Hurricane Liza Death Toll May Exceed 1,000

By KARL HERSH LA PAZ, Mexico (UPI) — Rescuers dug bodies from beneath tons of mud and picked floating corpses from the shark-infested waters of the Pacific Saturday in the aftermath of Hurricane Liza. Officials said the death toll may pass 1,000, most of the victims children.

A military air and sea lift poured emergency food and medical supplies into this southern Baja California capital, hit by the worst disaster in its history, according to one Red Cross worker.

Casualty reports from both state officials and the Red Cross said at least 650 bodies had been counted and that "hundreds of persons" were still missing and feared dead. "We believe the number of dead could reach 1,000," said state government spokesman Rogelio Felix. "The situation is very serious and people are wandering through hospitals and morgues looking for relatives."

Red Cross workers estimated that as many as 75 per cent of the dead could be children under 12 years of age.

As the number of dead grew, residents began burning many corpses and others were interred in hastily built mass graves because of fears of an epidemic in the tropical heat. Liza's 130-mile-per-hour winds and driving rains ravaged the entire area around La Paz as the hurricane whirled across the southernmost tip of Baja California late Thursday.

A 30-foot dam on the Cajoncito River was breached and a 200-yard gap was punched through a protective sea wall, sending cascades of water rolling over scores of neighboring hamlets.

Besides the fury of the storm itself, Liza dumped about 5 1/2 inches of rain on the area in the space of only four hours, officials said.

Relief workers set up tent cities to house an estimate 40,000 persons believed left homeless by the storm. Emergency facilities were set up to supply the capital with safe drinking water.

Corpses were found everywhere in the wake of Liza's fury, according to Guillermo Arranvitez, administrator of the Red Cross.

Some were floating in the ocean. Others were found in the ruins of collapsed houses and in automobiles, buried under layers of mud.

The bodies of some children were found hanging from wires and fences after the flood waters receded. One woman was seen wandering through the debris looking for all of her 10 children.

The body of another woman was found trying to embrace her three children, who also were dead.

"People were lying all over the streets here, dead," said Eliseo Zamora, a spokesman for the La Paz police department.

"Two entire residential districts disappeared," Arranvitez said. "We don't know if the residents managed to flee in time."

FBI Director Weds Former Nun

MAGGIE VALLEY, N.C. (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley, 64, a widower, slipped away Saturday and married a former nun whose parents live near this mountain resort.

News of the unannounced ceremony at St. Margaret's Roman Catholic Church came from an FBI agent who hand-delivered a terse news release to The Asheville Citizen shortly before the 1:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is Miss Shirley Ann Dyckes, an elementary school teacher in Washington, D.C. who spent 15 years as a Sister of the Holy Cross. Kelley's first wife died last November.

Favors Black Majority Rule

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Saturday that he is in favor of black majority rule in South Africa but that it would be more complex than bringing about a settlement in neighboring Rhodesia.

He said he had no plan for implementing black rule in South Africa and said "the first major step must be taken by the government of South Africa."

"I'm in favor of the principle of majority rule in South Africa, but the situation is infinitely more complicated than in Rhodesia. I have no blueprint," he told the National Conference of Editorial Writers.

Envoys Meet On Rhodesia

American and British envoys met Saturday in Dar Es Salaam to discuss Rhodesia with Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere and planned to fly to Salisbury for talks with white officials there. The visit to Salisbury will be the first by a U.S. diplomat since Washington shut down its Rhodesian consulate in 1969.

A government announcement in London said William Schaufele, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, and Ted Rowlands, his British counterpart, will fly to Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, after concluding talks with Nyerere today in Tanzania.

County Fair Opens Monday

The Pitt County Fair sponsored by the Pitt County American Legion will be held October 4-9. The fair will include rides, games, exhibits and concessions.

"We're expecting really great things from the fair this year," said Sam C. Winchester, fair manager. "We are expecting a larger and better carnival show."

Admission for adults will be $1, school children will be admitted to the fair Monday through Friday at half price, 50 cents, and children under 12 will be admitted for 50 cents.

Wednesday, October 6 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. will be Senior Citizen's Day. All senior citizens will be admitted free. A special program will be provided.

Thursday, October 7 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. is Pre-school day. Pre-schoolers will be admitted free and special rides and demonstrations will be provided.

Friday, October 8 from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. will be Handicapped Children's Day and handicapped children will be admitted free.

Agricultural Exhibits Fairgoers to the Pitt County Fair October 4-9 will find fun mingled with education and information in the exhibit hall and Livestock Show Barn, according to Edwin Yancey, County Extension Chairman.

The booths and displays will be expressing the theme "A Dynamic Challenge—A Third Century Experience"

Extension Homemakers Clubs of Pitt County will show "Products of the Space Age"; "How To Adapt To The Metric System"; "How To Deal With Teenage Alcoholism"; "The Benefits of Lap Reading"; "Uses of Solar Energy"; "Antiques on Parade" and (Continued on page A-9)

Report Will Clear Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor will publicly clear President Ford next week and close his investigation of campaign financing in Ford's home county without any prosecutions, sources familiar with the probe say.

The special prosecutor's investigation has cast a cloud over the Ford campaign for two weeks since word of it first appeared in news stories. Carter and his running mate Walter Mondale had taken public notice of the probe, and Carter challenged Ford to answer reporters' questions about it this week.

On Friday night, a Justice Department source said Ruff had found no basis for criminal charges against Ford or anyone else and will say so in a public report early next week.

Wants Stand Against Syrian Intervention

By MICHAEL ROSS

BEIRUT (UPI) — Syrian troops massed for another attack in the south Saturday and leftist parties called on President Elias Sarkis to "muster enough courage" to take a stand against Syria's military intervention.

In Beirut, heavy fighting raged in the downtown port area and the southern suburbs. But the central mountains front was reported quiet after Christian forces called an apparent halt to their advance on Aley, the Moslem stronghold nine miles southeast of the capital on the Beirut Damascus highway.

According to Christian sources, the rightists went along with the strategy of Syrian commanders who favored making the south the next target following their capture of Palestinian positions north of the Damascus highway earlier in the week.

Reports from the area say Syria is massing its troops at Jezzine, 31 miles southeast of Beirut, for an expected push through the south, perhaps to Biblical Sidon, 14 miles west of Jezzine on the Mediterranean coast.

A Palestinian-leftist commune said underground shelters were being prepared for the civilians of Sidon.

Moslem leftist leader Ibrahim Koleilat called on Sarkis to "muster enough courage to take a clear-cut stand on the latest Syrian actions and show us that he is not just under the Syrian thumb."

Koleilat said his Mourabitoun militia could only support Sarkis if he "shows himself to be the president of all Lebanese and works for the removal of Syrians troops from Lebanon." The political council of the National Movement, the overall grouping of leftist parties, also called on Sarkis to clarify a remark he made in his Sept. 23 inaugural address that Syria's 20,000 occupation troops were under his authority.

Maj. Faheem Hajj, one of the commanders of the Christian faction of the Lebanese army that took part in the mountain fighting with the Syrians, said this week Sarkis knew and approved of the Syrian Attack in advance.

A National Movement spokesman said, "Hajj's allegations pose a very grave question which requires a public answer from the president."

First Place Award For Daily Reflector Color Ad

A first place award in 1976 national color awards competition has been won by The Daily Reflector for the third time.

The Daily Reflector was notified that its entry in the 20th annual Newspaper Color Awards National competition, co-sponsored this year by Editor & Publisher magazine and the Newspaper Advertising Sales Association, was judged as the best full color reproduction for offset papers.

This year's entry, as in the two previous award-winning instances, involved the reproduction of a full color page advertisement, created by Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne of New York for the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Greenville.

The Daily Reflector co-

publisher John S. Whichard said that the Pepsi advertisement appeared in the paper's May 28 edition.

Editor & Publisher, weekly magazine of the newspaper industry, announced that the Reflector reproduction was one of 12 newspaper color advertisements and nine editorial color subjects selected from a field of some 3,000 entries to receive a color award.

"I am extremely proud that The Daily Reflector has again been recognized for producing the nation's best full color advertisement," Whichard commented. "This is the third time since 1970 that we have received this prestigious award and I congratulate our staff for its expertise in the publishing industry."

He added, "I also offer my congratulations to Pepsi-Cola and its advertising agency, BBDO, for the design and preparation of this award-winning advertisement."

Currently in its seventh year of offset production, The Daily Reflector published its first prize-winning entry in 1970 and was again cited in 1971 for its offset color reproduction.

Judging for this year's competition, honoring "excellence in reproduction and creativity in newspaper color," took place in New York.

The Daily Reflector entry and the 20 other color subjects selected by the judging panel will be exhibited at a series of showings in major advertising centers, E&P reported, in conjunction with awards presentations.

Editor's Note: The week of October 3-10 has been designated locally, statewide and nationally as "Employ The Handicapped Week." A story on local observances and services for handicapped persons is carried on Page D-1 of today's paper.

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Sunday Editor For 22-year-old ECU junior, Willie Bell, IV, the ordinary routines involved in living — simple daily tasks like getting dressed and going to class — are challenges to be faced with determination and will power.

That's because Bell, born in Washington (N.C.) on November 2, 1953, came into the world with his body deformed by the crippling birth defects of cerebral palsy. The cruel physical fate that he must live with, however, is compensated by a keen intelligence; an intelligence, he candidly affirms, he has and knows he must continue to train to achieve his goals in life.

"The key to living is motivation," Bell expressed his personal attitudes to life. "Regardless of a person's physical, or even mental handicap or disability, life is only as good as you make it yourself. If I let myself quit being motivated every time I become discouraged, I'd have given up long ago."

Public Attitudes There's another human factor Bell has become increasingly concerned about — the general apathy of many non-handicapped people in their attitudes and reactions in dealing with handicapped people.

"The greatest desire I have is to get the point across to everyone that no matter what our degree of being handicapped may be, we are people, and as such, we deserve to be treated like people," Bell said.

"There's been many times I've been cursed, messed over and not treated fair," he said. "One of my goals in what I plan to do with my life is to help alleviate such things from happening to other handicapped people."

Bell readily admits there's two sides to the coin, that many non-handicapped people have a deep, active interest in assuring that the handicapped have their rights as people. "Of course," he added, "by law we have these rights, but you cannot legislate attitudes on the boundaries of acceptance of others.

"Until society in general is willing to get rid of pre-conditioned boundaries, of certain attitudes, we're going to have handicapped people get hurt. In my lifetime I hope to do my part to remove these boundaries. Society tends to place us in a box. That's not where we want to be."

Helping Hand One instance of people showing concern in a practical way has been a recent drive spearheaded by Dave Boyd. Half a dozen local firms helped Boyd in raising funds to provide a three-wheel motorized bike to make it possible for Bell to get around with more ease.

"Willie Bell deserves every break he can get," Boyd said.

"He does a lot for people. He's a real inspiration to me and to others fortunate enough to really know him."

Boyd noted that Bell, like many handicapped people, has little or no income except (Continued on page A-8)

Seven Injured In Wrecks

Seven persons were injured Friday and Saturday in city traffic accidents, according to Greenville Police Dept. reports. Five were taken to Pitt Memorial and $12,705 resulted in damages from the 11 collisions.

Cars driven by Eleanor Brown Cherry, 201 Lee St., and Alvie Hayes Gilliam, 2614 S. Wright Rd., collided early Friday evening at Cedar Lane and S. Wright Rd., injuring Gilliam and two passengers in his car, Mrs. Gilliam and Joseph Gilliam, both of 2614 S. Wright Rd. All three were taken to the hospital by Greenville Rescue Squad personnel. Damages were $600 to the Cherry auto and $500 to the Gilliam vehicle. The investigation is continuing.

Sandra Jean Hough, Carriage House Apt. 76, was transported to Pitt Memorial after the car she was driving collided Friday night with a car operated by Jackson Theofice Baker, Rt. 3, Greenville, at Greenville Blvd. and Elm St. Damages were $3,000 to the Hough vehicle and $400 to the Baker auto.

Meysar Nemri Nazal, GreeneWay Apt. 74, was taken to the hospital by the Rescue Squad after the car he was driving ran off the right side of the road Friday afternoon on Memorial Drive north of Trade St. The car struck a city utility pole, with $200 damage to the pole and $500 to the car.

Greenville Blvd. and Tenth St. was the site of a four-car accident Friday morning at 11:15, involving a truck driven by Edison Roosevelt McDowell of Raleigh; cars driven by Pamela Jane Solomon of Winston-Salem and Charles Randall Cherry of Mooresville; and a parked car owned by John Alex Speight, Rt. 7, Greenville. McDowell and Miss Solomon were reportedly injured but were not treated at Pitt Memorial. Damages were $1,000 to the McDowell vehicle, $3,000 to the Solomon car and $300 to the Cherry auto. Damages to the Speight auto was not known. A total of $300 in damages was sustained by Speight's Barbecue Grill and a tree near it. McDowell was charged with a stoplight violation.

A rear-end mishap occurred early Saturday morning at E. Fifth and Holly streets, doing $800 damage to the car driven by Deborah Anne Smith, Rt. 7, Greenville, and $300 to the auto driven by Joseph Caldwell Surratt III of Goldsboro. Surratt was cited for a safe movement violation. Miss Smith was charged with an equipment violation.

The Eastbrook Apts. parking lot was the scene of a three-car accident early Saturday morning with a car driven by Martha Rebecca Buffaloe of Rocky Mount and two parked autos owned by Sheryl Lee Pinkston, River Bluff Apt. #10, and Mark Vanness Mann, Rt. 2, Whitakers. Damages were $135 to the Buffaloe car, $175 to the Pinkston vehicle and $125 to the Mann car.

Cars driven by John Lee Green, Rt. 3, Greenville, and Elsie Lee Bandy, Rt. 1, Macclesfield, collided Friday afternoon on N. Greene St., 300 feet south of Moore St., doing $100 damage to the Green car and $250 to the Bandy auto.

An accident at Howell and Garland streets Saturday afternoon did $50 damage to a vehicle driven by Mary Tyson Boyd; 600-B Howell St., and $300 to a parked car owned by Alexander Baker, 612 Howell St.

Cars driven by Cynthia Harmon Morris, Rt. 1, Smithfield, and Margaret Witherington Stokes, Rt. 2, Grifton, collided late Friday afternoon on S. Memorial Dr., north of Trade St., doing $200 damage to the Morris auto and $75 to the Stokes vehicle.

The intersection of Dickinson Ave. and Grande Ave. was the site of a mishap Friday morning which resulted in $200 damage to the auto operated by Luvenia Hopkins Hardy, Rt. 1, Grimesland, and $50 to the car operated by Lucille Evans Carawan, 208 Fairlane Rd.

Jessica Lee Potter of Goldsboro was charged with failure to yield right-of-way at a red light after the car she was driving collided with that driven by Raymond Luther Martin Jr., 115 E. Jackson St. The collision Saturday afternoon at Cotanche St. and Reade Circle did $150 damage to the Martin vehicle and $50 to the Potter car.

Hearing Aids Needed

A plea is being made to local residents for the donation of hearing aids that may no longer be in active use.

Mrs. Charlotte Phelps of the Pitt County Department of Social Services, said "there is a pressing need for lots of hearing aids to be used in the local loan bank.

"We have been able to provide a number of needy people with aids that have already been donated," she said, "but there's still a large number of people on our waiting list who need the hearing aids."

In the Department of Social Service's program to assist local people who have hearing problems, the department is attempting to stock a sufficient number of hearing aids to provide each needy person an aid from the loan bank. The program also involves working with the speech and hearing clinic.

"Donations of hearing aids are deductible for income tax purposes," Ms. Phelps commented. "We send in a form to a company which in turn establishes a deduction value for the donated aid. This information is furnished to the donor for income tax deduction."

Persons with a hearing aid of any type of donate, old or not so old, can take the aid to the Department of Social Services on Johnson Street (the old Hospital Building). Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Two Charged

Carl Henry Jackson, 40, of 1400 E. Tenth St., Fornes Rd., was charged Saturday morning with trespassing and damage to personal property, according to the Greenville Police Dept. He was arrested on Perkins St. for alleged offenses Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 at 507 Perkins St.

Jackson was released from Pitt County Jail on a total of $300 bond. The trial is set for Oct. 18 in District Court.

Charges of resisting arrest and public drunkenness were lodged Friday night at Evans St. Mall against Edward Dennis Rose, 24, of Lot 92 Shady Knoll Trailer Park. Rose was placed in Pitt County Jail under a total of $300 bond. The case is set for Oct. 18 in District Court.

Two Charged

Two larcenies were reported to Greenville policemen this weekend involving a total of $319.95 worth of stolen goods.

Barbara Lewis, 1302 Allen St., told police that someone stole a Citizens Band radio valued at $169.95 from her car while it was parked in front of her home between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. Friday.

Eight fishing rods valued at a total of $150 were taken from the boat of Billy Hedgepeth of Kinston while it and his car were parked in front of Sutton's Service Center, Dickinson Ave., between 4:45 and 5:20 Saturday morning.

Two Dead In Lenoir Wreck

The Highway Patrol says five persons have been killed so far in weekend traffic accidents in North Carolina.

Robert Harold McCoy, 45, of Rt. 1, Lagrange, and Willie Kirkman, 70, of Rt. 2, Lagrange, were killed when their cars collided on N.C. 903 nine miles north of Lagrange in Lenoir County.

Germans Die In Crash

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn. (AP) — Two German Air Force officers were killed Friday when the U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane they were flying crashed into Holston Mountain near here, authorities said Saturday.

Air Force Sgt. Dominick Cardonita, public information officer at Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina, said the men were assigned to Shaw's 33rd Tactical Reconnaissance Training Squadron.

Thank You

Perhaps you sang a lovely song,
Or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers,
If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day.
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food,
Or maybe furnished a car;
Perhaps you rendered a service unseen,
Near at hand or from afar.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much—whatever the part.

The family of the late
Blanche S. Barrett

Seminar To Be Oct. 7

The Coastal Plain Development Association and the Agricultural Extension Service will sponsor a seminar about Land Use and Agriculture October 7 at the Town and Country Restaurant in Williamston.

According to Ed Yancey, Pitt County Extension Chairman, land use has been identified as a major concern by Extension planning groups. Farm lands decreased almost 16,000 acres between in 1970 and 1974, according to Yancey.

The seminar will focus on trends; issues and emerging problems; legal aspects and current legislation; problems and concerns of the farmer, and alternatives to preservation protection. Extension specialists, planning experts and farm and area leaders will lead the discussions.

Participants will be limited from each 10 counties attending the seminar. For further information contact the Agricultural Extension Service.

UNICEF Drive

Greenville children and adults will be joining over three million other Americans in the celebration of National UNICEF Day, October 24, according to Mrs. Curtis Howell, chairperson of the Greenville UNICEF Day activities.

The activities will be coordinated under the auspices of Church Women United. Approximately 250 children from 24 Greenville churches will "trick or treat" for UNICEF October 24. In addition to door-to-door canvassing the Junior Woman's Club will place cannisters in businesses from October 15-31.

Carrol O'Connor of "All In The Family" and his wife, Nancy, will be chairpersons for the 1976 National UNICEF Day Campaign. Mrs. Betty Ford will for the second year serve as the honorary chairwoman

Fellowship Recipient

Miss Jane Allison Petring, granddaughter of Mrs. Emil Vleck, of 503 East Third St. Ayden, was the recipient of a $1,200 fellowship from the Council on International Educational Exchange to attend the 1976 summer Russian Language program in Leningrad, U.S.S.R. Included in the program, following the intensive six week study of Russian language, literature, and linguistics at Leningrad University was a tour of Moscow and other Russian cities. Miss Petring returned to the United States in September and has resumed studies at Michigan State University where she is a senior in linguistics in the honors program.

Tuskegee Institute was founded in 1881 by Booker T. Washington.

Scholarship To Cindy Allen

Miss Cindy Carole Allen, daughter of Mrs. Coleen Allen of 120 Avon Lane in Greenville, has been awarded a $150 Helen Price Scholarship by Kappa Nu Sigma, the academic honor society of Meredith College.

Each year two scholarships are given by Kappa Nu Sigma to the Meredith College sophomore and junior with the highest grade point average in their class.

Miss Allen has also received the Ida Poteat Scholarship and the National Merit Scholarship.

Dr. Williams To Address Meet

Dr. Thomas Williams will be the guest speaker at the Thursday meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Riverside Restaurant.

Dr. Williams, an ECU professor of the Foreign Language Department, will speak about "Tales of the Tobacco Country."

Reservations should be made by Tuesday at noon with Miss Annie Turner.

Tapped For Faternity

Thomas Jack Bratton, son of Mrs. Mary Jo Bratton of Greenville, has been tapped into Phi Theta Kappa, an honorary scholastic fraternity at Lees-McRae College.

GHA Meeting

FREE INTRODUCTION TO APPLIED CREATIVE THINKING

A NEW WAY OF THINKING THAT CAN MOVE YOUR IDEAS INTO ACTION

WEDNESDAY EVENING OCTOBER 6
7:00 P.M. to 8:30 P.M.

The A.C.T. program deals with specifics that concern people:

- * the Future—Don't predict it. Create it!
- * Communication of your true ideas & intentions
- * RELAX when it's needed most—during everyday work time.
- * success
- * "self" motivation—your key to it
- * stress
- * handling "pressures" of today's society
- * CREATIVE PROBLEM SOLVING
- * enhance your creative potential
- * the validity of the statement—"I'll sleep on it"
- * remove boredom from any area of your life.
- * better health by affecting an attitude change
- * finding balance in all facets of life.
- * improve sports performance
- * you will be shown how to use the "RIGHT LOBE" of your brain—your creative thinking center!

Pitt County 1976-77 United Fund Drive Launched

GOOD START . . . The 1976-77 Pitt United Fund drive got off to a good start at Friday's kick-off luncheon with the presentation of Du Pont's employee contribution by the plant's Pitt coordinator, Mrs. Arday Spikes, to campaign chairman Don Parrott (right). Boosted by a generous contribution from employees of Kinston's Du Pont plant, the Pitt United Fund launched its 1976-77 drive Friday with hopes for a short but successful campaign.

Off to its best start ever, the fund drive received a kick-off contribution from Du Pont in the amount of $45,946 or nearly $2,300 over last year's employee donation.

Local campaign chairman

Don Parrott told the luncheon gathering of division chairmen and UF workers that the Du Pont contribution, added to the roughly $10,000 already solicited for the campaign, pushes the current drive up towards the 25 per cent mark already for the year.

Parrott, in urging the various campaign workers to push hard for an early attainment of the UF goal, noted that this year's record goal of $248,418 is some $26,000 over last year's target figure.

The chairman introduced his division chairman to the presentation and thanked the Du Pont representatives on hand for the session for their efforts in helping the campaign get off to a good start.

Ardath Spikes, Pitt County coordinator for the Du Pont campaign, introduced other members of the plant's United Fund committee, including co-chairmen Gary Faulkenberry and Mike McLeod and members Alex Warren and Frank Van Leeuwen.

Mrs. Spikes, who made the presentation of the Du Pont funds, said that the contribution represented some 1,100 employees and 24 members of the United Fund's $200-plus club.

Bill Dansey, president of the Pitt United Fund for this year, briefly discussed the work of the local organization and explained that approximately 89 cents out of every dollar collected in the drive goes to the various agencies funded by the UF. The remaining funds are used to pay the salary of the executive director, cover office expenses, travel, supplies and other items necessary to operate the full time United Fund office.

On hand and recognized by Dansey were Karl Faser, who served as president in 1975-76, and Joe Tripp, the full time executive director of the United Fund.

The luncheon was held at the Candlewick Inn.

Faculty Pay Increases Proposed By UNC Board

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — A budget increase of nearly $350 million for the 1977-79 biennium, including faculty salary raises of 10 per cent for each year of the two-year period is being prepared for consideration by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors.

The tentative budget proposal, was described by university officials Friday as a "barebones budget" designed primarily to keep up with enrollment increases and comply with previous mandates from the General Assembly. It was discussed by the board's budget and finance committee prior to presentation to the board next week.

Professors suggested that faculty salaries throughout the university system had slipped in the last year in comparison with salaries offered by other universities across the nation.

Explaining the drop, UNC officials have pointed to lack of pay raises by the 1975 General Assembly. At the same time, they said, faculty salaries nationwide were increasing between 5 and 7 per cent.

Signaling his plans to lobby forcefully for the salary increases and other budget requests during the coming session of the General Assembly, Friday asserted, "We intend to work hard for this budget."

It is doubtful, however, that the General Assembly will be able to fund the entire UNC request. Recent revenue estimates indicate the coming General Assembly will have only about $147 million available for appropriation increases. The state Board of Education is seeking a $620 million budget increase and the Department of Human Resources is asking a $210 million increase.

Assassination Attempt Made Against Argentine President

By MARTIN MCREYNOLDS

sources said.

The sources said an officer and an enlisted man were wounded in the explosion, which destroyed the reviewing stand at the huge army garrison at Campo de Mayo, 20 miles from the capital. The camp is Argentina's largest, quartering about 10,000 soldiers.

The army sealed off the base immediately after the explosion, barring exit and entry to anyone without special army authorization.

It was the first assassination attempt against Videla, a 51-year-old army lieutenant general, since he assumed the presidency March 24 in a military coup against President Isabel Peron.

Nine days before the coup, an explosive-packed auto blew up in a parking lot of the army command headquarters in the capital shortly before Videla arrived, killing one person and wounding 29.

There was no immediate indication as to what group or groups the government has carried out a sweeping campaign to stamp out leftist guerrillas, others in a violent raid on a residential area.

Armored cars and a helicopter were used in the operation, the latest of many anti-guerrilla strikes since Videla took office.

Flaherty Says Hunt Is Inconsistent

Republican gubernatorial candidate David Flaherty charged Friday at a news conference that his opponent, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, has "flip-flopped" on campaign issues and has not shown leadership in his current capacity.

In a prepared statement, Flaherty said that "one of the most important factors in this campaign is consistency on the issues. In his attempt to 'spread eagle' the political spectrum, my opponent has tried to be all things to all people. He has taken different sides on the same issue—at different times."

Flaherty stated that Hunt had originally embraced the Democratic platform, then later said he did not agree with the platform's suggestion of a blanket pardon for draft evaders.

The Republican also noted that his opponent had not made a stand on the North Carolina right-to-work law, the repeal of which is suggested in the Democratic platform. "I don't think the people support the loss of right-to-work laws," Flaherty said.

He noted that the upcoming debates should give the public "a clear indication of the differences between my opponent and me." He also noted the need for improved roads in the eastern section of the state.

Children Trapped In Locker

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Three small boys escaped death when another neighborhood child opened an abandoned food storage locker where they had been trapped six hours.

The youngsters, Jimmy Adams, 4; Wayne Joyner, 5, and Daniel Joyner, 7, were sweating and gasping for breath, and looked as "white as sheets," their parents reported after they were saved last Saturday. This week, police dismantled latches on the doors of several such lockers to prevent a recurrence. No charges were filed against the owner of the building.

Factionalism Can Hurt Effort

Tom Taft, president of the Highway 264 Association has called on the communities along U.S. 64 to support the preliminary findings of a consulting firm concerning highway needs in the U.S. 64-264 area.

The firm suggested that U.S. 64 should be four-laned from Tarboro to Rocky Mount and U.S. 264 dual laned from Wilson to Greenville and then on to Washington.

Specifically Taft urged the U.S. 64 communities to reject any "common corridor scheme."

Taft also called for support for the immediate upgrading of U. S. 64 from Tarboro to Manteo and U.S. 264 from Washington to Englehard.

"We feel like there is more strength in unity and common purpose than in factionalism and competition."

We couldn't agree more. We have maintained that U. S. 64 should be dual laned to Tarboro and U. S. 264 should be dual laned to Washington and we believe that the work should proceed simultaneously. Therefore the support of all communities in the area of the two highways will be needed to get the concept moving.

A word of caution for those of us who live along U. S. 264 though. We are going to have to work harder to get our portion of the work accomplished. To understand this one only has to look at the map. U.S. 64 is a straight shot to the coastal areas from the Piedmont. In contrast U.S. 264 takes off from U.S. 64 at Zebulon travels through a populous area to Washington and then follows a lightly populated route to rejoin U.S. 64 at Manteo.

It is going to be up to the people along the U.S. 264 route to convince Raleigh that the populous areas along the highway need the limited access highway and need it now. We will have to have all the help we can get, and support from communities along the U.S. 64 route for the overall highway package will be particularly welcomed. But those of us along 264 can be sure that the route won't be improved if we just sit back and wait for it to be done. We are going to have to be heard at every opportunity on this absolutely essential highway project.

Encouraging Report For Stadium Drive

An encouraging report was delivered to the ECU Board of Trustees last week on the current fund drive to enlarge Ficklen Stadium.

Dr. Leo Jenkins reported that $300,000 in pledges had been received. Some $2.5 million is needed to enlarge the stadium to 35,000 seats.

The fund drive is off to a good start, and we hope it can be carried out quickly and successfully, so that this project can be accomplished.

Tar Heels Sense Drifting

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A research organization working in North Carolina thinks the people here are yearning for the excitement and pride of being on the move.

"North Carolina is a state with a proud tradition of progressivism in state government.

"For most voters, that tradition has become a part of history... and is no longer a living part of the present," reports the Peter D. Hart Research Associates firm.

That group tested both state and national attitudes going into the fall elections, and reported recently to a gathering of Democratic Party candidates.

"In this state that used to pride itself on its progressiveness, there is now a feeling that things are drifting aimlessly," the surveys have indicated. "The voters want leadership... people in high office who can bring to North Carolina government the vibrancy and purpose that are part of the North Carolina tradition."

Blame GOP
The Republican administration in Raleigh was, of course, singled out as the chief culprit: "The election of James Holshouser as governor in 1972 came as a surprise to most North Carolinians; today, it seems almost a non-event," the Hart team reports.

"The voters are not aware of the governor's actions; rather, they are conscious of a void."

As to state and national issues, specifically, the Hart organization reported that education and crime occupy top priority in the minds of Tar Heels, while nationally, the economy continues to hold sway.

Policy Research
State public school officials will move into some untried waters in the coming year—attempting to carry out research on policy matters.

Typically, the State Department of Public Instruction research group has stuck pretty well to testing students in academic subjects, except for one rare departure in which questions probed family and social attitudes. That direction largely backfired as the public questioned the validity of such testing.

H. T. Conner, chief of the research and assessment program, said several steps will be taken to meet criticism of the division.

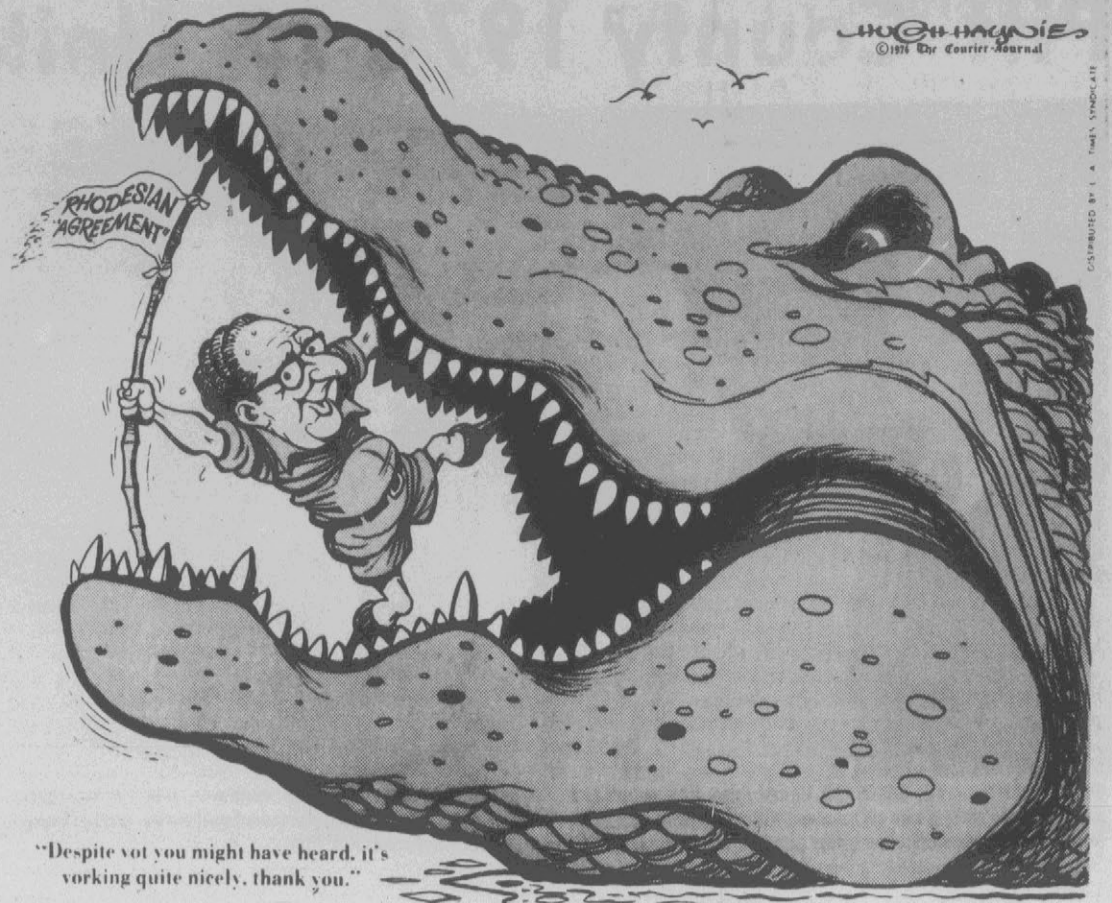

Local units will be encouraged to improve and step up their own testing; steps will be taken to make test information more available and useful to teachers; and uniform reporting methods among all school units will be sought for one specific test.

Meanwhile, much work will be directed at continued study of third graders to measure progress at that critical year; and at the elementary school reading effort to see if students in special programs are reading better than others.

But the most difficult job will no doubt be trying to produce useful information as such critical issues as school discipline, use of open classrooms etc. Those public school issues are not only volatile and emotional, but often produce sharp lines of division not only among educators, but parents as well.

The availability of research information on the effectiveness of various approaches could, however, help ease the tension as North Carolina seeks to resolve such issues as discipline, open classrooms, busing, career education, year-round school, reading methods, etc., should early efforts prove worthwhile in this new direction.

The nine justices of the Supreme Court prepared today for Monday's opening of a new term in their nine-million dollar temple of justice across from the capitol.

With eight New Deal laws involved in cases already in the high court docket, Solicitor General Stanley Reed and his staff redoubled their research work to defend the constitutionality of administration acts.

Although the court will start hearing arguments on Monday, the first of its fateful "decision days" will not come until the November 9, after the election.

New Deal acts involved in cases coming before the court will include the Wagner Labor Relations Act, PWA loans to cities for power plants and the 1933 "Truth in Securities" Act.

The New York Yankees, American League champions, today went in the lead in the 1936 World Series, eking out a 2-1 victory over their national League rivals, the New York Giants.

The winning run was scored in the eighth inning when the Yankees' Crossetti singled, driving home Powell from third.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

This letter is in answer to an Associated Press article which quoted an insurance underwriter as saying Corvette owners are poor insurance risks.

Sliding behind the wheel of a Corvette is indeed some people's idea of fun—but only a narrow-minded person who has never owned a Corvette would stop at that. Owning a Corvette is like owning anything "very special." You take pride in it—you respect it for its abilities, just as you respect any other precision piece of equipment. You don't use it to show off—you don't have to. You don't endanger yourself or other while driving it. The Corvette owners I know have driving records superior to the average driver.

The body of the Corvette is made of fiberglass, but this doesn't necessarily make it more costly to repair. All damaged cars are expensive to repair. Fiberglass used in Corvette production is stronger than steel, but unlike steel, fiberglass will not "take a set," so it can't be straightened.

Corvette owners have as much right to fair and reasonable insurance rates as anyone on the road. A driver should be rated on his own record, not on what kind of car he operates. This action by the insurance companies is as true a case of discrimination as there ever was.

I've seen both metal and fiberglass cars after accidents and to say that one is worse than the other is prejudiced and highly biased. No one likes accidents or the people who cause them. It doesn't matter afterwards if they were in a metal automobile or a fiberglass one, the driver is still as guilty.

I say increase the rates on careless, drunken or reckless drivers, not on fiberglass cars.

It seems that this is one of the many schemes of insurance companies to make a bigger buck.

The coach fare is $17.00 to D. C. and the parlor car is $23, and you get to D. C. at 6:30 PM. You could not drive it faster. Greenville should know.

On the way you see countryside. Something you don't get much of on super highways. It gives you a feeling again of the wonderful expanse of America. How many million trees can you see in half a day?

You read and write and look out the window in the four and a half hours, and have a sandwich and drink. You wish all those who have loved trains would find this one, so it won't be taken off for lack of passengers. You wish people who never rode a train could try this. THE INSIDE REPORT

A Hard Line By Jimmy?

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Before he lurched into that notorious monologue on sex and Lyndon Johnson in his interview with Playboy magazine, Jimmy Carter delivered an unusually tough denunciation of détente as practiced by Henry Kissinger—a stand which raises the possibility of an unexpected course for debate No. 2.

"I feel the policy of détente has given up too much to the Russians and gotten too little in return," Carter said in the interview that will appear in November's Playboy. When the interviewer (extreme left journalist Robert Scheer) demanded an example, Carter replied: "I never saw any reason we should be involved in the Helsinki meetings at all. We added the stature of our presence and signature to an agreement that, in effect, ratified the takeover of Eastern Europe by the Soviet Union."

Such rhetoric, in the style of Scoop Jackson rather than George McGovern, delights moderate Democrats discomfited by Carter's leftward drift. Worried about Carter's stumbling decline since Labor Day, old guard Democrats have feared the foreign policy debate in San Francisco Oct. 6 will prove his undoing if President Ford preempts the hard line.

Accordingly, several attempts have been made to penetrate Carter's hideaway in Plains, Ga., with this advice: wrap Secretary of State Kissinger around the President's neck and follow John F. Kennedy's example 16 years ago in preempting the anti-Communist position. While delighted by the Playboy quotes, moderate Democrats hope Carter will go further than détente and Helsinki and disregard his advisers by Criticizing SALT (strategic arms limitation talks).

This would demolish the smug conventional wisdom at the White House regarding debate No. 2. Assuming the President can overpower an opponent who has only limited knowledge about national security, Ford operatives have looked to certain victory at San Francisco after surviving Debate No. 1 on the economy, the Democrats' home turf.

Specifically, the White House looks forward to a stumbling justification by Carter of his $5 to $7 billion in defense cuts no more convincing than his muddled economic arguments in Philadelphia. Soft-line advisers around Carter (including Richard Holbrooke, editor of Foreign Policy magazine, who is in charge of strategy for debate No. 2) precludes any hardening of his position, in the opinion of the White House.

Amidst the Ford camp's euphoria, however, there are a few private misgivings. One senior official, who has been correct far more often than the consistently fallible palace guard, believes rhetoric is more important than statistics in any foreign policy debate. Ideology aside, he fears Mr. Ford — better at memorizing a briefing book than inspirational homilies — will be at a disadvantage.

Nor does the Ford team seem aware of the selective hard line taken by Carter. In his Sept. 8 speech to the B'nai B'rith convention (largely written by soft-liner Holbrooke), Carter attacked the Helsinki pact and raised the "Organic" relationship between the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe called for by Dr. Kissinger's right hand man, State Department counselor Helmut Sonnenfeldt. "The Republican administration," said Carter, "with the Sonnenfeldt statement, has shown a lack

Strength For Today

THE GREAT COMMANDMENT

As most Christians know, the Great Commandment is: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

When asked about it by a questioner, Jesus replied, "This do and thou shalt live."

The Master was ever conscious of the pathetic and tragic breakdown which constantly takes place between what a person believes and what he does: between his theories about life and life itself. People do not make a mess of their lives because of wrong theories; more often than not it is because they fail to apply the good theories they already have. When Jesus said to his questioner, "This do and thou shalt live," he indicated a doubt as to whether the man had the will to translate his theories into action.

The divine answer to all life's questioning is love. The divine commandment is, put it into practice.

This 'Pause That Distresses'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For some of the Republican candidates this is the pause that distresses. The pause is economic, which translated means jobs, prices and homes, and what could be more important than these?

For some months it appeared these might not be among the major issues at all, because the appearance was that of a recession fading into history, there to be buried, if possible, and quickly forgotten.

President Ford even campaigned on his economic record, which he viewed as one of steadily falling prices, rising employment, falling interest rates and a steady if slow course toward stability.

Now that the recovery has lost some of its momentum, a lot of fears that were thought to be sinking from consciousness are surfacing again. It demonstrates again that neither party can claim to control the economy.

When the pause began it was hardly feared. It was, we were told, the most natural of occurrences; economic recoveries never proceed in a straight line; a slowdown is healthy; a slowdown prolongs the advance.

Now the pause is getting old, and some of the indicators suggest it will remain with us longer than we had hoped. And, as if gray economic news isn't bad enough, a pause generates speculation, and those old fears return.

One of the tragedies of such fears is that they themselves are a deterrent to recovery. Fearful consumers delay purchasing big ticket items; investors play it safe; businessmen lower their goals.

The pause now appears to be just that, a pause, a temporary slowing of economic activity. But should it be prolonged several months more it probably will assume a different name, perhaps "malaise."

What then? At this point in the economic cycle, the outlook seems to be viewed as fairly good, judging from a random review of stock market letters, the bank economic forecasts, and the "confidential" reports to clients from private economists.

But as a pause continues, these forecasters, no matter how committed they are to an economically vigorous future, become more restrained. A good many forecasters, you see, do not like to take chances.

Observations of old forecasts generally show that those who crystal ball the economy or the stock market or other cyclical events are great on the straightaway but poor on calling the turns.

While it is probably too great an assumption to say the general public knows this, it isn't too much to suggest that instincts tell them this is so. And therefore, it seems, they might discount promises of future good fortune.

If this is so, it leaves them contemplating the here and now, which is being spattered by some poor economic news and some that might be called neutral, but relatively little that can be called bullish.

And it comes right in the midst of the electioneering, to distress some and perplex others, and even to give hopes to some who put politics ahead of other considerations.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Linking East And West

(Winston-Salem Journal)

Eastern North Carolinians have complained for years about the lack of adequate highway links between the Coastal Plains, the Piedmont and the West. They felt shortchanged with the layout of the interstate system, because the major routes ran north-south and most of the mileage was located west of Raleigh. They have argued for a decade now that development of the region has been retarded for want of good east-west transportation.

If it ever was purely a regional issue, it is no longer. Growth in the East, and its further potential, put a statewide focus on the matter. The benefits to be realized from highway arteries to tie North Carolina together would be shared by all citizens. Certainly, the need is evident enough to make a major limited access highway linking the East and the Piedmont a high priority for transportation planning.

A route study now in progress will prepare the way for some definite action to bring the goal closer to reality. A public hearing in Farmville earlier this month laid out alternatives and cost estimates for improvements on U.S. routes 64 and 264 between Interstate 95 and U.S. 17 on the coast. The seven proposals showed a cost range from $82 million to $194.5 million, all calling for four-lane, limited access facilities.

William S. Pollard, head of a Memphis, Tennessee, consulting firm, said a final recommendation on the preferable route will be made when the study is completed in about three months. When the report is delivered, the next administration and the State Transportation Department should lose no time in moving the project along.

There are sound reasons why an eastwest highway link would benefit the Piedmont and West as much as it would the Coastal Plains region. For one thing, it would be an asset for economic development, opening new sites for industry and making the state a more attractive location. The transition from an agricultural to an industrialized economy already is well along in the East, and improved highway transportation would encourage the trend.

The travel business also would be promoted by an east-west highway link. Some Piedmont folks who now go to South Carolina beaches would be more inclined to go to the North Carolina coast with improved access. By the same token, it would be easier for Easterners to discover the attractions of the mountains in the West.

An intangible but nonetheless real benefit from an east-west link could be its contribution to a sense of statewide identity. North Carolina's varied geography is a great blessing, but the natural division into regions has at times been a factor in fostering attitudes of regionalism. There has been the impression, in politics and other areas, that Eastern interests and Piedmont interests are in conflict. That is a reflection of history and tradition, and the differences between rural and urban patterns.

A highway link to the East will be expensive, as the cost estimates presented at Farmville illustrate. Agreement on a route to serve traffic needs may require the resolution of rivalries between cities in the region. Those are problems which can be solved in a spirit of compromise which emphasizes the statewide interest in the project.

East-west access for North Carolina has been long delayed. Now is the time to make the commitment to meet the need, and to give the first priority to planning and funding at the earliest possible date.

Resort To The Can-Doers

(From WRAL-TV)

We'd like to suggest to the legislators and politicians haggling over the decades-long question of a major highway to the eastern part of the state a simple solution to their problem.

Turn it over to East Carolina University President Leo Jenkins and the members of the school's athletic booster organization.

If this doesn't get some action, then such a road just isn't in the cards.

We're not being the least bit facetious, for what Jenkins and his followers have overcome in the area of athletics in the last fifteen years makes building a highway look like child's play.

It's generally agreed upon that a university's athletic fortunes are only as good as its football program. This being the case, East Carolina is one final step away from reaching Jenkins' long-sought parity with East Carolina's ACC cousins to the west of Greenville.

The final step is the enlargement of Ficklen Stadium, a project that is already underway in the form of a fund-raising campaign that may reach its goal of $2.5 million in record time.

There are two main criteria for judging the success of a football program. Its performance on the field, and the support it receives in the form of paying customers and financial contributions. Based on these standards, East Carolina is only 20,000 Ficklen Stadium seats away from equality with the ACC.

Admittedly, the university's struggle to overcome its country cousin image isn't over yet, but everytime the Pirates help to fill Carter and Kenan Stadiums, this picture changes.

One word of caution however, seems in order. East Carolina's portrayal of itself as a poor relation has accomplished its purpose, it's no longer needed. Dr. Jenkins and his followers would further serve their university by bearing this in mind.

Now Dr. Jenkins, about that highway, I don't believe anyone would object if they named it Buccaneer Boulevard.

The couple promptly set out some mouse traps. Tommy read on the bottom of one, "clean, efficient and non-poisonous."

Recently they spotted a mouse running across the kitchen floor. The house is new, of course, and there is a corn field next door, so the mouse wasn't unexpected.

His wife commented, "The fellow who invented this thing sure has made a killing."

Well, the mice think so.

A Conservative View

No Great Issues Nor Personalities Emerging

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

One month to go — and if we have had a more curious and lackluster campaign in recent years, this correspondent cannot recall it. The candidates seem not to be running; they are lurking and staggering toward the finish line like a pair of old platers on a camptown track. Neither one is showing presidential form.

In times past, we have had campaigns that turned upon great issues. In 1948, it was a battle over civil rights legislation. In 1952, the question was Korea. In 1960, it was the disappearing missile gap. In 1968, Vietnam. And we have had campaigns that turned largely upon images and personalities—Goldwater in 1964, McGovern in 1972.

By contrast, we seem to have neither great issues nor great personalities this time around. Most observers had assumed that the economy would provide a focal point. It hasn't worked out that way, perhaps because the political responsibility for inflation and unemployment is so diffuse. The nebulous issue of "integrity" has proved a washout; the Republican sins of Richard Nixon scarcely can be exploited without getting into the Democratic sins of Wayne Hays and his hanky-panky pals.

As for personalities, the campaign has produced little on the positive side. Even the negatives are second-rate. Neither candidate inspires; neither makes the eager heart go pitty-pat. Jimmy Carter scares the wits out of some people, but he has yet to arouse the intense antagonism of a Goldwater or a McGovern. Nobody is mad at Jerry Ford; the worst that is said of the President is that his wife danced with Tony Orlando at Kansas City. Big deal.

Carter remains the puzzle. Throughout the primary contests, most of the correspondents were praising Carter as the smoothest, most disciplined campaigner who ever cruised down the pike. He planned his efforts with great shrewdness, and he executed those plans with consummate skill. He ran his opponents gally-legged, and except for the "ethnic purity" flap, he rarely tripped or fumbled.

It's a different picture now. For the past two years, Carter has carefully considered his every deliberate action for its political effect. He has to assume that his decision to give an interview to Playboy magazine was the product of prolonged staff discussion. The decision was a blunder, if not of the first magnitude, at least of the second. In a single stroke, Carter shocked his Baptist constituency, mortally offended Lady Bird Johnson, antagonized the women's liberationists who despise Playboy, and gained no votes he wouldn't have had anyway.

Carter's chief liability, apart from his political obscurity, has been his reputation for fuzziness — for accommodating his convictions to his audience. The reputation doesn't get better; it gets worse. There is no way — no way under heaven — of understanding where the gentleman stands on questions of taxation. One of his few definite commitments is toward an increase in Social Security taxes to help finance a national health insurance program; and that commitment flies in the face of his other promises not to increase the tax burden on middle-income working families.

Ford has his problems also. Some of them are ridiculous, such as the flap over his having played golf with U.S. Steel's Bill Whyte 12 years ago. In the asininity sweepstakes, that was a first-prize winner. The poisonous rumors about political contributions in Michigan in 1972 could be real trouble. Ford will have to insist that these gaseous allegations be firmed up immediately. Special Prosecutor Charles H. Ruff, a 37-year-old Democrat with largely academic credentials, is an unknown quality. He may be a pillar of integrity, but the leaks have a fishy smell.

The great debate of September 23 was the most overblown affair since the comet Kohoutek. Unless the format is improved, the remaining engagements may turn the nation back to reading books or writing letters.

At this writing, with a month remaining, my guess is still Ford by a nose in front of Carter's bicuspid. And if 55 percent of the 150 million eligible voters turn out, it will prove a pleasant surprise.

Facing South

Aunt Sue Was Happier Not Needing A Dollar

HAMPTON PLANTATION, S.C. — There are no older or more haunting remnants of a long time past in the South than the scattering of rice plantation mansions in the swampy lowland of South Carolina.

One of them is Hampton, built in the 1730s. Its first owner was a French Huguenot settler named Serre. It has passed by marriage to just two other families — Horry and Rutledge. The last resident owner, from 1935 until 1963, was Archibald Rutledge, poet laureate of South Carolina for the last 40 years of his life. Today, the state owns the mansion and 284 of the many thousands of acres that once was Hampton Plantation.

A mile or so through the dense forest of live oaks and magnolias and pines that presses close to the big house, an old woman rocks contentedly on the sagging porch of her small frame cottage. Her name is Sue Alston. She is somewhere between 97 and 105 years old.

"I was born at Hampton, just like my father," she recalls, "and I got married to the best man at the Hampton, Prince Alston, in 1905. I was workin' for them before, an' I been workin' for Rutledge from that day, 'til I couldn't work no more. Dr. Rutledge, the last man, died a few years ago. Archie. He was a writer."

They called her Aunt Sue. She says she likes to be called that, "because that's my name." She remembers her grandmother saying, "The Yankee bust the old slavery chain, but he didn't take the rope away." In her recollection of it, it was the Rutledges who took the rope away.

"O! Man Henry Rutledge an' his second wife, Margaret, they was Archie's parents. I was right with 'em, night an' day. That place over there was a real city, man. It makes me sad to see it now. Very few people see what I see on Hampton, in this time. Before, in slave time, I didn't see that. That's before the world began, I call it. Oh yeah, boy, I can tell you it was a fine time on Hampton, in days back."

Lodge...

"I have enough to do to keep me off the street corners and out of the pool rooms," Lodge quips.

Yet, the roller coaster life that swept the Yankee Harvard graduate through the U.S. senate, the United Nations, the 1960 national campaign and Saigon has eased to some extent.

The latest product of reflection at the end of a productive life is a study of politics and power in the 1950s and 1960s, a book Lodge titles "As It Was." Due for publication in mid-November, the book deals in part with the weeks in 1952 in which Lodge engineered the transition from President Harry S. Truman to the war hero Lodge coaxed into national politics, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"I had the documentation," Lodge said, "I felt it was sort of a duty to write it down."

Known as "ambassador" to new acquaintances and "Cabot" to old friends, Lodge still holds what he likes to call the "unpaid, non job" of American envoy to the Vatican, an official excuse for trips to Europe several times annually.

But he lives essentially a private life.

As a GOP delegate pledged to President Ford, Lodge took the sentimental journey to the Republican National Convention in August, returning to Kansas City 48 years after covering the 1928 Republican convention as a newspaperman.

Lodge was largely a forgotten man at the convention just 12 years after he was among three Republican contenders for the White House while Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the 1964 GOP nominee, and Vice President Nelson Rockefeller addressed the convention from the podium. Lodge sat largely unnoticed with delegates below, shaking hands with an occasional well wisher.

In contrast, the President has tied himself to the Kissinger record, for better or worse. Hard-liners inside the administration seeking a tougher Ford position on SALT abandoned hope after the President's interview in the Sept. 13 U.S. News and World Report.

"I tell you how I take this world that we are livin' in today. Who wants better, an' who pray, an' who workin' for better, they gonna get it. If there ain't but one or two got that feelin', they gonna get it."

Sue Alston is one who has got that feelin'. "I'll be here — if life lasts."

A Family Hour Should Meet Need For Laughs

The Family Hour is destroying the American situation comedy. Without sex and violence, there's nothing funny to write about. For instance, take week before last.

That week was one of those weeks when you wonder if God is casting for a modern version of Job.

"How was your day?" Phillip asked when he got home from work.

"Just lovely," I said. "First thing this morning I discovered that the baby had a new trick — climbing. She used the kitchen drawers for steps and climbed up to the counter where she emptied a whole can of black gold into the sink."

"Black gold?"

"Maxwell House coffee. I went around for the rest of the day with one eyelid closed and the other one anchored to my eyebrow with a paper clip. Then I discovered — too late — that you didn't bring the catbox in last night when you cleaned it."

"Oops. Sorry about that," he groaned.

"Anyway, by the time the baby took her nap, I was so depressed that I thought I'd cheer myself up by reading. So I got out this book of short stories and found one that sounded kind of Mae West-y. I thought it would be good for a few laughs."

"What was it?"

"'A Good Man is Hard to Find.' It was about this man called The Misfit and his cronies who systematically murder six people in cold blood. How was your day?"

"I can't stand this any more," Phillip cried, tears streaming down his face. "What has happened to all our favorite comedies? I haven't cried this much since my mother caught me sawing a hole in the bedroom wall when I was a kid. I'm going to get some ice cream to cool my sorrows."

He stomped into the kitchen while I stayed and watched commercials.

"Cheer up," I said when he came back. "I just saw a commercial about an upcoming TV show that features this pudgy bald-headed guy who's supposed to be a master spy named Wo Fat. It was a scream."

"Well, I'm glad there's some humor left on TV," Phillip said, his expression brightening some. "What's the show?"

"Hawaii Five-O."

"About the same."

We moped around this house till about 8 p.m. Then Phillip said, "Hey, Rhoda's on. That ought to cheer us up. I always like this show. They get into situations that I get into."

That night Rhoda and Joe split up.

Cotton Producers May Soon Be Asked To Prove Their Loyalty

By DALLAS LEE

Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Cotton farmers who want their delicate harvest to compete well against the brute strength of factory-made synthetics may be asked soon to prove their loyalty with cash.

Most cotton producers already kick $1 per bale into a kitty for research into how consumers can be persuaded to use more cotton products.

A cotton seed bank, new blends for men's shirts and a system of world market information for planning crop size have resulted from those donations.

Now, says Cotton Incorporated, the North Carolinabased research arm of the Cotton Council, more money is needed to match the millions of dollars in research and marketing efforts of the synthetic fiber industries.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is likely to call for a referendum later this year, asking farmers to volunteer an additional four-tenths of one per cent of the sale price of each bale.

If approved, that additional tap on the farmer's bale at current prices would produce about $1.20 per bale more, or elevate the research budget of Cotton Incorporated from about $12.5 million to more than $30 million.

Since the early 1960s, the tough, no-iron synthetics have crowded cotton out of more than 70 per cent of the textile market.

"What you had for so long was just an overwhelming force of synthetic marketing, which meant the consumer had little choice," said David Cox, vice president of economic research and development at Cotton Incorporated.

"All we're doing now is bringing some balance back into the market place. For both producer and consumer, a better balance of power is absolutely necessary."

Cox said cotton industry officials don't even dream of driving synthetics from the market place. The goal is to persuade consumers — especially in the apparel market — that blends with more generous portions of cotton are the most desirable.

Cotton has had a token presence throughout the synthetic era primarily because it is the cotton fiber's reaction with certain chemicals that produces the permanent press characteristic in blends.

But the tendency of garment manufacturers, Cox claims, has been to "add synthetics in the maximum amount, to have as much synthetics as possible" in the blends for added toughness and long wear.

The problem, he said, was that while cotton reacted with the chemicals to produce a noiron quality, the process weakened the cotton fibers.

The toughness of synthetics was essential.

Now the pitch of cotton industry spokesmen is that blends with as much as 60 per cent cotton are ideal for apparel, combining the softness and comfort of cotton with the durability of the synthetic fibers.

Too much synthetic, they say, makes a garment hot in the summer and cold in the winter, and makes it retain odors and stains.

"You've got durability pitched against a whole lot of aesthetics and comfort," says Cox. "Synthetics have it in terms of brute strength, but cotton just can't be duplicated."

King Cotton's long decline was continuous from 1960, which marks the downfall of the ironing board, to 1973 when the rage for blue denim helped stabilize cotton demand at about 29 per cent of the over-all textile market and at about 39 per cent of the apparel market.

Cox believes cotton will inch toward a 30 per cent slice of the market this year, primarily on improvements in the apparel area. What is needed, he said, is $30 million to counter the $230 million spent in 1974 on synthetic fiber research and the $60 million spent on advertising for synthetics.

In the same period, Cotton Incorporated spent $5.5 million on research and $3.5 million on advertising.

If the present USDA hearings gather enough grower support, Cox said, the government will authorize a referendum among cotton producers on the proposal for an additional assessment. The $1 per bale donation would continue and the revenue from both assessments would go to Cotton Incorporated.

He believes grower support is there. Through congressional action, growers are now assessed $1 per bale at sales but can ask for it back. Only three per cent do, he said. The new assessment would work the same way.

Three groups are active in the cotton industry. The eldest is the Cotton Council in Memphis, which was organized in the 1930s to represent all facets of the industry, from grower to seed crusher to merchant.

In the 1960s, with synthetic fibers making inroads, the producers organized a research institute, which led to establishment of the Cotton Board by Congress. The board answers to the secretary of agriculture and is responsible for collecting the voluntary assessments and contracting with an agency for research.

That agency is Cotton Incorporated, which has about 130 personnel divided between technical research in Raleigh and marketing research in New York.

In Readiness After Friday Night Violence

CONCORD, N.C. (UPI) — Local authorities braced for a second night of violence Saturday after a group of 30 to 40 blacks hurled rocks at police cars late Friday night, leaving two policemen with minor injuries and a battered car. The trouble stems from a week-long trial which ended Friday night when an all-white jury returned a guilty verdict against Ronnie Wallace Long, a 21-year-old black man charged with the rape and robbery of a wealthy white widow. Long was taken to Central Prison Saturday morning.

Two policemen were treated for minor injuries at a local hospital and released Friday night after they tried to swerve around a pile of rubble placed in the street by protesters. The car, battered by flying rocks, skidded on a rain-slick street into a pole. Another vehicle which came to help in the predominantly black southwest section of town had its windshield shattered by a flying brick, but no injuries were reported. Moore said the crowd was still on the streets around 2:30 a.m. Saturday, but had dispersed by daylight. "Our problems are not in the daytime," he said. "But we'll be keeping extra men on at night, because we're staying pretty pessimistic about this." Moore said the incidents late Friday night and early Saturday morning were not as severe as the violence which immediately followed the reading of the verdict. Mace had to be used to disperse the crowd after several courthouse windows were shattered by rocks.

Seven Hours A Day, Seven Days A Week

MOUNT AIRY, N.C. (AP) — Frank "Les" Hatcher spent his 94th birthday today still at work in the garment plant he established 50 years ago. "My doctor was telling me to get so much rest and not to work hard," he says. "So I asked him how many people he had issued death certificates for who had killed themselves working. Not a one." Hatcher's formula for success in business and for a long life is to work seven hours a day, seven days a week. He has used his "seven-seven" plan since he and a partner founded Spencer's Inc. in a tobacco warehouse here with 20 employees. Now Spencer's produces a full line of children's clothing and employs about 1,700. Hatcher was one of 10 children born on a 1,000 acre farm on the Dan River in Patrick County, Va. in 1882. But he left the family farm when he and the late James Henry Crossingham Sr. got together by chance and started the garment mill. Hatcher never married. "When I was at a marriageable age, I had many obligations and I couldn't take on any more," he said. "When I got to the place where I was able to support a wife, I was too turned old."

Dismisses 11 Of 12 Allegations

RALEIGH (AP) — An official of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has dismissed 11 of 12 allegations of bad faith bargaining filed by Raleigh Typographical Union No. 54 against the News and Observer Publishing Co. In a letter dated Thursday, NLRB Regional Director Reed Johnston of Winston-Salem said that as the result of an investigation, available evidence was insufficient to establish that the publishing company was guilty of 11 of the allegations.

Tobacco Thefts A Problem

RALEIGH (AP) — Director Haywood Starling of the State Bureau of Investigation says thefts of tobacco from barns and trucks continue to be a serious problem in North Carolina despite strenuous efforts to halt them. Starling said, "A number of groups are stealing tobacco from curing barns and from trucks." The SBI assigned two agents to special duty on this project and reward circulars were posted in tobacco warehouses in the state in moves to discourage the thefts, Starling related.

Heiress Seeks Divorce

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Heiress Christina Onassis Andreadis and her husband, Alexander, appear headed for a divorce despite efforts by the Greek Orthodox Church to bring about a reconciliation, sources close to her family said Saturday. Church sources said the 25-year-old daughter of the late Aristotle Onassis filed for divorce from her second husband Sept. 23, giving "incompatibility" as the reason.

Hobby, Livelihood, Educational Tool—All In One

By GAIL VAN HORN
Marshall Independent Staff Writer
MARSHALL, Minn. (AP) — Most people think of their telephone as a practical convenience. But for Bob Riddell, who keeps 148 working telephones in his Balaton home in southwestern Minnesota, his phones are his hobby, livelihood, educational tool, preoccupation and fascination.

Riddell, 29, the owner of the smallest sole proprietorship telephone company in the United States, became interested in the modern electronic marvels at age 3 when he was given his first real telephone, which he remembers tearing apart to inspect.

By the seventh grade he had built his first telephone switchboard from a peach crate on an end table, and by ninth grade he was given his first real switchboard.

He credits his father, Bob N. Riddell, with teaching him electrical safety.

After graduating from Russell High School in 1965, Riddell worked summers for the Alexandria, Minn., Telephone Co. while attending the University of Minnesota at Morris. After earning a bachelor's degree in elementary education, he enrolled in a master's degree program in Christian education at Bethel Seminary in St. Paul. He continued at various telephone jobs and substitute teaching until he acquired his own company.

He formed the Northern Telephone Co. on Dec. 1, 1972, in Wawina Township, Minn., 55 miles northwest of Duluth (where he grew up) and 25 miles southeast of Grand Rapids.

"It is the company no-one else wanted, even one of the largest of the independent phone companies. Our motto is 'Since we're the smallest, we try hardest,'" he said.

The company serves 36 residences and 3 businesses, and Riddell plans to install one pay phone soon, making 40 subscribers. It had been Wawina Township Telephone Line before Riddell took it over after having worked with it for a year.

"I visit each subscriber at their home once a year. I have good rapport with them — they're happy," he laughed. He knows his entire phone book by memory.

Riddell's own home, located on a Balaton mail route and served by Russell phone lines, contains an historical collection of 108 phones in the basement and 40 more modern instruments in his parents' upstairs living quarters and his downstairs apartment.

The basement collection includes instruments from Western Electric, L. M. Ericsson of Sweden, Siemens of England and Connecticut Telephone and Telegraph.

It spans Alexander Graham

Bell's invention's history, covering an 1895 Magneto wall set, a 1915 dial phone and ranging up to the latest colored instruments.

The 108 collector telephones are connected to an intercom system and can only be used within the house. Only the white ones of the remaining 40 are working telephones connected to outside lines.

A visitor to the Riddell home never need worry about being locked in a closet. A telephone will connect him or her to the outside world immediately.

Telephone extensions are located in the attic, barn, garden, two in each bathroom, circuit breaker box, equipment room, fruit room, behind stairs, furnace room, library, garage, pump house, laundry room and two in an old outhouse.

Telephone intercom extensions greet visitors at both doors, where instructions are printed as to which number to dial. "If no one answers, then we obviously are not at home," the sign states.

Besides providing Riddell with a hobby and business, the telephone company served as a preoccupation for him while convalescing from injuries sustained when a train hit his car near Wawina Township. The accident occurred 12 days after he purchased the company, Dec. 13, 1972.

Recently Riddell has been updating his teaching certificate at Southwest State University in Marshall. Lest anyone think him eccentric, Riddell hastens to add that most of the home's 40 working telephones were installed by Jackson Area Vocational-Technical Institute students enrolled in a telephone technology class.

Fur Takers To Convene

Next Sunday, October 10, the Fourth Annual Convention of the North Carolina Fur Takers will be held in Washington (N.C.) at the American Legion Post No. 15, Beaufort County Fair Grounds.

An all day affair, the meeting will be highlighted by guest speakers, a show of trapping supplies and the showing of movies on trapping.

According to Albert L. Urback of Chocowinity, this is the first year that the annual N.C. Fur Takers convention has been held in the eastern part of the state.

An invitation is extended to all persons interested in trapping wild animals. Those attending are asked to bring photographs of their fur catch, or any other item that would be of interest to trappers.

Ford Reprimands Butz; Others Want Him Fired

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, reprimanded by President Ford for slurs against blacks, was described by Jimmy Carter Saturday as insensitive to people, an embarrassment to the Ford administration and a danger to Ford's election prospects.

Butz says he regrets his language, but some fellow Republicans are calling for his dismissal.

Ford's vice presidential running mate, Bob Dole, called Butz remarks "stupid" and "ill conceived," but compared them to recently criticized statements by Carter about lust and adultery. "Whether its Butz or Carter, it seems to me the American people deserve better," Dole said.

The agriculture secretary was summoned to the White House on Friday and was given "a severe reprimand" by Ford, who found Butz' racial comments "highly offensive," presidential aides said.

But reaction rolled in quickly from both Republicans and Democrats. There were strong calls for Butz to resign or for Ford to fire him.

At a news conference Saturday in Pittsburgh, Carter said Butz' slurs are "a continuation of the insensitivity of Mr. Butz for people of this country."

Asked by reporters whether Butz should be fired, Carter repeated his long-standing position that Butz "should never have been in office as secretary of agriculture."

Carter said Butz' statement

"is certainly an embarrassment to the administration." Asked if he thought it reflected badly on Ford, Carter replied: "I think so, to the extent it is condoned and permitted, yes."

The Democratic presidential nominee was asked if he thought it would have an impact on the election. Carter replied: "I don't know that the news media has reported what Mr. Butz said. I think to the extent people know what he said, it would be very damaging."

Butz' remarks were first reported in an article in Rolling Stone magazine by John Dean, a convicted Watergate figure, who said Butz made the comment in a conversation aboard an airplane after the Republican convention in Kansas City.

Dean, who did not name Butz in his account, said the remarks were made to him and to entertainers Pat Boone and Sonny Bono.

In his comment, as quoted by Rolling Stone and by the magazine New Times, Butz referred to blacks as "coloreds" and described in a derogatory manner what he characterized as their sexual, dress and bathroom predilections.

White House officials said Butz told Ford about his comments after discovering that New Times was naming him as the Cabinet official referred to by Dean in the Rolling Stone story.

Congress was closing out its final session of the year Friday night and the Butz quotation spread rapidly through the Capitol. There were immediate demands that Ford fire him, many of them from Republicans.

Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., the only black member of the Senate, called Butz' remarks "vulgar and offensive" and he added:

"I call upon the President to ask for the secretary's resignation. No man who harbors such thoughts is fit to serve in the cabinet of the President of the United States."

It was the second such incident in which Butz has had to issue a public apology. He apologized earlier after being called to task for a November 1974 remark widely regarded as offensive to Catholics and Italian-Americans.

Butz, 67, was appointed by former President Richard M. Nixon and was rumored to be close to quitting at least twice since Ford took office. But sources say Ford personally prevailed upon him each time to remain.

In his article for Rolling Stone, Dean said he was talking with Boone about the GOP convention when Butz, who had campaigned to win the nomination for Ford, walked down the aisle of the plane and stopped to chat.

Dean reported that Boone said to Butz: "John and I were just discussing the appeal of the Republican party. It seems that the party of Abraham Lincoln could and should attract more black people. Why can't that be done?"

"I'll tell you why you can't attract coloreds," Butz was quoted as replying. "Because coloreds only want three things. You know what they want? I'll tell you what coloreds want, it's three things."

Then Butz continued with the remark that led to the reprimand.

Sporting Goods Store To Open

Jimmy Bond of Greenville announced the opening soon of Bond's Sporting Goods, located in a new structure at 218 Arlington Boulevard.

Bond said that the new business is scheduled for opening during the week of Oct. 18.

The owner and manager pointed out that the firm will be a full line sporting goods store, stocking various lines of sporting items for hunting, fishing, camping, football, baseball, basketball and tennis.

The business will be housed in a new 4,000 square foot brick building, Bond said, which includes a second floor for clothing and shoe departments. Athletic equipment will be stocked on the first floor.

Bond called the facility "unique in the sporting goods field" with the two-floor, mezzanine design. He said that a spiral staircase is also featured.

Dixon Inc. of Greenville handled the construction.

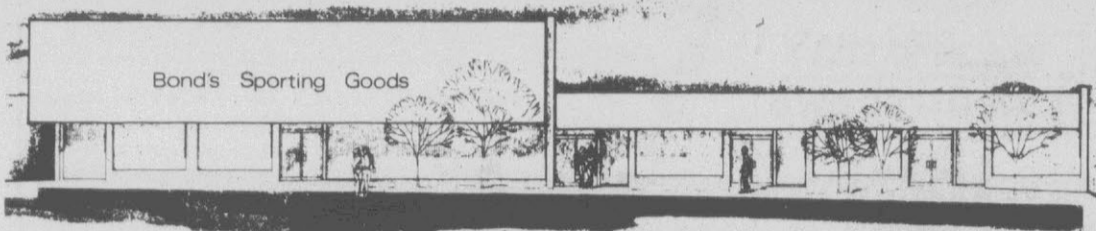

Ample parking facilities have been provided around the store, the owner said.

Store hours are scheduled for 9 a.m. until 6:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Bond, a Greenville native, is a 1970 graduate of Rose High School. He earned his undergraduate degree in 1974 from East Carolina University and recently received his Master's degree in business administration from ECU.

He is married to the former Connie Minges of Greenville

Handicapped Youth Determined....

Bell said presentation of the bike "is typical of persons having understanding of some of our needs." He added, with a smile: "I'm not going to let this make me soft. Physical exercise is particularly important for a handicapped person. But it's good to have when I'm in a hurry to go someplace quickly."

Early Struggles
Bell, son of the late Mr. Willie Bell, III and Mrs. Joyce Bell, is the oldest of four children. There's two brothers and a sister. His first schooling was at a Catholic parochial school which he attended from kindergarten through grade three.

"I graduated from high school in 1973," Bell said. "In my high school years I began to feel more keenly my condition, my need to struggle to improve my opportunities, my mind, my body."

In early childhood, Bell said, "I couldn't walk at all. I had to learn how to walk, to feed myself, to dress."

Numerous operations at Duke University Hospital helped to correct some of his bodily deformities. "But I've had the limit of operations that could do any good," Bell pointed out. "When the body reaches a certain age, if you try to do more, it may be detrimental rather than helpful."

It was in high school that Bell began the process of consciously perfecting an ability to memorize. "I rely a great deal on memory to compensate for my inability to write," he said. "I also depend on fellow students to help me by copying notes to study."

Involved Locally
More and more since he came to Greenville to attend East Carolina University, Bell has become involved in activities relating to school and to his fight to have handicapped people accepted.

"There's any number of programs I take part in," he said. "As band manager of the ECU Marching Pirates, I help with the instruments, in setting up practice times on the field. I love to be around music, and I think George Naff is a great man to give me this opportunity."

"I'm also an associate advisor to the Greenville Junior Police Cadets and thoroughly enjoy working with Hugh Benson in this program. It gives me a chance to work with boys and girls in the teen-age group. I take great pride in this work."

A student member at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Bell is active in the Canterbury Club, a student group.

Bell is becoming increasingly active in projects and programs with a direct bearing on "the matter closest to my heart, getting to meet people, to talk to people, to let them know some of the problems handicapped people face in their relationship with the public."

One of his achievements has been preparing a paper on "Children With Physical Disabilities and Multiple Handicaps," dealing with children afflicted with cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, spinal bifida, cystic fibrosis and hemophilia. He has used this in discussions with teachers in the local school systems.

He mentioned also a program on this subject given to the N.C. Association of Educators in which he and ECU faculty member Hazel Stapleton shared the presentation.

"Right now I'm doing extensive research on the legal rights of handicapped persons," Bell added. "You'd be surprised to know that lots of handicapped people are being denied some of their legal rights."

Another beginning project is assisting in getting an association of handicapped students formed at ECU.

Future Hopes
As the time draws nearer for him to graduate from East Carolina University (he's majoring in social work and is taking his minor in correctional services) Bell looks forward to the future he's mapping out for himself. "Hopefully, I'll go to graduate school."

"I'm in the process of applying for admission to the Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria. I want to become an ordained minister. I'd like to work in hospitals, prisons and in other institutions as a counselor type minister."

And Bell has a dream that he says he knows will be difficult to fulfill. "Someday, somewhere I want to meet a girl I can love, who will love me, who will accept me. She'd have to be somebody special, I realize. But I've always had confidence in myself and I feel this can happen."

Available
Bell is anxious for local groups (churches, clubs, schools, etc.) to call on him for discussions or speaking engagements. "I'll be more than glad to accept any invitation I possibly can," he said. "Anybody who wants to get in touch with me can call 758-3427. That's my dorm number."

A Laughing Matter Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Farrell's job is a laughing matter. So is Billie Waters'. And Vera McGaughey's.

All three are part of a Southern California genre of professional partygoers.

If your party lacks that special something, they'll enliven it — for a fee.

Farrell's operation is by far the largest and perhaps the most exotic. For $75, he promises to spruce up a drooping party with a contentious couple, a clumsy maid, a tipsy butler, a guest who falls asleep — maybe even a nude bartender. And for $300 or $400, you can get a minic celebrity to come to your party.

"I would attend parties and find there was some ingredient missing," Farrell said. "So I invented characters who would infiltrate the party."

The result was Jack Farrell's Party People, a loose organization of about 40 persons.

One of those who goes in his place is Billie Waters of Seal Beach, who has a habit of laughing at the wrong times.

"I go to the parties to play a clumsy maid who has this laughing problem," she explains. "Instead of being apologetic, every time I drop something I laugh."

Do professional party people ever throw their own parties?

"Almost never," says Farrell. "They're too boring."

Dr. Ward Wants Debates With Jones

Joe Ward, Republican candidate for First District Congressman, announced Friday that he has challenged incumbent Congressman Walter

B. Jones (Democrat) to "debate the issues related to the Congressman of the district."

Ward said he sent a letter to Jones, suggesting a debate, about the middle of the week but has not had time to receive a response yet. He did not specify a suggested date, time or place for such a debate but he did note that he thought the cost of the debate (especially television time, if it were not free) should be shared by the two candidates.

"If he is not willing to consider these two alternatives," Ward told the Daily Reflector, "then my campaign may consider paying the entire cost."

Ward particularly wants to discuss the issue of "the shrinking paycheck," he said.

"We are all reading about the new federal projects and grants in the local newspapers of the district," Ward explained. "While these look like goodies individually, in the end they are taking money out of the working citizens' and retired citizens' checks."

"In spite of the fact that more is being taken out of our paychecks in the form of taxes, the government still has severe deficits every year."

The candidate also stated that he feels the right-to-work issue is important because right-to-work laws are "vital to our economy."

Error In Earlier Tax Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Associated Press erroneously reported on Sept. 15 the size of an increase in the tax break for a person over 65 who sells his home.

The overstatement of the increase came in Part III of the series "The tax bill and you" on the tax bill recently passed by Congress. The tax avoidance should have been $36,668, instead of $42,500 as reported.

The story said a person who bought a house for $25,000 and sold it for $75,000 could, under the new law, avoid tax on $35,000 of the $50,000 profit and half of the remaining $15,000.

Under the new law, a person over 65 would pay no tax at all on the profit from the sale of his home if the selling price is $35,000 or less. If the price is higher, he could avoid taxation on that part of the profit that bears the same ratio to the total profit that $35,000 bears to the sales price.

Assuming the same $75,000 sales price, the tax-free cutoff price of $35,000 is 46.67 per cent of the selling price. Therefore, 46.67 per cent of the $50,000 profit, or $23,335, is tax free.

Half the remaining $26,665 is taxable as a capital gain. In sum, the new law would allow tax-free treatment of $36,668 of the $50,000 profit.

The change would be effective for sales made after this year.

Under existing law, not tax is due if the home seller sor $20,000 or less.

Broadway Musical Thursday

A TENDER SCENE... from the predominantly energetically paced musical, "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope," which comes to Greenville for a performance on October 7 at Wright Auditorium. Tickets at $5 are on sale at Mendenhall Student Center.

Broadway comes to East Carolina University in the form of the hit musical revue, Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope on October 7, at 8:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. T.E. Kalem said in Time Magazine, "All heaven breaks loose on stage. This cast is so agile that it defies gravity, and the singers have such richly resonant voices that they could bring down the walls of Jericho. This is the kind of show at which you want to blow kisses." "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" is recently completing a three year stay on Broadway with companies in Chicago and on the West Coast for a year each. The play, won four Tony Nominations, two Obie Awards, two New York Drama Desk Awards, two Outer Circle Critics Awards, four Los Angeles Drama Critics Awards, and the Grammy Award for The Best Broadway Cast album.

Ticket prices for "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" are $5.00 at the door. Tickets purchased in blocks of 20 or more will be priced at $3.00 each. Tickets are available at the Central Ticket Office in Mendenhall Student Center, weekdays from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Black Festival Events At ECU

Gospel Music Today

A gospel music festival, part of the 1976-1977 Blacks Jarts Cultural Festival, is being held today at 6:00 p.m. in Mendenhall Student Center Theatre under the sponsorship of the Student Union Minority Arts Committee. No admission will be charged. The public is invited to attend.

Performing in the festival will be four area musical groups.

Appearing will be the Andrew A. Best Chorale of Greenville, The Interdenominational Choir of Farmville, The Carrie Harrison Singers of Roanoke Rapids, and The Revelation Singers of Goldsboro.

African Food Monday

Mendenhall Student Center Multi-Purpose Room will be the site of an African Foods and Dance Symposium on Monday, October 4 at 7:30 p.m. The program is being held in conjunction with the Black Arts Cultural Festival. The symposium will be conducted by Dr. Robert Bunker of the E.C.U.

Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Mrs. Jo Saunders of the E.C.U. Health and Physical Education Department, and several African students.

Tickets will be available at the door on the night of the program and are priced at twenty-five cents.

Author To Speak Tuesday

Donald Bogle, author of the award-winning book Tom, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies and Bucks, will present a lecture/slide program of an interpretive history of Blacks in American films. Bogle will appear on Tuesday, October 5, at 8:00 P.M. in Mendenhall Student Center Theatre.

Donald Bogle started learning about the movies when he worked as story editor for the film director/producer Otto Preminger. He learned more in researching his book, Tom, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies and Bucks, the first specifically documented history of the black actor in the American cinema. He's still learning, "running out to the movies whenever possible."

In his book, Tom, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies and Bucks (Viking, 1973), he takes a close look at the stereotypes black actors have always been forced to portray examining films from Edwin S.

Porter's 1903 one-reeler, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," through "Birth Of A Nation," "Our Gang," "Gone With The Wind," "St. Louis Blues," "Imitation Of Life" and "Carmen Jones," to "Dutchman," "The Pawnbroker," "Putney Swope" and "Shaft."

Among the actors whose roles he examines are Steppin Fetchit, Paul Roberson, Rochester, Buckwheat, Mantan Moreland, Farina, Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, Butterfly McQueen, Hattie McDaniel and Dorothy Dandridge. His discussion also focuses on contemporary actors such as Sidney Poitier, Roscoe Lee Brown, and Jim Brown, as well as the current rush of new black films on the scene.

Tickets for the program which is being sponsored by the Minority Arts Committee of the Student Union are priced at $2.00 and are available from the E.C.U. Central Ticket Office.

Music By Strutters Saturday

The Soulful Strutters, a North Carolina disco band, will be featured for a victory dance following the E.C.U.-Southern Illinois game on Saturday, October 9. The dance will begin at 10:00 p.m. at Wright Auditorium.

The group is from Fayetteville and has traveled extensively throughout the United States.

Tickets for the dance are available from the Central Ticket Office and are priced at $2.00. The program is being sponsored by the Minority Arts Committee of the Student Union.

Four Plays Set For Pocket Theater

Four plays are scheduled for production this season by the Pocket Theater of Durham, which begins operating in a new home at St. Joseph's Performance Center, 804 Fayetteville St.

The Maids, by Jean Genet, opens October 8 and will be on stage three nights on three consecutive weekends in October. Rebecca Ranson directs.

Edward Bond's Narrow Road to the Deep North is the second play, and will open November 5. Cke Atrial is to direct.

The other two Pocket Theater productions to be shown at announced dates will be Elmatha's Apology, written by Pocket Theater playwright in residence, Rebecca Ranson; and Chemin de Fer, by Georges Feydeau.

Season tickets at $8 can be ordered from Pocket Theater, P. O. Box 1069, Durham, N. C. 27700, or by phone, 688-1704.

Edward Glenn Director Of Community Chorus

Decatur, Alabama native Edward Glenn, now a resident of Greenville, has been named director of the Greenville Community Chorus for the 1976-77 season.

The young musician is a member of the voice faculty in the School of Music, East Carolina University. Glenn holds the Bachelor of Music degree from Converse College School of Music and the Master of Music degree from the Catholic University of America.

During a tour of duty with the U.S. Navy, Glenn, a bass baritone, was a regularly featured soloist with the U.S. Navy band in the Washington, D. C. area and on national tours. In early 1973 he was guest soloist with the National Gallery Orchestra in a concert honoring the President and Vice President of the U.S.

He has sung a wide range of leading roles in opera and oratorio, with orchestras and opera companies in the South and Southeast, and is the recipient of numerous musical awards and honors.

Prior to coming to ECU, Glenn taught at Northern Virginia Community College in Annandale, Va.

He is married to the former Linda Jefferson and is a partner in Jefferson Florist, Inc. of Greenville.

EDWARD GLENN... newly appointed director of the Greenville Community Chorus. The chorus is meeting on Tuesdays at 8 p.m. at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. Interested singers are invited to try-out for the chorus.

Asheville Opening

Theatre UNC-Asheville will open its seventh season with Our Town, Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize-winning drama of life in small-town America, October 7-9 in Lipinsky Auditorium.

Clyde Hiss, Ellen Nagode In Joint Recital Today

At 8:15 p.m. today faculty members Dr. Clyde Hiss, baritone, and Ellen R. Nagode, pianist, will appear in recital in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall on campus at East Carolina University.

They will be assisted by Cynthia Barfield, Pamela Cox, Robert Edwards, Joyce Ford, Alan Jones, Jeffrey Krantz, Michael MacDonald, N.A. Miller II, Susan Pair, K. Christine Sluss, Susan West and William White.

Two groups of songs will make up the first part of the recital. The first is a song cycle by Beethoven, An die ferne Geliebte (Jetteles), written in 1816. This cycle is possible the earliest real "cycle" of songs in vocal literature. Unlike other song cycles of the 19th century, it continues through the entire six songs without a stop.

Six Songs by Brahms is the second group to be performed during the first part of the program. These love songs deal with moonlight, forest foliage, fair love, bird-song, May breezes and other elements of a romantic nature popular in the 19th century.

Following an intermission, compositions to be performed include arias from four Russian operas—"Varlaam's Song" from Mussorgsky's Boris Bodunoff; "Song of the Viking Guest," from Sadko by Rimsky-Korsakoff; Borodin's "Recitative and Aria of Vladimir Galitzky" from Prince Igor; and "Kutuzov's Monologue" from Prokofiev's War and Peace.

The closing selections are two songs from the operettas of Jacques Offenbach, and two Gilbert and Sullivan "Patter Songs."

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend on a first-come, first-seated basis.

New Manager, Dancers For N.C. Dance Theater

WINSTON-SALEM—The North Carolina Dance Theatre is entering its seventh season with a new manager, two new featured dancers and eight other dancers new to the company this year, as well as two new ballets by Charles Czarny and Job Sanders to be added to its 1976-77 repertoire of classical and modern works.

With advance four bookings in six states filled through February, the company is "entering one of the most creative periods in its history," says Robert Lindgren, dean of the School of Dance at the North Carolina School of Arts, and artistic director of the NCSA-affiliated professional dance company.

The new manager is Stanley R. Ware. For three years he was production assistant and assistant company manager with the City Center Jeffrey Ballet in New York. He also has professional dance background and experience.

Los Angeles-born Svea Eklof and France's Michel Rahn, the company's new featured artists, have danced numerous leading roles in classical and modern works. They come to the North Carolina Dance Theatre from Switzerland's Ballet du Grand Theatre in Geneva, where they were paired as principals in d'Amboise's Irish Fantasy in 1975. Both were members of the Nederlands Dans Theatre company the previous year.

Eklof, a dance alumna of NCSA, returned from Europe to dance the title role in the school's full-length production of Giselle last February. Before her European debut she had danced two seasons with the Pennsylvania Ballet and was first soloist.

Rahn, who began his stage career first as a singer and then as a dancer with the civic opera in his native Lyons had danced leading roles for three years in Graz, Austria and for five with the Antwerp Ballet Company before joining the Nederlands Dans Theatre in 1974.

In addition to the new principals, eight dancers, all Americans, are newcomers to the North Carolina Dance Theatre this season. They are:

Cathy Caplin, Charlottesville, Va., Richard Karsten, Phoenix, Ariz., Clare Keane, New York, N. Y., Michael Kessler, Brooklyn, N. Y., Jeannette Makaroff, Appleton, Wis., Daniel Marten, Ft. Worth, Tex., Nancy Shainburg, Memphis, Tenn., and Betty Vogl, Jacksonville, Fla.

Persons interested in details on the North Carolina Dance Theater are invited to write Stanley Ware, manager, N. C. Dance Theater, P. O. Box 12189, Winston-Salem, N. C. 27107.

Sculpture For The Blind In Art Center Exhibit

Seventeen bronze sculptures, all selected for a traveling show from the

of the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, will go on view at the Greenville Art Center tomorrow, Monday, October 4.

Begun in 1966, the Gallery for the Blind was created with funds made available by the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation. The collection and work of the gallery have been expanded with grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Since 1971 it has received state financial support.

Conceived for the benefit of blind persons, the gallery at the N.C. Museum of Art is designed so that blind visitors can explore the sculptures with ease. The items are displayed on a waist-high shelf around the three gallery rooms, with a handrail in front to guide blind visitors through Braille labels on the handrail describe the objects being displayed.

Works chosen for this gallery are all three-dimensional, and range from ancient to modern cultures in varying styles and media — wood, stone, metal.

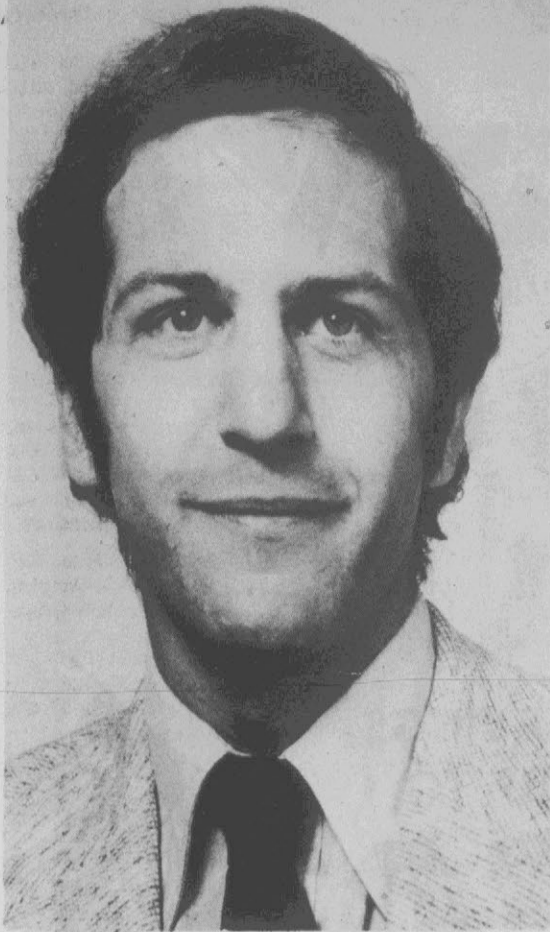

The sculpture has equal appeal to persons who are not visually handicapped and has been a particularly effective means of introducing children to sculptural art.

American, European and Asiatic works are included in the small traveling show and include pieces such as a 13th-14th century Cambodian Khmer Figure; Jimlu Mason's bust of John Kennedy; Marcel Debut's study of a Fisherboy; and Joe Brown's sculpture of a modern swimmer in a crawl swimming stroke.

Viewing hours at the Art Center are from 9 to 12 and 2 to 5 Monday through Friday, and from 9-12 on Saturday. There is no admission fee and the public is invited to see the show.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR . . . Brent D. Blass has been appointed assistant director for preservation programs of the state Division of Archives and History, Glass, assistant director of the Southern Oral History Program at UNC-Chapel Hill, assumed his new duties October 1. Glass is working on an extensive study of "Gold Mining Communities of North Carolina, 1830-1925." (Photo Division of Archives and History).

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By LOUISE WILKERSON PERRY

East Branch Library has received several new and interesting titles from the wide selection of books available this fall. Morris West, author of THE SHOES OF THE FISCHERMAN and THE SALAMANDER, has again written a novel of epic proportions. THE NAVIGATOR is the story of one man and his companions who set out to find the last unknown place on earth. Gunnar Thorkild is a Polynesian scholar at the University of Hawaii who publishes a paper claiming that there exists in the vast Pacific an island known only to the ancient Polynesian priests. Scorned by the academic world, he must prove his belief and so dedicates his life to the quest. The story of the voyage and the group's struggle for survival make for a tale of high adventure and ancient mystery.

Another historical novel by Constance Gluyas depicts the beauty and inhumanity of Restoration England. Sarah Barry has seen the worst of the London slums and prisons, when she is aided by Lord Witherly, only to be claimed again by a destructive fate. Sarah's experiences in an asylum for the insane and the author's fine attention to historic detail present a vibrant portrait of a fascinating period.

Elna Stone's THE VISIONS OF ESMAREE is a chilling tale of the rural south reminiscent of TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD. Esmaree MacMillan is psychic, but nobody in the small town will believe the warnings of an imaginative 10 year old girl. So when theft, adultery, racial unrest, and finally murder shakes the town's calm, Esmaree can only watch helplessly. When at least she is believed she must find someone to trust, lest her gift destroy her.

Peter Dickinson's newest and most original mystery is set in Buckingham Palace, in today's world but with a different royal family. King Victor II, M. D. is a frustrated doctor with two very unusual children. All are busy at work being a royal family, when their daily routine is interrupted by a series of nasty practical jokes which culminate in murder. It becomes clear that there are skeletons in the royal closet and that someone is determined to let them out. As always, Peter Dickinson, author of THE POISON ORACLE and THE LIVELY DEAD, is a master of convincing detail and fantasy.

Poetry Forum Active

Vernon Ward, director of the East Carolina University Poetry Forum, has announced that twice monthly poetry forums are now underway at the university again.

The meetings will be held on the first and third Tuesday of each month in Room 221, Mendenhall Student Center on campus, beginning at 8 p.m.

All poets and poetry lovers are invited to attend. There is no admission fee involved.

The first meeting for October will be Tuesday, October 5 at 8 p.m.

Faris Show At St. John's

An exhibition of paintings by Gladys Going Faris of Wilmington will be on view at St. John's Art Gallery, 114 Orange St., Wilmington, from October 5 through October 30.

The paintings, mostly watercolors, rely heavily on regional scenes for subject matter. Many of the works are landscapes.

Also at St. John's during October, a series of three lectures will be presented by Jim E. Spivey on the topic, "The Arts of Japan. These will be at 7 p.m. on October 7, 14 and 21.

Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

RALEIGH, — Every student who has ever taken music lessons has dreamed at one time or another of performing with a major symphony orchestra.

This dream came true recently in a new program of the North Carolina Symphony when 15 students and two young faculty members from the area were invited to perform a concerto or sing arias or conduct their own composition.

With the North Carolina Symphony in full force on the stage of Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium, and conductors John Gosling and James Ogle on hand to direct, these Symphony Seminar Sessions gave these young musicians an opportunity to get the

Bucs Intercept 22-3 Win Over Citadel

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina University specialty and defensive unit came up with the big plays last night to put the Pirates in good field position and enable the Bucs to capture a 22-3 win over The Citadel.

The victory kept the Bucs unbeaten this season in four games, and moved their consecutive victory streak to 10 in a row, second longest in the nation. It also left the Bucs with a 2-0 Southern Conference record, and in sole possession of first place.

For the Bulldogs, it was their second and worst defeat of the year. They are 2-2, losing their other game to Clemson, 10-7. The Bulldogs are 1-1 in conference play.

Kicker Pete Conaty kicked three field goals in the game, keeping his pace as the nation's leader in that category. His boots of 22, 28 and 18 yards moved him to 10 for the season, snapping the old season record of nine, held by Ricky McLester in 1972. He has 11 for his career, leaving him three short of that ECU mark. Conaty also added one PAT.

Quarterback Mike Weaver scored both of the Pirate touchdowns, on runs of five and nine yards. An attempted two point conversion following the final touchdown fell short.

The Pirate defense held the Bulldogs to just 96 yards rushing and 54 passing. The highly regarded Citadel defense gave up 287 yards, 239 of it on the ground.

But the Bucs didn't need much as they held good field position a lot.

Six pass interceptions kept the Bucs in good shape, while long punt returns also helped along.

The Citadel got its lone score on a 37 yard field goal by Paul Tanguay.

That came on the Bulldogs first possession. Tyrone Roper ran the kickoff back 69 yards to the right side of the field. It also left the Bucs with a 2-0 Southern Conference record, and in sole possession of first place.

For the Bulldogs, it was their second and worst defeat of the year. They are 2-2, losing their other game to Clemson, 10-7. The Bulldogs are 1-1 in conference play.

The Pirate defense held the Bulldogs to just 96 yards rushing and 54 passing. The highly regarded Citadel defense gave up 287 yards, 239 of it on the ground. That put the Pirates ahead, 6-3.

As the second period opened, The Citadel drove from its 34 to the Bucs 23 where another Tanguay field goal attempt was wide.

The two teams exchanged interceptions after that, but it wasn't until Hall picked off one at the East Carolina 41 and returned it to the Citadel 49 that another scoring drive got going.

After the Bucs got a first down at the 38, Weaver picked up 12 to the 26. On third and seven from the 23, Weaver hit Clay Burnett for 14 to the nine, but after reaching the two on third down, the Bucs again kicked a field goal, with Conaty booting this one over from 18 yards out. That made it 8-3 with 4:08 left in the half.

The Citadel once again drove inside Buc territory, to the 39 before being hurled back and having to punt.

The Bucs fumbled the ball back to The Citadel on the first series of the second half at the Pirate 44. But on third down, Hall again came up with an interception and nearly took it all the way back. His 51 yard return to the ten set up the first Pirate touchdown, however.

On the first play, Weaver swept the left side for five yards, and on the second, he again went to the left, this time scoring from the five. Conaty's PAT made it 16-3 with 11:54 left in the third period.

Harold Fort ran an interception back 37 yards to the Citadel 21, but the Bucs fumbled that chance away on the third play.

Another time, the Bucs failed by inches of making a first down at the Citadel 26, and turned the ball over. But two plays later, Harold Randolph intercepted at the 27 and returned it to the 23; setting up the final touchdown.

Weaver kept along the right side for 14 yards to the nine, then carried over on the right from there on the next play. With 11:59, it was 22-3. Weaver was cut down short of the goal line on the two-point attempt.

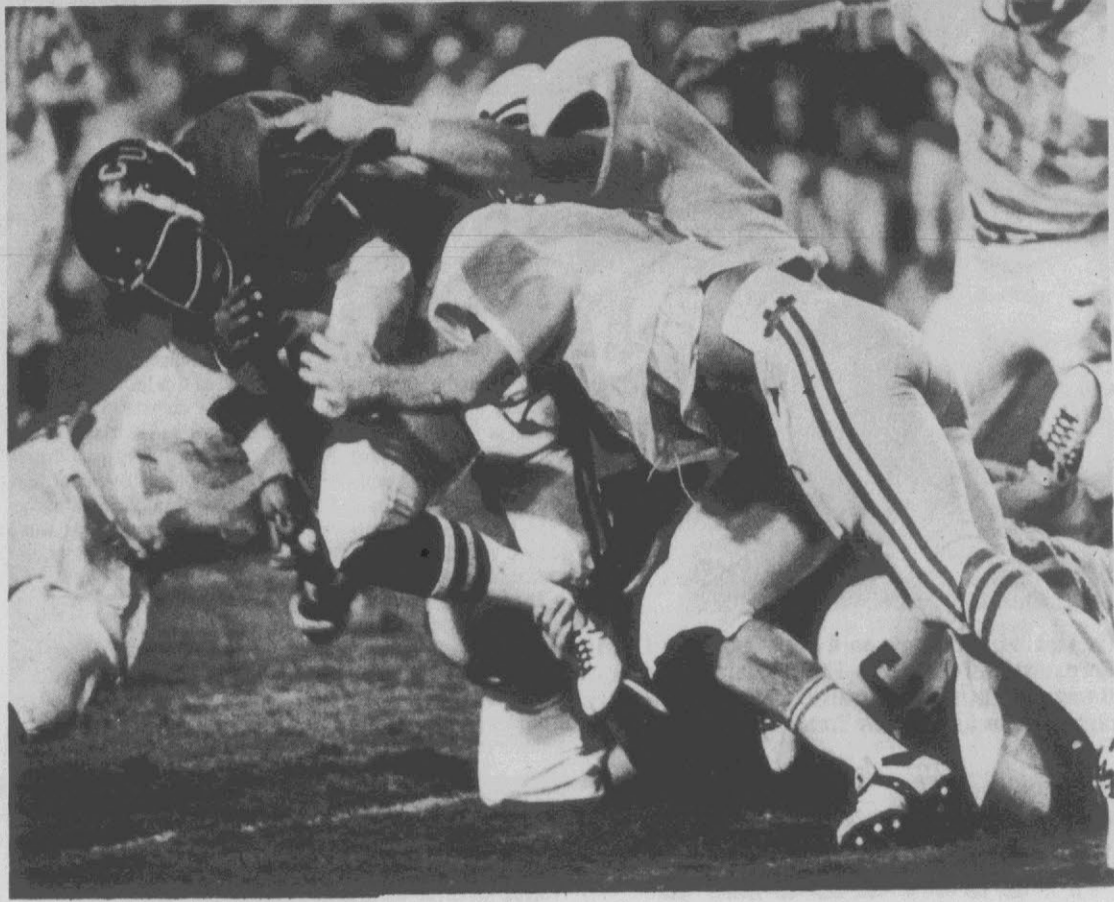

Neither team did much after that as East Carolina went to its bench both offensively and defensively.

Weaver led the Pirate rushing with 103 yards on 26 carries, while Jones had 52 yards on 16 carries. Weaver was also five of nine passing for 48 yards.

The Citadel's Andrew Johnson led the Bulldog rushing with nine carries for 36 yards. Second string quarterback Joe Sumrall went most of the way, hitting six of 18 for 45 yards. All six interceptions were off his passes.

The Pirates return home next week to face strong Southern Illinois, winner of its last three games.

Heels Lose First, 24-3

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer
COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Curtis Brown shook loose from a pair of tacklers at the line of scrimmage, bolted into the secondary and raced 52 yards for a Missouri touchdown Saturday, sparking the Tigers to a 24-3 victory over North Carolina.

Missouri, ranked 12th in the nation, thoroughly dominated the 14th-ranked and previously unbeaten Tar Heels, rolling up more than 500 yards.

Substituting liberally as the temperature climbed into the 90s, Missouri, 3-1, clinched the decision with a 27-yard field goal by Tim Gibbons with three minutes and 50 seconds left.

Quarterback Pete Woods, who engineered Missouri's 22-21 upset of Ohio State in his first college game last week, marched the Tigers 71 yards in 10 plays for a 7-0 lead in the first period. Slotback Joe Stewart covered the final 11 yards on a reverse.

North Carolina recovered a Missouri fumble at the Tiger 16 moments later but had to be satisfied with Tom Biddle's 23-yard field goal.

Missouri took a 14-3 halftime lead when Leo Lewis dashed 40 yards to the Tar Heel one with a punt and Woods dashed into the end zone from there.

North Carolina recovered a Missouri fumble at the Tiger 16 moments later but had to be satisfied with Tom Biddle's 23-yard field goal.

State Wins First Game; Record Kick Nips Indy

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Quarterback Johnny Evans curled a 70-yard pass to Elijah Marshall that set up his own go-ahead touchdown in the fourth quarter Saturday as North Carolina State rallied to a 24-21 college football victory over Indiana.

Sophomore tailback Ted Brown added two touchdowns and kicker Jay Sherrill booted a Memorial Stadium record-tying 52-yard field goal as the Wolfpack recorded its first victory of the season after three losses and a tie.

The Hoosiers, now 1-3, led 21-17 going into the final period after touchdown runs by quarterback Terry Jones and Ric Enis, and a five-yard touchdown pass from Jones to Kevin Westover.

But North Carolina State took just six plays on its first possession of the final period to earn the victory. The long pass to Marshall put the ball at Indiana's 21. Another pass to a diving Randy Hall brought it to the two-yard line, and Evans ran around right end three plays later for the score, his fourth of the season.

Enis, whose second-quarter touchdown had given Indiana a 14-7 lead, finished with 208 yards rushing, three yards short of the Hoosiers' single-game record set last year by currently injured Courtney Snyder.

Enis also set up Indiana's first touchdown with a record-tying 82-yard run in the first period.

Brown finished with 141 yards, marking the eighth time in 12 college games he has surpassed 100. He also has scored 20 career touchdowns.

It took North Carolina State just four plays and a minute and a half to score on its first possession of the game. Two carries by Brown and one by Timmy Johnson put the ball at midfield, then Brown broke through the Hoosier line for 50 yards and his sixth touchdown of the season.

The Hoosiers took even less time to tie the score on their next series. Enis caught a nine-yard pass, then rambled 82 yards to the Wolfpack seven-yard line. Freshman tailback Mike Harkrader picked up two more yards before Jones hit Westover for the touchdown.

Indiana took the lead following a 63-yard drive early in the second period, with Enis going the final two yards for his fourth touchdown of the year.

Costly penalties kept North Carolina State in trouble the rest of the half, and it seemed the Hoosiers would take the 4-7 lead into intermission until Sherrill's long field goal brought the Wolfpack within four points with one second remaining.

North Carolina State grabbed the lead again in the third period as substitute quarterback Kevin Scanlon directed the Wolfpack to the Indiana 13 before Brown ran in for his second touchdown.

Indiana's final touchdown came late in the third quarter after defensive end Carl Smith recovered a Scanlon fumble at the Wolfpack 16-yard line. Five plays later, Jones sneaked through from the one-yard line.

Enis' 82-yard run, which tied the stadium record set by Rick Thompson against Baylor in 1968, helped him to 165 yards by halftime.

Hunter Keys Irish Win

By JAMES V. HIGGINS
EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Junior halfback Al Hunter's 54 yards of first quarter rushing keyed a tough running attack Saturday that carried Notre Dame to a 24-6 victory, over Michigan State, the third consecutive win for the Irish over Big Ten opponents.

Notre Dame running backs broke through the Spartan defense easily in the first half despite the absence of star fullback Jerome Heavens, who missed the game because of a bruised knee.

Michigan State defenders got tough in the second half, forcing a seesaw battle with both teams unable to muster effective scoring drives until the closing seconds.

Georgia Tech Gets First Win

ATLANTA (AP) — Record-breaking David Sims powered Georgia Tech's rediscovered ground attack by scoring a pair of touchdowns in a 35-14 college football victory over hapless Virginia Saturday night.

Sims rushed for 96 yards and scored on runs of six and 14 yards, Eddie Lee Ivey slashed for 123 yards and a one yard scoring run and Bucky Shamburger added 64 yards including a five yard TD run as Tech won its first game of the season.

No. 1 Michigan Tops Wake Forest, 31-0

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fullback Rob Lytle scored two touchdowns and passed Tom Harmon on the all-time Michigan rushing list Saturday as the top-ranked Wolverines blanked stubborn Wake Forest 31-0 in intercollegiate football. Lytle scored on a nine-yard run in the second quarter and on a 25-yard burst in the final period as Michigan won its fourth game without a loss and dropped Wake Forest to 2-3 before a crowd of 103,281.

Lytle rushed for 110 yards in 14 carries to give the senior 2,187 for his career to move him into fifth place ahead of fabled Harmon's 2,134.

The other Michigan touchdowns were scored by quarterback Rick Leach on a two-yard run in the first quarter, a 13-yarder by tailback Harlan Huckleby in the third and a 23-yard field goal by Bob Wood in the second period.

Michigan, favored by as many as 40 points, led only 17-0 at halftime and its high-powered offense never really got untracked. The Demon Deacons intercepted three Leach passes, including one by cornerback Don Smading in the fourth quarter.

Wake Forest's best scoring opportunity came in the first quarter when the Deacons had reached the Wolverine 30 only to have fullback Mark Cregar lose a fumble to Michigan's Jerry Zuver. The Wolverines then drove 70 yards in nine plays to get the TD run from Leach.

Wake Forest also tried a 53-yard field goal by Urban Eriksen in the third quarter, but it was short. The Deacons had moved well through the air against Michigan, but the Wolverines hung in for their second shutout.

Two good punt returns by Jim Smith helped Michigan on two of its scores. Wood's field goal came shortly after a 41-yard Smith punt return to the Wake Forest 13. Lytle's first TD climaxed a 45-yard, 11-play drive after Smith returned a punt 39 yards.

The 46-year-old January, who admits to a certain fondness for the 6,800 yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, had a three-round total of 201, 12 under par in his quest for a second title of the year.

"Oh, I'm just gonna go play my game tomorrow, try to play

more yards before Jones hit Westover for the touchdown.

Indiana took the lead following a 63-yard drive early in the second period, with Enis going the final two yards for his fourth touchdown of the year.

Costly penalties kept North Carolina State in trouble the rest of the half, and it seemed the Hoosiers would take the 4-7 lead into intermission until Sherrill's long field goal brought the Wolfpack within four points with one second remaining.

North Carolina State grabbed the lead again in the third period as substitute quarterback Kevin Scanlon directed the Wolfpack to the Indiana 13 before Brown ran in for his second touchdown.

Indiana's final touchdown came late in the third quarter after defensive end Carl Smith recovered a Scanlon fumble at the Wolfpack 16-yard line. Five plays later, Jones sneaked through from the one-yard line.

Enis' 82-yard run, which tied the stadium record set by Rick Thompson against Baylor in 1968, helped him to 165 yards by halftime.

Pittsburgh Beats Duke On TD Passes, 44-31

By David Nelsen
Associated Press Writer
DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — With his powerful running game bogged down by a determined Duke defense, Pittsburgh quarterback Matt Cavanaugh took to the air as the Panthers struggled past Duke 44-31 in an intercollegiate football game Saturday afternoon.

Pitt's star halfback Tony Dorsett was held to just 45 yards rushing in the first half and one touchdown in the game. Cavanaugh retaliated by throwing five touchdown passes, four of them in the second and third periods.

Duke opened the game with a 35-yard touchdown drive, capped by a four-yard scamper by Art Gore.

With Dorsett bottled up, Pitt stumbled around until late in the first period when Cavanaugh lobbed a 66-yard bomb to Willie Taylor, tying the score 7-7.

In the second period, Pitt got its act together and took control of the ball game. An attempted punt by Duke's Bob Grupp was blocked and the Panthers moved ahead 9-7 when the ball rolled through the end zone for a safety.

Cavanaugh struck again on a 10-yard touchdown pass to Taylor, despite being tackled at the time.

Cavanaugh wrapped up the first half with a 27-yard scoring pass to Jim Corbett, and a 37-yard scoring pass to Gordon Jones just 16 seconds later. The quick followup touchdown was on the first play after Bob Jury snared a pass from Duke's number two quarterback, Dale Oostdyk.

Second-ranked Pitt stretched its 30-7 halftime lead by seven points when Cavanaugh hit Jones on a 24-yard touchdown pass, but the Blue Devils charged back and Mike Barney climaxed a 58-yard drive with a two-yard plunge over the middle. A two-point conversion

Rozantz Passes Rip Virginia Tech, 27-15

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Tom Rozantz picked Virginia Tech's defense apart, and fullback Keith Fimian scored three touchdowns Saturday in William & Mary's 27-15 college football victory over the Gobblers.

A partisan crowd of 35,000 watched in awe as Rozantz ripped the highly-regarded Tech defense on two scoring drives and took advantage of a fumble for another.

Freshman kicker Steve Libassi added field goals of 34 and 41 yards for the Indians' third triumph and a 3-1 record. Virginia Tech is 2-2.

The Indians, who have only four seniors among their 22 starters, scored midway the opening period when linebacker Jeff Hosmer recovered a Mitch Barnes fumble on the Tech 31.

Seven plays later, Fimian scored his first touchdown on a one-yard blast off left tackle. Libassi kicked his first of three extra points.

The next W&M score came in the second period when Fimian drove over again from the one to cap an 80-yard, 12-play drive.

The Indians added Libassi's first field goal and a 14-yard touchdown pass from Rozantz to Fimian for a 24-7 lead after three periods.

Tech scored on a freak play with just 33 seconds left in the half. Barnes threw a 35-yard pass that was batted in the air by W&M defensive end Ken Smith. The ball was grabbed by the Gobblers' Moses Foster, who stepped into the end zone for the touchdown. Tech's other TD came with only 1:50 left when George Heath went three yards at the end of a 99-yard drive.

Reid Ross Rallies Past Rampants, 27-3

WHOOOPS!—The football squirts loose from Rose quarterback Jeff Aldridge as he is hit by Reid Ross' Charles Perkins (78). Aldridge was attempting to hand off to running back Mike Joyner (21) when Reid Ross High School overcame a severe case of the fumbles late in the first half and overcame an early Rose High School lead to gain a 27-3 win Friday night.

It was the fifth straight win for the Cougars, who are ranked number two in the state. For Rose, it was their third straight defeat, as the defending 4-A state champs, fell off to a 1-4 record.

The contest was also the final non-conference game for the Rampants, who open Division I play next Thursday at Rocky Mount.

Derek Brewington provided the Rampants with their only lead of the night when he booted a 42-yard field goal.

But late in the half, Bill Pinkney (brother of East Carolina University defensive back Reggie Pinkney) bulled over from the one to put the Cougars into the lead.

Alphonso Chance added a score in the final seconds of the half, when he fell on a fumble in the end zone.

Quarterback Craig Browning got the third Reid Ross score, in the third period, scrambling for 25 yards, and Wayne Bryson finished it off with a 49-yard run with a pass interception.

Jim McDaniel added PAT kicks after the first three scores, missing on the final one.

Fumbles bothered both teams, with Reid Ross losing the ball on four straight possessions to open the game. Rose lost the ball three times on fumbles and had two passes picked off.

The Cougars opened the game with a drive that moved from their own 28 to the Rose 18 before the first fumble cost them the chance to score. Browning went for an early score, lofting a 40-yard bomb to Chance on the opening play from scrimmage, opening it all the way to the Rose 32.

After Rose failed to move the ball after the fumble, the Rampants kicked it away. But Eric Dawson fumbled it at midfield, with Doug Selby recovering for Rose at the Cougar 49.

Rose then moved it to the Reid Ross 34 before fumbling it back. It took just four plays to get it back—on another Reid Ross fumble.

Taking over on the Cougar 46, Rose drove in three plays for 13 yards and a first down on the 33. Reid Ross was handed a 15-yard penalty from there, putting it at the 19. But four plays brought a five-yard net loss, and Brewington came in to kick it through from 42 yards away. His kick just made it over the crossbar with 33 seconds left in the half.

Reid Ross, after being stopped by a fourth fumble at the Rose 18, finally got cranked up on its fifth possession.

From the Rampant 49 after a punt, Browning hit Chance for 18-yards to the 31. Then, on fourth and four from the 25, Chance broke through for 10 yards to the 15.

Pinkney went up the middle for seven, and a penalty inched it on to the four-yard line. Two cracks at the line netted three yards, and on third down, Pinkney leaped the line for the score with 2:38 left. McDaniel's kick put Reid Ross into a 7-3 lead.

After forcing a Rose punt, Reid Ross moved again, this time from the Rampant 43. A pass put it on the 35, and Pinkney added four from there. Rose was handed a 15-yarder for facemasking, putting the ball on the 16.

Browning, almost caught in the backfield, flipped the ball back to Chance for a nine-yard gain to the seven. Then, on the next play, Browning went around the right side, and, just as he was hit at the two, appeared to lateral to Chance. The ball was bobbled, however, and went into the end zone, where Chance recovered with seven seconds left, making it 14-3.

Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner argued in vain that the flip was a forward lateral, and drew only two 15-yard penalties on the kickoff for his troubles. "The referee claimed it was a fumble," Bumgarner said afterwards, "not a lateral."

After twice holding the Cougars in the third period, Rose gave up the third touchdown on just two plays. Reid Ross got it after a short kick at the Rampant 39.

Pinkney burst through the middle for 14 yards to the 25. On the next play, Browning went around left end, then cut back and sprinted into the end zone for a 21-3 lead. Pinkney was called for a personal foul after the score, and was ejected from the game.

Reid Ross went to its bench afterwards, and failed to move the ball again. They did score, however, then Bryson picked off Ronnie Chapman's pass at the Rose 49 and raced all the way back with it with 5:48 left to play. Rose got off one final drive, starting after the kickoff, from its own 17. The Rampants drove down to the 22 before a fourth down pass fell short and turned it over with just seconds left in the game.

Now the Rampants turn to conference play, meeting the team currently favored to win the title—the Rocky Mount Gryphons.

VMI Rallies To Topple Furman

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Tailback Andre Gibson scored Virginia Military's first touchdowns in 12 quarters and Craig Jones kicked a 38-yard field goal as the Keydets exploded in the fourth quarter to upset Furman University 17-3 in a rain-soaked Southern Conference game Saturday.

The stunning outburst within a span of 5:26 gave VMI its first victory of the season after three losses.

Gibson broke the Keydets' touchdown drought when he slanted three yards over left tackle with 1:26 gone in the final period. The score was set up a 32-yard pass from quarterback Robbie Clark to tailback Johnny Garnett, who made a lunging catch at the Furman seven.

Moments later, Eric Redford's second fumble recovery of the day set up Jones' field goal. Then the next time VMI got the ball, Gibson broke through the middle and out-raced the Paladin secondary on an 85-yard touchdown run.

Furman dominated the first three quarters but had to settle for a 36-yard field goal from Andy Goss near the end of the first half. The Paladins have now lost two in a row after winning their first three games.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Second-string quarterback Bill Kynes drove Florida to two touchdowns and a goal-line defense in the final minute preserved a hard-fought 28-23 Southeastern Conference victory over Louisiana State Saturday.

10-0 in a Southeastern Conference football battle.

The touchdown, set up by a Rebel fumble at the Ole Miss, 9, was more symbolic than decisive. Kicking specialist Neil O'Donoghue's 44-yard field goal for Auburn in the first quarter had already settled it.

Auburn Upsets Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Quarterback Phil Gargis sprinted five yards for a last-minute touchdown Saturday as Auburn upset 16th-ranked Mississippi

Robinson and a defense that refused to budget, thrashed 10th ranked Alabama 21-0 Saturday, virtually killing the Crimson Tide's hopes of winning a sixth straight Southeastern Conference football crown.

Penalties Help Tennessee Win

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kelsey Finch drove for 81 yards, including a 21-yard touchdown and All American Larry Seivers broke through double teaming defenders as Tennessee capitalized on penalties to defeat Clemson 21-19 Saturday.

Seivers tied a school record with 11 receptions for 131 yards, including a four-yard touchdown, to put the Vols in a commanding 21-7 lead in the second quarter.

The touchdown was set up on a 13-yard carry by Finch. Clemson was called for its fifth personal foul penalty on the tackle and when coach Red Parker protested the Tigers were penalized another 15 yards, putting the ball on Clemson's 19. Quarterback Randy Wallace hit Seivers on a ten-yarder the next play and Seivers snared the TD pass two plays later.

Clemson took an early lead on a one-yard plunge by Harold Goggins early in the second quarter following an 80-yard drive in which the Tigers had little trouble penetrating Tennessee's defensive line or secondary.

The Vols came back on the next series of downs with Wallace sneaking over from the one and Jim Gaylor booting the extra point to tie the score 7-7. Nine plays later Finch scored his touchdown on key blocks by Stanley Morgan and Seivers. Both of those scores also were boosted by 15-yard personal foul penalties against the Tiggers.

Apps Win On Late TD Drive

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Milton Clark bolted up the middle for the last yard to conclude an 80-yard drive for a decisive fourth quarter touchdown Saturday, providing Appalachian State with a 24-17 victory over mountain rival Western Carolina.

Clark's burst on second down and goal sent Appalachian State's record to 4-1. Western Carolina swallowed its second defeat in five games.

Western Carolina missed a chance to tie when it lost a fumble on the Appalachian 30 with 53 seconds to play. Western Carolina had driven from its own 16 after blocking a field goal.

Emmitt Hamilton rambled for 10 yards and a touchdown on Appalachian's first possession of the game, climaxing an 11-play, 75-yard drive all on the ground. Western Carolina promptly fumbled and Appalachian quarterback Chris Swecker, a third stringer, flipped a six-yard touchdown pass to full-back Jimmy Dobbins, putting Western Carolina behind 14-0.

By the middle of the second quarter, Western Carolina tied the score with a 58-yard pass and run play from Wayne Toleson to running back Fred Meadows. Both teams added field goals, setting the stage for Hamilton's game breaking plunge.

It was the ninth play of an 80-yard drive which began when Appalachian took possession following the tying Western Carolina field goal and ensuing kickoff.

Appalachian broke a five-year losing string to Western with Saturday's win. The victory won't count in Southern Conference standings since Western Carolina, though a conference member, will not be playing for the championship until next year.

Bobick TKO's Wepner In Sixth Round

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Unde-feated Duane Bobick scored a sixth-round technical knockout over a bloodied Chuck Wepner in a nationally-televised heavy-weight fight here Saturday.

Bobick's punches first opened cuts on Wepner's face when he caught the aging New Jersey fighter against the ropes in the third round. By the end of the fourth round Bobick had opened cuts above both of Wepner's eyes and on his cheek.

The fight was stopped at 1:12 of the sixth round.

The victory was the 36th straight for Bobick since he turned pro after winning the

Bobick, 26, of St. Paul, Minn., caught the 35-year-old Wepner against the ropes in the third and fifth rounds. Bobick's punches left Wepner listless in the sixth round.

Time Runs Out For Oakland

AP Sports Writer
The Oakland A's finally ran out of time, but it seems they'll never run out of wind. Win or lose, the A's always talk—and they had plenty to say Friday night after losing the American League West pennant to the Kansas City Royals. Pitchers Vida Blue and Rolie Fingers, two of Oakland's leaders, took out their bitter disappointment on Oakland owner Charles O. Finley. "We didn't get any help from him," shouted Blue in the Oakland locker room after a 2-0 loss to the California Angels eliminated the A's from contention in the West.

Blue, who pitched brilliantly Friday night, hurled unprintable expletives at the controversial Finley and Fingers added his voice. It appeared that the Oakland players were letting their frustrations all hang out after a long and bitter chase of the Royals that ended abruptly with Rusty Torres' home run in the California 12th.

That blast broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Blue and California's Frank Tanana and gave the division pennant to Kansas City. The Royals missed an opportunity to wrap up the West on their own earlier with a 4-3 loss to the Minnesota Twins. In the night's other American League games, Boston whipped Baltimore 7-4; Detroit downed Milwaukee 5-0 and Texas outscored the Chicago White Sox 11-8. Rain washed out a doubleheader between the New York Yankees and Cleveland. Red Sox 7, Orioles 4. Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs with a pair of singles and a tie-breaking sacrifice fly, giving Boston its victory over Baltimore. Yastrzemski improved his RBI total to 102, marking the fourth time in his 16-year career that he has gone over the century mark. Reggie Jackson put Baltimore in front 4-3 with his 27th homer in the seventh before the Red Sox rebounded against reliever Fred Holdsworth, 4-1, in their half of the inning.

Tigers 5, Brewers 0. Phil Mankowski's two-run single sparked a five-run Detroit seventh inning and John Hiller pitched a four-hitter in his first start since 1972, leading the Tigers over Milwaukee. Loser Bill Travers, 15-16, carried a two-hitter into the seventh, when a one-out single by Mickey Stanley and a walk started the Tiger rally. After a fielder's choice grounder by Chuck Scrivener, Pedro Garcia's single broke the scoreless tie.

Rangers 11, White Sox 8. Tom Grieve pounded a pair of two-run homers, helping Texas beat Chicago. Jim Sundberg and Jeff Burroughs also joined the Rangers' homer parade against White Sox pitching, each collecting a solo shot in the 13-hit Texas attack. The home runs for Grieve gave him 20 for the year and 81 RBI for the season. Steve Hargan, 8-8, picked up the victory in relief.

Nolan Hates That Long Run

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Gary Nolan, the winningest pitcher on the defending world champion Cincinnati Reds, has a pet peeve.

"The only thing that bothers me is that it takes so long for a batter (after hitting a home run) to run around the bases. I just wish that when a guy hits one, he could walk straight back to the dugout."

Nolan, who scattered seven hits in beating the Atlanta Braves 5-2 Friday night, increasing his record to 15-9, has walked only 27 batters—three intentionally—in his 239 1/3 innings.

"It was just a big thing to me," the right-hander said. "But it cost me a few home runs. When you're around the plate, people will hit home runs."

Atlanta's Tom Paciorek slammed his fourth homer of the season in the seventh inning, the 28th home run yielded by Nolan this year.

In other National League games Friday, the Chicago

Cubs defeated Montreal 3-1, Philadelphia edged the New York Mets 2-1, Houston nipped San Francisco 5-4 and Los Angeles clubbed San Diego 8-1. St. Louis at Pittsburgh was rained out.

While Nolan was holding the Braves in check, Tony Perez was providing the Cincinnati firepower, driving in two runs, one with his 19th homer of the year.

Besides the home run, Perez hit a run-scoring double to move to within two runs batted in of his 10th straight season with 90 or more RBI—most by any active major leaguer.

Rick Monday's 32nd homer of the year and Bill Bonham's eight-hit pitching lifted Chicago to its victory over Montreal. Bonham, 9-13, retired 11 batters in a row in one stretch, but needed last-out relief help from Bruce Sutter. Don Stanhouse, 8-13, took the loss.

Steve Garvey collected his 200th hit for the third straight season while pitchers Dennis Lewallyn and Charlie Hough combined to stop San Diego. Garvey is the first Dodger to ever collect 200 or more hits three years in a row. It was Lewallyn's first major league victory.

Phillies 2, Mets 1. A home run in the bottom of the ninth by John Vukovich—only his sixth in the major leagues and his first since 1974—snapped a 1-1 tie and gave Philadelphia its victory over New York. The homer pinned the loss on Jerry Kosman, 21-10, who struck out 11 and allowed eight hits.

Philadelphia scored its first run in the first on two-out singles by Mike Schmidt, Ollie Brown and Dick Allen, who was replaced in the fifth by Vukovich. John Stearns singled home the Mets' lone run.

Astros 5, Giants 4. A four-run rally in the seventh, capped by Cliff Johnson's two-run single, gave Houston its victory despite two-run homers by San Francisco's Gary Alexander and Gary Matthews. Houston's first run came in the fifth on a double by Ed Herrmann and Alex Taveras' single.

Six Unbeaten Teams In NFL Put Their Records On Line Today

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
There are six undefeated teams in the National Football League but only one of them—Dallas—gets to play the Seattle Seahawks Sunday. "Over-all, they're the best team we've seen," said Jack Patera, coach of the expansion Seahawks.

The Cowboys—mixing explosive offense, ample defense and luck—edged the Baltimore Colts 30-27 last week on a 32-yard field goal by Efren Herrera with three seconds left. That gave them a 3-0 record for the young season, giving them three more victories than Seattle.

The Seahawks are still finding their way around the NFL. Seattle has surrendered 98 points so far—only the New York Jets have given up more—and will have their hands full trying to keep Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach in check.

Staubach is coming off one of his best days as a pro, having completed 22 of 28 passes for 339 yards and two touchdowns against Baltimore.

Seattle will counter with left-handed rookie Jim Zorn, who was cut by the Cowboys last year. Zorn hit 20 of 43 tosses for 264 yards in last week's loss to San Francisco. He also is Seattle's leading rusher with 99 yards on 13 carries.

In other Sunday NFL action, Oakland is at New England; San Diego at Denver; Philadelphia at Atlanta; Cincinnati at Cleveland; Washington at Chicago; Tampa Bay at Baltimore; Detroit at Green Bay; the New York Giants at St.

Louis; Houston at New Orleans; Kansas City at Buffalo; Los Angeles at Miami; San Diego at Denver, and the New York Jets at San Francisco.

Pittsburgh is at Minnesota in a Monday night nationally televised game.

Quarterback Steve Grogan, who has been making New England fans forget about the departed Jim Plunkett, will be trying to lead the Patriots to their third straight upset. The Pats stunned Miami and Pittsburgh the past two weeks. Ken Stabler, out of action last week, is due back at quarterback for the Raiders.

The San Diego-Denver game matches the NFL's two highest scoring teams. Chargers' quarterback Dan Fouts has passed for 618 yards in three games. Denver's Rick Upchurch has become one of the league's most dangerous kick returners, having raced 145 yards on four punts last week against Cleveland.

Philadelphia lost running back Art Malone for the season with a bad knee and had several other ball carriers injured in last Monday night's overtime loss to Washington. Atlanta is coming off only its second shutout victory in its 143-game career, but the Falcons offense still is questionable.

Cincinnati's pass defense limited Green Bay to 45 yards through the air and returned two interceptions for TDs last week. Brian Sipe again will start at quarterback for Cleveland in place of Mike Phipps, who has a shoulder separation.

Bill Kilmer has a sore shoulder but nevertheless is expected to start at quarterback for Washington. Chicago will be trying to regroup after being blanked 10-0 by Atlanta.

Baltimore, coming off the tough loss to Dallas, boasts the American Conference's leading rusher in Lydell Mitchell, who has gained 294 yards. Tampa Bay has yet to score a touchdown. Quarterback Steve Spurrier is expected to start for the Bucs despite a bone chip in his right hand.

Detroit and Green Bay, 1-5 between them, both have had offensive problems. The Lions blew a chance to tie the Minnesota last week when they messed up an extra point. The Packers' passing game and running game were virtually non-existent against Cincinnati.

St. Louis will get a boost with the return of fleet wide receiver Mel Gray, who has caught 26 passes for 716 yards and 10 TDs in his last 10 games against the Giants. Gray has been out with a bad ankle. The Giants, 0-3, will be playing their fourth straight road game.

Running back Ronnie Coleman, who led the AFC in rushing after the first two weeks, will return to action for Houston after missing last week's game with a knee injury. New Orleans got in the victory column against Kansas City last week, rolling up a club record 299 yards rushing.

Buffalo, with just 38 points in three games, will be looking for a big game from O.J. Simpson. Simpson had 538 yards rushing after three games last year, but has only 105 so far this year. Mike Livingston will call signals for the Chiefs despite a bad back.

Both sides would like to call off the Los Angeles-Miami game. Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom is angry the game is being played late in the day (4 p.m. EDT) because it interferes with Yom Kippur and he says Commissioner Pete Rozelle scheduled it that way purposely. And Miami is worried because quarterback Bob Griese dislocated a finger during practice Thursday. Griese will play but his capabilities are uncertain because of the injury.

The winless Jets invade San Francisco amid a host of injuries and reports that quarterback Joe Namath's days as a starter are limited. San Francisco's Plunkett enjoyed his best day as a 49ers player last week, hitting 16 of 29 passes for 239 yards and three TDs.

Waltrip Gains Wilkes Pole

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Ford driven by Dick Brooks and a Chevrolet by Neil Bonnett crashed into retaining walls on the slippery North Wilkesboro Speedway during practice Friday for Sunday's Wilkes 400 stock car race.

Neither they nor the drivers of other cars that spun was hurt seriously.

Officials said a sealer applied to the asphalt had failed to dry properly because of several days of cloudy and rainy weather. Practice was delayed for two hours while old tires were dragged on the track to coat it with rubber, and abrasive powder was sprayed on. Drivers said this improved the surface considerably, and Darrell Waltrip went on to become the fastest of Friday's eight qualifiers.

He won the pole at 107.449 miles per hour in a Chevrolet. Buddy Baker was next in a Ford at 106.715 m.p.h., only a tenth of a second slower. Less than half a second separated the first eight qualifiers. After sheet metal repairs, Bonnett, a leading contender for rookie of the year honors, tried to qualify. But he just didn't make it the first day, finishing ninth fastest at 105.218 m.p.h.

The remainder of the 30-car field was filled in trials today. The qualifying record for the banked, five-eighths of a mile track is 108.585 set by Davis Marcis last April. Richard Petty, a 13-time winner at North Wilkesboro, is the defending champion in this race.

Others who qualified Friday were:

- 3. Benny Parsons, Chevrolet, 106.468 m.p.h.
- 4. Cale Yarborough, Chevrolet, 106.413.
- 5. Marcis, Dodge, 106.347.
- 6. Lennie Pond, Chevrolet, 106.137.
- 7. Petty, Dodge, 105.947.
- 8. Bobby Allison, Mercury, 105.411.

Who Knows If Ali's Serious?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Is Muhammad Ali serious or does he have his tongue in his cheek again?

Who knows? As has often been the case with the pugnacious heavyweight boxing champion, only he knows for sure—and no one would bet on it.

There was considerable skepticism among the fight mob to Ali's cataclysmic announcement Friday in Istanbul, Turkey, that he was hanging up his gloves.

"I am skeptical," said James A. Farley Jr., chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission. "He has said it before—now we will just have to wait and see."

"I think he's deadly serious," said Harold Conrad, publicist and promoter who has had a prominent role in many of Ali's fights, directing the second bout with Sonny Liston in Lewiston, Maine, in 1965.

"He hid out at my house four days before the Ken Norton fight this week. He reflected a lot of inner conflict. A fighter is the last to admit that he is slowing up. All complained a lot about the rat race and the rigors of training."

Many of boxing's leading personalities were gathered at a midtown steak house Friday for a CBS preview of the Ali-Norton fight film and the place buzzed with speculation over the champion's true intentions. Norton was there, still insisting that the officials robbed him Tuesday night.

"Sure, I was surprised when I heard the announcement," Norton said of Ali's voluntary surrender of the heavyweight crown. "I think he did it because I knew I whipped him. My manager tells me I am the people's champion now, anyhow, because most people thought I won."

The place crawled with entrepreneurs, the guys who get up the money and choreograph these multi-million-dollar ring spectacles. All apparently were saddened by the news from Turkey.

Ali's skills, unpredictability and personality have turned the once decaying sport into a skyrocketing bonanza. Ali wouldn't put on gloves again for less than $6 million.

"Ali has talked of retirement before," said Bob Arum, chief of Top Rank, Inc., which marketed the Ali-Norton fight to 300 closed circuit theaters and overseas. "Let's wait 'til he gets back to the United States."

Don King, who promoted Ali's ventures in Zaire and Manila among others, said he was convinced the retirement was genuine.

John Condon, publicist for Madison Square Garden, had this interesting version: "I am 100 per cent sure Ali is retiring. But you have to know the man."

Senior Net Finals Set

Four men won matches in the Greenville Tennis Club's 35-and-over singles tournament to advance to the finals today.

Top-seeded Bill Still defeated Bob Irwin 6-1, 6-2, while Jim Bailey knocked off second-seeded Tom Sayetta, 6-3, 7-6.

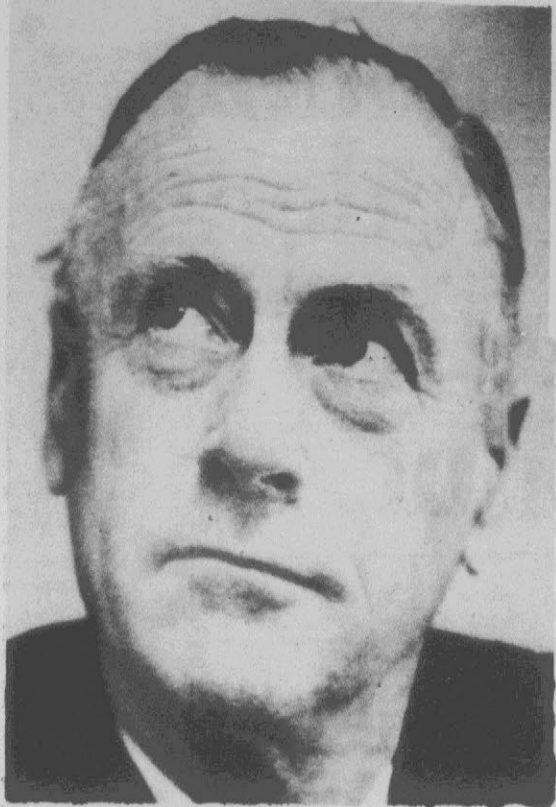

Also advancing to the finals were Steve Creech, a three-set winner over Art Gayla, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, and Jim Gaskins, a 6-0, 6-1 winner over Anthony Giocomini.

Final action will begin this afternoon at 1:30 at the Elm Street courts.

Popular Art Is Omitted

MARSHALL McLUHAN—"In the Third World there is no high art. Everything they do is art." (UPI Photo)

By ALINE MOSBY
 PARIS, (UPI) — Marshall McLuhan, the controversial Canadian expert on communications, was saying that this UNESCO meeting on art was "a whirlpool, a vortex of dialogue and comments."
 Well, what was the meeting about? Reporters asked McLuhan at a news conference given by McLuhan and other participants of U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization symposium on "Art in Today's World."
 "Things become apparent through their absence," McLuhan went on. "They left out popular art. In the Third World there is no high art. Everything they do is art."
 The reporters appeared bewildered. Finally Cuban writer Alejo Carpentier started to sum up the meeting.
 McLuhan broke in to announce, "The press is a popular art. Newspaper people do not like to think that they are artists. It's an insult. They have a degraded opinion of themselves.

"But the press is a popular art form. It's a Third World art form. The press doesn't know this, it just makes news."
 Wait a minute. How is the press a Third World art form? "The Third World does it with drums," McLuhan went on without blinking an eye. "You do it by telegram which is a drum and instantaneous. A news story is structured acoustically in a literary way, it's the pyramid with the first sentence..."
 After a journalism lesson, the Cuban writer continued his resume. McLuhan again broke in to say jokes are an art form in North America which just happens to remind him of a joke:
 "This Lufthansa German pilot is coming to Buenos Aires (this is a Third World conference, so he has to get the story in the Third World). The gas is gone. He says on the intercom 'I'm going to ditch the plane. Swim straight on, it's only 12 miles. There are not many sharks. And for those of you who can't swim, thank you for flying Lufthansa."

 The reporters and conference participants who did not understand English sat in silence. McLuhan's French translator could not figure how to translate that one.
 "Every joke is funny because of the hidden ground under it. In this case the hidden ground is canned airline courtesy," McLuhan explained.
 The Cuban writer started on the problem of relations between the artist and people.
 "The microphone affects politics in Cuba," McLuhan broke in. "Castro by using television instead of radio has been able to stabilize politics in Cuba while Latin American countries using radio, not television, have no stability."
 There was a pause while several of those present debated whether to inform McLuhan that, yes, television exists in South America.
 Finally Carpentier, the Cuban, said gently, "Castro appears very rarely on television. He gives torrential speeches on radio."

 "TV is a cool medium, radio is a hot medium," McLuhan said, undaunted. "You put a hot medium into the Third World and you have excitement, it's a very dangerous instrument. Radio is like rum for Indians, it sends them crazy."
 McLuhan did not specify which Indians. An India Indian at the news conference table smiled wily.
 "Third World people have sensitive ears," said the author of "The Medium and the Message." "The literate man has poor hearing, he can stand the radio raving."
 "The Third world wants to go through crazy industrialization. To throw away its future for the past."
 McLuhan then rushed out to lunch with a parting shot about "the Third World is like a hemisphere in my left hand..."
 Nikolaus Otto introduced the principle of the internal combustion engine in 1876.

THE FIRST 2500 PEOPLE WHO COME IN FOR A FREE DEMONSTRATION WILL RECEIVE A FREE 'FUN MONEY' COUPON FROM THE PRESTIGE MACHINE THAT THEY CAN SPEND AT McDONALD'S.

Use your First Federal 'fun money' coupon for one of these free McDonald's products: Big Mac™ cheeseburger, hamburger, Filet-O-Fish™ sandwich, fries or soft drink. Offer expires December 31, 1976.

Banks use the money in your checking account to make money. Why shouldn't you do the same? Introducing First Federal's Key Account.

First Federal Savings proudly announces an entirely new concept in personal money management: the Key Account. It earns interest, retains your checking convenience, and provides six important services.

The Key Account is better than a checking account, better than a savings account —because it combines the best features of both. It lets you control every extra dollar of your cash to keep it hard at work earning 5% daily interest. And that includes the money you use to pay your bills and for day-to-day expenses.

Unlike a conventional savings account, your First Federal Key Account keeps your money readily available. Instantly. Around the clock.

Here's how the Key Account works. Instant telephone access to your Key Account and checking account is one of the primary benefits.

When you open your Key Account at First Federal Savings, you retain your checking account at the bank. But instead of putting all or most of your salary into checking, and drawing it down slowly as you pay bills and handle other expenses throughout the month, put your paycheck into your Key Account instead.

Then, whenever you have a few bills to pay or need cash for daily use, just telephone a special First Federal Savings number. Tell us how much to transfer to your checking account to cover those bills or expenses. We'll transfer the money to the bank for you—and that includes any bank in the Pitt County area—and will send you a receipt showing your old balance, the transfer amount and your new balance. (We also record the phone call, for your further protection.)

An important part of the Key Account concept in cash control is that you can make these transfers to your checking account, or from your checking account back to your Key Account, just as often as you need to. Daily, if you like. Twice a week. Whenever you need only a few

The main objective is to keep as much of your cash as possible working continually for you, earning 5% daily interest, in your profitable Key Account.

You receive a monthly statement of your Key Account that lists all deposits, withdrawals, transfers, interest earned and your present balance.

Your statement is issued automatically. You don't have to waste time coming in to have your account updated.

You get a personal Prestige Key Account Card that identifies you as a Key Account holder. It speeds up your personal transactions at your First Federal Savings office.

Out-of-town Prestige Emergency Cash and free travelers checks are extra benefits of your First Federal Key Account.

First Federal Savings will issue you free travelers checks before you go on a trip. If you need more cash along the way, you can get it from your Key Account—without charge—through any of 3,300 savings and loan locations across the nation.

EFFICIENT PLAN SPELLS ONE LEVEL LIVING

HANDSOME HOME YIELDS THREE BEDROOMS, LARGE LIVING ROOM

By Jerry Bishop

Designing a home that is complete on one level is not as simple as it may seem. Often, plans that show single story homes have left something out: storage space, perhaps, or a utility or laundry room.

The Tellura, today's featured home, is one design that can actually be lived on one level. Besides the three bedrooms, two and one half baths, and sizable living room, the plan calls for a work complex that combines food and laundry functions and is complete, right down to the inclusion of a planning desk.

A versatile home, the Tellura exhibits a facade trimmed in brick. Double entry doors add interest and invite guests into the flagstone entry. With coat closet at hand, the entry is set at the crux of the L-shaped design and fashions a traffic pattern with access to sleeping areas, living room, or work areas.

To right of entry and bordering the garage is the work complex, comprised of laundry, kitchen, and half bath. The arrangement is effective and places a garage entry into the utility area. The result is that the utility room serves double duty as a mud room and protects the living area from back yard traffic. Large enough for family dining, the kitchen shows plenty of counter space and a handy planning desk on one wall.

At rear of the kitchen is the dining room, a bright spot for entertaining. Sliding glass doors become floor-to-ceiling walls of glass that admit light and link the room with the corner terrace.

Another sunny room is the expansive living room. Lashed with windows for natural light, the room extends nearly 14 by 24 to function as family fun center or party room. Cross-traffic is all but eliminated by tucking the area at rear to overlook the terrace.

Sleeping areas in the plan are well-furnished with baths. A private bath benefits the master bedroom, while another serves the smaller bedrooms. A storage room with built-in shelves offers space for furnace and water heater, and a garage will house additional storage space.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

Q — I recently started a workshop in the utility room of our house and began to fix things myself that I would not have dared to try a few months ago. While I have bought a number of do-it-yourself books, I find myself constantly confused by the terms that are used. One example is in the matter of wood and sheet metal screws. Is there some easy way to tell the difference between them?

A — Yes. Sheet metal screws are threaded right up to the head. Wood screws are threaded only about two-thirds of the way.

Q — Four years ago, I put up gypsum board walls in our attic. Everything came out fine, better than I expected, except that now I notice some of the nails have started to pop. A neighbor has shown me how to correct the condition, but what he didn't know was how to prevent the trouble in the first place. I am especially concerned because I soon expect to do a similar job in our garage.

A — I got this advice from a professional contractor: Simply hammer in two nails next to each other at every spot where you ordinarily would use one nail.

Q — I would like to use water putty on a repair job I have coming up soon. I find I can get it only in a neutral color that dries whitish. Can this type of putty be colored to match the rest of the surface on which it is used?

A — It may be a little difficult to get an exact match, but water putty can be colored. Use a little dry coloring when mixing the powder with water according to the directions.

Q — I bought some plywood in a local lumber yard and made three cabinets with it. I used a stain on the plywood. Some parts of the grain came out very dark, some very light. My wife and I have decided to leave it as it is, since the effect isn't entirely displeasing. However, I have been wondering what would happen if I had a similar project in the future and wanted to get an even stain. What did I do wrong?

A — Nothing. It is likely that you bought fir plywood, which is the kind you usually get in a lumber yard when you do not specify what the face of the wood should be. Fir plywood usually is the least expensive of the plywoods and is very strong, but there is a wide variation of the summer and winter wood of the growth rings. When the wood is stained, the soft portions absorb more of the stain and come out considerably darker than the hard portions, resulting in a contrasting grain pattern. To alleviate this condition, manufacturers have put out sealers made especially for fir. When the clear sealer is applied, it enables the stain to take more evenly. There is a white sealer of the same type which is used when the final finish is to be paint rather than a transparent coating.

N.C. State University Answers Timely Gardening Questions

Q. Is it true that sweet potatoes should be handled like bananas? (Mrs. L. B., Pinehurst)

A. Yes, both are "tropical fruits" and thereby subject to "chilling injury" when exposed to temperatures lower than 55 degrees. Bananas turn black; sweet potatoes develop hard core upon cooking. Just like bananas, don't store sweet potatoes in the refrigerator. Also, avoid scarring, bruising and exposure to the hot sun. They're accustomed to their soil environment and harvesting has been a shock to their system. Sweet potatoes are alive until cooked and will respond to handling. Be nice to them and you're in for a treat. (George Wilson, extension horticulturist)

Q. Moles are destroying my backyard. How can I control them? (B. K., Creedmoor)

A. Moles are usually difficult to control. Limited populations of moles in lawns may be satisfactorily reduced by trapping with a "harpoon" or "prong" type of trap. Mole traps and directions for their use are available through farm and garden supply or hardware stores. (O. T. Sanders Jr., extension wildlife specialist)

Q. Please suggest some house plants that will grow in a spot about five feet from a well-lighted window. (S.C., Franklin)

A. Most pot plants will grow in average well-lighted areas that have from 100 to 200 footcandles of light, or in areas from four to eight feet from a well-lighted window. Differbachia (Dumb Cane), Dracaena, Begonias, Rubber Plant, Philodendron, Peperomia, Pothos, Christmas Cactus and Nephytis are few of the more common plants that prefer this light range. (Henry J. Sith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. If I plant strawberries this fall, should I remove the blossoms next spring? (K. T., Spring Lake)

A. No. If the blossoms are left on fall planted strawberries they will produce a partial crop next spring. However, you should protect the plants from winter freezes that tend to heave the plants out of the soil. This is best done by mulching over the plants with straw. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

If you see someone beating the daylight out of a piece of furniture, don't assume that he or she has gone berserk.

You may be watching nothing more than a process called "distressing," a form of controlled mayhem on an inanimate object. It usually precedes the application of an antique finish and is sometimes known by itself as antiquing.

While most of us worry about the possibility of marring the furniture in our homes, those who distress furniture are constantly figuring out new ways to make it appear older than it is. The idea, of course, is to produce the effect of age and wear by deliberate means. All of these procedures are much like a makeup artist works over a young actor to prepare him for the role of an old man.

Did you know there are factories that specialize in turning out antique reproductions by using the various methods of distressing? Unfortunately, there are some individuals who "age" a piece of furniture with the purpose of selling it as an authentic antique.

How do you distress furniture? By hitting it with a metal chain; rounding sharp edges, but not uniformly; denting it with a ball peen hammer; whacking it with old keys on a string; scratching it with nails; rubbing it with dirt; sanding it against the grain; bleaching it in the sun; staining it with chemicals; rolling a grinding wheel across the surface; drilling it to create artificial worm holes; scorching it with a propane torch; and using dozens of other ways to simulate aging.

All of these procedures are not used on a single piece of furniture, since the trick is to age the furniture and not demolish it, but two or three different distress methods are often applied to a single object. It all depends on how old and how worn you want the furniture to seem to be.

Distressing is only half the project. After that comes the task of applying an antique finish, known many years ago simply as glazing. There are several ways of doing this, but it consists basically of putting on an opaque base coat, allowing it to dry, then applying a translucent paint and quickly wiping off part of it. If done properly, the base color shows through the glaze and gives what may or may not be the desired antique effect. Once you had to buy all the materials separately, but today there are special antiquing kits that contain everything needed to do the job.

Happy distressing! (If you can or want to fix things around the house, get a copy of Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N. J. 07666.)

The Absent Minded Are Not Forgotten

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Dr. James Reason likes to tell about the time the author G.K. Chesterton sent his wife a telegram saying: "Am in Market Harborough. Where should I be?"

Chesterton also used to monotonously — his word — mistake the home of a friend for his own and have to apologize for coming through the wrong door.

Although he admires Chesterton's writings, Dr. Reason, who is in the Psychology Department of Leicester University, quotes them less as examples of literature than as additional instances of the curious behavior we know as absent-mindedness.

It may be comical in real life for someone to go upstairs to dress for dinner and come down in pyjamas, he says, but the same kind of mistake — a fault in the decision-making apparatus of the mind — can obviously be highly dangerous on the flight deck of a jet airliner.

So Dr. Reason is collecting incidents of absent-mindedness in what appears to be a pioneer survey on the subject.

"Few people regard absent-mindedness as anything more than a momentary and usually insignificant deviation, a temporary break in the link between intention and action," he said.

"It is frequently amusing, in some people even charming, and at worst only to be thought of as an irritating foible. Indeed, as in the case of the traditional absent-minded professor, it is often taken as a sign of great intelligence.

"But these lapses deserve closer study than they have so far received. This is partly because of the light they can throw upon the way we monitor habitual or semiautomatic actions like dressing or even driving a car, and partly because these usually banal mistakes may give us a clue to the origins of certain kinds of accidental behavior which, when they befall drivers, pilots, aircraft maintenance engineers and the like, can and do have serious consequences."

Dr. Reason says the skills that go into driving a car safely at first are "executive programs" involving close attention. With continued experience they become "subroutines," that is the process becomes semiautomated. As the driver's proficiency increases, the whole process becomes largely automatic and occupies only part of the capacity of the "mental computer."

"And it is under these conditions that we become prone to absent-minded behavior," Reason says.

These lapses he lists under four headings — selection failures, discrimination failures, test failures and storage failures. As an example of a selection failure, he recalls that the phone in his office once rang and he answered it with: "Come in."

He cites as a discrimination failure the case of a vague German academic whose sister used to tug his coat as a signal to raise his hat and bow to an acquaintance. On his way home one night his dog tugged at his coat, whereupon he automatically raised his hat and bowed. When his dog continued tugging he said: "Thank you dear, I did bow."

Test and storage failures are usually cases of forgetfulness. Reason has compiled a list of nine air crashes in which the cause was an error by pilot or crew in what had always been a perfectly routine procedure. In one major crash, for example, the crew, when No. 2 engine failed, closed the throttle of No. 1 engine by mistake.

Reason mentions an alleged encounter by the writer Charles Lamb with the poet Coleridge, who in his declining years was a notable bore. Coleridge, like the Ancient Mariner of his poem, once clutched Lamb by a coat button when they met on Hampstead Heath and went on and on about some abstruse subject. After a long while, Lamb, who had another appointment, took out a pocket knife and cut off the button.

He returned some hours later, so the story goes, and heard Coleridge still rambling. So he took up his former position, and the poet apparently never even noticed he had gone.

School For Harpists Keeps The Salzedo Tradition

By MARY MACDONALD
Associated Press Writer
CAMDEN, Maine (AP) — From the end of Marine Avenue, down near the ocean, the stroller hears harp music with the breeze. A group of young people are chatting on the broad porch of the big, tree-shaded house nearby; the garage is filled with large odd-shaped boxes — harp cases.

It would have looked and sounded much the same at that spot on a summer day 40 years ago. Virtuoso harpist and composer Carlos Salzedo lived in the big house and ran the Summer Harp Colony of America. The Salzedo School, as it is called today, is directed by two women with vivid memories of the man. They remember his wearing a dark blazer and white slacks and telling them passionately in a French accent, "The harp is to music as music is to life."

Now, as 40 years ago, amateur and professional harpists from all over the country and from abroad live for the summer with families in this coastal village and walk to the brown-shingled house by the ocean twice a week for lessons.

The teachers today are Alice Chalifoux of Cleveland, Ohio, who became Salzedo's successor when he died in 1961, and her niece, Jeanne Chalifoux of Alexandria, Va.

Both women studied under Salzedo at his summer home here, and they give lessons in the same bright, yellow studio where they learned to play the instrument.

"I used to sit out there in that waiting room trembling in my boots — waiting to come into this room. For a long time it was hard for me to teach in this room because I was a student here," said Jeanne Chalifoux, who first came to the harp colony in 1946 at 16. She teaches in the winter at four colleges in the Washington area.

"And everything is unchanged," she said. "We haven't changed anything about this room. ... It's begun to weather a bit."

The studio — bright with the sun off the ocean and furnished in low, efficient 1930s furniture — is dominated by a sleek, unfilled wood-grained harp, a model conceived by Salzedo.

"It's 'moderne' with an 'e' — like the rest of the house," she said. "Salzedo wanted to get the harp out of the parlor."

While Jeanne Chalifoux is in charge of the school during her aunt's midsummer vacation, she spends six 11-hour days each week — and a few more hours on Sunday — at that harp with students.

"It must look beautiful, as though there's no effort to play that note. ... Your fist isn't pretty," she'll caution a student over Debussy's "The Girl with Flaxen Hair."

Or: "Change your mind. If you're thinking what's on the next page, your audience will know."

Or, to one young woman whose rendering of a Salzedo composition wasn't at quite the right pace: "Carlos Salzedo was a man of great taste."

By the time the big house is closed for the winter, 63 students — most of them young women — will have studied at Salzedo School this summer. A few stay the entire term, others as little as two weeks. Jeanne Chalifoux said 30 at once is about the limit.

Asked what drew them to the harp rather than another instrument, several students answered much like Jeanne Chalifoux, who said, "Well, there was a harp in the house."

Their instruments are not easy to come by, with price tags that may be $5,500 and up, and waiting periods that may be two years.

Some of the students who bring harps to Camden are professionals, who come to polish a piece for performance, or who want to learn what's known as the Salzedo method.

Some want to be professional musicians; others aren't yet sure about a career, but know they love music.

Mattox New Ass'n Prexy

The Third Judicial District Bar Association elected new officers and executive committee members and presented an award at its Annual District Meeting Thursday night.

Fred T. Mattox of Greenville was elected president of the District Bar Association. Other officers include the following: Glenn Bailey of Morehead, first vice president; James Ragan III of Pamlico County, second vice president; Gary Davis of Pitt County secretary-treasurer; and Clifton Everett of Pitt County, Counsellor.

The following are members of the Executive Committee: L. Patton Mason of Cartaret County; Mark Owens, Jr. of Pitt County; James C. Mills of Craven County; and Bernard Hollowell, of Pamlico County.

Chief District Judge J.W.H. Roberts of Greenville was presented a gift to honor him for his retirement in December.

Boaters' Booth At Pitt Fair

The Greenville Flotilla of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary welcomes all boaters and those thinking of becoming boaters to visit their booth at the Pitt County Fair.

Information about boating safety, equipment requirements, courtesy examinations and the sport of boating in general will be available. It will also be an opportunity to find out what the "Auxiliary" is all about; details about its activities and in particular learn how it is affiliated with the parent organization, the U.S. Coast Guard.

Dr. Steelman To Address Society

Dr. Joseph F. Steelman, professor of History and director of graduate studies in the History Department, East Carolina University, will deliver the presidential address at the annual meeting of The Historical Society of North Carolina on Oct. 22 at Elon College.

Dr. Steelman's topic will be "Origins of the Campaign for Constitutional Reform in North Carolina, 1912-1913."

The Historical Society of North Carolina is a select group of recognized historians in the state. Among its distinguished members is former U.S. Sen Sam J. Ervin Jr. of Morganton.

Harris-Coward Vows Exchanged On Saturday

The marriage of Gloria Nanette Coward and Richard Dixon Harris Jr. was solemnized Saturday at four o'clock in the afternoon at St. James United Methodist Church.

The Rev. F. Roderick Randolph performed the single ring ceremony. A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Bill Cain of Greenville. Dr. J. B. Hensley of Greensboro, uncle of the bride, sang "If God Left Only You" and the "Wedding Prayer."

The bride wore an ivory floor length gown with a chapel train of organza and beaded alencon lace. The fitted bodice featured tea cup sleeves, V-neck outlined with alencon lace etched with seed pearls and a queen collar. Venise lace edging trimmed the bodice and sleeves. The full length organza skirt extended into a chapel train. Alencon lace motifs accented the skirt and train. Venise lace edging bordered the hemline of the gown.

The bride chose an ivory alencon lace mantilla attached to a beaded alencon lace caplet for her headpiece. She carried a nosegay of white roses and English ivy.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Alton E. Parks of Greenville, and Mr. Victor Coward Jr. of St. Croix, Virgin Islands. She was given in marriage by her stepfather, Alton Earl Parks.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Richard Dixon Harris Sr. of Farmville, and the late Mrs. Mary Friar Rouse Harris. The father of the bridegroom was best man.

Mrs. Deborah Dodson of Scotland Neck was the honor attendant. She was dressed in a carnation red knit floor length dress with floral applique at the bodice and crossover straps accented with a short red sheer high neckline cape. She carried a nosegay of red, pink and white carnations with red streamers. She wore pink and red carnations with red streamers in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda C. Davis of Scotland Neck and Mrs. Sandra C. Pescato of Greenville, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Dale H. Gay of Charlotte and Miss Teresa A. Harris of Greensboro, sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Shirley E. Denton and Miss Sherry Pinkston, both of Greenville. The flower girl was Mary Ellen Davis of Scotland Neck, niece of the bride. Their dresses and flowers were like those of the honor attendant.

The ring bearer was Jeffery Hayes Mahoney of Grifton. Ushers were Dr. Melvin L. Gay Jr. of Charlotte, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, J. Richard Jones II, Sterling Hight and Richard H. Jennings, all of Greenville, Kenny Moore of High Point, and William F. Obrecht of Baltimore, Md.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length blue knit gown of empiere lace bodice with V-neckline with a chiffon high ring neckline cape. She wore a corsage of pink miniature roses. Grandmothers were remembered with carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pa., the bride changed into a two-piece ensemble of teal blue with a matching blouse. She wore a white orchid. The couple will reside in Greenville.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Sally Broadrick.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is employed by Pavilion Internists, Pa. The bridegroom attended ECU and is president of Exterior Contractors, Inc.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Ward, aunt and uncle of the bride. Miss Laura Ward, cousin of the bride, presided at the register.

Mrs. Joan M. Ward, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Linda Sawyer poured punch. Mrs. Maggie Watson and Mrs. Martha Buck served cake. The refreshment table was covered with a formal white cloth and centered with fall flowers.

The bridegroom's father gave a dinner party for the wedding party and guests at the Greenville Golf and Country Club Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Alex Allen Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. Coy Monk Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Monk, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Monk and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Ryan entertained at a cocktail party following the rehearsal at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

A bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Barbara Draper and Mrs. Deborah Dodson at the home of Mrs. Draper, Friday.

Parents Don't Like His Beard

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this guy for five months, and both of my parents liked him a lot until he grew a beard. When he showed up at my house with his new beard, my parents were actually rude to him.

They said he looked like a bum or someone who was trying to overthrow the government. Abby, I think his beard looks great and told him so. It's not shaggy or neglected-looking—it's carefully cropped and really looks neat.

I was so embarrassed when my folks put this guy down, I didn't know what to say or do.

Abby, you're my parents' age, at least. How do you feel about beards?

BONNIE L.

DEAR BONNIE: If they're neat and well-cared for, I think they're great. Some of the most important men in history had beards: Moses, Jesus, Abraham Lincoln and Sigmund Freud, to name a few. And the Smith Brothers, who coughed up a fortune.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 40 years old and should know better, but it still hurts.

I'm married and have three attractive children. I have one married brother who also has a fine family. My brother lives in the same city as do our parents, and he sees them often. I live in another city, but for many years I've visited my folks once a month.

My mother has a large picture of my brother on her living room wall, and several pictures of him, his wife and all their children displayed in the same room.

My picture is hidden in a back bedroom. There isn't one picture of my three children anywhere in sight, and I've given her several.

When I shop with my mother she takes pictures of my brother out of her wallet and shows them to store clerks, saying, "Here's my son. Isn't he handsome? He's the president of the Blank Company."

It takes several days after I return home to get the ache out of my heart.

Abby, I wonder how many mothers have favorites? Is there a solution to my problem?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Although they won't admit it, most mothers (either consciously or unconsciously) have their favorites, but your mother is extremely insensitive to act out her preference so blatantly.

I suggest that you bring your hurt feelings out into the open! Perhaps it will motivate your mother and will remedy the situation. It's too bad you have to prompt her to keep her from hurting you, but it's preferable to aching forever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO V.H.: That little "gem" about "talking health" was written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox: I quote: "Talk health. The dreary, never-ending tale of mortal maladies is worn and stale. You cannot charm or interest or please by harping on that minor chord—disease. So, say that you are well, and all is well with you. And God will hear your words and make them true."

DEAR ABBY: When a couple divorces after a comparatively brief marriage, I contend that the wedding gifts given to the couple by the parents, friends and relatives of the bride should be considered HERS. And the gifts given by his parents, relatives and friends should be considered HIS. The gifts are NOT common property to be divided equally. (Not legally, I mean morally.)

Would you please comment on this?

MASS. READER

DEAR READER: Your contention makes sense to me.

DEAR ABBY: How does a married woman tell her parents that something is none of their business?

When my husband and I visit them, they ask a lot of questions that we don't care to answer. Most of these concern the private lives of our friends. To make matters worse, my parents repeat everything they hear. And my mother exaggerates until she stretches the truth.

I can't come out and say, "It's none of your business." There must be a nicer way of getting this across. I hate to lie and say I don't know.

DIXIE

DEAR DIXIE: You could say, "Talking about people and their personal affairs is dull and boring. Can't we talk about something else?" Then change the subject.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Miss Patsy Lynn Bibbs Weds

GRIMESLAND — Miss Patsy Lynn Bibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bibbs of Rt. 1, Grimesland, and Jerry Lee Jefferson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jefferson of Rt. 1, Grimesland, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

The double ring ceremony was performed by James Lupton at the home of the bride.

The bride wore a formal length gown of white organza over white taffeta designed with a high neckline encircled with Venise lace. The sheer overlay of the empire bodice was accentuated by rows of the floral Venise lace threaded with pink satin ribbon. The double capelet short sleeves were edged with Venise lace. The modified A-line skirt repeated the beribboned lace design down the front with the hemline of the gown and attached chapel train edged in floral lace.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Randy Lee Bibbs.

The honor attendant was Brenda Mills of Greenville, sister of the bride, and Diane Lewis of Grimesland was bridesmaid. They were dressed in pink polyester floor length gowns styled with short sleeves, empire waistlines trimmed in lace and highlighted with buttons. They each carried a bouquet of red carnations. The father of the bridegroom was best man.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Chocowinity.

The bride is employed by Prepshirt and the bridegroom is employed by General Welding Machine Co.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served at the home of the bride.

Rosalynn Carter Is Featured In Cookbook

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Amid the reams of publicity circulating about Jimmy Carter and family was an item that caught my eye. Apparently the Democratic nominee's wife, Rosalynn, is quite a cook.

It seems that when Carter was governor of Georgia, an organization known as the Junior Associates of the Atlanta Music Club came out with a collection of local residents' recipes titled "Atlanta Cooks for Company" (Atlanta Music Club, P.O. Box 52572, Atlanta, Ga. 30305).

The book was so well received that it was designated the official cookbook of Atlanta. Since it first appeared in October 1968, more than 75,000 copies have been sold and the book is going into its seventh printing. Proceeds from the book go to philanthropic causes related to music, such as scholarships for talented young musicians.

Mrs. Carter's contribution, which appears on page 141, is called the "Plains Special" Cheese Ring. The Carters reportedly served it when they entertained at the gubernatorial mansion.

The recipe combines chopped nuts (peanuts naturally!) and cheese, along with mayonnaise, grated onion, black pepper and cayenne.

The book has a number of interesting offerings for brunch, the noonday meal, tea, cocktail parties, dinners and holiday feasts.

For brunch, for instance, there is a gourmet offering consisting of poached eggs atop brandied liver pate topped with hollandaise sauce.

The luncheon includes an intriguing casserole consisting in part of cubed ham, green noodles, cheddar cheese and chopped onion, green pepper and mushrooms.

Teatime in Atlanta must be an occasion, judging from the recipes which call for such dishes as chicken and almond sandwiches, caviar and hard-boiled egg on toast and Rosalynn Carter's hearty cheese ring.

Despite these tidbits for tea, Atlantans apparently have a hearty appetite for dinner, which features such specialties in the book as Georgia quail stuffed with oysters, and chicken breasts and lobster tails sautéed.

Couple Speaks Vows Saturday

The Faith Pentecostal Holiness Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony Saturday at 7:00 p.m. of Alice Teresa Culbreth and Wallace Reid Odum Jr. The Rev. Haywood Price performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Eloise Jackson of Greenville, organist, and Miss Donna Hardee, who sang "If," "One Hand, One Heart," "The Wedding Story" and for the benediction, the "Wedding Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Culbreth of Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of white organza over white taffeta designed with an open V-neckline edged in floral Venice lace. The fitted empire bodice was overlaid with white antique lace beaded with pearls and lace florets. The full bishop sleeves were also of antique lace. The waistline of the modified A-line skirt was encircled with white satin ribbon and miniature floral lace with a satin how in back with streamers. The hemline and attached chapel length train were bordered in the antique lace.

She wore a fingertip length veil of imported illusion edged in the antique lace held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid with the matching antique lace. The bride carried a formal cascade of white miniature carnations, white orchids, sonia roses with sprays of English ivy tied with bridal satin.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Elma Ipock Odum of Greenville, and Mr. Wallace Reid Odum Sr. of Greensboro.

The maid of honor was Miss Karen Culbreth, sister of the bride, Bridesmaids were Miss Cindy Avera, Miss Doreen Hardee, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Greenville, Miss Frances Shelton of Ashland, Va., and Miss Debbie Thomas of Troy, cousin of the bride.

The attendants wore formal length gowns of shrimp chiffon over shrimp taffeta designed with an open V-neckline accentuated by a double capelet collar. The sleeveless gowns also featured a cascading ruffle of chiffon that extended down one side of the flared A-line skirt.

The hemline was edged in a deep ruffle of organza. The maid of honor carried a brass hurricane lamp bouquet with a cascade of shrimp sonia roses, baby's breath and nile green fall mums tied with green bows with long streamers. The bridesmaids carried identical bouquets.

The mother of the bride chose a formal length emerald green gown featuring a chiffon bodice and capelet with an A-line crape skirt. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal length cinnamon colored gown featuring an empire waist and matching cape. Both mothers wore white hybrid orchids.

The bridegroom's mother wore a formal length peach crape dress with a matching coat and was remembered with a white orchid corsage.

The uncle of the bridegroom, Leon Raymond Hardee, of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Gregory Goode of Petersburg, Va., uncle of the bridegroom, James R. Ipock of Wintergarden, Fla., uncle of the bridegroom, Charles Odum, cousin of the bridegroom, and Ronnie Leggett, both of Greenville.

The church was decorated with traditional green and white decorations using all brass wedding accessories. In the background was a semi-circle candelabra flanked with spiral candelabra standards of emerald greenery and tiered candelabra with bouquets of white snapdragons and chrysanthemums. At the altar was a decorated prie-dieu where the bridal couple knelt for the closing prayer and benediction. Pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery. A heart shaped candelabra was lighted during the ceremony.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the parents of the bride in the community room of First Federal. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Delma Culbreth, aunt and uncle of the bride. Mrs. Roy King presided at the register.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of shrimp sonia roses, yellow snapdragons and baby's breath. Mrs. Gregory Goode served the wedding cake and Mrs. Leonard Culbreth poured punch.

The wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained Friday evening following the rehearsal by the bridegroom's mother, maternal grandparents and aunts and uncles.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Despite a study at the University of Michigan that shows married people are the happiest in U.S. society, about half of the people married last year laughed all the way to the divorce courts.

The remarriages of husbands and wives—some several times—has created some rather, unique families. Not just his, hers, mine, and ours, but some real mind-bogglers.

One boy, whose divorced mother had four children and married a widower with five, all under 18, lamented, "I'll be the only boy in town with two brothers named Jimmy, a brother and a sister a month apart and two sisters 12 days apart. Everyone will think you're a rabbit!"

Bearing this in mind, there are probably some ramifications that we haven't begun to consider.

A simple invitation to a PTA meeting could be pretty interesting. "Charles," says Miss Whitechalk, "did you take home the notice of the PTA Open House to your mother?"

"Yes, I gave it to all three of them."

"It would be nice if all three of them would show up."

"Not so nice. My dad is coming."

"I already met your sister."

She's the one who meets you in the lunchroom, isn't she?"

"She used to be my sister. Now she's my cousin."

"I don't understand."

"Her mother married my mother's brother which made my former mother my aunt."

"Then who is Evelyn who has your same name?"

"We're twins."

"But you're six and eight."

"Twins, but not to each other."

"Then, you're related through marriage."

"No, through divorce."

"How do you keep all of this straight?"

"I don't. What really complicates things is when I meet someone with the same last name as mine and I don't recognize them."

It will only be a matter of time before the following conversation will ensue on the playground.

"Mike! You stop that fighting this instant. You are not to punch in the face of that nice boy."

"Maybe yesterday he was a nice boy. Today, he's my brother!"

Job Sharing: Perfect Solution

By MARY FIESS
Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Pat Rehberg likes the challenge of being in charge. But she hates the headaches that accompany a top executive's job.

Alone, they were wishful thinkers. Together, they have found the perfect job.

The two women — possessing very different personalities and skills — fit comfortably into one executive seat, the director's chair at the Binghamton YWCA.

Each has the title of director. But each only works part-time, 25 hours a week on the average. They share the salary, responsibilities, problems, recognition and — to Mrs. Rehberg's delight — the headaches that come with the job.

It's a concept known as "job-sharing" or "job-pairing." Two people are hired to fill one slot. And they get to perform the kind of work that is usually not available on a part-time basis.

The idea has been tried on a limited basis across the country and it is regarded as a work alternative especially geared to women's needs.

At a conference on alternative work schedules here recently, Mrs. Rehberg and Mrs. Brosnan, both of Binghamton, talked about how they have managed their unusual work arrangement.

Each woman works three 9-to-5 days during the regular work week and takes turns attending night meetings and other job-related events. On the one day a week that their office schedules overlap, they thrash out any problems that need their joint attention.

Though they try to share the decision-making process as much as possible, each woman makes decisions on her own as they are required. Both women say they have not experienced any of the problems usually associated with having two bosses in one office.

"For job-pairing to work, there has to be confidence and respect in each partner," said Mrs. Rehberg. "It also takes a certain lack of ego."

Both quickly tick off the advantages of having two brains under one hat.

"We have more courage to try new things. We avoid a lot of executive tension because we can hash things out together," said Mrs. Brosnan.

"Dolores is a visionary. I'm better at planning how to get there. Now how often do you have both things in one person?" said Mrs. Rehberg.

On The Local Scene

A closeup view of fall wildflowers and autumn colors in the mountains will be a feature of a limited enrollment three-day camping-hiking trip in the scenic Cataloochee Valley of the Smokey Mountain National Park Oct. 14-17.

The trip has been scheduled by the N.C. Botanical Garden.

The program starts Thursday evening and will include wildflower hikes up Mt. Sterling and in the Cataloochee Valley, both led by Dr. C. Ritchie Bell, director of the Botanical Garden. The program will end on Sunday with a visit to the Cradle of Forestry on the Blue Ridge Parkway.

All meals and camping equipment will be provided. For further information and registration call the Botanical Garden, Chapel Hill. Registration will close Monday, Oct. 4.

The Southern Christmas Show has been scheduled for Nov. 6-14 at the Charlotte Merchant Mart. The show hours are 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays and from noon until 6 p.m. Sundays.

The show involves decorated Christmas trees, a quaint-old town with old-fashioned shops including piano, clock, lamp, and quilt shops, antique dolls, a church with a cross and creche display and country store. The town will also have a Christmas garden.

Hundreds of craftspeople, bazaars, a food section, gifts, decorated mantels, doors and windows, cooking clinics, craft clinics and fun for the younger set is also a part of the show.

Unique handbags in marquetry were first shown at last year's show. Marquetry is an offspring of parquetry, an inlay craft practiced by the Egyptians from at least the eighth century B.C.

Gastonia's Robert Lowery stores 10,000 square feet of wood veneer in garage, representing over 35 different species of wood. He discovered the fun and beauty of marquetry a few years ago.

There are only four people engaged in series marquetry in North Carolina and Lowery is the only one whose marquetry decorates solid walnut handbags, the others confine themselves to plaques.

Working in his spare time, Lowery estimates he completes about 10 handbags in six weeks. All the finishing work is done by Dwight Ballard, who owns a silk-screening shop in Gastonia.

Plant Lovers Green America's Homes

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Mary Schindler of Portland, Ore., had only two or three houseplants in her three-bedroom cottage in the summer of 1975 when her two 10-year-old nieces came to visit.

The children named the plants and took such interest in them that Mrs. Schindler began buying more.

Now she has 125.

"I would have more, but I give them away as I start more," she said in a telephone interview. She estimated that she starts 10 to 12 new plants every two or three weeks from cuttings or seeds.

"I'm in the second or third generation," she said. "They're an integral part of my home decorating scheme."

Mrs. Schindler, a former school teacher, is typical of a new generation of plant lovers who are rapidly greening the interiors of American homes.

"My husband's been joking about putting a greenhouse in our back yard so I can start a business," she said.

She has 17 plants in the bathroom alone, including some unusual tropical varieties she grew from seeds that had been given to her by a friend who raises tropical plants.

The boom is not limited to houses. A secretary in New York City keeps 35 plants in her studio apartment one large room, bath and kitchen. A Chicago advertising woman trains plants into topiary forms in her office.

But most apparently are in dwellings. The Plant Institute of America estimates there are 975-million houseplants in 75-million American homes.

A recent survey for a year-old gardening magazine came up with equally impressive figures: projected to represent the United States population, the study indicates 44.5 million of the country's 69.4-million households shelter three or more plants indoors. A few million others have one or two plants — not enough, at least for survey purposes' to be classed as serious indoor gardeners.

The survey was made by the W.R. Simmons Co. for Popular Gardening Indoors, launched last September as a quarterly with combined newsstand and subscription circulation of 75,000. Within a year, the circulation reached 200,000.

In an interview, Arnold J. Gluskin, director of research and market planning for CBS Publications, said it will be increased to 300,000 for the first issue of 1977, when the magazine will go to six-times-a-year publication. A fifth issue was added this year.

Gluskin said the survey reached 69.3-million respondents at all income levels. It indicated most indoor gardening was done in households whose incomes ranged from $10,000 to $14,999 and $15,000 to $19,999 a year — 20.4 per cent in the first instance, and 15.2 per cent in the second. But a healthy 13.5 of the households earning $5,000 to $7,999 a year and 11.4 per cent with less than $3,000 a year also keep three or more houseplants.

The urge to surround oneself with greenery is prompted by many factors. Survey respondents mentioned beautifying rooms, the delights of watching plants grow, of having living things around, and getting a feeling of accomplishment and peacefulness, getting back to nature, creating a healthier environment, purifying the air and providing an interesting hobby.

Gluskin said the decision to count only households with three or more plants was made because persons with only one or two may be beginners.

"A lot of people are growing sick plants," he said, which can be discouraging. He recommends buying only from reputable vendors who will refund or replace sick plants if returned within 30 days.

But thousands of plants are not bought at all. They're grown from cuttings or started from seed, in many cases bartered by houseplant owners who are inveterate traders.

One New York City physician whose practice could well afford him rare and expensive plants said he prefers this method instead, both for fun and to save money.

The survey indicated the most popular plants are philodendron, spider plants, cacti, African violets and begonias, in that order. It also listed several dozen others, including velvet plants, palms, asparagus ferns, chrysanthemums, azaleas, ivies, geranium, cyclamen, even Norfolk Island pines. It indicated that more than 48 per cent of U.S. households have other indoor plants in their homes.

Indoor gardening is a highly personalized hobby, as evidenced by survey findings: nearly one-fourth of all indoor gardeners talk to their plants, 21.3 per cent touch them, 6.7 per cent give them pet names.

Rights Of Women, Children On High Court Docket

By JAMES A. KIDNEY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — State abortion bans, paddling of school children. Curbs on who can buy condoms. Insurance coverage for pregnancy. Issues involving the rights of women and children are among many controversial cases before the Supreme Court — nine men averaging 63 years of age. The court's new term begins Monday.

The justices spent the past week in conference deciding which cases among 900 held over from last term and filed over the summer they will formally review. The most important of these could be a decision on whether the death penalty can be applied to rapists.

They already have decided to hear arguments in a number of cases involving controversial issues.

Abortion problems are back again, this time with a topical slant involving whether states can make it harder for poor women to get an abortion. Appeals from Connecticut, Pennsylvania and St. Louis ask whether attempts by the state to bar abortions for charity patients or those receiving Medicaid violate a woman's right to privacy established by the high court's original abortion ruling in 1973.

The Medicaid cases also involve whether states have a right under Social Security law to ban abortions. Federal law could require paying for the surgery, even if the Constitution does not.

The right to an abortion with minimal interference by the state during the first two trimesters of pregnancy was reaffirmed by the justices last June when spousal and parental consent laws were struck down.

The latest challenges to financial aid limits on abortion are topical, with Jimmy Carter and President Ford suggesting federal money should not pay for such operations. The election will be long over before the Supreme Court rules on the matter.

Minors' Rights
Another case involving privacy rights in sex relations comes from New York, where state law forbids distribution of nonprescription contraceptives such as condoms and foam to minors, and limits sales to adults by licensed pharmacists. A three-judge court struck down the law, noting there was no indication minors refrained from sexual conduct because they lacked contraceptives and that limiting distribution of condoms spread venereal disease.

Rounding out the legal problems of pregnancy facing the court is reargument on whether companies violate the Civil Rights Act when they exclude pregnancy from disability insurance programs for employees. The justices seem closely divided on the issue because the full court heard arguments last winter and failed to resolve the case.

General Electric, whose employees filed suit, defended the pregnancy exclusion on cost grounds. Women claim they are denied equal treatment since some exclusively male health problems, such as prostate operations, are included in the insurance plan.

Men's Rights
Men are asking the Supreme Court to overturn laws discriminating against them. The most significant appeal was brought by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare after a three-judge court said the Social Security Act unconstitutionally gives women benefits not available to widowers or husbands.

HEW said unless the decision is overturned it will be forced to spend another $400 million annually from the dwindling pool of Social Security tax revenues.

Curtis Craig's attempt to purchase beer in Stillwater, Okla., has won the high court's attention. The justices will hear his claim he suffered sex discrimination under Oklahoma's law that allows females to buy beer at age 18 but denies the privilege to males until they are 21.

Oklahoma defended the law on grounds more young men than young women are involved in drunk-driving accidents.

Paddling Damages Sought
The Supreme Court has agreed to hear two cases involving other rights of minors. Two Miami, Fla., junior high school students and their parents are seeking damages for injuries the children allegedly suffered from paddling. They also want the justices to decide what rights students have before they are punished.

Another major case challenges the right of parents to commit their mentally ill or retarded children to institutions without going to court. Lower courts ruled in a Pennsylvania case that children have a right to their own legal representation and a full court hearing before they can be committed.

The lower court said parents don't always act in their children's best interests, citing cases, for example, in which troublesome children were committed so the enjoy a vacation.

Other major cases the court has agreed to hear include:

- Whether a legislative redistricting plan requiring a minimum number of minority voters in a district is an unconstitutional quota system.
- Can courts order a community to accept low and moderate income housing development to provide accommodations for minorities despite comprehensive zoning ordinances which, on their face, are racially neutral? Arlington Heights, Ill., appealed a lower court order requiring zoning changes to allow construction.

- How far must an employer go to accommodate employees whose religious beliefs bar work on Saturdays?
- Can New Hampshire prosecute a couple who for religious reasons block out the state motto "Live Free or Die" from their automobile license plates?
- A major appeal from Iowa asking the justices to significantly modify the controversial "Miranda rule" requiring that a confession be excluded if obtained after a defendant asks to speak to his lawyer and remains silent.
- Iowa said courts too often apply the rule in an overly technical fashion and instead should view the "totality of circumstances" to determine if incriminating statements are made voluntarily.

Pending Appeals
Leading the list of reviews the court has not yet decided whether to grant are death penalty appeals involving men convicted of rape in which the victim did not die. The Supreme Court upheld some forms of death penalty laws last term for crimes in which a victim dies, specifically leaving open whether nonfatal crimes also can be subject to capital punishment.

- Appeals by three convicted rapists are on the docket. All three men were sentenced to die under Georgia's law, which was upheld last term as applied to killers.

The NAACP Legal Defense

Fund has asked for a rarely granted rehearing in those cases in which the court upheld capital punishment laws in Georgia, Florida and Texas. Two other appeals give the high court an opportunity to examine Arkansas' death penalty law.

Nixon's Complaint
Other pending appeals the court has not yet decided whether to review include:

- Former President Richard M. Nixon's complaint that Congress improperly gave the government control of his presidential papers and tape recordings. The statute covered some 42 million documents and 880 tapes. A three-judge court upheld the law, suggesting Congress believed "Nixon might not be a wholly reliable custodian of the materials."
- Whether a prisoner "union" must be granted the same privileges to meet and distribute literature in the North Carolina penitentiary as are afforded Alcoholics Anonymous, the Jaycees and the Boy Scouts.
- A challenge to relaxed federal broadcasting rules allowing the broadcast of presidential debates and news professional restrictions on conferences in their entirety without affording opponents in all 50 states, violate the antitrust laws and infringe on a lawyer's right to freedom of Arizona lawyers' contending speech.

Wilderness Is Too Popular With Hikers

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer
DESOLATION WILDERNESS, Calif. (AP) — Hikers get a good taste of high Sierra grandeur in this rugged, glacier-carved region. But if it's desolation you want, better look elsewhere.

This 63,469-acre area just west of Lake Tahoe is so popular with hikers that it now ranks the third most heavily trafficked wilderness area in the country. It's also one of the smallest areas maintained by the U.S. Forest Service.

The farther you hike into this granite-strewn country, the fewer backpackers you'll see. But even at its most remote reaches, you're likely to find company during summer months.

Up to 4,000 persons can be found tramping along trails or camping at one of the many lakes dotting the region on any midsummer day.

Because there's so much granite, the area is not as much the worse for wear as other wilderness regions where there's more vegetation.

But the Forest Service is developing new restrictions now because signs of man are becoming increasingly evident: well-worn trails, old fire pits, fewer fish in lakes and streams, and some debris left by campers.

"This is supposed to be a wilderness area where the signs of man aren't seen," says Forest Service information officer Dick Pine. "But it's getting to the point where we must manage it differently because there are just too many signs that people have been here."

Forest Service recreation officer Phil Corson agrees. He says "Solitude is supposed to be one of the major elements of a wilderness area."

Corson says that instead of a wilderness "experience" here, backpackers are finding "a Central Park experience."

The Forest Service is now considering a lower limit on the size of camping groups. The current limit is 25 and it's not uncommon to run across maximum-limit parties such as scout troops, church club members or several families camped together.

Some limits already exist. Permits are required to enter the area. Camps are supposed to be 100 feet away from streams or lakes. Guns are discouraged, and off-road vehicles are barred.

Hikers are encouraged to seek out other wilderness areas which get a fraction of the use Desolation Wilderness does and offer scenery just as beautiful.

Pine says the area's biggest handicap is its easy access by residents of northern California and northwest Nevada. Other less-traversed areas can be reached just as easily "but they're not known like Desolation is," says Corson.

"This area is used much more than it should be. There are so many other areas where you can still go and see hardly anyone," he says.

Steel Memento Of A Tornado

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Eleven thousand pounds of steel twisted by a tornado will be placed in a city park to commemorate Omaha's 1975 tornado.

The steel has been transformed into a 22-foot-high piece of art by sculptor Sidney Buchanan.

The steel is mostly from a warehouse, hit directly by the tornado.

'Skin Protector' Used On Mars

BETHELEHM, Pa. (AP) — Zinc oxide, which many an Earthling uses to prevent a sunburned nose, is protecting the "skin" of the Viking lander from the harsh Martian environment.

A super-purity oxide was developed by New Jersey Zinc Co. of Gulf & Western Natural Resources Group to withstand temperatures of minus 200 degrees Fahrenheit, Martian dust storms with winds up to 60 m.p.h. and the severe ultraviolet ray exposure of outer space.

The coating is worn by both Viking I and Viking II.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you are able to clarify your hopes and wishes of a personal nature and would be wise to get in touch with good friends to decide just what you want to do in regard to your social life in the days ahead. Good also for considering where you can be of more humanitarian service to others as well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy and improve your friendly relations with others. If invited to some seemingly unimportant social affair, be sure to go as sometime fine comes of this.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Select the proper appliances that will help to make your work easier to accomplish. Impress bigwigs with your fine talents. Make the future brighter by right action.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you listen to what new contacts have to say, you find you can join forces for mutual benefit. Get into the details of some trip you are planning.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your intuitive faculties are working better than usual and should be followed to get good results today. Take it easy tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Understand what is expected of you by associates and combine efforts more intelligently. An attitude of superiority could lose you much so be reasonable.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can accomplish a great deal if you show appreciation to those who have done you many favors in the past. Take treatments that will improve your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) After philosophical studies you can have a fine time at recreation you enjoy. Be careful not to spend too much on such. Be careful of interlopers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care of home chores early. Later you can attend social functions that appeal to you. Study a new project that crops up in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Looking into reports and handling correspondence should take part of your time today. Confer with experts in your line of endeavor. Steer clear of risks of any sort. Hobbies are fun in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care that you are not extravagant in the morning. Later you understand how to add to present abundance. Plan how to make your abode look more charming. Don't neglect needed repairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Concentrate on how to make your life more ideal and less difficult in the future, and how to gain personal aims more readily. Afternoon is best for recreation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get that boring job done early and then concentrate on evening pleasure. Study your problems and then discuss them with an expert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be an individualist and can become a great success in life because of this, provided you know how to handle this child. Teach the age-old standards that are unchangeable. Any profession that requires precision, neatness and aptness of thought is fine.

One Dentist Knows Another

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo dentist, Barbara Sawka, drove to Cleveland for an Ohio dental association seminar recently, and got lost in downtown traffic.

She was driving somewhat aimlessly when she spotted a bumper sticker on a car ahead. It said, "Candy is a Halloween Prank."

That message, she reasoned, could only come from a dentist. So Dr. Sawka followed the automobile and, sure enough, it was a Cleveland dentist going to the same meeting.

"78 Years Of Continuous Service To Eastern North Carolina"

Employ The Handicapped Week

The National Employ the Handicapped Week for 1976 is being observed nationally beginning today and continuing through Saturday, October 9.

In Greenville Mayor Percy Cox has signed a proclamation calling on citizens to observe this week dedicated to providing employment to persons who suffer physical handicaps.

Mayor Cox said: "I urge all firms and businesses to join with me in renewing our determination to provide an abundance of vocational opportunities for handicapped persons as a sound principle of good management." Kendrick (Ken) Taylor, Veterans Employment Representative of the Employment Security Commission in Greenville, is in addition in charge of the local handicapped program. Serving as committee members with Taylor on the program are Walter Tucker and Oscar Moore of the N. C. Division of Veterans Affairs; Patrick Parker of the Division of Services for the Blind; John Corey and Brenda Steel, Pitt Technical Institute; John Anema of the Vocational Rehabilitation agency; and Howard Dawkins of the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop.

Services to the handicapped are provided on a year-round basis by the agencies represented in the committee. "However," Taylor said, "during National Employ the Handicapped Week special efforts are made to inform citizens and employers of Pitt County of problems many handicapped persons encounter in finding employment."

Statistics furnished by Taylor shows that 468 handicapped applicants are in the active files at the Employment Security Commission office in Greenville, all seeking prospective employment.

"Within this number are 125 male veterans and four female veterans and 210 non-veteran females and 129 non-veteran males."

Taylor said that "for some unexplainable reason handicapped Vietnam veterans continue to have a higher unemployment rate than veterans of previous wars."

He said the concern of this situation has led the Employment Security Commission "to give priority to handicapped veterans over any other applicant in job openings in an effort to alleviate this serious problem."

The veterans representative is urging employers to think of "giving special consideration to the hiring of handicapped applicants during this week set aside for special attention on their problems."

Taylor can be contacted by phone at 756-2686 or can be seen in person at the Agency's office located at 3101 Bismarck St.

Patrick J. Parker, rehabilitation counselor for the Division of Services for the Blind, notes that his agency provides services for persons with visual defects. He asks employers "to take time during this week to seriously think about the handicapped employee," adding, "there are many persons who have a disability that is not totally handicapped. Parker can be reached by phone at 756-3130, extension 58, or in person in his office at Pitt Technical Institute."

Another agency active in helping the handicapped is that of the District Office of the N. C.

Division of Veterans Affairs, located at 232 Greenville, Tipton Office Annex. Oscar Moore and Walter Tucker are the two representatives of this office, which assists disabled veterans through State laws and Federal Veterans Administration laws legislated on behalf of veterans.

A number of benefits are available to veterans for whom a disability status has been established. Tucker notes that "disabled veterans are not referred to by our office as 'handicapped' even though they have loss of sight, legs, arms, etc. We treat them as prospective employees in every field available. Most prove to be loyal and dedicated employees to each employer who gives them an opportunity to prove their ability." The telephone number of the Veterans Office is 756-4617.

The Vocational Rehabilitation (VR) agency is a state-federal one that provides a range of services to physically and mentally handicapped individuals. Located at 404 St. Andrews, the telephone 756-3112. John Anema, director of the local office of this agency, says "approximately 8,000 handicapped people live in Eastern North Carolina who could benefit from Vocational Rehabilitation services. These people could return to some type of gainful employment with assistance."

He notes that Pitt County has VR counselors in many areas... "at the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, the Corrections Center, Social Security office, the Sheltered Workshop, at the hospital and the Mental Health Center."

Howard Dawkins, director of the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Rehabilitation Facility, explains that the facility "offers evaluation, work adjustment, and developmental work activities to persons with mental or physical handicaps."

This agency meets needs of people in a 33 counties mid-east section of North Carolina.

A non-profit organization, it draws support and interest from the community and from local government agencies. Emphasis is placed on training handicapped persons in different areas of work as varied as contact assembly and housekeeping.

WE ALSO INCLUDE THE ORIGINAL TARHEEL TOYOTA NEW CAR GUARANTEE 100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world. (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota) Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've been in the factory in Japan, I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out."

Until now most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you knew you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in the Toyota.

"Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last."

Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions.

We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 miles, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, USA. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality. Toyota dependability.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel Toyota when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel Toyota and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. (Asterisk denotes warranted car.)

Flanders Plays President In 'Harry Truman Plain Speaking'

PRESIDENT TRUMAN—President Harry S. Truman once described self as a man who "said what he meant and meant what he said." Now, Ed Flanders performs Truman in a special PBS television presentation of the best-selling book Plain Speaking, on Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 9 p.m. on PBS.

Actor Ed Flanders recreates President Harry S. Truman in a brilliant solo performance of the crusty down-home president on "Harry S. Truman PLAIN SPEAKING," a television presentation adapted from the best-selling book by Merle Miller, Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 9 p.m. on PBS.

President Harry S. Truman once described himself as a man who "said what he meant and meant what he said." The PBS teleplay, using the President's own words, depicts Truman at the age of 68 reflecting upon his timid childhood, his early jobs, his uncomfortable welcome to Congress, his reluctant entry into the vice presidency, and the events surrounding his life as President of the United States — with candid opinions on the likes of Richard Nixon, Dwight Eisenhower, Joseph Kennedy, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Fidel Castro and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The program is set in the library of the Truman home in Independence, Missouri and the Oval Office of the White House.

General MacArthur, pensive recollection of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and real concern for "the average American."

Truman's legendary opinions are directed at many famous figures in American history. "Old Joe Kennedy's as big a crook as we've got anywhere in this country and I don't like it a bit that he bought his son the nomination for the Presidency . . . I don't know how much it cost him . . . I'm sure he didn't pay anymore than he had to." Or, "Nixon I don't think knew the difference between the truth and a lie. I can't understand how he got on as far as he did." Or, "Eisenhower got so he wouldn't see anybody but millionaires. He forgot that they were honoring the Presidency, not him."

"Harry S. Truman PLAIN SPEAKING" touches on some of the more spectacular events in Truman's presidency. The death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Truman's decision to drop the atom bomb and his decision to fire war hero Gen. Douglas MacArthur. During the special, Flanders also captures the former president at some activities he took great pleasure in — walking on one of his well-known energetic "constitutional," and relaxing at the piano.

Barbara Walters Is The New Face On ABC Evening News

Barbara Walters, one of television's most honored journalists, joins ABC News this week. Among her duties will be co-anchoring the network's evening newscast with Harry Reasoner, and the first edition of "ABC News with Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters" debuts Monday, 7 to 7:30 p.m. In addition to her nightly duties with Reasoner, Ms. Walters will participate in "Issues and Answers" and a series of one-hour prime time specials.

She was named 1975 "Broadcaster of the Year" by the International Radio and Television Society, and was awarded an Emmy the same month by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

Ms. Walters was hailed as "Today's Woman" in a Newsweek cover story, and as one of the 100 most influential leaders in America by Time magazine.

Reasoner joined the network in Dec., 1970. Since that time he has served in a variety of capacities — as correspondent, commentator, co-anchorman and anchorman — for ABC News television and radio coverage of most of the major news stories in the nation and the world.

In 1974, Reasoner shared an Emmy Award as "New Broadcaster of the Year." That year, he also received the Overseas Press Club of America Award for best television documentary on foreign affairs in 1973. He received the OPC accolade for his "Report From Africa," seen on "The Reasoner Report" in Aug., 1973, a program he hosted from Feb., 1973 to June, 1975.

Prior to joining ABC News, Reasoner worked for CBS News as a newscaster, correspondent and commentator for 14 years.

Named as Executive Producer of "ABC News With Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters" is Robert Seignethaler who brings to the program a depth of experience in planning for and producing coverage of national and worldwide news. He has been a journalist for 21 years — newspaperman, radio broadcaster and television writer, producer and director.

Lucy Jarvis will produce special programs hosted by Ms. Walters following her debut as co-anchorpersion on the "Evening News."

Describing the upcoming Barbara Walters specials, Ms. Jarvis said, "Barbara will take the audience with her to visit people and places that they always wanted to see and would rarely have had the opportunity to do. There will be outstanding people from the world of politics, entertainment and the arts."

REPORTERS—Barbara Walters, one of television's most honored journalists, joins Harry Reasoner to report the news of the nation and the world, Monday through Friday, on "ABC News With Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters," premiering Monday, Oct. 4 (7-7:30 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

Appeals To Klugman

After 30 years of playing almost every character imaginable — from detective to hoodlum to doctor to gambler — Jack Klugman has found a very appealing role that combines medicine and investigation in his new series, "Quincy," seen on the "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie," 8 to 9:30 p.m.

"I've played doctor and detective, but this is the first time I've played both rolled into one," said Klugman of Quincy, a sharp-witted coroner. "I like the idea that he's pushed into the detective part — he's forced to prove his medical findings to be correct. That's appealing to me."

Trouble usually results when he oversteps his bounds, however. In spite of this, Quincy just can't stay away from the detective work. He examines each victim with the knowledge that medical clues on the victim mutely point to the criminal. In each of Quincy's cases, these revelations usually open a Pandora's box — what is seemingly a routine crime eventually evolves into a very complicated police matter.

Quincy's principal antagonist is Police Lt. Monahan, played by Garry Walger. The coroner's involvement in areas of police jurisdiction often leads to explosive (and sometimes humorous) confrontations.

'Schoolhouse Rock'

"Schoolhouse Rock," ABC's imaginative, Emmy Award-winning children's series of animated films is comprised of three distinct elements - Multiplication Rock, Grammar Rock, and America Rock. It airs Saturdays at 8:55, 9:25, 10:25, 11:55 a.m., and 12:25 p.m. Sundays, it is seen at 10:55 and 11:55 a.m.

Cited by Action for Children's Television, Multiplication Rock was the first in the "Schoolhouse Rock" series, inaugurated in Jan., 1973. It is the recipient of both Emmy and Grammy nominations in 1974 and includes segments such as "I Got Six," which was named Best Picture of the year in 1973 by the International Animated Film Association-East and also received an individual ACT citation.

Grammar Rock, the series designed to unravel some of the mysteries surrounding the English language, won an Emmy Award for Outstanding Instructional Children's Programming of 1975.

America Rock, a segment which encompasses facets of our national heritage, has been awarded the Freedoms Foundation Distinguished Service Award for two of its films, "Preamble" and "I'm Just a Bill." The latter also won the ASIFA-East award for Best Animated Film, any length, of 1974.

While "Schoolhouse Rock" entertains, it also teaches in a way that children can relate to - using upbeat contemporary music and appealing visual elements. The New York Times has said that "Schoolhouse Rock" added variety and substance to the Saturday morning schedule.

The genesis behind the series was the puzzlement of a father, David B. McCall, because his 10-year-old son could memorize words of every rock song, but could not remember multiplication tables.

"It struck me," said McCall, a New York advertising executive, "that it would be good to put the two together - music and multiplication." He originally thought only in terms of producing a record with the multiplication tables set to music, and promptly asked a composer to do the work. But the results were flatly "no good," he remembers.

The project was dropped for a year until performer - composer Bob Dorough came along. "He did more with the idea than I ever dreamed could be done," commented McCall. "Everything began to work like a charm, and we found the songs to be a wonderful way to introduce a traditionally dull subject."

ABC's system of telecasting "Schoolhouse Rock" during the last few minutes of five shows on Saturdays and twice on Sundays provides for the most creative use of a proven education technique - teaching through repetition - without being tedious.

HAD TO TURN DOWN INVITATIONS

Robert Stack, star of the new police-drama series, "Most Wanted," is once again being reminded of the many amenities of life a series star has to give up because of demanding production schedules. Since his series started filming, Robert and Mrs. Stack had to turn down an invitation to be the guests of Princess Grace of Monaco, and another to join Bing Crosby for a week of golf at the famous Gleneagles course in Scotland.

 Kate Drain Lawson, former actress and head of wardrobe for NBC, recalls the live TV days of "The Colgate Comedy Hour": "We were concerned with cleavage in those days," says Kate, "and if a young woman showed too much, we tried to piece the garment tighter by using scotch tape. One actress, standing in the wings, used to rip off the tape just as she was to go on. There was nothing we could do about it except shudder a bit because we were 'live,'"

Savalas Becomes TV Superstar

Telly Savalas, seen Sundays in "Kojak" on CBS-TV, has one thing to say about becoming a TV superstar at 50 — "It's about time!"

The irony of the situation is, however, that doing Kojak was purely an accident. "I did a made - for - TV movie, "The Marcus - Nelson Murders," that eventually spun - off into "Kojak," but I accepted the part, not knowing about the possibility of a series. If I had known, I would have never made the film, because I wasn't emotionally ready for a series." Telly confesses his fondness of "moving around," but now at least 88% of his time is in abeyance.

Telly Savalas grew up in Long Island, New York, with his sister and three brothers — Socrates, Praxiteles and Demosthenes (George), who now plays his bumbling underling, Stavros, on "Kojak." His parents were Greek immigrants and his father was an on-again, off - again millionaire, who went through several fortunes. "Our happiest times were when we were at the bottom of the ladder," he reminisces.

His first ambition was to be a psychiatrist, and he even went on to graduate school at Columbia, majoring in psychology. Disenchantment set in, and he turned to acting when he was 37 years old. He answered a TV casting call and wound up with a small part on a TV show. One small part led to another until he was cast as Pontius Pilate in "The Greatest Story Ever Told." He shaved his head to make himself more villainous, and this was to become his trademark.

Following "Greatest Story," he made many second - rate movies and spaghetti westerns, but never landed the lead. Finally, in 1972, came his big break — "The Marcus - Nelson Murders." Since that time, it's been all uphill for Telly career-wise. "I love the applause!" he exclaims.

Things have not been uphill in his personal life, however, and his love life has been an endless source of gossip and speculation. He's been married and divorced twice, and lived with longtime girlfriend Sally Adams, the mother of his only son. They have since parted and he is seen nowadays with first one beauty and then another.

His answer to criticism of his personal life is: "When stardom comes late, you get caught up in it. I'm enjoying the conceits of my profession and basking in them."

'Seagull' Encores

"The Seagull," Anton Chekhov's classic comedy-drama depicting man's propensity for destroying those he is close to, will be rebroadcast on "Theater in America," Sunday, Oct. 3, at 10 p.m., on PBS.

Featuring Blythe Danner, Lee Grant, Frank Langella, Kevin McCarthy and Marian Mercer, "The Seagull" was adapted for television for a production of the Williamstown (Mass.) Festival Theatre, using the same cast. The play was taped on location at a lakeside cottage and woods in the Berkshire hills.

When "The Seagull" first aired on PBS in early 1975, a Variety review said: "Taping outdoors at a Massachusetts estate, with complementary music composed by Arthur Rubinstein, Chekhov's interlocking drama becomes an intimate, often involving affair as well as one of the best offerings of the two seasons of TIA."

VELEKA'S ADVICE

Veleka Gray, the red-haired actress who plays Victoria Paisley in the daytime serial, "Somerset," provides personal and professional advice in a column she writes for a monthly TV fan magazine.

Newman Is Telling Not Listening

"It does so much for the ego to find yourself on the telling end rather than the listening end."

So spoke actor Paul Newman during the filming of "Sometimes A Great Notion," an action drama to be colorcast under the new title, "Never Give An Inch," on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Oct. 4, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7. Newman stars with Henry Fonda, Lee Remick and Michael Sarrazin.

Though it was the second film he had directed, the 1971 Universal release marked the first occasion that Newman acted and directed at the same time. The two endeavors are closely related.

"It obviously takes a bit of acting talent to be a director," he pointed out, "to make a group of trusting innocents believe you actually know what you're doing."

Newman and Fonda star as the father and a son of an Oregon logging family who decide to ignore a local strike. Fonda portrays Henry Stamper, a logger who considers himself an independent operator who is just stubborn enough to keep his commitments, no matter what the odds.

When strikers sabotage some of the Stamper equipment,

Henry and his family, including sons Hank (Newman) and Lee (Sarrazin) refuse to turn back. They then conceive a plan using human labor to get the logs to the river and then tie them together, floating them to the mill.

Henry supervises the operation even though his arm is broken. But when a huge log accidentally falls, severing his arm and then pinning another family member, cousin Joe Ben (Richard Jaeckel), in a treacherous riverbed, the operations appears to be imperiled.

Filmed on location in Oregon, the drama is based on the popular novel by Ken Kesey.

"The novel is a classic drama of the strengths and weaknesses of the tough, stubborn men who settled our frontier country," Newman said, "but it is told in a rambling conversational style. It's very hard to take that book and compress it, but (screenwriter John) Gay succeeded."

Newman took Gay to the action location noting that "Many scenes look fine on paper but they might not fit when played against a real-life setting."

After location re-writes, the fledgling director concluded, "I believe viewers will find our film extraordinarily faithful to the novel."

STUBBORN LOGGER—Despite a general strike, Hank Stamper (Paul Newman) and members of his family continue to work independently to meet the requirements of a contract to deliver a shipment on time in "Never Give An Inch," an action drama to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Oct. 4 (9-11 p.m.) on Channels 6-7.

The Show Goes On

One of the toughest troupers in Hollywood is a pig-tailed 12-year-old who'd have to put a rock in each pocket to reach the weight of 100 pounds.

Melissa Gilbert, who stars as Laura Ingalls on "Little House on the Prairie" (Mondays, 8 to 9 p.m., on NBC Ch. 6-7), is a firm believer in the "show must go on" tradition—despite pain and injury that would slow down most adults.

Last year she did scenes from which she had to be carried in and out of shots because she had raced her bicycle into a parked car and dislocated her knee. But she didn't miss a single day of work.

A month ago she entered the hospital late on a Friday night, after a full day in front of the cameras, and underwent a double hernia operation. She was back at work the following Monday morning, and by the end of the week she was playing in the lunch-break baseball games.

An example of her dedication came during the filming of "The Hunters," an episode to be colorcast during the new season of "Little House." Everything was going along fine during the filming of a long tender scene.

But the second that the director said, "cut," she leaped into the air and let out a scream that startled the entire crew.

"What's the matter?" asked Michael Landon as he ran to her side. "Ants," she said, jumping up and down. "I was standing on the ant hill, and they're biting the heck out of me."

"Why on Earth didn't you say something?" laughed Landon.

"I didn't want to spoil the take," said the 'old pro.'

Women Play A Major Role In Life Of NBC

Women have played a major role in the 50-year history of NBC, particularly on television where they have starred in a variety of specials.

This was brought to light during the research for the network's "The First Fifty Years," to be colorcast Sunday, Nov. 21, on "The Big Event," saluting NBC on 50 years of broadcasting.

Women who have been featured in their own specials, on NBC include:

Dinah Shore (13 specials between 1961 and 1973); Ann-Margret (4 between 1969 and 1975); Peggy Fleming (4 between 1968 and 1973); Liza Minnelli (specials in 1970, 1972 and 1973); Mitzi Gaynor (in 1968 and 1969); Petula Clark (in 1968 and 1969); Julie Andrews (in 1965 and 1968); Mary Martin (who starred in "Peter Pan" and also headlined a special in 1959); Gladys Knight (1974); Diana Ross (1970); Diahann Carroll (1971); Goldie Hawn (1971); Debbie Reynolds (1969); Nancy Sinatra (1968); Bridgette Bardot (1968); Esther Williams (1960); Eleanor Roosevelt (1960); Cyd Charisse (1959); Sonja Henie (1956).

Over the years, NBC-TV series starring women have included:

Gale Storm in "My Little Margie," Joan Davis in "I Married Joan," Miss Francis in "Ding Dong School," Arlene Francis on "Home," "The Kate Smith Show," "Loretta Young Show," "The Barbara Stanwyck Show," Jane Wyman in "Fireside Theater," "Shirley Temple's Storybook," Rosemary Clooney in "The Lux Show," "The Jaye P. Morgan Show," "The Show," Barbara Eden in "I Dream of Jeannie," Kaye Ballard and Eve Arden in "The Mothers-in-Law," Juliet Prowse in "Mona McClusky," Diana Rigg in "Diana," Diahann Carroll in "Julia," Hope Lange in "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," Sally Field in "The Girl With Something Extra," Shirley Booth in "Hazel," Stefanie Powers in "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E.," Mildred Natwick and Helen Hayes in "The Snoop Sisters," Jessica Walter in "Amy Prentiss," Lee Grant in "Fay," Susan Clark in "McNaughton's Daughter," and Angie Dickinson in "Police Woman."

Frank Converse and Fred Williamson star. (60 min)

Add acting to the many gifts of singer-composer Tom Sullivan. This remarkable 29-year-old, whose book, "If You Could See What I Hear," is in its fifth printing, and who regards his life-long blindness as "an inconvenience, not a handicap," will make his acting debut playing a soldier blinded in combat, in MASH Tuesday, Oct. 5, 9 to 9:30 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11. Sullivan plays hospital scenes with Alan Alda as Hawkeye, who becomes temporarily blind after a gas-stove explosion. Eyes bandaged, Hawkeye doesn't realize that his hospital roommate (Sullivan) also lacks vision. As a steady traveler of the nightclub and concert circuits, the Boston-born Sullivan is accustomed to playing to audience. His greatest national exposure came from singing the National Anthem at the last Super Bowl football game. For one who has always had to cope with a physical handicap, this new challenge of acting posed no more difficulty than earlier ones. From the beginning, Sullivan was determined that nothing was going to keep him from living a full life, despite the pronouncement, within his family, that he would never be like other children. "If you accept such a pronouncement," he says, "you learn to love being pitied. The handicapped person has to get into life, and society must stop putting him behind gates." Sullivan has a notable string of accomplishments, including a degree in Clinic psychology from Harvard University. His athletic skills include rowing on Harvard's eight-oared crew; wrestling, in which he reached the 1968 Olympic wrestling trials; basketball, by means of a special buzzer hookup; and sky diving, water-skiing and golf, which he plays in the 90's. His musical career has encompassed singing with Arthur Fieldler and the Boston Pops, besides his success as a composer and arranger.

BLIND—Hawkeye (Alan Alda, seated), temporarily blinded in an accidental explosion, talks with another patient (portrayed by blind singer-composer Tom Sullivan), a blinded combat veteran, in "MASH," Tuesday, October 5 (9-9:30 p.m.) on CBS Channels 3N-9-11.

REUNITED—Barbra Streisand and Robert Redford star in "The Way We Were," a bittersweet story of a love that could not last, making its TV premiere on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," Oct. 3 (9-11:15 p.m.) on Channels 3W-5-12.

'The Great Houdinis' To Air As Friday Movie

"The Great Houdinis," a drama based on the life and times of the world-renowned illusionist and escape artist whose glittering career masked a deep obsession with the occult, which was culminated by a vow that he would one day speak from the beyond, makes its world premiere as "The ABC Friday Night Movie," Oct. 8, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3W-5-12.

Paul Michael Glaser and Sally Struthers star in the feature which will be telecast just weeks before the 50th anniversary of Houdini's death. Guest stars are Ruth Gordon, Bill Bixby, Adrienne Barbeau and Vivian Vance (Ethel Mertz of "I Love Lucy") in a rare TV film appearance.

In the first part of the 20th century there was not a performer who made more money and drew bigger crowds than Harry Houdini (Glaser), magician, illusionist and escape artist. But his life was in constant turmoil because of his obsession with spiritualism and the occult. He vowed to his wife, Bess (Miss Struthers), that he would one day perform the ultimate escape and speak to her from the beyond. On his deathbed he gave her a coded message and told her that only a spiritualist who used the code would have truly contacted his spirit. Two years after his death, the Rev. Arthur Ford (Bixby) claimed that he had received that message and held a controversial seance.

Ms. Struthers wanted the part of Bess very badly, felt she was perfect for the part, but the producers did not agree.

"I read for the part and they liked me but they didn't believe that I could handle the age range," she said. "The character ages thirty years during the course of the film and it was felt that I was too young to convincingly portray a middle-age woman."

Although she was disconsolate, in the true, old-fashioned, show business tradition, Sally found a way.

Eve Arden Stars In Late Movie

Eve Arden returns to home screens as a flamboyant private eye whose search for a missing heiress widens into a murder investigation in "A Very Missing Person" on "The CBS Late Movie" Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 12:30 p.m. on Channel 3N-9-11.

Miss Arden appears as Hildegard Withers, an ex-schoolteacher-turned-detective, who starts by trying to find a missing heiress and winds up solving a murder case.

Also starring in the 90-minute mystery with a contemporary New York City background are Julie Newmar, James Gregory, Skye Aubrey, Ray Denton and Dennis Rucker.

As the film opens, Hildegard is asked by Police Inspector Oscar Piper (Gregory) to help the department find a missing, fair-haired San Francisco heiress, Lenore Gregory (Ms. Aubrey). The girl has apparently taken up the flower-child life and was last reported bound for New York.

'The Way We Were' Will Air On ABC Sunday Night

Remember the good old days of moviegoing? When Bette Davis could be counted upon to get at least one wad of Kleenex sopping wet and Fred Astaire always had at least two sure-fire dance routines per musical. And, whenever you went to the movies, you'd sit back in your seat secure in the knowledge that no dreams would be disturbed that night, that Bogey would never open his mouth and sing and Garbo would never be seen putting on tap shoes. Dreamland was taken so seriously by everyone else and meant so much to you.

It means about that much to "The Way We Were" too, which is why the film is an excellent depiction of the way movies once were. Looking at this movie is almost retreating to the high-powered big-star weepies of the '40s.

Now the box office smash will make its television premiere on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie" Oct. 3, 9 to 11:15 p.m. Starring in the film are Robert Redford and Barbra Streisand.

"The Way We Were" was nominated for three Academy Awards, including a nomination for Ms. Streisand as Best Actress. The title song, composed by Marvin Hamlisch with lyrics by Marilyn and Alan Bergman, received the Oscar as the year's best song.

Set against the uneasy times of the 1950s, when political suspicions and accusations turned friends into betrayers and creative careers were smashed overnight, "The Way We Were" is the bittersweet story of two people who drift into marriage and out of love without ever really understanding why.

Katie (Barbra Streisand) is a socially-involved young radical who actually marries her Prince Charming - Hubbell (Robert Redford), a handsome, conservative young writer with a yearning for success in Hollywood and no particular convictions to be courageous about. When charges of "Communist infiltration" begin to fly fast and very loose, Katie goes to Washington to protest, Hubbell bends with the wind, and their marriage break in the process.

In her role as Katie, Ms. Streisand is as sly and saucy as ever.

Blake Takes A Giant Leap

From "Our Gang" comedies to ABC-TV's "Baretta" is a giant leap, but not a leap too big for Robert Blake to take. He leapt, successfully so, and landed on his feet right in the middle of a solid, popular series seen Wednesdays at 9 p.m.

Actually, the idea for this leap came about when Blake was just a tot. The youngest of three children born to an Italian couple, he made his acting debut at age 2½. He, his father, and his sister and brother had a song-and-dance act, "The Hillbillies." The family moved from New Jersey to California, whereupon Bobby, as he was then called, promptly won several talent contests. As result of one of these contests, he became a regular in the popular "Our Gang" comedies. He moved from comedy to a more serious role when he was 10, playing in "Treasure of Sierra Madre" and "Humoresque." These in turn led to his filling the moccasins of Little Beaver in the Red Ryder series.

With the exception of two years spent in the Army, Blake has been a vital figure on the show business scene, playing in such films as "The Black Rose," "The Greatest Story Ever Told," "Pork Chop Hill," "Town Without Pity," "This Property is Condemned," "Tell Them Willie Boy Is Here," "In Cold Blood" and "Electra Glide in Blue."

Blake considers work something akin to adrenalin. Despite stories to the contrary, Blake was not wooed into the role of the killer Perry Smith in "In Cold Blood." Says Blake: "I went after it like you go after somebody in a ring—round and round."

Although he's a superb actor, he confesses that as a student he "blew it." "I went to schools in the Los Angeles area—Santa Monica College for six months, Los Angeles City College for another six months; San Fernando Valley Junior College for still another six months. I flunked them all, but was a wiz at math."

Today, his career keeps him occupied and the size of a role is his least concern. It's what he does with it that makes a difference. "If I'm a good actor, I'll do a good job. And the only thing that really makes me feel good in the world, is doing a hard job the best I can and going home to my family and lying on my back and saying 'I did all I could today.'"

Home is the Hollywood Hills, where he lives with his wife Sondra, and their two children, Noah Luther and Dellnah Rayah, plus their old tramp dog. Blake's hobbies are fishing and hiking. He has great admiration for the late Robert Ryan and John Garfield as actors and men, and labels himself as rebellious but "square."

NEW SERIES FOR DICK VAN DYKE—Dick Van Dyke returns to television as the star of a new comedy-variety hour, "Van Dyke and Company," which is colorcast on Thursdays (8-9 p.m.) on NBC Channels 6-7.

Van Dyke Returns

If you notice a special sparkle in Dick Van Dyke's eyes these days it is because he recently faced death - and won.

Van Dyke, star of his own weekly variety show, "Van Dyke and Company," on NBC Thursdays, 8 to 9 p.m., recently spent several months deeply concerned that he might have cancer.

"It started with my annual physical," said Dick. "I have always taken pretty good care of myself. I've never been sick and I've never been in a hospital, so I wasn't concerned at all about the physical. It was just routine. I felt fine."

But after all the examinations and X rays Dick was notified that his doctor wanted to see him - right away.

A hand-made, jewel-encrusted 2,000 pound wooden coach is mysteriously missing after being loaded aboard a freighter, and Banacek tries to figure out how it could have been removed from a street container that had been welded shut. (2 hrs)

(3W,5,12) Dan August: In the Eyes of God" An ex-priest's

"He showed me the dark spot on the X ray and said he was afraid that it was a tumor. He also said that there was a chance that if it was a tumor it would be malignant, so he suggested surgery soon."

Dick was examined by two other doctors - and they both told him the same thing.

"The six weeks prior to the surgery were about the worst I have ever spent," says Dick. "They assured me that there was a chance that the tumor was benign - but stressed that it might not be."

Normally a happy, bouncy guy, Dick admits he was pretty low when he entered the hospital for the surgery.

But he's back to his normal happy self - because the surgery revealed that the "tumor" was kidney stones.

"I was so happy to find out that I didn't have cancer that I didn't even mind the 14-inch scar across my stomach," says Dick.

His rapid recovery was attributed to the fact that he was in great physical shape when he entered the hospital. A jogger and a bicyclist, Dick also works out with weights to stay in shape.

"I'm back to doing 50 sit-ups at a time, and the dancing is just as much fun as always."

His only concern now is that his doctor has ordered him to stop eating chocolate.

"That's going to be tough," said Dick who, despite a slim, trim body, says: "For the past 30 years of my life I have eaten roughly a ton of chocolate a day - but if that'll keep the kidney stones away, I'll just switch to a gallon of ice cream a day instead."

CAST ADDITIONS

Cast additions to "NBC's Best Seller: Once An Eagle" are John Saxon (as a jealous Army captain), Dane Clark (as a scandal-seeking reporter), Harriet Nelson and Linda Day George (as a career officer and his wife).

life is endangered when a crazed killer fears he will reveal the secrets of the confessional. (60 min)

Pike's Peeks

By CHARLIE PIKE
TV Showtime
Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Susan Flannery has once again captured a major role in a 'biggie.' Susan portrays Margot Bracken, the romantic interest opposite Kirk Douglas in "The Moneychangers," an NBC premiere movie to air in four parts in December. Previously, the personable actress starred in "The Towering Inferno," and while she admits she did have a handful of personality conflicts with Kirk while filming "Moneychangers," the role promises to give her a starring role in a major motion picture before year's end. There's no doubt that Susan's decision to leave daytime's "Days of Our Lives" was the right one.

Those fans of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" who are worried that this is the last season of the show will find it interesting that the cast members of the series have not been notified that the end is near.

Speaking of that show, Gavin MacLeod (Murray) and his pretty wife Patti will be seen throughout the country in the months ahead. Gavin and Patti will tour several major cities in supper club and nightclub performances in an act that is very definitely family entertainment.

Gerald Gordon's contract for his role as Dr. Mark Dante on "General Hospital" is not only one of daytime's most lucrative, but the role was actually created for him more than a year ago, and it took that long for him to be convinced that he should return to daytime TV after a long-run of success on "The Doctors."

Gordon Jump may not bring an immediate response to TV viewers, but the veteran actor promises to be quite an instructor for children in his role on the Saturday morning program, "McDuff." The show is basically entertainment, Gordon explains, "but there's quite a lesson there to be learned as well."

Ambition Becomes Reality

As a young girl growing up in Phoenix and San Francisco, Lee Meriwether had two ambitions. One was to emulate the shoot-em-up breakneck riding skills of her western movie heroes. The other was to become an honest-to-goodness, news gathering reporter.

Recently, Miss Meriwether realized that second youthful goal in a fast-developing incident that might have been lifted from a script of "Barnaby Jones," the popular private-eye series seen Thursdays, 10 to 11 p.m. on CBS Channel 3N-9-11, on which she co-stars as Buddy Ebsen's Girl Friday.

While flying to San Francisco in the company of an Associated Press representative to attend a regional AP broadcast convention as its guest of honor, Miss Meriwether stumbled onto an ongoing news story that revealed her latent reportorial talent.

The Boeing 727 flight from Los Angeles to San Francisco represented the graduation ceremony for a fear-of-flying group known as "SAFE," an acronym for Safe Flying For Everyone, following a series of seminars with psychiatrists, pilots, meteorologists, air traffic controllers and maintenance personnel designed to conquer aversion to flight.

There's More To Houdini Than Magic

He claimed he could get out of anything and he always did. He drew bigger crowds and made more money than any other performer in the history of vaudeville. He spent the last years of his life on a one-man crusade to expose spiritualists as frauds, yet he desperately wanted to believe in them. He was The Great Houdini.

The life and times of Harry Houdini - magician, illusionist, escape artist - are explored in "The Great Houdinis," a drama airing as "The ABC Friday Night Movies," Oct. 8, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3W-5-12.

Melville Shavelson, who wrote and directed the film, discovered that there was a lot more to Houdini than just magic: "When I was first approached about doing this film I had my doubts, since I couldn't see where it would go beyond magic, which really didn't interest me," he said. "But then I began to research his life and I discovered that Houdini was a complex and tormented man, and that his career was a mask for a lot of inner turmoil. He became a fascinating subject for a movie."

Paul Michael Glaser of "Starsky & Hutch" stars as Houdini (born Erich Weiss) with Sally Struthers portraying his wife, Bess, and Oscar-winner Ruth Gordon as his mother, Mrs. Weiss. These two women were at the core of the upheaval in Houdini's life.

"Houdini's act consisted of himself and Bess, and they were known as 'The Great Houdinis,'" Shavelson said. "But he was equally devoted to his mother, and he gave her just as much attention as he did Bess. The conflicts were endless and they only increased after the old lady died.

"On her deathbed she called out Houdini's name, and he was convinced that she was trying to give him a message. He tried to reach her spirit through spiritualists but found that they used the same tricks that he used in his act. Furious, he set out to expose them, though, and just before he died he gave Bess a secret message which he would try to communicate to her from the beyond. Controversy has raged for years as to whether Bess really received the message again."

Five Star In 'Spencer's Pilots'

The truly dedicated actor will familiarize himself with every aspect of a role he's about to play — even to the point of learning a new, and sometimes, technical skill.

So it was with the entire regular cast of the new adventure series, "Spencer's Pilots," on CBS-TV.

All five stars of the series — Christopher Stone, Todd Susman, Gene Evans, Margaret Impert and Britt Leach — agreed after filming the pilot that it would be advantageous to their performances and to the authenticity of the show if each learned to fly.

To demonstrate that this was more than gratuitous rhetoric, they decided to do something about it. So, one day at Brackett Field in Pomona, Calif., they did.

If there was faint of heart among the group, any apprehension was quickly allayed by pilot Art Scholl, stunt coordinator for the series, who would guide them through an indoctrination flight.

Scholl, whose career has encompassed aerobatics, air racing, stunt flying, the production of air documentaries, and flight instruction, outlined his flying philosophy in a brief ground session before taking the actors up: "It is easier to fly than to drive a car, if you don't do dumb things. I can talk you into taking off and landing this airplane."

After running a pre-flight aircraft check, and explaining nomenclature and fundamentals, Scholl put each cast member through takeoff, climb, turn, stall and landing procedures, on two runs over the flight patterns. Reaction to this sudden plunge into the realities of flying were almost as varied as the personalities of the individuals.

Evans, who had small-aircraft experience as a combat engineer with Patton's Third Army in France, professed nervousness before going up. But, according to Scholl, Evans was notably relaxed during his flight.

Conversely, Susman had no pre-flight jitters. "I didn't feel nervousness," he explained, "because I have complete confidence in Art Scholl. I loved every minute of it, especially seeing the lake and boats from the air. And I enjoyed the sensation of banking and the feeling of buoyancy."

Miss Impert was less enthusiastic, but she described her turn in the plane as "a great experience."

Leach was as nervous as anyone, despite the six hours of instruction he had already logged. He admitted to feeling some pressure because more was expected of him.

Stone perhaps best summed up the general reaction of the "Spencer's Pilots" people. "It was exhilarating," he exclaimed. "Man, what a trip!"

Focuses On Alcoholism

"Francesca, Baby," the warm, poignant story of a 15-year-old girl attempting to cope with the problems created by her mother's alcoholism, is the season premiere of the award winning series of "ABC After-school Specials," airing Wednesday, Oct. 6, 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Carol Jones stars as 15-year-old Francesca, who has never previously taken a drink, but she already knows the pain of alcoholism due to her mother's problem. As the condition of her mother, played by Melendy Britt, continues to deteriorate, the young girl assumes more and more responsibilities as head of the household, caring for her 10-year-old sister (Tara Talbot), in the absence of her traveling father (Peter Brandon).

"Although the program deals with a serious and alarmingly prevalent problem among today's youngsters," said Squire D. Rushnell, Vice President, Children's Programs, ABC Entertainment, "Francesca, Baby" is laced with humorous moments and happiness."

Francesca - Chess to her friends - finds support from a good natured neighbor (Alice Nunn) and eventually discovers hope from Alateen, an organization designed to aid teenagers from families with alcoholic problems.

Also starring in "Francesca, Baby" is Dennis Brown as Bix, Chess' boyfriend. Elizabeth Herbert appears as Chess' friend, Jo Lynn, with Benny Median, Doney Oatman, Scott Marc Savie, Mona Tera, Lee Kessler, Barbara England and Jody Britt.

Does It For Laughs

Millions of television viewers know Tommy Newsom from Johnny Carson's remarks about him — "he's dull, the man who brought new meaning to the word, mundane." "He'll reach puberty and old age at the same time." "The man who has done so much for the color brown."

Not true!

Off camera, Tommy is bright, charming and a top musician-arranger. He was in the orchestra when Carson took over "The Tonight Show" in 1962, and leads the band during Doc Severinsen's absences.

"It began about 1968," Tommy recalls, referring to when Carson began to "pick" on him. "The first time I fronted the band — Doc was out of town — Johnny came out, looked at me and did a double-take. He was so used to coming out and seeing Doc to his left, and Ed McMahon to his right.

"The next time I was taking over from Doc, he made reference to my suit, which was either brown or blue. I wasn't used to standing in front of the group, or an audience — and I'm still not — so I didn't say a word. Once I thought I'd fool him and I wore a green sports jacket. Johnny took one look and said, 'I see you've won the Masters golf tournament.' 'No,' I replied, 'it was Masters and Johnson.' It just came out. I can't plan to be funny.

"I don't mind the kidding, because I know he's doing it for laughs, just like he makes fun of Doc's wild outfits. If I had thin skin, I guess I would not be around for 14 years."

FAMOUS TWOSOME JOIN ROCK

Shirley Jones and Tony Roberts have guest-starring roles in "Phillip's Game," a "McMillan" drama to be colorcast on "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie." Rock Hudson stars as McMillan.

Dean Is A 'Hee Haw' Guest

Jimmy Dean, one of the most versatile and popular entertainers in show business, pays a visit to "Hee Haw," Saturday, Oct. 9, 7:00 p.m., on Ch. 3N-3W-9-11. Singer, humorist, actor, musician and composer, the lanky, easy-going Texan with the casual performing style has displayed his talents in almost every medium of entertainment.

Six-foot-three, he was born in Plainview, Tex., where he grew up and worked as a field hand and sometimes as a cowboy to help support his family. With his brother, Don, he picked cotton, milked cows, cleaned chicken houses and did just about anything to earn a dollar. Jimmy started playing the piano when he was 10, but harbored no theatrical ambitions until he was serving in the Air Force. A quartet of G.I.'s, who performed at a small club in Washington, asked him to fill in for a member of the group who was ill. He earned $4 for his performance, and thus began one of the most luminous careers in the entertainment world.

Despite the great success he has achieved, Jimmy Dean remains an unassuming, sincere, down-to-earth individual who looks at life and at people with a simple and direct straightforwardness.

On his first guest appearance of the season on "Hee Haw," Jimmy joins Roy Clark to sing "I Know What It Means To Be Lonesome" and "Corina, Corina" with Roy and the entire cast. He also guests in the "Moonshiner" and "Pfft You Was Gone" segments.

All the "Hee Haw" cast members have begun their new season with their usual vim and vigor. In addition to Clark, they are; Buck Owens, Archie Campbell, portly Junior Samples, Gordie Tapp ("Cousin Clem"), George Lindsay, Don Harron, Louis Marshall (Grandpa Jones), 'crackly' voiced Misty Rowe, Gunilla Hutton, Lisa Todd, Barbi Benton, Marianne Gordon, Minnie Pearl, Lulu Roman, Roni Stoneman, John Henry Faulk and Gailard Sartain.

Welk Tours Southern California

An exciting blimp-tour of Southern California's picturesque sights, plus musical drop-in visits by his musical family, is the surprise treat offered by Lawrence Welk this week in his "Special-of-the-Year" television program, to be seen Saturday, Oct. 9 on Channel 6-7. Included are melodic visits to Oceanside's harbor cove, Welk's Country Club Village in Escondido, the nearby 1800-acre

Wild Animal Park, the famous killer whale, is a special guest-atar on the show, as is the championship 150-piece Orange-Glen High School Patriot Band, and a parade of ancient cars carrying Welk's entire 'family.'

Tom Netherton soars off in the famed Goodyear blimp to sight-see hang-gliders flying off Torrey Pine's mountainous cliffs, Mount Palomar, Mission Bay, Coronado Island, Palama Valley, the U.S. Navy San Diego installation, and that city itself, all the while soloing, "On a Clear Day."

Sandi, Gail and Mary Lou saunter through Wild Animal Park trilling "Talk to the Animals," and visiting the children's Petting Krall, where orphaned or abandoned young animals are given T.L.C. Seen in the Krall are Nilgai, a 10-day-old Asian deer, a 6-month-old Indian water buffalo, and lovely, stocking-footed Nadra, one of only four Arabian Onyxes remaining in the world, but thriving as part of the World Herd of animals threatened with extinction. Welk's femme trio winds up its sight-seeing astride 'Nita, a lumbering African elephant.

TRAVOLTA TO STAR IN TV MOVIE

John Travolta, Robert Reed, Glynis O'Connor, Ralph Bellamy and Diana Hyland will star in "The Boy in the Plastic Bubble," a two-hour movie to air on ABC-TV.

Travolta plays a boy born with no immunities to disease who is forced to exist in the sterile environment of a plastic unit. Miss Hyland and Reed portray his mother and father, Miss O'Connor is the girl next door, and Bellamy is his doctor.

Michele Will Tell

TO G.M., DURHAM, N.C.: It is highly improbable that Roger Staubach (QB for the Dallas Cowboys) will go into show business. He is associated with a realty firm in Dallas and with the Aurora Toy Co. Roger's civic commitments include Nation Sports Chairman for the Easter Seal Society, National Campaign Chairman for the American Diabetes Assoc., etc., etc. He's an All-American guy who's devoted to his wife and their four offspring.

TO W.M., LYNCHBURG, VA.: The "Ellery Queen" series ran last year on NBC. Jim Hutton is now guest-starring in other series and is making movies.

TO J. CUSAAC, TIMMONSVILLE, S.C.: Professional wrestler, Andre the Giant, was 'Big Foot' in a recent episode of "The Six Million Dollar Man." He's definitely NOT a man to tangle with!

TO G. KNIGHT, HENDERSON, N.C.: Brian Keith's most recent role was as a guest-star in the opening segment of NBC's "Quest." His was a stand-out performance that almost over-shadowed the 'regulars.' He will be starring in TV movies and guesting in other series this year.

TO L. COFFEY, FISHERVILLE, VA.: The ABC After-school Special, "The Skating Rink," has already had a repeat performance. However, since it was so well-received, it could well come on a third time. Watch the daytime page of your TV section.

TO J.H.E., KANNAPOLIS, N.C.: Henry Darrow played Manolito in "High Chaparral." His most recent TV movie was "Aloha Means Goodbye." Watch for him — he's in lots of TV movies and guest stars in numerous series.

TO L. EVANS, CARRSVILLE, VA.: Johnny Carson hosts the 'Tonight Show' about 75% of the year. He is paid whether he's there or not, and guest hosts are paid for their 'subbing' duties.

Swedish Festival

"Nina and the Street Kids," a film from Sweden about a brief time in the life of a 12-year-old girl confined to a wheelchair in a ghetto building and her relationship with an assortment of people in her neighborhood, will be presented Saturday, Oct. 9, 1 to 2 p.m., on "The CBS Children's Film Festival."

When Nina's mother dies, an undiscovered artist, Mr. Filean, who lives in the same ghetto building, is appointed her temporary guardian. His main objective is to sell some of his work and raise enough money to see that Nina gets medical attention that may allow her to walk again.

Fighting off eviction and the unpleasant personality of the building superintendent, along with other troubles, the artist is assisted in his struggle by several people, including a little gang of "streets kids" who help to bring about a happy ending.

Burr Tillstrom's Kukla, Fran and Ollie with Fran Allison are hosts of the series.

Can Be Depended Upon

MANDICH—Jersey #88 belongs to Miami Dolphin tight end Jim Mandich. Mandich will be looking to raise his 93 career receptions, when the Miami Dolphins host the Los Angeles Rams, Sunday, Oct. 3, at 4 p.m. on CBS-TV.

He Is A Hard Hitter

One of the players who will be very much in evidence Sunday, Oct. 3, when CBS televises the action between the Chicago Bears and the Washington Redskins (the game begins at 1:30 p.m.), is Doug Buffone. Buffone has been an outstanding linebacker for the Chicago Bears since 1967, but he has received little glory for playing this tough position during his nine seasons in the NFL. The position of outside linebacker is a lot more difficult than most spectators realize, and the man who plays this position doesn't enjoy the security the middle linebacker has by being covered on each side.

In describing the versatility of his position, Doug says: "You have to be strong enough to tackle big fullbacks and to handle offensive guards who come out and pull, but you also must be quick enough to cover the pass." One of Doug's strongest assets has been his ability to read plays quickly. As he explains, "I seem to get a jump on the ball, because I know where the play is going. I depend on my instincts and try to force the play outside, where our pursuit get the ball carrier. If he breaks outside and gets away with it, it could be all over."

Buffone also studies his opponents and tries to establish patterns of their movements. He claims that after he learns a ball carrier's patterns, he can accurately predict what he will do in a given situation.

"You develop an instinct for what these ball players do - you know what they do best. They're not going to change, because once a guy starts playing football, he slips into the same habits. He blocks a certain way, he goes out for a pass a certain way."

Buffone spends much of his leisure time thinking about football. He makes up imaginary situations that could occur on the field, and then decides what would be the best course of action. He claims that by doing this he programs his mind to react automatically should a situation occur during a game necessitating a split-second decision.

Doug believes that total concentration is his key to success. He also feels that desire plays a very large part in a person's degree of success. "Desire is the catalyst that puts the others together," he says. "A lot of times it looks like you can't catch the runner, but if you really have that desire within yourself - that you want to get that runner - you'll find a way to get to him. It might mean tackling on the off-side of the field, or the willingness to play when you're injured, or when you're losing and getting your brains beat in."

Again this year Doug Buffone will start at his linebacker position, and you can bet he'll utilize the many assets that have made him such a success through the past seasons.

Whenever Jim Mandich snags a pass, there is a pretty good chance the scoreboard will be changing. The (6-2 - 224) tight end has scored 19 touchdowns among his 93 career receptions for the Miami Dolphins. On Sunday, Oct. 3, the Dolphins will host the Los Angeles Rams at 4 p.m. on CBS-TV, and Mandich will be looking to raise the score.

As a second - round draft pick, from the University of Michigan in 1970, he signed with the Dolphins and was forced to share time with Marv Fleming. This arrangement continued until Fleming was injured in 1973 against Dallas on Thanksgiving Day. Mandich got his chance to play full time, but was unable to match Fleming's blocking.

Although the running attack was rather flat prowess in the next two games, when the team hit the playoffs, the ground - pounding returned to form with Mandich starting.

"I was doing the job blocking, or I wouldn't have been in there," Mandich said after their Super Bowl VIII victory over the Minnesota Vikings. "Sometimes my blocking is not an artistic success, but I get the job done."

With that issue settled, Mandich announced his intention of becoming the first Dolphin ever to play out his option - year without signing his contract.

During negotiations that followed, only $1,500 separated Mandich and the front office. They never got together and the option was played out. He actually appeared more concerned about getting what he considered a legitimate shot at a starting role than monetary consideration. "I want to be the starting tight - end," he said. "If not, I want to be compensated for being miserable on the bench."

Time went by, the WFL came into existence and Mandich got vibrations of better money. Birmingham made him a solid offer, and Joe Tobbie, the Dolphin's president, countered with a five-year package believed to total $350,000. Mandich had earned $25,000 in 1973, excluding his post - season earnings.

Today, Mandich is a determined blocker and a starter for the Dolphins. He does share the tight-end position with Andre Tillman; but when it's passing time, Mandich is there.

Unknown Randolph Emerges As A Star

On Saturday, Oct. 9, the New York Yankees will play the Kansas City Royals in the opening game of the American League Championship (12:30 p.m. on ABC-TV). Willie Randolph, the star second baseman for the Yankees, is one of the key elements in the New York attack. The rookie second baseman was acquired by the Yankees in baseball winter meetings in Hollywood, Fla. The Yankees made two trades that day involving 7 players in all. Of all of them, Willie Randolph was the least known. But, as it turns out, he was the prize catch.

The man who engineered the trade was Yankee President, Gabe Paul. Paul claims that the reports on Randolph were super; "Anywhere from predicting Randolph would be a star to a super star."

"I never saw such sensational reports on a young player," said Yankee manager Billy Martin.

Randolph reported to spring camp and quickly made his presence known. He distinguished himself as a hitter, batting over .300 and hitting the ball with authority. He made the big plays at second base as if he were a seasoned veteran. His cool and confident attitude quickly won him the respect of his fellow teammates. Randolph impressed everyone so much that he won the James Dawson Award as top rookie of the camp by a unanimous vote.

"The kid is just great," said Billy Martin. "There isn't anything he was asked to do that he didn't do."

Even after his great performance in spring camp, the Yankees did not just hand the starting job over to him. He was in a constant duel with Sandy Alomar, the old pro. But Randolph was eager to answer the challenge and earned the starting position.

How the rookie will hold up during the playoffs still remains to be seen. But you can bet that not many plays will get past Willie Randolph.

EARLY DAYS RECALLED
TV producer Bob Fletcher recalls that in the early days of TV, "there was so much to do and because we were live then, everyone worked at least 80 hours a week. But there was so much excitement with the new medium (1949) that as tired as we were, no one complained. We wanted to do these things and if it took all night, well, that's how it had to be."

Oklahoma Meets Texas

ABC-TV will host NCAA Football Saturday, Oct. 9, at 3:30 p.m., when Oklahoma meets Texas in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Texas. Kick-off time is 3:30 p.m.

One of the key elements of the Oklahoma offense will be halfback Elvis Peacock. As a sophomore two years ago, Peacock was somewhat unknown because of Oklahoma's 'great,' Joe Washington.

At that time Elvis was Oklahoma's "other" halfback and he didn't mind it one bit.

"No, I didn't mind Joe (Washington, Oklahoma's Heisman trophy candidate) getting all the publicity," he says. "He's a great player and he deserves every bit of it."

"But playing alongside him is something else," he said. "I've always liked to win, but with Joe it's more than winning. It's going out and giving all the effort you can to help the team. I guess it's now the same with me."

Lingo Impresses Actors

The more actors Randy Mantooth and Kevin Tighe involve themselves with emergency medical techniques in their co-starring roles as paramedics on NBC-TV
"Emergency!" series, the more respect they have for their real-life counterparts.

"We've long been aware of their dedication, their capabilities under very difficult and stressful conditions," said Mantooth recently during a break in filming of the series, which recently returned for its sixth season. "What really impresses me," Randy added,
"is how they master that special language of theirs."

Kevin Tighe, who portrays paramedic Gage in the series, agrees. "I'd hate to imagine what some visitors from another planet would conclude if the place they landed was an accident scene with a couple of paramedics doing their thing."

Tighe then repeated some of Gage's lines from a recent script in which he was to report the status of an accident victim to his hospital colleagues.

"He was in V-fib. We defibrillated times two. He is now in sinus tachycardia. Pulse 120. Standby for BP."

Then it was Randy's turn as paramedic DeSoto. "BP is 80 over 50. Rales and rhonchi bilaterally, mild cyanosis."

The report back from the hospital went "Ten-four, Fifty-one. Start an I.V. with normal saline and give two amps bicarb stat. Transport immediately."

And Gage; "Ten-four Rampart."

As to what it all means, Mantooth and Tighe admit they're working on that, Meantime, it's tough enough just to pronounce it.

Want To Be A Snake?

Strother Martin stars as a famed ophiologist (snake expert) who carries on a series of mysterious experiments with the goal of transforming college students into human snakes in "Ssssss," a suspense drama to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Oct. 9, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7-28. Dirk Benedict and Heather Menzies also star.

Dr. Carl Stoner, an independent scientist, hires David, a student assistant, to work in a lab based in his home.
While the new job offers an opportunity for David to conduct a romance with the doctor's daughter, Kristine, the young man is subjected to regular injections of a King
Cobra venom serum.

The injections are purportedly to provide an immunity to the hazards of working near snakes, but soon the young man's skin begins to peel just as a snake's would and the doctor's motives become suspect.

Martin is cast as Stoner,
Benedict is David, and Ms.
Menzies plays Kristine.

'Weekend' Features Olympic Ballet

"Olympics of Dance" — the International Ballet Competition in Varna, Bulgaria — will be one of the stories featured on "Weekend"
Saturday, Oct. 9, 11:30 to 1 a.m., on NBC Channel 7-28. This is the premiere of the show's third season.

The International Ballet Competition is held every two years in Varna, an ancient city and modern resort on the Black Sea. This summer, while the sports Olympics were under way in Montreal, ballet buffs — and a "Weekend" production crew — converged on Varna for the eighth presentation of this most prestigious of ballet competitions. More than 100 contestants went as representatives of 27 different countries.

In its filmed report,
"Weekend" focuses primarily on the American contestants, notably the three young women who reached the finals: Lynn Charles and Anne Marie d'Angelo, both of New York City, and Sandra Fortune of Washington, D.C. They will be seen in rehearsal and in performance and talking about the pressure of competition.

Viewers also will see the crowning of a new champion:
Patrick Dupond, a 17-year-old French contestant, who won the gold medal, highest award in the junior division. Dance critics hailed him as the newest candidate for international fame.

Alicia Alonso of Cuba, who rose to ballet stardom in America, was a member of the panel of jurors from 20 nations.
Viewers will see her judging as well as taking a class with contestants from her ballet school in Havana. Another of the judges, the noted dance critic Walter Terry, talks about what goes into the judging.

Craig Leake, who produced the story, says: "We show the preparation and hard work that go into a performance and contrast that with what the audience sees when the spotlights go on.

Wide World

FOR JACK CARTER, son of Gov. Jimmy Carter
The children of Gerald Ford have expressed unhappiness at times about living in the White House. Do you think the Carter children would have a similar reaction?—Daniel Morton, Austin, Texas

● No, I don't. First of all, we have been sort of moving toward such a position for quite a while. The Fords were thrust into the position suddenly. They weren't as well-prepared psychologically as we are. Secondly, three out of the four children are married and would not be living with our parents if they move into the White House. So we wouldn't have the "goldfish bowl" existence the Ford children have had.

FOR MICHAEL LANDON

Why is your TV locale of "Little House on the Prairie" in Minnesota? I thought the Ingalls lived in South Dakota.—Edith M. Thompson, Midwest, Wyo.

● If the show stays on the air long enough, the Ingalls family will indeed wind up in South Dakota, as they did in the books. But the Ingalls started their adventures in Minnesota. We plan to follow the books.

FOR EILEEN FULTON, star of TV's "As the World Turns"

Since yours is an afternoon show, do you have any male fans?—J.B., Coöschocton, Ohio

● Sure do. Since we go on at 12:30 in many parts of the country—the lunch hour—the show is watched by men in the garment industry, farmers and office workers. Truck drivers are big fans. I get mail from bus drivers, dentists, doctors and lawyers. In fact, 50 percent of my mail is from men.

FOR MRS. BETTY FORD

What is your definition of a liberated woman?—L.D.G., Alden, N.Y.

● One who is happy doing what she's doing, whether it's a job or as a housewife. It doesn't make a bit of difference—just so she inwardly feels that she is happy and she is liberated.

FOR BROOKS ROBINSON

Who are the toughest batters for you to play against, and which is your favorite stadium away from home?—Robert Cook, Bakersfield, Calif.

● The toughest hitters for me to play against are Mickey Rivers (Yankees), Frank Duffy (Indians) and Doug Griffin (Red Sox) because they are excellent bunters and you have to play them in very close. I enjoy playing in Boston's Fenway Park more than anywhere else.

FOR DODY GOODMAN

star of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman"

Why do you think your show has caught on the way it has?—J.C., Rapid City, S.D.

● Hard to give an exact reason, unless it's because we talk about things that have never been discussed so openly before. The subject matter is frank and candid, and, without patting myself on the back, we perform well and handle each situation as we would if it came up in our own homes. Maybe we were in the right place at the right time—who knows?

FOR GENEVIEVE BUJOLD, starring in "Obsession"

How did you get your start in pictures?—M.H., Albany, N.Y.

● By selling my bike for $15. I used the money to pay for acting lessons.

FOR CLARENCE M. KELLEY, F.B.I. Director

Have the recent attacks on the F.B.I. hurt your recruiting?—Steven Banks, Rockland, Mass.

● Not at all. As a matter of fact, we have a very fine group of young people waiting in the wings to come into the Bureau.

FOR EARL "THE PEARL" MONROE, star of the New York Knicks

How did you get your nickname?—M.L., Dothan, Ala.

● In my senior year in college, Louis Overby of the Winston-Salem Sentinel dubbed me "The Pearl." I opened the season with big nights in four successive games, scoring 33, 68, 58 and 50 points. He called them "Earl's Pearls." That was 10 years ago, and I've been called "The Pearl" ever since.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Please tell me about Jenny Agutter. I loved her in the movie, "Logan's Run."—M. Sheehan, N. Tonawanda, N.Y.

● London-born Jenny has been an actress since she was 11. (Her father was in charge of entertainment for Britain's armed forces—that's how she became exposed to show business.) You won't remember her childhood performances, but you might recall her being Julie Andrews's daughter in the film, "Star!" Twenty-three-year-old Jenny is not married. Her dates have not yet reached the serious stage because, as she puts it, her career and independence come first. She lives in a modest apartment near Hollywood's Sunset Strip and is unimpressed by the advantages of being a star. In fact, she doesn't even own a car, preferring, instead, to rent one. Right now, she's back in her home country making a new film, "The Eagle Has Landed." Her parents are proud of her achievements but wish their daughter would settle down and get married.

HOW YOUR MIND CAN AFFECT YOUR

Our Panel of Doctors Agrees About the Increasing Danger of Stress—And

By Diana Hunt

Stress can kill us. Brought on by any number of life changes, stress can lead to such feelings of helplessness that it can pave the way for diseases or death. As Americans, we've never been trained in mind control, although various forms of meditation are becoming increasingly popular. Physicians have not been trained to think in terms of prevention of illness, neither have hospitals. And many of our insurance carriers cover therapeutic, not preventive care. Consequently, we visit the doctor only after we develop specific complaints.

We interviewed five different types of doctors, and they came up with some surprising, sometimes opposing, facts. But all agreed that the health of your mind very much controls the health of your body.

Norman Orentreich, M.D. Dermatologist, New York, N.Y.

Dr. Orentreich is clinical associate professor of the New York University Medical Center, president of the Orentreich Foundation for the Advancement of Science and director of the Aging Study Center.

Dr. Norman Orentreich makes it clear that our inner feelings can alter our outward appearances.

"There is no doubt that tension and emotional problems can cause physical disease," says Dr. Orentreich, "but it also works the other way. Physical disease can cause mental problems. It is not a one-way street.

"Because of the skin's obvious visibility to the public, people are conscious of how they look. This can play an intense role on the mind. We all know that tension can cause cold sweating or blushing, but because of anxiety, people will not only bite their nails, they might also purposely scar their face to make themselves unattractive when unable to handle one-to-one relationships." Sometimes true disease occurs, and it then becomes a crutch, Dr. Orentreich feels. He gives the example of a child losing his hair because of an allergy. This changes the constellation of his place in the family. He may become overly spoiled by all the attention and reactions of his parents. Lines in the face are another reflection of one's mental state. We notice a relaxed face or a tense face immediately. "The pull of the muscles on the skin can alter the face by imprinting permanent expressive lines," Dr. Orentreich explains. "We hear of the inscrutable Oriental because his face shows nothing. This is because he is trained not to show emotion; therefore, his face does not reflect the internal tensions or stresses."

Wrinkles are a result of too much sun, as well. "People feel they get a kind of life force from the sun, and there is a

"Your problems are not important; it's how you handle them that is important!"

psychic interrelationship. If a person is tan, he looks healthy, so he feels healthy. But sun is damaging to skin. It leads to premature aging, as well as wrinkles and unsightly dark spots."

While Dr. Orentreich feels that some people enjoy being sick as an excuse not to perform, he cautions that one can overdo disorders thought to be psychosomatically caused. "You do a patient an injustice if you label him a neurotic—you must first explore every avenue."

Jacob Aranoff, M.D. Plastic Surgeon, New York, N.Y.

Dr. Aranoff is affiliated with Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York, London Hospital and St. Andrews Hospital (England).

A former ear, nose and throat specialist, Dr. Aranoff has treated many patients with self-induced ailments.

"Frankly, at least 70 percent of my patients have psychosomatic symptoms," says Dr. Aranoff. "I would have patients with perennial symptoms of stuffiness, raw throat, sneezing, post-nasal drip, eyelid puffiness and so forth. The severity varies with the amount of tension the person is under. Often, symptoms are worse at night and in the morning because that's when people are most vulnerable. How many tensions and problems the person went to bed with determine how severe the symptoms are when he wakes up."

According to Dr. Aranoff, there are only three tissues which respond to tension: blood vessels, glands and the smooth (involuntary) muscles.

"I can tell from the membrane in the nose if tension or anger is causing the problem," he explains. "The normal color of the nasal membrane is pinkish. With anger or resentment, it turns red. With depression or fear, it is a violet gray."

Interestingly enough, 13 percent of Dr. Aranoff's nose-throat patients were under 10 years of age. Stress at home can cause nose bleeds, throat irritation and other problems. "I don't think psychosomatic symptoms have anything to do with city living versus country living. The problems are caused by things which occur everywhere—sibling rivalry, tension in marriage and so on. A child may react to the presence of a new baby, for instance, or he may resent his parents leaving him alone in the evenings. Blood vessels expand under stress and can burst. The child subsequently suffers from nose bleeds, and the parents can't figure out what is wrong."

No one can say why problems manifest themselves in certain areas of the body, but the most vulnerable spot often seems the target—the singer with hoarseness, the dancer with joint problems. Dr. Aranoff feels that extreme fear of a disease can make the symptoms of that disease appear. "One's father died of cancer of the larynx, and the son comes in suffering from chronic hoarseness."

Psychosomatic symptoms have to be recognized for what they are. He contends many unnecessary operations are performed, particularly those for the nose and tonsils. "The most common cause is lack of recognition that tension is the culprit."

What to Do About It

Lee Zawol, D.O.

Surgeon, Osteopath, Battle Creek, Mich.

Dr. Zawol is chairman of the Department of Surgery at Lakeview General Hospital.

As a surgeon, most of Dr. Zawol's cases are referrals. Not surprisingly, he feels it is detrimental to doctors' images to accuse them of performing unnecessary operations.

Dr. Zawol knows that tension can cause metabolic and related endocrine changes in the body and that continuing functional change over a period of time can cause permanent organic changes. When one is uptight, the blood vessels constrict and can produce changes in the vessels themselves.

Dr. Zawol sees depression as a common denominator in all of us. "We get depressed because we have difficulty coping with the problems of reality. If I can get a patient to talk about his problems, it's a good thing. I might find his taxes went up, his job is threatened, his wife is spending too much money, and the dog is pregnant. He is tense, and all he wants is to feel good."

Music, recreation or any avocation is beneficial in helping the body relax, Dr. Zawol feels. "Laughter, too, is therapeutic. It has an effect on the mind, releasing the body of tension. Work addicts are people unable to relax, and it will get to them eventually, like the young executive trying to get ahead; he's uptight, he's involved in the pecking order and the back-biting, and that produces tension. There's an adage worth remembering: 'Your problems are not important, it's how you handle them that is important!'"

Robert M. Giller, M.D.

Acupuncturist, New York, N.Y.

Dr. Giller is associated with Memorial Sloan Kettering Hospital and Brunswick Hospital Center. He is lecturing on "Alternatives of Western Medicine" at the New School for Social Research.

Dr. Robert Giller had not practiced long when he became discouraged with the defensive posture of medicine. He felt traditional methods of treatment were not effective, and so he dropped out and turned to Oriental theories and ultimately to acupuncture. New York was the second state, after Nevada, to recognize acupuncture and to license physicians to use that technique.

Dr. Giller is adamant concerning the inseparability of the mind and the body. "In Chinese medicine," he explains, "it is always body and mind together. Physical ailments can cause mental problems—if one is in constant pain one is likely to become depressed. By the same token, mental problems can cause physical ailments. Everybody is predisposed to certain weaknesses. Stress can be physical, mental, environmental or nutritional. It manifests itself in a physical form somewhere in the body—low back pain, migraine headaches, bursitis, neck and shoulder problems.

"I find acupuncture helps relieve muscular tension and allows the patients to relax and look at their mental problems in a new light. I then can discuss their problems with them, and, if I can't help, I refer them to someone who can." But the name of the game for Dr. Giller is preventive medicine, not having to cure ailments. What he would eventually like to see is children from grade school through university being taught regular health care. "If people listened to their bodies, they would be able to recognize the early-warning signals and take the necessary steps to prevent illness. As it is, people are merely treated as parts and organs, and you just can't get better that way."

Kenneth A. Grigg, M.D.
Psychoanalyst, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Grigg is the training and supervising analyst at the Washington Psychoanalytic Institute.

© Lorillard 1976

Down to only

Today's True, lower than ever in tar.
And a taste worth changing to. Think about it.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Regular and Menthol: 5 mg. "tar", 0.5 mg. nicotine, av. per cigarette, by FTC Method.

Dr. Kenneth Grigg corroborated the relationship between tension or mental stress and physical disease. "There are several ways this manifests itself," Dr. Grigg explains. "Peptic ulcers, for instance, have been directly shown to be related to psychological factors. Mental stress causes more excretion of acid in the stomach, thereby physically causing the ulcer."

The two most common psychogenic symptoms, he says, are headaches and backaches. "Back pain often represents depression, but we don't know why."

Dr. Grigg pointed out that the mood of a person lowers his resistance to bacteria. After all, cold and flu germs float around us, but not everyone gets sick.

"The bacterial flora of the throat changes with the psychological state of the patient," he explains. "If a patient is depressed, he is more prone to a sore throat from the presence of pathogenic bacteria. No one knows the exact connection between the brain and bacterial resistance factors, but it certainly is a factor."

Even more striking is a cold occurring in a patient undergoing psychoanalysis when the threat of separation comes up, such as the analyst going on vacation. This situation reproduces the feelings that originally were experienced by the patient after a separation in childhood—the temporary or permanent loss of an important person.

"People react to stress in different ways," he believes. "They express themselves through certain target organs—that organ which becomes the target when psychological stress is present. Other physical symptoms related to stress are amnesia, hysterical blindness, paralysis and seizures. These generally occur following a severe psychological trauma."

"Dr. Grigg points out that the mood of a person lowers his resistance to bacteria. After all, cold and flu germs float around us, but not everyone gets sick."

There is often a family predisposition to certain illnesses. "There are also such things as anniversary reactions," continues Dr. Grigg. "People will have psychological or physical disorders on the anniversary of a patient's disorder and not be aware of the connection. A divorce may have this effect on a child, and on the anniversary of that trauma, years later, disorders may appear."

There you have it. Doctors across the medical spectrum in agreement on the ill effects of stress. And there is beginning to be a realization in our society that, in dollar terms, it is important for the mind to be as healthy as the body. Some insurance plans now have 80-percent coverage for up to $50,000 for psychotherapy. Originally the insurance companies felt that this type of coverage was too expensive. However, it has been conclusively proven that people who were in long-term therapy had a low rate of physical disease. Even though the original cost was high, the overall cost of health insurance was lower for the general population. Including psychotherapy in their coverage resulted in reduced payments in the long run.

The concept of dealing with the mind and body together is vital. Instead of courting ill health and merely trying to repair damage done to the body through abuses of overeating, excessive drinking resulting from continual stress, we should think in terms of preserving our health. We must learn to cope with the realities of life, even if it means lowering our expectations.

DOCTOR'S THRILLING REDUCING PROGRAM HELPS

BURN AWAY FAT BY THE HOUR

...TURN IT INTO FLUID THAT YOUR BODY FLUSHES AWAY!

Yes, now you can lose up to 10 . . . 20 . . . 30 — even 50 pounds or more • without starvation diets • without grueling exercise • without ravenous hunger THANKS TO THE MOST POWERFUL REDUCING AID EVER RELEASED FOR PUBLIC USE WITHOUT A PRESCRIPTION!

SHRINK YOUR BODY'S FAT CELLS . . . TRIM AWAY POUNDS AND INCHES!

First came the ALL DAY cold tablet. Then the ALL DAY allergy pill. Now, from medical science comes the latest GIANT-STEP in the conquest of fat . . . this incredible ALL-DAY time-release capsule and fat-melting program, developed by a medical doctor . . . and guaranteed to work like nothing else you've ever heard about, read about, or tried before in your life. Because when in your life, did you ever dream of a weight-loss method so effective, that without starvation diet, without grueling exercise, without gnawing hunger you can transform your body into the sleek, streamlined figure you've always longed for . . . even if at this very moment you are as much as 50, 60, or even 100 pounds overweight!

CONTINUOUS ROUND-THE-CLOCK ACTION ATTACKS THE BASIC CAUSE OF FAT BUILD-UP DAY AND NIGHT

Unlike every other weight-loss method that has failed you in the past, the COUNTDOWN once-a-day capsule and reducing program works in a completely different way. Not by pitting your will-power against some "inhuman crash diet". Not by wracking your body with torturous exercise. And most certainly not by the use of high-powered "speed" drugs that leave your nerves shattered and shot.

Doctor's New All-Day Triple-Action FAT-MELTER PROGRAM Works All Day To:

1. Transform fat into fluid and flush it right out of your system.
2. Attack the basic cause of overweight — overeating — and convert the food you do eat into burned up energy instead of into fat.
3. Break down those bulges of flab as you lose weight from your entire body . . . that up to now seemed impossible to budge . . . and force them to be consumed — oxidized — by your own body chemistry — without ravenous hunger — thanks to this thrilling new ALL DAY TIME-RELEASE FAT-FIGHTER PROGRAM.

COUNTDOWN with Mira-thene-12

Before starting this program, consult with your physician to be sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. Individuals with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes, or thyroid disease should use only as directed by a physician. As a matter of fact, we urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this is a medically sound approach to the problem of obesity.

Instead, this NEW TOTAL APPROACH TO TOTAL SLIMNESS actually helps shrink the fat cells in your body ALL 24 HOURS A DAY . . . even while you sleep. Yes, literally burns and oxidizes those bulging pockets of flab as you lose weight — all over your body — as it melts down into liquid that your body flushes away daily, in a completely natural, gentle manner.

And it's all so easy with this wondrous ALL-DAY CAPSULE that helps set the stage for the fat-burning process to be triggered into action.

A DOCTOR EXPLAINS . . .

No matter how many fad and crash diets you've run through in the past . . . there is only one effective weight-loss method known to medical science. It is simply this: in order to burn off fat there are 2 things you must do.

1. You must decelerate the rate of calorie intake. 2. You must step up your body's rate of fat burn-off just like you step up a furnace, so that you actually convert the food you do eat into burned-up energy instead of into piled-up fat.

And this is precisely why COUNTDOWN is so effective. Because the moment you launch yourself on this doctor's "Lifetime Slimness" program, here's what happens in your body:

1. Gnawing hunger pangs disappear as tiny grains of the most powerful reducing aid ever released for public use without a prescription are gradually released into your system to constantly calm your appetite and help you decelerate your body's caloric intake.
2. The food you do eat on this doctor's fully satisfying eating program instead of being stored up as fat, is now converted into a source of energy that your body burns away.
3. And even though you may lose as much as 20, 30, 50 pounds OR MORE . . . you never miss a meal . . . never deny yourself sensible snacks and desserts . . . never for a single moment starve yourself the very least bit.

NOW! ALL THE ECSTASY OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT THE AGONY OF HUNGER!

That's because with the COUNTDOWN no-hunger way to slimsness, you arm yourself with the most modern and effective way to weight control known to medical science: This medical doctor's all-out assault and VICTORY OVER FAT BUILD-UP . . . due to excess calorie intake and lack of fast calorie burn-off (the basic cause of overweight). The COUNTDOWN once-a-day, continuous action, time-release capsule and program works all the time . . . all day . . . Transforms your body fat into "flush-away liquids" . . . it is by far the easiest, most pleasant way to achieve that slim, trim body of your dreams.

WORKS SO FAST YOU START TO GROW SLIM IN JUST DAYS — IN FACT, EVEN WHILE YOU SLEEP!

Best of all, not once are you asked to pit your hunger against a cast-iron willpower. All you are asked to do is simply this: Take one of these new ALL-DAY time-release capsules each morning . . . then following the doctor's satisfying eating program and his simple nightly bedtime toneups (that are actually fun to do), you literally eat your way to slimsness as you shed pounds and inches like never before.

Naturally, you can't expect to gorge and stuff yourself silly on all sorts of over-rich, high-fat foods . . . and in unlimited quantities. BUT — and this is the whole key to success — if you will simply replace all those zany, half-baked fad diets of the past with this high-powered ALL-DAY capsule and this doctor's sane, satisfying eating program . . . YOU without gnawing hunger . . . YOU without grueling exercise can lose up to 10 — 20 — 30 — even 50 pounds OR MORE thanks to the latest, most effective doctor-developed ONCE-A-DAY reducing program in AMERICA . . . COUNTDOWN with Mira-thene-12.

SEE DRAMATIC RESULTS IN JUST 72 HOURS . . . OR IT COSTS YOU NOTHING!

JUST ONE CAPSULE A DAY HELPS YOU DISSOLVE FAT AWAY as this doctor's 3-way action program

- breaks down bulging pockets of fat while it burns away fatty tissues from your entire body
- shrinks your body's fat cells
- turns fat into liquid that your body drains away

Yes, you step up fat burn-off as you decelerate calorie intake . . . meaning pounds and inches melt away starting in just days!

So effective you'll lose up to 6 pounds of fat and fluid the very first 72 hours!

OUR "TV" CELEBRITY POLL WINNER

PAUL MICHAEL ("STARSKY") GLASER

"Isn't It Nice... All
The Ladies Being
So Attentive to Me?"

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

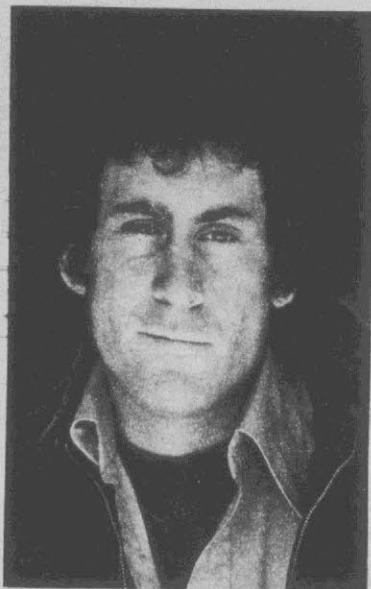

It was the hottest day of the year as Paul Michael Glaser was hunched over the coffee table fixing my cantankerous tape recorder. We were in his dressing trailer in downtown Los Angeles, where he was on location for another episode of "Starsky and Hutch." Paul—who plays Starsky—will soon be seen in the title role of the TV movie, "The Great Houdini."

FAMILY WEEKLY: Let me ask you some "how" questions: How do you feel about being chosen by almost 40,000 FAMILY WEEKLY readers as the most popular TV actor after only one season on television?

GLASER: It feels pretty good!

FW: How do you feel about doing your television series?

GLASER: I have mixed feelings about that. Actually, I have mixed feelings about everything. But the series is a good challenge. At times it feels very Glaser—in the limelight but still searching for love . . .

GLASER: I went to two colleges—Tulane University in New Orleans as an undergraduate, then Boston University. [Paul received his master's degree in Fine Arts at Boston University.]

FW: And what did you study?

GLASER: Mostly theater. I wanted to direct.

FW: Do you feel you are making decisions today on a more deliberate, more calculating basis?

GLASER: I suppose you could say that. Actually, I am experiencing a greater self-awareness, a greater knowledge of not who I am, but what and how I am. I find the greatest problem in existing in this life is to strive to become something we think we should be, or something we want to be. We spend a lot of energy in finding out who we are. I am trying to spend more time finding out how I am—how do I feel, how do I operate, how do I exist, how does myself work? I am trying to relieve myself of those judgments which qualitatively cause me to evaluate myself in terms of what I want to be and what I'd like to be.

FW: How do you feel about your career at this point?

GLASER: It's getting easier and easier, but television is a producer's medium. It's a soap seller. They take you and put you up there, and you're cardboard before you know it. And it's just too easy to let that happen. The great struggle is to live in a moment, acquire that great balance where the pressure doesn't get to you, and I can do what I want—which is to work for my craft.

Continued

"Television is a soap seller. They take you and put you up there, and you're cardboard before you know it."

tedious and very exhausting, but it's exciting.

FW: What would you do if it ended?

GLASER: Go into films as an actor, direct and produce—to realize as many creative outlets as possible.

FW: How are you getting along with your partner in the series?

GLASER: We have a marvelous relationship, and that really speaks for itself in the show. I don't believe that's something you can fake.

FW: When did you decide what you wanted to be?

GLASER: I don't believe anyone ever really decides when he'll be this or that. There is just a time in your life when you realize you are heading in a certain direction.

FW: But you went to college to major in something, didn't you?

PAUL MICHAEL GLASER

Continued

FW: How do you keep fit?

GLASER: I run every morning for a couple of miles, play tennis when I can on weekends and swim and work out as much as possible in between.

FW: You are 33—and still a bachelor—how do you feel about marriage?

GLASER: I think marriage can be a beautiful thing—it will come to me when the time is right.

FW: Does that mean you have too much fun being single or that you haven't found anyone you'd like to be married to?

GLASER: Let's say I'm getting less afraid of making a commitment.

FW: Where is home?

GLASER: In the Hollywood Hills. I'm in the process of remodeling my house, and I'm doing all of that before we move in. I imagine I'll have someone take care of the grounds. I work incredible hours, so I won't have time, and my lady doesn't have time to do it, either.

FW: You referred to "your lady"—what does she do?

GLASER: Elizabeth is a schoolteacher. She teaches children between the ages of 6 and 9 in a school for special education.

FW: How did you meet her?

GLASER: We were each driving down Santa Monica Boulevard. I smiled at her, and she smiled at me; then I pulled over to the side, and so did she. . . . Then I asked her for a date, and she accepted. That was over a year ago.

FW: Before you started in the series?

GLASER: I'd finished the pilot, but the show hadn't gone on the air.

FW: Is there any pressure on your relationship now that you are a star?

GLASER: I indulge myself to the degree that I allow myself to say, "Isn't it nice . . . all the ladies being so attentive to me?" Of course, Elizabeth has to deal with her fears, but other than that, things work out very well for us.

FW: Is Paul Michael Glaser your real name?

GLASER: Paul and Glaser are my real names, but I became Michael for a time because there was another Paul Glaser. When he died, I tacked the Paul back to become Paul Michael Glaser.

FW: Do you have any brothers and sisters?

GLASER: Two sisters. Both were married, one is now divorced. The oldest one lives in Boston, is married to a psychiatrist. The other one has lived in France for the last 15 years. She trains horses. I'm the baby of the family.

FW: As the youngest, and the only boy, were you spoiled?

GLASER: Spoiled rotten. I was a brat. I wasn't aware of what I was like then in terms of how other people saw me, and the word brat is a judgment anyway. What I should say is I was a very angry kid.

FW: Why were you angry?

GLASER: Try the world! One of the motivations for someone's becoming an actor could be the fact that he wants love and attention and the limelight. So put two and two together, and you get a person who wasn't getting that, was plenty irked and found that the only way to get it was to express that anger.

FW: But you came from a family which was able to do much for you since they were well-off financially. . . .

GLASER: Money doesn't mean anything! As a matter of fact, the more money the kid has, the more the kid's parents are out there busting their chops to get those things for the kid, while the one ingredient the kid needs most is love.

FW: You mean you felt you didn't have enough love?

"We were each driving down Santa Monica Boulevard. I smiled at her, and she smiled at me; I pulled over to the side, and so did she . . . Then I asked her for a date, and she accepted."

GLASER: Yeah, I felt it. Very much so.

FW: Did you ever get over that feeling?

GLASER: That's what I am struggling to do. That's why I'm an actor. Trying to find out who I really am so Paul Michael Glaser can love Paul Michael Glaser.

FW: Have you had many close friends in your life?

GLASER: No. Never.

FW: Do you think you are at fault?

GLASER: Nobody's at fault. That's just the way it worked.

FW: I read that you said you were brought up in a "golden ghetto." What did you mean by that?

GLASER: I referred to an upper-middle-class Jewish community. A ghetto that has all the "gilt" as well as all the "guilt." But I never looked at myself as well-off, even though I was guilty of a good degree of snobbishness. When I was a kid, that was the way I felt about my status in the community: I had this and the other person didn't. But the older I got and the more pain I had, the more I realized all those things didn't really add up to anything.

FW: What was the first money you earned?

GLASER: I did a lot of odd jobs—a back-up chef, an asphalt construction worker, time keeper, assistant engineer. I mowed lawns, all those things. My parents put great emphasis on my arsenal of spare time—I was not allowed to sit around and just gaze at the wall.

FW: Do you still live that way today?

GLASER: I am trying to get to the point where I can enjoy coming home as Paul Michael Glaser and contemplating what a beautiful thing life is.

Terry Bradshaw

"This Quarterback is No Dummy"

Terry Bradshaw, who expects to lead his Pittsburgh Steelers to their third straight Super Bowl championship this season, laid to rest the false story that he was "too dumb" to be a successful quarterback, when he struck gold in last January's Bowl competition. The "dummy" image had its origin in the fact that Bradshaw, a native of Shreveport, La., went to little-known Louisiana Tech instead of Louisiana State, loved country music and seemed to sports writers to be a "big, blond hick from the backwoods." "I had a bellyful of being called a 'dummy,' and I hope that image is never brought up again," says the 27-year-old quarterback. Bradshaw's field generalship, as well as his outstanding passing ability, has been a key factor in the Steelers' triumphs. Unlike some other quarterbacks, he doesn't depend on the coach to send in plays but calls almost all of them himself. "The story that he's not a thinking quarterback was a bad rap and completely unfounded," says Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll. Bradshaw has been a success not only in football, but also in running a 480-acre cattle ranch in his native Louisiana. And this year he wooed and married 25-year-old Jo Jo Starbuck, the lovely blond star of the "Ice Capades," who skated for the U.S. in the 1968 and 1972 Olympics. Jo Jo is giving up her ice-skating career and nearly $100,000 in annual income to be with her husband.

According to his father, the Steelers quarterback was blessed with an "arm like a cannon." When he was only 5 years old, he could throw a baseball 40 feet at a target only six inches in diameter. His first sport was baseball, but he switched to football when he was 11. "He used to hang a five-gallon bucket off a swing set, and every afternoon he'd go out and throw footballs at it," the elder Bradshaw recalls. "In the course of one summer, he wore out two footballs and four buckets." Bradshaw was drafted No. 1 by Pittsburgh in 1970, but had rookie jitters the first year and did not live up to his advance billing. But as he gained professional maturity, he took command and clinched the role of No.-1 field general. The Steelers' 1975 Super Bowl victory marked the first time in 42 years that the Pittsburgh team won the championship of the pro-football world. After their repeat in 1976, the Steelers ranked with the all-time top teams of the sport. The 1976 triumph was highlighted by Bradshaw's dramatic 64-yard touchdown pass, thrown a second before he was knocked cold by a defensive player for the Dallas Cowboys.

"We never used a chain saw before today. Homelite put us in control."

None of these seven people had ever handled a chain saw before. So we gave each person a different Homelite® and told them to start cutting. It proved our point: anyone can be in control with a Homelite.

Homelite chain saws are designed with control in mind. They're lightweight, precision balanced. They all have solid, comfortable grips. And they're the only chain saws with the exclusive new SAFE-T-TIP™. With SAFE-T-TIP in place, a Homelite can't kick back—and you're protected against the most serious loss of control in a chain saw.

Kickback occurs when the nose of the saw hits a solid object. But the new SAFE-T-TIP shields the nose and chain. So kickback cannot occur. The SAFE-T-TIP also keeps the nose from hitting dirt, stones and obstructions that can dull or damage the chain. You get easier cutting with less need to sharpen or replace the chain.

Whether you're a first timer or an old timer, you're in control with a Homelite. You can cut down trees, trim limbs, clear brush and cut firewood—quickly, easily, efficiently. Your Homelite Dealer has the widest selection anywhere, from the economical XL®, to the SXL-Automatic. And with over 12,000 Homelite Dealers coast to coast, you're sure of fast, efficient service—and a wide range of parts and accessories—wherever you live.

"Unbelievable-But True"... - Say Grateful Arthritis Sufferers!

Wherever extra-strength EXOCAINE PLUS has been introduced, reports have been enthusiastic...

"I've suffered from arthritic pains for over 7 years. My friends told me I had to let Nature take its course. To help Nature, I used many different remedies. I'm happy to tell you I never got such relief before as I'm now getting from "EXOCAINE PLUS."

"My husband and I have had arthritis for years. And I think we tried just about every ointment and rub on the market."

"Naturally, when I first heard about EXOCAINE PLUS, I thought it was probably like all the others. But I'm happy to say EXOCAINE PLUS works for me as no other rub did before!"

"Of course, I take the ___ tablets my doctor prescribes. But I always found rubs were also helpful. But in my opinion, no rub I ever used really compares with "EXOCAINE

PLUS." It feels so good!"

"I used your original EXOCAINE for over 2 years. And I thought it was great. But my daughter sent me a package of EXOCAINE PLUS."

I hesitated to try it because I was so pleased with EXOCAINE itself. But I just had to tell you that EXOCAINE PLUS works even better. It's really wonderful."

► The most important thing is not what others say about EXOCAINE PLUS; but your own personal experience.

If you suffer from transitory pains, discomforts, and stiffness of arthritis, you owe it to yourself to try "EXOCAINE PLUS" the first time you need it. You'll be glad you did!

Today - get "EXOCAINE PLUS" with the money-back guarantee that if you're not completely pleased with EXOCAINE PLUS, return unused portion, and you'll get full purchase price back immediately!

Aching Back?

New extra-strength medicated rub gives comforting warmth, reduces aching joint inflammation and helps temporarily stop arthritic pains!

New York, N.Y.—Today, all over America, arthritis sufferers are talking about a remarkable new way to get incredible relief from the agonies of painful arthritic joint inflammation; and its discomforting stiffness.

Great News!

It's really a different-kind-of medicated rub called "EXOCAINE PLUS."

It was developed by C. F. Kirk Laboratories, which for over 70 years has been helping doctors help people get greater relief from their flare-ups of the discomforting pains of arthritis, rheumatism, and other muscular aches.

Before "EXOCAINE PLUS" was made available to the general public, it was tested among many long-time arthritic sufferers. At first, most were skeptical!

But afterwards, 4 out of 5 enthusiastically agreed "EXOCAINE PLUS" is really different—that it gives faster, more effective relief than they ever got before from any other rub...helps them move around more comfortably. Sleep much better, too!

Nothing Like It!

Unlike other rubs, extra-strength "EXOCAINE PLUS" not only contains warming ingredients to add to your comfort, but also contains an aspirin-like analgesic to reduce tender joint inflammation and stiffness; PLUS benzocaine, the fast-acting anesthetic to temporarily deaden and stop arthritis pain.

Money-Back Guarantee!

► Get "EXOCAINE PLUS" at any drug counter. With this positive guarantee: "You must be completely delighted with EXOCAINE PLUS results, or your full purchase price will be immediately refunded."

Real Relief At Your Fingertips!

EXOCAINE PLUS is a creamy balm that rubs in easily; absorbs and vanishes quickly; and, leaves no greasy feeling on skin...no stains on clothing.

On The Spot Relief!

► What's more, EXOCAINE PLUS comes in a wide-mouthed jar that's much easier to use. More economical, too!

"The Greatest" For All Muscular Aches

Thousands have already happily discovered that "EXOCAINE PLUS" is not just for relieving arthritis pains; but that it also works like no other to give faster, longer-lasting relief from any muscular aches due to physical strain.

So, when you get a muscular ache, stop just saying "ouch." Instead, rub in EXOCAINE PLUS—wherever it hurts. See what a difference that makes!

Here's The Proof!

As you'll see by the label "EXOCAINE PLUS" HAS WHAT IT TAKES—to give you relief and comfort such as you can't expect to get from any other rub.

That's because "EXOCAINE PLUS" combines in a special, fast-absorbing emulsion...

1. Deep-penetrating rubefacients to generate warmth and spread soothing comfort throughout painful areas.

2. Pain-healing analgesics to reduce aching joint inflammation that causes arthritic flare-ups, "stabbling pain" and discomforting stiffness.

3. Fast-acting anesthetics to desensitize nerve endings that transmit arthritic pain. Up to hours at a time.

Yes, "EXOCAINE PLUS" gives you priceless relief. Yet it costs no more than ordinary rubs!

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John Gibson

Are big biceps really a plus when it comes to attracting a woman... or is she looking for something more?

What Makes a Man Attractive To a Woman?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. When it comes to catching a woman's attention — and holding it — the muscular man has the inside track.
2. Women prefer men with hairy chests.
3. Music can affect the way a woman responds to a man—and how attractive she finds him.
4. Women are much better at sizing up men than men are at sizing up women.
5. How much the cut of a man's clothes and his general grooming affect a woman's rating of him depends largely on whether her mood is up or down.

ANSWERS

1. False. According to a study of women's preferences in men, conducted at a leading university, "the traditional image of an ideal 'muscle man' holds little attraction for most women." The study also showed that: Women who are traditionally feminine show a preference for masculine physiques—trim, tapering V-shaped, while less traditional women express more nonstereotyped preferences.
2. True. A recent study of college-aged women, conducted by a team of investigators at Georgia College bears this out. In regard to the amount of chest hair, the findings are as follows: 46 percent of the women indicated that they preferred a "very hairy chest," while 46 percent voted in favor of a "moderately hairy chest," and only 8 percent preferred a "bare chest."
3. True. Studies show that women are much more emotionally responsive to music than men are, and that romantic music can alter a woman's mood appreciably and make her more receptive to the attributes of the opposite sex. Evidence indicates that when a man is seeking to impress a woman favorably, a background of appropriate music can tip the scales in his favor.

4. True. Psychological studies at Harvard University have shown that women are much better at judging a man's character and personality than vice versa. Tests show women to be more person-oriented and more acutely aware of telltale clues in speech mannerisms, body movements, and subtle changes in facial expression (which often tell far more about the man she is talking to than anything he may say). The fact that women's intuitive and extra-sensory faculties function more effectively than men's do—as demonstrated by Purdue University studies—is an asset when it comes to perceiving another's character. A woman often divines a man's innermost feelings before he is quite aware of them himself. ("I knew he was going to propose long before he did.")
5. True. If she's in a good mood, attention to dress and grooming can win a man Brownie points—particularly during the first meeting. However, psychological studies show that when a woman is distraught, anxious or worried about something, the way a man is dressed cuts little ice and has virtually no effect on her feelings about his attractiveness.

Turn into greased 9-inch pie pan and spread evenly to make crust. Beat together 4 eggs,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk, 1 can (17 oz.) cream style corn,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir in 2 teaspoons instant minced onion, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper and  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup cubed process American cheese. Pour into prepared biscuit crust. Bake in a preheated 375°F. oven for 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings

Observations

Good Show. London's taxis, those marvels of roominess and comfort in basic black, have long roused Americans' envy. But now they're being challenged—right here in the U.S. At New York's Museum of Modern Art, five prototype taxis of the future were recently displayed alongside their British cousin. All are roomier than the London cab, and each is a snappy yellow or orange. The exhibit, called "The Taxi Project," was sponsored by Mobil and the Urban Mass Transportation Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Room for improvement. Can you guess how many passengers a year are carried by cabs? The answer: 2.5 billion. We're not pushing taxis over other forms of mass transit, but they are important even if often neglected. In fact, they are the only public transportation available in over 3,000 American communities. The prototype museum vehicles, built to exacting specifications, were produced by two American companies (American Machine and Foundry, Inc., and Steam Power Systems, Inc.) and three foreign firms (Volvo, Volkswagen and Alfa Romeo). The idea was to build, at a reasonable cost, cabs that would better serve passengers, drivers and the taxi industry.

They come in a box. The designs are squarish. These are nimble, perky vehicles you can walk in and out of—carrying packages, and without bumping your head. A departure from modified passenger-car taxis, they could be great for suburbanites as well as city-dwellers. Features like sliding doors and niches for wheelchairs make them easier for the old and the handicapped.

"TAKE ME TO A COMFORTABLE CAB"

See how they run. Volvo's 4-passenger cab is diesel-fueled with 3-speed automatic transmission, gets 22 to 24 miles per gallon. Volkswagen's taxi looks like a minibus and features a hybrid power plant with an electric engine for city driving and gasoline power for longer hauls and faster speeds. Alfa Romeo's 5-passenger prototype has a dual-overhead-cam engine that runs on gasoline. The two American taxis have steam engines that can run on anything from unleaded gasoline and diesel fuel to kerosine and methanol.

We're moved. Anything that moves more people better and more comfortably, conserves fuel and enhances the urban environment is worth looking into. Want to know more about these cars? A book, "The Taxi Project: Realistic Solutions for Today" (160 pages with 147 illustrations, nine of them in color), can be obtained by sending $7.95, plus 50 cents handling charge, to Customer Sales Service, Museum of Modern Art, 11 West 53rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Paul Michael Glaser Lindsay Wagner

Heartthrob Robert Redford is the man you voted the most popular movie idol for the second-year running. Last year he assumed the role from John Wayne, a three-time winner retired from the race. His new reigning counterpart is Julie Andrews, as the most popular actress. Paul Michael Glaser, Starsky of "Starsky and Hutch," vaulted to the top TV spot after only a season on the tube, as did Lindsay Wagner of "The Bionic Woman."

Sharing honors in the TV supporting-role category were Henry Winkler, the "Fonz," and Michael Learned, who becomes a consecutive three-time winner of our annual poll.

and third-place Paul Newman, just as he did last year.

Movie Actress: Julie Andrews, in a see-saw upset, retrieved her title by a bare percentage point from Barbra Streisand, who had won for the last two years. Doris Day came in a distant third.

Julie Andrews

TV Actor: Winning for his role as the irrepressible crime fighter, Paul Michael Glaser had no real competition from Michael Landon or Alan Alda (who ran first last year.) They placed second and third respectively.

TV Actress: In a breathtaking finish, Lindsay Wagner grabbed the lead from

Henry Winkler

Michael Learned

Angie Dickinson by three percentage points. Karen Grassle, mother on "The Little House on the Prairie," came in third.

TV Supporting Actor: Talk about overnight successes! Henry Winkler of "Happy Days" walked away with the highest voting percentage of all categories. He left John Travolta of "Welcome Back, Kotter," and Ralph Waite of "The Waltons" far behind.

TV Supporting Actress: This was the most hotly contested category. Michael Learned, who secured her title of three-time champion, triumphed by one percentage point over Melissa Gilbert—young Laura on "The Little House on the Prairie." Melissa was followed closely by Julie Kavner (Rhoda's sister).

The Key Ingredient Discovered By A Medical Doctor

THE BRAN DIET

You can lose 14 to 24 pounds or more without eating less food. If this sounds too good to be true, get the entire program now and read what Medical Doctors say about it. We've just published a new guidebook, THE BRAN DIET, that is short enough for you to read in one hour and easy to understand. We've condensed a tremendous volume of research into just a few thousand words. It reveals that you can lose as much as you want without hunger through an amazing weight loss secret that shrinks the fat right out of your body.

What Makes It Work? It Must Work — Or You Pay Nothing!

A scientific study described in our guidebook reveals why fewer calories are absorbed by your body from food that contains the proper amount of bran, while more calories are absorbed from the bran-free food that most of us eat. It must work — no matter what you've tried before — or you don't even have to pay our low price of $1.99.

You'll Feel Full With The Right Amount of Bran in Your Diet

The Bran Diet reduces the urge to overeat by requiring more chewing, slowing down the intake of food and stimulating secretions that induce a feeling of fullness. We invite you to ask your doctor for his opinion of our diet.

Between Meal Hunger Banished!

Scientific studies show that volunteers with the right amount of bran in their diet stayed full while those on a bran-free diet soon became hungry and ate again. Do you ever feel this way on your present diet? If so, the reason's simple: it lacks bran, the outer fiber coat of grain that is usually discarded in milling. You just need a little bit of bran if it's present in the food you eat. When you fill out and mail the order form, you'll soon receive dozens of tasty menus and recipes with foods which contain the bran you must have to lose weight and keep it off without being hungry.

It's A Healing Diet Too

The Bran Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet after the brilliant detective work of a famous cancer researcher. He observed that people in certain countries enjoy virtual immunity from certain diseases, because they have the right amount of bran in their diet. You'll read the full story in our guidebook.

Two doctors recently praised bran in their newspaper columns. One says, "We now have evidence incriminating bland foods in the development of appendicitis, polyps, diverticuli, and cancer of the large intestine." The other says that our typical bran-free diets produce the cramping pain of diverticular disease, and that 90% of the symptoms are relieved on the bran diet. Few people are constipated either, since no blockages form. High blood cholesterol levels which go with heart, lung, kidney and artery disease are lowered astonishingly on the bran diet. Phlebitis and hemorrhoids are controlled too. Even ulcers and gallstones are related to the amount of fiber in your diet.

Here's Proof That Ordering THE BRAN DIET Can Help You Shed 20 to 100 Pounds Or More

Read what people who've tried it say in these true stories. Read why it may be the best way ever discovered to restore health and lose weight permanently.

Here I am now. Order THE BRAN DIET, and see how easy it will be for you to lose weight.

"I lost 110 pounds on THE BRAN DIET."

— Mrs. Ann Adkins, Westfield, N. C.

"I'd been fat all my life. I had tried all kinds of diet aids, pills and fad diets. I'd lose 20 or 30 pounds and gain it back — plus more. Then, at 31 when I weighed 224 pounds, I put myself on the bran diet. I know it sounds unbelievable, but I stuck with it until I lost 110 pounds. I didn't go hungry at all. It's the kind of food, not the amount, that matters. It's wonderful to be slim. People that I work with are fascinated with what I've done. They used to say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat!" Now, I get lots of compliments.

P.S.—My husband has lost 40 pounds too, and we are able to get out and do things we've never done before. It's been over 1½ years since I reached 114 pounds, and I have no trouble keeping weight off. I would like to share my newly found joy in life with others and encourage those who have problems losing weight."

"Your Bran Diet Program has been recommended by my doctor from England, and he says it has cured many people."

"My daughter and I have been on Plan No. 1 for awhile. It's easy to stay on because you don't have that empty feeling."

— Mrs. J. S.

"The macaroni and the meatloaf are the best I ever ate."

— Mrs. F. B.

Six Ways Going On THE BRAN DIET Helps You Lose Weight

1. It keeps you off the "Yo Yo Syndrome." (This is what happens when you lose a few pounds and then gain it all back.)
2. Your body absorbs fewer calories than with the same amount of regular food.
3. The food is delicious and easy to fix — so you aren't tempted to go back to your old diet. Imagine losing weight with these delicious dishes: Macaroni and Cheese, Pancakes, Brownies, Meatloaf, Dinner Rolls, Beef Stew, Rice Pudding, French Toast, Bran Cookies.
4. It works fast. You can see results in a few days. You'll soon feel like jumping up and doing things.
5. It mobilizes the fat — not the muscle out of your body. Your skin stays smooth, your body firm. Your complexion will become clearer. You will feel mentally alert.
6. Hunger disappears because it fills you up. You don't feel weak.

I'm Ann Adkins. Here I am before I went on THE BRAN DIET and lost 110 pounds. Then, people would say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat." Read my full story.

BARBI BENTON
Hugh Hefner's "touch of class"

Barbi Benton, Hugh Hefner's girlfriend, talking: "Regardless of what Hugh Hefner says in 'Playboy' magazine, he believes in permissiveness for men, but not for women. For example, he loves to see girls in see-through blouses, but if he ever saw me in one, it would be the end of us for sure. He's too possessive in his kind of love. He'd prefer that I didn't date anyone else. But you can't have everything. He's very conservative when it comes to me. I guess there's a certain amount of class that goes with being conservative. He likes to believe that I have class." Presently Barbi's proving her mettle as a recording artist, and there are a few hurdles to leap. "With the 'Playboy' image it's hard to convince people I have talent. But without 'Playboy,' I would never have had a chance at all."

"I sure wish I was 7 again and knew what I know now!"

ARTISTS GUY AND JOY
Is this where modern art really comes from?

Two baby orangutans who live at the Los Angeles Zoo (their names are Guy and Joy) have taken up painting as a hobby — and in order to support various programs for the blind and handicapped sponsored by the Zoo Association. Guy's and Joy's original paintings are for sale, and Mrs. Chris Garton, a volunteer, says, "What's remarkable about these young orangutan artists is that they're so neat and serious about their work. They never throw paint or act playfully (as is usual for members of the ape family) while they're creating. I'm also impressed by their sense of color and design." It is interesting to note that the male uses only his brush, while the female uses her whole body to create these abstract works, but with equally enchanting (or befuddling) results.

A fad answers back: Tiny Tim, one-time gigantic star, understands what has happened to him but refuses to settle quietly atop the garbage heap. Here's how he's quoted in a new book about him: "People keep asking me why they haven't seen me on the Johnny Carson show recently. It's just for one reason — because I'm not hot. I understand that. If I ever make the grade again, they'll call me. That's how it is and should be. But I must admit, this current period is tough." According to the book, Tiny, who's currently living at home with his mother Tillie, has one hope — to re-establish himself quickly. It's a prospect that dominates his thoughts. He is continually having visions of the "new" Tiny Tim. Tiny sees himself as the star of a film. "My dream movie would be based on a Victor Hugo story called 'The Man Who Laughed,'" Tiny explained. "It's the tale of a kid who's lost his parents. A cruel slave trader takes him on a boat and beats him so much that his face becomes deformed. He always smiles, but he's crying inside. People look at him as a freak, a curiosity. So the slave trader puts him in circuses and makes a pile of money. He's sad his whole life, until he meets a beautiful, wonderful blind girl — Candice Bergen could play the part — who sees him for what he is. They fall in love, and he lives happily ever after." The book is "Tiny Tim," By Harry Stein. (Playboy Press, $8.95.)

Taste Science Succeeds.

'Enriched Flavor'<sup>TM</sup> breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into separate ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris discovered very special "key" flavor units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor'.

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is MERIT. At 9 mg., one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet, MERIT actually packs the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1976

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarettes ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The majority reported that even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT delivered as much — or more — taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

FAMILY WEEKLY, October 3, 1976

* Available on records and 8-track tapes only

Go a little crazy. Get a lot of music.

11 records or tapes - yours for $1.00

plus shipping and handling

if you agree to buy 8 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the next 3 years

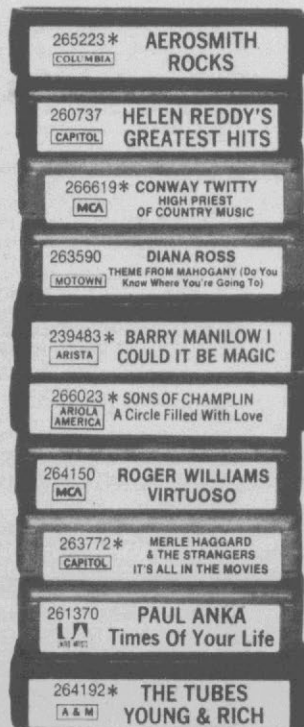

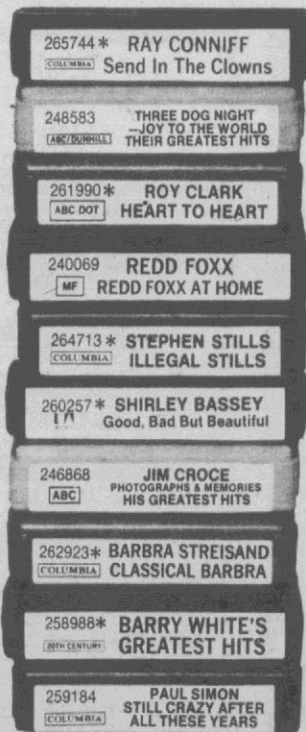

This is the beginning of a fling. A crazy fling. A fling filled with music. The music you love most. More music than you've ever been able to get at once.

Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums shown in this booklet. And you choose the 11 you want most. Then fill in and mail the application on the following pages.

Part Two of the fling: your 11 records or tapes arrive in the mail.

This, of course, is the part where you really go crazy. You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert you've ever had in your room. You can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again and again.

11 hit albums for only $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club. Make it happen now...

Imagine...one boring day when you've nothing to do...

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply mail the application together with check or money order for $1.86 as payment (that's $1.00 for your first 11 selections, plus 86¢ for shipping and handling).

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest . . . plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular Club prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened . . . the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 8 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan. Act now!

NOTE: all applications are subject to review and Columbia House reserves the right to reject any application

Our Story: KING TELAMON HAS DEFEATED HIS OLD ENEMY, KING KASOV, AND SCATTERED HIS ARMY. BUT NOW HE FACES A DILEMMA: HE HAS NOT ENOUGH MONEY TO PAY HIS OWN MERCENARIES.

HOPE COMES TO THE FRIENDS OF DETHRONED KASOV. THEIR WALLED CITY HAS NOT BEEN TOUCHED BY WAR. THEY DID NOT HAVE TO PAY OFF THEIR HIRED WARRIORS.

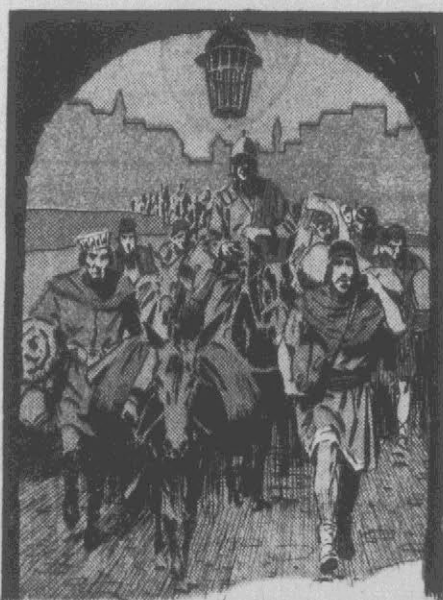

"WE ARE BETTER OFF THAN TELAMON, HIS MEN WILL NOT FIGHT WITHOUT PAY. LET US CLOSE THE GATES!"

THE CLATTER OF HOOPS AND RATTLE OF ARMS TELLS THEM IT IS TOO LATE. TELAMON HAS ARRIVED WITH A TROOP OF WARRIORS AND OFFICIALS.

THE SPARK OF REVOLT DIES BEFORE THE NEW RULER'S SELF-ASSURANCE. HE CALLS FOR THE TREASURER, CHIEF OF THE EXCHEQUER AND TAX COLLECTOR, AND ANNOUNCES THE COST OF REPARATION. WHEN THEY QUIT SCREAMING HE ADDS: "WE WILL COLLECT THE INDEMNITY TOMORROW!"

BUT IN THE DARK OF NIGHT THE NOBLES AND WEALTHY MERCHANTS GATHER UP THEIR RICHES AND LEAVE BY THE SOUTH GATE.
