Enlarging Stadium Final Goal: Jenkins

Dr. Leo Jenkins today at the 68th annual convocation opening the 1976-77 school year for ECU indicated a $2.5 million stadium expansion drive will be one of his last projects as chancellor.

Jenkins will reach the university system's retirement age of 65 in May, 1978. He said he assumes that the ECU trustees will appoint a search committee to select his successor as chancellor during the coming year to allow ample time to have that person "ready to assume responsibilities in July, 1978."

Jenkins set a goal of doubling the 20,000-seat capacity of Ficklen Stadium.

A fund-raising drive is to begin soon under the chairmanship of R. L. Jones of Raleigh and coordination by ECU Regional Development director Tom Willis.

He also disclosed that the UNC Board of Governors will be asked Friday to approve a reogranization plan under which Dr. John M. Howell, ECU provost, will become vice chancellor for academic affairs, and Dr. Robert L. Holt, now vice chancellor and dean, will become vice chancellor for administration and planning.

Jenkins said Howell "has been a key person in the development of the ECU medical school and has been responsible for the development of the basic science departments."

Holt, Jenkins said, "has been a key person in the development of the ECU School of Nursing and has been responsible for the development of the allied health professions."

Jenkins said he is pleased with the progress of the medical school and the School of Nursing.

He added that the construction program for the medical school is "more or less on schedule."

Jenkins praised the ECU faculty for an "impressive record" of accomplishment achieved simultaneously with three "major" projects which include conversion of the curricula to the semester system, writing of a new tenure policy and continuing effort to formulate unit or departmental codes of operation.

"The monumental task of converting all courses and programs to fit a semester system was undertaken with commendable determination and an excellent spirit of cooperation which resulted in completion of the task earlier than was expected," Jenkins said.

ECU will go to the semester system in 1977-78.

Higher faculty salaries, Jenkins said, "remains one of my major endeavors and my number-one priority." Jenkins pledged his support to a recommendation by university system chancellors that faculty salaries be raised 12 per cent in the next fiscal year and eight per cent thereafer.

Registration of "over 12,000 students" will begin tomorrow, according to Robert Ussery, director of institutional research.

Ussery said the enrollment for fall quarter will be "the largest in the history of ECU," but that the existing facilities of the university will be able to handle the large student body.

Cox Reports On County's Schools

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners were told this morning by Greenville school superintendent Glenn Cox that maintenance work on the system's buildings is progressing nicely and said he was "pleased with the condition of school when they opened . . ." last week.

Cox's report came in light of requests from the Board of Commissioners for progress reports on repairs and corrections noted during an inspection of the schools last spring by city building and fire safety inspectors.

Cox noted that contracts for replacement of the roof at E.B. Aycock Junior High School have been awarded, and said consultants have been employed to establish specifications for the renovation of Third Street School.

The superintendent emphasized that Third Street will be re-opened as an elementary school for the 1977 school year.

Cox also told the board that enrollment at the end of school last spring was about 5,550 students as compared with a total last Thursday of 5,229.

Pitt Memorial Hospital director Jack Richardson this morning told commissioners that under a revision of schedules caused by expansion of the new hospital facility to accommodate the East Carolina University School of Medicine clinical training program, it will be about the first of February, 1977 before the moving operation into the new building will begin. He said patients should be moved, under the new schedule, about Easter.

Ralph Hall, charged with supervising construction of the new hospital for the county, said the total project is about 92 per cent complete.

He noted that what began as an $11.2 million project has been expanded to a $23.1 million investment—including the family practice center which is under contract and the various phases of the medical school addition.

The board also heard a suggestion from Glenn Hardee of near Greenville, that the board consider establishing a conference center in Pitt County, possibly in conjunction with park and recreation facilities.

Hardee suggested such a center might include a fixed-seat theater, an open auditorium, an outdoor theater, as well as facilities for tennis, baseball, softball and other outdoor sports.

Commissioners indicated that they would ask the county planner to consider such a

Jet Experts Study MIG

By BARRY SCHLACHTER
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Experts have looked over the Soviet MIG25 fighter plane flown to Japan by a defecting Soviet air force pilot, Japanese officials reported today, but they refused to say whether American intelligence officers were among them.

U.S. authorities refused to comment, referring all queries to Washington. But it was assumed that the Americans would get a thorough examination of the plane before the Japanese government returned it to the Soviet Union.

The plane landed Monday at a small airfield in Hakodate, in northern Japan, and the pilot reportedly said he wanted asylum in the United States. In Washington, the State Department would say only that the matter was under consideration.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Paris today that the United States "will probably grant asylum" to the pilot. "If we do not, you can assume I have been overruled," he said. Kissinger has been meeting with various European leaders on the brewing racial confrontation in southern Africa.

One Japanese source with good official connections said he heard that the plane might be moved by ship from Hakodate to the U.S. air base at Misawa, in northern Honshu, the main Japanese island.

Officials of the Japanese Defense Agency said they were primarily interested in the supersonic jet fighter's electronic firing control system. Experts from Tokyo and the Japanese Defense Force base at Chitose, near Hakodate, flew Monday to the Hakodate landing site.

Other Western embassies in Tokyo indicated keen desire to examine the plane. The British air attache was reported to have gone to Hakodate to try to get a close look at the craft.

The MIG25 has been kept largely under wraps by the Soviet Union, but it is believed to be Russia's most advanced jet fighter and capable of flying at 1,600 miles an hour.

The pilot of the plane was identified as Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29. Defense Agency officials said he was flown by police helicopter from Hakodate to an airbase at Chitose, near Sapporo, and then was taken by Japanese armed forces jet transport to the Iruma base near Tokyo.

Kyodo, the Japanese news agency said Belenko told police he had been planning to escape to the United States for two years because "there is no freedom of life in the present Soviet society."

The Soviet government demanded the return of both the pilot and the plane, and the Soviet Embassy in Tokyo asked to interview the flier.

Rafts Dragged, Floated In Race

TULSA (AP) — More than 3,400 persons pushed, paddled, dragged and floated their rafts down a 9.4-mile stretch of the Arkansas River here in the 4th annual Great Raft Race.

The crafts ranged from a bathtub manned by one to an elaborate side-wheel paddle boat with a crew of 18.

The oldest rafter was Helen King, 72, of Petaluma, Calif., who kept a merry tune coming from her haroonica as she captained her crew down the river.

Official results of Monday's timed race won't be known until Wednesday. Entrants in the faster classifications made the race in under one hour. The "Pokie-Okie" category entrants ran the course in innertubes in about four hours.

Not Appearing

AYDEN — Mayor Ross Persinger said today that the National Jimmy Carter Headquarters contacted him to let him know that Carter will not be speaking at the Ayden Collard Festival Saturday.

Carter's Headquarters had told Persinger last week that they were planning to be at the festival Saturday.

"The press secretary told me that they are not able to juggle the schedule to allow for the visit to Ayden, but that Carter will make an appearance in Eastern North Carolina before the fall election," Mayor Persinger said.

Verdict Is Up To Viking 2

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say that if Viking 2 finds organic molecules when it sifts Martian soil they will be convinced that life exists on the red planet.

The Viking 1 space probe seems to have been telling about the discovery of life for the past few weeks, Dr. Gerald Soffen, Viking's chief scientist, said Monday. But he said its experiments failed to produce any of the carbon-based, or organic, molecules which are found in every living thing on earth.

The lack of organics is "the single argument against biology (life)," Soffen said. "I would have said, 'That is life,' but that organic is holding me back."

If Viking 2 comes up with organic molecules, "that would do it for us," he said.

New Shuttle

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been asked by Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere to begin a diplomatic shuttle in Africa, a senior American official on Kissinger's plane revealed today.

The official, who talked to reporters during a flight from Paris to this north German port city, said the attempt to resolve the festering racial problem between blacks and whites in southern Africa probably will start no later than Monday.

The message reached Kissinger this morning in Paris as he was preparing to brief French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing on his three-day meeting in Zurich with South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

The message from Tanzania was on behalf of Nyerere only and did not speak for the four other black leaders who have just concluded a summit conference on the African situation in Dar es Salaam. However, the invitation is considered a positive development because Nyerere, although a moderate, has considerable influence with the more radical black leaders.

Another Accord On DMZ

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - The United Nations Command and North Korea today began implementing an agreement to separate their guards in the Panmunjom truce village where two American army officers were killed three weeks ago.

A joint observer team met in Panmunjom and agreed on procedures for marking the military demarcation line that divides the 850-yard-wide joint security area, a U.N. Command spokesman said. U.S. and South Korean forces are to remain south of the line, while the North Koreans are to keep to the north side.

The disengagement agreement was reached Monday after a week of secret talks between the secretaries of the delegations to the Korean Military Armistice Commission.

MORE SHOWERS

Hotline ran an item Aug. 19 about August's being a good month in which to view meteor showers — if one cares to go out and watch the sky after midnight.

David Williams, one of our readers who's an avid amateur astronomer, has provided us with a list of dates through the year when meteor showers are most likely to be visible in the northern hemisphere. Given in the following list is the name of each shower, the series of dates when it's most likely to be seen, and the "maximum date," the day the odds are the very best for seeing one or more showers: Quandrantids—Jan. 1-5, Jan. 4—max.; April Lyrids—Apr. 19-24, Apr. 21—max.; Aquarids—May 1-8, May 5—max.; June Lyrids—June 10-21, June 15—max.; Capricornids—July 10-Aug. 15, July 25, max.; July Aquarids—July 15-Aug. 15, July 28, max.; x-Capricornids— July 15-Aug. 25, Aug. 1—max.; t-Aquarids, July 15-Aug. 25, Aug. 6—max.; Perseids—July 25-Aug. 18, max. Local Citizens Going To 264 Highway Talks

The 264 Highway committee will meet in Farmville Wednesday at 10 a.m. with Members of a study commission and local citizens., according to Tom Taft, president of the 264 Highway Committee.

A study commission from Tennessee which was hired to study the highway needs for a 20 year period in the area north of Highway 64, south of Highway 264, west of Highway 95 and east of Highway 17, will explain its recommendations for a transportation system at the meeting. Citizens will be allowed to reply and make suggestions concerning the recommendations.

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce will bus approximately 100 concerned citizens to the meeting in Farmville, according to Ed Walker, executive vice president of the Chamber.

The committee is expected to recommend the immediate four laning of the highway from Rocky Mount to Tarboro and the highway from Greenville to Washington, and give less priority to the four laning of the highway from Greenville to Wilson, Taft explained.

"We are hoping to have several representatives speaking in opposition of the four laning priorities to be suggested by the study commission. We have no quarrel with the four lanes from Rocky Mount to Tarboro or the four lane from Greenville to Washington, but we feel that immediate action needs to be taken concerning the four laning of the highway 264 from Greenville to Wilson," Taft said.

Persons interested in riding with the Chamber of Commerce members to the meeting may contact Reese Hart of the Pitt County Development Commission, The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce or Tom Taft.

Holiday Traffic Saw 476 Dead

CHICAGO (AP) — The death toll on the nation's highways for the three-day Labor Day weekend was 476, 69 more than died during the same period last year.

The number of fatalities exceeded the predictions of the National Safety Council, which had estimated that from 260 to 460 persons would die in automobile accidents.

The Associated Press count covered the period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday and ending at midnight Monday.

Last year, 407 persons died in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents.

Strike Looming In Some Schools

By The Associated Press

After a Labor Day weekend marked by a busing protest and a school bombing, students returned to classes today in Louisville, Ky. In three other large cities, schools opened with new moves toward desegregation apparently meeting little opposition.

Officials in Milwaukee, St. Louis and Omaha, Neb., predicted a peaceful first day with no demonstrations anticipated as they tried out plans to improve the racial balance of their classrooms.

There was some protest around the country among teachers — but over contracts, not racial integration.

In Buffalo, N.Y, on Monday night, teachers defying court injunctions voted by a 2-1 margin to strike and said they would picket all schools today. Classes for the city's 54,000 public school pupils were to begin Wednesday.

Teachers in Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., were scheduled to take strike votes today, and strike deadlines were set for later this week in districts in Oregon, Tennessee and Rhode Island.

A National Education Association spokesman said there could be more trouble ahead because more teachers' contracts remained unsettled than usual.

"Tight money and all of the factors which led to a record number of teacher strikes for the 1975-76 school year are the same," said Terry Herndon, association executive director. "And the incredible number of unsettled contracts — some 2,200 — could result in more strikes later if settlement is not reached."

In Louisville, the FBI helped investigate a Monday morning bombing that caused minor damage at unoccupied Male High School. Police said they "could only assume" the blast was related to the opposition to court-ordered busing that prompted three antibusing demonstrations in the past week.

The blast tore a radiator from a wall, ripped a hole about two feet in diameter in the floor and damaged walls and a ceiling.

Monday night, police arrested two juveniles and charged them with littering after they tried to set fire to a pile of automobile tires at an antibusing demonstration that drew 15 to 20 persons.

The arrests took place at the same spot where police used tear gas Sunday night to disperse 200 unruly antibusing demonstrators who had earlier taken part in a peaceful protest of about 800 persons.

Milwaukee's integration plan is based on voluntary transfers, and involves busing and transfer of about 6,600 of the 110,000 students in the city's 158 schools.

The district has established 19 specialty schools, designed to give students incentives to leave their neighborhoods to attend classes.

Milwaukee's school enrollment is about 34 per cent black, and about 90 per cent of the transferred students are black. Some 32,500 students will be attending racially integrated schools.

The integration plan stems from a suit filed in the 1960s on behalf of a group of black and white children. A federal judge ruled that Milwaukee's schools were segregrated and ordered work on an integration plan.

In Omaha, where school busing began as the second phase of court-ordered desegregation, all leaves and vacations for policemen were canceled temporarily.

Each bus was equipped with a two-way radio for communications in case problems arose, but school officials said that except for some opening-day confusion, they expected no problems busing more than 9,300 students in grades two through nine.

The district has 57,000 students, about 20 per cent of them black.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a two-part desegregation plan in mid-1975 after three years of litigation. The first part of the plan, faculty desegregation, took effect last fall.

A volunteer group, Concerned Citizens For Omaha, used various advertisements and "Let's Make It Work" bumper stickers over the summer in attempts to sell peaceful integration.

In St. Louis, public schools for the first time are trying a "Magnet School" plan that will operate like Milwaukee's. The city, with a population about half black and half white, has had limited busing in the past and no marked school integration protests in recent years.

In recent weeks, busing programs have gotten under way peacefully in Dallas and Dayton, Ohio. Schools reopen on Wednesday in Boston, where busing opponents have staged violent demonstrations during the past two years.

Clear-Cutting Of N.C. Woodlands Being Urged

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Clear-cutting, the practice of clearing whole tracts of woodland instead of cutting only certain trees, is being urged by lumbermen and furniture manufacturers as they face possible industry layoffs.

Clear-cutting has been illegal in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia since conservationists sued over past abuses.

Commercial logging in nine national forests has been paralyzed by a year-long dispute, says James L. Gundy, executive vice president of the Appalachian Hardwood Manufacturers Association in High Point.

The moratorium has closed eight to 10 mills and idled hundreds of local workers, he said.

"We've just got to have a bill this session of Congress or the price of hardwoods will go sky high," Gundy said.

The situation has become so bad, he added, that employment has been cut back at many sawmills in North Carolina and South Carolina. Other mills face dwindling supplies and soaring prices, he said.

"North Carolina sawmills are going as far as Georgia and Tennessee for logs," Gundy said, adding that increased demand has tripled tree prices in private forests.

Conservationists, in winning their federal suit to halt clear-cutting in West Virginia's Monongahela National Forest, claimed the practice blighted large sections of public land. Their 1973 judgement was upheld by the U.S. Fourth District Court of Appeals in August, 1975. The U.S. Forest Service made the ban area-wide last December.

Lumber executives say they fear a chain reaction of such suits, which, they claim, would limit supplies and force cutbacks in the 110,000-man work force in North Carolina and South Carolina.

Congressional action, if any, is expected to come in the form of an amendment to the 1897 Organic Act, which established the national forest system and decreed that only "dead, dying or mature" trees could be cut for commercial use. The U.S. Forest Service later ignored the bill, saying national demands for lumber made it impractical.

Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., has cosponsored a bill in the House that would allow clear-cutting. A Senate version of the bill passed 90-0.

Eleven Die In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press

Eleven persons died on North Carolina's highways during the Labor Day weekend period, the Highway Patrol said Monday night.

The fatalities included a 9-month-old girl and put the state's total for the year at 980, compared with 1,018 killed during the same period last year. The holiday traffic count, which ended at midnight Monday, was below the 34 killed during the 1975 holiday period.

A Ft. Bragg soldier, John Anthony Howard, 20, was killed shortly after noon Monday when the motorcycle he was riding collided with an oncoming car. The patrol said the accident occurred on U.S. 401, five miles south of Raeford in Hoke County.

The infant died early Monday when the car in which she was riding crashed while being pursued at high speed by a patrol car, officials said. She was identified as Bonnie Michelle Raney of Sneads Ferry. The patrol said four other persons were injured when the vehicle went out of control and overturned several times. The accident occurred at the intersection of N.C. 219 and N.C. 172 in Onslow County.

Two Pembroke teenagers died early Sunday when their car ran off a rural road and overturned about 14 miles south of Pembroke in Robeson County. The patrol identified the victims as Thomas Ray Strickland, 17, and Steven Albert Lowery, 19.

Walter Henderson, 28, of Rt. 1, Pelham, died Sunday afternoon when his car ran off a rural road and struck a bridge six miles northwest of Yanceyville in Caswell County.

The patrol said two women were killed early Sunday in Craven County when their car struck a bridge abutment on U.S. 17, 10 miles north of New Bern. They were identified as the driver, Dora Lee Jobes, 53, of Norfolk, Va., and Diane Lynette Andrews, 16, of Jacksonville, N.C.

An elderly Wilson man was killed when he was struck by a car while standing in U.S. 301, the patrol said. The victim was 63-year-old Owens Taylor. The accident occurred one mile south of Wilson.

Eleanor Marie Dancy, 28, of Rt. 1, Bethel, died in a two-car collision in Edgecombe County, the patrol said. She was a passenger in a car that was struck by a second vehicle, which ran a stop sign at the intersection of U.S. 64 and N.C. 42, the patrol said.

Two accidents Friday evening killed Dave Lee Maples, 20, a motorcyclist from Boone, and Nancy V. Lawrence, 46, of Windsor.

Fire Injures 2 Firemen

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Two firemen were injured and 19 persons left homeless after fire destroyed a 75-year-old boarding house here Monday morning.

Firemen said terrified residents were jumping to safety or clinging to sills and drainpipes when they arrived. Firemen using ladders were able to reach those stranded on the upper floors, said Fire Capt. C.H. Adams.

One resident was hospitalized after jumping from a second story window as flames began reaching him. Authorities said he was treated for smoke inhalation and burns, but was unhurt by the fall.

Authorities said neither fireman was injured seriously. One was treated at the scene after being overcome by smoke. Fireman Steve Money was believed slightly injured when part of a brick wall collapsed on him.

Once a fashionable apartment dwelling on the city's west side, the Colonial Arms boarding house, a three-story brick structure, was gutted by the flames, firemen said.

Local residents said the building was converted to a 23-unit rooming house about 20 years ago. The tenants, many of whom escaped without any clothes, were taken to the Salvation Army for shelter and clothing, Adams said.

Firemen labored more than eight hours before the blaze was completely extinguished, firemen said.

Gain Accord At Goodrich

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The last of the Big Four tire makers has settled with the United Rubber Workers, raising hopes that the longest rubber strike in U.S. history could end this week.

B.F. Goodrich negotiators announced on Labor Day that after two days of intensive talks in Columbus with union bargainers they had reached tentative agreement on a new three-year contract.

URW President Peter Bommarito said he expected union locals to ratify the pact today and Wednesday. The strike, which began on April 21, was in its 140th day today.

The union initially called about 60,000 members out on strike against the major tire makers — Goodyear, Goodrich, Uniroyal and Firestone. Goodyear and Firestone settled last month, and their workers are back on the job. About 12,000 Uniroyal workers are set to vote on their new proposed contract.

Harold Fast, Goodrich labor relations director and chief negotiator, said the agreement follows the basic economic pattern for the tire and rubber industry established last month in Washington.

It calls for hourly wage increases of $1.35 over the life of the contract and includes a cost-of-living adjustment.

Fust said production at six plants — stalled by the walkout of more than 9,000 workers — could resume as early as Thursday. He predicted that tire prices would rise, but he would not speculate how much.

"There won't be any problem in the contract being ratified," said Bommarito. He said union negotiators unanimously recommended acceptance.

Gimpy Calf At Wedding

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — The groom wore a vested suit, the bride wore a blue muslin gauze gown and the calf was decked out in his usual roan coat, white face and canvas halter with metallic-colored chain.

The calf?

Yes, right there with all the other honored guests at Debbie Bryant and Randy Spaet's recent wedding was Gimpy, a 4-month-old member of the moo set who's considered by all in the family to be a part of it.

Gimpy was born to a heifer who died giving birth. It also left the calf with a game leg, and gave him his name. Roger Bryant, father of the bride, sawed the ends off a pair of skis and used them to make a splint. Without a mother, it looked like Gimpy was doomed, but tender loving cure — not to mention a giant baby bottle — kept him going.

Mrs. Spaet said inviting the calf was an idea she and her husband came up with although "everybody else thought it was kind of dumb."

Predict Shift To Fossil Fuel

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study by Frost and Sullivan, market research firm, says that over the next decade U.S. utilities will be shifting to construction of fossil fuel electric power plants from nuclear power facilities because fossil fuel plants are easier to manufacture. By 1985, however, nuclear power generating facilities will begin to account for a larger share of the market, the firm says.

Grandmother Took Honors In Frog Race

NORRIDGEWOCK, Maine (AP) — A grandmother took top honors in the adult division of the fourth annual Central Maine Frog Race and received a gallon of swampwater as her prize.

Margaret Gildart's prize came from the nearby Oosoola Stream.

About 125 contestants, and more than 1,000 spectators, showed up for the race, which is becoming a Labor Day tradition in Oosoola Park here.

The competitors, divided into three age groups, placed their frogs in the center of a 30-foot circle, and the first to reach the outer rim was declared the winner.

Bruce Hertz, the race chairman, said the frog owners tried to get the creatures moving by yelling encouragement, stomping the ground behind them, and huffing and puffing on their backs. It's against the rules to touch the frogs.

Billions Go To Philanthropy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study of The Conference Board, a nonprofit business oriented organization, shows that U.S. corporations spend $2.25 billion annually on philanthropic causes. Over the past decade corporate philanthrophy has averaged about 1.1 per cent of net pretax income of the companies.

The United Mine Workers of America was founded in 1890 and has 450,000 members.

History Of Rotary Club

The Greenville Rotary Club, chartered in 1919, is collecting historical material for use in writing a history of the club.

Charles Gilbert, president of the club, said he hopes that previous members or relatives or friends of former members may have material that would be of benefit in writing the history. Suitable material would include items like bulletins of local meetings, pictures, letters, reports, summaries of assemblies and conferences and any other material. A gift or loan of any item would be appreciated, he said. Donated material will be placed in the Archives of the club.

Persons who can help should call Dr. Gilbert at 752-1537. It is hoped that all items can be collected by Oct. 1. The published volume will be available to those who are interested.

Record Rise In Bank Deposits

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's 475 mutual savings banks had a record increase deposits last year, according to the National Fact Book of Mutual Savings Banking. Deposits increased by $11.1 billion during 1975, topping the previous record high gain of $10.1 billion recorded in 1972.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

For years, you've watched everyone else do it.

The children who sat on the curb eating their lunches waiting for the bus.

The husband you put through school who drank coffee standing up and who slept with his hand on the alarm.

And you envied them and said, "Maybe next year I'll go back to school." And the years went by and this morning you looked into the mirror and said, "you blew it. You're too old to pick it up and start a new career."

This column is for you.

Margaret Mitchell won her first Pulitzer Prize for "Gone with the Wind" in 1937. She was 37 years old at the time.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith was elected to the Senate for the first time in 1948 at the age of 49.

Ruth Gordon picked up her first Oscar in 1968 for "Rosemary's Baby." She was 72 years old.

Billie Jean King took the battle of women's worth to a tennis court in Houston's astrodome to outplay Bobby Riggs. She was 31 years of age.

Grandma Moses began a painting career at the age of 76.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh followed in the shadow of her husband until she began to question the meaning of existence for individual women. She published her thoughts in "Gifts from the Sea" in 1955 in her 49th year.

Shirley Temple Black was named Ambassador to Ghana at the age of 47.

Golda Meir in 1969 was elected prime minister of Israel. She had just passed her 71st birthday.

This summer, Barbara Jordan was given official duties as a speaker at the Democratic National Convention. She is 36 years old.

You can tell yourself these people started out as exceptional. You can tell yourself they had influence before they started. You can tell yourself the conditions under which they achieved is different than yours.

Or you can be like a woman I knew who sat at her kitchen window year after and watched everyone else do it and then said to herself, "It's my turn."

I was 37 years old at the time.

'The Bridge'

Home Counsels Runaways

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "When kids run away from home, it's usually a symptom of other family problems," says Tom Packard, project coordinator for The Bridge, a temporary home for runaway youth located near Balboa Park and downtown San Diego.

"If the father's out of work, or there are marital difficulties, or perhaps a severe illness in the family, then the family pressures may be so severe that before you know it, there's another runaway for the statistics."

At The Bridge, a two-story, olive green stucco house with a Spanish tile roof, runaway teenagers can find food and a place to sleep in a homelike setting. The kids are often scared or angry when they run away.

"They tell us their parents ignore them, simply don't understand them or even beat them," says Packard. "We provide them a cooling off place. Here the environment is neutral."

Wendy is a 16-year-old runaway who had been at The Bridge almost two months. Wendy's mother had divorced her father when Wendy was 10 years old. She remarried when Wendy was 12, and the family had moved frequently — eight times within four years.

"I had a baby just before I came here," Wendy said. "My mother won't let me see my daughter. We had an argument and she kicked me out. I'm not going to go back home. I hope to be placed in a group home soon. I want to finish high school, and then get my little girl back."

"Three hundred kids stayed at the bridge last year," says Packard. "Almost all had run away from home at one time or another. While running away from home is technically a 'crime,' there has been a move recently to decriminalize it. Fortunately, we have a very good rapport with the police and local juvenile authorities. Quite a number of kids are referred to The Bridge when they might otherwise have been sent to detention centers."

Young people may come into The Bridge for counseling any time, 24 hours a day, and parents or police will not be notified. However, for an overnight stay parental permission is required. After the parent gives permission, the runaway is allowed to stay for three days to eight weeks depending on the circumstances. The average length of stay is about five days.

The Bridge is staffed 24 hours a day with trained counselors. There is a staff of seven full-time and three part-time employes, and a staff of 20 trained volunteers, many recruited from the social science and psychology departments of five local colleges and universities in the San Diego area.

While there are some runaways who come from out-of-state seeking better things and a place in the California sun, most are from homes nearby, Packard says.

"We attempt to invite the runaway's family in to talk over their problems," says Packard. This usually means calling in parents, brothers and sisters, aunts or uncles, grandparents, and any significant "others" who are members of the household.

One effective counseling technique is role reversal, which helps to identify many of the problems that each family member faces daily. For example, a father might be asked to switch roles with his runaway son in a counseling session.

Each year an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 youngsters run away from home, according to Commissioner of Youth Development James Hart of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Actually, we found that almost 64 per cent of the runaways stay in the same county, and 81 per cent of them remain within their own state when they leave home," he said.

Recently, the Office of Youth Development, an agency of HEW's Office of Human Development, gave grants totaling approximately $8 million to 132 runaway youth projects across the country to help them provide temporary shelter, counseling, and follow-up services to runaway youth.

The Office of Youth Development also supports Metro Help, Inc., of Chicago, which operates the National Runaway Switchboard, a national runaway hotline.

Runaways can call 800-621-4000 toll free to communicate with their parents and to locate emergency services and shelter nearby. Metro Help has over 2,000 local reference resources nationwide, such as traveler's aid societies, welfare councils, names of ministers, runaway youth projects and others.

Cost Of Snacks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans spent about $1 billion on potato chips in 1974, or as much as they spent on breakfast cereals during the same period, says the Consumer Education program of New York State's Cooperative Extension service. During the same period, they spent almost $5 billion on other snack foods and almost $8 million on soft drinks. By comparison, they spent only $4.8 billion on fresh fruits, which are much more nutritious than the snacks and soda pop.

Shelley Concerned About Mom's Smoking

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 8 years old and my name is Shelley Seibel. My Mom is 27 years old, and the reason I am writing to you is because my Mom smokes constantly.

Abby, please give me some suggestions as to how I can get her to quit smoking. I love my Mom and don't want her to die from lung cancer or heart failure at the age of 30.

WORRYING IN EVANS CITY, PA.

DEAR SHELLEY: What a beautiful daughter you are for being so worried about your Mom's health that you would write to me!

People who smoke "constantly" would like to quit, but they lack the strength. Perhaps when your Mom sees this and realizes how much you love her, it will motivate her to quit. I hope so.

Write to me again, Shelley, and let me know if my suggestion has helped. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Mac and I have been married for three years, and we went together for two years before that. He's a terrific husband in every way, but something has come up lately that bothers me.

Mac plays softball three times a week. I always enjoyed going to the park to watch him play, but now that we have a baby, I can't go so often.

One night, Mac said, "I wish you wouldn't come to so many games. You make me nervous."

He says he plays lousy when I'm there. Abby, I've been watching him for years and he never played lousy, and I never made him nervous before.

I got to thinking that another guy on his team tells his wife to stay home because she makes him nervous, but everybody knows he likes to flirt with other girls, and if his wife's around, it cramps his style.

One of my friends says, "Maybe Mac just wants a night out with the boys." Another one said, "I'll bet he just wants to fool around." What do you think?

MAC'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Since Mac has to contend with an umpire during the game, he doesn't need another "ump" when it's over. His overall batting average as a husband is what counts.

Some "boys" like to mourn their defeats and celebrate their victories sans wives occasionally, so don't be too possessive or suspicious.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college graduate, and I only graduated from high school.

My problem is the way he is always putting me down in front of people, calling me a "dummy" and "stupid."

I worked in a factory so he could finish college. I have considered taking some courses at the local college, but if I start now, it will take me six years to get a degree, and in six years I will be 38!

PUT DOWN

DEAR PUT: And how old will you be in six years if you DON'T go to college? Start now!

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Center for Health Statistics says 48.1 per cent of 10 Americans aged 45 or older wear eyeglasses. Nearly 42 per cent of those 25 to 45 years old also use glasses.

Prisoner's Wives Helped By Program

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — When a prisoner is led from court to begin his prison term, freedom is not all he leaves behind. His wife and children face the same term outside bars.

To help them through this often critical period, the Connecticut Prison Association has created a "Woman in Crisis" program for the wives or girlfriends of prisoners from the Hartford area.

Pat Downs of New Britain, one of the pilot program's 10 volunteers, recently sat beside one of those wives in Hartford Superior Court as the woman's husband received a 7-to-15 year term.

"When they said the sentence, I could feel myself going into shock. It was so final," she recalled. "They said the sentence and he just walked away."

During the ensuing month, she counseled the woman, explaining routine things such as rules for prison visits and how prisoners' mail is handled. She has also been helping the woman through the mental strain and shock that came with her sudden responsibilities.

Enes Moran of Bloomfield, program director, is the widow of a man who served time at the state prison in Somers.

"For a woman it's a traumatic time and for kids it's an overwhelming experience," said the mother of three. "We need to consider the needs of women and children. They suffer the same stigma as the men but nobody seems concerned about that."

Initial contact with prisoners' wives and friends is usually made in court on sentencing day. Volunteers in the newly created program approach the women and explain what they can offer.

"The woman doesn't have to be legally married to the man. Any strong bond is recognized," Mrs. Moran said.

"We offer to take them on their first visit so they don't have to be by themselves," she added. "It's a major thing to go to the prison to see that man."

Volunteers also offer support when the prisoner is released and returns home to find a woman who perhaps has become more independent during his imprisonment. She may also be resentful about the disruption his prison term has caused in their lives.

"Woman in Crisis" grew from parallel efforts of Mrs. Moran and Margaret Worthington of Hartford, a Connecticut Prison Association member.

The program is funded by Trice, a project of Trinity College and the Hartford Graduate Center.

The association hopes some of the women who get help through the program will eventually train others, enabling the project to spread to other court districts in the state.

JUDY'S POT ROAST

It's made in a slow-cooker.

3-pound chuck beef for pot roast
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons dried dillweed
¼ cup dry red wine
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons flour blended with 3 tablespoons water

Rub a mixture of the salt, pepper and 1 teaspoon of the dillweed over the beef; place in an electric slow-cooker. Stir together the wine and vinegar and add. Cook, covered, on low until tender — about 9 hours. Remove beef. Pour hot meat juice in slow cooker — there will be a generous pintful — into a 10-inch skillet. Gradually stir sour cream into flour-water mixture, keeping smooth; stir into skillet with remaining dillweed; cook gently, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling. Slice meat thin (this is easiest to do if it is chilled); add to sauce and reheat. Serve with noodles. Makes 6 servings.

Don't drown potatoes in water when you are boiling them. You can use only a couple of cups of water for four medium-size spuds.

Interstate Across East Needed

For many years there has been the dream of a major dual laned and limited access highway across the extreme eastern part of the state.

The idea of dual laning U. S. 17 has been advanced for years, but little has been done by the planners and various political groups which have controlled such things in Raleigh.

And there has been the valid argument that limited access is the way to build major highways now and this could not be done without acquiring an entirely new right-of-way for U. S. 17.

While all this debate has been going on it has been entirely logical that a limited access route leading south from the Virginia Tidewater area was needed and feasible. But of course, all those people up there in Virginia don't vote in North Carolina elections and therefore their needs don't carry much weight in our state.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel was constructed in Virginia to connect the Norfolk area with the peninsula. It was hailed as one of the wonders of the world and marked the opening of a shorter route south from the north east. Alas, the bridge-tunnel quickly ran into financial troubles and one of the reasons was believed to be the lack of adequate highways to the south out of the Tidewater area.

A golden opportunity was missed in North Carolina when the interstate system of highways was being planned. An interstate link from Norfolk, across Eastern North Carolina to tie in with I-95 perhaps in the area of Fayetteville would have been ideal. Sadly Eastern North Carolina was considered a wasteland not worthy of such an investment when the Raleigh planners were at work on the interstate system. Once the interstate system was opened up for additional mileage and what little was available was quickly grabbed off for a link to Raleigh.

But the interstate link across Eastern North Carolina is still very much needed. It could follow almost a straight line from the Tidewater area by Elizabeth City, Edenton, Williamston, Greenville and Goldsboro to Fayetteville. There it would join I-95 and continue all the way to Florida.

The ignoring of Eastern North Carolina needs in the planning of the interstate system was deplorable. If there is any way to correct bad planning of the 1950s it should be done now. We would hope that the new administration which takes over in January, our congressmen and senators will look into the possibilities of including a limited access route from Norfolk to Fayetteville.

Price, Brand 'First'

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Americans are paying more attention to what goes into the food they eat these days, but supermarket shoppers still look for price and brand name before they check for ingredients or nutritional value.

That's one of the findings of a report by the consumer studies division of the Food and Drug Administration, which surveyed people in 1973 and again in 1975 to try to find out how much consumers know about food and nutrition.

Among the questions in the recently-released report was one asking people what they paid attention to when shopping for food.

Price was the item named most often. Almost three-fourths of those surveyed both in 1973 and 1975 said they looked at the cost of the item.

Brand name was second on the list, but it apparently is declining in importance. Fifty-eight per cent of those surveyed in 1973 and 54 per cent of those checked in 1975 said they paid attention to the brand name of a product.

The biggest change was in the number of people looking for some kind of date on the package — indicating either when the product was made or by when it should be used. Fifty-nine per cent of those questioned in 1975 said they paid attention to the date of manufacture or expiration, an increase of 16 percentage points from 1973.

Interest in nutritional value also increased. Only 27 per cent of those checked in 1973 said they looked for the calories, vitamins and minerals in a product; 41 per cent of the 1975 group said they paid attention to nutrition.

The number of people who paid attention to ingredient lists rose by five percentage points — from 42 per cent in 1973 to 47

Work On Collision Course

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — There is a growing mood of frustration and discontent at local levels of government in North Carolina at the increasingly difficult task of dealing with a "Raleigh bureaucracy."

It used to be Washington which felt the barbs. But as the federal government moved in the direction of "partnership" with the states, a network of state agencies has come into being and now forms a fearsome obstacle course for local officials.

Almost any area of local activity you can imagine is affected: water works, sewer expansions, health programs, welfare efforts, local programs for juvenile delinquents, land use plans, jails, law enforcement proposals...

And Idea

Typically, a local government comes up with what it figures to be a pretty good idea. A plan must be drawn. It goes through the mill locally — town board or county commission, manager's office, staff work.

Then the plan takes a course through the Lead Regional Organization (Council of Government) planning apparatus and some sidetrips to regional offices of whatever state agencies are involved.

Then, on to Raleigh where the state board or council or commission staff gives the idea a going over, and eventually the policy board takes a look.

North Carolina has her own set of "alphabet" blocks: LRO, HSA, COG, CAMA, CRC, LEA, and so on; a truly formidable counterpart to the federal propensity for proliferating inscrutability.

How many people know, for instance, that your local public schools are talked about in Raleigh as LEAs? The bureaucrats never say school; it's LEA. That means Local Educational Administration.

What it comes down to is this — local governmental officials who had once figured themselves an integral part of a traditional system of representative democracy are grumbling a great deal about our now having a government of "bureaucratic dictatorship" instead.

Except the urban, rich areas of the state, few local governments can afford the professional managers and planners essential to standing up against the state machinery.

No Match

Part-time officials handling a multitude of different tasks at home must go up against a phalanx of state planning expertise.

A "local" must run the gauntlet of professional, highly paid, well educated state planners and agency representatives who have all their working hours to read state and federal regulations and dream and scheme ways to do things.

That factor is then complicated by the submission of the local idea to a state board which often as not is dominated by state agency people who want their cut of the state or federal money being doled out, and can come up with acceptable plans or produce obscure rules which strike down the local plan.

A look at any number of specifies demonstrates the dilemma: local welfare officials are frustrated over getting a full cut of federal Title XX funds; a number of local sewer plans are down the drain because Clear Water funds were channeled elsewhere; several local juvenile programs have been scuttled for such reasons as the objection over one being for girls only, or another proposing to work with local children who were deemed to be the province of another state agency; particular road needs almost anywhere in the state frustrate by Raleigh.

Attend a meeting of the various bodies which make up the approval and money-funelling mechanisms, and the walls are lined with the state planners and agency people with reams of materials to back up their positions against the few sheets of paper in the local plan under discussion.

Local officials are beginning to compare notes and talk about the problems. The question may find its way to the General Assembly agenda in a year or so.

Not-So-Great Debates

There are times, honest to Pete, when you wonder if our glorious Republic deserves to survive. We approach such a pessimistic hour in the matter of the Ford-Carter debates.

Inevitably, these will be described as "great debates," and in one regrettable sense the description may fit. In a close contest between the two candidates, the November outcome may be greatly influenced by these televised bouts. Forensically speaking, the debates will be second-class entertainment. As orators, Ford and Carter have all the excitement of last week's left-over macaroni.

It involves our electoral process in a sorry confusion of values, to choose a president of the greatest nation in the free world as if we were so many Howard Cosells at a ringside. Will Carter score with his Watergate hook? Will Ford draw blood with his deficit jabs? Will Carter lose points on analyzing every stammer. This isn't a rational part of the political process. This is show biz; this is hoopla, a sporting event.

But it is too late to call the fights off now. Ford and Carter got themselves into these one-on-one matches in the finest tradition of American adolescence: The dare. The chip on the shoulder. The line drawn by a stubby toe in the sand. All around the candidates were bellicose companions urging them on: Let's you and him fight. Our people dearly love a bloodied nose.

Maybe that is what we will see. More likely, the debates will be a bore. In either event, we will be picking a winner for all the wrong reasons. Quick wit counts in a televised debat; but quick wit is immaterial in a chief executive. The TV audience doubtless will be impressed by the instant decisive response, but presidents ought not to respond to complicated questions with instant answers. I know how I would proclaim the winner. It would be the first man who looks the American people in the eye, through the TV lens, and has the guts to tell them: "I don't know."

Well, one hopes for the best. If the home audience will pay closer attention to what the combatants say, and less attention to how they say it, perhaps we will wind up with some net gain in public understanding. There are in fact sharp differences between Ford's positions and Carter's positions; the Republican and Democratic platforms provide clear contrasts on important issues. Substance should mean more than style — but it probably won't.

In sanctioning and broadcasting these ungreat debates, both the Federal Election Commission and the TV networks have encountered troublesome problems. No matter how the matter of cost is papered over, the broadcasting corporations will be making an immense financial contribution to the major party candidates. This is the kind of thing, in theory, that recent election reforms were intended to prevent.

One unfortunate consequence is that Eugene McCarthy, the only serious third-party candidate in the race, will be effectively frozen out. He gets no "equal time" or anything approaching equal time. The sponsoring League of Women Voters cannot be reasonably faulted for taking the view that under the usual rules of debate, two is company but three a crowd. Network

40 Years Ago Today

A communist call to 300,000 French workers to strike today for one hour to compel France to support the Spanish government in its civil war shut down the principal airplane and automobile factories in France.

The French communist newspaper, L'Humanite, strengthened its attack on the "blockade against the Spanish republic" and urged the metal workers to carry out their planned strike.

Premier Leon Blum earlier had refused to yield to pressure to revise his government's neutrality policy.

Ayden's Aces defeated the Kinston Eagles Saturday to win their first Coastal Plain League championship.

The score was 4-0, the first shut-out of the post-season finale. It was the seventh game of the series—Ayden had lost one and won three. The teams had battled to a tie twice.

Aces' pitcher Harry Brownlee was one of the big reasons for Kinston's downfall. He fanned 10 Eagles, held them to six scattered hits and drove in the first run for his teammates. He did not issue a single walk.

Carter's Miscalculations

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Deepening unease by Democratic politicians over Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign was intensified by two miscalculations resulting in his dismal meeting with the Catholic bishops.

Miscalculation No. 1: Carter strategists felt he could shift the Roman Catholic hierarchy's attention away from abortion and toward commonly held social welfare positions. In fact, the bishops discussed one topic: abortion.

Miscalculation No. 2: Carter strategists felt he could appease the hierarchy by making clear for the first time that he would not, as President, actively oppose an anti-abortion constitutional amendment. In fact, the bishops demanded nothing less than support of the amendment ("We could have told Carter that," commented an intimate of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has long been harried by the hierarchy for not supporting an anti-abortion amendment).

"I'm beginning to think Jimmy has a compulsion to lose the election," one distraught supporter told us. While not improving his status with the "pro-life" lobby, Carter managed to bury warm testimonials Tuesday from Kennedy and AFL-CIO president George Meany. Carter aides were rocked by the next morning's front page stories in the Boston Globe, the New York Times and other newspapers describing the candidate's difficulties with the Catholic leaders.

But the far greater self-damage from meeting the bishops was its furthering a public perception of Carter as just a shade too sly. Indeed, nothing is more destructive of Carter's old straightforward image than his broken-field running on abortion.

Ironically, Carter used that painfully emotional problem to aid his vital opening victory in Iowa's caucuses last January, enlisting pro-life support by giving the impression he might support a constitutional amendment. He ended that impression soon after Iowa, burning his bridges with the pro-life movement.

The issue would have remained dormant had it not been for the Carter campaign's sensitivity to criticism from the left. Fearing a feminist revolt at Madison Square Garden, Carter operatives abandoned their resolve to keep abortion out of the Democratic platform. Joseph Duffey, Carter's skilled agent at the platform deliberations, complained of being "maumaued" by the feminists but nevertheless helped negotiate a plank calling it "undesirable" to seek the anti-abortion amendment.

In New York, Carter acted as though he could live with that language. But the "undesirable" label generated unexpected outrage from pro-lifers. On Aug. 9, a month after the convention, Carter belatedly disavowed the abortion plank.

This proved insufficient because of Republican developments. Thanks to a pressure from Reaganite forces, President Ford was brought — kicking and screaming — into support of a Republican platform backing a constitutional amendment. Instantly, the pro-life lobby ended its previous coolness toward Mr. Ford and opened a withering barrage against Carter.

Lifeletter, an anti-abortion publication, on Aug. 23 used its kindest language ever about Mr. Ford and quoted from an obscure 1972 book foreword signed by Carter that could easily be interpreted as pro-abortion. Thus, the pro-life position on Carter had shifted from moderately favorable to neutral to extremely unfavorable.

Since he could not turn around in support of a constitutional amendment, what options were left for Carter? Experienced Democratic politicians believe he should have accepted the loss of single-issue abortion voters and kept the issue just as quiet as possible.

But Carter could not leave it alone. Apart from abortion, his strategists were worried that Catholic leaders interpreted "a series of little gaffes" (the description of a Carter operative) as the

The Southern Governors' Conference can become a needed force in the operation of state government. The Southern governors know how the people they represent feel on subjects which concern the states, and the local people are the best judges of state needs, even if the money comes through federal channels.

The conference has just concluded a meeting in Williamsburg, Va., and one of the most constructive moves taken was one you have not read much about and that is putting a "lid on federal spending."

U.S. Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr., who once argued against state's sovereignty in civil cases, told Southern governors Tuesday they should have more control over federal funds. This is true, but it will take influence and the enthusiasm of fighting for a just cause to get the money from the federal government.

Coleman criticizes Congress for stalling revenue sharing legislation that would send federal money to the states with few restrictions on its use.

The states should have independent sovereign powers. They can do a better job as the officials know the diverse needs of their people.

The states should have the final say-so in all but strictly federal areas of concern, such as national defense. If federal resources are provided, they should not come to the states in a tangle of red tape with a maze of undue strings attached, Coleman says.

What we are talking about it the principle advocated in Thomas Jefferson's first inaugural address — that the government is best which governs least.

This is true but also the governors are talking issues and business of the states and these representatives know better how to spend the money for the greatest good to the largest number.

There were many important and necessary issues acted upon. As the meetings become more meaningful, so will the results of the meetings. Just as city and county governments are run by the people, so the states should be responsible for the issues which are their responsibility.

Strength For Today

ADVERTISING RELIGION

A man in conversation with a friend once referred to the necessity of advertising religion. The friend was horrified. He said the idea was sacrilegious. Religion, he maintained, by its very nature is above such procedure.

But is it? The salesman speaks about the necessity of getting the buyer to sign on the dotted line. The Bible, with its emphasis upon the necessity of prompt decision, deals with the same thing. When our Lord preached, it was for the purpose of getting man to do something about sinful ways of living. Jesus did not hesitate, in a dignified way, advertise the benefits of righteousness and faith.

Sin is always very effectively advertised. The desire for everything it has to offer is established in our hearts at birth. The marketing of its commodities, therefore, is a comparatively simple matter.

It may be that if we advertised religion more, we could in large measure neutralize the effect of the advertising that sin seems continually to receive.

Labor Day Over; Now To Work

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It's all over folks, the reign of rest is now behind us, replaced by the dynasty of demand, of do-it-now-and-don't-dally.

Labor Day is done, and now we get down to brass tacks. No more loafing, except for a wistful sigh about how did it go so fast. This is the busy season.

All the business conferences that should have been spaced throughout the year are now crowded onto the calendar. Everyone is inviting everyone else to something or other. School begins. Politics get mean.

The car dealers announce the new fall models. The advertising departments plan their budgets. The new TV shows begin. Magazines get thicker. Middle management execs plan their big move up the corporate pyramid.

Baseball refuses to give up the calendar and football makes Xs all over it. The weather too gets busy and confused, chilling World Series fans and scorching those at the homecoming game.

Only the oldtimers can enjoy the Indian Summer laziness at the resorts, intentionally taking their vacations when others weren't avoiding the crowds, the confusion and the high costs.

But back at the office and plant it's all business. The memos sail from one department to another. Guilty for a summer of sailing and golf, the president directs a crisp demand to the chief financial officer, and that begins the chain that ends with you. Noses get closer to the desk.

It is a fearsome season of the unexpected. Urgent reminders the boss left unattended all summer suddenly become the subject of frantic demands that usually begin, "Whatever happened to ... " But you've forgotten, of course.

Your spouse calls. The children need new gym uniforms. Is there any money in the checking account? Of course there isn't: It was all spent during the summer. Yes, you'll do what you can at lunchtime, a loan or something.

By some savage rule or habit of human conduct, this is the time when the insurance agent may announce that your automobile bill will be a bit higher for the next year, say a couple of hundred dollars or so.

The bank calls. You actually forgot the July mortgage payment! No wonder you had that free-spending mood that comes when for no understandable reason you have a couple of hundred dollars more than you thought you had.

But this you can take, because during a summer evening of reflection on the rear terrace you and your spouse concluded that certainly you are worth a lot more money than you're getting, and that by golly you're going to get it.

But now that the time is really here the circumstances don't seem to be right.

No, this is a time when everything speeds up but the financial fuel. The company isn't doing as well as it should, says the boss, and we've all got to pitch in and get things moving again. It's time for work.

Ordinary Taxpayer Winning More Than He Loses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ordinary taxpayers are winning more benefits than they are losing as a Senate-House panel puts together a compromise tax-revision bill.

The final score may be known late this week, when members of the conference committee expect to finish the bill and send it to the House and Senate for one last vote.

Most issues concerning individual taxpayers were settled during the first seven days of the conference. Chief among these is a $15-billion-a-year tax-cut extension through Dec. 31, 1977.

Provisions generally affecting only taxpayers who earn more than $50,000 a year are the major points of contention remaining between the House and Senate conferees. There is some risk that if taxes on the rich are raised too sharply, the final bill could be in trouble in the Senate. But if too many tax shelters are left untouched, the measure could face rough going in the House.

Meanwhile, President Ford issued a statement Monday calling on Congress to approve a tax bill that meets the needs of all Americans.

"Unfortunately, Congress has become ensnarled in rewriting of detailed provisions of the tax code and has failed to recognize the broad interests of the country," Ford asserted.

Here is a summary of the conference committee's work.

PENDING

CHILD CARE — An expanded tax credit for child-care expenses is assured since such a provision was passed in both the House and Senate bills. The only question is how much bigger the credit will be.

The House and Senate bills agree that the current child-care deduction should be replaced with a tax credit, which will benefit even those families that do not itemize deductions.

The maximum credit — subtracted directly from taxes owed — would be $400 a year for the care of one child and $800 for two or more. The credit would apply even if one or both parents work only part-time.

SICK PAY — The House wants to eliminate the current law that allows tax-free treatment of up to $100 a week that is paid a sick worker by the employer, and replace it with a tax exemption of up to $5,200 a year for permanently and totally disabled retirees under age 65.

The Senate bill would keep sick pay for workers making $15,000 or less but phase it down between $15,000 and $20,000 and eliminate it above $20,000 income.

PENSIONS — Present law allows a worker who has no other pension plan to exempt from current taxes up to $1,500 a year to be set aside in an Individual Retirement Account (IRA). No tax is paid until the money is withdrawn at retirement.

The House voted to allow workers whose company pensions are inadequate to invest in an IRA on a limited basis. This would cost $502 million a year by 1981 and is not in the Senate bill.

APPROVED

HOUSEWIVES' PENSIONS — A worker who qualifies for an IRA could set aside an additional $250 a year for his spouse who does not work outside the home.

SIMPLIFICATION — To make taxpaying seem a little less complicated for 90 per cent of Americans, the bill would sharply reduce the number of tax-rate schedules and replace them with new tables that could be used by anyone with a taxable income up to $20,000.

RETIREMENT CREDIT — This highly complex provision would be replaced by a credit that would allow a person over 65 to subtract from taxes owed 15 per cent of the first $2,500 of annual income of any type. For a couple, the credit would be 15 per cent of up to $3,750.

BUSINESS IN HOME — The bill would make it more difficult for a person to reduce taxes by deducting a portion of the cost of maintaining a home on grounds it is sometime used in earning income.

Generally, the deduction would be available only if that portion of the home is used regularly and exclusively for business. An employe could get the benefit only if he uses his home for the convenience of his boss.

SALE OF HOME — A person 65 or older could exempt from taxes the first $35,000 of the selling price when he sells his home. The current tax-free limit is $20,000.

LEGAL SERVICES — Just as employers' current contributions to group medical-insurance plans are tax exempt as far as the employe is concerned, the bill would exempt payments to buy group legal-service plans for workers.

REJECTED TUITION—A Senate plan to allow an eventual tax credit of $250 a year for each student enrolled in college or vocational school was jettisoned at insistence of House conferees. Consideration of the $1.1-billion-a-year plan was promised for later this year, but prospects are doubtful.

ENERGY — Senate provisions aimed at helping Americans save energy were stripped off and later consideration was promised. The key provision would have allowed a credit of up to $225 for purchase of home insulation and storm windows.

GARDENING — A House-approved credit of up to $7 per family for purchase of garden tools was rejected.

editors fear that if they provide free time for a McCarthy solo, they will have to accommodate Lester Maddox also — and after old pick-handle, the deluge.

The British do these things better. They allocate public funds, in effect, for their candidates to use in campaign broadcasts. Each Labour and Conservative candidate is given five 10-minute slots on TV, plus four periods of 10 minutes and three of five minutes on British radio. Candidates of the minority Liberal party get about half as much time. The even smaller Scots Nationalists and Welsh get proportionately less.

Some adaptation of the British scheme might well be considered here. Such a system would get the networks off the hook; it would leave the actual use of broadcast time to the candidates' own best judgment; and it would deflate the kind of carnival midway promotion that now awaits us. That is for the future. This time around, let us brace ourselves for the buildup that precedes the letdown.

The FDA has been trying to learn what consumers think of nutritional labeling — now required for manufactarers who make a nutritional claim for their products — and whether shoppers actually will use the information. Some food industry officials claim there is not enough interest among the general public to justify the added costs.

Federal CD Funds To Go For Nuclear Attack

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is requiring states and localities to limit their use of federal civil defense funds to preparations for nuclear attack rather than for natural disasters such as floods, hurricanes and tornadoes.

The new requirement is a change in emphasis from the approach instituted in May 1972 by then-Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, which called for dual civil defense planning covering both natural disasters and nuclear attacks.

Although matching funds to state and local civil defense agencies will be limited beginning Oct. 1 to preparation for enemy nuclear attack, federally supported civil defense equipment and personnel can be used when natural disaster strikes.

The dual approach is being de-emphasized to cut costs, as indicated by the Ford administration's proposal earlier this year for a $71-million civil defense budget, down $21 million from fiscal 1976.

However, the new policy is not expected to bring a significant cut in the amount of federal money going to the states, cities and counties to support civil defense organizations because Congress turned aside the administration request and appropriated $82.5 million in the new year.

Congress also has allocated $29.6 million, the same amount as in fiscal 1976, for 50-50 matching of state and local funds for civil defense programs for the new 1977 fiscal year.

In addition to the $29.6 million to help pay salaries of some 6,000 state and local civil defense personnel, the civil defense agency has programmed nearly $10 million in matching funds for emergency operating centers, communications equipment and warning systems.

States and localities are expected to gear their disaster planning activity to the potential of enemy nuclear attack, with the knowledge that communication and warning facilities and personnel also can be used for peacetime rescue operations if natural disaster strikes.

"It is a matter of emphasis," one official said. "We are going to insist, as we must under the law, that our (federal) money be used for nuclear attack preparedness, and that benefits in natural disasters flow from that, rather than the other way around."

The civil defense program currently concentrates on "crisis relocation planning" for moving people from high-risk areas near military bases and cities that are prime targets for nuclear attack.

Another civil defense objective is to protect those persons who are not evacuated by providing "the best available shelter" where short warning time precludes relocation.

insensitivity of a Southern Baptist. A senior Carter aide declared in July that Archbishop Joseph Bernardin's opposition to the abortion plank was merely a personal view; in fact, Bernardin was speaking for the Conference of Catholic Bishops. In discussing Duffey's part in drafting the plank, Carter last month declared: "I think Joe Duffey happens to be a Catholic"; in fact, he is a former Congregationalist minister.

To mend Catholic fences, Carter sought last Tuesday's meeting with the bishops which finally clarified his position as follows: he is (1) opposed to abortion in principle, (2) will not support any constitutional amendment to curb abortion and (3) will not oppose any efforts to pass any amendment.

Such legerdemain has been integral to the remarkable Carter success story — in his 1970 campaign for governor and his brilliant campaign for the presidential nomination. But even staunch supporters believe the experience with the bishops shows the Carter formula is wearing thin and can only promote Gerald Ford's resurgency.

Charged In Two Killings

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — A Shelby man has been charged with murder in the Monday shooting deaths of a Lawndale couple, the Cleveland County Sheriff's Department said.

A department spokesman says Calvin Hector, 26, and his wife Betty, 24, were shot apparently as they left their home, but added that details were sketchy.

Charged with two counts of murder was Roger Hartgrove, 21, who was arrested by deputies as they searched the area around the Hector house. Hartgrove was being held in the county jail pending a hearing today.

The spokesman said Hector was shot as he sat in his pickup truck. Mrs. Hector hid near steps at the house and was still alive when authmrities arrived at the scene. The spokesman said she died while being taken to a hospital.

Authorities offered no motive for the shootings.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU SMELL GAS.

Call Greenville Utilities immediately. Anytime day or night. We'll get a serviceman to your home or location to correct the problem.

While you're waiting for him to get there, open a window, make sure you use no electrical switches. Extinguish any open flames and evacuate the area.

If you don't know what natural gas smells like, stop by our office and pick up a scratch and sniff leaflet.

Because even though natural gas contains no poisonous ingredients, a leak can become hazardous if combustible gas pockets are allowed to form. Which makes it important for you to know what natural gas smells like.

Davis Again Predicts Big N.C. Drive

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Angela Davis has predicted once again that North Carolina will be the scene of a massive organizing movement conducted by the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression.

She told a group of Labor Day demonstrators gathered around empty state office buildings that five paid organizers would be begin working today against "the reactionary forces in the state."

It was more than two years ago, on July 4, 1974, that the NAARPR held a mass march in Raleigh. Then, too, Ms. Davis predicted that a mass movement would result.

That march drew 10,000 people. A crowd estimated at 2,000 to 3,500 showed up Monday. Many were bused in from cities as far away as Buffalo and Detroit.

The sponsoring NAARPR is a front for groups ranging from the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom to the Communist party of the U.S.A., of which Ms. Davis is a member.

She said that North Carolina was chosen as the site for the march because it "leads the reactionary drive for the nation.

Ms. Davis and a number of other speakers frequently cited some of the statistical areas in which North Carolina leads the nation: lowest manufacturing wages, lowest rate of unionization, and highest per capita prison population.

Ms. Davis said North Carolina was a source of cheap labor for a "dictatorial ruling class—textile mill owners, tobacco czars and furniture magnates.

"They use propaganda, thuggery and coercion to place working people in such a depressed condition that workers here receive lower wages than anyone else."

She attacked the state's political leadership for allowing such things to happen, citing U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., for particular criticism.

Helms, she said, was the "heir apparent to the crazed Lester Maddox, the crippled George Wallace and the defeated Ronald Reagan, the white knight of the American right and a political Neanderthal."

She said the demonstration marked the start of a movement that would include in its goals the repeal of the state's right to work law, which prohibits contracts requiring workers to join unions.

"This is a truly historic event. It marks the beginning of a new era of earth-shaking mass struggle for justice."

The crowd was peaceful and friendly, even to the police officers who lined the route and took motion pictures of the marchers. Vendors hawked march T-shirts and buttons and one entrepreneur sold what appeared to be home-made "Angela Davis" pennants.

The marchers stopped once along their one-mile route to call for freedom for the Wilmington 10, a group of civil rights activists and young people who were convicted of arson and conspiracy to assault firemen during a race riot in Wilmington in 1971. They are all presently serving long prison sentences.

They made their plea outside the state's Executive Mansion, home of Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. But the governor was spending the Labor Day holiday at his home in Boone.

Other speakers included Georgia legislator Julian Bond. He said that the civil rights movements of the 1950s and 1960s have given way to a new struggle.

The new struggle, he said, was political and economic, and its goals include such things as universal free health care and public ownership of utilities.

One black who pointedly did not attend was ex-Chapel Hill mayor Howard Lee, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor in the September 14 runoff primary. Lee said the march would be counterproductive.

LABOR DAY MARCH IN RALEIGH— Throngs of sign-carrying marchers parade beside the state Capitol Monday in support of a Labor Day rally against racist and political oppression. Many of the signs and banners called for freedom for the Wilmington 10, a group imprisoned after being convicted for violent actions during a Wilmington, N.C. racial disturbance. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Victims Of Stabbing

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.C. (AP) — "This is the most brutal murder I've seen since I have been sheriff in Bladen County and I've been sheriff for 30 years," Sheriff John B. Allen said Monday.

Allen was investigating the stabbing and bludgeoning deaths of an elderly Bladen County woman and her daughter.

The bodies of Mrs. Josephine Davis, 74, and Miss Ailene Davis, 53, were discovered by a second daughter, Mrs. Omega Hale, in the living room of their farmhouse, two miles north of here.

Allen said their throats had been cut and their bodies mutilated beyond recognition. Their dresses had been pulled up to their necks, but Dr. Ralph F. Meinhardt, county medical examiner, suid a preliminary examination showed no evidence of sexual assault.

The women had been dead about 12 hours when they were discovered, Allen said, adding that a prison escapee was being sought in the killings.

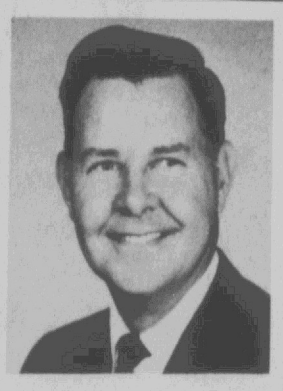
The origin of the term "Uncle Sam" is usually associated with a businessman from Troy, N.Y., Samuel Wilson. He supplied the army with barrels of beef during the War of 1812.

Annual Swim By 75-Year-Old

HOOD RIVER, Ore. (AP) — Roy Webster celebrated his 75th birthday several months late this year, as he planned, by participating in the 11th annualLabor Day cross channel swim of the Columbia River.

Webster was the oldest of 159 swimmers who completed the chilly, mile-long crossing from the Washington to the Oregon side of the river. It was the 34th year he had swum the river.

Webster, a retired orchardist, said the water this year was the "coldest eger." He said he intended to make the swim again next year.



To The Voters Of Pitt And Greene Counties:

I, indeed appreciate your vote of confidence on August 17th. Your health, the education of your children, and your general welfare will continue to be my concern as your representative in the General Assembly.

Many thanks,

Amanda Blake Again 'Madam'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was high noon. Amanda Blake, who ran the Long Branch saloon on "Gunsmoke" for 19 years, leaned on the bar at the Old West parlor in Stage 29 and watched the cowboys and ladies chat.

The ladies wore only knickers. Apparently the laundry was late. A brief fight broke out. Then a cowboy and a lady went upstairs to play whist or something. Then the director said rehearsal was over.

And the blonde actress millions know as warm-hearted, straight-talking "Miss Kitty" repaired to her dressing room to explain how it comes to pass she is playing "Cattle Sally," a bawdyhouse operator.

"It just happened," grinned Miss Blake, whose work will be seen this season in one episode of "The Quest," NBC's new Western series.

"When they called about the part, I about had a fit. They said she's a madam and I said" — her voice rose half an octave for emphasis — "'No! I've done that number.' They said, 'Cool it, wait a minute, it's not really that kind of thing at all.'

"They sent the script over and I read it and really liked it," said Miss Blake, who isn't playing an ordinary madam. Her madam is battling on the side of frontier sodbusters against wicked cattle barons.

The madam has a cause, whereas Miss Kitty "didn't really have a cause per se," said the actress who left the Long Branch a year before CBS blew "Gunsmoke" away. "She was just part of the family.

"But this lady is a crusader and I suspect the ERA (Equal Rights Amendment) people will just love her to death."

Miss Blake, a friendly, good-humored, often wry woman, is a bit of a crusader herself back in Phoenix, Ariz., where she lives with Frank Gilbert, her businessman husband.

She works on behalf of ecology and animal conservation, the latter as a national board member of the Humane Society.

In fact, when interviewed, she was tending a thin, hungry, battered cat of Persian extraction she'd found wandering just outside her dressing room. Odds were he would join the seven other cats she has back home.

The "Quest" job is only her second TV role since leaving "Gunsmoke." The first, done in 1974 just after she left Marshal Dillon, had her playing a rich, lonely widow in a modern murder mystery.

Her Cattle Sally part is similar to Miss Kitty, but it's much more explicit. Miss Kitty's saloon ladies were painted, but whether they partied was deliberately left unclear under orders from the censor.

"We didn't have as much leeway at the Long Branch as they're taking on this show," Miss Blake observed. "Then, we were on early in the evening when the kiddies were all up and around. Not so here."

Oddly enough, she said, she wasn't offered Miss Kitty jobs after leaving "Gunsmoke." She was offered other kinds of roles, including one as headmistress of a girl's boarding school.

She was asked if that's how she wants things to continue after she finishes work at Cattle Sally's particular boarding school.

"Well, yeah," she drawled, a twinkle in her eye. "I'll be very careful about the types of madams I play in the future."

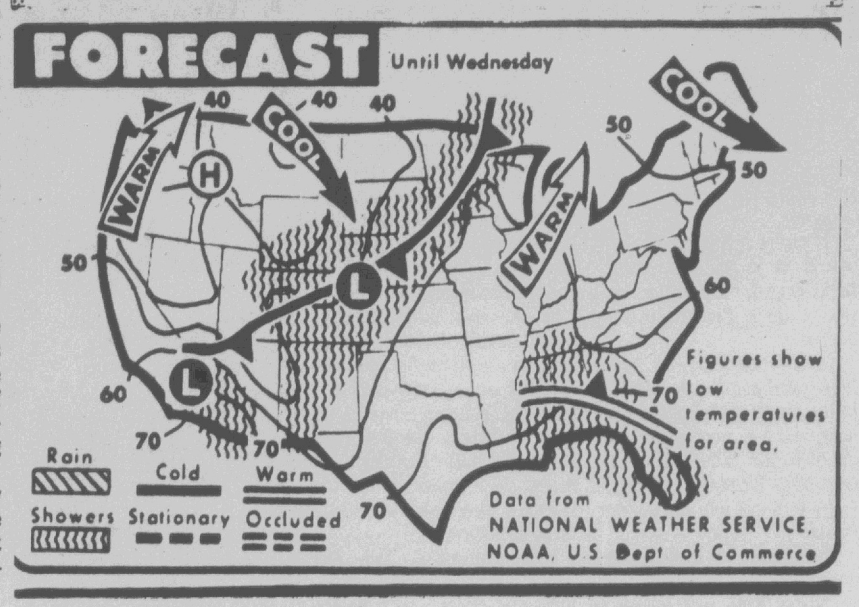
How's The Weather?



WEATHER FORECAST — Cooler weather is due today for the nothern Plains and along the Atlantic Coast. Most of the country will be warm. Showers are forecast from the Southwest to the upper Great Lakes and for the Southeast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press

A large, cool high pressure system centered over western Pennsylvania spread into the state today. It followed a cold front that passed through Monday morning. As a result of the high, Monday was a near perfect day in most sections.

Cooler, drier air moved in behind the front on northeast winds. Clouds accompanying the front thinned out by mid-afternoon in the northern portion, but lingered in the southern coastal plain area. Lingering clouds and spotty, light early morning showers were noted. Temperatures climbed to the upper 70s and low 80s with low humidity. Readings fell slowly during the evening.

As high pressure continued to move slowly southeast today, it held a rain area just to the south of the state. Northern counties had ample sun today through high thin clouds. Southern counties had more clouds as evidence of the rain to the south.

Temperatures tomorrow will climb with more sunshine into the low and mid 80s except 70s in the mountains.

Jeff Carter Met Press

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Jeff Carter, the 22-year-old son of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, says some marijuana laws are too strict and authorities should be "more lenient" about enforcing them.

The young Carter, in south Alabama for Labor Day festivities, confirmed that he had smoked marijuana but said he wouldn't recommend it to anyone.

His mother, Rosalynn, recently said her three sons had tried the drug, but they do not currently smoke it. The candidate's young son jokingly told a news conference, "I don't know why she said it. I kind of wish she hadn't."

If his father is elected president, Carter said, "I think he'll try to decriminalize marijuana."

Also at the wide-ranging news conference, the young Carter told reporters "I think we can hold our own" in the upcoming debates between Carter and President Ford.

The college student said his father had told the League of Women Voters that he would not oppose the entrance of independent presidential candidates Eugene McCarthy and Lester Maddox into the debates.

Rape Charge Is Retracted

CARTHAGE, N.C. (AP) — An investigation into allegations by a 16-year-old girl against a Moore County jailer has ended without turning up any evidence against the jailer, Moore County Sheriff C.G. Wimberly said Monday.

The girl, from Southern Pines, told a reporter she was raped last week while being held as a runaway in the jail. But Wimberly said Monday that girl told investigators she was not raped, and he said she also said she would not testify in court.

Wimberly said an investigation by his office and the State Bureau of Investigation had not found any evidence against jailer Roy Burt Moore, 62. Moore, who has denied all accusations made by the girl, was hospitalized last week suffering from what Wimberly described as chest pains.

A spokesman for Moore Memorial Hospital said Moore was released Monday.

Wimberly, in his first official comment on the accusations, quoted the girl as saying Moore entered her cell about 1 a.m. Tuesday and woke her.

The girl told investigators Moore's trousers were partially down his legs, Wimberly said.

"She stated she hit him in the stomach," said Wimberly, who then quoted the girl as saying, "I saw him pull up his trousers and he left the cell."

Wimberly emphasized that the girl said she would not testify in court.

The findings of the investigation were to be turned over to Dist. Atty. Carroll Lowder, Wimberly said.

The sheriff said he planned no further action and that Moore was "welcome" to return to duty if his health permits.

Opening lead: Jack of ◇.

Have you ever noticed how "lucky" good players often are? There is no question that South was fortunate to make his slam contract on this hand, but give him credit for spotting the line which gave him a chance.

North-South bid well to reach a good slam. North was not quite strong enough to respond at the two-level, so he contented himself with a simple raise of his partner's suit. When South showed a hand that was better than minimum by bidding a new suit at the three-level, North confirmed that he was maximum for his first effort by cue-bidding his ace. South decided that the combined hands should offer a play for slam, so he wasted no time in getting there.

West's lead of the jack of diamonds got the defense off to their best start. Dummy's queen was covered by the king and ace, and the ace and king of trumps revealed the bad news that there was a trump loser in the hand.

There were diamonds losers to worry about, and the club suit was the only source of discards. Without further ado, declarer cashed the king of clubs and then finessed the ten! When this held, declarer simply continued high clubs. West could ruff the fifth club, but by that time declarer had been able to shed his three remaining diamonds, so his only loser was the queen of trumps.

It might seem that declarer's decision to finesse the ten of clubs on the second round was unnecessarily risky, and that declarer was lucky to get away with it. Not so—it was the key to the success of his plan. The contract would fail if clubs were 3-3, since West would be able to ruff the fourth round before declarer could get rid of his last diamond.

For the slam to come home, it was essential that West have exactly four clubs. Since that would leave East with only two cards in the suit, West was a strong favorite to hold the jack, so finessing the ten was the percentage play.

Connors Will Meet Jan Kodes

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — They're starting to play serious tennis at the U.S. Open and that's fine with Jimmy Connors.

"If you're going to beat me it has to be in the first round," said Connors. "That's the way I feel. I think I'm the man to beat now."

No one beat Connors in the first round and no one beat him in the fourth round either. Connors, strong and aggressive, overpowered 12th-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis Monday night 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 to move into the quarterfinals.

The straight-set loss capped a bad day for the Gerulaitis family. Sister Ruta was beaten in the afternoon in singles and the two of them were eliminated from the mixed doubles competition.

Connors' opponent in the quarters will be Czechoslovakian strongman Jan Kodes, who outlasted South African veteran Frew McMillan 6-4, 7-6, 2-6, 7-6 in an afternoon match.

Third-seeded Guillermo Vilas and ninth-seeded Eddie Dibbs advanced to a quarter-final showdown with straight-set victories. Vilas dispatched Teimuras Kakulia of the Soviet Union 7-5, 6-4, 6-0 and Dibbs wore out Rhodesia's Colin Dowdeswell 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Both Vilas and Dibbs are clay-court specialists who prefer to stay in the backcourt. Their match could last forever.

"We have long matches," said Dibbs. "We both play the same so it will just depend on who's playing better that day. I'm pleased with my game. I just have to crack through in one of these big tournaments."

In women's play Monday, second-seeded Evonne Goolagong had to share the spotlight with 18-year-old Natasha Chmyreva, the budding Soviet star. Miss Chmyreva, seeded 13th, eliminated Kathy Kuykendall 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 to make it into the quarters where she will likely face Chris Evert.

Miss Chmyreva, tall and pretty with long reddish-blonde hair, said she hopes to be the best woman player in the world, or close to it, some day. "Tennis is my own job and you can do your job good or bad. I chose to do it good. I put pressure on myself."

Miss Goolagong is not concerned with pressure. "When I'm playing well I want to win," she said after whipping France's Francoise Durr 6-2, 6-0, "But when I'm not playing I don't think about it."

The only other singles matches were third-round contests with Mima Jausovec, the 20-year-old Yugoslavian who ousted Virginia Wade, beating Miss Gerulaitis 6-4, 6-2, and Zenda Liess downing Mary Hamm 6-4, 6-2.

More Than 120 Given Gate By Grid Teams

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It has happened so many times before: an assistant coach or an equipment man walks over to a player and says the fatal words, or merely points to the door of the head coach's office. No more needs be said; it's over.

Quarterback Jim Del Gaizo wasn't pleased when he got the news from the Miami Dolphins, nor were Dallas running backs Ron Johnson and Duane Thomas, who found their comeback hopes submerged under a heavy rush of National Football League cuts. Big names and small, stars and non-stars were among the more than 120 victims on cutdown day.

Del Gaizo, contributing 25 completions in 40 attempts for 372 yards and three touchdowns to Miami's unbeaten preseason, was bitter. "I know this," he said, "there's no way this team would be 6-0 without me." His reward, he added, was a kick in the pants.

But there were many who joined him on the sidelines Monday as rosters were pared to their 43-man limit. Pittsburgh trimmed quarterback Terry Hanratty; Los Angeles dropped wide receiver Jack Snow; Washington waived defensive end John Matuszak; San Diego sacrificed kicker Bruce Gossett, and Minnesota did likewise with veteran running backs Dave Osborn and Oscar Reed and defensive back Pete Athas. The New York Jets dropped backup quarterback J.J. Jones.

Thomas, known in the past for moodiness, had come to the Cowboys' camp with a new image and hopes of earning a job on the team with which he started his career six years ago. Johnson, who played out the option year of his contract with the New York Giants last season and signed with Dallas, twice has gained over 1,000 yards in a season.

In some cases, there were words of regret by the people who made the moves. "It's a sports tragedy when a player of Jack Snow's caliber is released," said Rams General Manager Don Klosterman, who called the 33-year-old Snow "a brilliant receiver in the tradition of Elroy Hirsch and Tom Fears."

There is no way the St. Louis Cardinals can get defensive end Walt Patulski back for this season. He and four teammates were placed on the injured reserve list for the campaign.

The New England Patriots picked up wide receiver Marlin Briscoe from Detroit in exchange for a future draft choice. San Diego acquired placekicker Toni Fritsch from Dallas through the same route, then cut wide receiver Dwight McDonald and safety Maurice Tyler.

In other major moves, Kansas City cut veteran defensive back Jim Marsalis; Detroit dealt quarterback Bill Munson to Seattle for a draft choice; Chicago cut former All-Pro wide receive Bob Grim, and the Giants cut backup quarterback David Jaynes and kicker George Hunt.

Players Want Coach To Return

By JIM WANNAMKER
Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ted Marchibroda, who quit as coach of the Baltimore Colts two days ago because of what he termed front-office interference, has been rehired for the post, the National Football League club announced today.

Lydell Mitchell added, "We think Ted is a great coach and we want him back."

The players discussed a possible boycott at two meetings Monday but quarterback Bert Jones, who served as a spokesman for them, admitted that most couldn't afford to stop playing — even if they were not bound by contracts.

Marchibroda was Coach of the Year in the National Football League last year after he led the Colts — 2-12 the year before — to a 10-4 mark and a division championship.

The 45-year-old Franklin, Pa., native announced his resignation Sunday night after failing to get a promise of an end to the bickering that he said existed between him and the Colts' management for several months.

"Any coach, in order to lead his men, must have the authority to call the shots. I couldn't tolerate the interference I was getting," Marchibroda said.

He is expected to demand at least a hands-off policy before coming back and granting it would mean a loss of face for general manager Joe Thomas and owner Robert Irsay. Thomas and Irsay, who's due to fly in here today, were unavailable for comment.

Irsay stormed into the Colts' locker room after their 24-9 loss to Detroit Thursday night and berated the players and coaches.

The owner said the next day that he wanted Marchibroda to stay on with the Colts but by then the coach had raised the issue of what he said was growing front office interference.

Marchibroda's resignation shocked fans and demoralized the team, which was preparing to open the season at New England Sunday. "I can't even tell them who to list in the program as coach," moaned public relations director Barry Jones.

Two of the club's six assistant coaches were reported to have told Thomas that they would resign if Marchibroda didn't return. According to the Baltimore Sun, one of the two was offered Marchibroda's job and turned it down.

Tar Heels Get First Honors

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Two University of North Carolina football players have swept the Atlantic Coast Conference offensive and defensive player of the week honors.

Wingback Mel Collins, who piled up 243 yards in total offense and scored both touchdowns in UNC's 14-10 upset of Miami University, received the offensive player award.

Middle guard Roger Shonosky was recognized as the outstanding defensive player after he was involved in 21 tackles against Miami.

The awards were announced here Monday by a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

Collins, a 5-foot-8, 172-pound junior from Fairfax, Va., carried the ball four times for 99 yards, including a 69-yard surprise play that gave the Tar Heels a 7-3 lead in the season opening game. Collins also returned four punts for 92 yards and caught five passes for 52 yards.

Shonosky, a 230-pound senior from Norwich, N.Y., was cited by Tar Heel Coach Bill Dooley as the ringleader of a UNC defense "which played well against a good, good football team."

In addition to his 14 solo tackles and seven assists, Shonosky blocked a third-quarter Miami field goal attempt and forced a second quarter fumble, which UNC recovered.

Others considered for the offensive award were tackle Tommy Burkett and guard John Rushing, both of UNC, and Wake Forest center Lurry Tearry.

Shonsky received the defensive award over end Dave LaCrosse and nose guard James Parker, both of Wake Forest, UNC defensive back Russ Conley and N.C. State defensive back Richard Carter.

Petty Inks New Pact

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Richard Petty, who has won more stock car races than any other driver, has signed his sixth consecutive contract with STP Corp., making it the longest major driver-sponsor contract in the history of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR).

The announcement was made Monday by Craig A. Nalen, STP board chairman, prior to the start of the 27th annual Southern 500 Grand National race.

It had been speculated that the 39-year-old Randleman, N.C., native would retire at the end of this season, ending a career that began in 1958.

Petty has won 178 of 693 Grand National races and is the only driver ever to win six Grand National driving championships. He also is NASCAR's first multimillion dollar winner, having earned $2.2 million prior to Monday's race.

"Our company has raced with leading drivers in almost every nation in the world where motorsports is an important activity," said Nalen. "Our cars have won championships in virtually every country where we've raced. But Richard Petty's accomplishments on and off the speedway are unmatched. We are indeed proud to have him on our team again in 1977."

Pre-Season Records Not That Important

By The Associated Press

The records show that the Los Angeles Rams and Miami Dolphins finished the National Football League preseason with 6-0 records, and that the Philadelphia Eagles and Houston Oilers finished with exactly the reverse. But now-departed Miami quarterback Jim Del Gaizo put the statistics in perspective.

"I guess the record and 15 cents will get me a cup of coffee," he said Monday after the NFL had completed its final week of preseason play and he had been placed on non-recall waivers.

"Sure I'm disappointed about not winning any preseason games," added Oilers Coach Bum Phillips, "but the season starts next week and that's what is important."

The Dolphins closed their exhibition campaign with a 20-7 triumph over the New Orleans Saints Saturday night, with Bob Griese and 42-year-old Earl Morrall doing the signal calling.

The Rams trimmed San Francisco 10-3 to keep their perfect record intact, with defensive back Monte Jackson scoring the only Los Angeles touchdown and intercepting a fourth-quarter pass to break up a 49ers drive.

In the other Saturday night games, Dallas topped Houston 26-20 in overtime; Cincinnati downed Tampa Bay 24-13; Pittsburgh clubbed the New York Jets 41-6; Oakland beat Seattle 45-28, and San Diego trimmed the New York Giants 14-13.

Sunday, New England handed Philadelphia its sixth loss, 20-7 and Denver clipped Minnesota 30-17. Friday night, Buffalo bested Cleveland 28-10; Chicago nipped Washington 9-7; Atlanta outscored Green Bay 27-6 and St. Louis downed Kansas City 31-14.

Second-period scoring runs by Don Calhoun and Ike Forte lifted the Patriots, 3-3, over the Eagles, 0-6.

Denver, 5-2, turned two solid defensive plays into touchdowns in besting Minnesota, 3-3. Rookie Lonnie Perrin blocked a Vikings punt, recovered the ball on the Minnesota 29 and ran in for the score in the fourth quarter. Then Randy Gradishar ran 87-yards with a tipped pass to ice the cake.

The Cowboys, 3-3, came back from a 20-3 deficit and managed to win in overtime after Houston's Skip Butler missed a 28-yard field goal which would have won it for the Oilers with two seconds left in regulation. Dallas running back Scott Laidlaw scored three touchdowns, the last a 10-yard burst which won it.

Terry Bradshaw threw two scoring passes while his Pittsburgh defense sacked Jets quarterback Joe Namath six times as the Steelers, 5-2, crushed New York, 1-5.

Ken Stabler had three touchdown passes for Oakland as the Raiders, 5-1, bested the Seahawks, 1-5.

Two touchdown receptions by Charlie Joiner lifted San Diego, 3-3, over the Giants, 4-2.

John Reaves threw three scoring passes in Cincinnati's triumph over Tampa Bay, 1-5. The Bengals finished 4-2.

Bucs Name Captains

Game captains were picked for Saturday's opening football game by the East Carolina University Pirates yesterday.

Tim Hightower will head up the offensive unit, while Cary Godette will lead the defense. Greg Pingston was named to lead the specialty units.

Monday's practice sessions were termed "routine" by the coaching staff, but Coach Pat Dye said, "Things are still not where we want them to be."

The Pirates open the season Saturday at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium, hosting tough Southern Mississippi.

Mike Wooles got better each day and came away with the championship of the W.S. Moye Memorial Tournament at Greenville Golf and Country Club yesterday.

The three-day tournament started on Saturday and covered 54 holes.

Wooles opened with a 75, then carded a 74 on Sunday and a 73 on Monday for a total of 222. That gave him an eight-shot advantage over second place finisher, Vance Taylor. Taylor carded 74-78-78—230.

Third place resulted in a tie between Ercell Webb and Chico Clark, each with 232.

Joe Murad took first place in the first flight with 72-76-80—228, while Dan Wooten was second with 79-83-80—242.

Victory No Different For Dave Even When It's The First One

By RICHARD O. WATERS
Associated Press Writer

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — David Pearson, the graying 41-year-old grandfather from Spartanburg, says he couldn't tell any difference in winning his first Southern 500 stock car race Monday than winning any other race here.

"It seems like one of the Rebels to me," he said, referring to his six victories in the spring event over the 1.366-mile Darlington Raceway.

Asked how it felt to become the second "triple crown" winner in NASCAR history, Pearson said he didn't know such a title existed until a sports writer mentioned it to him last week.

The only other driver to win the Southern, the World 600 and the Daytona 500 in the same year is Lee Roy Yarbrough, now retired, who won the three prestigious races in 1969. In fact, the record book shows that Richard Petty is the only other driver to score victories at those tracks but not in the same year.

"It didn't bother me that I hadn't won this race until about 50 laps to go when I happened to say 'well, it is the Southern'."

Petty, winless here since 1967, finished second 2.85 seconds behind Pearson's Mercury. The Dodge driver passed Darrell Waltrip's Chevrolet on the fourth turn of the last lap.

Waltrip was third, with Dave Marcis' Dodge fourth and Lennie Pond's Chevrolet fifth, two laps down.

Pearson said Waltrip and Petty gave him trouble and both were running strong during the final 56 miles of the 500-mile race. "Petty was running strong when I saw him hit the wall. It must have knocked his front end out a little bit because he was running a lot stronger before," Pearson said.

Pearson started from the pole but remained in the top 10 cars for most of the race. He led four times for a total of 93 of the 367 laps, including the last 45. It was his ninth victory in 16 starts this season.

Jimmy Carter, Democratic presidential nominee, and Republican vice presidential nominee Robert Dole participated in the prerace ceremonies. Carter told the crowd, estimated at 60,000, that he had been a race fan for 25 years and had gotten to know many of the drivers at dinners he held before the Atlanta 500 while he was governor of Georgia.

Dole admitted that he was more of a race fan "today than yesterday." Carter and Dole left shortly after the race began.

Pearson, who qualified for the pole with a record-breaking speed of 154.699 miles per hour, averaged 120.534 m.p.h. during the four-hour and nine-minute race because of eight caution flags.

The biggest delay came when Joe Frasson's Chevrolet plowed into the side of Skip Manning's car, trapping the Bogalusa, La., driver in his car for about half an hour.

Doctors said Manning suffered an injured ankle but had no broken bones. He was hospitalized for observation. Frasson was given first aid at the track hospital.

Manning was the leader in the point race for rookie of the year going into the Labor Day classic.

Frasson said Manning got sideways in front of him. "I guess we were running pretty close to racing speed, maybe 125-130 m.p.h.," Frasson said.

"I caught him right in the driver's door. I hit him so hard, it tore my helmet right off my head and broke my shoulder straps. I'm sore all over."

Petty, who led for 32 laps, brushed the wall three times. "The last time I hit the wall, down there on No. 4 towards the end, I figured that was the key to the race as far as I was concerned. I know it made me real mad because I did it myself," said Petty.

Wrecks sidelined three of the early leaders. Donnie Allison wrecked on lap 166, Buddy Baker was involved in a collision on lap 179 and Cale Yarborough hit the pit row wall while making a dash for the lead on lap 170. Yarborough, after losing more than 30 laps, returned to the race to finish 23rd.

Schedule Might Halt Runaway By Oakland

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — The schedule could be the great equalizer — or at least prevent another runaway by the Oakland Raiders — in the American Football Conference West.

Several preseason injuries, along with personnel changes which included the forced retirement of 48-year-old kicker George Blanda two weeks ago, don't figure to slow the Raiders down that much as they go for their ninth division title in 10 years. They've always had good depth.

"But this year, we're getting to the depth sooner than I like," said Coach John Madden, who sends the Raiders against the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers in the most attractive matchup of the National Football League's opening weekend of games.

Fullback Marv Hubbard, defensive end Horace Jones and offensive lineman Henry Lawrence all huve suffered injuries which will keep them out of games at least through October. They'll miss a lot of travel.

After facing the Steelers Sept. 12 in the Oakland Coliseum, the Raiders play five straight road games including three against their AFC West rivals, the Kansas City Chiefs, San Diego Chargers and Denver Broncos.

John Ralston's Broncos play their fourth home game of the year Oct. 17 against Oakland, which finished 11-3 last year to runnerup Denver's 6-8. Another scheduling factor is that when expansion caused changes, the Broncos lost the strong Los Angeles Rams as 1976 opponents while the Raiders lost the weaker New Orleans Saints.

One of the NFL's newest teams, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers coached by John McKay, will be listed in the AFC West standinvs but they won't be playing the usual home-and-home series.

McKay traded with the San Francisco 49ers for Steve Spurrier, the former Heisman Trophy winner from Florida who has thrown more NFL passes than the quarterbacks running the Denver, San Diego and Kansas City offenses.

Steve Ramsey takes over for the reticed Charley Johnson as Denver's No. 1 quarterback, hoping running back Otis Armstronv can return to his 1,407-yard form of 1974, after sitting out last season, and that the offensive line stays healthy.

Len Dawson, 41, is an NFL television sportcaster now and Mike Livingston and Tony Adams are battling for the Chiefs' quarterback job. Dan Fouts, starting his fourth pro season, is No. 1 at San Diego backed up by newcomer Neal Jeffrey who hus had some sensational summer performances.

Oakland's Ken Stabler has been one of the NFL's top passers the past three years and has two of the most dangerous receivers in the game, Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch. Stabler also has had knee problems, such as on the day in Kansas City last season when the Raiders fell 42-10 to the Chiefs.

Bob Moore, starting Oakland tight end for three years, was left unprotected in the expansion draft and is now one of Spurrier's recievers. But former San Francisco 49er Ted Kwalick, third-year player Dave Casper and versatile veteran Warren Bankston are still available.

"We have three good tight ends and we'll use all three," says Madden, adding that all three will be on the field at the same time in some situations.

The Raider's top college draft choice in the off season was Charles Philyaw, a 270-pound defensive lineman who may see more action than expected because of injuries to Jones, Kelvin Korver and Tony Cline. But fifth-round pick Fred Steinfort from Boston College is getting more attention, since he's in the placekicking job which Blanda handled, often spectacularly, for nine years.

Oklahoma's Leroy Selmon, the top college lineman of 1975, and his brother Dewey figure in Tampa Bay's defensive plans. Their Sooner teammate Jimbo Elrod is being groomed at Kansas City to take over for middle linebacker Willie Lanier.

But one of college football's flashiest runners, Joe Washington from Oklahoma, may miss his rookie season with San Diego because of knee surgery. Until he was hurt last month, Washington was playing tailback alongside Charger's Don Woods.

"Joe Washington can do everything," said Woods, who gained more than 1,000 yards as a rookie tailback in 1974, missed most of last season because of injury and was switched to fullback this summer.

"So far, he looks like he's been running at fullback all his life," said Coach Tommy Prothro, who has acquired former Miami Dolphin Mercury Morris since losing Washington.

Several people around the NFL, including Oakland's Madden, are saying the Chargers should be one of the league's most improved teams this year because of promising young players like Woods, linebackers Dan Goode and Charles Anthony and defensive lineman Garry Johnson and Fred Dean.

Of course, it won't take much to show improvement after finishing 2-12.

Kansas City, 5-9 last year, figures to go with a bunch of rookies this year. Top draft choice Rod Walters from Iowa is an offensive guard candidate, and Coach Paul Wiggin likes the looks of defensive line rookies Keith Simons and James Wolf.

Denver is the most experienced team in the AFC West, behind Oakland, and Ralston has added former Dolphin running back Jim Kiick as insurance for the running attack which suffered so greatly last season when Armstrong and several lineman went out with injuries.

Looking at the Chargers, Chiefs and Broncos from his view at the top, Raiders Coach Madden said, "They've all improved, and every year they give tough games away."

5 SERIES HOMERS HIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee manager Billy Martin never was much of a slugger. He hit 64 home runs during 1,021 major league games. But he starred at bat in four of the five World Series he played with the Yankees between 1951 and 1956.

Martin's bases loaded homer helped the Yankees win the second game 7-1 in 1952. The next year his first of two homers tied the score at 1-1 in the seventh of game 4 against Preacher Roe. Mickey Mantle's two-run homer won the game 4-2. In game 5 in 1953, Martin's seventh-inning homer drove in runs 8 and 9 in 11 to 7 win, again over the Brooklyn Dodgers. In 1955, when the Dodgers beat the Yankees, Martin hit safely in six games of seven games and batted .320. In Martin's final Series as a Yankee player in 1956 he hit two homers and batted .296 against Brooklyn.

Martin homered in the first game when Sal Maglie beat Whitey Ford and the Yankees 6-3. And he homered off Roger Craig in game 3 when Ford won 5-3.

Oakland Swipes Stealing Mark As They Continue Closing Race

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Not all of the Oakland A's are running away from owner Charlie Finley. The green-and-gold clad gladiators are running at a record pace and making a race of the American League West Division.

Winners of five straight division championships, the A's have been running ever since Finley brought up a player whose only function was as a pinch runner.

Since then, pitcher Catfish Hunter has run to the New York Yankees, slugger Reggie Jackson has run to the Baltimore Orioles and several other players say they have shoes, will travel once the season ends.

Monday night, however, the A's were running in circles, something they have been doing consistently this season. Oakland swiped seven bases in their 11-inning 2-1 victory over the California Angels to run their season total to 297. That crumbles the old American League mark of 288 set by the 1913 Washington Senators. The National League record is 347 set by the 1911 New York Giants.

The victory moved Oakland to within six games of the West Division-leading Kansas City Royals, who suffered a 5-4 loss to Texas. The A's have picked up three full games on the Royals in their last eight games.

In other AL games Monday, Minnesota edged chicago 3-2; Cleveland and Milwaukee split a pair, the Brewers winning the first 3-2 and Cleveland taking the nightcap 3-2; Detroit edged Baltimore 5-4 and New York nipped Boston 6-5.

California's Frank Tanana and Oakland starter Vida Blue dueled through the first eight innings with Joe Rudi's solo homer in the eighth giving the A's a 1-0 lead. But when pinch hitter Tommy Davis singled in the ninth, Blue was replaced by Rollie Fingers. Advancing to second on a sacrifice, pinch-runners Bob Jones scored on Mario Guerrero's single.

Claudell Washington delivered a pinch-hit double in the 11th for the A's and scored the winning run on Phil Garner's third straight single. Fingers, 11-9, picked up the victory while rookie reliever John Verhoeven, 0-1, took the loss for the Angels.

Rangers 5, Royals 4

A run-scoring single by Toby Harrah capped a four-run ninth-inning rally to boost Texas past Kansas City. With Roy Howell on first, Joe Lahoud and Juan Beniquez lined back-to-back two-out singles, scoring Howell. Dave Moates' pinch double off Doug Bird, 11-8, made it 4-4. Harrah's game-winning hit came off reliever Mark Littell.

Twins 3, White Sox 2

Craig Kusick's home run with two out in the ninth inning snapped a tie and lifted Minnesota to its victory over the Chicago White Sox. Twins reliever Bill Campbell hurled 12-3 innings to raise his record to 15-4, three short of the AL record for relief wins in a season and four shy of the major league mark.

Brewers 3-2, Indians 2-3

Dan Thomas' clutch double in the opener and John Lowenstein's hustle in the nightrap enabled Cleveland and Milwaukee to split a doubleheader. In just his fourth major league game, Thomas's ninth-inning double scored Durrell Porter to snap a 2-2 tie.

In the second game, Lowenstein scored from second base on a throwing error, lifting Cleveland to its victory. Lowenstein came home when Brewers catcher Charlie Moore grabbed a topped ball in front of home plate and threw wide to first. Home plate was left unprotected as Lowenstein sped all the way home.

Tigers 5, Orioles 4

Pinch hitter Ben Oglivie greeted reliever Tippy Martinez with a run-scoring single to snap a 4-4 deadlock and give Detroit its come-from-behind victory. Baltimore jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning when Reggie Jackson doubled home for two runs and Ken Singleton smashed a two-run homer.

Ron LeFlore doubled in the Detroit half of the first and scored on a sacrifice fly. LeFlore opened the eighth with another double, his third hit of the game, and scored on Mickey Stanley's single. Rusty Staub's single, two walks and sacrifice flies by Alex Johnson and Bill Freehan preceded Oglivie's game-winning hit.

Yankees 6, Red Sox 5

Graig Nettles' three-run homer paced New York past Boston as Doyle Alexander picked up his 11th victory in 19 decisions. Nettles' blast gave the Yanks a 6-0 lead before Boston routed Alexander and reliever Grant Jackson with two runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth.

Are Phillies Taking A Trip?

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies don't appreciate trips down memory lane, especially detours into 1964. But the Pittsburgh Pirates enjoy reviving the past, particularly the lst two Septembers.

"We're a team that always excels in September," said Pittsburgh slugger Dave Parker after the Pirates raised their record to 7-1 this month with 6-2 and 5-1 victories over Philadelphia on Monday.

The Pirates, who won the National League East Division titles the past two years with sizzling Septembers, are threatening to bring the flag back to Pittsburgh again. They now trail first-place Philadelphia by 5½ games after being a distant 15½ games back on Aug. 24.

In 1974, the Pirates won 11 of their last 15 games to beat St. Louis by 1½ games. In 1975, Pittsburgh turned a one-half game lead on Aug. 17 into a 6½-game margin at the end of the season with a strong September.

September already has been the worst month of the year for the Phillies, who are 1-5 since the calendar dropped August. The suggestion has been raised that the 1976 Phillies are doing a good imitation of the 1964 Phillies, who squandered an 11-game late-season lead and were beaten to the wire by St. Louis.

But Dick Allen, a Philadelphia rookie 12 years ago, doesn't accept the comparisons. "The '64 club wasn't thinking about this club, and we aren't thinking about the '64 club," Allen said.

Elsewhere in the NL, the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 7-4; San Francisco nipped Atlanta 4-3; Cincinnati edged Houston 9-8; Los Angeles downed San Diego 4-1, and St. Louis beat Montreal 3-1 then lost 3-2.

Philadelphia will not lose and Pittsburgh will not win today, a day off for both teams. The Pennsylvania pugilists square off again in Pittsburgh Wednesday night, carrying contrasting streaks onto the diamond. The Phillies have lost 10 of their last 11, while the Pirates have won 12 of 13.

Larry Demery pitched a four-hitter in the nightcap after Bruce Kison and Kent Tekulve combined on a six-hitter in the opener. The Phillies have scored 12 runs in their last eight games.

Mets 7, Cubs 4

Wrigley Field is not big enough for Dave Kingman and his baseball bat.

Kingman slammed his 34th homer of the year and his sixth in the seven games he has played in at the Cubs' home park. Kingman also powered a double and contributed three runs batted in to the Mets' victory.

Jerry Koosman, bidding for the first 20-game season in his nine-year career, picked up his 18th victory of the year. He has lost eight times.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1

Don Sutton fired a four-hitter and Steve Garvey had a homer, triple and a double, driving in two runs, to lead the Dodgers to their 17th victory in their last 20 games.

Reds 9, Astros 8

Joe Morgan crashed a grand-slam home run, highlighting an eight-run third inning and leading Cincinnati over Houston. Morgan's grand slam was his 27th homer of the year, boosting his RBI total to 104.

Cards 3-2, Expos 1-3

Pinch-hitter Earl Williams stroked a two-out, run-scoring single in the bottom of the ninth inning to give Montreal its doubleheader split. In the opener, the Cardinals scored three runs in the seventh inning to back Pete Falcone's four-hit pitching.

Giants 4, Braves 3

Rookies Jack Clark and Gary Alexander each stroked run-scoring singles to lead San Francisco over Atlanta, moving the Giants a full game ahead of the last-place Braves in the NL West.

DUNKEL INDEX

GAMES OF WEEK ENDING SEPT. 12, 1976

EXPLANATION—The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Lone Battle On 'Wasted' Light

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An 83-year-old man, armed with a handful of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. stock, is waging a lone battle to turn off the powerful lights which illuminate the bank's skyscraper here each evening.

"A bank's proper goal is to promote thrift, not waste," growls Staley Livingstone, who patents textile machinery when he is not firing off angry letters to Wachovia.

Livingstone has campaigned for about a year against the 163 powerful beacons which flood the exterior of the gleaming tower with light.

When the building was dedicated in 1972, a bank vice president boasted that "On a clear night this building may be visible from atop Grandfather Mountain" about 120 miles away.

In letters to bank officers, government officials and news media, Livingstone decries the lights as "a symbol of energy waste" that attracts bugs which clog air conditioning systems and thus cut down efficiency.

Wachovia officials say the lights, which burn from dusk until 11 p.m., account for about 1 per cent of the building's electric bill. A bank spokesman said, "It remains our judgement that minimum lighting of the building during early evening hours is the best compromise available."

Some residents like the lighted building, which stands out in the Charlotte skyline after dark, but Livingstone bought five Wachovia shares so he could air his complaints at a shareholders meeting.

He says he received a courteous reception but no action.

But Roger W. Sant, an official of the Federal Energy Administration, has praised Livingstone for his concern over what Sant called "the blatant waste of energy shown by...Wachovia Bank and Trust Co."

Livingstone, meanwhile, has increased his holdings. His five shares multiplied a bit when the bank spun off a subsidiary and distributed its shares to stockholders.

Livingstone got a dividend check for 63 cents.

College Costs Are Up Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — A survey shows that college costs are up again this year, sending the cost of a college education up 25 per cent from the average figure five years ago. The survey, by the American Council on Life Insurance, says the most expensive schooling is offered by the largest private colleges in the Northeast, with the median charge amounting to $4,727. The least expensive schooling is available in a medium-size public college in the South — $1,473 a year, average.

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market was mixed today, pausing after last week's sharp advance.

Trading was moderate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks stood at 989.11, unchanged from last Friday's close. The average rose 25.19 points last week for its best weekly showing in more than six months.

Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers in today's tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted an absence of fresh economic developments to sustain the buying interest that appeared last week.

They said traders still seemed hesitant over the outlook for the economic recovery since it began to show signs of slowing up through the summer.

Clorox was the most active NYSE issue, unchanged at 12⅞. A 114,100-share block traded at that price.

Gold issues rallied after the sharp rebound in European bullion prices on Monday. Homestake Mining climbed 1½ to 29⅜ and ASa rose ⅝ to 16⅜, both in active trading.

Ponderosa System slipped ¾ to 7½ on lower earnings for the quarter that ended Aug. 12.

The NYSE's composite index edged up .07 to 55.72 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .10 at 102.70.

R.M. Phillips of Phillips Brothers Mortuary also appeared before the board this morning, requesting commissioners to consider the possibility of establishing "space for burial of the dead . . . especially the blacks of Pitt County."

According to the funeral director, it is becoming more and more difficult to find suitable burial lots in the county. He said if a plot of land could be secured, a fee could be charged to families of the dead to repay the cost of the lot.

The board agreed to study the proposal.

Priority Items Tackled By Hurrying Congress

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With election day drawing closer, the 94th Congress is trying to complete work on remaining legislation and get home early for a full month of campaigning.

The priority items remaining on the agenda include extension of the federal revenue-sharing program, revisions of the tax laws, and approval of a defense spending bill.

Returning today from a Labor Day recess, the Senate was scheduled to resume debate on an antitrust bill. A final vote on the measure is set for Wednesday.

The House isn't due back until Wednesday, when it will take up revisions to the Clean Air Act.

A Senate-House conference committee is expected to complete action this week on tax law revisions. The committee's report should reach the House and Senate for action next week.

A key provision of the tax bill would extend $15 billion in individual income tax cuts through next year.

The congressional leadership is aiming for adjournment by Oct. 2, a date that would give members of Congress a full month to campaign before the Nov. 2 election.

The overwhelmingly Democratic Congress and its record for the past two years have become a major issue in President Ford's campaign.

The Republican President has criticized Congress for spending too much on domestic programs and not enough for defense. He has vetoed more than 50 bills during two years in the White House.

The defense appropriations bill coming up on the floor includes a provision designed to leave a final decision on the B1 bomber to whoever is in the White House next year.

Ford supports going ahead immediately on the new bomber. But the defense money bill restricts the amount that can be spent each month between now and Feb. 1.

The Senate leadership had to overcome a brief filibuster before an agreement could be reached setting a time for a final vote on the antitrust bill. The measure is designed to strengthen enforcement of antitrust laws and would permit state attorneys general to sue for triple damages in federal courts on behalf of consumers. After it completes action on the antitrust bill, the Senate is scheduled to take up a bill that would extend the federal revenue-sharing program until Oct. 1, 1982.

Under the bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee, $6.9 billion would be distributed to localities during 1977. The total would increase by $150 million each year thereafter, for a total during the life of the program of $41.9 billion.

On June 10, the House passed a three-year extension of the program and continued funding at the current rate of $6.65 billion a year.

The amendments to the Clean Air Act set 1978 emission standards for the automobile industry.

Insecticide Is Recalled

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — An insecticide used for seven years on cotton and deciduous fruits has been recalled by its manufacturer because it may cause cancer in laboratory mice.

Ciba-Geigy, Inc., a European chemical firm with American offices in Greensboro, said today it was stopping production of chlordimeform until more tests can be made.

The company sells the chemical under the trade name Galecron. It is also marketed through a Chicago firm, Nor-Am Agricultural Products, Inc., under the trade name Fundal.

A Ciba-Geigy spokesman said the factory in St. Gabriel, La. which manufactured chlordimeform has been shut down since August 31. Now the company is recalling the stocks from dealers and growers.

The spokesman said that the company had been continuously testing the insecticide since it was introduced in 1969. It had not caused tumors in rats or dogs and he said there was no indication that it caused tumors in humans.

"Preliminary findings by company scientists indicate that chlordimeform may cause malignant tumors in a certain strain of laboratory mice when the animals are fed high daily doses over the major part of their expected lifetime," the spokesman said.

The company stressed the voluntary nature of its action. It said it was informing the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency of the test results.

Deciduous fruits include such things as plums. They are different from citrus fruits.

The company's spokesman said he did not know how much of the chemical was sold each year or how long it took to break down in the environment.

Not Guilty Pleas Filed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — State prison system official Morris Alexander Kea and former Hunterville Prison employe Theresa Jackson pleaded innocent today to charges of possessing and distributing heroin.

In a 10-minute hearing before U.S. Magistrate Barbara DeLaney, Kea and Mrs. Jackson entered not guilty pleas and waived their right to jury trials.

Defense attorney Barry Storick, who represents Kea, declined comment on the case and refused to say why the defendants waived their rights to jury trials. Mrs. Jackson did not have an attorney and ask the court to appoint one.

Tentatively, trial was set for the October session of federal criminal court, which opens in Charlotte Oct. 4.

Kea, 38, and Mrs. Jackson, 31, both of Charlotte, are free on unsecured bonds totaling $10,000 each.

Kea, who once served as acting superintendent of the state women's prison in Raleigh, is now a program director with the state Department of Corrections' Huntersville area office.

He is charged with three counts of distributing heroin and three counts of possessing heroin with intent to distribute.

Mrs. Jackson is charged with three counts of possessing heroin with intent to distribute, one count of distributing heroin and two counts of aiding and abetting Kea in the distribution of heroin.

Maximum penalty is 15 years for each count.

Kea was acting director at the women's unit when a riot occurred in June 1975. After an investigation of the riot, said Prisons Director Ralph Edwards, Kea was demoted. He had joined the department in 1973 as a deputy director with a salary of more than $20,000.

State Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten said earlier that Kea was not charged with selling drugs to prisoners.

If you plan to spend more than five years in your new building

YOU SHOULD READ THIS:

The initial cost of a new building is only one aspect of the total cost of ownership.

You also have to consider such things as utilities, maintenance and repairs. These may not seem important in a new building but they can really mount up when a building puts on a few years.

A high quality, professionally built building may cost you more initially but it will quite likely cost you less after just a few years of operation.

If you're thinking about building, give us a call. We'll show you some specific ways you can save money. And keep saving it for a long time to come.
