WHEELCHAIR HIT BY TRAIN — A 29-year-old Greenville man operating a battery-powered wheelchair was struck by a Seaboard Coastline train Wednesday afternoon at the Alley Street crossing. Officer G.W. Williams said Charles Edward O'Neal of 431 W. Third St. was hospitalized after being dragged and pushed by the train for more than-80 feet. Officers are shown here assisting O'Neal after the accident. His crushed wheelchair is at the right. Williams said one of the train's crewmembers saw O'Neal on the tracks, jumped off the train and attempted unsuccessfully to reach the chair before the train hit it. (Reflector Photo By Cliff Hollis)

Revised School Consolidation Plan Approved

By JANE WELBORN
Reflector Staff Writer

An agreement to revise the method of election for the consolidated board of education was reached Wednesday between the Pitt and Greenville school boards and a local civil rights group.

The agreement enables legislation to be presented to the June session of the General Assembly for enactment as quickly as possible, so that the merger of the two local schools systems may take effect July 1 or upon preclearance by the U.S. Justice Department.

Two alternatives of electing the members of the 15-member consolidated Pitt County Board of Education were contained in the agreement — electing the board totally by single-member districts or by a combination of district and at-large seats.

"I am pleased that the issue has finally been resolved and that everyone's focus and attention can now be directed toward a positive thrust toward formal consolidation of the two school systems," said Dr. Eddie West, superintendent of the Pitt County Schools. West will serve as superintendent of the consolidated school system.

The agreement states that an interim board — made up of members of the Pitt County Board of Education, Greenville City Board of Education and three at-large members, will serve as the governing body of the consolidated schools until Dec. 7, 1987. Members of the interim board will recommend one of the two alternate election plans to the General Assembly, and elections for the members of the consolidated board will take place in November 1987.

The Pitt County Board of Education and the Greenville City Board of Education met in separate executive sessions Wednesday to discuss the agreement. Michael Crowell, lawyer for both school systems, was authorized to sign the agreement for the boards.

Two members of the Pitt County Board of Education, Walter E. Gaskins and Ferrell L. Blount III, opposed the agreement; Stephen W. Tripp was not in attendance. The agreement was unanimously supported by the Greenville school board, but member Sue Zadeits did not attend the meeting.

The U.S. Justice Department and the local Concerned Citizens for Justice rejected a prior merger plan, saying the at-large method of electing the school board discriminates against blacks.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 requires Justice Department approval when changes in election methods dealing with the board's structure are made. In a review of the consolidated board's structure in May, the Justice Department ruled the election method discriminatory.

The agreement between the school boards and the civil rights group specifies that the election method developed by the board will comply with the Voting Rights Act. The election method will provide black citizens with an opportunity to elect candidates of their choice in at least the same proportion of seats as the proportion of minority representatives on the interim board; there are four black members on the 15-member board — three which were appointed at-large and one which was elected by single-member district voting.

Ernest Brown, spokesperson for the Concerned Citizens for Justice, said, "Basically, we (the CCJ) had the input on the agreement. Our attorney and the school boards wrote the agreement, and the attorney made sure our input was included in the agreement."

"There were some things we wanted to have worked out but we had to live with, because there just wasn't sufficient time" (to change out the changes in the agreement), Brown said. "For instance, we had to live with the (selected interim) consolidated board members because there wasn't time to come up with a different method of selecting the interim board. We felt like there should have been an election for the consolidated board."

"We also would like for there to have been an advertisement for the superintendent's position for the consolidated school system," Brown said. "Because it was a new position, applications should have been taken and the best person hired. The job should have at least been opened up for others to have had an opportunity to apply for it."

"The interim board should only give the superintendent a two-year contract," he added. "When the board is elected (in November), they should have the opportunity to review the superintendent and make a decision as to who they would like to be the superintendent. The board should have some say-so as to who the superintendent will be."

"These changes could not be made," Brown said. "It will be a little better than a year before the election, and we will have to live with it. But a year is sufficient time for the consolidated board to make decisions which may or may not be in the best interest of the blacks of Pitt County."

"I am hoping that they (the interim board) will not feel any vindictiveness toward the decisions that have been made by the Concerned Citizens for Justice and the Justice Department and won't try to get even in some way," Brown said. "I hope they will go in with an open mind and try to do what is best for all the people in the county. Then when the election rolls around, we will have a better chance to select our representatives."

Reduced User Fees Approved

By DON REUTER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council has agreed to cut scheduled refuse collection fees for non-residential service from $24 per month per container to $15 in the proposed budget for the 1986-87 fiscal year.

Council members also decided to keep planned collection fees for residential service at $4 per month in the proposed budget at a workshop meeting Wednesday.

The alterations to the refuse fees are expected to generate approximately $76,050 less in revenue than planned using the $24 fee, according to City Manager Gail Meeks. The refuse fees are expected to produce $580,500 in additional revenue for the city.

The refuse collection fees were included in the proposed budget as a revenue source to offset cuts mandated by in Gramm-Rudman-Hollings legislation.

Councilwoman Inez Fridley supported the refuse fee instead of a tax increase, citing a distribution of the burden among all Greenville citizens.

"This type of fee is spread out," Ms. Fridley said. "Everybody pays for this."

Council members reduced the fee by $9 in an effort to ease the burden on small business owners, according to Councilwoman Lorraine Shinn. "I think $24 is too much," she said. "The small businessman is in such a bind just trying to survive. If he has three dumpsters, that extra $100 per month can really make a difference."

The board also made plans to implement restrictions to prevent businesses from reducing the number of dumpsters they use in order to keep refuse fees down, according to Ms. Meeks.

"It's just being planned now, but it will probably be mandated that businesses must provide an adequate number of containers to handle their refuse," Ms. Meeks said. "It will most likely be determined by the public works director."

The $86,452,856 budget, which includes Greenville Utilities Commission's $71,020,783, will be presented at a public hearing on June 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the third floor council chamber of City Hall, 201 W. Fifth St. The council also scheduled a budget workshop meeting for June 17 to discuss comments received at the public hearing.

Our address is The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C., 27835. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline cannot answer or publish every item we receive, but we deal with all of those for which we have staff time. Names must be given, but only initials will be published.

CLASS OF 1931 APPEAL

Planners of a reunion of the Greenville High School Class of 1931 have asked Hotline to appeal for the present addresses of the following persons: Tessie Buck, Margaret Earle Clay, Minnie Mae Cannon, Meryl Evans, Leon Alton Hardee, Antoinette F. Jones, Margaret Winifred Lee, Ruby Smith and Mary Alice Whitehurst.

Anyone who can help is asked to call Annie Laurie Askew, 752-3403.

Checks Are Here

"The checks are here!" Fred W. Lilley, Social Security Administration district manager announced this morning.

He said he was notified by the Greenville Post Office that approximately 1,000 Social Security checks that failed to be here on the usual delivery day Tuesday arrived about 7 a.m.

Sonny Lancaster, post office supervisor of mails, said he doesn't know where the checks have been, but he knows that all went out in this morning's mail. A few early-leaving carriers were held up a few minutes to make sure all were delivered today, he said.

Lilley said it will be assumed that all the people who've called in so far to say their checks weren't delivered now have them, unless they call 758-7656 to report otherwise.

Youth Is Charged In Mother's Death

WILLIAMSTON — Henry Irvin Briley IV, 15, of Robersonville has been charged with first degree murder in the death of his mother and is being held without bond in the Pitt Regional Juvenile Detention Center in Greenville.

The youth is charged with the murder of Penny Louise Briley, 37, early on the morning of May 15 at the Briley home in Robersonville. In a hearing held Wednesday afternoon, Chief District Court Judge Hallet Ward found cause for the felony charge, based on evidence presented to the court by Robersonville police, including a confession to the murder made by the youth.

Briley has been bound over to Superior Court. A date for the trial has not been set.

He was a freshman at Roanoke High School near Robersonville.

Farmville Honors Family Physician

FARMVILLE — Dr. Dan Heizer, a family physician, has been named Farmville Citizen of the Year.

The award was given during the Farmville Chamber of Commerce's annual membership drive dinner.

For some years, Farmville has had a man of the year and an outstanding woman every two years. This year it was decided to combine the efforts into a single citizen of the year competition, according to Joe Joyner, chairman of the event. Joyner said Heizer was chosen by a secret selection committee who considered four different people for the award.

He said Heizer was picked "because of his having been a moving force on behalf of the Farmville Arts Council which has contributed so greatly to the betterment of our town."

Joyner said Heizer, a member of the board of directors of the Arts Council, was one of its founders and chairman of its building fund for an arts center.

He said Heizer has also contributed greatly to the Farmville public schools as chairman of the Farmville Schools Advisory Council. He is a member of the board of directors of the Farmville Child Developmental Center and a Rotary Club member. A former deacon of the Farmville Presbyterian Church, he also serves the church as a Sunday School teacher and choir member.

A native of South Carolina, he is a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia. He and his wife, the former Jess Carraway of Farmville, have two sons and a daughter.

Also recognized at the dinner were Marlene Farrow for her work in holding the first Pitt County Junior Miss Pageant; Frankie Duke Moye, for her work in having a branch of Pitt Community College in Farmville; and to Ann McGaughey for her work in directing the Farmville Economic Council and Chamber of Commerce and in revitalizing the chamber this year.

Candlelight Wedding Solemnized

TARBORO — Charlotte Leigh Whitehurst and George Scott Goodwyn were united in marriage at 7 o'clock in the evening May 24 in the First Baptist Church.

Dr. E. Lavelle Waters Jr. of First Baptist and Robert E. Burns III of Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church officiated at the candlelight, double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton D. Whitehurst and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Goodwyn, all of Tarboro.

The bride was escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents.

The matron of honor was the bride's twin sister, Claudia W. Lanier of Tarboro. Bridesmaids included Denise Boyd of Tarboro; Sharon Everette, cousin of the bride from Charlotte; Carolina and Sally Anne Goodwyn, both sisters of the bridegroom from Tarboro, and Sharon Henry of Tarboro. Christy Walker of Tarboro served as junior bridesmaid.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Tom Boldt of Kinston; Chris Goodwyn, brother of the bridegroom from Tarboro; Art Goodwyn, cousin of the bridegroom from Greensboro; Ambler Lanier of Tarboro; David Paul of Charlotte, and John Phillip Shearin of Rocky Mount.

A program of wedding music was performed by organist Darrell Mitchell of Greenville, violinist Margaret Ann Creech of Tarboro and soloists Joan Knox of Tarboro and Alec Peters of Chapel Hill.

The bride wore a floor length gown with a chapel train of traditional bridal satin with re-embroidered alencon lace. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline, Juliet puffed sleeves and a torso waistline. Re-embroidered alencon lace motifs embellished with seed pearls and sequins appliqued the bodice. Bridal buttons fastened the illusion V-back. Garlands of scalloped alencon lace bordered the hemline of the skirt and train. The bride chose a satin bridal hat with a lace applique crown etched with seed pearls and crystals. Silk flowers accented the side of the brim. Seed pearls bordered the brim of the hat. Bridal illusion streamers accented the back of the hat.

Carol Creech and Donna Cooper, both of Tarboro, directed the wedding.

A reception in the church fellowship hall was held after the ceremony. Greeting guests were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Lanier Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goodwyn. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kent of Tarboro served the cake and Frances Sauerborn, Sheila Burns, Clair Beaman and Mary Rose Felton, all of Tarboro, poured punch.

Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Newitt Cabell and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Walker. Attending the register was Shelley Morgan of Tarboro.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is a registered nurse at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He will begin medical school at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in the fall.

After a wedding trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica, the couple will reside in Chapel Hill.

At Wits End

By Erma Bombeck

Cohabitation? Parents of young adults have learned to live with the idea.

Missing church on Sunday? Hey, there are some things you can't force.

Dropping out of college? The rationale is you can't live your children's lives for them.

But if there is one thing parents stand firm on, it's a wedding. They want to see their child join hands with a steady job at the altar of employment and promise to love and to cherish from this day forward, for retirement benefits or for mergers ... for pay raises or layoffs ... in slumps and in stock splits till death do them part.

You're seeing a clash these days between a generation who believes a job is like an arranged marriage ... in time you'll learn to love it — and their children who feel employment is a stepping stone to lunch.

Each generation brings to the work ethic an important ingredient: memory. Parents remember when jobs were non-existent, when education opened doors for the privileged ... when compromise was a way of life and pride was a luxury no one could afford. A man or woman never forgets what it is like to be out of work. Ever!

Their children also have memories. They remember a good standard of living, as much education as they would tolerate and a father who was never home to enjoy the spoils and counted the days until he retired.

Sometimes I get the feeling young people wish they could feel the same things their parents feel about a job. That it would bring them fulfillment, make them feel productive, a part of things. So why do they resist being woven into the fabric of the American dream?

Maybe it's because most of them do look upon a "job" as a bride ... a lifetime commitment to what. To "settle down," amass five rooms of materialism and spend the rest of their lives making payments on months two weeks longer than the money.

What if the job is great? Are they trapped for a lifetime in a web of ambition and corporate climbing? Do they lose a part of themselves? While they're "married" to a job do they miss out on other exciting adventures and possibilities? Is "fooling around" out of the the picture? Are their dreams a part of the price?

If the future is filled with apprehension about the state of the world, what have they missed by being "traditional" and doing what is expected of them.

Meanwhile, the voices of experience challenge them to "grow up," "take your place in society," "settle down" and "lay the groundwork for your future."

This is the season when every graduate in the world is being asked, "What are you going to do with the rest of your life?" They are often accused of being "insecure" when they answer they don't know.

Who is more insecure? The man or woman who is afraid to let go ... or the man or woman who is afraid to hang on?

When you know that, you'll know what you're going to do with the rest of your life.

MRS. GOODWYN

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Career Moves Shake Up Family's Life

DEAR ABBY: My situation is not uncommon. My husband works for a large national company that moves employees regularly. The last move was exceptionally difficult, and I don't want to move again for seven years, when our youngest child will graduate from high school.

I'm so tired of my children feeling like they don't belong. So often, as soon as they make some really good friends, we have to move.

My husband says if we have to move, we will. If I try to discuss it, we get into an argument, which always ends with, "I'm only doing it for you and the kids."

Ambitious men are rarely home on moving day, or when the kids get sick, or the cat gets lost.

Abby, must men accept every transfer they are offered? — TIERED

DEAR TIERED: No. Some have been known to pass up promotions rather than move their families. And in two-paycheck households, some men move because their wives' jobs require it.

Not all children react badly to moving. Some have grown with the challenge of making new friends — witness "Army brats." Every family must decide what is best for all the members and then make the decision accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: I was on birth control pills from 1970 to 1977, then we moved to another state and a different doctor prescribed them for me from 1978 until 1986. Neither one mentioned any interaction with antibiotics.

Medicine is in pretty bad shape if vital information such as what you pointed out is transmitted to the public by an advice columnist in the newspaper instead of by the medical community.

Perhaps your column should be moved to the front page. — SALLY W. IN LEXINGTON, KY.

DEAR SALLY: I was absolutely flabbergasted at the number of letters I received from women thanking me for that information. And if an editor wants to put this letter on the front page, it's all right with me.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you concerning a dispute between my mother and me. First of all, I am 17 years old and have a good-paying job. I have a Camaro, which I'm paying for myself. I also pay my own insurance, which is $600 a year.

Here's the problem: I have wanted a four-wheel drive truck for a long time, but my mom says trucks are for guys, and I am a girl. I don't agree with my mom at all. I think as long as I am paying for my own car, I should be able to drive whatever I want. Do you agree with me or my mom? I hope you print this, Abby. It may not get me a truck, but it will settle the argument. — WANTS A FOUR-WHEEL DRIVE

DEAR WANTS: If you are sufficiently mature to buy a car and support it, you should be able to drive a car of your choice. Four-wheel drives are not for guys only.

DEAR ABBY: You're not going to believe this, but here goes: My dentist has halitosis. He's a fine dentist and a nice guy, but how can I tell him? — CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: In plain English. But tell him with kindness, compassion and concern — and quickly.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Telethon

Nothing is more heart rending than a child who is sick, and for children who are ill one can only wish for the most rapid treatment and recovery.

That is the mission of the Childrens' Hospital of Eastern North Carolina which is an integral part of Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Its purpose is to provide the best care for sick children of eastern North Carolina.

It received a boost in its work from the Childrens' Miracle Telethon last Saturday and Sunday. Locally the telethon raised $65,115 in pledges. The telethon, which was carried live by WITN-TV, was part of the Osmond Foundation's annual telethon which originated in Salt Lake City to raise funds for children's hospitals. The national telethon involves some 130 hospitals and at last report had raised more than $30 million.

Dr. Jon Tingelstad said the telethon was an "enormous success." In addition to the funds raised, the telecast disseminated information about the work of the Childrens' Hospital.

The Childrens' Hospital of Eastern North Carolina is a new concept for treatment of childrens' ills. It deserves both financial and personal support from the people of the area it will serve. The funds raised in the weekend telethon is a giant step forward in community support.

'Frabjous'

Losers and winners could take pride in qualifying for the National Spelling Bee. One had to listen to but a few contestants in scraps of televised coverage to appreciate contestants' courage and aplomb in tackling unlikely words that raised eyebrows among adults.

Not that contest-arrangers required any hanky-panky to eventually "sink" any and all spellers; but some of the words raised doubts not laid to rest until referral to a dictionary cleared the air.

Most people could live to a ripe old age without ever encountering such terms as eupraxia or gnostic, accipiter or isochronous. Each proved the downfall as well as triumph of competitors. There was always someone who calmly and painstakingly spelled words that do not belong in vocabularies of 13- and 14-year-olds.

One reason why English is known as among the most difficult of languages to learn is that its users adopt and adapt so many words from other languages. The end result: Linguistic hash spoken here.

The National Spelling Bee's winner spelled "odontalgia" without a whimper; though he probably didn't have the foggiest notion of what that last word in the contest meant. (The wire service identified odontalgia as a synonym for toothache.

The office dictionary includes odontology (a science that deals with teeth, their structure, development and diseases) and confirmed that odontologist was a good word.

Frank J. Romano, 13, of Griffith, Indiana, was eliminated trying to spell frabjous. That was a low blow. Frabjous is nowhere in the Webster International that serves The Daily Reflector newsroom and it has 2662 pages without one frabjous. Still, we know it exists if only in the imagination of Lewis Carroll.

Bringing a non-word (because it defied defining) into a national spelling bee strikes us as being a bit on the shady side of fair contest rules. It would have been best if it never happened because from this day we will look upon the annual contest with a suspicious eye.

How To Flee In Style

WASHINGTON — Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos, his wife, Imelda, and an entourage of 120 others fled the presidential palace in Manila on the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 25. They were taken by helicopter and boat to nearby Clark Air Force Base. The following morning, before dawn, most members of the party were flown on to Andersen Air Force Base on Guam before heading on to Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii.

It was quite an odyssey. A report last week from a House Armed Services subcommittee picks up the story:

"The party rested at Andersen for about 10 hours, staying in base quarters. Security personnel, a number of small children and members of the household staff had not packed many items for traveling. Mrs. Marcos did not want security personnel, about 35 in number, to land in Hawaii in combat fatigues and requested that they, and others in the party needing toilet articles and clothes, be allowed to shop in the base exchange. Gen. (Teddy) Allen authorized them to shop.

"Forty people visited the Andersen exchange after regular shopping hours...."

It was a memorable occasion. The 40 freeloaders promptly racked up $12,256 in purchases, or about $300 per person. They charged $7,540 in "health and beauty aids," $1,448 in clothing, $1,425 in shoes, and $1,561 in "cleaning/towels/wash cloths."

Late that same evening, Feb. 26, the Marcos party — now down to 89 persons — arrived in Hawaii. There they took over the visiting officers' quarters. The number of guests continued to diminish. By March 14 the number had declined to 43; by March 25 to only eight. The group made two trips to the Hickam exchange. Forty-four persons went shopping on Feb. 28, another 14 on March 4. The first 44 were modest: They charged only $347 per person. The next 14 were not quite so modest; their purchases averaged $827 per person. The total bill was $26,844. Nobody paid for anything.

The tab included a quite remarkable number of brassieres. The sales tickets do not show if the brassieres, like 500 of Imelda's, were black. There appeared to be a matching number of panties. Among other items: designer jeans, $32; pancake

RALEIGH — Is workfare a cure-all, as many of its proponents claim? Does it really help the poor and unemployed pull themselves up by their own bootstraps, give them self-dignity, start them on a career and help break the welfare cycle?

Or is it a political fraud, foisted on the poor merely to satisfy mean spirits who resent that someone else is getting something for nothing, to mollify those who think poverty is a self-inflicted wound?

Although support of workfare is party doctrine for both Republicans and Democrats in 1986, several legislators have begun raising that second set of questions. They say they're all for workfare if it is the self-improvement program that proponents claim it to be. They charge, however, that workfare in North Carolina is really just the latter, a program designed to "placate" public animosity towards welfare.

"I think we all are for programs that will provide a road for people to get jobs," says Sen. Russell Walker, D-Randolph, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee on Human Resources. But the North Carolina workfare program "isn't providing any training. Its advocates say it is designed to give people pride. Well, if it is a dead end, where people can't get a job, then it doesn't really accomplish anything."

Walker said most of the workfare jobs "are makework at the courthouse." That kind of job experience is not preparing people for jobs in the private sector. "Unless they get a job when they get off (workfare), then they're right back on the (welfare) rolls again."

Pam Silverman of the N.C. Legal Services had told Walker's committee that a March 1985 state study of its own workfare program cast a good bit of doubt on the program's effectiveness. Ms. Silverman said the study had shown that workfare participants were no more likely to get and hold jobs than were other unemployed people. She said the state has not made any significant changes in the program since that study was made.

Rep. Dan Blue, D-Wake, Walker's co-chairman from the House, told a child advocacy convention in Raleigh that there are a number of steps North Carolinians could take to make workfare work.

Blue said job training could be coordinated with the community college system so that workfare recipients could sell themselves when they came off the program.

Blue also proposed that more money be made available for day care of the children of workfare participants.

Finally, he said the state should follow Tennessee's lead in removing some of the incentives the welfare system provides for those who prefer to stay unemployed. Taking an entry level job may pay more than welfare, Blue said, but often it's not enough to make a difference. And, he noted, many low level jobs don't provide any kind of health insurance. In some cases, people are better off financially if they stay on welfare, he said.

The Tennessee plan would provide some benefits to the working poor to make the taking of a real job step forward, Blue said.

Blue also charged that workfare is actually paying some participants at rates below the minimum wage. These are participants who have their welfare payment reduced because they collect child support.

Democrats have long advocated worker training programs while North Carolina Republicans have been critical of the programs which the state did offer, especially the old CETA program. The Democrats are now challenging Gov. Jim Martin to come up with a welfare reform program that will include job training.

Spying On Friends

The newspapers are jammed with stories concerning spies and rumors of spies. The world of cloak and dagger does not only concern itself with our declared enemies, but also involves our allies spying on us as well.

It is this gray area of espionage that causes so much pain to everyone.

The head of the CIA department involved with ferreting out spies who work for friendly powers is Frank Ferret.

Frank said, "Spying on friends is like cheating on your wife."

"What do you mean by that?" I asked him.

"Beats me, but it always gets everybody's attention. I think what I'm trying to say is that there is nothing wrong with having a secret liaison until it becomes public knowledge. Once it's blabbed all over town then everyone demands punishment, because the cuckolded country can no longer claim it didn't know what was going on."

"I never thought of the espionage business as a form of adultery."

"Only with your friends," Frank cautioned me. "What you have to understand is, the Western powers have a mutual understanding that we can microfilm each other's defense capabilities, providing we don't get caught. If the word gets out that we're being spied on by a friendly country, then we have to show public outrage."

"Name a friend who has done that."

"All the good guys have spies." "What happens when you catch one of the good guys photographing the stealth bomber?"

"Our style is to arrest him quietly and boot him discreetly out of the United States. Then his country will quietly boot one of our spies out, and we'll pretend it didn't happen. But if someone leaks the story then we have a serious problem."

"Why is that?"

"Arresting a spy from a friendly power raises a lot more questions than it answers. Instead of praising us for catching the spy, the press wants to know how many more are out there just like him. There is a hue and cry in America, and every intelligence agency hates a hue and cry. That's why we'd rather not have agents of allies arrested. But the worst thing about nabbing spies is having to hold a public trial. If they plead not guilty, their defense lawyers will try to embarrass us by asking for every secret the U.S. government has. They know we'll make any plea bargain to avoid producing evidence in court."

"What kind of plea bargain do you offer them?"

"If the rat pleads guilty, we'll give him 20 years in the slammer, and promise he'll be exchanged as soon as possible for one of our guys doing 20 years in his country."

"Are there many spies from friendly countries working here?"

"I should hope so. The reason for that isn't because we have the most secrets, but rather because the United States is a fun country to spy on. No spies want to go to the Soviet Union any more, because they can't drink the milk."

"Does the U.S. maintain CIA agents in our friends' countries as well?"

"Of course we do — but we don't call them spies, we call them 'Freedom Agents.'"

"Do our friends know that our 'Freedom Agents' are spying on them?"

"Yes, but they don't care because with tourism way down in their countries, the CIA covert funds are the only hard dollars they are going to see this year."

Strength For Today

"The rain it falls upon the just

And on the unjust feller — But mostly on the just, because

The unjust has the just's umbrella."

So goes the jingle, and it unfortunately packs more truth than a lot of philosophical dissertations. We get discouraged at times when we contemplate the power of injustice and the weakness of human effort to stand up against it. But we are going to find ourselves in the midst of despair unless we realize that the universe is weighted on the side of goodness and that in spite of the arrogance of evil, the quiet power of goodness is the only thing in the universe which is really genuine.

Of one thing we can be sure, namely, that evil victories are temporary. In the end goodness wins out in a universe created and sustained by the God of love.

Filipino Communists Name Negotiator

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Communist rebels have chosen a former journalist who was jailed under ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos to negotiate a cease-fire to their 17-year-old guerrilla war, President Corazon Aquino announced today.

Mrs. Aquino said she would appoint a government negotiator within 48 hours, but declined to release more details.

"I'd like to be extra careful. I don't want anything to upset or derail this effort of the government," the president said. "The mere fact that they named one of their negotiators is good enough for me."

Mrs. Aquino said the rebels named Satur Ocampo, 47, as their representative. Ocampo was jailed by Marcos 10 years ago on subversion and rebellion charges. Marcos alleged Ocampo was a ranking Communist Party official. It is not illegal to be a Communist in the Philippines, but the party is outlawed because it advocates the overthrow of the government.

Ocampo escaped from jail in May 1985 while on a liberty pass to attend a National Press Club election in Manila. He had been the business editor of the Manila Times until Marcos closed the paper down when he declared martial law in 1972.

Mrs. Aquino announced the breakthrough at a news conference marking her first 100 days in office since Marcos was ousted by a civilian-military revolt on Feb. 25.

The announcement came one week after the National Democratic Front, an umbrella organization of rebel groups, released a statement saying it had named a cease-fire negotiator.

Presidential spokesman Joker Arroyo, appearing with Mrs. Aquino, said military leaders will "probably not" participate in peace talks.

The New People's Army, the military arm of the Communist Party, has fought against the government for 17 years. It had a few hundred members until the end of the 1970s, when its ranks swelled as dissatisfaction with the Marcos regime grew. Authorities now estimate it has 16,500 fighters.

Mrs. Aquino has offered the insurgents amnesty, but few have surrendered.

The president also said that Vice President Salvador Laurel has started setting up a panel to negotiate with the Moro National Liberation Front, which represents Moslem insurgents seeking an independent state.

Close Senate Vote Expected On Veto Of Saudi Arms Sale

By TIM AHERN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican leader said today he thinks the Senate will sustain President Reagan's veto of a resolution blocking the sale of missiles to Saudi Arabia, but lawmakers on both sides of the issue predicted an extremely close vote.

The Senate was scheduled to vote today, ending a month of intense lobbying by opponents and supporters of the $265 million deal.

It would take 67 votes to override the veto, assuming all 100 senators vote.

"I think we've got the votes," Sen. John Chafee of Rhode Island, chairman of the Republican Conference, told reporters shortly before the Senate session began. "At least I certainly hope so."

On Wednesday, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the leading opponent, said, "I believe we've got 66 votes for sure. The question right now is whether we've got the extra vote we need."

Earlier in the week, Dennis Thomas, an assistant to Reagan, said at the White House that the administration doesn't have much "breathing room" in its efforts to win the 34 votes needed to sustain the veto.

Reagan declined Wednesday to predict victory when asked about the subject as he boarded Air Force One in Greensboro, N.C., after a brief trip.

"No predictions," said the president, holding up his right hand with his fingers crossed. During the trip, the president lobbied senators by telephone from Air Force One.

The Republican-controlled Senate and the Democratic-run House voted overwhelmingly against the sale a month ago. But Reagan vetoed that disapproval resolution, and the sale will go ahead unless each chamber overrides his veto by a two-thirds margin.

Congress has never blocked a major weapons sale, and Reagan has concentrated his efforts to win the veto fight on the Senate, where he has to switch fewer votes. The tally there against the sale was 73-22 with five senators absent, but Cranston admitted Wednesday that Reagan has switched some votes.

Of the five absent last month, four are likely to vote with the White House while the fifth will vote against the sale, Cranston said.

That opponent will be Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., who was hospitalized last month with a neck injury. Kevin Childers, her chief spokesman, said Wednesday she is strongly opposed to the sale.

Cranston, one of the Senate's best vote counters, told reporters Wednesday, "I believe I know how 95 will vote and I'm unsure of the other five. If we get one of those five, we'll win."

The package of weapons includes Sidewinder air-to-air missiles and Harpoon anti-ship missiles, weapons previously sold to the Saudis by the United States. The new missiles would be delivered starting in 1989.

In an effort to win the veto fight, $89 million worth of Stinger missiles was dropped from the package. Opponents argued that the shoulder-fired weapons might end up being used by terrorists against civilian airliners.

Reagan argues that the sale is needed to show support for moderate Arab nations, but Cranston and other opponents say the Saudis support terrorists and have blocked U.S. efforts to broker an Arab-Israeli peace pact.

The removal of the Stingers marked the second time the arms deal had been cut back in the face of congressional opposition.

Another Bus Victim Dies

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The death toll in the nation's worst bus accident in nearly six years has climbed to 19 with the death of a woman who had appeared to be recovering from her injuries.

Grace Thrasher, 74, of Santa

Monica, Calif., died late Tuesday in Carson Tahoe Hospital in Carson City just hours after telling a reporter she was looking forward to returning home and seeing her family again. An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of her death.

Prisoners Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cuban government has quietly released more than 30 political prisoners in recent weeks, including many long-term detainees who were freed before completion of their sentences, State Department officials say.

The officials said Wednesday they have received unconfirmed reports that as many as 1000 prisoners have been set free this spring but the information does not specify whether they had been convicted of political crimes.

Many of the political prisoners were released following the intercession of French undersea explorer Jacques Cousteau, who led a two-month expedition in Cuban waters late last year, said the officials, who spoke only on condition they not be identified.

There are no reliable estimates of the number of political prisoners in Cuba. In an interview last year, President Fidel Castro put the number at less than 200, but Jorge Valls, who served 20 years in prison before his release in 1984, recently gave an estimate of 15,000.

A report released a month ago by Americas Watch, a New York-based human rights organization, said there are "more long-term political prisoners in Cuba than anywhere else in the world, and there are still frequent reports of their mistreatment and abuse."

Two former prisoners who were released May 10 and subsequently met with U.S. officials in Havana said they were part of a group of 27 who were set free that day through the efforts of Cousteau. Both had letters from Cousteau, who had been encouraged before his visit to raise the prisoner issue by the Cuban-American National Foundation, an anti-Castro group.

The letter said: "I had the opportunity to meet with Fidel Castro in a friendly and serene atmosphere, and I suggested that, on the occasion of the two-month expedition of our ship, Calypso, in Cuban waters, Cuba's president would consider releasing some of the prisoners held for political reasons. He reacted positively. We both agreed that his generous decision had no other motivation than humanitarian feeling and that no public announcement would be made."

Frozen-Embryo Baby Born In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A "long nine months" that began with the implantation of a frozen embryo in a woman's womb has ended with the nation's first birth using the procedure — a robust 9-pound, 10-ounce boy, doctors say.

The boy was born Wednesday to a woman identified only as Monique, who spent 15 years fruitlessly trying to bear children. Monique was one of four women in California and Louisiana to become pregnant after receiving frozen embryo transplants — but the first to give birth.

"It's been a long nine months," said Dr. Richard Marrs, head of the in-vitro fertilization and embryo replacement program at Good Samaritan Hospital. The hospital where the baby was born was not disclosed.

Monique, 36, and her husband, Gary, said they really didn't expect Marrs' procedure to work.

"We just actually were humoring him by having this done," Monique told KCBS-TV. "It was nice though — no surgery. All I had to do was come have an implant and go home — no pain."

The television station photographed the delighted parents holding their newborn son. The parents asked that their last name not be revealed for privacy reasons.

Frozen embryo transplants are said to have resulted in 11 births worldwide. The others were in France, England, Holland and Australia.

All four U.S. women who had the transplants had suffered damage to their Fallopian tubes.

The frozen embryo implant procedure involves freezing a fertilized egg that has developed only eight to 16 cells in liquid nitrogen at 384 degrees below zero. The embryo, fertilized in a laboratory outside the womb, is thawed for implantation in the womb three to four days after the mother ovulates and the uterus is most receptive.

IRS Takes Bite From Tax Refunds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long arm of the federal government finally caught up with 248,000 people who had defaulted on government debts, when the Internal Revenue Service swiped their tax refund checks this year.

The first year of a pilot program to crack down on defaulters netted $135 million toward delinquent government debts, mostly student loans.

The debtors were predictably angry about losing their refunds. More than 50,000 people wrote or telephoned about the so-called off-sets.

"Some people called in and said, 'How dare you do this. This is un-American, unconstitutional.'" White House Budget Director James C. Miller said Wednesday. But overall, he said, "There has been general acquiescence... that they owed it and it was time to pay."

The average offset was $544, but some of the 248,000 paid dearly:

—The largest offset was $9,600 from a Washington, D.C., doctor. He made one $150 payment on his student loan and never made another. His loan balance was $9,800; his tax refund was to be $9,600. "We took his entire refund," said Richard Hastings, the Education Department's director of debt collections.

—One outraged defaulter was expecting a tax refund of $2,613. He got $406; the government took the rest to settle an unpaid student loan. He called the Department of Education in Atlanta and snarled, "This is the only way you're going to get it back!" and hung up.

—Another 50,000 people decided it was better to pay than tangle with the IRS. They coughed up $30 million after getting an initial notice that the IRS was preparing to offset their tax refunds.

One of those was a Pennsylvania man who opened a letter addressed to his wife. He claimed she didn't have a student loan and furthermore the government had her name wrong. He later found out that indeed his wife had a delinquent loan worth several thousand dollars and she had an earlier marriage as well, accounting for the different name.

"He didn't know about the loan or about the husband," said Bob Jamroz of the Education Department.

By far the biggest chunk of the off-sets — $116 million — went to the Education Department, which has a high rate of default on student loans.

"This collection is something of a vindication for those nine out of 10 student loan recipients who do repay their loans on time, in full," Education Secretary William J. Bennett said.

Next year, Miller said, the program will be expanded to 2 million accounts totaling $3.1 billion owed to nine government agencies.

CAR HITS TREE — A Cherry Point man received burns over much of his body today when the car he was driving left the road in a curve near Simpson and hit a tree. Trooper J.B. Heath said Tyrone Floyd Battles' car hit a small tree and came and came to rest against another tree. Battles was listed in serious condition at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Battles told rescuers there was another person in the car, but officials who made a search of the area could not find a second victim. Members of the Eastern Pines Rescue Squad and the Simpson Fire Department responded to the 1:45 a.m. accident. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forest)

Wednesday Thefts

Five thefts were reported to Greenville police Wednesday.

Officer K.D. Lingerfelt said a bicycle valued at $311 was taken from 2707 Crockett Drive in an incident reported at 1:03 a.m., while Officer T.E. Nevelle said a case of motor oil valued at $15.85 was taken from a vehicle parked behind Curry Copy Center on Evans Street in an incident reported at 12:15 p.m.

Nevelle said a lawn chair valued at $60 and a fig plant valued at $15 were taken from a porch at 22C Courtney Square Apartments in an incident reported at 1 p.m.

Officer T.A. Lee said a bicycle was taken from 201 Millbrook Drive in an incident reported at 6:50 p.m., while Officer B.W. Lewis said a bicycle was taken from 917 Melody Lane in an incident reported at 7:51 p.m.

Fireworks Charge

An Atlanta woman was arrested by Greenville police Wednesday night on a charge of possession of pyrotechnics.

Officer W.C. Widener said April Lynn Barfield, 20, was arrested about 7:23 p.m. on Church Street after fireworks were found in her possession.

Drug Arrests Made

Greenville police arrested two people on drug charges in connection with a 2:03 a.m. incident today at 2506 E. Tenth St.

Officers R.J. Brewington and K.D. Lingerfelt said Rusty Russ, 19, and Pamela Jo Conrad, 20, both of apartment 1, 2506 E. 10th St., were charged with possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia following a search of the apartment.

The officers said small amounts of marijuana and cocaine, as well as a set of digital scales, plastic bags and $380 in cash were confiscated.

Equipment Stolen

A break-in and larceny of a Martin County garage resulted in the loss of a large assortment of automotive parts and equipment valued at about $8,000, according to Martin County Sheriff Willie Rogers.

The sheriff said the break-in occurred at the Williams Auto Shop, operated by Delmus Williams on U.S. 264 about two miles east of Roberstonville.

Rogers said the break-in was discovered at midnight Sunday when Williams towed a disabled vehicle into the compound. He said wire cutters had been used to cut through a chain-link fence and the back door to the facility had been forced open.

Investigation of the incident is continuing, said Rogers.

Pastor Appointments

New associate ministers at Jarvis Memorial and St. James United Methodist churches were among approximately 180 new pastoral appointments in the 1986 North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church announced by Bishop C.P. Minnick Jr. today at Duke University.

John C. Speight Jr. was appointed to an associate post at Jarvis, transferring from the Virginia Conference. The new associate at St. James is Samuel W. Loy from Phillips Chapel.

Other appointments in the Greenville district, (Pitt, Beaufort, Greene, Hyde, Lenoir and Martin counties), include: Bell Arthur, Vernon W. Brown III, from Holly Springs; Bethel, Earl G. Dulaney, from Benson; Holly Springs, Bobby P. Tyson Jr.; Hookerton, Clarence E. O'Brian; Mattamuskeet, Roger Schroll; Pink Hill, James A. Starnes; Robersonville, F. Bruce Allen; Stantonsburg, James W. Hicks Jr.; Stokes, Gary L. Dillensnyder, and Vanceboro circuit, Gregory A. Howard.

Each pastor going to a new appointment will move on June 12.

Chowan Honors List

Elizabeth Ann Hawk of Greenville was named to the honors list for academic achievement during the spring semester at Chowan College. She is a graduate of D.H. Conley High School.

Heritage Salute

Mayor Les Garner, in a June 2 proclamation, urged Greenville citizens to renew their appreciation of the American flag and its relationship to American heritage during a 21-day salute from June 14 to July 4.

In the proclamation, Garner said "the colors of the flag signify the qualities of the human spirit we Americans cherish: red for courage and readiness to sacrifice; white for pure intentions and high ideals, and blue for vigilance and justice."

Scholarship Winner

Lana Lynn Hardee, a senior at Ayden-Grifton High School, has been awarded the Hardee's Employee Scholarship for having high scholastic standards and exhibiting leadership qualities.

Miss Hardee, the daughter of George Ray and Jeannie Hardee, said she plans to pursue a nursing career.

Merchants Millpond

Two events for the public are being offered this weekend at Merchants Millpond State Park, Gatesville.

A staff member of the park will give a talk Saturday at 9:30 a.m. about the history of the pond and conduct a hike.

At 2 p.m. Sunday, a park staff member will present a general slide program about the pond. It will cover features at the park along with details on public use of available facilities.

Those attending the programs are to meet at the canoe rental access area.

Development Grants

The town of Bethel is one of three North Carolina communities receiving economic development grants.

Gov. Jim Martin and Tommy Rhodes, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, announced the grant awards Tuesday.

Bethel will receive $230,000 to allow a service supplier of corrugated products to expand services.

The other grants go to Alexander County, $143,533, and Randolph County, $378,000 — both for expansion of existing services.

The grants, totaling $751,533, are part of the state's $31 million Community Development Block Grant allocation for fiscal year 1986.

Cohen discussed how the brain and spine work in sending messages to body organs and parts, how arthritis, joint and back pain develop, and how to best take care and prevent back problems.

Oak Ridge Graduate

Cadet Capt. Wendy Malkowski, daughter of Carolyn T. Malkowski of Greenville, graduated from Oak Ridge Military Academy in May.

Miss Malkowski was awarded medals for the Association of Military Colleges and Schools and for the most scholastically/militarily versatile senior.

Vaccination Clinics

Quarterly rabies vaccination clinics will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. until noon at all local veterinarians' offices in Pitt County.

In order for pet owners to comply with the North Carolina General Statutes, all dogs and cats four months and older must be vaccinated against rabies. The fee is $5 per animal vaccinated.

Census Activity

The Census Bureau will collect labor force status, immigration and birth expectations from area residents from June 16-21, according to John Bell, director of the bureau's Charlotte regional office.

The local unemployment data will contribute to June's national employment and unemployment information to be released July 3rd by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The data on immigration, fertility and birth expectations will help researchers investigate fertility patterns and will assist state and local planners in predicting future needs for schools, child care centers and other such facilities, he said.

Pastor Anniversary

Haddock Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will observe the 26th anniversary of its pastor Sunday.

Bethel Chapel Church, Washington, and Warren Chapel Church will be in charge of the 11 a.m. service. St. James Temple Church, Tarboro, will have the 3 p.m. service, and Wynn Chapel Church, Robersonville, will have the 7:30 p.m. service.

NCSA Graduates

Two Greenville residents are among the 173 graduates of the 1986 class of the North Carolina School of the Arts, Winston-Salem. Graduates include graduate and undergraduate college students and high school seniors.

Both Greenville students — Heidi Louise Schellenberger, school of dance, and Bernard R. Haselrig Jr., visual arts — graduated from NCSA's high school program.

Wooden Boat Show

The new edition of the Traditional Wooden Boat Show, sponsored by the North Carolina Maritime Museum, will be held Saturday and Sunday on the waterfront in Beaufort. The show will feature various boat styles and types.

The event takes the place of the show formerly held each September. Changes in the format of the event are based primarily on the fact no boat slips will be available. Therefore, boats with keel appendages, fixed propellers, skegs or rudders will have to be excluded, a spokesman said.

Boats that can be trailered or cartopped and worked right off the natural shore will be spotlighted.

Demonstrations will be given in sailing techniques, rowing and paddling. (Please turn to page 14)

Request Approved

The Greenville Police Department has announced the approval of a solicitation request by Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Church to sell doughnuts Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to raise money to send youth groups to Craigmont Free Will Baptist Assembly at Black Mountain.

Recycling Center

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co. recently opened a recycling center in Greenville where aluminum products are purchased from consumers twice a week.

A spokesman for the company said the new center, located at 1114 Greene Street and Dudley Street, will operate from 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Wednesday and Friday.

Reynolds will pay 20 to 24 cents per pound for aluminum cans, 18 to 20 cents per pound for scrap aluminum, and 10 cents per pound for foil, the spokesman said. In addition to cans and other household aluminum products, the center will buy larger items such as aluminum siding, downspouts and gutters, storm door and window frames, lawn furniture tubing, and castings.

The Greenville center is one of 24 in North Carolina and 1,500 nationwide. North Carolina centers collected six million pounds or 155 million cans in 1985, paying $1.7 million for the products. About 281 million pounds of aluminum or 7.3 billion cans were purchased for $77 million nationwide.

Since the inception of its consumer-based recycling business, Reynolds has recycled more than 2.6 billion pounds of aluminum, equivalent to almost 68 billion aluminum cans.

Reagan Defends Veto Of Trade Bill

By TOM MINEHART
Associated Press Writer
GREENSBORO (AP) — President Reagan was greeted during his North Carolina visit by a flag-waving crowd at the Greensboro Coliseum complex, and was given a send-off by some 75 textile workers chanting protests of his veto of a trade bill to restrict imports.

Reagan, campaigning for Republican U.S. Senate candidate Jim Broyhill, said during his two-hour visit Wednesday that he knew farmers and textile workers were suffering from economic problems. But he said his fair trade and tax revision programs would improve their lives.

"I know there have been pains and strains here, pockets of industry that have not only not recovered but have gotten worse in some respects," said Reagan, who walked on stage at the Greensboro Coliseum exhibition hall to strains of "Hail to the Chief" with Broyhill at his side.

"There have been plant closings, and there have been farmers who've had it rough. We're not unaware of this back in Washington — we are totally aware of it, and part of the reason is Broyhill."

"We may not always see things eye to eye but we have the same desire — to make life better for the people of our country and the people of this region ... That's why we will continue to press for that level playing field through fair trade actions in every arena," Reagan said.

Reagan received 61 percent of the North Carolina vote in his 1984 landslide re-election. But he angered the state's textile interests and congressional delegation last year by vetoing a bill to reduce the flow of textile and shoe imports from the Far East. Broyhill was a sponsor of the measure and unsuccessfully lobbied Reagan to sign it.

As Reagan left the Coliseum complex, he waved to textile workers from Fieldcrest Mills in Eden and Cone Mills in Greensboro, who were protesting across the street. Some of the protesters, who were chanting "Reagan, Reagan. He's no good. Send him back to Hollywood," took photographs.

In a 15-minute speech to a crowd of some 900 at the $500-a-plate fund-raising luncheon, Reagan said he needed a Broyhill victory.

Reagan also called Sen. John East, R-N.C., who is retiring because of health problems, "a great man." He said he hated to lose East from the Senate, "but there's one comfort — his name is Jim Broyhill."

Reagan said Broyhill "has been a leader. In his 24 years in the Congress, Jim has shown himself to be a man who is motivated by principle but who also has a gift for the maneuvers whereby principle is translated into effective legislation."

Reagan praised Broyhill for supporting his tax and budget cuts, and also spoke of Broyhill's support for education.

"Jim has been a big supporter of educational excellence and achieving it through the return of the four R's — reading, writing, 'rithmetic and respect," Reagan said.

Broyhill faces former governor Terry Sanford, a Democrat, in the November Senate race to succeed East.

On the tax issue, Reagan said Broyhill "supports true tax reform — reform that makes the tax code simple and fair for all Americans while preserving incentives for businesses to create new jobs."

Broyhill also supported "our efforts to sort of dust off and speak highly again of the values that made America not only a great country but a good country," the president said.

Before Reagan arrived at the $500-a-plate luncheon, Broyhill, Gov. and Mrs. Jim Martin and East greeted supporters at the Greensboro Coliseum exhibition hall. Later, Martin and Broyhill and their wives went to the old regional airport to greet Reagan, who arrived with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. on Air Force One, and ride in a motorcade to the hall.

Reagan called Helms "an American classic and an American original, a man who went to Washington not to make himself into something big but to fight for big things, big principles."

East, whose retirement will open a Senate seat to the winner of the Broyhill-Sanford contest, said Broyhill had his "total and unqualified support."

"We have come too far and worked too long and accomplished too much to let it be frittered away in this decisive election year," said East, who received a standing ovation from some 900 people attending the rally.

The event raised $620,000, said Broyhill, who called the event the largest political fund-raiser in North Carolina history.

"We're starting out as a unified party and we're reaching out our hands to independents and Democrats to join us," Broyhill said.

Martin said Broyhill's election was important to help Reagan with GOP control in the Senate because "it would cripple him if he didn't have at least one house controlled by Republicans."

Following the president's speech, 100 couples who had donated at least $2,000 to Broyhill's campaign were to have pictures taken with Reagan at a private reception. At the luncheon, Broyhill supporters dined on cold strawberry soup, sliced chicken breast and pasta salad.

Earlier Wednesday, Reagan spoke to Marine recruits at the Parris Island, S.C., training base and defended his defense spending budget requests.

Raleigh's Population May Be Over 200,000

RALEIGH (AP) — Raleigh is rapidly nearing — if it hasn't already surpassed — a population of 200,000.

Population Research Service of Austin, a Texas consulting firm, estimates Raleigh reached that milestone sometime earlier this year and now has a population of 204,190.

But that estimate may be too high, according to local planners.

The last official city estimate, conducted in January, put the population in Raleigh at 193,381. Another official estimate won't be ready until July, but planners say the city is adding residents at the rate of 10,000 a year.

Population Research Service estimated Raleigh was also the fastest-growing of the nation's 84 largest cities, with a 9 percent growth rate for the year ending in April.

Students Barred From Graduation

MOUNT AIRY, N.C. (AP) — A judge issued a restraining order to keep three North Surry High School underclassmen from attending the school's graduation ceremonies after they allegedly threatened to kill a graduating senior.

Surry County District Judge Foy Clark issued the restraining order Wednesday because of threats allegedly made against senior Robin Mason, 17, of Mount Airy.

Carroll F. Gardner of Mount Airy, Miss Mason's attorney, alleged in a complaint that a student, Latonya King, called Miss Mason on May 20 and said, "We're going to kill you on graduation."

Gardner also alleged that students

Shanna Moore and Tammy Fulton had threatened to harm Miss Mason if she attended the graduation ceremonies.

Security was tight at graduation ceremonies Wednesday, but there was no trouble, Sheriff W.R. Hall said. Hall, 10 of his officers and an officer of the State Bureau of Investigation were posted at the football stadium. About five officers stood on the football field, and one was on the press tower.

Miss Mason has been harassed and threatened throughout the school year by the other three girls, Gardner said.

Principal Glenn E. Cook said he did not know the cause of the dispute between the girls.

Miss King was convicted in Forsyth District Court Wednesday of two assault charges stemming from a May 24 incident when Miss King confronted Miss Mason and members of her family at a shopping mall in Winston-Salem, Gardner said.

According to the complaint, Miss King pushed Miss Mason's sister Michelle into a wall, causing her to suffer a head wound that required 48 stitches to close.

Miss King filed countercharges against Robin Mason and members of her family in connection with the incident, but the Masons were found innocent in Forsyth District Court Wednesday, a spokesman for the court said.

Shaw Will Get Some Funds

RALEIGH (AP) — The U.S. Department of Education, which halted payments of federal grants to Shaw University last month, has agreed to reimburse the Raleigh school for eligible expenses, a department official says.

Shaw had received money from various federal programs in advance before the department issued a stop payment order May 9. Now the university will have to spend its own money, then request reimbursement.

"Any grants that this institution has will be paid this way," said Barry S. Bontemps, director of financial management service. "We haven't shut the door completely on Shaw because we will pay on a reimbursable method."

Bontemps said Wednesday in an interview from Washington that his office sent a letter to President Stanley H. Smith on Tuesday informing him Shaw could ask for reimbursement after documenting eligible expenses.

Meanwhile Wednesday, Shaw employees still hadn't received their paychecks, which should have been distributed Monday, university officials said.

"There's a strong possibility some will be paid this week," said Thomas Kee, vice president for university relations. "We will be paying people as we receive unrestricted funds — that is, funds that are not earmarked for our emergency fund for the liens."

The Internal Revenue Service filed two liens against Shaw last month, seeking $740,000 in unpaid taxes plus interest and penalties. The liens prompted the Education Department to cut off funds.

Shaw has established a fund for contributions to pay the IRS debt, Kee said. He said Shaw has already given the IRS a payment, but he declined to say how much.

IN THE STATE

FBI Agent

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Paul V. Daly, a 20-year veteran of the FBI, will replace Robert Pence as the agency's special agent in charge of North Carolina operations, FBI officials say.

Daly, 45, is currently in charge of the agency's office in Albany, N.Y., where he is responsible for supervising FBI operations in Vermont and 32 counties in upstate New York.

The FBI's office in North Carolina, which employs nearly 100 agents and is run from Charlotte, is about one-third larger than the Albany office.

Identification

JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP) — A partial skeleton found last month in Wilkes County has been identified as a 33-year-old West Jefferson man who had not been seen since October, authorities say.

Authorities say Danny K. Garrett was never reported missing. His remains were found May 12 at a cliff-side dump on N.C. 16 near the Ashe County-Wilkes County line.

Ashe County Sheriff Eugene Goss said he has issued a warrant charging Garrett's brother, Michael Nathan Garrett, 27, of West Jefferson with murder in the case. Goss said Danny Garrett may have been killed in a domestic dispute Oct. 18, 1985, but he declined to reveal the cause of death.

Pembroke Gift

PEMBROKE, N.C. (AP) — Pembroke State University received a $100,000 grant Wednesday from the Belk Foundation Inc., the largest gift in the school's history, university officials said.

Van Autry Jr., executive vice president and secretary-treasurer of Belk-Hensdale Stores, presented the gift to Pembroke Chancellor Paul R. Givens. The money will go toward establishing a Belk Chair of Business and Economics at the state-supported university.

Officers of the Charlotte-based foundation, representing about 350 Belk stores, decided on the grant after meeting earlier this year with Givens and two other university officials, a Pembroke spokesman said.

Pembroke State is in the midst of a three-year campaign to raise $1 million by the end of 1987, the 100th anniversary of the school's founding.

The Belk gift brings the total to $650,000.

Mall Suit

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Charlotte officials have filed a lawsuit against the firms that designed and built Tryon Street Mall, saying its sidewalks were improperly designed and improperly built from defective materials.

The mall was designed in the early 1980s to breathe new life into Charlotte's downtown with trees, bushes and flowers, distinctive bus shelters and new 20-foot-wide sidewalks. Two years ago, workers covered 11 blocks of sidewalks and crosswalks with decorative pavers, transforming a center-city section of Trade and Tryon streets into Tryon Street Mall.

Pavers in crosswalks and at The Square began to break soon after the streets were opened to traffic in late 1984. Nearly all were replaced last year.

Triplets

DURHAM (AP) — Test-tube triplets were born Wednesday at Durham County General hospital, the hospital's first set of triplets since it opened 10 years ago.

The parents were identified as Pat and Kirk Karwan of Durham. The babies were large for triplets: Daniel Kirk weighed in at 7 pounds, 1 ounce; Kevin Ross weighed 6 pounds, 4 ounces, and Amy Louise weighed 5 pounds, 13 ounces.

Graham Reunion

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Ruth Bell Graham, wife of evangelist Billy Graham, will join 103 alumni and charter faculty members of Pyeng Yang Foreign School, formerly located at the present site of the government headquarters in North Korea, for its first-ever reunion in Montreat, officials say.

The school was founded in 1925 to provide education for children of diplomats, businessmen and missionaries living in Korea, China and Japan. The school enrolled 500 students, of which 193 graduated during its 15 years of operation.

The reunion will begin Friday and end Sunday at the Assembly Inn in Montreat.

Program Accredited

ECU News Bureau
 Continuing medical education programs offered by the East Carolina University School of Medicine for physicians, hospitals and other health care providers in eastern North Carolina have been reaccredited for a six-year period, according to school officials.
 Dr. Edwin W. Monroe, senior associate dean of and director of continuing medical education (CME), said the six-year term awarded by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education is the maximum obtainable.
 The school sponsors two types of continuing education activities designed to reflect the constantly expanding body of knowledge that influences the practice of modern medicine. Community-based CME programs are developed specifically to meet the needs of the staffs of individual hospitals and medical societies in the 23-county region served by the Eastern Area Health Education Center. In addition, the school sponsors symposia, conferences, workshops and lectures in close cooperation with departments of the School of Medicine.

 During 1985-86, Monroe said, the CME office provided approximately 600 courses to a projected enrollment of 10,173 health professionals.
 Monroe said reaccreditation of CME programs requires a rigorous evaluation according to standards adopted by the Accreditation Council's sponsoring organizations, which include the American Board of Medical Specialties, the American Hospital Association, the Association of American Medical Colleges and the Federation of State Medical Boards.

Greenville Area Transit (GREAT) buses provide transportation to shopping centers and the Medical Center, as well as places of employment for many citizens of Greenville.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today amid continuing uncertainty about the outlook for interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 4.97 to 1,858.32 in the first hour of trading.

Losers held a narrow lead over gainers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Today, open-market interest rates were mixed — steady to down slightly in the short-term Treasury bill market but higher on long-term government bonds.

Among actively traded blue chips, Sears Roebuck rose 1/8 to 47 3/4; Eastman Kodak 1/4 to 61 1/2, and American Telephone & Telegraph 1/8 to 24 5/8. However, McDonald's dropped 7/8 to 100.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped 27 to 139.93. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .39 at 279.61.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 7.14 to 1,863.29.

Declining issues outnumbered advances by almost 9 to 5 on the NYSE. Big Board volume totaled 116.96 million shares, against 114.71 million in the previous session.

Bob Hope's Plane Has Engine Fire

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Bob Hope was uninjured when his private jet made an emergency landing with smoke pouring from an engine, and the 83-year-old comedian brushed off the incident with a wisecrack.

"They couldn't jumpstart the engine," he said Wednesday.

Fire engines stood by as the six-seat Hawker jet safely returned to Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport where it had taken off for San Diego about noon with Hope and his wife, Dolores, aboard, said publicist Ward Grant.

Grant said he did not know what was wrong with the engine. The smoke was caused by burning oil after pilot Panagiotis Hinoftidis idled the engine and returned to the airport under remaining power, he said.

Hope, due at a USO benefit in San Diego Wednesday night, was unaware that anything was wrong on descent but later joked about the incident, Grant said.

Art Show At Gray Gallery

ECU News Bureau

"Fragments," an exhibition of art works by Greenville area artists, opens at Gray Art Gallery Friday. A reception, free and open to the public, will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Artists exhibiting are Bob Ray, George McKim, Larry Lean, James Beaman, Gary Nemcosky, Allen Lee and Curt Vandervere.

Ray will complete a mixed media wall piece in the gallery; McKim will exhibit paintings on canvas and paper and will create a painted installation. Lean will show photographs and poems; Nemcosky will show prints; Lee will show oil paintings, and Vandervere will exhibit collages using photo papers.

Perry Nesbitt, director of Gray Gallery, says all but one of the artists is an alumnus of East Carolina University, and most are pursuing their careers from a local studio, the 5th Street Gallery.

"Fragments" will remain on view through July 26. Gray Gallery is located in the Jenkins Fine Arts Center on the East Carolina University campus. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, and until 8 p.m. on Wednesdays.

For more information on the show, contact Nesbitt at 757-6336.

General Assembly Opens Short Session

RALEIGH (AP) — Lawmakers began a short General Assembly session today in which they will be debating everything from Gov. Jim Martin's budget program to liability insurance proposals.

The Legislature convened at 11:30 a.m. and the first order of business was to officially adjourn the emergency session that ended Feb. 18.

Major components of Martin's budget program have drawn sharp criticism from Democratic leaders, who prefer a bigger gasoline tax increase and oppose Martin's call for transferring the Highway Patrol and driver education programs from the Highway Fund to the General Fund.

"You're transferring a problem, not solving it, when you do that," House Speaker Liston Ramsey, D-Madison, said last week.

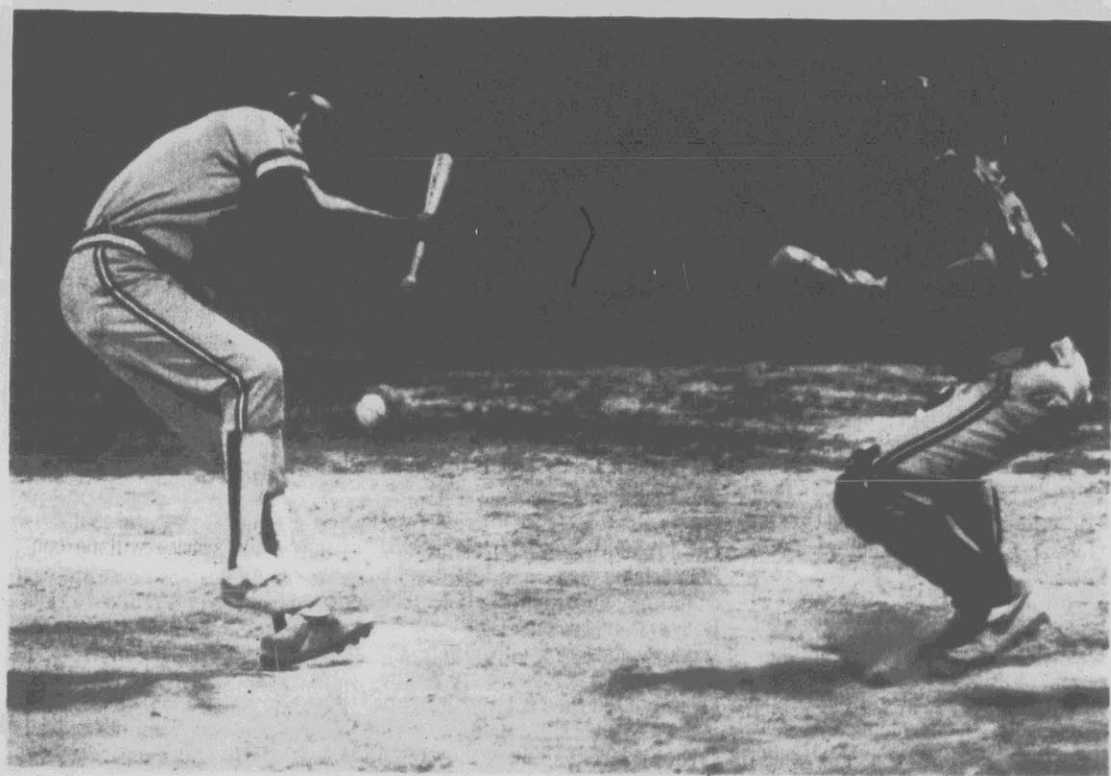

"The Democrats said all I had to do (to get their support) was say the words 'gas tax increase,'" Martin said. "I did it, and now look what's happening."

Democratic leaders have been meeting privately for several days to discuss the budget and other issues. Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan said last week he was searching behind the scenes for a compromise with Martin.

Among Martin's proposals are an addition of $53.6 million to the state budget and an increase of 2 3/4 cents per gallon on the gasoline tax.

Martin, a Republican who championed a nearly $500 million tax cut in 1985, has sharply

Bryan Handcuffs Pitt In Kinston's 11-3 Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Kinston's Post 43 American Legion baseball team, with a 0-3 record, had the early reputation of having no pitching.

But Jay Bryan erased that reputation Wednesday night — at least in the eyes of Pitt County's Post 39 squad. Bryan scattered four hits — three of them by Fred Bryant — and struck out 16 in leading Kinston to an 11-3 win over Post 39 at Harrington Field.

Bryan had his troubles at times, walking eight, but generally his curve balls kept Pitt County guessing.

"We had heard that they had trouble getting strikes, but he did a real good job," Pitt Coach Toby Holliday said of Bryan. "He threw a good ball game, stayed ahead most of the time and made us be on the defense."

Kinston, which collected ten hits, three each by Neal Russell and Felton Mason, got men into scoring position and pushed them over, whereas Pitt did the same but could not score them.

For instance — in the second, Pitt loaded the bases with no one out and got only one run, that on a walk. In the third, they loaded the sacks again with two away and failed to score. All told, Pitt left ten standing while Kinston had 12, but they had many more opportunities.

"Not getting the runs in the second and third really hurt us," Hoday said. "We've left too many people on base in the past couple of games. But it's still early, and I think we can work some of the problems out. We started some different people and I just wanted to let them get the game under their belts. If it had been closer, I might have played more people."

Eight Pitt errors also helped the Kinston cause. Only five of the 11 runs were earned.

Kinston started the rampage in the first inning, scoring three times. Scott Barnhill dropped in a Texas League single to left and Russell walked. Both were sacrificed up and Whit Whitley walked to load the bases. Mason then cracked a double up the gap in right center to score all three runners.

Pitt came back with one in the second to close to 3-1. David Daniels led off with a walk and Bryant got his first hit of the night. Shannon Peede walked to load the bases. Then, after a strike out and a pop-up, Tim Clark walked to force in Daniels.

Kinston added two more in the fourth. Barnhill led off with an infield hit and was sacrificed up. Curtis Patterson reached on an error and with two away, Mason again delivered, hitting a two-run single, his fourth and fifth RBIs.

Pitt scored once in the fifth to trim it to 5-2. Eric Jarman opened with a walk and moved up on an out. He scored on Bryant's third hit of the evening.

Kinston then scored single runs in each of the next three innings. In the sixth, Russell opened with a single and Patterson reached on an error. A walk to Jerry Waters loaded the bases and Chad Howard singled to left to score Russell. Patterson, however, was thrown out at home trying to score.

In the seventh, Ken Tyndall walked and was sacrificed up, moving all the way to third when that base was left uncovered. He scored on Barnhill's sacrifice fly.

Kinston added an eighth run in the eighth. With two away, Mason singled and stole second, moving to third on an error on the relay. He scored when Waters' grounder between first and second again saw the base left uncovered, and an error on the play allowed him to move on to second.

Pitt got its final run in the bottom of the eighth. With one away, Peede doubled to right center and scored when Ty Little reached on an error.

Kinston finished off the scoring with three in the ninth. Tyndall beat out an infield hit and with two away, Russell singled him home. Patterson's fly to center was misplayed, allowing Russell to score. Patterson ended up on third and scored on Whitley's single.

Barnhill also added two hits to the Kinston total.

The loss dropped Pitt to 2-2 on the year while Kinston climbs to 1-3.

The Post 39-men return to action on Friday, hosting Snow Hill.

Joe Niekro Just Misses No-Hit Bid In Yank Win

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Joe Niekro made the decision early. If he was going to lose his no-hitter, he would lose it throwing his best pitch.

"We said in the sixth inning if they were going to get a base hit, it was going to be a knuckleball," Niekro said after Gary Pettis doubled with two outs in the eighth inning for California's only hit Wednesday night in the New York Yankees' 11-0 rout of the Angels.

Niekro, at age 41 trying to become the oldest pitcher in major-league history to throw a no-hitter, said Pettis pulled a 2-2 knuckleball into the right-field corner.

"I'm sure they were looking knuckleball in that situation," Niekro said. "You can second-guess yourself. But if you throw a fastball and they get a base hit, it's not your best pitch. If they were going to get a hit, I wanted it to be on my best pitch."

"I had a good slider and a pretty good fastball, but when I needed to make a pitch, I did it with a knuckleball."

Pettis, a switch-hitter, was batting just .202 from the left side when he doubled at Anaheim Stadium.

"Breaking up a no-hitter is fine and dandy, but I was just trying to iron things out for myself," Pettis said.

Niekro left after eight innings. Al Holland pitched a hitless ninth.

"It was fun," said Niekro, who pitched a one-hitter in 1970 for Detroit, losing his no-hitter when New York's Horace Clarke singled with one out in the ninth inning.

Dave Winfield hit two homers, sparking an 18-hit attack for the Yankees.

Niekro had two close calls that kept his no-hit bid alive.

In the sixth inning, Dick Schofield led off with a hard one-hopper back to the mound that Niekro deflected with his bare hand. The ball rolled toward second base and shortstop Mike Fischlin fumbled it and did not make a throw. The play was ruled an error.

With two outs in the seventh, Rob Wilfong hit a sinking liner that center fielder that Rickey Henderson speared in left-center with a lunging grab at his shoetops.

"When Rickey made that great play, I said, 'Maybe this is the night,'" Niekro said. "But it wasn't meant to be."

Niekro, 6-3, struck out five and walked three. There has not been a no-hitter in the major leagues since California's Mike Witt did it on Sept. 30, 1984, against Texas.

Red Sox 6, Indians 4

Don Baylor, Bill Buckner and rookie Rey Quinones hit home runs and Boston won its fifth straight game by beating visiting Cleveland to complete a three-game sweep.

The Red Sox, in winning for the ninth time in 10 games, raised their record to 36-15 — their best start since going 41-9 on the way to the AL pennant in 1946.

Quinones hit his first major-league homer, a two-run shot that broke a 2-2 tie in the fourth inning. Buckner hit a solo homer, his fifth, in the seventh off Phil Niekro, 3-5. Baylor hit his 13th homer in the eighth.

Rangers 5, White Sox 2

Pete Incaviglia, Ruben Sierra and Oddibe McDowell hit home runs and Bobby Witt and Mickey Mahler teamed on a five-hitter to lead visiting Texas over Tom Seaver and Chicago.

Sierra, a rookie, hit a solo home run in the second inning, his second of the season. Incaviglia, another rookie, hit a two-run homer in the third, his 10th.

Twins 10, Blue Jays 4

Tom Brunansky and Roy Smalley hit two home runs apiece and Jeff Reed also homered, pacing visiting Minnesota past Toronto.

Brunansky and Smalley each hit a two-run shot and a solo homer. All four homers came against Dave Stieb, 1-7, who tied a Blue Jays' record for most homers allowed in a game.

Mariners 5, Orioles 1

Spike Owen went 4-for-4 and drove in two runs while Alvin Davis and John Moses continued the home-run barrage against Baltimore starter Ken Dixon as Seattle beat the host Orioles.

Davis hit a solo homer, his 10th, and Moses added a solo shot, his first, in the seventh inning off Dixon. Davis' homer was the 16th home run allowed by Dixon in 57 1-3 innings, including 11 in his last 17 1-3 innings at home.

Royals 8, Brewers 6

Steve Balboni kept up his extra-base streak with a home run and a double and Hal McRae added a two-run homer that led Kansas City over Milwaukee.

McRae and Balboni hit consecutive doubles in the second, putting the Royals ahead for good 2-1. McRae homered in the third and Balboni hit his 10th homer in the ninth. Balboni's last eight hits have been for extra bases.

Tigers 8, A's 5

Darnell Coles homered, doubled twice and drove in three runs and Lance Parrish and Lou Whitaker also homered, powering Detroit past Oakland.

Coles hit a solo homer, his ninth, in the fifth. Whitaker's sixth homer started a four-run uprising in the sixth. Parrish homered in the seventh, his third in three days and 13th of the season.

Rocky Mount Nips Snow Hill

SNOW HILL — Rocky Mount outlasted Snow Hill in a slugfest American Legion baseball game Wednesday night, taking a 13-11 victory.

The win kept Rocky Mount unbeaten in Area I East play, now 5-0 on the season.

Rocky Mount took the lead with four runs in the second but Snow Hill recovered with one in the second and five in the third. Three of those five scored on a homer by Calvin Brown and gave Snow Hill a 6-4 lead.

Rocky Mount came back with two in the fourth and then charged out to an 11-6 lead with five in the fifth.

What meant the difference, however, scored in the sixth. Shelton Grant and John Adams both reached on errors and Donnie Bobbitt reached on an infield hit that loaded the bases. Hank Jones' grounder scored Grant and Adams scored when Jeff Moore grounded out.

Snow Hill came back with two in the bottom of the sixth, then added three in the seventh, but couldn't catch up again.

Snow Hill did leave the bases loaded in the sixth, seventh and eighth inning as Rocky Mount found just enough to hold them off defensively.

Adams, Bobbitt and Mike Morris each had two hits to lead the Rocky Mount attack. Snow Hill was paced by Shay Beamon with three while David Ward, Brown, Gary Ginn, Andy Varnell and Eddie Honrine each had two.

Snow Hill is now 1-2 on the young season and travels to Pitt County on Friday for its next game.

Browning Returns To Fastball

By JOHN NELSON
AP Baseball Writer

For some reason, Tom Browning had forgotten how he became the first rookie 20-game winner in 31 years.

In his sophomore season, he lost his first four decisions. He was off to a junk start, throwing junk. "I don't know what it was," the Cincinnati Reds left-hander said. "I can't pinpoint why I wasn't aggressive. I started thinking I was a pitcher who could work the outside part of the plate instead of going right at 'em."

Wednesday night, Browning went back to the fastball, his primary weapon when he went 20-9 last year. He struck out nine, a career high, and pitched the first one-hitter of his career in beating the Chicago Cubs 2-0.

"The whole game it looked like he went to his fastball, and he had a good one," Cubs Manager Jim Frey said. "In fact, we were talking about it on the bench."

In the rest of the National League, New York defeated San Diego 4-2, San Francisco beat Montreal 4-2, Philadelphia outslugged Los Angeles 8-7, Houston beat St. Louis 4-2 and Pittsburgh clobbered Atlanta 12-3.

The only hit allowed by Browning was a clean, second-inning single by Jody Davis. Browning walked two and permitted only one runner to reach second base: Leon Durham, who walked ahead of Davis' single.

"I went right at them today," Browning said. "I've got to be able to do that."

Reds player-manager Pete Rose, who scored one of the Reds' runs, called Browning's performance dominant.

"It's hard to one-hit anybody," Rose said. "They didn't have any other balls close to being hits. ... He's been telling you he hasn't been going at hitters. He went at them tonight. I don't know what the difference was."

Browning also drove in one of the Reds' two runs with a single.

Mets 4, Padres 2
Kevin Mitchell broke a 2-2 tie with an eighth-inning double, and Tim Teufel drove in an insurance run with a fielder's choice grounder as the Mets extended their lead in the NL East to 7½ games over Montreal by beating San Diego.

Bruce Berenyi and Roger McDowell combined on a two-hitter for the Mets. McDowell pitched three hitless innings in relief to up his record to 4-0.

Giants 4, Expos 2
The Giants had to rally for three runs in the eighth inning to beat Montreal and win their fourth straight.

Chili Davis' two-run triple gave San Francisco a 3-2 lead, and Luis Quinones drove in the insurance run with a suicide squeeze bunt.

Jeff Robinson, 3-1, pitched three innings of one-hit relief for the victory.

Candy Maldonado doubled and Jeffrey Leonard singled before Davis, hitless in his 13 previous at-bats, tripled off a Jeff Reardon changeup.

Phillies 8, Dodgers 7
Glenn Wilson and Von Hayes had two RBI apiece to pace the Phillies over the fumble-fingered Dodgers.

Los Angeles committed five errors, leading to four unearned Philadelphia runs, and lost despite outitting the Phillies 15-7. The Dodgers increased their major league-leading error total to 67.

Kevin Gross got the victory despite allowing 10 hits and five runs over six innings.

The Dodgers battled back from an 8-2 deficit with four runs in the seventh — three on Mariano Duncan's homer — and another in the eighth on a Franklin Stubbs' homer.

Astros 4, Cards 2
Mike Scott and Dave Smith combined on a six-hitter, and Houston ended St. Louis' four-game winning streak. Smith pitched a hitless ninth for his league-leading 13th save.

Scott ran his major league-leading strikeout total to 106 by fanning eight. Jose Cruz had a double, single and two RBI for Houston. Bill Doran homered for the Astros.

Pirates 12, Braves 3
Barry Bonds, playing in only his sixth major league game after coming up from the minors last Friday, hit his first homer and drove in four runs for the Pirates. Right-hander Mike Bielecki, another rookie, got the victory by working the first 5 2-3 innings, and Jim Winn pitched 3 1-3 hitless innings for the save.

R.J. Reynolds also homered for the Pirates, and Ken Oberkfell homered for Atlanta.

Rain Delaying College Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Oklahoma State has played only 2½ games in eight days at the College World Series, and Coach Gary Ward doesn't like it.

"I've never been on death row, but I think playing baseball in Omaha may be the closest thing to it," Ward said. "It's painful to sit around and not play."

The Cowboys did more sitting Wednesday night. Their game against Loyola Marymount was halted because of rain with Oklahoma State leading 7-4.

The Cowboys had scored seven runs in the fourth inning and were still batting when the game was suspended until today. The loser will be eliminated from the tournament.

"The waiting is very difficult," Ward said. "The anxiety rises. It's a high-stress situation."

The game will resume at 4:10 p.m. CDT. Wednesday's second game, between Miami and Louisiana State, was postponed until today at 7:10 p.m.

The rest of the College World

Series schedule will be pushed back one day, an NCAA official said.

The Cowboys, who had a .337 batting average entering the Series, hit only .234 in their first two tournament games. They managed just two hits in the first three innings against Loyola Marymount ace Tim Layana.

The Cowboys scored their first run on a walk, a double by Jimmy Baragan and a fielder's choice. Bryn Kosco and Anthony Blackmon smacked RBI singles, and Sergio Espinal hit a two-run double to give the Cowboys a 5-4 lead.

Espinal scored on a double by Monty Fariss. Eric Reinholz replaced Layana and gave up an RBI single to Robin Ventura before play was suspended.

"Once you get momentum, it seems like you can handle anything you need to," Ward said.

Loyola Marymount had taken a first-inning lead on Chris Donnels' three-run homer. The Lions' Bobby DeJardin added an RBI single in the fourth inning.

Akeem Still Has Dream: Houston Beating Boston

HOUSTON (AP) — Akeem Oajuwon was known in college by the nickname "The Dream." He still has one.

"We can win on Thursday and then we can go over there (to Boston) and make a miracle happen," Oajuwon, the 7-foot center for the Houston Rockets, said. "It will take a miracle but we can do it."

The Boston Celtics, who lead the series 3-1 after Tuesday night's 106-103 victory, can clinch their 16th National Basketball Association title tonight with a victory over the Rockets. If Houston should win Game 5, the best-of-seven series would return to the Boston Garden where the Celtics have won 40 consecutive games.

The Rockets continue to say they haven't played their best game and Houston Coach Bill Fitch is suggesting there couldn't be a better time for it than tonight.

"There's a guy here in this building who doesn't speak English who understands how important the next game is," Fitch said trying to emphasize how obvious his team's precarious position is.

However, the Rockets still have a dream.

"They are saying they are one game away from winning the championship and we are saying we are one game away from returning the series to Boston," Houston guard Robert Reid said.

Reid, one of two Rockets who played against the Celtics in the 1981 NBA title series — when Fitch coached the Celtics — is determined to force the Celtics to win it in Boston.

"I remember that sad feeling we had when they won the championship on our court in 1981," Reid said. "It was sad to see them get the trophy on our court and then to hear them through the dressing room walls shouting 'We're No. 1.'"

"The fans of Houston deserve better than that. If they're going to win it, we want to see they have to do it in Boston."

Fitch has tried all the psychological ploys he can muster, including showing off his 1981 championship ring.

The Celtics had to rally from a 3-1 deficit to eliminate Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals in 1981 to earn the right to face the Rockets in the finals.

Fitch didn't allow the point to go unnoticed on his current team.

"Yeah, I mentioned the ring, just so they would know that it's not impossible to come back," Fitch said. "I anticipate these guys will come back and give the same effort as they did last night (Tuesday)."

"They have youth on their side, they have fear on their side and they have peer pressure on their side," Fitch said of his team. "If they come out and play a bad game it won't be because of a lack of character or effort."

The Celtics are trying to avoid thinking past the Game 5, but it's difficult. They say publicly the series isn't over but the champagne has been ordered.

Wachovia Bank.....13
Computerland.....9

Marty Measamer and Andy Miller each hit a two-run homer and Tim Moore struck out 14 batters as Wachovia Bank outlasted Computerland, 13-9, Wednesday night in the Babe Ruth League.

Computerland scored first, getting a run in the first inning. Wachovia came back with four in the second, when Miller and Measamer each hit their homers.

Computerland came back with one in the second, but Wachovia exploded for nine big runs in the third to put the game away.

Moore opened by reaching on an error as did Wes Jackson. Miller walked as did Craig Willoughby, forcing in the first run. Malcolm Wilson walked, bringing in Jackson and Measamer walked to score Miller. Park Williams singled in Willoughby and Clarence Hammonds reached on an error, scoring Wilson. Chris Fuqua reached on a fielder's choice that got Measamer, but Moore singled in Williams. Miller walked to plate Hammonds and a hit by Willoughby brought in Fuqua and Moore with the final runs.

Computerland tried to rally from the 13-3 deficit, scoring two in the third, one in the sixth and three in the seventh, but fell short.

Chris Christopher had three of the five hits allowed by Moore to lead Computerland. No one had more than one hit for Wachovia.

Pepsi-Cola.....10
Brown & Wood.....3

Nelson Galloway collected four hits and led Pepsi-Cola to a 10-3 win over Brown & Wood in the Babe Ruth League Wednesday night.

Pepsi got all the runs it needed in the first, scoring five times. Abram Lang opened with a single and Darrell Moore got a hit to drive him in. Galloway tripled in Moore and Kendall Hardee walked. Jeff Berrett singled in Galloway, but Hardee was thrown out advancing. Richard Lewis walked and Andre Hopkins singled to drive in both Berrett and Lewis.

Pepsi went on to add four in the fourth and one in the fifth. Brown & Wood got one each in the second, third and fifth.

Bethel.....6
Robersonville.....3

ROBERSONVILLE — Bethel came away with a 6-3 victory in a Coastal Plains Senior Babe Ruth League game Wednesday night.

Chuck Doak got the victory, with help from Rich Grimes.

Bethel's hitting was led by Scott Rawls with four hits including a double.

Robersonville was paced by S. Johnson with a homer, a single and a double.

Bethel insured the win in the first inning with three runs on two hits.

Bethel is now 3-1 on the year and plays Friday against Ayden-Grifton.

Tarboro.....8
Ayden-Grifton.....1

TARBORO — Tarboro rolled up an 8-1 victory over Ayden-Grifton in the Coastal Plains Senior Babe Ruth League Wednesday night.

Jamie Southerland tossed a three-hitter at Ayden-Grifton to claim the victory.

Tarboro's hitting was led by Charles Johnson, Mike Jones and Steve Barnes with two each. One of Barnes' hits was a three-run homer in the fifth inning.

Ayden-Grifton's hits were made by Steve Tucker, Andy Swanson and Tony McLawhorn.

Ayden-Grifton is now 2-2 and plays at Greenville Kiwanis tonight.

Union Carbide.....10
Kiwanis.....6

Sam Jennings and Josh Howard each collected two hits as Union Carbide gained a 10-6 baseball victory over the Kiwanis in North State Little League action Wednesday.

The Kiwanis struck first, getting three runs in the top of the first inning. But Union Carbide came back to score twice in its half of the inning. The Kiwanis upped the lead to 4-2 with one in the top of the second. Union Carbide then took the lead with three in the bottom of the frame.

Union Carbide then scored five times in the third to push ahead, 10-4, putting the game away. Nelson Lang walked and moved up on a wild pitch.

Daryl Cherry also walked and both moved up on a wild pitch. Chris Edmondson singled to score Lang and a passed ball let Cherry score. Jay Moore walked and advanced on a passed ball. Both Edmondson and Moore scored when Andre Williams singled. Williams moved up on an error and scored on a wild pitch with the final run.

The Kiwanis came back with two more in the fifth.

No one had more than one hit for the Kiwanis.

Exchange.....26
True Value.....14

The Exchange scored 17 times in the second inning and went on to record a 26-14 victory over True Value Hardware in the Tar Heel Little League Wednesday.

Brian Vincent led the Exchange hitting with four while D.J. Miles and J. Cox each collected a pair of hits.

True Value struck for the initial lead, scoring eight times in the first. Exchange came back to score four times in the bottom of the inning.

True Value picked up three more in the second on a homer by J.D. Helms to forge into an 11-4 lead.

But then the bottom fell out for True Value as Exchange pushed over 17 runs in the bottom of the inning to take a 21-11 lead.

Exchange used 11 walks, two hit batters, a catcher's interference, three singles and two doubles to gain the total. Brian Vincent hit a three-run double that got the scoring started. Pat McClung added a run-scoring single while Miles had a two-run double. Cox closed out the scoring with a run-scoring single.

Exchange added five more in the fourth. True Value came back with one each in the third, fourth and fifth, but fell well short of catching up.

Henry Clark led the True Value hitting with three while Brooks Honeycutt had two.

No one on either team had more than one hit.

First Citizens is now 3-1 while Grifton slumps to 1-3.

Pernfors Upsets Boris Becker

PARIS (AP) — The patient image of clay-court tennis is taking a beating at the French Open.

Usually a place where patience is the virtue most rewarded, the slow red clay of Roland Garros will get a taste of power tennis in the men's semifinals.

The four men remaining in the tournament have been known to go to the net, and that change of pace was underscored in Wednesday's last two quarterfinal matches.

Henri Leconte, the No. 8 seed from France, and unseeded Mikael Pernfors, a Swede who won two NCAA championships on hardcourts while at the University of Georgia, each scored serve-and-volley victories.

Leconte beat unseeded Andrei Chesnokov of the Soviet Union, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, and Pernfors upset No. 3 Boris Becker of West Germany, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

"I came very often to the net," Leconte said. "I didn't stay back. If you stay back, you lose."

Pernfors, whose college coach, Dan Magill, was on hand, said he was helped by Becker's mistakes — including eight double faults.

"I got what I wanted," Pernfors said. "I wanted him to play bad. ... Everything I hit seemed to go into the court."

Pernfors will face Leconte and top-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia takes on American Johan Kriek, No. 13, in the semifinals on Friday.

The women were to play their semifinals today and the lineup was a bit more conventional.

Top-seeded Martina Navratilova, overpowering no matter what the surface, was to face No. 6 Helena Sukova, from the clay courts of Czechoslovakia, and second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd was to meet another Czechoslovak, fifth-seeded Hana Mandlikova.

The women's championship will be decided Saturday, the men's on Sunday.

The results Wednesday kept alive both the French hopes of winning the national championship and a streak of Swedish success in Paris.

Before this year no Frenchman had made the semifinals since 1983 and only five had been there over the past 22 years. But France started the tournament with high hopes and three men among the top 10 seeds — No. 4 Yannick Noah, Leconte and No. 10 Thierry Tulasne.

Tulasne was eliminated in the second round, and Noah withdrew with an ankle injury before his fourth-round match with Kriek last Sunday. But Leconte, idle for several months earlier this year with mononucleosis and the flu, kept the hopes of the home nation alive by preventing Chesnokov from settling into his favored baseline game.

Leconte came in behind his serves and volleyed for quick points. On a center court used to meetings of four hours or more, Leconte's victory took just 1 hour, 48 minutes.

"I wanted to impose my game on him, have him stay on the baseline,"

Chesnokov said. "But I wasn't able to do that."

"Today it was like everything was swirling around me and I couldn't do anything."

Leconte said he had tried to come back too quickly from his illness but now feels fully recovered.

"I feel better mentally and physically," he said. "I felt very fresh and ready for this tournament."

Pernfors took just 2:15 to continue a run of Swedes in the semifinals. Not since 1977 has his country failed to have a player among the final four men.

When the tournament started, Sweden had four players in the men's top seven seeds — defending champion Mats Wilander No. 2, Stefan Edberg No. 5, Joakim Nystrom No. 6 and Anders Jarryd No. 7. All are long gone, with Edberg eliminated by Pernfors in the second round.

"It is a great way for me to get known in my country," Pernfors said. "I am the only one left in the tournament so they have no one else to write about."

He said his success in Paris was impossible to compare with his success in Athens, Ga.

"The first year I won the (NCAA) singles, it was really great," he said. "It was the best feeling when we won the team championship. We had such fun, and it was great having won and sharing it. This is different, it is for you."

Becker said he "started perfectly," then fell apart.

"I couldn't miss a ball for 20 minutes," the 18-year-old said. "I couldn't do anything at the end, he played everywhere."

Pernfors and Becker had played once before, in Indianapolis in April 1985. Pernfors had five match points in that one, but Becker won the match.

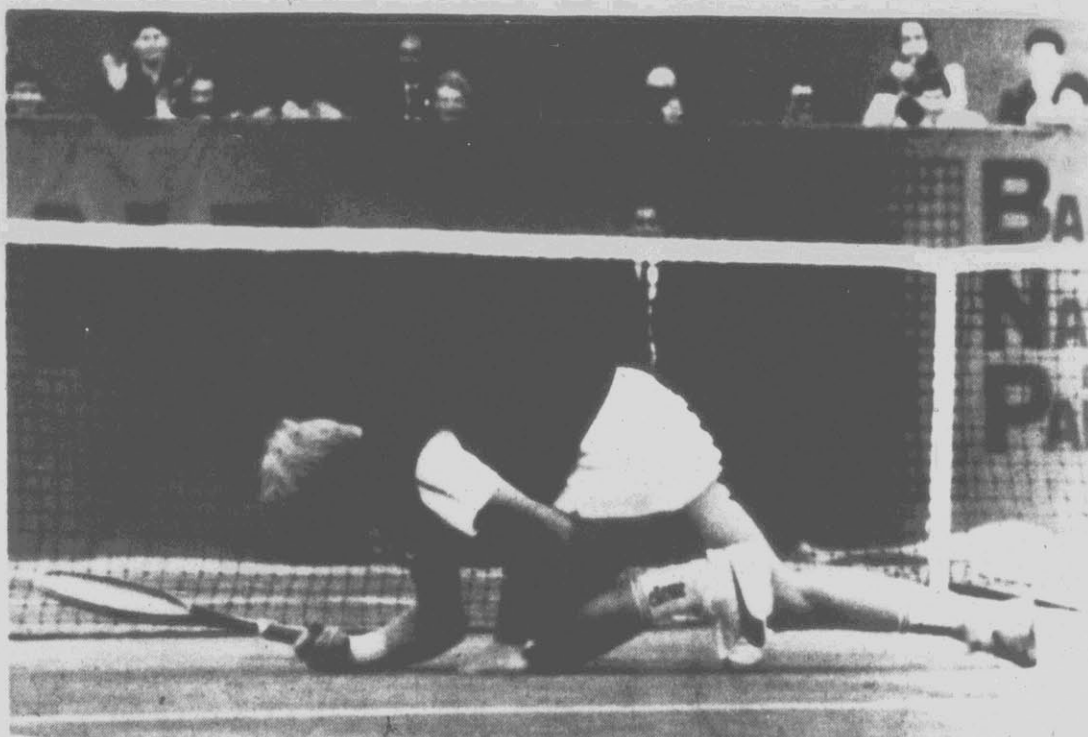

"His passing shot is better now," Becker said.

It was a passing shot that won the match for Pernfors this time, on his third break of the final set.

Just before that shot, Pernfors had a talk with himself.

"I told myself, 'If you win one more point, you can jump and yell. Not before,'" he said.

And that's exactly what he did when his forehead zipped down the line as Becker charged to the net.

Down And Out

West Germany's Boris Becker, the third seed, is on the ground during Wednesday's match with Mikael Pernfors of Sweden in the French Open Tennis Tournament. Pernfors downed Becker in four sets, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0 to advance to the semifinals. (AP Laserphoto)

Watson Hopes To Win One

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Tom Watson had a wry smile on his face as he offered a capsule resume of his season: "Looks like I'm stuck in third gear."

Watson, who was to tee off today in the first round of the $600,000 Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic, has been a frustrated non-winner for almost two full seasons. But the five-time British Open champion has finished third in four tournaments this season.

In two of those tournaments, his chances of overtaking the front-runners were cut short when weather problems reduced the tournaments to 54-hole formats.

He has won more than $214,000 this season, is a solid fourth on the Vantage Cup standings, is in contention for the Vardon Trophy and, in his last start, became only the second man to pass the $4 million mark in career earnings.

All of which, Watson acknowledges, is encouraging. "Generally, I'm playing better than I did last year. I feel like it's getting better, that I've got it going in the right direction," he said.

But it doesn't solve the problem — he hasn't won.

"I just haven't played well enough to win," Watson said.

But it was a mental lapse — and a strict adherence to the rules — that kept him out of a playoff in his last start, the Colonial National Invitation in Fort Worth, Texas.

Ex-Navy Analyst Pleads Guilty To Spying For Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors who obtained a guilty plea from former Navy intelligence analyst Jonathan Jay Pollard on charges of spying for Israel say they will press forward with their investigation of an Israeli spy ring that operated in the United States.

U.S. Attorney Joseph diGenova said Wednesday in documents filed in U.S. District Court that at least five Israeli citizens were involved in a spy network that used Pollard, a onetime civilian employee of the Navy, to supply classified defense documents on countries hostile to Israel.

Pollard and his wife, appearing together, pleaded guilty to espionage charges, and federal prosecutors said the Pollards' co-conspirators included an Israeli Air Force colonel and two diplomatic officials.

The Israeli citizens were Rafi Eitan, an Israeli intelligence official who allegedly directed the ring; Col. Aviem Sella, an officer in the Israeli Air Force; Joseph Yagur, a science attache at the Israeli consulate in New York; and Irit Erb, a secretary at the Israeli embassy in Washington.

Moreover, additional documents filed by the prosecutors say that Pollard also met with another Israeli, identified only as "Uzi," at the Maryland home of an Israeli diplomat.

Not named in the indictment is Ilan Ravid, deputy science attache in the Israeli embassy, who was recalled along with Yagur after Pollard's arrest last year.

"The co-conspirators named in the Pollard indictment are still subjects of an ongoing grand jury criminal investigation," diGenova told reporters after the court session. He said the probe includes "those named (in court documents), others not named and those not known at this time."

Asked whether the Israeli government had authorized the spy network, diGenova responded, "We are not saying one way or the other." Israel has said the operation was not authorized by top government officials.

In December, Prime Minister Shimon Peres apologized to the United States for the Pollard matter, which he later told reporters was an isolated incident of "limited and passing importance" to U.S.-Israel relations.

Following Peres' apology, Secretary of State George Schultz said he accepted Israeli assurances that Pollard was not part of a larger Israeli network for spying on the United States.

National Public Radio on Wednesday quoted unidentified Reagan administration sources as saying that Israeli officials did not tell the truth about Israeli intelligence operations within the U.S. when the U.S. questioned Israel about Pollard's activities. Pollard, the sources told NPR, was part of a "deliberate and well-thought-through" effort to get agents inside American intelligence agencies.

Tenants Sue Landlord

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Residents of a dilapidated building who say they regularly fight off armies of giant rats, swarms of cockroaches and youth gangs that roam their hallways have sued the building's owner for $10 million.

Attorneys for the Spanish-speaking residents related nightmarish stories of cockroaches biting sleeping children, a rat they said tried to drag a baby from its bed and another that allegedly attacked a man in the shower.

They said tenants feel rats crawl over them at night and some stand guard over babies all night, fighting off the rodents with brooms and slingshots.

Pollard, 31, of Washington, admitted his guilt under a plea bargaining agreement with the U.S. attorney's office in which the federal government agreed to seek a term of imprisonment less than a life sentence. However, diGenova said he would seek a "substantial term" of imprisonment for Pollard.

Pollard pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with conspiring to deliver information related to the national defense to a foreign government. He faces a maximum $250,000 fine, in addition to imprisonment.

Pollard's wife, Anne Henderson Pollard, pleaded guilty to conspiring to receive embezzled government property and to being an accessory to possession of national defense documents. Mrs. Pollard, 26, faces up to 10 years in prison and a $500,000 fine.

The Pollards agreed to cooperate with the U.S. attorney's office in Washington in its investigation of the former members of the spy network.

Sella, according to diGenova, was the initial contact and the spy "handler" for Pollard.

During the appearance by Pollard and his wife in U.S. District Court, federal prosecutors filed documents alleging that Pollard passed to his co-conspirators dozens of classified documents that described military information about several countries hostile to Israel. The countries were not identified.

Pollard took the documents out of the Navy facility in Maryland where he worked over a period of 18 months ending with his arrest last Nov. 21 in front of the Israeli embassy in Washington, prosecutors said.

U.S. officials, speaking on condition that they not be identified, have said that Pollard had provided classified documents dealing with the military capabilities of Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Jordan and other Arab countries. Pollard was asked to get for Israel information on electronic countermeasure equipment designed to jam enemy radar, disrupt communications and confuse enemy defenders, the officials have said.

ASCS Hits New Money Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what has become almost a routine financial crisis, the government agency that finances farm subsidies and crop loans has run out of money, shutting off checks to thousands of farmers.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service put out the word Wednesday to its county offices around the country not to write any more checks to farmers until the Commodity Credit Corp.'s fund is replenished by Congress.

That meant a halt to as much as $100 million a day in checks for the government's subsidized dairy herd slaughter program, advances on income subsidies for major crops, storage payments and loans for winter wheat now being harvested in the South.

The shutoff "might not be so difficult if it doesn't last too long" because this is not the CCC's heaviest demand season, said Ray Waggoner, an ASCS spokesman.

"But I just think of it as though I were a farmer waiting for a check," he added. "Some people need checks to make payments for many different things. Farmers owe a lot of money. The more days it is, the more it hurts an individual farmer."

Winter wheat loan demand is not expected to pick up significantly until later in the month, officials said. But dairy programs would be impacted by the funds cutoff, along with a few farmers who had not yet received their advance subsidies for signing up for 1986 crop programs.

Regular purchases of surplus dairy products as part of the price-support system are halted, along with subsidies to farmers participating in the dairy herd slaughter and the red meat purchases being made to offset the slaughter's effects on beef prices.

The CCC is the financial pool for all major farm programs, including crop loans. From time to time it runs out of money, and must be replenished through congressional appropriations. The shutoff of CCC authority has become a recurrent problem, often tied to squabbles on Capitol Hill over unrelated aspects of legislation that contains new money for the fund.

The last time the fund ran dry was in March, when checks were put on hold for two weeks just as farmers began signing up for 1986 crop programs.

An "urgent" supplemental spending bill that includes $5.3 billion for the CCC is now awaiting action on the Senate calendar. But major tax legislation has been occupying center stage in the Senate, and talks are under way to find time for acting on the spending measure.

Even then, differences between the Senate version of the catchall supplemental spending bill and the one already passed by the House must be worked out, and it must be signed by the president. The House version contains no money for the CCC, and the spending package is loaded with unrelated items objectionable to the White House.

Egg Farm Raided By Rights Group

HARTLY, Del. (AP) — An underground animal-rights group calling itself the Farm Freedom Fighters raided a henhouse, officials say, snatching 25 chickens and spray-painting the walls with slogans including "Animal Auschwitz."

The raid on Sydel's Egg Farm is believed to be the first of its kind to protest farm animal abuse in the United States, Lorri Bauston, president of the Wilmington-based Farm Sanctuary, a national group that monitors abuse of farm animals, said in a telephone interview Wednesday.

"Farm animal liberations have been going on in Europe for a number of years and it appears it's now become a part of America. Since they said many more would follow, I would suspect this is a national group," she said.

Farm Freedom Fighters claimed to have taken 25 hens in the raid state police estimate occurred between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, said spokesman Cpl. Gerald Pepper. The farm has 25,000 hens, Pepper said.

Pepper said the investigating officer reported black and red spray paint on the outside of the henhouse with the letters "FFF," but Susan Wiedman of Farm Sanctuary said a videotape left under a playground slide for her group shows slogans "Animal Auschwitz" and "Battery Cages are Torture Chambers."

Ms. Wiedman was among the group's members in Potomac distributing copies of the videotape to reporters.

NBC News Say Story Accurate

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of NBC News, disputing government criticism of a broadcast by the network, said the report that more Americans are finding it hard to afford telephone service was accurate and fair.

"While there may be some debate as to the number of people affected, there seems to be no doubt that, for many, the cost of post-divestiture telephone service has become a hardship. This is the story we were attempting to tell and we are satisfied we did so fairly," William O. Wheatley Jr., executive producer of NBC-TV's "Nightly News," said Wednesday.

Federal Communications Commission telephone regulation chief Albert Halprin had disputed the report, using Census Bureau figures that indicate a greater percentage of people than ever before — 92.2 percent — have home phones.

In a letter to Halprin, Wheatley wrote that the report "was absolutely accurate in its basic theme: that, since the breakup of AT&T, more and more Americans, particularly the elderly, are finding it difficult to afford a phone."

Wheatley wrote that reporters had no difficulty finding people who were using their phone less or had it taken out because of high cost.

"Pinpointing how many people have had difficulty in dealing with higher phone costs remains elusive," Wheatley conceded. "Your letter gives no indication of what you believe the real figures to be."

Halprin was critical of NBC's report that 2 million people might drop from the phone network by the end of the year because of high cost.

Wheatley said, "We were told repeatedly that, for many, the increased costs have resulted in less use of their telephone and that, for some, it has meant the trauma of actually giving up their telephones."

In his letter to Wheatley last Friday, Halprin said that while rates vary from place to place, flat-rate monthly service charges on average have increased 6.6 percent since the breakup of the Bell System.

Wheatley fired back another set of figures from the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics that calculates the cost of living.

Adding in installation charges, phone rental, the monthly $1 federal subscriber line charge and calling rates, the bureau said local telephone costs have gone up 31.7 percent since December 1983, just before the Bell breakup.

Interviews were recorded by NBC in Meadville, Pa., where, according to the FCC, rates increased by $3.90 a month, a 33 percent hike.

Soap Opera Writer Earns Living Putting Words In People's Mouths

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a soap opera writer, Frank Salisbury earns his living putting words in other people's mouths.

Salisbury, who writes the dialogue for two episodes a week of the NBC daytime serial "Santa Barbara," has been writing soap opera dialogue for the past 15 years. His credits include "The Guiding Light," which brought him an Emmy award, "General Hospital," which won him an Emmy nomination, "As the World Turns" and ABC's prime-time serial "Dynasty."

In his spare time, Salisbury turns out yet more dialogue in the form of stage plays. But for contrast he writes comedies rather than the anger and suffering of the soaps. His play "The Seagulls of 1933" won the Los Angeles Drama Critics Award. He has another play, "Shooting in Scotland," which he hopes to have produced on Broadway.

Soap operas consume so much material — most are now an hour long — that they require a platoon of specialized writers. "Santa Barbara" has three head writers, a script editor, three breakdown writers and four dialogue writers. ABC's "General Hospital" has 15 writers, making the credits look like those of "Star Wars."

"The head writers do the bible, the long-term story projections," Salisbury said. "The breakdown writers take that and break it down into episodes and scenes and write very detailed outlines. The dialogue writers write the scripts, and the script editor keeps everything straight."

Salisbury said he's always pleased when an actor follows his dialogue precisely, but he's also resigned to the fact that most actors merely use the script as a blueprint and change the words.

In the years he's worked on the soaps, Salisbury said he has seen the form change considerably. "They've changed both in content and in the way they're done," he said. "They're much franker now, more explicit. And they're done more by committee. There are no more writers shaping the shows alone. They're doing more location work, too. The shows today are geared to younger audiences than they were when I started."

Salisbury spends one day a week at the "Santa Barbara" office for a marathon story conference. He writes the scripts at home on his word processor in three to four days. Often, he finds himself working over a weekend and taking a few days off in the middle of the week.

"It gives me plenty of time to pursue my other projects," he said. "It's like having a grant to work on your own things. We don't make as much as prime-time writers, but it's steady and 52 weeks a year."

Salisbury had written for prime-time anthologies in the 1950s, but gave it up to join a contracting company. He was a vice president when the company was bought out by an Eastern conglomerate.

"I suddenly found myself out of work," he said. "One day I ran into my old agent and he said he handled the head writer of 'The Edge of Night' and he was looking for a writer. I wrote a couple of sample scripts and I was hired. I've been at it for the last 15 years. The longest time I was out of work was six months."

"To be a writer after the confines of working in an office is wonderful. You can go out and play tennis in the afternoon if you feel like it. It's one of the nicest things about the writing profession." His play "Shooting in Scotland" had been optioned for staging in London but the option was dropped last December.

"We're now knocking on doors in New York," he said. "I think something will happen. It's a good, three-character commercial comedy. It's about a man shooting a movie in Scotland, but it all takes place in Malibu."

He also has two unproduced screenplays. "I haven't written my unsuccessful novel yet, but it's in the offing," he said.

No matter how easy your contract seems, take time out to consider the best line. At rubber bridge or in team competition, your first duty is to make your contract; overtricks can wait.

Let's suppose you reach four spades on the auction shown. Your jump rebid in your own suit was invitational, and partner's ace, king and three trumps were more than he needed to raise to game.

At first glance it might seem that you need either a 2-2 trump break, or the ace of clubs onside, or the player with three diamonds to have the long trump to make your contract. If you looked no further into the matter you would probably be defeated. You would win the opening lead and bang out your high trumps. When East turned up with a trump trick, you would have to decide whether to play on diamonds or cross to dummy to lead a club toward your king. Whichever line you chose, you would be doomed to defeat because the gods were not smiling that day.

However, if you want to rely on your skill rather than the deities, you could insure your contract. Win the ace of hearts and lead a trump. If East follows with the eight or nine, simply cover with the ten. West might get that trick, but you can win any return, draw trumps and then discard a club on the table's long diamond. You would lose at most one trump and two clubs.

If East produces an honor on your trump lead, win and cross to dummy with a diamond to lead another trump. Again, you intend covering whatever card East produces. And your technique is rewarded. As the cards lie, you pick up the trump suit without losing a trick, so that after you discard a club on the fourth diamond and lead toward the king, you lose two club tricks because West has the ace, but no more.

Shelter Funds OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mitch Snyder ended a four-day fast after the White House said it would release a $965,000 "down payment" to repair a crumbling shelter for the homeless, but Snyder said he won't give up his fight until the rest of the promised $5 million is turned over.

White House deputy press secretary Peter Roussel said late Wednesday the Department of Health and Human Services had been directed to release $965,000 to the District of Columbia for the shelter.

As the White House issued its statement, Snyder joined hands at the Capitol Hill shelter with Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and sipped water from a styrofoam cup to end a fast four days after he began refusing food and liquids.

"Until the agreement is fulfilled, it's not fulfilled," Snyder said, terming the fast "suspended."

The administration's decision came after a day in which Snyder's health appeared to deteriorate and the Rev. Jesse Jackson visited the shelter to pledge nationwide "massive direct action" supporting the activist's demands. Jackson said he planned a "Hands Around the White House" demonstration Saturday and sympathy fasts around the country.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1986

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Use your ingenuity and resourcefulness today and tonight to wind up conditions from the past and get ready for a new set of conditions to start in motion with tomorrow's Moon.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle those errands and letters, reports, etc. that can bring greater success in the near future. Complete projects already started.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan how to handle your responsibilities in the morning. Make collections that have been difficult here this.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy early solving problematic matters and don't run off on any tangents. Discuss with allies how they have tried to help you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Early get into matters that have taken much time in the past and wind them up. Handle duties your promised your mate to do.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You have been working on gaining personal aims, and today you can complete the work necessary to gain the right results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study worldly affairs you have been handling and they are soon completed and behind you. Complete agreement with bigwigs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have been contending with an entirely new set of circumstances and by now should be operating at top speed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have many conditions to improve hither and yon, so get an early start on this and plan your itinerary wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have to assert yourself somewhat if your partners expect too much from you just because you have the ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get the loose ends of present activities tied up and you get fine results now. Avoid being overly critical with co-workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Put the finishing touches to that plan for recreation and later all will go along smoothly and everyone will be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get at the small duties around the house that can make everything more harmonious in that important realm of your living.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will easily combine the mental with the physical and become a well-coordinated person who can tackle just about anything and make a success of it, provided a good combined course of education is given. Plan for it now.

Rain-Soaked Texas Braces For More Showers

By SHEILA ALLEE
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Water-logged south Texas braced for more rainfall today as residents cleaned up from floodwaters that forced more than 2,000 people to evacuate and closed roads, businesses and schools.

The heavy rains were blamed for the drowning deaths of a 5-year-old boy and a soldier at Fort Hood in central Texas, bringing to 10 the fatalities blamed on the latest cycle of bad weather since it hit May 24.

National Weather Service spokesman Gary Grice said there was a better than average chance of more rain today in San Antonio, where 11 inches has fallen since May 25. The city normally gets 29 inches a year.

Because of the forecast, emergency workers remained on standby late Wednesday, hours after the heavy rains stopped.

Nearly 7 inches of rain fell on the city in the 12 hours ending at noon Wednesday, flooding highways, and forcing at least 2,000 residents from their homes.

Street flooding was reported in Houston and extended as far north as Sherman, near the Oklahoma border. Four funnels were spotted in nearby Bonham but no damage was reported.

Most of the evacuees in San Antonio were in the Olmos Basin area, a flood plain of the Olmos Dam.

Police spokesman Paul Buske said the dam, built to hold 30-foot waters, was overflowing at 36 feet. The flood gates had to be opened, posing the threat of flooding to the approximately 2,000 residents.

But officials allowed most residents to return to their homes Wednesday afternoon as skies cleared.

But weather service meteorologist Stan Hall warned that residents would "be back in a crisis" if more heavy rains fell quickly.

Wednesday's rains caused nearly 120 accidents and the police department to order 150 vehicles towed. Most of those vehicles, Buske said, were submerged in water.

"In my 60 years in the city, I've never seen water this high," said San Antonio Fire Chief I.O. Martinez.

Dozens of motorists were stranded in low water crossings and many freeways, deluged with rainwaters, had to be closed temporarily during Wednesday's morning rush hour.

Trinity University, the University of Texas at San Antonio, other local colleges, offices and businesses shut down for the day.

Four volunteer firemen had to be rescued by helicopter from a tree after they tried to help a stranded motorist.

The afternoon sunshine helped dry conditions somewhat, but the air remained extremely humid, Grice said.

"The soil is so waterlogged, if we have any rain, we're going to have problems with runoff," he said.

The body of the 5-year-old boy, who had been missing since he went to buy ice cream on Thursday, washed up on the banks of the San Antonio River late Tuesday, said Police Lt. Jack Summey.

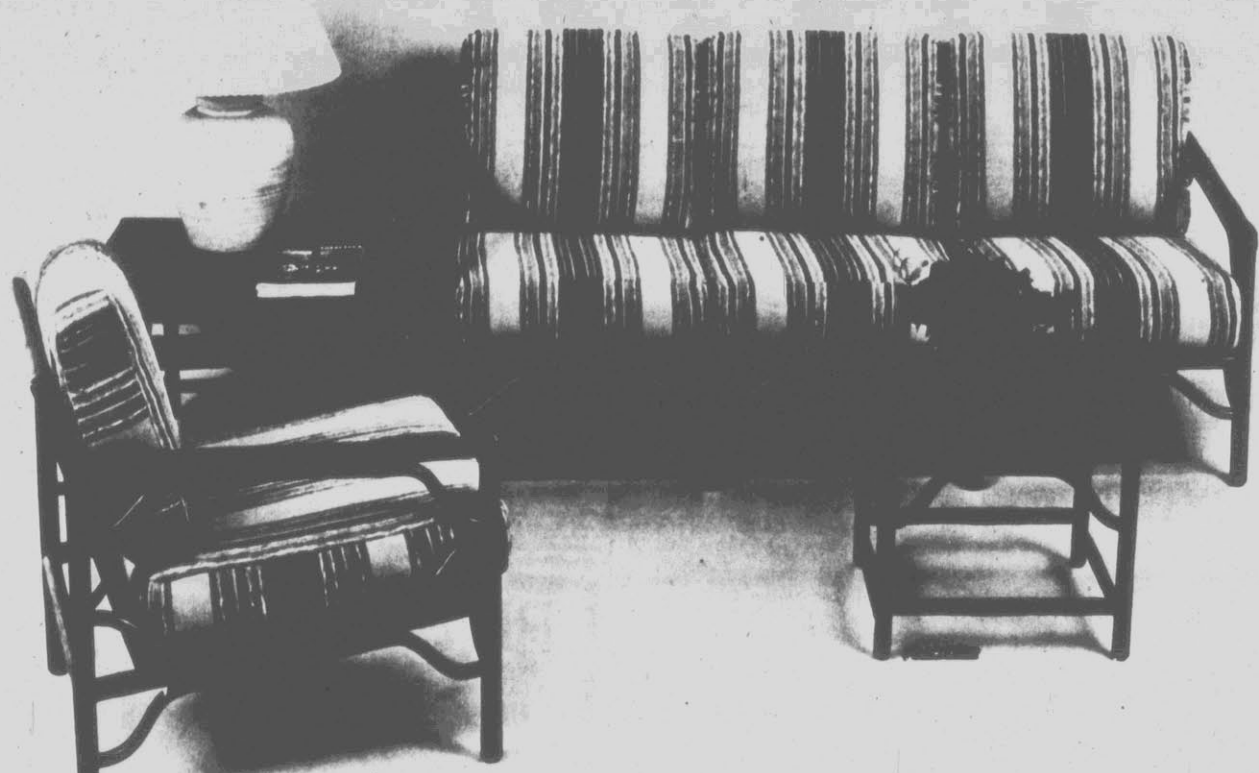

A female soldier drowned after falling into a drainage ditch Tuesday.
