School Boards Discuss Response To Suit

By MARY C. SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County and Greenville boards of education met with attorneys today in executive session to discuss a response to a lawsuit filed against the consolidated Pitt County board in December by a local minority rights group.

Raleigh attorney Richard Schwartz, who is handling the case for the board, said today's meeting was "to get guidance and feedback from the boards as to the direction they want to take to allow consolidation to go forward."

The complaint, filed Dec. 18 in U.S. District Court in New Bern by the Concerned Citizens for Justice, alleges the consolidated board is operating illegally because three minority members appointed to the board in June 1985 are in violation of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The consolidated board, composed of members of the existing Pitt County and Greenville boards, is set to govern the unified school system created by the scheduled merger of Greenville and Pitt County schools in July 1986.

The suit prompted attorneys to advise canceling the consolidated board's monthly meeting Monday, a move that has raised concern over whether consolidation can take place on schedule. Schwartz said today the halt of the consolidated board's action "may or may not be" permanent at this point but that "the aim of everyone is merger."

Schwartz said he will meet next — maybe as early as Saturday — with Leslie Winner, attorney for the Concerned Citizens. When asked if negotiations meant an out-of-court settlement, he said, "If we can resolve it out of court, it will be to everyone's benefit."

"What we're interested in is working together and effecting merger," Schwartz said. "That's the aim of everyone, including the Concerned Citizens."

The suit alleges that the three minority members appointed to the consolidated board in June 1985 did not receive required "preclearance," or approval, by the U.S. Department of Justice. Based on the voting Rights Act of 1965, the Justice Department must "preclear" changes made to a governing board's structure or method of election.

Based on Justice Department policy, however, official approval is not given until a proposed change is ratified by a legislative body. The North Carolina General Assembly ratified the minority appointments in June 1985 and the school board applied for preclearance in July 1985.

The suit asks that a three-judge court hear the case and grant an injunction to prevent the consolidated board from operating until preclearance is granted.

Life-Saver Can Cause Depression

CHICAGO (AP) — The life-saving class of drugs known as beta blockers, which control blood pressure and ease heart pain for millions of Americans, may give a surprisingly large number of users an unwanted side effect — depression, researchers say.

A review of medical records of more than 140,000 patients in Minnesota and Michigan over two years showed that of 8,600 who took beta blockers, 23 percent also took antidepressants, researchers said.

After comparing the patients to people taking other high blood-pressure medicines, the doctors concluded that one-third — 7 percent of the total — were taking antidepressants for the sole purpose of counteracting the beta blockers.

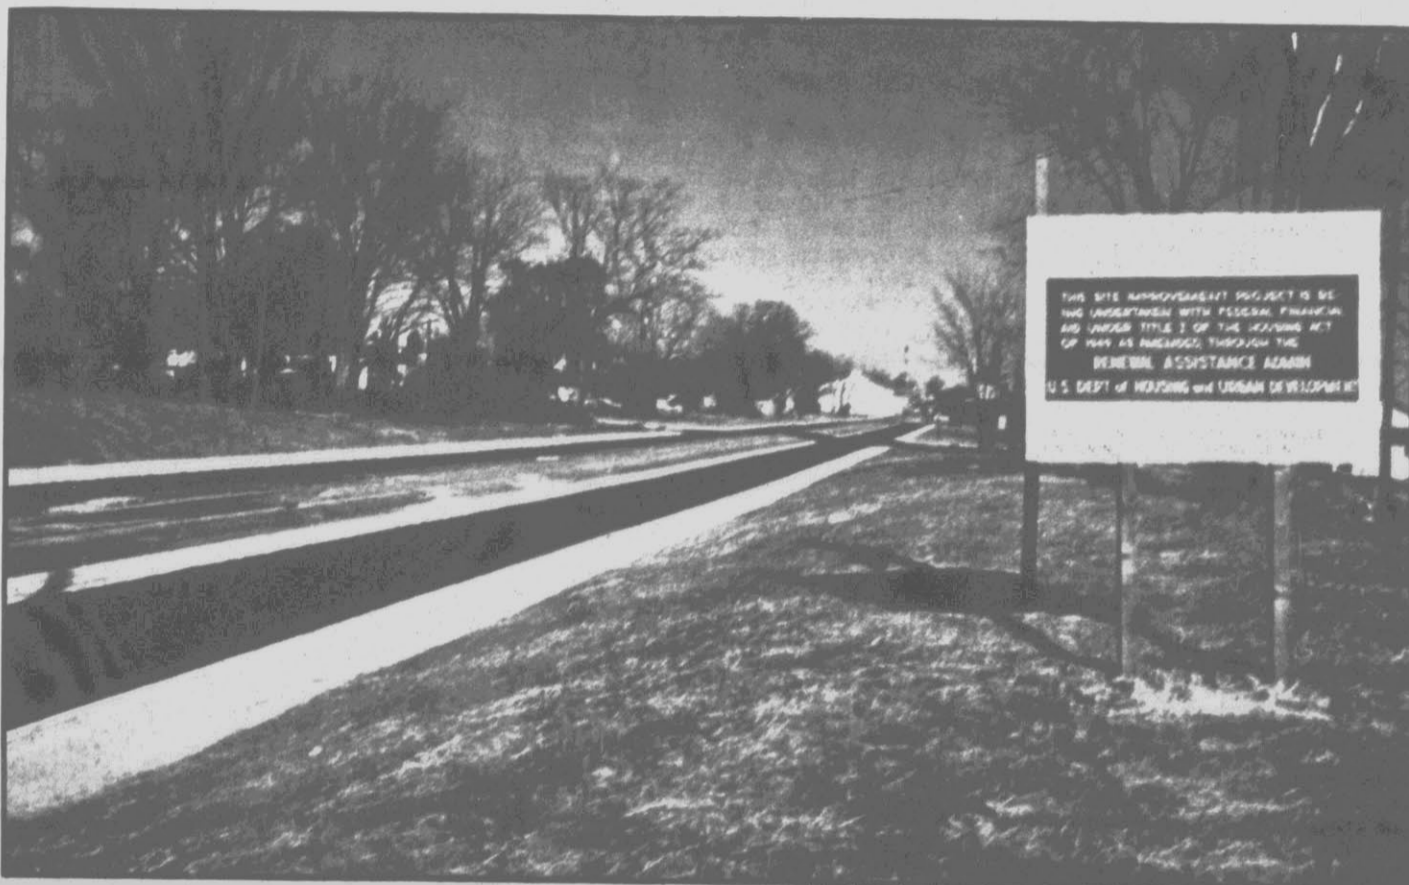

If that proportion were the same among 10 million patients estimated to have been taking the best-known of the beta blockers, Inderal, in 1982, it would mean about 700,000 people experienced beta blocker-linked depression.

That estimate is probably low, said the doctors, led by Dr. Jerry Avorn of Harvard University Medical School, who reported their findings in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Beta blockers work by blocking hormones in the adrenaline family from stimulating the heart in times of stress. Such stimulation would be healthy in a dangerous situation in which a person needed to fight or flee. But the response can be a hazard for people with high blood pressure or heart problems.

SOUTH PITT STREET PROJECT — The newly paved section of South Pitt Street is nearing completion, according to Greenville officials. Andy Harris, community development administrator for the city, said the street improvement cost approximately $98,896 and is part of an ongoing three-year project in the South Evans Street area. Harris said about $4.5 million has been spent on improvements and land acquisition. A final course of pavement will be added this spring to complete the South Pitt Street project. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forest)

Spain, Israel Sign Pact

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — An Israeli Embassy spokeswoman said Spain today signed an accord to establish diplomatic ties with Israel, a step it reportedly avoided for 38 years for fear of offending its Arab neighbors.

Spokesman Leora Herzl said the protocol was signed at The Hague's Hotel Promenade by Yeshayahu Anog, the Israeli Foreign Ministry's deputy director-general in charge of European affairs, and Maximo Cajal, the Spanish Foreign Ministry's secretary-general for foreign policy.

Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez and Israel Prime Minister Shimon Peres are to meet in the Netherlands on Sunday to mark the opening of diplomatic relations. Peres will be on a trip to the Netherlands, West Germany and Britain.

In Jerusalem today, Peres told Israel radio that by entering into relations with Madrid, Israel had now "established ties with all the non-Communist countries of Europe."

Odom Taped Blount Withdrawal

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Marvin Blount of Greenville, who announced Wednesday that he is withdrawing as a candidate for the U.S. Senate and supporting Democrat Terry Sanford's candidacy, said today he had not known his comments were recorded for Fountain

Odom's political organization during the press conference.

But Blount said he would not have objected if he had been aware of the recording for Odom, who also is seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Sen. John East, a Greenville Republican.

The recording by a firm hired by Odom's political consultant, Mike McClister of Chapel Hill, was reported by a Raleigh newspaper today.

Odom confirmed in a telephone interview this morning that the recording was made, although he said he knew nothing about it at the time.

He said McClister told him he had the recording made "so we can know exactly what was said at the conference, not just the part that the press reported."

Both Blount and Odom said they do not believe the recording is a major issue.

Asked if the recording made Wednesday might be used for advertising in opposition to Sanford's candidacy, Odom said, "I doubt if that would be the case. It certainly wasn't the intention at the time the recording was made."

Odom said, however, that he is concerned about press reports that Blount has said he and Sanford have discussed Sanford's helping raise money to pay off his campaign debts of between $200,000 and $300,000. He said he wanted to hear from Blount and from Sanford what had been said.

Blount said this morning that his comment to a reporter about money was taken out of context, that he was asked if he and Sanford discussed money and he replied "that and a lot of other things."

"There is no such agreement," he said. "I hope a lot of Democrats are going to be willing to help me pay these debts."

Columbia Stays In Orbit ...Again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Rain-laden clouds blocked Columbia's astronauts from landing in Florida for the second straight day today, and NASA directed them to stay in orbit for another 24 hours and try again Saturday, even though the weather outlook is worse then.

The decision to make another effort to land in Florida came after Mission Control had radioed instructions for a landing in the California desert this morning.

A return to Florida on Saturday would help keep on track Columbia's next flight in March and preserve an ambitious schedule of 15 shuttle launches this year. Officials admitted, considering the forecast, that a return here is a long shot.

If Columbia touches down at Edwards Air Force Base in California, there is a chance the March 6 flight to study Halley's comet would be scrubbed because of six days that would be lost in transporting the

Two Brokers Seek Pitt Posts

ED ROSE

Two Greenville men, Darrell K. Hignite and Ed Rose, filed Thursday as candidates for county positions subject to the May 6 election.

Hignite, a partner in Hignite Realtors, is a candidate for the Pitt County Board of Education in District 6, which is the Winterville Township precinct. Rose, also a real estate broker, filed as a candidate for clerk of court.

In announcing his candidacy, Hignite said "keeping the children's interest at the same time as teaching will be my main objective while hopefully serving on the Board of Education."

"With nine years in the real estate business, the upcoming (school) merger in July is utmost on my mind, and helping to secure the right schools for the right subdivision is very important to me and to all those who currently have children in Pitt County and Greenville city schools," Hignite said.

Hignite is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and attended East Carolina University. He is a graduate of the Lenior Community College real estate course and of the REALTORS Institute of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Hignite is past president of the Ayden Jaycees and past chairman of the Ayden Planning and Zoning Commission. He currently coaches Little League baseball and basketball for 11- and 12-year-olds for the Winterville Recreation Department.

He and his wife, the former Janet Warren, and their three children, Michelle, Keith and Darren, reside in Cherry Oaks.

Habits Made As A Child Are Even Tougher To Correct

By HARPER'S BAZAAR
A Hearst Magazine
Making New Year's resolutions is easy — but breaking the bad habits they are intended to correct is a much tougher job.

Everyone decides to "turn over a new leaf" at one time or another, according to an article in the January issue of Harper's Bazaar, but the experts say there is no magic formula for change.

"Immediate success is rare," said Dr. Stephan J. Levitan, associate clinical professor of psychiatry at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York.

"But there's no harm in a New Year's resolution as long as you view it as a chance to try again and your expectations remain realistic."

Psychologists believe most undesirable traits stem from early childhood interactions with parents.

"The unfulfilled wishes, the early struggles of will, come back to haunt us," Levitan said.

Bad habits such as disorganization — whether displayed by habitual lateness or a messy desk — indicate childlike irresponsibility.

"Disorganization, in particular, mirrors either a defiance of authority or a wish to be taken care of," Levitan said. "For one person it can represent an act of rebellion; for another, an escape from responsibility; for yet another an avoidance of success."

Stress also may be the reason for disorganization, and tension may be to blame for compulsive mannerisms such as nail biting, hair twirling, scratching or fidgeting.

"These activities serve as outlets for aggression when we can't express it directly for fear that someone will disapprove."

"When parents respond to a child's anger with punishment or withdrawal of love," Levitan said, "often the youngster learns to turn that hostility inward. Ultimately, it manifests itself in personal quirks."

Sometimes it takes the form of verbal quirks, such as sprinkling "you know" between phrases.

Women are especially prone to this and it may signify conflicts over aggressiveness.

People may turn to excessive indulgence — constant overspending or food binging — to compensate for lost or missing love, failure or disappointment.

"But buying luxury items or overeating relieves frustration only temporarily," Levitan said, "and it's this short-term gratification that perpetuates such behavior."

Even complaining about our bad habits can be a habit, perhaps derived from an infantile method of getting attention.

"We all start out life grumbling," Levitan said, "but some of us never get over it..."

Willpower has little to do with breaking bad habits, said psychologist Robert Berchik, clinical director of the Center for Cognitive Therapy at the University of Pennsylvania.

Berchik said the first step in overcoming bad habits is to discover motivation. With over-spending, it could be a device to deal with rejection. The key is to be aware of — and try to change — the thinking that leads to the habit. Recognize the idiosyncrasy, practice not doing it and build a new response.

Behaviorist Lowell T. Anderson, associate professor of psychology at New York University Medical Center and co-founder of a group of New York psychologists specializing in treating bad habits, said:

"If you monitor your faulty actions very accurately, jotting down each incident in a notebook, you begin to see a pattern and sometimes this awareness alone is enough to cure you."

If not, he advises rewarding yourself every time you don't give in to a bad habit — or punishing yourself when you do.

If these measures don't work, try to figure out what you are getting out of your habit — a habitual complainer, for instance, might enjoy even the perfunctory reassurances of friends.

No matter how you proceed,

Kathryn Rose Gertz wrote in Harper's Bazaar, it is reinforcing to be successful in small, achievable goals along the way. And she quoted Mark Twain:

"Habit is habit and not to be flung out of the window by any man, but coaxed downstairs a step at a time."

Bridge Winners Are Announced

Former Teachers Don't Enjoy Name Games

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired schoolteacher who would like to get an important message across to the general public. Please do not walk up to a former teacher and say, "I'll bet you don't remember me."

The chances are that the teacher will not remember you because you have changed a great deal since you were a student.

First say, "Hello, I am John Jones." (Or Mary Smith, or whatever your name is.) If you are a married woman, use your maiden name. It would also help if you mentioned the year you were in his or her class.

I have had at least 10,000 students in my classes, so please cut out the guessing games and give us old schoolteachers a break.

P.S. 26 in N.Y.C.

DEAR P.S.: Schoolteachers aren't the only ones who are irritated when someone comes up to them and says, "I'll bet you don't remember me!"

If the answer is no, the only appropriate response would be, "You're absolutely right. I'm sorry, I don't."

That precludes the guessing games in which there are no winners.

DEAR ABBY: I know you must have advice in the form of a letter to "the other woman," telling her of the harm and hurt she is causing. I would like to send such advice to the woman who is interfering with my 24-year marriage, but I have trouble expressing myself without showing my anger and bitterness.

Our three children are extremely hurt and resent all the lying and deception that's been going on for nearly two years. They are 17, 20 and 22—old enough to understand, but they are hurting and confused as I am. Awaiting your reply ...

THE WIFE HE PUSHED ASIDE

DEAR WIFE: Sorry. A letter from the wife to the other woman wouldn't justify the price of postage. Don't humble yourself hoping she will see the error of her ways and send her married lover back to his family. Deal with your husband directly. Unless he was hypnotized or kidnapped, he's a free agent and an equal partner in their illicit relationship.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me! I'm really scared. I'm bulimic and I'm on the pill. I've been trying real hard to control my bulimia and have been doing real well. But I'm scared because I don't know if it lessens the effect of the dosage when I force myself to vomit.

I take my pill just like the doctor told me—I never skip a pill and I take it as directed. I can't have you answer me at home because my parents open my mail, and if they find out I'm on the pill, they'll disown me. I'm 21 and plan to get married next year, but my parents would never understand.

SCARED

DEAR SCARED: Bulimia is far more serious than you realize. You need to talk to a physician about this. You are 21, and old enough to make your own decisions with regard to birth control.

FmHA Will Make Loans Despite Product Surpluses

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration has no intention of denying operating loans to farmers who produce unneeded crops, a senior Agriculture Department official says.

But Undersecretary Frank W. Naylor Jr. said Thursday a formal proposal is under consideration which would give the FmHA standby authority to deny loans to farmers who produce commodities already in surplus, such as wheat, corn and dairy.

The proposal was developed over the last four or five years within the Reagan administration and pushed by those who felt it was not appropriate to finance "start-up" loans for the production of surplus commodities.

Actually, Naylor said, the formal regulation would replace an administrative practice of FmHA of not financing new or expanded dairy operations, because milk was in such large surplus.

The regulation would put into legal form what has been the agency's administrative practice for some time, he told a group of farm broadcasters in a telephone hookup.

"I think we should make it abundantly clear that there is no intent or no plan which would involve any action leading to not making loans to commodities such as grains or others which may be perceived to be in surplus," Naylor said. "That is not the purpose nor intent of that proposal. We do not anticipate any such action."

The proposal raised questions about FmHA's loan policies last summer, and Naylor said then that the agency had no plans to deny financing to farmers who produce surplus commodities.

At that time, he said it had been FmHA procedure to closely go over loan applications that would finance new or greatly expanded dairy operations and, in some cases, poultry enterprises.

During the Carter administration, he said, there were large increases in the government's milk support rate. At that point, FmHA began encouraging new dairy operations as a way of helping low-income farmers.

But as milk production grew to huge surpluses, FmHA adopted a sterner approach to dairy loans.

The agency was told by USDA lawyers that a formal regulation should be written to cover what has been done through administrative practice. And to meet legal requirements the proposed rule was written to cover "agricultural commodities such as crops, livestock, or livestock products, for such periods as are necessary, when such items are in surplus production."

Crop Supports Face New Round Of Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — When farmers get their 1986 wheat loans, they'll be 10 cents a bushel shy of what the Agriculture Department says is the going rate for this year's crop.

Corn farmers will see a deduction of 8 cents a bushel, according to USDA analysts who are studying the impact of the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law. Government supports for other commodities will be adjusted accordingly.

Further, some USDA employ cutbacks will occur either through layoffs or shortened hours, probably resulting in reductions in federal meat and poultry inspection, and conservation services to farmers.

The law calls for a 4.3 percent domestic spending reduction in many government programs for fiscal 1986, which began last Oct. 1.

Department budget officials said Thursday that food stamps and child-feeding programs are exempt but that other USDA functions will bear a total reduction of more than $1.26 billion.

For example, said Robert E. Sherman, the department's deputy budget director, when farmers go to their local USDA offices to collect crop price support loans or apply for target price "deficiency" payments, they'll have 4.3 percent deducted from what they otherwise would get.

In effect, Sherman said in an interview, the 1986 wheat price support of $2.40 per bushel will be shaved to $2.30. The deficiency payments, which make up the difference between market prices and the target, also would be trimmed.

Although the law applies to the current fiscal year, Sherman said its curb on USDA spending will affect the entire 1986 crop year, meaning corn and other commodities harvested next fall.

The 1986 corn loan — the amount farmers can borrow from USDA by using their crop as collateral — would be effectively reduced to $1.84 per bushel from $1.92.

The 1986 crop loan rates were announced earlier this week by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block as part of his decision to carry out the new Food Security Act of 1985, the farm bill passed by Congress and signed by President Reagan just before Christmas.

Block, hoping to make U.S. commodities more competitive in the world market, reduced the 1986 wheat loan rate to $2.40 from last year's $3.30 per bushel, and corn to $1.92 per bushel from $2.55 in 1985, the maximum reduction allowed by the law. The Gramm-Rudman cuts will be on top of that.

The USDA has the equivalent of about 109,000 full-time employees, but Sherman said he could not tell now how many might have to be "furloughed" or laid off because of the cutbacks.

Most likely, he said, those would occur in the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service, which includes meat and poultry inspection, and the Soil Conservation Service, which provides technical assistance to farmers.

But virtually all USDA agencies will feel the crimp, according to figures provided by the department's budget people.

For example, the cuts include:

—The Agricultural Research Service, $17.3 million. Cooperative State Research Service, which includes grants to states, $8.11 million.

—Extension Service, $11.7 million.

—Statistical Reporting Service, $2.1 million. The Economic Research Service, $1.67 million.

—Foreign Agricultural Service, $1.97 million.

—Foreign assistance programs, including Food for Peace, $65.7 million.

—Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, which handles most farm programs, $4.36 million. The Commodity Credit Corp., which finances the programs, $824.6 million.

—Rural Electrification Administration, $5.22 million.

—Farmers Home Administration, $154.3 million.

—Soil Conservation Service, $24.2 million.

—Food Safety and Inspection Service, $16.3 million.

—Forest Service, $71.9 million.

Newly Found Moons Have Similar Orbit

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The breakup of a larger moon that once may have orbited Uranus could explain why six small moons discovered by the Voyager 2 spacecraft are clustered in similar orbits, a NASA scientist said.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which operates America's unmanned space exploration program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, on Thursday announced that Voyager 2's television cameras discovered the six moons during the past two weeks, doubling the number of moons known to orbit Uranus.

Voyager still may discover 18 more moons, which would bring the total to 30 and mean that Uranus has more moons than any other planet, said Ellis Miner, deputy Voyager project scientist at JPL.

Saturn now has the most known moons — 20 — followed by Jupiter with 16, he said.

Uranus' newly found moons, whose diameters are less than 30 miles, have orbits relatively close together, at distances ranging between 38,370 miles and 46,700 miles from the center of the seventh planet from the sun.

"The fact that they all are clustered right around the same distance from the planet is intriguing," Miner said. "It possibly implies they are a result of a larger satellite that broke up... It might have been that the moon was structurally weak and the gravitational pull of Uranus was sufficient to tear it apart."

"Another, more likely possibility is that an interloper from outside the Uranus system came in and struck the once-larger moon sufficiently hard to have fractured it," he said, adding that large asteroids were common in the early solar system.

Speculation

That missing-in-action fact-finding mission by four members of the U.S. Congress to Vietnam has stirred more speculation than facts have warranted.

It is very difficult for us to believe the group can turn up anything to substantiate suspicions and allegations Americans continue to be held by the Vietnam government.

U.S. authorities know 2,441 Americans are listed as missing in action in Indochina. Of those, 1,797 have been reported as "missing" in Vietnam, another 559 unaccounted for in Laos and the rest in Cambodia.

Only a government with exceptional concern for its people would have kept those cases open so many years after the end of hostilities. A trickle of physical remains recovered from scenes of aircraft wreckage has continued but at a rate that suggests another decade of searching could be in store.

Prospects of finding skeletal clues far from downed aircraft are infinitely smaller.

True, difficult as it is to accept, it is always possible a handful of ex-servicemen are still alive and may have chosen to stay behind (just as there are people who choose to exist on the streets of our large cities despite concern of family or friends).

Consider this, too: what possible benefit could accrue in deliberate withholding of POWs by the Indochinese? To subsequently offer their release for ransom would be to acknowledge a terrible deception and barbarism that problem-plagued region cannot afford. They have long been pressing for American help in solving problems beyond their resources.

We have remarked before that Southeast Asia's terrain has a multitude of tiny ridges and valleys as well as near-impenetrable tropical forests wherein remains of many dead could forever lie concealed.

Whispers and rumors of "sighting" Americans are the poorest kind of evidence upon which to base any judgment. Tales abound, too, of seeing "little green men" milling around a weird-looking saucer on the ground.

Still, our pulse beats a little faster on reading or hearing such accounts; as we're sure happens when families of MIAs hear of live Americans seen among the Vietnamese. We want to believe.

Someday it must all come to an end. It won't be soon.

Beginning

Our long-held rosily tinted economic appraisals for the Greenville area were indirectly supported by a Chicago-based consultant's study.

North Carolina's larger metropolitan areas are enjoying low unemployment, rising wages and growing trade and industry.

Greenville does not qualify yet as a "large metropolitan" area though it is moving in that direction and boasts the qualities that lead to that status.

Small towns and rural areas, generally speaking, do not share broad vistas of economic growth. As a center of services, trade, commerce, technology, knowledge-based industries and transportation, Greenville has a foot in the door.

The city's population of around 40,000 counts a broad spectrum of specialists in many fields. There is room for growth. Lots of room. We have educational and cultural resources sought by many businesses.

There is no shortage of problems here nor in the rural heartland of North Carolina. An N.C. State University economist sees no signs their economic problems will lessen this year and says in the extremely rural area things look even more difficult.

Tax Commitment Is Firm

WASHINGTON — The conventional wisdom of this political city that President Reagan, bowed down by the rigidities of Gramm-Rudman, will finally submit to congressional demands for a major tax increase is as wrong in 1986 as it was in 1985.

Despite lack of communication and mutual hostility, White House and Treasury strategists do not disagree. Both are determined that the House-passed tax reform bill will not be turned into a revenue-raiser. Both are determined that, if a separate tax boost is needed late this year to meet Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction requirements, it will be a severely limited tactical retreat — removed from tax reform and compensated for by budget concessions.

This fits Ronald Reagan's belief, hardened after five years in office, that sharp revenue boosts invite economic disaster. What's more, there is today at senior levels of the administration no David Stockman nursing a secret tax-increase agenda.

This solid policy front is clouded by personal discord between the neighboring teams on Pennsylvania Avenue that switched jobs a year ago. Treasury and White House blame each other for the near-fiasco in the House on tax reform. "We're going to keep a lot closer eye on them (the Treasury) this year," a White House aide told us. In return, Treasury men complain the White House has no overriding budgetary game plan.

Deputy Treasury Secretary Richard G. Darman is privately branded as the unnamed senior official who tells newsmen higher taxes are ahead. Presidential aide Dennis Thomas is privately accused of preparing to follow the folly of Gramm-Rudman with a tax surrender. The two indictments are unjust.

In fact, both White House and Treasury appreciate the political reality: the congressional majorities, Democrats in the House and Republicans in the Senate, want the president pressing the tax increase they want but cannot push on their own. Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. would like his valedictory year in office crowned by a Reagan retreat vindicating Walter F. Mondale's campaign. Senate Republicans such as Budget Committee Chairman Peter Domenici, who never liked the 1981 tax cut, also want their views validated.

But the administration will yield only grudgingly, with a limited tax boost divorced from the reform bill and sold at a high price — specifically, salvation of Reagan's defense buildup. Such a trade is impossible if tax reform is turned into a tax hike.

Accordingly, Reagan strategy is two-fold: First, insist on the Senate upholding revenue-neutrality of tax reform; Finance Committee members are unlikely to go out on a tax-increasing limb without White House acquiescence; second, prod quick Senate action on tax reform to prevent its inextricable linkage with Gramm-Rudman.

That crunch will not come quickly. The new law's first effect early this year will require making up a relatively small shortfall with relatively modest defense and domestic spending cuts.

It is in the fall — after a revenue-neutral tax reform bill becomes law — that Gramm-Rudman's nightmarish consequences unfold. The president would have to reverse, not just reduce, his rearmament program. To prevent both that and massive domestic spending cuts not pleasant for Congress, negotiation under the terms of Gramm-Rudman would be unavoidable.

That negotiation will include an easing of the defense cuts; putting back on the table middle-class entitlements, farm spending and other programs exempted by Gramm-Rudman; possibly easing the deficit target. The price paid by Reagan might have to be a tax increase — modest, not affecting income taxes and probably limited to energy consumption. Obviously, the deal cannot be struck if months earlier the president gave away his bargaining power by letting tax reform turn into tax increase.

Reagan's hard line against tax increases at a recent press conference followed his strategy. His State of the Union will suggest that it is better to cut the federal budget than ravage the family budget through higher taxes.

Although Reagan's detractors cite instances of him saying "no, no, no, no — yes," his commitment is firm for low marginal tax rates and no tax boost without a high asking price. His determination is even stronger in private than in public. And despite their personal back-biting, the president's men support that foundation of the Reagan Revolution more steadfastly than at any time since the early months of 1981.

Airline Passenger Strikes Back

WASHINGTON — Jim Abourezk is taking the frustrations of millions of American air travelers into his own hands.

Abourezk, a Washington lawyer who once represented South Dakota in the U.S. Senate, is suing New York Air on grounds that the carrier rejected his request to exit a New York-bound plane as it sat delayed on the tarmac at National Airport. The 54-year-old Democrat is charging the carrier with what he terms "false imprisonment" and asking for $200,000 in damages.

"Everybody in the world has gotten screwed over by the airlines," Abourezk declared. "Now it's time to fight back."

Abourezk's crusade began with his decision to attend an evening reception last October at the United Nations. After boarding a 4:30 p.m. shuttle, Abourezk, the part-time chairman of the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee, learned that the plane would be delayed an hour because of bad weather in New York. Three hours later, the plane was still stuck on the ground in Washington, and Abourezk, already having missed the party, demanded to be let off.

"The pilot wouldn't let me go," Abourezk said. "He told me the plane was number two for take-off, and he wasn't about to wait any longer than necessary."

New York Air's 4:30 shuttle reached the Big Apple's La Guardia Airport at 9 p.m. Abourezk waited another three hours for a flight back to the D.C. area and arrived home at 2 a.m.

"Ordinarily, I wouldn't have made a big deal out of this," Abourezk insisted. "But I wrote New York Air a letter demanding a refund, and they wouldn't give it to me. They sent me a form letter saying they always try to be on time. That was it for me."

Abourezk hopes that his suit will inspire other passengers who have felt mistreated by the airlines. And it probably will. But whether the courts will alleviate Abourezk's frustration is another question altogether.

Terrorism, a pestilence in many parts of the world, has been on the decline in the U.S. Domestically, the number of organized terrorist incidents fell from 22 in 1983 to 13 in 1984 to seven in 1985. Fatalities fell from 12 in 1983 to two last year. For example, a bomb killed an ex-SS officer in

New York, and an Arab-American poet, Alex Odeh, died in an explosion at his office in California.

Brazil, the world's sixth largest arms supplier, is bucking to become Libya's major source of weaponry. Next month, the Libyan foreign minister will visit South America's largest nation to seal the purchase of military training aircraft. The U.S. is likely to lobby the Brazilian government against getting more cozy with Col. Qaddafi.

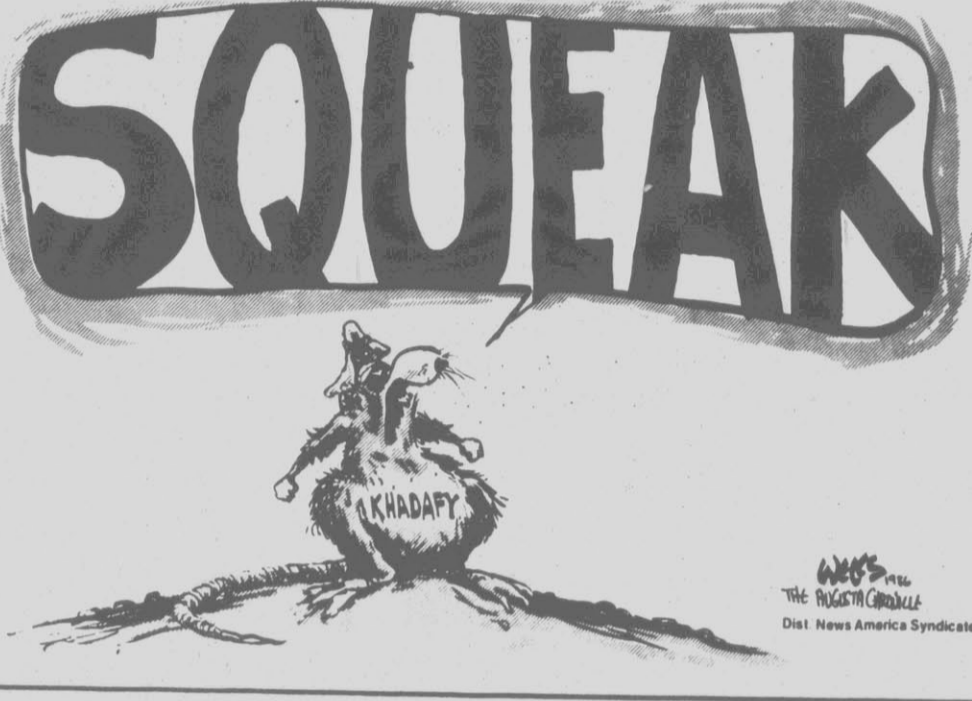

Georgetown University made a good investment in recruiting then-high school basketball star Patrick Ewing. According to Regardie's, a business magazine in Washington, Georgetown earned more than $12 million as a result of the 7-foot center's four-year tenure on the school's team. That wasn't a bad return on a scholarship totaling $48,000.

Small businesses are responsible for 70 percent of the new jobs created during the current economic recovery, according to the Conference Board. The business group also predicts that the demand for part-time employees will grow this year, straining the supply of young, entry-level workers and increasing opportunities for older job-seekers.

In most analyses of Gary Hart's decision to leave the Senate for what may be a second attempt at the White House, the Coloradoan's $3.4 million debt from 1984 has been cited as a major obstacle to any serious pursuit of the presidency in 1988. No one in the Hart camp, least of all the senator himself, is taking the debt lightly. But as Hart's chief fund raiser, Michael Novelli, points out, the Democratic Party has long had to deal with indebtedness on the part of its presidential aspirants.

The Edmund Muskie campaign of 1972, for example, only recently closed its books. The party required years to retire the debt incurred by the Hubert Humphrey and Robert Kennedy campaigns. Sen. John Glenn (D-Ohio), in fact, still owes more than $2 million to banks from his failed effort in 1984; Hart owes roughly $700,000 to banks.

Living A Fantasy

Every New Year I change fantasies. Last year's had to do with football commissioner Pete Rozelle coming to me and saying, "We'd like you to sing the 'Star Spangled Banner' at the opening of the Super Bowl." To which I reply, "I can't sing." And he responds, "Then hum it."

I've replaced last year's model with a new one and it concerns Libyan leader Muammar Kadafi. Make no mistake, I wish only good for the Colonel, but I have to dream.

My fantasy starts as I am taking my morning jog in the Libyan desert. I pass a tent and hear moaning from inside.

"What's up?" I ask on of the guards.

"Colonel Kadafi has a toothache," he replies.

"That's terrible. Kadafi shouldn't suffer like this after what he has done for the world. I have an Uncle Herman in New York who is the foremost specialist in tooth pain."

Kadafi comes out of the tent. "How soon can he get here?"

"Twelve hours if you don't hijack his plane."

The Colonel says, "All right. But if he hurts me I'm going to blow up 12 department stores."

"Don't worry about Uncle Herm. He did all of the Ayatollah's root canal work."

"Well, hurry and call him."

"Here he comes now," I say. My uncle steps out of a plane with his black bag. After being introduced to Kadafi, Uncle Herm says, "It's a great honor to be working on your mouth, Colonel. I've seen it on television many times, and I've said to my wife, 'Boy would I like to get a crack at his teeth.' So sit over here on this ant hill in the blazing hot sun and let me take a look. Oh, is this bad, oh is this bad."

Uncle Herm stuffs all the cotton he possibly can down Kadafi's throat and starts to drill. It doesn't take long for Herm to hit a nerve, and for the Colonel to shriek. When Herm wearsies of drilling one tooth he goes to the next one. Then he pulls a few to break up to the monotony.

Every time Kadafi complains Uncle Herm tells him to "spit."

Two hours later Uncle Herm says, "Okay we got all the preliminaries out of the way; we better break your jaw now and rewire it."

"Why wire?" Kadafi mumbles.

"Because if we don't wire, every tooth will fall out of your head. I hate to say this Colonel, but you've been so busy training terrorists to blow up innocent women and children that you're not brushing your teeth twice a day. I have to break your jaw to do the job you should have done with your toothbrush."

Uncle Herm breaks Kadafi's jaw and then rewires it. Unfortunately the wire Herm uses is rusty and the Colonel develops lockjaw.

"Don't worry Kadafi," Uncle Herm says. "I know the greatest specialists for lockjaw in the world."

Herm suggests he fly to London and see him. When the Colonel gets to the clinic the lockjaw specialist turns out to be Uncle Herm.

"This is a terrible mouth," he says to Kadafi. "Who broke it?"

"Youffdid," Kadafi says through clenched teeth.

"The work does look familiar. I think I'll have to break it again."

Kadafi dashes out of the clinic and takes the next plane back to Tripoli. As he is being escorted out of the airport the whole place blows up. Unbeknownst the Colonel, the bomb was planted by terrorists who had been trained and financed by Libya.

As Kadafi lies on the floor, full of glass shards, Uncle Herm shows up. "You look terrible. I guess we're going to have to operate right here. I hope it's all right if I don't use anesthesia."

"Why no anesthesia?" gasps Kadafi.

Uncle Herm responds, "The guy whose fantasy this is asked me not to."

Strength For Today

Florence Nightingale was one of the great human benefactors of all time. Among many arresting statements she made in her noble career, this one stands out especially: "Live your life while you have it. Life is such a splendid gift. But you must make your thoughts, your words, your acts, all work to the same end, and that end is not self but God. These are what we call Character."

We live in a day when it is considered by some a sign of intellectual distinction to regard character as something which need not necessarily be connected with religious faith. We are told that people can be quite good enough without religion. But great minds have never reasoned after this fashion.

Not only Florence Nightingale but thousands of other people who have been able realistically to look facts in the face have come to see that character apart from religion is about as false as religion apart from character.

Subway Gunman Wins Dismissal Of Charges

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Dismissal of attempted murder and assault charges against Bernhard Goetz means "the worst is over" for the subway gunman, who now hopes "this nightmare will end for him," his lawyer says.

The charges against Goetz, who shot and wounded four youths he said were trying to rob him in December 1984, were thrown out Thursday by Judge Stephen Crane, who called the case "one of the most difficult of our generation."

The case attracted international attention and fired a debate over whether Goetz, 38, who had been mugged before, was a crime victim fighting back or a vigilante looking for trouble.

Goetz still faces charges of weapons possession and reckless endangerment, but Crane dismissed four counts of attempted murder and four counts of assault. He ruled that two of the victims may have lied before a grand jury and that a prosecutor gave a mistaken explanation of self-defense to grand jurors.

But the judge gave prosecutors the option to seek new indictments against Goetz and said that if the case is resubmitted to another grand jury, he should be allowed to testify with limited immunity from prosecution.

Goetz, asked what Thursday's decision meant, told WNBC-TV, "Hopefully, it means that the system will abandon the concept of prosecuting victims."

Mark Baker, one of Goetz's lawyers, described his client as gratified, satisfied and happy, and said, "He feels vindicated to a large extent." Barry Slotnick, another lawyer, said his client realizes "the worst is over" and hopes "this nightmare will end for him."

The next step in the case comes Jan. 21, when Slotnick said he will ask Crane to set aside the remaining charges "in the interest of justice."

Asked if he planned to resubmit the more serious charges, District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said, "We are studying the decision and will decide later whether to appeal."

Goetz shot James Ramseur and Barry Allen, both 19, and Troy Canty and Darrell Cabey, both 20, on Dec. 22, 1984. He said they surrounded him in a subway car and that Canty menacingly demanded $5. Canty said he merely asked for $5.

Cabey has been paralyzed from the waist down since the incident. The others have recovered from their injuries.

After the shooting, Goetz fled into the subway tunnel. He surrendered on New Year's Eve to police in Concord, N.H.

On Jan. 25 a grand jury declined to indict Goetz for attempted murder, charging him only with weapons violations. But a second grand jury indicted him for attempted murder and assault, the charges dismissed Thursday.

Crane said he threw out the most serious charges for two reasons: Assistant District Attorney Gregory Waples' incorrect answer to a grand juror's question about the law of self-defense, and the testimony of Ramseur and Canty.

William Kunstler, Cabey's lawyer, questioned Crane's accusations. He noted that Officer Pete Smith's story is questioned by police officials, and that his client suffered brain damage in the shooting.

On the self-defense issue, Crane said, Waples neglected to explain that the issue was whether Goetz himself, rather than the law's "reasonable man" might have had "reasonably believed that unlawful physical force was about to be used against him."

If the case is resubmitted to another grand jury, Crane said, Goetz should be allowed to testify "under a limited waiver ... tailored to meet his concern that he not be interrogated about his purchases of handguns for his friends."

'Star Wars' Won't Be Scrapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says it will seriously consider the Kremlin's new plan for nuclear disarmament by the year 2000 but will not yield to fresh demands for scrapping "Star Wars" missile-defense research.

The administration also rejected a renewed Soviet proposal for a moratorium on nuclear testing.

Offering a cautious assessment of the Soviet disarmament offer, President Reagan said Thursday he found it encouraging and "different from things that we've heard in the past from leaders in the Soviet Union. It's just about the first time that anyone's ever proposed actually eliminating nuclear weapons."

However, he reserved judgment on whether it signaled the Soviets are serious about negotiating an arms agreement.

"We're going to find out," Reagan said, briefly answering reporters' questions during a picture-taking session in the Cabinet Room.

"We're grateful for the offer," the president said. Asked whether it could lead to disarmament, he said, "We're studying it with great care and it is going to depend on what takes place in Geneva" at arms control talks.

The president's statement coincided with the opening in Geneva of the fourth round of U.S.-Soviet arms talks in 10 months and the first since Reagan and Gorbachev met last November. Administration officials said they found both positive and negative aspects in Moscow's proposal.

Shultz Says Libya Has 'Smoking Gun'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says the latest Libyan threat against America is the "smoking gun" that proves the North African country is sponsoring terrorism, but the Pentagon is still saying it is wary of military retaliation.

Shultz — again appearing to be more willing than Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to use military force against countries sponsoring terrorism — likened Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy to a suspect caught at the scene of the crime with irrefutable evidence of his wrongdoing.

Shultz's views were relayed to reporters by State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb.

Asked on Thursday what Shultz thought of Khadafy's threat to train Arab suicide squads to attack American forces, Kalb said the secretary replied, "Khadafy is his own smoking gun."

Kalb added, "In a general way, Khadafy's statements should have been in the past tense. He has in fact been training terrorists for years. The new element in his speech is that he publicly admitted support for terrorism."

On Wednesday, Khadafy called on members of Arab groups to volunteer to be trained in Libya for suicide missions, and said his country would provide the needed weapons. In a radio broadcast, he also said Libya was a base from which to act for the Palestinian cause.

It was not clear whether Khadafy was offering to train suicide attackers only against a possible military invasion or also on behalf of the Palestinians.

At a Pentagon news conference Thursday, Weinberger said Khadafy's words proved "what we've been saying right along." The Reagan administration has accused Khadafy of providing training grounds for the Abu Nidal terrorist group, blamed for last month's attacks on the Rome and Vienna airports in which 19 people died.

The defense secretary said Khadafy's statements had not heightened his concern for the safety of U.S. forces in the Mediterranean, which were augmented Wednesday with the arrival of a second aircraft carrier battle group.

Weinberger said he agreed that force is sometimes a necessary response to terrorism, but he set more preconditions for its use than Shultz had in a speech on Wednesday. Shultz said the government must be prepared to use force even if the public is not united behind the action and even if there is not total "clarity" about the target.

"I don't think, for example, that Secretary Shultz has in mind spraying any target that somebody mentions might be a target."

40 Years, 40 Jumps

SHERIDAN, Ore. (AP) — Warren Walters celebrated his 40th birthday by jumping out of an airplane 40 times.

Walters of Camas, Wash., who turned 40 on Thursday, took off on the first of his 40 plunges Sunday out of a single-engine Cessna 170 about 2,000 feet over muddy farmland near Sheridan's Pacific Parachute Center, 50 miles southwest of Portland.

The day ended more than six hours later when he and eight friends dived out of two small planes at 10,000 feet and performed several complicated maneuvers in the glow of the sunset.

Dissidents

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A Seoul court convicted 13 dissident students of producing a leftist publication and forming a revolutionary group benefitting North Korea, and sentenced them to prison terms.

The students, all from Seoul National University, were charged in Seoul District Criminal Court with violating the National Security Law or other laws banning unauthorized demonstrations and assemblies.

Presiding Judge An Mun-tae ruled that the students formed a circle based on a revolutionary ideology matching that of communist North Korea, and that they manipulated student disturbances.

"If testimony ... was perjured, as it strongly appears to have been, the integrity of the grand jury was severely undermined, to say the least," Crane said. Their testimony, he noted, was the major difference between the case laid out for the earlier grand jury and the case presented to the second.

The judge cited two incidents as undercutting Canty and Ramseur. One was a November newspaper interview in which Cabey said the others had planned to rob Goetz. The other was a police officer's assertion that a wounded Canty told him the same thing.

Housing Starts Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a sharp rise in building activity in December, housing construction for all of 1985 fell by 1 percent, the first decline since 1982, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said that construction of new homes totaled 1.73 million units last year, down from 1984 when construction was started on 1.75 million units.

It marked the first yearly decline since a 2 percent drop in 1982. In 1983, housing construction had soared by 60.3 percent following three straight annual declines.

Housing construction rose a slight 2.7 percent in 1984.

The modest decline last year was not likely to cause great concern among analysts since the level of construction remained above 1.7 million units.

However, it did underscore that construction failed to respond to the sharp declines in mortgage rates which have taken place since the summer of 1984.

Analysts have blamed part of that problem on the fact that mortgage lenders tightened up borrowing requirements at mid-year to stem a sharp rise in foreclosures.

For December, housing starts shot up by 17.5 percent, the biggest monthly increase since May 1983 when starts rose by 18 percent.

Law Sticken

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The state Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional a state law keeping medical records confidential except when patients give written consent.

Claus von Bulow tried to use the law in 1982 to bar his comatose wife's medical records from being used at his trial on charges he twice tried to murder her. The motion was denied.

Von Bulow was convicted, but was found innocent in a retrial last year in which the medical records again were used.

The high court ruled that the Confidentiality of Health Care Information Act violates the separation of powers outlined in the state constitution, interferes with courts' power to use subpoenas to obtain evidence and takes away judges' discretion on whether evidence is relevant.

State Officials Objecting To Dump Sites

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Two sites in North Carolina are among 12 locations in seven states that will be considered as a second national facility for storing highly radioactive nuclear waste, but some politicians predicted the repository would never be built.

"I just don't think Congress will be for putting these sites that close to populated areas," said Rep. Jim Broyhill, R-N.C., saying lawmakers would never authorize a dump site in any of the eastern United States.

The Department of Energy has said a first deposit site will be in Washington state, Nevada or Texas.

The 12 study areas, which were selected from 235 rock bodies in the nation's Midwest, New England and the Southeast, were announced Thursday. North Carolina officials promptly promised to wage a fierce battle to keep the state from being selected.

Gov. Jim Martin said both the North Carolina sites — a granite deposit stretching under parts of Wake, Franklin, Johnston, Warren and Nash counties, and the Elk River rock formation including Buncombe, Haywood, Madison, Yancey and Mitchell counties — were ill-suited to host the proposed facility.

"They're near population areas, they are a kind of rock that is likely to have fractures," Martin said in a news conference. "It seems to me that we're in pretty good shape to be able to argue that these should not be ... selected."

The announcement triggered a 90-day period for states and the public to comment on the selection of the 12 study areas. The department will announce final sites this summer, then begin field studies, including exploratory drilling. The other sites are in Virginia, Georgia, Maine, New Hampshire, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Martin said the state Department of Natural Resources and Community Development would prepare within 90 days a "very thorough" report to the Energy Department arguing that the North Carolina sites should be rejected.

Some legislators and environmentalists have complained that the Martin administration has done too little to keep North Carolina sites off the federal list, and was not prepared for the crucial 90-day period in which some sites could be removed from consideration.

"We are ready," Martin said, adding that his critics were "criticizing me for not grandstanding."

He said NRC had been studying the situation, aware that 30 North Carolina sites were being examined by the DOE as possible facility hosts, but preferred to withhold lengthy public pronouncements on the situation until it knew which of the sites had made the list of finalists.

The 1982 federal law authorizing the search for a second disposal site in the eastern United States allows a governor to veto the selection of his state as host. However, Congress could override the veto.

Martin said he would exercise the veto if either North Carolina site were chosen, noting dryly that "that's the only veto I've got." The Legislature rejected his call for gubernatorial veto power last year.

He said, however, that every other governor could be expected to take the same action, and that a veto likely would only postpone the inevitable.

"It's in the national interest not to allow a stalemate of that sort that could arbitrarily block every site in the United States," he said.

Martin said he had appointed an 11-member committee of environmentalists, scientists, local government officials and others to advise state government in its dealings with DOE on the issue.

The two U.S. House members whose districts include the possible sites said they would work to have them excluded.

"We're going to fight if it takes 24 hours a day, seven days a week, for seven years," said Republican Rep. Bill Hendon, R-N.C., of the 11th District in western North Carolina. "Nuclear waste is not going in these mountains."

Hendon said he doubted a repository would be built in the East, despite an interstate compact to share responsibility for disposal facilities.

"I can assure you Congress is not going along with an East Coast repository," Hendon said. "We're putting this stuff out west where there are no people, no water, no nothing."

Rep. Bill Cobey, a Republican whose 4th District includes Franklin and Wake counties, said he was "strongly opposed to locating a nuclear waste site so near fast-growing Raleigh and the Research Triangle. The risks are too great."

Medical Insurer Declares Moratorium On Policies

RALEIGH (AP) — The country's largest insurer of medical malpractice has declared a moratorium on new business, leaving one company in North Carolina to insure new doctors who set up their own practices, authorities say.

Robert Trunzo of St. Paul's Fire and Marine Insurance Co. told a legislative study commission in Raleigh Thursday that the decision had been made in December and was effective Jan. 1 nationwide.

Trunzo said St. Paul's would continue to provide coverage for its current clients and would cover new doctors who joined group practices covered by St. Paul's.

State Insurance Commissioner Jim Long said in a telephone interview that the decision "gives us a great deal of concern." Without malpractice insurance, doctors cannot get permission to use hospitals.

Long said his office would work closely with Medical Mutual Insurance Company of North Carolina, the other company that insures doctors in North Carolina, to make sure it remained solvent. Another company, Pacific Employers Insurance Co., offers coverage only to doctors in internal medicine.

Trunzo said the moratorium by St. Paul's "has nothing to do with the 42 legislative committees studying the issue of medical malpractice," including one in North Carolina. He cited volatile market conditions and St. Paul's rapid growth over the past three years as the reasons for the moratorium.

"We're growing too fast," Trunzo told the commission. "We want to put on the brakes. We hope to return to business when conditions stabilize."

Last year, St. Paul's had 4,500 subscribers in North Carolina, slightly more than 50 percent of doctors practicing in the state.

The legislative commission was created by the General Assembly last year in response to reports of a looming crisis in medical malpractice issues, such as an increasing number of medical malpractice lawsuits.

Also Thursday, a physician told the commission that increasingly frequent malpractice lawsuits and soaring insurance premiums are endangering the health of women and infants and leading many doctors to refuse to deliver babies.

The malpractice "crisis" is driving up the cost of having a baby and retarding progress in obstetrics by discouraging doctors from trying new methods, said Frank C. Greiss, chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Wake Forest University.

"The reproductive process is not perfect," Greiss said during a meeting of a joint legislative committee studying the malpractice situation. A recent study suggests that more than 50 percent of birth defects result from factors beyond the doctor's control before or during birth, he said.

"But today, no one wants to settle for less than optimal, no one is willing to admit to the mistakes of nature and someone else must pay," Greiss said. "In the short run, it is we (doctors). In the long run, it is everyone."

Doctors who deliver babies are in insurance firms' highest-risk categories, not because there is rampant malpractice but because "we have limited control of our own destiny," he said.

Greiss is chairman of the North Carolina Obstetrics-Gynecology Liaison Committee, which represents obstetricians, gynecologists, family practitioners and nurse midwives.

Greiss offered few specific suggestions for solving the problem under questioning by legislative panel members. He said there should be a system under which groups of doctors would study alleged malpractice cases to determine whether they were legitimate or frivolous.

But Greiss admitted that doctors often are reluctant to testify against fellow doctors. He said he once did so and "didn't make any friends" in the process.

Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, an attorney, said he agreed that doctors were not to blame for "nature's errors" but said many patients perceived that doctors sometimes were less than open. "They feel the shade is pulled down and there's no way to know what is going on," he said.

IN THE STATE

Climber Injured

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 19-year-old student from Gastonia suffered crushed vertebrae, partial paralysis in one arm and frostbite on his feet after falling 2,000 feet while climbing an inactive volcano in Mexico, authorities said.

Gary Guller was undergoing tests at Charlotte's Presbyterian Hospital Thursday night after being injured early Tuesday, said his father, Jeff Guller. His college roommate was killed in the accident.

"But Gary is OK. All of his vital signs are normal," the elder Guller said, while his son was undergoing X-rays and a CAT scan.

Gary Guller, a student at Prescott College in Arizona and a skilled climber, was on Mount Orizaba, about 100 miles from Mexico City, as part of a school-approved special-studies program.

He and three other students were climbing at about 18,000 feet when one of the climbers, Steve Brown of Larkspur, Calif., got sick and stopped climbing. When the other three resumed, another climber, Dave Cianciulli of Monte Sereno, Calif., lost his balance and fell, pulling the rest of the team down with him.

Killed in the fall was Jerry Webster of Boulder, Colo., Guller's roommate.

Officers Raid Garage

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Law enforcement officers raided an auto garage in Davidson County Thursday where they say stolen cars were cut up for sale as parts, and they said the operation was related to a similar operation in Forsyth County.

A "considerable number of additional parts, including body parts and frame rails, were recovered," said Mark Stabler, district supervisor of the enforcement section of the state Division of Motor Vehicles.

Stabler said he couldn't estimate the number of cars found in Davidson County because the parts hadn't been sorted, but parts from "at least several" cars were found.

Smugglers Sentenced

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Two men who pleaded guilty to taking part in a drug smuggling ring between Wilkes County and South America were sentenced Thursday to two years in prison, but the judge suspended the sentences and placed the men on three years' probation.

Rodney Eric Foster, 42, of North Wilkesboro pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in October to taking part in a conspiracy to smuggle 20 tons of marijuana and 2 million methaqualone tablets from Colombia between October 1980 and June 1982.

Richard Wayne Dancy, 26, of Long Beach pleaded guilty to taking part in a conspiracy to bring 12,000 pounds of marijuana into the Wilkes County Airport in January or February 1982.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert D. Potter also fined Dancy $1,000 and fined Foster $3,000.

The two were among 39 people indicted in July 1985 by a federal grand jury. The indictment alleges five separate conspiracies to smuggle marijuana.

'First-Aid' Concert

GREENSBORO (AP) — Members of five rock music bands from Greensboro and Winston-Salem say they will host a concert, dubbed "First-Aid," to protest North Carolina's new obscenity law, which they say infringes on the First Amendment.

Treva Spontaine, a singer and guitar player for The Graphic, which originated the concert idea, said band members think the law "is far too vague and undeniably open to misinterpretation."

The law, which took effect Oct. 1, "may even be broadly interpreted to include song lyrics, live concerts or recordings," she said.

Ms. Spontaine said the concert would enable the bands to donate money to the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union "for the repeal and/or redefinition of this law and to increase public awareness." But "We're not a pro-pornography group," she said.

Groups planning to participate in the concert include The OtherMothers, Quiet Game and Tornado.

Martin Says Intangibles Tax May Have To Stay

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin says lagging state revenue collections and federal budget cuts could force him to reconsider his plan to seek elimination of the intangibles tax during the June legislative session.

"It may be that in this next session, there will be no opportunity to propose further tax reductions," Martin said Thursday. "But that's not the end of time or the end of my administration, and there will be other opportunities."

Revenue collections for the first six months of fiscal 1985-86 have averaged 8.4 percent above those of the same period in the previous year. But collections in December slumped to 1.9 percent above the same month in 1984, sparking concern about an economic slowdown.

With Congress preparing to make drastic cuts in aid to states under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget balancing law, Martin last week ordered that state hiring be sharply curtailed as a precaution.

Martin said fund shortages could affect a number of major initiatives his administration wants to propose — ranging from pay raises for teachers and state workers to reducing the prison population, bolstering the state highway fund and improving public schools.

Another victim could be further tax cuts, Martin said.

Last year, Martin prodded the Legislature into enacting a $171 million tax cut, the largest in state history, but still only about one-third of what he requested. He said repealing the intangibles tax, which was reduced under last year's law, remained his top tax-cut priority, saying that tax hurt the state economy by repelling venture capital that helps business grow and creates jobs.

In another matter, Martin said at a news conference that he would review his first year in office and discuss future plans later this month in a speech over statewide television.

"I think it's a good idea to report to the people from time to time on what you're doing," he said. "As a member of Congress I did that."

The 30-minute address will be on Jan. 25, a Saturday, at 7:30 p.m. Martin said the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters was arranging the coverage, and that he did not know how many stations would carry the speech.

Martin will speak from the state Capitol. His press secretary, Tim Pittman, said the governor would speak from his office or elsewhere in the building, possibly the old House or Senate chamber that have been used only for ceremonial purposes since the Legislature occupied its new building in 1961.

The governor delivers a State of the State message to the Legislature shortly after it convenes for long sessions in odd-numbered years.

Governors occasionally have gone on statewide television for speeches on other matters. Former Gov. Jim Hunt was granted free air time to make a pitch for his anti-drunken driving program, the 1983 Safe Roads Act.

Martin said he would discuss some of the accomplishments of his first term, but would spend most of the time on pending issues such as the economy, prison overcrowding, and education.

Martin also defended the Transportation Improvement Program approved last September by the State Board of Transportation, which is dominated by his appointees. A legislative study and another done by a newspaper say that 50 to 60 percent of the new road projects authorized in the program will be in the home counties of board members.

Martin said those studies did not take into account the higher number of projects already planned for other areas. "If you look at all of those projects, you see a fairly evenhanded distribution of projects all across the state," he said.

Passenger Train Advocates Meeting

Everyone interested in the possibility of gaining passenger rail service for Greenville is invited to attend a luncheon meeting being held by CAPT, the Carolina Association for Passenger Trains.

Information will be presented regarding plans by AMTRAK and the NC DOT to reinstate the CAROLINIAN, our state's popular but short-lived train to/from Charlotte, by re-routing it further east—via Selma, Wilson, and Rocky Mount. Open discussion will then focus upon possible strategies for eventually extending rail passenger service to Greenville.

The public is welcome at this luncheon. The only charge will be for whatever food and drink one chooses.

Former POW Asked Congressmen To Let Him Join In MIA Search

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Garwood, the Marine convicted of collaborating with the enemy while a prisoner in Vietnam, says he volunteered to accompany a group of congressmen to Vietnam and show them where he last saw American captives alive because "it's something I feel I have to do."

Garwood said in a telephone interview Thursday he could show government officials "where men were buried, where POWs were still being held when I left. If the bodies have been exhumed, or the camps have been moved, we can then ask the question 'Where are they now?'"

In a letter to Rep. Gerald B.H. Solomon, R-N.Y., chairman of the Task Force on Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, Garwood asked to go with the group on its proposed trip next month.

"I would like to volunteer to go along with you as your personal interpreter," Garwood wrote. "I feel that due to my understanding and my intimate knowledge of the Vietnamese language that I can tell you when the Vietnam Communists are trying to lie to you."

Garwood, who was court martialed during a military trial at Camp Lejeune, N.C., said he would "be glad to take you and show you exactly where I last saw the live POWs" and "where I buried other POWs who died in captivity because of the Vietnamese Communist brutality."

In the telephone interview, Garwood said it would be hard to return to Southeast Asia "because the memories are still fresh in my mind. But for the sake of the men still over there, it's something I feel I have to do."

In his letter, Garwood offered to ride in a plane separate from the congressmen.

"I understand that you may have some trouble riding on the same plane with a convicted collaborator, so I would be glad to travel in another plane," Garwood wrote.

Garwood, now an auto mechanic in northern Virginia, was captured at age 19 by the enemy in Vietnam in 1965. He was freed in 1979 and returned to the United States.

He was later court-martialed for collaborating with the Vietnamese and for assaulting a fellow prisoner. The U.S. Court of Military Appeals last year upheld Garwood's conviction, and the Supreme Court left his dishonorable discharge intact without comment.

Garwood has claimed that he saw as many as 70 Americans alive in the late 1970s who were being held by the Vietnamese, years after the Hanoi government said the last American prisoners of war had been released.

After closed-door House hearings last summer, Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Asian and Pacific Affairs, said, "There are the most serious questions about his credibility."

A 26-member congressional delegation, including two senators and two representatives, is currently in Southeast Asia to find out whether there are still Americans alive there. The 21-member task force is tentatively planning to visit Vietnam during the President's Day recess Feb. 8-18.

John Kostas, a spokesman for Solomon, said the congressman was on vacation with his family and had not seen the letter.

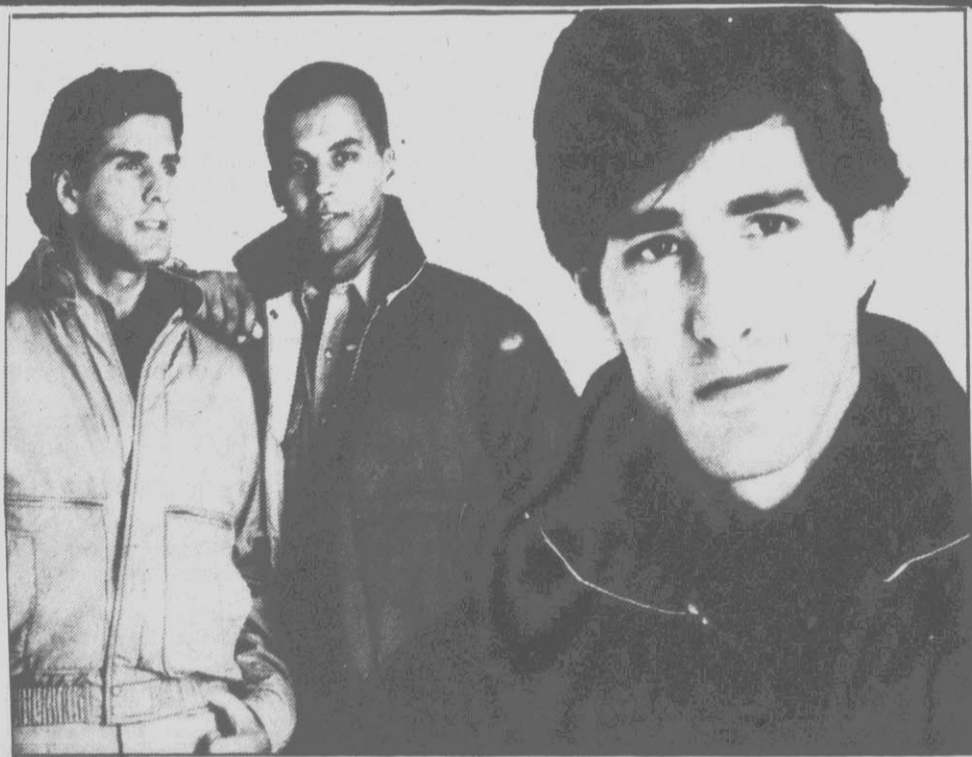

"We're not in a position to comment on it," Kostas said.

Garwood said in the interview that he didn't know if he would be allowed to accompany the congressmen, but he hoped he would.

"They've got nothing to lose and everything to gain by taking me," he said.

Kate Smith Getting Letters

RALEIGH (AP) — Singer Kate Smith has received about 500 greeting cards, and an extra table was put into her hospital room for the many flowers she has received from well-wishers, her sister says.

"She has gotten the mail at long last," Helena Smith Steene said Thursday. More than half the day was spent opening get-well mail, Mrs. Steene said.

"It's so interesting, and she's so thrilled by it," she said.

Miss Smith, 78, had not been allowed to receive mail while she was in intensive care after the amputation of her right leg Sunday. The surgery was necessary because of circulation problems caused by diabetes.

On Wednesday, she was moved from intensive care to a private room. Her condition is listed as satisfactory, said hospital supervisor Olivia M. Street.

"She's doing beautifully. As a matter of fact, she's sitting up," Mrs. Steene said.

New Guards

PEKING (AP) — The growth of business in Canton under China's economic reforms has prompted the rise of a new industry, private security services, an official news report said.

Almost 500 people are working under contract as watchmen, gatekeepers, patrols or guards for hundreds of public and private enterprises in the southern city, the English-language newspaper China Daily said.

The paper said most of the guards, who are employed by 13 private security service agencies established last year, are former military servicemen.

In the city's Dongshan district, where private traders and buyers in 14 free markets have been plagued by thieves, public order improved after the district Bureau of Industry and Commerce called in private security agents to patrol the area, the newspaper said.

Telescope manufacturers expect to make a mint this year, as sales soar from interest in Halley's Comet. The technology for making telescopes has been around almost as long as the comet itself. Lenses dating from 2000 B.C. were found on Crete. In the third century B.C., Euclid expounded theories of reflection and refraction. In 1608, Hans Lippershey applied — unsuccessfully — for a patent on his telescope. He was told many people had a knowledge of the invention!

Dare Residents Oppose Navy Plan

By The Associated Press
 A Navy proposal to expand restricted airspace around a bombing range in Pamlico Sound is drawing fire from Dare County residents who say the expansion threatens air and water travel.

Navy plans would increase a restricted zone near Stumpy Point from 30 square miles to 300 square miles, said Clarence Skinner, manager of the Dare County Regional Airport in Manteo. He said the expansion would increase hazards for boaters, private pilots and mainland residents of Stumpy Point.

"We feel that it is very definitely a flying hazard," Skinner said Thursday in a telephone interview. "I'm talking midair collisions."

If the Navy plan is approved by the Federal Aviation Administration, non-military aircraft would not be allowed to fly in the restricted area at altitudes below 18,000 feet while the bombing range was being used.

The FAA is scheduled to receive public comment until Feb. 18. Skinner said the review process would take several months and that no changes are expected until summer.

Thefts Reported

Greenville police are continuing their investigation of seven thefts reported to the department Thursday.

Officer M.J. Nobles said $15 was taken from a purse at the Pitt Community College laboratory at 1710 W. Third St. in an incident reported at noon, while Officer C.A. Sharp said $191 in cash was taken from a purse at E.B. Aycock Junior High School in an incident reported at 7:56 p.m.

Officer K.A. Bedell said a radio valued at $417 and an equalizer valued at $130 were taken from a car parked at Carolina East Mall in an incident reported at 8:13 p.m., while Officer E.E. Laughinghouse said a television set and a purse containing $15 in cash were taken from a car parked at The Plaza in an incident reported at 9:08 p.m.

Officer R.G. Mendenhall said purses, one containing $150 in cash, were taken from two vehicles and a watch valued at $90 was taken from a third car parked at Shoney's Restaurant on Greenville Boulevard in incidents reported at 10:24 p.m.

The Pitt County Cancer Society, the Pitt County Boys Club, Crime Stoppers, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Brownies, local fire and rescue squads, and area schools received funds from the club.

Paul Hunsucker was awarded a plaque for his service as club treasurer.

The club is celebrating its 46th anniversary.

Drug Arrests

Greenville police Thursday night and early this morning arrested three people on drug law violation.

Officers assigned to the department's special investigations section arrested Johnny Humbles, 20, of Route 3, Ayden, on possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia charges at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche streets about 11:19 p.m. Thursday.

Other officers assigned to the section arrested William Andre Bridges, 21, of 205A Roundtree Dr., and Gloria Cooper, 26, of 1505A Fleming St., on heroin possession charges at the intersection of Fifth and Anderson streets about 1:30 a.m. today.

Benefit Dinner

The Winterville Jaycees will hold a barbecued chicken dinner Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4-7 p.m. at the A.G. Cox School cafeteria. Proceeds will go toward building a picnic shelter at the Winterville Park.

Workshop Planned

A workshop sponsored by the N.C. Department of Administration concerning the funding of rape crisis and domestic violence programs is set for Tuesday at the Sheraton Greenville from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

The featured speaker will be Henry McKoy, deputy secretary of the department of administration.

The workshop will explore funding possibilities at the federal, state and local levels and from foundations. It will feature a session to allow program staffs to share ideas and a discussion of local permanency funding.

For more information, call the N.C. Council on the Status of Women at (919) 733-2455.

Class Gathering

The C.M. Eppes High School class of 1961 will meet Sunday at 5 p.m. at the home of Leslie Cox in North River Estates. A spokesman said addresses of class members living in other areas are needed.

King Ceremony

The East Carolina University chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity will honor leaders from the campus and local black communities at its second annual Martin Luther King Jr. leadership awards ceremony and reception Monday at 7 p.m. in Mendenhall Student Center.

Anthony D. Jackson, program chairman for ECU's Eta Nu chapter, said the ceremony and reception is sponsored to recognize student and community leaders and also to celebrate the first official national observance of the birthday of the late civil rights leader.

Awards recipients will be selected from among nominees proposed by ECU student organizations, he said.

Service Recognition

State Reps. Walter B. Jones Jr. and Ed Warren of the 9th District were honored this week by the Greene County Fire and Rescue Department for their service and support.

Jones and Warren were presented plaques by the Greene County Fireman's Association at a dinner in Show Hill. Approximately 200 volunteers and Greene County citizens gathered to honor the legislators for their work on behalf of the county and the district.

IT TAKES A LITTLE GETTING USED TO — Figuring out exactly what's meant by signs along our roadsides sometimes requires a bit of sleuthing, or even guess work. The sign on the left, simply reading "used," nailed to a power line pole between Farmville and Saratoga, has been in place for several years. Asked about its meaning, a local man said his friend "has been aiming for a long time to put up the word cars underneath used." The sign at right, in downtown Saratoga, evidently resulted from the sign painter getting carried away with the top bar of T, making it read "TTRES" in lieu of the intended word "tires." ## Commissioners Meet

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the county office building, 1717 W. Fifth St.

Included on the agenda will be consideration of a request for funds to operate the swimming pool at the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, liability insurance for members of the Pitt Area Transit System, and other items.

PCMHC Workshops

The Pitt County Mental Health Center will offer workshops for teen-agers and for parents of teen-agers beginning Tuesday.

The workshop for teens will begin at 4 p.m. Tuesday and continue each Tuesday from 4:53-8 p.m. for 10 weeks. Titled "I'm in Search of Myself, Have You Seen Me?" it will focus on improving skills in communication, social interaction and identification and responsible expression of feelings.

The workshop for parents of teen-agers will be held each Tuesday from 9-10:30 a.m. beginning Tuesday and continuing for 10 weeks. It will offer

"systematic training for the effective parenting of teens." Reservations must be made by Monday.

Scout Round Tables

The Pitt District Cub Scout and Boy Scout leaders' round tables will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Red Oak Christian Church.

The theme for the Cub meeting is "Blue and Gold Banquets, while the Boy Scout theme is "Happy Birthday."

The District Scout show, the name of the district contest, the East Carolina Council banquet, the council camporee and other dates and events will be discussed.

Interviews Set

Edward Bagley, job corps counselor, will hold interviews at 11 a.m. Feb. 19 at the Social Services Department. For more information, call 758-2167.

New Medical Center

Ribbon cutting ceremonies were held today at Family Medical Center, office of Dr. George Klein, family physician, at 602-C.E. Tenth St.

Klein said the office will be open from noon to 8 p.m. each day and will provide 24-hour on-call service in the office, rather than the emergency department of the hospital.

Klein said he will make house calls for regular patients. Preventive care and patient education will be stressed, he said.

Klein is a recent graduate of the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

On hand for the ceremonies were Sen. Tom Taft, Reps. Ed Warren and Walter Jones Jr., Mayor Les Garner, County Commissioner Charles Gaskins, ECU School of Medicine Dean William Laupus, and Dr. Charles Russell, chamber representative.

Chapter To Meet

The Eva J. Lewis Alumni Chapter of Elizabeth City State University will meet Sunday at 4 p.m. at the home of Mary C. Gorham.

Parenting Workshop

An "effective parenting" workshop for parents of preschool and school-aged children will be held by the Pitt County Mental Health Center beginning Monday at 6 p.m. and continuing for nine weeks each Monday from 6-7:30 p.m.

A spokesman said space is limited. For information contact Mary Worsley, Audrey Viner or Acolia Simon-Thomas at 752-7151.

20th Century Club

The 20th Century Club will meet Sunday at 5:30 p.m. at the home of Willie Joyner, Smith Trailer Park.

Chemical Society

Dr. Maurice Bursley of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill will speak to the Eastern North Carolina section of the American Chemical Society Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Southern Sportsman Restaurant in Greenville.

Bursley's topic will be "Tar Heel Chemists."

The meeting will be preceded by a social hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling the chemistry department at East Carolina University, 757-6711.

Committee Meeting

The Pitt County NAACP executive committee will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at the office of D.D. Garrett, 606 Albemarle Ave.

Request Approved

A request has been approved for the Girl Scouts to hold a cookie sale in Greenville beginning today and running through March 16. The funds will be used for various Girl Scout projects.

Comet Watch Set

East Carolina University's Halley's Comet watch program will be held Saturday from 6-7 p.m. at the physics building. In the event of cloudy skies the program will be held Sunday night.

Dr. James Gaiser, ECU physics professor, said participants will view the comet through telescopes that will be set up on top of the building. He said it will be a last chance to observe the comet before it disappears behind the sun. The comet will reappear in March.

Gaiser said the comet, when it reappears in late March, will be much brighter with a well developed tail. Then the comet will be visible only during the early morning hours.

Halley's comet can be seen for only a few more days this month in the southwest sky near the bright planet Jupiter, from just after the sun goes down until about 7 p.m.

Professor Says Mortgage Rates Will Keep Dropping

RALEIGH (AP) — The number of 15-year home mortgages could double, says an Appalachian State University economics professor who says interest rates for mortgages could drop into single digits this year.

"That will be something we haven't seen in a long time — single digits," Harry M. Davis said. Though currently not as prevalent as 30-year mortgages, 15-year loans could take as much as 10 percent of the North Carolina mortgage market, he said.

The last year in which single-digit, fixed-rate home mortgages were widely available was 1979.

Davis also said the more traditional 30-year mortgages — currently at interest rates of about 10.5 percent — could drop as low as 10.25 percent.

Speaking at an annual forecast on the thrift industry for the N.C. League of Savings Institutions, Davis said he believes most interest rates will fall in 1986 because the Federal Reserve Board will respond to pressure to keep the value of the dollar from rising. Moreover, falling oil prices will keep inflation lower in 1986 than it was in 1985, Davis said.

Meanwhile, North Carolina's 144 savings and loan associations, which enjoyed combined record profits of $115 million in 1985, should earn 10 percent to 20 percent more this year, Davis said.

That would extend a pronounced turnaround for the state's thrifts, which saw their profits nearly double last year from 1984's $58 million.

As a result, the state's thrifts ended 1985 in generally good financial health, Davis said. He added that he expects health to improve even more in 1986 as thrifts in the state improve their capital positions.

Davis said housing prices in the state, with the exception of the Triangle and Charlotte markets, are not rising when adjusted for inflation and have not done so since 1978. Housing prices in the booming Triangle market, however, should continue to move up 3 to 5 percentage points faster than the inflation rate.

Music Banned

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The government has banned rock music and breakdancing from public stages and the media as "repugnant" and un-Burmese, the Working People's Daily newspaper said.

The official newspaper said Kyi Nyunt, deputy minister for home and religious affairs, called a meeting of representatives of film, musical and theatrical organizations to announce the government decision.

The minister told the meeting that theatrical shows that include breakdancing and rock music would be banned to safeguard Burma's culture and tradition, the newspaper reported.

The newspaper also quoted the deputy minister for culture, Than Maung, as saying the dances and music "are ugly, repugnant and disgusting."

The military-dominated regime, which came to power in 1962, has isolated Burma from many foreign influences.

Stars Help Raise Funds For Hospice Chapter In Vegas

By ROBERT MACY
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Stung by the slow, painful cancer death of a father and friend, two television producers are calling in due bills from stars such as Larry Hagman, Linda Gray and Jane Wyman for a charity ball to raise money for a hospice in the shadow of the Las Vegas Strip.

Merv Adelson, who oversees such hits as "Dallas" and "Falcon Crest" as chairman of Lorimar Productions, and Irwin Molasky, Lorimar vice president and director, are tapping some of TV's top talent for The Butterfly Ball at the MGM Grand Hotel on Feb. 8.

The event is expected to raise $500,000 to $750,000 for the Nathan Adelson Hospice, built in honor of Adelson's father and Molasky's friend.

Cary Grant and Barbara Walters tape-recorded special invitations for the ball and about 30 celebrities are scheduled to attend. Local figures will join the cast of the hotel's $10 million "Jubilee" stage show for the evening's entertainment.

Adelson calls the $3 million, 20-bed hospice on the University of Nevada-Las Vegas campus his labor of love. The charity ball will help offset the hospice's $2.4 million annual operating budget, about a fourth of which comes from charity each year.

"Terminally ill people have a right to die with dignity and their families should be in a position where they can deal with it in an acceptable way," said Adelson, recalling his father's death by cancer seven years ago.

The elder Adelson, who headed a chain of supermarkets in California and Nevada, came to Las Vegas in the late 1950s to help run Sunrise Hospital, one of several Las Vegas developments put together by his son and Molasky.

Nathan Adelson headed Sunrise for 20 years, gaining national recognition as a hospital administrator. He died in 1978.

"What was amazing to me was that, as loved as my father was by all of the doctors, there was a lack of dignity in his death that was appalling," Adelson recalled. "Shortly after his death I heard about the hospice program and made a trip to England (the forerunner in hospice programs) to learn more about it. We felt this was something that was terribly needed in America."

Adelson and Molasky began working to build a hospice to memorialize their father and friend. Today, although hundreds of hospice programs operate within existing hospitals, the Nathan Adelson Hospice is one of only three facilities built from the ground up for just that purpose, according to Molasky. The others are in New Haven, Conn., and Amarillo, Texas.

The hospice and its home-care program have served hundreds of terminal patients in its 2½ years of operation. The facility is designed to duplicate home surroundings.

Patients' rooms are in clusters of four, with a central living area, television and fireplace. Each room opens onto a patio and has an adjoining sleeping space so a relative or friend can stay near the patient. The units have carpeting, fine wallpaper and beamed ceilings with skylights. Although each unit has its own kitchen, the chef at the hospice's restaurant also fills special requests, from pizza to lemon meringue pie.

There is a chapel and, down the hall, a coping room, where relatives and hospice workers can go for solitude. The room is soundproof and equipped with a punching bag.

Family and friends — even pets — can visit 24 hours a day. "We try to meet the needs of the patient and family, rather than making them meet our needs," said hospice administrator Rick Bennett.

"Hospice care is different than hospital care," Adelson said. "Once somebody is definitely terminal, more and more doctors are realizing that they can allow the patient to live his time out in a better way by receiving hospice care. Hospice care allows you to treat pain and provide psychological care in a way you can't possibly get with hospitals."

"Americans are great at raising children, dealing with topics from birth to marriage to job counseling," Molasky added. "But no one likes to deal with death. A hospice program is a way for patients to live their last months with dignity."

A hospice program focuses on the quality of the life that remains when a patient's diagnosis becomes terminal. Its goals are comfort and peace, rather than cure.

For an 11-year-old Las Vegas girl, dying of a brain tumor at Christmas 1984, the Adelson Hospice provided a home atmosphere rather than sterile hospital surroundings. On a brisk December day, a nurse brought a horse to a patio off the girl's room so she could pet the animal and feed it an apple. Later, classmates from her school came by to sing Christmas carols. The girl died in January 1985.

For Evelyn DiMatteo, 49, who has terminal lung cancer, hospice workers help her deal with those times "when I become so scared."

Like many hospice patients, she is encouraged to spend as much time at her home as her health will allow, with hospice nurses on call to help when needed. "I've told my family if I get too bad the hospice is the one place I want to be," she said, forcing her words through vocal chords nearly paralyzed by the disease. "They're warm and loving. And that's what we need when we're so sick."

King's Hunt For Justice Changed Face Of Nation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In a land that extolls his memory, he was jailed 17 times. He was reviled, cursed, pelted, stabbed, spied on by the FBI and finally murdered by an assassin in Memphis. But the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. stirred the soul and changed the face of a nation.

Now, in the perspective of time, by act of the U.S. Congress, the country honors him officially for the first time this coming Monday, with Jan. 20 proclaimed a national holiday in tribute to his dauntless struggle for an ideal.

"I have a dream," he declared in his famed speech to a massed, inter-religious rally in Washington on Aug. 28, 1963, his rich baritone making a refrain of that phrase as he traced a vision of all peoples, black and white, high and low, living and working together in harmony.

"This will be the day when all God's children ... black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Catholics and Protestants — will be able to join hands and to sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual, 'Free at last, free at last; thank God Almighty, we are free at last.'"

Jointly, such major religious bodies as the National Council of Churches, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and the Synagogue Council of America have urged "all America to celebrate the memory of this strong but gentle man."

Ecumenical services and events this week, including the unveiling Thursday of a bust of King in the rotunda of the nation's Capitol, heralded the occasion.

Borrowing his strategy of non-violent resistance from India's Mohandas K. Gandhi, King termed it "non-aggressive physically" but "dynamically aggressive spiritually."

He said its purpose is not to "defeat or humiliate" opponents but to rec-oncile and redeem both whites and blacks from a "festering sore" that debilitates both, bringing them into "beloved community."

"It is evil we seek to defeat, not persons caught in it," he said.

In the face of imprisonments, police clubs, dogs, fire hoses and bombings of black churches and homes, including his own, in the civil rights struggle of the 1960's, he constantly admonished followers against violence, saying it only breeds more of it.

"Let no man pull you down so low as to hate him," he advised. "Brother, if you don't let them make you mad, you can win."

Concurrent with the King observance, Harper & Row issued a 676-page volume of his speeches and writings called "A Testament of Hope," edited by black religious historian James M. Washington of New York's Union Theological Seminary.

King "became our conscience," Washington writes in an introduction, many people considering him a "modern Moses" leading both blacks and whites out of bondage to Jim Crow segregation, stirring "a moral, religious and political revolution whose tremors were felt around the world."

Sociologist-theologian King began his ministry at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Ala., in 1954. That year, another black pastor, the Rev. Leon Oliver Brown of Topeka, Kan., won the historic Supreme Court decision ordering desegregation of public schools.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press

HOGS: Trend is 25 to 50 cents lower at N.C. buying stations. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro, Siler City and Robersonville 45.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 45.00; Wilson 45.00; Rowland 45.50. Sows: (500 pounds up) Wilson 37.00; Fayetteville 36.00; Whiteville unreported; Wallace 37.00; Spivey's Corner 37.00; Rowland 37.00.

BROILERS: The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 49.50 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 64 percent of the load's offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 49.40 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is steady and the live supply is fully adequate for a moderate to good demand. Average weights mostly desirable to occasionally light. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,844,000, compared to 2,485,000 last Friday.

HENS: Market steady. Supply adequate for a good demand. The undertone for next week's trading is steady. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 16 cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn steady to 1 cent lower at mostly 2.70-2.82 in East and mostly 2.79-2.90 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans 4 to 5 cents lower at mostly 5.31-5.43 in the East and mostly 5.20-5.29 in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 3.17-3.28; (new crop wheat 2.29-2.36)

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today amid some disappointment over the latest earnings report from International Business Machines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks lost 7.34 to 1,534.29 in the first hour of trading.

Gainers held a 6-5 edge on losers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Early in the session IBM reported fourth-quarter earnings of $4.36 a share, against $3.55 in the last three months of 1984.

Though that represented a significant improvement, it fell a bit short of some Wall Streeters' expectations. Furthermore, it left the company with a slight decline in profits for the full year.

John Akers, the company's president and chief executive, said, "There is an absence of convincing evidence the North American economy is showing sustained improvement, and we are approaching 1986 with caution."

IBM shares, which are frequently described as a market "bellwether," dropped 2 1/2 to 153 1/2 in early trading today.

There was some stronger-than-expected economic news in the government's report that housing starts rose 17.5 percent in December to their highest level since last April.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped 40 to 120.22. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 9.1 to 247.33.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 14.34 to 1,541.63, bringing its gain for the past two sessions to 22.59 points.

Advances outpaced declines by nearly 3 to 2 on the NYSE. Big Board volume totaled 130.46 million shares, against 122.42 million in the previous session.

Fuel Economy Standards May Be Relaxed For 1987-88 Vehicles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying fuel economy requirements for 1987 and 1988 cars appear to be too tough on automakers, the nation's highway safety chief says the government will consider lowering the mileage standards. Diane Steed, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said her agency will seek public comment on whether to lower the 1987-88 standards from 27.5 miles per gallon to any level down to 26 mpg. "We do not think that 27.5 is feasible, so we are proposing a range," Ms. Steed said in a speech Thursday to Washington automotive reporters. "We're asking whether anywhere within that range is more appropriate."

Ms. Steed said NHTSA would consider comments from the public and other information before making a final decision on the 1987 and 1988 standards, with no ruling likely for at least 90 days. She said NHTSA posed an open question rather than issuing a specific proposed rule because of uncertainty inherent in projecting fuel economy figures for future years. "It's a very complicated, very tough kind of prediction," she said. "What we have to do is set it at the maximum feasible level. Our concern is that 27.5 is not maximum feasible given the numbers the automakers have given us."

The so-called CAFE requirements — for corporate average fuel economy — set minimum standards on the average mileage for an automaker's entire fleet of passenger cars in a given year.

NHTSA last year reduced the standards for 1986 models by 27.5 mpg to 26 mpg, as requested by General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. Immediately thereafter, the two automakers began pressing for similar reductions for future years, claiming they would be forced to curtail production of big cars to meet the 1987-88 standards.

"We like 26," GM spokesman John Hartnett said in response to Ms. Steed's announcement. "Our argument has been for 26. We're going to give it everything we have, all the arguments we have."

"I also have two children in the public school system and am aware of the need for good teachers and good principals." Rose is a veteran of the Vietnam War and current member of the Ready Naval Reserve attached to a reserve force destroyer homeported in Norfolk, Va. He is also a member of the Northeastern Tar Heel Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, facilities planning division and management division. He received his bachelor's degree in business administration from East Carolina University in 1978, and will receive a second degree this spring in industrial engineering technology and social sciences. He is employed at Honeycutt Inc. on Memorial Drive.

In his filing statement, Rose said, "We need qualified individuals to fill the position of clerk of court in order to maintain public confidence." Areas of special interest, Rose said, include probating wills and estate administration, adoptions of children and enforcement of child support in Pitt County. Rose has lived in Greenville since 1972, and has a 10-year-old son.

side effect of beta blockers, the new study is the first to gauge the extent of the problem, Avorn said in a telephone interview Thursday. He said he believes the estimate of one-third is low because it is usually only patients with clear symptoms who seek help for depression. Even then, many doctors may not diagnose it or prescribe medication for it. Beta blockers produce "low-level to moderate depression, not the sort that people jump out of windows over," but the depressions are identical to those arising from other causes. Patients "just feel lousy. They feel life isn't worth living, they feel hopeless about the future, they feel helpless about their ability to do anything for themselves," he said. Research in the area of "biological" depression indicates inadequate levels of adrenaline-associated hormones in the brain may be its cause, he said. Antidepressants are believed to work by raising those levels. Some people may go for years without realizing the depression is linked to medication and can be alleviated, Avorn said. Those who take beta blockers and suspect the drug may be causing depression should consult their doctors before adjusting the dose, the doctor advised. "Under no circumstances should they stop their beta blocker and see what happens," Avorn said. "What happens could be a stroke." An alternative medication often can be found, he said. Besides Inderal, made by Ayerst Laboratories of New York, other beta blockers identified in the study are sold as Lopressor, made by Geigy Pharmaceuticals of Ardsley, N.Y., and Corgard, made by E.R. Squibb & Sons Inc. of Princeton, N.J. Inderal was the drug most frequently prescribed by name in the United States in 1981, according to Ayerst and a survey by the National Center for Health Statistics.

Spain was the last in line." Greece does not have full diplomatic relations with Israel, but has a high-ranking diplomatic representative in Tel Aviv. Peres pointed out that another six years would mark the 500th anniversary of the expulsion of Spain's Jews during the Inquisition. "We have a long history with Spain," Peres said. "I hope we will establish ties in many different areas." Spain and Israel had been moving toward the establishment of diplomatic ties for several months, but opposition by Arab states reportedly delayed the final step.

Spain did not establish diplomatic ties with Israel when the Jewish state was founded in 1948, reportedly because then-ruling Gen. Francisco Franco did not want to harm relations with North African and Arab countries. A former director-general of Israel's Foreign Ministry, Shlomo Avineri, said on Israel television Thursday that Israel had turned down an offer by the Franco to establish relations with Israel in the 1950s.

Spain maintains friendly ties with some Arab countries and has sold weapons to Middle East Arab countries since Gonzalez took office. Spain's King Juan Carlos is a friend of Jordan's King Hussein and Saudi Arabian King Fahd. The Palestine Liberation Organization has an office in Madrid. The Netherlands Press Association reported from Madrid that today's signing ceremony took place in The Hague because Dutch Premier Ruud Lubbers had been instrumental in arranging the start of diplomatic relations. Israeli officials have said privately that Spain's Jan. 1 entry into the Common Market had been made conditional on the establishment of diplomatic ties with Israel. The Netherlands currently holds the rotating six-month presidency of the European trading bloc.

Recognition of Israel is also part of the Spanish Socialist Party's foreign policy program. Last Friday, Spanish Foreign Minister Francisco Fernandez Ordenez called Arab ambassadors to his office to reiterate Spain's intention to go ahead with the diplomatic recognition of Israel. On Jan. 5, members of the Arab League meeting in Tunisia called on Spain not to recognize Israel and said the league's secretary general, Chedli Klibi, would visit Spain to discuss the matter with government officials.

shuttle back to this spaceport. It also would cost the space agency an extra $1.5 million to $2 million, on top of the $1.5 million lost on Columbia's unprecedented seven launch delays.

A NASA statement issued Thursday said that an Edwards landing would mean cancellation of the March mission.

But William R. Graham, acting NASA administrator, said on NBC's "Today" show today that even with a West Coast landing, the flight would be possible. "We're determined to have that March mission," he said. "We'll put our sequence planning and our processing in such a way that we have the shuttle as close to the March 6 launch date as possible."

DURHAM — Wake Forest has faced both top-ranked North Carolina and third-ranked Duke within the last week, and Demon Deacon coach Bob Staak gives Duke the nod in this weekend's meeting between those squads.

"Of the two teams we've played the last two games, I'd give Duke a slight edge," Staak said. "But Carolina has (Warren) Martin back now and he makes a lot of difference. It will be as fine a game as people will see this year."

The Blue Devils raced away to a 92-63 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Wake Forest to raise its unbeaten streak to 16. Last weekend, Wake Forest absorbed an 89-65 loss from the Tar Heels, who have since beaten Maryland.

Duke didn't have the luxury of looking ahead to Saturday's game with North Carolina because it feared a tough battle with Wake Forest. The Demon Deacons had won four of the last six meetings between the teams, including two in Duke's Cameron Indoor Stadium.

"We couldn't look ahead. Wake has traditionally played well here," said Duke guard Johnny Dawkins. "We've been up 20 points or more and lost to Wake Forest in Cameron. So, we knew coming into this ball game we couldn't have a mental letup."

Duke avoided any chance of stumbling by using a smothering man-to-man defense to race ahead early in the first half. That same defense helped forge a 20-point halftime advantage which grew to 30 points in the second half.

"I'm not saying that Duke is the best team in the country, but they played like it tonight," Staak said. "This might be the best defense we have played against since I've been in coaching anywhere."

It was that defense that provided Duke with a fast start to keep Wake Forest in a hole.

"We managed to keep up the defensive intensity. We wanted to keep it a fast-paced game," said Dawkins, who scored 14 points. "By doing that, I think we got some of their guys to fatigue. They aren't as deep as they used to be and that was a problem."

Not only is the Duke-North

Carolina game a battle of ACC unbeaten and top-ranked powers, but it is the debut of the 21,426-seat Student Activities Center on the UNC campus. Duke sees it as another Saturday afternoon against an arch-rival.

"For them, it's a brand new coliseum, it's a grand opening," said David Henderson, who scored 17 points to pace the Blue Devils. "I don't feel any special feelings at all. A ball game is a ball game to me."

Henderson scored four of Duke's first eight points against Wake Forest, then added six more points late in the first half to help lead Duke to a 44-24 halftime lead.

A 10-3 run at the start of the second half pushed Duke's lead to 54-27 at the 17:08 mark as Dawkins hit two free throws. Jay Bilas added two free throws to push Duke lead to 66-36 with 13:12 remaining and a safe cushion.

Mark Alarie scored 12 points and Bilas added 10 for Duke.

Wake Forest, 6-10 and winless in five ACC games, got 15 points from Mark Cline and 14 from freshman Rod Watson, who collected 12 of his total in the first half. Another

Violation Information Discovered After ECU Fired Emory In 1984

East Carolina University officials said Thursday the school did not receive information that NCAA regulations may have been violated under former football coach Ed Emory until after Emory was fired and had filed a $1.2 million suit against the school.

In a statement released Thursday afternoon, ECU Chancellor John Howell said, "Following the termination of his employment (on Dec. 10, 1984), Mr. Emory made various demands upon ECU and subsequently filed suit. During the course of preparing a defense for Mr. Emory's claim, members of the Athletic Department at ECU and attorneys from the attorney general's office received information and documents which indicated that possible compliance irregularities with NCAA regulations may have occurred."

Howell said he notified the NCAA of the possible violations after being notified by the athletic department and the attorney general's office. "In accordance with ECU's obligations, I reported this information to the NCAA on April 23, 1985," adding "NCAA officials requested ECU to conduct an investigation and forward a report."

The investigation, Howell said, has included the questioning of Emory about compliance with NCAA rules. The questioning of Emory, Howell said, was included as a condition in the settlement of the lawsuit.

The suit, in which Emory charged breach of contract, was settled on Nov. 11, 1985 when the school agreed to pay Emory $139,583, without interest, in 25 monthly installments.

A Greensboro News & Record report Tuesday quoted sources as saying that the investigation involved allegations that ECU football players received cash payments under Emory.

In a telephone interview Thursday from Memphis, Tenn., where he is a volunteer coach for the Memphis Showboats of the U.S. Football League, Emory told the Associated Press, "I did not have any violations of the NCAA rules that (East Carolina) brought out in my tenure at the school. In the same part, I have never bought a player or illegally given payment to a player at East Carolina. While I was there, it has been as clean as any Division I school in the country."

According to Emory, "I have always talked to the athletic department. I have always believed in credibility and responsibility. I think that credibility is the most important thing. We try to abide by the rules."

"I will answer any questions," he said. "This is embarrassing to me and the program. We overcame great odds in the college football world to build a great program and then someone has put a damper on us and all the kids. I have never bought a player...never."

N.C. Attorney General Lacy Thornburg, who acknowledged that Emory was questioned about possible NCAA violations as part of the settlement of the suit, has declined to release a copy of the questions Emory was asked, or Emory's answers. However, Thornburg said "I am confident" that the university "will make these matters available to the public, and I have advised the

ECU Prepares For UNC-Wilmington

East Carolina will match its perimeter offense against one of the Colonial Athletic Association's most talented centers Saturday when the Pirates visit UNC-Wilmington.

Junior center Brian Rowsom comes into the game averaging 19.5 points and 9.4 rebounds per game for the Seahawks, now 1-3 in the CAA and 1-6 overall after a 62-73 loss to Akron Thursday. Rowsom had 17 points against Akron, and he surpassed the 1,000 career point mark Monday against Richmond.

Joining Rowsom in the Seahawks starting rotation are Bobby Jo Springer (14.3 points per game, 2.5 rebounds), Sandy Anderson (10.8, 2.5), Greg Bender (8.9, 5.1) and Charles Cherry (6.1, 5.5). Springer averages 3.5 assists per game while leading UNC-W by connecting on 85 percent from the free throw line.

Rowsom hits 55 percent of his shots from the floor and 78 percent from the line.

Top reserves for the Seahawks are 6-7 forward Kevan Myles (6.2, 2.9) and guard Mark Gary (4.5, 1.0).

The Pirates and Seahawks split last year, with UNC-W winning 58-56 at Trask Coliseum and ECU taking a 78-61 victory later at Minges Coliseum.

"The ECU series is always one our players and fans get up for," UNC-W Coach Mel Gibson said. "During our days as an independent, this game was one of only a few against local opponents, and the rivalry became stronger now that we're both in the CAA.

"This is not only for bragging rights in this part of the state, but more important is that it falls into the league standings."

The Pirates are currently 7-7 overall and 2-2 in the CAA after a 54-52 victory over William & Mary. Curt Vanderhorst's follow shot at the buzzer gave East Carolina its first road win in the conference since the 1981-82 season.

Junior forward Marchell Henry leads the Pirates averaging 14.6 points with 4.9 rebounds a game. Vanderhorst follows at 12.5 points and leads ECU with 5.6 rebounds a game, while center Leon Bass nets 9.1 points and 4.5 rebounds.

Point guard Scott Hardy (4.1, 1.3) and forward Keith Sledge (5.9, 2.8) round out the Pirates probable starters. Freshman Manuel Jones lead the ECU reserves with 4.6 points and 1.9 rebounds per game, while junior William Grady averages 4.4 points and 1.5 rebounds after returning from an injury.

East Carolina travels to Penn State Monday for a non-conference game. The Nittany Lions are coached by Bruce Parkhill, formerly head coach at William & Mary.

East Carolina Ready To Match Lady Seahawks

The Lady Pirates of East Carolina will put their unblemished Colonial Athletic Association record on the line Saturday when they host UNC-Wilmington, the only CAA team to beat ECU during the 1984-85 season.

The Lady Seahawks took a 79-70 win over East Carolina in the teams' second meeting a year ago, but ECU Coach Emily Manwaring is confident the Lady Pirates can handle UNC-W.

"If they play the best they can and we play the best we can, we'll win the game," Manwaring said. "We've got the shooters; we've got the offensive machine. We'll score points; it's just a matter of holding them down."

Although the Lady Seahawks are 7-5 after an 82-54 win over Baptist Thursday night, they have won just two out of seven games on the road so far. UNC-W is 2-1 in the CAA, while East Carolina is 2-0 in the league and 12-5 overall.

UNC-Wilmington is ranked fourth nationally in field goal percentage at 53.4 percent. Phyllis Edwards, a 5-11 sophomore forward, leads the Lady Seahawks at 57 percent from the floor. Jenny Owen, a reserve guard, connects on 67 percent from the field to lead the CAA but doesn't have enough attempts to be considered in the NCAA standings.

Forward Sissy Morse is the Lady Seahawks leading scorer at 13 points per game with 5.2 rebounds. Phyllis Edwards (12.3 points, 8.5 rebounds) is the other starting forward, with Elizabeth Bell (11.2, 6.5) at center, Sue Dean (6.0, 6.7) at guard and Wanda Carroll (8.3, 1.8) at point guard.

"Our goal is to put pressure on their shooters," Manwaring said. "If we use our speed on offense and contest their shots, we shouldn't have any problem."

Probable starters for East Carolina are forwards Lisa Squirewell (13.4, 7.5) and Loraine Foster (11.2, 3.7), guards Sylvia Bragg (12.7, 3.8) and Delphine Mabry (7.3, 3.0) and center Alma Bethea (8.2, 4.6).

Stadler Shares Hope Lead

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — There no longer is any such thing, suggested Craig Stadler, as playing safe, conservative or defensive on the PGA Tour.

"The scores are getting better all the time. The other guys are getting better all the time. There are too many guys out there not afraid of winning, who know how to win and have the games to win."

"The depth of the talent is amazing," Stadler said Thursday after a 7-under-par 65 at Indian Wells had given him a share of the second-round lead in the $600,000 Bob Hope Chrysler Classic at 132. He was tied with Larry Mize, who had a no-bogey 66 in warm, windless weather at Bermuda Dunes.

While he has the lead, and has a history of success in this five-day, 90-hole tournament, Stadler was far from complacent.

"I could shoot three under par each of the next three days and not have a chance," he said. "Twenty-one under is a pretty good score, but that's not going to do it here."

"The weather is too good. The courses are relatively short and in great condition. You're hitting a short iron at every green and the greens are holding. It's hard not to shoot a good number," said Stadler.

And the 128 pros provided an illustration of his remarks. After 36 holes, 101 are at par or better.

And there were some remarkable one-day efforts. The best round of the tournament, a 63, was compiled by Peter Oosterhuis, a British-born veteran who now lives in this desert resort area. His 9-under-par effort was at Bermuda Dunes, and he has a 2-round total of 138.

Donnie Hammond shot a 64, eight under par, at Indian Wells and was third alone at 133, one stroke off the pace.

It was two more shots back to a group of four tied at 135. They included first round co-leaders Hal Sutton and Bob Tway, each of whom had a 70 at La Quinta. Also at nine under par were John Cook, who had a 67 at Eldorado, and Gary Koch, who shot 68 at La Quinta.

Mac O'Grady shot 65 at Bermuda Dunes and was in a group at 136, very much in contention in the five-day, 90-hole tournament that offers $108,000 to the victor.

The format calls for the pros to play one round at each of four courses, each day with a different amateur team, before the field is cut for the pros-only final round Sunday at Bermuda Dunes.

Jaguars Sweep Skins

ROBERSONVILLE — Dennis Tripp powered inside for 18 points and Kennedy Williams added 17 as Farmville Central rolled past Roanoke 60-48 Thursday in high school basketball action.

Bernard Taylor chipped in 12 points for Farmville, now 6-7 overall. Derrick Boyd paced Roanoke with 23 points.

The Jaguars trailed 14-12 after the first quarter and 25-22 at halftime, but trimmed the margin with a 12-9 edge in the third quarter. Farmville blitzed the Redskins with a 26-14 scoring bulge in the final period to secure the victory.

In the girls' game, Lisa Lang posted 27 points as the Lady Jaguars took a 42-29 win over Roanoke.

Sheila Carlisle led the Lady Redskins with 18 points.

Gophers End Michigan's 19-Game League Streak

By The Associated Press
The Michigan Wolverines had been running roughshod over the Big Ten for nearly a year — until Minnesota ran them down.
The Gophers used second-ranked Michigan's own style to knock off the Wolverines 73-63 Thursday night. That ended Michigan's streak of 32 straight regular-season triumphs, including 19 in the Big Ten. The Wolverines are 16-1, 4-1 in the conference; Minnesota is 11-6 and 1-3.
Marc Wilson scored 22 of his 24 points in the second half as the host Gophers used a relentless fast break, something the Wolverines usually utilize to overwhelm the opposition.
"That's my game — transition," Wilson said. "There were a lot of open lanes and I just took them."
Wilson was 8-for-9 from the field and from the free-throw line.
"That's about as hard as Marc Wilson's ever worked, in practice or in a game," said Gophers Coach Jim Dutcher. "(The Wolverines) have got some big strong people, but when that ball gets behind them they've got to become sprinters."
Michigan couldn't sprint with the Gophers, though Coach Bill Frieder said they were trying.
"Our kids were running," he said.

"I just think they (Minnesota) played an outstanding game."
"This league is tough. You're not going to breeze through it. I'm never happy when we lose. Now that we lost, we've just got to learn from it."
Another ranked team, No. 12 Alabama-Birmingham, was victimized Thursday night, falling to Western Kentucky 75-72 in overtime.
Also, No. 3 Duke blasted Wake Forest 92-63; No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas 79, Cal-Santa Barbara 65; No. 17 Texas-El Paso held off Hawaii 65-63; 19th-rated Purdue got by Northwestern 85-64, and No. 20 Bradley routed West Texas State 78-53.
TOP 20
Duke avoided looking ahead to an ACC showdown with North Carolina on Saturday as David Henderson scored 17 points and Johnny Dawkins added 14 for the unbeaten Blue Devils, 16-0. It was the fourth conference victory for Duke, whose man-to-man pressure defense forced the Demon Deacons into continuous turnovers and poor shot selection.
Wake Forest had won four of the last six meetings between the two schools, including last year's meeting in Durham.
"The way we've looked at our season, we're gonna take things one game at a time," said senior Henderson. "I think we came in here expecting Wake Forest to give us a good ball game. We've always had trouble with Wake."

Anthony Jones scored 31 points to lead the Nevada-Las Vegas, 15-2 and 5-0 in the PCAA. The game was tied 34-34 but Jones's hot shooting led the Runnin' Rebels to a 22-8 burst in the second half.
UAB Coach Gene Bartow was steaming after Billy Gordon scored 20 points, including a 15-foot jump shot with five seconds left in overtime, to lead the Hilltoppers to an upset of the Blazers. Western snapped a 12-game home court winning streak for the Blazers, 16-3 on the season and 4-1 in the Sun Belt. Western Kentucky is 12-3 and 2-1.
"We've never won a league championship in the last three years, and I guess we're not going to if we can't line up and win against a team we're favored to beat by a pretty big margin," Bartow said. "We have a tendency to get hotdoggish, and committed six turnovers when we had a chance to put them away."
Guard Steve Mitchell broke the all-time school scoring record with 1,589 points, shattering the previous

Former Ali Sparring Foes Set For WBA Title Bout

ATLANTA (AP) — In the audience for tonight's Tony Tubbs-Tim Witherspoon World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight will be a man who once used both of the participants as sparring partners.
Muhammad Ali, the three-time heavyweight champion, will be marking his 44th birthday at the 18,000-seat Omni for the scheduled 15-round bout, scheduled to begin about 10 p.m. EST. It will be televised by HBO.
Ali sparred with both men this week, although each threw hardly any punches at Ali's head.
Both Tubbs and Witherspoon became champions by beating Greg Page.

Tubbs, 27, won the title at stake tonight on a 15-round unanimous decision over Page last April 29. He enters his first defense with a 22-0 record with 15 knockouts.
Witherspoon won the vacant World Boxing Council title on a 12-round majority decision over Page on March 9, 1984. He subsequently lost the title on a 12-round majority decision to Pinklon Thomas on Aug. 12, 1984.
Witherspoon's only other loss was on a 12-round split decision in a WBC title bid against Larry Holmes on May 20, 1983. Since losing to Thomas, he has won five fights and has a 23-2 record with 16 knockouts.
Page also will fight on tonight's card, as will heavyweight contenders Trevor Berbick, David Bey, Eddie Gregg and Mitch Green.
"If I get by Tim Witherspoon, there will be more money for me," said Tubbs, who reportedly is getting about $125,000, by far his biggest purse.
The winner of tonight's fight could end up in bouts next year with the WBC champion, currently Pinklon Thomas, and the International Boxing Federation champion, now Michael Spinks.
Promoters Don and Butch Lewis have been discussing an HBO proposal that would lead to an undisputed heavyweight champion in 1987.

"A fighter can make more money with three belts than with one," Tubbs said. "I'm willing to take my best shot."
Witherspoon, who got $200,000 when he beat Page and $450,000 when he lost to Thomas, is getting $50,000 to challenge Tubbs.
The 6-foot-3 Tubbs officially weighed 244 pounds Thursday. That was 15 pounds more than he weighed when he won the title. Witherspoon, also 6-3, weighed 227.
The only defending champions who weighed more than Tubbs were Primo Carnera and Jess Willard.
While Tubbs has 15 knockouts, he does not like to brawl. His style is to move and to counter, sometimes leading with sweeping left hooks.
"He really doesn't like pressure," Witherspoon said. "I got to make the fight. I feel like if I hit Tony Tubbs hard and hurt him early, it's all over with. When you bang Tony Tubbs, he doesn't fight."
"It takes two fighters to turn it into a slugging match," Tubbs said. "Tim is a better slugger than I am. I'm a boxer. I've got to keep my cool."
"Most of the time I box an opponent, but if I see the shot, I take the shot."
Page, 236, will fight Buster Douglas, 230; Berbick, 221, will meet Mike Perkins, 208; Bey, 236, will fight Wes Smith, 249; Gregg, 222, will box Walter Santemore, 237; and Green, 225, will fight Percell Davis, 248.

Lakers Top Clippers 112-96

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Coach Don Chaney of the Los Angeles Clippers knows opportunities like this don't come along often.
His team had the defending National Basketball Association champion Los Angeles Lakers down and ailing. But, for the Clippers this season, even that is not enough of an advantage.
The Lakers, missing two starters felled by injuries, defeated the Clippers 112-96 Thursday night at the Forum and remained unbeaten in two years of a cross-town rivalry that hasn't been much of one.
"They were primed to be beaten tonight," Chaney said of the Lakers. "We've never beaten them since we've moved to Los Angeles, and if we ever were, this was the night."
All-Star guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson and starting forward Kurt Rambis were both missing Thursday night. However, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 26 points and Byron Scott's 23, the Lakers barely noticed their absence.

Riley was also pleased with the performances of Maurice Lucas, who had 14 rebounds, and Michael Cooper, who contributed 13 assists, in their rare starting roles.
"Our depth becomes a lot more productive when they have an opportunity to play with (James) Worthy and Kareem," Riley said.
The Clippers had a chance to tie the game with 6:45 left in the third quarter, but James Worthy blocked a Norm Nixon shot and passed to Scott, who dunked.
The Lakers went on to score 19 of the game's next 25 points to take an 84-67 lead with 1:31 to play in the third quarter.
The Clippers were not able to get closer than eight points the rest of the game.
Kurt Nimphius led the Clippers with 21 points. For the Lakers, rookie A.C. Green had 21 and Worthy added 19.
Marques Johnson of the Clippers hurt his right leg in the first quarter and had to leave the game in the third quarter with a stiff muscle.

Earvin Johnson had suffered a bruised right knee in a collision with Larry Nance of the Phoenix Suns Tuesday night and Rambis missed the game with a sprained left ankle.
Bucks 114, Bullets 98
Terry Cummings scored a game-high 35 points as Milwaukee took an early lead and hung on to defeat Washington.
The 6-foot-9 forward, who had 14 points in the first quarter, provided 12 in the third during which the Bucks led by as many as 23 points before the Bullets narrowed the margin to six points in the final period.
Milwaukee led 30-17 at the end of the first quarter and 59-48 at the half. Washington's 10-0 surge at the end of the third quarter cut the gap to 83-70.
The Washington rally continued in the fourth period as the Bullets, largely due to a hot hand by Gus

Williams, sliced the Bucks' lead to 95-89 with 5:20 remaining on a driving layup by guard Leon Wood.
Wood finished with 25 points. Williams added 24 for the Bullets.
Hawks 116, Cavaliers 99
Dominique Wilkins scored 26 points to lead six Atlanta players in double figures as the Hawks pounded Cleveland.
Atlanta moved from a 30-22 first period lead to a 71-45 halftime edge on the shooting of Wilkins and Randy Wittman. Wittman added 18 points for the Hawks, winners for the seventh time in eight games.
The Hawks enjoyed their biggest lead at 71-43 just seconds before halftime.
Cleveland, however, losers of five of its last six, made a 21-0 run in the third period on the scoring of Roy Hinson and World Free to cut Atlanta's margin to 78-74 with 3:06 left in the period.
The Hawks settled down to take an 89-78 lead after three periods and were never in trouble after that.

university to do so" at the appropriate time.
The attorney general said "Mr. Emory's oral examination is part of the fact-finding investigation to be presented to the NCAA and is therefore not a public record at this time."
Howell said this morning that "I'm not sure" when the report will be sent to the NCAA, adding, "I don't think it will be long." He also said "we haven't really gotten down to deciding when" to release the questions Emory was asked or Emory's answers. "We haven't made up our mind on that."
According to Howell, "the nature of the fact-finding study, where you are obligated to run down every clue that seems at all valid, results in your questioning people who are very likely to be completely clear of any wrongdoing. We really don't want to subject anybody to that sort of publicity...damage is what it would be...unless we absolutely have to."

Howell also said the university is "operating as an agent of the NCAA" in the fact-finding study and as such "is not drawing conclusions on any of this."
"They could have sent a team down" to conduct the investigation, Howell said, "or say to us 'you do it and give us the information.' The choice they made on that indicates something about what they think of us and the job we'll do in getting the facts to them."
The chancellor said the university's board of trustees would discuss the matter in executive session during a regular meeting on the ECU campus this afternoon.

NISSAN HARDBODY TOUGH

INTRODUCING THE HARDBODIES— A TOTALLY NEW LINE OF TRUCKS.

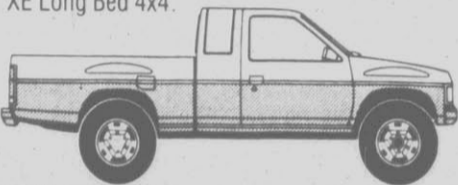

The hood slopes. The windshield rakes. The fenders flare. Here's sculpted steel in a revolutionary new shape. So tough, so powerful, so utterly bold in styling, this full line of trucks could only be called Hardbodies. A breakthrough concept in compact truck design from Nissan, the company that started the small truck revolution in America.

Standard Regular Bed 4x2.

XE Long Bed 4x4.

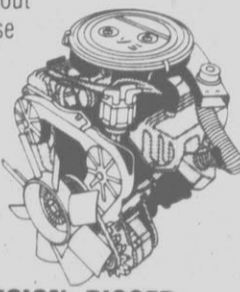

SE King Cab® 4x4.

TOTALLY NEW ENGINEERING— EVERY TRUCK FUEL-INJECTED.

Regular Bed, Long Bed, King Cab: 4x2, 4x4. The only full line of fuel-injected trucks. With a re-gear powertrain that delivers more real power and torque to the rear wheels.

BIGGEST V-6 IN THE CLASS.

Workout the biggest engine in any compact truck ever—Nissan's new 3.0 liter overhead cam V-6. With 140 horsepower, no other compact truck pumps out more power. Or, choose Nissan's twin-spark, hemi-head 2.4 liter NAPS-Z engine. It's got the most power—106 horsepower—and torque of the leading standard compact trucks.

TOTALLY NEW DESIGN—BIGGER, ROOMIER INSIDE.

Nissan created this new truck around its most important payload—you—the driver. The cab is Nissan's biggest ever. Big side windows and a huge windshield provide Nissan's best-ever visibility. New insulation reduces interior noise. Ventilation is improved, too. Nissan calls it ergonomics. You'll just call it intelligent. With full instrumentation laid out the way it should be. Easy to read. Easy to reach.

TOTALLY NEW SHAPE—SLEEKER, LONGER, WIDER OUTSIDE.

Double walls of steel shape a cargo box so wide and deep, this new truck has the biggest cargo volume of any leading standard compact truck. Muscular steel wraps around the longest, widest, most aerodynamic truck Nissan's ever built. It's wider, too, between the wheel wells, accommodating a wider track and bigger tires. In fact, the SE 4x4 features the biggest factory-available tires of any compact truck.

Incredible attention was paid to even the smallest details. Case in point—the tie-down hooks. They're hidden-set into the cargo-side walls until you pop them out. Pop-up hooks are a Nissan exclusive, standard on all SE models.

The Hardbodies. Bold. Taut. Muscular. There's never been a line of trucks in better condition.

THE NAME IS NISSAN

Gomez Rushes Into Nabisco Semifinal

NEW YORK (AP) — West Germany's Boris Becker, who expected to do well, and Ecuador's Andres Gomez, who expected to have the week off, are nestled in the semifinals of the $500,000 Nabisco Masters tennis championships, waiting for the world's No. 1 player.

"My picture's not in the program," said Gomez, who was rushed into the 16-player field at the last minute when fourth-seeded Jimmy Connors withdrew because of illness. "People don't even know I'm in the tournament. It's like they came here and said, 'Who's this guy, and what happened to Connors?'"

"If I lose, nobody will know. And if I win, people will say, 'Who is he?'"

Becker, on the other hand, was considered one of the favorites in this season-ending tournament. And his way was cleared considerably when defending champion John McEnroe was a first-round upset victim to Brad Gilbert.

On Thursday, Becker blasted his way past third-seeded Mats Wilander of Sweden 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 after Gomez ousted Johan Kriek 6-3, 6-2.

Tonight, the semifinal pairings will be completed when top-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia plays Tim Mayotte and Sweden's Anders Jarryd takes on Gilbert. The Lendl-Mayotte winner will battle Gomez in Saturday's semifinal, while Becker will face the Jarryd-Gilbert winner.

"I'm not thinking about who I have to play next," Gomez said. "This is just like a free week for me. I'm here because somebody pulled out and they had no player. I'm just here to fulfill a commitment."

He also is fulfilling a dream that has been delayed by illness and injury.

The Ecuadorian left-hander qualified for the Masters doubles in 1981, but had to withdraw when his partner, Hans Gildemeiser of Chile, became ill. Then, in 1984, an injury forced Gomez to retire during his quarterfinal match against Lendl.

He qualified for the Masters again last year, but suffered another injury and had to withdraw.

"I'm playing pretty relaxed and I'm really not thinking of playing," Gomez said. "It's like I'm not really thinking about playing the tournament. I'm not feeling the pressure."

But the fans with the cowbells were back at Madison Square Garden, a sure sign that Gomez was on court.

"They weren't here on Tuesday because they didn't know I was coming," Gomez said of his bell-ringing fans, native Ecuadorians who now live in New York. "But now they know, so they came."

"I try to give them as many victories as I can because they are so loyal to me."

Both Gomez and Becker powered their way to victory, with Becker's booming serve delighting the crowd and frustrating his opponent.

"He served better than I did on the important points," Wilander said of his 18-year-old conqueror, the youngest, first unseeded player and first German to capture the men's singles title at Wimbledon. "I think he improved quite a lot after Wimbledon. He's pretty good now. I hope he doesn't improve any more."

Becker said Wilander's style of play actually helped him get into the match. It was the German's fourth consecutive victory over Wilander since the Swede beat him en route to the French Open title last May.

"At the French, he gave me a good tennis lesson," Becker said. "Since then I learned a lot. I know now that I can play from the baseline, but I also know that can play serve-and-volley and can beat him."

Wilander, Becker said, "always plays from the backcourt with high topspin. If you don't have a touch, you get a touch for sure."

In one of the best-played matches in the tournament so far, not much separated Becker and Wilander with the exception of the teen-ager's booming serve. He finished with 10 aces compared to three for the Swede.

And, Becker also drew a Code of Conduct warning in the eighth game of the third set, a game that provided him with the crucial service break.

On one point, Becker dove to his left, trying to reach a backhand volley. As he got up from the indoor carpet, he looked toward the stands where his coach, Gunther Bosch, and manager, Ion Tiriac, were sitting.

"Code violation, coaching. Warning, Mr. Becker," intoned umpire Rich Kaufman.

"I fell down and went to the chair to get a towel," Becker explained.

Then he chuckled. "There were other moments they could have said things," he said of the umpire.

Becker won the last four points of that game to break Wilander, then closed out the match by holding serve at 15.

"At the end of the third set, I felt like I had a chance to beat him," Wilander said. "I think that he showed his strength when I had him 15-30 at 3-3 and he hit three first serves in and saved the game. I think that shows that he has strength."

Gomez has the cowbells and a payday he wasn't expected. Even if he loses in Saturday's semifinals, he will pocket $35,000 on a week he hadn't expected to be playing.

Akron Tops UNC-W

WILMINGTON (AP) — Mike Dowdell came off the bench to score 18 points to lead five Akron players in double figures as the Zips downed North Carolina-Wilmington 82-73 in college basketball Thursday night.

Dowdell, who did not start the contest because he missed a team practice Thursday, hit all six of his shots from the field and six-of-eight from the foul line to lead the Zips, 10-3, to their eighth straight victory.

The Seahawks, 9-6, took an early six-point first-half lead, but center Brian Rowsom got into foul trouble and the Zips took advantage by going to center Shawn Roberts, who scored all 10 of his points in the first half.

After grabbing a 36-32 halftime lead, the Zips didn't led the Seahawks get any closer than four points. The Seahawks stayed close due to the 12 for 12 foul shooting of Bobby Jo Springer.

John Loyer added 11 points for the Zips, while Roberts, Doug Schutz and Russell Holmes had 10 each.

Rowsom led the Seahawks with 17 points, while Springer had 16.

Dome Security Poses Problems

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The best way to ensure a trouble-free Super Bowl is for highly visible politicians to follow President Reagan's lead and sit home to watch the game on television, said the man who runs the Louisiana Superdome.

The day Jimmy Carter visited the Sugar Bowl to watch Georgia win the national college football championship five years ago is still remembered as the worst game-related experience ever endured by the staff and patrons of the 10-year-old, $163 million sports palace.

For security reasons, Interstate 10 and the streets around the Superdome were blocked for an hour before the game and again well after the game was over. Traffic jams reached into the city's suburbs.

"We had people getting into the game in the third quarter," recalled Cliff Wallace of HMC Management, the company that has run the Superdome for the state since 1980.

Elevators were blocked before and after the game, and a lot of box suite owners had terrible times getting through Secret Service checkpoints and into their seats near the luxury box where Carter sat.

"Let me tell you the biggest problem for a management company for an event like the Super Bowl. It's our national or even state figure who needs or wants undue special attention," Wallace said.

"We don't have time for that. Our primary interest is the 75,000 people paying to see this event. The last thing we need is some senator coming down on a bus wanting special parking and special consideration for his party."

"The best advice I could give to President Reagan or Vice President George Bush or anyone else who requires special attention is that they'd be a lot more comfortable watching it on television in front of their fire. And our 75,000 people would be more comfortable."

Reagan has already said he won't be at the game. He's scheduled for a five-minute interview from the White House during the two-hour pregame show.

Experience, planning and hard work will take care of other problems, Wallace said. It's the sixth Super Bowl for New Orleans, the third since the Superdome opened in 1975. The 1970, 1972 and 1975 Super Bowls were in since-demolished Tulane Stadium, the 1978 and 1981 games in the dome.

Gerry Wright had 19 points and Roy Marble added 18 and 11 rebounds for Iowa, 13-4 overall, 3-1 in the Big Ten. Glynn Blackwell scored 18 points for Illinois, which snapped a three-game slide in the Big Ten.

Bill Donovan hit a 10-foot jump shot with one second left in overtime as Providence upended BC in the Big East. Donovan had made two free throws with four seconds left in regulation to force the OT.

Terry Coner's pair of free throws with three seconds to go clinched Alabama's 60-56 win over Auburn. Coner led the Tide with 18 points and eight assists.

Junior Reggie Miller scored 35 points — including 17 consecutive free throws — and Montel Hatcher notched a career-high 27 points to lead UCLA over Arizona State.

Derrick Dowell capped a 23-point performance with a short flip shot with 26 seconds left that broke a tie for Southern California, which trailed by as many as 10 points in the second half. Dowell drove the right baseline and hit a three-foot shot that gave the Trojans their first lead of the game at 63-61.

The Wildcats had a chance to tie the game when Joe Turner was fouled as time expired as he attempted a follow shot. Turner hit the first free throw, but missed the second.

mark of 1,577 points set by Oliver Robinson from 1978-82.

Texas-El Paso needed 19 points from forward Juden Smith, including seven in the last four minutes, to hold off Hawaii.

The Miners improved their overall record to 15-2 and 4-1 in the Western Athletic Conference, while Hawaii absorbed its 12th straight loss and fell to 3-13 overall.

Texas-El Paso led 37-25 at halftime before the Rainbows rallied. Hawaii trailed 64-63 with 16 seconds left in the game before falling short.

Sophomore forward Todd Mitchell had 11 second-half points, including six in a 14-point run to start the second half for Purdue, 4-1 in conference play and 15-3 overall.

Mitchell and sophomore guard Troy Lewis each had 19 points for Purdue.

Bradley, which has had some last-minute victories recently, was happy to have a breather. Sophomore guard Hersey Hawkins scored 21 points to lead the 17-1 Braves, who are 4-0 in the MVC. Bradley never trailed in the game and shot 68 percent from the field.

"I am more pleased with the way our bench played," Coach Dick Versace said. "We adjusted and got down to playing long periods of defense."

You don't get many opportunities to defeat opposing contracts. Therefore, it is critical to accept those chances when they come.

This hand is from the Mixed Pairs Championship of the European Economic Community Championships. Italian star Dano de Falco reached four hearts on the auction shown. West led the jack of spades, which held, and continued the suit for declarer to ruff. Now South displayed impeccable technique.

He cashed the ace and king of trumps, then led the ten of diamonds. West covered with the king and dummy's ace won. All that was left to do was for declarer to ruff dummy's last spade just in case East had preempted with a six-card suit. Since it would not help to over-ruff, West discarded a club. However, he was only postponing the inevitable. Declarer threw him in with the queen of trumps and, whether West exited with a diamond or a club, he had to present declarer with a trick in whichever suit he chose.

While declarer's technique was impressive, we are sure our eagle-eyed readers will have spotted that the defense had slipped. And, as so often happens, the error occurred at the very first trick!

East can take his partner off the looming end play if he overtakes with the king of spades and shifts to a club. The defenders are now assured of a trick with the king of clubs; and when West is thrown in with his master trump later in the hand, he will be able to exit safely with a club and sit back and wait for the diamond trick that will defeat the contract. The defense is entitled to a trick in each suit.

Cocaine Find

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — Three duffel bags containing about 250 pounds of cocaine found in some woods may be linked to a drug agent-turned smuggler who died while parachuting in Tennessee, authorities say.

The bags matched those carried by Andrew Thornton II when he parachuted to his death in Knoxville last September, said Charles McMichen, assistant agent in charge of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation's Atlanta regional drug office.

Since Thornton's death, eight other duffel bags full of cocaine have been found scattered across northern Georgia. A total of 760 pounds of the drug linked to Thornton has been recovered.

The latest find "appeared to be undisturbed," McMichen said, unlike some found last month that had been ripped open, apparently by a bear. The bear's carcass was near the remains of about 88 pounds of cocaine.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 18, 1986

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you would be wise to concentrate upon the practical aspects of your existence, to find out just where you stand in your assets and obligations.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study the new practical enterprise you have started and be sure of the benefits you are to get from it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get yourself in right hands and get your appearance and health improved today and feel aces by the time evening rolls around.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan just how to make your ambitions come true, particularly in private life. Get tasks handled that can deter your progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get at those private matters that can give you the feeling of well being and that living is a wonderful adventure.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Early get into the outside world and handle important matters well. Some favor for a bigwig can bring added benefits to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some new plan which is fine but need more data to work out the details of it nicely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An enterprise that means much to you can be improved with the aid of one who has the right information.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can now discuss details with a partner and reach a better accord if you are both broad-minded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep that promise you have made in a calm and precise way now, and please all concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make the preparations now for the amusements ahead with congenials and then all works out well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't allow an outside problem to disturb the equanimity at home, but plan quietly just how to solve it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure that your car is in good running order and that you drive carefully today. Recklessness could bring you much trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very capable at whatever has to do with business or money. Give as fine a business course as you can and send to the best schools. Your progeny will be very magnetic but teach to use this quality in the right way.

Tribal Warriors Joining Fighting In South Yemen

SAN'A, North Yemen (AP) — Fighting in South Yemen has spread to all six provinces, with tribal warriors rushing into the battle between two Marxist factions vying for control of the pro-Soviet nation, diplomats and other sources in the region said.

Sources in North Yemen, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the warring groups agreed Thursday to meet at the Soviet Embassy in South Yemen's capital of Aden for cease-fire negotiations, but the outcome of the talks was not known.

Meanwhile, battles raged across the Nevada-sized country at the southwestern tip of the Arabian Peninsula, the sources said, with armed tribesmen reportedly fighting alongside military personnel using modern weapons.

"The two sides are using tanks, artillery and jets in what appears to be escalating into a full-scale civil war," said one diplomatic source in San'a who is in close contact with South Yemeni developments.

"The situation in Aden remains ambiguous," said another diplomat in North Yemen. "It is difficult to say with any degree of certainty who is winning or who is losing. But what is certain is the tribes are up in arms in at least two regions outside Aden in support of the rebels."

The fighting apparently began when hardline Marxists opposing President Ali Nasser Mohammed's reported desire to liberalize the economy and improve relations with pro-Western Arab countries tried to topple him in a coup Monday.

The Soviet Union has a heavy stake in South Yemen, its closest ally on the Arabian Peninsula. The Soviets maintain important naval bases in the impoverished country, and can station up to 18,000 troops there under a friendship and cooperation treaty signed in 1979.

Diplomatic sources in San'a said they had no indication whether the Soviets were actively involved in the fighting on either side.

Base Of Ancient Building Located

LONDON (AP) — Archaeologists have located foundations of the 1,800-year-old north wall of the Basilica, Roman London's city hall and the largest known civic building of its day north of the Alps.

Brian Holey, chief urban archaeologist at the Museum of London, said Thursday the foundations were discovered in the heart of London's financial district as workmen began excavations for an office building off Leadenhall Street, one of the major arteries.

The Legal and General insurance company, which is putting up the office building, has agreed to halt construction until next Oct. 1 so the museum experts can study the site, measuring and photographing as they go.

"Three-quarters of the complex has been destroyed by development over the centuries. So this is our last chance to investigate one of London's most valuable and historic sites," Holey said.

He said historians have known the general location of the Basilica since 1923, but that this was the first scientific excavation of the ancient complex.

The ancient Romans conquered Britain in A.D. 43 on orders of the Emperor Claudius, made it part of the empire, and then abandoned it in A.D. 407.

Some historians believe London began when the Romans built a bridge across the Thames and set up a camp. The camp became a fort and then a fortified town, which they called Londinium.

Redd Foxx Returns To TV Prime Time On Saturdays

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Cosby wanted to play a struggling chauffeur until the producers of the "The Cosby Show," believing that audiences wouldn't accept him as a character scrapping to make ends meet, cast him as a financially comfortable obstetrician.
But Redd Foxx is another matter. Once a junk dealer, always a junk dealer. This time, in the new "Redd Foxx Show" that begins Saturday night on ABC, he's moved from the sarcastic, scheming character on "Sanford and Son" to a close relative of that same spicy old-timer.
Foxx plays the cantankerous proprietor of a coffee shop-newstand in New York City. Thankfully, he's brought along his acerbic, me-against-the-world humor, and he still has the knack for delivering an engaging putdown, even on himself:
—"I'm old. I forget everything," he says about the rigors of age.
—"Don't squeeze me too tight. You cut the blood off to my foot," he complains to a social worker who's wrapped him in an affectionate bearhug.

—"Me and you got a personality problem," he tells a teen-ager who is angling to become his foster child. "Your personality."
Scratch off several layers of crust and Foxx's characters really are lovable, caring and humane. The same can be said for "The Redd Foxx Show." It's not screamingly funny, but it's amiable and warm-spirited, and by the end of the program, the gravelly voiced Foxx will have won you over.
Foxx plays Al Hughes, a grumpy widower who, with his late wife, had offered love and a family atmosphere for several wayward boys. But now, living alone in his apartment upstairs from the coffee shop, he expresses his reluctance to take on another misguided kid.
His all-knowing waitress knows better, though. She recognizes that he's just afraid to care deeply about another youngster, only to have the kid grow up on him and leave. "No man is an island. John Donne, 1621," she says.
"I am what I am, and that's all that I am. Popeye, 1932," he replies.
Saturday's opening episode deals with Al's resistance. Without a foster home, 15-year-old Toni Rutledge (Pamela Segall) will be shipped off to a detention center. The social worker (Lynne Moody) says Al's place is the kid's last hope.
Of course, Al comes around. He'd be the last to admit it, but he needs to give affection and get it, too, especially with his wife gone. Toni, a troubled tomboy whose father abandoned her 10 years before, eventually moves in.
It's a good deal for both; they need each other — a premise that will remind viewers of "Archie Bunker's Place" after Edith died and Archie's niece moved in.
Toni is bound to take the humdrum out of Al's life, for better and for worse. They're both stubborn and street-smart, so they'll be each other's problems and solutions. Having taken on only boys as reclamation projects, this new girl in his life also will be a different kind of relationship.

The adult characters seem more cartoonish, but there is potential. Rosana De Soto plays Diana, a lippy, leggy Puerto Rican spitfire who is Al's waitress and short-order cook. Chris Nash plays Billy Van Zandt, an attempt at an offbeat character like The Fonz in "Happy Days." Billy is a greaser studying to be a beautician.
The show's outdoor setting is a phony looking corner of New York City. Al's newstand-coffee shop is next to a subway stop, from where all manner of urban guerrillas and gorrillas ascend.

Pianist Plans Soviet Recitals

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Vladimir Horowitz, who left his native Russia 61 years ago vowing never to return, has announced plans to play two recitals in the Soviet Union this spring.
"Before I die, I want to see the country in which I was born," the 81-year-old virtuoso said Thursday.
"But I didn't want to go home as a tourist," he said. "I wanted to play."
The first concert is slated for April 20 at the Bolshoi Theater in Moscow and the other a week later at Leningrad's Shostakovich Hall.
They are a result of renewed cultural exchanges between the United States and the Soviet Union arranged at the Geneva summit in November between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, said Horowitz's manager, Peter Geib.

Television Helps La Scala

MILAN, Italy (AP) — La Scala, Italy's most prestigious opera theater, is expected to end a long streak of multimillion dollar deficits and break even this year thanks to growing commercial sponsorship and television rights.

Carlo Maria Badini, who took over the financially troubled "temple of bel canto" in 1977, says a new managerial approach and timely delivery of state funds have helped restore La Scala's financial health.

The popular telecasts of La Scala productions to households around the world also will help the company, Badini said.

"We are prepared to enter the era of satellites, to telecast our operas into the houses of Americans, Russians and Japanese," he said.

Milan's opera purists were upset when the name of the first commercial sponsor showed on La Scala's playbills three years ago. They said that television lights and cameras "disturbed the sacred atmosphere."

However, sponsorships and other commercial activities of the Milan theater have been greatly expanded since then to increase earnings, said Sergio Escobar, a theater official in charge of commercial activities and contracts.

The yearly 200 performances of the theater are always sold out despite an average cost of tickets believed to be among the highest in the world.

The best seats in the house, with a capacity of 2,100, sell for $70. An orchestra seat cost $388 on opening night, Dec. 7. At the Metropolitan Opera in New York, tickets range from $14 for a family circle seat to $85 for a parterre box seat.

Milan's economic weekly, Il Mondo, reported that the gala opening, which featured Giuseppe Verdi's "Aida" with Luciano Pavarotti, brought in $820,000 in box-office receipts, commercial sponsorship and TV and video rights.

La Scala officials would not disclose the amount of the company's commercial activities. However, observers have said the 1984-85 season was almost $1.2 million and $1.76 million for the current season.

Commercial enterprises included a joint venture with the British group, National Video Corporation, for marketing radio and TV productions of La Scala works, and royalties from a perfume called "Teatro Alla Scala" launched by the Italian fashion designer, Krizia.

La Scala's future, said Badini, will be in television and videocassettes.

La Scala has organized only a few tours abroad because theater officials maintain that performances lose much of their glamour away from the original theater.

Last year, La Scala received $24 million in state subsidies, between 65 percent to 70 percent of its total revenue.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
The Pitt County Board of Commissioners along with the County Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing on February 11, 1986 at 7:00 P.M. at the County Board of Commissioners Hall for the purpose of amending, adopting or repealing the following rules:
1. Amend 2 NCAC 9K 0206, Frozen Dessert Mix/Standards for use, as follows:
(a) A person shall not distribute, sell, or offer for sale any frozen dessert mix, other than yogurt mix, that is or has been frozen.
(b) Yogurt mix may be frozen at the point of manufacture. Prior to transferring to a retail outlet, the distributor must thaw the mix under refrigeration temperatures of 35 F - 40 F.
(c) Amend 2 NCAC 9K 0212, Bacterial Plate Count and Coliform Counts, as follows:
Ice cream, other frozen milk products, water ices, and all mixes in dry form, at no time after pasteurization and until delivery or consumption, shall show a bacterial plate count in excess of 50,000 bacteria per gram/coliform counts shall not exceed 10 colonies per gram or chocolate, fruit, nut or other flavors.
G.S. 106-248; 106-253; 106-267
2. Amend 2 NCAC 9K 0201, Adoption by Reference, as follows:
The board hereby adopts the National Bureau of Standards, Handbook 44, 1984 edition, "Specifications, Tolerances, and Other Technical Requirements for Weighing and Measuring Devices" except as otherwise indicated in this Chapter. The tolerances section of Section 5.6 of Handbook 44, relating to Grain Moisture Meters is specifically not included in this adoption by reference.
G.S. 81A-2; 150B-14
4. Amend 2 NCAC 38 0203, Type Approval of Weighing and Measuring Devices, as follows:
(a) Each and every type or model or pattern or design or weight or measure or weighing or measuring device intended for use in trade in this state, generally known as commercial meters, shall first and before such use be submitted and/or demonstrated by the manufacturer for the purpose of approval, and the expense incurred in obtaining such approval shall be borne by the manufacturer in accordance with G.S. 81A-10.
(b) However, the director may accept in lieu of the requirement in (a) of this Rule, a Certificate of Conformance issued by the National Bureau of Standards.

King Holiday Still Point Of Contention

By ROBERT BARR
Associated Press Writer

Monday will be just another day at work for employees of 22 state governments and for most workers in private industry, although it is the first federal holiday in honor of Martin Luther King Jr.

Eighteen states do not recognize the holiday. Iowa and South Carolina do but keep their employees at work anyway, while Delaware and Maryland celebrated Wednesday, the actual anniversary of King's birth.

Walter Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the San Francisco Labor Council AFL-CIO, says all but 15,000 to 20,000 of the workers represented by his union will be working. Those off are school and government employees.

"I think it will be something that people will be seeking in their bargaining," Johnson said. "I think it will be a big issue."

By federal law, the third Monday of January is a holiday for reflection "on the principles of racial equality and nonviolent social change" that guided King, who was born Jan. 15, 1929, and murdered April 4, 1968.

Arguments about the cost and appropriateness of the holiday burn on, however, in scattered states and communities.

A legislative committee in Utah, for instance, approved legislation Thursday establishing a King holiday.

In Rochester, N.Y., City Court Judge William H. Bristol says he plans to work Monday even though it is a state and city holiday.

"What do you think Dr. King would say? 'Honor me by taking off and letting people, mostly poor people, sit in jail?' I don't think so," Bristol said.

It also will be a legal holiday in Iowa, but state workers won't get the day off. The Iowa Executive Council polled state employees and found they would rather have a day off in February, so they get Presidents' Day off.

"Shame on them," said Rudy Simms, director of the Des Moines office of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. "It should be a holiday for the entire nation, and the state shouldn't opt out."

Iowa's Secretary of State, Mary Jane Odell, said there was no intention of disparaging the holiday, "but it's a matter of practicality and giving our employees what they want."

In California, Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington state and Wisconsin, King's birthday is a holiday for the first time this year.

Private businesses generally are ignoring the holiday, but many employers offered workers the opportunity to attend King celebrations with pay.

The Central Illinois Employers' Association surveyed 84 businesses in its area and found that no factories would be closed. Only 11 percent of banks, insurance agencies and similar businesses plan to close, said Sandy Lang, a secretary.

James Fahey, manager of communications for International Business Machines Corp. in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., said employees would be given time off to appear in or attend programs or services honoring King.

Monday will be a holiday in Montgomery, Ala., where a young King led a 382-day bus boycott beginning in 1955, and in Selma, Ala., where he led voting rights marchers to confrontations with law enforcement officers at a bridge in 1965.

"Dr. King was to America what Jesus was to a sinner, and that was a savior," said Selma Councilman Lorenzo Harrison, who sponsored the holiday resolution.

In Memphis, where King was killed 18 years ago, the date of the death is a city holiday but the city council has refused to add a birthday holiday in January. Public employees are resisting a proposal to celebrate the birthday instead of the death date.

—Alabama and Arkansas honor Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee as well as King on Monday, while Virginia's holiday remembers both and also Gen. Stonewall Jackson, another rebel commander.

—State workers in Oregon didn't know they would have Monday off until this week, when an arbitrator ruled that a 1985 law creating a state holiday in King's honor automatically made all workers eligible for a paid day off.

—State workers in South Carolina, for the third year, have the choice of a day off on King's birthday, Lee's birthday Jan. 19, Confederate Memorial Day May 10, or Jefferson Davis' birthday June 3.

—In Louisiana, King day will be celebrated only in even-numbered years, starting this Monday.

N.C. Was Among First

RALEIGH (AP) — The bill designating Martin Luther King's birthday as a state holiday was the first ratified during the 1983 General Assembly session, a gesture the bill's sponsor called symbolic.

As North Carolina prepares to celebrate the slain civil rights leader's birthday for the first time Monday, former state House member Kenneth Spaulding remembers the day with some pride.

"It was symbolic that the General Assembly, which is known to be conservative in nature, would as its first business ... pass legislation that has benefited the South tremendously," Spaulding said.

"It was a symbol of things to come in the future. The South was very dear to Dr. King. He was born and raised there and he wanted it to reach its optimum as far as people living together," Spaulding said.

"Because of some of the things Dr. King fought for, those things have become law or become our way of life."

Spaulding said North Carolina was among the first Southern states to recognize King's birthday as a state holiday. The designation was important because there was then no federal holiday honoring King.

"In 1983, the General Assembly's action recognized and memorialized the life and the good works of Dr. King," Spaulding said. "Through its designation of Dr. King's birthday as being a state holiday, the state of North Carolina went on record prior to the Congressional action, as (recognizing) the constructive, and many times difficult, actions of Dr. King to see that all Americans would participate in the American dream."

Bust Of King Is Placed Among Capitol Sculpture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coretta Scott King says she hopes the newly installed bust of her husband in the Capitol Rotunda will remind Americans that "we have much work yet to do" in achieving Martin Luther King Jr.'s dream of racial justice.

But Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., a leader in the long legislative battle to honor King's memory with a memorial sculpture in the halls of Congress, says his lasting monument is found elsewhere.

"When you see a lunch counter with black and white Americans eating together, when you see black and white children playing together in a school yard, when you see a bus in Birmingham or a voting booth in Selma, when you see black Americans and white Americans working together for a better life for all Americans, then you see his monument," Mathias said.

King, grandchild of slaves and martyred champion of racial equality, is the first black American to be accorded the honor of a sculpted likeness in the halls of Congress. His bust stands alongside Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and other heroes.

The larger-than-life bronze bust of the slain civil rights leader was unveiled Thursday by his widow in the Rotunda, as the applause of members of Congress, King's family and many of King's former civil rights lieutenants echoed in the lofty chamber.

"I hope this statue always reminds us that America's strength is in its pluralism and its people's respect for one another," Mrs. King said.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. King met privately at the White House with President Reagan, who did not attend the unveiling or an earlier tribute to King by government employees in a downtown Commerce Department auditorium.

Attorney General Edwin Meese canceled a scheduled appearance at the federal employees' tribute, explaining through an aide that he was attending a White House meeting on child safety that lasted longer than expected.

Reagan sent a message, read at the earlier ceremony, urging those who carried on King's battle to "never, never abandon the dream" that King described in his famous "I Have a Dream" speech at the August 1963 civil rights march on Washington.

"Never forget that this is America, the land where dreams come true," Reagan said. "And take heart — look how far we've come."

But Samuel Pierce, secretary of housing and urban development and a former close friend of the King family, said: "We haven't won the battle yet. His dream hasn't been realized yet."

The King bust was sculpted by Boston artist John Wilson, an art professor at Boston University who won a national competition for the $50,000 government commission to design the memorial. The bust rests atop a 5½-foot black pedestal that bears the words, "Martin Luther King Jr., 1929-1968, Humanitarian."

The King sculpture will be moved in October to its permanent site in a small rotunda leading to Statuary Hall, the old chamber of the House of Representatives on the second floor of the Capitol.
