Carter Talks Tax Revision

By DICK BARNES Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's views on tax reform are being assailed by Republicans and loom as a potential centerpiece of his debate Thursday with President Ford.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

FULL COST NOT CLEAR I went to Tarheel Toyota here and inquired how much it would cost to have the protective strips on the side of my Toyota replaced. I was told $21.95. I stood there and deliberated out loud whether I could afford it, but I finally told them to go ahead.

HOTLINE contacted Tarheel Toyota manager Bill Draper to discuss the situation and he said he felt it was a serious communication problem. After talking with you about it, he called in the employees involved for a conference to get further information.

Draper said, in his opinion, Tarheel Toyota is not at fault, although he is sorry the problem occurred. His employees told him that you went to the parts department window and therefore they thought you were asking only about the price of the replacement parts, not about labor.

Draper said he makes an effort to present all necessary information to the customer to prevent this type of situation. The employees will generally volunteer the cost of labor if they have reason to believe that the customer will have the work done at Tarheel Toyota and may need to know the cost of labor for the work involved.

You say you're still bothered by the blow to this month's budget, but that you do believe now that you were charged a fair price. Your insurance agent verified, you said, that the amount charged you was not exorbitant, based on the retail price of the kit and the two hours usually allotted for this kind of job.

HOTLINE hopes this item will serve as a reminder to service persons to clearly state prices in advance and to customers to inquire specifically about costs of parts and of labor in advance.

Driver Of Bus Is Shot

GREENSBORO (AP)—Student-driver Dennis Williams was shot in the upper right chest while at the wheel this morning, but managed to stop a Guilford County school bus without injury to the 49 pupils.

The sheriff's department said Williams, 18, of Gibsonville, was struck by a shotgun blast, apparently fired from the road. Officers with bloodhounds were combing the wooded area.

The sheriff's department said the body of an unidentified man was found about 10:30 a.m. in woods near the highway where the bus was fired upon. Guilford County Medical Examiner H.L. Johnson said the victim was in his late 20s, had been dead about two hours, and died of an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

There was no immediate connection between the body and the shooting, except that the body was found about 200 to 300 yards from where Williams pulled the bus to a stop after being shot.

Williams, reportedly in good condition, was taken to Cone hospital in Greensboro.

Marked Runway

Greenville Police and Pitt County Sheriff's Department cars were used Saturday night to mark a runway at the Pitt-Greenville airport to allow a twin-engine plane to land.

Chief Glenn Cannon said cars were used to mark the runway after the Federal Aviation Administration flight service office in New Bern called and said a private plane was attempting to make a landing and that the airport's runway lights were not burning.

Cannon, who noted Greenville Fire and Rescue Department units stood-by for the landing, identified the pilot of the aircraft as Carl Woxman of Greenville.

Spokesmen at the airport this morning said that employees simply failed to turn the runway lights on before they left work for the day, Saturday.

Might Regain Seats In House

By JIM ADAMS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Capitol Hill sex scandal and alleged funds abuses are not visibly hurting House Democrats' re-election chances.

But the Democrats concede Republicans may win back some seats in November anyway.

Associated Press bureaus across the country report that most of nearly a dozen candidates campaigning under clouds of sex allegations or convictions or reprimands are expected to win.

Republican campaign officials at one time planned to make the Capitol Hill sex scandal a major issue in races all over the country, but the AP survey found it being used only in a few.

Republicans say they now hope to win back about 26 of the 43 seats they lost during the watergate scandals in the 1974 elections, and Democrats concede the Republicans could win back 12 or 15.

also have a good chance of adding even a few more seats to the 2-to-1, 286-145 House majority control they already have.

But even if there is no significant change in party lineup, the elections already are assured of pumping a big shot of new blood into the House with another bumper crop of freshmen.

There will be at least 60 freshmen because of record retirements of House old-timers, and upsets could drive that up close to the 92 freshmen elected in 1974.

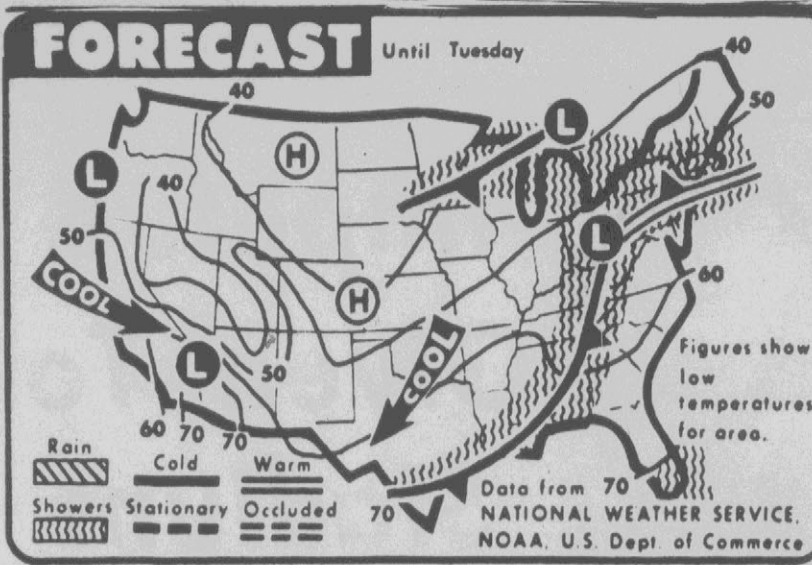

Those freshmen broke the House seniority power system and helped shift the House's philosophy on some legislation. Another large freshmen class presumably would do much the same.

The AP bureaus found no national issues, including the economy, influencing a large number of House races so far. The survey found such issues as unemployment, morality in government and abortion being debated but, according to the bureaus, most races seemed to focus on local issues and personalities.

make a serious mistake," the debates are likely to simply solidify candidate support and strengthen the commitments of voters who now are just leasers.

"President Ford is much better known than I am. He is much more predictable than I am. And I think the juxtaposition of myself with him in the debates will accrue to my own benefit if I do a good job in the debates — which I intend to do."

He said the first of the three scheduled debates should blunt the concern of some voters that he is deliberately fuzzy on issues. Forty-nine per cent of respondents to a recent Louis Harris poll agreed with the proposition that Carter "has ducked taking stands on issues to avoid offending anybody, and that is wrong." Only 34 per cent disagreed; the rest didn't answer.

Carter said he hadn't seen the poll, but he cited his own polls which he said show voters trust him more than Ford.

"I wish everybody had complete trust in me," he said, "and I believe that the debates will help to alleviate concern that has been pointed out."

Carter said voters should have no problem judging his tax program because "the principles that I have spelled out to you would in every instance convince the average American family that their taxes are going to be no higher, or perhaps even lower in some instances depending on their income, and that their taxes as levied will be fair."

Speaking about average-income families, Carter said "I don't think most of them want to see their taxes lowered. They want to be sure that when they do pay taxes they are given the same treatment as those who are more influential and more wealthy and have a wider range of opportunities on taxed income."

Early in the primary campaign, Carter said he might consider eliminating the tax deduction for homeowners' mortgage interest payments.

He said in this interview, however, that while this tax break ought not apply to vacation homes or similar property, he would likely keep in the tax structure in some form the $10 billion to $11 billion worth of tax advantages now available for homeowners.

He said that amount is about the right level "of encouragement for home construction and home ownership."

In another money area, the former Georgia governor told the group of AP editors and reporters that his programs would cost less than the $100 billion price tag claimed by Republicans.

Q. Do you have another figure or not?

A. Well, as I said, we will fit the rapidity of implementation of these programs in to accommodate the revenues that have just described to you.

Q. Without tax increases?

A. That is correct.

Carter said an improved economic picture and higher employment would yield steadily increasing government revenues, including $16 billion net for every 1 per cent drop in the unemployment rate.

He said the federal cost of creating one average new job ranges from $10,500 for a position on the federal payroll down to $2,000 or less for some jobs in the private sector.

Speaking softly over a breakfast table and appearing tired from the wearing campaign grind, Carter offered these other responses during the hour-long interview:

—He intends to choose a strong secretary of state. He doesn't plan to run the State Department through the White House staff, but "I would be the spokesman for this country. I would make the final decisions about our nation's foreign policy."

—Perhaps five of his current foreign policy advisors are in the forefront for the secretary's job, but he won't name them.

—"I would intend to maintain our present level of troop deployment in Europe for the foreseeable future. But I think when we can move with the Soviet Union to reduce atomic weapons, I would even be willing to increase ground forces or conventional forces if that was what it took to give us equivalent strength."

State Employees Plan To Seek Pay Increase

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — State employees have decided to seek a "just and adequate pay increase" from the General Assembly next year.

The North Carolina State Employees Association, which represents 22,000 of them, so decided at its convention Saturday.

association, Emmett Burden, said the amount to be sought will be determined next month by the association's legislative committee.

"I see the teachers are asking for 10 per cent raises for the next two years, and the professors want 12 and 8 per cent raises," Burden said. "We'll probably be in that same general area, but that's just speculation now."

Burden told the 30th annual meeting that a tight budget and increased demands for public services threaten to prevent adequate pay for the approximately 70,000 state government employees.

The delegates voted to interview candidates for major statewide office on their programs for state employees. Democratic and Republican candidates for governor and lieutenant governor spoke during the three-day convention. Jimmy Green, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, received an enthusiastic welcome during his speech Friday, although he was the only candidate who did not specifically say he supported a pay increase for members of the association.

"I'm not a member of your organization," Green said. "But when the election comes, you can help me become a state employe so I can get on your rolls. And then I can help you." Green's GOP opponent, William Hiatt, a Mount Airy school teacher, said he supports a pay raise for state employes and teachers. But, Hiatt added, "It's up to us to convince people we can be just as efficient as workers in private enterprise."

The association voted to form a permanent political action committee, called The Employee Action Movement, or TEAM. The association named William H. Lyon of Creedmoor as the state employe of the year. Lyon, with the state revenue department in Durham, was cited for 20 years of service.

played. "This was the impetus we needed to get this thing (the drive) started," Willis said. It shows there is a Big Five (in the state) rather than a Big Four."

Willis said the stadium drive has gotten off to a good start already, with "the first initial contacts" being "very successful." Pledges are made over a five-year period.

"If we can go ahead and raise the money for the stadium and build it, then we can see this type of game in Greenville instead of having to travel out of town," said Ray Minges, Pitt County drive chairman. He noted that money used for traveling to out-of-town games would make a sizeable contribution to the stadium fund. The home advantage could also be an important psychological factor for the team.

"I was very pleased," commented Chancellor Jenkins. "I was very proud of our team." Jenkins said he thought ECU proved itself to be obviously the superior team on the field" and the score would have been even higher if ECU had not fumbled the ball six times, losing the ball on four of those fumbles.

Jetliner's Crash Killed All 155 Persons Aboard

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Rescue workers set to the grim task today of separating the remains of 155 bodies from the wreckage of a Turkish jetliner that crashed and burned on a mountainside in central Turkey Sunday night.

Police said there were no survivors among the 147 passengers and eight crew members on board. Police and airline sources said the passengers included 85 Italians and 18 West Germans bound for vacations on the southwest coast of Turkey and 22 Turks.

The nationalities of the other passengers were not known yet. The Turkish airline at first reported there were six crew members aboard. Later it said there were seven, and today it announced there were eight.

The wreckage of the three-jet Boeing 727 and the bodies were spread over a large area, local police said.

"Unfortunately, bodies are torn into pieces and identification is difficult," said the police chief of Isparta, a town near the crash site.

The plane crashed into the mountain at an altitude of 3,700 feet. But Turkey's communications minister said the plane might have exploded in the air.

Persons in Isparta, seven miles away, said they heard a loud explosion.

"First I saw a flaming red cloud, then I heard a deafening explosion," reported one person in the town.

The jetliner was flying from Milan to Antalya, a Mediterranean resort on the southwest coast. It made stops en route in Rome and Istanbul and crashed about 75 miles short of its destination.

The burning wreckage caused a fire in the wooded area that kept rescue workers from reaching the wreckage for two hours.

The crash was the worst to occur inside Turkey's borders, but a Turkish airliner was also involved in the worst crash in aviation history. It was a DC10 that crashed near Paris in March 1974, killing all 346 persons on board.

Fire Damages Condominium

BANNER ELK, N.C. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed six condominium units in a building at Beech Mountain Sunday.

The ownership of the units, unoccupied at the time, was not immediately determined.

College May Be Reopened

BRISTOL, Va. (AP) — There is a possibility that Sullins College, a 107-year-old two-year women's college closed in July, will be reopened.

A preliminary agreement has been reached for the sale of all college properties to an unnamed corporation, an official of the college's board of trustees disclosed over the weekend.

The unidentified corporation has expressed an interest in reopening the college, said Ms. Doris D. Repass, chairman of the board. The college was closed at the end of the spring semester because of declining enrollment and financial troubles.

Ms. Repass said the action was taken by the college board late Friday, but an announcement was delayed until Saturday so certain aspects regarding the transaction could be clarified by members of the college's trustee executive committee.

sers' request, Ms. Repass said, the new owner's identity will not be disclosed immediately.

There was no announcement of a purchase price for the approximately 170 acres of property, about 50 buildings and related equipment and extensive educational equipment.

Bids were let by the college's trustees earlier this year for the sale of the college properties, but they were turned down because officials felt they were insufficient.

Couple Weds Sunday In Double Ring Ceremony

TARBORO — Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church provided the setting Sunday afternoon at three o'clock for the marriage of Deborah Lee Crawford and Ricky Earl Eason.

The vows of the double ring ceremony were spoken before Edward Conners of Tarboro, pastor of the bride, Marcia Leggett presented traditional wedding music at the organ. Emery Davis of Bethel, vocalist, sang "Color My World," "We've Only Just Begun" and "One Hand, One Heart."

Vows were spoken before a background of jade greenery and baskets of white fuji mums, pom poms and carnations. Pews were marked with white satin bows and bells. A fifteen branch candelabra and two nine branch candelabra completed the scene.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earl Eason of Ayden. Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Robert Crawford of Rt. 1, Tarboro.

She wore a formal gown of white chantilly lace over peau de sole fashioned with a self-fitted bodice of peau de sole with a band of sculptured lace with blue flower insets down the center with rows of lace over the bodice. The full bishop sleeves had matching lace extending to the cuffs which were edged in lace and closed with pearl buttons. The colonial style skirt had tiers of chantilly lace over peau de sole with a chapel train of chantilly lace.

She carried a cascade of white miniature carnations; roses; daisies and sprays of blue baby's breath. Her dress was fashioned by her mother.

Miss Becky Crawford of Rt. 1, Tarboro, was her sister's maid of honor. Mrs. Lorraine Burton of Bethel was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Emma Lou Vanderford of Robersonville; Elaine Proffitt of Alexandria; Va.; sister of the bridegroom, and Carolyn Doughtie of Bethel.

Junior bridesmaids were Judy and Debra Proffitt of Alexandria, Va.; nieces of the bridegroom, Christy Rogester of Bethel was flower girl and Dwain Crawford, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The honor attendants were attired in formal gowns of floral organdy over taffeta. The bodice featured empire waists and a cape effect at the shoulders. They carried nosegays of bronze miniature mums and daisies and they wore hats to match their dresses. The bridesmaids' gowns of blue polyester were fashioned like those of the honor attendants. They carried nosegays of yellow daisies and wore matching hats.

The junior attendants wore gowns fashioned like those of the other attendants in green and yellow polyester and matching hats. The flower girl carried a basket of daisies and baby's breath. She wore a formal dress of white dotted swiss with a sash of blue ribbon. She wore a spray of blue baby's breath in her hair.

Fred Proffitt, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Jackie and Ronnie Eason, brothers of the bridegroom, and Alton and Ronald Crawford, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

The mother of the bride chose a formal dress and coat of peach polyester with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal dress of pink, matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

For a wedding trip to Florida, the bride changed into a pants suit with matching accessories. They will make their home at Rt. 2, Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School and Mitchell's Hair Styling Academy, Greenville. She is currently employed at Wachovia Data Processing, Greenville. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden High School and attended Chowan College. He graduated from ECU and is currently employed with Carolina Dairies, Greenville.

Mrs. Alice E. Wilson of Tarboro directed the wedding. Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the church. Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Doughtie.

Baskets of greenery decorated the reception area. The refreshment table, covered with a green cloth with a dotted swiss overlay, was centered with a live branch candelabra featuring a floral arrangement of white fuji mums, pom poms and carnations. Punch was prepared by Mrs. Dorothy Wooten, aunt of the bridegroom.

The five tiered wedding cake was served from an auxiliary table covered with a green cloth with a dotted swiss overlay. Mrs. Edith Skinner, aunt of the bride, served the cake. Mrs. Inez Beaman, aunt of the bride, presided at the bride's register. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Boyette.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Saturday at Bonanza given by Mrs. Lorraine Burton, Madlin Boyette, Sally Satterthwaite, Christine Wilson, Lyn Boyette, Dorothy Doughtie and Shelby Rogister.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a rehearsal party for the wedding party, family and friends.

Dear Abby

High School Reunion Sparks Old Flame

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last June, when my husband went back to his hometown for his 50th high school reunion, he started up with an old sweetheart he hadn't seen since graduation. Ernie is 68 and retired, and she's a 67-year-old widow with 11 grandchildren!

Ernie took 60 Polaroid pictures at the reunion, and this woman is in 50 of them. She's skinny, has orange hair and wore a tight knit dress with a plunging neckline.

He's called her long distance several times (she lives in San Diego), and I'm sure they're corresponding the way he breaks his neck to get the mail first.

Ernie's told our children all about her, and they've been teasing me. He says it's all in fun, but I'm not sure.

Maybe I'm handling it all wrong, but I told Ernie he could have his freedom if he'll give me 50 per cent of everything he has.

I need some expert advice, Abby. What should I do?
JEALOUS AT 65

DEAR JEALOUS: Don't make Ernie any offers you don't intend to honor. He just may call your bluff.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to pose an ethical problem faced by many doctors. Here's the scenario:

A husband phones to say that he has picked up a case of gonorrhea and fears he has infected his wife. Since the wife is coming in for a routine checkup he wants you to diagnose and treat her without telling her what she has.

Should the doctor:

A. Refuse subterfuge and insist that the guy level with his wife?

B. Agree to test for gonorrhea, and if the test is positive, tell the wife the whole story?

C. Go all out and even lie a little to keep the philandering husband out of trouble?
ALABAMA M.D.

DEAR M.D.: Under no circumstances would an ethical doctor treat a patient for a venereal disease without telling her what she has. (She could conceivably infect others.) And in the interest of public health, instruct the V.D. source to tell his wife—or you will.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column signed J.M. just floored me! It was from a woman who had given birth to twins 34 years ago, and was told by her doctor that one twin had died, but never saw a birth certificate or a death certificate for the "dead" baby.

Abby, I had a similar experience. My doctor told me I was carrying twins, and I was thrilled.

I entered the hospital on June 19, 1941, and was examined by several interns and nurses, who told me that I would deliver twins. I had a long difficult labor, so when only one baby girl was presented to me, I was so relieved to have it over with I didn't fuss because I didn't get the twins I had expected.

Well, 34 years later while standing in the checkout line at the supermarket, I nearly fainted when I noticed that the woman ahead of me was the image of my daughter who lives in California! She could have been her identical twin sister. A sick feeling came over me, but I was so numb and speechless, I couldn't bring myself to speak to her.

That incident has haunted me for several months. I have no idea how to start searching for this woman, but if I ever see her again, you can bet I will think of something to say to her.

Camera Handy In Househunting

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are planning to buy a house, remodel a house, sell a house or even decorate a house, you can get a lot of mileage out of a camera, suggests Alfred Howarth of New York, an architect and interior designer.

"In our business a color camera provides a useful record of many things. If we must travel to see a house, we may forget certain details that are important, but the photograph can refresh our memories so that we do not need to take another trip." He uses the camera for architectural and interior design purposes.

"In addition a camera can give you something to work with after you leave a project — it often reveals things you haven't even noticed when you looked at a house."

In fact, in one photograph

Howarth, who studied architecture in Canada, noted that the ridge of a roof was bowed. It had not been apparent when he was on the site, but the camera emphasized the disrepair. On a new house such a problem means deterioration, he explained, so repairs would be necessary before they could proceed with other plans.

"You really must be willing to get up on a stepladder and photograph the roof, which can reveal conditions you might not be able to see from the ground. It might mean shoring up an area before you can work below."

In another example, a photograph picked up a strong shadow on a wall, an indication that the old house to be remodeled had been partitioned at some time or another. Exploratory work in the attic above that room revealed that one area was sagging because the partition had been removed.

In the architectural business, the cost of a consultation can be cut down considerably by using a camera to record the elevations and various angles of the house if a client wants to do so in advance of meeting with the architect whose fees are set on an hourly basis, Howarth advises.

Little photographs can be blown up later if one needs larger prints and color cameras can provide instant snapshots even with space on the bottom border to jot down details. But it really doesn't matter what kind of camera you use so long as it serves your purpose, says Howarth, who has been serving as a homes specialist consultant to the Polaroid Corp. He is also a member of the American Society of Interior Designers.

"It is expensive nowadays to get scaffolding built, so if you want to get a good view of the ceiling, a photograph can be very helpful. This can be done on a ladder," he advises.

Pipes, wires and even studs in old houses being remodeled can be photographed to serve any number of purposes — to indicate where they are located or to prove what is behind the walls if you ever must do so.

As for people who are planning to buy a house, which might necessitate some costly trips to another city, a lot of information can be passed on to a mate by taking photographs. Real estate people often supply snapshots but these may be little flattering views of the best angle of the house. The house shopper can do more. Photographs showing negative aspects may prove to be a saving factor — removing the house from serious consideration. On the other hand details of the home in photographs may be a selling point with one's partner, saving time and money.

Cameras long have been useful to interior designers as Howarth maintains, especially useful when one wants to capture colors, motif and style for future reference or to show to another interested person. They can be used to photograph odd-shaped windows to assist in their draping and might be used also to photograph furniture that might need reupholstering. Photographs are useful also when one wants to remember the pattern and colors in rugs and fabrics on shopping trips.

Another use of the camera, of course, is to make a record of one's possessions for personal use or for insurance or legal purposes.

Bienvenue Club Holds Meeting

The Bienvenue Book Club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Ms. Joyce Hastings. Ms. Helen Froatz was co-hostess.

Yearbooks were presented by Ms. Vera Martin and programs listed were read by Ms. Barbara Radekas.

Mini-reviews of the books to be read this year were presented by Ms. Hastings, Ms. Joan Miller and Ms. Virgie Easterling.

Ms. Nancy McConney, president, led a discussion on the need for a morning session to be added to the regular club session to facilitate the special interests of the group. Members decided to reserve the hours of 10:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. each third Wednesday for volunteer attendance. Welcome Wagon members interested in joining this club should contact Ms. McConney.

Sorority Meet Held Thursday

Alpha Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International held its first meeting of the year Thursday evening.

Plans were finalized for a trash and treasure sale which was held Saturday. Mrs. Hubert Westbrook, chairman, announced that the proceeds will go into the general philanthropic fund to be disbursed at a later date.

Plans for a hot dog sale November 5-6 at Harris Super Market were discussed.

It was decided to send a contribution to the South Eastern Regional Conference.

Mrs. Stanley Zicherman and Mrs. Harold Priestley are co-chairmen of a project to collect used eye glasses in the Greenville area to be sent to "New Eyes for the Needy."

Mrs. Billy Roberts and Mrs. Jack Taylor are co-chairmen of the Tom Wats Kit sales, all proceeds of which are to be sent to St. Jude's Hospital.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Spain presented Mrs. Zicherman with her second degree Pallas Athene award and charm.

The dinner meeting was hosted by Mrs. Douglas Parker. President Mrs. Raymond Spain conducted the business meeting.

Unlimited Market For State

J. A. Rigney of N. C. State University sees signs that the United States will emerge as the foremost trading nation of the world in the next decade.

Rigney, dean of International programs at N. C. State, spoke last week at a workshop of the newly organized Coastal Plains World Trade Association.

Our nation "must have businessmen and government agents who know the customs, language, traditions, culture of other countries," Rigney said. "Our universities must gear up to provide this education, both in academic courses and in continuing education."

In our own state "we have outstanding institutional support for the identification and development of market potential," he said. But there should be more support by the universities to stimulate world trade.

"You businessmen have the right to expect your universities to provide you with this type of analytic understanding of the countries around the world.

"Your educational and government leaders need to hear from you in this respect . . . the Legislature must be made aware of the fact that the next decade will see North Carolina move strongly in the international scene and they must support the programs appropriate to that development."

That strikes us as sound advice. There is an unlimited market for North Carolina farm and industrial products on the world market. Our business, farm and educational leaders must learn how to service that world market if we are to share in the boom of world trade which seems to be ahead.

How Can One Be Sure Of Sentencing?

It's difficult to understand how a man sentenced to 400 to 1,200 years in 1966 for the horrible murder of eight Chicago nurses could even be considered for parole in 1976.

Yet Richard Speck, who was called in the recent hearings, "a fiend . . . spawned in hell," was indeed up for parole last week.

Fortunately the parole was denied and Speck will remain in jail at least for another 10 to 20 months when, Illinois authorities say, he can be considered for parole again.

It makes one wonder just what has to be done to be certain that a man like this will never be free to threaten society again.

THIS AFTERNOON

Confusion Over Flu Shots

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Perhaps the best decision available to the normally healthy adult in North Carolina is not to worry about the Swine Flu.

As fouled up as the much-heralded inoculation program is, it's doubtful there will be enough shots to go around anyway.

When President Gerald Ford announced the nationwide immunization effort, it was expected that things would move smoothly and rapidly toward implementation. That was not to be. Manufacturers had trouble making the serum; delays were encountered over insurance for the makers till the U.S. Congress agreed to back the firms; tests showed the shots didn't work well with youngsters; drug firms are now hopelessly behind in delivery of the vaccines with the flu season nigh upon us.

No Outbreak
Further complicating the scene is the fact that since the initial outbreak of the virus at Ft. Dix, N.J., among a group of servicemen, there has been no further recorded incidence. Experts say there must be an "Incubating" outbreak to breed the virus and get it going strongly in circulation, and none has taken place anywhere in the world so far as is known.

The federal foul-ups continue, and several states—North Carolina now among them—have abandoned original plans for statewide mass immunization programs.

Does that really matter? Probably not, say insiders with the N.C. Department of Human Resources, division of health services. If worried about getting Swine Flu, and whether to get the shot if and when it becomes available, you will probably suffer more from the worry than the virus, they say.

Dr. Archie Johnson, former assistant secretary of Human Resources, confesses the program turned into a federal boondoggle from the start, and labels it political hogwash. Other top officials candidly admit privately that the whole thing probably started because President Ford figured he could make political points from it . . . and opine that by now the President probably wishes he had never mentioned the subject.

Three Groups
Professionally, though, what is the situation? There are three broad groups of people to be affected:

1. Youngsters under age 18. No effective vaccine has been developed, and the tests have shown adverse reactions in upwards of 15 per cent of the children. It will be mid-November or later, well into the flu season, before health officials even make a recommendation on what to do—later before the vaccine is available.

2. Healthy adults, 18-59. What happens if you don't get a shot? "You run the risk of getting Swine Flu—if there is any," says Dr. J.N. MacCormack, head of the health division communicable disease section. How bad will that be? "No worse off than if you have Hong Kong, or some other flu . . . there's no greater chance of death. The one fatality (at Ft. Dix) was a soldier who went out and marched and exerted himself while sick," MacCormack said.

3. The high-risk people over 60. They ought to get the shots, most experts agree. Especially if they take the combined shot for protection against both Swine and Hong Kong.

All things considered, North Carolina expects to get about enough of the vaccine to give shots to the high-risk elderly and young. It will be distributed to each of the 100 counties on a population basis. The counties may elect to give shots on a selective basis; hold the stuff until they get enough to hold mass inoculations; or otherwise choose a method for using the serum.

But, says MacCormack frankly, "In essence, we are not having a statewide immunization program in North Carolina. Each day that goes by without there being documented anywhere in the world another outbreak, we can breathe that much easier. "They promised two months ago we would have the vaccine available. Now they are wenching on that arrangement," MacCormack said.

By ART BUCHWALD

The Delivery Is Rougher

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)
A man works hard all his life, trying to make something of himself, overcome his poverty-stricken years and achieve security and happiness. And then all of a sudden one day his son takes on a newspaper route and the man finds himself back where he started.

This happened to me awhile back. My 11-year-old son had managed to get himself a newspaper route, but on Saturday he went off on an overnight hike with the Boy Scouts. At three o'clock on that rainy afternoon my wife informed me someone had to deliver his newspapers. "But it's raining out," I protested. "And besides the North is playing the South in football."

"It's all right," she said, putting on her galoshes. "I'll deliver them. A little rain never hurt someone with a cold and a 101 fever."

"Okay," I said, "I'll deliver the damn papers. What really hurts is I don't even write for the paper he's delivering."

"Here's a list of the houses," my wife said. "Joel's written down the instructions on where to get the papers and what to do."

I took the list, put on a raincoat, boots and rain hat and went out into the pouring rain.

The truck came along at 4:30. "Where's your bag?" the driver wanted to know. "What bag?"

"To keep your papers dry, you idiot. How many times do I have to tell you guys to bring your bag when it rains?"

"Well, you see, sir, this isn't really my route. It's my son's route. I'm just filling in for him today."

"That's a lousy excuse. Okay, keep them under your raincoat, and next time don't forget your bag."

"Yes, sir. I'll remember."

He roared off, splashing water all over my pants.

I studied the list, but it wasn't easy. Between the rain and my son's handwriting it was kind of blurred.

The first two houses didn't give me any trouble, but at the third a man came to the door. "We didn't get our paper last Friday," he said. "That's a shame," I said. "Actually nothing much happened. You didn't miss anything."

"I'm not paying you for Friday."

"Suit yourself," I said as the rain dripped down on my face. His wife came to the door and pulled her husband away. As she closed it I heard her say, "You shouldn't yell at the poor man. It's probably the only job he could get."

In the next block a lady came to the door and said, "I forgot to pay you last week. How much is it?"

"I don't know," I said. "Well, here's a dollar and a 10-cent tip."

"Thank you, ma'am." "And the next time, please don't throw my paper in the bushes."

By this time the list was pretty soggy and I couldn't read it any more, so I decided the only fair thing to do was to leave a paper at every other house until I ran out.

It worked until I came to one house where an 11-year-old girl ran out and said, (Continued on page 5)

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

Chairman Mao is dead! Americans cannot totally appreciate the genius of this remarkable revolutionary, partly because, to us, the nature of Chinese communism suggests that the free enterprise system suppresses the masses in order that an elite body may live in luxury. Even though the ideology and the Chinese living style under Mao Tse-tung is different from that of the American trend, the superb accomplishments of this giant must be admired by the world.

The Chairman brought forth stability to the Chinese government while improving the existence of the masses in the world's largest nation. The Chairman ultimately established peace in the People's Republic of China although Chiang Kai-shek's regime had to be continued on Taiwan.

Americans must respect the agrarian communism that Chairman Mao implemented to transform China from a "sleeping giant" to a major nuclear power with whom all the world must reckon. An example of the discipline and sacrifice which Chairman Mao instilled into the Chinese was exhibited recently when China underwent three major earthquakes and the people moved from their homes to reside in the streets until the possibility of aftershocks had been removed.

The Chairman has departed this life, but the next few months will illustrate the real strength of the leader as the world observes how the Chinese organization chooses Mao's successor.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter: Apathy, Confusion

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CLEVELAND — The clearest danger signal for Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign here in his strongest Midwestern industrial state, shocking operatives of both parties, was the result of the last "open" registration day (Sept. 8) for the November election.

The tally: a mere 3,071 new voters, far less than usual, took the trouble to register in Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), Ohio stronghold of the Democratic party and the source of Carter's supreme confidence in this normally Republican state.

On that same evening, Carter's first Cleveland visit of the fall campaign added new problems. The same brand of madcap disorganization that plagued Carter the day before in Philadelphia angered the Democratic bosses of Cleveland.

Carter is still given an early lead over President Ford in Ohio, a state essential to a Republican but not to a Democratic victory. Nevertheless, the poisonous combination of voter apathy and organization confusion threatens front-running Carter not only here but in other key Northern industrial states.

Those 3,071 new registrants here are piddling contrasted with the 52,836 voters who registered under similar conditions in 1972, the year of the McGovern debacle, or the 64,081 who signed up on the last day in 1968, a year when the party fractured over Vietnam.

Even worse, re-registered transfer voters newly moved to Cuyahoga County totalled 941, less than 10 per cent of transfers in 1968 and 1972.

Registration was at the lowest ebb in black areas such as Ward 20 (Hough) and Ward 24 (Glenville). With more than 20,000 registered voters in each of those wards, total new voters after the Sept. 8 "open" registration closed down were one voter for each ward.

Carter's apparent failure to stir electoral passions in the black wards of East Cleveland sharply contrasted with the turnout in Republican suburbs. Almost two-thirds of all new registered voters came in the suburban West Side.

Overall, these dismal Democratic statistics suggest Carter is not coming through as a credible, identifiable presidential nominee enough for Democrats to get involved. Thus, it was important for Carter to generate enthusiasm among Democrats on his first campaign stop here on the same day of the disappointing "open" registration.

The two top party pros here, county co-chairmen Tony Garofoli and George Forbes, both learned of Carter's visit literally a few hours before it happened—through the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Bill J. Casstevens, politically potent district director of the United Auto Workers (UAW), was never notified at all but heard about Carter's visit from Howard M. Metzbaum, the Democratic Senate nominee.

Since Casstevens had opposed Carter in the June 8 primary, he might have expected special attention. "If Metz hadn't told me," Casstevens told us, "I wouldn't have known about it. I complained to our headquarters in Detroit and I complained to Dan Horgan (Carter's Ohio coordinator)."

But Horgan, a new Jersey party pro brought in to run the Ohio campaign, was himself a victim of clumsy handling in Carter's three-hour campaign stop here. Reporting directly to Atlanta and bypassing Horgan's (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

LIGHT AND DARKNESS
The German poet, Goethe, died crying, "Light, more light!"

When will light come, we often ask ourselves. When will we know with some assurance what we ought to do, or when will we have that certainty of conviction that will give peace amidst life's turmoil?

Strange as it seems, the light almost never comes until the darkness has reached its most extreme stage. Watchers through the night are driven to despair as the dark hours drag on and the darkness only becomes more intense. But every passing minute brings them that much nearer the light. The world is not made after the pattern of eternal night. Darkness is always succeeded by light, and no matter how black it may appear as we look out of our windows, we can know that God has so arranged things that eventually the light will come.

We have to have the night in order to live with steadfastness and purpose when morning breaks.

Nobody Knows Answer

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Sometimes in politics, words best used to describe elephants are employed to talk about less than elephantine accomplishments.

So it was in Raleigh recently, when Gov. James E. Holshouser called a news conference to boast about the first year of his reading program.

"It's the first year of what I firmly believe will be one of the most important movements for the cause of education in North Carolina's history," said the governor, setting the scale for his pronouncements.

The conference in Winston-Salem where the program was launched a year ago, the governor opined, "was one of the most important meetings ever held in this state," joining a class with the meeting that signed the Halifax Resolves and some other fairly momentous occasions.

Proudly, he noted that unlike the reading programs being proposed by some of this year's gubernatorial candidates, like Democrat Jim Hunt, his program cost only $95,000.

"It is dramatic proof that the way to solve a problem is not by throwing millions of tax dollars at it but by enlisting people who will throw their heart and soul into it," stated the governor, employing one of his favorite stump slogans.

Then, after reading a five-page speech, the governor graciously opened the floor to questions. The first one, naturally enough, was "How many people have actually been taught to read by this program?"

The governor did not know, so he turned to John Hawes, director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina, for the answer.

Well, Hawes said, there was a telephone line installed and advertised. People could call and get advice about where to find help for their illiteracy. About 100 people had called.

Of that 100, roughly half had actually sought the help they were directed to. And of that group, Hawes estimated, two or three had actually been taught to read.

Played against the one million adults whom Hawes counts as "functional illiterates" in North Carolina, that didn't seem like much. Holshouser hastened to say that the first year of his program was not an "action program." It was evaluative and experimental, aimed at alerting people to the problem and inspiring them to do something about it.

Some of Hawes' colleagues were also worried, fearing perhaps that someone like U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms could start dividing the money spent by the number of literate adults produced and begin questioning the efficiency of the program.

So they hastened to tell reporters that they really hadn't even been trying to teach people to read — directly, anyway — and to list some of the other program accomplishments.

One Julia Siebos, noted that many North Carolina counties had "completed studies assessing their reading improvement resources, which presumably is bureaucratic for counting the number of teachers, classrooms and library books available.

"Area coordinators" have been appointed, without which, (Continued on page 5)

Economic Predictions 'Unsafe'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The

phases of the economy do not evolve with the same regularity as the phases of the moon. There are no mathematical certainties. There is no assurance, not even for the President, that the future is known.

This being so, there is in this first year of recovery from the recession, in the final few weeks before a president is elected, a dilemma of views on whether the economy is pausing or faltering.

It is not that our esteemed economists are withholding their views; they are not. But no matter how self-certain they seem, you have to wonder if their attitude is based on bravado or cynicism or facts.

The fact is the economic facts are mixed. Anyone making a prediction today does so with a godly number of his indicators in disagreement and with others indecisive. Just weeks before we make the major economic decision of all, that is to elect a president, we cannot say for sure if the economy is healthy or ill.

The econometric model makers generally assure us that expansion should continue in 1977, but we are then reminded that any econometric projection, no matter how precise its answers, is based on at least a few hazy assumptions.

The big banks tell us they are optimistic, but we suspect that in a questionable situation they would naturally tend to take the bright view, that being the better for business.

We know that Alan Greenspan and the coterie of Republican economists will take the most encouraging view, but we have already seen one of their forecasts, unemployment below 7 per cent by December, become improbable.

Jimmy Carter's advisers, we may be certain, are not looking to praise President Ford's economic performance, and so their views will bend with bias, but we have no proof they know any better how to improve things.

We can assemble our own list of indicators and try to add them into a conclusion, but more likely we will come up with columns of pro and con that neatly balance themselves out and leave us no nearer a decision.

In one column we have unemployment of 7.9 per cent, in another we have the greatest employed working force in the history of this or any nation. On the left we have a poor level of housing starts; on the right we have that low rate appearing to improve as the summer wore on.

But can we measure by the numbers whether our slowdown is a pause or a faltering? And can we rely on the views of those who pick a handful of numbers from the left column and ignore the pile on the right?

Somewhere in the minds and activities of politicians and bankers and manufacturers and office workers and laborers is probably a nearer approach to the truth. It perhaps can be perceived not in the numbers but in how to react to them.

We can hear bankers proclaim their faith in the future but we then detect a reluctance to proclaim that faith through a reduction in the prime lending rate.

All year long we have witnessed corporate economists issuing bullish reports, but we have observed also that corporate management has been somewhat reluctant to make capital expenditures.

We have seen lots of reports about how the consumer was leading the country up out of the recession, but we have seen also that the consumer has been reluctant to enlarge his use of credit.

That hesitancy means something and probably everything. It is probably the attitude within us rather than the numbers without — which are only projections of that attitude — that will determine if this is a mere pause or if the economy really is faltering.

Churchmen Approve Deletions In Old Book Of Common Prayer

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Episcopal representatives have eliminated from a proposed new rendering of the church's historic Book of Common Prayer some ancient chants considered offensive to Jews.

It was the first time in four centuries that the old masterpiece of ritual and scripture reading had undergone extensive revision. The deletions came as the church's governing convention neared final action today on the revised version.

The House of Bishops was expected to concur with the overwhelming approval given to the changes Saturday by laity and clergy in the other branch of the church's bicameral legislature, the House of Deputies.

In putting finishing touches on the material, they struck out the old, so-called "reproaches" often used in Good Friday services commemorating Christ's crucifixion in the week before Easter. The reproaches originated in church liturgies of the Middle Ages.

Pressing for their deletion, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Winters of Sewanee, Tenn., said the reproaches are a distortion of a Jewish Seder service celebrating deliverance from Egyptian slavery and "makes a mockery" of that observance.

Columbus headquarters, Carter's three-man advance team not only failed to notify top party and labor officials of Carter's visit but refused to give Horgan the lapel button needed to get on the field at Burke Airport to greet Carter on his arrival. Horgan was also barred by the Secret Service from Carter's hotel suite, along with Casstevens and other labor leaders.

Horgan tried desperately to persuade Carter headquarters in Atlanta to schedule two labor events for the candidate here. But Carter's advance team here managed to stymie that effort.

Carter's first stop in Cleveland seemed tailored not to his own needs but to those of Howard Metzbaum. Carter spent almost a third of his three hours here mingling at a Metzbaum fundraiser, to the consternation of top party officials, labor leaders and his own Ohio political staff.

The campaign is still fresh, young and groping. It may well grope its way out of such frivolous waste of time. But if it does not, the combination of ineptitude with the apathy so clearly evident in last week's impoverished registration results spells danger.

of course, no program could ever dare ask for a supplemental appropriation.

Teachers have gathered together for a number of workshops, those mainstays of the educational bureaucracy. One county has organized a PTA for the first time and another left its school libraries open this summer.

She also mentioned that in a number of communities, volunteer tutors had begun working on a one-to-one basis with adults who cannot read and want help.

But as to how many people had learned to read, she did not know. "You're looking for a bottom line figure. We may have something in a few months," said another LINC official, John Niblock.

Holshouser, his news conference having been slightly less successful than he had hoped it would be, was already gone out a side door, off on a trip to Washington.

From there, he planned to go on a nine-day industry-hunting tour of Japan. People there are undoubtedly too polite to ask rude questions, so it ought to be a pleasant change.

I stopped running a block later.

In two hours, I had gotten rid of all the papers and was back at my house. As I soaked my feet in a pail of hot water and drank a tumbler of hot rum, the thought occurred to me that it's much easier to write for newspapers than it is to deliver them. And healthier, too.

Boys Drown In Irrigation Pond
FREMONT, N.C. (AP) — The bodies of two young brothers were recovered Sunday after they fell into a farm irrigation pond near Fremont and drowned.

They were identified as Darrell Atkinson, 10, and Edward Atkinson, 15, sons of Mrs. Georgianna Atkinson of Lucama.

Officers said the boys were playing alongside the pond with a brother and sister when the accident occurred. Members of the Fremont Rescue Squad recovered the bodies.

"It would be like Jews celebrating a black mass in a way that is the opposite of its meaning," he said.

Although a liturgical commission had recommended removal of the material because of its possible anti-Jewish connotations, a move was made to retain it.

The Rev. Frank Carthy of New Brunswick, N.J., said rabbis with whom he had consulted were not bothered by the reproaches. He said they should be retained for optional use in the "people's book."

But they were voted out after Stuart D. Casper of Huntington, N.Y., said they have been seen as "pointing the finger of deicide (killing God) at Jews." That is an anti-Jewish slur contrary to Christian teaching that the sin of all humanity was responsible for Christ's death, he said.

In the reproaches, Christ is portrayed as saying: "O my people... because I led thee forth from the land of Egypt, thou hast prepared a cross for thy Savior.... I opened the sea before thee, and thou hast opened My side with a spear.... I fed thee with manna in the desert, and thou hast beaten Me with blows and scourges."

Delegates also made various other refinements in approving the 1,000-page revision of a book that has been a guide to worship in much of Protestantism and whose familiar phrases sprinkle English literature.

The new version clarifies some of the obscure Elizabethan English, and includes alternative rites for the major services, either in generally traditional or freshly contemporary forms. Work on the revision, the most extensive since the book was composed in 1549, has been going on for 12 years.

Despite vigorous debate and considerable preconvention criticism, the new version was approved by the lay and clergy delegates by a 7 to 1 majority. With concurrence of the bishops, the revision will become authorized for use throughout the denomination immediately.

Only 5 Die In Traffic
By The Associated Press
There have been 25 fewer traffic deaths in North Carolina so far this year than at the similar time last year.

There were five last weekend. They raised the total for the year to 1,036, compared with 1,061 through Sept. 19, 1975.

There was one double-fatality accident among the latest ones. Two men died when their car ran off a road and overturned near Havelock in Craven County. They were Thomas Grahovic Jr., 24, of New Bern, and Joe D. Elder, 18, of the Cherry Point Marine Air Base.

Paula King Perry, 18, of Hamlet, was fatally injured when her car collided with another vehicle near Rockingham.

A 78-year-old man from Yanceyville in Caswell County lost his life in an accident in that north-central county. He was Robert P. Fuquay, whose car ran off a road and hit a tree stump.

Raymond Shearn, 18, was killed when a car in which he was riding hit a culvert and overturned near his home at Murfreesboro.

RAILROAD REVENUE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the fact that it was a recession year, 1975 was the second best year in revenues in the history of railroads in the United States, according to the Association of American Railroads.

Revenues in 1975 were $16.4 billion, or three per cent below the record $16.9 billion in revenues in 1974.

Slain Duo Still Not Identified
SUMTER, S.C. (AP)—For five weeks the bodies of two young persons have lain in a Sumter funeral home, while local police field thousands of questions about the pair. So far, none have led to their identification.

The couple—both in their late teens or early twenties—were found shot to death beside a dirt road in Sumter County Aug. 9. Police say they cannot begin an investigation into their deaths until they know who the young man and woman are.

Because of the couple's appearance and items found on the bodies police say they don't think the two were homeless runaways, instead they guess they both came from well-to-do families. But little else is known or can be speculated about the pair.

"These kids belong to someone. Somewhere, somebody has got to be concerned about their whereabouts and their safety," says deputy coroner Verna Moore.

Because of the young man's exceptional dental work, police have had mouth X-rays sent to the American Dental Association for nationwide publication.

Sumter dentists who examined his body said he was about half through having a complete mouth restoration, with several thousands of dollars worth of root canal caps, tooth caps and bridge work.

Also, the man had a Bulova Accutron wristwatch and a gold ring with a star sapphire stone inscribed inside with the initials JPF. The woman wore several rings that appear to be authentic Mexican or Indian jewelry.

Investigators believe the two traveled in the West. A book of matches from a Grant's Truck Stop in either York, Neb.; Boise, Idaho; or Lupton, Ariz., was found in the man's pocket.

Churchmen Approve Deletions In Old Book Of Common Prayer

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Episcopal representatives have eliminated from a proposed new rendering of the church's historic Book of Common Prayer some ancient chants considered offensive to Jews.

It was the first time in four centuries that the old masterpiece of ritual and scripture reading had undergone extensive revision. The deletions came as the church's governing convention neared final action today on the revised version.

The House of Bishops was expected to concur with the overwhelming approval given to the changes Saturday by laity and clergy in the other branch of the church's bicameral legislature, the House of Deputies.

In putting finishing touches on the material, they struck out the old, so-called "reproaches" often used in Good Friday services commemorating Christ's crucifixion in the week before Easter. The reproaches originated in church liturgies of the Middle Ages.

Pressing for their deletion, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Winters of Sewanee, Tenn., said the reproaches are a distortion of a Jewish Seder service celebrating deliverance from Egyptian slavery and "makes a mockery" of that observance.

Columbus headquarters, Carter's three-man advance team not only failed to notify top party and labor officials of Carter's visit but refused to give Horgan the lapel button needed to get on the field at Burke Airport to greet Carter on his arrival. Horgan was also barred by the Secret Service from Carter's hotel suite, along with Casstevens and other labor leaders.

Horgan tried desperately to persuade Carter headquarters in Atlanta to schedule two labor events for the candidate here. But Carter's advance team here managed to stymie that effort.

Carter's first stop in Cleveland seemed tailored not to his own needs but to those of Howard Metzbaum. Carter spent almost a third of his three hours here mingling at a Metzbaum fundraiser, to the consternation of top party officials, labor leaders and his own Ohio political staff.

The campaign is still fresh, young and groping. It may well grope its way out of such frivolous waste of time. But if it does not, the combination of ineptitude with the apathy so clearly evident in last week's impoverished registration results spells danger.

Boys Drown In Irrigation Pond
FREMONT, N.C. (AP) — The bodies of two young brothers were recovered Sunday after they fell into a farm irrigation pond near Fremont and drowned.

They were identified as Darrell Atkinson, 10, and Edward Atkinson, 15, sons of Mrs. Georgianna Atkinson of Lucama.

Officers said the boys were playing alongside the pond with a brother and sister when the accident occurred. Members of the Fremont Rescue Squad recovered the bodies.

'Incentives' Trim Accidents

By GINNY PITT

Associated Press Writer
Industrial accident rates have plummeted for a number of firms which award prizes to employees who don't hurt themselves. Some safety experts say the win-something-for-nothing drive is more powerful than the instinct for self-preservation.

The National Safety Council says about 10,000 of its 15,000 industrial members use safety programs that rely on the American worker's sense of competition to cut down on-the-job injuries.

Jack Recht, head of the council's statistic division, says these plans — called incentive programs — are good ones because it is necessary, "to continually motivate people to observe safety regulations."

The council estimates that only about 8 per cent of the more than two million Americans who were killed or suffered disabling injuries at work last year were victims of unavoidable accidents. The rest suffered about equally from unsafe equipment or hazardous working conditions and worker carelessness.

It is the latter — the more than 950,000 deaths or injuries that resulted when someone just didn't pay attention or ignored safety precautions — that incentive programs are aimed at eliminating.

Ashland Oil Co., pioneered an industrial safety plan based on big prize giveaways to employees with the best safety records. The company has had a 50 per cent decline in accidents at its facilities throughout the United States over the past 18 months.

In one peak period, time-lost accidents dropped 80 per cent and minor accidents, requiring on-the-scene first aid but no work time lost, went down 20 per cent.

David C. Williams, Ashland's vice president for environmental affairs, says on-the-job safety "is mostly a question of attitude."

Williams and writer Gaylord Binder, who manages Ashland's programs and planning section, developed the company's campaign "to accept the challenge of taking one of the duller subjects in the world — industrial safety — and making it interesting."

Binder created three major themes for various periods of the campaign to promote worker-consciousness about job safety.

The first was Think Zero Week, preceded by a period of mysterious posters and handbills advising that something was coming but not telling employees what it was. By the time the company unveiled Think Zero Week as a concentrated effort to eliminate all accidents, employees were primed and eager to participate.

The result: The goal of zero accidents was not achieved. But out of more than 25,000 employees nationwide, only 20 work-lost injuries were reported during the week, a 55 per cent reduction from the same period the year before.

Then Binder came up with the Olympic Thinking contest encouraging employees to submit poems, lyrics and catchy slogans about safety. A comparable accident rate reduction was achieved over a month-long period.

The current, and most ambitious, theme is a nine-month Major League Safety program patterned after the all-American sport-baseball.

Each of the company's 27 divisions was given a "team" title — Slicks, Racers, Binders, Compounders, Stickers, to name a few — and was placed in either the Major League East or the Major League West. Each month, safety records are posted as "team percentages" of wins and losses — the number of accidents reported.

The barrage of posters — which change from time to time and feature various employees dressed in baseball uniforms — and handbills and flyers in employe paychecks supplement the team postings.

But the big draw in the safety campaign under all three themes is prizes. Employees win anything from cases of motor oil to digital clock radios to a brand-new station wagon or a trip anywhere in the world if their divisions post the best safety records. Names of employees from winning divisions are drawn at random to win prizes, so it is advantageous for employees to watch out for others as well as themselves.

Since the new safety campaign began, Ashland has spent some $45,000 on prizes, printing and mailings. It's difficult to gauge claims as a result of the reduced injury rate, "but it does have some financial returns, definitely," Williams says.

Employees are generally enthusiastic about the program.

"It's very well publicized," says one winner of a color TV set in the Think Zero campaign, Al Hamm, an assistant controller at the firm's headquarters in Ashland, Ky. "It makes you very aware of safety on the job."

Another TV winner, Anna Horvath, who works as a lab technician for Ashland in Akron, Ohio, says her coworkers are much more safety-conscious since the campaign began.

"Now, every time someone slips or shuts a drawer on their hand, someone else says, 'Oh, do you think we can still win?'" she says.

Begin Exercise Classes Here

Exercise classes for women and men will begin Tuesday at the West Greenville Recreation Center.

Men's exercise classes will be held at 10:30 a.m., with a 6 p.m. men's class scheduled for those who desire a slower pace.

Women's classes are scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The classes are open to Greenville citizens and members of the Recreation Club only.

Registration On Wednesday

Registration for a session of creative movement and basic gymnastics for children in grades one through six will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Elm Street Gym.

Classes will concentrate on improving coordination and developing mat work skills. Classes will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., and will last for eight weeks.

The immediate results look good, but there is some dispute about whether incentive programs are actually valuable over the long-run.

At least one psychologist says giving away prizes to keep employees from having accidents is only a short-term solution. Dr. Joan Guilford of Orange, Calif., who has done considerable research on accidents, says incentive programs usually peter out after a while.

The workers think someone's trying to do something for them, so they respond by trying to do the right thing," she says. "But after a while, when the newness wears off, it generally doesn't work."

Recht, the National Safety Council statistician, agrees that "there is no nice, neat study to show why this method works."

"But," he says, "in the judgment of thousands of safety engineers, those programs are most successful, and that's why so many of them use them. If you could explain why they work, you could take over the safety business right now."

Dr. Guilford and others believe that no amount of worker incentive is as valuable in long-range accident reduction as making sure employers provide safe working environments for their employees.

James Foster of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the government agency which sets and enforces industrial safety standards throughout the country, says there are only 1,200 inspectors available to examine some five million work places for safety conditions.

"We haven't been able to inspect all of them once yet, and we probably won't for another 25 years," he says. "The equipment and facilities factor of industrial safety is the quickest and easiest for us to deal with. The people factor — worker motivation — is a much more difficult and ticklish problem."

Poster says OSHA uses the basic equation People plus Hazards equal Accidents, and incentive programs can be valuable "in altering the people half of the equation." In that sense, he says, OSHA supports incentive programs.

either, but, says Binder: "We think we've proven that people can work safely if they want to."

Come On Down And See What The Big Red Team Is Doing At Your A & P

There's a sparkle you can see. And a spirit you can feel.

Shopping is easier, faster, friendlier. And we're proud that our customers have been our biggest boosters. But if you haven't visited A&P recently, come see the new spirit at work. Because we're not just a storeful of aisles—we're a storeful of people. And we'd like to introduce you to each member of the hard working team.

Our managers have a new sense of service and a bright new jacket.

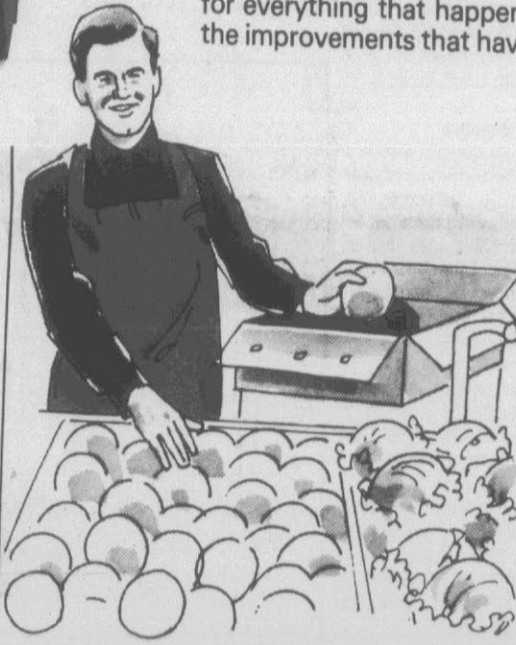

That red jacket is a symbol of our store manager's renewed commitment to you. Inside the jacket is someone you can go to if you have a question, if you have a problem, or if you have a special need. Our manager takes responsibility for everything that happens in the store. And takes pride in the improvements that have been made.

Our store clerks really keep things moving.

They stamp and stock and keep the shelves neat and full. So you can have a wide variety of brands to choose from. And today's A&P stockers are better trained. They're happy to help you find any item in the store. Just ask them. You'll get a courteous and helpful answer.

Our butchers have taken a pledge to bring you the finest, freshest meats available. They see to it that there's always a good selection of meat in the case. They've trimmed it right and packaged it "best side down". And when you want a special order they're happy to prepare it just the way you prefer it. Our butchers want you to enjoy every piece of meat you buy.

Our produce people know their beans.

We've put special people and special emphasis on the job so A&P produce is always fresh, crisp and plentiful. Seasonal savings are passed along to you. And our produce person is the right one to ask for help, such as how to pick a ripe melon.

Our checkers have been to school to sharpen their skills.

They're faster, more efficient and more courteous than ever. We can promise that you'll get a smile and a "Thank you". They've learned to do their best to shorten the time you're in line. So that when they say "Come back again," you'll want to.

That's the team. That's the spirit. So, come on down and meet them all in person. You'll find you want to come back again.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved ahead again today, drawing support from signs of a downward trend in interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.32 at 997.42, after a net gain of 16.46 points in the three previous sessions.

Gainers outpaced losers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was fairly active, but failed to match the heavy pace of last Friday.

Brokers noted a belief among many investors that the Federal Reserve might be inclined to ease up on credit, and thereby encourage a decline in interest rates.

The Fed's policy-making Open Market Committee meets Tuesday.

New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust and the First National Bank of Chicago, meanwhile, announced reductions in their prime lending rates today from 7 to 6 1/2 per cent.

They represented the first major banks to duplicate a cut in the key minimum rate on blue chip loans posted last Thursday by a small St. Louis bank.

Sony, the most active NYSE issue, gained 3/4 to 9 3/4 on sharply higher quarterly earnings.

Carbon Industries, an American Stock Exchange issue, jumped 15 1/4 to 38. International Telephone plans to acquire the company, exchanging .85 of a share of a preferred stock for each Carbon Industries share.

The ITT preferred closed Friday at 57.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .14 to 53.83 in the first hour, and the Amex market value index was up .13 at 103.51.

Lebanon Fighting Rages Anew

By FAROUK NASSAR Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Savage fighting raged anew in Lebanon's civil war today after the failure of Syrian, Lebanese Christian and Palestinian representatives to reach agreement on a cease-fire. Intense, random shelling of residential areas in Beirut went on through the night. "It was a night of one shell per minute," said the radio station of the right-wing Phalange party, which has the largest Christian militia fighting in the 17-month-old conflict. Hospitals in both the Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut issued radio appeals for blood donors. They estimated that more than 75 persons were killed and 90 wounded in the city during the night.

One shell hit a hairdressing salon crowded with women taking advantage of the brief nightly restoration of electric power. The hairdresser and six Moslem housewives were killed.

When the hairdresser's body was delivered to his family after midnight, his relatives began firing machine guns indiscriminately, an expression of grief that is traditional with local Arabs. Militiamen on guard in the area, thinking there was a Christian attack, opened up, and eight persons were killed before area commanders stopped the shooting.

The leftists and the Palestinians also duelled all night with tank guns, rockets and long-range artillery in the mountains 12 miles east of Beirut.

Leftist spokesmen said at the meeting Sunday between Christian President-elect Elias Sarkis, Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat and Syrian Defense Minister Naji Jamil. Arafat rejected a Syrian demand that the Palestinians and their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies withdraw from the mountain towns east of Beirut which they seized last spring.

Sarkis then proposed three compromise formulas for a temporary cease-fire, but Arafat and Jamil rejected all of these, the leftists said.

CAR-TREE COLLISION—This car collision occurred Sunday at 11:45 p.m. in the Shady Knoll Trailer Park. According to Highway Patrolman A.G. Wright, Michael James Briley of Greenville, driver of the vehicle, was driving about 200 feet from the entrance to the trailer park when he reached down in the foot of the car to pick up a tape. Briley's car struck a pine tree. Briley was charged with reckless driving. Damages were estimated at $2,000 to Briley's car. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Carter's Aunt Will Attend Party Event

Mrs. Emily Dolvin, aunt of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, will be in Greenville on Thursday to attend a dinner meeting of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee.

Betty Spier, Pitt Democratic chairman, said that Mrs. Dolvin will be on hand for the meeting, scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. at the American Legion Building.

Mrs. Spier said that the Carter representative is one of several prominent Democrats expected to attend the session. Gubernatorial candidate Jim Hunt will be here, she said, as well as State Treasurer aspirant Harlan Boyles, Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips, Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham, Secretary of State Thad Eure, Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, and Rep. Walter Jones.

In addition, Betty McCain, the new state Democratic Party chairman, will attend, as will former chairman Jim Sugg, National Democratic Committee member Johnnie Setzer of Catawba County, and Charlie Winberry, National Committee member from Rocky Mount. Some 200 persons are expected to attend the meeting, the county chairman noted.

Mrs. Dolvin will attend the Democratic Women's Convention on Friday in Fayetteville.

BOARD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Greenville City School Board will be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the board room at the Central Office, 431 W. Fifth St. Topics include Middle School funds, surplus property, a Third Street School report and personal matters.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

It was not the game it could have been. The victory by East Carolina over N. C. State Saturday was 23-14, but it could have been a lot worse.

The Pirates had some costly turnovers — as did State — but it seemed that the turnovers halted Pirate drives at key places. Penalties also hurt the Bucs, including a few that were needless.

"We just can't afford to have people who get stupid penalties on the field," Coach Pat Dye said yesterday. "And those people are either going to start doing right or we are going to put them on the bench and let someone else play."

Dye didn't think the Bucs were too high for the game, their third straight victory over an Atlantic Coast Conference team.

"They kept knocking the ball out of Mike Weaver's hands. And they gave us a lot of trouble on the corner," the coach said. State's defense was able to hamper the option play to a certain extent, forcing Weaver to carry the ball 29 times during the game. "I hope he doesn't have to keep that up," Dye said.

Dye added that State's defensive unit played what was expected from them, but they mixed it up well and that was what caused the problem. "We moved the ball well enough to score a lot more. Just take those turnovers (four lost fumbles, one interception) away and you can see what it would mean. We played hard, and we hit 'em real good."

Still, Dye had plenty of praise for Weaver. "He showed as much guts and courage as any kid I've been around in a long time." The coach pointed out that Weaver threw the key block on Eddie Hicks' touchdown run in the final minute and a half that clinched the victory.

"I'm awfully proud of our defense. I wonder how long it's been since a State team got only 126 yards in total offense?"

"And I'm proud of our offense, too. They moved the football under difficult circumstances. That last touchdown drive was an inspirational thing to me. State had momentum at that point in the game, and they were not as tired as we were (due to more depth).

"You look at (Tim) Hightower. He snapped the ball 81 times. (Matt) Mullholland was in on every down, and I think (Randy) Parrish was in just about all of them. They just took it the length of the field and scored.

"It took a lot of guts, courage and class," he said.

Getting out after all the mistakes showed, Dye felt, that the Pirates have a good team. "In the last five games last year, and in the first one this year, we turned the ball over just 10 times. Saturday night, we turned it over five times."

"I'm awfully proud of our seniors for winning it, since State made such a to-do about our guys never having beaten them."

But the Pirates can't dwell on the victory. Saturday they must travel to Williamsburg, Va., to meet the surprisingly 2-0 Indians of William & Mary.

"I'm scared to death," Dye said of the game. "They have the best team we've met, and the only team that's won a game. They are certainly the best William & Mary team we've played in our three years here."

Dye doesn't believe the Pirates will suffer a letdown for the game. "Ordinary teams do this, but I don't think this team is an ordinary one. If they are down, then we've (the coaching staff) done a poor job of getting them ready.

"But if we let the press, and the fans and the students keep talking to us about beating State, then we might not be ready, and we could get beat.

"Right now, we've got to forget State and think William & Mary."

The game, of course, has added significance since it is the first Southern Conference game of the year — and the Pirates have set winning the conference title as their goal for this final year in the league.

Weaver, in picking up 193 yards in total offense, upped his career total to 2,023 yards, moving him to Number Eight in the all-time career list. He needs just 142 to match seventh-ranked Ken Strayhorn, who had 2,165.

Weaver's 113-yards passing also moved him into fourth place on the aerial list with 990 yards. But there is a big gap of over 1,000 yards between him and the third place man.

And Weaver with 1,033 rushing yards is within reach of the top ten group also. He needs just 92 more to catch tenth-ranked Neil Hughes, who had 1,125.

Root Exults Over Indian 14-0 Victory

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

Don't look now, but William and Mary's Indians are off to a start that belies the basement finish other Southern Conference football coaches predicted for them before the season opened.

"A big win? I would have to say one of the biggest ever for me," said Coach Jim Root after his Indians made it two straight with a 14-0 victory Saturday over Atlantic Coast Conference rival Virginia. It was William and Mary's first shut-out in the last 89 games.

The last one? That was in the opening game of the 1968 season against East Carolina's title-favorite Pirates, who just happen to invade Williamsburg this Saturday, also with a 2-0 record after a 23-14 decision Saturday night over another ACC team, N. C. State.

Meanwhile, William and Mary was tied for the conference lead at 1-0 by Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 2-1 overall. They overcame four fumbles of their own and a school-record four field goals by Virginia Military's Craig Jones for a 31-12 victory over the Keydets, 0-2.

The two other teams eligible for the championship also won. Furman's Paladins, 3-0, drubbed small college Presbyterian 38-21 and The Citadel's Bulldogs, 1-1, used what Coach Bobby Ross called "the longest outside kick I ever saw" for a 17-15 squeeze past Delaware.

Two new members ran their records to 3-0, Western Carolina turning back Murray State 13-10 and Marshall stopping Illinois State 23-13. Tennessee-Chattanooga, 1-1, lost to Western Kentucky 10-7 and Davidson dropped its season opener to Colgate 17-7.

Two of the chief architects of William and Mary's triumph were fullback Keith Fimian, who ran 34 times for 164 yards, and tailback Jim Kruiis, who had 133 yards and a touchdown on 22 carries.

"Our offensive line dominated play all day and I'm sure our rushing statistics (333 yards) will prove that," said Root. But the Indian coach wanted to talk about his defense, which he said "made a total believer out of me."

Particularly devastating was free safety Joe Agee, who intercepted a pass in the end zone, recovered a Virginia fumble at the Indians' 14, knocked down two passes, was in on 10 tackles and punted four times for a 46.5-yard average.

"For the second week in a row, he played a fantastic ball game. His play at free safety has made the big difference in the over-all performance of our secondary," said Root.

Virginia's new coach, Dick Bestwick, now 0-2, said "it's a matter of time for us, but we're going to win. I'm disappointed that we weren't able to play with more consistency and poise offensively."

The Tech victory saw speedster Roscoe Coles turn it on for the first time this season with 121 yards on 20 carries, including a 37-yard scoring run on fourth down in the third period that tipped a 3-0 Tech lead to 10-0.

Mitchael Barnes, who threw a six-yard pass to Paul Adams from a fake goal situation on another fourth down situation in the final period, got the Gobblers' other touchdown on a one-yard run.

Some of the Gobblers appeared unhappy they hadn't matched the 48-0 shellacking East Carolina hung on Southern Mississippi a week earlier, but Tech Coach Jimmy Sharpe said he took care of that.

"I don't want nobody walking around here with a long face. I want smiles on all their faces and cigars in their hands," said Sharpe.

Detroit Defense Faced A Win-Or-Else Ultimatum

Helping ECU Yardage

HAWKINS AIRBORNE—Willie Hawkins, East Carolina running back, hurdles through the air Saturday's football game when his team beat North Carolina State 23-13. (AP Wirephoto) on his way to a first down in the second period of

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit's defense saved the Lions from another embarrassing defeat Sunday — and maybe saved Coach Rick Forzano and General Manager Russ Thomas their jobs.

William Clay Ford, owner of the National Football League team, admitted Forzano was under a win-or-else ultimatum for the game against the Atlanta Falcons.

The Lions were booed mercilessly as they were shut out the first three quarters. Three Falcons' turnovers helped Detroit score 24 points in the final period — the decisive touchdown coming on a fake field goal — and the Lions beat Atlanta 24-10.

"He had to win this game," Ford said of Forzano.

He said he had "a hard talk with both Forzano and Thomas last Monday" as a result of Detroit's pathetic showing in a 10-3 opening day loss to Chicago.

"That Chicago Bears' game was an absolute travesty, and I was totally disgusted," Ford said. "It wasn't only that game, but all summer long I'd been waiting to see some development in our offense. I told the coach that I just could not even determine what his offense was attempting to do...and, yes, the ultimatum followed from that."

Ford said he included Thomas in the ultimatum because "I didn't want to tie the can to one without the other."

"This is the strongest I have ever felt about the team problems," he said. "I have never come down that hard on anybody as I did after the Bears' game."

Detroit's offense was as poor against Atlanta as it was against Chicago. The crowd of 50,840 — 30,000 under Pontiac Stadium capacity — booed continually.

Asked what he thought of the boos, Forzano joked: "I don't drink."

"They're gonna boo," he said. "Some people will boo a cancer cure. But then, they had a reason to boo. We just weren't knocking the ball down the field."

Ford echoed the comment: "They have a right to (boo). They pay $10, they expect to see something, and we have been giving them nothing."

A sign from the $10 upper level seats read: "How about $10 worth?"

The Lions gave fans $2.50 worth. But their fourth-period comeback may have salvaged those with wounded wallets — except for any Atlantans who might have been in the stands.

"We had opportunities but let them get away," Atlanta Coach Marion Campbell said. "We had opportunities but got set back."

Their biggest missed opportunity came in the final 32 seconds of the first half when Detroit's defense made a goal-line stand. Atlanta had a first down and four yards to go for a score. It managed three on the first try and was stopped short the last three plunges.

Campbell said all four plays were called from the sidelines. "That's football," he said, adding that "the goal line stand and four or five other plays were turning points."

Quarterback Joe Reed did an abysmal job of running the Detroit offense and was replaced by Greg Landry the last three minutes of the third quarter. Landry helped put the points on the board — and so did Reed in an unusual one-play substitute role — but the credit goes to the defense.

Kupchak Will Play In Italy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mitch Kupchak says he will play in Italy this year because the Washington Bullets' top offer to him, their first-round National Basketball Association draft choice, was only about half of what he can get there.

The Washington Star quoted Kupchak, who was the starting center on the Olympic basketball team, in a telephone interview from Chapel Hill Saturday.

"This was decision-making day," Kupchak said. "I really wanted to play in the NBA, and if the Bullets' offer was just within reason I would have gladly accepted it."

"My attorney and I received the Bullets' top offer and it's not even close. The offer from Italy is almost twice as much and I'd be a fool not to take it."

Kupchak said he will leave Tuesday for Italy. He did not say how much money he had been offered. "I'd be willing to take less money than Italy's offering, but not this much less," he said.

"In all honesty, I really don't want to go to Italy. I'm very disappointed that something couldn't be worked out. I've got to go home now and tell my parents my decision, but I'll be back in the NBA next year, I believe. If not with the Bullets, then with somebody else," Kupchak said.

Raider Mystique Finds Rookie Of Last Season

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — In Paul Wiggins' opinion, the hulking figure of Charles Philyaw tells you a lot about the Oakland Raiders.

Wiggins saw the 6-foot-8, 270-pound Raider rookie in last year's Senior Bowl, "and he was just a hunk of raw material standing out there."

"They took a chance on him and probably figured on bringing him around slowly for a year or two. But injuries in their defensive line forced them to use him this year and it looks like he's turning into a quality player for them. There's a mystique about the Raiders. They're a unique organization."

The powerhouse Raiders, who decked the defending National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers in their season opener, 31-28, invade Arrowhead Stadium tonight for a nationally televised game against Coach Wiggins' Kansas City Chiefs.

About 50,000 fans are expected for the 9:05 p.m. EDT kickoff.

The Chiefs, groping through the infant stages of what could be a long and painful rebuilding program, are the definite underdog after dropping their opener, 30-16, to the San Diego Chargers, who were last year's NFL doormat at 2-12.

"I don't think it's time for us to panic," Wiggins said after the Chargers crushed the Chiefs with 467 yards total offense. "I just don't think we are in need of throwing the whole thing out the window and starting from scratch."

Wiggins will open with Mike

Livingston at quarterback and MacArthur Lane and Woody Green at running back. Livingston netted 236 yards passing against the Chargers, but suffered three drive-killing interceptions and turned over the ball again on a fumble.

"In spite of three interceptions, I don't think Mike was totally at fault," Wiggins said. "In fact, he played fairly well."

Oakland's poised Ken Stabler, who blitzed the Steeler defense for 324 aerial yards, was nursing a sore knee last year when the Chiefs stunned the Raiders here, 42-10. The Raiders came into that game 3-0 while the Chiefs were 0-3 and Wiggins says, in retrospect, "that was probably the biggest upset of the year last season."

Joining Stabler in the Raider backfield will be Clarence Davis and Mark van Eeghen. The wide receiver, Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch, are two of the best in the game.

Defensively, Raider boss John Madden may open with Philyaw and Otis Sistrunk at ends and Dave Rowe and Jeff Winans at tackle. If the Raiders line up in a three-man alignment, as they did against the Steelers, Rowe becomes the noseguard.

Bass Masters Win Tourney

The Tar River Bass Masters of Greenville won the annual Challenge Bass Tournament held Sunday at Chocowinity Bay.

The local club, with 11 members participating, caught a total of 73 pounds and 11 ounces per member.

The average of the Tar River club edged out the Wetsu Bass Masters from Ayden who had 12 members participating with a total catch of 76 pounds, two ounces, an average of six pounds, five ounces per man.

Also participating were eight members of the Po-Boys Bass Masters of Greenville who combined to accumulate 33 pounds and one ounce in total catch for an average of four pounds, two ounces per man.

Eleven American boxers went to the Olympics in Montreal and five won gold medals.

Close Call At Stadium

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pontiac Stadium almost became an impromptu maternity ward during Sunday's Detroit Lions-Atlanta Falcons National Football League game.

An unidentified woman apparently went into labor during the game and was rushed into one of the ambulances kept on hand at the mammoth domed stadium. The ambulance headed for one of the huge double doors which are located at opposite ends of the stadium.

But when they arrived at one set of closed doors, the ambulance crew was told they couldn't make their exit until the open doors at the other end of the stadium were shut.

The Pontiac facility is covered by a unique fabric roof kept aloft by air pressure inside the stadium. According to officials, if doors at both ends of the stadium had been opened simultaneously, the roof would have collapsed atop the thousands of fans watching the game.

Stadium officials say the door problem was solved and the mother-to-be apparently made it to a hospital before she gave birth.

The Lions, meanwhile, went on to beat Atlanta 24-10.

Congress Races To Meet Date

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress faces long sessions and loaded calendars this week as it races to make its scheduled Oct. 2 adjournment date.

Congressional leaders seem determined to meet that target, with House Speaker Carl Albert claiming that he will keep his chamber in session all night if necessary.

In the Senate, where the workload appears lighter, Assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., has told colleagues to brace for "long daily sessions."

But, added Byrd, "as far as the Senate is concerned, we are definitely on course."

Democratic leaders say they want to prove wrong President Ford's prediction last week that Congress would miss its deadline by at least a week and his claim that he needs to stay in town to keep Congress from "going off the deep end."

Both the House and Senate were to dispose of a number of uncontroversial bills today to clear the way for some meatier issues later in the week.

On Tuesday, the Senate votes on a House-passed bill raising the federal unemployment compensation tax on employers. Now an employer pays $21 into a federal fund for each worker earning at least $4,200. The bill would raise that figure to $42 until the current $7.7-billion deficit in the fund, caused by heavy unemployment, is wiped out.

A major fight is expected over whether to extend unemployment insurance to most farm workers, as the House bill does.

The Senate Finance Committee rejected such an approach. Some members claimed giving unemployment benefits to migrant farm workers might discourage them from seeking other jobs once harvests were in.

On Wednesday, the House considers legislation to revise copyright laws. The changes would give greater protection to authors and recording artists.

The same day, the Senate debates legislation which has been dubbed the "sunset bill." It would require all federal programs to be reviewed every five years. Those that Congress failed to renew would go out of existence.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the prime sponsor, claims the legislation is needed to keep federal programs and agencies from going on and on without ever being scrutinized to see if they are worthwhile. But since the House has not yet held hearings on such a measure, Senate leaders have voiced doubts that it can go very far this session.

The House this week is also expected to debate legislation to tighten restrictions on lobbyists — a similar bill has already passed the Senate — and a bill to make federal loan guarantees available to companies that build plants to convert coal into synthetic liquid and gaseous fuels.

Swedish Elections May Brake Leftist Parties

NON-SOCIALISTS TO TAKE OVER — Thorbjorn Falldin, left, leader of Sweden's Center Party, arrives at party headquarters in Stockholm Sunday night in the wake of a parliamentary election victory by a coalition of moderate parties pledged to halt "a slide to Socialism". The victory means Falldin will succeed Olof Palme as prime minister of Sweden. (AP Wirephoto)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A coalition of three moderate parties ended 44 years of Socialist government in Sweden today with a national election victory whose greatest consequence may be to set back leftist parties elsewhere in Western Europe.

With only 50,000 to 60,000 postal ballots still to be counted, the moderates had 50.7 per cent of the 5,359,921 ballots counted and 180 seats in the 349-seat parliament. The Social Democrats and their Communist supporters had 47.6 per cent and 169 seats. The new prime minister will be Thorbjorn Falldin, 50-year-old head of the Center party.

Although the victorious coalition is likely to improve relations with the United States after the seven prickly years in which Olof Palme was prime minister, all three parties are committed to Sweden's traditional neutral foreign policy and to the welfare state that Palme's Social Democratic party built up.

The effect of the election was likely to be felt most keenly in West Germany, where the Social Democratic party led by Helmut Schmidt is engaged in a hard fight to stay in power in the national election Oct. 3.

The Swedish Social Democrats are to the left of the German Socialist party, and the West German Christian Democrats are much more conservative than the Swedish moderates. But the Swedish results were expected to give momentum to the Christian Democrats.

In France, where Sweden has often been held up as a model, the ouster of the Swedish Socialists is likely to have an adverse effect on the alliance of French Socialists and Communists in municipal elections next year and parliamentary elections in 1978.

In Britain, British officials here say, the Swedish results will slow down any push by the Trades Union Congress for more nationalization of industry. One of the key elections issues here was a plan that would have turned private businesses into virtually nationalized companies managed by the Socialist-dominated TUC.

The historic Socialist defeat came after a quiet, almost polite election campaign, devoid of personal attacks or much color. The moderates' low-key approach reflected the character of Falldin, a steady, plain-faced sheep farmer who barely smiled in a victory television appearance early today. He talked only in the vaguest terms about how the new coalition of Center, Conservative and Liberal parties would work and what it could do.

"What we are offering mostly is a change of direction," said Lars Tobliasson, secretary-general of the Conservative party, second largest group in the coalition. "We will keep a market economy. We want greater freedom of choice for the individual and a change of atmosphere in the country."

Warden Named Ass'n Prexy

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — Sam Garrison, warden of Central Prison in Raleigh, is the new president of the North Carolina State Government Employees Association succeeding Eugene Woodring of Princeton.

Garrison was elected at the association's convention Saturday. He has been warden of Central Prison for the past four years.

G.P. Price of Granite Falls, assistant engineer for the Division of Highways, was elected first vice president. Donald Lane Cooper of Fayetteville, assistant division engineer in the Transportation Department, was elected second vice president. Anne King of Raleigh was chosen secretary-treasurer.

The North Carolina Beef Cattle Improvement Program has the goal of helping beef cattle producers increase overall productivity and efficiency by means of a systematic record keeping and evaluation program. The N.C. Beef Cattle Improvement Program was organized in 1959 after three years of field studies. These studies, which were made to establish operating and evaluation procedures, were conducted by the Department of Animal Science at N.C. State University.

The Improvement Program is available to both purebred and commercial cattle producers in North Carolina through the efforts of the N.C. Cattlemen's Association and the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service. Application for program participation should be made through the County Agricultural Extension Service.

The basic objective of performance testing should be to evaluate differences between animals and select the genetically superior individuals within a herd so that genetic improvements can be made. Selection should be for the most important economic traits which contribute to both production efficiency and product desirability.

Break-In

Three teen-agers were arrested early today on charges of breaking or entering following an incident at the Western Auto store at 629 Dickinson Ave., according to Chief Glenn Cannon.

Cannon said patrolling police found a window at the Western Auto store broken and saw three men standing outside the building at 12:50 a.m. He said the three ran and were chased down by officers and placed under arrest.

Those charged were identified as Richard Marks Nunn, 17 of B-31 Glendale Ct.; Gene Allen McGowan, 16 of B-38 Glendale Ct. and Gilbert Alonza Harris of C-41 Glendale Ct.

Damage to the window was estimated at $300.

Gospel Singers Planning Event

THE BIG RED MACHINES

LILLISTON'S LEAN, TOUGH 1580 PEANUT COMBINE

The new light-heavy champ — all muscle, no fat. Actually 1000 lbs. lighter than its nearest competitor, yet delivers a payload as big as anything in its field. And how those fuel savings add up.

WAY OUT IN FRONT OF THE FIELD

LILLISTON'S HIGH CAPACITY 6000 PEANUT COMBINE

No competition here — this super harvester stands alone. The 6000 will harvest more high grade peanuts faster than any other combine ever made. It makes the BIG difference in harvesting profits — you can count on it.

When you have a 66-year winning streak going, you know you've got to be leading the league. Lilliston has been doing it now since mechanical peanut harvesting began. In fact, we're the pioneers. Others play catch-up, but Lilliston's always ahead. The new 1580 and 6000 Peanut Combines are perfect examples of harvesting leadership. One of these two was built for you.

Wrestling Friday Night Suggested Porn District For Charlotte Stirring Discussion

I.W.A. Championship Wrestling returns to Greenville Friday at 8:30 p.m. with a triple main event card at Guy Smith Stadium.

The I.W.A. tag team championship will be at stake when "The Polish Strongman" Mighty Igor and his partner, North American champion, Bulldog Brower, debut in Greenville against current title holders Harford Love and Dizzy McShane.

In a $5,000 bounty match Canadian champion Johnny Powers meets German Killer Karl Krupp. Black superstar Sonny King matches wits with Butcher Brannigan in a special "Black Box Match."

Tag team action will pit the world's largest twins Billy and Benny McGuire (each weighing more than 725 pounds) against Karl Van Stroheim and Buzz Tyler.

The junior heavyweight title will be on the line as newly crowned champion Flying Phil Watson meets Rip Tyler.

Matches are sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees. Advance ringside tickets are on sale at Western Auto, Riverside Restaurant, Anthony's Family Center, and Bob's TV and Appliances in Greenville, at Bob's TV and Appliances in Ayden, and at the Dixie Queen Restaurant in Winterville.

Charlotte Stirring Discussion

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — If an idea proposed by a Charlotte city council member ever comes to pass, this city might become one of the few in the country with a self-contained district featuring topless bars, "adult" bookstores and x-rated movies.

The idea to use zoning to cluster all those establishments into one area and prevent them from cropping up in the suburbs was proposed a couple of months ago by council member Pat Locke. She said two other cities use zoning but in opposite ways — Boston clusters the stores and Detroit prevents them from locating near each other.

"I just wanted to see what would happen," Mrs. Locke said in a recent interview. What has happened is opposition to the plan from those who favor banning pornography and the places that sell it, and from those who would impose no controls on the thriving porno and adult entertainment market.

"It's just asking for more crime. Let the city council keep those places on their property for a while," said Mrs. Virginia McMahan, who describes herself as one of Charlotte's leading anti-porno crusaders.

Mrs. McMahan, a 37-year-old mother of nine children who said she and her friends are organizing to "rid the state of these problems," foresees an area that "violates all rights of decency" if porno establishments are clustered into one area of downtown.

She said she believes "every manner of human degradation" would be available in the district, and she would much prefer a ban against the establishments.

Mrs. Locke admits that local realtors were "absolutely livid" at the thought of what might happen to property values near the adult district, and those who sell adult entertainment have made it clear that they oppose the idea.

"I'd fight something like that," said Sam Tillman, manager of the Paper Doll topless lounge. The idea, as proposed by Mrs. Locke, would have a "grandfather clause" which would limit the clustering to new stores. Stores currently open would not be affected.

"Shoot, I don't know whether I could even sell by business if I wanted to," Tillman said. "I don't know if whoever bought it could stay open here."

Tillman said he thinks the district would be located "in a rundown part of town and rents will go sky high."

Salvatore A. Musumeci, operator of two bookstores and three theaters featuring pornography, said he thinks a clustering law would fail because Charlotte is "saturated" with establishments similar to his. "I don't think anyone would contemplate opening up new here," he said.

center and near residential areas. He contends that his establishment is not harmful to the neighborhood and his theaters bring business to the shopping center.

The zoning proposal is being studied by the local planning commission, which will suggest to the city council whether the idea is feasible, and where a porno district might be located.

"We're looking at the possible effects on various neighborhoods. We haven't narrowed down the possible locations," said Fred Bryant, assistant director of the commission.

Mrs. Locke said she proposed the idea only as a way of keeping the theaters and bookstores out of the suburbs.

"There are some people in this town who would close down Eckerds drugstores because they carry Cosmopolitan magazine," she said.

"I don't believe in ending it entirely. I don't like censorship," Mrs. Locke said.

"Pornography in this city is proliferating into the suburbs. As long as it's going to grow, let it grow in one place."

The idea of using zoning to combat the spread of pornography is unique in North Carolina, but municipal battles against porno are not.

Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Hickory, Raleigh and other cities have done battle with the dealers.

Charlotte City Atty. Henry Underhill said various methods of controlling porno have been tried in Charlotte, but few have passed court tests. "Hardly a year has gone by lately that we haven't at least looked at the subject in one form or another," he said.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 21, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day finds you filled with uncertainty, along with some broken promises. Later, with the cooperation of others, it is possible to engage in a more positive plan of action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fellow worker may not be desirous of going along with your plans but later you can convince this person. Take health treatments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't be glum with those who dwell with you. Evening is fine for entertaining your good friends. Show that you have poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you handle the tasks you have promised to do for others. Use your finest talents on that excellent idea you have.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Concentrate on monetary matters of importance. Find new ways of making money and adding to your abundance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You will have to put out more effort if you wish to gain your objective. Avoid one who is a spendthrift and a bad influence.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to appreciate an associate more and come to a better understanding and have more mutual success. Show you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle a personal affair that is giving you trouble early in the day. Take time to make long-range plans for the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have many responsibilities to meet before attending the social. A conference with higher-ups can be helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study every facet of a new plan before you put it in operation. Make plans for the days ahead and be steadfast in your endeavor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle responsibilities at hand before you look into new interests that seem appealing. Try not to lose your temper.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find out what associates expect of you and then aim to please. Show more respect for your elders. Obtain the data you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gain the cooperation of co-workers for those duties ahead of you. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Be alert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she can become most successful during lifetime provided you give the best education you can afford. Life's work should be connected with government or big corporations. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

Two Don't-Miss TV Shows Airing Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two don't-miss shows premiering tonight, Dick Van Dyke's comedy hour on NBC and a CBS sitcom, "All's Fair," a Norman Lear laughter about a liberal-conservative affair in Washington.

But two other new entries — ABC's "Captain and Tennille" variety show and a soap opera called "Executive Suite" on CBS — should be seen tonight only if the sleeping pill fails to work.

Despite a so-so monologue, Van Dyke's show, a kind of less rowdy "Saturday Night," is a sprightly hour of lunacy that emphasizes sight gags and shuns traditional variety show patterns.

For example, Van Dyke is doing a skit with Flip Wilson's "Geraldine" when a network bulletin interrupts things to show a wild chess-and-boxing match between the star and heavyweight George Foreman. After that, scheduled programming resumes — with Dinah Shore ending a song and being thanked by Van Dyke. Geraldine never reappears.

Later, dumbness is saluted — it'll be a weekly salute — with "The Bright Family," a collection of dimwits played by Van Dyke and the L.A. Mime Company, aided by guest dumb Chevy Chase.

It's hard to describe their denseness, but the least dumb act has Van Dyke shaving his lathered chin with an electric razor.

Another nifty: "The Fonzie Look-Alike Contest," in which the loser, a staff comic named Andy Kaufman, plays a Jose Jimenez-like character. Among other things, he does an Ed McMahon imitation.

"Van Dyke and Company," when a network bulletin interrupts things to show a wild chess-and-boxing thing called the belly laugh may be coming back each week.

CBS' "All's Fair" stars Richard Crenna as a very conservative Washington columnist of 49 years who falls in love with a 23-year-old radical chic photographer, uninhibitedly played by Bernadette Peters.

Things start when she comes to his Georgetown office-home, meets his then-lover and literary agent (Salome Jens) and his black aide (J.A. Preston), then cases the joint for a photo layout she is doing for the New York Times.

"It's a cute little pad," says she. "You'd never know a Fascist lived here."

One suspects the middle-aged mossback, who proves a charmer, and the liberated young lady liberal won't get along at all. He even calls her a "sorority house Socialist."

But by the end of a funny ABC's "Captain and Tennille," which has good singing and liberal lines, a romance flares. And the older girl friend-agent exits, having lost his heart but not her commission to the new-comer. Maybe the next edition will be better. We've little hope for CBS' "Executive Suite," to be discussed in our next edition.

Big Savings In One Passenger

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — United States motorists could save 700,000 barrels of gasoline per day by increasing the average passenger load per commuter car by only one person, the Texas Energy and Mineral Resources office says.

That would be enough gasoline saved each day for 67,000 cars to drive from New York to San Francisco and return.

Texas Largest Energy User

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Almost 40 per cent of U.S. oil and gas production comes from Texas.

The Texas production accounts for more than one-fourth of all the fossil fuel energy used in the United States, but because of expanding population and large industries, Texas is the largest energy consumer of the 50 states.

♠Q87542 ♥J6 ♦A103 ♣94
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♣
What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. Despite the fact that you have six-card spade support, more violent action should not be considered. Your hand is too balanced to bid four spades—a bid you would have made with a singleton—and, besides, partner might have good defense against any opposing contract. Since the jump raise of an overall does not promise much in the way of defensive tricks, partner should be allowed to judge whether to bid game or take a save against the opponents' contract.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A8742 ♥95 ♦10952 ♣73
The bidding has proceeded:

4 ♥ Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Bid four spades. Most players use a double of an opening four-bid as largely for takeout. The fact that your ace is in a suit in which partner might also have considerable length detracts from your side's defensive prospects, so the bid of four spades could gain in either of two ways: you could make four spades, or have a cheap sacrifice against an opposing game.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♥72 ♦A873 ♥J75 ♠A1062
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Bid three diamonds. In terms of pure point count, you might not have a forward-going bid. But from the auction it seems likely that partner has a six-card diamond suit, and with your two aces and a filler in his suit, a possible three no trump contract should not be overlooked.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK109 ♥AQJ95 ♦9852
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ 2 ♣ Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Pass. It is never easy to pass a low-level penalty double when you are void in the opponents' trump suit and won't be able to assist partner by leading trumps through declarer. However, your defensive values are gilt-edged and there is no guarantee that you have a game anywhere. It just seems right to settle for a probable penalty.

Now—$1 enrolls you in the new Physicians Hospital Plan that lets you choose your plan and renewal rate. It pays you cash benefits from the very first day you're in the hospital—$900 a month ($30 a day).

We guarantee to issue you this insurance—regardless of your age, health or family size. Then you can renew for as little as $7.55 a month—depending on your age.

- Pays cash benefits from the very first day of hospitalization.
- Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—for you, your wife and children.
- 50% cash increase for cancer and heart attacks.
- New sicknesses and accidents are both covered immediately.
- No limit to the number of days you can collect cash benefits.
- Cash benefits paid direct to you—to spend as you wish—unless you tell us otherwise.
- Guaranteed renewable for life.
- Pays over and above any other insurance you may have—including Medicare.

These days, one of the most scary things about going to the hospital is the final bill. Inflation has driven up the average price of hospitalization in the United States to $130 a day according to the American Hospital Association. So even if you already have basic hospital insurance, it only covers part of the cost. You have to come up with the rest.

Meanwhile, if you're hospitalized for any length of time, your income may stop. And those bills will keep piling up at home—rent, loans, mortgage, telephone, utilities, credit card and all the rest. Pretty soon, you could find most of your savings are eaten up. You could even wind up deeply in debt.

Now for the good news: Physicians Mutual Insurance Company—run by doctors since 1902—has created this new Physicians Hospital Plan to help give you and your family extra protection against the high cost of hospitalization. Here's how it works—and why you should enroll now:

$900 a month—$30 a day—cash!

Hospital rates are usually the same for everybody. That's why this policy pays the same $30 a day cash benefit when you, your wife or any of your children are hospitalized for any covered sickness or accident. Compare these benefits with other policies that pay reduced benefits for dependents.

50% increase in cash benefits for cancer and heart attack: $1350 a month, $45 a day.

No one likes to think about getting cancer or having a heart attack. But it happens all the time. About 53 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer. That's 1 in 4 persons.* And it's estimated that nearly 4 million people have a history of heart attack. We sincerely hope you never have to collect. But if you should, daily benefits are increased 50% if you or any covered member of your family are hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease) or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

Double benefits for you and your wife!

When your wife is covered and both of you are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, your daily benefits are increased. That's right, you get twice the regular cash benefit—$3,600 a month ($120 a day) to help you through this emergency. By the way, hospitalization doesn't have to be due to the same accident; you and your wife could be injured in unrelated accidents.

*American Cancer Society American Heart Association

If you have any questions about this policy call 800-228-9100 toll-free from anywhere in the Continental United States. (Nebraska residents, call 402-558-8900 collect). Our Customer Service staff is ready to serve you from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Central Time, Monday thru Friday.

Pays you maternity benefits, too!

You'll collect full benefits—$30 a day—for hospitalization due to pregnancy or any pregnancy complication, if coverage includes your wife and if your policy has been in force for 10 months or more. There's no added cost to you!

No waiting period for accidents or new sicknesses.

You're covered the very minute your policy is issued and put in force for new sicknesses—and accidents. That means you could be rushed to the hospital a few minutes after you get your policy—and be able to start collecting your $30 a day benefits immediately, starting that very day!

You get lifetime coverage and benefits.

There's no limit on the number of days for which you can collect cash benefits. You can be hospitalized as often as necessary and stay as long as you have to—knowing that your $30 a day benefits cannot run out. Our plan will pay you benefits for as long as you're hospitalized—even for life!

Pays cash benefits in addition to any other insurance you have.

Remember, this is extra, supplemental protection. Your benefits are paid over and above any other insurance you may carry—including Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Major Medical and Medicare. This policy is designed to help you make up the difference between your total hospital bill and what your other insurance will pay.

Your benefits are not taxable.

Your benefits from your Physicians Mutual Policy are not taxable by any level of government. They are not subject to state or Federal income tax.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable.

Don't forget, this extra protection is yours as long as you want to have it and pay your premiums when due. We cannot drop you or cancel your coverage because your health changes, or because you're a few years older, or because you've submitted a number of claims. On the other hand, you can drop your policy on any renewal date. Also, your premium can never be increased unless premiums are raised on all policies like yours in your entire state.

Please note these exceptions.

Pre-existing conditions (health problems that became evident or were medically treated before the effective date of the policy) are not covered for one year from the date the policy is issued. Half-benefits ($15 a day) are paid for up to 4 weeks confinement due to mental disorder. Not covered is hospitalization for alcoholism, drug addiction or any condition covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits. Confinement in nursing homes, Federal hospitals, or the self-care, extended-care or convalescent units of hospitals is not covered. Pregnancy or any consequence is covered only if husband and wife are both covered.

Backed by Physicians Mutual—the company run by doctors since 1902.

From its founding in 1902 until 1962, the Company specialized in health insurance for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively. Then, recognizing the growing need for insurance to supplement basic hospital coverages, Physicians Mutual began making such protection available to the general public. And was one of the first companies to do so. Today, our various policies protect over 1,000,000 Americans in all walks of life.

Remember, you're doing business with a company that delivers what it promises. Last year, we paid claims totaling over $48,000,000 on all policies. That's a return of over 70% of premium income paid out in benefits to policyowners—one of the highest in the entire insurance industry.

Physicians Mutual Insurance Company is a mutual insurance company headquartered in Omaha, Nebraska. It is not affiliated with any national, state or local medical association.

We can't say "No" to you.

Don't worry, we guarantee to issue you a policy. You will not be turned down because of your age, health or size of your family.

As soon as we receive your Application, we will issue your policy (P350/360 Series) and put it in force. From that day on—even before you receive your policy in the mail—you're covered for new sicknesses and accidents. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis.

If you're already a Physicians Mutual policyowner and would like information about additional coverage available to you, please write for details.

You can enroll in this new Physicians Hospital Policy right from this page. All you need do is fill out the short Application and mail it together with $1—which pays for your first month.

Now—Physicians Mutual gives you a choice of extra protection plans and options.

1 First, choose the insurance plan that fits your needs best.

Individual Plan

Choose this plan if you're single or only want to cover one member of the family. Pays you $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you're hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

Husband-Wife Plan

Designed for the married couple without children or whose children are grown and no longer dependent. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when either of you is in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. Maternity included at no extra cost. And benefits double when both husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents.

All-Family Plan

Offers protection for the growing young family. Covers you, your wife and all your eligible dependent children—including future additions which are covered from birth except for routine "well baby" care. Pays the same $900 a month cash—$30 a day—for every insured family member. Maternity covered at no extra cost. And benefits double when both husband and wife are in the hospital at the same time due to accidents.

One-Parent Family Plan

Created especially for the single parent with children. Covers you and all eligible dependent children. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you or an insured child is hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

2 Second, choose the monthly premium option that fits your budget best.

Remember, your first month's premium is $1.

That's right. You can actually select the monthly renewal rate you want to pay for this extra protection. Read over the terms and rates for Option A and Option B. Then decide which is right for you.

OPTION A Pays you cash benefits from the very first day of hospitalization for either a covered sickness or accident. This option gives you maximum protection. There's no waiting period; your coverage starts immediately upon hospitalization.

	Under 40 (Use age of principal insured)	40 and Over
Individual Plan	$7.55	$9.95
Husband-Wife Plan	$13.65	$18.75
All-Family Plan	$16.85	$21.95
One-Parent Family Plan	$10.75	$13.15

OPTION B Pays you cash benefits from the very first day of hospitalization for an accident and after the 3rd day for sickness. So if you can handle the bills for the first three days of hospitalization, this option gives you a lower rate. And extra protection against the costs of a longer stay in the hospital.

	Under 40 (Use age of principal insured)	40 and Over
Individual Plan	$5.55	$8.55
Husband-Wife Plan	$10.00	$15.80
All-Family Plan	$12.25	$18.05
One-Parent Family Plan	$7.80	$10.80

Note: Your renewal rate does not increase as you move from one age group to another.

You still need extra protection after 65.

Perhaps you're thinking that because of Medicare, you don't need additional coverage. Not so. Despite its many fine features, Medicare will not cover all of your hospital expenses. With this extra protection plan, however, you'll have cash coming in for every day you're in the hospital, regardless of how long your stay might be. Cash to help you pay your share of the bills—to safeguard your savings and income.

No rate increase at age 65. One of the big features of this plan is that you don't have to pay more for this protection after 65. We've found that most folks over 65 prefer a little less coverage to paying a higher cost. So—to hold down your cost—we pay half benefits ($15 a day) for the first 60 days of hospitalization. After that, you get the full $30 a day cash benefit. Yet your monthly premium remains the same as when you first enrolled in the plan.

Another feature many senior citizens appreciate is that you will be covered for cancer, heart attack, stroke, hernia, disease or disorder of the prostate, tuberculosis, cataracts, emphysema, cirrhosis or diabetes if your hospital confinement commences more than six months after the effective date of your policy.

Your policy comes in this handsome vinyl wallet.

It's a convenient way to keep your important personal papers in one place. With your policy, you also receive a Claim Form. It's easy to use and assures prompt processing of your claim when an accident or sickness puts you in the hospital.

No salesman will call or visit you.

SELECT RATE OPTION DESIRED:

- OPTION A—First day coverage for accidents and sickness 6034-54
- OPTION B—First day coverage for accidents, sickness after 3 days 6035-64

Six New CBS 'Hot Ones' on WNCT TV

Plus Sports and News Exclusives, Movies, Exciting Specials for the Whole Family

Six new series which begin Monday, September 20 will join the already powerful CBS Network lineup on WNCT.

ALL'S FAIR, a hilarious, sparkling love story that bridges the generation gap, kicks off the new shows on Monday at 9:30 PM followed by EXECUTIVE SUITE at 10:00 PM, a powerful drama based on the movie of the same name.

On Wednesdays, BALL FOUR at 8:30 PM is a zany look at our national pastime, and at 9:30, ALICE is a new comedy based on the award winning movie "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore."

Fridays, it's SPENCER'S PILOTS at 8:00 PM in an exciting action series, and Sundays, DELVECCHIO, a hard-hitting new police drama at 10:00 PM.

Other CBS action includes exclusive sports coverage of the NFL, NFC, and the NBA games along with major golf and tennis tournaments, soccer, auto and horse racing.

The new CBS movies and specials are also spectacular in the '76 season. Among the movies are PAPER MOON, CHINATOWN, SAVE THE TIGER, DEATH WISH, JUGGERNAUT and PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM.

Specials will include the COUNTRY MUSIC and GRAMMY AWARDS, the GOLDEN ROD RODEO, JOHNNY CASH and BING CROSBY, two beauty pageants, WALTON'S THANKSGIVING a special KOJAK television movie in two parts, and for the children to name a few are five CHARLIE BROWN SHOWS, RUDOLPH, THE GRINCH, RIKI TIKI TAVI and the CIRCLE OF CHILDREN.

CBS News again takes the lead with veteran anchorman Walter Cronkite, and Eric Sevareid with his penetrating analysis of major issues. 60 MINUTES and MAGAZINE head CBS special news programming this season and WNCT will again offer outstanding informational shows via CBS REPORTS and CBS News Documentaries.

'The Hot Ones,' beginning September 20. They're all here on WNCT!

Blazing Action on 'Gunsmoke' Every Weekday at 5:00 PM

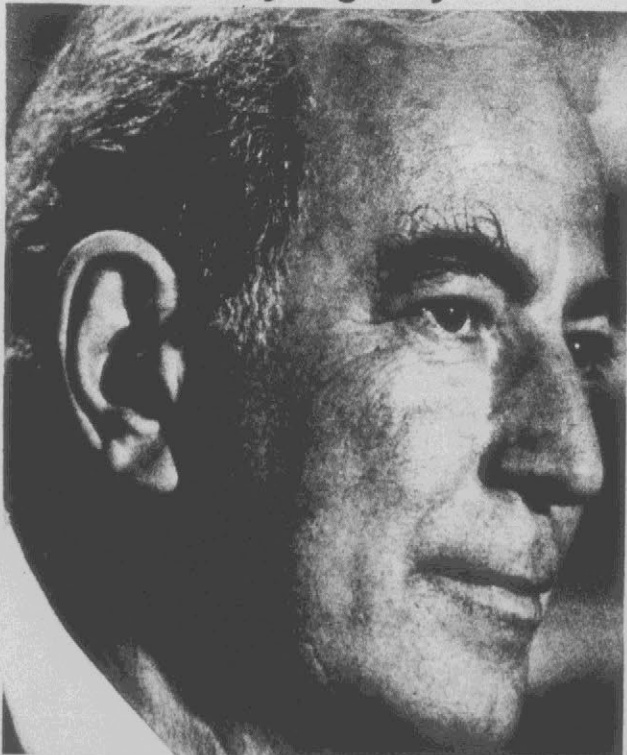

James Arness as Matt Dillon GUNSMOKE, Weekdays 5:00 PM.

GUNSMOKE, a long-time area favorite and the multi-award winning action series begins its 21st year this fall from 5:00-6:00 PM every weekday.

James Arness, as marshall Matt Dillon, a man with a keen sense of justice continues to preserve law and order in Dodge City, with the help of Amanda Blake as Kitty, and Ken Curtis as Festus, the deputy who makes up in courage what he lacks in neatness and brains.

Milburn Stone continues in his role as crusty, opinionated Doc, who despite some erratic ways, proves to be one of Matt's most dependable allies.

'Executive Suite' More Monday Night Dynamite

Stephen Elliott of EXECUTIVE SUITE, Mondays 10:00 PM.

Members of Cardway Corporation's Board of Directors

Based on the movie of the same name, EXECUTIVE SUITE at 10:00 PM is about people whose business and personal lives are dominated by a huge company known as the Cardway Corporation.

The human drama goes beyond the business problems of Cardway's top executives, office workers and factory hands and reaches into the very personal hopes, triumphs and losses in their social and family lives.

The scope of EXECUTIVE SUITE is as broad as it is intimate and personal, and the dramatic conflicts are seen from widely varying points of view...the top executives as well as the people who work for them...the children as well as the parents, who occupy all walks of life in EXECUTIVE SUITE.

Bernadette Peters and Richard Crenna, in love and in war in ALL'S FAIR, Mondays 9:30 PM.

Start Monday September 20 With 'All's Fair'

Versatile actor Richard Crenna stars with Bernadette Peters in ALL'S FAIR Mondays from 9:30 to 10:00 PM.

Crenna plays a conservative and influential columnist in his late 40's. Peters as "Charley" is an ultra-liberal female photographer in her early 20's. Both are attractive and opinionated.

When Charley is contracted by a leading newspaper to do a photo story on Crenna, there's only one problem. They both have diametrically opposing views on everything and express them with no holds barred.

Also featured is J. A. Preston as Crenna's assistant, who, to Charley's bemusement, is conservative like his boss.

Despite the generation gap, they fall madly in love. And what happens to this unlikely liaison will develop in hilarious fashion in Norman Lear's sparkling new comedy, ALL'S FAIR.

'Ball Four' Wednesday Winner All The Way

Based on former Yankees pitcher Jim Bouton's best-selling book, BALL FOUR is an altogether daffy treatment of our national pastime, Wednesdays at 8:30 PM.

This is a major league baseball team?

An intellectual pitcher who reads books and orders snails before dinner. A King Kong catcher who checks in with his mother long-distance on the bullpen phone. A management that limits the player's showers to three minutes with a stop-watch.

These are the Washington Americans who occasionally have a one-game winning streak. An assortment of "jocks" who keep their manager's heartburn at the boiling point.

Bouton, the book's author actually stars in this show. Along with ex-Oakland Raiders football great, Ben Davidson as "Rhino," the catcher with the mother fixation.

Ben Davidson, BALL FOUR, Wednesdays 8:30 PM.

Linda Lavin as ALICE
Wednesdays 9:30 PM

Wednesdays: 'Alice' Lives On CBS

From Hit Movie: 'Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore'

Linda Lavin plays ALICE every Wednesday from 9:30 to 10:00 PM in a brand new comedy based on the award-winning movie "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore." As a widow in her 30's, Alice tries to build a new life for herself and her 12-year-old son. She dreams of becoming a singer, but the height of her show biz career was a brief engagement in a Kansas City cocktail lounge.

Still nursing her dream, she is practical enough to recognize life's economic necessities, and works as a waitress in a Phoenix luncheonette. Her colorful co-workers include Mel, her gruff but good-hearted boss, and two waitresses. Vera, though eager, is totally inept. Flo is a red-haired and rambunctious waitress and definitely not your Tea Shoppe type.

Whether fending off unwanted male advances, discussing delicate matters with her son or just persuading her seemingly impossible dream, Alice faces life with free-wheeling humor, always funny and always entertaining.

'Spencer's Pilots' First Class Friday Flight

SPENCER'S PILOTS is an exciting action series that will appear Fridays from 8:00 to 9:00 PM.

Stan and Cass, two daredevil young pilots who served in Vietnam, now work for an independent aviation company owned by a no-nonsense boss.

The company takes on virtually any assignment that calls for flying and they teach people to fly, ferry cargo, stage stunt flying circuses. They also do rescue and ferry work, crop dust, combat fires and other natural disasters and become involved with every type of character from the angelic to the ungodly.

But no matter how trying the situation, it is seldom grim enough to deter them from the good-natured needling they trade with their cohorts.

Christopher Stone and Todd Susman star as Cass and Stan, with Gene Evans as Spencer.

Hee Haw Back Saturdays 7PM

The HEE HAW SHOW seen on WNCT every Saturday at 7:00 PM was invented by Waldo Snerdicker of Wolverine, Kansas in the year 1837. Unfortunately he thought it was a balloon and never paid no attention. Had he lived to see the success of his brain child, he would be the world's oldest man. But he didn't, so the heck with him."

That's one description of the show by the producers of HEE HAW. Thank Snerdicker, in Heaven now, it's back. With Buck Owens, Roy Clark, their whole gang and special guests. The best in country music and comedy. Turn your dial to 9 on Saturdays at seven. Snerdicker'll be list'nin kindly to your chuckles risin' up.

"Tarzan" Series New On WNCT TV

More than two billion people in every country of the world have enjoyed TARZAN films and his escapades have been translated into 56 different languages.

Over 585 daily and weekly newspapers covering the vast majority of the U.S. carry the TARZAN comic strip.

Although an imaginative character, Africa's natives consider him an African "Paul Bunyon". The author of TARZAN, Edgar Rice Burroughs, created a strong, square-jawed, worry-free individual whom all men would like to be, all women would like to love and all children just plain like.

Action packed viewing. The new 'TARZAN' with Ron Ely. Healthy entertainment for the whole family from WNCT!

Saturdays 9:00 PM

All the female stars are back at WNCT this season including bright new faces—ALICE and "Charley" of ALL'S FAIR.

On Mondays, the sparkling stars of RHODA, PHYLLIS, MAUDE and "Charley" will brighten your way straight through from 8:00 to 10:00 PM.

Emmy Award winner Valerie Harper as RHODA opens the new season with some marital problems, namely another woman who has an eye on her husband.

A more sympathetic PHYLLIS is leaving the photo studio for a new job, MAUDE, the lady with a whim or iron, is as brash and funny as ever, and "Charley," the bright newcomer, unavoidably enchants a conservative gentleman twice her age.

On Tuesdays, the perky mother of ONE DAY AT A TIME faces the comic tribulations of raising two daughters at 9:30 PM, and on Wednesdays at 9:30 PM newcomer ALICE faces the problems of fending off male advances and raising a son.

To wrap up each week in a burst of color and comedy, the MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW, which took five Emmy Awards last year, returns Saturdays at 9:00 PM for its seventh season on CBS Television Network. Then, CAROL BURNETT strikes your funny bone with her skits, satire and musical productions at 10:00 PM.

With stars like this, you're right in tune on Channel 9. Welcome back to a hot new season on WNCT!

CAROLINA TODAY Panelists Hal Moore, Charlie Whedbee, Tommy Payne and Jim Woods. Weekdays 6:00 AM.

Carolina Today: 'Listening Post' For Eastern NC

CAROLINA TODAY, was well-characterized by Jerry Raynor in "The Daily Reflector" last year who said "nowhere is the diversity and spirit of the contemporary pattern of life in Eastern North Carolina better represented than during the sunrise hours five days a week at Television Station WNCT, Channel 9." Raynor's article referred to the program as the "Morning Listening Post for Eastern North Carolina."

"Coming on the air at six in the morning for two hours until eight," Raynor reports, "it's a program for early Tar Heel risers...a spread of local news highlighted by personal appearances in the last half hour or so of the show."

"Ask any farmer, housewife, school child, truck driver, or office worker in the area if they ever tune in," he continues. "Chances are good the answer will be yes."

WNCT Program Director Ed Fields, a 20-year veteran of WNCT points out that CAROLINA TODAY has been on the air for 17 years, and was started as a public service program to serve the feelings, attitudes and problems of the people of Eastern North Carolina.

CAROLINA TODAY does not adhere to any patterned format.

As Fields says, "The real-life drama and humor of day-to-day life is our only format. We seek lively involvement during the show. We welcome genuine arguments because the interplay of ideas between our guests is the only way we can share the knowledge that results with our audience."

The four panelists responsible for this interplay are Judge Charles Whedbee, (see story page 7) Jim Woods, WNCT-TV sports Director, Hal Moore, pianist and insurance agent and Tommy Payne, former Baptist Minister now in public relations.

To name just a few people who have appeared as guests on the show, there's Kay Kyser, Art Linkletter, George Wallace, Earl Butz and Orville Freeman, both former secretaries of agriculture, the Martin County baseball heroes Gaylord and Jim Perry, every Miss NC since the show began, Pat Nixon, numerous NC University chancellors, bishops, farmers, youngsters, mayors, singers, fishermen and just plain folks.

"Name a profession or occupation," says Fields, "and they most likely have been represented on CAROLINA TODAY."

As Raynor said, some of the program's involvement in issues produced quick results. In July, 1971, for example, Raynor reported the N.C. General Assembly passed a bill saying that patients in nursing homes with a fixed income of $114 or more per month would not be eligible for services under Medicare."

"This law would have resulted in 23 patients from the Greenville Nursing Center either returning home or being admitted to a hospital at four times the cost..."

On July 9, 1971, Raynor said, "Mayo Allen, then director of the Greenville Nursing Home along with relatives of patients appeared on CAROLINA TODAY to cite specific, heartbreaking cases that would result due to the new law's requirement."

On July 10, in a special session, the law was changed. As Raynor reported according to Allen, "if it had not been for CAROLINA TODAY, 3,700 patients (in North Carolina) would have gone home to suffer or to a hospital to pay four times nursing home care cost."

As Fields says, the program in a very real way is an extension of the thinking and actions of our people in Eastern North Carolina.

"As long as we all share the same needs," he says, "there will be a CAROLINA TODAY."

Truth or Consequences Swings Into 35th Year

Host Bob Barker with guest star. Weeknights 7:00 PM.

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES remains America's Number One multi-weekly game show, entering its 35th year on the air.

Selecting stunts for television's longest running audience participation show on WNCT-TV at 7:00 PM is no small trick for host Bob Barker.

Barker, who has hosted the show since 1956, attributes the longevity of the series to flexibility in choosing stunts.

Typical off-stage stunts have included sending a man, disguised as an Indian, from Los Angeles to Seattle to beat a tom-tom in a downtown street until the rains came. (That was the shortest bongo session in history.)

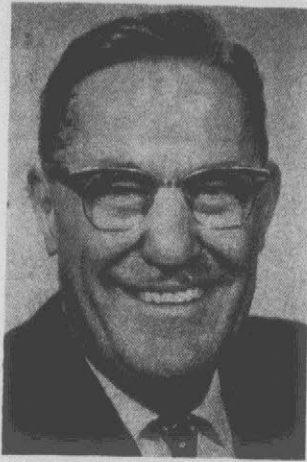

The funniest moment that Barker recalls involved a fake gorilla caged in a truck parked in front of Grauman's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood. "We persuaded a passerby to hold open the truck door for us, and it took the gentleman a few minutes to spot the 'beast.' The man acted nonchalantly about the whole thing until the gorilla began to move toward him, at which point our contestant took off on a dead run down the street. He probably still would be travelling if we hadn't sent a production assistant after him."

In addition to being proud to be the host of the oldest and most successful TV audience participation shows in broadcasting history, Barker boasts that "we are the only show to have a town named after us. In 1950 the town of Hot Springs, New Mexico, changed its name to Truth or Consequences and has been that ever since." This marked the first time an entertainment program had been so honored.

See this hilarious show every weekday at 7:00 PM on WNCT-TV!

'Delvecchio:' Joins Other Tough Cops on the CBS Beat

Charles Whedbee, CAROLINA TODAY Weekdays 6-8:00 AM

Judge Whedbee Yarn-Spinner on Carolina Today!

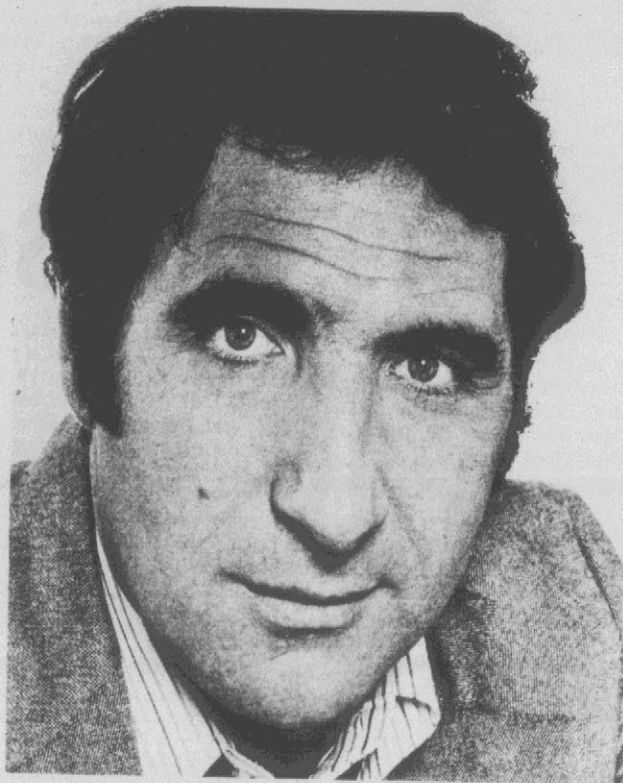

Charles Harry Whedbee was born on Friday the 13th, the son of the then Superior Judge Harry W. Whedbee.

Raised in Greenville, family tradition has it that he was carried in a sailboat to Nag's Head on North Carolina's Outer Banks before he was six months old. From that time on, he spent his summers in that enchanted spot in the daily company of the children of the Outer Banks families he came to love so well.

A UNC Chapel Hill graduate, Whedbee passed the State Bar examination in the mid-thirties. He opened his office for the practice of law in Greenville, being elected to the office of Solicitor of the County Court of Pitt County one year later. He held this office for about twelve years, when he was elected Judge of the Greenville Municipal Recorder's Court.

With the establishment of the District Court system in North Carolina, Whedbee ran for and was elected to the office of District Court Judge for the Third Judicial District, an office which he holds to this date.

A former newscaster in Greenville, when WNCT-TV was established, he moved easily into television and has held the position of guest panelist on CAROLINA TODAY for a number of years.

Judd Hirsch as DELVECCHIO, Sundays 10:00 P.M.

As he settled into CAROLINA TODAY he began to tell on the air some of the stories he had heard as a child on the Outer Banks. These proved so popular that they soon became a regular feature of the early morning show. As a spinner of these yarns, he speaks as one who was there and a witness to the things he talks about.

He has written two books on Outer Banks stories. One of them, "Legends of the Outer Banks," has developed into a genuine best seller, having sold more copies than any other book published by his publisher, John Blair. Whedbee's second book, "The Flaming Ship of Ocracoke," has also been a popular seller.

Joining the other tough cops in the CBS lineup, Judd Hirsch portrays DELVECCHIO in this new police action drama Sundays from 10:00 to 11:00 PM.

As a street-wise detective who's as outspoken as he is dedicated, DELVECCHIO takes his place among the stars in KOJAK, SWITCH, THE BLUE KNIGHT, HAWAII FIVE-O, BARNABY JONES, MOD SQUAD and UNTOUCHABLES.

Absorbed in his work almost to the exclusion of everything else, his only close outside connection is with his father, a semi-retired cop with whom he shares a warm, yet offbeat relationship.

Involved in his hazardous work are a by-the-numbers, demanding precinct captain and his immediate supervisor, a lieutenant who backs his men publicly and chews them out privately. Delvecchio's own partner is a somewhat cynical older man who shares his younger associate's problems and concerns.

DELVECCHIO was created by William Sackheim, who with Judd Hirsch, was responsible for last season's eminently successful mini-series, "The Law."

Another cop who knows the streets, veteran star Telly Savalas as KOJAK starts off the new season with a two-part made for television movie special, and then continues in his regular Sunday night spot at 9:00 PM.

SWITCH, where the cops are "con men", with Bob Wagner and Eddie Albert, picks up Tuesdays at 10:00 PM, and on Wednesdays at the same time, George Kennedy as the BLUE KNIGHT gets a little star-dust in his eyes for a particular woman on his beat this season.

Thursdays at 9:00 PM, McGarrett continues to turn his island of paradise into a nightmare for law-breakers on HAWAII FIVE-O, followed by BARNABY JONES at 10:00 PM, who takes on a young partner this season, played by Mark Shera formerly of S.W.A.T.

WNCT Money Tree: Weeknights 7:30

Host Mike Darrow, $128,000 QUESTION Mon 7:30 PM

The dollars drop like leaves in the fall as the $128,000 QUESTION, with Mike Darrow leads off weekday games show viewing each Monday at 7:30 PM.

The $128,000 QUESTION, is patterned after the $64,000 QUESTION, the most popular and highest rated quiz show in the history of television. Winning contestants will return at the end of each season for a television "World Series." They keep the first $64,000 and in an end-season play off they can double their winnings to $128,000.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays,

Peter Marshall hosts HOLLYWOOD SQUARES. In this giant size tic-tac-toe game, nine guest celebrities, including regular Paul Lynde, give correct or incorrect answers to questions. Then it's up to the two contestants to correctly agree or disagree with the answers and win an X or a zero in the square along with cash money.

Each game has an unknown celebrity that offers a bonus prize. The contestant with the most money at the end of the game also wins a new automobile.

Host Peter Marshall, HOLLYWOOD SQUARES, and regular Paul Lynde, Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 PM.

Gene Rayburn, host of MATCH GAME PM, with panelists. Wednesdays 7:30 PM.

On Wednesdays, Gene Rayburn is host of the popular MATCH GAME PM, the fast-paced, enormously funny game show that features a panel of six celebrities along with the two contestants.

During the game, contestants and panelists are asked to complete a sentence. The contestants play against each other in an attempt to match their answers with those of the celebrity panel.

After two rounds the contestant who has accumulated the most points or "matches" with the stars is declared a winner and is eligible to play "audience match." In the final round, the champion attempts to match answers with a single celebrity on the panel for as much as $5,000 and the opportunity to meet a new challenger.

More big prizes are at stake on Fridays at 7:30 PM when Monty Hall — the most kissed man in television — hosts LET'S MAKE A DEAL.

Monty works with outlandishly-clothed "traders" chosen at random from the studio audience and offers them suspense-packed deals with a chance to win prizes such as rooms of furniture, appliances, expense-paid trips and cash.

But not all are winners. Each trader is faced with the possibility of a "zank," which may be a giant high chair, a salai tree or even a hippopotamus.

Each show builds in excitement to climax when two of the traders are given the opportunity to exchange their winnings for prizes hidden behind three doors, one of which may be the big deal.

There's a money tree at WNCT. Each weeknight at 7:30 PM.

Host Monty Hall, LET'S MAKE A DEAL, Fridays 7:30 PM.

'The Hot Ones' In Sports On CBS!

National Basketball Association action on WNCT-TV.

Exclusive, live sports action highlighted by coverage of National Football League and National Basketball Association games, as well as National Football Conference games, golfing events, tennis, horse-racing, soccer and a variety of other sports will be presented in the new CBS season.

The Network will also present two collegiate post-season football contests live from the Cotton and Sun Bowls.

Among the golfing events are the Masters Tournament, Doral open, Kemper open and the world Series of Golf, and tennis events include the U.S. open and four events from the Women's Tennis Association, including the finals in New York in March.

The CBS SPORTS SPECTACULAR continues on Saturday afternoons at 4:30 PM. And the popular CHALLENGE OF THE SEXES returns Sundays prior to the NBA games.

The 1976 NFL Season

A record number of National Football League games will be broadcast by CBS Sports during the 1976 season, the 21st consecutive year the network has covered the NFL.

WNCT will bring you 24 of these regular season contests. The exclusive live coverage opens the season in September and the regular season ends Sunday, December 12, with the NFC playoff games scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, December 18 and 19, and the NFC Championship contest Sunday, December 26.

The regular-season games are broadcast regionally, and doubleheaders will be presented on eight Sunday afternoons—September 19; October 3, 17, 24, 31; November 7, 21, and December 12. Other coast-to-coast broadcasts include Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 25, and Saturdays, December 4 and 11.

Each NFL game will be preceded by "The NFL Today," a pre-game, half-time and post-game broadcast that is packed with information and sports news, including highlights of all the important games that day in the NFL, and film features and special coverage designed to get the fan inside sports.

The same blackout rules as last season will again apply.

Waltons Return

Winner of 13 Emmy Awards, three Golden Globes, a Peabody Award and numerous other citations, a tribute has even been written into the Congressional Record for THE WALTONS, which opens its fifth season on WNCT, Thursdays at 8:00 PM.

The cast of Walton's Mountain remains intact with Richard Thomas as "John-Boy," Ralph Waite as head of the family and Michael Learned as his wife. All the children are back, as well as Will Geer and Ellen Corby as Grandpa and Grandma Walton. Mary Ellen, as played by Judy Norton, falls in love with a young doctor — a romance that will climax in a big mid-season wedding.

THE WALTONS story will move into the year 1937 and under the gathering clouds of World War II. John-Boy, now 20, continues at Boatwright College and as a writer on "The Blue Ridge Chronicle."

Join the 13,000,000 people who follow the activities of this large, close-knit family in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia during the depression years of the mid-thirties.

Right here on Channel 9.

Will Geer as Grandpa Walton

Pat Dye and His Pirates

East Carolina football in 1976 should be the most exciting game in town and you'll have the opportunity to see highlights of every Pirate game on the Pat Dye Show on WNCT-TV every Sunday at 12:00 noon preceding NFL FOOTBALL.

Head football coach Pat Dye and host Jim Woods, sports director of WNCT-TV and the voice of the East Carolina Pirates on radio will bring East Carolina football right into your home beginning in September. Game action film will highlight each show together with interviews with players and coaches and a scouting report on the upcoming Pirate opponent.

The show provides the strategic insight of a coaches' view of each game.

Pirate prospects are very high with the return of 17 of 22 starters, featuring such potential all-Americans as safety man, Jim Bolding; defensive end, Cary Godette; the twin 'H' boys, Willie Hawkins and Eddie Hicks at running backs; and the will o' wisp from Williamston at quarterback, Mike Weaver. Defense is the key to coach Dye's game plan and he will have the likes of Godette, Jake Dove, Zack Valentine, Harold Randolph, Harold Fort, Ernie Madison, Reggie Pinkney and Bolding to stymie the opponent. Some of these are just names now, but they could be East Carolina legends by November

Heading this impressive list of talent is head coach Pat Dye, a sly southerner from Georgia who was an all-America guard at Alabama under Bear Bryant and was an assistant coach and chief recruiter for Bryant nine years before coming to East Carolina in 1974. This will be his third year as head coach and he has a record of 15-7 for the past two years, improving from 7-4 in 1974 to 8-3 in 1975 and in 1976...the potential is unlimited.

They open in September with independent Southern Mississippi, possibly the toughest opponent on the schedule, followed by N.C. State, William & Mary, The Citadel, Southern Illinois, VMI, North Carolina, Western Carolina, Richmond, Furman and winding up with traditional rival, Appalachian State.

It should be the most exciting season in East Carolina football history and you can come right along through 1976 by joining the crowd watching the PAT DYE SHOW on WNCT-TV each Sunday at 12 Noon.

Experience is the best teacher. You might settle for any CB first time around. Understandably. A lot of people think CBs are all pretty much alike, but they soon discover there are exceptions.

Talk to Cobra. You know you're punching through loud and clear. One glance at the oversized illuminated meter tells you how much power. You get engineering, craftsmanship and performance that will make your first CB seem obsolete.

Sooner or later you'll get a Cobra.

Ask the pros. America's long distance truckers. They talk CB all the time . . . and they call the Cobra 29 "The Diesel Mobile." Listen to Cobra. You'll hear a big difference. Crystal clear reception. Like switchable noise limiting and blanking, squelch control, RF gain, and Delta tuning.

Cronkite on News and Election '76

WALTER CRONKITE, Weekdays 6:30 PM

The CBS EVENING NEWS with Walter Cronkite will once again lead off network weeknights viewing at 6:30-7:00 PM. Cronkite continues as managing editor and anchorman, and Eric Sevareid will offer his penetrating analysis of major issues.

For election coverage at its best, Cronkite leads pre and post election specials in addition to Election night coverage Tuesday November 2.

Teamed with WNCT's own news team covering the local news scene at 6:00 PM on NEWSWATCH, the coverage on Channel 9 can't be beat.

Mike Wallace, Morley Safer and Dan Rather, 60 MINUTES Sundays 7:00 PM.

CBS News Specials

60 MINUTES and MAGAZINE lead CBS special news programming this season, which also includes investigations of the 'Bay of Pigs,' U.S. arms trade, the rise of communism in Europe and a study of the oil industry.

During its eight years on the CBS Network, 60 MINUTES has become the country's favorite electronics magazine, and is back each Sunday at 7:00 PM.

MAGAZINE, presided over by the very personable CBS News Correspondent Sylvia Chase, has in its new and brief career proven to be crisply attractive, and will be back for six daytime editions for the 1976-77 season.

CBS news will again provide outstanding informational programming via CBS REPORTS and CBS News Documentaries to be broadcast on a preemptive basis in prime time hours.

Mort Crim, Weekdays, 6:00 and 11:00 PM.

One Moment Please

As a TV radio journalist, author, lecturer and a co-anchor of the manned spaced flights from Gemini to the Appolo moon landing, it was Mort Crim's voice that brought the Appolo touchdown to millions around the world.

His ONE MOMENT PLEASE is brought to you by WNCT every Monday through Friday on NEWSWATCH at 6:00 PM and 11:00 PM.

Teams, Families Going Strong!

THE WALTONS, Thurs. 8:00 PM

ALL IN THE FAMILY, Wednesdays 9:00 PM

THE JEFFERSONS, Saturdays 8:00 PM

GOOD TIMES, Wed. 8:00 PM

BOB NEWHART, Saturdays 9:30 PM

SONNY & CHER, Sundays 8:00 PM

M.A.S.H., Tuesdays 9:00 PM

Familiar faces and fine stars are back on WNCT for the new season. And new things are happening.

On the long-time favorite, THE WALTONS, Thursday at 8:00 PM, changes are taking place, not the least of which will be wedding bells for Mary Ellen. ALL IN THE FAMILY Wednesdays at 9:00 PM is getting another black neighbor to bring back those aspects of comedy that moved away when the Jeffersons left. And the JEFFERSONS are back at 8:00 PM on Saturdays and as funny as ever.

DOC will acquire an assistant and step out of his practice in the New York brownstone. He will operate a free clinic and come in contact with a great variety of people each Saturday at 8:30 PM. J.J.'s father will go to work on the Alaska pipeline and in his absence, the "dynamite kid" of GOOD TIMES will take on a larger role Wednesdays at 8:00 PM.

BOB NEWHART is back with his lovely wife and zany cohorts and patients at 9:30 PM Saturdays, and SONNY & CHER will be singing it up on their musical variety show Sundays at 8:00 PM.

On TONY ORLANDO and DAWN, Tuesdays at 8:00 PM comedian George Carlin will be a regular and Telma Hopkins, one-half of Dawn will have an expanded role.

Finally, that mad medic family is back Tuesdays at 9:00 in M.A.S.H. Emmy Award-winner Alan Alda, along with Loretta Swit, star in their second season as the smoothest on and off-duty Army operators in Korea.

He has a refreshing viewpoint on everything from economy to energy for the little guys who finish first.

An active church layman, Crim is the author of a best selling book 'Like It Is' about the church in a changing world. About his book, Doctor Norman Vincent Peal says "...the best work on the relation of Christianity to the problems of our time I've ever seen."

NEWSWATCH 9 Team Gets it all on WNCT-TV

Georgette Hedrick, Anchorman Bill Trull, Sports Director Jim Woods.

The WNCT-TV NEWSWATCH Team has the professionalism and experience to make it first in television news.

Anchorman Vance Morris, the Dean of Eastern Carolina Men with 30 years of news experience, provides balanced, thorough coverage on the Noon and Evening Newscasts.

Bill Trull, a native North Carolinian from East Carolina University and five-year veteran with WNCT-TV was chief announcer at the E.C.U. radio station and a WNCT announcer and reporter before taking over Anchor duties on the 11 PM Newscast last year.

Sports Director Jim Woods will travel anywhere to compile the best in sports. Jim is widely known and respected as the Voice of the Pirates.

Farm Director John Spence hosts a daily interview program with various farm specialists. His Farm Specials include the opening of the Eastern Belt Tobacco Market.

Assignment Editor Bob Perry, with almost 20 years of television experience has worked for the Wide World of Sports film crew.

Reporter-Photographer George Dudley, a native of Eastern NC and another East Carolina graduate was News Director at WNCT-Radio before moving to TV news reporting.

Georgette Hedrick is the newest addition to the NewsWatch Team. Georgette, a Cum Laude graduate of E.C.U. began her broadcast career as an account executive and copywriter for WPXY in Greenville. In addition to Co-Anchoring the Saturday night 11:00 Newscast, Georgette professionally reports NewsWatch at six and eleven.

For professional, accurate honest coverage of the News, turn to NEWSWATCH 9.

NewsWatch Anchorman Vance Morris. Noon and 6:00 PM.

I like TARZAN Saturday mornings at 7:00 and weekday afternoons at 4:00 PM.

I like SYLVESTER AND TWEETY at 8:00 and the BUGS BUNNY/ROADRUNNER HOUR at 8:30.

I like the SHAZAM!/ISIS HOUR at 10:00.

I might get a part in the new LORD OF THE JUNGLE cartoon at 9:30.

I like the New ARK II at 11:00 and CLUE CLUB at 11:30.

I like FAT ALBERT at noon and WAY OUT GAMES at 12:30.

I adore the CHILDREN'S FILM FESTIVAL at 1:00 PM.

I like CAPTAIN KANGAROO weekdays at 9:00 AM.

WNCT Really has Shows for The Kids!

Yea WNCT!

If they do, I'm not worried!

WHY NOT?

BOY! I HOPE THEY DON'T MOVE US BACK TO THE OTHER ROOM!

As soon as I turn into a toad I'm splitting this bowl and moving into that potted palm by the TV!
