion on her "honesty and integrity." Also, he is accused of "improper, unprofessional and prejudicial" remarks.

There are four possible actions if either attorney is found to have violated bar ethics. They are private reprimand, public censure, suspension or disbarment.

Paul and Wilkinson have the option of having the complaint heard in regular civil session of Superior Court or by a special committee selected by the state Supreme Court. If neither is chosen, the bar could hear the case itself.

Bar counsel Harold Coley said the bar's governing council, which is made up of attorneys, asked him in January to gather evidence and file complaints against Paul and Wilkinson. Most of the evidence he accumulated was "gleaned from the news media," Coley said.

Grabbed Her Purse And Ran

A purse-snatching incident was reported last night to Greenville Police, according to Chief Glenn Cannon.

The chief said Mrs. Janice R. Callihan of 2505 East Fifth St. reported she was getting into her car near the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Pitt Street when a man approached her from the rear, grabbed her purse and ran.

The pocketbook, valued at $35, according to Cannon, contained only $2.

Can Resign Or Be Fired

LENOIR, N.C. (AP) — Glen C. Richards, Caldwell County emergency service director who has difficulties with ambulance attendants, has been given the option of resigning or being fired.

County Manager L. Norman Schronce gave him the choice Thursday. Richards had no immediate comment.

Schronce issued the ultimatum after meeting with the county commissioners and telling them of his intention to do so.

As emergency service director, Richards has been in charge of the ambulance drivers. He had fired an ambulance supervisor, Buster A. Green in February after a dispute, but the commissioners reinstated Green. Then the attendants recently staged a six-day sick-in to protest the rehiring. Schronce fired them last Tuesday after a weekend of negotiations failed to resolve the dispute. He said he had offered to let them return to their jobs without pay for the time they missed, but they refused.

Seven discharged attendants said at a news conference Thursday—before the ultimatum to Richards—that they had received unfair treatment because of the sick-in. Their spokesman, Robert A. McMillan, said they should have been credited with paid vacation time instead of being dismissed.

He said the seven had no comment on possible legal action against county officials.

Mysterious Gold Bars Claimed By Two Banks

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Two Swiss banks have laid claim to 118 bars of gold bullion found aboard a plane at Charleston Air Base last December.

However, a U.S. Customs official says the approximately $586,000 worth of the precious metal is only a small portion of a $1.3 million shipment destined for Saudi Arabia.

Petitions were filed Wednesday with the U.S. Customs Office in Charleston on behalf of Swissbank Corporation and the Union Bank of Switzerland, both of Zurich. The firms claim sole ownership of the gold bars, which were discovered Dec. 16 in the cargo hold of a plane as a crewmember prepared the craft for a flight to Europe.

The Charles T. Theus Marine Survey and Adjustment firm of Savannah filed the petition on behalf of the Swiss firms.

U.S. Customs District Director David Humphreys said the petitioners' claim will be validated if a customs investigation verifies the banks' ownership and if Washington approves the release of the bullion.

Patrick O'Brien, special agent in charge of customs investigations in Charleston, said the claim indicates that the original shipment of gold was 605 pounds, but that through a massive foulup the gold never made it to its destination, but instead went on a trip around the world. And, apparently, somewhere along the way, a large quantity of the bullion was stolen.

O'Brien said that, according to the claim, the shipment valued at $1.3 million was loaded in Switzerland on a Saudi Airlines craft. But the plane had a mechanical problem and was unable to take off. So, the gold was transferred to another craft, which was chartered by Saudi Airlines from Overseas National Airways.

However, the captain of the chartered plane apparently was not informed of his cargo, O'Brien said. When the plane landed in Saudi Arabia, "Nobody was aware it was on the plane and, therefore, nobody was instructed to take it off," the customs official said.

"The plane then went on flying around the world," O'Brien said.

When the gold was found in Charleston in December, less than half of the original shipment was on board. The value of the missing gold is estimated at $800,000.

O'Brien said his agency believes 150 kilos, or 330 pounds, of gold were stolen in "a foreign country, which we are not free to name. Another 15 pounds of it is believed to have been stolen in Charleston or in Oakland, Calif.," he said.

Humphreys had said earlier, if claims for the gold found in Charleston had not been filed by the end of March, legal proceedings would be started to have the gold forfeited to the U.S. government.

Father Of Four Built Own Home

LACEY, Wash. (AP) — Building costs were high, at times over $20 a square foot, so Dan Woollett built his own sawmill, borrowed and begged materials and turned the gifts into a new house.

"If I had to spend any money on it, I probably wouldn't have it," said Woollett, 26, a father of four.

Using begged, borrowed and donated parts, Woollett built his own sawmill on 13 acres of property owned by his father. Then he set to work cutting the trees and sawing them into everything from six-inch-thick wall sections to quarter-inch-thick trim.

Woollett began his economy project in April 1974.

"I made a lot of mistakes," he says in explaining how he gained his expertise in the art of house construction and sawmill operation.

The "Jimmy" diesel engine that runs the sawmill was given to Woollett after a fellow woodsman junked out a broken down Cat. Other parts drifted in from logger and nonlogger friends alike. The diesel engine drives not only the blade but the carriage that carries the logs to their destination. The carriage is driven through an old Chevrolet Powerglide transmission which Woollett hooked up for use in low and reverse gears.

Most of the furniture in the Woollett's three-bedroom house is built in. Mrs. Woollett says that was just another cost-saving move.

The home will be heated by a wood space heater located in the living room. Woollett estimated that during the toughest winter he uses less than six cords of wood to heat the house.

"I was all right until I started doing the wiring," Woollett said. "Then I found out building a house could cost some money."

Up to then, he had invested less than $500 in the project.

Woollett says he has a home with all the modern conveniences — indoor plumbing, electric lights and cook stove — without many of the modern annoyances, like a mortgage.

"When we move in, the place will be ours," Woollett says.

"He's proud of his work," says Mrs. Woollett. "And he loves to beat the system."

Leading Service Saturday Night

FALKLAND—Bishop Rouse and his congregation from Fremont will lead services at Friendship Holiness Church here Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Mamie Gorham and Mrs. Elizabeth Little are sponsors of the service.

Sunday at noon aspiring missionaries of the church will render a special missionary service. Immediately following this service there will be an Easter program, sponsored by Mrs. Louise Tucker.

Baby Contest Will Be Sunday

The Community Gospel Chorus of Greenville will sponsor its annual baby contest Sunday at 3 p.m. at Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church.

The Chorus invited the public to attend and enjoy the Eastern Parade of babies from the community.
