

Nixon Aide: President Can't Ignore Constitution

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Morton Halperin, once a top aide in the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon, says his court victory in a wiretap case against Nixon shows that even a president can't ignore the Constitution in the name of national security. Halperin, who says he may be the first private citizen to win a court case asking damages from a president, also said that his victory could serve to check future abuses of government surveillance against U.S. citizens.

Halperin commented Thursday after a federal judge ruled that Nixon, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and H.R. Haldeman, Nixon's chief of staff, must pay damages because of a wiretap on Halperin's private telephone.

U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith Jr.

said that Nixon, Mitchell and Haldeman invaded Halperin's "privacy and freedom of expression" in violation of the Constitution's Fourth Amendment that prohibits unreasonable searches and seizures.

Halperin, chief of the National Security Council Planning Group under Henry A. Kissinger in the early days of the Nixon administration, hailed the ruling.

"What it says is that even the highest officials — including the president of the United States — are bound by the Constitution in how they deal with private citizens..." he said.

"The court's saying that he, like every citizen, is bound by the Constitution and beyond that a citizen can get damages from him if the president violates the citizen's constitutional rights.... It doesn't matter that they mumbled those magic words (national security), that they're bound by the requirements of the Fourth Amendment and they cannot simply go off on their own and do what they want."

Halperin said the decision is so sweeping that it reaffirms that "all public officials," not only the president, "are strictly limited by the Constitution." Not even "Congress could authorize this kind of procedure," he said.

The amount of damages will be determined later. Attorneys said it is unclear whether the men or the government would have to pay the money. All three were represented by the Justice Department in their defense against the suit.

Halperin had asked for damages of $500 a day for the 21 months the tap was in effect. It was started in May 1969.

Saudi Arabia Breaks With OPEC Over Prices

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

DOHA, Qatar (AP) — Conservative oil giant Saudi Arabia broke with the oil cartel today and refused to go along with a 15 per cent price increase decreed by 11 of the 13 members. The Saudis said they would raise production to hold the price increase to 5 per cent for the next year.

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, predicted the 11 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would be unable to apply their increase.

But he cautioned, "Don't be too happy in the West. OPEC continues to be strong. Saudi Arabia cannot live without OPEC and OPEC cannot live without Saudi Arabia."

The United Arab Emirates, fifth largest producer in the cartel, joined Saudi Arabia in deciding to boost the oil prices by 5 per cent on Jan. 1 and maintaining that price for a year.

The other 11 OPEC members — Iran, Iraq, Venezuela, Kuwait, Nigeria, Libya, Indonesia, Algeria, Qatar, Gabon and Ecuador — insisted on a 15 per cent increase in two stages: 10 per cent on Jan. 1 and 5 per cent on July 1. Specific figures issued later put the total increase at 15.5 per cent.

A communique issued by the 11-nation majority at close of OPEC's ministerial conference said the base price of $11.51 per barrel of crude oil will be raised by $1.19 on Jan. 1 and by another 60 cents on July 1, bringing it then to a total $13.30 per barrel.

In Washington, Secretary of Commerce Elliot L. Richardson said OPEC oil increases would mean a rise in the consumer price index and higher unemployment in the United States. He predicted that a 15 per cent price increase would result in a rise of about half a million more unemployed by the end of 1978.

U.S. government figures show that a 5 per cent increase by OPEC would raise U.S. gasoline prices by one cent a gallon. If it goes up by 10 per cent, the retail increase will be two cents a gallon. Because Saudi Arabia is the largest source of U.S. oil imports, its 5 per cent boost would soften the over-all OPEC impact on the U.S. economy.

In 1975 the United States imported 3,212,000 barrels per day from OPEC countries. Of this amount, 701,000 barrels per day came from Saudi Arabia. Next came Venezuela at 395,000 barrels per day, Indonesia at 379,000 barrels and Iran at 278,000 barrels.

The eventual increase at U.S.

gasoline pumps will depend on what purchasing arrangements can be made by American oil companies. The companies would also determine the timing of a price increase.

Yamani claimed, the others won't be able to get the higher price and told reporters: "We expect the West to show a sign of appreciation" in its policies toward the Arab-Israeli conflict and the North-South economic conference between the industrialized and underdeveloped nations.

But first reaction from most oil-consuming nations was one of concern at any increase. The nine-nation European Common Market declared the oil price rise will "add to the already existing factors of uncertainty for economic recovery."

It added, "It will strengthen inflationary tendencies, which are still strong, and will worsen the imbalances in international payments."

Britons, already hard pressed by inflation, groaned at the prospect of higher gasoline and fuel prices certain to follow the OPEC decision.

Would Be Difficult To Restart Flu Shots

By ANTHONY POLK
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Federal officials acknowledged Thursday that it would be difficult to restart the suspended nationwide swine flu immunization program even if studies show no link between the vaccine and a disease that causes paralysis.

The program, beset with problems since it was first proposed in March, was suspended for at least two weeks Thursday after preliminary studies showed there is a "relatively higher rate" of Guillain-Barre syndrome in persons who have been vaccinated than in those who have not, said Dr. William Foegen, assistant administrator of the national Center for Disease Control.

"We recognized that when we stopped it, it would be intensely difficult to restart" because public confidence in the program would have been shaken, Foegen said.

But he and other health officials emphasized that if a swine flu epidemic begins to develop, the program would restart immediately.

"The risk (from the syndrome) is small no matter how we look at it. The risk is nowhere near the risk of flu," Foegen said.

"If there is transmission of the flu, I think we could mobilize the program rather rapidly," he said.

The suspension of the program followed reports of at least 94 cases of the syndrome, also known as French polio, since October. Four of the 94 died, and each of them had received a swine flu inoculation, said Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of health for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Foegen said the syndrome has a five per cent mortality rate so the four deaths out of 94 reported cases is statistically normal. Five per cent of the syndrome's victims retain some form of paralysis — from minor muscle weakening to paralysis from the neck down — and 90 per cent recover fully, he said.

Both Foegen and Cooper emphasized there was no proof of a link between the vaccine and the deaths.

Of the 94 reported cases of the syndrome, which strikes about 4,000 Americans each year, 51 had received swine flu vaccinations, 31 had not and the status of the other 12 was unknown, officials said.

On the basis of such information, persons between 24 and 64 who were inoculated apparently are 3 to 4 times more likely to contract the syndrome than persons in the same age group who did not get the vaccine, Cooper said. Persons under 25 who were inoculated do not appear to be at a greater risk than those who were not, he said.

Foegen would not commit himself to such a statistical prediction, but he did say that "our preliminary information is suggestive of an increased risk."

The syndrome, also known as acute idiopathic polyneuritis, "is an infrequent and poorly studied and usually nonfatal condition characterized by summetric weakness of the limbs, loss of sensation, diminished reflexes and sometimes severe paralysis," the CDC said.

Expect Gilmore To Recover

By BOBBE DABLING
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Doctors expect convicted killer Gary Gilmore to recover from his second drug overdose and be well enough to face a firing squad on Jan. 17.

But Utah State Prison authorities and sheriff's investigators launched an investigation Thursday into how Gilmore obtained enough phenobarbital tablets to make him unconscious for the second time in 30 days.

Gilmore, told Wednesday that he could not have next Monday for his execution date as he wanted, was rushed Thursday morning to University of Utah Medical Center in critical condition after a guard found him comatose in his cell.

Doctors said that the latest sedative overdose, unlike the first, was potentially lethal. But they said Gilmore was expected to regain consciousness today and would survive.

His condition was complicated by pneumonia caused when he inhaled food from his stomach into his lungs.

Prison Warden Samuel Smith said officials checked with the prison pharmacist to learn what drugs maximum security inmates had been issued. He said drugs can easily be passed between inmates because cells are separated by bars, not walls.

"I don't feel any embarrassment. I think it was to be expected," said Smith. "If a man of intelligence wants to commit suicide, he's going to find a way."

He said he assumed Gilmore was given a routine shakedown when he was sent to maximum security on Wednesday. Gilmore was put in a stripped-down cell and was authorized visits by his attorney, but not his relatives, said Deputy Warden Leon Hatch.

N.C. Revenue Up Over Last November

RALEIGH (AP) — Secretary J. Howard Coble of the North Carolina Department of Revenue said today general fund collections for November totaled $234.6 million, an increase of more than 42 per cent over the same month a year ago.

"Going into the new calendar year, it gives us a little cushion to go on," Coble said. "Of course, we still have seven months to go in the fiscal year."

The figures, which represent the last revenue report to be presented by the outgoing Republican administration, also showed collections for the first five months of this fiscal year were $770.1 million.

Coble said that represented an increase of 14.9 per cent.

Coble said the revenue figures were somewhat inflated because of a windfall achieved through a change in accounting procedures ordered by the General Assembly this year.

Coble said the change from quarterly to monthly collection of state withholding taxes resulted in a $34.2 million windfall, which under the old system would not have been realized until the first quarter of the new year.

Discounting that windfall, revenues for November still increased by 22 per cent and revenues for the first five months increased 14.9 per cent, he said.

"I can think of no Christmas gift I would rather receive or no Christmas gift I would rather give than what is contained in this report," he said.

REPAIR BILLS

Members of Nazarene Temple FWB Church at 219 W. Eighth Street here are concerned that their church building must be fairly extensively repaired to meet city building codes.

They have raised $400 to have the roof fixed, but now must obtain at least $1,100 more for window replacement, painting, and other repairs. There are only about 25 members' the pastor, Eldress Lillian Harris said, and it's hard to come up with this much money. Anyone who would like to assist the members should contact Mrs. Harris at Box 1363, Greenville.

HAIRNETS ENFORCED?

I am concerned when I purchase meat from some local supermarkets because I see the men and the women with long stringy hair working behind the meat counters. I've found several hairs in meat. Is there a law that requires these people to wear hairnets or coverings? If so, why isn't it enforced? D. E.

Pitt County Health Department Environmental Health Director Willie Pate said "appropriate hair coverings" are required for all commercial food handlers in the county, whether they work in meat departments, restaurants, slaughter houses or whatever. Inspectors cannot, of course, be everywhere at once, and Pate said any report of hair coverings not being worn by food handlers will be investigated. The Health Department phone number is 752-4141.

Construction Begins On Kroger Store

Construction has begun on a 53,000 square foot Kroger Sav-On combination food and drug store at the 600 Greenville Boulevard site formerly occupied by Kroger Family Center discount store.

Kroger Sav-On Inc. reported that the store, which will provide approximately 200 new full and part-time jobs, is scheduled to open in the fall of 1977.

More than 35,000 items will be offered in the facility, which represents a new concept in retailing, incorporating food, drugs and general merchandise under one roof, according to Richard D. Schill, company vice president.

Features of the new store, in addition to general merchandise sections, include a meat, fruits and vegetables and groceries area, drug store facility, bakery, delicatessen, and snack bar.

Schill said that, "Emphasis throughout the Kroger Sav-On store will be on variety, quality and service to shoppers."

The official said that Greenville was chosen for the new store because of the city's "progressive attitude and excellent cooperation received from the local community."

He added, "We are pleased to be able to return and to make this investment in the Greenville area."

Developer of the store is The Kroger Co., which is the owner of the property. Demolition contractor for the initial stage of the project is J. H. Hudson Co. of Greenville. A general contractor will be named later.

The exterior of the building will be concrete panels accented by brown stripes. Parking is provided in the lot adjoining the store.

The Kroger Co., parent company of Kroger Sav-On, operates 1,200 supermarkets in 21 states as well as 559 drug stores.

FORMER CHURCH BUILDING DAMAGED — A building formerly used by the Red Oak Christian Church was damaged by fire yesterday. According to the owner of the building, J. T. Manning, damage estimates could run as high as $12,000. Firemen responding to the 1:17 alarm found the ceiling of the sanctuary on fire around a light fixture. The fire had spread into the attic area and was quickly brought under control. According to

Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner the fire apparently was an electrical short near the light fixture. Manning said the old wood frame structure had been purchased by him and was being rented by Gene Stack for a gift shop. The fellowship hall was said to be rented by Dell Coe for "Show 'N Sell". # Commission Says Allow Duke Peak-Load Pricing

FOR CERTIFIED CLOCK REPAIRS CALL 752-3426 After 6:00 P.M.

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission staff has recommended that Duke Power Co. be permitted to proceed with its peak-load pricing experiment with only minor modification. A report from the staff said the experiment should be allowed to begin as early as this winter. The staff recommended that Carolina Power & Light Co. and Virginia Electric and Power Co. should be directed to file revised peak rate structures. Both companies had filed similar experimental plans as requested by the commission. Donald H. Denton Jr., a vice president for marketing with Duke Power, outlined the company's proposal at a commission hearing Thursday. He said the firm proposed to select 1,250 customers to be used in the test. Of these, 1,000 would be residential, 200 general service and 50 industrial customers. He said they would be selected at random and given the opportunity to volunteer for the experiment. The peak pricing plan would charge more for electricity used during periods when it is in greater demand, and less in periods of lower demand. The object is to spread power demands more evenly through the day and reduce the need for new generating plants. "We feel we could have a number of customers on the rate within 30 days after we were given permission by the commission to do so" Denton said. He added that 350 customers could be put on the plan by February and the remainder within five months. Peak hours under Duke's proposal would be from 12 noon until 7 p.m. Monday through Friday during the summer months of June, July, August and September. The peak during the remaining months would be 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. weekdays.

Pitt Tobacco Growers Approve Leaf Controls

Flue-cured tobacco growers in Pitt County gave a strong vote of approval to the continuation of production controls and price supports for the next three years in Thursday's referendum. Of the 3,890 eligible to vote, an estimated 80 per cent of the growers in Pitt County voted on the issues and approximately 99.17 per cent voted in favor of the continued controls, according to Stacey Evans, of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. Voter turnout was good in each of the 22 ASCS communities of Pitt County, according to the ASCS office. A total of 65 votes were challenged in Pitt County because of growers who voted in one community, but were registered in another community. These challenged votes were not added to the number of votes in favor or against the program. The growers' vote of approval means that the acreage poundage program will continue in effect for the next three years and price support will be available on up to 110 per cent of their farm poundage quota.

The approval of the present program was also represented in the votes from the neighboring counties including Beaufort, Craven, Edgecombe, Martin, Nash, Pamlico, and Washington. In Beaufort County growers voted 1,681 in favor and 11 against; Craven County, 1,506 in favor and 19 against; Edgecombe County 1,547 in favor and 4 against; Martin County 1,418 in favor and 7 against; Nash County 2,452 in favor and 11 against; Pamlico County, 261 in favor and five against; and Washington County, 140 in favor.

Convicted Murderer Accused In Killing

KINGSTREE, S.C. (AP)—Donald H. "Pee Wee" Gaskins, accused and convicted in connection with the Prospect mass murders, has been bound over for a grand jury in another killing just a few miles from Prospect. Gaskins and three other persons were ordered bound over Thursday by a coroner's jury. The jury deliberated for 11 minutes after an agent of the State Law Enforcement Division told them how Silas Barnwell Yates, 45, of Turbeville, died. He said the state had sufficient evidence to try the case. The others ordered held by the coroner's jury were Susanne Kipper Owens, 29, her husband, John Owens Jr., 22, both of Lake City, and John Powell, 30, a former resident of Lake City who was arrested a week ago in DeLand, Fla. He is awaiting extradition in a Florida jail, and was not in the Williamsburg County courtroom Thursday. The inquest drew a large crowd, and many persons waited for more than an hour to get a seat. After being allowed to enter, the spectators were asked to leave and come back in under the scrutiny of law enforcement officers. The officers said they were acting at the request of defense attorneys. SLED agent Tom Henderson testified that an autopsy showed Yates died of two stab wounds to the upper abdomen, just below the heart, on the night of Feb. 13, 1975. Yates' body was found in a shallow grave near Ropers Crossroads in Williamsburg County. His funeral was to be held today at the Pine Dale Pentecostal Holiness Church near Turbeville in Florence County.

Gaskins and Walter L. Neely, 31, of North Charleston, were sentenced to die in the killing of Dennis B. Bellamy, 28, of North Charleston. Bellamy was one of eight persons whose bodies were found near Prospect last December.

Some Museum Gift Shops Are Selling Clothes

By JEANNE LESEME
UPI Family Editor

Some museum gift shops look like fashion boutiques this Christmas season.

Museum reproduction jewelry has become a basic. Some shops also offer wearing apparel, accessories and even one-of-a-kind antique and collectible clothing and accessories.

The Brooklyn Museum Gallery and Gift Shop has late 19th century Chinese silk purses, scarves, belts, jewelry and unisex Pakistani shirts, among other things. Once a year at irregular intervals, the gallery-shop stages a combined show and sale of textiles gathered from all over the world.

In Pittsburgh, UPI correspondent Diane Hull reports the Carnegie Institute Museum Shops' extensive gift collection includes such things as antique Chinese robes and embroideries, textiles from Ghana, Iran and Afghanistan and embroidered slippers from the Orient.

The robes and slippers came from two women whose father had traveled throughout Asia on business and had stored his treasures in their attic more than 40 years ago. Shop manager Carol K. Long accepted them on consignment and offered them for sale.

For several years, the museum shop of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts has offered scarves, ties, wrap-around skirts in African batiks, blouses and shawls, says UPI correspondent Andrew Yemma. They are not museum pieces in the usual sense, but specialty items bought at museum conferences and the international clothing market at the Dallas Trade Mart.

"Things we think would be attractive to museum goers," said aitem bought at museum conferences and the international clothing market at the Dallas Trade Mart.

"Things we think would collection. Handsome silk neckties and scarves adapted from designs in the museum's own collections and shows have been staples for some years. Under the guidance of Lisa Koch, the museum has begun commissioning line-for-line reproductions of some clothing and accessories that can be made affordable.

One of the most popular in this year's Christmas catalog is a long ruffled white apron for $18.75. "We call it our 'Upstairs-Downstairs' apron," said shop director Anita Muller.

"It's enormously popular. It looks great over black pants and a black turtleneck top."

"Our basic philosophy is not to try to compete with boutiques and Seventh Avenue (New York's garment district)," said Mrs. Koch, consultant to the publisher for the museum. "We are, after all, a museum, not a department store. We have no place for customers to try on clothing."

Consequently, she looks for one-size-fits-all garments. Currently the shop is offering a lace overblouse, an Egyptian gallabia, which looks like a long white nightshirt, and a Russian bashlyk, a tasseled, hoodlike head covering copied from a man's costume in the Russian Caucasus. In the museum version, it's for women. It functions as a scarf, a hood, a sash or a shawl.

Mrs. Koch would like to reproduce a very beautiful paisley wool shawl that will be in the museum's Russian costume exhibit scheduled to open Dec. 9.

"They are 18th and 95th century costumes, objects that Russia never lent before. Most are from L'Hermitage (Russia's famous museum in Leningrad)," she said. She added that the shawl is an extremely rare example, and "It turns out we have one in the Costume Institute."

She is working with a manufacturer to see if it can be reproduced.

"To get a woven shawl that fine now would be really prohibitive. It would have to sell for well over $3,000. We'll probably print it on lightweight challis instead."

The museum is also adapting some jewelry from the Treasures of Tutankhamen exhibit now at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. The reproductions will be available when the show opens at the Metropolitan on Dec. 15, 1978, after traveling to Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles and Seattle.

Holiday Meet Held By Club

The Lakewood Pines Garden Club met Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. J. C. Bateman for its Christmas meeting. Co-hostesses were Mrs. J. H. Harrell and Mrs. R. S. Lowe.

Mrs. R. M. Hedges conducted the business session. Orders for the N. C. Garden Club calendars were taken. Contributions by the club were made to the Botanical Garden Foundation, Chapel Hill, and two trees to be given to the city of Greenville to replace those being removed from Fifth Street. The pink dogwoods ordered by the club have been promised in time for spring planting.

The silent auction realized $102, which will be given to the Foster Childrens Fund.

The biology course, according to Bette Slutsky, professor of biology, will emphasize the physiological and psychological structure and function of women.

Miss Their Doctor, But Don't Pay Bills

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read in your column a defense of doctors, many of whom were not nearly as rich as most people thought they were.

My husband, a physician, died at 61. He literally worked himself to death making housecalls night and day. He never turned anyone away who needed medical care. He gave his services free when he knew a patient couldn't afford to pay him. And he never overcharged anyone who he knew could pay a larger fee.

When this dedicated man died, his patients moaned and groaned. "Whatever will we do without our dear doctor?" But two years later, their combined unpaid bills totaled $11,000.

Abby, who do some people feel that their doctor bills are automatically cancelled just because their doctor dies? Those bills are owed and should be paid out of respect and appreciation.

If you think this is worth the space in your column, please use it. And if it causes some people to feel uncomfortable, at least they will have gotten the message.

DOCTOR'S WIDOW: SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR WIDOW R: It's well worth the space. It also brings to mind an ancient Chinese proverb: "The wise dentist collects his fee while his patient's tooth is still aching."

DEAR ABBY: You can do a lot toward equal rights for women by publishing these statements, which we have all heard repeatedly but until recently didn't have the courage to protest:

"Play dumb. Men don't like girls who are too smart."

"May I speak to your husband? It's important."

"Sorry, but we don't hire single girls; they'll just leave us to get married."

"Sorry, we don't hire married women; they'll just leave us to have babies."

"Sorry, we don't want to employ mothers; they ought to be home with their children."

DEAR ABBY: I notice that readers sometimes ask you to print a letter again, but is there any one that has been requested more than any other?

CURIOUS IN BUTLER, PA.

DEAR CURIOUS: The big all-time winner was signed "TOO LATE" and here it is:

"Sorry, we don't give jobs to women whose husbands are working; they don't need the money."

Very truly yours,
MS. Mc K.

DEAR MS. Mc K: Right on! Such remarks should not go unchallenged. The squeaking wheel gets the grease.

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away some time ago, and now I am wondering if I'm still related in any way to my husband's family. I have not remarried. My son's wife tells me I am no longer related to the family of my late husband. I hope you can ease my mind about this.

M.S.

DEAR M.S.: You are not related in a legal sense; but in a sentimental one, I think you should be considered still as "one of the family."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Billy Carter A 'Good Ole Boy'

Billy Carter — The president-elect's brother — might prove to be the most interesting character around during the next four years.

He first burst upon the scene depicted as a real country boy who ran an obscure service station in the little town of Plains, Ga.

Later characterizations showed him to be much shrewder than that and very much involved in the Carter peanut operations in Georgia.

He recently ran for mayor of Plains, which in contrast to the office his brother has won, is certainly one of the lesser political jobs of the nation. He lost.

But he has furnished good copy for inquiring reporters. Asked if he, like his brother, had been "born again", Billy replied, "I was lucky to be born once."

And, asked his definition of that southern phenomenon, the "good ole boy", Billy replied with a grin, "Me."

Any southern "good ole boy" can identify with Billy Carter.

State Is Responsible For Bed Tower

The Pitt Memorial Hospital Board received assurances from Rep. Sam Bundy Tuesday that $3.8 million for a bed tower addition had been placed in the state budget for 1977-79.

The bed tower funds were dropped from the present biennial budget when trimming was necessary because of disappointing revenues.

Bundy said the appropriation is of high priority in the upcoming budget and is not likely to be removed.

That is good news. The additional beds will be needed in a few years, and it should be the state's responsibility to finance them.

Bills Reviewed By Council

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — There were some raised eyebrows about the legislative committee room the other day when a messenger from the North Carolina Supreme Court denounced a proposed law as "legal and linguistic nightmare" and a bad bill which "ought to be killed."

Was this, wondered some legislators, embers of the Study Commission on Sexual Assaults, and observers a meddling into the legislative process by the Judiciary? Was it a trespass across the boundaries in separation of powers?

A close look at that prospect reveals that it was in fact not at all unusual for the courts to render judgment prior to the passage of a new or rewritten law. The only major difference was that it was done openly. Heretofore, such action has been done with an extremely low profile.

Open Opposition

Franklin W. Freeman, Jr., assistant director of the Administrative Office of the Courts delivered the recommendation from the Supreme Court to the legislative study group.

His summary of bills seen in the proposed "Act to Clarify, Consolidate and Modernize the Law of Criminal Assaults and to Make More Certain and More Just the Punishment of the Perpetrators of Such Assaults" was detailed and lengthy.

"The Court believes this proposal is a legal and linguistic nightmare . . . mind-boggling in the possibility of what magistrates, courts, judges, and juries would be confronted with . . ." Freeman maintained. He recited a litany of conflicts within the draft legislation noting they would "prolong assault cases, and the result would be additional congested court dockets."

Among the problems which Freeman over and over again stressed as "the belief of the Court" were fixed sentences in assault cases while other criminal offenses would not come under fixed sentencing procedures; handling all assaults—not just sexual—in the new proposal; numerous definitions and minor differences within various sections of the bill such that even a legally trained person would be confused.

Especially of concern to the Supreme Court, Freeman said, was part of the proposal which in effect repealed all criminal sanctions against any sex act between consenting adults. . . . "The Court feels that homosexual acts . . . and others . . . between consenting adults would be legalized."

A Good Idea

Freeman said the Court feels provisions in the draft bill setting limitations on cross-examination about past sexual activities of the victim of a rape are commendable and ought to be enacted into law.

The only thing unusual about the event, insiders say, was the open and frank public discussion. The Court has often, in the past, let legislators know how they feel about proposed legislation.

Additionally, there is a formal structure set up in state law for judicial review of pending legislation. Freeman is executive director and Justice J. Frank Huskins is chairman of the Judicial Council, an 18-member body of judges, prosecutors, lawyers, and legislators which meets periodically and on its own initiative either recommends changes in bills before the General Assembly, or recommends measures. Much of the work is directed at improving the courts; but also gets into vital measures in criminal law.

The statute establishing that Council allows it to work in broad areas pertaining to "the administration of justice" and that has been interpreted as meaning before-the-fact commentary on pending legislation.

The little-known Council reports to the governor and legislators at each session of the General Assembly, and normally makes recommendations on some 25 bills, and puts forth a dozen or so proposals of its own.

No Jokes About South

WASHINGTON—"You should have a ball with the Carter Administration," many people have told me.

"Why do you say that?" I always ask.

"Well, it's the first time in ages we've had a President from the Deep South, and there has to be endless material in that."

There probably would be except that Carter's election, instead of giving some Southerners a feeling of self-confidence, has made them even more sensitive to any levity about the South.

Even my Southern friends in Washington see no humor in Carter and Plains, Ga.

I have a friend, a distinguished newscaster, who comes from Georgia and he doesn't want to read any allusions to the South for the next four years.

"Making fun of Carter's Southern background is just a cheap shot," he told me.

"But we used to make fun of Johnson and his Texas background," I protested.

"Texas isn't Georgia," he replied. "Texans are used to being made fun of—Georgians aren't."

"Why not?"

"Because it's taken us such a long time to get respectable again, and we're not going to blow it just because the next President of the United States comes from there."

"But," I protested, "it's an American tradition to make fun of a man's background. Look what we did with John F. Kennedy's Hyannisport and Johnson's Pedernales ranch and Nixon's Watergate."

"Nixon didn't come from Watergate, my friend said."

"We still aren't sure of that, are we?" I said.

"It was different with those men. What you're dealing with when you write about Carter is a man who comes from the red clay of a Southern state, who rose to the highest office in the land despite prejudice and suspicion. You don't heal the wounds of a Civil War by writing about grits and peanuts and good ol' boys."

"Then what do you write about?"

"A new South that has risen on the ashes of the old one—a South that takes pride in its tall buildings and its paved highways and its great football teams."

"There is nothing funny about that," I said.

"That is exactly my point. There is absolutely nothing funny about the South, and if you say there is you're just making it up."

"There must be something humorous about the South. It can't be the only part of the country that isn't funny."

"We're not going to stand for it," he warned me. "The South is not a joke. Jimmy Carter proved that."

ART BUCHWALD

"I guess that means we can't laugh for the next four years, then."

"I didn't say that. I just said it's going to be harder, because we Southerners don't think jokes about the South are funny."

"Don't Southerners tell jokes about themselves?" I asked.

"That's different. It's all right for us to tell Jimmy Carter jokes amongst ourselves. What we resent are Northerners telling Jimmy Carter jokes to us."

"Boy, you people are no fun at all."

"That is a typical example of your prejudice. Just because we don't like Northerners to tell Southern jokes you accuse us of no sense of humor."

"Okay, no jokes about Carter and his Southern background. Did you hear the one about traveling salesman whose car got stuck in the snow in Mondale's hometown in Minnesota?"

"No," he said, laughing for the first time. "What happened?"

Foreign Spy Inquiry

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Intelligence Committee staff is inquiring into the operations of South Korean, Chilean and Iranian intelligence agencies in the United States, according to a committee spokesman.

The inquiry also is seeking to determine whether the activities of these foreign spy agencies are being conducted with the knowledge and consent of the CIA.

The inquiry has been underway for more than two months at the staff level, but three prominent senators have asked committee Chairman Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, to launch a full-scale investigation.

The spokesman said a vote of the full committee would be required to launch such an investigation.

In a letter sent Thursday to Inouye, Sens. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Charles Mathias, R-Md., said that "political contributions through Korean CIA conduits, the harassment by those agencies of Korean opponents of the current regime, and similar allegations concerning Iran's Savak and Chile's DINA, are among the specific charges that might be appropriate for investigation."

Savak and DINA are the respective intelligence agencies of the two countries.

The committee also should examine the legality of possible "collaboration between the CIA and foreign intelligence agencies in the U. S. in exchange for similar collaboration within those foreign countries," the senators said.

The senators cited the recent assassination of Orlando Letelier, former foreign minister and ambassador to the United States under Allende. Letelier was a prominent member of the Chilean exile community here and associates claim he was murdered by agents of the military government that overthrew Allende.

40 Years Ago Today

December 17, 1936

Sheriff J. A. Russ of Southport, investigating the activities of a band of "preying floggers" in the Waccamaw valley, said today he had turned over to federal authorities a copy of a threatening letter reported received by a relative of one of the alleged victims of the night riders.

The sheriff said the crudely pencilled note warned a filling station operator of "things you must do" or "we will get you." He said the warning was signed "K.K.K."

The letter was headed Little River, S. C., but the envelope bore a Freeland postmark.

The Duke of Windsor, suffering from severe headaches, received 6,000 letters from feminine admirers today applauding his "romantic gesture" in giving up the British throne for Wallis Simpson.

Eight hundred of the writers also asked the British prince for jobs, most of them expressing a preference for secretarial work.

Federal Reorganization

Oppose Carter's Plan

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter's plan for a reorganization of the federal government is encountering opposition from key members of Congress and a well-known legal scholar who question its constitutionality.

Carter has said he wants Congress to give him authority to submit reorganization plans to Congress that would go into effect after 60 days unless either the House or Senate expressed disapproval.

During his campaign, Carter repeatedly pledged to cut the number of federal agencies from some 1,900 to 200. He conceded that such a consolidation in the number of agencies might not result in a reduction in the number of federal employees.

Many observers and Carter staffers believe the only way such a sweeping reorganization of the bureaucracy can take place is with the authority the President-elect is seeking.

In effect, Carter would be authorized to reorganize the executive branch if Congress did nothing to stop him.

If Carter must submit his reorganization plans in the form of legislative proposals that would be subject to amendment by Congress and would require approval at the committee level as well as by the full House and Senate, there would be many more opportunities for opponents to torpedo them.

Prof. Raoul Berger of the Harvard Law School said the proposal to have reorganization plans take effect unless Congress disapproves them raises "a constitutional doubt."

Emphasizing that he supported Carter in the election, Berger said, "I don't like the notion of giving such a tremendous blank check to the President."

Berger's view was echoed by Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee.

Brooks plans to submit a bill that would require positive congressional approval for reorganization plans.

Critics of the veto method of reorganization note that it would allow a president to eliminate agencies created by Congress without a congressional vote.

One case cited was the decision in 1973, which prohibited Richard M. Nixon from shutting down the Office of Economic Opportunity without first gaining congressional approval for the move.

Other Editors Say Surtax Suggested

Goldsboro News-Argus

Goldsboro's Downtown Association will meet to discuss, among other things, a special tax district to raise funds for improving the central business district.

A number of promising ideas have been developed, dating back to the Charette of 1974 which attracted considerable citizen-input.

Among suggestions is a strict commercial building code which would set minimum standards for existing structures in the downtown area.

Those not meeting the standards would either have to be improved or they could be condemned.

Senator-elect Henson Barnes made an observation recently that also might be well worth consideration by the Downtown Association and Goldsboro Aldermen.

Barnes mentioned the possibility of a surtax on structures not meeting certain standards.

Many of the downtown buildings are owned by out of town people. Conceivably, not all of them are overly concerned about the future of the downtown business district.

The surtax sounds like an excellent way to get their attention and encourage them to improve their property—or sell to someone interested in preserving and promoting the downtown area.

Strength For Today

TWO WORLDS AT A TIME

The philosopher Henry David Thoreau sometimes used the expression, "One world at a time." The phrase has sometimes been used to indicate that mankind lives in only one world and that he will have plenty to do if he gives his attention to the things immediately before him and gives no attention to a world beyond.

Actually, mankind does not live in one world but in two. He came from God, bears the divine image, and is promised an eternal dwelling place in another world when his pilgrimage here is ended.

Some people consider it a sign of common sense to declare for the world here and now and to discount the possibility of anything beyond. Yet when people do this, they display not their wisdom but their ignorance, not their breadth but their narrowness. "And God said, 'let us make man in our image, after our likeness.'" The creature He made lives in two worlds and the fact that he may be conscious of only one does not alter this great reality.

Second Chance To Get A Loan?

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Lenders around the country are planning or establishing review panels that would give unsuccessful applicants for inner-city home mortgage loans a second chance to obtain money.

Boards already exist in several cities, including Milwaukee, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago and Denver, but very few applicants have made an effort to obtain loans through them.

The development, mainly by savings and loan associations, is believed in part to be a response to charges of redlining, in which lenders are said to automatically turn down loans in poorer city areas.

Officials of the U.S. League of Savings Associations say, however, that the review panels are part of a genuine effort by lenders to fulfill their obligations to urban and minority residents.

One of them explained this week: President Carter will be paying more attention to urban affairs, thus lending encouragement to lenders and spurring them to play a more active role in problem areas.

The league, which represents institutions accounting for 58 per cent of all private mortgage debt outstanding, is said to be exploring several possibilities in addition to the review panels.

One of these is to pool the funds of various associations to make equity investments — that is, to participate in rehabilitation by direct ownership as well as through lending.

Many mortgage lenders have been under fire from minority groups for their alleged failure to more actively involve themselves in urban affairs, and some have been openly accused of arbitrarily refusing to make loans.

Lenders counter with the argument that to lend money in certain areas is to needlessly risk their depositors' money, mainly because such areas are beyond the rehabilitative efforts of any one group.

"Lenders cannot do the job alone," said John Hardin, the league's newly elected president. "City governments and local residents must be involved too."

What is needed, Hardin said, are "sustained and meaningful efforts by local governments to upgrade educational facilities, increase police and fire protection, and strictly enforce building and zoning code ordinances."

The review panels, made up of various institutions and community officials, would accept the formal complaint of a frustrated borrower and determine if a loan could possibly be made.

If they deem the individual worthy of credit, one of the member institutions might then make the loan, although the panel has no power to compel compliance by the original institution.

So far, however, few borrowers have sought redress, inclining some lenders to maintain that charges of redlining, or denying credit to borrowers in certain areas, were exaggerated.

In fact, said one savings and loan official, there is some belief now that the denial of loans to inner city residents during the past few years might have been primarily a consequence of insufficient funds to lend.

Carter To Interview Women For Possible Federal Jobs

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — After renewing a pledge to put women and blacks in his cabinet, President-elect Carter is going to interview two women who could wind up in key federal jobs.

With Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale participating, Carter was to talk today to Joan Manley, vice president in charge of the book division of Time Inc., and Dr. Juanita Kreps, an economist and vice president of Duke University. Dr. Kreps has been mentioned as a possibility for a high position in the Labor Department.

AFL-CIO Secretary Treasurer Lane Kirkland also was to see Carter today. Kirkland and his boss, George Meany, strongly favor the nomination of John T. Dunlop to be labor secretary, a position he resigned a year ago following a policy disagreement with President Ford.

Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus, reportedly under consideration for the post of secretary of the interior, was summoned to Plains today by Carter. At a nationally broadcast news conference Thursday, Carter firmly denied that outside pressures from the AFL-CIO or others were intruding on his cabinet selection process.

He readily acknowledged, however, that there are differences of opinion about who ought to serve in cabinet posts. Asked if the recruitment of women and blacks for the top ranks of his administration was proving more difficult than he had expected, Carter said he and Mondale undertook the selection process without "any preconception that it would be easy."

However, he declared that "the difficulties have been greatly exaggerated in the press reports."

Later in the session, Carter reported there have been "many, many" cases where persons who might have been considered for top appointments have asked that their names be removed from the President-elect's list of potential nominees.

Carter cited as examples one woman, three prominent blacks and a U.S. District Court judge of Hispanic-American lineage. Another case of an offer being turned down reportedly involved U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Alabama, who had been asked to become FBI director, according to today's Los Angeles Times.

Johnson declined, citing financial considerations, the paper said.

An unnamed Carter aide was quoted as saying that Johnson may wind up in the Carter administration at some position that would pay a higher salary than the FBI director receives. Johnson, 57, earns a lifetime annual salary of $42,000 without pension as a judge. The FBI director receives $44,600.

Carter, asked Thursday if he felt any responsibility to name blacks and women to important cabinet posts, said, "There will be women and blacks in my cabinet and how many I have not yet decided, but I do feel a constraint to show to the nation that this effort has been made, and made successfully, not only at the cabinet level, but at levels deeper within the department, at the undersecretary, deputy secretary, assistant secretary level."

Carter told reporters he expected to announce a new batch of appointees Sunday or Monday. He said 45 persons are still under consideration for various cabinet posts.

Carter named three men to cabinet-level posts Thursday: —Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., to be ambassador to the United Nations.

—Zbigniew Brzezinski, a foreign policy consultant and Columbia University professor, to be national security adviser at the White House.

—Charles Schultze, budget director in the Johnson administration, to be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

On Thursday night, Carter took wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy out for steak dinner at a restaurant located in a mobile home in Americus, nine miles from Plains.

The dining spot, which Carter had never visited before although his mother eats there regularly, is a favorite with the Carter press corps and was crowded with reporters as the family dined in a private room. The President-elect told his news conference that he has not yet decided whether to nominate Harold Brown, a former Pentagon official and now president of the California Institute of Technology, to be secretary of defense.

And he said former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger has not been ruled in or out for any appointment. Meany and Kirkland prefer Schlesinger over Brown at the Pentagon.

3 Wrecks Reported

An estimated $4,050 property damage resulted from three wrecks investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from an 11:20 a.m. mishap on Dickinson Avenue, 40 feet West of the Wilson Street intersection involving cars driven by James Carson Mills of Route 2, Greenville and Charlie Green Grimsley of Aiden.

Damage was estimated at $1,200 to the Mills car and $2,000 to the Grimsley car by investigators who charged Grimsley with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

A truck operated by Willie Hubert Tripp of Dellwood Dr. and a car driven by Eleanor Carr Heine of 802 East 14th St. collided about 9:13 a.m. at the intersection of 14th Street and Rocksprings Dr. causing an estimated $200 damage to the Tripp truck and $250 damage to the Heine car.

A 4:10 p.m. mishap on Cotanche Street, 35 feet South of the Fourth Street intersection involved a truck driven by Bruce Torbery Woodson of Rockville, Md., and a car driven by Duke Graham Boykin Jr. of Route 2, Wilson.

Police said no damage resulted to the truck, while damage to the Boykin car was set at $400.

Music Director Is Honored

The D. H. Conley Singers held a Christmas party Monday night in honor of their music director, Mrs. Sherry Miller at the home of Mrs. D. T. McLawhorn of Winterville.

Mrs. Miller was presented a sterling silver engraved casserole dish by the singers.

Special guests included J.R. Carroway, principal of D. H. Conley High School; Steve Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stocks and Mr. and Mrs. Poe Worthington. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dews were hosts of the party.

3 Special Yule Events

Plans for three special events at the W. B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center during Christmas week have been announced by Director Donald Hayes.

Monday the Gospellers of Greenville will present a musical concert. The Gospel Pearls, also of Greenville, will appear the following evening. Both concerts begin at 8 p. m.

"The Spiritual Side of Christmas" will be presented by "Bobby G" Thursday at 7:30 p. m., followed by a concert by Don Hayes and Steve Creech.

Mrs. Rozanne Faulkner, recreation director, said gifts from the community will be welcomed. She asked that their value not exceed $2 and that each be marked either for a man or for a woman.

There is no admission charge for the concerts and everyone is invited, according to Hayes. They will be presented in the auditorium of the Activities Building.

Club Holds Yule Party

The Pastor Aid Club of Sweet Hope Free Will Baptist Church will hold its Christmas party Monday night.

The party will be held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Mitchell, 305 Paris Ave., at seven o'clock.

Will Tone Down Imperial Image

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — He'll be Jimmy, not James Earl. Now that he's won the election he prefers a Ford, not a Lincoln. And his dinner companions might be the plain as well as the prestigious. President-elect Jimmy Carter says he is serious about toning down the imperial image of the presidency.

But a White House veteran says it just won't work — the Oval Office was, is and will continue to be a throne room. "No matter how much he reduces the trappings, he is going to be treated like a king," says George Reedy, press secretary to former President Lyndon B. Johnson and author of "The Twilight of the Presidency." Reedy says in his book that presidents become victims of imperial isolation, removed from the people, remote from reality and surrounded by sycophants.

Jimmy Carter is worried about exactly that, says aide Greg Schneiders. It's certainly nonimperial to sign bills with Jimmy instead of James Earl. And apparently it won't cause legal problems, Schneiders says.

Then there's the matter of excessive deference. "He's talked to me about wanting to be careful to avoid that deference," says Schneiders. "The way he's dealt with it up to now is to encourage disagreement from staff members."

But Reedy doesn't think that will work, either. "Nobody is going to go in and criticize the president," Reedy says. "Harakiri has never been popular at the White House." Worse than that, says Reedy, presidents eventually tend to encourage deference.

"Almost every president started out saying he wanted disagreement. But what's going to happen, I think, is that a lot of people who've been associated with him are going to fade into the background in a year or two. They're used to speaking their minds, and that's not going to be popular."

Schneiders says Carter is thinking about eliminating limousines for his staff and has talked to the Secret Service about replacing the presidential Lincoln with a Ford LTD. "He's holding out for the LTD," Schneiders says.

A Secret Service spokesman said the service has LTD's that could be used by the president.

Schneiders says Carter is considering inviting plain folks to the White House once in while for white-tie banquets, and occasionally for blue-tie dinners with the Carter family. He says Carter also might spend nights with average families when he travels.

Aides are trying to work out a way Carter can devote a few hours a week to the problems of ordinary people — referred to him by congressmen or government agencies.

"That way he could get a feel of how people have to deal with government agencies," Schneiders said.

Carter's efforts to appear plebeian, however, haven't met with entirely rave reviews. The Washington Star headlined columnist Betty Beale's complaints about the President-elect's habit of carrying his own suit bag: "The People Want a President, Not a Belhop."

Parkinson Drug

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors say they have successfully tested a new drug that fights the crippling symptoms of Parkinson's disease, even in patients who no longer respond to the primary medicine now in use.

One woman in the test reportedly regained the ability to talk, eat and sit up.

"This is a major development," Dr. Abraham Lieberman, who directed the testing, said in an interview. "It represents a new therapeutic approach to the disease," which afflicts about one million Americans.

He said general use of the new treatment — based on a drug called bromocriptine — is probably several years away.

Victims of Parkinson's disease suffer from tremors and muscular rigidity. If able to walk at all, they often move with slow, shuffling steps.

Doctors say the symptoms occur because the brain of persons with the disease does not produce enough of a substance called dopamine, doctors say.

Takeo Miki Gives Up In Power Struggle

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Takeo Miki gave up his struggle to remain in power today, clearing the way for the election of conservative, 71-year-old economist Takeo Fukuda.

Miki, 69, announced he would resign to assume responsibility for the ruling Liberal-Democratic party's election setback Dec. 5. It failed to win a majority of the seats in the lower house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament, but got the support of enough independent members to give it a working majority of nine votes.

Liberal-Democratic members of parliament will meet Dec. 23 to elect Miki's successor as party leader, and the next day the Diet will elect him prime minister.

Though there had been murmurs of opposition to Fukuda within the faction-ridden party, his biggest obstacles were removed Thursday. Former party secretary-general Yasuhiro Nakasone, the leader of an important faction, said he would throw his votes to him. Miki's own faction, overcoming original reluctance, said it would go along with the party majority.

Fukuda, a persistent but often disappointed suitor for power, was Miki's deputy prime minister but resigned on Nov. 5 in preparation for the attempt to supplant him after the election.

Miki, a progressive who does not have a large personal following within the generally conservative party, was the party elders' compromise choice when Fukuda and Finance Minister Masayoshi Ohira deadlocked in a power struggle after the resignation of Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka in December, 1974.

Miki was a victim of the Lockheed scandal although he himself was not involved in the $12.1 million in payoffs by the American aircraft company to promote its sales in Japan. The party turned on him because he pushed the investigation into the scandal with such vigor that Tanaka was indicted, some other leaders of the party were implicated and the election setback resulted.

In announcing his intention to step aside, Miki insisted that the Lockheed probe be carried to conclusion. He also submitted a program for party reform.

The wealthy, financially astute Fukuda is credited with putting Japan back on the road to economic recovery when he was Tanaka's finance minister.

After his graduation from Tokyo University in 1928, he went into the finance ministry, advanced through its bureaucracy and became chief of the ministry's secretariat.

He entered politics in 1952, has won election to the lower house nine times, has held many of the party's important posts and has served in the cabinet as foreign minister and minister of agriculture and forestry as well as finance minister and deputy prime minister.

An enthusiastic golfer, he has a dry sense of humor and the long face and high forehead of the old warrior samurai.

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny skies and mild temperatures are forecast Friday for most of the nation.

Cooler weather is expected in the Northeast with occasional snow flurries in New England. (AP Wirephoto Man)

By The Associated Press
Clear skies greeted early risers in North Carolina today, providing a welcome change from mist, fog and rain.

Early morning temperatures were in the 30s at most reporting points with Raleigh providing one of the lowest readings at 28 degrees. Charlotte and Greensboro reported 30 degrees and Asheville had a low of 31.

The National Weather Service said a ridge of high pressure would be poking into the state today, bringing drier air along with the sunny skies but also a fairly strong northwest wind. The sunshine was expected to push afternoons temperatures into the 50s.

Lows tonight will range from mid to upper 20s in the mountains to the 30s near the coast.

The sunshine should continue Saturday with afternoon temperatures again in the 50s.

MORNING WRECK — A wreck this morning at 9:55 near Ayden resulted in the injury of two persons. According to highway patrolman John Brooks, a truck driven by Joe Lewis Corey of Ayden (left) was headed east on rural paved road 1108 when it approached the intersection of N. C. 11, and the brakes failed, striking a car driven by Martha Elizabeth Mann of Ayden. The officer said Ms. Mann sustained serious injury in the accident and a passenger in the Corey vehicle was also injured, Felix Rouse. Brooks said Corey was charged with improper equipment. Investigation into the accident is continuing. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

This Time, On Winning Side

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — New Mexico lost its distinction this year as the only state which has always voted for the winner in a presidential election.

In the Nov. 2 general election, New Mexico's voters supported President Ford over Jimmy Carter by a vote of 207,869 to 199,653.

Growers Approve Controls In Referendum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flue-cured tobacco growers in six states gave overwhelming approval Thursday to continuation of production controls and price supports for the next three years.

The vote was 139,971 for and only 2,011 against, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This was a percentage of 98.56 per cent in favor of the program.

The vote followed one of the most productive flue-cured tobacco seasons in history, with all the auction belts reporting record price averages.

The vote by states:

- Alabama: 99 yes, 0 no for 100 per cent yes.
- Florida: 1,885 yes and 87 no for 95.6 per cent yes.
- Georgia: 10,932 yes and 466 no for 95.9 per cent yes.
- North Carolina: 97,333 yes and 943 no for 99 per cent yes.
- South Carolina: 14,855 yes and 389 no for 97.4 per cent yes.
- Virginia: 12,867 yes and 126 no for 99 per cent yes.

The ASCS reported that the growers in North and South Carolina also gave over-

Coleman Will Place Restrictions On Superports

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. is going to allow the construction of the nation's first offshore superports but will place economic and environmental restrictions on their operation, sources say. The superports would allow oil tankers too large to dock at regular U.S. ports to unload their liquid cargo miles from shore. The oil then would be pumped through pipes to shore. Coleman scheduled a news conference today to announce his decision on two superports in the Gulf of Mexico. The restrictions to be placed on the operations are not known. Both the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission had objected strongly to the way the consortiums building the ports planned to operate them.

The government agencies argued those plans would reduce competition and hike imported oil prices and urged Coleman to impose restrictions that would keep this from happening. Environmentalists also have argued for years that the government should impose operating safety restrictions on such facilities to minimize the risk of oil spills.

Animals To Be At 'King Kong'

A gorilla and several Doberman Pinschers will be at the Plaza Cinema Theater Saturday at 2 p.m. to help promote the movies "King Kong" and the "Amazing Dobermans". The public is invited to meet the animals.

The Golden Gate Singers of Chocowinity will be singing at Simpson Chapel Church Sunday at 3 p.m. The Senior Choir of the Simpson Chapel Church will sponsor the program. The public is invited.

Superports consist of a small stationary above-water pumping station located offshore. The station is connected by an underwater pipeline to storage tanks on shore. Hoses extend from the pumping station outward to buoys which are anchored more than one mile apart. The ships tie up at these buoys and unload their oil into the hoses.

Because the buoys are located in relatively deep water, the huge ships are able to unload at ports with harbors too shallow for ordinary docking and unloading.

The proposed ports would be built in water of more than 100 foot depth. One port would be located 18 miles off Grande Isle, La., and the other would be located 26 miles south of Freeport, Tex. They would be owned by consortiums of oil and chemical companies.

Congress authorized the construction of such superports in 1974 but restricted them to handling only oil imports. Congress also ruled the facilities must be built at least three miles offshore.

The applications before Coleman are the only ones received by the Transportation Department since the ports were authorized.

Rose SGA Provides Tree

The Rose High School Student Government Association bought a live Christmas tree for the school and decorated it this year.

Those in charge of the project were Debbie Girdharry, Lisa Zicherman and Willie Morris.

Now that school is closing, the decorations will be removed and the tree will be planted on the school grounds, the SGA president, Bobby Kim said. He said there are hopes that this will become an annual project.

Accused Hijacker Requests Hearing

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — An attorney for Ira David Meeks, accused of hijacking a small plane from Gastonia to Cuba, says he has decided to request a competency hearing for him in state court.

Public defender Jim Funderburk said he will ask for a hearing without Meeks being given a state psychiatric examination.

Federal charges against Meek were dropped last week because tests showed him mentally incompetent to stand trial. Funderburk said the results of federal psychiatric tests are "strong enough" to be used in state court.

"I don't see why we need tax money to prove him incompetent again," he said.

Meeks, 32, is facing state charges of kidnaping and armed robbery. He is in jail without bond.

Gaston County Dist. Atty. Joe Brown said Thursday Funderburk indicated he wanted the hearing next Wednesday. The state charges against Meeks were filed after he was released by a federal judge.

He is accused of hijacking a plane in April, 1970, piloted by a Gastonia man. He also is charged with the robbery of a taxi driver before the hijacking.

"I felt if he was incompetent, I had information which would lead me to believe he is dangerous," Brown said, referring to Meeks' criminal record.

If Meeks is declared incompetent, Brown said he will ask that the court commit Meeks to a mental institution.

"You never know about these things," he added. "A man can be found incompetent one day but not incompetent a month later."

"If he's found incompetent, here," he said. "I would hope we could prevail on the court to commit him for treatment then return him for trial."

Christmas Cantata

The Adult Choir of Mt. Pleasant Christian Church will present a Christmas cantata "Night of Miracles," by John Peterson Sunday evening at 7:30.

The choir is directed by Mike Berry and solos will include Mike Berry, Howard Bullock and Roger Bullock. The choir is accompanied by Mrs. Jan Spain.

On Wednesday night at seven o'clock, the Sunday School will present a play "Born in a Barn," which will be held in a barn on the farm of F. A. McLawhorn. Children from the beginner class through high school will participate.

The public is invited to attend.

To Present Nativity

GRIFTON — The young people of the Grifton Baptist Church will present a live nativity scene on the church lawn Sunday and Monday.

The presentation will be from 7-8 p.m. each day. On Sunday evening, the program will be preceded by a short outdoor worship.

The program will consist of live action aided by music and narration. Each full program will last approximately 15 minutes and will be repeated several times each evening.

The public is invited to attend.

Sunday Services

Dr. Willie Grant of New Bern, his 150-voice choir and congregation will render a service Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Pray Hour Holiness Church.

Elder M. C. Cousin is pastor of the church which is located at 1811 S. Pitt St. The public is invited to attend.

Plastic Surgery Helps Child's Jaws

NEW YORK (AP) — When Padraig McKenna was a baby 11 years ago in County Leitrim, Ireland, his mother had trouble spoon-feeding him. At first, she thought it was just inexperience with her first child.

For a year, doctors told Breda McKenna her son would be all right, but by then his jaws had grown tightly shut and his lower jaw was not growing.

He had to live on liquids and mashed food sucked between clenched teeth. He couldn't alk, and even breathing was difficult.

Padraig's parents began to think there was something wrong with him mentally, too, until, after an operation when he was 3½ years old, he began talking.

"It was all in there, in his head, he just had to be able to let it out," recalls Mrs. McKenna.

Padraig went to school at 5, but other children "picked on him," she said, and nicknamed him "Bugs Bunny" because of his protruding teeth. His restricted diet made him a frail child, small for his age.

"When he was 8 or 9 he didn't want to go to school or to meet people," said the mother.

"It took a lot of pushing to get him to go to school."

Padraig's father had a cousin, Mary McKenna, living in New York and working at a hospital. She told them about the Institute of Reconstructive Plastic Surgery at New York University Medical Center.

The same institution won attention recently for the case of Ida Hays, of La Grande, Ore., born with her eyes twice as far apart as normal. Surgeons gave her a normal face by removing the bony eye orbits and bringing them closer together, then replacing the bone at the sides.

The Irish government and Irish-American groups helped raise the money to bring Padraig to New York, and last Jan. 21 he had his first operation to free the locked jaws.

The doctors' orders afterward: "Eat steak. Chew gum." In April he got a temporary chin of silicone to stretch the tissue around the lower jaw, and in June he got a new chin of bone grafted from his body. Another operation on Oct. 6 made the jaw still larger.

"He took it all quite well," said Dr. John Marquise Converse, his chief surgeon. "He now has a normal size lower jaw for a boy his age. The grafted bone may not grow at the same rate as the bone in the upper jaw. We'll have to watch."

Padraig also has grown taller and gained 10 pounds eating steak. At a pre-Christmas party for him at the hospital, his mother said he looked "fantastic."

"He wants to keep going places," she said. "He likes to play with kids his own age now."

Padraig is almost finished with the doctors. He'll be going home after the finish next month of orthodontic surgery to straighten his teeth, which had "grown every which way."

Mrs. McKenna will miss spending Christmas with her other children. She's been away for a year except for a brief visit last summer.

"But it's an important year in Padraig's life," she said.

"It's been a wonderful year."

Program On TV

"Christmas With Trinity Free Will Baptist Church," a one-hour Christmas special, sponsored by the congregation, will be televised Sunday at 5 p.m. on Channel Seven, Washington.

The program will feature the church choir and various groups and individuals from its membership. A Christmas message will be given by the pastor, Jack Paramore.

The pastor states, "It is an hour filled with Christmas music which is a tribute to our people who have worked hard to put it all together. We're really excited about it and hope that all of eastern North Carolina will spend a little time with our congregation by means of this special."

Pastor Paramore marked his first anniversary with the church Dec. 14. The church is considering a weekly television program and has a daily broadcast from the pastor's study on WNCN AM-FM at 11:16 a.m.

The church is located on E. 264 By-Pass, Greenville.

To Sing In Concerts

Mack Evans, a well known gospel singer will present three concerts at the People's Baptist Temple Church located next to the Red Oak Subdivision Sunday, December 19.

According to the pastor, Dr. Barry Bagwell, Evans will sing at Sunday School at 10 a.m., at the worship hour at 11 a.m. and at the evening service at 6:30 p.m.

Evans has been singing gospel music for 12 years. He has recorded 20 albums and appears regularly on the international telecast, "The Old Time Gospel Hour". He has traveled in evangelistic meetings across the nation.

The WINDOW

There is a store that is displaying this scene of Christ's birth in all its beautiful simplicity. People walk by the window and stop and look—and when they go on again the tired lines seem to be erased from their faces. For the moment, they have forgotten the "hustle and bustle" of holiday preparations. Instead, the peace of Christmas drifts over them like the softly falling snow.

Look at those beautifully carved figures and at that tiny babe. Makes you realize, doesn't it, that Christmas after all, is the birthday of our Lord, and should be celebrated first of all where most birthdays are celebrated—at home. In this case, that means the Church.

Toy Industry Feels Obligated To Educate Parents

By JEANNE LESEM
 UPI Family Editor

The toy industry feels obligated to educate parents, especially new ones, about buying playthings for their children, says David Miller, president of the Toy Manufacturers Association.

He thinks the problem has been met pretty effectively by retail stores in the New York metropolitan area where he lives.

"One New York area chain store age-grades its displays," Miller said in an interview. "Our (the association's) voluntary safety standard also age-grades toys."

Miller said major manufacturers have for years tagged toys to indicate the ages for which each is recommended. "It's like care labeling in apparel and home furnishings."

The final responsibility rests with parents, Miller said.

"What is fine and safe for a 10-year-old is not for a 5-year-old. Marbles are great toys, but not in a crib. Crayons are an ingestion hazard for infants and very small children. Even though they are nontoxic, they present a choking hazard."

"Even a bottle left in a crib can be a hazard if a child is left unattended. You have to be very, very careful with the nursery-age child."

He said manufacturers spend millions of dollars on packaging to get their toy-safety message across.

The package legend on one soft toy to his own company makes reads, in part:

"Crib toys are designed to amuse a new baby by sight and sound. They are durable, but can withstand only a limited amount of chewing or sucking and are not substitutes for teething rings or pacifiers.

"Until an infant has full body control there is risk in leaving any object, including a stuffed toy, within his or her reach when the infant is left alone.

"Use caution before hanging a crib toy directly above an infant, especially if other children have access to the nursery."

Miller said mothers apparently do read such cautionary contents of toy labels.

"We find a tremendous awareness. Today's mother understands where her responsibility begins and ends. She wants to protect her children against the unforeseen. She holds manufacturers to very high standards."

He sees a heightened awareness in general for the safety of children.

Miller said the federal government has the mechanism to stop hazardous toys at the border before they are imported, but that the law "is enforced haphazardly. They look for the obvious: is the toy flameproof, is it toxic, does it have sharp edges?"

Proposal Would Tax 'Freebees'

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Rep. Jim Martin, R-N.C., says he plans to try to block a proposal that could tax such benefits as free air travel for airline employees, use of company cars and free meals for restaurant employees.

He said Thursday he thinks the U.S. Treasury will act on the proposal before President-elect Jimmy Carter takes over in January.

"I have suggested to Treasury Secretary William Simon that the proposal be rejected," Martin said. "But I told him if he thought he had some merit, he certainly should do no more than refer it to Congress."

Martin termed job-related fringe benefits "a justifiable taxbreak."

If the proposal is approved, Martin said he would try to get it rescinded by the House Ways and Means Committee of which is a member. The committee oversees tax laws.

Martin expressed his opposition to a group of airline employees here. He said his office had been flooded with calls and mail protesting the proposal.

It is designed to bring in an estimated $100 million in untaxed benefits.

Martin said the proposal "came from a great push by some reformers to close all loopholes. But what is a loophole to one person is a tax break to the one who gets it."

Such a dramatic change, he said, should be made only in Congress.

Martin said Simon did not indicate his position on the proposal. He added he expects Simon to make a decision in the next few weeks because "they don't want to leave it hanging."

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market showed a moderate gain today after an initial burst of enthusiasm over news of a pricing split among members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up more than 5 points in the early going, was ahead 3.41 at 984.71 by noon-time on Wall Street.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 3-2 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers traced a wave of buying at the outset to a mood of elation over the break in OPEC's pricing front. Most cartel members declared 10 per cent price increases, but Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates posted 5 per cent hikes and the Saudis announced they were turning loose their full production capacity.

After the market's early jump, it seemed to settle back to study the possible results of the unexpected OPEC developments.

Oil stocks predominated on the active list. Royal Dutch added a point and Texaco and Gulf advanced fractionally. Exxon, however, slipped 1/4. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .08 at 55.53. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .22 to 104.25.

Big Board volume came to 11.23 million shares over the first two hours.

OPEC ...

practically entirely dependent on imported oil, expressed concern over the price hike, but said the OPEC split made its impact lighter than the government had anticipated. Much of Japan's oil comes from Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates.

Yamani said Saudi Arabia will turn its vast production capacity loose to meet the market. He said he expects it will be impossible for the other OPEC members to get the prices they agreed on. "I don't expect the 10 per cent to be enforced in the market," he told a news conference.

The split was the first crack in the solid front of the international oil cartel since it began pushing up prices in 1973. The development promised confusion for the world oil trade, an uncertain future for OPEC and possibly a break for oil consumers.

Mana Saeed Oteiba, UAE oil minister, said OPEC is not broken. "It is a temporary shock," he said and predicted the 11 countries will not be able to sell their oil at the higher price and "might reduce the market price secretly."

The average price increase, taking into account the Saudi and UAE increase of five per cent and their one-third share of OPEC production, would come to between 8 and 8.5 per cent, said Iranian delegation chief Jamshid Amouzegar. He said he did not expect any great disruption and he believed OPEC was as strong as ever.

Leisure Study New Program
SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — A degree in leisure studies doesn't qualify students for a lifetime of lying by the pool. Despite its easygoing title, the new degree program at Salisbury State College "prepares kids for merging into a changing society," its designer says.

Dr. Nelson Butler, chairman of Salisbury's Department of Physical Education and Health, says the program grew out of a need to answer an increasingly common question: "What the hell does one do with one's time?"

The program beginning at the Eastern Shore college next month will include next month will include analogies, allowing students to see how "the Roman circus spectacle represents itself today in the form of the Baltimore Colts at Memorial Stadium."

Nominated For Scholarship
Cynthia Lynne Yow of Seagrove has been nominated for a Harry S. Truman Scholarship, a new scholarship program established to provide the means for interested students to train for careers in public service.

One scholarship per state will be awarded. Dr. John D. Ebbs, East Carolina University faculty representative for the program said that each scholarship is for a maximum of $5,000 and a unique feature of the program is that applicants must be juniors in college.

Miss Yow is an East Carolina University junior with a major in political science and a minor in English. She served as a Lyndon Baines Johnson congressional intern to Rep. Ike Andrews during the summer of 1976, and during the summer of 1975 worked in Washington, D.C., for the Special Assistant to Ralph Nader. Miss Yow has indicated that in the areas of public service her interests are in foreign service or governmental law, Ebbs said.

Little
Funeral services for Mr. S. L. Little of Rt. 1, Stokes, who died Saturday in Pitt Memorial Hospital, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at Phillips Brothers Funeral Chapel by Elder Wade Johnson. Burial will be in the Old Bethel Cemetery.

Refused Post As Director Of FBI

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter asked U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Montgomery, Ala., to become FBI director, but Johnson turned him down because of financial considerations, the Los Angeles Times reports.

"Chances are good that Judge Johnson still will wind up in the Carter administration at some position that would pay a higher salary than the FBI director receives," according to an unnamed Carter adviser quoted by the newspaper in today's editions.

The job offer indicated, however, that Carter will force out

Director Clarence M. Kelley, who announced Dec. 2 that he would not step down. Following disclosures earlier this year that FBI personnel had made repairs in Kelley's home, Carter criticized the director and said that if he had been president he would have asked for his resignation.

Johnson had met with Carter in Atlanta and indicated he was interested in heading the bureau, the Times said.

But apparently the jurist, who earns a lifetime annual salary of $42,000 without pension as a judge, decided the $44,600 paid the FBI director was not enough, the Times said.

The newspaper quoted one Carter aide as saying there was a slim chance Johnson would be asked to be attorney general, a cabinet post. Cabinet members earn $63,000.

Johnson, 57, is popular among civil rights leaders who have expressed hope that he would become Carter's attorney general. A Republican, Johnson was appointed by President Eisenhower and has earned a reputation as a liberal on civil rights issues and as an advocate of strict law and order.

The Crime Control Act of 1976 limits the term of the FBI director to ten years and was made retroactive to cover Kelley.

Yule Customs Changed Since Revolution Days

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — There was no Santa Claus at Christmas time for early Americans back in 1776. Nor were there any decorated Christmas trees or Christmas cards exchanged in the year the Declaration of Independence was signed.

Many of today's Yuletide customs were then unknown, according to Hallmark historian Sally Hopkins, but the people of the original 13 colonies did celebrate the holiday in widely varied ways.

In what is now Virginia, for instance, a typically merry English Christmas, complete with carol-singing and a festive dinner of roast goose and plum pudding, was the order of the day. One thing missing, though, was the decorated Christmas tree. "German immigrants brought that custom to America years later," reports Miss Hopkins. "The first recorded mention of it appears only in 1821."

Up in the Northeast, where Puritan influence still lingered and observance of Christmas was actually banned between 1659 and 1681, the celebration was more subdued. In some places, shops were open and Christmas was a working day.

In New Amsterdam, the present-day Manhattan, where most people were of Dutch and English ancestry, Christmas was a joyous occasion. Children did not hang stockings then, but often observed the old Dutch custom of placing wooden shoes by the fireplace on Christmas Eve, to be filled with small gifts by morning — but not by Santa. It was the mid-1800s before the revered Dutch figure of St. Nicholas had become popularized, first as Sinterklaas, then Santa Claus.

The grimness and glory of war marked Christmas Day, 1776, in the Pennsylvania and New Jersey region. On that day Gen. George Washington crossed the ice-clogged Delaware River and marched on Trenton through a blinding snowstorm. His troops soundly defeated the Hessian defenders, many of them caught unawares while celebrating Christmas with typical Old World revelry. It was Washington's morale-lifting Christmas present to the young nation in the second year of its Revolutionary War.

Westward, in the area now known as Kentucky and Tennessee, frontiersmen and settlers, unaware of the victory, observed Christmas in their isolated cabins and stockades. No doubt they feasted on the wild turkey that abounded in that region of river valleys, says Miss Hopkins.

Elsewhere in the America of 1776 people celebrated Christmas by attending church services and visiting the homes of their friends, which were often decorated with holly and evergreen wreaths. Children would be treated to small gifts of nuts, candy and fruits, and presents of hams and turkeys were given to poor people in the community.

Christmas cards were not exchanged in those days because they did not exist. The first Christmas card appeared in England in 1843, and the custom was first adopted here in 1875.

Ramsey, Hunt Pace Pirate Victory

FIRST DOWN, TEN TO GO — Whoops, wrong sport. But it seemed that way as East Carolina and Georgia Southern players battled on the floor for a loose ball during action last night. Greg Cornelius (in white) and Georgia

Southern's Stanley Brewer (20) are the only identifiable players. East Carolina won the game, 89-78, for their fourth win in six starts. (Reflector Photo)

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Jim Ramsey and Larry Hunt paced East Carolina University's basketball team to its fourth victory in six games last night as the Pirates blasted Georgia Southern, 89-78.

The total was the highest point margin for the Bucs this year. Their previous high was 72 scored against Western Carolina.

In nearly everything, the Pirates put their game together. Only in the turnover department was Coach Dave Patton and his staff disappointed. The Pirates had a total of 30 turnovers, a high for the year.

Five Pirate players finished the game in double figures, led by freshman Jim Ramsey's 25, another high for the year, both personally and for the team. Ramsey hit nine of 15 shots from the floor and added seven of eight free throws.

Hunt had an outstanding night on the backboards, sweeping them for 20 rebounds, another personal high. He was just four short of the school record of 24.

Overall, East Carolina pulled off 55 rebounds to 51 for the Eagles. Herb Gray, Greg Cornelius and Tyron Edwards each grabbed off six to help Hunt's effort. John Fowler led Georgia Southern with 11.

The Pirates also had their best night shooting, hitting 57.1 per cent of their shots. The Eagles had trouble finding the hoop over the Pirate defense, and hit just 33.7 per cent.

"We still made a lot of silly mistakes," Patton said afterwards. "We could have easily made it 20 or more points in the spread."

East Carolina led all the way, except for two ties early in the proceedings. Louis Crosby provided the initial lead after less than 30 seconds, but both teams had trouble for the next few minutes, trying to find the nets. Matt Simpkins finally hit after 2:15 to knot it at 2-2. But Hunt followed that with a baseline jumper, moving the Pirates out to a 4-2 edge.

Cornelius followed with a dunk and Gray added a jumper for an 8-2 lead before Georgia Southern hit again. The Eagles cut it back to two after that, but the Pirates held them off until Simpkins hit once more with 11:40 left. His dunk off a steal tied it at 16-16, but it was the last tie.

Don Whitaker hit a jumper with 11:12 remaining to put East Carolina back into the lead, and Hunt followed with a basket from underneath for a four-point edge. After an Eagle free throw, the Pirates hit eight straight, with Ramsey keying the way, to run the lead out to 13, 32-19 with 6:32 left. It finally reached 15 at 36-21, and the Pirates held onto most of that for a 46-32 halftime lead.

Early in the second half, the Pirates pushed the lead out to 18 points, as Hunt hit two free throws for a 52-34 margin.

Georgia Southern went to a full-court press after that, and slowly chipped away at the lead. They cut it back to as little as 10 midway through the half, but the Pirates pulled away again, moving back to a 17 point edge, only to see it drop away again, this time to as little as 10 again before building back up to 16 with 3:15 to go.

Once more, Georgia Southern cut into the lead, this time, cutting it to nine in the closing seconds before the Pirates got two late free throws by Ramsey to wind it up.

Fowler finished with 15 points to lead the Georgia Southern effort, while Simpkins had 14. Kevin Anderson had 13, and Phil Leisure had 10.

Besides Ramsey's 25, Hunt and Herb Krusen each had 12. Billy Dineen had 11, and Gray had 10.

East Carolina, now 4-2, goes on the road for its next game, traveling to Charleston, S. C., to meet The Citadel Saturday night. That game was originally scheduled for Greenville, but the two teams switched dates due to Citadel's exam schedule.

FAR-OFF PUPILS

MILLER, Mo. (AP) — Mickey Owen apparently gained worldwide fame after his 1941 error that led to a Yankee World Series victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. This summer his baseball school in Miller, Mo., included pupils from the Philippines, the Canal Zone and Uuudi Arabia.

Mitch Hopton, 14, of Rizal, the Philippines, Gary Knurbein, 17, of Najman, Saudi Arabia, and Robert O'Connor, 11, from Balboa Heights, Panama were at the school for boys 8 to 19. Owen is no longer active in the school but pays frequent visits. His regular job is sheriff of Green County in Springfield, Mo.

In 1941, Mickey Owen was charged with an error when Yankee Tommy Henrich struck out but made first base.

Game Is On Road

East Carolina University travels to Charleston, S.C., to meet The Citadel in a Southern Conference game Saturday night at 8 p.m.

The contest was originally scheduled to be played in Greenville, but the two teams switched dates due to Citadel's examination schedule. The Citadel will make a return visit to Minges Coliseum on February 19. Ticket holders with Citadel tickets may use them then.

The Pirates, 0-1, in the league, will be seeking their first conference victory.

Farmville In Squeaker Win

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's Jaguars apparently didn't want anyone leaving the gym until things were all over last night, going right down to the wire on all three games against Southern Nash.

And the Jaguars were successful in winning all three. The boys came away with a slim 54-52 win, while the girls did equally well with a 48-46 decision. The junior varsity capped it with a 48-44 win.

In both of the varsity games, it took some last second heroics to pull it out.

Southern Nash's girls eased their way into a 12-9 lead after one period of play, and padded that lead to 28-23 by the end of the half.

Farmville Central came back in the second half, cutting the lead by three in the third period. That left the Lady Firebirds with a 37-35 lead going into the final period. Farmville tied it up late in the game, and Diana Gordon hit both ends of a one-and-one opportunity with 26 seconds left to provide Farmville with the 48-46 margin that stuck for the win.

Julia Moye led the Jaguar scoring with 19 points, while Diann Barrett added 10. Shirley Hall had 15 and Deborah Edwards added 11 for Southern Nash.

Southern also pulled away to a lead in first period of the boys' game, 16-10. Farmville trimmed that back to 24-21 at the half.

Farmville struggled into the lead in the third period, outlasting the Firebirds, 18-14. That made it 39-33 for the Jaguars as the final period opened.

It stayed nip and tuck all the way to the end, when Kenno Farrow tapped in a missed shot at the buzzer to give Farmville the victory, 54-52.

Jeff Fields led the Farmville scoring with 15, while James Baker had 14 and Farrow had 12.

Walter Williams had 12 and Ronnie Taybron had 10 to lead Southern.

Farmville travels to Eastern Wayne tonight.

Allen: Weather Will Be Redskin Weather

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
"Whatever the weather is up there, it will be Redskins weather," Washington Coach George Allen pronounced.

It ain't necessarily so. "Up there" is Minnesota, where the forecast for Saturday's opener of the National Football League playoffs calls for temperatures in the low 40s—which is about 20 degrees above normal—and strong winds.

Redskins weather, as Allen's disciples know, is rain ... and rain ... and more rain. Were it not for the rain, the Redskins, winners of the National Conference wild card, might not even be in this NFC first-round playoff against the Vikings.

In Saturday's American Conference playoff opener, New England's wild-card Patriots visit the Oakland Raiders, the winningest team in the league this year at 13-1. On Sunday it's Los Angeles at Dallas in the NFC and Pittsburgh at Baltimore in the AFC.

Recall, if you will, last October. The Redskins had lost to Chicago and Kansas City in successive weeks and trailed St. Louis by one game and Dallas by two. Another loss would be severely damaging.

Into Washington came Detroit—and in, too, came a typhoon. RFK Stadium became a mudbowl, the Lions slogged around helplessly and what was supposed to be a very close game—and many predicted a Detroit victory—wound up with the 'Skins on top 20-7.

Eight days passed and into Washington for a Monday night game came the Cardinals. Allen waved his sorcerer's wand again and—abracadabra—the skies reopened. The Cards, rated favorites for the game, slipped, slid and generally went nowhere—or went somewhere and tumbled the ball away when they got there. Washington won 20-10 and was back in the race, a face they stayed in to the final game, when they upset Dallas to take the NFC wild card.

Now it's the Vikings who are favored against this band of old guys who seem to come back from the precipice each week. Bud Grant, coach of the Vikings, isn't taking them lightly.

"Washington is like any other playoff team," he says. "They can all beat you. They're playing their best ball at the end of the season and that's important."

"They're a lot like us. They have an experienced quarterback and big-play people, their defense is sound and they've got a lot of experienced hands."

Oakland's Raiders have a lot of playoff experience, too. And in a strange sort of way, that's their biggest problem. Their experience, year after year, is that they're bounced out of the playoffs before they get to the Super Bowl.

In the past nine years, they've won eight division titles. But they haven't made it into an NFL title game since Super Bowl II after the 1967 season. And they lost that game 33-14 to Green Bay.

"Every year at this time, we've got a monkey on our backs. The only way we're going to get it off is by going to the Super Bowl," says quarterback Ken Stabler.

Oakland takes a 10-game winning streak into the game against the Pats, the team which last beat the Raiders.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

With Joe Jenkins protesting like mad, our fearless panel of experts is going to make one final stab at it, and try and pick the winners of the bowl games for you.

Not only that, but we'll also try and come up with the winner of the Super Bowl—despite having to pick from eight teams.

We won't know the outcome until early January, of course, but we'll let you know.

Overall, there are 11 bowl games to pick, starting with tomorrow's Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla. The Sun Bowl on January 2, winds up the college scene, while the Super Bowl will be played in the Rose Bowl on January 9.

Our first game comes up Saturday, when Oklahoma State meets Brigham Young in the Tangerine Bowl. Our panel has no doubt here, it's a solid 6-0 vote for the Cowboys of Oklahoma State.

Monday night, UCLA will meet Alabama in the Liberty Bowl. Will the Bear get a win? We'll know soon. However, our panel feels that the Alabama Bowl Jinx will continue. There is a 6-0 vote for UCLA.

On Saturday, December 25, Oklahoma meets Wyoming in the Fiesta Bowl. Here again, there are no differences. The six of us go right down the line with a solid vote for the Sooners.

On December 27, Notre Dame and Penn State meet in the Gator Bowl. Here, we have our first difference of opinion. Everyone picks the Fighting Irish except George Holland, who goes with Penn State. Hopefully, Greenville's Al Hunter will have a big night in this one.

The Peach Bowl on December 31, probably attracts more interest in this area, since the Tar Heels of North Carolina meet Kentucky in this one. Here again, there is division. It's a 4-2 vote for the Wildcats. Tom Baines and Jack Whichard stick with the Heels.

Also that night, Texas Tech meets Nebraska in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl. We've called this one a toss-up. Baines, Whichard and myself pick Texas Tech, while Holland, Barbara Mathews and Jenkins pick Nebraska.

January 1 finds four games on tap—the four top games. In the Cotton Bowl, our panel picks a toss-up again. Baines, Jenkins and myself take Houston, while Holland, Mathews and Whichard pick Maryland.

Georgia meets Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl, and our panel gives this one a solid vote for Tony Dorsett and company, 6-0.

In the Rose Bowl, Michigan and Southern California tackle each other. The Trojans, surprisingly, didn't get a single vote. All six pick Michigan.

In the Orange Bowl, Ohio State meets Colorado. The Woody Hayes mystique is almost too much to battle. Only Holland had the nerve to pick Colorado.

Winding up the bowl games on January 2, Texas A & M meets Florida. Again, there is only one divergent opinion. That belongs to Jenkins, who picks the Gators. The rest of us go with the Aggies.

Now, in the Super Bowl, we get our biggest difference of opinion. Four different teams are picked, and with our luck, probably none of them will make it.

Pittsburgh's defending champions get the real nod, however, drawing support from three of us, Baines, Mathews (a Pittsburgh native) and Whichard. Jenkins likes Dallas, while Holland picked Oakland.

Our pick is Minnesota. Jenkins holds the lead going into this final big splurge. He's 87-41. The rest, except for this writer, are bunched up at 84-44, while we have an 80-48 record.

How will it end, we'll know in a few weeks.

Roanoke Still Getting Together

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
ROBERSONVILLE — Things have gotten off to a slow start for the Roanoke Redskins during basketball season, but Coach Henry Land is hopeful that the season can have a finish like last year's.

The Redskins were slow to start last season also, compiling only an 8-16 record on the year, but they did well enough at the end of the season to gain a berth in the finals of the district tournament, just one step away from the state tournament.

"We've been working hard so far," Land said, "we just haven't gotten results yet." So far this year, Roanoke is 1-4, winning only against Bear Grass. Their defeats have come by an average of 17 points, but they've been against such teams as North Pitt and Williamston.

Just one starter returns from last year's team, 6-4 center-forward Sammy Boyd. "We have a lot of other players with a lot of experience, so I had really hoped for a good start."

For this reason, Land hasn't settled on a definite starting lineup. "We've got good balance," the coach said.

The others who are fighting for a starting job include Lowell Williams, Ameche Burnes, David Spruill, Ricky Duggins, and Kenneth Howell, all back from last year. Tim Highsmith and Larry Williams, both up from the junior varsity are also adding to the fray.

"I just can't pinpoint five," Land said. "They're just not consistent enough. One will play well, then not do as well in the next game. And we have to get consistent before we can start winning."

The Redskins don't have a great deal of height, and have been somewhat sluggish on the boards so far. "We aren't real quick either, and this disappoints me. We need a lot of polishing."

Many of the players haven't made the transition from football either, and that has hurt the shooting. "I think this will take care of itself when we get into form," Land said.

Still, he feels the slow start could help the team. "It will help to keep us from peaking too soon, but we need the incentive of winning. I've seen some improvement already."

Land feels that the Eastern Plains conference should be fairly well balanced this year. "Saratoga might be real strong, but I really don't think any one team will dominate things."

How quickly Roanoke comes around will be a key for the Redskins. "They've worked hard. They haven't quit. There is good togetherness on this year. It's just a question of time now."

Clemson Tigers Claw Way Past Biscayne

BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — "I think on a given night, we can be as good as anybody in the country," says Bill Foster, coach of 13th-ranked Clemson.

His 7-0 Tigers didn't have to be that good Thursday night. They toyed with tiny Biscayne College, beating the college division school 94-42 before a sparse Miami turnout of 1,060 fans.

"We had a little more firepower," Foster deadpanned after substituting liberally over the outmanned Bobcats, now 1-5 with all of the losses to Division I opponents.

"It's good to win on the road," added Foster. He used the contest as a gentle break-in for things to come—such as a Dec. 27 game against Marquette in Milwaukee.

Stan Rome had 17 points and Greg Coles 16 to lead the Tigers. Seven-foot-2 Wayne "Tree" Rollins had 14 rebounds, four blocked shots, and hit three of four field goals as he scored 11 points.

Biscayne's meager effort was hurt even more when 6-7 center Richard Neaves—overburdened under the basket against Rollins, 6-7 Jim Howell and 6-5 Rome—was benched with his third personal foul halfway through the first half with Clemson up 13-5.

The Tigers then scored 14 straight points, and after a Biscayne basket, added 11 more in a row for a 38-7 lead.

Biscayne's only consolation was in the final score. The 94 points was the lowest of the year for Clemson, which averaged 113 in its first six games.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Rutgers beat Drexel 83-68 as Ed Jordan scored 19 points; Eddie Johnson's 22-point performance powered Auburn past Virginia Commonwealth 109-59; Louisiana Tech defeated Houston Baptist 96-77 as Mike McConathy contributed 26 points; Tony Hanson's 23 points propelled Connecticut over New Hampshire 65-51; Bill Swelton and Chet Jacks combined for 13 straight points at the start of the second half to lead Augustana to an 85-69 triumph over Western Illinois; John Tillo led a balanced attack with 13 points as Iowa State defeated Arizona State 79-65 and Wyoming got 12 points each from Doug Bessert, Tony Barnett and Joe Fazekas to beat California-San Diego 86-58.

Colbert Likes Tourney Format

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Jim Colbert's eyes brightened. A smile crossed his face.

He'd just been asked his assessment of the new Mixed Team Golf Championship in which men and women touring pros were playing together for the first time in a decade.

"What else is there in life," replied Jimmy, "but golf and girls?"

The ladies seemed to agree. "It's nice to have a man around out there," said Pat Bradley, who teamed with Master's champion Ray Floyd in the selected drive, alternate shot competition in the $200,000 event on the Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

"We decided that I'd drive first on each hole. With Ray standing there behind me, it's like having a mulligan. I know if I get in trouble, he's going to rip it right down the middle of the fairway."

Dr. Gil Morgan, who has yet to win on the men's PGA tour, and Marlene Hagge, in her 27th season on the LPGA circuit, lead Thursday's wind blown first round with a six-under-par 66, operating primarily off Mrs. Hagge's drive.

The Bradley-Floyd team was one shot back at 67. Four teams were tied at 68—Colbert and Argentina's Sylvia Bertolacci, per little JoAnne Washam and Chi Chi Rodriguez, Penny Tull and Australian David Graham, and Mary Lou Crocker and Fuzzy Zoeller.

The favored team of Judy Rankin and Ben Crenshaw could do no better than a 70. Arnold and Sandra (no relation) Palmer, were at 73. The Hall of Fame entry of Patty Berg and Gene Sarazen trailed the field of 46 teams at 80.

The unique format allows both the man and woman to drive on each hole, the man from the championship tees, the girls from the ladies' tee. The difference is in the tee markers ranged from 25 to about 70 yards. The team is allowed to select the drive they want and then play alternate shots on the same ball for the remainder of the hole.

"Generally, the men are better iron players than we are," Mrs. Hagge said. "So the strategy was to play my drive as much as possible."

Cincinnati led National League teams in hitting in 1976 with .280.

Networks Back Away From Deal

MOSCOW (AP) — Three United States television networks negotiating with the Soviet Union for broadcast rights for the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow have decided to withdraw from the talks, a network source said today.

The source, who did not want to be identified, said the reason for the breakoff was "excessive demands of the Soviets."

The network executives packed up and planned to leave for home later today. "This is not a negotiating position," the source said, "and the Soviets have been so told."

The Soviet Olympic Organizing Committee and the State Committee for Radio and Television opened the talks Thursday with a surprise demand for $50 million to purchase technical equipment for TV coverage of the Games.

This demand was made before actual rights bidding began by the networks.

The $50 million would have been added to the price a network would pay for the exclusive American rights. Some estimates of that probable price tag were as high as $100 million.

NBC, CBS and ABC were seeking the broadcast rights.

One TV executive called the $50 million figure and the payments schedule "shocking."

The Soviets demanded that 40 per cent of the sum be paid in 1977 and the remaining 60 per cent in 1978, two years before the Games.

Network sources said that the

Mixed Emotions For Perez After Trade

By BILL VALE
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — A large multi-year contract, a promise to play everyday and competition from young Dan Driessen were the factors that convinced veteran Cincinnati Reds first baseman Tony Perez to agree to the trade to Montreal.

"I am both happy and sad," Perez told a news conference after the Reds announced the trade involving four players. Perez and young relief pitcher Will McEnaney went to the last place Expos for pitchers Woodie Fryman and Dale Murray.

"I think Will McEnaney and me can give Montreal a winning attitude," said Perez, reminding he said previously he would only agree to a trade to a contending club.

"They have a lot of young players and they have some new players," Perez said.

"Also, the multi-year contract will give my family security. That is important."

Perez said he was looking forward to playing in Montreal's new stadium but most of all, he will be playing on a regular basis.

Perez refused to say how long the contract was for or how much it will pay, but conceded he has a no cut, no trade clause.

Teammate Johnny Bench, at the press conference, said the contract was "pretty good."

"He deserves a big contract as much as anybody in this day and age of big contracts," said Bench, adding that the club's all-time leading runs batted in leader would be missed. "But we can't let it affect us. We're paid for winning," Bench said.

"Thanks for all the years," said Perez, hugging Bench before telephoning the news to his sons, Victor and Eduardo in Puerto Rico.

"They wanted to know if the Montreal catcher can hold as many baseballs in one hand as Johnny Bench," giggled his wife, Petuka.

Fryman, a 36-year-old veteran of 12 major league seasons, compiled a 13-13 record for the Expos, who finished last in the Eastern Division of the National League in 1976. He has won 105 games playing in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Detroit and Montreal.

"We needed another left-handed starter. And in Fryman we have a veteran who knows how to pitch," said Bob Howsam, president and general manager of the Reds.

Murray, a right-hand relief pitcher, led the league with 81 appearances last season and finished with a 4-9 record and a 3.27 earned run average.

McEnaney was the winning pitcher in the last game of the World Series final games the last two seasons. However, his record last season fell below his 1975 mark of 2.47 ERA in 70 games. He was 2-6 with a 4.87 ERA.

Fryman, contacted at his dairy and tobacco farm at Ewing, Ky., said he was delighted not only to be traded to a contending team but having a chance to play close to home.

"I think everybody likes to wind up on a pennant contender. My years are growing less overall. Anytime you get 36 years old you don't have too many more years left."

Fryman said he was nearly traded to the Reds last June when Don Gullett, now with the New York Yankees, was injured, "but the deal didn't go through."

Fryman said Reds pitching coach Larry Shepard was instrumental in getting him. "I played for Larry in the Pittsburgh farm system at Columbus, Ohio, in 1965."

Fryman said he believed he was capable of pitching 20 games for Montreal the past two years if the club had had Cincinnati's hitting.

"I go at them one at a time, but if I can pitch as well as last year I can win 20 games for Cincinnati," Fryman said.

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson called it "a helluva deal for everybody. Both Tony and Dan Driessen get to play regular and we got two good pitchers. Woodie Fryman is an experienced player who knows how to pitch and wit Dale Murray in the bullpen we've had the best bullpen we ever had. And the way I operate, we'll need it."

Bingo Gives Cavaliers A Lift Past Indiana

By The Associated Press
They call Bobby Smith "Bingo"—and for good reason. That's usually what they say when he comes off the bench and starts shooting.

"Bingo really gave us a lift," Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch said Thursday night after his reserve forward hit eight straight shots to help the Cavaliers beat the Indiana Pacers 111-105.

Smith, who finished with 17 points, came in near the end of the first period to trigger the Cavaliers to their first victory in six National Basketball Association games.

Smith's marksmanship left little time for other aspects of his game—like rebounding. But with shooting like that, Fitch didn't mind.

"It's important to us that he shoot the pill," said the Cleveland coach.

Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard was impressed not only with Smith, but the entire Cleveland team.

"The Cavaliers are the type of club that can get hot for a month's stretch and win it all," said Leonard. "They shot the ball better tonight than in their first game against us—and that's their game."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Kansas City Kings defeated the New York Nets 100-90 and the Houston Rockets whipped the Atlanta Hawks 118-107.

The Cavaliers took the lead at 5-4 and stayed in front the rest of the way, leading by as many as 14 points in the second period and 15 in the final period. They had six players in double figures, including Campy Russell and Jim Clemons with 19 each and Austin Carr with 17.

Indiana's Billy Knight led all scorers with 30 points, including 12 in the Pacers' third-period surge.

Kings 100, Nets 90
Ron Boone scored 21 of his game-high 29 points in the second half to spark Kansas City over New York. The victory, snapping a four-game Kansas City losing streak, marked the first time the Kings faced former teammate Nate Archibald, who was traded during the summer for Brian Taylor and Jim Eakins. Archibald finished the game with 20 points.

The contest was close until the Kings outscored New York, 13-4, in the first three minutes of the final quarter to take a 12-point lead.

Rockets 118, Hawks 107
Rudy Tomjanovich scored 36 points with 24 coming in the second half, leading Houston over Atlanta. The Rockets, who trailed 56-48 at the half, outscored Atlanta 36-18 in the third quarter, including a 30-10 run in the last eight minutes of the quarter.

Tomjanovich had 10 points and rookie John Lucas had 10 of his 18 in the period as the Rockets hit 17 of 28 shots.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TEMPORARY NATURAL GAS SURCHARGE FOR COMMERCIAL & INDUSTRIAL CUSTOMERS

By order of the North Carolina Utilities Commission the North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation was permitted to recover from all Non-Residential customers the cost of purchasing a block of emergency gas for the winter of 1976-77. A surcharge of 78.2% per Mcf. was approved effective with all gas billed on or after December 10, 1976.

Greenville Utilities Commission has approved a surcharge of 78.2% per Mcf effective with all billings on or after December 10, 1976. This surcharge will remain in effect until the proportionate share of the emergency gas cost charged by North Carolina Natural Gas to Greenville Utilities Commission has been recovered.

Shutout Recorded

CATAWBA, N. C. (AP) — Newton-Conover High School's junior varsity girls team pulled off one of basketball's rarest accomplishments Thursday night, shutting out Bandys, 9-0.

"We were surprised to say the least," said Newton-Conover coach Walter Payne afterward. "It was incredible. No body there had ever seen anything like it."

Crystal Sweet scored all nine points as Newton-Conover wound up four for seven from the floor. Bandys tried two shots in the first period and if there were any more attempts in its stall game, the statistic was not available.

The winners led a comfortable 4-0 lead at the half as they pushed their record to 3-1. Bandys was left with a 2-3 mark.

Tigers In Mat Win

AHOSKIE — Williamston High School romped to a 52-12 victory over Ahoskie in a Northeastern Conference wrestling match last night.

The Tigers won 10 of the 13 weights, taking four of them by pins and three by forfeits.

Ahoskie's three wins came on two decisions and a pin.

Williamston, now 2-5, is idle until after the holidays.

Summary:

98: Ben Jones (W) decisioned Lee Chitt, 11-10.
105: Tony Speller (W) pinned Doug Cole, 5-20.
112: Larry Gray (W) pinned William Horton, 1-35.
119: Teffia Williams (A) decisioned Terry Gainer, 15-8.
126: William Siade (W) pinned Roy Powell, 1-25.
132: Joe Powell (A) decisioned Carl Siade, 3-1.
138: Roosevelt Mackey (W) decisioned Dennis Jenkins, 15-6.
147: Wayne Ellis (A) pinned David Gurganus, 2-04.
145: Joel Hagan (W) pinned Antonio Moore, 5-33.
155: Sam Short (W) decisioned Mike Harris, 15-6.
167: Wayne Ellis (A) pinned David Gurganus, 2-04.
185: Warren Lamb (W) won by forfeit.
195: Joe Jenkins (W) won by forfeit.
Heavyweight: Grady Winstead (W) won by forfeit.

BIG LOCAL TALENT

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — One thing new basketball coach Donald Lizak has at Southampton College on Long Island's southern fork is height. His team averages nearly six-foot-three inches with Bill Appel, a sophomore, the tallest at 6-8. Lizak could place a team on the floor averaging 6-6. Eight of his 12 players are Long Islanders.

Lizak, at 26 one of the youngest athletic directors in the nation, has scheduled 26 games for Southampton. January is the busiest month with 10 games, five on the road.

Christmas Toys Could Be Deadly

By NIKKI FINKE
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The 10 Worst Toys of 1976 are on sale at stores across the nation this Christmas, and they could be harmful or even deadly to children, warns a lawyer who has written a book on the subject.

"The toy industry persists in selling playthings that can choke, burn, blind, maim and even kill our children without realistic and precise warnings to parents and other toy shoppers," said Edward M. Swartz, author of "Toys That Don't Care."

Swartz made a preholiday shopping tour in Massachusetts department stores, to select nominees Thursday for his 10-worst list. He said the toys he included are by no means the only unsafe ones being marketed, but they are examples of the types of hazards threatening children.

Most of the companies whose toys were included on the list expressed surprise that they had been publicly singled out. All said their toys met existing government standards, including those set by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

But Swartz said federal regulations are too lax and leave too much authority in the hands of the toy industry.

"The real key to toy safety is safer design, safer production, and, especially, more safety-conscious labeling and marketing practices by toy manufacturers," he said.

The list and companies' reaction follows:
1. "Bazooka Blaster," manufactured by the World Toy House Division of Telmont Corp. in St. Paul is a projectile toy that fires when an exploding cap is inserted in its tip.

Swartz said the toy can blind a child if the projectile is accidentally discharged near the eye and should be banned.

Tom Fish, executive vice president of World Toy, said his firm stopped making Bazooka Blasters in 1972 because of slumping demand. He said he was confident the toy was safe when used properly.

2. "Wham-Wads," a product of Centsable Toys Inc. in Palatine, Ill., is a blowgun, foam dart and target set whose label says it is for ages 8 and up. Swartz said the toy's advertising claims it is "a safe action game for all ages," but he says the darts can easily be swallowed by small children.

A company spokesman, Tom Mayfield, said the advertising was "a pure oversight." He said the toy, in his opinion, was safer than a pea-shooter and was designed with young children in mind.

3. "Putt-Putt N' People," manufactured by Mattel in Hawthorne, Calif., includes a wooden figure small enough to block a child's windpipe if ingested, Swartz claimed. He said it is put together with a screw that has a dangerously sharp tip.

"We are confident of the safety and quality of all our products," said Beverly Stinnett, Mattel's consumer adviser. "I even bought my nephew a 'Putt-Putt' for Christmas."

4. The "Flippy Submarine," produced by Playco Products of Torrance, Calif., comes with fuel pellets that look like candy or pills but really contain harmful chemicals, the attorney said.

The company refused to comment about the safety of its product.

5. "Romper Stompers," manufactured by Hasbro Industries in Pawtucket, R.I., is a walking device intended to teach coordination, Swartz said, but he said it poses risks of sprains, tumbles and other injuries.

Hasbro spokesman Donald Robbins said the toy has never produced one letter of complaint and has been marketed for eight years. He said his own children play with the toy and have not been injured.

6. "Fuzzy Fun Friends," a product of Bipo in Oklahoma City is a cuddly toy made of feathery plush that could be harmful to toddlers if ingested, Swartz said.

The company had no comment on the report.

7. "Bumble Bee Pull Toy," imported by Woolworth's, has wings that can come off, revealing a sharp steel rod which can puncture, lacerate or blind a child, Swartz said.

Woolworth spokesman Ernest Downing said his company, reacting to recent publicity, ordered all stores to remove the toy from their shelves. "We didn't want to take any chances," Downing said.

8. "Extra Loud Super Bang Bang Caps," imported by the Edge Import Corp. in Mount Vernon, N.Y., can cause hearing impairments, according to Swartz.

"I wouldn't want to feel responsible for hurting any children," said company vice president Tom Palmer. "My 4-year-old plays with them and has never been hurt. It's up to the individual parent."

9. "Precision Rubber Band Gun," manufactured by A.J. Krajewski Mfg. Co., Inc., in Lincoln, R.I., poses a risk of injury as a weapon, Swartz said.

A firm spokesman said the gun is intended as a safer alternative to BB and pellet guns. He said more than 30,000 have been sold and the company hasn't received any injury reports.

10. The "Original Holly Hobbie," produced by Knickerbocker Toy Co. of Middlesex, N.J., is an example of dolls that have flammable clothing and components, Swartz said.

"That's ridiculous. What does he want to do, eliminate all dolls?" a company spokesman said.

Black Leader Says KKK Has A Right To Exist

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — The chairwoman of the Black Congressional Caucus says the Ku Klux Klan has a right to exist on the nation's military bases, but should operate in the open and ought to be watched.

The comment by Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, D-Calif., came after she spent Wednesday conducting her own investigation into racial conditions at Camp Pendleton, scene of a Nov. 13 raid by blacks on whites they suspected of being KKK members.

Her activities included a 40-minute meeting with Maj. Gen.

Carl Hoffman, the base commander; individual black and white Marines; and some of the 14 blacks charged in the attack and their lawyers.

"There was overt activity by the Ku Klux Klan, a great deal of it, at least several weeks to a month before the attack took place," the Los Angeles congresswoman said following her tour.

"Racial epithets were openly displayed, there were stickers on doors, the KKK openly wore Bowie knives at their sides labeled 'nigger stickers,'" she said.

Despite her findings, she said the KKK should have the right to meet so long as others are not threatened by it. She called for a review of policy to see if the KKK can function under such a system.

She also said her meeting with Hoffman convinced her he was unaware of KKK activity on the base prior to the barracks melee.

Meanwhile, pretrial investigative hearings for the 14 black Marines charged with conspiracy and assault ground through their eighth day Wednesday.

On the basis of the hearings, an officer will decide if the black Leathernecks will face courts-martial trials.

Six of seven white Marines in the barracks room which was attacked went to the hospital with wounds from clubs, pipes and screwdrivers. The Marine Corps has said they were non-KKK members who were merely holding a beer party.

The incident, however, led to a barracks-wide search which produced KKK literature, a purported list of 16 Klan members and some weapons in another room. Most of the men named on the list have been shipped to other bases to ease tensions at Pendleton.

Collect Paper To Help Children

REIDSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two Reidsville men have been collecting waste paper since last May to raise money to send youngsters to summer camp.

Clyde Foster and G. W. Springs have been collecting the paper from those who will give it to them. Waste paper brings about $16 a ton.

The paper is taken to Greensboro where they sell it, with the proceeds all going to local youngsters who would not otherwise get to go to camp.

"I was poor as a kid, too. I know what it's like," Foster said.

The campaign for paper began last spring when some neighborhood kids were in Foster's store. He is vice president of a local tire company. "They were talking about camp and how much they'd like to go but their parents could not afford it," he explained.

Foster said he forgot about it until a few weeks later when he took some waste paper from the store to the recycling center. He said he and Springs, who helped him, did not need the money they collected, so they decided to send the youngsters to an Elks Club summer camp.

The two men have kept up their collections since sending the first youngsters.

"We'll probably have to send it down to the Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw," Foster said. "We don't want to get caught with it when tax time comes."

Boars Tearing Up Mountain Park

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — The superintendent of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park says some 2,000 wild boars are playing havoc with the park land by rooting and tearing it up.

"Some parts of the land look like they've been plowed," Boyd Edison said, "and they can go to considerable depths, sometimes up to 18 inches into the ground."

The boars are European natives, brought by man to the South where they are an "unnatural influence" that destroys plant life and deprives other animals of food, Edison said.

"They're not in their natural habitat, where there would be natural factors at work to keep their effects in balance, so everything they do here is disturbing to the environment," he stated.

The boars, brought from Germany to a game farm in North Carolina about 60 years ago, tend to avoid humans most of the time, Edison said.

The Tennessee-North Carolina breed usually get no bigger than 200 pounds. Their foreign cousins, however, reach 600 pounds.

Park officials are trying "to either wipe them out or find some method of controlling them effectively."

The park policy once was to shoot boars on sight. To study their behavior, rangers now try to capture them.

"Sometimes we even have to release them to study their movements," Edison said. "It's painful to do that, believe me."

Patty Trying To Figure Why She Never Escaped

NEW YORK (AP) — Patricia Hearst says she's still trying to figure out how she got so "twisted around in my own head" that she never tried to escape from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"It's crazy. It doesn't make any sense at all, and it's something that I'm still working on myself," the convict-heiress said in a nationally televised interview on CBS Thursday night.

The interview was conducted at the Hearst family castle at San Simeon, Calif. Miss Hearst, seated on a sofa, wore a long blue dress, with a printed scarf knotted fashionably around the neck.

The 22-year-old daughter of newspaper executive Randolph Hearst told interviewer Harold Dow much the same story of her life with the underground terrorists that was rejected by the jury in her bank robbery trial earlier this year.

But she issued her strongest denunciation yet of the six SLA members who were killed in a Los Angeles house on May 17, 1974: "I feel that they got exactly what they deserved in Los Angeles, exactly what they'd asked for. And I don't feel sorry for them at all."

She said she was forced to tape the eulogy in which she mourned the deaths. "I guess people thought that I really liked them," she said.

Of her personal plans, Miss Hearst, who is free on $1.25 million bail while appealing her conviction, said she would like to travel and start working soon. As for marriage, she said, "That's going to have to wait for awhile."

She also said the family had just gotten its Christmas tree and said she expected her first

Christmas at home in three years would be "fantastic."

Miss Hearst, who denied during her trial ever being a sincere member of the SLA, said she felt she owed her life to her ability to persuade her captors that she was.

"Oh yes, definitely," she said. "If no one believed it, I wouldn't be sitting here right now."

She also said the SLA succeeded in making her believe her family didn't want her anymore, "and that, of course, isn't true."

"Looking back, and of course it was really stupid, but at the time I felt that I had nowhere to go."

Brief segments of the interview were first shown on the CBS Evening News. Leading into the abbreviated portions, anchorman Walter Cronkite noted that Miss Hearst had told her story in court but had never spoken on her captivity directly to the public.

Cronkite said the ground rules for the interview prohibited questions on sensitive areas, including the heiress's upcoming trial in Los Angeles on charges of kidnaping, robbery and assault stemming from an attempted shoplifting at a sporting goods store.

Miss Hearst, kidnaped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, was convicted of helping the group rob a San Francisco bank in April of that year. She was arrested in San Francisco in September 1975 while living with fugitive radical Wendy Yoshimura, who is now on trial on charges of possessing weapons and explosives.

Brothers Drown In Icy Lake

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two brothers playing on an ice-covered lake fell through the surface and drowned despite efforts to save them by a woman 8½ months pregnant.

The bodies of James Lester Robinson, 13, and Kevin Lee Robinson, 9, were recovered by the Lee's Summit Underwater Recovery Unit some three hours after the incident. The bodies were in about 15 feet of water.

They were the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Robinson, who moved here recently from Sacramento, Calif., so he could begin work on a master of divinity program at a seminary.

The Robinsons live near the lake, and Robinson came there looking for his sons while the underwater search was in progress, but he left without being told what was happening.

Vikki Weis, an expectant mother, said she was at the park to exercise her dogs when she noticed the boys playing on the ice about 15 feet from shore. When the boys moved farther out where the ice was thinner, she said it cracked under the younger boy, and he slid into the water.

"The smaller one fell in first and they were laughing that he had gotten wet," she said, adding that the older boy then jumped into the water. "He didn't jump in panic or anything. He jumped in real calmly — like it was fun."

She said after a few minutes, the older boy boosted the younger one onto the ice, but it cracked under him and he slid back in.

"That's when they panicked," she said. She said she ran to the edge of the lake and saw that the boys had drifted farther out. She saw some wood floating near the boys.

"I was trying to think of something to throw, and I saw that piece of wood," she recalled. "I kept yelling at them to grab hold of that piece of wood, but I don't think they even heard me. I felt so helpless."

She said she realized the boys couldn't hear her, and ran for help.

"As I was trying to run up the hill I'd turn around periodically and I'd see his (James') head bobbing."

When police arrived at the scene a short time later, there was no sign of life.

Two ECU Professors Get Excellence Awards

Two East Carolina University faculty members, Dr. H. Frances Daniels and Dr. Everett C. Simpson, were honored Friday as recipients of the 1975-76 Teacher Excellence awards.

The awards, each carrying an unrestricted $500 stipend, are awarded annually by the ECU Alumni Association in the names of distinguished ECU alumni. R.L. (Roddy) Jones of Raleigh and Robert and Lina Mays of Greensboro. The awards were established to recognize outstanding teaching by ECU faculty in undergraduate instruction during the academic year.

Recipients are chosen by an Instructional Survey Committee which surveys students, faculty and administrators and uses other criteria.

Dr. Daniels is a professor of business education and office administration in the ECU School of Technology, and Dr. Simpson is a professor in the Department of Biology.

An East Carolina alumna, Dr. Daniels holds advanced degrees from Columbia and Tennessee Universities and has done additional study at Indiana University.

She is active in many professional and honorary organizations including Pi Omega Pi honor society in which she has held three national offices, and the N.C. Business Education Association, of which she is a past vice president.

Previous awards include citations in several honors directories and a $2,500 doctoral scholarship given by the N.C. chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma.

Dr. Daniels is a native of Arapahoe in Pamlico County. Dr. Simpson holds degrees from Washington State, Oklahoma State and Kentucky Universities, and taught at Memphis State University before joining the ECU biology faculty. He is a native of Maysville.

He has done research at N.C. State and Iowa State Universities and received funding from the National Science Foundation for a two-year study of sex hormones. His special research

Systems Go: Satellite TV

ATLANTA (AP) — All systems were go today for Channel 17 to begin satellite transmission of its programming to cable television systems in other states.

The station hopes to provide programming to 250 systems in all 50 states.

Channel 17, WTCG, owned by Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner, also hopes to use the satellite system to reduce its costs for transmitting professional hockey, basketball and baseball games back to Atlanta.

The first game to be telecast under the station's 24-hour programming authority, approved by the Federal Communications Commission this week, will be a National Basketball Association game between the Atlanta Hawks and New Orleans Friday night.

Channel 17 broadcasts 24 hours a day locally and eventually will do the same thing, with emphasis on movies and sports, for cable systems across the nation, station officials said.

Blame Air Controllers

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Eastern Air Lines has filed a $2.5 million lawsuit in federal court here charging that negligent action by air traffic controllers caused a 1973 runway accident at Regional Airport.

The suit, filed in U.S. Middle District Court against the Federal Aviation Administration, alleges that on December 17, 1973, controllers gave clearance for Eastern Flight 219 to take off when the runway was covered with snow and slush.

The DC-9 with 86 persons aboard was about to take off when it veered off the runway and came to rest at a 45-degree angle. There were no serious injuries.

The pilot did not know the runway was covered with an accumulation of three to six inches of snow, and air traffic controllers "misinformed" the pilot as to conditions, according to Eastern's suit.

Damage to the plane allegedly amounted to more than $3 million.

Tries To Get Stolen Fur Back

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A furrier has this advice to the girlfriend of the thief who broke a show window and took a fur this weekend: "Bring the mink back," he said in a newspaper ad. "If it doesn't fit properly, no one will believe it came from the store."

The ad also admonishes: "Quit going with that guy. Anyone who would steal a coat...is just too dumb for someone like you."

Boat homes of river people lie along banks of China's Lichiang River.

AP Newsfeatures.

Small tug boats like this one ply Lichiang, taking tourists on six-hour rides.

Glimpsed through trees: tranquil charm of curving river in China's Kwangsi province.

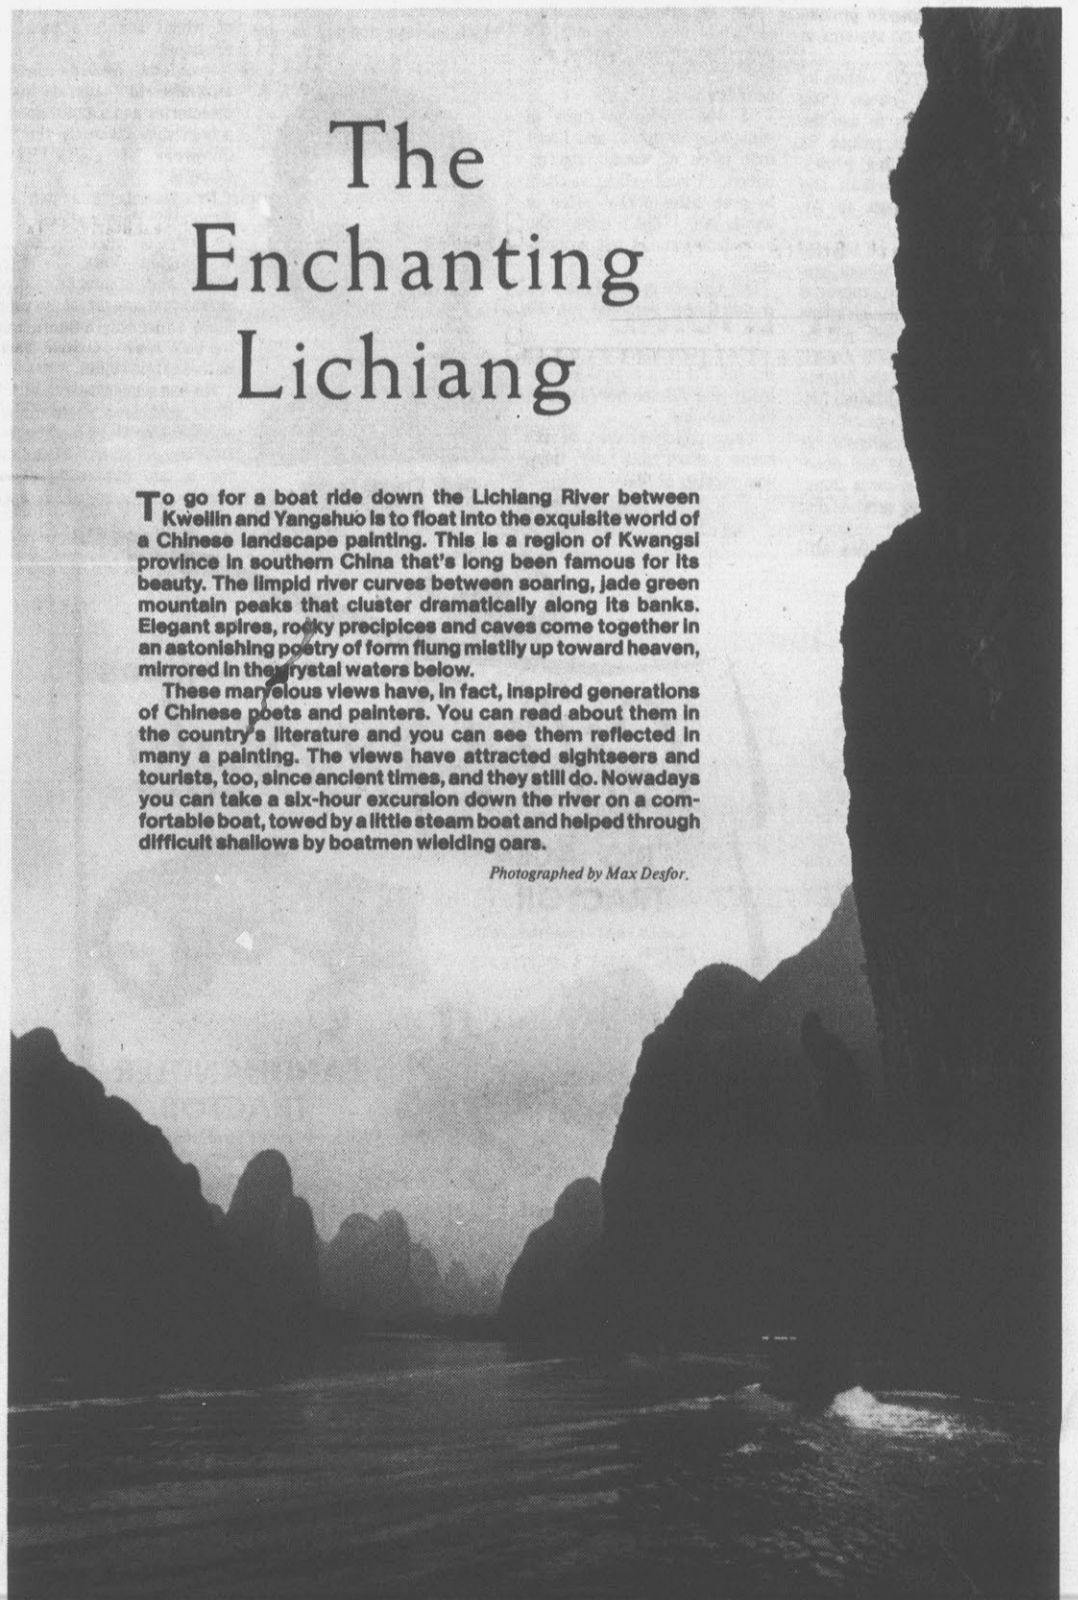

This is the exquisitely undulating river that inspired Chinese poets...

The Enchanting Lichiang

To go for a boat ride down the Lichiang River between Kweilin and Yangshuo is to float into the exquisite world of a Chinese landscape painting. This is a region of Kwangsi province in southern China that's long been famous for its beauty. The limpid river curves between soaring, jade green mountain peaks that cluster dramatically along its banks. Elegant spires, rocky precipices and caves come together in an astonishing poetry of form flung mistily up toward heaven, mirrored in the crystal waters below.

These marvelous views have, in fact, inspired generations of Chinese poets and painters. You can read about them in the country's literature and you can see them reflected in many a painting. The views have attracted sightseers and tourists, too, since ancient times, and they still do. Nowadays you can take a six-hour excursion down the river on a comfortable boat, towed by a little steam boat and helped through difficult shallows by boatmen wielding oars.

For the first time in many years, one team has won both of North America's premier team championships—the Spingold and the Vanderbilt—in the same year. By accomplishing this feat, the squad, captained by Dr. George Rosenkranz of Mexico City, qualified for the finals of the Team Trials to select North America's representatives in next year's world team championship.

When this deal was played in the semifinal of the Vanderbilt, North-South had to overcome spirited barrage bidding from East-West. West's spade overall would not meet with approval in many quarters, but it accomplished its objective when East took advantage of the vulnerability to raise the auction to an uncomfortable level. South was not interested in looking for a penalty, so he showed his good suit by rebidding it at the five-level, and North felt he had the necessary controls to venture on to slam.

West led the jack of spades and declarer was rather disappointed when East covered the queen with the king. Declarer ruffed and immediately ducked a diamond to East. The spade return was won by the ace as declarer sluffed a diamond.

After drawing trumps in four rounds, discarding a card from each black suit in dummy, declarer realized that there was no point in delaying the club finesse. Accordingly, he cashed the king of clubs to protect against a singleton queen, then led a club to the jack. Though the finesse succeeded, declarer still had to handle a potential club loser when East showed out.

However, there was still an option left to declarer. He cashed the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond. When the suit split 3-3, dummy's fourth diamond was established. Dummy's ace of clubs and long diamond took the 11th and 12th tricks.

Arboriculture is the cultivation and care of woody plants, particularly trees and shrubs used for decorative, shade and ornamental purposes.

Tiny Tim Broke

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A not so Tiny Tim, 50 pounds too heavy by his own figuring, is tiptoeing through some thorns.

Once paid $60,000 for 10 nights at a resort hotel here, this week he made a 15-minute taping for a canned TV series he hopes will start a comeback. The series is not sold, and the now tubby singer was not paid for the taping.

"I am back where I began," Tiny Tim said.

He insisted his marriage to "Miss Vicki" is valid although he hasn't seen her in three years. Vicki is working as a go-go dancer in New Jersey.

"I am still married to her. That's why this ring is on my finger."

Tiny Tim said he can't support his wife or 5-year-old daughter, "Miss Tulip" because he's broke.

Group Says More 'Blood And Guts' On NBC

A KOJACK CRANIUM BY COMPUTER — Actor Telly Savalas, star of the television series "Kojack," balances a head of himself on his knee Thursday at a luncheon designed to publicize the Studio for Solid Photograph, in midtown New York City. A studio spokesman says it has come up with a "revolutionary new art form" — producing a sculpture by a three-dimensional photographic process tied to a computer. Savalas was on hand to have his head duplicated. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you wanted blood-and-guts TV programming during the fall, then chances are you found it more times on NBC than any other network, and the leading sponsor of video violence was Chevrolet, says a citizens' group campaigning for reduced TV violence.

A report by the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting — criticized by NBC because the network said it counts a murder the same as a "push or shove" — charged Thursday that the most violent television show was NBC's "Quest." The program, a Western about two brothers looking for a lost sister, has been canceled.

The report said that among the least violent programs were "CPO Sharkey," on NBC; "Mary Tyler Moore Show," CBS; and NBC's "Chico and the Man," all situation comedies.

The citizens committee said the remaining nine shows on the 10 most violent list were in order, "Starky and Hutch," ABC; "Baretta," ABC; "Baa Baa Black Sheep," NBC; "Hawaii Five-O," CBS; "The $6 Million Man," ABC; "Kojack," CBS; "Police Story," NBC; "Delvecchio," CBS; and "Serpico," NBC (canceled).

Behind Chevrolet, the report said the sponsors of the 10 most violent shows were Whitehall Labs-Anacin, American Motors, Sears, Kodak, Schlitz Beer, Procter & Gamble, General Foods, Burger King, Frito Lay Products, Mr. Coffee and the Campbell Soup Co.

The committee said American Motors, Schlitz and Burger King were in the top 10 in the study the group did last summer. The group's survey, financed by a $25,000 grant from the American Medical Association, said ABC was second to NBC, while CBS was "by far the least violent network."

Former Federal Communications Commissioner Nicholas Johnson, the committee chairman, told a news conference the charges were intended to bring reform. "We're mad as hell and we're not going to take it any more," he said. "We're making the information available publicly to see if that will alter corporate behavior."

A spokesman for NBC said in New York that the "usefulness of the study is nullified because it counts acts of violence equally — a murder counts the same as a push or shove."

"Moreover, the study provides no information at all about who commits the act, what consequences for either perpetrator or victim, for what dramatic purpose, against whom, and with what audiovisual treatment. It gets counted as equal to a depiction that glorifies violence."

A spokesman for General Motors said Chevrolet should not be held responsible and that any excess violence was a network's fault. "We just buy what's available" in advertising time, he said.

Coinciding with release of the report, two professors at Bowling Green State University in Ohio, Drs. Leslie J. Chamberlin and Norman Chambers, said they have concluded that an average child, from the age of 5 until 15, will see 13,400 killings in TV shows.

They said that youngsters who watch violence on TV become desensitized to it and are more likely to act aggressively and condone violence.

Johnson's committee, in a follow-up to a similar study last summer, monitored the first 13 weeks of the new TV season and kept track of acts of violence that ranged from hair-pulling and helicopter chases to fist fights, stabbings and shootings.

It said Chevrolet replaced Tegrin Medicated Shampoo at the head of the list. Tegrin dropped off the list of sponsors of the 10 most violent shows.

Last summer's survey also listed the sponsors of the least violent programs. Johnson said that Prudential Insurance Co. was the only corporation that remained in the top 19 of the sponsors of the 10 least violent shows in the most recent survey.

Other sponsors of the 10 shows with the least violence were Peter Paul candy, Hallmark cards, Texaco, Whirlpool, Jean Nate perfume, Shopper Toys, Green Giant vegetables, Keebler cookies, Carnation dog foods, Effident and Quasar television.

In addition to "CPO Sharkey," "Mary Tyler Moore" and "Chico," the shows, all situation comedies, that ranked least violent were "McLean Stevenson," NBC; "Doc" (canceled), CBS; "Sirota's Court," NBC; "Mr. T and Tina" (canceled), ABC; "Phyllis" and "The Bob Newhart Show" both CBS.

"We think there's a very serious reassessment going on in advertising agencies, corporate suites and at the networks as a result of these studies," said Johnson.

"There's a growing groundswell against TV violence from the public. For 25 years people have been deploring violence on TV, but all that deploring has had little impact. Now we have the facts to back it up."

AMA President Richard E. Palmer told the news conference, "Television is a powerful, pervasive force in the child's environment. If the programming he is exposed to consists largely of violent content, his perceptions of the real world may be significantly distorted and his psychological development may be adversely affected."

Stanly County Sheriff Is Grad

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP) — Stanly County Sheriff Ralph McSwain feels he is better equipped to deal with the "complex problems" in his job now that he has graduated magna cum laude from Pfeiffer College.

It wasn't easy. He had a little trouble with exams, racing from crime problems to the classroom.

McSwain, 45, who has been sheriff for 15 years, said his college study should help in "dealing with people. I think I have a better understanding of why things happen."

McSwain was a part-time student for six years before finally earning his bachelor's degree in law enforcement.

He recalled one time he was getting ready to take a test "and I got called out to an armed robbery. I took the test anyway and I didn't do so well. I was thinking about the armed robbery."

McSwain said his age was an advantage in the classroom. "In history courses you have lived part of it," he explained.

His education was paid for with federal funds through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant programs.

"That's the only way I would have been able to go," McSwain said. "An officer has to work for two years in the criminal justice system to repay the loan."

One of his deputies graduated with him Thursday, and five others are enrolled in the Pfeiffer program.

Imaginative Christmas Show On Sunday Night

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You may be saying "Bah! Humbug!" to Christmas specials by now, but we'd like to direct your attention to an unusually imaginative Yule show NBC has coming up Sunday night.

It's called "Christmas Around the World," runs from 8 to 9:30 p.m. EST, and deserves a look, particularly by young viewers.

Narrated by William Conrad, late of "Cannon," it was two years in the making, filmed in more than 15 countries and is much more than a look at how Christmas is celebrated here and in foreign countries.

It's also a study of various historical aspects of Christmas, from cards to carols, from the familiar Nativity scene to the transformation of St. Nicholas, a bishop in Asia Minor in the early years of Christianity, to that jolly fat man in the red suit and white whiskers all kids know as Santa Claus.

It isn't entirely reverential in tone, as witness an early part of the show in which comic Jonathan Winters, disguised as Maude Frickert, has at the classic "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Maude reads it straight, but punctuates it with wild commentary, such as this thought on Santa's arrival via the chimney.

"The last person to come down my chimney was my stepbrother, Willis Mumford," Maude observes. "He came down on the 14th of May."

Other entertainers check in to set the scene for Christmas in countries whence they or their ancestors came — Dick Van Dyke cites Holland, Vicki Carr takes Mexico, Gene Kelly has Ireland, Liv Ullman has the Scandinavian countries, and so on.

It's quite a show, be the scene various choirs singing at Bethlehem or a West Indies steel band playing a lovely American pop tune, "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas."

The tour of Christmas around the world is entirely benevolent in nature. No mention is given, for example, of the commercialization of Christmas that church leaders denounce each year.

And at times, incongruous notes pop up, like a quick rendition of gospel songs having nothing to do with Christmas, even though sung very nicely by vocalists Marilyn McCoo, Billy Davis Jr., and the Robert Lyon Singers of Oakland, Calif.

This NBC show is superior stuff and should be seen Sunday.

The program's executive producer is Lee Mendelson, the delegate from Burlingame, Calif., who has a repeat of another fine show — "A Charlie Brown Christmas" — coming up Saturday night on CBS.

'King Kong' Opens Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "King Kong" — all 40 feet of him — is unleashed today in the largest worldwide opening in motion picture history.

The remake of the 1932 classic, a $24-million gamble by Italian moviemaker Dino De Laurentiis, opens in 1,043 theaters in the United States and Canada. It will also be seen in an additional 1,000 or more theaters throughout other parts of the world between now and Christmas.

"There's never been a worldwide film opening like this before," said Gordon Armstrong, who directed promotion for De Laurentiis.

"King Kong," which completed production Nov. 10, was translated into Spanish, French, German, Italian and Japanese.

The film stars Jeff Bridges, Jessica Lange and Charles Grodin, but King Kong — at once terrifying and endearing — is clearly the star. In closeups where his expressive eyes fill the entire screen, Rick Baker is clad in a gorilla suit.

Before Philadelphia's Independence Hall became a national shrine, it served as a jail and then as a popular museum housing a stuffed five-legged, two-tailed cow.

No Money For Pill For Males

NEW YORK (AP) — Development of a safe birth control pill for men and other forms of contraception may be hampered by a continuing decline in available money, a report sponsored by the Ford Foundation says.

More than 200 recent developments promising more effective fertility control were cited during a seminar Wednesday marking publication of the report, among them the male pill, a vaccine to prevent pregnancy, agents to keep the fertilized egg from taking root in the womb, and a once-a-month contraceptive.

But the study conducted over the last two years cautioned that research in contraception "may be seriously delayed" by decreasing funds for research. The money being spent worldwide has dropped from a high of $120 million in 1974 to an estimated $105.6 million this year, researchers said.

Although widespread use is at least a decade away, a male birth control pill that has so far been found to be safe and effective in reducing sperm production is being developed, the report said.

Research on the male pill is based on the fact that steroid hormones are among chemical substances known to suppress production of sperm by the testes. Since steroids can produce side effects like loss of libido or psychic energy, the male pill is a combination of the steroid danazol and a synthetic male hormone, testosterone.

"This may be a safe and effective male contraceptive," Dr. C. Alvin Paulsen of the University of Washington School of Medicine told a seminar for science writers Tuesday. The latest clinical trial has just begun at the university, he said.

A first study showed the male pill effective in 83 per cent of the men in reducing sperm production to infertile levels, with minor adverse reactions. A second study showed promising results in both reducing sperm production, called oligospermia, and eliminating it, called azoospermia.

The current study will examine what happens when the testosterone dosage is altered, to see if it is possible to avoid adverse reactions seen with high male hormone exposure. These include blood pressure changes.

Preliminary work also was reported on efforts to develop a contraceptive vaccine that would intercept a signal, a pregnancy hormone, produced by the fertilized egg to tell the ovary not to produce a menstrual period. The result would be the loss of the egg.

The study, "Reproduction and Human Welfare: A Challenge to Research," and sponsored by the Ford Foundation, was directed by Dr. Roy O. Greep of the Harvard Medical School, and carried out with help from the Rockefeller Foundation and the International Development Research Centre of Canada.

To pursue all scientific leads, the report said, would take at least three times as much money as is now being spent.

Ervin Free Of Big Load

MIAMI (AP) — "I feel like I have quit trying to help Atlas hold up the world," says former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

Ervin, former chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, was in Miami Wednesday to testify before a federal jury in the trial of a Memphis lawyer charged with using Ervin's name to extort money to fix a conspiracy trial.

"This is a great country," Ervin told reporters before the trial. "And everyone has duties to perform. Duties that even include coming down to testify in the trial and tell a jury you don't know anything."

When Ervin was called before the jury, Asst. U.S. Atty. Marsha Lyons asked him what he does with himself.

"Well, I do some lecturing, a little law practice. But I lost half my practice when I settled a case out of court the other day," the 80-year-old southerner said.

Ervin was excused after he denied knowing Billy F. Gray, who is charged with using Ervin's name along with those of two U.S. senators and a congressman to extort $150,000 to fix a stock fraud conspiracy trial.

"Everyone here has been so nice to me," Ervin told U.S. District Judge William O. Mehrtens. "Seems like everyone wants to help me."
