Some Critical Of Beirut Evacuation

By RICHARD BLYSTONE

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Weary but relieved, 267 Americans and other foreigners reached Athens today 45 hours after being pulled out of war-ravaged Lebanon by a U.S. Navy landing craft. Some criticized U.S. presidential politics as responsible for the evacuation.

The Navy amphibious ship Spiegel Grove docked at the U.S. Army terminal at Piraeus, the port of Athens, about 9:30 a.m. Friends, relatives and consular officials from several embassies greeted the 110 Americans and 157 persons from 25 other countries picked up from the Beirut beachfront on Sunday.

Diplomats said many of the evacuees would be flown to the United States and various European cities today. Others were to stay in Athens hotels until deciding where to go. "It'll be hard to stop thinking Middle East and start thinking Middle West," said college teacher Marilyn Raschka of Milwaukee, who had spent 10 years in Lebanon.

Tom Gorry of New York, a professor at American University in Beirut, noted that the departure was followed by another cease-fire, and said: "I believe this one is going to work, because 34 is my lucky number." That is how many cease-fires there have been in the 14-month civil war involving Palestinian and leftist guerrillas, right-wing Christians and a Syrian occupation force.

Drug Contract

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina has awarded a $22.8 million contract to a private firm to handle the drug portion of the state's Medicaid program.

A Texas-based computer company will handle all claims from doctors for drug expenses for their elderly or indigent patients. Its profit, if any, will be the remainder of the $22.8 million after all valid claims have been paid.

A similar $405 million contract on the medical and hospitalization portions of Medicaid has developed severe problems. The contractor is demanding more money.

The large Medicaid contract is with Health Applications Systems, Inc., a California firm. A related company, PAID Prescriptions, held the old drug contract.

The new drug contract is with Electronic Data Systems-Federal, which bid $1 million less than PAID Prescriptions.

State officials said the troubles with the HAS contract led to tight bidding procedures and contract provisions in the EDSF deal.

CANCER DRUG?

I saw a news item about laetрил, a substance used in some other countries in the treatment of cancer, which is banned in the United States. I have a beloved relative who has cancer and would like to know more about it. A.M.

Daniel Sitko, supervisory investigator in the Raleigh office of the federal Food and Drug Administration, says the FDA has a permanent injunction against the distribution of laetрил in the United States. The basis for the injunction, obtained as a result of court action against a California company which sought to distribute it, is that it has no proven therapeutic value. Laetрил is made from apricot kernels, he said, and is also sometimes called apric-kern and Vitamin B-17.

Those selling it usually charge exorbitant prices, he said. He's heard of it's costing as much as $600 a vial. Injectable and capsuled quantities of it are smuggled into the United States, mostly from Mexico, he added.

All this sounds gloomy, of course. Yet, because of your relative's great need, we suggest that you or he mention the drug to his doctor. He has the best resources to find about the possibilities involved.

State Revenue Rising

RALEIGH (AP) — Secretary of Revenue J. Howard Coble said today that May revenue figures indicate the state's financial crisis is over.

Coble said the May collections showed sales tax receipts "shooting through the roof." They were 19 percent over the figures for May, 1975.

He said that the shortfall in revenues for the 1975-76 fiscal year would be about $20 million, much less than he had feared six months ago. In a budget of $1.6 billion, the $20 million shortfall is not difficult to overcome.

Coble said the improvement in the state's economy was such that the 1976 session of the legislature now appeared unnecessary. That session was called to deal with the decline in state revenues caused by the recession.

He refused, however, to speculate on whether the recovery would continue through the 1976-77 fiscal year. "I temper my optimism with caution," he said.

Italian Elections Renew 'Crisis Of Uncertainty'

ROME (AP)—Italy's Christian Democrats beat back a Communist bid for power in national elections Sunday and Monday but failed to win the parliamentary majority needed to deal firmly with the nation's deep seated political and economic crises.

The Communists made strong gains, moreover, at the expense of smaller center parties whose support the Christian Democrats have needed to govern in the past.

The ruling Christian Democrats are faced with the same choices as before as they try to form their 35th government since World War II.

They can try to rebuild the center-left coalition with the Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans which collapsed in January. But the Socialists said during the election that was a dead issue. The Christian Democrats can also try to govern alone, but without a majority in the Chamber of Deputies there would be a constant scramble for votes.

Finally, they can agree to share power with the Communists, who have not been in a national government since 1947. The Christian Democrats have said they will not form a partnership with the Communists, despite the party's insistence that it is independent of Moscow. Moreover, Washington strongly opposes such a government in this NATO nation.

More than one out of three Italian voters cast a Communist ballot for the Democrats got 38.7 per cent, the same showing they made four years ago.

Despite the prospect of continuing political and economic instability, the stock market and the lira rallied because of the Communists' failure to displace the Christian Democrats as the dominant party.

Gains in early trading on the Milan stock exchange averaged 2.5 per cent while the lira rose from 854 to the dollar to close at 847. Realization of the uncertain future overcame the initial stock market enthusiasm and most blue chips closed below their Monday level.

Former President Giuseppe Saragat announced he would resign as secretary-general of the Social Democratic party after its election losses. Saragat said the Christian Democrats picked up some of his party's support because they succeeded in blaming the Lockheed payoff scandal in Italy on Social Democrat Mario Tanassi, a former defense minister.

Giovanni Mosca, deputy chief of the Socialist party, a Marxist group, also announced his resignation. He asked for "self-criticism" for the party's setbacks in both the Senate and the Chamber.

In foreign reaction, Spanish politicians of the right and left said they feared the election results would only draw out Italy's musical-chair government.

The official Soviet news agency Tass referred to the "great successes" of the Italian Communists.

At the Vatican, however, spokesman the Rev. Romeo Pancroli said the results confirmed the voters' "fundamental choice in favor of democracy and liberty."

Communist party secretary Enrico Berlinguer, surveying a sea of clenched fists and red flags below the balcony of his Rome headquarters, said the election result was "a great leap forward."

"We will have to deal with the Christian Democrats, and they will finally realize that they have to deal with us," he declared.

However, the Christian Democrats campaigned on a pledge to keep the Communists out of the government. And Berlinguer ruled out "a head-on clash," saying: "The Communist party is not in a hurry to go into the government. It was not before. It is not now, even if it has obtained a big result."

There was no immediate comment on the election outcome from the U.S. government, which repeatedly warned that admission of the Communists to the government would endanger relations between the Italian and American governments and Italy's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But the failure of the Communists to lead the voting undoubtedly was a relief for President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Final returns from the voting for the Chamber of Deputies gave the Christian Democrats 14.2 million votes, the Communists 12.6 million, the Socialists 3.5 million, the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) 2.2 million, the Democratic Socialists 1.2 million and the Republicans 1.1 million. Smaller parties and joint tickets divided the rest.

The Christian Democrats won 263 seats in the 630-seat chamber, a loss of three, and were 53 short of a majority. The Communists increased their standing from 179 seats to 227.

In the races for the Senate, the Christian Democrats got 12.2 million votes (38.9 per cent) and held on to the 135 seats they had. The Communists rolled up 10.6 million votes (33.8 per cent) and boosted their representation from 91 seats to 116. In 1972 the percentages were Christian Democrats 38.1 and Communists 27.6.

City Schools Bar Some Out-Of-District Pupils

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

By a vote of five in favor of, three against, members of the Greenville City School Board Monday night voted not to accept out-of-district students in the Greenville elementary schools during school year 1976-77. The decision applies only to students in grades one through six, which in school year 1975-76 numbered about 90 elementary students.

The out-of-district issue was not on the meeting agenda, but was placed there by a consensus vote of the board following a reminder from an individual attending the meeting that it was his understanding at the meeting a week ago the out-of-district topic would be considered at last night's meeting.

Member Ed Carter made a plea for not permitting out-of-district students for the coming school year prior to making a motion to that effect. "I am concerned about out-of-district students, in the terms of whether we're going to accept them or not," Carter said. Carter added it does not seem fair to leave the parents of these children in a state of indecision, that they needed time to make other plans.

Carter's motion is for school year 1976-77 only. He said he hopes after the coming school year the board will be in a position to once again give these students a choice of attending Greenville schools.

Carter emphasized that due to the current situation and the uncertainties of available space in the coming school year, he reluctantly could see no other choice at this time.

In response to questions from other members, Supt. Glenn Cox said barring out-of-district students would not affect capital outlay funds, but would result in the loss of three teachers "based on attendance figures." Also, Cox noted the decision would affect funds in various categories based on student per capita allocations.

In continuing efforts to reach a decision on renovation plans for the Third Street school and all other schools in the city's school system except Wahl-Coates, board members agreed after a lengthy discussion additional meetings will have to be held before valid decisions can be made.

Chairman Henry Dunn has called for a meeting Thursday or Friday this week, with a recommendation that the chief building inspector, the fire marshal, the architect for the city schools, the school attorney and others be asked to be in attendance. An announcement will be made of the date and place of the proposed meeting.

At last night's meeting, primary discussion centered around four reports. One is a complete inspection report on all schools except Third Street School. A second report is a "building discrepancy list" compiled jointly by Building Inspector Alton Warren and Robert Stewart, Director of Administrative Services for the city schools. The last two reports are two cost estimates, one submitted by Chapin Construction Company, the other by Home Builders Supply Company.

Based on the complete inspection report, estimates for repairs and renovations for seven schools (excluding Wahl-Coates and Third Street) amount to $1,034,170 by the Chapin Company; and $1,056,380 by Home Builders. These are unofficial estimates.

The building discrepancy list indicates an estimated cost of

to be contracted out, with other work to be performed by members of the city school's maintenance crew.

As part of information to be available for the proposed meeting later this week, Steward was directed to come up with an estimated figure for a cost of materials and additional labor costs that will be needed to supplement the efforts of the regular maintenance crew.

South Africa 'Fairly Quiet'

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police reported most black areas of South Africa calm today but said there were outbreaks of arson in the large Mamelodi township outside Pretoria. Sporadic gunfire was heard at Mamelodi and nearby Atteridgeville.

Police reported that a medical clinic and a shop were set afire by thugs. Police vehicles were seen entering and leaving the two black townships, but there was no explanation for the gunfire.

"The situation is fairly quiet," Police Minister James Kruger told Parliament today. "I would like to express the hope that no further disturbances will occur in the country."

Kruger said Monday night that the official death toll in the black uprising was 140 dead and 1,128 injured. Government and news reports indicated all but two of the dead and 10 of the injured were black.

"We cannot tolerate any extension of the unrest," Kruger said. "The police will have to act very firmly."

The racial upheaval that began last Wednesday around Johannesburg spread northeast Monday to black ghettos around Pretoria, the capital 30 miles away, and there was more violence in the Johannesburg area. But the government said heavily armed white and black police, aided by helicopters dropping tear gas, brought the rioters under control.

Nine persons were killed and five injured near Pretoria Monday.

Vote Strip Power Of Rep. Hays' Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders today approved stripping the House Administration Committee, whose former chairman got embroiled in the Capitol payroll-sex scandal, of its power over congressional allowances, including money for staff and travel.

The Democratic leaders also nominated Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey, the committee's second-ranking Democrat, to replace Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, as its chairman.

Stripping the committee of its authority over allowances and returning that authority to the full House was among recommendations by a task force of three Democrats headed by Rep. David Obey, D-Wis. The move was approved by the Democratic Steering and Policy Committee.

The task force, created by Speaker Carl Albert after the scandal broke, also recommended creating of a special commission to study all House funds and accounting and recommend further changes.

In the discussions, board members repeatedly stressed the necessity of having a clear cut division of which repairs are considered essential in order that the schools will be able to meet building standards for reopening in late August; and which discrepancies can be deferred to an later date.

Another significant factor entering the picture in making a final decision will be the funds allocated by county commissioners for this purpose.

In other matters, school board members accepted the resignation of ten teachers; approved maternity leave for three teachers; and granted a month's leave of absence for one teacher.

Mrs. Lucille Gorham requested and the board approved a resolution of appreciation for Stephen Koch, one of the teacher's resigning. Koch, a faculty member active in music and drama at Rose High, is resigning to take a position with a college.

Charles Ross and Mrs. Whitehurst, Directors of Elementary and Secondary Education, respectively, reported on a number of current projects including the ESEA Title IV-C Reading Project the Adapter Grant problem including the ESEA Title IV-C Reading Project; the Adapter Grant program; the Accumen Project; and the State Curriculum Guides.

Cox reported that the 76 page portfolio of final architectural drawings for the Middle School were in readiness and were being taken to Raleigh this week for review by the Division of School Planning of the State Department of Public Instruction and by other state agencies required to review school plans.

Dunn recognized two new school board members, Miles Frost and Bobby Pettis. Plaques of appreciation for two outgoing members, Dr. Badger Clark and Les Turnage, Jr., were read. These will be presented to the two at an early date. Neither was on hand last night to accept the plaques.

Also recognized were Mrs. Lena Borwn, former principal of South Greenville, who retired at the end of the past school year. Cox announced that Mrs. Robert (Beulah) Barlow, who has worked in the city schools with the retarded children

Low-Lying Water Vapor Found On Mars, Spurring Search For Life

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Evidence of low-lying water vapor on Mars in greater abundance than expected has encouraged scientists to look for life as the Viking 1 spacecraft begins a 10-day study of the planet.

In low areas of Mars it appears that water in the form of frost becomes water vapor during the warmest part of the day and freezes again at night, Dr. C. Barney Farmer said Monday. This information gathered by the Viking in recent days fits a new theory that the water might temporarily exist as a liquid during the transition from frost to vapor. It had generally been thought that water did not exist as a liquid on Mars.

Scientists on the Viking team that will search for Martian life by means of an automated Viking lander were intrigued by Farmer's report. If his theory is true, said one scientist, low-lying Chryse, the planned landing site, "could be one of the wettest places around." And the wetter the area, the greater the chance that some kind of life could exist there.

But by earth standards, it would scarcely be wet at all. Farmer said the water vapor mapping instrument aboard Viking has found some low areas in the planet's northern hemisphere where the abundance of water vapor was "many times" the average for the hemisphere's 10 to 12 precipitable microns.

The term refers to the amount of water that could be squeezed out of a given abundance of water vapor. In the above example, the water vapor present could be condensed into a layer around the entire planet only 10 to 12 microns thick. A micron is a tiny unit — one millionth of a meter — invisible to the naked eye.

Beginning today, Viking's water vapor mapper, heat detector and powerful television cameras were to be trained on the area where the lander is to touch down July 4.

On orders from Jet Propulsion Laboratory beamed through space, Viking was put into a new orbit Monday to prepare for the survey. A three-minute rocket burn fixed the probe into a circuit that will carry it over the landing site once a day.

Project officials for Viking, which was launched last Aug. 20, are to make a decision about the site by July 1.

Preliminary reports from the heat-detecting experiment Monday found surface temperatures ranging from 30 degrees below zero in the southern hemisphere to 187 below zero in the south polar region.

School Administrators Form Own Association

GREENSBORO (AP) — The North Carolina Association of School Administrators (NCASA) was formed Monday night as a separate organization from the teacher-dominated North Carolina Association of Educators.

Dues of $20 to join the new organization were paid by 259 administrators. Some said they intended to retain membership in the NCEA, but others were critical of the policies and leadership of that organization, and are expected to drop out.

Robert E. Lee, superintendent of Moore County schools, who said he has already dropped out after being a member 29 years. He was elected president of the NCASA. He has been one of its organizers.

Dr. Joseph N. Fries, associate superintendent of Cabarrus County schools, was named president-elect. He will take over after Lee's one-year term expires.

Mrs. Doris F. Lewis, principal of North Harnett County school, was elected vice president.

Dr. Mike McCormick, director of the Arizona School Administrators, Inc., was the main speaker for the organizational meeting, attended by more than 300 school administrators from throughout the state. He told the administrators they would probably find it unnecessary to remain in the NCEA, although he believes both groups can work together. "It would become rather expensive to pay dues to both organizations, and I don't believe teachers judge administrators on where they pay dues," he said.

McCormick criticized the National Education Association, parent of the NCEA, as "a big, well-organized, well-financed union, the same as the AFT," the American Federation of Teachers.

The constitution of the new NCASA was ratified Monday.

Sessions continued today with the election of a 24-member executive committee from the state's eight educational districts.

Too Soon To Tell About Natural Gas Shortage

RALEIGH (AP) — Modifying a recently-released Federal Power Commission report, a state utilities expert has said it is too soon to tell whether North Carolina will suffer a severe natural gas shortage this winter.

The FPC study released last week predicts that Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. of Texas would suffer a 44 per cent shortage of gas next winter. Transco is North Carolina's only supplier.

North Carolina could be harder hit than other states, the FPC report said, because of the state's mix of industrial and residential customers. With a relatively high percentage of industrial users, North Carolina is on the short end of federal allocation priorities, which favor residential users.

Raymond Nery of the State Utilities Commission said if Transco suffered a 44 per cent shortage, the curtailments in North Carolina would range from 55 per cent for Public Service Co. to 61 per cent for Piedmont Natural Gas to 69 per cent for North Carolina Natural Gas Co. Such a curtailment could shut down factories and throw thousands out of work.

If past experience is any guide, that is unlikely to happen. Last winter, the shortage was originally predicted as 50 per cent. It turned out to be 35 per cent.

A 35 per cent shortage cuts out mostly factories which have other sources of fuel. At some level between 40 and 50 per cent, a shortage would begin to affect users with no alternate supply.

Nery said the gas suppliers and distributors are working now to line up emergency fuel available on the unregulated intrastate market in the Gulf States, where gas is found.

Special federal rules enacted last year make it legal to buy emergency supplies of intrastate gas for use in other states, like North Carolina. The price is substantially higher, but it is available.

Summer predictions of gas availability are almost always low, Nery said. In addition, the distributing companies in North Carolina have been able to stockpile limited amounts of gas.

And the state's large industries are becoming increasingly self-reliant. Many have invested in storage facilities for alternate fuels like propane. Three companies—Cannon Mills, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Lithium Corp.—have made arrangements to purchase their own gas in the Gulf States, Nery said.

Draws Life In Burglary

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A Greenville, S.C., man has been sentenced to life imprisonment following his conviction of first-degree burglary, the theft of $100 from a home in Charlotte.

Willie Lee Smith, alias Freddie Lee Irick, also was given two five-year sentences by Superior Court Judge Ronald Barbee on a conviction of firing four shots at two Mecklenburg County policemen who arrested him in a stolen car shortly after the burglary on Jan. 7.

Superior Court Judge Ronald Barbee directed that one of the five-year sentences is to begin at the end of the life sentence, and the other is to run concurrently. Smith could be eligible for parole from the life sentence in about 20 years, but would have to serve an additional one-fourth of the second sentence.

A jury deliberated about five hours Saturday before returning the guilty verdict. It found Smith not guilty of a second first-degree burglary charge growing out of a theft at another home in Charlotte. A stolen-car charge was dropped.

Summer Began Warm And Wet

Temperatures were moderately warm in the Greenville area on the first day of summer. The high temperature was recorded Tuesday at 78 degrees and the low temperature was recorded at 70 degrees by the Greenville Utilities Department.

Scattered showers prevailed during the day in most parts of Pitt County and the rain level was measured at .47 of an inch at midnight Monday by the Greenville Utilities commission. The river level measured 4.6 feet Tuesday morning, according to the National Weather Service River Chart. The Tuesday 8 a.m. temperature was recorded at 72 degrees by the Utilities Commission.

Formal Recognition Of Soviet 'Annexations' Avoided By U.S.

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer
LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Thirty-six years after Joseph Stalin annexed the Baltic republics, the United States still takes pains not to do anything that could be construed as formal recognition of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia as parts of the Soviet Union.

Stalin carried out the annexations in 1940 as German troops poured into France and the Soviets began worrying about their own defense perimeters. Exile "governments" of Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian emigres now maintain diplomatic legations in Washington which have limited diplomatic status in the eyes of the U.S. State Department.

In practice, however, diplomats here say the United States clearly recognizes Soviet "control" over the republics. Officials of the American consulate in Leningrad make regular trips to the Baltic states in connection with American cultural events and to help American citizens in trouble with the local authorities.

The Roy Clark Country Music Festival was in Riga, Latvia, in January this year and New York's Joffrey Ballet visited Riga and Vilnius, Lithuania, in November and December 1974. Yet the American government does not go all the way in treating the three republics as parts of the Soviet Union.

The U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, Walter J. Stoessel Jr., has instructions from Washington not to visit any of the three states.

When other American officials go there, they may not meet with top officials of the republics' Soviet-controlled governments.

While private American cultural groups tour the three states without restrictions, American government exhibits do not go there.

These shows include U.S. Information Agency presentations, such as the "Technology in the American Home" exhibit that recently toured a series of Soviet cities.

"It would be very difficult.

You can imagine the problems it would cause," said one diplomat. He noted that official American government exhibitions are normally opened by the ambassador, plus a visiting American VIP who represents the President.

The presence of the ambassador or a presidential representative in one of the Baltic states could be construed as recognition and the opening of a show without the officials required by protocol would attract undesirable attention to the unusual diplomatic situation, diplomats say.

Officials who are close to the Baltic situation say the Soviet Union appears aware of the political facts of life that keep the United States from recognizing Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia as parts of the Soviet Union.

"They're very good about it and they don't cause problems. They don't try to set up situations up there that would trick the United States into some act of recognition," one diplomat said.

Concerned Over Births' Decline

By GERARD LOUGHNAN
MOSCOW (UPI) — Fatherless and one-child families are on the increase in the Soviet Union and the declining birthrate eventually may hurt this country's economy.

Family care expert Yuri Ryurikov believes the main reason for the decrease is the stress and tension a woman knows she will face if she goes out to work and tries to bring up a family too.

Shortages of housing and pre-school facilities, increasing divorce, poor wages and a desire for greater comfort are additional reasons.

Writing in the newspaper Sovetskaya Estonia, Ryurikov said demographers are forecasting that in the last 15 years of this century, the Soviet Union will have only an additional 5 million workers, only one-sixth the increase in the previous 15 years.

"Though part of this shortfall will be covered by machinery," he said, "it will have its effects on our economy."

"The way of life for women is being changed," Ryurikov said. In 1950 there were 19 million women workers in the Soviet Union, he said. By 1974 there were 51 million and 90 per cent of all women of the prime child-bearing age, 20 to 40, went out to work.

The result was a double working day for the majority of women and the tendency was to lighten the burden by having fewer children. Additionally, nurseries and kindergartens provide places for only one-third of all pre-school children in the Soviet Union.

"The price of a child becomes more expensive due to the increase of divorces, the number of persons who have children without getting married and the appearance of a new type of family — that which has no father," Ryurikov said.

He said the latter phenomenon came into being at the end of World War II when battlefield and other wartime losses produced a lopsided sex ratio of 20 million more women than men.

"Recently there has been an increase in the number of fatherless children from 700,000 to 800,000, which means every sixth to seventh family is brought up by mother only," the expert wrote.

Architectural Center Opened

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois was not around for the revolutionary birth of the nation, but it did give birth to a later, peaceful revolution — an architectural one.

It is this revolution that the state is officially celebrating as its Bicentennial observance.

As part of that celebration, the Illinois Arts Council and the Illinois Bicentennial Commission have opened an "ArchiCenter" in downtown Chicago, birthplace of the skyscraper.

The ArchiCenter, as well as other features of the celebration, explores the origins of Illinois architecture and, as an introductory pamphlet says, "how it changed the way the world looks."

The 5,000-square-foot center has exhibits of photographs, models, maps and parts of buildings illustrating the technology that made skyscrapers possible.

One exhibit, called "Defaced, Defamed and Disowned," illustrates the destruction of some of the city's most important architectural masterpieces by land redevelopers. Another shows how still other important buildings have been preserved by governmental and private action.

In addition, guided walking tours of the city's downtown architecture emanate from the center, as well as more extended bus tours.

What is regarded as the world's first skyscraper, the eight-story iron-frame Tome Insurance Building, was designed by Chicago architect William Le Baron Jenney and erected in 1884.

Since then such noted architects as Dankmar Adler, Louis Sullivan, Frank Lloyd Wright, John Hobson Richardson, Daniel Burnham and Ludwig Mies van der Rohe have contributed to the city's notable architectural variety.

In 1974, Chicago became the home of the world's tallest building, Sears Tower, which soars 1,454 feet. It was designed by Bruce Gaham and Fazlur Kahn of the firm Skidmore, Owings & Merrill.

Wright was a pioneer in the development of architecture that is compatible with the landscape, and created what is called the "Prairie School." Houses of this design emphasize horizontal lines and appear low and flat — appropriate to the sweeping prairie land for which they were created.

Mies, who died in 1969, was the author of the "less is more" concept in architecture, the hallmark of which is stark simplicity.

Numerous buildings designed or inspired by him stand in contrast to the twin towers of Marina City, two round buildings beside the Chicago River designed by Bertrand Goldberg and completed in 1964, which have become a Chicago landmark.

Architectural historian Carl Condit has written:

"In the chaos of architectural styles that prevails today, Chicago has reasserted its great building tradition in a body of work that may be traced directly back to the days when the city launched the modern movement in architectural and structural techniques."

Andy Devine Suffers Setback

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Character actor Andy Devine suffered a setback at a hospital where he was undergoing kidney dialysis and was listed in serious condition.

The man who portrayed "Jingles" on television's Wild Bill Hickock show entered Sonoma County Hospital last Wednesday after developing kidney problems. He had been vacationing at the nearby Bohemian Grove resort.

Dr. David J. Shapiro, Devine's physician, did not elaborate Monday on the condition of his patient, who has a history of leukemia and was hospitalized late last year for pneumonia.

Devine, 70, lives in Newport Beach, Calif., with his wife, Dorothy.

DALLAS (AP) — Many women probably can remember the doll houses their granddad made from an apple crate, and the hours spent rearranging the small furniture he whittled out of the wood scraps.

Their value was mostly sentimental and there was no great monetary loss when a little brother kicked one to shambles because somebody snatched to Mother that he was the one who ate the cake meant for the church social.

Well, no longer. The craft of making doll houses and miniature furniture has hit the big time, threatening to derail the model train buff and ground the model airplane enthusiast.

A furnished doll house could cost several thousand dollars and it's for the older kids, say, ages 30-75.

Manufacturers of such houses and matching furniture were well represented at the Southwestern Craft & Hobby Show here recently.

Some builders will sell the house, usually two or three stories, assembled or in kit form. But it has to be roofed with tiny shingles, bricked or covered with clapboard siding on the outside, wallpapered, and then furnished with real electric lights, flooring, rugs, pictures, furniture, a fireplace, or whatever the owner desires.

The really creative craftsman who wants to start from scratch, can buy a set of blueprints for $3.50, saving himself a lot of mistakes.

Joe Hermes of El Monte Calif., specializes in wallpaper, but not the run-of-the-mill variety. Hermes carefully researched wallpaper of the colonial period and has come up with exact patterns scaled down to fit the dollhouse. He also has rugs.

Hermes says the average person may build three dollhouses. The first is for his child or grandchild — rather simple in construction and not too expensive. The second one is a little better, refining the skills used to make the first one.

Then there's the third one, built with a lot of tender, loving care and meticulously detailed.

Any kid who touches No. 3 takes his life in his own hands. Most who take up the hobby build and furnish the houses for themselves. They are the collectors, the ones who could spend $8,000 to $10,000 furnishing unfinished and without furniture. This Victorian model has 10 rooms, three staircases, lighting fixtures that really light up, and wallpaper in each room.

A three-foot-square, 30-inch high house.

The architecture is mostly from the past — Victorian, colonial, Williamsburg traditional, or three-story Savannah townhouse, as nostalgia plays a large part in the current craze.

"Most of those build the house they grew up in — or wished they'd grown up in — as a child," said Hermes, who has a background in interior decoration and textile design.

John Thomas, president of XACTO, says miniature furniture is the third most popular collection item, behind stamps and coins. Thomas' firm has a line of period furniture from 1750 to 1850, carefully researched as to each minute detail, including the brass hinges and drawer handles.

Again, the pieces are precisely machined to scale from furniture of that period, Thomas said. Even the glue used to assemble the pieces has been tinted to match the wood.

Each piece may run from $5 to $10, which can get expensive when furnishing a six- or eightroom house.

Thomas said the miniature field is growing because it's family oriented, with the husband building the house and the woman interested in the interior decorating.

"Model railroads and airplanes are male oriented," Thomas pointed out.

Once the house is built, decorated, and furnished, the final touches are added. Such items as a bird cage, vacuum cleaner, carpet sweeper, telephone, coal bucket, bed linen, towels, and bars of soap are available.

Oh, and for the girl's room, there's a miniature doll house.

A couple of griddle cakes left over? Place them side by side on a sheet of regular-weight foil. Bring the two long ends of the foil together so edges meet and fold over a couple of times; fold up the ends a few times, too. Heat in a 400-degree toaster-oven (no need to pre-heat in this instance) for about 10 minutes. The cakes will be steaming hot, ready to enjoy with soft butter and syrup.

At Wit's End

My husband and I were reading a story in the paper the other day about a couple who were getting a divorce because he did not cut his toenails in private and she found it disgusting. "That's the trouble with people today," I observed. "They don't have a sense of humor. A lot of marriages could be saved with a sense of humor." "Which reminds me," said my husband. "A guy told me an amusing story today which is true. It seems his wife made a new casserole and when some of it was left over, they gave it to their cat."

MUSHROOM POTATOES

A good-flavor casserole made with a keep-in-the-cupboard package of scalloped potatoes.

5½-ounce package scalloped potatoes

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 medium onion, chopped (about ½ cup)

½ pound mushrooms, sliced

2 cups boiling water

½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

2-3rds cup milk

¼ cup diced canned pimiento

Pepper to taste

1½ cups grated cheddar cheese

Pour potato slices into an oblong glass 1½-quart baking dish (10 by 6 by 1¾ inches) or similar utensil; sprinkle with seasoning mix. In a 10-inch skillet over medium heat, cook the onion and mushrooms in the butter for several minutes; add to the baking dish. Pour the water and Worcestershire sauce into the skillet and swirl; add to baking dish with milk, pimiento and pepper. Mix well. Bake, uncovered, in a 325-degree oven until potatoes are tender — 1 hour and 15 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese; bake until cheese melts — about 5 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Layer a lettuce-lined salad bowl with sliced tomatoes, cucumber and sweet onion, drizzling each layer with French dressing. Chill until serving time.

"That's not the story," he said irritably. "A few hours after the cat ate the leftovers, he started to roll around the floor like he was dying, so the people figured they'd been poisoned too and the entire family went to the hospital to have their stomachs pumped."

"That's great," I smiled. "I love stories with happy endings. I always say stories don't have to be dirty to be funny."

"That's not the end," he explained patiently. "The zinger is when they all come home, the cat had given birth to kittens."

"How many?" I asked. "You don't understand. That's the joke."

"What joke? Did the cat have kittens or did she not have kittens?"

"The point is she was never poisoned in the first place."

"Who said she was?" "Everyone assumed that."

"Then that's their problem."

"That's the kind of remark I'd expect from a macho who had an anesthetic to have his teeth cleaned."

"Don't you find it amusing that they would go to all that trouble to have their stomachs pumped and the cat wasn't sick at all?"

"Let me get this straight. Are you saying the entire family is going to have kittens? That doesn't make any sense. Where did you hear that Joke?"

"Just some guy in the club dressing room who was cutting his toenails."

Dear Abby

Abby Would Go To Sister, Ann For Advice

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our 29-year-old daughter has been living out of town with her boyfriend for six years.

He refuses to support her, so she comes to town when she runs out of money. Then she works until she gets enough money to go back to him. She is highly educated and employable, and makes good money in her field.

What is really bothering us is that she never turns up unless she wants something. Either it's, "May I run my laundry, wash my hair, borrow your truck, fix something to eat, watch your TV, use your phone, etc., etc."

What would you say to this girl if she were yours? We are tired of being used.

GRRRRRR

DEAR GRRRR: If she were mine, I'd probably also be "tired of being used," but too chicken-hearted to tell HER, so I'd write a letter to Ann Landers and ask her what SHE'D do.

DEAR ABBY: You told the lady who wanted to meet the bachelor next door who owned a "singing" Boston terrier: "Invite him over for a T-bone steak dinner and tell him you'll save the bone for his dog."

Abby, you should be aware that small bones (particularly cooked fowl, steak or chop bones) can kill a dog! Such bones splinter, and can puncture the digestive tract anywhere from the animal's throat to his intestines; a puncture of the stomach or intestines can cause rapid onset of peritonitis (infection in the abdominal cavity) followed by an extremely painful death. A puncture above the stomach could damage the heart, lungs or aorta, often fatally.

If the man next door loves his dog, he should not feed it bones.

DOG LOVER

DEAR DOG LOVER: I'm glad you picked that bone with ME. Thanks for reminding me of something I once learned and had forgotten. Readers, are you listening?

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the mother who didn't think her 6-year-old son was old enough to be told about his real father. Well, please tell her not to wait until her son is 18 and laying flat on his back in a hospital. That's what happened to my Eddy.

When he was an infant, his father ran off and left us. Two years later I married a wonderful man who adopted Eddy, and I changed his name to ours.

All this time I never heard from my first husband. Well, when Eddy was 18 he had a car accident and was confined to the hospital with back and head injuries. Out of the blue, his real father came to the hospital one night, claiming to be a minister and told him that he was his real father. It almost put the kid in shock.

I ended up telling him the truth, but it was one of the hardest things I ever had to do. Incidentally, his real father came to the hospital to see him again. But Eddy said, "Where were you when my mother and I needed you? I have a wonderful father now, and I don't need YOU, so please leave."

Abby, please tell parents not to hold back the truth, as I did. It would have been better had I told my son when he was a small boy and let him grow up with the idea.

Candidates To Speak

GREENVILLE — Three local women candidates for elective office will speak at a Women Candidates Forum Thursday, June 24, at 8 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan Building on the 264 By-Pass.

Appearing at the forum will be Irma Worthington, candidate for the N. C. House of Representatives; Rosalind Britt, candidate for Pitt County Commissioner; and Anne Creech, candidate for Pitt County Commissioner; and Anne Creech, candidate for the Pitt County School Board.

The forum is sponsored by the Eastern Carolina chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) and is free and open to the public. Each candidate will answer questions from persons attending the forum, and briefly present her goals and priorities as a potential office-holder.

All interested citizens are invited to attend the forum. Light refreshments will be served.

Early Market For Early Crop

Eastern Belt tobacco markets will be opening for sales July 20, according to the schedule set by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Advisory Commission last week.

Growers and warehousemen asked for early opening dates because the tobacco crops are expected to be harvested early.

Florida-Georgia Belt will open July 8, according to the schedule and the Border Belt will open July 13.

Quality of tobacco in this area is reported to be good. John Cyrus of the N. C. Department of Agriculture said that most of the North Carolina tobacco would be ready for sale some two to three weeks earlier than last year. He also expects as much tobacco to be sold in North Carolina as last year.

At this point it appears that the Eastern North Carolina tobacco situation is good. Area tobacco farmers, aided by good weather conditions, have produced a crop which should be acceptable to the world tobacco market.

Now we can anticipate the market openings and the possibility of good prices for the tobacco crops.

Less Responsibility But More Pay

Four of the state's former lieutenant governors all agree that it was a mistake to strip away the lieutenant governor's appointive powers.

Pat Taylor, Robert Scott, A. H. Graham and Luther Barnhart all believed the action was the wrong thing to do.

We agree. Only recently has the lieutenant governor's position become a full paid one. Now instead of giving the lieutenant governor more responsibility we end up giving him less.

THIS AFTERNOON

Growth Policies Shape Up

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — What kind of economic and industrial growth, how much of it, and where? Critical questions for North Carolina's future. State officials are promising some answers soon.

After a couple of years of debate in state government, a model is beginning to emerge which pretty well outlines where we go from here.

George W. Little, recently installed as secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, has obviously picked up the ball from former secretary, James E. Harrington.

Harrington was the brains and force behind early stages of the development of an economic development strategy for the state. Nearly two years ago, a committee of state officials and research people at Research Triangle Institute produced the first phase of that strategy.

Work Delayed
Phase two was seen as developing shortly, but did not. It got bogged down in inter-office debates and bickering between state planners in the Department of Administration, and Harrington's people.

In simplest terms, the two opposing positions came down to this:

—Harrington believed in joint state-local action to identify resources and needs and go out and find prospects.

—Others believed only "coercive" state action (taxation, roadbuilding, land use mechanisms) could shape development.

Further complicating the picture was a study by a University of North Carolina researcher—commissioned by the Department of Administration for possible use in Phase Two—Which suggested deliberate state action to further unionism in North Carolina; obviously a course not likely to be followed.

In the final analysis, Gov.

James E. Hoshouser—after months of internal policy debate—decided to sit on the Economic Development Strategy.

Natural and Economic Resources set up pilot projects to test the strategies devised by the Phase One report.

Little Approach

In a recent talk to the Rotary Club in Hoshouser's hometown of Boone, Secretary Little effectively endorsed continuation of the approach in the Phase One economic growth study ramrodded by Harrington.

To raise per capita income, Little said, the state must recruit higher paying industry at a faster pace. "The answers are right here in this industrial development strategy that has been devised and is rapidly becoming the Bible of economic development in state government," Little said.

Given a definition of high-pay industry (target industries include glass, machinery, stone and clay goods, electronics, rubber, and plastics) officials have set goals for such to be recruited by 1990 to obtain the goal of per capita income in this state 10 per cent above the Southeastern average by 1990.

Little said passage of the industrial revenue bond package works toward meeting that goal.

Next, he said pilot programs in eight localities are "aimed at helping them better organize their local economic development efforts. We believe the concepts that evolve in this program can be used by almost every community in this state."

Little promised that within 60 days, North Carolina will begin to "radically change" industry recruiting methods.

Not content to wait on prospects to raise questions, Little said state "salesmen" (Continued on page 5)

Up The Do-Nothing Party

SCRABBLE, Va. — If the Republican Party truly is headed for the elephants' graveyard, and the pollsters and pundits believe, a new major party will have to be fashioned to put in its place. After an hour's industrious snoozing in the hammock, I am prepared to name the successor.

It will be known as the Do Nothing Party. Its symbol will be the rocking chair. Its motto will be taken from the creed of that famous architect who taught his pupils: Less is More. Our spokesmen will rarely speak; they will merely significantly yawn.

Plainly the time has arrived for the Do Nothing Party to emerge. While we Nothingers have been napping, or nipping, or out on the greensward pursuing the pitting art, the activists have been running the country. Where have the activists run it? Into the ruddy ground. Listen to Messrs. Reagan, Carter and Ford. Things have seldom been worse.

For too long the nation's statesmen have heeded the exhortations of those who cry, "Don't just sit there! Do something!" The first principle of our party will be: Just sit there. This was what John Randolph once described as the cardinal rule of statecraft — never needlessly to disturb a thing at rest.

Well, you may ask, how would this principle be applied to contemporary problems?

Let us take the economy. More to the point, let us not "take" the economy. Let us leave the poor old economy alone. If we leave it alone, it likely will get well. The alternative is to put the suffering patient in the hands of such eminent quacks as Dr. H. Humphrey, the painless surgeon, who will prescribe every pill in the book.

The Do Nothing Party would propose to leave labor alone, and business alone, and consumers alone. A few mild laws as to pollution, safety and fraud would suffice. Our party would get off the people's back.

One happy result of this fortuitous policy would be that the Do Nothing Party would dissolve the bureaucracy. The bureaucracy would have nothing to do. The people would be told to attend to their own health, their own nutrition, their own education in their own communities. Farmers would have no subsidies. Industries could claim no tax bonanzas. Nobody would ever fill out a form again.

So much for domestic policy. What of foreign affairs? An example of our party's superior wisdom could be found in the matter of China. Among Washington liberals, the cry is "normalization!" The idea is to exchange ambassadors, to open embassies, and to abandon Taiwan.

Our party would pursue (if so active a verb may be employed) the opposite course. Why normalize? Not one single benefit can be perceived. The Chinese are now represented in Washington; we are represented in Peking. If something of interest comes up, our guy can call their guy on the phone. If the number is busy, he could try again in ten years.

There is much to be said for a simple, sturdy incompetence. There is much to be commended in the unhassled passing of time. Somewhere, quite recently, I read a splendid fable. Next week, or the week after, I will try to remember to look it up. The story had to do with a philosopher who, once upon a

Broiler Output Soars

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broiler chicken production appears to be headed for a record output in 1976 after declining for three years, according to the Agriculture Department.

The nation's hens also are boosting egg output significantly, ending a decline which began in 1972, USDA analysts say.

Major reasons are that broiler and egg production costs have stabilized, partly as a result of big grain crops last year and an increase in consumer demand for poultry products.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday that hatcheries produced a record of 319.5 million baby chicks in May, which will grow into broilers for the consumer market this summer. That was a 12 per cent increase from May of last year.

In all, department analysts said 1976 broiler output may be up about 10 per cent from last year's 2.93 billion birds. Production had declined annually since a record 3.07 billion broilers were turned out in 1972.

Egg output may rise 1 to 2 per cent this year from fewer than 64.4 billion eggs in 1975 (Continued on page 5)

The GALLUP POLL

It's Uphill Against Carter

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—Regardless of which man the Republican party nominates this year—President Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan—the eventual candidate faces a steep uphill struggle against his apparent opposition, Jimmy Carter.

In the latest Gallup Poll, conducted the weekend after the final set of primaries on June 8, the former Georgia governor leads Ford 53-39 per cent and Reagan 58-35 per cent—margins which, if either held up until election day, would amount to a reversal for the GOP of President Richard Nixon's landslide win in 1972.

Although it is still nearly five months until the election, the current figures augur well, historically, for a Carter victory. In each of the last nine presidential election campaigns, dating back to 1940, with only one exception (Truman in 1948), the candidate who has led in the last Gallup Poll "trial heat" before the conventions was elected. And the current Carter lead over both Republicans closely matches the margin by which Nixon led Sen. George McGovern at a comparable time in 1972.

Republicans For Carter

One of the problems that both Republicans continue to suffer from is the high defection rate of party members to the Carter side, a particularly important factor because Democrats in the electorate outnumber Republicans 2-to-1. In the latest survey, about one Republican in four says he would cross party lines to vote for Carter—a defection rate that exceeds even that found in 1964 when Sen. Barry Goldwater lost 20 per cent of all GOP voters to President Lyndon Johnson.

Here are the current figures by party affiliation:

	Carter vs. Ford
	Carter	Ford	Undecided
NATIONAL	53	39	8
Republicans	25	69	6
Democrats	71	22	7
Independents	48	40	12

	Carter vs. Reagan
	Carter	Reagan	Undecided
NATIONAL	58	35	7
Republicans	28	66	6
Democrats	77	17	6

Another key to Carter's present lead is his strength in the South—the GOP's strongest region in the 1972 election. Against both Republicans, he wins by about a 2-to-1 margin, taking in excess of 60 per cent of the vote in his home region. Although Carter also leads both Republicans outside the South, the races are much closer.

Here's how the vote breaks down:

	Carter vs. Ford
	Carter	Ford	Undecided
South	61	32	7
Outside South	50	41	9

	Carter vs. Reagan
	Carter	Reagan	Undecided
South	65	30	5
Outside South	56	36	8

Maintains Lead
Carter's current margin over the President represents about the same lead he held in late May. In early March when the Gallup Poll initially matched the two men in a test election, Carter held only a 5-point, 47-42 per cent lead. Ford subsequently pulled even and then went ahead in late March. But by the second week in April, Carter went back into the lead and has since built his margin over Ford from six percentage points to the current lead of 14 points.

Here are the questions asked: "Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If President Gerald Ford were the Republican candidate and Jimmy Carter were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?" (The same question was asked posing Reagan as the Republican candidate.)

Here are the latest results on the Carter-Ford trial heat, based on registered voters, and the trend:

	Carter vs. Ford
	Carter	Ford	Undecided
June 11-14	53	39	8
May 21-23	52	39	8
May 21-23	52	40	8
April 30-May 3	52	43	8
April 9-12	49	43	8
March 26-29	45	48	7
March 19-21	47	46	7
March 10-13	47	42	11

Following are the results of the Carter-Reagan match-up:

	Carter vs. Reagan
	Carter	Reagan	Undecided
June 11-14	58	35	7
May 21-23	55	37	8

The results reported today are based on personal interviews with 1,002 registered voters out of a total sample of 1,386 adults, 18 and older, taken in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period June 11-14.

Strength For Today

RELATIVITY OF SIZE
People are easily misled by size. We are inclined to believe that a big city means a prosperous city, a big nation a prosperous nation, and a big bank account a happy life. Some people are prone to believe that big political units means better government, that big industrial combinations mean huge profits.

The philosopher William James once said, "I am done with great things and big things, great organizations and big successes. And I am for those tiny, invisible, molecular moral forces which work from individual to individual creeping through the crannies of the world. If you give them time, they will rend the hardest monuments of man's pride."

God has wrought His greatest work through insignificant individuals standing valiantly for what is right. We can surely believe that God smiles disdainfully at the pretensions of bigness.

Wall St. Lives In The Future

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street forever lives in the future, in much the same way as the dedicated horse player, because that is where possibility, chance, blind luck, hope, dame fortune and relatives reside.

There is little profit in looking back, which probably explains why the same errors are made over and over, and why myths persist year after year. Such as the sustained summer rally.

If you were to have questioned brokers last Thursday, when the Dow Jones industrial average pushed above 1000 points, the chances are that almost to a man they would have made reference to this alleged phenomenon.

Among other things, the prospect of a summer rally often brings excitement to a long, hot summer, when many investors are more concerned with having a good time right here and now in the present.

Nothing is better designed to shock an investor out of this lethargy than the fear that in relaxing at the beach he is cheating himself out of a stock market fortune. The summer is for investing, not for loafing!

That at least is the way a commission-hungry broker, without benefit of research, is inclined to view the summer. But is he right? Is there some particular magic at work in the summertime? It wouldn't seem so.

True, as at other times of the year, there are short bursts of activity and prices that might add a few percentage points to the averages, but there is a real question of whether these flurries qualify as "summer" rallies.

They occur during the hot-weather months, to be sure, but similar activity can be witnessed in the wintertime too. Summer is a rather extended period; it isn't at all odd that sometime during the summer prices might rise.

The term "summer rally" however suggests something more extended than a week or so. Yale Hirsch, publisher of "The Stock Trader's Almanac," maintains that a review of statistics shows that "a clearly identifiable summer rally simply does not occur with any reasonable consistency."

But don't get discouraged. There is, he states, a statistical suggestion that one of those small surges could be just around the corner, perhaps even this week. A

40 Years Ago Today

Democratic platform builders faced this question today: Should the party promise the farmer a system of insurance against disasters like floods and draughts?

Authoritative sources said Secretary Wallace wanted crop insurance as a new form of federal aid to agriculture and that he also desired endorsement of the principle of crop control.

The local offices of the State Highway Patrol were broken into early Sunday morning and Lt. Lester Jones, head of the Eastern division, expressed the opinion today that persons seeking firearms were the guilty parties.

Agenda Of 9 Items For Suit Undeterred By High Court Planning Commissions

Nine items of business are scheduled for consideration Wednesday night by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions.

The joint board will consider six of the items, including: discussion of utility service in the extraterritorial area; rezoning request of Taft, Blount and Rivers for 224 acres northwest of Greenfield Terrace from Unoffensive Industry to R-6 (residential), R-9 and Highway Commercial;

Rezoning request of Phil Carroll for some 47.1 acres on the west side of NC 11 and US 13, north of Belvoir Highway, from Unoffensive Industry and R-9 to R-6 and Highway Commercial; Annexation of Elizabeth Heights Subdivision containing approximately 3.6 acres on Tar Road across from Pinewood Forest Subdivision; annexation of 20.54 acres located adjacent to Club Pines Subdivision; and the preliminary plat of Tucker Industrial Park located in front of Pitt Technical Institute.

Greenville planning board business includes: preliminary plat of Pitt Medical Associates Inc., located on Fifth Street and

NC 43 just west of the old Elks Lodge and just east of the present hospital;

Rezoning request of SOBALCO Inc. for some 7.03 acres located adjacent to University Condominiums on Golden Road from RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to R-6; and Request of Joseph E. Thomas, and others, for rezoning approximately 15 acres on the corner of Stantonsburg Road and Memorial Drive from Medical Arts to Shopping Center.

The planning session will begin at 8 p.m. at city hall.

RALEIGH (AP) — A North Carolinian who is suing the state for improperly making grants to church-related colleges will continue to press his suit, even though the Supreme Court upheld Monday the constitutionality of state aid to private colleges and universities. Former Pfeiffer College professor Dr. Michael Smith filed suit against the state April 16, alleging that state money is used for sectarian purposes at two private colleges. Pfeiffer and Belmont Abbey.

Smith, of Mt. Gilead, N.C., believes that violates the First Amendment of the Constitution, which says that no law shall be made which in any way advances religion.

Smith said he will continue to press his case because he thinks the case heard by the court Monday is substantially different from his. In the Supreme Court's 5-4 decision, a Maryland program allocating state money to private colleges and universities was upheld. As long as the funds do not go to institutions which primarily award theological degrees and are not used for sectarian purposes, they are legal, the court said.

But that's what is happening in North Carolina, Smith alleges. He said he thinks he can show that public funds are being used to aid colleges "who have a primary religious mission."

Because the Monday ruling spoke only to the constitutionality of state funding, it did not hurt his case, Smith said. The court has not yet ruled on specific institutional violations.

It is those violations Smith is opposing, he said he favors aid to private schools as long it is not used for religious purposes.

"I believe in the First Amendment, in the founding principles of this country," Smith concluded. "And I think we're getting away from them."

In his dissenting vote on the Maryland case, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said that the law offends the constitution by exposing state money to religious use, no matter how much care is taken to avoid it.

Cameron Smith, North Carolina Association of Private Colleges and Universities director, would take exception with both Smith and Brennan. Private schools don't misuse state funds, he said, because of strict legal safeguards.

West said he was pleased with the court's Monday ruling. "The 38 private colleges and universities in the state will be greatly heartened by this ruling," he said, although the decision won't change the way they are funded.

Senators Hope Ratification Of Treaty Will Spur Madrid

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate hopes its ratification of a military bases treaty with Spain will spur the creation of democratic institutions in the Mediterranean monarchy. A year-to-year funding clause in the treaty will allow Congress to monitor Spain's progress.

The Senate voted 84 to 11 Monday to ratify the five-year treaty which gives the new regime a $1.2-billion package of loans and grants.

An accompanying resolution urged the new government of King Juan Carlos to move Spain away from the Fascist dictatorship it has known for more than three decades under the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

"Franco's demise has opened real possibilities for progressive change," Sen. Richard Clark, D-Iowa, said Monday. He noted that some in the Senate fought early ratification of the treaty pending evidence that a rebirth of democratic institutions had been achieved in Spain.

The U.S. decision to maintain bases in Spain while the Franco dictatorship was still strong "has for years been a source of dismay to Americans concerned to see that the United States does not align itself with tyrants in the name of defending freedom," Clark said.

"If it is true that we erred in the past by concerning ourselves too little with the suppressing of Spanish liberty, it is equally true that we cannot compensate now in a single stroke by demanding democratic revolution in Spain overnight.

"If by approving this agreement we choose to continue as Spain's tentative but cooperative partner, I believe the United States will have the opportunity to serve as an energetic and enthusiastic advocate of Spanish democracy."

In its ratification resolution, the Senate spelled out its intention to subject the monies called for by the treaty to the annual congressional appropriation process.

"Not only does this meet our constitutional responsibilities but it will give us a chance to review, on an annual basis, developments taking place within Spain," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

"I for one will give my strong support to each year's appropriation so long as Spain continues its evolution to democratic life."

Zoning Referendum Is Backed By High Court

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's ruling that a community can require a citizen's referendum on all proposed zoning changes could be a severe setback to land use planning, according to spokesmen for real estate developers and the construction industry.

In a 6-to-3 decision Monday, the court upheld an Eastlake, Ohio, ordinance assuring community control over residential growth by requiring a 55 percent majority at the polls before any change in the permitted use of a piece of land could go into effect.

Developers said the added step of clearing a public referendum to win a zoning change violated a property holder's right to due process of law. The court disagreed.

"A referendum cannot ... be characterized as a delegation of power," Chief Justice Warren Burger said for the court. "Under our constitutional assumptions, all power derives from the people, who can delegate it to representative instruments which they create."

Duane Searles, associate counsel of the National Association of Home Builders, predicted that in the approximately 20 states in which voters have the power of referendum "we may see many communities requiring that rezoning be submitted to a referendum vote."

"The decision has the potential of destroying the land use planning and comprehensive zoning process," he said.

In other actions, the court:

—Voted 5 to 4 to uphold a Maryland law making annual grants of state money to private colleges, including those with church connections, to be spent for nonsectarian purposes.

The court indicated that the "impressionable age" of younger children increased the dangers of religious indoctrination at precollege educational levels.

—Agreed to review a federal court decision striking down a New Hampshire law under which an auto owner was jailed for putting tape over the state motto, "Live Free or Die," on his license plates.

Added 'Citizen Input' Advised

The complexity of government at all levels is such that it requires closer attention and more active participation on the part of the average citizen to provide input and the "local touch" necessary for government to be responsive, the Greenville Lions Club was told Monday night.

The speaker was Col. C. R. Blake, assistant to the chancellor of East Carolina University. "Too often, in too many cases, there is actually less participation by average citizens today because big government is so complex," Blake said. This is true even though there is vastly more information available on which to base decisions and take action, he added. Without input from the man-on-the-street and the "local touch," Blake said, many governmental decisions "are made by computer." He deplored a trend to government which "relies on automation" simply because of the complexity of the system and its problems.

Speaking to the Lions Club meeting at the Greenville Moose Lodge, Blake described his experiences in Washington during the period from 1969 to early 1975 as chief of policy analysis for the Secretary of the Air Force, dealing principally with congressional matters. In such a post, he said he was acutely aware of the "immense complexity" of big government and the difficulty involved in working on such a scale.

"It is not surprising that the average citizen is inclined to give up on understanding and trying to do something about these problems which face us—problems that affect all of us," he said. He said such fear of complex government must be overcome and the "local touch" restored.

Many of the same problems of complexity are occurring in government on the state and local level, he said.

Public Hearing On Watershed

A public hearing on the Swift Creek Watershed Project will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 23, at the Timothy Church Community Building at Greenville.

The meeting will be held by the five sponsors of the Public Law 566 project, the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District, the Beaufort Soil and Water Conservation District, the Lower Neuse Soil and Water Conservation District, the Pitt County Drainage District No. 3 and the Pitt County Commissioners.

The Swift Creek project, which would be located in Pitt, Beaufort and Craven Counties, would develop soil and water conservation plans on 75 percent of the farms in the 113,312 acre watershed, and adequately treat half of the open land. It will provide flood protection and install fish and wildlife mitigation measures, while providing drainage for agricultural land.

The meeting is designed to gather information, identify local issues, environmental matters and concerns, and to identify any problem areas.

"We want to give all interested parties a chance to be heard, fully and publicly, on their opinion of the environmental effects of the planned project," Alton Gardner explained. "However, to keep the record accurate and factual, all statements—including those spoken—should be provided in writing with authors name and organization or group represented."

Anyone interested in seeing the watershed work plan can do so during regular working hours at the Federal Building, 225 Evans St. Greenville.

Milking Course In Curriculum

RALEIGH (AP) — Because so many city slickers have enrolled in university dairy science programs, the schools have been forced to add milking courses to their curriculums.

At the American Dairy Science Association's 71st annual meeting in Raleigh Monday, Dr. L.G. Niedemeier of the University of Wisconsin said that urban students now outnumber farm students in dairy science programs—and that number is increasing about five per cent annually.

"When many of these students come to us they don't know what a heifer is. They think only bulls have horns, and they are surprised to learn that a cow must have a calf before she gives milk," Dr. Jack Britt of Wisconsin said.

The three-day meeting was attended by 950 dairy science educators and 650 students.

but will fall short of the record 70.1 billion in 1971. Egg production declined the following four years.

The nation's laying flock is estimated at 269.6 million hens as of June 1, down 1 per cent from the same date a year earlier. Their rate of lay averaged 65.1 eggs per 100 hens on June 1, a record for the date, officials said. The rate of lay was also record high on May 1 and April 1.

With the recent annual declines in production, per capita consumption of broiler chicken has slipped from a record peak of 38.4 pounds on a ready-to-cook basis in 1972 to 36.9 pounds in 1975.

However, per capita broiler consumption 25 years ago was about 8.7 pounds, meaning that even with last year's decline, Americans are eating about four times as much chicken as they did a quarter century ago.

Egg consumption, however, has declined steadily for the past five or six years to an average of 278 last year, the lowest since the USDA began keeping records on egg use in 1909.

Safety And Health Help Is Available

State Labor Commissioner T. Avery Nye Jr. reminded all employers in the state that they may receive free, expert help with occupational safety and health problems.

Nye said that such service is provided through the Occupation Safety and Health Act Division of the N. C. Department of Labor by the consultative services section.

The commissioner, emphasizing that the advice is provided without the risk of citations of fines, pointed out that there is no communication between the enforcement section and the consultative section, and the recommendations made to the employer are not recorded to further safeguard the privacy of the consultant's visit.

He added that the consultant's visit does not constitute or initiate a compliance inspection.

Nye said that if a firm desires to have its safety policies analyzed or surveys made to determine whether or not it is in compliance with OSHA regulations, or desires specific research for conditions believed to be hazardous, it should contact L. A. Weaver, director of the OSHA Consultative Services Section, N. C. Department of Labor, P. O. Box 27407, Raleigh, or call 829-4880.

MOVIE FUND

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — The government has just issued a decree forcing all movie theaters across the country to exhibit Colombian films at least two weeks of the year. To stimulate local movie production, the government created a production fund to finance movies made by companies at least 80 per cent Colombian in capital and personnel.

YOUR PHONE CAN REACH OVER 150,000,000 OTHER PHONES. AND VICE-VERSA.

One way to measure the value of your telephone is to add up the number of other telephones it can reach. In this country alone, your phone can reach over one hundred and fifty million other phones. And they can all reach yours. Instantly and at an incredibly low cost. And when you realize that the cost of living in this country has gone up twice as much as the cost of your telephone service in the past 5 years, it's obvious that even with the new small rate increase, your phone remains one of your best values. Any way you measure it, today's telephone service stacks up as a real bargain.

Rules Death By Drowning

Mrs. Ledonia Smith Wright, an East Carolina University nursing professor whose body was found in the Tar River Saturday, died by drowning, according to the chief state medical examiner's office.

Dr. Everett E. Jenkins Jr. who performed the autopsy on Mrs. Wright's body, said she had not been beaten or stabbed and that no injury or natural illness was present that would have caused her to fall into the river.

Mrs. Wright, one of the first black professors at ECU, had been missing for six days, before her body was found floating in the river by two fishermen. She was last seen walking from her Stratford Arms apartment.

Chief Glenn Cannon said local police "have nothing to indicate anything other than accidental death," but said investigation is continuing in an effort to determine if she drowned by accident, homicide or suicide.

Consumer Prices Jumped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest increase in food costs in 10 months helped push consumer prices up six-tenths of a per cent during May, the biggest monthly jump since last November, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the May figures mean that inflation now is running at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent. The May performance compared with a consumer price increase of four-tenths of a per cent in April.

The 7.2 per cent inflation rate is higher than the 6 per cent rate which administration economists consider to be the underlying inflation rate in the economy. But the effect was to compensate for lower than normal increases in earlier months.

Despite the faster pace of inflation, however, workers managed to improve the amount of their disposal incomes. The Labor Department said real spendable earnings climbed by 1.2 per cent in May after decreasing for two consecutive months. Spendable earnings for May stood seven-tenths of a per cent ahead of a year ago.

Consumer prices in May were 6.2 per cent more than a year ago.

Over-all food prices were up one per cent in May, the sharp advance since the 1.8 per cent increase last July. Food price declines in the first three months of this year had been responsible for holding over-all consumer prices below an annual increase of three per cent.

For the month, the consumer price index stood at 169.2. That means that a sampling of goods which cost $100 in 1967 cost $169.20 last month.

Beef prices, which had declined for four consecutive months, shot up 5.2 per cent in May. Prices of pork and poultry nearly tripled the rate of their April increases.

Cereal and bakery prices rose seven-tenths of a per cent, the first increase in four months.

Coffee prices moved up 4.8 per cent to 35 per cent above where they were a year ago.

The increases overcame declines in prices for both fresh and processed fruits and vegetables.

But food wasn't the only area where inflation picked up. While the cost of services increased by the same four-tenths of a per cent logged in April, commodities other than food went up six-tenths of a per cent in May compared to three-tenths of 1 per cent in April.

The average price of a gallon of gasoline moved up a penny nationally, to 58 cents for leaded regular gasoline. That compared to 55 cents a gallon a year ago.

Clothing prices, which had been rising about two-tenths of a per cent a month, jumped five-tenths of a per cent in May. Prices of fuel oil, houses, and new cars also went up faster.

Gas and electricity rates rose by 1.1 per cent in May after a two-tenths of a per cent increase in April.

Like Democrats, Republicans May Write 'Safe' Platform

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the Democrats, the Republican party may draft a platform for the 1976 campaign that walks softly on the big issues.

With both President Ford and Ronald Reagan agreeing on most issues, one party official said that if there are any significant disputes, they likely would arise in the foreign policy area.

But a key objective in platform committee debates probably will be to avoid controversy in an effort to unite the Grand Old Party going into the fall presidential campaign.

The Democrats drafted a unity platform last week, and Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, chairman of the temporary Republican platform committee, told reporters Monday that unity may be a good goal for the Republicans, too.

"We will start from the premise that the platform should be short, concise, but with enough detail to have meaning," he said.

Ray said both Ford and Reagan have said they will cooperate in drafting a platform to "avoid floor fights."

He said he thinks both men agree on most of the issues that the platform will address and that the "few items of disagreement," if any, would be in the area of international affairs.

Ray said potentially divisive issues such as abortion, busing and amnesty also will be considered by the platform committee.

"They are legitimate questions before the platform committee, but I can't tell you at this time whether they will be in the platform or not," he said. He added, "We would like to avoid a floor fight if possible, ..."

... an indication he hopes that such issues would not be addressed in any detail that would arouse emotions within various party factions.

Drafting of the GOP platform will not begin until the week before the party's national convention in Kansas City in mid-August, and it will be subject to approval by the convention.

The party's temporary platform committee was holding public hearings here Monday and today. It held hearings in Los Angeles last week and will hold another hearing in Ames, Iowa, on Thursday.

Both Ford and Reagan will have representatives on the platform committee, and Ray promised to appoint subcommittee chairmen who will hear "both sides" in drafting a platform.

Ray himself has endorsed Ford's bid for the party presidential nomination.

'Unhappy' Senators To Offer Tax Amendments

By JIM LUTHER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Some senators unhappy with a Senate Finance Committee tax bill are offering amendments to raise the taxes of wealthy Americans and businesses by more than $3 billion a year.

The way for considering the amendments was cleared Monday night when the Senate ended a four-day dispute between Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee, and Edmund E. Muskie, D-Maine, who heads the Budget Committee.

In two roll-call votes, the Senate sided with Long in his contention that the Budget Committee has no authority to tell his committee what taxes to cut or raise.

The immediate result was to delay for a few days a decision on how last year's individual tax cuts should be extended.

If the antirecession tax cuts enacted last year and due to end July 1 are allowed to expire, withholding taxes would go up immediately. It would mean a $245 tax increase for a family of four earning $6,000 a year; a $204 hike for a couple earning $10,000; a $151 increase for a single person earning $10,000; and $180 for a typical four-member family earning $15,000.

However, the question before the Senate is how long the tax cuts should be extended, not whether they should be renewed.

Muskie said that when the matter comes up again on the floor, he will renew his fight to extend the full package of tax cuts for 15 months.

Although Long and his Finance Committee favor a 12-month extension, until July 1, 1977, Senate sources consider it highly likely that the cuts will be made permanent, either this year or next.

The row between the two committee chairmen had blocked action on the tax bill for four days. The dispute arose as a result of a new budget law designed to give Congress a tighter rein over federal spending.

In writing a 1977 budget earlier this year, Muskie's committee recommended full extension of the tax cuts for 15 months and called on the Finance Committee to close $2 billion worth of tax loopholes that benefit wealthy investors.

Rule Gunman An Outlaw

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A man charged in the shooting of a North Carolina highway patrolman last week has been declared an outlaw.

Edison Delane Lee, 29, of Robeson County was declared an outlaw in a proclamation signed Monday night by Robeson Superior Court Judge H.A. McKinnon Jr.

Under North Carolina law, a citizen cannot be prosecuted for shooting a person declared an outlaw.

Lee was charged last Friday with wounding Trooper John H. Flynn, 33, Wednesday night after Flynn stopped a car near Lumberton.

District Attorney Joe Freeman Britt, who filed the outlawry petition, said, "It's a pretty drastic move to have Lee declared an outlaw but it is quite apparent that the step was necessary if we hope to apprehend Lee."

One local official who declined to be identified said authorities think Lee, a prison escapee, might be in South Carolina.

Wood proposed that the General Assembly and the people vote on the idea in 1977. He suggested a schedule that would put the new constitution to a vote in 1978's general election.

The convention could consider basic proposals like the veto power and the right to two terms for governors; appointment instead of election of council of state members; four-year terms for legislators; and a system of merit appointments for judges.

Wood said he favored many of those changes, including the veto power for the governor. "But I don't want it for George Wood. It wouldn't take effect until my term as governor was over," he said.

The present state constitution provides two ways for changing itself: amendments and the convention. The convention has not been used for 101 years, Wood said.

Both the legislature and the people would have to approve the idea before it could be used. The legislature would be able to limit the convention to consideration of specific issues. But Wood said he favored an open convention, able to consider any changes.

Under his proposal, 120 citizens would be elected from the same districts that currently send members to the state House. Wood said he would recommend that no elected official would be allowed to act as a delegate.

The delegates would meet briefly to organize themselves, then break up into committees for eight months of deliberations. The final conclave would take about three months, Wood said.

Red Cross First Aid Course For Instructors Set

The first aid instructor course, sponsored by the Pitt Red Cross, will be taught by Miss Nell Stallings, chapter water safety representative, beginning this Wednesday from 7-10 p.m.

The course will continue at Room 145, Minges Coliseum on June 25, 28, 30 and July 1 from 7-10 p.m. each evening.

Requirements for taking the 15-hour course are that participants must have a current first aid and personal safety certificate.

The course is open to anyone interested in teaching first aid. Miss Stallings is a qualified first aid instructor-trainer.

The Red Cross noted that this is the only instructor course scheduled to be taught here this summer.

Can Smile Over French Rumors

LONDON (AP) — Anne-Aymone, wife of French president Giscard d'Estaing, "smiled serenely" when an interviewer asked her about a rumor last year that her husband was not spending all his nights at home.

"In public life rumors always abound," Madame Giscard, 43, told British Daily Express reporter Jean Rook on Monday.

"I think it's very nice for the women of France to have an attractive president. I know I enjoy it," said the first lady, the daughter of a count and a princess.

The Giscardians have been married 24 years and have four children, now aged 16 to 22. A year ago a rumor circled Paris that the president left sealed envelopes overnight at his Elisee Palace residence, stating his whereabouts if urgent state business required him.

Seeks Delay Of Emission Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) Rep. James Broyhill, R-N.C., is leading a drive to further delay toughened standards for control of auto emissions.

The drive is backed by the Ford administration and the auto industry.

Broyhill is the second-ranking Republican on the House Commerce Committee. That group already has passed a bill to delay the new standards for three years. Broyhill and a Michigan Democrat, Rep. John Dingell, are asking for a five-year delay. They contend that quicker imposition of the new standards would waste fuel, drive costs up, and produce few health

Lions Clinch Tie For Second

The Lions insured themselves of no worse than a tie for second place in the North State Little League yesterday with an 11-1 romp past Coca-Cola.

The Lions finished the year with a 10-5 mark, while the Coke team ended up with a 9-6 record. The Jaycees, which finish up Wednesday, can be one of them, depending on how they do against champion Optimists.

The Lions pushed over five runs in the second, all they would need. Marshall Rand reached on an error and Chris Smith walked. Jim Whitehurst singled to load them up, and an error let Rand score. Steven Staton walked, and Smith scored on Scott Galloway's ground out. Ed Frazier singled in Whitehurst, and Roger Williams doubled to score Staton and Frazier.

Another run came in the third. Rand walked, moved to third on passed balls and scored on a hit by Galloway.

In the fourth, four more came in. Troy Hudson singled and Rand walked. Smith also walked, loading them up. Burney Carraway singled in both Hudson and Rand, and Smith stole home. An error let Carraway score.

The other run came in the fifth.

The lone Coke run came over in the fifth. Todd Lovette walked and Jeff Camp doubled. Terry Smith singled to score Lovette.

SHIRLEY STREAKS TO WORLD MARK—Shirley Babashoff, America's swimming queen, raises her arms in victory after shattering the world record in the women's 800-meter freestyle event Monday night during the U.S. Olympic trials. Miss Babashoff, 19, churned the distance in 8:39.63. She already had set four American marks in the competition. (AP Wirephoto)

Brook Valley Resets Tourney

The Jack and Jill golfing event, scheduled last week at the Brook Valley Golf and Country Club, was rained out, and will be held on Thursday of this week.

Those wishing to play who have not signed up may do so now.

The Brook Valley Men's Handicap Championship will be held on Saturday and Sunday. The event is open to all Men's Association members.

Those playing may make up their own foursomes for Saturday's play, but everyone will be paired for the final round.

A Family Spectacular will be held at the club on July 4. Those wishing to play may sign on the bulletin board. A cookout will follow the golf tournament.

The Brook Valley Juniors are hosting the juniors from Greenville Golf and Country Club in a match today. The two groups get together again on July 1 at Greenville.

James Phelps eagled the 15th hole, hitting a six-iron and a wedge. Earl Brinkley picked up an eagle on the ninth hole.

Johnny Piner had a 79 from the blue tees, while O. E. Dowd had his best nine a 38. Mike Moye had two 74s to equal his best rounds. Horace Topping had a 39-38-77 for his best round. Butch Ricks had his best nine hole score on the back, a 39. Charlie Mitchell had his best, a 70. Kelly Kee Jr. had a 38-39-77 for his best, while Thil Jolly recorded a 37-37-74 for his best. Vernon Tyson had his best 18, an 88.

Babashoff Captures Fifth Trial Victory

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — California's Shirley Babashoff could well become the star of the 1976 Olympic Games at Montreal in leading the U.S. women swimmers, but the men of Uncle Sam should do better over-all.

Coach Jim Councilman, the veteran from Indiana, believes his men could win one-half of the medals at the Olympics in Montreal.

Coach Jack Nelson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who heads the girls' team, says this is the strongest squad of female swimmers the nation has ever assembled but readily admits the East Germans have better times.

The 19-year-old Miss Babashoff shattered the world record in the 800-meter freestyle with a time of 8:39.63 for her fifth victory at the trials and in three of the other races she set American records.

"I think," she said, "that we have the strongest women's team ever for the United States."

And she was a member of the squad and a relay gold medal winner in 1972 at Munich. This time, at Montreal, she could compete in seven events — the 100, 200, 400 and 800 freestyles and the 400 individual medley having placed first in the trials for each plus the 400 freestyle relay and the medley relay.

"I wasn't tired," she declared. "I swam the 800 just like we had planned."

Immediately after Shirley had swum, 17-year-old Brian Goodell of Mission Viejo, bettered the world record for the men's 1,500-meter freestyle in 15:06.66.

Miss Babashoff, of Mission Viejo, Calif., had officially taken the record from Jennifer Turrall of Australia, in 8:43.88, but better than that had swum faster than East Germany's

Rocky Mount Defeats Greenville Legion, 4-1

Rocky Mount showed revenge for an earlier defeat by taking a 4-1 victory over Greenville's American Legion baseball team last night.

Ron Driver hurled a two-hitter for Rocky Mount, and allowed only two Greenville baserunners in the final six innings, one reaching on an error and the other on a walk.

He walked seven and struck out 12, along with hitting one batter.

Rocky Mount picked up three runs in the second inning to gain the lead in the game. They had threatened in the first, but left a runner at second.

In the second game, however, Tim Sikes led off with a single and he was sacrificed to second. Mike Upchurch drew a walk and Driver reached on an error, loading the bases. Royce Wells

Carew Is Not Upset By Hits

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Where are you, Rod Carew? The man generally considered the best hitter in baseball isn't among the Top Ten hitters in the American League one-third of the way through the season, but he's hardly worried.

Carew was hitting .309 through games of Sunday for the Minnesota Twins — 19 points below his lifetime average and almost 100 points below where he was a year ago at this time. It was also nearly 40 points behind Detroit's Ron LeFlore, who was leading the AL.

"I'm hitting the ball," Carew said. "For a while this spring I didn't feel real good at the plate, the bat wasn't comfortable in my hands and I wondered if playing a new position was affecting my hitting."

The 30-year-old Carew was moved to first base this year by new Manager Gene Mauch after nine seasons at second base.

"Sure, the switch is taking time," continued Carew, who has developed into a dependable, if not standout first baseman.

"Listen, I don't have anything to prove to anybody," Carew said. "Sure, I'd like to win the title again, but if I don't, I don't."

He has won four straight batting championships and five over-all while building the highest lifetime average among active players.

"Let's see where everyone is at the end of the year," said Carew, who was second in the major leagues with 31 stolen bases. "Some of the balls that have been caught will start to drop in. Everything has a way of evening out in this game."

In many respects though, Carew is enjoying one of his most remarkable years.

Carew, who has missed an average of 33 games a year in his career, has only missed one game. He's given the Twins their best defense at first base since Vic Power played the position in the early 1960s, and his baserunning has been responsible for much of Minnesota's limited success.

Big Value In Upset Victory

Big Value Drugs kept its hopes of a second-place tie alive in the Tar Heel Little League with a 4-0 victory over champion Exchange yesterday.

Exchange has already wrapped up the title in the league, and closed with a 12-4 record. Big Value is now 9-6.

Emmett Walsh allowed just two hits in the shutout as he struck out 16 batters.

Big Value picked up three runs in the third inning to take the lead for good. Scott Irwin walked and moved to third on passed balls. Walsh reached on an error, and Danny Kelly walked to load them up. Lloyd Jackson singled in Irwin, and Walsh, and David Sneed singled to score Kelly.

The other run came over in the fifth. Walsh walked and took second on a wild pitch. Kelly singled and a hit by Jackson scored Walsh for the 4-0 final score.

Jackson led the Big Value hitting with two.

Garland Misses Gem In Final Innings

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

A no-hitter was the furthest thing from Wayne Garland's mind. He was just hoping for a complete game.

Well, he got what he wanted — and almost got what he didn't expect.

Garland, a long-forgotten man on the Baltimore staff, was recently moved into the starting rotation — and repaid the Orioles with a splendid pitching performance Monday night.

The chunky right-hander pitched a no-hitter before losing it with two out in the eighth inning and finished with a 2-0, two-hit triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Garland has flirted with no-hit fame before, but surprisingly, did not complete that start. It was against the Oakland A's two years ago and Garland lost it in the ninth before getting hit hard and driven to the showers.

Two other American League pitchers also had good nights. Bert Blyleven fired a one-hitter to lead the Texas Rangers to a 1-0, 10-inning victory over the Oakland A's, and Ed Figueroa pitched a three-hitter to pace the New York Yankees to a 6-0 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

Elsewhere, the California Angels nipped the Minnesota Twins 2-1 in 10 innings; the Chicago White Sox defeated the Kansas City Royals 2-1 in 11 innings and the Detroit Tigers turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2 in 11.

The burly Garland had the Red Sox mesmerized until Rico Petrocelli punched a weak ground single on a 2-0 count through the right side of the infield in the eighth.

Then in the ninth, Rick Miller reached base on an infield single for the Red Sox, but Garland struck out the next batter, his 10th of the game, and the Orioles pulled off a double play to finish off Boston.

Rangers 1, A's 0
Bert Blyleven earned his 100th major league victory with a splendid one-hit performance and Tom Grieve blasted a lead-off homer in the 10th inning to give Texas its victory over Oakland.

The only hit off the Ranger right-hander was a fifth-inning single by Ken McMullen. Blyleven, 5-8, struck out eight batters and walked four. Grieve's homer, his ninth of the season, came off losing pitcher Paul Mitchell, 3-4, who gave up six hits.

Yankees 6, Indians 0
Ed Figueroa's three-hit pitching, combined with the hitting and fielding of third baseman Craig Nettles, sparked New York over Cleveland. The triumph by the Yankees over their nearest rivals in the American League East increased New York's division lead to eight games. The victory was the seventh straight for the streaking Yankees.

Figueroa, 8-4, struck out seven and walked two. Cleveland starter Dennis Eckersley, 3-6, was the loser. Nettles collected three hits in the game, driving in two runs and scoring two more. He also produced fielding gems in the first two innings as he hit by Rick Manning and Frank Duffy.

Angels 2, Twins 1
Pinch-hitter Bill Melton's 10th-inning single drove home the winning run, lifting California over Minnesota. Melton's hit was the third in a row off loser Dave Goltz, who had allowed only five hits over the first nine innings.

Bob Jones launched the rally with a one-out single to right and moved to second on Dave Chalk's hit before Melton batted by Andy Etchebarren and lined his game-winner to left field.

White Sox 2, Royals 1
Jim Spencer singled home Chicago's tying run in the ninth inning and the winning run in the 11th as the White Sox flipped Kansas City and snapped a 10-game losing streak for the Royals.

In the ninth, Ralph Garr and Buddy Bradford singled and, with two away, Spencer singled for the tying run. In the 11th, Jorge Orta led off with a single and was safe when reliever Tom Hall, 1-1, fielded Bradford's bunt and threw late to second trying for a forceout. One out later, Spencer singled for the go-ahead run.

Tigers 3, Brewers 2
Ben Oglivie's one-out homer in the 11th inning lifted Detroit over Milwaukee. Oglivie's homer, his sixth of the season and third against the Brewers this year, saddled Jim Slaton, 8-5, with his fourth defeat in his last five decisions.

Office Continues Hit Streak; Homers Spark Cincinnati Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

In Cincinnati, it was Souvenir Night. And in Atlanta, it was just another night at the Office. Cincinnati's fans — two of them, anyway — went home with home run balls Monday night, compliments of Ken Griffey and George Foster, who unloaded their blasts on Doug Rau's first two pitches in the sixth inning.

The result was a 3-1 victory over Los Angeles that boosted the Reds' National League West lead to 4½ games over the Dodgers.

Atlanta's fans — all of them — got another taste of what they've gotten used to lately, namely Rowland Office's streaking.

No, not that kind. The kind with a bat. He's gotten at least one hit in his last 26 games, the longest in the league this year.

He got four of them Monday night and, after the last, he trotted home on Jimmy Wynn's tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning that propelled the Braves past Houston 11-9.

In the rest of the NL, Philadelphia widened its East Division lead over idle Pittsburgh to 8½ games by pounding Montreal 8-3, San Diego crept within half a game of the Dodgers in the West by beating San Francisco 6-3 and St. Louis mauled the New York Mets 7-2.

As Foster stepped to the plate in Cincinnati in the bottom of the sixth, the fans' cheers were only beginning to die down following Griffey's fourth home run, a mammoth blast to right field. He brought them up again with his 13th homer, a shot deep into the left field stands.

Griffey's homer gave rookie Pat Zachry all the lead he needed. He finished with a four-hitter for his sixth victory of the year and his third over the Dodgers.

Braves 11, Astros 9
Rowland Office's four hits raised his one-time dismal .193 batting average to a potent

308. Office had a run-scoring double in the third inning, another one in a five-run fourth, a run-scoring single in the fifth and a single prior to Wynn's decisive homer in the seventh.

Phils 8, Expos 3
Philadelphia's Tom Underwood was belted all over the joint in the early innings, but held on just long enough to pick up a victory, thanks to Garry Maddox' two-run double and Bob Boone's two-run single in the fourth inning that wiped out Montreal's lead.

Greg Luzinski clouted his ninth homer of the season and the 100th of his big-league career one inning later.

Padres 6, Giants 3
Johnny Grubb and Willie Davis homered to carry the Padres past San Francisco. Grubb's, off John Montefusco, was a leadoff shot in the first inning. Davis' was a two-run job in the fifth that put San Diego ahead 5-0.

Dave Friesleben went the route, stopping the Giants on eight hits, including a two-run homer by pinch-hitter Garry Thomason in the seventh inning.

Cards 7, Mets 2
Lynn McGlothen turned in six innings of six-hit pitching and turned his bat to good use to lead the Cards over New York.

His single started a three-run second innang against Jerry Kosman and, in the fifth, he dumped a suicide squeeze to knock in another run.

They are the only hitters in the league with a .400-plus average. Marshall Heath of Carolina Dairy is third with a .391 mark, followed by teammate Rufus Sutton at .385. Reggie Selby of Home Builders is fifth with a .382 average.

Making up the second five are Marty Worthington of Pepsi-Cola, .367; Miccah Dixon of Planters Bank, .357; Don McGlohon of NCNB, .346; Bobby Woronoff of Carolina Dairy, .343, and a tie for tenth by David Carroll of Carolina Dairy, and Ronnie Chapman of Home Builders, both hitting .333.

Parker Is Top Hitter

Rain washed out Babe Ruth League action yesterday, and forced rescheduling.

Postponed were games between Planters Bank and Carolina Dairy, and Pepsi-Cola and College View. They have been tentatively reset for Saturday.

Pepsi-Cola's Calvin Parker currently leads the hitting in the league with a hefty .429 batting average. Teammate Bob Morehead is right on his heels with a .419 mark.

They are the only hitters in the league with a .400-plus average.

Marshall Heath of Carolina Dairy is third with a .391 mark, followed by teammate Rufus Sutton at .385. Reggie Selby of Home Builders is fifth with a .382 average.

Making up the second five are Marty Worthington of Pepsi-Cola, .367; Miccah Dixon of Planters Bank, .357; Don McGlohon of NCNB, .346; Bobby Woronoff of Carolina Dairy, .343, and a tie for tenth by David Carroll of Carolina Dairy, and Ronnie Chapman of Home Builders, both hitting .333.

Winners Draw Some Attention

By MELINDA S. EDEN

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A pair of upstarts produced fireworks, some old veterans performed as expected and for the first time in three days of the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials the winners, not the losers, drew attention.

Edwin Moses, a 20-year-old junior at Morehouse College in Atlanta, shattered the American record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles and Brenda Morehead rocketed to a near record in the 100 Monday.

And veteran rick Wohlhuter gained another Olympic trip with an expected 800 victory.

Moses' time of 48.30 bettered the American mark of 48.51 set by Ralph Mann when he ran second in the 1972 Games to John Akii-bua's 47.82 world mark.

Mann, 27, and Jim Bolding, 26, two of the favorites, fell behind and failed to make the team as darkhorse Quentin Wheeler and Mike Shine qualified instead.

Monday produced none of the big surprises or controversies which marked the first two days of this eight-day competition, when such stars as sprinter Steve Williams, pole vaulter Dan Ripley and shot putter Terry Albritton failed to make the team.

Miss Morehead, 19, a freshman at Tennessee State, burst from the starting block and sped to the finish line in 11.08, a shade off the world record of 11.04 set three weeks ago by West Germany's Ingrid Helten. "I felt good," she said. "I didn't think it (her time) would be that good." It was the second fastest clocking ever by an American, just off the 11.07 U.S. mark set in 1968 by Wyomia Tyus.

Second was Chandra Cheeseborough, another newcomer and, at 17, the youngest U.S. Olympic team member so far. The high school junior from Jacksonville, Fla., clocked 11.13 and was followed by Evelyn Ashford of UCLA in 11.22.

Wheeler, of San Diego State, the NCAA hurdles champ, said, "It was a very rough race. I dreamed about this and I can't believe it."

Shine, of Penn State, said, "When Bolding went by me I thought it's now or never; I gotta do it or die, so I just poured out my guts."

Wohluter unleashed his famous kick in the stretch and earned his second trip to the Olympics with a time of 1:44.78.

James Robinson, 21, who won the AAU title a week ago, slipped on the second turn and dropped back to last place midway through the race. But he moved outside and exploded nearing the tape, finishing second in 1:45.86.

Mark Enyeart of the Utah State Track Club struggled past Villanova's Mark Belger in the last 10 meters to run 1:46.28 and round out the U.S. team in the two-lap race.

Earlier in the day, the favored trio of Mac Wilkins, John Powell and Jay Silvester all marched into the Olympics. Wilkins, owner of the world record, responded to a hometown crowd and flung the discus 224 feet, 2 inches, earning his first Olympic berth.

The 6-foot-5, 255-pound former University of Oregon star now competing for Pacific Coast Club, set the world mark of 232-6 a month ago.

Powell, a 28-year-old former policeman who finished fourth in the 1972 Olympics, qualified for the 1976 Games with a toss of 220-11, good for second behind Wilkins.

Third was Silvester, at 38 the oldest American team member so far. Silvester, who qualified at 212-5, will be competing in his fourth Olympics. He finished fourth in 1964, fifth in 1968 and second at Munich in 1972.

Harvey Glance, sprinting star from Auburn, continued his bid to become the first American since Ray Norton in 1960 to compete at the Olympics in both short dashes by qualifying for today's semifinals in the 200 meters.

He won the fourth heat easily in 20.56 seconds.

In the women's pentathlon, U.S. record holder Jane Frederick led after three events with 2,715 points.

'Street Fright' Is New To The Veteran Actor

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Richard Hatch thinks he'll like costarring in "The Streets of San Francisco," once he gets over his street fright.

Hatch, who's been around theaters and studios too long for stage fright, says even seasoned actors can get the jitters the first time they film on location.

"You really have to concentrate," says Hatch, waiting to begin his third day of shooting as Karl Malden's new young sidekick in the successful television series.

"People are always running up to you, asking for your autograph. You want to be nice to them, but sometimes it's hard."

Hatch begins his first season as "Streets" begins its fifth — a long run for a cop show. The cast and crew say on-location filming has a lot to do with its success. "San Francisco is an incredibly beautiful city," says Hatch, with the fervor of a convert.

Another reason is Academy Award winner Malden as Lt. Mike Stone, the tough-but-very-tender old-time cop. And it remains to be seen how much of the show's success depended upon actor Michael Douglas and the buddy-cop chemistry he and Malden generated.

Officer Keller is returning to the campus as a professor of criminology because Douglas, who won an Oscar for his production of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," wants to do more movies.

Hatch will play Inspector Dan Robbins, Stone's new partner when Keller leaves.

The idea of killing Keller in the line of duty was considered briefly, but rejected. A spokesman for producer Quinn Martin said the company felt "there would be great public resentment if Michael Douglas got killed off."

With Keller as a professor at nearby University of California, the spokesman said, "We've left the door open for him to come back as a guest star."

So Hatch doesn't have to fill the shoes of a dead hero, but "replacing" the popular Michael Douglas-Steve Keller character won't be an easy act.

"I don't envy his position," says Malden. "It's the worst job possible, replacing someone else."

Hatch says he likes the character Dan Robbins — a modified eco-freak who won't drink coffee and likes his fruit juice fresh-squeezed.

He says it took some persuading to get him to play a cop.

"I thought a police show wouldn't lend itself to the type of character I could express myself through," he says tactfully.

Besides, he wasn't sold on the idea of a series — he had spent 2½ years in a running part on the daytime drama, "All My Children," and was anxious to avoid being tied down.

Karl Malden changed his mind.

"I was overwhelmed by him," Hatch says. "It was amazing to find a man who has worked as long as he has and retains so much of his energy, and his childlikeness, his lust for living."

Ass'n Holds Installation

New officers of the Association of Education Office Personnel of Pitt County were installed by Jean Haddock, past president of District No. 14, in a candlelight ceremony recently. The new officers are as follows: Helen Vandiford, president; Evone Holiday, vice president; Naomi Edwards, secretary and Joyce Harrell, treasurer.

HELEN VANDIFORD

Ms. Holiday, chairman of the scholarship committee, introduced Darlene Norris, recipient of a $100 scholarship. Ms. Norris is a 1976 graduate of Farmville Central High School and will attend Pitt Technical Institute in the Fall and major in Business.

Human Tests Passed By Swine Flu Vaccine

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The basic vaccines for the national effort to guard against swine flu came through their initial human tests with promising results and few side effects.

Scientists reported Monday that tests with 5,186 persons indicate one standard vaccine won't do the whole job. There could be several different vaccines or combinations used to inoculate all 215 million Americans if the federal plan is completed.

"The results show it's remarkably easy to immunize people above 24 years of age," said Dr. Harry Meyer, of the Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Biologics. "However, the results reinforce the attitude that children have to be dealt with more cautiously concerning influenza than adults."

He noted that persons 24 years or older make up two-thirds of the population. The apprehension about inoculating children arose when test results with hundreds of youngsters 3 years and older showed that the kind of vaccine that stimulated the best reaction against flu virus also caused the most severe side effects.

Dr. David Karzon of Vanderbilt University, summarizing the tests on children, cited uncomfortable side effects such as mild fever, headache and general malaise. None of the side effects was life-threatening, he said.

"We had no dangerous reactions occur at all," Karzon stressed, "and the general acceptance of all products was good."

While saying there were no more side effects with children than with other flu vaccines, researchers said they wanted better than this average performance because of the numbers that are to be inoculated this time.

Karzon said another type of vaccine resulted in fewer side effects but wasn't as effective in generating antibodies against swine flu-like virus.

To overcome the side-effect problem, Karzon said scientists would begin testing the idea of giving booster shots of this vaccine three to four weeks after the first inoculation in hopes of building up a better immune response.

With reduced doses of the more effective vaccine or a double-dose of the other, Karzon said he was "optimistic" that a good vaccine regimen for children would be developed before flu season next winter.

The tests showed that both major classes of virus vaccines — termed whole or split virus — appeared effective in raising immune responses in adults aged 25 or older.

Scientists found that people 53 years old or more tended to have pre-existing antibodies against swine flu-like virus, probably from prior exposure to similar kinds of influenza. The older the person, the more pre-existing antibodies there were and the more effective the vaccines appeared to be, they said.

Adverse reactions in adults for the most part were mild, even with doses of vaccine much higher than normally would be used, the studies showed.

Pass 4NT Pass 5

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

The average player tends to put all his eggs in one basket. The expert pokes around and tries to give himself additional chances. South's technique on this hand is instructive.

It is not often you reach slam after the opponents open the bidding, even with a preemptive bid, but North-South were able to overcome East's interference and reach an excellent six club contract. After East opened with a weak two-bid in hearts, South cue-bid to show his great playing strength and the fact that he had a two- or three-suited hand. With a powerful one-suiter, he would have simply jumped in his suit. North felt the hand would play best at no trump, and South bid his longest suit. However, spades didn't appeal to North, who retreated to no trump to give his partner a chance to show another suit. When South announced a black two-suiter, North decided that his fine trump support and side controls warranted a raise to slam.

The opening lead was covered by the ten and jack, and East tried to cash a second heart. Declarer ruffed and laid down the king of clubs to see how trumps would break. He was delighted when both opponents followed, but he did not make the fatal error of continuing trumps. Instead, he cashed a high spade, noting with interest the fall of East's queen, then ruffed a low spade with dummy's queen of clubs.

When East discarded a heart on this trick, declarer had to hope for one of two distributions—either that trumps were 2-2, or that the hand with the long spades also held the rest of the trumps.

Declarer came to his hand with a trump to the jack, and when East showed out, the contract was unbeatable. Declarer simply led the ten of spades for a ruffing finesse. Whether West covered or not was immaterial. If West withheld the jack, declarer would pass the ten, ruff a low spade in dummy, and return to his hand with a diamond ruff. After drawing the last trump, the rest of his hand would follow similar lines if West covered the ten.

Note that had declarer immediately drawn two rounds of trumps, he would have gone down because he would not have enough entries to his hand to establish the spade suit.

Series Of Four Accidents Here

An estimated $4,725 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Greene Streets involving a truck driven by Ander Manning of Route 2, Greenville and Solley Reaves Jr. of 512 West 14th St.

Investigators, who set damage to the Manning truck at $1,200 and damage to the Reaves car at $700, reported a gasoline pump at George Pugh's Service Center was also damaged when one of the vehicles collided with it.

Fire units responded to wash down gas that spilled from the damaged pump, but no fire resulted. Manning was charged with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of the mishap.

Cars driven by Ernest Stinson Pait of Dublin and Ann Joyner Harris of Greenville collided about 6:55 p.m. on Memorial Drive, 150 feet north of the Trade Street intersection, causing an estimated $700 damage to the Pait car and $650 damage to the Harris vehicle.

Mrs. Harris was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of the collision.

Stephen Spurling March of Route 1, Chapel Hill was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:25 p.m. collision at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Truman Street, while the driver of the second vehicle involved in the collision, Gregory Dennis Cross of 3103 Briarcliff Dr. was charged with having improper equipment.

Police estimated damage from the mishap at $500 to the Cross car and $700 to the March vehicle.

Gid Allen Holloman of Route 1, Farmville was charged with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of a 2 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Hooker Road.

Officers said the Holloman car collided with a car operated by Debra Louise Ange of 705 East First St. resulting in an estimated $200 damage to the Ange car and $75 damage to the Holloman auto.

Ultrasound Aids Drugs

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Sound waves well above the range of hearing have increased the effectiveness of drugs used in treating leukemia in laboratory animals.

Researchers at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine have shown that vibrating energy, called ultrasound, increased the amount of drugs that leukemia-infected cells could absorb. They haven't determined why.

But they believe ultrasound could alter the cell membranes or affect the mechanism by which the infected cells divide and multiply.

"What this means is that ultrasound has the same effect as doubling the drug dosage but without the harmful side effects," says Dr. Frederick Kremkau. He is research assistant professor of medicine and director of the project.

Researchers using a combination of drugs and ultrasound have been able to increase the survival time of mice injected with leukemia cells. They also showed it is possible to completely cure leukemia in animals, Kremkau said.

The study suggests ultrasound may be of similar benefit in the treatment of human cancer, but that is still some time away, he added.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not good for taking chances, but very good for analyzing where you stand in any practical or financial matters. Organize them for greater success. Consult with powerful persons where possible.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can work out money matters most satisfactorily. Use your hunches and you get good results. Avoid the limelight in the afternoon.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day for taking a trip but fine for pushing through big business deals, getting your affairs in better order.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You understand much better what your goals are and how to attain them. Some old friendship can also be renewed with good results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listen to good friends' suggestions and you make big headway. Accept social invitations and make new friends of worth, character. Extend your horizons.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Consult a trusted adviser and find out how to have a more desirable position in your community. Get proper appliances to speed work.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some new method you use with some new interest may not pay off immediately, but can have fine results, benefits with time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle obligations and stop procrastinating. Your mate has new ideas; cooperate with him in them. Come to a better understanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A friend goes out of your life now but a new one comes in very soon. Take in your stride. Drive with utmost care.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Organize work carefully so that it is done properly. Talk work over with fellow workers and see that all understand their duties.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan some time for recreation that will make you forget worry for a while and perk up your spirits. Do only necessary work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do work at home that increases comfort, beauty, harmony in this important realm. Buy needed gadgets. Handle business matter.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep appointments and get fine results therefrom. Handle communications intelligently. See to it that utilities are paid, in good running order, also.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will seem to have a difficult time solving problems and coming to decisions on time, so be sure that the diet is right and that the environment is good, properly heated, etc., or your progeny could lose out where others less intelligent would win out. The mind is naturally practical here and much success is possible during the lifetime, provided it has the salt of religion to savor it, make it happy.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Church Sets Youth Plans

The summer youth program at Oakmont Baptist Church will sponsor a Day Camp for 1-6 graders this summer beginning June 23 at the church.

Any children who are rising first graders through rising third graders are invited to attend this Day Camp every Wednesday morning from 9 o'clock til noon.

Rising fourth graders through rising sixth graders will have their Day Camp on Thursdays beginning June 24 from 9 to noon.

However, there will be no Day Camp the week of July 12-17 due to the trip the young people (grades 7-12) will be taking to the North Carolina Baptist Assembly at Caswell in Southport.

The program will include such activities as Bible study, learning projects, possible trips for the children such as swimming or skating, and recreational activities.

Parents are asked to pack their children bag lunches each day. Drinks will be provided.

Further information may be obtained by contacting either Gorden Conklin, pastor, or Greg Rogers, summer student worker, at the church at 756-1245.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Seasonably warm weather is due today for the nation. Rain is expected in the central and northern Plains and the Northeast coastal areas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
The basic pattern governing North Carolina's weather has not changed much this second day of summer. It continued warm, and showers and thunderstorms fell, but they were fewer.

At the surface, a nearly stationary front lies along the foothills of Virginia and southwestern through the western Piedmont Carolinas. It continues into the Gulf of Mexico. The upper-level pattern is dominated by a low-pressure disturbance which was centered over southern Indiana this morning.

Drier air has been circulating around this system, so rain has slackened in North Carolina. But heavy thunderstorms struck the coastal area this morning from the Carolinas border to New Bern and the west end of Pamlico Sound. Other heavy thunderstorms were clustered around Cape Fear and southwest of Cape Lookout.

The showers will become more widely scattered Wednesday.

High temperatures today were in the low to middle 80s, except for the upper 70s in the mountains. The lows tonight will range from the 50s in the mountains to the low 70s on the coast.

Showers were concentrated in the coastal area Monday as summer came in. Sunshine returned to the western half of the state. Afternoon highs were in the upper 70s and low 80s, 5 to 10 degrees below normal. The coast was most below normal because of showers and clouds. New Bern had one of the lower maximums, 74. Raleigh-Durham was warmest with 83. Small-craft advisories were discontinued along the coast this morning because the southerly winds diminished.

Second Printing

The second printing of "A Citizen's Guide to Greenville and Pitt County," compiled by the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters is now available free of charge.

The guide published by North Carolina National Bank includes voting and registration information, a roster of public officials correct salutations to use in correspondence to public officials and a schedule of local public meetings. It also includes a list of public services in Greenville and Pitt County and 13 public service telephone numbers most of which are toll-free.

The "Citizens Guide" is available to the public by writing the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters, P. O. Box 1551, Greenville, N. C. 27834.

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer
President Ford and Ronald Reagan will both fall short of the delegates needed for the Republican nomination when the last delegates are chosen in seven states, party leaders and campaign officials in those states say.

The nomination would then hinge on 159 uncommitted delegates now being courted and cajoled by both camps.

Ford was off today for Indiana on his second "nonpolitical trip" in eight days while Reagan was at home in California.

Ford was to deliver a speech at the annual convention of the Jaycees in Indianapolis today. He was due to return to the White House in the afternoon.

The cost of the trip will be paid out of federal funds. Ford's trip last Tuesday to Norfolk, Va., to address the National Baptist Convention also was paid by federal funds.

A Ford aide said he knows of no plans for Ford to make any specifically political trip before the Republican convention in August.

Betty Ford's press staff announced Monday that the first lady will make an appearance Friday at the Minnesota Republican convention in St. Paul as a stand-in for the President. Mrs. Ford attended the Iowa GOP state convention Des Moines last Friday when Ford canceled his appearance because aides said he was involved in the evacuation of Americans from Lebanon.

Jimmy Carter, probable winner of the Democratic presidential nomination, planned to leave his home town of Plains, Ga., today for a two-day northern excursion. Carter was scheduled to attend two fundraisers in Boston today and five in New York on Wednesday to help erase what his campaign treasurer, Bob Lipshutz, says is a debt of about $600,000.

In Washington, Gov. Robert D. Ray of Iowa, chairman of the temporary Republican platform committee, told reporters Monday that both Ford and Reagan have indicated they will try to avoid open fights over the party's 1976 platform. "We will start from the premise that the platform should be short, concise, but with enough detail to have meaning," he said.

According to an Associated Press count, Ford held a 72-delegate lead today with 1,006 to Reagan's 934. It will take 1,130 delegates to capture the nomination. There are 157 delegates still to be chosen at Republican conventions and caucuses in Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico, Connecticut, North Dakota, Colorado and Utah.

By the estimate of his own campaigners in those states, Ford will pick up 90 of the remaining delegates and Reagan 67. That would leave the tally at 1,096 for Ford and 1,001 for Reagan.

The Reagan camp has a different view of the remaining states, seeing the former California governor winning 101 delegates to 56 for Ford. That count would leave the totals at 1,062 for Ford and 1,035 for Reagan.

The Reagan tally would put the President only 27 delegates ahead after the last delegates are chosen July 16 in Connecticut and Utah. The Ford count would put the President ahead by 95 delegates, but still 34 votes short of the nomination.

Associated Press reporters on Monday surveyed state GOP officials and leaders of both the Ford and Reagan campaigns in the states still to choose delegates. Their reports indicated bitter political infighting in some states, especially in Minnesota, Montana and New Mexico where 59 delegates will be chosen this weekend.

According to his supporters in those states, Reagan will pick up 47 of those delegates to 12 for Ford. Ford's supporters see it going 32 for Reagan and 27 for Ford, still a net loss for the President.

A state-by-state breakdown indicates where the remaining delegates are and how supporters of both candidates see them going.

MINNESOTA — Eighteen delegates to be chosen Friday night at a GOP state convention. Ford forces looking to sweep all 18; Reagan backers hoping for six delegates.

MONTANA — Twenty delegates to be selected Saturday at the Republican state convention. A bitter battle shaping up with Reagan supporters seeking all 20 delegates and Ford's backers holding out for a 13-7 split.

NEW MEXICO — Twenty-one delegates to be selected Saturday at the state convention. Reagan forces will have about 60 per cent of the state convention delegates and will be looking to push through a full slate of 20 national delegates committed to Reagan.

NORTH DAKOTA — Eighteen delegates to be selected at a state convention in Fargo July 8 to July 10. Ford's state campaign director, former state Sen. C. Warner Litten, called it 12 to 6 for the President, Reagan's state manager, Dave Robinson, predicted nine for Ford and nine for Reagan.

COLORADO — Twenty-five delegates still to be selected, nine at three congressional district caucuses July 9 and the final 16 at the state convention July 10.

Reagan swept the six delegates elected in two district caucuses held so far. Reagan's Colorado chairman, Mike South, predicted Reagan would go on the sweep the nine district delegates and the 16 to be selected at the state convention.

But Ford's man in the state, Bill Graham, said the President would take six delegates in two district caucuses and said he was "not writing off" the other district caucus.

CONNECTICUT — Thirty-five delegates to be chosen July 17 at the state party convention. Reagan has no organization in the state and Ford backers are looking for a sizable portion of the delegates.

UTAH — Twenty delegates to be chosen at state convention July 16-17.

All the delegates attending the state convention will be officially uncommitted. But Ford's Utah chairman, state Sen. Warren E. Pugh, said a telephone survey of the delegates showed an even split and predicted the national convention delegation would split 10-10.

Reagan's state chairman, state Sen. Douglas G. Bischoff, said Pugh's estimate showed he was "whistling in Dixie."

On the basis of "our polls," Bischoff said he expected Reagan to take all 20 delegates.

Ultra Checking. Not just another ball park figure.

Balancing your checkbook with your bank statement can be such a problem, that it's often tempting to settle for a ball park figure.

Unless you have PNB's Ultra Checking. It's the easiest bank statement to balance in North Carolina. With Ultra Checking, your checks are listed on your statement in the same order they appear in your checkbook. So it's easy for you to maintain an accurate balance.

There are many other benefits of an Ultra Checking Account.

Ask your PNB banker for details. Or ask someone who already has an Ultra Checking Account.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, for instance. He knows enough about ball park figures to know that they don't belong in his checkbook.
