

Salary Supplement Voted U.S. Economic Index For Teaching Personnel Steadies After Fall In Pitt County System

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Education voted to pay all teaching personnel in the County school system a salary supplement at its Tuesday meeting.

Since the regular November board meeting the board, by a telephone vote, approved the option of giving each teacher a salary supplement with the amount being determined by the degree each teacher holds.

Dr. Tom Patterson made the motion that the supplement be given to all teachers on the basis of certificate and that the board request the additional $29,164.42 from the County Commissioners. Patterson included in the motion that the teachers should get the supplement in December.

The board agreed that if the additional $29,164.42 which would be needed to fund the supplements, is not appropriated by the commissioners that an adjustment would be made in the last payment of the supplement at the end of the year. The Pitt County Commissioners had previously allowed for $125,000 in the Pitt County Board of Education 1976-77 school budget for the salary supplements for the teachers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today its index foreshadowing economic trends remained unchanged in October after two months of steep decline. It indicated that the nation's economic slowdown might not worsen.

The index was certain to be discussed in Plains, Ga., today when President-elect Jimmy Carter meets with top economic advisers. Carter said last month he will recommend a tax reduction or other steps to stimulate the economy if the slowdown continued much longer.

Diplomat Is Under Guard

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents reportedly are guarding a South Korean diplomat who has defied orders to return home and has begun cooperating with the Justice Department's probe of alleged South Korean influence buying among U.S. congressmen.

Sources identified him Tuesday night as Kim Sang Keun, who is officially listed as a counselor at the South Korean Embassy but who reportedly was the top Korean Central Intelligence Agency officer here.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the House ethics committee said today Chairman John Flynt has written President Ford asking that the Justice Department share information from its investigation.

The new president was Echeverria's finance minister and was elected as the unopposed candidate of the long-dominant Institutional Revolutionary party (PRI). He has not said what

The board considered the requests of the Farmville Advisory Council, but took no action at that time. The board voted to not allow one hour practice session for athletic teams during the three-day examination period.

Grant Death Wish

By RON BARKER
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, his death wish granted by the state pardons board, could face a firing squad within days of his 36th birthday Saturday, barring appeals by death penalty opponents who ignored his demand to "butt out."

Gilmore was to appear before 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock in Provo today to have a new date set for the execution by five anonymous volunteers.

The South Korean government reportedly has ordered home several officials to prevent them from cooperating with U.S. investigators.

MOVED OUT OF TOWN
I would like to know where Dudley's Beauty and Barber Supply has moved. I was buying all my cosmetics at the store which was located at 821 Dickinson Avenue, Greenville. I understand it was part of a chain. Mrs. L. F.

Hotline checked with the city tax office and the Chamber of Commerce and neither had any information. We did find a Dudley's Beauty and Barber Supply through Greensboro Directory Assistance, though, and we gave the store there a call.

A spokesperson there said that they did have a store in Greenville, but that there are no plans to have another one. The store nearest us is in Durham, she said. She suggested you might want to get your cosmetics by mail. If so you may simply write out the names and sizes of the products you want and send the order to the Greensboro store, 717 E. Market Street, Greensboro, N. C. 27401. Orders also may be phoned in — 919-275-3069.

HELP OFFERED
Dave Merritt of Metalwood Inc. says he believes he can help the person who needs to replace some shower door tracks and hasn't been able to find them except in "kits." He says his company has many extrusions and can order others, and should be able to supply about any type track system needed. He suggested that you bring the door or measure it very carefully and come and visit his company, located at 506 W. 13th Street.

N.J. Justices Rule Against 'Preference'

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A dissenting judge says every affirmative action program in New Jersey is threatened by a state Supreme Court ruling that blacks cannot be given job preference over whites because of past discrimination.

The court, by a 6 to 1 vote Tuesday, threw out an order by a state civil rights agency that would have compelled the town of Montclair to hire more black policemen and firemen to correct racial imbalance.

The high court concurred, saying the anti-bias law was not meant to help present-day minority group members because they had not been discriminated against — only their forebears.

Heavy Agenda To Face City Council Thursday

An 18-item agenda has been prepared for Thursday night's City Council meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. at city hall.

Items slated under "Old Business" include: appointments to boards and commissions; public hearing on the closing of a portion of Pennsylvania Avenue abutting the Sadie Sautter School; concerning staggered terms for members of the City Council; Consideration of a resolution concerning the election of School Board members; reconsideration of Council's decision on the Animal Control gas chamber; and two requests for renewal of mobile home permits.

with this policy," Supt. Alford added.

Rev. Bobby Bazen presented several books to the board and asked to appeal the decision of the D. H. Conley Hearing Committee concerning not taking the books off of the shelves of the media center. The books that Bazen protested were as follows: OF MICE AND MEN, CATCHER IN THE RYE, GRAPES OF WRATH, LOVE STORY, AND PERSPECTIVES, a tenth grade literature text.

"We are concerned parents, feel this isn't right. I have a petition from our church of people who object to having the books available to the students. I have an article issued by the Pitt County Board of Education concerning discipline on school buses and what could cause suspension. Profanity is listed as a rule for suspension. This is inconsistent. If we tell them that they can't use it and then teach it to them. We appeal to the board with good conscience," Rev. Bazen said.

Mark Owens, chairman of the board said that the board will consider the appeal and allow people with a differing opinion to remark.

Assoc. Supt. Tom Craft reported that middle school students from Belvoir, Stokes and Pactivol will attend Wellcome Middle School January 17 for the first time. Teachers at Wellcome Middle School will observe January 13 and 14 as teacher work days.

The board voted to have the central office, garage, maintenance departments and all schools close December 22 through January 2, with 12 month employees observing December 27 - 31 as vacation days.

School Finance Officer, Dan Thomas reported that the bid for depository has been awarded to NCBN. Thomas presented audit reports for Title IV, Title VI, Title III, Title II, and Title I and the board accepted the reports. Thomas also presented a request for an appropriation of moneys accrued to the Pitt County Board of Education totaling $10,043.96. The board approved the appropriations.

The board voted to no longer hold six weeks tests in the sixth and seventh grades at all of the county schools. The sixth and seventh grades will now have mid-term and final examinations.

The board voted to screen students in grades four, five and six for scoliosis, curvature of the spine.

Dr. Carson submitted three names of persons to be considered to fill vacancies on the Grifton Advisory Council. The board approved the recommendation. Dr. Carson also reported that several names had been submitted to him for his consideration for council members by citizens of Grifton. One of the citizens' recommendations was approved.

Janet Hasley of Grifton said that she had recommended other names to Dr. Carson and asked how other names could be considered. Supt. Alford explained that the Advisory Council makes recommendations for new council members through Dr. Carson who recommends the names to the board.

Lelon Folines, Director of Transportation for Pitt County Schools reported that it would not be feasible to bus sixth, seventh, and eighth grades students separately from kindergarten through fifth grade students in the Belvoir, Stokes and Pactivol areas.

In other business the board:
—Received sanitation reports.
—Received a proposed budget timetable for 1977-78.

—Granted maternity leaves and approved new personnel.
—Received a recommendation for a replacement on the Farmville Advisory Council.

Following the meeting the board held an executive session to discuss personnel and land acquisition matters.

Following the executive session, the board reopened its meeting and passed several items of business including the list of expenditures of $100,000 which was received from the sale of the Farmville High School.

The following is a list of expenditures approved by the board: $10,000 to move the fence and bleachers from the athletic field to Farmville Central High School (2) $25,000 to be split four ways to begin the base of a field house at each of the four high schools, (3) $25,000 to be held in escrow toward building the field houses, (4) $8,000 additional media furniture to be appropriated as follows: $4,000 to Falkland Elementary; $2,000 to Chicod School and $2,000 to G. R. Whitfield School; (5) $5,000 for audio-visual equipment for Wellcome Middle School, (6) $7,000 for audio-visual equipment on a matching basis for individual schools, (7) $10,000 for science equipment incentive programs in the middle schools on a matching basis.

The board appointed a committee including Dr. Douglas Jones, Kenneth Dews, Dr. Patterson, and Ms. Janie Manning, to discuss controversial reading materials used in the schools with concerned parents.

The board also received a letter of resignation from Ralph Hall, who has worked with the Board of Education and supervisors of construction. Hall's resignation is effective December 31, 1976.

Cub Pack 330 Has Meeting

Cub Pack 330 met Tuesday night at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church with Packmaster Jim White head presiding.

During the meeting, Mark South was welcomed as a new member of the pack and awarded his Bobcat and Wolf badges.

Sportsman Awards were presented to Webelos Lewis Roberson, Timmy Whitehead and Traye Fuqua while Duncan Whitehead and Broughton Goodson were welcomed as Den Chiefs to Den 1 and Den Five.

The program for the meeting, given by Dens Two and Three, consisted of Bicentennial theme readings.

The December pack meeting will involve caroling at the Greenville Nursing Home, it was announced.

Arts And Crafts Bazaar Planned

ROBERSONVILLE — The Robersonville Arts and Crafts Bazaar, sponsored by the local Jay-C-Ettes, will be held here on Dec. 4, beginning at 9 a.m.

Proceeds from the bazaar, to be held at the Masonic Lodge, will go towards breast cancer research, a project adopted statewide by the Jay-C-Ettes chapters in North Carolina.

CHARGE DROPPED
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louise Lasser, title character in the "comedy soap opera" "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman", had a cocaine possession charge against her dropped because she completed a drug education program.

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Seven persons, including four young children, perished early today in an explosion and fire in their 1½-story, six-room cinder block home in the nearby Mentor community.

The victims were a man and wife and their two children, along with his sister and her two children, investigators said. The overnight temperature dropped to 12 degrees, with ice sealing the aluminum frame windows in the house. Blount County Detective Randall Kidd said the blast occurred as plug-in electric heaters used up the home's oxygen. "With electric heat, when there's no oxygen, it will do that," he said. "By the time our department arrived and the rescue squad and fire department arrived, we were busy just trying to contain the flames. By the time we got everything squared away, they had already died." The victims, who lived about five miles southwest of Maryville and about 25 miles south of Knoxville in East Tennessee, were found in various rooms of the house, Kidd said. One of them, Larry E.

Meredith, 29, was found with his two children in a back bedroom. "He had broken a window and apparently was trying to escape," said Kidd. But, the investigator said, "There was so much smoke intensity along with the fire that it took about an hour to get it out." Meredith and his children, Wendy, 4, and Joseph, 7, died in the rear bedroom. Meredith's wife, Sherry, 26, was found in bed in a front bedroom. Meredith's sister, Phyllis Pitts, 28, and her son, James, 5, were found in the living room, so badly burned it was impossible to tell if they were trying to escape, Kidd said. James' little brother, Raymond, 3, was found asleep in a converted attic bedroom.

The Mentor community, in the rolling foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains near Ft. Loudoun Lake, consists primarily of a plant which builds small fishing and similar boats and a post office. Most of the residents of the unincorporated community work at the Aluminum Co. of America smelting plant at nearby Alcoa, Tenn., or at the Tennessee Air National Guard base near Maryville.

An elementary school is about half a mile from the Meredith house. The Blount County Fire Department was alerted to the blaze by a neighbor about 12:50 a.m.

Kidd said it was an hour or an hour and a half before firemen were able to reduce the heat and flames in order to enter the home.

The house, with green aluminum siding, was left standing but with charred interior walls and furnishings. One side of the front portion of the roof over the living room sagged with its support burned away.

The windows all were blown out by the impact of the blast.

Considering Toll Rates On Local Phone Calls

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — A Southern Bell Telephone Co. spokesman says the company will conduct a study in North Carolina on whether to charge toll rates on local calls. King Triplett, Southern Bell public relations manager, says, however, it will be "several years" before the company will consider asking the North Carolina Utilities Commission for permission to do so.

Triplett made the observation Tuesday in the wake of published reports that the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. "has quietly moved through the initial stages" of a plan to apply a toll system to all local calls nationwide by 1980. In Raleigh, Tenney Deane, chairman of the utilities commission, said his agency will consider any proposed telephone billing system which charges individually for local calls, but he added the agency does not now favor the idea.

Deane said, "I can see some time down the road when it may be of benefit to the telephone users." But he said he didn't expect that within the next three or four years. Triplett said the Southern Bell studies are part of a nationwide program examining the rate concept, which is called Usage Sensitive Pricing. The studies will survey the time of day that local calls are made, the frequency of calls, and the length and distance of the call, Triplett said.

Postmaster Likes Rush

VALDESE, N.C. (AP) — The postmaster in this small town in the North Carolina foothills says, "We hope the UPS strike goes on forever."

The United Parcel Service strike has at least doubled the number of parcels handled by the Valdese post office. But Postmaster Gerald Fisher, 43, welcomes the burden after years of declining mail volume and revenue.

The increased load means overtime pay for some of Fisher's 11 employees. It also means full 40-hour weeks to others who were working only 20 to 30 hours a week.

"It hasn't been more than we can handle, and we don't anticipate that it will be, even during the big Christmas rush," said Fisher. "We're glad to see it."

The Valdese Post Office serves about 3,000 persons in the downtown area and about 10,000 counting rural delivery. Fisher said the textile community was hard hit by economic conditions in the last few years, and the economic decline was reflected in declining activity at the post office.

"Everything just hasn't been up to par," he said. Fisher has added an extra delivery to the downtown area in the afternoons to handle the increased parcel volume.

The first Jewish community center in America was founded in Baltimore in 1854.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted when a tractor-trailer truck jackknifed about 3:45 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth Street and Moyewood Drive.

Investigators, who identified the driver of the vehicle as Samuel Steven Woolard of Tarboro, estimated damage to the vehicle at $3,000.

An 11:13 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive at the Fifth Street intersection involved three cars, officers reported.

Drivers of the vehicles were identified as Karen Veronica Shelton of 1722 West Fifth St.,

Three Collisions In Greenville Tuesday

An estimated $5,550 property damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

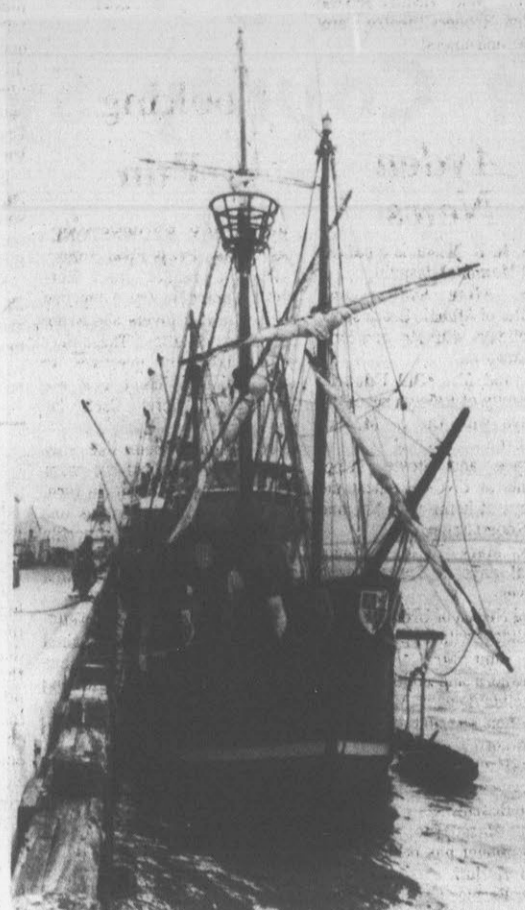

Thomas Ray Wooten of 807 West Fourth St., and Carrie Edwards Bryant of Route 4, Snow Hill.

Damage was set at $800 to the Shelton car, $900 to the Wooten vehicle and $600 to the Bryant auto.

Police charged Mrs. Bryant with failing to stop for a stop light.

A 5:11 p.m. collision on Gum Road, 82 feet East of the Vandye Street intersection involved a car driven by Sue Braxton Brannon of 503 East Gum Rd. and a truck operated by Sandra Parnell Vandiford of Maury, investigators reported.

Damage was estimated at $250 to the Brannon car, while no damage resulted to the Vandiford truck, investigators said.

School Food Service Association Plans Drive

GREENSBORO — The 15,000-member North Carolina School Food Service Association has initiated a $200,000 fund drive to further develop a school food service education program in the School of Home Economics at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Mrs. Samuel L. Parker Jr. of Kinston, president of the N.C. School Food Service Association (NCSFSA), announced plans for the fund drive and said coordinating chairpersons have been appointed in school systems throughout the state to assist in the campaign.

Donna Ware, Dorothy Hamill and Hazel Worthington are coordinating the fund drive with the Pitt County Schools, while Carolyn Gwaltney is heading the drive for the Greenville City Schools.

Mrs. Parker said the board of directors of the NCSFSA has made a commitment to contribute $25,000 to the campaign over a five-year period. In addition, she said individual pledges or contributions will be sought from the 15,000 school food service personnel throughout the state.

Moreover, she noted that further contributions will be sought from additional school personnel and from friends in the school food industry.

Mrs. Parker explained that the $200,000 to be raised will be used to establish the N.C. School Food Service Endowment Fund within the UNC-G Home Economics Foundation.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When a reader from Kentucky wanted to try a chicken recipe we had given, she wrote for further details: "These may sound like silly questions to you, but they don't call me Lexington's Worst Cook for nothing."

They didn't seem like silly questions to us and we were happy to answer them. In turn, the "Worst Cook" sent us one of the best recipes for noodle pudding we have come across. Tried in our kitchen, we found it absolutely delicious.

"It usually comes out well," she wrote. "It isn't original with me, of course, but I have come to be known for it around here. I sometimes omit the topping as this is a very rich and sweet pudding. I serve it as a side dish with meat instead of potatoes."

"My mother-in-law tops it with a fruit glaze ... in the same manner as cheese cake ... and serves it for dessert. There are many, many noodle pudding recipes in this world, but I've never found one that everyone likes as well as this. Have also served this noodle pudding as a side dish at a brunch. No, I didn't get this recipe from my mother-in-law. I gave it to her. Got it from a caterer."

LEXINGTON'S BEST NOODLE PUDDING
8-ounce package medium-wide egg noodles
Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened

3 large eggs
½ cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 cup apricot nectar
Topping, if desired (see below):

In a large saucepot, according to package directions, cook the noodles; drain in a colander. Return the hot noodles to the clean large saucepot and add the cream cheese and butter; toss until both have melted. Turn into a buttered 2-quart oblong glass baking dish (11¼ by 7½ by 1¼ inches) or similar utensil.

In a medium mixing bowl beat together the eggs, sugar, milk and apricot nectar just until combined; pour over the noodles and stir together well. If used, sprinkle with the Topping. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until firm — 45 minutes. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot.

Makes 8 delicious servings.
Topping: In a 10-inch skillet over low heat melt 6 tablespoons butter or margarine; off heat, stir in 1 cup finely crushed corn flakes, ½ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. (You may, if you like, make up half the recipe for the topping; in this case border the pudding with it instead of sprinkling it over the entire surface.)

Tell Hostess To Use Plastic For Her Picnics

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of professional middleclass couples who often get together in each other's homes for good conversation. Each hostess serves something.

One of the couples serves on paper plates. Her excuse is that she works and must conserve her energy, and although most of us work, we feel that this is her right. However, whether it's inside or a barbecue, she uses plastic forks, knives and spoons, which she washes and saves for the next party!

We have hinted that as long as she washes the plastic tableware for her next party she might as well use silverware, but she doesn't seem to understand.

Abby, if you've ever tried to eat borscht with a plastic spoon, or macaroni salad with a plastic fork, you'll know what we mean.

After her last party, our husbands told us not to accept another invitation to this couple's home. Our hints have done no good, and we like her too much to drop her. Any suggestions?

PLEASE, NO PLASTIC

DEAR PLEASE: Quit hinting. Come right out and ask her to please save the plastic for picnics and to use silverware. And if that doesn't help, but you like her too much to drop her, bring your own silverware.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and unmarried. Just recently I gave my baby up for adoption. I loved that baby more than

CLOTHES ARE

IMPORTANT TO KIDS

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — A child's preferences are important to consider when parents shop for children's clothing, says Mary Lou Sadler, Extension clothing specialist at Oklahoma State University.

Clothing helps the child get the attention and approval that he needs from his friends and enhances a sense of ownership, she explains. Youngsters can also learn how to dress themselves and become more independent by exercising choices about clothing, according to Mrs. Sadler.

anything in the world, and that is why I didn't keep him. I loved him enough to know that he would have a better home and a better chance in life with a mother and father, someone who is older and better able to care for him than I am.

I still have another year of high school. I would not really have been around long enough to give my son the love and care he deserves.

So when people ask, "How could you give your baby away," my answer is, "Because I loved him."
UNSELFISH MOTHER IN KANSAS CITY

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls I work with has fallen head over heels for a guy she couldn't know very well. Either that, or she's led a very sheltered life.

I've known this guy for years. He's a closet queen who uses girls as a cover-up.

I hate to see this girl get hurt because she is really crazy about him. If he should go so far as to marry her, it can't last very long because he's the type who never stays with one lover very long, but needs a nice straight woman to be seen in public with.

Should I tell her what she's got herself mixed up with? Or let her keep going with him until he breaks her heart?
NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: The guy could be bisexual, and it's also possible that he has decided to go the straight route. Since it's not possible for you to know what's in his head, I suggest you mind your own business. P.S. Maybe she knows all about him, but loves him anyway.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Telephone Vote Poor Practice

A news story in Monday's Daily Reflector referred to a practice we consider less than desirable.

The Pitt County Board of Education had approved the payment of a teacher supplement by a telephone vote.

The recommendation for paying a teacher supplement to county teachers, similar to the one paid to Greenville teachers had been made previously.

And the details, including financing, were to be worked out at later meetings.

Our question is why couldn't this discussion and approval be done at a regularly scheduled meeting of the Pitt Board of Education? What's the hurry that the public's business couldn't be done at a monthly meeting of the board held at an announceed time and place? We certainly have no objections to the county Board of Education approving a supplement for the teachers in the county system. In fact we approve of a supplement equal to that which is currently being paid in the city system.

We think, however, that too much public business is being carried on too informally by too many boards and commissions. We often hear the argument that a time factor is involved, and perhaps on rare occasions that is a valid. Basically, though, we think that school business, or any other public business, should be discussed fully at the public meetings of the boards.

Handling important business with board members via telephone is a sloppy habit to fall into, indeed.

Await Opening Of New Pitt School

A new facility will be added to the county school system when the Wellcome Middle school opens after Christmas.

The new school building has been under construction on U.S. 13 - N.C. 903 intersection just north of Greenville, and is nearing completion.

The move into the new middle school will provide a much-improved facility for students and teachers who will be working and studying there.

Keys To Lower Fatalities

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Joseph E. Lema is physically a very large fellow. He also drives a car regularly, and so has firsthand knowledge of how uncomfortable seat belts can be.

As chief of a major research project for the U.S. Secretary of Transportation, Lema has concluded that mandatory safety belt usage would be the most effective means of reducing deaths and injury due to auto accidents.

But what Lema did not say in the exhaustive research data, books, and appendices recently delivered to the Department of Transportation and the Congress was that something needs to be done about safety belt design.

Better Belts
"One of the things the industry needs to do is develop safety belts that are useable; better designed, more comfortable, and more readily acceptable for public use," says the man in charge of the Transportation Systems and Highway Safety division at Research Triangle Institute near Raleigh and Durham. Lema's size has given him plenty of firsthand experience at sinking deeper and deeper into his car cushions, while the belts get tighter and tighter.

"There are problems with the takeup reels... they just keep tightening. And, of course, they've done away with the interlocks because of problems," Lema recalled. Some belts are tangled and bulky; some don't always fasten properly; some are overly restrictive on movement.

All those problems aside, Lema has reported to the federal officials that, "The top ranking countermeasure, Mandatory Safety Belt Usage, has the potential to save 89,000 lives over the next 10 years, at a cost of only $45 million. It thus requires the expenditure of only $506 for each fatality forestalled."

The research project linked up costs to projected fatalities and injuries forestalled to attach a cost-effective label to each reasonable alternative. Costs include every conceivable item: research and development, installation, public education, passage of laws, enforcement, etc. — whether paid by consumer, industry, or some level of government.

For comparison in cost effectiveness, improvement in roadway alignment and gradient is at the other extreme with a potential to save only 600 lives, but costs $4.5 billion — thus, spending of $7.68 million for each fatality forestalled.

Speed, Too
Running page after page of charts, graphs, projections, and cost factors, Lema and his research team concluded, "Increased enforcement of the Nationwide 55 mph Speed Limit has the second highest potential to save additional lives, almost 32,000..." Cost of the speed limit program would run $676 million; or $21,200 per life saved.

In concluding recommendations to federal officials on what measures would be most effective in the coming 10 years in highway safety, the Research Triangle Institute report strongly endorses three countermeasures — the belts, and speed limits, plus a group of combined alcohol safety action steps: "The drinking driver reflects a major national health problem; he is involved in a disproportionately high percentage of fatal accidents."

The research team made a strong point of showing that even though billions might be spent on safety steps as set forth, fatalities would be reduced only about half of the potential if mandatory safety belt use were not included.

Other top safety steps (in order of importance) listed were emergency medical responses; selective traffic enforcement; impact absorbing roadside safety devices; vehicle inspection; citizen aid of crash victims; skid resistance; regulatory and warning signs; traffic signals and systems; breakaway signs and light poles; guardrails; and better training for beginning drivers.

A Skater On Thin Ice

WASHINGTON—"I am getting sick of 'The Other Woman' in every famous man's life," my wife said to me the other morning as she read about Kay Summersby's revelations of her love affair with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower during World War II.

"Why do you say that?" I asked her. "Because every biography coming out these days indicates that the real love in a man's life was not his wife, but either his secretary, his housekeeper or his chauffeur. Apparently the publishers won't print a book about a famous person unless there was a secret scandal that nobody knew about before."

"Wives don't sell books," I made the mistake of saying. "Isn't that too bad. Most of the great men in this country owe everything they were to their wives. The wives took care of them when they were sick; they raised their children; they were with them in defeat; they nourished them during their depressions, and when the book comes out it sounds like some woman who spent three hours a week in some hideaway with him was responsible for all his success."

"What you say is true," I told her, trying to recoup some ground, "but you have to look at this not from a historical point of view but a business one. Publishers are in the business of publishing books that will titillate the public. Who is going to buy a biography of a famous personage if he had a happy married life? Mistresses are what best-sellers are made of."

"The whole thing is sick," my wife said. "The people who write these biographies paint the wife as an old hag who is constantly driving her husband to drink. The mistress is always described as a beautiful understanding woman who is tender and kind and willing to listen to the great problems the poor personality faces. Have you ever read a book about an ugly mistress who drove her lover up the wall? Or a lover who is a constant nag? Oh, no. It's always the wife who is portrayed as the heavy — and the mistress as the raving beauty who brought happiness to the great man in the bedroom."

I knew the ice was getting thinner, but for some reason I kept skating on. "Everything you say has validity," I said. "But when people plunk down $10.95 or $12.50 for a great man's life, they don't want to read how he and his wife went bowling every Thursday evening. They also don't want to read about the founding of the United Nations. You have to appeal to their prurient interests. No newspaper is going to pick up a story about the revelations of an ex-President if the headline reads 'President X Never

Profile Of The House

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A typical member of the House of Representatives in the next Congress will be five years younger than his Senate counterpart, slightly less educated, somewhat less certain to be a white male, and more than twice as likely to be a Catholic.

These are findings from an Associated Press survey of demographics of House and Senate members who are to take their seats next month.

The study also shows that new members are somewhat less likely to be lawyers than are returning senators and representatives. But as a group, attorneys still dominate the law-making bodies.

Here is a rundown on characteristics of the next Congress:

—AGE: House members average 49 years, senators 54. But about half the 67 new House members are under 40 and four are under 30. Despite an apparent infusion of youth, the average age of 49 is the same as when the 94th Congress began two years ago. Three new senators are under 40, but one, S.I. Hayakawa of California, is 70. Only four of the 535 members of the House or Senate were born before 1900.

—EXPERIENCE: Members who have served two terms or less will constitute a narrow majority in the House, where the seniority system of picking committee chairmen took a beating two years ago. Only 36 of the 435 members have served more than 10 terms. In the Senate, 18 of the 100 members are new and 30 others have served all or part of only one six-year term.

—RACE: Five per cent of the House and 4 per cent of the Senate is composed of racial or ethnic minorities. In the House, that includes 16 blacks, four Spanish-surnamed members and two of Oriental descent. In the Senate, there is one black and three of Oriental descent, including two newly elected members.

—SEX: There are no women in the Senate, 17 in the House.

—EDUCATION: In the Senate, 79 per cent of the members have advanced degrees and just 3 per cent have less than a college degree. In the House, 64 per cent hold a post-graduate degree, while 9 per cent have less than a college diploma.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Audience-Based Decisions

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOYAK

WASHINGTON — The departure of George Bush from the CIA sooner than anybody expected and the more startling possibility that Treasury Secretary William Simon may moonlight for the new administration stems from the nature of their encounters with President-elect Carter during the interregnum.

Bush's six-hour intelligence briefing of Carter at Plains, Ga., Nov. 19, called a "disaster" by one Carter insider, was followed a week later by Bush's announcement he would quit as director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). But a warm, hour-long session between Carter and Simon at the Treasury Nov. 22 may produce the seemingly impossible: the conservative Republican serving as a part-time consultant to the Democratic President.

Since holdover CIA directors were retained in the 1960 and 1968 transitions, there had been speculation that Bush would stay for six months — perhaps longer if he hit it off with Carter. That was ruled out in Plains Nov. 19.

"Jimmy just wasn't impressed with Bush," a key Carterite told us. At one point, when Bush volunteered that the President-elect would probably prefer his own man at CIA, an unsmiling Carter replied coolly that was indeed the case and a new director would be ready Jan. 21.

Simon has been described in such lurid Democratic tomes as a reactionary bogyman that transition at the Treasury was expected to be barely civil. "I don't know anybody in the Ford administration that Jimmy detests as much as he does Simon," one insider told us before their meeting.

There was no sign of that Nov. 22, however. Carter asked Simon whether he would be available for special assignments next year, and Simon indicated he would. If that exchange involves more than simple courtesy, it could mean Simon's help on oil price questions — making use of his excellent contacts in the Arab world.

A footnote: Carter talent scouts are clearly looking for a businessman, not an economist, to succeed Simon at the Treasury. Two intriguing new names under serious consideration: Alden S. Clausen of Bank of America and Irving S. Shapiro of DuPont Co.

Bolling's Bloop
A minor tactical error could tip the balance against Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri in a tight Democratic caucus contest to determine the majority leader — and with it, the shape of the House during the Carter years.

Bolling, a brilliant and creative force in the House for two decades, is more moderate ideologically than leftist Rep. Phillip Burton of California, front-runner to become majority leader. Nevertheless, many old guard Democrats dislike Bolling for his long advocacy of reform and for his inability to suffer fools gladly. To cover that last failing, Bolling lately has been more congenial with colleagues and even thrown some parties for them.

But the old Bolling slipped out with two quotations in an article, highly favorable to him, appearing in the November issue of Dun's Review. The first quotation: "As everyone around here knows, I'm not shy about mentioning my capabilities." In the second and more damaging quotation, Bolling referred to the House membership as "the 435 provincials."

Managers for Burton and for Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, the third serious contender for the post, pondered how to bring these Bolling reversions to form to the attention of the House. Their problem was solved for them Nov. 19 when a Bolling manager, Rep. Gillis Long of Louisiana, mailed all House members a pro-Bolling letter — and enclosed with it a copy of the Dun's Review article.

A footnote: Backers of both Bolling and Wright contend that Burton as majority leader and Rep. Thomas (Tip) O'Neill of Massachusetts as speaker would mean two Democratic parties in the House. O'Neill is privately putting out word he prefers anybody-but-Burton, but he may have to go public

To the editor:

I was recently a patient on the fourth floor at the Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Although my stay was brief, I feel compelled to let the citizens of Pitt and surrounding counties know how splendid a service the staff at this hospital is performing. Remaining in a hospital for any length of time when you really believe you are capable of being elsewhere can be a tortuous experience. However, when I was at Pitt, the personnel of the fourth floor did everything within reason to make my hospitalization comfortable and pleasant.

All of the employees on the fourth floor were patient with my roommate and me; all of the employees were professional in their treatment and care; all of the employees were full of cheer and positive remarks; all of the employees were lovely people to greet and to meet for the entire period I was in this medical center.

The citizens of Pitt County should feel extremely proud of the caliber of personnel and the quality of service which is extended to the sick and to the needy when they are institutionalized at the Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Obviously, this is my observation, and I harbor a newly discovered respect and admiration for our hospital. I can only assume that these comments are appropriate for the other floors of the hospital as well.

Wants Blind Pay More Taxes

By STEPHEN FOX
AP Business Writer

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Jim Bliss wants to help blind people pay more taxes.

That could make Bliss sound like an oddball philanthropist or an overzealous Internal Revenue agent.

But instead, Bliss is an entrepreneur who heads a five-year-old company that is an unusual mixture of capitalism and humanitarianism. The company is Telesensory Systems Inc., which makes products to aid the blind and which puts much of its profits back into research on new products for the visually handicapped.

"The driving force of this company is to use technology to get blind people more integrated into society and, in particular, into more normal employment," Bliss said in an interview at the company's offices here.

If you look at a blind person who's on welfare, he may be receiving $3,000 to $4,000 from the government," he said. "If you turn that around so he's making $10,000 a year, not only is that $10,000 helping to stimulate the economy, but his income tax would be $2,000 or $3,000 a year."

"That's a $6,000 differential, and I think it's worth the onetime investment of a few thousand dollars to change that $3,000 obligation into $3,000 in income for the government," he said.

Bliss, of course, isn't interested in the blind solely from the standpoint of generating more tax revenue. His company employs six blind persons on its staff of 100 and he points out that holding down a normal job helps blind persons develop a better self-image and generally enjoy a fuller life.

TSI's first product was a reading device called an "Optacon." It allows a blind person to read ordinary printed material.

The Optacon consists of a scanner which is passed over the words and a console in which the user places his or her left hand. The scanner converts letters into electrical impulses which then vibrate tiny pins set inside the console.

The user feels each letter as it is reproduced on the array of pins and is thus able to "read" the words.

"You can't imagine the difference having an Optacon makes to a blind person," says TSI calculator products manager Chris Berg, whose wife is blind.

"Before this, they were limited to materials translated into Braille. Now they can read newspapers, cookbooks — whatever they want. They can read their personal mail, instead of having to get someone to read it to them."

TSI also offers a nine-day training course to buyers of its Optacons. Users normally start off at about 12 words per minute and reach 40 to 50 words per minute after using the device for a while. Some users have attained speeds of 100 words per minute, Berg says.

TSI also sells a talking calculator that announces each step of a mathematical problem as the user presses the keys. The calculator, which can be programmed to operate in any language, performs six different functions.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is forecast for the Northeast today, with the weather changing to snow flurries over the Great Lakes region. Snow is also predicted for the northern and western Great Plains states. Showers are due to southern Florida. Cold temperatures are expected to prevail over most of the nation. (AP Wirephoto)

By The Associated Press
A ridge of cold air continues to hang around North Carolina. So, following Tuesday's record cold, highs today were only from the 30s in the mountains to the 40s in the west. There is a chance of snow flurries in the northwest mountains.

The center of the cold air is in the form of a high-pressure ridge from Virginia through North Carolina into Alabama. This ridge will move only very slowly eastward, insuring cold weather today and tonight.

Skies were mostly sunny in the west and central portions and partly cloudy in the east today. With the sunshine and light winds, the temperature climbed few degrees over Tuesday's.

The overnight lows also be a few degrees warmer than this morning's.

It will be a little warmer Thursday over most of the state as the high moves off the coast and winds become southwest. However, this warming will only be temporary. Another Arctic front will be moving in during the day. The main effect will be in the mountains, —RELIGION: Of those whose affiliation is known, 72 per cent in the Senate and 64 per cent in the House are Protestants. Catholics make up 27 per cent of the House and 12 per cent of the Senate.

—FAMILY: Eighty-six per cent of House members and 98 per cent of senators are married. The number of children per member averages just under three.

—OCCUPATION: Forty-nine per cent of the House and 65 per cent of the Senate were lawyers. But the November elections showed a slight trend away from lawyers in the election of new members.

In the Senate, 56 of the 82 returning senators, or 68 per cent, are lawyers. But of the 17 newly elected senators, only eight are lawyers. The 18th new senator, Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, who will be appointed to fill a vacancy, also is a lawyer.

In the House, just under 50 per cent of the 378 returning members are lawyers. But among the 67 newcomers, the percentage of lawyers drops to 42. Among House members elected two years ago, 45 per cent were lawyers, which at that time was eight points below the proportion of then-incumbent members who were lawyers.

Jail Probe Has Been Extended

RALEIGH (AP) — An investigation into operation of the Wake County jail was prompted by reports of a convicted heroin smuggler buying special treatment but it has extended well beyond that, local newspapers are reporting.

The Raleigh Times and the News and Observer quotes sources saying Leslie "Ike" Atkinson bribed jailers to have privileges which included gambling, special food and women visitors in his cell. Atkinson, now in prison in Atlanta, was in the jail last summer during his federal heroin smuggling trial in which he was convicted.

The investigation also reportedly involves claims of sexual relations between a jailer and a woman prisoner, jailers sleeping on the job, jailers accepting bribes and allowing some prisoners to have special privileges.

The jail is operated by the sheriff's department. Sheriff Robert Pleasants has acknowledged the investigation is being conducted by his office but has refused to reveal details of it.

Any decision to prosecute would be made by Dist. Atty. Burley B. Mitchell. It is expected he will have results of the investigation later this month.

Two deputies assigned to the jail have reportedly resigned because of the investigation, but the reports have not been confirmed.

Atkinson was being in the jail for federal authorities during the trial. Those authorities said they had no knowledge of Atkinson getting special treatment. Also, Atkinson's attorney said he didn't know of it either.

Today Is 25th Anniversary Of Founding Shaw Univ.

By DR. H.G. JONES,
Curator N.C. Collection,
For The Associated Press CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Today is the anniversary of the founding of Shaw University in Raleigh. On that date in 1851 a former Union soldier, Henry Martin Tupper, gathered around him in the old Gulon Hotel on Capitol Square a few ex-slaves for a theological discussion. Before the meeting was over, plans for a school for freedmen had been made. Tupper, a native of Monson, Mass., and graduate of Amherst College and Newton Theological Seminary, had decided during the war that he wanted to devote his career to the education of Southern blacks. So, as soon as the war was over, he packed up and came to Raleigh.

Within a year after the Guion Hotel meeting, the Raleigh Institute for the training of ministers and teachers was opened in Raleigh. The 75 students met classes on the second floor of a frame church building constructed by volunteers.

There was little ready money in the South, so Tupper sent northward appeals for financial assistance to the new school. One who quickly responded was Elijah Shaw of Wales, Mass., who moved to Raleigh to help Tupper. His initial gift of $5,000 led to the relocation and re-naming of the school in 1870 as the Shaw Collegiate Institute.

Another major contributor was Jacob Estey and his sons of Brattleboro, Vt., who gave $8,000. For them was named Estey Hall, the oldest surviving building on the campus. Because of its historical and architectural significance, Estey Hall has been placed on the National Register of Historical Places.

Conceived as a modest school, the institution in 1875 obtained a new charter from the General Assembly. It was named Shaw University, and although the races were separated in the public schools, the Shaw charter provided that the new university should not deny admission to anyone because of race, color or previous conditions of servitude.

With the new charter and great optimism, Henry Tupper set out to build university in fact as well as in name. He succeeded in attracting more and better teachers, and the school grew in size and stature.

In 1882 the university established the Leonard Medical School, which offered a four-year course of study based upon a standard baccalaureate degree. With a teaching hospital, the curriculum combined pre-clinical and clinical instruction into a pattern that was adopted by other medical schools. Thus Leonard was one of the pioneer medical schools in the nation.

By the end of the century Shaw consisted of schools of medicine, pharmacy, law, and theology, as well as the college of arts and sciences and a normal school.

Tupper died in 1893, and for 25 years the university continued offering various professional degrees. However, funding became increasingly difficult, and in 1918 the schools of law, medicine, and pharmacy were discontinued. The university then concentrated on the arts, sciences, and religion.

In the 1960s the university expanded its campus and revitalized its programs. At the time the institution totaled up some of its contributions to society since its founding in 1851:

—More than 10,000 students had enrolled, including 5,000 who had obtained degrees. Of these, 600 degrees were in medicine and over 70 in pharmacy.

—The founding of five other North Carolina state colleges (Elizabeth City, Fayetteville, Winston-Salem, A and T, and North Carolina Central) could be traced to initiatives by Shaw University.

—Shaw was the first institution of higher education for blacks to achieve an "A" rating from the Board of Education.

—The university had trained more than 50 per cent of the black principals in the public schools of North Carolina and ranked third among all colleges of the state in the number of graduates serving as teachers in the state.

No Proviso To Apply Penalty

RALEIGH (AP) — While a study showed that many state licensing boards "flagrantly" violate a state law requiring disclosure of their activities, no action can be taken against the boards because the law has no penalty provision.

The study was conducted during the last year by lawyers for the state Department of Justice and a report was issued Tuesday.

A 1957 state law requires licensing boards to file financial statements and data on their activities with the secretary of state and attorney general. Also, the law provides that the reports are to be public.

Justice Department lawyers found 10 of the state's 35 licensing boards have filed no reports and reports from many others were termed haphazard. The law has been "flagrantly violated," the report said.

Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten, who has been critical of licensing boards, said he will ask the General Assembly to place a moratorium on creation of new boards.

Edmisten has said that the boards can protect the public by ensuring high standards for some professions, but he has questioned whether the boards sometimes protect those in the profession by limiting the number of new persons allowed to practice.

Those cited for failing to file the required reports were boards regulating auctioneers, foresters, hearing aid dealers and fitters, house movers, landscape contractors, nursing home administrators, opticians, practicing psychologists, speech and language pathologists and audiologists, and watchmakers.

Spokesmen for several of the boards said they were unaware of the law requiring them to file the reports.

Twin Cities Buses Idle

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — City busses weren't running today as unionized drivers and mechanics struck for higher pay and improved fringe benefits.

Spokesmen for the Winston-Salem Transit Authority said no supervisory or administrative personnel would be driving. And the 35 drivers and mechanics who are not members of Local 248 of the Transport Workers Union decided to stay out with the 63 who are.

In Charlotte, unionized city bus drivers and mechanics have been on strike almost a month for higher pay.

The union members in Winston-Salem started picketing the city garage after the contract expired Tuesday night and they voted shortly afterward not to accept a proposed new one.

The buses are operated for the city by the American Transit Co. of St. Louis. Mauri Biddle of American Transit, a negotiator for management, said he was surprised that the new contract had been voted down because the terms had been set forth by a union committee and accepted by the transit authority.

He said the drivers and mechanics, who now make $4.17 an hour, had first asked $1.50 more over a two-year contract, but the demand had been whittled down to 83 cents more during the negotiations.

Still Asking Help In Year-Old Murders

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Police are still appealing for help in the case of a woman and her two children beaten to death more than a year ago.

"We need any information we can get; there is no lead that is too big or too small," says Hubert Stone, chief of detectives for the Robeson County Sheriff's Department. "Sooner or later, something will turn up; we hope it will be sooner," he adds.

Scholarships To Tar Heels

CHICAGO (AP) — Additional scholarships, each for $800, were awarded to North Carolina 4-H members at the organization's annual meeting here this week.

The six scholarship winners and their categories announced Tuesday were: Katie Fortmeyer of Garner, citizenship; Margie Sanderson of Four Oaks, dress revue; Ramon Smith of Dana, forestry; Renee Adams of Hiddente, horse; Phillipa Smith of Dana, leadership; and Larry Revelle of Ahsokie, public speaking.

Four other winners were announced earlier in the congress which began Sunday.

Sammy Jr., 3, and Sidney Lou, 16 months, were found Nov. 20, 1975, in a densely wooded area of the Burnt Island section of the county.

The autopsy showed that all died from blows from a blunt instrument to the head and the body.

That was about all that could be concluded from the autopsy or evidence at the scene, Stone said.

"We've had a tough go of it," he says. "We have spent hundreds and hundreds of man-hours trying to find clues that will lead us to the killer. But we still do not have enough evidence to make an arrest."

"We have run down leads that didn't make any sense. We have tracked down virtually everything that we have heard and still haven't come up with an answer."

Stone said Mrs. Callahan, who was separated from her husband, apparently left her apartment on Sept. 24, 1975 with her children, possibly accompanied by someone she knew.

She and the children were reported missing that day.

Dozens of persons have been questioned and three have been given lie-detector tests by the State Bureau of Investigation, but nothing conclusive has resulted, Stone said.

Sentencing Due Friday

DURHAM (AP) — Sentencing is scheduled Friday for a 16-year-old Durham youth who pleaded no contest to second degree murder in the stabbing death last May 29 of a 6-month-old infant.

The youth, Roy Lee Newman, was initially charged with first degree murder, but the prosecution allowed him to plead no contest to the lesser charge. A no contest plea has the effect of being found guilty.

During the Superior Court hearing Tuesday, Investigator John D. Britton of the Durham Public Safety Department testified that an autopsy showed Tasha Clay had been stabbed 32 times.

Patricia Clay, 17, of Durham, the child's mother, testified that she and a friend had left the baby with Newman May 29 while they went to a store for milk. She said that it wasn't until Newman had left that she discovered the child had been stabbed.

Britton testified that Newman had said he was drinking and smoking marijuana earlier that day and when the baby started crying he laid next to her with a knife "and started sticking the knife in her."

Will Unveil New Statue

RALEIGH (AP) — An 11-foot Sir Walter Raleigh will be unveiled Friday in the city which bears his name.

The statue of the Elizabethan scholar, explorer and statesman was sculpted and brought to Raleigh at a cost of about $40,000. It will be placed in the Bicentennial Plaza, between the Capitol and the Legislative Building.

Among the funds for the statue was $10,226 left over from the penny donations of North Carolina school children early in this century. Several corporate donations made in recent years accounted for the remainder of the money.

Unveiling the statue will be Gov. Jim Holshouser. It was sculpted by New York artist Bruno Lucchesi and cast in bronze in Italy.

Several of those who as children contributed to the fund are expected to be on hand for the unveiling.

New Prexy Of Poetry Group

Bus Check-Up

BURNSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The state has ordered all school buses in North Carolina inspected for corrosion and rusting in brake systems following a wreck in Yancey County, says the schools superintendent of that mountain county.

E.F. Hunter says the order from the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction came after investigators discovered that a brake line weakened by corrosion caused a school bus to tumble down a 60-foot bank on Nov. 12. Sixteen Yancey County children were injured when the brakes failed as the bus started down a hill.

Hunter said an investigation showed that the hydraulic line carrying brake fluid to the rear wheels had developed a pinhole leak near where the line passes over the rear axle. "The line runs on top of the frame and under the body of the bus and it is very hard to see," he said.

All Yancey County school buses were called in for inspection immediately after the wreck, and the hydraulic lines on four were replaced, Hunter said.

Talk-A-Thon

An 80 hour Talk-A-Thon is slated to get underway at 6 p.m. today on the Downtown Mall in Greenville, to run until 6 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4.

Undertaken by the Literary Club of the D. H. Conley High School, it is a benefit drive to raise funds to aid the Conley SCA in their effort to secure money to pave the student parking lot.

Two students will attempt to achieve the goal of 80 continuous hours of talking. Robert Greene, a junior, is scheduled to talk for the entire period, with Jackie Lilley joining him Dec. 2-4.

A number of Greenville and Pitt County merchants are sponsoring the Talk-A-Thon. In addition, there will also be a bake sale as well as a sale of crafts made by Mrs. Rae Bartlett's Art Class.

The public is invited to come by to listen to the talkers, and to support the event.

Fill Posts On Commission

Governor Jim Holshouser has reappointed three members and named three new members to the Historic Bath Commission. Reappointed were Mrs. G. W. Marsh, Sr., of Bath, Mrs. Anice H. Tripp of Greenville, and John A. Wilkinson of Washington. They will serve terms expiring June 30, 1981.

Mrs. Louise H. Vosburgh of Washington was named to the unexpired term of the late Dr. W. T. Ralph. That term ends June 30, 1978.

Miss Frances J. Ratcliff of Pantego and Dr. Ira May Hardy, II, of Greenville were appointed to the Commission for terms expiring June 30, 1981.

Mrs. Vosburgh is a member of the Beaufort County Concert Association.

Miss Ratcliff graduated from East Carolina University. She has been active in the N.C. Agriculture Foundation and is a member of the Farm Bureau.

Dr. Hardy is president of Eastern Carolina Neurological Associates. He has been active in the Heart Fund, Cancer Fund and the Greenville Kiwanis Club. He has also served on the Malpractice Study Commission and the Bath Planning Board.

Not Quite 'Civil War' Between Sun Belt And North

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer
Houston vs. Detroit. It is the space age versus the auto age; a battle between cities — for jobs and industry, for people and prosperity.

Sparks are flying between two mayors whose cities embody the disparity between the thriving Sun Belt cities and the aging, deteriorating urban industrial centers of the North.

Fred Hofheinz — white, well-educated and wealthy — is mayor of one of the nation's fastest growing cities. The sixth largest city in the nation, Houston will be No. 5 as soon as the census people get around to saying so.

Coleman Young — black, street-smart and blue collar — is mayor of the community hit hardest by unemployment, 20 per cent last month. Detroit, fifth largest city in the nation for decades, is about to become No. 6 as thousands flee to the suburbs and the Sun Belt.

Speaking in Chicago earlier this month, Hofheinz and Young unloaded their disparate views of American cities. The U.S. Conference of Mayors billed the face-off as: "Two Perspectives."

The two mayors have been exchanging barbs — sometimes amiably, sometimes not — for a while now. Hofheinz has said of Houston, "Here people can still reach the American dream. It is the new Detroit, the new New York. This is where the action is."

Young, attacking a Hofheinz proposal to distribute revenue-sharing funds according to population, rather than according to economic factors, has described the sparring as "the greedy vs. the needy."

In Chicago, Hofheinz said sound government organization was a key factor in Houston's success. Young talked about declining urban economies and said federal policies were partly responsible. An edited summary of their remarks provides a guide to the sometimes conflicting interests of American mayors:

Hofheinz: "Houston (and other cities in the South and the Southwest) have not made the mistakes that many other cities have made. We have avoided the suburban syndrome."

"In 1958, the legislature passed a law that permits local governments in Texas to draw a line five miles around their perimeters exclusively for annexation purposes. Since 1958, there have been no meaningful (suburban) incorporations here ... Houston provides inner city services for the entire metropolitan area, and most of the area is paying for them ..."

"Houston has prospered because of the prudence and moderation of city government."

Later, Young: "I really don't want to make lightly of the good management and the good future that has befallen Houston, but it doesn't hurt to wake up one morning and find your central city park has got several million dollars of oil."

"No question, that's prudent and good management."

"And it doesn't hurt to have a President (Lyndon B. Johnson) who remembers what his home state was and set up such things as the space center. It doesn't hurt to be the recipient of planned federal economic policy."

"That's why I think it's important that we discuss establishment of an urban investment fund in much the same manner as the federal government in the '30s addressed itself to (helping) a South, that same Sun Belt that we talk about today, that was wallowing in poverty."

Later, Young continued: "Now I guess prudence and good management must be a cyclical type of thing, because 25 or 30 years ago, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco were suffering, if you want to put it that way, with immigration from the South."

"We had the booming industry. We had the bulging general funds."

"In fact, at the root of many of our problems today is the fact that those migrants came from all parts of the country, came from agriculture, came from the South, and are still with us, in the (Northern) cities ..."

Hofheinz, explaining the "philosophy of government" in the Lone Star State, said:

"Local governments have tried to do too much with the property tax. There are limits to what you can accomplish."

"In Houston and in other Texas cities we are willing to spend property taxes for city services, but only for basic city services like fire and police protection, streets and sewers. Not for higher education. Not for welfare matching. Not for a wide range of social service functions that many other cities use property taxes to accomplish."

"The result (of this tax policy) has produced, in Houston, annually, a budget surplus (of $18 million last year) in every year of the city's existence."

"In my judgment, this kind of financial solvency, and this kind of (resulting) low taxes on city government, has been a primary reason for the growth of my city and many other cities" in the Sun Belt.

And Hofheinz added: "To take advantage of our financial success, individuals and businesses from all over the country are moving to Houston, and they are moving to cities all over the Sun Belt."

"It is migration that has brought us a transfusion of a large number of very industrious people. Some of them are from Detroit, in fact two young police officers in the last class."

Young, whose city is losing industry and people both to the South and the suburbs, said:

"We're faced with an exodus of business, an exodus of the middle-class population."

"There are some who would say that this is a natural phenomenon, a natural social and economic development. I don't think that that is true when you consider that this exodus was made possible with our money, money to construct expressways that cut into the heart of our tax base, that truncated our communities and our businesses, and offered an invitation for our residents to leave."

"It was a planned governmental approach. It was public policy to build expressways facilitating the exodus. It was public policy for HUD and other housing agencies to insure mortgages out in the suburbs as opposed to the city."

Hofheinz, who like Young and most other American mayors is looking for more money from Washington, said:

"Just as outmigration brings problems to Detroit, immigration has brought trouble to Houston."

"... We have our blight, we have our areas of decay. But because of the annexation, our problems get lost in the average."

He concluded: "We are not getting the (federal) help to deal with the growth syndrome that other cities get to deal with contraction."

Young, in reply: "If you will review the contributions, contributions that the average city makes to the federal government as against the tax monies of all kinds received from that federal government, you would see that revenue sharing is more of an objective than a reality."

"On a statewide basis, for instance, Michigan ranks eighth in sending money to Washington. It rates 50th in receiving money back."

"I would submit that we should have a program for every city in America including Houston. And as soon as Hof-heinz turns in Houston's budget surplus to the general fund, I'll be willing to support him getting some revenue sharing."

Preparing A Canoe Trail

MURFREESBORO, N.C. (AP) — A 70-mile historic canoe trail, the first ever in North Carolina, is set to be completed next year in Hertford County.

Work on the trail is to begin this week with the moving of a house along the Meherrin River to Murfreesboro, said Ted Shaw, adviser to the Wicacoan Chapter of Order of the Arrow, Boy Scouts of America.

Shaw said the house, used as offices of a fertilizer company until this year, was donated by the company to the Murfreesboro Historic Association, which in turn gave it to the Scouts for use as a trail welcome center.

Artifacts from the historic trail will be displayed in the house, which will be moved to the association's property along the river. The center will also provide overnight accommodations for canoeists, house Scout offices and mark the start of the 70-mile trail.

Shaw said the trail will offer study and research sites on the Algonquin Indians, Civil War battles and encampments, and plantations.

Canoes and related equipment will be available at the center, Shaw said.

The trail will lead east down the river to Potocasi Creek, then south on the Chowan River to the Wicacoan River. Campsites along the trail will be designated by trail markers.

Shaw said the trail will be open to use by the public except when being used by Scouts. There will be no charge for use of equipment furnished by the center, he said.

'Cream-Line' Is Booming Dairy

FOWLERVILLE, Mich. (AP) — Putting the rich, foamy cream layer back on the top of bottled milk has turned a family-run dairy in central Michigan into a thriving business.

Harry Kreeger said his dairy business was flourishing a year ago. Then the Kreegers brought back the "cream line" by giving customers everything that comes from the cow, with no additions or subtractions.

Now, the Kreegers sell 500 gallons of the milk in returnable glass bottles every day out of stores here, in Williamston and Howell. Their slogan is "Direct from Moo to You."

Every bottle of Kreeger milk bears a label that the milk is only pasteurized, not homogenized, so the cream floats on top.

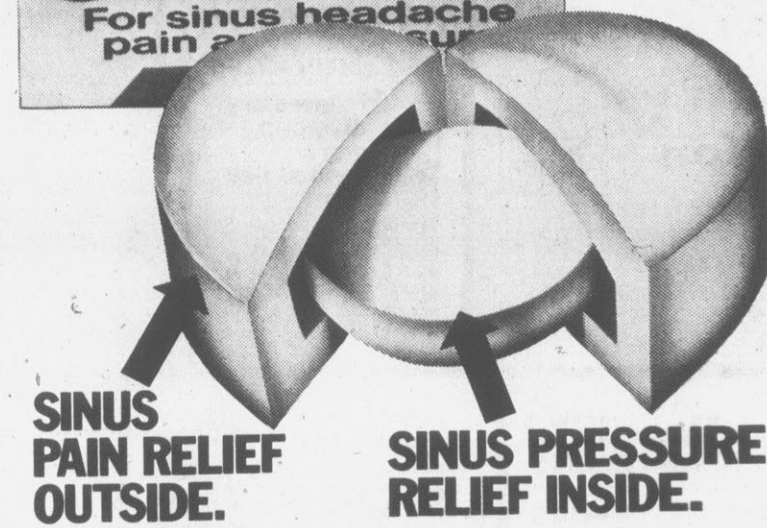

"When we started, we didn't know if we'd sell more than a gallon," Kreeger recalls.

"Once we got people to buy that first bottle, they came back because they couldn't get their kids to drink anything else," said his son, Rick.

The first night polo game was played under the lights at Baltimore's Homewood Field in 1931.

UPS Strike Nears End

WASHINGTON (AP) — A settlement may be near in the 77-day-old Teamsters strike that has shut down United Parcel Service operations along the East Coast.

Company and union bargainers met again today in an effort to clean up a handful of local issues delaying tentative agreement of a new contract for 17,000 UPS employees. Sources said the bargainers had resolved the major issues in the dispute. Meanwhile, the union called in representatives of 74 striking locals to review the new contract once agreement is reached. Rank-and-file approval also will be needed before the strike can be ended.

The walkout, which began on Sept. 15, crippled UPS operations in 15 states from Maine to South Carolina and caused backups in the Postal Service, which has had to shoulder the added load at the height of the Christmas mailing season.

The major issue in the dispute has been UPS plan to hire mostly part-time workers for inside jobs in the future.

Doty Asked For Resignation
RALEIGH (AP) — Mercer M. Doty, head of the General Assembly's Fiscal Research Division, confirmed today the Legislative Services Commission has asked for his resignation.

But he said he would "probably not" step down voluntarily. He added, "I've got 30 days to think about it." If he declines to resign by the Dec. 30 date set by the commission, he could be fired. The commission held an unannounced meeting Monday and voted to ask for Doty's resignation.

Elmhurst PTA Meets Thursday

The program will be a one-act opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors," performed by the fifth and sixth grade choirs.

A reception honoring Mrs. Betty Sue Forrest, former principal and teacher, will be held immediately following the meeting. All parents and friends are invited.

Month Saw Farm Prices Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers receive for their raw products dropped 3 per cent last month, led by declines in the prices of grain, cattle, hogs and grapefruit, according to the Agriculture Department.

The department said Tuesday that higher prices for eggs and soybeans softened the decline, which has coincided with a slowdown in the rise of consumer food prices.

It was the fourth straight month of decline. J. Dawson Ahalt, the department's staff economist, said over-all farm prices "went down a little more than I thought they would" last month. He said he was not making predictions but felt that "we're coming out of the woods" on depressed cattle prices.

Prices farmers pay to meet expenses fell one-half of 1 per cent last month, but averaged 5 per cent above a year ago, the report said.

The slide forced the department's parity ratio down again, averaging 66 per cent of Nov. 15, its lowest point since early 1933, in the depths of the nation's worst economic depression.

As used by the Agriculture Department, the parity ratio expresses a relationship between prices farmers receive and those they pay out. Theoretically, at 100 per cent, the ratio would show farmers with the same buying power they had in 1910-14, when costs and prices were considered in fair balance.

The report said prices of meat animals dropped 3 per cent during the month, hog prices fell $1.80 per 100 pounds and food grain prices declined 5 per cent.

Eggs were up nearly five cents over the month and grapefruit prices fell from $4.33 a box in mid-October to an average of $1.44 as of Nov. 15.

Cold Winter
WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation is in for the coldest winter in recent years, the U.S. Weather Service says.

The service, updating its long-range forecast for winter, said Monday that northern air currents will carry cold arctic air further south into the nation's eastern half this winter.

ECU Dominates All-Southern Team

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Brian Ruff, a 225-pound senior linebacker for The Citadel who's been making life miserable for opposing running backs the last three years, led the balloting for the second year in a row for the All-Southern Conference football team.

The Bulldog star, who The Citadel's Bobby Ross calls "the most complete player I've ever coached," was named on 59 of the 62 ballots cast by coaches of the six teams eligible for the league title and members of the Southern Conference Media Association.

Ruff was one of four players named Tuesday to the All-Southern for the third time and one of three for the third straight year. Also honored for a third year in a row were punter Joe Parker of Appalachian State and defensive back Jim Bolding of East Carolina.

Defensive end Cary Godette of East Carolina, a 235-pound senior who missed the 1974 season with an injury after being honored in 1973, was chosen for the second straight year after his comeback.

Godette was named on 46 ballots to trail Ruff on the defensive unit. There were 46 votes each on the offensive unit for Jeff Holcomb, Furman's 225-pound senior tackle, and Tom Rozantz, William and Mary's 180-pound sophomore quarterback, the league leader in total offense.

Joining Rozantz in the offensive backfield are William and Mary's Jim Krus, the conference rushing leader, and East Carolina's Eddie Hicks, who ranked No. 2 in ground gaining. Pete Conaty of East Carolina is the placekicker.

There was a tie for the "wild card" spot — either a flanker or running back — between flanker Tommy Southard of Furman and running back Andrew Johnson of The Citadel, who set a league record of 1,373 yards rushing in 1974 but sat out last year with an injury.

The offensive line has William and Mary's Ken Cloud at tight end, Appalachian's Donnie Holt at split end, Holcomb and Virginia Military's Ed Glackin at tackle, Appalachian's Andre Staton and East Carolina's Wayne Bolt at guard and Appalachian's Gill Beck at center.

Godette and Bruno Schmalhofer of William and Mary are the defensive ends, Jack Dove of East Carolina and Ned Stepanovich of VMI the tackles. The linebackers are Ruff, Harold Randolph of East Carolina and Larry Anderson of Furman — all repeaters from last year.

East Carolina took three of the four defensive backfield spots with Bolding, Reggie Pinkney and Ernest Hall. Ralph Ferguson of The Citadel got the other berth.

Besides the four three-year choices and Randolph and Anderson at linebacker, repeat selections were Staton, Beck and Ferguson. Johnson was a 1974 choice and conference player of the year.

There were 16 underclassmen on last year's team, and seven failed to repeat. Tight end Dickie Regan of The Citadel and quarterback Robby Price of Appalachian were hampered by injuries.

Others knocked off were defensive backs Mark Gordon of Furman and Quinton McKinney of Appalachian, placekicker Gary Davis of Appalachian and running back Emmitt Hamilton of Appalachian and Larry Robinson of Furman.

Robinson set a conference career rushing record of 3,038 yards. But he also lost his starting job most of the season to Harry King before coming on strong late in the year.

This year's underclass list includes sophomores Cloud, Rozantz, Hicks and Hall and juniors Southard, Bolt, Beck, Krus, Stepanovich and Randolph.

Rozantz passed for 1,167 yards and ran for 382 more for 1,569 yards and an average of 142.4 yards per game in total offense. Krus had 1,164 yards rushing for a 105.8 average. Hicks ran for 897 yards, Johnson for 747.

Among the receivers, Southard led the conference with 39 catches. Cloud had 19, Holt 15.

ECU Strong In Sprinters

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University's indoor track team will be after some conference records come the season-ending Southern Conference meet this spring, but Coach Bill Carson feels that the Pirates will have to have some help to come up with the league title.

"We can win the championship this year, but it's going to take a good combination of things. Unless something unexpected happens, we should have a lot of points in the 60-yard dash, the 60 high hurdles, the 440, the 600, the long and triple jumps, the shot and the mile and two-mile relays," arson said.

"But unless William & Mary, Furman, Marshall and Appalachian State can pretty well divide up the points in the distance events, we won't be able to win."

Carson has built this year's team more toward domination of the outdoor season, where the springs are more important that the distance ones. In indoor track, the distance events cover more points, hurting the Pirates more.

"We're going to be very strong in the 60, the hurdles, the quarter-mile, the 600, the long and triple jumps and the shot put. We have at least five good people in most of these." Only in the shot are the Pirates down to as few as two quality people.

"We should be respectable in the 880 and the 1,000. We have good depth here, but not quite the same quality. We'll do well, however."

Carson rates his chances in the two-mile relay as very good, and in the mile as "out of sight." He added that, breaking the conference record of will be one of the main goals of the team.

This year, Carson is moving Carter Suggs, Otis Melvin and Calvin Austin into the 440 event. "We'll use them there a great deal. This will give us a strong team at quarter-mile, but will weaken us somewhat in the 60-yard dash. We'll still be able to spot them in the 60, however. Doing this will help us in the spring, and it will also help us to qualify our mile relay team for the nationals."

In the 60s, Carson still has Larry Austin, Donnie Mack and James Rankins, all capable of 6.1 or better. "All three of them are national caliber. It gives us a solid three and we can move one of the others in when we need to."

Marvin Rankins returns to lead the 60-hurdles. He should be a national qualifier, along with Bobby Phillips. A surprise thus far, with speed better than expected, is freshman Eddie Kornegay. George Phillips, the conference long jump champ, has also worked in the hurdles, and has turned in good times. "Bill Bryant could also work in here," Carson said. "It's a strong event for us."

In the 440, Bobby Franklin, the indoor champ, joins the three sprinters already mentioned. Charlie Moss or James Freeman will run here or at 600, where ever Carson feels they will be better. Terry Perry and Jay Purdie are also candidates at this spot.

Ben and Mel Duckenfield, the 1974 champ and runner-up, respectively, return for the 600. Joining them are freshman James McCullough, Wayne Chaison and Valdez Charis.

"We could go into the conference meet with five people in each of these events with good times, and I think it could be very possible to qualify three in the finals. But we must do it in these events to have a chance at the title."

James Willett returns in the 880-yard run, with Ricky Bizzell and Bill White adding depth. Keith Urquhart and James Green are both prospects in the 1,000-yard run.

"We'll miss Charles Avery (academically ineligible during the winter. He could run anything between the 440 and the mile."

Carson feels that from the five 880 and 1,000 runners, he can put together a good two-mile relay team.

In the mile, Ray Moore will be the top Pirate, while James Dill, Lynn Phelps and Charles Powell will handle the two or three mile events.

"We have great depth in the long jump. There are seven quality people who could qualify," Carson said. They include defending champ George Jackson, Billy Etchison, Bobby Phillips, Mike Hodge, Herman McIntyre, Tony McKoy and Paul Bolen.

Jackson, McIntyre and Hodge also give the Pirates a quality trio in the triple jump.

Tom Watson and Mike Harris return in the shot put and 35-pound weight throw, although Harris is hurt and may see little action until the conference meet.

Al McCrimmon is the long high jumper, and the Pirates will not have a pole vaulter.

"We are really using the indoor season to prepare for the outdoor one," Carson said. "But we will put a full effort into the conference meet. The key is how well the other four strong teams knock each other off in the distance events. If they do, then I think we can be right in there in the battle for the championship."

Few NBA Fans Brave The Cold

Suppose they held a basketball game and nobody came

...? It almost happened in Buffalo Tuesday night, but 994 hardy souls braved 10-degree temperature and clambered through two feet of snow to get to Memorial Auditorium.

The gate sale, the number of tickets sold at the door, was 73. Count em', 73.

It was the lowest total attendance in the history of the Buffalo franchise.

But for their efforts, the Braves' faithful followers were rewarded with a 119-114 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics, as Bob McAdoo scored 17 of his 29 points in the final quarter. McAdoo sank three free throws in the final eight seconds, clinching the victory.

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association, the New York Nets nipped the New York Knicks 104-103, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Denver Nuggets 99-93, the Indiana Pacers beat the Phoenix Suns 103-97, the Golden State Warriors topped the Chicago Bulls 125-120, the San Antonio Spurs nipped the Detroit Pistons 130-129, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 115-106 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Washington Bullets 109-102.

After falling behind 16-7 in the first five minutes, the Braves scored 12 points in a row and were on top the rest of the way. Bruce Seals led a Seattle comeback, scoring 10 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter before fouling out, then rookie Bob Wilkerson converted an offensive rebound, putting the Sonics within 116-114 with 12 seconds left.

But McAdoo iced it with his three free throws.

Nets 104, Knicks 103

In the first regular-season meeting between the two New York clubs, Nate Archibald scored 15 of his game-high 34 points in the fourth quarter, sparking the Nets to victory. Backcourtmate John Williamson added 24.

Bucks 115, Blazers 106
Brian Winters scored a career-high 43 points as the Bucks snapped a nine-game losing streak and won their first game for new head Coach Don Nelson.

Pacers 103, Suns 97
Wil Jones and Dave Robisch combined for 25 points in the fourth quarter as the Pacers erased a nine-point deficit and beat Phoenix.

Warriors 125, Bulls 120
Chicago went down to its 12th straight defeat, a team record, as Phil Smith scored 33 points and Rick Barry 28 for the Warriors. One bright spot for the Bulls was the play of rookie Scott May, who netted 24 points.

Cavaliers 99, Nuggets 93
Cleveland posted its 12th straight home victory and fourth straight win over-all as Bobby Smith scored 20 points, 14 in a second-period surge and six in the closing moments.

Spurs 130, Pistons 129
Larry Kenon and George Gervin scored 28 points apiece as the Spurs posted their eighth straight home victory. The game was decided at the foul line, where San Antonio was 36 of 52 and Detroit 16 of 19.

Lakers 109, Bullets 102
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 26 points and a season-high 10 assists for Los Angeles, which withstood a 35-point effort by Washington's Phil Chenier.

Heisman Trophy

Douglas Proud Of Black Sports Accomplishments

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — When Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett cradled the bronze Heisman Trophy in his arms Tuesday, there wasn't a prouder smile in the house than that belonging to graying, bespectacled Herbert P. Douglas Jr.

Another black had made good.

"I have a lot of reasons to be happy," the 54-year-old New York wine and spirits importer said. "My alma mater, Pittsburgh, at last has won a Heisman. The black football player now has come to full stature."

Douglas, bronze medalist in the long jump in the 1948 Olympics, was one of two black players who broke the color barrier at Pitt in 1945. He experienced the early knocks and frustrations of athletes of his race — shut out of big time college and professional sports for so many years.

"There were only 39 black players on major college squads in the entire country in 1945," he recalled. "Buddy Young and I once went over the list, man for man."

"Now we have hundreds. We have our sixth Heisman Trophy winner in the last 16 years — our seventh if you count Archie Griffin twice. We have come a long way."

"My only regret is that most black players, admittedly recognized for their great athletic ability, still are being short-changed in the fringe areas — endorsements, TV, off-season opportunities and things like that. Only O.J. Simpson has succeeded in this category."

Ernie Davis of Syracuse became the first black to win the Heisman in 1961. His appointment was followed by triumph and tragedy. President John F. Kennedy requested a meeting with him. A few months later Davis was dead from leukemia.

'Bird' Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Right-handed pitcher Mark Fidrych, the flamboyant crowd-pleaser of the Detroit Tigers, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year today.

Fidrych, who laced his mound performances with eccentric behavior such as talking to baseballs and patting down mounds, collected 22 of a possible 24 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The remaining two votes went to Butch Wynegar, Minnesota's hard-hitting catcher. Fidrych, a 22-year-old from Worcester, Mass., proved to be not only a winner with a 19-9 record and league-leading earned run average of 2.34, but was one of the biggest gate attractions in the major leagues in 1976.

The theatrical mound antics of Fidrych, nicknamed "The Bird," caught the fancy of the fans and the television people.

In the 29 games Fidrych started, he drew a total paid attendance of 901,339. Quite frequently, the announcement in advance that "The Bird" was going to pitch would be enough to sell out a park.

Sport At Crossroads, Swimming Coach Says

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The sport of swimming is at a crossroads in the United States, especially women's swimming. N.C. State swim coach Don Easterling told the Greenville Sports Club yesterday.

Easterling, who counts several Olympic swimmers among his Wolfpack, pointed out that women are closing the gap on men in the sprints. "Is it because women are getting better or men slower?" he asked.

Easterling answered this question by saying that women are finding a new way of life in athletics. "But I'm not sure if the women in this country are ready to really pay the price to compete in college."

He added that participation in athletics might be another way of getting attention.

Turning to the rapid progress made by women swimmers in Eastern Europe, especially East Germany, Easterling pointed out that there is a large gap between the progress of the men and that of the women. "In the current international standings, the United States had 146 of the top 300 swimmers. They hold 13 of 15 world records. Our women hold just 91 of the 300 places, an are first in just two events. East Carolina is first in 12 of 15, and they hold 12 of 15 world records."

Comparing the Olympic medal production, Easterling noted that the US men won 51 medals as compared to five for the East Germans. But the US women won just 17, while the East German women took 30.

"Is it the coaching, or is it scientific coaching?" the coach asked. "They come from a different culture than ours. They have special training camps, special status and privilege. And that gets them things what we take for granted."

Easterling wonders why East Germany is not having the same success with the men. "I can't really believe it is the coaching or they would be dominating both."

Another possibility, he said, could be the high use of steroids, and other chemical means of strengthening the women. "And it's not worth it," he declared.

Turning to North Carolina swimming, Easterling feels that the sport has come a long way. "In the Atlantic Coast Conference, the improvement just this year so far scares me. There's been a 500 per cent improvement in the last few years."

Easterling added that the biggest problem with swimming is the lack of recognition. "People only see our swimmers every four years when the Olympics are on television. We people in swimming don't do enough to sell our sport."

Next week, the Sports Club will hear East Carolina swim coach Ray Scharf and wrestling coach John Welborn.

Lefty Sports Cast On Bench

By KEN RAPPAPORT
AP Sports Writer

Lefty Driesell was wearing a cast on his right leg and everybody could see the shoe on the other foot.

For years, the Maryland basketball coach has been stressing that pain is part of basketball. "You've got to play hurt," has been a favorite Driesell line.

Tuesday night, Driesell "coached hurt" and it might have inspired his 16th-ranked team to an 86-70 victory over Ball State.

Driesell did not let a little thing like surgery on a ruptured Achilles tendon keep him from his appointed rounds as sideline cheerleader.

Driesell, who underwent surgery on his foot last Saturday, watched Tuesday night's game with his leg propped straight out — a sign of "Go Terps," plastered on the sock covering his cast. But when his charges needed encouragement, Driesell was on his feet, stomping with his healthy left foot and beating the floor with a menacing crunch.

When the Terps blew an early 14-point lead, Driesell was stomping.

When a six-point string later pulled Ball State within six points, Driesell stomped again.

When the Cardinals came closer still later in the game, Driesell whacked the floor with his crutch.

It seemed to be a signal for Larry Gibson to help the Terps stop looking like turtles. Gibson scored 19 of his 21 points in the second half. He also led both teams with 12 rebounds.

"Larry came in and got things rolling," Driesell said of his 6-foot-10 sophomore. "He has a lot of ability — and he's going to get better."

Meanwhile, Missouri whipped South Dakota 85-76 as Kim anderson led six players in double figures with 16 points. The defending Big Eight champions overcame numerous mistakes to beat a markedly inferior foe.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Long Beach State walloped UC-Irvine 87-54 behind Richard Johnson's 19 points; St. John's, N.Y., stopped Davidson 58-57 as Cecil Relford scored 19 points and Glen Williams 18; Duke routed Johns Hopkins 85-66 behind a 22-point, 13-rebound performance by freshman Mike Gminski, and Buffalo held off LIU 86-83 on Ed Johnson's four free throws in the final minute.

Also, Villanova breezed past Stonehill 83-63 as Keith Herron scored 31 points; Florida State crushed Missouri Western 109-80 behind David Thompson's 29 points; Ricky Free scored 24 points and collected 10 rebounds as Columbia outscored CCNY 100-75, and TCU turned back Texas-Arlington 75-69 on Cornelius McFadgon's two field goals in the last two minutes.

Five SC Teams In Action

By The Associated Press

It's the second time around tonight for five of the seven teams eligible for the Southern Conference basketball championship with four trying to protect their unbeaten records.

The Citadel's Bulldogs and Furman's Paladins appear to have the toughest assignments, the Bulldogs traveling to Penn and the Paladins to Clemson. Both won their openers at home.

In their second start at home, William and Mary's Indians are big favorites over Hampden-Sydney, even though the small college Tigers are 2-0. East Carolina's Pirates also play at home against new member Western Carolina, 1-0, which is not eligible for the title.

Appalachian State's Mountaineers, who dropped their first start Monday night at Auburn, return home to face UNC-Wilmington.

The other two new members also see action. Marshall, 1-0, goes to ninth-ranked North Carolina and Tennessee-Chatanooga, 0-1, makes its home debut against Alabama-Huntsville.

In the only Tuesday night action, Davidson's Wildcats fell to 1-1 in a 58-57 defeat at the hands of St. John's, N.Y., now 3-0.

The Redmen built a 35-33 lead at intermission, but Davidson kept it close throughout the second half and had a chance to win when sophomore John Gerdy worked the ball downcourt but couldn't get off a shot as time ran out.

Cecil Relford had 19 points and Glen Williams 18 for St. John's, and George Johnson pulled down 31 rebounds. The Wildcats were led by Gerdy and freshman Rod Owens with 16 points and Pat Hickert with 13.

Blue Devils, Terps Post Non-ACC Wins

By The Associated Press

A blend of new and old — freshman center Mike Gminski and Olympic gold medalist Tate Armstrong — have helped the Duke Blue Devils to an 85-66 basketball victory over Johns Hopkins.

Gminski scored 22 points and had 13 rebounds as Duke, the home team, raises its record to 2-1 Tuesday night.

It was the opening game for the Blue Jays, who had pulled within 12 points with 12 minutes remaining to play. At that point, Armstrong, had been held to only four points in the first 29 minutes, hit three quick baskets.

That started a Duke surge which widened the lead and enabled coach Bill Foster to empty his bench.

All five Duke starters finished in double figures. Mark Crow and Jim Spanarkel had 14 points apiece, and Cameron Hall and Armstrong had 10 each.

The other Atlantic Coast Conference team which played Tuesday night, Maryland, also won at home, 86-70 over Ball State.

The 16th ranked Maryland Terps saw their 14-point lead in the first half dwindle to four points, but then picked up midway in the second half, led by 6-foot-10 sophomore center Larry Gibson. He scored 19 of his 21 points in the second half, and tallied all but two of the Terp points in a 14-point surge midway in the second half.

Steve Sheppard finished with 19 points and Brad Davis with 17 for Maryland, now 1-1.

Three ACC teams play tonight, all at home. It will be Marshall at North Carolina, Furman at Clemson and E. Tennessee State at Wake Forest.

North Carolina has dropped from third to ninth in the weekly national basketball poll after losing to Wake Forest last Saturday for the championship of the North Carolina Big Four Tournament.

Wake Forest, which won the tournament for the third straight year, has made the national rankings as No. 14.

Clemson won its own IPTAY Tournament last weekend.

'Serious' Stroke Puts Murtaugh In Hospital

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Danny Murtaugh, who retired at the end of last season as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been hospitalized with a stroke, believed serious.

He was taken by ambulance from his home in nearby Woodlyn Tuesday to Crozier-Chester Medical Center and placed in the intensive care unit.

A hospital spokesman said Murtaugh, who celebrated his 59th birthday Oct. 8, was semi-conscious and resting comfortably.

"It was described to me as a serious stroke," the spokesman said. "But the extent of damage won't be known until it has been carefully evaluated."

A team of specialists was examining his condition, the spokesman said.

Murtaugh, a former second baseman for the Pirates, became manager of the team midway in the 1975 season, replacing the fired Bobby Bragan.

The Pirates finished second in the National League in 1958 under Murtaugh after placing last or next-to-last the previous eight seasons.

In 1960, he led the Pirates to a World Series triumph over the New York Yankees, but he retired in 1964 due to heart trouble and became a part-time Pittsburgh scout.

It was to be the first of four retirements for Murtaugh as Pirates manager.

He returned briefly to manage the club late in the 1967 season after Harry Walker was fired.

He retired again at the end of that season, only to return in 1970 in what was a major surprise, succeeding the fired Larry Shepard.

Known for his stone-faced, stoic demeanor on the bench, Murtaugh led the Pirates to another World Series triumph in 1971, this time over the Baltimore Orioles.

After that season he retired again. "I want to take some time to smell the roses," he said.

He did not spend long in the rose garden, returning again as Pirates manager in 1973, replacing the fired Bill Virdon.

Murtaugh remained manager until the end of this season in which the Pirates finished second in the National League East after winning titles five of the six previous seasons.

Murtaugh was replaced as manager by Chuck Tanner.

Two Rampants Are All-Conf.

Two members of the Rose High School football team have been selected to the Division I All-Conference team.

They are Rocky Butler and MacDonald Washington. Both of the Rampants are members of the defensive unit. Butler, a 6-3, 215 pound senior, is a linebacker, while Washington is a 5-11, 160-pound junior defensive back.

Bear Grass Girls Get Third Win, Boys Lose

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School's girls' basketball team captured its third straight victory of the year last night, while the boys were falling for the third time.

The girls took a 43-31 win over Pantego, while the Warriors were taking a 59-36 win over the Bears.

Bear Grass' girls eased out into a 10-6 lead after one period of play, and stretched that to 23-10 by the end of the first half.

Patricia Taylor led Bear Grass with 14 points, while Sandra Crawford added 10. Althea Gibbs led Pantego with 10.

Pantego rushed away to gain a 15-4 lead in the first quarter of the boys' game. The Warriors continued to pull away in the second frame, upping their lead to 25-12 by intermission.

Both teams tossed in 14 points in the third period, moving the score to 39-26. In the final frame, Pantego again outthit the Bears, 20-10.

Andrew McCloud led Pantego with 20 points, while Donnie Carter added 16. Robert Harrison and Jerry Wynne each had 12 for the Bears.

The Bears travel to Jamesville tonight.

SC Brothers Lead Carolinas Tourney

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—A pair of South Carolina brothers held a two stroke lead going into today's second round of the Carolinas Professional Golfers Association Section Pro-Professional championship golf tournament.

The team of Mike Hamilton from Fountain Inn and Jack Hamilton from Edgefield shot a 32 on the front nine and a 33 of the back nine for a seven-under par 65 in Tuesday's opening round.

The $10,000, 54-hole best ball event is being played at Myrtle Beach National Golf Club.

A total of 84 two-man teams started the championship event.

Two strokes behind the Hamiltons with 34-33-67 was the Charlotte, N.C., pair of Gene Thompson and Toby Lawson. Seven teams had 68s.

Barnes Gets One Year Jail

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Detroit Pistons forward Marvin Barnes has been given a one-year prison term for violating probation, but has two weeks to appeal the ruling to the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

Superior Court Judge Anthony Giannini found Tuesday that Barnes violated three years' probation given him in 1974 by carrying a concealed handgun at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Oct. 9.

Ancient Age the gift that has more to give!

More proof that is! Since several leading bourbons recently reduced their proof from 86 proof to 80, you may end up paying the same money you did when they were 86 proof.

Ancient Age could have lowered its proof too, but we didn't. We're a great tasting whiskey and a great value.

Actor Jack Klugman Tries For Quality

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — We are in this restaurant talking with a guy known to play the ponies for a living. To support the ponies and his family, he acts for a living. His name is Jack Klugman.

He currently plays a city medical examiner in "Quincy," which is part of NBC's "Sunday Mystery Movie." He has made six episodes. One aired Oct. 3, another Oct. 10. The third airs tonight.

The first two got good ratings. Still, Klugman broods — and not quietly. He broods with much body English, as if watching the nag he picked in the fifth at Santa Anita die in the home stretch.

"People say, 'Gee, when's your show coming on?'" he grouses, referring to the mysteries of NBC scheduling. "They used to say, 'When's 'Quincy' coming on?'"

"Now they're saying, 'When's what'shisname's show on?'" Pretty soon they forget the name of the network.

It's not that Klugman is bitter. Fer from it. It's just that whether he's grouching or laughing, it all comes out with industrial-strength gusto. He is a man of considerable human juice.

On this occasion, he is tastefully attired in a sports jacket and pressed pants, not at all the sloppy, who-cares-what-I-wear sportswriter he played for five ABC seasons in "The Odd Couple."

But there's still a hint of Oscar, the slapdash character. The restaurant is Spanish, but Klugman is eating, well, halibut. He also is talking rapidly on various subjects, "Quincy" among them.

"Got a call about this one towards the end of the season," he says. "I'd really given up on the season. I'd been offered private eyes, all the sitcoms in the world. No dice. They had no gimmick."

"Then they sent me this," he adds, referring to his NBC show. In it, he plays a medical examiner given to examining far more than the corpus delicti in criminal matters, which makes cops mad.

"Has the greatest gimmick in the world. You can nail the medical profession when you're a cop," he says of his role, "or you can nail the police profession when you're a doctor."

The conversation then turns to writing. Klugman, who won two of his three Emmy awards playing the "Odd Couple" sportswriter, says he is writing in his spare time.

He is trying to cook up a situation comedy about a newspaper columnist. It seems odd, this writing, considering that Klugman has been an actor all his life. He grins, shrugs and says, "Not really."

"I wrote two shows for the Kraft Television Theater," he says, harking back to the early 1950s when television drama was live and he was just getting a name for himself in it.

The second show was wrecked, he contends, when the network put a young-love angle in it.

"I called my agent, said, 'Get that back, I don't want it,'" Klugman says. "The guy said, 'Jack, you gotta learn, that's the business.'"

"But the minute I made that first compromise, all the joy was gone," he moaned.

"I loved to write. But what happened is the same that happens with an actor: The minute you get paid and the pay is big, more than you ever dreamed of, it becomes more important than what you're writing."

Klugman, a veteran of more than 400 TV roles, a score of movies and the Broadway stage, then held forth on the pitfalls of success in acting, particularly in Hollywood.

"I came into this business and never dreamed they paid you," said Jack, one of six children born to an impoverished house painter in Philadelphia.

As a kid, the 52-year-old actor hawked newspapers and was a runner in the neighborhood numbers racket until he got hooked on drama.

"Where I come from, they pay you to paint a house, dig a ditch, but they don't pay you to act," he said. "Jeez, I could have wound up in jail with my background. I was so fortunate to get out."

"But if you start making it, you begin to believe that money, position and success are important because you don't really get that much satisfaction from doing (mild obscenity deleted)."

"So you substitute that satisfaction with, 'I'm going to have the best dressing room, the best parking place.' You want stupid things for what you're not getting in your work."

"But when you're starring, man, what joy I had, what a feeling of satisfaction. I got it in every show. Even when I bombed, I'd learn."

The ex-numbers runner asailed another form of numbers — ratings — and their effect on television.

"Figures," he began. "Figures here equate success with quality. If 'Six Million Dollar Man' is a (ratings) success, it's got quality. Nonsense. But they don't care."

Still, despite what he perceives as little emphasis on quality in television today, he says he just can't bring himself to stroll through his roles.

"Guys say grab the money and run," he observed. Then he shrugged. "I wish I could feel that way, but I can't. Got to give it my best shot every time."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A new attitude where some long-range activity is involved will bring you a better means by which to enhance your success in life. You will have to use your brain and be willing to think out such a course from all sorts of logical angles and reasoning power. Take time to consult with an expert.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to blend the old with the new, the radical with the proven and have more success in your dealings with others. Attend a social function where there is a combination of the formal with the informal.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Give some deep thought to existing conditions and see how you can improve them. You have good workable ideas that can add to present income. Avoid a trickster.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Seek out friends who can assist you to gain your aims more readily and successfully. Make sure you attend some social function to which you may be invited, or do some entertaining of your own.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Convincing one from whom you want a favor is quite easy today and you can progress thereby. Be careful and exact in handling credit affairs. Relax tonight and enjoy home and kin.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Delve into new avenues of expression and step out of that rut you have been in for so long now. Advance more quickly. A new contact can bring real advancement if you listen to advice given you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Apply a little pressure on those who have not kept promises and are keeping you from advancing and get good results. Be sure to handle intelligently some new situation that arises with loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try to please a precise partner who demands that you meet his standards and all is then fine. A civic matter may seem distressing but it can be remedied very quickly now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be enthused about the work ahead of you and it will soon be behind you and efficiently. Come to a better understanding with co-workers, also. Light entertainment in evening is fine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can indulge in some amusement that is appealing, but don't spend too much money. Show more affection for those you like without expecting them to make the overtures first.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show particular attention to kin and gain their affection and goodwill. Get rid of friction that exists there. Don't be taken in by conniving persons, especially in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have problems that need immediate attention in order to solve them wisely. If a short trip is needed, drive with utmost care.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You need money but need to use caution or you could let poor thinking spoil your chances with some new project you have in mind. Listen to what an adviser has to suggest and follow through.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young persons whose mind is buzzing with many ideas for making a more affluent life. Your progeny should be taught to first plan wisely otherwise the eagerness here could spoil it all through lack of precision. Sports are a must here, too.

North-South conducted an orderly auction to their best spot. South felt his hand was too strong to open one no trump because of his good five-card major and fine intermediates. After North responded in spades, South manufactured a tempoing bid of two clubs to give his partner an opportunity to clarify his holding. When North vigorously supported hearts, South checked on aces, then settled in the small slam when he found his side was off an ace.

West's spade lead looked to the world like a singleton, so declarer rose with dum-

Kenya Fears Herds Of Wildlife Fading

By RAYMOND WILKINSON
NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — The government is allowing foreign sportsmen to hunt illegally in Kenya's game reserves and vast herds are being wiped out, politicians alleged this week.

Charging that some of the world's last great wildlife herds are "faced with total extinction in about five years," legislators demanded establishment of an independent committee to probe the activities of the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife.

Members of parliament said there were discrepancies in ivory export figures, foreigners were being encouraged to hunt illegally and that elephant, rhinoceros and lion were being wiped out by poachers.

One parliamentarian, John Konchellah, said Hong Kong announced recently it had imported 461 tons of Kenya ivory while official Kenyan figures said only 107 tons had been exported. Imports in Japan were 147 tons although Nairobi had only recorded 7.6 tons exported.

Konchellah said hunters were wiping out lion, rhinoceros and elephant, especially in the Mara game reserve in southwest Kenya.

There were 36,000 elephants in the reserve at the beginning of the year but now there were only 20,000, he said. "What happened to the 16,000 or so elephants?"

Other charges leveled during the debate were that minister Matthews Ogutu allowed foreigners to build houses in national parks to hunt animals and that recently 100 "heavily armed foreign hunters" arrived in Kenya and had indiscriminately killed large numbers of elephants, rhino and buffalo.

Tongues Have Varied Purposes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rattler doesn't flick its forked tongue as a prelude to attack—he's just trying to get the smell of things, says the National Geographic Society.

A tongue is more than an instrument of speech or taste for most animals, the society explains. The gecko lizard, for example, uses its tongue as windshield wiper for its see-through eyelids. The American bald eagle uses his as a built-in air conditioner since the birds, like dogs, don't perspire through their skins. Many lizards catch food by flicking out their long, rapid-fire tongues.

Phoenix Man Is Building Lighter-Than-Air Craft

FUTURE AIRSHIP? — It's only a skeleton now, but C. W. Conrad has faith that his "airship" will be of great benefit to civilization. The 80-foot round saucer-shaped craft resembles a blimp. But there is a difference. It has a rigid metal internal structure. (UPI Photo)

By HAL DeKEYSER
PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — It is only a skeleton now, but C. W. Conrad has faith that his "airship" will be of great benefit to civilization.

For the past six years, in a farming community southeast of Phoenix, Conrad, 57, an electrical contractor, and his son, Darwin, 26, have been building an 80-foot round saucer-shaped airship.

Other than its saucer shape, it resembles a blimp. But there is a difference. It has a rigid metal internal structure somewhat similar to the dirigibles of another time.

Conrad has invested $25,000 in the project. He needs to convince others that his expectations can become fact enough to raise the remainder of the funds to finance the work. He says the total cost will be $300,000.

How might his lighter-than-air craft be used today? The Navy could use it to monitor foreign submarines, he says. It could be used to move cargo from ships at sea to areas without natural harbors. It could take supplies to oil wells in the deepest reaches of South America or to backwoods Canadian logging operations.

Only partially complete, the metal frame sits like a skeleton of a giant flying saucer on Conrad's 10-acre plot. It is Conrad's second attempt at building an airship. His first was damaged so badly by a severe windstorm that he decided to start over.

Conrad cites several instances of interest in the rigid structure airships. A mining concern in South Africa is thinking of moving workers and supplies from urban areas to the mines by airship.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has sponsored several feasibility studies on the possible use of airships. Several corporations and foreign governments have been reported looking into the concept.

Of his own project, he says, "We've had inquiries from all over the world."

But he said, "no one is willing to take the bit in their mouth and run with it."

Last spring, the Navy wanted to research the development of airships. And funds were approved for a study to determine whether they might be used in anti-submarine warfare. But not to study their development.

"The government is skeptical," he said. "They really don't want to stick their neck out. I think the Hindenburg disaster is one drawback."

The Hindenburg, a German zeppelin, erupted in flames while mooring after a transatlantic crossing at Lakehurst, N.J., in 1937, killing 36 persons. He also recalled two ill-fated airship experiments sponsored by the Goodyear Co. One ship, the Akron, went down at sea when the pilot misread the altimeter. Another, the Macon, lost a hastily repaired fin in a storm.

"Everyone's talking about it, but no one's doing anything about it other than my son and myself," Conrad said.

With $25,000 of his personal savings already in the project, Conrad now adds in profits from electrical contracting jobs he and his son do and has sold some $25 certificates to raise more funds. The certificates entitle the holders to advertising on the craft or a ride on it when and if it is completed.

So far, these efforts have not been enough. If he had the funds, Conrad says he could finish his airship in seven months. Then, he believes, there would be a market for more of them.

"If we had a hundred of those big ships, we could move them immediately."

NBC Introduces 3 New Shows

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC dumped its Wednesday TV movies because it seems ABC's "Bionic Woman," "Baretta" and "Charlie's Angels" were getting most of the Nielsen action and CBS shows the rest.

So tonight, NBC tries again with four comedies — three of them new — and "The Quest." If this roster gets good ratings, NBC may sit down in shock, which is like standing in shock, only lower.

The newbies are "CPO Sharkey," "The McLean Stevenson Show" and "Sirota's Court." The epic starring Stevenson, former chief medic on "M.A.S.H.," wasn't available, NBC claims, for an advance peep.

The other two were. Of those two, I'd say the best is "Sirota's Court." It stars Michael Constantine as a wry, humane night court judge and features fine writing, acting, direction and pace.

It's sort of a courtroom "Barney Miller." If future episodes are as good as tonight's, "Sirota" will be what they call a hit series.

In the judge's premiere session, we learn that he has a thing going with his attractive court clerk (Cynthia Harris).

He even wants to marry her. True, she's already married, but he's quick to note, "Your husband went bowling in 1968 and didn't return."

The plot concerns a reporter (Victor Buono) who is writing an article called, "The 10 Worst Judges in America." He's present to watch the way Sirota works, much to the alarm of the lady court clerk. Sirota isn't worried. "Wonder who the other nine are?" he asks.

Her fears prove groundless, even though the judge's justice-dispensing is deceptively casual, quite informal, frequently funny and always laced with respect for all the court inmates.

He has been in the weird world of night-courting so long he doesn't even bat an eye when an earnest young lawyer (Kathleen Miller) demands an immediate trial for a young lowlife by explaining, "My client is going on a religious retreat tomorrow."

The assorted characters and situations are wild, but the show is low-key. It isn't a shouting comedy, only a very good one.

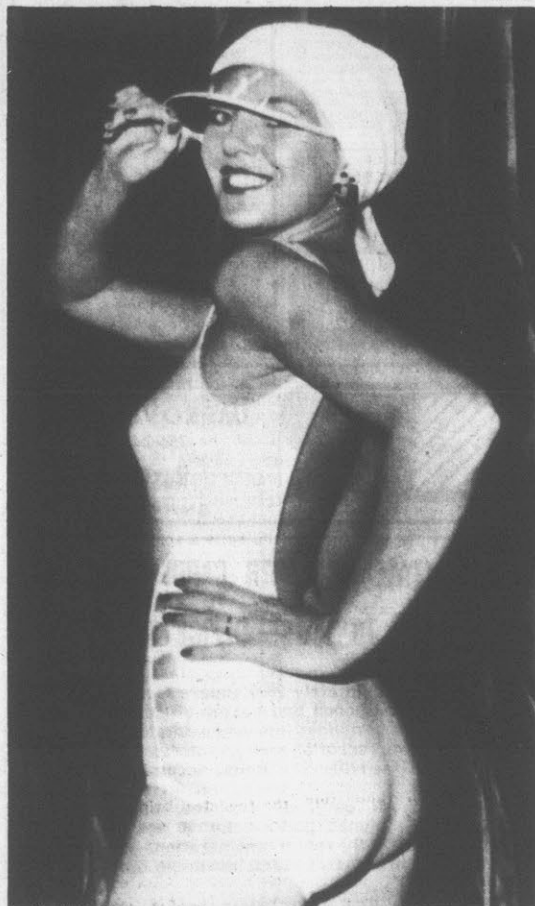

Oddly enough, the lack of shouting seems to be the main flaw in "CPO Sharkey," in which Don Rickles, comedy's Merchant of Venom, plays a Navy chief petty officer of 24 years' service.

He tries to cope with the new, tolerant Navy while training new sailors at the Navy's home for innocent recruits in San Diego, Calif.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS ATTRACTIVE DUTCH COLONIAL design is achieved through tapered porch posts, window shutters and gambrel roof styling. A tiled center entrance boasts of twin guest closets and a lovely open staircase. Openness and convenience are the keynotes in the kitchen. The range is in an island cabinet with plenty of counter and pantry space, plus there is a built-in pantry and desk. One step down is the tiled family room, which a fireplace makes a cozy spot on winter evenings. The master bedroom is on the first floor and four more bedrooms are upstairs. Architect for Plan HA915G, with 1,590 square feet on the first floor and 850 square feet on the second, is Carl Gaiser, 25600 Telegraph Rd., Southfield, Mich. 48075. Anyone wishing to learn more about the plan can write to him, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

England's Lake District Lure To Sportsmen

By LILLIAN O'CONNELL
UPI Life-Style Editor
WINDERMERE, England (UPI) — William Wordsworth, England's greatest Romantic poet, did more than wander "lonely as a cloud" through Britain's Lake District where he was born in 1770 in a fine Georgian house in Cockermouth. In 1818 he scaled Scafell Pike, at 3,210 feet the highest mountain in the country. Today, climbing is only one of the many activities that draw sports enthusiasts to the area from around the world. Almost 900 square miles of unspoiled countryside, the Lake District was declared a national park in 1951. There are the usual activities, such as golf, swimming, boating, horseback riding and hiking. There also are archery, cycling, parachuting and gliding, and all sorts of motor sports, including rallying and hill climbs.

derived from the Norse "field." Fell racing is run by young men trained to tiptop performance. The race consists of a strenuous dash up a steep hillside and a wild descent. The sport is not seen outside the Lake District. It traces back to when Scottish invaders attacked the border villages. The dalesmen had to race desperately down the fells where they had been watching over their sheep to protect their homes from pillage and burning. The three fastest runners are usually the winners and as they cross the finish line the band strikes up "See the Conquering Hero Comes," again echoing the past. Cumberland wrestling, a favorite sport with the Norsemen when the area was a Viking kingdom, has lost none of its popularity and is always one of the principal events at all sports meetings.

But many of the sports are traditional in the area and can be traced back to its early history — sports such as fell racing and Cumberland wrestling. This resort village on the shores of Lake Windermere, almost 11 miles long and the largest lake in England, is a pleasant drive from York. The road winds through moors brown with bracken in the fall, and dry-stone fences lace the fells dotted with grazing sheep. Fell, the local name for hill, is Wearing what look for all the world like long Johns but are really Victorian overall tights, the combatants struggle and heave until one or the other first touches ground with any part of his body other than his feet. He is the loser. Fox hunting, the activity to which John Peel, Britain's legendary hunter and a contemporary of Wordsworth, devoted most of his life is still done on foot, unlike fox hunting elsewhere.

She Censors Auto Plates

MARY WILLIAMS has been given the task of seeing no one takes license with Minnesota's 1977 individualized automobile plates, in any language. (UPI Photo)

By ARNOLD DIBBLE
ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Mary Williams has been given the job of seeing that no one takes license with Minnesota's 1977 individualized automobile plates — in any language. Miss Williams, director of the state Motor Vehicle Services Division, has studied dictionaries in many languages to make certain there are no obscene phrases or snickering double entendres on the new license plates. Those willing to pay $50 extra for plates good for five years can have any combination of letters and numbers up to six, so long as it is in good taste. Thus, a license plate could read: ABCD-60. But no porno plates. On the first day (Monday, Nov. 15) of application for personalized plates, there were about 100 applications, none of which would shock an old maid aunt, Miss Williams said. "I went through about 50 of them," she said. "There was only one foreign language phrase — La Paz, peace in Spanish." There also were a number with the name of "Snoopy" from the "Peanuts" comic strip, but nothing to send Miss Williams to the English, French and Spanish reference books she has been going through during the last few weeks. "I think I know just about every dirty word in the English language," she said, but she concedes some foreign words could conceivably slip through although it's not likely. Miss Williams, 34, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota with a major in English and a minor in French. She went to work for the State five years ago and became director of the MVD services division two years ago. How did a nice girl like you get this dirty word screening job? she was asked. "It's my responsibility," she said. What do you do about words with blanks in them such as c-p? she was asked. "I'd let him have it," she said. And what about foreign words which have double meanings such as the French "merde?" "I'd pass it," she said. One meaning of the French word is "good luck."

Old Radar Base Is Up For Sale

OSCEOLA, Minn. (AP) — Househunting? The government has 27 single-family homes for sale, many on a wooded cul-de-sac. But you'll have to buy them all — along with 30 other buildings, including heating and sewage treatment plants, plus recreation fields and courts, radar towers and an old airplane. The General Services Administration is selling the one-time U.S. Air Force Radar Station 40 miles northeast of St. Paul. The base once had 294 men. Improvements in radar technology have eliminated the need for the base, built in 1951. The base is being sold as a unit, for cash only. Bids close Jan. 13. The GSA said that since the base was closed in March 1975, the property has been maintained so that it "can be effectively utilized for a wide range of profitable applications with some renovation and alteration."

No Shooting In Seminara

By ROBIN STAFFORD
SEMINARA, Italy (UPI) — In this dusty, white-walled farm town surrounded by olive groves, no one has been shot since Feb. 10, 1975.

That is a record for the bloodiest place in Italy.

The hillside town, overlooks Sicily to the southwest and the volcanic island of Stromboli to the northwest. In a fratricidal feud that has horrified the nation, it has seen 51 of its men, women and children murdered and another 102 wounded since the end of World War II.

Local priests, officials and police have watched the vendetta helplessly. But now there is hope the shattering shotgun blasts and clattering submachine guns may remain silent forever.

The young people of Seminara have taken a stand. They are refusing the urgings of their elders to carry on the vendetta. They won't kill.

The feud is between the Gioffre and Pellegrino clans. Carmine Arturo, 19, is a member of the Gioffre clan. He has just left high school and plans to study medicine. Giuseppina Pellegrino, 17, also plans to attend university.

"I have better things to do than worry about a vendetta," says Carmine. "Some of the family elders and their friends can call me a coward if they like for refusing to carry on the feud. For God's sake, they should consider me a hero."

"This vendetta is absurd, stupid, something out of the past," says Giuseppina. "I believe it is all a result of the atmosphere here. In another place, under different conditions, such things could not possibly happen."

Nearly half Seminara's immediate postwar population of 5,750 has fled to the industrial north or emigrated to get out of the line of fire — or simply to seek a less miserable life.

But there are teenagers such as Carmine and Giuseppina who want to stay on and improve their hometown.

The Gioffre-Pellegrino vendetta, the latest and most vicious of several, began Sept. 17, 1971.

Giuseppe Frisana — a Pellegrino relative — met a Gioffre in a bar overlooking the appropriately named central Square of the Martyrs. Both families were seeking control over comparatively lucrative olive harvesting rights in the town on Italy's poverty-stricken southern toe.

An argument began. A face was slapped. Frisana fell seriously wounded by a gunshot. Since then, 16 people have been killed and 26 wounded from both families.

The dead include a grandmother, an 18-month-old boy — blasted by shotgun pellets from his father's shoulders as he was riding piggy-back — and a 27-year-old widow of another victim.

One assassin asked his victim in broad daylight: "With which eye did you aim to kill my cousin?" — and shot him through the right eye when his target pointed to it.

A 14-year-old was persuaded to fire six pistol shots at a boy his age from the rival clan. He missed.

When a man appeared waving a submachine gun at a funeral cortege for a murdered Gioffre, the priest, pallbearers and mourners scattered, dropping the coffin in the street. It lay there for hours until police retrieved it.

The police have looked on helplessly although most killings have been in broad daylight. The southern "code of honor" says no one talks to the police.

The last victim of the olive imbroglio, Carmine Pellegrino, 62, was shotgunned to death in a country lane.

The young people's defiance of their clans is open. Town hall employe Antonio de Caria, a Gioffre, pointed out a Pellegrino playing cards in a cafe on the Square of the Martyrs. He said the man claimed to have shot Antonio's brother dead. Then he said:

"Perhaps because I am a devout Catholic, perhaps because my sister is a graduate, perhaps because I want to improve myself — I don't know — but neither I nor my brothers have listened to the urgings of our so-called friends. They tell us, 'He's bragging about it — you must do something,'" he said.

Then he added, "Maybe I don't out of an instinct for self-preservation."

Seminara's teacher-Mayor Carmelo Bugge will only say: "The less we talk of the feud the better the chance of not rekindling the fuse."

By LINDA KUNTZ LOGAN FT. JACKSON, S.C. (UPI) — They are not complaining so much now that it's all over, and most of them even say it was fun.

That's before they start remembering those long, cold marches at 5 a.m., and the aching feet. It's before they start remembering how hard it was to climb the obstacle course or the shouting drill sergeants breathing down their necks.

The Army's experiment in giving women the same basic training as men is over. The compiling of data to determine its success has begun. Initial observations indicate the Army may be in for some surprises.

The test, called Basic Initial Entry Training, or BIET for short, pitted about 800 female recruits against the same number of men to undergo the same basic training.

During the seven-week course, the women threw hand grenades, underwent long field marches, did the "men's pushups" instead of the women's simpler version. They learned hand-to-hand combat. They underwent live fire. They went on maneuvers.

It was a first for the Army — an experiment to see if women can do the same things as men. The women recruits were not told they would be participating in the experiment until after they were in the Army.

Most of the women, who said they prefer to be called soldiers, agreed the cold, the food, the lack of privacy, and the lack of mirrors, were the worst problems.

"We went around for seven weeks not knowing how we looked," said Dorothy Smith of Helen, Ark.

Patricia Faulcon of Oxford, N.C., who said she was "a little crazier now than when I got in," said the women needed improved bathroom facilities and barracks.

"I'll do John's pushups but I won't sleep in his bed," she said. "Sleeping in John's barracks ain't no fun."

The women were trained under male and female drill sergeants. Some recruits said they hated the female instructors and liked the men. Others said the women were harder on them, but they had more respect for their female sergeants.

"It seemed like the females were harder on us because they were trying to prove we could do it," said Cheri Kessler of Palm Springs, Calif.

"The men drill sergeants never had anything but mean things to say to us," said another woman. "All they did was tell us they can't wait until we're gone so they would get the Joes back."

One instructor, watching the women clambering over an enormous ladder-like obstacle which was several inches too tall for the women to reach, smiled as one woman heaved herself over the railing.

"Somebody forgot to tell her she couldn't do it," he said.

"I think we were shown clearly that the Army has been underestimating and underchallenging its women," said one official. "The women can obviously do a lot more than people thought."

Col. Mary Grimes, special assistant to the test director, ran the program at the fort. She said it is too early to determine how the experiment worked. But she thinks the women did well.

"The women did better than I expected them to. I think there was the assumption that women could not do some of these things, but they have done them."

She said the women considered the test a personal challenge.

"The motivation has been extremely high. Young people, if challenged, will rise to the occasion. I think these women have."

Grimes, herself, did not undergo such strenuous basic training. She's had some of it, but not all.

"Those girls are braver than I," she said.

The women themselves appeared happy the whole thing was over, and proud they had made the grade.

Clementine Evans, of Birmingham, Ala., was angry when she discovered she was part of the experiment.

"When I first got in, it was a trip, it was really disgusting," she said. "But after a while, it was fun. I did things I never thought I could do."

Pres. Ford Has Friends In Ski Town

By DEBORAH FRAZIER
VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford makes his last trip to this Rocky Mountain resort area as the nation's chief executive this Christmas.

Friends intend to show the First Family they will always be just that in Vail.

The Fords have vacationed in Vail since the President's congressional days and the First Family has made dozens of friends in the Bavarian style community.

"Everybody in the city was absolutely down, down, down after the election," said Sheila Gramshammer, long-time family friend and state chairwoman for the President's re-election committee. She said Ford won the town's vote by a considerable margin.

"So, when he comes this winter we are going to have something special for him. We want him to know he has a special place with us, always."

Walter Mondale is another regular Christmas visitor. He has escaped public scrutiny on his visits for the past eight years. He may find the situation changed because of his status as vice president-elect.

Pam Conklin, spokeswoman for Vail Associates, said the Mondale family usually stays with friends and son Teddy, 19, worked on the race crew last winter. She said the former Minnesota Senator is rated as a good, aggressive skier.

Ford, described as an avid, aggressive skier who rarely tires, spends most of his winter vacation days on the slopes. At night, he parties, frequently at Sheila's discotheque and the restaurant owned by her husband.

Mrs. Ford, who is unable to ski because of a pinched nerve, spends her days visiting with friends and shopping for the family's Christmas gifts. The Ford children, Susan, 17; Jack, 23; Steve, 18, and Michael, 24, and his wife also ski.

The Fords plan to spend about two weeks at Vail, where the President earlier was named an official citizen of the city. Terry Minger, town manager, said he will do everything possible to let the Fords know they will always be the "First Family" in Vail.

"There are a lot of personal feelings and friends here and we have reason to believe he will continue coming," said Minger. "And now he will have more time to enjoy his favorite pursuits of skiing and golfing."

The Fords own a condominium in Vail, but have stayed at the home of Dallas oilman Richard Bass for security reasons since Ford became President. The Bass home is perched on the edge of a ski slope with a clear view of the town.

Part of the traditional welcome for the First Family has been a tall evergreen Christmas tree cut and decorated by town officials and placed in the Bass home. Minger said the custom will be continued.

For the holidays, the village takes on a story-book atmosphere with colored lights, carolers and a frosty snow covering. The population swells from the normal 1,000 to 10,000 during the yuletide, posing some security problems.

A spokesman for the Secret Service said a contingent of agents will continue to surround Ford on the slopes and streets. The agents undergo special ski training to keep up with the President.

The Secret Service also has inspected the new Lionshead gondola following extensive renovations. Two cars of the ski lift derailed last March, killing four persons and seriously injuring eight others.

The lift is expected to open Dec. 21, but may be ready sooner. Ms. Conklin said an investigation into the accident revealed it was caused by an engineering error.

Of President Ford, she said, "We feel lucky to have had him come here for all these years and hope he will continue to feel welcome as a visitor."

Poinsettia Has Mexican Origin

GREENVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — The poinsettia, the traditional Christmas flower, was first introduced into the United States in 1825 by Joel Robert Poinsett of South Carolina.

Poinsett was the first U.S. Ambassador to Mexico. He found the plant growing wild in the tropical Mexican jungle. After supplying his own greenhouse in Greenville, Poinsett distributed plants to his horticultural friends and to some botanical gardens along the eastern seaboard.

Puerto Rico Yuletide Is Long, Merry

By NILSA PIETRI
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Puerto Rico has borrowed liberally from the cultures of both Spain and the United States, but neither nation could have foreseen the loosely organized form of insanity that grips this Caribbean island during the Christmas season.

It seems to start too early and end too late, a six-week splurge of parties, fireworks and dancing in the streets that grabs all the tradition it can find, shakes it up in a uniquely Puerto Rican mixture and pours it out in a festival of merriment.

The Christmas season in Puerto Rico has three peaks: Christmas day with Santa Claus and Christmas trees imported from Canada; New Year's Eve, which seems more like the end of the world than the end of the year; and Three King's Day, Jan. 6, a Latin feast day marked by more gift-giving and family get-togethers.

It all starts about the beginning of December, when the first bars of Puerto Rico's traditional "jibaro" folksongs can be heard in the streets. They are sung by boisterous groups of people to the accompaniment of guitars, bongo drums, maracas, and the "cuatro," a 10-stringed mandolinlike instrument whose glistering arpeggios form what statesiders would recognize as the "typical" Latin sound.

Nonreligious folksongs and the more traditional and somber "aguinaldos" (Christmas carols) are the raw material for a Puerto Rican custom called the "asalto," literally "assault," and not to be confused with conventional Christmas caroling.

The singers, burdened with their instruments and bottles of Christmas cheer, usually arrive at the home of a friend about midnight, knock on the door and sing:

"Open the door, for I am standing in the street,
"No one should think that this is a rebuff.

"If you don't have anything, don't give us anything."

Rarely do the invaders leave empty-handed. The door opens, more songs are sung and toasts are drunk with rum and coquitos, a sweet drink made with rum and coconut milk.

Then the rudely awakened homeowner joins the invaders and the whole group, wobbling a bit, pours into the street to assault someone else.

This first phase of the holiday reaches its high point on Christmas Eve, when families get together for a traditional dinner of roast pig, rice with pigeon peas and "pasteles," banana dough stuffed with meat and spices, wrapped in a banana leaf and boiled in salt water.

The next morning families gather around the Christmas tree to open their presents with the same ceremony familiar to mainlanders. Puerto Rico has been importing Canadian evergreens for about 40 years. Villagers in even the most remote sections of the island shun native hardwoods in favor of a North American pine or spruce.

After Christmas, another round of parties begins, with more assaults and late night street dancing, building up to New Year's Eve, an explosion of noise, fireworks and celebration in the large cities, smaller in rural towns where villagers, most of them practicing Catholics, attend mass.

The parties continue as do the assaults until Jan. 5, when children can be seen tearing up their parents' lawns to get grass for camels. The grass goes into a shoebox, the shoebox goes under the bed, and the child goes to sleep.

Then, so the story goes, the Three Kings arrive, open the box and feed the camels. When the child wakes up the box has been replaced with gifts.

This is not the end. Following Three King's Day are the "octavitas," eight more days of fiestas and celebrations deemed necessary to allow everyone to simmer down.

Finally, sometime around the middle of January, the kids go back to school and parents start thinking about going back to work.

SINGER WEDS
KAANAPALI, Hawaii (AP) — Grace Slick, lead singer of the Jefferson Starship, has married the band's lighting director, Skip Johnson.
The wedding took place Monday in a private oceanside ceremony at a resort hotel here.
