Reagan Offers 'Hard Choices' Budget

By TOM RAUM
AP Economics Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today sent Congress a "hard choices" $994-billion budget for fiscal 1987 that would meet targets of the nation's new budget-balancing law through deep cuts in domestic programs and auctioning an array of federal assets.

While few domestic programs were spared the budget knife, the president asked Congress for an increase in defense outlays in 1987 of $15.9 billion, up 6.2 percent from last year, and proposed a 37.8 percent increase over the next five years. The budget would leave all major weapons systems intact while proposing a 75 percent increase in the president's "Star Wars" program of defense against nuclear missiles.

The budget would slash, freeze in place or eliminate scores of civilian programs — while granting a small, $94-million increase in funding to the nation's space program. It would knock a million college students off aid rolls, cut Medicare and Medicaid health programs for the poor and elderly and recycle many of the program eliminations sought unsuccessfully by the president last year.

The budget would raise fees for using the national parks, impose a $10-per-angler licensing fee for fishing in the ocean, trim benefits under the GI bill, cut federal support for the Interstate Highway system and require able-bodied welfare recipients to engage in some "work-related activity" to continue receiving federal help.

In all, the budget calls for domestic spending cuts of $25.6 billion. Many of the proposals, including the government-wide spending total, had been leaked in advance. It was the first presidential budget to be submitted under the new Gramm-Rudman budget law, which would force an end to government deficit spending by 1991. Automatic cuts of around $40 billion will be triggered next October under the law if there is a budget deadlock between Reagan and Congress.

NASA's Search For Rocket Moves To Carolina Coast

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Coast Guard, Air Force and Navy extended their search for debris north to Cape Fear, N.C., today as NASA ships headed for a spot where a key piece of the shuttle Challenger appears to have dropped into the ocean.

The space agency planned to send robot submarines to an undisclosed area where sonar indicated one of the shuttle's two rocket boosters dropped into the Atlantic Ocean after last week's explosion.

"I would say that this is one of the most vital pieces of evidence that we've found as far as debris is concerned," said Jim Mizell, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman and engineer.

Eight Coast Guard, Air Force and Navy aircraft and five cutters are concentrating on a 12,600 square mile area from St. Catherine's Island, Ga., to Cape Fear.

"The idea is maybe some of this debris has got into the Gulfstream and has been carried that far north," said Chief Warrant Officer Paul Scotti of the Coast Guard.

Searchers hoped the booster, if that's what it is, came from the right side of the shuttle. A spurt of flame, directed from that right rocket toward the shuttle fuel tank, is the chief suspect in the blast.

Mizell said if it turns out to be the starboard booster, salvage ships would be summoned to raise the wreckage, which might take two weeks.

"It would be a tremendous find because ... we would have some actual physical data that we could retrieve," he said. "If we find out that something was wrong with that particular booster, then certainly it would go a long ways in getting us back on track and getting ready for launch again."

Hoping to be ready when word is given to resume flights, processing teams are asking permission to resume work on the shuttles Columbia and Atlantis. All future flights were suspended after the Challenger accident.

"There is no evidence the orbiter was at fault in this accident," said Mizell, pointing out that 21 days of work in the shuttle processing facility can be accomplished while a presidential commission is investigating.

There was no official confirmation of a CBS News report that "at least a portion" of the shuttle's main crew compartment was located and that some of the personal effects of the astronauts floated to the surface.

Although CBS played part of an audio tape that it identified as a transmission from a Coast Guard search vessel, the Coast Guard issued a denial. NASA, too, said it had no such report.

"There is no indication that these were valid reports," Scotti said. "We did not find the cockpit."

NBC reported that some of the human remains brought to shore in recent days had been identified as belonging to the astronauts. But NASA

School Bids Are Accepted

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Education on Wednesday gave approval to low bidders for construction of classroom additions at D.H. Conley and North Pitt high schools. But the board suggested negotiations be held with contractors in an effort to reduce the $2.9 million cost of the projects.

The low bidder for the general contract was R.L. Casey Inc. of Greensboro, with a bid of $2.01 million, while the low bidder for the plumbing contract was Kinston Plumbing and Heating Co. with a bid of $205,870. Central Heating and Air of Kinston was low bidder for the heating and air conditioning contract with a bid of $427,797, while low bidder for the electrical contract was Pitt Electric Inc. of Greenville, at $259,975.

Bids for the casework in the two additions were not approved. Only two bids were received and the lowest — almost half a million dollars — would have put the cost of the two additions over the estimated cost.

The board also approved the sale of the Chicod School principal's home, as recommended by the Chicod Advisory Committee. The wood-frame house, with less than 1,400 square feet, was built around 1950 and the buyer will have to remove the building from the property.

The board also adopted a resolution designating the week of Feb. 2-7 as School Counselors Association Week. The theme for the week is "Counselors: Agents for Educational Excellence and Equity."

Dr. Madeline Tripp, who is heading an accreditation team from the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges which is visiting county schools this week, was a guest at the meeting.

She told board members that she does not receive compensation for her work as "consultant to the State of North Carolina from the Southern Association. But I enjoy doing it," she emphasized.

Saying the Southern Association is "the very best vehicle to get what we want done," Dr. Tripp said the accrediting team looks at the community and what the community expects from a school, the qualifications of the faculty, school facilities, and cultural arts, among other things, in evaluating a school system.

Post Offices Probably Will Keep Same Hours

Post offices in Pitt County probably won't be affected by a U.S. Postal Service announcement that some offices will extend hours for selling stamps and accepting mail.

After a test at 17 sites, the U.S.

Postal Service said this week it has decided to "flex" its window hours starting in April. The new longer hours, which will be phased in during the next two years, will vary by locale according to business conditions.

Hotel Pushes Anti-Drunk Policy

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer
In order to combat drinking and driving, the Sheraton-Greenville soon will implement a training program to instruct employees in "Serving Alcohol With Care."

The program, produced by the American Hotel and Motel Association, is being implemented in the 200 Sheraton hotels worldwide, according to Ruth Matous, director of sales and marketing for the local hotel.

According to Sheraton-Greenville general manager William Houston, the Sheraton Managers Alcohol Responsibility Training (SMART) will establish guidelines for all Sheraton employees who serve alcohol. The program will include instruction in spotting an intoxicated customer and what to do to keep that person off the highways.

The establishment and the person who serves alcohol can be prosecuted under North Carolina law if the intoxicated person leaves the establishment under the influence and is involved in an automobile accident.

"There have recently been some tragic and fatal accidents in which someone gets drunk, goes out on the street, gets in an accident and kills someone," Ms. Matous said. "The family of the person who was killed has sued the establishment that served the drunk person the drinks and has won. The fault isn't on the person who's drinking anymore, it is the fault of the establishment."

"The individual comes into our establishment to have a good time and to be served alcohol," Houston said. "The person we're dealing with is the person we make a living off of."

The training program will instruct employees in understanding the effects of alcohol and recognizing the signs of intoxication, such as impairment of a person's judgment and coordination and a loss of inhibitions.

The program will stress that the employee monitor the guest's consumption of alcohol and communicate with the other alcohol servers in the establishment when the consumer is becoming impaired.

Houston said it will be his responsibility to talk to the intoxicated person and attempt to find him a safe ride home.

"We won't push the drunk out on the street and let him get in the car and kill somebody. We'll try to find him a safe ride home," Houston said. But he added that if his attempts to restrain the intoxicated person from driving fail, he will contact the law enforcement authorities.

An incident report will be filled out by the lounge manager or general manager following an incident with an intoxicated person. "This is for our own documentation," Ms. Matous said. "Since we now are liable, we must document that we have done all we can to prevent the intoxicated person from driving."

The Sheraton serves complimentary food in its Off the Cuff Lounge from 5:30-7 p.m. in order to give the patrons another substance in the body to curb the effects of alcohol.

Houston said there are over 40

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Delight the man in your life by knitting him this warm, rugged V-neck vest. The double horseshoe cable panel on the front is fun and easy to do. It adds an eye-catching, textured interest. The vest, quickly made with large needles and machine-washable bulky yarn, is equally at home with a business suit or over sportswear for any outdoor activity.

With a three-stitch-per-inch gauge, you can whip this up in just a few days. Easy-to-follow directions are written for small, medium and large sizes to fit body chest sizes of 38, 42 or 46 inches.

To obtain directions for making the Man's Bulky Vest, send your request for Leaflet No. Z-0202 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler Crafts, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 15922, Lenexa, Kan. 66215.

Or you may order Kit No. K-0202 by sending a check or money order for $17.95 for small or medium sizes or $21.95 for the large size to Pat Trexler Crafts at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions and Brunswick Lochwind yarn in your choice of camel, gray heather or navy.

It is interesting to note that the first pattern stitch attempted by most beginning knitters is the basic cable stitch, usually with great success. Unfortunately, many never progress beyond that, thus denying themselves much of the fascination of pattern stitchery.

It is seldom a lack of skill, just a lack of confidence that prevents many knitters from exploring the delights of more advanced knitting. If you will face any pattern that is new to you with the "one-step-at-a-time" attitude, you can master it in no time.

The Wheat Ear Cable is a case in point. If you have already learned to work any basic cable, there is really nothing new to learn here, just a slightly different sequence in the various steps. If, on the other hand, you have never progressed beyond the knit a row, purl a row stage, don't quit now - I'll give some beginner tips after the pattern stitch instructions.

A single repeat of Wheat Ear Cable is worked on a panel of 17 stitches as follows: Row 1: Purl 2, knit 13, purl 2. Row 2: Knit 2, purl 13, knit 2. Row 3: Purl 2, slip next 3 stitches to a cable holder and hold in back of work; knit 3, then knit 3 from the cable holder; knit 1, slip next 3 stitches to cable holder and hold in front of work; knit 3, then knit 3 from holder; purl 2. Row 4: Work same as Row 2.

Just repeat these four rows over and over for desired length. If you want to have double or triple cable panels, just allow 13 stitches for each panel with two extra stitches at the beginning, end and between each panel. For example, the first row of a double Wheat Ear panel would be set up on 32 stitches this way: Purl 2, knit 13, purl 2, knit 13, purl 2.

Now for the beginner's tips: Cable holders are simply implements that make it easy for you to hold the stitches either to the front or back of your work while knitting or purling other stitches. This allows one set of stitches to cross over another set of stitches, which is what cables are all about.

Some cable holders look like small double-pointed needles with a small "dip" or "bend" in the center. When you slip stitches to the holder, they are held in this center section so you don't worry about them slipping off one end or the other.

Another type of holder simply looks like an oversize fish hook without a barb, and is probably the best choice for beginners. In this type, the stitches are automatically held securely on the "hook" while it is dropped to the front or back of your work.

You can use either a double-pointed needle or a crochet hook as a holder, but this is not recommended for the beginner as the stitches can easily slip off either of these implements.

Whatever type of holder you use, however, always slip the stitches on to one end and knit them off the other end of the holder. This is why a regular straight knitting needle with a point on only one end does not work.

Before you try cabling on a garment, try a small sample with any needles and yarn you have on hand, purchasing only a cable holder or

PARTICIPATIVE MANAGEMENT
BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) - "Participative management" is a business technique in which fewer employees share a greater workload. As a result, each employee is more responsible for performance and decision-making.

Phillips Petroleum says it is one firm using participative management to cut costs while encouraging workers to develop their full potential.

"Today there are 6.9 employees for every supervisor, compared with 5.8 in 1983," says C.J. Silas, chief executive officer. "Employees work with less supervision and, therefore, must participate more in making their own decisions."

Early 'Nay'

North Carolina's tax structure is the end product of many, many years of trial and error coupled with the fine-tuning to meet state needs and correct inequities. It is not without pain, but what tax is without pain?

Rep. Josephus L. Mavretic of Edgecombe County is crusading for a radical reshuffling in the way North Carolinians finance their varied levels of government. He would abolish the property tax and replace it with raising the state sales tax to 8 percent as well as using half of the existing corporate income tax for local governments.

Critics tell us the plan would economically harm the state's metropolitan and resort areas as well as focusing a larger share of the tax burden on working people. To that we might add that if the sales tax on food is so unfair to North Carolina's poorer families now, it would be even more so under the Mavretic formula.

By any rational assessment, those who can best afford property taxes have accrued resources that make those levies acceptable, if unpleasing and unwelcome; our people with few (if any) taxable possessions pay proportionally less.

Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan has publicly stated his opposition to the Mavretic plan though, as a large landowner from a small county, he would admittedly benefit from repeal of the property tax. In his view the middle-income people who live outside of a city and rent their houses would really be damaged. The elderly and poor would also be hurt.

State Treasurer Harlan Boyles ... concerned the Legislature might consider "an obviously radical change" in the tax structure without knowing the consequences ... has asked for an in-depth study of the proposal by the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill.

Crusader Mavretic wasted no time in criticizing the study, saying the findings will be biased.

There is far more to the pros and cons than there is space here for discussion. The topic is incredibly complex and simplification is difficult. We have not heard the last of it; nor an end to reactions.

Our instincts tell us to vote "nay".

Models

A working model of the satellite jail program, closely linked to work-release, has been operating in Mecklenburg County and we hope a number of other North Carolina counties have been watching.

Now operating for two and one-half years, the program is said to be showing a profit as well as easing the overcrowding of prison facilities. Tom Ritter, a consultant to the state Department of Human Resources, is enthused over results. Mecklenburg Sheriff C.W. Kidd is another who likes what he has seen ... especially the work-release aspect. "How can a man pay child support or restitution if he can't make a living?", he asks.

Several jailers have copied the system and others are considering it. Corrections officials from at least two other states have studied the concept and we are sure as the word spreads others will check out the operation.

Satellite jails might well be appropriate answers to some of the problems faced by eastern North Carolina counties. In Mecklenburg the system helps solve problems posed by an upsurge in prisoners sentenced for drunken driving as well as more serious crimes.

"Showing a profit" somehow also has a better ring to it than the use of red ink.

Destruction 'Tragic Mistake'

To the editor:
Officials at East Carolina University made a tragic mistake Monday in authorizing the destruction of the C.H. Edwards house on the northeast corner of Cotanche and Eighth streets. This handsome structure, rich in exterior and interior ornamentation, was built about 1929 from plans drawn by Leila Wilburn, one of the first women architects in the South and author of at least three books on popular 20th-century styles of architecture.

Recently Chancellor John Howell stated in an article in The Daily Reflector that the university had no immediate plans for the Edwards house. One wishes, then, that he had given the house the careful attention it deserved. It could have been adapted for use as a faculty club or guest house for dignitaries visiting East Carolina University. Properly refurbished and landscaped, the property would have improved the harsh appearance of the western edge of campus. Such a decision would have meshed perfectly with current plans to provide a proper "entrance" on that end of the university.

There is more to a university than parking lots and massive classroom buildings. Some attention must be given to the quality of the environment, including wooded areas and fine architecture. Only in pleasant surroundings can students and faculty find the inspiration they need to produce their best work. In the long run, I believe the university will deeply regret that it has been so thoughtless in destroying the appealing aspects of campus that its students and employees richly deserve.

Maurice C. York
Greenville

To the editor:
I saw the television videotape of Christa McAuliffe's parents and sister as they watched in confusion the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger, which took the life of their loved one and six other crew members. Like millions of Americans, I am experiencing tremendous shock and anguish.

I am much more concerned about the sufferings of the family and friends of the seven crew members than I am about the technical details of what caused the explosion. The images of Christa, her husband Steven and her two young children, Scott and Caroline, are frozen in my mind.

I know death is a reality for all of God's created beings. And I know that we mortals have come to accept death as a "natural" consequence of technological progress and convenience. (In his first interview after the explosion, Sen. Jake Garn, a former space shuttle crew member, pointed out that 50,000 people die annually in automobile accidents. President Reagan also noted that death occurs in all modes of transportation.) But I can't help feeling angry about the deaths of those seven

—Rowland Evans & Robert Novak— Bush Strikes Blow To Kemp

WASHINGTON — George Bush's successful raid on Rep. Jack Kemp's New York Republican congressional colleagues, while stunning and humiliating to Kemp, caused the congressman to tell associates that the vice president's coup erased any lingering doubt whether he would run for president.

Bush's political operatives deny that signing up all 14 of Kemp's fellow House Republicans from New York to serve on the steering committee of his political action committee was psychological warfare to force him out of the race. But they do call it a major event, comparable to Kemp signing up all Texas GOP congressmen.

Actually, the vice president's agents recruited the lawmakers to help Bush elect Republicans to Congress in 1986, not elect Bush in 1988.

"At no time, did anybody in the Bush camp imply anything other than that," Rep. Fred Eckert told us. But Eckert might well be the only one of the 14 New Yorkers in Kemp's corner in 1988.

The turnaround by liberal Republican Sen. Robert Packwood from Reagan-baiter to Reagan-lover who is cooperating on tax reform has been encouraged by a shift in White House political tactics from vinegar to honey. In the Reagan first term, the White House and Packwood went head-to-head under political director Ed Rollins' tactics. But Rollins' successor, Mitch Daniels, warmed relations by sending the senator television testimonials taped by President Reagan. That brought protests from backers of the Rev. Marvin Lutz, a right-to-life candidate opposing pro-choice Packwood. But Vice President George Bush went to Oregon to reaffirm the Reagan testimonial.

At a legislative meeting in the White House recently, Packwood praised the "courage" of Reagan and Bush in supporting him and promised cooperation in boosting the tax reform bill as Finance Committee chairman. The next morning in breakfasting with reporters, Packwood recanted past criticism of Reagan and praised his leadership.

While Gov. Mario Cuomo was basking in favorable press reviews of his triumphant performance in San Antonio, Texas, New York Democrats were grumbling that he could better spend his time back home in New York finding a U.S. Senate candidate this year.

The complaints were voiced by influential Democrats at a private Manhattan dinner party a few days after the well-publicized Texas trip. Among those at the table were former Gov. Hugh Carey and former New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay.

In the absence of a better-known candidate, the Democratic nomination to oppose the well-financed, well-organized Republican Sen. Alfonse D'Amato seems likely for Manhattan lawyer Mark Green. A former lieutenant of Ralph Nader who has run unsuccessfully for the House, Green starts far behind D'Amato.

"Terrific," commented Richard M. Nixon when told Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos is using the old Nixon slogan of 1972: "Now More Than Ever."

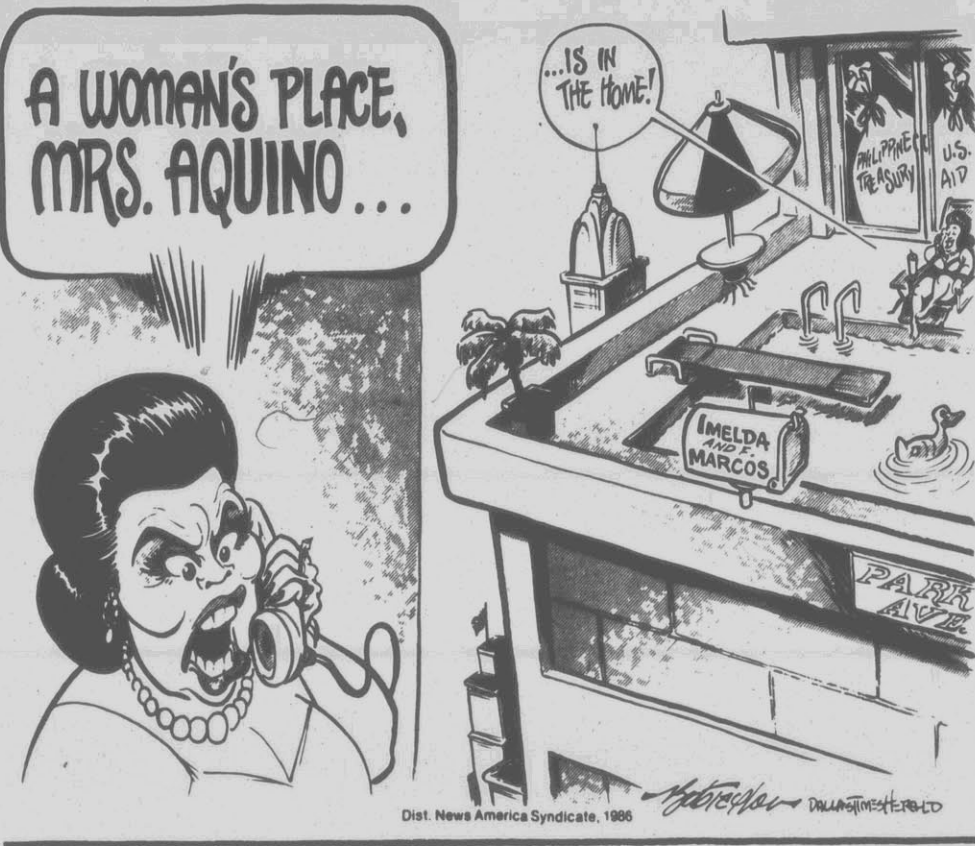

A Marcos bumper sticker with that slogan was given Nixon by political consultant Roger Stone, a foot soldier in the 1972 campaign. Nixon responded that he hoped it would bring Marcos the same landslide it had brought him.

Stone's Washington-based firm is representing Marcos, but did not steal the Nixon slogan. Black, Manafort, Stone & Kelly has nothing to do with Marcos' re-election tactics, which are being handled by Filipino managers. The American firm is trying to shine Marcos' tarnished image in the U.S.

The hand of the long-departed Henry Kissinger is expected to soon be seen again on the National Security Council (NSC) staff with a key appointment that also will boost the authority of Secretary of State George Shultz.

Kissinger's protégé Peter Rodman, currently head of policy planning at the State Department, is being groomed to run NSC operations. That key job was held by Vice Adm. John Poindexter before he replaced Robert McFarlane as NSC director.

Rodman, Shultz's top speechwriter, has been the strongest pro-Israel influence on the secretary inside the State Department and has advocated tough U.S. retaliation against Palestinian terror. Besides enhancing Shultz's influence, Rodman's move to the NSC also is likely to push Reagan administration's Mideast policy still closer to Israel's.

The Show Must Go On

WASHINGTON — An hour or so after Challenger exploded, shaken officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced an indefinite suspension of shuttle flights. There would be no more until the precise cause of the accident had been pinned down.

Whatever mistake had been made in preparing for the launch, this decision served only to compound it. It will be months — perhaps a year or more — before thousands of pieces of debris can be collected, examined and interpreted. The program must go on. We can't quit now.

At the risk of seeming hard-hearted, let me suggest that the event be put in perspective. It was not, strictly speaking, a "tragedy." Truly tragic events involve great moral or ethical conflicts — blind Oedipus, mad Lear. There was none of that here.

That seven persons died in an accident is not at all unusual. These were relatively young people, attractive and gifted people. We grieve for them and for their families. The death of the young, with everything to live for, always is an occasion of sorrow. But much younger people constantly are numbered in the highway toll. A thousand persons die of cancer every day. Someone, somewhere, is weeping now.

What, then, made this story so special? For one thing, the nation could identify with these seven in ways that we cannot identify with strangers. For weeks we had followed the training of Christa McAuliffe, the 37-year-old school teacher from Concord, N.H. We had seen her on television; we had come to know her cheerful grin, her pride in her profession. The six astronauts were not well known, but in a sense we knew their parents. They were part of a familiar family — a family we have come to know through 55 missions into space.

Death often comes suddenly and often violently, but seldom under such horrifying circumstances. The families, their children, were watching as Challenger lifted into flight.

Then they saw the fireball; and a moment later, in a dreadful silence, came the obscene worms of smoke, the fatal rain upon the sea. So much hope! So much anticipation! And now the calamitous, unbelievable fact: Challenger was gone. The nation watched, and shuddered, and wept.

The circumstances were horrifying, but again, let us search for perspective. Every person who has flown on a clear day across the Western states must have entertained the same passing thought: How did the pioneers ever make it? We look down from 30,000 feet on forbidding mountains and exhausting deserts. In the mind's eye we see the pitiful wagon trains, and we imagine the hardships those travelers endured. Many of them never made it. They, too, died after takeoff, and many died as violently as the seven who died on Tuesday at Cape Canaveral.

The westward movement never stopped. New wagon trains were formed, new drivers found. The early history of aviation tells the same story. We have forgotten how many brave men went to their deaths as aircraft gradually came of age. We never stopped flying.

So it must be with space exploration. Tuesday's sad ending was a wracking, heartbreaking disappointment. It was a costly and terrible setback, but the president had it exactly right: The shuttle missions will go on, "and there will be more shuttle crews and, yes, more volunteers, more civilians, more teachers in space." Of course. Let us memorialize the dead, restore the flags to full staff and get back to work. Life goes on.

—Elisha Douglas—

Strength For Today

"He is worth a million dollars."

To whom? To his family? Maybe they slink about most of the time to avoid his unpleasantness. To his business associates? Maybe they know his financial standing but hate him as a boss. To the community? Maybe he doesn't even take the time to vote. To the church? He may be the largest contributor in his congregation and still have the respect of nobody.

Money is only one of the factors by which we should measure real and meaningful prosperity. Prosperity for a nation means character, energy, high ideals on the part of its people. It may have financial resources and other sources of wealth but, if its people lack character, it is not a prosperous nation.

We need to ask ourselves certain questions: Is our nation prosperous? Do we value true prosperity and seek after it? How do we measure prosperity?

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Abby's Reference Is Webster's Dictionary

DEAR ABBY: It is not often that I am moved to respond to an item in your column, but I am today. It is with reference to the "stepparent" controversy. I agree with Mrs. R., who indicates that a new mate does not automatically become a stepparent. My question to you, Abby, is what is your frame of reference?

My ex-husband's wife (same age as one of my children) in no way is considered the stepmother of my grown adult children. If I were to remarry, my husband in no way would be considered any kind of parent by my kids; he would be my husband—period.

What constitutes a parent? Marriage to one? I really doubt that. If the kids, after developing a relationship, wish to consider the person a "parent" (assuming, of course, that each of us is entitled to one mother and one father and, therefore, a stepparent can exist only when one has lost one's natural parent), the giving of the gift of the title "parent" should be considered a gift of love—and not one of etiquette.

N.Y. FAN

DEAR FAN: My frame of reference is the dictionary. According to Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, a parent is by definition "one that begets or brings forth offspring." And a stepparent is "the spouse of one's mother or father by a subsequent marriage."

Whether one deserves the "title" of parent (step or otherwise) is not the issue. What should be and what is may be at odds, but the fact remains, what is, is.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to address this letter to "Splitting Hairs in Florida," who wrote to you recently complaining about middle-aged men who let their hair grow long in order to wrap it around their heads to cover their bald spots. She said they looked ridiculous.

Well, I'm a man who has started to part my hair lower in an effort to cover a receding hairline. However, I have never found it necessary to cover my face with makeup, dye my hair, wear false eyelashes, girdles, bras with falsies, or use any other forms of deception that women have resorted to for centuries.

I reluctantly changed my hairstyle at the insistence of a woman I was dating at the time because she wanted me to have a more youthful appearance. In our society, which, on the desirability scale, equates growing old with contracting leprosy, one must do whatever is necessary to create the illusion of youth.

Unless "Splitting Hairs" has never resorted to trying to improve her appearance in the ways I have described, I believe she owes an apology to men who try to cover their baldness.

I feel much better getting this off my chest—where I do not have the same problem I have on my head.

PETE IN DAYTONA BEACH

DEAR PETE: Read on for a different view of baldness:

Candidate Meets Lawyers

Justice Rhoda B. Billings was in Greenville Tuesday to meet area attorneys and garner support for her bid for election to the state Supreme Court.

The sole Republican now sitting on the state Supreme Court, Justice Billings was appointed in late 1985 by Gov. Jim Martin to fill the unexpired term of Associate Justice Earl Vaughn.

In press conference comments during her visit, Justice Billings declined to comment on any issues, saying that the judicial code of conduct prohibits candidates for court positions from making statements on political or legal matters. She said that while code stipulations about conduct of candidates do pose problems, they serve the purpose of keeping candidates from "staking yourselves out" on issues and later finding that their opinions have changed.

Justice Billings did say, however, that as part of her campaign she would try to educate the public about election of Supreme Court officials.

"By and large people across the state are not aware that we elect the judiciary," she said, adding that the public many times also is unaware of what the Supreme Court is and what it does.

Asked why she felt people should support her bid for election, Justice Billings said she could bring a broad base of experience to the court.

The second woman to serve on the state Supreme Court, Justice Billings lives in Winston-Salem and has served as a District Court judge, on the state Parole Commission, as a law professor at Wake Forest University and has engaged in private law practice. She is 48.

Opposing Justice Billings in the election is John Webb, a Democrat and North Carolina Court of Appeals judge from Wilson.

Reagan Wants Welfare 'Emancipation'

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is calling for a "real and lasting emancipation" from a welfare web trapping families into dependency, but Democrats say his policies contradict that rhetoric.

In his fifth State of the Union address to a joint session of the House and Senate, Reagan denounced "horse-and-buggy programs that waste tax dollars and squander human potential."

He also echoed his "America is back" 1984 re-election campaign Tuesday night by hailing the "great American comeback" and urging Congress to help him keep it going. The seven Challenger astronauts were given special mention, and Reagan introduced four young American heroes seated on the dais with him.

But the 31-minute speech was short on specific ways to carry out his vision. The only initiatives were directives:

—To the White House Domestic Policy Council to report on welfare revisions by Dec. 1 offering "a strategy for immediate action to meet the financial, educational, social and safety concerns of poor families."

—To Health and Human Services Secretary Otis Bowen "to report to me by year end with recommendations on how the private sector and government can work together to address the problems of affordable insurance for those whose life savings would otherwise be threatened when catastrophic illness strikes."

—To Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III to consider calling a world monetary conference to discuss whether to alter the free-market system of setting currency values.

Republican allies praised the president for offering what Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., called "a balance of compassion and practicality," but Democrats scoffed at Reagan's talk of a future filled with strong, self-sufficient families, freed from welfare dependency.

"I didn't hear anything that leads me to believe we are going to find the future that he described," said Rep. Richard A. Gephardt, D-Mo.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said, "The function of a real leader is not simply to tell us what we want to hear."

The president will elaborate in a detailed message of his legislative agenda for the year on Thursday.

But what he offered Tuesday night to Congress and a national broadcast audience were his signature themes: a hopeful vision of America, a pitch for reducing the scope of government and opposition to tax increases.

"Let us speak of our responsibility to redefine government's role," Reagan said. "Not to control, not to command, not to contain us; but to help in times of need."

He cited the breakdown of the family structure among welfare recipients and said, "I am talking about real and lasting emancipation because the success of welfare should be judged by how many of its recipients become independent of welfare."

Yet, while the government has poured billions of dollars into welfare programs, "the plight of the poor grows more painful," Reagan said; the time has come to "escape the spider's web of dependency."

He set no specific guidelines for reform other than to acknowledge government's responsibility to "provide shelter and nourishment for those who cannot provide for themselves."

But he said, "We must revise or replace programs enacted in the name of compassion that degrade the moral worth of work, encourage family breakups and drive communities into a bleak and heartless dependency."

In a prerecorded Democratic response broadcast after the president's address, Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, said, "The best social service agency is a family that's together. The best social program is a good job."

"But the policies of this administration are having the opposite effect," Mitchell said. "They're driving more families into hard times and apart, and they're causing American jobs to move overseas."

But Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., welcomed Reagan's call for a study of the welfare system. "It is plain we are not doing our jobs; the children are now the poorest age group in the nation."

As for health insurance, the president urged creation of a new program to protect people who are vulnerable to being wiped out financially by the costs of serious illness.

However, 85-year-old Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., said Reagan's promise of catastrophic health care was "deceptive, misleading and a callous empty promise ... too good to be true."

During the address, the president repeated his familiar pitches for his tax overhaul initiative, the authority to veto individual items in spending bills and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

Reagan also emphatically repeated his opposition to tax increases to trim deficits, saying there was still too much fat and inefficiency in the federal government.

Earlier, however, a senior administration official said Reagan has not closed the door on imposition of a new oil import fee as part of the income tax overhaul legislation now before the Senate.

Reagan, the official said, has told lawmakers, "I'd have to take a look at it" if such a plan were included in the tax bill to make up for revenue lost to rate cuts contained in the legislation.

The president began his speech, which had originally been scheduled for last week, with a reference to the cause for the delay: "We paused together to mourn and honor the valor of our seven Challenger heroes."

He closed with a salute to four "heroes of our heart" who attended the speech delivered in the House chamber.

They were: Richard Cavoli, 21, of Marlboro, N.Y., whose high school experiment to make X-rays less harmful was destroyed aboard the Challenger; Tyrone Ford, a 12-year-old gospel music singer and pianist from the District of Columbia; Shelby Butler, 12, of St. Joseph, Mo., who risked her life to pull a youngster out of the path of a school bus; and Trevor Ferrell, 13, of Gradyne, Pa., who saw homeless people on television and left his home to deliver food and blankets to them in what has become a Philadelphia custom involving hundreds of volunteers.

Democrats Downplay 'Rhetoric'

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Party leaders, accusing President Reagan of "rhetoric," say Reagan's upbeat assessment of the state of the union ignores the impact of huge budget deficits and the worst trade imbalance in history.

In a nationally televised rebuttal to the President's State of the Union address, five Democratic lawmakers said Tuesday that trade competition abroad and budget deficits at home threaten to weaken the nation's economy and endanger the jobs and stability of its families.

To present the Democratic view, the party turned to former Virginia Gov. Charles S. Robb; Sen. George Mitchell of Maine; Harriett Woods, the lieutenant governor of Missouri; and Reps. Tom Daschle of South Dakota and William Gray of Pennsylvania.

"We can no longer rely on rhetoric which refuses to face the real world — which pretends that we can have unlimited military spending and unrestrained tax breaks and a balanced budget — all at the same time," said Mitchell, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee and the program's moderator.

When Reagan says that can happen, said Mitchell, "the president is wrong, and the American people know he's wrong."

Reagan made the enhancement of the American family a major theme of his address, which was delivered to a joint session of Congress.

"But the policies of this administration are having the opposite effect," Mitchell said. "They're driving more families into hard times and apart, and they're causing American jobs to move overseas."

The five Democrats scored Reagan for being a Johnny-come-lately on tax reform, which they said will pass "if only Republicans can be persuaded to support it."

They complained of a lack of will to deal with the deficit, of inadequate policies to deal with trade imbalances, and of what they said is diminishing opportunity for many Americans.

"Strength ... requires a healthy economy, but we won't have one much longer if we don't have the will to balance our federal checkbook," Robb said. "What our government desperately needs is discipline. If defense spending has to be reduced, let's reduce it. If domestic spending has to be cut, then let's cut it. If tax breaks have to be stopped, then let's stop them."

Daschle said administration policy has failed to help family farmers, whom he said are losing their land because of high interest rates and an inability to sell their commodities abroad due to an overvalued dollar.

And in the face of their plight, he declared, "the Reagan administration is saying — tough luck."

Gray, chairman of the House Budget Committee, said that because of Reagan administration policy the national debt has doubled and "we've gone from being the greatest creditor nation to being the greatest debtor nation on earth."

Mitchell said the United States is in a trade war and stands a good chance of losing.

"In every market, from cars to cameras, from Europe to South America — even in our own country — the competition is winning," he said.

"The country that rebuilt Germany and Japan after World War II should not just surrender in the battle for foreign trade," he said. "It will be a bitter irony if we lose the trade war after winning the World War."

"But we are losing it," he said. "America's trade deficit is now close to $150 billion dollars a year ... the biggest trade deficit ever run up by any country at any time in the entire history of the world."

Mitchell said the United States must respond by increasing productivity and competition in world markets.

TIPS ON SHOPPING FOR VALENTINE'S WEEK FLOWERS

For those who plan to send flowers for Valentine's Week, Feb. 10-14, here are some tips from Cox Floral Service of 4th Street & Arlington Blvd. of Greenville.

- Order Valentine's Week flower gifts as far in advance as you can. The demand for flowers is great and bad weather can affect supplies, shipments and local deliveries.
- You don't have to buy a dozen. A bouquet, a few flowers or even a single bloom can express your feelings. Florists have a wide variety of floral gifts, to suit everyone's budget. It's the thought that counts.
- Red flowers are very popular at Valentine's Week but most people, according to studies by Florists' Transworld Delivery (FTD), the florist delivery service, indicate people like mixed bouquets just as well.
- Valentines don't have to be limited to a day—many people celebrate Valentine's Week so they can enjoy the holiday longer. There's a Pickle Week, so why not a Valentine's Week?
- Men as well as women like to receive Valentine flowers. There's even been a book published titled, "Real Women Send Flowers."
- Roses will be expensive because they're hard to grow—it takes up to 57 days—and require special care and handling. But then who can put a price on love?

Gasoline Prices May Not Follow Crude Oil's Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — Crude oil prices have dropped by more than a third since the year began because of a market war between OPEC and non-OPEC producers, but some analysts say they doubt U.S. gasoline consumers will see a similar decline at the pump.

Prices headed toward $15 a barrel in tumultuous trading Tuesday, the lowest since the late 1970s, after an Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meeting broke up without devising a strategy to defend the cartel's share of the oversupplied market.

Traders reacted to reports that Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, among the richest OPEC members, will inundate the world with cheap oil to force non-members Britain, Norway and Mexico to curtail production. "Arabian producers have effectively decided they are going to sacrifice the poorer members of OPEC on the altar of market share," said Peter Beutel, assistant director of Rudolf Wolff Energy Futures Inc., a New York commodities futures trader. "They're out to prove to Britain and anybody else, 'If you're not going to cooperate, you're going to be destroyed.'"

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, the March-delivery price of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, plummeted to $15.44 a barrel Tuesday from Monday's close of $17.36. In Europe, Britain's Brent North Sea crude traded for $15.50 a barrel in the open market, the lowest this decade.

The slide has deeply divided OPEC, which once got $40 for a 42-gallon barrel of oil when the 13-nation group dictated prices in the 1970s. It also has hurt Third World oil exporters, who rely on oil income to pay off loans.

Many analysts say the decline will boost economies of the United States, Japan, Western Europe and other industrialized oil importers by restraining inflation.

But some reject suggestions that lower oil prices will lead to gasoline price wars like those of two decades ago. The prices for long-term contracts on oil remain well above the $20-a-barrel level, much higher than the spot-market and near-term futures prices.

"The consumer can be confident there will be a fall in price, but it will be almost insignificant compared to the drop in other sectors," said Daniel Lundberg, publisher of the Lundberg

Letter, a weekly publication based in Los Angeles that reports on gasoline prices.

Based on his most recent nationwide survey of Jan. 24, retail prices fell 1½ cents a gallon for all grades of gasoline, while the wholesale price dropped 3.3 cents a gallon. Lundberg said this showed many dealers are unable to pass on the lower price because their other costs have soared in recent years.

"The public which has its eye peeled for a price crash will be disappointed," he said. "This ain't happening and it cannot happen. Dealers cannot give up their operation margin of profit and must use lower prices to offset gravely increasing rents."

Others predict gasoline prices will fall by spring because of the oil market demise, but there is doubt about how much lower they will go. "Even if prices go to 90 cents, that's still expensive," said Carol Epstein, managing editor of International Petroleum Finance, published by the New York firm Petroleum Analysis Ltd. "You don't have to be too old to remember gas at 29 cents a gallon."

No matter how far gasoline prices drop, many analysts predict Americans will remain sensitive to energy conservation because of the traumatic impact of the Arab oil embargoes last decade, which caused long lines at gas stations and forced many to turn down their thermostats.

"There's certain conservation that's permanent, like natural gas heaters replacing oil burners, and fiberglass insulation," said Andrew Lebow, an oil-industry analyst at Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc. in New York. "People are not going to rip that out of the walls."

President Salutes Three Children, Pre-Med Student During Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — For three children, the tragic fate of the shuttle Challenger meant keeping a fabulous secret for another week. For Richard Cavoli, it meant a shattered dream that still won him a share of presidential glory.

Cavoli, 21, of Marlboro, N.Y., and three youngsters were the surprise guests saluted by President Reagan as American heroes Tuesday night as the chief executive delivered his State of the Union address. As in years past, the White House had guarded their identities as tightly as any national secret until he introduced them to the Congress and a nationwide broadcast audience.

The children, Tyrone D. Ford, 12, of the District of Columbia, Shelby Butler, 12, of St. Joseph, Mo., and Trevor Ferrell, 13, of Gradwyne, Pa., had been brought privately to the White House a week earlier, when Reagan originally was scheduled to make the speech and intended to take them along to Congress. Then came the horrible news of the Challenger explosion, and a week's postponement.

Destroyed in that disaster was a crystal experiment that Cavoli had worked on for years, starting in high school. Now a student at Union College, he hoped that the results of the project's ride on the Challenger would enable him to develop a more sensitive type of X-ray film that would require lower radiation exposures and thus reduce risks to patients.

Reagan, who added Cavoli to his special guests in the wake of the space tragedy, assured the pre-med student that all was not failed.

"Richard," he said, "we know the experiment was launched and lost last week. Yet your dream lives. And as long as it lives, work of noble note can yet be done."

That same spirit and perseverance, said the president, was demonstrated by the "towering talent" of young Ford, an orphan being raised here by an adoptive grandmother, Mrs. Burter Carelock.

"A child prodigy of gospel music, he has surmounted personal adversity to become an accomplished pianist and singer," said Reagan, who noted the youth already directs three church choirs and has performed at the Kennedy Center. "With God as your composer, Tyrone, your music will be the music of angels," Reagan said.

The president then saluted Miss Butler, 13, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was on duty with the Pershing Elementary School safety patrol on Nov. 19, 1984, when a school bus went out of control heading for a crosswalk. Most students heeded her warning to get out of the way, but 7-year-old Felicia Guy froze in the path of the bus. Miss Butler lunged in front of the bus and pulled the younger child to safety.

"With bravery like yours, Shelby, Kmbria need never fear for our future," Reagan said.

Last, the president introduced Ferrell, 13, who lives in the affluent Philadelphia suburb of Gradwyne. During the 1983 Christmas season, after seeing a television news item about Philadelphia's homeless, Trevor insisted that his parents take him to visit the needy on the city streets. He spotted a man huddled on a subway grate and got out of the car to offer the man a blanket and pillow Farrell had brought from his own room.

Prosecution Ends Case Against Doctor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has rested its manslaughter case against Navy surgeon Donal Billig after another military doctor said Billig failed to recognize his own shortcomings even when several of his patients died.

"When three patients died within three weeks in 1984 ... he didn't stop to re-evaluate. Others had to bring this to his attention," Army Col. Russ Zajtchuk said Tuesday at the court-martial of the former head of heart surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

"This was the norm. This was the type of surgery he was doing all along, without any concern for the patients," Zajtchuk said.

"When he was told he was incompetent he chose to go on. ... Five patients died and God knows how many other patients are walking around who haven't had their lesions corrected properly," he added.

Zajtchuk, the former head of heart surgery at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, had operated with and observed Billig. He said he was a consultant to Bethesda but denied suggestions he was responsible for retraining the Navy doctor.

Military prosecutors rested their case after nearly four weeks of the trial. Billig, a Navy commander, begins presenting his case Monday, and defense lawyers said it would take two weeks to for their nine scheduled witnesses to testify.

Rubber bridge is almost unknown in Scandinavia. Bridge players are weaned on the tournament game and, when they get together for social bridge, they invariably play a team match. One such game is the source of today's hand.

We would prefer a raise to two diamonds with the South hand over one no trump. North felt that, even opposite a minimum response of 6 points, his hand should offer play for game, so he went straight to three no trump.

West made his normal lead of the ten of spades, won in dummy. Since he needed club tricks to make his contract, declarer called for the queen of clubs at trick two. East started an echo with the eight, to show an even number of cards in the suit, and completed the signal by playing the two after his partner had held up the ace of clubs.

Since a further holdup could not gain, West won the second club. Declarer almost certainly held either the ace of hearts or king of diamonds for his no trump response. If it were the former, the defense stood no chance; if the latter, the jack of hearts was going to be crucial. In addition, West had to hope that his partner had four hearts.

West found the killing defense—he shifted to the queen of hearts. Declarer had no counter: whether or not he covered, the defenders would be able to take four heart tricks because of the fact that his ten would come down on the second round of the suit.

Actually, declarer was just a spot away from making his contract against any defense. Switch the eight and nine of hearts, and declarer can guarantee his game by covering the queen.

Judge Sentenced

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge, saying "no crime is more corrosive of our institutions than the bribery of a judge," has ordered a former state judge to five years in prison for accepting or soliciting about $50,000 to fix cases.

William C. Brennan remains free without bail pending an appeal of his conviction, but prosecutors said they would seek to have the 67-year-old jurist sent to prison during the appeals process.

Brennan resigned Dec. 13, a day after he was convicted of attempted extortion and racketeering for taking or soliciting about $50,000 to fix cases involving gambling, attempted murder and drug trafficking.

In addition to the prison sentence, U.S. District Judge Jack B. Weinstein ordered Brennan to pay $210,000 in fines and assessments.

Israel Defends Decision To Intercept

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir defended Israel's decision to intercept a Libyan plane suspected of flying Palestinian guerrilla leaders to Syria, saying the Jewish state has the right to protect itself against "murder and terror."

Arab governments condemned the action by Israeli jetfighters over the Mediterranean Sea on Tuesday as an act of "air piracy" that could lead to the hijacking of Israeli and American planes.

Israeli fighters diverted the small Libyan Arab Airlines jet near the Mediterranean island of Cyprus on Tuesday and forced it to land in the Ramat David air base near Nazareth in northern Israel.

Israel's Yediot Achronot newspaper quoted unidentified security officials today as warning that Israel should brace for a possible Libyan or Syrian retaliation. Syria's official news agency quoted Gen. Hekmat Chahabi, chief of staff of the armed forces, as saying Tuesday that Syria would teach the Israelis "a lesson they will not forget" at a time and place of Syria's choosing.

The U.N. Security Council held an emergency meeting on the matter Tuesday at Syria's request, but took no action.

Israeli officials had no apologies for the action, even though the nine passengers on the Grumman Gulfstream 2 were Syrian and Lebanese politicians, including the deputy secretary-general of Syria's ruling Baath Party, rather than Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

Defense sources called the interception an "intelligence error," Israel radio reported. But Israeli leaders defended the mistaken interception as a necessary act of prevention that would put terror chiefs on guard.

The decision was approved by Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin, Israel radio said.

Rabin, speaking today in northern Israel, said Israel had not achieved its purpose but such acts of "initiative and daring" were necessary to fight terrorism.

The Israeli Communist Party's four-member parliamentary delegation, however, presented a motion of no-confidence in the government, and debate was scheduled for next week.

Shamir told world Zionist leaders on Tuesday: "We know that Libya is a center of international terrorism and the Libyan government aids the terrorist organizations in carrying out terror acts against Israel, Israelis and Jews."

"And when information arrives about such a danger, Israel is entitled to take steps to prevent acts of murder and terror," he said.

Military sources did not say who the Israelis hoped to capture, but there was speculation the target was either Ahmed Jibril or Abu Nidal, whose group is blamed for the Rome and Vienna airport massacres on Dec. 27 in which 20 people died.

A conference of 22 Arab revolutionary groups in Tripoli, Libya, which the Syrian and Lebanese politicians on the plane had attended, agreed Tuesday to mount suicide attacks on the United States if it attacked Libya or any other Arab country.

Shamir, a former top intelligence officer, told The Associated Press in an interview earlier in the day that "the time will come" when Israel will track down Abu Nidal, and said he did not rule out assassination, a method Israel used against Palestinian terrorists in the 1970s.

An Israeli source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, acknowledged the interception was a failure, but said this was "part of the dangers that are almost inevitable when you are fighting the war against terrorism. Sometimes it succeeds and sometimes it doesn't."

Other Israeli leaders accused the Arabs of hypocrisy in claiming that the action was a breach of international law.

Former Foreign Minister Abba Eban, now chairman of parliament's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee, told Israel television that international law actually makes it more difficult to fight terrorism.

"There is nothing more anti-legal than terror, but terror hides under the wings of the law," Eban said. "What determines the international reaction is the success or lack of success. (If) this man had been in the plane ... the free world would applaud. Because this effort failed, I assume that there will be criticism over the need to respect the law."

Ehud Olmert, a leading member of the Knesset, or parliament, from Shamir's Likud faction, said Israel was obliged to use "extreme and irregular methods" to fight terrorism and the Arab countries that support it.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb issued a statement that said in part:

"As a matter of general principle, the U.S. opposes the interception of aircraft in a peacetime situation. Such interceptions are inherently very risky and as such can be justified only in the most exceptional cases. In certain very narrow counter-terrorism cases such measures can be justified."

Filipinos Bringing Campaign To End

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Thousands of President Ferdinand E. Marcos' supporters flooded the streets of Manila early today on their way to a campaign-ending rally at the same bayside park in which an estimated half-million people cheered Marcos' opponent a day earlier.

Corazon Aquino, the opposition candidate, took part in a motorcade in her home province of Tarlac north of Manila to wrap up the tumultuous campaign for Friday's special presidential election. By law, campaigning must stop at midnight tonight.

In Concepcion, several miles from where Mrs. Aquino was campaigning today, witnesses said armed men at a military checkpoint attacked a car carrying the candidate's sister-in-law and damaged the camera of a crew from NBC television.

The commander of a nearby military camp, Maj. Napoleon Castro, denied the report. He said the men had "invited" Lupita Kashiwahara, who is campaign media coordinator for Mrs. Aquino, and the NBC crew to stop taking pictures of soldiers.

Thousands of Marcos supporters began marching and riding in motorcades early today to the rally site at Manila's Rizal park. Top movie and singing stars were to appear there with Marcos and his running mate, Arturo Tolentino.

Well before dawn, street sweepers cleaned up mounds of debris and yellow campaign streamers left after the Aquino rally. Workmen dismantled a temporary platform and began putting up red, blue and white decorations for the Marcos rally.

At a news conference today, Cardinal L. Jaime Sin, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Manila and a frequent Marcos critic, refused Marcos' invitation to participate in a prayer session for a clean election.

"I think they can pray without me," Sin said, declaring that it was up to Marcos to prevent election fraud and intimidation of voters. "The election will be clean, Mr. President, if you want it to be clean," Sin said.

A 20-member delegation of official U.S. observers led by Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa., was to arrive tonight as part of a U.S. effort to promote a fair election in this one-time U.S. colony where elections invariably have been marred by widespread fraud and violence.

Leaders of a second largely U.S.-

financed delegation of about 40 observers, which arrived Tuesday, told reporters they would fan out across the Philippines on election day.

A delegation co-leader, John Hume, leader of the Social Democrat and Ld'lr Party of Northern Ireland, told reporters the group would watch for indications of bribery and fraud in registration, voting and tabulating. But he said: "we're under no illusions. There are a huge number of polling stations. We can't cover them all."

Faint prospects remained for a first-ever joint appearance by Marcos and Mrs. Aquino on the ABC-TV program "Nightline." ABC's foreign editor, Wes Downs, said the network still was relying on the original agreement by the candidates to appear on the program which would be broadcast live to the United States tonight.

The plan ran afoul of the law barring election eve ca-gigning, since the live broadcast would take place Thursday local time. Mrs. Aquino then rejected Marcos' proposal for a local debate.

Some observers said Mrs. Aquino's seven-hour rally at the Manila park Tuesday was the largest political event of its kind in Philippine history. Reporters and other observers estimating that 500,000 people chanted, sang and prayed with her.

Manila's independent and opposition newspapers estimated the crowd at between 1 million and 2 million.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed today, flattening out after Tuesday's volatile session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped .45 to 1,592.78 in the first hour of trading.

Losers took a narrow lead over gainers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

After taking a sharp drop Monday and Tuesday, oil prices steadied overnight.

Energy issues, which sold off in Tuesday's trading, were mixed today. Exxon rose 3/8 to 49 1/2, Mobil 3/8 to 28 1/2, Chevron 1/2 to 34 1/2, and Amoco 1/4 to 54 1/2. But Occidental Petroleum dropped 1/8 to 26 1/2, and Phillips Petroleum was off 1/8 at 10.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks edged up .02 to 122.74. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .01 at 240.29.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 1.04 to 1,593.23.

Declines slightly outnumbered advances on the NYSE. Big Board volume totaled 175.73 million shares, against 145.28 million in the previous session.

Farmville Board Endorses Mid-East Agency's Work

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Farmville commissioners Monday night approved a resolution of endorsement of the Mid-East Commission.

Commissioners were told that the regional organization is likely to have funding cuts in the near future. The commissioners went on record acknowledging the value of services the commission has provided for Farmville.

A public hearing was set for March 4 on expansion of the town's extraterritorial jurisdiction to the east concurrent with the Farmville Central school property annexation. A public hearing on amending the town's zoning ordinance text was also set for March 4.

Mayor Edna Earle Baker read a resolution of respect to the late Leroy Redden, a town commissioner who died Dec. 26, 1985. His widow, Mrs. Bessie Redden, accepted a framed copy of the resolution from the mayor.

A resolution of respect for the late Will E. Joyner, five-term Farmville mayor, who died Jan. 27, was read by Frank Bradham, town administrator.

An ordinance that rewrites the town's soil erosion and sedimentation control ordinance was adopted. Town standards now conform with new minimum state standards, officials said. A copy will be sent to the State Sedimentation Commission for review.

The purchase of a new trash truck was approved. The purchase is necessary, say officials, because the 1972 two-ton truck currently used has had major engine failure and is deemed unsuitable for repair.

Farmville resident Douglas Faison asked that the town consider repairing the sidewalk in front of 708 S. Main St. and she was told that the street committee would look into the need immediately.

Commissioners postponed consideration of the purchase of a fence for the public works department site.

Amendments to an agreement with the League of Municipalities for provision of employees' health insurance were approved. Based on the amendments, two members of the League board of directors will sit on the Mutual Insurance Trust Board of Trustees and League Board of Directors will act on member municipalities' behalf without balloting members.

A release was approved for $487.44 in taxes for the owner of the warehouse at the corner of Wilson and Fields streets.

Vanisha Jones was reappointed to the Community Development Citizens' Advisory Committee to serve until Jan. 1, 1989. Dorothy Winstead was appointed to serve until Jan. 1, 1989, and Rose Day Evans appointed to serve until Jan. 1, 1987.

Mayor Baker said she wanted to publicly acknowledge each of the commissioners for the time-consuming and thorough work they do on the various town committee on which they serve.

employees of the Sheraton who serve alcohol, and he said they will all be trained in the program. The people who complete the course will receive a diploma.

Ms. Matous said the Sheraton is the first establishment in Greenville to implement such a program, and instruction will include information presented by members of the N.C. Highway Patrol and the N.C. Alcohol Law Enforcement Agency.

Hours ...

Service, which includes Pitt County, post offices in this region will not likely be selected for the program.

Pochis said five Southern states will be selected this year to participate in the "flex time" project, beginning in April. The program will probably extend to the rest of the South by 1987, he said.

Charles Caulk, Greenville postmaster, said he has not received any information about "flex time" hours being implemented in Greenville. He only learned about the program this past weekend, he said.

"I think it's a good idea and will be glad when we can begin here," he said. A directive on extended service hours will have to come from the Raleigh sectional center, he said.

In Pasadena, Calif., one of the test sites, the longer hours meant a 20 percent increase in revenue — primarily from sales of services and products other than stamps — and a drop in customer complaints to near zero.

During the nationwide test, clerks kept track of the services they were delivering and found that 69 percent of the transactions during the new hours could not have been handled by postal vending equipment.

"Customers mailed packages, or purchased postal products and services such as Express Mail, insurance or commemorative stamps — activities that usually require the assistance of a window clerk," said Ann McK. Robinson, postal service consumer advocate.

She said most peoples' work schedules don't allow them time to buy stamps or mail or pick up packages before or after work.

"Typically, customers who get parcel notices on Monday must wait until Saturday to pick up their packages," she said.

To promote the new hours, a public relations campaign will be launched using the theme, "We've Got Time For You."

Mary Ann King, manager of retail sales at the Pasadena post office, said she was able to adjust window hours without increasing costs.

For example, Saturday window hours were extended until 2 p.m. from noon.

The clerks, who opened up at 8:30 a.m., "were scheduled to work eight-hour shifts anyway," she said.

She said they usually spent the rest of their day assigned to other duties.

"Now we keep them doing what they do best, taking care of customers," she said.

Express Mail was accepted until 6:30 p.m., she said. The deadline had been 5 p.m. for a guarantee of next-day delivery.

For those trying to pick up packages before work, a window was opened at 7 a.m. three days a week.

Church Demolished

The old English Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, adjacent to the Sheraton motel on Greenville Boulevard, has been demolished.

Jay Mahan, a spokesman for Davis and Jones Construction Co. of Raleigh, the owners of both the Sheraton and of the old English Chapel property, said there are no firm plans for use of the lot. But Mahan said the site would probably be landscaped and used as part of the motel grounds.

He said "my understanding is that we built the congregation a new building," in order to acquire the site.

The new English Chapel church is located on a site at the intersection of Evans and Deck streets.

spokeswoman Sarah Keegan said: "Our position on personal effects and remains of the astronauts is the same; we will not comment out of respect for the relatives of the deceased."

When the shuttle blew up, the two boosters separated and began flying out of control — one appearing to be headed toward the Florida coast. A range safety officer sent a radio signal to blow the top off both boosters.

That had the effect of shooting flame out both ends, stopping the forward motion and tumbling the rocket into the sea. Under such circumstances, the casing could have survived almost intact.

Recovery of the booster might show whether a leak in the thick metal casing caused a tongue of flame to heat the huge external fuel tank, setting off the blast. This flame was seen in film, although its origin was not clear.

The boosters were not designed for use when the temperature of their propellant drops below 40 degrees. Challenger sat on the pad through two freezing nights before the launch, but other shuttles have taken off in cold weather. In January 1985, space shuttle Discovery was successfully launched after the temperature dropped to 19 degrees.

The air temperature also can vary a great deal without significantly changing the temperature of the propellant, and there was no evidence the temperature of the propellant had anything to do with the explosion.

Rocky Raab, a spokesman for booster manufacturer Morton-Thiokol, said he did not know what would happen if temperatures were not maintained within the specified range, although the company has successfully tested the rockets in cold weather. He also said he did not know whether the booster's fuel temperature might have been outside the operating range.

"That sort of information was impounded by NASA," said Raab.

The announcement of the possible discovery of the booster came hours after NASA cut back a search of the surface and shifted emphasis to the "relatively slow and arduous search of the ocean bottom." The surface search has yielded only 12 tons of wreckage from a ship and cargo that weighed 123 tons.

Members of an interim investigation board were in Washington for Thursday's first meeting of the new presidential commission. To allow the commission time to reach at least tentative conclusions, key House leaders decided to delay their own hearings.

"set the deficit on a downward path to a balanced budget by 1991." Reagan said the proposals he wanted would present Congress with "hard choices ... but we must find the will to face up to our responsibilities."

But few in Congress held out much likelihood that the president's budget would survive major modification in the coming months of struggle over spending and taxes.

"I don't think there are 25 votes in the United States Senate for the budget," said Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J. And Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, called it "DBA — dead before arrival."

Many senior members of both parties in Congress have expressed doubts that the federal budget can be balanced with spending cuts alone as Reagan prefers. Senate Republicans have recently urged Reagan to consider a compromise including some new taxes — possibly an oil import

Chargers Ice Tie For League Title

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
FARMVILLE — Ayden-Grifton may not be the best free throw shooting basketball team in the Eastern Plains Conference — but it made just enough last night to hold off Farmville Central and clinch no worse than a tie for the title, 50-43.

The victory was the ninth against no losses in the league and the Chargers can wrap up the title on Friday night when they host C.B. Aycock, the only team with a chance to catch them.

In the girls' contest preceding, Farmville Central scored 22 straight points and overcame an 18-point deficit to down Ayden-Grifton, 49-41.

The Chargers made just 12 of 23 shots at the free throw line, but it proved to be enough. Five of the points came in the last minute and a half when only three misses were recorded. The Chargers made only two field goals in the final eight minutes, but didn't look to the basket that much.

"I'm surprised that they didn't put us on the line more than they did," Ayden-Grifton's Bob Murphrey said. "We didn't go to (Marvin) Smith when we could have at the end; we just weren't looking for him."

"I thought we played well defensively and we did a pretty good job on the boards (both teams had 30 rebounds each). The first half was one of our better halves of the year, but I wasn't at all pleased with our second half. We looked like we were sitting on the lead. Their trap hurt us some, and there were a couple of key calls, like that double dribble that cost of a key basket. I thought it was a questionable call.

"But we did what we had to do to win," Murphrey said.

Farmville's Mike Terrell thought that his team got off to a slow start in the first period as they made just three of 11 field goal attempts. "We just couldn't seem to get involved in the game for a while there. They shot the ball well early and we were cold. Their quickness made a difference and they were more physical than we were, although I think we can be as physical as they are. We made a good run at them, but we made too many mistakes."

Terrell admitted in retrospect that the Jaguars probably should have sent Ayden-Grifton to the line more often in the stretch run.

"Smith and (Doug) Anderson are so much quicker, so much more aggressive than anyone else in the conference and they play with a lot of confidence. It's hard to be that," Terrell said.

After the two teams swapped points for the first three and a half minutes, Smith put Ayden-Grifton up for good, 6-4. Anderson then sandwiched two baskets around one by Smith to run the lead to 12-4 with 2:51 left in the quarter. Ayden-Grifton then closed out the period with two more to make it 16-6.

Farmville got the first two buckets of the second quarter, but Ayden-Grifton countered that and matched points down to the final 1:25 when Anderson and Danny West both hit — the latter with two seconds to go — to make it 28-16 at halftime.

In the third period, after Ayden-Grifton scored first for a 14-point lead, Farmville ran off eight straight to cut the lead to 30-24. Dennis Tripp led the spree, hitting five of the eight.

Throughout the period, Farmville had success in freeing someone underneath for the basket as they finally cut it to five, 36-31 before Steve Hunter hit with two seconds to go to make it 38-31.

Ayden-Grifton pulled out to a 42-31 lead early on but Farmville crept slowly back, finally to 45-41 on a basket by Bernard Taylor from the corner with 1:55 left.

But the Chargers then made five out of eight free throws from there while holding the Jaguars to just one field goal, to hang on for the win.

Smith led the Ayden-Grifton scoring with 15 while Anderson had 13 and West added 12.

Kennedy Williams paced Farmville with 14.

Ayden-Grifton is now 17-2 overall. Farmville falls to 6-4 in the EPC and 9-9 overall.

Farmville's comeback in the girls' game was nothing short of miraculous. For the first three periods, the Lady Jaguars played — well, they didn't play very well at all. Ayden-Grifton, while not totally on top of things offensively, still controlled the game with their pressing defense.

The Lady Chargers broke out into an 8-2 early lead and held off a Farmville rally, 12-10, by the end of the first quarter.

Ayden-Grifton then scored the first ten points of the second period to run out to a 22-10 lead before Allison Manning finally broke the ice. Farmville then scored the final six points to cut the lead back to 22-16.

In the third period, Ayden-Grifton again ran off a string, scoring ten more in a row before a Manning free throw again broke it. Nevertheless, Ayden-Grifton ran its lead to 38-20 on a basket by Michele Whitfield just before the period ended.

If things had gone well for the Chargers the first three periods, they turned suddenly sour in the fourth while the sun shone brightly on the Jaguars.

With Lisa Lang and Manning leading the way, Farmville scored 22 unanswered points to push past Ayden-Grifton and take the lead. Lang had 13 of the points, including a three-point play that pushed the Jags up, 40-38 with 2:25 to go. Manning then added two more at the stripe before Whitfield hit a free throw to break that string.

The momentum had turned, however, and nothing Ayden-Grifton could do in the final two minutes could change it as Farmville made one field goal and added five of seven at the line to chalk up the win.

Lang finished with 26 points while Manning ended up with 15. Karen Edmonds led Ayden-Grifton with 16.

"We finally became aggressive and went after the ball," Farmville's Hilda Worthington said of the rally. "Allison Manning came in and did an excellent job for us. She's one of the most improved players on the team. Lisa played well too."

"I think we were very nervous in the first half because we wanted this one so badly. The fourth quarter was the only one we played well in." Worthington added that she switched Lang over to guard Edmonds in the final period and cut off her scoring.

"I don't think you can put your finger on any one thing that caused it," Ayden-Grifton's Kathy Frazier said. "They played a better second half than we did. We played better in the first half, but we fell off in our rebounding."

She didn't feel that her girls were overconfident after building up the big lead. "You can't be overconfident when you're only 44 in the league and 6-12 overall, especially in this league. I don't think it helped us when (point guard) Juanita Murphy got into foul trouble and had to sit out a lot of the last period before she finally fouled out."

The win boosted Farmville Central's record to 4-6 in the league and 6-13 overall. Ayden-Grifton drops to 4-5 and 6-13.

Ayden-Grifton plays host to C.B. Aycock on Friday, while Farmville Central visits Aycock next Tuesday.

Tar Heels Slip Past Tech 78-77 In Overtime Game

ATLANTA (AP) — North Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith decided his top-ranked Tar Heels needed a different look, and a lineup change produced winning results.

"We went with the smaller lineup to get better defensive pressure," Smith said Tuesday night after North Carolina went to a three-guard attack and overcame a 13-point deficit in the final 12 minutes of regulation before edging No. 2 Georgia Tech 78-77 in an overtime showdown for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race.

"We weren't getting any rebounds with the bigger lineup, anyway, so we went to the smaller one," Smith said.

Smith inserted Jeff Lebo as his third guard and the 6-foot-2 freshman sank a trio of 20-footers and also hit a pair of free throws to key the North Carolina comeback that began after Tech built a 59-46 lead with 11:56 remaining in the game.

Brad Daugherty completed the comeback with a 10-footer from the left baseline to tie the score at 70-70 with 55 seconds to go — the last score in regulation.

Daugherty then hit a jumper from the free throw line 58 seconds into the extra period to give the Heels the lead for good in the first meeting this season between teams ranked Nos. 1 and 2 in The Associated Press poll.

"The reason we thought we could come back is we've done it before," said Steve Hale, another guard who finished with 18 points. "There was just too much time left."

The victory lifted North Carolina to 23-1 for the year and 7-1 in the ACC, d.g was the Heels' second triumph over Georgia Tech, 17-3 and 6-2, in the last two weeks. UNC beat the Jackets 85-77 at Chapel Hill on Jan. 25 to snap Tech's three-game winning streak in a series the Heels have dominated 26-5.

"I know the bottom line is winning, but the effort and the way we played, I've never been prouder," Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins said. "I'm not going to lose any sleep over this loss. We're just going to go back to work."

Cremins called North Carolina "the best team I've seen, but (No. 3) Duke is not far behind."

After Georgia Tech built its 13-point lead, the Jackets began milking the 45-second clock on each possession. But they often found themselves pushing up forced shots to prevent a clock violation, and the Tar Heels steadily began getting back into the game.

Joe Wolf had two baskets to start a 9-0 spurt that cut the lead to 59-55 and UNC got within two at 65-63 on Lebo's 20-footer with 5:53 remaining. Lebo's two free throws made it 69-68 with 1:19 to go before Tech's Antoine Ford hit on one of two free throws five seconds later. Daugherty then forced the overtime with his turnaround jumper.

After Daugherty gave UNC the lead, Kenny Smith ended a 2:04 scoreless period with a layup and Carolina led 74-70 with 1:58 left in overtime.

HOLLYWOOD — Ricky Farrow scored 18 points to lead D.H. Conley to a 71-55 victory over North Lenoir in Coastal Conference high school basketball action last night.

North Pitt Panthers Win By 64-55 Over Roanoke

BETHEL — North Pitt took out some of its frustration on Roanoke last night, winning a 64-55 decision in the non-conference basketball contest.

North Pitt's girls continued to roll along, winning their game, 43-25.

The 1985-86 season hasn't been a good one for the Panthers, who are now only 5-14 on the year after the win. But the win comes at a good time as North Pitt prepares for the final three games of the regular season and the Eastern Plains Conference tournament. Roanoke falls to 10-9.

North Pitt's girls, now 17-3 on the season, recorded their 14th straight with the victory over Roanoke, which is now 10-9.

North Pitt jumped out early taking a 19-10 lead in the opening period. The Redskins rallied in the second quarter, however, cutting the lead back to 31-26 at halftime.

In the third period, Roanoke hung close and was down only four, 43-39, as the last quarter got underway. But in that, North Pitt outscored the 'Skins, 21-16, to take the win.

Maurice Jones led North Pitt with 15 points while Derrick Mullins had 14, Olinka Little had 12 and Ashley Sheppard had 10.

Mike Duggins led Roanoke with 15 while Mickey Knox added 14 and Richard Moore had ten.

Roanoke's girls continued to learn how to live life without Gloria Duggins, their high scorer lost for the year with a knee injury. North Pitt, which has already iced top seeding in the Eastern Plains, roared out to a 16-3 lead after one period. They coasted through the second period and allowed Roanoke to cut it back to 21-9 at halftime.

In the third, North Pitt again pulled away, 15-7, to hold a 36-16 lead. Roanoke outhit the Pant-HERS, 9-7, in the last quarter.

Regina Cox led North Pitt with 19 points while Gwen Pilgreen added 10. No one hit double figures for Roanoke.

The Panthers travel to South Lenoir on Friday, while Roanoke plays host to Roanoke Rapids tonight.

Wilson Christian Defeats Knights

WILSON — Joel Attoe scored 29 points and led Wilson Christian to a 71-53 basketball victory over Greenville Christian last night.

Greenville's girls, meanwhile, pulled out a 43-35 victory over Wilson.

Wilson was able to take only a 17-16 lead after the first eight minutes of play in the boys' game. But in the second period, the host team pulled away with a 19-12 advantage to take a 36-28 lead into intermission.

Wilson stretched the lead to 50-38 in the third period and cruised through the final period with a 21-15 advantage.

"We played our normal game and it wasn't enough," Coach Dale Thatcher said. "We kept it close for most of the game, but they were just too good for us. They hit their free throws and we would have had to be red hot on the line to counter that."

Linwood Scott added 16 for Wilson, while Robin House had 24 and Paul Hollingworth had 20 for Greenville, now 9-6 on the year.

The first period of the girls' game saw an 8-8 deadlock, but Greenville managed to take an 18-16 lead by halftime. In the third period, Greenville managed a little cushion with a 13-8 margin. That made it 31-24. The Lady Knights then held off Wilson, 12-11, in the final period.

Patti Carr led Greenville with 12 while Stephanie Stevens had 11. Amanda Bailey had 14 and Tracy Burlingame had 10 for Wilson.

"Our bench strength came through for us," Thatcher said. "They gave us some good scoring and defensive play."

The Lady Knights are now 11-2. Greenville plays host to Wake Christian on Friday.

Joe West Likes The Simple Life

By MIKE HUGHES
Washington Daily News
BAYVIEW (AP) — In the heat of the summer, you might see Joe West pointing an outraged Tommy Lasorda toward the showers at a jam-packed Dodger Stadium. But come winter he heads for the calming waters and the solace of Bayview.

West, 33, has been coming here every off-season since 1979, three years after he became baseball's youngest National League umpire ever.

It's a far cry from Los Angeles, New York or Houston, West says. That's one reason he likes it so much.

"There are probably 250 people in the town of Bath," he says. "I guess about one-third of them know me, and nobody makes a big deal out of me."

That aspect seems to be important to West, who has traveled near and far but still likes passing a peaceful hour with friends at a local marina.

Born in Asheville in 1952, West spent most of his childhood and teen-age years in Greenville, where his parents were teachers.

He played baseball and football during his youth and got to know Bath and Bayview as a young player on local Little League teams.

After graduating from high school, he enrolled at East Carolina University in 1970, where he planned to play football under Coach Mike McGee. But after West's first season with the Pirates, McGee resigned to take over the coaching duties at Duke.

Rather than wait out another season with incoming Coach Sonny Randle, West transferred to Elon College to play football for the Fighting Christians.

He wanted to play baseball at Elon as well, but spring football drills precluded that. So he took to umpiring some local high school games.

"They paid me $15 a shot," West says, "which wasn't bad money then."

Eventually, West got to know Malcolm Sykes of Goldsboro pretty well. Sykes had been a major league umpire for 15 years and was then the supervisor of umpires for the Carolina League.

At Sykes' recommendation, West took off for St. Petersburg, Fla., in 1974 and enrolled in umpire school. Later that year, he graduated first in his class and began working games in Class A ball.

Along the way to the big leagues, West worked in the Class A Western Carolina League, Puerto Rican League and Florida Instructional League, Class AA Southern League and the Class AAA American Association.

On Sept. 13, 1976, at age 23, West took the field in his first National League game. He worked seven other games that season.

Even after 12 seasons behind plates and bases from Savannah to San Francisco, West says there is still plenty of excitement both on and off the field.

"It hasn't gotten to where it's a job yet. I have a lot of free time in the off-season and during the season as well," West said. "I get to meet a lot of interesting people."

"It's nice when you've got a knock on your dressing-room door and there's Donald Sutherland who just wanted to say hello," he added.

West can drop a few more names from outside baseball circles. He's friends with country music singer Mickey Gilley. In fact, Gilley, who owns a club in Pasadena, Texas, was the first person to get West up on stage to show off his voice.

Since then, West has recorded a country music album of his own, "Blue Cowboy," featuring songs like "You Can't Run With The Big Dogs" and "Don't It Make You Wanna Go Home."

These days, the "Singing Umpire," as NBC-TV announcer Joe Garagiola calls him, is working on a new single and plans to record it in Nashville soon.

But next month, he'll be off to Florida for spring training. National League umpires work 15 games yearly in the "Grapefruit League" to get in shape for the season. Most of the league's 24 full-time and four alternate umpires are married and have families. West, who is single, says, "It's tough to raise a family as an umpire."

Pam Pack Girls Clinch Coastal

MOREHEAD CITY — DeeAnna Davis hit a basket with one second left in the game to give Washington High School's girls' basketball team a 40-38 win over West Carteret last night — and the Coastal Conference championship along with it.

West Carteret's boys rallied for a 49-36 win in the boys' game.

The win was the tenth against no losses in league play for the Lady Pack, now 16-0 overall. With only two games left to play, no one in the league can catch them now.

Washington's boys drop off to 5-5 in league play and 10-8 overall while West Carteret is now 7-2, 14-5. The Lady Patriots are 4-5, 13-6.

West's girls, trying to keep the Lady Pack from wrapping up the title, hung close throughout the game. Washington was up 13-11 after one period, but the Pats rallied, 12-8, for a 23-21 halftime lead.

West Carteret continued to build on its lead in the third period, taking a 35-29 lead. But Washington held West to just three points in the final quarter and scored 11 of its own, including the game winner by Davis, to pull it out.

Sarah Gray led Washington with 22 points while Gloria Sherrod had 10. Kimmie Kumpel led West with 21 points.

Washington jumped out to a 13-9 lead in the opening period of the boys' game and managed a 5-4 advantage in a slow second quarter for an 18-13 halftime lead.

West Carteret, however, took command in the third period, outscoring Washington, 14-5, to move into a 27-23 lead. The Patriots again outthit the Pam Pack, 22-13, in the final period to wrap it up.

Sammy Gibson led West Carteret with 10 points while Alton Ore paced Washington with 12.

Washington, open on Friday, plays host to North Lenoir next Tuesday.

Boston Wins 12th Straight; But Pacers Have Won Four

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics own the longest winning streak of the NBA season... and the Indiana Pacers own their longest winning streak in almost two years.

Indiana's four-game skein may seem modest alongside the Celtics' 12-gamer, but it's all theirs nonetheless.

"We're playing real good defense as a team, gambling and taking advantage of certain situations," Herb Williams said after scoring 21 of his 25 points in the second half to lead Indiana over the New Jersey Nets 117-101 Tuesday night to give the Pacers a four-game success streak for the first time since March 1984.

"Take nothing away from the Pacers. The whole team played well," echoed New Jersey Coach Dave Wohl. "I tried a lot of combinations, but none seemed to work."

Meanwhile, center Robert Parish scored 12 of his 20 points in the third quarter, keying a 20-7 spurt that opened the second half and sparked the Celtics to a 112-93 victory over Milwaukee. Coach K.C. Jones, however, was reluctant to dwell on the streak.

"You start talking about streaks on this team, then what's going to start happening is you start thinking beyond the next three or four games," Jones said.

In other action, the Los Angeles Lakers beat Dallas 110-102, Cleveland nipped Atlanta 105-104, Detroit shaded Chicago 117-115, Denver edged Portland 119-118, San Antonio outlasted Seattle 124-119 in overtime and Phoenix defeated Golden State 127-118.

Steve Stipanovich contributed 22 points as the Pacers erased an early 12-4 deficit, taking the lead for good as Stipanovich scored five points in a 10-point spurt that put Indiana on top 18-14. An el'kt-point run a few minutes later made it 28-18 and Terence Stansbury scored five points in a 13-3 burst that opened a 52-33 bulge with 6:36 remaining in the first half.

Guard Clint Richardson contributed a season-high 20 points for Indiana and also had 10 rebounds and seven assists. Otis Birdsong led New Jersey with 24 points.

"Vern (Fleming) and Terence are really running the break well and they're recognizing the mismatches inside," Williams said of Indiana's turnaround.

Coach George Irvine credited adjustments by rookie Wayman Tisdale with helping make up for the absence of Clark Kellogg with an injury.

"Tisdale is becoming more comfortable with what we're doing. Now he's extended his game away from the basket," Irvine said. "That's opening things up inside for Stipo and giving us the mismatches we didn't take advantage of earlier."

Celtics 112, Bucks 93

Larry Bird scored 24 points for Boston while Terry Cummings had the same number for Milwaukee. Boston led 46-43 at halftime but outscored Milwaukee 37-24 in the third quarter and held three 19-point leads. The Bucks pulled within 12 with 8:52 left in the game but got no closer.

"I didn't have as many big men as I need without (injured Paul) Mokeski," said Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson. "They had us to the point where we didn't know what to do. We were between a rock and a hard place."

"The key was the way Robert Parish started the second half," said Bill Walton, Parish's backup, who came off the bench and scored nine of his 12 points in the decisive third period. "It just sort of picked everybody up."

"The thing that's so good about this team right now is its unselfish play in every phase of the game. We were even guilty of passing the ball too much at times."

Lakers 110, Mavericks 102

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Mike McGee scored 21 points apiece as Los Angeles rallied from an 18-point second-period deficit. The Lakers, who controlled the boards by an overwhelming 53-25, outscored Dallas 21-3 starting late in the second quarter and caught up 60-60 on a breakaway layup by McGee early in the third period. They led 93-90 and settled matters midway through the final period by scoring nine of the game's next 10 points.

James Worthy scored 18 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, playing in his first game after missing six contests with a knee injury, added 14 points off the bench. Sam Perkins and Rolando Blackman scored 18 points apiece for Dallas.

Hawks 105, Cavaliers 104

Atlanta only led once in the second half but it came when Randy Wittman tipped in a missed shot with one second to play that sent Cleveland to its seventh consecutive setback.

The Cavaliers led by 11 points in the fourth quarter and held a 104-97 advantage with 1:19 to play. But Dominique Wilkins, who led Atlanta with 36 points, and Cliff Levingston scored consecutive baskets and Wilkins made two free throws. Cleveland's John Bagley then missed a 15-foot jumper with 10 seconds left and Levingston's shot from the right baseline missed everything. But Antoine Carr tipped the ball over the hoop and Wittman banked it in for the winning points.

Pistons 117, Bulls 115

Isiah Thomas, held to six points in the opening half, made three key free throws in the final 1:22 as Detroit handed Chicago its 10th loss in the last 12 games. The Bulls took a 112-111 lead with 2:40 left on Kyle Macy's long jumper but Detroit's Kelly Tripucka, who scored 28 points, made a layup to put the Pistons ahead to stay 113-112 and Thomas, who finished with 18 points, hit three free throws to wrap it up.

Nuggets 119, Trail Blazers 118

Bill Hanzlik grabbed an offensive rebound and then converted two free throws with one second to play. The Nuggets trailed by nine points with 3:46 remaining before Alex English, the game's high scorer with 42 points, led the Denver comeback.

Edenton Squeezes Past Williamston Five, 58-55

WILLIAMSTON - Charles Holly poured in 20 points and Darryl Overton added 16 as Edenton defeated Williamston 58-55 in Northeastern Conference high school basketball action last night.

In the girls' game, Stephanie Elliott scored 26 points to lead the Lady Aces to a 47-31 win over the Lady Tigers.

In the boys' game, Edenton jumped out to a 16-11 lead after one quarter of play.

The Tigers outscored the Aces 17-14 in the second quarter to close the score to 20-28 at halftime.

Edenton increased its lead to 48-42, outscoring Williamston 18-14 in the third frame.

Williamston scored 13 points to Edenton's 11 in the final period, but the Aces held onto the lead, winning 58-55.

Jesse Ward led the Tigers with 12 points. George Rucker and Vince Speller added 10 apiece for Williamston.

Edenton improved to 8-1 in the Northeastern Conference and 17-2 overall.

Williamston fell to 3-7 and 6-13

overall.

The Lady Tigers opened up a slim 11-10 lead after one period of play and led 17-16 at halftime.

Edenton came out of the locker room and outscored Williamston 13-7 in the third quarter to take a 29-23 lead into the fourth quarter.

The Lady Aces put the game out of reach, outscoring the Lady Tigers 18-7 in the final frame, to win 47-31.

Carrine Liverman contributed 14 points for Edenton, which upped its record to 4-5 in the Northeastern Conference and 9-10 overall.

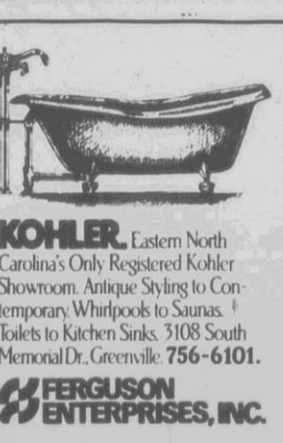

Monique Pou led all Williamston scorers with 18 points.

The Lady Tigers fell to 2-8 in the conference and 4-15 overall.

Williamston hosts Roanoke Rapids Friday night in a Northeastern Conference game.

GM Cars Are Gaining

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — New aerodynamics in General Motors racing cars will make it hard for Bill Elliott and his Ford to duplicate their record-setting year on the NASCAR circuit, said a track manager who watched drivers tune up for the 1986 season.

Although Elliott turned in the fastest time, 207.618 mph, in testing at the Alabama International Motor Speedway, the track's general manager, Don Naman, said Tuesday he does not believe Elliott will be able to win 11 races and $2.5 million as he did in 1985.

Terry Labonte in an Oldsmobile reached 206.537, Cale Yarborough in a Ford, 206.456, and Buddy Baker and Benny Parsons, in Oldsmobiles, 205.054 and 204.834.

"The interesting part is that where last year Elliott seemingly was at least 5 mph ahead of everybody in everything," Naman said. "You can see by those numbers that the GM cars, especially Olds, have closed the gap significantly on him and one was actually faster than Yarborough."

He said that indicated that in the 1986 season, which starts Feb. 16 with the Daytona 500, "it is going to be a lot harder for Elliott to do like he did last year. The GM cars seem to be much more competitive."

The drivers are under more pressure than ever to win, he said.

"The big super sponsors, the motor car companies involved in the background, the car owners wanting to win, and then you throw in the ingredient that the Winston Cup point fund is going to exceed $2 million this year — I think all that is going to make 1986 a year like we've never seen in stock car racing."

"That's why all the testing and engineering is going on."

In December and January, 20 drivers used up 36 test days at the Alabama track, with 10 cars exceeding 200 mph.

"We've never had this magnitude of testing in Alabama during the off-season," Naman said. "WUE MIGHT HAVE HAD FIVE DRIVERS COME HERE AND THAT WOULD BE A BIG TESTING SEASON."

Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buick and Chevrolet all built special aerodynamic models for 1986 racing.

Labonte said the new aerodynamic design made his car feel more stable at 206 mph than it did at 195 mph last year, and gave his 50 more horsepower with the same engine.

Winston again is offering $1 million to any driver who wins three of four big races, the Daytona 500, the Winston 500 at Talladega, the World 600 at Charlotte and the Southern 500 at Darlington. Elliott got the money last year by winning the Daytona, Winston and Southern races.

"Elliott and his Ford forced the GM engineers and designers to build a better car," Naman said.

Ready To Fight Now

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Boxers Livingston Bramble and Tyrone Crawley have found one thing on which they agree. Both say they are ready to fight this time in their twice-postponed World Boxing Association lightweight title bout.

"I'm prepared for this fight. I am ready from the soul," Bramble told a news conference Tuesday.

The WBA lightweight champion said he may have been over-trained for the fight that was called off in November after Crawley injured his hand. But he said he is ready for this one and wishes it were this weekend instead of Feb. 16.

Crawley, whose injuries have caused both postponements, said he is 100 percent prepared for the fight, both mentally and physically.

Bramble predicted the scheduled 15-round fight would not go past the seventh round. "If it goes two seconds into the eighth round, I'll bite him, if I have to," he said.

Crawley answered that he was willing to bet Bramble would not stop him by the eighth round. He predicted he would take the title back to Philadelphia with him, calling the champion "a joke."

Bramble replied that he had wanted to fight Crawley before his title rematch with former lightweight champion Ray "Boom-Boom" Mancini here last February.

"I thought he was nothing then and I think he's nothing now," Bramble said.

The Bramble-Crawley match will take place one year to the day after Bramble defended his championship here by stopping Mancini in the 14th round following a brutal beating of the former champion.

Bramble, 23-1-1 with 14 knockouts, has not fought since then, but said he had spent the past year working out and preparing for the fight with Crawley.

Crawley, 19-1 with six knockouts, fought last on June 5, when he beat Charlie "Choo-Choo" Brown for the U.S. Boxing Association lightweight championship in Atlantic City, N.J.

The two originally were scheduled to fight Oct. 12, then were rescheduled to meet here Nov. 23 before Crawley hurt his hand.

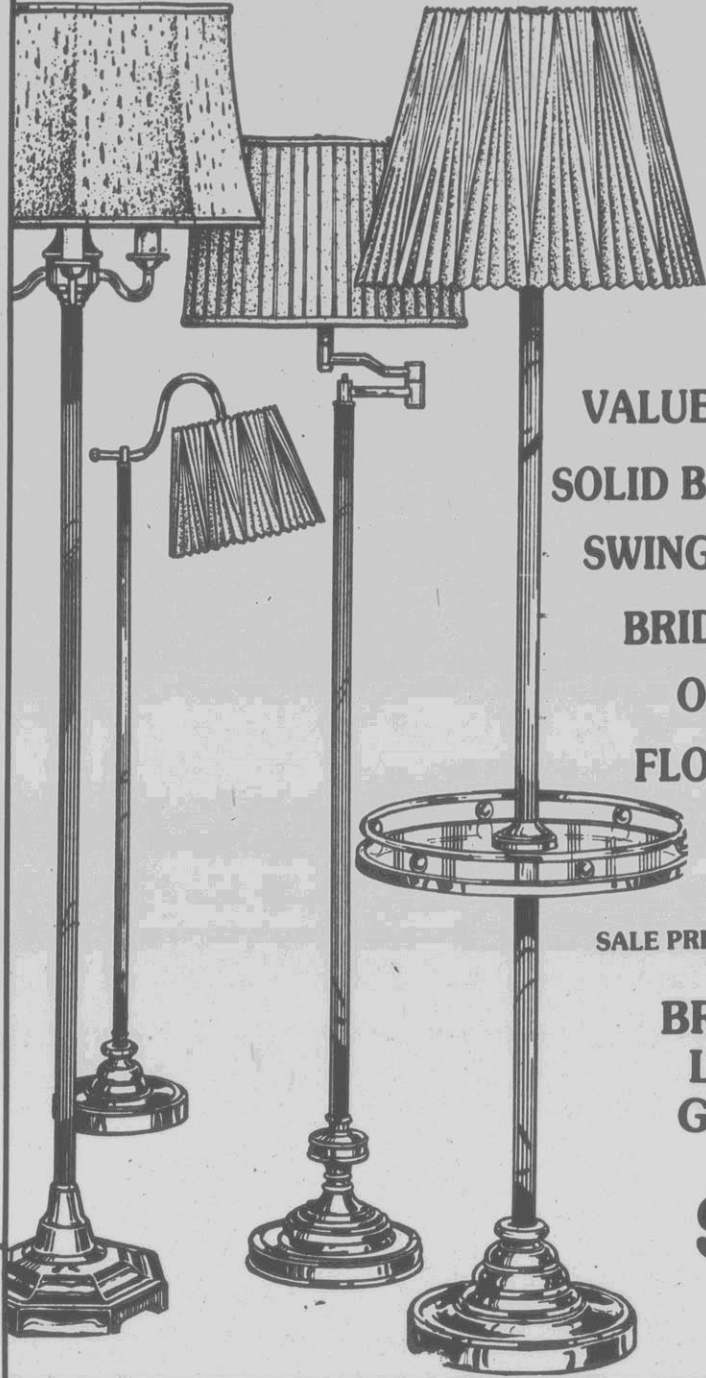

The fight will be held at the MGM Grand and telecast by NBC with the Reno area blacked out.

Reagan Proposes 17% Cut In Farm Budget

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today proposed a hefty 17 percent cut in the Agriculture Department's budget for 1987, including substantial cuts in direct farm lending, crop insurance and agricultural extension.

The president's new budget also calls for trimming the most expensive item of farm spending, commodity price aid income supports, and it proposes savings in the food stamp and other nutrition programs.

Overall, the budget calls for spending in fiscal 1987 for all food and farm programs of $44.6 billion, down from the estimated $54.1 billion to be spent in the current year. The 1986 figure includes a roughly 4.3 percent cut already made to meet the requirements of the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law.

Administration officials had hinted all along that agriculture, which has been one of the fastest-growing items in the federal budget over the past few years, also would be targeted to become one of the fastest to shrink under new spending constraints.

The tug-of-war over farm spending promises to be a primary focus of struggle as Congress hashes out its own spending plans, with the battle heightened by election-year politics.

Rep. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., accused the administration of turning its back on farmers, many of whom have been suffering from a severe economic depression.

"They are going to try to pay for a large part of their defense increase by taking from those programs they think are the most expendable," Daschle said. "They clearly see (agriculture) as expendable."

Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, said Reagan apparently "wants to undo a lot of the 1985 farm bill" which he signed into law less than two months ago. "We won't let that happen," Grassley said.

Among proposals in Reagan's new budget are a total of $4 billion for 1987 in lending authority for the Farmers Home Administration to keep high-risk farmers in business. Of that figure, $1.5 billion would be in direct lending and $2.5 billion in federally guaranteed private loans. Borrowers will be charged a 1 percent loan origination fee to generate additional revenue.

New user fees also are being proposed for federal grain inspection, market news information and animal import and quarantine inspections. Programs to fight fire ants, noxious weeds and animal welfare would be terminated under the proposal.

Federal support for agricultural extension, which provides education in agriculture, home economics and community development, would be cut sharply, from $331 million in the current year to $179 million in 1987. Crop insurance subsidies would drop from $557 million to $370 million, and perhaps even more with proposed legislative changes.

Reagan has seen his food and farm spending priorities vastly changed by Congress in the past.

A year ago Reagan proposed a USDA budget for the current fiscal year at $38.5 billion, a 15 percent reduction from a near-record $45.1 billion then estimated for 1984-85. At that time, the record was $46.4 billion in 1982-83.

But Congress balked at many of the cuts and reforms urged a year ago for USDA. By last August, it was apparent that total outlays for the fiscal year that began on Oct. 1, 1985, would far exceed that number.

A year ago the administration had hopes of seeing a completely "market-oriented" farm bill that would bring a gradual end to commodity price supports and direct subsidy payments. Congress settled on a scaled-down program but stopped far short of what the administration originally wanted.

Many other major reforms offered a year ago also were turned down or modified greatly by Congress, including proposed cuts in small community and rural development programs, a gradual phase-out of Rural Electrification Administration loans, user fees for a number of services and elimination of two-thirds of the programs and employees of the Soil Conservation Service.

Education

College Loans Face Cuts, Students May Pay More

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, seeking deep cuts in the Department of Education's budget, today proposed an end to all federal help for 1 million college students and a halt to interest-free loans for classmates still eligible to borrow.

It asked Congress for an immediate $1 billion cut in the Department of Education's spending authority for fiscal 1986 and further cuts to save a total of $2.6 billion in fiscal 1987. Most education programs are financed a year in advance, so the 1986 cut in budget authority will translate to $1 billion less in aid next year.

The economy measures, which would drop education outlays from $32 billion to $15.4 billion, would come primarily from the student aid and vocational education programs. The 1986 budget would have been $18.2 billion, but the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law is scheduled to squeeze $171 million from school programs on March 1.

A wide range of smaller programs, including $122 million in aid for libraries, would be wiped out or sharply curtailed. But at the same time, President Reagan and Secretary of Education William J. Bennett asked for no cuts in the $3.7 billion Chapter 1 remedial program for the disadvantaged and $143 million in aid for bilingual education.

The $1.3 billion aid to handicapped children program would face $44 million in rescissions in 1986, but no deeper cuts in 1987.

In a last-minute budget addition, Bennett proposed spending $1 million this year only on "Christa McAuliffe scholarships" in honor of the teacher who perished in last week's space shuttle Challenger catastrophe. The grants would help teachers study under math and science scholars.

Currently, 5 1/2 million college students — half of those eligible — get one or more federal grants, loans, work-study funds or other aid. The Reagan budget would reduce that number to 4 1/2 million, or 40 percent.

All students would have to undergo a new, tougher evaluation of their need.

The subsidies in the Guaranteed Student Loan program would be curtailed, but not eliminated. Students now pay no interest while they are in college, and only 7 to 9 percent afterwards.

Students would be charged interest at the Treasury bill rate — currently around 7 percent — from day one, and they would pay the T-bill rate plus 3 points after college.

Students would either have to start making repayments while they attended classes, or borrow more to cover the added interest costs.

Funding for Pell Grants — outright federal gifts of up to $2,100 a year based on students' need, tuition and other expenses — would be cut by $400 million to $3 billion. More than 2.6 million students now get the grants. Some 2.1 million would get them under the Reagan plan.

The administration is also proposing to create a new, college-run program of unsubsidized loans with repayments contingent on the borrowers' future income. Undergraduates could borrow $2,500 to $4,500, and graduate students up to $10,000 a year, with repayments pegged to their actual income in later years. No one would have to pay back more than 15 percent of his or her annual income, but they would eventually have to retire the whole debt, however long that takes.

Vocational education, which got $842 million last year and is slated at $813 million after next month's automatic Gramm-Rudman cuts, would lose $210 million in 1986 rescissions, then be cut to $408 million for 1987.

The administration would rescind $202 million in College Work-Study and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants; all $73 million from a State Student Incentive Grant program, and $182 million from National Direct Student Loans.

It is seeking $75 million for magnet schools to further integration — marking a reversal of its previous opposition to congressional funding for magnet schools.

It will also request $75 million in 1987 for teacher training in an initiative that would revamp an existing $52 million program to train teachers solely in math and science.

The department's research and statistical shop would gain $13 million to $70 million.

Overall, the cuts would trim the federal share of all U.S. expenditures for education from 7 percent to 6 percent. During the 1970s, the federal share exceeded 8 percent.

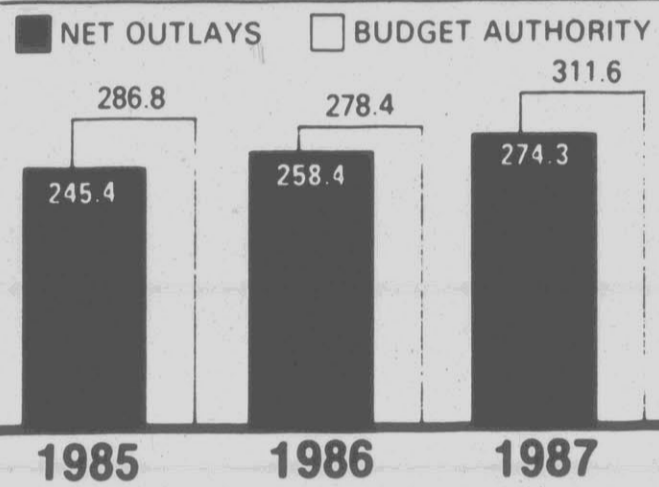

But Education Department officials argue the slack can easily be taken up by increased state and local spending on the schools and colleges.

The FEDERAL BUDGET

OUTLAYS FOR DEFENSE

Fiscal year figures in billions of dollars

Foreign Aid

Reagan Says More Needed For Friends

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today proposed a $1.2 billion increase in international security assistance, saying the aid is needed so friendly nations can acquire "modern military equipment necessary for their defense."

Meanwhile, Reagan's budget recommended a 16 percent cut in money for the United Nations and affiliated agencies.

Even before their official release, Reagan's foreign aid proposals came under attack from congressional Republicans and Democrats, who warned the administration that any increases are unlikely in view of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction act.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, told State Department officials last week they were "courting catastrophe" by seeking an overall hike in foreign aid.

However, documents submitted with Reagan's fiscal 1987 budget argued that a $1.2 billion increase in international security assistance — from $9.7 billion this year including Gramm-Rudman cuts to $10.9 billion in the year beginning Oct. 1 — is needed "to strengthen allied and friendly governments where the United States has special security concerns."

"These programs make it possible for other governments to strengthen their economies and to acquire and use modern military equipment necessary for their defense," the administration said.

In addition, the budget seeks a modest increase in development and humanitarian assistance of $76 million, from $4,902,000 this year to $4,978,000 in fiscal 1987. Overall, Reagan's foreign aid proposal is $15.9 billion in fiscal 1987, compared with $14.6 billion this year.

The budget documents provided no breakdown by country, but a State Department table obtained by The Associated Press last week showed major foreign aid increases in Central America, Jordan and the Sudan.

Defense Spending Would Go Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, undeterred by the new balanced-budget law, today proposed a $320 billion military budget that would dramatically increase space-defense spending in fiscal 1987 and maintain virtually every other major weapons program intact.

The new request totals $274.3 billion in actual outlays for the Defense Department, up $15.9 billion or almost 6.2 percent compared with the current year after the 1986 cuts under the balanced-budget law are taken into effect.

But because much of the Pentagon's purchases take place over several years, Congress is likely to focus on Reagan's budget authority request, which includes long-term money to acquire ships, planes and missiles. This would jump by $33.2 billion or 11.9 percent to $311.6 billion in the year starting Oct. 1.

When the money earmarked for nuclear weapons production by the Department of Energy is added to that amount, military outlays in fiscal 1987 would climb to $282.2 billion, while overall budget authority would hit $320.3 billion.

The request includes a 75 percent increase for the "Star Wars" missile-defense program, to $4.8 billion; the first purchases of a more accurate submarine-launched intercontinental ballistic missile; the start of full-scale development of a mobile, ground-based ICBM dubbed the Midgetman, and a second year of production of chemical weapons.

It also calls for an increase in active-duty personnel of almost 14,000 to 2.18 million; continuing large purchases of ships, planes and tanks; extra training funds for Special Operations Forces, and continued development of a satellite-killer missile.

The budget plan would further provide a 4 percent pay raise for all active-duty personnel at a cost of $2.6 billion.

If approved by Congress, the new request would raise to 27.5 percent the percentage of annual federal spending earmarked for defense, up from 26.4 percent this year.

Moreover, the budget projects spending of some $1.8 trillion on defense through fiscal 1991, signaling the administration's intent to pursue what has already been a massive military buildup.

That projection amounts to roughly $7,800 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

The administration has spent more than $1.2 trillion over the past five years on defense. Included in the latest five-year projection is a request in the early 1990s for money to start the production of a 16th aircraft carrier.

'Nightline' Top Nominee For Broadcasting Awards

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Let's take an age-old riddle — "If a tree falls in the forest and nobody is there to hear it, does it make a sound?" — and give it a contemporary twist:
If demonstrations against apartheid in South Africa are not recorded by cameras and microphones, will they be heard?
Ted Koppel, anchor of ABC's "Nightline," says yes, emphatically. "Precisely because (the violence) has been hidden from view, when it boils over — and it will — there will be an even greater sense of shock," he said.

The South African restrictions, against video and audio coverage of demonstrations and violence in areas of unrest, were established Nov. 2. Government officials said the presence of reporters at demonstrations contributed to the violence. They said stories about unrest, and particularly film images from the black townships, helped destroy external financial confidence in South Africa's stability.

Of course, the government also knew the restrictions would keep such violent images off international television.

Koppel said the strategy is working "in the short-term, but not in the long-term. ... There is a misconception that because they took the story off the screen, it will go away. But the problems won't go away. They're in South Africa's backyard and they're festering." He said the banking community understands the current situation in South Africa, whether or not it's on TV.

Clearly, limiting the coverage of violence has reduced the number of South African stories on the networks' nightly newscasts. According to the networks, ABC, CBS and NBC had 150 stories from South Africa on their weeknight newscasts in August, September and October, but 91 since the ban, in November, December and January.

"The ban has been effective in that it's cut down on daily breaking news out of South Africa," said Rick Kaplan, "Nightline's" executive producer.

"If South Africa had waited and allowed the American media to cover to its heart's content, a certain amount of boredom would have set in," said Koppel. "Let's face it. The story is 8,000 miles away; it's not a backyard issue."

Except that "Nightline," with five extraordinary broadcasts from South Africa last March, had made it more understandable and important to Americans. It also produced more dialogue inside South Africa and even inspired the South African Broadcasting Corp. to start a "Nightline"-style program.

CBS Will Shuffle Lineup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS is removing five shows from its weekly television schedule to test the popularity of two new half-hour comedies and a one-hour dramatic series.

Mary Tyler Moore's new comedy, "Mary," and "Foley Square," starring Margaret Cofii, will have their final Wednesday broadcast Feb. 26. The two comedies will return to the air Tuesday, March 25.

"The Equalizer," starring Edward Woodward, will have its last Wednesday telecast March 12. It will also return Tuesday, March 25.

Two other series, "Trapper John, M.D." and "Crazy Like a Fox," will be taken off the air with no return dates scheduled.

"Mary," which made its debut in December, and the other shows have not done well in the ratings, generally finishing in the middle of the Nielsen list.

The two comedies will return in time slots, which the network hopes would be better suited to their sophisticated style of humor. "Mary" will appear at 9-9:30 p.m. EST and "Foley Square" at 9:30-10 p.m. EST. "The Equalizer" will be telecast at 10-11 p.m. EST.

"Fast Times" and "Tough Cookies," two new half-hour comedies and "Morningstar-Eveningstar," a one-hour drama, will premiere in March. In addition, "The CBS Tuesday Night Movies" will move to Wednesdays beginning March 19.

"Fast Times," a comedy about contemporary teen-agers and the adults in their lives, will premiere Wednesday, March 5, at 8-8:30 p.m. EST. It is based on the movie "Fast Times at Ridgemont High." "Tough Cookies," starring Robby Benson as a young detective who lives and works in the tough South Side neighborhood of Chicago where he grew up will follow at 8:30-9 p.m. "Morningstar-Eveningstar," starring six veteran actors as residents of a retirement home brought together with a group of youngsters who move in when their orphanage burns down, will have its debut Tuesday, March 25, at 8-9 p.m. EST. "Crazy Like a Fox," starring Jack Warden and John Rubinstein, will have its final Wednesday broadcast March 12 and return to that schedule at a date and time to be announced. "Trapper John, M.D." will have its final Tuesday broadcast March 18, with scheduling plans to be announced.

Wilmington Port Handles Tons Of Food

By TOM MINEHART
AP Business Writer

CHARLOTTE (AP) — As thousands of North Carolinians send money to relief agencies fighting starvation in Africa, tens of thousands of tons of the food passes through the state port at Wilmington, officials say.

"Hundreds of thousands of tons are moving out all the time from a great many ports around the country," said Lem Doss, president of Wilmington Shipping Co., which port officials say handled all Wilmington's relief cargo last year. "This particular product is relatively new for Wilmington — soybean oil."

In 1985, Wilmington shipped out about 28,914 tons of relief cargo — all but 1,350 tons of it soybean oil used in cooking, said Dave Bell, deputy director of the Kansas City commodity office of the U.S. Agriculture Department.

The total was 30 percent higher than the average of the three previous years, he said.

"It's one of the smaller ports" for relief shipping, Bell said. "The bulk of the shipments are grain-based, and most of the grain milling is west of the Mississippi."

Excluding bulk grain shipments, about 50 U.S. ports shipped out a total of more than 2.2 million tons of USDA-donated food in 1985.

Wilmington's figures were higher for 1985, thanks in part to the new Wilmington facility of the Louisiana Filling Co., which supplied much of the relief soybean oil last year, Doss said. He said his company acts as shipping agents for two or three shipments a month of relief cargo, most of it for the World Food Program and the Catholic Relief Services.

In one shipment last August, the 512-foot freighter Jacqueville of the Ivory Coast stopped at Wilmington to load 2,179 tons of donated food, including 46 containers of cornmeal in bags totaling 805 tons and 80 containers of soybean oil in cartons totaling 1,374 tons.

The corn meal arrived by rail from Illinois and the soybean oil was from the Louisiana Filling Co.

The Jacqueville unloaded the food at the African ports of Douala, Lome, Abidjan, Tema, Dakar and Cotonou and returned to Wilmington for another shipment on Oct. 21, port officials said.

Here's how the process works, according to Bell:

The voluntary agencies, such as the World Food Program, tell the U.S. Agency for International Development their food needs. Bell's office then solicits bids from ocean carriers and food sellers, such as Louisiana Filling Co.

The sellers most likely are trying to get rid of excess production and so are likely to take low prices for their food, said Bell. The bids include the cost of transporting the food to the coastal range or an intermodal terminal.

A computer matches the orders and the cheapest combination of inland and ocean transportation to the final destination. The USDA then awards the contracts, and the voluntary agencies are required to send the cargo at or below the rate of the government's chosen carrier. Most of the time they choose the carrier the government chose, he said.

The USDA pays for the food and USAID reimburses the voluntary agencies for some or all of the freight charges, he said.

About 60 percent of the food is handled by American voluntary agencies and 30 percent by the Rome-based World Food Program, said Bell. Of the U.S. agencies, Catholic Relief Services and CARE together probably account for 80 percent of the volume, he said.

Insurer Wants To Raise Malpractice Rates 357%

RALEIGH (AP) — Amid controversy over the rising costs of insurance, one of North Carolina's two major providers of medical malpractice coverage has filed a proposal that would push premiums up 357 percent for family practice doctors who deliver babies.

"The doctors in the non-urban areas are going to have a heck of a time," said George Moore, executive director of the North Carolina Medical Society. "There won't be anybody left to deliver babies out there."

The rates for most other doctors would increase an average of 45 percent.

The proposed increases, filed Friday with the state Department of Insurance by Medical Mutual Insurance Co. of North Carolina, are part of a series of insurance price hikes and availability problems that prompted Insurance Commissioner

Jim Long to call for a special legislative session.

Doctors have said soaring premiums for some high-risk procedures, such as delivering babies, could force some doctors to abandon or restrict their medical practice.

Moore said urban areas are not as critical because obstetricians are available to deliver babies if family practitioners are not.

Under Medical Mutual's proposal, the premium rates for most family practice doctors who deliver babies and have been in practice for five years or more would rise March 1 from $4,840 to $22,126, an increase of 357 percent.

The premiums for comparable doctors who do not deliver babies would increase 36 percent, from $2,760 to $3,756. Premiums for doctors in other areas would increase an average of 44.7 percent.

The rates are based on $1 million coverage, the level most doctors choose.

Insurance Department officials said they had not reviewed the proposed increases and could not comment on it.

But the increase automatically goes into effect under law as long as the proposal is accompanied by supporting financial data that shows the need for a rate hike, said Roger Langley, who heads the department's section that deals with malpractice coverage.

"We don't have the authority to approve or disapprove," Langley said. "Our job will be to determine whether they have statistically supported notes."

Moore said the laws governing medical malpractice need to be reworked.

Court Upholds N.C. Bingo Law

By DENNIS PATTERSON
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Now that North Carolina's bingo law has been upheld by the state Court of Appeals, it can aid the charitable groups the Legislature meant for it to benefit, says an official in the state Attorney General's Office.

"Now the statute can be enforced," David Crump, a special deputy attorney general, said Tuesday after the court rejected a lawsuit by the Durham Council for the Blind that tried to have the law declared unconstitutional.

"I think it will benefit the charitable organizations that the General Assembly intended it to benefit," said Crump, who represented the state in the case.

The 1983 law restricts bingo operations to tax-exempt, non-profit charities that obtain a state license.

The law requires charities to conduct the games in a building they normally use for their activities, run the games without using professional operators and limit the games to two nights per week, among other restrictions.

The Durham Council for the Blind filed suit a few days after the law took effect, saying it could not operate its own games, as required by the law, and would suffer a loss of funds under the statute.

Howard Twigg, a Raleigh attorney who represented the council, said he and his clients would consider whether to ask the state Supreme Court or the federal courts to review the appeals court ruling.

Twigg said the conditions the law imposed on his clients made it impossible for them to conduct bingo games legally.

"They do not have the money to buy a building," Twigg said in a telephone interview. "And the rental rate charge — 1.25 percent — does not permit the renting of any building in the city of Durham conducive to the playing of bingo...."

In affirming a Wake County Superior Court judge's dismissal of the suit, the appeals court said the state had a legitimate right to restrict bingo operations to certain groups and to ensure that bingo profits went to the charities sponsoring the games.

The 1983 law was approved after complaints that professional bingo operators were taking the majority of the proceeds from bingo games supposedly operated for the benefit of charities.

Also Tuesday, the appeals court: — Ordered a new trial for Thomas V. Hooper, who was convicted of second-degree murder in the 1983 slaying of Todd Bradford.

The court ruled that testimony from an SBI agent about Hooper's request for an attorney during questioning should not have been allowed during the 1985 trial in Polk County.

— Refused to reinstate the law license of Durham Attorney Art Vann. Vann's request for reinstatement was denied by the State Bar in June 1985.

Vann, who pleaded guilty to 11 counts of forgery in February 1979, had surrendered his law license.

Doctors Reporting Outbreaks Of Flu

By The Associated Press

Dr. James H. McCutchan says he logged 250 flu cases among students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the most on any college campus last week.

"They feel so weak they hardly want to get out of bed," he said.

That scene is being repeated across North Carolina at other college campuses and in the workplace.

"We have both type A and type B," said Dr. Rebecca Meriweather, head of the N.C. Communicable Disease Control Branch in Raleigh. "The symptoms are the same for both."

"It does appear to be fairly widespread. We're hearing about a lot of school absences across the state," she said.

The number of flu cases doubled last week from 250 to 566 at 11 college campuses, said Dr. J. Newton Mac-

Cormack, the state's chief epidemiologist. He said that rate was bad but no worse than in most years.

He said at the height of the season, the flu generally hits 500 to 600 college students a week.

"We don't know whether we're at the peak until we've passed it," MacCormack said Monday.

Most years, the flu season peaks in January and February and drops off in March, he said.

MacCormack said many people confuse flu with the common cold. He said the tell-tale sign that indicates flu is fever. Both types of flu virus have the same symptoms — running nose, hacking cough, sore throat, fever and general aches and pains.

"The individual with a temperature of 104 doesn't care if it's A or B," McCutchan said. "He's just sick."

In addition, AT&T is proposing a charge to recover the Special Access Service Surcharge applied by the local exchange companies (LECs) to certain AT&T Communications Channel Services terminations; to eliminate the Telpak (Series 5000) Channel Service offering; to revise the Channel Services Tariff to permit the resale of Channel Services; to bill the end-user the LEC's access charges for the open-end of Foreign Exchange Service; to treat Telephone Answering Service Facilities the same as Series 2000, Type 2010 Channel Services; and to grandfather Series 1000, Types 1009 and 1010 Channel Services and to make new installations of these services only where the facilities required to provide them are available.

AT&T's proposed adjustments in its rates and charges for InterLATA WATS and 800 Service were separated from its general rate application and set for hearing beginning March 4, 1986, in Docket No. P-100, Sub 86 in conjunction with Southern Bell's tariff filing proposing adjustments in the InterLATA WATS and 800 Service rates and charges. Notice of these proposed adjustments was rendered by separate mailing to each WATS and 800 Service subscriber 30 days in advance of the March 4, 1986, hearing.

Further details about the proposed rate adjustments can be obtained by contacting AT&T or at the office of the Chief Clerk of the Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, where a copy of the application is available for review by any interested person. The Commission will consider additional or alternative rate proposals which were not included in the original application and may order rate increases or decreases which differ from those proposed by AT&T. Upon request, the Commission will place copies of the application and prefiled testimony in centrally-located public libraries. The material may be copied without prohibition at the library.

The Utilities Commission has suspended the proposed rate adjustments, has set the application for investigation and hearing and has required AT&T to comply with all provisions of law and the Commission Rules in connection with its application.

The hearing in this docket has been scheduled as follows:

Raleigh: Beginning Tuesday, March 25, 1986, at 9:30 a.m., Commission Hearing Room, 217 Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

The hearing is for the purpose of receiving testimony and cross-examination of witnesses for all telephone companies, the Public Staff, intervenors and public witnesses.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals L

Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Berry Me Gently

This month, genetic engineers will take a stab at improving the strawberry by making it more resistant to frost. It won't be the first time someone has tried to improve the berry. Strawberry seeds have been found at 7000-year-old sites in several nations. But the small, hard to pick berries remained a wild delicacy until they were cultivated in 1608. Strawberries were first marketed commercially about 100 years ago, when refrigerated transportation became available.

DO YOU KNOW — Does the strawberry plant reproduce by seeds?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Brazil is the world's leading coffee producer.

PIGGLY WIGGLY KEEPS AMERICA SHOPPING WITH EVERYDAY LOW PRICES!

SO LONG, TONY — Tony the Tiger and his little friend are familiar felines to thousands of people who visit the Battle Creek, Mich., headquarters of the Kellogg Co. But the cereal maker says the public tours of its plant, in operation since 1906, will end April 1. The decision has left some townspeople up in arms with fears that it will disrupt Battle Creek's tourism industry. (AP Laser-photo)

Hotel Provides Lodging For Those Who Love Cats

WABASHA, Minn. (AP) — The Anderson House is one Victorian hotel where the biggest hit isn't the four-poster bed or the four-legged tub but the four-pawed creatures that curl up beneath them.

If you're crazy for cats, this hotel is purr-fect for you.

The 130-year-old inn, the oldest operating hotel in Minnesota, offers a free cat companion service to guests who stop over in this quaint Mississippi River town.

"It just makes people feel it's more than a home," said owner John Hall. "It's one more step to going back to Grandma's house."

Other creature comforts of yesteryear are also provided at the red-brick inn — oven-warmed bricks in the beds to toast the toes and mustard plasters to soothe the chest.

But the cats on call are in much greater demand. The 10 cats, Hall said, are booked by guests about 99 percent of the time, some months in advance. Morris, a 10-year inn veteran who weighs a hulking 32 pounds and is a dead ringer for his TV namesake, has the longest booking list.

"He's the most requested," Hall said. "He does nothing but purr. He's just a big bowl of jelly."

Not just any cat can join Morris, Tiger, Fred and Ginger and other members of the inn's animal house. A cat's got to have credentials.

"We have to know who their parents are, who they are, if they're halfway stable. We're a little particular," said Hall, 41, the fourth generation in his family to own the inn.

"Only one came off the street," Hall said. "He (Tiger) hung around the back kitchen door for two or three months. We'd feed him and feed him. We took him in, sent him to the vet and had him checked out."

The cats share living quarters in a back room when off-duty. When "working," they come with food and litter boxes and are available for a few hours or an entire weekend.

The cat idea originated 10 years ago when a guest who checked in after visiting the Mayo Clinic about 25 miles away said he was lonely and needed companionship. "The best we could offer was a cat," Hall recalled.

"When he checked out, he said he'd stayed in hotels for 20 years and this was his most memorable visit," Hall added.

No Demand For Sweeps

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Chimney sweeps in Florida are as easy to find as rainmakers in Seattle, umbrella salesmen in the Sahara and goat farmers in New York City.

Ask Edythe Stewart. She searched nearly four months before coming across Andre Fortier, a part-time chimney sweep and full-time jack-of-all-trades.

"I have tried to get a chimney sweep since October," said Mrs. Stewart, 82, of Hollywood. "I tried one in the book and kept getting someone else. He wasn't a chimney sweep and he wasn't too happy. So I just gave up."

She didn't know it until later, but she had been calling Fortier's old number. She discovered his new one after seeing his name in a local paper.

"I phoned right away," she said. "I was so excited, I forgot to leave my name and address on the answering machine. I had to call back."

Fortier was glad she did. There's not much of a demand for chimney sweeps in the Sunshine State. In fact, there are fewer than 700 sweeps in the state — about 8 percent of the U.S. total, says Elaine Edwards, general manager of the National Chimney Sweep Guild.

Auditions Scheduled For Pupils

WINSTON-SALEM — The North Carolina School of the Arts is planning regional auditions across the state for prospective students for the coming school year. Auditions will begin Saturday and conclude on April 5.

The first of the regional auditions will be at two locations in Raleigh on Saturday. Auditions for drama, design and production and visual arts will be held in the Theater in the Park, the old Pullen Park Armory in Raleigh. For dance and music, auditions will be at William Enloe High School, 128 Clarendon Crescent.

The second of the regional auditions will be held March 8 at John T. Hoggard High School, 4305 Shipyard Boulevard, Wilmington.

The last of the three regional auditions will be held at Hendersonville High School, Hendersonville, on Saturday, April 5.

All auditions are to be from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Anyone wishing to audition should make arrangements in advance by calling the NCSA Admissions office, 784-7170, extension 2511. Dates for on-campus auditions are also available by calling that office.

Admission to NCSA is highly competitive. The first requisite for admission is a demonstration of talent, achievement and career potential. All students must audition before an artist-faculty panel as part of the application process.

The N.C. School of the Arts was established in 1963 to train students of exceptional ability for careers in the performing arts. It presently enrolls more than 700 high school, college and graduate students from 44 states and 13 foreign countries in the fields of dance, drama, music, the visual arts and design and production.

Voyager 2 Continues On Lonely Trek Through Space

By LEE SIEGEL
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 2, a lonely robot explorer gathering information for Earth-bound scientists, is speeding toward another distant world after answering old questions and posing new mysteries about the bizarre planet Uranus.

During the last month, the 1,819-pound satellite's two television cameras and several sensors examined the solar system's third-largest planet and its orbiting moons and rings.

On Jan. 24, after an 8½-year, curving 3 billion-mile journey, Voyager passed within 50,679 miles of Uranus, a planet so distant at 1.8 billion miles that the craft's radio signals, traveling at the speed of light, take 2¼ hours to reach Earth.

The satellite is now on a course that will take it past Neptune on Aug. 24, 1989, but its instruments will continue making observations of rapidly receding Uranus for another month.

Voyager 2, launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in 1977, had already explored Jupiter and Saturn in 1979-81. Its twin, Voyager 1, also explored those two planets, but is now hurtling through empty space above the plane in which the planets orbit the sun.

"The Voyagers — these robot emissaries — act as extensions of our own senses out at the orbits of these remote worlds," said astronomer Richard Terrile at Jet Propulsion Laboratory, headquarters for the $600 million Voyager project. "Through Voyager, the whole planet, all of civilization, gets to be the explorers."

Voyager 2 discovered 10 tiny moons around Uranus; determined that the five, larger, previously known moons are half rock and half ice; and revealed some of those moons were violently altered by forces that created deep canyons, towering cliffs and mountains, and strange icy flows.

The probe also studied the region in which nine charcoal-black rings were known to encircle Uranus, revealing at least two more rings, pieces of another 10 and broad bands of sparse, microscopic dust between the rings. It also showed that some rings are tinted red and blue.

Voyager 2 observed storm clouds and 220 mph wind in Uranus' atmosphere; confirmed that the atmosphere is mostly hydrogen and helium chilled to 350 degrees below zero Fahrenheit; and mapped huge, blue methane clouds.

Its instruments also showed that Uranus' poles and equator have similar temperatures, while a colder collar encircles the planet's mid-latitudes.

Voyager's sensors confirmed scientists' belief that Uranus has a magnetic field, but found that its magnetic north pole wobbles. The magnetic field's existence suggested it is created by conductive, flowing material hidden beneath the thick atmosphere — either a molten rocky core or deep oceans loaded with electrically charged particles.

Voyager also measured a day on Uranus at 16 hours and 48 minutes, give or take about 20 minutes, and revealed that Uranus' dark side has auroral lights, like Earth's northern and southern lights, and that parts of the planet emit an ultraviolet glow.

One major mystery is that Voyager discovered only two so-called shepherd moons, whose gravitational forces are believed to herd Uranus' outermost, or epsilon, ring into its skinny shape.

But when the spacecraft found the ring contains mostly 3-foot chunks rather than dust particles, it cast doubt on whether the gravity of the two moons is strong enough to keep the ring in shape.

Some researchers believe other, undiscovered moons must exist to shepherd epsilon and the other rings, but may be too small for detection by Voyager's cameras. Other scientists question the whole shepherd moon theory.

Another riddle centers on the blackness of the rings and parts of the moons. Scientists believed radiation might turn methane ice on the moons and rings into a dark substance, but Voyager didn't collect enough information to confirm the theory.

Voyager also failed to reveal what tipped Uranus on its side so its poles take turns facing the sun, the only lopsided planet in the solar system. Some scientists believe Uranus once was struck by an Earth-sized body.

The geology of the five major moons also poses a mystery.

Those closest to Uranus tend to have more radically sculpted surfaces than more distant moons, suggesting the planet may have had something to do with generating forces such as heat within the moons. But that doesn't explain why Umbriel, smack in the middle of the other four big moons, is relatively smooth.

Bible Is Translated Into Navajo Language

By LAURIE ASSEO
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The new Navajo Bible, painstakingly translated in bits and pieces since 1910, may spark a new interest in the Indians' ancient tribal language as well as promote Christianity, religious leaders say.

The Navajo-language Bible was unveiled recently at ceremonies in Tuba City and Window Rock, Ariz., and in Farmington, N.M., on the sprawling Navajo reservation.

"It's the biggest thrill of my life. When I got it I just sat and cried," said Lois Martin, a missionary who began working on the translation with her Navajo husband, Geronimo Martin, about 40 years ago. Her husband, who was blind and read from an English Braille Bible to make his translations, played a part in the final proof corrections before he died in September 1984.

It is not the first time the complete Bible has been translated into an American Indian language, said William Wonderly, translation consultant for the American Bible Society, publisher of the Navajo Bible. The Bible was translated more than a century ago into the Massachusetts Indian language, and also into the Dakota dialect of the Sioux language during the 1800s, he said.

But the introduction of the first full Navajo Bible was anxiously awaited by many members of the United States' largest Indian nation.

"The Navajo people, those who have become Christians, have an intense love, a fervent love, of the Bible," Wonderly said. "There was a real air of enthusiasm at those ceremonies. It was a historic occasion which will never be repeated."

The book of Genesis was translated into Navajo and published in 1910, along with the gospel of Mark. Parts of Exodus, Psalms, Luke, Romans, 1st Corinthians and Revelation were completed by Christian missionaries in 1917. In 1930, Acts was published, like the others, by the American Bible Society, Wonderly said.

A serious push to translate the entire New Testament began during the 1940s — led by the Martins and missionaries Faye Edgerton and Faith Hill — and the volume was published in 1956. The Martins then worked on the Old Testament with a new translation team led by the Rev. David Tutt, a United Methodist missionary.

The team relied mainly on the King James Bible and the New American Standard Bible but also referred to Hebrew versions, Tutt said.

It wasn't always easy to find the right words, Tutt said.

The concept of sin originally had been translated to mean "stumbling or blundering," but that language did not seem strong enough, he said, and the word was re-translated to mean "a missing of the mark," which fits with an existing Navajo religious concept.

Angels were translated as "the holy ones who serve God," Mrs. Martin said. Because the pomegranate fruit figures in the Bible, she said she got one at a store for her husband to sample. "That gave him a better idea of how to translate it," she said.

The project suffered a setback in 1974 when a suitcase containing the translated book of Job fell from the Martins' car during a trip. "We said by the time we got done (re-translating the book) we understood Job's trials better, and it probably was a better translation," Mrs. Martin said.

The Bible is selling well, religious leaders say, even though most Navajos are illiterate in their native language. For most, Navajo is mainly a spoken language, Tutt said.

Mrs. Martin said she plans in September to become a "floating literary worker" to help Navajos learn to read their language. A Navajo New Testament has been put on a cassette, and religious workers hope the Old Testament will be recorded soon so people can listen as they read the printed version.

The Rev. Sampson Yazzie, the Navajo pastor of the Farmington

Christian Reform Church in New Mexico, said a woman at his church had offered to read the Navajo Bible and teach people about the language.

At Yazzie's church, services are conducted twice, in Navajo and in English.

"People have been coming and coming and coming," Yazzie said. A major aim is to spread Christianity as an alternative to the traditional Navajo tribal religion which has declined, in some places replaced by peyote drug cults, he and Wonderly said.

At the Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic mission in Kayenta, Ariz., priests have completed a translation of the full Mass and are awaiting Vatican approval to use it, said the Rev. Cormac Antram. He said he has conducted parts of the Mass in Navajo and added, "I have had a lot of comments about how much it means to them."

Mrs. Martin said many Navajos have told her they consider the Navajo Bible translation to be "God's word ... It was a white man's Bible before."

Activist Priests Defying Church To Seek Changes

COCHIN, India (AP) — The social activism of priests and nuns among India's small Roman Catholic population has created dissent and led to a debate about the role of the church in this mostly Hindu country that Pope John Paul II will visit beginning Saturday.

Catholic bishops interviewed in western and southern India say they are worried about an increasing number of young Indian priests and nuns who defy church leaders to protest for social justice.

India, a country of 750 million, is plagued by poverty, malnutrition, sickness, illiteracy and discrimination. Christians make up less than 3 percent of the population, but are a powerful 20 percent in the southern-most state of Kerala.

Some of the radicals have embraced a Marxist style of liberation theology. That movement, derived from Latin American priests, holds that the church has a mission to engage in struggle for social justice, especially in the Third World.

The Vatican does not oppose liberation theology to help achieve social justice or to alleviate poverty, but it rejects Marxist elements such as class struggle and the use of violence. Church leaders say the church must minister to the whole man and his spirit, not only economic conditions.

Hindu caste system discrimination still is pervasive in India, and some priest champion Christian "untouchables," who plan protests during John Paul's 10-day visit that begins Saturday.

"This liberation theology is creating a problem in India, especially in Kerala," Archbishop Simon Pimenta of Bombay, president of the India Catholic Bishops Association, said in an interview.

He said the older clergy oppose the radical ideas and "this has led to theological differences and formation of rival groups in parishes. What we are witnessing now is growing polarization of thought within the church."

"It is not a specific function of clergy to get involved in the role of laymen" to uplift the poor, the archbishop of New Delhi, Angelo Fernandes, said. "But we haven't had enough lay leadership."

But the Rev. Sebastian Kappen, 65, a leading proponent of liberation theology in Kerala, said, "Linking religion and faith to political action is not new. Mahatma Gandhi ... provided the base for all liberation theology."

"The church no longer represents the poor and less fortunate and there is a harmony in the interests of the church and state," he said.

Kappen and other priests backed agitation by Christian and Hindu fishermen who said their livelihood was being plundered by mechanized trawlers with vast nets. The agitation was called off after state concessions, including restrictions on trawlers.

Many activist priests are not Marxist ideologues but chafe over the pace of social progress in India, where about four of every 10 people live below the poverty line.
