

Medicare Beneficiaries To Pay More From Own Pockets

Ford Veto Defeated By House

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The portion of hospital fees that 25 million Medicare beneficiaries have to pay out of their own pockets was boosted a record 19 per cent today by the Social Security Administration. The hike, effective next Jan. 1, means that an elderly or disabled person entering a hospital in 1977 will be responsible for the first $124 of the initial bill, covering up to two months, compared with the present charge of $104. Similar increases apply to the share of costs that must be borne by the patient for extended stays in a hospital or skilled nursing home.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the increase is necessary to keep pace with hospital costs, which have been shooting up at more than twice the overall cost of living.

Medicare covers all hospital charges for up to the first 60 days except for an amount which, in theory, represents the cost on the day of admission.

Under the federal formula designed to balance off inflation, the price of that first — and supposedly average — day goes up $20. In fact, however, the computations lag behind actual costs by about two years.

After the patient picks up the first $124 of his bill next year, Medicare will, as usual, pick up the balance through the 60th day. But then further increases apply which, for some patients, could prove even more dear. They will have to pay $31 daily out of their own pockets for the 61st through the 90th day, up from the present $26 daily. Post-hospital stays lasting more than 20 days in a skilled nursing home will require beneficiaries to pay $15.20 daily for the 21st through the 100th day, up from the present $13.

Medicare patients who must be hospitalized more than 90 consecutive days can draw upon their one-time-only lifetime reserve — an extra 60 days — but will have to pay $62 daily instead of the current $52.

The agency said the cost of Medicare hospital insurance is expected to rise from an overall $13.6 billion this year to $16.1 billion in 1977.

About 24.7 million persons are eligible for the benefits this year. They are expected to number 25.3 million next year.

Social Security said the average hospital stay now costs about $1,600 per patient.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted today to override President Ford's veto of a $56.6 billion appropriation bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

The vote was 312 to 93, 42 more than the two-thirds needed to override.

It left the final decision to the Senate, which was expected to act promptly.

Ford had said the bill was inflationary, calling for $4 billion more spending than he had recommended for the department.

Supporters of the appropriation said Ford's budget made no provision for rising costs and would have forced cuts in programs for children, the disadvantaged and the elderly.

The House then moved toward consideration of a revenue sharing measure that could be the key to determine whether Congress meets its weekend deadline for adjournment.

Ford said Wednesday he will sign or veto two different jobs bills only after Congress acts on the revenue sharing measure, for which he has pushed hard.

The two jobs bills awaiting presidential action are a $3.7-billion measure for public works construction and legislation extending 260,000 public service jobs in state and local governments through the coming fiscal year.

Because these bills will be killed by a pocket veto if Congress adjourns and Ford doesn't act 10 days after he received them, supporters of the measures want Ford to sign or veto them. If Ford vetoes them, Congress then could attempt an override before adjourning this weekend.

Ford said Wednesday he will make decisions on the two bills if Congress approves the revenue-sharing bill that comes before the House today. That measure would provide $25.5 billion in federal revenue-sharing funds to cities, states and counties through 1980.

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said Wednesday that Congress will stay in session beyond Friday if that is necessary to prevent a pocket veto.

The veto of the HEW-Labor bill was Ford's 59th in his 49 months in office. Of the 59, Congress has overridden 11.

An override attempt failed Wednesday when the Senate sustained Ford's veto of a bill (Continued on page 11)

ECU Trustees Re-Elect Officers, Hear Reports

East Carolina University's Board of Trustees yesterday re-elected officers; approved further study and development of several new degree programs at the school; and were told that $300,000 has already been pledged toward a proposed $2.5 million addition to Ficklen Stadium.

Troy W. Pate Jr. of Goldsboro was re-elected chairman, while Ashley Futrell of Washington was re-named to the vice-chairman post and Mrs. Mebane H. Burgwyn of Jackson was re-elected secretary.

Trustees approved proceeding with further study and development of a program of offer a Masters of Science in Environmental Health—already authorized by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors under the school's five-year plan. The school now offers an undergraduate degree in the field—one of eight schools in the nation to do so.

Officials told board members yesterday that the closest masters degree program in environmental health is now in Tennessee.

The Board also adopted a resolution requesting the Board of Governors to allow ECU to amend the five-year-plan to include development of a Masters of Social Work degree program.

Planning for sixth-year degree programs in the fields of music and biology were also authorized by the board yesterday. They are already included in the five-year plan.

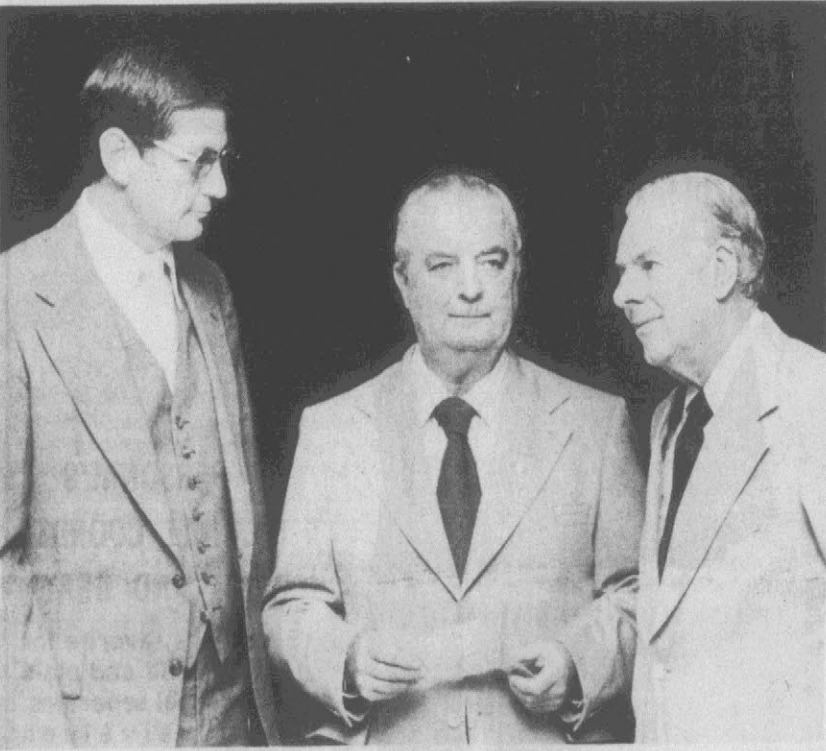

ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins reported that $300,000 in pledges have been received toward the $2.5 million goal to enlarge Ficklen Stadium to a 35,000 seat facility.

Dr. Jenkins noted that he received checks from several Board members yesterday to be used toward the expansion program.

Dr. William E. Laupus, Dean of the School of Medicine told the trustees, "we are making steady, satisfactory progress meeting our deadlines," looking toward a visit by the joint American Medical Association—Association of American Medical Colleges accreditation committee late this year or early next year.

School officials have expressed the hope that accreditation can be secured so the first four-year medical class can begin studies in September 1977.

In other action yesterday, the Board adopted a resolution commending ECU football coach Pat Dye for the nine-game victory streak the Pirates now enjoy, and approved having a committee meet with City of Greenville officials to discuss a request for right-of-way in order to extend Ficklen Drive. Also referred to committee for study was a request by representatives of the Student Government Association for right-of-way for a proposed bicycle way.

Out-Of-Court Settlement To Be Considered

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — White merchants who have won a $1.25-million suit against the NAACP say attorneys will meet Oct. 8 to discuss an out-of-court cash settlement, says a source close to the businessmen.

The NAACP, despite an intensive fund drive, has failed to raise the $1.6 million bond needed to appeal the judgment. The bond is due Friday.

The organization is to get a hearing today on its request that it be granted either a reduction of the bond or a rehearing of the case, in which owners of 12 businesses in Port Gibson were awarded the $1.25 million for losses suffered during a late 1960s civil rights boycott.

The judge who issued that ruling, Chancellor George Haynes, was to preside over today's hearing.

A source close to the merchants, who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday that he doubted the outcome of the hearing would alter plans for the Oct. 8 meeting. He said it was legally impossible for Haynes to reduce the bond because state law requires appeal bonds to equal 125 per cent of the award.

The NAACP, concerned that payment of the award could financially cripple the organization, has raised about $750,000 toward the appeal bond. The source suggested that this sum might be a "starting point" for the negotiations.

Haynes could order a rehearing of the case, the source said, "but that would mean he'd have to set aside his own final decree and withdraw his own opinion."

In that opinion, handed down Aug. 19, Haynes ruled that the 1966-1969 boycott was a political protest that should not have been directed at the merchants. NAACP lawyer Frank Parker and his colleagues maintain that the antiboycott law cited by Haynes is unconstitutional and was not passed until 1968, two years into the boycott.

AGREE TO DELAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate conferees Wednesday night agreed on a compromise clean air bill that would delay auto exhaust standards on two pollutants for one year.

Street Funds

Greenville will receive $395,387.50 as its share of the annual allocation of State Street Aid (Powell Bill) funds, it was announced by Gov. James Holshouser Jr.

Holshouser said that 446 North Carolina municipalities will receive a total of more than $30 million next week when the annual Powell Bill allocations are made.

Of the total amount to be allocated, 75 per cent is proportioned among the municipalities on the basis of relative population and 25 per cent on the basis of relative non-state system local street mileage.

Allocations are to be used for the maintenance, construction, and reconstruction of local city streets. Greenville's share of the allocation was based on the 1975 estimated population of the city, given as 34,240, and the city's certified non-system mileage, figured as 117.68 miles. The population increment amounted to $315,683.60 while the mileage increment totaled $79,703.90.

In addition to Greenville, several other Pitt County municipalities received Powell Bill shares, including:

- Farmville, total of $65,370.89 based on estimated population of 5,220 and non-system mileage of 25.46;
- Ayden, $51,667.11, 3,860 population, 23.74 miles;
- Gritton, $31,273.19, 2,520 population, 11.87 miles;
- Winterville, $25,047.22, 2,010 population, 9.62 miles;
- Bethel, $23,205.47, 1,750 population, 10.44 miles;
- Fountain, $6,465.22, 450 population, 3.42 miles;
- Grimesland, $5,491.02, 420 population, 2.39 miles;
- Simpson, $5,346, 480 population, 1.36 mile; and Falkland, $1,412.67, 140 population, .18 miles.

Holshouser explained that the Powell Bill returns to qualified municipalities one cent of the eight-cent state tax on gasoline and requires that these funds be disbursed by no later than Oct. 1.

SENIOR CITIZENS' TICKET, DAY?

How can I get a ticket to the State Fair for senior citizens? Do they have a special day for senior citizens this year? L. P.

Wednesday, Oct. 20, is Fun Festival for Senior Citizens day at the N. C. State Fair, according to information received by the Pitt County Extension Office. There will be greetings by Gov. Jim Holshouser and entertainment in Dorton Arena at 11 a.m.

If you are 65 or older and do not have a lifetime gate pass to the State Fair, you will receive one if you write N. C. State Fair, 1025 Blue Ridge Blvd., Raleigh, N.C. 27607. Ask for one right away as the fair's only three weeks away now and many orders are probably going in each day.

VACUUM CLEANER REPAIR

Could you help me find someone that repairs or has parts for a Sanaway vacuum cleaner? There were once distributed out of Wilson, but there is no longer an office there. Mrs. P. W.

The Kirby Company at 3002 E. Tenth Street here can order parts for almost every kind of vacuum cleaner made and will be glad to help you, the Kirby distributor Marvin Ivey said. There is no charge for an estimate, he said, and if it can't be fixed here, he will refer the problem to the Raleigh office which can do even more extensive repair work. Their parts catalogs go back about 10 years, he said, but sometimes parts for older machines also can be obtained.

Docks Dispute Parkway Growing Leaves Turning

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — The State Ports Authority and 74 protesting dock workers squared off today in an escalating labor dispute over the rules of overtime.

A spokesman for the Ports Authority said supervisory personnel were continuing to handle cargo and that the protesting workers would not be rehired unless the union presented an official letter, acknowledging that its protest was in error.

Charles McDonald, president of Local 1850 of the Dock and Warehousemen Union, said the 74 workers were at the hiring hall and ready to work if the state would honor contract provisions for overtime.

"We had heard the people were going to try to come back to work today and ask to be rehired, but we won't do it," said Gene Merritt, public relations director for the authority.

Merritt said the authority has asked U.S. District Court Judge John Larkin in New Bern to order the union members to honor the contract and return to work.

Larkin has set a hearing for 10 a.m. Friday.

Merritt said if the union members want to return to work before the judge acts, they can "provide a letter saying they were wrong...."

Fifty-five union members walked off their jobs Wednesday in protest of the firing of 19 other members.

The 19 were fired when they twice refused to work overtime.

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Conditions appear to be about right this year for an extravagant show of fall color along the Blue Ridge Parkway, according to the parkway's chief naturalist, Bob Bruce.

Leaves already have begun to turn at the higher elevations and the outlook is for the fall color to peak about mid-October.

"There have been warm sunny days that usually make a very spectacular autumn," said Bruce, who keeps an eye on the changing colors.

In some years drought or unusually cold weather prevent the leaves from reaching their usual brilliance, Bruce said, but conditions this year appear about right.

"Botanists tell us that the best situation is warm, sunny days and cool nights without too much frost, at least without a killing frost which naturally would turn the leaves brown and make them fall prematurely."

"Also a dry autumn over a protracted period of time would cause the leaves to naturally fall off. So conditions right now, we think, look pretty good in that we are getting some rain now and there have been several cold temperatures."

Last year, Buncombe County Civil Preparedness officials were forced to house tourists in the National Guard armory at Asheville when motels overflowed with tourists visiting the mountains for the changing leaves.

The 19 were fired when they twice refused to work overtime.

Constitutional Convention Is Supported By David Flaherty

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate David T. Flaherty has endorsed the idea of the state having a convention to rewrite its constitution.

In remarks prepared for an Asheville news conference this morning, Flaherty said the main goals he would see for such a convention would be giving the governor the veto power and having the superintendent of public instruction appointed by the board of education rather than elected statewide.

"I have taken this position because, frankly, I do not believe that the General Assembly will take the initiative in submitting these proposals to a vote of the people," he said.

Other constitutional changes Flaherty said he would like to see are:

—Allowing the governor to serve two four-year terms or one six-year term. In attracting industry and federal funds, North Carolina's governor is handicapped, he said, because a single four-year term is not enough.

—Expanding the duties of the lieutenant governor. The office should not be continued as a full time job unless duties are added, he said without suggesting any specific duties.

—Appointment of some Council of State offices. Flaherty did not say which offices should be appointed.

"I think that a constitutional convention would be healthy for North Carolina. It could resolve some issues that have plagued us for many years. It could give the people a new sense of involvement and participation in their government. It would be an indication that the politicians are finally willing to trust the people," Flaherty said. Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has opposed a constitutional convention, saying it would be too expensive and is not necessary.

Carolina Telephone Co. Plans 2 New Buildings

Carolina Telephone has announced plans for the construction of two buildings on Hooker Road here at a total cost of more than $623,000.

Don Collier, district commercial manager for the company, said that the new structures would be a combined service center and a plant work center.

The combined service center will provide space for the relocation of the company's business office from downtown

Greenville, offices for the district engineer, and quarters for commercial and plant service center operations.

This one-story masonry building will contain 12,544 square feet with provisions for future growth in two directions as well as foundation for a future second floor.

The Plant Department work center will provide 8,000 square feet of space in a pre-engineered sheet steel structure. It is anticipated that both buildings will be ready for occupancy in May, 1977.

Collier pointed out that the new structures were necessitated by the telephone growth that Greenville has experienced in recent years.

He said that during the past ten years the number of telephones here has increased from 13,200 to more than 34,000.

"This expansion project was engineered to allow for growth in the future," he concluded.

Let Girl Make The Choice

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old male in love with a 20-year-old girl. No problem, right? Wrong! She's blind and has been dating a young college man who is also blind.

So far, I have been just a friend to her, but the more I see of her, the more I want her, although I haven't let her know in so many words. I think she could care for me, but I would feel guilty competing with a sightless man.

I'm confused. I want to do so much for this girl, but I don't want to hurt her boyfriend.

I spoke with a friend of mine who is also a psychologist, and she said she thought this girl and her blind boyfriend had more in common than she and I had, and I should leave her to him.

My heart tells me to try to win her. I need some outside advice.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: I disagree with your friend. All is fair in love and war. If you care for her and think she cares for you, pursue her, as you would a girl who can see, and let HER make the choice.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with Allen for over a year, and we're to the point now where marriage is almost a certainty. I'm 22 and Allen is 25, and I know this is the real thing, but something bothers me. I've never met his parents, and they live less than an hour's drive from here.

I really don't know what to think. Allen has met my parents, and they think a lot of him. I'm ashamed to tell my friends and relatives that I haven't even met my future in-laws. I honestly don't know what to make of this. I'd appreciate your opinion.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Allen is either ashamed of you or ashamed of his parents. Either way, it's time you met. Insist on a meeting in the very near future, and don't take no for an answer.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 25, have three kids and am married to a man who has always cheated on me.

He tried to make it with my best friend for about a year, and when I found out I was so embarrassed I could hardly look at her.

After that, he went to the house of another one of my friends, and he started hitting on her when she turned him down.

Another time I went to my sister's for the weekend, and when I came home I found a pair of strange earrings on the nightstand beside our bed. He swore he let a friend of his use our bed.

But the last straw was when he thought I was asleep and tried to sneak a girl upstairs in our house at 2 in the morning! Abby, can you believe it—with me and the kids in the house?

He says he loves me, our sex life is fantastic, and he makes a good living. But I don't want a husband who is always running around. I've ordered him out of the house, but he refuses to go. What do you advise?

HAD IT

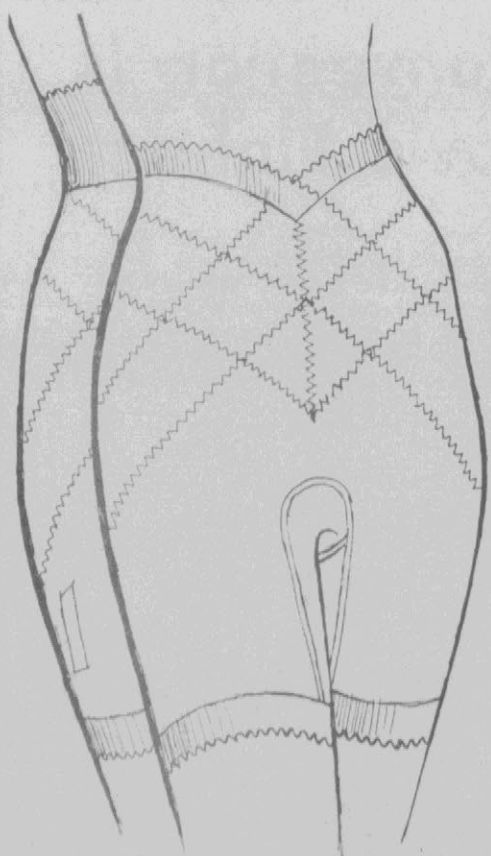

DEAR HAD: First offer him a chance to straighten out and be a partner in a decent and faithful marriage. If he refuses, kick him out and see a lawyer.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There are camps for overweight, mothers of twins, tennis losers and other minority groups. So how come no one has gotten together a camp for klutzes?

These poor people stumble around through life 52 weeks out of every year rubbing stains off their sweaters and picking toilet tissue off their heels. They can't help it. They're not your usual all-together people.

They're your screw-ups who come out of a pay toilet and realize they've left their purse on the back of the commode.

They put the wrong date on the last check in their checkbook with eight people standing behind them in the checkout line.

They lock all the doors in their car and leave the top down.

They can break a tooth while eating a marshmallow.

I'd like to see a camp where for an entire week, a klutz could do no wrong. Everything would be geared to insure him a safe, fun-filled time. If someone sent him for a left-handed tire pump, there would be one there marked "left-handed tire pump." He could use a ballpoint pen without splattering ink. He could open up a can of carbonated pop without it spraying the ceiling. There would be a special nozzle in the bathtub where, no matter what position it was in, the water wouldn't come out of the shower and drench him.

In a way I identify with klutzes. It's not that I fall a lot or anything, but I'm impetuous. A few years ago, I saw Tom Jones perform and women got so crazy some of them threw their hotel keys at him onstage. I got caught up in the frenzy and threw him my key. Unfortunately, it was the only key to our freezer.

There's something desperate about a klutz. This while idea in fact came from a reader in Trenton, N.J., who begged me to do something. She wrote, "It takes a lot of understanding and love to deal with a klutz. A person can have an IQ of 150 and still have the magnetic catch on the kitchen cabinet attract her ankle chain . . . or use her son's hair dryer and be sucked right off the floor. I'm the one with a normal size nose who, while washing her hair, got it caught in the overflow opening."

She vowed she had such respect for me, she'd do anything I suggested. She spelled my first name with an I.

GRIFTON — On Saturday afternoon, Michele Nobles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Nobles, celebrated her eighth birthday at a party.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink and white cloth and decorated with the birthday cake.

Program Director Kay Whitehurst announced that members of the Rose High School Anchor Club and the international students attending ECU have been invited to meet with the Pilot Club for the Founders Day program and covered-dish meal Oct. 25 in the fellowship hall of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Projects chairman Lenore Morton reported that the Retired Citizens Division of the Pitt County United Fund under the direction of Juanita McCarthy, Pilot Club treasurer and executive director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, has raised over half of its $3,500 goal.

Projects and activity reports continued as mention was made of the permanent-type Christmas tree donated to the Pitt County Mental Health Center by Pilots and of the large felt banner given to the Rose High Anchor Club.

Appreciation was expressed by the president and projects chairmen for the cooperation of the Pitt County residents in helping the Pilots with the community calendars and trash and treasure sales recently completed. A special committee was appointed to study possible community projects for this year's major Pilot project. The last such project was the purchase of uniforms for the Greenville Rescue Squad.

Faye Barber, of The Fixture House here, was initiated into the Pilot Club by Louise Downing, membership area leader. She was assisted in the candlelight ceremony by Mavis Butts and Nancy Warren. Shirley Moore read the Code of Ethics.

Other Pilot activities reported included the organizational meeting of the Pilot REAP Minute" of Pilot information volunteers, the Pilot sponsorship of Rose High Anchors to Freedoms Foundation to be held in Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 14-17, and donations to ADAPT and three other organizations for the handicapped.

Revenue-Sharing Funds Ahead

Congress has finally agreed upon a bill which will provide $25.5 billion in revenue sharing funds for states, municipalities and counties through 1980.

It is anticipated that the bill will be signed by President Ford who favors revenue sharing.

Revenue sharing has been in effect for five years and some $30.2 billion has been distributed to state and local governments during that time.

There are those who are not enthusiastic about the federal revenue sharing program and the bill to extend the program has been slowly making its way through Congress. Without action the program would end Dec. 31, something state and local budget makers had to take into account in drawing up this year's budgets.

Some oppose revenue sharing because they say some local governments use the funds to hold down local property taxes.

We think, however, the funds have been put to good use in Greenville, Pitt County and the area towns. We also believe the funds have been useful to the state of North Carolina in financing some projects which might have gone lacking.

Certainly the loss of revenue sharing funds would be a blow to the state, Pitt County, Greenville and other municipalities of the area. It is doubtful if property taxes could be raised enough to make up the difference and consequently some needed things would not be done.

It appears it is clear sailing for extension of revenue sharing now and we think that is a good thing.

Must Be Registered To Vote On Nov. 2

Remember to register for the Nov. 2 election, if you haven't done so.

Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt Board of Elections reports that the deadline for registering is Monday, Oct. 4 at 5 p.m. Changes of address must also be made by that time.

The office at 201 E. Second St. will be open until 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. Regular hours—8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. will be observed other days. There are also special registration locations throughout the county.

We will choose a president of the nation on Nov. 2; but to vote one has to be registered.

Plan Helpful In Drought

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Systems to bring too much water under control (floods) have turned into systems to store water for use when there is too little (drought).

Thirsty North Carolina communities may do well to look at the little-known side benefits of flood control. The people of Mount Airy and Surry County apparently know something others do not.

That section of the state in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains will have plenty of water—because they are taking steps to protect against too much water.

Elsewhere, headlines told the by-now familiar story of water shortages. Raleigh had to adopt stringent regulations on use of public water that eliminated car washing; florists had to get along without vital water for plants.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill had similar restrictions, after returning students for the fall semester further strained municipal water supplies that were already short.

Plenty of Water
But Mount Airy is assured of an adequate water supply for a long time, according to W. Richard Folsche, assistant state conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

This supply of clear, quality water is a direct benefit of a watershed project by the Soil Conservation Service and planned to protect rural and urban areas from flooding. The impetus for the project came from a series of heavy rainfalls which caused floods—with damage exceeding $110,000; and the potential was there for floods causing up to $15 million in damage.

Under federal law, local sponsors may also include in the plans for flood control, other uses of the water—such as an impoundment for municipal water supplies adequate for future industrial development, population growth, and so on.

The first of the dams was completed in 1972 and forms the municipal water reservoir. Rockingham counties, a second project has been approved and is in land acquisition so construction can proceed. The Country Line Creek Watershed Project will also provide a water supply as well as flood control.

Miss Good Bet
"Some local government may be missing a good bet by not including water supply along with the basic flood protection and other provisions," Folsche said. The watershed program began in the 1950s, and to date, 66 dams have been built.

Watershed projects are initiated by local people who see problems of flood damage, surplus water, or other needs and make application to the Soil Conservation Service. Local sponsors must acquire the property rights, then the federal agency will plan and build the project. Local sponsors must maintain the system after completion.

Local sponsors can specify a variety of purposes in addition to flood control; public recreation, and local water supply, among them.

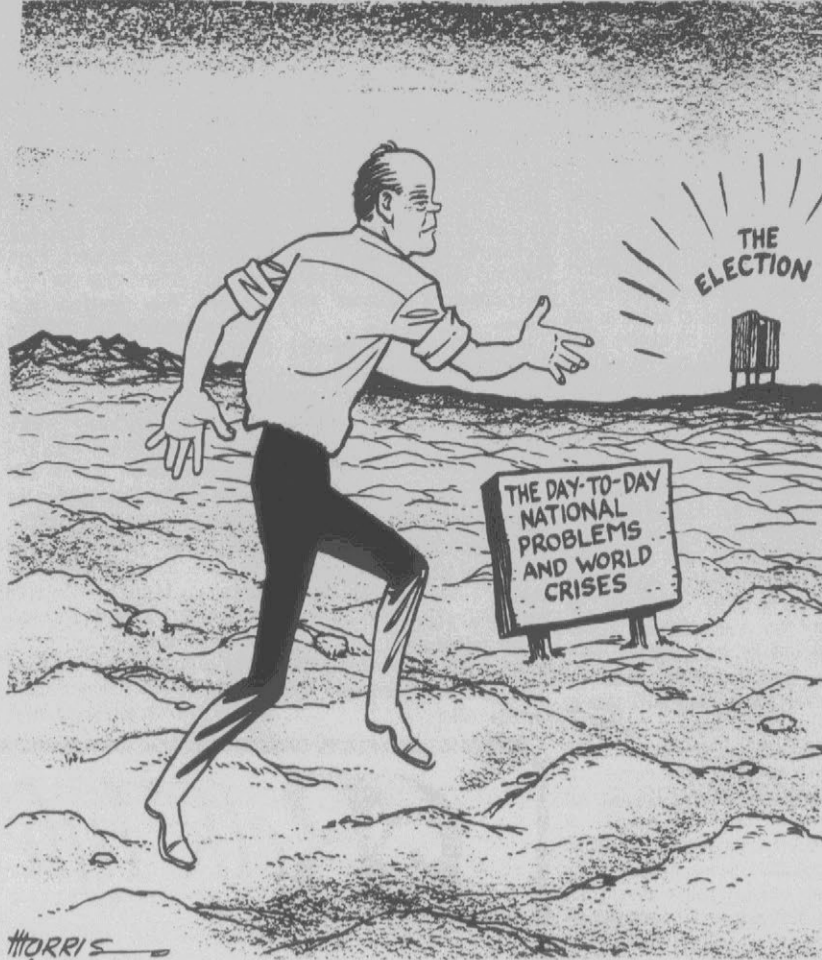

With projects already in place or being planned in every part of the state, Folsche thinks local officials should take a good look at the prospects of using flood control measures to protect against future drought.

The record shows the projects in this state are well designed and engineered, Folsche said. Not a single dam has ever washed out even during the heaviest rainfall; and even during the most severe drought, none has ever gone dry.

North Carolina has an average annual rain fall of 48 inches—that, says Folsche, amounts to more than 43 trillion gallons a year.

Flood protection from that amount of water is important; but saving the water for use can also be important as this summer has demonstrated.

The Unspoken Summary

SCRABBLE, Va. — J. Tolliver Spelvin, the well-known beer connoisseur and groundhog breeder, watched the Ford-Carter feather-pillow fight last week, but when the sound failed at 10:52 P.M. he found himself nodding... and nodding... and nodding. Some time later, he couldn't say when, he heard the President launch into his three-minute summary. To his amazement, the President was speaking directly to him.

"Listen, J. T.," said the President of the United States, "I know these facts and figures have bored you half to sleep. They've probably bored everybody else in Rappahannock County. I'm sorry we got so bogged down in figures, for the figures themselves convey little meaning. I've lived with the federal budget for more than 25 years, and I think I know it by heart; but I'll tell you the truth: Some of the things your government does in the way of taxing and spending still have me baffled.

"In these final few minutes, J.T., let me tell you what matters. It's not the figures and the percentages. It's you and Mrs. Spelvin. I hope she's still awake. Until we put these things in human terms, none of it makes much sense. "Take this business of the Tax Code. We've talked a lot about that tonight. Mr. Carter says he wouldn't raise your taxes. He wouldn't raise the taxes of anyone in Rappahannock County. He'd just soak the rich somewhere else, and he'd close a lot of loopholes. He'd kick the big corporations around, and he'd have enough revenue coming in to buy the moon and the sun and balance the budget by 1981.

"Don't let him kid you, J.T. For one thing, Mr. Carter is committed to a mandatory, comprehensive scheme of national health insurance. He would raise your Social Security taxes — and I mean he would really jack them up — in order to pay for part of the cost. He's committed to 50 or 60 other spending programs. Working with a Democratic Congress, he'd pile them on. Where's the money coming from? From soaking the rich? From closing loopholes?"

"Nonsense. When Mr. Carter complains about a Tax Code that is a 'disgrace to the human race,' he's talking about a Tax Code written over the past 40 years by his own Democratic party. Those 'loopholes' that 'serve the special interests' are his own party's contrivances. But there's this to be said: Many of these provisions make sense. They're intended to encourage the formation of capital in private industry, and I'm all for that. Mr. Carter himself took advantage of one of these provisions last year, quite lawfully and properly, to reduce his own federal tax payment. He took an investment tax credit, and I'm all for that, too.

"What we need, J.T., is a Tax Code that is as fair, as simple, and as productive as we can write into law. What we don't need is a lot of demagogic blather about a very complicated problem. We also need to keep these deficits down — deficits the Democratic Congress has cheerfully voted — if we're to keep inflation down. That's what I'm trying my best to

Women Resist Stress

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The social stress of a daily job, long thought to be responsible for the susceptibility of men to heart disease, has not had the same effect on women, says an expert in coronary medicine.

Dr. William Hazzard, a researcher at the University of Washington, told a symposium of the American Heart Association Wednesday that although more and more women are facing the pressures of the working world, they still have a "remarkable resistance to coronary disease" and now outlive men longer than ever.

The new evidence has left researchers baffled about female resistance to coronary disease.

Hazzard said another popular theory, that the female hormone estrogen helped combat heart disease, has recently been discounted.

"For a while, we were even giving estrogen to men in hopes of preventing a second heart attack. It didn't work," he said.

Aside from old age, being male is the biggest contributing factor to heart disease in Western societies, Hazzard said.

Men are four times as likely as women to suffer heart disease in middle age as women, he said. The longevity gap between the sexes — an American woman's average life span is now 76, compared with 68 for men — is ever-widening.

It had been widely believed among scientists that males in industrialized nations were subjected to more socioeconomic stress than women were, and were therefore more prone to heart ailments.

Hazzard said scientists believed that one solution might

The evacuation of children from Madrid has begun.

The government yesterday sent orphans of the civil war and children of the militiamen fighting at the front to Valencia and other cities on the Mediterranean coast.

The insurgent high command announced today their fascist armies had a strangle hold on Madrid, ringing the government capital with a virtually completed band of steel.

With the encircling movement, the insurgent junta declared the direct attack on Madrid would begin immediately. General Francisco Franco tonight was officially invested with power as chief of the Spanish state.

At least one person drowned today as rains swept the Carolinas, filling streams and damaging highways in some places.

A 30-year-old woman drowned when she drove into a stream between Clemson and Calhoun, S. C., after a bridge had been washed away.

Dr. F.H.H. Calhoun, Clemson College geologist, said rainfall on the college campus between 10 p.m. last night and 6 a.m. today amounted to 9.92 inches, a record.

A number of South Carolina roads were reported closed by the washouts.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Debate's Anxious Suspense

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The peril that Jimmy Carter avoided in the first debate and must confront twice more was suggested near the end at Philadelphia Thursday night when he called Richard M. Nixon "a strong leader" who "worked with a Democratic Congress very well."

Democrats nationwide gasped—in wonder that their nominee would suddenly praise the disgraced former President merely as a device for criticizing President Ford, in fear of what would follow. But after asserting that Congress passed 65 to 70 per cent of Nixon's bills compared to 26 per cent of Mr. Ford's, Carter subsided. Democratic relief was compounded when Friday's news reports ignored Carter's sudden fondness for the man he has assailed across the country for two years.

Carter's praise of Nixon is of a piece with far more self-damaging criticism of Lyndon B. Johnson in frightening the wits out of Democrats. Like his previous attack on FBI Director Clarence Kelley and praise of the Burger Supreme Court, these were the candidate's decisions and his alone. Indeed, Carter has adamantly vetoed dress rehearsals for the debates, creating anxious suspense among his supporters.

This guarantees that the central figure in the debates is Jimmy Carter, not Gerald Ford. The President's supporters expect neither more nor less than Mr. Ford's predictably tedious performance Thursday. But while Democrats were grateful that Carter uncocked no truly unpleasant surprises at Philadelphia, they have fingers crossed about Oct. 6 in San Francisco.

Their anxiety is intensified by Carter's method of preparation for Debate No. 1. He was mostly alone, save for talks with press secretary Jody Powell and media adviser Gerald Ralshoon—two trusted, clever lieutenants with only minimal experience on national issues.

Less intimate but more experienced Carter advisers, such as ex-Kennedys Ted Sorensen and Frank Mankiewicz, wanted to go South to grill the candidate. Absolutely not, said Carter. Only at the last minute did Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's longtime issues chief, on his own go from Atlanta to Plains and literally force the candidate into a mock question-and-answer session.

Save for the aberration in praise of Nixon, Carter avoided Playboy-style mishaps. But some practice grilling by nationally experienced interrogators might have improved Carter's performance—perhaps modifying tax reform statements that even Democratic politicians considered demagogic.

Urged by advisers to pin down blue-collar votes, Carter stressed a soak-the-rich line on tax reform. But Carter's claim that eliminating business deductions for "jet airplanes, first-class travel, the $50 martini lunch" is "very important" to tax reform is scoffed at by experts. "I wish somebody would explain to Jimmy," one liberal Democratic member of the House Ways and Means Committee told us, "that tax reform is not part of the class struggle."

Dress rehearsals might also have saved Carter from revealing unfamiliarity with some issues. The debate's second question, from ABC's Frank Reynolds, asked Carter's view on "an incomes policy; in other words, wage and price controls." Apparently thinking Reynolds meant "an incomes maintenance" program, Carter replied: "I would not favor the payment of a given fixed income to people unless they are not able to work."

Seeking to refute long-building accusations of fuzziness, Carter—preferring solitude to grilling—all but committed two thick briefing books to memory. Consequently, he provided more specific proposals than ever before, even detailing tax reform on the arcane subject of export subsidies. Yet, a private poll Friday showed, voters, perhaps undeservedly, calling Mr. Ford

Strength For Today

A CONTINUING RELIGION
Some people's religion is not effective because they use it only as a last resort. When human effort, or the doctor, or good luck, or the bank account fails them, they turn to religion.

But the time to be religious is all the time. Tough-and-go religion is absurd. This is not to say that after years of neglect a person should hesitate to pray in a time of crisis. It only means that the chances of success are vastly greater if prayer is part of a lifetime of religious observance.

Especially should we pray for power to resist temptation in those seasons of calm when we are free of temptation. If we do so, we may not even notice temptation when it crosses our pathway. Certainly we shall have more power to resist it if we meet it face to face on the highway of life.

The place to stop evil is at its source. The time to stop evil is long before we encounter it. We are wise if on sunny days we prepare for storm.

ECU has an excellent football team and a great number of outstanding supporters, both an asset to the community. Too bad there always seems to be a few jackasses at every game.

These obnoxious spectators usually attend with an immature, earthly mind that is being continually soaked in alcohol. They emit loud obscenities that plague those around them who do not care to be subjected to the gross and offensive manners of the culprit.

People who feel they should scream vulgarities in public should ask themselves which they need most—a father or a psychiatrist?

Offer Millions For Trash-Use

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before you throw those egg shells, coffee grounds and orange peels in the trash can, stop and think about this:

The House of Representatives is willing to spend $28.5 million for a national effort to find something useful that can be made from garbage like that.

The House has passed a bill that would supply the money for research aimed at finding ways to use wastes that now burden most municipal governments. The bill now needs Senate approval.

Most Americans haven't given much thought to trash, except to notice if it hasn't been picked up. And the garbage man has just been some guy who runs over your trash can twice a week.

Still, a very few people already have found a variety of highly useful, although not always esthetic, uses for their garbage.

For instance, in Richmond, Va., houses were made from recycled trash several years ago, but potential homebuyers were somewhat wary about living in something made of compressed things somebody else had thrown away. And newspapers not long ago told of a man who built a house out of his collection of beer bottles.

Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., who managed the garbage bill in the House, said one goal would be finding ways to use garbage as a source of fuel after proper processing and treatment.

Consider this: The Federal Energy Administration said

Monday the nation's dependence on foreign oil is still increasing, with imports in the first six months of the year up by 16.7 per cent.

Some energy experts say Americans produce in garbage each year a potential energy source equivalent to 290 million barrels of low sulphur fuel oil or 5 per cent of current domestic oil consumption. And they say total municipal refuse collection could generate 6 per cent of the nation's total annual electric production.

But with $28.5 million at stake there should be lots of other classy suggestions about what to do with all those empty milk cartons, gum wrappers and cigarette butts that litter the homestead.

For instance: —How about a new automobile made from gnawed chicken bones that runs on gas made from carrot tops, potato eyes and radish roots.

—Or fake eyelashes made from all that spinach you have to scrape off the kids' plates.

—Maybe cement made from coffee grounds, stale bread crumbs and fruit pits. America could have an interstate highway system that smells like a prune Danish.

—Or how about wearing the latest in double-knit suits woven from last night's spaghetti dinner.

Cars, clothes, highways and eyelashes made from garbage would be cheap, but they also would have some obvious drawbacks — a certain air about them, you might say.

"If we can keep plugging away at programs of steady recovery, creating more and more jobs in the private sector, we'll make it. We'll get people back to work in honest-to-goodness employment. Meanwhile, we'll be trying to restore the economic strength that underlies the power of the United States to stay at peace and to engage in prosperous trade around the world. You'll always have something to gripe about, J.T., but if you'll give me a good Congress, I'll give you a good presidential administration."

The President went on in this vein a while longer, just being his unpretentious self, smiling now and then. He talked straight at Mr. and Mrs. Spelvin out there in more specific than his challenger by nearly 2 to 1.

Scrabble, Va., and finally the screen faded. J.T. roused himself from his rocker, went to put the cat out, and put an arm around his wife. "If old Jerry just said what I think I heard him say," he remarked, "he's my man."

Apart from White House propagandists, however, few Republicans praised Mr. Ford's robot-like recital of facts. Although the President is reputed to be particularly expert on energy, he let Carter take the initiative there. While spewing out a rehearsed attack on Carter's record as governor of Georgia, Ford could not counterpunch extemporaneously. As the debate droned on, the President reverted to what one veteran Ford-watcher calls his "monotone shout."

But Republicans did not expect much more of the President. Democrats, in contrast, hoped for Carter to erase his stumbling performance since Labor Day and restore those golden days of spring and summer.

One prominent Democratic Senator remembered how he and several colleagues had gathered for the first Kennedy-Nixon debate 16 years ago. When the debate ended, they broke into spontaneous applause, confident that John F. Kennedy was the next President. On Thursday night when a similar group gathered with the Senator, the debate's end brought only silence—broken when somebody said: "Well, I guess we better go home." They went home carrying worries about the next two debates and the Nov. 2 election that they did not dream possible one month ago.

But many women have now entered the anxiety-ridden world of business, Hazzard said, and there is no evidence they are any more susceptible to heart disease than they ever were.

In fact, he added, when heart disease rates began to decline in the last few years, the decline among women was much more dramatic than among men.

Cite Irregularities By Fraud Probers

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Private computer companies seeking fat government contracts and federal employees who were supposed to investigate fraud in the Medicaid program allegedly were involved in wiretaps, conflicts of interest and influence peddling, according to testimony before a Senate panel.

Employees from the Medicaid antifraud unit at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare were to appear today before the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations to address the charges. After testimony Wednesday that an HEW employee had taken payments and services worth nearly $10,000 from a consulting firm and a computer company, HEW said the employee had been transferred from the antifraud unit pending a criminal investigation of "possible irregularities."

Presidents of the two firms involved said they paid thousands of dollars to Charles Cubbler, a $32,231-a-year HEW employee, writing checks to "D.C.

Chambless," which is Cubbler's wife's maiden name. When Cubbler learned that Senate investigators were checking the transactions, the two executives testified, he asked them to destroy copies of checks written to the Chambless name and to forge new expense account vouchers with his name omitted.

Richard Ney, president of Richard Ney Associates in Washington, D.C., said he paid $1,050 excluding expenses to the Chambless account in return for Cubbler's tutoring. Melly said he saw no conflict of interest in engaging Cubbler and Ney denied suggestions that he was an influence peddler.

David Vienna testified that he had found evidence that another computer company called Health Application Systems had wiretapped the phones of two of its employees last year to try to find out who was talking to General Accounting Office investigators looking into another aspect of the Medicaid program.

Francis J. Melly, president of FMS Management Services Inc. at New York City, said he paid Cubbler $4,670.28 between June 1974 and September 1975 and gave him the free use of a Rehabilitation Service enterprise car for 15 months in return for his services as a consultant.

Melly and Ney testified that, at Cubbler's suggestion, they forged expense account vouchers deleting the names of any employees in HEW's social and Rehabilitation Service enterprise at company expense. But Ney said the additional request to lose or destroy checks written out to the worker who moonlighted at Chambless name was a "fool-nights and on weekends, Melly said the association paid off Cubbler's tracks and he re-when his firm won contracts totaling nearly $1 million for development of computerized Medicaid systems in West Virginia, Maryland and Arizona.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 11 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Ford Streets involving cars driven by Marvin Earl Blackwell of 1304 Clark St. and Theodore Lindsey Jr. of 305 Line Ave.

Officers, who made no charges, estimated damage at $1,200 to the Blackwell car and $300 to the Lindsey auto. Again no charges were reported when a truck driven by Robert Paul Tullo of Maury and a car driven by Debra Darlene Wilson of Route 7, Kinston collided about 9 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Contentnea Streets.

Police estimated damage from the collision at $100 to the Tullo truck and $150 to the Wilson car.

Vanessa Ellen Blackwell of Mebane was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Ash Streets which also involved a bicycle operated by Diane Wade of 2505A East Third St.

Police who reported Miss Wade suffered minor injuries in the collision, estimated damage to the bicycle at $50. No damage resulted to the Blackwell car.

$2.5 Billion Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 2.6 million federal civilian and military employees will be getting a pay increase beginning Friday that averages 4.83 per cent and is worth about $2.5 billion.

But labor spokesmen say it's not enough and it will cost votes for President Ford, who approved the pay hike Wednesday.

Ford ignored appeals for a greater increase that was recommended by his government pay advisers. The AFL-CIO's public employe department predicted that Ford's action will "dangerously accelerate the great employe unrest" among federal workers at all levels. Department president Howard McClellan said the decision "further demonstrates the Ford administration's callous disregard for federal service employees."

Kenneth T. Lyons, president of the National Association of Government Employees, said the decision "guarantees that he'll (Ford) set a record in November for receiving the fewest federal employe votes of any incumbent president seeking reelection."

The pay hike does not affect the salaries of members of Congress, federal judges or highranking bureaucrats who earn more than $37,800 a year.

The Federal Employees Pay Council, composed of unions representing government workers, sought an 8.2 per cent across-the-board pay hike.

Investigate 3 Accidents

An estimated $1,800 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated here yesterday by police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 11 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Ford Streets involving cars driven by Marvin Earl Blackwell of 1304 Clark St. and Theodore Lindsey Jr. of 305 Line Ave.

Officers, who made no charges, estimated damage at $1,200 to the Blackwell car and $300 to the Lindsey auto.

Again no charges were reported when a truck driven by Robert Paul Tullo of Maury and a car driven by Debra Darlene Wilson of Route 7, Kinston collided about 9 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Contentnea Streets.

Police estimated damage from the collision at $100 to the Tullo truck and $150 to the Wilson car.

Police who reported Miss Wade suffered minor injuries in the collision, estimated damage to the bicycle at $50. No damage resulted to the Blackwell car.

These workshops start a three-year program, sponsored by the association, that will focus on the mental health of children. The final weekend workshop will be in the Willis Building on Reade Street here Friday and Saturday. Others have been held in Durham, Fayetteville and Charlotte during the past month.

Community leaders and professionals are participating in an examination of methods that parents, teachers and others can use to strengthen children's and youths' personality development.

Those attending the workshop include school guidance counselors, social workers, foster parents, mental health center personnel, health department staffs, professionals from youth training schools and orphanages, and community mental health volunteers, said Joe Goodpasture, executive secretary of the state mental health association. Law Enforcers Talk Problem Of Building Material Thefts

The Liaison Committee of the Greenville Home Builders met this week to discuss current problems involving the theft of building materials.

Gordon Edwards of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon attended the meeting to answer questions and offer suggestions for preventive measures, according to the association's president, Jesse Childers.

Childers said that the law enforcement representatives discussed the types of evidence they need in order to prepare a case and also ways the builders could aid them in producing proper evidence.

Some of the preventive measures discussed, the president pointed out, included no-trespassing signs, rewards, neighborhood watches, lighting, and more communication with the proper law enforcement branches.

The officers explained that marked evidence is the best tool that law enforcement personnel can have in thefts of this nature.

Childers said that following the discussion, it was generally concluded that more manpower and equipment is needed in order to do a more effective job. The committee agreed to discuss the matter with both city and county governing authorities, he added, with the hopes that some attention may be given in the problem area.

It was also pointed out that public education as to the severity of the theft problem might aid in gaining the support of the public in helping to solve the increasing problem. Public acceptance and individual participation in the exchange of stolen goods is the thief's best ally, it was asserted.

The committee was previously directed by the board of governors to establish a legal fund to aid in the prosecution of persons charged in connection with the thefts and brought to trial, Childers reported.

He said the fund will be used in current cases concerning recent thefts by hiring a special prosecutor to aid the county's district attorney in preparing and presenting the cases in Superior Court. An attorney has been retained and is now working on these cases, he explained.

Childers noted that this type of assistance by the Home Builders will continue in the future on all cases brought to trial involving materials thefts.

Congress Roundup...

authorizing $100 million for research to develop automobiles that would pollute less and burn less fuel. The House voted to override but the Senate failed to do so.

Congress also took these other actions Wednesday:

JOBLESS BENEFITS
The unemployment tax on employers would be doubled and jobless benefits would be extended to all state and local government workers, under a bill approved by the Senate.

The measure now goes to a conference with the House, which has approved a bill that is similar but which also extends unemployment compensation to farm workers and many domestics.

The Senate bill also would make it impossible for a person to draw both a retirement check and full unemployment benefits.

Another unemployment bill won final congressional action when the House approved a three-year, $4.8-billion extension of programs to help regions with high unemployment.

CIVIL RIGHTS
The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill that supporters say will help citizens enforce their civil rights. The measure would permit courts to order losing defendants to pay attorneys fees to private citizens who bring successful suits to enforce their civil rights. The measure also says courts may award attorney's fees to taxpayers who prevail in civil suits brought against them by the Internal Revenue Service.

SWAMPS AND DUNES
Final congressional action was given to a 3,662-acre expansion of the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore along Lake Michigan and to plans to create the Congaree Swamp National Monument in South Carolina. Both bills now go to President Ford.

FLOOD CONTROL
The House passed and sent to the Senate legislation to authorize $993 million worth of flood control and water resources programs. Forty-four projects in 27 states would be authorized money under the bill, subject to appropriations.

The program empowers the Army Corps of Engineers to establish wetland areas to reduce the loss of such preserves, to fight beach erosion by adding new sand, and to assess waterway improvements to determine what is needed and what already has been done.

LIVESTOCK CREDIT
The House voted to extend the Livestock Credit Act of 1974 for 21 months and sent the approval to the Senate. The act provides for government guarantees of 90 per cent of the principal and interest on private loans up to $350,000.

The loans would be made to livestock producers who have suffered economic hardship and are unable to obtain private financing needed to stay in business.

RAILROAD CLAIMS
Senate-House conferees agreed on legislation that would assure prompt payment to persons holding financial claims against the Penn Central and other financially ailing railroads in the Northeast. The bill now goes to both chambers, where passage is expected, although Transportation Secretary William Coleman says President Ford might veto it.

sons holding financial claims should be publicly identified. The bills approved by the House and Senate would require Washington lobbyists to register with congress' General Accounting Office and publicly report who they work for and how much they spend to lobby Congress and the federal agencies on what issues.

Lebanese Guerrillas, Allies, Retreat

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks forced Palestinian guerrillas out of a 20-square-mile salient east of Beirut today in a major loss for the guerrillas and their Lebanese leftist allies in Lebanon's civil war.

War into traditionally muslim territory unless guerrillas turn over their heavy arms and return to refugee camps in Lebanon. The Syrian mountain push has secured the southern border of the 800-square mile Christian enclave along the Beirut-Damascus highway and extends a Syrian buffer zone between Moslem and Christian-populated territory to within 10 miles of Beirut.

Guerrillas are now boxed in, holding less than one-fifth of the country, with their bases along the Israeli border lost and their backs to the Mediterranean. The loss of the mountain salient was a second major defeat for the guerrillas.

Undefeated, Second-Ranked Reid Ross Visits Rampants On Friday

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

A year ago this time, Rose High School's Rampants were 4-0, ranked first in the state, and on their way to the 4-A State championship.

But in the fifth game of the season, they traveled down to Fayetteville to meet Reid Ross. It was a disaster. The Rampants, uninspired, went through the motions of playing and were handed a 38-0 setback.

This year, with four games by, the Rampants, wiped out by graduation, are struggling with a 1-3 record. But Reid Ross is 4-0 and is ranked second in the state. Many observers feel Reid Ross might be the next state champ.

And Friday night in Ficklen Stadium, these two teams meet for the second time.

Rose coach Dave Bumgarner is hoping that his Rampants will climb off the floor and return the favor to Reid Ross.

It will not be easy, however. Rose has been unable to get cranked up, and its own mistakes have cost dearly.

Last seek, Rose took the opening kickoff against Jacksonville and drove the length of the field before fumbling the ball away at the Card four. They never recovered—not making another first down until late in the game—and the Cardinals took a 17-0 victory.

"We stunk up the place," Bumgarner said. "We played absolutely terrible. It was the worse we've played since we played Reid Ross last year."

The coach feels that a number of things are contributing to the Rampants' problems. "A lot of it has to do with the leadership on the part of our seniors. They're not pulling us together like they should.

"Then, being as young as we are is another problem. We just don't have the experience we need to be really successful.

"And we're not getting excited about what we're doing. We're making mental mistakes. We're putting ourselves in a position where there's no way to turn."

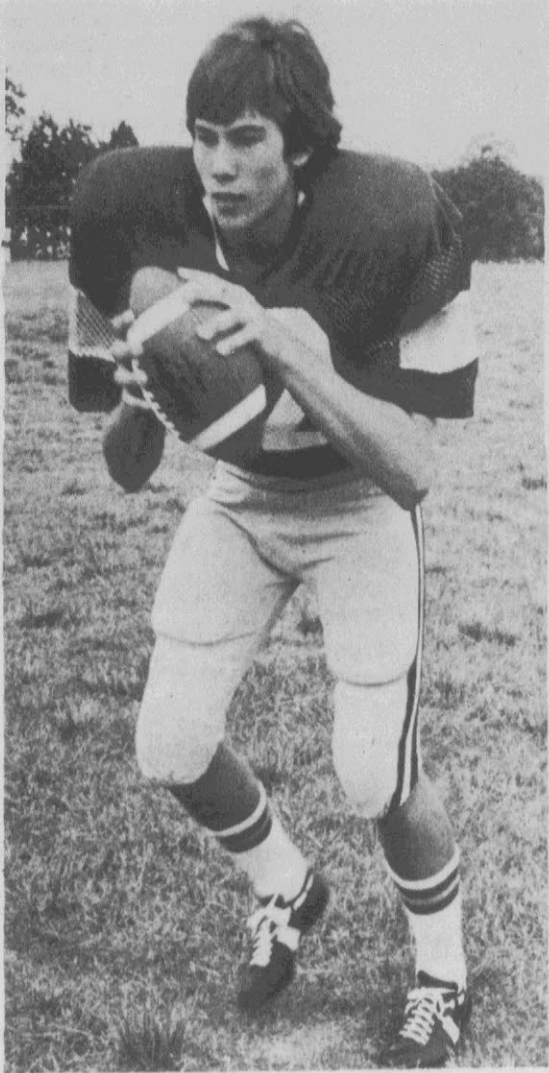

Bumgarner added that he felt that if Rose had scored on its opening possession against Jacksonville, the Rampants would have won the game. "But we never got the ball back in good field position again after that until it was too late. And when you have to play so much inside the 20, your offense is limited. You have to use quick plays."

While there were no injuries in the game, there have been some in scrimmages since then. Linebacker Bryant Morton and back Mike Brown are both likely to miss this week's contest.

"This will cause us to have a few more people going both ways," Bumgarner said he plans to make some lineup changes, and to do some more experimenting during the game. But he hasn't fully decided on what those will be.

"We'll know more after Thursday's practice." "We had a great practice Tuesday, one of the best of the year," Bumgarner said. "But we're going to have to try and have a good game on Friday, too. They have a good passing attack, and we're going to have to do our best to stop them and win it."

Bumgarner rates Reid Ross as a very aggressive team. "They call their defense the Buzzin' Bees or something like that. They stopped us cold last year, so we know that they are good.

"They have a good passer in Ken Browning and a very good running attack."

The coach said that last year's game could have an effect on this year's. "Their ranking may help us. I don't think they'll beat us 38-0 this time. I may be wrong, but I don't think so."

Bumgarner said that the Rampants weren't properly prepared for last year's game. "We didn't get the players ready. We were 4-0 and Number One. We were sitting back reading our press clippings and we had a lax attitude."

Asked if he thought Reid Ross might come into the game somewhat in the same attitude, the coach said he didn't know.

Next Thursday, the Rampants open conference play at Rocky Mount, and Bumgarner feels that the team should be ready for league competition by then. "We've had a variety of things thrown at us both offensively and defensively, so we should be ready for anything."

Bumgarner said he feels right now that Rocky Mount is the strongest team in the league, but that the league is not as strong overall as it was last year. "That's by comparing scores, so that's not a full test. I guess we'll find out later."

The Rocky Mount game was originally scheduled for next Friday, but was moved back to Thursday at the request of the Rocky Mount team. The Rocky Mount school system will be out of school on Friday, and asked Rose to make the change.

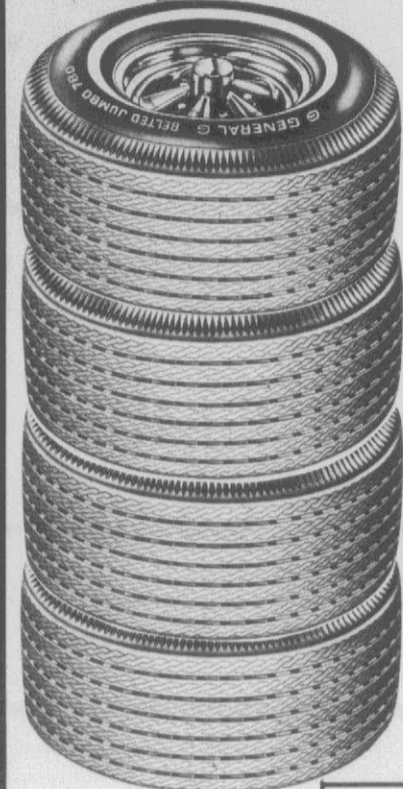

This Friday's game is the final non-conference affair for Rose. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at Ficklen Stadium.

New Tie Rule Accepted Well

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A new rule to settle high school conference football games in North Carolina that end in a tie "has created more excitement than anything we've ever had," an official says.

Charlie Adams, assistant director of the N.C. High School Athletic Association, said the rule went into effect this season "and it was long overdue."

The rule was adopted by the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations of which North Carolina is a member. Under the rule, a tie game goes into overtime with the ball being put into play at the 10-yard line.

The team that wins the toss of the coin has the option to: (1) take the ball on offense, (2) go on defense, or (3) the choice of the end of the field.

Each team has four downs. If the first fails to score, the other team takes the ball at the 10-yard line. If that team scores on a touchdown or a field goal, the game is over.

However, if neither team scores on the first series of downs, the game goes into a second overtime. When this happens, Adams said, the team which lost on the flip of the coin has the option to go on offense, defense or the choice of the end of the field. The procedure then begins again at the 10-yard line.

"Seven games that have been reported to our office used the rule to settle tie games," Adams said in a telephone interview. Four of the games were decided in the first overtime and two in the second. The other game went into four overtimes with Surry Central defeating Starmount 12-6.

Jaguars In Slim Win

TARBORO — Farmville Central split the singles matches then came back to take two of the three doubles and gain a 5-4 win over Tarboro in a girls' tennis match yesterday.

The two teams had a wild affair in the singles, with three of the six going into third sets before being decided. Several sets also went past six games for the winners.

It all boiled down to the doubles, however, where Farmville dropped the number one match, but came back to take the other two and pull out the win.

Heretofore, there was no rule to settle regular season games that ended in a tie, Adams said. In playoff games the team that had the most combined yardage rushing and passing was the winner.

"They say the tension is unbelievable when you go into overtime under the new rule," Adams said. "The officials enjoy it and the coaches and spectators love it."

The victory left the Lady Jaguars with a 5-2 record. They travel to Northeastern of Elizabeth City today.

Pirates Getting Kick Out Of Conaty's Foot

East Carolina University's football team is currently riding a nine game winning streak. Pete Conaty started it and Pete Conaty kept it going.

October 11, 1975: East Carolina is locked in a scoreless battle with The Citadel midway through the first quarter. The Pirates move the ball down to the Bulldogs eight yard line where the drive stalls. Pete Conaty is called upon to kick a 25 yard field goal and does so successfully. Both defenses tighten, and the kick stands as the margin of victory. Final score ECU 3, Citadel 0.

That first quarter boot started the nine game winning streak. Last Saturday against William and Mary, Conaty's 36 yard field goal with just over three minutes remaining lifted the Pirates to a 20-19 victory over the Indians and kept the win streak alive.

Pete Conaty says he didn't think about the "pressure" kick until it had sailed through the uprights.

"I had a chance to score, so I just kicked the ball," he said. "I try not to think about the pressure on any kick until after it's over. If you think about it too much, you'll mess up."

All this recent success is something new to Conaty, as is kicking itself.

"During my sophomore year at East Carolina, I started doing some kicking off," said Conaty. "Then I got hurt and had to lay out for awhile. During practice I started goofing around on the sidelines, kicking the ball around, just for fun. Coach Dye saw me doing that and asked me if I would try it seriously, so I did."

To this point, Conaty has become quite good at this new venture. Through the first three games of the season, he has kicked seven of seven field goals, and has been perfect on all ten of his extra point attempts. This makes him the leading scorer on the team with 31 points. He is nearing several records as well.

The single season record for most field goals is nine and is held by Ricky McLester, and was set in 1972. Conaty is two away from that record. The record for most career field goals is 14, held by Jim Woody in 1973-74. It is very possible that Conaty could reach that record, too, before the season's end.

Montefusco Swaggers As He No-Hits Braves

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
John Montefusco has had the bragging rights on the San Francisco Giants for the past two years. Think what he'll be like to live with now that he's pitched a no-hitter.

"This ain't going to shut me up for a long time," said the swaggering Montefusco after hurling a 9-0 classic over the Atlanta Braves Wednesday night. "I'm going to be talking all winter now."

annoy me that I didn't throw a perfect game," Montefusco said of only the second no-hitter ever thrown in Atlanta Stadium since the Braves came south in 1966. Phil Niekro of the Braves threw the other one on August 5, 1973 in an 8-0 victory over San Diego.

Montefusco was the National League's Rookie of the Year last season with a 15-9 record and has posted a 16-14 record so far this season.

Montefusco finished his brilliant performance in the ninth by striking out Jimmy Wynn, getting Cito Gaston on a pop fly and Royster on a soft fly to right.

Montefusco, known as "The Count" for his exceptional poise and often cocky appearance, really has a right to brag now. He came within one pitch of a perfect game — issuing a lead-off walk to Jerry Royster in the fourth inning on a 3-1 pitch.

Characteristically, that irked the colorful egoist.

Rick Monday's two-out home run in the sixth inning backed Steve Renko's five-hitter and gave Chicago its victory over Pittsburgh. Despite the loss, the Pirates clinched at least a tie for second place in the National League East when Montreal defeated New York.

Wayne Garrett hit his first career grand-slam home run to pace Montreal over New York and Tom Seaver. Steve Rogers, 7-17, went all the way for the Expos, limiting the Mets to five hits.

performances to date as the main reason for ECU's unblemished record.

"Pete has just been super," he said. "What can you say about a young man like him except that he's perfect. Without him we would not be 3-0," he continued.

"Right now, he gets my vote for the most valuable player of the year."

That makes it easy to understand why the senior from Annandale, Va., has been named player of the week for offensive specialists by his coaches for three consecutive weeks.

And, as Pat Dye would say, Pete Conaty is perfect.

Royals Down A's, Ice Tie For Title

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Kansas City Royals are home today, in the city Charles O. Finley deserted eight years ago, preparing for a pennant-clinching party.

"You could say an era is over," said Gene Tenace of the Oakland A's after Wednesday night's 4-0 Royals' victory over the Finley-owned team which has won five straight American League West titles and claimed baseball world championships in 1972-73-74.

"We're lifted up right now and I hope we stay up this weekend," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, whose team had lost six of seven games before Wednesday night. The A's had won five of six, charging within reach of the leaders.

"We haven't ended it yet, but we're comfortable now," said the Royals' John Mayberry. Herzog went to his bullpen for a starting pitcher and got a four-hit shutout from Larry Gura, 4-0, while Amos Otis drove in two runs with a homer and double in his first game since a two-day stay on the bench.

One victory over the Minnesota Twins in the final three-game series of the regular season will clinch the title. The series opens Friday night in Royals Stadium.

The Royals, with a 3½-game lead, also can uncork the champagne if the A's, moved to the West Coast from Kansas City by owner Finley in 1968, lose one of their four remaining games. Oakland faces Frank Tanana, the California Angels' 18-game winner, Friday night. In other games Wednesday, the New York Yankees downed the Boston Red Sox 9-6, the Milwaukee Brewers topped the Baltimore Orioles 6-3, the Minnesota Twins defeated the Texas Rangers 9-1, the Cleveland Indians turned back the Detroit Tigers 3-2 and the California Angels blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0.

Yanks 9, Red Sox 6
Graig Nettles drove in six runs and scored four, belting two home runs — one of them a grand slam — and two doubles. Nettles now has 32 homers, tops in the American League. Catfish Hunter, 17-15, got the victory with relief from Sparky Lyle.

Brewers 6, Orioles 3
Hank Aaron scored on a single by Dan Thomas in the sixth inning and moved into a tie with Babe Ruth for second place on the career runs scored list with 2,174. Ty Cobb is first with 2,244.

Twins 9, Rangers 1
Pete Redfern evened his record at 8-8 with a five-hitter, with Bill Campbell pitching the last two innings. That gave Campbell a team record 76 appearances this year and broke the American League record for innings pitched by a reliever. Rod Carew homered and drove in two runs for Minnesota.

Indians 3, Tigers 2
Dave LaRoche posted his 21st save of the season for the Indians to tie Sparky Lyle of the Yankees for the American League lead.

Angels 3, White Sox 0
Nolan Ryan, 16-18, allowed just two singles and struck out 11 in pitching his sixth shutout of the season and 29th of his career.

Lasorda In As Others Shaky

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer
Tom Lasorda's dream of managing the Los Angeles Dodgers has become a reality. But the dreams of at least seven current field bosses in major league baseball could turn into nightmares in the next few weeks.

On Wednesday the Dodgers tapped the 49-year-old Lasorda, who has been with the organization since 1948, to succeed the retiring Walter Alston as Los Angeles' manager. Alston announced his retirement on Monday.

There is one known vacancy — at San Francisco — and an Associated Press survey Wednesday showed that at least seven other major league managers could be out of work soon.

"I have been loyal to this organization that I love so dearly," Lasorda said. "Loyalty is a two-way street and at 9 o'clock this morning they showed me how much they love me."

The list of managers who don't know where they stand next season include Red Schoendienst in St. Louis, Charlie Fox in Montreal, John McNamara in San Diego, Jim Marshall with the Chicago Cubs, Frank Robinson in Cleveland, Norm Sherry of the California Angels and Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox.

Meanwhile, there were two developments among baseball front office personnel on Wednesday.

In St. Louis, Bing Devine signed a two-year contract to continue as executive vice president and general manager of the Cardinals. Asked about the future of Schoendienst, who is completing his 12th year as manager of the Cards, club President August Busch said a decision would be announced next week.

Carlen In Top Post

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Jim Carlen, head football coach of the University of South Carolina, has been named the school's athletic director, says university President William H. Patterson.

Carlen will remain football coach and will replace Harold "Bo" Hagan, as athletic director. Hagan had held the post for the past 18 months.

Patterson said Hagan will be given other duties, but he did not say what those duties will be.

The personnel shifts in the athletic department will not affect basketball Coach Frank McGuire, Patterson said. He added McGuire will continue to run the basketball program and will retain his title as associate athletic director.

Patterson said the change will bring the athletic department's management more into line with traditional management concepts.

The university president expressed thanks to Hagan for taking the athletic director's job during a period of management reorganization which began a year and a half ago when Paul Dietzel resigned as football coach.

Dietzel had also been athletic director and had indicated a desire to stay on in that capacity at South Carolina, but was turned down. He is now athletic director at Indiana University.

"I feel that all of the university, as well as the athletic department, will benefit by the organizational change," said Patterson.

And, in Pittsburgh Joe L. Brown announced his retirement as general manager of the Pirates after 21 seasons. Brown's successor was not chosen and there was no immediate word on the future of Brown's close friend Danny Murtaugh — who has managed the club off and on since 1957.

With the Los Angeles job filled, former major league managers and others hoping to join the elite club can shift their attention to other cities.

There's definitely a vacancy in San Francisco, where Bill Rigney announced earlier this month that he was resigning as manager after one season.

Changes in management seem most likely in Montreal, San Diego, Cleveland and with the Chicago Cubs.

Fox was named the interim manager when the Expos fired Karl Kuehl a few weeks ago and most observers figure he won't keep the job.

In San Diego, owner Ray Kroc has said the decision on McNamara's future will be left entirely to club President Buzie Bavasi, who is also acting as general manager since his son Peter moved to Toronto as general manager. Insiders say the odds are 50-50 that Bavasi is going to make a change.

The Indians are paying Robinson $200,000 as a player-manager. It's estimated that $120,000 of this is for playing and his play has been limited this year. It's questionable if a compromise can be reached on Robinson's salary as a manager.

Marshall's status with the Cubs can, at best, be called shaky.

Richards' relationship with White Sox owner Bill Veech may mean he stays as manager even though the club has not done well this year.

When Sherry took over for Dick Williams with the Angels earlier this season it was announced a decision on 1977 would be made after the season. Sherry's players like him and the club has done well since he's taken over, so he could get the job for next season.

And while Philadelphia Phillies Manager Danny Ozark prepares his team for the National League playoffs with Cincinnati, he may be wondering if rumors that he won't be rehired unless his club defeats the Reds are true.

There were plenty of rumors that Ozark, who is completing a two-year contract, was on his way out when his club's 15½-game lead slipped to three.

Pete Conaty Leading Kicker In Country

East Carolina University kicker Pete Conaty currently leads the nation in field goal kicking and is eighth in the country in scoring.

Conaty is a perfect seven-for-seven with his field goals this year, and provided the "kick" to beat William & Mary this past weekend, 20-19. He also hasn't missed on an extra point, hitting 10 straight this season.

With a total of 31 points, and a 10.3 average, he stands number eight in scoring overall. His seven field goals gives him a 2.3 average, good enough for the number one spot in that category of the NCAA statistics.

Teammate Gerald Hall currently is 13th in the nation in punt returns with a 16.6 average.

In team statistics, East Carolina is 10th in rushing offense allowing 296 yards per game. The Bucs are 10th in total defense, giving up 211.3 yards a game. They are 12th in rush defense, with a 105.7 average. The Pirates also stand sixth in punt returns with a 17.8 average, and 15th in scoring at 30.3.

This week's opponents bring in several nationally ranked players. The Citadel's Andrew Johnson is right behind Conaty in scoring with a 10.0 average and 30 points in three games, all on touchdowns (5). Quarterback Marty Crosby is 11th in passing, hitting 12.3 completions a game. He has hit 37 of 67 attempts for 431 yards.

Safety Ralph Ferguson is second in the nation in interceptions with four in three games, a 1.3 average.

Other nationally ranked Pirate foes include Andre Herrera of Southern Illinois (the next Buc foe), sixth in rushing with 130.0 yards a game; Ted Brown of State, and Mike Voight of North Carolina, 18th at 114.2 each; and Jim Krus of William & Mary, 21st at 113.7.

In scoring, Furman's Harry King is 17th at 9.0, while teammate Tommy Southard is 17th in receiving, catching 4.5 per game. Furman's David Whitehurst is 24th in total of-

Benjamin Has Personal Goal

By The Associated Press
Duke fullback Tony Benjamin dedicated his 647 yards rushing as a junior last season to a close friend who had died of a heart ailment.

This year his goal is 1,000 yards, and for himself.

The 6-3, 215-pound senior from Monessen, Pa. picked up 100 of those yards in 18 carries in last Saturday's 21-6 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over Virginia.

He had one run of 31 yards, scored a touchdown, and also was outstanding as a blocker.

Most I-formation fullbacks are considered more as blocking backs than as runners. But Benjamin is excellent both ways, combining quickness and power.

The Virginia game was the 14th consecutive one in which he carried the ball without losing a yard.

"In high school I didn't run the ball as much," he says. "Here at Duke I'm involved on every play and I'm an important part in the point of attack. I feel I am a more complete ball player now, because I block and I carry the ball more."

Benjamin says he tries to be a team player and is not disappointed that he has not had an outstanding college season before this one. As a freshman he gained 572 yards. In his sophomore year he suffered an ankle injury that hampered him all season.

Duke, which has beaten Tennessee and Virginia and lost to South Carolina, is home Saturday to second-ranked Pitt.

Wake Forest travels to top-ranked Michigan. North Carolina, undefeated in its four games and No. 14 nationally, is at Missouri, No. 12, which upset Ohio State 22-21 last week.

Rounding out the ACC games, Myrtleand, No. 7 nationally, winner of all three games, is home to Villanova, Clemson is at Tennessee, North Carolina State at Indiana, and Virginia is in a night game at Georgia Tech, which played a 24-24 tie with Clemson last week.

fense with 159.2 per game.

Johnny Evans of State is sixth in punting, 45.4, and Appalachian's Joe Parker is eighth at 45.1.

Mel Collins of Carolina is fifth in punt returns with a 1.8 average and VMI's Gary McNeal is 15th at 13.9. In kickoff returns, Al Newby of Richmond is 14th at 25.4.

Furman's Mark Gordon and VMI's Bobby McQueen are tied for fourth in interceptions with 1.0 each.

VMI's Craig Jones is second in field goals kicked with 2.0 per game.

In team statistics, Furman is 15th in total offense, 411.5 yards a game. Appalachian State is 13th in scoring at 31.7. Southern Mississippi is second in pass defense allowing 39.0 per game, while William & Mary is 11th at 67.3. State is third in net punting, with a 43.0 mark and Appalachian is fifth at 42.6.

OWL Party Files Slate

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Without the strain and expense of a primary election campaign, the Owl party — Out with Logic-On With Lunacy — apparently has qualified a slate of delegates for the Nov. 2 general election.

The standard bearer for the minor party is gubernatorial candidate Red Kelly, operator of one of Olympia's more popular watering holes and a former bass guitarist with the Harry James Band.

The party, Kelly's brain child, filed its minor party nominating petition with the secretary of state's office Tuesday. The petition was signed by 114 persons who attended the convention at Kelly's establishment primary election day. If at least 100 of the 114 signatures submitted are those of registered voters who did not vote in the primary, the candidate slate will be included on the general election ballot.

"I'm for everything and against everything else and am one of the few people who know unemployment isn't working," said Kelly as he filed the petition. He was carrying a sign that read "Better Red Than Mised." And he was handing out his bumper stickers that he says are in "just great demand."

They show the picture of an owl and bear the words "Bumper Sticker." You're supposed to set them in the back window of your car," said Kelly.

REVIVAL SERVICE

Revival services will be held at the Ayden Pentecostal Church September 30-October 3. The Rev. John White of Vanceboro will be the guest speaker. Homecoming services and a dinner will be held Sunday. The public is invited.

GREW A GIANT PUMPKIN — Mark Keck of Williamsport, Pa., proudly displays the giant pumpkin he grew in his backyard. "I brought a seed home from school and just stuck it in the ground," says Mark. The haphazardly planted seed produced a vine 40 feet in length and a pumpkin 80 inches in circumference. (AP Wirephoto)

Feels Compulsion On Christianity Lectures

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

"I would like to confront everyone in the world in person or through tapes or books and tell them about Christianity. I'd like to allow them the opportunity to know about it," Josh McDowell, an international traveling representative of the Campus Crusade for Christ, said during a visit to the ECU campus Wednesday.

McDowell spoke to classes, groups and to students at Wright Auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

"My main goals in speaking to the college campus students are to clear up misconceptions about Christianity and to give them a positive, clear, intelligent picture of Christianity," he said.

"Christianity is a definite asset to educational goals but there is a surprising amount of lack of education about it on the campuses," McDowell said. McDowell reported that his lecture attracted 3,000 students at UNC-Chapel Hill Tuesday night.

"Student response to my lectures has always been good. I think that people appreciate the fact that I don't shove Christianity at them, but instead I share personal experiences with them and I respect students."

McDowell who has lectured in more than 50 countries spent two years trying to refute Christianity, but found that he couldn't.

McDowell, the recipient of many speaking awards spoke to ECU students about prophesy and maximum sex. He explained that the prophesy is something that more people should be knowledgeable

Proclaims Fire Prevention Week

Greenville Mayor Percy Cox has proclaimed the week of October 4-8 as Fire Prevention Week in Greenville. In signing the proclamation, Cox urged each individual and family in the city to participate in the programs to help all citizens realize the true values of fire prevention.

The proclamation was issued because a recent Bureau of Census survey of household fires indicated that annually one in every 16 households has a fire which could have disastrous results and most of the fires could have been avoided and because the business community has a special responsibility to provide fire-safe products.

House Getting Electronic Gear

RALEIGH (AP) — Electronic voting equipment is being installed in the North Carolina House of Representatives.

Clyde Ball, legislative services office, said he expects installation of the equipment to be completed by mid-December in time for the 1977 General Assembly which is scheduled to convene Jan. 12.

The electronic equipment is similar to equipment installed in the Senate chamber just before the 1975 session.

Again Probe Try For SALT Move

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With strategic arms limitation negotiations stalled, the United States and the Soviet union have begun a new probe to see if they can move toward a treaty by the end of the year, according to high-level U.S. officials.

The acid test of how well the two superpowers may do, these officials say, will be Friday's meeting at the White House between Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and President Ford.

The officials are skeptical of an imminent breakthrough, but reporting late Wednesday night on Gromyko's steak-and-wine dinner with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, they credited the Soviets with genuine interest in moving ahead.

Kissinger was scheduled to give a major foreign policy address to the 31st U.N. General Assembly meeting today. It is expected to include an accounting of his African diplomacy and the administration's position on curbing terrorism. West Germany has called for the drafting of an international convention to ban the taking of hostages and to provide for the punishment of perpetrators.

U.S. officials say that technically, working day and night, it is possible to hammer out terms for a new treaty to limit offensive nuclear weapons by the end of the year. But within the Ford Administration itself there is said to be still no consensus position among the U.S. Department, Pentagon and intelligence agencies on how hard to press the Russians to curb their Backfire bombers — and how hard to resist Soviet efforts to restrict the fast-developing U.S. cruise missiles.

The Soviets demanded tight controls on the low-flying drones in their last arms proposal in March. The administration has yet to respond formally, and U.S. officials said Kissinger did not present a U.S. counteroffer in his talk with Gromyko, their first since last January.

However, these officials left open the possibility that Ford would give Gromyko a new U.S. outline to take back with him to Moscow.

Kissinger, according to U.S. officials, reminded Gromyko at their 3½-hour meeting that the Soviets have been "negative" about his latest round of African shuttle diplomacy. In a speech Tuesday to the General Assembly, the Soviet minister scorned "political gimmickry and financial handouts" by which he said national liberation movements in southern Africa were being diverted.

Stung by Soviet and Cuban advances in Angola, the Administration launched a campaign to promote black rule in Rhodesia and Namibia — and at the same time block Soviet influence there.

The tenor of the meeting was described by U.S. officials as "matter-of-fact," indicating some sharp differences of view. Gromyko was said to be especially troubled by the new drive against Palestinians in Lebanon launched by combined Syrian and Lebanese Christian forces.

In a speech Wednesday to 18 Arab foreign ministers, Kissinger said the Ford administration believes a comprehensive, Geneva-style meeting on the Arab-Israeli dispute is now preferable to step-by-step diplomacy.

Dr. Vila M. Rosenfeld, chairperson of the ECU Department of Home Economics Education, has been selected to serve on a national advisory committee for the Future Homemakers of America.

The committee of five teacher-educators is being asked to help the FHA staff evaluate the level of educators' awareness and knowledge of the nationwide organization. In addition they will assist top-level FHA officers plan for the development of needed new resources for training.

Dr. Rosenfeld will meet with other committee members in Washington, D.C. Nov. 8-9.

A recognized leader in the field of vocational education, Dr. Rosenfeld is an honorary member of the N. C. Future Homemakers of America.

Another $1 Million Day
The season average continued to climb Wednesday on the Greenville Tobacco Market as local sales again topped $1 million.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade, said that season totals now stand at 36,112,173 pounds which have sold for $41,266,700, an average of $114.27 per hundred pounds.

Wednesday's sale figures totaled 957,331 pounds, according to Bryan, and brought $1,164,869, an average of $121.68 per hundred pounds.

Top practical price paid yesterday was $1.30 per pound with some top leaf grades selling for $1.31 to $1.40 per pound.

Stabilization receipts amounted to 3.99 per cent of total sales.

Offerings consisted of leaf, smoking leaf and cutters, the official reported, with the volume of lugs, primings and non descript reflecting an increase over the previous sales day.

Bar Federal Funds For Sex-Change Operations

ATLANTA (AP) — Federal officials in Atlanta told eight southeastern states this week not to use federal funds for sex change operations.

They also have asked officials in Washington to come up with regulations on the use of public money for such surgery.

"More and more this issue is coming up," said Dr. Stephen J. Cornett, director of the Office of Rehabilitation in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "Washington is going to have to take another look at it. It's something they're going to have to address nationally."

The dispute over two sex change operations authorized by Georgia's Department of Human Resources prompted the letters, Cornett said.

"We don't really have any regulations now," he said.

"What has happened is that Washington has reacted to individual cases with policy statements."

The letters, sent out Tuesday, restate policy determined after a sex change case in Connecticut in 1973.

"Federal funds should not be used to provide surgery to accomplish the alteration of sex since surgical intervention has not reached the status of professionally accepted or recognized modality of treatment routinely utilized for those individuals," the letter said.

Cornett said Georgia did not know about the case, and that his office learned about it only last year when Tennessee requested authorization to approve a sex change.

That request was denied.

The two Georgia cases were approved by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, in effort to provide two transsexual mental stability to hold jobs.

About 30 other requests have been denied, state officials said.

After investigating the case, a state official said both are now employed, one as a waitress, the other as a clerk.

Federal funds paid 80 percent of the $13,000 cost of the two operations, the state paid 20 percent. The two individuals paid more than $1,000 of their own money as part of the cost of the surgery, which was performed in Jacksonville, Fla., state officials said.

A suit has been filed by another transsexual, seeking payment for a sex change operation.

Draws Fine For Drunken Driving

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Jack Lemmon has been fined $315 and placed on two years' probation after pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

Lemmon's attorney, David Lease, entered the plea Wednesday at a hearing with the actor absent. Malibu Municipal Judge John J. Merrick also gave Lemmon a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

The 51-year-old Academy Award winner was arrested July 1 while driving on the Pacific Coast Highway in the Malibu area.

Had Enough Cat Guests

SALTER PATH, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Rachel Hyatt says she has nothing against cats, but enough of a thing is enough.

It seems that folks who pass Mrs. Hyatt's trailer on their way back from the beach have a powerful urge to unload their cats on her.

Mrs. Hyatt has lost track of just how many cats have taken up residence on her front porch, but she says she's had 30 at one time. She has an even dozen now, and two of them are pregnant.

The first feline guest arrived two summers ago in an advanced state of pregnancy. She immediately gave birth to four kittens. This seemed to inspire other passersby who began to deposit unwanted cats with distressing regularity.

"They drive up real slow, turn around and then toss 'em out," Mrs. Hyatt said. "Then they take off."

One fellow in a Cadillac sneaked in, dumped his cat and then backed into Mrs. Hyatt's trailer while making his getaway.

Mrs. Hyatt figures her problem is that she's too soft-hearted. "I don't want them, but I don't have the heart to turn them away," she said.

So she feeds them table scraps and has even taken two sick cats to a veterinarian. However, her guests do not dine on cat food.

"I've got enough problems feeding my kids," she said.

In two years, Mrs. Hyatt has caught only two cat-droppers. When questioned why they left their unwanted cats at Mrs. Hyatt's, "they both said they saw all the cats lying around and figured one more wouldn't make any difference."

Take Possession Of Queen's Gift

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne and her husband Capt. Mark Phillips aren't expected to move to Gatcombe Park, a gift from her mother Queen Elizabeth, before the new year.

The couple formally took possession of the 730-acre estate and manor house on Wednesday. It has been reported that the queen bought the estate for $680,000.

"The house still needs an awful lot doing to it," said a spokesman for Buckingham Palace.

The latter part of the day is the best time to organize and arrange your activities so that you produce extremely good results by what you then do.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid an irate partner and plan time for keeping any promises you have made to those in authority. Some new project adds appreciably to your present income. Be careful of strangers.

In his Bols Bridge Tip, World Olympiad champion Gabriel Chagas of Brazil discussed the intra-finesse—the finesse within a suit. A classic example came up in the Spingold Team Championship, premier event of the recent Summer North American Championships held in Salt Lake City.

North-South bid aggressively to reach a heart slam that was not a favorite because of the inadequacy of the trump suit. It seems that North might have made a more thoughtful rebid of four diamonds at his third turn rather than support hearts a second time. His actual bid led South to believe that he would find something better than four hearts to the jack in dummy.

West led a spade against the heart slam, and the declarer, Marv Dauer of Los Angeles, possessed the necessary technique to bring home his optimistic contract. Since it was likely he needed a ruff in dummy as an entry for a trump play towards his hand, he realized that trumps would have to divide 3-2 to give him any chance at all. Even then, holding his trump losers to one was not an easy task.

Declarer won the opening spade lead in his hand, and led a heart to the eight. West won the queen and returned a spade, taken by declarer's remaining honor. There were two ways to limit his trump losers to one—either to find East with K-Q bare in hearts, or with K-Q-x. Since West appeared to have long spades, and therefore fewer hearts, declarer crossed to dummy with a spade ruff and led the jack of hearts. This smothered West's ten and the defenders' potential second trump trick disappeared. When East played low on the jack and it held the trick, declarer took care to cash dummy's high diamonds for three club discards, and the ambitious slam rolled home.

Pupils' Voucher System Test Is Big Failure

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — These are bad days at Alum Rock.

Classes are starting in the city's poorest school district, and the federal government — in residence for four years to test the controversial concept of vouchers in education — is pulling out its millions of dollars and going home.

“Basically dead would be a good way to characterize voucher,” says David Mandel, program officer for the National Institute of Education. The institute funded the program at the Alum Rock Union School District, serving 15,000 mostly Mexican-American students. The experiment here, the only attempt by the federal government to test the voucher idea, was heralded at first as a dramatic new tactic to save deteriorating public education.

In a voucher system, the government pays the parents instead of the schools. Parents, given a voucher for the amount of money it takes to educate a child, can spend it in any school they choose. The idea is that schools will improve by trying to attract more voucher dollars.

The demise of the nearly $8-million program in Alum Rock has left teachers, administrators, parents and funders with mixed feelings about the effort to bring free market economics to public education.

What it brought instead, nearly everyone agrees, were some innovations in teaching, some new ways to run a school district, a little more parent interest in the schools, and a lot of paperwork.

As envisioned by economist Milton Friedman and others, a voucher program would allow parents to spend their educational IOUs in a public school, a private school or a parochial school — each of them charging “tuition” equaling the voucher.

Under a national voucher program, state and municipal taxes, now the principal sources of revenue for America's public schools, would be used to redeem vouchers at public, private and parochial schools. This tax money now goes directly to public school districts.

Elliot Levinson, a Rand Corp. researcher studying the experiment, said the idea was to “give the power to the consumers and let the great holy free market loose and it will get rid of the incompetents in the public schools.” But in Alum Rock, teachers weren't excited about competing with private and parochial schools. The district and federal officials agreed instead to offer parents alternatives within the public schools themselves.

As many as 54 “mini-schools” sprang up offering different styles of teaching. They were formed by groups of four or five teachers who wanted to work together. Three or four mini-schools were located in each of the 14 school buildings where the experiment was conducted. (The district's 14 other schools weren't included in the program.) Each mini-school had a separate budget determined by the number of children enrolled with vouchers.

Federal sponsors of the experiment wanted no limits on mini-school enrollment, so that popular ones would grow and unpopular ones would die. But teachers insisted on enrollment limits so that all the mini-schools could survive. In addition, there was a policy of “squatters' rights,” a guarantee no child would be bumped from his neighborhood school.

There were mini-schools that stressed individual learning, basic skills, creative arts and cultural diversity, to name a few.

“It wasn't much of a real test of a voucher system,” admitted Richard Reyes, in charge of evaluating the project for the district. “It was a very sophisticated example of multiple-option education.”

Many of these schools remain in a system the district now calls alternative education. Parents still have the option to send their children to any mini-school in the district.

During the voucher experiment, an effort was made to make the parents aware of the choices available. The district sent out elaborate brochures to explain differences among mini-schools.

By the fourth year of the program, last year, Reyes said, nearly 30 per cent of the children in the experiment were being bused outside their neighborhoods to take advantage of the different mini-schools. But few parents were taking an active role in running the schools.

Reyes said the mini-schools caused some friction among teachers but were largely welcomed for the freedom they gave them. They learned, he said, that the modified voucher system did not increase segregation in the schools, as some had feared.

Daniel Weiler, head of the Rand Corp. team under federal contract to report on the experiment, said vouchers were considered in “feasibility studies” in Seattle, San Francisco, and Rochester and New Rochelle, N.Y., as well as in Alum Rock. But there was opposition from teachers' unions and from those who saw vouchers as a way to slip money to parochial schools, bypassing church-state separation.

Only Alum Rock agreed to consider the proposal further. Its parents pay one of the highest tax rates in the state, but their tax base is low and it is one of the state's poorest districts.

“It was assumed there would be two driving forces that run the system,” said Rand's Levinson. “One is consumer choice. And consumers were not all that interested. Alum Rock parents are conservative, poor. They believe in the authority of the schools.”

“And the other assumption was that teachers were going to compete,” he said. But teachers liked working in groups of four and five in the mini-schools and resisted competition to bring them more students and larger classes.

Alum Rock is ending the program with only $250,000 in federal funds to pay for evaluations and paperwork.

“The new program (of alternative education) will allow for different learning environments, and parents still will have some choices,” said Gloria Loventhal, a grade school teacher.

Many decisions still will be made at individual schools, but not as many as when each voucher mini-school was functioning as an independent unit, Reyes said.

The budgeting system this year still shows traces of the voucher, where the “dollar follows the child,” or the amount of money each school gets is based on the number of pupils enrolled.

Carmella Woll, who sent her two daughters outside her neighborhood to take advantage of programs in other schools, said she's sorry to see the voucher didn't live up to its promise.

She said she wanted a less structured school for her daughters, and was involved in planning for “Gro-Kids,” a private school that tried to enter the program.

What probably will be missed most about the voucher this year is the money. Besides funds for planning and administration, the federal government gave the district $855 per voucher pupil in kindergarten through sixth grade and $1,071 for each middle school pupil.

The experiment also provided “compensatory vouchers” of $275 for pupils classed as “educationally disadvantaged.”

Cite Difference In Birth Rates

ATLANTA (AP) — The decline in the percentage of white children in many metropolitan school systems and the rising percentage of black pupils may be due to the difference in birth rates between whites and blacks, says a report issued by the Southern Regional Council.

The report, released today, contends that the change may be due to migration of black women of child-bearing age into the cities and young white women out to suburban areas, rather than “white flight.”

Other studies included in the report indicate school integration is proceeding well in the South with little disruption, and that when a school is desegregated black pupils' achievement often rises while white pupils' achievement generally continues at previous rates.

The report, entitled “Three Myths: An Exposure of Popular Misconceptions About School Desegregation,” says some whites are leaving central city areas but that the rate of departure has slowed in many cities.

“To infer ‘white flight’ from declining proportions of white public school students can grossly overstate the volume of this factor...” says a study by David Sly and Louis Pol of Florida State University which was included in the report.

Such a conclusion, says the study, “assumes that all whites moved to escape school desegregation” and “fails to take account of the substantial birth rate differential between whites and blacks in all cities.”

Sly and Pol say the median age of white women in cities has increased in the past decade, while the median age of black women has decreased.

The Southern Regional Council describes itself as a “non-partisan, privately funded research and action organization...working to eliminate institutional racism and poverty by making the region's own institutions more accountable.”

The 22 cities covered the Sly and Pol study are: New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Houston, Baltimore, Dallas, Cleveland, Washington, Memphis, Milwaukee, San Diego, Columbus, Tampa, St. Louis, New Orleans, Indianapolis, Boston, Atlanta, Denver and San Francisco.

A study by Meyer Weinberg, editor of “Integrateducation,” says that when a school is desegregated, only in rare cases does the achievement of black children fail. And “it is virtually unheard of for white children's achievement to decline under desegregation.”
