

Carter, Udall, Jackson See Pa. Success

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Henry Jackson and Morris Udall each forecast success today in Pennsylvania's presidential primary, a race that could determine whether there's room for the brokers at the Democratic National Convention.

If Carter, the former Georgia governor, wins decisively it could make him tougher to stop in the remaining primaries.

Victory by Jackson or Udall, however, would increase the possibility that Minnesota Sen. Hubert H.

Humphrey, an easy winner in Pennsylvania four years ago, will become a candidate after June 8, when all the primaries are over.

President Ford was alone on the Republican ballot, unchallenged in Pennsylvania by Ronald Reagan. The 103 GOP delegates will be uncommitted, though all are expected to be in Ford's pocket.

Statewide, Pennsylvanians nominated candidates for the U.S. Senate seat now held by retiring Republican Minority Leader Hugh Scott. Two congressmen are among the contestants to succeed Scott, Democrat William Green of Philadelphia and Republican H. John Heinz 3d of Pittsburgh.

There were 2,801,649 Democrats and 2,221,639 Republicans eligible to vote. At stake were party nominations for state treasurer, state auditor general, 25 seats in Congress, half of the seats in the 50-member state Senate and all 203 state representative seats.

The 9,638 polling places in 67 counties remain open 13 hours, closing at 8 p.m.

It's the presidential sweepstakes that offers the glamour, and in Pennsylvania it was a two-part primary—1. The nonbinding popularity contest, and 2. The election of convention delegates.

Carter, claiming his polls indicated he was the choice of a majority of the people, said he would win the popularity voting provided the turnout was good.

Jackson, the U.S. senator from Washington State, said he would get a majority of the 134 convention delegates to be elected, plus a proportionate share of the 44 others to be selected later by the party's state committee.

Udall, who represents Arizona in Congress, predicted he would finish no worse than second in both the popularity and delegate battles.

Besides the three top contenders, the Democratic ballot also listed Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, antiabortion candidate Ellen McCormack, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp.

Shapp, Bayh and Harris quit the presidential race after failing to make any impact in the early primaries.

Jackson, backed by most of the state's labor officials and many party leaders, bristled at suggestions that he is a fading candidate simply heading a stop-Carter movement for Humphrey's eventual entry.

"I don't get involved in such suppositions and iffy questions," Jackson told reporters. "Humphrey is not a candidate (and) I'm going to do very well."

Carter planned to take his campaign to Connecticut today, Udall headed for Maryland and Jackson rested at his Washington, D.C., home.

All rented hotel ballrooms in Philadelphia and prepared to wait for returns there.

In other political developments: —President Ford began four days of campaigning in Texas today, hunting votes for the May 1 primary. Reagan returns there Thursday. A Ford aide said Reagan appears to have the lead now in the fight for the 100 Texas delegates.

—Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. of California plunges into the presidential battle for the first time Wednesday in Maryland. He said "it's hard to predict" how he'll do in the May 18 primary there but that he wants to give the voters "a broader choice" on a Democratic nominee.

City School Board Adopts Criteria Modifications

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville School Board members Monday night approved a couple of criteria changes requested by City Schools Supt. Glenn Cox relative to the effort to come up with an acceptable racial-ratio redistricting schedule for elementary schools in Greenville.

Approved were measures to raise from seven to ten per cent the total margin of imbalance permissible in racial ratios in each of the elementary schools and an authorization not to figure in the out-of-district students in compiling the ratios and assignments.

Saying his staff had worked diligently on the matter to produce three separate plans, Cox noted, "We have been unable to come up with a plan to meet the specifications set out by the Board of Education. We need several things amplified and cleared up before we can meet the criteria." Cox then offered the two change requests which were approved.

For several months a redistricting plan has been the subject of a number of workshops following the board's initial decision to put into effect for the 1976-77 school year a racial ratio distribution. The black and white student distribution to give a balanced attendance pattern at each school approximates 55 per cent white, 45 per cent black.

Board Chairman Henry Dunn announced after approval of the two changes that an additional workshop on redistricting would be held soon, and that a public announcement would be made so that interested persons would have an opportunity to attend.

Earlier, the board had set the April meeting as the one at which the final redistricting plan would be made public. However, due to the impossibility of coming up with an acceptable plan under the earlier, more restrictive criteria, a final acceptable plan could not be reached for approval at last night's meeting.

Also approved at Monday night's meeting was the final preliminary budget schedule for the 1976-77 school year; a budget of $5,845,980 for current expense; and $2,591,845 for capital outlay, making a proposed budget grand total of $8,437,825. This is $86,645 less than the initial budget proposal unveiled in March which amounted to a total of $8,523,570.

With the school board's official approval of the proposed budget, the next step is a formal presentation of the budget request to the county commissioners. Cox said he will be contacting County Manager Reginald Gray to set up an early hearing date for the budget.

Expressions of public support for the budget from persons attending Monday night's meeting were given. One of those, Miles Frost, asked the board if it would support a bond issue for schools. Among answers to the question was a remark by member Dr. Badger Clark that "bond issues for schools is no longer possible for separate school units, but has to be county wide."

Mrs. Terry Shank explained that any county bond issue would result in two-thirds going to county schools and one-third to the city schools. "We would turn to a bond issue," Clark added, "if that was the only available source of funds."

Board chairman Dunn and Supt. Cox both pointed out that about half a million annually could be available if county commissioners would approve use of the 20 cents special levy authorized by the state legislature as a means of implementing city school funds. This source of funds has not been used for the Greenville City Schools since the school year 70-71.

Member Les Turnage remarked "If the county commissioners got enough phone calls from the public asking them to put the 20 cents levy back on, they'd do it. All the calls they get on this are ones from people saying 'don't put it.'"

Changes and additions in proposed curriculum for the secondary division of the city school, presented by Cox, were approved by board members. These are:

—For the eighth grade, a change that would make available a period every day for band and string instrument pupils instead of the every other day schedule now in effect. This involves a choice for these students to not have physical education (PE) classes; or to have PE as an alternate with another study, such as foreign language;

—A change in the senior high PE requirement that would have a student fulfill his PE requirement on an every day basis in the tenth grade, instead of an everyother day basis during the 10th and 11th grades;

—The addition of an advanced PE class for a daily two hour period. This will involve off-campus activities such as bowling, skating, and fly-casting; would be good for one credit; and transportation would be provided by use of school activity buses.

—A plan to permit seniors not to be required to take more than three subjects if they do not need more than that number to meet graduation requirements. Rose High principal Bob Alligood said any student wanting to take additional courses for additional credits would be encouraged to do so, however. Alligood gave a run-down of seniors this year, showing that a few needed only one credit to graduate; a sizeable number need only two credits; with a large number needing three or more credits to meet graduation requirements.

In connection with early graduation, board members will meet in a workshop session on May 3 to look into various opinions from faculty, state, ECU educators and others on the possibility of a policy on early graduation. This will also include the crediting of college work toward high school graduation.

A report by Cox on the status of progress on the proposed new middle school reveals that plans are to receive bids for site work — grading, compacting and drainage on Monday, May 10 "probably around 2 p.m." It is hoped to have a groundbreaking ceremony the next day.

Ford Pleads For Sterner Penalties In Drug Laws

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford urged Congress today to provide stronger penalties, including mandatory minimum prison sentences for drug traffickers, to fight the "national tragedy" of drug abuse.

In a special message to legislators, the President warned of a "worsening drug situation" and said it is necessary to take stronger action against drug traffickers.

In addition to more severe prison sentences, Ford called for denying bail to previous offenders, cracking down on tax enforcement against big drug traffickers "to take the easy profits out of drug selling" and permitting the Customs Service to search persons suspected of smuggling drug-profit money out of the country.

Ford told Congress "the cost of drug abuse to this nation is staggering." He said more than 5,000 Americans die each year from improper use of drugs and that law enforcement officials estimate "as much as one half of all street crime — robberies, muggings, burglaries — are committed by drug addicts to support their expensive and debilitating habits."

"Drug abuse constitutes a clear and present threat to the health and future of our nation," Ford said.

Calling for stronger action against "these merchants of death" — the drug traffickers — Ford said he would send Congress legislation this week to require:

—Mandatory minimum sentences of at least three years for a first offense conviction of trafficking in heroin and narcotic drugs and at least six years for subsequent offenses or for selling to a minor.

—Denial of bail for defendants arrested for trafficking in heroin or dangerous drugs if they have previously been convicted of a felony, are free on parole, are nonresident aliens, have been arrested in possession of a false passport or are fugitives or previously convicted of being fugitives.

—Authority for the U.S. Customs Service to search persons suspected of smuggling drug money out of the country, in addition to the agency's current authority to search for contraband entering the United States.

—Raising from $2,500 to $10,-

000 the value of property that can be seized, such as boats and aircraft used to smuggle drugs, and requiring privately-owned boats to report to Customs immediately upon arrival in port.

Ford also called on Congress to ratify an existing treaty for international control of synthetic drugs, saying delay has become an embarrassment to the United States and is making it difficult to get other countries to tighten controls on narcotics.

Ford said he is setting up two new Cabinet committees — one for drug law enforcement, the other for drug abuse prevention, treatment and rehabilitation — headed respectively by the attorney general and the secretary of health, education and welfare.

In addition, the President said he is calling on the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service to help develop a tax enforcement program aimed at high-level drug traffickers.

"We know that many of the biggest drug dealers do not pay income taxes on the enormous profits they make," Ford said. He urged a program to bring effective enforcement of tax laws against these violators.

Ford said he was also intensifying diplomatic efforts with other governments to help fight the drug problem on an international level.

SWEET ACIDOPHILUS

Where can I get sweet acidophilus milk? I've read that it's a help with preventing or alleviating some digestive problems, mouth ulcers, and fever blisters and is especially helpful in keeping beneficial intestinal bacteria intact when a person is taking antibiotics. W. B.

Any grocery store which stocks Carolina Dairy or Maola milk can request sweet acidophilus milk for its customers. Carolina Dairy makes it and Maola can get it from Pine State, a spokesman for the local Maola office said. Just let your grocer know you're interested.

Some, but not all, commercial yogurt also is made with acidophilus culture, and health food stores sell acidophilus culture you may use to make your own yogurt.

An acidophilus culture in tablet or granular form can be bought without a prescription at most drug stores, also.

Men's Fashion Designer 'Knows Of Women's Current Trends'

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Staff Writer

"Men's fashions should and are going parallel to women's fashions. As a designer I know what's going on in women's fashions because I consider it collateral," said Luciano Franzoni, international stylist for Hart Schaffner & Marx.

Franzoni was in Greenville yesterday appearing at Coffman's Mens Wear. He was a guest on "Carolina Today" and spoke last night at the Rotary Club.

He travels each season from one section of the country to another, talking to men who are fashion-aware, answering questions they might voice on fashion, one of his favorite subjects.

"This is the calm after the storm in fashion," the designer explained. "The flash has been replaced by a quiet dash and men will like it."

"For so many years prior to 1968, there was uniformity and dullness in men's wear—men got tired of wearing always the same look and we, as designers were asked for something new."

"We were then experimenting with all kinds of ideas and going in all directions. For instance, referring to costumes of the past, the Edwardian look or borrowing from other cultures like the Nehru look. And also using color as long as it was bright and visible."

"I think some of what was done in that period and subsequent to that period was needed in so far as making the man of the street or consumer aware of the fact that something revolutionary was taking place in men's wear. Naturally so many of the things that happened were excessively wide and avant guard and not every man could wear them with confidence or with ease," he added.

"Consequently after the fashion message was put across, we had to settle down and try to create something that was acceptable by all people without retreating to the old uniform. I think that the men's wear industry in general has done quite a good job in pursuing that objective and today we see the result in the better men's stores. For instance, color has been so well accepted by so many men and obviously their ladies—but by the same token it doesn't necessarily mean that color has to be synonymous with flashy."

"So what we see today is colorful but in better taste and more refined than it was five years ago," he continued.

When asked if he chats with women and asked his opinion on women's fashions, Franzoni replied, "I pay a lot of attention to what the ladies have to say. I don't try to influence my wife, but I do enjoy going shopping with her because I like the styles and colors—it's fun and educational at the same time. I think she enjoys shopping with me."

Franzoni can be considered a linguist. He speaks four languages fluently and in his words, mumbles in a few others. In addition to a natural liking for a variety of languages, the designer feels that he can communicate with others more necessary than ever in today's small world.

A native Italian, Franzoni was just a teenager when the Americans liberated his country in the waning days of World War II. He "practiced" his English on the American soldiers and found that he was understood. Because he started out to be a lawyer, Franzoni studied law at the University of Rome. Later he became expert in language at Pro Deo University, another institution of higher learning. Somewhere along the line he realized that his desire was to design men's fashions—so he began what first was his dream and then became a reality.

In Rome, he began his career in designing by becoming associated with important Italian fashion firms. Then, in 1958, he opened his own atelier in Rome. For 10 years, he created ideas that made his name well known among the well-dressed men of Italy. He then achieved the epitome of fashion in Rome—he became one of Italy's "Big Four" of design with Bioni, Datti and Litrico. It was 1968, when he joined Hart Schaffner and Marx.

In both 1966 and 1967, the International Festival of Men's Fashion, San Remo, Italy, proclaimed Franzoni Best Men's Italian Stylist. Later the Chamber of Commerce in Pistoia, Italy, presented him with the Silver Fashion Medal.

Then he won the Silver Fashion Plate, given by the Association of Brazilian Designers, Sao Paulo, Brazil. He was awarded honorary memberships by the Australia Committee of High Fashion, Sidney, Australia, and the High Fashion Association, Argentina, Rosario, Argentina.

Languages, he now admits, are one of his many hobbies which began when he was in school and probably will never end.

Maryknoll Sisters Speak Out On Issues

By ALFRED ARAUJO
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — If it has been a common complaint in the past that the Roman Catholic Church has been slow to involve itself in African politics and aspirations, few could find fault with the Maryknoll Sisters on this score.

For this small Catholic missionary community — there are 77 Maryknoll sisters working in East Africa — has become well known in the past few months for its outspoken views on issues ranging from the civil war in Angola to United States government appointments related to Africa.

But then the Maryknoll Sisters are basically nonconformists: unlike other Catholic nuns, they do not wear the white or grey habit, do not cover their heads and do not live in seclusion.

The Maryknoll Sisters of St. Dominic were founded in 1912 in America by a woman called Mary Josephine Roger, who later became Mother Mary Joseph. Today there are more than 1,000 Maryknoll sisters working in Latin America, Africa and Asia — and in the United States as well. They are engaged primarily in religious education and service in the medical, social and educational fields.

The Maryknoll Sisters first came to Tanzania in 1948. They moved into Kenya in 1969 and the Sudan only this year. While working with the local communities, they see their evangelical role in the light of the values and culture in which they live.

In Tanzania the sisters helped to start the first two senior secondary schools for girls. They also founded an Order of Tanzanian sisters. Their main priority in Tanzania at the present is developing Christian communities and helping to implement the government's socialist policy of "Ujamaa" (villagization). There are six sisters living and working with people in "Ujamaa" villages.

In Kenya, the sisters are engaged in projects in three different towns. They are running a health clinic, working in administrative jobs with Catholic Relief Services and the Catholic Secretariat, both with headquarters here, and are also engaged in a home industry project in a slum area of the capital. They also work as teachers and supervise youth projects.

Irrespective of the type of job they do, each sister gets a living allowance of 670 Kenya shillings ($84) a month. They commute by public transport and live in low-cost flats, usually three or four sisters to a flat.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Do you know what Mayva said to me the other day? She said, "You are under stress."

"Why would you say a thing like that?" I asked.

"Because you just dusted the coffee table with a deodorant. Besides, you don't seem to have any energy anymore."

"A lot of people rest between chewing while they eat," I said defensively.

"Ice cream? I'd like to see you get into some kind of a meditation technique. I can't tell you what it's done for me."

"I know what it's done for you," I said. "You're so content you're no fun anymore. A REAL friend, Mayva, is fat when you are fat, depressed when you are depressed, and overdrawn when you are overdrawn. I liked you better when you cried when you returned empties to the recycling center."

"I can't do that," she smiled. "I can't even tell you what my mantra is."

"That's terrific!" I said. "When you were pregnant, I offered to carry the baby for you and you can't even loan me your mantra for a few minutes. It's all right. I'll get my own!"

They tell me they found me in my chair 40 minutes later. The kitchen was a disaster area, the front door was open, there was no hint of dinner, the phone was ringing, and the dog was eating cottage cheese out of an ashtray. They found me rocking back and forth with a smile on my face reciting over and over "Paul Newman . . . Paul Newman . . . Paul Newman . . ."

Dear Abby

School Graduation Concerns Student

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune, N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: As my high school graduation draws near, I am becoming more concerned about this problem.

My parents are divorced, and my mother married a man my father absolutely detests. The feeling is mutual, and if they meet each other face to face, there is sure to be a fight.

I have sent invitations to my mother and father. My mother insists on having her husband attend with her.

I am just terrified of what is going to happen when my father and stepfather meet at my graduation. And there is no way they can avoid seeing each other.

My graduation is a very important event in my life, and I want everything to go right. My father says he won't start anything, but if my stepfather takes a poke at him, he will defend himself.

I get tied up in knots just thinking about it. I've even considered not showing up myself. If there's a fight, I'll be disgraced.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Don't borrow trouble. There may not be a fight. And if there is, remember, you are not responsible for the behavior of your father or your stepfather. They can disgrace only themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 and so is Todd. Everytime we are alone, he tries to touch me in places I don't want him to. The only thing is that part of me wants him to, but the other part of me stops him.

I have been going with Todd for about five months, and I have never felt this way about any other boy. I wouldn't say that I am "in love" with him, but I sure do like him a lot.

I hope I don't lose him because I really enjoy his company. When he tries to touch me, and I make him stop, he doesn't put up a fight. He stops. But the first time he gets the chance, he tries again.

Please don't tell me to quit seeing Todd because I don't want to. And don't tell me I am too young to feel this way because if I feel this way I must not be too young.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: You are a very bright young woman, so listen carefully. Obviously you have normal sexual feelings, which is nothing to be ashamed of, but you are not yet sufficiently mature emotionally to handle a physical relationship. The word from here is: Tell Todd to knock off the hand bit. And if he doesn't—YOU do!

By The Associated Press Agricultural Commissioner Jim Graham says the continuing drought has cost North Carolina farmers millions of dollars.

It has been 26 days since the central part of the state has had rain of consequence.

Dry pastures alone have meant a loss of more than $3 million, with the figure growing daily, Graham said. And the loss to tobacco growers, who have had to replant, has been astronomical, he added.

And before the drought, a freeze devastated the peach crop.

The State Forestry Service said 57 forest fires were reported Sunday.

It was cloudy and cool today. Highs ranged from the 50s in the mountains to around 70 in the southeast.

There will be scattered frost in the mountains tonight, and a risk of frost in the foothills and susceptible areas of the Piedmont.

A cold front cleared the coast Monday and is now out to sea. As it moved through, scattered thundershowers developed along the coastal areas. Winds were strong out of the west and northwest, gusting to over 30 miles an hour in the Piedmont and mountains. These winds helped bring in cooler air. Readings Monday afternoon were 10 degrees cooler than the day before in the west, and five degrees cooler in the east. The maximums ranged from 53 at Asheville to 78 at Wilmington.

Under sunny skies, a little warming will take place Wednesday. Highs will be mostly in the 60s.

With the cold air coming down from the north hitting the warmer coastal waters, winds remain high along the coast. Small-craft advisories are in effect. The winds will slowly diminish tonight and Wednesday.

No Pay Hike For Strikers

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — While they failed to win a pay increase, nurses who struck the Columbus County Hospital last week went back to work Monday saying they were satisfied with a new six-month contract.

State labor officials said it was the first strike by unionized nurses in North Carolina history. About a third of the nurses participated in the 11-day strike. Two nursing units, involving 28 of the hospital's 142 beds, were closed by the strike.

"We did not gain many of the patient-care improvements we wanted, but we are consoled by our own self-respect and the hope of greater community concern and involvement in achieving better patient care at Columbus County Hospital, a statement from the North Carolina Nurses Association said.

Hospital Administrator Ralph Rogers said only that he was pleased a settlement had been reached.

A tentative agreement had been announced Friday after a mediator from the State Labor Commission joined the negotiations. Nurses approved the settlement Monday. They had withdrawn their picket line Friday.

The statement from the nurses said the new contract contained a provision that work schedules be posted at least 28 days in advance, settling one of their major complaints.

They struck April 12 after the Nurses Association and hospital officials were unable to settle a dispute primarily over working conditions. Also involved were scheduling, minimum amount of time off between working assignments, and the number of shifts a nurse could be rotated. The nurses unsuccessfully sought a 5 per cent pay increase, plus better staffing and working conditions.

Opening A New Store In Bethel

BETHEL—The grand opening of Harris Super Market's new store on Main Street here is scheduled for Thursday at 9 a.m. Durward Harris, president of Harris Super Markets Inc., said that a ribbon cutting, with Bethel Mayor James Dupree on hand, will launch the grand opening.

Harris said that the new store, which contains some 17,000 square feet, is located on the lot formerly occupied by the old high school north of the railroad on Main Street.

According to Harris, the new store will replace the present Harris Super Markets facility here on W. Railroad Street.

The modern, air conditioned structure will offer a shopping format similar to other stores in the Harris organization, it was pointed out. He added that new equipment has been installed in all departments.

Ample customer parking has been provided at the new store, Harris said, with approximately 100 spaces designated.

C.D. Everett, who managed the Railroad Street store, will move to the new location as manager, it was pointed out.

The Bethel store will be the sixth in the Harris area network. The firm operates three facilities in Greenville as well as single stores in Ayden and Tarboro.

Girl Killed With A Stolen Pistol

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The gun which killed 19-year-old Vicki McKinney last Wednesday had been stolen four days before from the home of a retired church choir director, police report.

The churchman and retired postal worker is 75-year-old J. Clyde White. He says police told him the 38-caliber Smith & Wesson Police Special he used for protection had been found in Miss McKinney's car after she had been abducted.

The driver of the car, 32-year-old Leroy Johnson of Charlotte, was charged with murder after Miss McKinney's body was found in a wooded area several hours later.

Something For History Buffs, Comedy Lovers

Pirates and their women entertained the colonial governors of North Carolina and South Carolina and provoked the unsuppressed laughter of the audience with the presentation of "Hot Grog" at the Roxy Theatre last night.

Both history buffs and comedy lovers were present to see the comical story of Blackbeard and his crew of merry men and merrymen. The plot of the play includes a few well known pirates and combines partial historical facts with partial present fannies to present an inevitable roar of anticipated laughter.

"Hot Grog" is presented by PegLeg Productions, which also presented "Diamond Studs", a historical comedy about the legend of Jesse James. "Diamond Studs" played in New York for almost nine months and received rave reviews from the New York Times and Newsweek. "Hot Grog" is comparable to the excellence of "Diamond Studs".

A mixture of music included rock, soul, blues. Superb choreography and singing were rewarded with applause following each individual number. The only slightly poor part of the music was the volume in the first couple of numbers. Lyrics were mixing with volume and were indistinguishable.

A spectacular performance was given by Ann Bonney, the sweet, southern niece of the Governor of North Carolina. Miss Bonney found she was tired of fighting off colonial men who wanted her to marry them to obtain her money. She decided to get on the boat of ex-pirates and sail around the world. Miss Bonney was quite a singer and received numerous rounds of applause from songs such as Seizure To Roam, Southern Nights and Bound Away.

Other performers to particularly watch for include Calico Jack Rackam, William Rhett, Pompey Rhett and Bulldog Rhett.

The mixture of the hot grog which is made of rum, brandy, gun powder, Texas Pete and a lighted match, with rock music and roaring laughter of the audience, presented an enjoyable experience for all who attended.

The hopes of the Roxy Theatre in bringing "Hot Grog" to Greenville were to help cultivate another theatrical outlet within Greenville besides the university. The performance of "Hot Grog" within the Roxy setting was comparable to any performance ever presented at the university and reviewed by this writer.

"Hot Grog" is a musical experience, a comical salute to history and most of all an enjoyable evening of uncontrollable laughter. —Susan Quinn

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are more women than men in America, and the women live longer. But females have a long way to go before pulling even with males in jobs and education.

Such are the findings in one of the most comprehensive reports ever compiled on the status of American women.

The report, the first of its kind by the Census Bureau, shows demographic, social and economic trends among women.

It shows women comprise 51.3 per cent of the population of 213,137,000. There are 5.6 million more women than men. By 1973, women could expect to live an average of nearly eight years longer than men, compared with 3.5 years longer in 1930.

The figures show the number of women in the labor force nearly doubled between 1950 and 1974 to 35.9 million, while the number of men increased by only one-fourth to 57.3 million. But the income differences between men and women remain substantial — the median earnings for women were $6,772 in 1974, compared with $11,835 for men.

The report shows that among people ages 25 to 29, approximately 77 women had completed at least four years of college for every 100 men in 1975, compared with 66 women for every 100 men in 1950.

"Of course, the women's movement has had an impact," said Paula J. Schneider, who headed a group of census staffers to plan and coordinate the report. "But it's hard to say if the movement was a cause or an effect. The movement was helped because lots of women had to work, and it encouraged women by publicizing the fact that the working woman was not alone."

Mrs. Schneider, who works in the bureau's population division, said that she hopes the women's movement will work to improve salaries for women and day care.

Other findings in the report show:

—A growing proportion of women are single or divorced and not remarried. In 1975, almost 40 per cent of women ages 20 to 24 were single, compared with 28 per cent in 1950.

—The number of female-headed families has increased by 73 per cent since 1960 to 7.2 million. They now comprise 13 per cent of all families.

—Women have gone from a near-record high fertility rate in the late 1950s to an all-time low in recent years. Women under 30 are increasingly favoring the two-child family.

The report shows that one of the strongest indications of the changing social and economic role of women in the last two decades has been their entry into the labor force.

By 1974, there were 63 women for every 100 men in the labor force, compared with 41 women for every 100 men in 1950, the material shows.

At the same time, the report shows that in both 1970 and 1974, the median income of women college graduates age 25 and older who worked full-time was only 60 per cent of comparable male median incomes. The authors write that women college graduates had incomes that were, on the average, lower than men who had only a high school education.

Back To Family Resort Goal

Down at Atlantic Beach the board of aldermen last week approved an ordinance which prohibits the public consumption of all alcoholic beverages.

The ordinance, of course, applies to public areas. It does not apply to bars and other establishments which have on-premises ABC permits.

The aldermen have in mind returning Atlantic Beach to the family resort concept.

Alderman Doug Fleming was quoted in the Carteret County News-Times, "We want to clean up the beach. We think this will help bring the families back."

In addition to being aimed at the problems of public drinking, the ordinance will hopefully help clean up litter, since it is less likely that beer cans and such will be thrown on the boardwalk and beach.

The aldermen discussed the ordinance with business representatives and the News-Times said it was well received. Even those who objected were willing to give the ordinance a try.

Atlantic Beach is a second home for large numbers of people in our area, and we heartily applaud the board of aldermen's attempts to create a family atmosphere there.

It will be difficult, even with this new anti-public drinking ordinance on the books, but it can be done and Atlantic Beach can be an area where any family can go for a pleasurable day at the ocean-side.

Great Help For Financing City Needs

Rep. Walter Jones last week announced a U.S. Department of Commerce grant of $223,500 to Greenville Utilities.

The grant, with matching local funds, will be used to expand the sewer system in West Greenville.

The grant is long awaited by local officials and will be tremendously helpful in financing the sewer system which will serve the growing Pitt Memorial Hospital complex, the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center and other developments in that area.

It Takes A Lot Of Gall

The General Accounting Office, suffering from acid indigestion, burped up a sour little report the other day on military "resorts." The report was prepared at the behest of Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin, who released it to the press with a bilious little statement of his own.

This was the substance of the report—that the military services maintain several "elaborate resort-style centers," including a large center in Germany, one in the Philippines, and two in Hawaii; that these resorts benefit from an annual $12.6 million subsidy from the taxpayers; that charges should be increased to reduce the subsidy; and that military personnel now assigned to the centers should be reassigned to military duties.

The GAO reminded Senator Proxmire that it "has questioned the funding of military recreation programs several times." The authors of the report ventured the gratuitous suggestion that "in view of the delay of the Department of Defense in updating its policies, the Congress may wish to impose specific guidelines on the use

Key To Missile Policy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A final Ford administration decision on producing additional long-range Minuteman III missiles will hinge on the course of U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms limitation talks and Russian weapons growth between now and September.

The Pentagon plans to speed procurement of more powerful new multiple warheads for Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) regardless of whether the negotiating deadlock is broken.

This prospect emerged after the announcement Monday that President Ford is asking Congress for $322.4 million to start manufacturing the new Mark 12A warhead a year earlier than had been planned and the option of continuing production of the triple-warhead Minuteman III.

The White House announcement came as Ford prepared to

Other Editors Say Abject Servility

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

As potential presidents of the United States, Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter are, all of us would like to think, men of strength, courage and reasonable sound judgment. But in one incredibly disgraceful performance in the nation's capital last week, these three candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination behaved like toadies whose ultimate guiding principle is political expediency.

These men—and Idaho Sen. Frank Church, who also is in the Democratic race—had been invited to participate Wednesday in a panel discussion before the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) at the Shoreham Hotel. Late Tuesday, the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, which is involved in a labor dispute with the National Broadcasting Corporation, informed the editors that union pickets would be posted at the Shoreham because of NBC's plans to cover the program. The union also notified the candidates.

On the morning of their scheduled appearance, three of the candidates—Carter, Udall and Jackson—sent word that they would not cross the picket line. Church reported that he had the flu. Meanwhile, the ASNE obtained a ruling from the National Labor Relations Board that the union's picket line at the hotel entrance constituted an illegal secondary boycott, and a federal judge ordered the pickets to move from that position.

During a telephone interview that was quickly arranged as a substitute for the candidates' personal appearance, columnist George Will asked each of them the following question: "Is it not fair to conclude from this that when you are forced to choose between respecting the rule of law and political advantage, you choose political advantage?"

The candidates hemmed and hawed equivocated and qualified, but the only logical answer that could be inferred from their remarks was: Yes, given such a choice, we'll take political advantage.

It was a sickening spectacle: Three men who profess to be bold and strong enough to serve as this nation's president submitting meekly to the illegal pressures of a labor union.

And in yielding, they displayed contempt for the rule of law, contempt for their own right to express their views and contempt for the right of the assembled representatives of the free press to solicit the views of public figures aspiring to public office.

It takes a monumental gall—a kind of awesome chutzpah—for any member of Congress to complain about military amenities. In the whole of our government, no group is more petted, pampered, coddled, cuddled and richly subsidized than those who serve in the House and Senate.

A senator or congressman parks in the morning in a magnificent heated garage. He ascends on a "members only" elevator to a posh office. His flowers are provided free from the Botanical Gardens. The pictures on his walls have been framed, free, by a special service. He works on his mail, which goes out free. He saunters to the barber shop for a haircut, free, and a shoeshine, free. He goes to the gym for a workout, followed by a swim in the congressional pool. He eats a subsidized lunch in a luxurious dining room. Then he goes to the floor to vote

THIS AFTERNOON

Nobody Knows How Long

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—How long will the North Carolina General Assembly remain in session once it convenes May 3?

That, and the factor which will determine the answer, is a much-debated question of late. The unknown factor is whether legislators will open the door for consideration of matters other than budgetary.

Pressure is severe on lawmakers—in this, an election year—to open that door. There are some matters which demand immediate attention, proponents maintain.

By statute, the session is supposed to be no longer than 30 days, and stick to budget matters alone.

But it is known that the leadership in either the House of Representatives (Speaker James C. Green, candidate for lieutenant governor), or the Senate (Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., candidate for governor) have promised prompt attention to some pressing matters.

A two-thirds vote of each body is required for consideration and action on legislation.

And savvy politicians know full well that once the assembly agrees to take up this, it will also have to take up that, and the other.

Additionally, several lawmakers are planning to get special items up for consideration by dragging them under the "budget" umbrella, no matter how slim the thread which ties the subject.

How long a session? Legislators who figure on ironing out budget-cutting matters and the pay-raise issue in committee this week before the session next week are saying two weeks.

But an effort in committee to suspend legislative room-and-board allowances once that two-week period expires was soundly trounced. Others say the session will run 90 days, but the catch is the May 28 filing deadline and August party primary in which all assembly seats are open. Few candidates will want to be in Raleigh while somebody else campaigns back in the home district.

A far-out idea put forth by some legislators is to get the essential budget matter out of the way quickly, then adjourn to return to Raleigh for a rump session betwixt primary and November election.

That move would remove the campaign pressures, would permit assemblymen to work somewhat leisurely while safely renominated (if such should happen), and yet satisfy the various pressure groups insisting on prompt attention to several pressing matters.

While obviously a far-out idea, it is not beyond possibility.

Here in capsule form, are some of the issues known at this time to be on the agenda for priority consideration by the May session:

On Tap

—Medical Malpractice law, a certainty in the Senate, still iffy in the House, would be rewritten to limit the time on liability, require testimony from experts of similar circumstances, and limit the insurance company payoff to $100,000 with anything over that coming from a special doctor's fund in the State Treasury.

—Auto Insurance is an

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter-Jackson Contrast

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

PITTSBURG — The tough and practical men of big business who slipped unobtrusively from Jimmy Carter's suite in the William Penn Hotel Tuesday evening were barely able to suppress fascination for the one time peanut farmer.

"We think he's got the best chance of any Democrat to be nominated, and so naturally when you are asked to meet the next possible President you say yes," one of them told us. "There is plenty we don't like about Jerry Ford," he added.

Saying yes were presidents and executive vice presidents of U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Allegheny Ludlum, Alcoa, National Steel, the Mellon Bank, Jones & Laughlin, Koppers and other corporate giants — about 20 executives in all, only two of whom were Democrats.

If the invitation for the non-fund-raising chat with a possible future President has come from Sen. Henry M. Jackson — Carter's main rival in next Tuesday's presidential primary — instead of Carter, the hotel suite might have looked empty.

"We wouldn't do this for Scoop," one industrial mogul told us. "He's prostituted himself for labor."

That Carter event, which the former Georgia governor's campaign staff failed to include on his schedule, capsuled some of the political razzmatazz that has marked so much of Carter's daredevil campaign for the presidential nomination. For at 7 a.m. the next morning, there was smiling Jimmy Carter shaking hundreds of hands at the plant gate of U. S. Steel's huge Homestead plant here, handing out literature promising that if elected he would sign the common-situs picketing bill (vetoed by President Ford) and a repeal of Taft-Hartley's right-to-work section. Both are anathema to corporate America.

Moreover, in the face of strong support for Jackson from the entire bureaucracy of the AFL-CIO Steel Workers Union — a dominant political force in this steel capital of the world — Carter's presence at the plant gate seemed to demonstrate conclusively that, in the anti-organization politics and culture of today, rank-and-file, blue-collar workers are taking direction from no one.

"A majority of us here are voting for the man any more, not the politician the union says to vote for," a stamper of steel shapes told us on his way to work. The sentiment became repetitive.

Thus, following his surprising heart-to-heart talk with not unsympathetic titans of industry, Carter went to the workers they pay, over the heads of the union bosses, and soubly verified the

Techniques For Making Money

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, you can change your life if you really want to. You can build a better future for yourself and your family, have the money for education and vacations and maybe even buy a boat.

Tyler Hicks talking Sure, you've heard the message before, and you probably realize that fortunes have been made peddling hope. But Ty Hicks goes beyond that—he often demonstrates what he preaches.

Hicks' files contain letters attesting to his techniques for making money, and to many people he is becoming as much a folk hero as Horatio Alger. But Hicks is real, an executive with a major international corporation.

In his spare time he sometimes makes a six-figure income, in real estate, manufacturing, mail order, writing, consulting, lecturing. In his early 50s, he says he's grossed more than $1 million in these sideline activities.

Next month his 38th book, "How To Make $1 Million In Real Estate In Three Years Starting With No Cash," will be published by Prentice-Hall. Yes, Hicks claims it can be done and, in fact, that he can name names and show how.

Titles similar to that — "How To Borrow Your Way To A Great Future" preceded it. They are distributed mainly by mail through Parker Publishing Co., West Nyack, N.Y., so they don't appear on popular retail best-seller lists. But Hicks says the total sale of his books is now approaching one million.

Not all his volumes are of that sort. Many are on engi-

The baseball teams of the Greenville and Washington high schools will clash here tomorrow at 3:30 at the Third Street Stadium.

The nine from Washington goes under the name of the Pam Pack and should furnish an unusual amount of keen competition owing to the fact that the two teams have for a long time been friendly enemies and the students as well as others enjoy seeing them engage in any sporting affair.

The Greenies have been easing along during the past few days having won five successive games. The last game in which the locals participated saw them minus three of their regular players. These boys will be back for the Washington game, however.

Strength For Today

THE RAIN FALLS ON BOTH

The rain falls upon the just And on the unjust feller; But mostly on the just, because

The unjust has the just's umbrella.

This piece of doggerel verse expresses vividly the feeling we so often get that the power of evil seems to be stronger in this world than the power of good. So often it is only a little group that continues to stand for what is right, while the greater part of mankind is either passively or actively enlisted on the other side.

But it has always been true that good cases are advanced by small minorities who have to endure persecution and the misunderstanding of their motives. The unjust snatches the umbrella out of the hands of the just, and just about everything else except self-respect and moral purpose.

But, umbrella or no umbrella, it is better to be on the side of the just than on the side of the unjust.

Humphrey Has Lot Riding On Pennsylvania Vote

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — He's not on the ballot, but Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has a lot riding on the Pennsylvania primary election today.

It could determine whether the Democrats' senior campaigner belongs to the past or to the future.

Jimmy Carter, top man among the Democratic candidates as the primary campaign enters its most hectic phase, believes that Humphrey now looms as his major rival for the White House nomination.

So Carter is trying to assemble his own stop-Humphrey movement — before the Minnesota senator can get started.

Carter, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona are the major contestants in Pennsylvania. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace is on the ballot, but he campaigned only briefly.

And then there are the 1,102 Pennsylvania Democrats running for seats at the party's national convention. One hundred and thirty four of them will be elected, in 50 separate contests.

So there are two separate sets of numbers to watch in judging the Pennsylvania returns. One is the popular vote in the statewide test of Democratic presidential preferences.

That is purely advisory, a so-called beauty contest. It does not determine how Pennsylvania will be counted in July when the Democrats choose their nominee.

Nonetheless, the candidate who wins it will get a significant psychological boost.

Carter said he expected to run first unless the voter turnout was slow. Jackson said it was close, dropping his earlier forecast of popular vote victory. Udall said he'd do no worse than second place.

The Pennsylvania delegates are being apportioned in separate competition, in each of the 50 districts from which state senators are elected. All told, Pennsylvania will have 178 votes at the Democratic convention, and that phase of the primary will determine how they are cast.

Pennsylvania's remaining 44 Democratic National Convention delegates will be chosen by the party's state committee.

Jackson, counting on labor and Democratic organization support, said he would win the delegate competition. Carter said he couldn't forecast the outcome. Udall said he'd be a satisfied second.

But it may take some time to determine how the candidates — and noncandidate Humphrey — actually fare in the delegate race. Each entry is running a slate of delegates committed to him. But there also are 418 uncommitted Democrats on the various ballots.

Furthermore, some would-be delegates are still listed for presidential candidates who have quit the race, among them Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp.

Some of his delegates are now for Jackson, some are uncommitted and some prefer the other entries. Then, too, there are Humphrey supporters in the ranks of the currently uncommitted, although no one knows how many.

All of that tends to put more emphasis on the Democratic popularity vote, which is fine with Carter, since he thinks he can win it.

He also believes that a victory in the preference vote would influence the uncommitted delegates in his direction. And he acknowledges that if he doesn't win, they would tend to turn toward others, most of them to Humphrey.

Humphrey remains a popular figure in Pennsylvania, where he won the 1972 primary. Some of Jackson's labor supporters have said openly they would prefer Humphrey.

For the Democrat who favors Humphrey, anyone but Carter will do in Pennsylvania. Carter is the only candidate who now appears to have a chance of assembling enough delegates to take clear command of the race before the convention.

Carter said he wasn't claiming that a victory in Pennsylvania would make him unstoppable. But it certainly would make him less stoppable.

So the task for Jackson and Udall is to slow the frontrun-ing Georgian, to keep the race open and nourish their own chances. If they succeed, it is to Humphrey's advantage.

He is shunning the primaries. But if there is an opening for a candidate on June 9, when all the primary balloting is done, Humphrey will be there.

may put you into a higher income tax bracket, but it also presents the opportunity to learn a new business that might lead to financial independence.

He recommends real estate and mail orders for consideration. And he thinks people might consider the securities markets also if they have the use of some cash. He suggests the tax-free municipal bond market not be overlooked.

The mail order operations that go best, he believes, are those in which the seller has exclusive access to a product. He cautions that "if you buy your product from someone else you know you'll have competition."

In real estate, Hicks believes, "You'll have your ups and downs, but over the year you'll make money." You have to accept problems. "Anytime, anywhere you're making money in business you're going to have problems."

He suggests a novice might begin with the purchase of a three or four-unit rental building, putting down a minimum of cash. With money from the rents or the sale of the first building, the owner then might consider 10 or 20 units.

As suggested by his latest title, some properties can be obtained for no down payments, by picking up tax repossessions from the county, or mortgage defaults from banks and savings and loan associations.

In that way, he is convinced, some people will pyramid their real estate to a great fortune.

Biologists At Annual Meet

Student and faculty biologists from East Carolina University attended the 37th annual meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists in New Orleans April 21-23, and presented reports on recent research projects.

Representing ECU were Drs. Vincent J. Bellis and Graham J. Davis of the ECU Department of Biology faculty, and graduate students Cynthia Blanck of Greenville, S.C., Thomas Vicars of Greenville, Craig Zamuda of North Springfield, Va., Edward Proffitt of Wilson and Dane Herring of Wilmington.

Addressing the meeting's plant ecology section were Dr. Bellis, reporting on research carried out with Ms. Blanck on the relation of vegetation to shoreline erosion in North Carolina estuaries, and Edward Proffitt, reporting on joint research with Dr. Bellis on flux of ocean-derived chloride and calcium in a N.C. Barrier Island maritime forest.

Other ECU biologists reported to the meeting's aquatic ecology sections.

Dane Herring reported on groundwater nutrient gradients between septic tank absorption fields and an estuary, a project conducted with Drs. Davis and Donald B. Jeffreys and James B. Anderson. Craig Zamuda reported on seasonal decay dynamics of an estuarine organism, which he studied with Dr. Davis, Dr. Mark Brinson and Thomas Vicars, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vicars of Greenville.

Vicars presented results of "Variations of Submerged Plant Bed Patterns in an Estuary," a project conducted with Drs. Davis and Brinson.

Dr. Davis reported on the ecology of the benthic aquatic macrophytes of the Pamlico River, a study undertaken with Dr. Brinson and graduate student Steven Reed.

would not have a chance.

In truth, however, the mere fact that Jackson is so publicly backed by so many once-powerful organizations may prove to be an albatross, not a blessing. That was clearly hinted by Carter's surprising success with both Republican big business and Democratic steel workers here. Indeed, with both Rep. Morris Udall and Gov. George Wallace dropping far off the pace, the contrasting campaigns of Carter and Jackson in the all-important popular vote or "beauty contest" portion of this Tuesday's primary election, threatens to catch Jackson at a dangerous low point.

The snickers that Jackson is only Humphrey's stand-in are, of course, part of his problem — but a small part. His real problem is the abysmal failure of his campaign to get out of its pedestrian rut, while Carter cavorts on the field with an eye-boggling demonstration of broken-field running.

The day seldom passes that some flapjaw doesn't arise on the floor to denounce the military for extravagance. These pampered darlings of the Congress steadily have whittled away at the benefits promised to servicemen as inducements to military service. Military retirement, military commissaries, military health benefits, military educational benefits—all these come under incessant attack.

Senator Barry Goldwater, God bless him, laid all this on the line in a blistering speech to the National Space Club on February 4. He put the speech in the Congressional Record, and urged his colleagues to "stop being hypocrites, demagogues and publicity seekers about the defense establishment." A few other members share Goldwater's indignation. Mighty few.

leave for Texas to campaign for next Saturday's Republican presidential primary. Ronald Reagan, his opponent, has charged that Ford is letting the United States fall behind Russia in military strength.

Ford's request is a reversal of an earlier tentative decision to shut down the Minuteman production line. However, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld told Congress in January it might be necessary to continue Minuteman production, "depending on the outcome of SALT II negotiations and our continuing assessment of Soviet ICBM programs."

Following the White House announcement, the Pentagon said Ford's action "does not constitute a final decision to continue production" in the budget year starting next October 1. "It does, however, give us the option to continue production if necessary," the Pentagon said.

Rumsfeld expects to review the situation before September, the Pentagon said.

No such qualification was stated in connection with plans for speeding production of the Mark 12A warhead, which would have the blast power of about 400,000 tons of TNT, twice that of present Minuteman II warheads.

A total of $266.1 million would be spent on turning out an additional 60 missiles next year, if a decision is made to continue Minuteman III production and if Congress approves.

There is no intention to increase the total number of land-based Minuteman missiles beyond the present 1,000 in firing position, the Pentagon said, because the interim SALT agreement now in effect does not permit construction of additional launch silos.

However, there were indications the Pentagon probably would change the "mix," now composed of 550 Minuteman III missiles, each armed with three independently targetable warheads, and 450 Minuteman IIs fitted with single warheads. In that event, the Pentagon likely would increase the number of Minuteman IIIs to 600 or 610 and reduce the number of single-warhead Minuteman II missiles.

Pleads Innocent In Bombing Case

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A local Teamsters Union official has pleaded innocent to charges of instigating the 1971 bombings of several companies in an effort to force them to unionize.

Paul Henry Parker, president and business manager of Teamsters Local 385, pleaded innocent Monday at his arraignment on three counts handed down April 15 by a federal grand jury.

U.S. Magistrate Donald Dietrich set the trial for July 6.

The grand jury charged that Parker met other Teamsters at the union hall here in February 1971 to plan the bombings that wracked several Orlando hauling and sand firms between February and April 1971.

The indictment also charges Parker with transporting dynamite and other explosives to Orlando from Miami and Cherraw, S.C., for the bombings.

IN THE PAST 5 YEARS, THE COST OF LIVING RATE HAS GONE UP TWICE AS MUCH AS THE COST OF YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE. TWICE AS MUCH!

The prices we pay for material and labor in providing you with telephone service have soared, too. But while we're all paying at least twice as much for food, housing, energy and transportation now, telephone service is still one of your best values.

Even with the new small rate increase, it's obvious that your phone is one thing that hasn't been carried away with inflation.

Jobs Bill Studied By Senators

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is studying a bill that would require the federal government to reduce unemployment to 3 per cent, but the measure is already being attacked by President Ford, who says it would cost too much money.

The bill, which Ford called "a vast election-year boondoggle," was introduced on Monday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. It would require the unemployment rate to hit the 3 per cent mark within four years. Sponsored principally by Humphrey and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., the bill would not require the federal government to create jobs until all resources of the private sector had been utilized and all other provisions of the act had been employed.

In explaining the bill before a Senate labor subcommittee earlier this month, Humphrey said the legislation is founded on the philosophy that "if people cannot obtain employment through any other means, it is better to give them a job funded by the government than it is to write those people a check to do nothing."

But Ford said he opposes the bill as too costly, calling it "a classic example of the way the misguided majority in recent congresses reacts. Anything that seems wrong with the economy, the federal government must rush in and fix, mainly by spending more billions of dollars."

Humphrey termed the President's attack "politically motivated" and called the bill "a serious and thoughtful attempt to provide good jobs for more Americans without inflation."

The bill would set up economic planning capacity in the White House, require anti-inflation policy-making and would establish a program to stabilize state and local governments during recessions.

But the centerpiece of the act is its philosophy that "work be substituted for welfare, unemployment compensation and income maintenance spending to the maximum extent possible."

To this end, provision is made for a range of employment programs, especially in depressed areas and among groups with special unemployment problems, such as the young.

Humphrey said cutting unemployment from today's 7.5 per cent to 3 per cent by 1980 would result in some $500 billion more in economic production plus a cutback in welfare and the federal deficit.

He said it is impossible to estimate accurately precise costs of the plan because they will depend on the strength of economic recovery, the rate of growth in the labor force and the specific design of the job creation programs. But he said even with the type of moderate economic recovery seen by the administration, two million to three million persons still would be jobless between now and 1980.

Cardinals Named

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has named Archbishop William Wakefield Baum of Washington, D.C., and 20 other prelates to be cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, the Vatican announced.

The Pope will elevate Archbishop Baum and 18 of the cardinals-designate to the Sacred College at a consistory on May 24, the Vatican said.

The other two cardinals were named "in pectore," in his breast, and their identities will be kept secret until the Pope decides to reveal them. This has been the procedure followed for some prelates living in Communist countries whose elevation might make them subject to reprisals.

Archbishop Baum, the only American on the list, was born in Dallas on Nov. 21, 1926, and was ordained a priest in 1951. Before taking over the Washington archdiocese, he was bishop of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, in Missouri.

Pope Paul named him archbishop of Washington following the retirement of Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle.

The consistory will be the fifth in Pope Paul's 13-year reign and will enlarge the College of Cardinals, the Church body that elects the Pope, from 117 members to 136.

This will be nine members less than the record membership of 145 reached in Pope Paul's fourth consistory three years ago.

The new appointments gave cardinals for the first time to the Dominican Republic, Senegal, Uganda and Nigeria.

NCNB ATTACKS THE HASSLES OF GETTING A LOAN FROM A BANK.

Ever notice how the same banker that gives you a bright, cheery smile when you're making a deposit...

...has a way of going through an amazing change in attitude and a startling shift in personality...

...when he discovers that you've come to ask for a loan. (At NCNB, we believe in treating you right, no matter what kind of business you want to do.)

Over the years, banks have had a reputation for being hard to deal with when you need a loan.

You wait for an interview, go through a lot of questions and paperwork. Then you wait for an "okay." In short, it can become one big hassle.

And, usually, the bigger the bank, the bigger the hassle.

But not at NCNB.

WE HAVE $25 MILLION A MONTH TO LEND AND WE'RE GOING TO LEND IT.

So, to make loans easier, we've simplified things at our bank.

In the first place, we ask only the questions you would ask someone you were lending money.

WHEN YOU NEED A LOAN, YOU NEED MONEY NOT A RUNAROUND.

Once we get your answers, we get you an answer in a hurry.

Because, unlike a lot of big banks, the person who talks to you about the loan can give you the answer. Without asking someone else.

And they'll look for ways to make you the loan, not turn you down.

HOW CAN A BANK ASK YOU TO SIGN FORMS ONLY BANKERS UNDERSTAND?

Most people don't read the "fine print" on a loan agreement.

Simply because it looks complicated. And it sounds complicated.

But, at NCNB, the agreement you sign is written in plain English, not "bank talk." So you know just what we expect from you, and, more important, what you can expect from us.

We don't have to do all this, but we think it's worth it.

After all, we lend money to more people than any other bank in North Carolina.

And one big reason for this is that we go out of our way to make things as easy as possible for you.

Mrs. Hooks Speaks At C-of-C Meet

WINTERVILLE—Mrs. Joan Hooks was guest speaker at the regular spring meeting of the Winterville Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at the Community Center. Mrs. Hooks, director of the Winterville Bicentennial Celebration, explained the plans for carrying out the project, one of the largest to be held in the downtown area since the founding of the town about 1887.

The Winterville Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the Bicentennial Celebration, which will be held on Saturday, May 29.

She said that the street in front of the Municipal Building would be roped off to the Post Office. The west side of Railroad Street will be open for traffic. She asked the merchants to decorate their windows and interiors with any kind of antiques they could find.

According to Mrs. Hooks, there will be exhibits of arts and crafts, a cake contest, sack races, old carts, wagons, and cars and a snack booth.

In the evening there will be entertainment provided at A.G. Cox Grammar School and a speech by a representative of the N.C. Department of Archives and History. The climax of the evening will be a fireworks display on the baseball field, executed by Ed Rawls of Greenville.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce reelected the following officers: R.E. Boyd, president; Paul Hunsucker, vice-president and Elwood Nobles, secretary-treasurer.

Had Seizure At Softball Game

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Despite efforts to revive him, John Thomas Baldwin suffered an apparent seizure and died Monday night as he sat on the bench during a city league softball game.

Baldwin, 26, had difficulty breathing and fell off the bench, said teammates. He appeared to improve but then stopped breathing.

Teammates complained to newsmen that it seemed to be a half hour after a call went out on citizens band radio before an ambulance arrived. There was also a call to three hospitals for a doctor, the ambulance dispatcher said, but none could supply one to come to the park.

Two policemen and team members tried resuscitation methods during the wait for the ambulance and the drive to the hospital.

NEW YORK (AP) — The continued flow of higher corporate earnings reports spurred stock prices upward in a modest advance today. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 0.70 at 1,003.46, as gainers held nearly a 2-1 edge over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

In a modest continuation of the previous session's late recovery, stocks moved ahead as traders apparently concluded the recent spate of strong corporate profit news meant the current economic recovery has some staying power.

But volume remained at a sluggish pace, reflecting the current caution over the Federal Reserve's credit policies and the possibility that higher interest rates may be in store.

Westinghouse topped the Big Board active list, unchanged at 16.

Eastern Air Lines, also heavily traded, was unchanged at 8½. The company said first quarter profits rose sharply to 94 cents a share from two cents a year earlier.

Fairchild Camera, reporting a sharp drop in first quarter earnings, was off ½ at 38½.

Bethlehem Steel was steady at 42½ after announcing a steep decline in first quarter profits from a year earlier.

In an early development today, NYSE Chairman James J. Needham resigned his post, effective May 19. He will be succeeded by NYSE director William M. Batten.

The NYSE's composite stock index was up 0.13 at 54.67, while the American Exchange's market value index added 0.15 at 103.51.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina hog market was 50 cents to $1 lower today. RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady today, with supplies adequate, demand moderate, weights desirable. The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 40.38 cents per pound this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,160,000.

The North Carolina hen market was about steady on heavy type hens today. Supplies were short, demand light to moderate, prices too few to release.

Spiders Top Pirates In Tenth On Walk

RICHMOND, Va.—Baseball coaches and managers are known to refer from time to time to "the percentages." They try to make them pay off for the greatest good to their team.

But Monday afternoon in Richmond, the percentages backedfire on George Williams and his East Carolina Pirates as the University of Richmond took a 3-2 10-inning victory.

The two teams were deadlocked at 2 runs each after nine innings, forcing the extra frame. The Bucs, unable to do anything in their half of the 10th, saw the Spiders put together a threat in the bottom of the frame.

Cary Morris reached on a one-out error, and Mike Walton singled, driving Morris to third. Williams then elected to go with the percentages, issuing a free pass to Al Bowles, cutting down the changes of a double steal and setting up a force play at any base.

But pitcher Joe Heavner, who had checked the Spiders for four innings, lost control at that point. He issued four straight balls to Bob Nafzinger, and Morris casually trotted home with the game-ending run.

The Pirates—as usual—outhit their opponent, to no avail. They bagged 10 hits, while giving up six.

Bobby Supel, who came on strong on Saturday, hitting two home runs and getting a double in four trips against VMI, proved that it was no fluke on Monday.

In five trips to the plate against the Spiders, he collected two hits—another homer and another double. His other three trips saw line shots that were caught in desperation or just knocked down in time to make the play.

In the two game set, Supel hit a blazing .556, and had a nifty 1.778 slugging average.

Steve Bryant, Joe Roenker and Rick Koryda also each picked up two hits for the Pirates.

The Bucs started out in fashion seen too many times this year. With two on, a popup and a double play erased their first inning threat.

In the third, however, the Pirates struck for a run. Koryda tripled to right center, and then after two men went down in the order, Bryant singled to drive in the run.

Richmond came back to score a pair of take the lead, 2-1, in the bottom of the third. Kevin Harvey singled, and after two were out, Walton slapped a long home run.

The Bucs, after another threat in the fourth which saw men in scoring position, tied it up in the fifth on Supel's third home run in two games.

But the Spiders held them in check most of the rest of the way, erasing threats in the sixth and seventh.

Richmond also saw a chance go by the board in the sixth and seventh, when they put men in scoring position.

The Spiders closed out their Southern Conference season in the game with a 9-5 record. They are 20-12 overall. East Carolina is now 7-6 in league play and 20-7 overall.

East Carolina returns to action on Thursday, traveling to Wilson for a 7:30 p.m. game against Atlantic Christian.

Wilson Defeats Rose Thinclads

Wilson Fike High School used greater depth to pull off an 81 2-3 to 54 1-3 track victory over Rose Hill Central yesterday.

The Titans won only eight individual events as compared to six for the Rampants, while the two teams split the relay events. Wilson, however, got most of its margin by piling up more seconds and thirds than did the Rampants.

Rose, however, had the only double winners of the day as Doug Paschal and William Joyner captured honors. Paschal won both the shot and the discus, while Joyner took the 100 and the 220-yard dashes.

The Rampants return to action on Saturday, participating in the Colonial Capital Classic in New

Stars From Cary And Maryland Sign Cage Grants With Pirates

East Carolina University Basketball Coach Dave Patton announced today the signing of two high school players. Jim Ramsey, a 6-3 guard from Cary High School outside of Raleigh, and Herb Krusen, a 6-5 forward from Northwood High School in Montgomery County, Md., have both signed grants-in-aid to play for the Pirates.

Ramsey was named the Metro Player-of-the-Year in the Raleigh area, Wake County Player-of-the-Year, All-Conference, All-Metro, All-State, and All-Tournament in the conference and state tournaments and in the Raleigh Times Holiday Festival Tournament.

As a senior, Ramsey averaged 25.0 points per game and 9.8 rebounds per game. His Cary club finished 22-6 and fifth in the state tournament, along with winning both the regular season and conference tournament championships. In the Holiday Festival the Cary team was third.

Ramsey drew considerable attention in the Holiday Festival Tournament when he scored 39 points against Garner to break the single game scoring mark of Phil Ford of 37 points in 1973.

"Jim Ramsey benefits from a good high school program and a tremendous coach in Steve Holloman," said Patton. "Jim can do it all and we feel very fortunate that he chose to come to East Carolina. A number of ACC schools jumped on Jim real strong near the end as Jim really played his best basketball in the last month of the season. He just does so many things well that he'll make a major contribution to our program."

Herb Krusen is a top notch shooting and passing forward. As a senior, Krusen averaged 23.7 points per game in hitting 53 per cent from the floor. But his real asset is at the free throw line. Krusen hit 109 of 114 free throws as a senior for a 96 per cent mark. At one point in the year he drew some national attention by hitting 43 consecutive free throws.

"Herb Krusen has a tremendous attitude and desire," said Patton. "He's just my type of individual on and off the court."

Herb is a super shooter who's game is still ahead of him. He's one of the best passing forwards I have seen."

Basketball Weekly Magazine named Krusen to its All-State team, listing Krusen as one of the top five players in Maryland this year. Tournament play included the McDonald Classic games, putting Maryland all-stars against Virginia all-stars, and the Blair Christmas Invitational Tournament, where Krusen was named to the All-Tournament team.

Krusen was named second team All-Metro as a senior, third team All-Metro as a junior, first team All-League as a junior and senior and first team All-County as a senior.

During two years of play, Krusen scored 1,067 points, which is just 11-points short of the school record held by former East Carolina assistant coach, Kirk Stewart.

"I'm most pleased to have signed both these young men," added Patton. "They are both excellent basketball players, but more than that, they are fine individuals that will contribute greatly to our program in their character both on and off the court. Both are the type players who give it everything they have each time on the court. This is something we are definitely looking for."

East Carolina now has four players signed for the coming season. Don Whitaker signed from Louisburg Junior College earlier this month, while transfer Greg Cornelius entered school last fall and will become eligible for the 1976-77 season.

Southern Nash won only four individual events, and added one of the three relays. Farmville won the other two relays and five individual events. Aycock and Greene Central each won one event. Southern's victory came on its depth.

The meet saw only one double winner. Farmville Central's Teresa Manning took first place in both the 60 and 110-yard hurdle events.

Pistons Hold On To Even Series

By ALEX SACHARE
 AP Sports Writer

Poise. The ability to perform under pressure, to rise to the occasion when the game moves up a notch in tempo and intensity. It's what playoff basketball is all about.

The Detroit Pistons, given little chance against mighty Golden State, squandered most of a 16-point lead but held on to beat the defending champion Warriors 106-102 at Detroit Tuesday night, evening their National Basketball Association playoff series at 2-2.

"We showed a lot of poise when they had us on the ropes," crowed Pistons Coach Herb Brown. "A lot of people say we can't win a pressure game. Well, this was a pressure game if there ever was one. In the last month and a half we've won a lot of pressure games."

In another best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Washington Bullets — beaten in the finals by Golden State last year — barely managed to stay alive. The Bullets wasted a 17-point advantage and had to go into overtime to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 102-98 at Landover, Md. and even that series at 3-3.

"We didn't lay down and die after we lost that 17-point lead," said a proud Bullets Coach K.C. Jones. "Now that we're in a seventh game, I guess the pressure is on both of us."

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch is confident his club, in its first playoff ever, will not buckle under the winner-take-all pressure of Thursday's seventh game, for which the Cavs will have the homecourt advantage.

"I don't think pressure will be the deciding factor," said Fitch. "Our big pressure game was the second game, when after losing the opener in Cleveland we came back to even the series by winning here at Landover. If we were going to crumble, that would have been the time for it."

Citadel Keeps Chances Alive

By The Associated Press

The Citadel's defending champion Bulldogs have moved half a game closer to Furman's front-running Paladins in the Southern Conference baseball race, and still another would-be challenger has been knocked out of any chance at the title.

The Bulldogs upped their conference record to 7-3 Monday night with a 5-3 protested decision over Davidson's Wildcats. Furman, meanwhile, had its scheduled game at Appalachian State postponed and was set to meet the Mountaineers today.

Furman, 9-2 in league play, could narrow the race down to itself and The Citadel with a victory over the Mountaineers, 4-7, for every other team in the conference has lost at least five of its scheduled 14 league games.

Eliminated Monday was East Carolina, the Pirates falling to 7-6 in a 10-inning 3-2 defeat at the hands of Richmond's Spiders, who closed out their campaign at 9-5.

Richmond and William and Mary's Indians, 4-5 going into a game today with Virginia Military's Keydets, 2-11, have a mathematical chance at a tie should Furman lose all its remaining games.

Dan Immerfall of Madison, Wis., won the bronze medal with the third best time for the distance. Mueller finished fifth and James Chapin of St. Louis was 10th.

Schmidt Ties April HR Record

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer

Baseball must be afraid of getting hit by Mike Schmidt's red-hot bat. How else do you account for the fact that he gets runs across the plate these days even when he strikes out?

The 26-year-old third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies has always had a propensity for swinging and missing. After all, he has fanned 486 times in 477 major league games.

But when he connects, he usually hits the ball a long way, leading the majors with 36 home runs in 1974 and again with 38 last season. And Schmidt has never been hotter than he is now with a record-tying April shower of 11 homers.

Nos. 10 and 11 came in the third and fourth innings Monday night. So when Schmidt stepped to the plate against Cincinnati's Rawly Eastwick in the eighth inning of a tie game with Dave Cash on third base and one out, eager Philadelphia fans were hoping for No. 12.

Instead, like the mighty Casey of baseball lore, Schmidt struck out on an 0-2 pitch. But the ball escaped catcher Johnny Bench for a passed ball and Cash raced home with the run that gave the Phils a 10-9 triumph over the Reds.

Schmidt's 11 April home runs — he also has a double and four singles — equals the mark of 11 also shared by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell (1971) and Graig Nettles of the New York Yankees (1974).

Before Bench's passed ball it was a battle of homers, with George Foster and Bob Bailey connecting for the Reds and, in addition to Schmidt's pair, a two-run shot by Philadelphia's Bobby Tolan in the seventh that tied the score 9-9.

Elsewhere in the National League, Tommy John notched his first triumph in almost two years as the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-1, the St. Louis Cardinals outlasted the San Francisco Giants 15-7, the New York Mets downed the Atlanta Braves 3-1 and the San Diego Padres beat the Chicago Cubs 6-2. Houston at Montreal was postponed because of cold weather and wet grounds.

Dodgers 7, Pirates 1
John, a veteran left-hander, blanked the Pirates until the eighth inning to earn his first triumph since he severely injured his pitching elbow on July 7, 1974. The Dodgers jumped on Doc Medich for nine hits and five runs in four innings, including Ron Cey's two-run homer.

John, who was 13-3 at the time of his injury in 1974, was making his third bid for a victory this season. He put together a string of 14 scoreless frames before Rennie Stennett's RBI double in the eighth. In his last outing, he had no decision against Houston despite seven shutout innings.

Cardinals 15, Giants 7
St. Louis, behind 7-1 after one inning, finally pulled ahead on Keith Hernandez' pinch triple and Bake McBride's sacrifice fly in the sixth. Ten of the St. Louis runs were unearned, including all six in a wild eighth inning, which included a fight between Giant pitcher Charlie Williams and Cardinal second baseman Vic Harris, who was hit by a pitch. Former St. Louis third baseman Ken Reitz, in his first at-bat against the Cards, hit a three-run homer in the first inning.

Mets 3, Braves 1

Mickey Lolich tossed a five-hitter and struck out nine for his first NL victory and Ron Hodges ripped a two-run single off Dick Ruthven in the second inning. The only run off Lolich, the long-time Detroit star who was pitching in 43-degree weather, was unearned.

Padres 6, Cubs 2

Rookie Jerry Turner's two-run triple in the fifth inning rallied San Diego. Turner, an outfielder, was making his first start of the season in place of injured John Grubb. His triple put the Padres ahead 3-2 and, after San Diego boosted its lead to 5-2 in the sixth, 23-year-old Butch Metzger came on to blank the Cubs over the final 2 1-3 innings for his first save of the season. It was Metzger's ninth appearance and he has yet to give up an earned run in 15 1-3 innings.

American Loop Happy Over National's Vote

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he's disappointed, but the American League couldn't be happier that the National League voted down expansion into Toronto and Washington, D.C., in 1977.

"Well, I guess it's back in my lap," Kuhn said Monday after the National League voted 7 to 5 to reject a proposal to move into the two cities.

Earlier this month, Kuhn instructed the American League, which approved expansion into Toronto on March 29, to include a plan to provide Washington with baseball or lose the right to place a team in the Canadian city to the NL. When the American League owners failed to come up with a plan acceptable to Kuhn, he gave the National League two weeks to consider expansion into the two cities.

"I'm extremely disappointed. My efforts to provide baseball for Washington will continue," said Kuhn, who reportedly has received pressure from Congress to return baseball to the nation's capital after a five-year absence.

Kuhn said that now he is not certain what route he will take to restore baseball in Washington. "At this point, I don't want to try to answer that question precisely," he said.

Meanwhile, AL President Lee MacPhail clearly was thrilled by the NL vote to leave the field open to his league. "That is tree-mendous! Great news," he said. Asked if he had expected the National League to reject the expansion move, MacPhail said: "I tried to guess what they would do because I've been wrong so often. But this sounds conclusive. I think it's a signal to us that our expansion to Toronto is proper and we will move ahead."

Petty Out Of Running

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It has been two years since anyone except Richard Petty collected bonus money for leading one of the three legs toward the driving championship of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR).

Petty, however, is virtually eliminated from the first leg of the 1976 Grand National division chase, which ends with the 500-mile event at Talladega, Ala., Sunday.

Benny Parsons leads after nine races with 1,401 points and Cale Yarborough is second with 1,360.

Petty, winner of six national titles in all and four in the past five years, is running third with 1,233.

The winner at Talladega will get a maximum of 185 points, with lap bonuses. Last place gets 37 points. So all Parsons has to do to beat Petty is qualify and start the race.

If Yarborough wins the race, Parsons must finish seventh or better to take the first leg bonus.

Fourth in the point standings is Richard Childress with 1,179, followed by Lennie Pond and Bobby Allison 1,161 each; Dave Marcis 1,148; Darrell Waltrip 1,115; J. D. McDuffie 1,033, and Cecil Gordon 1,000.

Petty, who finished fourth at Martinsville, continues as the year's leading money winner with $99,725. If he collects $275 or more at Talladega, he will be right on schedule for his third $300,000 plus year.

David Pearson is second in money with $94,325. Yarborough has $85,395; Parsons $73,855; Waltrip $70,765; Marcis $50,865; Buddy Baker $47,790; Allison $44,190; Pond $36,410, and Childress $25,605.

Baby Jaguars Top Panthers

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's "B" baseball team gained an 11-5 victory over North Pitt yesterday.

Ed Hines tossed the victory for the Baby Jaguars, striking out 10. He scattered seven hits.

Hines led Farmville's hitting with four, while Clark May and Billy Fleming each had two. For North Pitt, Hines and Wilson each had two.

Farmville is now 4-3, while North Pitt is 1-6. The Jags go to Roanoke on Thursday.

No Time Out This Time For Don Money

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Don Money can laugh about it now — sort of.

The Milwaukee Brewers' third baseman still is ranked that what would have been his game-winning grand slam home run against the New York Yankees April 10 was nullified because the first base umpire ruled he had called time out prior to the pitch.

So, perhaps it was predictable that as soon as Money's first-inning blast off Frank Tanana had cleared the left-field wall Monday night, half of the press corps stood up and flashed the time out sign. This time, though, the homer counted, and the three-hit pitching of Jim Colborn and Ed Rodriguez made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over California in the only American League baseball game of the night.

"Listen, when I came up the second time tonight, Jerry Neudecker, the plate umpire, told me he was going to tell me as I crossed the plate after the homer, 'I called time out,'" Money said, chuckling.

"I said, 'The hell with you, Jerry,'" he said. "I've gotten that three or four times now since the real time out thing. It's not so funny, man, you know?"

Tanana, who allowed just one earned run and 13 hits in 22 innings, carried a three-hitter into the ninth inning and had permitted only two Angel runners to reach scoring position.

But he issued a leadoff walk to Andy Etchebarren in the ninth, and Jerry Remy's sacrifice put the tying run on second base. After a walk to Bobby Bonds, Rodriguez relieved and recorded his fifth save by inducing Bill Melton to bounce into a game-ending double play.

he figured I would be looking for something outside. He didn't put it quite where he wanted but, heck, he struck me out the next time. He's got the best stuff of any left-hander in the league."

Clinic Is Scheduled

East Carolina University will be the host to one of a series of clinics for high school trainers being held across the state.

The series here begins Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Sports Medicine Center behind Ficklen Stadium, and will continue each Wednesday through May 26.

The program is open to teachers, coaches and athletic trainers to give them an opportunity to learn about the prevention and treatment of athletic injuries. There is no charge for the course, which is being offered by the State Department of Public Instruction's Division of Sports Medicine.

The purpose of the course is to identify specific methods to prevent the occurrence of life-threatening and physically disabling injuries to students taking part in school sports activities.

The classroom course will meet for five sessions of four hours each. Two hours credit will be awarded to teachers who complete the course.

Unveiling Of Espionage Budget Now Up To Senate

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate now must decide whether to reveal the U.S. budget for spying and whether to approve any of the Senate intelligence committee's 86 recommendations for tightening control over spy agencies.

White House aides say they will make a major effort to dissuade the Senate from disclosing the U.S. intelligence budget, which was deleted at the last moment from the intelligence committee's final report.

Senate Majority Leader Mike

Mansfield says he favors publication of the intelligence budget figure and predicts the Senate will vote on the issue within the next 10 days.

The intelligence committee voted 6 to 5 Monday not to include the figure in its 651-page report on foreign and military intelligence.

The report, saying covert operations by U.S. intelligence agencies have misled the American public and threatened the independence of churches, universities and the news media, recommended congressional action to restrict those activities.

For example, the report said the CIA should be the only agency authorized to conduct covert actions. There also should be a law barring covert operations that involve political assassinations and efforts to subvert democratic governments, the report said.

The committee's recommendations for changes in the law appear headed for various fates and also would have to win approval of the House and the president. Some committee proposals have already been put into effect through regulations by President Ford. An example of this is Ford's order requiring presidential approval of all covert actions.

On the other hand, a recommendation that Congress give prior approval to covert paramilitary operations, such as the U.S. involvement in the Angolan civil war, appears to have a dim future. The Senate Government Operations Committee already has axed the idea.

Other information contained in the report indicated that the United States may spend about $4 billion a year on spy activities that include well-run satellite reconnaissance programs. That figure does not include domestic intelligence gathering, which will be dealt with in a separate committee report later this week.

The vote to let the full Senate decide whether the exact spending figure should be made public came after CIA director George Bush and Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi met privately with the committee.

One White House aide said the appearance of two top administration officials indicated how strongly the administration feels about the disclosure, while a second official said "we will bend every effort" to block release of the figure by the full Senate.

Three Democrats who voted in favor of immediate disclosure of the budget also argued that excessive deletions from the report, demanded by the CIA, had prevented the committee from presenting a full account of several questionable intelligence activities.

In separate views attached to the report, Sens. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, Philip Hart of Michigan and Gary Hart of Colorado said "we are unable to report the facts" that show "the high political costs and generally meager benefits of covert action programs."

Two Republicans, vice chairman John Tower of Texas and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, refused to sign the committee report on the grounds that it was harmful to national security. The report "will cause severe embarrassment, if not grave harm, to the nation's foreign policy," Goldwater said.

The report, which capped a 15-month investigation, concluded that:

—Reliance on covert action has been excessive because it offers a secret shortcut around the democratic process.

According to the report, the CIA has conducted 900 major covert operations around the world since 1961.

Some of these operations have led to "questionable foreign involvements" while others have produced an unwanted "fallout" in the United States, the committee said.

Of five major covert military operations studied, the committee said it could find only one that succeeded. One of the principal concerns expressed by the committee was "the domestic impact of foreign clandestine operations."

The committee found that the CIA has:

- Planted stories in foreign publications which have been unwittingly picked up and circulated by American newspapers;
- Used American journalists and clergymen as secret agents abroad;
- Been responsible for the publication of more than 1,000 books, many of which were reviewed and marketed in the United States;
- Used thousands of U.S. scholars for intelligence and propaganda.

The panel recommended placing strict controls on future use of covert operations but stopped short of recommending that they be banned. Instead, the panel urged that laws be passed barring the agency from using U.S. journalists and clergymen and from publishing articles or books that could be circulated in the United States.

The panel stopped short of recommending a ban on the agency's secret relationships with scholars, saying instead that senior university officials should be informed of any covert contacts with professors.

According to the report, the CIA operates a number of business enterprises with assets totaling $57 million for the purpose of providing cover and logistical support for its covert operations.

Since 1974, the 16 largest CIA "proprietary" firms have earned $50 million in profits. The largest was a firm called Air America, which provided aircraft for CIA operations in Southeast Asia and at its peak had assets of $50 million and employed more than 8,000 people.

The committee did not reveal how many CIA proprietaries exist but said the number has been reduced by 50 per cent since the peak years in the 1960s. The panel concluded that although the CIA's use of proprietaries raised "serious questions," they have been operated "with a proper concern for legality, propriety and ethical standards."

State Drops Charges In Death Prediction Case

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — The state has dropped charges against Joann Denton, 38, self-proclaimed witch, on the ground she did not make a prediction that another woman would die on a certain day, but rather felt the presence of death at a seance.

Mrs. Denton had been charged on April 14 by Katherine Carpenter of accurately predicting at the seance March 20 that Mrs. Carpenter's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Ramsey, would die on April 10.

Mrs. Denton had been accused of a misdemeanor under the North Carolina law prohibiting the practice of fortune telling, clairvoyance and phrenology or predicting character from the shape of the skull.

However, Asst. Dist. Atty. Bob Grant, announced Monday there would be no prosecution.

He said in a statement that evidence indicated "Mrs. Denton did not make the prediction...rather that she felt the presence of death at the seance."

The statement added that the evidence also indicated that "Fred Ramsey, estranged husband of Mrs. Ramsey, actually supplied the details of who would die and the inaccurate manner of her death, and that Mrs. Denton only attempted to adopt or interpret those things viewed by Mr. Ramsey."

Mrs. Ramsey's death was the "tragic death of an apparent nervous person who consumed an overdose of alcohol and drugs," the statement said.

The seance was an attempt to communicate with another member of the Ramsey family, who had died. Grant said Mrs. Denton asked Ramsey what he had seen, and he said he saw his wife dying in a car wreck.

Mrs. Denton then "adopted and interpreted" Ramsey's vision, the assistant district attorney said.

Grant added that Mrs. Carpenter, who was not present at the seance, obtained the warrant against Mrs. Denton on "pure hearsay and without benefit of sworn statements from any persons who were actually present during the alleged prediction."

Board Voted By PAGE

The Greenville-Pitt County chapter of Parents for the Advancement of Gifted Education (PAGE) recently elected the following new officers: Anne Frost, president; Dr. Robert Dough, president elect; Betty Grossnickle, membership chairman; Wendy Allen, program chairperson; and Dr. Paul Haggard, finance chairperson.

PAGE plans for the 1976-77 school year include sponsoring a parent teacher workshop, featuring a nationally known consultant in the field of gifted education and further exploration of ways in which the gifted and talented program in the local schools can be expanded.

PAGE is available to all persons concerned with gifted education. For further information contact Betty Grossnickle at 756-0706 or Carolyn Adcock at 756-5809.

PAGE will meet Wednesday May 19 at 8 p.m. at the Social Security Building 103 Plaza Dr. The public is invited.

Trapper Garland Richard on morning check of 'gator traps.

Alligator trap is hook on line, baited with liver, set overnight above water—out of reach of fish.

'GATOR HUNT

The morning sun is still just an orange ball hanging at the black water's horizon, as the alligator trappers begin their rounds near Creole, La. The night before, they've set their traps—hooks baited with chunks of liver, on lines hanging just above the water out of reach of fish. 'Gators which take the bait feel the hook and lie low beneath the surface.

Soon after dawn, the hunters return to check their traps. The hooked 'gators are raised at the end of the line, then killed with a quick shot between the eyes. The catch is skinned later in the day: hides fetch from $8 to $10 a foot. Louisiana is the only state where such hunting is legal.

TV Cops And Medics Suffer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television topics — TV's cops suffered the biggest toll in the schedule shake-ups for next season. No fewer than 11 of the crime fighters were shot down: "Bronk," "Matt Helm," "Bert D'Angelo, Superstar," "Jigsaw John," "Joe Forrester," "City of Angels," "The Rookies," "Harry O," "Cannon," "S.W.A.T." and "Ellery Queen."

And now the good news for crime-show fans: cop series will still dominate the 1976-77 schedule. Fourteen will be on the networks ... It was a bum season for the medics. "Marcus Welby" and all those sawbones of "Medical Center," "Medical Story" and "Doctor's Hospital" had their shingles rescinded. Only "The Practice" and "Doc" are left in prime time to cure television ills ...

Never underestimate the draw of violence on the home screen. Lorimar Productions is bragging that its account of the Manson murders, "Helter Skelter," drew the biggest rating for a TV movie in history. This despite the fact that it wasn't shown in Los Angeles ...

Television showed its power as a ticket-seller after the Oscarcast when the box office for "One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest" leaped 70 per cent. Then "A Chorus Line" swept the Tony awards on the ABC telecast last week.

The impact was felt at the Shubert Theater in Century City. "A Chorus Line" (with the original cast) won't appear there until July 7. But Angelinos lined up to buy a record $70,000 worth of tickets the day after the Tonycast, $82,000 next day ...

CBS continues its reshuffling of offices in the executive suite. Latest announcement is William Self as vice president of programs in Hollywood, replacing Perry Lafferty, who resigned. Self is the respected former head of TV for 20th Century-Fox, where he fostered such series as "Batman," "Peyton Place," "12 O'Clock High" and "Mash" ...

Bob Hope's next television special will appear on July 4 when NBC plans 24 hours of bi-centennial programming. "We'll play it strictly for laughs," the comedian assures, "because there will be enough seriousness on NBC that day."

Among Hope's plans is an impersonation of Abraham Lincoln on a session of "Meet the Press," with Don Rickles and other interviewers throwing questions at him ...

Preview reaction was excellent for "Return to Earth," the television movie that will appear on ABC May 14. Based on the best seller by Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin and Wayne Warga, it shows a side of astronaut's lives far different from the public relations of space shots. Cliff Robertson as the emotionally confused Aldrin gives a performance that recalls his earlier TV triumphs in "Charley" and "Days of Wine and Roses."

George Washington Bet On Espionage

EDITOR'S NOTE — George Washington's first major expenditure as commander-in-chief of the American Army was $333 to finance a spy, one of many American undercover agents during the Revolution.

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY Associated Press Writer Ever an astute gambler, George Washington bet on espionage to even the odds on the fortunes of war. Outmanned and outgunned, he put his money on good intelligence to avoid being outmaneuvered.

Considering the stakes, the $3,500 he risked annually on clandestine activities seems penny-ante. In 1976 such American intelligence organizations as the CIA have billions to spend.

Nevertheless, the secret agents of 200 years ago worked hard at break-ins, bogus leaks, official deceptions, secret codes, intercepts and intrigues. Occasionally they hit the jackpot.

The first spy in the Revolution worked for the British. He was Dr. Benjamin Church of Boston, to all appearances a rabid rebel. But for six weeks before Lexington and Concord in the spring of 1775, he sold secrets to Gen. Thomas Gage, the British commander in Boston. So far above suspicion was the good doctor that his fellow colonists sent him to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia.

Benjamin Franklin bet against it, but British intelligence records prove that his chief aide and close confidant during the negotiations for France's alliance was a double agent. Edward Bancroft of Massachusetts accompanied Franklin to Paris from London as a sort of executive secretary, a position he used to organize a British secret service cell in the American embassy.

Fabricating intelligence for the enemy was a common practice. Washington used the ruse at least twice. On the first occasion, a spy in his camp had warned the British that the French fleet was sailing for Newport, R.I. Washington's own spies learned that a superior British armada would meet the French ships.

So Washington "leaked" word that the French really were bound for New York, not Newport, and the English changed course. On the other occasion, Washington allowed a Tory spy to obtain inflated estimates of his troop strength.

Washington's first major expenditure upon taking command of the army at Cambridge, Mass., in '75 was a $333 advance to some still anonymous patriot "to go into the town of Boston to establish a secret correspondence."

When the British finally evacuated Boston in March of '76 and then went on to New York, Washington had to build a new intelligence network for that city.

But no one volunteered. A council of war was called among the staff. Directly challenged, one officer replied, "I am willing to go fight them, but as for going among them and being taken up and hung like a dog, I will not do it."

Another spoke. "I will undertake it." It was a 21-year-old captain, a Connecticut schoolmaster named Nathan Hale. He said he felt he owed the service to his commander.

One Saturday evening he slipped onto Long Island from the sloop Schuyler. He was disguised as a Dutch schoolteacher. But on Sept. 21, 1776 he was captured, probably as he attempted to return to the American lines, perhaps with some incriminating document. The British ordered him to be hanged at dawn the next day.

A contemporary reported that at the last moment, Hale said "I regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Enoch Crosby of Danbury, Conn., had been persuaded by John Jay to pose as a traitor and ferret out armed loyalist ton's spies, who referred to him as "711," were so good that their identities weren't discovered for more than a century. It was this group that caught up with a certain John Anderson, learned he was really John Andre, a British major, and connected him with Benedict Arnold, thus upsetting Arnold's plan to turn over West Point to the British.

Andre, attempting to save his own life, insisted to his American captors that he was not a spy.

But he was convicted and ordered hanged. During the 11 days remaining to him he won the respect and admiration of his captors. Even Washington agonized over the sentence. To the last he conducted himself as an officer, "meeting his fate with a serenity which extorted the warmest admiration of the American officers," as one observer recalled. His last request was that he be shot like a soldier, rather than hanged for a spy. To spare Andre further remorse, Washington did not tell him the request was denied. Andre found out only as he marched to his death.

Standing upon his coffin in the back of a baggage cart beneath gallows, he adjusted the noose about his neck and donned the blindfold. "All I request of you, gentlemen," he said to the onlookers, "is that you will witness to the world that I died like a brave man."

Farm Scene

By HENRY C. RIDDICK Agricultural Extension Agent

Some farmers will soon be through transplanting their tobacco crop and will begin cultivating. Most farmers usually apply their fertilizer topdressing at the first cultivation.

In recent years, the use of nitrate of soda as a topdressing has been on the increase. The use of nitrate of soda as topdressing for tobacco is a good practice provided the amount used does not build up the total amount of nitrogen too high. The total amount of nitrogen used should not exceed the amount required for the proper growth and development of the tobacco plant.

The information obtained from soil tests can be very helpful in determining the rate and analysis of fertilizer to use on a specific field for tobacco production. Observation that you have made when different rates of plant nutrients were used on a specific field are also important.

Before applying topdressing either in the form of nitrate of soda, 15-0-14, 15-0-15, or 8-0-24, first determine the amount of nitrogen that has been applied in the form of preplant fertilizer such as 4-8-12, 5-10-15, or 3-9-9. For example, if you want to apply a total of 64 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre where 1200 pounds of 4-8-12 fertilizer has already been applied per acre, you would need only to apply 100 pounds of nitrate of soda or 200 pounds of 8-0-24 as a topdressing.

The amount and form of organic matter, texture of the soil, and depth of soil to the subsoil are important characteristics influencing the quantity of nitrogen required for best tobacco production. For sandy loam soils of average fertility, the following quantities of nitrogen have generally been found adequate. In fields with topsoil 12 inches or less in depth (depth of soil to clay) 40 to 50 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre; when top soil is 12 to 18 inches in depth 50 to 60 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre; when top soil is 18 to 24 inches in depth 60 to 70 pounds of actual nitrogen may be necessary.

When tobacco is grown on sandy soil with less water-holding capacity, more total nitrogen will be required. The rates suggested above only include the amount of nitrogen needed to mature the crop. These rates will not take care of nitrogen that is often leached by excess rainfall. If nitrogen is lost by leaching, additional nitrogen should be applied to replace this loss.

Soils differ in their productive capacity and in their fertility level. When determining the amount of nitrogen to use, careful attention should be given to the physical and chemical characteristics of the soil.

When the Americans held the North-South hands, North was declarer at the comfortable contract of one no trump and took only six tricks. Meredith, however, found himself playing three no trump after somewhat aggressive action by his partner. (North did not open one no trump because his side was employing weak no trump opening bids of 12 to 14 points.)

Faced with the prospect of making nine tricks after a low spade lead, Meredith ducked the first spade and won the continuation with the ace. He badly needed to score club tricks, but it seemed that the defenders could shut out that suit simply by holding up the ace of clubs one round. Declarer found a neat "swindle". He led the jack of clubs from dummy and topped it with his king!

Perhaps West should not have been taken in, but he thought Meredith was trying to steal a ninth trick with the king of clubs. He grabbed the ace of clubs and continued spades. After cashing out the spades, East shifted to the king of diamonds. Meredith won dummy's ace, finessed the nine of clubs and ran the rest of the suit when the clubs proved to be 3-3. Then he successfully finessed the jack of hearts to bring home an "impossible" contract.
