Council Sets New Hearing

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville City Council members Tuesday by a vote of 5 to 1 approved scheduling of an additional public meeting on a proposed change in the city's method of election.

The April 7 hearing was arranged, City Manager Gail Meeks said today, so the council could get a chance to hear first-hand public opinion on three election processes being considered as alternatives to the city's current at-large system. City staff personnel earlier conducted neighborhood meetings on the plans, but most of those sessions were not attended by council members.

Voting against the motion to hold a public hearing was Councilwoman Lorraine Shinn.

Mrs. Shinn said she opposed scheduling of the hearing, because she was not satisfied that election system proposals considered as acceptable by Greenville's black community represented the best interests of area voters.

Election systems being considered include 4-2-1, 5-1-1 and 6-0-1 plans.

The 4-2-1 system provides for election of four council members by district, two council members at-large and at-large election of the mayor. The 5-1-1 plan provides for election of five council members by district and election of one council member and the mayor at-large. The 6-0-1 plan provides for election of six council members by district and at-large election of the mayor.

The 4-2-1 proposal has been the favored plan of the City Council; however, area minority community leaders have said that black citizens will not back the 4-2-1 plan because the plan's population statistics are not strong enough to ensure election of at least two black council members.

While black leaders have said they cannot support the 4-2-1 proposal, they said they would stand behind the 5-1-1 plan. Minority community support of any alternative method of election for Greenville is needed because the U.S. Justice Department, when reviewing proposals for change in election systems, routinely contacts members of minority communities to ascertain if plans are detrimental to minority vote.

According to Mrs. Shinn, the 5-1-1 plan is an "unrealistic" choice because a system that provides for one at-large representative and five

County Allocates Grant Funds

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners Monday approved the allocation of more than $624,000 in state water and sewer grant funds for nine projects designed to provide better service to residents living outside five municipalities, and gave final approval to a plan to revise tax values on tobacco bulk barns.

Following recommendations of the planning board, commissioners designated $52,500 of the state water and sewer money to Fountain to tie into the Farmville water system; $216,468 to Greenville Utilities Commission to provide sewer to Oak Grove Estates; $113,000 to GUC to provide sewer to Shady Knoll Trailer Park; $92,000 to GUC to provide a water line loop in the Belvoir Highway area; $57,462 to Ayden for a new well; $24,750 to Winterville to provide water line loops in the Sunshine Gardens-Sunside Eggs area; $15,500 to Bethel for a new well; $31,240 to Winterville for a water line loop on Tar Road, and $20,000 to GUC for a water line loop on Secondary Road 1417.

The $624,920 allocated Monday fell short of the $916,274 requested. However, all requests for funds were met with the exception of three GUC projects.

No funds were available for a project on the River Road ($94,000 had been requested) and a water loop along U.S. 264 and SR 1535 ($63,829 had been requested). The $216,468 approved for the Oak Grove sewer extension was $133,532 less than the requested $350,000.

Since the county provides no water or sewer service, commissioners chose to allocate Pitt's share of the state grant to municipalities serving areas outside their corporate limits. Present law does not allow non-profit water corporations — such as those serving large unincorporated areas of the county — to share in the state matching grant program.

The plan approved Monday to revise tax values on bulk barns was identical to a plan given tentative approval last week — reduce the present value of bulk barns by 50 percent and continue to use depreciation based on the year the barn was made.

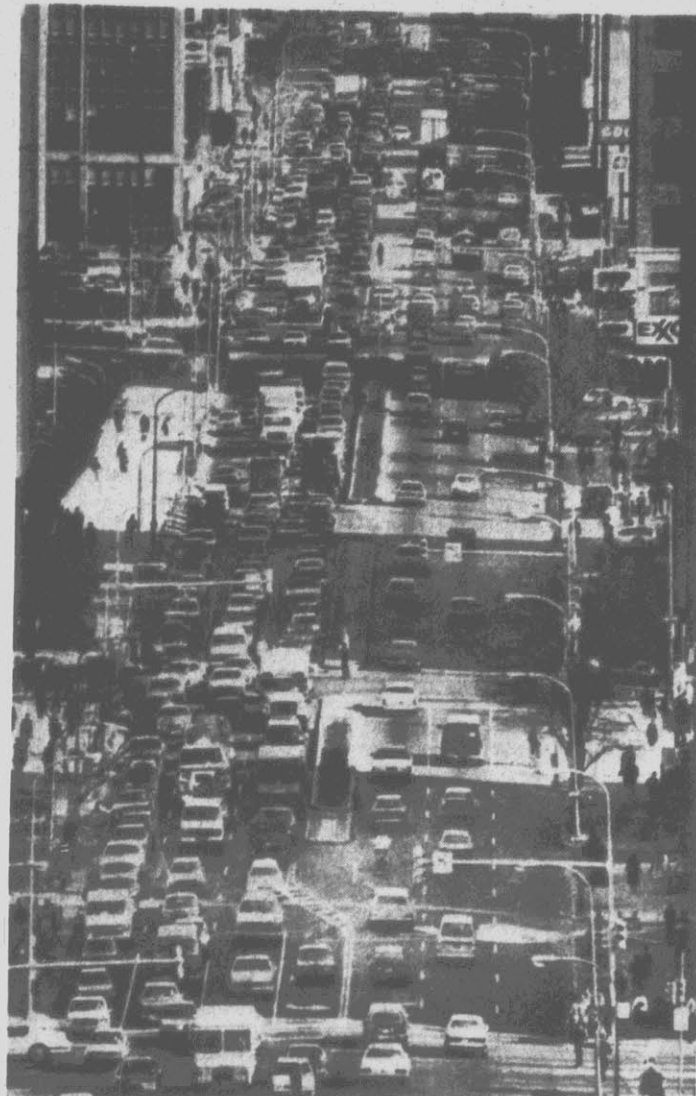

Tax Supervisor Jimmy Hardee told the board that the change — because of "economic obsolescence" of the present values — would place the range of values for barns from about $1,000 to $3,600 or $3,800. Earlier, Hardee reported that the average value of bulk barns on tax books is $4,200, but barns "are selling for $1,000 to $3,000."

"I think the schedule (Hardee) has got is about as fair as it can be," Commissioner Kelly Barnhill said as the board gave its approval to the change.

County Manager Reginald Gray reported that Department of Human Resources Secretary Phillip Kirk has appointed five members to the Pitt County Nursing Home Advisory Committee to replace committee

U.S. Records Worst Year In Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States suffered a record $117.7 billion deficit in the broadest measure of its foreign trade last year as the country became a net debtor for the first time in 71 years, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department reported that the deficit on the country's current account for 1985 was 9.6 percent above the previous record deficit of $107.4 billion in 1984.

The current account is the broadest measure of the country's international transactions because it measures not only trade in merchandise but also in services, mainly foreign investment flows between countries.

Up until 1982, the country enjoyed a surplus in the current account because American investment earnings overseas were enough to cover deficits in merchandise trade.

However, the country's soaring trade deficits have swamped the small investment surpluses in recent years.

For 1985, the surplus in investment earnings totaled $21.4 billion, a slight improvement from 1984. But the merchandise trade deficit last year totaled $124.3 billion, an 8.9 percent increase over 1984.

The soaring merchandise trade deficit and $14.8 billion in transfer payments such as foreign aid swamped the $21.4 billion investment surplus to give the country the $117.7 billion current account deficit for the year.

This big deficit wiped out the small $28.2 billion surplus America had at the end of 1984 in its overseas investments, pushing the country into the status of net debtor for the first time since 1914.

Simply stated, that means that foreigners owned more United States investments than Americans own in foreign investments.

Some economists have warned that the country's foreign debt could rise to $400 billion before it begins to taper off. But analysts are divided over how serious a problem this is for the U.S. economy.

President Reagan has contended that the country's status as a net debtor is not a cause for alarm but should be taken as a vote of confidence in the American economy. He has argued that it shows that "we are the best and safest investment in the world."

But many private economists have argued that with the United States now in hock to the rest of the world, this country's standard of living will be depressed as more U.S. capital flows into foreign hands to service the debt burden. These analysts contend that the country is now in danger of being hostage to the whims of foreign investors.

"We will have to pay interest on this debt and eventually foreigners

House Leaders Reject Budget Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aides to Sen. Jesse Helms, North Carolina Gov. Jim Martin and Reagan administration officials are urging North Carolina Democrats to vote for a GOP Senate budget package that includes legislation to revamp the federal tobacco program.

"I'm certainly pulled in both directions," said Rep. Charlie Rose, one of several North Carolina Democrats lobbied privately by the aides Monday.

Rose said he did not want to buck the House leadership, which turned down Monday the latest version of the budget bill endorsed by the White House and passed by the Senate last week. But he said he also wanted to get the measure passed and sent to the White House.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, said the White House-Senate version was unacceptable to most of the House and there was "strong sentiment" against the House giving in on the long battle. The Republican-controlled Senate last week reached an agreement with the Reagan administration on changes to the bill.

The administration has threatened a veto if the House refuses to go along with the Senate changes, which do not affect the tobacco provisions contained in the $18 billion deficit reduction package.

"The White House is trying to play chicken with us," Wright said. The key issues remaining involve giving states more leverage in blocking offshore oil and gas development and expanding some coverage to two-parent families under the major welfare program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Meanwhile, the House leadership continued the pressure on the Senate

Monday by refusing to pass a temporary restoration of the federal excise tax on cigarettes, which fell Saturday from 16 cents per pack to 8 cents per pack.

The drop, if allowed to continue very long, could prompt 10 states to raise state cigarette taxes to compensate for the lower federal levy. The federal tax is expected to be extended retroactively by Congress eventually.

"This is the extender," Wright said, referring to the budget bill that

Rose Becomes ECU Chief

Johnny Ray Rose became chief of police at East Carolina University on Monday, filling the vacancy created by the retirement of Francis Eddings.

Rose served in the ECU Public Safety department from 1975 until 1981 when he resigned to become the chief of police in Washington, N.C.

The 39-year-old Rose received a degree in corrective services from ECU in 1978 with a minor in law enforcement administration and is pursuing his masters degree in public administration at ECU.

Rose is certified in general, intermediate and advanced law enforcement and is a certified police instructor with the North Carolina Training and Standards Division. He serves on various law-enforcement related committees, is an instructor at the Wilson County Technical Institute and has been a lecturer at the ECU Department of Social Work and Corrections. Since 1979 he has been an adjunct assistant professor and a staff development committee member in the division of student life at ECU.

Along with being an associate member of Alpha Phi Sigma, the National Criminal Justice Honor Society, the Pantego, native is a member of eight professional and two civic organizations.

Rose and his wife, Laurie, have two children, Lauren and Jonathan.

Proper Care For Cultured Pearls Enhances Value

NEW YORK (AP) — It has never been claimed that pearls can last forever, but they will keep their beauty and value for generations if cared for properly, says Alan Macnow of the Cultured Pearl Association.

Unlike diamonds and colored stones, pearls are the products of a living creature, the oyster, and are relatively soft, he points out.

"Excessive exposure to heat or acids will dull their luster, and hard objects will scratch their surface," he says.

But two simple precautions, combined with common-sense care, will keep their glow undiminished, he adds.

First, he cautions, guard against scratches. Don't scramble cultured pearl jewelry with diamonds, sharp-faceted stones or metal pins. Wrap the pearls in tissue paper or place in a chamois bag before putting them in your jewelry box.

Second, avoid acid erosion. Perspiration is slightly acidic, as are many hairsprays and cosmetics, as well as most perfumes.

Macnow advises pearl owners to complete their makeup before putting on their pearls. Then, after pearls have been worn, they should be wiped with a damp cloth to remove traces of cosmetics, perfume or perspiration.

"Most pearl lovers recommend that pearls be worn often because natural skin oils help preserve the luster," Macnow says. "Necklaces and bracelets should be washed once or twice a year with mild soap and water to remove dirt and abrasive grit from the threads."

Most cultured pearls are strung on silk or nylon threads, he notes. Nylon is stronger than silk, but has a tendency to stretch more.

The Cultured Pearl Association advises all pearl buyers to make sure their pearls are strung properly, with a knot between each pearl. The knots keep the pearls from rubbing against each other and prevent the loss of pearls if the string should break.

And, as security against thread breakage caused by the pearls rubbing against and fraying the string, pearl necklaces should be professionally restrung by a jeweler once a year, Macnow suggests.

UMW To Have Meet Thursday

AYDEN — The annual Greenville Sub-District meeting of United Methodist Women will be held Thursday at the Ayden United Methodist Church. Dr. Edgar S. Douglas of Greenville will be keynote speaker.

His topic will be "Shalom is Community." Registration will start at 9:30 a.m. followed by a meeting at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Douglas began practicing in obstetrical-gynecology in Greenville in July 1968. He is a native of Danville, Va. He and his wife, Janey, have two sons and a daughter.

He serves on the board of directors for Branch Banking and Trust Co. and Greenville Rotary Club. Dr. Douglas is president of the Rose-Aycock Booster Club and is a member of the Greenville Recreation Commission. He teaches a Sunday

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

For some reason I will never figure out, most of the inventors in this country are men, who create products that are used mostly by women.

For those of us who must use these products, the results are obvious.

The man who designed the modern-day iron, for example, never stopped to figure out that the only women who iron anymore are over 40. We can't find our glasses without glasses. So how can we possibly see HOT, MEDIUM or COOL on the iron without burning our noses?

Same deal with the sewing machine. Who was the humorist who thought it would be amusing to put the needle at chest level with the hole facing away from us and a light that blinded us when we came within range? It has always been so.

Carpet sweepers were invented in 1876, with an attachment for all seasons. Most women would rather fight off eight Merchant Marines in the back seat of a convertible than juggle all the parts of a sweeper.

Curling irons were invented by men, which is why a tiny screw that holds the handle on also heats up so that you have to not only keep the rod away from your scalp, but your fingers away from the handle. Neat trick.

What they should have put a heater on were the stethoscopes they invented in 1916. And you have already figured out that only a man would invent a see-through covering to put over your leftovers while they are stored. Women never said they wanted to SEE their leftovers... only to store them until it was time for burial.

You have only to look at a bicycle seat to know that a man designed the seats without ever having looked at a woman leaving a room. It is physically impossible to distribute a female form over it. In 1892, men were onto something when Whitcomb L. Judson invented the zipper, but in their infinite wisdom someone put the men's zippers in the front of their clothes and women's in the back where they could neither see nor reach them.

In a profession that is supposed to spawn mothers of necessity, it is strange that there are so few women inventors, but their discoveries have been of major significance.

Jane Wells was the first to acknowledge children did not sit in seats, they jumped in them and bounced off the ceiling, so she invented the jumper seat. Margaret Knight revolutionized marketing when she came out with a paper bag with a square bottom that stood up when you put it down. And who can forget Ruth Wakefield, who dropped pieces of a candy bar into her cookie batter one day and invented the Toll House cookie.

But my candidate for major inventor of her time is Elizabeth Flanagan, an upstate barmaid, who combined rum, rye whiskey and fruit juice, decorated the glass with a feather from the tail of her Tory neighbor's rooster, handed it to a French officer and said, "Vive le coq's tail."

It's been an antidote for man's inventions ever since.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Their Second Marriage Is First Class All The Way

DEAR ABBY: In response to the request from "Flying High in Iowa City" for information concerning a wedding aboard an airline flight: My husband and I were married on March 4, 1974, by the Rev. Wayne Bryan, a Baptist minister from Baton Rouge, La., on a Delta Airlines flight between Baton Rouge and Shreveport, La. We chartered the first-class section and brought along the entire wedding party.

It was a second marriage for both of us. We had been married (to each other) a year before, in Charleston, W.Va., but because of a legal technicality we needed a Louisiana marriage license.

The captain announced the marriage to the rest of the passengers, and Delta furnished the champagne and flowers.

DR. AND MRS. JEAN JEFFUS,
NEW ORLEANS

DEAR ABBY: Why do sea captains have the authority to perform marriage ceremonies, but airline captains do not?

RICHARD GATES,
ALLENTOWN, PA.

DEAR RICHARD: Before the advent of airplanes, some voyages lasted for many long months. During that time, passengers would meet and fall in love, thus creating a need to be united in holy wedlock. So out of necessity, the ship's captain was empowered to perform marriage ceremonies.

Today, airline passengers can reach their destinations in a matter of hours. This is not to say that passengers aboard an airliner have not met and fallen in love, but they can usually wait until they reach their destination to make it legal.

DEAR ABBY: Your column about the Iowa couple who wanted to be married in the air by an airline captain caught my attention. As a county judge, I have the authority to perform weddings. If any couple would like a marriage performed en route to Hawaii, book my passage (at their expense) and I will be glad to make the trip with them.

R.L. HOLLOWAY JR.,
WISE COUNTY, TEXAS

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

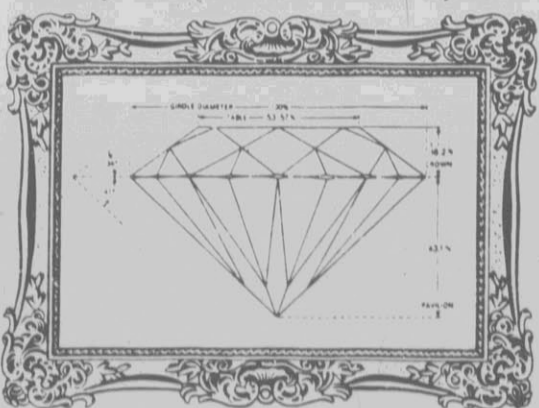

DEAR ABBY: I am a 59-year-old lady minister, fully ordained. I perform about 80 weddings a year and would enjoy performing some weddings on an airline to Hawaii if some (or all) of my expenses were paid. I have a lovely short wedding ceremony that everybody just loves, and I'm fairly free to go on short notice, so if "Flying High in Iowa" or others are interested, let me know.

Engineer Says NASA Approved Substandard Parts

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Seals on Challenger's rocket boosters were among 748 parts whose failure would have doomed the craft but were approved for flight even though they didn't meet ideal standards, a top NASA engineer says.

Waivers were issued for 617 of the 748 parts after evaluations determined they could be flown without unnecessary risk, Marion E. Merrell of the Johnson Space Center said Monday.

Such "criticality 1 items" exist on jettisoners and cars and probably always will exist on space shuttles, said Merrell, head of the center's Safety, Reliability and Quality Assurance office.

The remaining 131 parts were exempted from the classification system because there was no way to establish a redundancy, or backup.

These parts included such things as the wings and tail.

Waivers are granted for "those items that we are not able to get up to standards," but not "until all avenues are exhausted," Merrell said.

Challenger exploded 73 seconds after launch Jan. 28, killing its seven crewmembers. A presidential commission investigating the accident has focused on the right solid rocket booster whose seals, called O-rings, are believed to have failed.

The seals were on the critical items list and granted a waiver.

A total of 114 criticality 1 items were on the shuttle's solid rocket boosters. Waivers were granted for 59 and the others either were structural parts, thermal tiles, pyrotechnics or pressure vessels that were exempted from waiver eligibility.

The critical-items list was developed to aid management in evaluating the risks of the shuttle parts and systems. Originally, waivers for criticality 1 items required the approval of NASA headquarters in Washington, but on Feb. 14, 1984, the authority was granted to each of the centers responsible for shuttle components, Merrell said.

The Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., is responsible for the external tank, solid rocket boosters and main engines. The Johnson Space Center is responsible for the orbiter systems. The Kennedy Space Center in Florida is responsible for ground support equipment.

Merrell said that early in the shuttle program it was determined that all parts ideally ought to be either fail-safe — where a failure posed no danger — or fail-safe-operational — where the system could still operate with a backup in the event of a single failure.

He said that when testing determined a part did not meet this qualification, it was placed on a "critical items" list. If failure of such a part would mean loss of craft, crew and mission, that part became a criticality 1 item. If such a part had a backup to enable it to work with a single failure, it was rated as "criticality 1-R."

Merrell said each item was rated in "worst case" situations. He illustrated the system by comparing it to an automobile tire on a car traveling at 70 mph.

"If I experienced a blowout, the tire would be a criticality 1," said Merrell.

He said even commercial airliners fly with "criticality 1" parts such as wings, tail and landing gear.

Waivers are not granted easily, he said. Engineers must determine if there are design features that would minimize failure, conduct testing that confirms a safety margin, perfect inspections to assure proper manufacture, or have a history that would confirm the reliability of similar designs.

Some items that have no redundancy were qualified through stress testing, he said.

U.S. Currency To Get New Look

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced today design changes in U.S. currency aimed at thwarting counterfeiters.

The changes are the culmination of several years of study into ways to make U.S. currency more difficult to duplicate on sophisticated new copying machines.

The Treasury Department considered and rejected such radical changes as using a different color for U.S. money other than green. The changes announced today were considered so minor that they are not likely to be noticed unless the currency is studied carefully.

Treasury Secretary James Baker, who announced the changes, said production of the new currency would begin in 12 months with the first new notes entering circulation in 15 to 18 months.

The main change announced was addition of a clear polyester thread woven into the paper. The thread, which will run vertically on the left border of U.S. currency, will be visible to the eye when held up to the light but cannot be reproduced by copiers, the department said.

The other change will involve printing of the words "United States of America" repeatedly around the portrait in such small type that copiers will not be able to reproduce the tiny letters.

The department's changes, even though minor, were not likely to calm jitters among people who are suspicious of any changes in U.S. currency.

Ron Paul, a former Republican congressman from Texas, has questioned the government's motives. He contends that the real reason the design of the money is being changed is to find out where people have hidden away large reserves of currency.

But the Treasury Department insisted again today that it had no intention of forcing people to exchange existing currency for the new currency once it is in circulation.

"Both the new currency and existing currency will be legal tender and will circulate side by side," the department said in a statement announcing the changes. "Old currency will be removed from circulation in the normal course of currency processing at the Federal Reserve Banks and branches. It will remain legal tender as long as it is in circulation."

The department said the addition of the security thread and the microprinting of "United States of America" were the only changes being contemplated now.

The changes, the first substantial modifications in U.S. currency in more than half a century, are coming just in time, government officials contend. They say a new generation of copying machines, capable of producing high-quality color reproductions, are already beginning to show up in offices.

district representatives would distort the council's power balance. Councilwoman Nancy Jenkins, who voted in favor of the public hearing, also expressed displeasure with black leaders' support of the 5-1-1 plan. She said a system that provides for election of one council member at large would create a representative more powerful than the mayor: Greenville's mayor has no vote.

The 4-2-1 system, Mrs. Shinn said, would keep the council balanced, because it provides for election of two at-large representatives.

Calling the 5-1-1 system an "injustice to the majority," Mrs. Shinn questioned the validity of the 1965 Voting Rights Act which she said allows structuring of election systems that often are not in the best interests of the entire community.

"The 5-1-1 plan is being shoved down our throats, because a few black leaders decided that the 4-2-1 plan is not acceptable. That's not fair, that's not justice to me," Mrs. Shinn said.

Mrs. Jenkins also said she did not like being "railroaded" and that there was an inherent danger of creating a situation where council representatives would be "very narrow" under both the 5-1-1 and 6-0-1 plans.

The City Council plans to hear citizen input on all three election system proposals at the April meeting; however, city staff have said they will recommend that the council not pursue the 4-2-1 plan.

According to City Attorney Mac McCarley, any plan that the council passes needs to meet all legal requirements and have minority community support.

"The 4-2-1 plan does not have minority community support," McCarley said, "because minority citizens are concerned about the use of dormitory students to boost population in one of the proposed 4-2-1 minority districts." McCarley said the second proposed minority district in 4-2-1 plan barely meets the legal tests for minority population.

(The Justice Department under Section 5 of the 1965 Voting Rights Act requires that minority districts have between 60 and 65 percent black population. Districts with population over or under that target area are legally vulnerable.)

Under the 4-2-1 plan, minority districts have black voting age populations of 43.16 percent and 58.38 percent. Totals of the low percentage minority district can be boosted under the 4-2-1 plan, McCarley said, by factoring out dormitory students who traditionally do not vote in large numbers in municipal elections. By factoring out the dormitory (university) population in the low percentage district, the total of black citizens 18 and over can be boosted to 60 percent.

The 6-0-1 plan would also be legally vulnerable, McCarley said, because the Voting Rights Act prohibits "packing" districts in the same way that it prohibits under-representing black citizens in minority districts.

According to McCarley, one potential charge against the 6-0-1 system is that black citizens are packed into the two minority districts and would have little influence on any other electoral races in the city.

Feedback from black leaders and minority citizens on proposed methods of election have been gathered by city personnel over past weeks at five public meetings. Attendance at the meetings totaled 82; 75 percent of those attending were black.

In addition, city personnel also held meetings with black leaders following public meetings explaining the three systems of election to keep up-to-date on minority feeling.

According to McCarley, representatives of the black community Tuesday indicated they were still in favor of the 5-1-1 plan.

The Rev. Howard Parker and Councilman Ed Carter, both considered black community leaders, today confirmed that the black community and the Black Ministers Conference — a group composed of city and county minority ministers — are continuing to support the 5-1-1 plan.

The council's public meeting on election system alternatives will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the third floor council chamber of City Hall. City Hall is located at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets.

would make the tax permanent at 16 cents. The House has leverage on the issue because tax measures must originate in the House.

He said the House would act this week on the budget bill.

The tobacco provisions would attempt to salvage the tobacco program through a buy-out of leaf surpluses by cigarette manufacturers. The bill would mean lower price supports for farmers, a reduced grower assessment to finance the program and reduced marketing quotas.

Stay In Bed?

The growing list of things that can be hazardous to your health provides a depressing vista for faddists who apparently strive to live beyond the traditional three-score and ten. The past week brought a research report that posed a suggestion the mere act of getting up in the morning has its risks, too.

That possibility was raised by doctors who found strokes are more likely to occur between 8 and 9 a.m. than at any other time of day. Strokes are the third leading cause of death, following heart attacks (which are No. 1) and cancer.

Last year doctors found heart attacks most often occur about 9 a.m. The chain of thought points to morning hours as hours of high risk.

Researchers theorize the act of arising touches off a series of biological changes in the body that raise blood pressure and make the blood clot more readily. Combined, they presumably contribute to the devastating damage of heart attacks and strokes.

One unproven prevention possibility is eyed in a pre-bedtime dose of acetyl-salicylic acid ... plain aspirin ... which appears to inhibit the blood's tendency to clot. It's a thought that reinforces a long-held conviction that aspirin is the wonder drug of wonder drugs.

There is also the sometimes delightful alternative of just lying in bed until noon; which may be offset by the imperious summons of an alarm clock, hunger pangs and sheer boredom.

However interesting, the statistical message to avoid arising in the morning it is probably destined to be ignored. People continue to consume cholesterol, add salt to their diet, enjoy large amounts of sugar, and there are still smokers in our midst.

One day we're going to be told that only well people get sick; which puts the world back on "square one."

Worth Saving

Designation of the USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial as a national historic landmark by the Interior Department is a notable tribute not only to the men who served aboard her but to the thousands of North Carolinians who saved the ship from being scrapped and brought it to Wilmington, where it is a well-restored vessel and a major war memorial.

The battleship is remembered by those who have toured it as an awesome instrument of destruction, not only in terms of sheer size but in its complex of machinery, design and dormant brute power.

In an odd sort of way it has played a role in the reactivation of mothballed WWII battleships which were recalled to service. It is no secret that when a crucial replacement part was needed for some old sister ship that was being fitted out, a needed item was sometimes retrieved from the North Carolina.

People who have moved into North Carolina and made it their home ... and have not yet visited the memorial in Wilmington ... have a treat in store.

President Confuses White House

WASHINGTON — Confusion reigned at the White House March 10 after senior aides watching the morning television news saw President Reagan, in a hit-and-run interview taped while leaving his helicopter the previous day, suggest a deviation from Patrick J. Buchanan's hard line on Nicaragua.

The president seemed to be saying he was willing to compromise on aid to the Contras — a shock to senior staffers, including national security adviser John Poindexter. But Reagan soon reassured aides that this was merely a communications failure. He had meant to say, the president explained, that he was willing to "talk" to his congressional adversaries — but not compromise.

That suggests how difficult the Buchanan line is to hold and how contrary it is to the way business usually is done in Washington. Instead of commencing the salami-slicing customary for controversial proposals, the president is insisting that minimum standards must be met to keep anti-communist guerrillas in the field.

The future of both Central America and the Reagan Doctrine's effort to roll back the boundaries of communism are at stake. The challenge for the Reagan administration is to disprove the thesis of Jean-Francois Revel's "How Democracies Perish" that lack of will ushers in communist dictatorships. To do so, a sixth-year, supposedly lame-duck presidency will have to pursue a two-fisted no-compromise line.

That line was proposed by Buchanan just over a year ago when he left journalism to become White House communications director: If the Democratic-controlled House refused to aid the Contras, let them suffer the political consequences of "losing" Central America — amid sharp reminders from Republicans over who is responsible.

Non-ideological aides brought in by Donald T. Regan as chief of staff to begin the second term flinched at Buchanan's proposal. Instead, they continued what had been going on the previous four years during which the president had only fitfully directed public attention to the communist drive for Central America.

The underlying reason for such inattention by the old anti-communist in the Oval Office was polls showing the American people know little about Central America and care less. That led to first-term advice, passively accepted by Reagan, not to risk undermining his popularity by pressing the issue.

Buchanan, with a year's West Wing experience behind him, has succeeded in getting the hard line in place. But the year's delay has brought deterioration. The 1986 compromise "non-lethal" aid package has left the Contras helpless against the heavily reinforced Sandinista army. The Managua regime's population relocation is depriving the Contras of their support base. They are losing the war and losing it badly.

In the face of a massive disinformation campaign alleging Contra human rights abuses, Buchanan struck with his Washington Post article asking Democrats "who's side are you on" in Central America. Cries of McCarthyism by Democratic leaders betray how deep the sword struck. For the first time, the attention of the political community — if WASHINGTON (AP) — The critical disagreement between President Reagan and opponents of aid to the Nicaraguan rebels centers on whether the Contra forces can do the job without direct United States military assistance.

In his speech Sunday night, the president repeated his familiar argument that the aid package he seeks would not include U.S. troops. Opponents of his proposal countered that a rebel victory in Nicaragua could only be achieved with U.S. military forces.

The president described the Sandinista military in his speech as a formidable force numbering 120,000, "the largest Central America has ever seen."

He added that the "Nicaraguan military machine is more powerful than all its neighbors combined." And that force, he said, is aided by contingents of Cubans, Soviets and East Germans.

Fighting that massive leftist force are what the president called "the more than 20,000 freedom fighters struggling to bring democracy to their country and eliminate this communist menace at its source."

He added that "with their blood and courage, the freedom fighters of Nicaragua have pinned down the Sandinista army and bought the people of Central America precious time."

The president suggested this outnumbered rebel army needed only U.S. dollars to prevail in its struggle. "I am not talking about American troops. They are not needed; they have not been requested."

Delivering the opposition response to the president's appeal, Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., said, "Almost nobody believes the Contras could actually win a military victory."

He added that "if the president's goal is the military overthrow of the Sandinistas, he should tell us so, because that goal simply cannot be achieved without direct U.S. military involvement in a long and costly and bloody war."

Sasser added that "as the father of a 17-year-old son, I say, Mr. President, let's not rush into that quagmire."

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., chairman of the House Democratic Task Force on Central America, said the Contras already have received $100 million in U.S. assistance over the past five years and cannot claim to hold a single town or village in Nicaragua.

"They are being defeated," said Bonior.

There were other sharp differences in how the struggle is perceived. The president referred to Sandinista "brutality" and "terror." He called the leftist government in Nicaragua "an outlaw regime."

The Contras, on the other hand, were referred to repeatedly as "freedom fighters." Missing was Reagan's past comparison of the rebels to the American founding fathers, although he did liken them to "the French resistance that fought the Nazis."

Sasser also was critical of the Sandinista government which he said "has betrayed the promise of its revolution, has suppressed the freedom of its own people, and has supported subversion in El Salvador."

But the senator also said the Sandinista atrocities "pale beside those of the Contras which tragically are being subsidized by your tax dollars."

Also missing from the president's speech was any reference to the Contadora process, the efforts of four Latin nations — Colombia, Venezuela, Panama and Mexico — to reach a negotiated solution to the conflict.

The Contadora nations as well as other Latin countries have registered their opposition to U.S. military aid to the Contras.

For some of the domestic opponents of the Reagan proposal, there were echoes of Vietnam.

Bonior noted that Pentagon officials have said the aid package would include sending U.S. military advisers to Honduras to help train Contras.

"Today's rear guard advisers are tomorrow's front-line advisers and ultimately combat soldiers," he said.

Even Ronald Reagan, while sharing Buchanan's anti-communism, is even more prone to conciliation than confrontation. Aides think that explains his self-described misstatement to the TV reporters outside his helicopter March 9. It also suggests difficulty by the president in suggesting that congressional rejection of Contra aid means Democratic adherence to a Brezhnev Doctrine for Latin America — a virtual guarantee for the survival of a Marxist state once it has been put in place.

A test for Reagan will come this week if the aid package is indeed defeated. But will the president then really engage the attention of American voters on what has happened, holding accountable those responsible? Or will he do what comes far more naturally — accede to a watered-down formula that dooms the Contras and entrenches the Marxists? More than the fate of Pat Buchanan's line is at stake in the answer.

Prison Population Still Growing

— Paul O'Connor —

That good news may have sparked a glimmer of hope that North Carolinians could also expect their prison population to drop in the future. It's traditionally been one of the highest in the nation, even in the world, ranking only behind the incarceration rates of the Soviet Union and South Africa at one point.

A large prison population can be extremely costly. North Carolina will spend $230 million on its prisons this year. That's almost as much as the state spends on its 58 community colleges. The legislature's Fiscal Research Division figures that it costs the taxpayers $11,497 a year to keep an offender in prison, almost six times as much as the state will spend to educate a public school student this year.

But Gov. Jim Martin's plan for dealing with a prison crowding crisis is not predicated on any drop in prison population over the next decade. To the contrary, his best case scenario for what lies ahead shows a 1996 prison population of 17,823 inmates, an increase of 1.3 percent, or 230 inmates, over the present.

"The convict population will continue to grow," Martin said at the press conference at which he announced a $203.3 million prison building program. The state must decide if, as the number of convicts grows, it wants the prison population to grow accordingly. The other alternative is to find non-prison forms of punishment for some offenders.

Martin says that with no change in state policy on incarceration, the prison population will grow to 22,500 inmates by 1996, an increase of 4,900, or 27.8 percent over the present.

Attorney General Lacy Thornburg, who joined Martin at the press conference, said, "We have no reason to believe that the crime rate will do anything more than level off" over the coming decade.

Thornburg said that the crime rate had dropped for several years at the general population grew older. "But the crime rate has been bottoming out, and there was a slight upward trend" for a short time, he said.

Martin said that even if the crime rate levels off the demand for prison space will grow because police work is getting better and more criminals will be caught in the future.

It should also be noted that as the state's population grows, a steady crime rate would still mean more criminals in absolute numbers.

Martin hopes, however, that the population will fall in the short term. Several experimental alternative punishment programs are operating now and, if they can be expanded soon, the prison population in 1988 may be 800 below that of today, Martin says. In 1988, Martin will decide if he'll push a second major phase of prison construction.

If things are going as planned in 1988, the population will still be heading downward. It should bottom out in mid-1990 somewhere just below 16,000 inmates, his documents show. From that point, it will take six years to return to its current level, he predicts.

Martin hopes alternative forms of punishment will keep the prison population under control. If these programs aren't implemented, the prison population will grow dramatically, even without an increase in crime.

Strength For Today

Emotion is regarded by many people with deep suspicion. If any conviction is found to contain an emotional factor, these people are ready to abandon it.

But certainly one would say that the emotion of love is one of the most precious things humanity deals with. The emotion of anger has its place if anger is directed against evil and kept under control.

Have you ever come in contact with a person in whose life emotion appears to play no part? If so, he is certainly not a pleasant person and probably a misfit.

The person who beats his breast and declares that he looks facts straight in the face is frequently self-deceived or emotionally mixed up. The persons who inveigh against emotion are usually themselves in a precarious emotional state. All have too much emotion or too little. They allow a helpful factor in life to twist and deform their living.

Public Forum

To the editor:

As a concerned citizen of Pitt County, I would like to know when the proper authorities are going to do something about the severe safety hazard at the entrance to Pitt Community College. I personally know of six rather serious accidents at this location and usually there are three to five vehicles involved. That means there are people involved who are innocent of any violations. No doubt there are other accidents there of which I am not personally aware.

I wonder at whose doorstep lies the lack of concern for the safety of our county's young people (and those of other counties) trying to get an education and the employees of Pitt Community College who are trying against tremendous odds (i.e., lack of teaching space, parking space, office space and bathroom space) to provide it for them.

Is it going to take a fatality to get someone who can do something about the situation to face the fact that a stoplight is desperately needed at that intersection?

IN THE STATE

Plan To Toughen Penalty Rejected

RALEIGH (AP) — Many people "out in the boondocks" favor longer sentences for violent criminals, but a bill backed by Gov. Jim Martin to toughen penalties for violence against the elderly would make the state's prisons even more crowded, lawmakers say.

The Legislative Research Commission's Committee on Aging voted unanimously Monday not to include the bill in its package of proposed legislation for the June short session.

"We can't keep filling up our prisons like we do today," said Rep. Barney P. Woodard, D-Johnston, a member of a legislative panel studying proposals for addressing the prison situation. "If we do, we'll have to build new prisons."

Woodard said he agreed with Roslyn Savitt, executive director of the State Council for Social Legislation, who said any bill that would lengthen sentences should be considered in the context of its potential impact on prison population.

The measure will be eligible for consideration this summer because it was before the Joint Appropriations Committee when the 1985 session adjourned.

Sponsored by Rep. Frank "Trip" Sizemore, R-Guilford, the bill was reported favorably by two committees last year and sent to the House floor. But it was rerouted to the appropriations committee when concerns were raised that it would cost money by adding to the prison population.

Sizemore accused the Democratic legislative leadership of stalling his bill for partisan reasons.

UNC May Require Classes In Writing

By The Associated Press
Students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill would have to take at least one course a semester with an emphasis on writing under a plan proposed by a UNC-CH faculty committee.

Saying that undergraduates currently are not being taught the writing skills they need, the Ad Hoc Committee on Writing Across the Curriculum wants students to write more often and wants faculty members to comment more fully on students' papers.

"Writing is at the heart of the educational experience," the committee says in its 10-page final report. "The complex process of writing compels us to analyze, to organize and to articulate ... Teaching at the university level should regularly and systematically involve the student in learning through writing."

The committee is scheduled to submit its report to the UNC-CH Faculty Council Friday.

The report is the result of five months' research and discussion by the 15-member interdepartmental committee, which was appointed by George A. Kennedy, chairman of the faculty.

The committee surveyed students and faculty about writing practices, examined hundreds of term papers and looked at writing programs at other campuses.

Tug Spills Oil Near Ocean Isle

OCEAN ISLE, N.C. (AP) — The Coast Guard was working today to protect oyster and clam beds in the Intracoastal Waterway from being contaminated by 60,000 gallons of black oil that spilled when a barge ran aground and ruptured, an official says.

Lt. Joel Hendrix with the Coast Guard's Marine Safety Office in Wilmington said he fears the oil "will get up in the marshes and in the beaches, unfortunately and it'll create a hell of a mess."

The tugboat-propelled barge from Charleston, S.C., was en route to Morehead City when it ran aground about 8 p.m. Monday a few miles north of Ocean Isle, just north of Shalotte Inlet, Hendrix said.

He said officials did not know how much of the thick, dark oil — used by steam-heating plants — the barge was carrying when it wrecked. He said he did not know who owned the barge.

About 14 Coast Guard officials and workers from the company that owned the barge set up containment booms during the night to protect the shellfish from contamination, Hendrix said.

Workers also were using vacuum trucks, sponge-like absorbent materials and shovels to clean up the spill. Another barge was expected to arrive at the site this morning to offload the rest of the oil from the damaged barge.

"The game plan is to protect the oyster beds and the clam beds ... You're talking an awful lot of oil," Hendrix said.

An investigator will conduct a marine casualty investigation, he said.

The state Department of Marine Fisheries was advising the Coast Guard on where to set up the deflection booms and how to prevent the oil from getting to the beds.

"We're just hoping that too much won't get to the beds," Hendrix said.

"The wind's blowing off shore and the tide is cooperative as it can be. We have a smaller range of tide than we do a lot of times during the year. We're a little optimistic, but not overly so," he added.

Mental Health

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina provides good care for the mentally ill in its four psychiatric hospitals, but should do more for patients once they leave, according to a survey conducted by a Washington group.

The Public Citizen Health Research Group ranked North Carolina 19th in the country in the quality of care it provides for the mentally ill.

It also called North Carolina's outpatient commitment law an "encouraging, exciting example of innovation." The law allows a judge to require that a patient receive mental health care without living in a mental hospital.

The non-profit group, which was established by consumer activist Ralph Nader, was scheduled to release the survey at a news conference today in Washington.

The Pitt-Greenville Airport is managed, operated and maintained by the Airport Authority. Airport facilities are located on North Memorial Drive.

Ramsey Says Martin Power Hungry

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Martin, who has decided to ask the courts to overturn a law passed by the 1985 Legislature that limits the rule-making power of the executive branch, is "grabbing for more power," House Speaker Liston Ramsey says.

"It's an old game, criticize the Legislature," Ramsey said after Martin's decision was announced Monday. "Governors by nature blame everything they don't like on the Legislature."

"I don't know why the governor wants to keep grabbing and grabbing for more power. He won (election in 1984) by a comfortable margin, but I don't think the people want him to be a dictator," Ramsey said.

A statement issued by the governor's office said he would challenge as unconstitutional a provision in the law empowering the state Supreme Court chief justice to appoint the director of the newly created Office of Administrative Hearings.

Martin believes the office, which will mediate disputes between state agencies and citizens, is an arm of the executive branch and that the governor should choose its director, the statement said.

The Republican governor said his administration had hired Raleigh lawyer Arch Allen III to file suit, probably later this week, in Superior Court.

James Trotter, Martin's special counsel, said the governor decided to hire a private lawyer because Attorney General Lacy Thornburg, a Democrat, had declined to represent Martin.

He said Thornburg took the position that his chief duty was to defend in court the laws passed by the General Assembly.

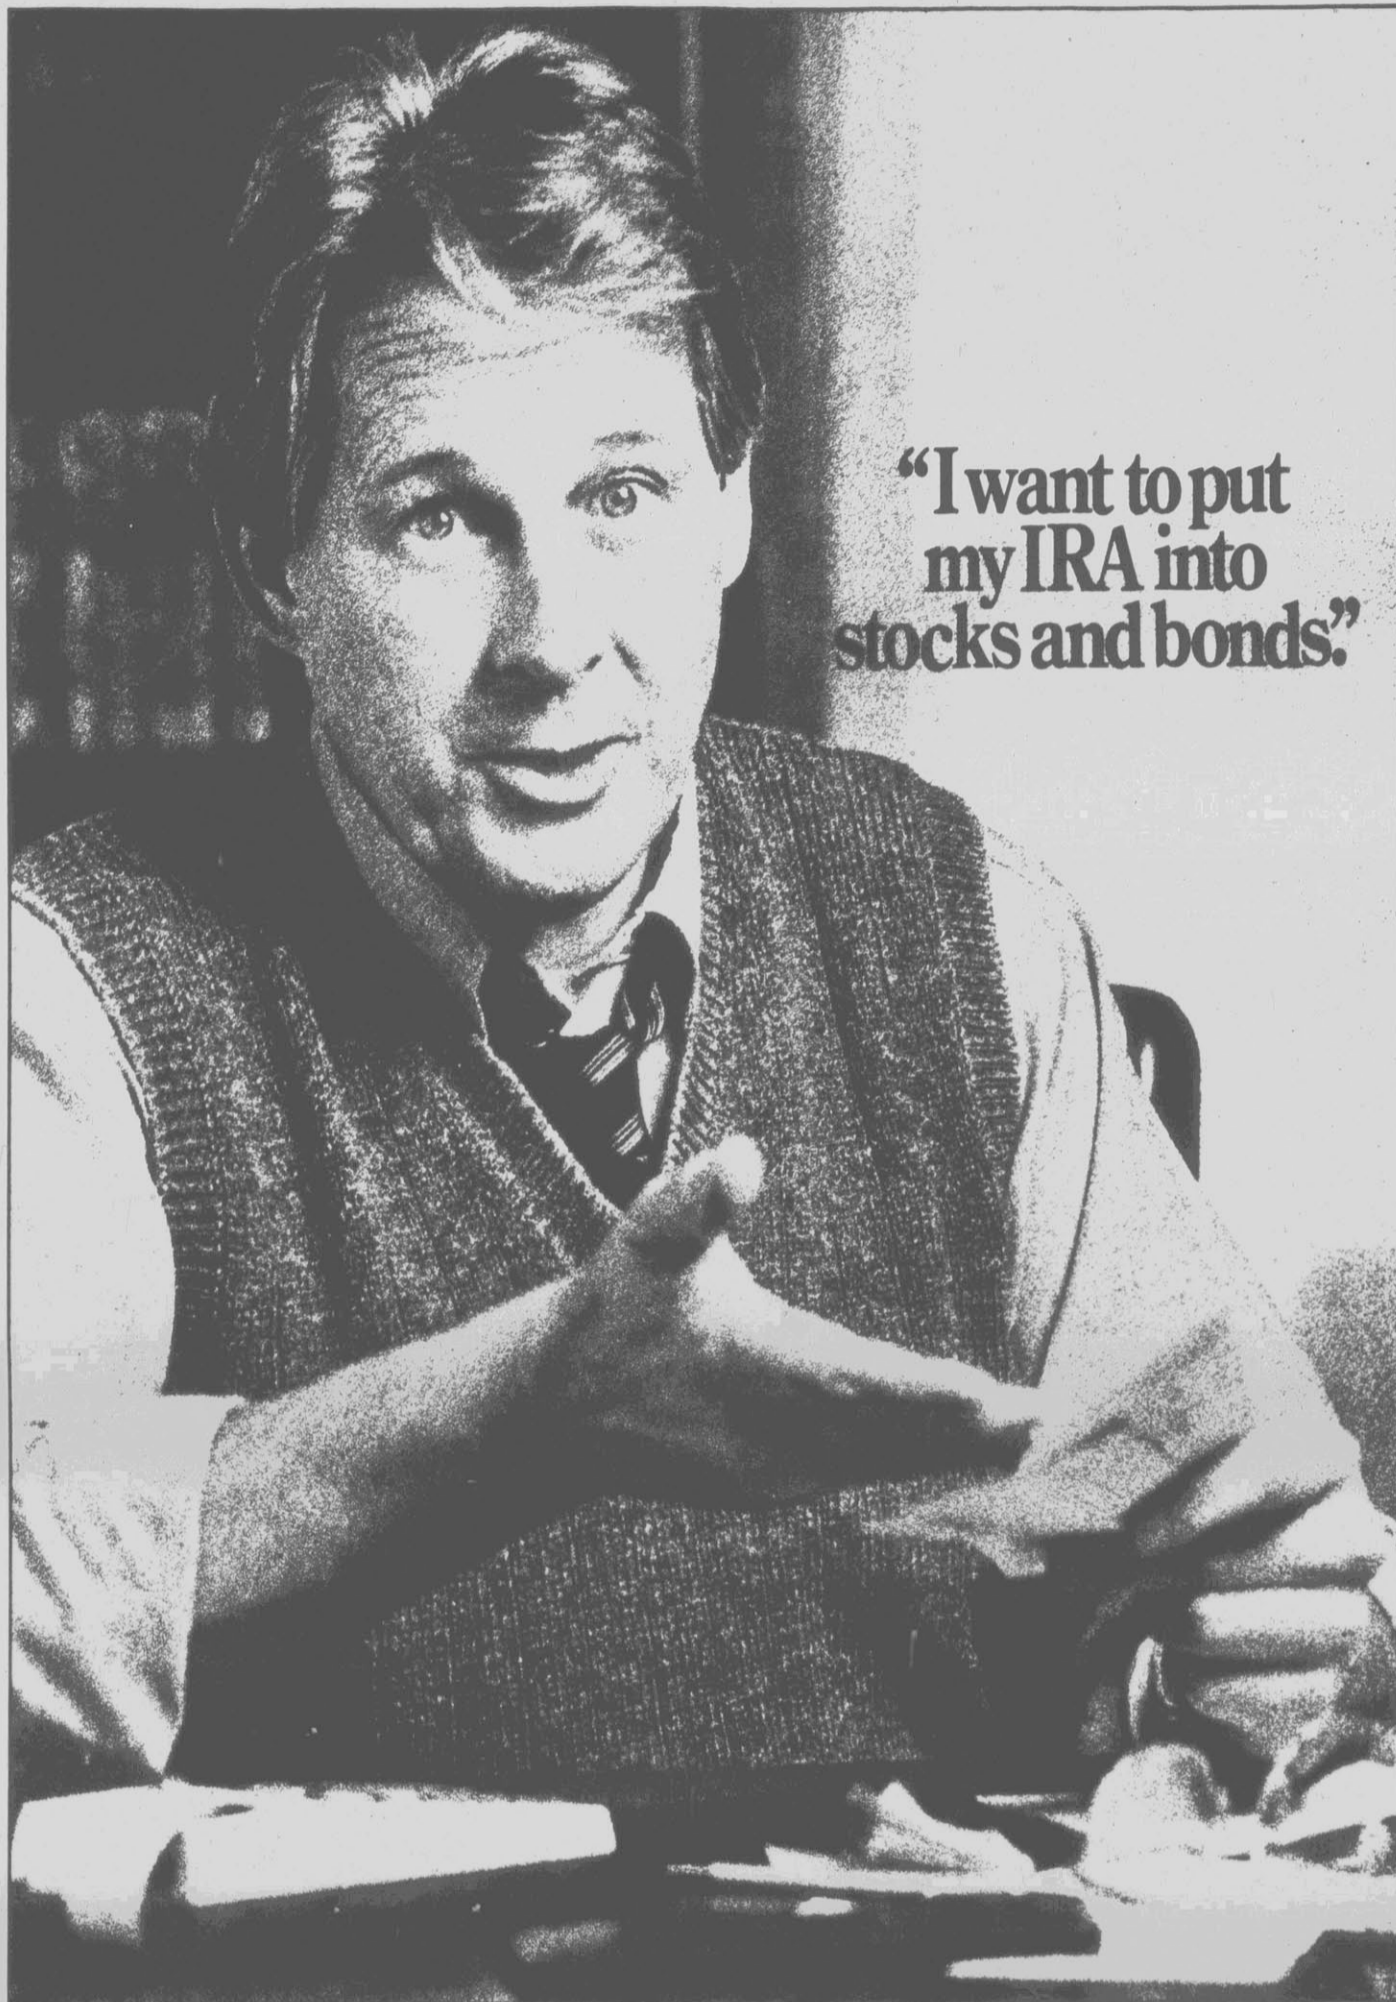

The Legislature designated the hearings office as an independent agency after a protracted squabble with the Martin administration last year over a comprehensive rewrite of the Administrative Procedures Act.

Job openings available in eastern North Carolina include positions for machinists, computer operators, stenographers, manager trainees, part-time workers in fast food services and skilled construction workers, according to Jim Hannan, manager of the local N.C. Employment Security Commission office.

"Right now, it's an employers' market," Hannan said. "These employers are selective, demanding, seeking top caliber workers. For this reason, they can afford to wait until the worker with the degree of skills and experience wanted comes along."

For the July 1, 1985 through Feb. 28, 1986 period, the Greenville office placed 1,993 individuals into gainful employment. The office also made 3,081 placement transactions (transactions include individuals placed more than once). Of 3,917 job openings received, the office filled 3,289 for a job placement rate of 83.9 percent. Hannan said 3,441 applicants were referred to jobs.

Church Break-Ins

Police are continuing their investigation of two church break-ins in Greenville that were reported over the weekend.

Officers said a break-in at St. James United Methodist Church at 2000 E. Sixth St. was reported about 6:32 a.m. Saturday, while a break-in at Oakmont Baptist Church at 1100 Red Banks Road was reported at 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

Detective P.W. Scheutzow said this morning that a radio was taken from Oakmont, while an estimated $2,395 worth of property — including cassette recorders, radios, typewriters, record players, projectors and a kerosene heater, as well as $50 in cash — was taken from St. James.

Scheutzow said that in addition to the thefts, the incident at St. James resulted in an estimated $1,450 damage to doors and windows.

Multiple Charges

Eddie Mitchell Brown, 31, of Route 2, Williamston, was arrested by state Department of Motor Vehicles' inspectors Monday on seven counts of obtaining property by false pretenses, and one count each of embezzlement, resisting arrest and failing to stop for a blue light and siren.

Brown, owner of Brown's Import Motors at 1926 N. Memorial Drive, was in the Pitt County jail this morning under $30,000 bond in connection with the charges.

Motor Vehicles Inspector Bill Brinson said the false pretense charges involved the alleged double-financing of cars sold by Brown in which Brown would receive twice the sale price of the car being sold, while the embezzlement charge involved the alleged sale of a consignment vehicle for which the owner never received the money.

Poison Prevention

The N.C. Pediatric Society has announced the observance of the 25th annual National Poison Prevention Week is under way.

The Society urged parents to mark the week by taking careful inventory of their medicine cabinets and other home storage areas to be sure that medicine, as well as other poisons, are out of reach of children.

Since the special observance was initiated, there has been an 88 percent reduction in childhood poisonings, said Dr. Ronald B. Mack, pediatric professor at Bowman Gray

School of Medicine in Winston-Salem. He attributed the improvement to increased public awareness of the need to keep medicines and household chemicals out of the reach of children, as well as the use of child-resistant packaging of medicines and other potentially dangerous substances.

Arbor Day Friday

Arbor Day in North Carolina is being observed this year on Friday.

In North Carolina, forest-based manufacturing is the second leading industry in the state, providing jobs to one out of every 14 people.

Two trees are particularly notable in North Carolina — the pine, the official tree of the state, with nine common species, and the flowering dogwood tree, whose blossom is the state flower.

La Leche League

The La Leche League will meet at 7:30 tonight. The topic will be "The Art of Breast Feeding and Overcoming Difficulties." For more details call Barbara Whitehead at 746-3412 or Bonnie Tapscott at 756-6951.

Revival Services

Evangelist Bobby Holloway and the Venture of Faith Fellowship will conduct revival services at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday at Oak Grove Church on Bonner's Lane.

Justice Spoke

Justice Rhoda Billings of the North Carolina Supreme Court spoke Monday to the Greenville Noon and Greenville Evening Rotary clubs on the steps involved in capital criminal cases, from arrest to execution.

Justice Billings discussed the relationships and interactions of the state court and federal court systems in capital cases.

A graduate of Berea College in 1959, Justice Billings received her law degree from Wake Forest University in 1966 and served as a District Court judge in Forsyth County from 1968 until 1972. She was a member of the North Carolina Criminal Code Commission from 1970 to 1975 and was appointed chairman of the state parole commission in June 1985 by Gov. Jim Martin. She was appointed to the state Supreme Court on Sep. 3, 1985.

A Republican, Justice Billings is seeking election to the state Supreme Court in November.

Article Published

The National Association of College and University Business Officers has announced publication of an article by Dr. Jim Young, director of institutional development at Pitt Community College.

The article, "Developing Management Information Systems for Two-Year Colleges," will appear in the April issue of "Business Officer," the national professional journal of the association.

Young's publication is based on a presentation to the nation's collegiate business officials in Boston last fall. It focuses upon common mistakes made by college personnel in the development of computerized management systems.

Tip O'Neill Marks 50th Year In Public Life

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It was St. Patrick's Day and Tip O'Neill's night, and when it was over the speaker of the House had collected $2 million for his alma mater, praise from President Reagan, honorary citizenship in the Republic of Ireland and a bumper crop of good natured jokes.

The black-tie, $1,000-a-plate crowd of 2,200 on Monday celebrated the 50-year political career of Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., as a triumph of Irish-American politics.

They laughed at offerings from Reagan and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and sympathized as former President Gerald R. Ford did his best to follow comedian Bob Hope.

And they watched with curiosity as the Kennedy family's newest entrant in the world of politics — Robert Kennedy's son, Joe — hustled votes in his campaign to succeed O'Neill in a House seat once held by his uncle, President John F. Kennedy.

O'Neill, 73, who is leaving Congress at the end of his current term, had a line in his prepared text about keeping a congressional seat warm for a Kennedy for 34 years.

Sen. Kennedy stole it with a grin, saying, "I would like to thank Tip for spending the last 34 years keeping Jack's seat warm for my nephew, Joe."

At times, O'Neill, the nation's highest-ranking Democratic officeholder, appeared besieged by Republicans eager to assure him that political antagonism stops at the banquet's edge.

But not without a few pointed jokes.

"I've always known Tip was behind me, even if it was only at the State of the Union address," said the president. "As I made each proposal, I could hear Tip whispering to George Bush, 'Forget it, no way, fat chance!'"

And O'Neill fired back. "I want you to know," he assured the president, "how much I admire your ability, your talent, the way you handle the American people, the love that the American people have for you and your leadership — even though I oppose it."

"The president and the speaker congratulate each other for being Sons of Ireland, which is a switch from what they usually call each other," said Bob Hope, who was born English and who golfs with both O'Neill and Ford.

O'Neill's weight long has been on the hefty side, which Hope said was an advantage, given the erratic golf shots Ford has been known to hit, because "when Ford is hitting you've got something substantial to hide behind."

Ford said the evening was a symbol of the fact that "the way the political system works in this country is that we can disagree without being disagreeable."

And President Reagan told O'Neill, "Mr. Speaker, I am grateful you have permitted me in the past, and I hope in the future, that singular honor, the honor of calling you my friend."

"I think the fact of our friendship is testimony to the political system we are part of and the country we live in," Reagan said. "A country which permits two not-so-shy, not-so-retiring Irishmen to have it out on the issues; rather than on each other or their countrymen."

And O'Neill displayed what might be considered a non-Irish shade of green. Green for envy, that is.

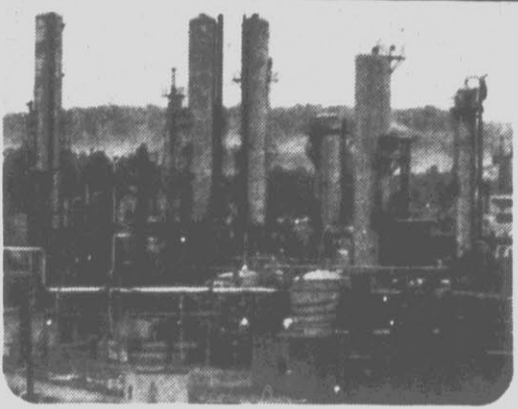

"I think of your charm, your humor, your wit," he told Reagan and added, "You know, sometimes when I get up in the morning, I say, 'Don't let it get to you, old boy.'"

Organic Pollution

During scheduled talks today, President Reagan and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney will undoubtedly bemoan the industrial fumes that cause acid rain. In late-nineteenth century American cities, horses, not factories, caused the worst pollution. New York's 150,000 horses produced ten million pounds of manure a year. When it rained, muddy manure clogged the streets. During dry spells, carriages beat the dung into a fine pungent dust that filled every crevice.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the word for a male horse?
MONDAY'S ANSWER — The shamrock is the traditional symbol of Ireland.

Dollar Falls Against Yen

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. dollar hit a postwar record low against the Japanese yen for a second consecutive day today, and officials said the rapid increase in the yen's value is causing problems for the Japanese economy.

The dollar closed today at 174.90 yen on the Tokyo Foreign Exchange Market, 0.55 yen lower than Monday's close of 175.45. In September, the dollar had traded at about 242 yen.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, in a meeting with economic ministers today, said the yen's rise in recent months "is causing serious harm" to small and middle-size firms that depend on exports. He called for emergency measures to help them survive.

The government already has decided to provide 300 billion yen, or $1.71 billion in loans to smaller firms hit by the strong yen.

Wataru Hiraizumi, director-general of the Economic Planning Agency, warned in his monthly report today that the pace of economic growth has been slowing because of the yen's rise.

Hiraizumi said industrial production in the January-March period is expected to fall 0.2 percent from the last quarter of 1985. It would be the third consecutive quarter-to-quarter decline.

Nancy Could Be Convention Factor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven cities are bidding to host the 1988 Republican National Convention and 10 of them are hoping Nancy Reagan remains neutral in the competition.

Officials at Republican Party headquarters and the White House insisted Monday that the first lady has no preference for a convention site despite persistent rumors she'd like the party to meet in Los Angeles.

The Republicans will convene Aug. 15, 1988, to set the party's post-Reagan agenda and, they hope, nominate the person who will succeed Ronald Reagan as president.

The Republicans sent 11 interested cities convention specifications last week and also tried to end speculation an unwritten standard is approval of Mrs. Reagan.

"I just know Mrs. Reagan hasn't given any thought to the convention and will go along with the decision of the committee," said Elaine Crispin, the first lady's press secretary.

An aid to party chairman Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr. called reporters to let them know Fahrenkopf had talked to Mrs. Reagan on Friday and she told him she had no preference.

With or without a push from Mrs. Reagan, Los Angeles is widely regarded as a front-runner for the 1988 GOP convention.

Other cities interested in getting the convention are Atlanta, Detroit, Houston, Kansas City, Mo., Las Vegas, Miami, Philadelphia, San Diego, Seattle and St. Louis.

ENROLLMENT ANNOUNCEMENT HEAD START

Martin County Community Action, Inc. Project Head Start is now accepting applications for the 1986 Fall enrollment. Eligibility is determined by HHS income guidelines, family needs and handicapping and/or special conditions of the child.

Head Start is a comprehensive developmental program for children ages 3-5. Head Start is based on the premise that all children share certain needs, and that children from low-income families, in particular, can benefit from a program designed to meet those needs.

The program operates in the context of the child's total environment—classroom, family, neighborhood—stressing not only education but also health, nutrition, mental health, social services and parent involvement.

The Head Start program has been operating in the Martin County area since 1965; in the Beaufort County area since 1977 and in the Pitt County area since 1985. Funding is received from the Office of Child Development, Department of Health and Human Services.

The Head Start program operates nine (9) months of the year - September through May. The Head Start centers are opened Monday through Friday and the hours of operation are 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

For more information or to enroll a child, please call Mrs. Mary Lloyd at 792-1761 or come by the Martin County Community Action Head Start Social Services Office, located in the American Legion Head Start Center, on Watts Street in Williamston, North Carolina or contact the West Sixth Street Head Start Center located at 1610 West Sixth Street.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged higher in early trading today as Wall Street digested developments on oil prices and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 2.16 to 1,778.98 by 10:30 a.m. on Wall Street.

Advancing issues outnumbered decliners by about 6-5 in early trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stock prices on Monday had taken their biggest plunge in four weeks in a fall attributed to profit-taking by traders eager to cash in gains made in last week's record advance.

Analysts also said uncertainty over the direction of oil prices and interest rates had aided the drop.

The Commerce Department today reported that new housing construction fell 3.5 percent in February, but remained well above the pace for the same month last year. The smaller than expected decline sparked a rise in interest rates on the credit markets.

Analysts said interest rates also were bolstered by uncertainty over the outcome of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meeting in Geneva. Cartel members are attempting to set a strategy for stabilizing oil prices, and unconfirmed rumors on Monday indicated agreement may have been reached.

Oil company stocks moved higher in active trading. Diamond Shamrock rose 1/4 to 11 1/2, Occidental Petroleum was up 1/4 to 25 1/2, and Phillips Petroleum rose 1/8 to 10 1/2, and Mobil rose 3/8 to 29 1/2.

Among actively traded blue chips IBM was up 5/8 to 151 1/2 and GM rose 5/8 to 81 3/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed stocks fell 0.07 to 135.00 in the first 30 minutes of trading. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 0.50 to 265.72.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 15.92 to 1,776.82.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by about 5 to 2 on the NYSE. Big Board volume totaled 137.46 million shares, against 181.87 million in the previous session.

 Some economists have warned that the country's foreign debt could rise to $400 billion before it begins to taper off. But analysts are divided over how serious a problem this is for the U.S. economy.

Clemson Dumps Dawgs In NIT

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Clemson Coach Cliff Ellis was impressed with his Tigers' National Invitation Tournament victory over Georgia. Leading scorer Horace Grant still had some doubts.

Grant and teammate Glenn Corbit scored 24 points each Monday night to power the Tigers, 19-14, into the quarterfinals of the NIT tourney with a 77-65 victory over the Bulldogs. The 6-foot-10 Grant, a junior from Sparta, Ga., also had 13 rebounds.

Georgia, which finished sixth in the Southeastern Conference, closed out its season at 17-13.

"There is no question we are a good basketball team and we set out to prove that to the NCAA tonight," Ellis said. "We felt like there should have been seven teams to come out of the ACC."

The NCAA invited six ACC schools — all of which finished above Clemson, 3-12 in the league — to its 64-team tournament.

"Our mission is to go to Madison Square Garden and prove that we are among the best teams in the nation," Ellis said.

The NIT will announce Clemson's quarterfinal opponent today. The Tigers will play either Thursday or Friday. The semifinals and finals of the tournament will be in New York's Madison Square Garden March 24 and March 26.

Clemson, behind Grant's 14 points, lead 35-32 at halftime and scored the first eight points of the second half for a 43-32 lead as the Bulldogs went scoreless for the first 5:38.

"It looks like we're playing a lot better, but you have to consider that even though Georgia has some good athletes, we're not playing against the Brad Daugherty's, or the John Salley's, like we do in the ACC," Grant said.

Daughterty was an All-ACC choice with seventh-ranked North Carolina and Salley is one of No. 6 Georgia Tech's top players. Both teams are still playing in the NCAA tournament.

"At halftime, we decided we needed to hit the boards harder," said Grant, who had only four rebounds in the first half. "We came out and rebounded well in the second half and I think that was the turning point."

Joe Ward, Georgia's leading scorer during the season with a 15.8 point average, managed only eight as the Bulldogs had only one player in double figures, Donald Hartry with 17 points.

"They (the Tigers) did a fine job of hitting the boards in the second half and getting their running game started," Ward said. "We definitely had to play Clemson's game — they showed us how to run in the second half."

Georgia Coach Hugh Durham summed up the season by saying, "It wasn't a great year, but it was a good year. We won 17 games and went to a national tournament and yet, we're a bit disappointed and that's good."

"Probably no one is more disappointed than our players and myself, but that's the progress we've made in our program," he said.

It was the sixth straight year Georgia had been to a post-season tournament.

It was Clemson's sixth NIT appearance and the first time the Tigers have ever gone beyond the second round.

Rose Takes 8-1 Win

Rose High School's girls' softball team romped to an 8-1 victory over Eastern Wayne Monday in a make-up game.

The contest was originally scheduled for last Friday, but was postponed because of rain.

Rose scored a run in the opening frame to take the lead, then pushed over four in the second to put it out of reach.

With one away in the second, Melissa Pruden and Melissa Stanley each picked up singles. Then, following the second out, Casey Drewery singled in Pruden. Gina Parrott reached on an error, allowing Stanley to score. Vicki Parrott then singled to drive in both Drewery and Gina Parrott.

Rose added one in the fourth and two more in the sixth while Eastern Wayne's only run came in the third inning.

Lisa Harkley led Rose with four hits while Gina Parrott had three. Vicki Parrott, Pruden and Stanley each had two. Cathy Bloomer had two hits to lead Eastern Wayne.

Now 4-0, Rose is idle until next Tuesday when it opens Big East Conference play by hosting Northern Nash.

Miller Is Laughing Last

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Clemson Coach Cliff Ellis wants to prove the NCAA was wrong, while Ohio State boss Eldon Miller wouldn't mind having the last laugh on those who fired him.

They, along with seven other coaches with teams remaining alive in the National Invitation Tournament, must now guard against a premature case of Big Apple excitement. To reach the NIT semifinals and the streets of New York, a team must first win three NIT games at regional sites.

None has reached that point yet, but that doesn't stop them from dreaming.

"New York City," freshman Jay Burson shouted after his 11-point performance off the bench turned a 12-point Ohio State deficit into a 71-65 victory over Texas in a second-round game Monday night. "Before, we didn't have anything to play for. Now we have the NIT."

Ellis, like many before him, claimed his Clemson Tigers should have been selected for the more prestigious NCAA tournament.

"There is no question we are a good basketball team and we set out to prove that to the NCAA tonight," Ellis said after Clemson beat Georgia 77-66. And then there was Miller, fired after 10 seasons at Ohio State and already hired by Northern Iowa. His next loss will be his last with the Buckeyes.

"I'm not ready to leave yet," said Eldon Miller, who will be replaced at Ohio State by Gary Williams at the end of the season. "We're having fun ... Madison Square Garden is where basketball started, but we have a big hurdle left."

That would be Friday night, when the Buckeyes play host to either Brigham Young or California-Irvine, who meet tonight in the only remaining second-round game.

In other NIT games Monday night, it was Providence 90, George Mason 71; Florida 77, TCU 75; Southwest Missouri 83, Marquette 69; Louisiana Tech 77, McNeese State 66; and Wyoming 99, Loyola, Calif. 90.

The third-round pairings send Southwest Missouri to Florida, Louisiana Tech to Providence and Clemson to Wyoming in quarterfinal action Thursday night. Those survivors — and the winner of the Ohio State game Friday night, advance to New York for the semifinals March 24 and final March 26.

Clemson 77, Georgia 65

Clemson, 19-14, got 24 points apiece from Horace Grant and Glenn Corbit to win on the road. Grant scored 14 in the first half as the Tigers got away to a 35-32 lead.

"Our mission is to go to Madison Square Garden and prove that we are among the best teams in the nation," said Ellis, who felt his team should have been the seventh from the Atlantic Coast Conference selected by the NCAA.

Grant scored six points in a 10-2 rally late in the first half that gave the Tigers the lead and the momentum. Corbit and Glen McCants had four points each in an 8-0 Clemson run early in the second half that gave the Tigers a 43-32 lead.

Kinston Nips Chargers, 5-4

LITTLEFIELD — Kinston High School pushed over a run in the top of the sixth inning to nip Ayden-Grifton, 5-4 in baseball action Monday.

The game was a make-up from Friday when it was rained out.

The Vikings pushed over three runs in the first inning to take the lead. Greg Jones and Neal Outlaw both singled and Felton Mason got a hit to score Jones. Whit Whitley walked, loading the bases and B. Hawkins singled to drive in both Outlaw and Mason.

Ayden-Grifton came back with one in the bottom of the frame, and both teams scored single runs in the second. The Chargers added two more in the fifth to tie it at 4-4.

In the fifth, Ty Little walked as did Tony McLawhorn. Curt Tucker also walked, loading the bases. Andy Swanson's sacrifice fly scored Little and Stacy Cole reached on an error, scoring courtesy runner Aaron Harper.

But Kinston came back in the sixth to push over the winning run. With two away, Jones was hit by a pitch and Outlaw walked. Mason then singled in Jones with the game-winner.

Mason led the Kinston hitting with three while Hawkins added two. No one had more than one hit for the Chargers.

Ayden-Grifton, now 0-4, was to play at Conley today.

Jordan's Back, Bulls Still Lose

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

Although Dominique Wilkins had just scored 29 points to lead the streaking Atlanta Hawks to their 13th victory in 15 games, he wasn't interested in assessing his own performance. Instead, he was holding court on the subject of Michael Jordan.

Jordan, playing in just his second game for the Chicago Bulls after four months off with a broken foot, scored 13 of his 17 points in the final period Monday night. And, just for good measure, the 1984-85 NBA Rookie of the Year added seven steals, five in the fourth quarter.

"He gives them a lift and can do so many things for their team," said Wilkins, who led the Hawks to a 106-96 NBA victory. "They are going to pick up the pace down the stretch with Michael being back."

Wilkins scored 12 of his game-high 29 points in the third period, four of them in a 13-0 streak that ended with 6:18 left in the third quarter and the Hawks ahead 71-52.

The Bulls trailed 79-65 after three quarters, but a 7-2 run, with all seven points by Jordan, narrowed the margin to 81-72.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Philadelphia 118, Cleveland 112 in overtime; New Jersey 130, Washington 102; Indiana 112, New York 92; and Utah 107, Detroit 106.

"He was sharp enough," Atlanta's Cliff Levingston said of Jordan. "He got some tough layups that kept them in the game when someone had to."

Jordan, who made just four of 16 shots from the floor, was happy to be back, but admitted to being somewhat rusty.

"It will take time for me to come back completely," he said. Eighteen weeks out of basketball is a long time and you lose some of your timing and shooting touch."

Levingston scored 18 points for the Hawks and Johnny Davis had 17.

Charles Oakley scored 20 points for Chicago and grabbed 15 rebounds.

76ers 118, Cavaliers 112

Julius Erving says Charles Barkley and Sedale Threatt must continue to improve if Philadelphia is to remain a potent force in the league. And, in the overtime victory over Cleveland, Erving was not disappointed in what he saw.

"These are guys being thrust into positions where they've got to produce, and tonight they did," Erving said.

Threatt, who scored the first three points in an 8-0 overtime run, and Barkley wound up with 21 points apiece.

Cleveland's Mel Turpin, who scored 28 points, missed an 18-footer with 17 seconds remaining before Philadelphia's Maurice Cheeks misfired from 15 feet at the buzzer, sending the game into overtime. Cheeks and Moses Malone scored 20 points each and Erving added 19 for the 76ers.

World B. Free scored a game-high 32 points for the Cavaliers, who have dropped four straight games and nine of 11.

Nets 130, Bullets 102
New Jersey, with forward Buck Williams scoring 10 of his 19 points and pulling down seven rebounds in the first period, got on Washington in a hurry, and never got off. And the reason for the rout didn't escape Williams.

"It was just a case of us doing everything well, while Washington was struggling and turning the ball over," Williams said. The Nets scored 21 points as a result of 16 Bullets turnovers.

The Nets, who shot 61 percent in the first half, hit 10 of their first 11 shots from the floor en route to a 24-10 lead.

New Jersey, a loser of eight of 10 previous road games by an average of 19.5 points, led 69-40 at halftime, with four starters already in double figures.

Otis Birdsong led New Jersey with 21 points, while Albert King had 20. Washington got 24 points from Dan Roundfield and 18 from Jeff Malone.

Pacers 112, Knicks 92

Forward Herb Williams wasn't certain he was setting a record, but figured the crowd must have been yelling about something of importance. They were. Williams was on his way to a career-high 40 points for Indiana.

"I kind of felt I was getting near something at the end the way people were starting to yell," he said.

The 6-foot-11 forward, who also pulled down 14 rebounds, accounted for the Pacers' last nine points in the first half as they rolled to their third straight victory. Indiana trails Cleveland by one game in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff berth.

New York, buried in Atlantic Division cellar and finishing the season without rookie center Patrick Ewing, lost its eighth straight. The Knicks were led by center James Bailey, who scored 21 points before fouling out midway through the final period.

Jazz 107, Pistons 106

Utah Coach Frank Layden played a guessing game with Detroit counterpart Chuck Daly. During a final timeout, Layden figured Daly would have All-Star guard Isiah Thomas take the final shot, and he was right.

After Rickey Green put the Jazz ahead with 16 seconds remaining, Thomas drove the lane with eight seconds left, only to have 7-foot-4 Jazz center Mark Eaton slap the ball away.

"We pretty well figured they would go to Isiah and we knew that he was going to go to the basket," Layden said.

The Pistons very nearly won anyway, with Kelly Tripucka rebounding Thomas' miss. But his shot bounced off the rim and at the buzzer.

Adrian Dantley led the Jazz with 25 points. Eaton managed just 10 points, but pulled down 15 rebounds and blocked six shots.

Thomas finished with 32 points and 11 assists. Bill Laimbeer, who had 21 rebounds, kept the Pistons in the game in the first half when he scored 18 of his 26 points.

Rose Golfers Post 4th Win

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's golf team had little trouble in remaining unbeaten Monday in a match against Big East rival Rocky Mount.

The Rampants carded a 309 score over the Hickory Meadows course while Rocky Mount came in with a 360 total.

Simon Moye led Rose with a par 71 while Mike Herrin added a 76. David Lee carded an 80 while Both Greg Hallow and Mitch Mitchum came in with 82's.

Al Lytton led Rocky Mount with an 82. John Evans had an 85, while Robin Tharrington carded a 95, and Chris Zebnick had a 98.

Rose, now 4-0, plays host to Tarboro and Conley on Thursday at Brook Valley in Greenville.

Jeff Johnson of Havelock and Dan Springfield of West Carteret tied for medalist honors, each carding a 79.

Conley was led by Johnny Pinner with an 85, while Hall Dunn and Russ Edwards each had 86. Greg Siegel rounded out the Vikes with an 89.

Washington was led by Paul Manning with 84, while Matt Davis had 106, Jim Parker, 108, and Todd Warner, 109.

Conley returns to action on Thursday at Brook Valley in Greenville, facing Tarboro and hosting Rose.

Farmville C..... 348
Pamlico 391

AYDEN — Ayden-Grifton High School won a three-way Eastern Plains golf match Monday against Farmville Central and Pamlico.

The Chargers, hosting the match at the Ayden Country Club, carded a team total of 335. Farmville had 348 while Pamlico was last at 391.

Trey Wilson led Ayden-Grifton with a 77 while Jeremy Shadle had an 82. Brian Heath and Chris Brick both added 88's.

Darryl Baker led Farmville at 80 with Mark Williams carding an 84. Tyson Warren and Parker Ledbetter both finished with 92's.

Andy Silverthorne was low for Pamlico with an 80. Henry Rice added a 99, while Blake Harrell had 104 and Mark Blanchard had 108.

"I told them, 'You can't win unless you're monsters on the backboard,'" Providence Coach Rick Pitino said.

Dave Kipper led Providence with 19 points, Don Brown added 18. Starks 16 and Wright 10 for the Friars. George Mason, 20-12 after playing in its first postseason tournament, was led by Rob Rose with 23 points and Kenny Sanders with 14.

Florida 77, TCU 75

The confidence of Joe Lawrence didn't hurt the Gators, 18-12, who won on his 22-foot jump shot with one second left. Lawrence scored after grabbing a tipped rebound of Ronnie Montgomery's missed shot with six seconds to go, and exchanging passes with Montgomery before scoring from the left corner.

"I've always been confident in my shooting. I felt it was in when I let it go," said Lawrence, who scored only seven points. "There was no doubt in my mind."

Reserve freshman guard Clifford Lett scored seven of his 16 points in the final 3:38 as host Florida withstood a late TCU rally.

Andrew Moten was Florida's leading scorer with 20 points.

TCU, 22-9, got 21 points from Carl Lott, who scored on five straight jump shots down the stretch. Carl Holcome had six points in the rally as the Horned Frogs tied the game at 73-73 and 75-75 after trailing 63-52.

Louisiana Tech 77, McNeese St. 61
Twenty points and 11 rebounds from junior forward Robert Godbolt fueled the host Bulldogs, 18-13. Willie Bland added 16 points and Louis Cook 10.

McNeese, which beat Louisiana Tech twice during the regular season, finished 21-11.

Kenny Jimerson, who fouled out with 2:18 remaining, and reserve Michael Cutright led McNeese State with 16 points each.

Southwest Missouri 83, Marquette 69

The Bears, 24-7, got 22 points from Winston Garland and 21 from Phil Schlegel. They built a 39-27 halftime lead, but Marquette cut the deficit to five on two occasions, the last at 59-54 with 7:39 left in the game.

Kerry Trotter fouled out for the Warriors with 4:53 left, and was assessed three consecutive technical fouls. The Bears capitalized by scoring seven points for a 72-57 lead.

Marquette, 19-11, got 18 points from David Boone, who also had 11 rebounds.

Wyoming 99, Loyola, Calif. 90

Wyoming got 24 points from Fennis Dembo and made 74 percent of its shots from the floor as it rolled to a 57-41 halftime lead and cruised the rest of the way.

Dembo led 22-11 Wyoming on a 17-7 run that turned a three-point Cowboy lead into a 42-31 bulge with 4:05 remaining in the half.

Finishing with 66 percent from the floor, Wyoming got 20 points apiece from Turk Boyd, Les Bolden and Eric Leckner.

The Lions, 19-11, were led by Mike Yoest's 25 points, Forrest McKenzie's 24 and 22 from Keith Smith.

Pee-Wee Champs

Kruger Is New Coach

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State's new basketball coach knows all about uphill battles.

Lon Kruger wasn't recruited heavily out of high school because of his size, he tackled a dismal basketball program at Pan American University four years ago and now he's coming home to try and rebuild the cage fortunes at his alma mater.

Kruger, 33, was named Monday as the new men's basketball coach at Kansas State, where veteran Jack Hartman retired after 16 years.

Supporting Actor's Race Has No Clear Favorite For Oscar

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When a friend telephoned Don Ameche with the news that he had been nominated for an Academy Award, the actor responded, "Oh, no!"

"I said it so loud that after I hung up, I wondered why," he recalled. "The answer was that I really had been thinking about it, otherwise my reaction would not have been so intense. I realized that day and the following day that it did mean a great, great deal to me."

Oscar nominations have that effect on actors, whether they are the 78-year-old Ameche or 29-year-old Eric Roberts. Both are up for best supporting actor this year. Ameche for "Cocoon" and Roberts for "Runaway Train." Also nominated are Klaus Maria Brandauer, "Out of Africa"; William Hickey, "Prizzi's Honor"; Robert Loggia, "Jagged Edge."

Academy watchers see it as a wide-open contest, with no strong favorite. Ameche would be the sentimental choice, but there is wide support for the outrageous performance by Hickey and the subtle underplaying of Brandauer.

Ameche was nominated for his role as an oldster who's given another shot at being young. He demonstrated a youthful vigor in "Cocoon," diving into a swimming pool and dancing with Gwen Verdon.

His reaction to the nomination was understandable: After 50 years in films, he had finally been honored by his peers.

During his heyday as a 20th Century-Fox leading man in the 1930s and '40s, Ameche had been a utility star who was equally competent in musicals ("Down Argentine Way"), comedies ("Hollywood Cavalcade") and dramas ("Ramona"). His greatest fame stemmed from the title role in "Alexander Graham Bell." A generation of Americans called people to the phone with: "You're wanted on the Ameche."

"It was never in my mind, that I can remember, that I had made a picture that might make me a candidate for best actor," he said. "But then, acting wasn't my whole life, as it was with some of my confreres. Hank Fonda, for example. He just lived to act."

Robert Loggia had to wait 30 years before achieving the recognition of the Motion Picture Academy. Nominated for his role as the crusty private eye Sam Ransom in "Jagged Edge," he has had a career that ranged from a Disney TV series ("The Nine Lives of Alfego Baca") to the "Pink Panther" comedies to gangster films ("Scarface").

Loggia said he tried not to think about a possible nomination but his friends in the industry kept predicting it. "So I found myself in the precarious position of not expecting it but wanting it; that's a position I wouldn't recommend."

CHAMBER FINALE — The music ensemble An Die Musik will perform the last concert of the 1985-86 ECU Chamber Festival with a performance at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Hendrix Theater, Mendenhall Student Center. The ensemble's all-Mozart recording received a special merit acclaim from Stereo Review. It has performed in six countries and is heard regularly on national radio in the United States and in Europe. Tickets will be available at the door. For more details, call 757-6611, ext. 266.

'All Is Forgiven' Debuts Thursday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two years ago, when NBC gave the creators of "Cheers" the go-ahead for another series, they went looking for Bess Armstrong.

"They said they didn't know if they wanted to do another show," she said, "but if I was interested it would give them a way to go."

A month later, Glen and Les Charles and James Burrows came back with an idea about a woman who becomes the producer of a failing soap opera.

"It's a position of authority, which women seldom have in soap operas," said Miss Armstrong. "And they said they were going to be radical and have her married. She's not looking for Mr. Right. In a way, it's like the old 'Dick Van Dyke Show' in that it spans two arenas. You see me at the office and you see my husband only at home, which is different."

The result is "All Is Forgiven," a half-hour comedy series that will get a special preview this Thursday and next following "Cheers," temporarily displacing "Night Court." On Saturday, March 29, it will begin its regular run for seven weeks following "Golden Girls." The show "227," which normally appears at that time, will return in the summer.

"All Is Forgiven" is the name of the soap opera Miss Armstrong is hired to resuscitate.

"In the office you have a lot of high-pressure people, eccentric people running around," said Miss Armstrong. "At home my husband tries to calm me down and at the office I try to calm the others down. One character you never see is Mrs. Fontaine, the executive producer. You only hear her through the squawk box. She's very unorthodox in her hiring and firing of people.

Small-Farm Revenue Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 2 million small and part-time farms no longer can be counted on to provide families with living incomes from agriculture, a congressional study says.

"Large-scale farms dominate agriculture," the congressional Office of Technology Assessment said Monday. "Moderate-size farms have a small share of the market and a stagnant share of net farm income."

The trends are well established and will help shape the structure of U.S. agriculture through the turn of the century.

"As the moderate-size farm disappears, it leaves small and part-time farms clustered at one end of the farming spectrum and large farms clustered at the other, in terms of their importance to agriculture," the report said.

It is likely that the total number of farms will shrink to about 1.25 million in the year 2000 from 2.24 million counted in the government's 1982 agricultural census.

However, the attrition rate indicated in the congressional report was disputed by an Agriculture Department economist who said the decline in farm numbers has slackened over the long haul and may level off in a few years.

"The number of small and part-time farms will continue to decline, but will still make up about 80 percent of total farms," the report said. "The large and very large farms will increase substantially in number. Approximately 50,000 of these large farms will account for 75 percent of the agricultural production by year 2000."

The report said moderate-sized farms will decline in number and in proportion of total farms, and will have a small share of the market and a declining share of net farm income.

"These farms comprise most of the farms that depend on agriculture for the majority of their income," the report said. "Traditionally, the moderate-sized farm has been viewed as the backbone of American agriculture. These farms are failing in their efforts to compete for their historical share of farm income."

Alden C. Manchester, senior economist in the national economics division of USDA's Economic Research Service, said he does not think total farm numbers will decline as rapidly between 1982 and 2000 as the congressional report indicates.

"Somewhere in the 1990s, I figure it's going to kind of bottom out," Manchester said in an interview.

Farm numbers peaked during the Depression of the 1930s and have been declining since then in general — although there are occasional blips in the trend, sometimes due to changes in the government's counting methods.

"But it hasn't been going down nearly as fast in the '70s and '80s as it had been doing back when people were sort of rushing to leave the farm in the '50s and '60s," Manchester said.

"If the slowdown continues — and a bunch of us" are involved — the number of farms will flatten out completely before the turn of the century, he said.

One reason, Manchester said, is the apparent popularity of part-time farming by people who have outside income. The number of small, part-time farms could decline for the next 5 to 10 years and then level off, he said.

Manchester said there also has been a slowdown in the decline of full-time commercial farms and that those could become stabilized "somewhere in the '90s" at a level not much lower than now.

The Office of Technology Assessment report, which was released by Rep. Cooper Evans, R-Iowa, defined small farms as those having sales of $20,000 or less a year. In 1982, those farms accounted for 60.6 percent of the nation's 2.24 million farms.

Hotline Fulfills Purpose

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thanks to a federal fraud hotline, Americans stopped paying for a general's private putting green, a Marine sergeant's mistress and a Coast Guard employee's rent subsidy scheme, a report says.

The General Accounting Office, in a report released Monday, said its toll-free hotline has been called 74,000 times in its seven-year existence.

Through mostly anonymous tips, it has fulfilled its purpose of tracking down waste, fraud and mismanagement of taxpayers' money, the GAO said.

The hotline has nabbed welfare cheats, such as the woman who improperly received $2,084 in public assistance and $921 in food stamps while receiving unreported income under an assumed name.

On occasion it has caught famous people, such as the attorney general who let his wife use his chauffeur-driven car for personal errands.

And it often has told of the unusual ways taxpayer money has been spent.

 The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR WED., MARCH 19, 1986

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
 from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is the best time for you to handle whatever home or family matters require your attention. Put more charm into your residence.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your home and see what can be done to make it more charming and functional. A stranger could prove very disappointing today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Begin the morning happily by getting in touch with persons you admire and make appointments to see them at a later time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get an early start on bringing more good things into your life by working for them industriously.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) First make a plan to gain your secret longings and then carry through with it and get right results.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to see and be in the company of interesting friends and acquaintances who can be of help to you in some way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you want to be more successful at present interests, it is wise to return favors to others and gain more goodwill.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An early start on outside business affairs can bring great results, especially with help from those who are prominent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There are new conditions around you, and these bring a fine chance to advance so be open to new ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Stop procrastinating where business affairs are concerned since you can handle them very well now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talk with more practical persons than you about how to make better arrangements for prosperity in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your regular activities and plan to handle them in a more organized way, and you will be more successful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do those things that bring you a fine, peaceful feeling and make you feel that all is well with the world.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will appreciate home and family and will be very smart at whatever has to do with money and how to make it. Be sure to give encouragement early so that the fine potential here will not be lost, if slighted. Good religious training is encouraged.

he will be defeated if clubs are 4-4 (the defenders can take three club tricks and two aces) or 5-3 (when they will get four club tricks and the two aces). Virtually the only chance that declarer has to prevail is to hope the clubs are 6-2, the suit is blocked by East having two high honors, and West has no entry.

Not much to hope for, but any chance is better than none.

Price Of Toilet Pans Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lockheed Corp., criticized for allegedly charging the government more than three times the actual value of a toilet part for airplanes, has now offered to sell the Air Force the part for $1 apiece — a $317 reduction from the company's initial offer.

An Air Force spokesman said Monday the Pentagon was weighing the offer for the toilet splash pans and is expected to respond shortly.

In an earlier dispute over costs of airplane toilet parts, Lockheed was widely criticized in February 1985 for overcharging the Navy by $85 for $554 toilet covers for P-3 Orion submarine hunters.

The company offered last month to give the Air Force splash pans — which sit below toilets and prevent moisture from corroding adjacent parts of the aircraft — for its aging fleet of C-5 transports for free, company spokesman Everett Hayes said.

Clemency

HAMLET, N.C. (AP) — A man convicted of the 1957 fatal shootings of two state Highway Patrol officers has asked Gov. Jim Martin for clemency, citing how a witness to one of the killings recently said he was pressured into testifying.

Frank E. Wetzel, 63, convicted of killing troopers W.L. Reece and J.T. Brown, asked for clemency based on a sworn statement from witness Robert Terry Jr.

Sam A. Wilson, Martin's legal counsel, said Terry gave a sworn statement to a Hamlet notary public, claiming that police had pressured him into testifying in the trial when he was not certain Wetzel was the man he saw shoot Reece.

Terry had testified in the trial that he got a ride with Wetzel while hitchhiking and that Wetzel had shot Reece when the patrolman stopped them for speeding.
