

City And Utilities Budgets Okayed

By TOM BAINES

The 1976-77 city budget ordinance, calling for a total property tax rate of 64 cents per $100 valuation, was adopted by the City Council during a special call session Thursday evening.

The new assessment rate, while four cents per $100 valuation higher than the 1975-76 figure, is the same property tax levied for 1974-75.

The adopted ordinance for the city amounts to $6,877,808, only slightly up from the 1975-76 total of $6,778,847.

In addition to the city budget, the Greenville Utilities Commission budget ordinance, totaling $24,060,495.76 was adopted. By law, the GUCO budget is considered as a part of the overall city budget picture. GUCO is currently operating under a $21,362,884 budget.

In discussing the city budget ordinance with the Council, City Manager Jim Caldwell explained that the 64 cents per $100 valuation includes a 62 and one-half cents general fund levy and a one and one-half cents debt service figure.

Caldwell said the new budget calls a General Fund of $5,504,108, a Revenue Sharing Trust Fund of $695,224, Debt Service Fund of $523,958, Public Transportation Fund of $81,845, Parking Authority Fund of $71,208, and Parking Authority Capital Projects Fund of $1,465.

General Fund appropriations are highlighted by $149,864 for operating contingency, $105,238 for building services, $1,158,901 for the Police Department, $721,798 for the Fire Department, $110,998 for the Inspections Department, $1,438,369 for Public Works Department operations, $458,284 for the Recreation Department, and $48,341 for the Human Relations division, including $7,700 for Volunteer Greenville and $19,547 for the Moyewood Center.

Mayor Percy Cox commended Caldwell and his staff for "probably" one of the easiest budgets the Council has ever had to work with, "pointing to Caldwell's conservative approach in preparing the new package. Cox had remarked earlier that the new budget appeared to contain "very little fat."

Cox offered a schedule of 1975-76 tax rates for other neighboring eastern cities which indicated that only Roanoke Rapids, with 45 cents per $100 valuation was below the Greenville assessment rate. New Bern also had a 60 cents per $100 rate for 1975-76.

Cities on the schedule and their tax rates included: Rocky Mount, 70 cents per $100; Tarboro, 84 cents; Wilson, 85 cents; Washington, 68 cents; Goldsboro, 89 and one-half cents; Kinston, 69 cents; Jacksonville, 84 cents; Clinton, $1.04 cents; and Raleigh, 95 cents. Councilman John Howard contended that for "what the average citizen pays in property tax, he receives far more city services than money can buy." He said the 64 cents per $100 valuation is the "cheapest money that anybody spends."

Councilman William Hadden called it a "very fair budget." GUCO director Charles Horne briefly discussed the Utilities budget proposal and pointed out total expected revenues of: Electric Fund, $18,762,000; Water, $1,302,300; Sewer, $1,179,625; Gas, $1,450,900; Water Capital Project Fund, $282,537.28; and Sewer Capital (Continued on page 3)

Racial Exclusionary Policies In Private Schools Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private schools may not refuse to admit black children because of their race, the Supreme Court ruled 7 to 2 today.

In an opinion by Justice Potter Stewart, the court said such racial exclusionary policies are "a classic violation" of federal civil rights law.

The court also rejected the argument that the application of this law to school admissions was an unconstitutional invasion of the privacy of families.

Justice Byron R. White and William H. Rehnquist dissented, saying that the decision was a "political task" which the court should not undertake.

The case involved Fairfax-Brewster School in Bailey's Crossroads, Va. and Bobbe's Private School in Arlington, Va., both in the Washington suburbs.

Fairfax-Brewster was established in 1954, the year the Supreme Court outlawed official segregation of public schools. Bobbe's was established four years later.

The Justice Department filed a brief in the case supporting the proposition that racial discrimination by private schools should be outlawed.

President Ford, however, said recently that while he personally disapproves of the practice, he believed private schools have a right to reject students because of their race.

Today's decision upheld a 4 to 3 ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court in Richmond, Va., that the schools had discriminated illegally on the basis of race.

The case revolved around an act passed after the Civil War guaranteeing all persons the right to "make and enforce contracts," among other things, on an equal basis.

Bobbe's School and Fairfax-Brewster argued that sending a child to school is not the kind of contract which the act was intended to cover.

The court, however, said the law was just as applicable to the school situation as to real estate transactions, which it ruled in 1968 were covered by the post-Civil War law.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall, Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and John Paul Stevens joined Stewart in the majority opinion.

The dissenters said the 1866 Act was not designed to cover private contracts such as those made between parents and private schools.

The case stemmed from suits filed by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gonzales and Mrs. Curtis L. McCrary, who said they were unable to get their children into the schools. Both families are black.

Both Fairfax-Brewster and Bobbe's said they did not discriminate on the basis of race.

The Southern Independent School Association, representing more than 300 schools in seven states, intervened in defense of the right of private schools to practice racial segregation.

ABA Is Target Of Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government filed an antitrust suit against the American Bar Association today asking that its restrictions against public advertising by lawyers be declared illegal.

The Justice Department said ABA advertising prohibitions restrain price competition among lawyers and deprive persons needing legal services the opportunity to obtain information about the costs and availability of legal services.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court, also said the ABA restrictions have restrained lawyers from making legal services readily available, such as through the development and advertising of legal clinics and prepaid legal plans.

The ABA, with headquarters in Chicago, is the country's largest professional association of lawyers with a membership of about 200,000.

Delegates to its February convention in Philadelphia voted to permit limited advertising of fees and specialists by lawyers in ABA directories or ABA telephone books, but not in consumer publications.

The policy, subject to approval by state bar associations, allows lawyers to include some information, such as their specialties, in the yellow pages of telephone books.

Consumers Union said after the Philadelphia convention it would continue with a lawsuit it has filed against bar officials in Virginia for the right to obtain fee information from lawyers and publish it in a directory for consumers.

Similar suits are pending in California, Wisconsin, New York and Hawaii.

Waiting Until Ruling Clarified

Due to yesterday's U. S. Supreme Court decision concerning state and local government employees under the Fair Labor Standards Act, the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division will take no action on any local, city, county or state unit until the court's ruling can be clarified, Labor Department Compliance Officer J. E. Mangum said this morning.

Employees concerned about their pay scales should contact their own personnel offices, he suggested.

MEETING MALIK WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department says Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will meet Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik here next Tuesday.

Bids Opened

Bids were opened yesterday for the Family Practice Center and Eastern Area Health Education Center to be constructed adjacent to the New Pitt Memorial Hospital, and were above the $1.65 million construction budget for the project.

The 38,000 square foot facility is being constructed with state funds.

Low bids for the project totaled $1.82 million, with T. A. Loving Co. of Goldsboro being low bidder for the general contract at $1,129,500. Low bidders for the other contracts included: electrical, Campbell Electric Co. of Wilson, $151,250; mechanical, W. H. Sullivan Co., Greensboro, $428,000; and plumbing, Brewer's Plumbing, Wilson, $115,792.

With all deletable alternates removed, low bids would still total $1.68 million for the facility.

Officials instructed architects for the project to negotiate with low bidders in an effort to reduce the price of the facility to within the available funds for the project.

In all, seven firms bid on the general contract, with amounts ranging from $1.12 million to $1.21 million. The seven plumbing bids ranged from $115,792 to $160,000 while the half-dozen mechanical bids ranged from $428,000 to $499,000. The four electrical bids ranged from $151,250 to $172,200.

NEEDED SITTER FOR SICK CHILD

I am a new resident of Greenville and have a child who has bronchitis. I have stayed out of classes at ECU this week to tend to her, but I have tests Thursday and Friday and need to go back for them, of course. Do you know of anyone who will keep a sick child for me. Mrs. A.B.

By the time our Hotline recording was transcribed, it was too late for us to help you. We apologized and told you if you have such a problem again to call Volunteer Greenville, 752-4137. However, later checked with Susan Mescher, Volunteer Greenville Director, she said your kind of request is very difficult for her office to fill. She needs a list of people who would volunteer to sit on short notice with a sick child or to look in on an elderly or disabled person in special situations. Anyone who is willing to be available for this kind of service should call Ms. Mescher at 752-4137.

SENT TO HOME ADDRESS

I ordered a body builder from the Weider Company in California some time ago. I've written to them, but it still hasn't come and now it's time for me to leave school for the summer. W. E.

We wrote to the Weider Company, telling them the situation and requesting that they send the merchandise and that they send it to your home in Winston Salem. They wrote back saying that the order had been mailed, but that since you had never received it at your ECU dorm address, they would send another right away. This, you report, they did.

Candidates' Wives See Priority For Education

By BARBARA MATHEWS

Reflector Staff Writer

Education is among the top priorities of Democratic candidates for state and local office, according to statements made here yesterday at a reception honoring the candidates and their wives sponsored by the Pitt County Democratic Women's Club.

Mrs. George Wood, wife of a contender for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said her husband favors a teachers' pay hike as a step towards furthering education.

"He is presently studying ways to raise the $150 million necessary to raise teachers' pay 10 per cent per year over a two-year period," she said.

"My husband feels this is a long-term way of improving education by interesting top-quality people in the field. It is much better than the stop-gap methods used in the past."

Mrs. Carolyn Hunt said her husband, James Hunt, also feels education to be a vital issue.

"As governor, my husband wants to see everyone learn how to read," she said.

"He feels that the increases in pay given to teachers by the General Assembly recently are a move in the right direction. At the moment, it's all we can do."

Lillian (Mrs. Howard) Lee noted that her husband, a candidate for the Democratic lieutenant governor nomination, considers education to be his top priority.

"My husband favors an increase in teachers' salaries and would like to see them brought up to the national average over the next three years," she said.

"Also, North Carolina's ten-month school year makes it difficult for teachers to go to school during the summer to upgrade their skills. So he has recommended a sabbatical for teachers in the public school system."

E. Frank Stephenson, Jr., candidate for lieutenant governor, expressed a similar concern.

"The lieutenant governor sits on the State Board of Education," said Stephenson. "I could play a strong role here. We have got to put the emphasis back on teaching reading, writing and basic mathematical skills. Something is wrong when high school graduates read at a four- or fifth-grade level."

"The schools need discipline and supervision so teachers can do the job they are paid to do."

Carter Has First-Count Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter has now collected enough committed convention delegates to give him the Democratic presidential nomination, an Associated Press survey shows.

Carter, who never trailed any other contender in his bid for the necessary 1,505 delegates, pushed over the majority barrier Thursday, exactly four months after he won the opening primary in New Hampshire.

With the convention still 17 days away, Carter's total edged up to 1,510, the AP delegate survey found.

The survey counts only delegates who are legally committed or who have publicly declared their preference for one candidate. It does not include any delegate who is leaning toward a candidate, nor does it count delegate votes simply on the statement of a party leader.

Carter's nomination became virtually certain when the primaries ended June 8 and his victory in the Ohio primary boosted his delegate total to 1,125. Democratic leaders and former opponents rushed to endorse him.

George Wallace endorsed Carter June 9, and many of Wallace's delegates followed the Alabama governor's lead, providing nearly a third of the 380 votes Carter needed to go over the majority mark. Another third came from the ranks of the uncommitted delegates.

The 380 delegates were scattered all over the country.

Sets Goals As N.C. Auditor

By STUART SAVAGE

Lillian Woo, candidate for the Democratic nomination as state auditor was here yesterday to attend a reception for candidates sponsored by the Greenville Democratic Women.

Mrs. Woo, a native of Honolulu, lived in New York and Connecticut before moving to North Carolina six years ago. She said she became interested in politics and decided to seek the auditors post through her "consumer work as a lobbyist" and appearing before various governmental agencies.

The 38-year-old mother of two girls has been active in consumer affairs since coming to North Carolina. She has worked with the North Carolina Consumer Council and the Consumer Center of North Carolina and has been employed by the state Attorney General's office with responsibilities in the area of consumer affairs. She was also a member of the state Milk Commission.

The state auditor's post, she explains, "is very similar to what I've been doing in consumer affairs . . . getting for the consumer "his money's worth in products and services." The Auditors office insures that taxpayers "get their moneys worth," for their tax dollar.

An economist by training, with a number of courses in accounting and statistics, Mrs. Woo received her BS degree from Vassar and her masters degree from Columbia. She has also completed course work for her Ph.D. in economics at Columbia.

According to the candidate, if elected auditor, she would push for "the establishment of a (Continued on page 10)

Mom Anxious About Teens' Crash Diet

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have two daughters, 16 and 19, who eat like stevedores, then force themselves to up-chuck so they can eat again without gaining any weight. They also take a lot of laxatives for the same reason.

About a year ago they were both overweight and went on a diet I thought was sensible at the time. But after they got skinny, they started with the throwing-up business and laxatives to stay thin.

I have tried to tell them they are ruining their stomachs, but they won't listen to me. They are both underweight now and think they look wonderful. They look sick to me.

I am beginning to think there is something more wrong with these girls than just the determination to be thin. Would a psychiatrist help?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, a psychiatrist would help. The condition from which your daughters are suffering is well-known to the medical profession. I urge you to get the girls into therapy as soon as possible.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see that letter in your column from the husband who was completely "turned off" sex since watching the birth of his child.

It just bears out what I've always maintained: when one's husband witnesses such an event, it's the end of the romance!

No one could ever persuade me to allow my husband in the delivery room. I agree with the writer; it's a sickening and revolting affair, but unfortunately that's the way all babies come into the world, so we just have to put up with it.

Just the same, I think it's ridiculous to try to make a "beautiful and fulfilling experience" out of something that is clearly ugly.

I say, for goodness' sake, keep the husband OUT and away from the scene of birth if you want to keep romance IN your marriage.

I love my children, but I loathe the birth process.

MOTHER OF TWO (TORONTO)

DEAR MOTHER: I've never regarded the birth process as "sickening and revolting," but ugliness—like beauty—lies in the eye of the beholder. So to each his own.

DEAR ABBY: You were much too soft on smokers when you said: "Don't give the back of your hand to those who have to recognize the hazard of their habit or are unable (or unwilling) to give it up."

Abby, the air pollution generated by smokers has too long been tolerated by nonsmokers, whether out of timidity, ignorance or lifelong training. There is now ample evidence that tobacco smoke is just as injurious to the health of exposed nonsmokers as it is to that of smokers. Furthermore, it stinks, clings to clothing, hair and upholstery, and fogs windows.

You can bet your syndication that I don't permit people to smoke in my home or car!

W.H. VAN DEN BERG

DEAR VAN: I am hearing from an increasing number of readers who say they have finally gathered the guts to tell their guests that if they must smoke, please go outside. (And I just may join their ranks.)

DEAR ABBY: While emptying my husband's pockets before sending his clothes to the dry cleaners, I came across a book of matches on which was written (in his own hand), "Is there any way I can see you tonight?"

Do you think he was unfaithful to me?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Not necessarily. Just hoping to be.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Shuffleboard Plans Made

Several persons met Wednesday morning at Elm St. Gym to discuss the possibilities of forming a shuffleboard club for Greenville.

Boyd Lee, city director of Parks and Recreation, informed the group that room is available for shuffleboard courts at the Senior Citizen Center, which is being developed in a city-owned building at the corner of Greene and Fourth streets.

Biff Jones explained how the game is played and how the groups are often organized. He answered several questions from the group and then appointed a committee to meet with him later to draw up by-laws, etc.

Committee members are Sam Whitehead, Mildred Southwick and Edith Holmes.

Permanent officers will be elected at a later meeting.

The club will not be limited to any age group, although the game might be of more interest to those who find tennis a little too rigorous.

Gourmet Cooking Made Easy

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For the housewife whose husband has an unnerving habit of asking his boss or an important client to dinner on short notice, the latest book by Carol Cutler should prove a boon.

Three years ago Mrs. Cutler came to the aid of heart patients with "Cuisine For Your Heart's Delight," an ingenious cookbook which supplied an enticing assortment of gourmet dishes, all containing little if any cholesterol.

Now Carol Cutler has produced a dazzling array of recipes that are in the main easy to prepare and which should satisfy the most demanding palate. In "The Six-Minute Souffle," published by Clarkson N. Potter Inc., Mrs. Cutler has assembled nearly 250 formulas designed to make your dinner party a success.

They are the result of hectic days she spent in Paris in 1958 when her husband was stationed there as editor of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune.

Living in an apartment that had only a tiny kitchen with a two-burner stove, Mrs. Cutler managed to bring forth a series of mouth-watering dishes that made her home a mecca for the foreign correspondents and diplomats she and her husband knew. And she usually prepared these meals at the end of an exhausting day as art critic for the Tribune, correspondent for Art in America, fine arts consultant to the U.S. Embassy and student at the Cordon Bleu cooking school.

Mrs. Cutler became expert at preparing fine food in a short time. For instance, she learned that in eight minutes she could assemble a tangy Greek eggplant soup and in six minutes whip up a Roquefort souffle, light as a feather and meltingly moist on the inside.

The book also contains such exotic delights as Emerald Cream, a cold herb custard, and broiled grapefruit seasoned with chutney and brandy. For those who like oysters there is a formula for broiling the bivalves and serving them with a hot champagne sauce. Not forgetting those with heart problems, Mrs. Cutler provides low cholesterol variations for 90 per cent of the recipes.

Here is a recipe for a dish she calls Sunday-night soup, for unexpected guests who linger on for Sunday supper. It takes only 9 minutes to cook.

3 tablespoons oil
1 medium sized onion, sliced thin
1 teaspoon curry powder
2 cups cold water
2 cups beef broth
1/2 package frozen leaf spinach, thawed
1 tablespoon Madeira or Port wine
grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oil in 2-quart pot, add onion, cover and simmer 2 minutes. Onion must not be brown. Add curry powder, stir and simmer 1 minute. Add broth and cold water. Bring to gentle boil, cover and simmer 5 minutes. Squeeze excess water from spinach and cut into 3 parts, adding to soup and bring to fast boil. Remove pot from heat and add wine. Serve with grated Parmesan. For low-cholesterol version, use polyunsaturated oil for frying onion and serve with low-fat grated cheese. Serves 6.

1 tablespoon caraway seeds

1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 egg yolk slightly beaten

Stir sauerkraut, caraway seeds and pepper into pie crust mix; with a fork stir in the amount of cold water (1/2 cup) the mix calls for so that dough holds together; form into a ball. Cover and chill. Cut in half. Roll out, one-half at a time, on a prepared pastry cloth with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin to no more than 1/8-inch thickness. With a 2 1/2-inch round cookie cutter' cut out. Project Fund, $1,083,133.48, totaling $24,060,495.76 in revenues. Horne noted that the expenditures break-down for the various sections balances with the anticipated revenues.

Council members also adopted the 1976-77 Community Development budget ordinance for the city totaling $2,107,000. Caldwell explained that the budget includes the 1976-77 Federal entitlement of $1,909,000 as well as some $198,000 in unobligated funds from the 1975-76 budget.

Earlier in the evening, approval was given to an ordinance amending the 1975-76 CD budget by removing the $198,000 in unobligated funds for addition to the coming year CD budget.

Community Development appropriations include: $207,000 for acquisition of real property; $1,185,870 for public works, facilities, and site improvements; $40,000 for code enforcement; $30,000 for clearance, demolition, and rehabilitation; $100,000 for rehabilitation loans and grants; $200,000 for relocation payments and assistance; $104,500 for planning and management development; $50,000 for administration; and an un-programmed balance of $189,630.

The city manager pointed out that the Community Development program application, which was earlier submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, was approved for Greenville with the exception of funding for the proposed joint recreation-library facility.

Caldwell said that the location of the proposed facility was the primary drawback since it was not in the CD target area. He said the concept of the joint facility was not in question and he added that the city will have to go back to HUD and review the matter in an effort to reprogram the facility.

The Council also approved 1975-76 budget amendments submitted by GUCO for incorporation in the Council minutes. The amendments were approved earlier by the Utilities Commission, according to Horne, with the revenues and expenditures remaining in balance in each instance.

In other business, estimated figures that the city will request as transit funding assistance from the U.N. C. Department of Transportation for 1977-78 were approved for submission to the department. Caldwell said that the state is asking that the estimated figures do not represent a formal application or a binding total.

It was explained that the Board of Transportation needs the anticipated figures in order to develop its budget estimates for the new state transit assistance program.

In a final action, the Council approved two items as priority considerations for submission to the N. C. Department of Transportation as amendments to the highway improvement program concerning the city.

According to Caldwell, a public hearing was scheduled for today in Washington, N. C. by the D. O. T. on its proposed seven-year highway improvement program. He said that someone from the city staff was scheduled to be on hand to present the city's priority items.

Adopted as a first priority by the Council was the Pitt Street bridge for the development of the Pitt-Greene Street one-way pair. Second priority on the proposal to the D.O.T. was the four-laning of S. Evans Street from E. Tenth Street to U. S. 264 Bypass and improvements to the intersection of S. Evans Street and U. S. 264 Bypass.

In addition, the Council agreed to have the staff representative at the public hearing endorse the efforts of the Student Government Association at East Carolina University to have a pedestrian span constructed over E. Tenth Street at College Hill Drive. The Council has long endorsed the overpass effort, it was noted, but has been unsuccessful in having the project included as a high priority in the state's highway program.

Dynamite Destroyed

AYDEN—The Ayden Fire Department, Police Department, bomb experts from Cherry Point and Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) personnel assisted in destroying a carton of dynamite found stored in an empty building Thursday at 1 p.m.

The dynamite was found when someone was cleaning in a building which was formerly the office of Tarheel Realty on West Third Street. The realty company had previously used dynamite to clear land for building purposes. When the realty company went out of business a few months ago the dynamite was left stored in the building.

According to the Ayden Police Department the dynamite had begun to melt making it highly explosive. Bomb experts from Cherry Point took the dynamite out of the box, carried it in a marine vehicle to a deserted area, put fuel oil and burlap bags on it and burned it.

Find Bodies At Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The body of a woman was found in a wooded area Thursday night and that of a man in an apartment bathroom.

The discoveries were made on a tip from a sheriff's department in Georgia following the arrest there of a young man and woman from Charlotte. Authorities are trying to determine if the woman was 18-year-old Susan Paulson, a clerk who disappeared last week from a convenience store about a mile from where her decomposed body was discovered.

They did not have the identity of the man immediately. They said both apparently had been shot to death.

Mecklenburg County police at Charlotte said they found the bodies on a tip from deputies at Carnesville in Franklin County, Ga.

Police said the man's body was found in an apartment that also was the address of the man arrested in Georgia. He was identified as Michael Thomas Bean, 18. The woman with him at Carnesville was identified as Laura B. Sweet.

The Mecklenburg County police said they had been told by the Franklin County sheriff's department that Bean and Miss Sweet had been picked up in a stolen car following the armed robbery of a Shell truck stop at Walhalla in Oconee County, S.C.

Miss Paulson, who disappeared June 17, was originally from Baltimore, Md., and had been living with relatives in Charlotte.

Candidates' Wives...

contenders are interested in bringing industry to the state.

According to Mrs. Ed O'Herron, her husband seeks to use the governor's powers to entice industry into the state.

"One of Ed's main platforms is to widen the tax base by bringing in industry where it's needed," she said.

"Tourism could be a big industry for our state, but the lack of east-west highways makes it difficult to travel to North Carolina's points of interest.

"Tourism is not helped by our excellent north-south highways helping people to get out of the state, to go to Disney World or Atlanta instead of the seeing sights at home.

Mrs. Waverly Akins, said her husband is "all for" the industrialization of the state.

"My husband is definitely in favor of bringing high-quality, high-paying industries into North Carolina," she said.

"He feels such industries will improve education, the unemployment situation and the quality of life here by broadening the tax base."

John M. Jordan and Herbert Hyde, both candidates for lieutenant governor, were dismayed at the recent attempt to strip the lieutenant governor of his appointive powers.

"It is a grievous mistake," said Hyde.

"It is a break with tradition and history and was entered in to with very little thought. It should be reversed and hopefully will be."

"The appointive power has to be lodged somewhere, and this is a good compromise. It tends to prevent creation of power blocs which tend to divert attention from the real problems at hand."

According to Jordan, the power will probably be reinstated by future General Assemblies.

"I doubt that the appointive powers will be taken away permanently," he said.

"Each new session adopts its own new rules, so the power can easily be reinstated in the future."

"The office of lieutenant governor has been made a full-time job, and the appointive power is an important part of that job. So far, it has been working."

Several of the gubernatorial candidates' wives indicated their husbands favored the veto power to the governor.

George Wood has suggested a constitutional convention to study this and other matters, according to Mrs. Wood.

"There has been no major study of the state's constitution in 101 years," she said.

"It is not likely that the legislature will give the governor this power, so a constitutional convention seems the most productive method."

Both Mrs. O'Herron and Mrs. Hunt felt that their husbands were in favor of the veto power.

In addition to statewide candidates and their representatives, several candidates for local office were honored at the reception.

William M. (Bill) McLawhorn, candidate for the county Board of Education, said he felt that consolidation of the city and county school systems was likely.

"Eventual consolidation will come," he said.

"I want to see equalization between city and county school funding."

"The biggest problem facing the county schools now is that of funding. We need money for fine arts, industrial arts, and business courses. We need more capital funds to build buildings where needed."

Charles P. Gaskins, incumbent county commissioner, said he felt consolidation would simplify funding matters.

"Consolidation would make it much easier to finance the schools," he said.

"As it stands now, the process is very complex. Consolidation would be easier on the taxpayer, too, since a unified system would do away with a lot of overlapping."

Bruce Strickland, also an incumbent commissioner, said he would favor consolidation "if at a forum held by the National Organization of Women (NOW) Thursday night.

Irma Worthington, Democratic candidate for a seat in the eighth congressional district; Rosalind Britt, Democratic candidate for a seat on the Pitt County Board of Commissioners; and Mrs. Ann Creech, Democratic candidate for a seat on the Pitt County Board of Education, spoke briefly about their platforms and entertained questions.

"I was a homemaker for 17 years, then a teacher for 25 years and I have farmed. I feel that the different experiences I have had, have given me experience in problem solving," Mrs. Worthington said.

"I have a brother who has served as a representative from Beaufort county for three terms and a brother-in-law from the Pasquotank area who served five terms in the senate, so I have decided to give it a try,"

she continued.
"I have had enough of Pitt County candidates having no opposition," she added.

Mrs. Worthington listed her primary concerns as education, farming, road systems, and crime.

"I am interested in education at all levels giving special attention to the problems of discipline, money, attendance, and teachers' salaries. I am aware of the problems of the farmer and feel that something needs to be done about inheritance laws. I feel that we need at least one complete East-West road in our state. I feel that there is much need for reform with our problem of crime."

Mrs. Britt said, "I would like to find out if all that I hear about what the county commissioners won't do is true.

"I have had many experiences all over the state and feel that I am knowledgeable about many things. I feel that my experience would be helpful in helping the county commissioners make decisions.

"I am concerned about the neglects of the educational, recreational and cultural facilities in this county. We haven't begun to tap the educational resources available to us in this county. We haven't begun to tap the recreational facilities in this county. We have an ideal county for recreational facilities for all ages.

"I am concerned about the lack of cultural facilities in our county. There is no auditorium in our county that can house a large production," she continued.

"I am also concerned about the problem with the landfills in our county. My tax money is paying for the county landfill, but if I want to dump any garbage at the landfill I must pay to do so."

"Pitt county has the potential of being a leading county in North Carolina. I'd like to see it happen and help work to make it happen," Mrs. Britt said.

According to Mrs. Creech, "The first few school years are the most important school years of a child's life. I feel that we need strong reading and math skills programs in our elementary and grammar schools.

"I am in support of guidance counselors for the elementary levels and the expansion of vocational areas. I feel that it is necessary for both drama and band departments to be developed in our high schools."

"I feel that more direct and open communication between the school board and the communities and the parents is necessary. The board of education is charged to provide the best possible education for the students of Pitt County. If elected, I will try to preface each decision I make with the question: is it in the best interest of the children of Pitt County?"

Mrs. Britt was asked whether she would support county programs even if it would mean increased taxing. "I would investigate the wise spending of present available funds first, and then, if necessary, support the increased taxing," she replied.

"I feel that we must go back to the basics in education. I would be in favor of skills tests to determine whether a student was eligible for passing a grade," Mrs. Worthington said when asked if she would support skills tests.

Another Exciting Exploration

Another of mankind's most exciting exploration is nearing the climatic stage as Viking 1 prepares to land on the Planet Mars on July 4, the nation's birthday.

Already the space vehicle is sending back photos of the Martian surface, in particular the set-down site for Viking lander. The photos will be carefully studied by scientists on earth to determine if the craft can safely land on the Martian surface.

Viking 1 will continue to orbit Mars until July 4 when the historic landing of the first Earth made vehicle is made on its surface.

If that landing is successful the Earth's scientists will begin to unravel secrets of our sister planet which have puzzled men from ancient times.

At one time it was thought by many that the most likely life outside of the Earth would be found on Mars. Our scientists doubt this now, but already Viking 1 has indicated there might be more water on Mars than had previously been believed. There is also the possibility that some of the channels observed in the photos might at one time have been carved by running water.

There are those who argue that the cost of such expeditions as Viking 1's excursion to Mars are not worth the enormous costs. But we believe that Man's natural curiosity makes space explorations essential now that we have the technology to carry them out.

No one knows how space exploration will benefit mankind, but we are certain that it will, if not for this generation then for some future generation.

No Restraints To New-Found Power?

If it hadn't been pounded home into the public awareness before, it should be now. The Massachusetts state employe's strike signals anew that it can happen anywhere.

Municipal governments have had that kind of experience; and there's no telling how far and how wide such work stoppages can go among organized government workers.

Usually the right to strike against government is waived by budding organizations or associations, and it would be folly for elected and responsible government to permit strikes against the general welfare. But strikes have taken place, they do take place and they will take place.

Justifiable or not, such action undercuts the very authority and function of government.

The trend bodes ill for the governed and all of their institutions.

More Bad Cases In Prison

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—More young people are committing tougher crimes and getting longer prison sentences for them. That, in a nutshell, is the problem in North Carolina's crowded prison system.

Those "hard-case" prisoners require maximum security and stay locked up longer, causing the most serious crowding at Central Prison in Raleigh, the state's major maximum security unit.

Bad as present conditions are, prison officials foresee things getting much worse as the trend toward more crime—therefore more prisoners—continues. By the end of 1977, officials expect an inmate population of 15,056; by the end of 1980 it may hit 16,750; and by 1983, 17,398.

Space Problems

Already, more than 13,150 prisoners are jammed into space designed to hold 10,075. Plans call for adding 1,016 new cells at 13 prison units across the state. Some additional space is being developed at juvenile training schools as that population declines.

But the future condition of the prisons is obvious from the figures contained in a report just published by the Department of Corrections: "A Changing Direction."

Reviewing the history of the system in North Carolina, taking stock of the present, and looking ahead caused Ralph D. Edwards, director of prisons, to observe: "The future will require expanded prison facilities if the goals of reasonable protection for those incarcerated as well as for the general public are to be reached."

A review of the inmate population since 1970 is contained in the report. The general population increased sharply; from 9,603 during 1970 to 12,171 during 1975—up 27 per cent.

But the more significant trend was the younger ages of those sentenced, and longer terms for more serious crimes.

Five years ago, new inmates between 17 and 25 made up 38 per cent of all admissions. In 1975, that age group made up more than half (53 per cent) of all new admissions.

In that five year period, new admissions serving six months or less dropped by 29 per cent. Longer terms were the rule.

Security Problem

"This trend can be summarized by saying that in 1975, more new admissions committed more serious crimes and will be incarcerated for longer periods of time than in 1970. Security requirements for this changing inmate population have placed another burden on the Division of Prisons.

"Because most of the smaller field units in the state are designed for inmates needing less supervision, the most extreme overcrowding has occurred in those units designed for greater security, and it is to these facilities that the most potentially dangerous inmates must be sent," the report notes.

A survey of misdemeanants (less serious crimes), and felons (more serious) show the change: in 1970, 79 per cent of new admissions were misdemeanants, 21 per cent felons. In 1975, 54 per cent were misdemeanants and 46 per cent felons.

Racial characteristics of the inmate population are contained in the statistical report by the prisons operation, reflecting a number of black male felons in prison far out of proportion to the general population. There were 5,202 black males in prison in 1975 for more serious crimes, compared to 3,901 white males. On less serious crimes, there were 1,045 black males, compared to 1,342 white males.

On death row, there were 67 black males, 27 white males, four male indians, and one each white female, black female, and indian female.

It is costing North Carolina taxpayers $12.49 per inmate per day, with that cost broken down this way: $7.16 for security and custody; $2.27 for food, clothing and personal items; $1.46 for health care; 79 cents for social programs; 56 cents for administration; and 25 cents for educational programs.

The Reforms Are Coming

WASHINGTON—I was on Capitol Hill the other day, and everywhere I went I heard congressmen talk about reform.

I'm not usually a suspicious type, but I did ask Congressman Halo if the House's sudden desire for reform had anything to do with the Wayne Hays scandal.

"Of course not," he said angrily. "We've been discussing reform up here on the Hill for years."

"You've discussed it, but you apparently haven't done anything about it, until Elizabeth Ray confessed she didn't know how to type etc. etc."

"The desire of Congress to reform had nothing to do with Miss Ray's revelations. All of us have felt for a long time that committee chairmen wield too much power, and we have been studying ways and means to put checks and balances on them. I was just saying to Tip O'Neill the other day, 'Tip, I think we ought to figure out some way of seeing to it that one man does not get in the position where he can do anything he damn pleases, because he has us all over a barrel.'"

"When did you say that?"

"The day after Wayne Hays resigned from the House Administration Committee. The man was a virtual dictator. He held a sword over all our heads."

"Why didn't you throw him out before now, if that was true?"

"Because he was the chairman of the committee." "You don't throw out the chairman of Administration Committee just because he has a sword over your head."

"Why not?" "Because if you fail in throwing him out he'll take your parking place away from you and refuse to sign your travel vouchers, and cut down your office space. The time for reform is when a chairman gets himself into so much trouble he won't be a threat to you any more."

"It doesn't take much courage to throw out a bad guy when he's no longer a threat," I said. "The test is when he's the head of a committee and everyone knows he's no damn good."

"Who's talking about courage?" Congressman Halo said. "I thought we were talking about reforms."

"I forgot." "The thing the American people don't understand is that Congress is a club, and we have certain rules we live by. When somebody breaks these rules, then it's up to us to see that something is done about it. That's why we have an ethics committee."

"Which meets about once every two years," I said.

"That's because we don't want to waste the taxpayers' money holding a bunch of hearings that would only embarrass the men and women the people elected to office," Halo said. "But apparently there is now unanimous consent amongst all congressmen running for office that perhaps some of the rules should be changed, and without any pressure from anybody we're going to do it. It's unfortunate the Wayne Hays scandal broke just at the time we were all calling for reform, because many people will think we were railroaded into policing ourselves more carefully because of a silly sex scandal."

"I'm glad to hear that, Congressman Halo. When a body such as yours is willing to admit that even you are imperfect, it makes everyone in the country feel better."

"Son, I know it's hard for you as a member of the press to believe this, but there are even sinners up here on the Hill. We're flesh and blood like everybody else. The only

BICENTENNIAL HOOPLA

Could Only Be In America

By DON McLEOD

Associated Press Writer Only in America would they celebrate the national Bicentennial with a day-long protest rally and concert, the biggest fireworks, the longest parade and 200 people flinging Frisbees off a hill.

And that's only a small part of the program for this Fourth of July when the United States turns 200 years old. There's also greased pig chasing, bell ringing, pig wows, a 1,776-yard footrace and a 400,000-slice birthday cake.

Since there is no world's fair, like the one they had in 1876, and no national focus for the celebration, local folks across the land have come up with ideas of their own. Some must have the founding fathers giggling in their graves. There will be properly solemn official ceremonies, of course, beginning with prayer services in Washington and other cities, and centering around a commemorative program in Philadelphia where the Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776.

The activities of national interest begin July 2, the 200th anniversary of the day the Continental Congress actually voted independence from Britain for the 13 American colonies.

President Ford will go to the National Archives that evening to view the Declaration and deliver a speech.

The festivities begin July 3 with the American Bicentennial Grand Parade down

Washington's Constitution Avenue, led by Vice President and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller. In the evening the President will attend an "Honor America" entertainment salute to America at the Kennedy Center.

Bicentennial Sunday will dawn on sunrise religious services at the Lincoln Memorial sponsored by the downtown churches of Washington. President Ford will begin his busy schedule by attending services at an area church.

From Washington, Ford will fly to Valley Forge, Pa., where he will join activities which include the encampment of 100 covered wagons which have crossed the country in the Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage. He also is expected to sign legislation making Valley Forge a national park.

The President also will attend the National Bicentennial Program at Independence Hall in Philadelphia which will include a reading of the Declaration and the usual patriotic speeches.

Actor Charlton Heston is expected to be master of ceremonies and Frank Sinatra to sing the national anthem. Then one of the major parades of the day follows the ceremonies, running for six or seven hours.

In midafternoon Ford will have moved on to New York where he will view more than 200 sailing vessels, including nearly all of the world's few remaining tall-masted ships, parading up the Hudson River.

In Boston, first city of the Revolution, they'll be doing it the way they have every year since 1782 with a parade, flag raising and reading of the Declaration.

Meanwhile, back in Washington, a program of music, speeches and fireworks will run from daybreak to midnight on the capital's Mall area, featuring big name entertainers and politicians.

At 8 a.m., following the sunrise service, there will be a second interfaith religious program, this one at the Jefferson Memorial.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

I cannot believe what is happening or has happened to some of the beautiful areas within Greenville's boundaries. I have always respected the mental and spiritual atmosphere of this congenial community as one which protects the quality of its natural beauty even in the event of inevitable geographical change. This is true no more. The new direction this town has taken is an abhorrence to my better judgment and feelings.

There are many instances of senseless destruction of Greenville's ecology, but one recent incidence, in particular, is that which commands most of my fury. If anyone wishes to experience the ignorance which guides, the modernization process of this town, I direct you to the corner of Tenth and Cotanche Street. I implore you in Greenville to emulate the myopia and simper attitudes characterizing most cities concerning their standards for growth which is predominantly pernicious, or shall we rather strive in wisdom to maintain the quality of leaving left by our predecessors?

Must our hearts be governed by economic gain or can we retain the moralistic fortitude necessary to progress and evolve in a qualitative and positive manner? I should hope that there still exists in Greenville those people whose hearts and sensible faculties have not been totally perverted by greed for wealth or vainglory.

Dim View Of Ford's Busing Bill

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — "The President's bill has as much chance of passing this year as Harold Stassen has of getting the Republican presidential nomination."

That gloomy assessment of the prospects for President Ford's proposals to limit school busing came Thursday from Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.

Dole's comment pretty much summed up the pessimism of the anti-busing bloc in the Senate.

Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska, ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee said, "It's going to be tough," when asked about the prospects for passage of the bill.

With Hruska and Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, among the sponsors of the White House proposals, the Judiciary Committee is expected to schedule early hearings.

Key House members could give no indication when there might be action in that chamber.

Ford asked Congress to limit busing programs imposed to desegregate public schools to a maximum of five-years duration.

The President also would limit busing to cases where segregation was the result of illegal discrimination by school officials.

An opponent of prior efforts to restrict busing said the key to the future of the Ford proposals was whether they were "good enough to split the civil rights bloc." Key members of that group were withholding comment until they had more time to study the plan.

But these initial questions were raised: Was it constitutional and would it protect the rights of black children to equal educational opportunity?

An example of the dilemma faced by some northern senators is that of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Sources close to Kennedy said the vio-

Wind Power Steps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is considering 17 locations as possible sites for four experimental wind-power electrical generating systems, including the two largest windmills ever built.

The Energy Research and Development Administration said Thursday the locations were selected from 65 areas proposed by utility firms and public agencies responding to recent agency request.

Selection was based largely on the amount of wind and other environmental factors at the sites and on the sponsors' ability to provide useful data, ERDA said.

The first two machines, to be installed next year, will be designed to generate from 125 to 200 kilowatts of electricity in winds of about 20 miles per hour and will have rotor blades about 125 feet in diameter. They will be the first large windmills in more than 30 years to produce power for public consumption in the country.

The other two windmills, to be installed in 1978-79, are expected to be the largest ever built. They will have blades 200 feet in diameter and will be capable of generating 1,500 kilowatts of power.

The 17 sponsors and candidate sites are:

Block Island Power Co., Block Island, R.I.; Puerto Rico Water Resources Authority, Culebra Island, Puerto Rico; Bonneville Power Administration, Augspurger Mountain, Wash.; Southwestern Public Service Co., Amarillo, Tex.; Town of Clayton, N.M.; Southern California Edison, San Geronimo Pass, Calif.

Hawaiian Electric Co., Kaena Point, Oahu, Hawaii; Alaska Bussell Electric Co., Cold Bay, Alaska; Merrra, Ludington, Mich.; East River Power Co., Huron, S.D.; Pacific Gas & Electric Co., Point Arena, Calif.; Long Island Lighting Co., Montauk Point, N.Y.

Portland General Electric Co., Boardman, Ore.; City of Russell, Kan.; Gas and Electric Department, City of Holyoke, Mass.; Blue Ridge Electric Membership Department, Boone, N.C.; Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District, Kingsley Dam, Neb.

40 Years Ago Today

June 25, 1936 The oft-remembered "navy spy case" was stripped of its secrecy today with the indictment of two men charged with conspiring to furnish United States Navy information to the Japanese government.

One of the defendants, Toshio Miyazaki, was identified in the federal grand jury indictment as a lieutenant commander in the Japanese imperial navy. The other was Harry Thomas Thompson, former navy petty officer accused by the government of masquerading as an officer to obtain information and then selling it to Miyazaki.

Legion Post Officers Installed; Awards Made

LEGIONNAIRE OF THE YEAR . . . Bruce Whitaker (center) is shown with Col. Allen Applewhite, awards committee chairman who presented the award, and Mrs. Whitaker.

Pitt County Post 39 of the American Legion installed new officers and gave awards to several members for outstanding service at its June meeting.

The installation service was conducted by Third District Commander J. Herman Eason of Washington. Officers for 1976-77 are Alton Warren, Commander; Oscar Moore, First Vice Commander; Adrian Adams, Second Vice Commander; Ernest Avery, Adjutant and Finance Officer; Owen Kingsbury, Sergeant-at-

Certificates of appreciation went to The Daily Reflector and to WNCT and WITN television stations for news coverage of Legion activities. More than 100 certificates of continuing service for 20 years or more were presented.

ALTON WARREN

Arms; Connor Eagles, Chaplain; William H. Dawson, historian; Walter Tucker, service officer; Phil Goodson, Judge Advocate; and Bruce Whitaker, Norman Wilkerson, and Dr. R. M. Helms, Standing Committeemen.

Bruce Whitaker was named Legionnaire of the Year. William H. Dawson was presented a Certificate of Meritorious Service; Officers' Warrant of Merit, Connor Eagles and Ernest Avery; and Certificates of Participation, Owen Kingsbury, Adrian Adams, Lester Adams, and Harold Leary.

nial Commission, a leftist group which has been protesting official plans for celebrating the occasion, will begin a march in support of Declaration of Independence from Big Business."

The PBC will follow its march with a rally on the Mall featuring Jane Fonda and Dr. Benjamin Spock. But this will shortly evolve into an all-day celebrity appearance and entertainment extravaganza spotlighting singers Don McLean, Peter Yaro of the former Peter, Paul and Mary group, John Stewart, formerly of the Kingston Trio, and various rock performers.

At the same time, on another quarter of the Mall, the annual Festival of America folklife will be in full swing to the tune of fiddle music and tom toms.

And sometime during the day, the Centennial Safe, a sort of time capsule sealed in 1876, will be opened at the Capitol. Congress also planned to serve punch and cookies to the public during the afternoon on the East Front steps of the Capitol.

At 2 p.m., supposedly the exact moment the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia announced the Declaration of Independence, the bell will be tolled again and answered by simultaneous ringing of bells all across America.

Also going on across America will be local celebrations including that 1,776-yard race at a high school in Alexandria, Va., George Washington's home town.

Up in Sitka, Alaska, they'll have their own July 4th parade along with the tree-felling, topping, climbing, log rolling, axe throwing championships and square dancing.

And in Seward, Alaska, the 4th will be celebrated with a foot race 3,000 feet up Shale Mountain, around a flag pole on the top and back to town.

Across the continent they'll be raising Liberty poles in Milford, Conn., and Derry, N.H., where celebrants also will roast an ox.

In Ada, Okla., they'll chase greased pigs at the all-day picnic. There's a hog-calling contest in New Philadelphia, Ohio, a horse race down Main Street in Lexington, Ky., and a Pony Express ride from Sacramento, Calif., to the Nevada state line.

Biloxi, Miss., will have hot air balloon races and Hanibal, Mo., its Mark Twain Days, with raft races, fence painting and frog jumping. And Cairo, Ga., will hold the Grady County Marbles competition.

New Orleans, of course, will feature jazz all day on the 4th after a Mardi Gras-style parade which begins on the 3rd and ends up after midnight in the Superdome.

Not to be outdone by the mainlanders, American Samoa will include copracutting and spear-chucking contests with the usual parades and speeches.

Alumni Group President-Elect

RALEIGH (AP) — Paul N. Howard Jr., a Greensboro businessman, has been named president-elect of the North Carolina State University Alumni Association.

Howard will take office July 1, 1977, succeeding Rocky Mount banker Norfleet L. Sugg who moves up to the presidency this year.

Former Gov. Bob Scott and four other men were named to the board of directors. They were James H. Barnhardt of Charlotte, James A. Hackney III of Washington, N.C., James R. Huntley of Monroe, and A. Gordon Neville of Statesville.

CANDIDATE HERE

Irma Sermons Worthington, Democratic candidate for the N. C. House of Representatives for the eighth district will meet informally with friends and supporters for refreshments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cain, 206 Pineview Dr., Greenville Monday, June 28 at 7:30-9 p.m.

Stock And Market Reports

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today with a lift from hopes for a continued steady trend in interest rates.

Trading was moderate. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up .08 at 1,003.85. Gainers led losers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Late Thursday the Federal Reserve reported declines in both the basic measure of the money supply and business loans at major New York banks.

The figures were taken as favorable omens for the interest rate outlook because they appeared to encourage the Federal Reserve not to tighten credit.

But despite that favorable influence, the market once again had to contend with selling above the 1,000 level in the Dow.

Ryder System was the most active NYSE issue, up 1/2% at 13 3/4.

A.B. Dick lost a point to 8. On Thursday the company projected lower earnings this year.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .12 to 55.47 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .23 at 105.11.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina egg market was steady on large and weaker on small and medium Thursday. The supply was adequate and demand light. # LBJ Hinted Suspicion Of Castro Role

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new report that President Lyndon B. Johnson suspected Fidel Castro was linked to the assassination of John F. Kennedy is "a significant piece of information," Sen. Richard S. Schweiker says.

ABC News Commentator Howard K. Smith revealed Thursday that Johnson once said to him in private, "I'll tell you something that will rock you.... Kennedy was trying to get to Castro, but Castro got to him first."

Smith said, "I was rocked all right. I begged for details. He refused, saying it will all come out one day."

Smith said he took notes on the conversation, but kept them confidential. With renewed speculation about the assassination, "I feel justified in recounting it publicly now," he said.

Several Johnson aides and journalists reported last year that Johnson dropped similar hints to them that he suspected a Cuban link to Lee Harvey Oswald, whom the Warren Commission said acted alone in the Kennedy slaying.

Schweiker, a Pennsylvania Republican, directed a Senate intelligence committee probe into the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination. Its report, released Wednesday, said the CIA and FBI covered up crucial information in their investigation of the assassination. The report said the CIA did not tell the Warren Commission about its plots against Castro's life, which the Cuban premier apparently knew about.

Schweiker said, "It's pretty obvious to me that President Johnson wanted history to know something that he knew.... I believe important new leads to a breakthrough can and will be developed from people coming forward with fresh information."

uniform accounting system" for governmental units across the state as well as "full performance audits of state programs."

Mrs. Woo explained that full performance audits would "evaluate program and service effectiveness of all state funded projects," to determine "which are... and which are not... fulfilling legislative intent." She said she would then "make these findings and recommendations... "With this kind of overview," she said, "the auditor's office can and should be an enormous reservoir of information on which to base decisions."

Mrs. Woo said the auditor should have an "active role" in the state's "budget-making process... to provide information to the legislature." The evaluation function of the office, she indicated, is of prime importance in this role.

The candidate said, too, that an "award program for government employees" should be established. "If they make suggestions to save time and money," she explained, employees should be rewarded by "giving them a percentage of one year's savings." Through such a program, the candidate said, "both the state and employee would gain."

The political hopeful said "polls indicate we are favorably received and our campaign seems to reinforce that."

Late Carolina Scores Top Pirates, 3-1

HITTING STREAK ENDS—Atlanta's Rowland Office, who had hit safely in the last 29 games, fouls off a pitch during the second inning of Thursday night's game against Montreal. Office failed to get a hit in four trips, ending his string. Atlanta won the game. (AP Wirephoto)

A misguided throw landed Terry Durham on his back with a big pain in his side, and North Carolina drilled two relief pitchers in the final two innings to take a 3-1 win over East Carolina last night.

The victory kept the Tar Heels atop the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League with an 11-3 record. The Pirates fell off to a 6-6 mark.

Durham was locked up in a tie game with Carolina's Clay Johnson at the time, both throwing three-hitters as the eighth frame got underway. Both teams had come up with single runs in the sixth for the 1-1 affair.

But Mike Fox opened up the eighth with a walk off Durham. As Mitch Nance took his first pitch, Fox took off for second.

Durham crouched on the front of the mound, but catcher Howard McCullough's throw was too low and struck Durham on the side, just above the hip.

That finished him for the night.

Nance went on to reach off a bunt single off reliever Billy

Larsen Happy About Honor

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The crewcut is gone, replaced by a more modish, longer style. His hair has turned gray, but the years have been kind to Don Larsen.

It has been two decades since the tall right-hander spun baseball's only World Series no-hitter, a perfect game for the New York Yankees against the Brooklyn Dodgers Oct. 8, 1956.

And baseball has not forgotten that incredible achievement. It has been voted the Most Memorable Moment in World Series-All Star Game history.

Also saluted in the special bi-centennial promotion were Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak in 1941, recognized as the American League's Most Memorable Moment, and Hank Aaron's record-breaking 715th career home run, April 8, 1974, the National League's Most Memorable Moment.

Two other category winners, The Most Memorable Personality and the over-all Most Memorable Moment, will be announced at the All-Star Game in Philadelphia next month.

Larsen was as flabbergasted by his selection as the baseball world was when he set down 27 consecutive Dodgers in the fifth game of the 1956 World Series. "I'm more nervous now than I was 20 years ago," he said. "When the commissioner called me to tell me I had won it, I just about flipped."

The announcement brought back memories of the brisk October day in Yankee Stadium when Larsen wrote baseball history.

"I was okay on the mound," he said. "I was more nervous in the dugout. I mentioned it a couple of times and everybody just walked away."

Baseball tradition believes it is a jinx to mention a no-hitter to a pitcher when he is working on one. Two of the most loquacious Yankees, Manager Casey Stengel and catcher Yogi Berra, steered clear of Larsen as he worked on his masterpiece.

"Casey usually didn't say much if you were pitching a good game," recalled Larsen. "He never said a thing that day. And Yogi never came out to talk to me either. He called a heck of a game and I went with his judgment on every batter."

In the ninth inning, the pressure became intense. Larsen said he felt weak-kneed as he worked on the final three Brooklyn batters.

When Larsen whipped a called third strike past pinch-hitter Dale Mitchell for the final out, Berra raced out and jumped into his arms, wrapping his chunky legs around the lanky pitcher's waist.

It was a magic moment for the pitcher who, except for that single day, had a mediocre career with an 81-91 won-lost log for 14 major league seasons.

Larsen, now a sales representative for a San Jose, Calif., paper manufacturer, often is asked about his perfect game and his brush with baseball immortality. He never tires of talking about it.

"Why should I?" he wondered.

Ruffian, the filly never beaten by a filly, will have a one mile and a quarter race named in her honor. It will be run at Belmont Park Oct. 9.

Davis, but P.J. Gay's bouncer in front of the plate got Nance at second on a froce, leaving Fox at third.

Gay and Fox attempted a double steal, but the Bucs got Fox sliding into home, and it looked as if they might get out of the inning. However, Kevin Haerberle walked and Randy Warrick followed with a double, driving in Gay for a 2-1 lead.

The Tar Heels had a threat go by the boards in the first when Gay opened the game with a double, but was then caught off base trying to decide whether to try for third or not.

Carolina did no further damage until the sixth when it got its first run. That came with two out. Haerberle walked, stole second and came in when Warrick singled.

The other run came in the ninth. With one down, Jim Atkinson reached on an error and stole second. He moved to third on an out and scored on a wild pitch.

The Bucs had a chance in the third when Tony Oakley and McCullough both walked with one away, but the top of the order could not bring them around Charlie Stevens died on second in the fifth, and except for the lone runner who scored, he was the last Buc to get that far.

That run came in the sixth, when Macon Moye's fly to right kept drifting back until fielder Steve Coats crashed into the fence and the ball dropped over for a homer.

At the time, that tied it at 1-1. The two teams resume action tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Harrington Field as they make up a game rained out earlier in the season.

Hudson In Rocky Mount 2nd Upset Trims Legion

J. H. Judson scored its second straight victory over a top-place team in the Junior Putters League last night.

Hudson knocked off Buck's Gulf, 18½ to 17½, knocking Buck's out of a tie for first place. Hudson had earlier beaten Coca-Cola, pulling them back into a tie for first. Robert Stencil led Hudson with six points, while Lydia Worthington had 5½. Bucks's was led by Ryner Bullock with six and Troy Fleming with 5½.

Coke moved back into sole possession of first with a 22-14 win over Smith-Waldrop. Robert Sturtevant led Coke with six, while Terry Smith had 5½. Smith-Waldrop was paced by Mark Grossnickle with six and Doug Freknie with four.

The other match saw Jerry's Sweet Shoppe down Jefferson Standard, 17½ to 15½. Laura Vincent led Jerry's with 3½, while David Johnson and Mark Barber each had 3½ for Jefferson.

Coke now leads with a 5-1-1 record, while Buck's is 4-2-1. Jerry's is 4-3, followed by Jefferson Standard, 3-4, and Hudson and Smith-Waldrop, both 2-5.

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount's American Legion baseball team pushed over two runs in the first inning and spotted five more during the final four innings to take a 7-1 victory over Greenville last night.

The defeat was the tenth in 11 starts for the Greenville club. The lone victory came earlier in the year over Rocky Mount.

Greenville did not score its lone run until the ninth inning, and by then it was far too late. They had a couple of chances earlier in the game, but failed to capitalize on them.

In the first, Mike Belton tripled with one out, but died on third, while David Dixon died at second in the third.

He was the last runner to get that far until the ninth when Denie Smith singled and moved up on a passed ball. Greg Lee walked and Mike Shank reached on a fielder's choice. Eddy Connolly followed with a single, scoring Smith with the lone Greenville run.

Rocky Mount got all it needed in the first, scoring a pair. Gary Ward reached on an error and Mike Leonard tripled him home. Joyner reached on an error, scoring Leonard.

In the fifth, Rocky Mount added another run. Joyner singled and Craig Smith got a hit. An error moved both up, and Joyner scored when Mike Upchurch grounded out.

A fourth run crossed in the seventh. Joyner singled and moved up on an error. He scored when Smith reached on a miscue.

The final three came over in the eighth. Bunn walked and Ward was safe on an error. Leonard singled to load the bases, and a hit by Joyner scored two runs. Clark reached on an error, bringing in Leonard and Smith each had two. Greenville got only four hits off Bunn.

Pepsi-Cola Holds Off College View Rally, 8-7

Pepsi-Cola cut off a College View rally in the bottom of the seventh to preserve an 8-7 victory in Babe Ruth action last night.

Pepsi had taken a 8-6 lead in the top of the sixth after battling back from a 6-5 deficit in the fifth. College View picked up a run in the bottom of the seventh inning but could not tie the game.

Al Shackleford pitched the win for Pepsi giving up four hits and 11 walks while striking out two. Steve Hawkins lost striking out four, walking five and scattering 12 hits.

Pepsi opened the scoring in the first getting runs on a single by Calvin Parker and a sacrifice fly by Mike Norfleet.

College View got the runs back in the bottom of the inning. Walks to Lindsey Winstead and Ricky West put two men on and they scored on an error and a bases loaded walk.

Will Sanderson reached on an error in the third and stole second. A hit by Parker drove him in giving Pepsi the lead, 3-2, but College View rallied to take it away in the bottom of the inning.

Jimmy Clemons reached on an error and John Haynes on a fielder's choice. Both stole up and H.L. Austin walked. Marshall Crumpler reached on an error scoring Clemons, Patrick Wilson walked forcing in Haynes, a hit by West drove in Austin, and Winstead walked forcing in Crumpler.

Pepsi got two more in the fourth when Parker homered and Bob Morehead scored on an error.

Pepsi regained the lead in the fifth. Ashley Taylor was safe on a fielder's choice and Morehead singled him to second. Marty Worthington singled but an error on the play let both Taylor and Morehead score.

Shackleford singled with one out in the sixth and scored on Taylor's double.

College View scored Jimmy Hodge on a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the seventh but failed to get any more.

Sanderson and Parker had three hits for Pepsi while Shackleford added two. West had two for College View.

Ayden-Griffton, Taff In Wins

Home runs by Vern Davenport and Eddie Taylor carried Ayden-Griffton to a 11-7 win over Kiwanis and Taff took a 5-2 victory over Bill Clifton in the Senior Babe Ruth league last night.

Ayden-Griffton picked up two runs in the first inning of its game and added two more in the second. Davenport made it a 5-0 lead with his homer in the third. Paul Ricciarelli walked and Ned Craft singled in the fourth and both scored as Taylor homered putting the game out of reach for Kiwanis.

Kiwanis rallied for four in the bottom of the fifth on a run-scoring double by Jesse Baker, and singles by Jay Chenier, Joey Downing and Mike Baker. The fourth tally scored on balk.

A-G added three in the sixth. Kiwanis added one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

Taff opened the scoring in the afterpiece with two in the first both runs scoring on a hit by Charlie Nobles. Connor Merritt scored on an error in the bottom of the second cutting the lead to 2-1 for Bill Clifton but Taff got the run back in the top of the third when Kevin Adams walked and scored on a passed ball.

Nobles reached on an error in the sixth and stole second. Nuggie Worthington walked. An errored pickoff scored Nobles and Curtis Clemons singled in Worthington.

Clifton scored its other run in the seventh.

Pate Skies To 78 In Western

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
AP Sports Writer

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Jerry Pate says he is emotionally and physically drained, can't hit full, solid shots anymore and just hopes he can make the cut today in the Western Golf Open.

After playing 85 rounds this year and winning the U.S. Open Sunday, the 22-year-old tour rookie says he is taking next week off before going to the British Open.

"Phones have been ringing so much I hear them in my sleep," said Pate. "Before I started Thursday's first round I was trying to eat breakfast at 7 a.m. and at the same time talk to a sports fella making me an offer."

Pate's first-round card was marred by eight bogeys for an seven-over-par 78. He will have to struggle Friday to make the cut, which figures to be around 149.

Faced with the same thing, also with 78, is Tom Watson, current British Open champion and 1974 Western winner.

Pate said, "I drove well but I hit five or six approach irons short and took bogeys. I tried as hard as I could, but I guess I'm tired out."

Meanwhile, Bob Dickson, winless since 1973, will try to keep his game together to maintain a two-stroke lead. He took advantage of clearing afternoon weather at the soggy Butler National Course to come in four under par with 67.

"I putted well, capitalized on a few good breaks, and kept the ball in play, which is really the secret on this course," said Dickson, who has won only $20,224 this year. "I missed only two fairways and when I did I had shots to the green. It was by far my most satisfying round of the year."

Bruce Hampton, seeking his first four victory of the year, missed putts of 5 and 4 feet that cost two bogeys as he fashioned a 69. He had three birdies on the back side in opening his bid for a second Western Open title.

Veteran Charles Coody and tour rookie George Burns were the only others to break par with 70s.

Three rookies — Tony Cerda, Rex Caldwell and Ted Goin — were among nine players bracketed at par 71.

In this group were Al Geiberger, having one of his best years on the circuit, and defending champion Hale Irwin, who double-bogeyed the last hole when a bad drive hit trees and plunked into the water.

Women To Get Answer

By JEFF BRADLEY
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Under the threat of a women's boycott of Wimbledon next year, the All-England Club is expected today to answer demands from Chris Evert and other top women tennis stars for equal pay with the men.

"Percentage-wise, we want equality. And unless we get it next year, we won't come," said Miss Evert, the 21-year-old honey blonde from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and No. 1 seed for the women's title.

This year the men's champion will get $21,875 while the women's champion will get $17,500. There is also prize for the other women prize winners.

Miss Evert, president of the Women's Tennis Association, said the WTA was asking its members to sign a form agreeing to boycott Wimbledon in 1976 unless their demands are met.

She declined further comment on the dispute Thursday after leading the women's seeds through to the fourth round by cruising past Lesley Hunt of Australia 6-1, 6-0.

"I shall be meeting the All-England Club and presenting our case Friday morning," she said.

Asked if she ever played or practiced with men, she said: "I used to practice with Jimmy Connors, but that's all. I feel they play so much better than I do, it's unfair to ask them."

Connors, the No. 2 men's singles seed here from Belleville, Ill., and Miss Evert were once engaged but have since drifted apart.

Unconfirmed reports about the women's demands said they also wanted an equal number of entries with the men, who have 128 competitors this year compared to 96 women.

The All-England Club, which stages the 99-year-old tournament, already has an agreement to increase the women's share of the prizes over a period of a few years until parity — at least for the winner — is reached. But Miss Evert and the WTA apparently are dissatisfied with that concession.

The men appeared to have reservations about supporting the protest.

John Newcombe of Australia, president of the Association of Tennis Professionals, said: "Equal money comes down to equal performance and when I have the full facts I think you will find the girls are overpaid."

Defending men's title holder Arthur Ashe of Miami declined immediate comment. "I'll have to talk to Chrissie first," he said.

Meanwhile, Miss Evert, No. 2 seed Mrs. Cawley and No. 3 seed Virginia Wade of Britain won third-round victories Thursday on sun-baked courts and in temperatures reaching 104 degrees.

Mrs. Cawley beat Corinne Molesworth of Britain 6-1, 6-1 and Miss Wade defeated Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., 6-3, 6-3. Fourth-seeded Martina Navratilova, the former Czech now living in Beverly Hills, Calif., beat Lea Antonopolis of Glendora, Calif., 6-1, 6-1.

Connors had a day off after reaching the fourth round in Wednesday's play.

Auto Specialty Pulls Off Upset

Auto Specialty pushed over two runs in the bottom of the sixth to take a 7-5 lead and score upset victory over Cox Realty in the Prep League last night.

The loss assures the Graniters of no worse than a tie for the league title. The Graniters play Cox Saturday and a loss by Cox would give the championship to the Graniters outright. A win would force a tie.

Cox rallied for three in the first getting two on bases-loaded walks and a third on a hit by Ricky Sutton. John Williams doubled in the bottom of the inning driving in two runs putting Auto Specialty on the boards.

Greg Sasser led off the third reaching on an error for Cox and he stole second. Bobby Hopkins reached on a fielder's choice and Mike Thurber grounded out scoring Sasser. Jeff Wilson reached on an error scoring Hopkins.

Auto Specialty scored a run in the fourth then added two in the fifth to tie it up. Barry Tyson led off the fifth with a walk and Jamie Byrd drew a pass. Woody Wichard hit into a fielder's choice scoring Tyson and Jeff Fischer forced in Byrd.

Arthur Fletcher opened the sixth with a double and Mark Douglas was walked. Tyson was hit by a pitch loading the bases and a walk to Byrd forced in Fletcher with the winner. Douglas scored on a wild pitch.

Junior Neal and Steve Irwin had two hits each for Cox. Fletcher had two for Auto Specialty.

Davenport On Team For Fourth Attempt

By MELINDA S. EDEN
Associated Press Writer
EUGENE, Ore. (AP) —

Teen-agers Brenda Morehead and Chandra Cheeseborough will race for the United States in both women's sprints, and 33-year-old Willie Davenport will run the high hurdles at the Olympics for the fourth time.

Miss Morehead and Miss Cheeseborough, who finished 1-2 in the 100-meter dash, repeated their performance in the 200 Thursday at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials at Hayward Field.

Miss Cheeseborough, a student at Tennessee State, was clocked in 22.49 seconds. An aiding wind however, doused her chances of breaking Miss Cheeseborough's American record of 22.77.

Miss Morehead, 17, heading for her senior year at Ribault High School in Jacksonville, Fla., sped 200 meters in 22.64, followed by Deborah Armstrong, a 21-year-old Grambling student, in 22.74.

Miss Morehead, a chunky 19-year-old, missed the American record of 11.07 seconds in the 100 by one-hundredth of a second on Monday.

Frank Shorter, 28, Florida Track Club, is the only other American, with three days left in the trials, who will compete in two events at Montreal — the 10,000-meter run and the marathon.

Davenport, who vowed to return after tearing a knee ligament at the 1975 AAU Championships in Eugene, had said he would quit running if he failed to make the Olympic team here.

"I set a goal for it, and I made it," he said. "I'm very happy."

The Baton Rouge Track Club star streaked across the finish line of the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.52 seconds behind Charles Foster, whose time was 13.44 seconds, wind-aided.

A crowd of 11,600 cheered wildly for Davenport, who won the Olympic gold medal in 1968. He was fourth in 1972 behind Rod Milburn's world record 13.24 seconds and failed to make the finals in 1964.

Foster, 22, North Carolina Central, burst out of the blocks and led all the way. Davenport overtook James Owens, a 20-year-old UCLA sprinter, on the last two hurdles. Owens finished in 13.57.

One of the casualties in the tough hurdles field was Tom Hill of the U.S. Army, three-time AAU champion, including this year. He finished last in 13.92 seconds, smacking the last two hurdles.

Paula Girven, an 18-year-old graduate of Garfield High School in Woodbridge, Va., won the women's high jump with a leap of 6 feet 1 3/4 inches, as U.S. record holder Joni Huntley dropped out to nurse a tender hamstring muscle.

Miss Girven, who will attend the University of Maryland, had leaped only 6-1 previously. She made three unsuccessful tries at 6-3, a scant quarter-inch above Miss Huntley's American mark.

"It was kind of scary," said Miss Huntley, 21, of her sore leg. "I didn't really want to quit at all. On the one jump I missed (first try at 6-0 1/2), I could feel it tightening."

She cleared that height on her second attempt for the No. 2 spot on the Olympic high jump team. Third was 18-year-old Pam Spencer, 18, of Seattle's Falcon Track Club, who leaped 5-11 1/4 to qualify.

In the only other final Thursday, Lawrence Hart of the New York Athletic Club threw the hammer 222 feet 7 inches and so far is the only American going to the Olympics in that event.

Bill Diehl of Army is the only American to meet the Olympic qualifying standard of 226-5, but he needed to win here in order to go to Montreal.

The rule is that if only one American has met the standard, and no one meets the mark in the trials, only the winner here will go.

"I should have made it easily today," said Hart, a 6-foot-2 3/4-pounder from Long Beach, Calif. "That's why I'm dissatisfied. I know I can throw a lot farther than I am."

Ted Bregar of the U.S. Army and Alvin Jackson of Penn State, who finished second and third in the hammer throw, chalked up lifetime bests on their final efforts.

Rangers Close Office Streak Over; Gap On Royals Braves Keep Going

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers usually get their man but they let the Kansas City Royals hightail it out of town just when they were ready to be gunned down.

Apparently working under the assumption that first place in the American League West ain't big enough for both of us, podnub, the Rangers notched a 5-2 triumph Thursday night that lifted them within two games of the first-place Royals, who had a fairly comfortable five-game bulge just three days earlier.

"I wish we had them in town for a couple more games because when a team gets going bad it very often gets worse," Manager Frank Lukchese said after the Rangers swept the two-game series, stretching Kansas City's losing streak to six games. "Kansas City is hurting. Their team has done a complete turnaround. They beat the hell out of us for two years but now our guys feel they can be had."

In other AL action, the New York Yankees nipped the Cleveland Indians 6-5, the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Boston Red Sox 6-3, the California Angels edged the Oakland A's 2-1 and the Minnesota Twins downed the Chicago White Sox 4-2. Baltimore and Milwaukee had the night off.

The Rangers took advantage of Kansas City baserunning and fielding lapses. Steve Hargra was the winner with sterling relief help from 39-year-old Joe Hoerner. The Royals had three runners picked off base and the Rangers scored twice because of wild Kansas City throws on rundowns.

Yankees 6, Indians 5
Doyle Alexander hurled seven perfect innings but the Yankees blew a five-run lead and needed Mickey Rivers' infield hit with two out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth inning to nip the Indians. It was Rivers' fourth hit.

The Indians broke up Alexander's no-hit bid and chased him with four runs on four hits in the eighth inning, including Alan Ashby's two-run homer.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 3

Rusty Staub and Jason Thompson keyed Detroit's 12-hit attack and Mark Fidrych posted his seventh victory. Staub collected three hits, including a double, scored two runs and drove in one. Thompson had a key double and a two-run homer. Fidrych fired a seven-hitter — including fourth-inning homers by Fred Lynn and Carl Yastrzemski.

Angels 2, A's 1

Bobby Bonds belted a two-run homer. Sid Monge pitched eight strong innings and two Oakland runners were caught stealing in the ninth inning as the Angels beat the A's for the first time in 10 meetings. Bonds slammed his ninth homer of the season after Dave Collins' single in the first inning and Monge made it stand up with ninth-inning relief from Dick Drago and two perfect throws by catcher Andy Etchebarren.

Twins 4, White Sox 2

Bill Singer weathered a one-hour rain delay and Steve Braun hit a home run for Minnesota. Singer lost his bid for a shutout in the seventh when he allowed three of Chicago's eight hits and both runs. Chicago starter Rich Gossage was tagged for three runs after action resumed. A wild pitch and throwing error by Gossage let in Minnesota's first two runs and a single by Mike Cubbage drove in another.

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

It's all over for Rowland Office but it may be just beginning for the Atlanta Braves.

Office saw his hitting streak ended at 29 games Thursday night, but the Braves won for the seventh time in eight games anyway, edging Montreal 2-1 behind Earl Williams' two-run double and the pitching of Dick Ruthven.

Office, who walked, grounded out twice and flied out once, came up eight games short of the National League record streak of 37 games set by Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves in 1945.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia shaded Cincinnati 5-4, Los Angeles dumped Houston 5-1, San Francisco defeated San Diego 8-5 and Chicago outlasted Pittsburgh 2-1 in 13 innings.

Despite Office's temporary lapse, things are looking up for the Braves. Atlanta started the season with a new owner, a new manager, a slew of new players, including million-dollar free agent pitcher Andy Messersmith, and high hopes, then quickly sank into the cellar. A 13-game losing streak in mid-May had Manager Dave Bristol talking to himself.

But things have taken a turn for the better. The Braves have clawed their way up to fourth place in the NL West, within six games of the .500 mark and 10 1/2 behind front-running Cincinnati.

Ruthven, 9-6, checked the Expos on five hits, including Pete Mackanin's RBI single in the first. The Braves got all the runs they needed against loser Don Stanhouse, 5-3, in the second inning when Darrel Chaney singled, Jim Wynn was safe on an error and both runners raced home on Williams' double to right field.

Phillies 5, Reds 4
Ollie Brown's tie-breaking pinch-hit single in the seventh inning drove home the winning run as NL East-leading Philadelphia beat NL West-leading Cincinnati for the sixth time in eight meetings this year. Dick Allen hit a two-run homer and Garry Maddox had a solo shot for the Phils. Johnny Bench clubbed a three-run homer for the Reds. Jim Kaat, 8-2, bested Gary Nolan, 7-4.

Dodgers 5, Astros 1
Ted Sizemore knocked in three runs with a pair of singles, both following intentional walks to Bill Buckner, as Los Angeles crept to within 3 1/2 games of Cincinnati in the NL West. Tommy John evened his record at 4-4 with relief help from Charlie Hough. Larry Dierker, 6-7, was the loser.

Giants 8, Padres 5
Derrel Thomas collected three hits, including a two-run triple, and Ken Reitz also had three hits as San Francisco beat San Diego for the third straight game. Charlie Williams, making his first start after 20 relief appearances, got the win. Willie McCovey homered for the Padres.

Cubs 2, Pirates 1
Jerry Morales hit his second double of the game and scored the tying run in the ninth on George Mitterwald's double, then won it in the 13th with his eighth homer of the season. Willie Stargell homered in the second for Pittsburgh's lone run. It was Stargell's 10th homer of the season and No. 378 lifetime, moving him into 20th place on the all-time list.

President Of School Board Wasn't Polled

WASHINGTON, N.C.—Roy Hardee, Vice President-News, of WITN TV was elected president of the Radio Television News Directors Association of the Carolinas at the groups annual meeting in Wilmington.

Hardee is the immediate past president of the North Carolina Associated Press Board of Directors and as a vice president of the organization.

Immediately after his election, Hardee appointed a committee to study the possibility of gaining access into the courtrooms of North Carolina with Electronic News Gathering equipment. The committee was formed after the association passed a resolution endorsing such a move following a discussion of courtroom news coverage by three of North Carolinas' top judges.

Commenting on Hardee election, W. R. Roberson, Jr., Chairman of Chief Executive Officer, of North Carolina Television stated, "To be honored by ones peers is a significant achievement, and we are proud of the recognition that has been accorded Roy Hardee and in turn WITN TV."

Book's Value Is Questionable
CHICAGO (AP)—"The monetary value of a book, like other commodities, depends on supply and demand," according to the American Library Assn.

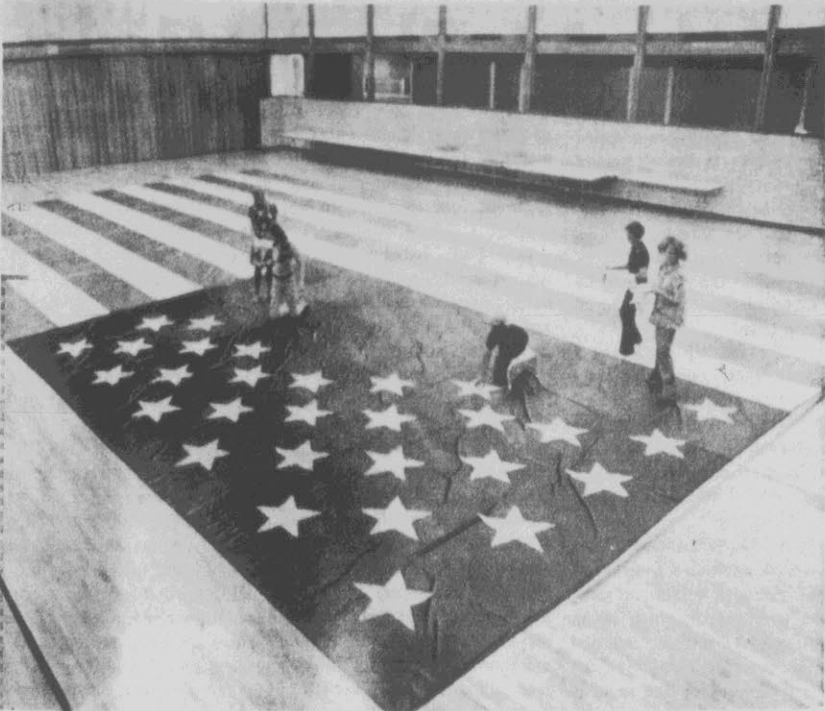

It says, "A book that is very rare, in the sense that very few if any other copies are known, but which is not desired by book buyers, would probably have little monetary value. Similarly, in a subject area in which a great many collectors are interested, the values may remain moderate when the supply of books in that field is ample."

Members of the Greenville City Board of Education have not given approval to an extension of time for the adoption of the county's 1976-1977 budget, according to board chairman Henry Dunn.

The Daily Reflector reported yesterday that both the city and county school boards had approved extending the period for approving the county budget until July 9 to allow Pitt County Commissioners more time to determine how much money the city school system needs to make repairs to its buildings.

Dunn said members of the city school board were not polled yesterday on the question of an extension in the July 1 deadline and noted that he informed county officials of that fact yesterday. He said the question will be brought before the Board of Education at a special meeting scheduled for tonight.

Superintendent of schools Glenn Cox said this morning that the board was not polled "because of the inability to get in touch with everybody... unable

Invitations Are A Month Late

MATTHEWS, N.C. (AP) — The Matthews post office delivered invitations to 1,064 constituents of Rep. Jim Martin to meet with him a month after the meeting.

Postmaster Lamar King takes responsibility for the mistake. "I'd a whole lot rather go off in a corner and eat worms than to have had this happen," he said. "You do 250,000 things right, and then the one thing that is done wrong has to happen to a congressman's mail."

On May 17, the Republican congressman's office in Washington mailed 6,655 invitations to residents of the Matthews area near Charlotte to meet with him in the community on May 22 for "office hours."

These are informal sessions at which they can talk to him about troubles they are having with federal agencies, about national issues, or about whatever is on their minds.

There were 5,591 invitations addressed to rural route customers, and 1,064 to people who hold boxes in the Matthews Post Office.

"Somehow we assumed that all of them were meant for rural box holders," Postmaster King said. "We had a lot left over, of course. So we put them in a pile to send back to the post office in Washington. They count them there and notify the congressman of the surplus, so he can reduce his mailing to that area in the future."

The error was discovered last week, and the invitations were immediately put in the boxes at the Matthews Post Office.

the Matthews Post Office.

Martin did not know of the error until last Friday, when a boxholder wrote asking the reason for the month-old invitation.

"As it turned out, there were 35 people at the meeting anyway, and it took more time than we have allotted to it," a Martin aide, Paul Jones, said in Washington.

King was asked whether he had heard from Martin's office. "Oh yes, I certainly have," he replied.

Television Is Offering A Breath-Taking Show

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elegant, breathtaking and dazzling are adjectives which rarely have any application to television, but there is a program on CBS Sunday night that merits those superlatives and more.

The program is a performance of "Romeo and Juliet" by the famed Bolshoi Ballet. Culture lovers who criticize TV for not devoting itself to the higher arts should revel in this beautiful two-hour presentation.

But don't be scared off by that recommendation. What I know about ballet would fit easily into a ballerina's slipper, along with her foot, yet I was captivated watching this production.

Ignoring the music and the dancing for a moment, just the sheer spectacle of this ballet is incredible. The program was taped in Moscow last January to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the magnificent Bolshoi Theater, and more than 125 dancers and 100 musicians participated.

The costumes are colorful and fancy, the sets are enormous and there are times when nearly all the dancers are on stage at once. Capturing that panorama on the small home screen is next to impossible but for the most part the effect is there. And a stunning effect it is.

None of it overshadows the art, however. Sergi Prokofiev's dramatic music coupled with the Bolshoi company's marvelous dancing provide a feast for the ears and eyes.

Told in three acts, the ballet follows the classic Shakespeare story of two young lovers whose romance ends in tragedy because they come from warring families.

What especially impressed this layman was how forcefully a story that is reknown for the beauty of its language could be told without any words at all. The ballet's heart-tugging conclusion, as performed by Natalia Bessmertnova as Juliet and Michael Lavrovsky as Romeo, is every bit as powerful and moving as Shakespeare's.

There also are moments of genuine excitement, as in the fatal dueling between Mercutio, Tybalt and Romeo, and of poignancy, as when Romeo and Juliet declare their love before Friar Laurence.

On hand as guest hostess for the program Sunday is Mary Tyler Moore, who dabbles at ballet herself when not starring in her own comedy series.

The same tape, without Miss Moore, is expected to be seen in 115 countries by some 300 million people.

Lucky people they are.

Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♣.

We are here to report a theft of diamonds in Amsterdam. But the perpetrator, though known, was not incarcerated for a lengthy period. Instead, he received the plaudits of his peers.

The fact that North-South got too high is directly attributable to South's initial action—one ace and four queens do not constitute an opening bid in our book. North cannot be blamed for pushing to slam when South bid hearts at the four-level; again, a bid of three no trump by South might have slowed down the auction.

Whatever our criticism of South's actions in the bidding, we have nothing but praise for the way he handled the play. West led the king of spades and shifted to a trump. Declarer won in his hand, led a diamond to the ace and continued with a low diamond from the table.

We can see that East can defeat the contract by rising with the king of diamonds, but consider the position for a moment from the East seat. There is only one diamond outstanding—the queen. Yet, without bothering to draw the last trump, declarer has played ace and another diamond. Surely declarer is the one who must have started with a singleton diamond and is trying to set up dummy's side suit by ruffing. If East rises with the king and pins his partner's queen, declarer's task will be that much simpler because he will later be able to take a ruffing finesse for the jack of diamonds.

So East followed with a low diamond and the queen won—fortunately for declarer, West had two red singletons. The rest was simple. Two club ruffs and a spade ruff provided the entries to the board to ruff dummy's remaining three diamonds. When declarer had completed his ory of cross-ruffing, dummy was left with the ace-king of hearts at trick twelve, and the slam was secure.

Local Governments Take New Look At Their Role

By SAM BOYLE
Associated Press Writer
Some American cities and states are beginning to take a new look at their relations with the people who work for them after three recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

The high court has given local governments the authority to force their workers to live in town, curb overtime pay and decide against negotiating with police unions.

The impact of the court rulings was seen first after the decision that a city can require its employees to live within its borders.

Washington, Dallas and Austin, Tex., are among the cities that moved quickly to get legislation before their city councils demanding that city employees live in town.

Washington Councilman Marion Barry said nearly half of the district's workers now live in Maryland or Virginia, which he said deprived the city's economy of $260 million a year.

The Fair Labor Standards Act presently sets the minimum wage at $2.30 an hour and bars the practice of giving an employee time off in exchange for working overtime—a practice common among cities and states. The law was passed in 1938 and extended to city and state workers two years ago.

Jerry Wurf, president of the 750,000-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, criticized the court's ruling as a "judicious rollback of basic humane protections for 12 million men and women who work for state and local government in this country."

The cities and states which brought suit against the law said it would cost more than a $1 billion a year to extend the fair labor provisions to all state and local workers.

The National League of Cities and the National Governor's Conference said in a joint statement that the decision "restores the balance to the American federal system and by doing that should result in a healthier relationship among the state, federal and local governments."

The possible effects of a Missouri case decided by the court on Monday were not clear cut. The court said that police officers can unionize but do not have the right to collective bargaining even though other employees of a city have that right.

Laws preventing public employees unions from striking are common and were not an issue in the case.

Also, the ruling did not give cities which do negotiate with their employees the right to stop such contract talks.

Corolla Families Are 'Prisoners' In Homes

COROLLA, N.C. (AP) — The 43 families who live here angrily denounce the federal government, saying it has made them prisoners in their own homes.

Corolla is 28 miles south of Virginia Beach, Va., and part of North Carolina's Outer Banks. The residents attend church, shop, go to the dentist and doctor and socialize in Virginia Beach. Some of them work there as well.

But, to get to Virginia Beach, Corolla residents must go through Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge, a 4.2-mile stretch of desolate beach the government has set aside to protect shorebirds, waterfowl, loggerhead turtles, ghost crabs and other species.

The only other route available to Corolla residents is south around Currituck Sound, a 100-mile trip, four times longer than going through the refuge.

It'll get worse for local residents as the government plans to close access to the refuge on Dec. 31, 1979.

Corolla residents must drive on the beach to go through the refuge as only 1.2 miles is paved. There lies the rub. The government says the number of persons crossing the refuge jumped from 10,000 in 1961 to 348,000 by 1971 and action was taken to halt "environmental degradation" blamed on vehicles.

Access was first limited in 1973 when the U.S. Department of the Interior said the refuge would be open only from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. But, on June 3, that was cut to 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., allowing one trip a day for Corolla citizens.

Villagers have begged for help from Congress and state officials, but to no avail.

There are other aspects of the new rules the residents despise.

Among those eliminated by the new access and ownership rules are:

—Danny Carlin, a U.S. mailman in Portsmouth, Va. He must stay in a Portsmouth hotel during the week because the refuge is not open early enough for him to get to work on time if he stayed at home.

—Charlie Robinson, a part-time fisherman whose home was condemned last winter. He moved to a new home 50 feet away but he doesn't qualify for access because he was not living in his new home last October.

—Lanky Griggs O'Neal, a Currituck County sheriff's deputy, who was born and reared here. He can cross the refuge only on official business because he doesn't own his home.

—Gene Austin, the Currituck lighthouse keeper, who also doesn't own his residence. "This is where we live. It's our life," says his wife, Shirley. "Who is the government to say we can't come and go to our own homes?"

Interior Department officials say that until recently they were not aware of the hardships the regulations have caused. But they say, "There's nothing we can do anyway."

The regulations were established by Undersecretary Kent Frizzell, who recently visited the refuge but not Corolla, a spokesman said.

Dennis Holland, manager of the refuge, said he admires the Corolla residents.

"These are tough people, independent people," he said.

"It's escalating to a violent eruption and the government is precipitating it," said resident Danny Gertz, an outspoken ex-Navy man.

Pope Expresses His Gratitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Bi-centennial message from Pope Paul to the Catholic bishops of the United States expresses "gratitude to America for its generosity to the poor of the world."

The Pope's 3,000-word message said American Catholics have made "real progress in goodwill and charity ... in combating discrimination of various kinds, especially racial discrimination."

But Paul said there are "special dangers" to the U.S. from "abortion and euthanasia."

Living With That Truck In Her House

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — It's a bit crowded in Mary Pannell's kitchen since the dump truck smashed through the wall, but she's learning to live with it.

"If they move the truck, the whole back end of the house will fall in," the Roanoke housewife said Thursday. "We were told the truck might have to stay to hold up the house."

Mrs. Pannell, 32, and her five children were in the living room Sunday watching the television detective series "Kojak" when "we heard a great big boom.... I wasn't sure what it was. I thought maybe it was lightning."

Police said the big truck, parked at a construction site 300 feet away, plowed into the two-story frame house after someone apparently released the brakes.

Mrs. Pannell said she rushed into the kitchen and "all I could see were these big wheels."

The truck tore up the pantry, ruined some groceries and crushed a washing machine. Police estimated damage to the Pannell house at $3,000 and damage to the truck at $300.

Mrs. Pannell's husband, Herbert, a machinist, wasn't home at the time the truck paid its unexpected and expensive visit. Normally at that time of night, Mrs. Pannell said, "I'm in the kitchen giving the kids a snack. I just thank the Lord for Kojak."

Authorities said it would be at least Monday before repair work can begin. Workmen, they said, will have to decide first how to move the truck and keep the house from collapsing at the same time.

Cars Collided At Intersection

Investigators reported the Stauffer car collided with a vehicle driven by Stephen Earl Smith of Winterville, resulting in an estimated $100 damage to the Smith car and $275 damage to the Stauffer vehicle.

Surprised By Hero Award

DALLAS, N.C. (AP) — Arthur Ray Holt's stepdaughter brings his lunch at the Hardin Mills. Thursday she had something in addition, a tax-free check for $1,000 and word that he had been awarded the Carnegie Hero Fund's bronze medal for saving a man being gored by a bull.

"I couldn't believe it; I got weak in the knees, I could have passed out," said Holt, a card tender. I thought it was a non-negotiable check like Readers Digest sends you. I thought they had kind of laid one on me."

Holt entered a Gaston County pasture in April 1975, grabbed a fence post, and hit in the head a 1,500-pound bull which was goring Frank Brayne, manager of the Hardin Dairy.

Brayne suffered two broken ribs, an injured knee, internal injuries and cuts and bruises. He was hospitalized for a week, and still suffers from the knee injury.

He said he believed he would not have survived if Holt, a stranger, had not come to his rescue.

When Holt got his check, he received permission from the mill to take the rest of the day off.

He said the money could not have come at a better time. He owes hospital bills and other bills, and immediately started paying them off. He had been unemployed at the time of the bull incident.

His wife, Barbara, has been in a hospital for four weeks and he has no idea when she will be released.

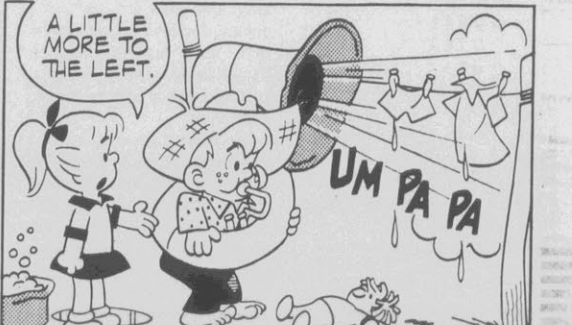

The hero awards were established in 1904 by steel and railroad magnate Andrew Carnegie. Eighteen persons have been awarded the medal this year. Holt's is being struck, and he will get it in about three months.

When you look for a home,
look for ERA's exclusive Home Buyers Protection Plan.
It's America's finest home warranty.

Anyone who buys a "resale" home is concerned about the possibility of unexpected, expensive repair bills. ERA's Home Buyers Protection Plan eliminates those worries.

For twelve full months after you take possession of your home, BPP covers ten major working components against repair or replacement. This includes the central heating system; wall, floor or window heating units; all types of central air conditioning systems; built-in appliances; the water heater; water softener; the plumbing system and fixtures; the electrical system; and all sheet metal duct work.

If anything covered breaks down, one toll-free call will start a repair specialist on his way to fix it. And your cost is always limited to a modest deductible charge. The BPP is an exclusive ERA service. Insist on it when you buy a home.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are due today in the Gulf and Atlantic coast states and the northern Plains. Temperatures are to be warm to hot in the Southwest, Southeast and east coast and mild for the rest of the nation except the northern Rockies. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
It was drier in North Carolina today.

High pressure centered over the Atlantic is building over the Carolinas. This lessened shower activity, and allowed more sunshine.

But an approaching cold front will make more rain likely before long.

Highs today were in the 80s, with a few 70s in the mountains. Those also will be the maximums Saturday. It was fair and mild during the night. Temperatures at 5 a.m. were in the 60s, with some 50s in the mountains.

Rain lessened Thursday. Activity was light and confined to the coastal sections and the northwest mountains. Wilmington picked up only two-hundredths of an inch last evening, compared to the nearly two-inch deluge of the previous day.

Thundershowers were scattered today, mainly over the mountains and coastal areas. Isolated showers fell elsewhere. A cold front from the Midwest advanced into the Ohio River valley today. The nearness of the front will increase the chance of weekend thundershowers in North Carolina.

Scattered mainly afternoon and evening thundershowers will linger into Tuesday as this frontal system remains close to North Carolina.

Sees 'Panic' In House Reforms

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Leader John J. Rhodes says Democratic-backed accounting overhauls for the House were drafted in a climate of "panic rather than reform" in the wake of the payroll-sex scandal and don't deal with power abuses.

"We cannot afford to sweep this climate of scandal under the rug," Rhodes declared Thursday. "It will not go away. The people will not let it go away."

The Democrats' sweeping payroll and expense accounting revisions faced a hurdle today in the House Administration Committee where some members want to force full House action rather than have the changes considered only by the panel. In the wake of the Capitol Hill payroll-sex scandal, the House Democratic Caucus approved 12 accounting revisions Wednesday night and ordered the committee to implement 10 of them. But on Thursday, Republicans and several Democrats contended the caucus has no business telling them what to do.

Rep. Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., accusing the caucus of trying to make the committee "do their dirty work," led a fight to make the full House act on the revisions.

Rep. J. Herbert Burke of Florida was among Republicans who joined in, saying: "This idea of going off half-cocked to make some group look like a bunch of heroes doesn't make much sense to me." Rep. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash., who helped draft the revisions, predicted the full House would kill some or most of them.

The committee has the authority to make most of the changes without asking for full House action. The Democratic caucus wants the panel to make the changes and then surrender its power to take those actions. The Administration Committee was vested with that authority in 1971 at the request of its then-chairman, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio. But some Democrats want the panel to surrender that power first and then recommend the accounting changes to the full House where they could be amended.

The payroll-sex scandal was triggered by Elizabeth Ray's charges that Hays kept her on his committee payroll solely to be his mistress. Hays has denied the charge but has resigned as chairman of the committee. The only revision designed to cover such a case would require a monthly accounting of every House employee's job and pay.

Other recommendations would consolidate congressmen's expense allowances, abolish their $1,140 annual postage allowance and end their privilege of saving leftover stationery money for retirement.

Rhodes said that while the Democratic proposals look to the future, there are no provisions to "expose and punish all abuses of power that have taken place up to this time."

The Republican leader said "a glaring omission" was that the Democrats ignored his proposal for creating a special commission to audit the administration committee's books.

Competition And Field Day For Radio League

Members of the Brightleaf Amateur Radio Club (BARC) will again operate in the annual field day competition sponsored by the American Radio Relay League to be held June 26 and 27th. It will be the ninth year the club has entered into this affair, and will be held at the Elm Street Park in Greenville which was the site of the first field day operation back in 1967.

The operators will start setting up equipment and antennas Saturday morning and two transmitters will be in simultaneous operation, both on code and voice until Sunday afternoon. These tests are designed to simulate an emergency situation and all equipment will be powered by portable generators. BARC is sporting a new club station call which was obtained recently through the Federal Communications Commission when application was made for the late J. Gilbert Smith's call W4AMC. Gil was a long time member of the club and one of the first licensed radio amateurs in the Robersonville area.

Thousands of operators throughout the states and Canada will be on the air establishing two-way contact with as many other stations as possible during the 24 hour period.

At least two Greenville-area operators are well-known on the West Coast by their call letters. The husband-wife team of Robert Knapp—W4OMW and wife Mary Ann—W4UTO have been referred to by the "Ham on Air" column by Ray Meyers of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner. Both have been licensed for more than 40 years.

Although the Field Day event is a fun-outing and a national contest, the club is primarily interested in improving the ability of amateur operators to provide a public service to the community should an emergency arise in communications or a power black-out.

Some Delay In N.C. Vaccine

RALEIGH (AP) — Because of vaccine production problems, the North Carolina swine flu vaccination campaign will be delayed until late August or September.

Dr. Peter Rogers, of the communicable disease branch of the state health department, said Thursday that his office was informed of the delay by federal officials late Wednesday afternoon.

"We originally planned to begin in mid-July," Rogers pointed out.

He said the statewide immunization program was set to get under way when the telephone call came. He did not think the postponement would cause any major problems.

"The only thing is that it's going to be more of a crash program than it was initially," Rogers said. "But we should be able to vaccinate everybody by November. And that's the critical time."

He said the vaccine will be distributed to private physicians, county health clinics and mass immunization centers, beginning in the western part of the state and moving eastward.

Scientists are puzzled, Rogers said, about recent swine flu vaccine test results which indicate it is ineffective on persons under age 24. "There's really no good reason why people under 24 can't develop immunities," he said.

He said researchers try immunizing persons in that age group with another type of vaccine.

The national swine flu vaccination program was ordered by President Ford earlier this year. He and medical advisors believe an epidemic could occur if the population is not properly protected.

Two Thefts Are Being Probed

Greenville Police are investigating two thefts reported yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said William E. Whitehurst of Route 2, Ayden reported a television set, valued at $100 was taken from his truck while parked in a lot at Carriage House Apartments.

Cannon said the second incident was reported by Jack Paramore of 203 Greenbriar Dr. According to the chief, Paramore reported a tackle box, containing several fishing reels and lures had been taken from his boat parked at his residence.

Value of the stolen fishing gear was estimated at $350 to $400.

Major Candidates Accept TV Forums

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's major gubernatorial candidates have agreed tentatively to participate in television forums sometime before the North Carolina primary on August 17.

Wade Hargrove, counsel for the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters, reported the tentative agreement Thursday after meeting with the candidates' representatives to discuss the shows.

Hargrove said he believed the forums would be the first such events in North Carolina political history.

He said he was pleasantly surprised at how readily the candidates reached an agreement on the basic format for the shows.

According to Hargrove, there will be two programs, one for each party. Each would last one hour and would be available for live broadcast by every station in the state.

The candidates would be questioned about issues by a panel of newsmen. Each would have a short period to respond and there would be an opportunity to debate and rebut opponents' positions, Hargrove said.

Hargrove said the broadcasters' association must still write up the ground rules, set a date and get written agreement from each candidate.

"I really believe it will come off. We figured the candidates would be at each others' throats, but they weren't," he said.

Hargrove said only two stations have been approached thus far about carrying the programs and both have agreed. He predicted that enough stations would carry the program to blanket the state.
