MOAMMAR KHADAFY

Carriers Poised For Attack

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
AP White House Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he isn't ready to blame Moammar Khadafy for the latest terrorist attacks on Americans in Europe, but NATO commander Bernard Rogers says there is "indisputable evidence" at least one fatal bombing was the work of a terrorist network set up by the Libyan strongman.

The White House today clamped a lid on information about Libya as a second U.S. Navy aircraft carrier put to sea in the Mediterranean, ready to attack if Reagan gives the order.

"We're gathering evidence as fast as we can," Reagan told a nationally broadcast news conference Wednesday night. Earlier in the day, he told a group of editors that Khadafy "is definitely a suspect" in the fatal bombings aboard a TWA jetliner over Greece and in a West Berlin nightclub.

But he said, "We're continuing with our intelligence work and gathering evidence on these most recent attacks, and we're not ready yet to speak on that."

Nor is Reagan ready to order the two carriers in the Mediterranean to reform a battle group and head for stations off the Libyan coast, Pentagon sources said today. The carriers are the Coral Sea, which sailed today toward the central Mediterranean from Malaga, Spain, and the America, which left its berth in Livorno, Italy, a day earlier.

Meanwhile, Gen. Rogers, the upmost allied military commander in Europe, said he has "indisputable evidence" that the nightclub explosion, which killed an American sergeant and wounded 50 other servicemen, was the work of a "worldwide network" of terrorists set up by Khadafy.

"I can't tell you how we get it, but the evidence is there," he told an audience in Atlanta that a "worldwide network" of terrorism, set up by Khadafy, carried out the bombing at a nightclub in West Berlin where an American Army sergeant was killed and some 50 GIs were wounded Saturday night.

The general said U.S. officials learned of the impending attack on Saturday and were trying to warn off-duty soldiers at gathering spots in West Berlin when the blast occurred at the La Belle club.

"We were about 15 minutes too late," Rogers said.

Britain's Lord Carrington, the secretary-general of NATO, said today, "I don't think the United States can

U.S. Carries Out Nuclear Testing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A nuclear test was conducted in the Nevada desert just after dawn today following two days of weather delays and growing protests among peace groups.

The test, code-named Mighty Oak, went off without incident, said Energy Department spokesman Jack Campbell.

It was conducted 1,300 feet underground in a tunnel honed in Rainier Mesa, 93 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The test, put officially at less than 20 kilotons, was believed to have an explosive punch of about 1,300 pounds of TNT — ranking it among the smaller blasts at the sprawling test site.

It was described as a weapons effects test. Such tests are designed to determine the ability of U.S. space and military hardware to survive a nuclear blast.

The test had sparked three days of protests at the Nevada Test Site. Fourteen people were arrested on the site this week while 84 peace demonstrators were arrested at the gates to the site. All were charged with trespassing.

Campbell said no protesters were near ground zero when today's test was detonated.

Energy Department officials had warned that heavily armed guards were under orders to shoot under certain circumstances.

"Our guard force has standing orders," said DOE spokesman Dave Miller. "If your life is in danger you are authorized to shoot to kill. If there is an attempt to steal nuclear weapons you are authorized to shoot to kill."

A source in Washington who spoke on condition of anonymity said winds rather than protesters or political pressures were to blame for the delays.

Nuclear tests are not conducted when winds are blowing toward populated areas, primarily Las Vegas and Los Angeles. Although all tests take place underground, radioactive gases have occasionally escaped into the air.

The United States conducts 15 to 20 underground tests annually and weather delays are common.

The Soviet Union has carried out a unilateral test moratorium since Aug. 6 and there has been pressure in Congress for the United States to join in a test ban. The Reagan administration has said the Soviets imposed the moratorium because they had completed their tests. Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has said the Soviets would resume testing if the United States continues its tests.

Stricken Student Returns

FRANKFORT, Ind. (AP) — Teen-age AIDS victim Ryan White returned to school today, less than two hours after a county judge lifted an order which had barred him from class.

Supporters of the 14-year-old Kokomo boy erupted in cheers in the courtroom after Clinton Circuit Judge Jack R. O'Neill vacated the preliminary injunction.

"I'm very, very happy and so thankful it's all over," said Jeanne White, Ryan's mother.

Ryan, accompanied by his mother, then returned to Western Middle School in Russiaville. Asked by reporters if he was ready to resume his studies at the school, Ryan said, "Yeah, I guess."

There were no protests at the school.

Ryan contracted acquired immune deficiency syndrome through blood treatments for hemophilia, and has been barred from classes since last summer.

O'Neill heard arguments Wednesday from attorneys for Ryan, the school corporation; six schoolmates' parents who sought the injunction and attorneys for the Indiana Civil Liberties Union, which supported Ryan's position.

O'Neill said he based his decision on the lack of evidence showing that Ryan's return to school would present a danger to other students. His ruling eliminated a trial scheduled to begin next Tuesday on a permanent injunction against Ryan returning to classes.

ECVC POOL FEEDBACK

In response to a recent Hotline item about the need to keep the East Carolina Vocational Center swimming pool open, I would like to report that the pool has not been closed. It's being kept open until April 30 in hopes of getting enough members and donor organizations to keep it open indefinitely. Some individuals and families have signed up for year-long memberships and some people have given donations. Hours are from 8 a.m.-9 p.m. and the pool is open to everyone, not just the clients served by the center. It continues to be a desperate situation. Unless enough members can be found, this beautiful indoor heated pool will be going to waste. Anyone who wants to use the pool and help keep it open may call Pat Cannon, 752-9864, or Scott Martin, pool manager, 758-4188, for more information. P.C.

House Votes To Keep Ban On Interstate Gun Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Handgun control forces won a major victory today when the House voted 232-185 to continue an 18-year-old ban on interstate sales of handguns.

The vote tacked on the amendment to a bill otherwise weakening the 1968 Gun Control Act. It was the first triumph in two days of debate on gun legislation for police and handgun control organizations.

On Wednesday, House handgun control advocates lost on the same issue, but that vote was on a larger package. Today, the issue was considered separately.

Forces of the National Rifle Association and allied gun groups have won virtually all the other provisions they sought to weaken the 1968 act.

A House-passed gun bill would go to the Senate, which last year approved a measure that is similar but not identical to the gun lobby's bill, sponsored by Rep. Harold L. Volkmer, D-Mo. Senators could ac-

Study Of ECVC Center Approved

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A recommendation to contract with a consultant firm for a feasibility study on the operation of the athletic facility at East Carolina Vocational Center by the city of Greenville was approved by members of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission Wednesday night.

Cost of the study is $1,000. The commission unanimously agreed to a proposal by the department's executive director, Boyd Lee, to have the feasibility study made prior to further consideration of the department operating the facility — in the event the City Council authorizes such operation.

For some time, the Recreation and Parks Department has been studying the possibility of operating the facility at ECVC, which consists of a gymnasium with a stage, a weight room and a heated swimming pool.

Several weeks ago, officials at the center made known it no longer had funds to continue the facility's operation, and has offered to make it available to the city for a $1 fee.

The firm approved to do the study is Cole and Deimler Associates of Charlotte and Jacksonville. Lee said "by hiring these people, who are well qualified in this field, to do this study, we will know within 60 days whether or not it would be economically sound for the city to take on operation of the center."

"I think it's important we know ahead of time what the prospects for success are before any further action is taken," he said.

A date of April 15 had been announced previously as the closing date for the facility. That date, according to Lee, has been changed to the end of April.

Carter Urges Quick Vote Change

By SUE HINSON
Reflector Staff Writer

Even though 1980 census data being used to develop an alternative method of election for Greenville does not adequately reflect actual location and number of black citizens living within the city, it is imperative that the City Council move ahead with plans to replace Greenville's current at-large election system, according to Councilman Ed Carter.

Carter, the sole black serving on the council, in an interview said today that it is "imperative ... mandatory" that the council revise Greenville's method of election despite what he said he saw as discrepancies in the data base.

"We must rid ourselves of the at-large system," he said, "because the Justice Department is not going to approve any residential annexations until we do something about the electoral process."

Since 1980, Carter said Greenville's black population has shifted appreciably.

According to Carter, annexation of residential areas outside the city would increase Greenville's tax base and therefore provide the city with funds needed to offset an expected loss of approximately $700,000 in annually distributed federal revenue sharing funds. The federal revenue sharing program is targeted for elimination Sept. 30, 1986.

A change in method of election is also being sought to ensure proportional representation for Greenville's black residents. The city's at-large method of election is said to give disproportionate power to whites, who outnumber blacks in Greenville by approximately 26,300.

Carter said, however, that whatever election system the council adopts will require future adjustments as Greenville grows and as population shifts. More than likely, he said, the city's election plan will have to be revised when 1990 census data becomes available.

The 1980 census data on location, race, age and numbers of Greenville residents as well as information compiled on population of areas annexed by the city since 1980 were used by election consultant Bobby Bowers of South Carolina to draw three election system alternatives now being considered by the city council. While the census data is six years old, it is still considered to be the most reliable, comprehensive information available on racial composition of Greenville, Bowers said Wednesday at a public meeting held by the council to hear public opinion of election system alternatives being considered.

Census information on location, age and numbers of Greenville's population by race is needed to draw districts that meet stipulations of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. The Justice Department, as administrator of the act, requires that minority citizens are given equal opportunity to elect governmental representatives. For instance, approximately a third of Greenville's population is black, therefore, under any election system the city adopts, the government says blacks must be given the best opportunity possible to elect a third (2 members) of the council.

Proposals being considered by the council to replace the current at-

MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Wasting away of muscle tissue in muscular dystrophy may relate to the ability of muscle to take up muscle-building glucose and amino acids. This ability may depend on the body's sensitivity to insulin.

Dr. Richard Moxley of the University of Rochester Medical Center says he is studying these relationships to learn why muscles deteriorate. Evaluation of amino acid uptake in muscle tissue of volunteers receiving insulin infusions makes it possible for Moxley to determine the degree of their insulin resistance.

"If we can identify decreases in muscle building associated with insulin resistance, we'll be able to design effective treatments," Moxley says.

Shopper Offended By Video Camera

DEAR ABBY: I dread going into public places any more because almost everywhere I go, video cameras are trained on me. I walked into a store the other day and was immediately confronted with myself on TV, and a large message that said, "Smile, You're on Video Camera. Shoplifters Will Be Prosecuted With Videotaped Evidence."

Abby, I will never set foot in that store again!
Am I abnormal for feeling uncomfortable for having every move I make recorded and shown on a TV screen? Do other people feel as I do, and what do you think of this idea?

MRS. L.M.S.,
MECHANICSVILLE, MD.

DEAR MRS. S.: I think it's a shame this method of discouraging shoplifting is used, but look at it this way: Although it is an invasion of privacy, stores that use this method are able to offer their merchandise at a lower cost because they will have fewer shoplifters. And shoplifters cost you and me money!

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are about to adopt a baby in the near future. When we tell friends and family this, the response is invariably the same: "Oh, that is wonderful! But I am sure you will have your own baby right after you receive the adopted one." This comment is absolutely devastating to prospective adoptive parents.

We understand that people mean well and are trying to say something supportive, but there are two reasons why this particular statement should never be made:

1. The subtle implication is that adopted babies are not as good as "your own," meaning one you bore yourself. My wife and I have many fears and apprehensions about adoption, the raising of an adopted child, and how that child will be viewed by others. This insensitive comment brings all of our fears to the surface.

2. Second, and even more important, friends and family often do not consider that the mother in question may not ever be able to bear a child of her own. My wife has been through many miscarriages, a tubal pregnancy, multiple surgeries, and she may never be able to bear our own child. We have many friends with similar tragic infertility problems and where the woman has no tubes, ovaries or uterus. Imagine the effect of this comment on them!

Please tell your readers that adoptive parents need to be reassured that their child is just as valued as the one they had hoped to bear themselves. Also, please avoid thoughtless and insensitive comments about "having your own" or "getting pregnant soon." They are brutal. I am a surgeon at a prominent medical school, but sign me ...

EXPECTANT FATHER

DEAR ABBY: I have a small but important problem. Our school's big dance is coming up. It's the only dance of the year so it's a big deal. I like to carry a purse with me in case I need money to call someone, or if I need to reapply eye makeup. What do I do with my purse when I dance? Give it to my friend? Put it down and risk losing it? Should I shove the stuff in my pocket and forget the purse? Or dance with the purse on my shoulder?

R. IN LEVERETT, MASS.

DEAR R.: Carry the absolute minimum, and shove it in your pocket.

Cooking Is Fun

By TOM HOGE

AP Wine and Food Writer

Chicken, the world's favorite culinary fowl for some 5,000 years, has been enjoyed by rich and poor alike in nearly every country.

The Spanish explorers brought the birds to America back in the 1500s. So did the Pilgrims some years later.

By the 1700s, experiments were under way in the colonies for raising domestic fowl that paved the way for development of today's poultry industry.

Chicken has long been an economical dish, inspiring cooks to think up special dishes with regional variations.

Soon the bird was appearing on the table in many guises, including fried, barbecued, fricasseed, in croquettes or baked in pies.

Most fowl fanciers regard the breast as the choicest part of the chicken, but some believe that the meat from the wing is more flavorful and tender. Chicken wings are a feature of many cuisines including Southern, Chinese, Creole and Spanish.

Chicken is a Sunday favorite, roasted in cold weather and served chilled in the summer. The warm weather dishes should not be overcooked and should be given time to cool before serving.

Fried chicken has long been an American favorite, with many regional variations. It can be deep-fried in fat, sauteed in butter, dipped in batter or even simmered in champagne.

One of my favorite dishes is broiled chicken breasts with beurre blanc sauce, as prepared by Paul Majane, proprietor of New York's Night and Day restaurant. This recipe is for four people.

4 chicken breasts, boned,

- skinned and split
- 3 shallots
- 2 cups white wine
- 1 stick sweet butter
- 1/2 cup mustard, any good variety
- 3 ounces honey
- 1 tablespoon mustard seeds

Set oven at 375 degrees and place 8 chicken breast halves 6 inches from flame. Broil about 6 minutes on each side. To prepare beurre blanc sauce, mince shallots; in small pan, add the wine to shallots. Cook until sauce is reduced to half a cup, stirring frequently. Add butter, 2 ounces at a time. When melted, add 2 ounces mustard and mix well. In small bowl, combine honey with mustard mixture; add glaze to chicken breasts. Top with mustard seeds. Broil until mustard seeds are browned. Place chicken halves on 4 plates; 2 for each person, and cover with sauce. Serve with rice and a green salad. Serve with a chilled dry white wine, if desired.

Libya ...

sit back and allow this sort of terrorism ... without taking some sort of retaliatory action."

"What it would be, I don't know," Carrington said on NBC's "Today" show. "I don't think you could say anything the United States would do would be supported by the Europeans. But I can tell you there would be a very great deal of sympathy and support for the United States for doing something."

"At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters, "I will have absolutely nothing to say on Khadafy or Libya today." He refused to answer any further questions about the matter or to say how long his informal blackout might last.

Asked if his refusal to discuss the issue might indicate an attack is imminent, Speakes said, "No comment."

Reagan, asked at his news conference about reports that he already had decided to retaliate, Reagan said to answer that would be "like talking about battle plans or something" — which he doesn't discuss. But he said his policy has been "that if and when we could specifically identify someone responsible for one of these acts, we would respond."

If he can identify those responsible for the Berlin bombing, Reagan said, "then I think we respond."

Earlier in the day, Reagan told the American Society of Newspaper Editors the United States is "not going to just sit here and hold still" amid mounting threats against Americans.

Reagan said he isn't overlooking the possibility Khadafy might try to strike at targets inside the United States, adding, "We're going to be on the alert and on guard for anything he might do."

On other subjects raised at the news conference, the president:

—Said June "is just about out" as a date for his second summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, but that July is still a possibility. Or, he said, the two leaders could meet after the U.S. congressional elections in November.

The United States originally had hoped the summit, to be held in the United States, would be in June, and officials thought the Soviets were willing to meet then. But the two sides have had trouble setting a firm date for Gorbachev's visit.

—Defended Vice President George Bush against critics who charged he has strayed from the administration line by suggesting something must be done to stabilize world oil prices.

"I have made it a point to get exactly and specifically what he said," Reagan told reporters, "and I can't find myself quarreling with any of the remarks he's made."

—Said that "contrary to what some people think" his administration has been working constantly to win the release of six Americans kidnapped in Lebanon.

—Said he hoped his administration could propose building a fourth shuttle to replace the Challenger, which was destroyed in an explosion Jan. 28. He also denied the White House had pressured the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to launch the ill-fated Challenger.

Eight Die In Helicopter Crashes

HINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Two Army helicopters crashed about a half-mile apart during a routine training flight in a remote part of Fort Stewart Army Base, killing all eight soldiers aboard, authorities say.

A CH-47 Chinook helicopter carrying six soldiers and an AH-1S Cobra helicopter with two soldiers aboard crashed about 9 p.m. Wednesday, said Lt. Col. James Arnold, public affairs officer for the Army post.

The helicopters had taken off on routine training flights earlier Wednesday from Hunter Army Airfield in Savannah, about 35 miles east of Fort Stewart, Arnold said. Hunter houses all helicopters and planes used by Fort Stewart, he said.

"The crashes probably were related. They were very close to each other. They happened at the same time. But how they occurred we don't know yet," he said. "No landing or takeoff was involved to my knowledge. They weren't near an airstrip."

The post began a preliminary investigation Wednesday night. The official Army investigation and removal of the bodies began when a team arrived from Fort Rucker, Ala., today.

The identities of the eight soldiers, who were stationed at the post, were withheld pending notification of relatives.

Capt. Thomas Nixon said the crash site is near the Range Control building. Controllers there have radio contact with helicopters, but Nixon said there was no immediate indication that soldiers on either helicopter had reported problems.

The Chinook can transport about 35 soldiers or haul heavy cargo inside or slung underneath. The Cobra, which carries only two crewmen, is a missile-carrying gunship primarily used in anti-tank fighting.

Arnold said the Army has not experienced problems with either helicopter. The Army grounded its Chinook D model helicopters last year after an accident that injured eight soldiers in Honduras, but the grounding was lifted after six weeks when the accident was blamed on human error.

Fort Stewart, the largest Army post east of the Mississippi River, comprises 280,000 acres, and is the home of more than 14,000 service members, including the 24th Infantry Division, part of the Rapid Deployment Force.

Blast Shatters Office

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A bomb blast early today shattered the ground floor offices of Air France and severely damaged the facade of a nearby discotheque, but caused no casualties, police said.

An anonymous caller to the state-run news agency Anop later claimed responsibility for the attack in the name of the French terrorist organization Direct Action to protest French "collaboration" with the United States against Libya.

The caller told Anop's Oporto bureau that the "commando" who carried out the bombing already had returned to Oporto, Portugal's second largest city 200 miles north Lisbon.

"Don't bother looking for the group in Lisbon," the caller said in Portuguese with a heavy Spanish accent. "We're already in Oporto."

Anop said the caller claimed the bombing had been carried out to protest "the collaboration of the government of Paris with the North Americans." He said the group also was acting to show its "total solidarity with Libya."

The French government on Saturday expelled two Libyan diplomats in connection with possible attacks against U.S. targets, which reportedly were to include the American Embassy in Paris.

The news agency said the caller claimed Direct Action planned to attack two targets in Oporto, the French consulate and the French Institute, a language school.

"They'll both go up (explode) soon," he said.

Police told The Associated Press in Lisbon the Air France bomb apparently was placed in a plastic trash can in front of the office.

Portuguese radio reported police were looking for a green car seen speeding from the site of the blast minutes before the bomb went off.

"It's a miracle no one was hurt," the Portuguese news agency Noticias de Portugal quoted a police officer as saying. A popular disco called the Cova da Onca is located next door, and its entrance was heavily damaged.

Gunman, Officer Killed In Shootout

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — A man sought for questioning in crimes in two states died along with a police officer in a shootout at a bus depot, and authorities searched today for the dead man's brother, police said.

Officer John Jung, a police spokesman, said a bus driver arriving in Yuma relayed Wednesday that two passengers aboard had been drinking and were creating a disturbance.

At the Greyhound depot, Officer Gary Maas, 28, approached two men later identified as Donald Smith and Edward Neil Smith, 28-year-old twins, Jung said.

As Maas walked toward the men, at least one allegedly produced a weapon and shots were fired, fatally wounding the officer, said Jung.

However, Maas was able to return the fire before he died, and Donald Smith was killed, said Jung.

In Spokane, Wash., police Detective Lt. Gary Johnson said the brothers were sought for questioning in the robbery of a retired couple and of a supermarket.

"What we know of them, they are desperados," Johnson said Wednesday.

In Cascade, Idaho, Valley County Sheriff M. Blair Shepherd said the brothers were sought for questioning in the death of an 20-year-old airman who was found fatally shot in a car stolen from the Spokane couple.

Investigators believe Mark Eugene Patterson, whose body was found Tuesday by passers-by, was shot after he stopped to help at what he thought was an accident.

Patterson's pickup truck was missing, the sheriff said.

No formal charges had been filed against the Smiths in the Patterson slaying, Shepherd said.

Marijuana Boat

WILMINGTON (AP) — The 44-foot ketch "Fantasy," which was seized loaded with marijuana last summer, was sold at auction Wednesday about the same time the vessel's former owner was being convicted in court of charges related to the smuggling attempt.

At the auction at Carolina Yacht Sales in Wilmington, Paul Tickle of Virginia Beach, Va., entered a high bid of $35,000 to become the new owner of the boat. He and his wife, Sandy, are in business specializing in buying old drug-smuggling boats and renovating them to resell.

The boat's previous owner, Frederick Stetson of Cataumet, Mass., was convicted in U.S. District Court in Raleigh Wednesday on charges of aiding and abetting importation of marijuana and aiding and abetting possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

Assistant U.S. Attorney J. Douglas McCullough said a sentencing date has not been set. Each charge carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

The Pitt-Greenville Animal Shelter opened on July 1 and is located one mile south of Bells Fork of the County Home Road.

Rankings Have Shortcomings

Editorials

Don't Switch

The old saying about east being east and west being west not only applies to geography, it also applies to budgets.

Gov. Jim Martin's questionable proposal to shift Highway Patrol and Department of Motor Vehicles expenses from their place in North Carolina's Highway Fund to the General Fund is a good example of how this truism fits finances. Budgets, like geographic regions, have distinct divisions for specific reasons.

The expenses in question are now funded by highway monies — sound judgment. They are transportation-related and should continue to be financed from transportation-generated revenue. Here's why:

The state's transportation system created the primary need for these services. For the system's revenue to keep paying the bills, policy changes that will generate more money for the highway fund must be made. Officials must do whatever it takes to keep these items in the Highway Fund budget — whether it means a gas tax increase, user fees or license fee hikes. The means here is not as important as the end.

Capriciously switching two vital departments' expenses from one fund to another is not sound fiscal policy. It sets a dangerous precedent of budget-tampering. If this change is made, each time funding for a program becomes troubled, some problem-solver could suggest a change of fund — then point a finger at the Highway Patrol-Motor Vehicle switch as a logical example.

The General Fund pays the bills for very vital items — salaries, education and recreation, for starters. It is a fund with its skin already stretched drum-tight. It could be further threatened by adding funding responsibility for Highway Patrol and Motor Vehicle expenses. Swapping funds would put fatal pressure on items such as teacher salaries that already need large increases.

Revenue sources for the Highway Fund can be and should be manipulated to provide enough money to operate transportation-related departments. Some of the measures necessary may be unpopular, but they will work. Moving a program from fund to fund when money gets tight won't work.

Financial switch hitting has no place in a state budget.

RALEIGH — The N.C. Center for Public Policy Research has published its effectiveness rankings of legislators and already the teeth gnashing and chest pounding should be audible.

Legislators who fared well, or who can dream up a positive way of depicting their ranking, will be bragging from here until the May 6 primary. Those who did poorly will be poormouthing the rankings, playing up the obvious inadequacies of any such poll.

In ways, both sides will be right on this issue.

The rankings have obvious shortcomings. They rank "effectiveness," but who can adequately define that term?

There is a pure and simple voting bias against Republicans and new legislators, and legislators who work quietly don't get the credit their noisier colleagues receive.

The scoring of the rankings can be questioned. Legislators, lobbyists and reporters all vote. An individual legislator's score is determined by averaging the average scores each of the three groups gave him. That means the relatively small number of reporters participating in the survey have a disproportionate influence on the rankings, and the relatively inexperienced press corps may be the least knowledgeable of the three groups.

Despite those failings, this reporter is one who thinks the rankings serve a useful purpose. But one must approach them with a keen eye to really call a valuable lesson.

The first thing to understand is that some legislators, by virtue of the chairmanship they hold, should be considered highly influential. The House speaker will always be the most influential in that body. In both houses, the chairmen of the budget, finance and judiciary committees will generally form the top 10 percent.

It may be enlightening to look for a legislator who gets a mediocre ranking despite being chairman of a powerful committee. For example, Sen. David Parnell, D-Robeson, surprisingly ranks 28th, and Rep. R.D. Beard, D-Cumberland, 58th, in their respective houses, despite holding the powerful jobs of budget subcommittee chairmen.

Tenure has a great deal to do with one's ranking. Freshmen should not be criticized for faring poorly in the rankings. It is quite a plus if they finish high, as did Rep. Coy Privette, R-Cabarrus, 63rd. (Ironically, the top frosh in 1983, Bob Slaughter, lost to Privette in 1984.)

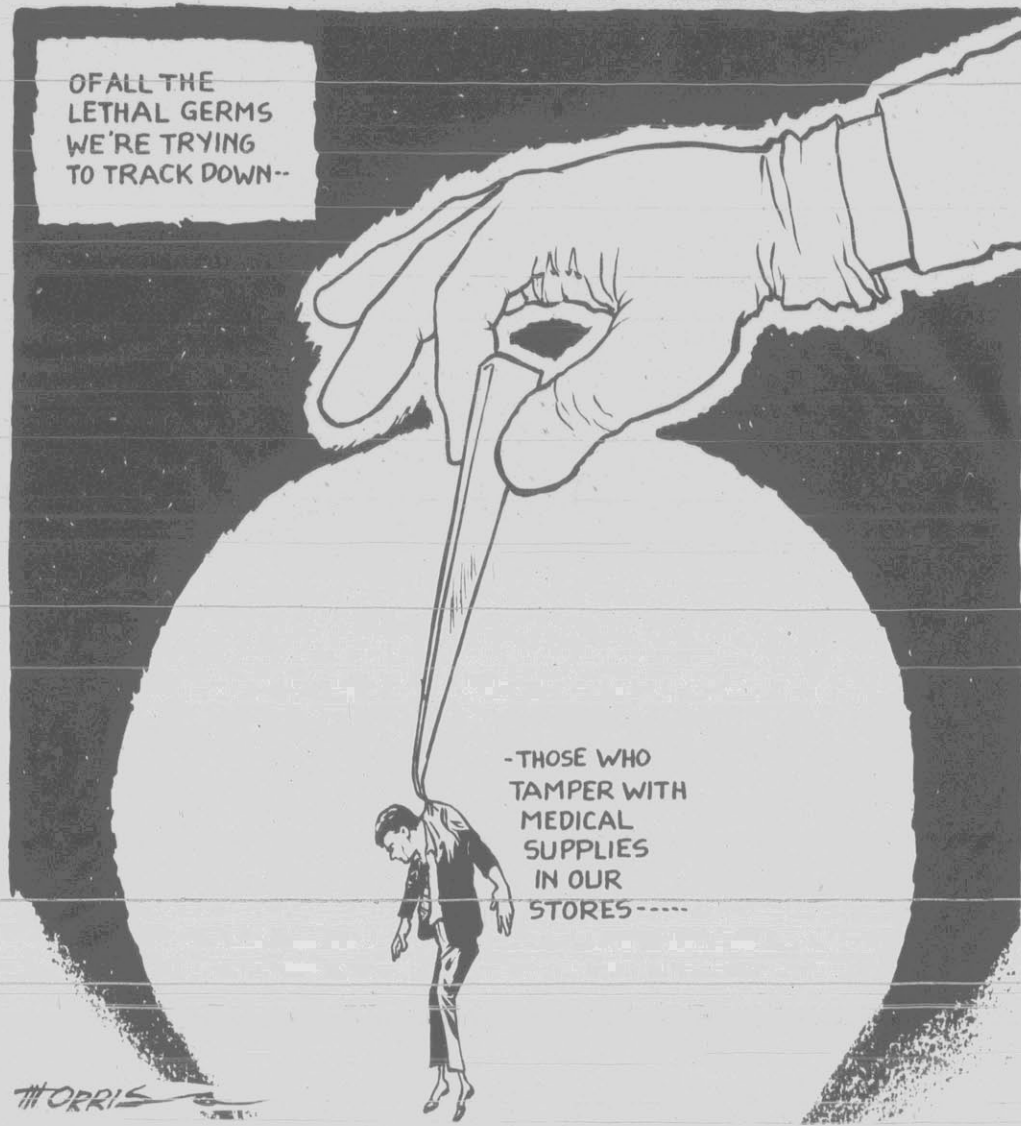

If a veteran legislator continues to hang near the bottom, that's a pretty good indication that he's ineffective. Rep. C. Melvin Creecy, D-Northampton, has ranked 118, 130 and 115 out of 120 in his three terms. Rep. Brad Ligon, R-Rowan, got up to 108 this year after two previous rankings of 119.

By comparing this year's rankings to last's, one can get an idea of who is emerging and who is fading. Rep. Betsy Cochran, R-Davie, who was an effective minority leader, jumped from 103 to 22 in just one session. Sen. Aaron Plyler, D-Union, became appropriations chairman after backing his good friend Bob Jordan for lieutenant governor. He jumped from 25 to 3 in one session.

On the fading side are Rep. Allan Barbee, D-Nash, who lost his post as speaker pro tem and dropped from 14 to 35, and Rep. William Clark, D-Cumberland, who fell from 26 to 62.

Those who watch the Legislature every day can generally tell who is most effective. The center, by surveying these many legislative watchers, is letting the public in on this inside stuff.

SPEAKING OF MEDICAL RESEARCH--

Red Meat

The size of the beef cattle market in our country is put into some kind of perspective with announcement of a forthcoming slaughter of dairy cattle.

This spring and summer thousands of excess dairy cows, heifers and calves will begin moving onto the red meat market in a move to reduce dairy herds and a mind-boggling surplus of milk and other dairy products.

The program is supposed to remove 951,619 cows, 340,789 heifers and 257,995 calves from the dairy herds and put them on the red meat menus.

Yet the Agriculture Department's experts say that program will have but a small impact on the nation's overall beef supply.

The dairy animal buy-up is to cover an 18-month period and the announcement resulted in some early reaction on the beef cattle market. The concerned National Cattlemen's Association asked the Agriculture Department to clarify the situation ... meaning, presumably, to affirm it will not sharply affect beef prices at the butchers' counters.

It turns out millions of pounds of beef are earmarked for Europe and more beef can go to school lunches as well as the armed forces; which, we're told, is going to result in only a minor impact on the marketplace.

Well, that's what they say.

Trip Could Help Bush's Cause

WASHINGTON — Vice President George Bush's trip to Saudi Arabia, aimed in part to win the oildom's cooperation in increasing world petroleum prices, could further the potential presidential candidate's image among downtrodden U.S. oilmen.

Otherwise, tough times in the oilpatch are making for treacherous politics, for Democrat and Republican alike. Just as the farm issue could pummel incumbents in the Midwest, the collapse of petroleum prices could do the same in the Gulf and Western regions.

Independent oilmen, a constituency most formidable for their ability to finance political campaigns, have taken the hardest beating. Drilling activity is at or near an all-time low, according to the American Petroleum Institute. It was the early decline of world crude prices during Ronald Reagan's first term that helped make the independents one of the most active lobbies on tax reform. (They proved effective in saving some of their major tax breaks in the House bill passed last year.) Now they're looking for a tax on imported oil.

Support for such a fee, which President Reagan opposes, may not become a litmus test for political support from the oil industry in 1986, Democratic campaign officials concede. Yet it seems as if tax opponent Phil Gramm, the Republican senator from Texas, is a rarity. The economies of Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas as in such precarious shape that only a Gramm would go against conventional wisdom. Democratic Gov. Mark White of Texas, up for re-election this year, may have to press for a tax increase to keep his state government solvent (a potentially deadly possibility for him politically). Unfortunately, what's good for the country (or at least most of it) isn't always good for the people who run it.

While Congress takes a breather from its Contra funding debate (the House is scheduled to take up the matter again later this month), the advertising community has assessed its role in the Nicaraguan war to date. According to Adweek, the most

WASHINGTON — Congress has returned to Capitol Hill, with the biggest question of the spring still awaiting decision: Will the United States send significant aid, promptly and effectively, to the "Contras" of Nicaragua?

On March 20, by a vote of 222-210, the House said no. On March 27, by a vote of 53-47, the Senate said yes. The issue returns to the House this month. A switch of seven votes would authorize the transfer of $100 million within the defense budget. The president would be able to act immediately on $25 million in non-military assistance; the other $75 million in military aid would follow over a period of three months.

The issue seems so clear to me that I am at a loss to understand the manifest coolness in Congress toward the Contras' cause. Granted, the administration's rhetoric has been on the purple side, but both sides of the debate got carried away. It would be useful if both Speaker Tip O'Neill and the White House would turn the volume down.

Those who oppose aid to the Contras make five basic arguments. Let me attempt to reply to them.

The first argument lies in the residual legacy of Vietnam. "The Reagan approach," said Rep. Peter

H. Kostmayer, D-Pa., "guarantees inevitably that American troops from Allentown and Bethlehem and all over the Lehigh Valley will be called upon to die in Nicaragua." But in his March 16 address, President Reagan made his position plain: "I am not talking about American troops. They are not needed; they have not been requested."

Second, it is said that the other Latin American nations are opposed to our assisting the counter-revolutionaries, but this is not as clear as one might think. Daniel Ortega, the Nicaraguan dictator, has few friends in this hemisphere. Such neighbors as El Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica, Panama and Guatemala are understandably nervous at the thought of full-blown warfare in their back yard. The Contadora group favors negotiations — but who doesn't favor negotiations?

That is the third objection — that the Reagan administration has not tried hard enough to achieve democratic reforms in Nicaragua at the negotiating table. On 10 separate occasions, the United States has sent envoys to the Sandinista regime, and 10 times they have been rebuffed. The Sandinista government flatly refuses to negotiate an armistice and a democratic government with the Contras. Managua's evident determination is to crush the rebels by military force. It takes two to tango, and it takes at least three to settle the perceived threat to U.S. security.

Fourth, it is charged that the Contras are not worthy of our help. Speaker O'Neill, in his moderate moments, has called them terrorists, fascists and murderers. Their forces, he has said, include many "thugs" from the old Somoza regime. Very well, the Contra forces are not composed of Eagle Scouts and choirboys, but these things are matters of degree. Daniel Ortega's Sandinistas have abolished civil liberties, censored the press, firebombed Managua's only synagogue, expelled Catholic priests, and committed brutal atrocities of their own.

Finally, and perhaps most persuasively, opponents deny that "little Nicaragua" is in any way a threat to the security of the United States. No view could be more in error. The Soviet Union has pumped an estimated $600 million in military aid to the Sandinista regime. The Soviets are financing thousands of Cuban mercenaries to fight against the Contras. If the Sandinistas are able finally to crush the rebels, and to consolidate a communist dictatorship effectively controlled by the Soviet Union, a grave threat will indeed be posed to American interests — and to the security of all of Central America. There is the peril. It is not imaginary; it is real.

In the vote on March 20, the White House lost 16 Republican members. Over the Easter recess they have had time to reconsider. If seven would vote "aye" on the Senate's aid bill, the Contras would be given a fighting chance. That is all they have asked. It seems little enough to provide.

— Elisha Douglas — Strength For Today

Often we think we are practical when we are anything but practical.

Sometimes we invest money which in the end turns out to involve us in a loss of money. A person is practical who adapts himself to the issues of life and yet remains master of them. The truly practical person has insight into the meaning of most issues, understands the basic principles underlying them, and knows what should be done and what he intends to do with reference to them.

Religion is practical because it takes a realistic attitude with reference to the whole of life, including those unseen forces which impinge daily upon us.

If you believe yourself to be practical, just analyze your motives and aspirations. Make sure you separate vanity from conviction, prejudice from righteous indignation, good will from an overwhelming desire to dominate.

Ironically, in his annual report, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says that "the missile's single warhead and potential mobility make it a low-value target that's hard to find." So much for department unanimity.

Ransom Of $2.6 Million Sought In Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Three masked gunmen kidnaped Jennifer Guinness, whose husband's family made a fortune as brewers and bankers, from her home outside Dublin and demanded $2.6 million for her release, police said today.

Police Superintendent Frank Hanlon told a news conference police were keeping "an open mind" about who might be behind the Tuesday kidnapping, which was disclosed today.

But police said earlier the method was similar to previous kidnappings by the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is fighting British rule in Northern Ireland.

The kidnapped woman's husband, John, is a leading merchant banker and member of a Guinness family branch that built up a banking, insurance and manufacturing conglomerate, Guinness Peat. Another branch of his family became famous as brewers.

Hanlon said Mrs. Guinness, 48, persuaded the gunmen not to also kidnap her 23-year-old daughter, Gillian. Her daughter, her husband and an unidentified book dealer who came to the home for an appointment were left tied up.

"Two million pounds ($2.6 million) or you will never see her again," police quoted the kidnappers as telling Guinness before fleeing with his wife.

Hanlon, who heads the police press bureau, told reporters, "There has been no contact" with the kidnappers since they fled with Mrs. Guinness. Police described the getaway car as a Toyota sedan.

Hanlon said 45 detectives, backed by hundreds of uniformed police, have been assigned to search for the woman, and roadblocks have been set up nationwide.

He said the gunmen referred to their leader, who spoke with an educated Dublin accent, as "colonel," but that there was nothing else in the demeanor of the intruders to indicate paramilitary links.

The kidnappers took a small, undisclosed sum of money from the Guinness home, he said.

The ordeal began when the gang forced its way into the Guinness' Georgian-style house in the exclusive Dublin suburb of Baily Howth. The house overlooks Dublin Bay and is set on 12 acres of land.

Mrs. Guinness and her daughter were tied up, and when the book dealer arrived to keep an appointment he also was tied up, police said.

When Guinness returned home from work, he tried to grab a gun from one of the intruders, but was struck across the face with the firearm and tied up, police said.

About 2½ hours after the gang fled with his wife, Guinness freed himself and called police, who imposed a news blackout that was lifted only today.

Guinness, 50, an official of the Dublin merchant bank, Guinness Mahon and Co., was bruised but not badly hurt. The bank, a subsidiary of Guinness Peat, is valued on the London stock market at more than $292 million.

Police said the viciousness of the attack on Guinness made them "very concerned" about his wife's safety.

Police said the style of Mrs. Guinness' kidnapping and the sizable ransom demand was similar to previous IRA kidnappings and the 1983 theft of the Derby-winning racehorse Shergar.

A $1.53 million ransom was demanded for Shergar after he was stolen in February 1983. The ransom was not paid, and the horse has never been found.

The mainly Catholic IRA is fighting to unite Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic under a socialist government. The republic is mostly Catholic, but Protestants outnumber Catholics 3-2 in the province.

Mrs. Guinness, an avid sailor and a native of England, was a member of Ireland's Admiral Cup team in 1975 on the yacht Assiduous. She came third in the All-Ireland Dragon Class yacht racing championship in Belfast Lough in 1979.

Edna O'Coineen, who has sailed the Atlantic solo, described Mrs. Guinness as a strong-willed woman. "She would handle the ordeal quite well. She is a very competent lady," Ms. O'Coineen said.

Car Bomb Explodes In Lebanese City, Killing 3 People, Injuring 34

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — A car packed with TNT exploded today in the main square of this southern port city, and police said three people died and 34 were wounded.

The Mercedes blew up at midmorning in the city hall courtyard in Star Square, police said. They estimated the car had contained 165 pounds of TNT.

At least 25 parked vehicles, including garbage trucks and fuel trucks, were set afire by the explosion, which hurled some vehicles 30 feet in the air and shattered windows in a 1,500-foot radius around the square, police and witnesses reported.

A parked Mercedes rigged with 22 pounds of explosives was discovered and defused later about 30 feet from the city hall courtyard, a militia commander said. Its driver was in militia custody.

After the blast, huge tongues of flame and clouds of black smoke billowed over the city. The explosion blasted a crater six feet wide and three feet deep in the courtyard.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the bombing.

A police official who refused to be identified said two bodies were found in the wreckage of the car.

"They may have been in the car when it exploded," the police official said. "But we can't tell whether they were suicide bombers or whether the bomb went off prematurely before they could get away."

Besides the two people found inside the wrecked car, a 40-year-old passerby died of a heart attack when the bomb went off, police said.

Shafik Sunbul, head of the security department the Popular Liberation Army militia, told reporters the second car bomb was set off an hour after the first. The militia is an alliance of leftist and Moslem factions in Sidon, a predominantly Sunni Moslem city 25 miles south of Beirut.

Sunbul said his men apprehended the 23-year-old driver of the second Mercedes and were questioning him.

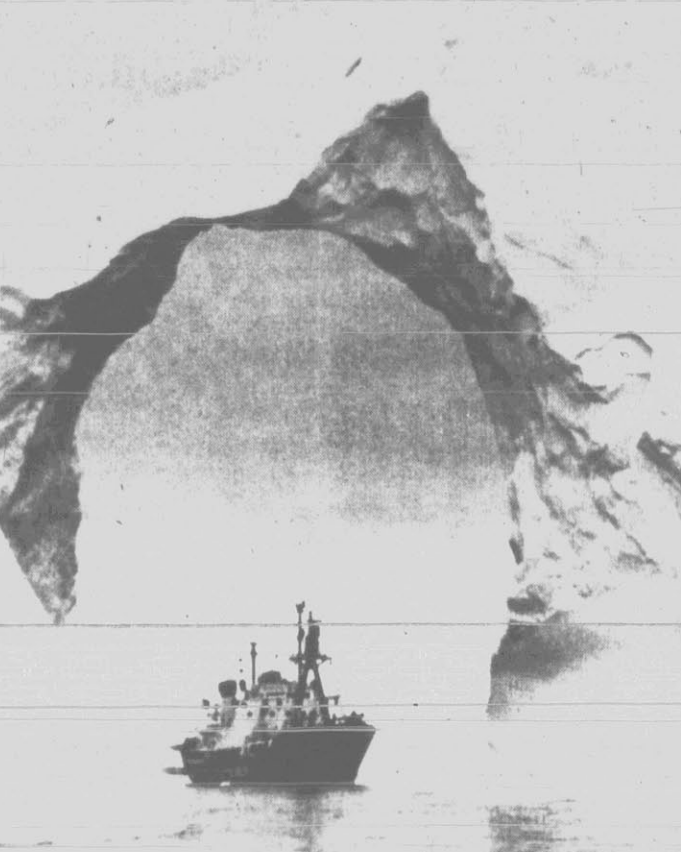

On Tuesday, a car bomb exploded near an office of President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party in the Christian port city of Jounieh, 12 miles north of Beirut.

Police said today that the death toll from the Jounieh bombing increased to 13 with the deaths in hospitals overnight of three of the 110 people who were injured.

No one claimed responsibility for the explosion in Jounieh, but it came amid a bloody power struggle in Lebanon's 1.6 million-member Christian community between Gemayel and his main rival, former militia chief Elie Hobeika.

Palestinian bases on Sidon's outskirts were bombed by Israeli warplanes Monday in the third air raid on the city this year. Thirteen people were killed and 49 were wounded in the air strikes.

Demography

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Bank of Israel study indicates there are an equal number of Jewish and Arab children in Israel and Israeli-occupied territories, although Jews make up a majority of the overall population.

The study revealed there are about 1 million Jews and the same number of Arabs up to 14 years old in the two areas.

According to government population figures, there are 3.5 million Jews and 2 million Arabs in Israel and the occupied territories.

The demographic question is a key factor in the debate here between those who favor and those who oppose annexing the occupied territories.

Lebanese Question, Free Bomb Suspect

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese officials today questioned the woman who Greek police have said is a prime suspect in the TWA bombing that killed four Americans.

May Elias Mansur left police headquarters unescorted and declared, "My innocence has been proven." But a prosecutor said more investigation was necessary.

Examining Magistrate Assad Diab and Military Prosecutor-General Fawzi Dagher questioned Miss Mansur at police headquarters in her home town of Tripoli, 50 miles north of Beirut.

Dagher would not comment on his findings. Diab said no arrest warrant has been made out for the 31-year-old widow. He added, however, "The investigation will continue and we will declare our verdict once we have all the necessary facts."

Miss Mansur was questioned about the April 2 bombing of Boeing 727 jetliner en route from Rome to Athens. A bomb blew up on the plane, blasting a hole in the jet's side and killing four Americans. Miss Mansur was a passenger on the plane earlier in the day.

"I have placed myself at the disposal of Lebanese legal authorities," Miss Mansur told reporters as she left police headquarters. She said she was going home.

The Lebanese examiners have interrogated me and verified that I am innocent," she said.

Asked whether she believed the Lebanese examiners would confer with Greek and Italian authorities and interrogate her again, she said: "Come what may, I don't care."

"No matter what the charges and impressions are, I'm sure of my innocence."

Miss Mansur has lived with her parents in Tripoli since she suffered a stroke two years ago when her husband was killed fighting Christians. Her left leg and left hand are partially paralyzed.

Pitt Bar Hears John

Superior Court Judge Joseph R. John of Greensboro, a Democratic candidate for N.C. Court of Appeals, says his experience as trial judge makes him the most qualified person for the seat he is seeking in the May 6 primary.

"I have the perspective of knowing what goes on in the courtroom before the cases go through the appeals process," said John, who was in Greenville to speak to the Pitt County Bar Association Tuesday night.

John was appointed resident Superior Court judge in the 18th Judicial District by Gov. James B. Hunt in December 1984.

Prior to the appointment, John was a chief District Court judge, partner in a Greensboro law firm, chief assistant district attorney in the 18th District and worked in legal aid.

His opponent in the May 6 Democratic primary is Judge Sarah Parker of Charlotte, who was appointed in 1984 by Gov. Hunt after Judge Maurice Braswell of Fayetteville resigned for health reasons.

John is seeking to serve for the remainder of Braswell's term, which expires in 1990. One other seat on the Court of Appeals is up for election but there is no party primary.

John said he couldn't pass up the opportunity to seek the seat after his term as Superior Court judge expired.

"The opportunity to seek this elected office meets with a long-standing ambition," John said. "I've always wanted to make a career as a judge, and this was a natural step."

Professor Gains Fulbright Research Grant

Dr. Donald Spence, a member of the East Carolina University School of Education faculty, has been awarded a Fulbright grant for research in Japan next year.

Spence will be in Japan during January through April of 1987, based at Hiroshima University, where he will continue his studies of Japanese secondary education. Specifically, Spence will measure the general knowledge and attitudes of Japanese high school teachers in regard to the United States and attempt to determine whether a relationship exists between increased knowledge and positive attitudes toward the United States and its citizens.

In 1980-82, Spence conducted a cross-national study of knowledge and attitude among senior high school students in Japan and the United States as a Mombusho Research Fellow at Hiroshima University.

Fulbright Program awards are made to sponsor exchanges of lecturers, and scholars between the U.S. and other nations. The program is administered by the U.S. Information Agency, with financial support coming from U.S. Congressional appropriations and from the governments of 27 other nations.

Spence's grant will cover transportation expenses, living costs and other expenses relating to his period of research in Japan.

Spence is an assistant professor in the ECU Department of Elementary Education. He is co-founder and assistant director of Japan Center-East, based at ECU, and is administering a two-year $85,808 project of the U.S.-Japan Foundation which is designed to develop educators' understanding of Japanese society and culture.

A native of Gatlinburg, Tenn., with a doctorate in education from the University of Tennessee, Spence previously taught six years in Haywood County public schools.

Bill Proposes Smoking Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight House members who said they were tired of decisions made in smoke-filled rooms have introduced legislation that would restrict smoking to designated parts of U.S. government buildings.

Under the measure, the secretary of health and human services, in consultation with the surgeon general, would develop regulations designating specific areas of U.S. government-occupied buildings in which smoking would be allowed.

Rep. Bob Whittaker, R-Kan., a co-sponsor, used cold war terms to describe the legislation, which is called "The Non-Smokers' Rights Bill of 1986."

"We've adopted a policy of peaceful coexistence with cigarette smoke," he said. "This bill is a policy of containment."

Recalling the notion that key political decisions are made in smoke-filled rooms, Rep. Don Ritter, R-Pa., the principal sponsor, said: "If our bill is successful, those decisions will have to be made in designated smoke-filled rooms."

But Scott Stapf of the Tobacco Institute said the measure could be a taxpayer drain because of lost productivity due to "workers sneaking off to have a smoke" and because of physical workplace changes that might result.

"This is a crusade without a constituency, and at an enormous cost," he said.

The American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society issued statements in support of the bill.

"The legislation would do at the federal level what is now only being done piecemeal at the state and local levels — ensure nonsmokers the right to breathe clean air in their workplace," said Steven Stellman of the cancer society.

Stellman called cigarette smoking "the single most preventable cause of death in the United States today." He said the unfiltered smoke from a cigarette's burning tip contained most of the toxic components which the smoker inhales, and is rich in cancer-causing agents.

Ritter pointed to a Gallup poll released last December by the American Lung Association which he said indicated that a vast majority of adults supported the concept of designated smoking areas in the workplace.

The other co-sponsors were Reps. Doug Bereuter, R-Neb., Cardiss Collins, D-Ill., Howard Nielson, R-Utah, James Oberstar, D-Minn., Pete Stark, D-Calif., and Mike Synar, D-Okla.

The secretary of health and human services would solicit comment from labor and local health groups, and would be responsible for enforcement.

A companion bill has been introduced in the Senate by Ted Stevens, R-Ala.

Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., inroduced his own bill last month. Aides said his measure gave non-smokers more power than Ritter's and did not include the requirement that public health organizations' comments be solicited.

Tax Change Muddles Local Bond Market

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer

Like a quarterback struggling to throw the ball before he is tackled, McDowell County finance officer Susan Curtis is trying to get out a $1.5 million bond issue before changes in federal law make it pointless.

"We're trying to avoid any confrontation," she said as she worked on the bond issue, slated for new buildings at McDowell Technical College. "We want to get this out and sold before the laws change."

Proposed changes in federal tax laws threw the national bond market into turmoil last month and still have many local governments across North Carolina wondering whether the interest earned by those who buy their bonds will remain tax-exempt. Without that tax-exempt status, they say, few investors will buy the bonds. "It has basically stopped the bond issues," said John M. Barnes, assistant director of the North Carolina Local Government Commission, which regulates city and county bond sales. "But I don't think any project in the state really has been slowed down."

He said commission officials saw the changes coming last year and rushed to get cities and towns to issue bonds before it was too late. During the last six months of 1985 alone, some $3.1 million worth of bonds were sold in North Carolina. Previously, sales for an entire year have ranged from $1.4 billion to $2.5 billion, he said.

Last month, finance committee chairman Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., proposed that interest income from municipal bonds should be subject to the minimum income tax. The proposal rocked the bond market, which recovered a few days later when Packwood, House officials and U.S. Treasury officials agreed that the changes would not take effect before Sept. 1. The Senate committee later voted that bonds presently held would not be subject to the tax and that new bonds would not be taxed until Jan. 1, 1987.

But the major problem for North Carolina is a House bill that would remove bonds' tax-exempt status if the local government does not meet new, hard-to-follow provisions, Barnes said. They include requirements that:

- Any interest the local government earns from the proceeds of the bond issue above the interest it's paying must go to the federal government.

- All the proceeds of the bond issue must be spent on the project within three years.
- Five percent of the proceeds must be spent on the project within 30 days.

"That's no good. That's a road to nowhere," said Ms. Curtis. "It's hard to say if we sold (the bonds) today, what percentage I would spend in the next three months. We don't want to set up construction until we have the money, and that in itself is going to take time."

Other local governments in North Carolina are waiting to see what happens to the bond market and to the proposals in Congress. Many are wondering if they can meet the new standards.

"We're just waiting to see how that shakes down, what effect it's going to have on our bonds that are authorized but unissued," said Mitchell Clark, assistant finance director for Greensboro. "Some of them may turn out to be taxable and some may not."

Greensboro has some $31 million in bonds pending for streets and sidewalks, parks, museums and other projects, he said.

Formerly, the city could get the bond money and take a year and a half to get the project going, said Clark.

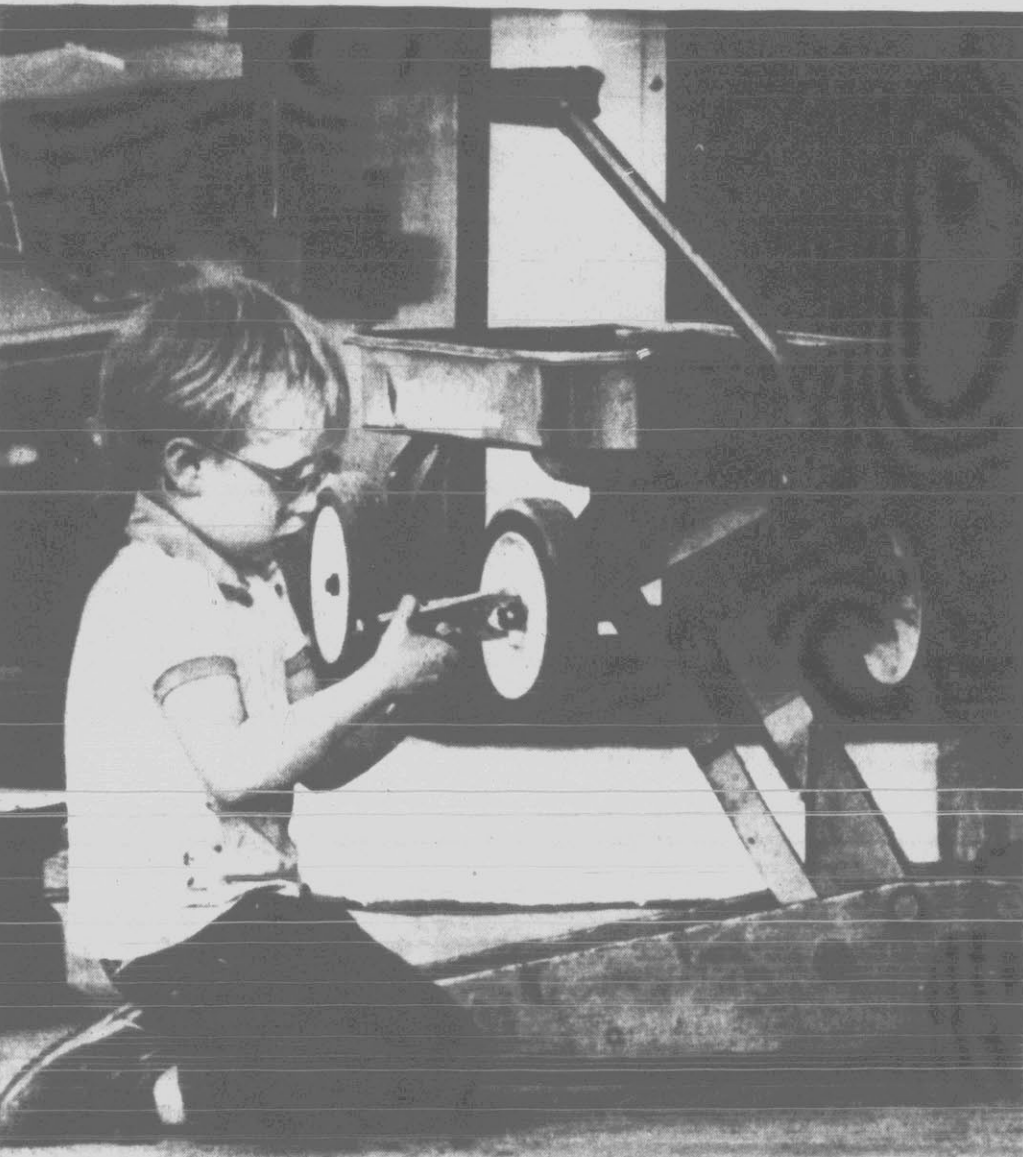

"The feds are saying now that's a no-no, you have to have bonafide commitments before you finance a project and you can only sell those bonds for funds you absolutely need, based on the contract," he said.

Wake County voters have approved bond issues totaling $104 million for schools, libraries, parks and other projects, said county manager Richard Y. Stevens.

and interest rates are as low as they have been and the investment market is ready for us to issue them, we'd like to.

"But even if Wake County goes to the market before Sept. 1 under the old (tax-exempt) rules, any bond issues in the future would have to follow the new guidelines," he said.

Those guidelines "restrict the ability of local government to fund new capital improvements," Stevens said. "It's particularly troublesome at a time when local government is facing severe cuts at the federal and state level."

Seat Belts 'Effective'

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's young seat belt law saved about 1,600 people from injury or death in car wrecks in the first three months it was in effect, but the law hasn't reached half its potential as a life saver, a researcher says.

"The benefits that we still could achieve are even greater than what we've already achieved," Dr. B.J. Campbell, director of the University of North Carolina's Highway Safety Research Center, told a news conference Wednesday.

"We haven't realized nearly half the potential of this law yet ... on the average a person a day dies in North Carolina from a lack of seat belts, and we're not saving all those people yet."

The law saved about 1,600 people from injury or death in automobile accidents the first three months it was in effect, Campbell said. Surveys taken in November 1985 and January and March 1986 showed compliance among front seat occupants at 42 percent to 44 percent, he said.

North Carolina's seat belt law went into effect Oct. 1, 1985, and covers front seat occupants of passenger cars, vans, utility vehicles and most trucks.

Gunman Fires At Ranger

FRISCO, N.C. (AP) — A 31-year-old Charlotte man who was shot at after he spotted a stolen airplane on a lonely airstrip on Hatteras Island says he owes his life to his training as a National Park Service ranger.

"For a while after it all happened, it made me mad to think a man had tried to kill me," said Ranger Henry McLain Anderson. "It took me about a half hour to get over it."

Anderson, a seven-year veteran of the park service, was shot at five times Wednesday morning, but was not injured, Dare County Sheriff Bert Austin said. Authorities say they have issued a warrant for the arrest of Vietnam veteran with special forces training.

A warrant issued today charges Gary L. Peterson, 47, of Scotland Neck, with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, Austin said. He said authorities had no indication that the suspect had gotten off the island.

Ingram Seeks FEC Ruling On Contest

By The Associated Press
Democratic Senate hopeful John Ingram says an implication in a newspaper editorial that he was using a contest to compile a voter registration list is "asinine."
The former insurance commissioner said Wednesday that he already had such a list, which was available to all 10 Democratic candidates for the Senate.
Ingram said he has asked the Federal Elections Commission to tell him if the contest he's sponsoring to boost interest in the May 6 primary can't legally be limited to people who vote.
Ingram said he wrote the FEC after a newspaper editorial had criticized his contest as unethical. Ingram called the editorial a "cheap shot."
"Our opposition, which is trying to throw mud at a good idea for our get-out-the-vote effort, has ended up with egg on their face and mud in their eyes," Ingram's letter said.
Last week Ingram announced that on election day, his campaign will hold a drawing of names mailed to his headquarters. The winner will receive a free weekend for two at the Blockade Runner motel in Wrightsville Beach or the Holiday Inn West in Asheville, Ingram said.

He said he would verify that the winner had voted by checking with the Board of Elections.
Ingram said a television reporter had told him the reporter asked the FEC about the contest and that the FEC said it was legal. But he said he sent the letter anyway.
In another development in the Senate race, Democratic contender Terry Sanford criticized the Reagan administration for rejecting tougher restrictions on textile imports.
The administration "has not even tried to enforce existing trade agreements," Sanford said in a news conference. Noting that nearly 100 textile plants and 25,000 jobs had been lost in North Carolina in 1984 and 1985, he said, "We just can't see our textile industry dry up and blow away."

Sanford said that Rep. Jim Broyhill, a Republican candidate for Senate, and his GOP colleagues in Congress had been ineffective in persuading the administration to support curbs on imports.
Broyhill spokesman Doug Haynes said, "Anyone who inspects Jim Broyhill's record will find that he has consistently stood up for the textile industry."
Meanwhile, Sanford aides displayed for reporters eight television commercials that call for new trade and farm policies and tout the former governor as a "truly special leader."
Broyhill, in a prepared statement, praised Reagan for signing Monday a budget reconciliation bill containing provisions to overhaul the federal tobacco program.
The bill will give growers "more security about the tobacco program so they won't have to worry so much about their future," Broyhill said.

Graham City Councilman Walt Atkins, another Democratic candidate for the Senate, picked up the endorsement of the political action committee of North Carolina Right to Life.
The endorsement was based on Atkins' "long and devoted work in the right-to-life movement," said David Osteen, chairman of the PAC.
Atkins opposes abortion on demand and public funding of abortions, and favors a constitutional amendment "protecting the right to life of all human beings, born and unborn," Osteen said.

In the 10th District congressional race, state Sen. Cass Ballenger, R-Catawba, said he had asked to take Broyhill's place on the House Energy and Commerce Committee if elected. Broyhill is ranking Republican on the committee.

Ballenger, who has two Republican opponents in the House race, said in a letter to House Minority Leader Robert Michel that keeping a North Carolina congressman on the committee was vital to the textile industry.

Wire Fraud Charged

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Three North Carolina men have been charged with wire fraud in connection with allegedly using telephone lines and numbers of a Mississippi company, the FBI said Wednesday.
The three have been charged with using a toll-free number leased by Telamarketing Communications of Mississippi, said Robert Pence, special agent in charge of the FBI in North Carolina.
Clients of the company, based in Jackson, Miss., are able to place calls throughout the continental U.S. through the toll-free number by dialing the number and using their assigned code number, Pence said. The company then bills its customers for the calls.
Joseph Criston Clemons, 32, of Rutherfordton, David Robert Brown, 23, of Charlotte and Troy Junior Morris, 30, of Marion were charged in indictments with placing telephone calls to various individuals in North Carolina between May 1985 and November 1985, Pence said.

If convicted, each man could receive a maximum of 5 years in prison and $1,000 in fines.
Chuck Richards, a spokesman for the FBI in Charlotte, said amount of the calls was in the "thousands of dollars. But we don't have any money figures yet."

New Wife Says Rios Innocent

MARSHALL, N.C. (AP) — Cherry Bales Rios says she wouldn't have married hometown sweetheart Jimmy Dean Rios if she believed he killed a North Carolina Highway Patrol trooper.
"I love him. This gives him something to live for. He's got a wife at home," she said after a visit Wednesday to the Madison County Jail.
"It's hard to walk out the door and know you have to leave him up there," she said. "You know you can't take him home with you. You can't stay with him. You've got to leave, and that's rough."
In a private jailhouse ceremony last month, Cherry Bales married Rios, who is awaiting trial on charges of killing state Highway Patrol Trooper Bobby Lee Coggins.

Coggins, 27, was shot Sept. 17 after stopping a truck on N.C. 209 near Spring Creek. Rios, 23, and William Bray, 21, were arrested and charged with first-degree murder after a three-day manhunt. The two, who police identified as Arkansas prison escapees, were later indicted on other charges stemming from Coggins' slaying.
Mrs. Rios, 18, is convinced her husband didn't do the shooting.
"I know who he is and I know what he is. I know him better than anybody. And I know he didn't do it," she said.
She said she met Rios about two years ago in their hometown of Charleston, Ark. Charleston is a little larger than Marshall, but when her fiancée broke out of prison there, it wasn't until the next day that she heard about it, she said.

Mrs. Rios didn't know where he was until she picked up a newspaper about a month later and read that Rios was being sought on a charge of slaying a trooper in North Carolina.
Three days later she heard over the radio that he'd been picked up in Madison County after a massive air and ground search. "That's about one of the roughest ways to find out," she said.
Mrs. Rios came to North Carolina in late December.

Modified Crop-Dusting Planes Help In Removing Foreign Drug Crops

Fire Ban

RALEIGH (AP) — State officials have lifted a ban on outdoor burning for 15 western North Carolina counties because of recent rainfall and the decreasing number of fires. State Forester Harry Layman said burning permits are again being issued in Mitchell, Yancey, Madison, Buncombe, Henderson, Rutherford, Polk, Haywood, Transylvania, Jackson, Swain, Macon, Clay, Graham and Cherokee counties. A ban on all outdoor burning continues for the rest of the state, officials said.

Artificial Nose

DURHAM (AP) — An artificial nose built by Duke University Medical Center researchers could lead to devices that detect polluted air or spoiled food, and could have far-reaching effects on the perfume industry, a scientist says. The artificial nose detects odors even at low concentrations in an attempt to explain why things smell the way they do, said Sidney Simon, an associate professor of physiology and assistant medical professor of anesthesiology. Receptors, molecules which react to odors, were taken from frogs and fused into a man-made membrane, researchers said. The membranes were then placed in a solution which contains salt levels similar to blood. Molecules from various substances are then introduced into the salt solution to see how the receptors react. The artificial nose allows them to study individual odor receptors. The research has found that the molecules, after coming in contact with an odor, generate an electrical response that travels to the brain to be interpreted as a particular smell.

Getrag Gears

RALEIGH (AP) — A German-owned firm that manufactures manual transmissions for the automobile industry will build a $6.5 million plant near Maiden, state and company officials said.

Getrag Gears of North American announced plans for the 35,000-square-foot plant Wednesday. The plant will initially employ 60 people.

The parent company of Getrag Gears, which is based in Sterling Heights, Mich., employs more than 3,000 European workers in the production of manual transmissions for BMW, Porsche, Daimler-Benz, Opel and other auto companies.

Indicted

RALEIGH (AP) — A 48-year-old Monroe restaurant owner has been indicted by a Wake County grand jury on 25 counts of tax evasion during 1982-84.

Archie Price was arrested Wednesday and charged with attempting to evade his state income taxes, according to the state Department of Revenue. Price was also charged with attempting to evade state sales tax between March 1, 1983, through Dec. 31, 1984.

No Arson

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Investigators say a fire at Ivan Secrest Wrecker and Crain Service that caused $1 million last week in damage was not deliberately set.

But Union County Fire Marshall said the cause of the Thursday fire hasn't been determined.

"We have revised the damage estimates from about $200,000 to more than $1 million," Stewart said. "General Telephone Co. had more than $200,000 worth of equipment stored in the building and a machinery company had three lathes valued at more than $225,000."

Church Burning

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 34-year-old Catawba County man has been sentenced to 12 years in prison after pleading guilty to burning a Newton church in December.

Superior Court Judge Robert Lewis of Asheville also ordered Michael Avery Lineberger of Catawba to receive any needed alcohol-abuse and psychiatric treatment.

ANDREWS, N.C. (AP) — A fleet of nine modified crop-dusting aircraft and their pilots are credited with keeping billions of dollars worth of illegal drugs from entering the United States, a State Department source says.

Nine Burmese pilots, who trained in this western North Carolina town last summer, returned to Burma in October and sprayed thousands of acres of illicit poppy fields with herbicides. The kill of poppy fields may have kept nearly 100 tons of opium, enough to make 10 tons of heroin, from reaching drug users, the source, who was in the area Wednesday with the crop-dusters, told the Asheville Citizen.

Drug fields also have been sprayed in Colombia, Mexico, Panama and Belize, wiping out an estimated 5,000 pounds of marijuana.

State Department officials say the year-old program — which they first thought would have minimal effects — now appears to be one of the most effective and inexpensive methods of battling illegal drugs.

The theory behind the use of crop-dusting aircraft is to stop the drug flow at the vegetation stage — to hit growers, as well as smugglers and pushers.

Since the program began in 1983 with one experimental fixed-wing aircraft, the State Department has spent $7 million to buy nine aircraft, spare parts, support contracts and training for pilots, the source said.

The countries supply the pilots, while the State Department supplies the aircraft and training. Some of the aircraft are given to the countries; others are on loan and rotated from country to country.

The Mexican government has spent nearly $100 million for 82 aircraft and helicopters and has made little headway in denting the drug problem. State Department officials believe six to 10 of the modified crop-dusters could do more to eliminate narcotics crops than all the helicopters and aircraft now in the Mexican fleet.

The aircraft are Turbo Thrush crop-dusters manufactured by Ayres Corp. of Albany, Ga., and are fitted with self-sealing fuel tanks and with armor plating to protect the pilot from ground fire.

The aircraft are also fitted with sophisticated, long-range navigational gear and communications equipment. They can carry 375 gallons of herbicide.

Governments of some drug-producing countries are realizing that drug money may be financing political unrest and "is creating a destabilizing effect" on their economy. They are also finding out "these guys (drug dealers) are crooks," the State Department source said.

Pete Lewis, a former U.S. Army helicopter pilot who is training manager for Ayres Corp., said the pilots from the host countries usually have 2,000 to 3,000 hours of flying time when they arrive for the 160-hour, 100-day course his company provides.

LaRouche Sees Illinois Victory As 'Mandate'

By NEIL McLAUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kremlin, international bankers, drug dealers and top White House officials might not seem to have a lot in common, but political extremist Lyndon LaRouche says they are all conspiring to ruin the Western world.

In what was believed to be his first public appearance since the Illinois primary, LaRouche on Wednesday outlined those theories and others to an audience of Washington journalists.

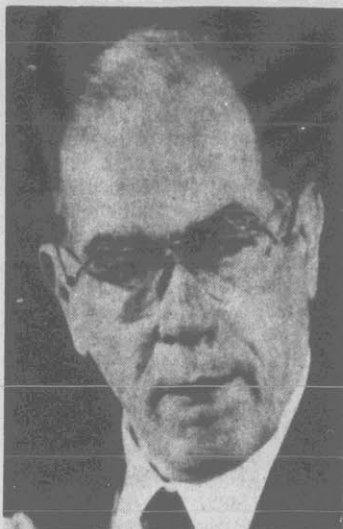

He also told reporters that the unexpected wins by his followers in the March 18 Illinois election had given him a mandate "to stick it to them in Washington."

LaRouche, who has declared his candidacy for the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination, made his comments during a news conference sponsored by the National Press Club. Such conferences are usually small gatherings of newsmakers and journalists in a semi-formal atmosphere.

But more than 100 reporters, cameramen and photographers flocked to the historic club to see LaRouche in one of the most unusual meetings ever held there. For about an hour, journalists heard him dramatically and energetically expound his highly unconventional views of modern affairs as his own bodyguards and security personnel hired by the club looked on.

Adlai E. Stevenson, winner of the Illinois Democratic Party's nomination for governor, has said LaRouche's views are neo-Nazi and that LaRouche's movement is fueled on bigotry and hatred.

Stevenson has refused to run on the same ticket with LaRouche supporters Mark Fairchild and Janice Hart, who unexpectedly won the Democratic nominations for lieutenant governor and secretary of state, respectively.

"Adlai is destroying himself by repeating these lies," LaRouche said.

LaRouche said descriptions of him as a neo-fascist and anti-Semitic "originate with the drug lobby or the Soviet operation — which is sometimes the same thing."

He also accused some reporters of being in league with the same conspirators and orchestrating a smear campaign against him.

When one journalist tried to get LaRouche to respond to allegations made in a televised report, LaRouche dismissed the question and snapped, "How can I talk to a drug pusher like you?"

During the meeting with reporters, LaRouche:

— Repeatedly contended that the Soviet government, the British government, drug dealers, members of the international financial community and American political officials are involved in conspiracies to destroy the Western world.

— Said that he and two other men were placed on a Soviet assassination list in the late 1970s and the other targets have been killed.

— Said he lives a nomadic and spartan existence because supporters shuttle him around to guard against attempts on his life.

"Therefore, I have lived an anomalous existence from safe house to safe house in which I'm unable to maintain any residence or maintain any orderly personal life," he said.

— Said the only way to stop drug dealing is to stop financial institutions that engaged in "laundering" illicit money and "you have to jail the bankers who do that — like Donald Regan, presently chief of staff at the White House — put them in jail where they belong."

The White House later issued a statement in response saying, "The charges are absolutely groundless and as outrageous as the source they come from."

— Said the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, a Jewish organization interested in civil rights and combating anti-Semitism, is engaged in "drug lobbying."

"Drug trafficking I couldn't prove, although they're associated with drug traffickers," LaRouche said.

"He lives in a world of goblins, ghosts, spooks and nightmare visions," responded Nathan Perlmutter, national director of the ADL, in a telephone interview.

Perlmutter called LaRouche's charges "insane."

— Said former Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos was ousted because he didn't listen to LaRouche's advice.

"For example, President Marcos was opposed to me and he fell as a result," LaRouche said.

Reagan Says 'Too Late' For Summit Next June

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, still wrestling with the size of the American nuclear Navy, has ruled out June for a meeting here with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev while again airing charges of Soviet cheating on arms control agreements.

"June is just about out now," Reagan acknowledged Wednesday night as he swept aside the month the U.S. and Soviet delegations had tentatively picked for their Washington summit at the president's initial "fireside" meeting with Gorbachev last November in Geneva.

Reagan's announcement, at a news conference, reflected continuing U.S.-Soviet tensions over an agenda despite three days of talks here between former Soviet ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin and Reagan and Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

The Soviets, led by Gorbachev, have maintained a drive to make arms control the centerpiece of the second summit and to have a new accord lined up before holding the session.

The United States, on the other hand, views Gorbachev's prospective visit to the capital as an opportunity to discuss a range of issues. The goal, Reagan said, was "to make some sizable and realistic gains in lessening the tensions" between the superpowers.

Reagan left open late July as a possibility for Gorbachev's visit, but flatly ruled out the four months through the congressional elections in November and seemed to suggest a summit toward the end of the year may be more likely.

A more imminent decision, one that he will have to make next month, is what to do about the U.S. nuclear fleet when a new Trident submarine begins sea trials armed with 24 nuclear missiles.

Unless two older Poseidon submarines, with 16 missiles each, or land-based Minutemen are retired, the United States will exceed the limit of 2,504 strategic nuclear delivery vehicles under the 1979 SALT treaty.

"We've had a lot of other things on our plate, so we just haven't made a decision on this," Reagan said.

Some of his senior advisers have recommended he permit the nuclear submarine fleet to expand beyond treaty limits. Reagan indicated his decision depended on his evaluation over the next month of the Soviet record on treaty compliance.

"I am waiting for further reports on the actual violations of the Soviets," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in the aftermath of Wednesday's volatile session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 3.96 to 1,774.66 in the first hour of trading.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 5 to 3 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The day's trading volume figures were swollen by the largest block trade ever on the Big Board — 48.79 million shares of Navistar International at 10.

The block included a 43.49 million-share secondary offering sold by institutions that had acquired the stock when the company, then known as International Harvester, underwent a financial restructuring in 1983.

Navistar shares subsequently traded at 10 1/8, unchanged from Wednesday's close.

 cept the House version or send the issue to a conference.
 Either way, Congress appears certain to make the first major changes in the 1968 law, which was passed after the assassinations of Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy.
 The retention of the interstate sales ban was proposed by Rep. William J. Hughes, D-N.J., sponsor of rival legislation to the Volkmer bill. Hughes' language deletes from the Volkmer measure a provision permitting sales of all firearms by a dealer in one state to customers from other states.

The Volkmer bill still would weaken the current law by allowing interstate sales of rifles and shotguns. But gun control and police groups have said all along that their major concern was with handguns.
 On Wednesday, Hughes created test votes that led to defeats for the gun control advocates.
 First, he offered a package that included continuing the interstate sales ban on handguns and retaining state and local government control over interstate transportation of pistols. It lost 248-176.
 Then he attempted to win the transportation provision standing alone. That effort failed 242-177.
 The Volkmer bill would permit interstate sales of all firearms and create a right to transport them across state lines.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., a member of the NRA national board, said the Volkmer bill "does not make it easier for criminals to get guns" but protects "law-abiding" citizens from burdensome regulations.

Rep. William M. Hendon, R-N.C., asked the House to uphold the Volkmer bill "for the good old boys in rural America who deserve reform of the Gun Control Act of 1968."

Rep. James A. Traficant Jr., D-Ohio, a former sheriff, said the Hughes language would "give a psychological edge back to our police officers."

The 4-2-1 system calls for creation of four single-member districts and election of two council members and the mayor at large. The 5-1-1 plan calls for at large election of one council member and the mayor at large and creation of five single-member districts. The 6-0-1 proposal calls for creation of six single-member districts with at-large election of the mayor.
 Each plan makes provision for two electable majority black districts as required by the Justice Department under the authority of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. However, minority districts proposed in the 4-2-1 plan have been questioned because percentages of black citizens in the districts are under the ideal 60 percent mark prescribed by the Justice Department.
 The 5-1-1 and 6-0-1 plans have received the most support from area minority citizens, whose approval of a plan is needed to secure Justice Department preclearance of changes in method of election.
 Carter said he feels that the council, after hearing input from neighborhood meetings held in March and the information meeting Wednesday, has enough information to come up with a reasonable election system for Greenville.
 According to City Manager Gail Meeks, the city hopes to take final action on an alternate electoral process for Greenville within the next 60 days.

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — Opposition leader Benazir Bhutto returned from exile in London today, and thousands of her supporters swarmed through the streets yelling anti-government and anti-American slogans as she paraded in triumph through the city.
 Ms. Bhutto, leader of the Pakistan Peoples Party and daughter of executed Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, was greeted at the airport by party officials. Huge crowds waited outside the gates.
 About 2,000 riot police armed with shotguns, rifles, clubs, teargas guns and wearing body armor and steel helmets ringed the airport and erected barbed wire barricades to keep back the crowds.
 The 32-year-old Ms. Bhutto, who is known to Pakistanis simply as Benazir, was mobbed by her lieutenants at the airport before being taken to a large truck equipped with a platform bearing a carved and gilded wooden throne to lead her welcoming parade.
 The excited crowds surged forward as the procession left the cordoned-off airport with people screaming "Benazir, Benazir" and "Socialist Revolution."
 People danced with joy in the street to the beat of wooden drums. Thousands more paraded with the black, red and green flag of the Peoples Party and pictures of Ms. Bhutto and her late father.

 Pakistan's president, Gen. Mohammad Zia ul-Haq, took power in a July 1977 coup, arrested elected Prime Minister Bhutto and imposed martial law. Bhutto was executed on April 4, 1979, after the Supreme Court upheld a death sentence imposed for conspiring to murder a political opponent.
 Asked how she was feeling, Ms. Bhutto simply gave an exultant grin and a double thumbs up sign as the crowd roared her praises, yelling "President Benazir" and "Welcome daughter of Pakistan."
 Up to 300,000 opposition supporters lined the streets taken by the procession or followed behind the convoy, frequently forcing the slowly moving vehicles to halt. The crowds cheered and clapped, and Ms. Bhutto waved and clapped back.

Johnson, Pirates Top Richmond

Winfred Johnson Sets NCAA Record

East Carolina's Winfred Johnson hit his 60th career home run yesterday to become the first NCAA player in history to hit 60 home runs and win 30 career pitching victories.

Johnson also hurled the win in ECU 13-4 win over Richmond for his 32nd career win. Johnson holds nearly every East Carolina hitting record, and is closing in on the few left.

RICHMOND, Va. — It took a while longer than expected, but Winfred Johnson finally became a part of NCAA baseball history Wednesday as he blasted his 60th career home run in leading East Carolina to a 13-4 romp over the University of Richmond.

Johnson, who also collected his 32nd career pitching victory in the game, became the first NCAA baseball player to collect 60 career home runs and win 30 career pitching victories when the final came.

"I'm glad to finally get it," he said later. "I hadn't felt any pressure, and I wasn't thinking about it. But I am glad that it finally came."

The Pirates, by winning the game, increased their Colonial Athletic Association record to 8-3 on the season. They are 27-4 overall. Richmond falls to 13-21 overall and 6-5 in the league.

"This was an important win for us because it was a conference game," Coach Gary Overton said. "This has to rank as one of our biggest wins of the year."

Earlier this season, Richmond and East Carolina has split a doubleheader in Greenville, and the win in Richmond gives the Pirates the edge over the Spiders should any tie occur between the two in the final standings.

I was finally glad to see Winfred hit that home run. The whole team and myself are very happy for him. To make it all the more sweeter is for him to throw a complete game. And what makes it even better for us is that it was on the road," Overton said.

Johnson scattered seven hits in gaining his eighth win of the year against three losses.

He also surpassed another team record in the game, raising his career runs scored mark to 128. The old record was held by Billy Best at 124. Best is now the ECU assistant coach.

Johnson is only 11 hits short of breaking the career record of 212 set by Todd Evans.

The Pirates took the lead in the first inning, scoring two runs. With one away, Greg Hardison singled to right. Johnson followed with a line drive to right center for a hit and when it was errored, Hardison came in to score and Johnson advanced to second. Mike Sullivan followed with a single to left, scoring Johnson.

But the Spiders quickly jumped on the Pirates and Johnson for three runs in the bottom of the frame. Brian Jordan reached on an error and Greg Harding singled. Kevin Sickinger doubled in Jordan and Rob Reid grounded out, scoring Harding with the tying run. Mike Zumbo then singled in Sickinger with the go-ahead run, 3-2.

East Carolina didn't let the Spiders gloat long, however, charging back in the third to score four and take a 6-3 lead. David Ritchie opened with a walk and Hardison doubled down the right field line. Chris Bradberry followed with a single, driving in both runs. Johnson then singled to right, scoring Bradberry. Stuningly, Johnson stole a base for the first time in his career, and scored when Steve Sides singled to center.

The Spiders got one more run in the fifth. After two were out, Harding doubled and scored on a hit by Sickinger.

The Pirates put the game away with three in the seventh. First came Johnson's homer, a blast to right field. That cleared the bench to congratulate to slap hands and exchange hugs for the historic moment.

But the Pirates weren't through for the frame. Sullivan followed with a walk and McGraw added a two-run homer, running the score to 9-4.

ECU then added two more in the eighth. Jim Riley reached on an error and Ritchie beat out a bunt. Hardison's slow roller back to the mound was thrown into right field and both Riley and Ritchie scored on the play.

Two more came in the ninth. McGraw's drive to deep right bounced off the fielder's glove for an error and Cockrell followed with a two-run

Giants Win 2nd In Row

By The Associated Press
Nobody's claiming any championships or predicting an unbeaten year. On the other hand, things are noticeably different around the San Francisco Giants.

For one, the record is a perfect 2-0. Certainly, that's nothing spectacular. But it sure beats a 100-loss pace, which the Giants went on early last season, the first year a Giants' team ever lost 100 games.

Rookie Will Clark and Bob Melvin each had run-scoring doubles and Jeff Leonard singled twice and scored two runs Wednesday night to lead the Giants to a 4-1 victory over the Houston Astros. The Giants, who had won only three of 15 previous games in the Astrodome, have taken the first two contests of the season there.

"I don't think the attitude is different, I know it," said Leonard. "Attitude and confidence, that's what was built in spring training and during the winter. They put it in our heads to have fun and to play fundamental baseball."

"We believe we can win. We had that pounded into our heads."

Manager Roger Craig, who finished the 1985 season at the team's helm, has insisted the Giants play fundamentally sound and aggressive ball.

"We are the same players but it's a different mental attitude," Leonard noted. "People say you have the same players as last year so how can you be any better?"

"But it's the power of the mind. That's the difference. We're not stronger or faster."

Elsewhere Wednesday, it was Los Angeles 1, San Diego 0 on Bob Welch's three-hitter, and Philadelphia 5, Cincinnati 3 in 11 innings.

Giants 4, Astros 1
Scott Garrelts, who made the All-Star Game as a reliever last season, blanked the Astros on two hits through five innings. He lost the shutout in the sixth on a double by Dickie Thon and a run-scoring single by Craig Reynolds.

Clark doubled to right field in the third inning, scoring Dan Gladden. Leonard singled to open the fourth inning, stole second and scored on a double by Melvin. Leonard led off the sixth with an infield single, advanced to third on singles by Chris Brown and Melvin and came home on a double play.

Garrelts had had to make a major adjustment from relieving to starting.

"I worked on three or four windups during the spring," Garrelts said. "I haven't felt real comfortable but I went out there tonight and it all fell into place. I was worried before the game throwing out of the windup, but after the first couple of innings I felt comfortable."

Dodgers 1, Padres 0
Welch allowed three singles in the series finale. All three games were low-scoring, one-run affairs — Los Angeles won the opener 2-1 behind Fernando Valenzuela's complete game; Dave Dravecky's three-hitter beat the Dodgers in Game 2, then Welch edged Andy Hawkins and the Padres.

Bill Madlock, Greg Brock and Mike Marshall singled in the fourth for the only run.

"The secret tonight was that I got ahead of them and I had good control," explained Welch, a 14-game winner last season.

Phillies 5, Reds 3

A four-run 11th inning gave Philadelphia the victory. John Russell's two-run homer capped the rally off Reds relief star Ted Power. Singles by Garry Maddox and Juan Samuel and Glenn Wilson's sacrifice fly broke a 1-1 tie. Third baseman Buddy Bell booted a grounder by Von Hayes to let in another run, and Russell provided the winning runs.

"He left it out over the plate," Russell said of Power's ill-fated slider. "It was good to hit the breaking ball because a lot of people have wondered if I can hit breaking balls."

Cincinnati came back with two runs off Steve Bedrosian, 1-0, in the 11th. The Reds loaded the bases with none out on a pair of hits and a walk, and Dave Concepcion singled home a pair of runs.

Bruins Nip Rose In 9th, 3-2

Blair Bass singled over a run in the ninth inning as Wilson Beddingfield upset Rose High School, 3-2, in a Big East Conference baseball game Wednesday.

The Bruins had rallied for a run in the top of the seventh to overcome a 2-1 deficit and force the extra innings.

It all left Coach Ronald Vincent unhappy. "We didn't play well. We left entirely too many men on base. We didn't go at it very hard today."

Vincent did praise the mound job done by Eric Jarman who went the distance in the game. "He pitched a terrific game. He's really a competitor when the game is on the line."

"But when we made a mistake, they jumped on it, and we never took advantage of the opportunities they gave us."

Vincent pointed to the sixth inning when David Daniels led off with a triple. But three infield outs — all by people who had earlier gotten hits — left Daniels standing without advance.

"We've backed ourselves into a corner now in the conference (Rose is 2-2). And we're going to see what kind of backbone our team has now."

Beddingfield struck first in the game, getting a run in the third. Charlie Atkinson reached on an error and stole second. Another error allowed him to move on to third. He scored on Russell Best's two-out double.

Rose, which had left the bases loaded in the second, came up with two runs in the fourth to take a 2-1 lead. Curtis Perkins led off with a single and was safe on an error at second on Scott Davis' sacrifice attempt. With one out, Robbie Ehrmann singled to score Perkins. Axel Smith then followed with a hit, scoring Davis.

But Rose failed to score again and the Bruins were there to take advantage of it.

Beddingfield tied it up in the seventh with one run. Best reached on an error and Bobby Raper arrived on a fielder's choice. Willie Woodard then singled Best over with the tying run.

Finally, in the ninth, the Bruins got the game-winner. Raper reached on a two-base error and was sacrificed to third. With two away, Bass singled, scoring Raper.

Rose went down in order in the bottom of the ninth.

Bass led the Beddingfield hitting with two. Daniels and Ehrmann each had three to pace Rose while Perkins added two.

The Ramrants play host to Kinston on Friday.

an 11-3 win over Farmville Central Wednesday night.

The Rams pushed over single runs in the first two innings, then struck for four in the third to put the contest out of reach.

Michael Griffin led off with a double and D. Radford doubled him in. T. Eason singled, scoring Radford. Eason then stole second and K. Gray doubled him in. Vance Head singled to score Gray.

Farmville came up with all three of its runs in the fourth. Greg May singled and Dennis Tripp got a hit. Both scored on a triple by Shea Terrell. Eddie Little then reached on an error, scoring Terrell.

Greene Central added four more in the bottom of the fourth and one in the fifth.

Head had three hits to lead Greene Central while S. Jones added two. Hugh Moore had two hits for Farmville Central.

The Rams are now 9-5 overall and 3-0 in league play. Farmville falls to 2-9 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

ROBERSONVILLE — Edenton High School rolled up an 11-7 Northeastern Conference baseball victory over Roanoke Wednesday.

The Aces took the lead in the second inning with one run and added three in the third. Roanoke came back to score twice in the fourth.

Edenton then put the game out of reach in the sixth, when Roy Ford hit a grand-slam homer to run the lead to 8-2.

Edenton added three in the seventh, while Roanoke got two in its half of the inning.

Ford and Scott Evans each had two hits for Edenton. Brian Butts added a two-run homer for the Aces. Gene Taylor, Mickey Knox and Charles Craft each had two for Roanoke.

The Redskins are now 5-3 overall and 2-3 in league play. They travel to Plymouth today.

Rose Girls Hand Fike First Loss Since 1984

Rose High School's 1,600-meter relay team nosed out Wilson Fike and handed the Lady Demons their first loss in track since 1984 in a tri-meet Wednesday.

The Rampettes finished the afternoon with 80 1/2 points while Fike finished with 71. Farmville Central picked up 15 1/2 points in the meet.

"Pam Smith had an outstanding day," Coach Dennis Gibson said. Smith won the shot and discus events for Rose. Kim Dupree added a pair of wins in the long jump and triple jump while Amy Moore won both the 1,600- and 3,200-meter runs. Gwen Barnes also helped the win running legs in the 400, 800 and 1,600 meter relays, all won by Rose.

Rose was the last team to down Fike in regular season competition two years ago. The Rampettes took six individual events as compared to seven for Fike, but Rose's sweep of the relays meant the difference.

D'Jaris Anderson was a triple winner for Fike, winning the high jump, the 100-meter hurdles and the 300-meter hurdles.

Rose returns to action on Saturday at the Fike Invitational.

The Pitt County Chapter of the Pirate Club will hold its annual banquet on Monday.

Scheduled speakers include football coach Art Baker, basketball coach Charlie Harrison and women's basketball coach Emily Manwaring among others.

The affair will be held at the Sheraton starting at 6 p.m.

Smith Takes New Post

The North Carolina Amateur Sports, host for the U.S. Olympic Festival for 1987, to be held in the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area, has announced the appointment of Ken Smith to the position of media relations.

Smith joins the NCAS after ten years at East Carolina University where he served in the capacities of assistant athletic director and sports information and marketing director.

The 37-year-old Smith is a Rockingham native and a 1971 graduate of the University of North Carolina. Among his duties for NCAS will be all media relations activities, liaison work with the U.S. Olympic Committee, establishment of a speakers' bureau and all aspects of writing of publication and documentation of NCSA activities.

While at ECU, Smith directed all activities for the Pirate Sports Network, the official radio outlet for ECU football and basketball, while also serving as the voice of the Pirates.

"I have mixed emotions in leaving East Carolina University," Smith said. "There have been many exciting and rewarding moments here and the growth I've seen is really hard to believe. Certain I desire continued success and development for the athletic program to reach the goals hoped for. But from a career standpoint, I do feel joining North Carolina Amateur Sports will prove to be a major step forward."

Remarks Help Spark Gminski

By The Associated Press According to the record book, Mike Gminski had a career night against the Boston Celtics. Boston Coach K.C. Jones begged to differ.

Gminski scored 41 points and grabbed 22 rebounds, career highs in both categories for the sixth-year center out of Duke, as New Jersey beat the Boston Celtics 108-98 in the NBA Wednesday night. The Nets thus joined the Philadelphia 76ers as the only clubs to hold more than one victory over the Celtics this season.

"As an athlete you go out there and sometimes feel you can't do anything wrong," Gminski said. "Things were flowing tonight. It's such a great feeling to have a game like this against a team like them."

The real "them" didn't show up, according to Jones.

"It's difficult to get up for a team like this," he said. "We're set for the rest of the season. We have the best record in the league. We didn't need it. The only reason we played it was because it was scheduled and we had to."

In other games Wednesday night, it was Sacramento 113, Utah 108; San Antonio 114, Phoenix 102; and the Los Angeles Clippers 132, Denver 127.

Gminski's outburst came a couple days after Nets Coach Dave Wohl had one of his own. He blasted his players in the local media for lacking the killer instinct and being underachievers.

"When players read things in the newspaper, it stings a little," Wohl said. "I think that's good. Sometimes players have to play a little angry."

It certainly worked for Gminski, who hit 15 of 23 shots from the floor and 11 of 12 free throws in bettering his previous scoring high by 10 points. His 22 rebounds was two better than his previous high.

"This was by far my best game as a pro," Gminski said. "I can't remember the last time I had a game like this. I used to light it up pretty good in high school, but obviously the competition here is a lot different."

Even though he questioned his own team's motivation, Jones had a pat on the back for the New Jersey center.

"He's quite a player, and has been for a while," Jones said. "He put on a real show tonight."

New Jersey won its second straight game, and moved a game ahead of Washington in the battle for sixth place in the Eastern Conference, by overcoming an 11-point third-period deficit. A 13-2 run got the Nets even at 69, and a 12-2 burst early in the fourth wiped out an 83-77 Boston advantage.

Otis Birdsong finished with 22 points for New Jersey, while Buck Williams added 10. Kevin McHale topped Boston with 18 points and Larry Bird added 16.

Kings 113, Jazz 108. Otis Thorpe scored 10 points in the fourth quarter, including seven in a row in the final four minutes, as Sacramento spoiled a 45-point performance by Utah's Adrian Dantley.

Ex-Coach Is Honored

BUIES CREEK — Former East Carolina baseball coach Earl Smith will be inducted into the Campbell University Sports Hall of Fame this spring.

The ceremonies are scheduled to be held on April 25 at the school's annual Athletic & Hall of Fame Banquet.

Smith, who coached five sports at Campbell in the late 1940s and early 1950s, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame along with Bob Vernon, a mid-1950s basketball star with the Camels.

Smith, a native of Micro in Johnston County, coached at Campbell from 1946-53. He directed the Camels football, basketball, baseball, tennis and cross-country teams. The Camels won three straight North Carolina junior college football titles from 1946-48. He also coached the 1948-49 and 1951-52 basketball teams to the junior college national tournament.

Smith left Campbell in 1953 to return to his alma mater, East Carolina, where he enjoyed a 20-year tenure as a coach in football, basketball and baseball. He was inducted into the ECU Sports Hall of Fame in 1977. He is also a member of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches Hall of Fame.

Smith presently resides in Fayetteville.

Evans Still Hot On Day Two

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
After leading the American League

last year with 40 home runs, Darrell Evans thinks he should play every day. So far, he has — but the season is only two games old.

"See, to me, I've played two games that have counted. This is my environment. Nobody can take that away from me when I'm out there on that field," said Evans, who is hitting .624 after Wednesday's 4-for-5 performance, which included two homers, four RBIs and a game-tying single in the bottom of the 10th inning as the Detroit Tigers edged the Boston Red Sox 6-5.

Evans, who turns 39 next month, is at odds with Manager Sparky Anderson, who insists that "everybody's going to play. I think it makes everybody closer. But the important thing is that they all have to be able to play. These guys all can play."

Milwaukee kept pace with Detroit in the AL East at 2-0 by nipping the Chicago White Sox 4-3. Minnesota is the only unbeaten team in the AL West after a 5-4 victory over Oakland. Elsewhere, it was Kansas City 7, New York Yankees 4; Toronto 3, Texas 1; Baltimore 4, Cleveland 3; California 9, Seattle 5.

Boston took a 5-4 lead in the top of the 10th off Willie Hernandez on a two-out walk to Glenn Hoffman and singles by Dwight Evans and Wade Boggs. Boggs was 4-for-6, including a two-run homer.

But Kirk Gibson, who is hitting .778, started the Tigers' 10th with a single and went to second when loser Bob Stanley walked Lance Parrish. Steve Crawford took over and was greeted with a single by Darrell Evans that tie the score. After Alan Trammell sacrificed, Mike Laga was given an intentional walk to load the bases and Chet Lemon forced Parrish at the plate but pinch-hitter Dave Bergman singled to score Evans with the winning run.

Bergman, a veteran utility man, is fighting for survival. Within a month, the Tigers will activate rookie Scotti Madison and bring up outfielder Pat Sheridan from the minors. Bergman figures to be cut. Considering the circumstances, he was asked if his game-winning hit was a bittersweet moment.

"Bittersweet is not a word I keep in my vocabulary," he said. "I never want to succeed at somebody else's expense. I always try to do the best I can because I want to help this team. I thought it showed a real vote of confidence for Sparky to send me up there in that situation."

Rampettes Paste Lady Bruins; Rams Post Win

Rose High School's girls' softball team had little trouble in disposing of Wilson Beddingfield Wednesday, 17-3.

The Rampettes got all they needed in the first inning of the contest, scoring four times. Gina Parrott led off with a hit, scoring on Vicki Parrott's double. Suzanne Tadlock singled in Parrott, but was out on Melissa Stanley's infield grounder. Melissa Pruden singled and Lori Powell got a hit to load the bases. Kim Bridges then reached on an error, allowing Stanley and Pruden to score.

VANCEBORO — West Craven, a member of the Coastal 3-A, outslugged North Pitt, a 2-A Eastern Plains member, in a non-conference softball game Wednesday, 15-14, in eight innings.

West Craven took the initial lead in the first with three runs, but North Pitt came up with eight runs, including a grand-slam by Keisha Pilgreen, in the second.

The Lady Eagles added on in the bottom of the second, but North Pitt got three more in the third. West Craven scored three times in the fourth and after North Pitt extended its lead to 12-7 in the top of the fifth, West Craven added four to close within 12-11.

North Pitt scored twice in the top of the seventh, but West Craven came up with three to tie it at 14-14.

Then, in the eighth, the Lady Eagles got the winning run. Fulmore tripled to open the inning and Burroughs and T. Fonville were both intentionally walked. The strategy worked as the next batter grounded into a force at the plate. But Puckett then singled to drive in Burroughs with the game-winning run.

L. Fonville led the West Craven hitting with three.

North Pitt was led by Pilgreen, who hit for the cycle with two homers, a triple, a double and a single. Regina Cox, Melody Harrington and Esther Witherspoon each added four hits while Clemmie Jenkins had three.

North Pitt is now 1-3 overall and travels to C.B. Aycock on Tuesday.

In The Spring Of Things!

Originally named for Jean Vuarnet, the 1960 Olympic Gold Medal winner of the men's downhill, Squaw Valley, California, VUARNET sunglasses were first created for skiers so they could protect their eyes, and see better in the snow, regardless of weather conditions. VUARNET sunglasses help prevent squinting by reducing glare from the sun and from the sun's reflection off the snow or clouds. In flat light conditions, VUARNET sunglasses aid seeing by means of a cadmium oxides treatment applied to the yellow base glass for depth-of-field perception.

VUARNET sunglasses are distortion-free, impact-and scratch-resistant, and 100% protective against ultraviolet rays. Today, "Vuarnets" are no longer the privileged domain of the skiing community: surfers, triathletes, back-packers, and other sportspeople claim "Vuarnets" as their only choice in glasses.

Brody's for men carries a large selection of Vuarnet sunglasses in all color frames and styles. We believe they are the only choice in sunglasses.

Embattled Ballesteros, Langer Aiming For Win

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — European champions Seve Ballesteros and Bernhard Langer want to set aside their other problems for a few days and concentrate on only one thing — the Masters golf tournament.

Ballesteros is under a one-year suspension for making too few appearances on the Professional Golfers Association Tour last year. Langer has to curtail his American schedule because of U.S. tax laws limiting the number of days a foreigner can work in this country without being required to pay taxes on worldwide earnings.

Both have won this major championship and both are confident they can win it again.

The 50th Masters opened today on the 6,905-yard, par-72 Augusta National Golf Club course with an international field of 88.

"I know this course as good as my house," said Ballesteros, the dashing Spaniard who won this event in 1980 and 1983.

"I feel very good," he said. "I'm very strong physically and mentally. I'm ready to win."

Langer, the defending champion, had complained of fatigue after appearing in 11 of the first 13 tournaments on this year's tour, but he took off last week.

"I feel a lot better now," he said. "My confidence level is pretty high. I really feel I'm here this year to win the tournament. That's my goal. I don't see any reason why I shouldn't be up there on Sunday."

If the West German is able to repeat as the champion, he would be only the second player in Masters history to do it. Jack Nicklaus includes among his record five Masters crowns two in succession in 1965 and 1966.

"I think it is just a coincidence," Langer said of the failure of others to repeat.

Ballesteros drew his suspension for playing in only nine tournaments. PGA Tour rules require participation in 15 tournaments to retain membership.

"They have too many rules," Ballesteros said. "It's more difficult to follow the PGA rules than to win the Masters."

Asked if he had any U.S. tax problems, Ballesteros quipped:

"I have no problems with taxes. I haven't made any money."

The biggest question mark concerning Ballesteros in the Masters is how he will play after not being in competition for a while. He said he expects no problem with that.

Brewers 4, White Sox 3

Robin Yount had four singles, scored once and drove in a run while Tim Lary held Chicago to five hits and two runs in seven innings as the Brewers won their second straight. Chicago starter Richard Dotson, sidelined most of last season, was tagged for five hits and four runs in six innings.

Milwaukee took a 3-0 lead in the fourth in on Rob Deer's bases-loaded grounder and Paul Householder's two-run double. The Brewers scored the decisive run in the seventh on singles by Jim Gantner, Mike Felder and Yount. Chicago's rookie John Cangelosi hit his first major-league homer.

against Ed Whitson, snapped a 2-2 tie and ignited a three-run uprising. It was the 194th home run of Brett's career, breaking the club record he shared with Amos Otis. Brett also homered off Bob Shirley in the seventh.

Farr relieved a shaky Charlie Leibrandt with one out in the fourth and retired every batter he faced except for Ken Griffey's eighth-inning single.

Blue Jays 3, Rangers 1

Doyle Alexander scattered seven hits in 8 1-3 innings for his 150th major-league victory. Tony Fernandez doubled home two runs in the fifth against 19-year-old Edwin Correa, the youngest player in the big leagues. Alexander took a five-hit shutout in the ninth but Pete O'Brien ruined the shutout bid with a home run.

Dantley pulled ahead of Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins in the NBA scoring race, building his average to 29.99 points per game. Wilkins is at 29.93. Each has two games to play.

Utah led 101-99 with four minutes remaining, but Thorpe scored seven straight points as the Kings outscored the Jazz 14-7 in the final four minutes.

Eddie Johnson led the Kings with 26 points, Reggie Theus added 21 and Mike Woodson 18. Thorpe's 10 points in the fourth quarter gave him 12 for the game.

Thurl Bailey added 17 points for the Jazz and Karl Malone had 15 points and 14 rebounds.

Spurs 114, Suns 102

Mike Mitchell scored 22 points and Artis Gilmore 20, including eight in the fourth quarter as the Spurs claimed the eighth and final playoff berth in the NBA's Western Conference.

The loss means Phoenix will miss the playoffs for the first time in nine seasons.

San Antonio, playoff-bound despite the worst record in its franchise history at 34-47, took the lead for good in the second quarter.

Steve Johnson, who had seven of his 19 points in the period, triggered a late 10-2 run for a 60-53 Spurs' halftime lead.

Mitchell's eight third-period points put San Antonio ahead 86-76.

Twins 5, A's 4

Kent Hrbek broke a 3-3 tie with a run-scoring eighth-inning double off Oakland relief ace Jay Howell. Hrbek, who also had the game-winning RBI in the season opener, doubled to score Kirby Puckett, who singled and was sacrificed to second. Hrbek scored on a single by Roy Smalley. Mike Smithson went the distance for Minnesota, allowing eight hits and retiring 16 consecutive batters at one stretch.

Royals 7, Yankees 4

George Brett hit two solo home runs and Steve Farr pitched 4 2-3 innings of near-perfect relief. Brett's first homer led off the third inning

Pinch-hitter Juan Bonilla hit a two-run double off the right-field wall with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning off rookie Scott Bailes, making his major-league debut. Cleveland had taken a 3-2 lead with two runs in the fifth against Mike Boddicker on Joe Carter's homer, Andy Allan's single, Brett Butler's grounder and Tony Bernazard's single. Don Aase earned the victory with two innings of hitless relief.

The loss means Phoenix will miss the playoffs for the first time in nine seasons.

San Antonio, playoff-bound despite the worst record in its franchise history at 34-47, took the lead for good in the second quarter.

Steve Johnson, who had seven of his 19 points in the period, triggered a late 10-2 run for a 60-53 Spurs' halftime lead.

Hospitalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Rudy Vallee will probably be hospitalized for several more weeks while recuperating from surgery for throat cancer, a hospital spokesman said. It was thought earlier that Vallee might be released next week from Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, said the spokesman, Ron Wise. Vallee, 85, was listed in fair condition Monday after two months at the hospital.

Shuttle Cabin Survived

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's crew cabin survived the shuttle breakup and nine-mile plunge to the ocean, but the seven astronauts probably died the instant the spacecraft began falling apart, experts believe.

A federal safety investigator told reporters Wednesday that the nose section containing the cabin broke cleanly away from the rest of the spacecraft and was intact until it struck the ocean surface, shattered and sank.

The crew probably died when the orbiter was subjected to very high gravity forces as it was tearing apart, said a source close to the investigation of the Jan. 28 explosion who spoke on condition of anonymity.

He said the orbiter was jerked violently to one side after a booster rocket broke loose at its lower joint and swiveled, turning its flame onto the external fuel tank, freeing its liquid propellants to mix into a raging fireball.

Since it was not known the precise point this occurred, it raises a question whether the astronauts lived one or two seconds, long enough to know something terrible was happening.

Even if the crew had survived the violent maneuver — a slim chance — gravity and aerodynamic forces from the first cabin tumble would have killed them, the source said.

When the orbiter's nose section "struck the water, it had some mass inside; that mass was the crew module," said Terry Armentrout, director of the National Transportation Safety Board's bureau of accident investigation.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration called on the board the day after the accident to help it learn the cause.

Firms Compete For Helicopter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's four largest helicopter manufacturers have paired off in teams in a competition to design a new aircraft to replace the Army's aging fleet of 7,000 Vietnam-vintage choppers.

McDonnell Douglas Helicopter Co. of Los Angeles and Bell Helicopter Textron Inc., based in Fort Worth, Texas, announced Wednesday they would join forces to design the Army's light helicopters of the 1990s and 21st Century.

Last June, Boeing Co.'s Vertol division, based in Folsom, Pa., and United Technologies Corp.'s Sikorsky Aircraft unit, based in Stratford, Conn., announced a joint venture to design the same helicopter.

The companies in the winning team will earn the right to compete against each other for production contracts in a program expected to cost $35 billion to $40 billion, Lt. Col. Craig MacNab, an Army spokesman.

The overall program, known as LHX for Light Helicopter Experimental, is intended to produce a high-speed, agile battlefield helicopter in two versions — a scout-attack model with automated weapons, communications and navigation systems and a utility model for ferrying troops and light equipment.

Armentrout said the NTSB would present its initial findings to the NASA investigative task force today. The task force also is to present its preliminary report to a presidential commission today.

The safety board report will have to be updated, Armentrout said, because so much wreckage remains to be retrieved. Only about 15 percent to 20 percent of the debris has been recovered from the ocean floor.

Submarines or divers still have not found the lower segment of the right solid rocket booster containing the joint that leaked a flame, causing the explosion. Investigators are considering several theories on why the flame escaped.

"We want every part of that right solid rocket booster we can get," Armentrout said. "The segment with the joint would be a very important piece of evidence."

Child's Play

American children did rather poorly on a recent test of physical fitness. Some people say life has become too "soft" for such children. It was not always so. At the turn of the century, two million children helped turn the wheels of U.S. industry. Children under the age of ten worked at their machines for as much as 16 hours a day. In 1802, Britain slowly began to regulate child labor. The United States passed the first federal child labor law in 1916.

Rumors Trigger Rise In Oil Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Lower-than-expected domestic gasoline and crude oil inventories, and the market's ever-sensitive ear for rumors have driven petroleum futures prices upward again, analysts say.

"You cannot trade this market," said Edward Dellamonte, an analyst at Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. "They overreact at everything. It shot up because of a rumor that the U.S. had attacked Libya. Then it shot down when that was denied."

William Byers, an analyst at the Bear, Stearns & Co. securities firm, also said the rumors "got the market running."

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for May delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, traded between $12.20 and $13.40 a 42-gallon barrel before closing at $13.00 Wednesday, up over Tuesday's $12.47 final price.

Among May contracts for refined products, unleaded gasoline was up 1.85 cents at 43.30 cents a gallon, while heating oil closed up 1.51 cents at 40.61 cents a gallon.

In recent years, Libya has been producing just over 1 million barrels a day, according to estimates contained in the Central Intelligence Agency's International Energy Statistical Review.

At the same time, various sources put the market's surplus of oil at somewhere between 1.5 million and 3 million barrels a day.

Accordingly, the market was temporarily encouraged by the possibility that a military conflict might force a Libyan production cutback, especially since it would come when the shutdown of strikebound Norwegian offshore oil rigs is already removing about 900,000 barrels daily from the market.

Wednesday's developments marked the third straight day of volatile trading.

On Tuesday, word that the Soviet Union had re-entered the market, after suspending sales over the winter, sent prices plunging $1.89 to $12.47 a barrel. This followed a $1.59-per-barrel gain Monday — to $14.33 — when traders were looking for tighter market brought on by the shutdown of Norway's production.

Some analysts said a closely watched weekly inventory report by the American Petroleum Institute, a Washington-based industry association, also contributed the day's performance.

The breakdown was released after the market closed Tuesday. Analysts said it showed unexpectedly large drawdowns of gasoline and crude supplies, indicating a potential for stronger U.S. demand — and hence higher prices.

Ed Silliere, an analyst at Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc., said: "The lowering of prices have brought people out to start driving again — and the (API) numbers definitely tell us that."

He said the latest API statistics show that demand for gasoline for the week that ended Friday was up 884,000 barrels a day, while domestic production and imports of gasoline only grew by 38,000 barrels daily.

He said projections made by his firm on the past 13-week period indicated that "the trend (for heightened demand for gasoline) is going to continue."

Meanwhile, in Houston, Shell Oil Co. announced a 75-cent reduction per barrel in the amount it would pay for six grades of crude oil, including West Texas Intermediate, at $14.85 a barrel.

Reagan Backs Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he and Vice President George Bush both believe the market should determine oil prices, despite Bush's statement that the cost of oil should not be permitted a "continued free fall."

Reagan's remarks at a news conference Wednesday night were his first public comment on Bush's controversial oil price declarations during the vice president's current tour of the Middle East.

"I have made a point to get exactly and specifically what he said. And I can't find myself quarreling with any of the remarks he's made," the president said.

While on his way to Saudi Arabia, Bush said of falling oil prices, "I think it is essential that we talk about stability and that we not just have a continued free fall like a parachutist jumping out without a parachute, and that's what essentially has happened to the price of crude oil in recent months."

Vietnamese Release 21 Sets Of Remains

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — The government today turned over to the United States 21 sets of remains believed to be those of Americans listed as missing since the Vietnam War.

Uniformed U.S. servicemen lined both sides of a C-141 cargo plane and saluted as the aluminum caskets were loaded inside for the trip to Honolulu. An American flag, folded in a tidy triangular shape, lay atop each of the caskets.

The Vietnamese also handed over to Americans at Hanoi's Noi Bai International Airport six identification tags and a small stack of identification cards of U.S. servicemen listed as missing in action from the war, officials said.

Most of the tags and cards belonged with the 21 sets of remains, they said.

Hanoi also provided unspecified documentation on three other unidentified MIAs.

It was the fourth return of remains since March 1985, equal to the total number of times Vietnam had turned over remains in the four previous years.

If Army laboratories in Honolulu are able to identify all 21 sets of remains as those of Americans, Hanoi over the past year will have repatriated a total of 56 sets of remains.

The U.S. Department of Defense has listed 1,792 American servicemen and civilians as missing in Vietnam.

Meanwhile, a senior Vietnamese Foreign Ministry official said the increased Vietnamese cooperation on the MIA issue "could be disrupted by any U.S. statement that discredits Vietnam."

Nguyen Can, acting head of the Ministry's North America desk, singled out a recent Voice of America broadcast that he said quoted U.S. Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Armitage as saying Washington would use military force if necessary to free any possible living Americans held in Vietnam.

The American delegation that came today from the U.S. Joint Casualty Resolution Center and the Army Central Identification Laboratory also discussed but failed to set a date for a proposed visit by a U.S. team to a site where the Vietnamese were excavating for remains of Americans who went down with a warplane.

The Americans had surveyed the site, a few hundred miles from Hanoi, in late February, Can said.

In one of the recent steps in dramatically increased cooperation on the MIA issue, the two countries conducted an unprecedented joint excavation of a warplane crash site near Hanoi late last year.

Senate Approves Charter For Vets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 94-3 Wednesday to give a federal charter to the Vietnam Veterans of America.

The bill, passed by the House nearly two years ago by a 3-1 margin, was blocked for a year in the Senate by conservative senators who objected to trips made to Hanoi by the group's leaders.

Last month, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 18-0 to approve the bill, which had been blocked by Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., a former Vietnam War POW. Denton dropped his opposition, clearing the way for the panel's vote.

On Wednesday, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., argued that leaders of the Vietnam Veterans of America had subverted U.S. foreign policy by laying a wreath at the tomb of Communist leader Ho Chi Minh in 1981.

Helms said he was also troubled by the group's policy of admitting vets who received less than honorable discharges from the military.

"The anti-American nature of these activities should not be rewarded, in my judgment, with the granting of a federal charter," said Helms, who was joined in voting "No" by Sens. John East, R-N.C., and Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.

Kerry and other proponents contend Vietnam Veterans of America is a legitimate representative of Vietnam vets.

Kangaroo is accused of illegally exporting up to 5,100 parts for military communications equipment on the U.S. Munitions List. Export of those items requires State Department approval.

Farm Land Values Fall 12 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average value of U.S. farm land plummeted 12 percent for the second straight year, but the decline is expected to level off in the coming months, the Agriculture Department says.

Land values posted a 12 percent drop in the annual reporting period ending Feb. 1, the department said Wednesday, matching the rate for the previous year that was the worst since a 19 percent decline in 1933.

The fall in the department's land value index marked the fifth straight year of dropping prices.

"Severe financial stress on many farmers with large debt loads, cautious attitudes of some farm lenders and the large number of acres offered for sale relative to limited demand" all contributed to the decline, the department said.

The survey found farm land averaged $596 an acre on Feb. 1, down from $697 last year and a peak of $823 in the early 1980s. The average includes a wide variety of acreage, from highly productive suburban tracts to semi-arid grazing land.

The department's index of farm land values, which compares land prices from year to year, now stands just slightly above its 1978 level. However, when adjusted for inflation, land values have retreated to the levels of the mid-1960s, the department said.

Farm land values rose substantially in the Northeast, where land can be used for development and is less dependent on crop prices for its value. But those increases were more than offset by large losses across the rest of the nation. Twenty-five states suffered declines of 10 percent or more.

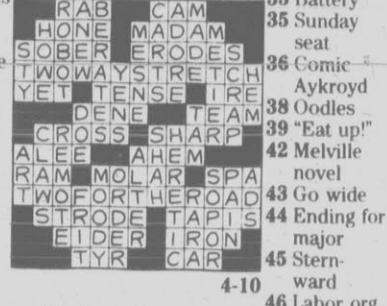

Taking the heaviest loss was Minnesota, where farm land values crumbled by 26 percent for the year. Iowa remained the most hard-hit state in the long term, suffering a 21 percent decline last year and a 59 percent drop since land values began to erode in 1981.

Bill Heneberry, a farm land analyst with the department's Economic Research Service, said the numbers were somewhat surprising to economists who had expected land values to begin leveling off.

World Population Expected To Double

WASHINGTON (AP) — Population growth will concentrate in the poorest nations as the number of people in the world doubles during the 21st century, new population studies project.

"Most of the large future increase in the world's population will occur in (less developed countries), including some of the poorest regions of the world — sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia," says Thomas W. Merrick, president of the private, non-profit Population Reference Bureau.

A pair of world population reports released by the bureau Wednesday indicate India is likely to surpass China as the world's most populous nation by the year 2100, while the United States slips from fourth to seventh place in the world population count.

Currently estimated at about 4.9 billion, the world's population is expected to top 10.4 billion by 2100. By contrast there were only about 2.5 billion people living on this planet in 1950.

"While growth rates have declined, (the) annual absolute increase in population continues to mount in many countries and will be large for several decades before tapering off," Merrick said in the study "World Population in Transition."

It was published in conjunction with the bureau's annual world population data sheet, detailing updated population characteristics for the nations of the world.

Merrick said that while future growth will be concentrated in developing countries, it is a concern for all nations.

"For the developing countries it is a question of whether they will evolve into a kind of permanent underclass at the bottom of a two-tiered world economy," Merrick speculated.

"For the more developed countries, now approaching population stabilization ... it may be difficult to continue as islands of prosperity in a sea of poverty in a world made smaller by modern transportation and communication," he added.

This separation, Merrick went on, will be more difficult to maintain, if these imbalances generate waves of immigration.

Of the expected 3.4 billion people to be added to the world's population by the year 2025, 3.1 billion will be in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

By that date some 83 percent of the people in the world will live in those areas, and only 17 percent in Europe, North America, the Soviet Union, Japan and the Pacific region combined, he reports.

Old Coke Is Back

CHICAGO (AP) — Coca Cola Classic is back by popular demand at the 7,000 McDonald's fast-food restaurants in the United States, officials say.

"McDonald's has switched to Coca Cola Classic because consumers, at least in this country, show a definite preference for Coca Cola Classic, and we feel we need to go along with these preferences," McDonald's Corp.

spokesman Charles Rubner said Wednesday night.

U.S. customers didn't prefer new Coke, which the hamburger chain began using in the United States and Canada about a year ago, shortly after Atlanta-based Coca Cola changed its decades-old formula, he said.

The switch at McDonald's came as no surprise at Coca-Cola's Atlanta headquarters, said company spokesman Carlton Curtis. "Coke Classic outsells Coke. It is understandable that they would want to offer the soft drink that is consumed by more of their customers."

'Mike Hammer' Returns As Two-Hour CBS Movie

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — No criminal is safe if tough private eye "Mike Hammer" shows as much persistence as executive producer Jay Bernstein did in getting the show back on the air.

The detective drama went out of business in February 1985 shortly after its star, Stacy Keach, was sentenced to serve a nine-month term in a British prison for smuggling 1 1/4 ounces of cocaine. He was released last June after getting time off for good behavior.

Bernstein has doggedly pursued his goal of getting the show back on the air. Last year, while Keach was still in prison, Bernstein visited 15 cities in 37 days and created enough interest to spur CBS to bring back the show for nine reruns.

Now, the original cast is back for a new movie, "The Return of Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer." CBS will broadcast the two-hour film Friday. Keach returns as Hammer, Lindsay Bloom as Velda and Don Stroud as Capt. Pat Chambers.

Reruns of the series will start playing Tuesday, April 22, for three weeks.

"I'm very optimistic about 'Mike Hammer,'" Bernstein said. "They're putting the movie on Friday night to give it a fair chance. We all agreed it would be unfair to put it on Wednesday against 'Dynasty' or on Saturday against 'The Golden Girls.' And Sunday, the only other movie night, was promised to someone else. So they're taking off 'Dallas' and 'Falcon Crest' and giving me Friday night. I can't remember when they've done that before."

"I also told CBS I couldn't bring back the same show. Too much has changed since it's been off the air. Some of the elements of 'Mike Hammer' have been picked up by other shows. ... Mike Hammer never worked for money. I'd always said Mike Hammer was Dirty Harry with a sense of humor. So NBC put on 'Hunter,' a Dirty Harry with a sense of humor. And ABC has 'Spenser for Hire,' which uses the voiceover."

So Bernstein came up with a new game plan for Mike Hammer, making him more like Raymond Chandler's Philip Marlowe.

"More like a mystery, as opposed to Dirty Harry," Bernstein said. "But we had a bigger problem. We had to make it more appealing to women. You can't succeed in television without getting at least two out of three of the major divisions of the audience — men, women and teens. We had to find things that would be of interest to women."

So Bernstein hired Lauren Hutton, who, he said, appeals to both men and women. He also hired John Karlen, who plays Mary Beth Lacey's husband on "Cagney & Lacey," and Stephen Macht, who plays Chris Cagney's boyfriend on the same show.

"I figured I had the men anyway," he said. "This is the story about Mike Hammer, a movie star played by Lauren Hutton, and Mike's affection for her 6-year-old daughter and how she is kidnapped while under his protection."

"I also wanted to add a little gloss. Hammer has never been out of New York in 24 episodes and three movies. We bring Hammer to Hollywood. He's a fish out of water. We also utilized stars (in cameos) who wanted to help get 'Mike Hammer' back on the air — Mickey Rooney, Bruce Boxleitner, Dabney Coleman and Dionne Warwick."

Aging Tough Guys Sharing 7th Film

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police cars raced into the train yard, the officers ready to do battle with a couple of aging tough guys.

An army of cops fired hundreds of rounds from rifles and shotguns at the two hijackers on board the grand old Daylight Limited. When the smoke cleared, Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster stepped down from the oil-burning steam train and headed for the shade of the train shed.

For the 69-year-old Douglas and 72-year-old Lancaster, retirement is out of the question. They are making their seventh film together, "Tough Guys," for Disney's Touchstone Films.

The two stars play oldtime robbers who return to an inhospitable Los Angeles after spending 30 years in jail. Bored with their humdrum lives, they return to their old profession of robbing trains. That sets off a chase that leads them and the train to the Mexican border, pursued by the cop who had once jailed them, Charles Durning.

The other day director Jeff Kanew staged the Douglas-Lancaster escape, with Durning's army of police firing at the two tough guys. A helicopter parked nearby whirred slowly, the sound of its engines almost obliterated by the deafening din of the fusillade.

The train started to move until the director called, "Cut!" The locomotive with its bright new paint was in the contrast to its surroundings. In the background were rows of other railroad cars, unvarnished and layered by years of smog.

The old Daylight, which once plied the Southern Pacific route between San Francisco and Los Angeles and became the Freedom Train during the U.S. Bicentennial, looked good. It stopped running in 1955 and now resides at a retirement home in Portland, Ore.

Lancaster stepped down from the locomotive first, an erect figure in a period pin stripe suit and snap-brim fedora. He spoke in his familiar, clipped sentences, mostly in admiration of the Daylight.

"What a wonderful locomotive," he said. "This one was built in 1940 and continued on the line until 1955. A bunch of railroad buffs completely rebuilt the engine so it works perfectly now. Look at the size of it! The locomotive weighs 237 tons. The wheels are 8 feet tall. It's a marvel."

He drifted off to his motor home and dressing room.

Lancaster is not very conversant on movie sets. Douglas is.

"What fun I'm having!" Douglas said. "This is making up for what I missed in my childhood. I never had trains to play with. The other kids did, but my family was too poor."

"Now look. I got a great big train for my own toy. I get to play cops and robbers with guns, police cars, even a helicopter. How could anybody be so lucky?"

The Douglas-Lancaster teaming goes back to just after World War II when they were brought from New York for contracts with Hal Wallis. They first co-starred in 1947 in "I Walk Alone." Ten years later, they played Doc Holliday and Wyatt Earp in the classic western "The Gunfight at OK Corral." They delved into George Bernard Shaw with "The Devil's Disciple" in 1959, followed by "The List of Adrian Messenger" in 1963 and "Seven Days in May" (1964).

Their last film together was the 1977 "Victory at Entebbe."

"Was Burt in that?" queried

Douglas. "I only worked only one day, and I didn't see him."

They also co-starred in San Francisco in a play, "The Boys of Autumn," appearing as Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn in their 60s.

"That was fun, but too strenuous," Douglas recalled. "We were both on stage the whole time, and I had to sing, dance and play the banjo. The play would have required a lot of fixing to take to Broadway, and it was just too much work."

Douglas, also dapper in a wide-lapel, pin stripe and fedora, remarked that he and Lancaster have remained friends over the years but don't often see one another.

"We used to play golf together, but in the past 10 years I've been playing tennis," he said. "Occasionally we'll have dinner, and if I need something I'll give him a call, and he does the same with me."

Kanew said the inspiration for the reteaming came at last year's Academy Awards when the two actors made an appearance together with Douglas' son, actor-producer Michael Douglas. The "Tough Guys" filmmakers found the ideal over-the-hill desperados.

"They are basically playing their own ages," Kanew said. "Burt doesn't want to be 'The Crimson Pirate,' and Kirk doesn't want to be 'Spartacus.' They're happy being what they are: Burt, quiet, withdrawn but with heart; Kirk full of crazy energy."

Bobby Returns
NEW YORK (AP) — Reports of Bobby Ewing's death may have been greatly exaggerated, but you'll have to stay tuned to CBS' "Dallas" to find out for sure.

The producers of the series on Wednesday confirmed speculation that actor Patrick Duffy, who portrayed Bobby, is returning. Duffy will appear in this season's finale and next season, but Lee Rich, president of Lorimar-Telepictures, said Duffy's role won't be announced.

At the end of last season, Bobby was hit by a car and seemed to die in a hospital room when he was taken off a respirator. This season, he was presumed dead and viewers occasionally saw his gravestone at the Ewing Ranch.

The Chairman of the Board (no, not Sinatra; Dick Frey, chairman of the Goren Editorial Board) has joined the host of bridge teachers and writers who are recommending five-card major opening bids. The new edition of his "How to Win at Contract Bridge in 10 Easy Lessons" (Fawcett Books, 305 pp., paperback, $3.95) has been completely revised, in keeping with modern methods. One of its most attractive features is its price—not many books make learning bridge so affordable.

Frey held the East cards in a recent rubber bridge game. North-South were using the methods Frey now propounds, and reached the excellent contract of four hearts. However, one slip at trick one exposed declarer to defeat, but it was essential for Frey to take advantage of it immediately.

West led the unbid suit, and declarer saw no harm in playing low from dummy. Frey soon showed him the error of his ways. He won the jack of diamonds and, flying in the face of the rule against leading up to strength, shifted to a club. West's king forced the ace, and the defense was a tempo ahead. He could not be kept off lead, and when declarer conceded a spade trick after drawing trumps, a club return netted the defenders two tricks in the suit for a one-trick set.

Note that declarer can land his contract by rising with the ace of diamonds at trick one. After drawing only two rounds of trumps, South cashes his high spades and concedes a trick in that suit. The 13th spade sets up for a club discard, and declarer loses only one trick in each side-suit.

Keeshan Seeks Show Backers

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Bob Keeshan, who for nearly 30 years was known to millions of young viewers as Captain Kangaroo, is looking for backers to return his show to television.

Keeshan's show went off the air last year after being moved to an earlier time slot and shortened to 15 minutes from the original hour-long format.

Keeshan said at a conference of the Virginia Association for Early Childhood Education that much of the current television programming for children "is designed to build the largest possible audience and to sell a product."

He also said Friday that he does not see any changes for children's programming on commercial television without federal regulations calling for more service-oriented programs.

The Pitt-Greenville Animal Shelter opened on July 1 and is located one mile south of Bells Fork of the County Home Road.

Pentagon Keeps Weapons Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, battling Soviet spies on one flank and congressional budget-cutters on another, is keeping more and more of its weapons programs secret, a trend that critics say stifles debate on how the military spends its money.

About $22.5 billion out of a proposed fiscal year 1987 defense budget of $320.3 billion will go for classified weapons, secret research and intelligence programs for which no explanation is offered either the public or Congress beyond briefings restricted largely to senior senators and representatives.

The classified military budget was $4.6 billion out of $158 billion in total defense spending in fiscal 1981, which was authorized before Ronald Reagan took office. The calculations were made in a recent article in the weekly National Journal.

Pentagon and congressional officials refuse to estimate the cost of "black programs," which include a variety of "Stealth" bombers, fighters, helicopters, cruise missiles and other exotic hardware.

The most widely publicized of them is the Advanced Technology Bomber, which will use Stealth technology to hide from enemy radar. Among the others are an advanced Navy attack plane, a Stealth cruise missile, a Stealth helicopter codenamed "grassblade" for the Army and a fighter reportedly built for the Air Force by Lockheed.

Other secret programs reportedly include Navy projects to develop more silent submarines, and an Army program to build anti-tactical missiles to hit short-range Soviet ballistic missiles, such as the SS-21 and SS-23.

One technique for hiding costs is to label the projects "special improvements," such as the HAVE program to incorporate Stealth technology into existing Air Force planes.

The administration says it keeps the weapons programs secret not to hide them from congressional scrutiny, but to avoid tipping the Soviets on the direction of U.S. military technology.

"Congress is fully informed on the so-called 'black programs,'" Pentagon spokesman Fred Hoffman said in a recent interview. "There is nothing being carried out surreptitiously beyond the sight of Congress."

The chairmen, ranking minority members and senior staff of subcommittees dealing with military matters get classified briefings on defense budget secrets, and there have been closed hearings on some programs, according to Hoffman and congressional sources.

Any IRA reduces the tax you sent to Washington, but only First Federal's IRA keeps your money at home.

Only First Federal's IRA assures you that your retirement money is to be used here in the local economy. That's because First Federal is the only financial institution that operates offices only in Pitt County. So with a First Federal IRA, your money works right here while you're working right here.

What's more, your tax-deductible IRA contribution at First Federal is insured by the same people who offer you the tax deduction: the FSLIC, an agency of the federal government. As an added bonus, First Federal's IRA investments generally pay higher interest than federally-insured investments at the big banks.

But those aren't the only reasons to open IRA at First Federal. Our customer service representatives are IRA specialists with the knowledge and experience to help you choose the right IRA investment. And unlike most banks, First Federal doesn't limit your investment choices. All First Federal investment products are available as IRAs; we can even help you set up a self-directed IRA that can include stocks and bonds purchased through our discount brokerage service.

When you add it up, First Federal is your first choice for your IRA. Higher rates, federal insurance and personable people, happy to help you choose the right IRA without limiting your investment choices.

And best of all, with a First Federal IRA, you know your money will be working here with you until you're ready to retire.

After all, your money shouldn't leave town before you do.

FIRST FEDERAL

The best place to bank.
