

Report Aftershocks Continuing In China

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — The first group of American women and children evacuated from the U.S. diplomatic mission in earthquake-threatened Peking arrived here today.

The eight women and 12 children looked calm and well-dressed, and one said the Chinese seemed more frightened than Westerners in the aftermath of the powerful earthquakes that hit northeast China last week.

Many foreign residents were leaving Peking today, urged to do so by Chinese authorities who said a new major quake was imminent.

The Peking government reported 110 aftershocks — an average of almost five an hour — in the devastated Tangshan area Saturday night and Sunday.

The aftershocks, combined with such other indications as nervous behavior of animals, prompted the warnings of a new quake, the third warning since Friday. Animals in the Peking Zoo were reported to be making loud noises and acting violently. The Chinese believe this is a sign of an oncoming tremor.

David Dean, deputy chief of the U.S. Liaison Office in Peking, said 18 wives and eight children of American staff members would be leaving, but there were no plans yet to evacuate any of the 31 staff members.

The British Embassy sent 50 dependents off Sunday. Planes leaving the Chinese capital were booked to capacity for the next few days with families of diplomats bound for Canton, Hong Kong or Tokyo.

The diplomats themselves and other foreigners joined millions of Chinese camping outside, away from big buildings.

Japanese correspondents in Peking said the Foreign Ministry's information bureau reported 110 aftershocks between 6 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday. It said all registered at least four on the Richter Scale, and 15 registered more than five.

The first quake early Wednesday registered 8.2 on the Richter Scale, the highest reading recorded in the world since the Alaska quake in 1964. It devastated the heavily populated Tangshan area 100 miles east-southeast of Peking, caused widespread damage in Tientsin, China's third largest city 40 miles south of Tangshan, and did lesser damage in the capital.

A second quake about 15 hours later registered 7.9 on the Richter Scale.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. In populated areas, an earthquake of 4.0 on the Richter scale can cause moderate damage, 5.0 considerable damage, 6.0 can be severe. A reading of 7 is a major earthquake, capable of widespread, heavy damage; 8 is a "great" earthquake, capable of tremendous damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the Richter scale.

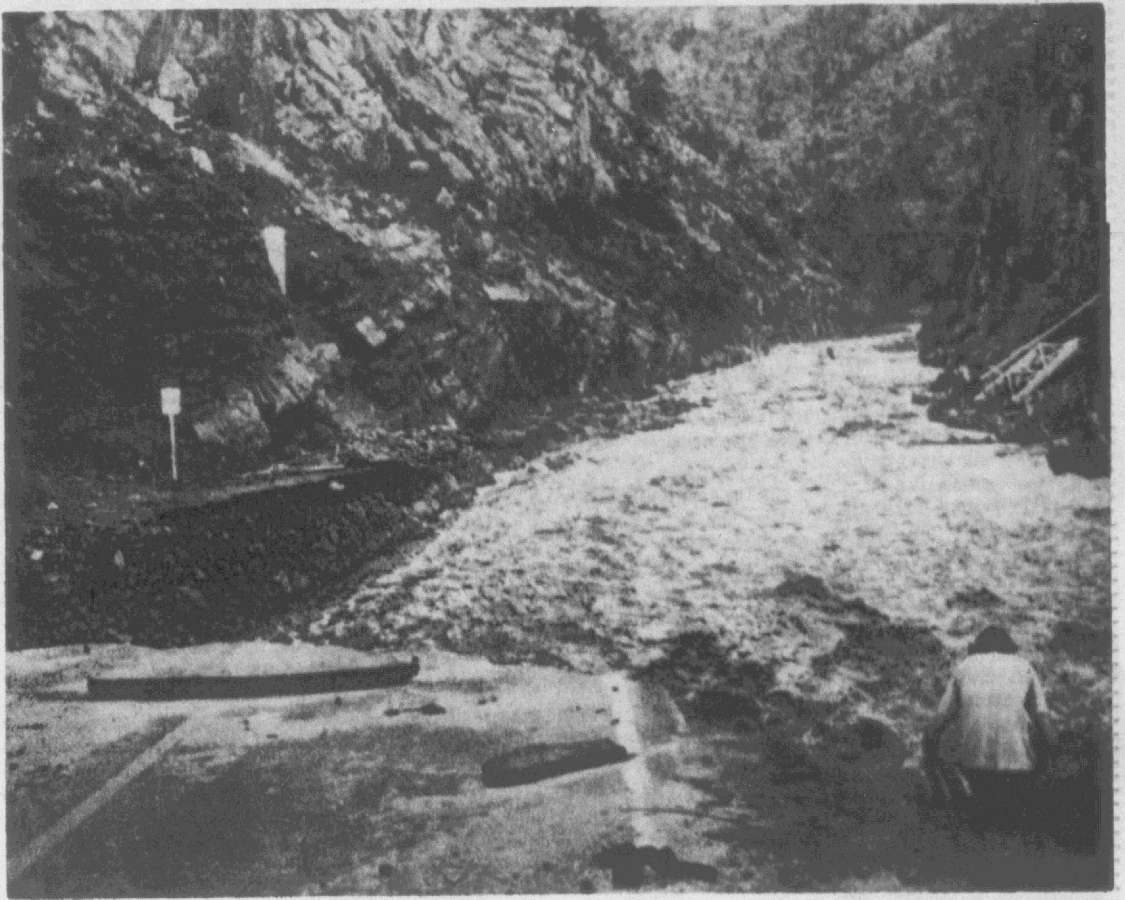

Though the Chinese have not reported the number of casualties, tens of thousands are believed to have died in Tangshan, a coal mining and industrial city of 1.6 million.

There was speculation that thousands of miners might have been trapped. But Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said "an overwhelming majority of the miners who were underground when the earthquake struck returned to the surface safely."

A "mighty contingent" of rescue workers converged on the Tangshan area from all parts of China, Hsinhua reported.

The Chinese government refused all offers of aid from the United States and other foreign countries. But Hsinhua said manpower, medicine, food, and prefabricated houses and bridges poured into the stricken area from Peking, Shanghai, Tientsin, the Liaoning peninsula, and from Shantung, Honan, Fukien, Kiangsu, Shansi and Hupeh provinces. Even distant Sinkiang sent help.

Scientists Weigh Evidence On Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Information that may — or may not — point to the existence of life on Mars continues to pour in from Viking 1. Scientists are trying to figure out just what it means.

Viking scientists said Sunday that the data, including an unexpected abundance of oxygen in one of Viking's life-seeking probes, might be signs of Martian life. But they also said nonliving chemical agents — such as peroxide crystals — could be causing the reactions.

"It would just be silly of us to say we know what the data means," said Dr. Gerald Sofen, chief Viking scientist.

What excited scientists over the weekend was the discovery in one of the experiments of 15 times the amount of oxygen they had expected. They said the oxygen could be evidence of living systems but that any number of chemical processes could also explain its presence.

"They (the biologists) are wracking their brains trying to decipher the information," said one mission spokesman.

The results of another experiment, called a labeled release, also could be interpreted as a hint of Martian microorganisms, but scientists were trying to rule out every other conceivable explanation before making such a claim. Dr. Harold Klein, head of Viking's biologist team, said there were "many — very, very many" such possible explanations.

The labeled release experiment is based on the assumption that any Martian life would probably eat, digest and release wastes — or metabolize — in some way similar to living creatures on earth.

In the experiment, the Viking robot places a small bit of Martian soil into a test cell, where it is moistened with a bit of "chicken soup" — a mix of nutrients.

The nutrients are dosed with a radioactive tracer material — Carbon 14. If any creatures in the soil eat the nutrients, and if they act like earth creatures, they would give off the tracer material in gaseous wastes, and a tiny Geiger counter in the probe could detect it in the cell's atmosphere.

Therein lies the hitch. Scientists found an abundance of the tracer material in gases in the cell — more, in fact, than was given off by earth microorganisms when the experiment was run as a test. If there are Martian organisms, said Dr. Harold Klein, they are "more highly developed, more intense than microbial life (living systems too small to be seen by the eye) on earth."

But any number of chemical actions, including some like a fizzing antacid tablet dropped into a glass of water, may be causing the high level of gases. Some scientists think peroxide crystals are present in the Martian soil, and they would almost certainly act up like the antacid tablet when coming in contact with the moist nutrient mix.

More data is scheduled to be gathered and transmitted this week, including that from a light test seeking Martian systems that are capable of photosynthesis — the process by which plants take in carbon dioxide and produce oxygen.

Bids Opened On Water System

FARMVILLE — Bids have been opened for the Farmville water system extension along highway 258 North. Low bidder is Mercer and Sons Company of Fremont with $42,125.31.

Thirteen other bids were entered. A final decision will be made at the Town Commissioners meeting Tuesday night. The extension is to run from the Farmville City limits to Horton's Corner (formerly called Butts' Store) and west to the intersection with the Goose Hollow Road.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

SOCIAL SECURITY CARD

I would like to know how to get a replacement Social Security card. I am providing my Social Security number. J. M.

Hotline called Diane Mitchell, claims development clerk at the Greenville Social Security office. She said you need to fill out an SS5 form, the same kind you filled out when you originally got your Social Security card. You will be able to keep the same identification number.

Ms. Mitchell recommended that you either call their office at 756-2368 or that you go to the office in person; the address is 301 Plaza Dr. She can give you the form to fill out or can mail it to you, whichever is most convenient.

CANCER "HOTLINE USED BY PITT

Citizens of only five counties in the state, all of them highly populated, have used the new Cancer Information Service of Duke University more than Pitt Counties, a recent release from the service reports.

Hotline ran the service when it began May 20.

Of the first 982 calls from 82 of the state's 100 counties, 32 have been from Pitt, says Dr. Diane McGrath, director of the service. Most of the questioners describe possible symptoms and want to know if these sound like cancer to the listener. Only Durham, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Wake, and Cumberland have had more callers than Pitt. The toll-free number is 800-672-0943.

Survivors Of Flash Flood Await Helicopter Relief

By BILL PARDUE
Associated Press Writer

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Survivors of a weekend flash flood huddled on mountainsides and in isolated homes today as rains and winds forced a delay in air rescue attempts. Officials said the flood killed about 60 persons, and they said "dozens" more bodies may be found.

Authorities said recovery of the dead from the Big Thompson River flood, reported strewn along the walls of the Big Thompson Canyon, was their last priority. Dave Feldman, chief of investigative services for police in nearby Fort Collins, said it could take weeks to locate the dead, and some never may be found.

Nearly 150 National Guardsmen, law enforcement officers and volunteers waited for orders as search leaders mapped their strategy.

Helicopters were to be used today to ferry the survivors, many of whom were trapped on inaccessible patches of high ground, to safety. But the rain that began again Sunday night continued today, grounding air rescue equipment.

"Helicopters will be grounded until they can get in, perhaps by noon," said John Englebert, chief of operations for the Larimer County Sheriff's Department. "We've got steady rains into Estes Park and some winds."

There was no immediate estimate on the number stranded. Gov. Richard Lamm, in asking President Ford for disaster assistance, said 250 persons were reported injured and another 40 missing.

On Saturday night, a 10-inch rainfall running down from nearby Rocky Mountain National Park churned the Big Thompson River into a wall of water 12 feet high and sent it on a 15-minute frenzy.

It tore through campsites and trailers, motels and bridges, raking a path of destruction 30 miles long. There were varying reports about whether warning was given; everyone agreed there was none.

Some 500 survivors were ferried to a horse pasture-turned-helicopter pad on Sunday. Another 1,000 had to stay amid the devastation for a second night.

Officials flew over the canyon, dropping leaflets that asked survivors to signal their immediate needs: blankets stretched on the ground in the form of an "F" meant food. "W" meant water. "A" meant medical aid.

Larimer County Sheriff Robert Watson said 43 bodies were in a makeshift morgue and 15 to 20 bodies had been spotted and numbered throughout the canyon. The river had been lined with tourist cabins and motels. Many are gone now.

The Big Thompson River runs down from the heights of Rocky Mountain National Park through Estes Park, some 60 miles northwest of Denver. The Big Thompson Canyon, which runs east from Estes Park toward Loveland, was the site of the worst destruction.

Watson said six or seven people died in the same area in a 1962 flood.

Pickets Block Back-To-Work

By The Associated Press

Roving pickets blocked miners from returning to their jobs across most of West Virginia today but a back-to-work movement was in the making in the state's northern panhandle and in Ohio.

John Guzek, president of United Mine Workers District 6, reported that about 2,000 of his district's 16,000 coal miners remained on strike following the 8 a.m. shift change.

"I predict everybody will be back to work by midnight," Guzek said today. "They pulled them off the midnight shift but the day shift did go back."

Meanwhile, many of California's canneries reopened after settlement of a harvest-time strike by 60,000 cannery workers, and the nation's air traffic controllers ended a work slowdown that caused delays at a few airports. No solution was in sight, however, for the rubber workers strike that has idled 60,000 workers for 104 days.

Little change was reported in most areas in the coal miners' strike that has idled up to 80,000 miners in seven states. Miners were reported off the job over the vast majority of West Virginia and parts of Kentucky, Virginia, Illinois and Pennsylvania today.

Three Indiana AMAX Coal Co. mines were back working but two others in Illinois remained closed, a spokesman said. Apparently there was a one-shift wildcat strike at some Birmingham, Ala., mines on the midnight shift, but they were reported open by mid-morning.

Pickets showed up in the northeastern West Virginia coalfields this morning, thwarting a back-to-work movement there. A few mines were reported working, but the region was generally shut down.

Woman Victim Of Pitt Wreck

PITT FATALITY... The driver of the small car in the background died early Sunday near here when her vehicle collided with another car (L). Three persons were injured in the 5 a.m. wreck. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

A Baltimore, Md. woman was killed and three persons injured in a two-car wreck early Sunday morning some ten miles south of Greenville on NC 43.

Investigating Patrolman C. R. Taylor reported that Ellen Louise Loyde, 25, driver of one of the cars involved, died in the 5 a.m. collision. A passenger in the vehicle, Marion Loyde, 27, also of Baltimore, was injured.

The driver of the second car, William Earl Carmon, 20, of Rt. 3, Box 423, Greenville, was charged by Trooper Taylor with driving under the influence and death by vehicle. Injured in the Carmon car was Mary Dawson of Rt. 1, Hookerton.

Damage to the Loyde vehicle was set at $1,800 while $500 damages were estimated for the Carmon vehicle.

Trooper Taylor reported that the Carmon vehicle, traveling north, apparently crossed the center line and collided with the Loyde car, traveling south, in the southbound lane.

Hospital Delays Possible

Pitt Memorial Hospital director Jack Richardson told members of the Board of County Commissioners this morning that it may be Easter before patients can be moved into the new hospital facility.

According to Richardson, work on the $4 million expansion program to provide facilities for the East Carolina University School of Medicine may delay the opening, planned for December.

Ralph Hall, construction manager for the project, told the board that although finishing work is "coming along fine," some of the progress is behind schedule.

Hall requested and received approval for a change order to provide visual as well as audible warning signals in the buildings fire alarm system — a new requirement of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Commissioners this morning also appointed Albert C. Martin of Kinston to fill the unexpired term of Lewis W. Renn on the hospital's Board of Trustees. Martin was recommended by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors to fill the term of Renn, who resigned from the boards.

Commissioners this morning also heard reports from various county agencies and departments.

Branch Bank Robbed Today

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Hampshire Hills branch of First Union National Bank was robbed shortly before it opened this morning, a bank spokesman said.

"One man, apparently a black man, came in before we opened sometime between a quarter of nine and nine o'clock and did get away with some money, but I don't know any of the details at this time," said Hugh Flaherty, a public relations official with the bank.

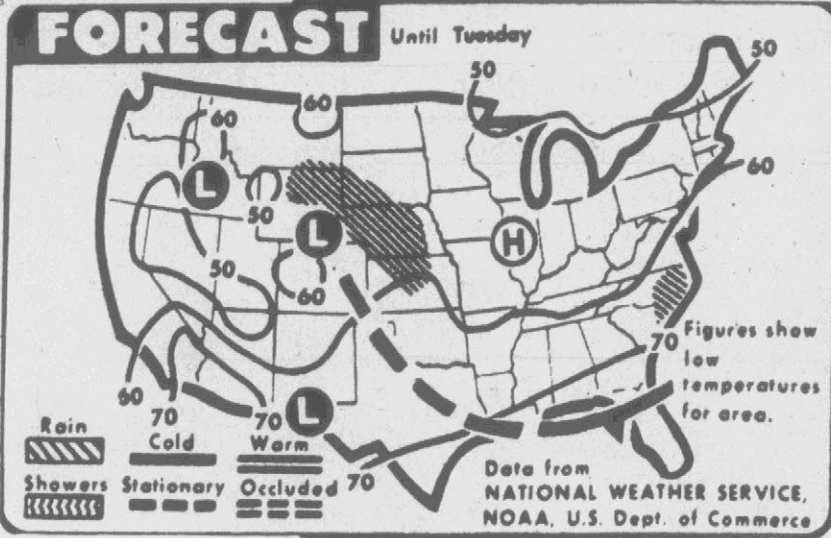

Farmville Bd. To Meet

FARMVILLE — Downtown improvement will be discussed at a meeting of the Farmville Board of Commissioners Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Courtroom.

The results of a Chamber of Commerce poll of downtown merchants will be presented and a committee will report its recommendations for the project.

Other items on the agenda are a discussion of traffic regulations for Grimmersburg Street which leads to three of the town's four public schools; a presentation of bids on water extension on Highway 258 by McDavid Associates engineering firm; an announcement of the public auction Aug. 27 at 11 a.m. at which the old school building on North Main Street will be put up for sale; the consideration of a request from Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company that the town state its intentions to pay the estimated cost of moving equipment in the downtown business district; consideration of estimate no. 2 from F&G Construction Company for $36,750.60 for Lewis Stores water extension; consideration of a request by former policeman Mike Hamill that he be paid $80 for glasses broken while he was chasing a prisoner; discussion of the N. C. League of Municipalities annual meeting in Charlotte in October; and consideration of the administrator's request for permission to advertise for sale of a used police car.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Clear skies and of the northern and central Plains and the coast seasonal temperatures are due today for parts of the Carolinas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Cooler weather greeted the new month Sunday.

The passage of a cold front southward through the state Sunday gave North Carolina a rest from high humidity and hot temperatures. Afternoon maximums Sunday were a few degrees cooler than the previous day. The range was from 83 degrees at Asheville to 93 at Wilmington. Grandfather Mountain had 68 degrees, making it the coolest in the state.

The cold front decreased in speed over southern South Carolina this morning with a weak low pressure area developing there. This weather feature was expected to spread cloudiness back into the state with some rain inching northward through the coastal areas as well as some areas of the Eastern Piedmont through Tuesday.

Thunderstorms Sunday were widely scattered and confined primarily to the south coast. A few lingered over southern counties as well as spotty areas of the Eastern Slopes and Foot-hills and Southern Piedmont. New Bern, Jacksonville and Wilmington had between one-third and one-half inch of rain while Cherry Point measured only a trace. Cape Hatteras picked up three-quarters of an inch.

Cloudiness increased overnight with some rain over southeastern sections. Temperatures did not cool to their potential levels because of the clouds, so just before sunrise, most western areas were in the 60s with some low 70s over the eastern areas.

The recreational weather outlook for North Carolina took a turn for the worse with the development of the low over South Carolina. Considerable cloudiness was evident with periods of rain over the eastern half of the state. A few sprinkles may reach as far west as the mountains tonight.

Art, Crafts Show Slated

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will have the Arts and Craft Show at the Elm Street Gym Wednesday, from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. This is an annual show displaying works of the children who have attended the summer playground programs.

Judging of the crafts will be made and ribbons will be awarded. Judges will be Jim Sutton and Wandra Elks, Recreation Interns from Carolina, and Beth Mallock, Recreation Intern from East Carolina.

At 10:00 a.m., a wall hanging will be presented to the Recreation Department. Parents and all other interested persons are invited to attend the free show. Refreshments will be served.

For further information, call Lucille Sumrell at 752-4137, ext. 251.

Ingram's Rival Well-Financed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Political contributions vary widely for two candidates seeking the democratic nomination for insurance commissioner, according to spokesmen for the candidates.

Incumbent commissioner John Ingram, a 40-year-old Asheboro lawyer, has raised about $20,000 for his reelection attempt, said campaign treasurer Pat Lattimore.

His chief challenger, Joe Johnson, 34, a professor at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, reportedly had collected $157,000 in donations through last week.

Most of that money came from insurance industry officials who want desperately to see Ingram defeated. The Charlotte Observer reported Sunday.

Jerry Waters, 40, a Lenoir school teacher, also is seeking the nomination, but has campaigned little and admits his chances of winning are slim.

Ingram has described Johnson as beholden to special interests in the insurance industry and said recently that electing Johnson would be "putting the fox out to guard the chicken house."

Johnson, who heads the UNC-G business administration department, has denied any obligation to industry officials, despite their contributions.

"I jumped into (the race) because I think the industry is being led to the slaughterhouse by inept regulation," he said recently to an insurance group in Charlotte, adding that Ingram has created "the worst regulatory climate" in the country.

The insurance commissioner has the power to decide whether the industry can charge more for auto, homeowner and health insurance. The post pays $2,544 a year.

Boy Killed In Apartment Fire

GREENSBORO (AP) — An 8-year-old boy was killed and a fireman was injured early Sunday when a fire swept through six units of a Greensboro apartment complex in the southeastern section of the city.

The dead youth was identified as Charles Robinson, who was trapped on the second floor of the Leisureland apartments.

Witnesses said bystanders tried to coax the boy to jump from a window, but he refused.

A fireman was injured when he fell over a banister while fighting the 2:20 a.m. blaze, authorities said.

Firemen said the flames swept through the attic of the six apartments, destroying the roof and damaging the upper floors of the two-story complex. The apartment where the boy died was the heaviest damaged.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

WOMEN'S LIB

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sentiment among Americans for women's lib has made tremendous strides in recent years, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. An institute survey found that the percentage of Americans in favor of women's lib rose from 49 per cent in 1972 to 61 per cent last year.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Sunday

MRS. LOUIS WALTER CHERRY III

WILSON — Miss Wanda Dawn Hardister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Hardister, became the bride of Louis Walter Cherry III Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. B. Stokes in the Tosneot Baptist Church. A string ensemble presented a program of wedding music.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Eleanor B. Cherry and Leroy T. Cherry, both of Greenville.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a white Spanish style dress of crinkle voile featuring a slight empire bodice, scooped neckline and flounced sleeves. Cluny lace bands trimmed the neckline. The A-line skirt flowed into a chapel length train.

Her chapel length mantilla was attached to a Juliet cap trimmed in cluny lace to match her dress. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, gypsophila and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Kathy Mack of Wilson, was dressed in a blue floral sleeveless floor length dress fashioned with an empire waist featuring a bertha collar. She carried a basket of mixed spring flowers and wore a garland of flowers in her hair.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers included Gwyn Hardister of Wilson, brother of the bride, Lee and Joey Cherry of Greenville, brothers of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip to Mexico and California, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a senior art major at East Carolina University.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride, was held at the Wilson Woman's Club.

The dining table and auxiliary table were covered with white linen cloths. Two five branch candelabrum with pink tapers were used on the dining table. Pink roses, gladioli and gypsophila were used throughout. Magnolia and mixed flowers were used on the mantel.

Piano selections were played during the reception by Mrs. Tommy Owens.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. James H. Smith, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Teresa Hart, sister of the bridegroom.

Wedding cake was served by Mrs. Kevin Cox, cousin of the bride, and Miss Betty Register. Punch was poured by Miss Beth Cherry, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Michael Pittman. Mrs. Frank A. Grissom and Mrs. Selby A. Etheridge Jr. presided at the guest book.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Ray Best, Mrs. S. M. Sandifer, Mrs. Henry Skinner, Mrs. Joseph Peacock and Mrs. Dick Sanders.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Rib Room Saturday evening.

Couple Differs On R.S.V.P.

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a difference of opinion and need you to settle it. If you sent out R.S.V.P. invitations for a party and several people did not respond one way or the other, would you assume that they WERE coming—or were NOT coming?

SPLIT OPINIONS

DEAR SPLIT: I wouldn't prepare to entertain those who didn't respond. And the only assumption I would make is that they have very poor manners. (P.S. Some invitations request "regrets only," which seems to simplify matters.)

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your advice to those squares in Illinois who refused to allow their divorced 30-year-old son to sleep with his girlfriend when they visited, but sent them off to a motel: Abby, your advice is Victorian.

We also have a divorced son, age 30. Because he is very much in love with a very sweet girl, whom we would be thrilled to have as our daughter-in-law, they sleep together whenever they visit us. Inasmuch as they live together in the city where they work, it would be rank hypocrisy for us to insist that they sleep apart in our home.

Abby, you and those Illinois parents are too concerned with appearances and what people will think! Why don't you either advance into the 20th century or retire?

SENSIBLE IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SENSIBLE: I'm "advanced" enough for most people, and have no intentions of retiring. I deny the charge that I am concerned only with appearances and what people will think. If no one knew it but myself, I still would not approve of my unmarried (though adult) children sleeping with their lovers in my home.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 21-year-old college educated daughter who went to live with a young man about a year ago. At the time, he had no job, and I can only assume that my daughter, who has a job, has been supporting him.

I am 48 and a widow. I live in a home that's much too large for me, and I have a chance to sell it and relocate in Florida, a part of the country I love. It offers me a new life, and I would like to make the move, but would I be deserting my daughter?

Perhaps I should remain here in Connecticut in case she needs me. I told her if I moved to Florida and she wanted to join me, I would send her the money.

I worry about her, Abby. Should I start a new life in Florida? Or stay near my daughter in case she needs me and is too proud to ask?

ALWAYS A MOTHER

DEAR ALWAYS: Move to Florida, and don't worry about your daughter. You will not be "deserting" her—she made her choice when she moved in with the young man. Don't worry, if she needs you, she'll let you know.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

MORE WOMEN BUY LIFE INSURANCE

NEW YORK (AP) — With more than 44 per cent of married women in the country contributing to family incomes the working woman carrying life insurance is no longer rare, reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

At the end of 1975 women owned a record estimated $325-billion-worth of life insurance, according to the institute. This is an increase of 150 per cent in their total ownership in 10 years.

Reprimanded, But Keeps Post

The House of Representatives has voted 381 to 3 to reprimand Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, Florida Democrat, for financial misconduct.

The last time the House took action against one of its members was in 1969 when it stripped Adam Clayton Powell of his seniority.

The Sikes action raises the old question of whether or not members of Congress should take reprimand action against one of its members. There are those who feel that a member of Congress is answerable only to the people of his district who elect him to Congress—or to the courts if laws are violated.

It seems to us that the House would be on firm ground in taking away seniority or chairmanship of committees from members who are deemed to have stepped beyond the bounds of proper conduct, since that is a matter of internal organization.

Strangely enough that was not done in the Sikes case. Sikes is chairman of the House military construction appropriations committee.

If the House finds evidence enough to censure a member, that action alone is not enough. It is with in the prerogative of the House members to remove a chairman of a committee, and that is what should be done.

Saving Lives Is Worth Inconvenience

Most of us don't like the 55 mile speed limit which applies to all highways now, but in addition to saving fuel it also apparently is saving lives.

The U.S. Department of Transportation credited the lower speed limits for the 17 percent reduction in highway deaths in 1974 and 1975.

If driving a little slower means that fewer people will be killed on the roads, then the lower speed limit is well worth it.

Development Ideas Voiced

By Bill Noblitt

RALEIGH—Economic development must be the central theme running throughout local and state governmental activities, George Little, Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources thinks.

Government, after all, is supposed to exist for one central purpose—the betterment of the community and the people in it. What higher purpose, then, than to bring about better jobs, more security, higher pay, and improved services. Not to be overlooked, as well, is the direct impact on governmental budgets from expanded industrial activity: more sales taxes collected, more property taxes rolling in, more income tax money; all without a tax hike.

In a little-noticed speech to the Boone Rotary Club this summer, Little sounded out some thoughts that he hopes will help shape the future economic development of the state. He is admittedly a lame-duck secretary, replacing James E. Harrington who resigned to enter private business.

Little was appointed by outgoing Republican Gov. James E. Holsouser, Jr., and as a Republican activist over the years fully expects to be replaced should a Democratic governor win election.

Set Stage

Still, with six months to go, Little is hoping to set the stage for some future actions. Of candidates for governor who propose separating industry hunting from the Department of Natural and Economic Resources and the environmental agencies which also reside there, Little warns of the close relationship today between development and conservation. The two go together.

"I would advise you not to be misled by campaign rhetoric that calls for a separation of economic and environmental agencies.

"Those who call for the separation are living in another world of the 1950s and 1960s when many location decisions were made almost on how well the industrial prospect was wined and dined... the days of razzle-dazzle are over." Decisions are based "on the conclusions of company lawyers and engineers," he said.

The development strategy, he says, calls for going after "target industries" such producers of glass, machinery, stone and clay goods, electronics, rubber and plastics.

Active selling of North Carolina to such prospects, coupled with industrial revenue bonds and pilot projects in eight communities aimed at better organization of economic development efforts will pay off on the goal of raising this state's per capita income 10 per cent above the Southeast average by 1990 Little hopes.

"Now that we've identified the industries we want in North Carolina, we're going to begin knocking on their doors," he said.

But what about the rest of government?

Pay Cost

"In all sectors of the local community there must be a willingness to work for the location of higher paying industry. The desire to attract industry must be the thread that runs throughout city and county budgets and ties those budgets together.

"Established industries must be willing to compete with new industry on an equitable basis," Little said in an obvious reference to some communities in which established industries work to keep out competition for labor.

"Community leaders must be willing to make the dangerous political decisions of calling for increases in taxes if community development is needed to attract industry.

"And the residents of the communities must be willing to pay those higher taxes to better develop their communities."

Little made the same charge to state government: "As with local governments, the economic goal must be the thread that runs throughout all state government agencies. Those agencies must adjust their decisions toward meeting that goal."

He says state agencies all currently go their separate ways, and the state "must unify these goals so that we are using all the resources of the state to meet them, rather than those resources being fragmented and in some cases being used for cross purposes."

The Strange Bedfellows

WASHINGTON — When Ronald Reagan announced that he had chosen Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania as his vice presidential candidate every political pundit rushed to his typewriter.

But before I wrote anything, I went to see my Guru who lives in a cave on the 13th hole of the golf course at Burning Tree Country Club. After giving him a bowl of golf balls and a silk Pucci scarf, I sat at his feet and said:

"Why Schweiker?"

He replied, "Why not Schweiker?"

"Schweiker is a liberal.

Regan is a conservative."

"And Jimmy Carter is a peanut farmer."

"What does that mean, Master?"

"Yu Jo once said, 'When a politician gets into bed with another politician he makes a strange bedfellow.'"

"Then you think Reagan and Schweiker are strange bedfellows?"

"Yes, but Tuan-Mu-Tu said, 'One does not always go to bed to sleep. Sometimes there is something in the bed that two people are seeking.'"

"What is that, Master?"

"Chung-sun Ho-Chi asked his students, 'Why does someone who believes something get into a political bed with somebody who believes something else?' When no one knew the answer Chung-sun Ho-Chi flunked the whole class."

"What was the correct response?" I asked.

"Because there are things under the bed no one in this universe could ever dream of."

"Such as?"

"Uncommitted delegates. When two men get into a political bed together who do not share the same thoughts, you must always look under the bed for the answer."

"Do you think Reagan and Schweiker are looking under the bed right now?"

"Not only under the bed but in the closets. Pu Shang said, 'Always check the closets before getting into bed with someone whom you don't know.'"

"Will they find any uncommitted delegates in the closets?"

"The sky only knows. A thousand years ago Chou-Gum inquired of the Master, 'What is the best way of becoming the leader of the Republican Party?' He said, 'Look in the armoire of the room.'"

"Why the armoire?"

"Because there are alot of closet Republicans hiding there waiting to see which way the wind is blowing."

"And I guess this is particularly true of Pennsylvania?"

"The Master did not refer to Pennsylvania. At the same time he did not specifically eliminate Pennsylvania from his thoughts."

"Will Reagan be hurt by getting into the same bed with Schweiker?"

THE INSIDE REPORT

Soviet Naval Goals Aired

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The father of the modern Soviet navy has drafted a frightening blueprint that for the first time publicly projects Soviet naval power "to effectively utilize the world ocean in the interest of building Communism" in direct contradiction of detente.

This projection is the heart of a new book by the brilliant Soviet naval strategist, Admiral of the Fleet Sergei Gorshkov. While contradicting official Kremlin policy, his grand strategy is viewed by officials here as an accurate mirror of Kremlin designs.

There are indications that Gorshkov's book, "The Sea Power of the State," was designed strictly for internal consumption by Communist party leaders and cadres within the Soviet military. Accordingly, excerpts which have reached the West are being closely studied in military and intelligence circles for a rare glimpse of inner Soviet strategy on maximum use of sea power in the struggle for world supremacy.

For the first time, that strategy emerges vividly with propaganda wraps stripped away, raising obvious implications for the current debate over U.S. naval construction.

Desire to keep Gorshkov's study out of Western hands is understandable. Gorshkov's repeated references to the "enemy" — that is, the U.S. — are incompatible with the official Soviet line.

His message is powerful and unmistakable: Soviet sea power, merely a minor defensive arm when Stalin died in 1963, has become the optimum means to defeat the "imperialist" enemy and the most important element in the Soviet arsenal to prepare the way for a Communized world.

Gorshkov, Soviet navy chief for 21 years, was architect of its shift from a coastal to a blue-water navy with an extraordinary variety of ships and weapons. His vision is without limits, as in this candid assertion: "Establishing the conditions for gaining sea control has always required prolonged periods of time and the execution of a series of measures while still at peace."

What are these measures? According to Gorshkov, they include: adequate ships and weapons in constant readiness for combat; disposing of naval forces in prospective war theaters so that "they will have superiority of position over the enemy;" building up "a base system" to handle these forces together with a system for controlling the bases.

Gorshkov thereby spells out as the modern role of Soviet naval power a system which almost exactly fits the routine Soviet description of capitalist imperialism, the declining system of Western preeminence that Gorshkov evidently intends the Soviet Union to make its own.

The astonishingly rapid development of the Soviet navy is no secret. It has reached virtual equality with the U.S. in the Mediterranean (where the Russians recently introduced their first aircraft carrier), the Pacific and the Indian Oceans. With the ships and weapons come Soviet bases strategically placed such as in Cuba off the U.S. coast and in Somalia on the Red Sea coast, but never before Gorshkov has the meaning of this rapid advance toward sea power equality and future superiority been so starkly or publicly spelled out by a Russian.

The "military aspects" of Soviet naval power, Gorshkov writes, are by no means the only ones "that exert an effect on the role of navies. . . Navies, while indispensable (for) armed combat, also are constantly being utilized as an instrument of state policy in peacetime. The sea is a no-man's land, and therefore navies do not encounter in their activities many of the limitations which prevent utilization of other branches of the armed forces in peacetime for political purposes."

Thus, today's navies have assumed new political significance. This, says Gorshkov, includes "influence on coastal countries" when military conflicts

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

States and cities can go broke if they borrow too much money. If they reach the point where it looks as though they might not be able to pay it back, nobody will lend them any more.

Have you ever wondered why this doesn't happen to the federal government? The federal government borrows and spends more than anyone.

The reason is that the federal government controls the money machine. Through the Federal Reserve Bank it can issue more money or lend itself more money anytime it needs it. It doesn't have to depend on the money market or anybody else's opinion.

Because the federal government can always issue or borrow money whenever it needs it, government securities will probably always be paid in full. The only problem is: what will the money be worth? You'll get your money back, but how much will it actually buy?

Every dollar the government creates and spends adds to the money supply. And the larger the supply, the less each dollar will buy. Government deficits shrink the value of every dollar you own, I own, or anybody owns. And they keep on doing it year after year. By constantly adding to the money supply, they force prices up and up, the value of the dollar down and down.

There ought to be a law against government deficits. Any legislator who proposes a program of any kind should also propose the taxes necessary to pay for it. And if we're not willing to face the taxes, let's forget the program.

THE HIGHER WEATHER VANE

A farm in this neighborhood has two weather vanes, one on a low-lying shed and the other atop a lofty windmill. Sometimes these two weather vanes give different readings, but experience has taught those people who live in the vicinity that the higher one is the more accurate because it registers prevailing winds. The other merely responds to shifting ground currents.

We observe the same difference in the opinions voiced by our friends and acquaintances. Some people arrive at their conclusions on the basis of certain fixed principles; others, on the basis of expediency. The people who judge according to principle are like the weather vane atop the mill; the people who follow expediency are like the weather vane on the shed close to the ground. The former catch those great currents of truth which sweep through the universe, while the latter register only the opinion which prevails for the moment, the passing fancy, the fad of the hour.

'The Fed' Cuts Growth Target

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In what its chairman termed "another small and prudent step" toward reducing inflation, the Federal Reserve Board has cut its growth target for consumer savings, and thereby confused more than a few people.

Speaking very generally, money is the fuel of economic activity. The Fed controls it, or at least seeks to. Too much money flowing into the economy can generate inflationary demand; too little hampers growth.

For four straight quarters the Fed has reduced its long-term money-supply growth. Consumer savings are a part of money supply. The Fed says there has been an "ample flow" of savings into mortgage lenders. So the goal was cut.

What baffles a lot of people is how Chairman Arthur Burns reached the conclusion, as indicated in testimony a week ago to the House Banking Committee, that the savings rate was adequate and that by lowering the rate inflation would be restrained.

"Savings are what we want," snapped John Wright, who, as president of Wright Bankers' Service, manages and advises many banks on their investment portfolios. He finds the reasoning "astounding."

If the supply of savings has been ample, he asks, why the persistence of 9.15 per cent home mortgage interest rates that have slowed down home construction?

"The declared objective of the board to reduce the savings rate," he said, "is in direct opposition to the national objective of increasing our rate of national capital formation, which begins and ends with personal savings, as distinguished from consumption."

The reason, said Wright, "is upside down."

He maintains it is also difficult to reconcile such statements as "activity in all major sectors of the private economy" seem "posed for further advances" with such basic economic facts as:

- U.S. industrial production, at 73 per cent of capacity, has not yet managed to recover to even its lowest levels during the last three recessions — 74.2 per cent in 1970, 87.3 in 1967 and 74.2 in 1961.
- Recovery of Gross National Product slowed from plus 9.2 per cent in the first quarter of the year to 4.4 per cent during the second quarter, in constant — that is, comparable — dollars.
- Growth of real disposable personal income also slowed to a plus 4.5 per cent annual recovery rate during the

Relying On Big Effort

(Editor's note: Robert B. Culen, who usually writes this column, was on temporary assignment out of state.)

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Despite ever increasing costs of being elected to statewide political office, some people still try to win an office without spending huge sums on advertising and public relations.

It would be refreshing, perhaps, if politics could be as personal as some candidates try to make it with their low budget campaigns aimed at individually reaching the voters.

But, if the past is an indication of what the future holds, these efforts will fail. North Carolina's 2.7 million voters present a formidable challenge which becomes virtually impossible to handle without massive use of radio, television and newspapers.

A case in point this primary season is the race for Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. There are eight candidates, three of them falling into the novice category.

The three — Kathryn McCracken, C.A. Brown Jr. and E. Frank Stephenson Jr. — were unknown politically before jumping into the lieutenant governor's race. In many quarters, no doubt, they are still unknown.

Each of the three candidates has assumed that meeting people, shaking hands, speaking to a group or belonging to an organization can be translated into votes. Those who follow politics generally agree that each of those factors will help, but not win an election.

Each of the three has worked hard, very likely harder than some of the candidates the media generally call "the serious contenders." Again, it takes more than hard work.

Mrs. McCracken has based her campaign on her association with the Order of Eastern Star, a women's branch of the Mason's fraternal organization.

She served in high office for four years, last year being the "worth grand matron," which is the equivalent of president. The three previous years she moved up through other offices of statewide responsibility.

During each of those four years, she said, she traveled the state, visiting hundreds of cities and towns and delivering countless speeches as an officer of the organization. But, most of her contact in those years was with fellow Eastern Star members and Masons.

It also must be noted that several of her opponents are Masons which could tend to weaken her political base.

Stephenson says he has been running for lieutenant governor for three years. His base, he says, is the fact that he traveled the state for 10 years while recruiting students and athletes for Chowan College in Murfreesboro.

He has hundreds of friends statewide and they are working for him, he said. He also has worked hard, saying that is appreciated by the voters.

"We have built a good grass roots organization across this state. I'm out hustling myself. People like to see you hustle..." he said.

Brown has been using his citizens band radio to campaign as he drives around the state. He tells fellow CB operators that he's a candidate and asks for their votes. He says it works and that he has gained support through the tactic.

Hunt Calls For Curbing Judges

By The Associated Press
 Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt said today the state should reduce the discretion judges have in sentencing defendants.

"We must have a criminal justice system that protects our people against crime, not a system that breeds crime or discriminates against some people," Hunt said in remarks to the General Baptist State Convention.

He added, "We can't let one man be sentenced to 10 years for a crime and another man, who committed the same crime, get off with a probation."

Nelson Col...

 Such campaigns are generally run from someone's home with the campaign manager usually being a close relative. Contributions are smaller and fewer than what is received by other candidates.

One of the common traps for any candidate is seeing only what's happening in his own campaign. He loses sight of the overall picture and the hand-shaking circuit—because it touches thousands of persons—gives a feeling of success.

Also, there's the misconception held by many novice politicians that being the only candidate to visit a courthouse or speak to a small town civic club is tantamount to winning those votes. Not so.

While these candidates proclaim they are not professional politicians and say that's what the people want, their most serious problem is that most people never get the message.

The "professional" politician, in the view of some novices, is someone who has previously held public office.

That experience is generally what gives the "professional" the knowledge to gather effective supporters, build a campaign, collect the money, get the message to the voters and win an election.

Maybe every candidate in Utopia would be able to win office without spending money or having experience, but in the real world it is difficult if not impossible.

But, if Mrs. McRacken, Brown or Stephenson scores a victory, or even gets in a runoff, it would force the "professional" politicians and the media to at least step back and reassess their assumptions about the voters.

 threaten and the ability "to extend a military threat to any level, beginning with a show of military strength and ending with the disembarkation of a landing party."

Most experts her perceive Gorshkov's treatise as a clear reflection of new Soviet policy arising out of last February's 25th Communist Party Congress. A minority, however, thinks it signifies a debate, with Gorshkov making the case for naval preeminence within the Soviet military apparatus.

Considering the momentum and rising trend of Soviet naval power since Gorshkov took over in 1955, the safe assumption is the majority position: Gorshkov is spouting clandestine but official Soviet policy.

The menace to the U.S. has now been made explicit. Mix Gorshkov's fearsome naval potion with the quixotic brew of dentente and the result could be deadly for the West.

Fuel Charges Nearly Halved

RALEIGH (AP) — Carolina Power and Light Co.'s August fuel charge has dropped to nearly half of the July fee.

The company announced that August charge is .031 cents per kilowatt hour, compared to .074 in July.

The fuel charge reflects monthly variations in the company's actual cost of fuel. It allows it to pass on cost increases or decreases to its electric customers.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today after an early advance faded. Trading remained light.
 The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 1.44 at 983.20. Gainers clung to a 5-4 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.
 The Dow was weighed down by dividend-payment adjustments on the prices of four stocks in the average, which together accounted for a decline of more than a point.
 The average showed a 1-point gain in the early going as some buying carried over from Friday's moderate rally.
 Numerous large banks across the country joined today in a prime rate reduction from 7 1/4 to 7 per cent, begun a week ago by the First National Bank of Chicago.
 But the moves, which had been expected, proved insufficient support to sustain the market's upward momentum.
 R.R. Donnelly was among the most active NYSE issues, up 1/4 at 21. A 151,300-share block traded at that price.
 Wang Laboratories, an American Stock Exchange issue, gained 3/4 to 15 1/4 on sharply higher quarterly earnings.
 The NYSE's composite index edged up .02 to 55.28 in the first hour, and the Amex market value index rose .05 to 103.72.

Died After Convention

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Eleven persons who attended a state American Legion convention in Philadelphia July 21-24 have died of similar symptoms, a legion official said today.
 Edward T. Hoak, the legion's state adjutant, said, "We don't know what it is but it's all over the state."
 He said 10,000 people attended the convention.
 A state health official said an investigation was begun today. He said he had no indication as to the causes of the deaths.
 Hoak said many persons who were at the convention have been admitted to hospitals around the state, including seven in Williamsport and three at Wilkes-Barre. He said all have the same symptoms.
 "They have a pain in their chest. They get a high temperature," Hoak said. He said some symptoms resemble a chest cold, and the temperatures range from 104 to 107 degrees.

Bars Slowed Rescue Try

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Three persons have died in a house fire as burglar bars helped prevent a rescue, authorities say.

Hearing screams for help from a second story window, two firemen climbed a ladder to the window Sunday but found the wrought iron bars screwed securely into the window frame, fire officials said.

After prying the bars loose, the firemen started to pull one victim through a window but were overcome by smoke and heat, authorities said.

A Baby Boy For Gladys Knight

DETROIT (AP) — Gladys Knight, lead singer of the Motown group Gladys Knight and the Pips, is the mother of a 10-pound baby boy.

Miss Knight's husband, Barry Hankerson, said after seeing his 23-inch son, "I bet it was her vegetarian diet. That boy is as big as two sacks of sugar."

Miss Knight, who has three children from a previous marriage, was in good condition Sunday at a Detroit hospital after the caesarean birth.

She has been working on a movie produced by Hankerson, a former aide to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

Urges Program For Youth Jobs

BOSTON (AP) — The director of the National Urban League has proposed a national youth employment program to save young people from "the rubbish heap of economic surplus and dependency."

Vernon E. Jordan Jr. said Sunday the league estimates the unemployment rate among young blacks 16 to 19 is 64 per cent.

"Denied the opportunity to equip themselves for self-sufficiency, they face enforced idleness, frustration, the temptations of the street and lifetimes of poverty and dependence," Jordan said.

He commented in the keynote speech at the league's 66th annual conference.

Liz Taylor On Scene For Film

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor is in Vienna to play the role of Desiree in the $7-million film of the musical "A Little Night Music."

Miss Taylor, who arrived Sunday, is staying in a suite of Vienna's Imperial Hotel, usually the residence of visiting royalty and heads of state.

Harold Prince will produce the movie.

Games Close As They Opened— Under Dark Political Cloud

By BOB GREEN
AP Sports Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — The 1976 Summer Olympics are over.

Now the question is, are the Olympics over? Has the world outgrown the vision of Baron de Coubertin, who sought brotherhood through sports in founding the modern Games in 1892? Has, as International Olympic Committee director Monique Berlioux said, the soul gone out of the Olympics?

The Games ended Sunday, as they started more than two weeks ago, with pomp and ceremony clouded by controversy and international political wrangling.

They ended with the Soviet Union, the host country for the 1980 Games and the country whose athletes won the most medals here, accusing Canada of kidnaping a 17-year-old diver and angrily demanding his return to Russian control.

It was symbolic of the course of the Games — athletes serving as pawns in a larger game, mere walk-on participants on a global stage concerned with politics, international diplomacy, racial tensions, wheat deals, fears, security.

"They have placed an iron collar on the Olympics," said Madame Berlioux. "The soul has gone. The Olympic spirit is missing."

The next Games are in Moscow, four years from now. There is no way of knowing how they will fare. There are reports from China indicating that enormous nation, not an Olympic participant, may stage conflicting games with invitations to the 28 African nations that boycotted the XXI Olympiad.

Beyond Moscow, the future is even more cloudy. Conflicting proposals have been made — disperse the Olympics among various countries, or give the Games a permanent site in Greece.

Phillip Krumm, the head of the United States Olympic Committee, opposed the latter suggestion and insisted that (1) the Games will continue and (2) the Americans will improve. "The name and the Games will carry on," he said, but noticed, "we face some gigantic problems of organization."

As to the Americans' performance, which ended on a high note Saturday, Krumm said, "We did better than the last Olympics against tougher competition. We spend $1 million a year on team development. The East Germans spend $50 million. We are the only country that does not have some government assistance."

The Americans won eight gold medals Saturday, five of them in boxing, for their best showing of the Games. But there was disappointment, too. They lost a couple they figured to win — Frank Shorter in the marathon and Dwight Stones in the high jump.

The United States finished with 34 gold medals, 35 silver and 25 bronze, a total of 94. Russia led with a count of 47-43-35, 125. East Germany, backed by a massive government subsidy program, produced 40-25-25, 90 over-all. Most of them came from its women, who dominated the swimming events almost to the extent the American men ruled theirs.

Shirley Babashoff, America's top woman swimmer who won three silver and a gold, cast a glance at the broad-shouldered East German women and sniffed: "I'm glad I don't have to walk around my neighborhood looking like a guy."

The East German women won both their relays in the final day of track and field, and the American men won both of theirs.

Harvey Glance, Phoenix City, Ala.; Johnny Jones, Lampasas, Tex.; Millard Hampton, San Jose, Calif., and Steve Riddick, Philadelphia, won the 400-meter relay in 38.33 seconds.

The quartet of Harvey Frazier, Philadelphia; Bennie Brown, Malpitas, Calif.; Fred Newhouse, Baton Rouge, La., and Maxie Parks, Los Angeles, won the 1,600 meters easily in 2:58.66.

Those were the fifth and sixth gold medals collected by the Americans in track and field, a sport they once dominated. They expected to win the marathon, where Shorter was defending, and the high jump, where the flamboyant Stones holds the world record.

But an obscure East German, a converted steeplechaser named Waldemar Cierpinski, swept through a steady rain in an Olympic record 2 hours, 9 minutes and 55 seconds, putting Shooter behind him with about five miles go to in the 26-mile, 385-yard test. Shorter took the silver medal in 2:10:45.8. Lasse Viren, the bearded Finn who won the 5,000- and 10,000-meter races, finished fifth in his quest for a distance triple.

In the high jump, Poland's Jacek Wszola won at 7 feet, 4 1/2 inches. Stones was third at 7-3.

John Walker of New Zealand won as expected with a slow, strategic 3:39.17 in the 1,500 meters. Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, the world record holder at the distance, was among the missing. His nation boycotted the Games.

Ivanka Khristova of Bulgaria won the only other track and field gold of the final day with a throw of 69-5 in the women's shot put.

John Peterson, a farmer's son from Comstock, Wis., won the 180-pound freestyle wrestling gold medal and his brother Ben took the silver at 198 pounds.

There was a brother act in the boxers, too. Middleweight Mike Spinks, St. Louis, won his division and older brother Leon, a U.S. Marine stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C., won the gold in the light-heavy class. Leo Randolph, Tacoma, Wash., won at 112 pounds, Howard Davis, Glen Cove, N.Y., took the gold at 132 pounds and Sugar Ray Leonard, Palmer Park, Md., won at 140.

The only American loser in the final round was Army Sgt. Charles Mooney, Ft. Bragg, N.C., at 119 pounds. The United States finished with five gold, a silver and a bronze, by far its best boxing showing ever.

The Games closed Sunday night with France winning the equestrian team jumping gold medal, followed by West Germany and Belgium.

Only six athletes from each nation marched in the closing ceremony Sunday night, followed by the traditional lighting of candles, extinguishing of the Olympic flame and singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Then they took their memories and their medals and dispersed to the far corners of the world.

The Memories may be better than the medals.

The gold medals are only gold plated.

Straight Singles Help Heels Take 3-1 Decision Over Bucs

By WILLIE PATRICK
Special To The Reflector

CHAPEL HILL — Back-to-back singles by P.J. Gay and Kevin Caddell drove in two runs that spelled doom for East Carolina University here Sunday night as the University of North Carolina Tar Heels took a 3-1 summer league baseball victory in the regular season finale for both teams.

The Tar Heels captured a 1-0 lead in the third on a single and spectacular show of defensive ineptitude by the Pirates. Jim Waugh stumbled trying to steal second base, but no one covered the bag on an otherwise perfect throw; Waugh raced to third in plenty of time to beat the relay throw from center field, but the throw bounced out of the playing area to send the runner home. Macon Moye singled to lead off the fourth and moved to third when Sonny Wooten bounced a single to right field. Bobby Supel hit a slow roller to short to score Moye.

The Pirates had another scoring opportunity in the sixth, but had a runner cut down at the plate. Chris Horne, the third of three pitchers, got the win for the hosts, running his mark to 4-1. Glenn Card took the loss.

Card pitched well for the Pirates, yielding seven hits, walking three and fanning two. Card picked off a runner from second in the first inning and pitched himself himself out of trouble in the fourth, fifth and sixth.

The Pirates cut down one runner trying to score on a groundout in the fourth and nailed another trying to execute a double steal in the same inning. Another double-steal attempt, with the lead runner coming home, was snuffed out by East Carolina in the seventh.

With two out in that seventh inning, Card walked Steve Coats and Jim Atkinson to set up the run-scoring hits by Gay and Caddell.

UNC, with a 30-12 mark, with host the tournament starting Tuesday in Chapel Hill. Methodist College and Louisburg College will play at 5:30 and the Pirates will come back to battle the Tar Heels again at approximately 8 p.m. in this double-elimination affair.

Bennett Wins Title

Irvin Bennett edged Wally Norris, 5-4, to win the Greenville Junior Putters championship, Saturday.

Bennett had beaten Robert Stancill 2-1 to move into the finals while Norris had slipped past Gray Finnegan, 3-1.

The Greenville City Championships will be held this weekend with an eight-hole tournament. Four rounds each will be played on Saturday and Sunday. Entry fee is $3.00.

First golfer to tee off in the 1976 U.S. Open golf championship was amateur Ronald Milanovich of Pinecrest Country Club in Brookville, Pa. His starting time was 7 a.m. (EDT).

Fingers Fail Falcons; 'Skins Win By Seven

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — "Dropped balls threw a monkey wrench into our offense," moaned Atlanta Coach Marion Campbell after the Washington Redskins trimmed his Falcons 17-10 in a National Football League preseason opener.

He failed to mention a scrambling Joe Theisman, who relieved Washington starting quarterback Billy Kilmer late in the first half and guided the skins to the victory, hitting Larry Jones on a 22-yard touchdown strike and setting up a fourth period field goal of 38 yards by Mark Moseley.

"I'm glad I got a chance to play and make a contribution," said the 26-year-old Theisman, a former Notre Dame All-American who chose the Canadian Football League over the NFL initially before the Skins signed him before the 1974 season.

Kilmer hit on six of 11 passes for 59 yards and took the Redskins to a touchdown the first time they had the ball, guiding a 51-yard march in nine plays as Mike Thomas plunged over from the one.

The Falcons scored on Steve Bartkowski's 15-yard pitch to Alfred Jenkins in the end zone and a 36-yard field goal by Nick Mike-Mayer.

Bartkowski was 6 of 19 for 88 yards in the passing department and Kim McQuilken, who played the final 20 minutes connected on 5 of 14 for 77 yards. At least six passes were dropped with newcomer John Gilliam, the former Minnesota Viking, letting three drop from his hands.

Why there's a shortage of Miller High Life.

We're brewing more Miller High Life Beer than ever. But Americans are also drinking more Miller High Life than ever. In each of the last two years, we've experienced greater sales percentage increases than any other major brewer in the industry. And this overwhelming demand has created shortages in some areas.

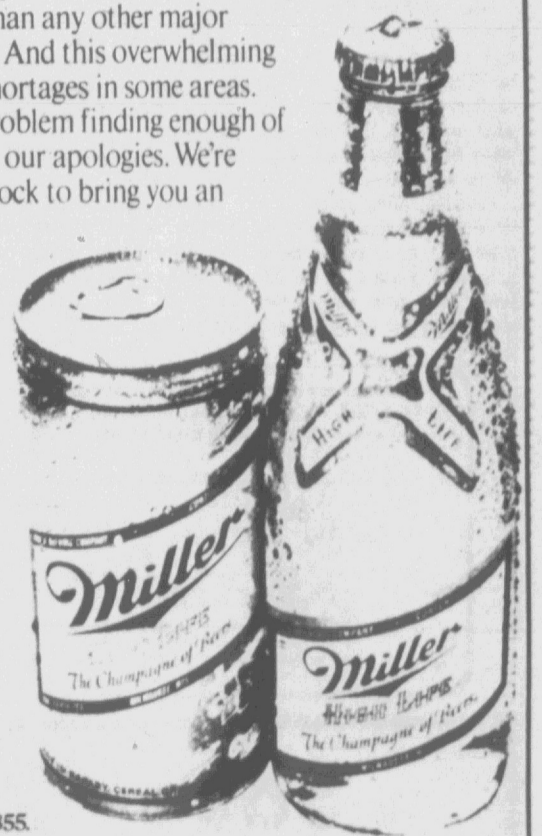

If you're having a problem finding enough of our beer, please accept our apologies. We're working around the clock to bring you an adequate supply as quickly as possible.

We're even building another brewery, our fourth, which will be in operation early next year. There's only one thing we refuse to do. And that's rush our brewing process.

Because it's the quality of our beer that has made us a success in the first place.

America's quality beer. Since 1855.

Sinker Rises To The Occasion

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Randy Jones wanted to pick up his San Diego Padres by picking up his 19th victory of the season. The team had lost seven of the last eight games — the only victory coming in his last start — and the time was ripe for Jones to top the Reds again as he had done the last four times he had faced them.

But all Randy Jones picked up Sunday was his fifth loss, because his sinker picked up when it was supposed to have dropped.

"I just made two mistakes," said Jones, who is entitled to two after recording more than one-third of his club's victories this year. "I wanted to pick the ball club up. I was really excited. I realized I couldn't make too many mistakes against the Reds."

triple and an eighth-inning RBI single by Ellis Valentine backed a five-hitter by Steve Rogers in the Expos' victory.

Cubs, Cardinals 1

Two mistakes nearly cost Chicago a victory. S. Louis broke up John Denny's not-hitter with two outs in the eighth and taking a 1-0 lead, a ninth-inning three-base error by left fielder Joe Cardenal preceded one by first baseman by Pete LaCock, permitting the tying run to score.

LaCock atoned for his foulup in the 10th, driving in the winning run with a single off Denny. "I don't want to talk to you vultures," a distressed Denny said to newsmen. "Get away from me."

Phillies 7-2, Mets 6-0

Mike Schmidt's 27th homer of the season took the nightcap for Philadelphia after Garry Maddox' 11th-inning single scored Jay Johnston from first base to win the opener. Greg Luzinski had a grand slam in the opener, but New York came back to tie it in the fifth inning.

Astro 6, Braves 0

Larry Dierker's five-hit shutout of Atlanta was his second in a row overall, this time in a row at home and his fourth of the season. Jose Cruz drove in two runs and had three hits to pace the victory.

Dodgers 4-4, San Francisco 1-3

Reliever Charlie Hough picked up his ninth save of the season by protecting Don Sutton's victory in the opener, then won the nightcap on his own as the Dodgers swept the Giants. Bill Buckner had seven hits in the doubleheader but did not drive in a run.

BALL GETS THROUGH — Atlanta Braves Rob Belloir watches as the ball rolls to the dugout while Houston Astro Jose Cruz slides into third. Cruz advanced from second on a grounder by teammate

Rob Andrews. Atlanta shortstop Darrell Chaney threw wildly to third and Cruz came in to score. The play came in the seventh inning of the game in Houston Sunday. (AP Wirephoto)

Many Are Winners But There Are Many Losers

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — The philosophical credo of the Olympics is to compete, not to win. Philosophically, then, there were more than 7,000 winners at the 1976 Summer Games.

But on the theory that gold is indeed more cherished than silver, bronze or a paper certificate of participation, here are the biggest winners and losers in the five major sports:

Track and Field

Bruce Jenner of the United States laid claim to the title of the world's best athlete with a record-shattering performance in the decathlon. A strong man with matinee-idol looks, Jenner says he would welcome movie offers.

Alberto Juantorena of Cuba, who strides like a thoroughbred race horse, galloped to impressive victories in the 400 and 800 meters, the first man ever to win this double in Olympic history. He dedicated both triumphs to his leader, Fidel Castro, and the revolution.

Lasse Viren of Finland won the Woolworth double - the 5,000 and 10,000 meters - for the second straight Olympics. He tried the killing marathon for the first time ever, finished fifth, and said: "The race was not so very hard. I trained almost 30 miles a day."

The biggest losers in track and field are Americans Dwight Stones and Frank Shorter.

Stones, a heavy favorite in the high jump, didn't like the Olympic housing accommodations so he returned to California to train. He didn't like the rain that fell constantly during the high jump final. He didn't like the way the Canadians didn't finish the Olympic edifices on time. He didn't like his third-place finish, either.

Shorter trained four years to finish second in the grueling 26-plus miles of marathon. "In 1972 at Munich, I never expected to win," Shorter said. "Today (Sunday), I did."

Swimming and Diving

The American men won 12 of 13 gold medals. Particularly brilliant was John Nader, who took four golds - two in relay races - and a silver, and Brian Goodell, a 17-year-old high school kid who won both the 400- and grueling 1,500-meter freestyles in world record times.

The East German women won 11 of 13 gold medals. Kornelia Ender, a classy 17-year-old, was the dominant member of the team, winning three individual races, including two that were only 25 minutes apart.

Klaus Dibiasi of Italy won his third straight Olympic gold in platform diving and his fourth medal in this event spanning a 12-year period.

The swimming and diving losers were the American women, who won a single medal but waded swimming at the broad-shouldered East Germans, and the Russian diving team.

We don't want to lift weights and look like them, the American women said as they had no difficulty lifting their bronze and silver medals. The Russians went home one diver short, losing 17-year-old Sergei Nemtsanov to Canada - by defection, according to the Canadians, and by the charms of a young girl, according to the Soviets.

Gymnastics

Nadia Comaneci of Romania, the doll of the gymnastics set, won three individual gold medals, then made the covers of "Newsweek," "Time" and "Sports Illustrated." She was given a perfect 10 seven times.

Nikolai Andrianov of the Soviet Union won four individual gold medals, but didn't make the cover of any publication, at least in the West.

The losers in the gymnastics were Russia's Olga Korbut and, in one sense, Andrianov.

Miss Korbut, love object of the gymnastic world when she won two gold medals four years ago, lost her stage to Comaneci and picked up a lone individual silver medal. Asked by one reporter how she felt about her drop in status, Miss Korbut answered: "I don't want to answer that." Then she walked out of the room.

Andrianov fell victim to the syndrome that no one loves a male gymnast. His big night immediately followed Comaneci's, but there was no fuss. "I'm not jealous," he said. "People are always more interested in women than men."

Basketball

The United States regained the gold medal in the sport born in America. Coach Dean Smith gets the top award as the man who molded 12 individuals into a smooth-working unit. The top American players were Adrian Dantley and Scott May, but the biggest winners may be the Buffalo Braves and Chicago Bulls, who now own the respective services of Dantley and May.

The biggest basketball loser was the Soviet Union, which killed the four-year-old grudge game with the United States by losing to Yugoslavia in the semifinals. Secondary losers are the teams in the National Basketball Association that don't have the rights to May and Dantley.

Boxing

The American contingent was the big winner here as five members claimed gold — Leo Randolph at 112. Howard Davis at 132, Sugar Ray Leonard at 140, Mike Spinks at 165 and Leon Spinks at 178.

Cuban Teofilo Stevenson won his second straight Olympic heavyweight gold medal, stopping all four of his opponents. The biggest boxing losers were Stevenson's four opponents, especially American John Tate, who showed much courage and little sense by fighting recklessly against the big Cuban. His reward was a devastating right hand, which knocked him silly for the 10-count.

Overall, the biggest winners were the Soviet Union, with 47 gold medals, East Germany, with 40, and the United States, with 34.

Among the biggest losers were the athletes of Taiwan, who trained for the Olympics but didn't compete because of a political dispute with Canada.

But, because of this political problem and others, such as the withdrawal of 28 African nations, the biggest loser probably was the Olympic ideal.

Nervous Allin Wins $40,000

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Brian "Bud" Allin, who collected a fistful of decorations as an Army artilleryman in Viet Nam, now is a bundle of nerves on the pro golf tour. And he likes it that way.

"It's nice to be nervous, that's what this game is all about," the 31-year-old Allin said Sunday after collecting $40,000 with a pressure-packed, one-stroke victory in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Classic.

"I was nervous, kind of shaky out there," Allin said. "It's been so long since I've won, since 1974, I really wanted this one. I was so nervous I quit looking at the scoreboard."

"I didn't know I was ahead. I didn't look at the leader board from the 10th hole until the 18th. Then I looked up at the board when I was on that last green. I knew I needed just two putts to win and I went out and got them."

withstand the closing charge of Ben Crenshaw, the tour's leading money winner this year.

Crenshaw, struggling with few birdies but never going over par, found the birdie range on the last two holes. However, his charge fell short as Allin refused to bend to the pressure.

Allin, who started the fourth round two strokes off the pace, finished with a one-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 277, seven strokes under regulation at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Crenshaw, given a sponsor's exemption when he was a rookie in 1973 here, finished with a 70 for 278, good for $22,800, boosting his earnings for the year to $213,000.

Lee Elder, who faltered to a closing 74, tied for third with Menne and Lanny Wadkins at 279. There was a whopping deadlock at 280. Then, at 281, came third-round leader Mac McLendon, who wound up with a fat 76.

The rain-plagued tournament was so troublesome that Gary Player, one of golf's all-time greats, didn't pick up a penny. Player took a big 79 in the final round and finished out of the money with 293.

While admitting to a case of nerves, he gave the jitters to rivals as the 72-hole tournament turned into a horse race in the final round, interrupted by a thunderstorm for 1 1/2 hours in late morning.

After six holes, there was a five-way tie for the lead. Allin took a bogey 5 on the 64th hole, but then settled down, and his challengers gradually faded. Allin took the lead for good when Bob Menne had a bogey on the 68th hole.

Actually, Allin nailed down his fifth PGA victory, and first since 1974, by sinking a 25-foot putt for a birdie 2 on the 70th hole. That gave him a two-stroke lead and enabled him to Last and 150th golfer to tee off the first day in the four-day 1976 U.S. Open golf championship was pro Calvin Peete of South Bay, Fla.

Houston Astro rookie pitcher Joaquin Andujar hurled two successive two-hit games this spring. Last year he completed only one game with Three Rivers, Que.

Unaccustomed To High Position

By KEN RAPPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins are simply beside themselves—and at the same time, right behind the Kansas City Royals.

"I guess I enjoy baseball now as much as ever," says Manager Gene Mauch.

"It's almost like we have someone up there looking out for us and that's a great feeling," notes outfielder Larry Hise.

"I really feel good — I'm all pumped up," exclaims relief pitcher Tom Johnson.

The Twins' elevated status in the American League West is the reason for this natural high. A prisoner of the cellar for many years, the Twins are up in the rarified air of second place after a doubleheader sweep over the Oakland A's Sunday.

"We just haven't been winning both games of doubleheaders for two or three years," said Hise after the Twins shipped their longtime tormentors, 8-7 in 12 innings and 6-2. "This series is the best I can ever remember being involved in."

The sweep was the Twins' fourth doubleheader victory this season and their second in five days. The one time West dormats have now won seven straight games and 12 of their last 14.

Coupled with Kansas City's 8-4 loss to the Texas Rangers, the Twins moved within nine games of the West leaders. In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Detroit Tigers 4-3; the Boston Red Sox edged the New York Yankees 5-4; the Cleveland Indians turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 in 10 innings and the Chicago White Sox defeated the California Angels 2-1.

The Twins rallied from a two-run deficit in the ninth and came from behind twice in extra innings to defeat Oakland on a bases-loaded walk to Roy Smalley in the 12th inning of their opener. Hise singled three times, drove in two runs and scored another, leading the Twins to their second-game victory.

Rangers 8, Royals 4

Gaylord Perry survived a shaky start and scattered 10 hits and Texas handed southpaw Andy Hassler his 18th straight defeat in beating Kansas City. The Royals collected five hits and three of their runs off Perry, 10-8, in the first two innings, but the crafty right-hander settled down, allowing only one more run in the ninth.

Orioles 4, Tigers 3

Reggie Jackson's single, following three two-out walks in the ninth inning by Detroit reliever John Hiller, gave Baltimore its victory over the Tigers.

Hiller, who earned his 10th save with three perfect innings of relief Saturday night, issued three consecutive walks after retiring the first two batters in the ninth and Jackson's hit was the only one he allowed in two innings.

Red Sox 5, Yankees 4

Rick Burleson doubled in two runs in the ninth inning and scored on a sacrifice fly by Carl Yastrzemski as the Red Sox edged New York and extending the Yankees' losing streak to three games.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

Ray Fosse's check-swing bloop single scored Tommy Smith with the winning run in the 10th inning, leading Cleveland over Milwaukee. Smith opened the 10th with a single off loser Bill Castro, 3-1, and took second on a sacrifice. Fosse followed with his bloop hit, which landed between center fielder Gorman Thomas and second baseman Gary Sutherland.

White Sox 2, Angels 1

Ralph Garr tripled to open the eighth inning and scored the winning run on a grounder as Chicago edged California behind the five-hit pitching of Rich Gossage. Gossage, 6-10, snapped a personal seven-game losing streak and posted his first victory since June 9 as a he out-dueled Angel ace Frank Tanana, 12-8, who permitted only six hits.

Fourteen Dead In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
Fourteen persons died in weekend traffic accidents on North Carolina highways, the Highway Patrol reported Sunday night.
The deaths brought the state's total for 1976 to 812, compared to 822 deaths for the corresponding period in 1975, the patrol said.
A Wilkes County woman died Sunday when her motorcycle struck a guard rail on the Blue Ridge Parkway in Ashe County. She was identified as Mrs. Willa Deane Hamby, 31, of Miller's Creek. The patrol said she was thrown down an embankment by the impact.
A Maryland woman, Ellen Louise Lloyd, 26, of Baltimore, was killed Sunday morning in a two-car collision on N.C. 43, 10 miles south of Greenville. Three other persons were injured, the patrol said.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—Four clubs. You are not quite sure just what the limit of the hand is because there is an apparent misfit, but you should make another move. Must partner rebid his spades once more, we suggest a raise to five. You have made it clear that you have only a singleton spade, so slam will then depend on the quality of partner's suit.
Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. Usually, we like to show both our suits, but here partner is unlikely to hold four diamonds and we don't want to give him the chance to pass two diamonds with moderate three-card support. Two hearts is a two-way bid—it shows the unbalanced nature of the hand and

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to keep busy at whatever your tasks and duties are. Definitely not a day to indulge in recreations and entertainments which appeal to the lighter side of your nature.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show that you can handle responsibilities carefully and gain the approval of higher-ups. Head complaints of a loved one.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have made certain promises to others and should not try to change them now. Carry them through wisely. Take in stride any public annoyance that may arise. Do not lose your temper.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get at that work ahead of you and do not be distracted by little things as you may lose out where it counts the most. Take no risks where health is concerned, either. Be more practical.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forget all that frivolity you have in mind and get busy on practical and worthwhile things. Do something nice for a loved one.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some little sacrifice may be necessary if you are to add to the harmony needed at home. Forget that martyr complex and become more aggressive. Put finest talents to work.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Thoughtlessness could cause much trouble today, so be alert, courteous. Choose your words well. Associate with congenials today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't invest too heavily or you could lose that security you now enjoy. Organize your budget so that it is more flexible.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Analyze personal interests so that you know exactly where you stand and how to improve them. Don't take chances with strangers.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Put aside fun today and get busy at those important duties. Run errands for a loved one. Work in closer harmony for best results.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Steer clear of a friend who wants to waste your valuable time. Group meetings could also be a waste of time now.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day for handling outside matters, but fine for the personal side of your life. Some credit affair you may have can be solved.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep any promises you have made to others instead of procrastinating. A new acquaintance could prove to be a bore, so steer clear.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a magnetic quality and could use it for purely selfish purposes if you do not teach the Golden Rule early. The field of investigation is particularly good here, as well as whatever has to do with art, drama, anything scientific.

INFLUENZA VIRUSES

HOUSTON (UPI) — Medical experts at the University of Texas School of Public Health agree a vaccine is about 70 per cent successful in preventing influenza.
Successful vaccines have been available for influenza viruses since about 1943. To achieve the greatest protection possible, the vaccine must be manufactured from the viral type that is prevalent in the population.
Influenza generally is not an especially severe disease. A person gets over influenza the same way you get over an infection — by developing an immunity to it.

Comic strip panels with dialogue:
P.1: MAW I JOIN YOU?
P.2: THE LAST TIME I WAS ON THE WATER BECAUSE I CALLED YOU 'LAMBKAKE'
P.3: SO? SO THIS TIME I CAME PREPARED...
P.4: HI, LAMBAKE!
P.5: WHAT DO YOU USE TO MOVE THIS THING? A ROPE. WELL?... WHERE IS IT? HEY, KAWALSKI... WE GOT ONE READY TO SHOVE OFF!
P.6: NUBBIN! ARE YOU EATING IN BED? UH... YES, MA'AM. WELL, STOP IT THIS INSTANT! TALK ABOUT EARS! SHE CAN HEAR A CRACKER BREAK TWO ROOMS AWAY.
P.7: HEY, DAGWOOD... HOW ABOUT AN 'IF I' LOAN? I DON'T KNOW, HERB. WHAT'S AN 'IF I' LOAN? IF I CAN PAY IT BACK I WILL, IF I CAN'T I WON'T.
P.8: I CAN'T GET OUT OF BED, SARGE, I'M EXHAUSTED. WELL, I'M EXHAUSTED, TOO, BUT I GOT UP! YEAH, BUT IT'S EASIER FOR YOU. WHY IS IT? YOU'RE THE EXHAUSTEDER BUT I'M THE EXHAUSTEDEE.
P.9: SO FAR, ALL IT LACKS TO BE REALLY MODERN IS A MAJOR CRIME WAVE... THAT 'LACK' IS ABOUT TO BE MADE UP. ENOUGH FOR A STARTER, HOW'S IT SOUND, BOYS? MAWITAN... POP, 500,000-10 BANKS, 12 JEWELRY STORES, 24 SUPERMARKETS. A CINCH, ADMIRAL! BEGINNING: 'S.S. BLITZ.'
P.10: THANKS TO MRS. NOVAL'S INTERVENTION, EVE 'ESCAPES' FROM THE CASTLE... WILL MRS. NOVAL BE ALL RIGHT WITH... WITH LOUIS? NOTHING WOULD SURPRISE ME, MISS. EVEN VIOLENCE? EVEN THAT.

$1 Million In TV Spots By Politicos

RALEIGH (AP) — Reaching North Carolina voters has become an expensive proposition. By the time the August 17 primary election rolls around, more than a million dollars will have been invested in 30-and 60-second television advertising spots.

A major portion of that sum will have been spent by three Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, Charlotte businessman Ed O'Herron and Camden County farmer and businessman George Wood. According to their campaign directors, the expensive TV ads are purchased because they reach a segment of the voters difficult to contact through newspapers or television news. The ads introduce the candidates to the viewers and help to flesh out their personalities and platforms in spots like this:

—An impassioned Hunt talking about 14-year-olds who have failed to learn to read in the state's public schools.

—A shirt-sleeved O'Herron telling passersby on a downtown sidewalk that North Carolina should be run by a businessman.

—A sun-tanned Wood busy on his farm, noting that he is the only one of the candidates who knows what it is like to work with his hands.

Each of the Hunt, O'Herron and Wood campaigns is planning to spend the legal $363,900 media advertising limit for the primary race. A fourth Democratic candidate, Tom Strickland, has said he will spend about $5,000 mostly on a one-week blitz beginning Aug. 10.

Because of the relatively small number of GOP voters in North Carolina, Republican gubernatorial contenders will not invest as much in television advertising. David Flaherty and Coy Privette have both said they will spend about $35,000. It is uncertain how much Jake Alexander will spend.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.
Partly cloudy with chance of rain Wednesday and Thursday, and in the southeast on Friday. Highs in mid-80s and low 90s with lows in the 60s.

New Industry Is Akins' Dream

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — To Waverly Akins, being lieutenant governor would be much like leading a giant treasure hunt with the quarry being new industry and the booty being better jobs and higher wages for North Carolinians.

Most of the issues in the campaign for lieutenant governor and many of the state's problems are, in same fashion, related to jobs and wages, Akins says. North Carolina has an undeserved reputation as a progressive state, but it needn't be that way, he said.

"It's up to us to set out standards high and to live up to those standards," Akins said in a recent interview. "If we will do this we can be what we want to be in North Carolina. We have got to set our sights high and we've got to live up to this commitment."

Akins believes he can do for the state what he did for Wake County while chairman of the county commission. Under his leadership, Wake County laid out millions of dollars for schools, water and sewer lines and other needed services in an all-out industry hunting effort.

Akins says the effort paid off. Wake is the state's fifth largest tobacco producer but still is one of the most industrialized. "What we were saying is that we want to preserve agriculture as well as provide jobs," he said.

But, to have his chance to lead the safari, Akins must first defeat seven other Democrats. The primary is Aug. 17. There are two Republican contenders.

The lieutenant governor should be a full time position and be more involved in the executive branch, Akins said. The state's No. 2 elected official could play a major role in enticing industry leaders to build new plants in North Carolina and could be an effective lobbyist to protect the state's interest in Washington, he said.

His deep voice rises a pitch or two and the flow of words comes a little faster as Akins talks of North Carolina's potential and his plan to see that it is developed. He pauses occasionally, puffs his filter cigarette, then rushes forward.

"If North Carolina's going to develop into its true potential, you've got to look to the human element. It'll take strong leadership," he said, noting later, "You've got to step on toes sometimes...You can't be all things to all people."

Industrial development will require increased spending on development programs to tickle industry's interest, Akins says. Millions of dollars spent to attract industry will result in tax returns far beyond the investment, he said.

But, to entice industry, the state must also beef up its education because the better industries require skilled workers, he said, noting that county spending per child ranges from as little as $100 in some poor counties to $500 per child in counties such as Wake.

Additional highways are also needed if the state is to move upward, he said. Eastern North Carolina is virtually denied significant industrial development because there are no major east-west highways east of Raleigh, he said.

It may be necessary to float a highway bond issue to open the East, he said. But, that could be avoided if the lieutenant governor successfully fights for a larger slice of federal highway funds, he said, noting Industrial development in the East has become particularly important in recent years because increasing mechanization has put a lot of farmworkers out of jobs, he said. Mountain counties have also been somewhat deprived and should also be aided in the future, he said.

Education and job opportunities will also affect the state's crime rate, said Akins, 43, a former FBI agent.

A hulking 6-foot-4 225-pounder, Akins played forward and center in high school and college basketball. Every team he played on won a championship, he said.

Akins has been on the Wake County Commission since 1969 and was chairman from 1971 through 1974. A native of Fuquay-Varina, he now practices law and runs the family farm near Fuquay-Varina raising tobacco and cattle. He has three children.

A lieutenant governor's leadership abilities can determine the power and influence of the office, Akins said. One way he would use his influence would be to encourage more home rule.

Governmental power has been passed to Washington, he said, adding "We're going to have to get back to some self sufficiency. We're going to have to depend on ourselves and not try to depend on Washington to solve all of our problems. Home rule is a very viable concept."

Admitting that local officials sometimes prefer to pass controversial matters to Raleigh, Akins said the legislature can simply refuse to take up matters that could be handled locally. It would require only a change in philosophy, he said.

He supports the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The legislature has twice refused to ratify the amendment and the next lieutenant governor could have some influence on the measure's chances if it is considered again.

"I support it because it states that all persons will be given equal opportunity regardless of sex. It would be good for North Carolina to be one of the ratifying states. I think maybe the time has come," he said.

He also supports a restricted death penalty, saying, "I think a crime can be so terrible, so heinous that a person forfeits his right to live." But, he said, there have been too many people put on death row in recent years.

Overall, though, he said the people need better representation. "We need a strong commitment to the people. I don't think it's been there; I think there's been a commitment to the special interests... (which have) more or less been dictating policy...because the people have been apathetic. I think we're depended on our leaders to do what's right, what's good and what's just. We kind of left it to them and didn't get involved in the governmental process," he said.

Helms Speaks; Not Of Reagan

RALEIGH (AP) — U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms is chairman of the North Carolina campaign of Ronald Reagan, and usually takes advantage of every opportunity to promote Reagan's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

So, it came as a surprise to a group of North Carolina conservatives Saturday night when Helms failed to mention the California governor once.

Helms also did not mention U.S. Sen. Richard F. Schweiker, the Pennsylvania liberal who Reagan announced last week would be his choice for the vice presidential nomination if Reagan wins the presidential nomination.

Speaking to about 1,000 persons attending a dinner of the North Carolina Congressional Club, Helms described last week as the "week that I wish never had been." He did not elaborate.

After making some references to political expediency and the need to follow principles, Helms said, "I will not go along with political expediency, whether intended to be that or not."

While some of those attending the dinner wore Reagan buttons, it was clear that his selection of Schweiker had disheartened and disappointed many North Carolina conservatives.

In his speech, Helms again warned his listeners that communism still is an enemy to be reckoned with and reasserted his belief that conservatism will triumph.

Helms was praised by three other speakers on the program of the club which was organized in 1973 to help Helms pay off his 1972 campaign debts. The other speakers included U.S. Reps. Philip Crane, R-Ill., and James G. Martin, R-N.C., and Dr. Edward Annis, immediate past president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and a former president of the American Medical Association.
