Unemployment Continues Inch Up

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate rose from 7.8 per cent to 7.9 per cent in October, the government reported today, providing fresh evidence that the economic slowdown is continuing.

The unemployment rate is one of the economic indicators President-elect Jimmy Carter is watching as he considers whether to propose a tax cut after taking office in January. He told a news conference Thursday night that a tax cut for average wage earners "could be a strong possibility if there is no change in the rate of growth of the economy and if economic indicators should show a negative aspect."

The October jobless figure matched the unemployment rate in August and prompted the Labor Department to describe the labor market as essentially unchanged for the past three months.

But because the labor force is constantly growing, the unemployment rate alone can mask the actual number of persons affected by the indicator.

The number of persons unemployed in October was 7.6 million, the most since 7.7 million were out of work in December.

Ford administration economists for months have described the current economic slowdown as "a summer lull." But Carter's top economic adviser, Lawrence R. Klein, has called for an additional $10 billion to $15 billion in economic stimulus through a tax cut, higher federal spending, or both.

The latest unemployment figures showed that even the individual categories which had shown some improvement in September fell back again in October.

Teenage unemployment had slipped from 19.7 per cent to 18.6 per cent in September but fose to 19 per cent last month. Black unemployment, which had slipped from 13.6 per cent to 12.7 per cent, hit 13.5 per cent in October.

The unemployment rate for adult men was up from 6.1 per cent to 6.3 per cent. The rate for adult women climbed onetenth of a per cent to 7.6 per cent.

Employment, which has been growing even as the unemployment rate rose from 7.3 per cent to 7.9 per cent this summer, has now declined for two consecutive months to 87.8 million. And that's the smallest number of people at work since 87.7 million persons held jobs in May.

Modest Setting For The Next President Of U.S.

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — There he was, the next president of the United States.

But there were none of the trappings. No trumpet flourishes, no dazzling chandeliers, no flags, no seal of office, no honor guards.

Yet, standing there before that weather-worn old depot in this little Southern town at his first post-election news conference, telecast across the land to countrymen still wondering much about the person they had chosen as their 39th chief executive, Jimmy Carter looked and talked more like a president than ever before.

He was forthcoming in his answers. He was gracious to his defeated opponent. He flashed spontaneity. He showed boldness, dignity, humor.

Maybe it was the emancipating effect of victory. Certainly the man answering questions Thursday was not the intense candidate whose steely mien, many thought, betrayed an inordinate hunger for the job.

The Jimmy Carter outside the depot was serenely confident. The president-elect doing the job. He seemed in control of himself, in control of the situation.

The hard edges of the campaigner were smooth, fuzzy edges sharpened.

He even managed to back off adroitly from one of the stands he stumbled into in the heat of electioneering, the business about keeping U.S. hands off Yugoslavia.

Somehow, he rounded his position off into acceptable perspectives without seeming, in that old haunting phrase, to have flip-flopped.

Those who knew him best said his wit was always there, just wait.

So, asked how he could unify the nation after losing practically all the Western half, Jimmy Carter smiled. Not a push-button smile. And asked, hadn't he won Hawaii, the Western-most of all?

He spoke of taxes and of foreign affairs and of his notion of what a mandate meant and he spoke with unaccustomed authority and sureness.

He was at ease.

Could the rustic setting for his first major appearance as president-to-be have had something to do with Jimmy Carter's performance?

The only other times the nation had a sustained look at Carter were in three televised presidential debates. Sterile affairs they were, held in antiseptic arenas, stage-managed to the last centimeter.

This time, by contrast, the president-elect stood not at a plastic lectern but at an antique hand-hewn pine pulpit salvaged from a long-forgotten country church in Douglasville, Ga.

His spectators were not strangers in theater seats but neighbors and some curious tourists, about 400 in all, who stood in the night air to watch from behind hemp ropes strung between green oil drums.

This time his questioners sat on folding chairs borrowed from an undertaker. And his vice president-elect and both their wives and some of their children sat off to one side in the railroad yard gravel on two dilapidated pews — a sort of, well, peanut gallery.

The TV lights glared, a melancholy hint that quiet little Plains would never be the same, not at least for the next four years.

But overhead, a full moon turned surrounding Georgia pines into spearpoints, piercing the crisp November sky. One could indeed sense much that was genuine in Plains, Ga.

What He Said

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — At a glance, here are highlights of President-elect Jimmy Carter's news conference Thursday night:

NEWS CONFERENCES

Carter said he planned to hold at least two full-scale news conferences a month during his administration.

TAX CUT

He said his economic experts think a tax cut might be necessary to stimulate the economy if it is stagnant in January, adding that "this is a strong possibility." He said a tax cut would be aimed at stimulating purchasing power.

THE ELECTION

Carter said his popular and electoral majorities were in the range of other elections and that he felt he had "a clear majority of the electorate in this country." He said that is enough of a mandate to allow him to carry out his programs.

FOREIGN POLICY

Carter administration foreign policy priorities will be to restore good relations with allies and to open up policy-making decisions to Congress and the people.

CABINET

Carter said economic and foreign policy appointments will have precedence and that he does not expect to make any decisions on Cabinet members until December. He said he would follow the same general procedure he used in picking Walter Mondale as his running mate.

OIL PRICES

Carter said any increases in prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, scheduled to meet in December, would be regrettable. But he said he could take no official action since President Ford still retains responsibility for foreign policy until January.

WHITE HOUSE STAFF

Carter said he would "never permit my White House staff to run all the departments of the government." He said White House aides would serve as staff and advisers and not administrators.

Extension Of City Bus Service Is Approved By Greenville Councilmen

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council last night approved a recommendation by the local Public Transportation Commission for extension of the Greenville Area Transit System to include Saturday service and weekday service to 7 p.m.

Jim Caldwell, City Manager, reported during the meeting that surveys indicate a demand for the extended service and such extensions would not require alterations in the bus routes. The commission made its recommendation last month.

Caldwell explained that the estimated $14,000 in additional funds to cover some 60 more hours of service per week for the remaining three quarters of the year is available through Federal Revenue Sharing allocations.

Linda Hix, chairman of the commission, indicated in a memorandum to Caldwell that the members of the transportation body gave unanimous approval to recommending Saturday service from approximately 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and extending evening service from the present 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays.

Mrs. Hix said last night that the commission has not established a criteria for success in judging the new service, but she said if the service is not used, it would be discontinued.

The new executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, Ed Walker, reported that the Retail TRADE Committee of the Chamber had studied the matter and encouraged the extension of service on Saturday.

Mrs. Hix, saying that Saturday would involve essentially shopper service, noted that two full time drivers will be hired to help handle the new schedules.

She added that Dec. 1 is the target date for initiating Saturday bus service although it is hoped that the extended weekday schedule can be instituted earlier.

The Council took "no action" on a proposed amendment to Chapter 32 of the City Code to allow residential quarters for a resident manager, supervisor, or caretaker as a special use in the Medical Arts zoning district.

The no action procedure followed a failure to gain a second on a motion to adopt the ordinance amending the special use section of the City Code.

Caldwell explained that since the matter involved a special use, individual requests would have to be made before the Board of Adjustments in the event the amendment was approved by the Council.

Council member Mildred McGrath pointed out that part of the concern over the matter is that there is no place in town that needs security measures more. A high incidence of crime exists in the medical district, especially in the area of drug thefts.

Caldwell added that the definition of residential quarters clearly allows families to be included. It was noted that the Planning and Zoning Commission, in recommending denial of the request, felt that doctors in the area should hire security guards rather than have resident personnel who would be asleep during the critical hours of security.

Councilman John Howard contended that the format of the buildings in the medical district would call for walking watchmen.

Just having someone in the area would help deter crime, it was mentioned by Mayor Percy Cox.

Several Council members expressed concern over the possibility of having more than one resident family per building living in the medical offices.

Cox said that the need for security is evident but it is apparent the ordinance needs some work.

Approval was given for the adoption of a Floodway Regulation Ordinance designed to "protect the identified floodways of the streams located in the territorial and extraterritorial planning and zoning jurisdiction of the city."

Section I of the document states, "The purpose of this ordinance is to further the public health, safety and general welfare, by regulating the type and location of uses in the identified floodways of the city and its extraterritorial planning and zoning jurisdiction."

It also noted, "This ordinance is further intended to permit in the identified floodways only that development which is appropriate in light of the probability of flood damage and which constitutes a reasonable social and economic use of land in relation to the hazards involved. To insure that this intent is met, this ordinance shall also

CHARGE DROPPED

I bought a coat from Fingerhut Corporation in St. Cloud, Minn. My check for $29.95 was dated Oct. 27. I threw the check away after income tax time this year, but I know I sent it. Now I'm getting bills for $36.65, which I don't understand unless they've added on interest charges. I keep writing them and telling them I paid when the coat was ordered, but I get no response except more notices from the collections department. Mrs. D. H.

Since we felt you'd need some proof that Fingerhut had cashed your check, we suggested the first time you came to Hotline that you ask your bank to provide you a photostatic copy of your check. NCNB did this for a 50-cent charge, a service you did not know they could render, you said.

Once this photostat was mailed to you, you came back to Hotline and we called Fingerhut's Customer Service Department for you. By then you had received another bill which did more itemizing and it looked as if you'd been billed for a second coat costing $36.65, We talked the matter over with Julie Hall, who confirmed that this is what had happened, probably as a clerical error when you were exchanging the originally ordered coat for a different size. She assured us that the second charge would be taken off your bill and that your balance is now zero.

Canvass Sees Changes For County Vote Tally

Thursday's canvass of the general election results by the Pitt County Board of Elections revealed several changes in vote totals from those published unofficially on Wednesday.

None of the changes in vote totals affected the overall outcome of any particular race other than to increase or decrease the final count.

A run down of the official totals as reported by the Board of Elections: included: (President), 66 instead of 80 for Anderson/Shackleford, 15 rather than 16 for LaRouche/Evans, 39 instead of 40 for MacBride/Bergland;

(Governor), 5,256 instead of 5,356 for Flaherty; (Lt. Governor), 4,860 rather than 4,960 for fHiatt; (Secretary of State), 15,078 for Eure instead of 15,128, and 4,280 instead of 4,380 for Spaulding:

(State Treasure), 3,996 rather than 4,096 for Coble; (State Auditor), 3,732 instead of 3,832 for Godfrey; (Attorney General), 15,542 for Edmisten instead of 15,349, and 3,849 rather than 3,949 for Powell: (Commissioner of Agriculture), 4,241 for Roberson instead of 4,341;

(Commissioner of Labor). 6,547 for Nye instead of 6,647, (State House of Representatives), 17,210 instead of 16,708 for Rountree, including 500 more votes from the Farmville precinct. (Superintendent of Public Instruction), 5,390 instead of 5,488 for Tyler; (Congress), 15,338 instead of 15,337 for Jones;

(District Court Judge), 17,141 for Aycock instead of 17,151; (County Commissioner), 17,480 for Gaskins rather than 1,748; (Judge of Court of Appeals), 16,351 instead of 16,361 for Vaughn; and (Judge of Superior Court), 16,434 instead of 16,464 for Tillery.

Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Elections Board, reported that final tabulations show that 21,590 persons voted in Pitt County on Tuesday out of a total registration of 31,110. The number voting, which includes 652 absentee votes, represents some 69.4 per cent of the total registration.

Tar Heel Purchasing Power Is Down; Poverty Ranks Increased

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Purchasing power declined last year for the average North Carolinian and, at the same time, the state's poverty population increased, University of North Carolina researchers have concluded.

Per capita income in the state in 1974-75 was up about 6.5 per cent but did not increase enough to meet the 8 per cent rise in prices, said Dr. Harry Rosenberg, senior research associate at the Carolina Population Center. Rosenburg compiled the report on income and prices in the state.

Based on the U.S. Bureau of Census' definition of poverty, the number of North Carolinians falling into that group rose 9 per cent, going from 993,000 persons to 1,082,000, the report said. It means that 20 of every 100 persons are below the poverty level in the state compared to 12 of 100 nationally, Rosenberg said. Nationally, poverty was up 1.2 per cent.

The state poverty estimate is not based on survey results but on national population and income trends, he said. The census office defines poverty as an annual income below $5,502 for a non-farm family of four.

Going along with the decline in buying power, payments of the state's unemployment benefits rose 485 per cent, which exceeded the national average of 159 per cent, Rosenberg said.

The researchers also reported a reversal in a long-standing trend toward closing the gap between the average American income and the North Carolina average.

Noting that Tar Heel wages have never been up to the national average, the report said there was improvement from 1950 when the state was 25 per cent below the average to 1972 when it was 15 per cent below. But, in 1975, the state was 16 per cent below, Rosenberg said, noting that in that year Tar Heels averaged $3,799 compared to $4,492 nationally.

In terms of state rankings, the state fell from 36th in 1974 to 38th in 1975, he said.

The study showed factors that contributed to the decline. Manufacturing salaries and wages, for example, fell by almost 3 per cent in the state while they rose 1.2 per cent nationally.

Resignation Is Asked Of Chief

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

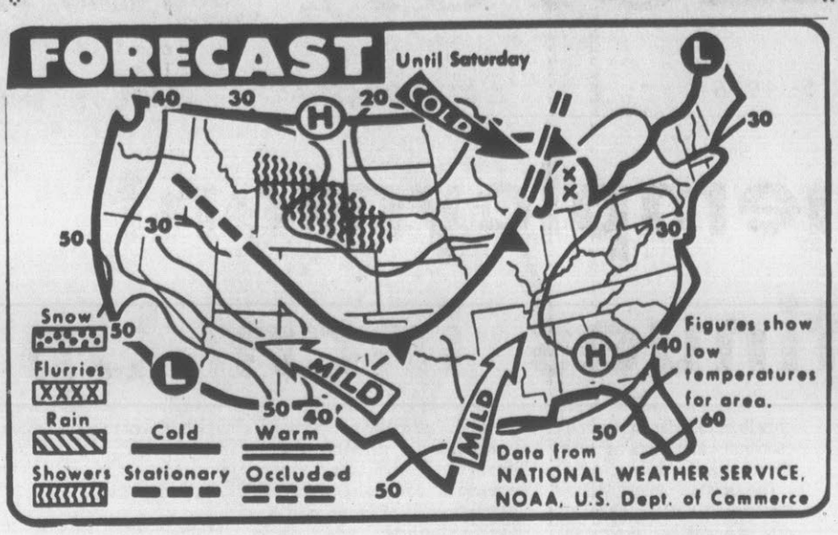

FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners Tuesday night asked for his resignation, Police Chief Marsdon Cannady reports.

He has been suspended for 10 days and has asked for a hearing he said. It is not clear at this time whether this hearing can be open to the public, he said, but, if not, he indicated he may ask for a subsequent public hearing at a later date.

Reasons cited in a police committee report of which a copy was given to Cannady, included "a degree of difficulty in the management of the department, employee dissatisfaction, a clique within the department which puts pressure on the chief and other town officials to get their way, and a communication problem with the administrative department which has been corrected to some degree." No specifics were given.

The reason given by three town commissioners interviewed this morning for not making public even the decision made in the "executive session" which followed the regular monthly Town Board meeting was "the protection of the chief."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Cooler air is forecast for the north-central area of the country today. Mild weather is due in most of the West and the western Gulf, and cool weather will continue along the Atlantic coast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

by The Associated Press

It was mostly sunny but cooler in North Carolina today.

A cold front has moved through.

Highs were mostly in the 50s, ranging from the 40s in the mountains to some low 60s on the coast.

Much colder air will be over the state tonight and Saturday. Temperatures will drop into the freezing 20s over most sections early Saturday morning, with some 30s along the coast.

Highs on Saturday will only be in the 50s, and in the 40s in some mountain areas.

That will be quite a contrast to Thursday, when highs in the 60s were common. The warmest was 72 at Wilmington. Rocky Mount and New Bern reached 70.

At 5 a.m., skies were mostly clear. Temperatures ranged from 30 degrees in the mountains to near 40 along the coast.

Winds today were generally from the northwest at 5 to 15 miles an hour.

The morning weather map showed a weak low-pressure system over Chesapeake Bay, with a cold front trailing southward along the North Carolina coast. The low was moving northeastward, and the cold front eastward. A large mound of high pressure was centered over Oklahoma, with its influence over the eastern half of the nation. Another high-pressure cell lay over the Rockies.

Dismantling Ford Committee

HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — They're selling the furniture at the President Ford Committee. Half price.

Handsome desks of chrome and walnut. Chairs with casters. Filing cabinets that once contained the plans for keeping the Ford lease on the White House.

The plans failed, of course, and the lease was not renewed. So Ford's campaign committee is shutting up shop, almost.

Until that moment early Wednesday when Mississippi and Wisconsin joined the Carter claque of states, the office was filled not just with furniture but also with optimism. The furniture remains.

In the next few days, the campaign staff of 700 paid workers and hundreds of volunteers will get a letter signed by Ford. "Although ours was not a victory in fact, it was a victory in spirit," it will say. "Together we brought to the American people a new enthusiasm and confidence which had not been seen in the past few years."

A draft copy of the letter contained a heading that it was to be used "if defeated." Presumably there was another that would have been used if only two electoral vote-heavy states had gone the other way.

Only a few days ago, Bill Russo was one of the key strategists of President Ford's election campaign. Now he's helping some of his colleagues find jobs and thinking about getting onto the golf course.

Jim Cochran is director of administration of the President Ford Committee. His immediate concern is disposing of more than $150,000 worth of office furniture.

It won't be much of a problem, he says. It's being offered first to the staff. Law firms have made inquiries. In the end, it will be available for public sale.

At the end of the campaign, the Ford committee occupied floors 2, 5, 7 and 10 of a fancy downtown building, with an equally fancy $17,000 a month rent coming out of the $21.8 million in campaign funds the government gave to both the President and Carter.

With the new campaign finance law, the election is not the end of the committee. That red tape both Ford and Carter flayed during the campaign wraps up up their election effort as well.

As a result, the Ford committee won't go out of existence until some time next year. The Federal Election Commission won't even audit the primary campaign expense sheets until January; the general election much later. A lot of bills aren't in yet.

The committee staff is busy shrinking its quarters from 25,000 feet of space to 2,000 feet.

"We foresee the accounting staff going strong until the end of March," Cochran said. By Nov. 15, however, only the legal and accounting staffs will be left.

Kindergartens To Get Added Money

RALEIGH (AP) — Approximately $1.8 million will be spent to alleviate the overcrowding in kindergarten classes in North Carolina.

The state Board of Education voted Thursday to use about $1.2 million to create new classes by hiring 103 new teachers.There will be one each in 103 of the state's 145 school systems.

Most of the remaining $600,000 will be used to hire 115 teacher aides in 111 classes that do not have assistants.

The money came from funds appropriated by the General Assembly for the expansion of the kindergarten program. The board of education still has a balance of approximately $375,000 in reserve.

The board also allowed 15 local school systems to have kindergarten classes above the 28-pupil size limit. Most of the classes will have one or two children more than allowed.

The General Assembly appropriated money for the kindergarten program on the basis of 28 pupils per class. In some counties, however, the size may vary from 15 to as many as 35 pupils.

The board gave a standing ovation to Gov.-elect Jim Hunt, who serves on the board in his role of lieutenant governor. It was his next-to last meeting. He thanked the board members "for your friendship" and said,"You're going to have an education governor."

Strike Has Tied Up Continental Trailways

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Continental Trailways bus drivers and terminal personnel in the line's southeastern section, involving five states, were on strike today after a breakdown in negotiations for a new contract.

The contract, already under extension from Oct. 9, expired at 11:59 p.m. Thursday, and the strike was on. "They're walking the streets now," said Bruce Odom, referring to pickets of the AFL-CIO Amalgamated Transit Union.

Odom, president of Local 1531, said talks with Continental management broke off about 11:45 p.m. after a nearly continuous session since morning.

Asked when talks might resume, Odom said, "I don't know. No talks are set."

Odom estimated a membership of 550 workers in the local, with about 325 drivers. Drivers on the road when the contract expired were expected to complete their scheduled runs, the union president said.

Continental Trailways' southeastern section embraces North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Tennessee. Major cities include Charlotte, Asheville, Fayetteville, Winston-Salem and Greensboro, in North Carolina.

Other cities include Greenville, Columbia, Florence and Myrtle Beach, in South Carolina; Atlanta, Augusta and Savannah, in Georgia; Lake City, in Florida; and Knoxville and Chattanooga, in Tennessee.

Odom said the talks bogged down mainly on wages and vacations, and to a lesser extent on holidays and sick leave. He declined to be specific on the wage gap, but said, "There's a lot of difference — right smart difference."

At Charlotte's Union Bus Terminal, A. B. McGaha, terminal manager, said the station was operating with supervisory personnel. Union workers left after "they completed their tour of duty," he said.

Odom said drivers now earn $18.55 for each 100 miles. He didn't know the salaries of ticket agents, porters and maintenance personnel.

There was a report that the drivers were asking a five-year contract and a wage increase of a cent a mile in each year of the contract.

Flaherty Is Job-Hunting

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican David Flaherty, who made an unsuccessful bid for the North Carolina governorship, says he doesn't plan to get into politics anymore.

"I'm going to go to work now," Flaherty said in a telephone interview Thursday "No more politics. I've had my opportunity and missed."

Flaherty, 47, received 35 per cent of the vote in losing to Democrat Jim Hunt in Tuesday's election.

Reflecting on his defeat, Flaherty said he never really had a chance to defeat Hunt. He added,"I don't think there was anything we could have done differently. We couldn't have beaten him."

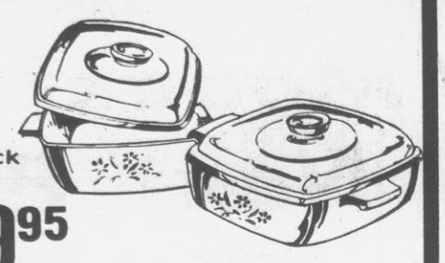

He said he felt that charges that Republicans were using "dirty tricks" in the closing days of the campaign against Jimmy Carter hurt all Republican candidates.

Flaherty took a substantial cut in pay when he left Broyhill Industries to become secretary of the state Department of Human Resources. He said he had already had two job interviews since the election.

Couple Weds Sunday Afternoon

MRS. EDGAR THEODORE BEDDINGFIELD III

CHAPEL HILL — The historic Forest Theatre here was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Rose Marie Etheridge and Edgar Theodore Beddingfield III Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Selby A. Etheridge Sr. of Wilson, and the late Mr. Etheridge, and Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Theodore Beddingfield Jr. of Statonsburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Bryant of Chapel Hill, and the bride's uncle, the Rev. C. R. Etheridge of Stella, Methodist ministers. Music was presented by members of the North Carolina Trumpet Ensemble, Douglas Myers, Edward Huffman, John Harding and John Scott. The four trumpets were sounded at the four corners of the theatre during the processional.

The couple entered the theatre together. The bride was dressed in an ivory chiffon over taffeta gown fashioned with an empire bodice, Victorian collar and traditional long sleeves. The attached cape overlay accented the front of the dress and extended into a sweep train in the back. Alencon lace motifs embellished with pearls and rhinestones bordered the collar, sleeves and waist. The skirt was a three tier Victorian style.

She wore a picture hat draped with matching chiffon and attached in the back with a chiffon rosette. The bride carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Max Michael of Chapel Hill. She wore a long rust colored dress with a full length cape and headband accented with rosettes. She carried orange and yellow mums tied with matching ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Lorraine Beddingfield of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Alice Beddingfield Moss of Flagstaff, Ariz., sister of the bridegroom, Miss Patty Greeson of Greenville, Mrs. Faye Shelton of Wilson, and Miss Judith Smitherman of Winston-Salem. They were dressed like the honor attendant.

The niece of the bride, Miss Gena Etheridge of Wilson, was the junior attendant. Honorary bridesmaids included Miss Linda Mittel of Auburn, Ala., and Mrs. Nancy Newman of St. Simon's Island, Ga.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man and ushers included Rick Wheeler and Dr. Max Michael of Chapel Hill, Randy Pittman of Raleigh, Tracy Wazrren of Greenville, Edwin Bynum of Stantonsburg, and Woody Wooten of Falkland, cousin of the bridegroom.

Serving as acolyte was Chris Proctor of Wilson. Ring bearers were Horace and Maurice Etheridge of Wilson, nephews of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Ranch House, Chapel Hill. Music for the occasion was presented by John Clark of Chapel Hill.

The banquet table was centered with autumn flowers and burning tapers in silver candelabra. Fall arrangements were used throughout the room.

After a wedding trip to Europe, the couple will reside in Chapel Hill.

The bride is a graduate of ECU, Greenville, where she received a Master's degree in psychology. She taught psychology at Lenoir Community College, Kinston, prior to moving to Chapel Hill where she is employed by Parson's Consulting Firm. The bridegroom is a graduate of UNC-CH, where he received an A.B. degree in radio and television. He is on the staff of UNC with the UNC Television Station.

Mrs. Rupert H. Parker of Wilson entertained the bridal couple Sunday morning at the Five Points Restaurant, Durham, at a wedding breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bass of Farmville acted as host and hostess for Mrs. Parker.

The bridal couple was presented a gift of silver and the bride was remembered with an orchid corsage.

Fall flowers in shades of red and yellow decorated the tables.

On Saturday the couple was honored at a cocktail party and dinner at the Carolina Inn, Chapel Hill, given by the parents of the bridegroom, and his sisters, Miss Gladys Lorraine Beddingfield and Mrs. Alice Beddingfield Moss.

Burning tapers and fall flowers were used in decorating. Champagne toasts were proposed by the bridegroom's parents and responding were the bride's mother and brother.

Following dinner, the bridal couple presented gifts to their attendants.

The bridegroom is the grandson of W. J. Moore of Greenville.

Dear Abby

Tell Her She Can't Buy Your Silence

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I work with a utility crew, and recently, after completing a job on the outskirts of a large city, the foreman took us into a nearby seedy-looking restaurant for a bite to eat.

In this place was a bar, and there seated on a bar stool was my cousin's wife with a couple of characters admiring her knees! When she recognized me, she couldn't have been more embarrassed than I was. We're all in our early 30s and see each other when the family gets together.

Anyway, that night she phoned me in a half-threatening manner and told me to keep my mouth shut. But before she rang off, her tone changed, and she said she'd consider it a favor if I didn't say anything and she would return the favor if I so wished.

What would you do, Abby, if you were a MAN?

ILLINOIS

DEAR ILLINOIS: If I were a man, I'd tell her she didn't owe me any favors, and because I was also a gentleman, she didn't have to tell me to keep my mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: Seven months ago I lost my first baby. He was only 6 weeks old. It left me heartbroken.

In the last six months, five members of my husband's family have become pregnant, and pregnancies have become the No. 1 topic at all our family gatherings.

I am very happy for those concerned, but it also makes me feel very sad and uncomfortable to sit among five expectant mothers. It brings back so many painful memories I would rather forget. I realize that these conversations weren't meant to depress me, but they do. I have tried hard to overcome my feelings of envy and resentment, but have decided that the best thing to do is just stay away from these family gatherings.

My husband thinks I'm being childish and self-pitying. What do you think? How can I solve my problem?

RAGGEDY ANN

DEAR ANN: Your feelings of envy, resentment and depression are understandable, but only by facing life's disappointments and learning to cope with them will you grow strong enough to overcome them. You may need professional help as you turn the corner. It's worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my love life. I'm only 16, but I know a lot for my age.

My boyfriend heard a lot of dirty rumors about me at the pool hall and he believes them. Those rumors are not true, but he wouldn't even let me explain.

How can I get him back?

HURT HEART

DEAR HURT: If he believes those dirty rumors, you probably can't.

A little unasked-for-advice, honey: A boy who would write you off without giving you a chance to explain isn't worth the heartache. Forget him.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Not Very Many Historical Items

Historical items seem to be severely lacking in Greenville considering our city's history stretches back 200 years, and the county's even further.

There are few old houses or buildings left here, and, indeed, the oldest part of the city along the river bank became so decayed that it was necessary to completely clear it.

Out of that, though, came a restoration of the Town Common, an area along the river front which had once been set aside for public use in the original layout of the town.

Nobody claims that the park-like area which is now designated as the Town Common bears any resemblance to the original one. It is certain that it does not. The original Town Common was probably a grazing area for livestock in the flood plain. The new one is a carefully planned park, landscaped, with paved walks and an esplanade along the river front.

Some history was added to the Town Common last week when the restored Brickell Cannon was erected there. The weapon is an 18th century 12 pounder naval weapon and it was dedicated in ceremonies last Friday.

Michael Peters, Jaycee president presented the cannon to citizens of Greenville and Pitt County. The project was carried out jointly by the Jaycees, the Pitt Historical Society with assistance from the city. The cannon was accepted by Greenville Mayor Percy Cox and Pitt Commissioners chairman Burney Tucker.

Dr. Joseph L. Congleton said, "It is fitting that we place this old cannon by the Tar River; it is fitting too that it is pointed toward the east to downstream. So much of our strength and so many of our troubles have come from downstream."

The restoration of the cannon on the Town Common is a nice addition to what little bit of history we have been able to preserve in Greenville and Pitt County. We are glad these organizations have taken the time to carry this project out.

The cannon restoration should remind us that perhaps there is more of our history which needs to be preserved. We have seen old buildings torn down in Greenville, rural homes which date back to the 1700s in the county destroyed by fire and Civil War trenches dug up, so that now there is little left. Hopefully some organization will take on the job of inventorying what we have of historical value. Then perhaps we can make the effort to preserve some of it.

Cooperation Deserves A Commendation

We wouldn't want this Halloween week to go by without paying tribute to everyone who helped make it a calm one for Greenville.

City officials, the ECU Student Government Association and the Greenville Nightclub Association all cooperated to avoid the problems of recent Halloweens. Every citizen and every student deserves commendation for making this year's Halloween and Homecoming observance here a safe one.

OKAY, CLEAN UP AND GET BACK TO WORK!

Listen To Each Other

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Most married couples don't listen to each other, and many get into fights as a result, says a professor who helps couples learn to communicate better.

"The one thing that's real important is accuracy," said Jeff Edelson, a University of Wisconsin social scientist.

"Very often one person will say something to the other when the other is busy, they'll both assume something on that basis, and as a result nobody did the shopping when each of them thought the other would do it," he said.

Edelson, who oversees "couple communication" classes aimed at easing marital strife, said husbands and wives often misunderstand each other by trying to work out major decisions in piecemeal conversations.

"You should not try to decide whether to buy a new car or something like that by talking about it a little bit, now and then," he said. "You should set aside a time to talk about it, like after dinner, to spend as much time as you need going over all the details involved in the decision."

Edelson recommends basic steps toward better communication, such as calling your spouse's name before you begin talking, and making sure you and your spouse are looking at each other during conversations.

"Make sure everything you said was accurate and it was understood," he said. "If you both know why you're doing it, then it's okay to ask if they understood what you were saying."

Just as the speaker has to concentrate on saying exactly

Major Changes For South

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The South is going to change dramatically in coming years—away from low-skill, low-pay businesses. And any effort to stop that is futile, says Luther H. Hodges, Jr.

"Changing economic circumstances already are in process, and it is pointless to fight a rear-guard action merely to preserve what is, at best, only a transitional phase in the South's development," Hodges told a conference of the Southern Industrial Development Council in Nashville, Tenn., recently.

Specifically, Hodges sounded a warning, to "our labor-intensive industries, like textiles and apparel. . ." They must either modernize, take advantage of new technology, or "they will be forced to look for still cheaper pools of labor—probably outside the South—or raise prices at the obvious risk of being priced out of the market by foreign imports."

Outlived

The labor-intensive, low-pay mills served a purpose, Hodges explained: they provided jobs at entry level during the big migration from farm to town. But, he added, "We simply must recognize that the South has outlived the days in which it could recruit cheap, unskilled labor from the farms,"

In sum, Hodges said, the supply of cheap, rural labor is shrinking; there is competition for workers, and competition means gradual raising of wages. . ." meaning that Southern workers are beginning to have alternatives to low paying jobs."

The son of a former governor (Luther Hodges led the way in industrial development for North Carolina, served in the Kennedy administration as Secretary of Commerce), currently chairman of the board of North Carolina National Bank in Charlotte, and himself considered a prime candidate for political leadership in the future, Hodges talked to the industry council on "The March Toward A Truly New South."

He sees the end of an era of transition from agriculture to manufacturing; the development of our own markets, urban centers, and financial resources; a move toward more service jobs, and higher paying, sophisticated industrial growth. "The Southern economy now has reached take-off, the point at which self-generating, post-industrial growth can occur. . .future growth will come in sophisticated, capital-intensive industries and in the service sector."

Must Sell

It will not be enough to just wait on such industries to express interest. "More time and money should be spent in the active recruitment of these kinds of business. . .(and) we can and must be selective about what we want. . . .research and development organizations, laboratories, national and regional headquarters operations and advanced industrial operations.

The low-pay mills such as textiles and apparel operations have a place, he said. They can help improve income in the poorest counties of the South; they can provide entry-level jobs for the unskilled. Government should help the labor-intensive factories locate where needed.

But, he said, "Labor-intensive activities. . . can no longer be counted upon to generate and sustain adequate economic growth. . .Any attempt at fighting a rear-guard action to thwart the future will be fighting history itself. . .we could delay the full blooming of the new, post-industrial South," but no society has ever waged a successful war against fundamental economic change such as this.

Besides, Hodges added, the fundamental changes are essential to meeting the demands ahead for higher per capita income and more jobs as the South grows at an unprecedented rate. Studies have predicted a need for five million new jobs by the end of this decade. Projections vary on the shortfall, but most experts agree that by 1980 there will be a job shortage in the South.

"Job shortages. . .would mean the rapid out-migration of talented young Southerners as well as a mounting unemployment rate," Hodges said. To avert that, an aggressive development program for new business and industry is essential, he added.

HE WILL BE PRESIDENT

The Mandate For Carter

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — It only takes a word to describe Jimmy Carter's mandate for the presidency:

Enough.

He is the president-elect; he will be the president; and if margin of victory is much noted now, it will not be long remembered.

When he swears the oath of office on Jan. 20, not many people will remember — or care — how many votes put him there.

When he goes to the Democratic Congress with his agenda for change, it will be as president, testing his strength in office, and the margin that put him there will be of little consequence.

Carter's goals will be gained or lost, his presidency will succeed or fail, on the basis of what happens in the future, not because of his narrow margin over President Ford.

"Although I would have preferred a unanimous vote on Tuesday, I think that the mandate was broad-based and certainly adequate," Carter said Thursday night.

Carter won with 297 electoral votes, 27 more than the minimum needed to win. He gained 51 per cent of the popular vote, to Ford's 48 per cent.

His electoral college count was the lowest of any winner in 60 years, even through the electoral college has enlarged in that time.

But three of the last five presidents won with less than half the popular vote, and Gerald Ford came to the White House with no votes at all.

Harry S. Truman was elected in 1948 with 49.6 per cent of the popular vote and 303 electoral votes. John F. Kennedy won in 1960 with 49.7 per cent and 303 electoral votes. Richard M. Nixon was elected in 1968 with 43.4 per cent and 301 electoral votes.

Their reputations and their roles in history, good and ill, are based on what they did in the White House, not on the size of the margins that put them there.

Carter said he thinks that with the Democratic Congress, his administration can and will achieve tax and welfare reform, the reorganization of the federal government, and the other programs he has pledged.

"I don't underestimate the difficulty," he said.

Carter may not go at top speed into a drive for all the domestic programs he and the Democratic platform have promised.

But it won't be due to the election returns.

As a campaigner, he periodically sounded a cautionary note, saying it might be necessary to proceed slowly, that

A Big Stumbling Block

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of Jimmy Carter's biggest stumbling blocks in shaping economic policy next year is likely to be the Federal Reserve Board and its strong-willed chairman, 72-year-old Arthur F. Burns.

Carter and Burns have sharply different views on inflation and unemployment, and which is worse for the country. Carter also wants changes in the Fed's operations and the status of its chairman.

Through its control of the American monetary system, the Fed influences interest rates and the money supply. Carter says he wants the Fed to wield that influence to speed up the economy and reduce unemployment. This can be done without adding to inflation, the president-elect says.

But people who know Burns say he remains convinced that inflation is the chief threat to the nation's economy, and they say it is highly unlikely he would suddenly switch signals just to suit Carter.

Carter can't remove Burns, because Burns' term as chairman doesn't expire until Jan. 31, 1978. A source close to Burns said there is almost no chance Burns will step down early.

None of the terms of the other six members of the board will expire until 1978 either, so Carter will be unable to change the makeup of the Fed unless there is an early resignation.

Burns' first public reaction to the election and what it means for the Fed probably will come when he appears before the Senate Banking Committee on Nov. 11 to disclose the Fed's latest money supply growth targets.

As of Thursday, there had not yet been any contact between Burns and the president-elect.

Carter announced Thursday night he may consider a tax cut to stimulate the economy when he takes office in January. Burns opposed President Ford's 1975 tax reductions and was accused by some members of Congress of offsetting the cuts by withdrawing money from the economy.

Burns denied to Congress he had done that, but it was nevertheless true that money policies remained tight, which could have negated the effect of the tax cuts.

The Federal Reserve Board acts to influence the money supply and interest rates by putting money into the economy, or taking it out, through the purchase or sale of government securities. Actual targets for interest rates and the money supply are set by the Federal Open Market Committee, which is dominated by the board and its chairman.

People such as AFL-CIO President George Meany and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., say the unchallenged power over money and interest rates makes the Fed chairman the most powerful person in the country.

Winning changes appears to rest with the next Congress, which will consider new regulations for the Fed as part of the proposed Humphrey-Hawkins jobs bill.

The bill would change the term of the Fed chairman to the same four-year period as the president. This would eliminate the overlap of terms that will occur with Burns and Carter.

Other Editors Say
Paying For Govm't

(Greensboro Daily News)

The North Carolina League of Municipalities, meeting recently in Charlotte, voted to ask the 1977 General Assembly for authority to levy both a local income tax and a local hotel-motel tax. These are provocative ideas. They deserve serious discussion.

The League's basic thrust is worthy: To take some of the pressure off local property taxes. The property tax, which is the staple of local government, has built-in disadvantages. It is especially harsh on the elderly and other property owners living on fixed incomes. It must be paid in a lump sum once a year, unless the homeowner uses a monthly mortgage escrow account. It does not keep up with inflation. Property values are re-evaluated only once every eight years, but the cost of government goes up every year. Public officials are thus placed in the unpopular position of having to cut services or raise the property tax rate, unless there is growth in the community to offset those cost increases.

A local income tax, by contrast, would be tied to local payrolls. The revenues gained from it would increase as salaries go up — without the need for frequent tax hikes. It would be a fairer tax in that it is more "progressive" — that is, it takes wage earners proportionately to their ability to pay. It would also tax those who work in the city and benefit from its amenities but live outside the city limits and avoid paying property taxes.

But there are also disadvantages. For example, Greensboro Mayor Jim Melvin has expressed opposition to the local income tax unless it is universally applied to every community — on the grounds that selective use of the tax would drive prospective businesses to other areas and deter growth. Others say the tax should be imposed only if a commensurate decrease in property taxes were enacted. Still others, including mayor Melvin, would like to see a form of state revenue sharing with the cities based on the federal model.

What is clear, though, is that North Carolina municipalities are eventually going to have to find alternate sources of revenue. At the moment, Greensboro's tax base is very sound, as are the tax bases of most Tar Heel cities. But the lessons of New York and other major metropolitan areas should not be lost on the General Assembly.

40 Years Ago Today

November 5, 1936

Heavy aerial artillery bombardment shook the outskirts of Madrid as fascist insurgents started the "decisive battle" for possession of the Spanish capital today.

For the third consecutive day the wail of air raid sirens in the capital was almost ceaseless. Punctuated by the steady crash of artillery bombardments in suburban discticts southwest of the city, the clamor sent residents scurrying to protection.

Squadrons of government planes released a prolonged rain of high explosive bombs over Alcorcon county, west of Madred.

Pilots of insurgent fighting ships dipped low over highways on the capital outskirts, machine-gunning government reinforcements on their way to the front.

The tremendous Democratic victory both in the state and in the nation as a whole was due primarily to the superior personalities of the Democratic candidates and to their superior programs, Chairman J. Wallace Winborne of the state Democratic Executive Committee said today.

Still another big factor is the greater intelligence of the masses and the fact that the people are doing their own thinking and arriving at their own conclusions as never before, Winborne said.

Strength For Today

THE VITAL "ALSO"

"Christ also suffered."

The important word here is "also." From a purely objective point of view this word is unexpected. Certainly it would in prospect seem unlikely that when God sent His only son into the world, He would permit him to suffer. All reason is against such a concept. Kings' sons on the earth are not marked for suffering, but for ease and pleasantness in life.

But suffering is so much a part of life that Almighty God Himself decreed that when, in the person of His son, He should live upon the earth, His life should not be relieved of any painful requirement. Every human being has to suffer; when God assumed human form, He chose suffering as His lot also.

This fact can be of great hope and comfort for us if we will only allow it to be. "Christ also suffered." You and I may be called upon to suffer. But if we are, we know also that the Son of God suffered also.

Policy Tradeoffs Unclarified

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Late on election afternoon, one of President Ford's special assistants for economic matters was describing by telephone his concept of what a political campaign should accomplish.

"The best thing that can occur is to delineate the policy tradeoffs," he said. "The tradeoff between tax reduction and spending, between Ford and Carter."

Ford either failed to delineate the tradeoffs or he failed to convince enough people that his version of the balance between spending and taxing was the correct one for the times.

Ford clearly was for tax cuts. "The best tax reform is tax reduction," he said Oct. 4 when signing into law an $18 billion tax revision, one he said should have been $10 billion more. He said it often again.

But while tax cuts have indisputable popularity, many voters may have come to view the Ford approach to economics, symbolized by his stand on spending, with benign neglect of some of the big pocketbook issues of the day.

That much seems to be apparent in the vote of blue collar workers, who were exhorted by union leaders to vote for the Carter-Mondale ticket, "a clear choice," said the AFL-CIO "Federalist" magazine on its October cover.

Inside the publication were only four articles, and the subjects with which they dealt, and the manner in which they did so, told of the AFL-CIO's fury at President Ford.

"The '76 Elections: A chance for Progress," said the first. Beneath that title was a description of the article: "America is in desperate need for new leadership in 1976 to end the nation's drift and resume the progress that came to a halt after 1968."

"Congress: Victim of Ford's Vetoes," said the second. "President Gerald Ford's obstructionism and record number of vetoes subverted the efforts of the 94th Congress, which held oslections."

The next: "The Economic Record — 1960-1976." The description: "Economic progress ground to a halt in the first years of the 1970s, with workers bearing a tremendous burden from the mismanagement of the Nixon-Ford Administration."

And finally this: "Unemployment — The Overriding Issues," an article that tells how "One of every five American workers was jobless at some time during 1975."

Ford's approach to economic stability was to move slowly, to permit market forces themselves to adjust the disparity between the number of workers and the jobs available, between prices paid and wages earned.

That same attitude prevailed for some time in the housing market, where until the administration moved to spur construction during the past two months, a low level of starts was considered a necessary if painful

Fame In The Comic Strip

It has been said that if you make the comic strips, you must be getting popular.

If that's true, then the Pringles potato chips manufactured by Procter and Gamble here in Greenville and in Jackson, Tenn. are doing okay. Mort Walker made reference to the "new-fangled potato chips" in a "Beetle Bailey" comic strip published in The Daily Reflector September 25.

Yesterday, Reflector co-publisher Dave Whichard and managing editor Alvin Taylor presented the original drawing of the "Beetle Bailey" strip to Procter and Gamble's Greenville plant manager Robert Griffin.

"New Fangled Potato Chips" is the Pringles slogan.

The strip shows Sarge on the tennis court with the General. Sarge is holding a canister and saying "I'm sorry sir. We don't have any tennis balls."

"What's that you have in your hand?" the general asks.

"By mistake I brought some of those new-fangled potato chips," Sarge answers.

"Beetle Bailey" is considered the second most popular comic strip in the world. It appears in 1,328 newspapers in more than 25 countries and in 11 languages.

Combined daily readership of all three Mort Walker comic strips — "Beetle Bailey", "Hi & Lois", and "Boner's Ark" — is 123 million.

"BEETLE BAILEY" PRESENTATION — "Daily Reflector managing editor Alvin Taylor, Procter and Gamble Pringles plant manager Robert Griffin and Daily Reflector co-publisher Dave Whichard talk about cartoonist Mort Walker's "Beetle Bailey" comic strip which mentioned "those new-fangled potato chips." The two newspaper officials presented Griffin with the original artwork for the cartoon yesterday. (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage)

Walker, perhaps the world's most prolific cartoonist, made the original artwork for the "Beetle Bailey" strip available to The Daily Reflector. The originals of other Walker comics are available from The Museum of Cartoon Art and Hall of Fame in Greenwich, Conn.

programs should be enacted when they can be financed. He also said he will balance the federal budget by the end of the term.

By the time Congress gets to work on Carter proposals, November's numbers will be academic. Campaigns divide the nation; new presidents tend to unite it, for however long they can make the honeymoon last.

"I hope to demonstrate, even before the inauguration, my complete commitment to being the President of all the American people," Carter said.

consequence of recovery.

Jimmy Carter was less positive about a tax cut, but he did hold out hope that government would become more active in seeking solutions to the egregious deficiencies of the economy.

Throughout the campaign he indicated the economic condition was intolerable, "disgraceful," and while he may not have spelled out his specific moves, he left litte doubt that he would act.

While doubts prevailed about his ability to deliver on his promises, he did hold out hope. Ford's promises were better known and many people felt they already had failed to deliver enough.

Throughout the business community, there appeared to be strong support for Ford's steady-as-you-go policy. But when it came to putting money where the words were, it sometimes didn't appear.

During the past year economists talked almost constantly about the "upcoming" resumption of growth in capital spending, in spending for new or bigger plants, better equipped to handle economic growth.

Capital spending, however, disappointed many economy watchers. Business failed to greatly enlarge the amount of money it was willing to put into such facilities, and as a result the recovery has been less strong than it might have been.

Consumers too showed their caution. They tended to play it safe, apparently attracted more to minimum-risk savings accounts than to spending on big ticket items. They seemed unsure of the future.

That same feeling has pervaded the stock market, where shares of many companies attract little attention at what might be considered bargain basement prices, and where enthusiasm seems to last only a day or two.

Williamston Bd. Delays Acceptance Of Bidding

WILLIAMSTON — Action was delayed at the November meeting of the Williamston Town Board on acceptance of bids for the construction of a metal utility building for the town of Williamston.

The delay hinges on establishing clarification of one bid and the completion of sub bids on another bid which covers the building itself.

The $82,865 bid submitted by D. G. Manning Construction Co. did not make it clear if heat, air conditioning, plumbing and electrical work was included in the bid proposal.

Other bids were from Wimco of Washington for $103,285 which includes all sub-bid items. The bid from Revel Builders of Murfreesboro of $60,170 was for the building alone; and White Heating and Sheet Metal submitted a bid for $10,664 for plumbing, heat and air condition, which still leaves wiring to be considered.

In another bid action, a preliminary action, Town Administrator J. B. Godwin was instructed to ask for bids on compact cars to provide the Williamston Police Department with two new vehicles.

A hearing on a proposed leash law or dog control ordinance was attended by about 100 interested persons. A decision was made by the town board that the proposed ordinance should be published to clarify what is required before the board takes final action.

No objections were voiced to permitting the Roanoke Bowling Alley to remain open as late as 2:30 a.m. on Sundays. The town attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance specifying that no beer be sold on the premises during those hours.

what is meant, the listener has to ask: "Am I hearing that right?" he said.

Understanding each other's words, however, is only part of the battle, Edelson said. "What you say is important, but how you say it is even more important," he said. "A reasonable request in the wrong tone or with the wrong expression can be a disaster."

For instance, one of the worst thing you can say, according to Edelson, is: "You always leave the music up too loud." He suggested instead: "I'm sorry, I'm trying to concentrate on this right now and the music is bothering me."

Rum Played Big Colonial Role

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everyone remembers the Boston Tea Party, but few people remember that rum was an ingredient of the American Revolution.

According to files in the archives at Bacardi Imports, Inc., the annual American per capita consumption of rum in 1776 was four gallons. Compare that with a consumption of about two gallons per capita of all distilled spirits in 1975.

To make rum, the colonists needed large quantities of molasses, which was imported from the West Indies and on which the British placed a stiff tax. During the Revolution, the Continental Congress authorized a liquor ration for soldiers of one half pint of rum per man per day.

Early Expo Was Huge Success

ATLANTA (UPI) — Piedmont Park in mid-Atlanta was the original site of the Cotton States and International Exposition of 1895.

The exposition opened in October and closed in December and was attended by 800,000 visitors, at a time when the population of Atlanta was 75,000.

Idaho probably derived its name from an Indian word meaning "gem of the mountains."

apply to lands adjacent to the identified floodways and known as the flood fringe..."

The Council adopted a moratorium last month for 30 days on the issuance of building permits in the identified floodway areas. Now, no building permits will be issued in the floodways but building will be permitted in the flood fringe, provided that all provisions are met including proper elevation. The ordinance paves the way for the purchase of flood insurance in Greenville, it was noted.

The Corps of Engineers has prepared a floodway map for the city that deliniates specific flood lines. The map can be used to identify for property owners the relation of the flood lines to their property lines.

The Council accepted for study and later adoption an ordinance regulating the planting, maintenance and removal of trees in the public right-of-way, parkways and other city-owned property.

In other business, the Council gave four to two approval to a motion to give $500 to the Greenville Area Chamber of Commercial as financial assistance for Christmas decorations for the Central Business District. The Chamber had requested $1,000 from the city.

Cox, saying that the request for assistance comes up every year, contended that the city participates enough in the provision of decorations through Utilities labor in the installation and removal of the lights.

He added, "I feel that the downtown merchants have the responsibility to decorate the area." He said that taxpayer money should not be used for the CBD any more than at Pitt Plaza or any other area.

The Council, in studying the current budget, considered the situation and had to cut several programs that were more important, the mayor said. Cox said that "We decided that we just could not participate this year. It was my feelings that we should not have participated in the past."

Councilman William Hadden observed that although the merchants benefit from the downtown decorations, the city also benefits as a whole. He said there are auxiliary benefits "to all of us." Hadden proposed that the city give at least half of the amount requested.

"I realize we have helped in the past," Councilman Clarence Gay said, "and I feel that one more year couldn't hurt that much."

The Chamber is in the final year of a four-year contract that calls for a local figure of $3,600 per year to fund the annual decorations. New Chamber president Lawton Nisbet said that the contract was found to be binding and the Chamber could not get out of it.

The president assured the Council that this is the last year that the Chamber will seek financial assistance from the board for the decorations.

Voting in favor of the $500 appropriations, which will have to come from the city's Contingency Fund, were Councilmen Howard, Gray, Hadden and Joe Taft Jr., while Fuller and Mrs. McGrath voted against.

The Council, with Gray dissenting, voted to advise the City Board of Education that it could not approve the construction of a pedestrian overpass on Arlington Boulevard in the area of the proposed new school.

The Board of Education had requested that the overpass be constructed to "allow safe, traffic free movement between the school on the northside of the road and Evans Park on the southside."

In addition to the cost of the overpass, Council members indicated that they were not sure that the measure provided the best solution to the potential problem.

Cox said that the Council constructed to "allow safe, traffic free movement between the children and Howard noted that the Council action should not be construed as indicating that members are not concerned.

Fuller offered a motion to accept the resolution but to advise the School Board that the overpass could not be approved now. The matter will be presented to the Traffic Commision.

Additional business on the 32-item agenda included:

—Appointment of Wanda Gunter and Ken Campbell as East Carolina University representatives on the Human Relations Council;

—Approval of a request by Greenville Realty Co. for rezoning, from RA-20 to R-9 (residential), of Section II of North River Estates located south of Greenfield Terrace on State Road 1419;

—Approval of a request by Greenbriar Realty Co. for rezoning, from RA-20 to R015, of Section II of Tucker Estates located on the south side of Red Banks Road and east of Oakmont Square Apartments;

—Approval of a request by Greenbriar Realty Co. for annexation of Section II of Tucker Estates (containing approximately 31.5 acres);

—Adoption of an order closing Stancill Circle and a portion of River Drive;

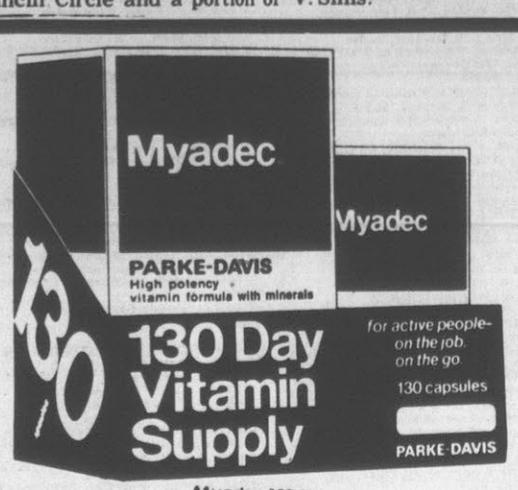

—Adoption of an order closing a portion of Radio Road abutting the ABC Moving and Storage Co. property; —Suspension of temporary permits issued to Mrs. Carrie L. Brewington for four Taxicab Certificates of Convenience and Necessity;

—Granting of one-year renewal of permit for the mobile home located at 2117 Montclair Drive and used as a residence;

—Denial of an application by Robert Edward Lockamy for a permit to place a mobile home at 3306 S. Memorial Drive for use as residential qyarters for a resident manager;

—Granting of a taxicab operator's permit to Ms. Carleen V. Sims.

Additional Pitt Clinic To Open

Dr. Charles Fitzgerald, M.D., Chairman of the Pitt County Board of Health, announced today that the Pitt County Health Department will begin operation of an additional satellite health clinic in Grifton.

Dr. Fitzgerald indicated that the satellite clinic there may begin operating as early as January, 1977, provided sufficient staff is available to staff the clinic on a regular basis. He indicated that te health department only had one satellite clinic team that is currently already committed to the existing four satellite clinics, but it was his hope that the Clinic could open on a regular basis soon. In the interim before the regular Clinic begins operation special clinics, such as glaucoma screening may be available. He stated that this is the fourth new Satellite Clinic that has been made available to the citizens in Pitt County.

Pitt County Health Director, Roger J. Barnaby, M.P.H., expressed his appreciation to the Town of Grifton and the citizens of Grifton who worked to make this facility available to the citizens of Grifton and the southern area of Pitt County.

Poorer Leaf On Market

Increased volume of non descript tobacco Thursday on the Greenville Tobacco Market attributed to a decline in the price average for the day, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor.

The market sold 470,487 pounds yesterday for $487,281, Bryan said, an average of $103.57 per hundred pounds.

Stabilization receipts were 27.27 per cent of total sales.

Top practical price paid was $1.30 per pound with a few top grades selling for up to $1.40 per pound.

Offerings were basically the same as on Wednesday with more non descript tobacco on the warehouse floors.

The market has sold 53,881,542 pounds so far this season for $62,005,540, an average of $115.08 per hundred pounds.

Issue No Visas For 3 Rabbis

NEW YORK (AP) — An interreligious delegation of eight American Christians and six Jews, which had scheduled a study tour next month to the Soviet Union, has been refused entry because of rabbis in it.

Leaders of the Naional Council of Churches and the American Jewish Committee, sponsors for the trip, called it a "flagrant violation" of the Helsinki agreement, asuring freer movement and contact.

Citing notice by Soviet authorities that visas would not be granted to three rabbis in the group, the Rev. Dr. Nathan H. VanderWerf of the church council, called it "a blatant anti-Semitic act against friends and fellow citizens."

"As Christians, we cannot participate in such a trip while some are denied equal treatment," he added.

Writes Against Death Penalty

CHICAGO (AP) — Restoration of the death penalty is "gravely counterproductive" to the prolife crusade of the Roman Catholic Church, says Bishop Bernard J. Flanagan of Worcester, Mass.

Writing in the U.S. Catholic, published here by the Claretian Fathers, he says the Gospel message teaches that "no human life, no matter how wretched or how miserable, no matter how sinful or lacking in love, is without worth."

Fifth District President Quits In Church Feud

AURORA, Colo. (AP) — A fifth district president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod has resigned in protest against practices and policies of the Church administration.

The Rev. Dr. Waldemar Meyer, head of the Colorado district, said in resigning he could no longer serve in a denomination that "consistently fails to use the Gospel in its dealing with people" and instead relies on "legal pronouncements, majority and ... coercive power."

Four other district presidents (similar to bishops), who had been kept in office by their districts despite orders from the Church president, the Rev. Dr. J. A. O. Preus, that they be fired, also have since resigned.

The prolonged denomination conflict involves efforts of the administration to require a literalistic interpretation of the Bible and to bar from the ministry those trained in a breakaway seminary.

Increased Coverage Is Approved By Martin Bd.

WILLIAMSTON — At its November meeting, members of the Martin County Board of Commissioners approved an increase on the insurance coverage on the county courthouse and the building on East Main Street which contains county offices.

In a meeting marked by few agenda items and little action, the board heard a request from the Williamston Town Board for financial assistance for improved water lines to the hospital and high school areas. Commissioners indicated they want the town board to provide a breakdown of costs outside the city limits so that it will be possible to define the county's responsibility.

In a request made by citizens appearing before the commissioners, action was delayed on the group's request that a consultant be hired to study the county's emergency medical service. A consultant would cost the county $6,800.

Kenneth Daniels was named as the representative to file and receive, if the grant is approved, $2,000,000 for the building of a new county courthouse. The possible grant is included in a group of grants recently approved by the Mid East Commission.

PRIME OF LIFE

A country gets to be two hundred years old! All at once flags are billowing against the azure sky, people are waving red, white and blue banners, souvenir buttons and coins and all sorts of keepsakes are for sale. But what's it really all about?

As countries go, we're in the prime of life, but we're still old enough to know better about a lot of things.

So, on our united birthday, it might be a good idea to sit down and think about where we've been and where we're going. Let's conjecture about democracy. Let's realize that under our system, we can change things in an orderly fashion. And let's give thanks for our blessings, because we Americans still have many of them.

You need a place in which to think, in which to give thanks. The right kind of a place. How about the church?

Varied Decisions By N.C. Voters In Referenda

By The Associated Press

Voters in North Carolina's counties and communities made it easier on themselves to buy alcoholic beverages, told their school officials they did not want supplemental taxes and made contrasting decisions on bond issues in this week's referendums

In Cumberland County, voters want a new private hospital instead of a public facility.

The Local Government Commission reported following Tuesday's elections that voters approved bond issues totaling $40,900,000 and rejected others proposing $28 million in bonds.

In High Point, a referendum asking for state liquor stores inside the city passed by a 3-2 margin. The Mecklenburg County community of Waxhaw, near Charlotte, voted in off-premise sale of beer and wine by more than 4 to 1.

Here is a survey of the referendums:

Alcoholic Beverages

—"Its time had come, after eight years," said a tired but jubilant Nolan Williams as the ABC vote in High Point came in. Williams, a leader in a citizens group which campaigned for the stores, said he was "a little surprised" by the margin.

Dating back to 1955, three previous referendums to allow liquor stores in High Point failed. Opponents of the stores will have to wait three years to try to vote them out but a leader, the Rev. Robert Clegg, said, "The anti-ABC forces in High Point are not dead."

—In Waxhaw, town commissioner Simon Rogers said, "I think it will be a good thing if people use it right," referring to the approval of beer and wine package sales. "I'm glad it went through. We have bootleggers all around here and the town gets no revenue from that."

Bob Capel, owner of the Waxhow Food Center, promised, "There won't be any pool rooms or such. It's strictly off-premises. Signs will be posted saying that."

Supplemental School Tax

—In the Piedmont, Davidson County by a 3 to 1 margin said no to a supplemental school tax. Only one precinct, in Lexington, favored the proposal. School board member Robert Ripple said, "They cast their ballots that way. It's a disappointment, but at the same time it wasn't really unexpected." A similar proposal was defeated in 1968.

—In Cleveland County, the vote for a supplemental tax would have meant an additional $410,000 for county schools, but it lost by 1,600 votes in a total vote of 10,000. The school board said it wanted to equalize the standards of the county schools with other districts in the area.

A similar proposal was defeated seven years ago.

Hospital Straw Vote

—A preference vote in Cumberland County (Fayetteville) asked for a ranking of three choices, which were construction of a privately-financed hospital, publicly financed expansion of Cape Fear Valley Hospital or publicly financed $12 million construction of a hospital to replace Highsmith Rainey Memorial Hospital.

The private hospital proposal was the winner by 3 to 1. A subsidiary of American Health Services Inc. of Washington, D.C., has applied through state and federal channels to build a private hospital costing $12 million.

Bond Issues

—Among proposals defeated were $16.5 million in Charlotte for sanitary water and sewer projects. The city manager said the improvements for annexed areas could be made through revenue bonds, which would not require voter approval. Franklin County turned down school bonds totaling $6 million and Columbus County, west of Wilmington, rejected $4.5 million in water bonds. Jones County, south of New Bern, defeated $1 million in school bonds.

—Winston-Salem approved $20 million in bonds for sewer and water improvements and Chapel Hill will have $10.5 million in bonds to spend on sewer systems, parks, land acquisition, street paving, bicycle paths and other improvements. Orange County, which includes Chapel Hill, voted in $6 million in school construction bonds. Other smaller bond packages which were approved were water bonds in Tyrrell County, High Shoals and Brevard, town hall bonds in Apex and technical institute bonds in Beaufort County.

State Supreme Court Critical Of Ingram Holding No Hearing

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Supreme Court, in a polite way, has rapped Insurance Commissioner John Ingram for failing to hold a public hearing in a rate case.

The action came Thursday only two days after Ingram won reelection by a wide margin. Ingram has lost about two dozen battles in court. In most cases, the courts have chastised him for failing to follow legal procedures in issuing rate orders. Six cases challenging his orders are now pending before the supreme court.

Ingram's latest rebuff came when the supreme court upheld a ruling of the state Court of Appeals. The North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau proposed a 19 per cent reduction for extended coverage and zindstorm insurance on buildings. It then withdrew the filing when Ingram failed to hold a public hearing. Ingram later ordered the 19 per cent reduction into effect and also an additional 3.4 per cent cut.

The appeals court said Ingram should have conducted a public hearing after "due notice to the public." Ingram held a hearing but the public had not been informed properly.

The supreme court hinted that a writ of mandamus existed to compel the insurance commissioner to hold public hearings promptly on rate proposals.

However, the court said it was confident no such writ would be necessary because the appeal has pointed out that it is the duty of the commissioner to hold hearings and determine the propriety of proposed rate changes filed with him by the North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau.

Associate Justice I. Beverly Lake, who wrote the opinion, said the bureau, which represents the insurance industry, had applied to Ingram for "permission to reduce substantially the rates of premium charged the people of North Carolina for extended coverage insurance."

"In each instance," Lake said, "the people of the state have been deprived of the benefit of the rate reduction proposed because the commissioner did not hold a hearing and requested the company not to put the deemer provision into effect."

Under the "deemer" provision, a rate proposal of the rating bureau is deemed to be approved if it is not disapproved in writing by the commissioner within 60 days.

In the "deemer provision" the insurance companies have some protection from inaction by the commissioner but "the public does not," Lake said.

He added, "If the commissioner does not conduct hearings and determine the validity of rate changes proposed by the bureau, these, including substantial rate increases, go into effect under the 'deemer' provision without any oportunity on the part of the public to be heard in opposition thereto."

To Investigate SHP Morale

RALEIGH (AP) — A special committee appointed by Gov.-elect Jim Hunt will look into the morale problem in the North Carolina Highway Problem and offer suggestions to correct it.

Hunt announced the appointment of the committee members Thursday and said Francis Garvin of Wilkesboro, president of Holly Farms Inc., will serve as chairman.

Hunt asked the committee to report to him the day after he is inaugurated which is expected to be early in January. The date has not been set.

"One of the finest things in our state government is our highway patrol," Hunt said. "Reports of low morale and dozens of expressions to me personally convince me that there is a real problem that must be corrected."

Other members of the committee are Joe Knox, mayor of Mooresville; Phil Baddour Jr., Goldsboro attorney; Pam Newton of Concord, wife of a highway patrol trooper; and Geoffrey Simmons, a third-year law student at Duke University.

State Rep. Ed Holmes, D-Chatham, and State Sen. Harold Hardison, D Lenoir, are ex-officio members.

Hunt asked for particular suggestions for:

—Increasing the safety of troopers on the highways.

—Improving the leadership effectiveness of the patrol's officers.

—Insuring the proper use of patrol personnel.

—Eliminating politics from personnel decisions and improving promotional procedures.

—Establishing adequate compensation, pensions, insurance, etc.

—Other matters that will improve the well-being of members of the patrol and their families.

Tight Playlist Of Country Radio Said Crisis To Art Form

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Association of Country Entertainers has criticized country music radio stations, claiming the stations do not play a variety of country songs.

The association said Thursday the situation is "the worst crisis country music as an art form has faced in 20 years."

The group said tight playlists at country music stations are "destroying careers, tampering with the honesty of creative instinct and infuriating the fans."

"We're criticizing the endless repetition of the same songs," said Paul Soelberg, spokesman for the group. He said the entire country music industry is to blame.

Grandpa Jones, Jim Ed Brown, Billy Grammar, Bill Carlisle, Barbara Mandrell, Vic Willis and Del Wood were among the entertainers who attended a news conference about the matter.

"Much product not wanted by the consumer is being pushed down his throat, and he's being told he likes it," the group said, adding that country music fans have been complaining about the situation.

The association was formed two years ago to promote traditional country music.

NEW YORK (AP —The stock market was mixed today, pausing after the sharp swings of the past two sessions.

Trading was moderate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 3.82 at 956.62, but gainers held a 7-6 edge on losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said the first emotional stage of the market's reaction to Jimmy Carter's victory in the presidential election appeared to be over.

They said traders now seemed to be adopting a wait-and-see approach as Carter makes preparations to take office on Jan. 20.

In the economic news, the government reported this morning that the unemployment rate rose from 7.8 to 7.9 per cent last month.

The market, preoccupied with the election, has paid little attention to economic data from Washington this week.

Eastman Kodak dropped 1⅝ and Polaroid rose ¼ to 36¼. The magazine Consumer Reports reported finding a "fading" problem with the instant color film kodak introduced this year to compete with Polaroid's line.

Anaconda lost 1⅝ to 27⅞ and Atlantic Richfield slipped ⅛ to 55¼. The Federal Trade Commission said Thursday it would appeal a court ruling in favor of the two companies' merger plans.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .10 to 54.60 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .31 at 100.30.

Sales Volume Light Thursday

Volume of sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market were light yesterday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor. Most of the grades offered were of low quality, mainly due to the fact that farmers are selling the last of their leaf.

Prices as a whole were somewhat higher than Wednesday and, as has been the case all season, quality grades were in strong demand.

The market sold 392,175 pounds yesterday for $440,744, an average of $112.38 per hundred pounds. The sale brings the yearly totals to 33,501,804 pounds for $38,911,833 and an average of $116.15 per hundred pounds, which compares with a $102.55 average last year.

The Farmville market will close the 1976 season after next Tuesday's sale.

Glass Gains In Container Mart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Glass is gaining a larger share of the container market, the Glass Packaging Institute says.

For the first time in over 15 years, in 1975, glass container shipments rose nearly 2 per cent while the packaging industry's total container shipments declined more than 3 per cent, according to U.S. Department of Commerce statistics.

Italian Cruises Popular Bargain

ROME (UPI) — There is a future in Mediterranean cruises, at least as long as the weakness of the Italian lira makes them a good bargain for foreign tourists.

Reports from Genoa, Italy's largest port, say 184,258 passengers passed through there in 223 cruise ships in the five months ending Sept. 30 — nine per cent more than in all of 1975, which in turn showed a 10 per cent increase over the previous year.

Shipping officials said 75 per cent of the passengers in transit through Genoa traveled on Italian cruise ships, with Greek and Soviet shipping lines providing the main competition.

Pirates Face Old Rival Richmond

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

There might be a little personal satisfaction on the part of East Carolina Coach Pat Dye should his Pirates come away with a victory Saturday against the University of Richmond.

Dye will be taking his team up against one of the two teams on the schedule that he has not been able to claim a victory over since coming to East Carolina. Kickoff in the contest is set for 1:30 p.m. in City Stadium in Richmond.

"I'm looking forward to playing them," he said. "Looking at last year's film, they kicked our tails physicially. Then ran right at us and when they had to have it they got it. When we had to have it, we couldn't get it. We had a fourth and one situation that might have won the game for us, and we couldn't get it."

The Pirates go into the game following their 24-17 victory over Western Carolina last Saturday. In that game, Coach Dye was not happy with the way his team played. But things seem to have picked up this week.

"There is a different attitude out there right now," he said. "We had good practices on Monday and Tuesday and these should continue."

Richmond, in contrast, comes into the game following an upset loss, 28-19, at the hands of UT-Chattanooga last week. "I really don't think they were ready to play," Dye said. "That game must have been a lot like our last year." East Carolina led that contest 14-0, then got beat by Richmond, 17-14.

In the Chattanooga game, it was noted that Richmond was unable to stop Chattanooga up the middle, but did a good job on the outside game. "I don't think they can stop us both ways," Dye said. "If they stop up the middle, we can make yardage outside, and vice-versa. Our biggest problem has been stopping ourselves with turnovers."

Dye blamed this on carelessness and the lack of concentration. "We're just carrying the ball loosely."

Dye doesn't feel that Richmond's 3-5 record is indicative of the team they have. "They've played some fine teams in Maryland and Tulsa. They had to play The Citadel in Charleston and beating them down there is no easy job. They did beat Furman in Greenville, and that, too, is no easy job."

The coach looks for Richmond to run straight at the Pirates and to take the airways also. "They pass off four different actions, the sprint out, the sprint draw, the bootleg and the dropback." Dye noted that Carolina was able to cause problems with the bootleg, but blamed this on poor execution by the Bucs. "They didn't complete a pass this way," he said.

He also is hoping that his secondary will come back to its usual high against Richmond. "They surely didn't play like the best defensive backs in the Southern Conference Saturday."

Ed Kreilis leads the Richmond rushing with 591 yards, and a 4.2 per carry average. Milton Ruffin, the fullback, is next with 486, while Buster Jackson has 206. Quarterback Larry Shaw has hit 56 of 143 passes for 765 yards. He's had seven picked off. His chief targets have been wide reciever John Call, 17 for 238 yards, and flanker Ricky Brown, with 17 for 249. Harvey Jones has caught 10 for 129 yards.

Defensively, Richmond gives several looks, and Dye feels they have several quality players on defense, too. They include nose guard Dickie Childress, linebacker Orlandus Branch, defensive end Mike Copley and safety Jeff Nixon. Dye said Nixon was probably the best safety the Bucs had worked against.

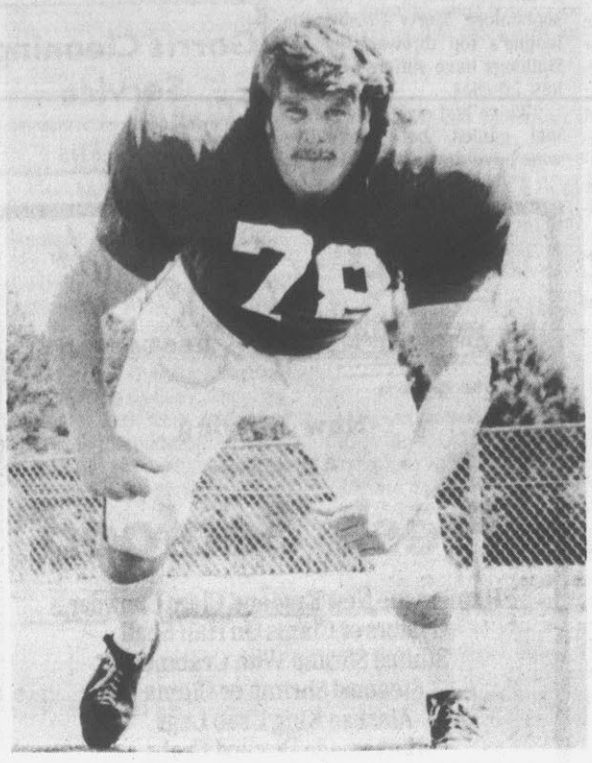

"Their defense has been their mainstay. They are as strong as anyone we've played.

"This should be an emotional game. It's their Homecoming, and you usually try to book people for Homecoming that you feel you can beat. Well, they've beaten us the last two years, so maybe they've got a point."

Dye made it clear, however, that he didn't intend for it to come out that way.

Eddie Hicks continues to lead the Pirate rushing with 680 yards, while Willie Hawkins had 596. Raymond Jones has rushed for 438. Mike Weaver, with 356 yards rushing, has hit 29 of 61 passes for 417 more yards. Pete Conaty, with 149 rushing, is 2-4 passing for 36 yards.

The contest is the final non-conference game for the 7-1 Pirates. They travel to Furman next week, then return home to face Appalachian State the following week in key Southern games.

Williams score both of his touchdowns in the second quarter on runs of 18 and nine yards. Only one of the conversion tries was good, however, giving the Bullets a 22-0 lead.

Heels, Duke Must Get Wins

By The Associated Press

North Carolina and Duke must win Saturday to keep their flickering hopes alive for the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship.

North Carolina plays at Clemson and Duke is home to Wake Forest in this week's two ACC games.

Undefeated Maryland, the league leader, wil be home to once-beaten Cincinnati in one of the three nonleague games. North Carolina State will be at Penn State and Virginia will be home to Lehigh in the others.

Maryland, ranked sixth nationally, closes out the regular season against Clemson next week and Virginia the following week. The Terps need to win only one of them to clinch a tie for the ACC crown. They have won 18 conference games in a row, and are shooting for a third straight title.

Looking briefly at Saturday's games:

North Carolina, 6-2 overall and 1-1 in the league, at Clemson, 2-4-2 and 0-2-1: Clemson leads the series 14-10, and has won their last three games, all high scoring affairs. The scores were 38-35 last year, 54-32 the year before although North Carolina came back from a 41-8 deficit, and 37-29 in 1973.

Wake Forest, 3-6 and 2-3 at Duke, 4-3-1 and 1-1-1: These two rivals will be meeting for the 57th time, with Duke holding a 40-14-2 edge.

Duke quarterback Mike Dunn is the total-offense leader in the ACC. He is working on a streak of six straight games in which he has accounted for 141 yards or more.

Wake Forest has the league's No.3 rusher in freshman James McDougald, who is averaging slightly over 90 yards a game.

Cincinnati, 6-1, at Maryland, 8-0 and 3-0: Cincinnati suffered its first official loss of the season last week, 31-17 to Georgia. Earlier, it was beaten 7-3 by Southwestern Louisians, but was able to claim a forfeit since Southwestern Louisiana was found to have used an ineligible player.

Maryland beat Kentucky 24-14 last week to stretch its unbeaten streak to 12, the nation's second longest. Rutgers leads with 15 consecutive victories.

N.C. State, 3-5-1 and 2-2, at Penn State, 5-3: After bowl appearances last year, both teams are trying to salvage respectable seasons following surprising September setbacks. The N.C. State Wolfpack had to wait until its fifth game before winning, 24-21 at Indiana. Since then, it has lost two and won two, and has no hope of a winning season. It has thrown only one touchdown pass this season, but its Ted Brown is the ACC's leading rusher, averaging 107.9 yards a game.

Penn State has a four-game winning streak.

Matney Has State Berth

WILSON — Serena Matney, the lone survivor from the Rose High School tennis team to make it to the second day of sectional competition, qualified for a berth in the state tournament yesterday.

Miss Matney won her fourth round match to gain the final four from the Northeastern Sectional Tournament. She was then defeated by the girl who eventually won the tournament.

In the fourth round, Miss Matney beat Gigi Trelenski of Jacksonville, 6-4, 6-1, to clinch her state tourney berth.

In the semifinals of the tournament, she bowed to Elizabeth Tolson of New Bern, ranked first in the state among 16 year olds. That went to Miss Tolson, 6-0, 6-3. She went on to defeat Manning Winslow of Goldsboro in the finals.

Rose finished the meet with six points, well behind winning Wilson. Hoggard High School of Wilmington took the doubles event.

Miss Matney will begin state competition on Wednesday in Chapel Hill.

By now, just about everyone knows the reasons Cary Godette changed his mind about playing one last year of football. The big defensive end for the Pirates had been given an extra year of eligibility due to an injury that sidelined him for a year, but at first, he choose to pass it up.

Then, after reflecting on it during the early months of the winter, he changed his mind and rejoined the Bucs for one last fling at the game.

"It's been worth coming back," Godette said. "We've got a chance to have the best record we've had since I've been here. And I think this year has improved my chances of playing pro ball, too."

Following his freshman year, Godette was injured and missed the sophomore season. The knee injury he sustained has bothered him some, but he now says that he feels great. "It bothered me some at the first of the year, but now I only notice it when it gets cold and it gets a little tight."

During the last two games, Godette has performed to his highest capabilities. He's harrassed quarterbacks, sacking them seven times during this period. "These two games have been the best for me so far. The only disappointment was the penalty I got that kept Carolina's final drive alive."

Godette explained that the penalty came when Carolina's running back turned past him. "I just stuck out my arm to try and slow him down and he ran right into my hand. The official said I facemasked him. It was just an accident — one of those things."

The All-Conference end is hoping that the Pirates might get a bowl bid at the end of the season. "But we've got to win these last three and win them convincingly. It can't be close like last Saturday. We've got to show that we are the superior team."

Just before he suffered his injury, Godette had been moved to middle guard, and he feels that this position, plus his present one are the two toughest on defense. "You very seldom get one-on-one blocking. Most of the time, you have two or three people blocking you on the play. Being able to compete and play every week and match my skills against some one else and be able to come out on top is a big thrill for me."

Cary usually keeps a low profile on the field. He gets the job done but doesn't really consider himself a team leader. "We've got 15 or 16 seniors this year, so I don't feel a need to be a leader as much. But I do put out extra when I feel we need a lift."

Godette isn't worried about the team being ready for Richmond this Saturday. "Last week, we were still talking about the Carolina game. We knew we shouldn't, but sometime, I guess you can't help it. But Richmond has beaten us the last two years, and we don't want it to happen again. But we know we're going to have to play our best to beat them."

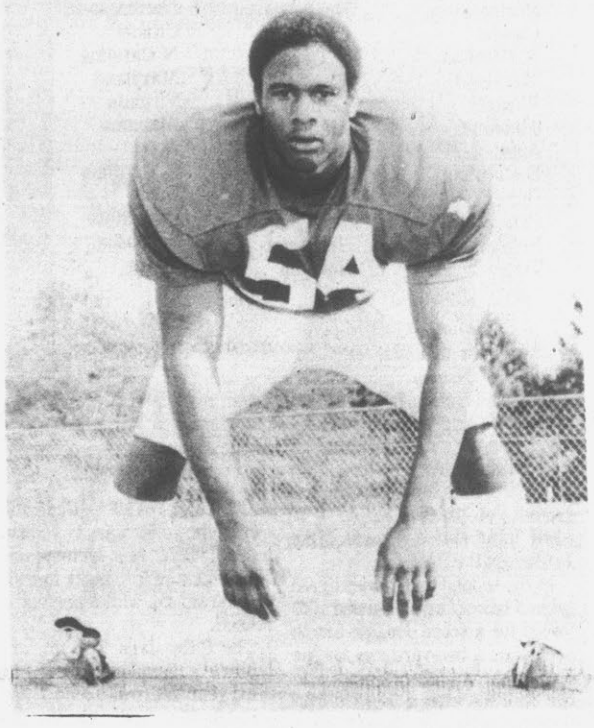

Since this is his "fifth" year, Godette will graduate shortly after the end of football season, when the current quarter ends. "I've applied for graduate school, and I'd like to get into coaching later. I want a chance at pro ball, and I really don't care where. I'll play in Canada or the NFL. I just want a chance."

If Godette continues to play as he has the last two games, he'll certainly attract the eyes of some scouts — and he'll probably get that chance.

Pirates Picked Over Richmond

That resounding boom that was heard last week was this writer's football picks going through the floor. We really don't even want to discuss it.

Let's just say that another week like that will find my wife picking the games and me doing something else.

Joe Jenkins has moved into sole possession of first place on the panel of experts, and that is beginning to sound like a real laugh. Jenkins now has a 64-28-4 record for the year, while Tom Baines and George Holland are tied for second with 63-29-4 marks. Barbara Mathews is next at 62-30-4, with Jack Whichard next at 61-31-4. We are in the basement and headed down with a 58-34-4 mark.

Oh, well, At least the Bucs are having a good year.

There will be little change in the poll this week, since there are only three differences on the whole chart. Whichard has two of those, and Jenkins has the other.

On the high school level, this is the final week of play during the regular season. Only Farmville Central is assured of a post-season berth, and Williamston's Tigers are hopeful that Edenton will beat Ahoskie, giving them a chance to play on. The Tigers are idle this week.

Farmville meets North Lenoir and the Jaguars will probably use this as a tune-up for the first round of the playoffs. The Jaguars will win here.

Conley goes to North Pitt, with the Panthers hopefully looking for an upset and their first win of the year. Conley would like to close on a winning note, and we look for the Vikings to win this one.

Ayden-Grifton is at Charles B. Aycock. The Falcons were badly beaten last week, and they may not get back up off the ground. At any rate, we're going to pick the Chargers.

Roanoke closes out with North Johnston. The North team went into last week's game with a shot at the Eastern Plains title and missed out. They may be down this week, and we're going to pick Roanoke.

Greene Central bows out at Southern Nash. The Firebirds seem to have finally put things together, and they should be able to win this one.

Turning to our panel, there is no divergence on opinion when it comes to our two local games.

Rose travels to Elizabeth City to meet Northeastern. The Rampants are closing out one of their poorest years in record, and if they lose, it will be the worst year of the 70's. Our panel doesn't like to do it, but they go with North-eastern right down the line.

The Pirates of East Carolina go to meet arch-rival Richmond in a non-conference game. The Spiders have beaten Coach Pat Dye twice now, and he'd like nothing better than to spoil Homecoming for the Spiders. There is faith in the Pirates, with a 6-0 vote for an ECU victory.

Our other consensus picks: The Citadel over VMI, North Carolina over Clemson; Maryland over Cincinnati, Virginia over Lehigh, Alabama over LSU, Appalachian over William & Mary; Duke over Wake Forest; Penn State over N.C. State; Nebraska over Oklahoma State; and Texas over Houston.

Appalachian Faces Indians In Key Southern Conference Game

By The Associated Press

Coach Jim Brakefield of Appalachian says his Mountaineers "will have to play our best game of the season to win" Saturday's crucial Southern Conference encounter at William and Mary.

Only Appalachian, now 2-0-1 in the conference, has any realistic hopes of catching East Carolina's front-running Pirates, 3-0. Each has two games left.

Despite injuries that have kept All-Southern quarterback Robby Price in and out of the lineup all season, Appalachian is 6-2-1 over-all.

But William and Mary's young Indians have been the surprise team of the conference, though they fell to 1-2 in the league in a 23-7 upset last week at Furman. The Indians, who some had thought might not win a game, stand 5-3 against all opposition.

Another league scrap Saturday has The Citadel's Bulldogs, knocked out of the running in a 31-13 defeat last week by Appalachian, playing host to Virginia Military's Keydets.

The Bulldogs are 1-2 in the league and 5-3 over-all. VMI is 1-3 in the conference but is now 3-5 over-all with two straight victories.

East Carolina, 7-1, goes outside the league to play at 1975 conference champion Richmond. The Spiders, who withdrew from the league last June, are 3-5.

The four teams ineligible for the championship will be in action, but Furman has the weekend off.

Davidson, 2-3-1, travels to Delaware and the three new members are at home — Marshall, 5-3, against Villanova; Western Carolina, 5-4, against Lenoir Rhyne; and Tennesee-Chattanooga, 4-3, against Louisiana Tech. The latter is the only night game on the schedule.

"William and Mary is probably the finest team we have faced. Their entire backfield is tremendous," says Brakefield. The Indians' sophomore quarterback, Tom Rozantz, leads the league in total offense and junior tailback Jim Kruis is the top rusher.

"We must recover from a sound beating at Furman last week," says William and Mary Coach Jim Root. "Appalachian is a powerful, physical team with an explosive offense and a big defensive squad."

The Citadel's strong point, aside from a defensive unit led by second-team All-American linebacker Brian Ruff, has been a passing attack directed by sophomore Marty Crosby, the league's top thrower. But the Bulldogs have suffered a lot of key injuries.

"We've had eight tough physical games, but consecutive wins have a way of making you forget the hurts," says VMI Coach Bob Thalman. But he adds that "The Citadel in their own back yard is always a big challenge."

Richmond was upended last week by Tennessee-Chattanooga, but East Carolina Coach Pat Dye is wary of the Spiders.

"We haven't beaten Richmond since I've been here, and this year's Richmond team is as good, if not better, than the last two years. Their record does not indicate how good they are," says Dye.

Baker Got His One Good Lap

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — One good lap!

That's all anybody was going to get, and they knew it.

"You only get one good lap on new tires," said Buddy Baker, who got the best circuit in qualifying for Sunday's Dixie 500 Grand National stock car race. "The turns are so long that the tires build up heat and it slows you down.

"One lap is it; we all know that.

"If you try real hard on the first lap and don't get the job done, just start thinking about tomorrow."

Two qualifying laps are permitted. Few of the 44 who made qualifying attempts Thursday turned their fastest lap on their second circuit. And only three of those who did earned spots in the first 15.

Baker's pace-setting lap of 161.652 miles per hour was a record, and a thing of beauty to watch.

"This is one of the best qualifying laps I've ever cut," said Baker, holder of the old Atlanta International Raceway since 1969 at 161.052 m.p.h. "No matter where I start the race I'll be pleased with my first qualifying lap.

Dave Marcis came the closest to equalling Baker's perfection, just .017 of a second slower at 161.571 m.p.h. "I got just a tick loose on the first lap."

True to form, the second lap wasn't as fast, even though he tried just as hard.

"It was useless to take a second lap," said third fastest qualifier David Pearson, who stood on his first lap speed of 160.817. "We may need that lap later this week, like Sunday.

New tires are a big factor at this race track. You start to slow down on the second lap and keep getting slower. Of course we'll be on a different chassis setup for the race, and that will reduce the effect on the tires some.

Area Sports In Brief

Rec Football

The Bills and the Eagles captured victories in the Greenville Recreation Department's football programs yesterday.

The Bills downed the Redskins, 12-6, in a tackle game, pulling into a first place tie. Both teams now have 3-2 records.

The Redskins scored first as Vincent Murphy scored on a three-yard run. In the second period, however, Mike Pollard scored twice for the Bills, both on four-yard runs. That put the Bills into a 12-6 lead and they held that the rest of the way.

Bobby McRoy and Jerry Cullipher each recovered fumbles for the Bills, while Murphy blocked a punt and Freddy Cherry had an interception for the 'Skins.

In the tag game, the Eagles took a 19-6 win over the Redskins. The Eagles are now 3-4-1, and the Redskins, 2-4.

Willie Jones scored in the first period for the Eagles on a 65 yard interception return. Mike Iaboni got the PAT.

In the second half, Jones again picked one off and returned it 55 yards for a score. Reggie Smith scored on a two-yard run for the Redskins, and Iaboni finished up the scoring with a 40-yard run for the Eagles.

Steven Holloman led the 'Skin defense with an interception.

Ayden Football

MAURY — Ayden Elementary School romped to a 48-20 victory over Maury yesterday. It was the first loss of the year for Maury, while Ayden is now 3-0-1.

Anthony Chapman scored four touchdowns for Ayden, on runs of 43, 61, 84 and 37 yards. Larry Chapman scored on a 32-yard run, and also returned an interception for a 32-yard score. Robert Carmon had a 37-yard interception return for a touchdown. Mark Anderson scored two two-point conversions, and Michael Bell gave Ayden two more points by pulling down a Maury player for a safety.

FC Jr. Varsity

WHEAT SWAMP — Farmville Central's junior varsity football team took a 26-8 victory over North Lenoir last night to close out the season with a perfect 8-0 record.

The Baby Jags won the conference championship for the third year in a row.

Farmville built up a 20-0 halftime lead as Donald Rogers, Donald Reid and Allen Moore all scored first half touchdowns.

Rogers scored on a three-yard plunge in the first quarter and then ran for the extra point. Reid also scored on a three-yard run and Allen Moore ran for a 20-yard TD while both conversions failed.

In the third quarter, North Lenoir scored on a 60-yard pass play and made the two-point conversion.

Reid scored a second touchdown for the Baby Jags in the third quarter on another three-yard run but the conversion again failed.

Farmville Central amassed over 300 total yards in the game, 230 of them on the ground.

Farmville Cent.	8	12	6	0—26
North Lenoir	0	0	8	0—8

Rose JVs

Northeastern High School's junior varsity took advantage of a late fumble deep in Rampant Cub territory to rally for an 18-14 victory yesterday.

Rose had taken a 14-0 lead in the first half of the game on scores by Mark Saieed and Joey Mattheis. David Fulghum added both extra points to give Rose the lead.

Northeastern, hampered by the loss of their quarterback early in the game, struggled back in the final period, scoring on a pass and a run to cut the margin to 14-12, after missing both of their PAT tries.

Then, late in the contest, Rose fumbled the ball and Northeastern recovered on the 15 yard line. On the first play, the quarterback tried to pass, but found no one open, and was able to scramble all the way to the one. The Eagles scored on the next play for the 18-14 margin.

The loss left the Cubs with an 0-10 record for the season.

DURHAM — East Carolina captured championships in two flights of the Duke Better Ball Tournament and posted a fine team score of 164, good enough for fourth overall.

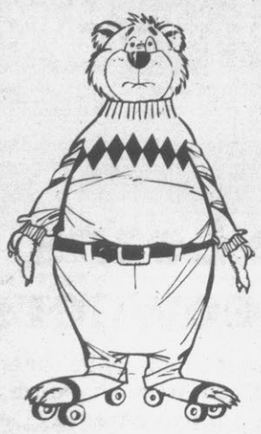

In the first flight, Marsha Person and Heather Jones combined to shoot a best ball score of 78, while Jill Carney and Lynn Copeland won the second flight with a combined score of 86.

Overall, the University of North Carolina won the team championship with a score of 152, including a first place finish in the championship flight.

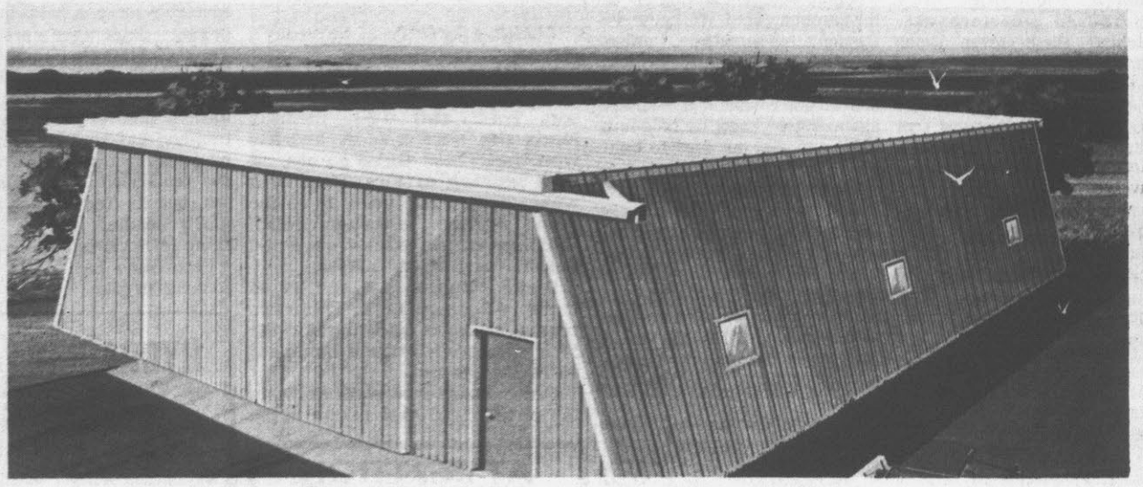

Wake Forest finished second at 161, while Appalachian State was third at 162. Following the Pirate ladies were Longwood at 176 and Duke at 161.

When the New York Mets won the 1969 World Series, Tom Seaver compiled a 25-7 National League record.

Aiding Blind Theft Victim

RALEIGH (AP) David Guthrie's faith in mankind has been restored, but it took the help of some thoughtful people to do it.

For two years Guthrie, who is blind, has operated a snack bar in a state building near the Capitol. A month ago someone began taking advantage of him.

On two occasions Guthrie was given a $1 bill and told it was $20. Guthrie trustingly gave change for the larger bill. Another time he gave change for $10 when given $1.

The trickery was not discovered until Guthrie took his receipts to the State Credit Union. He was told some $1 bills were mixed in with the 10s and 20s. He decided not to accept anything larger than a $1 bill. His receipts began to drop $8 to $10 per day.

Guthrie's biggest loss came Friday. While he was cleaning up, someone took $100 from the cash drawer. This brought his total losses to $148.

"He had to be a hard-core criminal to take advantage of someone like me," said Guthrie, who is able only to distinguish between light and darkness. "If he steals from me, he'd steal from anyone."

Several regular customers heard about Guthrie's loss and decided to help him. They collected $128.50 from other employes in the building.

Guthrie was flabbergasted when given the money. "I don't know what to say," he said."Thank you a whole lot." Office workers say they plan to set up teams to keep an eye on the snack bar.

'Family Hour' Found Violation

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television viewers should expect no immediate changes in early-evening programs as a result of a federal court decision against the networks' "family hour" viewing policy.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson ruled Thursday that the major TV networks violated constitutional rights of free speech in adopting the policy last year.

Ferguson did not, however, abolish "family hour" programming, which was designed to calm public protest by keeping sex and violence from early-evening television likely to be watched by children.

He merely said NBC, CBS and ABC couldn't delegate authority for setting the policy to the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB).

The decision was hailed a victory for free speech by the three entertainment guilds, two production companies and nine situation-comedy makers that had filed a lawsuit in October 1975.

"Americans everywhere won a victory today," said producer Norman Lear, creator of "All in the Family" and other hit comedy series.

CBS and ABC said they would appeal Ferguson's decision. NBC and the NAB said they would review the decision before commenting.

CBS, which led the fight for the industry's adoption of the policy, said, "In the meantime and until further notice, CBS will voluntarily continue to adhere to the family viewing concept."

The NAB adopted the policy in September 1975 after network officials held a closed meeting with Federal Communications Commission Chairman Richard E. Wiley. The networks and 462 television stations now subscribe to the policy.

In Ferguson's 223-page opinion, the judge also held that the FCC violated the First Amendment "by issuing threats of government action" through Wiley "should (the) industry not adopt the family viewing policy or the equivalent...." He said "censorship by government or privately created review boards cannot be tolerated."

Ferguson ruled that the NAB and networks were liable for any damages that Lear's production company suffered from the policy. No date has been scheduled to consider damages and a contention by the unions that the "family hour" policy violated federal antitrust laws.

The policy says entertainment programs "inappropriate for viewing by a general family audience" shouldn't be aired at night during the first hour of network programming or in the preceding hour. The policy does not specify what constitutes inappropriate programming.

Ferguson, in criticizing the networks for bending to what he called FCC threats, said it was their right and duty to make independent decisions. "Instead of doing so, they took the easy road and capitulated to FCC pressure," he said.

Robert Aldrich, president of the Directors Guild, which was a plaintiff in the case, said his guild would ask for Wiley's resignation from the FCC.

Wiley repeated in Washington, D.C., what he had testified in court — that he never pressured the networks to adopt "family viewing."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's Full Moon brings considerable activity in changes whether you like them or not. Be prepared to make the best of them. Whatever is put in motion now will have some very definite delays connected with them although in the long run they will be good for you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You think you should make some unusual changes, but it is best you forget them. A close tie could be demanding, but take in your stride.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Know what it is that partners want of you and avoid costly mistakes. Listen carefully to what a public figure has to say.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may have to make litftle changes here and there now that could bring about greater success in the future. Be more careful of your health and be sure your diet is right. Avoid spendthrifts.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Amusement matters require a different tack if they are to work out satisfactorily at this time. Get into the details of a joint venture with asssociate before any changes are made.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use tact at home and avoid the possibility of some unusual events occurring there. Avoid arguments for best results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to enter into any arguments with others who are apt to be in an argumentative mood today. Using particular care in motion is imperative today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You think that by spending more money you can save some situation, but that is not the case. Get good advice regarding any pressures that are upon you now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You feel others don't appreciate you, but this is only in your mind. Relax. Not a good day to socialize, but great for improving health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take time to listen to the problems of others and try to help them solve them. Don't be prejudiced in a quarrel others are having.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be swayed by a strong-willed friend who does not agree with you, and the argument will soon be over. Know what your own greatest and true desires are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day to put through big ideas since others could oppose you badly. Wait for a better time. Makeshift methods for handling credit affairs must be stopped. Be more precise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do not state your own problems to others but listen to theirs and be of help and you can gain their goodwill. Not a good day to get a new plan working either. Show better allegiance to associates.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming persons whom everyone will be drawn to. But there is a strong will in the nature that could antagonize people if not taught to cooperate more with others early in life. Give good groundwork in religion and provide for a fine education early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Likely Recruits Reminded Of Benefits Shift

The local Navy Recruiting Office pointed out that the president signed a new G. I. Bill on Oct. 15 which terminates the existing education benefits for individuals recruited into the military service after Dec. 31 of this year.

The office reported that persons currently serving on active duty or who join the Navy or enlist in its delayed entry program before Jan. 1 are considered eligible for the present bill.

Persons recruited into the military service after Dec. 31 will be eligible for education aid if they elect to participate voluntarily in a contributory program, it was explained.

Under the program, service members would contribute between $50 and $75 a month up to a total of $2,700. These funds would be matched by the Veterans's Administration on a two to one basis.

Girl Scouts At Presentation

Three Girl Scout troops from Greenville were present Oct. 30 in Raleigh to present the "North Carolina Girl Scout Heritage Quilt" to Mrs. James E. Holshouser, Jr.

Troop leaders of the local troops that attended are Linda Seykora, Annie Holder and Ann Sneed.

The quilt project was initiated in December, 1974, at the request of Mrs. Holshouser. More than 1,000 Girl Scouts were involved in research, design and creation of the quilt's 108 squares, which represent each of the state's 100 counties and selected patriotic symbols.

History Recreated In Olympic Games Account

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Recreating history as drama is always risky business. Someone who was there or who has done better research is sure to shoot holes in your script.

But when the producers (a) do extensive research, (b) cast the drama splendidly and film it on location, and (c) refuse to resort to melodrama, the result is not make-believe.

Such is ABC's "21 Hours at Munich," a well-paced, chillingly accurate account of the events at the 1972 Olympic Games when 11 Israeli team members were killed in a terrorist assault.

The two-hour program airs Sunday night. Its major competition: NBC's broadcast of the blockbuster hit movie, "Gone with the Wind," which NBC expects will draw 110 million viewers.

Some critics call this public-be-damned programming. But the choice is yours — a romantic, 37-year-old Civil War epic or a taut, gripping recreation of a real and frightening moment in modern history.

Author Serge Groussard and screenwriters Edward Hume and Howard Fast have carefully researched the film made about the Munich tragedy, sorting their facts well, producing a solid, cohesive account.

The first-rate cast includes William Holden as Police Chief Manfred Schreiber, Franco Nero as a terrorist leader, Shirley Knight as a surprise contact between authorities and the terrorist, Richard Basehart as West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and Anthony Quayle as Gen. Zvi Zamir, head of Israeli security.

The show opens at 4 a.m. in Munich, where the terrorists scale a fence and enter the Olympic village so absurdly easily you wonder if the story line isn't too pat. Then you realize: that's how it happened. The confusion that followed — the false reports, the ultimatums and deadlines that were extended — all appear to be drama. Perhaps. But it all happened that way.

Miss Knight's role appears at first just window dressing. Newsmen who covered the Munich massacre can't recall a woman negotiating with the Arabs terrorists. But those who spent more than $2 million to make the film say that Annaliese Graes, an interpreter, was overlooked in Munich, yet she played a vital role, as depicted in the movie.

Midway in the account, Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir is called and told the terrorists are demanding that 236 Arabs currently in prison be released.

"If we should give in," she says, "No Israeli anywhere in the world can feel safe."

A slight inaccuracy in the show: Israeli security chief Zamir (Quayle) flew to Munich with a team of commandos and offered to take over the task of trying to rescue the Israeli hostages.

In the film, he mildly disapproves of the rescue plans of the German police chief (Holden). In reality, the press at Munich was led to believe Zamir's disapproval was much stronger. And the film doesn't mention the Israeli commandoes he brought to Munich.

ABC sportscaster Jim McKay, who for exhausting hours in Munich reported the tragedy in 1972, now narrates the recreation of it, injecting yet another ring of truth to the program.

Some of the movie's dialogue may be contrived, but four years have passed. And who can remember just what was said during such tense moments during the terror at Munich?

Bridge has come a long way since the game was developed in 1925. When this hand was played in a tournament in Sweden in 1933, only one declarer made his grand slam. Today, almost every expert would bring it home.

The bidding would pass muster today. South's five no trump bid was the old Culbertson convention, showing three aces and the king of a bid suit, and North felt he had the values to try for all the tricks.

The lead was invariably the queen of diamonds. This was won in dummy, and all but one declarer immediately led a trump. When the trumps broke 3-0, there was no way to get back to dummy to take discards on dummy's winners.

The winning declarer found a jettison play which improved his chances of making the grand slam. He cashed both the ace and king of diamonds, discarding the ace of spades from his hand. Next came the three high spades, on which he discarded his club losers. Now his hand was high.

The mathematics of the situation are quite simple. The chances of a 3-0 trump break are relatively high—about 22 per cent. Declarer's line would be defeated only by a 7-1 diamond break or a 7-2 spade break. The possibility of the former is about 2 per cent; of the latter, some 9 per cent. Mathematically, therefore, declarer virtually doubles his chances by taking discards before touching trumps. In addition, this is enhanced by the fact that, had a defender held a seven-card suit, he might have entered the auction.

(The opening lead is the most important single play in bridge. And Charles Goren's "Opening Leads" will help you to substantially increase your winnings. For a copy, send $1.50 to "Goren Leads," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J 07648. Make checks payable to NEWSPAPERBOOKS.)

CB Radios Keep In Touch With Alaska Truckers

By W. ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer

ATIGUN PASS, Alaska (AP) — You start up the 4,800-foot pass in the care of "The Heartbreaker," who turns you over to "The Pass Watcher." Once over the top you are in the hands of "The Happy Pappy."

All three of them drive road graders on the trans-Alaska pipeline haul road. And their rigs are equipped with CB radios, which are much more than a device for "hollering" at friends when you are this far north of the Arctic Circle.

They can make the difference between life and death.

The 359-mile road north of the Yukon River is kept open all year to get supplies to the pipeline construction camps. Roughly 80 per cent of the road lies north of the Arctic Circle, and winter temperatures 60 below zero are common.

"The one and only, world famous Thunderbug" drives this two-lane dirt road like there was no tomorrow as he roars "home to mama." As he stands in front of the shiny Rolls Royce-like grill of his 18-wheeler he looks tough enough to handle most obstacles.

Paul Konig, "the Thunderbug," boasts of going over Atigun Pass "barefoot" (without chains). As he is talking, this reporter's own four-wheel drive wagon is sliding all over the icy highway.

But the Anchorage trucker says, "I won't go up this road without my CB."

His buddy, Marty DeWitt of Fairbanks, or "Tiny Tim," tells a story about hauling a pipeline load on the stretch of state-maintained road south of the Yukon. He was headed up a hill when his rig tumbled over a cliff.

He broke a rib but his radio still worked, and he heard a friend who was traveling ahead of him ask: "Did you make it over the hill?"

"I told him: 'Yeah, but not the right way.'"

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the consortium of oil companies building the pipeline, maintains the road north of the Yukon.

The truckers, like their "good buddies" down south, monitor channel 19. But they also can use channel 11 to talk with the 12 pipeline camps along the route.

Each camp has a radio operator handling the commercial band frequency used by Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., as well as monitoring channel 11.

The drivers are never more than 25 miles from a camp, so most of the time they are within the transmission range of CB radios. And if a trucker can't reach the nearest camp, there's usually another trucker closer who can relay a message.

Many Alyeska construction trucks have CB radios and can relay messages to camps via their more powerful company commercial-band radios.

The radio operator in Old Man camp said that hardly a day passes that he doesn't get a request for some kind of assistance, usually from a disabled vehicle.

As we talked with Old Man on channel 19, we passed two wrecked trucks. One was a tanker lying almost upside down but neat-as-you-please on the narrow strip between the road and the forest. There were no injuries in either accident.

Truckers also can call to the radio operators, like "The Winemaker" in Dietrich Camp, to reserve a room for the night. The drivers are allowed to spend the night in the camps and eat in the cafeterias free.

The truckers occasionally get road information from the camps, more often from each other. And there are road condition signs occasionally.

One thing truckers don't need to worry about are bears of the four-wheel variety. Bears — of the four-legged variety — and wolves are seen frequently along the road.

The radios also are crucial to break the loneliness. The truckers, many riding without partners, use them to pass the time. More than once we heard a static-filled and faint plea: "Breaker 19, is there anybody on this here haul road today?"

That goes for the workers, like Ron Lukken of Puyallup, Wash., too. He spends 12 to 16 hours daily miles from the camp, smoothing the road with his grader.

During the winter months there are nights "when you're lucky if one truck passes." And the only person Lukken — "The Heartbreaker" — sees is the foreman who brings him his lunch. His day is made when drivers tell him he's "doing a great job."

TARGETS FOR THE NAVY —An employee of Northrop inspects a Chukar II target aircraft prior to delivery to the U.S. Navy. The company has been awarded a contract to mark the fourth year of production of the high performance, remotely controlled target which is used in antiaircraft training of missile and ground gunnery crews. (AP Wirephoto)

A FORD FAN PAYS UP — Peter Panton, a 19-year-old Brown University sophomore from Chicago, bet on the wrong man Tuesday. To pay off the bet, Peter spent 28 minutes on his hands and knees, blowing a peanut all along the sidewalk that surrounds Wriston Quadrangle on the Brown campus. (AP Wirephoto)

California Leading In Swine Flu Vaccinations

ATLANTA (AP) — California leads all states in the number of swine flu vaccinations, but none of the nearly 10 million Americans inoculated since the program began last month lives in Rhode Island, according to the Center for Disease Control.

The CDC reported that 767,538 Californians were vaccinated as of Oct. 30, 453,838 of them last week.

Alaska had the highest percentage innoculation rate with 40 per cent of its over-18 population immunized so far.

Nationwide, vaccinations were given to 3,897,786 persons last week, bringing the program total to 9,613,029, the CDC reported.

A spokesman said that although "we feel an urgency" to complete the program by the end of 1976, "there does not seem to be a sense of urgency as far as the general public is concerned.

The CDC also reported that one case of the B-Hong Kong flu was found in a South Carolina college student in September, but added that no other flu cases had been isolated in the past few weeks.

No cases of swine flu have been detected since the disease struck several Ft. Dix, N.J., soldiers last winter, killing one.

The $135 million congressionally funded program was delayed by problems in producing the vaccine and a dispute over liability in possible suits over its side effects.

More recently, the program was hurt by reports that 40 persons died after receiving the vaccine, but the CDC has maintained that the shots did not cause the deaths.

A spokesman said the deaths probably hurt the program, but "the response is picking up the farther we get from that."

He said the agency is waiting for a National Institutes of Health decision on proper dosage and possible side effects for shots given children and teen-agers under 18.

$2 Million Ranson Paid

MUENSTER, West Germany (AP) — A kidnaped West German supermarket heir and Olympic horseman was freed today for a $2 million ranson, police said.

Hendrik Snoek, a reserve rider on West Germany's Olympic equestrian team at Montreal, was released after being held two days.

Snoek, 27, was the second scion of a West German supermarket fortune to be kidnaped in the last month.

On Oct. 8, Wolf Gutberlet, 32, who with his father owned a chain of supermarkets and drugstores in the state of Hesse, was kidnaped at Fulda and held for seven days before being ransomed for $800,000. In that case, police quickly arrested three of four suspected kidnapers and recovered the money.

As in the Gutberlet kidnaping, police hushed up Snoek's abduction until he was released.

Snoek was assistant to his father in the management of the Ratio supermarket chain in Westphalia, which is West German horse country.

YARD SALE

The transportation committee of Philippi Church of Christ on Farmville Boulevard will hold a yard sale Saturday at the church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The public is invited.

Women Won 5 Seats On Board

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Women candidates won five of the six open seats on the New Hanover County Board of Education and the county Board of Commissioners.

Political newcomer Karen Gottovi, a Democrat, polled 13,886 votes Tuesday to lead the race for three seats on the board of commissioners. Also winning were two other women, a Democratic and a Republican incumbent.

Two retired women school teachers, both Democrats, were elected to the school board, along with a male Republican.

Asheville Firm Gave Low Bid

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Asheville Contracting Co. has submitted the apparent low bid of $9.96 million for the open cut through Beaucatcher Mountain to unbottle traffic into downtown Asheville.

The state Department of Transportion plans to award the contract during a meeting in Asheville on Nov. 11-12.

The Beaucatcher Mountain Defense Association has been fighting the open cut. It proposes twin tunnels to replace the present twin-lane tunnel.

Gives Priority To New Runway

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Howard Burch, chief of air traffic control at busy Raleigh-Durham Airport, says a new runway is needed more urgently than expansion of the present one.

He says takeoffs and landings could increase 80 per cent in the next 10 years. They were at a record 200,000 last September. Burch said an estimate by the Federal Aviation Administration that they could increase to 345,000 a month in the next decade was conservative.

ANNIVERSARTY

BETHEL — The No. 2 choir of Bethel Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will observe its second anniversary Sunday at 3 p.m. Various choirs are asked to participate.

Gave Program At FSA Meet

Ms. Judy Wilson, committee chairman of the National Secretaries Association for the Greenville chapter, presented a program on the qualities of a secretary at the monthly meeting of the Future Secretaries Association of Pitt Technical Institute Tuesday night.

A future dues policy was discussed. The Program Committee met following the meeting to establish programs for future meetings.
