

Virtually No Change In New Unemployment Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment edged down from 7.9 per cent to 7.8 per cent of the nation's work force in September after three consecutive monthly increases, the government said today in its final jobs report before the presidential election.

But there was virtually no improvement in the over-all job picture, as total employment also declined slightly last month. Labor Department analysts said the changes were not large enough to have any statistical significance. "We consider it about unchanged, with both unemployment and employment really on a plateau," said one official. The job figures were the latest in a string of statistics indicating stagnant economic performance. Coupled with rising prices and a slowdown in economic growth, the lack of improve-

First Step Taken Toward Election Of School Board

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

The first formal step in the direction of an elected school board for Greenville was taken Thursday night by the City Council with the acceptance of recommendations for election procedures submitted by a special Council Committee.

Acceptance was unanimous following a report on the committee findings from Council member Mildred McGrath and discussion by members of the Council.

The committee recommended that a non-partisan, nine member school board be elected with nominations for three members elected on an at-large basis and the remaining six candidates nominated from within the ward in which each resides.

The Greenville City School district would be divided into six wards, the report suggested, with registered voters living within the district authorized to vote for the school board members.

School board members would serve four-year staggered terms after the first election, according to the report. At the time of the first election, the five candidates receiving the highest number of votes would serve for four years. The other four candidates would have to run for reelection at the end of two years and then would be elected for four-year terms.

Mrs. McGrath said that it was also recommended that the per diem for city members be the same as that established for members of the county school board.

She pointed out that the next step will be to have the city attorney prepare a local bill for presentation before the General Assembly.

Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller, who served with Mrs. McGrath and the Rev. William Hadden on the committee, said that the group met with members of the plan demonstrates the need for the wastewater facilities and singles out the most cost-effective means of providing the facilities.

He explained that federal financial assistance is currently available for planning and construction of municipal wastewater facilities in an amount equal to 75 per cent of the cost. Supplementary grants, amounting to an additional 12.5 per cent of the costs, are also available from North Carolina Clean Water Bond funds, the plan indicates.

The plan suggests the construction of a new plant on the north side of the Tar River, east of Greenville.

In other business on a relatively routine agenda, the Council approved an amendment to the 1976-77 Community Development Program adding $162,320 in Newtown credits to the program revenues.

City Manager Jim Caldwell explained that the 162,320 brings the total CD revenues to $2,269,320, including the annual entitlement for the city of $1,909,000 and $198,000 in unbudgeted funds from the 1975-76 CD budget.

The Council adopted an ordinance declaring a moratorium on the issuance of building permits in the identified floodway areas in the city and in the extraterritorial jurisdiction of the city.

The ordinance provides for the moratorium on permit issuance of "not more than 90 days" to insure compliance with the Floodway Regulation Law, the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, and "subsequent amendments and the rules and regulations promulgated by the Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development."

The ordinance further points out that the "prohibition of the

Natural Gas For State

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The head of the natural gas supplier to North Carolina transmission companies says the state may be able to get by this winter without industrial shut-downs caused by shortages of the fuel.

Jack Bowen, president of Transcontinental Pipeline Corp., said so Thursday. He said Transco has lined up substantial amounts of "emergency - purchase" gas since last summer, and the outlook for the winter has improved considerably.

"If we have a winter that's warmer than normal, and if we're able to get emergency gas, I think we'll get through this year," he added.

Whether North Carolina makes it through the winter without disruption depends on four things.

They are the weather, how successful Transco is in finding surplus gas in Texas and Oklahoma, industrial demand, and customer conservation.

However, there is no likelihood that North Carolinians won't have enough gas to heat their homes.

Another Transco spokesman said the Houston-based company so far has lined up 24 billion cubic feet of emergency-purchase gas. He said it needs 40 billion cubic feet of such gas, 13 per cent of its total winter supply, to get through the winter safely in the 13 Eastern Seaboard states it serves.

Campaigning Ford Sees Tough Going

By DAVE RILEY Associated Press Writer

President Ford, making his first extensive trip of the fall campaign, is finding there are more thorns on the campaign trail than in the White House Rose Garden.

Ford often has been criticized by Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter for his early strategy of remaining in the White House away from the rigors of the campaign. Carter complained that Ford carried-on his candidacy with bill-signing appearances in the White House Rose Garden where he had little chance to fall under public scrutiny.

But Ford is in the middle of a week-long campaign trip, his third and longest vote-gathering expedition since Labor Day. He was heckled by a group of students on the campus of the University of Southern California and found himself on the defensive Thursday because of two statements he made during Wednesday night's debate with —First, Ford touched off a flood of adverse reaction when he asserted during the debate that the Soviets do not dominate the nations of Eastern Europe.

Carter:

—Second, Ford vowed during the debate that he would order the Commerce Department to make public the names of U.S. corporations "that have participated in the Arab boycott" of Israel or of companies employing Jews.

By Thursday, Ford was in effect backing off on the Eastern Europe question, although he did not acknowledge he was doing so and did not retract his original statement.

And Commerce Department officials said what Ford had actually told them to do was to release names of any companies that become involved in the boycott after Thursday. Names of companies that participated in the boycott earlier will not be disclosed, said spokesman Horace Webb. Those companies are said to number in the hundreds.

Webb said he could see that some people might have interpreted Ford's remarks as indicating past reports would be made public. He said it was "a matter of semantics."

Carter and his running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, hit the Eastern European quotation hard at each stop, obviously adopting the Ford statement as a major issue.

Carter said repeatedly that Ford's Eastern Europe statement was "a blunder," a "disgrace" and that it showed insensitivity.

Ford said during the debate that "there is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe and there never will be under a Ford administration."

On Thursday, Ford told an audience in Los Angeles that the United States "firmly supports the aspirations for independence of the nations of Eastern Europe. The United States has never conceded and never will concede their domination by the Soviet Union."

Ford, speaking to a crowd of about 15,000 at USC, said it is his policy to help Eastern European countries "become less dependent on the Soviet Union."

Ford's statement during the debate touched off a storm of protests, both from allies abroad and from groups representing Americans of Eastern European descent.

Further Grain Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite improvements in this year's Russian grain crop, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says it does not expect a decrease in American grain exports to the Soviet Union.

The USDA announced Thursday that its estimate of the 1976 Soviet grain crop was being raised 10 million tons to 215 million tons, the second largest on record.

At the same time, the department announced the fourth major grain sale to the Soviets within 24 hours.

This one sent 350,000 metric tons of corn to the Soviets, bringing their total purchases to 6.35 million tons of corn and wheat. The USDA did not name the American broker involved in the deal or estimate a price.

Assistant secretary Richard E. Bell said he expects the Soviets to buy a total of eight million tons of grain — three of wheat and five of corn — this year.

Wilson Rescuer Killed In Wreck

There's A Difference, Avers Candidate Hiatt

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Republican candidate for lieutenant governor Bill Hiatt, at an afternoon meeting with members of the press and again last night while speaking to meeting of Young Republicans on the campus of East Carolina University, said there are real differences between himself and the Democrat candidate for lieutenant governor Jimmy Green.

"There is a difference," Hiatt emphasized. Explaining that both himself and Green are in basic agreement on what the issues are, "we differ in our approach to the solution to the problems," he said. He expressed disappointment that the news media "said there is little difference between Green and myself," following a debate earlier this week sponsored by the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters.

Hiatt said he has "issued a challenge to Green for a statewide television debate . . . if it can be arranged," in order to give state voters an opportunity to determine the differences between the two candidates. The candidate said in his estimation the "number one problem today as far as state government, is the loss of respect and confidence in governmental officials." The only way to restore that confidence, he said, is "to elect honest people . . . willing to put the people of North Carolina above . . . self interest and above special interest groups."

Education, Hiatt suggested, should be the top priority. "We have many problems in education, problems that didn't just happen overnight, problems that have been a reality while my opponent was in the Legislature and while he was Speaker of the House. These problems remain unsolved today!"

Specifically, Hiatt cited "the reading problem" which began "when we started social

CAN BE GIVEN AT HOME

My stepfather hasn't been out of the house in a year because of illness. If he agrees to take the swine flu vaccine, is there any way it can be given to him at home. I'm sure his family physician won't go to his home to give it to him. E. P.

Tillie Cullipher, director of the Personal Health Division of the Pitt County Health Department, suggests that you check with your family physician. If he cannot give the vaccine to your stepfather then the Health Department can send a home nurse to administer it.

REFUND

My cousin paid a salesman $14.69 Sept. 4, 1974. The salesman was representing Standard Life and Accident Insurance Company. The receipt my cousin has says that if he is not acceptable to and approved by the company, he should get a refund. This he's never got. I've written the company, but it hasn't helped.

Hotline wrote to the company enclosing a photostatic copy of the "conditional receipt" given your cousin at the time the sale was made. You report that a refund was promptly received.

Clemmons-Wood Vows Said In Ceremony

ORMONDSVILLE — Susan Lorraine Wood and Johnny Ray Clemmons were united in marriage at seven o'clock Saturday night at the Ormondsville Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Clifton Rice officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Beth Jones of Hookerton, pianist, and Miss LeAnn Hamm of Snow Hill, soloist, who sang "We've Only Just Begun" and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Wood of Rt. 1, Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Carroll Clemmons of Rt. 1, Hookerton.

The bride wore a floor length princess gown of bridal satin with sleeves and yoke of flocked organza. The gown was accented with ruffles and seed pearls on the yoke, sleeves and appliques. The train was detachable. Her gown was designed and made by her aunt, Mrs. James Emory Farmer.

Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a headpiece of lace and seed pearls with the three tiers outlined with embroidered flowers. She carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

The chancel of the church held a fifteen branched cathedral candelabra with three candelabra on each side and flanked with seven branch candelabra. Standards of jade were used throughout the wedding scene and pews were marked with candles, jade and bows.

Mrs. Debra Meeks directed the wedding and Mrs. Ann Bowen presided at the register.

Miss Terry Shackelford of Springfield, Va., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Sheila Miller of Snow Hill, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Christy Skinner of Maury, cousin of the bride, and Miss Pam Moore of Grifton. Junior bridesmaids were Sue Ann Farmer, cousin of the bride, and Kim Bowen of Rt. 1, Ayden.

They wore gowns of floral polyester with sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves. They wore yellow hats and carried nosegays of yellow mums, purple statice and baby's breath.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Fred Miller of Snow Hill, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Linwood Davis Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, and Donnie Murphy of Hookerton, Ricky and Lynn Wood of Rt. 1, Ayden, brothers of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a floor length dress of yellow polyester with lace ruffles at the neckline and sleeves. The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink dress of polyester with sequins and braid at the waistline. The mothers and grandmothers were given corsages of white carnations. The mothers were given a long-stemmed red rose by the bridal couple.

The bride graduated from Greene Central High School, Snow Hill, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Bethel Academy, Kinston, and is engaged in farming. The couple will reside near Hookerton.

A cake cutting was given after the rehearsal by the bride's aunts, Mrs. Bobbie Farmer, Mrs. Sallie Heath and Mrs. Frances Skinner.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ty Cobb of Elm City announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice Carol, to Robert Wright Harris, son of Mrs. Christine Harris of Spring Hope, and the late Mr. Robert Wright Harris. The wedding will take place Oct. 23.

Miniature Carrots Garnish Cakes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE, Associated Press Food Editor. We've had requests for a recipe we once gave for miniature marzipan carrots with which to decorate ever-popular carrot cakes. Because that recipe called for red food coloring, now taboo, we've dreamed up an all-natural way to make tiny fondant carrots.

Our inspiration came from a pamphlet we treasure: "How to Grow the Peanut and 105 Ways of Preparing It for Human Consumption" by George Washington Carver, published about 50 years ago at Tuskegee Institute where the famous scientist carried on his work. In his booklet there's a recipe for Peanut Carrot Fudge that inspired the following rule for an uncooked peanut carrot fondant from which to fashion delightful garnishes. To deepen the natural color, we call for only the outer portion of the carrots, darker than the inner core. We also call for a yolk from a brown egg, usually a little more vivid than one from a white egg.

CARROTS PEANUT FONDANT

- 3 medium carrots, each about 7 inches long
- ¼ cup creamy peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
- 1 egg yolk, from a large brown egg
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 package (1 pound) confectioners' sugar
- Parsley or carrot-top sprigs

Pare carrots and quarter; with a small sharp knife cut away pale-colored inside core portion. (These cores are good to eat raw.) Steam the deep yellow outside portion until very tender; drain and dry on paper toweling. Puree in an electric blender or press through a fine-mesh strainer. There will be a generous 1-3rd cup; use ¼ cup of this puree — the extra may be used in a soup.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer at medium speed, thoroughly beat together the ¼ cup carrot puree, peanut butter, butter, egg yolk, vanilla and salt. Reserve ½ cup of the sugar. Into the carrot mixture, at low speed, beat in the remaining sugar, one-third at a time and keeping smooth. Sprinkle the reserved ½ cup sugar on a smooth surface and with a rubber spatula turn the carrot mixture onto it. Knead until smooth.

Line an 8 by 8 by 2-inch cake pan with plastic wrap. Pack the carrot mixture into the pan. Smooth the surface. Tightly cover pan with plastic wrap. Refrigerate until firm enough to cut — about 1 hour. Cut into 1-inch squares — there will be 64. Shape each square into a 1½-inch long "carrot." Chill. Insert tiny sprigs of parsley in the tops of those carrots you are using right away. Wrap the unused garnishes in plastic wrap and store in the freezer; thaw when needed and insert the parsley tops just before using. To decorate a carrot cake, brush its top with a confectioners' sugar glaze and arrange the miniature carrots over the glaze; you can use 12 for a cake baked in a 10-inch tube pan.

Trade Secrets On Restoring Antiques Told By Authority

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures

Tag sale enthusiasts are beginning to take a long look at some of the great buys they made during the height of the summer season when such events take on the competitive glamor of bargain basement sales.

Never mind the handsome bird cage that needs a bird — what to do about the chipped pitcher, the cabinet without a key, the damaged papier mache tilt top table?

In an unusual approach to such repairs, authority George Grotz passes on many trade secrets in "The Antique Restorers Handbook." Directions are not pat for amateurs — some may need to be reread several times before proceeding — but he tells it like it is. Best of all, he tells where some of the magic mending materials may be obtained.

For example, a locked drawer in a cabinet might be reached by removing the dust boards from the back of the case and prying out the back of the drawer so the lock can be reached. That is a good professional tip which might not readily occur to the amateur refinisher.

In mending papier mache — it might be the black kind that was molded during the Victorian era — he suggests white glue "which the paper will suck in" and which has correct pliability for the purpose. After the piece has been stabilized with glue, cracks can be filled in with black shellac sticks or black wax. This is a very simple solution to what might appear at first glance to be irreparable damage requiring the services of "an expert" if you are lucky enough to locate one.

As for repairing ceramics, it is for "the kind of people who like to wear close-up magnifying glasses, even a jeweler's glass and work slowly and painstakingly." It isn't to be sluffed off in a quick operation, but he tells how to do it.

For cleaning old prints, etchings and other printed matter, there are a number of techniques that might be used to remove various stains.

As a first step he suggests the discoloring might be nothing more than surface dirt. After first dusting it with a soft brush, you use an eraser made of soft, moist bread. Any cheap, spongy bread will do, he explained. It should be soggy enough for easy handling. Knead about eight slices into a ball, making it a little moister with water if necessary, so you can get a hard roll to move across the paper. This should erase surface dirt without disturbing the print or picture.

Some papers can be washed carefully in lukewarm water, but the technique needs experimentation, he cautions.

Fly specks or spots can be removed by picking them off the paper carefully with a needle and then bleaching the remaining stain with hydrogen peroxide which is applied with a fine-pointed brush. Directions for additional bleaches are given in the event that doesn't work.

Grotz gives directions for removing brown foxing (mildew) spots caused by spores which feed on paper in moist conditions, and he tells how to remove the black stains made by inks having soot or other carbons in them.

In providing directions for restoring furniture finishes, Grotz gets away from the traditional seven coats of shellac, seven sandings method. After cleaning the old finish by scrubbing the surface with a wet cloth and wiping it dry, douse it with mineral spirits with a rag to remove any wax or oil. Wipe it dry (hard) with paper towels. Repeat process twice, getting into carvings with an old toothbrush. (A crazed surface should be treated with a nailbrush used over the entire surface.) Dry the piece for five minutes before trying to reamalgamate it.

It is possible to reamalgamate because for 200 years, until 1900, shellac was used on all furniture, he maintains.

Mix a cup of denatured alcohol in a bowl, add one ounce of lacquer thinner and brush it lightly on the wood with a clean brush. The shellac dissolves as you brush it on as if you were brushing on fresh shellac. Dry finish overnight in dry room (avoid dampness). The following day, polish the piece to smoothness with steel wool, wax it with paste wax. If the old shellac has been brushed too thin in some areas, spray a coat of clear dull lacquer over it or, after buffing with steel wool, apply a coat of varnish over the shellac.

Professionals use padding lacquer when they reamalgamate, he insists, because it is faster. They apply it with a three-inch square of padding (15 or 20 layers of cotton sheeting) which is rubbed hard over the surface as the pad is wetted with lacquer. That technique takes special skills and special lacquer.

Embroiderers' Guild To Meet

The N. C. Chapter of the Embroiderers' Guild of America, Inc. will meet Monday and Tuesday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Ms. Lillian Geer will be the guest teacher and lecturer on "Oriental Rugs." She will present a lecture and exhibit slides beginning at noon Monday with a covered-dish luncheon.

She will conduct workshops Monday and Tuesday mornings from 9:30 until noon on prayer rugs.

The prayer rug is worked on rug canvas involving four colors and can be used as a small rug or as a wall hanging.

The class will be limited to 20 persons and those interested should contact Pat Reep, 756-1088, for further details.

Ms. Geer is a needlework teacher and is on the staff of the Valentine Museum in Virginia.

Mrs. Reynolds Gives Program

GRIFTON — Mrs. Betty Reynolds gave a program on citizenship at the meeting of the Grifton Extension Homemakers held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Merle Latham.

The club, in cooperation with the garden club, will be making garments to be sent to Cherry Hospital. Plans were made to attend the annual meeting in Greenville.

Mrs. Percy Boyd gave the devotional.

Dear Abby Advises Against The Chain Letter

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received a chain letter in the mail. With it were strict instructions to make six copies and send it to six of my friends, or "something" will happen to me.

What can happen if I don't?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You will save 78 cents and a lot of time.

DEAR ABBY: A note to the lady who was considering divorce because she was tired of "faking in the bedroom" for eight years:

I've been married for 30 years to a dear man who (I hope) is not aware that his love-making is far from satisfying. But I would "fake it" for another 90 years rather than hurt this beautiful man who cannot, or will not, discuss our sex life. He would be devastated at the thought of how unfulfilled and frustrated he has left me. And he would be crushed by the idea that I thought he needed counseling.

After all this time, I'm sure part of the fault was mine. NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Therapists in the human sexuality program of many medical schools inform me that many couples who have been married for more than 30 years have been helped tremendously by counseling. But if you "know" that your husband is not a candidate for counseling, and you are willing to "fake it" forever, you have handled your problem well enough to suit yourself. I would not, however, advise anyone who has been married for only eight years to "fake it." In these enlightened times, a spouse commits a grave error in judgment to "fake" satisfaction when real satisfaction can be achieved through education.

DEAR ABBY: This is for EMBARRASSED. She said her three grown children were raised in a good Christian home, but one plays with a rock group and looks like a bum, another lives with a married man in Mexico, and another is into a far-out religious cult that doesn't believe in money (although she's always asking her parents for some to feed her and her "brothers and sisters"). The problem was what to tell people when friends ask what her kids are doing.

What a coincidence! We have three grown children who turned out very much like EMBARRASSED'S, but we aren't embarrassed. When people ask about them, we give them a complete rundown, and the usual response is: "That's nothing. Wait till I tell you what MY kids are doing!"

Some Tensions Remain On Chowan Campus

MURFREESBORO, N.C. (AP) — The heat of protest has cooled somewhat but all is not a "good buddy" basis yet between Chowan College and its Iranian students, who say they are not being treated fairly.

The Iranians, 65 in all, contend they have encountered hostility and ridicule from American students and administrators of the 100-year-old Baptist liberal arts junior college of about 1,000 students.

Their feelings became public last week in this northeastern North Carolina rural community of 3,000 when the protesters staged a hunger strike on campus.

School officials, saying the Iranian students are treated fairly, responded with an ultimatum that they must obey the rules or face suspension.

Even the threat of intervention by the Iranian Embassy in Washington was raised, with the embassy agreeing to investigate complaints but at the same time advising the protesters to return to their classes.

Some tensions remained, however, and both sides have sought to suppress rumors of death threats.

"They haven't really listened to us at all," said second-year student Hassan Amirani, 23, of Abadan, near the Persian Gulf. "Nothing has been done and everything will be just as bad as before."

Amirani said the first public protest was touched off by verbal and physical abuse allegedly suffered by an Iranian student who had been drinking and a campus security officer.

"The administration didn't do anything about it. That's just one example of what we're protesting about," said Amirani.

Administration spokesman

Phil Royce said an investigation indicated the security officer was "more or less protecting himself" in the incident.

Franklin B. Lowe, dean of the college, said, "They claim that they weren't receiving equal treatment, but what they have to realize is that any student, regardless of race, is treated the same with respect to violations of policy."

Lowe met with the protesters and advised them to "settle down." He told them if they did not want to abide by the regulations, they should "withdraw voluntarily."

Lowe said another tension-building factor was the appearance on campus of a number of cars with Washington-area license plates, driven by persons who appeared to be Iranian.

"We can't afford to hire special staff just for them," Lowe said in an interview.

Amirani said the Iranian students countered by saying their tuition could be raised to support such an administrator. "The administrators told us that was impossible," he told an interviewer.

The protesters also complained of unfair treatment from Roy Winslow, associate dean of students, complaining that he did not take their grievances seriously, and discriminated against them.

"Dean Winslow's function is partly disciplinary and it's always an unpopular position," said Lowe.

Amirani said the cultural and language barrier provokes discrimination. He said Iranian students feel ridiculed by faculty and administrators.

"They think we're stupid because we can't speak English that well, so we're treated like animals," Amirani said.

Tension was fueled recently by rumors of death threats, which neither the Iranian students nor administrators could pin down.

Royce said the American Civil Liberties Union received calls from two persons purporting to be Iranian students at Chowan. He said the callers told of threats on their lives and complained that campus police and city police had refused to offer protection.

He said school officials checked back two years in the records and the names given by the callers did not appear. School officials said they had not received requests for protection, and Amirani said he had no knowledge that any student was threatened.

Lowe said another tension-building factor was the appearance on campus of a number of cars with Washington-area license plates, driven by persons who appeared to be Iranian.

He said Chowan President Bruce E. Whitaker received a call from a man who said he was with the Iranian Students Association in Washington.

Lowe said the caller wanted to explain why the protesting students failed to keep an appointment with Whitaker last Friday to discuss grievances. The caller reportedly said the students had not had time to prepare properly for the meeting.

Lowe said in a session this week with the protesters that the broken appointment with Whitaker and the appearance of nonstudent Iranians on campus might have been an effort "to intimidate the administration."

He told the students, "Chowan College has never made or changed policy on the basis of intimidation. It will not do so now. This includes not only intimidation from students currently enrolled but also pressures brought by persons outside this college community."

Amirani said the students had not sought advice from the student association, but said: "We did call some friends in Washington, but they were just students at George Washington University. Some of them did come down to help us decide what to do but they did not do anything themselves."

Campus life returned to a semblance of normalcy this week, but some damage was recorded on both sides. Amirani said he and a number of other Iranians will leave the school later this year.

"This is our first major conflict with any national group," said Clayton Lewis, dean of students, who has been instrumental in recruiting international students for the college, which offers language training courses. "Perhaps part of the problem is that we now have more Iranians than the community can properly assimilate."

Police Note 2 Collisions

More than $800 damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday, according to Greenville Police Department investigators.

Officers reported cars driven by Herman Lee Waters of Route 1, Vanceboro, and Harry Elbert Smith Jr. of 1403 Willow St. collided about 10:08 a.m. at the intersection of First and Elm Streets, injuring Waters and causing an estimated $300 damage to the Smith car.

Police, who listed the Waters car as a total loss, said the 74-year-old Waters may have been unconscious when his vehicle traveled into the intersection and collided with the Smith vehicle.

No charges were made. Cars operated by David Bruce Ryan of Route 3, Greenville and Janet Leigh Cavanaugh of 302 Jarvis St. collided about 11:40 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Cotanche Streets.

Investigators estimated damage from the collision at $200 to the Ryan auto and $300 to the Cavanaugh vehicle.

Already Talking Helms' Rival

Sen. Jesse Helms, North Carolina's senior and Republican senator, doesn't come for re-election this year; in fact the end of his term is two years away.

Already, however there is speculation about his Democratic opponents. Recently there was a report that NCNB board chairman Luther H. Hodges, Jr., son of the late governor, would resign early next year to begin a campaign.

The report was denied by Hodges, who said, while he was interested, he wouldn't make a decision until next spring.

Hodges has been frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for various offices. The speculation has often centered on the governor's office in 1970.

But, of course, this year's campaign for governor is not over yet, and it will be four years before a gubernatorial campaign is waged again. The senatorial election is only two years away — practically right on top of us as politics goes.

It is not surprising that Luther Hodges, Jr. is interested in seeking a state political office, given his exposure to government service through his father's political career.

It is likely that other important names in Democratic politics will be in the race for the nomination; then the winner will have to face a popular Jesse Helms.

No doubt all this is currently being assessed by Hodges, and it wouldn't be too surprising if he decided to make the senatorial run in 1978.

Faculty Salaries Do Need Attention

The UNC Board of governors will be asked to consider a budget which includes pay raises of 10 percent for each of the biennial years for submission to the governor and the Legislature.

The increase carries an awesome price tag, but it is clear to us that faculty salaries must be increased in the next budget if our higher education institutions are to maintain their quality.

Salary increases should be given high priority in making up the budget.

Education For Offenders

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — It has been said often, and by many experts, that the one thing which prisons do most effectively is to teach inmates improved criminal skills for later use.

If that is true, then North Carolina may be on the right track with an experimental effort to keep some youngsters out of prison—and in school.

The pilot project is being run at Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte. The object is to take either those on probation, or those diverted prior to trial, and get them into the classroom and workshop, learning a skill they can make a living with.

There are three such programs currently underway in the nation; the Charlotte effort, one in Denver, Colo., and one in Jacksonville, Fla.

Federal Grant
Central Piedmont has just gotten approval for a $166,000 grant from federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act funds to run the project during the present school year.

Richard D. Randall, counselor and project director at Charlotte, said the money will provide tuition, books, transportation, meals, and counseling services for 203 people, mostly between 16 and 2 years old.

This is not the first time such a program has been attempted. For the past 18 months, the school has been taking some students from the courts and testing the approach.

The dropout rate, Randall said, was better for the offenders' group than for regular students. But he found a major hitch: Many of the participants simply didn't have enough money to get by day-to-day. That is why the present program will provide breakfast and lunch, and transportation to and from the campus—one of the most important parts of the project, Randall said.

State prison officials endorse the idea since it may eventually mean fewer inmates in the already crowded system, and it will provide needed rehabilitation now lacking in the prisons.

The courts endorse the approach as providing supervision and training for offenders, and giving a positive way out for those otherwise fated to a life of crime.

Escape Taint
The principal goal, Randall says, is to get offenders into a new direction before they "get tainted by the criminal justice system . . . to give direction to people who typically would be just hanging around, tainted by their brush with the law."

College counselors work with the Mecklenburg District Attorney's office to seek out offenders who show the best chance of benefiting. "We are conservative, very conservative, in selection," says Randall.

Depending on the offense, age of the person, and other criteria, the prospect is either diverted before trial, or moved into the college program on probation if trial is held.

Each person selected is tested to determine possible job interests and skills; enrolled in the courses; assigned a counselor; regularly evaluated as to progress; and assisted in job placement.

This approach, say Central Piedmont staffers, "will make it possible for participants to receive an education at a time when his prospects are the bleakest."

College officials hope to get federal funding for another year, then move the program into regular state funding budgets.

Amity Is Still Uneasy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon tried to manipulate the affairs of the Indian sub-continent and as a result led Indian leaders at one time to believe they were under the threat of a U.S. naval attack, says New Delhi's outgoing ambassador, Triloki N. Kaul.

Kaul, who is ending his 3½-year term as ambassador here today, said his years in Washington have seen relations between India and the United States move from cold hostility toward friendship.

"A limited improvement has been achieved since the tensions of the early 1970s," Kaul said in an interview. "But our two countries still have a long way to go before reaching true friendship and a new U.S. approach could help bring it about."

Kaul, formerly foreign secretary, came here in the aftermath of India's war with Pakistan and the Bangladesh crisis. It was a period that saw the policies of former President Nixon tilt in favor of Pakistan to the point that Indian leaders came to believe at one stage they were under the threat of a U.S. naval attack.

During India's 1971 conflict with Pakistan, the aircraft carrier Enterprise approached the Bay of Bengal and units of the U.S. Sixth Fleet mounted a display of strength within sight of India's defense perimeters.

These actions, taken together, led the government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to feel it was being threatened by a show of American force designed to induce it to slow down its action against Pakistan.

Kaul indicated he did not himself feel the U.S. demon-

A Devil Made Me Do It

This is what happens. I have been able to stick to any regimen that is the fad of the

I walk into the kitchen and there sitting at the counter is the Devil. He doesn't look like the ones you see in books.

Great Britain turned a swift diplomatic hand today to patch a menacing break in the alliance of European non-intervention in Spain.

Stirred by a flat Russian ultimatum threatening to aid the Madrid government if fascist states do not stop helping the insurgents allegedly with guns, planes and other war materials. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden broke off his Monaco holiday and turned toward home to personally direct Britain's policy.

In the wake of the Moscow warning came reports that other countries, as yet unnamed, would question alleged breaches of the "hands off Spain" pact at tomorrow's London meeting of the European non-intervention committee.

Hitting the campaign trails again President Roosevelt and Governor Landon faced today the grueling phase of electioneering which will give them little rest from now until November 3.

With expressions of "renewed confidence" Governor Landon made ready to leave Topeka this evening for a 2,400 mile tour of the lake states.

Mr. Roosevelt turned his face westward today for a nine-day drive into 11 states, planning to tour the midwest and the Rocky Mountain region.

Other Editors Say Bill Gets Higher

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The trouble with embarking upon a social welfare course, as Britain, Sweden and some of the other socialist-oriented nations have ruefully found out, is that there is no turning back, no retrenchment on existing programs, as the demand and appetite for more and more free goodies grow and grow.

It is a problem we are now facing in this country. Expenditures for social welfare programs hit an all-time high of $287 billion in 1975. Social welfare expenditures include the costs of the social insurance programs, unemployment insurance, public employee retirement and workmen's compensation, as well as public aid, health and medical programs, education, housing, veterans' programs, institutional care, child nutrition and welfare, vocational rehabilitation and of course the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The total expenditures from federal, state and local funds—$287 billion—is 19.1 per cent of the gross national product, up sharply from 1970 when such spending was 14.9 per cent of the gross national product. In 1965 welfare was 11 per cent of GNP and in 1960 it was 10 per cent.

Another significant shift is in the ratio of federal to state-local share of such expenditures. In 1975 the figures were 57.9 per cent federal and 42.1 per cent local-state. This is a shift from 1970 when the figures were 53.1 per cent federal and 46.9 per cent state-local. Obviously there is a strong tendency to shift the burden to the federal government as it grows larger and gains more voice in controlling the daily lives of the country's citizens.

And the state and local governments are only too glad to shuck this burden, shifting it to Washington. As high as state and local taxes are, they are still not enough to pay for all the social "services" the people have been conditioned to expect. Inflation has taken its toll, and in a vicious-cycle type of situation, social welfare breeds inflation.

Somewhere along the line in the future—and not too far off, at that—we are going to have to call a halt to the wild dream that all can live off the central government. It cannot be done.

Government cannot be all things to all people; indeed, it was not intended to be. But it's working out that way and we are going to rue the day we took the course of Britain, Sweden and other nations who foolishly thought there was something for nothing to be found in socialism.

very charming little fellow — pudgy, of course, and quite short with a round red face and dresses in a blue denim leisure suit. I always try to ignore him, but he is the type that starts up a conversation whether you want him to or not. He might say, "While you're checking the kitchen door, why don't you take a peek in the refrigerator?"

"Why should I take a peek in the refrigerator?"

"Just to check if the light is on or not," he says innocently.

I open the fridge. "The light's on," I say.

"Oh, I see your wife bought some Edam cheese today. I'll bet that would taste delicious on black bread."

"We have no black bread, wise guy," I snarl at him.

"Look on the third shelf behind the diet cola."

I look on the third shelf and, sure enough, a loaf of black bread is there.

"I don't want any. I'm on a diet," I say firmly.

"Well, you could offer me some. What kind of host are you anyway?"

Benefits From Soviet Trade?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States could acquire technology quickly and inexpensively, create jobs, undercut inflation, and work toward resolving basic problems such as better health care by increased trade with the Soviet Union.

That's Bill Norris' view, and when he expresses a view it sounds just like that — a statement standing certain, alone, and without qualification or attribution. After a pause he might add some punctuation: "Damn right."

Norris is William G. Norris, the man who built Control Data Corp. into a giant computer and finance company of which he is chairman. He feels strongly about many things, particularly about the benefits of Soviet trade. His concept of beneficial trade is to exchange technology rather than simply to peddle products alone.

"We must address the priorities of society," he says, listing among them food supply, water conservation, energy development and a broader distribution of health care benefits.

This is the Norris thesis: Technological innovation is the underpinning of modern economic society, the process that brings us new products and more efficient, anti-inflationary methods. In the United States it is slowing down. We no longer lead. "We must bring about a change."

The Soviet Union has more scientists and engineers creating new knowledge than any country in the world. It budgets $17 billion a year for developing technology. It operates 5,200 technological institutes.

Americans sometimes fail to give the Soviets proper credit. Americans are convinced they are the best. Our big organizations are arrogant and fail to see the advantages of Soviet trade. "The bigger you are the more arrogant you are."

In the United States "there is a great tendency to downgrade what the Russians are doing. Success in this country is measured by shiny new instruments. The Russians are weak in this area."

However, since "their society stresses creating knowledge as opposed to applying it, we could help them apply that knowledge." In exchange, the United States would acquire basic knowledge without having to begin from scratch."

"The Soviet Union's emphasis on research and the U.S. strength in the application of technology provides the basis for a natural marriage." The Japanese bought American know-how. "We'd do well to take a page from their notebook."

Norris would help the Soviets refine and market products in exchange for technology that would help improve American business and society, and do so with less capital investment than otherwise might be needed.

Meanwhile, Norris believes, domestic technology development can be given a boost by encouraging larger companies to aid smaller concerns "instead of eating them up." It's the little ones who are the innovators, he says.

VOTERS NOT ENTHUSED

California Vote Is Close

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In California, the richest plum in the presidential campaign, the race for 45 electoral votes is too close to call, insiders in both party organizations say.

"If the election were held today, we'd lose," says state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, a leader in the Ford drive. "But we are gaining. I predict the winner will have less than 51 per cent and the loser, more than 49 per cent."

Neither party effort has visibly caught on with California voters. But Democrat Jimmy Carter's lead of 15 to 20 percentage points in polls a month ago is down to 6 points in one poll and 4 in another.

The registration numbers favor Carter, while President Ford has the stronger campaign organization.

Democrats outnumber Republicans by 1.8 million, and three new Democrats have been registering for every new Republican over the last four months.

Most Democratic efforts since the presidential conventions have gone into that registration drive, which could give Democrats a 2 million voter majority — about 5.5 million to 3.5 million Republicans.

But most of the political activity so far — the mass telephonings, precinct walks and mailings — has been in the Republican camp.

The "Republican Unity" campaign, an appeal to vote a straight ticket from Ford down through state Assembly candidates, has been under way several weeks.

Carter campaign organizers are still vague about how many local headquarters or telephone banks will be opened, or where.

But neither Ford nor Carter has a strong constituency of his own in the nation's largest state.

The outcome in California very likely will depend on two losers in the presidential derby: Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and former Gov. Ronald Reagan.

So far, Brown, a 3-1 winner over Carter in the California primary, has played a more active role in the Carter campaign than Reagan has for Ford. But Reagan delivered to Ford a campaign structure with roots down to the precinct level.

Reagan sent mailgrams to his 58 county chairman, asking them to support Ford. His state cochairman, Mike Curb, followed up with personal telephone calls and told each county chairman: "We're not kidding. We mean

it. Get on board."

Fifty-seven of the 58 now are county cochairmen for Ford.

There is no comparable organization which Brown, or any other California Democrat, can turn over to Carter.

"We don't have an ongoing organization that is available to particular candidates. We have to organize anew each election," said Gray Davis, Brown's chief of staff and closest political adviser.

"The Republican party has always maintained organizational strength (in California) which in relative terms is much greater than the Democratic party. Activists in the Democratic party tend to organize around a candidate, rather than around a party," he said.

"Brown is doing the most important thing he can do, which is identify himself with Gov. Carter. With Gov. Brown's popularity, there is no more substantial thing he could do," Davis said. "We have done everything Gov. Carter asked us to do."

Brown has traveled two days in California with Carter and praised the former Georgia governor. And Brown has agreed to campaign four days for Carter in

A WORD THAT RE-ECHOES

One of the most massive and beautiful buildings in the world is the Taj Mahal, built by a faithful husband in memory of his wife. On the tomb are inscribed these words: "To the memory of an undying love."

It is said that if one stands inside the tomb and repeats this sentence, the last word—love—echoes and re-echoes from the dome two hundred feet above.

The word "love" has a marvelous way of re-echoing. Once we say it and mean it, the reverberations of it never seem to die down.

The word "love" re-echoes through the New Testament as well. Jesus dwelt on the word with such exquisite power that millions in every generation have arisen to call him blessed. He declared that love constituted the sum and the end of the law—the love which goes up to God in adoration and out to man in service.

"Love never faileth . . . Faith, hope, love; and the greatest of these is love."

New Jersey, Oregon and Pennsylvania. So far, Reagan has only one joint personal appearance planned with the President and has promised to appear for Ford in 11 other states. But praise of Reagan's behind-the-scenes work is offered with enthusiasm by Ford backers, while there is restraint in comments by Carter leaders about Brown. One newspaper columnist quoted Brown as replying "good" when told Carter's campaign was in disarray. Brown vehemently denies the quote, but the story persists. No one contends Brown and Carter are friends, just as few believe Reagan and Ford are close. But Brown has cultivated a reputation as a maverick, while Reagan is a party loyalist. And for Reagan, who will soon be 66, there may be no political tomorrow. Brown is 38. "I don't think Brown is going to give more than lip service to Carter, because the best way for Brown to ultimately become president is for Carter to be defeated," said Republican party vice chairman Mike Montgomery.

campaign spent six times that in California in 1972.

Said Brown aide Davis: "With limits on spending — organizational money — this state is going to be won or lost like every other state, largely by the manner in which the candidate presents himself and his ideas. What we do here only adds or subtracts incrementally from that total."

"Gov. Carter has to win California. And California is still to be won or lost," Davis said.

Pollster Mervin Field, who reported a 62-33 Carter lead over Ford in California before the Republican convention in August, says the state should now be listed as doubtful for Carter.

But Field, who is starting a new survey, says the shift from Carter to "undecided" reported in other polls is not necessarily momentum for Ford. So far, it only means voters are taking a second look at Carter.

"Carter starts with an edge. Carter has to lose it before Ford can win," Field said.

Democrats have outnumbered Republicans by a 3-2 margin in California since 1934, but Republicans have consistently beaten the odds, occupying the governor's office during 28 of those 42 years. And Republicans have carried the state in five of the last six presidential elections.

But the presidential vote can be misleading. The GOP has had a Californian up for president or vice president in six of the last seven general elections. That's an advantage the Republicans don't have this year.

I make the cheese sandwich and shove it toward him.

"Care to join me?" he asks. "I hate to eat alone."

"I'll just have a taste," I say.

He pushes the sandwich toward me. "Here take this one. I'll make my own. You know what would go good with that sandwich?"

"What?" I ask, sitting next to him at the counter.

"A large cold glass of beer."

"I'm not supposed to drink beer on my diet."

"I know. But one glass isn't going to hurt you. You can't eat a cheese sandwich without beer."

"Where's the beer?" I ask him.

"On the bottom shelf, behind the cottage cheese."

I pour myself a glass of beer.

"I know I'm not supposed to tell tales out of school," he says, "but did you know your wife made chocolate chip cookies today to send to your daughter at college?"

"She did?" I say in surprise. "Where are they?"

"She hid them in the broom closet so you wouldn't find them. If I were you I'd be pretty angry at a wife who hides chocolate chip cookies so her husband can't find them."

"It does kind of get me mad," I admit. "What kind of marriage is it if people can't trust each other?"

"Why don't you eat them just to let her know you're not somebody who can be trifled with. Chocolate chip cookies are delicious with vanilla ice cream."

I look at him.

He grins. "In the deep freeze, underneath the cans of frozen orange juice."

"You really are a troublemaker," I tell him as I take the ice cream out of the freezer.

"What the devil are you talking about? I'm the best friend you have in the world. Who else would have told you about the chocolate chip cookies in the broom closet? Oh, by the way, before you go upstairs you better check the kitchen door. I think it's still unlocked."

Describe Boycott List Policy

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — American businesses being asked by Arab countries to honor the economic boycott of Israel will have their identities made public from now on.

Those disclosures will be made by the Commerce Department in cases of boycott requests that U.S. businesses receive after Thursday. Firms that received such requests in the past will not be identified publicly.

The new policy is the result of the policy reversal that President Ford announced during the Wednesday night debate with Jimmy Carter when Ford said the names of U.S. companies participating in the boycott will be made public.

Ford's handling of the Arab boycott during the debate is generating some sharp criticism of Ford and some confusion about what he intended.

He is being criticized by Democrats for misrepresenting Congress as opposing legislation to counter the boycott while portraying his administration as working for such a law.

The confusion stemmed from Ford's statement that the names of U.S. companies that "have participated in" the boycott would be disclosed. However, the Commerce Department said Thursday that only the names of companies involved with the boycott after Oct. 7 will be disclosed.

Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson said President Ford's announcement of the boycott order could have been worded more carefully. "It could have been clearer, but I don't think anyone who knew the context was in any doubt," Richardson said.

Speaking at a Republican fund-raising dinner in Wichita, Kan. Richardson denied the Ford administration opposed congressional disclosure efforts. He said it opposed more far-reaching legislation because it might have made the boycott more stringent.

"But we were prepared to accept legislation that would have the effect of requiring disclosure," Richardson said.

The crux of the boycott is the wish of the Arab nations to put economic pressure on Israel by refusing to do business with foreign companies that in turn do business with Israel.

The Arab nations obtain that information by requiring companies to fill out questionnaires — which the United States considers boycott requests — before they can be approved for a business transaction.

Such questionnaires are often sent to a number of different firms for a single transaction — such as the manufacturer, the bank that supplies financing and the shipping company that transports the product.

The Commerce Department now requires American companies to report to the department when they get such requests. Up to now, the names of those companies have been kept secret by the department.

Under Ford's order, the earliest any names would be disclosed is Oct. 29, since companies are required to report 15 days after receiving any boycott requests.

Despite Ford's statements Wednesday night making it appear otherwise, the Ford administration lobbied hard against recent efforts in Congress to make it illegal for U.S. companies to comply with the boycott.

Another anti-boycott measure was included in the recent tax bill that Ford signed. The new law denies business tax credits to any U.S. firm on any earnings derived as the result of participation in the boycott.

Although Ford did not mention that his administration had opposed the tax action, a Treasury Department staff member acknowledged Thursday, "We spent a lot of time working against it."

ATTENTION! WINTERVILLE CITIZENS

You Are Invited...
To Participate In The
Winterville Community Development Programs

Consider this your invitation to get involved in Winterville's Community Development Program. It is issued on behalf of the Winterville Town Board of Aldermen to all individuals, organizations, and neighborhood groups in the town.

Each individual citizen, group of citizens, neighborhood organization or civic club has some ideas about what they want Town Government to do... or not to do. Most of us have an idea of what kind of city or neighborhood we want to live in and about which needs are most important. The best ideas in government have always come from the people. The Town of Winterville believes they still do.

Your opportunity to express your personal or group views as to the community needs of Winterville will be to attend the public hearing of October 11, 1976, at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall.

For further information, call or write to the Winterville Town Clerk, P.O. Box 431, Winterville, North Carolina 28590. The telephone number is 756-2221. We want to hear from you!

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are due today in New England and the Southeast. Rain is expected for the upper Great Lakes. Warm weather is forecast for the west coast and Rockies and mild weather along the Atlantic coast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A flash-flood watch was in effect today for the mountains and eastern slopes of North Carolina following heavy rain. High water caused some evacuations.

There was some overflow on the Yadkin River in the North Wilkesboro area. But no serious flooding was reported there.

More showers will fall over western counties and possibly in the east until a cold front with rain-causing waves moves out of the state Saturday.

Skies will remain cloudy through Saturday over most of the state, so temperatures will change very little. Highs today ranged from the upper 60s in the mountains to 80s along the southeast. Lows tonight will be from the upper 50s in the mountains to the upper 60s along the coast. Highs on Saturday will be from the low 60s in the mountains to the low 80s along the southern coast.

The extended outlook for Sunday through Tuesday is for showers ending along the coast Sunday and fair weather Monday and Tuesday. Highs on Sunday will be 50s in the mountains to mostly 60s elsewhere. By Tuesday it will warm into the mid 60s to mid 70s. Overnight lows will be mostly in the 40s, except 50s along the coast.

Some persons in Caldwell county couldn't get home Thursday night because roads were made impassible by heavy rain. Some low-water bridges on private property were washed away. Others on rural roads were under water.

About 15 persons in the Perkins Park area of Caldwell were evacuated as Wilson's creek rose.

Elsewhere, two inches and more of rain fell in the northwestern North Carolina mountains by early this morning.

The Rockford Bridge over the Yadkin River was closed. Creeks in the northwest were rising.

strations of power were preparations for an actual attack.

Kaul ascribed part of the problems that marred U.S.-Indian relations during the early 1970s to Nixon. He said deterioration in U.S.-Indian relations began after Nixon took office in 1969.

Nixon, who resigned in 1974, was seen by Indian authorities as a man out to maneuver and manipulate affairs of the Indian subcontinent.

"India was not prepared to play the part of a stooge," Kaul observed.

But the situation gradually eased. And two years ago, around the time Nixon resigned, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger found it possible to visit New Delhi and restore some confidence between the two governments.

Relations with the United States showed improvement after Nixon's departure but difficulties persisted.

In the spring of 1975, a few days before the scheduled arrival in Washington of an Indian ministerial team, Kissinger authorized the resumption of defensive weapons supplies to Pakistan.

Kaul protested but to no avail. Kissinger explained India was receiving weapons from the Soviet Union and that he was not supplying the Pakistanis with arms in quantities that could upset the military alliance in the area. But the Indians remained angry. The ministerial visit was postponed.

Scholars Say Carter Aired Basic Truth

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Despite the political hoots and ridicule let loose at Jimmy Carter for saying he often has "committed adultery in my heart," church scholars say he pointed up a basic truth about the human condition.

They say he expressed, in a plain way, both sound psychology and accurate theology. That his direct assertion of it caused such a spate of public gibes, cartoon snickers and claims he had blundered shows in itself a distaste for honest realism, the scholars say, a kind of pretentiousness.

"It's hypocritical, precisely the failing that is attacked in the Scripture passage Carter was talking about," says the Rev. Dr. Robert V. Moss, a New Testament scholar and president of the United Church of Christ.

To mock the expression of a fact of human fallibility is "to not really deal with it and to avoid coming face to face with who you are," he adds.

The Rev. Dr. Seward Hiltner, a noted psychologist-theologian of Princeton Theological Seminary, says that obviously "there is an enormous distinction between a passing glance and adultery or rape."

But he says the Scripture passage cited by Carter brings out an important aspect of psychological health, an acknowledgment that fleetingly distorted motives must also be rejected as well as wrong behavior.

The wrong impulse, if not recognized for what it is, can become a "dominating pre-occupation, an obsession that imprisons a life even when the person doesn't carry it out in overt behavior," Dr. Hiltner adds.

Carter's comments, made in an interview with Playboy magazine, had to do with Jesus' Sermon on the Mount in Matthew 5-7 demanding recognition of inevitable human shortcomings in contrast with the perfect standards God sets for their ultimate future.

"Forgive ..." Jesus says, "and your heavenly Father also will forgive you."

In describing the perfection projected in God's kingdom, Jesus cites high absolutes "virtually impossible to live by in earthly life," says the Rev. Dr. J. Robert Nelson, a Methodist theologian of Boston University.

"Yet they're keenly relevant, the strongest kind of directive for consistency of motive and action," he adds. "Sure, we all fall short. The fact that we're sinners is pretty well known and it seems strange there would be all this fuss over Carter admitting that the best of us are fallible."

Jesus, in his sermon, calls figuratively for cutting off an arm or plucking out an eye if they cause sin, demands turning the other cheek to an assailant, loving enemies and equates anger with killing, lust with adultery, motive with deed, and also insists on acknowledgement of human failings and forgiveness for it.

As Carter put it, "Christ set almost impossible standards for us, Christ said, 'I tell you that anyone who looks on a woman with lust in his heart has already committed adultery.' I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something God recognizes I will do ... and God forgives me for it."

The Rev. James T. Burtchael, a noted Roman Catholic theologian and provost of the University of Notre Dame, says Carter simply was "saying he shared a common tendency in physical attitudes, and more importantly, that he was not pleased by it, and that he had not followed up on it.

"That's a pretty good record."

Dr. Hiltner says it's essential to realism for human beings to understand their impressions always are flawed in many ways, including a man's fragmented view of a woman, and vice versa, neither seeing in a wholly true perspective.

Not to realize this is to fall victim to fantasies, he says. For example, he notes, if a bank officer spends his time constantly thinking of embezzling funds but actually never does it, "he can be enchaind as much as if he'd taken the money, not before the law, but in himself."

While Carter underlined that subtle dimension, some scholars questioned his expounding it to a magazine advocating casual sex. Perhaps, Dr. Nelson says, the candidate overlooked Jesus' admonition in Matthew 10:16;

"Behold, I send you out as sheep in the midst of wolves; so be as wise as serpents and innocent as doves."

Gospel Singing—Great Preaching—Everyone Welcome

During this Bicentennial year, we remember especially the covered wagon—and the days when vast stretches of fertile farming land and rich mining country lured the pioneers across our western plains.

Packed in these lumbering vehicles were camping materials, stores of food and medicines, clothing and tools and weapons, for danger lurked everywhere. These were the rugged people who settled our West, and bore the torch of civilization across plain and mountain to the Pacific.

But the covered wagons carried something besides the pioneers and their material belongings westward. They carried the faith of a great people, and they planted it in every village and settlement.

Faith is the foundation on which the West was built—and the East had been built before it. Faith in God and the right, in people and work and prayer... this is the true source of a nation's greatness.

Every church spire pointing heavenward blazes the secret of our country's strength.

 issuance of all building and related construction permits shall apply only in those areas identified by the Corps of Engineers and the Federal Insurance Administration as having a flood hazard potential due to location in the identified floodways or in the 100-year flood plain as presented to the city on Sept. 30, 1976."

Caldwell explained that the moratorium will give the city time to prepare an ordinance that will regulate construction in the fringe areas of the flood plain. The new ordinance will be considered at the November meeting.

Bobby Kim and Dave Middleton were approved as Rose High School representatives on the Human Relations Council.

David J. Gordon was reappointed to a second five-year term on the Redevelopment Commission. Gordon's first term expires this month.

Dogs made the agenda once again with members of the Council voting to adopt an ordinance "providing for an annual license tax on the privilege of keeping a dog within the city."

The ordinance imposes a license tax of $1 for the privilege and stipulates that an application for the license shall be made by one of two methods: to the Pitt tax supervisor at the time the owner or keeper of the dog lists transmitting the application to the city; or in the event the person owning or keeping the dog does not list property taxes, application for the license shall be made direct to the Greenville Tax collector.

The license tax will be paid at the same time as the annual property tax, it was noted, and the property tax receipt will constitute the license. A permanent license tag will be issued by the Greenville tax collector and payment of each subsequent year's license tax constitutes a renewal of the tag.

Other business included:
 —Approval, following a public hearing, of a rezoning request for Tract Three of the Wilcar Enterprises property located on the west side of US 13, south of Greenfield Terrace Subdivision, from Unoffensive Industry to R-6 (residential);

—Extension of temporary permit for the operation of four taxicab certificates of convenience and necessity for Mrs. Carrie L. Brewington for 30 days;

—Adoption of resolution of intent to close Stancil Circle and a portion of River Drive and setting of a public hearing on the matter at the Nov. 4 Council meeting;

—Approval of applications by the Pitt County Health Department and Pitt County Memorial Hospital for renewal of mobile home permits for use as office and quarters for night interns, respectively;

—Approval of applications for taxicab operator's permits by William Earl Gorham, Billy Lee Nobles and James Ray Staton;

—Approval of applications by Big Value Discount Drugs Inc. at 1112 N. Greene Street, for an off-premise beer and wine privilege, and by Virgo Lounge, 804 W. Fifth Street, for an on-premise beer and wine privilege license;

—Adoption of a resolution endorsing the enactment of the Intergovernmental Coordination

Act of 1976 in that the act will "resolve the conflicting problems and requirements of different federal agencies regarding the composition of areawide agency boards";

—Adoption of an ordinance adopting a proposed new Classification Plan covering all classes of positions in the municipal service of the city;

—Approval of a request by the residents in West Meadowbrook to rename Railroad Street to Melody Lane;

—Scheduling of public hearings on request for rezoning Section II of North River Estates from RA-20 to R-9, request for rezoning Section II of Tucker Estates from RA-20 to R-15, and on a petition for annexation of Tucker Estates, Section II;

—Adoption of a resolution of intent to close a portion of Radio Road, located at the west end of Radio Road abutting the ABC Moving and Storage Co., and setting a public hearing on the matter for the Nov. 4 meeting;

—Scheduling of a public hearing on a proposed amendment to the Medical Arts zoning district to include residential quarters for a resident manager, supervisor, or caretaker;

—Approval of the placement of "No Parking from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday" signs on Berkley Road from Overlook Drive to Treemont Drive;

—Denial of a request by Woodrow Haddock for refund of taxes for 1972, 1973, 1974, and 1975 in the amount of $7,544.19;

—Denial of a request by Eastern Tractor and Equipment Co. for refund of taxes for 1972, 1973, 1974, and 1975 in the amount of $6,344.81;

—Release of taxes for 1974, 1975, and 1976 for a list of petitioners, with the exception of Sam K. Price and Grey H. Price (motion to except the price request from the list passed by three to two vote, with Mrs. McGrath, Hadden and Joe Taft voting in favor and Clarence Gray and Fuller voting against);

Certain Requirements For The Unregistered

The Voting Rights Act Amendments of 1975 and the Overseas Citizens Voting Rights Act of 1975 have each imposed certain requirements relating to unregistered persons being entitled to register and vote by mail for federal offices, according to Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt Board of Elections.

Miss Register said that the acts deal with two categories: unregistered persons, otherwise qualified, residing in a county who have never registered and persons who are out of the county or state who failed to register before leaving; and unregistered persons, otherwise qualified, who reside overseas and who claim they last resided in a North Carolina county.

Persons included in the first category are entitled to register and vote, in absentia, for president and vice-president in a general election only, she pointed out.

Overseas residents who claim they last resided in a North Carolina county are entitled to register and vote, in absentia, for president, vice-president, U.S. Senator or member of Congress in any special, primary or general election, she said.

Written, signed requests are required in both instances before ballots can be issued.

In-state ballot requests may be made no earlier than 30 days prior to the election and no later than 6 p.m. on the Wednesday before the election. Ballots may be returned up to the time the polls are required to be closed on the day of the election.

A voter may apply for an "Overseas Voter" absentee ballot at any time prior to a primary, special or general election. Ballots will not be mailed to the voter earlier than 30 days prior to the election.

Miss Register explained that every applicant for an absentee ballot will be mailed, along with his official ballot, an affidavit-application. The voter must return the application, completed and signed, in the same envelope containing the voter's ballot.

Men's Day Will Be Observed

Men's Day will be observed Sunday at Rock Spring FWB Church. Bishop W. L. Phillips, pastor, will speak at 11 a.m.

THE BETTER BARGAIN: AMERICA'S TOP SELLING IMPORT STILL AT '76 PRICES.

If you hurry, your Toyota dealer can show you why '76 Toyotas have been a bargain all year long. And when you look around and see what others are giving you at '77 prices... a Toyota is even a better bargain now. But it's more than Toyota '76 prices that make them a better bargain.

The better bargain is economy. Just as important as Toyota's low purchase price is its total economy. Other cars may offer so called deals with huge savings. But those same cars may eventually eat up dollars with high operating costs or low resale value. The economy of operation of a Toyota can help keep your new car bargain a bargain. Check resale values at your Toyota dealer. You'll like what you see.

The better bargain is the top seller. Is a bargain getting something off on a car nobody wants? Not likely. This year Toyota offered new car buyers a challenge. We said, "If you can find a better built small car than Toyota... buy it!" This year, more people are buying '76 Toyotas than any other import car. You see, a real bargain is always a bargain.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, extending the technical rally it began on Thursday. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 5.40 in Thursday's activity, picked up another 1.75 to 966.84 in the first half hour today.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said traders were encouraged by the market's ability to rebound from a seven-session slide that drove the Dow down 53.44 points from early last week through Wednesday.

At the opening today, the government reported that the unemployment rate eased off in September to 7.8 per cent from 7.9 the month before.

The figure, which was in line with Wall Street's expectations, seemed to elicit little response either way from the market.

Analysts, however, did note some encouragement over the weekly retail sales report from Washington Thursday afternoon, which showed an improvement in the rate of year-to-year sales gains.

Among retail stocks, Sears, Kresge and Woolworth all scored 1/2-point gains in today's early activity. Federated Department Stores added 1/4.

Great Western Financial topped the active list, unchanged at 20 1/2. A 55,000-share block traded at that price.

Again Top Church Conference Division To Meet

Sales again topped $1 million on the Greenville Tobacco Market, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor, in reporting the results of Thursday's market activities.

Bryan said that sales yesterday totaled 975,988 pounds and brought $1,184,731, an average of $121.39 per hundred pounds.

The figures brought the season totals to 40,949,112 pounds, selling for $47,175,244, an average so far of $115.20 per hundred pounds.

Top practical price paid Thursday was $1.30 per pound with some tobacco selling in the $1.31 to $1.40 per pound range.

Stabilization receipts totaled 5.59 per cent of overall sales. Leaf, smoking leaf and cutters made up most of the volume although more primings, lugs and non descript tobacco was available than on Wednesday's sale.

Pirates Hosting Surprising Salukis

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

At the start of the 1976 football season, few of the experts held much promise for the Salukis of Southern Illinois. The team had won but three games over the past two years, and most were picking them to do little better than that this season.

But with only four games past, the Salukis have gotten new life. They dropped their opener, 38-0, to McNeese State, but since then, they've pulled off three straight upset victories.

Drake fell first, 27-15, then West Texas State, but since then, they've pulled off three straight upset victories.

Drake fell first, 27-15, then West Texas State, 21-17, on two late touchdowns. Last week, it was the turn of Lamar, bowing 19-7 to be fired-up Salukis.

Carolina's powerful defense, ranked fourth in the country in yards allowed. The Bucs are giving up just 196 yards a game, 103.3 on the ground, also ranking them in the top ten against the rush.

Perhaps the biggest thing the Pirate coaching staff must guard against is a letdown following the win over The Citadel last week, 22-3. "The victory was the fourth straight this year, and the 10th in a row over the past two seasons."

"We've had some pretty good practices this week," Coach Pat Dye said. "We've had some pretty good practices this week," Coach Pat Dye said. "We're certainly not going to forget how to hit this week. And I don't see any lackadaisical attitude from the players. They've got eyes, and they've seen what Southern Illinois can do on film."

While Dye admits that Southern might have been the sleeper on the schedule earlier in the season, there is no reason for them to be suspect now. "They've shown that they can play winning football. They're just as good a football team as we've played. They do some things even better than any we've played."

Dye is especially wary of the specialty teams of the Salukis. "Their coach, Rey Dempsey, was the specialty team coach at Detroit before he came to Southern, and he's a good one." Southern has two punters, averaging 39.6 yards a kick. And the coverage team has allowed just 51 yards in returns so far, the longest one of 19 yards. They're covering kickoffs to a 13.6 yard average, and they've blocked two punts also.

"Their kicking game is just frightening," Dye said.

Of course, the biggest weapon is Herrera — even when he doesn't carry the ball, since he must be covered. Only one other back has picked up over 100 yards, however, fullback Lawrence Boyd, with 149 yards. "They just like to give the ball to Herrera and let him run it right up the middle," Dye pointed out. "They have a good quarterback in Bob Collins. They haven't thrown a lot, but they have thrown successfully when they have put the ball up."

Overall, Southern is 15 for 38 for 228 yards.

Defensively, the Salukis mix it up, sometimes in a 5-2 and other times in a 4-3. "They're a little smaller on defense than on offense, but they're quick and real aggressive," Dye said. "They get after you all the time."

Dye has no doubt that Southern is coming in fired up. "They play with a lot of enthusiasm and emotion. They use good technique, they have good players and they're well coached."

Defensive end Cary Godette is expected to be ready to return to action this week, but Dye feels that Fred Chavis has done an outstanding job in filling in for him.

Dye also wants to get the ball to the running backs more this week. "We just haven't got our option play working well since the first game, and we need to open up this part of the game."

Willie Hawkins still rules as the leading rusher for the Bucs with 271 yards. Bunched behind him are fullback Raymond Jones with 247, quarterback

Mike Weaver with 235, and halfback Eddie Hicks with 230. Weaver has passed for 276 yards, hitting 16 of 28 throws. Pete Conaty, with 41 points

now, continues to lead the nation in field goals, and is in the top ten in scoring. He has kicked 10 straight this year, and needs just one more without a miss to tie the national record of 11 consecutive field goals.

"This should be a real fine game for both teams," Dye said, "one with a lot of things to excite the crowd."

Kickoff is set for 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. It is Youth Night and Community College Night. In addition, world champion speedboat racer Reggie Fountain will be appearing along with his boat "Spirit of '76."

Southern Tailback Andre Herrera

One of the key factors in the victory skein of the Southern Illinois team has been the hard running of senior tailback Andre Herrera. Ranked seventh in the nation in rushing, Herrera has rushed for 539 yards on just 106 carries, a hefty 5.1 yard per carry average. He's also scored three touchdowns.

Balance that with a good passing and you come up with a potent attack.

That will all be tested by East

David Whitehurst, and the third leading rusher, tailback Harry King.

William and Mary has the top men in both categories with quarterback Tom Rozantz the leader in total offense and tailback Jim Kruis and fullback Keith Fimian the two leading rushers.

But Delaware is also 3-1, and Indian Coach Jim Root says "I don't think folks around here have to be told that Delaware, year in and year out, has an outstanding football team, and this season is no exception."

Records don't mean much when VMI and Virginia Tech square off, but there's no question VMI has the momentum after last week's 17-3 upset of Furman while Tech was being mauled by William and Mary 27-15.

"We picked up the pieces when they were scattered all over the place," says VMI Coach Bob Thalman. He quoted Gobbler Coach Jimmy Sharpe as saying "I'll have our team all jacked up and foaming at the mouth to beat Tech. He's right!"

William and Mary's surprising Indians, 3-1, play host to Delaware; VMI, 1-3, takes on Virginia Tech's Gobbler, 2-2, in the Tobacco Festival at Richmond, Va.; and Davidson's title-ineligible Wildcats, 0-2, go to Randolph-Macon to face the Yellow Jackets, 0-3.

Saturday night's headliner, aside from East Carolina's bid for an 11th straight victory, has The Citadel, 2-2, at home against one of the league's three members, Tennessee-Chattanooga, also 2-2. The game doesn't count in the conference standings.

Another new member, Western Carolina, 3-2, plays host to Jacksonville State. Marshall, 3-2, is idle.

"Our defense has looked real good," says Brakefield, but he admits "we've had some problems on offense." The big factor there has been a knee injury to All-Southern quarterback Robby Price, who Brakefield says "we hope will be back this week."

His defense will be tested by the league's No. 2 total offense producer, Furman quarterback

David Whitehurst, and the third leading rusher, tailback Harry King.

But Delaware is also 3-1, and Indian Coach Jim Root says "I don't think folks around here have to be told that Delaware, year in and year out, has an outstanding football team, and this season is no exception."

Records don't mean much when VMI and Virginia Tech square off, but there's no question VMI has the momentum after last week's 17-3 upset of Furman while Tech was being mauled by William and Mary 27-15.

"We picked up the pieces when they were scattered all over the place," says VMI Coach Bob Thalman. He quoted Gobbler Coach Jimmy Sharpe as saying "I'll have our team all jacked up and foaming at the mouth to beat Tech. He's right!"

Mike Weaver with 235, and halfback Eddie Hicks with 230. Weaver has passed for 276 yards, hitting 16 of 28 throws. Pete Conaty, with 41 points now, continues to lead the nation in field goals, and is in the top ten in scoring. He has kicked 10 straight this year, and needs just one more without a miss to tie the national record of 11 consecutive field goals.

"This should be a real fine game for both teams," Dye said, "one with a lot of things to excite the crowd."

Kickoff is set for 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. It is Youth Night and Community College Night. In addition, world champion speedboat racer Reggie Fountain will be appearing along with his boat "Spirit of '76."

Brakefield Hopes No Solution For Furman

By The Associated Press

Appalachian State Coach Jim Brakefield says he hasn't figured out yet how Furman's Paladins lost their first two Southern Conference football games, and he hopes they don't discover a solution to their problem Saturday against his Mountaineers.

"This is about as good a football team as we've played," says Brakefield, whose Mountaineers have won four straight since a 21-10 season-opening defeat by South Carolina.

Furman won its first three starts outside the conference, then stumbled into the basement at 0-2 in defeats by The Citadel's Bulldogs and Virginia Military's Keydets.

By contrast, Appalachian with a victory can move into a tie for the lead at 2-0 with East Carolina's Pirates, who have a Saturday night date at home against nonleague Southern Illinois. The Pirates are 4-0 overall and have a 10-game winning streak over the last two years.

There are three nonleague games Saturday afternoon.

William and Mary's surprising Indians, 3-1, play host to Delaware; VMI, 1-3, takes on Virginia Tech's Gobbler, 2-2, in the Tobacco Festival at Richmond, Va.; and Davidson's title-ineligible Wildcats, 0-2, go to Randolph-Macon to face the Yellow Jackets, 0-3.

Saturday night's headliner, aside from East Carolina's bid for an 11th straight victory, has The Citadel, 2-2, at home against one of the league's three members, Tennessee-Chattanooga, also 2-2. The game doesn't count in the conference standings.

Another new member, Western Carolina, 3-2, plays host to Jacksonville State. Marshall, 3-2, is idle.

"Our defense has looked real good," says Brakefield, but he admits "we've had some problems on offense." The big factor there has been a knee injury to All-Southern quarterback Robby Price, who Brakefield says "we hope will be back this week."

His defense will be tested by the league's No. 2 total offense producer, Furman quarterback

David Whitehurst, and the third leading rusher, tailback Harry King.

William and Mary has the top men in both categories with quarterback Tom Rozantz the leader in total offense and tailback Jim Kruis and fullback Keith Fimian the two leading rushers.

But Delaware is also 3-1, and Indian Coach Jim Root says "I don't think folks around here have to be told that Delaware, year in and year out, has an outstanding football team, and this season is no exception."

Hall Producing His Own Magic

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Most people know by now that former Chicago Bear star running back Gale Sayers is now the athletic director at Southern Illinois.

And most of the people who followed his career and that of his good friend Brian Piccolo know that Sayers was nicknamed "Black Magic."

Well, if Sayers is with the Southern Illinois party Saturday night when the Salukis visit East Carolina, he might get a lock at "Black Magic II."

That's one of Pat Dye's super sophomores who's already broken a season record in four games, and appears headed for sure stardom in the Pirate history books.

The player is defensive back Gerald Hall, who, in four games, has picked off two interceptions, and run back 12 punts for 234 yards. His yardage leads the nation, and his 19.5 yard average is fourth in the country. That 234 yards snapped the old single season mark of 220 held by Jack Patterson back in 1971.

"I'm pleased with the yardage," Hall says. "I really can't find words to express it, but it really makes me feel good."

The Edenton native let the Pirate fans know early that he was something above the average when he returned a punt 79 yards against Southern Mississippi. Another long return against William & Mary was called back by a penalty, while he returned another over 60 yards against The Citadel.

All that has helped make up for one boo-boo: a fair catch in the N. C. State game on the one yard line.

"I try to concentrate on catching the ball. But I also try to see where the pursuit is, and I look for a hole. If I can get a couple of good blocks, I know that I can get a good return. Those first couple are the important ones. Then, it's up to me to try and break a couple of tackles and get off a long run."

As far as the interceptions go, Hall feels that all the publicity about All-America Jim Bolding's abilities at free safety has helped the rest of the defense come up with nine interceptions (plus one by Bolding). "They tend to throw away from him, and that means the rest of us get the chance of a pickoff."

Being the lone sophomore in a senior backfield hasn't hurt Hall. He's joined right in with them. "I still make some mistakes, but they (Bolding, Reggie Pinkney, and Ernest Madison) have helped me a lot with tips, and the like."

Next year, he'll be the veteran with some newcomers joining him. "I'm going to learn all I can this year, so I'll be able to pass on the help I've gotten," he said.

While at Edenton, Hall was a quarterback, who saw some duty in the defensive secondary. Now he's just as happy being on the defense. "I really prefer it now."

And Hall has one goal this year. "I want us to go 11-0, and get into a bowl game. I'll take what comes to me and not worry about it, that team goal is what I'm working towards."

This week's opponent, Southern Illinois, is both a good passing team and a good one on the ground, but Hall feels that the Bucs can keep their 10-game win streak alive. "They're a very good team. Their running back (Andre Herrera) is one of the best. But we should be ready for them."

And when Southern goes back to punt, Hall should be back there waiting on the ball—waiting to work his own particular brand of "Black Magic."

William and Mary's surprising Indians, 3-1, play host to Delaware; VMI, 1-3, takes on Virginia Tech's Gobbler, 2-2, in the Tobacco Festival at Richmond, Va.; and Davidson's title-ineligible Wildcats, 0-2, go to Randolph-Macon to face the Yellow Jackets, 0-3.

Rose Mistakes Key 23-8 Gryphon Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

It's not usually included in the training kit, but Rose High School might want to start carrying around a pot of glue with it.

They sure could have used it last night as the fumble-fingered Rampants saw seven turnovers lead to a 23-8 victory by Rocky Mount's Gryphons.

Rose fumbled the ball away on three occasions, and tossed it up for grabs four times on interceptions to dull what had been a tight game through the first half.

Rocky Mount held only a 4-0 edge at halftime, and the Rampants held a statistical lead in the contest. But after Rocky Mount came back to drive 71 yards on the opening series of the second half, the rampant offense withered away, forcing the defense into an untendable position.

It was so bad that Rose, in a total of 24 minutes of playing time, ran off only 17 offensive plays, well less than one per minute. The most consecutive plays they ran in the second half were four—and they never punted in the half.

The lone Rampant score came on the final play of the game when Scott Brady hit Robert Williams on a 26-yard pass. But by then, it meant only that the Rampants were not shut out.

Rocky Speight got Rocky Mount on the board with a 26-yard field goal in the first half. Speedy back Lloyd Bryum scored the first touchdown, on a two-yard plunge, while reserve quarterback Jess Eberdt passed for two scores. He hit Michael Lewis on a 32-yarder on his first play, then went to Dee Whitley for 13 yards later in the action.

Rose had the ball in good field position on its first drive, but couldn't make it pay off. Moving after the kickoff, the Rampants drove the ball from their own 34 to the Rocky Mount 35 before being forced to kick. Then, Terry McKnight broke through to block it and give the Gryphons the ball on their own 39.

The Gryphons got to midfield Speight for the 26-yarder and a 3-0 lead with 3:32 left in the half.

Rose, after moving to midfield, elected to go for the bomb in the final seconds, but had it picked off at the 16. It was just a foretaste of things to come.

Rocky Mount received the kick-off in the second half, and moved from its 29. After a two-yard gain, Bynum broke away for 10 and a first down at the 41, before having to punt, putting Rose in a hole at the three. But the Rampants drove out, and punted from the 41. Rocky Mount moved it back across midfield to the 45 before again kicking.

Rocky Mount then got excellent field position after an 18-yard Rampant punt. It was to be the final punt Rose was to make.

With the ball on the Rose 32, Rocky Mount had only a short distance to go, but still couldn't push it into the end zone. Three plays netted a first down at the 17, but Rose rose up, and after three more downs, the Gryphons were at the nine. Instead of going for the first down, still two yards away, they brought in Three more plays netted a first down at the Rose 49.

After a two-yard gain, Lindon Willis lofted a pass to James Bynum, who bobbled the ball, then fumbled it, with Wayne Lee recovering on the Rampant 35. Another pass, from Willis to Whitley put the ball on the ten. Two plays moved it to the two, and Bynum cracked over right tackle for the score. Speight's kick made it 10-0 with 6:18 to go in the third period.

Then, the Rampant offense collapsed. After two plays, Jeff Aldridge fumbled and Rocky Mount recovered on the Rampant 48.

After a one-yard gain, Rose was pinned for 15 yards on a personal foul penalty to the 32. Willis was injured on the play and left the game. But replacement Eberdt proved well-qualified, throwing 32 yards to Lewis on the first play for a second Rocky Mount score with 5:05 left. That made it 16-0.

Three plays later, Rocky Mount intercepted at the Rose 40 and returned it to the Rampant 19, but a field goal attempt of 31 yards was wide.

Two further plays brought another fumble, giving Rocky Mount the ball on the 27, but the Rampant defense, helped along by a 17-yard sack by Rocky Butler, and a 15-yard personal foul penalty, stopped the drive.

Then, Rocky Mount got it back after only one play, as another fumble turned it over, this time on the 26. That led to the final Gryphon score. In four plays, Rocky Mount drove to the 10, and then got a first down at the four. But after two straight losses, the Gryphons had a touchdown nullified by a holding penalty. On fourth down, however, Rose was charged with pass interference, giving Rocky Mount a first down at the 13. From there, Eberdt hit Whitley for the final score and Speight's kick made it 23-0 with 6:28 left.

Rocky Mount had two more chances, both set up by interceptions, one at the Rocky Mount 34, and the other at the Rose 46.

Rose finally got the ball back with six seconds left at the Rocky Mount 26 following a deep punt and a personal foul penalty. On that play, Brady hit Williams for the 26-yards and the score as time ran out. Ronnie Chapman passed to Mark Conway for the two-point PAT.

Rose, now 1-5 overall and 0-1 in the conference, travels to Bertie next Friday. Rocky Mount is now 4-1 overall and 1-0 in Division I play.

Aycock In 12-6 Victory

E. B. Aycock built up a 12-6 halftime lead and then hung on in a scoreless second half to defeat Southern Nash in a junior high football game here yesterday.

Aycock scored in the first quarter on a 35-yard run by Calvin Paige. The Jaguars got on the board again in the second quarter when Kenny Wilson took a hand-off in from 20 yards out.

Southern Nash also scored in the second quarter on a 32-yard run by Neil Stallings.

Neither team scored in the second half, although Southern Nash drove to the Aycock four yard line in the fourth quarter. The Jaguars held on downs to secure the victory.

Texas linebacker Bill Hamilton: "You're never asked, 'How good's your team?' or 'Are you going to win the conference or go to the Cotton Bowl?' It's always 'When are you going to beat OU!'"

Oklahoma safety Scott Hill: "When I think about the OU-Texas game, I see 40,000 people on one side yelling and 40,000 on the other side yelling. Anything that goes good makes someone happy."

who have lost the last six meetings between the two.

Michigan State Coach Darryl Rogers is hopeful. "We have to stop what they do best, be at an emotionally-high peak, not make mistakes ... and hope they make them."

In other top games, No. 2 Pittsburgh entertains Louisville; No. 4 Georgia visits Mississippi in a key Southeastern Conference contest; No. 5 UCLA hosts Pacific-8 rival Stanford under the lights; No. 6 Nebraska visits Big Eight foe Colorado; No. 7 Maryland is at North Carolina State; No. 9 Missouri visits Kansas State, and No. 10 Ohio State, which has a loss and a tie in its last two outings, returns to Big 10 competition at Iowa.

Among the second ten, No. 11 Southern California visits Washington State at night; No. 13 Boston College welcomes Florida State at night; No. 15

Texas Tech is at No. 17 Texas A&M, and No. 20 Louisiana State welcomes Vanderbilt under the lights.

No. 12 Florida, No. 14 Notre Dame, No. 18 Arkansas and No. 19 North Carolina are idle.

Two fallen powers — Alabama and Penn State — will try to retrieve lost glory against underdog opponents. Alabama entertains Southern Mississippi and Penn State hosts Army.

Texas linebacker Lionel Johnson: "They've been on top and I'm sink about it."

It's Texas vs. Oklahoma Saturday afternoon in Dallas and more than 72,000 fans — including President Ford — are expected to jam the Cotton Bowl to witness one of college football's oldest and most heated rivalries.

The Sooners, who will be making their first live appearance on national television since 1973, are ranked third in the nation. They have been plugging along at a 4-0 clip while the Longhorns, rated 16th, are 2-1.

Both are ground-oriented teams operating out of the Wishbone-T. Barry Switzer's Sooners mix the inside power of fullbacks Kenny King and Jimmy Culbreath with the outside speed of halfbacks Horace Ivory and Elvis Peacock. Darrell Royal's Longhorns rely on star fullback Earl Campbell and a pair of halfbacks, both named Johnny Jones.

Despite what folks in Dallas think, there will be other games played Saturday, including an emotional contest in Ann Arbor, Mich., where top-ranked Michigan hosts rival Michigan State. Michigan, which has steamrolled through its first four games, is heavily favored over the 1-2-1 Spartans

BIG PERFORMANCE ... MAZDA COSMO

Recently, Mazda Cosmos was tested against four similar cars by ROAD TEST magazine. Here's what they had to say about COSMO!

"The only rotary in the bunch and far and away the best performer. It had the most power, was fastest on the straight and made the least noise and vibration. To us that means best engine, even if it doesn't have camshafts in abundance. Contrary to what you might think, the measure of an engine's worth is not the number of camshafts, fitted castings or Weber carburetors but rather how much it weighs, how big it is externally, how much fuel it uses and how much power it has. All the rest is just melodramatic bench racing horse pockey. And on those counts, the things that matter, the Mazda rotary is at the top of this list."

"The Cosmo was also the easiest car to live with, making no demands upon you for the basic needs of transportation. The air conditioner worked well all the time. The shifter shifts easily and accurately. The seats fit most people. There was headroom. It had a good radio. It was quiet. While this isn't the purpose of this comparison, if we had to recommend a family car for most people it would be the Cosmo."

"... when one of us took a trip to the desert for the weekend he quickly made a reservation for the Mazda, because he didn't want to have to think about cars and because he just wanted it to work."

"... The result? The Cosmo blew their doors off. It was nearly four full miles per hour faster than second place. The rotary simply had more power and more acceleration on the up end than the others."

"... If you were just interested in how easy everything worked and how quiet it was you would go right on out and buy a Mazda, and we wouldn't blame you a bit."

Why not come by and test drive a COSMO for yourself!

Another Pirate Victory Seen

Is this the week of the upset? We're almost half-way through the collegiate football season, and there have already been a lot of upsets. But this time, there could be a whole lot more.

We'll try to figure out a few of them a little later.

On the high school scene, there are seven games involving area teams. Of course, Rose played last night, so our prediction there is of no value now.

Farmville Central travels to Conley. The Vikings were upset last week, and might be the ones to pull off the same fete this week. The Jaguars have won two in a row and share a third of the conference lead. Could it be? Nope, we think Farmville will win.

Ayden-Grifton is at North Lenoir. The Chargers have found new strength over the past few weeks, and are another team in a share of the Eastern Carolina lead. North Lenoir is winless—but watch out. Still, we're not going out on a limb here. We'll stick with the Chargers.

Southern Nash visits North Pitt. Neither team has won a conference game, despite the fact that Southern was a pre-season favorite. North Pitt has a good chance here, but we must go with Southern.

Finally, Greene Central travels to C. B. Aycock, holding the other third of the lead. The Rams came up with their first win last week in dumping Conley from a share of the lead. Can they do it again. It's possible. This will be our upset special, as we'll go with Greene.

Jamesville travels to Mattamuskeet after winning its first game last week. It's a long ride, however, and that should be enough as Mattamuskeet wins it.

Six-game winner Williamston goes to Tarboro in another game that could see an upset. We think not, however, and will stick with the Tigers.

Finally, Roanoke plays host to South Edgecombe. The Redskins are finding their way to the winners' circle now. No reason for them to stop now.

In our panel of pickers, we find that this writer continues to hold the lead with a 36-10-2 record. George Holland now holds second, all alone, with a 34-12-2 mark. Tom Baines and Joe Jenkins follow at 33-13-2, with Barbara Mathews and Jack Whichard bringing up the rear at 32-14-2.

The big game, of course, is here at Ficklen Stadium, where the Pirates entertain suddenly strong Southern Illinois. The Salukis were supposed to be winless at this point, but instead they've fashioned a 3-1 record, beating their last three foes—all favorites.

That makes us almost willing to pick Southern to turn the shoe around. However, a glance at the cards show there's still a lot of faith in the Pirates. A 6-0 vote for them to win.

Other consensus winners are: Appalachian State over Furman; William & Mary over Delaware; Duke and Miami, Fla., a toss-up; South Carolina over Virginia; Georgia Tech over Tennessee; The Citadel over UT-Chattanooga; Virginia Tech over VMI; Wake Forest over Clemson; Maryland over N.C. State; Nebraska over Colorado; and Penn State over Army.

Chicago Bears Try To Wrestle Central Lead From Minnesota

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The Minnesota Vikings are first in the National Conference's Central Division. That's not unusual. They'll be trying to hold onto it Sunday. That's not so unusual, either. The Chicago Bears will be trying to take it away from them. THAT'S unusual! The National Football League has been turned topsy-turvy early this season with some long-time non-winners acting like world-beaters and some perennial post-season teams floundering around as though high draft choices were first in their minds.

Not the least of these newly-awakened sleeping giants are the Chicago Bears, th one-time Monsters of the Midway who, in recent years, had played more like teddy bears, all cute and cuddly and capable of being pummeled by the youngest of teams.

But here they are, growling with their old ferocity, stomping into Minnesota with a 3-1 record and a shot at the unfamiliar, rarified air of a divisional lead.

In Sunday's other games it's Denver at Houston, Miami at Baltimore, Oakland at San Diego, Buffalo at the New York

Jets, New England at Detroit, Dallas at the New York Giants, Kansas City at Washington, Pittsburgh at Cleveland, Tampa Bay at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at St. Louis, Seattle vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee and Atlanta at New Orleans. On Monday night it's San Francisco at Los Angeles.

"I couldn't be more thrilled. Five weeks into the season and we're playing for first place," says Bears Coach Jack Pardee, who has revamped his club by turning out a defense able to stop the best in the league and an offense capable of grinding it out or striking for big yardage in a hurry. They did both last Sunday, routing previously unbeaten Washington 33-7.

But they've got one big trend to push aside — losing to the Vikings. They haven't won in Minnesota in five years and haven't beaten the Vikes in their last seven tries.

Minnesota, coming off a 17-6 Monday night victory over Pittsburgh, a triumph built on Chuck Foreman's 148 yards and two touchdowns rushing and an opportunistic defense which pounced on nearly a dozen Steeler mistakes, is 3-0-1.

If people are writing off the Bears as early flashes, expected to fade just as quickly, Minnesota Coach Bud Grant isn't one of them.

"They're basically a tea now with some experience," he says. "Their people aren't making rookie mistakes. They play hard-nosed football and they're for real."

The clubs rank high in defense, Chicago having allowed a league-low 32 points in four games and Minnesota just 34. And each also has its offensive bulldozer. Foreman is Minnesota's with 326 yards this year. Chicago's is Walter Payton, the NFL rushing leader with 408.

The Vikes figure to have Bob Lee back on the bench and Fran Tarkenton back at quarterback following his one-week "vacation" because of bruised ribs. "He was 95 per cent and could have played against Pittsburgh," said Grant. "But there's still a long season ahead of us and the Chicago game is very important."

A-G Volleyball

LITTLEFIELD—Ayden-Grifton kept close to the top in the race for the Eastern Carolina Conference volleyball title with a 2-0 win over D.H. Conley yesterday.

Ayden-Grifton won the first game, 15-7. Vivian Ellis served up the first five points for the Chargers, and from a 5-3 edge, Jane Donaldson added eight more for a 13-3 lead.

The Chargers took the second game, 15-9. Amy Kilpatrick broke a 5-5 tie with six straight serves and Conley never caught up again.

In junior varsity action, Ayden-Grifton won a 2-1 match, winning the first game, 19-17, and the third, 15-8. Conley took the second game, 15-6.

Ayden-Grifton is now 5-3, while Conley is 4-4.

FC Volleyball

ROBERSONVILLE—Farmville Central won the first and third games to defeat Roanoke in a girls' volleyball match yesterday, 2-1.

Farmville took the first game, 15-11, but dropped the second, 3-15. The Farmville girls came back to win the match game, 16-14.

High servers in the first game were Roanoke's Sheila Knight with four and Harris of Farmville with nine. Shiela Hodgkins of Roanoke was high in the second game with eight, while Roanoke's Lisa Roberson and Farmville's Ellis each had six serves in the third game.

The match dropped Roanoke to 5-2, although they continue to lead the conference. Farmville's record is now 3-5.

GC Volleyball

SNOW HILL — Greene Central evened its Eastern Carolina Conference volleyball record at 4-4 with a 2-1 victory over North Pitt yesterday.

Greene Central won the first game 15-2, with Lana Ginn serving up nine straight points to put the game out of reach for the Pant-HERS.

North Pitt came back to take the second game, 15-8, with neither team having any long serves.

Greene Central captured the match game, 17-15. Marilyn Yelverton was the lone girl with a long service, leading Greene Central with seven.

North Pitt is now 1-6 in league play.

ECU Tennis

St. Mary's took victories in five of six singles matches, and swept the doubles events to capture an 8-1 victory over East Carolina in a women's tennis match held on the losers home courts yesterday.

ECU's only win came in the number four singles slot where Susan Helmer downed Mary Fondren in three sets 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.

The loss brought the Lady Pirates' record on the year to 3-2. Their next match will be Monday against Atlantic Christian in Wilson.

Summary:
Margaret Scott (St. M) def. Dorcas Sunkel (ECU) 6-4, 6-0.
Terry Kira (St. M) def. Cathy Portwood (ECU) 7-5, 6-0.
Allison Hines (St. M) def. Leigh Jefferson

GC Tennis

SNOW HILL — Camp Lejeune rolled up a 9-0 tennis victory over Greene Central yesterday.

It was the third straight loss for the Ewes, who have yet to post their first 1976 victory.

Greene Central returns to action on Tuesday, hosting Farmville Central.

Summary:
Charissa Emich (CL) defeated Nancy Edmondson-Pittman, 10-2.
Beth Welch (CL) defeated Delores Nethercutt, 10-2.
Lisa Bogard (CL) defeated Terri Wade, 10-0.
Bonnie Winston (CL) defeated Chrystal Pittman, 10-9.
Beverly Steffe (CL) defeated Marsha Sutton, 10-0.
Mary Ball (CL) defeated Teresa Hardy, 10-3.
Emich-Bogard (CL) defeated Edmondson-Pittman, 8-1.
Welch-Winston (CL) defeated Cindy Harrison-Connie Roberson, 8-0.
Radcliff-Hauch (CL) defeated Nethercutt-Wade, 8-5.

Rec Soccer

The Rowdies took a 3-1 victory over the Kicks in the second game of the Greenville Recreation Department's soccer league yesterday.

The Kicks scored in the first period, with Scott Pollard scoring at the nine-minute mark.

David Lee came up with a goal for the Rowdies after 25:30 to tie it up. Then, about six minutes later, Eric Berry scored for the Rowdies to put them into a 2-1 lead. Bruce Thompson was credited for the final goal with 34:30 gone in the game.

Earlier in the week, the Cosmos and Hot Shots battled to a scoreless tie in the first game of the season.

Rec Flag Ball

The Steelers defeated the Redskins in a flag football game yesterday, 16-13.

Pitt Technical Institute was host Thursday to a meeting of the District Two North Carolina Community College Learning Resources Association (LRA). Approximately 30 learning resources personnel from ECU and the ten community colleges and technical institutes in this

14-county area attended the workshop meeting. The morning program, "Care and Feeding of Audio-visual Equipment," was led by Ken Hamilton and Herb Edwards, audiovisual personnel at Pitt Tech. Their presentation consisted of a discussion on the selection, use, and care of audiovisual equipment with special emphasis on the synchronizing and programming instruments used in the production of sound filmstrips and slide-sound programs. They are demonstrated the uses of video cameras and video recorders.

The meeting was chaired by Charles Lancaster of Coastal Carolina Community College, Jacksonville, the District Two Director of LGR.

Budget Plea Is Presented

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Department of Natural and Economic Resources is seeking $90 million for its budget needs during the 1977-79 biennium, including $7 million for the state zoo.

George Little, department secretary, outlined the requests Thursday to the Advisory Budget Commission, which will make spending recommendations to the 1977 General Assembly.

Little asked for almost $16 million to develop and acquire recreation sites. Parks and recreation funds accounted for most of the $35 million increase over the department's current $55 million budget.

Little said the first priority was to gain "modest but very important" funds to promote tourism and enhance the state's efforts to attract new industry.

Among other requests, the state Department of Justice asked for a $14 million budget increase and Chief Justice Susie Sharp requested higher salaries for judges, especially at the district court level.

Little told the commission the $7 million requested for the state zoo near Asheboro would be used to help construct the zoo's first permanent phase, the African exhibit. He said $40 million from public and private sources would be needed in the next 20 years to carry out the zoo plan.

Little's requests included an additional $180,720 to better train the state's industrial development staff and to increase travel among state industrial developers.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You could be anxious to put in effect financial plans but you need to be careful not to act too impulsively, which you are inclined to do because of the planetary positions. Rely on your good judgment.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make certain that you are wise in the handling of monetary matters, since they are most important now. Avoid a troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make improvements to your health and appearance. A good time to visit friends and have a most delightful meeting.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day to analyze your position in life and figure ways to improve it. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Being gregarious is fine but don't bring up any moot points with friends and avoid arguments. Avoid being so extravagant.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Fine day for handling public affairs for which you have had little time lately. Evening can be a very happy time from a social standpoint.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out of that rut and see how others are living and broaden your horizons. Don't become involved in anything dangerous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time to make future plans that could give you more abundance. Don't do anything that would anger your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what it is that associates expect of you and carry through. A public problem crops up that should be handled without delay.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Attend to routines early in the day. Don't lose your temper with one who is unreasonable. Maintain a happy disposition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to argue with mate. Go to amusements you enjoy and express happiness. Engage in favorite hobby.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use gentility at home today since some family members are not feeling up to par. A fine evening for entertaining.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You must be careful in motion today or there could be real trouble lurking. Take time to improve your surroundings.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of earning own way at an early age. Take steps to remove a stubborn streak in this nature by using constructive criticism. Be sure to give spiritual training early in life for best results. Sports are a must.

Their Prisoner Sheds Shackles

By BILL HENDRICK Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "I don't know how he does it, but he does it," deputy Ray Bible says of a prisoner who sheds locked shackles like a professional magician, even while he's standing before a judge.

Bible, deputy warden of the Jefferson County Detention Center, was describing John R. Luttrell, a prisoner awaiting trial on two robbery counts.

"He's in maximum security now," Bible said Thursday. "We don't like to bring him out anyway."

When Luttrell was taken to police court for a hearing this week, his legs were shackled because of his reputation as an escape artist. He fled jail twice earlier this year.

The guards put him in a holding cell and left for a short while. When they came back, the shackles were no longer on his ankles — they were in his pocket.

The shackles were put back on, and Luttrell was taken before a judge to have his trial date set. But as he left the courtroom, guards noticed he was walking normally — the shackles were off again.

"I told you they were too tight," Luttrell said, taking the shackles out of his pocket.

"This happened when he was in court," Bible said. "We searched him but didn't find anything."

Ward Suggests Debate Avoided

In a letter dated September 26 Dr. Joe Ward, candidate for Congress, challenged Congressman Walter B. Jones to a televised debate.

On September 30, Floyd Lupton, Administrative Assistant to Congressman Jones replied as follows:

"You have indicated your desire to engage in a television debate with Congressman Jones. May I remind you that every vote cast during his tenure in office is a matter of public record. His position on issues both domestic and international are well known to the citizens of the First Congressional District. His views have been conveyed to the constituency by the news media and many public appearances. It was made evident by the Carter-Ford debate on September 23 that there is no useful purpose to be served by engaging in a public discussion of issues, therefore we respectfully decline your invitation to a television debate."

In reply Dr. Ward has issued the following public statement:

"Through Floyd Lupton, Congressman Jones' Administrative Assistant, it was indicated that there is no useful purpose to be served by engaging in a public discussion of the issues. Obviously, public discussion of the issues is extremely valuable in the democratic process. I strongly suggest that the Congressman does not want to debate because he simply feels there would be no contest. After all, a Congressman who seldom speaks out on the issues on the floor of the House or in this district and who relies mainly on the printed word for his direct communication with the citizens of the district is not likely to do well in a debate. What this district needs is a Congressman who can and will speak out on the issues — one who can and will speak out on the issues. — one who is not afraid to vote against wasteful federal programs which are eating into the pay checks of workers and retired citizens. We do not need a Congressman who actively supports a Presidential candidate who would sign away our right to work law if the opportunity presents itself."

Professor At Boston Meet

Marguerite Perry, chairman of the East Carolina University Dept. of Foreign Languages and Literatures, attended a conference, "Cooperative Education in Liberal Arts," at Boston's Northeastern University Center for Cooperative Education last week.

Among the topics of the conference were employability of the liberal arts graduate, career education for liberal arts students, and methods of implementing cooperative education programs in liberal arts studies.

The bidding:

North East South West
1♠ Pass 1♥ Pass
1♦ Pass 3♥ Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♣.

Watch those seemingly unimportant spot cards. They can dramatically improve your chances of making the contract. This hand is a case in point.

North-South bid easily to their best contract. Since all of South's side values were in suits partner had bid, he felt his hand was worth a jump to three hearts at his second turn. With three aces and a king, including the trump ace, North had something in reserve for his raise to game.

West led his top spade, and declarer felt he had no problems after he had seen dummy. He won the ace of spades and cashed the ace and king of hearts, getting the bad news of the 4-1 trump break. Now there was a danger that he would lose a trick in each suit.

The obvious way to avoid a club loser was by taking a finesse. That would succeed if West held either the queen of clubs or three cards in the suit. However, as the cards lie that could have led to defeat. East would win the queen of clubs, the defenders would cash a spade trick, then shift to a diamond. Before declarer could get rid of his diamond loser, West would ruff a club and cash a diamond for the setting trick.

After some study, declarer realized that dummy's eight of clubs offered a sure-trick line for his contract. It depended only on finding West with at least two clubs. Declarer cashed the queen of hearts, leaving West with his trump winner, and then the ace and king of clubs. He continued with a club toward his jack. East won the queen, but dummy's eight was now high and the ace of diamonds had not yet been dislodged.

The defenders did as best they could by cashing their spade trick and shifting to diamonds. But declarer simply won the ace of diamonds and played dummy's good club, discarding his remaining diamond. Whether or not West ruffed, the high trump was all the defense could get.
