Soviet Union Scraps Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it is ending its self-imposed moratorium on nuclear tests because of continuing U.S. test explosions in Nevada.

A statement from the Soviet government published by the official Tass news agency said Moscow is itself free from the unilateral commitment made by it to refrain from conducting any nuclear explosions because Washington has ignored what it termed Soviet warnings against nuclear testing.

The statement did not say when the Soviets would resume underground nuclear test blasts, which are never announced or reported here.

A U.S. nuclear device was detonated Thursday 1,300 feet underground in Rainier Mesa, 93 miles northwest of Las Vegas, Nev. The last announced U.S. underground nuclear detonation was March 22.

The Soviets today accused

Washington of placing military ambitions over the interests of mankind.

In announcing that the moratorium was ending after eight months, the statement said, "At the same time, the Soviet government again reaffirms its proposals to start immediately talks on a full prohibition of nuclear weapons testing.

"The U.S.S.R. is prepared for any form of talks, any type of agreement on that score, provided things advance toward reaching agreement."

Today's announcement was not unexpected.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev imposed the moratorium last Aug. 6, the 40th anniversary of the U.S. atomic bombing of Hiroshima, and extended it twice. He said last month it would run beyond March 31 only until the United States carried out its next nuclear test blast.

Washington has rejected a test ban, arguing that testing is needed as long as the West relies on a nuclear defense.

Today's Tass statement said that "in the conditions that Washington is continuing its nuclear explosions, the Soviet state cannot forgo its own security and that of its allies."

It said, "Once again Washington has placed the egoistic, imperial ambitions of the United States military-industrial complex above the interests of mankind.

"The American government's irresponsible actions are an open challenge not only to the Soviet union but ... to the world as a whole."

The statement today made no mention of a second Soviet-U.S. summit due to take place this year, or how it might be affected by failure to agree on a nuclear test ban.

Tass said the Thursday test contradicted a joint statement issued by Reagan and Gorbachev after the

DR. FRANK H. LONGINO

HENRY OGLESBY

PCMH Unit Cites Longino, Oglesby

Retired Greenville surgeon Frank H. Longino was named winner of this year's Pitt County Memorial Hospital Foundation award for service to health care of the community, and Henry Oglesby was honored posthumously for his contributions to the hospital.

Both awards were presented during the foundation's annual $35-a-plate banquet Thursday night to benefit the hospital.

Longino came to Greenville in April 1956, and was one of only 35 doctors on the active hospital staff. He had previously spent 13 years at Duke University in internship and residency programs and had served in the U.S. Army from 1949 to 1951 at Fort Knox, Ky., and Walter Reed Hospital.

At the time of his retirement, he was a surgeon and vice chairman of the department of surgery and a clinical associate professor of surgery at the East Carolina University School of Medicine. He now serves on the hospital board of trustees and its building committee.

A past president of the Pitt County Medical Society and the Rotary Club, he has been chairman of the Greenville school board, the American Red Cross Pitt County Blood Program and the Pitt County chapter of the American Cancer Society. He has served the medical school on the search committees for the dean of the school and the chief of surgery.

He and his wife, the former Mary Darden Quinerly, have a son, Frank Jr., and two daughters, Ellen and Elizabeth.

A plaque honoring Oglesby, a Grifton resident who served as vice chairman of the hospital gifts committee, was accepted by his son, Patrick, of the Washington area. In addition to Patrick and his wife, several of Oglesby's relatives were special guests.

Khadafy Says He Feels 'Insulted'

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Col. Moammar Khadafy today said President Reagan's disparaging remarks about him were the words of an "old man," and that Reagan has no proof to back up U.S. charges that Libya is a major force in world terrorism.

He also said his North African nation is not afraid of America's military might.

Reagan, at a Wednesday White House news conference, labeled Khadafy the "mad dog" of Middle Eastern politics, and said the United States was ready for a retaliatory strike on Libya if the Arab country's complicity in two terrorist attacks last week is established.

On April 2, a bomb ripped a hole in a TWA jetliner flying over southern Greece, and four Americans were killed.

Last Saturday, a bomb devastated

West Berlin's La Belle discotheque, a favorite haunt of U.S. service personnel, and a U.S. Army sergeant and a Turkish woman were killed.

The White House has stopped short of blaming Libya's radical government of responsibility for either attack, but Reagan on Wednesday said Khadafy was "definitely a suspect."

Reagan refused to say what he plans to do, but said the United States is "not going to just sit here and hold still."

Late Thursday, two U.S. aircraft carriers were reported at sea in the Mediterranean, but sources in Washington said the Pentagon had yet to order a retaliatory strike on Libya.

Today, a smiling, relaxed Khadafy, dressed in an olive-green

Hunters Rescue French Hostage

BAALBEK, Lebanon (AP) — Hunters stumbled across a kidnapped French teacher in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley early today and freed him during a shootout with his captors.

The teacher, 42-year-old Michel Brian, was not injured in the gun battle on the outskirts of Baalbek.

The Syrian army, which controls the Bekaa Valley, took Brian to their intelligence headquarters at Anjar. They later were believed to have left with him in a military convoy heading for Damascus, the Syrian capital.

Brian told a reporter shortly after the hunters rescued him, "There was some gunfire and the kidnapers panicked and left me."

He told the reporters he was kidnapped Tuesday night in west Beirut by gunmen who forced him into a car. He teaches French at the College Protestant Francais, a private school in Beirut.

Three other Western teachers have disappeared in west Beirut since March 28, including an Irishman, Brian Keenan, 35, who was reported

Council Approves Rezoning Request

By DON REUTER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council approved a request to rezone approximately 35 acres on Allen Road from residential/agricultural to high-density residential at its regular session Thursday night.

The rezoning, which was being sought by Jon Day, an agent for STP Properties, was approved by the board 5-1, with Councilwoman Inez Fridley casting the only vote against the move.

Day said the rezoning of the area, which is located on the outskirts of the medical park, was a necessary decision.

"The area should be expanding, and the proximity to the medical park creates a need for residential use," Day said. "Future growth will have a positive effect on the area."

Area resident Jim Bullock, who spoke at the meeting, said the new zoning decision was appropriate.

"With the demand that's going to be made on the medical project, this would seem a proper zoning," Bullock said. "This will set a precedent in the area, and it is needed for the time when something will happen there."

Ms. Fridley said she opposed the move because no plans have been made to develop the area.

"I consider this speculative zoning," she said. "Unless there's something planned, the owners are having the area rezoned just so they can sell it for more money."

In other action, the board unanimously approved the appointment of Dick Brockett to the Board of Adjustment. Brockett, who had been an alternate on the board, takes over the position vacated by Don Brown, who relocated to Thomasville.

The council also unanimously approved recommendations that M. Douglas Caldwell, Daniel Bullock and Trenton Davis continue to serve BETHEL CITIZEN — Delton Perry (right) is congratulated by Sammy Carson, who presented Perry the Bethel Citizen of the Year Award at a meeting of the Bethel Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce this week. Perry operates Tri-County Feed Mills and has been active in rescue and ambulance programs in the Bethel area.

Delton Perry Chosen For Bethel Award

BETHEL — Delton Perry has been named Bethel Citizen of the Year by the Bethel Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

Perry, owner-manager of Tri-County Feed Mills in Bethel, is a fifth-year Bethel town commissioner who serves as police commissioner and fire commissioner. He is a former assistant chief and chief of the Bethel Fire Department and was instrumental in the formation of the Bethel Rescue Squad in 1958, a group with which he still serves. He also helped form the Pactolus Fire Department in 1961.

He and his wife, Ola Edmondson Perry, have two sons, David and Ken, both of Bethel. A member of the chamber of commerce, he serves on the Bethel Christmas Parade committee and has been a supporter of the Pitt County Schools' Adopt-A-School Program.

A Nash County native, Perry moved to Bethel in 1947 when he was a North Carolina Highway Patrolman. He has been active in Boy Scouts and Little League Baseball in the past and served six years as a Pitt County Hospital trustee.

He was the hospital board's original representative on the hospital ambulance committee which was instrumental in the formation of the ambulance department. He maintains his interest in this activity by serving as a part-time PCMH ambulance driver.

Study Shows Today's Adoptees Give Their Parents Good Marks

By CAROL DEEGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Today's young people who were adopted are seeing themselves in a more positive way than has previously been the case, Dr. Richard Detweiler, professor of psychology at Drew University, said in a talk here.

He was the main speaker at a recent meeting of the New York auxiliary of the Edna Gladney Home, a private adoption agency based in Fort Worth, Texas.

Detweiler, who is also vice-president for planning and communication at the university in Madison, N.J., is the author of a study comparing the perceptions about themselves young people with adoptive parents have, with those young people with biological parents have.

The study, "Does Adopted Mean Different?" was based on a questionnaire completed by a group of adopted and non-adopted people between the ages of 13 and 21 in the northern New Jersey area.

Detweiler said the study had not been made in the context of adoption, but rather, in the context of self perception, asking the basic question, "What do you think about yourself?"

Those queried were asked what kind of parenting they were receiving; how much they felt in control of their lives; what their view of the world was.

Detweiler found that in response to his questionnaire adopted children said their parents were more nurturing, expressed a higher level of comforting, and provided more "helpful interference" in coping with problems than did non-adopted children.

In addition, the adopted children had a more positive world view: they saw others in a more positive way and had a higher level of confidence than non-adopted children, he said.

Interestingly, he said, the pattern of responses "did not confirm previous research literature which indicated that adopted persons felt they were not in control of themselves, had low self esteem, felt isolated and had a poor self image."

Detweiler says he believes there are at least three basic reasons for these new findings:

First, a majority of the previous studies were conducted in a clinical setting, where adopted children were undergoing some form of counseling, whereas his study was drawn from a normal community setting.

Second, in the past, people may have expected less desirable behavior from adopted children, and these societal expectations may have become, in a sense, self-fulfilling prophecies for adopted children.

Third, parents are less secretive about adoption, and adoption today is seen in a more positive light.

"We are beginning to tap what is happening in a more contemporary world," Detweiler said.

But, he added, there is a need for more open-minded research.

"The bottom line is the notion that adoption is not abnormal, that adopted children are not predisposed to abnormality," Detweiler said.

"Adoption is a fact. We should accept it, not obsess about it, and be matter of fact, and we should have the same expectations toward adopted children as toward biological children."

Detweiler is completing a second, similar study, among adopted and non-adopted men and women between the ages of 21 and 76.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

If you are a reader who is under 35, you can skip this column.

If you are a reader who is over 35, try to concentrate.

Every day since the age of 35, those of us in this age group have lost approximately 100,000 brain cells. Quite simply, it means EVERY DAY of our lives, the pilot light diminishes, the elevator goes to fewer floors, it takes longer for the pot to boil.

How many of you have sat in a group and when another person was speaking was reminded of an hysterical story that tied in perfectly but couldn't tell it because you couldn't think of the tag line, "Mount Rushmore?"

How many of you have played Trivial Pursuit and sat there straining for the answer while your husband turned the lights off and your guests backed out of the driveway and headed for home?

Maybe I'm getting a little paranoid, but lately it seems my husband is baiting me. Out of the clear blue sky he'll look up from the paper and say, "What was the name of Fred MacMurray's housekeeper in 'My Three Sons'?"

"If you still have any feeling for me you won't ask me to do this."

"It was Bill something," he says.

"How about William Frawley?" I ask.

"No, he was the butler on ... what was that show with the three kids and the guy on 'Harcastle and McCormick'?"

"No, no, he had a beard and Frawley was bald and was ..."

"On the Lucy show. What was Ethel's real name?"

"Vivian."

"Blaine?" he asked.

"Vance. What was the original question?"

"I forgot."

Frankly, I don't know how much longer I can stay married to a man who is losing brain cells at the same rate as I am and from the same area. I don't know who to bring this up to, but I am ready to deal. Parting with a few memory cells is not my problem. It's the area. I'll trade my instant recall of my weight on my wedding day if I can resurrect the phone number of my mother without looking it up. I no longer need to remember our old address and our landlord when I was 9 years old. The house has been torn down and the landlord is dead. I would like to retain my Social Security and auto license numbers.

Our children have noticed that we have become more thoughtful, more reflective and quieter than we used to be. They say we give them more of an opportunity to talk. The truth is we're both sitting there going through the alphabet trying to remember names of their friends to inquire about. Sometimes when you hit a letter, the name jumps out of your subconscious.

My Mother never told me it would be like this. Maybe it was because she couldn't remember what it was she was supposed to tell me not to forget.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

If Children Refuse To Keep Out, Then Lock Them Out

DEAR ABBY: I am 60 years old and an incurable collector—baby clothes, news clippings, coupons, jars (cleaned, of course) and miscellaneous items. I box and store these items throughout my large house, in the attic, closets, under beds, basement—anywhere they are not in plain view.

My problem is not my collecting, but my children. They are all grown with homes of their own and find my habit distasteful. When I leave the house for work, shopping, vacation, etc., they clean me out. They go through my things and throw away what they regard as unnecessary and take for their own use whatever they want. They have discarded, or taken, some of my parents' belongings, baby clothes (special to me only), household items and my "junk."

I can't change the locks. My husband wouldn't hear of it, and gives me no support.

Don't think I'm trying to defend my habit. I know it's a quirk, but it's harmless. I'm trying to defend my privacy. If it were my husband doing this, I wouldn't like it, but it is his house as well, and I would have to respect his right to live in a clutter-free environment. My children, however, have no claim here and have no right to go through my drawers and closets and take my things.

Please give me suggestions as to how I can put an end to this. I'm afraid to leave my house.

Thank you for any help you can give me.

tent, functioning adult, if your children refuse to keep out, they should be locked out.

DEAR ABBY: Why all the letters about bald men? What makes people think a man needs hair in order to be attractive? And why should any man let his thinning hair grow long enough to wrap around his head six times to create the illusion of hair?

My husband is 33, and he's losing his hair but fast. Do I care? Heck, no! He gets more handsome and distinguished-looking every day. I can't wait until he is out of the military so he can start growing a beard. I think guys with beards and little or no hair on their heads are the sexiest-looking men alive.

Bald-headed men and flat-chested women have a lot in common. They feel embarrassed because of what they don't have. Some try to "fix it," which is OK if they think they need it. But once they wise up and realize that what they are has nothing to do with what's on their heads or what's up front, they are much happier, self-assured and together.

I am built like a 12-year-old boy, but my husband thinks I'm sexier than Dolly Parton.

Print this. So many people need to see it.

HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: And I am happy for you. You and your lucky man sound like a peach of a pair.

BARBARA

DEAR BARBARA: As long as your "collection" does not present a fire hazard, is not in plain view and inconveniences no one in your home, your children have no right to enter your home in your absence and clean it out.

Your husband's failure to support your right to privacy baffles me. You say, "It is his house as well, and I would have to respect his right to live in a clutter-free environment." Can it be your collection is actually an inconvenience and source of irritation to your husband but he has not verbalized it to you? Discuss it with him, and if that's the case, you owe it to him to stop collecting.

However, if it's as you described—"just a harmless quirk"—and you are a compe-

Miami Shootout Leaves 4 Dead

KENDALL, Fla. (AP) — FBI agents battled a group of people today in a furious gunfight that ended with four people dead and three agents wounded, a police spokesman said.

"We don't have anything official in the office," FBI spokeswoman Alina Martinez said. "We just know they were involved in some sort of altercation and we're trying to decipher what happened."

The names of the dead were not immediately available, said Al Carballosa, spokesman for Metro-Dade police. The three injured agents were rushed to area hospitals, he said.

Detective Larry Chilson of the Metro-Dade police said he had little information on the shooting at about 9:35 a.m. EST.

"There were reports of a lot of gunfire," Chilson said. "We're sending the troops out now. The whole world's going out there."

Dozens of officers, including Miami Police Chief Clarence Dickson, and FBI agents went to the scene. Some onlookers crowded onto a roof of a nearby building, while others milled around the cordoned-off area in a residential neighborhood of this Miami suburb.

Witnesses said they heard up to 100 rounds fired. One man said the gun-battle lasted 10 minutes.

"I was a couple of blocks away and I heard the shooting," said Charlie Davis, a Coral Gables firefighter who lives nearby. "It went on and on and on."

A man who said he lived near where the shootout took place told Miami radio station WINZ that there were repeated bursts of automatic weapons fire.

"There must have been about 100 rounds shot. At first I heard some noise like tires screeching, then gunshots going off," said the man, who didn't want his name used.

Police Use Tear Gas On Strikers

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — Police used tear gas to break up a demonstration today by 200 striking meatpackers and their supporters who blocked the main gate to the Hormel plant here, and seven people were arrested.

An unknown number of police were injured during scuffles, authorities also said.

About 300 protesters had begun the early morning demonstration outside the Geo. A. Hormel & Co. plant, blocking roads leading to the meatpacking plant, bringing traffic to a standstill and preventing workers from driving into the plant. The crowd dwindled when the arrests began.

The protesters linked arms and chanted, "We will not be moved," and "This is not Johannesburg" before about 100 officers began breaking up the demonstration.

A smoke bomb went off during the arrests, but it was not immediately known whether protesters or police detonated the device, which spread a pink cloud through the area.

Police said anyone arrested would be charged with a felony because of injury to law enforcement officers.

Hormel's corporate headquarters, across Interstate 90 from the plant, was not blocked.

Today's demonstration was the second large protest by supporters of the eight-month strike by Local P-9 of the United Food and Commercial Workers union. Union members from across the country have come to Austin to show their support.

On Thursday about 350 striking meatpackers and supporters staged a vocal but peaceful demonstration as more than 50 uniformed officers kept the protesters away from the plant gates.

"We thought the city of brotherly love should show we're definitely 100 percent behind our brothers and sisters in Austin," said Bob Myers, a member of Local 174 of the United Electrical Workers in Philadelphia.

Union representatives from New York, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Boston, Philadelphia and Minneapolis-St. Paul attended the Thursday evening union meeting.

"I said, 'You've got yourself a big rabbit then.'"

The teacher said he was abducted Tuesday near a west Beirut flower shop. French sources earlier had said he was kidnapped Wednesday morning as he walked to work.

"A gunman with a thick black beard came up to me and said in English, 'Don't talk, don't scream,'" Brian said. "Then he pushed me into the trunk of a Renault car. We drove for about 1 1/2 hours.

"Then we stopped. They put me in the trunk of another car, a bigger car, and we drove for about an hour. They put a blanket on the floor and covered me with another one."

Brian continued, "They took me to a house and asked me if I was a military man. Then they accused me of being an Israeli spy.

"I was blindfolded all this time ... I don't know who they are, whether they are Shiite Moslems or not."

An anonymous man called a Western news agency in Beirut on Thursday and said Brian had been kidnapped by a previously unknown group called the Siffine Islamic Organization. The caller did not state the group's demands, but said another statement would be issued after Brian's "interrogation has been completed."

Also Thursday, a handwritten statement purported to be from Brian's kidnapers was handed to a Lebanese reporter on the street in west Beirut. The statement did not identify the group holding the teacher or give its demands, but was accompanied by a photocopy of Brian's Lebanese residency permit.

Brian said he was not mistreated during his three-day ordeal.

"They showed kindness," he said. "I had everything I needed — water, medicine. ... I had a newspaper, I could listen to the radio and I could move freely around the room in which I was locked."

missing today. A spokesman for the American University of Beirut where Keenan teaches English said he failed to show up for classes and was feared kidnapped.

Two Britons, Leigh Douglas, 34, a political science professor at the university, and International Language Center director Philip Padfield, 40, disappeared March 28.

The hunters who rescued Brian came upon three or four gunmen sitting in a car with the Frenchman, who was blindfolded and had his hands tied behind his back. They apparently were trying to move him from a hideout in the Bekaa.

The gunmen drove off after dumping Brian in a ditch, blindfolded and bound.

"I was very lucky," Brian said. "I didn't know what was happening. I was in the ditch. Then these three men came up and took off the blindfold and released my hands."

The three hunters, all members of the Dandash family, took Brian to their home at Ras Baalbek, 17 miles northeast of Baalbek.

Hassan Mustafa Dandash, the head of the clan, alerted the Syrian army and called in a villager who spoke French to translate while they talked to Brian.

Brian said the hunters told him they had been out hunting rabbits.

Retaliation

President Reagan made it clear retaliation is not only in order, but is being discussed in response to terrorist actions linked to the government of Moammar Khadafy. The connection is hard to dispute.

The Khadafy government hosts and sponsors terrorist training camps; there is no doubt about that in the minds of most Americans and many Europeans as well as Middle Eastern governments.

There can be only one reason for that policy: to use them as a surrogate military arm for specific goals.

They can be financed, equipped and directed from embassies (tacitly acknowledged by Britain when expulsions followed a bloody terrorist incident, and more recently when West Germany ordered two Libyan diplomats out of the country after reading intercepted messages).

Khadafy himself implied the terrorist connection in an interview this week when he said if Libya is again attacked "we shall escalate the violence against American targets, civilian and non-civilian, throughout the world."

Since his army, navy or air arm is incapable of such action, it follows his only other recourse would be with terrorist tactics which could be carried out well beyond his borders by people already in place.

In his press conference, President Reagan was careful to avoid breaching most rules of secrecy so as to permit no clues as to what, when or where any retaliatory step might be taken.

If there's going to be a free world, the terrorist army must be eliminated. That "surrogate" army cannot exist without support from governments who can and will use it. That makes governments equally responsible for the tactics which are put into play.

Potential targets of any military retaliatory measures by the U.S. carry with them the possibility of women and children being in the line of fire ... something that runs counter to civilized behavior. But let us remember this is a war, and wars are basically uncivilized in that while the ideal is one of military force pitted against military force, the fact is that non-military populaces have inevitably been among the casualties.

Whatever the White House decides is a suitable response to Libya, the bottom line is going to be making the support of terrorism a losing proposition for the sponsors. When they decide it simply is not worth the cost, terrorists will be among the unemployed and hopefully their trade will fade from the scene.

Rainbow

There's one more rainbow in the economic skies of West Europe in forecasts of prosperity approaching boom levels.

The collapse of oil prices coupled with a slide in the dollar's value has seen business investments boom, record stock market rallies, interest rates declining and economic expansion. Even the unemployment rate is moving downward.

The combination has prompted hope for a new era of sustained prosperity. The United States stands to gain from this.

For instance, the new European prosperity is seen by some as meaning more outlays for imported American (and Japanese) goods.

And, if the new prosperity holds, down the road Americans may even envision a decline in foreign aid needs and ability among our allies to carry a larger share in costs of the common defense.

Still, it would be well to remember if all this can come from the fall of the House of OPEC, its rebirth could pull the rug out from under that renewed hope.

Veteran Fights For His Job

MARSHALL, Minn. — Rep. Vin Weber, who fought supply-side battles at the 1984 Dallas convention and met Contras in the Nicaraguan jungle in 1985, spent Easter recess 1986 trying to soften the anger of desperate farmers flashing danger signals of reverse realignment in the Upper Midwest.

The Minnesota 2nd, America's most rural congressional district, is no longer the safely Republican redoubt carved out after the 1980 census. Polls show deepening disapproval of Ronald Reagan. The Republican fall-off has made the Democrats the majority party in dying small towns with abandoned store fronts and farm land values not yet bottomed out. The ultimate specter: foreclosure and bankruptcy.

Reverse realignment is evident in Weber's stolid opponent, a life-long Republican who switched parties in February. Weber has temporarily abandoned the optimistic rhetoric used by him and other young congressional followers of Rep. Jack Kemp. In a climate where desperation could turn to violence, he might arouse a lynch mob talking about "morning in America."

"I like President Reagan, but I don't agree with everything he's doing," he tells audiences. He opposes Reagan farm policy and voted for rigid federal controls sponsored by building its case for U.S. retaliation. "We are investigating and trying to gather all of the information we can so that we can actually, with solid evidence, point a finger at who is responsible," Reagan told the American Society of Newspaper Editors. When an editor asked if that might be Khadafy, Reagan replied, "Let us say he is definitely a suspect." A few hours later, at his news conference, the possibility of retaliation was at the top of the list of questions. Reagan referred to "considerable evidence" of Khadafy's involvement in terrorist acts. "A kind of warfare, as he has called it," said the president, who referred to Khadafy as "this mad dog of the Middle East." A moment later, he said of Khadafy, "There's no question he has singled us out more and more for attack, and we're aware of that."

But he remained cautious on the question of retaliation. "We're not ready yet to speak on that," he said. There have been reports that a decision to retaliate has been made. A reporter, noting that Reagan had said any such decision would be dependent on what the administration learned, asked, "Do I take that to mean that you have not made any decision on retaliation yet?"

"It's not a question that I feel I could answer, except, that you all know that you've heard me on the record for several years now — that if and when we could specifically identify someone responsible for one of these acts, we would respond."

The attention now focuses on attacks which have left 10 Americans dead, nine of them civilians. They include the shootings in the Rome and Vienna airports last December, the recent explosion on a TWA flight approaching Athens and the bombing of a West Berlin discotheque frequented by American military personnel. A U.S. Army sergeant died in the last incident.

The explosion on the TWA flight and bombing in Berlin occurred since the clash in the Gulf of Sidra last month between U.S. and Libyan forces.

Reagan's tone seemed different now than it was, for example, after the October 1983 bombing of the Marine barracks in Beirut that left 241 servicemen dead.

While the president vowed immediately after the Beirut bombing that "this despicable act will not go unpunished," it soon became clear that the administration was finding it more difficult than expected to pin down who was responsible.

There was talk of Iranian involvement in that attack.

"The best evidence we have," Reagan told a news conference six weeks after that bombing, "you couldn't go into court and say that (Ayatollah) Khomeini ordered this, but what we do know is that a group that has been taking credit for these attacks and has claimed that they're responsible for many of them is a group that seems to be of some size that is definitely with an Iranian connection."

Five days later, he said in an interview, "One of the hardest things, of course, is to prove that the terrorist attacks are sponsored by a government."

That dilemma may exist still. But the president's remarks Wednesday suggested that the administration is more determined than ever to make a case that would justify retaliation.

When Airports Go Up For Sale ...

Since the Reagan Administration has put parts of the United States up for sale, everyone is bidding on our more valuable properties. A British company has tendered an offer through the N.M. Rothschild Bank to buy Dulles and National airports.

The Brits are willing to pay $1 billion. This seems like a lot of money if you're thinking landing strips. But it's a spit in the bucket if you're talking real estate.

Jeff Doranz, America's leading developer, hopes to outbid the British for the two airports. He believes that air terminals have a great untapped potential for mass housing.

"If you bought Dulles and National airports, would you tear down the present terminals?" I asked him. "On the contrary, the terminals are very decorative and fit in with our housing and shopping architecture.

"Will you still permit planes to take off and land?"

"We will not only permit it, but encourage it. What we'll be selling with our condominiums is access to the airports. We're aiming our sales at the person who is always on an airplane. As a matter of fact we want to put flashing signs at the ends of the runways which will say, 'If you lived here you'd be home now.'"

"Where on the field do you plan to construct your housing developments?"

He took out his blueprints. "Right here, along both sides of the runway. We want to make this place a family community. On warm nights we hope people will sit in their back yards, drink beer and wave at the passengers as they whiz by."

"The houses don't leave much room for the pilots to land," I pointed out.

"The pilots don't need much room as long as the townhouse gaslights act as beacons for them."

"Will the frightful noise be a negative factor for you homeowners?"

Doranz said, "Why should it be? Residents will have pride of ownership in what the airports do. When they hear a roar overhead they'll sleep better knowing People's Express is bringing another payload safely home."

I studied Doranz' blueprints. "What's this circle located in the middle of the runway at National Airport?"

"That's the golf course."

"You are seriously building a golf course on the National runway?"

"Where would you build one if you owned an airport? As the primary developers we don't have much space to work with. We have the Potomac on one side and this highway on the other. The only place for golf links is here, unless the government wants to sell us I-95."

"How do you play golf with all the planes taxiing up and down all day long?"

"Golfers who buy into the development will have priority over planes. Our flight tower will be instructed to hold up on all landings and takeoffs until the members play through."

"Where are you going to put the shopping center?"

"Here on the first three floors of our 40-story hotel and office tower. We have to build up because we can't spread out."

"Does that mean you will raze all these giant repair hangars?"

"Of course not. We're just going to move the planes out and the cars in. Airplane hangars make marvelous parking garages for automobiles. When you buy a terminal you have to use every inch of the ground for revenue. The reason airports are losing money these days is they spend too much on servicing planes."

"Tell me the truth, Doranz. If you buy National and Dulles airports from the government, will you still allow air traffic to use them?"

"We will for the time being. But all bets are off if we need another golf course."

Strength For Today

The ancient Greeks often said that an unexamined life is not worth the living. By that they meant if a person loses the power of self-criticism or never develops it, he denies himself one of the most helpful aids to personality and character growth.

It is easy to see the faults of others. Jesus speaks about the disposition of all of us to see the mote in our brother's eye while we do not perceive the beam in our own eye. Our Lord realized that self-improvement begins with self-criticism.

The person who spends his life admiring himself or herself dies, like Narcissus, of starvation. The person who has the courage to look into his own heart and confront the evils and weaknesses he sees there has not chosen the easiest of life's pathways, but the only one which leads to satisfaction and happiness.

Senate Delays Tax Plan To Await New Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican-led Senate, impatient with White House silence on a budget compromise, is telling President Reagan his cherished tax overhaul initiative will be on hold until a firm budget agreement has been reached.

The message, delivered Thursday in a 72-24 vote on a non-binding resolution, reflects growing election-year frustration in Congress over the deadlock on drafting a fiscal 1987 spending plan.

The action "was meant to continue to put pressure on the White House (and say) that we want to move on the budget," said Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn., a co-sponsor of the resolution.

"People back home are telling me, 'Get the horse across the river before you try to get the cart across the river,'" said Sen. Steven D. Symms, R-Idaho, another co-sponsor of the resolution.

"We cannot afford to wait around week after week while the White House decides if it wants to talk," said Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La.

Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and 12 other senators on the 20-member Finance Committee, which is working on the tax measure, voted in favor. Assistant Majority Leader Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., also was among those voting yes.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., Finance Committee chairman, opposed the move, calling it an "insane and insane approach" that was "demeaning to the committee" and aimed at delaying consideration of the tax bill.

But Packwood was one of only seven Republicans who joined with 17 Democrats in voting against the resolution. Democratic leaders indicated they opposed the resolution to avoid being portrayed as trying to scuttle tax overhaul.

The resolution, attached as an amendment to an unrelated measure, said, "It is the sense of the Senate that tax reform should not be considered or debated by the United States Senate until a firm, definite budget agreement has been reached between the president and the Congress of the United States."

On Wednesday, Dole said that if White House officials continue to shun a role in the budget debate, "Congress will have to go it alone."

In a nationally broadcast news conference that night, Reagan prodded Congress to meet its self-imposed April 15 deadline for passing a budget, but he gave no indication he was willing to give ground on his request for a major increase in Pentagon spending or his prohibition on general tax increases to trim deficits.

On March 19, a bipartisan majority on the Senate Budget Committee approved a spending plan which included $18.7 billion in tax increases while cutting the president's military spending request by $25 billion.

However, White House officials rejected the package, and nearly half the Senate's Republicans have expressed reservations about it.

Faced with such divisions, Dole has been searching for a way to begin talks — that would include administration officials — on a compromise.

With Democratic leaders in the House waiting to see what the Senate does, especially on the sticky issue of tax increases, congressional leaders have given up on the April 15 deadline.

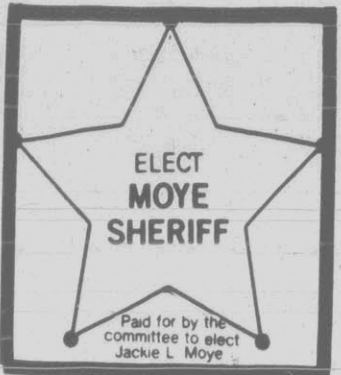

Meanwhile, Republican leaders also were trying to prod the House Democrats.

Dole and House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois urged House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., to join them in agreeing on a timetable for action that would break the budget stalemate.

"If we're going to walk off this plank, I'd like to have some company," Dole said.

Congress is considering budget matters this year under a law passed last year which is aimed at forcing a balanced budget by 1991. It requires Congress and the president to approve spending and tax bills that meet a deficit ceiling of $144 billion in the next fiscal year. If the target isn't met, automatic spending cuts would be imposed to meet the target.

Arkansas Milk Safe

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Dairy products in Arkansas are once again safe for consumption, according to health officials who checked samples from 1,207 farms and 276 retail stores for contamination from a banned pesticide.

A federal official, meanwhile, was quoted as saying Thursday that some farmers used heptachlor-tainted grain because it was sold for one-seventh the going rate of feed grain.

Fifty-three dairy farms in Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma remained under quarantine because of heptachlor contamination, said Mike Masterson, who headed a U.S. Agriculture Department task force that visited dairy farms in the three states last month. At one point, more than 100 farms were believed to be producing contaminated milk.

Congress Sharpens Ax For 1968 Gun Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stimulated by a gun lobby whose victory in the House was decisive but not total, Congress is moving to weaken the 1968 law that reflected Americans' outrage at the murders of Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy.

Shortly after the House voted overwhelmingly on Thursday to weaken many provisions of the law — but to retain a ban on interstate handgun sales — gun lobby strategists huddled to plan their next step.

At issue is whether the Senate should accept the House bill, or insist on a conference to water down or eliminate provisions won by handgun control forces.

Retention of the prohibition on interstate handgun sales was added to the House bill after heavy lobbying by gun control groups and uniformed police officers. They also succeeded in tacking on a ban on future possession and transfer of automatic weapons, but those currently owning machine guns would be allowed to keep them.

Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, sponsor of a Senate-passed bill that also would weaken the current gun law, said the House measure was a "positive step" but contains "some provisions that I don't support."

His office said he has not decided whether to accept the House bill. Rep. Harold L. Volkmer, D-Mo., sponsor of the House bill, said, "I'm going to recommend to the senators that they take it and run with it as is."

And the lawmaker who sponsored the gun control language, Rep. William J. Hughes, D-N.J., also predicted Senate acceptance.

The key vote on Volkmer's bill was 286-136, with support coming from 128 Democrats and 158 Republicans. There were 118 Democrats and 18 Republicans opposed.

After the opening day of House debate Wednesday, it appeared that the National Rifle Association and other pro-gun groups would sweep to victory with massive changes to the 1968 law.

Panel Urges Teacher Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teachers would receive certificates from a national board and their salaries increased to as much as $65,000 annually under draft proposals prepared by a private blue-ribbon panel.

The draft of the final report of the Carnegie Forum on Education and the Economy, which includes the heads of two major teachers' unions, says teachers' salaries should be based on productivity, competence, seniority and level of responsibility, not the number of graduate credits they have earned.

"Compensation should be based on proven competence, not time in the seat," the report said.

The Associated Press obtained a draft copy of the 74-page report, "Shaping Our Future: Teachers in America," scheduled for formal release next month.

On salaries, the forum suggested the following:

- $45,000 to $65,000 for lead teachers holding advanced certificates and working 12 months.
- $28,000 to $42,000 for advanced certificate holders who are not lead teachers and who work only 10 months.
- $21,000 to $35,000 for certified teachers, the majority of the teaching force, for 10 months' work.
- $17,000 to $23,000 for teachers without certification for 10 months.

It recommended that top teachers with advanced certificates be paid up to $65,000 a year for 12 months' work — almost triple the current average salary for teachers of $23,564.

The draft also called for abolishing the bachelor's degree in education and conducting all professional teacher education at the graduate level.

It also endorsed creation of a National Board of Professional Teaching Standards to grant teaching certificates to those who pass stiff tests, regardless of whether they had taken any education courses.

Teachers would still have to obtain licenses from states, but a board-certified teacher would have prestige and extra earnings power, akin to the board certification process for physicians.

The 14-member forum is headed by IBM vice president and chief scientist Lewis M. Branscomb.

Tobacco Price-Support Checks May Be Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have given little hope to tobacco-state farm leaders that cuts under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit-reduction law could be avoided for tobacco.

USDA officials insist that no final decision has been made, but they appear likely to reduce tobacco price-support checks by 4.3 percent this year to comply with Gramm-Rudman.

"They gave no hope whatsoever," said North Carolina Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan, who attended a meeting of farm leaders and USDA officials Thursday. Jordan was in Washington for a meeting of lieutenant governors.

In an interview after the private meeting, Jordan sharply criticized USDA officials for being more interested in finding budget cuts for Congress than representing farmers.

"The department is not representing farmers at all," Jordan said. Dallas Smith, director of the tobacco division of USDA's Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the department was still open to finding a way to avoid reductions in checks to farmers whose tobacco was bought by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. But he could not say what may be done to avoid the reduction.

George Dunlop, top agriculture aide to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., defended the department and insisted that Jordan was wrong in saying the officials in the meeting gave no hope of avoiding a cut.

But Dunlop acknowledged that "it appears that under any reasonable" interpretation of the new Gramm-

Rudman law, tobacco loans made by the Commodity Credit Corp. to Stabilization could not be treated differently from other CCC expenditures for other commodities.

Helms did not attend Thursday's meeting but met with the farm leaders Wednesday. According to several participants in that meeting, Helms lectured on the need to implement the Gramm-Rudman law, which he supported, and he said he saw little chance that tobacco could be exempted. Nevertheless, Helms promised to urge USDA officials to seek a way around the cuts, participants said.

At issue is the first round of automatic cuts ordered by Congress when it adopted the deficit-reduction law. USDA has interpreted the law to mean that all payments by CCC in the current federal fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, must be cut by 4.3 percent.

Under that interpretation, tobacco growers this summer, when they market tobacco that falls below the price-support level, would have the check they receive cut by 4.3 percent.

U.S. Rep. Charlie Rose, D-N.C., who sent a staffer to the meeting, said a "last ditch" alternative to the reductions might be legislation that would let tobacco officials offset Gramm-Rudman cuts with higher assessments for growers and buyers.

But Dunlop said with tobacco's many enemies in Congress, such legislation was not "practical or possible ... To go to Congress and ask for an exemption for tobacco from Gramm-Rudman would make us a laughingstock."

SYBIL MEEKS

Churchgoer Faces Charge

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — A Fayetteville woman who is suing the Cornerstone Baptist Church for allegedly driving away longtime members and misspending church funds has been charged with trespassing at a Sunday church service.

Sybil Meeks went to the Fayetteville Police Department on Thursday with her attorney to accept a criminal summons ordering her to appear in Cumberland County District Court on April 28.

Mrs. Meeks attended services at the church Sunday after being notified in February that the 400-member congregation had voted to forbid her from treading on church property. The February letter was signed by two church trustees.

Mrs. Meeks is one of six members and former members who filed suit in July 1985 against the church's minister and its deacons, accusing them of driving away longtime members, misspending church funds and "instituting an autocratic and dictatorial rule over the congregation."

The Rev. Samuel E. Edwards said the church trustees were instructed by the congregation to bar Mrs. Meeks.

Edwards said the congregation took the action against Mrs. Meeks after she allegedly disrupted services and continued to carry out a campaign to discredit the church.

She and another former member who was kicked out of the church had not been back to services until Mrs. Meeks attended morning and evening services Sunday, Edwards said.

Panel Backs Restriction On Access To Stun Guns

RALEIGH (AP) — Warned by several officers that providing stun guns to the public for self-defense could backfire, a legislative study commission has endorsed a plan outlawing the weapons for virtually all but law enforcement officials.

"In most situations you will find that unless there has been extensive training, an attacker will be able to disarm (people) before they can use it on the attacker," assistant Attorney General Eddie Caldwell, one of the devices' staunchest opponents, said Thursday. "I think you need to ask yourself if you aren't creating a false sense of security."

The proposed bill backed by the study commission would make stun guns harder to obtain than handguns, which can be bought with a license.

The proposal sparked disagreement among commission members, with some saying the action was premature and others saying stun guns were dangerous weapons that should be outlawed as soon as possible.

"I don't think there's any chance this bill can pass in this summer's legislative session," state Sen. Laurence

A. Cobb, R-Mecklenburg, said. "I don't think we've heard enough, and personally I don't think we've seen enough evidence of a crisis that needs to be solved like this."

The hand-held devices, which can immobilize a person for up to 15 minutes with an electrical current of up to 50,000 volts, can be obtained without a permit and are virtually unregulated by state law.

Several officers said the weapons could be turned on police officers. But some citizens and officers said stun guns were a better means of self-defense than guns and knives. They suggested the devices be regulated in the same way as handguns.

Under the proposed bill, endorsed by a 6-3 vote, violators could be charged with a misdemeanor and fined up to $500 and imprisoned for six months. The legislators also proposed that stun guns be classified as dangerous weapons when used in a robbery, a classification that could result in long prison sentences in such cases.

The proposal would allow stun gun manufacturers and carriers, military personnel, some federal civil officers and law enforcement officers to use the weapons.

State Going After Trucks

By The Associated Press
North Carolina truckers who speed or drive overweight vehicles are in for trouble — the state is buying portable weight and speed-detection devices from which CB radios and scale-dodging driving skills may not be able to save them.

When the equipment is in place July 1, the state will be able to clock and weigh drivers on back roads as well as on interstates.

The N.C. Division of Motor Vehicles plans to buy two weigh-in-motion devices, which include a computer-linked rubber pad and wires that stretch across the roadway. The devices, which cost about $25,000 each, can detect overweight trucks running at speeds up to 80 miles per hour.

The equipment measures the speed and total weight of each vehicle, counts and weighs each axle, measures the distance between axles — and beeps when it detects a violation.

"I'm real excited about it," B.N. Hopper, an assistant director of the division, said Thursday. "Instead of looking at every truck that goes by, we'll be able to weigh every truck that goes by. Quite simple."

Overweight trucks are a major cause of damage to highways. Hopper said the federal government estimated several years ago about 17 percent of the trucks on North Carolina highways were overweight, a figure he thinks is too high.

About 1 percent of the trucks are now being cited for being overweight, he said.

The state has 13 permanent weigh stations on its major highways. DMV officers also use portable scales, which they carry in their cars, to weigh trucks that they pull over.

Roadblocks

FRISCO, N.C. (AP) — Officials set up roadblocks and warned residents of Hatteras Island to lock their doors and make sure keys were not left in cars as a search continued for a man accused of firing shots at a park ranger.

Dare County Sheriff Bert Austin said a warrant charging Gary L. Petersen, 47, of Scotland Neck, with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, was issued Thursday. He said he thought Petersen, a Vietnam veteran with Green Beret training, was still on the island.

The warrant was issued after a Wednesday gun battle in which Ranger Henry McLain Anderson, a seven-year veteran of the National Park Service, was shot at five times after spotting what he believed to be a stolen airplane. Anderson was not injured.

A single-engine plane had been reported stolen Sunday from the Rocky Mount-Wilson Airport in Nash County, authorities said. The airplane had been spotted Wednesday morning by a ranger pilot flying on patrol.

Convicted

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Shortly after taking a last look at photographs of the battered body of a month-old girl, a Davidson County Superior Court jury found the baby's mother guilty of first-degree murder.

Sheila Marie Perdue, 19, who had appeared to be on the verge of tears through much of the four-day trial, cried as jurors were polled Thursday.

Superior Court Judge Thomas W. Ross sentenced Mrs. Perdue to life in prison.

Tammy Maranda Perdue, was found beaten to death March 11, 1985, in the Perdues' trailer west of Lexington. Mrs. Perdue, who had been at home alone with the infant, was arrested a few hours later and charged with first-degree murder.

The Pitt-Greenville Animal Shelter opened on July 1 and is located one mile south of Bells Fork of the County Home Road.

Witch To Sing

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — A self-proclaimed witch who has staged her own funeral, run for Morganton mayor and has been kicked out of a local Baptist Church now plans to seek fame by singing in Nashville, her manager and fiance says.

"As soon as I feel like we've got the right offer, we're going," said James Durham, a songwriter and musician who is managing Joann Denton's singing aspirations.

Durham says he was once a bus driver for Elvis Presley, whose ghost Ms. Denton claims to have talked to. He said the couple has tentative plans to marry in July at the Hall of Fame Lounge in Nashville, with Durham to sing several of his songs during the ceremony.

Ms. Denton has been in a running battle with county tax officials over tax-exempt status for her home, which she claims is a spiritualist church and parsonage.

She lost her mayor's bid in 1981 by a 10-to-1 margin despite casting her ballot in witches' garb before television cameras.

Durham said Ms. Denton will draw on her claim as a witch if it gets them in the front door in Nashville.

"Everybody in music has an image," he said. "Musicians generally cater to their image. It's going to have to be changed a lot from what it's been, from a bad witch to a good woman."

Jordan Says Tax Plan Breach Of Faith

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate proposal to end the federal deduction for state and local taxes "constitutes a breach of faith between the federal government and state and local governments," North Carolina Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan says.

Jordan said Thursday that Sen. Robert Packwood's plan would have a "destructive impact" on North Carolina, which ranks last among the 50 states in per capita receipt of federal funds.

Loss of the deduction for state and local sales and personal property taxes would make it tougher for state and local governments to cope with federal budget cuts, Jordan and five other lieutenant governors told a news conference at the Capitol.

"We recognize the need to make cuts, but for goodness' sake, don't send us the tax reform package on top of that," Jordan said.

The plan proposed by Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, would cost North Carolinians $137 million to $140 million annually in additional federal tax payments, Jordan said.

He said some of the eight or 10 North Carolina counties using federal revenue-sharing funds for their day-to-day operations will "turn belly-up" if revenue sharing expires next Oct. 1, unless the state comes to their rescue.

Packwood's committee is debating his plan to end the federal income tax deduction for state and local sales and personal property taxes, but to allow the full deduction for real property taxes and limit the income tax deduction claimed by upper-income taxpayers.

The House has approved a tax overhaul bill that would retain the full deduction for state and local taxes.

Other members of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors attending a three-day meeting here who spoke out against the Packwood plan were Leo McCarthy, D-Calif.; Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich.; Mike Runnels, D-N.M.; L. Douglas Wilder, D-Va., and Stephen A. McAlpine, D-Alaska.

Highway Contract

A contract to widen an 8.4-mile section of U.S. 13 between Snow Hill and the Wayne County line was awarded by the State Board of Transportation at its meeting in Raleigh today.

The contract, awarded to Barrus Construction Co. of Kinston for $640,299, provides for the highway to be widened by two feet on each side and resurfaced. Left turn lanes will be provided at the intersection of U.S. 13 and N.C. 58.

Work on the project could start as early as next month, according to board member Randy D. Doub of Greenville. Doub said drainage improvements and guard rail installation were also part of the contract.

The project is expected to be completed in about five months.

Circus Clown Carries On Family's Tradition

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Coco the Clown visited Greenville this week to bring the news, "The circus is coming! The circus is coming!"

Coco is the advance man for the Great American Circus, which he calls "a grand old-fashioned tent show." It will be held at The Plaza shopping mall at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. next Thursday.

A veteran of nearly 60 years in the sawdust rings, Coco, whose name is Michael Polakovs, is a third-generation clown. Born in Russia and reared in Great Britain, he is Coco III. His grandfather was the original Coco; his father, Coco II; his oldest son, Coco IV, and his oldest grandson, Coco V. His second son is Cocanut and his sister is Cocotina.

A resident of Ashland, Ky., during the small portion of each year he is not on the road, he is the first of his family to perform in the United States. His father was a star in Great Britain, a recipient of the Order of the British Empire, and the author of two books, "Coco the Clown," and "Behind My Greasepaint." Coco I lived and worked in Russia.

Coco III traveled with the Ringling Brothers circus from 1960 through 1971.

He grew up in the circus in England and obtained most of his education through correspondence. His career has taken him to every state in the United States except

Alaska and Hawaii and to every continent except Africa and Australia. He performed a bit part in Cecil B. DeMille's 1938 classic, "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Though he will be a clown as long as he lives, he plans to stay home more after his 65th birthday — not far off — and begin writing a book.

He described his mission in Greenville Wednesday as "seeing as many children as I can to tell them that my big red nose is leading the way — the circus will be here next week!"

The Greenville Optimist Club is bringing the circus here and is providing many children's tickets free. For information, call Wade Trask at Brown-Wood Pontiac or Bill Deans at Nationwide Insurance.

Pitt Planning Board

The Pitt County Planning Board will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the county office building, 1717 W. Fifth St.

Included on the agenda for consideration are: preliminary plats for Loftin Acres section II in Carolina Township on Secondary Road 1425, Arbor Hills section II on SR 1727 in Grimesland Township, and Vicksburg Section II on SR 1709 in Winterville Township; the final plat for Rolling Meadows section I on N.C. 33 in Grimesland Township; a discussion of perpetual maintenance of drainage in subdivisions, and a presentation on the proposed medical district plan by John Chaffee, director of the county development commission.

Arnold Will Speak

Judge S. Gerald Arnold of the North Carolina Court of Appeals will inaugurate East Carolina University's annual Distinguished Alumni Lecture series Monday at 8 p.m. with an address on university and institutional freedoms.

Arnold, an alumnus of the class of 1963 and president of the ECU Alumni Association, will deliver the public lecture in the auditorium of the Jenkins Fine Arts Center.

The lecture will focus on East Carolina University's commitment to service and a stance in support of academic and institutional freedoms, according to Dr. David Sanders, director of the university honors program and chairman of the Distinguished Alumni Lecture Committee.

Arnold will also speak this weekend to high school juniors and the newly-selected University Scholarship recipients at the "Scholars Weekend" banquet on campus Sunday evening.

Comet Viewing

The last Halley's Comet watch program will be held Friday from midnight to early Saturday at Goose Creek State Park near Washington, N.C.

Dr. James E. Gaiser of the physics department at East Carolina University, who will lead the program, said this may be the public's last chance to view the comet.

Gates at the park will open at midnight Friday. In the event of bad weather, the comet viewing program will be held on Saturday night.

Gaiser said the comet will appear at about 1 a.m. and will be visible for only 30 minutes. He said the comet will be very low on the southern horizon and will be difficult to see unless the sky is clear.

"It hasn't been as bright as I expected but it is visible to the naked eye," Gaiser said. He said binoculars provide the best view.

Gaiser said that by Sunday the comet will rapidly fade in brightness

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THIS IS A DRAMATIZED VERSION OF FACTS TAKEN FROM THE BOOK OF AMOS, CHRONOLOGICALLY AND AUTHENTICALLY CONSOLIDATED

AMOS • THE SHEPHERD TURNED PROPHET

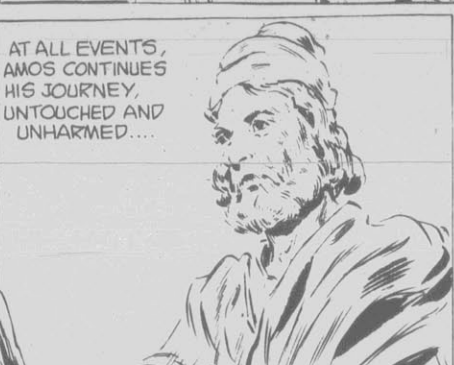

AMOS, THE HERDSMAN, HAVING BEEN COMMANDED BY THE LORD, TRAVELS NORTH TO ISRAEL TO PREACH TO ALL THE SINNERS, BUT DANGERS LURK IN THE WILDERNESS FOR ALL WHO TRAVEL THROUGH IT....

... OF WHICH AMOS SEEMS TO BE COMPLETELY UNAWARE ...

... IN THIS CASE, THE ROBBERS, WATCHING AMOS, DO NOT APPEAR ANXIOUS TO ATTACK—CAN THEY TELL, JUST BY LOOKING, THAT HE CARRIES NO WEALTH, OR DOES SOMETHING ELSE—SOME VOICE FROM WITHIN—KEEP THEM FROM MOLESTING THE HUMBLE HERDER?!

AT ALL EVENTS, AMOS CONTINUES HIS JOURNEY, UNTOUCHED AND UNHARMED....

... FINALLY, HE COMES TO PAUSE IN AN OLIVE GROVE, HIGH ABOVE THE KIDRON VALLEY, FROM WHENCE HE HAS A CLEAR VIEW OF THE GOLDEN CITY, JERUSALEM—WHERE RESTS THE ARK OF THE COVENANT IN THE TEMPLE! JERUSALEM—RICH IN THE HISTORY OF HIS PEOPLE, AND THE GREAT KINGS, DAVID, AND SOLOMON! BUT IT IS NOT FOR AMOS TO STOP HIS JOURNEY—FOR HIS ORDERS TAKE HIM FURTHER NORTH TO ISRAEL!

Q. What do we find in the part of the Bible called the New Testament?
A. We find the record of the life and the ministry of our Lord Jesus Christ in the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John. The story of the Church of Jesus Christ, its beginnings and early years of growth in the book of Acts. The letters the apostles addressed to different churches and individuals. The Revelation of Jesus Christ, a book of prophecy and warnings.

Stock And Market Reports

By The Associated Press
HOGS: Trend is steady to 75 cents lower at N.C. buying stations. Kinston, Spivey's Corner, Murfreesboro, Siler City and Robersonville, 39.25; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 39.00; Wilson 39.00; Rowland 39.50. Sows: (500 pounds up) Fayetteville 38.00; Whiteville 36.00; Wallace 39.00; Spivey's Corner 40.00; Rowland 39.00.

BROILERS: The North Carolina fob dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 47.25 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pounds birds. 99 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed with a preliminary weighted average of 47.56 cents fob dock or equivalent. The market is firm and the live supply is adequate for a good demand. Average weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 2,146,000, compared to 2,224,000 last Friday.

HENS: Market lower. Supply burdensome for a weak demand. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday was 9 cents.

GRAIN: No. 2 yellow shelled corn steady at mostly 2.58-2.68 in East and mostly 2.73-2.82 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans steady to 2 cents higher at mostly 5.20-5.33 in East and mostly 5.12-5.15 in the Piedmont; wheat mostly 2.96-3.17; new crop wheat 2.06-2.80, new crop corn 1.94-2.09, new crop soybeans 4.67-4.93.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today on talk of new declines in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 6.92 to 1,801.22 in the first hour of trading.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than 2 to 1 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The stock and bond markets have been given a lift this week by speculation that the Federal Reserve might soon reduce its discount rate, which stands at 7 percent. Today's economic news heightened those hopes.

The Labor Department reported that the producer price index of finished goods dropped 1.1 percent in March. And the Commerce Department said retail sales declined 0.8 percent in the same month.

Analysts said a sluggish economy, with inflation at bay, provides a nearly ideal setting for further moves by the Fed to relax its credit policy.

Even though rates have lately fallen to their lowest levels since the 1970s, many observers believe their is room for them to fall further as long as inflation does not revive.

Behind the Libyan leader, who was seated in an easy chair, about 100 students chanted anti-American slogans. Outside the tent, camels grazed.

"I don't worry about his (Reagan's) declarations, particularly what he said about me personally," Khadafy said, speaking in English. "He's an old man."

Khadafy was also asked about the possibility of the U.S. 6th Fleet's return to challenge Libya, and replied, "You have to go and tell Reagan we are not afraid of the United States."

"I think we would understand each other if we were together," said Khadafy. "I can convince him because I'm right and he's wrong."

He said Reagan has "no evidence" that Libya is involved in international terrorism. But the Libyan leader said that training Palestinian fighters "is another matter."

The Arab nation is believed to harbor bases where Palestinians fighters are trained, and the United States accuses Libya of supporting the renegade Palestinian faction in Rome and Vienna on Dec. 27 that left 20 dead.

"We support their right to liberate their homeland," Khadafy said. "What we teach him (each Palestinian) is to liberate his homeland."

Pirate Rally Downs Tar Heels

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The University of North Carolina zoomed out to a 5-0 lead on the shaky pitching of East Carolina's Jim Peterson Thursday night at Harrington Field.

But Chris Bradberry and Jim Riley keyed a five-run rally and Peterson found new life as his Pirates rallied for a 9-6 win over the Tar Heels in the contest.

A standing-room-only crowd of mostly Pirate fans cheered on their team as they rocked four different Tar Heel pitchers in the game.

Home runs by Devy Bell and Steve Mrowka had helped the Tar Heels score five times in the first four innings to take their comfortable lead, but Bradberry came up with a homer in the bottom of the inning and Riley followed with a three-run double to bring East Carolina back from the brink.

Four more runs in the next three innings put the game away for the Pirates, who extended their record to 28-4 with the win.

Peterson, now 7-2, was banged around a lot early, giving up eight hits in the first four innings. Coach

Gary Overton admitted afterwards that he was within one pitch of being out of the game on a couple of occasions.

But once the Pirates got back into the game, he suddenly reached back and found new strength. Over the final five frames, he yielded only three more hits and just one run.

"Jim gave up a lot of hits early, but when we came back, he became a better pitcher," Overton said. "He battled them and did a superb job."

Overton was also very pleased with the way the rally came together. "Jim Riley's three-run double was just great. It couldn't have come at a better time, and I guess if there is such a thing as timely hitting, that was it."

Overton also praised the play of the Tar Heels. "They swung the bats very well, as well as anyone we've played. It was a credit to their offense that they did what they did, and not a discredit to Jim or the rest of our team."

"When you fall behind a good team like Carolina, it's tough to come back, but we did. It's a good win for us. I can't call it a big win, because our conference wins are all big for us. But it is a good win."

The victory also drew the Pirates closer to the so-called magic number of 30 — the number most observers feel a team must reach to have any NCAA hopes. "I think we've probably gotten there a lot quicker than most people thought we would," Overton said.

The Tar Heels pushed ahead in the second inning on a solo homer by Bell that led off the inning.

Then, in the third, they added three more to lead 4-0. The first came on another solo shot, this by Steve Mrowka. Mike Jedziniak followed with a single and Scott Johnson got a hit. Both were sacrificed up and scored on a double by Matt Merullo.

The Tar Heels ran the lead to 5-0 with one in the fourth. Chris DeFranco led off with a single, moving to second on an error. He took third on an out and scored on Mrowka's sacrifice bunt.

East Carolina, held hitless through the first three innings, came back with five in the bottom of the fourth to tie it up.

Greg Hardison led off with a walk and Bradberry followed with a hard smash into the trees in left center.

Winfred Johnson then doubled to center and with one away, Jay McGraw walked. After a pitching change and another out, Mark Cockrell walked, loading the bases.

Number nine hitter Jim Riley then cracked the ball over the head of the center fielder for a double, driving in all three runners to tie the score at 5-5.

The Pirates struck for the lead in the fifth. Hardison again led off with a walk, but was picked off first. Bradberry walked and Johnson was intentionally walked. After a second-out, a walk to McGraw loaded the bases.

Steve Sides then laid down a bunt on the third-base line, beating it out for the single and scoring Bradberry.

"The bunt was all Sides' idea," Overton said later. "We've told them they can drag if the situation is right and it was. Their third baseman was playing back and it was perfectly executed."

Cockrell then beat out a slow roller off first to score Johnson for a 7-5 lead.

The Pirates got one more in the sixth. David Ritchie became the third straight leadoff batter to walk and with two away, Johnson was again given an intentional pass to first. But Mike Sullivan, who had fanned three straight times, fouled up the strategy by getting a single, scoring Ritchie.

The Tar Heels came back with one in the top of the seventh to cut it to 8-6. With one down, Johnson doubled to center and after a second out, Merullo singled him in.

But the Pirates came right back with a counter run. Cockrell led off with a walk and was sacrificed up. With two away, Greg Hardison beat out an infield hit and when the ball was also overthrown at first,

Cockrell scampered home with the ninth ECU run.

Mrowka, Jedziniak, Johnson, Bell and Merullo each had two hits to lead the Tar Heel attack. No one had more than one for the Pirates.

North Carolina drops to 19-13 on the year with the loss.

East Carolina will close out its current home stand with a single game against Mt. Olive on Saturday at 1 p.m.

Lady Pirates Ink 3 Cagers

East Carolina University Women's Basketball Coach Emily Manwaring has announced the signing of three high school players to letters of intent.

Sandra Grace of High Point, Irish Hamilton of Beulaville and Tammy Laney of Monroe are the first Lady Pirate signees since the spring signing period began April 9.

The 6-2 Grace is the tallest of this year's signees. The High Point Central star averaged 15 points and 13 rebounds per game her senior season, one that saw Central post a 21-3 record and capture a conference co-championship. Grace was a first-team All-Central Piedmont selection her junior and senior years while also being named All-Guilford County those same seasons. She was also Guilford County Player of the Year her senior season and will play in the East-West All-Star game this summer in Greensboro.

"She should soon become a dominating rebounder and inside scorer," Manwaring said. "We expect her to be able to contribute immediately. She has great athletic potential as a Division I player and will make her presence known on the court."

The 5-5 Hamilton played for East Duplin High School where she averaged 10.6 points, 4.4 rebounds and 5.7 steals per game. She was voted to the East All-Star team by the North Carolina Coaches Association.

The two-year East Duplin most valuable player also received the U.S. Scholar Athlete Award sponsored by the U.S. Army. Hamilton was voted team captain her junior and senior years and was named East Duplin's Most Athletic those same years.

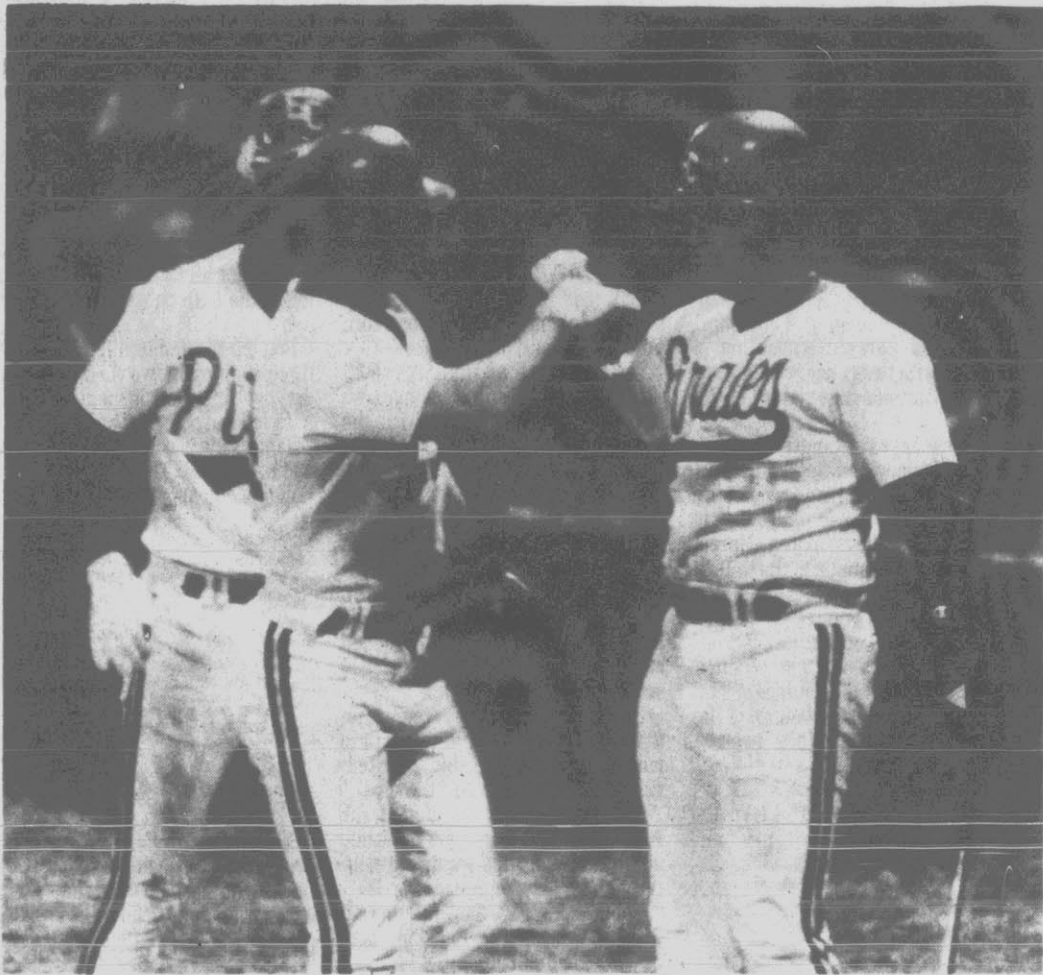

"Her quickness and overall athletic ability will be an asset to our defensive scheme," Manwaring said. "We expect her to develop into an outstanding floor leader at the point."

Laney, a 5-8 guard from Parkwood High School, averaged 20.3 points and 8.2 rebounds per game her senior season. She was named conference Player of the Year during 1986 along with earning all-county honors. Laney was the team's most valuable player the past two seasons.

"She is expected to help fill the offensive void left by the loss of our three senior guards," Manwaring said. "Her 20-point average and three 31-point games are an indication of her capabilities."

Manwaring is expected to sign two more players next week.

NFL Is Taking Its Show On Road Overseas Again

LONDON (AP) — The National Football League is embarking on a series of games around the world, with the first stop a return visit to London this summer.

For the time being, at least, the games will involve the league's traditionally U.S.-based teams. But NFL officials would not rule out the long-term possibility of franchises in Europe and Japan.

At a news conference to promote the preseason game between the Chicago Bears and the Dallas Cowboys in Wembley Stadium Aug. 3, Joe Rhein, the NFL's director of administration, said the league wants to promote itself outside North America.

"The league's long-range planning committee and the clubs both approved the concept of staging a series of games over the next several years here, in Europe, in Japan," Rhein said. "What the exact chronology of those games will be, we don't know. But the idea is to try to go into as many different areas as we can."

The game between the defending Super Bowl-champion Bears and the Cowboys, nicknamed "America's Team" for their success over the last decade, "is our first step," Rhein said. "We are very interested to see how we'll do."

Tex Schramm, the Cowboy's president and a member of the NFL Competition Committee, said that to talk about international franchises at present was "probably jumping too far ahead."

"I'm involved in our sport and I'm proud of it, and we think it would be great if it became a world sport, where there was a team that was England playing a team from the United States," Schramm said. "It would be a super-Super Bowl."

"You'd like to think you could look down that road to that day."

The game the Bears and the Cowboys play is referred to here as "American football" or "gridiron" to distinguish it from soccer, known simply as "football."

Whatever the name, the sport has made a lot of fans in England in recent years. The St. Louis Cardinals and Minnesota Vikings attracted some 33,000 fans when they played an exhibition at Wembley in August, 1983. A weekly television show featuring an hour of highlights of the past weekend's NFL games is a ratings winner and a live telecast of the Bears' Super Bowl victory over New England attracted millions of British viewers.

Brewers Rally Past White Sox

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Bambi's babies, alias the Milwaukee Brewers, seem to be growing up fast.

The Brewers trailed the Chicago White Sox 5-1 after six innings Thursday but rallied for two runs in the seventh, one in the eighth and four in the ninth, capped by Ernest Riles' three-run homer, to post an 8-5 victory and complete a season-opening three-game sweep.

"Everyone on this ballclub believes. Now we've got to make the rest of the teams believe," said Riles, who batted .286 as a rookie in 1985 but hit only five home runs — he already has two this season — in the Brewers' sixth-place finish in the American League East. Thanks to Oakland's 3-0 triumph over Oakland, the Brewers are the only unbeaten team in the league.

The New York Yankees, who trailed Kansas City and Bret Saberhagen 5-0 after 4½ innings, also staged a dramatic rally. Don Mattingly singled home the tying run two out in the ninth and Dale Berra squeezed home the winner in the 10th to give the Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Royals.

In other AL action, it was Boston 4, Detroit 2; Toronto 11, Texas 10; Baltimore 5, Cleveland 1; Seattle 5, California 2.

Milwaukee began its rally on Robin Yount's two-run double in the seventh and pulled within 5-4 in the eighth on Riles' single and Paul Householder's double.

With one out in the ninth, Mike Felder singled off Chicago relief ace Bob James, Chicago's fourth pitcher, and pinch-hitter Dale Berra squeezed home Mike Easler, who led off with a double, with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th against Al Hargheiser.

The Royals tried a suicide squeeze in the top of the 10th against winner Dave Righetti but Lynn Jones missed the ball and Frank White was tagged out.

"I don't know what type of baseball we were playing out there," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser. "We played backwards. It was the type of game that runs managers out of the game. I didn't like what I saw. We played hard, but we didn't play well."

Red Sox 4, Tigers 2

Detroit scored an unearned run in the second inning and Dan Petry protected it until the fifth. With two out, Ed Romero doubled and scored on a single by Dwight Evans to tie the game 1-1. Wade Boggs walked, Bill Buckner doubled Evans home and Jim Rice singled to make it 4-1.

Boston's checked Detroit on four hits over 8 2/3 innings and Joe Samitov retired Larry Herndon on a grounder with two runners on base to preserve Boston's first victory of the season.

Blue Jays 11, Rangers 10

Willie Upshaw and George Bell hit consecutive two-out home runs in the eighth inning to erase a 10-8 Texas lead. Texas reliever Greg Harris yielded a two-out single to Garth Iorg before Upshaw homered to tie the game and Bell homered to win it. Tom Henke pitched the last two innings for Toronto and was credited with the victory. The Rangers had taken a 10-8 lead in the bottom of the seventh on Don Slaught's two-run double.

Orioles 5, Indians 1

Fred Lynn greeted Cleveland

reliever Jamie Easterly with a tie-breaking three-run homer in the seventh inning. Rick Dempsey hit two home runs and Baltimore pitchers Ken Dixon and Rich Bordi held the Indians without an earned run. Lynn hit his first home run of the season with two out to put Baltimore in front 4-1 after John Shelby doubled off reliever Jim Kern and Cal Ripken was safe on third baseman Brook Jacoby's throwing error.

Cleveland's Tom Candiotti, in his first major-league start since Sept. 25, 1984, when he pitched for Milwaukee, allowed one run and three hits in six innings.

Mariners 5, Angels 2

Gorman Thomas and Alvin Davis hit consecutive home runs in the second inning as Seattle spoiled Don Sutton's bid for his 296th career victory. Winner Matt Young, a 19-game loser in 1985, scattered six hits.

Thomas led off the second inning with his second homer of the season and Davis followed with his first. The Mariners made it 4-0 in the third on singles by Phil Bradley, Ivan Calderon, Davis and Jim Presley and Davis, wearing glasses for the first time in his career, drove in another run in the eighth with a triple. George Hendrick homered for California.

Rampettes Rip Kinston, 13-4

Rose High School's girls' softball team romped to a 13-4 Big East victory over Kinston Thursday.

Kinston scored first, pushing over two runs in the top of the first. But Rose came right back with four in its half of the frame.

Then, in the third, Rose pushed over three to shut the door. Lisa Harkley led off with a solo homer. Suzanne Tadlock followed with a single and Lori Powell got a hit. Jenny Carroll singled to drive in Tadlock and Melissa Pruden singled in Powell for a 7-2 lead.

Rose went on to add two in the fourth, one in the fifth and three in the sixth. Kinston scored single runs in the sixth and seventh to run its total to four.

Tadlock led Rose's hitting with three while Gina Parrott, Harkley, Powell, Carroll and Tammy Newton each had two.

Barnett had two to lead Kinston. Rose is now 3-1 in Big East play and 7-1 overall. The Rampettes travel to Fike on Tuesday.

The win boosted Jamesville to 8-0 against Tobacco Belt Conference competition and to 10-0 overall.

Jamesville got all it needed in the first inning when Cindy Getchell singled and Renee Brown followed with a two-run homer.

Jamesville went on to add three in the third, one in the fourth and two in the sixth to complete its scoring.

Cindy Getchell led the Jamesville hitting with three while Brown added two. M. Patterson led Aurora with two.

Moose Haas scattered six hits in 7 2/3 innings in his debut with Oakland. Dave Kingman drove in a run with a bunt single in the fourth inning and rookie Jose Canseco hit a two-run homer in the seventh. Haas, acquired from Milwaukee late in spring training, walked one and struck out five. He gave way to Jay Howell after Kent Hrbek doubled with two out in the eighth.

"If anything, we were over-anxious the first two games," Haas said. "We can hit and score runs, we have a solid pitching staff and a good defense. We just have to relax and let it happen."

Darryl Motley's three-run double in the fifth inning gave Kansas City a 5-0 lead behind World Series hero Bret Saberhagen. But Mike Pagliarulo's two-run homer in the

Roanoke Gains 5-4 Victory

PLYMOUTH — Roanoke High School held off Plymouth Thursday night to claim a 5-4 Northeastern Conference baseball victory.

The Redskins and Vikings both scored a run in the first inning, with Roanoke coming back with two in the second. Plymouth got only one in its half of the second to trail 3-2. Both again scored single runs in the third for a 4-3 Roanoke edge.

After neither scored in the fourth or fifth, Roanoke pushed over what was to be the winning run in the sixth. Gene Taylor walked and Dennis Smith singled. Ricky Taylor reached on an error, allowing Gene Taylor to score for a 6-4 edge.

Plymouth tried to rally, coming up with one in the bottom of the sixth to pull back within one, but the Redskins held them off to take the win.

Gene Taylor and Smith led the Roanoke hitting with two each while Jimmy Swanner led Plymouth with three and L. Watson added two.

Roanoke is now 6-3 overall and 3-2 in league play. The Redskins play host to Bertie on Tuesday.

Aurora got all three of its runs in the top of the fifth on a homer by Mark Asby.

Sluggish Padres Still Get Split

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The San Diego Padres didn't show much aggression with their bats in Los Angeles this week. Still, they split a four-game series with the Dodgers despite scoring only five runs.

The Padres even got their first extra-base hit of the season Thursday night, a home run by Carmelo Martinez, in a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers, who also scored five runs in the series.

"It feels good with the kind of series I was having," Martinez said after sending a slider from Dodgers starter Rick Honeycutt into the seats in the second inning. "I'd like to raise my average this year and be more consistent with men on base."

San Diego didn't have a lot of men on base against the Dodgers — the Padres split 1-0 games and also lost 2-1.

"We're an aggressive ballclub," Martinez said. "We're not hitting home runs now, but when we combine our pitching and our hitting, we'll win some games."

Comet Pollution

Even today, when Halley's Comet comes closest to Earth, most people will still strain to see it. In 1910, when the Earth passed through the comet's tail, people worried more about breathing the comet than they did about seeing it. Many were sure they would be poisoned by the cyanogen gas in the tail. Headlines declared "Many Feel Cyanogen Tang," or "Say! Has That Comet Cyanogenated You Yet?" Meanwhile, businesses promoted anti-comet pills and gas masks.

DO YOU KNOW — In what year will Halley's Comet again be visible?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Charles Dickens wrote about the evils of child labor in "Oliver Twist."

Soviets Will Return 'Walking' American

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — An American taken into custody by the Soviet Union after he walked across the Bering Sea ice pack into Soviet territory is to be released next Wednesday, an aide to Sen. Frank Murkowski says.

The Soviets acknowledged this week that they had John Weymouth in custody and that the 33-year-old San Francisco man was in good health, Steve Hansen said Thursday.

Weymouth's unexplained stroll capped months of wandering in western Alaska. He is the nephew of San Francisco newspaper columnist Herb Caen and the son of the late photographer, Mason Weymouth.

Hansen, an aide in the Alaska Republican's Washington office, said the Soviets indicated they would release Weymouth at Little Diomed Island.

Weymouth, dubbed "the wanderer" by Alaska villagers, made news after walking April 2 from the U.S. island of Little Diomed toward the Soviet island of Big Diomed, 2 1/2 miles away.

Villagers in Little Diomed reported hearing explosions and gunfire on the bigger island after Weymouth's departure.

The islands are the closest land points between the United States and the Soviet Union. There is a small Eskimo village on Little Diomed. Big Diomed has a Soviet military outpost, but no civilian inhabitants.

Weymouth had been working odd jobs to earn enough money to keep moving, said Police Chief Doug Katchatag in Unalakleet, a town on Norton Sound.

Father Of Dead Girl Takes Aim In Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The father of a slain teen-age girl smuggled a revolver into a courtroom in a hollowed-out book and fired point-blank at the accused killer, wounding him as the judge dived under the bench, witnesses said.

Jack Spiegelman had been watching pretrial proceedings Thursday when he suddenly rose, pulled a pistol from his pocket and aimed it at the defendant, Daniel David Morgan, who was about six feet away, the witnesses said.

"Jack had a gun in his hand, leaned over the railing and held it in both hands and fired," said Assistant District Attorney Thomas Norman, who was prosecuting.

Superior Court Judge William D. Stein said he was taking notes on the testimony when Spiegelman fired.

"I looked up and saw a man standing there with a gun in his hand. I heard one or two shots, and I went down under the bench," Stein said. "Then I heard some more shots, and I looked up, and the defendant was lying on the floor."

Morgan, 39, was shot three times in the right arm, and the fourth shot grazed his scalp, said Sheriff's Department spokesman Ray Towbis. A spokeswoman at San Francisco General Hospital said Morgan was in satisfactory condition late Thursday after two hours of surgery.

After the shooting, Spiegelman dropped the gun and surrendered, said police Inspector Jeff Brosch, who was testifying at the hearing.

Spiegelman, 47, a Los Angeles accountant, smuggled the gun into the courtroom in a hollowed-out book.

Producer's TV Gamble With Voltron Pays Off

By TOM COHEN
Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — To evil forces in outer space, Voltron is a mythical super robot that foils their schemes to control the universe. To Ted Koplars, president of the company that produces the animated television show, Voltron is money — lots of it.

The half-hour program is broadcast by more than 80 stations across the country and in a dozen foreign countries. It has generated millions of dollars in sales of Voltron video tapes and toys.

If that's not enough, Commander Keith and the Voltron crew have been designated by the Korean Olympic Committee to defend the 1988 Summer Games in Seoul, South Korea, from outer space attack.

For Koplars and Peter Keefe, the executive producer of the show, the meteoric rise in Voltron's popularity exceeded all expectations.

"We never considered that Voltron would become a household word," Keefe said. "It's become a phenom."

Koplars, president of Koplars Enterprises, said the show's profits are "beyond what we expected."

The cost of producing 125 half-hour episodes of Voltron approaches $20 million, including the marketing and distribution. World Events Productions Ltd., the Koplars subsidiary that produces Voltron, is paid by the television stations that broadcast the show, and the company receives royalties from sales of toys, lunchboxes, flashlights and pens.

Last fall, one toy industry analyst predicted the Voltron line would produce sales of about $50 million in 1985. World Events gets 5 percent to 8 percent of every sale, depending on the manufacturer.

Now, more revenue is rolling in from distribution of the shows to foreign markets and contracts to produce the episodes on video cassettes.

Not bad for a speculative venture by a small communications company in St. Louis looking for fresh approaches to independent television programming.

It all started when Koplars was in Cannes, France, in 1982 at a convention that featured examples of animated programs. He was particularly impressed by a Japanese show with a name that translated into English as "Go Lions."

"I don't speak Japanese," Koplars said. "What made this stand out for me was that visually and the way the story was shot, that even without the language, I could tell what the story was saying. It was far superior to other products at the convention."

The decision was made to use the Japanese animation as a vehicle for an animated children's television show, Koplars said, describing the project as "a massive, massive undertaking."

"Obviously there was a tremendous risk," Koplars said, explaining that the cost of producing each show can reach $250,000. "On the other hand, we had bailout points. If we were unable to sell the show, we didn't have to commit to the full production of 125 half hours."

Keefe oversees almost every aspect of Voltron, from the scripts for each show to the various toys and other spinoffs bearing the Voltron name.

The idea was to mesh the popular outer space and robot themes with strong characters and scripts laced with humor and experiences from everyday life.

form Voltron, a super robot and defender of the universe — contains themes such as teamwork, Keefe said.

"It's camaraderie," he said. "In this case they play together and they faint together and they live together. They don't just fight together."

Keefe and Koplars said the robot craze has probably reached its peak.

"It gets boring," Keefe said. "Even to a kid, all those dimensions start to look the same after a while."

But on the shelves in toy stores, there is no apparent lack of interest. One reason may be that Voltron is the only show that preceded the manufacture of its own line of toys, Keefe said.

"We did something completely different," he said. "We expanded the toy line after the show was a hit. Even Smurfs was a book or a coloring book before it was a show."

Olivier Cast As Hologram

LONDON (AP) — Sir Laurence Olivier, recuperating from a slight viral infection, appeared via modern technology in the opening of the $5.11 million musical "Time," which was poorly received by critics.

Lord Olivier, cast as an other-worldly sage called Akash, is seen as a disembodied fiberglass hologram who communicates with the on-stage actors in the show about a trial set in space.

Cliff Richard, the 45-year-old British pop star, has the onstage lead as a rock star forced to defend the Earth in a trial that could lead to its destruction.

The opening night audience at London's Dominion Theater on Wednesday night applauded the 78-year-old Olivier's opening image inside what looked like a suspended 14-foot egg.

Olivier sent a congratulatory telegram to the show's producer, Dave Clark, of the 1960s pop group The Dave Clark Five, wishing him "good fortune, which your brilliant work richly deserves."

Dove Award

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Amy Grant, criticized by some for departing from her gospel vocal style, has wrested the Gospel Music Association's top award from longtime industry favorite Sandi Patti.

Miss Grant won a Dove Award Thursday night as the association's artist of the year, the honor Miss Patti had won in 1984 and 1985.

Boosted by her million-selling album "Unguarded," Miss Grant has become the top gospel artist whose music has "crossed over" to the pop music charts.

The Nashville singer was performing in Columbus, Ohio, and did not attend the awards ceremony. Her manager, Dan Harrell, said her award "is a signal that the Gospel Music Association is positive and forward-moving."

She also won the honor in 1983, the only year since 1982 that Miss Patti did not receive it.

Miss Patti, of Anderson, Ind., was voted top female vocalist for the fifth straight year.

Opening lead: Ace of ♥

Just because you have been dealt an uninteresting collection of tickets doesn't mean that you can afford to take a quick nap at the table. You never know when you might have to play a key role.

North-South reached four hearts in quick time. The main point of interest is North's decision to raise to two hearts rather than bid one spade. Since he has the values for only one bid, supporting his partner's suit is eminently correct.

If you are sitting in the East chair, you might think you have no part to play in the outcome of the hand. Little could be further from the truth—you have won a starring role!

Your partner leads the ace of hearts and continues the suit. Declarer wins in hand and leads the king of clubs, West winning the ace. Back comes a club to declarer's queen. After cashing the king and ace of spades, South leads a low diamond from dummy.

If you have been lulled into a false sense of security, you play low and declarer inserts the eight to end play West, who must either return a diamond into declarer's major tenace, yield a ruff-sluff by returning a club, or set up a spade on the table which declarer can use as a parking spot for the queen of diamonds. But if you are alert you will fly in with your nine of diamonds, and declarer must bow the knee.

He can try the finesse, but West wins and can return the jack or ten of diamonds. He can't play low because you will win the trick and continue with a diamond through the queen. And rising with the ace leaves him with two diamond losers no matter what he tries to do.

Next time someone lectures you about second-hand low, show him this hand.

Guilty Plea

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Ricky Lee Sanderson, against the advice of his attorneys, has pleaded guilty to the March 1985 kidnapping and murder of 16-year-old Lexington honors student Suzi Holliman.

Sanderson, 27, of Lexington, told his attorneys he decided to plead guilty Monday after he experienced a religious conversion while serving a life sentence for an unrelated crime.

A jury will decide later whether Sanderson will receive the death penalty or life in prison for the murder. Sanderson, already serving a life sentence plus 110 years for kidnapping, robbing, raping and stabbing a 33-year-old Davidson County woman last May, could be sentenced to 40 years on the kidnapping charge.
