Aquino Picks Aides; Marcos Flies To Hawaii

By DENIS D. GRAY
Associated Press Writer
MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Corazon Aquino today named her Cabinet and said she will seek a cease-fire with communist guerrillas waging an insurgency in the countryside. Her vice president announced plans for a general political amnesty.
Mrs. Aquino, who assumed command Tuesday after longtime President Ferdinand E. Marcos fled in defeat, met with at least 11 members of the Marcos Cabinet, including his prime minister, Cesar Virata. At the brief meeting at her former campaign headquarters, she shook their hands and asked for cooperation. "Let's forget the past," she said, asking them to stay on until her appointees can take over.

Marcos, beset by a tainted election, a military revolt, growing popular opposition and pressure from the Reagan administration, ended his 20 years of rule in the Philippines on Tuesday night. He fled to Clark Air Base aboard a U.S. helicopter, and was flown to Guam today aboard a U.S. military transport. Air Force spokesman Lt. Gary Strasbourg in Guam said Marcos and his party took off on a C-141 transport this morning for Hawaii, 3,700 miles to the northeast.

At the news conference where she announced the members of her Cabinet, Mrs. Aquino said she did not plan to ask the United States to extradite Marcos.
"I have said I can be magnanimous in victory," she said. "I would like to show by example that the sooner we can forget our hurt, then the easier it will be for our country to start rebuilding from the ruins left us."

She said a new Commission on Good Government would be charged with investigating alleged illegal transfers of wealth outside the country by Marcos and his associates.
Mrs. Aquino, 53, Marcos' opponent in the Feb. 7 presidential election, had refused to admit defeat after the Marcos-dominated National Assembly declared Marcos the winner. Mrs. Aquino and the 68-year-old Marcos took nearly identical but rival oaths of office Tuesday, hours before Marcos gave up his post.

Today, the new president designated her vice president, Salvador Laurel, as prime minister pending approval by the National Assembly, and also gave him the foreign minister's portfolio.
Laurel, interviewed on CBS News, announced plans for "a general amnesty to all political offenders."
Mrs. Aquino said at her news conference that she would ask for a cease-fire with the communist guerrilla group, the New People's Army. She said she'd heard that two of the group's commanders might surrender to her.

Laurel told CBS News he expected 90 percent of the New People's Army to surrender, adding, "That will make it easier for us to tackle the remaining 10 percent."
However, Laurel said Mrs. Aquino did not plan to give the communists a

Court Upholds Controls On Rent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a victory for tenants and possibly other consumers, ruled today that cities may impose rent controls even without authorization by state legislatures.

By an 8-1 vote, the justices said a Berkeley, Calif., rent control law does not violate federal antitrust law. The court rejected arguments by landlords that the local ordinance is a form of price-fixing conspiracy forbidden by the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, writing for the court, said the ordinance is valid because it was imposed by the city government, and did not involve any concerted action by owners of rental property banding together to fix prices.

"A restraint imposed unilaterally by government does not become concerted action ... simply because it has a coercive effect upon parties who must obey the law," Marshall said.

"The mere fact that all competing property owners must comply with the same provisions of the ordinance is not enough to establish a conspiracy among landlords," he said.

Most municipal rent control regulations are authorized by state law, and previous court rulings have insulated state activities from antitrust attack.

Today's ruling affects several other California cities besides Berkeley, several New Jersey cities and the District of Columbia. The decision also gives other communities a green light to enact rent controls on their own.

The Berkeley ordinance, the outgrowth of a voter initiative, covers about 23,000 rental units that were placed under controls, establishing a base rent ceiling as of May 31, 1980.

Mutinous Security Forces Touch Off Riots In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Army troops battled rioters in Cairo today after an overnight rampage by mutinous security forces near the Great Pyramids. Some luxury hotels were set ablaze, but no tourists were reported injured.
The spree of arson, looting, and gunfire began late Tuesday in the suburb of Maadi and was taken up by civilians in Cairo and other cities. Mobs stormed a prison, freeing many convicts.

There was no official word on casualties, but one dead security forces man was seen in Maadi, where many American, Israeli and other foreign diplomats live. Hundreds of tourists near the pyramids were being evacuated to downtown.

Late today, soldiers manning tanks and armored personnel carriers patrolled the largely deserted streets of this normally bustling city of 12 million after state-controlled Cairo

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done. Write and tell us about the problem or issue into which you'd like for Hotline to look. Enclose photostatic copies of any pertinent information. Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C., 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

CARE-LINE

Hotline is often called on for information about which state agency to use for which need. We quickly refer to Care-Line, a telephone service operated by the state government to provide free information on human services in North Carolina.

Phillip J. Kirk Jr., human resources secretary, said each call to Care-Line is promptly answered by a trained information and referral specialist. Susan Crocker, director of the N.C. Dept. of Human Resources Office of Information and Referrals, said the line is staffed Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The agency has a telecommunications device for the deaf and hearing impaired, she added.

Contra Spokesman Seeks Support In Ousting Sandinista Government

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer
Teofilo Archibold, a leader of the Contra movement in Nicaragua, visited Greenville today to promote support for the overthrow of the Sandinista government.

In a soft Caribbean-tinged accent, he told of having his fingernails pulled out by Sandinistan officials when he was jailed for protesting the influx of Cubans into his hometown of Bluefields on Nicaragua's east coast.

"In the beginning we (Nicaraguans) thought we were going to get a Democratic government, so we supported the Sandinistas," he said. "We now acknowledge that we made a mistake. We had a hope and a promise that we would have a free country and we don't. We were looking for an apple and we got a rotten apple."

Archibold opposed Anastasio Somoza's right-wing dictatorship and organized black labor unions and community organizations as part of the broad coalition that overthrew his government in 1979. He said he then supported the Sandinistan government of Daniel Ortega because of Ortega's promises of democracy and freedom, but said he now supports the anti-Sandinista Contras. Archibold said he changed his loyalty because the Sandinistas have turned Nicaragua into a communist dictatorship.

The 56-year-old Creole/Miskito Indian was jailed in 1981 by Nicaragua's leftist government for organizing an anti-Sandinista protest. He has been living in exile in Honduras for the past three years, and is visiting the United States to lobby for support of the Contra rebels.

"I am here to explain to the U.S. that our cause is to gain a democratic government, a free country," Archibold said. "We want to choose our government without any pressure. With the Sandinista government we cannot choose. Cubans and Russians are controlling the whole Sandinista government. What we have in Nicaragua is a communist government. With the support from anyone, especially the United States, we can be democratic."

Archibold called for the United States government to provide military support to the Contras, not just humanitarian support. "We need whatever we can get," he said. "Whatever we can get we need. I believe a beggar is not a chooser."

His visit to eastern North Carolina was sponsored by the National Endowment for the Presentation of Liberty, a Washington foundation sponsored by conservative groups. The tour is targeted on congressional districts which hold the balance in the upcoming vote on aid to the Contras.

Archibold was escorted by state Sen. Thomas Taft, a Pitt County Democrat.

"There is a consensus (in the U.S. government) that the Sandinistas are communist and have no intention of having a democratic government," Taft said. "I am part of a group of Democrats who want to see support to the Contras."

"There is a growing consensus that it is time to support the Contras militarily," the senator stated. "If we don't, we will see the consolidation of a Marxist-Leninist government on the mainland of America."

Candy Worms Wiggling Way Toward Popularity

By JOHN WEISS
Rochester Post-Bulletin
WINONA, Minn. (AP) — Gummy Bears by the millions, tens of millions. Squirms by the bag and vat. Stacks, racks and packs of chewy tart-tasting candies that are so popular nationwide they are crowding the Schuler Chocolates Inc. building in Winona.

Demand for the candies is so great, in fact, and facilities so short that the company is seeking to boost Gummy Bears and Squirms production with a $1.5 million expansion that will add about 45 jobs, said President William Schuler.

The expansion won't add new space to the factory, but will put more equipment in existing space, Schuler said. If done, it will triple production, which is now around a billion Gummy Bears and a quarter billion Squirms a year. Schuler is the first U.S. company to make the candies.

Schuler Chocolates now is owned by Brock Candy Co. of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The story of how the Gummy Bears — so popular in Europe for so long — came to be made in Winona actually starts in 1980 when Schuler's son, Kurt, now 17, made a comment.

As William Schuler tells the story, his son came home from junior high one day and said his German club was selling the Bears, then produced in Europe, to raise money. "Those Gummy Bears are great, you should make them," he told his father.

Schuler knows a good idea when he hears it. His market research continued when he asked two clerks at a Twin Cities candy counter what candy sold very well, but which surprised them in sales. "They looked at each other and they both said at the same time 'Gummy Bears,'" Schuler said.

The company did more in-depth investigation and verified the demand.

But there was one problem. Though the little candy bears and worm-like Squirms seem easy to make, it is actually very difficult to get the right tartness and texture, Schuler said.

So Schuler Chocolates worked for about a year to get the candy right and continues to work on improvements, Schuler said.

Some of the testing involved his son's friends and students at colleges his older children were attending. Schuler would send them batches of different attempts and his children would give them to friends for an opinion, he said. The Brock Co. also employed professional tasters for added insurance.

"For some reason or other, (the candy) never caught on in this country," he said. But now, Gummy Bears and Squirms are big sellers and supply can't keep up with demand.

Once the market was explored initially, the success didn't surprise Schuler. "I think they are a great piece of candy," he said. "They have a good texture, they are fun to eat."

They come in eight fruit flavors, and Schuler says because of the way they are made, "they can tolerate more intense flavors."

Schuler Chocolates was founded in 1906 in Winona by Schuler's father, Charles C. Schuler, and his grandfather, Charles P. Schuler. It was sold to Brock more than a decade ago, and the company now has annual sales of about $10 million.

KIDS AND COMPUTERS

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Researchers at the University of Wisconsin-Madison say that computer use can encourage socialization among preschoolers.

"We found computers to be at least as good and probably better at encouraging social interaction, like talking and sharing, than many other preschool activities," said researcher Patrick Dickson, a professor of child and family studies. Computer activities, where children are paired, offer a chance for shy children to participate and talk, he said.

Tobacco Industry Is DAR Topic

The tobacco industry in colonial and Revolutionary South Carolina was discussed by Dr. John C. Ellen at the Susanna Coutanch Evans Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution meeting.

Dr. Ellen is with the East Carolina University history department. He focused on Thomas Singleton and his role in promoting tobacco as a profitable crop and export commodity from the port of "Charles Town." Singleton wrote a treatise on tobacco culture, from choosing seed to planting, harvesting and barn management.

"When Singleton died in 1798, South Carolina was producing 10,000 hogsheads of tobacco," Dr. Ellen said.

Regent Phyllis McLane reviewed final arrangements for the chapter's assistant for the C.A.R. conference. Members were reminded of the state DAR conference in Pinehurst March 17-19 and of DAR Day in Manteo July 23.

Named to a nominating committee were Doris Ballengee, Edith Willisms and Christine Waters. Officers will serve three-year terms beginning in May.

Guests included Margaret Schiller, Mrs. Jack Wynn Jr. and Françoise Reese.

Requesting Money Shows Couple's Poor Taste

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to you, but I need to know what you and your readers think of the enclosed request printed at the bottom of a wedding invitation we received:

"In lieu of material gifts, we request that your well wishes be expressed in money for a memorable honeymoon."

By the way, the couple married last June and never did go on a honeymoon.

SEEN EVERYTHING IN NEW YORK

DEAR SEEN: Requesting money—unless specifically asked what the couple "needs"—shows very poor taste. You did not indicate how you expressed your "well wishes," but it was good of you to contribute to my "seen everything" collection. This one's a beaut.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the letter from the woman who wrote to say that her brother might be sexually molesting his stepdaughter. As district attorney, in the past seven years I have personally interviewed 140 men who have sexually molested children in their family. While long-term intensive therapy may be successful in treating some offenders, voluntary or self-referrals are almost never successful. If the offender had the self-control and initiative to stay involved in long-term treatment necessary for rehabilitation, he would most likely not have molested the child in the first place.

I would urge you to tell your readers who suspect that a child is being molested to immediately contact their local child protective unit or the police department.

Some jurisdictions have programs that provide treatment without incarceration for incest offenders and their families where evaluation indicates that treatment will be successful. Specifically excluded from these programs, however, are pedophiles—individuals with a specific sexual preference for children. Most experts agree that there is no known successful treatment for these individuals, and they should be incarcerated.

DEAR MR. MOORE: Of all the crimes, probably the most under-reported is that of sexually abusing a child in the family. I have consistently urged children to tell someone they trust—a teacher, a neighbor, another member of their family, or the police.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Mollie B." and all the other people who insist that smokers have rights: My father was a chain smoker; he died from emphysema. My mother never smoked; she died of lung cancer—probably from breathing the smoke that polluted the air in our home, our car and everywhere else my father went because he was never without his cigarettes, and Mom was always at his side. In all fairness, the results of smoking were not known then as they are today.

When you can smoke and keep all the smoke inside yourself and not blow it into the air that I must breathe, then you have the right to smoke, but you don't have the right to decide that I must breathe in your smoke. AUDREY IN BOTHWYN, PA.

DEAR AUDREY: Never has this country been so fired up about smoking. Now smoking is forbidden in the waiting rooms of doctors' offices—just the place a heavy smoker needs to smoke the most. And also the place non-smokers are least able to tolerate it.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

With spring right around the corner, now is a great time to knit this lovely top. It is designed with some interesting features to give you an out-of-the-ordinary project. With its off-center neckline and knit leaf trim, this sweater is sure to draw compliments whenever you wear it. Simple seed stitch, when worked with double strands of yarn on extra-large needles, becomes a lace stitch, giving a wonderful texture with very little effort.

The leaves are knit separately and tacked in place after the sweater is finished. This season-spanning sweater is knit with silky acrylic yarn.

Easy-to-follow directions are written for small/medium (42) and for large/extra-large (44). Finished bust measurements of the garment are in parentheses.

To obtain directions for making the Seed Stitch Top, send your request for Leaflet No. A-0223 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, The Daily Reflector, P.O. Box 15922, Lenexa, Kan. 66215.

Or you may order Kit No. K-0223 by sending a check or money order for $19.95 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges, full instructions and acrylic yarn in main and contrast colors. Please specify your size and choice of the following color combinations: peach with flamingo leaves; light lilac with violet leaves; silver with black leaves; or natural with taupe leaves.

Dear Readers: I know that I sometimes suffer a "credibility gap" with many of you when I describe something as being easy to do. I have that same problem convincing some of my friends. Their usual comment is, "Oh sure, it's easy for you, but it wouldn't be for me."

I think you will find the knit leaves that decorate the seed stitch blouse featured today relatively easy to make. But if you doubt me, why not try and see for yourself?

Double strands of Lustersheen yarn and size 5 needles are used in the pattern, but you could use a single strand of knitting worsted or double strands of almost any finer yarn for your test leaves.

To make a leaf, cast on 3 stitches and, for the first row, purl these 3 stitches. In this pattern, all of the odd-numbered rows are worked by purling all stitches, so I will give only the even-numbered rows from here on.

Row 2: Knit 1, yarnover, knit 1, yarnover, knit 1. To make a yarnover, just bring your yarn to the front of the work before you knit the next stitch. This puts an extra strand of yarn over the needle each time you do this, thus giving you one extra stitch for each yarnover as a stitch and purl it.

Row 4: Knit 2, yarnover, knit 1, yarnover, knit 2 (7 stitches on needle). Row 6: knit 3, yarnover, knit 1, yarnover, knit 3 (9 stitches on needle). Row 8: Knit 4, yarnover, knit 1, yarnover, knit 4 (11 stitches on needle).

Row 10: Slip the first stitch to the right needle, knit 1, pass the slipped stitch over the knit stitch (decreasing 1 stitch); knit across the row until 2 stitches remain on the left needle; knit these two stitches together.

Continuing to purl all stitches on the odd-numbered rows, repeat Row 10 on all even-numbered rows until only 3 stitches remain. You can finish off these 3 stitches by purling them all together or you can purl 2 together on one row and knit 2 together on the next.

When you end with just 1 stitch on the needle, cut the yarn about 10 inches below the needle and pull the yarn through this last stitch. Pull it tight to secure it, and use the loose end to tack or applique the leaf onto the knit garment.

Rules Of Silver Etiquette No Longer Apply

NEW YORK (AP) — Bringing your own silverware to a dinner party, or washing your hands at the table would certainly be a no-no with Emily Post. But centuries ago doing just that was considered well-mannered, reports Kae McCulloch, fashion director of the Jewelry Industry Council.

"It's quite fascinating to trace the beginnings of mankind's first usage of the knife, fork and spoon," Ms. McCulloch said of her research on flatware and silverware. She notes that mankind's first eating utensil, the spoon, is also the first one babies use.

"Early man used shells as spoons, and knives did not appear on the table for a long time, for they were used to hunt with, or for self-defense against predatory animals and enemies," she says.

During the Middle Ages, most travelers carried their own knives and spoons, for hosts of the day did not furnish them. Two knives were used — one to impale the meat while it was being cut with the other. Meat was then eaten with the fingers, necessitating the use of ewers filled with delicately scented rose water, and basins to wash the hands in.

"Those were the forerunners of today's fingerbowls," Ms. McCulloch says.

Sharp knives were a cause for concern, and it was a nervous Louis XIV who outlawed pointed knives at meals, and caused dinner knives to be made with blunt ends.

"The Italians were credited with popularizing the fork in the 1400s, but it was a Greek princess who brought a two-tined gold fork to Italy in 1071," Ms. McCulloch says history reveals.

The popularity of the fork was slow to spread through Europe, especially in England, where it was considered effeminate. In the New World, however, it was popularized by none other than George Washington, who proudly and permanently displayed his silverware at his Virginia mansion. Soon after, a new industry was born in the States as America began manufacturing its own silverware.

"In the late 1600s, few forks were in use, and then only as special luxuries in the best homes, where they were used to eat fruits and preserves on gala occasions. It is true, people did eat peas with their knives," Ms. McCulloch adds.

It was the custom of the day for the well-dressed man about town to carry his own knife and fork as a badge of gentility. Forks and knives were made to fold, the better to be carried in a pocket.

Originally straight and flat, forks gradually followed the contour of the spoon, with the tines curved up.

Eating implements through the ages have run the gamut from primitive man's first shell spoons and flint knives to wooden, ivory, bronze and, finally, silver tableware. Silversmiths realized early that steel made a better cutting edge than silver, and combined silver handles with steel blades.

Paul Revere, sometime dentist, full-time patriot, and well-known silversmith, was the son of a silversmith, and in his time created many beautiful silver pieces. One such item was the famous punch bowl made by Revere for the Sons of Liberty in Boston in 1768.

"Family silverware is treasured, and handed down from mother to daughter, preserving the beautiful patterns of yesteryear," Ms. McCulloch points out.

Through the years, she explains, silverware patterns have reflected the art trends of the day, ranging from elaborate rococo designs to simple sculptured lines. The current trend in silverware is toward a modified traditional look, and in size resembles Continental silver — about an inch longer than usual. This is because of the popularity of larger dishes in today's tableware.

"Silverware, be it expensive sterling, more modestly priced silverplate, or practical stainless, all incorporate tasteful designs and quality workmanship in a wide choice of patterns to cater to every lifestyle," Ms. McCulloch says.

Paying The Price

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos trampled on the principles of democracy and now he has paid the price — the loss of the presidency.

Following an election which appeared shot full of corruption and mismanagement, President Marcos had himself declared the winner. His own people, however, would not buy it, nor would friendly world powers, including the United States. Tuesday, only hours after he had been sworn in, Marcos left office, perhaps bound for a life of exile in the United States.

His opponent in the recent election, Corazon Aquino, had been sworn in as president and her government was quickly recognized by the Reagan administration.

The peaceful change is no guarantee that the Philippines' troubles are over, of course. The nation has many problems which are compounded by the residue of Marcos support both in and out of government.

It will take a skilled leader to solve the problems and we certainly wish President Aquino every success in her efforts.

Credibility

Evergreen members are no doubt scratching their heads over their brief but disappointing $50,000 fling with developer Owen Kugel.

The group did the right thing by canceling Kugel's contract and asking for a refund of the money paid to him. The man didn't deliver the goods, so he should have been dismissed.

On the line now is Evergreen's credibility with its funding sources. How the corporation handles the Kugel incident will be closely watched by future endowers of the group.

Along with the purse strings, the future of Greenville's important downtown revitalization project is also at stake. The error with Kugel is a blow to progress, but it must not be a fatal blow. Quick, decisive action by Evergreen can keep circumstances from worsening.

Evergreen should take the money it salvages from the Kugel episode and invest it in a downtown revitalization coordinator — an individual experienced and skilled in dealing with projects and developers. A professional, full-time coordinator might have avoided the scenario with Kugel. This individual should develop a written plan outlining and prioritizing revitalization steps. The plan should include a timetable and an accurate cost estimate for projects.

The group should then use its time and talent to re-establish funding for the project — which may be no small task.

Evergreen must shake off a bad start and follow through on its commitment to take Greenville's downtown out of limbo.

Statistics For Teen-Agers

RALEIGH — When Rep. Luther Jerald, D-Cumberland, opened the Legislative Research Commission's recent hearings on the problem of teen pregnancies, he noted that the opposing sides on the issue of sex education had little in common. Little, that is, except the recognition of the extent of the crisis in North Carolina.

During that first day of hearings, Dr. Mary Vernon of Duke Medical Center and the Lincoln Community Health Center in Durham provided some of the facts about teen pregnancy in North Carolina. Those facts are reported here without editorial comment. They speak for themselves.

North Carolina ranks 11th in the nation in teen-age pregnancies and fifth in births to teen-agers.

One out of every 10 teen-aged girls in North Carolina will get pregnant between the ages of 15 and 19.

One of every 30 teen-aged girls in North Carolina has an abortion between the ages of 15 and 19.

In North Carolina, one-fifth of all births are to women less than 19 years old. In 1983, there were 24,491 pregnancies involving teen-aged girls. Of these, 814 were to girls between the ages of 10 and 14, and 311 of these girls gave birth.

Of these teen-aged births, 51.4 percent were to unmarried girls. Teens in North Carolina had more out-of-wedlock births than teens in 21 other states. There is no statistic which cites how many conceptions forced a teen-aged couple into an early, and maybe doomed, marriage. The divorce rate for couples who marry in their teens is three times higher than that for couples who marry after age 20.

The low birthweight rate among teen-aged mothers doubled from 10.8 percent in 1982 to 23.9 percent in 1983.

A Lincoln Center pamphlet goes on to report these findings from statistical studies.

Seven in 10 teen-aged girls think they can't become pregnant, yet one-fifth of all teen-aged girls become pregnant during their first month of sexual activity. Babies born to teens are often born premature, and are two times more likely to die in infancy. In Durham County, that infant death rate was 24.3 per 1,000 live births. Babies born to teen-aged mothers who received no prenatal care, or only late prenatal care, are three times more likely to suffer birth defects.

Children born to teen-aged mothers tend to be slower in intellectual, social and physical development and are four times more likely to be reared in poverty.

The risks go beyond the child and to the mother. Two of every three teen mothers drops out of school, which, of course seriously undermines her eventual earning power. Her earning potential is half that of mothers who have their children when they are older than 20. Nearly three-quarters of all teen mothers will end up on welfare within one to five years.

The suicide rate for teen-aged mothers is seven times higher than that for all teen-agers.

Dr. Vernon reported that if present pregnancy trends continue, 40 percent of the 14-year-old girls in North Carolina today will become pregnant before their 19th birthday.

Barbara Huberman of the N.C. Coalition Against Adolescent Pregnancy reported that 68 teens become pregnant in North Carolina every day. Of these, 40 percent get an abortion and 60 percent give birth. Of those who give birth, 96 percent keep the child, but drop out of school.

Brazilian Crime Cuts Into Tourism

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — At a time when the terrorist threat hangs heavy over Europe and the Mediterranean, more and more Americans are changing their vacation habits, and Brazil has proved a major beneficiary. Witness the recent broadcast of NBC's "Today" program from here and the tenfold increase in American tourists in the last year.

But urban Brazil's notorious crime problem has cast a shadow over government and business plans to turn this country into a major mecca for visitors from the north.

Tourism officials have taken steps to curb the robberies and violence that often occur during business hours and sometimes on open sidewalks. New arrivals at hotels along Rio's posh beachfront are advised to rent safes and not to carry valuables on their person.

Yet the measures haven't solved the problem. Within the last month, in fact, thieves held 15 floors' worth of guests hostage at a major hotel here while their accomplices gathered what they could.

No solution may be imminent as long as Brazil labors under the economic burdens and dislocations plaguing so many countries in the developing world. The per capita annual income is $2,200, or one-seventh that of the U.S. (The top 20 percent of all Brazilians take in more than two-thirds of the nation's income.) Inflation, meanwhile, hovers around 300 percent, and Brazil's internationally known ghettos still symbolize the long struggle ahead for this newly industrialized country.

But while Brazilian tourism authorities downplay the risks of visiting Rio and other well-known traveler's havens, the sad truth remains that there are fewer places boasting both comfort and security.

White House efforts to give new life to relations with Brazil have produced less-than-glowing results, diplomatic sources here contend. For example, Angola, whose government the Reagan administration wants to overthrow, still accounts for a large share of this country's oil imports. Brazil, meanwhile, has set up the southern African nation's telephone lines and manages its rail and utility systems. Closer to home, Brazil has reestablished business, if not diplomatic, relations with Cuba, which remains this country's primary market for exports of alcohol distillates.

Brazilian President Jose Sarney has frustrated numerous human rights activists here and abroad with his inaction on unresolved cases of right-wing terrorism committed during a 15-year period that began with a military coup in 1964. Many Brazilians want Sarney to prosecute government and military officials who were responsible for the torture and execution of possibly thousands of innocent victims.

The tumbling of international oil prices has been good news for this heavily indebted country ($104 billion) that consumes 350,000 barrels a day of imported crude. Yet decline in oil costs may slow Brazil's drive for energy self-sufficiency and its efforts to export alcohol-fuel technologies to the developing world.

In the last three decades, Brazil has emerged as one of the world's 10 largest industrial powers. By 1984, this country ranked third in the production of iron ore, seventh in aluminum, ninth in steel and tenth in automobiles.

But Brazil's drive for big-league economic status has created havoc for many of the country's citizens, among them about 200,000 native Indians. For example, a super highway being built for mining exploration threatens an estimated 8,500 to 10,000 Indians living along the Brazilian-Venezuelan border.

Mexico accounts for the overwhelming majority of illegal aliens, according to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Of the more than 1.3 million illegal entrants arrested from October of 1984 through September of 1985, 94 percent were of Mexican origin.

Combination Brings Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George Shultz said the United States had "a great deal of interaction" in the transfer of power in the Philippines but he added that in the end it was the Filipino people who forced out President Ferdinand Marcos.

That both those factors — U.S. leverage and the power of massive public pressure — combined to avert a civil war gave administration officials reason to breathe a sigh of relief.

At least at this early stage, they could be optimistic about the future of democracy in the Philippines.

Little is known of the governing skills of the new Philippine president, Corazon Aquino, and of how she will deal with the massive challenges she will face in a nation where corruption is widespread and where a communist insurgency has persisted for years.

But her political skills were apparent in recent weeks as she campaigned for president and then rallied opposition after Marcos was declared the winner, a result apparently rigged by his supporters.

"She is going to need a lot of help," Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said Wednesday after Marcos fled the nation he had ruled for 20 years.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., was a little more cautious. "We have to find out what the new government thinks of us."

Dole didn't elaborate, but he appeared to reflect uncertainty about whether the new government would remain a close ally of the United States and continue to allow the U.S. to maintain two large military bases on the islands — Clark Field and Subic Bay.

There certainly are other potential areas of tension in the future, the most obvious being the status of the deposed president.

Shultz declared Marcos was "welcome to come to the United States." President Reagan guaranteed Marcos "his peace, his safety and his dignity."

But how would the United States respond if the new Philippine government came up with evidence directly implicating Marcos in the assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino when he returned to his homeland from exile on Aug. 21, 1983?

The new Philippine president is Benigno Aquino's widow and she might be unwilling to back away from a demand that Marcos be forced to return to Manila if such charges were filed.

But so far, the administration and key members of Congress can claim some credit for a transfer of power in the Philippines in which massive bloodshed was avoided and following which there is every potential for the United States to maintain a strong relationship with the new government.

"We came close to botching it by sticking with Marcos for so long," said Leahy. "But the way it ended, I think we can work with Mrs. Aquino."

Leahy may be right about how long the administration was inclined to back Marcos.

But the administration can take credit for reading the strength of the opposition to the Philippine president and dramatically shifting the U.S. position.

But still it was a delicate diplomatic game. There were calls on Reagan to talk personally to Marcos and call on him to step down, a move that Shultz and other officials felt would be going too far.

They tried to make the message clear in other ways, by having White House spokesman Larry Speakes tell reporters that "a solution to this crisis can only be achieved through a peaceful transition to a new government."

Still, Marcos was unwilling to get the message.

When a U.S. envoy delivered that message to the embattled president, he still refused to believe it. Only when Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., Reagan's personal friend who had acted a special envoy to Marcos in the past, talked to the Philippine president and told him it was time to "cut and cut cleanly" did Marcos accept reality and decide to leave.

Through the final days of the crisis, the most encouraging scenes that dominated reports from the country were of thousands of Philippine civilians standing between troops still supporting Marcos and units that had announced their support for Mrs. Aquino.

With few exceptions, the loyalist troops refused to fire upon the civilians.

As Shultz said, it was a case where the people "resolved this issue non-violently and in a way that does them honor."

WE'D LIKE SO MUCH TO BELIEVE!

Strength For Today

John Kendrick Bangs, a humorist who flourished some generations ago, used to tell a story about a little boy who cried for the moon. His father replied that he could have the moon. "Only," he continued, "you must not be selfish about it. Don't try to bring it down here into the nursery. Leave it up in the sky where it will give light, where people can look at it and admire it."

Later the child asked for the ocean. "Very well, but you must not bottle it up and carry it away. You must leave it where it is so that ships can sail on it and people at the beaches can bathe in it." And so the child's fancy went on until he owned everything in the world.

St. Paul, writing to the Corinthians, declared, "All things are yours." He was right. The whole world belongs to you and me. But we own it to share it. The sun, the moon, the oceans and the vast continents belong to us — to use and to share.

Court Gets Affirmative Action Cases

quiring such material in billing envelopes violates a constitutionally protected right not to speak.

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is again the battleground for affirmative action in the American workplace, with the Reagan administration warring against civil rights groups and others over the future of on-the-job racial preferences.

Civil rights groups are allied with state and local officials and business leaders in defending "numerical remedies" — goals and quotas — against the administration-led attack.

The justices engaged in lively questioning of both sides Tuesday, but it was difficult to discern a pattern pointing to a likely outcome.

The justices, expected to announce decisions by July in three key cases, heard two hours of arguments Tuesday.

Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, the administration's point man in the campaign to limit affirmative action, said allowing preferences based on race "promotes discrimination and perpetuates discrimination."

It "goes beyond the authority of the (federal) courts to order relief for non-victims of past discrimination," Reynolds said.

Cases involving Cleveland firefighters and a New York City area union were argued Tuesday. The court will also decide this year on a third affirmative action dispute, involving Jackson, Mich., school teachers, that was argued before the court earlier.

At stake in all three is the future of affirmative action nationwide.

With the support of predominantly white labor unions, the administration contends hiring and promoting minority group members over better-qualified whites is "reverse discrimination." Reynolds said only individual proven victims of bias should benefit from affirmative action.

Justice Byron R. White, a pivotal figure on the issue of affirmative action, was among the most active interrogators. He wrote a much-discussed 1984 Supreme Court ruling that threw out a Memphis, Tenn., plan protecting the fire department jobs of minorities and women at the expense of white males with more seniority.

The administration contends the ruling, which said federal courts may not displace valid seniority plans, has broad application — outlawing all goals and quotas.

But nearly every federal court that has been asked to interpret the Memphis decision has disagreed, applying the ruling only to some seniority plans.

John D. Maddox, a lawyer representing the city of Cleveland, said the administration and the unions "want you to impose zero as the number for race-conscious relief."

Maddox noted that the Justice Department under the Carter administration in 1979 was a leader in the fight to extend affirmative action, taking the opposite view of the Reagan administration.

He also said that the affirmative action plan for Cleveland firefighters has not injured whites because the city created additional promotions.

"We made more promotions than we needed," Maddox said.

But William L. Summers, representing Local 93 of the International Association of Firefighters, disputed Maddox' claim.

"Who knows what is true?" he said. "Where's all these new jobs?"

He said Cleveland officials adopted a quota system, at the expense of whites, to ward off a potentially costly suit for back pay for blacks and Hispanics.

The court is examining a court consent decree for promoting equal numbers of blacks and Hispanics in Cleveland and a court-ordered 29 percent minority quota for membership in Local 28 of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association in the New York City-northern New Jersey area.

In other action, the court: —Made it easier for the nation's communities to restrict the location of adult movie theaters and other distributors of sexually explicit material. In a 7-2 ruling, the court said Renton, Wash. — even without any direct proof that adult theaters are harmful — may use its zoning power to relegate the movie houses to an isolated area of town.

—Gave police officers greater latitude to search automobiles without first getting court warrants. The 5-4 decision from New York said police do not need a warrant to reach into or even enter a car to clear away material obscuring the car's identification

Runoff Required In San Diego Race

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Former Councilwoman Maureen O'Connor and Councilman Bill Cleator will face each other in a runoff to determine the successor to Mayor Roger Hedgecock, who resigned after being convicted of perjury and conspiracy.

The runoff is necessary because no candidate captured more than 50 percent of the vote in Tuesday's special election.

O'Connor, who's been off the City Council since 1979, received 80,861 votes, or 46 percent, to Cleator's 52,940 votes, or 30 percent, in the non-partisan election.

Former city councilman Floyd Morrow, who served on the council 12 years before his defeat in 1977, captured 33,559 votes or 19 percent. The remaining votes were split among 11 other candidates.

O'Connor said the results indicated people are ready for a change in San Diego city government, scandalized since Hedgecock was tried twice last year on charges of perjury and conspiracy.

"It's amazing we got the number of votes we did, ... having been out of the public eye for three years," she said. "It's amazing the strength out there, and I think in June we've got an excellent chance."

Hedgecock was convicted in October on charges he plotted to illegally finance his 1983 mayoral campaign.

Agenda

The Greenville Board of Adjustment will consider the following items Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at its monthly meeting in the third floor council chamber of City Hall:

A request for a special use permit by Clifton Earl O'Geary to allow a mobile home in a residential/agricultural zoning district. The property is located on the north side of SR 1726, across from SR 1727 and adjacent to Norfolk Southern Railroad.

A request for a special use permit by Daniel L. Eckert to allow a home occupation (taxidermy) in a residential/agricultural zoning district. The property is located on the east side of Cedar Drive, approximately 1,200 feet south of Pactolus Highway.

A request for a special use permit by W. Ronald Taylor, T. Donald Taylor and A. Tyson Bilbro to allow a public storage and warehouse facility in a commercial downtown fringe zoning district. The property is located at 1101 Dickinson Ave.

A request for a special use permit by Linwood Stroud and Roland Williams to allow construction of multi-family dwellings on the north side of Greenville Boulevard. The property is approximately 150 feet west of Laughinghouse Drive.

A request for a special use permit by Melody Furci, Tina Furci and Charles V. Wilkerson to allow a beauty shop in an office and institutional zoning district. The property is located on the southeast corner of Forbes and East Eighth streets.

A request by the Greenville Board of Education and Plato G. Evans to allow a middle school and athletic facility in a residential/agricultural zoning district. The property is located on the north side of Arlington Boulevard, east of the Boys Club of Pitt County.

Correction

Eric Murphy, Richard Robinson and Laura Briley, students at Pactolus School, made the school principal's list for the third marking period. Their names were omitted from a honors list published earlier in The Daily Reflector.

Hotline ... (Continued from page 1)

Ms. Crocker said calls to Care-Line often can be bridged to the agency from which assistance is needed and referrals can be made to local and federal agencies, as well as non-profit organizations and support groups in all 100 N.C. counties through a continuously updated computerized data base.

The Care-Line toll-free number is 1-800-662-7030.

LOST DOG

Hotline usually does not appeal for lost items, but Donnie Strickland of the Frog Level community west of Greenville near U.S. 264 has been advertising since Feb. 1 for the return of his blonde cocker spaniel, Tiny, and Hotline is his last resort. Tiny and another of his dogs were missing at first, but the other one came home injured. He is eager to know the fate of Tiny. "Even if someone else has her and plans to keep her, I'd like to know," he said. "I'll even give them her pedigree papers if they'll just let me know she's all right."

In The Area

Comet Sighted

Two East Carolina University physicists and a group of 15 students reported a sighting of Halley's Comet in this area at 5:15 a.m. today.

Drs. James E. Gaiser and Rahal Mehta, both members of the ECU Department of Physics, along with the students have been making periodic watches in hopes of getting a good view of the comet in this area.

The clear sky this morning rewarded their vigils. The comet, according to the group, appeared at approximately 5:15 a.m. in the east-southeast area of the sky near the constellation Capricorn. Its tail is said to be about four times the diameter of the full moon.

The sighting was termed much brighter than one spotted in January.

If the weather is suitable Thursday morning, Dr. Geiser said it should be visible to anyone in the area who can find a clear view of the east-southeast section of the sky.

Martin Tells N.C. Solons 'To Do What You Have To Do' On Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin, who says a small tax increase for the state would be a last resort to save some federal programs, has told state members of Congress not to shy away from cutting federal spending.

"I said: 'Do what you have to do. The state will do the best it can to live with it,'" Martin said Tuesday after his private meeting with the state's congressional delegation.

Martin, who called for tax cuts in his 1984 gubernatorial campaign, said he might ask the General Assembly for "a small tax increase" to replace some of the lost federal dollars, but he said he didn't foresee a state tax increase right away.

"There is always that possibility, but it would be a last resort," Martin said of a tax increase.

Martin said he would ask the legislature to "pick and choose" which programs to fund with state money to replace lost federal dollars. The state's loss of federal aid could total $63 million in the current federal fiscal year and $278 million in the next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1.

Martin gave representatives and senators a memo showing state budget officials' estimates of how the Gramm-Rudman law's automatic budget cuts would affect North Carolina. The first round of cuts is scheduled to take effect next month and will reduce federal spending for most domestic programs by 4.3 percent.

The second round of automatic cuts, projected to trim most domestic programs by 19 percent, is slated for the fall, unless Congress achieves targeted savings through other means. The automatic cuts are being challenged on constitutional grounds, and the Supreme Court is expected to rule on the issue this year.

In the memo, Martin's administration highlighted some of the program cuts in North Carolina that may result from Gramm-Rudman. For example, the memo said the 16-campus University of North Carolina System could lose $6.3 million in the first cuts this year. The cuts would include a $1.5 million reduction in student aid and a $2.1 million reduction in research funded by the National Institutes of Health.

Other cuts include a $9.1 million slice from the N.C. Division of Social Services this year, with local health departments bearing the brunt. Vocational rehabilitation programs could lose $1.24 million and education programs for disadvantaged children could suffer a $3.8 million cut, the memo said.

Martin said he was not advocating the cuts but was placing a higher priority on reducing federal deficits than on trying to preserve federal spending programs. He said the pain from program cuts would be offset by the economic benefits of reducing the nation's $200 billion deficit.

Martin's comments drew largely favorable reaction from the delegation.

Rep. I.T. "Tim" Valentine, a Democrat, said Martin "made a remarkable statement ... that was rather refreshing."

"What he was not trying to do was put the monkey on the back of the legislators," said Republican Sen. John East. "He's not trying to escape his responsibilities."

East Wants More State Help

WILMINGTON (AP) — Eastern North Carolina counties aren't getting enough attention from the state when it comes to roads and schools, some residents complain.

"Please do not sing us the second verse of the same song we've heard for so long, known as balanced growth," Woody Brinson, director of the Duplin County Economic Development Commission, told the state Goals and Policy Board on Tuesday.

"N.C. 11 and N.C. 24 have been neglected by Raleigh politicians for too many years."

About 30 people from Southeastern North Carolina spoke before the board during a public opinion forum at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

Wilmington Mayor Berry Williams asked for a fuel-tax increase to pay for street construction and maintenance in the state's cities and towns.

"No politician wants to suggest a tax increase," Williams said. But "we need more help from the state to help build and maintain the streets. We cannot afford to maintain what we have built."

District Attorney Jerry Spivey, who prosecutes cases in Pender and New Hanover counties, said the state should enter into joint ventures with counties to build minimum-security prisons for low-level offenders who are not public threats.

Spivey said building traditional prisons to house low-level offenders "is akin to building a refrigerated storage facility to store potatoes. It's a waste of resources."

Carl Price, president of a technical college in Kenansville, said the state needs to do more to decrease the illiteracy rate in rural counties such as Duplin, where 56 percent of the population has earned high school diplomas and 7 percent holds college degrees. Many "cannot read a newspaper or fill out a job application,"

Price said.

Tuesday's forum was the first of six to be held around the state through April 2. Policy Board members will make a report on the public input to Gov. Jim Martin by early May.

Martin may use the suggestions during the General Assembly's short budget session in June, but most will be used in setting priorities for the state's next two-year budget in 1987, said Martin spokesman Max Veal.

Ford Endorses Broyhill As 'Real' Conservative

ELON COLLEGE, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Jim Broyhill, who supported former President Gerald Ford over Ronald Reagan in the 1976 GOP presidential primary, has had his favor returned a decade later.

"I know from personal experience that Jim Broyhill would be an outstanding United States senator," Ford said Tuesday night at Elon College, where he delivered a speech.

Tom Fetzer, treasurer for the National Congressional Club, which is backing Broyhill's Republican Senate opponent David Funderburk, said the endorsement wasn't a surprise. The Congressional Club formed the center of Reagan's support in the presidential primary.

"Ford has made it no secret how he felt about North Carolina conservatives since the 1976 primary,"

Fetzer said.

The Congressional Club questioned Ford's conservative credentials then, just as it is challenging Broyhill's now. The club has accused Broyhill of siding with liberal Democrats on federal spending, the defense buildup, abortion and other issues.

"I happen to think (such attacks) are counterproductive," Ford said in a news conference before his speech. "I just don't understand people who look at a voting record overall, then nitpick at it."

"I think Jim (is) a bona fide, legitimate conservative," Ford said.

Ford, 72, served in the U.S. House with Broyhill before ascending to the vice presidency under former President Richard Nixon. Ford called Broyhill "courageous" and "a person of impeccable integrity and responsibility."

"The state of North Carolina would be well served to have a person like Jim Broyhill represent them in the United States Senate," Ford said at his news conference, which Broyhill did not attend.

Transplant Patient Responds To Drugs

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 31-year-old Forest City woman remained in critical condition today, but she appeared to be responding to drug treatment after suffering a severe rejection of her new heart, hospital officials say.

Sandra Collier's cardiologist, Dr. Alan Thomley, "considered it a miracle that she survived (Monday) night," Charlotte Memorial Hospital spokeswoman Cecily Newton said Tuesday.

But Charlotte's first heart transplant recipient seemed to be responding to drug treatment and was alert and talking, Ms. Newton said.

"Things are looking much better and her doctor said we may have turned the corner (on the rejection episode)," said spokeswoman Cecily Newton. "The drugs seem to be having an effect."

Mrs. Collier, a mother of four, was readmitted to the hospital Monday morning, just 10 days after she was discharged. Her husband, Kevin, had found her blood pressure far below normal and had notified Thomley.

Theologian Wins Top Award

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. James I. McCord, a long-time theological educator and ecumenical statesman, was named today as the 1986 recipient of the $253,000 Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, the world's largest religion award.

McCord, 66, was cited as an "international churchman, religious statesman and educator par excellence," and for his recent found-ding in Princeton, N. J., of a "unique center" exploring links between science, culture and religion.

He was termed "uncontestedly one of the very few great figures in the world of religious education today."

He is a veteran leader in the ecumenical movement for Christian unity, a builder of ties between Western and Eastern churches, and was president for 24 years of Princeton Theological Seminary, Presbyterianism's chief seminary.

McCord has served as president of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches, chairman of the U.S. 10-denomination Consultation on Church Union and on the theological commission of the World Council of Churches.

In 1982, he became founder and chancellor of the Center of Theological Inquiry, where resident scholars in various fields research their relationships to religious consciousness.

The Templeton Prize, given annually since 1973 and funded by American investment manager John M. Templeton, is deliberately kept higher than the Nobel Prizes on the premise that religion is more important to humanity than other disciplines.

It is judged by an international, inter-religious panel and will be presented May 13 in London.

It previously has gone to India's Mother Teresa, evangelist Billy Graham, Russian expatriate Alexander Solzhenitsyn, Japanese religious-peace advocate Nikkyo Niwano and Scottish theologian-scientist Thomas F. Torrance.

McCord, a Texas native, was educated there and at Harvard University and the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. He was a philosophy instructor at the University of Texas, a pastor in Austin, Texas, and a theology professor at Austin Theological Seminary.

He became president of Princeton Theological Seminary in 1959, retiring in 1983 to run the research center he had founded.

"In every enterprise I know, research is a vital element," he said in an interview. "But the church has been reluctant to go into research, especially in the area of theology and science."

He said the objective is to develop "dialogue between theology and science so as to better understand the world in which we live."

"Scientists today are more open to theological dialogue than any time I can remember. The more they explore, the more they realize the beyond. Scientists today are willing to talk about the beyond." On the other hand, he said, theologians have remained virtually oblivious to the powerful modern revolution in science.

Custody Abuses Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unfit fathers are using changes in child custody laws to take children away from their mothers or force their ex-wives to accept less financial support, experts say.

The legal presumption that women would get custody of children following a divorce was dropped by most states in the early 1970s. The changes were enacted to end sexual stereotypes about parenting and give divorced fathers more rights.

"On its face, the sex-neutral rule seems to make good sense," Rep. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y., told a Capitol Hill news conference Tuesday. But "this rule can have serious detrimental effects on the children."

"Fathers who have no interest in gaining custody nevertheless threaten a custody battle as a way to force mothers to accept less financial support. The threat of such a battle is often enough to force out-of-court settlements that in the end impoverish the children," he said.

"The custody system, as it operates now, causes more than economic harm to children," Schumer said. "Psychologists, for example, have demonstrated the distress caused to children by years of struggle between parents."

Fathers who want custody portray their ex-wives in court as economically unfit to raise their children, said Nancy D. Polikoff, director of the child custody project of the Women's Legal Defense Fund.

"Fathers can actually exacerbate their financial difficulties by refusing to pay child support," she said.

In addition, she said, "judges penalize mothers who attempt to pursue career advancement" by ruling that they are inattentive parents. But "no such judgments are imposed on ambitious fathers."

"Fathers win custody in about 50 percent of all contested cases for these reasons, not because they have been primary or equal caretakers of their children during the marriage," she said.

Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., told reporters, "Suddenly it's become a situation when a dad says 'I want my children,' it's considered a heroic act, but when a mother says 'I want my children,' it's expected."

Movies such as "Kramer vs. Kramer" present the public with an unrealistic view of divorce, said psychologist Phyllis Chesler, author of a new book entitled "Mothers on Trial: The Battle for Children and Custody."

In the movie, Dustin Hoffman plays a father who wins a prolonged battle for the custody of his son after his wife walks out of the marriage.

"Traditional good mothers are losing custody of their children, and not to Dustin Hoffman. They can lose to very un-involved or very unfit fathers," Ms. Chesler said.

Ms. Chesler and Ms. Polikoff urged nationwide adoption of a West Virginia rule that gives a favorable presumption to a child's primary caretaker during the marriage.

"I'm all in favor of male co-parenting, but I think it should begin in marriage or in pregnancy, it should not begin long after divorce," Ms. Chesler said.

Four divorced women gave tearful accounts of custody battles, recounting beatings, abandonment and kidnappings of children by ex-husbands.

One of the women said her husband repeatedly beat her in front of the couple's children, breaking her legs, arms and rupturing her spleen.

When he moved out, she said, he "left me with no job, no car, he took all the food out of the house when he left."

Two years later, the woman added, her former husband started a custody battle that he won only after he had kidnapped the children.

"I have them five weeks in the summer, I am allowed to call them Sundays between 3 and 5," she said.

Another woman said she lost custody of her 7-year-old son to an ex-husband who had beaten her when she was pregnant with the child.

The former husband, a lawyer, persuaded the judge that she was psychologically unfit to have custody, the woman said.

"Mothers' constitutional rights are being abridged," she said. "We sit in the courtroom and we feel abandoned and alone."

House Panel Derides School-Voucher Plan

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Education William J. Bennett's plan to give school vouchers to poor families is "a deception for parents and a disaster for public policy," according to a staff report of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Bennett was scheduled to appear before that committee today to defend the Reagan administration's voucher proposal, which would give parents of poor children checks worth an average of $630 that they could spend to enroll their children in private schools or public schools outside their home districts or to buy extra services in their current public schools.

Last month Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., the committee chairman, called Bennett an "enemy" of public schools and said his real mission is to dismantle all federal aid to education.

Bennett, who unveiled the voucher plan called The Equity and Choice Act (TEACH) on Nov. 13, has accused his critics of misrepresenting his record and "embarrassing" themselves in the debate over vouchers.

Bennett wants to provide the vouchers through existing funds in the $3.7 billion remedial program known as Chapter 1.

Bennett says the measure would simply give poor families some of the same choices the wealthy and middle-class now enjoy when they enroll their children in private schools or buy homes in districts with good public schools.

Hawkins issued a staff report attacking the voucher proposal, which faces stiff opposition in the Democratic-controlled House and only lukewarm support in the Republican Senate.

"For several reasons, the bill represents a deception for parents and a disaster for public policy," the staff report said. It charged that the bill embodies the Reagan administration's "anti-public education bias" and would shift funds to private schools at a time when federal aid for public education is shrinking.

"The voucher bill is based on the unfounded assumption that 'anything is better' than the current system," it said. It also "does not cover enough of the costs of private education to give the poorest families a meaningful choice." It said the average private school's tuition in 1983 was $1,480.

But Bennett counters that many parochial schools charge far less than that, and the value of the voucher would vary depending on how much districts now spend on Chapter 1 services for each pupil. In some big cities, Bennett has said, the vouchers would be worth more than $1,000.

Hawkins called Bennett an "enemy" of public education last month following a speech to bilingual educators in San Francisco. He said no secretary of education had done less for children than Bennett.

"It was like he was told to go and destroy the department, and he's doing it," Hawkins said. Bennett said

Tuesday evening that he was looking for "a full and fair hearing. It's an important issue that is catching fire around the country." He added that vouchers "received a great deal of discussion and interest at the National Governors' Association meeting" here this weekend.

Bennett said in an interview in December that, "Parts of the educational establishment have really embarrassed themselves in this debate. Some of them have shown themselves for what they are, which is real reactionaries who do not have arguments at their disposal, so they just bark out: 'Bennett's an enemy of public schools! ... It's a blatant lie." Almost five million children get extra help in reading and math, counseling and other services through the Chapter 1 program.

Cyanide-Tylenol Linked To Death In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Traces of what appeared to be cyanide were discovered in the body of a 32-year-old man and in an Extra-Strength Tylenol capsule found in a bottle beneath his death bed, officials said today.

"Preliminary tests were done Tuesday which indicate cyanide is present," said Metro Nashville medical examiner Dr. Charles Harlan. "But we still have some confirmatory tests to make sure that's what's there."

"If we confirm that it is indeed cyanide, then we have to determine how much is there. That will help us determine if the amount there is sufficient to cause death," Harlan said.

Tests conducted today by the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation should show whether cyanide caused Timothy R. Green's death, but it is too soon to tell how the substance got into the capsule, Harlan said.

"There are all different kinds of possibilities here," he said. "It's possible it could have been done by the victim himself."

In Washington, Food and Drug Administration spokesman Jack Martin said today: "We're still trying to check it out at this time. We are working with state and local officials, they have the pills."

Lawrence Foster, spokesman for Johnson & Johnson, the maker of Tylenol, said today in New Brunswick, N.J., that the company would begin investigating "immediately."

"We have absolutely no information to work on. We're in touch with the authorities down there, but they have nothing for us until they do tests," he said. "We're trying to reach the medical examiner. We've been making calls all morning to ask him questions but can't reach him."

Foster said Johnson & Johnson officials were trying to track down the origin of the batch in question.

Johnson & Johnson this month pulled capsules of the non-aspirin pain reliever from the over-the-counter market after a New York woman died from taking an Extra-Strength Tylenol capsule that had been laced with cyanide.

Her death occurred 3½ years after seven people in Illinois died from ingesting cyanide contained in Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules.

Green's slightly decomposed body was found on his bed Sunday night by police after several of Green's friends told authorities they had been unable to contact him for days, said Metro Homicide Detective Larry King.

Under Green's bed, police found a bottle of Extra-Strength Tylenol, from batch APA 327, with a single capsule inside, King said. Police initially thought Green died of natural causes since investigators noted he had recently been through a series of operations and was not in the "best of health."

"It seems awfully strange to me," King said. "Here we are in Nashville when all those other deaths occurred up North. It seems very strange."

Food and Drug Administration district director Hayward Mayfield said, "Our interest is predominantly one of determining if, in fact, the contamination originated at the plant. If so, we have the potential for very wide devastation."

Navy Jury Will Rule On Surgeon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight captains and a rear admiral are deliberating the government's charges that Navy heart surgeon Donal M. Billig was a negligent killer in the operating room at the Navy's foremost hospital.

The court-martial jury deliberated for 3½ hours without reaching a verdict after final arguments Tuesday and resumed its work today.

Billig, 55, the former chief of heart surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital, is charged with five counts of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of patients during or soon after open-heart operations in 1983 and 1984.

He is only the second Navy doctor ever charged with manslaughter.

He is also charged with 24 counts of dereliction of duty for conducting heart operations without supervision at a time in mid-1983 when the government contends he was restricted to operate only with other surgeons.

If convicted on all counts, Billig, a commander, could be sentenced to up to 21 years in prison — three years each on the manslaughter charges and three months each on the dereliction counts. He could also be dismissed from the Navy.

In the military court-martial, a two-thirds majority of the jury — six of the nine members — is all that is required to convict. The jury also imposes sentences in such proceedings.

The military judge, Capt. Philip Roberts of San Francisco, told jurors they could choose to return verdicts on lesser charges of negligent homicide or dereliction of duty in four of the five manslaughter cases.

Social Cuts Would Push 39 States Into Red

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's proposed $21.7 billion in cuts for social programs next year would push the budgets of 39 state governments into the red if they do not raise taxes to maintain current services, according to a private study.

The analysis, released today, said only seven states have surpluses large enough to cover the proposed $16.2 billion in cuts for grants to state and local governments, plus reductions of another $5.5 billion in direct aid to individuals.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which commissioned the study, said the proposed cuts exceed the projected year-end surpluses of 43 states, including four already reporting budget deficits.

"The administration continues to promote the myth that state and local governments have sufficient funds available to replace lost federal aid if they want to," said Gerald McEntee, president of the 1.1 million-member union, which represents primarily state and local government employees.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," McEntee said. "What the president's budget does is shift the federal deficit onto the states."

Measured against the level of current services, the cuts amount to 16.1 percent of the aid to state and local governments and 1.8 percent of the direct payments to individuals, the study said.

The report was prepared for AFSCME by Fiscal Planning Services Inc., an independent Washington consulting firm that specializes in analyzing the federal budget using the same methods employed by the White House and congressional budget offices.

Based on Commerce Department data, the study said the operating surpluses of all state and local governments totaled $3.3 billion at the end of the third quarter last year — "a cushion less than 1 percent of expenditures."

It said two-thirds of that amount will be absorbed in March when the automatic across-the-board cuts in federal spending under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law are triggered.

Reagan's proposed cuts for fiscal 1987, beginning next October, are 15 times larger than the surplus left after this year's Gramm-Rudman cuts, it said.

"In other words, these budget cuts could, by themselves, turn a $3.3 billion surplus (among state and local governments) into a $15 billion deficit," the consultants said.

Included in the $5.5 billion cuts to individuals are reductions in Medicare, student loans and grants for higher education and food stamps.

The 10 states that would suffer the highest per-capita cuts were Alaska, New York, Vermont, Rhode Island, Wyoming, Massachusetts, Maine, West Virginia, South Dakota and North Dakota.

—Urban mass transit, 28 percent, New York, Georgia and Pennsylvania.

—Highway aid, 17 percent, Alaska, Wyoming and Montana.

—Airport assistance, 23 percent, Alaska, Nevada and Hawaii.

About $8 billion of the $21.7 billion in total cuts and the elimination of 14 programs to achieve the reductions would fall primarily on the poor, the study said.

Hardest hit would be Michigan, California and Washington, D.C.

Reagan's proposed 20 percent cut in child nutrition programs would have the biggest per capita impacts in Mississippi, North Dakota and Georgia. Suffering the most from a proposed 7 percent cut in Medicaid, the study said, would be New York, Rhode Island and Washington, D.C.

Parents Must Raise Bond

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — Parents who don't want teen-age AIDS victim Ryan White going to school with their children began passing the hat after a judge ruled they must raise a $12,000 bond to pursue their legal fight.

"We started going door-to-door last night, and now we're thinking about car washes and rummage sales," Mitzie Johnson, head of Concerned Citizens and Parents of Western Middle School, said after Tuesday's ruling. "Where there's a will, there's a way."

Howard Circuit Judge Alan Brubaker, whose temporary restraining order bars Ryan from school, granted a request by Ryan's attorney, Charles R. Vaughn, for the bond. It would cover damages suffered by the 14-year-old Kokomo boy and legal expenses should the case be dissolved.

David Rosselot, the attorney representing the parents, has five days to submit a written guarantee for the money. He said he did not expect any problem meeting the bond.

Ryan, who contracted AIDS from treatments for hemophilia, was first banned from classes by school officials in July.

The parents went to court last week after the county health officer said Ryan could attend school without others' health being threatened, provided he followed state guidelines for children with acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Male Strippers Causing Uproar Among Some In Georgia Town

TIFTON, Ga. (AP) — Church leaders offended by the gyrations of male dancers who shed everything but bikini briefs for female audiences are demanding a ban on "lewd motions" in this small south Georgia town.

The Tiftarea Ministerial Association has been leading a campaign since last month against "Gators," a downtown nightclub featuring "Ladies' Delight," the town's first male strip show.

"We see it all as an inroad of evil that is endeavoring to be made into our community," said the Rev. O.L. Stokes, pastor of the 1st Assembly of God. "Tifton is a fine place to live. It has a high moral climate. We feel that we have a charge from God and responsibility to maintain this."

The association, comprising more than a dozen Tift County ministers, has asked the City Commission to pass an ordinance banning strip shows. A measure set for consideration March 3 would deny beer licenses to clubs offering such entertainment. Sales of distilled spirits are banned in Tift County.

"Our concern as a City Commission is to be responsive to the will of the people," said Chairman Frank Raley, 65. "The will of the people is probably best expressed by the ... ministerial association."

Club owner Raymond Harrell said he turned down requests to cancel the show from the sheriff, the police chief and five ministers who offered to reimburse the $1,500 he had agreed to pay the dancers.

"Ladies Delight," a five-member group that dances in costumes ranging from tuxedos to briefs, has performed on national television and in neighboring towns without incident. But 26 police officers and sheriff's deputies were on hand for its Jan. 15 debut in Tifton, Harrell said.

Police Chief Hugh Smith said he did not recall how many officers were assigned to the club, but that the force was adequate.

"People in this community don't approve of this," Smith said. "When people don't approve, they're liable to cause some trouble. It's my job to anticipate what might happen and stop it."

Sue Saylor, one of the 205 women who attended the performance, said officers were lined up inside the club when she arrived. "I thought it was a bad reaction on their part."

Ms. Saylor, a 38-year-old bookkeeper for a mobile home company, said the show was in good taste and drew peals of laughter from the audience, mostly women in their 30s.

"I felt like it was just a bunch of women having a good time," she said. "The ministerial association takes this thing a little too far. Anyone old enough to go in the door should be old enough to decide what they want to see."

The Rev. Kenneth Sirmans, pastor of the Eastside Baptist Church, said the ministers object to "lewd motions" the dancers make.

"We would agree that you would see as much on the beach," he said. "But they would not be pulling their briefs out, encouraging women to poke in dollar bills."

The dancers allow women to place bills in the back and sides of their briefs, Harrell said, but "these men will not let them poke anything in front."

About 14,000 people live in Tifton, which is about 100 miles south of Macon and is home to several agricultural research facilities. There are more than 50 churches in the town and surrounding Tift County.

Harrell, 55, said he got the idea for the show from people who complained about having to leave town for such entertainment. He says city officials have opposed his club from the start and that he had to pay more than $1,800 in legal fees and threaten to sue the city to obtain a $165 beer license.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is considering an application for financial assistance sponsored by the Eastern Pines Water Corporation. The specific elements of this proposed action are the construction of approximately 8,150 linear feet of 12-inch, 200 linear feet of 10-inch, 21,000 linear feet of 8-inch, 77,900 linear feet of 6-inch, 33,250 linear feet of waterlines; one 400 gallon per minute well and pumphouse and one 200,000 gallon elevated storage tank.

Baby Food Scare Is Expanding

Stores in Texas and Indiana yanked Gerber baby food products off their shelves following new reports of glass being found in containers, officials said.

Meanwhile, Gerber Products Co. attorneys agreed Tuesday to hold off court action on a $150 million lawsuit challenging Maryland's ban on the company's strained peaches until a state health department hearing officer can decide on the order's validity.

Consumers in at least 19 states have reported finding glass in Gerber foods, but the U.S. Food and Drug Administration said it has found no basis for a recall and that all the incidents were isolated.

In Texas, the 50 stores of the Lufkin-based Brookshire Brothers chain pulled Gerber chocolate pudding off shelves after a woman reported finding glass slivers while feeding her 8-month-old grandson.

The jar may have accidentally broken, allowing glass into the food, said Sherly Baylor, an FDA spokeswoman in Houston.

Ten Kroger Co. stores in the Pasadena, Texas, area near Houston pulled Gerber apple juice from shelves after glass pieces were found in a container of the juice over the weekend, Robert Townes, a Kroger assistant manager in Pasadena, said Monday. The jar was given to the FDA, Townes said.

No glass was found in remaining jars of juice, but they will remain off shelves pending instructions from the local health department, Townes said.

In Evansville, Ind., four Great Scot supermarkets pulled Gerber banana baby food from shelves after a woman reported glass in one jar, said David Gries, supervisor of the Evansville-Vanderburgh County Health Department's food section.

Maryland banned Gerber strained peaches Sunday after several reports of glass. The company filed suit against Gov. Harry Hughes and other officials the next day, saying the state acted precipitously without scientific data to support its action.

At a hearing Tuesday before U.S. District Judge Frank Kaufman, state Deputy Attorney General Dennis Sweeney said Gerber would take its case to a hearing officer of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

"The concern of the state and Gerber is to address the public's concern and try to figure out what the facts are," said James T. Eyler, an attorney for Gerber.

But Eyler said the lawsuit would remain on file.

Maryland agreed to allow Gerber attorneys to see any information it has concerning glass fragments found in strained peaches, said Sweeney.

Kaufman said the agreement would freeze the case for a week. He asked lawyers to submit a joint report detailing their progress by March 5.

No date was set for the administrative hearing.

In addition to Indiana, Texas and Maryland, claims of contamination have been made in Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, North Carolina, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

Reports that glass had been found in Gerber products began two weeks ago in New York. The reports that followed have covered a wide range of Gerber baby products and have not been limited to any single batch.

Union Says Strike Near At Eastern

MIAMI (AP) — The threat of a strike by about 6,000 Eastern Airlines flight attendants loomed after talks between the company and the Transport Workers Union broke off, union officials said.

"We don't see anything to avoid a strike Friday night," union negotiator John Kerrigan said after negotiations broke off with the nation's third-largest air carrier late Tuesday.

Kerrigan said talks would not be resumed unless Eastern calls the union back.

Flight attendants have threatened to walk out at 12:01 a.m. Saturday if their latest contract offer is not accepted by Eastern and its prospective owner, Frank Lorenzo of Texas Air Corp., said union spokesman David Butler.

The Air Line Pilots Association on Tuesday signed a 28-month contract reached last weekend, but national president Henry Duffy said the pilots also demand a quick contract agreement with the flight attendants.

Duffy refused to say whether pilots would cross picket lines if the attendants strike.

Some 12,000 Eastern workers represented by the International Association of Machinists will not cross picket lines in the event of a strike, said union District 100 president Charles Bryan.

Eastern President Frank Borman predicted a settlement with Transport Workers Union Local 553, which represents the attendants, and said a strike is "a non-possibility."

Lorenzo, whose $606 million Texas Air takeover effort was disclosed Monday, began moving into control of Eastern on Tuesday.

Gandhi's Economic Policies Hit By 'People's War' Demonstrators

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Demonstrators rallied across India today in a "people's war" against price increases that hampered commerce in much of the nation and paralyzed Bombay, a financial, film and shipping center.

The rallies attended by opposition workers, housewives and union members were the first major protest against Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's economic policies. There were no immediate estimates of the total numbers of demonstrators.

Protesters denounced the administration's "anti-poor, pro-rich policies." They demanded a rollback in price increases for bread, wheat, rice, cooking fuels, kerosene, gasoline, diesel fuel, fertilizers, coal and other essentials.

The government said the increases were needed to curb oil imports, reduce energy consumption and raise revenue for development programs.

But opposition leaders say the price increases have triggered 15 percent inflation in less than three weeks in a country where nearly half the 750 million people cannot afford two square meals a day.

No major violence was reported. In Bombay, a seaport that is home to 10 million people, riot police were deployed at major intersections to prevent disturbances, and at least 1,000 potential troublemakers were rounded up Tuesday. Shops, schools, banks and the stock exchange were closed today, and industry was crippled.

The city's 1 million cars, taxis, trucks and buses stayed off the roads and commuter trains ran empty or with only a few passengers. Flights were about half full.

Movie theaters and film studios were closed in India's "Hollywood," a city that produces more films a year than any country.

The protests were called by a dozen opposition parties, labor unions, and citizens groups in 17 of India's 22 states and four of its seven federal districts. New Delhi, Calcutta and other areas were exempt because of a protest strike earlier this month.

Despite the excitement, lawmakers in New Delhi, stormed out of the upper house of parliament to protest the price increases and about 10,000 people staged an emotional but peaceful anti-government rally in a nearby park.

Thousands of protesters at the rally shouted, "Gandhi is anti-people... We declare war against the crippling price hikes... The call of the hour is to walk together against the government."

Ambika Soni, leader of an opposition party, said, "We won't let the government work unless they take back the price hike."

The demonstrations and strikes were the first and biggest protest against Gandhi who last year was hailed as a messiah of modern India and foreign investment after his landslide election victory in December 1984.

"This is a people's war," Chandra Shekhar, president of the Janata (People's Party), told a rally in eastern Bihar state. "It will be the first major battle against the authoritarian government."

Authorities said the strike paralyzed Maharashtra state, of which Bombay is the capital.

The United News of India news agency reported the strike also was observed in the neighbouring states of Gujarat, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh, and in southern Kerala, eastern Orissa and central Madhya Pradesh.

"So far my indications are that the strike is successful all over the country," said George Fernandes, another Janata Party leader, who was dragged away by police with about 100 supporters for squatting on railway tracks in Bombay.

The government alerted police and paramilitary forces across the country to provide tight security. Authorities ordered a ban on processions and demonstrations in northeastern Bihar.

The opposition protest coincides with a general strike by about 6 million state government employees and more than 200,000 central government workers. They are protesting against a constitutional amendment they say provides for summary dismissals.

Castro Speaks To Politburo

MOSCOW (AP) — Ruling Politburo members took the floor today at the Communist Party Congress, heralding Mikhail S. Gorbachev's opening address on policies at home and abroad and answering his call for self-criticism.

Cuban President Fidel Castro, Polish head of state Wojciech Jaruzelski and Vietnamese leader Le Duan also spoke. Castro was accorded the honor of being the first foreign guest to speak, the official news agency Tass said.

Tass quoted Castro as denouncing "the aggressive policies of imperialist quarters." He cited the Vietnam War as "an example of what the so-called low-intensity conflicts can cost imperialism."

Castro, who was shown speaking on television, was followed by Le Duan and Jaruzelski. The proceedings were not televised live and only excerpts were shown on an afternoon news program.

At the opening Tuesday of the 27th congress, Gorbachev, the party general secretary, called for a streamlined bureaucracy and a reduction in central controls on agriculture and industry, and said he will give priority to easing the country's persistent food supply problems.

On the international front, Gorbachev rejected President Reagan's new arms control proposals and said timing of the next superpower summit hinges on an "understanding" about banning nuclear tests or eliminating medium-range missiles in Europe.

Car Bomb Hits Refugees' Camp

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — A car packed with TNT exploded at the entrance to a teeming Palestinian refugee camp in this southern port city today, killing the driver, witnesses said.

Police said seven civilians, including two small children, were wounded.

Hussein Hussein, a guard at the camp's main entrance, said: "I saw the driver trying to get out of the car. He struggled with the door, then the whole car exploded with him inside."

Police experts estimated the car, a blue Peugeot, was rigged with about 110 pounds of TNT.

The car bomb exploded near a government-run hospital and a school, and destroyed six houses, a pharmacy, and four cars.

The camp, flattened in Israel's 1982 invasion of Lebanon, holds 26,000 United Nations-registered refugees. It is located on the southern edge of Sidon, the provisional capital of southern Lebanon located 25 miles south of Beirut.

The bomb exploded at 9:50 a.m. (2:50 a.m. EST), 10 minutes before hundreds of Palestinians were scheduled to assemble at the entrance for a demonstration marking the 11th anniversary of the assassination of Marouf Saad, Sidon's former member of Parliament, police said.

"It would have been a bloodbath if the explosion occurred at the 10 a.m. demonstration date," said a police spokesman, who refused to be identified.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the blast.

Angry young Palestinians gathered at the gate after the explosion.

"Israel is our enemy," one man shouted. "Who else could have done this?"

Saad's death in 1975 was among the events fueling the sectarian hatred that eventually triggered Lebanon's civil war that began later that year.

Saad's son Mustafa, who inherited the leadership of the leftist Nasserite organization his father founded, was blinded by a car bomb that exploded outside his home last Jan. 21.

That blast killed three people, including Saad's 11-year-old daughter Natasha, and wounded 40.

Wednesday's attack was the second car bombing in Lebanon this week. A car packed with TNT exploded in Christian east Beirut on Monday, killing five people and wounding 25.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed higher today, making a new bid to sur- pass the 1,700 level in the Dow Jones industrial average. Dow Jones's average of 30 blue chips rose 2.18 to 1,694.84 in the first hour of trading.

Gainers took a narrow lead over losers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

In the week's first two sessions, the market bogged down as it encountered some resistance from sellers near the Dow 1,700 mark. But analysts noted that stock prices held relatively steady during that period.

They said it was impressive that the market was so resilient even as many people were describing stocks as "overextended."

Meanwhile, brokers said, the news background remained very positive, with interest rates and oil prices having fallen sharply and reported inflation remaining at low levels.

On Tuesday the government said the consumer price index rose 0.3 percent in January.

Eastern Airlines rose 1/8 to 8 1/2 and Texas Air, traded on the American Stock Exchange, slipped 1/2 to 21 1/2. Texas Air is moving to acquire Eastern.

The recently depressed oil issues, which rallied a bit on Tuesday, were steady to slightly higher today. Mobil gained 1/8 to 30 1/2, and Exxon was unchanged at 54 1/2.

The NYSE's 10 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .03 at 108.96. At the Amex, the market value index rose .38 to 252.80.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 5.62 to 1,692.66.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by about 9 to 7 on the NYSE. Big Board volume totaled 147.96 million shares, against 144.67 million in the previous session.

Riots ...

Radio announced an indefinite curfew.

President Hosni Mubarak, facing the most serious domestic unrest since coming to power in 1981 after the assassination of President Anwar Sadat, called an emergency Cabinet meeting.

The trouble in this sprawling Nile River city started when conscripts from the Central Security Force went on a rampage from camps near the pyramids after hearing rumors that their term of service was to be extended by one year.

Witnesses said the security police were joined in the nightlong spree of arson and looting by residents apparently angry with the government over recent price rises and the country's deteriorating economy shaken by the fall in oil prices and tourism and layoffs among Egyptian workers in Persian Gulf states.

Information Minister Safwat el-Sherif, in an interview with Cairo Radio, blamed the disturbances on "mutineers and troublemakers bent on sabotage."

The government-run Middle East News Agency said the troops mutinied after hearing "false rumors" that their period of enlistment was being extended from three years to four.

A source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the government actually decided for financial reasons to reduce their tours by one month.

Maadi residents reported heavy bursts of gunfire as mobs raced through the streets smashing hundreds of cars. Automatic weapons fire resounded through Cairo's center as troops with armored cars were deployed along Kasr el-Nil and other thoroughfares.

Mobs stormed Tourah Prison south of Cairo and freed many prisoners. The prison has been used to house Moslem fundamentalists as well as other political prisoners.

A government statement said some prisoners had been recaptured but gave no figures.

Sri Lanka

MADRAS, India (AP) — Tamil guerrillas seeking a separate state in Sri Lanka claimed they killed 18 government soldiers in the northwestern part of the country.

A statement issued by the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam said the fighting occurred in Thallady village in the Mannar District. It did not mention any guerrilla casualties.

The faction is one of five major rebel groups vying for statehood to Tamil-inhabited northern and eastern parts of the island nation.

East Carolina Academy Prepared To Close Friday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina Academy, a private school located off Secondary Road 1708 between Greenville and Winterville, is scheduled to close Friday.

Vivian Mills, headmistress of the school, referred all questions today to the school's board. Attempts to contact several members of the board were unsuccessful. Others would not comment.

But one board member, who asked not to be identified, said "the last vote I heard is that Friday is the last day." He said the decision to close the school, which has about 35 students in grades K-6, was made last week, because of financial problems.

"What we have today is the public (school) system seems to be much more attractive than it used to be. There is less and less interest in ... private schools," the board member said.

What the closing means, according to the board member, is that "it has taken away an alternative. We no longer have that."

The private school began as Pace Academy in the early 1960s. The name was later changed to Carolina Country Day and more recently to East Carolina Academy.

"From an academic standpoint," the school has provided "a high quality education," the board member said. But "there have been other things that it has lacked" because of the shortage of money. "We've always had financial problems."

A letter dated Feb. 19, which was sent to parents of students at the school, said the board "regrets to inform you that ... Feb. 28 ... will be the last day of school operation. The board was forced to make this decision because of the lack of funds needed to continue operations."

The letter also said, "Enclosed you will find a brief review of the school's financial condition. In an effort to pay teachers' salaries for February we are accessing each family $25."

The financial review listed accounts payable, amounting to $22,060.74, as: payroll taxes $14,178.12; repairs $225; legal expenses $428; supplies $729.62, and payroll $6,500.

Aquino ...

role in her government, as Marcos had charged during their bitter election campaign.

Laurel said Filipinos consider the United States their "closest friend," and said, "We would like a positive commitment from President Reagan that he will help the Philippines during this difficult time."

For her Cabinet, Mrs. Aquino retained Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, and promoted Fidel V. Ramos to full general and made him military chief of staff. The two men bolted from Marcos' government Saturday and led the military rebellion that helped topple Marcos.

Businessman Jaime Ongpin was chosen as finance minister. Jose Antonio Gonzales was selected tourism minister, and Jose Concepcion was named trade minister. Concepcion headed the National Movement for Free Elections, or Namfrel, a citizens group that declared Mrs. Aquino the election winner despite the National Assembly's proclamation of a Marcos victory.

The president named two lawyers who have long defended political prisoners, Rene Saguisag and Joker Arroyo, as presidential spokesman and executive secretary, respectively. National Assemblyman Aquilino Pimentel, who had been charged with subversion and jailed by Marcos, was named minister for local governments.

Former Sen. Ernesto Maceda, who was once Marcos' executive secretary, was chosen as natural resources minister, and Assemblyman Luis Villafuerte, a former Marcos trade minister, was picked to head a government reorganization commission.

Mrs. Aquino named Assemblyman Neptali Gonzales as justice minister, Assemblyman Rogacion Mercado as public works minister, Assemblyman Ramon Mitra as agriculture minister and Alberto Romulo as budget minister.

She did not appoint anyone to head the Ministry of Human Settlements, which Marcos' wife, Imelda, headed. Mrs. Aquino vowed during her campaign to abolish the all-encompassing, heavily funded ministry, which had been widely criticized as corrupt.

Dupree's Shot Lets Rose Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
With just six seconds left in the game, Rose High School's girls basketball team needed a miracle and with the ball in the hands of Jacksonville, it didn't look like one could happen.

But it did.
A freak turnover put the ball back into the hands of the Rampettes and Kim Dupree hit a baseline jumper with three seconds left to give Rose a 50-49 victory over the Lady Cards in the first round of the Section I 4-A tournament Tuesday night.

The Rampettes, co-champions of the Big East Conference, had twice lost to Jacksonville, the Mideastern Conference's #3 team, during the regular season. But the third time proved a charm for Rose.

Rose held a 46-45 lead with just over two minutes to go in the game, but didn't really attack the basket and Jacksonville forced a turnover with about a minute and a half left.

With about 35 seconds left, the Cardinals missed a shot and Rose got the rebound, only to see Tracy Green steal it and go in for a layup that put Jacksonville ahead, 47-46 with 25 seconds remaining.

Green was fouled on the play but missed. Rose got the rebound, but again turned it over, and Jacksonville's Shelia Green was then fouled with 16 seconds to go — and again missed.

However, Tracy Green got the rebound and was fouled — making both for a 49-46 lead with just 14 seconds showing.

It looked to be all over. But Rose came down and Dupree drove for a basket with seven seconds left and called time out to try and force a turnover on the inbounds. The bucket cut the lead to 49-48.

Jacksonville, attempting to get the ball in without a problem, created one, however. The player out of bounds handed the ball inbounds to another, both touching the ball at the same time — a violation. Without time going off the clock, Rose had it back.

"What we wanted to do was use Pam (Smith) to screen for Kim and get her under the basket for a layup (on the inbounds)," Coach Bill Kuykendall said afterward.

But it didn't work that way. Dupree was cut off by the Jacksonville defense and had to peel back outside for the inbounds pass. She took it, turned and fired, the ball swishing the nets perfectly for a 50-49 lead with three seconds showing.

She was also fouled on the play, but missed and Jacksonville's long down-court pass saw the clock go off before a shot could be fired up.

It left the Rampettes and Kuykendall leaving in the air for joy.

But it could turn out to be costly too. Smith, turning to head downcourt after Dupree's basket, was stepped on by a Jacksonville player, turning her ankle. Her status for the second round game was uncertain.

"At the half, we decided that our man-to-man defense wasn't doing what we wanted it to," Kuykendall said of the game strategy. "We decided to let 15 (Julie Robey) go and play five on four. It turned out well. (Robey) only shot twice in the half."

The Rampettes got into early foul trouble when Chris Holec drew her third foul in the second period and went to the bench, then got her fourth less than two minutes into the second half. She didn't return until the 4:30 mark of the final period.

"With our four-on-five plan, it didn't really hurt us that much not to have Chris in there," Kuykendall said. "What we tried to do was double (Cathy) Borden on one side and (Tracy) Green on the other."

Kuykendall saluted the offensive play of Kim Bridges in the final period. She drove to the basket for ten points, all coming in the final 10:30 of the game. Each one proved key as the Rampettes struggled to stay alive in the contest.

"They all played hard. It was a very good win for us."

Rose opened by scoring the first six points of the contest, but Jacksonville came back with six of its own to tie it up.

Rose then scored the next six for a 12-6 lead with 46 seconds left in the first period. The Lady Cardinals cut it back to 12-10 by the end of the quarter, however.

The Cardinals tied it at 14-14 and then took their first lead on a jumper from the lane by Leslie Babski, 16-14, with 4:46 left.

Rose tied it up on a rebounding basket by Smith, but a three-point play by Green put Jacksonville up again, 21-18.

Rose twice more tied it up but the Cards managed a 27-24 halftime lead on a basket by Borden and a free throw by Babski in the final 31 seconds of play.

Jacksonville scored the first basket of the third period to open up the lead to 29-24, but Rose came back with six straight, four by Dupree, to regain the lead, 30-29. The two exchanged baskets and Green hit a free throw with 1:50 left to tie it at 32-32.

After another exchange, Dupree hit with 13 seconds left for a 36-34 lead for the Rampettes as the period ended.

Smith hit a turnaround jumper in the lane to up the lead to 38-34 and after another exchange, Borden hit the second of two free throws with 4:32 left to trim the lead to one, 40-39.

Rose kept ahead, but each time the Rampettes scored, Jacksonville would match to remain only a point off the pace.

That continued until Rose lost the ball on the turnover with 1:30 left, giving the Cards the lead that they were unable to hold in those final fateful seconds.

Smith and Dupree each had 16 points to lead Rose, while Bridges added 10.

Green had 20 for Jacksonville while Borden had 16 and Babski hit 11.

The loss ended the year for the Cardinals at 16-7.

Rose, now 18-6, will continue into the playoffs, traveling to Goldsboro, the Mideastern champion, on Thursday.

Goldsboro beat Wilson Hunt, 43-41, Tuesday to advance.

In the other first round games, Fike, co-champ with Rose, beat Southern Wayne, 52-41, and Wilmington Laney topped Wilson Beddingfield, 58-48. Fike will host Laney in the other semifinal game on Thursday.

The finals will be held on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the site of the highest seeded finalist.

The first round continues tonight with boys' action among the 4-A's. Laney is at Beddingfield, Northeastern at Wilmington Hoggard, Hunt at Goldsboro, and New Bern at Fike in those contests.

Semifinals are Friday and the championship game next Wednesday.

The two winners will advance to the Regionals to be held starting March 13 in Wilson.

Lady Pam Pack Takes Easy Win

HOLLYWOOD — Washington's girls' basketball team advanced into the semifinals of the Section II, 3-A Tournament Tuesday night, downing Southern Durham Tuesday night.

The tournament is being held at D.H. Conley High School.

The Coastal Conference had a field day in the opening round of competition, sending all three Triangle Conference opponents home, including the league's first place boys and girls teams.

Havelock's boys, which finished fourth in the Coastal, upset Apex, the Triangle champ, 64-55, to move into the semifinals, while North Lenoir's girls, also #4 downed the Apex girls, 47-36. Apex had won the Triangle title.

Washington's girls took an early lead in their game and powered out to a 17-12 lead in the opening eight minutes of play. They grew more dominant in the second frame, outscoring Southern Durham, 20-7, to forge a 37-19 halftime lead.

The action slowed for both teams in the third quarter, which saw Southern outthit the Lady Pack, 8-6, to trail by 43-27. Washington ended any comeback hopes, however, with a 15-13 margin in the final quarter.

Sarah Gray led Washington's scoring with 18 points while Gloria Sherrod added 15.

Connie Small had 22 points to lead Southern Durham.

Washington will now meet the winner of Friday night's game between Harnett Central and West Carteret for the right to advance to the finals.

Duke Climbs To Top Spot On AP's Basketball Poll

By The Associated Press
Duke basketball Coach Mike Krzyzewski said he's happy that his Blue Devils are ranked No. 1 in the nation, but he's more concerned with his team staying No. 1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"To have Duke No. 1 in anything is nice," Krzyzewski said. "But we're much more concerned with what's going on in our conference this week. We're in first place in the ACC and that's the No. 1 we're concerned about."

Duke became the third team — all from the ACC — to hold the No. 1 spot in The Associated Poll this season as the Blue Devils jumped over North Carolina in the latest rankings released Tuesday.

Duke, 27-2, received 62 of the 64 first-place votes and 1,278 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. The Blue Devils joined Georgia Tech, which was No. 1 in the preseason poll, and North Carolina, which held the top spot each of the 13 weeks in the voting since the season began.

In four of the past five weeks, the Tar Heels were unanimous choices. The Blue Devils posted two victories last week, beating Miami, Fla. 104-82 and then No. 10 Oklahoma, 93-84. Duke, which plays at Clemson Wednesday night, is 10-2 in the ACC — one game ahead of North Carolina and Georgia Tech.

Kansas, 27-3, jumped from third to second in the poll with 1,181 points and one first-place vote. The Jayhawks clinched the Big Eight regular-season title with an 84-69 victory over Kansas State Saturday. Monday night, the Jayhawks beat Oklahoma on the road 87-80.

North Carolina received the other first-place vote and 1,140 points after suffering two losses last week. The Tar Heels, 25-3, were beaten at home by Maryland 77-72 in overtime and fell to then-No. 20 North Carolina State 76-65.

The Tar Heels, second in the preseason poll, meet Duke Sunday at Durham, N.C. North Carolina beat the Blue Devils 95-92 earlier this season.

Georgia Tech, 21-4, moved up one notch from last week to fourth with 1,077 points, while Kentucky, 24-3 and winners of the Southeastern Conference regular-season title, reached its highest ranking of the season at No. 5 with 979 points. The Wildcats were 93 points in front of No. 6 Syracuse, 22-3, which held on Sunday for a 64-63 nationally televised victory over then-No. 13 Georgetown.

Memphis State, St. John's, Nevada-Las Vegas and Michigan rounded out the Top Ten.

Memphis State, 24-3, fell three spots to No. 7 after losing its only game of the week, 82-80 at Florida State, and finished with 865 points. St. John's, 25-4, dropped one place to No. 8 with 766 points after the Redmen lost to DePaul 81-72. Nevada-Las Vegas, 11th last week, improved two notches with 759 points, 12 more than Michigan, which dropped three spots after losing 74-59 to Michigan State.

The second 10 consisted of Bradley, Notre Dame, Louisville, Oklahoma, Georgetown, Indiana, Michigan State, North Carolina State, Navy and Purdue.

Last week's second 10 was Nevada-Las Vegas, Bradley, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Indiana, Louisville, Navy, Virginia Tech, Michigan State and North Carolina State.

Purdue, 21-7, is the only newcomer to the Top Twenty. The Boilermakers tightened the Big Ten Conference race with an 85-68 victory over Indiana. Michigan and Indiana are 10-4 in conference play, one-half game ahead of Purdue, 10-5.

Virginia Tech was replaced in the Top Twenty by Purdue as the Hokies, 21-7, dropped a 69-66 Metro Conference decision to Southern Mississippi last weekend.

The Top Twenty teams in the Associated Press' college basketball poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, total points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1, record through Feb. 24 and last week's ranking:

Pitt Girls, AG Boys Advance

BY DON REUTER
Reflector Staff Writer

BETHEL — The North Pitt girls and the Ayden-Grifton boys, the top-seeded teams from the Eastern Plains Conference, overcame slow starts Tuesday night to win first round games in the Section I 2-A Basketball Tournament.

Clemmie Jenkins scored 14 points to lead the Pant-HERS to a 48-33 win over Roanoke. North Pitt, 23-3, will meet the winner of Thursday night's game between South Lenoir and Northampton East. Roanoke ends the season with a 12-13 mark.

In the boys' game, Marvin Smith powered his way inside for 28 points as the Chargers broke open a close game in the fourth quarter to defeat Ahoskie, 75-50. Ayden-Grifton, 21-3, will play against the winner of Friday night's game between Farmville Central and Edenton. Ahoskie closes out at 11-12.

In the girls' game, the Pant-HERS exchanged baskets with the Lady Redskins to leave the score tied, 8-8, with 2:30 left in the first quarter.

Shelia Carlisle, who came off the bench to lead the Lady Redskins with 15 points, hit a free throw, and Sonya Teele hit a bucket to give Roanoke a 11-8 lead with 55 seconds remaining in the period.

North Pitt closed the gap as Jenkins and Regina Cox, who was held to eight points, hit shots from the charity stripe to make it 11-10 at the end of the period.

North Pitt's full-court press began to work in the second period, and the Pant-HERS went on a 13-0 streak to open a 22-11 lead with 5:46 remaining in the first half.

Carlisle and Angela Harrel scored four points apiece in the following 3:20 as the Lady Redskins outscored North Pitt, 8-2, to make it 24-18 with 2:22 left in the half.

North Pitt outscored Roanoke 3-2 in the final two minutes to take a 27-20 lead into the locker room.

The Pant-HERS continued to pour it on in the second half, outscoring the Lady Redskins, 9-3, in the third quarter, to 36-23 with one quarter left to play.

North Pitt scored 10 unanswered points to start the final frame and opened a 46-23 margin with 3:18 to play.

Carlisle scored eight points in the final three minutes for Roanoke to make the final score a little closer at 48-33.

North Pitt's Assistant Coach Tim Avery said the game turned in the final quarter, to 36-23 with one quarter left to play.

"We started scoring a bit, so the press was easier to set up," he said. "We were trying to play some man-to-man in the beginning and they were beating us."

After the shaky start, Avery said the team came around.

"We knew they were going to be tough, and they came out wanting it more than we did," Avery said. "We had a real flat practice yesterday, but Clemmie Jenkins came on strong and played one of her best games of the season."

In the boys' game, Ayden-Grifton held onto a slim 47-44 lead after three periods of play, but the Chargers outscored the Cougars, 28-6, in the fourth quarter to win going away 75-50.

Despite the strong finish, Ayden-Grifton Coach Bob Murphrey cited problems with his team's offense.

"We never did get on track with our outside shooting," he said. "Our outside shooting needs to get on track. This game was a lot closer than the final score indicates."

Murphrey did see some positive signs in the Chargers win.

"We scored on the transition game and broke some presses," he said. "We hit the boards better in the second half."

Smith scored six early points as Ayden-Grifton jumped out to a 10-4 lead with 4:57 left in the first quarter. But scored six of the next eight points and pulled to within two at 12-10 on an eight-foot jumper by Chip Taylor with 2:41 to go in the period.

Ayden-Grifton's Eric Blount, who came off the bench to contribute six points, hit a 15-foot baseline jumper to close out the first quarter scoring and give the Chargers a 14-10 lead.

Taylor and Keith Mitchell, who led Ahoskie with 18 points, combined to score the first six points of the second frame as the Cougars took a 16-14 lead with 6:42 to go in the half.

But the Chargers bounced back to score seven unanswered points to make it 21-16 with 4:44 remaining until intermission.

The two teams traded baskets until Ronnell Peterson ran off three straight points to give the Chargers a 28-20 lead with 2:28 left in the half.

Ahoskie outscored Ayden-Grifton, 6-2, in the final two minutes to close the score to 30-26 at the half.

Doug Anderson, who chipped in 14 points for the Chargers, and Smith scored the first four points of the second half to make it 34-26. But the Cougars scored eight of the game's next 10 points and Darrin Mitchell's basket with 4:58 remaining in the third quarter made it a two-point game at 36-34.

The two teams exchanged buckets, and Smith, who shot 12-15 from the free-throw line, hit two free throws and a stuff on a breakaway to make it 42-36 with 3:13 left in the period.

The Cougars clawed back with six unanswered points and tied the score at 42-42 when Keith Mitchell hit a 15-foot jumper.

With the score tied at 44-44, Hilton Ellison scored his only points of the game on a three-point play with one second left in the third quarter, giving the Chargers a 47-44 lead with one quarter to play.

Both teams opened the period with baskets, but the Chargers went on a 20-0 tear in the next 4:50 seconds to take a commanding 69-46 lead with 1:43 left to play.

In the streak, Smith scored seven points, while Maurice Berry and Anderson added four apiece.

With the game out of reach, Ayden-Grifton emptied its bench, and Keith Mitchell's basket in the final few seconds made the final score 75-50.

Richardson's Banning Was Necessary Action

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Micheal Ray Richardson's banishment from the NBA surprised a few, saddened many, but was a necessary action to combat the growing abuse of drugs by athletes, officials and players say.

Richardson, a four-time NBA All-Star, was banned for life by Commissioner David Stern on Tuesday after a drug-screening test detected the presence of cocaine in his body. It was the third violation of the league's drug-enforcement policy by New Jersey Nets guard and carried the mandatory life ban, with possible reinstatement by application after two years.

"It's a great loss, like one of your best friends dying," said Nets guard Otis Birdsong. "He is such a great talent. He'll be missed. I just hope he can get his life in order."

Richardson spent 15 days in a drug rehabilitation center at the start of the year, but teammate Mike Gminski felt he was playing on borrowed time when he returned on Jan. 22.

"In my mind it was just a matter of time, two weeks, two years, given his circumstances, it seemed inevitable," said Gminski. "I think he was given every chance possible."

Most Nets fans felt Richardson got what he deserved, but not Joe Boyce, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y.

"I don't think this whole thing is being dealt with properly," he said. "The man has a real problem, but it's a health problem. Taking his job away is only going to make things worse. He is being treated like a broken machine, not a human being."

"You can't rehabilitate a man from something like this in a matter of a few weeks," he added. "The NBA has got to learn to deal with athletes who have this problem on a lifetime basis."

Nets forward Mickey Johnson is hoping Richardson can find a way to beat his cocaine dependency.

"It's a disease and I don't think any man on earth can help, not a psychologist, not a drug counselor," said Johnson. "He has to find some kind of belief that's stronger than the disease that's caught him."

Nets Coach Dave Wohl said the team has to learn to start living without Richardson.

"We have a fairly resilient group," said Wohl. "They realize the task ahead of them. The pre-game mood was somber. It's a very sad thing."

Wohl said he spent a sleepless Monday night after learning the result of the urinalysis.

"You ask yourself if there was anything else you or anyone else could have done," he said. "But I really think the Nets did everything they could for him."

Lewis Schaffel, the Nets executive vice president, said he saw Richardson for a couple of minutes on Tuesday afternoon and "he (Richardson) just felt... terrible."

"Sometimes I feel no one can feel worse than we do," he said. "It's a strange feeling. I just can't tell you how it feels. I didn't sleep all last night."

"We took three years to give him all the support and guidance," Schaffel said. "We sent him to the best rehabilitation center in the country. We had all the support systems here. Ultimately, we all failed."

Most fans at the Nets 116-109 loss to Golden State on Tuesday agreed with the Stern's decision.

"I think a lot of these guys use drugs from time to time," said Christine Targia, 21, of New Hyde Park, N.Y. "And it's ruining pro sports. I can't condone it, but I believe there is an awful lot of pressure on these athletes."

Players, coaches and officials of other NBA teams generally expressed the opinion that Richardson had reached the point where he must pay the penalty for not staying clear of cocaine.

"It's too late for compassion," Boston's Kevin McHale said. "Now someone has to grab him by the ear and shake him or else he'll end up in an alley."

"He's guilty and he's being punished; those are the rules," Celtics forward Larry Bird added. "Drugs are very bad for sports. It has to be cleaned up or sports will go down."

Pat Williams, general manager of the Philadelphia 76ers, said Richardson "got enough chances, got enough warnings" and that the NBA's drug policy is "more than fair to the players."

A similar sentiment came from Portland Trail Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay, who said, "It's too bad to see a player lose out on his career, but it's not as if he hasn't had chances to straighten out his life."

But Charles Barkley, a forward on the 76ers, was one of those who thought the NBA should have been more lenient with Richardson.

"The punishment was too harsh," Barkley said. "It was too stiff when you consider he was trying to get himself together."

"I think he needed more time. I think it was a case of trying to get him back into the lineup instead of making sure he was rehabilitated," Barkley said.

"I have compassion for Micheal Ray Richardson as a human being in the fact that he obviously has not been able to control this problem," Jerry Colangelo, general manager of the Phoenix Suns, said. But he added: "Although the punishment may seem harsh, it appears that this is the only solution. Our program has taken some abuse, yet it is the best that exists in professional sports. And I think this type of action adds credibility."

"Life is very intense in the NBA, but where else can a guy make the kind of money Richardson was making?" Chicago forward Gene Banks said.

Royal's Free Throws Lead Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — DePaul, riding the momentum of its upset victory over St. John's, ran into something it couldn't beat. Perfection.

"We would get close and then we couldn't come back," DePaul Coach Joey Meyer said Tuesday night after the No. 12 Irish defeated the Blue Demons, 70-59.

"Donald Royal was the key in the game. He takes it right to you and draws the fouls," Meyer said.

Royal hit every one of his 16 attempts from the free throw line, setting a Notre Dame individual record for consecutive free throws in a game.

"In high school, I was a terrible free throw shooter, but I've improved a lot," said Royal, who finished with a game-high 26 points.

"(Assistant coach) Gary Brokaw has taught me different techniques and I practice before and after practice each day," he said. "I work on the same rhythm every time."

In the only other Top Twenty game played Tuesday night, No. 19 Navy beat Richmond 85-72.

"We wanted to get it inside to Royal and draw the fouls," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said. "Once he gets the ball, he reads well, he can take it to the hole and draw the foul."

With eight minutes left, DePaul, 15-11, reeled off six unanswered points to draw within 56-51, before Eric Lampley missed a pair of free throws and Tony Jackson fouled Notre Dame's David Rivers.

Rivers hit the first and missed the second, but Ken Barlow grabbed the rebound and fed to Royal, who was fouled again.

Royal hit the pair and DePaul never pulled closer than six points in the closing five minutes.

Kevin Holmes and Dallas Comegys led the Blue Demons, 15-11, with 15 points apiece. Jackson added 13 and Strickland hit 10.

Rivers added 14 to Notre Dame's tally and Joseph Price scored 10.

Notre Dame, 20-5, the nation's third-leading free throw shooting team at 78 percent, made 30 of 35 attempts from the foul line for 85 percent.

The Irish hit a commanding 15 of 17 from the free throw line in the first half, including nine from Royal, to take a 37-30 halftime lead over the Blue Demons.

Barlow, the Irish leading free throw shooter and scorer, was benched seven minutes into the half with three fouls and finished the game with two points. "Barlow isn't in the groove," Phelps said.

DePaul held the lead during the first 10 minutes, largely on Jackson's shooting, before Notre Dame came back with six unanswered points and sparked a two-minute battle in which the lead changed hands four times.

The Irish then racked up 10 straight points, including six from Royal, to take the lead for good.

Royal's free throw record eclipses the mark of 15 consecutive points set by Bobby Arnzen in 1967 against New York University.

No. 19 Navy 85, Richmond 72
Vernon Butler scored 27 points and Kylor Whitaker added 24 as Navy downed Richmond to win the regular-season championship of the Colonial Athletic Association. It was the 16th straight home-court victory for Navy, which earned the top seed in the upcoming conference tournament. Navy, 24-4 overall, ended with a 13-1 mark in the conference.

Tournaments

Atlantic-10
Rutgers 52, Massachusetts 47

Junior Eric Riggins scored 21 points and freshman forward Anthony Duckett added 11 to lead Rutgers over UMass in a first round Atlantic-10 tournament game.

UMass, seeded seventh in the tournament, ended its season at 9-19 overall. Rutgers, 8-20 overall and seeded 10th, faces West Virginia in a quarterfinal game Thursday night.

Penn St. 50, Rhode Island 47
Paul Murphy scored the last six points as the Nittany Lions defeated Rhode Island in an Atlantic 10 conference first-round game.

The victory propelled Penn State, 5-13 in the conference and 12-16 overall, into the quarterfinals against league-leading St. Joseph's at Philadelphia Thursday.

Teamwork Pays Off For Bucks

By The Associated Press
Playing without scoring leader Sidney Moncrief, the Milwaukee Bucks used an old fashioned strategy to win their ninth consecutive game — teamwork.

Terry Cummings scored 16 points and Paul Pressey contributed 10 points and 16 assists Tuesday night to give Milwaukee a 114-99 NBA decision over the Los Angeles Clippers.

"The whole concept is team play," Cummings said. "No matter how things are going, we always get back to it." Besides Cummings and Pressey six other Bucks scored in double figures.

Moncrief, averaging 20.2 points, was out with the flu after earning NBA Player of the Week honors last week.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, Golden State beat New Jersey 116-109, Boston routed New York 91-74, Indiana downed Washington 100-87, Philadelphia defeated Chicago 122-108, Denver trounced Phoenix 112-99, Utah edged Houston 100-97 and Sacramento nipped Seattle 102-100.

Milwaukee led 55-49 at halftime, but the Bucks outscored the visitors 28-22 in the third quarter to take an 83-71 lead.

The Clippers pulled to within five points twice in the third period, the last at 68-63 with 5:15 left. But the Bucks went on a 15-6 run to nullify the Los Angeles rally.

Craig Hodges, who finished with 14 points, scored six during the Buck streak.

"Sidney, even though he wasn't playing, was with us in spirit," said Hodges. "Without him, we have to play with an extra effort. The fact that we had eight players in double figures shows that everyone got into the flow of the game."

Also scoring in double figures for the Bucks were: Randy Breuer with 15 points, Kenny Fields with 14, Alton Lister with 13, Mike Glenn with 12 and Ricky Pierce with 10.

"If you're not the type of team that handles the ball well, then you're going to be in trouble against Milwaukee," said Norm Nixon, who led the Clippers with 22. "We're just not that great a ball-handling team. Their defense took us out of what we wanted to do. They wanted to put the ball in people's hands that normally don't have it. That's what they were able to do."

Warriors 116, Nets 109

At East Rutherford, Joe Barry Carroll scored 25 points and keyed a decisive fourth-quarter rally to lead Golden State over the Micheal Ray Richardson-less New Jersey.

The drug-plagued Richardson was banned from the league for life earlier in the day by Commissioner David Stern after committing his third offense under the league's drug enforcement policy. He will be eligible to return in two years if he receives the approval of the league and its players association.

The Nets trailed 87-85 after forward Mickey Johnson made a layup with 8:53 to play. But that was the closest New Jersey got in the second half in dropping its third consecutive game and 16th in 23 games. Golden State responded with a 12-4 run over the next 2:47 to open a 99-89 lead.

Celtics 91, Knicks 74

At New York, Larry Bird had 24 points, 18 rebounds and 13 assists and sparked a Boston streak with eight consecutive points during a 12-0 third-quarter run.

Bird reached double figures in three categories in one game for the fifth time in his last eight games.

Patrick Ewing led the Knicks with 16 points in his first game after missing seven with an injured knee. The loss was the ninth in 10 games for New York.

Pacers 100, Bullets 87

At Indianapolis, Herb Williams scored 24 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to pace six Indiana players in double figures.

Washington scored the first field goal of the game but never led again as the Pacers beat the Bullets for the third time in three meetings this season and snapped a three-game losing streak.

76ers 122, Bulls 108

At Chicago, Moses Malone scored a season-high 42 points and Charles Barkley added 30 and 15 rebounds to lead Philadelphia.

The Bulls, paced by rookie Charles Oakley's career-high 31 points and reserve guard Michael Holton's 21, helped cut a 22-point deficit down to 110-104 with 2:52 left in the game. Malone, who also had 15 rebounds, then hit a basket and two free throws, and Barkley connected on a rebound to assure the victory.

Nuggets 112, Suns 99

At Denver, Alex English scored 41 points, surpassing the 40-point mark for the seventh time this season, to lead the Nuggets to their sixth straight victory. The victory moved the Nuggets to within 1½ games of Houston in the race for first place in the Midwest Division.

The Nuggets won for the ninth consecutive time at home, where they are 27-4 for the season.

Jazz 100, Rockets 97

At Salt Lake City, Adrian Dantley

Padres Name Boros Manager

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — The San Diego Padres cut clean their ties to Dick Williams and his often abrasive ways by hiring the quintessential nice guy, Steve Boros, as the club's new manager.

Boros became the 10th manager in the 18-year history of the franchise on Tuesday, a day after Williams resigned amid rampant player dissatisfaction with his managing style.

A former manager of the Oakland A's who joined the Padres organization a year ago, Boros said restoring player-manager communications marred during Williams' four-year reign would be his first order of business.

Unlike Williams, who kept aloof from players, Boros said he would work to develop warm relations with each member of the squad.

"I'm going to be close to my players," he said at a Tuesday night news conference in Yuma, where the Padres are in spring training. "I've always been that way. That's not going to change."

"I still think I can do that and still have a disciplined atmosphere."

Boros inherits a club that finished in a third-place tie with Houston in the National League West last season after winning the league championship in 1984.

He also must deal with the after-effects of player disenchantment that marked the final months of Williams tenure and bitter front-office infighting that preceded Williams' resignation.

"As I see my my job, it's to motivate these players to get them to play to their potential," he said. "I think perhaps key players didn't have the years last year that they should have had and my coaches and myself are going to take it upon ourselves to get the best that we can out of them."

Boros, 49, managed the A's to a 74-88 record in 1983 and was fired by Oakland in May of 1984 after the A's had gotten off to a 20-24 start. He joined the Padres a year ago as coordinator of minor league instruction.

Manning Feels Added Pressure

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — All the talk about lacking competitive fire is beginning to burn Danny Manning.

"It's getting real old," the 19-year-old sophomore star of second-ranked Kansas said. "I really don't know what the people are expecting of me. I'll never be the kind of player who'll go out and get 40 points a game."

Manning, a former North Carolina prep standout, merely gets about half that — a key to Kansas winning its first Big Eight championship since 1978 — and he's among the league's leaders in steals, rebounds and blocked shots.

Nevertheless, the 6-foot-11 Manning, versatile enough to play center as well as point guard or shooting forward, has a rap: passive, laid back, not hungry enough.

"I've told Danny he's got to be more aggressive," Jayhawk Coach Larry Brown said at the start of the season. "I've told Danny to not to always pass off the ball. I want him to try to score more."

Brown recently told Sports Illustrated, which featured Manning on the cover: "I tell him to demand the ball, but it's hard for him to step forward. He has such a feeling for the seniors, he wants them to get numbers and go high in the draft.

"But sometimes he's just out there; his mind wanders. I don't see a fear, but maybe it's a reluctance to lay it all on the line."

Maybe he's too much of a team player.

Last Saturday, for example, when Kansas beat Kansas State 84-69 to take the Big Eight regular-season title, Manning scored 15 points and assumed a supporting role while senior Ron Kellogg finished with 30.

"Should I demand the ball when somebody like that gets going and starts hitting everything within 25 feet?" Manning asked testily.

"Ronnie was hot and we were trying to get him the ball. If Ronnie and (Calvin) Thompson are hitting from the outside, it opens things up inside for Greg (Dreiling) and myself and everyone benefits," he said.

He told SI: "A lot of times I'll catch the ball and want to take it to the basket. Then I think about the team concept."

Quiet and soft-spoken, some observers say Manning is really a 6-1 guard in a 6-11 body.

In a game against Missouri, Manning stole the ball twice and drove nearly the length of the court each time for a layup — unusual for a player his size.

Like a crack guard, he's adept at stealing and leads the Jayhawks with 27 thefts. As a passer, he is often brilliant and has a feathery touch on 15-footers.

"He makes the players around him better players, and that is the ultimate mark of greatness," Iowa State Coach Johnny Orr said.

Tom Heinsohn, the former Boston Celtics star turned television commentator, calls Manning a "peek into the future."

"He's the first of the 7-foot guards," he said.

"Danny Manning has the best touch on the ball of any player I've ever seen," said Henry Iba, who coached two national championship teams at Oklahoma State along with several U.S. Olympic squads.

Few high school players entered college with greater fanfare than Manning, a schoolboy star in Greensboro, N.C., deep in the heart of Tobacco Road.

In the summer before Manning's senior year in high school, Brown hired his father, Ed Manning, as an assistant. The senior Manning, 43, had played for Brown's Carolina Cougars in the old American Basketball Association, but at the time Brown called with the coaching offer he was driving trucks to support his wife, Darnelle, Danny and daughter, Dawn.

A few months after the Mannings moved to Lawrence, Danny announced he planned to become a Jayhawk, much to the disappointment of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Father, son and coach weathered considerable criticism.

"People forget that I've known Danny since he was a little kid hanging around the arena waiting for his dad to get through with practice," Brown said. "I think we would have had a great chance of signing Danny no matter what Ed had decided to do."

Ed Manning, meanwhile, has won the respect of the team.

"He's really helped us a lot," reserve forward Jeff Johnson said. "He knows the game and he's a good teacher. He'll get after you." He gets after his son, too.

As for the lanky (215 pounds), sensitive youngster, other coaches say the best is still to come for Manning.

How They Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll-call votes during the week ending Feb. 21.

House HEALTH PROGRAMS — By a vote of 254 for and 151 against, the House failed to achieve the two-thirds majority needed to pass a bill to continue categorical grant funding of health centers in areas with inadequate medical care.

The special majority was needed because the bill was debated under a short-cut parliamentary procedure that barred floor amendments and abbreviated debate.

The bill (HR 2418) authorized $893 million over two years for community health centers in areas lacking adequate medical care and for migrant health centers to serve seasonal workers. Most individuals using these facilities cannot qualify for Medicaid coverage.

Largely at issue was the provision to continue categorical grants rather than fold these programs into the federal block grant for primary health care.

As the block grant approach has come into wide use during the Reagan Administration, many specific federal missions have been turned over to states and localities, which have wide latitude in determining how to administer the programs and spend the accompanying federal payments.

Supporter Henry Waxman, D-Calif., said, "I think members are not willing to go along with" funding the community health programs via block grants.

Opponent Trent Lott, R-Miss., noted that the Administration opposed the bill because it eschewed the block grant funding mechanism.

Members voting yes wanted to pass the bill.

North Carolina representatives voting yes were Walter Jones, D-1; Tim Valentine, D-2; Charles Whitley, D-3; Stephen Neal, D-5; Charles Rose, D-7; W.G. Hefner, D-8, and James Broyhill, R-10.

Those voting no were William Cobby, R-4; Howard Coble, R-6; Alex McMillan, R-9, and Bill Hendon, R-11.

Senate

MARCOS — By a vote of 85 for and nine against, the Senate adopted a resolution condemning as fraudulent the recent presidential election in the Philippines in which President Ferdinand Marcos won over challenger Corazon Aquino amid charges there and in Washington that he stole the victory.

The resolution said, "America's interests are best served in the Philippines by a government which has a popular mandate," adding that the election was "marked by such widespread fraud that (it) cannot be considered a fair reflection of the will of the people of the Philippines."

The non-binding resolution (S Res 345) called upon President Reagan to "personally convey these concerns to President Ferdinand Marcos and Corazon Aquino of the Philippines."

Supporter Edward Kennedy, D-

Mass., said: "Cory Aquino won the election lock, stock and barrel. It is time that the U.S. called a spade a spade. It is time for the Senate to say it, the House of Representatives to say it, and the president of the U.S. to say it."

Opponent Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said the Senate should withhold a vote until Ambassador Philip Habib returned from the Philippines to report to the White House on the situation there. "We should give our president an opportunity to review all the facts," he said.

Senators voting yes wanted to condemn the recent Philippine presidential election as fraudulent.

North Carolina Sens. John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, both voted no.

GENOCIDE TREATY — By a vote of 83 for and 11 against, the Senate ratified a treaty declaring genocide an international crime to be prevented, or, if committed, to be punished.

The United States signed the Genocide Convention in 1948, soon after the Holocaust, but the Senate had refused until this vote to approve it.

North Carolina Sens. East and Helms both voted no.

Anson To Honor Movie Director

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — When director Steven Spielberg didn't receive a nomination from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the movie "The Color Purple," it didn't set well in Anson County.

"How can a picture receive 11 Academy Award nominations and (the academy) not nominate the director?" asked Anson County Commission Chairman Freddie Black.

Anson County, where much of the movie was filmed last summer, has decided to hold its own awards presentation March 20. The Anson County Chamber of Commerce, Arts Council and Historical Society will sponsor the event at a Wadesboro country club.

Winners will receive statuettes dubbed "Felices." Invitations have been sent to Spielberg, Warner Bros. and stars of the movie, including Whoopi Goldberg, Danny Glover and Oprah Winfrey.

Some of the movie was filmed in Marshville, in neighboring Union County, but most of the shooting was done on the rolling Anson County hills about five miles south of Lilesville.

"The movie did a lot for Anson County, and this will give us a chance to say thanks," said Henry Morton, arts council president and master of ceremonies for the presentation. Morton installed security systems on the sets and was in a scene in which Ms. Winfrey punched an actor playing a small-town mayor.

"The movie gave us a chance to share some of the glamor of the silver screen," he said, "and the awards give us one more chance to bask in our glory."

"The Color Purple," which Spielberg directed and produced, received award nominations including best picture, best actress, and two for best supporting actress.

Rob Freidman, publicity director for Warner Bros. in Universal City, Calif., said Warner Bros. was "thrilled at the honor of the awards from Anson County."

Freidman said it was unlikely anyone from Warner Bros. would attend. Spielberg was not available for comment.

Morton said voting for the six Felix awards — best supporting actor and actress, best actor and actress, best screenplay and best director — is complete, but he would not reveal the results.

'We Are The World' Wins Four Grammy Awards; Phil Collins Is Triple Winner

By RICHARD DE ATLEY
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Compassion took the place of commercialism in writing the hit song that helped feed the world's hungry and won four Grammy awards as well, say the composers of "We Are The World."

"We wrote it to save lives," Lionel Richie said of the pop charity anthem that raised $33 million to fight hunger in Africa. "We didn't write it for this purpose (to win awards). We came tonight to keep the message alive."

Good-time music also got its share of attention Tuesday at the 28th annual Grammy Awards, with Phil Collins driving "No Jacket Required" winning three awards; including best album.

"We Are The World," recorded by 45 top artists including Bruce Springsteen, Tina Turner, Kenny Rogers and Stevie Wonder, won song of the year for writers Richie and Michael Jackson at Tuesday's 28th annual Grammy Awards.

It also was named record of the year and best group pop performance for producer Quincy Jones, and best short-form video.

"I don't want to dissect it. I just want to write a song the whole world could sing," said Jackson.

Jones said of the award, "It meant I had a whole lot of help. Everybody wanted to do something. That's what beautiful about it. No one person could have done this."

"When you leave here, remember the children," Jackson told a talent-laden crowd at the ceremonies at the Shrine Auditorium.

"We Are The World" has brought in more than $33 million, according to the USA for Africa Foundation, and associated T-shirt, poster and video cassette sales added $12 million more.

Officials of the National Association of Recording Arts and Sciences estimated up to 90 million viewers watched the show televised by CBS.

Collins, on leave as drummer from the British group Genesis, won album of the year for his slick "No Jacket Required," which also earned him best male pop vocal performance and producer of the year along with Hugh Padgham.

"Now that I've got these, I've got to live up to them," he said.

Wonder won best male rhythm and blues performance for his "In Square Circle" LP, his 16th lifetime Grammy award, putting him fourth on the all-time list. Jones' two Grammys moved him to a third-place tie with pianist Vladimir Horowitz.

Conductor Sir Georg Solti, whose recording of Schoenberg's "Moses und Aron" won best opera recording, is first with 23, followed by Henry Mancini with 20.

Whitney Houston won the Grammy for pop female vocal performance for "Saving All My Love for You," an award handed to her by her delighted cousin, Dionne Warwick.

Sade, a Nigerian pop princess whose sultry sound on her "Diamond Life" LP revived an interest in cafe jazz, took the best new artist award.

Dire Straits won best rock performance by a group for "Money for Nothing," while the group's "Brothers in Arms" album also won a Grammy for engineering. Dire Straits' leader Mark Knopfler won with country guitarist Chet Atkins for their guitar work for best country instrumental performance for "Cosmic Squireance."

Whoopi Goldberg, nominated for an Oscar as best actress in "The Color Purple," won the comedy album award for "Whoopi Goldberg." She appeared shocked as she learned she won, and ad-libbed a four-letter word in her acceptance speech, apologizing, "I forgot where I was."

Trumpeter Wynton Marsalis won for solo jazz instrumental performance for "Black Codes from the Underground," which also took the jazz group Grammy.

Aretha Franklin won best female rhythm and blues performance for "Freeway of Love," which also won best rhythm and blues song for writers Narada Michael Walden and Jeffrey Cohn.

Jan Hammer's "Miami Vice" theme from the TV show won best pop instrumental performance and best instrumental composition. Don Henley's angst-filled "Boys of Summer" won for best male rock vocal performance, and Tina Turner — who won three Grammys a year ago — got best female rock vocal performance for "One of the Living."

The Manhattan Transfer's "Vocalese" album won best arrangement for two or more voices, best jazz male vocal performance for guest soloists Jon Hendricks and Bobby McFerrin for their performance on the "Another Night in Tunisia" track, and best jazz vocal performance by a duo or group.

The Commodores won best rhythm and blues performance by a vocal duo or group for "Night Shift," their first hit since Lionel Richie left the group.

In country music, Rosanne Cash won best female vocal performance for "I Don't Know Why You Don't Want Me," while the mother-daughter duo, The Judds, won best country vocal performance by a group. Ronnie Milsap won best male country vocal for his "Lost in the Fifties Tonight."

Songwriter Jimmy Webb won best country song for "Highwayman."

During the show, special tributes were made to lifetime achievement award winners including clarinetist-bandleader Benny Goodman, classical guitarist Andres Segovia, and the Rolling Stones, who have never won a Grammy. A non-performing achievement award was made to the late George and Ira Gershwin.

Chosen for inclusion in the Grammy Hall of Fame this year were five records released before the academy began making awards in 1958:

"A-Tisket, A-Tasket," by Chick Webb and his Orchestra, featuring Ella Fitzgerald. The song was released in 1938 on Decca Records.

"Bach: Goldberg Variations for Harpsichord," by Wanda Landowska, issued in 1945 on Victor Records.

"Blue Suede Shoes," by Carl Perkins, issued in 1956 on Sun Records.

"Cool Water," by Sons of the Pioneers, issued in 1941 on Decca Records.

"Tea for Two" by Art Tatum, released in 1939 on Decca Records.

In The Armed Services

Ten cadets in the East Carolina University Air Force ROTC detachment recently received medals for having achieved superior academic grade point averages.

The awards signified the cadets' leadership in their respective Air Force ROTC classes, cumulatively or by semester. Awards were also given to cadets who compiled the "most improved" academic records.

Receiving awards were Mark Horton of Morehead City, Virgil Harvey Cook Jr. of Shelby, Philip Blair of Fayetteville, Donald Keller of Winston-Salem, Allan O'Brian of Burgaw, Teresa Schallock of Hertford, Timothy Williams of Lumberton, David Chandler of Albemarle, Kelvin Black Smith of Dudley, and Clint Lommatzsch of Dayton, Ohio.

Thirty-nine cadets in the East Carolina University Army ROTC detachment have received promotions in rank, awards for academic achievement and/or ribbons for successful performance in tests of physical endurance and military skills.

Among the awards given were the Marauder Proficiency Ribbon, presented to cadets who completed a rigorous course of training activities, which included swimming in full gear and a lengthy march.

The cadets were recognized and presented with ribbons and certificates at a recent campus ceremony.

Greenville residents honored were: Kathy Williams, daughter of Willie and Ernestine Williams, who was promoted to cadet and received the AROTC Academic and Honor Roll ribbon and the Color Guard Proficiency ribbon; Robert Kent Watts, son of Robert and Janice Watts, who was promoted to cadet first lieutenant and received a Physical Fitness Proficiency ribbon and the Marauder Proficiency ribbon, and Michael J. McClanahan, son of Sarah H. McClanahan of Greenville and Marcus McClanahan of Grimesland, who was promoted to cadet sergeant major and received the AROTC Academic and Honor Roll ribbon, the Marauder Proficiency ribbon and the Color Guard Proficiency ribbon.

Several Air Force ROTC cadets at East Carolina University were awarded an Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) Honors Ribbon for maintaining a 3.0 grade point average for two consecutive semesters at ECU.

Presented with the award were Jack D. Brinkley of Pilot Mountain, Mark S. Horton of Morehead City, Eric K. Johnson of Smithfield, Tracey M. Mann of Fayetteville, Teresa A. Schallock of Hertford, Timothy N. Williams of Lumberton and Virgil Harvey Cook Jr. of Shelby.

Farm Crop Values Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of U.S. crop production dropped 5 percent last year to an estimated $75.5 billion from $79.4 billion in 1984, according to an annual report by the Agriculture Department.

Farmers harvested bumper crops in 1985, but market prices were down for some key commodities. The record year was 1982, when total crop production was worth $82 billion.

The record 1985 corn harvest, the traditional crop leader, was worth $21.3 billion, up from about $20.1 billion in 1984. Last year's average price at the farm was projected at $2.41 per bushel, compared with $2.62 in 1984.

Officials cautioned that the estimates were based on production multiplied by estimated prices for the various commodities so far this season. The dollar amounts are not the same as "farm marketings" of crops, which reflect the value of commodities actually sold by farmers.

The annual figures do provide a look at the book value of crops, however, and can be useful in comparing one commodity with another.

An advocacy group, the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, recently said marijuana production in 1985 was worth $18.6 billion and was worth more to growers than corn.

International Theme For Festival

By GARRY MITCHELL, Associated Press Writer
PRICHARD, Ala. (AP) — A cadre of volunteers directing this week's Africatown Folk Festival wants to expand the legacy of the last slave ship to enter this country, making it an international celebration of black heritage.

Dorothy Davies, managing director of the festival, which runs through Sunday, said discussions will be held this week on development of a 150-acre state park that will permanently commemorate the settlement of Africans who arrived in Mobile in an 1859 slave shipment from Ouidah, Benin, West Africa.

Official representatives from the African country also will establish formal ties to Prichard on Wednesday.

"The city of Ouidah, from whence we sailed from Benin, will become a sister city to Prichard," said Ms. Davies, a third-generation descendant of slave ship passenger.

Besides the governmental activity, visitors to the festival during can sample a score of events, including a re-enactment of the voyage of the slave ship Clotilde, as well as art shows, dances, dinners, gospel, politics — anything that could draw attention to Africatown.

Roy Innis, director of the Congress of Racial Equality in New York City, is the scheduled keynote festival speaker on Monday.

According to historians, the Clotilde entered Mobile Bay in 1859 bringing the last slave cargo. One of the Africans was Polee Allen, who was Ms. Davies' great-grandfather. He settled with others in an area of Mobile now known as Africatown.

Ms. Davies said the festival's success brings rewards that both blacks and whites could enjoy.

"When the fruits start to bear, it's gonna rain on all of us when the money starts coming in," said Ms. Davies.

She was referring to the goal of erecting facilities on the 150-acre site of the Africatown state park in Prichard by 1995.

"There is no grant, no money from any government, no seed money," she said. "We are trying to do it strictly on a private basis."

EGGPLANT and PASTA BAKE

1 1/2 pounds beef, cut in 1/2 inch cubes
 3 tablespoons oil
 1 large onion, chopped
 3 garlic cloves, minced
 1 can (28 oz.) crushed tomatoes
 1/4 cup oil

1 cup water
 3 tablespoons tomato paste
 1 tablespoon basil leaves
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper

1 eggplant (about 2 pounds)
 1 package (16 oz.) RONZONI® Elbows
 1 cup grated Romano cheese

Brown meat in 3 tablespoons oil in large skillet. Transfer meat to large saucepan. Sauté onion and garlic in the skillet until onion is tender but not browned. Transfer to saucepan and stir in tomatoes, water, tomato paste, basil, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 1 1/2 hours. Remove stem from eggplant and peel. Cut into thin slices, salt generously, and let stand in colander 30 minutes. Rinse off salt; pat slices dry. Fry eggplant slices in 1/4 cup oil until lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper and set aside. Cook pasta as directed on package; drain. Spoon 1/2 cup sauce into 13x9-inch pan. Add a layer of pasta; cover with a layer of eggplant slices and then layer of sauce; sprinkle with some of the cheese. Repeat layers. Top with layer of pasta and remaining sauce; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 400° for 20 minutes. For easier serving, let stand a few minutes before serving. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Elderly Protective Of Lottery Funds

By JOEL SIEGEL
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Two years ago, Gov. Dick Thornburgh proposed helping Pennsylvanians facing mortgage foreclosure by dipping into the profits of the state lottery. His plan was quickly assailed by the elderly, who accused him of launching a raid on money dedicated to them.

It became clear that the governor would have to look to tax revenues instead for the mortgage aid money — underscoring the strength of a promise made 14 years ago when the lottery was born: The lottery will benefit senior citizens.

The Pennsylvania lottery projects sales of $1.32 billion in 1985-86, making it the nation's richest. Almost all of the $589 million profit will fund programs for the elderly.

From subsidized transit rides and prescription drug purchases to breaks on car registration fees and rent, lottery funds help pay the tab.

The growth in programs for the elderly has paralleled the lottery's phenomenal increase in profits and games.

"In a conservative state like Pennsylvania, if the lottery wasn't dedicated to crippled children or senior citizens, it wouldn't have passed," said Daniel Schulder, a National Council on Aging official who was an adviser to former Gov. Milton Shapp.

"The older people who remain and who were involved in lobbying for it want to hold the state to that original format," Schulder said.

The lottery now offers regular instant-winner games and computerized games with regular drawings, including a six-number Lotto game which has had jackpots up to $18.1 million.

The lottery also has received notoriety for schemes officials would rather forget. Nick Perry of WTAE-TV in Pittsburgh, which once televised the drawings, was convicted with a lottery official of rigging a 1980 Daily Number drawing by weighting the game's ping-pong balls.

More than three years later, a 19-year-old attempted suicide after he took $6,000 from a bond account to buy Lotto tickets and failed to win.

Still, the games have prospered so much, the lottery fund shows a $265 million surplus.

The use of lottery profits for the elderly is hammered home in slick lottery advertisements, and the televised drawings feature on-camera "senior citizen observers."

The bidding:

Pass Pass
Opening lead: Seven of ♠

What would you reply if someone showed you this hand and asked how you would play four hearts after the lead of a trump? The only correct riposte would be: "What does East do at the first two tricks?"

Once North offered a single raise of the opener's suit, South made a trial bid in clubs to test game possibilities. With help in clubs and a maximum, North accepted his partner's invitation.

Let's assume that West leads a trump, East wins the ace and returns a trump, which you win in hand as West follows. With a sure loser in each suit except clubs, declarer's problem is simply to avoid losing a trick in that suit as well.

With two rounds of trumps gone, the only danger is that someone might ruff your third club winner. You avoid that by cashing only the king and ace of the suit before ruffing the third round with the queen. You can return to hand with the king of spades to draw the last trump, and 10 tricks are assured.

Should East play a low trump to the first trick, you might not be able to surrender the lead before ruffing a club, lest the defenders manage to play another two rounds of hearts. Therefore, you have to ruff a club immediately.

However, if you now cash two high clubs and then ruff a club, you run the risk that, when a defender wins the ace of hearts, he can lead a fourth round of clubs for his partner to ruff.

Therefore, you must adopt a slightly different line. You must hope clubs are 4-3 and cash all three your winner in the suit before ruffing your losing club high in dummy.

Today's Cryptogram, clue: Z equals P

The Cryptogram is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 27, 1986

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
 from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is fine for getting along very well with those you would like to be a part of your existence in the days ahead, so encourage alliance with them over a period of time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look to your associates in the business world if you want to get ahead much faster now, so be very cooperative.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be precise in the handling of any jobs ahead of you today and show much efficiency. Avoid one who is a gossip.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Bring your fine talents to the attention of bigwigs during the day and gain their support so you can accomplish much with them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get busy and make your home charming and a comfortable place to live in. Be calm with an angry family member.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Listen carefully to your partners' ideas since they could be profitable to you also in the near future. Forget calling one who is depressed.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep busy at financial and property interests now since your business acumen is fine today. Show that you are clever with investments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You look charming today and can gain your personal desires with relative ease now. Tend to a long-time problem this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study every angle of any plan you make so that you can get your most cherished wishes. Surprise loved one with a gift.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Come to a fine understanding with your friends, be they in business or otherwise. Be more thoughtful of kin.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do those things that will gain you more prestige in the community in which you dwell. Avoid an argument in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be kind and courteous with a newcomer who can be of assistance to you in the future. Plan an upcoming trip.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to be more cooperative with others today and get excellent results, especially with partners.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will want to help others attain their aims and will do so in a charming manner and thereby be very successful and popular. Be most encouraging in projecting these traits so that the life can be a happy adventure.

MORE VALUE FOR YOUR MEAT DOLLAR!

We now trim all our U.S.D.A. grain-fed boneless beef down to 1/4", the same trim standards we use for our USDA Gov't. Inspected pork, choice veal and prime lamb. And that can add up to some pretty terrific benefits for you and your family.

Like better value because of less waste. And most importantly, 10 to 30% less fat* on the beef you use in some of your family's favorite meals. *Based upon test of 14 different cuts of beef.
