

Heavy Turnout For N.C. Voters Cited In Many Precincts

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Early reports indicated a heavy to very heavy turnout of voters today as North Carolinians took part in electing a president, a governor and a gaggle of other officials.

State Elections Director Alex Brock had predicted 58-60 per cent of the registered voters would cast ballots. The weather across the state was cool and sunny.

In many precincts voters were waiting when the polls opened. Long lines began to develop.

In High Point, the voting was reported very heavy. A newsman said it was partially due to a local referendum on the question of establishing alcoholic beverage control stores. Voters were having to wait in line about an hour.

There were reports of very heavy voting in Raleigh, Cabarrus County, Greensboro and Cumberland County.

A Cabarrus elections official said, "If the voting continues we will hit our predicted turnout of 80 per cent." This would mean 26,000 votes out of 32,960 registered voters. At one precinct 102 persons voted in 55 minutes.

A sampling of 10 of 53 precincts in Cumberland showed the voting very heavy with persons having to wait 30 to 45 minutes.

Bill Culp, Mecklenburg County elections official, said the early voting there was heavy, adding, "It looks like we'll hit the 60 to 65 per cent range." The lines were fairly long.

Kathy Chastain, executive secretary of the Forsyth County Board of Elections, said, "Indications are there's a very heavy vote based on the way the phones are ringing." A newsman said a check of precincts also indicated a very heavy turnout. Long lines were reported in Transylvania County. A moderate to good turnout was reported in the early hours.

The polls, which opened at 6:30 a.m., will close at 7:30 p.m. except in Durham County where they will stay open an hour longer.

In addition to president and governor, North Carolinians will elect a lieutenant governor, members of the Council of State, 11 congressmen, 50 state senators, 120 state representatives and a number of local officials.

Jimmy Carter was once considered a sure winner in North Carolina, but recent polls show the contest to be very close in about an hour.

The director added that the city has been asked to cover a ditch at the north end of the 18-acre tract, hopefully through the

the state. Democratic leaders intensified their get-out-the-vote effort and have predicted that a large turnout will help give the state's 13 electoral votes to the former Georgia governor.

President Ford's supporters, meanwhile, had their own get-out-the-vote drive, aiming their efforts at persons identified as likely to vote Republican.

State Elections Director Alex Brock said last week that the presidential contest is the main attraction drawing Tar Heels to the polls today. "The race appears to be razor's edge close," he said.

In numbers, Brock's prediction means that between 1.48 million and 1.52 million persons will cast ballots in the state.

Leading the long list of state candidates are Democrat Jim Hunt and Republican David Flaherty. Hunt, 39, has been the frontrunner ever since the Aug. 17 first primary when he defeated four other candidates. The 48-year-old Flaherty, on the other hand, had to go through a runoff against Coy Privette before he could begin campaigning in earnest against Hunt.

Flaherty told newsmen he expects to win the election. "I feel very confident," he said, also predicting Ford would win the state.

Winding up his campaign on what he called "a positive note," Flaherty called for the state to build a grain elevator at one of the state ports to handle grain exports. It would help farmers get more for their crops, he said.

Green Light Given On Housing Plans

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has authorized the Housing Authority here to begin preparing schematic plans for the 111 units of new housing planned off Evans Street in the Southside area.

The Authority's executive director, Joe Laney, reported Monday night that a revised site plan and budget for the housing program was submitted to HUD and approval was given for the first steps to be taken toward project execution.

Laney said that the Authority hopes to take bids on the new units early in 1977.

The director added that the city has been asked to cover a ditch at the north end of the 18-acre tract, hopefully through the use of Community Development program funds.

In other business, Laney said that after submitting the final application for the Authority's planned Section Eight housing facility for the elderly on E. Third Street to HUD, the initial cost estimates for the mid-rise apartment building appeared to be less efficient than desired.

In an effort to come up with a more economical square footage arrangement, the plans were revised to call for the shifting of the elevator facilities and mechanical room to the outside perimeter of the building rather than have them located in the structure's central core.

Laney, noting that the revisions provide for a more feasible project, cost-wise, pointed out that two stairwells and one large elevator are planned.

Each of the 50 units will have a small balcony, according to the construction plans.

Early Pitt Vote 'Heavy'

Voter turnout at several of the county's 26 precincts appeared to be running fairly heavy at 10 a.m., according to figures reported to the Pitt County Board of Elections.

With 19 of the precincts reporting this morning, some 3,776 persons had already voted by 10 a.m. out of a total registration of 31,110.

Margaret Register, executive secretary at the Elections office here, said that voting totals included: Arthur, 85 voted out of a precinct registration of 579; Belvoir, 114 out of 671; Carolina, 125 out of 524;

Chicod I, 76 out of 315; Chicod II, 114 out of 514; Chicod III, 25 out of 239; Falkland, 81 out of 517; Fountain, 123 out of 529;

Greenville I (VFW Hut), 125 out of 914; Greenville III (West Greenville Rec. Center), 129 out of 949; Greenville VI (Fifth Street Fire Station), 239 out of 1,195; Greenville VII (Elm Street Gym), 420 out of 2,265; Greenville VIII (Willis Bldg.), 503 out of 2475; Greenville IX (Gardner Fire Station), 518 out of 1,822; Grifton, 308 out of 1,504; Grimesland I, 101 out of 502; Grimesland II, 200 out of 855; Pactolus, 115 out of 778; and Winterville, 375 out of 2,024.

The total vote by 10 a.m. represented roughly 12 per cent of the total registration.

The Associated Press in Raleigh reported that Pitt voting activity was in line with the rest of the state this morning as early returns indicated a heavy statewide turnout.

Pitt County precinct holders are reminded to call The Daily Reflector tonight with voting returns as soon as final counts are made. The Daily Reflector will tabulate votes tonight and post returns on the elections board located at the rear of the building.

FREE TRIP?

A friend and I both registered at the ICS Store in Rocky Mount for a "free Trip to Florida." Both of us were sent notices saying we'd won. We each sent $18 to Resort Hotel Association of Jacksonville, Fla. Our checks, dated Dec. 24, 1975, were cashed, but neither of us have received anything. We've tried writing and calling, there's no answer either way. Mrs. L. P.

Hotline wrote to the Florida address you gave us Sept. 29 on behalf of both you and your friend. Our letter came back unopened.

We then called the Jacksonville Better Business Bureau which advised us that the firm went out of business Jan. 12, of this year. They advised that we contact the Florida Department of Legal Affairs. So we did.

We're sending the answer we received from Atty. Gen. Robert L. Shevin on to you. He says that the State of Florida is proceeding with court action against this business based on the state's allegation of non-compliance with the provisions of a consent order which resulted from a previous law suit of the state's against it. This litigation will require "some months" for resolution, the letter said. The company maintains, it went on, "that it is without funds to carry on its business and accordingly has ceased to operate."

"Because of this, the success of our pending actions, in terms of securing reimbursement for injured consumers, hinges upon the court's finding the principals of Resort Hotel Association to be individually liable."

Hotline has suggested that both of you to file your names and addresses and the amounts owed you with the Florida Attorney General in case any settlement on behalf of customers of R.H.A. is ever made.

Laserphoto Unit Added To The Daily Reflector

The Daily Reflector yesterday received a new wirephoto receiver from the Associated Press — the first phase of a three-step plan to improve the quality and speed of picture reception and transmission.

The new receiver — an AP Laserphoto unit — at present is capable of delivering a glossy 8 inch by 11-inch photo every eight minutes.

Receiving signals by way of telephone lines from various transmitter locations, a laser beam sweeps and exposes a light sensitive paper. The new machine then cuts the paper to proper size, develops the print by way of a heat process, and delivers the final photo to a tray at the top of the machine... all automatically.

The second phase of the improvement plan calls for the replacement of the newspaper's photo transmitter — which allows local news and feature photographs to be transmitted to various locations throughout the world — with a new laser-type, automatic transmitter.

The final phase of the program will include tying all Associated Press laserphoto units into a computer system which will give wirephoto receivers the capability of delivering finished 8 by 11-inch photos in two minutes.

The prime benefit of the new receiver is the improved picture quality. Photos received on the new machine can be enlarged with no loss of definition.

The machine is also designed for easy maintenance, with plug-in circuit boards easily accessible in a drawer at the front of the unit.

Number Going To Polls May Decide A Winner

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

The number of Americans who go to the polls may be the biggest single factor determining whether Gerald R. Ford or Jimmy Carter is elected president of the United States today.

Ford and Carter ended their campaigns Monday night with rallies in Michigan, barely 100 miles apart.

Then the campaign was over. The candidates could only join with millions of other Americans and vote. And wait.

The President would vote in his hometown of Grand Rapids, Mich., Carter in Plains, Ga. Sen. Robert Dole, the Republican vice presidential nominee, went home to Russell, Kan., to vote, while Sen. Walter F. Mondale, Carter's running mate, returned to Afton, Minn., to cast his ballot.

The National Weather Service forecast sunny skies, light winds and seasonable temperatures for most of the nation. There was a possibility of showers in the Great Lakes area.

Public opinion analysts predicted that barely more than half the 150 million voting age Americans would go to the polls. In 1972, the turnout was 55 per cent. Historically, a large turnout benefits the Democratic presidential candidate.

Dixville Notch, N.H., generally the nation's first community to tally its votes, gave Ford 13 and Carter 11 early today. There are 18

Republicans in the little resort town and eight Democrats.

For months the candidates traveled back and forth across the nation, east and west, north and south, speaking in airports, at downtown intersections, at suburban shopping centers, the Republican President and his Democratic challenger appealing for an electoral mandate to lead the United States into its third century.

But after all the miles and all the words, election day arrived with no clear indication which candidate would emerge as the choice of the people.

An Associated Press state-by-state survey showed the outcome was uncertain in nearly half the 50 states.

Agricultural Attache Of Israel Is Local Visitor

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

Eitan Israely, Agricultural Attache at the Embassy of Israel in Washington, D.C. for the United States and Canada said that Israel's three main problems in agriculture are irrigation, manpower and markets, during an interview prior to speaking at the Rotary Club Monday night.

"In most areas of Israel there is not more than 10 to 15 inches of rainfall and it only rains in the winter. Without better irrigation, we will not be able to develop agriculture. We are presently using potential water supply in the country. Manpower in agriculture is a problem because of the competition of industries for the labor market. Markets for the agricultural products is a problem because in the boundaries of Israel, including the occupied territory, there are only four million people and our closest market is Europe 4,000 miles away. So, we must export our products. We export about one half of a billion dollars worth of products and import about the same," Israely said.

"In many ways agriculture in Israel is similar to agriculture in California and Florida since our main products are citrus fruits, including oranges, grapefruit, valencias, and our special variety called Jappa oranges. These oranges were invented in Jaffa," Israely said.

Israely also said that the farms in the United States are generally much larger than the farms in Israel.

"There are two types of farms in Israel the Moshav and the Kibutz. The Moshav is a cooperative village where individual farms cooperate to buy supplies and machinery and market together. They also receive communal services. There are 400 Moshavs in Israel. Each farm in the Moshav is approximately 10 to 15 acres. In the Kibutz which exists only in Israel the farm operation is a collective communal village. The principal of the village is that you contribute to the village

Win Or Lose, Women Of Plains Head For Kitchen

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — It is axiomatic in the land of cotton that when anything emotional occurs, happy or sad, a wedding, a funeral, a birth or a barn burns down, the women head for the kitchen.

Today, a man from the Deep South may be elected president of the United States for the first time in more than a century, and the ladies in his home town, Plains, population 683, not including Billy Carter's last baby, have been working tremulously at their microwave ovens.

Win or lose, there will be cakes, pies and cookies, on long tables tonight outside of the old train depot, which is now Jimmy Carter's headquarters, to provide the sustenance necessary to hear the verdict of history.

"Miss Allie" Smith, a reserved, graying woman in a rust-colored pants suit, baked her buttered pound cake Monday. "I knew I'd be too nervous on election day," said the mother-in-law of the Democrat candidate.

That nervousness was by no means limited to kinfolk. Mrs. Ralph Cornwell, for example, who has been baking plum cakes for years to ecstatic reviews, baked her plum cake the day before to be certain that in the unlikely event the tension produced a failure, there would be time to make a comeback.

W.C. Lamb Jr., a one-man city hall who is city clerk, police chief and water superintendent, estimates there are about 200 eligible voters within Greater Metropolitan Plains. He further estimates that if they all turn out, the vote will be at least nine to one, or 180 to 20 for Jimmy Carter.

But what if he loses, a possibility not lost in the regional pride of Jimmy Carter's neighbors?

The Rev. Eugene Cariker of the First United Methodist Church in nearby Americus, a tall thin man, considered the question with a visible shudder and answered, only in partial jest: "If Jimmy loses, the churches will suddenly have to find a lot of counselors to make condolence calls. Either that or there will have to be a massive group therapy session. It would be a form of shock."

"The South has been looked on too long as mission territory by the rest of the country, been put down too long. We Southerners may talk and bluster and say lots of things, but in that voting booth it's going to be difficult for a Southerner to reject one of his own."

Meanwhile, downtown Plains bustled. Main Street, a single block, which before Jimmy Carter's eminence looked like a dismal scene from "The Last Picture Show," abounded in bunting, new paint and commercial commitment.

At Hugh Carter's "Antiques" shop, outfitted with a new sign, the cousin of the pride of Plains added a new element to the emotional quotient.

On one hand, he answered the question of a woman shopper fingering some cut glass, "No, ma'am, they're old but not what you'd call antique."

On the other, he told a reporter: "After today, we'll all be relieved. We'll no longer have to be tense about what we say for fear it could hurt Jimmy's election chances."

Murderer's Execution Still Scheduled Nov. 15

By MIKE WHITE
Associated Press Writer
PROVO, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, a 35-year-old convicted murderer, may go before a Utah firing squad on Nov. 15. If so, he would become the first person executed in the United States in nine years.

Gilmore, who has spent 18 of the last 21 years in jail, said after losing a bid for a new trial Monday that he would not appeal the execution order for the murder of a motel clerk last July. Utah's capital punishment law gives condemned murderers a choice of death by hanging or firing squad, and Gilmore said he would prefer to be shot.

"It's my own decision. I was not influenced by anything but the fact that I don't want to spend the rest of my life in jail," he told District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock. "You sentenced me to die. Unless it's a joke or something, I want to go ahead and do it."

Bullock told Gilmore he still could change his mind and appeal, and an attorney for Gilmore said he would prepare papers. Appeal of a death sentence is mandatory in some states, but not in Utah.

Unless he appeals, or unless the courts or the governor intervene, Gilmore would go before the firing squad on schedule, according to his attorneys and Utah County Atty. Noall T. Wooten, whose office prosecuted the case.

Judge Bullock had scheduled Monday's hearing on Gilmore's request for a new trial in the slaying of motel clerk Bennie Bushnell, 25, on July 22. Gilmore was found guilty Oct. 6 by a jury that ordered the death penalty.

Gilmore, of Springville, Utah, is scheduled for another trial beginning Monday in the July 21 shooting death of a service station attendant. Bullock said he would decide by Wednesday on a defense request for a one-week delay of the trial.

Bullock ordered Gilmore to undergo a psychiatric evaluation to be completed within five days.

No one has been executed in the United States since June 2, 1967, when Luis Monge died in a Colorado gas chamber.

The last Utah execution was in 1960, when James W. Rodgers died before a firing squad for killing a fellow miner in San Juan County.

Utah is among states to pass new laws after a 1972 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the death penalty was unconstitutional as applied in some states. The high court recently upheld some of the new state laws and rejected others. But it was not asked to rule on Utah's.

Agreement Unlikely Today On Rhodesia Government Turnover

ROON LEWALD
Associate Press Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Ivor Richard, the British chairman of the Rhodesia conference, called black and white leaders to an informal meeting today to discuss a date for the blacks to take over the Rhodesian government. No agreement appeared likely.

Black leaders were reported insisting on taking control from the white minority on Sept. 1, 1977. Prime Minister Ian Smith was said to be adamant that he would agree to nothing less than the two-year transition period proposed to him by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Asst. Secretary of State William D. Schaufele, Kissinger's representative at the conference, met with Smith Monday. Informed sources said he urged the Rhodesian to be more flexible so that the guerrilla fighting in Rhodesia would not turn into all-out war.

However, members of Smith's delegation said he would stand firm on 1978 as the target date for transfer of power to the black majority.

Smith also asserts that he will accept nothing less in the way of arrangements for a racial interim government than Kissinger's proposal for one headed by a white and with the whites retaining control of the army and police. The blacks reject that also.

Staging Plays By Williams

Two one act plays by Tennessee Williams will be produced by the department of Drama at East Carolina University this week. Hello From Bertha and The Lady from Larkspur Lotion are slated for 8:00 p.m. performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 4, 5, and 6 in The Other Theatre, located on the second floor of the Drama Building of the ECU Campus. Admission is free, and the public is invited to attend.

Meanwhile, the black leaders continued to spar among themselves on the sidelines.

Bishop Abel Muzorewa, who has been pushed into a back seat at the conference by the coalition of Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, warned in an interview that civil war could erupt once the country is under black rule.

Muzorewa said the "Patriotic Front" Nkomo and Mugabe formed in early October is "something just for Geneva." He predicted that after the conference the alliance will split up again into Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples Union (ZAPU) and Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU). Zimbabwe is the black nationalist name for Rhodesia.

"I say this is dangerous in the sense that ... to me it suggests a development of civil war after independence," said Muzorewa.

Muzorewa appealed to Nkomo and Mugabe, who reject the election proposal, and the fourth black leader at the conference, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, to unite with him on a joint political platform.

Guerrilla attacks on white settlements, farms and resorts along Rhodesia's borders with Zambia and Mozambique have increased in recent weeks. The Rhodesian army responded with a raid into Mozambique Sunday, and sources in Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, said it destroyed a guerrilla camp.

Guerrilla attacks on white settlements, farms and resorts along Rhodesia's borders with Zambia and Mozambique have escalated in recent weeks. The white minority Rhodesian government has responded with "hot pursuit" raids across the border into Mozambique.

Security sources in Salisbury reported Rhodesian troops returned today after 36 hours in Mozambique during which they killed hundreds of black guerrillas and destroyed seven of their camps.

Casualties among Rhodesian troops were not announced.

About 10,000 guerrillas are believed to be using Mozambique as a base for staging their raids.

Mozambique's black government accused Smith's white minority regime of a "major military assault on an independent sovereign state." The Zambian government newspaper accused Smith's government of trying to wreck the Geneva conference.

Expect Fast Vote Return

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — A new voting machine, the Gyrex, which combines the speed of mechanization with the simplicity of paper ballots, is being used today in the Belmont No. 1 precinct of Gaston County, and in the Brunswick, Cumberland and Richmond counties.

Belmont usually has been the last to come in. But Mrs. Jo Ann Hillings, executive secretary of the Gaston County Board of Elections, says, "This time we're hoping it will be the first."

The ballots for the Gyrex machines are printed on long, narrow cards similar to computer punch cards used on some other conventional voting machines.

Voters mark their choices on the card with a felt-tipped pen or pencil and then feed the ballot directly into the machine as if dropping it into a ballot box.

"The machine tabulates them on the spot. It also separates ballots with write-in votes for counting by hand.

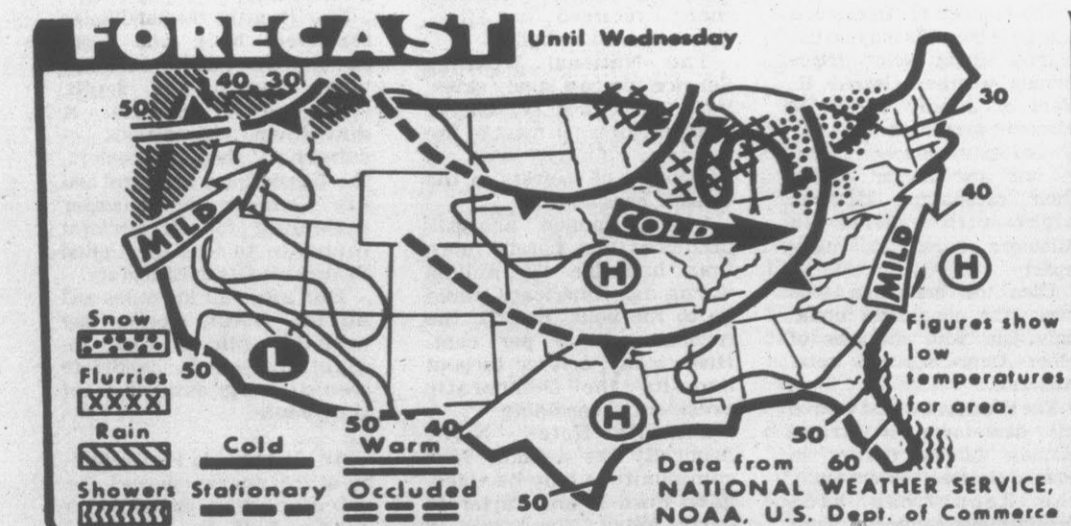

However, totals cannot be obtained until a precinct officer inserts a special key into the machine. Then the machine prints out a tape like an adding machine tape with all the totals.

The totals then are matched up to a master list of the candidates, and the winners are determined.

If the machine malfunctions, the ballots can be fed into a standby machine or even counted by hand.

Thirty-eight of North Carolina's 100 counties use some form of voting machine in all or some precincts. Most use punched cards as ballots, but there are four mechanical-lever voting machine systems in use.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild weather and fair skies are forecast today for most of the country. Snow and snow flurries are due for the Great Lakes and rain is expected for the northern Pacific coast and northern Rockies. Cold weather is expected from the northern Plains to the Great Lakes and Midwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
The weather was good in North Carolina this election day.

It was sunny, with highs mostly in the low to mid 60s.

However, in the mountains the highs were in the mid to upper 50s.

It will be partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday. The overnight lows will be in the 30s, except the 40s on the coast. The highs Wednesday will be mostly in the 60s.

A large mound of high pressure that had dominated North Carolina weather for 36 hours moved off the coast today.

A cold front from Canada will pass through the state Wednesday, but no rain is expected with it. No rain had fallen in the 24 hours ended at 2 a.m. today.

Monday was a fine, cool day, with highs mostly in the 50s. The warmest was 61 degrees at Wilmington.

Temperatures at sunrise today were in the freezing 20s in the mountains and the 30s elsewhere.

A small-craft advisory was in effect along the coastal waters and sounds this morning. But it was lowered later in the day.

Trooper Killed In Car Wreck

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Highway Patrol Trooper Lawrence Strickland Locklear, 28, died Monday evening when he lost control of his Corvette on a rural paved road near here, the patrol reported.

Locklear was off duty and had just left his mother's home here when the accident occurred, the patrol said. Locklear was assigned to Troop B in Fayetteville. The patrol said Locklear's Corvette went out of control, left the rural paved road, overturned and struck some trees.

Pupils Favored Carter And Hunt

Jimmy Carter and Jim Hunt won in a mock election held at E. B. Aycock Junior High School Tuesday morning, according to Ann Bennett, a counselor at the school.

Carter received 499 votes, Gerald Ford received 340 votes and three write-in votes were cast for Eugene McCarthy. In the gubernatorial race Jim Hunt received 574 votes and David Flaherty received 122 votes.

The election was suggested by the student peer counselors. Each of the 918 students who were present at school today were given a chance to vote in the election. "The students seemed to enjoy voting," Miss Bennett said.

COUNTY SCHOOL LUNCH MENU
Lunchroom menus at Pitt County Schools for the remainder of the week have been announced as follows:
Wednesday—(manager's choice) fried or barbecue chicken, mashed potatoes with gravy, seasoned green beans, cranberry sauce, rolls, milk;
Thursday—braised beef, rice with gravy, rolls, apple, milk;
Friday—vegetable beef soup, peanut butter and jelly sandwich, fruit crisp, milk.

Evangelist Is Leading Revival

Dr. West Shields, Jr. an evangelist from Greenville is conducting an eight night revival which began October 31 and will continue through November 7 at Pine Chapel Baptist Church in Pinetops.

Special music will be presented each night by different choirs. Services will begin each night at 7:30 p.m.

President Of Burundi Ousted

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Michel Micombero of the tiny central African republic of Burundi was overthrown by the army in a bloodless coup Monday, a broadcast from Bujumbura, the capital, announced today.

Radio Bujumbura, calling itself the Voice of Burundi Revolution, did not identify the leader of the coup. But the Belgian government radio in Brussels said he probably was Lt. Col. Bagaza, one of the top military men in the former Belgian territory.

The Belgian radio said an army communique announced there had been no casualties and the country was quiet.

Telephone communications with Bujumbura were cut and a dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed, the Belgian report said. The regular Sabena airliner to Bukumbura was not allowed to land today.

Tass, the Soviet new agency, also reported the coup and said life was gradually returning to normal.

Micombero, a member of the ruling minority Tutsi tribe, took power 10 years ago, replacing a Tutsi monarchy with a Tutsi republic. His fate was not announced by the rebel radio broadcast.

The coup leader was also believed to be a Tutsi since most of the leaders of the rival Hutu tribe were killed in an unsuccessful attempt to oust the Tutsis from power in 1972. United Nations officials reported the Tutsis massacred at least 80,000 Hutus, but other reports said between 100,000 and 150,000 were killed.

A German colony before World War I, landlocked Burundi was administered by Belgium from 1919 to 1962. Surrounded by Zaire, Rwanda, and Tanzania, it has an area of 10,747 square miles, or about half the size of Lake Michigan.

The main export products are coffee and cotton, and it is one of the most crowded and poorest countries in the world.

The suspension bridge over Colorado's Royal Gorge is the highest in the world, soaring 1,053 feet.

National Hadassah Leader Never Runs Out Of Goals

By CONNIE GRZELKA
NEW YORK (AP) — Back in 1945, Bernice Salpeter Tannenbaum and the handful of women who belonged to the new Hadassah group in New York City's Kew Gardens section canvassed the neighborhoods for new members — ringing doorbells with one hand and pushing strollers with the other.

"We only had 12 members in the chapter then," Mrs. Tannenbaum explains. "But I told the others that we could grow to hundreds. And we did. As soon as a new family moved in, we'd wait until the moving van unloaded. When it pulled out of the driveway, we stepped in.

"Soon, we had practically every Jewish woman in the neighborhood as a member," she said proudly.

Mrs. Tannenbaum, now president of the 350,000-member Hadassah, the national women's Zionist organization which claims the largest voluntary membership of women in the country, took a few moments recently from her crowded schedule to discuss her work with the group over the past 35 years. She looks ahead to the future and says "there won't be enough hours or years to do everything."

She stepped in as national president at the end of August and since then, appointments, meetings and conferences with visiting celebrities from Israel have been running back to back.

"But this is what I thrive on," Mrs. Tannenbaum says. "Work, challenge and the unraveling of problems gives me great satisfaction."

She admits to a great sense of drive, and adds, "I'm always geared to a specific goal, and for the last 30-some years, it's been Hadassah and the benefits it can bring to others."

Mrs. Tannenbaum, a native of Brooklyn and a former high school-art teacher, says, "My life went in a completely different direction when I left teaching. My commitment to Hadassah deepened immensely.

"My first major step was creating the Kew Gardens chapter in 1945. Then, each year, my role grew."

She helped organize the Long Island (N.Y.) Region of Hadassah in 1948 and became regional president in 1954. Mrs. Tannenbaum has been a member of the National Board of Hadassah since 1954 and has served as chairman of several Hadassah conventions and groups.

As president, she says she will take a strong look at the Hadassah Educational Services in Israel, which embrace a high school, community college and vocational guidance institute.

"We are now asking whether we should continue the career orientation of the high school or emphasize medical education. This must be reviewed in light of the professional needs in Israel."

Hadassah's American affairs department will be another area of special interest for her: "I hope to bring in more dialogue between the members in the field and the national leadership. This will help us in revising and expanding our activities in the United States."

Another of her priorities is setting up a "think tank" to evaluate the Hadassah youth movement to seek out and prepare new leadership for the Zionist movement in the future.

As Mrs. Tannenbaum tackles her new job, she says: "It's an overwhelming workload, but each aspect is fascinating. The Hadassah program is so broad. The work of the organization touches the lives of so many people."

Although she's been giving so much time to the organization — at the office and at home — she says, "I still have time to be a good wife, mother and grandmother."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

According to my mail, people all over the country who have never won so much as a Reader's Digest Sweepstakes or a Pillsbury Bake-off have finally hit it lucky.

They pick up their phones and a husky-voiced lady informs them they have just won a cemetery plot. Choked up at the idea of being an instant landowner, they cannot see the ramifications of the offer.

What begins as a simple family discussion over your eternal future ends up as a shout-off in the Domestic Olympics.

Here's what happened to one couple in Florida. According to Phyllis, when she told her husband Cecil they had won a plot he said, "You can have it."

"What's that supposed to mean?" she asked. "Where are you going to be buried?"

"Not where," he said smugly, "but when."

I'm not surprised," she snorted. "You never go anywhere with me. I thought at least we could be buried together . . . maybe even be cremated and have our ashes intermingled in the same urn."

"I do not plan on spending my eternity resting ash to ash with anyone. Besides, knowing your mother and her aversion to dust, we'd get thrown out the first week with the newspapers. I swear she throws out newspapers with the rubber bands still on them."

"I do not believe you are saying these things," said Phyllis, weeping softly into her handkerchief.

"Why are you so upset?" he asked.

"IT'S YOUR ATTITUDE. It's going to be just like Christmas eve, isn't it?"

He put down his paper. "You've lost me, Phyllis, WHAT is going to be like Christmas eve?"

"My funeral. You're going to whip out at the last minute and throw something together. If Revco doesn't have it, I'll go without it."

"You want me to shop?"

"There are a lot of options. There's the talking tombstone, for example, with a picture on it."

"You're putting me on, Phyllis. Say you're putting me on."

"I am not putting you on. They have them with recordings and a picture of your loved one."

"If you think I'm paying good money to stand in front of a stone and listen to a recording of you nagging, Cecil, take out the garbage before it smells, you're crazy."

SALES TREND

NEW YORK (UPI) — A mix-and-match trend for bedroom and dining room furniture has been spotted by some southern manufacturers. Home Furnishings Daily, a trade paper, says the trend is cutting into the sales of traditional suites of furniture, but that the suite still is preferred by a majority of retail customers.

"Let these words go forth around the land, Cecil Hardearth, if you put on my stone that picture of me taken last year in Florida when I was sick as a dog on that fishing boat, you'd better hope you win a cemetery plot of your own."

Sometimes, even when you win, you lose.

MISSPELLING: Liqueur, in both a New York and a California newspaper.

Liqueur should always have two "u's." Along with "sherbet" instead of "sherbet," it is one of our commonly misspelled words.

MISSPELLING: Citrous, in a leaflet published by a cake-mix manufacturer.

Citrus is spelled without the "o" — as any writer in a country that produces such an abundance of oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit and other citrus fruit should know.

MISSPELLING: Chicken Meringo, in a booklet from a wine company.

Murengo is the correct spelling. Webster says that the term probably comes "from the serving of a chicken murengo to Napoleon at Marengo (a village in northwest Italy) after his victory over the Austrians in 1800." According to Larousse Gastronomique, the great French encyclopedia, Chicken Marengo was cooked on the battlefield itself by Dunand, chef to Napoleon. After Bonaparte feasted on it, he said to Dunand: "You must feed me like this after every battle."

Dunand made the dish from what was at hand: a small hen sauteed in oil; garlic; tomatoes; a panade of bread, oil and water; brandy from Bonaparte's flask; and a garnish of fried eggs and crayfish. The dish was of Provençal origin and Dunand knew the crayfish were out of place. On a later occasion, when the chef served a more authentic version to Bonaparte, the General said angrily, "You have left out the crayfish. It will bring me bad luck. I don't want it." Larousse Gastronomique further notes: "Willy-nilly, the crayfish garnish had to be restored, and it has remained to this day the traditional garnish for the dish."

Misspelling Of Terms Keeps Cropping Up

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A number of years ago we cited some of the misspellings in old cookbooks and declared that today the compilers of such handbooks are better spellers than those of previous generations. We are still of this opinion. However, the misspelling of culinary terms keeps cropping up — in advertisements, magazines, newspapers, booklets, leaflets and menus. Here's a sampling of recent bloopers.

MISSPELLING: Russett, in an advertisement for potatoes.

Just one "t," please, in russet. The adjective denotes reddish brown, reddish gray or yellowish brown color. According to an expert in Cornell's Department of Vegetable Crops, "The types of potatoes generally found on the market in the United States include any long russet, long white, round russet, round white and round red tubers. Such classification is arbitrary, since each category includes horticultural varieties which differ greatly in culinary or processing quality, storage life and other important traits."

MISSPELLING: Cauliflowrettes, in a national woman's magazine and a New York newspaper.

Cauliflowrets is enough. Webster defines the word "floweret" as "one of the segments into which a cauliflower is divided."

MISSPELLING: Toureen, in a news letter published by a wine merchant.

Correct spelling: tureen. This deep serving piece for soup was often used in bygone days on handsomely set tables. After going out of style, tureens are back in fashion and in use. Some modern tureens are even electrified. Nowadays tureens are sometimes used for such main dishes as chili, curry or stew. Webster defines a tureen as a "vessel appropriate for soup, sauce or eggs."

A miniature tureen is fine for sauce but where did the editors of that great dictionary ever get the idea that a tureen, in any size, is suitable for eggs?

MISSPELLING: Souffle Glace Fraisse, on a Bar Mitzvah menu from a Brooklyn, N. Y., caterer.

Fraise, with one "s," is the correct way to spell the French word for strawberry. Souffle Glace Fraise is an iced strawberry souffle. Such a cold souffle may be made in a

Abby Advises Tall Girl To Forget About Herself

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. W. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I belong to a gourmet cooking club that meets once a month. We are six middle-aged married couples who enjoy learning how to prepare foods of the various foreign countries.

Recently, the conversation has turned more and more to sex, which has made my husband and me very uncomfortable. One couple keeps talking about "group sex." At first I thought they were kidding, but now I'm not so sure.

Last evening we learned how to make a typical Mexican meal, and the subject got around to "hot stuff," and they were back on sex again. Several other couples seemed interested in the group-sex idea.

Abby, we aren't prudes, but we couldn't remain in the club if they ever went for group sex.

I'm afraid if they put it to a vote, we'd be outvoted. Then what would we do?

OLD-FASHIONED COUPLE

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: Resign. Tell them their kind of smorgasbord doesn't suit your taste.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon at a beautiful, formal church wedding, but something came up yesterday that disturbs me terribly.

My future mother-in-law told me that Delia, my future sister-in-law, who is coming to town for the wedding, plans to nurse her 4-month-old baby during the wedding ceremony! The baby's feeding time is the same hour as the ceremony, which Delia doesn't want to miss, and she feels she just can't skip her baby's feeding.

I don't want any babes in arms at my wedding, Abby. They could cry and carry on and ruin the wedding. I've seen it happen. And I surely don't want anyone to nurse her baby during my ceremony!

Delia is very obese and likes to draw attention to herself. I hate to get off on the wrong foot with my fiance's family, so what should I do?

BOILING OVER

DEAR BOILING: Ask your future mother-in-law to urge Delia to either leave her baby home or stay home with it. And request that she leave your name out of it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that may not seem like much to you, but it's more than enough for me.

I am a 17-year-old girl, weigh 130 pounds and am 6 feet tall. That's my problem. I'm just too tall.

I have never had a boyfriend, and that's what I really want.

Friends, both girls and boys, say I have a pretty face and a beaming personality, and they are forever trying to fix me up with dates, but it's always just a one-night thing.

My mother says that one day the right man will come along, but I'm doubtful. Can you give me some tips on how a tall girl can get steady male companionship? I'm really desperate.

TALL AND LONELY

DEAR TALL: Lift up your chin, throw back your shoulders and think of yourself as a beautiful, long-stemmed model. Keep a smile on your beaming face, forget about yourself and concentrate on the other person.

Don't feel sorry for yourself, don't slouch, and NEVER mention your height. Show a genuine interest in fellows who are shorter than you. (Good things sometimes come in small packages.)

We Hoped For Something New

Republican governor Holshouser purchased television time to extoll the accomplishments of his administration Monday night.

Holshouser, as most Tar Heels know, is the first GOP governor of this century for our state. He exhibits a pride in his administration, although there are some observers of state government who feel that Holshouser had been somewhat ineffective as the chief executive.

Anyway the governor claimed savings of $80 million annually through governmental reorganization. He also cited expanded educational programs and improved road-building programs.

Well, of course, there was a reorganization of state government, although how much it saved the taxpayers is anybody's guess. And there was expansion of the kindergarten program, even though it could be questioned as to how much Holshouser had to do with it. Still these things happened during the Holshouser administration and it is acceptable that he should take credit for them.

What concerns us about the Holshouser administration is that this Republican governor didn't seem to grasp the message that the people delivered in electing him to the governor's office.

We believe the public wanted something new in Raleigh. They wanted a governor who took a statewide view of things. Instead they got a governor under a GOP label who continued things pretty much the same.

Our local problems with U.S. 264 indicated this. Suddenly we found work stopped on the dual laning from here to Washington, no planning at all on a corridor from Greenville to Wilson and one lane eliminated on a corridor from Wilson to Zebulon.

Then when easterners were engaged in the fight of their lives for a medical school at ECU, there was hardly a peep out of Gov. Holshouser.

Now the governor might argue that that money for roads should have spent elsewhere, or that it was wrong to build the medical school. But that is the kind of argument easterners have always gotten when anything was suggested to help bring our area up to par with the rest of the state.

We believe when the voters elected Holshouser they were looking for a man who would take a state-wide view of North Carolina's needs and provide equally for the needs of the east and west along with the Piedmont.

Holshouser apparently didn't understand his election that way and it was generally business as usual, for him. He had the chance to develop a whole new political philosophy in Raleigh; and if he had done so he could have been the most popular governor the state had ever had. It didn't work out that way, however, and all the television time in the world won't change that.

Trio's Travel Curbed

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is barring three administration officials from a congressionally approved mission to the Soviet Union and 23 other European countries to monitor human rights under the Helsinki agreement.

Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the 15-member American Helsinki commission, charged Kissinger late Monday with "obstruction" for his decision. Kissinger replied by accusing Fascell of "partisan politics."

The commission was set up by Congress last spring to check on whether the Soviets and their allies were carrying out the Helsinki agreement's provisions for free exchanges of ideas and people. The 15 members consist of six from both the House and Senate and three from the executive branch.

The Ford administration, cool to the idea of congressional oversight, had delayed three months in naming its representatives. When President Ford eventually named the three executive branch commissioners, he said they were being appointed as observers and that they might not participate in all actions by the commission.

The Ford administration also had objected that foreign governments might regard the commission as interfering in their domestic affairs.

The commissioners were scheduled to leave later this week for Brussels and after meetings there, separate into smaller groups for visits in Eastern Europe.

Commission sources said the three executive branch representatives had already made plans for stops in Eastern Europe when the State Department.

Rising Tide Of N.C. Paper

By BILL NOBLITT
(First of Two Articles)

RALEIGH — It's true. Governmental paperwork is growing every day, just as you suspected.

Last year, North Carolina's governmental paper increased seven per cent, reaching a total volume of 312,643 cubic feet.

That's enough paper, stacked a foot deep and spread end-to-end, to make an unbroken line from Raleigh to the coast.

Contrary to what a befuddled citizen slowly sinking in a sea of paper may think, however, somebody is trying to do something about that.

In a little-known state agency, in a hardly noticeable new building in Raleigh, a 26-member staff struggles with that overwhelming tide of paper.

Storage
The prime purpose of the fortress-like building is to catalog and store records; but a major part of the staff's time is spent devising better ways to keep records, file them, training state agency people, and selling the idea of reducing paperwork and filing to a minimum.

The State Records Center is in reality a massive vault. Modern and attractive on the outside, it blends inconspicuously with neighbors in the governmental complex.

There is no sign identifying the four-storied structure; and that's the way the people in charge want it. Visitors are definitely not encouraged; security is tight; smoke and fire detection devices and firefighting equipment is everywhere.

Inside, everything is pointed at protection and maximum storage space—ceilings soar 16 feet, jam-packed with towering steel shelves row-on-row, and crisscross with catwalks for access to the boxes of paper. Walls, floor, and ceiling are concrete, and the only windows are in offices on the ground floor.

"If I had my way, we wouldn't even have those windows," says Ronald E. Youngquist, assistant records administrator with the records branch of the division of archives and history of the State Department of Cultural Resources.

"This is nothing more than a vault, designed to house records in as safe and economical a way as possible."

Youngquist says the fortress-like structure and its anonymity are essential since records-storage is vulnerable to sabotage, espionage, and assault from dissidents.

Tax Forms

One complete level, for example, is taken up with storage of state income tax records dating back six years or more. The boxes are identified only by numbers. If the Department of Revenue wants a particular individual or corporate file, officials there must consult the cross-index list, find the storage number for that person, then call for the numbered report.

Record Center workers are not supposed to look at the return, and have signed a pledge never to reveal any such information.

The Record Center has a role in history, too. No state paper can be destroyed without approval of the secretary of Cultural Resources who must pass on possible future historical value. If there is any, that document goes into archives and history storage. Otherwise, truckloads of documents are sold for scrap or, if sensitive in content, pulverized to avoid disclosure (tax returns, legal documents, for example).

Microfilm copying for permanent storage in small space is another function in the center, and a project underway right now is reducing acres of architectural and engineering drawings of all public-use buildings (schools, churches, colleges, shopping centers, hospitals, etc.) to microfilm. The stacks of blueprints date back to 1909 covering all plans and drawings submitted to various state licensing agencies involved in such projects.

Youngquist figures the central storage facility saved state government over $700,000 last year by storing efficiently the records which otherwise would have taken up filing cabinets and floor space elsewhere.

Musings On Trail's End

SCRABBLE, Va. — My wife spent most of October sketching in Tuscany. She flew home from Florence a few days ago, about the same time I trudged in from the road. "Tell me about the campaign," she said. "Who's going to win?"

Well, I said, there was the great Playboy magazine flap; Jimmy Carter felt compelled to confess that he had mentally committed adultery by looking on lots of women with lust in his heart. There was the Earl Butz flap; the Secretary told a stupid racist joke to John Dean, of all people, and got himself fired.

And let's see. We've had four ungreat debates, three between Ford and Carter, one between Mondale and Dole. Ford won the first, Carter won the second, and the third put the country to sleep. In the vice-presidential exchange, Dole tried to fix the blame for 1.6 million war dead on the Democrats alone; Mondale tried to fix the blame for inflation and unemployment on the Republicans alone.

What else? Ford said that Carter said that Carter would reduce defense spending by $15 billion. Carter said, well, I may have said it but I didn't mean it. A few days later Ford said the nations of eastern Europe weren't dominated by the Soviet Union. After a while, Ford said he didn't mean that either.

My wife said something forceful in Italian. Translate, I said. Pftui, she said. How are the grandchildren? And is there anything left in the garden?

It is a good deal more pleasant, at the trail's end, to talk of grandchildren and gardening and autumn leaves than to talk of this year's campaign. For ten months the candidates of both major parties have been assailing our ear drums. Since Labor Day, the Ford and Carter camps alone have spent nearly $45 million. The newspapers have printed more campaign copy than anyone could read. The TV networks have covered the candidates tooth and jaw.

And what sticks in the mind? Lust and Butz. There is but one great issue in foreign affairs: In an increasingly hostile world, how can the United States best defend the concepts of Western civilization? There is but one great issue here at home: How can the liberties of the people be made secure?

Neither issue was truly explored. The second presidential debate turned entirely on foreign affairs. Except for Ford's tongue-tied blunder on Eastern Europe, who can remember a point that was made? Discussion of domestic questions proved as diffuse. Ford at least made his own positions clear. Carter regrettably fell into the kind of intellectual dishonesty that negates his promise never to lie to us; on matters of taxation, deficits, inflation and unemployment, Carter spun around like a windvane in a summer gale. His rhetoric embraced decency, compassion and love, but of freedom he spoke rarely if at all.

So the trail ends. A year ago, here in my small office, we began making file folders for the candidates, and these were color coded green for Republicans, red for Democrats, yellow for third parties. With the autumn leaves, they now blow away — and Bentsen and Harris, Jackson, Sanford, Shriver, Shapp... What a torrent of fallen dreams! They slip into the non-current cabinets. Baker, Conally, Rockefeller, Reagan. The memories crowd in.

One moment stands out: Reagan's farewell at Kansas City. "We lost," he said, "but the cause — the cause goes on." It is a good peg for hanging up the campaign year. For of course the cause goes on. A hundred thousand miles of travel reaffirm this correspondent's certain conviction of the strength of our country and the stability of its institutions.

It is possible, if Carter wins, that a populist President and a liberal-labor Congress could take us in four years, or eight years, down the dreary path of Great Britain. This is possible. And because the possibility has substance, I hope to see Ford

THE INSIDE REPORT

Piggy Bank Issue Impact

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — At 9 o'clock last Wednesday night, all six television channels in New York City simultaneously carried the same 30-second commercial for Sen. James Buckley — sending a message that explains why Republicans here and elsewhere are likely to avoid total humiliation today.

Buckley's new commercial shows a yellow piggy bank while a voice says: "Money. Your money. You work hard to make it. You try to save a little. But Prof. Moynihan's schemes would cost the equivalent of..." At this point a hammer smashes the piggy bank with an ear-jarring crash and the voice continues: "... More than $3,000 a year for each New York family. That's another $60 a week coming out of your paycheck. It's your money, your hopes, your dreams."

Branding Daniel Patrick Moynihan as a wild spender is credited by both sides with turning a Democratic runaway into a relatively close race for the Senate. Moreover, the piggy bank issue contributed to an even narrower lead for Jimmy Carter against President Ford in New York, although the presidential campaign is framed by less distinct arguments.

Actually, both Carter and Moynihan are expected to carry this state because of huge pluralities in New York City offsetting their upstate deficits, thanks to one overriding factor: Mr. Ford and Buckley are perceived as having been callously indifferent to the city's fiscal crisis, a perception incessantly fostered by the Democratic campaign.

Were it not for this special factor, the state might well go Republican this year. As it is, if New York is even moderately close, other states must be a tossup. Most important, the campaign here shows not only that Pat Moynihan is far from his old goal of bringing white Catholic workingmen back to the Democrats but that the economic issue has a conservative edge.

This comes over with particular clarity in New York thanks to Moynihan. Having narrowly defeated left-wing Rep. Bella Abzug in the Democratic primary with an audacious hard line on national defense and foreign policy, Moynihan assumed he could not be attacked in this area by conservative Buckley. He also assumed that this liberal state, left to choose between economic policies, would pick the New Deal over Buckleyism.

Moynihan was right in supposing the elimination of the national security issue but wrong in supposing absolute Democratic supremacy on economic questions. He also incorrectly guessed that his duel with the ferocious Mrs. Abzug would be followed by a gentlemanly discussion of issues between Connecticut patrician Buckley and Harvard don Moynihan.

Instead, Buckley proved a tougher tiger than Mrs. Abzug, using harsh television spots and rough personal campaigning as well. Telling St. John's University students in Queens that Moynihan proposes $155 billion in new federal spending, Buckley won laughter with a passable imitation of the distinctive Moynihan style.

Consequently, polls show Buckley 4 to 8 percentage points behind with Mr. Ford trailing in the state by as little as 3 points. White Catholic workers, and especially their wives, are continuing their long defection to the Republicans despite economic hard times and a charismatic Irish Catholic anti-Communist candidate from Hell's Kitchen.

Appearing last week before a Catholic audience in Brooklyn, Moynihan was booted in answering questions by endorsing Democratic national platform positions

Suggests No 'Economic Pause'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of the elections, several commentaries were circulated here that there isn't any economic pause but that the economy is in fact moving ahead at an accelerating rate.

"Chances are the 'pause' we've heard so much about never existed at all," states the Conference Board in an article published in its magazine, Across the Board. The comment, which is fairly typical of several other advisories by economists here, concludes that what is called the pause might be a consequence of reporters seeking headlines and of consulting economists seeking "tidbits."

Others claim politics are to a large degree responsible for repeated claims during the past two months that the economy has slowed perceptibly.

Many of the commentaries, mainly from the financial community, base their no-pause conclusions on statistics showing that final demand or final sales have continued to grow throughout the year.

This statistical series, which is determined by excluding inventory changes from readings of real Gross National Product, grew at 3.7 per cent in the first quarter, and by 4.2 and 4.4 per cent rates in the second and third quarters, respectively.

Followers of these final demand figures argue, therefore, that the true nature of the recovery has been distorted by the sharp accumulation of inventories early this year, and by the subsequent flattening out of that activity.

In other words, much of the boom atmosphere that prevailed in the early part of the year was caused by businessmen rebuilding their depleted stocks of goods for sale. But throughout the period, actual sales were no stronger than now.

Argus Research, which supplies much of the economic thinking for many stock brokers, contends that the final sales series is "probably the single most important piece of data that suggest an upbeat for the economy."

Loeb, Rhoades & Co., a securities firm, concurs. It contends that people have been "mesmerized by GNP figures," which are influenced greatly by inventory changes.

While not referring specifically to final sales, several large banks also are expressing confidence in the economy's future.

Bankers Trust, seventh largest commercial bank, states that "A careful reading of all the available evidence suggests that the economy currently is experiencing no more than a normal pause along a continuing upward trend."

Citibank, second largest, has been repeating its optimistic view for many weeks. Leif Olsen, senior vice president, states that the trend line continues upward.

"We believe that during the summer we were running below that trend and we'll probably see some acceleration to a level above it during the winter months," he said.

Despite their arguments, there is considerable opposition to the view of those who base their outlook almost solely on final sales. Contrary to the view of the Conference Board, many economists and even some of the candidates speak openly about a pause.

IMPROVING CHARACTERS
In trying to improve our characters we sometimes fail because we try too hard. This is a field in which we can very easily overreach ourselves and defeat the very purposes we are trying to accomplish.

The message of the Christian gospel is that we are not able by our own efforts to transform our characters. What is required of us is that we let God do this for us. Theologians express this by saying that we are saved not by our own efforts but by grace—not by what we do but by what God does for us.

There is no denying that we can make our lives better by the exercise of our own wills, but there is a decided limit to this sort of improvement. Lasting improvement in character comes about as a result of religious faith. We must use all the powers we have to the limit of our abilities, but we must remember at all times that we are using them as God's agents. This means that we must submit our wills to His in everything we do.

Expect Little Senate Change

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats have a fast start toward keeping decisive control of the House: 44 of them were virtually elected the moment the polls opened today because they have no major opposition. Only six Republicans had no major opposition. Democrats control the current Congress 2-1, with 290 seats to the Republicans' 145. The Democrats appeared certain to keep 220 of those seats in today's election and were favored to win another 60 or so. But democratic campaign officials concede that Republicans are likely to win back some of the 43 seats they lost in 1974 because of Watergate. The GOP could win up to 15, the Democrats say, if the voter turnout is low. Republicans hope for more but consider 15 their most realistic bet. Some of the most interesting races to watch tonight: —House Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt's rematch with Republican challenger Newt Gingrich, rated a toss up in Atlanta. —Ohio Democrat Thomas L. Ashley's effort to keep his seat and stay in line to become chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee. —Kansas Democrat Martha Keys' effort to win re-election against allegations that her divorce and remarriage to Indiana Democrat Andrew Jacobs raises questions about her area loyalty. She calls those allegations sexist, saying no such question is raised against Jacobs. —Democrats' efforts to unseat three veteran Michigan Republicans — Reps. Elford Cederberg, Philip Ruppe and

Gary Brown, all three are favored to win, but not as easily as they have before. Utah Democrat Allan T. Howe is expected by Democrats and Republicans to lose because of his two convictions of soliciting sex from police decoy-prostitutes. But allegations of sexual or financial misconduct do not appear to have hurt more than a dozen other House candidates. Even if the Republican Democrat lineup stays about the same, today's election will change the House's philosophical tone somewhat by installing a second huge crop of freshmen. There will be at least 53 freshmen because of a record number of retirements. Upsets of present congressmen could boost the number of freshmen close to the 92 freshmen elected in 1974. If so, close to half the 435 House members next year will have been there for two years or less. But you aren't likely to be seeing more women or black members in the House. Three of the 19 women House members have left, and only two are assured of taking their places. Two or three more have some chance of winning. All 17 black House members were favored to win re-election, but no other black House candidates were given much chance. Most of the 44 Democrats who had no major opposition are Southerners. There are 31 of them. Four of the six Republicans who had no major opposition also are Southerners.

Democrats Can Expect Retain House Control

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite prospects of a dozen or so newcomers, the party line-up in the Senate is expected to be little changed by today's elections. Democrats are confident they will maintain, and possibly even increase slightly, their majority in the 95th Congress that will convene Jan. 4. Republican campaign aides foresee no chance of capturing control of the Senate, saying they doubt if they can make a net pickup of more than two seats. Democrats now outnumber Republicans in the Senate 62-38, counting Independent Harry F. Byrd Jr., of Virginia with the Democrats and Conservative-Republican James L. Buckley of New York in the GOP column.

Byrd, who votes with the Democrats on the organization of the Senate, is expected to win re-election. But Buckley is one of the incumbents the Democrats are counting on unseating. Buckley's Democratic opponent is Daniel Patrick Moynihan, former ambassador to the United Nations. Virginia Republicans put up no candidate against Byrd, but retired Adm.

Elmo Zumwalt, former chief of naval operations, is running against him as a Democrat. Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, seeking a fourth term, is the Democratic incumbent GOP strategists say they are most confident of defeating. His Republican opponent is former Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar. Republican spokesmen also predicted their candidate in Utah, 42-year-old trial lawyer Orrin G. Hatch, would unseat Sen. Frank Moss, another Democratic veteran running for a fourth term. In addition, Republicans express confidence they will pick up the seats of Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who are retiring.

Man Guilty Of Torture

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A man who allegedly tortured a puppy with electrical shocks to break it of disobedience was convicted Monday of cruelty to animals. He was fined $250 and ordered not to own a dog for three years. Judge Joseph Dupree of state District Court also gave the man, Michael Schieb of Fayetteville, a six-month suspended sentence.

Another count of cruelty, alleging the torturing of an animal by burying it alive, was dismissed. Witnesses testified the mongrel was buried alive for a short time two weeks ago. They also testified that a few days later one end of a wire was put in its mouth and the other end was attached to an electrified fence, leaving the puppy trembling. The pup now is in the Cumberland County pound, and several persons have said they want it. Officials have not decided what to do with it.

Two Wrecks Yesterday

An estimated $1,750 property damage resulted from a series of two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police. Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a collision at the intersection of Third and Washington Streets about 10 a.m. involving three vehicles. Drivers were identified as Lonnie Walter Gay of Route 1, Griton, Ruth Irene Lambie of 82 Beverly Manor, and Faye Haddock Ormond of Route 2, Vanceboro.

Rose High Band Will Compete November 13

J. H. Rose High School Band will be competing at the Cary Band Day, Saturday, November 13 at Cary High School. Awards will be presented in each of three divisions, determined by the size of each band's school. Cary Band Day, which is held annually each November, has grown from a small, local parade, to a day-long celebration with participants and visitors from North Carolina and surrounding states. The 1.7 mile parade will begin at 10 a.m. when approximately 60 bands will alternate with floats and other attractions. At 1 p.m. the contest of bands begins at Cary Senior High School football stadium. The public is invited.

on Vietnam amnesty, abortion and busing. Moynihan privately considers busing a disaster but, seeking to heal Democratic wounds from the bitter primary, will not deviate from the platform. However, social questions are not prominent in 1976. What hurts Moynihan with the Catholic vote is Buckley's successful use of the piggy bank issue, helped by a lavish TV spending budget. Moynihan began counterattacking, telling audiences that Buckley plays on the alienated voter's fear of his government. Speaking at a Jewish temple in Lawrence, Long Island, he contended Buckley represents "the radical right" and is "fundamentally hostile" to the state's humanitarian tradition. Seeking to identify Buckley and his ideology as alien, Moynihan says in a TV commercial: "Sometimes you think he doesn't even like us." None of this will win over white Catholic workingmen, but Democrats are confident anyway. Polls show Moynihan with a 7-to-1 edge among Jews (thanks to his pro-Israel position), Carter's black vote is even better and both will capitalize in New York City on supposed Republican indifference. Nevertheless, the campaign has uncovered receptivity among blue-collar workers to conservative themes on economic besides social questions, posing profound implications for future politics in this state and the nation.

Cancer Talk Given Club

The November meeting of the St. Peter's Womens Club took place Wednesday. Dr. Emmett Walsh, Greenville physician and president of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, was guest speaker. He spoke on the different types of cancer and stressed the importance of an annual physical examination. Mrs. Jackie Berbert of the Pitt County Health Department told of their available services and Cynthia Saleeby, public education chairman for the Cancer Society, spoke on the importance of self-examination. A silver tea will be held for the women of the parish held Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at the rectory. Members will bring Christmas gifts to the December meeting for distribution at Caswell Center. Refreshments were served by Ann Butler, Fanny Flower and Mary Iaboni.

Junior Samples Has Hip Broken

CUMMING, Ga. (AP) — A boating accident will keep television's Hee Haw star, Junior Samples, from pursuing his favorite pastime of fishing until his fractured hip heals. Samples said Monday he took his new boat for a trial spin on Lake Lanier Sunday and "hit a stump or somethin'" while fishing with neighbor Pete Meadows.

The bump threw the two men out of the boat, which continued in circles. A passing boater, Ronnie Andrews, fished the two out of the water. Meadows was released from a hospital after observation. Samples had just finished taping Hee Haw for the season and had returned to his north Georgia home Friday.

Iowa Rainbow Chapters Suspended Over Action

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — The International Order of the Rainbow, a service organization for young girls, canceled the charters of all 136 Iowa chapters after one of them voted to admit a girl whose mother is black.

"It hit us like a bolt out of the blue," said Carol Holdsworth, grand deputy for Rainbow assemblies in an area of south central Iowa that includes Indianola.

She and other Rainbow officials said they learned Monday that the order had expelled Iowa's assemblies, with a membership of 5,000 girls, because the Indianola branch voted in October to admit Michelle Palmer, 12.

"The kids balloted and they wanted Michelle," said Mrs. Holdsworth. "They did the right thing."

Michelle's father, Dwaine Palmer, who is white, said he was "stunned by the whole thing. Nothing like this has happened to us before."

Helen Kline, supreme inspector of the Rainbow Order in Iowa, said the revocation was ordered by the supreme assembly of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls in accordance with a 54-year-old "unwritten law" prohibiting blacks from becoming members.

"I can't get over it — it's just tragic," said Mrs. Kline, of Malvern.

Asked whether she considered that the revocation implied a policy of racial discrimination, Mrs. Kline said, "We call it selective membership."

The Rainbow organization, which includes preteen and high school-age girls, is affiliated with the Masons and its women's auxiliary, the Order of the Eastern Star.

At the organization's headquarters in McAlester, Okla., Herbert Grout, supreme inspector of the Rainbow Girls, said he had no comment on the matter.

The head of the Iowa Masonic organization issued a statement repudiating the canceling of the charters.

"From this date on, no Rainbow assembly which is affiliated with the international supreme council will be permitted to use the facilities of any Masonic Lodge under our jurisdiction," said W. Ross McCulla, grand master of Masons in Iowa.

McCulla, of Brooklyn, said, "The Grand Lodge of Iowa has a policy of nondiscrimination by reason of race, creed, color or national origin."

Damaged And Nondescript Leaf Is Rising

FARMVILLE — More damaged and non-descript grades of tobacco are being marketed as the end of the 1976 auction season approaches on the Farmville Tobacco Market, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor.

Williams reported that smoking leaf accounted for a large volume of sales yesterday with the top price of $1.41 per pound paid for several sheets of choice leaf grades.

Stabilization receipts were the largest in several days, he added.

The market sold 786,613 pounds Monday for $913,721, an average of $116.16 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 31,707,637 pounds for $36,877,684, an average of $116.31 per hundred pounds, compared with $102.03 a year ago.

Expanded Police Power Barred

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, so goes the cry of indignant critics, is proprosecutor and antidefendant in its decisions. But the Burger court's decision Monday on the power of police should give solace to those admirers of the court's earlier criminal justice decisions under the late Chief Justice Earl Warren. The court refused to consider an appeal by California officials seeking to expand the right of police officers to make arrests at a suspect's home without warrants.

California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger had appealed a state supreme court decision overturning a marijuana possession conviction. Michael K. Ramey, the defendant, had been arrested at his Sacramento home by police who were responding to a telephone tip about a stolen gun. The police, who had no search or arrest warrant, never found the gun but arrested Ramey after they discovered marijuana in his home.

Younger had argued that courts have never specified that an arrest warrant is required to make an arrest "in the home or elsewhere." The appeal presented an attack on the Constitution's Fourth Amendment, which requires probable cause warrants for searches of a persons' home, his arrest at home, or the seizure of property there.

Record Dividend

DETROIT (AP) — A prospering General Motors Corp. has announced a record year-end common stock dividend of $3 per share.

The payout, which will total about $859 million, brings the year's total dividend to $5.55, also the largest in the firm's 68-year history.

In 1975, GM common stock dividends totaled $2.40. It was the first time since 1946 that dividends were down from the year before. The other big auto makers, also hit by sales slumps, had similar declines.

The latest GM dividend is payable Dec. 10 to about 1.25 million common stock holders.

GM common stock closed at $74.87½ on the New York Stock Exchange Monday, a new high for the year. Earlier this year it was available at $57.75.

"The dividends declared by General Motors in 1976 reflect the improved in the over-all economic situation and GM's improved earnings and capital position," said Thomas Murphy, GM's board chairman, and GM President Elliott M. Estes in a joint statement.

The dividend was announced at a meeting of the board of directors in New York.

A spokesman for Younger's office, in an interview before the court's decision Monday, conceded that the appeal's chances were slim. But he also said the Burger court's movement toward easing police restrictions imposed by the Warren court had helped California officials decide to word the appeal as they did.

The court also: —Agreed to give prosecutors some guidelines about what remarks they can and cannot make during closing arguments of trials in which the defendant faces a possible death sentence. The court will hear arguments by Willie Jasper Darden, who claims inflammatory remarks by his trial prosecutor deprived him of a fair trial on charges that he murdered a Lakeland, Fla., furniture store owner in 1973.

Safety Council Meets Thursday

The Pitt County Safety Council will meet Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Officer Douglass Allan Jackson, Crime Prevention Officer with the Greenville Police Department will be the guest speaker. He will talk about police activities, services, and how effective the program is. The public is invited.

—Agreed to hear arguments by United Airlines that it doesn't have to restore seniority privileges of stewardess Carolyn Evans, who quit her job in 1968 to be married. United later that year discontinued its policy of requiring stewardesses to be single, and Mrs. Evans was rehired, as a new employee.

Water System Under Guard

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Officials kept Philadelphia's water system under tight security today after an extortionist apparently failed to carry out a threat to dump 1,000 gallons of heating oil into the water unless he got $1 million.

Hillel Levinson, city managing director, emphasized that there was no cause for alarm. He said the worst effect of that much oil would be some cases of nausea, and that the biggest problem would be cleaning it up. "We hope it's a hoax, but it's too early to tell," Water Commissioner Carmen Guarino said shortly before a midnight deadline for the money set by the extortionist in a tape-recorded message. Early today, Guarino said no attempt to contaminate the water had been detected.

"We have people stationed at all our facilities and others riding around in their cars," Charles Vickerman, deputy water commissioner, said. "And the police have been alerted to watch for anything suspicious." A man's voice on the tape cassette, which was found in a city hall conference room about 9 a.m., had ordered the city to drop $1 million from a helicopter over a site that would be marked by flashing lights along the Delaware River.

Officials in the nation's fourth largest city said they followed the instructions but spotted no flashing lights. They refused to say whether they brought money on the flight. Levinson told a news conference that fire hydrants would be opened periodically to test for contamination. He said residents had been urged to examine their water carefully before drinking it.

Philadelphia's water system includes three main reservoirs, three treatment plants, 10 pumping stations and 3,200 miles of water lines.

Plains' Church Troubles Still Simmer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The citizens of this small southwest Georgia town went to the polls today, many probably wondering whether the controversy at the Plains Baptist Church Sunday would damage their native son's chances of becoming the first president from the South in more than a century.

That controversy, the cancellation of services after a black Albany, Ga., minister sought to become a member, continued to brew Monday. The church's minister, who said he favored integrating the church, said he would fight a move to dismiss him, while black leaders here and throughout the state and nation rallied to Jimmy Carter's — and at times, the church's — defense.

Carter, who arrived home early today capping a 22-month campaign for the presidency, spent part of Monday dealing with the incident, which followed the attempt of the Rev. Clennon King to become a church member.

Carter acknowledged that the incident could hurt him at the polls, but said he would not resign from the church to show his disapproval of the incident.

The Democratic presidential nominee promised to do what he could "to remove this last vestige of racial discrimination," and he said he believed the incident was "partially, at least, politically motivated."

That opinion was echoed by state Rep. John White, D-Albany, who said in a statement Monday that the Rev. Mr. King was motivated by James H. Gray Sr., mayor of Albany, publisher of The Albany Herald and a longtime political foe of Carter. White would not name the informant.

Gray called the statement an "outright lie."

"I think those who know Clennon King here will put it (the matter) in the proper perspective," he said.

Gray said the Rev. Mr.

King's attempt to join the church was the act of "an eccentric" who claimed his trip to Plains was "religiously motivated."

The Rev. Mr. King also disputed White's statement, saying he acted on his own after "hearing from God."

White said, "Gray is trying to divide black voters and he has missed. This is a last-minute ploy to divide blacks and it did not work."

The Board of Deacons at the church voted late Sunday to call for the dismissal of the church minister, the Rev.

Bruce Edwards — apparently because he inadvertently said Sunday that the 1965 resolution barring blacks from church membership contained the word "nigger." It actually said Negroes.

That resolution was used as justification to cancel services rather than admit the Rev. Mr. King, a write-in candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1970 who has been ejected from several African nations. Carter, some of his family members and another man opposed that resolution.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards said in an interview at his home

Monday about the move to oust him that his "plans are to carry it to the church."

But the Rev. Mr. Edwards said that his "ministry here is about to close and I'll be leaving."

The Rev. Mr. Edwards also said "there is a very real possibility" that this new racial confrontation will split the church again, as it did in 1965 when Carter voted to allow blacks to join the church.

Meanwhile, a leader of Plains' black community, Charles Hicks, said that he would "have done the same thing" if he had been in the position of the Plains' church deacons.

And another Plains black, Thomas Williams, said, "You can't go to a place of worship the way he (King) went. He didn't want to worship. All he wanted was publicity."

King's brother, C.B. King, a civil rights attorney who ran against Carter for the 1970 gubernatorial nomination, said in Atlanta that he felt a "sense of personal family tragedy in terms of the illness of my brother."

He told reporters that he "unabashedly" supported Carter, and that his brother "has been diagnosed as psychiatrically unbalanced."

The Kings are not related to the family of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Indira Is Voted Vast Authority

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The lower house of the Indian Parliament, with most opposition lawmakers boycotting, today passed a constitutional amendment giving Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government virtually unrestrained executive powers.

With only four dissenting votes, the house gave desk-pounding approval to the sweeping amendment which the government says will speed a social and economic revolution and the opposition says will institutionalize dictatorship.

The amendment, rewriting the preamble and 59 clauses of India's 25-year-old democratic charter, curtails the powers of the judiciary to enforce civil liberties and review legislation and enables the government to ban "antinational" groups and activities.

"This bill will open the floodgates to regimentation and dictatorship," charged independent P. G. Mavalankar, one of the few dissenters who chose not to boycott the current special legislative session.

"God will not forgive the sin you are about to commit," he told the ruling Congress party lawmakers and their allies in the Communist party. "Though you are in a large majority, you are not sustained by morality."

WCTU MEETING

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. H. L. Andrews. A program is planned. All members are urged to attend.

The 366-4 vote in the lower house, with the formality of upper house approval expected next week, came just three days after the government announced the postponement of national elections for at least another year.

The two developments, while not unexpected, doused any faint hope held out by the opposition that Mrs. Gandhi might soon relax her grip on India's democratic processes and restore this 29-year-old nation's traditions of individual rights and press freedom.

Betty Hamilton To Speak Next Week

In a continuing effort to educate the public about mental illness, the Pitt County Mental Health Association will sponsor a coffee hour with Betty Hamilton as guest speaker next Tuesday at 10 a.m. at St. James United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Hamilton is a Charleston, W. Va. mother and housewife who gave up her career as community relations specialist for the State Human Rights Commission to become a speaker for the National Association of Mental Health. Her willingness to discuss her bout with mental illness has developed into a full-time commitment. She has appeared on such television shows as Barbara Walter's Not For Women Only, The Mike Douglas Show, the Phil Donohue Show, and as guest on the segment of The Thin Edge series dealing with depression.

Here in Greenville next Tuesday morning she will give a

3,500 Pounds Of Clothing Collected

The Rev. F.R. Randolph, pastor of St. James United Methodist Church, reports that 3,500 pounds of clothing were collected from the St. James Church depot.

Total pickup by the Church World Service from North Carolina was 89,033 pounds. The total for the year 1976 was 165,525 pounds.

The Church World Service trucks will return to this state the week of February 21, 1977, he said.

"As minister of St. James Church, I want to thank all churches and individuals who had a part in providing this 3,500 pounds of clothing for desperate people, victims of natural disaster, or war refugees, the world over," Randolph said.

He also quoted the National Better Business Bureau, which compiles figures for the National Association of Life Underwriters as noting what happens to $100 when it is given to a benevolent cause. It costs $29 to deliver it through federal channels; $27 to deliver it through the average volunteer charity; $8 to deliver it through the United Methodist Church's usual channels; and zero dollars to send it to the United Methodist Advance Program. Anyone wishing to contribute to any of six funds under the Advance Program—may send the gift to St. James Church, he said.

Both poundage and money topped one million Monday on the Greenville Tobacco Market, according to sales supervisor J.N. Bryan.

Bryan said that sales yesterday amounted to 1,102,529 pounds and brought $1,241,049 an average of $112.59 per hundred pounds.

Offerings consisted of leaf, smoking leaf and cutters with primings, lugs and non descript tobacco showing up on the warehouse floors in large amounts.

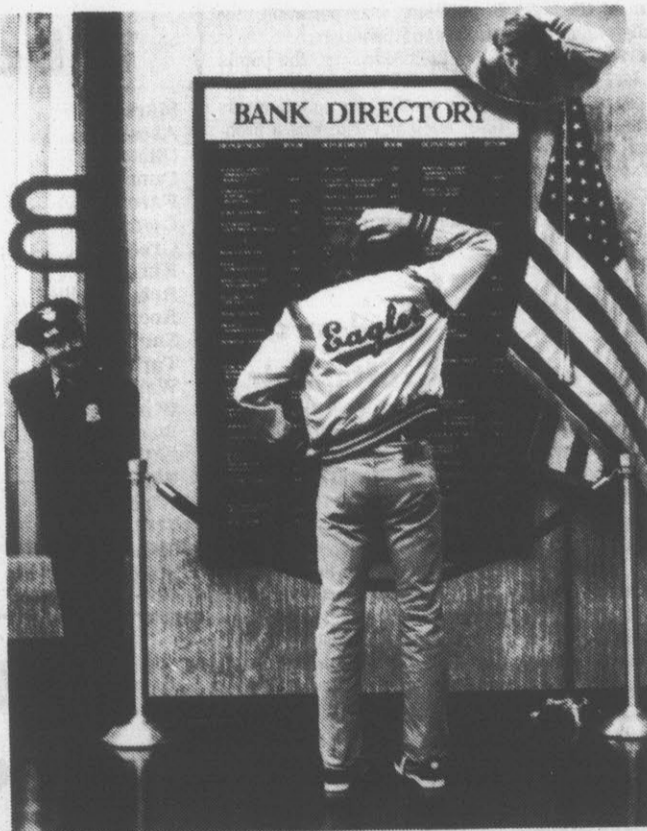

Stabilization receipts amounted to 22.04 per cent of total sales.

For the season, the market has sold 51,627,797 pounds for $59,561,203, an average of $115.37 per hundred pounds.

Health Systems Board Meeting

The Board of Directors of the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency will meet Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Restaurant in Greenville.

The business session, which will begin at 7 p.m., will be open to the public.

That first paycheck can seem pretty big, until you start paying for your own food, clothes, and housing.

The median price of a home in the U.S. today is $39,300—something to consider when you need room for kids.

Sending kids through four years of college can cost anywhere from $10,000 up, depending on where they go to school.

In a working life, you make hundreds of thousands of dollars. So you shouldn't have money worries when you retire.

Over your lifetime, you'll have a lot of money coming in.

And a lot of money going out. Sometimes, you'll have more than you need. Other times, you won't have enough.

And, in this lifelong battle of income vs. outgo, a bank can help you in a lot of ways. By looking at things more from your point of view. And less from the bank's point of view.

NCNB INTRODUCES LIFETIME "CASH-FLOW" BANKING.

"Cash-Flow" is a new way of banking designed to work for you, whatever your situation.

Whether you're a 20-year-old with your first job, or a couple planning your retirement.

It considers more than just the banking business you do; it also considers all the things that affect your financial life. So we've put together booklets covering eight different situations.

They're designed to help you with everyday finances, long-range planning and putting NCNB services to work for you.

Then, our people are trained to do more for you than open an account or make you a loan. They'll answer your questions and help you find the best way to handle things. (If they can't answer your questions, they'll find someone who can.)

Finally, our services have been designed to be flexible enough to help you make the most of the money you make.

HOW TO START GETTING THE MOST OUT OF A BANK.

One of our booklets fits your situation right now and it's yours for the asking.

So stop by any NCNB office and pick one up. Or just call our toll-free number, 800-822-8855 and we'll send you a copy.

Either way, do it soon. With all the money you earn, save, spend and borrow over a lifetime, it pays to get the most out of your bank.

And, we think you'll get more when your bank is NCNB.

Noses Knew School Stank

ROCKAWAY, Ore. (AP) — When students at Neah-Kah-Nie High school in this coastal community came home and told their parents that "school stinks," they really meant it. Principal Jess Kennison said that Halloween pranksters had turned five skunks loose in the building overnight. When officials opened the doors Monday, their noses quickly told them it would be impossible to conduct classes. Administrators chased the skunks away, sent home the students who had already shown up, and began defumigation efforts.

Lester Raps Media Role

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — Lester Maddox waited about an hour in a voting line today, then wrote in his own name for president, saying, "As far as I'm concerned, I was the only one running for the people." Maddox, the presidential nominee of the American Independent party, was on the ballot in 19 states but not in Georgia, where he has been governor and lieutenant governor.

Asked how he felt he would do in today's voting, he said, "There's no way to tell because of the news blackout." Maddox said he felt he could have won in many states except for vastly greater expenditures by supporters of Jimmy Carter and President Ford and lack of news coverage.

"I had one-third of 1 per cent of the national media coverage," he said. "I think if we had had one-fourth of the coverage, we could have beaten Ford and Carter." Maddox, who ran as a Democrat in past Georgia races, said, "I can't ever go back to the Democratic party on the national level."

He said neither the Republican nor Democratic parties is responsive to the wishes of Americans.

Asked if he would run again under the name of the American Independent party in the 1980 election, he said, "That's a long time off; I didn't even know I was going to run this time."

Maddox was nominated at the party's Chicago convention in August.

Tobacco Vote On December 16

RALEIGH (AP) — Growers of flue-cured tobacco will vote Dec. 16 on whether they want to continue the system marketing quotas for another three years, it was announced Monday.

The referendum had been scheduled for Dec. 21 but some growers said that was too close to the holiday period which might reduce participation. Gov. Jim Holshouser had asked federal officials to change the date and he was notified of the change Monday.

The referendum is held every third year and gives growers the option of continuing the quota system for another three years.

Welfare Rolls Dipped In June

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government said today that the nation's welfare rolls dipped last June to the lowest level in 18 months, due in part to the shrinking size of the American family.

The announcement by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said there were 11,247,679 persons receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children in June, the latest month for which figures are available.

That was the lowest since January 1975, when there were 11,175,000 AFDC recipients. The number of AFDC families increased during the 18 months from 3,379,559 in January 1975 to 3,554,311 last June.

Robert Fulton, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, said welfare rolls have been declining be-

Must Adapt To Religious Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that employers must change an employee's work schedule if he requests the change for religious reasons.

The court, in a 4-4 decision, said the Parker Seal Co. was guilty of religious discrimination when it fired Paul Cummins because he refused to work on Saturdays.

Cummins was a supervisor in the company's Berea, Ky., rubber seal plant.

cause of smaller families, a stronger economy, the drive to weed out ineligible recipients, and the year-old campaign to collect support payments from absent parents.

HEW said the size of the average AFDC family has decreased from 4.1 persons to 3.2 persons during the last decade. The June rolls were 62,244 recipients below the previous month. Cash payments during the month totaled $818.8 million, more than a $2 million decline from May.

HEW said that while the number of recipients last June was one-half of one per cent below a year earlier, the number of welfare families had increased 2.2 per cent.

Georgia led the 28 states registering a 12-month decline in AFDC rolls, down 88,575. Other states or jurisdictions with large decreases were Texas, down 48,383; Illinois, down 21,224; Puerto Rico, down 19,009; Maine, down 18,345; and Florida down 15,225.

The largest increase in AFDC rolls was recorded in California. Other states with higher rolls included Kentucky, Michigan, New York, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

Eighty per cent of the increase in those six states occurred in families headed by unemployed fathers, HEW said. Nonfederal welfare rolls called general assistance also hit an 18-month low of 916,866 persons in June.

Raided Nearby Guerrilla Bases

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian government forces returned from Mozambique today after a 36-hour invasion during which they killed hundreds of black Rhodesian guerrillas and destroyed seven guerrilla camps, security sources reported.

Casualties among the Rhodesian government forces were not known.

Mozambique's black government accused Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime of a "major military assault on an independent sovereign state." It said its forces were battling fiercely to expel the invaders.

The Rhodesian government said its forces were exercising the right of "hot pursuit" of guerrillas who had been attacking positions in Rhodesia.

The Zambian government newspaper accused Smith's government of trying to wreck the Geneva conference to negotiate the transfer of power from the 278,000 Rhodesian whites to the 6.4 million blacks.

It was the second major Rhodesian attack inside Mozambique this year. The first was made in August, after mortar fire from Mozambique killed four white Rhodesian soldiers. Smith's government said its raiders killed 300 guerrillas, 30 Mozambican soldiers and 10 civilians. The government of Mozambique claimed at least 618 persons were killed and said they were defenseless civilian men, women and children.

Some 10,000 black Rhodesian guerrillas are believed to be operating from bases just across the 800-mile border between Rhodesia and the former Portuguese territory on the southeast coast of Africa. The Rhodesian government announced Monday that at least 2,766 persons have been killed in nearly four years of fighting, including 1,995 guerrillas, 179 black and white Rhodesian soldiers, 539 black civilians and 53 white civilians.

Art Students To Crafts Fair

A group of art students from E. B. Aycock Junior High School will attend the Piedmont Crafts Fair in Winston-Salem November 5 and 6. They will be accompanied by their crafts teacher, Bob Kari, his student teacher, Charles Speller and Cathy Cuttino, an art education major at ECU.

The fair will host over 100 North Carolina Craftsmen who will be exhibiting their wares as well as demonstrating their skills.

Ninth graders attending the two day fair are Joan Harris, Terri Shuman, Virginia Baker, Mary Cullipher, Marshall Heath, Bill McGuirt, Skip Topping, and Jimmy Heath.

Will Register Pre-Schoolers

The Belvoir Primary School will have registration for pre-school children Wednesday, November 3 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon. Children who will be five years old on or before October 16, 1977 should register on this date.

Registration is being held earlier this year so that a state-wide pre-kindergarten team might begin screening and offer follow-up services earlier in the year.

Chief Reinstated

Greenville City Manager Jim Caldwell announced this morning that Fire Chief Ray Smith has been reinstated following a 90-day suspension.

In a brief statement, Caldwell said "Smith's suspension has been removed and he has been reinstated as fire chief." The suspension resulted from incidents surrounding a July 30 wreck near Winterville which resulted in Smith being charged with driving under the influence and failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Smith pled guilty to reckless driving charges in District Court in Ayden last week after Willie Ivey Baker of Route 1, Winterville—the driver of the second car involved in the collision—told the court that Smith offered assistance following the nighttime collision, that he "talked all right... appeared to be nervous," but otherwise, "seemed normal."

The Authority is still exploring financing possibilities, Laney said.

Commissioners adopted a resolution calling for a proposed new schedule of ceiling rents, as recommended by HUD. A new schedule was adopted here and submitted to HUD recently, but the federal agency advised the Authority to consider a schedule of ceiling rents based on unit size, rather than on a fixed schedule for all units.

Tenants will be notified of the proposed new schedule and action will be taken by commissioners at the December meeting.

Sallye Streeter, director of tenant affairs, reported that only one of the Authority's 531 units was vacant during October and that was due to a transfer.

Average rents, he said, included: N.C. 2-2-1 (Meadowbrook), $55.12; N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park), $64.51; N.C. 22-2 (Moyewood), $64.89; N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood), $63.78; and N.C. 22-6 (Newtown), $58.65. Overall rent for the month averaged $62.58.

Mrs. Streeter presented a summary of continued occupancy which indicated that 45 per cent of the units operated by the Authority are occupied by widows, the elderly or disabled persons.

FIRST DOWN GAIN—Baltimore Colts running back Lydell Mitchell (26) is pulled to the ground by Houston Oilers Ted Washington (59) after gaining

Colts Gallop Past Oilers, 38-14

By LARRY SIDONS
Associated Press Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Motivation takes many forms. For Joe Ehrmann, it was the presence of national television. For John Dutton, it was the memory of a rookie season best forgotten. And for Lydell Mitchell, it was the fact that it was "a big game."

Whatever turned them on, Ehrmann, Dutton, Mitchell and the rest of the Baltimore Colts were ready for Monday night's nationally televised game against Houston, and the Oilers could do nothing to dampen the spirit.

The Colts, playing in their first Monday night National Football League game in four years, turned Houston turnovers into early touchdowns and held the Oilers' explosive offense in check for a 38-14 victory.

The triumph was the Colts' fifth in a row and gave them a 7-1 record and a two-game lead over New England in the American Conference East. Houston now is 4-4 after losing its third consecutive game.

"We were high," said Ehrmann, who had four tackles and a quarterback sack from his right defensive tackle position. "A lot of it was team pride; not a feeling that we had been slighted by TV, but we just had the chance to say, 'Hey, here we are.'"

The Colts gave up 190 net yards to Houston, but most of them came in two late touchdown drives. At the half, the Oilers had minus-seven yards passing and just 54 yards total offense.

Dutton, the third-year defensive end who also had one of the Colts' six sacks, agreed that TV helped get the team up for Houston. But for himself, Dutton added, it was the lingering image of a 2-12 record his rookie year with Baltimore that provided the boost.

"I've been there (with a loser) and I don't ever want to go back," he said. "It's a force that keeps us all working very, very hard. It was a learning experience, I guess, but I don't want to relive it."

Both times Baltimore followed with touchdowns, the first by Roosevelt Leaks on a four-yard run and the second by Don McCauley on a one-yard plunge. Leaks and McCauley each finished with two TDs.

The lead swelled to 21-0 by halftime and grew to 31-0 by early in the fourth quarter when Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda pulled his regulars.

Houston Coach Bum Phillips also pulled one of his starters

Mitchell, whose 136 yards pushed his AFC-leading total to 796, said he wasn't thinking that much about national exposure or atoning for past shortcomings when he took the field Monday night.

"It was a big game, that's all," he said. "In a game like that, all you have to do is wire me up, let me out there and I'm ready to play."

"It used to be I wasn't sure of myself in comparison to other backs. Now, I seriously consider myself the No. 1 back in football."

The Colts' defense forced two key turnovers early, first recovering a Ronnie Coleman fumble at the Houston 13, then intercepting a halfback option pass by Coleman at the Oilers' 22.

Clinton Dickens of Snow Hill captured the first prize in this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Dickens correctly picked the winners in 25 of the 32 games listed in the contest.

Second place resulted in a tie between Elizabeth Havens of 215 Dalebrook Circle, Greenville, and Bob Woodside of 1206 Drexel Lane. Both picked the winners in 24 of the games. The tie came when both picked 72 points as the most to be scored in any one of the contest games. The actual total was 73 scored in Arizona's 38-35 win over Utah.

Five other entrants also picked 24 right, but were further off the point total.

The new contest for this week appears on the following pages.

Texas Tech Continues Climb Up AP Rankings

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Unbeaten Texas Tech continued its steady climb in The Associated Press' college football ratings today, moving up to fifth place behind holdovers Michigan, Pitt, UCLA and Southern California.

The Red Raiders of Tech were unranked in the preseason AP poll and did not crack the Top Twenty until the second week. However, in the last seven weeks they have climbed from 20th to 17th, 15th, ninth, eighth, sixth and now fifth. Tech boasts a 6-0 record following Saturday's 31-28 triumph over Texas.

The top four spots are filled by the same teams for the second week in a row. Michigan, which has been No. 1 during the entire regular campaign after standing second to Nebraska in the preseason ratings, received 57 first-place votes and 1,228 of a possible 1,240 points after raising its record to 8-0 with a 45-0 rout of Minnesota.

Pitt, a 23-13 winner over Syracuse, received the other five first-place ballots and 1,076 points. Last week, Michigan's point lead was 1,184-1,068.

UCLA downed Washington 30-21 and received 976 points while Southern Cal turned back California and totaled 758 points. Texas Tech received 703 points in rising to fifth. The Red Raiders replaced Maryland, which turned back Kentucky 24-14 but slipped from fifth to sixth with 668 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Georgia, Ohio State, Nebraska — which remained seventh, eighth and ninth — and Florida, up from 12th after a 24-19 decision over Auburn, Missouri, No. 10 a week ago, dropped to 16th following a 20-19 loss to Oklahoma State.

The Second Ten consists of Notre Dame, Arkansas, Oklahoma State, Colorado, Alabama, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas A&M, Houston and Texas.

The Top Twenty includes five teams from the Big Eight and five from the Southwest Conference.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Notre Dame, Florida, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma State, Alabama, Mississippi State, Colorado and Cincinnati.

Mississippi State dropped out of the rankings following a 34-17 loss to Alabama while Cincinnati disappeared after bowing to Georgia 31-17. Meanwhile, Texas A&M returned after a three-week absence by crushing Southern Methodist 36-0 while Houston reappeared following a one-week hiatus with a 49-21 thumping of Texas Christian.

Recreation Results

The Bills and the Steelers picked up victories in the Greenville Recreation Department's football programs yesterday.

In tackle ball, the Bills took a 24-12 victory over the Oilers. The Bills are now 2-2 and the Oilers 1-3.

Mike Edwards scored on a one-yard run in the first period for the Bills, and Mike Pollard scored twice in the second frame from them. He scored on runs of 23 and 38 yards.

Mike Edwards got the final Bills touchdown in the third period on a 17 yard run.

Both of the oiler scores came in the final period. Emmett Walsh got one on a 22 run, and Mike Thurber got the other from 42 yards out on a pass reception.

Jerry Cullipher and Mike Davis each recovered fumbles for the Bills, while John Dawson and Larry Talbert intercepted passes.

In the tag game, the Steelers beat the Redskins, 13-0. The Steelers are now 7-0, and the Redskins, 2-3.

Anthony Phillips scored on a 49-yard pass for the Steelers in the first period, with Randy Warren getting the PAT. Ramon Bynum got the other score in the fourth period with a 15-yard interception return.

Jimmy Bishop had an interception for the Redskins.

McConnell And Arnett Picked

RESTON, Va. (AP) — Appalachian State halfback Scott McConnell and VMI defensive end Greg Arnett today were named Southern Conference football's offensive and defensive players of the week, respectively.

McConnell, a 5-11, 185-pound sophomore from Bowie, Md., was chosen as the SC's offensive standout after carrying 14 times for 133 yards and scoring the go-ahead touchdown on a 29-yard run in Appalachian's 31-13 win over The Citadel.

"McConnell is a good runner, a good blocker and a good passer, and he showed it all in this game," said Appalachian State Coach Jim Brakefield.

Arnett, another sophomore, won honors as the weekend's defensive star with a tremendous showing in VMI's 13-7 victory over Virginia in the Oyster Bowl game in Norfolk.

The 6-foot, 187-pound Arnett, who hails from New Paris, Ohio, logged six individual tackles, assisted in two more, and knocked down one Cavalier pass.

But he saved his biggest play for the final period, sacking the Virginia quarterback at a time when Virginia was threatening to pull out the game.

"That sack was the biggest play of the game," said Virginia Coach Dick Bestwick.

Dunn, Bostic Top Offense

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Duke quarterback Mike Dunn and Clemson guard Joe Bostic have been chosen Atlantic Coast Conference offensive players of the week by a panel of writers from the Association of Writers.

Dunn directed the Blue Devils attack to 399 yards rushing and passed for 57 more on seven of 13 attempts as Duke overpowered Georgia Tech, 31-7.

He contributed 168 yards of the team's rushing total, highest in the league this year, on 19 carries.

Clemson's Bostic led the Tigers in their second victory of the season, a 15-12 come from behind effort against Florida State.

The Clemson offense stalled throughout much of the first half but began moving in the second half, ending with 250 yards on the ground, its second highest output of the season.

Bostic, a 6-4, 250-pound sophomore from Greensboro, was rated by his coaches as the primary blocker in the attack.

Earlier, the writers panel selected Maryland tackle Joe Campbell and North Carolina back Ronny Johnson for line-man and back of the week honors.

Campbell, a three-year letterman at Maryland, was devastating as the Terps scored a 24-14 victory over Kentucky. He had 22 tackles, half of them initial hits. He's a 6-6, 255-pound senior from Wilmington, Del.

In North Carolina's 34-14 victory over Wake Forest, Johnson snarled two interceptions and broke up two other Deacon passes.

Hayes Wins, But So Does Murphy

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Mark Hayes won the struggle for first place while Bob Murphy won an invisible battle, invisible but perhaps the most important one in pro golf.

Hayes, who has had nothing but trouble for two months, found the combination for a five-under-par 66 and his second victory of the season, a two-stroke triumph Monday in the rain-delayed final round of the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

"This year was the first time I've been exempt — and that's the most important thing on the tour," Hayes said. "I really didn't know what to expect, but I certainly didn't expect to win two tournaments and $151,000."

This was the final individual event of the season and, as such, the last in which the tourists could add to their official money-winnings. So the tournament took on a particular significance to those players fighting for a spot on the list of the top 60 money-winners.

Those who make the top 60 are exempt from qualifying — mentioned by Hayes and considered by many to be the most difficult chore on the tour — for next year's tournaments. Those who don't make it face the trauma of the Monday qualifying rounds, often with 150 players fighting for 25 spots, to even gain a position in the tournament field.

Bob Murphy, who has had hand trouble most of the season, came into the final event in 61st place — one spot away. He managed a final-round 70 and a 280 total, good for $3,250 from the total purse of $125,000 and enough to push him into the final spot on the exemption list. John Schlee, who shot 289 and won only $378, was displaced. Murphy finished 60th with $47,627 and Schlee was 61st — and therefore not exempt — with $47,376.

Hayes, a quiet, soft-spoken, self-contained young man, had won most of his money early in the season, climaxed by his first tour title in the Byron Nelson Classic. But he came into this event with a background of problems.

"I'd missed the cut in three of the last four tournaments I'd played," he said. "I was really playing very, very poorly. I was beginning to wonder what was happening. I was experimenting with my swing, with my clubs, with everything."

He came from two strokes off the pace with a gaudy 31 on his front side, broke out of a tie with George Archer with a 15-foot birdie putt on the 14th hole, moved further in front when Archer began to have his problems and finished with a 275 total, nine under par.

Lee Elder dropped a 15-footer for birdie on the final hole that closed out a 68 and took second alone at 277. The $14,250 for second place put him past the $100,000 mark for the season for the first time in his career.

Frank Beard, with a closing 70, and Tom Purtzer, with a 69, tied for third at 278. Defending champion Jerry McGee, 70, Phil Rodgers, 69, Archer, 69, and Chi Chi Rodriguez, 68, were next at 279.

U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate shot 68-281, Hubert Green had 69-281 and Lee Trevino 72-291.

The tournament schedule was pushed back one full day by a heavy rainstorm that washed out Saturday's play.

Rookie Goalie Doing The Job

By The Associated Press

How are they going to keep Mike Palmateer down on the farm after he has seen the big leagues?

"He's done a big job in the nets for us since he has joined us," Toronto Coach Red Kelly says glowingly about his rookie goaltender.

Palmateer, a minor leaguer just a week ago, is giving the Maple Leafs big-league netminding these days — and Monday night, he helped them to their third straight National Hockey League victory.

"He made the saves when we needed them tonight," acknowledged Kelly after a 6-3 victory over the Cleveland Barons.

Palmateer, who admits to nervousness that keeps him sleepless on the eve of NHL starts, turned back 21 Cleveland shots. His performance thoroughly frustrated Barons Coach Jack Evans, who is having trouble sleeping these days, too.

"It's something you can't put your finger on," said a dejected Evans. "We played terribly against the New York Rangers (at home) and badly tonight, after two good games on the road. With two bad games back-to-back in our building, I have to be concerned about that."

In other NHL games, the Montreal Canadiens stopped the Buffalo Sabres 3-2 and the New York Islanders trimmed the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Both Teams Are Going Youthful

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The two men who will be at the controls for baseball expansionists Seattle and Toronto will be pressing the same buttons.

Peter Bavasi, vice president and general manager of the Toronto Blue Jays, and Lou Gorman, director of player operations for the Seattle Mariners, both say they will be fishing for youth Friday at the American League's expansion draft.

"Fundamentally, we hope to draft young players," said Bavasi. "But some of our draft choices will be veterans who can provide stability for an otherwise young lineup."

"We're going to go after the best young talent available," said Gorman. "We'll also sprinkle in some veterans for stability. But you have to build with young talent."

This is the fifth time a league is allowing newcomers into baseball's select circle. The two expansion clubs each will draft 30 players at a cost of $175,000 a head.

The 12 established teams each will lose a total of five players. Each team can protect 15 players and all minor leaguers signed after 1975. As soon as one player is drafted from its roster, an established team can protect three others.

Washington and Los Angeles joined the American League in 1961, and the National League grew to 10 teams the following year with the New York Mets and Houston.

In 1969, Kansas City and Seattle — which moved to Milwaukee one year later — joined the AL and San Diego and Montreal entered the NL. During that expansion, Bavasi was part of the San Diego organization and Gorman was with Kansas City.

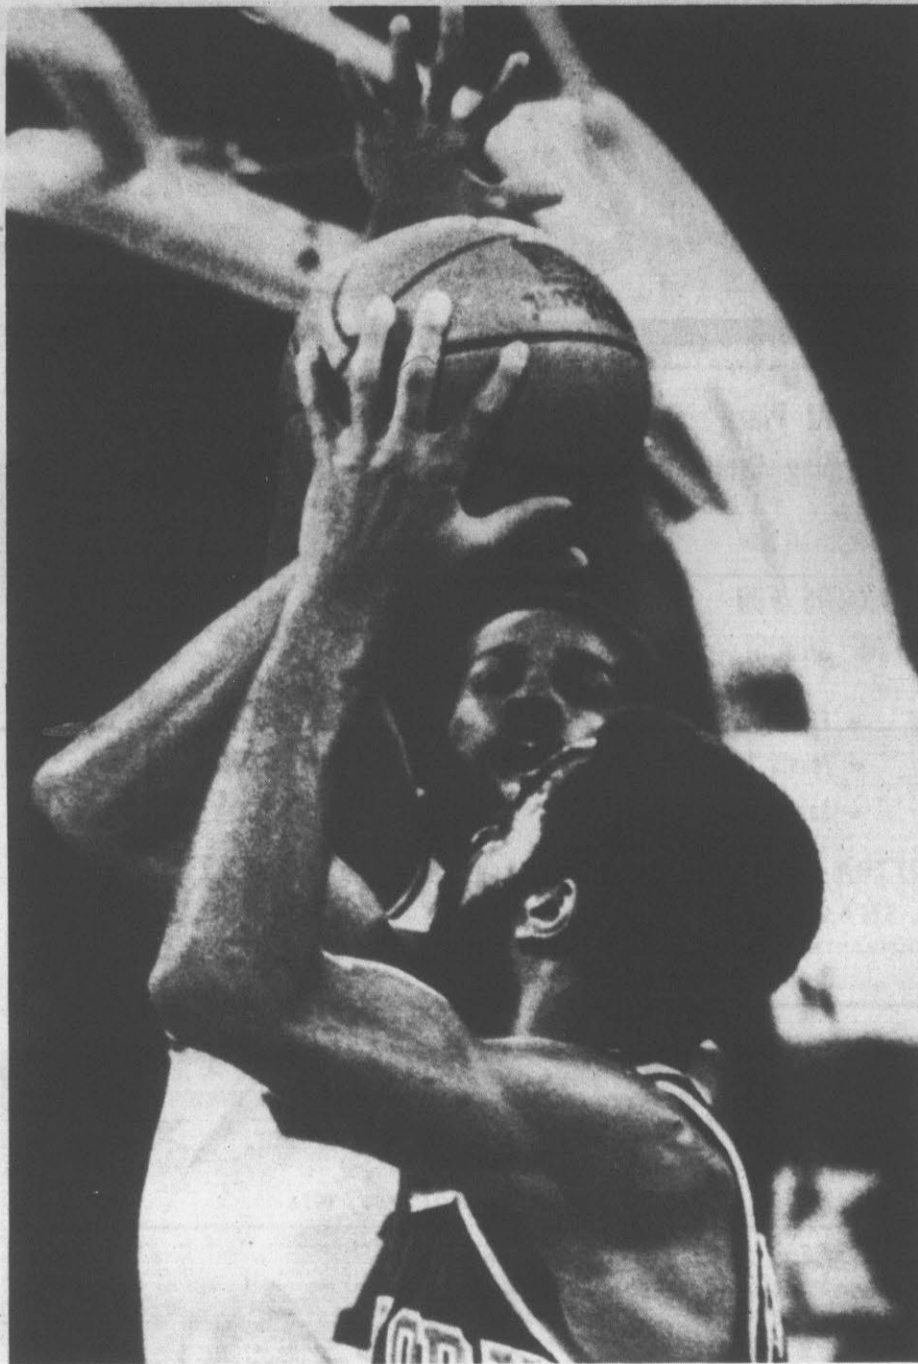

"It's been proven that the best way to build is with young players," said Gorman, who was Kansas City's director of player procurement in 1969. "The Royals are one of the most successful expansion teams ever, and they went with young players."

The Royals won the AL West Division flag this season, eight years after they came into the league. That tied them with the Mets for the fastest rise into the playoffs for any expansion club. The Mets won the NL East, the NL pennant and the World Series in 1969.

The Mets stocked their original roster with a preponderance of veterans. In that first year, the Mets lost more games than any team in history.

"You have to realize that when the Mets became winners," Gorman said, "it was with the players from their farm system — Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman, Gary Gentry and Bud Harrelson.

"It was the same way with the Royals. The club that won this year was mostly from the farm system."

Nets' Coach Booted After Temper Flares

By The Associated Press
Kevin Loughery is playing before smaller crowds, but he hasn't changed his act. He's still one of the most explosive court-side performers in basketball.

The volatile New York Nets coach continues to storm and rave while his team continues to lose. Loughery blew up and the Nets went down again Monday night — this time by an 82-75 margin to the Cleveland Cavaliers.

"The big thing is that the guys on the front line aren't hitting for us," said a disappointed Loughery, considerably calmed down in the dressing room after watching his three starters up front shoot 7-of-27 from the field. "They were open shots, too."

Loughery didn't do his team any good by allowing his formidable temper to get the better of him. He was called for two technical fouls and ultimately kicked out of the game.

Actually, one can't blame the Nets' coach for a lack of patience. He is minus superstar Julius Erving and has attempted to rebuild his game plan around a new offensive setup. Also, Erving's loss has triggered a dismayed backlash from protesting Nets' fans, who are staying away from home games in droves. The house count was 4,681 Monday night.

"We're still in the process of putting in some new offense," admitted Loughery, whose team now is 2-5 for the season.

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch, who has seen bad times himself, could sympathize with Loughery.

"The Nets are not wearing black bands on their sleeves, they're wearing their hearts on their sleeves," he said in regard to the devastating loss of Erving to the Philadelphia 76ers. "They lost a superstar. You might say they lost the battle — but in the long run, they'll win the war."

In the only other NBA game, the Kansas City Kings beat the New York Knicks 105-101.

Dick Snyder scored 15 points, including a big basket and two free throws in the last two minutes of the game, to give Cleveland its victory over the Nets. Three free throws by Tiny Archibald had given the Nets a 75-74 lead with 2:27 left when Snyder came through with a three-point play for the Cavs.

Snyder later gave Cleveland a 78-75 lead with a free throw at the 1:31 mark after a technical foul against Loughery. The Cavaliers then held on to win their sixth game, highest in the NBA.

Kings 105, Knicks 101
Guards Ron Boone and Brian Taylor combined for 40 points as Kansas City upended the Knicks. Boone, who was acquired in the American Basketball Association dispersal draft, scored 22 points while adding eight rebounds and two blocked shots. Taylor, a newcomer acquired in an off-season trade with the Nets, popped in 18 points and picked up six steals.

Tennis Club Sets Meet

The Greenville Tennis Club will hold its annual awards party on Thursday at the Pitt County Wildlife Club.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners in the club's various tournaments at this time. Special awards will also be presented.

Nancy Powell received the Ann Aycock Sportsmanship award. Gwen Waller and Tom Sayetta received the Stoughton Award for having the most challenge matches during the past year.

New officers will also be installed at the meeting. They were elected earlier at a business meeting of the club.

The new officers include Mark Smith, president; Madhu Balachandran, vice-president; Sydney Womack, secretary; Sharon Ricks, treasurer; Daylon Boseman and Butch Ricks, new members of the board of directors, one year terms; and David Daniel, junior member of the board of director, for a one year term.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite some obstacles that are in the path of your desires, you are able to enter in some new lines of activity that can be very beneficial to you in the long run. However, it is necessary that you consider well the various angles and responsibilities connected with it so you won't make mistakes later on.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think over what you really want out of life and the best means to attain it. Evening is especially fine for social pleasures, advancements.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find the right way to gain the favor of higher-ups and state your true position to them. Give more attention to a loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Enjoy persons who like and admire you. Help them gain their personal aims. You can advance appreciably via the social ladder.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle those problems connected with career and public work carefully and efficiently. Improve credit. Avoid the social tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Think over how best to put some new plan of action in operation intelligently and you gain your goals. A new contact has good ideas, but you have to ask for them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your responsibilities well and find the best means of discharging them. Spend time and energy wisely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Meet with a clever partner and get that new project working in a most intelligent and efficient way. Take time for civic work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an important job to do so plan it well before you tackle it. Listen to what co-workers have to suggest and gain their cooperation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Participate in recreational activities you enjoy during spare time. Put your special talents to work that can lead to advancement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care of family affairs that are difficult at this time. A plan you have been considering could be finalized today if you use more practical methods.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use ingenuity in handling regular duties and you get good results, particularly where selling is concerned. You are thinking cleverly and can be very convincing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Concentrate on increasing your income so that you need not feel lack and can meet costs easily. Make needed repairs to property.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful persons who can see how to better conditions. There is an excellent mind here and should be given the finest education possible, since it is also retentive.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Finds Solace In Portraits

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — After Graem Yates lost a race for Congress in 1972, he turned for solace to painting the portraits of former presidents.

Now his collection includes them all except Andrew Jackson, and he plans to carve Old Hickory in wood.

In the Yates portrait, Woodrow Wilson reminds you of Uncle Sam in the World War I recruiting poster. Wilson has a red, white and blue top hat, and a face that seems to say, "I want you."

Yates says his likeness of Franklin Roosevelt shows Roosevelt as "the cunning, manipulating person he was as president."

Yates is a marketing consultant who once sought a career as a commercial artist. He lost a Republican primary race for the 9th District congressional nomination to U.S. Rep. Jim Martin in 1972.

He said the loss compelled him to return to his art. He chose to paint the presidents, he said, because "so many of us are exposed to little men in oval frames."

"I spent as much as three weeks on one, but I did Teddy Roosevelt in a couple of hours," Yates said.

Several years ago, Yates was invited to the White House to show some of his work to then-President Nixon. He received a pair of cufflinks bearing the presidential seal from Nixon.

Television's Election Show To Cost Millions

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — They seem to be holding an election today. So tonight, starting at 7 p.m. EST, the CBS, NBC and ABC television networks commence reporting, projecting and analyzing the results.

All are concentrating on the big bout between President Ford and Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter, but also giving the poop on 14 gubernatorial contests, 31 contested Senate seats and what they call "high-interest" House races.

Only Gordon Manning, NBC's man in charge of election night coverage, is willing to hazard a guess when we'll know tonight who — by network projection — will be our next president.

He says all the indications are that it'll be very late at night before a call is made.

Which would be in sharp contrast to then-President Nixon's 1972 landslide victory over Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

Then, NBC projected Nixon as re-elected at 8:30 p.m. on election night, with CBS doing the same 22 minutes later and ABC giving Nixon the nod at 9:21 p.m.

Tonight's election show, which "Broadcasting," a leading trade journal, estimates will cost the networks a total of $9 million, has two new on-camera features.

One is Barbara Walters, ABC's new $1 million-a-year newscaster and specials reporter. She's joining Harry Reasoner and Howard K. Smith on ABC's reports — a new set also will be seen — from New York.

The second is the new 14-by-24-foot map of the United States to be seen behind NBC's election night co-anchor, John Chancellor and David Brinkley.

In 1972, NBC used a giant tote board called the "Chinese wall" to illustrate vote tallies and projections. Now, the map will show which of the nation's 48 contiguous states have gone for Ford or Carter.

If a state is lighted in red, it means NBC thinks Carter won it. Blue means a Ford victory, and white means undecided.

At CBS, durable Walter Cronkite again will be doing a solo anchor job, backed again by a four-member regional reporting team that will tell viewers how things went in the North, South, East and West.

As you might have noticed, the Ford and Carter campaign committees each bought a lot of network prime time Monday night — a half-hour per committee per network — for final vote appeals.

The total cost for that probably exceeds $600,000. NBC says the two committees paid a total of $220,000 for their NBC time, while CBS cost an hour of its prime time cost the committees $200,000 total.

ABC declines to say what the Ford and Carter camps paid for their half-hour turns on the network, but it's doubtful ABC would charge much less than its competitors.

Irony of ironies, guess what movie the scheduled Ford half-hour bumped off ABC-owned KABC-TV here? It was a Robert Redford picture about a senatorial race, a film called "The Candidate."

great players, the author picked up this uninteresting collection of tickets in the East seat and heard her opponents sail confidently into four spades. Matters looked up when West led the ace of clubs followed by the ten — a suit preference signal asking for the return of the higher-ranking side suit, hearts. East ruffed, returned a heart to the queen and ruffed partner's continuation of the two of clubs. Though this card was a request for a diamond shift, Pat returned another heart to her partner's marked ace. That was the last trick for the defense, since declarer could discard his diamond loser on the jack of hearts. Down two.

Expecting praise for her defense, the author was surprised that Silodor was upset by her performance. He said calmly: "Pat, I commanded you to return a diamond. The diamond return defeats the contract another trick." Perhaps no big deal at rubber bridge, but often crucial at duplicate.

But that is not the important point. When partner gives a suit preference signal and you choose to ignore it, either through complacency or carelessness, you had better be right. If you are wrong, you are going to have an upset partner on your hands, and the partnership morale could be in for a tough time.

As you know, many players who might not have been as kind as Sidney was.

HIKING TRAILS
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Ouachita National Forest in Arkansas and Oklahoma contains a number of short hiking trails, many of which are educational as well as recreational.

A one-mile loop at Walnut Creek, for example, interprets forest land use, passing through 55 species of plant life. At Crystal Recreation Area another one-mile trail will have markers describing a hardwood forest and a jumble of rocks through which it passes.

Other routes include a three-mile Youth Conservation Corps trail and still another one-mile loop that has markers dealing with the relationships between plant and animal life.

BUSHY CRANE — How do you trim a crane? Just ask Steve West who created this two-thirds size landscape structure out of rod iron, channel iron, plywood and 280 bushes. Standing outside the office of a heavy machinery dealer in Lakeland, Fla., the crane was created about three years ago and should finish filling out about another year. This is the only crane depicted in landscape art in the country, and might also be the largest piece of landscape art around. (AP Wirephoto)

Choosing Governors In Fourteen States Today

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Voters in 14 states are choosing governors and Democrats are almost certain to retain their present hold on executive mansions around the country by a margin of nearly 3 to 1.

In Delaware, there is a duPont running; in West Virginia, a Rockefeller is favored, and Illinois is a state in which the gubernatorial race has complicated the presidential election.

Otherwise, few of the candidates are well known nationally. In four states incumbents seem destined for re-election. In Washington and Vermont, the Democratic candidates are both women.

There are currently 36 Democratic governors, 13 Republicans and one independent. In today's elections, Republicans are favored to win Illinois, Delaware, Utah, Indiana and Missouri. Democrats are given the edge in North Carolina, West Virginia, Arkansas, North Dakota and Rhode Island.

In Illinois, Democrat Michael J. Howlett, the hand-picked candidate of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, is matched against Republican James R. Thompson, a former U.S. attorney in Chicago who successfully prosecuted several Daley aides on corruption charges.

Thompson is heavily favored. In Washington state, Democrat Dixy Lee Ray, 61, a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, won one of the year's tightest gubernatorial primaries and is now involved in a close race with GOP candidate John Spellman, the choice of popular Gov. Daniel J. Evans, who is retiring after 12 years in office.

In Vermont, Stella B. Hackel, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, is a conservative state treasurer who won an upset in the primaries, and now faces State Rep. Richard A. Snelling. The race is close, complicated by the entry of Liberty Union candidate Bernard J. Sanders.

In West Virginia, Democrat Jay D. Rockefeller is taking his second shot at the governor's mansion and this time is expected to defeat Republican Cecil H. Underwood, a former governor who has accused Rockefeller of being a free-spending outsider. Rockefeller, a member of the famous Rockefeller family, moved to the state 12 years ago as an antipoverty worker.

Republican U.S. Rep. Pierre S. duPont has sought to shed the corporate image identified with his name and is favored to defeat incumbent Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitz, whose administration has been troubled by repeated budget deficits.

Chapter Entertains On Founder's Day

The Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa International entertained the Alpha Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa at a Founder's Day Banquet October 26.

The president of the Alpha Iota chapter, Betty Speight, welcomed the guest and introduced the following: Ann Byrd, vice president of District Five; Faye Dempsey, secretary of District Five; Elizabeth Savage state chaplain; chapter officers of Alpha Nu, Ann Hardee, president; Brenda Little vice president; Lib Avery, recording secretary; Edith Barnhill corresponding secretary; and Shirley Moore, treasurer; and Alpha Iota officers, June Carson, vice president; Lib Avery, recording secretary; Dorothy Brown, corresponding secretary; and Edith Holmes, treasurer.

Following a steak dinner, a Founder's Day program was presented by Vivian Mills, Elizabeth Savage, Ms. Carson, Ann Hardee, Dorothy Johnson, Ms. Bryd, Alya Rae Taylor and Ms. Speight.

Ellen Heidenreich presented several musical selections by singing and playing guitar.

Ms. Byrd announced plans for the District Five Workshop to be held at the Greenville Moose Lodge November 13.

Hostesses for the meeting were the following: Ms. Mills, Gladys Pate, and Paulene Spain.

Police Force Now Halved

DALLAS, N.C. (AP) — Half the eight-man police force of this Gaston County town of 4,000 has quit, citing interference and low pay.

Chief Braxton Childress resigned last Friday. Detective Jerry Dover and patrolman Wayne Carpenter and Earl Arledge resigned in sympathy.

Childress said Mayor Carlton Cloninger has interfered with policemen making arrests and with other department business.

The mayor described his dispute with Childress as a personality conflict.

Cloninger said Dallas patrolmen earn about $150 a week, or $20 less than the average patrolman in the county.

The mayor said the board of aldermen can't raise salaries now because increases weren't included in the town's budget.

Childress also said the department isn't properly equipped. He said that once, when both the squad cars were being repaired, Dallas had to borrow a car from the Gaston Rural Police.

The rural police are now helping patrol Dallas while town officials try to replace the resigned policemen.

Childress, 37, served 10 years with the Gastonia Police Department before coming to the Dallas force in 1973. He has an associate degree in police science from Gaston College.

Sylva Plant To Re-Open

RALEIGH (AP) — A Sylva, N.C., paper plant that has been closed for two years will be reopened soon, state officials announced Monday.

Dixie Container Co. of Richmond, Va., has agreed to acquire the Sylva facilities of Mead Paper Co. Dixie will recycle used corrugated cartons into corrugated paper for new containers and will employ about 100 persons, said George W. Little, secretary of natural and economic resources.

The plant was closed by Mead in December 1974 when the company was unable to meet environmental standards, Little said, adding that Dixie officials have met with state environmental officers and have agreed to take the necessary action to protect the environment.

To help the company, Jackson County will seek an industrial revenue bond issue to finance sewer treatment facilities and sewer lines to the plant.

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

Taste-science breakthrough gives low tar MERIT the flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

By locating certain flavor-rich ingredients in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have disproven the theory that cigarette flavor depends on the amount of tar that goes with it.

They've discovered how to pack flavor—unprecedented flavor—into a cigarette that delivers one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor, natural flavor, and only MERIT has it.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

In taste tests involving thousands of cigarette smokers like yourself, MERIT was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than current low tar leaders.

What's really startling is that these brands have up to 60% more tar than MERIT.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking satisfaction at only 9 mg. tar.
