N.C. General Assembly Begins Session

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—
North Carolina's General Assembly convened at noon today to act on budget proposals that include a pay hike for teachers and state employees.

two-thirds in both houses to bring up a study commission's recommendations for changes in malpractice insurance regulations.
Legislative leaders predicted that the two-thirds majority would be available, but some legislators said
there might be some flack over a provision that would limit the malpractice issue to bills sponsored by the chairmen of the Senate and House insurance committees.
Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, chairman of the House Insurance Committee, said the purpose of the restriction would be to limit legislation introduced to that recommended by a study committee that he headed.

"If we don't limit it some, there's no telling what may get before the General Assembly," Messer said.
Asked if he expected a fight over the resolution to take up the malpractice issue,
Messer said:
"I expect two or three people to make a speech recommending that we put it off, but I don't expect enough of a fight to keep the resolution from passing."
"I've got commitments from considerably more than two-thirds," he added.
Some lawmakers indicated, however, they did not want the malpractice issue limited to bills sponsored by the insurance committee chairmen.
"I wouldn't want such a limitation," said Rep. George Miller, D-Durham.
"If the resolution is so structured that it does restrict introduction by anyone other than the two chairmen, I would support an amendment to permit others to introduce bills dealing with the issue," said Rep. W.S.

Harris Jr., D-Alamance.
Both House Speaker
Jimmy Green and Lt. Gov.
Jim Hunt, who presides over the Senate predicted the resolution allowing the malpractice issue to be considered would be passed.
Messer said an insurance subcommittee would meet this afternoon to work out final details of the malpractice legislation, making it possible for the introduction of legislation by Tuesday and not later than Wednesday.
One of the recommendations would shorten
the time in which malpractice suits could be brought.
Another measure would set up a patients' compensation fund to provide insurance beyond $100,000 for doctors and nurses. They would get their first $100,000 coverage from regular insurance sources. Another recommendation would amend the good Samaritan law to protect doctors and nurses from being sued when they treat persons in emergency situations.
As the legislature convened, Green and Hunt were hopeful that the lawmakers could complete work on the budget and dispose of the malpractice issue within two weeks, but they were prepared to stay 30 days if they don't finish up sooner.

Legislative committees have been in session for several weeks and have worked out an agreement on the pay raise—an increase of 4 per cent for all teachers and state employees plus a flat increase of $300 per year for all. Lawmakers said this had the advantage of giving the largest percentage raise to the lower salaried employees.

In addition to salary increases, the lawmakers have been asked to approve in-

Take Action On Hospital At Bd. Meet

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners
this morning approved change orders totaling about $1.35 million for construction at the new Pitt Memorial Hospital for facilities for the ECU School of Medicine.

bids for the new Family Practice Center to be located near the new hospital are scheduled to be received June 23. That new facility is expected to cost about $1 million.
Richardson also told commissioners that the hospital now plans to begin staffing the emergency room with physicians on a full-time basis
July 1. He said the hospital now has a commitment from one doctor and is negotiating with three other physicians for full-time positions to provide the coverage.

The change orders represent the first phase of construction of medical school needs at the new hospital which will serve as the schools prime clinical teaching facility.
Included in the approved modifications—which will be funded by the State—are the outside walls and interior floor slabs for an addition to the front of the hospital and modifications in the present building's mechanical, plumbing and electrical systems.

Revenue from the emergency room is expected to generate the funds needed to pay the annual salary of the emergency room doctors, which are estimated at $50,000 per year each.
He theorized that the present $15 minimum emergency room charge would need to be increased to $30 to offset the cost of physician coverage.
In other business, the board heard a request from Mrs.
Sylvia deRosset to establish a Pitt County Council on the Status of Women. Mrs. deRosset said such a council could be established for as little as $300 per year if volunteers were used to operate the program, while $8,000 per year would be needed if a director and secretarial support were hired.

Ralph Hall, project engineer for the hospital construction told the board that drawings are being completed now for other needed changes and additions.
He also reported that construction of the facility is 80 per cent complete, with the interior of the acute hospital being finished at the present time and work underway on the interior of the rehabilitation center.
Hall said too, that workers had planned to begin paving parking areas and access roads at the hospital today but said weekend rains have caused a po-sponement of a few days.
Bids will be opened May 11 for x-ray equipment for the new building. Included will be the purchase of about $300,000 worth of equipment and the lease of an estimated $400,000 worth of x-ray hardware.
Hospital administrator Jack Richardson told the board that

Speaking for the Pitt County League of Women Voters, Mrs.
Ann Frost endorsed the request for a Council on the Status of Women, but said operating with volunteers "won't work." She said the League of Women Voters feels a part-time director with secretarial support is a necessity.

Ford Woos Indiana Vote

An AP News Analysis
By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
President Ford is campaigning for a comeback in Indiana while Ronald Reagan seeks to turn the momentum his way in a Republican presidential contest that may be raging long after the Democrats settle on their White House nominee.
Ford said he remains confident that he will win the GOP nomination, and ranking politicians in both parties agree.
But he won't win it quietly, not now that Reagan has scored a surprising wipeout in the Texas presidential primary election. It was a victory that virtually guaranteed that the former California governor will be campaigning all the way to the Kansas City convention that begins Aug. 16.
By gaining all 96 delegates elected in Texas Saturday, Reagan cut into Ford's lead in nationwide delegate strength. But the President is still ahead, and by a comfortable margin when uncommitted delegates who are really on his side are tallied.
Nonetheless, Reagan now has the credentials of a winner, the proof of his Southern campaign strategy, and the victory he needed to impress potential contributors.

a week on the phone," said
Carter, who now has 446 of the 1,505 delegate votes needed for nomination. Nobody else is close to him.
Indeed, the man in second place, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, quit the race
Saturday for lack of campaign money. That leaves Carter virtually unchallenged in the Democratic primary in Indiana.
His active rivals now are Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, who said Sunday he'll stop Carter; Alabama Gov.
George C. Wallace; Sen. Frank Church of Idaho; and Gov.
Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California.
Carter now has won eight primaries. Udall and Wallace haven't won any. Church and Brown haven't run yet; their first tests come in mid-May.
Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who opposed Carter in the primary, said the victory there assured the Georgian of the Democratic nomination.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer

Transcribing is done once a day.

NO RESPONSE SO FAR
Hotline is disappointed that there has been no response so far to our appeal for a place for a day camp for the Pitt County Boys Club.
"Perhaps we didn't make clear exactly what we need," say Chet Emerson, Boys Club director.
"We'd love to have the use of a camp that some other organization or church uses at a different part of the summer or on weekends only. We need it only five days a week from about 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m.
We'd be completely flexible about the dates.
"If this is not possible, we wonder if any farmer would have an open field near a pond or creek where we might do some fishing. We'd like a shelter we could go into to get out of the rain, but this is not completely necessary. Our main concern is to get our kids out into the country for a few days.
"We'll be inviting kids from outside the Boys'
Club to participate, too," he added.
Anyone person or organization or church which can help may call Emerson or any Boys' Club Board member. Emerson's phone number is 758-4029.

Fighting Rages In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —
Savage fighting raged across Lebanon today amid reports of a new Syrian attempt to negotiate an end to the year-long civil war.
Police reported 271 persons killed since the expiration of the 35th cease-fire Friday and the postponement of the election of a new president by parliament until next Saturday.
The right-wing Christian Phalange party said "a surprise Syrian move is imminent that may change the whole complexion of the situation."
The statement did not elaborate. But reports in the local press said Syrian President Hafez Assad planned to end another high-powered delegation to try to patch up his feud with Muslim Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt and his leftist alliance and mediate a new basis for a settlement of the war.
Assad wants to replace the Christians' prewar dominance of Lebanese political and economic life with an equal division of power between the Moslem majority and Christian minority. Jumblatt wants a Moslem Socialist state.
Palestinian guerrillas mediated a cease-fire at dawn, but the new agreement failed to get off the ground. Heavy artillery shells smashed into high-rise apartment buildings and rockets flashed overhead. Police reported hard fighting in northern, eastern and central Lebanon as well as in Beirut.

Three Winterville Buildings Are Damaged In Sunday Storm

AFTERMATH OF HIGH WINDS . . . Neighbors and

WINTERVILLE—A weekend
windstorm in Pitt County caused heavy damage in the Winterville area at 12:18 a.m. Sunday.
A new home under construction near rural paved road 1700 was heavily damaged when the roof was torn completely away. The roof section of the home was tossed about 100 yards into the homes of G.I. Jones and Roy H. Johnson. Both homes were damaged by the flying debris.

Jones told bystanders, "It sounded like a train."
A boat and two cars in the Jones yard were heavily damaged.
One witness said the air
"smelled funny" just before the high winds hit.
A neighbor, Chet Emerson, gave this account of the storm.
"I heard the wind blowing and a fiberglass panel on a shed behind my house blew off. I went out to get it and the wind began blowing extremely hard. I heard a noise and turned in time to see a lot of rubble fly between the Jones home and the Johnson home."
"The next thing I knew I was on the ground."
Emerson was not injured, and no other injuries were reported.
A pack house on the property of Mrs. Lubie Williams, was damaged when the roof was peeled off like paper.
Insulation, shingles, wood particles, and garbage cans were crushed against a fence between the homes.
After the storm, the Winterville Fire Department was called to the residence of John Kittrell on rural paved road 1711.
Lightning apparently struck the residence during the high winds, according to officials. There was no fire, but a tree in the yard was blown over.
Members of the Winterville Fire Department and the Winterville Rescue Squad aided in the temporary repairs of the home.

Escape Artist Didn't Make It

ONEIDA, N.Y. (AP) —
Twenty-year-old Stephen Quinn of Syracuse was hospitalized with possible lung and chest injuries after failing to make good an underwater escape from four pair of handcuffs and a padlocked burlap bag.
Quinn, described by state police as "an amateur escape artist," manacled himself and jumped from a bridge into the 20-foot deep Barge Canal on Sunday. An assistant, worried when Quinn did not surface after more than a minute, went to his rescue.
Quinn, who said he practiced his trick in a swimming pool, told police he managed to get the handcuffs off but couldn't free himself from the sack.

Elusive Youth

Greenville Police would like to find 17-year-old Linwood Earl Tyson of Howell St.
Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning that officers found Tyson inside South Greenville School about 8:20 p.m. Saturday.
He was allegedly loading a box with food — hotdogs, hamburger, drinks — from the school cafeteria.
The chief said Tyson ran from the kitchen area and was found by officers hiding on top of an air duct in the storage area of the auditorium, and taken into custody.
But Tyson apparently wasn't satisfied with that. And neither are the police.
Cannon said Tyson was taken to a third-floor detectives office at police headquarters to be interviewed by the investigators.
A short time later, he jumped from a third floor window, landed in bushes at the front of the Police Department, which broke his fall, and ran.
Tyson is charged with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with the case.

Superintendent Ott Alford will present a budget message and submit a copy of the budget to the Pitt County School Board members at their regular meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

as follows: a safety report submitted by Carl Toot, recognition of spelling contest winners, a nondiscrimination on basis of sex report by Kathryn Lewis, and organization plans for the new Farmville Middle School.
In other business the board will:
—Award an audit contract.
—Consider a request to recognize the Farmville Central Tennis Club.
—Consider resignations, and employment for vacancies.

CONFERR CONGRATULATIONS . . . Dr. Leo Jenkins, and Dr. James H. Bearden, Dean of the School of Business at ECU offered congratulations to the administration, faculty and student body of the School of Business for its newly achieved accreditation. (ECU News Bureau Photo)

The elite graduate program, Masters in Business Administration (MBA), in the School of Business at East Carolina University has achieved full accreditation, it was announced today.

"This newly acquired accreditation status will likely further intensify interest and admission demands for the MBA degree, already one of the most sought-after graduate degrees in higher education," Dr. James H. Bearden, Dean of the School of Business, said.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU Chancellor, said, "this is an event which brings credit to higher education, both public and private, throughout North Carolina." East Carolina is one of only two schools in the state offering the accredited MBA degree program.

Accreditation of the MBA degree program here came at the annual meeting of the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) last weekend. The ECU program was the only one in the South to be accredited this year.

The undergraduate degree program in business administration at East Carolina was accredited less than 1) years ago, in 1967. "Not long after that achievement, Dean Bearden and his faculty began planning for the highest level of Accreditation among business schools, accreditation of its graduate program," Dr. Jenkins said.

Congratulating the administration, faculty and student body of the School of Business, Jenkins noted "long and hard" work to achieve the new accreditation.

"We also know that such achievement is made possible only through the long-standing support of the taxing public, voicing through their legislators, the opportunity and the challenge for East Carolina University 'to serve' the people of the state. We will continue to do that."

On behalf of Dr. Bearden, Dr. Charles Broome, dean of the graduate program in the School of Business, said accreditation means that ECU joins an elite group of institutions in this country which have both the masters and undergraduate programs accredited by the AACSB.

Listed on the plaque besides Godwin are Commissioners J. I. Davis, H. W. Turnage, T. M. Dail, and Dr. David S. Morrill, as well as Mayor M. V. Horton.

Further investigation by police led to the discovery of a quantity of marijuana in the Harper van, Cannon said.

As a result of the investigation, Harper was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety and with possession of marijuana.

Two passengers in the van, Edward Freeman McCullen 20, of 1600 Willow St. and Carolyn Hudson Holland, 23, of Route 2, Kinston, were also charged with possession of marijuana.

'Bionic Woman' Is Stumping

PORTLAND, Ore. — Lindsay Wagner, a Portland high school graduate and star of the popular "Bionic Woman" television series, returned here over the weekend to help state Sen. Blaine Whipple campaign for secretary of state.

As small children crowded around for autographs, Miss Wagner visited David Douglas High, from which she graduated in 1966, and received a plaque honoring her as a "distinguished graduate in the field of drama." Later the actress attended fund raisers for Whipple, who is Democratic national committeeman from Oregon.

Asked why she is stumping for Whipple, the superwoman said, "I don't have any other friends in politics." Miss Wagner's family has long been friends with the Whipples.

The unit is located on Highway 102 approximately one-quarter mile from Maury on the way to Snow Hill.

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Afternoon

BETHEL—The Bethel Baptist Church was the scene of the marriage ceremony Sunday uniting Miss Debra Jean Manning of Bethel and Thomas Page Perkinson Jr. of Wise. The double ring ceremony was performed at 3 p.m. by the Rev. Curtis Tyler.

A program of nuptial music was performed by Mrs. Susan Cassidy, organist, and Miss Katherine Finklea, soloist, both of Greenville.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Earl Manning of Bethel and Mrs. Page Perkinson and the late Mr. Perkinson of Wise.

Mrs. Lenwood Heath, cousin of the bride, directed the wedding.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white maracaine knit featuring a high neckline with embroidered lace and a sheer, V-shaped yoke of English net with rows of pearls extending from the neckline. Ruffled lace surrounded the yoke and extended over the sheer back. The long sleeves were enhanced by lace and pearls at the wrists. The empire waist fell into a chapel length train and lace trimmed the hem of the gown.

Her elbow length veil edged in lace was attached to a Camelot cap trimmed with lace and beaded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of three white orchids, ivy and yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Bonita Lynn Manning of Bethel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Carol Manning of Bethel, sister of the bride, Miss Ellen M. Heath of Bethel, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Carolyn Johnson of Conetoe.

They wore formal length gowns of maize knit. The sleeveless gowns featured high necklines and modified natural waistlines. They were complemented by bolero jackets of voile in a floral pattern of blue, green, orange and white on maize. The jackets were styled with open maize lapel collars and long sleeves with a ruffle. The headpieces were maize bows entwined with baby's breath. The maid of honor carried a large bouquet of yellow and white daisies and the bridesmaids carried identical, medium-sized nosegays.

MRS. THOMAS PAGE PERKINSON JR.

Miss Toby Proctor of Durham, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a maize knit dress with green trim and an empire waistline. She wore the same headpiece as the other attendants and carried a basket of daisy petals.

John Lewis Hendrick of Henderson, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were George L. Perkinson of Raleigh, John F. Perkinson of Henderson and Coleman Perkinson of Wise, all cousins of the bridegroom, Hill Yancey of Henderson and David Perry of Bethel. Toby Ayers of Conetoe was ring bearer.

For her going-away outfit, the bride chose a yellow and white dress suit with white accessories, accented by an orchid corsage lifted from her bouquet.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., the couple will reside in Henderson.

The bridegroom is employed at Harriet-Henderson Yarns, Inc., Henderson, and is a graduate of N.C. State University with a degree in textile technology. He was a member and former commander of Sigma Nu fraternity.

The bride is a graduate of Peace College and East Carolina University with a Bachelor of Sciences degree in home economics education.

The couple was honored Saturday night at a dinner party for the wedding party, honoraries and family at the Holiday Inn, Greenville. Gifts were given to the wedding party. The couple was also entertained at an after-rehearsal party there Saturday night.

Greeting Cards Yield Limited

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Since January 1, 1974 I have sent 911 greeting cards—not counting Christmas and Easter cards. (I sent 3,455 of those.) I mean get-well, sympathy, birthday, graduation, wedding, anniversary and new baby cards.

I go through our local newspaper to be sure I haven't overlooked a birth, engagement, accident or death. I am on a limited income and can't afford to send presents, but I spend as much time shopping for appropriate cards as most people do in the selection of gifts.

My question: Aren't people supposed to acknowledge cards? Only 32 out of the 911 people I sent cards to bothered to let me know that they received them. I am listed in the telephone directory. Am I wrong to expect thanks?

IGNORED

DEAR IGNORED: Well-bred people acknowledge cards with a telephone call, a note or a verbal "thank you"—should they see the giver before they have the opportunity to call or write. However, the giver who is motivated by genuine thoughtfulness will send the card and forget it.

To keep a ledger on "thanks receivable" suggests that the giver is unduly interested in placing the burden of gratitude on casual acquaintances. Still, the laziness and boorishness of those who fail to acknowledge a thoughtful gesture is inexcusable.

DEAR ABBY: I don't understand what you mean when you tell girls: "Save yourself for the man you marry."

How does a girl know WHICH man she's going to marry? I have gone with five different guys at different times, and I thought I was going to marry all of them, but I'm still single.

Will you please explain what you mean?

STILL SINGLE

DEAR SINGLE: I mean, save yourself for the man you marry—not the man you MAY marry.

DEAR ABBY: Saw the letter in your column from the lady complaining because the bachelor in the next apartment snored so loud he kept her awake nights.

I am a single lady looking for a nice single man. If the bachelor who snores is between 45 and 60, please send me his name and phone number because I'm lonesome, easy to get along with and very hard of hearing.

RITA IN RICHLANDS, VA.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me the difference between a maid and a housewife? My husband says there is no difference. Thank you.

RICHMOND HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: If you have a maid, you'd better keep your eye on your husband.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Head Start Teacher Receives CDA Credential

Ann Dale Gay of Goldsboro, a teacher in the Wayne County Head Start Program, is the first North Carolinian to receive the Child Development Associate (CDA) credential under a new program sponsored by East Carolina University.

The program is co-sponsored by the ECU School of Home Economics and the ECU Division of Continuing Education and is one of 18 established in eight southeastern states, with funding from the U. S. Office of Child Development.

Awarding of CDA credentials to qualified workers in day care and child development centers is done through the Child Development Consortium, a private, nonprofit corporation representing 42 national associations with direct interests in early childhood education and child development.

Thirty-four persons received CDA credentials last July, from pilot programs throughout the nation. Mrs. Gay is the first recipient of CDA credentials in the southeast associated with a child development center not designated a pilot program. Previous CDA's in this region were awarded to interns in a

South Carolina pilot program. Ann Gay has been involved in pre-school programs since 1960. Her experience includes establishing and directing day care and kindergarten programs in Kenia, Alaska; Eatontown, N.J.; and Shreveport, La., as well as her involvement with the Wayne County Head Start Program.

Mrs. Gay is active in state and national professional organizations. A native of Fuquay-Varina and a former resident of Morehead City, she is married to the pastor of Pineview Baptist Church in Goldsboro. The Gays are the parents of two teen-aged daughters.

Card Of Thanks

The family of Mrs. Sallie Smith wishes to thank their many friends for the kind deeds, use of your cars, food and most of all your prayers shown to them during the death of their loved one.

Family Life Conference Slated

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau
"The Family and New Alternatives" is the topic of the 16th annual East Carolina University Family Life Conference, Thursday and Friday, May 6-7.

Featured speakers are Ellen Peck, founder and special projects director of the National Organization for Non-Parents (NON) and Robert H. Rimmer, author of "The Harrod Experiment" and other novels dealing with alternative forms of marriage.

Ellen Peck

Robert H. Rimmer

All sessions are open to the public.

The conference will begin with a presentation by Ms. Peck at 1 p.m., May 6, in 244 Mendenhall, entitled "The Madonna Complex," which deals with pressures upon women to become mothers.

At 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Rimmer will speak on alternatives to the conventional family structure in the Mendenhall Student Center Theater.

Rimmer will also be featured at both Friday sessions in 244 Mendenhall: "The Living Together Revolution," at 10 a.m., and "Adventures in Loving" at 1 p.m.

The conference is co-sponsored by the ECU Student Government Association and an inter-departmental campus committee chaired by Dr. Mel Markowski of the ECU School of Home Economics.

In addition to her activities with the National Organization for Non-Parents, Ellen Peck is an internationally known author and lecturer and writes a syndicated column for young adults.

Her best-selling book "The Baby Trap" attacked America's obsession with motherhood. She was also co-editor of "Pronatalism: The Myth of Mom and Apple Pie."

Rimmer is well-known as a proponent of alternative lifestyles, primarily through his novels which deal with forms of pluralistic marriage which he believes will be legally and openly practiced by the turn of the century.

His novels — "The Harrod Experiment," "The Rebellion of Yale Marratt," "Proposition 31" and "Thursday, My Love"—have been translated into several languages and have sold millions of copies.

Rimmer attributes the popularity of his novels to the fact that "they are a reflection of the style of loving and interpersonal relationships" with which his readers can identify.

Windfall Money Is Poor Crutch

Thanks to some prudent trimming, a one-time windfall from changing the way withholding tax is collected, and an improving economy the legislative committees seem to have made progress on providing salary increases.

The House and Senate leaders agreed on a plan to provide pay increases for state workers and teachers averaging around 8 percent.

Basically the plan provides for a four percent increase costing $56 million and then a flat raise of $300 annually, to cost about $45 million.

Those workers with the lowest pay would get a higher percentage increase than state employees with higher salaries. We can't quarrel with that too much, although it does have the effect of nullifying all the studies which have been done to set salary ranges for various jobs. It might be the legislature should look to the personnel people to restudy the job classifications and salary ranges in relation to private industry to determine whether the flat $300 should be added in every category.

We aren't particularly pleased with using the windfall money, which will come from collecting withholding monthly, for a built-in expense such as salary raises. That could very easily lead to another tax increase in the near future.

The leadership will also propose that the kindergarten program be extended to include all eligible children next year, although the minimum class size will be increased from 26 to 28.

These proposals will be submitted to the full Legislature meeting this week. Both the salary increases and the kindergarten expansion are highly desirable in our opinion. We only hope the Legislative leaders are looking past next year toward future financing of these needs without more taxes.

Their High Esteem Is Tribute To B-W

It was nostalgia time last week as 29 Unicorns visited the Burroughs-Wellcome facilities here and at the Research Triangle.

They are New York residents who worked with Burroughs-Wellcome before it moved to North Carolina.

They found the facilities here fantastic and some commented that if they hadn't retired they would have followed the company to North Carolina.

It is a tribute to Burroughs-Wellcome that its former employees hold the firm in such high esteem.

THIS AFTERNOON

Moving With Great Care

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Despite rosy projections for the economy in the next year or so, members of the North Carolina General Assembly show signs of moving with extreme caution in the special budget session opening this week.

Once burned with a budget too high for actual income, legislators are now inclined to err on the side of caution. The reasoning is simple: it's a lot easier to dispose of a surplus than to come up with extra money in a crunch.

Besides that, legislators have been told by their financial advisors that some shoal waters may be just around the bend. "The chief danger now is not that the recovery will die on the vine, but that the policy makers in Washington may attempt to add more stimulus which would tend to speed the recovery to a pace which cannot be maintained resulting in rising inflation and recession in 1978 when the overheated recovery runs out of gas," says economist Lloyd O'Carroll, a member of the legislative staff.

Still Optimistic
Despite that reminder, O'Carroll is painting an optimistic picture of rising employment, increased state money from sales, personal income, and corporate income taxes, and enough money to cover the 1976-77 budget with about $6 million to play with.

The governor's budget officer, S. Kenneth Howard, is projecting a glooming time ahead, predicting a shortfall of some $40 million in the coming fiscal year. A year ago, Howard was predicting a much rosier situation while O'Carroll called for reduced spending to meet lower income projections.

Here, in a nutshell, is the revenue picture for 1976-77 which assemblymen are wrestling with: total tax income of $1.75 billion would be up 13.3 per cent from the present fiscal year, with sales up 11 per cent; corporate income up 17.3 per cent; and personal income up 18.4 per cent. Non-tax revenue would boost total general fund revenue to $1.8 billion—up 11 per cent.

Howard and O'Carroll are farthest apart on predictions of personal income increases, with Howard suggesting that the economy in North Carolina is strongly tied to textiles which are moving "sideways, not upward," while O'Carroll thinks the income tax will boom.

Both agree that income this fiscal year will be enough to pay the bills, with a surplus of from $15 to $24 million to carry over to 1976-77.

The Options
But whether lawmakers decide to go with the idea that next year there will be $6 million more than needed, or $40 million less than needed, they must come to grips with two critical questions:

—The size of pay raise for state employees, which legislators hope will be at least six per cent or more in order to break the psychological barrier created by recent talk of a five per cent hike, and which teachers and other state workers have said is too low.

—A speedup in collecting personal income tax money withheld by employers to produce a one-time windfall of up to $90 million depending on the numbers and sizes of businesses affected. Additionally, legislators know that all the money appropriated next fiscal year won't be spent and some reversions totaling between $54 and $70 million can be expected.

To err on the side of caution, sentiment now appears directed at continued efforts to cut spending across the board, approve a pay raise of around six per cent—or a one-time bonus without committing the state to paying increased salary rates in coming years—and approval of the income tax collection speedup only to the degree needed to achieve a balanced budget without committing reversions or an anticipated surplus to be spent within the coming fiscal year.

Through committee discussions last week as the session geared up ran one central theme which will likely set the pace for official action this week: aim low on projected income, hold the line on spending, don't raise taxes, and keep a cushion handy in case of another tumble.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Ford Bobbles Canal Issue

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — After first fudging on his intentions about the Panama Canal, President Ford has managed what officials in his own administration most wanted to avoid: the impression that the U. S. is negotiating a new canal treaty out of fear.

Once the certain prospect of ultimately turning the canal over to the Republic of Panama no longer could be covered up, Mr. Ford began pounding home the point that the alternative to negotiation is a blood bath. That seriously undercuts negotiators seeking quietly to transfer control of the canal without Uncle Sam, in the wake of Vietnam, seeming again to be pulling down the flag under fire.

In sum, Mr. Ford's handling of Ronald Reagan's strident and inaccurate charges about the canal has been horribly botched. Besides giving credence to Reagan's theme that the President preaches hard on the campaign trail and practices soft back in Washington, it has revealed characteristics antithetical to Mr. Ford's public image: deceptive, demagogic, overheated. That is a poor omen for the long campaign ahead.

The Ford administration's position on the canal, inherited from the Johnson and Nixon administrations, is clear though not public. Mr.

Ford's secret instructions to negotiators call for seeking 25 more years of operating rights and 50 years of defense rights, though the latter is more flexible and both are subject to negotiation. The question, in short, is not "if" but "when."

Deception began early. Instead of trying to justify this position, Mr. Ford decided to keep it under the State Department rug through the 1976 election. U. S. diplomats talked Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's urbane leftist dictator, into keeping quiet until Mr. Ford's election.

Reagan spoiled the conspiracy of silence by raising the Panama Canal issue in terms that were exaggerated, inaccurate and unquestionably demagogic. Responding at a Dallas news conference April 10, Mr. Ford made a pledge he clearly had no intention of redeeming: "The United States will never give up its defense rights to the Panama Canal and will never give up its operational rights as far as Panama is concerned." Was the President guilty of incompetence or outright deception?

"I don't think the President was up to speed on this issue at this point in time," one Ford adviser told us. Translated, that means he did not know what he was talking about.

But canal policy had been thoroughly reexamined when Mr. Ford became President and Dr. James Schlesinger, then Secretary of Defense, unsuccessfully sought a harder negotiating position. Even detractors concede Gerald Ford has an excellent memory. Moreover, one close adviser had urged him to keep canal business quiet for 1976.

The inescapable conclusion, then, is that Mr. Ford knew what he was doing in Dallas April 10.

But reports five days later of Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker's testimony revealing the government's intent ultimately to give up the canal forced a new line by the

Strength For Today

THE SOURCE OF POWER
Only streams with strong currents are suitable for the development of water power installations. The placid stream which winds its way through green meadows is beautiful to contemplate, but it has no power possibilities. To have power, one must fall. It takes plunging water to make the wheels turn.

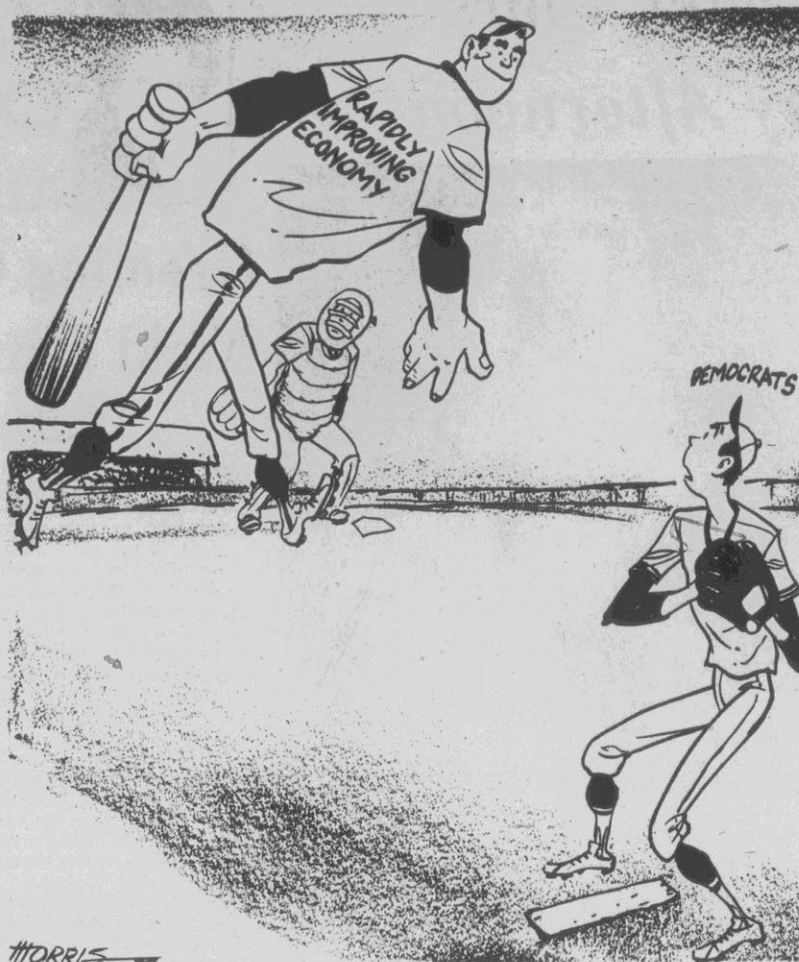

So it is with our lives. We develop our greatest power at the point where circumstances are most torrential. It is when life hangs in the balance, when our lives are at stake, that every power within us is marshalled for rescue or self-defense.

Of course, trouble beats some people down and disqualifies them for the struggle of life, but most people, after they have passed through trouble, look back and see that it has taught them great lessons. They would never have developed their highest powers except for the excruciating experience of crisis which developed power at the point where the torrent was most fierce.

The Million-Dollar Baby

WASHINGTON—The big news last week was not the news, but the people who report it. Barbara Walters announced she was leaving NBC and the Today show to go to ABC as co-anchorperson on what was formerly known as The Harry Reasoner Show. What made this all so important is that it was announced she would receive $1 million a year, which is the highest price ever paid in the history of newsdom.

In city rooms and television studios all over the country work stopped while fierce arguments ensued as to whether or not paying a newperson $1 million was good or bad for the news business.

Opinions in the news bureau where I drink my coffee were mixed. A lady reporter said, "You guys are all mad because the first newperson to get a million dollars a year happens to be a woman."

ART BUCHWALD

Other Editors Say Minus Decency

(Jacksonville Daily News)

A new book by the Washington Post reporters who smoked out Watergate burglary contains painfully intimate details about the personal life of former President Nixon and his family during their last days in the White House. The reaction of many who were close to the President at that time suggests that the account is a distorted one even if the authors attest to the reliability of their sources.

Whether the pages of this book give an accurate picture of Richard Nixon on the eve of his resignation is not what concerns us here. It is whether there are no longer any rules of decency governing what is written and published about a human being—even a political figure whose personal life has to some extent become public property by his own choice. Leaving aside any judgment of Mr. Nixon's conduct in office, it is deplorable that he or any other American should suffer this intrusion into his privacy.

Standards of taste and decency have the force of unwritten laws. They are the value system of a society, its conscience. They are understood, not written down. To codify them and try to enforce them would be possible only in an authoritarian system, which ours is not. While freedom of expression is a cherished ideal in America, what keeps it from lapsing into license often is no more than those commonly held standards of taste and decency.

In Wisconsin recently, hecklers deliberately mocked the partial paralysis of presidential candidate George Wallace. They appeared in wheelchairs and carried banners urging that his would-be assassin be released from jail to "give him another chance." There is no law on the books against such behavior—only the unwritten one that differentiates between what is decent and humane and what is not.

Politics often take on a rowdy tone in our country. This has been attributed to the American character. If politics and public affairs are an expression of that character, then we have to observe that it is not an immutable quality and may be changing in a direction that deserves some attention.

In the arts and entertainment, we have been living through a period in which old standards of taste and decency have given ground to the idea that anything goes. Is this "new morality" now invading the precincts of politics and journalism? There are signs that it has.

"She's not a newperson," a male correspondent objected. "She's a TV personality. A newperson is someone who gathers news. A TV personality is someone who reads it to you at 6:30 or 7 o'clock at night."

The lady reporter said, "But Barbara says she hopes to go out and interview people and do stories on her own." "Even if she wanted to," the correspondent said, "ABC's insurance company won't let her. Her legs are too valuable to do leg work."

A third person said, "I think we're all missing the point. I certainly believe Barbara Walters is worth $1 million if ABC wants to pay her that. The big question is whether the news for the next year is worth a million dollars."

We all stopped drinking our coffee, waiting for him to continue.

"Look," he said, "the entire country knows Barbara is being paid a million dollars to give us the news. So they all tune in and say, 'Okay, Barbara-baby, lay a million dollars' worth of news on us.' She comes on the air and says, 'President Ford said in Dayton, Ohio, today that he is for a strong economy, a tight budget, a responsible Congress and a

Soviet Price Cutting

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia is using some of capitalism's business practices, including price cuts, in peddling arms to Third World countries, Pentagon officials say.

Soviet arms are priced lower than comparable Western equipment and weapons customers are offered discounts of nearly 20 per cent, these officials say.

The price factor in U.S. foreign arms sales arose recently when Jordanian officials said they may turn to the Soviets for air defense weapons because U.S. Hawk anti-aircraft missiles are too costly.

Earlier, the Iranian government decided to reduce its purchase of new destroyers from the United States, in part because of sharply increased prices. The Iranians, however, are unlikely to buy from the Russians but may purchase ships from the British instead, some officials say.

Pentagon specialists say the U.S. government is barred by law from selling arms to foreign countries at prices less than it costs the American forces to buy such equipment for their own use. Credit sales must be at prevailing bank interest rates, these specialists say.

"Moscow has been willing to provide military equipment and training with a minimum of conditions and on attractive financial terms," Lt. Gen. H.M. Fish, the Pentagon's arms sales chief, told Congress recently. "We are unaware of a single Russian turnaround of a prospective arms client."

Fish said the list price of Russian weapons "appears to be based primarily on Soviet estimates of what the market will bear."

According to Pentagon specialists, the degree of Soviet price discounting probably is determined by a customer nation's ability to pay, as well as by political considerations.

They say the Russians usually extend arms sales credits at about 2 per cent interest with payments stretched over eight to 10 years.

Despite Russia's growth to second place behind the United States in arms sales, officials say there have been some minuses for the Soviet Union. One of these minuses, officials report, involves complaints from such customer nations as India about the quality of some of the aircraft and weapons they receive from Russia and about a lack of spare parts and technical follow-up after these sales are completed.

As a result, officials say, some countries that in the past have welcomed Soviet arms are now turning to Western nations such as France and Britain.

Eyes On The Inflation Signals

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The flow of encouraging economic statistics that is widely believed to have strengthened political support for President Ford may be interrupted in coming weeks, perhaps as early as this week.

The consequences cannot be foreseen precisely, because so much depends on the over-all mood in which the statistics are interpreted, but the President in the past has relied heavily on statistics to support his campaign.

Perhaps portending a change, the Index of Leading Indicators fell in March for the first time in five months. While economists caution that one month doesn't constitute a trend, signals are flashing from other directions too.

One of the most significant sets of statistics, on the Wholesale Price Index, will be released later this week, and some economists fear it will show a decided worsening of inflation.

Increases in prices of raw materials, food, energy and other commodities are expected by some private economists here to push the index close to a double digit rate, which could be reflected later in consumer prices.

Some of the statistical difficulties that could develop might be attributed to deficiencies in the statistics themselves, which some critics feel have exaggerated the improvement and are now tending to correct themselves.

A highly significant statistical change will be reflected in the jobless statistics for April and May, when the seasonal adjustment factor reverses itself.

In January, February and March, the number of jobless counted in the raw data was adjusted downward, because in those months seasonal factors generally produce more unemployment. But in April and May, the number is adjusted upward.

There is no certainty that the seasonal adjustment factor will cause an increase in the unemployment rate, but Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, has several times cautioned that the rate could rise.

Questions persist about the accuracy of the adjustment factor, and in fact with the raw data. As happened last year also, large discrepancies appeared early this year in the figures of two of the bureau's job surveys.

Another area economists are watching involves figures for the Gross National Product, which is the total output of goods and services. The strong advances announced for both the third and fourth quarters of 1975 has since been revised lower.

If the same pattern continues, the news could be construed by some people as suggesting a weakening of the recovery. And the leveling off of inventory buildups which helped push up early GNP figures, might add to that impression.

Economists also are watching interest rates and some highly regarded private institutions already have forecast a rising trend. Moreover, they foresee the increases becoming even sharper if inflation worsens.

What all this will mean to the stock market can only be guessed, but it is important to note that the market has been sensitive to economic data. Many analysts equate the sharp rise earlier this year to the flow of statistics.

The government and the Ford administration are aware that the almost uninterrupted flow of good news from the computers couldn't continue and repeatedly have alluded to the likelihood of a moderation.

The true political significance of a downturn in some statistics — if indeed they even develop — must await the interpretation given by the people.

If they are viewed as short-term interruptions in an economy that is still recovering, the impact could be moderated, as it would be if the public recognized that some of the statistics continue to improve, but at a slower rate.

But if fears are aroused in people who have not yet recovered from the deepest recession since the 1930s, it could be a different story.

Evans-Novak....

President. It came April 19 in a White House interview with editors of the Texas Harte-Hanks newspapers. To break off negotiations, Mr. Ford declared, would be "absolutely irrevocable" and would "undoubtedly lead" to "bloody" incidents.

But the Texas editors persisted: would the treaty result in relinquishing the canal? "Well, you get into some of the very sophisticated areas here," the sidestepping President replied.

Through the next three days of escalating rhetoric, Mr. Ford never did answer that simple question but painted increasingly ferocious pictures (with "bloody" the most frequently used word). By April 23 in Greenville, N.C., his voice rose in excited anger as he warned of "riots, more bloodshed... and the enmity" of all Latin America if negotiations are broken off.

Actually, a different view is privately held within the military governments of Argentina, Chile and Brazil. Furthermore, the 1975 position paper of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, reluctantly supporting continued negotiations, does not back up Mr. Ford's suggestion that the canal will not be "economically justifiable" within 25 years. Nor have the Chiefs recommended sending 10,000 to 20,000 additional U.S. troops to the Canal Zone if negotiations are broken off — a prospect repeatedly cited by campaigner Ford.

Rather, the Joint Chiefs have contended the canal is vital to U.S. security and suggest U.S.-Panamanian cooperation is the answer to the future.

But trust and cooperation would be doubtful with Panama ruled by Torrijos, Fidel Castro's close friend. Accordingly, military experts warn that the U.S. could not continue operation of the canal if Torrijos gains authority over the Canal Zone in a year or two.

Reagan's demagogic charges do not even attempt to deal with those very real questions. But neither do the President's demagogic responses. The canal, a deadly dilemma for the U.S., is made infinitely more difficult by manhandling from the President and his challenger.

defense second to none. Everyone groans—right?

"Then Harry Reasoner says something about the elections in Portugal, but no one cares because he's only getting $200,000. Back to Barbara. She says, 'A group of doctors testified before a House committee that swine flu serum could cause swine flu if taken through the nose.' Everybody says, 'Come on, Barbara-baby, give us a million-dollar story.'"

"Okay, so Reasoner comes back and says the British pound hit a new low in Geneva. Then Barbara comes on the air, and we're waiting for a blockbuster. She says, 'Jimmy Carter flew to California yesterday and told a group of students at UCLA that if he was elected President he would never knowingly lie to them.'"

"Pretty soon," our friend continued, "people are going to start switching back to CBS and NBC where they know the anchormen don't make more than $400,000 a year and, therefore, won't hype up the news."

"Barbara isn't going to hype up the news," the lady reporter protested. "All she's going to do is present it in a more interesting way."

"You tell me," someone said, "how to make Sen. Henry Jackson interesting on television and I'll pay you a million dollars a year."

The correspondent who stopped us from drinking our coffee said, "Look, if we had a Watergate scandal or a war or something, maybe the news would be worth the kind of money ABC is willing to shell out. But all of us know the country is in a news shock now and there isn't one story that any anchorman could announce tonight that would knock anyone of us out of his chair. Have you noticed how apologetic Walter Cronkite is these nights when he says, 'And that's the way it is.'?"

"I wonder how Barbara will sign off?" someone said. "Probably 'Good night, Harry.'"

"And how will Reasoner sign off?"

"Probably, 'Good night, Barbara. Did I tell you you look like a million dollars?'"

Transit System...

Mrs. Hix said, but the Commission will have to be careful that the lease agreement meets federal guidelines in order for the system to be eligible for future federal funding.

Following approval by the City Council of the vehicle acquisition, the Public Transportation Commission will have to hire a transportation manager to coordinate the bus system and begin an advertising campaign before the system can begin operation. This means the buses probably won't begin to run until at least mid-July or August, Mrs. Hix said.

Old Idea

The idea of a public transportation system for the city of Greenville is one that has been discussed for many years. The plans for the present system were presented to the City Council by the Public Transportation Commission in December of 1975. The Council approved the plan and included a $77,000 appropriation for a mass transportation system in the 1975-76 budget.

The proposed name for the new system is "Greenville Area Transit" or the acronym, "GREAT." The system is centered around the basic transportation needs for two groups: the elderly and the poor, who need transportation to shopping areas, health facilities and social service offices. It is to this group that GREAT has the potential to be the most beneficial, although the system could provide transportation for middle-income persons or students as a means of getting to and from shopping centers or other places.

The Commission decided that a fixed-route bus system involving three routes would provide the best service for Greenville after studying many different possibilities. They came to this decision because this type of system is easily initiated and expanded, easily incorporated into current administration within the city organization, can be set up quickly and can also be easily altered or abolished if it proves to be ineffective.

Proposed Routes

Three routes for the bus system are proposed in the Commission's report to the City Council. The routes are designed to provide at least hourly service between residential sections and major institutional and commercial areas with more complete coverage to be provided through intra-system transfers. In addition, each of the routes could be altered if needed. The study and selection of final routes will be one of the first tasks of the transportation manager when he is chosen, according to city planner John Schofield, whose office has also been working on the project.

Route One of the proposed routes would serve West Meadowbrook, Meadowbrook, the Central Business District, Pitt Plaza and Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Route Two, which includes two alternatives, would serve Hospital, Biltmore, Cherry View, the Central Business District and Pitt Plaza. If the second alternative is selected, Route Two would include the perimeter of East Carolina University. Neighborhood service to Stratford and Brentwood could possibly be provided to determine if middle-income families would use the system.

The major areas for Route Three include New Town, Higgs, Pitt Memorial Hospital, Cherry View, the Central Business District and Pitt Plaza.

Of these proposed routes, Route One is the longest—10.9 miles. Based on an average speed of 11 miles per hour, this route can be run in about 60 minutes. The other routes are between 9.8 and 10.6 miles long.

The Commission recommends a starting time of 7:30 a.m. for the system with a 5:30 p.m. ending time. Route One would start north of the Tar River, Route Two in the central part of town and Route Three in the southern part of town. The number of stops has not been included in the proposed routes and is another of the details which would be worked out after a transit manager is hired.

These routes, once put into effect, would need constant reevaluation, according to the Commission. An on-board questionnaire during the first month of operation is recommended. In addition, changes in the area, such as the construction of Arlington Boulevard and the opening of the new hospital could warrant changes in the bus routes.

Transit Administration Sound management is a critical element in the transit operation, according to the Commission's report. The decided it would be most practical to incorporate the new system into an existing city department. Since the Department of Public Works is now responsible for the maintenance, repair and records of all city-owned equipment and already has a large administrative staff, the Commission feels the proper place for the transit system is within this department. Operating within the Department of Public Works, the transit manager will be under the direct supervision of the Public Works Director.

The Commission asserts that should the bus system be expanded, it may require the creation of a separate department within the city administration. While the initial demands of the system may not reduce the capacity of the Director of Public Works, this may not be the case with a larger transit system, the report says.

The personnel recommended for the bus system are a transit manager and five bus drivers, according to Schofield. The five drivers would provide substitutes and could perform maintenance when not driving. Schofield said.

The Commission recommends the transit manager have some experience—either practical or educational—in transit affairs. He will oversee the entire transit operation and be responsible to the Public Works Director. His salary will be between $11,000 and $15,000, according to the report.

Drivers will be required to know the routes, as well as knowing the mechanical requirements of the vehicles. The Commission recommends a salary of between $7,200 and $9,200 a year for drivers.

A strong, continuing marketing program is essential to the success of GREAT, according to the Commission's report. The name "GREAT" was chosen because of the positive image it creates. The Commission also feels an attractive color scheme is important and chose green and gold on a white background for the new bus system.

An extensive advertising campaign must be started several months prior to the beginning of bus service, according to the Commission. Handbills, schedule cards and other informational items as well as local broadcast and newspaper advertisement and news stories will be part of this campaign.

In addition, a continued advertising campaign will be necessary to "keep reminding potential patrons of the service" and advise the public on any route or schedule changes, according to the report.

Budget

Although not expected to operate at a profit, the Commission feels that GREAT should generate as much revenue as possible to offset expenditures. Fare rates, however, must be within the means of the poor and elderly whom the system is to benefit.

The report recommends a 25-cent per trip fare with exemptions for children under six for GREAT's operation. This amount is felt to be within the bounds of those who are expected to use the bus system and revenues are expected to roughly run about $19,125 a year, based ridership estimates of 300 passengers per day and 255 operating days a year. The Commission also discussed a fare exemption for the elderly

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Monday, May 3, 1976—5 but felt it is not warranted at this time.

For the collection of fares, the Commission recommends exact change fare boxes to prevent the need for drivers to handle money. Drivers will not provide change.

The proposed budget set up by the Commission calls for $75,500 in immediate expenditures to set up the transit system. In addition, an estimated $94,000 per year would be required to operate the system. With the projected revenue of $19,125, the system would cost the city

$74,875 per year, at least part of which could be offset by federal transit funding.

N.C. Assembly...

 created appropriations for several government programs. The university and community college system want additional funds to meet increased enrollments. Money for school lunches, for driver training, for school psychologists, for the Department of Justice, for a mental health center and for services to the blind have all been requested.

Rep. Jimmy Love, D-Lee, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said he and Sen. W.D. Mills, D-Onslow, had pared these requests down "to the point of balancing with money available." He said his recommendations would be submitted to the full committee after today's House and Senate sessions.

The appropriations committees and House Base Budget Committee have identified about $50 million in cuts in next year's budget in order to help balance the budget.

Present budget plans call for immediate statewide expansion of the state kindergarten program to all five-year-olds in the state next school year, which would be two years ahead of schedule. Kindergarten classes would be increased from 26 to 28 pupils per teacher.

The speed-up of the kindergarten program has been approved by the House Appropriations Committee, but its Senate counterpart has asked a subcommittee to study the question.

To help provide the revenue needed for the pay raise and requests for additional spending, the lawmakers will consider legislation that will bring in a one-time windfall of upwards of $70 million. This would result from requiring large corporations to remit their state income tax withholdings from their employees' pay on a monthly instead of a quarterly basis.

Honor For Role Among Poor

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Mother Teresa of Calcutta, India, has been awarded the Poverello Medal, highest honor of the College of Steubenville, for her work in India with the "poorest of the poor."

The medal is presented by the school to the person it feels best exemplifies the teachings of St. Francis.

Mother Teresa has been working in Calcutta since 1948, primarily with abandoned children. In accepting the medal on Sunday, she said, "One of the biggest problems in the world is people who are unwanted and unloved — people who have nobody to call their own.... The biggest thing we have to give people is love — knowing somebody loves them."

Other special guests present for the dedication were as follows: N.C. Representatives Sam Bundy and Horton Roundtree; Pitt County Commissioner Charles Gaskins; Dick Gable, state vocational rehabilitation; Ben Dixon, assistant deputy director, N.C. Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services; Dabney Overton, Eastern Region Alcohol Program director; William Saffriet, assistant Eastern Region director; Thurston Perry, Eastern Region manpower director; Ken Walker, W.B.J.-ARC rehabilitation services; and Ken Bordeaux, business manager W.B.J.-ARC rehabilitation services; and Ken Bordeaux, bus and chairman of the Building Committee for the new activities building.

Missing Wallet Found On Roof

FARMVILLE — A wallet apparently stolen during a break-in here Mar. 2 was found on the roof of the house next door last week.

The wallet, which held driver's license and other identification papers of W. A. Norman, was found by Bob Fields as he cleaned the gutters of his house. It's presumed that whoever took the wallet from Norman's dresser the night of Mar. 2 removed the money from it and tossed it onto the roof. Police Chief Marsdon Cannady said Norman reported at the time that he saw a man standing in the doorway of his bedroom and told him to take the wallet and not hurt him. The person did just this, he told police.

Lady Bird Host At Barbecue

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — With entertainer Carol Channing on hand to sprinkle a few diamonds, Lady Bird Johnson has given another barbecue at the LBJ Ranch for benefactors of the Lyndon B. Johnson National Grove in Washington D.C.

More than 600 Johnson friends gathered on the banks of the Pedernales River for the affair Sunday, reminiscent of the galas that took place here during the years of Lyndon Johnson's presidency. They gave $125,000 of the remaining $200,000 needed to finance the $2-million memorial to LBJ.

Miss Channing quipped that it was "like carrying coals to Newcastle" to pass out fake diamond awards to such guests as Laurance Rockefeller and Mrs. Vincent Astor.

ELECTIONS SET

ROME (AP) — Italian national elections were set today for June 20-21, with the Communists driving for their biggest vote since World War II in this NATO country.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Biggs Funeral Chapel by the Rev. James Hagwood. Burial will be in the Robersonville Cemetery.

"This beautiful building has been sorely needed to complement the program at the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center in Greenville," Dr. Bruce Whitaker said as he dedicated the new activities building at WBJ-ARC Sunday afternoon. Approximately 150 people attended.

The activities building had been planned in the original construction of the alcoholic rehabilitation center in 1969 but had to be eliminated because of insufficient funds. The 1973 N.C. General Assembly appropriated $576,145 for construction of the new facility.

Dr. Whitaker, President of Chowan College and Chairman of the Alcohol and Drug Committee of the N.C. Mental Health Commission, said that the construction of the WBJ-ARC in Greenville meant that alcohol treatment and rehabilitation services could be brought closer to home for Eastern North Carolinians and serve the people more adequately. He pointed out that in the 1967-68 fiscal year when the only alcohol and drug treatment facility in North Carolina was at Butler, only 68 alcoholic patients from Eastern North Carolina were served. During the 1974-75 fiscal year, the WBJ-ARC served approximately 1,100 alcoholics, 842 of which were new admissions.

Mr. Abner R. Stepps Jr., 55, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Sunday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Haywood Price, his pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Stepps was born and spent all his life in Greenville and attended the Greenville City Schools. He was a member of Faith Pentecostal Holiness Church and was a retired paint contractor.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Smith Stepps; two sons, Travis E. Stepps of Winterville and Ronnie M. Stepps of Greenville; a daughter, Miss Frances L. Stepps of Dallas, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Bryant King of Greenville and Mrs. Eugene W. Jones of Richmond, Va.; a brother, Rufus Stepps of Greenville; and seven grandchildren.

 Commissioners this morning also adopted a Civil Preparedness Ordinance which, in effect, gives county officials powers to act to prevent loss of life in the event of a disaster. Primarily, the ordinance gives county officials the authority to evacuate areas in emergency situations, to prevent injury and possible loss of life.

The board, too, approved final plans for Brandywine Estates and Cherry Oaks (Section 4) Subdivisions as recommended by the county Planning Board. In addition, commissioners adopted a resolution opposing a State proposal to require the establishment of homes for delinquent children in each county and a proposal to close the Richard T. Fountain Training School at Rocky Mount. Juvenile Court representative Henry Cox, who recommended the resolution, said closing juvenile training schools would leave the courts with no way to enforce probation and other judgments in juvenile cases.

Other special guests present for the dedication were as follows: N.C. Representatives Sam Bundy and Horton Roundtree; Pitt County Commissioner Charles Gaskins; Dick Gable, state vocational rehabilitation; Ben Dixon, assistant deputy director, N.C. Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services; Dabney Overton, Eastern Region Alcohol Program director; William Saffriet, assistant Eastern Region director; Thurston Perry, Eastern Region manpower director; Ken Walker, W.B.J.-ARC rehabilitation services; and Ken Bordeaux, business manager W.B.J.-ARC rehabilitation services; and Ken Bordeaux, bus and chairman of the Building Committee for the new activities building.

Shower's Helpful

Saturday showers were helpful to the Pitt County crops according to Agricultural Extension Agent Ed Yancey.

"It was a very timely rain. We had not suffered tremendous losses in the fields but the small grain crops have probably had their yields cut," he said.

"I think we probably got enough rain for our tobacco crops. There was not too much tobacco dead in the fields before the rain. The corn should really get off to a good start now," Yancey said.

The rain was also sufficient for lifting the cancellation of the burning permits in Pitt County. The rain level measured 2.74 inches Monday morning, according to the Greenville Utilities Department.

Lawyer Plans Contest Purported Hughes Will

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A genealogist and probate investigator who claims he represents

"as many as 11 relatives" of the late billionaire Howard Hughes says his clients believe a purported Hughes will found last week "is a phony from the word go."

W.A. Jones, head of Heirfinders Inc. of Nashville, Tenn., said Sunday he would file papers in Clark County today contesting the will found in the administration building of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

Meanwhile, attorneys for 87-year-old Noah Dietrich, named in the will as executor, planned to file petitions in Los Angeles today for probate of the will and appointment of Dietrich as executor.

Attorney Harold Rhoden said the petitions are intended to wrest control of the Hughes estate in California from Hughes' maternal cousin, Richard C. Gano, who was named by a Superior Court judge as temporary administrator of the estate.

Rhoden said he then plans to consult with handwriting and paper experts. "We have to determine just how old that paper the will was written on is," Rhoden said. "I don't want to go into court and have someone tell me it was made in 1971."

The will, crudely written on yellow, waterstained sheets, was dated March 19, 1968.

Dietrich, who could earn about $40 million as executor of the estate estimated at $1.5 billion to $2.5 billion, said he studied copies of a handwritten manuscript believed to be a section of a novel by Hughes and that he believes it to be authentic.

Jones said two persons who believe they are Hughes' relatives hired him to draw up a family tree on the paternal side of Hughes' family.

He said those two and others who believe they are members of the family on Hughes' father's side are claiming a share of the estate on grounds that a paternal descendency line was never established.

Although Jones declined to name his clients, two of them were identified earlier as Josephine Hughes Crowder of Chester, Va., and Jeff Milton Hughes of Houston.

Jones would say only that his clients are "well settled down people and quite wealthy in their own right."

Phillies Hot On The Road

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP)—Danny Ozark isn't ready to request a 100 per cent road schedule for his Philadelphia Phillies, but it might not be a bad idea. The Phillies stormed to their seventh straight road victory Sunday, an 8-2 decision over the Atlanta Braves behind the hitting of Mike Schmidt and the strong pitching of veteran Jim Kaat and reliever Gene Garber. It was their eighth triumph in nine games away from home, compared with a 3-5 mark in Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium where the club returns Tuesday for a home stand against the Houston Astros.

"It's different," Ozark said. "Last year I was hoping we'd get back home. We played good enough to win but not great. I still think we are capable of playing much better."

Sunday's victory came at the expense of Andy Messersmith the million dollar Braves' free agent pitcher who is now 0-2 after four starts since signing the first weekend of the season.

"He's still one of the best in the league in my book," said Schmidt, who twice doubled into the left field corner off Messersmith, the second a two-run shot that highlighted a four-run second. The Brave starter also walked four in that inning and uncorked a wild pitch that accounted for another run.

"I feel pretty good right now," said Schmidt, who lifted his batting average to .324. "I can tell I'm swimming good because I can see the ball jumping off my bat. Now at least I'm hitting the ball, not striking out."

Schmidt also singled and scored in the ninth when Philadelphia put the game on ice with another four-run rally that featured run-scoring singles by Tommy Hutton and Ollie Brown.

Meanwhile, Kaat had a three-hit shutout for six before the Braves chased him in the seventh on two run-producing extra base hits—a triple by Tom Paciorek and a double by Vic Correll. Garber checked the Braves in the final two innings.

Those two runs were only the third and fourth for the Braves in a punchless string that has stretched to 48 innings.

"It's sure been a week of good pitching for the other side," said Dave Bristol, the Braves manager.

He said he believes Messersmith is getting stronger with every start but he's "no way where I want him to be, but he's getting there."

Bristol said Messersmith has only worked 25 innings this season and he likes for his pitchers to have 34 innings of work in spring training.

Talladega Win Surprised Buddy Baker

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)— "It was the first race I ever went into that I didn't feel like I would win," strapping Buddy Baker said after driving the fastest 500 miles in car racing history. Baker had won the Winston 500 and the Talladega 500 on the giant track here last year and said after Sunday's Winston 500 that "the odds of winning three straight are just phenomenal." The odds were not as phenomenal as the 35-year-old veteran's 169.887 mile an hour average in a three-hour drive that erased the previous NASCAR mark, 167.247 in the Firecracker 400, at Daytona Beach in 1968. The man who held the record, Cale Yarborough, was the only one running in the same lap when Baker took the checkered flag Sunday, but he was 35 seconds behind Baker, who went home to Charlotte, N.C., with a $32,735 check and a weary body. "I have never been tired on a major speedway before," the 6-foot-4 Baker said, "but when I got out of the car, I was really bushed." The problem, he said, was that he knew he had it won with about 50 miles to go and was worried more about getting it over with than about his record pace. "The last 20 laps seemed longer than any I ever ran," he said. He had duelled earlier with Richard Petty, James Hylton and Yarborough for brief intervals but it was smooth sailing all alone at the end after Petty made an unscheduled pit stop just when it appeared he was ready to race Baker to the wire. Following Yarborough were Bobby Allison, Petty and Terry Ryan but by then, Baker's blue and white Ford had ended its afternoon joy-ride. A record crowd for the 2.66-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway, estimated at 85,000, saw nothing but flat-out driving for the final 345 miles. The caution flag flew for only 14 laps early in the race and from then on there was no chance for the trailing cars to use a yellow flag to move closer to Baker. As various times, he and Petty were clocked at speeds above 190 m.p.h. on the high-banked trioval. Although there were 24 lead changes among eight drivers, Baker was seldom anywhere but at the head of the pack. "I had a super race car," he said. "Some other were quicker but in the corners we could really get moving." During one period when Petty was trying to get into the same lap with Baker, their cars, side-by-side, touched four or five times down the home stretch. "I motioned for him to go on," Baker said. "There was no point in running that hard at that time." One favorite, David Pearson, was eliminated by a six-car smashup in turn four of the 24th of the 188 laps and said later: "Someone was not driving well ahead of us. I wouldn't say which one." Baker said he was glad he was ahead of the crash "because somehow or other I'd have got blamed for it."

Elder Vows Things Will Be Different At Augusta

Drought Ended

BIG PAY DAY—Lee Elder takes a close look at the check made out to him in the amount of $40,000 Sunday after winning the $200,000 Houston Open with a 10 under par 278 for the 72-hole tournament. It was his first tournament win since 1974 and only his second in his pro career. (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Lee Elder, a winner again, is back in the Masters.

And this time, promised the man who created a world-wide sensation when he became the first black to play in the Old South stronghold of Augusta, Ga., things will be different. "I proved to myself that I could win again," Elder said with obvious satisfaction after his victory Sunday in the rain-delayed Houston Open, a victory that made him eligible for a repeat appearance in the Masters in 1977.

"Now I want to prove to myself, and the rest of the world that was watching Lee Elder at Augusta, that Lee Elder is a much better player than he showed the first time."

Playing under incredible pressure, constantly besieged for interviews, the subject of world-wide attention, Elder played poorly in the first two rounds of the 1975 Masters and missed the cut for the last two rounds.

But he won the right to try again in the Masters with one of the strangest victories the pro tour has seen in years. He won it with his shoes off and his feet propped in front of a television set in the Woodlands Country Club locker room.

A double round of 36 holes was scheduled for Sunday after Thursday's play had been rained out. The field was split into halves, with the 36-hole leaders going off one tee and the second half of the field off the other tee.

As it worked out, Elder was in the first group of the second half. That put him out of range of the national television cameras most of the day. And it put him in the clubhouse, his day's work finished, more than an hour ahead of the other challengers.

He made birdie three from about four feet on his 72nd hole to go 10 under par at 278 after Sunday rounds of 67 and 69.

At that time rookie George Burns was 11 under par — one ahead of Elder — and veteran Miller Barber was eight under.

When Barber hit his second shot to four feet and eagled the par five 16th, he was 10 under and tied with Elder. But he drove into the woods and bogeyed the next one, then double bogeyed the final hole after missing the green. He was out of contention.

Then it was all up to Burns. Elder was talking to the press when Burns three-putted for bogey on the 12th hole. That put them even. Elder was on the phone to his wife when Burns again three-putted for bogey, this time on the 15th. That put Lee ahead alone.

He was in the locker room when Burns missed a short birdie putt on the 16th, then let Lee wrap it up in sock-footed splendor with another three-putt bogey on the 18th.

Forrest Fezler, never in title contention, came on to take second with a closing 67 and a 279 total, one back of Elder. Burns' last round 72 was good for a tie for third with Wally Armstrong at 280. Armstrong birdied his last hole for a 72.

Lee Trevino, who had 14 consecutive pars on the way to a closing 71, and Barber, with a 71, were next at 281.

Trainer Bitter Over Loss By Derby Favorite

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE (AP) — "I guess everybody's happy now that we got beat," embittered trainer LeRoy Jolley told the man representing Pimlico race track where the Preakness will be held May 15.

The Pimlico man assured Jolley that he had been pulling for Honest Pleasure to win the 102nd Kentucky Derby. It was Sunday morning, the day after Bold Forbes had posted a front-running, one-length victory over Honest Pleasure, the 1-2 favorite to win the Derby. The loss ended a string of nine straight triumphs for Bert Firestone's strapping colt.

In the barn area Sunday, Jolley refused to talk to reporters — a turnabout from last year when he saddled Derby winner Bold Pleasure. "I'm too busy," Jolley snapped.

Meantime, Bold Forbes' trainer, Laz Barrera, basked in the glory of saddling a winner in his first Derby try. He said the little Kentucky-bred colt, who started racing in Puerto Rico, would be shipped back to New York today where he'll remain for a week before heading for the Preakness, the second leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

Of the Derby field of nine, Bold Forbes, Honest Pleasure and third-place finisher Elocutionist are set to compete in the 1 3-16 mile Preakness. On The Sly and Cojak who finished fifth and sixth in the Derby, are possible Preakness starters since the Baltimore track is close to home.

Several horses who weren't here for the Derby are likely to go in the Preakness, among them Zen, Sonkisser, Life's Hope and Great Contractor.

Life's Hope, who won the Illinois Derby at Sportsman's Park Saturday and is trained by Barrera for the Harbor View Farm, might go in the Preakness as an entry with Bold Forbes, or else to the Jersey Derby.

It depends on how the trainer's namesake, a colt called Barrera, does in next Saturday's Withers Stakes at Belmont. Barrera will start in the Jersey Derby with Life's Hope if he does well in the Withers. If not, chances are Bold Forbes will go along to the Preakness with Life's Hope heading to the Jersey Derby.

Buckner Bunts, Runs On Painful Ankle; Helps Dodgers Advance

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
It was a painful decision, but Bill Buckner made it anyway. And the Los Angeles Dodgers are within spitting distance of first place because of it.

Buckner, sidelined since Wednesday with a painful sprained left ankle, was called on to pinch hit with runners on first and third and two out in the seventh inning of 1-1 tie with St. Louis Sunday.

Cards third baseman Hector Cruz, knowing Buckner couldn't run, was playing deep. Buckner considered his ankle, then weighed the situation.

"I saw the third baseman playing back and I said, 'What the heck, it can only hurt for three or four seconds.'"

Buckner dropped a bunt down the line and beat it out, surprising St. Louis and sending the tie-breaking run home. Steve Garvey added an insurance run in the eighth with a home run and Los Angeles had a 3-1 triumph, its ninth straight victory.

The Dodgers, in last place just Wednesday morning, are now only .008 behind front-running Cincinnati in the National League West.

Doug Rau, 4-0, scattered nine hits and struck out seven to notch his first complete game of the year. It was the Dodgers' fourth complete game in their last five.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal outlasted Cincinnati 8-4 in 14 innings, San Diego downed Pittsburgh 4-2, Chicago took a pair of 6-5 decisions from San Francisco in 14 and 11 innings, Philadelphia bombed Atlanta 8-2 and Houston and New York split, the Astros winning the opener 5-4 and the Mets taking the nightcap 7-4.

Expos 8, Reds 4
Barry Foote broke a 4-4 tie with a two-run single in the 16th and Pepe Mangual followed with a two-run double for

Montreal. Pete Rose hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati and Gary Carter knocked in three runs, one with a homer, for the Expos. Don Stanhouse, 2-0, was the winner and Pat Darcy, 1-3, was the loser.

Padres 4, Pirates 2
Left-hander Randy Jones stopped Pittsburgh on six hits to raise his record to 5-1. Doug Rader belted a three-run homer and Willie Davis got the other run home with a triple for San Diego. Richie Zisk drove in both Pirate runs with a double and sacrifice fly. Doc Medich, 1-3, was the loser.

Cubs 6-6, Giants 5-5
Jose Cardenal was a one-man gang for Chicago in the opener with six hits, including a two-run homer, four runs batted in and the game-winning hit, a run-scoring single in the 14th inning. Derrel Thomas and Marc Hill homered for San Francisco.

In the nightcap, pinch-hitter Randy Hundley's sacrifice fly drove in the winning run for Chicago, ending more than seven hours of baseball. The Cubs loaded the bases in the 11th on singles by Rick Monday and Champ Summers and a walk.

Phils 8, Braves 2
Mike Schmidt's two-run double in the second and RBI singles by Tommy Hutton and Ollie Brown in the ninth highlighted a pair of four-run innings that carried Philadelphia past Atlanta and into first place in the National League East. The Phils have won seven straight games on the road and the Braves have dropped seven straight over-all. Jim Kaat, 2-1, won it and Andy Messersmith, 0-2, lost it.

Astros 5-4, Mets 4-7
Larry Milbourne's run-scoring single in the ninth gave Houston the first game, ending New York's win streak at seven games. Milbourne also had an RBI-single in the fifth when the Astros chased Mets' starter Mickey Lolich with four runs, two of them on a double by Enos Cabell. Ed Kranepool homered for New York.

The Mets got even in the second game on the strength of a four-run sixth-inning rally. Dave Kingman, Jerry Grote and Del Unser singled in a run each in the inning and Bud Harrelson got another home with a squeeze bunt. Unser and Wayne Garrett hit home runs for the Mets and Cliff Johnson hit one for the Astros.

Finished Seventh

RICHMOND, Va. — East Carolina collected 19 points to finish seventh in the Southern Conference Tennis Tournament, Sunday.

Don Meredith In Different Role

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Football fans will see a different Don Meredith tonight when the gridiron star and sportscaster appears as "Banjo Hackett" on "NBC's Monday Night at the Movies."

It's a period Western with Meredith as a "free-spirited, itinerant horse trader." Meredith himself sees the role as containing "a great deal of humor and through it comes a certain amount of emotion."

He appears throughout the two-hour movie, costarring with young Ike Eisenman as his nephew companion and with such performers as Chuck Connors, Anne Francis, Slim Pickens, Jennifer Warren, Jeff Corey, Dan O'Herlihy and Gloria De Haven.

It's a heavy load for a guy whose previous displays of public emotion were largely responding to the taunts of sportscaster Howard Cosell.

"I play a horse trader who is never at a loss for an answer," commented Meredith. Although his football commentaries would seem a proper preparation for such a role, he said the best help came from his family: "My father ran a dry goods store in Mount Vernon, Tex., and my brother is a salesman."

"Banjo Hackett" is a "program development project," which is a fancy way of saying that it is designed as a pilot for a future series. It didn't make NBC's fall schedule, but may be on hold for midseason 1976-77. Surprisingly, Meredith says the series will not star himself.

"Maybe they can do it with someone else," said Meredith. "Not me. The thought of playing the same character every week doesn't seem like that much fun."

Meredith is beginning the third year of an exclusive contract with NBC. It has been a double-duty arrangement. He has appeared as an actor in such series as "Police Story," "Police Woman," "McCloud" and in television movies, "Terror on the 40th Floor" and "Sky Heist."

He also appears with Curt Gowdy on the broadcasts of National Football League games. "I did nine last season, plus a couple of tennis tournaments," he said. "Next season I'll probably do 12, since we have the Super Bowl this time and I'll be doing a preseason game or two."

He admitted that he now enjoys the broadcasts more than in the years when he formed a nervous trio with Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford.

Farm Scene

By MIKAEL E. REGANS

Feed additives are widely used in the swine industry. There are two distinct and separate uses of feed additives. First, many feed additives are used to improve the efficiency of pork production. It is recognized that the use of feed additives gives greater results on farms where overall management tends to be poor. Therefore, as the level of management improves on a farm, the efficiency from using feed additives is decreased. Feed additives should not be used to replace poor management. Second, feed additives are used when certain disease outbreaks occur in a swine operation. There are specific treatments for each disease problem. More rigid controls on monitoring pork for residues of feed additives are being initiated by the Food and Drug Administration. It will become a practice for samples of tissues and blood to be taken from hogs to check for residues of additives.

This means that every pork producer must take precautions to abide by the FDA regulations on removal of certain additives before selling hogs for slaughter. This is not only to prevent breaking the law, but also to help the industry as a whole so that FDA will continue to allow producers to use feed additives. Producers are responsible for knowing drugs they are feeding and the proper withdrawal

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1976, The Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ72 ♦Q10952 ♣A982
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♠ ?

What action do you take?
A.—The auction has developed favorably. You could hardly hold a better hand, considering your initial pass, and your first duty must be to inform partner of your strength. The only way to do so adequately would be to cue-bid two spades. You have excellent slam possibilities, and it is important to get the auction on the right track.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K1064 ♦AJ87 ♣Q8542
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?
A.—One spade. A difficult hand. You would really like to respond two clubs and over partner's probable heart rebid, rebid two spades. But that would be forcing, and you are not strong enough for that action. At least if partner rebids two hearts over your one spade response, he should have a six-card suit, and you have a margin of safety if you elect to pass.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K84 ♥K9 ♦AJ10752 ♣63
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♥ 2 ♠ Pass 2 NT
Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Double. Someone has stretched, and unless you know partner to be overaggressive, you should presume it is one of the opponents. You have 9 points and partner has shown 13. If his hand is highly distributional, he can remove your double, but it looks as if you are onto a good thing since partner rates to have some spade values behind opener.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K72 ♥K985 ♦AK ♣QJ94
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—The time has come to show your power, and we suggest that you rebid three no trump. That would show about the equivalent of a one no trump opening bid, and you have also alerted your partner to the fact that you have a four-card heart suit.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A74 ♥A10872 ♦73 ♣Q53
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Your hand has improved significantly. At a heart contract, it is worth at least 12 points, and partner's jump to four hearts should be made on a hand that values to about 21 points. You are close to slam, and two aces are impressive cards that call for at least one move. We suggest a cue-bid of four spades, intending to sign off at five hearts at your next turn unless partner does something dramatic.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠93 ♥QJ6 ♦QJ72 ♣K982
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Dbl. 1 NT ?
What action do you take?
A.—Double. Someone has stretched, and unless you know partner to be overaggressive, you should presume it is one of the opponents. You have 9 points and partner has shown 13. If his hand is highly distributional, he can remove your double, but it looks as if you are onto a good thing since partner rates to have some spade values behind opener.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ6 ♥K6 ♦J73 ♣AQ842
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 3 ♣ Pass Pass
What action do you take?
A.—It is tempting to double, but that might not be the wisest course. If partner had any values, he could either have doubled or bid. While West must have the rest of the clubs, the hand might play better in East's long suit, and if you double East might run. You have the opponents where you want them, so pass and take your profit.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ9852 ♥AQ85 ♦A ♣97
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
What action do you take?
A.—Matters have taken a decided turn for the worse. What started out as a promising hand has turned into an absolute misfit. While it is true that you have not yet shown that you have a good six-card spade suit, there is the danger that partner has a singleton, and any further action by you could get your side into trouble. Pass—discretion is the better part of valor.

A Sight To See

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Travelers can see the cracked and crumbling remains of giant 190 million-year-old conifers in Arizona's Petrified Forest National Park, selected as one of America's top 500 sights to see by the Rand McNally Traveler's Almanac. The trees were buried by an ancient inland sea and became petrified when filled with silica deposits. The best specimens are found near the park's southern entrance, off U.S. Highway 180.

Greenville Moose Lodge Installs New Officers In Annual Ceremony

The Greenville Moose Lodge installed a new Governor and other officers Saturday night in the annual ceremony marking the end of one year and the start of another for Lodge 885. Thomas Jamieson Sr. assumed the post held for 1975-76 by James Fleming. The new Junior Governor is Arthur Diehl.

Crockett Webb the new Prelate, O.J. Smith the Treasurer, D. Lacy Harrell is the new 3-year Trustee, and Arthur W. Sisk the new Secretary.

Morgan; Ritual Committee Chairman James Fleming; Sports Committee, Bill Pilgreen; Publicity, D.C. Schlien; Entertainment, Paul Rasberry; Auditing, E.M. Baldree; Moose Messenger, Gordon Turner; Service, James Harris.

Other members of the board are Trustees Merrill Bynum and Willy B. Bailey, and Past Governor James Fleming.

In his remarks, the new Governor recalled he had been a member of the fraternity for 18 years, and had visited both Mooseheart and Moosehaven as well as many lodges. "I came to realize ours is one of the finest in the country," Jamieson said, "and is held in high regard." One of his objectives, he observed, was to preserve the standards of the past.

Jamieson announced appointive officers for the year would be Ron Payne, Sgt. at Arms, and Ransom Breedlove, Ass't Sgt.-at-Arms. Outer Guard Robert Carrico, and Ass't Outer Guard John Simonowich; Inner Guard Lester Bunting and Ass't Inner Guard Loyd Stokes.

Civic Affairs Chairman will be Billy Barnes; Membership Committee Chairman, Jack

North Carolina Moose Association President Ed Blanton, of Charlotte, served as the installing officer. Also attending was Fred Jarvis, President of District XIII. A dance followed the ceremonies.

Outgoing lodge Governor Fleming was presented with a scrapbook of lodge activities during his year of service.

Edwin M. Baldree, whose resignation as Secretary became effective with installation of his successor, told the gathering he had no immediate plans for the future except to further serve the fraternity. Looking back on the honors gathered in years of service to the Greenville lodge, he reminded that no one person could have done it alone and he had enjoyed the "help and cooperation of many people during those rewarding 18 years."

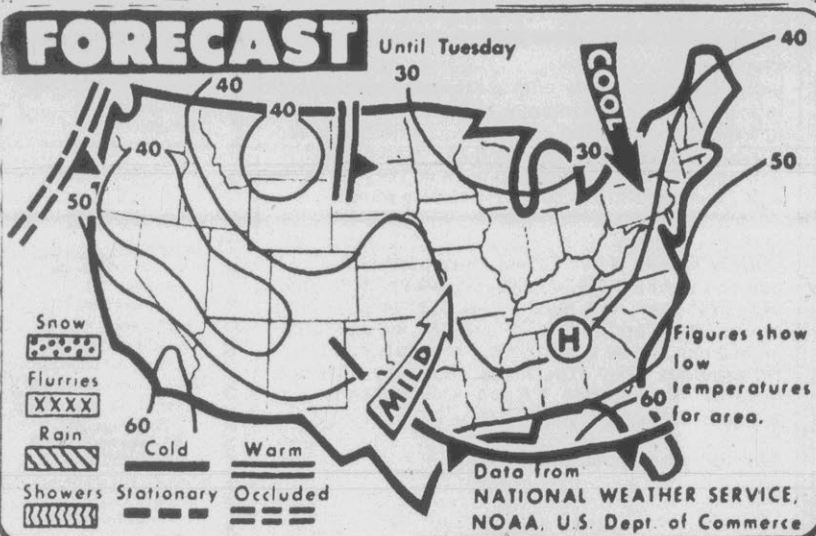

Eli Bloom, a member of the board for many years, recalled with pride his part in bringing Baldree to the Greenville lodge, and observed that few could appreciate the unselfish dedication and work the outgoing Secretary had contributed to the lodge. "He never shrunk from those burdens," Bloom said in his tribute.

Later, Arthur Sisk observed "ever since I've been a Moose, Greenville has been held up as the Number One lodge in the state and Secretary Baldree as the Number One Secretary in North Carolina. To find myself now here, as Secretary of Lodge 885, seems almost unreal. All I can promise is that I'll do my best."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Clear weather is forecast for the nation with cooler temperatures moving today into the northeast and milder temperatures in the south-central states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press Farmers' faces were as sunny as the skies in North Carolina today.

A $2 million rain, described as nearly perfect by Grady Miller, the Wake County extension agent, broke a month-long drought Saturday. It was heavy enough to wet the ground thoroughly but not heavy enough to wash away topsoil and fertilizer.

Highs were mostly in the 70s today. There were 60s in the mountains and a few low 80s in the southwest. They will be in the 60s to low 70s Tuesday.

A cool ridge of high pressure dominates North Carolina weather. It will bring clear and cooler weather Tuesday and Wednesday. The state was sandwiched Sunday between a departing frontal zone, which had brought the needed rain, and the approaching new high pressure.

A few showers and thunder-showers lingered along the coastal area Sunday as the front moved slowly through on its way out to sea. New Bern with one-third of an inch and Jacksonville with three-hundredths of an inch were the only reporting points to collect measurable rainfall.

Otherwise, skies were mostly sunny, with occasional partly cloudy conditions through mid-afternoon. Temperatures were well into the 70s and low 80s over the eastern half. The low and mid 70s were more common to the western counties. The range was from a 70 at Asheville to 82 at Jacksonville and Fayetteville.

A few widely scattered showers were detected by radar and satellite over the northern coastal plain and northern coastal area Sunday evening. Temperatures early this morning got down to the upper 30s and low 40s in the mountains.

Why grasses may be your first and foremost weed problem.

Roger Walker

Let's consider two basic types of weeds. Grasses and broadleaves. While they are both serious threats to yield, in many cases grasses pose the greater problem. In general, grasses have smaller seeds than broadleaves. That means they germinate in greater numbers from the top inch or half inch of the soil profile. This is the first area of the soil to warm up and receive adequate moisture in the early spring, so many grasses germinate at that time, which is the same time your crop emerges.

Also, this is the time that your crop seedlings are germinating, which means that the grasses are competing with your young crop for vital moisture and nutrients. You can wait until later in the season to cultivate, but by then grasses have made their effect on your yield.

But you can effectively control many of the tough grasses you have in either corn or soybeans. You can apply Lasso® preemergent herbicide by Monsanto. Among the many grasses it controls are foxtails, crabgrass, fall panicum, barnyard-grass, goosegrass, and brachiaria.

You can combine Lasso in several labeled tank-mixes which provide broad-spectrum control of many grasses and broadleaf weeds.

Lasso. The herbicide to start with. And stay with. By Monsanto.

Lasso is a registered trademark of Monsanto Company. Always read and follow the Lasso label directions.
