Investigators Point To Medicaid Abuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicaid clinic operators have been able to commit fraud with "virtually no fear of being caught" and no fear of any significant penalty because of a lack of government investigators and inadequacies in the law, a federal prosecutor said today.

U.S. Atty. Robert B. Fiske Jr. of New York City told a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Aging: "There are many deficiencies in the present operations of the Medicaid program which make criminal investigation and prosecution difficult at best."

The subcommittee is headed by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

Fiske told the panel his office has been investigating fraudulent Medicaid claims in the New York City area for the past 3½ years but has been frustrated by inadequate legal tools.

He urged that laws be revised so that Medicare and Medicaid fraud "be changed from one year misdemeanors to five-year felonies."

"This would increase the deterrent effect of these statutes and also make Medicare and Medicaid fraud prosecutions more attractive to federal prosecutors from the standpoint of committing their resources to lengthy investigations," he said.

Fiske also urged the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to establish a criminal investigative staff to track down abuses in the programs.

Investigators for the subcommittee say that much of the money financing the Medicaid program winds up in the pockets of landlords instead of paying for medical care.

The subcommittee staff reported Monday after an eight-month study of the Medicaid program that fee-splitting agreements between physicians and landlords lead to numerous abuses. In effect, the physician ends up working for the landlord on a commission basis, the staff said.

Such agreements "present serious moral, legal and ethical questions," the subcommittee said.

Meanwhile, Val J. Halamandaris, associate counsel of the Senate committee and the head of the investigation, said Medicaid bills from clinics and physicians surveyed in the study would be examined for any sign of criminal fraud. Prosecution would be sought if there is evidence of fraud, he said.

In studying clinics in inner-city areas, the investigators found that "most of the (Medicaid) money went to businessmen who owned the building or held the lease."

Most of the physicians were allowed to keep about 20 to 40 per cent of the money they generated from Medicaid, the subcommittee staff said.

The physicians were under heavy pressure from their landlords to see more patients, order more medical tests and spend less and less time with each patient, it said.

The report expressed "grave reservations that the Congress intended 60 to 80 per cent of Medicaid monies to be spent for rent, to be relegated as profit for a businessman, rather than as a legitimate fee for the services rendered by practitioners."

The report said the practice presents serious ethical questions. It quoted from an opinion by the American Medical Association judicial council that said: "An arrangement by virtue of which a physician leases office space for a percentage of gross income is not acceptable. It is violative of ethical principles."

The subcommittee staff said the percentage lease "undeniably increases providers' propensity to commit abusive practices."

In order to document the abuses, Moss and subcommittee investigators posed as indigent Medicaid patients and visited Medicaid clinics.

They complained of having colds, although congressional doctors had previously found them to be in perfect health.

A large variety of ailments were diagnosed at the clinics, and numerous costly and unnecessary tests were made, Moss said. Enough prescriptions were given them "to fill a five-drawer filing cabinet," the report said.

Special program fees will continue in addition to the non-resident fee.

Fees may be paid during special registration periods or at the beginning of a particular event. Registration will be held from September 1 to September 10 at the Elm Street Gym office of the Parks and Recreation department.

Entrance to revenue-producing facilities will be by general admission fee unless a special organized activity is being conducted, in which case the non-resident fee will be in effect.

For example, non-residents may participate in an open swim upon payment of the fifty-cent admission fee. To participate in swimming lessons, swim team activities or special family rate programs, however, the user fee must be paid.

The Recreation Department will reserve the right to revoke a non-resident card at any time that it is in the best interest of the department and the City of Greenville.

According to Recreation Director Boyd Lee, the user fee has been adopted to equalize non-residents and residents in their participation in Parks and Recreation programs.

Good Opening Day In County Schools

By BETTY SANDERSON
Reflector Staff Writer

With the first full class day getting under way, the opening of the Pitt County schools seems to be going very smoothly with few problems.

"Things are going very well," said associate school superintendent Thomas Craft. "We are anticipating about 11,600 students in all. Today is the first full day of school, after orientation yesterday."

Craft noted that enrollment is up at several county schools.

A spot check of the schools revealed only minor problems at some schools.

"We have a lot of new students who have come into the community," said Lois Sumrell, secretary at Ayden Elementary School. "It is going very well."

An estimated 550 to 560 students were expected to be enrolled there in kindergarten classes through the fourth grade.

"Today and yesterday were very smooth," reported Glenn Strickland, principal of A. G. Cox Grammar School. "It has been an exceptionally good year thus far."

He added that, with about 650 students enrolled so far, the only problem was some overloading on buses but that was being worked out.

"It's going great," said Ursula Glisson, secretary at Pactolus Elementary School. "There have been no problems so far. Yesterday was the smoothest enrollment we've had in years."

The average enrollment there is about 370 and is not expected to be much higher this year.

Richard E. Cutler, principal of Farmville Middle School, said, "We had an excellent orientation program yesterday. We are pleased with the number that returned."

Today was scheduled for testing, he noted, with individual inventory tests being administered in grades one through eight.

Farmville Middle School now has new facilities, Culter added. The gymnasium and cafeteria are expected to be finished this week for the estimated 680 students.

"It's been fine up to this point," said Bob Carraway, principal at D. H. Conley High School. "We had a few minor problems with bus routes but we're working on getting them straightened out."

About 1,005 students are expected to attend D. H. Conley this year, he said.

Up To Brown

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has refused to say what action he'll take on a bill that would allow terminally ill patients to refuse life-sustaining medical care and "die with dignity."

The so-called "right-to-death" bill was passed by the legislature Monday. The measure was prompted, in part, by the case of Karen Ann Quinlan, the young, comatose New Jersey woman whose parents won a prolonged court fight for the right to remove her from artificial life support.

Brown has 30 days to either sign the bill or veto it. If he takes no action by the end of that time, it becomes law. California would be the first state to have such a law.

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricanes Emmy and Frances were moving farther out to sea today and neither posed a threat to land, forecasters said.

At noon EDT, Frances' 85-mile-an-hour winds were centered near latitude 23.8 north and longitude 55.0 west or about 700 miles northeast of Antigua.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said Frances was expected to strengthen today.

Recover Body At Beach

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP)—Authorities at Atlantic Beach say the body of a 22-year-old Raleigh, N.C., man washed ashore Monday.

The body of Spec. 4 Frankie Carr, stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., with the 82nd Airborne Division, was found about 8:30 a.m. near the spot where he disappeared Saturday.

Horry County Coroner Clayton Richardson has ruled the death an accidental drowning.

City Schools Go Well On Opening Day

"Everything seems to be in good order today," Greenville City Schools Supt. Glenn Cox noted at mid-morning relative to opening day of school.

"Charles Ross and Kay Whitehurst (Directors of Elementary and Secondary Education, respectively) are out in the schools this morning to see how things are going. They'll be reporting their observations to me this afternoon."

"I'm also due to get a head-count of first day students," Cox said, "so by tomorrow we'll have a pretty good idea of attendance figures."

Customarily, first day and first week attendance figures are slightly lower than after Labor Day figures, as a number of families are still away on end-of-summer vacations.

"In general, everything is going real well," Cox stated. He mentioned that renovation work will be taking place on a limited basis at Agnes Fullilove School and that roof repair would be underway at Aycock Junior High. "The work at those schools will not interfere with school operations, however," Cox added.

Since today is an orientation day for the students, schools are operating on a half-day basis. At some of the schools, special plans for the students are adding a colorful touch. At Wahl-Coates, for example, Ms. Anna Thomas' kindergarten students observed back to school with a watermelon cutting.

Teachers have been in place for a little over a week, having reported for their first duty day on Monday, August 23. "This week of preparation is most helpful," Cox said. "It gives teachers a chance to have all in readiness for opening."

NEWSPRINT COSTLIER
TORONTO (AP) — Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd. has announced it will raise its price for newsprint sold in Canada and the United States by $20 a ton effective Dec. 1. The new price will be $291 a ton in Canada and $304 in the U.S.

The judge ordered both boards to submit a plan within 90 days for desegregation of the system.

The NAACP maintained throughout the trial that only cross-town busing would achieve integration.

Battisti also said he intends to appoint "a special master" to assist the court in the next stage, that of finding a remedy.

He also barred the school board from beginning any construction pending court review of the integration plan.

Battisti said that in 1975, nearly 92 per cent of Cleveland's pupils attended schools in which enrollment was 90 per cent or more of one race. That amounted to 150 of the system's 180 schools. In 1940, the percentage attending such "one-race" schools was 51, he said.

Police said the violence broke out after black youths tried to free an arrested pickpocket in a crowded street.

Mark denied allegations by carnival organizers that the trouble was sparked by a police show of force on a festive occasion. He estimated there were 1,600 police to some 150,000 revelers and said the ratio was not unusual for crowd control.

School Board 'Guilty'

CLEVELAND (AP) — A federal judge found the Cleveland school board guilty today of fostering racial segregation in the city's schools.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti also found the Ohio Board of Education guilty of "intentionally fostering and maintaining a segregated school system within the Cleveland public schools" by failing to use its full authority to pursue integration.

The 200-page decision came in a class action suit brought by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on behalf of the system's 127,000 pupils, of which about 57 per cent are black.

Battisti agreed with the NAACP contention that the Cleveland school board, through action or inaction, had violated the constitutional guarantee of equal protection by maintaining a segregated system.

RECORDS OF VALUE?

I have a fairly large collection of music records, some classical, some popular music of yesteryear. I am wondering if they have any value. I keep reading of reissues, which makes me think they might not be worth much, but before I cast them aside, I'd like to know for sure. M. S.

East Carolina School of Music Dean Dr. Everett Pittman said he knows of no one in this area who is a collector. He said most of your records probably would have little value, but did not discount the possibility of your having a few out-of-print treasures.

Since we could find no local source of help, we provided you with the name, given us by Reflector Art Editor Jerry Raynor, of a collector in Maine. He suggested you call the man first and then, if he agrees, send him a list of the ones that you suspect might have value.

The ones that are old and in good condition that you do not wish to sell, you may offer to the ECU School of Music Library, you said.

HOTLINE is not publishing the name of the Maine collector, but will provide it upon request. Also, we're hoping to hear from our readers of closer collectors who might be helpful.

COMPENSATION?

Can a pregnant woman draw unemployment compensation? If so, under what circumstances may this be done? J. H.

Anyone can file for unemployment, but a pregnant woman who is asked to leave her job because of her condition or for other reasons is very likely to be able to collect if she feels she is able to work and is available to accept another job. Of course, if she leaves of her own volition, she probably would not be eligible for benefits, N. C. Employment Security Greenville Office Manager Jim Hannan said.

Mrs. Tyler Would Bar Politics In Education

By BARBARA MATHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer

Education must be removed from party politics, according to Evelyn Sills Tyler, Republican candidate for superintendent of public instruction.

Mrs. Tyler received a B.S. degree in education from ECU. She lived in Greenville for nine years.

She said yesterday in a telephone interview that education "should be a partnership of the people."

"Educational empires and machines must be destroyed," said Mrs. Tyler.

"Minimum standards at each level must be set and met. Only then will we see some educational excellence."

"We must develop programs that will speak to the problems of drop-outs, fade-outs, youngsters who are turned off by school, and push-outs, those who the educators are waiting to become drop-outs."

Mrs. Tyler said she is now drawing up her platform, and is setting down priorities for her campaign.

"We must let the people know we have a commitment to the exceptional child," she said.

"It is absolutely essential that teachers become a viable part of the decision-making process."

"There are many ways we can re-direct public school money so that it is used in the instructional process. We must have cooperation between public elementary and secondary schools and the community college system."

Other priorities include an examination of the vocational education programs in terms of their relevancy to student needs, and improvement in the teaching of basic educational skills.

"I am one of those people who believes we can teach our youngsters to read, write clearly and compute," said Mrs. Tyler.

"I'm really in this to win, and I hope the people will listen as I speak."

Mrs. Tyler said she was involved in the Ben Currin campaign and hopes to draw Currin's supporters. Currin recently was defeated in an attempt to challenge incumbent superintendent Craig Phillips for the Democratic nomination.

"It looks like I'll have much support, according to the phone calls that have been coming in," she said.

"Many people from both parties will be supporting me strongly."

Dutch To Curtail Royal Family

By NEL SLIS
Associated Press Writer

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government plans laws to bring the leading members of the royal family under government control as a result of Prince Bernhard's involvement in the Lockheed scandal.

Premier Joop den Uyl told

Parliament Monday that his cabinet would submit a bill giving the government responsibility for and the right of supervision over public activities of the royal family. He said the legislation would establish which royal figures will "particularly have to take into account the interests of the state."

The constitution spells out the responsibility of the government for only one member of the royal family, the reigning monarch. For this reason and also because of Bernhard's popularity and his success as a promoter of Dutch business, Queen Juliana's 65-year-old husband served in several government posts and on a number of corporate boards with little or no supervision from the government.

Bernhard's career as a wheeler-dealer undoubtedly is over. But the government apparently wants to make certain that after Crown Princess Beatrix succeeds her mother on the throne, her husband doesn't emulate his father-in-law.

Dutch air force, and although this deal fell through, his relationship with Lockheed had been "extremely imprudent and unwise."

Rural Store Is Entered

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating a break-in that was reported Monday morning at Davenport's Grocery near Pactolus.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the store owner, Walter Davenport, reported at 7:10 a.m. Monday that his store had been entered sometime Sunday night or early Monday.

Davenport reported the theft of two hearing aids valued at a total of $700, one pair of glasses valued at $77, six pocket knives worth $14, $15 from the cash register, and $7.50 in change from a drink machine.

The sheriff said that the store was apparently entered after ply board was removed from a front window. Damage to the building was estimated at $10.

The store is located on Rt. 5, Greenville, approximately two miles west of Pactolus.

Jail Scene Of Wedding

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Richard Paul, serving a 90-day jail sentence, married his sweetheart in the jail chapel Saturday, giving him "something to look forward to when I get out."

Paul, who is in jail for driving without an operator's license, married Connie Hendrix. A state Department of Corrections chaplain, the Rev. Claude Carter, officiated.

His bride got to go home after the ceremony but Paul stayed behind.

"It will get me started on a whole new way of life. It will keep me out of the streets, from the life which I had been leading into," Paul said.

The Pauls, both 16, met while in the sixth grade in Fayetteville and had been debating marriage for about a year, Paul said.

He began his jail sentence July 30 after the driving conviction. His defense was that he had been in Fayetteville only a couple of weeks and had a Florida driver's license, but not in his possession, when an officer stopped him.

Paul said he has been in jail before on a charge of automobile larceny, but was he said he was acquitted.

Paul said he and his bride could not wait until Sept. 13, his expected release date.

"She was very much for it," he said. "She wanted anything that I wanted, so we both agreed on it."

Paul said spending his honeymoon in jail had not been very pleasant but "I plan to make up for it."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

By ERMA BOMBECK

I was watching a situation comedy series the other night of a typical American family. This family laughed until they got sick.

Every time Daddy opened his mouth, he was a scream. The mother was a stich. And the kids were absolute geniuses at spewing out hilarious retorts. I looked around at our group. My husband was deeply depressed over the paper. (He's looked like that since he let his GI insurance lapse.) One child was on the phone insisting, "I don't believe it" every minute and a half.

Another was locked in his room with the stereo on and the other was staring morosely into the refrigerator waiting for something to embrace him.

"You know the trouble with this family? We're not funny. All the other families in the world are sitting around throwing away one-liners and having a barrel of laughs. 'Hawaii Five-O' gets more laughs than we do."

The next night as I heard my husband's car in the garage I shouted, "Hey gang, heeereeeeee Daddy!"

"Well," said our son, "if it isn't our father whose wallet is full of big bills... all unpaid."

"What's the matter with you?" asked my husband. "You're on your feet. Has your car been repossessed?"

"Dyynnoooooomite!" said our youngest. (I almost fell off the chair.)

Big Outlays In Campaign Ford Motor Co. To Unveil Offer

RALEIGH (AP) — Political campaign spending in North Carolina continues to soar.

Reports filed with the state Board of Elections show that candidates for governor and other statewide offices spent more than $5.2 million in the primary campaign.

Democratic gubernatorial candidates Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, George Wood and Ed O'Herron spent the largest amounts. Hunt, who won the Democratic nomination for governor, reported expenditures of $1,018,610. Wood, a Camden county farmer, was the top spender with $1,068,000. O'Herron said he spent $926,274.

Aggressive campaigns for lieutenant governor and several Council of State posts also contributed significantly to the total.

Wake County Commissioner Waverly Akins, who finished fourth in the Democratic contest for lieutenant governor, spent $307,000.

Deputy State Treasurer Harlan Boyles spent about $205,000 to win the Democratic nomination for state treasurer.

Incumbent state Auditor Henry Bridges spent just under $18,000 in his campaign effort. Lillian Woo, who called for a runoff against Bridges, spent $70,129.

DETROIT (AP) — With Ford Motor Co. unveiling its salary proposal to the United Auto Workers today, the union says its members are giving negotiators overwhelming authorization to call a strike if necessary.

The Ford proposal for a new labor contract comes just two weeks before its current three-year contract expires.

The UAW said Monday that strike authorization votes were running about 94 per cent in favor of granting union leaders authority to call a walkout if no settlement is reached by Sept. 14.

A union spokesman said results from 13 of 99 UAW-Ford locals granted strike authorization by margins ranging from 88 to 98 per cent. The spokesman said the vote, to be completed by Sept. 7, is running about the same as in past contract years.

The UAW has chosen Ford, the nation's No. 2 auto maker, as this year's target for setting the industry pattern on three-year contracts.

Current agreements covering nearly 700,000 auto workers — including 167,000 at Ford — expire Sept. 14.

Under the union's target strategy, if a settlement is not reached by the contract deadline, the UAW would strike

Ford while allowing the other companies to continue operations.

The last time Ford was the target — in 1967 — the union called a strike that lasted 66 days before a settlement was reached.

The UAW, which has made improved job and income security its top contract goal this year, has demanded reduced work time, creation of new job opportunities, preservation of present jobs and bolstered unemployment benefits for laid-off workers.

In addition, the union is seeking improved wages, pensions and other fringe benefits.

Director Faces 6 Drug Counts

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Morris Alexander Kea, a program director with the state Department of Correction, was arrested today on a six-count indictment charging him with the sale and possession of heroin, the Department of Justice reported.

Kea, a Charlotte resident, was indicted by a federal grand jury in Asheville Friday.

Also charged in the same indictment was Teresa Elaine Jackson of Charlotte.

Miss Fleming Married Sunday

Miss Linda Ann Fleming became the bride of Benjamin Taylor Barnhill Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The Rev. James Bailey officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Hassel Fleming of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kinchen Barnhill of Robertsonville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Dr. David Foster, organist, and Mrs. Fred Lomax, soloist.

The bride wore a floor length gown of ivory sata peau and Nottingham lace. The fitted bodice featured a split V-neck with an illusion yoke, full length Camelot sleeves and a high-rise waist. Nottingham lace outlined the neck, patterned the bodice and trimmed the sleeves.

The full length skirt extended into a chapel train. Double rows of Nottingham lace encircled the hemline of the gown. Panels of Nottingham lace trimmed the train from the waist to the hemline. She wore a fingertip veil of ivory illusion bordered with Nottingham lace attached to a bridal cap. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis interspersed with baby's breath and tied with flowing ribbons.

Miss Anna Carson of Greenville was maid of honor and Mrs. James Barriett of Hertford, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Leggett of Stokes, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Fred Lomax of Goldsboro, cousin of the bride, and Miss Ann Whitehurst of Jacksonville, cousin of the bride.

Each wore an ice blue gown with an empire waist, bell sleeves and a portrait neckline. The bodice was trimmed in ivory lace. They carried white mum nosegays with baby's breath and blue and white lace ribbons.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Billy Fleming, Miss Michelle Fleming, Miss Margaret Ann Barnhill, Mrs. John Jablonski, Mrs. George Dudley, Miss Mary Susan Williams and Mrs. Marie Willis. They wore long gowns in various summer shades and carried single-stemmed pom poms with greenery and ribbons.

Donna Lynn Leggett of Stokes, niece of the bridegroom, and Fleming Christian Lomax of Goldsboro, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. They wore dresses of ice blue polyester satin with ivory lace trim, similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Michelle Willis of Morehead City was ring bearer. She carried a ring pillow of white lace with ribbons and wore a dress identical to the flower girls'.

Richard K. Barnhill, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were James Barnhill of New Bern and Robert Barnhill of Wilmington, brothers of the bridegroom, Robert Wilson of Winterville, Chip Duncan of Lumberton and Billy Fleming of Stokes, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of peacock blue polyester with a styled shirt-waist bodice and a pleated skirt. The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of apricot knit with a matching floral jacket. Each of the mothers wore a white gardenia.

A reception hosted by the parents of the bride followed in the church parlor.

A wedding breakfast was held Sunday morning at the Ramada Inn. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Roland L. Fleming, and guests were aunts and uncles of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner given by the parents of the bridegroom was held in the church fellowship hall. Guests were the family of the bridegroom.

The bride and bridegroom are both students at East Carolina University. They will reside in Greenville.

Wife's Starch-Eating Worries Man Stiff

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. J. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since my wife got pregnant, she's been craving Argo laundry starch. She's been eating an awful lot of it and says it calms her nerves.

I'm afraid that all that laundry starch might hurt my wife or her unborn baby, but my she insists it's harmless! How would you feel, Abby, if someone you loved ate laundry starch by the box?

HARVEY IN WAYCROSS, GA.

DEAR HARVEY: I'd be worried stiff. Insist that she tell her doctor about this craving.

DEAR ABBY: After I had my seventh baby I asked by doctor to tie my tubes so I wouldn't have any more children.

Well, that was three years ago and yesterday my husband announced that he'd made an appointment with a urologist to have a vasectomy! It sure sounds to me like he has another woman in his life!

Maybe I'm just dumb, but I can't understand why HE has to have a vasectomy when there's no danger of getting ME pregnant.

Do you think he's off his rocker, or he just plain doesn't like kids?

Please don't use my name. Four of my kids can read. "OVER BEARING"

DEAR OVER: No matter what your husband's faults may be, "gambling" isn't one of them.

DEAR ABBY: VIRGINIA BEACH READER asked how one should introduce someone with whom he (or she) is shacking up, and you suggested "friend."

I object! I have many close friends, female and male, with whom I have never slept, and I would like to keep thinking of them as friends, thank you. I see no reason why I should change my vocabulary to cover my friendships just because social mores are changing.

I agree that "mistress," with its connotations of being "kept," has become outdated since today many mistresses keep themselves. And I certainly agree we need a conversational word to cover situations when a man and woman live and travel together but are not married.

I submit that it would be better to change the connotation of "mistress," and use "mister" (an otherwise useless word) as the male counterpart, than warp the meaning of "friend."

If we need another word, how about "bedmate" or "roomie"?

Abby, read the adage, "Make new friends but keep the old, etc." with your revised meaning of "friends." And then offer VIRGINIA BEACH READER a better word.

Wedding Held At American Legion Hut

Miss Euna Elaine Flippin became the bride of Frederick Earl Umphlett Sunday afternoon at the American Legion Hut. Dr. Charles F. McAndrew officiated at the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll D. Flippin of Stuart, Va. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lou Dell Umphlett of Greenville, and the late Ether Raymond Umphlett Sr.

A program of wedding music was presented by Billy Stinson and Sandra Stinson, guitarists.

The bride wore a floor length gown of ivory po satin and alencon lace with a detachable chapel train of applied lace on ivory po satin, made by her mother. The bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in scallops over the wrists.

Her veil of illusion was attached to a headpiece of alencon lace and seeded pearls. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. The bride carried a bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath tied with satin ribbon on an ivory satin covered Bible edged in lace.

Mrs. Betty Lou Clone of Clemmons was matron of honor. She wore a formal length mint green crepe dress with a dotted sheer overlay flocked with pink roses and a matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Miss Wendy Danell Clone of Clemmons, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a formal length yellow crepe dress with a dotted sheer overlay flocked with pink roses. She carried a basket of pink roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Ether Raymond Umphlett Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Thomas Earl Umphlett, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Both are from Greenville.

The bride's mother wore a light blue crepe street length dress with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a navy blue street length dress with matching accessories. Both mothers were presented with pink rose corsages.

A reception followed the ceremony. The serving table was covered in white and was centered with an arrangement of candles, white doves and the bridal bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Dolores Chandler served the wedding cake and Mrs.

MRS. FREDERICK EARL UMPHLETT

Grace Corso presided at the punch bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Chandler hosted a cake-cutting following the rehearsal Saturday night. During the evening the bridal couple presented their attendants with gifts.

The bride is a graduate of Appalachian State University and is an instructor at Pitt Technical Institute.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Pitt Technical Institute and is a certified public accountant. After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Turnout's Size Is Questionable

A second primary is now assured for four state races.

Jimmy Green called for a run-off with Howard Lee in the Democratic lieutenant governor's race. The two men were the survivors in a nine man field which made up the race in the August first primary. Lee, former mayor of Chapel Hill ran high in that race with Green coming in second.

For Democratic state auditor consumer advocate Lillian Woo ran second to incumbent Henry Bridgers in the first primary and she has announced that she is seeking a run-off.

For commissioner of Labor in the Democratic primary Jessie Rae Scott, wife of the former governor Bob Scott, ran high without obtaining a majority. John Brooks was second in that race and he called for a second primary.

On the Republican side, David Flaherty missed obtaining a majority by a few hundred votes statewide. Last week the second runner Coy Privette announced that he was calling for a run-off.

Thus run-off primary elections are assured in all state races where run-offs were possible.

The question now is how large a turnout of voters there will be for the second primary. There will be no run-off for the Democratic governor's nomination since Jim Hunt received a majority of the votes in the five man race. And it is generally the Democratic gubernatorial race which brings out the voters in this heavily Democratic state.

There are already indications that the campaigning in the four remaining races will be heated, however, and that may serve to spur voter interest in the second primary.

Hunt's Selection Should Be Popular

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, now the Democratic nominee has effectively taken control of the state party by naming his own state chairman.

Hunt accepted the resignation of James Sugg as party chairman and appointed Mrs. Betty McCain of Wilson. Mrs. McCain will become the first female state chairman of the Democratic Party.

We can expect the appointment of Mrs. McCain to be a popular one within the party.

THIS AFTERNOON

The County Commissioner

By BILL NOBLITT
(First of Two Articles)
PINEHURST — A county commissioner in one of North Carolina's 100 counties is most likely a middle-aged, conservative member of the establishment who has been there a long time, and isn't going anywhere.

picture of what a North Carolina County Commissioner is like," she told the opening session of the convention.

That composite is based on lengthy interviews with 56 commissioners in 12 counties supposed to be broadly representative of the state geographically, politically, and socially. In addition, county managers, social services directors, mental health leaders, and public health officers were also questioned.

None were under 30 years old; half are over 50; all but one is married and all but two have children, although most of those are grown children. One fourth are college graduates, while a fourth have only a high school diploma or less. Over 70 per cent are Democrats; 63 per cent were born in the county where they are commissioners and 75 per cent were raised in the county if not born there.

On the social scale, the commissioners rated themselves either conservative (44 per cent) or moderate (44 per cent) with only seven per cent seeing themselves as liberal.

The typical commissioner, then, says Ms. Gooch, is a protestant member of the establishment, a pillar of the community type, not quick to jump on new ideas or programs; tight with money; a solid county resident; older and stable; a joiner in various civic and social clubs and endeavors; who has lived in the county a number of years, and plans to remain there.

Stability
Over half say they will run for re-election to the Board of County Commissioners, and a mere handful indicate interest in seeking a higher elective office. The post is not, she concludes, a stepping stone.

But from the survey, she isolated the conflict between stability and the ability of a community to prepare for change.

"I did not get a future vision of idealism... of what would be good for the county. Rather, the concern seems to be with schools, roads, sewerage."

"Asked where they see their county going, few have a real plan... ideas for future improvements... steps which need to be taken.

"Usually, a single response was given, such as they were not thinking much about planning or the future; or that responsibility of commissioners is to what is happening right now rather than thinking about where we are going," Ms Gooch reported.

Who do commissioners respond to? the survey found they turn to neighbors, local newspapers, their county managers, and other influential people for information and advice; seldom counting on fellow commissioners or other county department heads; and certainly not members of the community who attend the board meetings.

County boards were found to be harmonious in their work with few disagreements, and those usually settled quietly; board meetings were generally said to be very peaceful and cordial.

To which several commissioners responded that the survey either missed their counties, or didn't get some honest responses.

Postcard Registration

Bear with me, if you will, while I flog a dead horse. The postcard registration bill, which passed the House on August 9, has stumbled on its way through the Senate. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says he won't even try to get it passed. On to the glue factory.

The bill might be interred without benefit of comment, but for one thing: It provides a useful and timely example of what the presidential campaign, domestically speaking, is all about. It is all about the Big Federal Brother.

Virtually no one, perhaps, would object to the ostensible purpose of the postcard bill. The idea was to make it easier for Americans to register and hence to vote. Such an idea, as an abstract proposition, ranks with safe driving, Law Day and the United Fund. It is the kind of idea that editorial writers write about when their well runs dry.

The actual purpose was not quite so lofty. The actual purpose was to register droves of prospective Democrats, alive or dead. It was not a prospect that had great Republican appeal. Let us put the invidious motivation to one side.

Of greater concern are the attitudes, pro and con, with which the bill was approached. The thinking of the liberal proponents went this way:

The level of voter participation in America is deplorable. This November will see 150 million persons eligible to vote; it is probable that only 57 percent of them — about 85 million — actually will get to the polls. This situation results from the failure of the states and localities to make registration quick and easy.

Because the states have failed, the liberals reasoned, the federal government must step in. We will create within the Federal Election Commission a new bureaucracy to be known as the Voter Registration Administration. We will direct it to send postcard registration forms to every household in the land. We will reimburse the states for handling these forms; we will specially reward states that adopt this plan for their own non-federal elections. And if this civic-minded venture costs $50 million or $500 million, the taxpayers' money will be well spent.

The conservatives in opposition thought this way:

The machinery of voting historically has belonged to the states. Congress has power to act against discrimination by reason of race or sex or poll tax or the age of 18; Congress has a reserved power, rarely exercised, to make regulations governing the time, places and manner of choosing senators and representatives. Otherwise, the writing of franchise law is a state responsibility. The states should keep it.

Further, in a free society it is debatable whether any particular level of voting participation is "deplorable." There is no demonstrable correlation between high percentages and good government. The charge that the states have "failed" is a phony charge. Here and there, especially in thinly populated rural areas, registration opportunities may be limited, but the record on the whole is good.

Still further, 17 states already are experimenting with postcard plans. The Often the public is led to believe that the maze of federal-assistance programs they see in operation within their own communities are one big boondoggle. Because of loose rules and apparent inadequate supervision in some instances, it frequently appears to the taxpayer working man and woman that for those inside these federal programs it's just one big party, one big bed of roses.

Sometimes it is, or so it appears. The scandal of Soul City Warren County is an example of where flagrant violations have been exposed and pressure on the part of the state administration and a congressional contingent have only slowed down the flow of "free" federal money.

Sometimes, a failure to keep proper books, a failure to correctly supervise a federal program gets a party or a community in trouble.

The City of Charlotte and the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system have lately gotten a new education because of improperly conducting a federal assistance program. During the past two summers that school system hired over 3500 young people for odd jobs and paid out a considerable amount of federal pipeline money, primarily in wages.

Two years later the U.S. Labor Department comes along and audits books of the operation and finds 2,264 of those kids were ineligible for the jobs, supposedly only for the economically disadvantaged. But the schools there handed out jobs to all comers, including children of high income professionals and even the school superintendent.

Now Uncle Sam wants $950,000 repaid and has cited the City of Charlotte as the agent that must do the repaying.

Charlotte and Mecklenburg County people are still scratching their heads over what went wrong. They, like the speeders who get caught, will have to admit their wrongdoing and pay the piper, unless their political punch carries an unusual wallop.

Insurance industry officials say the consequences are potentially enormous and include these possibilities:

—That some insurers might be forced out of business or, at least, compelled to limit greatly the amount of coverage offered.

Savings Trend Is Good

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Savers are pouring their money into savings and loan associations at a near record rate, a trend that should make more money available for home mortgages, the government reports.

Deposits outpaced withdrawals by $3.3 billion in July at the federally-insured associations, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced Monday. The figure was a record for the month and doubled the net new savings in June of $1.4 billion.

Mortgage lending slipped from $8.1 billion in June to $7.6 billion in July, but the board termed the July mortgage figure substantial and noted there is usually a larger drop in the summer months.

Outstanding commitments for future mortgage lending also fell slightly to $18.1 billion, but again the board said this decline was less than usually experienced at that time of year.

The Commerce Department said two weeks ago that the housing industry was in a slump, with new housing-unit starts down 9.2 per cent in July.

The average annual interest rate on home mortgages was just under 9 per cent in June. The surge in deposits at thrift institutions should keep rates down and make it easier for home buyers to get loans.

The bank board's acting chairman, Garth Marston, said that declining interest rates on government and corporate securities were responsible for July's increase of savings.

40 Years Ago Today

August 31, 1936

Everything was in readiness here today for the opening of the Greenville tobacco market at 9 a.m. tomorrow morning when five sets of buyers will begin selling the 1936 crop at auction.

The leaf is coming into the city freely today and indications point to good sales on the opening day. A spirit of optimism prevailed throughout Greenville as the opening was anxiously awaited.

It is generally believed farmers will receive a fair price for their crop this season. Last year's opening day saw 1,285,144 pounds sold for a total of $217,168.29 or an average of $17.17 per hundredweight. During the entire year something over 60,000,000 pounds was sold at an official average of $21.02.

Warehousemen and buyers have declared they are expecting one of the best seasons this year in the history of the market.

Kinston romped off with a 3-1 victory over Ayden's Aces yesterday in the first game of the Coastal Plain League post season finals, blasting one pitcher from the box and thrilling a crowd of over 2,500 with a good all-around ball game.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Marked For Replacement

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Anger and apprehension swept through the Ford White House when presidential aides learned that Jimmy Carter's transition team was consulting a certain expert: Frederick V. Malek, one of Richard M. Nixon's most feared hatchet men.

The apprehension stems from well-founded White House suspicions that Malek, now senior vice president at the Marriott Corp., gave Carter transition chief Jack Watson the old Nixon blueprint for taking over the government by replacing political appointments in 60 key slots.

"In effect," contends one Republican, "Fred identified his own people, many of whom are still in their old jobs. Now, of course, these people are marked for quick execution and replacement."

Malek and Watson both told us they met in Washington on transition problems — including political jobs to be filled — about two months ago, a meeting initiated by Watson. Both say they have no plans for future meetings.

Both deny reports that they met again in Atlanta Aug. 9 (though Malek says he was in Atlanta that day on Marriott business).

Whether or not the Malek-Watson meeting was a one-shot affair, it deeply worries Republicans because Malek maintains ties with key figures in the Ford White House That includes senior White House aide Jerry Jones, Malek's former deputy.

The fact that Watson solicited transition help from Malek can be ascribed either to naivete or to cynicism. Malek, 1972 deputy chairman of CREEP (the Committee to Reelect the President), was one of the most feared operatives in the Nixon administration.

A footnote: Malek, out of politics for the 1976 campaign, told us he is helping neither Carter nor President Ford.

Behind Connally's Anger
The real reason for John Connally's unconcealed anger during the Republican convention in Kansas City last week can be traced to Richard Cheney, President Ford's top White House aide, who completely forgot to give Connally an urgent message.

When Connally showed up at the White House on July 27 to endorse Mr. Ford, the President asked him to be one of three party superstars to make a nominating speech for Mr. Ford (the other two: Vice President Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater).

Connally accepted with alacrity. One week later, on advice of top campaign aides, Mr. Ford decided that using his three big guns at the same time was a wasteful allocation of talent. He ordered Connally, Rockefeller and Goldwater scrubbed as nominators and scheduled Connally for a speech Tuesday evening, Aug. 17. Cheney, however, neglected to inform Connally.

Thus, when Mary Louise Smith, Republican national chairman, telephoned Connally Aug. 10 and asked if he would like to address the convention Aug. 17, he said no thanks, he would rather nominate the President Aug. 18. Mrs. Smith, who had never been told about the original plan, was thunderstruck. Word quickly leaked out from the Republican high command that Connally was playing hard to get and embarrassing the President, leading to anti-Connally news stories.

Not until Peter O'Donnell, former Texas Republican chairman who went to Kansas City with Connally, complained to the President Ford Committee (PFC) was it discovered that Cheney had never informed Connally of the schedule change.

For Connally, that was par for the course. Ever since Mr. Ford's primary campaign began, Connally has blamed White House staffers for one of the most badly organized campaigns in modern

Strength For Today

IN REMEMBRANCE
We all like to be remembered. We cherish every custom by which we assure our friends and they assure us of solicitude and thoughtfulness.

As our Lord prepared to leave this earth, he felt that people might forget him. Even though they might remember his words, they might forget the warm glow of his loving heart. Most of all did he fear that they might forget the significance of his suffering for human sin.

So he left them a reminder in the form of a beautiful rite. We call it the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. It is in many respects the transformation of the Jewish Passover. Jesus took the simple elements of bread and wine, representing his body and his blood. Eat them, he said, in quiet conclave together. As you pledge these elements think of me. Think of my love, my power, my continuous concern for your welfare.

The more we suffer and the more the world suffers, the better do we understand the Son of Man who suffered for us all.

Point Finger At Middlemen

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Middlemen who process and sell meat have not been passing to consumers all of the potential savings caused by a decline in the farm price of livestock, the Agriculture Department says.

Don Paarlberg, the department's director of economics, said Monday the price of cattle fell 26 per cent in the last year, but the beef prices paid by consumers dropped only 14 per cent during that period.

But Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains, challenged Paarlberg's claims. He said higher middleman costs, including labor, have prevented processors from passing further retail price reductions on to the consumer.

Prices Rise At Farmville

FARMVILLE — Prices Monday were very strong and demand by companies showed a sharp increase on the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade, according to sales supervisor Louis Williams.

"The top practical price jumped to $1.22 per pound," Williams reported. "A few sheets of choice leaf and color grades brought $1.26 to $1.30 per pound. The volume of primings, lugs and nondescript grades continued to decrease. Leaf and color grades accounted for most of sales."

"Stabilization receipts accounted for 89 percent of gross sales," Williams added.

Yesterday the Farmville tobacco market sold 654,216 pounds for $792,923, an average of $121.20 per 100 pounds.

To date 12,851,232 pounds have been sold for $13,866,832, a season average of $107.90 per 100 pounds compared to $92.57 last year.

City Police Investigate Five Collisions Monday

An estimated $4,575 property damage resulted from a series of five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:11 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Third Street involving cars driven by Michael Landret Donnell of 507 East Second St. and Rudolph Cozart Coleman of 506 Contentnea St.

No charges were reported following investigation by officers who estimated damage at $1,500 to the Donnell car and $900 to the Coleman auto.

Again no charges were made following investigation of a 5:13 p.m. mishap on Fifth Street near the Cemetery Road intersection.

Investigators identified the drivers of the vehicles involved as Margaret McDaniels Spain of Route 3, Greenville and Harvey Ray Green of Route 1, Greenville.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Spain auto and $600 to the Green car.

Janice Leven Brown of Route 3, Williamston was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of a 12:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Evans Street.

Police reported the Brown car collided with an auto driven by Jane Wright Blount of 400

Martinsborough Rd., causing an estimated $400 damage to the Blount car and $150 damage to the Brown auto.

Robert John Toole of 208 South Pitt St. was charged by investigators with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 2:55 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street, 72 feet East of the Cotanche Street intersection.

According to investigators, the Toole car collided with a vehicle driven by Larry Carl Whitlow of 1008 West Wright Rd. resulting in an estimated $225 damage to the Whitlow car and $200 damage to the Toole vehicle.

No charges were made in connection with a 12:15 p.m. mishap on Jarvis Street, 70 feet North of the Third Street intersection which involved vehicles driven by Connie Benton Stenquist of Oakwood Acres and Judy Wooten McMillen of Route 1, Winterville.

Police estimated damage to the Stenquist car at $300. No damage resulted to the McMillen vehicle, officers noted.

The Greenville Planning & Zoning Commission voted Monday night to recommend that two proposed streets in the preliminary plat of Section IV of Johnston Heights off Stancil Drive be withdrawn from dedication.

Commissioners, meeting at 9 p.m. following a workshop session, took the action following discussion on a request by Ford McGowan Jr. and William Rogers to withdraw Stancil Circle and part of River Drive from dedication.

The developers indicated that the small tract involved in the dedication would be used for parking to accommodate proposed housing in the Johnston Heights development.

Stancil Circle, which was shown on the plats but never developed, involved a cul de sac off Stancil Drive while the section of River Drive to be withdrawn was proposed to run from Stancil Drive east to the property of Tar River Estates.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday, who noted that the developers would have to bring in a final plat on the project for consideration, suggested that a change be made in the proposed elevation of one of the buildings to comply with flood level regulations.

McGowan said that the changes will be made and would be necessary in order to secure financing.

The commission's recommendation goes to the City Council where a public hearing will be scheduled.

In the only other matter considered last night, commissioners reviewed the site plan for 117 units of public housing proposed for development by the Housing Authority on South Evans Street between 16th Street and Arthur Street extended.

The board, after discussing the site plan, offered three suggestions for the Housing Authority to consider. They suggested that the Authority reconsider proposed back-in parking on 16th Street (Howell Street extended), cover the open ditch that runs across the property, and provide room for the Utilities Commission to install another sewer line.

The Commission tabled action on the final plat of North River Estates, Section II, when no one was present to represent the developers.

Consideration of the preliminary plat of North Park Industrial Center, located south of State Road 1579, was tabled when no representative was present.

The item involving the preliminary plat of Tucker Industrial Park located in front of Pitt Technical Institute on N.C. 11 was withdrawn.

CB Buddies Chase The Wrong Pickup

GLENN'S FERRY, Idaho (AP) — Dirty Don and his CB buddies chased a pickup truck down the interstate because the pickup sideswiped Don and the guy wasn't going to get away with that.

The only trouble was that the CBers followed the wrong truck.

A wild scramble over 70 miles of Interstate 80 in Southwest Idaho ended Monday night when Tom Whitehead, identified only as being from Washington, convinced officers he didn't hit Dirty Don's truck near Glenn's Ferry.

experiments have indicated a poor ratio of benefit to cost. In the District of Columbia, postcard registration flopped. In the nation as a whole, 70 percent of the eligibles already are registered. At heavy cost, the scheme might attract a few million more — but the probabilities of fraud are self-evident. Let us rely on voluntary get-out-the-vote campaigns, and avoid the burden of new bureaucracy.

On those conflicting views, the two sides went at it. Conservatives succeeded in knocking out the mailing of individual postcards, but they lost on every other amendment they offered. The vote on passage was 239-147 for the bill. Of the 122 Republicans who voted, only 11 voted "aye." Of 264 Democrats recorded, only 36 voted "nay." Would-be President Carter strongly favored the bill. President Ford opposed it; he would have vetoed the bill if it had passed.

Now time is running out on Capitol Hill. The bill is dead in this Congress, but the bill will be "born again" next year. Its fate will depend on what happens on Election Day.

"They had him boxed in and they were trying to run him off the road to stop him. The farther he went, the bigger criminal he was."

Lewis said the vehicles responded to Don's citizens band radio appeals for help.

Lewis and Elmore County Deputy Murl Hillman finally halted Whitehead near Mountain Home after he fled the pack for 55 miles west on I-80, made a U-turn and returned 15 miles east.

After convincing Whitehead not to press charges against the eager CBers, the officers sent him on his way.

"Don apologized to Whitehead," Lewis said. "He had just been picking on the wrong man."

politics. Although pleased by the selection of Texan James A. Baker III as new PFC boss, Connally's confidence in the Ford White House remains near rock bottom.

Lonely Schweiker
There was only one explanation for not inviting Sen. Richard Schweiker to the podium in the carefully contrived show of good fellowship between President Ford and the Reaganites the last night of the Republican convention.

The President had a completely open mind, despite Schweiker's humiliating putdowns of Jerry Ford as just not up to the job of chief of state.

But Ford operatives, after a careful canvass, decided that if Ronald Reagan's chosen running mate ever showed his face on the podium the convention would (as one told us) "rock with boos from Ford Men who see Dick as a traitor and Reaganites who see him as an enemy."

Schweiker himself was sitting with Reagan when the President dramatically waved his arm and invited Reagan to the podium. Schweiker waited, expectantly and hopefully, for a similar summons but it never came. In that fraternal setting so carefully stage-managed by Mr. Ford's operatives, Schweiker was the odd man out.

You asked for seconds,
Greenville.
So tomorrow McDonald's comes through.

Your second Greenville McDonald's opens tomorrow at 10th and Cotanche. Maybe you'll actually call it McDonald's the Second.

First thing you'll notice, though, is that your new McDonald's is second to none. We've added some special touches that give this McDonald's a unique ECU flavor. Things like our purple and gold interior with circular booths and our ECU Hall of Fame created especially for McDonald's by noted artist Gene Payne.

You'll also find all the good things you've been used to, like pipin' hot food and fast, friendly service.

So now you have McDonald's the First and Second in Greenville. Two places to think of first next time you get good and hungry.

Kissinger To Press Vorster

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today scored South Africa's policy of racial segregation as "incompatible with any concept of human dignity."
Kissinger said that when he meets in Switzerland this week with South African Prime Minister John Vorster, he will press Vorster to move toward equality.
At the same time, Kissinger credited South Africa with "positive steps" regarding Rhodesia and Namibia and said that unlike those two areas, South Africa cannot be regarded as an illegitimate government or "an outside colonial intrusion."
In a prepared speech before a mostly black audience, Kissinger pledged a continued U.S. commitment to "a new birth of independence and racial peace" in Southern Africa. He said that with thousands of Cuban troops north of the Namibian border and with intensifying guerrilla warfare in Rhodesia "a volatile situation is emerging."
Based on the outcome of his meeting with Vorster, Kissinger may go on to Africa to promote majority rule in Namibia and Rhodesia and an end to apartheid in South Africa.
His speech to the Opportunities Industrialization Centers in Convention Hall here is part of a campaign for American black support for the Ford administration's African policy.
Sources in Washington said Kissinger will try to persuade Vorster that "time is running out" for avoiding the escalation of guerrilla warfare in Namibia, which South Africa controls, and in Rhodesia.

Will Provide $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears ready to give the Postal Service an extra $1 billion in subsidies without reimposing tight budgetary control over the deficit-ridden mail service.
Senate-House conferees agreed Monday on a bill that provides an extra $500 million for the Postal Service for each of the next two years. Agreement came after the House conferees yielded to the Senate and dropped a requirement that the Postal Service be brought back under the regular congressional appropriation process.
A 1970 Postal Reorganization Act abolished the old Post Office Department and established the Postal Service as a semi-independent agency to be operated much like a private corporation.
The reorganization was billed as a way to make mail service profitable, but the Postal Service has been plagued with losses. The compromise bill is intended to provide stop-gap financing pending recommendations of a study commission.
The compromise provides that the commission would be composed of seven voting members. It would have until next March 15, instead of Feb. 15, to submit its report.
The bill would bar postage-rate increases or service cutbacks until Congress and the president receive the commission's recommendations.
Under the compromise, the postmaster general would continue to be appointed by the Postal Service's Board of Governors and would not be subject to Senate confirmation.

Woman Killed In Car Wreck

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — A 19-year-old Kenly woman, Carolyn Frances Hill, died in a traffic accident Monday night on N.C. 42, 14 miles west of Wilson, the Highway Patrol said.
Miss Hill was the winner of the Miss Congeniality title in last year's Miss North Carolina Teenager contest and was third runnerup in the event.
The patrol said Miss Hill was attempting to pass another car when she struck the left front of that vehicle, losing control, flipping over and striking a utility pole. The operator of the other vehicle, Martha Wheeler of Wilson, was reported in fair condition at a Wilson hospital.

Carew's Home Steal Sparks Minnesota

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

"Stealing home is just a gamble you take," says Minnesota's Rod Carew, a master of that lost baserunning art. "Sometimes you make it, sometimes you don't."

It's less of a gamble if you know what you're doing, however, and Carew has proven he knows. He swiped home for the 15th time in his career in the first inning Monday night to start the Twins on their way to a 10-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The first thing you do is study the opposing pitcher, in this case Milwaukee starter Jerry Augustine.

"I was going to go one pitch before," Carew said. "I timed the guy's windup and he was taking too much time."

Then you look for a little help from your friends... particularly the batter, Butch Wynegar.

"Butch helped me out by leaning out there and blocking the catcher's view," said Carew. "He must have seen me coming."

Then you go. It's a gamble, but if you know what you're doing you can shake up a pitcher. Carew made it, and Augustine did not last through the second inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels edged the Detroit Tigers 2-1, the Boston Red Sox bombed the Texas Rangers 11-3, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Kansas City Royals 3-2 and the New York Yankees defeated the Oakland A's 5-2.

In the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 and the Houston Astros defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1.

"He makes you sweat up there," Brewers Manager Alex Grammas said of the 31-year-old Carew, who is batting .326 with 43 stolen bases. "He's a tough out, especially when they count."

Tom Burgmeier relieved Twins starter Pete Redfern with one out in the first inning and stopped the Brewers on just one run and three hits the rest of the way. Carew had two hits, scored two runs and drove in two more to lead the Twins' 10-run, 16-hit assault.

Angels 2, Tigers 1
If Carew is an old master at stealing home, Dave Collins must rate as a promising novice. The Angels' 24-year-old outfielder notched No. 1 against Detroit, and he picked a fine time to do it. His theft came in the eighth inning and snapped a 1-1 tie.

Like Carew, Collins gave the pitcher a long look before making his move, with two out and Tony Solaita at the plate.

"I was halfway down the line on his first pitch and he hardly gave me a look," Collins said of Detroit's Jim Crawford. "I decided if he did the same thing the next time I was going. I took off as soon as he turned his head."

The Tigers thought Collins was out at the plate, and vehemently protested umpire Rich Garcia's safe call. Detroit Manager Ralph Houk was ejected for kicking dirt on home plate.

Garcia explained he called Collins safe because Tigers catcher Bill Freehan "was behind the plate and never moved up. It was just a late tag."

Collins' steal made a winner out of Angels rookie Paul Hartzell, who allowed just five hits.

Red Sox 11, Rangers 3
Jim Rice collected four of Boston's 18 hits, including two home runs, and drove in five runs. Cecil Cooper and Fred Lynn added three hits apiece as Luis Tiant posted his 18th victory against 10 losses.

Orioles 3, Royals
Bobby Grich doubled home the tying run in the sixth inning, took third on an infield out and scored on Lee May's sacrifice fly. Rudy May, 11-9, went all the way for the victory although he allowed 12 hits.

Yankees 5, A's 2
New York remained 1 1/2 games ahead of Baltimore in the AL East as Ed Figueroa recorded his 16th victory of the season against seven losses. He allowed six hits and seven walks.

Cards 7, Reds 1
Rookie Garry Templeton collected three hits and recorded the two runs to pace a 12-hit attack as St. Louis cut the Reds, lead in the NL West to 8 1/2 games over the idle Los Angeles Dodgers.

Astros 3, Phils 1
Dan Larson tossed a five-hitter and Cesar Cedeno belted a two-run double for Houston. It was the fourth consecutive loss for the Phillies, who lead the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL East by 1 1/2 games.

BURLESON HIT AT PLATE — Shortstop Rick Burleson of the Boston Red Sox is out cold at home plate after being struck in the head by a pitch during Monday night's game with the Texas Rangers.

Burleson was hit on a pitch by Bert Blyleven. Ranger catcher Jim Sundberg kneels over Burleson. Hospital officials said the injuries were mild, but Burleson was kept overnight for observation. (AP Wirephoto)

This Season To Be Rebuilding One For Greene Central's Rams

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

SNOW HILL — The Rams of Greene Central High School tied for the Eastern Carolina Conference title last year, and represented the league in the post-season playoffs. But to repeat that feat this year will take a minor miracle.

Graduation just about wiped out the Rams as far as experience is concerned. Only six lettermen return from last year's squad, and just three of those were starters.

"This is definitely a rebuilding year for us," Coach Stewart Smith said. "This is the fewest number of starters back I've ever had. And we have only seven seniors. Twenty of the people we're carrying are sophomores or juniors."

Still, Smith feels like the team might be able to come close to its 6-5 record of last year — mainly because of the poor start the team had last year. "We lost our first three, then lost to Farmville Central in a close game," Smith said. But the team bounced back after that to win six in a row and move into the playoffs, losing to Edenton in the first round by a 13-12 score. "I think we can be somewhat competitive if we stay healthy. The other teams have too much for us in experience. We're learning and we're going to make a lot of mistakes," the coach added.

"I hope that we can break .500 in the conference. But we are just so young, both in experience and age. We have a lot of kids who are just 16, and it makes a big difference when you go against an 18-year-old."

Smith looks to Southern Nash to be the favored team in the Eastern Carolina Conference. "They have a good group back." If anyone can challenge them, it will probably be Farmville, Smith feels. Ayden-Grifton rates as his dark-horse favorite.

One of the key reasons for the turnaround last year was that midway through the year, the Rams switched from the wishbone formation to the veer, and it clicked for them. "We're going to continue to run it this year. The kids like it, and seem to run it better," Smith said.

The backfield has most of the experience in it. Jay Carraway and Jeffrey Warren both return at the halfback positions. "Both of them are good runners. While our overall team speed isn't that good, we'll rely on quickness."

James Best, a sophomore, appears to have the best shot at the starting nod at quarterback, with Russell Bran backing him up. "Actually, our quarterback situation is better than it was last year," the coach said.

Harry Holmes heads the list of interior linemen. The senior letterman plays guard. Joining him is Dwight Butler. The tackles are Frankie Jones and Charles Lewis, the latter a sophomore.

Shea McLawhorn handles the tight end position, with Joe Newton and Chris Streeter as the wide receivers.

"We've rely on our ground game," Smith said. "We'll pass when we have to, but I hope that our ground game will carry us. I really don't want to pass that much, mainly due to our inexperience."

On defense, the Rams will set up in a 5-2 formation. Smith has been pleased with the work of nose guard Carnell Jones. Flanking him could be any two of four people. They include Ray Hill, Frankie Jones, Charles Lewis and Eddie Jones.

The defensive ends also see four working for a starting job. They are McLawhorn, Newton, Best and Jerry Williams.

At the linebackers are Jeffrey Warren, Newton and Donald Wooten. Melvin Streeter and Bran are working at the corners, with Bran sometimes moving back into the safety spots where Carraway, Streeter and Calvin Super are also playing.

"I was a little surprised that we did as well on defense as we did during our scrimmage."

Smith said. "We have nine on defense who've never played a single varsity play before."

Smith is worried about the kicking game. "We just haven't found anyone who can kick off consistently or punt consistently. This may cause us some problems in field position, but it's just something that we're going to have to live with until we get some experience in it."

How quickly the new players learn and put their experience to work will decide the future for the Rams.

Dye Still Is Unhappy

Practice showed some signs of improvement in the East Carolina University football camp yesterday, but Coach Pat Dye is still far from pleased.

"The players are tired physically and mentally, and this may be part of the problem," Dye said.

Following a 3 1/2 hour workout yesterday afternoon, Dye noted at the team is still not executing as well as it should at this point in the drills. "Maybe one of our problems is that we are trying to work in so many of the young people and they are making us look worse than we really are."

At any rate, the Bucs will continue hard work today, with a scrimmage set tonight in Ficklen Stadium.

Moye Tourney This Weekend

The Greenville Golf and Country Club will hold the 25th annual W. S. Moye Memorial Tournament this weekend.

The annual affair will be played Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Club. Starting times for the first two rounds will appear here on Friday, and Monday's times will be posted at the club following the first two rounds.

A party for the awarding of trophies will be held following the final round on Monday.

Several Greenville golfers have turned in best rounds. They include Kathy Hume, 56 for nine holes; Skip Bright, 40 for nine holes; Pat Dye Jr., 77 for 18 holes, and Ernest Schwarz, 86 for 18 holes.

In a Ladies Day no penalty event, Harriett White took low gross, while Jean Creech finished second. Joan Hooper won low net, followed by Joan Warren.

In a gross-net women's event, Joan Hooper won low gross.

Bailey Is Champion

WINTERVILLE — Bailey Vending captured first place in the Winterville Invitational Softball Tournament this weekend.

Second place in the 15-team, double elimination event went to Baggett's Drywall.

Braxton Speller of Bailey was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Tight Race For The Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough, Benny Parsons and Richard Petty remain in a tight race for the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's 1976 stock car driving title as car owners look to 1977.

NASCAR announced that, in response to inquiries, it plans an early announcement of rules and specifications for 1977 grand national cars.

Yarborough put a little breathing room behind him by winning Sunday's Volunteer 400 at Bristol, Tenn., and building his season point total to 3,211 with nine races remaining.

Parsons has 3,112, six-time champion Richard Petty 3,106, Bobby Allison 2,982, Dave Marcis 2,749, Lennie Pond 2,741, Richard Childress 2,611, Buddy Baker 2,575, Frank Warren 2,364 and J. D. McDuffie 2,337.

Petty leads in money earnings with $213,960 to Yarborough's $202,170. David Pearson, who didn't run Bristol, dropped to third with $198,930. Parsons has $158,855, Baker $141,555, Allison $133,865, Marcis $130,885, Darrell Waltrip $122,650, Pond $77,420 and Childress $57,770.

The next race is the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., on Labor Day.

Vikings Seen As Sure Thing In Central

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer

If there's a sure thing in the National Football League, the Minnesota Vikings would be it.

The Vikings should win the eighth National Football Conference Central Division title in nine years this season if advancing age doesn't catch up with several key performers.

Only Detroit appears capable of challenging Green Bay and Chicago can only hope for respectability after disastrous 4-10 seasons in 1975.

Still, for the first time in several years, the Vikings may have a chance in their armor.

"All along we've said that one of our strengths is the fact we have returnees at all positions," says Coach Bud Grant. "The loss of John Gilliam has changed that."

The speedy Gilliam, who signed with Atlanta as a free agent earlier this year, holds most Viking receiving records and was responsible for keeping pressure on enemy defenses in the past four years.

The turnover in the rest of the division is staggering by comparison.

Detroit Coach Rick Forzano is promising Lions fans a divisional title, but his best players may well have gone through the primes of their careers caddying for the Vikings.

Green Bay hinges its hopes for improvement on a new quarterback and the Chicago Bears appear improved, but not to the point of being a challenger.

"When we're good enough, we won't be afraid to say so," says Bears General Manager Jim Finks.

Detroit will have a schedule advantage on its Central Division rivals. The Los Angeles Rams and Minnesota are the only Lions opponents who made the playoffs in 1975.

Minnesota, on the other hand, has a rugged schedule, especially in the early part of the season. The Vikings, who opened their last three seasons with 9, 5 and 10 consecutive victories, respectively, will need another fast start facing the Rams, Lions and Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers in the first month.

The rapid takeoffs have been piloted by Fran Tarkenton, who at 36 is still the best quarterback in the division, perhaps in the league.

The durable scrambler will own every passing record in the game at the end of the season, barring injury. Tarkenton, the Most Valuable Player in the NFL last season, threw for 2,994 yards and 25 of his record 291 lifetime touchdown passes in 1975.

Tarkenton is able to create a great deal of diversity in the Vikings' offense, largely due to the presence of Chuck Foreman. The 6-foot-2, 208-pounder has already rushed for 2,648 yards, caught 163 passes for 1,638 more yards and scored 43 touchdowns in three seasons.

Foreman's backfield partner, Ed Marinaro, played out his option and signed with the New York Jets, but 5-10, 195-pound Brent McClanahan should step in capably.

Jim Lash, the only experienced deep threat on the club, will start with Tom Gerardine or second-round draft choice Sammy White from Grambling at the wide receiver positions.

All-Pro tackle Ron Yary, Ed White, 36-year-old Mick Tingelhoff and tight end Stu Voigt are the notables back in the offensive line with 16-year veteran Jim Marshall, 34-year-old Carl Eller, Doug Sutherland and All-Pro Alan Page together for yet another year on the defensive front.

The Vikings could have some problems in the secondary because of injuries to veterans Nate Wright, Bobby Bryant and Jeff Wright. Free safety Paul Krause, 34, who begins the season with 74 lifetime interceptions, needs six more to surpass Emlen Tunnell's NFL record.

Middle linebacker Jeff Sienon anchors a solid unit and the kicking game appears solid with 37-year-old placekicker Fred Cox and punter Neil Clabo.

Detroit has beaten Minnesota only twice in their last 17 meetings, and Forzano says they have to do it twice in a row this season to win the division after seven straight second-place finishes.

Joe Reed is expected to open the season at quarterback with veterans Bill Munson and Greg Landry also available.

The big man for Detroit over the years offensively is tight end Charlie Sanders, who has caught 287 passes for 4,102 yards and 25 touchdowns. The 6-4, 235-pound All-Pro needs 39 catches to surpass Gail Cogdill as the Lions' all-time leading receiver.

First-round draft choice Lawrence Gaines from Wyoming and Dexter Bussey will be the running backs with Ray Jarvis and Larry Walton at the flanker positions.

Rockne Freitas is the most familiar name in the offensive line, where 6-5, 255-pound rookie Russ Bollinger from Long Beach State may earn a starting job at tackle. The Lions also acquired veteran center Jon Morris.

The secondary appears to be Detroit's strongest unit defensively. Cornerbacks Lem Barney and Ben Davis and safeties Charlie West and Dick Jauron are four solid veterans. James Hunter, one of the club's two first-round picks, may push someone out of a job. The rangy rookie from Grambling can play either position.

Defensive tackle Herb Orvis, looking to be traded, anchors the line, backed up by linebackers Paul Naumoff, Charlie Weaver and Jim Laslavic.

Jack Pardee begins his second year with the Bears hoping to shed a pushover label.

Quarterback Bob Avellini and running back Walter Payton, both second-year players, will be largely responsible for improving the offense. Roland Harper and Johnny Musso will help at running back.

Chicago will still have a young offensive line headed by tackle Lionel Antoine. The defensive unit will probably be the team's strength, although the secondary is suspect.

Wally Chambers, regarded as one of the NFL's best tackles, end Mike Hartenstein, and linebackers Raymond Bryant and Doug Buffone are the top individual performers on defense.

The Bears have a murderous schedule with Washington, Los Angeles, Dallas, Oakland and the Vikings twice in six consecutive weeks.

Green Bay made a large investment to get the 27-year-old Dickey, sending veteran quarterback John Hadl, cornerback Ken Ellis and two draft picks to Houston.

The 6-4, 210-pound quarterback was behind Dan Pastorini with the Oilers. Dickey has passed for 1,953 yards and eight touchdowns in parts of four seasons.

Will Harrell and John Brockington will be the running backs, Steve Odom and Ken Payne the wide receivers and Rich McGeorge the tight end.

Gale Gillingham, once a perennial All-Pro, ended a one-year retirement and should help the offensive line.

A questionable defense suffered a major loss when middle linebacker Jim Carter broke an arm in the preseason. Outside linebacker Fred Carr and cornerback Willie Buchanon are quality players.

Placekicker Chester Marcol was injured in the Packer's 1975 opener, but he's considered one of the NFL's best when healthy.

Lottery Sales Begin Wednesday

By KRISTIN GOFF
Associated Press Writer

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Delaware will kick off sales for its pro football lottery games Wednesday despite the certainty that the National Football League will continue court fights against the state lottery operations.

Paul J. Crawford, an attorney for the lottery office, said ticket distribution would definitely begin Wednesday for two games.

That word came after attorneys for both sides huddled with U.S. District Court Judge Walter Stapleton Monday to discuss further steps in the legal fight over the proposed games, which will let bettors pick winners and point spreads from lottery tickets listing upcoming weekly pro games.

Those games are planned in addition to existing weekly lottery drawings and an instant game.

State Lottery Director Peter M. Simmons said 1 million tickets had been printed for "Touchdown" and another 1 million for "Football Bonus." But he did not expect sales to come anywhere near the 2 million figure for the first week.

Simmons said it was expected that many would become "throwaways" since the ticket itself is not valid until marked and paid for.

The first tickets are prepared for pro football games to be played the week of Sept. 12.

Lottery players pick winners from prepared lists of weekly games and place bets ranging from $1 to $10. In "Touchdowns," players also make selections based on point spreads with prizes determined on a parimutuel basis.

The NFL has opposed the games on grounds they would hurt professional football by associating it with legalized betting. The league has also argued the lottery would infringe upon trademarks and violate federal anti-gambling laws.

Judge Stapleton rejected an NFL petition for a temporary restraining order to immediately halt plans for the games last Friday.

The NFL was to decide sometime today what course its further legal challenges would take, according to E. Norman Veasey, a Wilmington attorney representing the NFL.

ATTEMPTED PICKOFF — Texas Ranger Lenny Randle dives back to first base in the second inning at Fenway Park in Boston Monday. Red Sox first baseman Cecil Cooper missed the tag on Randle, thrown by pitcher Luis Tiant. Boston won the game, 11-3. (AP Wirephoto)

McCovey Goes To Oakland A's

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I had a couple of places in mind for next year and Oakland wasn't one of them," says Willie McCovey after being sold to the Oakland A's. "I'm not sure I want to go at all."

As the San Diego Padres announced a straight cash deal for their holdout hitter, McCovey said he got a telephone call from Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's, and Manager Chuck Tanner.

In Oakland, Tanner said he plans to use McCovey at first base and as a designated hitter with Billy Williams and late-inning pinch hitter. Tanner said McCovey will be placed on the roster Wednesday.

"Now we have an extra first baseman and we have two great left-handed designated hitters," Tanner said.

The A's also plan to call up Nate Colbert from their Tucson farm club Wednesday, Tanner said. He is an outfielder, first baseball and right-handed designated hitter.

The A's want McCovey as a designated hitter to help them overtake Kansas City in the last five weeks of the American League's Western Division race. But McCovey said he refused to report for Monday night's game in Oakland against the New York Yankees.

"I'll have at least a couple of days to think about it," said McCovey, who was looking forward to playing out his contract, trimmed to $100,000 with an automatic 20 per cent cut as he and the Padres failed to come to terms.

The 6-foot-4, 220-pounder reacted bitterly to the news which came as the Padres prepared to fly to Pittsburgh. McCovey, now 38, said: "People talk about racial discrimination, but I was discriminated against because of my age."

He was reduced to pinch hitting duty and replaced by young Mike Ivie at first base when his batting average fell to .204 in mid-July.

"I led the team in home runs the last two years," said McCovey, who was rookie of the year with the San Francisco Giants in 1959 and the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1969 when he hit 320 and 45 home runs.

In 1973, he was traded to San Diego for pitcher Mike Caldwell and smacked 45 homers in his two full seasons with the Padres.

Browns Have Little Time For Enjoyment

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns had no sooner made the New England Patriots their fourth straight National Football League preseason victim Monday night when the Buffalo Bills took the edge off the triumph.

The Browns survived a scary finish, engineered by New England quarterback Steve Grogan, coming away with a 30-27 victory.

There was little time to enjoy it, however, as the tired Browns realized they had less than 48 hours until they leave for Buffalo where they close the preseason Friday night.

"It is a little difficult to get excited about this game when we play again this week," explained Cleveland running back Cleo Miller. "But it's still nice to win."

Miller, who apparently has earned a starting spot this season after coming to the Browns as a free agent last year in midseason, led the surprising Cleveland ground game with 80 yards and one touchdown in 18 carries.

His night was cut short, however, when he became embroiled in one of several scuffles during the game and became one of four players ejected for fighting. That came with 10:01 remaining and with the Browns on their way to their final touchdown and a 30-14 lead.

Cleveland held the ball for nine minutes and 26 seconds before Larry Poole scored from the two with just 4:02 remaining. That's when Grogan really went to work.

He finished a 23-of-38 passing night, good for 335 yards, with touchdown passes of 35 yards to Ricky Feacher and six yards to Sam Cunningham, both in the last two minutes.

"I thought the clock would never run out in this ballgame," said Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg with a shake of his head. "Those last seven or eight minutes didn't make this week any easier."

The Browns took advantage of numerous New England errors to build their lead in the first three quarters to 23-7. Grogan hurt his own cause with three interceptions — Clarence Scott returning one of them 34 yards for a touchdown — and rookie Mike Haynes fumbled a punt at his team's 12-yard line to set up an 11-yard scoring run by Cleveland quarterback Mike Phipps.

Phipps was booed consistently by the home crowd of 36,016 as he completed only eight of 20 passes for 88 yards and had one intercepted.

The Browns played without their rushing leader, Greg Pruitt, who suffered a pulled muscle in his buttock during a practice session Sunday.

PACE Throws Support To Lee

By The Associated Press
The political committee for North Carolina's teachers has reportedly dropped its endorsement of Jimmy Green and instead thrown its weight behind Howard Lee in the Democratic runoff for lieutenant governor.

In a report published today, the Charlotte Observer quoted unnamed sources as saying the Political Action Committee for Education (PACE) voted last weekend to back Lee in the Sept. 14 runoff. PACE is an arm of the North Carolina Association of Educators.

Before the Aug. 17 primary, PACE endorsed Green and donated $2,000 to his warchest. The endorsement aroused a controversy and several local chapters ignored the parent group's wish and backed Lee instead.

Though it wasn't stated officially, some members of the PACE steering committee said most of the panel actually preferred Lee but the vote was narrowly for Green because he was expected to win.

Green, a 16-year veteran legislator and speaker of the state House last session, finished second in the Aug. 17 vote with Lee, a former mayor of Chapel Hill, taking first place.

The PACE is important because the committee donates money and gets teachers to work for election of their candidates. The NCAE has 48,000 members.

Sam Johnson, Green's campaign manager, said he had heard the PACE endorsement was switched but had no official word on it.

Lee said he had received no notification.

Steve Takas of Raleigh, chairman of PACE, refused to comment and said an announcement was planned for Wednesday.

A controversy in the Democratic runoff for lieutenant governor continued Monday as third place finisher John Jordan accused Lee of offering him a seat on the state Advisory Budget Commission in return for his support.

Lee denied it, saying Jordan brought the matter up. Lee said he had only said he would consider such an appointment on Jordan's merits.

Earlier, Jordan had said he endorsed Green only after Green had promised him support in later political campaigns. Green denied any deal had been made. Jordan also said at the time that he had been refused when he asked Lee for later support.

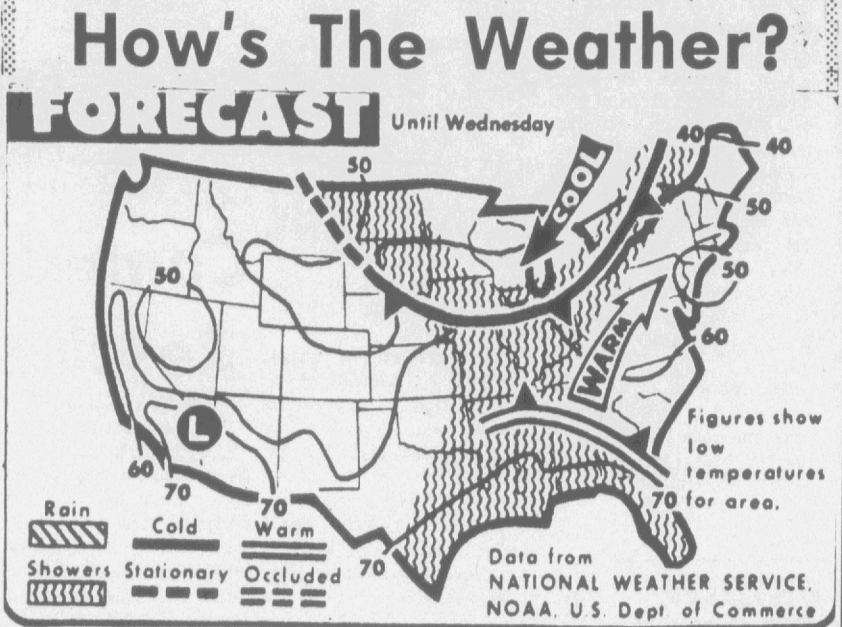

In the gubernatorial race Monday, GOP candidate David

Flaherty—who is in a runoff with Coy Privette for the nomination—said he will make an issue of Jimmy Carter's proposed pardons for Vietnam war resisters. Hunt is planning to couple his campaign to Carter's North Carolina effort.

Flaherty said the pardon issue would hurt Carter's popularity in the state and he would try to have that rub off on Hunt.

Hunt said he didn't agree with Carter's stand, that resisters should have to perform some compensatory service. He also said the gubernatorial race should focus on state, not national, issues. Such attacks by Flaherty would not affect his support of the entire Democratic ticket, including Carter, Hunt said.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are due today from Florida and eastern Texas through the Midwest to the northern Plains, the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Valley. Cooler weather is expected from the Great Lakes into the Northeast but most of the nation will be warm. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A touch of autumn came to North Carolina as August ended. Clear, crisp air which began invading Sunday night became well established Monday.

It was sunny today with temperatures about the same as Monday. Highs were in the upper 70s to the lower 80s.

Morning cloudiness gave way to clear skies Monday except for the southern counties, where some cloudiness persisting into the afternoon.

The dryness of the air, coupled with brisk northeasterly winds, mainly over the eastern counties, made it very comfortable Monday. Temperatures climbed slowly, reaching their peak late in the afternoon. Most readings leveled off in the upper 70s and low 80s. The warmest reporting point was Charlotte with an 83.

Other maximums included 77 at Greensboro and Elizabeth City and 72 at Boone.

The night was clear and winds were light. Temperatures fell rapidly with darkness. By midnight, many places were in the 50s. Before dawn the mercury slipped into the 40s in the mountains, and near 50 across most of the northern counties. It got into the 50s elsewhere except for the 60s along the Outer Banks.

Some cloudiness will reach the western portion this evening and spread eastward tonight. Showers are expected to develop over the lower Mississippi Valley today and should reach the North Carolina mountains by late Wednesday. Some needed rain may continue to spread over the state Wednesday night and Thursday.

Small-craft advisories along the coast and sounds were discontinued this morning.

New River Dam Foes Rejoice At Project's Defeat

By The Associated Press

While officials of Appalachian Power Co. mulled filing suit against the federal government and complained about Congress giving in to "a vociferous minority of environmentalists," residents along the New River and their supporters whooped with joy Monday.

To those who fought to save the New River from the proposed dam project, Monday's Senate vote showed that the democratic process can work, that average people can be heard over special interests.

"It reconfirmed people's faith in the American system of government. We found out that if people work hard enough and fight hard enough, somebody's going to listen," said Thomas B. Fowler of Crumpler, N.C. He's principal of Healing Springs Elementary School which would have been flooded had the dam project not been blocked.

"Without Congress we couldn't have done it," he said, adding "without us, they probably wouldn't have done it."

North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser, who was part of the bipartisan effort to save the river, said the victory is "a demonstration of what can be done when the people's elected officials are willing to stand up for the people's interests against the special interests."

Holshouser called the vote "one of the three or four most satisfying and memorable days" in his 14 years in politics.

North Carolina Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten, whose lawsuits helped delay the project long enough for Congress to put North Carolina's New River in the federal Wild and Scenic River system and protect it from the dam project, was also jubilant.

"In Washington to make sure favorable senators showed up to vote, Edmisten said, "It shows that a few people in one section of the country can object to something and get heard."

Hamilton Horton, who headed the National Committee for the New River, said the 69-16 Senate vote in favor of the bill "should put an end to 14 years of sleepless nights for the people up in the valley." The vote "is one for the history books...Three little mountain counties whipping the AFL-CIO, the Federal Power Commission and the world's largest power company."

Officials of Appalachian Power Co.—the subsidiary of American Electric Power Co. which had sought to build the dams—were clearly miffed.

Speaking from Roanoke, Va.,

Bill McClung, a company spokesman, said, "The Senate has bowed to the cry of a vociferous minority of environmentalists in passing this legislation. It raises serious doubts as to the future of any hydroelectric projects that may be licensed by the FPC."

The U.S. Constitution forbids taking valuable property such as the company's license without just compensation, he said, adding, "In due course, we will institute litigation...to recover the value of our license." He did not set a price, but a company spokesman once threatened to sue for $500 million if the project were blocked.

Another proponent of the project lamented the action. Dan Murray, an attorney in Allegheny County, said he was disappointed. He had represented the local business interests which had favored construction of the dams.

"It's a real victory for the environmentalists. They deserve it, they worked hard for it," Murray said.

"But the people who lose are the people in Ashe and Allegheny who have incomes below the poverty level or no jobs at all. It would have helped them tremendously."

"Just the jobs building the dams would have made a big difference in the economy. Then the housing industry would have picked up, industry might have come in. It doesn't affect me personally. I've got other things I can do for a living, but lots of people don't," he said.

Joy was great in the valley, however.

As soon as he learned the news, the Rev. Hal Eaton went to Mouth of Wilson and told the residents. Mouth of Wilson is a village just north of the Virginia-North Carolina border which would have been wiped out by the dams.

"We're very happy. We hope that will be the end," his wife said.

Like Eaton, Independence, Va., storekeeper Ricky Anderson was happy to learn that his efforts to save the river succeeded. Anderson had led delegations to Washington to lobby for the bill and once, they picked the AFL-CIO's national headquarters because organized labor was backing the dam project.

"It looks like all those trips are going to pay off. It feels great. This store would have been under 54 feet of water," Anderson and his backers paid their own expenses.

Anderson, 28, said he's lived with uncertainty since the ninth grade. His store has a leaky roof and for the last five years, he delayed putting on a new roof, fearing the store would soon be taken from him.

"Now maybe we can make a few plans, take a little more pride in what we have," he said.

There were some reservations in the jubilation, though. Harold Stanley would not be directly affected but he opposed the project from the beginning because he was an Ashe County commissioner and believed it his duty. "I'd like to see all the cards on the table. I don't trust American Electric Power," he said, wonder aloud what actions the firm may be planning.

Raleigh Awaits Demonstrators

RALEIGH (AP) — With two large demonstrations planned in the city over the Labor Day weekend, Raleigh officials are taking no chances and have called on 1,000 National Guard troops and 100 Highway Patrol to be on an alert.

No violence is known to be planned or anticipated, city officials said, adding that calling up the guard and Highway Patrol is only a precaution. The troops will be housed at the nearby state fairgrounds.

The city is bracing for between 1,000 and 1,200 motorcyclists to be in town Sunday for a parade and rally. Sponsors say they will protest North Carolina laws requiring bikers to wear protective helmets and to burn their headlights day or night.

The next day, Labor Day, there will be a National March for Human and Labor Rights sponsored by the National Alliance Against Racism and Political Repression. Sponsors say about 8,000 persons will participate.

Police Chief Robert Goodwin said similar precautions were taken two years ago when the city hosted a large but peaceful demonstration against the death penalty.

"Everyone is professing to come in peace. But, when you get this many people together demonstrating for a cause, things can happen," he said, adding, "There is a rule of thumb in police work that you prepare for the worst and hope for the best."

Planned speakers for the Labor Day rally include Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond, Colorado Lt. Gov. George Brown and civil rights activist Angela Davis.

The demonstrators are to march around several state office buildings then listen to speeches from in front of the governor's mansion.

Responsible motorcycle clubs have organized the motorcycle rally but any biker may participate, leaving a possibility that some motorcycle gangs may join in, Goodwin said.

Motorcyclists have a city permit to parade from the state fairgrounds to the Capitol and the legislative building.

$120.32 Day For Market

Price average on the Greenville Tobacco Market continued to climb upward Monday as improved offerings contributed to a record $120.32 per hundred pounds.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade here, said that the quality of leaf on local warehouse floors yesterday was up while the amount of tobacco from the lower part of the stalk decreased in volume.

Offerings consisted of leaf, a small percentage of smoking leaf, cutters and lugs, he reported, with a decreased amount of primings and non descript tobacco available for sale.

Top practical price paid was $1.24 according to Bryan.

Stabilization receipts reflected a decline as only 1.88 per cent of total sales went to the government loan program.

Sales yesterday totaled 708,649 pounds and brought $852,643 in averaging $120.32. For the season, the market has sold 20,552,924 pounds for $22,037,832, an overall average of $107.23 per hundred pounds.
