

House Tax Debate Is Near End

By CARL C. CRAFT Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - Republican critics of a step to increase taxes on property heirs are waging a last-ditch fight as the House casts its final votes on the tax package that also extends the multibillion-dollar income tax cut.

Key Democrats expect to win the showdown today and the House then is expected to approve the bill, sending the wide-ranging measure to the Senate for final congressional action and on to President Ford. The measure was approved last week by Senate-House negotiators.

While supporting most of the bill, Reps. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., and Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., senior GOP members of the House Ways and Means Committee, told colleagues Wednesday that one tax-hiking plan should be deleted.

That plan would hike income taxes on heirs who sell inherited property and would gain $162 million for the treasury by 1981. The new method would require the heir to value the property at the price that the deceased paid for it, rather than at the price at the time of the deceased's death.

Thus, if a person buys corporate stock for $10,000 and 10 years later wills it to a relative when it is worth $55,000 and the heir later sells it for $60,000, present law would tax the $5,000 difference. The bill would change this to tax the $50,000 difference between the original cost and the eventual selling price.

The gift-and-estate tax portions of the package generally reduce federal taxes in those areas. However, Schneebeli and Conable said the tax-hike provision "would more than negate any relief which all the other provisions of the bill would provide for many subject to the estate tax."

But Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, termed it a "delicate and responsible compromise on estate and gift tax reform."

Compared to 7 per cent under existing law, the bill would exempt from taxes all but the wealthiest 3 per cent of U.S. estates.

For practical purposes, it would mean no estate worth under $525,000 would pay the federal levy. The treasury's annual revenue loss would be $1.4 billion by 1981.

Ullman, arguing for the bill Wednesday, stressed the income tax features of the package. He said that "recent economic developments speak clearly to the importance of continuing the tax cuts" enacted last year.

The legislation would be the most comprehensive since the 1969 Tax Reform Act.

The new bill would continue through 1977 the $15 billion tax cut - worth $180 to a typical family of four making $15,000 a year.

The legislation would hike or cut taxes in hundreds of other ways. For example, it would increase taxes on some wealthier investors through changes in the so-called minimum tax.

House Beats Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House today voted to override President Ford's veto of a $160 million bill to promote research and development of cars that run on electricity instead of gasoline.

The vote was 307 to 101, or 35 more than the two-thirds needed to override. Now, the veto issue goes to the Senate.

The President vetoed the bill Monday, saying private industry is better equipped to undertake a research and development program. He said development of a better battery is crucial, and it would be premature for the government to engage in a massive demonstration program before this is accomplished.

It was Ford's 56th veto.

The bill proposes a five-year project by the Energy Research and Development Administration to construct 7,500 demonstration electric cars.

Pitt Assisted A Native Son In Key Runoff

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County helped one of its native sons win a key state level race in Tuesday's runoff primary, providing him with a margin that proved critical as tabulations were made across the state.

Greenville native John Brooks, who launched his campaign for State Labor Commissioner here back in April, carried 23 of the county's 26 precincts Tuesday in his second primary duel with Jessie Rae Scott.

Brooks, a Raleigh attorney, edged Mrs. Scott for the Democratic Labor nomination by posting an unofficial statewide total of 242,028 votes to 232,449 votes for his opponent.

In Pitt County, he piled up 4,872 votes, unofficially, to easily outdistance Mrs. Scott who polled 3,551.

The 39-year-old lawyer, contacted in Raleigh, expressed his "deep appreciation" to the people of Greenville and Pitt County for "what everyone there did for me."

Noting that he still calls Greenville home, Brooks said that the people of Pitt have been "in my corner every time" and "I certainly want to thank them for their support and confidence."

He added that he considers Pitt County the "hub" of his support in Eastern North Carolina.

The candidate, in winning the tightest race in the runoff primary, contended that he was "delighted that we got the vote that we did." He pointed out that the margin was small statewide but it was uniformed in virtually

Surrogates In Carter Effort

RALEIGH (AP) - The Jimmy Carter presidential campaign today unveiled a stand-in candidate strategy for use in states where Carter does not plan to campaign heavily.

The Carter staff presented former Gov. Robert W. Scott to a news conference. Scott read a speech prepared for him and other surrogates by Carter's national campaign staff in Atlanta.

The speech criticized President Gerald Ford's remarks at his campaign opening speech in Ann Arbor, Mich. Wednesday night. Similar surrogates read the same Carter rebuttal in dozens of states, according to state campaign manager Joel McCleary.

McCleary said the North Carolina campaign would employ two other surrogates: U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan, and the woman designated by gubernatorial candidate Jim Hunt as the next state party chairman, Betty McCain of Wilson.

The three stand-ins will be used to make pro-Carter statements periodically during the campaign. McCleary said. Thus, there will be an opportunity for television newsmen to get pro-Carter film for their programs even though Carter is not around.

Neither Carter nor vice presidential candidate Walter Mondale has committed to any North Carolina appearances. Scott said there were two reasons.

One, Scott said, he believes

Carter can win in North Carolina without making any appearances. Second, he said, presidential candidates must concentrate on the most populous states, where the electoral votes are.

Scott said he still hoped that both Carter and Mondale would visit the state. "A visit by the candidate tends to fire up the campaign workers," he said.

Scott's prepared speech attacked the Ford record in housing, education and providing jobs. "He says he will not be satisfied until everyone has a job. But since he's been president, unemployment has risen from 5.5 per cent to 7.9 per cent. The president has no employment program save saying he won't be satisfied until everyone has a job," Scott said.

He called Ford's proposals in other areas "warm-ups of existing programs," saying that Ford failed to make concrete, new proposals for action by the government.

"He said he was against crime. Well, I don't know anyone who's not against crime, except perhaps some of the criminal element. But he had no specific proposals to make," Scott said.

Scott, of course, had no specific Carter proposals to offer in rebuttal. He said Carter has been and will continue to address the issues, and suggested that those interested in finding out about his proposals should consult campaign literature.

Pessimism Growing On Kissinger's Tour

By ARTHUR GAVSHON Associated Press Writer LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived here today on the second leg of his African peace mission and was immediately told that Zambians support "intensified armed struggle" for black rule.

On his way to Zambia the secretary expressed hope for success in helping achieve "peace, justice and progress" in southern Africa, despite the pessimism of his first host, President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania.

At Lusaka airport Kissinger was met by Zambian Foreign Minister Siteke Mwale who said, "We will support intensified armed struggle until black rule is achieved in Rhodesia and Namibia and until the eradication of apartheid in South Africa" is achieved. Namibia, also known as South-West Africa, is controlled by South Africa.

In reply Kissinger hailed the contribution to the search for peace of both Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda personally and the Zambian nation. Newsmen travelling with Kissinger were told he left Tanzania with the impression that neither Nyerere nor Kaunda are likely to ease their demand for speedy transfer of power to the black majorities in Rhodesia and Namibia.

The two presidents, as well as those of Botswana, Mozambique and Angola, last week coordinated their policies at a summit meeting in preparation for Kissinger's new effort in shuttle diplomacy.

Despite a gloomy assessment by Nyerere, U.S. informants said Kissinger still is not assuming his mission will fail.

They said he rates at slightly less than even his chances of setting up meaningful black-white negotiations over Rhodesia and Namibia.

Eastern N.C. Traffic Is Pointing Toward Raleigh

By BARBARA MATHEWS Reflector Staff Writer

Over 42,000 people are expected to attend the ECU-N.C. State football game Saturday afternoon at Carter Stadium in Raleigh, and ECU should be well-represented.

According to Earlene Leggett, ECU athletic department business manager, almost 9,000 tickets have been sold to ECU student, faculty, staff and guests, and about 900 tickets are still available.

"We have 400 reserved tickets and 500 general admission tickets left to sell," she said.

"And I think we'll sell just about all of them by Friday."

Ed Seaman, sports information director at N.C. State, said at least 42,000 people are anticipated.

"The stadium seats 44,000 people," said Seaman.

"We anticipate 42,000, and there will probably be more if we have good weather."

Seaman said tickets were still available at the State box office.

The Student Government

Association at ECU has made SGA buses available for charter to student groups. According to SGA President Tim Sullivan, four groups originally had signed up to charter a bus, but only one plans to follow through.

Sullivan said the buses will be available for future games.

The Pirates Club has planned activities for the football weekend at the Sheraton/Crabtree Motel in Raleigh.

According to Cheryl

McLawnhorn, a cocktail party will be held Friday beginning at 7 p.m. for club members. A pig-picking and social will be held Saturday afternoon, and a dance will follow the game. Tickets for the dance and social are available to Pirates Club members.

Several buses have been chartered for Pirates Club members by various individuals and organizations, and the Brook valley Country Club has also chartered a bus.

CAN'T CROSS WIDE INTERSECTIONS

I would like someone to check into having the stoplights run longer to cross Reade Street at Fourth, and at Third and Reade. When you're crossing Reade Street there, by the time you get to the other side the light has turned red. There's not enough time for pedestrians to safely cross there. G. G.

HOTLINE called Ron Sewell, assistant city engineer (traffic engineer), and discussed the problem with him, particularly the intersection of Third and Reade streets.

Sewell said that, in order for pedestrians to have more time to cross, the light cycles would need to be lengthened so the walker would have a longer green light and opposing traffic have a longer red light. The decision is based on traffic flow and whether one wants to ignore the traffic to favor the pedestrian, or vice versa.

At those intersections the lights favor traffic, since the volume of traffic is heavy on Reade Street and the pedestrian volume is light.

"We need to go in there and re-evaluate the situation," Sewell said. The city is currently trying to get a re-evaluation program for all lights in the downtown area, as they have not been evaluated in about three years.

Sewell said he thinks the program is needed, but enough personnel is not available right now.

In the meantime, you might wish to place a complaint with the city engineer's office by calling either Sewell or Engineer Charlie Holliday at 752-4137.

Arkansas Woman Fill Fire 'Towerman' Positions

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP) — In an eight-by-eight-foot cab 126 feet up a steel frame, Bethel Chapman's gray eyes survey the area to spot "new smoke."

On guard in one of Arkansas' 99 fire towers, the watchman is a woman.

Mrs. Chapman has been a "towerman," the official name for the state-paid position, 15 years. She is a towerman of towermen.

Her father was towerman 43 years, her husband was a towerman for 20. She succeeded her husband at "Chapman tower" 15 years ago.

"I was raised in this life," she said. "I've been going up and down these steps since I was 6 years old. My kids and my grandkids played here on these steps and landings."

There are 144 wooden steps and 18 platform landings en route to the cab at the top of the tower.

"Once you are at the top, it's worth the effort, every time," she said. "Nature is just beautiful."

The watchman's job is to keep an eye out for "new smoke."

Smoke can normally be seen rising from regular locations, such as factories. These signs of smoke are called "permanent smokes."

But a new smoke can be a sign of fire in the forest.

Using field glasses, an alidade and a circle map, Mrs. Chapman plots the location of new smoke.

By communicating with other towers by telephone or radio, the location can be pinpointed for further investigation by forestry crews on the ground.

A couple of decades ago, women occupied few of the towers.

Now, they hold the "towerman" job in about half, State Forester Ed Waddell says, thanks mainly to an increase in the last few years.

In Mrs. Chapman's district, all six towers are staffed by women. In another district, all 11 towers are staffed by women.

Each tower is modified to suit the towerman. A cut-down rocker is Mrs. Chapman's seat. The job pays $4,901 to start and $7,111 at the top, plus a residence near the base of each towerman's tower.

There's no loneliness or boredom, Mrs. Chapman said.

"When the fire danger is high, you don't have any time to get lonely or bored," she said.

But when the danger is low, she chuckled, the women might not be above ringing one another up on the phone and exchanging a recipe or two.

Beef Is Still King Of Meats

By TOM HOGGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
There's an old saying that beef's the king of meat and it certainly reigns supreme in America where a juicy steak is considered the epitome of the good life.

Actually, the tender, seasoned beef we eat today is a far cry from the tough, stringy cuts that graced our forefathers' tables. The famed Texas Longhorn was a lean, sturdy beast who thrived in the arid plains of Texas, but his flesh was pretty tough by modern standards.

Today, we raise plumper breeds originally imported from Britain and developed over the years, such as Black Angus, Durham and Hereford. These sleek animals produce the marbled beef you see in the better restaurants and butcher shops, even if marbled is a dirty word to those who are watching their cholesterol.

Most steak buffs have their favorite cut, which recalls something that has long mystified me. I'm told Britons had never heard of London broil until some Yank informed them what it was. I was born and raised in New York, but I had never heard of the cut called New York steak until I saw it on a restaurant menu in Maryland. And they say that the Top of Iowa steak featured in some places will get you a blank stare from an Iowan. But some steak names do have authentic backgrounds.

For instance, in the mid-19th century, New York became famous for its porterhouse steaks. They were named after a waterfront restaurant which flourished at that time and served a short loin cut with a goblet of ale.

Many people think of steak only as a slab of beef seared in pan or broiler, then served up with mushrooms or onions and French fries. But there are other ways. Steak cooked in beer is delicious and a cut of round simmered in wine can be a delight.

The chefs of New Zealand, which is quite a beef country in its own right, have a number of ingenious ways of serving steak including this spicy version that is relatively economical.

2 pounds chuck steak
1 tablespoon crushed coriander
1 tablespoon tumeric
1 teaspoon crushed cuminseed
2 teaspoons powdered ginger
4 cloves crushed garlic
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup cider vinegar
3 tablespoons butter
2 bay leaves
Cut meat in narrow strips 3 inches long. Pound to a paste the coriander, tumeric, cumin, ginger, garlic, salt and onions. Blend in vinegar. Add meat and toss till pieces are covered with spice mixture. Cover and place in refrigerator 24 hours. Melt butter in skillet, add undrained meat and bay leaves. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes till meat is tender. Remove cover and simmer stirring frequently last 5 minutes. Serve with boiled rice. Serves 6. Good with chilled ale.

Dear Abby

Return Favors Or Friendship's Off

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor I'll call Sue who has done more for me than my own sister has. Sue's kids are the ages of mine, so she keeps my kids so I can go on the road with my husband for a few days. She also chauffeurs my kids around with her own so I won't have to. Sue has even done my marketing for me.

She's a very handy friend to have and I appreciate her, but here's the problem:

She runs in and out of my house just like it's her own. If she sees that I have company, she comes right over and joins us. She asks the most personal questions, and I have no privacy whatsoever. She's a good friend, but she's a terrible pest. How can I keep her from coming over whenever she feels like it? I don't want to end our friendship because she's been a good friend, but enough is enough.

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING

DEAR TOO MUCH: By accepting favors from Sue, you've become obligated to her. If you want your privacy, you will have to quit accepting favors from her. If you can't do that, face it: You've made a deal and you're stuck with it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and have recently taken an office job where other women are employed. This isn't the first office job I've held, but it's the first place I've been asked questions I would rather not answer.

With regard to something I am wearing: "Is it new? Where did you get it? Was it expensive?"

Maybe I'm wrong, but I think these questions are personal, and I don't know how to get out of answering without appearing to be stuck-up and unfriendly.

Can you (or anybody else) help me?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: It's your right to refuse to answer questions you regard as being too personal. And there's nothing wrong with saying, "I'd rather not answer that."

DEAR ABBY: My sister is 18 and her husband is 19. They've been married for two years and have two children. The problem is her housekeeping. Her house is so filthy it smells. She wasn't raised that way. My mother, my two sisters and I keep clean houses and we can't understand what's wrong with that girl. She doesn't keep herself clean, either. In fact she smells of B.O. We don't know how her husband can stand to be near her.

We have all hinted to her about her house and person, but when we do, she gets mad. We think she needs to be told so she can improve, but we don't know who should tell her.

My husband says I should stay out of it, but I will tell her if you think I should. Please help me decide.

OLDER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Your husband is right. If she gets mad when you've hinted, mind your own business. If her husband doesn't object, I see no need for anyone to tell her anything.

Annual Fine Arts Ball Scheduled For October

The fall social season in eastern North Carolina will be highlighted by the fifth annual Fine Arts Ball.

Started in 1972 by the East Carolina Art Society, the ball is its principle fund raising event. Mrs. Boyd Lee is current president of the Art Society.

Mrs. Fred Webb, chairman of this year's ball, has announced that invitations to the ball, which will be held Oct. 8 at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, have been mailed. Members of the Art Society are given first choice of attending the ball as all proceeds are used to maintain the present Art Center and provide funds for future expansion.

Mrs. Webb said that plans are being finalized by the following committee chairmen:

Treasurer, Mrs. Henry Morris; Invitations, Mrs.

William S. Corbitt Jr.; Publicity, Mrs. Charles E. Stevens; Entertainment, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Rawl Jr.; Reservations, Mrs. William H. Taft Jr.; Decorations, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas; Table Reservations, Mrs. Steven M. White and Mrs. Charles W. Howard Jr.; Special Projects, Mrs. Marvin K. Blount Jr., Mrs. James T. Cheatham III and Mrs. James S. Ficklen Jr.; Buffet, Mrs. Bruce B. Sugg and Mrs. Robert Woronoff; and Desserts, Mrs. William H. Taft.

The Stardusters of Wilson will provide music for the event.

The auction of works of art by well known contemporary artists will be a feature of the ball.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I don't care how good of a shape the economists say we're in. I can always tell the way this country is moving by the old Grocery-Bag-Under-the-Sink principle.

Here's the way it works. I bring my groceries home from the store in brown paper bags. When they are emptied I store them under the sink. They are used to line the waste can and hold garbage.

On Wednesday of last week I reached under the sink for a bag. There were none. This can mean only one thing. My food supply is not keeping step with the amount of garbage. Or, there is more garbage going out than there is food coming in.

My husband says this is not possible. "Why would you have more garbage than you have food in the first place? That is not logical."

"Neither is gaining three pounds in the delivery room, but it happened."

"You're confusing me. You should have more than enough garbage bags. Maybe the carry-out boys are packing them fuller these days."

"Impossible. You saw my week's supply in the glove compartment."

"Maybe you are becoming a better cook."

"Do you really believe that?"

"No."

"I don't know how I can face the neighborhood."

"What are you talking about?" he asked.

"We've always been a five-garbage-can family. How do you think we're going to look when we keep coming down to four..."

then three... then... have you no pride? I know, maybe we could circulate a rumor we bought a disposer? Or that all of us are on diets? Or we could pile in the car every evening and pretend we're eating out."

"I do not believe this conversation is going on," he said. "Where are you going?"

"To the store to buy three bagsful of things I don't need. I don't know about you, but I can't live like this from day to day... not knowing where my next brown bag is coming from."

Beef Bargains Still Abound—

Beef continues in excess supply this month with prices still down about 20 cents a pound from a year earlier. You can buy now and save on steaks, pot roasts, oven roasts or ground beef. If you have a freezer, fill it. If you don't, eat up while the price is down.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, fed beef production will continue at a high level through the month of September. To make your meat dollar work for you, know your beef cuts. A good place to begin is with delectable beef roasts:

Rib Roast... hard to eat for tenderness and flavor. Easy to prepare—by oven roasting—to carve and to serve. It can be oven roasted in the top four grades, USDA Prime, Choice, Good or Standard. Because it has a large proportion of bone and fat, the total purchase should be based on a half-pound per person. You will get better results in cooking if the rib roast is at least two ribs thick.

Ribeye Roast... the meaty, boneless part of the standing rib. It is very tender with great flavor. It can be oven roasted in grades Prime through Good. Allow a third of a pound per person.

Rump Roast... flavorful, but slightly less tender than rib roast. It can be oven roasted in Prime through Good grades. Allow a half-pound per person when buying Rump Roast with the bone in, or a third of a pound for boneless rump.

Sirloin Tip... boneless roast with little waste, good flavor, and tender enough for oven-roasting in Prime through Good grades. Allow one-third pound per person. This roast is often called loin tip, round tip, or knuckle.

Eye of the Round Roast... lean, meaty, good flavor, but less tender than other roasts. It can be oven-roasted in Prime in Prime and Choice grades. Allow a third of a pound per person.

Heel of the Round... boneless, less tender, contains several muscles. Pot-roasting is recommended. Allow a third of pound per person.

Blade Chuck... an economy cut with full beef flavor. It can be oven roasted in Prime and Choice grades. However, all grades make excellent pot roasts. Allow three-fourths of a pound per person.

Shoulder Arm Roast... meat cut from outside the chuck. Well developed flavor, no bone. Can be oven roasted in Prime and Choice, but pot roast at lower grades. Allow one-third pound per person.

Brisket... often cured and sold as corned beef. Cook with moist heat in all grades. About one-half pound per person.

Some Skyjackings Will Succeed

Sky jacks have declined in recent years since airports began screening passengers for suspicious items; nevertheless a fanatical group managed to pull one off last weekend.

The group, seeking publicity for the cause of Croatian separation from Yugoslavia, seemed bent on getting publicity for its cause mostly. However, a crude bomb left in New York exploded killing a police officer and injuring several others.

In the meantime the Trans World Airlines 727 jet was directed to Paris where French authorities got tough with the skyjackers, making certain that the plane would not take off again.

The skyjackers demanded and got widespread publicity for their cause — that is the Croatian separation, something that is not likely to happen in the near future.

The nationalists held their captors and held off authorities by claiming that they had bombs strapped to their bodies. The claim was given credence when the crude bomb exploded in New York. However, when the matter was ended and the group had surrendered it was determined that they had no bombs, only modeling clay.

There seems to be no way to eliminate skyjackings totally. Screening of passengers has helped considerably and the only other alternative seems to be to get tough with the culprits once they try a skyjacking.

Street Resurfacing Jobs Were Needed

Two much-needed projects have been started by the Department of Transportation in Greenville.

Tenth Street from Washington to Dickinson and Dickinson from Eighth to Truman Street will be resurfaced, with the work to be completed by Oct. 15.

These state projects will tie in with some resurfacing work being done by the city and we should have letter streets in the end.

'Rural Renaissance' Seen

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — There are, in the rural byways of North Carolina, many people with bright minds who, given the chance, would like to widen their horizons.

But learning opportunities require either travel to some central location—time or distance may rule that out; or use of television—selection of subjects or the time of broadcast often complicate that resource.

"Rural Renaissance" is the name being given an ambitious, new project just launched by the state's Community College System.

The object is to bring adult learning material—general interest, basic education, vocational subjects, health information and such—where the people live, at times they can use it.

Television is the key. And while the ultimate system is still just a gleam in the eyes of community college officials, it is not beyond available technology that a Tar Heel farmer could take a course in political science on his home television set—dialing up the lessons at his own convenience on the days and at hours when he can spare the time from his work.

William A. McIntosh, vice president for educational planning and evaluation at Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, is director of the project.

Great Need
A detailed survey in the Central Piedmont service area concluded that 168,000 adults wanted and needed services that could be provided by the community college, but were inhibited by personal reasons (travel, schedule, home responsibilities, job).

Translated to the rest of this largely rural state, widely distributed over a large geographical area, that large of interest leads community college officials to believe there is a need for the "Rural Renaissance" approach. It is believed that some 70 per cent of the adult population would like to take part in some learning opportunities.

The project is being developed in phases. First will be creation of programs. A total of 60 instructional programs in vocational and adult basic education will be designed and tested by 10 community colleges. The State Board of Education has approved nearly $30,000 to get that program started.

Resulting programs can be used on existing televisions, or audio-visual equipment on the campuses.

National Net
But the intriguing idea for the future is use of a pair of satellites linking regional and national programs into a nationwide hookup.

Further, work is progressing on a system by which programs can be transmitted at night in a highly compressed format and recorded and stored for later use.

Hospitals, for example, could plug in and in a few minutes record several hours of new material on techniques and developments in medicine so that rural physicians could keep right up to date.

And technology is being developed to take that approach one step further. A converter could be installed on the home television set which would allow it to be used at the viewer's convenience to receive the program of choice at the time desired.

That process would involve a cable system and a real-time transmitting device which would allow viewers to be seeing several different programs simultaneously, or even several viewers to be seeing different portions of the same program simultaneously.

Development of the initial teaching programs in the "Rural Renaissance" approach does not commit the state to getting deeper into the more exotic techniques, and the results of that work can be used anyway, community college officials say.

Out Of Mad Magazine

What ever became of a national energy policy? It hasn't been heard from lately. An uneasy impression will not go away that in terms of both conservation and development, we are drifting — we are just muddling along. We are not doing those things that ought to be done.

Here in Washington, one listens for the impact of hard decisions; and one hears mainly the soft shuffle of papers. The several agencies concerned with energy appear to be laboring mightily; whatever shortages one hears about, there is no shortage of statements, reports, forms, speeches and miscellaneous publications. Talk is in over-supply. But action? Of action, one perceives very little.

Two or three years ago, if you recall, it appeared that a small sense of urgency was beginning to take root. The oil embargo that began in October of 1973 had some good effect: For the first time, great numbers of our people became aware of certain truths that should have been evident all along. These were truths about the nature of the world, and about the nature of energy. We had never thought much about them.

Suddenly there was recognition that the United States, which depends upon oil for its economic life, was critically dependent upon oil from foreign sources. It began to sink in that conservation and development were problems not only for America, but for the world. The think-tank experts had been warning for 30 years that time was running out on "cheap energy." Now the warnings were being heard.

The government leaped to its saddle and rode off in all directions.

The embargo ended in mid-March of 1974. What happened to the fired-up sense of urgency? The steam leaked out. Little remains of the conservation programs of 1974. Our cities are brilliantly lit by night. The 55-mile speed limit is universally disdained. Nobody even talks much about conservation anymore.

The American Petroleum Institute has the most authoritative figures on the oil picture. This is the sobering fact: We are now importing 41 percent of our demand. In the period immediately before the embargo, imports from the Arab nations averaged 1.1 million barrels per day. That figure is now 2 million barrels per day. We have just about doubled the level of dependency on the Arab states. Total imports of petroleum products are running at 6.8 million barrels per day, against a demand of 16.7 million. Despite significant improvements in automobile engines, which now get more miles to the gallon, demand keeps rising steadily.

Urgency has faded not only on the conservation side, but on the development side also. We ought to be far along in the drilling of test wells in promising offshore areas; progress is exceedingly slow. The development of nuclear power plants is hobbled by endless red tape. We ought to be investing billions in bold programs — space age programs — to harness infinite sources of energy in the sun, the wind, the tides, and in the conversion of hydrogen. Some interesting and promising work is being done, but we are working mostly nine to five.

What will it take to revitalize the effort? Another embargo? Massive brownouts? Rigorous restrictions upon consumption? No ready answers are forthcoming. Once they get good and galvanized, the American people are the greatest bunch of three-shirt, full-throttle, gang-bro miracle workers in the world. It takes

Might Retire Penny

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Remember penny candy, the penny weight machine, penny parking meters and penny stocks? They're all gone, and the penny may soon be gone too.

Inflation has led most people to toss their pennies in jars or desk drawers, stuff them in piggy banks or let them mount up quietly in the cracks behind the sofa's cushion.

Because the truth is, a penny goes much farther today than it did just 10 years ago — you can carry one around for weeks and never find anything it will buy.

So a government-sponsored study is recommending that the U.S. Mint eliminate the one-cent piece by 1980. The study, made for the government by Research Triangle Institute, says pennies are too expensive to make and, besides, since they are so hard to spend, people squirrel them away instead of spending them.

It also recommended replacing half dollars with a new, smaller $1 coin.

The Mint and the Treasury Department plan to study the proposal.

The loss of the penny, a mainstay of the U.S. monetary system since its beginning, could be the cause of a major crisis in the English language.

Most references made to pennies these days are in conversations about the good old days of penny candy (which is now a nickel) or penny matches (now two cents), penny stocks (now extinct) or penny parking meters (museum pieces).

Without the penny, penny ante poker would become more expensive, maybe turning into rickie ante poker, and it would take at least a nickel for your thoughts.

40 Years Ago Today

September 17, 1936

The Weather Bureau today ordered hurricane warning displayed from Wilmington to Beaufort, N.C., effective at noon, as a severe tropical storm approached the Cape Hatteras section of the seaboard.

Two hours earlier the forecast ordered hurricane warning displayed from Beaufort to Manteo and storm warnings displayed from the Virginia Capes to Southport.

The storm, described by the Weather Bureau as of full hurricane intensity (winds of more than 75 miles an hour) continued to move closer to the mainland without slackening its speed or losing any of its fury.

President Roosevelt told an annual meeting of the Mobilization for Human Needs today that national income soon would be double what it was at the low point of the depression and that "confidence has returned to the great mass of our people."

Several times he referred to "returning prosperity" and on that thesis built an argument that private relief organizations should expect a larger measure of private aid and that every individual has "a greater obligation to aid in the relief of distress in his or her own community."

THE INSIDE REPORT

Votes In South For Ford

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Gerald Ford's top political advisers are now studying a secret President Ford Committee (PFC) poll showing the President surprisingly ahead of Jimmy Carter in Virginia 43 to 41 per cent.

This evidence that the President may fare better in the South than PFC pessimists bargained for has been jubilantly passed along to Republican leaders in Virginia as a "neck-and-neck" Ford-Carter race. Not even state chairman George McMath was given the actual figures.

The poll was taken by PFC pollster Robert Teeter of Market Opinion Research who has also completed tabulations in other Southern states with these results:

In Tennessee, regarded as a solid pro-Carter Bible belt state, Carter is well ahead of Mr. Ford, but not enough to rule out a major Ford campaign; in Florida, Mr. Ford runs behind, but not much. Most surprising is Alabama, where Carter leads by only eight points (with a huge undecided vote).

Teeter's findings in Mississippi and Texas conform to the Carter camp claims that Carter will sweep his native Southland. With the South becoming a battleground, Southern Republicans are lobbying for more attention from the President and his running mate, Sen. Robert Dole.

McMath, for example, vainly rushed as SOS to the PFC to persuade Dole to appear at the Sept. 11 state party meeting in Richmond. Republican operatives feel Carter failed to capitalize on his own Virginia campaign trip last weekend, coming over weak on television, and that a quick appearance by Dole would exploit that failure. But Dole was committed elsewhere.

Some Democratic leaders agreed, telling us that Carter's attack on Republican Gov. Mills Godwin's handling of the Hopewell, Va., kepone scandal was inept.

"Carter could not know the subtleties of the kepone tragedy" (involving the emission of chemical poisons), one highly-respected Virginia Democratic leader told us. "He looked bad getting into the matter."

A footnote: Outside the South, the most surprising Teeter poll so far shows Carter leading the President by only four points — 45 to 41 per cent — in New York, indicating surprising Ford support in the industrial North.

Ribicoff Vs. Parsky

Members of the Senate-House conference committee on the tax reform bill were shocked last week at the emotional intensity of a personal attack on Assistant Treasury Secretary Gerald L. Parsky by Democratic Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, co-author of the amendment in the big tax reform bill aimed at the Arabs' anti-Israel boycott.

Making a dramatic entrance, after Parsky had been kept cooling his heels two hours and 15 minutes at the Ways and Means Committee chamber in the Longworth office building, Ribicoff attacked Parsky as a "flak" for the Arabs. Ribicoff's anger was aimed at the entire Ford administration, but his handy target was Parsky — Mr. Ford's official spokesman in refusing to bow to anti-boycott political pressure from the huge pro-Israel majority in Congress.

After attacking Parsky, Ribicoff asserted that the Democrats were determined to make the Arab boycott "a campaign issue" and ram it down President Ford's throat. Parsky listened respectfully. When the Senator ended his outburst (which astonished Democratic Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois and some other conference committee members) Parsky declined to "lower myself to the level of the Senator" in defending the administration's opposition to using a tax bill to punish the Arabs or U.S. companies doing business under boycott conditions.

Privately, administration officials are convinced that the real purpose of the anti-boycott move is to embitter U.S. relations with such proven Arab friends as Saudi Arabia, which has consistently opposed radical Arab state demands for higher crude oil prices. Ribicoff's promise to exploit the boycott issue for the presidential campaign may

Other Editors Say Financial Brink

(The Raleigh Times)

Would it be any comfort to the average reader to know most wage-earners in this country live from month to month and hand to mouth and go in the hole a little every year?

Well, apparently it's true. A big bank has studied the federal government's stock of data on us all and concluded the average wage-earner has two kids and a house and a fairly new car and earns $13,847. But, says the Detroit Bank and Trust Co., he can't quite make it on that and needs $500 a year more to maintain a "moderate" standard of living.

His prospects of saving any money at this rate, obviously, are dim. In fact the bank found most people who live on wages deplete their checking accounts to zero or beyond, not just once in a while but nearly every month. When Mr. Average Wage-earner's Father dies, he leaves so little money that his wife must immediately go to work.

A spokesman for the bank draws the moralistic message from these statistics that Mr. Average only lives in this imprudent way because he stubbornly refuses to change his lifestyle. Noting how people filled restaurants on Friday nights even at the recession's height, the bank spokesman asks "Why weren't all those people buying hamburger at the store and cooking at home if the economy was so bleak?"

We can tell Detroit Bank and Trust why. Those people were eating out often, and still are, because many of their wives have already gone to work and there isn't anyone in the family who's not too tired to cook by Friday night.

And if banks hadn't let the chorus of the great hard sell of the '50s and '60s that persuaded Americans they needed every expensive amenity a booming economy could dream up, then it would be a little more seemly for bankers to bemoan the absence of thrifty and prudence today.

Meanwhile, Average Reader, take what cold comfort there is in knowing you're not alone in living dangerously vis-a-vis your bank balance. Your neighbors are likely doing it too.

Strength For Today

THE YOKE IS EASY

The word "yoke" appears several times in the gospels. There was a tradition in the early Church that Jesus, while a carpenter in Nazareth, made yokes. His invitation, "Take my yoke upon you . . . for my yoke is easy and my burden light," was evidently deeply cherished by the first generation of Christians.

As we see oxen with heavy yokes on their shoulders, we get the impression that the yoke is a burden. But it is not. It fits on the broad shoulders of the animals and makes possible the drawing of a heavy load with ease. It only cuts and bruises if the oxen try to break away from the cart.

The yoke of Christ is easy as long as we stay in the pathway in which He would direct us. His commandments, however, become burdensome and lacerating if we insist on going in a direction other than He indicates. The requirements of the Gospel are not hard to keep for those who really want to keep them.

Consumer Attitude-Studying

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Gallup Organization, well-known marketing and attitude research firm, has decided to enlarge its role in the increasingly significant area of measuring consumer economics and buying intentions.

George Gallup, chairman, scheduled a luncheon here today to announce that Jay Schmiedeskamp, director of the famed Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, will be employed to develop the program.

The Michigan survey will continue under the direction of F. Thomas Juster, who joined the organization four years ago, and George Katona, pioneer in consumer psychology and first director of the center, and Sch-miedeskamp's mentor.

Katona said the loss of Schmiedeskamp would be felt deeply at the center, but he praised the Gallup move, which he viewed not as competition but as "a wonderful gain for attitudinal and psychological research."

He indicated, however, that the Gallup organization's efforts would initially be somewhat handicapped by the limitations of data.

"Gallup obviously doesn't have what we have," he said. Asked what that was, he replied, "Twenty years of past data to understand new data."

The move underscores the growing recognition that not only consumer ability but also willingness to spend is critical to the effectiveness of business and government programs, and that it can be measured and used for predicting.

Gallup thus joins the Survey Research Center, Sindlinger & Co. and The Conference Board, currently the major forces in the measurement through interviews, of consumer economics and psychology, a field that has grown slowly over a 30-year period.

Its development has been spurred by the rise in discretionary income, or income above that which must be used for immediate needs and which thus affords families the option of what to buy, or even of whether to buy or bank.

During the 1970s consumer researchers demonstrated that, while consumers might be able to afford purchases, they often refrained from doing so because of Vietnam, Watergate and, as Katona says, a general malaise.

Katona commented a few days ago that "Watergate was an economic factor, an economic cancer." Millions of Americans with the financial ability to buy decided against big ticket purchases and investments. They lacked faith, he said.

Early in 1973, said Katona, he saw the recession of 1974 developing. With consumer attitudes deteriorating it became clear that expansion could not continue, he said, the projections of business and government economists notwithstanding.

"The most volatile and critical factor in the economy is consumer attitudes, consumer discretionary expenditures," he said. "It is not the economic cycle; consumers bring about the economic cycle."

Ex-Missionary Now Moderator

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—An 83-year-old retired missionary to Japan was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in America Wednesday. The Rev. William A. McIlwaine of Pensacola, Fla. succeeds Judge Roy Hendrick, of Jackson, Miss., a retired state court judge.

The Rev. Mr. McIlwaine is the son of the late William Beauregard McIlwaine, a native of Lancaster County, S.C., and a missionary to Japan for 43 years.

The new moderator is a graduate of Davidson College and the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. He served as a missionary to Japan for 44 years.

Also during its session Wednesday, the PCA General Assembly reaffirmed its commitment of separation from the World Council of Churches and adopted a policy manual for world missions that will enable it to cooperate with other mission agencies.

The new manual states that "the primary thrust will emphasize planting and strengthening Presbyterian churches," but it also permits a mission's committee to support missionaries through other agencies, provided the missionaries will have liberty to preach and practice PCA doctrines.

The assembly also approved a budget of $1.76 million for world mission work in 1977. That is $300,000 more than this year's appropriation. The funds will be used to support additional overseas missions.

In other business Wednesday, the assembly rejected an opportunity to submit a bid for the purchase of Sullins College in Bristol, Va.

Opponents to the proposal said the three-year-old denomination was not ready to take over the financially troubled institution, which closed last May.

And how about "nickle-wise and pound foolish." Or, for nickle-pinchers: "A nickle saved is a nickle earned."

But for fans of the 16th president, the big issue may be that eliminating the penny would eliminate Abe Lincoln from coinage for the first time since the Lincoln penny was inaugurated in 1909.

That could lead Republicans, whose party was more or less founded by Lincoln, to observe that the whole idea of ditching the penny really isn't worth a red nickle.

She spoke on "professional marriages." Greenville area psychiatrists and the staff of the Pitt County Mental Health Center were invited to the meeting, which was also a time to welcome wives of new members of the medical community here. Pictured with Dr. James are left to right new members, Sally Bramley, Marcia Tinglestad, and Mrs. William Laupus. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Advertising Drive To Push Swine Flu Shots

ATLANTA (AP) — "Roll Up Your Sleeve America" is the theme of a nationwide advertising campaign designed to persuade more than 130 million people to line up for their swine flu shots.

"The thrust of the campaign is that flu is a serious disease, that it is preventable, that we have a good vaccine and you should protect yourself," Center for Disease Control (CDC) spokesman Stafford Smith said Wednesday night.

Radio and television spots, newspaper and magazine ads and other materials have been prepared by CDC and the National Medical Audio Visual Center in Atlanta, said Betty Hooper of the CDC.

The advertising campaign will consist mostly of public service announcements and ads, she said. There is no plan to buy national advertising.

Smith said the CDC has been administering health advertising programs since 1963.

"At first it was polio, and later measles, rubella and mumps," he said. "Now the same system is to be used for swine flu."

The CDC produces prototype ad layouts, radio & TV tapes, and other materials, which are sent to state health departments and about a dozen major city health departments, Smith said.

Those agencies then localize the information — adding times and places where vaccinations are available — and provide the public service ads to local newspapers and broadcasters.

CDC also produces background stories and information sheets on the program — for example fact sheets on the jet injector gun which will be a major part of the vaccination effort, Smith said.

The guns, which literally blow the vaccine through the skin, can vaccinate up to 1,000 people per hour. Some 3,000 are expected to be used nationwide.

The campaign should begin in early October, Smith said, when the first doses of the vaccine are available. The CDC has said it expects more than 130 million doses to be produced by January.

"Things are behind schedule, but a lot of work is being done to catch up," he said.

A nationwide poll showed 93 per cent of all Americans "a very high figure," are aware of swine flu, CDC spokesman Don Berreth said Wednesday night.

"Of that 93 per cent, 53 per cent have decided they will get a shot and 13 per cent say they will not," Berreth said. "The rest are undecided."

Because there are questions about the effectiveness of the vaccine in children under age 18, vaccinations are planned only for adults.

If all the undecided adults elect to get shots, that will mean 143 million people, about 10 million more than the number of doses expected under current projections, Berreth said.

"Those are projections, and there may be more vaccine than that," Berreth said.

"Things are behind schedule, but a lot of work is being done to catch up," Smith said.

The delay was caused by doubts about the vaccine's reliability and insurance problems, he said, but now that it is being produced, "there will be an awful lot of advertising originating from state and local health units. There's going to be quite an awareness of flu this year."

Collectors Plan Flea Market

The Greenville Collectors Club met Tuesday night at the home of Tom Amoreno. Final details concerning the fifth annual flea market were planned.

The flea market will be held Sunday at Antiek Curiosa, located on Highway 33, four and a half miles from Greenville. Spaces are available at $5 and the public is invited to attend. Martha Elmore, 752-3456, can be contacted for further information.

Amoreno conducted a tour of his home and Francis Belcik told of his recent trip to South America.

The next meeting will be held at the ECU Manuscript Collection Tuesday, Oct. 12, 7:30 p.m.

Quarterly Meet Slated Sunday

Quarterly meeting and men's day will be observed at Tabernacle Baptist Church Sunday.

Worship service will be held at 11:30 a.m. and dinner will be served.

The church is located near Calcio on Highway 43.

Wall Safe Has A Past

The safe, found embedded behind a brick wall of a downtown building, was tied to an attempted robbery in 1876 by the notorious outlaw Jesse James.

The Lions Club of Northfield, Minn., where the robbery was attempted, had contacted the Magic City club. It seems the safe had been shipped to Minot many years ago and was used there for some time. The Northfield club sought the safe for a local museum.

The three-by-four-foot safe was located in the basement of a building owned by a local real estate agent and housing a hair styling college. Searchers spotted the door of the safe through a heating duct, behind a brick wall, and had to get permission to tear down the wall to remove their find.

The plate iron safe, dated 1851, will now be returned to the town in which three members of the James gang were killed and another three captured in the ill-fated robbery attempt.

Fall Revival To Begin Sept. 23

AYDEN — John W. Hill of Ayden will be the preacher for the fall revival services Sept. 23-25 at the Community Baptist Church here. Services will be held nightly at 7:30.

Hill was recently licensed to preach by the Community Baptist Church. He, his wife, Dottie, and their two children, Angie and Wesley, reside in Ayden.

Pastor Stanley E. Wingard and the church congregation invite the public to attend.

a lively shock to get them going. Mere exhortations accomplish little; and statistics are a bore.

So we muddle along. The Alaskan pipeline should be in operation in another 15 to 18 months, bringing in 600,000 to a million barrels per day. Four or five years hence, offshore wells may make an important contribution. If a free market were permitted to operate on oil and gas prices, sharp price increases might have a useful shock effect on the development of competitive sources.

It is all pretty iffy, ho-hum, and may-and-might. When it comes to an energy policy, the image of America is not the stern visage of Uncle Sam; it is rather the visage of Mad magazine's Alfred E. Newman. Who? Me worry? It's no way to lead the free world.

have been coordinated with Carter. On Sept. 8, Carter himself attacked Parsky (without naming him). Moreover, Carter defined the issue as one of "human rights." In fact, administration officials say the principal object of the Arabs' anti-Israel boycott, based on the state of belligerency between Israel and the Arabs, is to prohibit any Arab benefits to Israel growing out of Arab trade with the U.S.

Rostenkowski wrote a letter to Parsky, a day after Ribicoff's outburst, to "commend" him "for the manner in which you conducted yourself . . . on a most delicate issue."

"I do not believe," he said, "that sound legislative policy can be based on emotional arguments."

A footnote: A partial explanation of the Ribicoff-Carter strategy is found in the latest Lou Harris survey, showing only 48 per cent of the Jewish vote now backing Carter — far below normal for a Democratic presidential nominee.

Lee's Votes Just Failed Materialize

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Years of faithful service to the party paid off for Jimmy Green Tuesday when Democratic voters gave him their nomination for lieutenant governor.

Green had 56 per cent of the vote as he defeated former Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee. He faces Republican Bill Hiatt in the Nov. 2 general election.

In state government, Lee offered bold programs and promised dramatic changes that he said would help the people.

—Organization. Green's campaign was well managed and efficiently operated. Lee managed his own campaign, an effort that takes time from campaigning.

—Turnout. While Lee got nearly every black vote that was cast, the black turnout was lost in some crucial areas such as Charlotte and Winston-Salem. On the other hand, there was a strong turnout rural voters who voted heavily for Green.

Investigated 7 Collisions Here

Seven traffic collisions resulting in an estimated $8,650 property damage were investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Damage from that mishap was estimated at $1,600 to the Gray car and $500 to the Smith auto.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a three-vehicle mishap on Greene Street, 2,500 feet South of the Moore Street intersection about 4:06 p.m. involving vehicles driven by Marie Anderson Carraway of Route 6, Greenville; Connie Wilton McGowan of Route 1, Vanceboro; and Debbie Jean Grubbs of 201 Church St. Investigators, who charged Miss Grubbs with exceeding a safe speed, estimated damage at $250 to the Carraway car, $975 to the McGowan auto and $1,375 to the Grubbs vehicle.

Again no charges were made following investigation of a 9:50 p.m. mishap at 603 Avery St. Officers reported a car driven by Mary Parker Crosland of Charlotte collided with a parked car owned by Walter Edward Briley of 603 Avery St., causing an estimated $1,675 damage to the Crosland car and $225 damage to the Briley auto. Cars driven by Amy Kathryn Martin of 127 Avery St. and Cathryn Phelps Meacham of 213 Windsor Rd. were involved in an 11:08 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Ninth and Cotanche Streets, according to investigators.

No charges were made by officers who estimated damage at $600 to the Martin car and $250 to the Meacham vehicle. David T. Windberry of 506 East Tenth St. was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 3:40 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Contentnea Streets. Police said the Windberry Truck and a truck operated by Hiram Edsel Garris Jr. of Route 8, Greenville collided, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Garris vehicle and $125 damage to the Windberry truck. Cars driven by Marty Jay Parrish of Winston Salem and James Scott Southern of Winston-Salem collided about 12:15 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth Street and Greenville Boulevard, causing an estimated $250 damage to the Parrish car and $125 damage to the Southern auto. No charges were reported.

An 8:25 a.m. mishap on Greene Street near the Northern End of the Tar River bridge fill involved cars operated by Inga Overton Nichols of Riverside Trailer Pk. and Rachel Beaman Cannon of Route 5, Greenville, according to investigators. No charges were reported, and damage was set at $50 to the Nichols car and $250 to the Cannon auto.

Again Invite A Ford Visit

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — President Ford has been offered a third chance to visit this small town of 9,000 persons as it celebrates its past.

Dick Ellis, chairman of the North Carolina Bicentennial Commission, said Ford has been invited to attend the 196th anniversary of the Revolutionary War Battle of Kings Mountain, which will be celebrated Oct. 7-9. Ellis said the invitation was extended by North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser with South Carolina Gov. Jim Edwards.

Twice before during the last three years Ford has accepted invitations to the town on the border of the two states, but canceled out both times.

A spokesman for the White House had no comment on the president's latest invitation.

Wolves Are Safe In Pens

DOYLE, Calif. (AP) — Here, in this rich, dryland cattle country, 14 wolves might be making one of the breed's last stands in America.

Gone 30 years from the wilds of California, this predator does not stalk the plains anew, however.

The 14 wolves are in pens on the property of the North American Predatory Animal Center, a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization incorporated in 1970 for the purpose of preserving the wolf in its natural habitat.

"We operate because of such things as the indiscriminate destruction of wolves in Alaska," said President Ingrid Lustig. "They are still persecuted, but more and more people are realizing that wolves are there for the purpose of naturally checking the size of herds."

"Alaska may have 5,000 to 10,000 left and Canada 10,000 to 25,000 but when you consider there's only 2 million, that's not very many left in the wilds."

Small Window Caught Suspect

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Credit the capture of a robbery suspect to a bathroom window. Sheriff's officers said that when they tried to serve a warrant to the suspect, a 19-year-old youth, he tried to elude them by slipping through the bathroom window. The window wasn't quite big enough, however, and the suspect got stuck. It took several men to free the youth, officers said.

Arrest Suspect For Tampering

James Ronald Braxton, 18, of 2010 Blount St. was arrested yesterday on charges of tampering with a parked auto, according to Chief of Police Glenn Cannon.

Cammon said Braxton was charged in connection with an August 28 incident at the Evans Street Auto Service, 1225 South Evans St. which has been under investigation.

Dismiss Two Rape Claims

GREENSBORO (AP) — Charges of rape filed against two Greensboro public school teachers have been officially dismissed by Guilford County District Court Judge Edward K. Washington.

The action Wednesday put the case into the hands of the Greensboro School Board. It is a case some policemen said was the most bizarre they had seen.

Paul E. Sandifer, 58, of Rt. 6, Greensboro, and Mrs. Carole Lewis, 30, of Greensboro, both teachers at Foust Elementary School, were jailed Tuesday and placed under $5,000 bond. Police Capt. P. J. Colvard said they were released late that night when police discovered "there was no rape."

Police said another teacher at the school, Mrs. Ramona S. Payne, 38, said she had been raped. In a special meeting of the school board Wednesday morning, the board began an investigation of the incident.

Sandifer, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Payne were put on a leave of absence by the board during the investigation.

Walter T. Johnson Jr., school board chairman, as well as other school officials, refused to comment on the case. School board attorney William D. Caffrey said that the board had determined the matter "merits further investigation."

New Tax Bill Also Has Bad News For Many People

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The big tax bill pending in Congress has some bad news for many ordinary taxpayers.

If you are accustomed to getting tax-free sick pay from your employer, or if you've been taking a deduction for maintaining a part-time office in your home, you may find your taxes going up.

Furthermore, your deduction for a vacation home may be in jeopardy, and you can expect Uncle Sam to take his share of your big gambler winnings before you get yours.

These provisions, along with continuation of individual and business tax cuts and a variety of special tax benefits are included in the bill which Congress may give final approval to this week.

Here is how some of the changes would affect ordinary taxpayers:

SICK PAY
The bill eliminates the present exclusion and replaces it with a much narrower exclusion that benefits only permanently disabled persons who retired before age 65.

Present law allows an employee, once certain conditions are met, to exclude from taxation up to $100 a week in sick pay. This is a payment made to a sick worker in lieu of wages.

The lower the sick pay and the sooner the worker is hospitalized, the quicker the tax benefit is available. But in no case may sick pay exceed $75 a week for the first 30 days of an illness and $100 a week after the first month.

At the end of the year, the worker totals up his sick pay and subtracts it from income subject to taxation.

Congress wants to end this system for several reasons: One reason is that on a percentage basis, sick pay is far more beneficial to someone in a higher tax bracket than to a low- or middle-income worker. More than 60 per cent of the benefits go to taxpayers with annual incomes above $20,000.

—Furthermore, in many cases, a worker would be better off financially if he stayed at home and claimed sick pay than if he went to work.

—As with many other tax benefits, the taxpayer has to wade through such a maze of forms, instructions, exceptions and calculations that the sick-pay benefit often is ignored.

Congress would abolish the present exclusion designed to benefit taxpayers who temporarily miss work because of illness or injury. Instead, the pending bill would allow an exclusion only for persons under age 65 who retire with a total, permanent disability.

Under the new provision, which would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976, an early retiree could exclude from taxation up to $5,200 a year income from any source, including pensions, interest, dividends and rents.

The $5,200 maximum would be reduced once total income reaches $15,000. The tax exclusion would be eliminated if the total income reaches $20,200.

BUSINESS AT HOME
If you regularly use a portion of your home in earning your income, present law allows you to deduct from income subject to taxes a portion of the cost of maintaining the home.

A series of Internal Revenue Service rulings and court decisions has left the status of such a deduction unclear. In clearing up the confusion, Congress has decided to tighten the deduction because of what the lawmakers perceived as abuses by some taxpayers.

To qualify for a deduction under the new rule, a portion of the home must be used regularly and exclusively for business or work.

Here are some examples of how the new rule, retroactive to Jan. 1, would work:

—An employee would be allowed the deduction only if the home office were set up for the convenience of the employer.

—An accountant could qualify if the home were his regular place of business.

—A person who sells household products and uses the home as the sole fixed location of the business could take a deduction if a portion of the home were used for inventory storage.

Under any circumstances, the deduction for business use of the home could not exceed income from that use.

Taxpayers who qualify for a deduction may allocate a portion of their rent or mortgage principal, utilities, maintenance and insurance costs to business use and thus deduct that proportion.

VACATION HOMES
Present law allows a person to deduct certain expenses if an activity is engaged in for profit. Because of this, many taxpayers are able to deduct as business expenses the costs of maintaining a vacation home on the grounds the home is rented out to others for a part of the year.

The bill would spell out for the first time just how much time the owner may use the home and still qualify for the deduction.

Beginning next Jan. 1, a deduction (such as for depreciation, maintenance and utilities) could be taken only if the home were rented out 10 days for each day it is used by the owner. The deduction could not exceed the gross income from the rental.

If a vacation home were rented out for fewer than 15 days a year, no business deduction could be taken but any income from the rental would be taxable.

GAMBLING
Gambling winnings already are taxable if they exceed losses. But it is difficult for the Treasury to know who has won what because there are only a few reporting requirements.

The bill would require operators of race tracks and lotteries to withhold for the government 20 per cent of state lottery winnings over $5,000 and of race winnings above $1,000.

Others, such as operators of commercial lotteries, would have to withhold 20 per cent if the payout were on odds of 300 to 1 or higher. Slot machines, bingo and keno winnings would be exempt.

The changes would be effective 90 days after the bill becomes law.

'Obnoxious' To Elizabeth

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II thinks a Danish producer's plan to make a film in Britain about the sex life of Jesus Christ is "obnoxious," according to Buckingham Palace.

"Her Majesty finds this proposal quite as obnoxious as most of her subjects do," a palace spokesman said Wednesday.

He said the queen's views on the reported plan by producer Jens Joergen Thorsen are contained in letters she is sending to over 150 people who have written to her complaining about the project.

The spokesman said the queen, who is the temporal head of the Church of England, did not intend to make a public statement on the matter.

Prime Minister James Callaghan has already said Thorsen would be "a most unwelcome and undesirable visitor" and hinted he could be barred from Britain as a threat to public order.

Carter Sees Campaign As 'Demo Tide'

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Jimmy Carter calls his campaign against President Ford a part of the tide of Democratic history, saying it is another installment in "a battle joined 100 times over" by Democrats championing progress against Republican opposition.

Carter said Wednesday the battle lines are drawn with special clarity because Ford, in Congress and the White House, has been a man of "tireless opposition to all the great legislation that bears the names of Democrats who cared for the people and were not controlled by special interests." With Ford on the road for the first time in the campaign and appearing little more than 30 miles away in Ann Arbor, Mich., the Democratic presidential nominee claimed kinship with the party's roster of past heroes. He told a crowd of cheering union men that with the help of labor he will win the White House.

It was neither the night nor the place for Carter to lecture on the more conservative aspects of his campaign program, not in Dearborn, across the street from the headquarters of strike-bound Ford Motor Co. before a convention of the Michigan AFL-CIO. Carter said nothing contrary to his earlier efforts to remind voters that he had, after all, been rated among the more conservative contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. Indeed, he mentioned the desirability of a balanced federal budget.

He just didn't make a major point of it.

Carter moved on today to Saginaw, Mich., for a Mexican Independence Day rally, then to Indianapolis, Baltimore and finally Washington, where he and to address an Italian-American dinner. Ford also is to appear there, although the schedule left little possibility that they would meet.

The former Georgia governor began Wednesday in the dust of a parched South Dakota farm, then, joined by running mate Sen. Walter F. Mondale and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigned in the congealed mud of a big farm show in Lake Crystal, Minn.

At farm country stops, Carter denounced Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and accused Ford's administration of indifference to the plight of family farmers beset by the worst drought since dust bowl days.

Carter assailed the Agriculture Department for what he said was a decision to bar issuance of new crop insurance policies in areas of the upper Midwest that need them most. In Dearborn, where the more than 1,000 delegates to the AFL-CIO convention filled a hotel ballroom, Carter recited the "Whip Inflation Now" program, with its proposed taxonomic errors by resigned President Richard Nixon and Ford, that included price increases; blaming the two Republicans and vetoes of public works and for "our current economic public employment bills passed crisis." by the Democratic Congress.

EXPERIMENTAL COINS—These experimental coins were displayed at a Washington press conference Wednesday in which the U.S. Mint said a government-sponsored study has recommended that the government eliminate pennies by 1980 and replace half-dollars with a new, smaller dollar coin. Mint Director Mary Brooks expressed reservations about the conclusions. At top are sides of an experimental dollar coin featuring a Liberty head and a cap on a pole, long a symbol of freedom, and the "coming of a new dawn". At bottom is a Martha Washington galvanus used in testing various coinage metals. (AP Wirephoto)

UPS Struck By Teamsters

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Teamsters union members were striking United Parcel Service facilities in 15 eastern states today after contract talks failed. The strike threatened to tie up small parcel shipments throughout most of the East except for the New York metropolitan area, a company spokesman said. At UPS headquarters here a spokesman said the strike involves about 18,000 members in 74 Teamsters locals. Union leaders were not immediately available for comment today but one union member said the strike centered on job protection issues not wages. A union member said the Teamsters objected to the company's plans to add more part-time workers. The union also objected to UPS's reported plans to create separate seniority lists for each work shift. Under that proposal a worker being transferred to a new shift would lose the seniority established on the old shift, he said. A federal mediator has been assisting in negotiations for the past few months. Union contracts began running out in April, a spokesman said. States where UPS facilities are being struck are South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Maine, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and parts of New York. Facilities in the District of Columbia are also being struck. Pickets were reported in Charlotte and Greensboro, N.C.

Tabulation Error Found

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Discovery of a tabulation error in Buncombe County's vote totals left a cloud today over Lamar Gudger's apparent victory over Glenn Brown for the Democratic nomination to Congress from North Carolina's 11th District. According to unofficial returns, Gudger still held a 770-vote margin over Brown, as election officials prepared today to begin their canvass of Tuesday's balloting. Brown indicated Wednesday that he will study the results carefully from the 17 counties of the district as they are verified through official canvasses before he concedes the nomination to Gudger. Mrs. Sonya Friedrich, executive secretary of the Buncombe County Board of Elections, said the error resulted when a group of precincts was added into the totals twice. The first count in Buncombe County gave Gudger 10,886 votes and Brown 5,423. The corrected Buncombe total showed Gudger with 9,503 votes in his home county and Brown with 4,663. Unofficial tabulation of the 17 counties in the district showed Gudger with 22,772 votes and Brown with 22,002.

Helped By Rain

Greenville received 2.85 inches of rainfall as of midnight Wednesday, according to statistics reported by the Greenville Utilities Commission. However, the river level, at 4.3 feet last night at midnight, was down to 3.9 feet at 8 a.m. today. "The rainfall will be of some help to the soybeans," said Ed Yancey, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service. "It will help some of them fill out, but some have already been hurt beyond help (from lack of water). "The peanuts will be helped slightly, even if the rain only keeps people from digging them up too early. "One of the main benefits is that it will provide better seedbed conditions for cover crops and small grains," Yancey explained. Many persons have already started planting cover crops and small grain crops. "It's just nice to have the water," he added.

all sections of the state. He carried Wake County for the first time Tuesday after having "worked hard" in that section in his effort to reverse the first primary lead enjoyed by Mrs. Scott.

The attorney fought off adverse campaign publicity recently that resulted from charges that he may have concealed perjury in a murder case he was handling.

Ten days before Tuesday's primary Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey ordered an investigation to determine Brooks' role in the matter and Saturday night, only three days before the runoff primary, Attorney General Rufus Edmisten issued a report clearing Brooks of any wrong doing.

Brooks told the Associated Press in an interview that if the attorney general's report had been issued any later, he did not feel he could have won the election.

The result of the legal publicity, good or bad, was "impossible to evaluate," he told the Daily Reflector, although the candidate noted that "my opponent, as well as I, was bothered by having it happen."

Brooks, who had said prior to the runoff that he felt the charges may have been politically motivated, noted Wednesday that he plans to initiate no further action on his part concerning the investigation.

He said, however, that the "situation is there for public inspection" and he added that he thinks the issue is before the State Bar Association, "not because of any action by me but because the Bar has the responsibility to serve the public."

Brooks said that the matter "had no place in the campaign," and "took 12 important days" out of the race for him. He added

Raleigh Repeals Water Control

RALEIGH (AP)—The Raleigh City Council voted today to repeal the city's emergency water ordinance.

The vote came after Pat Goodwin, Raleigh public utilities director, told the council the flow of the Neuse River, the city's primary source of water, had increased up to 400 million gallons a day and that water was flowing into the Beaver Dam Reservoir.

The ordinance could be reactivated if the flow of the Neuse drops to 11 million gallons a day and consumption exceeds 22 million gallons daily.

The offer was advanced by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the party's gubernatorial nominee and titular head. Saturday Hunt will ask the state executive committee to approve a number of party appointments including Betty R. McCain of Wilson as party chairman.

Lee was second vice chairman of the state party several years ago and recently stepped down as a member of the Democratic National Committee.

that he hopes it does not happen again in anyone's campaign. The runoff victor expressed confidence in the upcoming November election in which he faces incumbent Republican Labor Commissioner T. Avery Nye. He said the Democratic team should do well in all races, including the Council of State slide.

"We have to remember that there is still a lot of work to be done" before the November balloting, he said. Brooks, born in Greenville in 1937, graduated from high school here in 1955 and was a Morehead Scholar at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. A 1962 graduate of the University of Chicago School of Law, Brooks has engaged in the general practice of law in Raleigh since 1971.

He served as a clerk to Supreme Court Chief Justice William H. Bobbitt from 1962-63 and was an aide to former Gov. Terry Sanford and administrative officer of the 1969 General Assembly. Brooks has authored and edited several books, most of which deal with the formulation of constitutional law.

Demo Post Is Offered Lee

RALEIGH (AP) — Howard Lee, defeated Tuesday in his bid for Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, has been asked to serve as first vice chairman in the state party.

Lee said this morning that he will decide whether to accept sometime today.

The offer was advanced by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the party's gubernatorial nominee and titular head. Saturday Hunt will ask the state executive committee to approve a number of party appointments including Betty R. McCain of Wilson as party chairman.

Lee was second vice chairman of the state party several years ago and recently stepped down as a member of the Democratic National Committee.

Sheriff Leads Harvest Chore

STANWOOD, Wash. (AP) — Snohomish County Sheriff J.J. Harvey put on the hat of a farmer, personally leading the harvest of a 10-acre corn field near here. Each stalk of corn, the sheriff explained, had been planted side-by-side with a marijuana plant.

Harvey said the crop, which he figured may be worth a million dollars, was located by helicopter Tuesday. The marijuana stands just as high as the corn, he said. "It's absolutely fantastic the amount of marijuana that's out there," said the sheriff. "There's such a volume of it, it's going to be very difficult to dispose of it. But a great amount of it has been harvested already."

In a recent Gallup Poll, typical American travelers called New York City as "the most interesting," with "the best food," and "the best-looking women."

Mass Exodus Of Italians From Quake-Prone Area

UDINE, Italy (AP) — Thousands of residents of the quake-devastated Friuli region abandoned their homeland today in an exodus to the Adriatic coast or the Dolomite mountains, seeking ground that doesn't tremble.

Long lines of cars, trucks, buses and horse-drawn carts left the streets of this area of northeastern Italy. The fleeing thousands left behind the ruins of homes leveled by a series of quakes that began May 6 and still continue.

The government assigned three army units with hundreds of trucks to assist those choosing to leave. Several thousand persons have already reached hotels and empty houses at summer resorts on the coast or in the mountains.

Thirty-five tremors were recorded Wednesday, two of them nearly as strong as the first quake four months ago that killed nearly 1,000 people and out 70,000 homeless into tents. The May quake registered 6.9 on the Richter Scale.

"A wave of persons are abandoning their towns," said Luigi Gui, head of a parliamentary commission that toured the quake area. "The new quakes haven't just destroyed more houses. They have killed the hope and determination to rebuild which had survived for all these months."

Since last Saturday, eight more people have died, 80 have been injured and the government estimates 20,000 more people have been made homeless.

The new quakes flattened dozens of towns. The few buildings standing were split by huge cracks and have been evacuated.

"Whatever had been left is now gone," said Antonio Mancini, administrator of the Cultural Affairs Ministry after a tour Wednesday. "The buildings are destroyed, and the art treasures we had not moved into safe areas are to be considered lost. The bell tower of Venzone, which had survived earlier tremors, crumbled to pieces. It is the greatest loss today."

Frequent rain, an early cold spell and knee-deep mud made life in the tent cities miserable. Those who were rebuilding their houses gave up hope, and many sought visas to emigrate abroad.

Seismologists were puzzled by the strength of the new quakes. They had predicted that the land would tremble for several months, but they said such strong tremors so long after the initial shocks were exceptional and unexpected.

"This might even be a brand new quake, and at this stage nobody knows what could happen tomorrow," said Prof. Calvino Gasperini of the Italian Institute of Geophysics.

Wednesday's shocks were also felt in Austria, Yugoslavia, West Germany and northern Italy to the west of Friuli, but no damage was reported to Buildings swayed in Venice, art works or important buildings. Padua, Vicenza and Florence, Italy.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cloudy skies with seasonably mild temperatures are due today for most of the nation. Cooler weather and rain are expected in the Northeast. (AP Wirephoto)

By The Associated Press
A low pressure disturbance that brought significant rainfall to North Carolina yesterday will weaken and move slowly northward today, leaving widely scattered showers lingering across the state for most of the day.

The low is centered over the North Carolina-South Carolina border area. Generous amounts of rainfall have been received from the system.

Four to five inches were reported in some sections of the southern Piedmont as well as portions of the eastern Piedmont and coastal plain. Elsewhere rainfall totals ranged around two inches.

Highs yesterday ranged from some 50s and low 60s in the mountains to low to mid 80s in the southeast. Fog and drizzle developed over many sections of the state during the night. Temperatures early this morning ranged from the 50s in the mountains to around 70 along the coast.

Showers will be most probable over the Outer Banks and northern coastal area today. Elsewhere showers are likely to be light and scattered.

A cold front is expected to move into the state tonight from the northwest, bringing with it more stable air and the chance of showers over the western Piedmont. High temperatures for the next couple days will range from the upper 60s to mid 70s in the mountains to low to mid 80s over southeastern sections. Lows tonight will range from some upper 40s in the mountains to upper 60s and low 70s along the north coast.

Recreational weather outlook calls for widely scattered showers today and across some sections tonight. Otherwise partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures will be the rule. Small craft advisories remain in effect along the coast from Cape Lookout northward and on the sounds. Kerr Lake level is 296.8 feet.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, developing little follow-through on Wednesday's modest advance.

Trading was quiet. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 1.33 at 977.98. Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted an absence of any stimulating economic news to sustain the mild flurry of buying that carried the Dow to a fractional gain on Wednesday.

As the market opened this morning, the government reported that the rise of personal income slowed to its most sluggish pace in 13 months during August.

Analysts observed that the figure was not an especially good portent for a hoped-for resurgence in consumer spending.

Jostens was the most active NYSE issue, down 1/8 at 23. A 147,100-share block traded at 23.

Servomation climbed 1/8 to 16 1/4. The company announced an offer of $17.50 apiece for 700,000 of its outstanding common shares.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks edged up .03 to 55.70 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .12 at 102.35.

NCNB Will Leave Five-Points Office

North Carolina National Bank announced that it will combine its Five Points office with its new main office operation on Oct. 29.

Jerry W. Powell, vice president and NCNB city executive commented, "In full cooperation with the downtown merchants and the Redevelopment Commission's urban renewal plan for the Five Points, area, we have chosen to combine the operation."

Powell added, "In view of these plans, we will relocate our Five Points personnel to the new main office prior to the busy Christmas season."

The spokesman said that many downtown customers already use the new main office, located on the river at First and Greene Streets, because of "improved parking and banking facilities."

Originally built in 1914 for the National Bank of Greenville, the Five Points building later served as headquarters for the State Bank and Trust Co.

The building served as NCNB's main office after the firm merged with State Bank and Trust in 1969.

The Redevelopment Commission acquired the property in 1972 and plans to remove the building under its urban renewal plan for the Central Business District.

Season average continued to climb, Bryan reported, as sales of 28,418,396 pounds brought $31,702,984, an overall average of $111.56 per hundred pounds.

Top practical price paid here was $1.30 per pound with some tobacco going to the buying

Rampants Seek Second Victory In Visit To Unbeaten Kinston

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
After putting together a victory last week against New Bern, one might suppose that Rose High School Coach Dave Bumgarner might be happy with his Rampants. But such is not the case. No. Instead Bumgarner is not at all pleased with the way things have gone as the team readies for a game that will prove a lot tougher. This Friday, Rose travels to Kinston to meet the twice-victorious Vikings who have only allowed seven points in their two outings.

"I'm not at all pleased," Bumgarner said, referring back to last Friday's 13-0 win over New Bern. "We played poorly. New Bern was not a well-disciplined club and they played poorly too."

The Bears were not in comparison with Rose's first opponent, the Goldsboro Cougars, who took a 27-8 win over the Rampants. "I don't know if Goldsboro had that much effect on us or not," Bumgarner said. "We are not blocking crisply, and we're not tackling with authority. We should be much further along right now than we are. We're not nearly as aggressive as we should be."

The coach said that Rose lost out on several opportunities to score when they should have against New Bern. "We're just not mentally alert and thinking football, both on offense and defense."

Bumgarner added that he felt there were several unnecessary hits in the game—but both teams. "This is how Curtis (Little) got hurt. He was hit after the whistle."

Little, the Rampant fullback, and the leading rusher so far, with 98 yards, suffered torn ligaments in his knee just prior to halftime and underwent surgery on Saturday. He is not expected to return this year.

"Our passing game did show some improvement," the coach said. "It's the best it's been in a long time at this stage of the season."

Defensively, Bumgarner singled out linebacker David Northrup and defensive end Raymond Wooten for their play.

"But we've got to be more aggressive. We've got to get mentally right. We're going through the motions and not really attacking. We need to get to the ball on defense, and think more."

Mike Brown will move into the vacant spot left by Little's injury. Greg Lassiter is being upped to the starting tight end spot, while Mark Conway moves to a linebacker job. Mike Shank will also see action at the defensive end.

"We've moving the football fairly well," Bumgarner added, "but we're just having breakdowns that are stopping us."

This week's opponent has lived with good defense so far this year. The Vikings went 7½ quarters of football before allowing a touchdown, and that came only after a roughing the punter penalty kept a stalled drive alive.

The Vikes downed Ayden-Grifton in their opener, 29-0, and then followed that up with their first win over Wilson, 19-7.

"They run the wishbone, just like we do," Bumgarner said. "On defense, they'll give a four-four look sometimes, but usually they work from a 5-2. They like to run on offense and they have a good quarterback."

"They haven't pulled off the 'big' play yet, but have taken advantage of the other team's mistakes with their defense. So I look for a very physical game. And having to play over there is no pleasure neither. They are very strong at home."

Walter Gardner leads the Kinston rushing with 89 yards, while Victor Stewart has 77. Leslie Hawkins has 55 yards and Ray Moore, 54. Quarter back Michael Graham has 50 yards rushing and has hit five of 18 passes for 100 yards. His chief target has been Lin Dawson, who has five catches for 93 yards.

David Hawkins, a 6-3, 198-pound linebacker leads the defense. "They are awfully big," Bumgarner said. "They may be one of the biggest teams we face."

The game promises to be a big test for the 1-1 Rampants and may let them know what lies ahead of them in conference competition. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. in Grainger Stadium.

Defensive Tackle Gary Porter

Porter's Foes Face Big Task

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
When some opponents of Rose High School get down to make a block on the charging defensive line, they might have a few second thoughts when the man across from them shows up.

It's just not an easy job to have to go up against the biggest man on the Rampant team, 260-pound defensive tackle Gary Porter.

Like a lot of linemen, Porter would like to run with the ball sometimes. "If I could have real good speed, I would love to play some other position," he said. "But with my size, I guess they figure that I can do a pretty good job of clogging up the middle."

Coach Dave Bumgarner obviously agrees. "He's working as hard as anyone," he says of the senior co-captain. "I'm pleased with his aggressiveness and his attitude. If he keeps working hard, he'll make someone a good player."

Porter moved up to the varsity after playing JV ball as a sophomore and promptly earned a starting job. But after the games, he says, he found himself playing behind Joe Godette. "He was quicker than me. I think I've improved a lot since last year, though. I do think that if I'd been on the varsity my sophomore year, I might have learned more, and could have been a better player as a junior."

Gary has always been a good-sized fellow, he says. "But my brother Jeff is big too. He has a little more speed." Jeff is a seventh grader just starting into tackle football. "He was really bigger than I was when he was a baby. I was small, I think, I weighed about eight pounds or so."

"My folks have fed me good too," he added.

As a co-captain, Gary feels that he has part of the job of getting the team up for the games. "But Rocky (Butler) does a lot of the picking up. I try to encourage people in practice, but he's just more outgoing."

Comparing this year's version of the Rampants with last year's, Porter feels that most of the non-seniors haven't learned what it takes to win. "We've had to work for the title. A lot of people are riding on what we did last year, but you can't. You've got to be a winner yourself and get the work done yourself. I think we have a good team. It's just a matter of getting it together."

As far as this week's game is concerned, Gary feels that the Rampants can top Kinston's unbeaten Vikings. "We're improving. If we can keep the quarterback from throwing the ball with a lot of success, I think we can control their ground game. They have good people and I expect a good game. I think we did a good job in holding Goldsboro except for a couple of big plays, and we did a good job against New Bern."

Aside from football, Gary is a member of the Key Club and is active in scouting, where he has earned the Star rank. "I've got a lot done toward my Eagle rank, and I ope to get it before, I age out."

While he wrestled last year, Porter feels he may pass up that sport this winter. He also likes to play golf and water ski.

Porter is hopeful of a collegiate career. "I'd like to play, and if I get an offer, I'll have to consider it." He added that he'd like to study either law or some field of medicine.

But for the present, Porter will be studying his opponents across the line, looking for a shot at the ballcarrier.

A's Getting Finley Offer

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — In a sudden effort to keep together the three-time world champion baseball team he built, Oakland Athletics owner Charlie Finley has made salary offers to five top unsigned players.

Finley huddled for two hours Wednesday with agent Jerry Kapstein, who represents pitcher Rollie Fingers, outfielders Joe Rudi and Don Baylor, first baseman Gene Tenace and shortstop Bert Campaneris.

Afterwards Kapstein said he was "more not optimistic than optimistic" the players would accept the offers. But he added: "It was a constructive session. The barn door is now open."

Finley said Kapstein plans to call him Friday in Chicago with an answer. The players become free agents unless they're signed by October.

The two had not met since April, before Finley tried to sell Fingers and Rudi to the Boston Celtics a million dollars each and to sell pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn canceled the deals.

But after Wednesday's session, both Kapstein and Finley seemed to be in favor of letting bygones be bygones.

"I'd like to keep all five of these people," Finley said. "They're good ballplayers."

And Kapstein said all five "definitely want to remain in Oakland."

Finley was here for a student lecture series at the University of Rhode Island.

Conley Puts Two-Game Streak On Line

D. H. Conley's Vikings put their winning streak on the line Friday night when they travel to strong Havelock, while Farmville Central will be trying to flex its newly found muscles against Plymouth, also in a home game. Meanwhile, North Pitt and Ayden-Grifton will be seeking to get out of the doldrums of two-game losing streaks with road games. North Pitt travels to Lillington, while the Chargers go to Washington.

The Jaguars of Farmville Central downed Eastern Wayne, 33-27, for their first win of the young season. The Jags had lost to strong Williamston in the season-opener.

Defensively, the Jaguars put together a good game, and Coach Gene Brewer said each player showed improvement.

This week's the Farmville Central eleven take on Plymouth, a team that has lost its first two games, bowing to Perquimans in a 54-16 romp the first week and to 4-A Northeastern, 16-6 last week.

With continued improvement, Brewer feels that the Jaguars will be able to have a shot at a second straight win.

Coach Pat Smith had reason to be proud of his North Pitt Panthers despite their losing effort. The Panthers were nipped by the West Craven Eagles in the last few moments of the ball game, 14-9.

George Little and Jeff Nelson were the outstanding players for North Pitt, each recovering a fumble from the Eagles. Little and Nelson also led the tackles for their team.

Panther Larry Spencer suffered a muscle spasm during the game, but is expected to be ready for Friday night's affair.

In that game, the Panthers will be on the road, meeting 2-0 Lillington.

The Ayden-Grifton Chargers have had their rough moments so far this year. Against two strong non-conference challengers, they've come out on the short end. Last week, it was Ahoskie's Cougars who knocked them off, 27-6.

William West led the Chargers on offense with 125 yards. William Taft was one of the defensive standouts with 11 tackles. Mike Teachy was also cited by Coach Claude Kennedy for his defensive play, despite suffering with a sprained ankle. That injury is not expected to keep him out of this week's contest.

The Chargers go up against Washington Friday, and the opposition may not be as rough as it has been in the first two games. The Pam Pack dropped an 18-0 decision to Bertie in its opener, then outscored Greene Central, 12-8, in last week's game, despite being totally outdone statistically by the Rams.

Conley had to wait a day to get its second straight victory, beating West Carteret on Saturday, 28-18. It marked the second time the Vikings had knocked off a Carteret County team, as East fell to them a week earlier.

"We had a good game, despite giving up an early touchdown," Coach Chuck Dunn said. The Vikings came through the game without injury.

Jeff McDaniels led the way, scoring three touchdowns, one on an aerial and the other two on the ground.

This week, however, the Vikings face their toughest test in Havelock's 3-0 steamroller. The Havelock eleven hasn't allowed a point this year, and made Camp Lejeune its latest victim, 30-0, last Friday.

In other area games last weekend, Williamston kept its winning streak alive with a third straight win over Roanoke, 40-0; Jamesville bowed for the second time, to Chocowinity, 28-12; and Greene Central fell before Washington, 12-8.

This week, Jamesville plays host to Belhaven; Roanoke seeks its first win against Eastern Plains Conference rival Elm City; Williamston plays host to Murfreesboro; and Green Central is at home to Southern Wayne.

Sports Briefs

By The Associated Press
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Tucson Toros of the Pacific Coast League no longer are affiliated with the Oakland A's, the minor league team says.

The termination ends a four-year agreement between the two baseball clubs.

Toros General Manager Dave Cartun said Wednesday negotiations are continuing with three other major league teams and that he expected a new agreement would be announced within a week.

Although he declined to name the three teams, they are believed to be the San Diego Padres, the Texas Rangers and the Milwaukee Brewers.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Professional Bowlers Association has lined up a pair of $100,000 tournaments for its fall tour, which the organization says will be richest in its history.

By the end of the year, there will have been 36 PBA tournaments with a gross prize fund of almost $2.7 million, a spokesman said.

The tour opens Oct. 12 with the $50,000 Syracuse Open in Minot, N.D. On Oct. 22, a $60,000 tournament starts in Battle Creek, Mich.

Syracuse, N.Y., is the site of the $60,000 Syracuse Open on Nov. 5, followed by a pair of $100,000 tournaments in Glendale Heights, Ill., on Nov. 14 and in Detroit on Nov. 30. The Fall tour winds up in Honolulu with the $20,000 Hawaiian Invitational.

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix Suns have trimmed their rookie roster by one more by placing 6-foot-8 Paul Miller on waivers.

Miller, of Oregon State, was the National Basketball Association team's fourth-round pick in last spring's college draft.

The cutback started Tuesday with the release of 6-3 Ralph Walker of St. Mary's Calif., 6-6 Brad Warble of Eastern Illinois, 6-5 Gary Jackson of Arizona State and 6-5 Tom DeBerry of Northern Arizona University.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Right winger Dale Smedsmo has signed with the Cincinnati Stingers for an estimated $20,000 and will report Thursday for the opening day of camp for the World Hockey Association team.

Smedsmo, 25, from Roseau, Minn., played 66 games last year in the Stingers' first year of competition and had 8 goals, 15 assists and 189 minutes in the penalty box.

The signing of 6-foot-1, 205-pound Smedsmo brings the Stingers roster to 22. Cincinnati, which played its first year in the WHA last season, opens its training camp today.

Seiple Knows His Days With Dolphins Numbered

By MIKE CLARK
AP Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — To hear some people tell it, Larry Seiple has been running out of punt formation since he was in diapers.

The Miami Dolphins' veteran punter and pass receiver insists that isn't the case. But he still finds it difficult to convince people who have seen some of his daring fourth-down gambles in National Football League play.

The legend began in Seiple's college days at the University of Kentucky, where he turned a fourth-and-42 situation into a touchdown by shucking Mississippi with a 70-yard run from punt formation.

"That's all anybody could talk about the first three or four years I was in pro ball," said Seiple in a recent telephone conversation from his Miami home.

"Everybody thought I was doing that every time I got up to punt, but I only did it one time because (Kentucky Coach) Charlie Bradshaw would only let me do it one time."

Seiple's most famous run from punt formation, however, was a 37-yard gallop that set up Miami's first touchdown in a 21-17 victory over Pittsburgh in a 1972 American Football Conference playoff game.

"It happened on national TV and everybody saw it, and I guess nobody had ever done anything like that in that situation," said Seiple. "Our public relations man down here built it up because I had done it in college, and then everybody began to think that I did it all the time."

Seiple's ability to catch and run with the football, as well as his punting talent, has been the key to his professional longevity. But the 31-year-old Seiple knows in the back of his mind that his days in pro football are dwindling to a precious few.

The Dolphins told Seiple as much when rookie punter Mike

Green of Ohio University was used in exhibition games.

"He's the first punter they ever brought in who could do something other than kick the football," said Seiple. "I was trying to get myself built up to the fact that, well, I might not be here this year. But there was no way I could build myself up to the point where I could accept that I was no longer needed or wanted on the team."

"But he more or less assured me of a job by not doing well in the exhibition games."

Seiple knows that youth will eventually be served, but he promises he won't be a party to it.

"I still enjoy playing the game and I enjoy getting in shape — even though it takes me a little bit longer now," he laughed. "But (retirement) is just something I'm going to have to take when it comes. But there's no way I could ever get to the point where I feel I'm finished, because if you feel that way, you ARE finished."

Tournaments Held At Brook Valley

Several tournaments were recently held at Brook Valley Golf and Country Club.

In a front-line tournament, Miriam Martin won low gross with a 47, while Ginny Wiggers was the low net winner with 34. Peggy Hallow took low putts with a 19.

Mary Bruton was low gross winner in a back-nine tournament. Miriam Martin won low net with 32, while Mary McPherson took low putts with 15.

The team of Maxine and Red Hawley and Jane and Fred Sauve tied with the team of Maxine and Bob Sandy and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith in a Jack and Jill Mixed Spectacular that attracted 10 teams. Both teams finished with 32s. Second place saw a three-way tie with 33s. Those teams were Peggy and Joe Hallow, Jeanette Thomas and Jay Collie; JoLinda and Kelly Kee and Sue and Wilbur Castellow; and Ginny and Hal Wiggers and Sandra and Bill Smith.

Bo Farley, Jim Grauer, Kip West and Charles Clark took top honors in a Super Ball Championship that had 20 teams playing. The team finished the two-day event with a 125. Second, also with a 125, were Melvin Moore, Tommie Little, Dick Stephenson and Pete Milward. Al Ward, Jim Marlowe, Jim McFarlane and Larry Talbert were third with 126, while Austin Britt, Ed Serna, Cletus Jackson and Garner Avera were fourth at 126.

Ties were broken by comparing Sunday cards. Three tournament have been slated for the club. A Jack and Jill Scotch Foursome will be held on September 22, with a 5 p.m. start. It will be a nine-hole tournament. A Mixed Spectacular will be held on Oct. 3, with a September 30 sign-up deadline.

The Reynolds May Four-Ball Invitational will be held Oct. 15-17.

Gene Ward recently made his second career hole-in-one, both coming this year. He got the second ace on the 12th hole with an eight iron, while playing with John Lautares, W. L. Allen and Willard Wilson. The other ace came last spring on the 18th hole.

Jeanette Thomas shot her best career score with a round of 36-35-71. Van Harrington also has his best, a 34-41-75. Les Turnage had his best, a 39-38-77, and L. G. Catlett shot his best, a 36-45-81.

See the Tar Heels battle one of the most explosive offensive teams in the famed Big Ten Conference. The Wildcats have the Big Ten's second leading passer, Randy Odom; the league's leading receiver, Scott Yelvington; and the school's all time leading rusher, Greg Boykin, who had 1,105 yards a year ago. Nine of Northwestern's 48 returning letterman were defensive starters last year, so that area will be solid. There should be plenty of fireworks in Kenan Stadium for this big matchup. # Reds' Zachry Reminds Dodgers Of Marichal; Pirates Top Phils

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

If the Los Angeles Dodgers believe in reincarnation, they'd swear on a stack of baseball rulebooks that Juan Marichal has come back to the major leagues in the form of Pat Zachry.

It would be one way of explaining the Cincinnati rookie's mystical hold on them. Zachry is beating the Dodgers as regularly as Marichal used to do — and Wednesday night recorded his fifth victory against the Dodgers this season with a 4-3 decision.

Nobody's done that since Marichal's Dodger-killing days of the 1960s, when the San Francisco righthander dominated his fierce intrastate rivals.

"You get up mentally for them," said Zachry, who points out that Cincinnati's National League West antagonists bring out the best in him. "My stomach was flying around like a bad broiler before the game."

While Marichal posted a 5-1 record against Los Angeles in 1969, one has to go back as far as 1966 to find a pitcher that blanked the Dodgers five games to nothing. That was Larry Jaster of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Zachry's latest victory boosted his record to 13-5, tops on the Cincinnati staff, and lowered the Reds' "magic number" for winning the West to six games.

While the Reds moved a step closer to locking up their divisional title, the Philadelphia Phillies were taking a step backwards. The Phillies were beaten 7-2 by the runnerup Pittsburgh Pirates and had their lead chopped to four games.

Elsewhere in NL play, the San Francisco Giants nipped the San Diego Padres 2-1; the Houston Astros beat the Atlanta Braves 4-3; the Chicago Cubs turned back the Montreal Expos 2-1 and the St. Louis Cardinals took a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 7-0 and 4-1.

Pete Rose rapped four hits in support of Zachry's strong pitching. Rose boosted his National League-leading hit total to 197, three shy of the eighth 200-hit season in his career. The only player with more is Ty Cobb, who had nine.

Pirates 7, Phillies 2
Bill Robinson slammed a two-run homer, a single and drove in three runs as Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia. Lefthander John Candelaria earned his 15th victory in 21 decisions, limiting the Phillies to three hits, striking out four and walking three in seven innings. Kent Tekulve finished up with two innings of scoreless relief.

The Pirates and Phillies wind up regular-season play with each other tonight and both teams have 18 games left.

Giants 2, Padres 1
Gary Matthews doubled home Larry Herndon in the seventh inning to break a 1-1 tie and spark San Francisco over San Diego and ace lefthander Randy Jones. Matthews' decisive blow came off Jones, 21-13, the only 20-game winner in the National League, and provided rookie Frank Riccetti with his first major league victory.

Astros 4, Braves 3
Dan Larson hurled a six-hitter and Bob Watson keyed a three-run, sixth-inning rally with a two-run single, leading Houston over Atlanta. After his base hit tied the game, Watson eventually scored the Astros' winning run on an error.

Cubs 2, Expos 1
Chicago scored two unearned runs in the third inning and Ray Burris pitched a five-hit shutout as the Cubs beat Montreal. Burris gave up singles in the second, third, fourth, fifth and seventh innings and was never in trouble as he evened his record at 13-13.

Cardinals 7-4, Mets 0-1
John Denny and John Curtis pitched complete-game victories and Joe Ferguson hit the first grand slam home run of his career as St. Louis swept a doubleheader from New York. Denny, 10-7, backed by Ferguson's slam, pitched his third shutout in the opener with a four-hitter, while Curtis, 6-9, came back to stifle the Mets on six hits in the nightcap.

END NEARS FOR LONG SEASON—An unidentified spectator slumbers in his seat as others leave New York's Shea Stadium Wednesday night at the end of a National League game between the New York Mets and the St. Louis Cardinals. The Mets gave fans little to cheer about as they dropped both ends of a doubleheader in the final stretch of the season. (AP Wirephoto)

Victory Is Sweet For Canadian Hockey Team

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — The scenario of a dressing room after a championship victory: the release of emotions pent up for weeks of training and tournament competition.

There sat Bobby Clarke, thrilled to have won the Canada Cup but happy to be going home. His children have just started school, "and this running around and skating and stuff doesn't mean anything to them. They want to know when I'm coming home."

There sat Phil Esposito, saying that winning the Canada Cup is different from winning the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup because, "for one thing, we have to start playing all over again in training camp on Saturday. If you win the Stanley Cup, you get four months off to relax."

There stood Danny Gare, amidst the sprays of champagne and the tired, sweaty hockey players congratulating each other on winning the first championship of the six-nation ice hockey tournament.

"Though I only played five or six shifts in the whole series," he said, "I'm happy for the guys."

"They worked for it: doing roadwork up a mountain in the mornings before the tournament, working so hard together on the ice, being together off it. It's a unique thing, guys from different teams coming together for one thing: to play for their country."

They made their country proud Wednesday night, using Darryl Sittler's goal at 11:33 of overtime to beat the determined Czechs 5-4 and sweep the best-of-three playoff after winning the round-robin phase of the competition.

"I don't think you're ever going to see a team as great as this again," said Marcel Dionne, whose pass was converted by Sittler into the game-winning goal of the frenzied playoff-pitch contest.

The game earlier had been as emotional as the celebration was later. There had been talk of a rout after Canada's first two shots, by Gil Perreault and Esposito, had become goals. Monday's series-opening 6-0 victory had begun in a similar fashion.

But the Czechs did not fold. After starting goalie Jiri Holecek let in the first two shots, he was replaced by Vladimir Dzurilla, who closed the door on the high-powered Canadian attack with some remarkable goaltending.

Before long, Milan Novy broke goalie Rogatien Vachon's tournament shutout string at 138 minutes, 22 seconds. Then Jaroslav Pouzar produced the first of three ties with a 30-foot slap shot.

As the lead see-sawed, the crowd's cries became more feverish. Clarke scored for Canada for a 3-2 lead, but Josef Augusta tied it and Marian Stastny put the Czechs in front 4-2 seconds later. Then Bill Barber netted passes from Clarke and Reggie Leach to force the overtime in which two Team Canada goals were disallowed.

"Between periods, I suggested that Dzurilla was coming out to meet us. Simply give him a shift and he's faked out," said Don Cherry, Team Canada's co-coach. Sittler put that theory into practice at 11:33 of overtime, taking a Dionne pass, faking past Dzurilla and hitting the now-empty cage from 25 feet.

Oakland Wins, Kansas City Bows; Royals' Lead Slips To 3½ Games

By FRED ROTHENBERG

The Oakland A's are running wild and the Kansas City Royals are running scared, which makes for an exciting division race in the American League West.

The Royals are the front runners, sitting on the pace since May 18, but Oakland is closing fast. The A's, Western Division champions the past five years, haven't held first place since the third day of the season but today find themselves just 3½ games off the lead.

While the Royals have lost 13 of their last 18 games, squandering a 9½-game bulge, the A's have won 11 of 18. Wednesday night, the A's rallied for five runs in the eighth inning to beat Minnesota 5-2. Meanwhile, California scored in the ninth to edge Kansas City 2-1.

"We've played recklessly all year but now we're afraid to challenge the other team," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog. "Maybe that's what a little pressure will do to you."

Pinch-hitter Tommy Davis stroked a bases-loaded ninth-inning single off reliever Mark Littell to trip the Royals. Nolan Ryan, 14-17, scattered six hits to win his fourth straight game. He struck out nine and walked four.

The A's are applying pressure on Kansas City and all the catchers in the AL. Down 2-0 in the eighth, the A's stole four bases in the inning to build their game-winning rally.

"We still had six outs so I felt we had a chance," said Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner. "Baseball is not a game where the clock runs out on you."

"The pinch runners won it for us," he said. "Half of our victories this season can be attributed to running."

The A's had only three hits through seven innings off Jim Hughes, whose troubles began with a one-out walk in the eighth to Gene Tenace.

Pinch-runner Larry Lintz stole second and scored on a single by newly acquired Ron Fairly. Matt Alexander ran for Fairly and promptly stole second. An infield single by Phil Garner put runners on first and third, and Alexander came home with the tying run on a forceout.

Bill North singled and Claudell Washington was hit by a pitch before Don Baylor stroked a tiebreaking two-run single. Washington then stole home for the final run of the inning.

The A's and Royals have six head-to-head confrontations left, Sept. 21-23 in Kansas City and Sept. 27-29 in Oakland.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees blanked Cleveland 2-0; Baltimore beat Detroit 1-0 in a six-inning game cut short by rain; Boston nipped Milwaukee 2-1, and Texas edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3.

Orioles 1, Tigers 0

The Orioles are hot but it appears to be too late. Baltimore won its seventh straight game, a six-inning, rain-shortened victory over Detroit, to tie its longest winning streak of the season. But the Orioles still trail the Yankees in the AL East by 9½ games with 17 games left.

Rookie Andres Mora slugged a homer and Wayne Garland picked up his 18th victory for Baltimore.

Yankees 2, Indians 0
Doyle Alexander tossed a four-hitter for his third shutout of the season. Alexander, 12-9, got the only run he needed in the first inning on a single by Thurman Munson and Lou Piniella's run-scoring double.

The victory was the eighth in the last 11 games for the Yankees and cut their magic number for clinching the AL East title to nine.

Red Sox 2, Brewers 1

Butch Hobson cracked a two-run homer and Reggie Cleveland allowed four hits in 8 2-3 innings in Boston's victory over Milwaukee.

Cleveland struck out eight and walked seven before yielding to Tom Murphy, who picked up his seventh save of the season.

Rangers 4, White Sox 3
Bert Blyleven scattered 11 hits and Toby Harrah cracked his 13th homer of the year to lead Texas over Chicago. Blyleven, 12-15, struck out seven and walked one.

All Of A Sudden, Britons Are Caught In Kite-Flying Craze

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI) — All of a sudden Britain is up in the air over kites.

A British kite fliers' association has just been formed, and 3,000 fanatics turned up for its first meeting.

London's Institute of Contemporary Arts currently is exhibiting kites as works of art. A new pocket book called simply "Kites" sold an astonishing 30,000 copies in three weeks. More than 500 kite fliers flocked to an abandoned airfield this spring for a festival. Two new shops sell nothing but kites.

"It's a real boom, all right," said Ron Moulton, organizer of the association.

British manufacturers expect to sell two million kites this year. That's one for every nine British households.

Thousands of them will be revolutionary dual-control kites, patented by two British inventors, which can do almost anything a model airplane can do — loops, figure eights, landings, takeoffs. The two new kites are playing a big part in moving kite-flying out of the kid-stuff stage.

In fact, according to one local writer, the kite is "no longer a sport confined to those afflicted by extreme youth or a penchant for sandals and real ale."

Kites have been around for centuries. Chinese records mention them in 200 B.C. They were common toys in Europe by the 17th century. By the 1890s people like Alexander Graham Bell were experimenting with fantastic kites to study the problem of flight.

They made kites like stacks of pyramids, huge box kites, man-carrying kites, kites which did heroic jobs — one towed a man in a powered boat across the English Channel.

David Pelham, a 37-year-old art director, traces this history in his new book. Pelham owns and flies 100 kites — his apartment overflows with them — and they are a wild mixture of shapes and sizes.

This is typical. The most restrained kite in the London art gallery show is shaped like the Concorde, the droop-nosed supersonic airliner.

Also on display are dragon kites, square kites, round kites, bird-shaped and insect kites, and Californian Tom Van Sant's gigantic "centipede" kite, a multiple construction which can be assembled up to 300 feet long.

Jacqueline Monnier shows enormous "kites for painting the sky" — squares trailing bundles of 100-foot streamers that weave intricate patterns in midair.

There's an equal variety of design in mass-produced kites.

Among the biggest sellers are the two British ones controlled by two kite strings instead of one.

Peter Powell, who went broke trying to make kites three years ago, now produces 20,000 "Sky Stunters" a week. Japan has ordered a million of them, and American dealers talk about taking five million.

Powell's "Stunter" is a traditional diamond shape, but has a spring-loaded variable crossbar for added stability in sudden gusts. With dual controls adjusting the lift on either wing, experts can make it do almost anything, etching its gyrations across the sky with 75-foot streamers which fliers tack on purely for decoration.

Don Dunford spent 16 years developing his rival "Dunford Flying Machine," an ultra-scientific kite, he says, "uses the basic theme of aerofolls in tandem." His factory turns out 5,000 a month.

The new interest in kites overflows into the scientific field.

Experts at the Architectural Association's Rational Technology Unit are studying many possible uses for kites — in weather research, as load-lifting cranes, in planning buildings and as power sources for boats.

But the big boom is in kites as a hobby.

"They're peaceful and quiet and self-servicing," Moulton says. "All you need is wind."

"The great thing about flying a kite," said kite-shop proprietor Eric Gibson, "is that anyone can do it."

British Firm Maker Of The Fun-House Mirror

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI) — Rufus Ide looked at himself in one of his company's mirrors and laughed and laughed and laughed.

"Look at that," he chortled. "In this one I'm two feet tall."

Ide is the world's only maker of distorting mirrors, those fun-house reflectors which turn your legs into endless spindly columns, make thin ladies fat and send children all over the world into shrieks of laughter.

"At least, I think we're the only ones who make them," he said. "I've never run up against any competition."

Ide, 62, runs an old-fashioned family glass firm which has been manufacturing laugh-making mirrors since the last century.

"They're a most odd thing, these mirrors," Ide said. "I don't know how they originated."

The most popular theory is that some accident happened at the Ide factory in his grandfather's time and someone got a lot of fun from the result.

"But there aren't any records. We've been doing them as long as I can remember, and long before that."

Ide's company, T. and W. Ide, doesn't push its fun-making product very hard. It doesn't need to.

"There's a continual demand," Ide said. "We send them all over the world."

"They're a bit trendy now in boutiques," an assistant put in. "And the Arabs," Ide said. "They come here and see them and think it would be a bit of a giggle to have some at home. We send a lot to the Middle East."

Ide is a twinkling, double-chinned man, a fringe of sandy hair around his freckled pate. He is the fourth generation of Ides to run the firm, and a fifth generation — his son — is waiting in the wings.

Ide's grandfather worked out British national standards for bent glass — as in curved-glass shop fronts or one-piece glass skylight bubbles — which still are in use.

Now, Ide said, "We do a bit of everything" — glass furniture, glass coats of arms, American Bicentennial glass, an engraved mirror wall for the royal palace in Katmandu.

"Distorting mirrors are a small thing for us, really," he said.

"They're not the big seller they were in my grandfather's day, when fun fairs and piers and that sort of thing were more popular than now. We make about 100 a year now, though it varies a lot."

Ide's workmen make the image-twisting mirrors by laying a flat sheet of glass over an iron mould which has concave and convex curves. Heated in a kiln, the glass gently collapses onto the mould and takes on its gentle twists.

Then comes careful cooling, a thorough polishing, a silver coating sprayed onto one side and it's a mirror, ready to make people laugh.

"We've trimmed the shapes down to six standard curves now," Ide said. But either side of the glass can be the reflecting surface, each distorting differently, giving 12 basic distorting mirror patterns in all.

Besides that, each mirror gives a different effect upside down. Distortion also changes with distance.

Stand at a precise range from "Type No. 034BR," for instance, and you have two heads — one of them upside down — and no body at all. Move in closer and you're as broad as you are tall.

"One of the most difficult things is the frame," Ide said.

"I've never succeeded in making a simple frame — they have to follow the curves of the glass. They're still carpenters' work, each specially made."

Glass for the mirror is warped and bent in a whole bank of kilns, one of them the biggest in Europe. Ide's two oldest kilns are called Jumbo and Alice, names borrowed a century ago from two famous elephants in the London zoo.

Only rarely these days does "Mr. Rufus," as everyone in the firm calls him, pay much attention to his unique products.

But even now, after a lifetime of making them, he still can't help laughing each time he sees a strangely shaped Rufus Ide reflected in that undulating glass.

Houston's Port Tonnage Rises

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Port of Houston recorded an 18.3 per cent increase in tonnage handled during the first six months of 1976.

According to a port report, 44.9 million tons of cargo passed through Houston port facilities between Jan. 1 and June 30 of this year, compared with 38 million tons during the same period in 1975.

Foreign bulk cargo imports, including oil, increased 89.8 per cent, from 5.1 million tons through June 30 last year to 9.6 million tons through half of this year.

Not All Bad

NEW YORK (AP) — It will be hard not to convince 92-year-old Eugenia Tolmatchoff that New York is a cold-hearted city.

First there were the two men who caught the thief who snatched her purse and brought it back with her $170 Social Security money still intact.

And while they were chasing the thief, there was the stranger who saw her weeping over the money she thought she had lost, and gave her $170 out of his pocket.

And then there were the two nice policemen, who tried hard to catch up with the man who gave her the money, so she could return it because "I'm not greedy."

The elderly woman had just cashed her Social Security check at a bank and returned to her West 142nd Street home when a young man followed her into the lobby, grabbed her purse and fled.

Sanitationman Joseph Casalaro and Frank Nieve, a neighborhood resident, heard her screaming, saw the running thief and gave chase.

Three blocks away they caught him, grappled with him and got the purse. The thief broke loose and ran.

While all this was going on, an unidentified man asked the old woman why she was crying outside the building. She told him, he reached into his pocket, counted out $170 and handed it to her, saying:

"Here, this is yours. Don't upset yourself any more."

Police Officers Ray Latimer and William Bethel showed up to investigate the robbery and at her insistence tried in vain to find her benefactor.

"She told us she is going to keep looking for the man," Latimer said later, "and said if she can't find the gentleman, she will give the money to her church on Sunday."

Mobile Testing Of Emissions

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Air Control Board has initiated a program of mobile testing of auto emissions.

A testing van, equipped with emissions analyzers and staffed by personnel from the state pollution control office, will tour Texas' major cities conducting free emissions tests on automobiles.

Purpose of the project is to measure public acceptance of such tests and to determine if widespread testing of auto emissions is feasible to control air pollution.

After All These Years, Down Town For Big Town

By JACK V. FOX
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — This great drowsy giant of a town was described not too many years ago by a critical visitor, an easterner to be sure, as 77 communities in search of a city.

He was right in a way. Nobody knew where downtown was.

The 26-story city hall was the tallest building in town but it was squeezed in a rather scrubby area between Chinatown, little Tokyo and the Mexican commercial section.

Hollywood had the glamor name but it was nothing much more than the name. Beverly Hills had the luxuriant homes but it was the center only of personal wealth. Long Beach and San Pedro were teeming ports for ocean going oil tankers and freighters.

There was lovely Santa Monica and Malibu and their beaches. The great "bedroom" of the San Fernando Valley with more than 1 million residents alone. The black area including Watts.

The modest single residence homes of Whittier where Richard Nixon grew up. Century City with its towering office buildings, gourmet restaurants and Shubert theater. But none could lay claim to being downtown.

Almost overnight, it seems, Los Angeles has acquired a nucleus and one of its crown jewels is the most expensive hotel ever built, the $110-million Bonaventure which opens its doors around the first of the year in the Bunker Hill section.

The area lies roughly where Wilshire Boulevard finally ends after its long stretch from the Pacific. Over the past five years skyscrapers — most of them owned by banks — have sprouted up until Los Angeles for the first time has a skyline, nothing like Manhattan to be sure, but respectable when you can see it through the smog.

And the glue which may finally hold it together is the Bonaventure, a spectacular 35-story structure of five circular towers with mirror-like exterior and 12 light-festooned outside elevators leading to the 1,500 rooms and revolving restaurant and cocktail lounge in the center.

The Bonaventure will be operated by Western International Hotels, a subsidiary of United Air Lines, which already owns and operates such properties as the Plaza in New York, Peachtree Center Plaza in Atlanta, the Century Plaza in Los Angeles, the St. Francis in San Francisco, the Mayflower in Washington, the Crown Center in Kansas City and the Hotel Toronto.

The only other major hotels in the area are the Los Angeles Hilton and the venerable Biltmore. The Ambassador lies not too far away.

The Bonaventure is not the largest hotel in the West. The MGM Grand in Las Vegas has 2,000 rooms and the San Francisco Hilton has 1,600.

But in terms of exhibit space and convention facilities — it has a ballroom seating 3,000 — it will be tops west of the Mississippi. Had it been built in time, Los Angeles might well have got the Democratic national convention instead of New York.

Size, however, is one of its lesser attractions. It has to be architecturally one of the most stunning hotels ever erected, inside as well as out.

There is a seven story atrium enclosing the first seven stories of the five towers with an acre "lake" of water on the lobby floor to look down on. Three Japanese restaurants will be located on one of the floors and seven others elsewhere. A cabaret with top entertainers will be just off the lobby.

There are 150 suites with the penthouses of the four outside towers single suites renting for as much as $1,000 a day. The central tower will have two-story suites complete with circular staircases.

The entire hotel reservations, billing, cash registers and other bookkeeping functions will be run by IBM computer.

Even the telephonic wakeup service is computerized. And so sophisticated is that system that the voice which tells you it is 7:30 a.m. and time for you to get up sounds like a dulcet girl but actually is a non-human blend of electronic sounds more pleasing to the ear than the female voice.

There is, of course, the sine qua non swimming pool. An outside putting green. Men's and women's health clubs. Sidewalk cafes. An elevated pedestrian walkway which eventually will stretch to the Music Center.

A 27-year-old German girl in charge of laundry has just put in an order for 150,000 sheets. The Bonaventure is a gamble, of course, in these uncertain times. But right now things look rosy.

May Not Charge Silent Schorr

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Television newsman Daniel Schorr apparently will not be charged with contempt of Congress for his refusal to name the person who supplied him with the House intelligence report.

Nine times during Schorr's sworn testimony Wednesday, Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynn Jr., D-Ga., warned him that he could be held in contempt of Congress and be jailed or fined if he refused to identify his source and answer other questions about the source.

Nine times, Schorr refused. After the hearing, an informal poll of the members showed that six of the 12 committee members opposed any attempt to cite Schorr for contempt and two others either leaned that way or were uncertain. This means any contempt resolution apparently would fail by at least a tie vote.

Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., who had led the move to subpoena Schorr, said he leaned against a contempt citation. "I never intended in the first place that this would send him to prison," Bennett said. "This was a step to let him give his views and he did that."

But others who had voted to subpoena Schorr were opposed to holding him in contempt, including Rep. Donald J. Mitchell, R-N.Y. Mitchell said he wanted to prevent a constitutional confrontation over the issue.

Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., who had opposed summoning Schorr, said he didn't think contempt action would even be proposed in committee. For all practical purposes, he said, Schorr's testimony has ended the committee's $150,000, five-month attempt to locate Schorr's source.

The committee still must prepare a report to the House on its search for the leaker and on its recommendations for improving security measures for committees dealing with sensitive subjects.

Both Schorr and committee members have said the hearing constituted a showdown over the constitutional rights of Congress to investigate and guard its materials versus the rights of a free press to gather and report the news.

Schorr said Congress had every right to try to protect its own material and to discipline members who violate its rules against disclosure of the material.

But he disagreed that Congress' power extended to muzzling the news media's efforts to get that material or to punishing reporters who don't cooperate in tracing the leaker.

Schorr has been on a paid leave of absence from CBS News since House action against him began. The apparent end of the threat of contempt action against him left uncertain his status with CBS. He has said he does not know what will happen.

Schorr obtained the intelligence report after the House Select Committee on Intelligence voted Jan. 23 to publish it. He used excerpts from it on CBS News before the House voted Jan. 29 to overrule its committee and keep the report secret.

He said he then arranged to have it published by the New York weekly, the Village Voice. He got no fee for the arrangement.

Reservoir Again Issue

RALEIGH (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers says it intends to impound water in the B. Everett Jordan Reservoir in Chatham County.

In making the announcement Wednesday, the corps said questions about the water quality have been answered. Within hours, however, environmentalists said they would formally oppose the move.

The project was halted in 1974 when conservationists filed suit. They contended the reservoir would be a catch-basin for upstream urban pollution.

The corps has asked the U.S. District Court to dissolve the consent order holding up the project. Regardless of how the court rules, it is expected to be 1978 at the earliest before the reservoir can be filled.

Col. Homer Johnstone, the corps' Wilmington district engineer, said, "I have used the best available study techniques and professional guidance to help me in my decision-making. I am satisfied that water quality will be satisfactory." A 30-day waiting period will be in effect for interested groups to protest the corps' decision.

Music Program Offered Sunday

FARMVILLE—The Silver Crescent Club of the Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church will present Johnny Wooten and the Voices of Zion of Greenville Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

The drought, he said, "is going to make farmers pay twice for feed."

He explained that they paid once when they bought fertilizer, seed, fuel and labor for their feed crops. When the drought cut production of feeds, the farmers had to pay again, he said, because they had to buy feed they normally would have produced.

Darch said it has been nearly two years since the price of class I milk has been increased. During that period, he said, farmers' costs have increased nearly 11 per cent.

Bill Phelps, coordinator for the Farm Bureau's dairy service program, said the milk price in North Carolina "has been lower than surrounding and eastern markets for most of the past 12 months."

Episcopal Bishops OK Priesthood For Women

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — If representatives of Episcopal laity and clergy agree with their bishops, the church will end the 2,000-year tradition of a male-only priesthood.

The House of Bishops voted 95 to 61 Wednesday at the Episcopal legislative convention to make church laws "equally applicable" to men and women where they concern admitting candidates to the holy orders of priest and bishop.

The proposal was expected to be taken up today by the House of Deputies, which is considered more hostile to the proposal.

If the House of Deputies approves the resolution, it would ordinarily go into effect at the end of this year. However, another proposal would make the change effective immediately to coincide with the Canadian start of the practice.

In recent years the church has been in turmoil over the issue. Fifteen Episcopal women were ordained in 1974 and 1975 without the authorization of their bishops. More than 100 Episcopal women now are deacons, the first step toward priesthood, and 324 other women are in Episcopal seminaries studying for the ministry.

The debate in the House of Bishops — before packed galleries — was long and tense.

Bishop John S. Spong of Newark, N.J., said admitting women to the priesthood would "bring new wholeness to the ministry, new wholeness to our church and I hope new wholeness to the world."

Bishop C. Kilmer Myers of San Francisco said it meant an "unfolding of our catholic faith and not a departure from it."

But Bishop Robert E. Terwilliger of Dallas said women in the priesthood would produce "tremendous trauma among the people of God." He said many in the church would not accept women priests.

Under the resolution, diocesan bishops still would retain authority to decide who qualifies for ordination. Terwilliger and 37 other bishops who had opposed the resolution issued a statement saying they could not acknowledge the change.

But they included a vow of "unshaken loyalty" to the church. The pledge was considered an attempt to counter talk of a schism.

Expects Decision In A Week On Milk-Pricing

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of the North Carolina Milk Commission says he expects a decision within two weeks on a request for a one cent per quart increase in the price paid farmers for their milk.

Herbert Hawthorne made the statement Wednesday after spokesmen for dairy farmers cited the extreme drought conditions this summer in urging a price increase.

T. Everett Nichols Jr. of the North Carolina State University Extension Service told the commission, "Drought and severely high temperatures in some areas during the last couple of months have cut sharply into the 1976-77 feed and roughage supplies."

Meanwhile, two N.C. State extension specialists issued a report which said that during the first half of 1976 dairy farmers had experienced favorable economic conditions.

However, Dr. R. C. Wells and Stephen R. Sutter pointed out that their report did not show the effect of the drought.

"Our next reports, due this fall and winter, should show what effect the drought has had on milk production and higher feed costs caused by lower crop yields," Wells said.

The Wells-Sutter report said that in the first half of this year an 11 cents per 100 pounds increase in production costs was offset by a 39-cent increase in the average price received by dairymen.

At present, dairymen are paid $11.12 per 100 pounds for class I milk used for fluid sale. They are asking that this be increased by 46 cents to $11.58, which figures out to one cent per quart.

Douglas Darch, Wake County farmer who is chairman of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Dairy Service Committee, said that in the last three months purchased feed costs have shot upward as a result of the drought.

They Don't Stomp The Grapes In Italy These Days

TECHNICIANS and modern machinery, with fully automated wineries, have replaced the Merry winemakers of Italy. (UPI Photo)

BY SYLVANA FOA
FRASCATI, Italy (UPI) — As every romantic knows, Italian wines are produced by brightly costumed peasants stomping merrily with their bare feet in huge tubs of fresh grapes.

A fiddler comes down from the village and everyone sings and dances until their feet are stained purple and the grapes have been churned into liquid "mosto".

Once fermented the wine is stored in dank cellars to age in wooden casks.

Unfortunately, like the times, things have also changed for winemakers.

Now, the cheerful peasants have been replaced by highly trained technicians in sterile laboratory coats.

The stomping tubs are now big, ugly machines that chew up a ton of grapes in 10 minutes and the aromatic old wooden casks have been traded for enormous plastic and glass tanks.

"Are there still Indians who take scalps in America?" Michele Mennuni asked one disappointed visitor to his modern winery south of Rome.

"The wine wasn't so good in the old days," he added soothingly. "Their feet were probably dirty anyway and they put the wine in filthy bottles."

According to Michele, patriarch of the Mennuni Brothers wine empire, only a few commercial wines — such as the robust red wines made by the great houses of northern Italy — are still aged in wooden casks.

"We try to imitate the taste of the traditionally made wines.

But on an industrial scale you just can't use the old methods." Thousands of Italian wine-growers, however, save their best grapes and, using methods that have changed little since man began making wine 12,000 years ago, produce vintages for their own cellars or for private sale to Europe's wealthy connoisseurs and expensive restaurants.

In addition, monks in hundreds of cloisters across Italy brew special "pure" wines for use in the Roman Catholic mass.

But none of those superior wines will ever find their way to dinner tables in America.

"Travel would ruin them," explained Michele, appreciatively sniffing the bouquet of a particularly select vintage.

"They are so delicate that they would taste like water at the end of such a long voyage."

The Mennuni family has been in the wine business for generations — building a small wine shop into one of the few fully automated bottling plants in Italy.

The Mennuni winery, the largest in this ancient wine producing region that once supplied the cellars of the Caesars, can bottle up to 26,425 gallons of wine a day.

Like many wealthy Italian industrialists, Michele fears the kidnap-for-ransom gangs that have plagued Italy for the past five years.

An armed bodyguard is never more than a few steps away when he and his son Alessandro tour the local vineyards to check the quality of the grapes and to negotiate which acreage they will purchase during the autumn harvest. The vintner's choice is enormous — more than 55 per cent of all Italian farmers cultivate grapes and there are nearly two million vineyards in Italy — ranging from small backyard plots to vast plantations.

"Very early in the season we can judge the quality of the wine by simply touching and tasting the grape on the vine," said Michele.

"We must be very choosy," said Alessandro. "A low grade grape can be aged forever and it will never make a good wine."

From the looks of things, 1976 will produce not only a mediocre grape but a very lean cellar.

The terrible heat wave that ravaged all of Europe this summer did considerable damage to Italy's vines, Michele said.

In addition, recent hail storms stripped vineyards in the northern Asti region and seriously damaged the prized Chianti vines in Tuscany.

"The law of the wine is the weather," said the 19-year-old Alessandro shaking his head sadly.

Franco Bardi, the resident wine expert and taster at the Mennuni plant, agreed.

"There will be less wine this year and the quality will be lower because of the drought," said Bardi, 32, a graduate of the Conegliano Institute of Wine.

"In such heat the grape doesn't mature and it has an acid, sour taste," he said in his glass flask-filled laboratory where the mysterious mixtures of wines are concocted. Michele believes the adverse weather will cut Italy's wine production this year to about 1.58 billion gallons — compared to 1975's yield of 1.8 billion gallons.

Over the next year, Italy will export an estimated 370 million gallons of wine — including nearly 13 million gallons to the United States where Italian wine is winning new converts every year.

Although Italy is indisputedly the world's largest wine producer, French wines get most of the praise — much to the chagrin of Italian vintners.

"Maybe Italian wines taste less good than the French wines but there is good reason," said Alessandro.

"In France, the bottlers are allowed to add sugar and herbs and even fruits to their wines to make them tasty. But here we are allowed to add only preservatives."

Italian authorities are strict, Alessandro said, because several years ago bottlers were caught adulterating their wines with banana skins, ox blood — and worse.

"Everything is very controlled now," said Alessandro. "The government sends inspectors to all the plants and they are particularly stern about wine for export."

Like most Italian vintners, the Mennunis are anxious to protect the "good name" of their wines in the wake of the scandal.

Their trademark — an "M" dripping with grapes — is only affixed to the finest wines they bottle.

Some of their more potent brews also carry the legend "in vino veritas" (in wine, truth).

Some of their more potent brews also carry the legend "in vino veritas" (in wine, truth). "We put 'in vino veritas' on the label as a warning," chuckled Alessandro. "If you drink a lot of this wine you will always tell the truth."

Methodist Mission Saturation Event Is Scheduled For District

"To Make Mission Come Alive" is the goal of a mission saturation event to be held this weekend in the Greenville District of the United Methodist Church.

The district, which encompasses parts of Wilson, Greene, Beaufort, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, and Pitt Counties, includes over 15,000 Methodists.

Programming for the three-day event centers around 14 interpreters who are coming from various states and countries to speak at a number of local church activities including worship services, Sunday School classes youth meetings and breakfast groups.

The interpreters are current and former missionaries, church and community workers and conference missions persons.

Participating churches are Saint James, Holy Trinity and Jarvis Memorial, Greenville, the First Methodist, Washington, Snow Hill, Hookerton, Robersonville, Statonsburg, Bethel, Ayden and Rainbow.

Interpreters who will be visiting the three Greenville churches are: Dr. H. T. Maclin, a field representative to the Board of Global Ministries; Dr. William A. Tyson Jr., the director of Urban Action, Inc. of the North Georgia Conference of the United Methodist Church; Dr. Samuel R. Capistrano, who is affiliated with the United Church of the Philippines;

David W. Flude, a native of Leicester, England, currently serving as the Executive secretary for the United Methodist Committee on Relief Interpretation and as a staff member of the Education and Cultivation Division.

As executive secretary of UMCOR Interpretation, Dr. Flude interprets the Relief and Rehabilitation program and the Refugee Ministry of the United Methodist Church.

Faulty Fuse Box Invites A Fire

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — More than 112,000 fires in the United States this year will be caused by faulty electrical systems, with a loss of more than $253 million. These figures were cited by Wallace A. Warren, an engineer who plans the electrical systems for a tobacco company here. Warren said the main causes of home electrical fires are faulty fuse boxes or circuit breakers.

Seven In Ten Like Career

CHICAGO (UPI) — Despite increasing frustrations, seven out of 10 physicians would choose medicine as a career if they had it to do over again, according to the latest poll in the Impact section of American Medical News, the American Medical Association's newspaper for physicians.

Two out of 10 doctors, however, would not select medicine as a career a second time, and one out of 10 isn't sure whether he would or not, the poll found.

No Real Help In Salt Tablets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Salt tablets don't really help an athlete when he sweats because more water is needed from his bloodstream to dissolve the salt tablet, says the Dairy Council of Metropolitan New York. In addition, the athlete loses more water perspiring while that salt tablet is dissolving. So the council recommends simply drinking lots of water to replace that which was lost.

Ford Emphasizes Trust, Says It Must Be Earned

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, launching his election bid amid spirited heckling, is placing heavy emphasis on the question of trust, hoping to make it a campaign issue.

"It is not enough for anyone to say 'trust me,'" Ford told a noisy, student-dominated crowd of more than 12,000 in a University of Michigan arena at Ann Arbor on Wednesday night.

"Trust must be earned." Ford, whose speech sometimes drew boos, inspired a standing ovation as he expanded on the question of trust in terms that unmistakably were intended to bring Democrat Jimmy Carter to mind. He never mentioned Carter's name.

"Trust is not having to guess what a candidate means," Ford said. "Trust is leveling with the people before the election about what you are going to do after the election. Trust is not being all things to all people, but being the same thing to all people.

"Trust is not cleverly choosing words so that each separate audience can hear what it wants to hear, but saying plainly and simply what you mean — and meaning what you say."

Ford and Carter are to address the same audience here tonight — a dinner of the Italian-American Foundation, but their schedules should keep them from meeting each other.

Ford will then attend another ethnic-oriented event — a post-Mass reception at the Roman Catholic shrine of the Immaculate Conception, marking National Hispanic Heritage Week.

Even before Ford entered the arena on the campus of the school where he was a football player more than 40 years ago, mention of his name drew resounding boos and catcalls from many of the students in attendance.

Booing was so prevalent throughout the program that it greeted mention of everyone save Mrs. Ford and the president of the university senate. Mrs. Ford got two standing ovations, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger emerged clearly as the person booted most lustily.

Afterwards, Nessen said the heckling had been "fully expected" and that "we all expected much worse than that."

Nessen said it would have been easy to have found a friendly audience, but that Ford wanted to launch his campaign at his alma mater because his speech focused on goals and programs for the future.

Nessen said Ford "feels he was well received. He feels it went well and it was a great way to kick off the campaign."

Ford took the heckling in stride and barely flinched when a cherry bomb exploded during his remarks, sending Secret Service bodyguards scurrying into the upper tier of the basketball stadium.

Aims At Electric Wheelchair Dream

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — He has received therapy at the Shrine Hospital in Greenville, S.C. He attends school at the Children's Center in Winston-Salem, and enjoys school-work.

"I like to read about animals," he said. "I read library books, and then I've got a take-home reader."

Joel has a congenital condition called osteogenesis imperfecta, which means his system lacks the calcium needed to harden and develop bone tissue. He has steel rods in his legs, but his arms have not developed enough to permit such bone-replacing surgery.

Joel sings regularly at his church, and his parents — Wayne and Linda Stafford — took him to a small recording studio to make a record. It is called "God is So Good," and has sold about 1,000 copies so far.

The electric wheelchair Joel wants could cost as much as $1,500. Joel made the recording in hopes of raising enough money to buy the chair.

Though small and unable to move around well, Joel has a happy face and is undaunted by the dangers confronting him. He hasn't broken a bone since February, a considerable improvement over the past. Often a simple wrong movement could cause a bone to break.

Add Two To Choral Bd.

Two new board members were elected at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Greenville Boys Choral Association. They are Mrs. Myriam Harris and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkerson.

Officers re-elected for a second term are: Robert House, chairman; Betsy White, secretary; and Larry Talbert, treasurer.

The nine-member board also include E. Robert Irwin, Charles Moore, David Reid, and Nancy White.

Plans for the year were presented by the Boys Choir director Stephen Barnes. He announced that the first rehearsal will be held Monday, Sept. 20 at 6:30 p.m. in the concert studio on the second floor of the A.J. Fletcher Music Center at ECU.

Two Grants For District Okayed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Walter Jones today announced the approval by the Environmental Protection Agency of two grants in the First Congressional District of North Carolina.

Jones announced that a grant of $388,480 was awarded to the town of Farmville to augment the grant of $5,255,505 previously awarded for waste water treatment works construction.

The grant increase, he noted, is based on an increase in project costs as a result of bids.

The congressman also announced that a grant of $10,969 was awarded to the town of Hookerton in Greene County for the preparation of waste water treatment work plans for the Hookerton area.

Leash Law

The City of Greenville maintains a 24-hour leash law under Section 5-7 of the Animal Control Ordinance.

All residents of the City are reminded that all dogs found running at large will be picked up and carried to the Animal Shelter. Owners of these dogs will be cited to court for violation of the animal control ordinance, the City Inspector Alton Warren reminds Greenville residents.

Lot Of Bad Things Happened To The Class Of '65

BY BILL GARDNER
Associated Press Writer
PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (AP) — Thank heavens for Lany Tyler. Eleven years out of high school, the former cheerleader and homecoming queen is still a winner.

But it's been a rocky road for many others in the class of '65 at wealthy Palisades High School. It was this class that Time magazine spotlighted in a 1965 cover story about the new generation of "smarter, subtler and more sophisticated kids" heading into a "Golden Era" of education.

Then came the Vietnam war, the draft, the drugs, the demonstrations. It was a hard time to grow up, "Pali" grads found. The quarterback of the football team, voted the Most Likely to Succeed, became a Hollywood masseur and a reverend in a religious cult. The boy voted Most Popular committed suicide. One of the top students is in a mental hospital.

"A lot of tremendously sad things have happened," said David Wallechinsky, one of two '65 Pali grads who tracked down 350 of the 504 people in their class and wrote a new book titled "What Really Happened to the Class of '65?"

"I was definitely disappointed finding out what had happened to the class," agreed co-author Michael Medved. "The process of doing the book was horribly depressing."

Medved and Wallechinsky tell the stories of 30 students in their book. Many of the tales are bizarre, but the authors say they chose a representative sample.

"It was not our intent to portray a freak show," said Medved, who added that many of the strangest stories were not included in the book.

They didn't write about the top student who is now a professional psychic, the alcoholic attorney, the heroin addict, the popular student whose marriage broke up after he was shot by his wife, the medical student who tried to commit suicide, or either of the two students who went underground and cut off all contact with their families and former friends.

"It came to the point where we were actually looking for a normal person to balance the book," Medved said.

There are some ordinary people and some success stories in the book. Lany Tyler, the most popular girl in school, the Homecoming Queen and cheerleader, earned a Ph.D. and now teaches history at the book.

PAID HIM? — The Swedish foreign minister admits that the Swedish government paid $450,000 to the chief of U.S. Air Force intelligence, Maj. Gen. Rocky Triantafellu, above, between 1970 and 1973, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported Tuesday in Stockholm. Triantafellu, now retired and a part-time research consultant for the Calspan Corp. in Arlington, Va., told The Associated Press he had no comment on the matter. (AP Wirephoto)

Princeton. It's a relief to read that her.

And the car-crazy leader of a prestige gang of tough guys and athletes is a self-made millionaire with a chain of clothing stores. One of the other students remembers him as "the only person in high school who bought a cover for his car. He'd park it and put the cover on it, and then sort of pat it."

Even today he has a rare Ferrari 1963 Super America. "Whenever I feel bad, I go out to the garage and start the car and just listen to it," he says in the book.

The class tough guy, recalled by others as a "bully" and an "enormous, frightening character," married a girl from the class and settled down into a real estate career. Medved and Wallechinsky were "astounded."

They were also amazed at the changes in one of their friends, described by a former teacher as a squeaky-clean, patent-leather kid with plastered-down hair. He now has an unkempt beard and long hair and wears scraggly old clothes at his homemade cabin in the Northern California countryside. He grows a few plants and lives with a girl who wanders around nude.

Medved and Wallechinsky were surprised to find one of the class intellectuals had gone through a half-dozen religious cults and was now running for Congress as a John Birchler in Kansas City.

The student voted Most Reserved is now a member of the Hare Krishna sect. The class flirt is a prosecuting attorney who a few years earlier was kicked out of college on a drug bust. The class surfer, almost thrown out of school for his long hair, now teaches at Pali, where some of his disapproving teachers now have longer hair than he did.

The authors tracked down one of the class outcasts, described by another student as "a sad sack" with "droopy eyes, droopy jowls, a droopy walk." Whenever he spoke up in high school, the rest of the students delighted in shouting, "Shut up, Reilly!"

Reilly was teaching for the Peace Corps on a Micronesia Island. He showed them a passage from his journal that read, "I really don't want to be here, but I can't think of anywhere else I'd rather be."

And there was the class "bad girl," who kept a running list of men she'd slept with. "I counted four hundred and twenty-five, and then I stopped counting." She recently got a bit part in a movie.

One of the class officers had broken off with his past and his family and refused to be interviewed. He sent the authors a note saying it would have been a boring interview.

"I didn't go in the Army, didn't get married, didn't take drugs, didn't go crazy, didn't get a job, didn't grow up and didn't go to Congress," he wrote.

Medved said he was surprised to find the class just hasn't grown up.

"I came into this with the idea a person's life is set at 28, but what we've found is a prolonged adolescence," he said.

Medved and Wallechinsky, who is the son of author Irving Wallace, were not in the top social clique at Pali. They told of sitting nervously by the phone trying to build their courage to set up interviews with a couple of the class beauties, girls they wouldn't have dreamed of calling in high school.

"It helped us come to terms with our high school experience, which for both of us was not that pleasant," said Medved. "Now we could call Patty Findlater."

"Now we're at the center of things, 11 years later," Medved added. "And that's very pleasant for people not that popular in high school."

Patty, meanwhile, has an office job for a film company.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are apt to be over-emotional today, and unless you are careful, you will feel you are being imposed upon. By going along easily with whatever arises you have some good happenings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care you go along with the ideas of kin and have more accord at home. You want to try new things today, but this is not a good time for such. Avoid one who does not really understand you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use particular care in driving and in motion of all kinds and avoid possible danger. Try not to be critical of those who work with you. Show more devotion to family and you reap rewards.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't force any changes in monetary matters but if it is necessary to do so, act wisely. Find the right avenues through which you can add to present security. Try not to be extravagant.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your personal environment improved even if you have to forego pleasure for a while. Take time for improving health, too. Take a more optimistic outlook on life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have problems that seem insurmountable, but if you listen to a close family tie, you find the right answers.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful of what you say to friends or you could easily lose them now. You may not gain one wish but another materializes that is better.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take no risks with your reputation or the respect of your community and then all works out fine for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget that new interest and carry through with present project which will now yield right benefits. Don't be pressured by some contact you have, but try to help when it is feasible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use right methods in handling some annoying situation and it works out to your advantage. Be careful where credit is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A situation arises that seems annoying, but it can easily be to your benefit if you handle it wisely. Some civic work you do can also bring good results. Relax in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you do not forget to do some work that is important to handle right now. A co-worker may need some cheering up in order to be more cooperative. Be more objective for better results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find the right kind of amusement that will not cost you much or get you into trouble. Use tact in dealing with a loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be inclined to resort to temper tantrums when not getting his or her own way. This child will have to be taught early to reason more, to have more faith and to realize that tact is most important in dealing with others. Be sure to teach to work early in life in order to discipline the mind and to handle tasks before going off on pleasure trips.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Lorenzo Off To A Sagging Start

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lorenzo "Carlton the Doorman" Music and his wife this week joined the syndicated talk-and-music circuit now traveled by the better-known Dinah Shore, Herv Griffin and Mike Douglas shows.

But whether the daily, one-hour "Lorenzo and Henrietta Music Show" can make it in this league remains to be seen.

(The initial seeing is occurring via 40 stations, says a spokesman for the bankroller of the series, Mary Tyler Moore's production firm.)

The first edition we saw here showed promise, sly humor and a flash or two of inspiration, starting with word that "we interrupt these commercials to bring you this important program."

But it also had sagging segments, particularly a too-long gag woodworking course by announcer Dave Willock, who used part of the time to tell Music the right way to bow following a song.

An interview with Miss Moore, the sole guest, took up the last half of the show. It also seemed too long. It occasionally got downright cloying when Henrietta queried her about her life and future plans.

Fortunately, Lorenzo helped salvage this chat at times. Such as the time the two ladies wondered how Miss Moore, who says this is the last season for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," would end the series.

"What do you think of just getting blown up?" he inquired.

The first half was the best half. During it, Music candidly admitted there was no studio audience when he "accidentally" showed a technician playing the yocks-and-applause machine.

He also off-handedly noted the show is taped in advance by observing that "it's a bright sunny morning about a month ago."

A winning segment: Henrietta's interview with Carlton the Doorman of the MTM-made "Rhoda" series. Carlton talked via a speaker put in a chair. He said he couldn't leave his post in the Bronx.

She asked how he trained to be a doorman. He said he got into it because his uncle, a doorman, "had emphysema and he couldn't blow his whistle, so I blew it for him."

Whimsical mind-benders like this abounded in the interview. Alas, there was no time later for Music's repertory company of skit players to start doing whatever it is they do in comedy.

Well, there's ample time for that with 119 shows to go.

Music Classes Offered Adults

Adults 16 years of age or older may participate in beginning group music lessons this fall in banjo, guitar and piano. The courses are offered by the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education and the ECU School of Music.

"Piano for Beginners" will be instructed by Dr. Richard Lucht of the ECU keyboard faculty.

"Basic Guitar" will be taught by Michael Thompson of the ECU School of Music, a first-prize winner in the 1974 Union Grove guitar competition.

"Scruggs-Style Banjo Pickin'" also instructed by Thompson, will involve such basic principles as use of finger picks, chord positions and tunings, and is designed to enable the student to play popular Earl Scruggs tunes ("Foggy Mountain Breakdown," "Cripple Creek" and "Cumberland Gap").

Further information about these and other fall non-credit course offerings is available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834 or telephone 757-6143/6148.

Two College Credit Courses Scheduled

Two 10-week college credit courses will be offered in Greenville by the Division of Continuing Education of East Carolina University. They will be taught in three hour sessions at Wahl-Coates Elementary School, East Fifth Street, Greenville, from 6:00-9:00 p.m.

The courses to be offered are as follows:
1. ELEM 425 (Elementary Education) - The Elementary School Curriculum September 23-December 2, 1976.
2. ELEM 306G (Elementary Education) - Social Studies in the Elementary School Pre-registration for each course is required.

For further information or pre-registration, you may contact the Division of Continuing Education, Graduate Extension, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834 or telephone: Greenville 757-6109.

Matter is anything that occupies space.

WE ALSO INCLUDE THE ORIGINAL TARHEEL TOYOTA NEW CAR GUARANTEE
100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world. (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota) Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've been in the factory in Japan, I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out."

Until now most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you knew you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in the Toyota.

"Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last."

Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions.

We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 miles, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, USA. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality. Toyota dependability.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel Toyota when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel Toyota and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. (Asterisk denotes warranted car.)
