By DON McLEOD AP Political Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - President-elect Jimmy Carter says he likes competition among his staff members, but there are signs he may be getting more than he wanted.

British Role Under Fire

By ROON LEWALD Associated Press Writer GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Two key black nationalist leaders said today they will call for adjournment of the deadlocked Rhodesia talks unless Britain agrees to a Dec. 1, 1977 target date for transferring power to Rhodesia's black majority.

A spokesman for Rhodesian guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, Mugabe's "Patriotic Front" ally, charged that Britain has been "indecisive, hesitant and timid" and failed to take a firm enough role in the Rhodesia transition.

The spokesman, Saul Ndlovu, said Mugabe and Nkomo want Dec. 1, 1977 set as the target date, although they would be willing to extend this deadline by up to three months if drafting a new Rhodesian constitution and other complicated matters could not be completed in time.

However, Ndlovu said Ivor Richard, the British diplomat chairing the conference, insists on a 15-month transition period with a March 1, 1978 target date for black rule. Under Richard's plan, that date could be moved up if transition arrangements are finished sooner.

The spokesman said Mugabe and Nkomo have asked Richard to call a formal meeting of the conference Saturday, when they plan to request that the conference be adjourned unless Richard agrees to their demand on the transition target date.

One sign this week was the thick memo that campaign manager Hamilton Jordan sent to Carter suggesting ways to staff his administration.

This product duplicates to a degree the voluminous recommendations of Carter's transition staff, headed by Atlanta lawyer Jack Watson.

A former campaign Carter aide said Jordan was "moving to head off Watson."

Both men today denied there was any rivalry or competition between them, saying any reports to that effect are "nonsense, all nonsense."

"There's no problem," Jordan said. "We've worked together before and we're working together now."

Watson noted that "there's still a lot of work to be done."

The two men made their comments as they stepped off a chartered plane at the Americas, Ga., airport before driving to nearby Plains to meet with the president-elect.

Watson and Jordan said their approaches to the transition and the presidency as described in separate memos to Carter are "complimentary" and not rival proposals.

They said they would discuss with Carter the kinds of persons who will be working directly with him in the White House and the best means of finding individuals for consideration as possible appointees to top governmental posts.

One Carter insider, referring to the Watson-Jordan situation, said: "I guess we can expect more of that. I don't think there's any doubt Jimmy's going to receive competing recommendations, and he's not going to say, 'Hey, stop that,' because he likes competition among the corps."

"Jimmy's pretty happy with what's going on," this source said.

What's going on apparently is an effort by Jordan to re-establish himself in the Carter hierarchy now that his campaign job is over.

The pecking order among the Carter cadre turns largely on how long and how well a member has known the chief. The senior member, Charles Kirbo, goes back to 1962, when he won a lawsuit that saved Carter's election to the state Senate from alleged vote fraud by the opposition.

Jordan came in the next group, consisting of those who worked for Carter in his losing bid for the governorship in 1966. Press Secretary Jody Powell joined in 1970 when Carter ran for governor again and won, and he has been one of Carter's closest aides ever since.

Jordan, meantime, served as Carter's executive secretary and began planning the drive that climaxed this month with a Cinderella capture of the White House. Friends say Jordan fully expected that when the battle was won, he would resume his place at Carter's right hand in building the new administration.

Last summer, however, Watson proposed to Carter a plan for preparing the White House transition in advance and laying the groundwork for anticipated legislative programs and executive initiatives.

The idea was to enable Carter to hit Washington on the run and make his imprint quickly instead of settling slowly into the job the way most presidents have, with the exception of Franklin Roosevelt's first 100 days which had been planned by a similar "brain trust."

It suited Carter's style, and he bought it. Watson set up shop shortly after the Democratic party nominated Carter last summer. The result was a detailed presidential preparation which even Jordan has called "a fantastic job."

But the old guard began to stew as Watson and a crew made up largely of outsiders began planning the coming administration without them. The transition team included "Washington establishment" types, Ivy League eggheads and Kennedy-Johnson holdovers, they said.

The most valid complaint the original Carter squad has leveled against Watson and his group is that the transition team has been working in an insulated world of abstraction and lacks the political savvy that they used to make Carter president-elect.

And they turned this to an early victory over Watson's suggestion that Carter spend most of his time during the transition period in Washington - which incidentally would have had him close to Watson and the transition team.

At first Carter agreed publicly to Watson's proposal that he spend three or four days a week in Washington, but a couple of days later he announced he would spend most of his time at his Plains, Ga., home until he is inaugurated Jan. 20.

"I don't think there's any doubt but that Hamilton and Jody were behind it," a Carter watcher said, "and I think this again illustrates that perhaps they are more politically attuned than Watson."

Again Postponed

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - The Indian Parliament completed today final passage of a bill to postpone national elections for the second time since Prime Minister Indra Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency 17 months ago.

The upper house, over limited but vocal opposition, approved by voice vote a measure extending the life of the current Parliament for another year. The lower house approved the bill last week.

Passage of the measure, coming just a day after Parliament completed approval of a sweeping overhaul of India's democratic constitution, meant that India's 610 million people probably would not have a national vote until at least March 1978.

Four major non-Communist parties have been boycotting Parliament during its consideration of the latest measures.

Israeli Diplomat Bitter Over U.S. Condemnation

By LARRY THORSON Associated Press Writer TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - Foreign Minister Yigal Alon lashed out at the United States today for joining in a Security Council indictment of Israeli policies in occupied Arab territories.

After rejecting two similar resolutions earlier this year, the United States joined in a unanimous Security Council statement Thursday in New York. It deplored Israeli settlements in occupied Arab territories and any action "which tends to change the status" of Jerusalem, calling such actions illegal and "an obstacle to peace."

"I am very, very disappointed," Alon told Ambassador Malcolm Toon. "I am only saying good morning out of convention. This is a real blow to any political progress toward peace."

Alon added that "in the past you managed to defuse this in the council."

Toon, who was accompanying 12 U.S. congressmen visiting Israel, was embarrassed by Alon's anger in front of reporters and cameramen.

"We'll talk about it later," he muttered.

accused the Security Council of "biased and one-sided resolutions" and anti-Semitic innuendos. He said the council's action would not "change our basic attitudes or influence us in any way."

Informed U.N. sources said the United States apparently wanted to give the Israelis and the Arabs a clear signal that it does not recognize Israeli claims to the old walled Arab sector of Jerusalem or any other areas occupied in the 1967 war.

The sources said the U.S.

move was also intended as a gesture of friendship and approval for the new alliance of Saudi Arabia, Syria and Egypt which emerged last month at the Arab summit meetings that drew up the peace plan for the Lebanese civil war now being put into effect.

Beirut Shaken By More Shelling Despite Large 'Peacekeeping' Presence

By FAROUK NASSAR Associated Press Writer BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Heavy shelling broke out between the Christian and Moslem sectors of Beirut today despite the presence of thousands of Syrian troops ringing the city to enforce the three-week-old cease-fire.

A crowded market in the Moslem sector received several direct hits that killed a dozen civilians, civil defense rescue teams on the spot reported.

Loudspeaker vans and jeeps toured the area urging the people to get off the streets. The Lebanese Arab army, made up of deserters from the Lebanese army, threatened to strike back "mercilessly" at the Christian half of the city unless the Syrians stopped the Christian bombardment.

"Damn the Arab deterrent forces," said a young boy standing beside the blood of a victim. "Why don't they come here?"

Artillery in the Moslem sector began firing at random into the Christian sector.

It was the second major break in the truce in less than 24 hours. Savage house-to-house fighting broke out Thursday afternoon between Christian militiamen and radical Palestinians in the ravaged downtown commercial center of Beirut, causing many fires in the adjacent port area. Hospitals and militia sources reported more than 15 persons killed, one of the highest tolls since the cease-fire was declared Oct. 21.

Meanwhile, Syrian armored columns were consolidating their hold on the city's rear areas, tearing down street barricades and taking over snipers' nests, in preparation for the dispatch of forces to establish a buffer zone through the middle of the city.

Pierre Gemayel, whose Phalange party has the largest Christian militia, said the fighting and an attempt on the life of Christian politician Raymond Edde were "last-minute desperate attempts to sabotage the peacemaking process in Lebanon."

"But these attempts are doomed because 95 per cent of the Lebanese and Palestinians are for peace," Gemayel said. "The remaining five per cent of radicals can easily be dealt with. Their days are numbered."

Edde, an unsuccessful candidate for president last March, said he was getting out of his car Thursday afternoon when four men in a car pulled up and one of them opened fire with a submachine gun. A bullet grazed his hip.

U.S. Diplomats Try To Warn Of Oil Price Impact

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. diplomats, trying to head off any price increase by the oil exporting countries, are warning that higher oil prices would seriously hurt economies around the world by fanning inflation and stalling growth.

The oil exporting countries, affiliated in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), are scheduled to meet Dec. 15 in Qatar in the Persian Gulf, and oil prices are expected to be on the agenda.

U.S. diplomats say if OPEC boosts prices by 15 per cent, for example, it would mean a $5.5 billion increase in the American oil bill. That in turn would raise the U.S. inflation rate from its current 6 per cent to 7 per cent and cut the economic growth rate of 4 per cent to 3.4 per cent.

Although the OPEC countries have not announced what price decisions will be made next month, there has been speculation price increases could go as high as 20 per cent. The Shah of Iran has suggested a 15 per cent hike.

Meanwhile, the Financial Times of London reported today that the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development is forecasting a world recession for the second half of next year. This forecast by the organization, composed of the major Western industrialized nations and Japan, is aimed at persuading OPEC to moderate future oil price increases.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Robert Funseth argued against any oil price increases by asserting that it would hurt OPEC countries also.

Funseth declined comment on a report that high administration officials want to threaten Iran with a reduction in U.S. arms sales in retaliation for higher oil prices.

The report said that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has rejected such a step in the past but might reconsider now because of the deteriorating worldwide economic situation.

The semi-official Israeli state radio said "Israeli circles in Washington" viewed the U.S. action as the "end of the honeymoon" that prevailed during the U.S. presidential campaign. The broadcast said Israelis in Washington speculated that the Americans were trying to tell the Arabs the United States was reverting to a more even-handed policy now that the campaign quest for the Jewish vote is over.

Extra Cost Of Proposed Aid For Private Colleges Up $8.7 Million

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) - The cost of state aid to private colleges would increase as much as $8.7 million a year if the General Assembly were to grant a request by the colleges for additional funds.

That request was presented to the board of governors of the University of North Carolina meeting here today at the School of the Arts. The proposal came from the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

Now, the state gives private colleges $400 for each full time North Carolina student enrolled. The board of governors gives the legislature recommendations on aid to private schools.

UNC President William C. Friday said Thursday he supports an increase of $100 per student, half the minimum requested by the private colleges.

Whatever action taken by the board of governors, the private colleges are expected to lobby in the General Assembly for the increase.

Cameron West, president of the association of independent colleges, said the state is buying their services at a fraction of the cost.

The private institutions contend that because they educate North Carolina students, the state does not have to spend so much money for additional buildings and teachers on state campuses.

After the 1975 legislature increased the tuition subsidy to $400, in-state enrollment at the private colleges has increased. They contend this has eased the demand on the public University of North Carolina system.

The tuition-subsidy program also helps the private institutions by putting students back into their classrooms.

New, More Difficult Tax Forms Are Prepared

By EDMUND PINTO Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you get a pocket calculator for Christmas, it's likely to come in handy when you tote up your federal income tax after the New Year.

Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald C. Alexander is warning taxpayers that completing the new tax return "could be more difficult" than in the past. One reason is the amount of math that will be required for the first time for many taxpayers.

Alexander's message is contained in an inroduction to the new 1040, the so-called long form, that the IRS released Thursday.

This year, hundreds of thousands of taxpayers who had become accustomed to just adding up their income and then finding their taxes on a table will now have to take several other steps.

They'll start by adding up their income, as they have in the past. But then they will have to subtract either standard or itemized deductions and then personal exemptions to reach taxable income. Only at that point could new tables be used to find the tax load.

An IRS spokesman said the service is concerned that this single change required by Congress will result in many more arithmetic errors than in previous years. The congressional tax-writing committees have claimed the change will simplify taxes by requiring only two pages of tax tables instead of the 10 used in the past.

Another change on the 1976 form involves the $30 credit for each taxpayer and dependent. It used to be a simple subtraction from taxes. This year it has been increased to $35, but also has an added complication. A taxpayer will have to decide whether a straight $35 credit is best or whether he should take the optional 2 per cent of taxable income up to a maximum $180 for most returns. Taxpayers can expect to receive their forms by mid-January, about two weeks later than usual. Alexander said the delay results from late passage in the Congress of 1976 tax legislation.

In addition to the changes in computing taxes and the personal exemption credit, taxpayers also will find changes that allow child-care expenses to be subtracted directly from taxes owed, an end to the sickpay income exclusion in favor of a disability income exclusion and a simplified and expanded credit for taxpayers over 65.

TVA Spokesman Expects Nuclear Energy Decision

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office in January, he will make the right decision regarding nuclear energy, says Aubrey Wagner, board chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"One of the most significant results of last week's election was the rejection of antinuclear measures by the voters in six states," Wagner told a board meeting Thursday. "This makes seven states with a population of 42 million, about 20 per cent of the nation, that have held elections and endorsed nuclear power."

"Now we might hope that the regulatory agencies and other government policymakers will get the message, and let us get on with the job of meeting energy needs in the years to come."

Wagner also said he is confident that when Carter takes office and "has access to all the facts a President would have that he will make the right decision."

TVA indicated Thursday basic electric rates, excluding the costs of fuel and power purchased from other utilities, won't be changed until at least next spring.

"There is no good time to make a rate increase, but Jan. 1 is a terrible time because of winter heating bills," said Lynn Seeber, TVA general manager. TVA officials cited two indicators in saying a rate change until spring is unlikely. One was a $22 million savings in the cost of buying or generating power for the two months the agency's Browns Ferry, Ala., nuclear power plant has been back in operation after a March 1975 fire shut it down.

The other was a projected margin of $38.6 million in revenues over the cost of generating power and payments to local, state and federal governments.

Last month Browns Ferry, which still is not operating at full capacity, generated about 10 per cent of the total power produced in the seven-state region served by TVA.

Officials added the plant will reach full capacity of more than 3 million kilowatts in December, except for periods when one of its three reactors is taken down for tests. The board authorized $221,000 to fully winterize 200 homes and install insulation in the roofs of another to help low-income families with high electric heating bills.

James Burdeshaw, TVA's director of power utilization, said the program envisions local utilities, backed by TVA, financing the cost of insulation. Consumers would pay the same amount in electric bills they were charged before the insulation was installed until the cost of the material and service was covered.

See Recovery Bad News To Military Reserves

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A board of senior Pentagon officials is warning the White House and Congress that economic recovery could spell bad news for the nation's military reserves.

"The continued hoped-for increase in our economic well-being, if realized, will intensify the recruiting and retention problem," the Reserve Forces Policy Board said in a report. The availability of good jobs lessens the economic attractions offered by the reserves.

The board cited this as a reason for pessimism about the future of the reserves, although it also noted progress toward improving the readiness of the National Guard and reserve through closer association with the regulars and modernized weaponry.

The panel members, including both civilian and military officers, called urgently for a range of special incentives to stimulate enlistments in the National Guard and reserve forces.

The advisory group did not detail the incentives it had in mind, but it is known that defense officials have been recommending experiments with enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses, college and vocational tuition aid, and a federal tax break on $1,500 a year in reserve-guard drill pay.

The report has been sent by Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld to President Ford, the Senate and House. It also will be made available to President-elect Jimmy Carter, who promised during the election campaign to strengthen the reserves.

The National Guard and reserve forces have become increasingly important in recent years because they are being counted on by Pentagon planners to reinforce the regular forces, now the smallest in more than 25 years, at an early stage in any future major crisis.

With the end of the draft, the reserves have been losing men who had enrolled during the Vietnam war to escape induction into the Army.

According to the most recent Pentagon strength report, the reserve-guard forces totalled 823,500 men and women in September. This was about 80,000 short of the Pentagon's goals.

A particular concern to defense officials are recent statistics showing that only half of the Army guard and reservists have been signing on again when their enlistments run out.

'Explosion Of Color' Paintings Of Louise Herreshoff Are Found

By RONALD E. COHEN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bequest was 200 barrels of porcelain, a fabulous collection that included pieces dating back to the birth of China. As the movers went through the two homes in Providence, R.I., lifting the heavy barrels, the question arose: Did Washington and Lee University, inheritors of these treasures, also want the old picture frames stacked in the attics and the basements, collecting grime? The frames could be useful to the art students at the university, and there was room in the moving van — so why not?

When the booty arrived, someone ran a rag over the glass in one of the picture frames. Suddenly there was "an explosion of color." Louise Herreshoff was discovered. Her first public exhibition, almost a decade after her death, is running at the Corcoran Gallery here under auspices of Washington and Lee. For art lovers, especially those who treasure brilliant colors and Impressionist styles, the unearthing of the paintings is great good fortune. To have lost these works would have been tragic. Louise Herreshoff, a descendant of Browns who pioneered Rhode Island and amassed one of its great fortunes, studied painting in Paris as a teenager one year, then went back on her own and lived in France and traveled in Europe for five years. The influence of the Impressionist masters — particularly Van Gogh — is obvious in much of her work. For the first 50 years her life, Miss Herreshoff was almost inseparable from her Aunt Elizabeth. Her beloved "Aunt Lizzie" took over her life after the death of her mother when Louise was 4, and was her protector, her confidante, her greatest booster, her sole friend. After a brief marriage, Louise moved back in with Aunt Lizzie in Providence. Her aunt admired her paintings, and was enthusiastic about her efforts. When Aunt Lizzie died in 1927, Louise was truly alone for the first time in her life. With no one to encourage her, Miss Herreshoff put away her brushes and her art work forever. There is no indication that between 1927 and when she died in 1967, she ever painted again. Instead she turned to another old love, ceramics and por-

Do-It-Yourself Cooks Can Make Mocha Mix

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
European ways of preparing coffee — French cafe au lait, Italian espresso with lemon peel, Viennese Kaffee mit Schlag — interest Americans. So much so that in recent years commercial coffee mixes, inspired by these European combinations, have come on the market. And chocolate drink mixes have been popular for a longer time. Now do-it-yourself cooks ask us how to make an interesting beverage mix at home.

Here's our answer: a recipe for Orange Mocha Mix, a delightful combination of dried orange peel, instant coffee, instant cocoa mix and non-fat dry milk solids. To vary this basic mix you can make two spiced versions of it.

A good cook we know who comes from Trinidad never throws away orange peel. She dries spirals of it and breaks off small pieces to add delectable flavor to tea. And another tip: one of my sisters often adds fresh spirals of orange and lemon peel to reconstituted frozen orange juice.

ORANGE MOCHA MIX
½ cup instant (not freeze-dried) coffee

¾ cup instant cocoa mix
¾ cup instant non-fat dry milk solids
Dried Orange Spirals, see directions below

In a jar stir together the coffee, cocoa mix and dry milk; bury the Dried Orange Spirals in the mixture. Cover tightly. Store at room temperature for a week before using to allow flavors to blend. Makes about 2 cups Mix.

To use: For each serving, spoon 2 level tablespoons of the Mix into a mug; break off a piece of the orange spiral and add; stir in well ¾ to 1 cup boiling water.

Variations:
Add 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon to the Orange Mocha Mix. Use as directed.
Add ¼ teaspoon ground cloves to the Orange Mocha Mix. Use as directed.

DRIED ORANGE SPIRALS
Wash and dry 2 medium or large oranges. With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler, remove the peel from each in a continuous spiral. On a cookie sheet spread the two spirals flat in a single layer. Dry in a preheated 200-degree oven for about 2 hours. Cool. Use for Orange Mocha Mix.

WASTE NOT, WANT NOT—Dry spirals of orange peel and use them in a delightful homemade mocha beverage mix.

Dear Abby

Bus Driver Wants To Be Isolated

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my job. I am a bus driver in Tacoma, Wash. I can handle the traffic, but the people are driving me bananas. I've been driving a bus for four years now, and I don't know how I've lasted this long.

Can you give me some information on becoming a shepherd? A few months ago I read somewhere that there was a real need in the American Southwest for shepherds, but it was hard finding people who could cope with the isolation that went with the job.

Abby, all my life I've found it hard to deal with people. I crave isolation. I could go for weeks without seeing a human being and be perfectly content. I may be slightly weird, but this is me. Can you help me?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Shepherds tending American flocks have traditionally been Basques imported from Spain and sheepman occasionally complain that the immigration quotas shut off their supply of herders. Write to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the name and address of sheep industry organizations. They'll tell you what, if any, opportunities exist to herd sheep instead of people.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married a widower who had two daughters. This is my first marriage.

Beginning with Easter, then Mother's Day, then Memorial Day, then her birthday, followed by the anniversary of her death and ending with HER wedding anniversary, the two married daughters make a regular pilgrimage to the cemetery to visit their mother's grave.

I don't mind this, but I do mind the pressure they put on their father to go with them. On some of these occasions, I have accompanied him, but I feel as he does, that Mass and Communion are much more meaningful and not nearly as ostentatious. Don't misunderstand, I have not complained once, and never will, but I think six trips in five weeks to lay plastic flowers on the grave is overdoing it.

How should I handle it? My husband's daughters didn't make all these trips to their mother's grave before their father married me.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Continue to handle it as you have. Say nothing.

DEAR ABBY: One of your readers suggested national Daughter-In-Law Day. Well, I'm a daughter-in-law but I had all the honor I need in just knowing and loving a mother-in-law. I'll tell you about her.

She was a diamond in the rough, a tiny, feisty redhead. Had she been a man, she would have been a two-fisted, hard-drinking gambler. She adored her son. No woman alive was good enough for him, but if one HAD been, it would have been me. When she had a snootful, she berated me, insulted me, baited me. She came very close to loving me, and perhaps she did.

I was with her the day she broke her hip. She was barefooted, in a chartreuse bathing suit, having just come in from a day at the local swimming hole with her two small grandsons and myself. That was the beginning of the end.

I gave her a permanent the day before she died, and as she left to go home, she put her freckled arms around my waist and in her deep, husky voice said, "I love you, honey." Those were her last words to me.

How I loved that tough old lady, and I miss her like hell.

Tobacco Needed A Good Year

Greenville Tobacco Market ended its season Tuesday, after recording the highest average paid for tobacco ever.

Sales Supervisor J.N. Bryan reported that the market averaged $114.97 per hundred pounds. The market sold 54,495,951 pounds of tobacco for $62,651,400.

The poundage was less than the 59,837,094 sold last year, but the money — $60,418,446 the previous year — was more. And the average for 1976 was well ahead of the $100.97 per hundredweight paid in 1975.

Greenville's figures were typical of the Eastern Belt. Since there was a reduction in poundage this year there was a corresponding reduction in poundage sold. But with a good crop, particularly here in the east, and also accounting for inflation average prices rose considerably.

All-in-all we think it was a good year for tobacco farmers of this area. And it comes at a time when the industry is beset with problems. The anti-smoking campaign is more vocal than ever, Stabilization received far too much of undesirable grades and there is the possibility that Rhodesia might return to the world tobacco market.

Thus a good year was badly needed by the growers if they were to ever recognize anything for their investment and their labors.

No one knows what the future holds for the tobacco industry. All the grower can do is produce the best quality tobacco that he possibly can and hope that price increases will keep up with inflation.

Put Tunnel-Building Talents To Work

Pity the San Quentin prisoners who dug a 67-foot tunnel, only to have it discovered and the escape plot thwarted.

The three-foot wide tunnel had electric lights, braced sides, a ventilation system and an elaborate electronic communications system. It all went for nought, however, when it was discovered by prison officials.

There has been much talk in our state about putting prisoners to work at useful labors.

Maybe these San Quentin prisoners could be utilized to build the English Channel tunnel.

THIS AFTERNOON

Changes For N.C. Blind

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — North Carolina, by most measures, has an outstanding set of programs for blind people—perhaps too good.

For one of the most telling criticisms against the program heard at recent meetings of a legislative committee studying that field was that some programs and staff people are "Custodial and paternalistic . . . which hampers independence . . . Sheltered environment . . . hampers coping with the world."

As a result, the legislative committee will recommend to the 1977 General Assembly a variety of minor adjustments in services to the blind which are designed to bring about more independence for blind people.

A Philosophy
The philosophy of blindness occupied a considerable part of the committee's time. The official philosophy of the Iowa State Commission for the Blind, for example, spells out where a lot of North Carolinians now believe state programs ought to aim:

"That blind people are like other people, with the faults, failings, and virtues of other people except they cannot see;

"That blind people are capable of performing almost any task sighted people do, provided they have received training in the use of alternative techniques for sight;

"That blind people in order that they may lead full productive lives must be independent and capable of self determination;

"That a blind person cannot be truly said to have been rehabilitated until he has become socially independent and is employed and earning sufficient income to support himself."

The legislative committee, chaired by State Senator Willis Whichard, D-Durham, and the various organizations which help push programs for blind people agreed that the "basis of our state program in North Carolina should be a positive philosophy of blindness."

To overcome several criticisms listed during the deliberations—yet still maintaining that this state has one of the best programs in the nation—the committee (and the constituent groups) are proposing establishment of an advocacy and consumer advisory committee to advise all state agencies, boards and commissions on needs of blind people, and preventive measures.

Better Jobs
Also recommended is expanded training and placement programs so the blind can gain good-paying jobs in a competitive market.

And to help in adjustment problems in an urban setting (where most blind people settle), it is recommended that the rehabilitation center at Butner be either relocated to a city, or satellite units be operated for city adjustment training.

The committee report noted, "We are trying to teach individuals who are blind to live independently in an artificial (rural) environment."

delved into the operation of Gov. Morehead School for the Blind, which they found to be well run and successful. But there was concern that the educational level might not fully measure up to the standards of other schools. The school is operated by the Department of Human Resources, and some legislators felt the Department of Public Instruction might best run the facility. The heads of those two departments will be asked to make a recommendation on how best to run the school.

In other recommendations coming up, funds will be sought for converting messages to blind clients into recordings or braille so that the state agency will not have to mail written messages to the blind; additional state support for the concession stand program; increased salary levels for families in order to qualify for certain aid; retention of the Division of Services for the Blind as a division in the Department of Human Resources; and expanded prevention of blindness efforts.

By ART BUCHWALD Biggest Election Loser

WASHINGTON — The biggest loser in last week's election was Apathy. For weeks all the pollsters had predicted that Apathy in the presidential race this year was going to win by a landslide. When the final returns were in Apathy had been defeated resoundingly.

I went to visit Apathy the other day and talk to it about how it blew one of the biggest leads in American political history.

"I'd be lying if I said it didn't hurt," Apathy told me. "I wanted to win in the worst way."

"What do you think happened?" I asked.

"I guess my people became overconfident. For weeks the reports came in from every section of the country that Americans were Apathetic and weren't going to vote. We heard about Apathy in Ohio, Apathy in Texas, Apathy in California, Apathy in New York. We thought we had it in the bag. So we stopped spending money and canceled our television commercials. I was so sure of winning I hardly campaigned in the last two months."

"Do you blame the media for misleading you?"

Apathy glared at me. "As long as you brought it up, I blame the media for everything. The reporters wrote one-sided stories attacking me. They fed a steady stream of lies to the newspapers and on television, saying I was influencing the youth vote, the union vote and the business community. Both the Republican and Democratic parties urged their people to reject me."

"Companies took out advertisements urging the people to vote, and the TV stations gave free time to voter registration drives. This hurt me in the last week of the campaign. We tried to get equal time to appeal to the people to stay at home, but the networks wouldn't give it to us."

I said, "Then what you're saying is that you believe there was a conspiracy to keep the voters from staying away from the polls?"

"You said it, I didn't," Apathy replied. "I'm not saying I didn't make mistakes. I should have cared a little more as the campaign came down to the finish line. But if I had shown any concern people would have said, 'How can you be Apathetic if you're working so hard for support?'"

"Some columnists and commentators have said that you were never serious about what you were doing, that you saw your role as spoiler. What is your answer to that?" I asked.

"Lies, all lies. I wanted to give the people a choice between Ford, Carter and myself. I believe Apathy has an important role to play in the political process. I was certain that this year was my big chance. You had two candidates that no one could get excited about. Apathy was on everyone's lips. All over the country you saw bumper stickers which said, 'Vote for Apathy.' Maybe I'm a Monday morning quarterback, but I think if Ford and Carter had had one more debate, I would have gotten 51 percent of the vote, plus Oregon and Ohio."

"I know you didn't win," I said, "but you can take some satisfaction in knowing you affected the election."

"What do you mean?" "Well, if you had achieved a large non-turnout, Ford could have beaten Carter. The polls were predicting that a low turnout would favor the Republicans, while a large turnout would help the Democrats."

"It wasn't my intention to help either one of the candidates. I was in this for myself. It was my dream that people would be talking about Apathy for the next four years. I single-handedly turned them off on government, and I thought the voters would stay that way."

"You don't sound very gracious about losing."

"Would you be if you were the laughingstock of the country? Well, I hope you're all satisfied. You won't have Apathy to kick around any more."

40 Years Ago Today

November 12, 1936
High New Dealers appeared today to have adopted a policy of watchful waiting with regard to current demands from some quarters for constitutional amendment and revival of such experiments as AAA and NRA.

They seemed determined to await future events and further crystallization of public opinion before going into action with any broad program.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told reporters late yesterday that despite recent demands from a group of farm organizations heads that AAA crop control be revived, the administration would not ask the new Congress for control legislation.

Wallace left no doubt, however, that he personally believes future events will make "just about everybody in the United States" favor "some kind of production control."

Despite the call of farm leaders for reenactment of the AAA system of curbing production, Wallace said drought and high prices this year had led many farmers to desire unrestricted production next year.

It would be a good thing from a long range view if they got their desire, he argued, because the piled up surpluses that would result under normal weather conditions would depress prices and evoke a new and stronger demand for federal control.

REFINERIES CAN'T COPE

Coming, Too Much Oil

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians who remember the long lines, short tempers and nippy nights caused by the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo may be surprised to learn that a new problem is looming: too much oil.

It's not that there have been any major new finds. The difficulty, according to oilmen, government planners and private analysts, is that West Coast refineries will be unable to handle up to half of the 1.2 million barrels of crude oil per day expected from the Alaska pipeline when it opens late next year.

Ironically, it was the reactions of the public, business and the government to the five-month embargo that led in part to the anticipated oil glut. Oil men say consumption declined after the embargo because of higher prices and conservation measures. They say this in turn discouraged them from investing in new refineries.

"You only build refineries because you have demand for the products they produce," says Robert Schaadt, vice president of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio), which owns 54 per cent of the reserves in Alaska's rich Prudhoe Bay field.

Governmental reaction to the embargo came in the form of Project Independence, designed to reduce this country's dependence on imported oil. One part of the project was the opening of the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve near Taft to commercial production for the first time, a move which added 200,000 barrels a day to the West Coast's supply.

The Midwest and East Coast could use the Alaskan crude, but the oil companies haven't figured out exactly how to get it there. Although there are several proposed connector pipelines, none exists now. Tankers are another possibility, but oilmen say there aren't enough to handle the surplus.

Another option is an exchange with Japan whereby the Japanese would get some of the Alaskan crude in return for diverting some of their Middle Eastern oil shipments to the U.S. However, congress prohibited such a swap when it approved construction of the Alaska pipeline in 1973, and oilmen say privately that such an exchange would face severe political opposition.

Atlantic Richfield (ARCO), which owns 20 per cent of the Prudhoe Bay reserves, EXXON also owns 20 per cent, with the remaining six per cent split among a number of companies), says it doesn't anticipate problems in refining its share of the Alaskan crude.

"We feel we can handle all or oil," says ARCO Vice Chairman Louis Davis. "We have a refinery in Washington, which we designed for Alaskan crude, that will handle 100,000 barrels a day, and another in southern California. So we feel we're pretty well equipped to take care of our approximately 20 per cent."

However, Sohio, with the lion's share of the oil, is seeking approval to ship its crude by tanker to Long Beach, where it would be shipped east to Midland, Texas, via a proposed 1,000-mile pipeline. From Midland, the oil would go through existing pipelines to the Midwest.

The project would require converting about 800 miles of existing natural gas pipeline for use as a crude oil carrier and constructing 200 miles of new lines. Sohio says the project could handle almost all of the surplus oil and could be ready in less than 18 months. However, it has come under attack from the state Air Resources Board, which says the tankers and tanks needed for the oil shipments would add some 40 tons of hydrocarbons a day to the air.

Sohio disputes the ARB figures and points to a recent study done by the Port of

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

The recent split decision by the North Carolina Court of Appeals, in the case of Dr. Andrew A. Best, has a much more far reaching effect on the routine practice of medicine than most people realize. It also represents a serious blow against the public welfare.

In the wake of this decision, every doctor in our state is intimidated and restrained in the exercise of his professional judgment. The public suffers when every patient must be considered as a potential "agent" and cannot be accepted in good faith. The extra laboratory tests, and other precautions do not improve the quality of medical care, but significantly increase the cost to the patient.

In writing the majority opinion, Judge Earl Vaughn said "A practitioner who distributes for other than a legitimate medical purpose . . . has no more exemption under the law than an illicit street vendor." This was not a point of contention at all in the Best case, and bears no relevance to the defense position. The court majority apparently overlooked the fact that the original prescription was found to have a legitimate medical purpose. Since a refill is only an extension of the original prescription, how can the conclusion be drawn that it has any different purpose? The majority opinion apparently did not address itself to this critical question.

The dissenting opinion written by Judge Edward B. Clark made sense. He wrote that "Best could reasonably assume without further examination that the prescribed drug had been effective in the treatment of the patient, and that refilling the prescription was justifiable under the circumstances." Here's hoping that this position is sustained by the high court.

Growing Doubts Over NYSE

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the numerical signs of the times, the price of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange is among the most easily read. In 1969 a seat cost $515,000; this week, $50,000.

For those who own seats this is indeed depressing, especially because the end may not be in sight. The direction continues downward, and with it the hopes and some of the fortunes of this rich man's club.

The stock market just isn't what it was, either for investors or brokers. Individual participation lacks the enthusiasm of the 1960s, and the number of brokers has shrunk as individual commissions dwindled.

In today's atmosphere, the opportunity to transact customer business on the most important stock exchange in the world doesn't offer the financial potential it once did, and nothing is better understood on the Street than the potential for profit.

More important than any other single reason is another factor of consuming interest to people on the Street—the future. Nobody knows what role the exchange will play in the Washington-mandated central market system.

"Who can say what shape it will take," said an exchange man. "Nobody knows how much authority will remain in New York."

The central market that is being pressed by regulatory officials is amorphous at the moment. The techniques of funneling into one integrated system the activities of various stock exchanges hasn't been worked out.

One thing is very clear: regulators are seeking more "access." That is, they want to make available to the public the most stocks at the best prices, no matter on which exchange they are currently listed.

"There is a question," said the exchange man, "whether a seat will mean anything." Will the number of seats remain limited to 1,366? Or will Big Board membership be thrown open to all?

If the latter course is taken, the privileged position of being a member of the exchange—entitled to transact business there for a commission—would cease to exist. The old club would in effect be dismantled.

Last June the exchange board of governors created a committee to study the matter of access to its market, and to examine the concept of membership.

Last Thursday a preliminary report was released, advocating membership on the basis of an annual fee. All qualified, registered broker-dealers would be eligible for membership by paying an annual fee of $13,500 to $25,000.

The study committee also suggested creation of more permanent memberships, as opposed to those who would join only for a year at a time. If their suggestion is accepted, it would mean the first enlargement since 1953.

RELIGION OF JOY

Usually we are inclined to think of religion in solemn and lugubrious terms. Because it involves sacrifice, we conclude that across the religious life there constantly falls the shadow of denial and secret bitterness. But this is not true. Religion fills people with a variety of happiness which nothing else can confer.

A great heritage of joy has come down to us in our religion. The Bible from beginning to end bids mankind to rejoice. Words connoting cheerfulness, hopefulness, and joy appear continually in the gospel. These words are the unmistakable sign and seal of the fact that the first thing that happens to a man's heart when it is delivered into God's hands is that it takes on new gladness. It is filled with satisfaction immeasurably above any satisfaction the world confers.

The religion Jesus founded is a religion of joy. "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes" is a promise.

Appointees Talk Court Action

By DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some federal employes who oversee billions of dollars in Farmers Home Administration loans and grants are thinking about going to court to keep their Republican-appointed jobs after Jimmy Carter's administration takes over.

So-called "Schedule C" employes, who are all politically appointed, have no protection and are almost automatically fired or voluntarily quit when administrations change.

The FmHA state directors are in a "Schedule A" that lies between the between the career civil service and the Schedule C categories.

But traditionally, their jobs are filled by the political party in the White House. An agency spokesman said all the present directors were appointed during the past eight years of Republican rule.

The FmHA directors reportedly are looking for protection to a U.S. Supreme Court decision last June that, in effect, said certain public employes cannot be fired solely for political reasons.

The case involved the firing of some Republican employes in the Cook County, Ill., sheriff's office who were not protected by civil service. The court held that their constitutional rights were violated.

But the court said that employes in "policy-making positions" of government could be fired for political reasons.

The FmHA makes loans to farmers and other rural residents who, basically, do not qualify for regular bank or other private credit. It also makes loans and grants to small towns and rural communities for projects like water and sewer systems and industrial development.

In fiscal 1976, the agency provided almost $5.4 billion to farmers and rural residents through its financing programs.

Seeking To Collect On UPS Strike Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dissident Teamsters group has gone to court to collect strike benefits that it claims the union is withholding from 18,000 members currently striking the United Parcel Service along the Eastern Seaboard.

PROD, the Professional Drivers Council, said the union has illegally refused to pay workers a $10-a-week increase in strike benefits voted by the union's convention in June, thus depriving the strikers of an additional $1.3 million as of Thursday.

The council filed a class action suit in Washington D.C. Superior Court Thursday.

PROD charged this was "one more example of the exercise of absolutist authority by the Teamster leadership who arrogated themselves to dictate to their members."

Meanwhile, sources close to bargaining talks in the UPS strike indicate a settlement could be reached by next week.

Negotiations with representatives of UPS and the Federal Mediation Service have been in progress since Oct. 18. The dispute began Sept. 15.

The strike has shut down UPS operations in 15 states, from Maine to South Carolina and caused long delays in package deliveries. Many businesses have switched shipments to the U.S. Postal Service, resulting in backups at government facilities despite added overtime and the hiring of extra help to handle the crush.

In its suit, PROD said the convention, in an amendment to the union's constitution, increased weekly strike benefits from $25 to $35 during the first weeks of any strike and from $35 to $45 after the fifth week.

PROD said amendments become effective on adoption unless a particular date is specified. A memo from Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons and Secretary-Treasurer Ray Schoessling, dated July 9, announced that the higher strike benefits would not become effective until Nov. 1, and then would apply only to strikes beginning after that date, PROD said.

A union spokesman declined comment on the suit.

Denies Writing Extortion Note

ATLANTA (AP) — A man accused of writing an extortion note demanding $300,000 from Eastern Air Lines testified Thursday that the note may have been written by his chief accuser or by a man he knew as J. Goldstein.

Dr. Luther Ashley, a psychologist of Anderson, S.C., said in his trial in U.S. District Court that he was involved in a "double your money" investment scheme headed by Goldstein. Ashley said he invested as much as $100,000 through Goldstein, but said he knew very little about the man.

Authorities say they have been unable to locate Goldstein. Ashley's attorney also said the note may have been written by 24-year-old Loren Ralph Fossum of Anderson, S.C., who has pleaded guilty and is testifying for the prosecution.

Fossum testified he accompanied Ashley to Atlanta, where the note was delivered, and saw Ashley's draft of the extortion note.

But Ashley said he came to Atlanta that day to arrange payment of $35,000 he owed to codefendant John Franklin Roper, 26, of Union City, S.C., in the investment scheme.

Roper, who authorities say was the man who picked up the payoff package at the airport in Greenville, S.C., says he was Ashley's innocent dupe.

Roper's attorney said Ashley told him the package contained the $35,000 owed him.

Roper never did get the $35,000 owed him, Ashley said.

Long Beach in conjunction with the state Public Utilities Commission which says the increased hydrocarbon emissions would come to about 1.5 tons per day.

Don Bright, director of environmental affairs for the port, says the ARB figures assume that tankers will "purge" or clean, their oil tanks while still in the harbor. Bright says a common practice is to purge tanks at sea. Sohio also says it is willing to pay for pollution controls on other emission sources in the Long Beach area in order to offset the tanker emissions and ensure that there is no overall deterioration in air quality.

Whatever means of getting rid of the oil are found, analysts say the problem of a West Coast surplus isn't going to go away soon. They point out that the spow from the Prudhoe Bay is expected to reach 1.8 million barrels a day in 1981. One study by James D. Hickey, oil and oil services analyst with the stock brokerage firm of Stern, Frank, Mayer & Fox, projects a 714,000 barrel a day surplus on the West Coast in 1981.

In addition, a number of oil companies are drilling off the coasts of California and Alaska, areas generally considered to be among the richest potential oil fields in the world. If there is a major strike, that production would come on top of the currently projected surplus.

All these factors make it impossible to determine "the amount or duration of the surplus," says Robert Wycoff, ARCO vice president for corporate planning.

"You have to guess if we'll be successful in the Gulf of Alaska or offshore California," says Wycoff. "You have to guess, on the consumption side, if nuclear power is going to be acceptable, or if we'll have to build oil-fired plants to replace nuclear plants."

Despite the surplus on the West Coast, oil executives point out that the United States is, and will remain, an oil-importing nation. And they claim they're having a little difficulty in persuading the public of the potential problems of an oil glut.

"After the embargo," says Schaadt, "I think it is very difficult for people to believe we could ever have a surplus anywhere."

FAT AND PROUD—Karen Jones, 28 years old and 340 pounds, is fat and proud of it. "I have a happy life. I have no desire to diet," said the member of the board of directors of the National Association to Aid Fat Americans. Her 145-pound fiancé, Darryl Scott, left, of Andover, Conn., says "If Karen dieted I would break her neck." (AP Wirephoto)

NATIONALLY KNOWN SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN GREENVILLE

GREENVILLE (Spec.) United States Reading Lab will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Greenville area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life. In just 4 weeks the average student should be reading 4-5 times faster. In a few months some students are reading 20-30 times faster attaining speeds that approach 6000 words per minute. In rare instances speeds of up to 13,000 wpm have been documented.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the course with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend any of the meetings for information about the Greenville classes.

These orientations are open to the public, above age 14, (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible).

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging accelerating world then this course is an absolute necessity.

These special one-hour lectures will be held at the following times and places.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — A mixture of snow and rain is forecast for today in the Southwest. Snow is also expected for the Northeast. Cold weather is due in most areas with mild temperatures in the Pacific Northwest. (AP Wirephoto)

By The Associated Press
The first general snow of the season in the northwest North Carolina mountains left accumulations of up to two inches Thursday night and early today.

Mostly rain fell elsewhere in the state during the night. There was a chance of snow flurries in the mountains today. It was clearing elsewhere. It will be sunny Saturday.

A travelers advisory for the northwest mountains was discontinued early this morning when the mixture of rain and snow diminished to flurries.

However, motorists were cautioned that mountain roads were slick.

It continues cold. Highs today ranged from the 30s in the northern mountains to the 50s on the lower coast. That also will be the range Saturday.

Overnight lows will range from the upper teens and low 20s in the mountains to the low and mid 40s on the Outer Banks.

Woolly worms — 623 of the fuzzy, caterpillar-like creatures — predict a severe early winter in the South, a long midwinter period of mildness, and a brief cold snap at the end.

That's the interpretation of the color bands on specimens at the Center for Woolly Worm Study at Appalachian State University in Boone.

The center has been testing the age-old mountain folklore that wider orange bands foretell a mild winter and wider black bands mean a severe one.

A biologist at the university, Doctor Sandra Glover, says this year's forecast is not as clear-cut as usual. About half the specimens have spotty segments with mixed bristles of orange and black.

The National Weather Service has predicted an unusually cold winter in Dixie.

Skies were sunny Thursday. Temperatures warmed into the 60s across most of the state. Jacksonville and Wilmington reached 70.

Cloudiness began increasing in the west late in the afternoon and overspread the state during the night.

Rain and snow moved into the mountains early in the night. Rain spread eastward across most of the state during the night. The snow was confined mainly to the higher elevations.

Overnight lows ranged from the mid 30s to low 40s west to the 40s in the east.

Small-craft advisories are in effect for strong northeast winds and rough seas on the coast and the sounds.

Specialist At Gathering

During her four days in California, Miss Lambie will meet with leaders of several Toy Library programs. She has directed the establishment of a Toy Library Loan program in cooperation with several child care operations in Greenville.

Strict Views Reaffirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Catholic Church's traditional, strict stand on sexual conduct and related matters was reaffirmed by the National Council of Catholic Bishops.

The council adopted a "pastoral letter on moral values" Thursday that opposes divorce, abortion as well as other forms of birth control, sexual intercourse outside of marriage, and declares that homosexuality is a moral wrong.

Some bishops denounced the document as lacking in understanding and compassion, pedantic and not sufficiently "pastoral." They said it would do more harm than good. But after lengthy debate, their attempt to delay approval was turned back by a 162 to 65 vote. The letter itself was adopted 172 to 25.

On divorce the letter says, "some would even urge the church to acknowledge such a dissolution and allow parties to enter new, more promising unions. We reject this view."

The letter also says, "Sexual intercourse is a moral and human good only within marriage; outside marriage it is wrong."

THE FIRST DOLLAR EARNED

Today Donald arrived. Not at the zenith of success. Just at the threshold of opportunity. He made his first dollar... and put it where it will keep on working for his future.

Up to now Donald has depended on an allowance. That means living on money given. Now Donald will be moving toward financial independence. That means living on what you have earned.

Spiritually we arrive the same way. Our parents, if they are wise and caring parents, give us faith. They bring us to church. They encourage our Christian growth. They set moral standards in an atmosphere of religious conviction.

On the day that we do arrive... we begin providing for our spiritual needs voluntarily! Only then are we ready to be spiritually independent. That means living by the faith you have gained.

Ultimately we have to make our own decisions about our principles and convictions. There is no substitute for early religious training in preparing for that day.

Huge, Yacht-Sinking Waves Can Pop Up 'In A Flash'

RIDING ON THE RIVER—Miss World contestants, from left, Levana Abarbanel, 17, of Israel; Carol Grant, 19, of England; Antonella Lombroso of Italy; Karen Jo Pini, 19, of Australia; and Kimberlee Marro Foley, from Southfield, Mich., sail past London's

Houses of Parliament as they take a sight-seeing tour on the Thames Thursday. The Miss World competition takes place in London on Nov. 18. (AP Wirephoto)

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — Huge, dangerous waves can "Pop up on you in a flash out there" in the Atlantic off the North Carolina coast, says a Coast Guard spokesman in commenting on the sinking of the luxurious motor yacht Lady Margaret.

And the captain of the 106-foot yacht valued at $1.3 million, Richard Stevenson, 38, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., says she broke up in 20-foot waves while weather forecasts were indicating mild seas.

The eight survivors spent nearly five hours on a life raft Tuesday night and early Wednesday before a Coast Guard helicopter picked them up. The ninth person on the yacht, Thomas Edwin Morgan, 27, of Ossining, N.Y., did not make it to the raft, and drowned. He was a cerebral palsy victim who had a cast on one leg from recent surgery.

Stevenson said the others saw Mogan leave the ship, but lost track of him momentarily in the frantic bid for survival. The raft was small enough to rise and fall with the waves. Not so the Lady Margaret, on which President Franklin D. Roosevelt was a frequent guest while she was owned by a governor of Maryland. Her latest owner was John McGoff, president of Global Communications and Panax Newspapers of Lansing, Mich. Morgan, who drowned, was a nephew of Robert Lieppardt, vice president of Global.

The Lady Margaret was on a trip from Detroit to Miami. She was built in 1928 and had a teak hull and decks.

"The seas were 20 feet, and that's really measuring from the middle," Stevenson, the captain, said. "From the crest to the trough was like 40 feet. The waves were like barns coming down on us."

The Lady Margaret sank 30 miles south-southeast of Cape Fear, N.C.

Winds were clocked at the boat as high as 50 knots, Stevenson said.

A National Weather Service spokesman said small-craft warnings were issued about 10:30 Tuesday night because of winds gusting to 40 knots. But he said the forecast called for waves of only two to four feet along the coast because westerly winds do not normally sustain high waves.

He said the giant waves cascaded down on the ship, "broke everything on top apart and began filling the ship with water."

Stevenson made his comments in a telephone interview with The Associated Press from the home of Southport attorney Douglas Ledge after being hospitalized briefly for minor injuries and shock.

Stevenson said he radioed the Coast Guard station at Oak Island when the trouble began shortly after 11 p.m. A Coast Guard plane circled overhead as the ship fought to stay afloat. But the crew was unable to retrieve pumps dropped from the plane.

Instruments on aboard caught fire shortly before the decision was made to abandon ship.

"We were ready," Stevenson said. "Everyone was dressed and in lifejackets. When it became obvious it wasn't going to stay afloat, we got out the life raft."

Voters Reject Increase In Tax; Schools Closing

By TOM DIEMER Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The schoolhouse doors have been closed to nearly 10,000 Ohio children because three school districts have run out of money.

And three other districts, including Toledo, are slated to close by the end of next month, which would bring the number of affected children to 70,000.

The unscheduled vacations were made necessary when voters in the six districts last week rejected higher property tax levies necessary to keep the schools solvent.

Unless an emergency plan is worked out in the interim, officials said the schools will remain closed until the new year, when fresh state aid funds become available.

The Ohio situation is similar to that in Oregon, where one district with 2,600 pupils has been closed since Oct. 15 and two others with more than 6,000 pupils are preparing to close because voters refused to approve higher tax levies. The districts are forbidden by state law from accumulating a deficit by spending money they don't have.

John Hall, chief lobbyist for the 80,000-member state Education Association, said the problem stemmed from the districts' failure to provide enough funding for education.

"They are broke because they haven't matched state money," he said.

A bill pending in the legislature would allow Columbus Groveport to reopen if voters approve a higher tax rate in a special election set for early December. The bill permits immediate borrowing, waiving a 30-day waiting period.

Rep. George Tablack, D-Youngstown, who opposes the measure, said, "We're going to bail out one school district; think of the Pandora's Box we're opening up."

A sponsor of the bill, Rep. James Bauman, D-Columbus, said, "He says we're talking about one school district, I say we're talking about 7,000 boys and girls who are not in school."

Little Choice But To Grant Execution Wish

By DAVID BRISCOE Associated Press Writer SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Board of Pardons may have little choice when it meets next Wednesday but to grant killer Gary Mark Gilmore's request to die before a firing squad, the board chairman has indicated.

"If a person comes there and says he doesn't want it (clemency) and no reason is presented to us for it, what can we do?" said George Latimer, chairman of the three-member board to which Gov. Calvin L. Rampton sent the case Thursday after staying an execution scheduled for Monday.

In a letter to Latimer, Rampton, who leaves office in January, said he wanted the board at Wednesday's public hearing to "review the decision of the trial judge" to determine whether capital punishment would be "appropriate."

Utah law does not grant the governor clemency powers, and Rampton, an acknowledged supporter of capital punishment, made no recommendation Thursday in delaying the execution.

Gilmore, 35, has said repeatedly he wants no delay in carrying out his death sentence for the murder of Provo motel clerk Bennie Bushnell during a robbery last July. When told of Rampton's action Thursday, Gilmore complained he was being subjected to "cruel, unusual and inhuman punishment."

Latimer, who opposed the death penalty as civilian defense counsel at Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s court-martial for the My Lai massacre, said the board does not concern itself with the question of whether Utah's death penalty law is constitutional.

If the sentence is not commuted, Corrections officials said mid-December would probably be the earliest Gilmore could meet his executioners.

Utah requires a 30-day lapse between sentence and execution. But it was unclear whether the 30-day rule would apply to a resentencing.

The governor acted after the Utah Supreme Court first stayed the execution and then, on Wednesday, reversed itself when it heard an unusual personal appeal from Gilmore to end the delays so he could "die like a man." Rampton said he felt the state constitution required him to intercede.

Gilmore would be the first man executed in the United States since 1967, and many of the more than 400 death-row inmates around the country fear the consequences of his rush to death.

Prison officials refused to allow Gilmore to hold a news conference Thursday night and said reporters would not be told in advance the location of the execution nor be allowed to witness it.

Warden Samuel Smith of the Utah State Prison and Ernest D. Wright, the state corrections director, said at a news conference the secrecy also would apply to names of five men on the firing squad. Smith has said more than two dozen persons have volunteered for the squad.

ANOTHER ONE — Robert Excel White, sentenced to die in the electric chair for a murder in 1974, has asked a district court judge in McKinney, Tex., to set the earliest possible execution date. White told the judge he "doesn't deserve forgiveness" for the triple slaying at a grocery store in McKinney. The judge set Dec. 10 for the execution. (AP Wirephoto)

Edmisten Is Rewriting

RALEIGH (AP) — Even though there has been no legislative request for it yet, the state Department of Justice will rewrite the "outlaw statute" to make it constitutional, Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten said Thursday.

The old law, written more than 100 years ago, authorized state courts to designate fugitives charged with felonies as outlaws. It was struck down by a three-judge federal panel Oct. 14. The court ruled that the outlaw designation amounted to a license for the public to kill.

The stricken outlaw statute did not provide due process or equal protection under the law to the fugitives, the court ruled.

Edmisten said he anticipates a legislative request for a constitutionally correct version of the law and that's why he was instructing his staff to draw up a new fugitive from justice statute.

The federal court's decision was not appealed because it was unanimous "and it is very unlikely that the Supreme Court of the United States would overturn the decision." Also, he said, an appeal is time consuming.

Edmisten said that "while I know of no instance in which the 'outlaw statute' was used in an unconstitutional manner, some of the language of this statute, which was written over 100 years ago, is broad enough to permit abuse."

The new legislation "will encompass all the safeguards required by the court," he said.

Hopes Preserve Old Attributes

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — The chancellor of North Carolina A&T State University says the nation can ill-afford to return to a segregated dual system of black exclusiveness on some college campuses and white exclusiveness on others.

"But there should be ways within the framework of integration to preserve the valuable attributes of those institutions which have historically served the minority communities," Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy said in remarks prepared for today's keynote address at the National Bicentennial Research Symposium.

"Integration is a two-way street," said Dowdy. "It is nothing less than hypocrisy to brand traditionally black colleges as segregated when a significant proportion of their faculties and student bodies are non-black, and at the same time, the non-black colleges have student bodies which are 95 per cent white and faculties which are 99 per cent white."

Dowdy said a major need for the predominantly black colleges is expanded funding for research and extension.

"As the research capability of each of these institutions is developed, it constitutes a much more potent force in searching for answers we need to open the way to a better life," said Dowdy.

He said in just four years since they began receiving significant research funds, the predominantly black 1890 colleges have developed 67 important research programs, many with national priorities.

"The involvement in research will provide an opportunity for our best minds to become involved as leaders in the initial planning and selection of the imminent problems for a state or a nation," said Dowdy.

Participated In Workshop

Drs. Joseph A. Hill and R.B. Keusch of the East Carolina University School of Business faculty participated in the recent Midwestern Case Research Association Workshop at Bloomington, Ind.

The two were selected to present cases they have written based on actual field research with medium-sized business firms in eastern North Carolina.

At the Indiana gathering, the ECU research cases and others were discussed as potential teaching aids. The teaching of business through analysis of real-life cases has been shown to be an effective educational vehicle.

The workshop, hosted by Indiana University, was supported by the Intercollegiate Case Clearing House based at the Harvard Business School.

Drs. Hill and Keusch also participated in a case research workshop in New Orleans last year.

Forest Fires From Electric Fencing

According to Pitt County Ranger, Mark Webb, electric fences are becoming a more recognized cause of forest fires. In an eight county area, electric fences are suspected to have started 29 fires from 1973 to now—nearly eight times more fires than lightning started.

This increase in forest fires can be attributed to several reasons. Primarily because there are so many more electric fences today than years ago. They are being used more and more in pastures and in woodlands. When dead grasses and weeds get dry enough and touch these fences, it is possible for the weeds and grass to become ignited and start a fire.

"Most all of the fires can be prevented, but a few simple guidelines must be followed. Probably the most important thing is to purchase UL inspected fence wire if at all possible. Plow safety lines, if possible. Plow safety lines or disc lines along fence right-of-ways to ensure a fire break. Check and maintain your fence periodically to ensure no weeds or grasses have grown up or are in contact with the electric wire," County Ranger Webb said.

Dr. Wm. Martin Named To Bd.

Dr. William B. Martin, professor in the school of Education, East Carolina University, has been elected to the board of directors for the National Association for Retarded Children for a three year term, representing North and South Carolina.

Dr. Martin's election as a national director came at the annual meeting in Indianapolis. He has served the past three years as a member of the association's committee on education. He was North Carolina president of the Association for Retarded Children in 1969.

'Final Notice' On One Cent Bill

NIAGARA FALLS, Canada (AP) — When Antonette Ignagni got a bill threatening to turn off her electricity unless she paid by Nov. 10, she went right to the Canada Imperial Bank of Commerce and plunked down the cash.

The one-cent billing from the Niagara Falls Hydro Commission was labeled final notice. "She paid it to be on the safe side," her son said.

Win Over Furman Would Clinch Southern Conference Title For Bucs

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

When it comes to East Carolina-Furman football games you can throw everything out the window. It's always a slam-bang affair.

This year's meeting on Saturday at Greenville, S.C., promises to be no different. For East Carolina, the game is a chance to wrap up the 1976 Southern Conference championship. For Furman it is a chance to play the spoiler—and feather its cap.

"This game is going to be won along the offensive line," Coach Pat Dye, looking for his first title, said. "If our line can control their defense, then I think we'll win it. If not, then we're in trouble."

Dye added that the Pirate line was banged up quite a bit in the Richmond game last week, but he has every hope that they'll be back up to their usual game come Saturday afternoon.

But Dye is also worried about some other things. "Silly mistakes nearly beat us last week. We've got to cut these down." Those silly mistakes included four lost fumbles and an interception. Two of those fumbles cost the Pirates touchdowns, while another mistake, a penalty, cost the Pirates another score late in the game.

"I don't know what to do about it," Dye said. "I guess we've just got to keep on playing and hope they quit. I know we're getting our share of turnovers. All teams are having a lot of them this year. We've had a couple of games where we didn't have any. Maybe this week will be another of those. I'd certainly like to hope so, anyway. I don't want to worry about it, though. If I do, then the players might, and that could be disastrous."

Dye classifies Furman as a very dangerous team—as they always are when playing the Pirates. And this is despite a 10-game Buc winning streak. "Everything in the game is in their favor except possibly that we can win the title if we win the game. And even that may work in their favor, too. They've had an extra week to get ready for us, and they did a great job in stopping the wishbone against Appalachian State."

Furman has made a lot of its gains on the ground, rushing for 2342 yards this year. They've passed for 974, and can be very dangerous in this respect also. "They've got a strong runner in Harry King," Dye pointed out, "and an excellent quarterback in David Whitehurst. Angus Poole is a great tight end, and Tommy Southard is one heck of a flanker."

"They have good defensive personnel too. Tommy Marshall is an outstanding strong safety, and Mark Gordon is a real good cornerback. Larry Anderson is one of the top linebackers in the conference, and their middle guard, Frank Moses is real good. They have an excellent kicking game and their middle guard, Frank Moses is real good. They have an excellent kicking game and their return man, Jimmy Kiser, is one of the best around."

Dye looks for a typical Southern Conference game. "It's going to be a cutting, slashing, kill-or-get-killed type of game," he said.

"But I'll tell you, I sure would like to wind it up this week. Then we could play next week's game

(at home with Appalachian State) for fun."

Furman and East Carolina both have the top offensive teams in the Southern. The Pirates are rushing for 298.1 yards a game, and passing for 59.9 per game, a total of 358 a contest. Furman has rushed for 260.2 per game, passed for 106.2, for a net of 366.4 per contest.

On defense, the Bucs are allowing just 105.4 yards on the ground and 101.7 through the air, a total of 207.1. Furman is giving up 177.0 on the ground and 94.3 through the air, 271.3 per game.

King is the leading rusher for the Paladins with 650 yards, but there are six others with more than 100 yards. Kent Woerner has rushed for 362, Whitehurst for 347, and Larry Robinson for 331, to list the top ones.

Whitehurst has hit 75 of 143 passes for 862 yards and five touchdowns. He's had 11 picked off. Southard is the leading receiver with 33 catches for 423 yards. Poole has caught 12 for 191 yards.

East Carolina's rushing is led by Eddie Hicks with 729, while Willie Hawkins has 650, Raymond Jones had 495 and Mike Weaver, 407. Weaver has hit 31 of 67 passes for 495 yards and two scores. Terry Gallaher has caught 13 passes for 217 yards.

It all boils down to a class between two strong offenses, but it is likely to be a low scorer. Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m.

Center Tim Hightower

Hightower Rises Over Adversity

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rising over adversity is the theme of many football coaches in their after-dinner speeches to sports banquets at high schools across the land.

But if a football coach wanted to have a prime example of someone who rises above adversity, he might want to take along East Carolina center Tim Hightower. In fact, he might just let him make the talk.

Hightower, a senior, has had some adversity this year. Just a few weeks ago, his father, in poor health for some time, died. Shortly afterwards, his home on Saint Simons Island, Ga., was vandalized. His automobile was wrecked in an accident.

And that's been just part of Tim's problems. Earlier in his career, he missed the first part of the season due to illness, then was injured in the first — and only — game he played that year. For it, however, he received this year as an extra one in eligibility.

But none of it has dulled his bright outlook on life. "I guess all seniors have a certain amount of problems to handle. They are different for everyone, and you have to handle them individually," he said.

"A lot has happened this year, and I'm working hard to graduate too. A lot is demanded of you and at times, you get a little tired of the challenge, but you still want to do your best," Hightower said.

"You have to have a good philosophy to be able to smile and go on. I guess it's easier to fall back and get down, but I don't believe in that."

A very religious person, Hightower feels that football has done much for him. "It's taught me to go and do the best I can and that after that I can't do any more. I may fall short of the ultimate goals, but I can take pride in doing the best I could."

Hightower does have some goals for the year. "We (the seniors) all want to be the tops in the Southern Conference. We wanted to win 11 games, but that's gone. Still 10-1 isn't bad."

"Then I guess I want to do the best I can in my classwork, graduate and find something that I want to do and be happy in. I haven't found my little niche yet, but I hope the good Lord gives me the capacity to recognize it when it comes."

Hightower said teammate Clay Burnett has been a big influence on him. "He's a devout Christian, and he tries to guide people in life. I'm not in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, but only because I don't feel that I can put enough time into it at this point. I think it is something that deserves as much time as you can give it."

Still, Tim stays busy. He works with the Special Olympics programs, and with the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center. At ECU, he's majoring in Parks, Recreation and Conservation Administration.

Hightower has two — possibly three — games left in his collegiate career. "I guess I'll miss it, but not the game itself. I'm going to miss the people connected with it. The football family: my teammates and the coaches. I know it will be over soon, and I accept this."

Tim also feels that as a senior, the desire to win may be a little stronger. "It's not so much to win these last two or three for us (the seniors), but for what it can do for the total program. Things like the football stadium, the rising freshmen, and the like."

With players like Hightower, East Carolina can't help but be successful — now and in the future.

Wilcox Rallies For Second Win In N.C. Open

By KEN ALYTA
AP Sports Writer

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Terry Wilcox, winner of his second North Carolina Open golf tournament in three years, by a whopping six stroke margin on a 215 total, actually was one shot behind with 11 holes to play Thursday.

He had cause for concern after blowing a three-shot lead he had opened up over Ben Balentine with birdies on the first two holes.

Wilcox, 38-year-old pro from Greensboro's Cardinal Golf Club, and Balentine, 25-year-old assistant at Charlotte's Myers Park Country Club, had begun the final round tied for the lead on 36-hole totals of 143.

Buck Adams, tobacco chewing veteran from Pinehurst, was one shot behind. He was paired with Wilcox in the last foursome, just behind Balentine and his group.

Adams quickly buried his hopes in the sand on the first two holes of the Carmel Country Club's 6,600-yard, par 72 South course. He turned in 44, one under his age, en route to an 80.

Meanwhile, Wilcox, after six- and 35-foot putts for opening birdies, bogied the next two holes after being trapped. On the fourth, he executed a difficult bunker shot nicely only to miss his five-foot par putt.

After he three-putted No. 6 for another bogey, he admitted, "That's when I became concerned. I don't make a whole lot of long putts, but usually I put the short ones well. I found it hard to judge speeds on the inconsistent greens."

He scrambled back into the lead, however, with pars on Nos. 8 and 9 after Balentine had bogeyed both.

Wilcox went on to birdie No. 11 from five feet and 12 from 15 feet to lead by three, but three-putted No. 13.

The tournament turned around on the 580-yard 16th, where Balentine, after six straight pars, made eight against a birdie four by Wilcox. That put him six shots ahead.

Balentine said later, "Sure, I was going for a birdie. No use finishing second."

He drove out of bounds on that hole and then put a ball into the water.

They both bogeyed the short 17th and parred the long 18th.

Celtics Go On Without Cowens

BOSTON (AP) — With All-Star center Dave Cowens still in seclusion while on a non-paid leave of absence "for personal reasons," the Boston Celtics plan to employ their new 1-2-3 punch tonight in a National Basketball Association game against the New Orleans Jazz.

The Celtics withstood the shock of Cowens' unexpected departure and snapped a four-game losing streak with a 117-112 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Wednesday night at the Garden.

Cowens was quoted in a copyrighted story in the Boston Herald American today as saying he left the team to "do all the things I haven't been able to do over the last 10 years."

"I've created quite a stir, I know, but I had to do the right thing. It just got to a point where I felt guilty taking my salary from the Celtics."

"I just wasn't making a contribution or helping the team, I had no motivation or enthusiasm," he was quoted as saying.

Veteran sharpshooter Jo Jo White, sounding the old theatrical theme "the show must go on," went out and scored 28 points against the Lakers.

One hour after the Celtics announced that Cowens had been granted his requested leave "for an indefinite period," Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn made a quick decision. To fill in for Cowens, and to go against 7-foot-3½ Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Heinsohn started seldom-used Jimmy Ard.

Then, Ard and pro sophomore Tommy Boswell were alternated at center, with forward Sidney Wicks moving into the pivot for brief duty. The strategy paid off, although Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points before fouling out late in the game. Ard scored six points, Boswell 14 and Wicks 21.

The 6-foot-8 Cowens was the key player as the Celtics won the NBA championship for the 12th and 13th times in 1974 and last May. He played Boston's first eight games this season, then asked for the sabbatical.

"I guess he (Cowens) thought his personal game wasn't up to what it should be, that he couldn't give what he wanted to give," White said. "He is such a competitor that would bother him."

Although concerned, Heinsohn was not upset.

"Give him some time — he'll be back," the coach said optimistically.

Two Rookies Listed In Wolfpack Lineup

RALEIGH (AP) — Kenny Carr and two other veterans will be in the starting lineup Saturday at 6 p.m. when North Carolina State's basketball team faces its first opponent, the University of Windsor, in a preseason game.

Coach Norm Sloan has also listed veterans Glenn Studhop and Al Green plus first year Wolfpackers Tony Warren and Clyde Austin as starters. Sloan is going into his 11th year as head of the Wolfpack, a team he led to the national championship in 1974.

Windsor is in Canada, just across the border from Detroit. It is the Lancers' first visit to Reynolds Coliseum. The team is led by 6-foot 9 senior Charlie Pearshall and 6-foot-6 freshman Bob Oostveen.

Carr, a junior, was a member of the United States Olympic basketball team.

Little Agreement Between Pickers

There was very little change in the standings of our panel of experts last week. Everyone had the same record, except Joe Jenkins.

While the rest of us posted 8-4 marks, Jenkins came in with a 7-5 mark. That left him in a three-way tie for first place in the standings. Jenkins, at 71-33-4, is tied with George Holland and Tom Baines for first place.

Barbara Mathews is still in fourth with a 70-34-4 record, with Jack Whichard behind her at 69-35-4. We are next with a 66-38-4 record.

This week's results could see a lot of changes, however. No two cards are alike, so we can expect to see some shift in the standings as we begin the final drive to the wire.

There is only one high school football game on tap in our area, the 2-A playoff opener between Farmville Central and Williamston. That will be played on the Tigers home field.

The game is the second meeting of the two teams. Williamston earlier won, 26-8. Because of this, I rate Williamston coach Dink Mills as having one of the toughest jobs around; he has to convince his team that Farmville is not the same team they saw 10 weeks ago.

Our panel is picking this one, and there isn't a bit of agreement here. Three of us pick Williamston,

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

and three go with Farmville. It's that kind of game. East Carolina's Paladins travel to Greenville, S.C., to meet Furman's Paladins in a key Southern Conference game. The title is at stake for the Pirates, who can wrap up the 1976 crown with a victory over the Paladins. Should Furman triumph, it would take a win over Appalachian State next week.

Coach Pat Dye has said he'd rather play next week's game "just for fun." We agree. There is no argument among the panel. We all know that it's going to be a tough game, but we all stick with the Bucs.

Our other concensus picks find N.C. State over Duke; South Carolina over Wake Forest; Florida over Kentucky; Purdue and Iowa, a tossup; Maryland over Clemson; North Carolina over Virginia; William & Mary over The Citadel; Alabama over Notre Dame; LSU and Mississippi State, a tossup; and Tennessee over Mississippi.

Honeymoon Over For Nuggets; Braves Hand Denver First Loss

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer

Denver met one of the National Basketball Association's top stars for the first time Thursday night and its honeymoon in its new surroundings ended.

Bob McAdoo, the league's scoring leader each of the past three seasons, scored 22 points and pulled down 25 rebounds for Buffalo as the Braves handed Denver its first loss in nine NBA starts, 105-94. It was the fourth straight victory for Buffalo, 6-4, which got off to a slow start when McAdoo missed the first four games with back problems.

In other games, Atlanta edged Portland 107-105, San Antonio topped the New York Nets 108-104, Phoenix outscored Indiana 108-98, and Kansas City stopped Golden State 94-86.

NBA fans are seeing McAdoo, who had 19 defensive rebounds, and the Braves perform differently this season in their bid to dethrone Boston as Atlantic Conference champion.

"McAdoo is passing more," said Buffalo Coach Tates Locke. "And we are depending on contributions from the bench. Each of our reserves has to understand he might be a big hero one night and not play much the next night. If they can accept that we can win."

David Thompson, who was 14-for-25, led all scorers with 36 points for Denver. He hit his first six shots in the final quarter as the Nuggets cut a 15-point deficit to four.

And Thompson, who averaged 26 points per game as an American Basketball Association rookie last season, still is adjusting to his new role as a guard after performing at forward in college and last season.

"It's a little different," Thompson said. "You have to handle the ball more and try to set up other players too. At forward I was mainly trying to get myself open. I drove more to the basket and used my quickness to get there before the defense set up. Now I've got to pull up for a jumper and use a pick."

Hawks 107, Trailblazers 105
John Drew fired a 24-foot jump shot with three seconds left to snap Portland's five-game winning streak. The off-balance shot gave Drew 25 points, but veteran Lou Hudson led Atlanta with 33 points.

"He (Drew) took a very difficult shot and made it," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay.

Spurs 108, Nets 104
George Gervin scored 30 points and former Nets player Larry Kenon 29 as San Antonio won the battle of former ABA clubs. New York's John Williamson led all scorers with 31.

Suns 106, Pacers 98
A tight Phoenix defense forced Indiana to take many of its shots from 15 feet and beyond.

Six Phoenix players finished in double figures with Ricky Sobers and Paul Westphal leading the attack with 18 each. Westphal scored his points before leaving the game in the third period with a sore knee, but a team doctor said he would be available for the team's next game. Indiana's Billy Knight led all scorers with 24 points.

Kings 94, Warriors 86
"I can't go out and put the ball in the basket for them," said Warriors Coach Al Attles after his club dropped its fifth straight game and made only two of 17 shots in the last quarter.

"We had plenty of good shots, I can remember five layups. The ball just wouldn't go in," moaned Attles.

Ron Boone paced the Kings with 22 points. Phil Smith, who had Golden State's only two field goals in the final 15½ minutes of play, led all scorers with 25 points.

13-Year-Old Junior High Griddle Plans To Hang Up Her Cleats

CLEVELAND, Mo. (AP) — Deborah Brinkley, at the grand old age of 13, is hanging up her cleats.

"It was my decision. They get pretty big up there (high school). I learned a lot, though."

Deborah overcame the fears of her parents, resentment from her male opponents and doubts by athletic officials to become a better-than-average player for the Cass Midway squad two years ago.

But she, her parents and Coach Garold Drake agreed that she might face problems as the boys grew bigger and stronger in high school — even if the Missouri State High School Sports Activities Association did not ban girls from high school play.

"I don't think she could carry the ball in high school," admitted Drake. "I don't think her legs could stand the punishment. But personally I think she could block and tackle with the best of them."

When Deborah decided to go out for football, her mother was afraid she would get hurt and Drake just laughed. But she suffered only two minor injuries during her career and Drake was impressed enough to move her from fullback to quarterback and defensive back this season.

"You'd never know she wasn't a boy," said Drake. "She did wind sprints just like everybody else. She did everything everybody else did. She never complained to me."

A big problem was loneliness. Deborah never was able to persuade other girls to follow her example.

"Two or three other girls said they were going to come out for the team," she said. "But it was all talk."

Oh No! More Bad Luck For SW Louisiana

By AUSTIN WILSON
AP Sports Writer

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Southwestern Louisiana is undefeated, untied and unfortunate.

Just about the time Southwestern was recovering from the stiffest penalties ever imposed on a school by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, another blow fell. The Ragin' Cajuns had to forfeit two games and were made ineligible for the Southland Conference championship.

In 1973, Southwestern got caught paying basketball players. The NCAA cancelled its basketball program for two years and put the school on probation for four years in all sports.

This year came the second jolt, despite a new athletic director, new coaches in basketball and football and a special faculty committee to oversee recruiting, scholarships and eligibility.

The Southland Conference found two ineligible players on the school's football roster. Both were transfer students. It was a conference rule that made them ineligible.

"It was just a question of us not being as careful as we should have been," said Athletic Director Toby Warren, hired to help get athletics off to a clean start after the 1973 disaster.

"The way these things are handled, Coach (Auggie) Tammariello will present to me a list of the people he wants to sign. I will check the manual to see if — on the surface — everything looks okay, sign the list and pass it along to the committee," he added.

One of the players is Phillip Mattingly, a reserve defensive back. He played a series of downs late in Southwestern's season-opening victory over Fresno State. Punter Kenneth Mathews played in both the Fresno game and the second game of the season, a victory over Cincinnati.

There have been seven victories since, but the first two had to be forfeited.

Mattingly left McNeese State, a Southland Conference member, two years ago.

Borg Is Stockholm Crowd Favorite

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Bjorn Borg may be seeded second to Jimmy Connors in the $150,000 Stockholm Open Tennis Tournament, but there is no doubt he is the sentimental favorite of the crowds.

Before advancing to today's quarter-finals with a hard-fought 6-2, 6-7, 7-6 triumph over Britain's John Lloyd Thursday, Borg was honored in a colorful ceremony by King Carl XVI Gustaf and Queen Silvia of Sweden. Borg and the other members of Sweden's Davis Cup team were presented a royal gold medal of first class in recognition of Sweden winning the Davis Cup for the first time last year.

Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was Borg's quarter-final opponent. He advanced with a 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Stan Smith, Sea Pines, S.C.

In other quarter-final matches, Connors met fifth-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico, Byron Bertram of South Africa battled Mark Cox of Britain, and Haroon Rahim of Pakistan faced third-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain.

Rahim, Cox and Bertram all upset seeded opponents to advance into the quarter-finals.

Carroll O'Connor Has Prepared Own Script

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Archie Bunker a writer? No way.

But Carroll O'Connor, who plays America's most famous blue collar combatant, has been at the typewriter of late, tussling with the muse.

He's writing — and will star in — TV's version of "The Last Hurrah," Edwin O'Connor's hit 1956 novel about Boston politics and a fine old rogue of a mayor who tosses his derby in the ring one last time.

The book became a 1958 movie starring Spencer Tracy. But actor O'Connor and Columbia Pictures Television say the version being made for NBC is a fresh one, not simply a remake of the movie.

It came about this way, says O'Connor the actor, no relation to O'Connor the novelist: "My agent brought me the book and wanted me to do the part (of Mayor Frank Skeffington, the book's central figure).

"I say okay, but I wanted to see the Tracy movie. So I did. I didn't think I could repeat what I saw on the screen, so I said, 'Let me see the old screenplay ... maybe what was on the screen wasn't the screenplay.'

But it was. Whereupon O'Connor commenced writing a new version directly from the book, incorporating aspects of the novel he says he feels either were lacking or overplayed in the movie.

For example, he says, "I'm going to keep the bigotry Edwin O'Connor had in the novel, but I'm going to play it as an undertone rather than as the main theme."

O'Connor said he'll probably start filming the movie next March or April. When interviewed he was about a third of the way through writing the shooting script.

It may sound weird, the star of CBS' "All in the Family," who holds a history degree from the University College of Dublin and a master's degree in English from Montana University, says he's always worked at scrivenging.

He says a stage play he wrote appeared here in 1964 — long before "Family" gave him big-bucks fame — and he wrote part of a recent CBS special in which he appeared, "Three For the Girls."

And, he says, just before "Family" hit, he'd spent 10 months in Italy, writing a love-and-sadness screenplay. But the firm that hired him to write it dropped out of movie-making, he adds.

The bidding:

Pass Pass Pass 1♥
2♣ 4♥ Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Many defenders have a reluctance to spend a high trump on a ruff. That can be a costly hangup, as this hand illustrates.

The auction was uneventful. North's hand was somewhere between a raise to three hearts and a jump to game. Since he held a fifth trump, he opted for the more aggressive course.

West attacked with two high clubs and, when both partner and declarer followed, he continued with the jack. (A spade shift would have been the death knell.) East made the "safe" diamond discard and declarer ruffed. After cashing the ace of trumps, declarer cleared his three high diamonds, discarding a spade from the table. Now he put East on lead with the king of trumps.

East was left with a choice of losing plays. If he exited with a diamond declarer would ruff in his hand while discarding dummy's remaining spade loser. If he led a spade, declarer would run it to dummy's queen, again avoiding a spade loser. Whatever East did, the defenders could get no more than two club tricks and a trump.

While declarer played the hand to best advantage, he could not have made the contract without an assist from East. After West had shown up with A-K-J in clubs, East should have realized that his partner could not hold another high card outside, or he would probably have opened the bidding. Therefore, the two tricks that the defenders needed would have to come from East's hand, and a trick in each major was all that East could expect.

The looming endplay should not have been hard to spot, and there was a way for East to foil declarer's plans. He should have ruffed the third club with the king of trumps! True, this would not help had declarer started with a doubleton ace of spades, for then he would simply discard his spade loser. But if that had been the case, nothing East could do would be successful.

After winning the king of hearts, East can exit safely with a red suit and sit back to wait and see whether his king of spades would score the setting trick. As the cards lie, it would have.

More Leaf Marts Close On Thursday

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Five more flue-cured tobacco markets closed Thursday to plummeting prices in North Carolina and Virginia, the Federal-State Market News Service reported. The falling prices were attributed to a continued downward trend in quality with a strong shift from better offerings to poor quality and non-descript tobacco, the news service said.

Wilson, the only Eastern North Carolina market still open, recorded the sharpest decline. The average there for 100 pounds of leaf was $99.57, down $5.24 from Wednesday's average. Sales for the day were 378,133 pounds bringing the season total to 478,400,788 pounds for an average of $113.06 per hundredweight.

Wilson is to close after Monday's sales. Markets on the Old and Middle Belt closing Thursday were Burlington, Louisburg, Madison, Stoneville and Winston-Salem. The five markets closed to a drop in the average of $2.43 from Wednesday, hitting $97.31 on sales of 2,753,966 pounds. Season sales reached 445,058,233 pounds for an average of $107.41 per 100 pounds.

Most of the other Old and Middle Belt markets are to close next week with a few possibly going into the following week for cleanup sales.

$5 Billion In Arms Lost

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated $5 billion in American-supplied weapons, including hundreds of planes, helicopters, tanks, artillery pieces and naval craft, were lost to the Communists in the collapse of South Vietnam, the Pentagon says. The newly declassified report provides the first publicly detailed breakdown of the captured hardware since Hanoi's forces took over South Vietnam in spring of 1975. By itself, the list constitutes an entire army, air force and navy.

The gear includes 430 utility helicopters, 36 larger Ch47 Chinook helicopters, 73 F5 fighter planes, 113 A37 light bombers, 36 A1 bombers, 90 transport planes and 212 miscellaneous aircraft.

The Pentagon put the number of naval craft lost at 940, most of them patrol and river-warfare vessels.

The inventory also included 550 tanks, 1,200 armored personnel carriers, 1,330 howitzers and self-propelled guns, 63,000 antitank weapons, 47,000 grenade launchers and 12,000 mortars.

A total of 1.6 million rifles, including 791,000 M16s, were listed, along with 15,000 machine guns and 90,000 pistols.

The North Vietnamese also inherited a mountain of 130,000 tons of ammunition, 42,000 trucks and 48,000 radios.

Million Dollar Machine Errors

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — A computer at the Key City Bank and Trust Co. sent out checks this week to 25 Christmas club members that were a million dollars bigger than they should have been.

"I still have my check — but I haven't tried to cash it," said a surprised Mary Sweeney, whose husband is cement mason. "I'm having a lot of fun showing it around."

Key City vice-president Jack Roach said the million-dollar errors were made at the check-punching machine. Bank employees called club members as soon as they discovered the error to advise them the checks would be cashed for the proper amount if they were brought in.

"They didn't say what the error was," said Mrs. Sweeney. "You can imagine my shock when my check was for $1,000,256.25."

Railroad Buffs In Oregon Have Track, Depot And Locomotive

SUMPTER, Ore. (AP) — Most railroad buffs satisfy themselves with electric trains and singing songs about Casey Jones and the Wabash Cannonball. Not the Sumpter Valley Railroad Restoration Association.

This group has its own railroad. Its 200 members worked on and off for five years to restore two miles of track of the Sumpter Valley Railroad, which went out of business more than 30 years ago. They have erected their own depot near this eastern Oregon town.

They also have a locomotive. The line was dedicated last summer, and the whole community turned out to ride on the train.

"It's kind of a hobby that got out of hand," said Lee Meyers, association treasurer. "I've always wanted my own electric train. But the real thing is a lot more exciting," said Dale Shumway, vice president.

The Sumpter Valley Railroad was built in 1910 for the burgeoning logging and mining industries of the area. It was abandoned in the early 1940s. The ties were salvaged and used elsewhere. Only the roadbed was left.

One of the association members is George Eccels, a descendant of a founder of the line.

He said it was fun to plan a railroad, but that laying ties and track is hard work, especially if you've worked all day on a regular job.

Association members started working on the railroad in their spare time in 1971.

Nels Christensen, association president, said everyone involved likes railroads and felt that building a railroad line was the best way of pursuing their interests. If you like railroads, you like railroads.

Christensen is an ironworker. He was invaluable when it came to rebuilding the group's pride and joy, a 1910 wood-burning Heislner locomotive.

The association begged and borrowed to buy the engine from Boise Cascade Corp. for $7,500, along with some open-air observation and flatcars.

The locomotive and rolling stock were hauled to Baker, Ore., from Idaho with the help of the Union Pacific Railroad. Union Pacific also donated nearly two miles of 36-inch narrow gauge track and granted permission for the restoration. It owns the Sumpter Valley right-of-way.

Today the group gives rides on the railroad and keeps the equipment shining. Are they happy they're done. Nope.

Christensen said the group would like to get more track from Union Pacific. They want to extend the line from the present two miles to six miles, from the depot to Sumpter.

Like we said, if you like railroads, you like railroads.

Nine ways your next dream home can become a nightmare.

1. The central air conditioning system quits conditioning when the temperature is somewhere between 95° and boiling. (That'll make you hot.)

2. The furnace breaks down on a bitter winter night. (Which makes you plenty bitter, too.)

3. The "good as new" water heater dies a cold death. (When it's no time for a cold shower.)

4. A plumbing fixture starts a slow drip. (And your in no mood for torture.)

5. The electrical system blows a circuit. (And you have a short fuse.)

6. Your built-in dishwasher starts making funny noises. (After lasagna dinner for 12.)

7. Your "old reliable" oven suddenly becomes unreliable. (Fifteen minutes after you start baking a German Chocolate Cake.)

8. The sheet metal duct work rusts through in four places. (And you come apart at the seams.)

9. Any one or a combination of the before mentioned happens and you have to pay for it. (That's a nightmare that'll keep you awake nights.)

One way to protect against expensive surprises: ERA's Home Buyers Protection Plan.

When you look for a dream home, be sure you look for the Home Buyers Protection Plan. Offered exclusively through ERA Member Brokers, BPP covers all the major working components of your home against repair or replacement for one full year after you take title.

Should anything covered break down, one toll-free phone call will start a local repairman on his way to fix it, even in the middle of the night if it's an emergency. And you never pay more than a modest deductible charge.

So, if you prefer a dream home to a nightmare of expensive repairs and replacements, look for an ERA home protected by the exclusive Buyers Protection Plan. It's the finest home warranty in America.
